HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

The Girls Scout Cookie Sale begins Friday. Here is a chance for you to stock up the cookie larder with good cookies for those parties, and for hungry kids after school.

It also is a good chance to give a helping hand toward providing better camping facilities for an ever-growing Girl Scout population. Some of the money remains with the Winters Girl Scout Troop, and the rest is used to build and maintain camp facilities at Lake Brownwood.

We've had occasion to visit the camp a couple of times, and watch these girls as they enjoyed a weekend of camping and training, so we feel that the results are well worth the small price of the cookies.

At present the Girl Scout Camp at Lake Brownwood consists of a big main building, with room for the girls to sleep; kitchen facilities; and other project and craft buildings. There are plans for a big expansion of facilities, and the only way it can be done is for the people who realize the value of Girl Scouting to get behind the project and see it to completion. One way is for us to buy one, two, three or more boxes of cookies.

Those of you who do your fishing at the new Winters Lake might be interested in an ordinance passed by the City Council a few days ago, and which is being published in the Enterprise this week.

The ordinance prohibits fishing in any manner within 100 feet of the intake tower at the dam on the south side of the lake.

In the past this has been an ideal place to fish. The walkway is a good spot to sit and doze in the sun, and hang a line over the edge, and let the fish start biting. And there have been reports of some good catches out there, too.

But no more! The City Council says it might cost someone as much as $100 to catch a string of fish within 100 feet of the tower; or just to wet a line there. That would be expensive fishing.

More about fishing: Friends of J. T. Forbus, formerly of Winters, might be interested to know that he now is operating the Arrowhead Lodge at Lake Whitney, and has remodeled the cabins and has plenty of boats, etc., for the fisherman.

More news for the outdoorsman: It has been announced that Aaron Wells of Winters has been appointed Deputy Game Warden for this area by the Texas Game & Fish Commission.

It took a congressional investigation at much expense and many days to tell the American people what many of us have known for a long time: There's a racket in juke boxes.

Some of these days, when we get the time, we're going to make a count of the new signs, manufactured by one of Winters' newest enterprises, which have brightened the business section of downtown Winters.

Lucy Lee makes a tremendous hit with the boys and the plots the girls try in order to win back their boy friends make up three acts of enjoyable entertainment.

Motorists Warned April 15 Deadline For '59 Inspection

Captain R. M. Hammett of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Service, Texas Department of Public Safety, advised motorists this week that only 28 percent of the 469,911 vehicles registered in the 49 county Midland Region have been inspected and approved for the 1959 inspeciion period. Deadline for securing the new inspection stickers is April 15, 1959.

As in previous years, it appears many drivers will be in for a long wait to get their vehicles checked. At the present time, most inspection stations are busy, but not rushed.

Of the 8721 vehicles registered in Runnels County, only 1508 have been inspected, and issued an approval sticker for the 1959 inspection period by the 14 inspection stations in the county.

Captain Hammett reminded motorists that the law prohibits inspections during inclement weather, thereby reducing the time for inspections. There will be no extension of time to have a vehicle inspected.

Passenger cars are inspected for headlights, taillamps, stop lamps, reflectors, horn, and windshield wipers. Commercial vehicles are inspected for the above plus other requirements as provided by law.

Anyone operating a motor vehicle after April 15, 1959 without displaying a 1959 inspection sticker will be operating in violation of the law and subject to a fine not to exceed $200.00.

The purchase included 14 units, store, residence, 13 boats, 7 motors, and docks. The new owners have enlarged the store, remodeled the cabins and landscaped the grounds.

Mrs. Forbus and Mrs. McDonald are sisters and will assist their husbands in the operation of Arrowhead.

Roger Babson Discusses:

Missles and the Future Of Our Public Utilities

Babson Park, Mass.—The newspapers carry much news regarding missiles and rockets. This news is of interest to the many industrial plants which make parts for such missiles. A list of the leading companies in this field whose stocks are listed on the New York Stock Exchange will be sent free of charge to any reader on request. However, notwithstanding the Washington releases on missile contracts, the corporations which have the government contracts derive very little profit from such business. I am not now recommending investment in any of these.

Of course, we should all be interested in missile experiments and space studies. It is too bad the Russians got a head start on us. It is utterly foolish, however, to state that "it will take two to three years" for us to catch up with Russia. Such reports are being put out by manufacturers as propaganda to get greater appropriations. President Eisenhower knows this and will not be fooled by them.

Importance of Anti-Missile Missiles

It is well for us to have "surface-to-surface," "underwater - to surface," and "air-to-surface" missiles which can hit a given target 500 to 2500 miles away. These are as important as guns, cannons, submarines, and airplanes; but they are for offensive warfare. It seems generally understood that the United States is in no mood now to start a World War. This also probably applies to Great Britain and France. Whether or not Germany will wait for Russia to strike first is another question.

The above means that the important weapon, from a defense standpoint, is an anti-missile missile. This is a missile which can be fired to head off and destroy any approaching missile being fired at our cities by an enemy. Even though we would not start a war with Russia, we would immediately to go to the help of any free nation— including Germany—which Russia might attack. We then would be subject to bombing. Hence, a defense against such missiles is an absolute necessity. But today we hear or read very little about such protection as anti-missile missiles.

Propaganda Is Usually False

This is especially true of the attempt to scare the American people into spending more money by saying it will take us 3 to 4 years to catch up with the Russian scientists. But let me comment on this 3 to 4 year propaganda. All research men know that TIME is an impossible factor to judge with regard to discovering the solution to any scientific problem. It may have taken the Russians four years to get their present efficiency with missiles; but the physicists and engineers of some other nation may make a discovery in 30 days which will put them ahead of Russia. Most great inventions have come from a sudden idea.

Furthermore, Russia may not now be ahead of us in anti-missile missiles. No nation yet has the protection desired from such missile attacks. Yet this is the important discovery which the world is awaiting. Some Washington friends may tell you, "We have such an anti-missile missile; but the data are "classified or secret." Don't believe them. The experiments by most nations with anti-missile missiles are known throughout the world. They cannot be kept secret, except possibly by Russia in Siberia. I wish to drive home to readers of this column that no country, including Russia and others, will start World War III until it has discovered a means of preventing destruction by enemy missiles. Our Defense Department should give priority to such work rather than to shooting around the moon.

Electricity From the Air

Notwithstanding the above, I am greatly interested in learning more about space. My studies with gravitation make me believe that if two wires are carried up through space a certain distance, we could so utilize the atomic heat from the sun as to produce or collect electricity directly without the need of generators on the earth. I am certain the time is coming when our great public utility stations, instead of burning oil or coal, will have great "wires like lightning rods" extending up into the air. This is what Benjamin Franklin visualized over 200 years ago in 1752. The space experiments now in process will surely find the answer. Neither Russia nor Germany is talking about them; but some nation—possibly France—will find the answer.

Sir Isaac Newton (whose library we have at Babson Institute, Babson Park, Mass.) learned that gravity could bend a line or keep it upright. Space experiments are finding out what gravity will do after a missile pierces the gravity barrier. It then is pulled to the moon or sun automatically without power. Dr. Albert Einstein had all this in mind when he insisted that electricity, gravity, magnetism (and in his last days he added Love) all come from some outside force and are interrelated. I wish Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Edison, and Dr Einstein were here today to talk this over. Surely this would result in an "atoms for peace" program, which was Dr. Einstein's daily prayer. This was based upon the sun as the universal source of energy.

HARVEST OF COURAGE—Farmer Harry Ferguson, above, of Springfield, Vt., is as tough as the granite for which his state is famous. He lost his legs in a silage cutting machine last fall, but is already up and around on artificial limbs. He hopes to be able to plow his fields come spring.

7-Step Cotton Program Aids Texas Cotton Industry

Texas cotton producers saved an estimated $50,100,000 in labor costs by harvesting approximately 2,000,000 bales by mechanic a l means during 1958. Too, reports Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, they saved another $14 million plus through the use of machines and chemicals for controlling grass and weeds in their cotton fields.

While these savings were being made, Elliott adds, they also set an all-time high of 387 pounds of lint an acre. The specialist credits the 7-Step Cotton Program, initiated 13-years ago by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, as a major factor in the progress made by the producers of the State's most important crop.

The program, says Elliott, brought together on the county and state basis committees representing every segment of the cotton industry and all have worked to improve their industry. Since 1946 the average lint yield per harvested acre has been increased from 134 pounds to the 1958 record yield of 387 pounds.

Last year, county agents in 204 Texas counties assisted producers with various phases of the 7-step program. Elliott says that special emphasis was placed on the use of cotton burs for soil improvement and also to reduce gin fire hazards. Burrs were spread, he says on 9,735 farms in 129 counties. A few years ago most of the burs were burned as waste.

Cotton followed phosphated legumes on 20,326 farms in 151 counties; barnyard manure was used on 7,685 farms in 151 counties to increase yields and defoliants or desicants were used on 37,885 farms in 162 counties as an aid to mechanical harvesting.

In posting the $64 million plus savings in labor, cotton producers used 26,662 stripper harvesters and 1,831 spindle pickers in 133 and 78 counties respectively. The weed and grass control savings were made through the use of 44,496 rotary hoe equipped tractors in a hundred fifty-seven counties and the use of spot treatment for Johnsongrass control in 148 counties. Lateral oiling with post emergence chemicals for weed control was used in 47 counties.

I am especially fond of women who make a real effort to be pleasant.

Amusements Coming to Local Theatres

AT THE STATE THEATRE

"Ride Our For Revenge"

A rip-roaring adventure of the west, "Ride Out For Revenge," starring Rory Calhoun, Gloria Grahame, Lloyd Bridges and Joanne Gilbert, is slated to open Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre through United Artists release. The picture tells through action and drama, the hate between white man and red man on the Great Plains in the 1880's, and how some people did their best to erase that hatred. The story is set in the Dakotas some ninety years ago when the Army attempted to move all the Cheyennes from their ancestral hunting grounds in Oklahoma. Some resisted with a violence that exploded throughout the tinderbox west.

"A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed"

If the thought of dropping by your local bank and picking up a few thousand dollars that need not be returned comes to mind around the first of each month, then be sure and see Twentieth Century-Fox's "A Nice Little Bank That Should Be Robbed," at the State Theatre. It may save you twenty years.

The Anthony Muto production, in CinemaScope, catalogues the hilariously inept, but shockingly successful—for a time—bank robberies by a zany trio of amateur crooks, played by Tom Ewell, Mickey Rooney and Mickey Shaughnessy.

The picture, based on the actual robberies of amateurs who are now serving time in a state prison, might also be titled, "A Nice Little Bank That Should Not Be Robbed," for the comedy threesome make the most awkward thieves ever to cause a professional safecracker to blush.

In the specific instance from which the Henry Levin directed comedy was taken, three amateurs easy-going, likeable guys who had a weakness for horses whose noses never seemed to cross the finish line in front, were the masterminds and executers of two holdups which netted them over a quarter of a million dollars.

In the picture, which also stars Dina Merrill, all the names are changed to protect the guilty.

"Mardi Gras"

Twentieth Century-Fox and Producer Jerry Wald have blended the talents of some of the brightest young people in show business into a gay, tuneful motion picture, "Mardi Gras," opening Sunday and Monday at the State Theatre.

Pat Boone, Christine Carere, Tommy Sands, Sheree North, Gary Crosby, Fred Clark and Richard Sargent are the principals in this mirthful adventure of four cadets from the Virginia Military Institute who come to New Orleans at the height of the annual Mardi Gras festival and encounter a provocative and diversified group of characters. The latter include a French screen star, a girl publicist, who is the star's best friend and confidante, a wily publicity man, a pretty girl from Ohio, and a shapely philosophy student who is a part-time strip tease artist in a New Orleans nitery.

Pat Boone, starring in his third film for Twentieth Century-Fox, played the key role of the V. M. I. cadet who wins a student lottery which provides him with the funds to go to New Orleans and invite the movie star queen of the Mardi Gras to his school's graduation ball. Christine Carere, the very promising young star who recently made her debut in "A Certain Smile," plays the movie star and Pat's three school chums are portrayed by Tommy Sands, Gary Crosby, making his screen bow in a high-comedy role, and Richard Sargent. When the four meet Sheree North, the publicity girl who can dance up a storm, and Fred Clark, the publicity boss who can talk up a storm, they find themselves thrown into some stormy and hilarious situations.

"Mardi Gras is played against two vivid and colorful backgrounds: the gay, carnival atmosphere of the annual New Orleans celebration, and the impressive campus of the Virginia Military Institute at Lexington, Virginia. Filmed in CinemaScope and De Luxe Color, it should provide audiences with a delightful evening of film entertainment.

A native of Chicago, he flew 20 combat missions in the pacific as aerial gunner on a B-24 Liberator after entering the service in 1943. He showed colored slides and discussed the "Strategic Air Command Mission."

A musical program was presented by the "Moonlight Maidens," Gloria Briley, Dianne Buckner, Serena Minzenmayer, Sammie Lou Jones, Judy Ledbetter and Miss Mote. "The Comet Cut-Ups," a boys' trio composed of James Williams, Worth Howe and Buddy Mathes, also sang. Miss Mote sang, "It Took a Miracle," for the benediction.

Rev. B. T. Shoemake gave the invocation and Worth Howe served as master of ceremonies. Barbara Smith registered guests and Mrs. Ed Blair played piano selections.

As guests entered fellowship hall via the "Milky Way," they were touched with a fairy wand by Brenda Griffin, little daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John Griffin. Allen Benson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Benson, was photographer.

Decorations for the event were of outer space, using the sun, moon and planets. The head table represented the sun and other tables radiated from it as a spectrum. Each table was laid in a different color and centered with colored lights and angel hair.

Approximately 100 attended.

UNCLE SAM ROCKETS AHEAD IN SPACE AGE — Coming up: from Cape Canaveral, Uncle Sam's pioneer rocket and missile base, another attempt to orbit the moon, and continued tests of intercontinental-type ballistic missiles on the long, overwater range. From Vandenberg Air Force Base, new, West Coast missile-space facility: launchings of test vehicles for "Project Discoverer." It will pave the way for recently announced "Project Mercury," the program to put a man-carrying satellite in orbit around the earth. Target date is two or more years away. Newsmap, above, shows general directions toward which satellite launchings take place from both bases. Vandenberg launchings of satellite vehicles would be over polar regions. Satellites would pass over portions of the earth not covered by Cape Canaveral launchings, which encompass a broad band north and south of the earth's equator.

EYES and VISION

By A. L. SPERRY, O. D.

PERSONAL BENEFIT MAY BE YOURS

Recently several nationally circulated magazines have come out with articles about the new "Continuous Vision" or "Trifocal Lenses."

Actually these lenses are not too new but up until the last ten years or so not much interest was taken in them by the general public. The feeling was, and in many cases still is, that "bifocals are bad enough; don't see how anybody can get used to 3 way glasses."

The picture has gradually changed however, and now a great many people have found that trifocals are usually not as hard to get used to as the first pair of bifocals. Also, that many common every day tasks are simplified by having an extra focus which clears up that "arms length blur" area that is too close for the distance portion and too far for the reading portion of bifocal lenses . . . and this is where the trifocal shines—the 2 to 6 feet range.

Such ordinary things as seeing your speedometer and gas gauge or tuning the car radio while driving, reading prices and labels from store shelves and racks, seeing at the far edge of your desk, playing cards reading music, seeing down into the motor of the family car to check that rattle or knock, checking the recipe while mixing the cake, etc., all done at arms length distances are made much easier by trifocals. This is not to mention the many, many specific and necessary tasks performed in industry and business for which trifocals are essential.

People wearing their first or second pair of bifocals will usually not notice this arms length blur unless they use their eyes hard on much near work. Ordinarily the eyes of the early bifocal wearer still have some natural focusing power left and are able to focus for continuously clear vision from reading distance to far distance with the help of bifocals alone.

To be short of funds may amuse some young people, but not me, especially in strange place or foreign countries.

Veterans May Make Extra Payments On Homes At Any Time

Veterans with GI homes can make extra payments to their mortgage holders at any time, or they can pay off the entire GI loan without a penalty charge.

Dr. George T. McMahan, Manager of the Veterans Administration Center in Waco, said the minimum extra payment a veteran may make on his GI home loan is at least the amount of one month's payment, or a flat $100 whichever is less.

He added that should the veteran later become hard-pressed for money, the extra pincipal already paid may—if the lender agrees—be re-applied to regular payments in order to prevent the loan from going into default.

State Capitol Highlights:

Legislative Committees Beseiged On All Sides By Agencies and Individuals

By VERN SANFORD
texas Press Association

The season of the "hard luck story" is in full swing.

Legislative committees having to do with taxing and spending are in almost constant sessions. On the one hand they hear from the state agencies that want more money—of their dire needs, of the gloomy future that awaits the state if their programs are under-financed.

Equally mournful are the stories of those who would be the targets of new taxes. It would be like putting up a "Keep Out of Texas" sign for new businesses and accompanying prosperity, say many business and civic leaders of the sharp new tax bites. Texas communities trying to build up their areas by bringing in money-making enterprises would have the rug pulled out from under them, say the tax critics.

In this arena of clashing viewpoints, the legislators must serve as both judge and jury. Few lawmakers expect to collect any nosegays for their efforts—no matter how sincere or well-considered. Some expect they may have to displease both groups — by cutting spending requests and raising taxes—all in one woeful session.

BANE TO BUSINESS

As expected, businesses, large and small, take a dim view of Gov. Price Daniel's proposal to increase corporation franchise taxes.

Industry spokesmen told of probable increases of from 50 to 250 percent in the amount they would have to pay. They complained, too, that they'd have to pay a tax whether they were making money or not, since the tax would be on capital, rather than income.

Rep. J. E. Winfree of Houston, sponsor of the bill, told the business representatives, in effect, "It's this or something else."

UT PLEADS CASE

University of Texas "will sink back into mediocrity," declared exes and officials, unless the school gets a better appropriation deal than that proposed by the Legislative Budget Board.

University officials asked for a two-year appropriation of about $34,006,067. Budget Board recommended $27,920,624.

Dr. Logan Wilson told the House Appropriations Committee that people seemed willing to pay broad-based taxes for highways. Why not for higher education?

Herman Jones, Austin attorney and spokesman for alumni, emphasized the importance of improved education to this country's position in international affairs. "I don't want it put in the history books that this generation kept the budget low and let the nation die," said Jones.

UT officials also said they would be opposed to establishing a third medical branch—at San Antonio, Austin or elsewhere — until they have gotten enough money to make "first class" the existing Dallas and Galveston branches.

PRISON PROBLEMS

Even more impassioned are the pleas of those concerned with appropriations for the Department of Corrections.

Texas Prison system is operated at about half the national average cost per inmate, says Supt. O. B. Ellis. For some years Board members have been warning of dangerously overcrowded conditions, and the need for more buildings.

A slash in funds and personnel, as proposed by the Legislative Budget Board, would bring sheer ruination to the bulging prisons, in Ellis' view.

Prison System has an even more immediate pinch in that it hasn't money to finish out this fiscal year. It had a crop failure last year, when floods wiped out cotton on the prison farms.

Since the Prison System is heavily dependent on its own production, it, like any hard-hit farmer, needs some "cash money"—about $500,000—to tide it over for this year.

SOMETHING'S GOTTA GO

We can't continue our present services and take a budget cut too, Texas A & M Extension Service officials told legislators.

Budget Board recommended a slightly lower Extension Service appropriation for 1960 than it had for 1959. Service had asked for sizeable increase to help offset extensive loss of county agents to better-salaried jobs in industry.

Spokesmen for the Farm Bureau and numerous other rural groups appeared before the House Appropriations Committee to plead the importance of Extension Service work.

DEADLINE EXTENDED

Senate General Investigating Committee, a creation of the last session, has until March 2 to complete its voluminous report.

After nearly 20 months of activity, the Committee had had 27 hearings, piled up 7,500 pages of testimony. All hearings were public, and some brought unsettling repercussions in the fields of insurance regulation and tax collecting.

Sen. Charles Herring of Austin, chairman, is recommending such work be continued by a Joint House Senate Committee. There must be some sort of "watch dog", Herring believes, for the state's billion-dollar-a-year business.

SLOW DOWN!

Under the bill, the first speeding conviction would bring a 30-day license suspension; the second, a 60-day suspension; the third, six months; and all thereafter, one year. A record of each conviction would be carried on the driver's license.

ANTI-HAIR-SPLITTING

"Harmless errors" would no longer be grounds for reversal of a criminal court conviction under a measure being sponsored by Rep. Tom James of Dallas.

Only "substantive errors" would require the throwing out of a trial court decision.

There has been some criticism in recent years of Court of Criminal Appeals decisions which nullified convictions because of such things as misspellings and typographical errors. James' bill was recommended by the Texas Law Enforcement Commission.

Girl Scout News

Members of Brownie Troop 1 made Valentines when they met at the Scout Hut Friday afternoon for their weekly meeting.

Games were conducted by Mrs. Walker Tatum and nibbles were served by Glenda Cooper and Sandra Crockett. A Valentine and candy cup was sent to Cynthia Pinkerton, a member of the troop who was in the hospital.

Brownies present were Jean Mostad, Kathy Weeks, Kay Lynn Rives, Babs Tatum, Sandra Reed, Glenna Cooper, Sandra Crockett, Mary Lou Wilkerson, Eileen Faubion and Carolyn Blake. Others attending were Mrs. J. C. Wilkerson, Jim and Joe, Mrs. N. L. Faubion and Rodney and the leader, Mrs. Walker Tatum.

FROM WICHITA FALLS

Miss Marie Hill, a member of the faculty of the Wichita Falls school system, spent the past week end in the home of her mother, Mrs. George C. Hill and with other relatives.

IN HAYS HOME

Mrs. Theo Kirkpatrick of Santa Anna and Mrs. Charles Matthews, Carol and Michele of Plainview, were visitors Sunday in the Wes Hays home.

Dave Hawk's claim to fame is as a fisherman . . . not as an author. But his broad experience and intensive study of the whys and wherefor of successful fishing have prompted the man to write a book on bass fishing.

He calls it "80 Years on Bass."

Although Dave lack a lot of being 80 years of age, he can and does call on the vast amount of his dad's and his dad's mother's experience, as well as his own wide background of fishing, to provide a "here's how" book that is certain to become a best seller among those who wet a line and set a hook in the bassfilled waters of Texas.

Although Dave was born in New York, he's mostly a Southerner. When Dave was but two years of age his parents moved to Florida. There his father served as a fishing guide for 12 years. During the last six of those years he was associated with the Shakespeare Co. and gave exhibition casting and tackle demonstrations.

With this environment it was but natural that Dave learned to fish early in life. Fact of the matter is, Dave guided many a fisherman out of the Florida Everglades when he was only 11 years of age.

Later, Dave helped his father, Capt. O. L. Hawk, open and operate lure factories in California, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas, providing bait for those specific areas. These factories were sold to national manufacturers, who incorporated Hawk lures into their own lines.

One November day in 1956, a representative of a large Texas lure manufacturing company stopped in for a visit at the Hawk Lure factory in Harrison, Ark. In short order he purchased the firm's entire line . . . . lock, stock and barrel. That put Dave out of a job. But it also brought him to Texas as manager of the Corpus Christi firm, the Padre Island Lure Company. Six months later he was elected president.

Dave remained there until September of 1958. In November he started his own firm in Austin. Today, when he isn't fishing, he's making Extractor and other brands of Dave Hawk lures.

I say champ fisherman because Dave's the gent who, in 1958, won the State Bass Tournament, won the Behren's Drug Tackle Tourney for tack representatives, shared the overall championship of the Port Aransas Salt Water Tournament, set a tentative world record for ling on light tackle at the Port Isabel Tournament, and was runner-up in the National Professional Fishermen's Tournament in Arkansas.

This, all in one year's time, mind you.

Only a fisherman with Dave Hawk's background and proven ability could get away with some of the comments he makes in his book—without a challenge for he is very frank and doesn't hesitate to express an opinion.

For instance, his first recommendation is to discard all swivels. But he doesn't just tell you to do it—he explains why you should.

He backs his contention with these statements: They increase lure losses and fish losses. They reflect light, unbalance a lure, catch in the line and tempt one to change lures too often.

He prefers leaders 15 to 20 feet long. This, because the long leader will put the line and leader knot so far ahead of the lure that the fish's attention will not be drawn until the lure comes into his view. "Many a hit—and miss—can be attributed to the fish striking the line-and-leader knot instead of the lure," he warns.

"Added advantage of the long leader," says the author "is that the line-and leader knot will be around the spool several turns during the last few minutes of landing a fish and thus prevent a separation.

Dave urges as much reverence for a line as for a lure. He points out that a good fishing line costs slightly more than a lure, yet the fisherman expects it to last forever. He not only recommends frequent change of line, but suggests reversing the line every 10 trips. This, to keep the most flexible part of the line next to the lure. "As lines stretch and tighten — change ends—" he admonishes.

"Any rod longer than five-feet, seven-inches, is a buggy whip, not a rod," says this champ fisherman. "So, select a rod that will set the hook in the fish—for you—when the fish hits the lure. Remember that the tip of the rod jerks the line and this in turn plants the hook."

How the long rods and heavy rods work against the fisherman were explained by the author. He points out that every time you attempt to set the hook the tip of your rod first travels toward the bass. So, if you are using a long and solid rod, the fish has more opportunity to free itself.

The Hawk method of finding fish is pretty well outlined in one chapter of the book. Another chapter tells how to tempt them after you locate them.

Here are some more of his suggestions:

Stay with dark colored, underwater lures if there is a wind blowing, or the season of the year rules out flying insects.

Work the light colored topwater lure if there are insects out and the wind is not blowing more than a two-inch ripple.

In the early morning and the late evening (during insect seasons), use a dark top-water lure, as these are the times of day when frogs move from the bank to the water and back.

Top-water fishing always is the most productive during the first few minutes of daybreak—because bass are on the prowl to feast on the victims of nature's little accidents that have occurred during the night. Also the light is not the best for underwater lures at that time of day.

Fishing near plant life, lily pads, duckweed or grass is productive —because not only does the plant life offer cover for the fish, but it also gives off oxygen that the fish must have. Hence the fish are in such areas.

Never make your first cast your best cast, is the author's recommendation. Make it short, but to a definite spot. Then cast a little farther out. Then farther and farther. Reason: If you make your longest cast first and you get a strike, you will have to drag the bass through all the water in between. That puts every bass in that area on guard.

One thought that Dave keeps in mind continually is to think like fish, not like fishermen. Be in a positive, optimistic frame of mind at all times, he urges.

These are just a few of the multitude of tips among Dave's vast collection. But they reflect the views of a champion fisherman —and who are we to question a champ?

Insufficient funds have brought many a pleasant occasion to an abrupt conclusion.

Rev. Shoemake Spoke At Valentine Banquet Friday

Rev. B. T. Shoemake, pastor, was the principal speaker at the "Red, Red Rose" Valentine banquet for Intermediates held in fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church on Friday.

In choosing your "Rose of Sharon," Rev. Shoemake advised the youth, "First find God's leadership through prayer and then blend your desires and ambitions to His will and you cannot make a mistake."

Judy Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Smith, and Mike Bedford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Bedford, were chosen King and Queen of Hearts. They were presented gifts by Wilma C. Davis, associate superintendent of the department, who served as master of ceremonies.

Bobbie Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Howard, and Rickey Boles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Boles, were recognized as prince and princess. They also received gifts.

Ed Blair, music director, sang "If I Loved You," and for the benediction, "Rose of Sharon." He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Blair. He also led the group in singing choruses of love songs.

Earl Little, Sunday School superintendent, gave the invocation. Mrs. George Poe, Intermediate superintendent, welcomed the guests.

The dinner tables were centered with arrangements of red roses flanked with cupids holding bows and arrows. Programs were lacy red hearts centered with white cupids. Large red hearts and cupids were placed at vantage points around the room.

Approximately 80 attended the event, the first formal banquet held in the new church building since its completion in December.

Secretaries know a lot, but the boss knows more.

EYES and VISION

By A. L. SPERRY, O. D.

LIVES, JOBS, HAPPINESS DEPEND ON VISION

In past columns we have had much to say about the dangers of hunting with high powered fire arms and low powered vision. What we said about these dangers applies many times over to the perpetually open season on motorists and pedestrians with our automobiles as weapons.

Traffic fatalities have stood at the head of the hit parade of accidental deaths for so long that we seem to have become resigned to the idea that there is nothing to be done about it.

To be approved for a driver's license an applicant is required to pass a vision test at the time of application. No future tests of any sort are required if the license is renewed before each subsequent expiration date. This is Texas law. The laws of the 47 other states requiring vision tests vary slightly. Only one state, South Dakota, requires no examination at all for licensing. You can see that at the time of application and first issue of license the vision of the huge proportion of drivers is adequate. But only 10 states require any visual retesting afterward (Texas doesn't) and this lack of periodic testing is where the danger lies — good vision doesn't usually last forever.

The "limited war" in Korea cost the U. S. a total of 33,629 killed in battle. In 1955 alone there were 38,000 deaths in the U. S. due to auto accidents, plus an economic loss for that year of over 3 billion dollars. Conservative estimates by authorities state that 85 percent of these accidents were preventable.

Now what could have prevented them? Close your eyes and think back to the scene of every accident, large or small, at which you have been either bystander or participant. What reason did you hear voiced most often as causing the accident? One will get you ten that the first words uttered by the party to blame were "I didn't see . . . "

"I didn't see the other car."

"I didn't see the stop sign."

Is there an excuse for enduring faulty vision when lives, jobs, happiness all depend so heavily on alert efficient vision?

Remember—it doesn't ALWAYS happen to the other fellow.

Upon first meeting some persons you feel as though they were old friends. Others take a long time to understand. Still others always remain strangers, no matter how long you know them or how much you like them.

"Those who know how to do a thing," says a Chinese proverb, "do not find it difficult; those who find a thing difficult, do not know how to do it."

Fearing it would be a forest fire, he rode four miles down the highway to investigate. He discovered a home in ruins. It was the humble home of a one-armed oar maker. He was standing in the road with his wife and little children watching the smoldering pile. His first words to Mr. Rutledge were "She's gone, but I will start to rebuild tomorrow." He had lost every material thing he owned—even his tools. But he had not lost heart. His faith would carry him through.

By Billy Lynn Little

Bill Miller, playing his last game for the Blue, was high with 11 points. Jerry Nettick had 19 for Cisco.

Cisco took the B game over the Winters Junior High squad, 43-25. Jerry Dunn hit 9 for Winters, and Duane Hale had 13 for Cisco.

This game concluded the season for the Blizzards. The final record showed 10 wins against 14 losses, with a district record of 4-6. The Blizzards wound up in a tie for fourth place.

The year yields both heartaches and pleasant memories, memories of the Winters tournament, where in the semi-final game, the official clock had 39-40 in favor of Mason, and the official book read 40-40—a timekeeper's mistake discovered too late. The Blue went on to take third place, as Mason won the tourney. Only on this, and one other occasion, did the Blizzards lose one of their two point decisions. In an overtime, the Blizzards lost to Eastland 51-49, as Martin Green sank two free throws with 2 seconds remaining.

In the Winters tourney, Clyde staged a comeback, only to find the Blizzards leading 49-47 at the buzzer. In the third place playoff in the tourney, jump-shot artist Rickey Grissom dropped a field goal with 30 seconds remaining, to defeat the Brady Bulldogs 63-62.

Several weeks later, in the initial game of the Stamford tourney, it was Grissom again, firing home the winning bucket as the buzzer sounded, defeating Weinert 62-60. Two days later ,in the third place play-off at Stamford, Miller sank two free throws to put the Blue ahead of Avoca 67-66 with 15 seconds remaining, and Jim Largent added another free throw making the final score 68-66.

For the first time in a number of years, the Blizzards defeated Coleman 59-58, as Charles Currey hit a field goal and Buddy Mathes dropped a free toss with less than a minute remaining, giving Winters the win. The last close game came as the Blizzards defeated arch rival Ballinger 46-44. After a rally led by Largent and Grissom, Currey drove in for the winning bucket with only 10 seconds remaining.

Coach Jerry English's Blizzards finished the season with a total of 1093 points in 24 games. Grissom had a season average of 19 points per game, and a district average of 21. Currey had a 12 point average in season play and in district action.

Daughter of Former Residents Critically Burned In Midland

Elizabeth Glascock, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Glascock of Midland, former residents of Winters, was critically burned Wednesday of last week when her clothing caught fire from a gas heater.

The tragedy occurred about 8 o'clock when the child was preparing to leave the family home for school. She received treatment at the hospital in Midland and was transferred Monday by plane to El Paso for treatment.

She was reported to have first, second and third degree burns on 60 percent of her body.

Elizabeth is a granddaughter of A. T. Jobe of Winters and her parernal grandfather is G. A. Glascock of Ballinger.

Man is inclined, when in the wrong, to lay the blame on someone else. He is like the small boy who was standing on the cat's tail. The mother, hearing the terrible outburst, called from an adjoining room, "Tommie, stop pulling that cat's tail!" Tommie yelled back, "I'm not pulling the cat's tail; I'm only standing on it. He's the one that's doing the pulling."

Mrs. Leroy Muller Undergoes Surgery Following Wreck

Mrs. Leroy Muller of Ballinger underwent surgery at the Shannon Hospital in San Angelo Monday, following injuries received in a car accident on U. S. Highway 83, about three miles south of Winters Saturday night. She was reported to be doing as well as could be expected.

Mrs. Muller, 34, the former Velma Rice, daughter of Mrs. V. P. Rice of Winters and the late Mr. Rice, received hip and vertebra injuries, lacerations and bruises when their Chevrolet station wagon collided with a 1951 Chevrolet driven by Charles Earl Delano, 38, postal employee of Route 2, Abilene. Mr. Muller, 34, had minor injuries.

Delano had a broken jaw, cuts and bruises on his head. After receiving emergency treatment at Winters Municipal Hospital, he was taken to Abilene and later transferred to the Veterans Hospital at Big Spring.

The accident occurred about 8:30 p. m. as Mr. and Mrs. Muller were returning to their home in Ballinger after visiting her mother, Mrs. V. P. Rice, in Winters. The Chevrolet station wagon, driven south by Mr. Muller, burst into flames after it collided with the Chevrolet driven by Delano, who was traveling north to Abilene. A fire truck from Winters extinguished the blaze, but both vehicles were a total loss.

Investigating the accident were Runnels County Sheriff Don Atkins, Deputy John Wilson and the State Highway Patrol.

Florida Asked To Match Texas Commercial Fee

A reciprocal commercial fishing license agreement with the State of Florida is sought in a letter sent out this week to Ernest Mitts, supervisor of the State Board of Conservation in Florida. H. D. Dodgen, executive secretary of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, points out that Texas now has a $6 commercial boat license and a $3 commercial fishing license. It is available to non-residents as well as residents of Texas.

"We would appreciate your assistance in adjusting the license fees to Texas boats so that we may be privileged to fish in Florida under the same license requirements that Florida boats are permitted to fish in Texas," Mr. Dodgen wrote.

Texas also has a $2.15 universal fishing license, good for both fresh and salt water fishing. It applies to non-residents as well as to residents.

Fence Jumpers Head List Of Game Charges

Trespassing continues to be the principal violation committed by hunters, according to the monthly arrest report of the director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission. During December, 1958, there were 129 hunters who "crawled over the fence" to hunt on private property.

Night hunters, however, came a close second, with 124 arrests. The night hunting arrests were heaviest because of deer hunters who insisted on getting their venison with the use of headlights.

Next in line of violations were hunters and fishermen who failed to get their licenses. There were 103 such violations, with 58 hunters involved.

Most of the other hunting violations involved deer. There were 23 persons fined for killing spike bucks; 15 for killing doe deer; 13 killing deer in closed season. Numerous other minor violations also were recorded.

The 715 persons arrested by game wardens during December paid fines totaling $20,925.78 and court costs $1,280 for a total of $22,205.78.

Among the cases made by the wardens, there were 15 dismissals and 15 who served jail sentences. In two cases fines were suspended. Three defendants were found not guilty.

About Your Social Security

"Persons receiving social security benefits can save themselves and us a great deal of inconvenience if they will report promptly when they go to work and expect to earn more than $1200.00 in the calendar year," stated Floyd B. Ellington manager of the social security district office at San Angelo, Texas.

"Most people know that if their earnings are in excess of $1200.00 for the year that they will not be entitled to a benefit check for every month of the year," Ellington continued. "However, many folks are confused as to what to do whe nthey don't know for sure on January 1st what their total earnings for the year will be. Sometimes they go on receiving their benefit checks all year without realizing that their earnings in the last part of the year may cause them to go over the $1200.00 limit. When this happens they may have to refund part of the benefits they received."

"It's much better to advise the social security office as soon as they think they might exceed the $1200.00 so that we may withhold some of their benefits until they see how much their earnings will be. If they don't earn the $1200.00 their checks for all the months withheld will be paid to them at the end of the year," Ellington said.

Potatoes and Peas On Plentiful Food List for February

Potatoes and canned peas take the spotlight among foods on the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plentiful Foods list for February.

Also expected to be plentiful in the Southwest are apples, celery, cabbage, pork, milk and dairy products, eggs, turkey, peanuts products, walnuts, honey and sardines.

Both of the featured items are repeats from January. Potato crop estimates by the end of December were higher than previously. The fall crop reached 180,897,000 cwt.—29 million more than average.

A big pack of canned peas, plus a large carryover, made a total supply of 45 million cases. Quality is the best in many years.

Apples and walnuts also are repeat items. Pork prices already have dropped considerably. And as more of the huge fall pig crop is marketed in February, March and April, homemakers will find it to their advantage to serve pork often.

Milk production is picking up, seasonally, and egg producers have a huge laying flock that should provide abundant eggs. Supplies of all sizes of turkey are expected to be plentiful, but particularly the smaller consumer sizes. California sardines are abundant after several years of short supply.

Large acreages of winter celery and cabbage indicate substantial supplies of these items. Honey stocks were replinished generously by last year's good crop.
