Winters game

The Indians' Erik Harvey is pulled down after a three-yard gain in the Winters game Friday night. The Indians lost their district 7-2A opener, 24-6.

Many activities planned for Super Saturday

Many activities are being planned between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. for the next Super 2nd Saturday in Haskell.

The event, scheduled Oct. 13, is sponsored by the Haskell Business Association.

This month's committee has announced "The Old West" as the theme. Committee members are Ed and Mary Walling, Raja Hassen, Gary and Barbara Harris and Wayne Bradford.

Headliner will be a series of western shows by "The Outlaws" from the Waco area. Featured will be gunfights, a safety program and other western entertainment. Sponsoring the appearance of "The Outlaws" are Frazier's Appliance and Furniture, Sears, Walling TV and Electronics, Hassen's, Johnson Pharmacy, Barbara's Boutique, Holden-McCauley Funeral Home and Conrad's Sport-About.

An "old west dress-up" contest will include three divisions, 6 and under, 14 and under, and adults. Merchants also are being asked to wear old west attire and to decorate their windows accordingly.

In the beard-growing contest, there will be two divisions: 1) longest beard, and 2) most creative.

Those entering the longest-beard competition must register clean shaven on Oct. 4 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at Frazier's Appliance or Walling TV and Electronics. Those who already have beards will compete in the "most creative" category and only have to show up at the Super 2nd Saturday observance.

Abe Turner, prsident of the local unit of the American Heart Association, said the cardiac arrest jail will be in operation.

In the pumpkin contest, children 12 and under must draw their faces in black marks-a-lot and not cut them. Those over 12 will need to cut theirs. In each case, the contestant will furnish his/her own pumpkin, prepare it at home and bring it to the contest.

Still another event is the Double Mountain District Cub Scout Pushmobile races. Registration begins at 1 p.m. and the races will begin at 2 p.m. on North Avenue A.

Watermelon by the slice will be sold by the October Committee of the Haskell Business Association. Other food and game booths will be in operation.

At 3 p.m., the American Legion will have its drawing for a wooden porch glider and the Ladies Auxiliary will have a bake sale on the north side of the square.

A full schedule of events and time frames will be announced next week.

Year's rainfall over 30 inches

Haskell received another 5.75 inches of rain in September, which brought the 1990 rainfall total to 30.11 inches at the end of the first nine months, according to Sam Herren, official weather recorder.

This is 50 percent above the normal of 19.55 for the period.

There was a wide range of temperatures during September, Herren said. The high for the month was 102 degrees on Sept. 1, the lowest 63 degrees on Sept. 23.

Indians need win at Hawley Friday

The Haskell Indians resume the district 7-2A race Friday night when they travel to Hawley to take on a Bearcat team which got off on the right foot in its district opener last weekend.

While the Indians were going down to Winters, 24-6, Hawley pasted Jim Ned, 26-12.

Haskell saw its record dip to 1-3. In addition to Winters, the Indians have lost to Munday and Electra while defeating Seymour.

Hawley is 2-2, with victories over Roscoe and Jim Ned, and losses to Baird and Throckmorton.

Hawley has a big team with good speed. The Bearcats also boast much experience. In Clint Easley, 210-pound offensive tackle and defensive linebaker, the Bearcats have one of the district's most outstanding performers.

Offensively, the Bearcats are led by a pair of veteran performers, quarterback Silveno Roa and running back Mike Tatum.

Haskell should be in better shape physically for the Hawley game. Fullback Jeremy Fuentes who missed the Winters game because of a hand injury suffered at Electra, should be ready to go, Coach Walter Hargrove said Monday. And tailback Jonathan Dever, hobbled last week with a toe injury, should be in much better condition than he was last week. Dever, who had gained well over 100 yards in each of the Indians' first three games, managed only 36 against Winters.

Hargrove said Winters was a better team than he had expected. "They pushed around pretty good," he said. "We didn't pick up their stunts and we weren't blocking the right players."

Although Fuentes was out and Dever was crippled, the coach said he was disappointed with the offense which posted its lowest yardage record of the season.

With eight teams now comprising district 7-2A, Hargrove emphasized that all teams, including the Indians, are still in the running. It will be difficult for anyone to go through district unbeaten, and it's likely the second-place team will have a couple of losses.

Students receive gift book

Students in the fourth grade at Haskell Elementary School have received the gift book entitled "Feeling Good About Me."

It is a handsomely bound book of stories about learning traditional values and self-esteem.

"Feeling Good About Me" contains eight stories about realistic problems young people might encounter and how, using traditional values, they are resolved.

Each story has a full-color illustration and teaches such lessons as right and wrong, appreciation of family, what it means to be a good citizen, living up to one's full potential, and why (and how) to stay away from drugs.

Stories involve the meaning of friendships, family relationships, respect for others, loyalty and the importance of being your own unique self, lessons not always covered in school curriculums. They reflect positive influences that build a child's self-esteem.

Each story is accompanied by a teacher's guide, which covers discussion starters, lesson objectives and follow-up applications.

Local sponsors provided the books. They are Haskell National Bank, State Farm Insurance, Lane-Felker, McGee's Lumber Yard, Haskell Butane Co. and Boggs and Johnson.

'Back to People' campaign: Cook

John Cook, Democratic candidate for State Representative, is calling for a "Back to the People" campaign for the seat in the 64th District.

During a press tour which brought him through Haskell Monday morning, Cook said he is ready to tackle the issues which he presented in his campaign platform during the primary campaign.

"My opponent, to my knowledge, has not taken any stand, either constructively or destructively, on any issue I have raised since December," said Cook. "I think the problems which surround education, property taxes, insurance reform, rural health care, crime, drugs and the economic revitalization of this region are topics which are important to voters. These are the issues I want to address."

"From looking at his campaign materials, it is apparent that my opponent is unclear about my stand on these issues. It is now time to clear up his confusion. In my mailout during the primary election, I strongly set out the issues which I consider important to the 64th District. These issues can stand on their own integrity and are clearly focused to improve the lives of the citizens of our district."

"The voters of this area are entitled to a campaign which offers solutions to the problems, not a mud bath. I have never dodged any issue, and I stand ready to answer any questions form the voters of the 64th District about my stance on any issue."

Cook and his Republican opponent, Fred Gough, have scheduled five debates in mid-October. There will be no debate in Haskell, as first thought, but there will be one at Albany at 12 noon on Oct. 12.

Business group to meet tonight

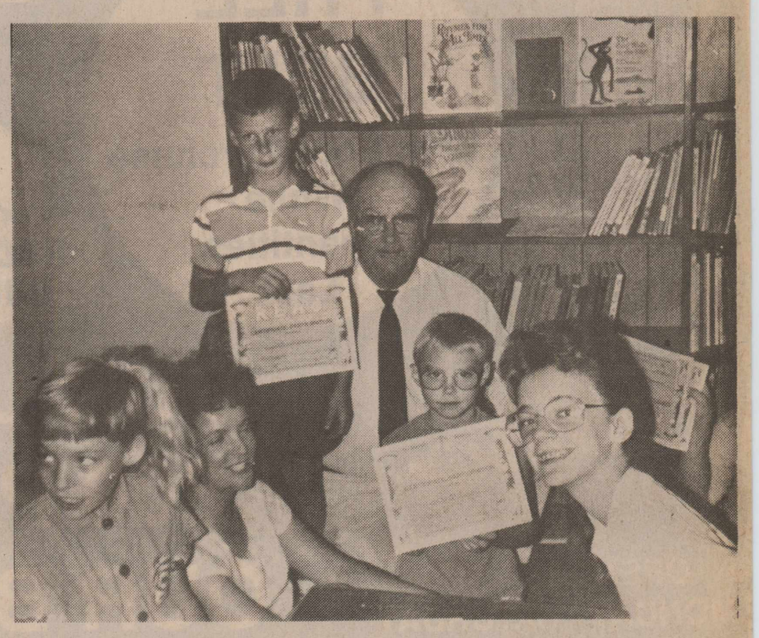

Members of the Haskell Business Association will meet at 7 p.m today (Thursday) at the Pizza Barn.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN – Texas voters could be paying a new state income tax — maybe as early as next year — if the Texas Supreme Court does not overturn the ruling that school finance reforms enacted after four special sessions are unconstitutional.

An Austin state district judge made the ruling last week, saying the hard-forged school finance bill was too scant and ordering the Legislature to try again when it meets in January.

Predictions from every faction predict the remedy as costly, and because every tax and rate category has been hiked to the maximum, the only viable option is to enact a state income tax.

This prospect is exactly what many legislators, judges and other statewide officials want — and what many others abhor.

The turmoil has begun anew because young, liberal State District Judge Scott McCown called a new tune and quickened the music for candidates dancing in elections to the statehouse.

As gasoline prices shot up last week, candidates and voters wonder whether local school property taxes will skyrocket next.

Voters In Or Out

The Supreme Court will make the call, either accepting Senate Bill 1 reforms or upholding McCown's ruling, virtually forcing new taxes.

Thus, the candidates for Supreme Court, usually little known, will be in the hotseat for the five weeks remaining until Election Day.

Gov. Bill Clements and Texas Republicans claim forced taxes can be avoided if the bench's Democratic majority is voted out.

But the top gun for the Texas Democratic Party, Ed Martin, disagrees because there are only three contested seats and, of those, liberal Oscar Mauzy returns as a regular if he doesn't win the race for chief justice.

Voters, Vetoes & Vouchers

In other words, there's a real question here of whether voters are still in the loop or out.

Martin is probably correct in assuming the attorney general's office and Supreme Court are stacked philosophically with McCown, but Clements is talking about the long haul.

McCown ordered the Legislature to come up with a new school finance plan by Sept. 1, 1991, but handed down no specific marching orders.

Hence, lawmakers are free to adopt a slight alteration or a radical plan, whether funded by the Democrats' state income tax or driven by a new "voucher" plan pushed by Republican Clayton Williams.

Voters are still very much in the loop in this arena, for the philosophical make-up of the new Legislature and the new governor's skill with a veto stamp will be fundamental.

Will Mattox Appeal?

Lame duck Attorney General Jim Mattox said he is uncertain whether he will appeal the state's position to the Supreme Court. Actually, what matters most is whether his successor will.

The Democratic nominee, San Antonio state Rep. Dan Morales, promptly announced he would appeal, if elected, but his critics jeered that the "have-not" school district which originated the lawsuit lies in his legislative district.

He would appeal, they charge, but wouldn't fight as hard to win it as the Republican nominee, state Sen. J.E. (Buster) Brown.

Line in The Sand

Like a line in the sand, the choice between higher taxes and better education has polarized many voters, as emotional issues tend to do.

Quite likely, the state of the local school district will probably affect a voter as much as anything this year, and this late campaign development has the political gurus in Austin puzzled.

Speaker's Race

Texas Speaker Gib Lewis, enroute to a history-making fifth term, is meeting more resistance than usual in his bid for re-election in Fort Worth.

Lewis angered Tarrant County Democrats by endorsing the Republican incumbent over the Democratic challenger in nearby Arlington, although it is part of speaker politics to take care of his players in the House.

Folks say that Lewis is damaged by revelations of tax debts owed by his businesses, by laxness on ethics reform, and by not having former U.S. Speaker Jim Wright on the top of the local ticket.

Keep your eye on this race. It's the lightening rod of the state, if any House race is.

Pari-mutuel Tax Cut

State Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, said last week he will introduce a bill in the 1991 legislative session to slash the state's 5 percent tax on pari-mutuel racing.

Flanked by a pair of thoroughbreds as he spoke on the Capitol steps, Barrientos said a tax cut would boost Texas' fledgling racing industry, "thereby guaranteeing thousands of new jobs and millions in revenues for the state."

His proposal, backed by the Texas Thoroughbred Breeders' Association, would lower to 1 percent the state tax on bets placed at horse tracks.

County council meets

The Haskell County Extension Homemakers County Council met recently for a monthly planning meeting. Mrs. Reatha Mullins, county council chairman, presided.

Reports were given from each of the standing committees and action was taken on items of business requiring a vote. Club presidents were reminded of several things which need to be taken care of during their October club meetings.

Members participating in the meeting were Phylecia Bailey, Earmal Bevel, Joetta Burnett, Frances Fischer, Margaret Jones, Dolores Medford, Reatha Mullins, Mildred Robertson, Henrietta Rueffer, Ann Sinclair, Dorothay Wells and Alice Yates.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Foster went to Dallas Tuesday to attend the State Fair.

Mrs. Burwell Cox returned home last Sunday from Arkansas where she had been visiting relatives.

Wm. Cargle of Milam County, brother-in-law of J. S. Fox, and whose wife has been here for a week or so, arrived this week and we understand that it is his intention to buy land and settle in this county.

We heard an official of the Haskell National bank say the other day that many farmers who have never before kept a bank account are coming in and opening accounts. This speaks well for the prosperity of Haskell County and its people.

As American taxpayers, we are now part owners of a genuine house of ill repute.

The Internal Revenue Service has seized the Mustang Ranch, Nevada's oldest and most infamous brothel, after it filed for bankruptcy liquidation. The Mustang Ranch's owner owes more than $13 million in federal taxes.

Word is that the government will operate the business until it can be sold.

One has to wonder what kind of a Civil Service rating will be required for the madam of the house---and the other employees.

There's a sex battle raging at the University of West Virginia.

Not sex in the modern interpretation of that word, but in the old-fashioned usage meaning gender.

The UWV mascot which parades at football games and other events has always been a buckskin-clad "Mountaineer." It still is. But this year, the Mountaineer is a 22-year-old senior co-ed.

Angry football fans have thrown paper cups and ice at Natalie Tennant during games. Others have circulated petitions demanding her ouster. They say they are mortified that the pride of West Verginia now uses eyeliner instead of after-shave.

A Morgantown advertising man has joined the opposition. "Should the Florida State Seminole be a squaw?" he asks. "Should the USC Trogan be a maid? Should the Texas Longhorn be a milk cow?"

Says one grad, "If finding sanctuary in a 100-year tradition is sexist, then you can tattoo it on my chest."

The day after the female mascot was selected, someone dressed the campus statue of a rifle-holding, knife-toting Mountaineer in women's underwear.

Elsewhere when humans dress up as tigers, panthers or even, as a Syracuse University Orange, they rarely display obvious sex characteristics. But until now there has never been any doubt about the gender of the Mountaineer who dresses in tight-fitting buckskin with coonskin cap and moccasins.

But Miss Tennant has converted some diehards, like a 70-year-old resident of a coal-mining area who challenged her to a shooting match.

"Hell, she's worse than a damn boy," he said after the shoot-off.

When small schools of Texas complained that they had to compete in Class B in UIL activities, the UIL had a simple answer. It "promoted" them to Class A, and moved everyone else up a notch, 1A to 2A, 2A to 3A, etc.

Now the movie industry has adopted a similar tactic. Bowing to the demand that X-rated films be eliminated, it is doing just that. There will be no more X-rated films. Those which once would have had that designation will now be rated PC-17 (for parental consent under 17).

Which is another way of saying that if you're 17, anything goes.

With a "good month" Dallas can set a new homicide record in October.

With 322 murders in the first nine months of 1990, the city is only 45 away from surpassing the all-time annual record of 366 set in 1988.

There were 42 murders in September after a record-tying 50 in August.

--Letters to the Editor--

Answers Gough

Editor: We received a letter at our residence Sept. 19 from Fred Gough, expounding his virtues and requesting our assistance in electing him to office as State Representative for District 64 on Nov. 6.

Since Mr. Gough solicited our thoughts on several topics, we herewith offer the following personal comments on each item as outlined in his letter:

1. Let common sense return to state government. We feel every citizen, whether Republican, Democrat or Liberal, wants this to be a reality. However, each person has his or her own interpretation of what is sensible to them.

2. Let's fight back, my opponent is another lawyer. Yes, your opponent, John Cook, is a practicing attorney. He is also, like you a businessman. In addition to being a fine attorney, he is a rancher and is involved in the oil business. He knows only too well the plight of the modern cattleman, farmer and oil man, beginning his involvement in the energy business as a young man, working parttime and summers as a roustabout in the oilfields. He was named the Stephens County Agricultural Citizen of the Year in 1984 and has served on the board of directors of the West Central Oil and Gas Association.

3. As to Phil Gramm and Rick Perry endorsements of your campaign: First, has any Republican ever endorsed a Democrat? I remember John Cook working diligently on the Rick Perry campaign when he ran for State Representative of District 64 as a Democrat.

4. Common sense, uncommon courage: You state this is the kind of representative you want to be. One who will stand up and speak out against tough issues. We believe John Cook is a stand up guy like you speak of. He has spoken on many occasions about the needed ethics reform in our government, that it should be clearly illegal to live off the lobby and special interest groups. You say that we must fight the lawyer legislators. We ask, who understands and attorney better than another attorney and who would most certainly understand the ramifications and effects on the people as to laws under consideration to be passed. Knowledge of the law would be beneficial in fighting these tough issues you speak of. After all, you don't send a fox to guard the henhouse?

5. You believe in tougher criminal penalties for drug offenders: Well, again, so does John Cook. John has outlined his program for fighting drugs and drug-related crimes, beginning in December of last year. As a practicing attorney, he sees in the courtroom every day how these heanous crimes are hurting our state and country. He has outlined a program in his addresses to the people concerning the laws he would like to see passed to eventually rid our society of this offense to God and our Nation.

6. You support local and community control of public education: You say you are committed to quality education under local control. John Cook believes that "providing quality public education is the single most important function of state government." You have publicly reprimanded Mr. Cook for sending his children to private schools out of our area. You failed to mention that Mr. Cook's oldest daughter is 20 years of age and a junior in college. His other daughter attended our high school until this year, her senior year. Our school did not provide the language courses she wants to pursue in college. Thank God, Mr. and Mrs. Cook are the type parents who encourge their children to pursue a higher education.

In closing, we would ask you jo remember the people you are asking to vote for you. The average citizen is not a person with his or her head in the sand. They are hard-working, law-abiding, decent people who provided with all the facts will make their own decision on election day. As for us, we will be voting for John Cook.

I have known John Cook all his life, and Dorothy has been fortunuate enough to be an employee of his for the past 12 years. We perhaps have a better insight into John's character than some people. We have found John to be honest, loyal, compassionate toward his fellow man, a good Christian and family man and, in short, a man who is always willing to go that extra mile whenever he is called upon to do so. We feel sure Mr. Cook would agree with us in saying, "Please vote on Nov. 6." Regardless of whom you vote for, exercise this precious constitutional right.

Plugs Perry

(The following, entitled "Editorial for Editors," was mailed to Texas newspapers last week.)

Editor: I hate politics. Too often the wrong guy is elected because of name identification or simply because the other guy has the most money. That's a shame, but that is reality.

In West Texas, I'm known as the original Scrooge when it comes to parting with what little money I have. Therefore, you must conclude that this letter, written and mailed at my personal expense, is important.

Rick Perry, a former state representative (sic) from Haskell County, is running against Democrat Jim Hightower for Texas Agriculture Commissioner. It would be easy to be negative about the Democratic incumbent, but everybody already knows about Hightower and his lack-luster performance.

It is also easy to talk about the abilities of Rick Perry. In fact, the only negative that comes to mind is his being a graduate of Texas A&M. With that point established, I want to personally tell you about a man of vision, hard work and integrity. He may be an unknown to you, but those of us in West Texas have watched him work for the people of his district over the past 10 years.

Rick Perry is a bonafide dirt farmer. He's a dedicated family man and his wife is a registered nurse. He would bring to the Ag Commissioner's post the kind of style that we won't have to be embarrassed about.

We got to know Rick Perry well last session and learned to respect his dedication as he worked on the Joint Select Committee for Workman's Compensation Reform. He was always one of the sane voices during the long debate.

Perry has focused his ag campaign on value-added processing of Texas-produced commodities. We understand this to be a high-brow phrase for location of processing plants in Texas. Perry will push for stepped up international and national marketing efforts along with more ag research.

We recommend Rick Perry to you as a man with high moral and ethical standards. You can be proud of him. Yes, he's my friend, but he's a darn talented one. I hope you can give him consideration in your editorials and in the voting booth on Nov. 6.

Medigap

Editor: About three out of every four American seniors buy a little peace of mind called medigap insurance. Dependable insurance that covers the difference between what Medicare covers and the actual cost of treatment is what seniors look for and deserve.

But for many older Americans, medigap insurance is a financial nightmare. They sometimes fall victim to coercion and misinformation and often wind up buying a number of often expensive policies that merely duplicate existing coverage.

Take the elderly woman in South Dakota who bought 45 medigap and life insurance policies over a 10-year period. She paid nearly half her yearly income in premiums even though she needed only one of each. A man in Pennsylvania saw his medigap premiums on policies rise more than 100 percent in less than two years.

Unfortunately, these aren't isolated cases. Reliable estimates indicate that up to 25 percent of the nation's seniors are paying more than once for the same coverage.

The prospect of medical costs pushing seniors into poverty or dependency despite the Medicare safety net, underscores how vital medigap insurance is to older Americans.

For this reason, Rep. Ron Wyden has introduced a bill to protect seniors from the perils of buying medigap insurance. His Medigap Fraud and Abuse Prevention Act deserves strong support from America's grassroots.

Wyden's bill will ensure that medigap policies are a solid value and include a range of coverages, and that seniors have the information they need clearly presented so they can puchase the policy that best suits their needs and resoruces.

His bill addresses the confusion about what coverage a person might need and how much it should cost. It also provides counseling services where seniors can get clear explanations of the terms and conditions of a policy and exactly what it covers.

All Americans are aware of the rapidly rising costs of medical care. But soaring medical costs are of particular concern to seniors living on fixed incomes.

Congress can relieve a lot of that angst by passing the Wyden bill. It is supported by the National committee to Preserve Social Security and Medicare and a number of other senior and consumer organizations.

If you are a senior citizen or the child of an elderly parent, this bill can help you. Please contact your elected officials and urge their support of this vital piece of legislation. It's in the best interest of all Americans---young and old alike.

For Cook

Editor: I guess by now that most of the citizens of the 64th district know that John Cook is running for State Representative. This is a sincere and open letter to the voters of the 64th district from someone who cares about what happens to us.

In the race for State Representative, there are two people running---John Cook and Fred Gough. As Mr. Gough says, it is a "common businessman" and a "lawyer." Who would you like to have to represent you in Austin---a businessman or a lawyer who can understand the issues at hand?

John Cook wants to keep the 64th district rural and not let it become part of the metropolitan system so that we rural people will "get lost in the shuffle." Who would work to maintain the quality of life we now enjoy? Who would be impartial and fight for us in Austin, as well as listen to our concerns and work for us? The man for the job is John Cook.

Wouldn't you rather have a "people's lawyer" in Austin who understands all these things? Someone who deals day-by-day with problems that affect our lives. Or would you rather have a "common businessman" who doesn't have personal experience in these and many more areas of our everyday life?

On Nov. 6, be sure and go vo and elect John Cook as our Sta Representative for the sake of t future of the 64th district. Jol Cook cares about us and is ready work for us in Austin.

Applications to academies now available

Applications from young men and women interested in attending one of the nation's service academies are now being accepted by Congressman Charles W. Stenholm.

In December, Stenholm will have the opportunity to nominate area citizens of the 17th congressional district for appointments to the four U.S. academies: the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo.; the U.S. Military Academy in West Point, N.Y; the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.; and the Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, N.Y.

Those interested in possible nominations should contact the congressman's Stamford office as soon as possible. The deadline for completed applications is Dec. 1.

To be eligible for an appointment, an applicant must meet certain requirements: American citizenship; good SAT or ACT scores; outstanding high school record; and good physical condition, including excellent eyesight. There is a very limited number of waivers for non-pilot candidates whose eyesight is less and 20/20.

Aside from academic achievement, emphasis is placed on character, church and community involvement, extracurricular activities and/or part time employment. Applicants must be single with no dependents and at least 17 years old, but not past their 22nd birthday upon admission into the academy on July 1, 1991.

Additional information may be obtained from high school guidance counselors or by contacting Jayne Schoonmaker in Stenholm's Stamford office at (915) 773-3623 or (915) 672-1322, or by writing P.O. Box 1237, Stamford 79553.

Purge drops 900,000 voters

The names of an estimated 900,000 registered voters have been removed from voter registration rolls statewide as a result of the biennial purge process.

In even-numbered years, the names of registered voters are purged, or removed, from the registration rolls by county voter registrars because the voters have moved and failed to notify their local registrar of their new address.

BUCKLE UP!

Economic upturn predicted

State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday that Texas may gain some economic benefits in the long run from a military stalemate in the Middle East but would have to endure the initial impact of a possible U.S. recession before the benefits of higher oil prices could be felt.

"Along with concern for the safety of troops and civilians caught in the Persian Gulf, Texans may suffer some negative effects in the wake of a slowing U.S. economy," Bullock said. "A downturn in the U.S. economy could initially offset or even outweigh the benefits Texas reaps from increased drilling activity. And any growth in the state economy due to higher oil prices won't happen overnight."

Months before the benefits of higher oil prices are seen in the state economy, falling consumer and business confidence could cause Texas to lose about 40,000 new jobs it figured to add by the end of 1990, Bullock said.

"Unless oil prices remain in the $25-$30 range for six months or longer, the runup in oil prices will be a mere blip in the state's economy," Bullock said.

Raw fish

Au naturel is not the best way to eat your shellfish.

The Texas Department of Health says eating raw shellfish, particularly oysters, can cause Vibrio vulnificus infections, which can kill you within 72 hours. Symptoms include nausea, diarrhea and fever.

-Green Thumb-

By Gladys O'Neal

Summer wouldn't be the same for us if it were not for the fun of the approaching County Fair. Every year about this time, our feet get eager to roam the grounds, taking in exhibits ranging from quilts to cattle. But one of the best is the exhibits of flowers and art. Of course, God's pallette is more beautiful than what we put on our canvases and paper. One compliments the other.

This is the ideal time to dig and divide daisies, iris, day lilies and other perennial flowers. Lift caladium and gladiolus bulbs late in this month and store them in dry sand or mesh bags until next spring. Order spring-flowering bulbs now. Chill them in the refrigerator for six weeks before planting.

September is bluebonnet planting time. Seed sown now will have time to germinate and form well-rooted rosettes that can survive the winter. Bluebonnets have a tough seed coat, so you may want to soak them in water or scratch them with sandpaper or roll them in rocks. However, you can buy those that have been treated and are ready to plant. Till the bed and broadcast the seed; then cover with 1/4 to 1/2 inches of soil. Keep the soil moist until seedlings appear in about 10 days.

The best time to turn on your sprinkler is in the morning. It is still cool enough that water won't evaporate before it hits the ground, yet the leaves will dry as the sun rises higher in the sky. If you water in the evening, the leaves will remain wet all night, encouraging the growth of foliage diseases. And if you water at midday, you'll lose a lot of water to evaporation.

If you plant seeds for pansy growing, now is the time. Some people prefer the plants for re-setting. The seeds will sprout in about two weeks and then in six weeks they'll be ready to set out in the garden. Place them 6 to 12 inches apart in a sunny, well-drained place. Water them frequently for the first two weeks. Their little faces will come through the snow this winter to brighten your day.

Indians bow to Winters

It just wasn't a good night for the Indians.

The Winters Blizzards scored a 24-6 victory over a crippled Haskell team here Friday night as the two teams opened the district 7-2A title chase.

Fullback Timothy Torres gained 154 yards and scored two touchdowns, and quarterback Craig Slaughter completed 8 of 11 passes for 160 yards and one touchdown to make the Blizzards' initiation into 7-2A a successful one.

With fullback Jeremy Fuentes on the sidelines with a hand injury and tailback Jonathan Dever limping from a toe injury, the Indians never got their offense going. They netted only 53 yards rushing to go with 82 yards passing in posting their lowest offensive figures of the season. On the other hand, Winters rushed for 250 yards, which combined with Slaughter's passing yardage gave the visitors 381 total yards.

Winters, which had seen a field goal attempt go for naught in its first possession, and another drive halted with Chris Tanner's end-zone interception, finally broke open a scoreless game with two second-period touchdowns. The first was scored by Jody Guy from 2 yards out to cap a 45-yard drive. Billy Wallar missed the first of his four extra-point attempts, but the Blizzards were out front for good with 7:25 to go in the second period.

The Blizzards marched 40 yards to get their next touchdown, Torres scoring from the 7.

Winters scored next after recovering a bad pitch out at the Haskell 26. Slaughter passed to Brandon Boles for the touchdown on the first play after the recovery.

After an exchange of possessions, Haskell finally got on the scoreboard after a short punt gave the Indians possession at the Winters 40. Despite a 13-yard loss on a quarterback sack, the Indians drove for a touchdown in six plays. A 10-yard pass from Rusty Stocks to Tanner and a 24-yard run by Stocks, the longest of the night by either team, put the ball on the Blizzard 18, from where Dever scored as the Indians narrowed the margin to 18-6.

But Winters countered by marching 75 yards following the Indian kickoff. Torres got the touchdown form the 5 with 8:30 to go in the game.

On its next possession, Winters drove to the Indian 5 where Erik Harvey recovered Torres' fumble to halt the drive.

Dever, who had rushed for over 100 yards in three previous games, was held to 36 yards in 14 carries. Harvey gained 21 yards in 5 carries.

Stocks was 6 of 16 in passing, with Cody Josselet catching two for 47 yards.

TAX PLANNING

Written By Gerald Rodgers CPA

ACCOUNTING FOR REIMBURSED EXPENSES

As a result of the tighter rules for miscellaneous itemizied deductions (they must exceed 2% of adjusted gross income), fewer employees have been able to get a tax deduction for job-related expenses. As a result, many employers have adopted a policy of reimbursing their employees for job-related expenses. If your company has a reimbursement policy, you should note that new requirements went into effect on July 1, 1990.

The new rules set forth standards for an "accountable plan" for reimbursed expenses. If your plan meets this definition, your employees can exclude both the expenses and reimbursements from their tax returns.

If you have a "nonaccountable plan" (one which doesn't meet the standards), you must withhold taxes on reimbursed expenses on your employees' W-2s. The employee may take a tax deduction for the expenses paid, subject to the 2% floor for miscellaneous itemized deductions (and subject to the regular substantiation rules).

To meet the definition of an "accountable plan," your reimbursement plan must satisfy three criteria. First, a business connection must be established at the time of payment of any advance, per diem or allowance. This means that the payment must be related to a specific expense the employee will incur. Avoid calling a payment simply "advance"; rather, identify it as "advance for travel expenses for Anytown trip." Second, the employee must substantiate the expense in accordance with existing tax rules. Travel and entertainment expenses must show the amount, date, place and business purpose for the expense. Third, any advance which exceeds the expenses substantiated must be returned to the employer.

Rochester to host Baptist meeting

The First Baptist Church in Rochester will be host next Wednesday (Oct. 10) to the 81st annual meeting of the Haskell-Knox Association Woman's Missionary Union.

The meeting will begin at 9:45 a.m. and will conclude with lunch served by the host church.

Theme for the day will be "Empowered", in keeping with the stated emphasis for the year for the National WMU of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Special speakers for the morning will include Mrs. Gerry Dunkin of Lufki, who is completing her second year as president of the Texas Woman's Missionary Union. She will speak on "Empowered for Missions Education."

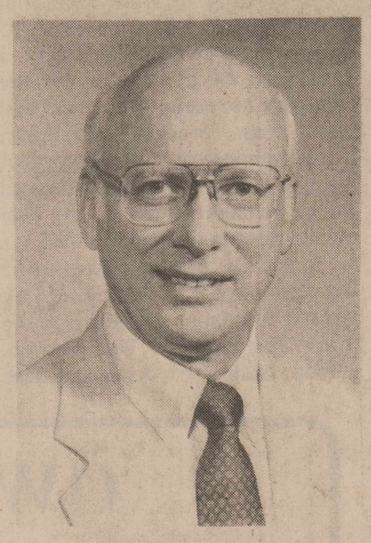

Also on the program will be William E. (Bill) and Emilee Goff, Southern Baptist missionaries to Venezuela. The Goffs are native to this area, Bill having been born in Wichita Falls and Emilee is from Paint Creek.

Goff is a professor at the Venezuela Baptist Seminary, and has several other assignments. Mrs. Goff serves in home and community evangelism. They have two sons, Garry Edward, a medical student in Dallas, and Sam, a junior at Cooper High School in Abilene, where the Goffs are serving as missionaries-in-residence at Hardin-Simmons University while on furlough.

The Goffs were appointed missionaries in 1971 by the Foreign Mission Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, and have served in South America since that time. Goff is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University and holds the master of divinity and doctor of theology degrees from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Special music will be provided by Randy and Robbie McLelland of Haskell, and associational officers will be reporting.

A cordial invitation has been extended to any interested person. Area pastors and members of WMU are especilly urged to participate in this special event.

FHA group attends workshops

By Kellie Reid

Ten of the FHA members went to Rochester High School Monday, Sept. 17, after school. They were invited to the 1990 FHA workshops. The theme for this year is "The mysterious solution."

When everyone got registered and acquainted they all had refreshments. Next they had a short opening ceremony in the auditorium. Members were then divided into two different groups. One group went to the communication workshop while the other group went to the leadership workshop.

In the communication workshop, members learned new ways to get more people interested in FHA through TV, radio and newspapers. So don't be surprised if you see or hear our broadcast.

In the leadership workshop, members had to solve a mysterious problem. This was to teach the members to work as a team. Next, members were taught new skills on how to be a good leader in their schools and local FHA chapters.

Correction

One of the junior high twirlers in a picture published in The Free Pess last week was mis-identified. Jamie Johnston was incorrectly identified as Janice Johnston.

Tempa Toney cast member at McMurry

Tempa Toney of Haskell is in the cast of The Rimers of Eldritch, a highly imaginative off-Broadway success by Lanford Wilson which will be staged by McMurry University Oct. 4, 5 and 6, and Oct. 11, 12 and 13.

Performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre of the Amy Graves Ryan Fine Arts Center.

The plot revolves around solving the mystery of a murder. To accomplish this, Wilson takes the audience through a tour of the outsides and insides of the tiny Midwest town of Eldritch and its "Rimers" or deceptive people.

The various characters in the play depict "Bible Belt America" and its capability for the vicious. The audience will ponder the truth of the revelations about Eldritch long after the play ends. The Rimers of Eldritch won the distinguished Vernon Rice award for achievement and playwriting and was hailed by the critics for its introduction of a new and talented playwright.

Tickets are $5 general admission or $2 for students, faculty or staff. For reservations or ticket information, call the McMurry Theatre Box Office at (915) 691-6302.

The Chopping Block
by Philomena Corradeno

In the last 20 or so years, couscous, a wheat staple of North Africa, has gained acceptance on this side of the globe, particularly by so-called health-food devotees. At one time, couscous could be found only in ethnic stores, "natural" food stores, or gourmet sections. Now it's sold in supermarkets and is available in a quick-cooking variety. Couscous is simply the coarsely ground durum wheat called semolina.

Couscous makes a fine salad. In this main dish, Moroccan Egg salad, couscous cooked in chicken broth is enhanced with chopped hard-cooked eggs for high-quality protein, dried fruit and fresh vegetables.

Moroccan Egg Salad
1 10¾-oz. can condensed chicken broth, undiluted
1 cup quick-cooking couscous
⅓ cup chopped mixed dried fruits
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon ground cumin
6 hard-cooked eggs, divided
1 medium zucchini, julienned
1 large carrot, shredded
¼ cup chopped green onions with tops
Spinach leaves, optional

In medium saucepan, bring broth to boiling. Stir in couscous and fruits. Remove from heat. Cover and let stand five minutes.

In medium bowl, blend together oil, lemon juice and cumin. Add reserved couscous and toss until evenly moistened. Chop four of the eggs. Add to couscous mixture along with zucchini, carrot and onions. Toss until well combined. Cut remaining two eggs into wedges. To serve, mound on serving plate. Garnish with egg wedges and spinach leaves, if desired. Makes four servings.

While in this African mode, consider juicy watermelon. Did you know that experts believe the seeds were brought to this continent from Africa? And did you know there are more than 50 varieties today? And that it's really a vegetable — but don't tell the kids — and is an excellent source of vitamins A and C, iron and potassium and is low in calories. It's 92 percent water, and eight percent natural sugar.

In southern Russia, watermelon juice is used to make beer, or is boiled down to a syrup for use as a sweetener. In Asia, the seeds are roasted and sold in bags, like popcorn, for nibbling.

Watermelon makes a refreshing dessert or snack whether it's eaten home-style, bite by bite, or more delicately, but not as enjoyably, with knife and fork. But there are other ways to use watermelon, as in this sorbet.

Watermelon Sorbet
2 quarts (9 lb.) seeded watermelon cubes
½ cup sugar
½ cup light corn syrup

Perry gets honor from county agents

Rick Perry of Haskell, State Representative of the 64th District, has been mamed a "Man of the Year" by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

Perry was selected as 4-H Gold Star Boy in 1964. He has since been working toward a more unified agricultural community.

He is currently serving on, and is a member of, the Southern Legislative Conference on Agriculture and Rural Development. He, along with his father, works diligently to improve all phases of cow/calf production on their ranch in Haskell County.

Rick and his father, J. R. Perry, have been very much involved in all Extension programs. They have carried out demonstrations in cotton production, wheat varieties, and beef cattle. Most recently, they have had an extensive demonstration in range management which included prescribed burning, prickly pear control and wildlife management.

Rick has been instrumental in bringing to Haskell County new and improved strains of foundation wheat seed, thus helping to improve crop yields even in adverse weather. Both as a member and adult leader, Perry has urged participation in 4-H club work. As a youth, he raised 4-H steers, showing in all local and major shows and winning in some.

Perry, along with his wife, Anita, and their two children, son Griffin and daughter Sydney, make their home in Haskell. When he is not busy with his legislative duties, you will find him out on the ranch. This, he says, is where some of his best decisions are made.

School programs vital, says Perry

State Rep. Rick Perry, Republican candidate for Texas Agriculture Commissioner, says high school agricultural programs are the breeding ground for Texas' agricultural future and should be an integral part of the Texas school system.

"Whether our children attend rural or urban schools, they should have the opportunity to take today's agricultural science classes," the Haskell native said. "The diversity of experiences these kinds of classes offer---whether it be a hands-on lab exercise or gaining knowledge from a book---is essential."

Texas agriculture was an $11 billion industry last year. To continue agricultural prosperity, Perry says, talented, knowledgeable young men and women have to seek careers in agriculture.

"The FFA and the 4-H organizations are excellent programs to attract bright Texans to agricultural careers," Perry said. "Not only do they aid young people who want to remain involved in agriculture, but the leadership skills they promote can be used in any facet of life."

"We need to train more leaders for agriculture, so that they may get involved in developing more processing facilities in the state, so that they may be researchers who keep Texas agriculture in front of the competition, and so that they may keep Texas agriculture in the forefront. School ag programs, and organizations like FFA and 4-H can do this," Perry said.

Now AmWest can give you something few banks can...

A good night's sleep.

Now AmWest has "DreamSaver℠", a savings program designed to bring peace of mind to all those who worry about saving money.

Here's how it works: You tell AmWest how much you want to save every month, (as little as $25 if you like) and they'll deduct it automatically from a free checking account (that's right, free checking) and put it into a CD account.

Keep your money there for a full 12 months and it will earn a high-interest CD rate. Take it out early, and you'll get a penalty — three months interest or $50. So "DreamSaver℠" not only helps you save money on a regular monthly basis — it helps you keep your hands off it too. And with a little money in savings, a good night's sleep will come a whole lot easier.
