The most underworked people in the newspaper business these days are the sportswriters on big city papers assigned to cover major league baseball. Some of them have resorted to digging out stories of old games and about baseball personalities of the past in an effort to keep the game on the sports pages during the strike.

Not only the writers, but club owners and players also, are becoming somewhat apprehensive about the long range reaction of fans to the strike.

They fear that a lot of people who have attended professional baseball games regularly during the summer time may have discovered that there are other interesting things to do while the weather is warm. And those who attended games now and then may have even forgotten that such a thing as baseball exists.

But, getting back to the old stories about baseball personalities, Casey Stengel used to keep the writers supplied with interesting material. It is a shame the game doesn't have someone of his stature on the scene today. Stengel type stories could attract enough attention to keep the game well represented on the sports pages. And it would be nothing short of hilarious to hear Howard Cosell interviewing Stengel on television or radio.

We came across this Casey Stengel quotation the other day, and it should rank as a good example of what "Stengelese" is all about.

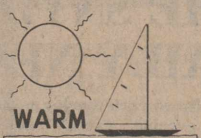

"Now why this Siebert (Siebern) wants to use glasses when he learns to hit .300 without them is something I don't know. He went to see a doctor and the doctor told him he was near-sighted, but I don't think it's near-sighted. I think he don't get the bat near enough to the ball..."

"Everybody is in good condition which we write and tell them they better be three weeks before they report even if it rains where they live..."

Can't you imagine how long it would take Howard to interpret that one for his audience!

Plan Could Guarantee Black Congressman...

Senate Republicans Win Approval

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senate Republicans — led by a Democrat — have won approval of a plan that could guarantee the election of a black congressman from Dallas while making political life hard for two incumbent Democratic congressmen.

A final Senate vote on the plan is set for Friday, but the result should be similar to the 20-11 approval on Wednesday

when the Senate met as a Committee of the Whole.

Most Democrats opposed the plan, saying it would sacrifice two white Dallas County congressmen with a feel for the views of blacks in favor of setting up a single minority district.

Sen. John Wilson, D-La Grange, steered his plan through a maze of traps set by Democratic opponents. A key vote to kill the Wilson plan failed 14-17. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, the titular head of the Texas Democrat Party, voted with all eight Republican senators in approving the Wilson plan.

Democrats claim the boundary lines drawn by Wilson would make it extremely difficult for U.S. Reps. Martin Frost and Jim Mattox, Dallas Democrats, to be re-elected.

However, Hobby said he voted with the Republicans because the Wilson plan "is the more able to withstand legal attack." Several senators have said a court battle is inevitable, no matter what plan is finally approved.

The Wilson plan faces a possible conference committee fight unless the House approves it. Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, predicted the House would not approve Wilson's proposal.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, tried to fend off the Wilson proposal.

"You're giving Republicans another box they don't deserve," Parker said.

One theory is that by packing minorities in a single district Republicans would have a better chance to win elections in three other districts.

"You're taking away an extra voice, an extra vote," said Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas. "You're giving away two votes (of congressmen) who are sensitive to the citizens of Dallas County, Texas, and getting one ... that's not good arithmetic."

Wilson said his decision to support a minority district for Dallas was caused by the effectiveness of two black legislators — including Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, who opposes the Wilson proposal.

"I wondered if the blacks in Houston would trade eight years of Craig Washington for two moderate-liberals who might vote with them, and I said, 'No,'" Wilson stated.

Wilson also said he was influenced by the effectiveness of former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan, who also served in the Texas Senate.

Wilson replied, "If they (minorities) want to choose two Clay Smothers (a black conservative), that's fine. If they want to Craig Washingtons, that's fine. If they want to choose two white moderate-liberals, that's fine, but they ought to have a choice."

Wilson said, "I can't believe the Democratic Party would take the stand that you are better represented as a minority with two white moderate-liberals" than a minority representative.

Gov. Bill Clements, who can veto any congressional redistricting plan the Legislature draws, wants a black district in Dallas. Parker wanted to know if Wilson was "carrying water for the governor."

"No, I'm not," replied Wilson.

He said his proposal "meets both the letter of the law and the spirit of the law and should stand the muster of the courts ... It's the only fair and right thing to do. It's honest and straightforward."

Republican Sens. Dee Travis, Garland, and Betty Andujar, Fort Worth, publicly thanked Wilson for his efforts, and other Republicans shook his hand after the vote.

Except for those comments, Republicans chose to remain silent while Wilson pushed the plan that could favor GOP election efforts.

Jack Wiseman Is On The Road

By LOIS GLEASON
At 37, Jack Wiseman looks like he'd be more at home on a trail ride, traveling through towns in a cloud of dust. But this is 1981.

The toughened cowboy cruised into town Wednesday — minus the dust — in a one ton dual wheel pickup with camper pulling three horses. He was to cruise right back out today after competing in the steer wrestling event in the Coliseum Wednesday night.

Snyder's Raleigh Lights Scurry County Rodeo was just a one night stand for Wiseman, who attends about 130 rodeos a year and said he places in three-fourths of them.

But Wednesday night was one of the one fourth. A steer hit his horse's leg during steer wrestling competition and the horse won't be running for a few days, although Wiseman believes the leg is just sore.

"When stuff like that happens they don't give you a re-run," Wiseman said this morning. "It's sure a long way from home for that to be happening."

Home for Wiseman is Hartshorne, Oklahoma — when he's there — where he has a wife, Leah, and three children. But since he's on the road 11 months out of each year, his family travels with him part of the time.

Leah is a barrel racer, and a 17 year-old son recently started bulldogging and placed in five out of seven rodeos in the last three months. The Wisemans also have a 16 year-old daughter and a 22 month-old son. They don't seem to mind the fast-paced life. "They're tougher than I am," smiled Wiseman. "I get tired quicker than they do."

His schedule this week calls for him to be in Stratford, Ok. tonight, in Ozark, Missouri tomorrow night, in Illinois Saturday and in Ohio Sunday. "You go to a

Viola Gracey Named July Artist-Of-Month

Viola (Peg) Gracey, Scurry County Artist-of-the-Month for July, has always wanted to paint.

She had always gone to art exhibits and yearned to paint, but it was not until she retired from teaching homemaking in Hermleigh and Snyder Schools about seven years ago that she found time to fulfill her artistic ambitions.

She remembers the first meeting of the Snyder Palette Club she attended, feeling a little foolish to be starting from scratch. Club member Rosalie McGlaun helped her make out a list of supplies she would need, and Jess Everett helped her with her first painting, and she launched a hobby she thoroughly enjoys.

Mrs. Gracey paints in oils, watercolors and pastel and enjoys them all, although she may be somewhat partial to pastels. One of her pastels,

Nuclear Guidelines Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, who once said development of nuclear weapons in other countries is none of the United States' business, now wants to keep them away from "volatile and developing nations," Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. says.

The administration was scheduled today to announce guidelines for a non-proliferation policy.

The guidelines were expected to reaffirm the long-standing U.S. goal of preventing the spread of nuclear weapons and, official sources said, voice strong support for the 1970 Nuclear Non-proliferation Treaty.

The guidelines also will pledge the United States to be a "more forthcoming partner to those who share responsible non-proliferation practices," Haig said Tuesday.

MX Alternatives Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon, its self-imposed deadline for making a recommendation already broken, is reportedly giving new consideration to once-rejected alternatives for deploying the proposed new MX missile.

The Washington Post, in its Thursday editions, quoted unidentified government officials and defense contractors as saying Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger will recommend placing 100 MX missiles aboard a new fleet of giant C-5A Air Force jet transports as an alternative to shuttling them among land shelters in Utah and Nevada.

Of the 30 alternatives once considered, others still being given credence include deploying only half the 200 land-based missiles and 4,600 silos recommended by the Carter administration, and developing an anti-ballistic missile system to protect the MX.

Red Cross To Visit Prison

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — An International Red Cross mission is due here today to inspect Maze Prison in a new bid to end the hunger strike that has claimed the lives of six jailed Irish nationalist guerrillas.

Britain's Northern Ireland secretary, Humphrey Atkins, said in a statement Wednesday night that the Red Cross team will visit the prison near Belfast "in exercise of its rights to take humanitarian initiatives" and investigate prison conditions.

British officials said the mission will be allowed to visit the eight hunger strikers if they so request.

Atkins said in a radio interview later that Britain will not give "a blanket guarantee" that London will implement any prison reforms proposed by the Red Cross, but said he will take note of them.

'Dead' Man Sees Man Sentenced

HOUSTON (AP) — A man declared "dead" in a hospital emergency room after being stabbed 17 times was alive enough to see his assailant receive a life sentence Wednesday.

Charles Tart was convicted of stabbing a restaurant co-worker, Eli Paul, after an argument. Tart, who was on parole from another life sentence, received the penalty automatically after being tried as a habitual criminal.

Paul, 61, said he heard a doctor pronounce him dead a few hours after the November stabbing.

"He covered me up with a sheet," Paul said. "I tried to talk but I couldn't, so I managed to raise my knees so they'd know I wasn't."

He said he spent a month in the hospital and still does not have complete use of his left arm.

Paul said he and Tart got into an argument after leaving a friend's house to buy some beer. Tart pulled out a butcher knife and stabbed him, Paul said.

Tart was tried once before in May, but that trial ended in a hung jury.

He has been a free man only 13 months out of the past 17 years, having served prison sentences for theft and burglary. Tart was paroled in October and arrested two months later for the assault on Paul.

Pentagon To Help Fight Drug Smugglers...

House Nears Final Action
On Defense Spending Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, having decided the Pentagon should help fight drug smugglers, is moving toward final action on a $136 billion defense authorization bill that would push military spending to its highest level ever.

Several amendments awaited debate today before representatives passed judgment on the overall measure, which provides the Pentagon with a $26.4 billion increase in spending authority in the fiscal 1982, starting Oct. 1.

In nearly eight hours of floor activity Wednesday, the House easily approved an amendment authorizing use of military personnel against drug smugglers but turned down proposals to tighten contracting procedures and ban purchase of foreign-made vehicles.

The House voted 362-49 to permit the secretary of defense to lend troops to civilian law-enforcement agencies to provide technical support and assist in arrests of drug smugglers and seizure of narcotics at sea.

Use of troops on U.S. soil was excluded after concerns were expressed that their presence along the Mexican border could cause diplomatic problems.

The Judiciary Committee wanted language similar to that approved by the Senate limiting military help to spotting and tracking suspicious boats and planes. However, the House went along with a motion by Rep. Clay Shaw, R-Fla., to give the armed forces an arrest role.

Shaw said in a statement that the vote was "a landmark victory" in the fight against drugs because "we now have the ability to send in the first team."

The House and Senate versions, however, do not require the defense secretary to make military personnel available. Defense officials have consistently opposed involving the military in civilian police functions. A 103-year-old law now bans such activities.

Later, the House capped nearly three hours of debate by defeating, 283-133, an attempt by the Government Operations

Committee to limit the Defense Department's ability to commit itself to multi-year contracts for major weapons purchases.

In writing the authorization bill, the Armed Services Committee gave the Pentagon a freer hand on such contracts. The rejected language would have restricted it to a handful of contracts approved in advance by Congress.

Because of a jurisdictional question, the House agreed to delete from the bill a provision to permit the Internal Revenue Service to provide home addresses to the Selective Service System for use in the draft registration program.

Failing 371-38 was an effort by Rep. Larry Hopkins, R-Ky., to prohibit the Pentagon from buying foreign-made light trucks, vans and other administrative vehicles during fiscal 1981.

Hopkins and his supporters cited the ailing U.S. auto industry but were met with arguments that the ban would cause problems within the NATO alliance and violate trade agreements.

In Sacramento, Calif., history is in the making. The state assembly has just sent to the Senate a "lemon" car bill that would give dissatisfied automobile buyers a new car or their money back.

Good grief, people! If this bill were passed, it could significantly lower the GNP (Gross National Product) and elect a car salesman king of the White House by 1984.

Everyone in the world has, at one time or another, bought a lemon. We had a car once that made you pucker when you kicked the tires. Engineering-wise, it was a monument to the committee who constructed a camel and thought they had solved the problem of tall men who needed more leg room. The sun visor blocked the rear-view mirror.

The carpet under the accelerator had no resistance to the touch.

The radio was wired for static.

The floor of the car burnt your feet.

The steering mechanism quivered at anything over 35 mph.

And you couldn't get to the back seat from the driver's side of the car.

I don't understand it. This country is the only one in the world where men tolerate a lemon of a car longer than they will endure a wife who has run out of gas.

Think about it. Would your husband pay $50 to have you towed anywhere?

If he couldn't keep you running without stalling at every traffic light, would he talk nice to you and let you idle?

If your warranty ran out would he stand you to a tune-up out of his own pocket?

When your mileage started to deteriorate, would he still stop at every station and fill you up?

If you heated up coming back from the ballpark, would he pull off the road and let you cool off?

Would he still take you out to dinner if you had a crack in your windshield?

If you had to be taken in for repairs, would he be satisfied with a loaner?

I don't know why I do that. I always push a parody too far.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

July 16, 1981

This coming year you will focus your efforts on bringing stability and balance into your life more than you have in the past. Some adjustments might be frustrating, but harmony will eventually prevail.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to bring up subjects today which you know from past experience your mate is strongly opposed to. Such discussions could spoil the day for both of you. Romance, travel, luck, resources, possible pitfalls and career for the coming months are all discussed in your Astro-Graph which begins with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Things which you've neglected to handle properly in the past could pop up and demand attention today. One could be urgent and unavoidable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Before taking on any new, long-range financial obligations today, carefully consider whether you'll have to forego some fun activities in order to meet the payments.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are not likely to perform too well under pressure today, so don't leave things until the last minute, or let others jockey you into such a position.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) There's a chance you could be a shade too sensitive today and overreact to things which others say. Listen carefully and try not to jump to conclusions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are under obligation to anyone, try to take care of it now, before they have to come to you. It will save much embarrassment and hard feelings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Being your own person is laudable, but today behaving too independently may turn off allies whose support you need. Show a willingness to cooperate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Use good judgment today before taking on new responsibilities. There's a chance you might saddle yourself with something beyond your capabilities.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be on guard today so that you won't be caught in petty political situations involving two strong-willed friends. No matter whose side you take, it could work out wrong.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Take nothing for granted today where major interests are concerned. Opposition could develop even in areas which are usually docile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Situations dealing with your work could be problematical today, regardless of whether you're the boss or an employee. Be extra tactful in either role.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although appearances may lead you to believe otherwise, your chances for getting something for nothing today are quite slim. Be realistic.

'Copter Rescue
Plan Criticized

HOUSTON (AP) — A plan to use helicopters to rescue victims of floods, refinery explosions and high-rise fires encourages people could "endanger rather than save lives," a Houston Fire Department official says.

A committee of officials trying to coordinate emergency use of the choppers made the proposal Tuesday, but Deputy Fire Chief David Fuller criticized the release of the rescue plan before his department had tested and approved it.

"Unnecessary evacuation by helicopter could endanger rather than save lives," he said. But Coast Guard Cmdr. Jay Crouthers said the idea should not be kept from the public. "I'm sure Nero was doing something important while Rome was burning, too," he said.

Crouthers said department representatives failed to attend the Aircraft Assistance in Disaster Committee meeting when the plan was unveiled.

Fuller said he would have attended the meeting

if he had known the plan would be discussed.

Crouthers said Houston, the nation's fifth largest city, has had a "few nice quiet years" without a major disaster but needs a helicopter rescue plan.

House Approves Clayton's Plan

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP) —
The House gave Speaker Bill Clayton what he wanted Wednesday and approved his proposal to dedicate half of future state treasury surpluses to water projects.
Representatives voted 113-19 to send the measure to the Senate, where Clayton predicts Lt. Gov.
Bill Hobby "will lend his support" despite Hobby's lack of enthusiasm.

"I think the lieutenant governor is for the concept but is just not keen on dedicated funds," Clayton told reporters.

In an afternoon marked
by the absence of debate,
the House also sent the Senate, 129-5, a constitutional amendment repealing the virtually non-existent state property tax.

Representatives passed to the Senate, 112-19, Clayton's bill nailing down details of how the water fund would operate.
The constitutional amendments setting up the water fund and repealing the 10 cents per $100 state property tax would take effect only if approved by the voters this November. Senators might attempt to change
the water fund election to November 1982.

Clayton, who became rich farming irrigated land northwest of Lubbock, assured the House
the intent of his proposal was not to finance pipelines and canals to export East Texas water to West Texas.

Population growth will require East Texas to hang on to all its water through 2030, he predicted.
Besides funneling half the surplus — which has exceeded $100 million each biennium since 1971 — into water, the Clayton proposal also would:

— Authorize the state to guarantee up to $500 million in water bonds issued by water districts, river authorities, cities and other political subdivisions.

— Raise from 6 percent to 12 percent the interest the state may pay on bonds, thus creating a market for $118 million in state water development bonds that have been authorized by the Legislature but never issued.

The implementing bill creates five funds to be administered by the Texas Water Development Board to help local governments build water projects, finance research and planning and buy storage space in reservoirs to assure they are built to the ideal size.

Contingent on passage of the constitutional amendment, the bill appropriates $40 million to get the water development assistance fund started.

The property tax repeal amendment is designed to head off the possible result of a suit filed by Midwestern University
regents.

In 1979, the Legislature effectively repealed the tax by assessing it against 0.0001 percent of property values. But the Midwestern suit alleges that since the tax is imposed by the Texas Constitution, legislators had no right to cancel it without a vote of the people.

Clayton and other top state officials think Midwestern would win the suit.

The tax is dedicated to construction at 17 colleges — including Midwestern — that do not benefit from the Permanent University

Fund, which belongs to the University of Texas and Texas A&M.

For most taxpayers, the state property tax never amounted to much because it was levied against county evaluations of property, which generally have been quite
low. But the new Property Tax code levies all taxes on full market value. The result could be a total tax liability of $428.9 million for 1981, according to the Legislature Budget Board,
if Midwestern wins its suit and the tax is not repealed
by the voters.

That is why Gov. Bill Clements put state property tax repeal on the special session's agenda.

A big surprise in Wednesday's House action was the absence of any concerted attempt to include in the property tax repeal measure a new source of guaranteed construction money for the non-PUF schools.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, offered one such amendment but Clayton ruled it out of order
because it included language bringing all UT and A&M campuses into the PUF. Only matters
submitted by the governor may be considered in a special legislative session, and Clements' call did not mention the PUF.

Mrs. Delco said it is not possible to consider guaranteed funding for the non-PUF schools without letting all UT campuses — including UT-Dallas, UT-
San Antonio and UT-Permian Basin — use the PUF to finance construction.

She said Clements might have to open his call to PUF issues "or else face Midwestern in court" if senators refuse to act on property tax repeal separately from college construction funding.

engine plane missing on a flight from Texas to Iowa on June 6 was called off Wednesday when authorities decided wreckage of the plane had not been spotted in north Arkansas after all.

Detective Bill Bruegel of the Carroll County Sheriff's Department said
what was reported to be the wreckage actually was an outcropping of rock on a bluff, with mineral reflections from the rocks.

"We're not classifying
this as a hoax," Bruegel said. "He had read about the missing plane, and assumed that was what he saw."

Bruegel said he had scoured the area himself and could understand how someone from a distance might mistake the outcropping of rock, with the skyline coming through the trees, as a wrecked plane.

Earlier this month, a Little Rock teen-ager led authorities on a three-day search for the wreckage near Mena in what authorities later described as a hoax designed to win a reward being offered for discovery of the plane.

Paul Strand and Ray Haugen, both 50 and of Decorah, Iowa, left Paris, Texas, on June 6 en route to their hometown. Most searches for the plane have been near the Arkansas-Oklahoma
border.

The search near Green Forest was prompted by a reported sighting of the wreckage by John Jones, around 50, of Rogers, who currently is hospitalized in Bentonville with ulcer and lung problems.

Bruegel said Jones was visiting in Carroll County last weekend when he thought he saw the plane wreckage on a nearby

bluff. The detective, who interviewed Jones from his hospital bed Wednesday, said Jones did not go to the site but told his son about it later. The son called authorities.

Bruegel said Jones also had reported smelling something dead, but never said he had seen two decomposed bodies.

"The truth of the matter is, he didn't get very close," Bruegel said.
"When I first arrived in the area, a woman pointed it out to me, and it did sort of have the shape of wings."

On Tuesday, searchers borrowed a helicopter
from a Springfield, Mo., television station and later conducted an aerial search in a small plane piloted by a deputy in hopes of spotting the wreckage.

Bruegel also solved the mystery of the Rogers Airport reporting an extra homing signal about the time the plane disappeared. He said the signal was a malfunction from an airplane parked at the time at the airport.

"So there's nothing at all now pointing to the plane being in this part of the state," Bruegel said.

More Prone To Violence...

Bowery Residents Change From Previous Years

BY RICHARD PIENCIAK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A boulevard for busted hopes and burned-out minds, a last stop for losers, the Bowery has been an alcoholic skid row for years, but it shelters a new breed these days — younger, more mobile, more prone to violence.

Many who sit today on the littered sidewalks or lie in the gutter have histories of mental problems and drug use as well as alcoholism, according to Calvin Reid, director of the city's only men's shelter.

They panhandle passing motorists. They prey upon each other. Often, their object is nothing more valuable than a bottle of cheap wine.

But three weeks ago, someone began slashing throats. Two vagrants died. A 31-year-old former mental patient named Charles Sears was arrested last week carrying a bloodied straight razor. The resident of a Bowery flophouse was charged with one murder, one attempted murder and two attempted assaults.

The Bowery runs from the edge of Chinatown up to Cooper Square, near Fourth Street. Sprawling up the street are restaurant supply houses, flophouses, lighting fixture stores, Chinese restaurants and an Off-Track Betting office.

Some residents say you can see a revival if you look hard enough. But the "good blocks" are outnumbered. In a city where parking is at a premium, it's easy to find empty spaces on the Bowery.

The city and state spend about $11.3 million a year on shelters for the estimated 36,000 homeless people scattered around New York City. More than half the money goes to the city's 34-year-old Shelter Care Center for Men.

One such resident, who would identify himself only as Pete, begs passersby for money and uses spit and a hankie to clean windows on cars stopped at the traffic lights. He showed a reporter where he sleeps on a bed of cardboard.

Pete says he is a hippie from the 1960s, uses cocaine and heroin and claims that former patients from state mental hospitals are "messing up the street." His arms are full of needle marks. His clothes have a powerful stench.

Twenty years ago, typical shelter users were about 55-60 years old, with about 60 percent white and almost all alcoholic, Reid says. Statistics on today's users indicate 47 percent are black, 33 percent white and 17 percent Hispanic, with 54 percent under 40 and 80 percent younger than 50.

Pete, 34, his goatee and long mop of hair prematurely gray, claims he rarely eats and admits to a serious drinking problem. "I wake up shaking. This is drug addiction," he said, drinking from a second bottle of wine. His first, still half-full, was stolen by another man who threatened to knife him for talking to a reporter instead of sharing his wine.

Any type of liquor will do, Pete said, his belly bare to the breeze inside his open shirt. "Whatever it takes to stop the shakes."

On a typical day, about 1,600 men use sleeping quarters provided by the city through the shelter. Inside the shelter itself is a 16-bed dormitory used by those with ambulatory or senility problems. At night, recreation and sitting rooms are cleared to set up beds for an additional 73 men.

They are given two sheets, a pillow, clean underwear and socks. Admission is on a first-come, first-served basis. Once the beds are filled, homeless men are sent to nearby single-occupancy lodging houses. It was at one of those facilities, the $3.51-a-night Delevan House, where Sears lived.

The Delevan lobby is up a long, dark stairway and around to the right. Clerk Donald Pope stands in a cage with heavy wire grating and metal bars. A 1979 calendar advertising the Belleville, N.J., Brake and Clutch Exchange hangs behind the desk.

There are four floors of rooms, which Pope describes as "cubbyholes. They're big enough to move around in. That's it." The posted rent is $3.25 per night, payable in advance, plus 26 cents tax.

Pope says the lobby can be used only by "paying guests, not the overflow from the shelters." He says the men the city sends are troublemakers. Some regulars have been staying at the Delevan for 5-10 years, he said.

The sign reads: "Salvation Army Bowery Corps — Dedicated to the Service of God and Humanity. A.D. 1951." The Salvation Army has a history of helping Bowery derelicts.

"It used to be that the term 'Bowery bum' meant living on the street, a derelict with liquor," said one Salvation Army official, who asked that his name not be used. "The term has really spread out. Now you've got mental cases and drug addicts burnt out from 1960s acid."

In the past, he added, "the Bowery bum or derelict has been harmless. But that has become a myth. There are some real dangerous people out there."

Woman Wants Husband's Body Turned

WHITEWATER TOWNSHIP, Ohio (AP) — Approving the request of a woman who wants the body of her husband turned around in his grave at the town cemetery is a big waste of tax money, says a township trustee.

Bertha Edwards wants to be at her husband's left side for all eternity, just as she was at the altar the day they were married. So, township trustees have said they'll pay $200 to have her husband's coffin dug up and spun around to face the opposite direction in which it was buried March 25.

Although Mrs. Edwards will be happy with the change, Trustee Bill Baird — who cast the dissenting vote against the decision for the township to pick up the tab — isn't.

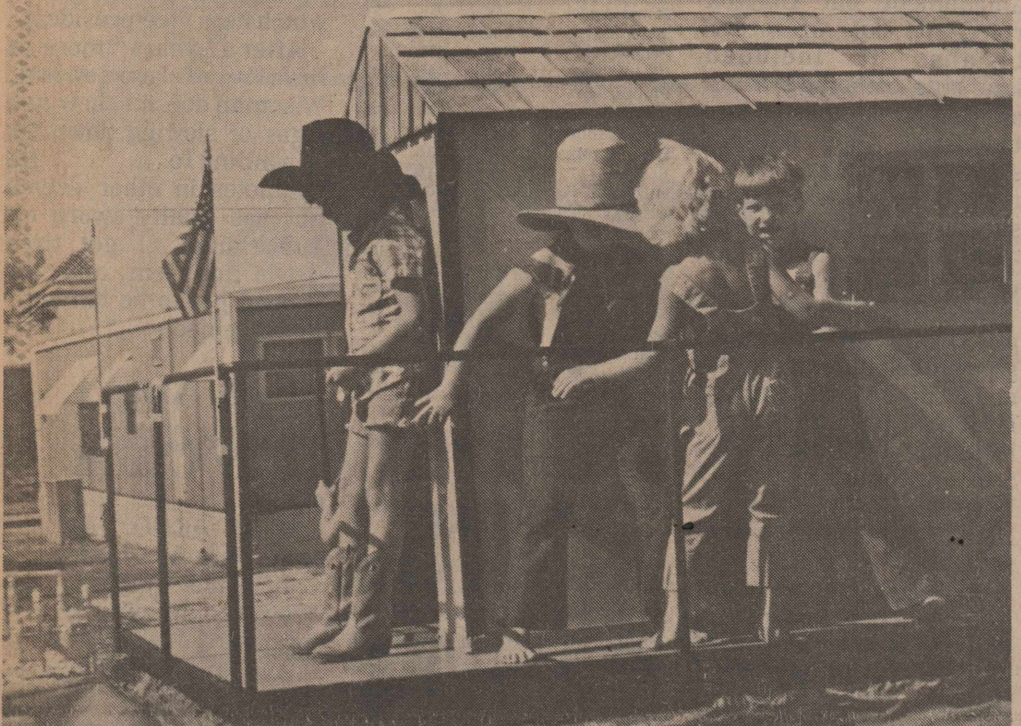

The job must be done by hand rather than by backhoe because of the possibility of damaging the vault.

"It burns me to see taxpayers' money spent this way," Baird said. "This is the first I heard about people being buried the way they got married."

Raymond and Mrs. Edwards purchased burial plots in the Elizabethtown Cemetery in western Hamilton County. But the wrong gravesite mistakenly was opened and, in accordance with tradition, Edwards' casket was placed facing east.

That would have put Mrs. Edwards' remains to her husband's right.

Man Agrees To Return To Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — A participant in the 1977 Hanifi Muslim seizure of the Washington headquarters of B'nai B'rith, a Jewish organization, says he is willingly facing the prospect of more time in prison.

"It may be a certain bit of naivete, but I happen to believe that in certain situations the system works," said Hilvan Finch, 26, who was tried under the name of Abdul Hamid.

"What motivated me to come back is that I asked for a chance to prove myself," Finch said Thursday after he unexpectedly turned himself in to District of Columbia Superior Court Judge Nicholas S. Nunzio.

Nunzio originally sentenced him to 36 to 108 years for armed kidnapping and conspiracy but in January ordered Finch — whom he described as a "model prisoner" — freed on probation.

In May, Nunzio's controversial action was overturned by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia. Finch said that while he was free from prison he worked for the Jewish owner of a New York furniture store.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

After South's initial two-over-one response, North literally drove to slam. Although South had a minimum, only 10 points and a relatively balanced distribution, the slam was a fair proposition.

Declarer won the opening trump lead in dummy with the 10 and surveyed his prospects. If hearts broke 3-3, 12 tricks would be simple. However, if hearts were divided 4-2, the play wouldn't be so fast. With hearts 3-3, South would have five clubs, four hearts and ace-king-ace in spades and diamonds. However, with a more likely 4-2 heart break, declarer has only three hearts, five clubs and ace-king-ace. His 12th trick must come from a diamond ruff in dummy.

Accordingly, South won the club in dummy and immediately tested hearts. He played ace, king and trumped a heart. When they failed to break, he led out ace and another diamond. A trump was returned and when they divided 3-2, South was in full control.

He won that trump with his king and ruffed his last diamond. Then he ruffed another heart with his next-to-last trump and played his last trump in order to pull East's last tooth and to discard dummy's six of spades.

The last three tricks were taken by dummy's ace-king of spades and fifth heart. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Booklet Gives Newlyweds Tips

LONDON (AP) — "Make love often. Seek to satisfy your partner's needs. Take time to make love."

That advice, from the Rev. Frank Cooke, Anglican charity director, appears in two pages of dos and don'ts for newlyweds published in the latest edition of the Christian monthly Family. Editor Anne Townsend said she has sent a copy to Prince Charles and Lady Diana, who may need it after their wedding in St. Paul's Cathedral July 29.

"We would love to think that the ideals set out in the two pages will help them in the future," she said.

Crow Learns Fast

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Only a few weeks old and already going out for a night on the town with the boys, Charlie is growing up.

Ann and Bill Hearn found the young crow three weeks ago after the bird apparently fell out of its nest in a park. Mrs. Hearn nursed Charlie with milk and cereal for the first week and attached a string to his leg while he was learning to fly.

Charlie perches on his keepers' shoulders, stashes his findings under a door mat and playfully tussles with the Hearn's Yorkshire terriers.

Can Shortness Be Prevented?

BOSTON (AP) — It may stunt the supply of astronauts and jockeys, but researchers say a common hormone has been found to help short children grow and its use could be expanded.

The hormone, given 20 children ages 8 to 11 whose growth was below the normal rate of 2 to 4 inches a year, shot up "3, 4 or 5 inches a year, so their growth failure was corrected," said Dr. Daniel Rudman, who directed the study.

The study was conducted at Emory University Hospital in Atlanta and was published here in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

The natural chemical — the height-regulating protein called human growth hormone — can accelerate a child's creeping growth rate if given in extra doses, Rudman said. Until now, doctors had used it only on children with a rare deficiency that prevents growth entirely.

However, the hormone won't help short people catch up once they reach adulthood. Also, supplies are low because it can be obtained only from human pituitary glands collected at death. However, genetic engineers have found ways to produce the hormone, and the substances are being tested.

"Short children are pretty common...and in the majority of them, there is no apparent cause for their shortness," Rudman said.

About 40 percent of all short children appear to produce normal amounts of the hormone, but the researchers found that many of them apparently produce an abnormal form of it that fails to do its job.

Rudman estimated that human growth hormone may help approximately one in 10 of those children. Among those with the most severe problems, the hormone may help as many as one in three.

Without the treatments, boys reach an adult height of under 5-foot-3 and the girls under 4-11.

Not all short children have that problem, so the researchers devised a test to find out who would benefit from extra doses of the hormone.

They used the test on 48 children ages 8 to 11 whose conditions were so severe that growth had nearly stopped. Twenty of those children, whose average height was about 4 feet, received extra doses of the hormone for six months and their growth speeded up, Rudman said.

To attain normal adult stature, the youngsters would need to take the hormone until adolescent growth stops, usually between the ages of 16 and 20, the article said.

Prime Minister Can Also Laugh

LONDON (AP) — Does Margaret Thatcher have a sense of humor?

Some members of a packed audience at the Whitehall Theater reported Sunday night the stern Conservative prime minister indeed can laugh — even at herself.

Mrs. Thatcher attended a charity performance of a new play, "Anyone for Denis?" which portrays Britain's political first family and the Conservative government haplessly trying to organize a drinking party.

Things go wrong when "Mrs. Thatcher," who should have been in Brussels for a European ministers meeting, switches the venue to Chequers, the premier's official country house. The play is based on fictional letters, supposedly written by Mrs. Thatcher's husband, Denis, to a golfing crony.

The real Mrs. Thatcher laughed a lot and afterward threw a reception for the cast.

Dylan Thomas, the poet, was born in 1914.

Try French Fries & Dip

Looking for some imaginative ways to jazz up your repertoire of summer party menus? Keep this in mind: guests love the "nibble and nosh" kind of foods. So put your creativity to work on ideas for appetizer or cocktail fare.

We're suggesting a quartet of interesting dips served with piping hot French fries for a tasty change-off from the usual crackers, chips and onion spread. These artful dips range in character from piquant to savory to hot and spicy to a minty refreshing number.

Frances Randall, an Idaho hostess with a knack for planning interesting party foods, offers an idea for an Avocado Piquant dip. It's an easy blender mixture of luscious-looking, lime-colored dip that sings "south of the border." Mrs. Randall serves it with hearty steak and fries and tells us that guests relish the textures of potato and creamy dip together.

Savory French Fry Dip gets its Gallic flavor from a measure of tangy Dijon-style mustard. Hot and Spicy Dip has a Far-Eastern charisma with its unusual but mellow blend of peanut butter, cottage cheese and tantalizing seasonings such as ginger and chili pepper.

Green Galina Dip, named after a glorious mountain summit that Idahoans regard with great reverence and awe, is as summery and refreshing as a mountain breeze. Its cool, minty flavor will be enhanced by the nutty goodness of crisp French-fried potato dippers.

AVOCADO PIQUANT DIP
1 small, ripe avocado, peeled, seeded, cut in chunks
1 medium tomato, cut in chunks
¼ cup sour cream
2 tablespoons chopped, canned, green chili peppers
2 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons lime juice
1 teaspoon onion salt
¼ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
French Fries

In the container of a blender combine avocado, tomato, sour cream, chili peppers, milk, lime juice and onion salt. Cover. Process until smooth. Pour into serving bowl; stir in cheese. Cover. Chill several hours to blend flavors. Serve with French fried potatoes. Yield: about 2 cups.

SAVORY FRENCH FRY DIP
½ cup plain yogurt
¼ cup catsup
2 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard
¼ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
French Fries

In small bowl combine all ingredients; mix well. Cover. Chill several hours or overnight to blend flavors. Serve with French fried potatoes. Yield: About 1 cup.

HOT AND SPICY DIP
1 cup cottage cheese
¼ cup milk
2 tablespoons chopped, canned, green chili peppers
1 tablespoon peanut butter
½ teaspoon onion powder
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon salt
French Fries

In container of electric blender combine all ingredients. Cover. Process until smooth. Chill several hours or overnight to blend flavors. Serve with French fried potatoes. Yield: 1 ½ cups.

GREEN GALINA DIP
½ cup sour cream
13 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons prepared horseradish
1 teaspoon dried dill weed
¼ teaspoon dried mint leaves, crumbled
French Fries

In small bowl combine all ingredients; mix well. Cover. Chill several hours or overnight to blend flavors. Serve with French fried potatoes. Yield: About 1 cup.

Just peachy

English women are known for their peaches-and-cream complexions. You can get the same glow with this homemade facial mask. Slice one ripe peach and mash it up. Sprinkle with two tablespoons of white wine. After letting the peach pulp stand for an hour, mix in three tablespoons of heavy cream. Now massage this mixture onto your face, wait 20 minutes, then rinse off with cool water.

Lang Answers New Questions

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have a house about 50 yards from a main highway, so we always hear traffic noises. We have lived there for four years and have kind of gotten used to the sounds of whirring wheels. Lately, though, a visitor suggested that we could almost eliminate the noises if we built a fence in front of our house. He suggested one about 7 feet high, but cautioned that it must be a solid wood fence, not one with openings of any kind. Before we go to the expense of such a project, we would like your opinion on how much of the noise will be stopped by the fence? Fifty percent? Seventyfive percent?

A. — The fence will keep you from seeing the traffic, but is unlikely to be of much help in preventing you from hearing it. Wood absorbs sound to a certain extent, but the problem is that the noise simply will go over the fence. Don't count on more than 10 or 15 percent of the sound either bouncing off or being absorbed by the fence.

Q. — We have hard water in our area. As a result, there are some rust stains on the inside of our kitchen sink. I have tried several household cleaning products without result. How can I get them off?

A. — Buy one of the rust-removing liquids or powders sold in hardware or home-center stores for use on metal. It is very important that you follow closely the directions on the container's label, since such products are often very caustic.

Q. — I have heard that you can regulate the flow of hot water from a shower head so as to save energy. How can this be done?

A. — Buy and install a shower-head flow restrictor. Anyone can attach it to the shower head. These restrictors are inexpensive. In some areas, local utility companies either give them away or make a very small charge.

and free agents trying to break into the Houston Oilers organization beginning today when the Oilers open the team's training site at Angelo State University.

Lawrence McCutcheon, a five-time Pro Bowl performer for the Los Angeles Rams and Mack Mitchell, a former starting defensive end for the Cleveland Browns, were expected to be among the early arrivals.

New Oiler head coach Ed Biles and a revamped coaching staff will hold the team's first workout Friday to begin gearing up for the first exhibition game Aug. 6 in the Astrodome against Super Bowl finalist Philadelphia.

Oiler veterans won't report until July 22 and begin workouts the following day. The Oilers finished with an 11-5 record last year before a disappointing first round playoff loss to Super Bowl champion Oakland.

All of Houston's draftees have signed their contracts and are expected by Thursday's 6 p.m. deadline including wide receiver Michael Holston, who was the Oilers' first pick in the draft. Holston, 6-3, 183, from Morgan State, was taken in the third round.

The Oilers did not have selections in the first two rounds.

Strike News...

Donovan Sees Some Progress

NEW YORK (AP) - The Secretary of Labor gave the baseball talks a shove - a good one, he thinks.

"I think the country should be encouraged," Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan said Wednesday after his dramatic visit here from Washington. "What I can tell you is we're excited about the fact they're back talking in a serious way."

"I've asked them to get back to serious bargaining. They have done that, and I'm pleased. The collective bargaining system is working."

Later in Washington, Donovan said further, "There is some room for optimism" about the chances of ending the first mid-season strike in baseball history.

Donovan indicated, however, that if there is no reasonably quick movement in the talks between the players and owners, they could move to Washington for closer scrutiny by government labor officials. "It is a possibility," he said.

Federal Mediator Ken Moffett had asked Donovan to step into the talks "in an effort to add new leverage to the bargaining process" and himself was optimistic about a fast settlement because of it.

"I hope it gets done tomorrow (Thursday)," Moffett told reporters Wednesday night in one of the shortest news conferences since the strike began on June 12.

Softball Meeting

The Snyder Girls Softball Association will hold a meeting Friday night at 7:30 in the Towle Park Barn to elect officers for the 1982 season.

Anyone interested in girls softball is urged to attend.

Stars Test Kent Tonight At Rotan

ROTAN - Snyder All-Stars are slated against Stonewall-Kent in a Little League elimination game at 8 o'clock here tonight. The victor will take on undefeated Rotan at 8 Friday.

Snyder opened its tournament stint here Monday, falling to Rotan 7-0 before rallying on Tuesday to knock off Hamlin, 7-5. Stonewall-Kent began with a 4-2 win over Hamlin, but lost its second round game to Rotan, 9-1 on Tuesday.

As the double elimination tournament is set up, tonight's winner faces Rotan tomorrow. Should Rotan lose that game, another would be held Saturday, also at 8 p.m. here.

The teams are fighting for the right to advance in Little League playoff action. It was not yet known who the tournament champion would play next. Coaching the Snyder All-Stars are Buck Logan and Barney Tate.

Sutton Shares Early Lead At British Open

SANDWICH, England (AP) - U.S. Amateur champion Hal Sutton birdied the eighth hole, made the turn in 1-under par and had a share of the early first-round lead today in the 110th British Open Golf Championship.

Despite the very difficult conditions - cold, windy weather under threatening skies - Sutton did not make a bogey in playing the front side in 34 at the 6,829-yard Royal St. George's Golf Club links.

With most of international field of 153, including favored American stars Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus, still awaiting their starting times, Sutton shared the top spot at 1-under-par with former champion Johnny Miller and Britain's Sandy Lyle.

Miller, a two-time winner in the United States this season, and Lyle were playing together. Each birdied the second hole and were one under at that point.

Scoring, generally, was very high in the early going, but David Graham, the Australian who won the U.S. Open last month, reeled off a string of six consecutive pars.

Nick Job, a young British player on the European PGA Tour, was the first man able to match par-70 over the old course being played as a British Open venue for the first time since 1949.

Isao Aoki, Japan's top performer, started birdie but was three over on his last six holes and finished at 71.

Arnold Palmer, who won the U.S. Seniors championship in a playoff earlier this week, actually had a share of the lead when he birdied the second hole.

Program Will End With Show Friday

The Scurry County Summer Recreation Program will close its summer activities Friday, with an awards and exhibition program at the high school gym.

The program will begin at 10 a.m. and extend to approximately 12:30. It is open to the public free of charge.

The first hour will feature two girls gymnastics classes, age 5-7, which will be performing on balance beam, trampoline and in tumbling. A jazz performance by the dance class will follow. Both groups will be directed by Kellye Elrod.

A short time will then be devoted to presentation of awards, including outstanding participants in each activity and winners of the various gymnastics competitions which took place earlier.

The program will conclude with a play "Dumped With The Dust," a take off of Gone With The Wind, written by Sara Sullivan. The play will be directed by Ms. Sullivan and Bettsey Patterson and will star members of the "Let's Pretend" class.

Sideline Glances...

Looking For A Few Good Idiots

By BILL McCLELLAN

I was reminded earlier this week that in the not-too-distant future it would be time to drag out the old Sagacious Sideline Selections for another year. For those not familiar with the SSS, it's where myself and four or five other idiots make various stabs in the dark at predicting football winners every week.

For anyone who believes I'm premature in bringing up football in July, consider that magazine racks everywhere are already overflowing with the stuff, or that the Houston Oilers have an exhibition game with Philadelphia on Aug. 6.

I've been trying to do away with the thing, the SSS that is, for the past three years without success. This year will undoubtedly be no exception, but I do have a plan to protect myself from ridicule. You see, like the Giants, I have a habit of finishing below the top. Therefore, let it be no secret that in 1981 I'm looking for the our prognosticators to have certain, uh, special qualities.

For instance, if you'd believe...

1. Bum Phillips is a worn out screwdriver, or
2. a noseguard is something put out by Coppertone, or
3. a wide receiver is a fat telephone, or
4. the "Crimson Tide" is a new kind of laundry detergent

...then give me a call, you just might just be eligible.

Similarly, if you object to...

- A. Being held up to public ridicule each week, and
- B. Being put on the the Dallas Cowboys Weekly blacklist, and
- C. Answering the phone only to hear someone laughing ecstatically, and
- D. Dying a slow death each and every weekend for four months

...then don't volunteer to be on the prediction line.

However, there are benefits. For instance...

- A. You can feel justified in watching football all weekend long, and
- B. You won't be asked to coach Pee Wee football again next season, and
- C. You'll be the center of conversation each Monday morning at the coffee shop.

If you feel you are eligible, drop me a line. I'm interested.

Green Cranks Out Victory In Ladies President's Cup

Carolyn Greene turned in a 132 - including a tournament low of 63 - to win the Ladies Golf Association Handicap President's Cup Wednesday.

Mrs. Green carded a 69 Tuesday and followed with Wednesday's 63 to win the First Flight by six strokes over Anita Talbott. Placing third was Jo Sterling with a 140, two strokes behind Talbott's 138.

Retha Pickering notched Second Flight honors with a 73-67-140. A three-way tie of 141's was settled on the cards as Lu Wolf placed second and Barbara Yorgesen placed third.

Third Flight winner was Suzy Reed with a pair of 73s for a 146. La Nelle Hogan took second with a 148, while Bernice Parker placed third with a 153.

Dear Abby

Another Dentist Can Cap False-Teeth Quarrel

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are having a big fight with her dentist. My wife is getting a full set of dentures. All her life she was ashamed of her teeth because they were yellowish, and now she wants snow-white teeth, but her dentist won't give them to her. He says snow-white teeth look unnatural. Abby, she doesn't care; she says movie stars have snow-white teeth and they look beautiful, and she wants beautiful white teeth too.

Meanwhile her dentist keeps telling her that his job is to give her teeth that will look natural, and if she suddenly comes out with snow-white teeth, people will know the teeth are dentures and they'll think her dentist did a poor job. We are deadlocked. Should a dentist give a patient what she wants or what he thinks she ought to have?

We live in Maine, but if we have to go to California to get what we want, we will go there. And I wouldn't begrudge the cost, either. Help us.

UNHAPPY SENIOR CITIZENS

DEAR UNHAPPY: The dentist discharged his professional obligation when he told your wife that the kind of teeth she wants will look unnatural. Having said this, and being overruled, he should give her what she wants. If he refuses, there are plenty of other dentists in Maine.

DEAR ABBY: A young woman who attends our church brings a large bag containing some kind of needlework, and all during the church service she either knits, crochets or does needlepoint.

I find this very distracting, and from the looks cast her way from others sitting near her, they too are annoyed.

I don't have the nerve to say something to her, and apparently neither has anyone else. She sits toward the back, so the minister can't see what she's doing. It's irritating to see her knitting away during the sermon. Maybe if you mention it in your column, she'll stop.

DISGUSTED IN YAKIMA, WASH.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Here's the needle. I hope she gets the point.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something in your column about mothers who treat children who are not twins like they are twins.

A relative of mine has two daughters, 6 and 4. She dresses them exactly alike, combs their hair the same way and buys them identical toys. (She says, "If everything is identical, one can't be jealous of the other.")

That's not all. The 6-year-old can't go anywhere unless she takes her little sister. And if the big one has a playmate her own age over, the mother shoves the younger one off on both of them.

Both girls are constantly upset because they are expected always to be together, play together and stay together. That mother doesn't realize that their interests as well as their capabilities are not the same.

I tried to tell her that I thought she should start treating each child as an individual and drop the twin bit, and she pearly took my head off. If you agree with me, Abby, print this letter so she will see how wrong she is.

AUNTIE

DEAR AUNTIE: I'm with you, and I hope your relative reconsiders and takes your advice.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS YOUR OPINION IN EUGENE": If you have to explain what your poem meant, then you haven't written a very good one.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (35 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

U.S. Home Feels Pinch

HOUSTON (AP) — Soaring interest rates are forcing the nation's fifth largest on-site builder of single-family houses to sell assets and lay off employees to ease the pinch of a slumping housing market.

U.S. Home Corp. said Tuesday that second quarter earnings of $5.1 million were half as high as those reported during the same period in 1980.

The Houston-based firm blamed high interest rates for the lower demand for new homes.

President George H. Matters said the company is "selling some lots and land to reduce our assets base."

U.S. Home officials said the company has reduced the number of employees by 11 percent within the Appeals Court Backs Perot...

Iranian Funds To Remain Frozen

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court has upheld Dallas millionaire H. Ross Perot's attempt to block a bank from transferring $20 million to Iran, but says he can get the money himself only if an international tribunal agrees.

Perot, who claims Iran owes his Electronic Data Systems Corp. $19 million, has been attempting to collect from $20 million in Iranian assets on deposit in a U.S. bank.

In its ruling Wednesday, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals suspended Perot's $19 million judgment for the Iranian government's breach of contract and told him that he must take his case to the international tribunal set up after the 52 U.S. hostages were released.

Pending a decision by the tribunal, the 5th Circuit upheld an injunction that bars Marine Midland Bank of New York City from transferring $20 million in Iranian funds to the Federal Reserve Bank for return to Iran.

Iran's social security system contracted with Electronic Data for a data processing system. But after 18 months, Iran stopped payments in June 1978. EDS broke off the contract in January 1979 and filed suit for $19 million.

On June 11, 1979, a federal judge in Dallas granted EDS the preliminary injunction that tied up a $20 million certificate of deposit at Marine Midland pending settlement of the suit, which ended May 9, 1980, in victory for EDS.

Before Iran's appeal could be heard, the United States and Iran agreed on terms for the release of the hostages with a series of accords signed in Algeria on Jan. 19, 1981.

As part of the deal, then-President Carter ordered Iranian assets restored to Iran and swept aside court orders and lawsuits involving those assets. That action was recently upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

One of the accords signed in Algeria, the "Claims Declaration," provided for creation of the Iran-United States Claims Tribunal to settle contract claims between U.S. companies and Iran.

EDS argued that it won its judgment before the agreement that freed the hostages, and that its injunction freezing the $20 million account predated Carter's freezing of all Iranian assets on Nov. 14, 1979.

But the 5th Circuit cited the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling upholding "the President's power to suspend claims ... because the President's suspension of claims, tacitly approved by Congress, was essential to the resolution of a major international crisis."

"Because the United States does not seek nullification of attachments accomplished prior to the freeze, we preserve the status quo by permitting EDS' attachment of Iran funds ... pending litigation before the Claims Tribunal," the 5th Circuit said.

In February 1979, Perot bankrolled a commando-style prison break in Tehran to free two EDS employees imprisoned for three months on charges of official misconduct in connection with the computer contract.

Perot said the Iranians demanded $12 million to release the employees. His breakout freed 11,000 prisoners at least temporarily, and his employees escaped in the ensuing confusion.

Lady Diana

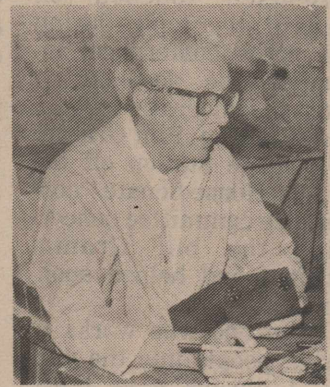

Fires Guard

LONDON (AP) — Royal bride-to-be Lady Diana Spencer has fired her policeman bodyguard because he ordered her about, a London newspaper reported Friday.

Chief Inspector Paul Officer, who once saved the life of Lady Diana's fiancé, Prince Charles, is being moved from the elite royal bodyguard squad after a series of clashes with the 20-year-old Lady Diana, the Sun said.

The newspaper said that the 40-year-old Officer became overprotective and ordered his charge about as if she was his daughter, acted in a domineering way about her movements and insisted on driving "even though Lady Diana loves being behind the wheel."

HOUSTON (AP) — Officials of a Texas company planning to launch its first test rocket from a South Texas island later this month are scrambling to accommodate a flood of media interest which they

John Crump

Museum Sets John Crump As Speaker

John Crump, well known Anson artist and teacher, will be the guest speaker at the Diamond M Museum of Fine Arts this Sunday afternoon.

Crump will focus on the modern art movement and will relate his discussion to the contemporary exhibit currently on display at the museum. Crump is one of the exhibiting West Texas artists.

A public school teacher for 20 years, Crump now teaches part-time for WTC and devotes more time to his own painting. He is the owner and operator of the Station Studio Gallery in Anson and is the Regional Director for District 17 of the Texas Fine Arts Association.

The Diamond M Museum invited the public to hear Crump and view the contemporary exhibit of 10 West Texas artists this Sunday at 2 p.m. There is no admission charge and the museum's weekend hours are 1 to 4 p.m.

say has caught them somewhat by surprise.

"The engineers would really like to go to the launch stand very quietly," said Walter Pennino, spokesman for the Houston-based Space Services Inc. Wednesday. "But I convinced them that there was really no way to sneak up on the launch stand and fire this baby."

President David Hannah Jr. said in May when the press first learned of the project that he would have preferred to work in private, but he said he was warned that investors would be suspicious if it appeared the firm was being secretive.

Access to the Matagorda Island launch site will be limited because of transportation and safety problems, Pennino said. He said no more than about two dozen media representatives will be allowed on the island.

The handful of reporters and broadcasters will join a herd of cattle, billions of mosquitoes and an alligator.

"The first time I went there, one of the engineers had something in his hand and was trying to shoo the cows away," said Pennino, who was NASA's director of public affairs for 11 years.

The launch, tentatively set for July 31, will be a crucial step in the company's attempt to become the first U.S. private company to place satellites in orbit.

The launch site is hardly Cape Canaveral. It is a sandy stretch of Space Services investor Todd E. Wynne's island ranch about 20 miles from Rockport, Texas.

Reporters will watch the sunrise lift-off of the sub-orbital flight from a tent about two miles from the launching pad and from a boat offshore, Pennino said. Cattle will watch from about the same distance, kept at bay by cowboys carrying walkie-talkies and riding horses and four-wheel drive vehicles.

And unless someone takes action in the meantime, an alligator will watch from a cow pond close by the 53-foot rocket. Engineers hope to use the pond to cool a deflector which channels flame from the rocket engine along the ground.

"When I arrived in Rockport, the guys were laughing about an 'alligator filter,'" said Pennino, who was director of public affairs for NASA for 11 years. "I thought it was a technical name for some sort of equipment. But they'd just met the alligator."

Other observers will be smaller, but annoying.

"The mosquitoes are not in the thousands—they're in the billions," Pennino said.

Japan formally surrendered after World War II on Sept. 2, 1945.

ORDER OF THE COMMISSIONERS COURT OF SCURRY COUNTY, TEXAS APPROVING THE TREASURER'S REPORT FOR THE CALENDAR QUARTER, APRIL 1, 1981 THROUGH JUNE 30, 1981.

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS MAY COME, BE IT KNOWN THAT: THE COMMISSIONERS COURT OF SCURRY COUNTY, TEXAS, did duly convene in Quarterly Session at its meeting place in the Courthouse in the City of Snyder at 10:00 o'clock a.m. on Monday, July 13, 1981, and, the entire membership of said Court, viz., Preston Wilson, County Judge, presiding, and Eldon Perry, Earl Sneed, Bernhard J. Bartels and Ted Billingsley, Commissioners for Precincts, 1, 2, 3, and 4, respectively, being present the matter of the comparison and examination of the Quarterly Report of Billy W. Thompson, Treasurer for Scurry County, for the period April 1, 1981 through June 30, 1981, came to the attention of said Court and the said

Court compared and examined the same and inspected and counted all the actual cash, certificates of time and demand deposits, and other assets in the hands of the Treasurer belonging to the County at and as the time of such report: NOW, THEREFORE, the Commissioners Court finds that the Treasurer at and as of the time of his said report did not have actually in his hands any money or other assets of Scurry County but the same were all on deposit in the West Texas State Bank of Snyder, Texas, the official County depository, except the following, viz., $121,000.00 authorized negotiable securities of political subdivision; and that from the commencement of business at 8:00 o'clock a.m. on April 1, 1981 until close of business at 5:00 p.m. on June 30, 1981, the beginning and ending balances for each fund of the Treasurer of Scurry County, Texas, for such quarterly period are fully and accurately reflected by the following tabulation attached hereto, incorporated herein by reference, and made a part hereof for all purposes;

LEMONADE ANYONE?—They are not too common nowadays but occasionally an enterprising youngster or two decides to open a lemonade stand to help passerbys alleviate their thirst during the long hot summer days. Two such lads are pictured here with the lemonade stand they have been operating all week. Business has been pretty good too according to Ricky Clark (left), 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Clark and Clay Travis, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Travis. (SDN Staff Photo by Shirley A. Gorman)

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Charges...

CIA Bungled Security Check On Max Hugel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency bungled its security check of Max Hugel, the administration's nominee for chief of clandestine operations, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says.

Hugel resigned Tuesday in the wake of charges he engaged in improper stock market activity seven years ago.

"It's obvious they made a very hurried security check. I understand they did it in approximately seven days, and that was too hasty for an agency that has a record for being very thorough," Bentsen told Texas reporters Wednesday afternoon.

"They obviously did a very poor job, and it obviously was a very serious mistake," the Texas Democrat said during his monthly press conference.

Bentsen, a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said he was not given advance notice of Hugel's resignation, but didn't consider that improper. He learned the news during a meeting of the committee on Tuesday.

"It took them a short time, I suppose, to find out how severe the accusation was. I think once they found out, they acted very expeditiously."

Asked if the embarrassment would have any effect on his decisions concerning the CIA, Bentsen said, "Every time you see one of these things, it leads you to question more, to probe more."

Bentsen touched on several other topics during his press conference, including the decision by House Democratic leaders to leave Rep. Phil Gramm of College Station off the giant House-Senate conference committee concerning the bill Gramm drafted and helped sponsor.

"I'm one who works to bring people into the party. I always have been, and I think it's important that we do it. I don't know the rules of the House to that extent, but I'm stating that as a philosophy," said Bentsen, who beat Gramm in the Democratic primary during his 1976 reelection bid.

"To be the majority party, we ought to work to pull people in," he added.

Bentsen also commented at length on his battle to win an exemption for the first 1,000 barrels of daily production for royalty owners and independent oilmen under the Windfall Profits Tax.

"It's going to be very tough because the administration obviously opposes it. We're on notice they're going to oppose it on the floor. But we're going to go ahead and pursue it," he said.

"If Republicans hang together, then I can't win. But there are a number of them who have supported it in the past, and I hope they'll support it again," the Texas Democrat said.

Bentsen has 15 co-sponsors, including Republicans Don Nickles of Oklahoma and Mark Andrews of North Dakota.

The administration says it opposes the legislation because of its timing. Any exemptions to the Windfall Profits Tax should be delayed until a second tax bill can be offered later in the year, White House officials contend.

"The administration argues they want to put it off, and I don't know what that means. I've heard 'Let's put it off to be considered later,' but I haven't heard any commitments for a second bill," Bentsen added.

"This is the most major tax cut in the history of our country, and I would not anticipate any sizeable tax cut coming afterward."

Bentsen also said: — the Democratic Party "absolutely has a future."

The party out of power in the White House has picked up seats "in every election since 1934 and I think we'll do just that in 1982. In both houses. That's despite the fact that we have 20 (Democratic) seats up in the Senate and the Republicans only have 12."

— growing immigration "is one off the most serious problems we face. We just can't take all the people around the world who want to come to America, without absolutely destroying our standard of living."

— he hasn't decided how he'll vote on the nomination of Sandra O'Connor to the Supreme Court. But told she was born in El Paso and lived there several years, Bentsen added: "I'm delighted to hear that" and added that he hasn't found any reason to vote against her.

— he has 36 co-sponsors on legislation he is proposing to initiate a new "all-savers" plan that would allow people to put money into savings, with no tax on the interest.

"The administration is also opposing it, but I'm optimistic I'll win that one," Bentsen said.

"We have got to get interest rates down on homes so people can afford to buy them again. One of the great stabilizing influences in this country is home ownership, and people ought to have the opportunity to put their roofs down."

— there probably will be more opponents in his 1982 reelection bid than Rep. Jim Collins of Dallas and State Sen. Walter Mengden.

Bentsen declined to comment on which one he'd rather face in an election. But after a pause, he added a comment about Collins, who has been increasingly visible as a potential opponent.

"I've said some awful nice things about Jim Collins, and I've been reading about some awful bad things he's been saying about me. Maybe we're both wrong."

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Faints with severe anemia

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need some information on low blood count. My doctor gave me four pints of blood at the hospital. He had every X-ray in the world taken and can't find what caused it to happen. Have you any idea what is happening that causes my blood to disappear? I take iron pills, two a day. The doctor couldn't find any leakage.

I feel weak and am short of breath when this happens. The last time I fell over backwards and didn't even know I was falling. What can I do besides take iron pills?

DEAR READER — You must have had a very severe anemia to require transfusions. Mild anemias may not cause any symptoms but the more severe forms do cause a person to be weak and tired.

That is because there is not enough oxygen being carried by your blood to your cells. The oxygen is essential to metabolize food and release energy from food for your body. The shortness of breath was an indication that your body needed oxygen and your circulation could not supply the need.

Your doctor has a pretty good idea from his tests whether your anemia was caused from bleeding or not. He may also be able to tell if your bone marrow is producing enough red blood cells or if you are just low on iron.

A normal, healthy person's body may produce three million new red blood cells a second. These replace the ones that are destroyed. A normal red blood cell only lives about 120 days.

In some medical conditions the red blood cells are easily destroyed or have a short life span. This condition, loss of blood and decreased production of red blood cells are the three general mechanisms involved in anemias discussed in The Health Letter number 4-3, Understanding the Anemias, that I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Faintness can be a complication of severe anemias and may explain your falling. Your treatment will depend on what caused your anemia. Iron replacement is often necessary if you actually lose blood. Provided there is no further blood loss, the normal body will then gradually regenerate a normal amount of cells.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You say heart attacks are a disease of this century. My contention is that similar diseases carried different names in different eras. My father practiced medicine the first 45 years of this century and I have a recollection back to the early part of this century. I remember well how shaken my father was when a neighbor suddenly developed severe pain and died very suddenly from "acute indigestion." These conditions occurred rather frequently.

DEAR READER — The first diagnosis of a heart attack in a living subject was in 1908 in Germany. True, heart attacks did occur and were not diagnosed as such. For example, a Chinese woman found in an ancient tomb was found to have had heart disease.

The question you have raised about failure to recognize heart attacks has been considered by experts and the general agreement is that while such cases undoubtedly did occur, they were uncommon compared to the high rate of heart disease today. Hence we consider the epidemic of heart disease today as a disease of this century.
