Bailey Cuts Loose—
He Pleads for Liberty—
Joins the Farmers—
What'll Happen?

JOSEPH WELDON BAILEY HAS made a declaration of his political intentions. He took the people into his confidence in his Pilot Point speech. This is what he said: "But we are not discussing candidates. I am not gong to vote for either of them. I have quit choosing between rotten apples. Some of you boys haven't heard a democratic speech since I was here 12 years ago." The former senator named the various organizations which he charged were dabbling in politics and attempting to run the state. He named these organizations and said. "If everybody else is going to organize, then I am going to help the farmers of this country organize, and by the eternal, when we do this we are not going to let the labor unions come in with us. We will teach the cities and industrial centers a lesson with this farmers organization. We don't want to do this for I am against organizing class against class.

"IF IT MUST BE DONE ALL right, but I hope we are not forced to do it. Let us disband these clubs and clans and go back and be democrats like our fathers were if we are to save this republic. I deny the right of the federal government to invade any American home to see what the owner of that home is doing with his own fruit; whether he shall make brandy or cobbler out of his apples.

"The American home is the most sacred place to Americans and king, president, marshal or sheriff should not come without invitation; if he comes at all let him bring his warrant with him. Without it I deny his right to do it. That was our heritage. Let us keep it!"

This declaration on the part of the former senator forecasts a most interesting political campaign in Texas two years hence.

THERE'S A FARM LABOR ORganization in Texas that delivered 205,000 votes to Major Fred S. Rogers in the July primary. If the farm labor organizers are as successful in the two years to come as they were in the two preceding years they may sweep the state. This may be dealing in futures, but prophecies are not out of place at this time. Remember the words: "If everybody else is going to organize, then I am going to help the farmers of this country organize, and by the eternal when we do this we are not going to let the labor unions come in with us." Earlier in the week Major Fred S. Rogers in a newspaper interview, or rather a signed statement declared that 67,000 organized workers deserted his cause and cast their ballots for Governor Neff. He thanked the farmers for living up to their compact and promised to be their standard bearer for governor in 1924.

A YEAR AGO FRIENDS OF education in Oklahoma asked their state lawmakers to make a special appropriation of $400,000 for the rural schools of that state. They were ignored. Then they had an amendment to the constitution submitted which afforded an increased levy by school districts for school purposes. All the returns are in and there is no doubt of the defeat of the measure. It wasn't a scratch. It was an overwhelming defeat and it happened on primary election day. According to the American bar association "knowledge and inspiration are essential to citizenship." There are thousands of voters of Oklahoma who do not agree with the master legal minds of America. They vote as if they thought that ignorance and superstition are essential to citizenship.

BEFORE FINAL ADJOURNment the American bar association adopted two interesting resolutions. First: "We find that further legislation should be enacted by the congress to punish and prevent lynching and mob violence." Second: "We find that more stringent laws limiting and controling immigration should be enacted and enforced." Who is going to punish the lynchers? Who is going to do the rough work?

HAROLD F. McCORMICK AND Madame Walksa are man and wife. Harold F. is a multi-millionaire and for 26 years was the husband of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller. These two represented two of the huge fortunes of America and yet they couldn't be happy. Harold has his sweet singer. Mrs. McCormick No. 1 has a hundred million dollars, three show places in America, a castle in Switzerland and she is going to be the mother-in-law of Max Oser, a Swiss riding master, if daughter Mathilda ever breaks away from father and her new ma and crosses the Swiss frontier. This is a gay old world.

This did not happen in Hollywood, but why not blame the movies. Madame Walska McCormick isn't a movie idol but she is a grand opera queen and there are many critics of movies who do not know the difference between grand opera and the screen form of entertainment. Harold F. must have jarred loose many of his old-time friends. But why blame him. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick applied for the divorce alleging that Harold F. was lacking in temperamental understanding and not a true soul affinity. Now just what could the poor man do under the circumstances.

MAYFIELD TELLS WICHITANS HE IS NOT LABOR FOE

He Makes Plain His Stand on Demand From Crowd

"Tell them how you stand on the open shop, Earle," came a call from among the 1,200 people who had gathered on Moore and Richolt's lot last night to hear Earle B. Mayfield, candidate for the United States senate, speak in his own behalf.

Mr. Mayfield was in the midst of a defense of his own labor record and was attacking that of James E. Ferguson, his opponent.

"I see you out there, C. C. McDonald," he said.

"Pour it on him, Mayfield," cried several voices.

"Speech, McDonald, speech," replied a few voices.

"I don't have to pour it on him," said Mayfield, "because Mrs. McDonald is for me and she is seven-eights of the McDonald home."

"How do you stand on the open shop?" somebody else called from nearby.

"I will answer that by saying that I am opposed to anything that has as it's object the destruction of American labor," he said, and continued with his speech.

With an orchestra playing popular music. Earle B. Mayfield, accompanied by a dozen well known Wichita Falls men and women, took a seat on the truck-platform just a little before 8:30 o'clock.

On the platform with the candidate were S. A. L. Morgan, Judge J. T. Montgomery, O. O. Ross, W. S. Langford, Rev. J. H. Groseclose, Mrs. T. T. Sharpe, Mrs. M. M. Adickes, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Thompson, Charles I. Francis, L. T. Coplin, M. Goodpasture, Rev. Louis Pinkston, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Knight, Judge W. J. Townsend, Mrs. J. E. Sharpe, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Haney.

Montgomery Opens Meeting

Judge J. T. Montgomery, in opening the meeting, said that he had supported another candidate in the primaries, but his candidate was defeated, and that he is now supporting Earle B. Mayfield, and he thinks all good citizens should support Mr. Mayfield. He made a short attack on the record of James E. Ferguson, recounting several of the charges that have been made against him and his impeachment, then introduced S. A. L. Morgan, recently defeated by Guinn Williams in the race for congress.

Mr. Morgan made a brief introduction. He took occasion to state that if Charles A. Culberson was physi-

Workmen Attacked, Strike May Follow

By Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 14.—A possible strike of all maintenance of way employes on the Santa Fe railroad lines was threatened today by E. E. Clark of Kansas City, general chairman of the United States brotherhood of maintenance of way employes for that system, in a telegram to E. F. Crable, national head of the maintenance of way workers at Detroit, Mich. The threat came following news from La Junta, Colo., of an alleged attack on two maintenance of way men there by non-union men.

A telegram was sent by Clark to the La Junta officials today instructing them to keep the men at work pending investigation of the alleged attack.

Thieves Overlook Good Bet When Bank Is Moved

By Associated Press

DALLAS, Aug. 14. — "Approximately $20,000,000 in "stuff" over $2,000,000 in "iron men" were moved across town in a truck guarded by 20 policemen Saturday afternoon from the old quarters of the Southwest National bank to its new quarters in the Magnolia building, it was learned today from Assistant Cashier L. C. Wright.

The haul was made in boxes. When the last box had been safely deposited in the huge steel vault, Mr. Wright declared, he went across the street for a cup of coffee, and the press lost out on another "sensational bank robbery."

W. K. A. F. Puts on First Radio Dance After Circuit Gets Baseball News

WKAF was overhead again last night.

Wichita Falls was introduced to something else new.

To those who were not present, meet the radio dance.

No, it's not a new step, but the necessary music.

Following completion of the W. S. Radio Supply company Record News broadcasting station, a program was arranged which continued from 9:15 until 11:00 o'clock, a musical program, and Wichita Falls listened in.

Out on Eleventh street, a special party was planned, and invited guests "listened in" for the cadence of an evening's program. Several couples enjoyed the first Wichita radio dance.

Prior to the opening of the program, baseball results, furnished by the Record-News, were broadcasted from the station on Huff street.

Plans are being made to bring the unit to completion as soon as possible, and before the week closes, regular scheduled programs will be offered radio fans throughout this section.

Information is being sought daily, both by Wichitans and radio followers from nearby towns. Requests for special features are coming in, and the W. S. Radio Supply programs will soon become permanent.

Beginning today, baseball results of the Texas league, the American league and the National league will be "in the air" as soon as received here. Other news happenings will also be offered in connection with the program.

Beaumont Rent Found Cheaper and Salaries Run Higher Than Here

KIRBY SEEN AS SENATE TIMBER

Believed Ready to Announce

Special to The Record News.

WASHINGTON, August 14.—John H. Kirby is clearing the decks to announce his candidacy for the United States senate as an independent democrat.

This tonight was the interpretation of his resignation today as a member of the commission attending the Brazilian exposition. Kirby, here on a tariff matter, declined to discuss the senatorial situation further than to say that if he became a candidate it will be as a democrat, standing for old fashioned democratic principles.

RESIGNATION AFFECTS BRAZILLIAN COMMISSION

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, August 14.—The involved fortunes of the Brazilian centennial commission, appointed to represent the United States at the Rio de Janerio exposition next month, took another unexpected turn today when John H. Kirby of Texas handed in at the white house his resignation as one of the five commissioners.

Pressure of private business affairs was the reason publicly assigned by Mr. Kirby for his withdrawal.

With Mr. Kirby's resignation, the membership of the commission becomes a broken official circle for a second time Commissioner Frank Harrison of Nebraksa having given up his place several weeks ago after making charges of mismanagement against Director General Collier and other members.

Middle Class Fares Much Better Down In Southern Texas Town, Survey Shows

By INVESTIGATOR

Will people leave Wichita Falls for some other Texas city because of high rents?

That is the first question one is called upon to answer after a study of rent conditions here.

In our review of conditions here during the past two days, we have found that the average rent in Wichita Falls is $47, while the average wage is $43. We have found that the city needs about 3,000 more homes.

We have found that wage earners, with an average income of less than $30 a week, are paying rent of more than $34 a month; that the middle class here, with an average income of $38 a week, is paying rent at the average rate of more than $46.50 a month while the third and last classification is paying $64 a month rent, average, with about that amount weekly as income.

Now let us turn to Beaumont.

Income Lower in Beaumont

What can these same Wichita people do in Beaumont, should high rents force them to leave this city?

An investigation carried on in that city at the same time the survey of conditions was being made in Wichita Falls shows that the average income there is slightly lower, as there are fewer well-to-do or wealthy men. As compared with the Wichita Falls average of $43 a week, Beaumont earns $41.

But this by no means tells the story.

For while the whole average is slightly lower, the middle class and wage earning class have a higher average. In Wichita, the middle class averages $38 a week income. In Beaumont, this average is not quite $40.50. In Wichita Falls the wage earning class averages less than $30 a week income. In Beaumont the average is $34.

In other words, as far as income goes, the upper class had better remain in Wichita Falls. They will make more money here and there are

STRIKERS JAILED AS TRAINS MOVE ON IN FAR WEST

Nevada Governor Takes Hand in Situation

By Associated Press

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., Aug. 14.—Strike of the big four brotherhood men of the Union Pacific was called off here at 9 o'clock tonight and four eastbound trains left immediately.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 14. — Strikers were arrested in Nevada and California today as a result of the rail strike and trains were moved on the Santa Fe system, which had been tied up since last Thursday.

Governor Emmett Boyle of Nevada was present at Las Vegas when 17 men were taken into custody. No charges have yet been filed against the men. Governor Boyle had obtained a pistol taken from one of the men, and was the object of one of the striker's pistols when the governor got the drop on the man. No shots were fired, but the man was arrested.

The Santa Fe started a trans-continental train eastward from Los Angeles and expected to send it through to Chicago. The Southern Pacific company also operated trains on its division west of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Embargoes on movement of perishables were unchanged during the day and California fruit growers and shippers faced a loss that grew into thousands of dollars hourly. It was said there was no way of saving the ripening fruit that should be shipped immediately.

The Union Pacific lines in Nevada, particularly at Las Vegas, were the scene of shooting early today. State police with machine guns were ordered to Las Vegas and it was expected that Governor Boyle would have the police supplant the rail guards.

More Guards Out

Twelve additional deputy federal marshals were ordered to Rosville, Cal., where the Pacific fruit express maintains its icing plant. Twenty deputies have been on duty and reports to the marshal in San Francisco said the strikers were violating the court injunction forbidding picketing.

The Western Pacific did not move any trains today, contenting itself with conferences with the big four brotherhood men who had refused to move trains. The company announced its line between Salt Lake City and Gerlach, Nevada, was open.

GERMAN DEBT MEETING FAILS

French and British Disagree

By Associated Press

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The thirteenth allied conference on German reparations broke down today, "agreeing to disagree," as the spokesmen for both France and Great Britain put it, there having been a complete lack of unanimity on the important points discussed.

From its commencement the conference seemed predestined to failure, according to the view expressed by close observers of the situation who believe that the failure indicates utter incompatibility between the policies of Great Britain and France toward Germany.

No New Conferences

The situation now appears to be that the conference has separated without any ideas of a new conference. The British government insists upon a moratorium as an imperative precedent to any further negotiations. On the other hand, M.

Operators Agree With Miners on Wage Contracts

All Details Settlement Accepted In Principle By United Mine Workers and Owners; 60,000 Men Expected to Resume Work Immediately; Mine Guards Are Recalled

Special to The Record News.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 14.—The soft coal strike was virtually broken tonight, but prospects were that the actual signing of the agreement between the United Mine Workers and operators, controlling an annual output of 60,000,000 tons would be delayed until tomorrow. The signing of the contract will actually end the strike in part.

All details of the agreement were accepted in principle by both miners and operators and the actual draft of the contract was left to a sub-committee which continued its work tonight. The actual signing of the contract, President John L. Lewis of the miners said, is expected to follow a meeting tomorrow of the union's policy committee.

As a result of the progress made tonight by operators and miners, Governor Harry L. Davis of Ohio announced he would call off the conference of governors of five coal producing states that was to have met here to consider the strike situation. He also announced that he would withdraw Ohio militiamen, who were sent into the coal fields recently.

Others to Accept

No exact estimate of the number of miners who will be put back to work under the settlement was obtainable, but varied between 60,000 and 75,000 men. Altogether there are 450,000 soft coal miners on strike, union officials said. It is expected by them that the other operators will accept the settlement effected here, but meanwhile the strike will continue at their mines.

Under the decision of the conference, it was understood that any soft coal operators anywhere in the country might become parties to the agreement, the reopening of their mines to follow immediately. These operators, it was said might sign the agreement as individuals or by state or district organizations.

Operators controlling approximately 60,000,000 tons annual production were represented in the conference. Their mines were understood to be in central Pennsylvania, western Pennsylvania, Indiana, Illinois, northern and west Virginia and michigan.

ANTHRACITE OPERATORS MEET WITH HARDING

By Associated Press

WASHINGTN, Aug. 14. — The whole coal situation with especial reference to conditions arising from the anthracite strike and phases of the conference to be held in Philadelphia Wednesday between anthracite operators of Pennsylvania and officials of the United Mine Workers of America, were said to have been discussed at the white house conference tonight participated in by President Harding, Secretary Hoover, Governor Sproul of Pennsylvania and Senator Pepper of that state.

At the conclusion of the conference Senator Pepper expressed the belief that "an adjustment of all differences for the time being at least" would be accomplished at the Philadelphia meeting.

Garden City Bank Closed by Hall

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Aug. 14. — The First State bank of Garden City, Glasscock county, has been closed by the board of directors, following the death of E. P. Teele, cashier, on August 1, State Insurance and Banking Commissioner Ed Hall, announced today. A shortage of $7,500 has been discovered in the bank's accounts, it was stated. Commissioner Hall said plans are under way for reorganizing the bank, which is capitalized at $10,000.

UNIONS TRY TO MEDIATE STRIKE

Conductors Talk to Harding

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Organizations not on strike got their attempts to mediate the strike of shopmen and other crafts in transportation service back before President Harding today and after a two and a half hour white house conference declared they intended to reapproach railroad executives.

L. E. Sheppard, president of the order of railway conductors, and spokesman for the entire group, declared on leaving the white house that the striking unions would leave "their case in the hands" of himself and his associates, while as to the sporadic walkouts of brotherhood members in various parts of the country, he said "the president doesn't intend to make any issue against men who leave unsafe engines."

Sheppard Silent

Mr. Sheppard, like the other union officials, refrained from specifically indicating what basis was being considered for further compromise attempts. The meeting with the president was arranged by Secretary of Labor Davis after all the union chiefs, including those on strike, had been in one of their general executive sessions to consider policy.

"It has been much the same story, we have been discussing the whole situation from top to bottom and now we are going to look for somebody to help in our mediation attempts," Mr. Sheppard declared. "That means there are some railroad executives not so tenacious of their points as those we have seen. We shall talk over the matter of who might help with all the union officials tomorrow.

Northcliffe Dies In London Home

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 14.—Lord Northcliffe, great Britain's leading publisher, passed peacefully away early this morning after an illness of about two months. Death was due to infectious or ulcerative endocarditis, which, according to one of the physicians in attendance became insidious months ago, probably during his trip around the world.

Lord Northcliffe was striken in Cologne, while he was making a trip incognito through Germany. Although he was aware of the mysteriousness of his illness, he battled gamely to regain his health.

The news of the death of Lord Northcliffe did not come as a surprise, for during the past several weeks the bulletins issued by his physicians, although skillfully worded, had failed to hold out hope for his recovery. Nevertheless, his passing has caused universal sorrow and messages of sympathy have poured into his widow all day from all parts of the world.

Fatal Wounds All That Save Slayer Of Three Men From Hands of Mob

By Associated Press

IDABEL, Okla., Aug. 14.—Only his wounds, which are expected to prove fatal, saved Clayton Thompson from the hands of a mob today after a gun battle on the principal thoroughfare of Wright City, near here, in which he slew Sheriff Bud Felker of McCurtain county and dangerously wounded Cleveland Christian of Mountain View, who were attempting to arrest his for killing two men near Wright City.

The series of tragedies began late yesterday, when Thompson, while intoxicated, it is said, shot and killed John Anderson, foreman of a ranch 10 miles north of Wright City. Thompson then started to Wright City and overtook Clifford Pruett, 18. He shot the youth to death in a quarrel.

Cleveland Christian, owner of a ranch adjoining the one where Anderson was killed, joined Sheriff Felker and Deputy Sheriff Richard Jones in a search for Thompson. They trailed him to Wright City this morning and met him on the main street of the town.

As they drove up to the curbing in Felker's automobile they commanded Thompson to surrender. The latter brought a rifle into play and shot Christian between the shoulders. A second shot struck Felker in the back of the head, killing him instantly and a third bored the sheriff between the shoulders.

Thompson then sought refuge in a restaurant. Jones called upon him to surrender and when he did not obey the deputy shot him twice in the abdomen with a rifle. Christian was taken to a hospital at Brokenbow, where it was said he is not expected to live.

Thompson was brought to jail here and is being attended by physicians who say he cannot survive the night.

According to officers, a mob at Wright City prepared for an attempt to lynch Thompson, but when it was learned that attending physicians said he probably would not live through the night, talk of violence subsided.

SIBLEY WANTS BROAD OPENED

Citizens Say Route Now Dangerous

During a short session of the city council held last night, a representative body of Sibley-Taylor addition residents appeared before the commissioners urging that Broad street be opened, giving them an outlet from the addition to the city.

Several o fthose present contended that the present routing is dangerous and that it may cost a life sooner or later.

Mayor Frank Collier informed them that as soon as the city can purchase the property where the street must be placed at a reasonable cost, that the street will be put down.

The mayor promised that he would give the property owners a definite answer on the question at the next regular session of the council.

Ordinance 417, placing the city tax at $1.55, 11 cents lower than it was last year, was passed to its third and final reading, and now becomes a city law.

Prior to adjournment, Charles Runnenburg was appointed city park superintendent, his salary being placed at $150 per month and the city agreeing to furnish the inspector a car.

more well-to-do citizens here. But the middle and wage-earning classes can earn a little more money per week in Beaumont. Very little, it is true, but a dollar or two a week more, perhaps.

Now, let us turn to Beaumont rents.

And here we find a strangely mixed-up comparison. For some people, Wichita Falls is the most economical city, for others Beaumont is. Here are the figures.

Rent Is Cheaper

In Beaumont, class 1, the wage earners' class, can live considerably cheaper, as far as rents are concerned. There, the average rent for houses in this class rent for an average of $26. Some rent as low as $20, while $30 is about maximum, except in rare instances.

Consider these figures. In Wichita Falls, a man in class one earns $30 a week and pays $34 a month rent. In Beaumont this same man earns $34 a week and pays $26 a month rent. In Wichita Falls he pays 28 per cent of his income for rent. In Beaumont he pays 19 per cent.

In the next class, number two, the middle class man, the comparison is more favorable for Wichita. In Wichita this class averages $38 a week income and pays $46.50 a month rent. In Beaumont, this same class averages $40.50 a week income and pays almost $50 a month rent. Thus, for this class, the expense is slightly higher in Beaumont.

The upper class in Wichita is considerably better off than the same class in Beaumont. Here their average income ranges around $65 a week, and their monthly rent averages around the same figure, while in Beaumont the average income is somewhat lower, while rents are $10 a month higher for this class.

(In the next few articles, Investigator will make further comparisons between rents in Wichita Falls and other Texas cities of about the same size. A forthcoming article will also go into the apartment and furnished house rents here.)

BODY OF MRS. BRYANT TO BE BURIED TODAY

The funeral of Mrs. Patrena Bryant, age 82 years, who was killed Sunday when she fell 15 feet onto a pile of rocks below the Lake Wichita pavilion, will be held from the First Methodist church, south, this morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Lolus Pinkston will officiate and interment will be made in Riverside cemetery.

cally able to hold the office of United States se. 'or that Mr. Mayfield would not be running. He touched on Ferguson's record and then compared it with the record of Earle Mayfield. He said there is not a thing against the record of Earle B. Mayfield during all his years as a public servant.

Woman Speaks

Before addressing the audience Mr. Mayfield introduced Mrs. J. E. Sharpe, who appealed to the women to vote for Mr. Mayfield. She said that since the women have the ballot it is their duty to vote. She said women fought for 15 years under the white flag of purity against the liquor interest and that since it is voted out, that James E. Ferguson has raised the black flag of light wines and beer. She presented the candidate with a beautiful bouquet of roses, furnished by Judge W. J. Townsend ,in behalf of the women supporters of Mr. Mayfield.

Mr. Mayfield's speech was generally along the same lines of the other speeches he has been making recently. He brought out only a few new points He held his audience well and at times provoked applause. At one time a man in the audience called "hurrah for Ferguson!"

"Just keep quiet out there," called back Mr. Mayfield, "I am making this speech." There was no more disturbance.

The candidate said that James E. Ferguson has been making a campaign of mud-slinging and attacking his, Mayfield's character. He said that Ferguson has never had a platform but has always relied upon attacking the character of the candidate opposing him.

"I have fought my campaign on the big issues involved and shall continue to do so" said Mr. Mayfield. He said that there are two main issues. He mentioned the transportation problem and the light wine and beer question. He said that he stood for getting back the powers of the Texas railroad commission and for relief from the federal usurpation of state rights in fixing rates as one of the most momentus questions of the day.

Attacks Ferguson

He said that James E. Ferguson stands for the abolition of the Volstead act and all the laws that are against liquor. He said that if Ferguson is not in favor of the open saloon and all kinds of liquor then he has suffered a change of heart because Ferguson, he said, wants and always has wanted every law abolished that would even regulate the whisky traffic.

In speaking on the transportation question Mr. Mayfield explained how extremely high rates fixed by the interstate commerce commission have worked an injustice on the south and west in particular and have usurped state powers. He said that the rates in Texas are fixed in Washington He told how a few years ago a man could ship a calf that weighed 125 pounds by paying for that much weight but explained that now under the rates fixed by the interstate commerce commission a person shipping a salf weighing 125 pounds would have to pay for a minimum weight of 3,000 pounds He cited cases in other articles of shipment and said that cotton, wheat and cattle especially are made the objects of the unjust charges

He made several humorous references and told how it cost $26.80 to ship a $1.50 donkey From Austin to San Antonio, a distance of 80 miles.

He charged that the interstate commerce commission is controlled by the railroads.

Mr. Mayfield said he would refrain from attacking the personal character of James E. Ferguson, but he did not spare his political reputation. He recited all those things that have been charged against Ferguson in his past political history and during the impeachment proceedings. He told of his record with the liquor interests. He said that Ferguson had been attacking his, Mayfield's, war record. He made no attempt to defend his own war record but went after that of James E. Ferguson, declaring that Ferguson had openly opposed in public utterances, President Wilson's selective draft plan. He told of an agent of the German-American alliance, one Robert L. Boergle had been sent from Cincinnati to campaign for Ferguson in 1914 and had made a speech in German for him.

He told of Ferguson depositing $25,000 in the American National bank in Austin to his own credit on April 12, 1917, two days after he had made a speech against the selective draft and also of his depositing $25,000 more two days later. He demanded that Ferguson tell the people where he got that money.

Mr. Mayfield termed Ferguson the "Great Destroyer." He said he sought to destroy everything.

He mentioned the University of Texas, the democratic party, citing the time when Ferguson as a candidate for the presidency of the United States on his self-formed American party ticket, had fought the democratic party and he mentioned many other things. "Now," declared the speaker, "he would destroy the federal reserve bank if he is elected United States senator. I guess he will. He has destroyed the only other bank he ever had anything to do with."

Mr. Mayfield said the only way James E. Ferguson will get on the floor of the United States senate to vote for light wines and beer will be when the senate has adjourned and the sergeant at arms lets him in to look the senate chamber over.

Mr. Mayfield said that while Ferguson is after amending the Volstead act to bring back liquor, he himself is also after amending it to make it a felony for anyone to violate the act so that violators can be placed behind the federal penitentiary bars.

It was during his defense of his labor record addressing himself to the union labor man that Mr. Mayfield was interrupted by C. C. McDonald, who told him to say how he stood on the open shop. Mr. Mayfield had just concluded telling of the various labor laws he had supported and some of which he had introduced. He said his labor record is 100 per cent.

Drawing down to the question of immigration Mr. Mayfield said he is in favor of prohibiting foreign immigration until every American soldier who fought over seas has a job.

Mr. Mayfield did not mention the ku klux klan, but in his conclusion he quoted from page 14 of the klan creed the things for which he stands, without, however, referring directly to the page or the creed.

WOMEN TO ORGANIZE

The women of the central Mayfield committee will organize a Mayfield club in the Sibley-Taylor addition Tuesday night at 8:30 o'clock. Charles I. Francis will make the organization address.

GERMANS----

The previous allied conferences, concerning Germany generally have ended with some show of a surface agreement between the policies of Great Britain and France.

The situation is considered all the more serious, viewing the continuous fall in the mark, and the fact that nithing whatever has been decided upon beyond a temporary suspension of the reparations payment due by Germany tomorrow. The whole question again is thrown into the hands of the reparations commission.

R. A. Thompson, chief engineer of the Wichita valley irrigation project, may not be able to attend the meeting in Waco, but other members of the advisory committee of engineers appointed by Governor Neff, will attend and confer with the leaders at Waco. Complete Plans To Move Coal

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Completion of arrangements with central coal distribution committees whereby more than half a million tons of coal will be moved to the northwest within the next fortnight was announced late today by Senators Kellogg of Minnesota and Lenroot of Wisconsin.

The senators, after a conference with C. E. Tuttle, in charge of the Lake division of the Central committee, said it had been arranged to send 50,000 tons of coal to Michigan peninsula ports and 100,000 tons to Lake Superior ports this week, and tomorrow arrangements would be made for the movement of 400,000 tons to the Superior and Michigan lake ports north of Chicago the following week.

Gilmore Seeks to Remedy Trouble

By Associated Press

AUSTIN, August 14.—Clarence E. Gilmore, member of the Texas railroad commission, tonight wired A. DeBernardi of Wichita, Kan., general manager of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway, for further details of lack of support of employes, growing out of the railroad strike. Telegrams stating that the Orient may be forced to cease operations if strikers attempt to tie-up trains, were received today by Governor Neff and the railroad commission.

Commissioner Gilmore stated tonight complete dtails of the difficulties encountered by the Orient have been requested and that action to prevent further intimidations by strikers and sympathizers in Texas may be taken. Governor Neff and Commissioner Gilmore conferred on the proposition this afternoon. The governor said he would take no action at present.

INCREASE IS YET EXPECTED

Second Producer Is Already In

Fifteen hundred barrels of oil was put in the tanks during Sunday, the first 24-hour run of the Texas company's N. 1 Jake Jones, in the Bunger pool, Young county.

The well is now drilling deeper, and an increase in production is expected, though the well is now the largest producer in Young county, passing the famous Ralco well on the Roark, which it offsets.

The Jake Jones well is in the 3,800 foot lime of which the Ralco was the discovery well. It is the second producer in this pay, the Gulf's Newby well, 500 feet to the east, being dry, though drilled below 4,000 feet.

The Ralco well is still producing at the rate of 1,000 barrels daily, having held up to the initial production most remarkably. This well has been one of the main factors in keeping Young county production steady during the period of slackened drilling, before the recent developments in the Herron pool made this district active.

Rio Bravo Field Extended Near Mile

The Rio Bravo field was extended three-eighths of a mile west Monday when John O'Neil brought in a 300-barrel well on the old No. 1 location in the hole that has been under the cable tools. The well first showed oil late Saturday night but not until Monday did it get under way when it was found to be making a good 300 barrels, according to oil men.

The bringing in of this well is an important event in the Rio Bravo field. It extends the field substantially to the west and means that other locations heretofore considered uncertain are now in proven territory. The well is on section 31.

Texhoma Drilling At 1300 in Archer

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Netherton, south part of the Texhoma pool, in Archer county, is drilling around 1,300 feet, according to Monday evening reports from the field. This well is east of the Texas company's producers on the Chance, and is in practically proven territory.

The No. 24 Gose has casing set in cement and it will be drilled in the first of next week. The No. 27 is drilling around 1,520 feet.

The No. 8 of the Texhoma and Perkins on the Coffman Yeats is drilling around 750 feet.

Laredo Well Is Flowing 750 Bbls.

Special to the Press Scan.

LAREDO, Texas, Aug. 14.— Carnahan No. 1, section 852 Schott field, that came in Saturday, making 500 barrels, has improved to the extent that operators say it is now making 750 barrels per day. This well is just 500 feet northeast of Kan-Oka No. 1, which came in recently a good gusher.

Several other wells in the Schott field are nearing the sand and will be brought in within a week, it is said. The Texas-Mexican Oil and Refining company, which will open its modern refinery here Sept. 1, has made several locations in Schott field and will sound in within two weeks on three of the locations.

Strikers Get Jail Sentences for Rail Interference

By Associated Press.

Fred Fagnani and Orin Rehkopf, two other defendants in the same case, were discharged. All four were had been accused of an assault on W. H. Hilliard, negro, an employe of the Texas and Pacific railroad.

Heath is scheduled to stand trial again tomorrow in another case, involving an alleged attack on R. A. Roden, a Texas and Pacific shop employe here.

W. B. Hamilton, president of the Texhoma Refining company, with his family and Arch Greenwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Greenwood, are caught in the Santa Fe tie-up at Ashfork, Ariz. Mr. Greenwood received a letter from Mr. Hamilton Monday in which he told of the train crew deserting. But they were fortunate in not being left in the desert as many others were. At Ashfork the Hamiltons and young Greenwood are with other tourists and have ample food and hotel facilities. They are spending their time there at the expense of the Santa Fe railroad. They have already taken in the Grand Canyon and Mr. Hamilton wrote that they are enjoying every minute of their delay at Ashfork.

3 TESTS DUE TO REACH PAY

Graham Looking to Big Completions

Three deep tests for the 3,800-foot lime are due to reach pay this week, according to reports from Graham. The Ralco Petroleum company's No. 2 Roark, the MacKenzie Oil company's No. 1 Greenwade survey, and the Brooks et al No. 1 Ribble are all reported near the level in which the Ralco discovery well and the Texas company's No. 1 Jake Jones are producing.

The completion of the Texas company well for a 1,500 barrel producer, from the top of the lime, has stimulated interest in this deep pay to a considerable extent.

NEW RATES SET TO AID ORIENT

I. C. C. Ends Probe Of Conditions

By B. N. TIMMONS
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 14. —The interstate commerce commission, after a thorough investigation today entered orders which it believes, will result in saving the Orient railroad, running through Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, from abandoning its line.

The commission said that the Orient was not asking for any ruling that would cause it to make a profit, but merely asking for a division of business which would allow it to continue in operation.

The decision today in many particulars was an agreed decision, other railroads having co-operated to find a way to save the Orient.

Rates Unjust

Consequently the commission found that the present division of joint rates, fares and charges on traffic interchanged between the Kansas Kansas City, Mexico and Orient line and its connections are unjust and unequitable to the Orient.

After September 15, the commission prescribes that roads connecting with the Orient shall not collect to exceed the following proportion on business interchanged with the Orient:

Abilene and Southern Railway company, 35 per cent.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway company, 75 per cent.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company, 80 per cent.

The Clinton and Oklahoma Western Railway company, 90 per cent.

Fort Worth and Denver City Railway company, 70 per cent.

The Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio Railway company, 75 per cent.

Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway company, 80 per cent.

Midland Valley Railroad company, 80 per cent.

Missouri Pacific Railroad company, 80 per cent.

St. Louis and San Francisco Railway company, 80 per cent.

The Texas and Pacific Railway company and J. L. Lancaster and Charles L. Wallace, receivers, 80 per cent.

The Wichita Falls and Northwestern Railway company, 75 per cent.

The commission also ordered that division of joint rates applicable to traffic as to which the Orient is an intermediate carrier, shall be based on relative proportions to the interchange traffic.

The commission also said that it was considering allowing the Orient to raise its rates on certain commodities, and that it also has under consideration a plan to make it a differential line.

One of the differentials planned is one cent a bushel on the Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas wheat crops, which the commission believes might bring a considerable volume of these crops, ordinarily shipped to the Texas Gulf ports, over the Orient line.

BIG JESS, THEN, AND NOW

By SOCKEM

Way back in the dim and distant past some wise cracker once chanced to remark, with more or less aplomb, that "the eyes are the mirrors of the soul."

Now, that may or may not be, but taking it "as is," out of respect to its late and lamented author, we would say off hand that one Willie Dempsey, alias, Jack, alias the Utah mauler, alias—aw what's the use—is going to have a very entertaining little party at fisticuffing if he happens to climb into the same ring with one Jess Willard again before the latter becomes so old that his seconds will have to carry him into the ring on a stretcher, reviving him at frequent intervals with the warlike glands of some of the ferocious oofus-goofus.

We don't know whether Jess ever heard of the celebrity of the past mentioned above, but we do know that the "mirrors" of Willard's soul have changed greatly since that memorable July afternoon when Dempsey hit him with everything but the sport writers' typewriters.

On that occasion the "mirrors" depicted a care-free, happy-go-lucky, overgrown, good-natured farmer boy who was battling solely because nature had endowed him with a wonderful physique and Tex Rickard had guaranteed him two or three mints and a couple to treasury vaults. The "mirror" failed to show any startling evidence of eagerness for the fray.

Jess may have learned to "register" in the movies or somewhere else, but be that as it may, those "mirrors" have been equipped with a new coating of silver or else the Kansan has had his heart remodeled.

For Jess' eyes are different now as he trains daily, diligently and doggedly near Los Angeles for the second crack he hopes to get at Dempsey.

Gone is the boyishness, the care-free look. In its place have come eyes that flash fire of determination and eagerness and, perhaps, the fierce fighting spirit and the fighter's heart so conspicuous by its absence in the Willard of yesterday.

Willard is getting old and he may not knock Dempsey for a row of cast iron doughnuts if he ever meet him again, but it will be safe to wager that Dempsey will know that hes' been in a fight when he gets through looking into Willard's new "mirrors" the next time.

Grid Boys May Be Garbed Okeh

If a movement started during a meeting of the Kiwanis club yesterday is carried out, the local high school football squad will probably enter the gridiron this season better clad than they have ever been heretofore.

The Kiwanians intimated yesterday that they favor turning their portion of the proceeds of the Kiwanis-Rotary baseball game over to the football players for uniforms and gridiron equipment, and it was also brought out that they will seek, through a committee appointed some time ago to make similar arrangements with the Rotarians for a like disposition of that organization's quota of the proceeds derived from the game.

Strike News Told Briefly

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, August 14.—A demand that the chiefs of the "big four" brotherhoods take steps immediately to end what he denounced as the lawless and inhuman violation of their contracts by the train service crews of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway, was made tonight by A. G. Wells, vice president of the road.

In telegrams addressed to Warren S. Stone, head of the engineers; D. B. Robertson of the firemen, W. G. Lee of the trainmen, and L. E. Sheppard of the conductors, he said that if they could not get their men back to work or fill their places "the only alternative left the company in its duty to the public was to engage the services of men to fill the places of those on strike."

THE MARCH OF PROGRESS

WIRELESS transmission of power will be the next astounding and revolutionary development of science. This is the promise of Nikola Tesla, the most famous electrical engineer and inventor of the world today. Tesla says this development will be carried into reality within two or three years. Very soon such power will be available everywhere for purposes of peace as well as war.

Tesla says we shall heat and light homes and operate our factories by means of power generated from falling water and cheap fuel directly at the source of supply and flashed to us through space. Airplanes and trains and ships will carry no fuel, but will run by the transmitted energy. Tesla sees in hydroelectric development, the greatest possibilities but not to the elimination of coal and oil. We shall have to depend first of all on the energy of fuel and next on that of falling water. He predicts that no development of this kind will be as important to the world and conducive to peaceful progress of humanity as wireless transmission of power. He says that light bulbs will last forever, being merely exhausted hollow tubes; that with wireless power no one, explorers or travelers or campers, need be cut off from civilization and its comforts. No matter how distant or inaccessible it will be possible to heat and light a household by merely setting up a simple apparatus contained in a small box which can readily be carried about. Nikola Tesla declares that he has perfected this system in all its details and can transmit power to any terrestial distance, say 12,000 miles, with a loss not exceeding 5 per cent. Tesla invented the induction motor, the wireless transmitter, the turbine and his alternating system is in use all over the world.

He is an alien. He came to these shores many years ago. He is 65 and he works as long in his laboratory as Thomas A. Edison. Henry Ford made the announcement a year ago that the water power permitted to go to waste in the states east of he Mississippi river would furnish heat and light and power for the American people. Now Nikola Tesla says that in the near future that we shall heat and light homes and operate our factories by means of power generated from falling water and cheap fuel directly at the source of supply and flashed to us through space.

There will be no shortage of coal cars when the Tesla system is operative. Power will be generated from falling water and cheap fuel directly at the source of supply and the source of supply will be at the mouth of the coal mine. Water power is to be the power of the future. There are men in Texas who are not asleep. There are many Texas rivers which may be dammed and the falling water, flood or otherwise, stored for the needs of the people. Texans are reminded that there will be many bills introduced in the legislature this winter by those who know the value of harnessing the rivers of the commonwealth and who hope to get in on the ground floor.

STRANGE BEDFELLOWS

SENATOR HI JOHNSON of California will know his fate Tuesday, August 29. If Senator Hi should be ditched then California will not run true to form. Voters of the Golden State are fowl one year and fish the next. After 10 years of radicalism they sent Hi Johnson to the senate. Four years later they sent Samuel Shortridge to the senate. Shortridge is a corporation lawyer, a reactionary to the fingertips and the jurist who declared constitutional the Dyer anti-lynching bill. Hi and Sam are as far apart as the poles. Hi eats mammon alive. Samuel goes to sleep at mammon's footstool. And they are members of the same political party and eat out of the same presidential hand.

Democrats of Utah have renominated Senator W. H. King. In November King will have as his republican opponent Ernest Bamberger, a mining engineer. Of course, the Mormon vote controls. King is not a Mormon; Bamberger is not a Mormon. Reed Smoot is a Mormon and a republican. All the saints vote for Reed. All the saints do not vote for a candidate of the democratic party. They are peculiar. When the spirit moveth they follow the donkey; when they have have a grouch they follow the elephant and most of the time they have a grouch.

COAL PEACE IN SIGHT

PEACE is said to be in sight in the coal fields of America. All the coal reserves have melted away. There is no carry-over supply. There promises to be rich pickings this winter for the operators. There promises to be fat wages for the miners.

Should peace come tomorrow, and the mines and the miners resume work, it will be next to impossible to produce sufficient coal to meet the demands of the American consumer for months and months to come.

Mine owners and miners have been quarreling for months. They have been ugly for months. Soldiers in many states have been called in to guard the property of the coal barons. Their small army of private gunmen have been busy at high salaries. They have interrupted the daily flow of commerce. They have paralyzed industry. They have beaten back the tide of prosperity.

Now the leaders of the contending factions know that they must get together and this, too, without delay. They know that public opinion will force President Harding to place before congress for approval, the government plan of seizure of certain railroads and coal mines.

President Harding has the authority to take over the railroads or the mines when he believes conditions would warrant such action. But Harding isn't a Woodrow Wilson or a Theodore Roosevelt. He insists that congress should be back of any emergency measures that he may find necessary to protect the public interests.

But back to the coal barons and their men. They are going to make terms. They are going to resume work. They are going to get fancy prices for their coal and the people of America who are the fuel consumers are going to pay the entire cost of the great strike. Now why shouldn't the government create a commission to investigate the mining industry and make reports upon which future wage agreements will be used? Why shouldn't there be legislation to provide for efficient operation of the utilities? Why shouldn't there be legislation to prevent mining strikes in future? Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho, if possible, should force the passage of his bill. It goes without saying that the ultimate consumer always pays and the ultimate consumer is the American people. He should come out of his trance and go on political strike for his rights.

THE OPEN PORT LAW

FORMER GOV. WILLIAM P. HOBBY is responsible for the open port law. He did not draft the law. This was done by distinguished citizens of Texas who demanded that the Galveston strike of stevedores should be broken and that the ships of commerce should come and go without interference. This measure was submitted to the legislature by the former governor and it was put over by the lawmakers.

Many of its champions declared that it was not aimed at the labor organizations of Texas or intended to be a legal strikebreaker. The writer warned the leaders of organized labor that should the measure be enacted and signed by the governor it would become the most merciless strikebreaker that any American state has ever known.

It is ancient history now but the prophecy made at the time has come true. From Amarillo to Gainesville and from Gainesville to Waco and all down the line, the open port law is working magnificently as the monumental strikebreaker of the age. Ships of commerce come to the ports of Texas and the longshoremen and the stevedores take what they are offered. Should they go on strike for wage demands or shorter hours, national guardsmen or rangers are the agencies who effect the settlements.

Kansas has its industrial court law and its workings should be a thousand times preferable to wage workers than the open port legal strikebreaker of this commonwealth. This Kansas tribunal gives a hearing to both sides. Its judges gather the evidence and after a hearing a decree is entered and the employer and the employe must abide by the decision. This is another warning to organized labor and the wage workers of Texas: "The ballot is the thing."

Deacon John D. Rockefeller has given $60,000 to Princeton for a library on industrial relations. And Woodrow Wilson is a former president of Princeton.

Rippling Rhymes

NO PEDIGREE

While chugging down a country track, I killed a farmer's razorback, an ancient and a battered swine with long jug nose and humped up spine. The farmer, sitting 'neath a tree, beheld the grim catastrophe. "Fair husbandman," I cried, "alack, I own I've killed your razorback; and I'm prepared to hear you tell how that it's pedigree is swell; I shall not doubt you if you swear it took the premium at the fair; I'm willing to believe this hog is named in royal catalogue and that its sire was called the best of all the bench shows, east and west. But still I ask you, man to man, to treat me softly as you can, for I am poor and have no roll to pay a great, oppressive toll." "I'm glad the measly beast is dead," with smiling face the farmer said; "now that he's dead I'll have some peace; he killed my chickens and my geese; come to the house and have a swig of cider, since you've croaked that pig." I shed no blushes when I say I slumped right down and swooned away. Man learns to meet Fate's fiercest stunt with lofty and undaunted front, but when he's all wound up to face the foulest swat that Fate can place, and gets instead a large bouquet, it is Too Much—he faints away.

Raz Barlow says next time he has an enlarged photo made he is going to save the expense of a picture frame by having it taken with his head stuck through the window.

Raz Barlow says if he could of got two inches closer he could of heard what two women were talking about, yesterday.

The Once Over

THE WORKING FORCE ON A MONDAY

SAPHRONIA, Mister Fish's stenographer, is asleep in her chair with her mouth open wider than an Atlantic City speak-easy. She will come out of her trance in time for lunch, but suffer a relapse immediately after. Saphronia spent the week-end in the mountains. She feels as if the mountains had rolled over her. She went up by machine with the Swarts, met a Harvard boy at the hotel, and danced her bobbed head off.

"What's the sense making the help come to the office on Monday?" demanded Saphronia. "Nobody's in shape to do anything but mull around like an ectoplasm."

She would be rebuked by Mister Fish for sleeping, but the truth is, Mr. Fish spent the week-end at the Highland Fling Country club fling and is asleep in one of the vaults.

Citronella, Mister Muggin's stenographer, is putting in the day rubbing olive oil on her face and arms. She spent an eight-hour day on the beach Sunday. Under a quick glance she looks like the Chicago fire. She seems about to go "bam-n" and scatter sparks at any moment.

Citronella could wear two Pyrene extinguishers as earrings and seem appropriately bedecked. If the boss asks her to put "Dictated but not red" on any of her letters this week she'll murder him. Presently Mr. Muggins will come in and ask her to take a letter.

"Oh, I can't take a letter today, Mr. Muggins," she will say.

"Why not?" Mr. Muggins will ask. Muggins thinks everybody on the payroll should do something on Monday.

"Oh, I'm too sunburned!" Citronella will explain. "Look, I'm all covered with oil!"

"When do you think you will be in shape to take a letter?" Mr. Muggins will ask. One has to handle the help—particularly the oiled help—with gloves.

"Aw, cancher wait till autumn or early winter?" she will plead. As a matter of fact Muggins spent a strenuous week-end, what with house parties and gin and one thing and another, and he is not any too anxious to press a point of work.

Magnolia, Mister Dumdum's stenographer, is sitting with her feet on the windowsill. Magnolia has a bad case of sunburn, too. She has begun to peel. She looks like the little page of a treatise on Scarlet Fever. She spent Saturday and Sunday canoeing and swimming and lying around the beach. Mr. Dumdum would like some correspondence attended to, but Magnolia is practically useless while peeling. She peels throughout August. Mr. Dumdum hates to sit near her while she peels. It gets on his coat.

He pretends to be very indignant at Magnolia's indisposition, but he is just in from a week-end motor trip during which he spent eight hours in line waiting for his turn to board a ferry, and he is none too anxious to work. Inwardly he says "Let 'er peel!"

George Grudd, the chief clerk, is going through the business of looking over a mass of correspondence, but he is thinking of the wonderful girl he sat with on the hotel porch until nearly sunrise. He's awfully tired. Monday's a rotten day to work. Tomorrow he must ask for a raise.

In his big mahogany-equipped office marked "private" Mister Desbroughs, boss of the whole works, is asleep on his desk. He has made a pillow out of a brief case. The door is locked. Mr. Desbroughs put in Saturday and Sunday in the golf tournament. Let the staff attend to hitings today. Monday's a light day anyhow.

"Weighed and Found Wanting" Movie Actrees Seeking Divorce

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.— Priscilla Bonner, petite movie actress, never objected to fadeouts on the screen, but she did draw the line when it came to fading away in real life.

To make it snappy—Priscilla played a leading, if tiny, role in a divorce court here. Divorces among the movie heroes and heroines are the rule rather than the exception, but Priscilla is an exception in that she is original, to say the least.

Some eighteen karet intellect once decided that it takes something besides love to keep the well advertised wolf from wearing out the welcome on the front door mat.

And now Priscilla has decided that it takes more than love to keep sufficient avoirdupois on her slim frame to make her a success in the movies.

She complained to Judge Summerfield that married life with Allen Wynes Alexander, scenario writer, made her so slim that she has been weighed in the balance and found wanting by producing directors.

Coming down to cold figures, she charges that her weight, always a tender topic with women, has dropped from one hundred and five to eighty-two and since climbed to ninety-two. But still directors refuse to place her.

Marriage really is supposed to broaden one, but Priscilla claims that it just made her narrower and narrower—and right where it showed most.

"Please, judge, won't you help me?" she pleaded, after reciting the tale of her twenty-three pound fadeout.

The judge hemmed—and hawed—and fuubled with his glasses—and polished them as he tried to decide what a just and upright judge ought to do in a case of this kind.

"I dropped down to eighty-two when my husband left me," she hastened to explain. "I only weigh ninety-two now. I don't know what to do. Boo-hoo-hoo."

Then her attorney came to the judge's rescue.

A divorce and alimony—large gobs of the latter—would remedy the situation, he opined.

Then he went on to charge that Wynes was turning over his incoming cash to Gladys Walton, also recently divorced, so that he could get out of paying alimony to Miss Bonner.

But just as the court was about to decide just how to increase Priscilla's weight she surprised friends with an announcement that she had withdrawn her divorce action and rumor has it that Alexander capitulated. Also that she will no longer find it necessary to undergo forced dieting.

Bebe Daniels Likes Home Life and Sticks Close by With Her Mother

Bebe Daniels, the Paramount picture star, has a line of Spanish ancesters, one of those rambling white bungalows, with tile roofs and a courtyard in the middle, that they call "haciendas" over in the land of olives and bullfights, and a love for Oriental furnishings, but don't get the idea from all this that you are expected to play a guitar beneath her balcony window on a moonlight evening.

Bebe doesn't sit around the house in mantillas and fan herself. Not at all, NOT AT ALL!

When you ring the front door bell of the Daniels bungalow, no imposing figure in gold lace and knee breeches responds solemnly. On the contrary, it's quite likely that an attractive little woman in gingham apron will usher you in and ask you to be seated while she dashes back into the kitchen and pulls a cake out of the oven. That little woman with black hair like Bebe's and the same large black eyes is her mother.

That is what happened to the interviewer who gathered these few impressions. Before he had had an opportunity to gaze at the soft colorings of the Oriental rugs and the varied examples of richly carved furniture and the plainer pieces which were quite evidently family heirlooms of great age, Bebe herself breezed in.

Breezed is the only way to describe the way she entered. She is an athlete you know. Back in the slapstick comedy days when the bathing girls had to bathe and dive and fall off piers and trolley cars and things Bebe used to be quite active. She acquired her full shares of the bumps and bruises that went with the earlier type of moving picture acting and she hasn't settled down to a life of knitting needles and rocking chairs yet.

"Come out and meet grandmother," she suggested.

We did. On a cool porch partly hidden from the attractive lawn by climbing vines there was a white-capped old lady not much larger than Bebe who responded with surprisingly energetic cordiality to Bebe's introduction. Soon mother returned from the kitchen without the apron.

"Now the whole family is here," the charming young hostess announced.

Tea and cakes and things were served and there followed a walk through the beautifully kept grounds. She knew all the plants and various kinds of shrubbery. In fact, she contake care of them because she likes to "dig." It is one of her hobbies when she can't get out to her country place.

"I love to get out into the open," she cried. "I like animals, too. Just now I have two dogs, a collie and a bull-dog. Horses, too, I am very fond of. I have ridden almost since I can remember. We have a country place of twenty-five acres near Glendale, California, and I like nothing better than to spend a week-end there.

"Oh, yes. I like some sports, such as polo and swimming. I don't care much for golf or tennis. For indoor sports' I like dancing best."

Miss Daniels is very much interested in her home. She has a passion for collecting Oriental things. It is shared by her mother. Some of her furniture was given to her by her grandmother, who is a daughter of a former president of Colombia. It is from her grandmother that she inherest her vivacious Spanish type of beauty. Her grandfather was a Mr. Griffin, a Connecticut Yankee, who was consul general of Buenos Aires at the time he met her grandmother.

Miss Daniels is scheduled for leading roles in three forthcoming Paramount pictures, "Nice People," a William de Mille production, "Pink Gods," and "Notoriety."

MOVIE STUFF

Barbara LaMarr and Lydia Knott have been engaged to play character roles in the Fox production of "St. Elmo," now being made in California with John Gilbert as the star. Warner Baxter is to play the heavy role.

George Scarborough, who has many stage successes to his credit, has written a story for Charles Jones, the Fox star. It is western, and this is the first time the playwright has turned his hand to virile outdoor stories.

Herbert Brenon is cutting "Moonshine Valley," the new William Farnum picture, which is to be an August release. At the same time he is casting for Mary Carr's new picture "Penzie," an adaptation of "The Custard Cup," in which a number of street scenes in New York's east side will be filmed.

Holmes Herbert, who plays the heavy with William Farnum in "Moonshine Valley," came to America in a sailing vessel that took five weeks to cross. Two years later he returned to England in the best suite aboard one of the fast liners. Mr. Herbert comes from a theartical family that has been identified with the stage for 50 years.

Dawn O'Day, who is playing with William Farnum, is a generous child. Someone asked her if she was going to buy an automobile now that she was making so much money. The young lady promptly replied that she had no such intention; that she intended to purchase a Fifth Avenue bus so that all of her friends could ride with her. Dawn is three years old.

The staccato crack of a gun that echoes from back of the William Fox lot in Los Angeles comes from a rifle in the hands of William Russell. The Fox star is about completing a picture, and intends to take a vacation up in the Rocky mountains on a bear hunt. He will be gone about two weeks.

GARBAGE COLLECTORS THREATEN STRIKE

(By International News Service.)

DETROIT, Aug. 13.—Health and sanitation of this city is threatened by a strike of practically the entire force of the city's garbage collectors and drivers. Two hundred and fifty-four of the 260 men on the job are out protesting against a recent cut in their wages from $5.50 a day to $5. The garbage collectors of the city recently organized and affiliated themselves with the American Federation of Labor.

Colorful Trimming Distinguishes This Sample Frock

Either satin or crepe might be used for the smart afternoon or "bridge" frock shown in the sketch. Many satin back crepes are being used, one side of the material being used to fashion the frock, the other to trim it.

This dress has a plain foundation skirt topped by several flying panels that are shirred at the top so that they fall in organ or round plicat. The waist, of the modified basque type, may be in one with the dress or it may be made of separate if preferred. It is a slipover, fastening on one shoulder, slightly draped at the waist line and caught with little ties of self fabric at either side. The trimming is shoe polish ribbon in a color contrasting with the frock, together with silk and metal embroidery. The back of the waist is untrimmed except for the ribbon band at the bottom, which extends all around.

In developing frocks for every new season designers offer great style variety which later simmers down so that one general silhouette predominates with minor points such as trimming, fabric combination, neck line or sleeves breaking the monotony.

Flying panels, uneven hem line and the "boat" shaped neck are three features that have held good for several seasons and they all promise to retain favor during the coming fall and winter.

Various drapings give the long panels interesting varieties. The ripple drape is often used, and some smart frocks feature a straight panel at one side and ripple panel at the other.

The three-piece costume—that is, dress with coat or jacket—promises to be in high favor for fall. More dressy lines appear in these costumes than usual. The usual fabric combinations appear—lower part of dress and coat matching with upper part of dress in contrasting color and fabric—and some of the more striking outfits show coats made of contrasting material, one smart model having dress of canton crepe with semi-fitted jacket of matelasse trimmed in monkey fur.

GUARDIAN NAMED FOR AKRON DRUNK

(By International News Service.)

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 13.—A vivid reminder of pre-Volsteadian days was noted in probate court here a few days ago, when Judge L. D. Slusser appointed a guardian for a drunkard for the purpose of preventing him from squandering an inheritance aggregating several thousand dollars.

It was stated that the inebriated heir became acquainted with a bootlegger who learned of the inheritance.

Although from now on the bootlegger will have to deal with the guardian, probate court officials voiced the opinion that the chances for the illicit liquor vender meeting with success are very slim."

Little Stories For Bedtime

REDDY FOX HAS A BAD DREAM.

It was a long time since Reddy Fox had been near Farmer Brown's henyard. Very wisely he had been content to hunt for his living on the Green Meadows and in the Green Forest. So it was also a long time since he had heard the voice of Bowser the Hound on his trail. Once in a while he would hear Bowser barking far away in Farmer Brown's dooryard, but otherwise he would hardly know that Bowser was still alive. Reddy had had good living all summer, and now he was fat and lazy. He was in no condition for a hard run and he had no desire for one.

This particular morning Reddy was very sleepy. He had been out all night, his stomach was full, the rays of jolly, round, red Mr. Sun were warm and comforting, and he could think of nothing so good as a nap on his special sunning bank. So he curled up there and without a single uneasy thought he dropped off to sleep. After a little he began to dream. At first it was a very pleasant dream. An endless procession of mice and chickens and ducks and grouse were marching before him, and they were all for him to the very last one. All he had to do was to help himself. He was trying to decide whether he would begin his dinner with a fat mouse and follow this with a plump chicken, or begin with a chicken and top off with a mouse, when he heard a faint sound and stopped to listen while the ducks and the chickens and the mice and the grouse continued to march past.

All this was a dream, you know, and to Reddy a very pleasant dream, until that faint sound began to grow louder and louder. And, as the sound grew louder, the chickens and ducks and the mice and the grouse seemed to fade away. At last not one was left, and his ears rang with a great roaring, which filled him with a great fear. His beautiful dream was becoming a bad one. He wanted to run away, but somehow he couldn't. All the time that terrible roaring came nearer and nearer. He gave a frightened little yelp, and then—why, then, his eyes flew wide open! He was right on his private sunning bank. The rays of jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun were pouring down on him, the blue, blue sky was over him, and all was as it should be, except one thing—that dreadful roaring seemed to have come out of his dream with him.

For just a minute Reddy Fox couldn't understand it. Then suddenly he recognized the voice of Bowser the Hound, and he knew that it was no dream. Bowser was on his trail and very, very near. Springing to his feet Reddy glanced hastily behind him. Sure enough there was Bowser and he saw Reddy. He sprang forward and his voice seemed to grow twice as loud. Reddy didn't wait. He started for the Green Forest as fast as he could run. And as he ran he muttered to himself:

"I wonder how he came to find my track. It must be that Farmer Brown's boy is out hunting again with that dreadful gun. I must watch out for him. Oh, dear, I'm too fat to run well. I've got to throw that dog off my track somehow. It isn't fair to hunt me when I haven't been near that old chickenyard. Some things are dreadfully unjust in this world. Farmer Brown's boy ought to keep the bothersome dog chained up when I keep away from the ducks and chickens. It isn't fair. No, sir, it isn't fair. My goodness, how short of breath I am getting! I certainly am in no condition for a long run."

And all the time Old Man Coyote was trotting to his home in the far corner of the Green Meadows with a wicked grin on his face, as he listened to the voice of Browser the Hound as Reddy ran for his life. You see, Bowser had found the tracks of Old Man Coyote that morning and started to follow them. Old Man Coyote, knowing just where Reddy Fox was, had led Bowser straight there, and when Bowser had seen Reddy he had straightway forgotten all about Old Man Coyote. And that was just as Old Man Coyote had planned. No wonder that he chuckled as he trotted off home.

BIRDS GET FAT ON GOLF COURSES

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—A golf course in many respects makes an ideal community bird refuge and golfers, says the department of agriculture, should co-operate in the preservation, encouragement and increase of useful birds.

The broad expanses of short grass on the fairways, officials point out, furnish excellent feeding grounds for robins, meadowlarks, starling, flickers and killdeers. In rougher spots there is an abundant insect population for bird food. Most golf courses have water hazards at which birds can drink and bathe and many are protected to a large extent from trespass and are relatively free from natural enemies to birds.

Thus, officials assert, birds are afforded ample protection, food and water. But nesting sites may be lacking and must be supplied by artificial nest boxes or trees and shrubbery along the sides of the course.

Cretonnes, printed voiles and crepes and other flowered materials seem to be the most attractive when made up in some such quaint style as this. In the sturdier materials such a style makes a delightful garden frock and in the dainter materials it is attractive for the afternoon party or informal dance.

Crisp white organdy is organdy is introduced in panel effect in this beflowered cretonne. The cretonne is used to make a full gathered skirt and a snug-fitting bodice with short sleeves. A huge collar of organdy, old cuffs both edged with corded scallops completes the blouse. Ribbon bows are just the right trimming touch for a frilly frock such as this.

COURT TELLS GIRL TO SEEK BETTER FRIENDS

A man and a girl were locked behind steel doors in the city prison yesterday morning after each had been fined $200 and $10 respectively on charges of vagrancy.

The man testified during his hearing that the girl is his stepchild.

Officers informed the court that the pair were found in a local hostelry in the same room early Monday morning, the girl admitting that she had gone to her stepfather's room "because I was frightened."

Judge Marrs reprimanded the girl, and told her she should find better company to associate with.

FIGHTING NECESSARY SOMETIMES---MARRS

After it had been revealed that a defendant charged with fighting was on his own property, and that the battle was forced upon him, Judge John P. Marrs, dismissed the defendant in corporate court yesterday morning and remarked that "sometimes a man just has to fight in self defense."

The fight appears to have been brought up by a third party, a woman, who, together with the principal character in the difficulty, has been summoned to appear in corporate court this morning.

FORT WORTH PLANT ATTEMPTS TO REOPEN

By Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 14.—Taxicabs and private automobiles were used this morning by the G. R. Miller Manufacturing company, garment makers, in transporting prospective employes through lines of strike pickets in an eandeavor to reopen the plant on an open shop basis. The plant had been closed down four weeks because of the strike. Some of the taxi drivers were persuaded to turn back; some of the strike breakers likewise were induced by pickets, all of whom were women, not to enter the plant. However, the company officials announced at 10 a. m. that enough workers had come through the lines to start the plant. The garment workers struck four weeks ago, alleging violation of an agreement not to buy from non-union dealers in raw materials.

ELECTRA WILL BE KEPT CLEAN

City Takes Over Big Hauling Job

ELECTRA, Aug. 14. — The problem of collecting and disposing of the garbage of Electra will be handled in the future by the city. An order to this effect was passed by the commissioners Thursday night.

Heretofore the trash of the city has been hauled by individauls on contract with the citizens. This method has resulted in a lack of co-ordination in the work and a number of the citizens have requested that there be more system to this phase of the city's sanitation.

The plan of the commissioners is that the city will be responsible for the disposal of the trash and the assessment for this service will be collected much the same as water dues are collected at this time.

Benedict of the College of Arts and Sciences. The Electra girl was included in the ten per cent of the student body making the highest average. She was a freshman last year.

IMPROVING CEMETERY

ELECTRA, Aug. 14. — Having completed an iron fence along the front side of the Electra cemetery, the next task of the local post of the American Legion will be to erect a decent fence on the other three sides, the officers announce. The ex-service men have spent more than $500 in improving and beautifying the cemetery.

FINED AS SIGHT-SEERS

It's just as bad, if not a little worse, to "sweat" a gaming game of any kind, so Judge John P. Marrs told three negroes in corporate court yesterday morning.

The negroes, three of a total of seven arrested by city and county officers Sunday during the midst of a poker game in "session" in an alley way off of Indiana, denied that they were implicated in the game, but admitted having watched it.

The three negroes turned over to the city were fined $10 each by the magistrate. The other four were turned over to county authorities, and will be given speedy trials.

CHARGE IS CHANGED

After a negro had been reprimanded by Judge John Marrs in corporate court yesterday morning, a negress appeared before the bar and denied that she had been drinking with the negro, but admitted that she had struck him several blows, while they were moving down Indiana street.

Judge Marrs then changed the charge from intoxication to fighting, fining the defendant $5.

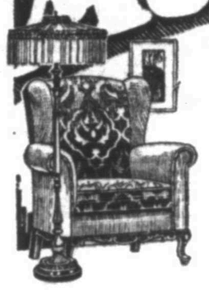

LIQUOR DESTROYED

City officers conducted a raid on a place locatedl on North Fourth street late Saturday, it became known yesterday, capturing a quantity of liquor, some of which was destroyed and some of which was carried to the station to be held as evidence.

Although the officers have returned to the place several times with a federal warrant calling for the arrest of persons at whose home the whisky was found, no arrests have been made.

Seven Runs in Ninth Win Despite Pop Bottle Shower

GALLOWAY'S HOMERS GIVE DALLAS LONG LEAD, BUT SPUDS COME FROM BEHIND

Swartz, Davenport and Conley All Battered In Final Round; Dallas Fans Show Real Sportsmanship When Miller Bombarded With Missiles; Mokan Hit Opportunely

Special to The Record News.

DALLAS, Aug. 14.—Enraged Dallas fans showered Jake Miller with pop bottles as the right fielder took his position in the sixth inning of today's game. Despite the handicap of being booed from the stands, the Spudders staged a ninth inning rally for seven runs and copped the single game scheduled here, 8-7.

Swartz weakened in the last round and gave way to Davenport, who could not hold the visitors. Davenport in turn gave away to Conley, who retired the side after two runs had been scored off his delivery, enough to see the Spudders go out in front.

Jim Galloway accounted for five of the Dallas runs with a pair of homers over the right field wall, the first coming with one runner aboard and the second saw two uniforms cross the plate ahead of the Dallas pilot. Except for Galloway, Mokan hurled a creditable game and gave up but eight hits in as many innings.

The Spudders started the scoring when they shoved a runner over in the third. Mokan went out, but Bescher singled to left and went to second when Tanner grounded out to Massey, Adams poked a single to right and Bescher counted.

In the final half of the sixth, Dallast stepped out into the lead when Massey's free trip to first, Mokan's first pass, was followed by a mighty wallop by the Dallas skipper which cleared the right field wall.

Dallas Takes Big Lead

The eighth saw the peacocks count five more markers and the crowd began to drift out of the stands as it closed. Massey again led off with a walk and DeMaggio poked a single to right, taking second when Miller played the ball to third in an attempt to catch Massey. Galloway again poled one out of the lot for three more runs. Donohue was out, White to Beck, but Segrist walked. Lovelace doubled to left, scoring Segrist and went to third when Mokan fumbled Wheat's grounded and then threw wild to first. Swartz filed to Summa and Lovelace scored, counting the fifth run.

Then the Ball Game

The Spudders faced a six run lead as they came up in the ninth. Jake Miller was the first hitter, but he filed out to left. Then the rally. Beck led off with a single to right and Ruth went in to run for him. White walked and Bischoff beat out an infield hit, filling the bases. Flaherty went into bat for Mokan and stopped a fast one with his ribs, forcing Ruth across the plate. Bescher walked, forcing White. This was the cue for Swartz, and he turned the pleasant task of stopping the Spudders to his lengthy friend Davenport. Davenport pitched to but two hitters. His first offering was a wild pitch past Tanner and Bischoff counted the third tally. Three more wide ones and Tanner walked, filling the bags again. Adams beat out a slow infield hit to Massey and Flaherty counted. Conley took the mound with the bases filled and the Spudders still two runs behind. Summa promptly singled to center and Bescher and Tanner counted. Adams going to third. Miller doubled to right center and Adams counted, but Summa was held at third. Ruth hit to Segrist, but Summa was caught at the plate and White ended the Dallas agony when he filed out to left.

Ruth went in to pitch for Mokan and retired the side in order. Massey was out. Tanner to Kitchen. DeMaggio grounded to Adams and was out at first. Galloway sent a short foul to right which White took for the greatest play of the day.

The Spudders lost an opportunity to score in the second, when with one out, Miller singled to right but was out trying to stretch it into a double. Beck was hit by a pitched ball and White moved him up with a single to left, but Bischoff fanned.

The game today was scheduled to break the jump from Wichita Falls for both teams. The Spudders open in San Antonio tomorrow, while Galloway takes the Dallas team to Galveston for a three-day stay.

After having been reported sent to his home to recuperate from injuries received in the Saturday game at Wichita Falls, Conley appeared in uniform and was used as the losing pitcher in today's game.

ONE ACCIDENT VICTIM DEAD

Driver of Car Not Out Of Danger

As the result of injuries he received in an automobile wreck Sunday night at a late hour, T. L. Smith, tailor, died early yesterday morning at the Jones-Lee-Kiel hospital.

E. Blatchley, clerk at the Kemp hotel, was still in danger, but was reported doing as nicely as could be expected. Two women and a third man who were victims of the accident were reported as showing signs of rapid recovery, the man, E. V. Hill, also an employe of the Kemp, having been released from the hospital Monday morning.

Mrs. Blatchley and Mrs. Nora Watkins, the two women, were still confined to the hospital, it being reported that Mrs. Watkins is probably the most resiously injured of these two.

Smith lived several hours after the fatal wreck, although he was in a semi-conscious state when he was carried to the sanitarium. Physicians at his bedside Monday morning prior to his death were unable to determine the extent of his injuries other than that his lungs were crushed and that his back had been torn loose from internal organs, it being predicted at that time that he would not "live 'till daybreak."

The accident occurred when Blatchley approached the M. K. & T railroad crossing on the Electra highway, his car jumping a small ravine near the roadside on the right approaching Wichita Falls, and turning two complete somersaults, and landing upright on the Katy main line.

The car, according to an eye-witness, swerved off the highway almost 40 feet before it had reached the crossing, taking an angling direction into the trackage, turning over as it went.

The five occupants of the vehicle were hurled from the machine into the ditch at the side of the tracks, some of them being thrown against a telegraph pole along the right of way.

City police, aided by civilians, rushed the injured direct to the hospital, where they received medical attention, and where Smith, died later.

The automobile was completely demolished.

VETERANS LAUGHING AT OLD MAN TIME

By NORMAN E. BROWN

The current big league baseball season has produced more brilliant youngsters in every department of the game than any season in recent years. So great has been the influx of classy rookies that their deeds have hogged the sporting pags most of the time since the bell rang last April.

But, while these lads have been demanding attention in the public prints and basking in the limelight, a select coteries of tried and true old veterans are stepping along unassumingly at the same brilliant pace they've held for years. Their work has become commonplace to the fans and therefore draws not the comment of th emultitude.

Many of these vetrans have shone over a span of years longer than the allotted number allowed big league stars.

Consider these four American league vets—Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Eddie Collins and Walter Johnson. They are not all. Steve O'Neil, Ray Schalk, Larry Gardner are others.

But these four in particular have struck the dizzy pace that tires muscles and stiffens bones for long spans and are still going good.

Ty Cobb is the oldest player in the league in point of service. For years he led the American league in batting. He has led his league in every department of the game an outfielder can be listed under for scores of times. And today, despite managerial worries, he is among the batting leaders and playing a brilliant game afield and on the bases.

Walter Johnson, called through four years ago, has pitched shutout ball several times this year. He's 35. He flung the first ball over a big league rubber 15 long years ago.

Tris Speaker made his debut in the big ring in 1908. It was he who interrupted Cobb's reign as batting leader by copping that honor in 1916. That was eight years after Tris started. Now, six years later, he is again bidding for batting honors and leading the attack of his team, which has been hitting such a thrilling pace.

Eddie Collins, the kingpin in the White Sox machine and still the greatest second sacker in the game, will be the oldest man in point of service in the league if he is still answering roll call when Cobb retires. For 16 years Collins has sparkled in the big show. Cobb has been in 17 years.

Look over the National league. Jake Daubert, Zack Wheat. George Burns, Max Carey—just part of the list.

This may be the year for the youngsters. But some of the old boys will still be stepping around when the October days come.

AUSTRALIA IN FINAL ROUNDS

Net Stars Eliminate Frenchman

By Associated Press.

LONGWOOD CRICKET CLUB, August 14.—Australia advanced to the final round of the Davis cup preliminary competition today over the tennis team of France. Pat O'Hara Wood, Doughty little player from the "land down under," struggling against an aching shoulder and one-set advantage gained by the giant Frenchman Andre Gobert, who was favored to win, scored the deciding point for his team by winning 2-6, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4. Gerald L. Patterson, Australia's captain, in a post-climax match with young Henri Cochet, won another set victory, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2. As a result of the tournament, the totals are: Australia, four matches won; France 1.

Australia now goes into the final round with Spain, beginning at Philadelphia on Thursday, victors over the fighting Frenchmen, but a somewhat uncertain factor as a result of injuries. James O. Anderson, second only to Patterson, who took no part in the play which ended today, is still a sick man. O'Hara Wood's shoulder is shot with neuritis and Patterson's weak ankle ailed him noticeably this afternoon.

BARNES OUT OF PRO TOURNEY

OAKMOUNT, COUNTRY CLUB, PITTSBURGH, Pa., August 14.—Johnny Farrell, 22 years old, professional at the Quaker Ridge Golf club, of Mamaroneck, New York, eliminated the veteran campaigner Jim Barnes, from the national professional golf tournament here this afternoon. The youngster, steadier and more accurate than the star from Pelham Manor, N. Y., was one up at the end of the 18 holes.

Farrell and Barnes beat par for the course by a stroke, each making the round in 73. On the last green Barnes overshot while Farrell pitched his ball within two feet from the pin and halved the hole.

Gene Sarazen of Pittsburgh, national open champion, and Jock Hutchison of Chicago were among the 16 survivors who will participate in the double round of 36 holes match play tomorrow.

Farrell will meet Tom Kerrigan of Siwanoy, N. Y. Sarazen is paired with F. T. Sprogell of Memphis and Hutchison with Harry Hampton of Detroit. The other pairings follow: F. S. Gallett of Hempsted, L. I. vs Bob Cruikshank, Westfield, N. J.; Jock Burgess, St. Louis, vs. Charles Rowe, Pittsburgh; John Golden, Tuxedo, N. Y., vs. Al Cinci of Bridgeport, Conn.; Emil Loeffler, Pittsburgh, vs. Eddie Towns, Pittsburgh, and R. S. Miner, Stamford, Conn., vs. Emmett French, Youngstown, Ohio.

A game was played to decide the winner of the pennant but was called on account of darkness with the score even.

When the game is called at 3:30 Sunday the best amateur contest of the season is promised. The two teams are made up of the picked men of the clubs and every player is a finished product of weeks of hard playing. The game will be snappy from first to last with the Legionnaires determined to wreak vengeance on the Varsity for the one defeat this seasond and the Collegiates on their toes to take another.

Returns of the Spudder game will be given by innings at the park as well as the returns on the Fort Worth game.

DOOLITTLE WILL TRY ONCE MORE

By Associated Press.

Doolittle has been granted permission to make another attempt by the chief of the air service at Washington and will start from Pablo beach on or about Sept. 1, when it is expected that the plane wrecked in his first attempt at the one-stop flight, will be repaired. Exactly the same plans will be followed in the second attempt as the first.

MAJORS ALTER RULES OF LEAGUE

Roster Cuts-Player Trades Are Changed

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Changes in the dates on which major league clubs must cut their rosters to twenty-five players and on which trading or sales of ball players can be consummated, were given unaimous approval today in an informal discussion at the joint meeting of the National and American leagues before Commission K. M. Lundis.

No definite action, however, was taken today, it being necessary to give thirty days' notice previous to officially voting on the subject, but unanimous approval of those attending today's session assured the adoption of the change at the next annual meeting.

William Veeck, president of the Chicago National league club, suggested a change in the player limit date from May 15 to June 15.

Pennants Can't Be Bought.

Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh National league club, did not aprove of buying or selling ball players in mid-season and suggested that the date before which trades or sales of players could be made should be changed from August 1 to June 15. This change, it was pointed out, would prevent the so-called buying of pennants, bolstering up of contenders which are no longer able to keep up the fight and also the wrecking of clubs in mid-season.

The matter of barnstorming of world's series players was the only official business before the meeting, it being agreed that the joint meeting was called for this purpose.

The rule as set forth in article 4, section 8-B, relating to the world's series was approved, but it was voted to amend that part touching upon the player and the club. As amended a players' application to the commissioner to participate in an exhibition game will not be granted unless it is accompanied by the written consent of his club.

All the clubs in the two major leagues represented in person except the Philadelphia and Brooklyn Nationals.

BURK MAN IS KILLED BY CAR

Carlos Thompson Dies of Injuries

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, August 14.—Carlos H. Thompson, age 32 years, who was run down by an automobile in the main section of the city early Sunday night, died just at midnight. The body will be shipped to Terrell, where the mother of the dead man resides.

Mr. Thompson was crossing the street and fell in front of a Ford roadster being driven by Miss Green, a 16 year old school girl, and who had two other girls in the car with her. The car was going at a moderate rate of speed, it is said, but the man, being very large, was unable to get up quickly and before the brakes could be applied the car had passed over his body. Internal injuries were the cause of death.

KLAN HELPS CHURCH

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Aug. 14. — While services were going on at the Emanuel Baptist church here Sunday night, 16 figures clad in the robes of Klansmen entered the church and handed the minister, Rev. N. S. Kelly, a purse containing $30. A few words of commendation concerning the services were said by the spokesman and then the robed and hooded figures departed.

A short time after the Klansmen appeared at the church the same number appeared at the hospital and took up the bill made by a charity case, promising to send a check.

Spiking 'Em

By "SPIKE" COOPER

The Spudders are getting more publicity today that any other ball club in the United States.

The nation was watching the wonder team of the Texas league as they struggled onward toward a new world's record when a story "broke" on the 25th victory. The story alleged that unfair, unsportsmanlike and ungentlemanly tactics were being used to win that game.

The story was sent broadcast over the country that the Spudders had soaked the balls in creosote, that Conley and Mitchell would lose their effectiveness.

Particularly throughout Texas, the newspapers and sport writers jumped at the story as a big "break." Various papers carried the story under different heads and from different angles.

One Dallas paper carried a seven-column streamer across the sport page "Wichita Falls May Be Banished from the Texas League."

However, there are two sport writers of the state and both writing in towns where teams are fighting for the lead in the Texas league, who have demonstrated their sportsmanship by laying off the wild rumor until some definite foundation is shown for the story.

It so happens that these two sport writers are recognized as authority, and their word is the "law and gospel" throughout north Texas.

Yet there is another class of sport writers who would be heard. They would become famous by some "luck or crook." They saw a chance to jump into the limelight and did not recognize the chance they were taking with their reputations (?) as sport editors.

True enough, they have created a world of talk with their play on the scandal, but what will be their status when the Dallas protest is over-ruled and the case thrown out by President Doak Roberts of the Texas league?

The story originated, as far as Wichita Falls can determine, from a Dallas sport writer who journeyed here with the club.

The exaggerated, overdrawn and imagined story has brought a cloud over the Spudders well-earned record. Even though they will be absolved of any "doctoring" of balls, the refutation of the charges will never be played by the sport editors as was the original charge.

If they should do this, it would disparage their chances to fame. They would not hold their feeble prestige any longer and would become the laughing stock of the sport world.

This is why the Spudders have been wronged, and it is also "the why" various sport writers over north Texas will never hold sway over fans as is now their ambition.

BILL RUGLES AND POP BOONE "LAY OFF"

But there are two sport editors who have been in the game too long to jump at conclusions.

Bill Ruggles, sport editor of the Dallas News has remained silent throughout the storm. His casual mention of the protested game, was from the face of Galloway's protest, an element of the story.

Pop Boone, sport editor of the Fort Worth Record, has stated his position clearly. Pop says he has made no accusations against the Spudders during the recent storm.

Pop further stated that after Dallas returned from their five-day stay in Wichita Falls, they would probably realize why teams like Galveston and Fort Worth dropped game after game as they did.

Pop was here when the Panthers suffered their ignominious defeat, and saw the Panthers played off their feet. He knows the games were won fairly. He died game after the fifth straight loss, and openly admitted our superiority during that series.

It is this type of editors that keeps the game clean. They are a benefit to the game and a blessing to humanity.

God help the yellow ones.

HOW ABOUT DALLAS SPORTS

The Spudders got another taste of Dallas sportsmanship yesterday.

During the sixth inning, Jake Miller was bombarded with pop bottles while in his position in right field.

Sport writers had poisoned the minds of the Dallas fans, and they were out to avenge the insult hurled at Snipe Conley. "Duke of Dallas," in the wild story which originated here after Conley had lost the fourth game of the Dallas series.

But it is not that kind of fans that make the game worth while.

There are gentlemen on the Dallas team who would not for one moment sanction such an act on the ball field. The fans are not representative of the club, but an echo of their sport writers.

Never in the history of Wichita Falls baseball has an act of that kind been precipitated in Athletic park.

Not even Sunday when the Dallas players were on the lot and on the same day as the wierd story was published which intimidated the Spudders. If fans ever had justification in riding a club, then the Dallas team should have been open that day. But did the fans try to avenge the wrong for which the Dallas team were responsible?

They did not. The fans applauded the good plays of the Dallas team just as they did the Spudders. When Roy Mitchel smacked a homer over the left wall and iced his own game, the game which broke the Spudders long streak and threatened to tie the world's record, the fans greeted him with a great hand.

It must be lots of satisfaction to a club to play for a bunch of square shooters, and not a crowd of iron-heads and rough-necks.

The man who wakes up and finds himself famous hasn't been asleep.

"COME GET ME," DEFY HURLED AT HUBBY

(By Central Press.)

NEW YORK, August 14.—With a flock of crises on hand in practically every European country, international complications threaten in the marital affairs of Carle Carlton, Broadway dramatic producer; Edith Day, his prima donna wife, and Pat Somerset, the English actor.

Miss Day is back in New York. So is Somerset, according to reports, and at present Uncle Sam is very much interested in his whereabouts and his method of entry into the country.

The actress returned after her engagement in London had been cut short by reports of her alleged conduct with Somerset's wife, Margaret Bannerman, interpretive dancer, divorced him because of his infatuation for the American.

She came back flaunting her love affair with Somerset before her husband and challenging him to divorce her.

Carlton has finally accepted the challenge.

"I was foolish enough to believe that she loved me when I married her," he said, "but I guess it was just a sense of gratitude on her part for my making a star out of her.

"I'll get a divorce. Somerset was divorced in an action in which my wife was named a co-respondent. Soon we shall see what we shall see."

To which Miss Day replies that Carlton was instanely jealous and allowed her but $50 a week out of her salary of $1,250.

"I do not deny his charge," Miss Day said, referring to her relations with Somerset. "I never tried to hide anything. I love Pat Somerset. We intend to be together all our lives."

In the meantime Somerset isn't saying a thing and no one but, perhaps, Miss Days knows his exact whereabouts, though he is reported to be here.

POOR REPORTS LOWER COTTON

Selling Pressure Very Heavy

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., August 14. The rainfall in the western belt, reports that the allied conference had ended and an unfavorable interpretation of news concerning the rail strike combined to depress the price of cotton today. Rains in Texas were a factor from the opening and in the late trading they caused the heaviest selling pressure of the day because of expectations that tomorrow's weather returns would indicate the breaking of the drouth over a considerable area. The close was at the lowest at net losses of 61 to 69 points, October closing at 19.80.

Cotton closed steady at net declines of 61 to 69 points.

NEW YORK COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, August 14.—Early declines were followed by rallies on bullish crop advices in the cotton market today, but after selling up from 20.47 to 20.79, December contracts broke to 20.22 in the late trading and closed at the lowest. The general market closed steady at net declines of 50 to 63 points. An opening decline of 24 to 37 points was due to weakness in Liverpool, the reported failure of the reparations conference in London, unsettled foreign rates and rather a more unfavorable view of the situation. After the first lot of selling orders had been absorbed prices rallied on reports that showers in the southwest had been insufficient, increasing complaints of boll weevil damage in eastern belt sections and a mid-month crop report making the condition 66.7 compared with 73.3 toward the end of July. For a time the market showed considerable strength on covering and scattered buying. Early losses were more than recovered in the case of most positions, with October selling up to 20.80 and January to 20.63 or about net unchanged to 5 points higher on the general list.

WHEAT SUFFERS SHARP SETBACK

Conference Failure Is Responsible

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, August 14.—Wheat underwent a sharp setback in price today, owing largely to the breakdown of the inter-allied conference at London. The close was unsettled, 1 5-8c to 2 7-8c net lower with September $101 1-2 to $1.01 5-8 and December $1.02 to $1.02 1-8. Corn finished 1c off to 1c up, oats 1-8@1-4c to 1-4c down, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a setback of 12c.

Big arrivals of wheat here, 1,026 carloads, had much to do with the eclipse of the bullish influence of the rail strike.

Dry weather complains from Illinois and Nebraska had some steadying effect on the corn market and on oats, although oats like wheat touched lowest quotations so far this year.

Provisions were governed mostly by changes in the value of hogs.

Active Issues On Stock Market Are Beaten Down

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14. — Professional operators today took advantage of the deadlock in the rail strike to launch two attacks on the stock market, one at the beginning and one a the close, which resulted in recession of one to four points in the active issues.

Active and strong buying support halted the first reaction but the strike waned and the second attack caused many shares to yield and close at the lowest prices of the day.

Northwestern rails, which had registered the largest advances in the upward movements last week, yielded the most. Losses of one to 2 5-8 points were shown by Missouri Pacific, Great Northern Preferred, Pere Marquette, St. Paul, Chicago and Northwestern, Rock Island, Chesapeake and Ohio, New York Central, St. Louis and San Francisco, Southwestern and Lehigh Valley, Central Railroad of New Jersey dropped five points on small sales.

Mexican Petroleum fluctuated within a radius of nearly six points, closing at a net loss of 4 1-4. Extensive selling of general Asphalt forced the common down four points and the preferred six points. Mexican seaboard Pan-American Petroleum, Phillips Petroleum and Standard Oil of New Jersey also were heavy at losses of approximately 1 to 2 points.

Independent steels were strong in the early trading on reports of an early consummation of the two independent mergers, but they sagged considerably in the general reaction at the close. Lackawanna Steel was off 2 5-8, Republic dropped 2 1-8, and smaller declines took place in Midvale and Vanadium.

WIFE SILENCES HER HUSBAND WITH KNIFE

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Admitting that she had killed her husband by knocking him unconscious with a hammer and then cutting his throat with a hunting knife, police said, Mrs. Carlotta Herrera Ramos, wife of a laborer employed by the waterworks company, surrendered to the police early this morning. By the rays of a flashlight, officers who went to investigate the crime, found the body of the man on a blood spattered pallet on the floor of a small room that the couple occupied. The victim was nearly decapitated.

The hammer and the hunting knife lay on the floor nearby.

The woman told the detectives that she was awakened by her husband who struck at her and in defense of herself she struck at him with the hammer. After he fell she was said to have admitted that she struck him several times and then picking up the knife that had fallen on the floor she cut his throat. Detectives assert that after severe grilling the woman admitted that jealousy led to the fight and the subsequent killing.

Read what Mrs. Lucas Writes Concerning Her Troubles, which May be Just Like Yours

St. Louis, Mo. — "I had troubles that all women are apt to have, with pains in my back, weak, tired, nervous feelings and a weak stomach. I had been this way about a year and was unable to work or stand on my feet for any length of time. My husband's aunt told me how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done her and begged me to try it, so I did. All my pains and weakness are gone, my stomach is all right and I do my work at home and also work for Swift's Packing Company. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends and you may publish my letter as a testimonial." — Mrs. LULU LUCAS, 719A Vandeventer St., St. Louis, Mo.

Again and again one woman tells another of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

You who work must keep yourself strong and well. You can't work if you are suffering from such troubles. Mrs. Lucas couldn't. She tried our Vegetable Compound and her letter tells you what it did for her. Give it a fair trial now.

CROPS TO GET WATER FROM IRRIGATION PROJECT IN FALL

Work Starts on Dam Across River Sept. 5, Engineer Declares

With normal conditions, water from the Wichita Valley irrigation project should be turned on some of the land to be cultivated in time for late summer crops next year, R. A. Thompson, chief engineer, said Monday.

Mr. Thompson said that work on the project is progressing satisfactorily. Closing the river will start September 5, according to present plans. The closing will be delayed until that date because the heavy flood season generally comes in August. Mr. Thompson said there is no record of heavy floods in the Wichita river in September, although some rises have occurred during that month.

But in August there have been some bad floods.

The river will be closed by extending the steel sheet piling across the river and filling in behind with dirt. They will tie in with the pockets at the culvert and can handle any reasonable amount of flood water after this is done by opening the gates, it is said. It will take eight feet of water for the dredge to work in, and when this is done and the dredge starts work only two weeks will be necessary to pile up enough of the dam to take care of any high water that may come.

Mr. Thompson thinks by the time the dam is completed, which will be seven months working time from the time the dredge starts, there will be enough water to last three years for irrigation purposes. All other work, such as laterals, will have been completed by the time the dam is finished.

Great care is to be used in testing out the laterals, Mr. Thompson said, as a prairie dog hole or a hot weather crack in the banks could cause serious damage. The water will be turned into the laterals slowly to make sure that all points will hold.

TWO VERNON TRAINS STOPPED

Passenger on Frisco Taken Off

Special to the Record News.

VERNON, Texas, August 14. — The annulment of two passenger trains on the Frisco railroad out of this city brings the railroad strike into closer touch with Vernon than before. The discontinuance of the service is in keeping with the Frisco's policy to reduce operations to conserve rolling stock as much as possible while the shop men are out.

LESSON NO. 31
The Variometer

The variometer consists briefly of two coils of wire connected in series, one of the coils being stationary and the other so mounted that it may be rotated within the stationary coil. If current flows through both coils in the same direction, the magnetic fields assist each other and the self-induction of the variometer is at a maximum. If the inner coil is rotated so that the current flows through the coils in opposite directions, the magnetic fieleds oppose one another and the self-induction is at a minimum. The self-induction of the variometer, therefore, depends upon the relative positions of the coils.

By rotating the inner coil within the stationary coil, a continuous variation of inductance may be obtained. For the purpose of close tuning within a small range of wavelength variation, the variometer may be connected in the aerial circuit of a receiver as shown in diagram 1.

Circuit for Carborundum Detector

In this simple receiving circuit the variometer is connected in the same manner as a single slide tuner. When the variometer is adjusted to a low value of inductance, it offers much more resistance to the currents of radio frequency than a tuning coil having the same amount of inductance.

For use on the amateur wavelength of 200 meters the variometer may have an inner coil three and one-half inches in diameter, wound with 20 turns of No. 24 S. S. C. wire and an uter coil four inches in diameter, wound with 15 turns of No. 24 S. S. C.

In diagram 2 is shown a receiving circuit containing two variometers used with a vacuum tube detector. Very close tuning is obtained by a receiving circuit connected in this manner.

Due to the physical difficulties of constructing a variometer for long wavelengths, it is usually constructed in comparatively small sizes for small ranges of wavelength and as it furnishes a continuous variation of inductance, it offers a decided advantage over other forms of variable inductance which use sliding contacts or switches.

Lessons to follow will explain in detail the construction of the vacuum tube and its varied and highly valuable properties in the transmission and reception of radio signals.

KELL BACK IN TOWN

Frank Kell is back from Denver for a week or two. He is here on business and will return to Denver to be with his family some time later in the month.

Mr. Kell said that tourists travel in Colorado is good this year and that there are indications that it will pick up even more as the season grows older. Much of the tourist travel is said to be by automobile. Many people are afraid to take the train routes now, it is said, for fear of a tie-up that will keep them away from home longer than they anticipate.

AFTER HIRAM

Charles C. Moore

Californians are all worked up over the possibility of Hiram Johnson, who has been in the senate since 1917, being replaced by Charles C. Moore. Moore was first distinguished for his efforts in making the Panama Pacific exposition a success. It is conceded that the race will be the mostly closely contested of any recent senatorial campaign.

NEWS HOUNDS TRAIL MAYFIELD TO TOWN

Silliman Evans, staff correspondent of the Star-Telegram; C. D. Wade, staff correspondent of the Houston Chronicle and E. M. (Ted) Dealey, staff man for the Dallas News, were in Wichita Falls Monday night, having come here to cover the speaking of Earle B. Mayfield. In the party also was James H. Stranghan, a friend of Mr. Mayfield.

This group of newspaper men is composed of some of the best known staff men of the younger set in the entire country. They are all recognized as among the best writers in the state. Mr. Evans has had an international experience. He first met international notoriety when as an attache of the American legation in Copenhagen several years ago he was the innocent accomplice in what is alleged to have been an attempt to smuggle the crown jewels of Russia into the United States. He was given a package to deliver which he supposed was papers for the embassy and which were not subject to search by customs authorities. It was alleged that the package contained some of the crown jewels of the czar of Russia.

$30,000 DAMAGE THROUGH FIRE

Incendiary Plot Is Scoffed At

Thirty thousand dollars is the estimation of damages done the Wichita Falls & Southern roundhouse in the fire of Monday morning, according to a statement issued Monday at noon by H. N. Roberts, traffic manager of the railroad.

Mr. Roberts declared that rumors to the effect that fire was possibly of incendiary origin have been completely scouted by railroad officials, and that th eorigin has been definitely traced to defective wiring to electrical apparatus in the structure which was destroyed.

The official estimated that $10,000 worth of tools were destroyed in the blaze, three engines being damaged to the extent of about $600 each, while a coach, a box car and the building itself were also destroyed.

The Southern will not be hindered in traffic asa result of the fire, Mr. Roberts said yesterday, two new engines having arrived yesterday direct from the Baldwin Locomotive works, these engines having been en route for the past 10 days.

The roundhouse, he intimated, will be renovated at once.

During the morning the temperature varied. It rose from 75 degrees at 6:30 o'clock to 84 at 7:30, then dropped back four points. MELONS LARGER

Watermelons on the local market for the past several days are larger and better, on the average, than those at any time during the season. Some melons continue to come from Wichita county but the larger supply is coming from nearby counties in Texas and Oklahoma. Wichita Falls is proving a good market place for melons. Cantaloupes are not nearly so plentiful as they were a week ago and tomatoes are rather scarce. Vegetables are being brought in from Colorado and there is a fair supply on the market.

Groom Promised Bath in River

Daniel Cupid was on the job yesterday, even if he was to blame for the issuanec of only one marriage license.

And Daniel brought 15 people along to the courthouse to witness a short ceremonial in the basement, in Judge Maxwells' office, for those 15 were the interested friends and relatives of a bashful country lad and a blushing maid, who joined hand and hand in the magistrates' office and pledged themselves to live for one another "all through life," as the venerable judge repeated to them.

A smile crept over the face of the boy, when he shyly gazed around at his bride of less than a minute, soon after the wedding ceremonial, and while the judge busied himself with the papers that affieially proclaim the pair as one, the lad stole a kiss from the blushing maid——

And then several of those husky men of the fields who had accompanied him here from Burkburnett, shouted out:

"We'll throw you in the river when we get you home."

SARTIN ELECTED.

B. D. Sartin, recently elected county judge over Judge J. P. Jones, was elected by the Wichita County Bar association yesterday to act as special magistrate of the court during the absence of Judge Jones, who is away on a vacation.

FALL PRICES TO GO HIGHER

Buyers Return From Markets

That prices of fall goods in all lines, both ladies' and men's garments and clothing, will be higher and will graduate even to higher prices as the year rolls on, was the prediction which Roy Howell and Miss Jessie Wilson found in New York and other eastern trading points, during their three weeks' marketing trip in the interest of the Howell store.

Mr. Howell and Miss Wilson returned yesterday morning, stating that they had found merchandise hard to purchase at any price.

The fact that prices are already much higher on the eastern markets, according to Mr. Howell, is ascribed by the easter nmerchants to the recent garment workers' strike, which boosted the cost of production considerably.

The trip recently completed by Mr. Howell and Miss Wilson is the third to have been made to market this year.

Go to Olympic and Get Acquainted With Your Favorite Movie Stars

Look! Look!!

That's what people are both saying and doing at the Olympic this week where the Record News-Olympic picture, a trip through Paramount town, is being shown.

For there are so many different things to see, and so many different kinds of things going on.

Beginning at the outside of the big Paramount studios, deserted at an early hour in the morning, the picture then moves up the clock a few minutes, showing the workers arriving by the hundreds.

From that time on until the end of the picture, the film is crowded with a variety of new and different things for the movie fan. Paramount stars, including Wallace Reid, Rodolph Valentine, Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, Betty Compson, Elsie Ferguson, May McAvoy, Agnes Ayres Leatrice Joy, Milton Sills and any number of other well known actors pose for the Record News film, but they pose differently from any other poses you have ever seen.

In the first place, "Wally" drives a racing car in, turns around, and then drives the car right into his own hand, picks it up, and waves his hand at himself. Waving is own hand in response, (right back at himself), he sets the car down on the floor again. Then the Wally in the car waves goodbye to the Wally that's sitting down, and drives off.

"Bats! It can't be done," you say.

If you don't believe it can, go to the Olympic and see.

These are just a few of the little tricks that the Paramount stars perform for their Wichita friends in this novel "get acquainted" picture, and you can't very well see it without coming away feeling that you really know each star personally. You see them at home, without make-up, and you see them rehearsing for their pictures. It is something entirely different, arranged by the Record News and the Olympic theater for their friends who enjoy pictures and would like to know more about them.

If you haven't seen it yet, go to the Olympic today. It will show Tuesday and Wednesday, in addition to the regular program.
