Hitler Looking To East Again; Soviet Area Eyed Closely

BY JOE ALEX MORRIS

(Copyright, 1938, By United Press)

Nazi Fuehrer Adolph Hitler is groping cautiously toward a solution of the world's most perplexing post-war mystery—the strength of the Soviet Union.

The German fuehrer is breaking ground for the test in the fertile fields of the Ukraine. There, Nazi-encountered agitation is spreading for the creation of a new nation to be called greater Ukrainia.

Tremendous Explosion Feared

Poland, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Russia would lose sovereignty over an area as big as Texas and Kansas combined and with a population as large as that of France if the agitation achieves its goal. But the real spearhead is aimed at Soviet Russia and it is there that danger arises of a tremendous explosion.

A head-on collision between Nazi Germany and Soviet Russia would mean a fight to the finish between fascist and communist philosophies. It would mean an opportunity for Japan to strike at the Soviets' Siberian frontiers to end communist opposition to her plans for dominance over China. It would mean a war which the rest of the world could escape only by a miracle.

Army Strength Unknown

For a decade and a half the Soviets have been developing their armed forces for the war they expect eventually — possibly against enemies on fronts separated by more than 3,500 miles. Nobody has ever known whether the Red armies would crack or conquer in a showdown.

Within a few days, Hitler is to retire for a rest of several weeks at his mountin lodge at Berchtesgaden where he isolated himself for meditation before the Austrian and Czech crises. When he returns, the question of how and when and where the next crisis will develop may be clarified.

In any event, it is not likely that Hitler will start his armies marching toward the Russian frontier, or that he expects to expand the for-

Lubbock Has Chance As One Of 'Honor Cities' In U. S. On Fire Losses; Warning Given

Lubbock once more has a chance to be listed among "honor cities" of the United States because of smallness of its fire loss.

This was disclosed this morning at the chamber of commerce when records disclosed that the loss to date this year approximates $41,000.

The figure compares with $104,000 in 1937, but is nearly three times the $15,553 loss in 1936.

Hazards Are Cited

However, remaining between Lubbock and the possibilities of "honor" distinction, according to the warning sounded by Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, are the 10 most hazardous days of the year from the fire standpoint. More bad fires usually occur within the period immediately before and immediately after Christmas, he explained, than during any other period of the year.

Such things as inflammable Christmas decorations and fireworks are the reasons.

Chances Are Good

There is, of course, no positive certainty Lubbock will be on the honor roll even should there be no fires during the remainder of the year. But the chances are good.

The honor ratings are determined by the inter-chamber of commerce fire prevention committee of the United States Chamber of Commerce, in which Lubbock has been an entry for several years. Until last year, Lubbock had invariably placed among cities of the United States with the better fire records.

In 1937 the city placed second in its population class to Parkersburg.

Names piled up with a rush today on the list of needy children whom the Goodfellows expect to remember on Christmas day.

Contributions continued slow, although the flow was larger than Monday.

Since the acknowledgements in Monday's issue of the Evening Journal, $66.25 has been added to the Goodfellows' fund, increasing the total to $1,095.29.

Little More Than $400

Thus, a little more than $400 remains to be raised before the drive

It now begins to appear that the number of children who must look to the Goodfellows for whatever Christmas they have will be larger than had been estimated. That estimate had led to setting the budget at $1,500. Even if the budget is reached, it will be necessary to spread the $1,500 somewhat thinner than had been expected.

At best, a good bit less than $1 will be available for each child. That isn't very much when considered that it will represent ALL the Christmas each child will have.

journal; Dr. Arthur C. Christie, prominent Washington radioogist and Dr. Prentiss Willson, who recently cooperated in filing a suit against the Washington Group Health association, charging that group health physicians had injured his practice in furnishing medical service through the association.

Others indicted are officials of the American Medical association, or its affiliated societies.

Proceedings Instituted In October

The department of justice instituted proceedings against the American Medical association last October, charging it was acting in restraint of trade, in violation of the anti-trust act.

Specifically it charged that the association, some local societies and individual physicians were preventing other physicians and cooperative medical organizations from supplying medical service by refusing membership in medical societies to individual physicians who joined such groups.

Involves Health Association

Particularly involved were the affairs of Group Health Association, Inc. This cooperative agency was established more than a year ago, offering medical care and hospitalization to some 2,600 government employes for $2.20 each per month. It put its staff of doctors on a salary basis.

The District society, an affiliate

Father Of Broadway Star, Mary Martin, Dies In Weatherford

WEATHERFORD, Dec. 20. (U.P.)—Preston Martin, 66, father of Mary Martin, star of a current New York musical show, died today at his home here.

Whether Miss Martin would sing her highly-praised song, "But My Heart Belongs to My Daddy" tonight in the show "Leave It To Me" was uncertain. She was not notified immediately of her father's death, and relatives asked Miss Martin's secretary, Mildred Woods, to "do what you think best about telling Mary."

Martin was stricken with a heart attack Thanksgiving day and his daughter left the show long enough to fly to Weatherford to see him. The elder Martin rallied, however, and Miss Martin returned to New York.

Don't Worry About Bringing Soap, Santa—First Lady Always Puts Some In Stockings

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20. — Dear Santa Claus: there'll be a new baby at the White House this Christmas. He is five-months-old Franklin D. Roosevelt, third. His stocking will be the tiniest one in the long line along the mantel in President Roosevelt's room.

Mrs. Roosevelt will be there this year, so don't take her presents to Boston or Seattle where she has been the last two years with children who couldn't come home.

There will be two other grandchildren besides the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, jr. It probably would be best to concentrate on Sara, James Roosevelt's elder daughter. She is 6 years old and more interested in Christmas than her 2-year-old sister, Kate. The other child's stocking will belong to 6-year-old Diana Hopkins. Her mother died last year, and she will be at the White House with her father, Harry Hopkins, WPA administrator.

Of course, you know that all

A few minutes after those announcements were made this morning by the Avalanche-Journal, the Santa Fe announced rates and schedules.

Federal Agents Investigating Attempt To Sell China Rifles

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. (AP)—Federal authorities, delving into the fantastic story that Philip Musica, as F. Donald Coster, respected president of McKesson and Robbins, Inc., tried to sell 2,000,000 rifles and 100,000,000 round of ammunition to some unidentified nation, turned today to a report they might have been destined for the Chinese General Chiang Kai-Shek.

Under questioning by Gregory F. Noonan, acting U. S. attorney and other federal officials, was Thomas A. Bruni, a promoter, and Frederick Wingersky, a vice president in charge of law and labor relations for the $87,000,000 drug firm which Coster-Musica dominated.

Death Penalty For Killer To Be Sought

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 20 — No effort had been made here today to secure release of Frank Salazar, 23-year-old Mexican, charged with murder in the Tom Green county slaying of Paul Kennedy that preceded abduction of Wilma Kennedy.

District Attorney O. C. Fisher told officers here that he expected to ask the grand jury at San Angelo on Jan. 2 to take up the killing of Kennedy and Mrs. Kennedy and the axe attack on their two small children which preceded Salazar's flight to Austin with Wilma Kennedy, 16, whom he did not harm. Fisher said he will seek a death penalty.

State police were to check shells at the scene of the crime with a shotgun which oficers seized here after Salazar had been arrested near Austin. The shells had not been received early today.

Little Chance Given For Girl

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 20 (U.P.) — Three-year-old Fay Kennedy, victim of an axe wielder who also attacked her sister, Imogene, 10, after their parents had been killed, was reported to be in a more critical condition at a hospital here today.

Attendants said they gave Fay little chance for life. Imogene was reported improving.

Found By Uncle

Earl Kennedy, uncle of the children, found them lying in pools of blood Saturday in the Paul Kennedy farm home 20 miles east of here.

The two little girls had been cut with an axe. Both had fractured skulls and other head injuries. They had lain in semi-conscious condition since midnight last Thursday, when their parents were slain.

Admits Shooting

Frank Salazar, 24, former employe on the Kennedy farm, admitted that he fatally shot Paul Kennedy, 43, and Mrs. Paul Kennedy, 39, with a .410 gauge shotgun.

After shooting the parents, Salazar grabbed Wilma Kennedy, 16, from her bed in an adjoining room, Wilma told officers when Salazar was arrested near Austin Sunday. He carried her to the Kennedy garage, she said, then left her there and returned to the house. Wilma

Mussolini Honors Prolific Mothers; Get Cash Award

(By The United Press)

ROME, Dec. 20 — Premier Benito Mussolini today beamed on 95 of the "most prolific mothers" in Europe, urged them to bear more children for Italy and ignored their embarrassed husbands as he distributed more than $26,000 in "baby bonuses."

In his favorite role of godfather, the fascist premier mingled with the peasant mothers in the stately royal hall of Venice Palace.

In a brief speech, he praised them for their large families, advised them to remain "faithful to the land" and to teach their children never to abandon the farm for the bright lights of the cities.

The farmers' wives each received an envelope containing $263 and a bank book with an initial deposit of another $53. The 95 women have borne a total of 887 children in the past 10 years, an average of more than nine each.

RAIN CLOUDS HANG LOW

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20 (AP) — Rain clouds hung over southern California again today after the heaviest mid-December downpours in 49 years. Despite inundation of parts of lowland areas and crippled street and highway traffic in scattered districts, slight damage was reported.

sleet was still prevalent in other sectors, particularly Hart and Dimmitt.

Lubbock was dampened by rain as the temperature dropped to 38 degrees while overcast skies were general down to San Antonio in Southwest Texas.

Weather forecasts for Tuesday night and Wedensday warned of rain and colder temperatures in the West and North portions of East Texas while cloudy and colder was the Plains and Panhandle prediction.

First Moisture Since Early November Received Here

First moisture in Lubbock since early November began falling this morning after 7 o'clock and indications were that the South Plains was in for a "spell" of weather, perhaps culminating in snow.

Hart and Dimmitt, on the Fort Worth and Denver northwest of Plainview, reported sleet covered the ground and still sleeting.

State experiment sub-station here reported minimum this morning was 38 degrees, with Monday's maximum 62 degrees.

Santa Fe reports indicated New Mexico had a snow as a half inch snow was reported at Texico, east of Clovis. Canyon reported a quarter-inch rain, Happy an inch rain, Tulia an eighth-inch and Kress some sleet. Hale Center, Plainview and Abernathy reported mist, as did Slaton.

On the Crosbyton, Seagraves and Bledsoe branches conditions were about the same as in Lubbock, mist and some moisture.

Mailing Is In Full Swing

Christmas mailing is under full swing at the postoffice with all employes from Postmaster Amos Howard on down, taking turns at handling what is expected to be a record volume of mail.

Two windows are open for mailing of Christmas packages, in addition to the regular stamp window.

COOPERATION IS ASKED

If you have bundles to mail at the postoffice can't you contrive to have someone, keep your car in motion when you go inside to wait in line?

Don Reeder, chief of police, said Lubbock's busiest area during the holidays possibly is at the federal building. Hundreds may be found at almost any time attempting to get packages into the mail. Other hundreds are outside attempting to do the same.

Something, he said, must be done. Ten-minute parking restrictions must be enforced "so as to give everyone the same break."

A special watch will be maintained. "If necessary we will have to mark cars. The problem is one particularly applying to everyone. Kindly cooperate."

Long lines of patrons waiting to mail packages stand, waiting a chance to mail Christmas cheer.

Schedule Worked Out

Postmaster Howard and his assistants have worked out a schedule of handling packages as fast as they arrive, both incoming and outgoing. Dispatchers take from the parcel post windows all out-of-town packages and sort them into towns, and the larger towns into street addresses.

Sacks of mail for all out-bound trains are promptly delivered to railroad depots. "We have worked out all parcels that come into this office during the afternoon and night, for the 10 o'clock train," said

All Of England Becomes A Stage During Christmas With Pantomine As Favorite

BY WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Feature Writer

LONDON, Dec. 20. — The play's the thing in England when Christmas rolls 'round—not the modern play but pantomime and the old mummers' drama.

Christmas isn't Christmas to the average Londoner until, for the umpteenth time in his life, he sees Peter Pan winging his way across the stage (supported by a not-so-invisible wire), or little Alice experiencing the adventures of Wonderland.

Every Christmas season leading theaters are occupied by these and other favorite pantomimes put on, not by amateurs as you might expect, but by some of the finest talent in England. Anna Neagle, for instance, of Queen Victoria fame, played Peter Pan last year.

Not In The Trenches

The theaters always are jammed—reflecting a perhaps unsuspected vein of sentimentality in the British. And this year, with John Bull rejoicing that he's spending Christmas by his comforting hearth instead of in the trenches, the standing room only sign is expected to go up quicker than ever.

Yuletide finds jingle bells—of cash registers—clanging as loudly in England as in America. Christmas is commercialized in much the same way in both places. Father Christmas (that's British for Santa Claus) visits the big stores.

Still, many quaint customs have survived, especially in country districts.

In some sections Christmas still lasts the twelve days of old, winding up with a bang on the Twelfth Night Shakespeare wrote about. During that season, villagers turn mummer to act out centuries-old plays and to frolic in the streets.

Coats Of Mail

If you were in Cornwall of an evening you'd see fisherfolk in coastal villages "guise dancing" on street corners to the music of concertina and drum. The boys usually dress as girls and the girls as boys. Sometimes they assume historical characters, sometimes merely go in blackface.

In Hampshire you'd see ordinarily dead serious farm laborers strangely arrayed in pseudo-Norman helmets and coats of mail, their faces concealed by strips of wallpaper.

That is the prescribed costume in which the workers re-enact the ancient mummers' play about St. George and the Dragon.

A hot time still is had by all at Allendale, Northumberland, and at Burghead on Scotland's Moray Firth.

Girls at an English foundling school sing their Christmas carols.

When New Year's night falls on Allendale, two dozen quaintly garbed men with pans of blazing tar balanced on their heads, parade behind the village band to the market place where they touch off a bonfire.

At Burghead they "burn the Clavie," the Clavie being a tar barrel filled with wood. It is demolished while still aflame and there is a mad rush for the glowing embers, which are supposed to bring good luck.

Wassailing The Trees

Luck also is the underlying theme of wassailing in Carhampton, Somerset. Pans full of cider are carried into the orchards. Then each man dips his mug in and after draining part of his mug, throws the rest of the cider at the trees while he shouts to scare away any evil spirits which may be lurking in the branches.

All this is sissy stuff, however, compared with the way they carry on at Haxey in Lincolnshire. Men from five rival hamlets gather there to play a 600-year-old game called "throwing the hood." Something of the game's tempo is indicated in the preliminary warning chant of the "Lord"—the referee, that is:

"Hoos again hoos, toon again toon.
If a man meet a man knock a man doon
—but don't hurt him!"

The hood, a tightly rolled piece of sacking, is then tossed into the air and each player tries to get it and run for home. As a grand finale, the men lock in a scrimmage and try to push each other down hill. Lady luck according to local authorities, beams on the winners during ensuing year.

In the west of Ireland, Christmas takes a more pious note. A candle is left burning in the window as a guide to the Holy Family, should it be needing shelter. And food is left on the table between meals in case any souls from purgatory should revisit their old homes.

A spiritual slant of a less religious nature is the custom, in some parts of England, of gathering 'round the fire to tell ghost stories. But the stories never are frightening enough, the English lament, to keep away the "boxing day" collector. Boxing day—usually Dec. 26—formerly was the day when the old squires distributed Christmas boxes to the help on their estates. It has since become a sort of legalized blackmail — an excuse for delivery boys, the postman and others who have served you during the year to call and collect a tip.

Aviation Group To Lay Plans

Aviation committee of the chamber of commerce faces a busy holiday period.

Admittedly interested primarily in the cause of football — since Texas Technological college and the high school will be playing in Dallas — members nevertheless plan:

Participation with other cities in urging the approval by the civil aeronautics commission in Washington of one or both of two proposals to establish airlines serving Lubbock. Braniff Airlines proposes to operate from San Antonio to Denver and Continental Airlines from El Paso to Denver.

Completion of a supplemental brief on behalf of Braniff; the brief was outlined at an inter-city conference two weeks ago.

A concerted effort to secure designation of Municipal airport as an intermediate port for military planes.

Quinlan Elected New Safety Unit Leader

The Texas Plains Safety Service, an organization of West Texas Gas company employes, Monday night elected C. J. "Pete" Quinlan of Lubbock as president.

Quinlan, plant superintendent here, succeeds Thurman Whitis, also of Lubbock, and will head the organization throughout 1939.

Ben Atcheson, of Lubbock, was named vice-president, succeeding John Scott, Plainview, and M. T. Hill, Lubbock, succeeds Lewis Hobbs, Lubbock, as secretary.

Approximately 125 club members and guests, included R. E. Wertz, of Amarillo, operating chief of the organization, were at the meeting which was also the annual Christmas party. Scene was the Matador ballroom of Hotel Hilton and the meeting and program followed a dinner.

Charles I. Wall, Lubbock, head of the company's merchandising department, played Santa Claus in presenting gifts to winners of various contests staged by the company. Brief remarks were made by Wertz, George W. Dupree, Lubbock lawyer; Capt. W. W. Legge, chief of the highway patrol here; Dr. Sam G. Dunn and Chas. A. Guy, of Lubbock; and Harley Cook and W. W. Rusk, of Amarillo.

Included on the program were safety reports made by Cook and Hobbs and a strong theme of safety was threaded throughout the proceedings.

Attending were West Texas Gas company employes from all over this area, from Tulia and Amarillo on the north to Seminole and Midland on the south.

Tech Is Cited In Magazine Article

Dale Miller, assistant editor of the Texas Weekly, magazine published in Dallas, described Texas Technological college as "one of the most remarkable institutions of higher learning in the country today" in an article published in the Dec. 17 issue. The article was entitled "Texas Tech: 13 Years Old and Growing."

Tech "is remarkable not merely because it has obtained Clifford B. Jones of Spur as its next president, nor because its football team has come through a vigorous schedule undefeated and untied, although both of those circumstances, and especially the former, can be listed emphatically on the credit side of the ledger," Miller wrote. "It is remarkable chiefly for its growth. Only 14 years ago there was no such institution as Texas Tech. Today only 50 of the nation's 648 colleges and universities are larger from the standpoint of enrollment, and only 17 of those 50 are state-supported institutions."

Pressing Tax Problems Up

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 20—Legislature of 44 states join congress starting next month in attacking the pressing tax, pension and revenue problems of the nation.

Forty-three legislatures were scheduled to meet next month, and Florida's in April.

A survey by the council of state governments, announced today, indicated the emphasis would be on social security and welfare bills, with labor, civil service, marriage law revision and increased support for schools high up on the states' agenda.

Pension Measures Expected

Liberalized old age pension measures were expected in California, Minnesota, Nevada, Vermont, Washington, Maine and Indiana. Massachusetts will consider reducing the pension eligibility age from 65 to 60, and Colorado and North Dakota will debate financing of their pension plans of $45 and $40 a month, respectively.

The survey showed that bills to extend coverage of unemployment compensation laws would be up in New Hampshire, Oklahoma and Vermont, and that Connecticut, Colorado and Vermont would consider improvement of welfare facilities.

Sales Taxes Likely

Tax proposals likely to appear included sales tax bills in Texas and Massachusetts and possibly in Nevada and Oregon; a sales tax increase from two to three per cent in Missouri; state income tax bills in Maine and Connecticut; a business and occupation tax in Colorado; a one-mill corporation tax in New Jersey.

Bills for reduction of gasoline taxes were probable in Oklahoma, Nebraska, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin.

The survey said wage and hour law proposals were considered certain in Connecticut, California, Iowa, Massachusetts, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Utah and Vermont.

Civil Service Plans Drive

Civil service bills were due in Alabama, Georgia, Minnesota, Iowa, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

Seven states — Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Missouri, Ohio, Virginia and Vermont—planned to enact laws requiring pre-martial physical examinations. Ten states now have such laws.

Under school proposals, Illinois will consider consolidation of some smaller school districts, and bills for state school support were due in Connecticut, Florida, Iowa, Minnesota, Nevada, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah and Washington.

BLIND DEER KILLED

SANTA FE, N. M., Dec. 20. (AP)—The blind deer of Hyde State park is dead.

The sightless animal, a nine-point 250-pound buck, was destroyed by a highway foreman after it plunged headlong into a road grader.

The deer was well known to park visitors, who often saw it blundering into trees and underbrush when frightened.

MONTGOMERY WARD

1938 Associated Press Highlights
News of the Year in Pictures

COURT CALLER Trial of Tammany chieftain James J. Hines (center) on policy racket conspiracy charges, ended in N. Y. when Justice Pecora declared a mistrial, ruling "prejudicial" a question put by Thomas Dewey.

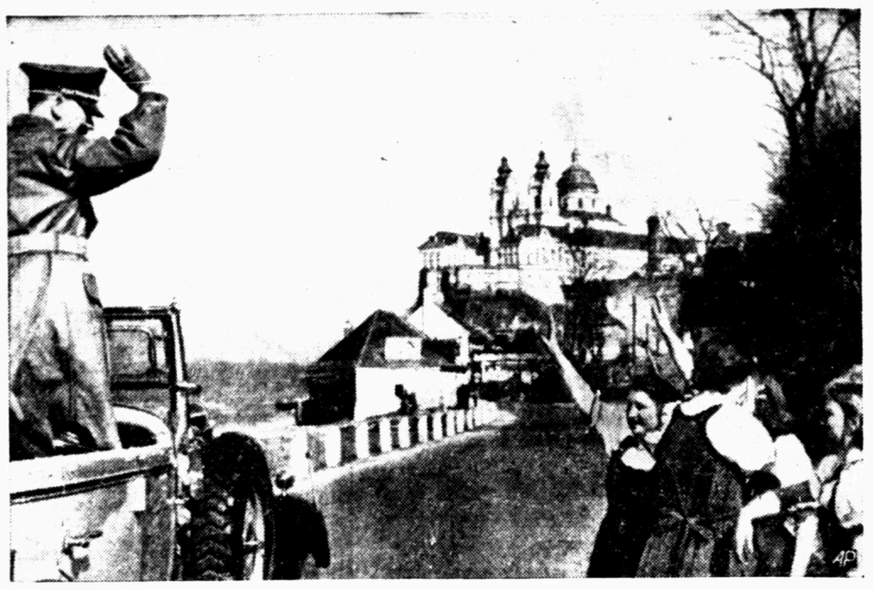

EAST IS EAST The western world, especially U. S. and Britain, learned soon after Japan entered Canton (as above), South China's war supplies gateway, that Japan was closing China's "open door" in an Asia for Asiatics policy foreshadowing exclusion of western powers from Chinese trade. Chinese puppet states give Japanese a virtual trade monopoly. In Europe's war, Spanish insurgents reached an autumn deadlock trying to widen the wedge between government Catalonia and Madrid.

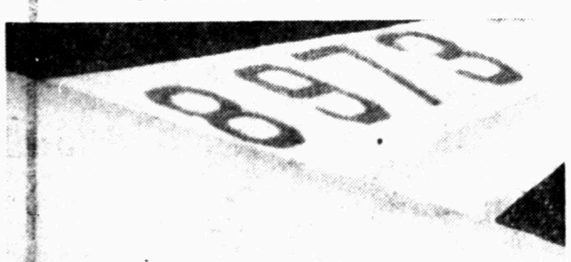

CRIME Confession of Franklin McCall solved kidnap-death of James Cash, Jr. (above), 5, at Princeton, Fla. Equally brutal was murder of kidnaped Peter Levine, 12, of N. Y.

GAIN His biggest battle was won by Gen. John J. Pershing, 78, who almost died in February, toured France in August, saluted dead war comrades Nov. 11. Another World War figure, Kamal Ataturk, 58, dictator of modern Turkey, died Nov. 10.

TO UNION IN VIENNA Past countless upraised arms such as these "heiling the hero" along the Danube, Adolf Hitler drove to Vienna last spring and on Mar. 13 proclaimed the union of Austria and Germany and defied the world to part them. Almost overnight the Austrian peasant's son who'd once pored over an atlas saying, "I'm making German boundaries larger, larger," had added 32,369 square miles and 6,760,000 people to the Third Reich. He'd given Germany a geographical gateway to the grain-raising, oil-bearing Balkans.

RECORD FLIGHT Unshaven Howard Hughes (hat, facing camera) set his lanky frame down on N. Y. soil July 14 after he and four companions flew 14,824 miles, encircling the globe in a record 3 days 19 hrs. 14 mins.

ERROR "I thought I was heading for California," insisted Douglas Corrigan after unsanctioned flight from N. Y. to Ireland in a wheezy $900 plane. Trip took 28 hrs. 13 mins.

NAZI STORM Paris assassination of German diplomat Ernst vom Rath by Herschel Grynszpan, 17, Polish Jew, turned the full wrath of Nazis—who launched their anti-Semitic campaign in 1933—down on 700,000 Reich Jews. Their property was damaged (above), they were fined $400,000,000. U. S. recalled her envoy for a report, amid mounting refugee problems.

THE FRUITS OF MUNICH Mixed were the blessings of Munich when, on a war-jittery Sept. 29, Europe's "Big Four" met and decided that Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland, which Hitler coveted, was not too big a price to pay for peace. Left to right: Goering, Hitler, a German interpreter, Italy's Count Ciano, Mussolini, France's Daladier, England's Chamberlain, and French Ambassador Francois-Poncet. Germany won 3½ million Sudetens and 10,885 square miles for her "drive to the east"; France lost European dominance.

CIO CHRISTENING PARTY Labor history repeated itself in November when at Pittsburgh, where Gompers launched the A. F. of L., the 3-year-old Committee for Industrial Organization became Congress of Industrial Organizations, named as president John L. Lewis, shaking hands with Vice President Phil Murray (left).

ATLANTIC TASTES HURRICANE From the Caribbean sea—mother of storms — roared a September hurricane whose 100-mile wind and rains took 500 lives and damaged property worth many millions in seven northeastern states. This was once Pleasant View House at Misquamicut in hard-hit Rhode Island.

PACIFIC COAST DELUGE Californians shoveled mud out of their living rooms last March after successive days of torrential rains had flooded rivers in the Los Angeles area, threatening palatial film colony homes, washing out bridges such as this railroad span in Los Angeles, and doing damage estimated at close to $60,000,000.

VOTERS VERDICT To Judge Arthur H. James (above), who hunted ducks in celebration, went Republican governorship of Pennsylvania in an election that saw defeat of Michigan's Roosevelt-endorsed Frank Murphy, repudiation of LaFollette's third party, victory for "purgees," and G.O.P. gain of 12 governors, 8 senators, 81 representatives.

Total Cash Farm Income Lower In Last Fiscal Year

Only Five Per ent Decline

(By The Associated Press)

ASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Total farm income during the last l year was abcut 5 per cent r than in the preceding fiscal , according to the annual re- of the secretary of commerce.

While cash income from farm ketings was only about 3 per lower than in the preceding month period, governmental al and benefit payments were ced by more than one-third," report pointed out.

Harvests of the major crops e much larger than in the 1936- fiscal year, but the increased plies were accompanied by de- ased demand and steadily declin- prices resulting from generally ressed industrial conditions.

xports of agricultural products e one-fifth larger, reaching the hest value in seven years.

mports of competitive agricul- e products such as wheat, corn, ds, vegetable oils and meat pro- cts, which had been obtained m abroad in large amounts dur- the preceding drought year, lined nearly two-fifths, the re- t said.

Above-average" decreases oc- red also in competitive agricul- al products which are regular- imported into the United States large quantities, such as hides, ns and raw wool.

etter To Santa

the grownup Roosevelts hang up their stockings, too. There will be the president and Mrs. Roosevelt, the president's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, and his half-sister-in-law, Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt of Hyde Park. James and Franklin, jr., and their wives also will be present.

Sistie and Buzzie Dall won't be at the White House this year. You'll find them in Seattle, Wash., with their mother, Mrs. John Boettiger, and her husband. The Elliott Roosevelt children, Ruth Chandler and Elliott, jr., will be with their parents in Fort Worth, Tex.

Don't forget the president's youngest son, John, and his bride, Anne, in Boston. He couldn't come home this year because he's working in a department store, and you know only too well how rushed those places are on Christmas Eve.

You can come a little earlier than usual, Santa. The president will read Dickens' Christmas Carol to the children and grownups Friday after the party for the executive office force, so that everybody can get to bed early Christmas Eve.

Don't worry about bringing any soap. Mrs. Roosevelt always puts soap and new toothbrushes in the stockings—even the president's.

Medical Indictments

of the A. M. A., promptly attacked the plan as leading toward the compulsory insurance systems in vogue in Germany and elsewhere in Europe. The society denounced such systems as undermining high standards of medical practice and likely to break down the close relationship of the physician and his patient.

The association accused the society of hampering its activities by threatening exclusion of its doctors from hospitals and thus restraining their efforts to earn a living.

Group Health contended its purposes were beneficial to the public and the profession, particularly that it might reduce illness by insuring ready access to "preventive" medicine.

In summing up the reasons for the indictments the grand jury declared the American Medical association and the individual physicians named "have adopted and for many years have pursued a policy of opposition" to experiments in group medical care, "and have taken affirmative steps to oppose their formation and operation throughout the United States."

"Exclusion or expulsion from membership in a medical society affiliated with the defendant American Medical association and hence from membership in the association itself" deprives group health doctors of their rights and injures their professional standing, the jury found.

The other individual physicians indicted were:

Dr. William Creighton Woodward, director of the bureau of legal medicine and legislation of the American Medical association; Dr. William D. Cutter, secretary of the council on medical education and hospitals of the association; Dr. R. G. Leland, director of the bureau of medical economics of the association; Dr. Coursen B. Conklin, Dr. James B. G. Custis, Dr. Thomas Allen Groover, Dr. Robert A. Hooe, Dr. Leon A. Martel, Dr. Thomas E. Mattingly, Dr. Francis X. McGovern, Dr. Thomas E. Neill, Dr. Edward H. Reed, Dr. William M. Spriggs, Dr. William J. Stanton, Dr. John O. Warfield, jr., Dr. Wallace M. Yater, and Dr. Joseph R. Young.

Doctors Fishbein, West, Cutter, Leland and Woodward are Chicagoans. The others named are all Washington practitioners.

Daily Market Reports

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Selected stocks rallied moderately in today's market but many issues loafed in slightly lower territory.

Milk buying interest was centered on a few steels, aircrafts, rails and specialties, while utilities, oils, coppers, mail orders, farm implements and rubbers shifted fractionally in either direction.

The list gave a recovery signal at the opening and failed to follow through. Best gains ran to a point or so. These were reduced or cancelled in the majority of cases at the close.

Dealings were rather lively in the first hour. Volume subsequently dwindled. Transfers were around 900,000 shares.

Cotton Market

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 20 (AP)—Failure of foreign markets to meet previous domestic advances depressed cotton prices at the start of trading here today and initial trades were 2 to 4 points net lower.

The census bureau's ginnings total to Dec. 13 of 11,413,688 bales apparently was about as expected and was without influence on prices in the early dealings.

Jan. contracts opened at 8.34, March 8.33, May 8.17, July 7.89, Oct. 7.62, Dec. 7.63 bid, March (new) 7.68 bid and May (1940) at 7.70 bid.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Cotton futures opened 3 to 4 lower on disappointing Liverpool cables and under liquidation and hedging.

Open Jan. 8.23; March 8.23; May 8.04; July 7.77; Oct. 7.51; Dec. 7.54.

Foreign orders were mixed. Trade and local buying steadied the undertone but prices showed no rallying power.

March recovered from 8.23 to 8.25 shortly after the first half hour, when the market was 2 to 5 points net lower.

Ginnings of 11,413,688 bales prior to December 13, as reported by the census bureau, represented 97.7 per cent of the estimated crop in running bales.

Raiders To Leave

Sprage and then climb into special automobiles for a parade up Main street. To the accompaniment to continued bombing, the Red Raiders will be showered with thousands of pounds of cotton confetti as they ride toward Stoneleigh hotel, which will be headquarters.

Bands To Participate

The Southern Methodist university band and several Dallas high school bands will be in the crowd that will greet the group.

Bill Bratton, head cheer leader, said that plans were underway for participation of the Saddle Tramps, honorary cheering unit, in activities incident to the Cotton bowl game in Dallas.

The cheer leaders are to arrive there Jan. 1, along with between 35 and 40 members of the Saddle Tramps, and will participate in a mammoth pep rally planned for that night. They will take part in a parade planned for the morning of Jan. 2 and will lead cheering of Tech students and other Tech supporters at the game.

Court Closes Here Monday

Officials of the United States district court had returned to their homes this morning, closing the December term of the Lubbock division until March 16. Judge T. Whitfield Davidson yesterday afternoon announced the adjournment at the close of an afternoon consumed with trial of a case.

Judge Davidson left last night, as did George W. Parker, clerk, Grover C. Leigh, chief deputy U. S. marshal and Matt McKelvey, Wichita Falls, deputy, remained today to close up business for the term. Miss Jeffie B. Maddox, deputy clerk, also returned home.

Special Term Announced

Before leaving Judge Davidson announced a special term to open March 16 with a jury reporting. He advised the jury that they should be back that day, unless notified otherwise. Mrs. Olive Fluke, deputy clerk here, will also notify the jurors.

After dismissing the jury until March, Judge Davidson was asked to hear a non jury case, brought by Elmer M. Thornton of Seagraves and others against Mrs. Gladys Bray, as administratrix of the estate of her late husband, Otho Bray, and others.

The afternoon was taken up with hearing testimony in the Thornton-Bray case. Thornton and Ross Sport testified as to an agreement with the late Otho Bray. They were represented by C. C. Crenshaw and G. W. Dupree. Mrs. Bray was represented by F. D. Wright of Cisco, Kenneth E. Ward of Chickasha, Okla., who claimed a partnership agreement with Bray and others were defendants. Ward appearing and testifying, as did Mrs. Bray, A. L. Duff, jr., of Seminole and Mark Wheeland of Meadow.

Finds For Defendants

Judge Davidson found for the defendants in one mineral deed, dated prior to an agreement made by Bray with Thornton and Sport and dated Jan. 16, 1936, and for the defendants for mineral deeds secured after that date. Crenshaw was instructed to write the findings and submit them to opposing counsel. There was no jury, it having been waived.

A jury at noon reported a verdict for plaintiff on a $3,000 life insurance policy, less amounts charged against it, in the case of Mrs. Samuel L. Rendleman against Kansas City Life Insurance Co. The jury had received the case Saturday noon but was unable to agree until just before noon Monday. No decision was made in a second suit.

Appears With Bond

J. P. Moore, Javton, given until Monday noon to complete a bond, appeared with bondsmen and was released until the May term.

TILING SLABS FALL

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 20 (AP)—Thirty-five slabs of tiling weighing about 200 pounds fell from the ceiling of the city council chamber in Oklahoma City's new municipal building late Monday. No one was in the room.

City Engineer Judge Waldrep said after an examination the tiling "was not put up securely." He said the slabs were held by eight-penny nails.

Cotton Girl To Wear Dress Made Up Of Texas Tech Red Raider Arm, Hat Bands

When the Cotton Girl of the Nation walks through the lobby of Adolphus hotel in Dallas in the Cotton Bowl jubilee there will be no doubt as to what college she represents.

A dress striped with letters forming the words, "Texas Tech Red Raiders," is being made for Miss Opal Hill, senior textile engineering student who recently was designated Cotton Girl of the Nation. The dress is being made by an advanced class in dressmaking under direction of Miss Mabel D. Erwin, head professor of clothing and textiles.

Stripes Are Artistic

The material came from a power loom in the textile engineering building and is like that being cut into strips to be worn as hat and arm bands by Tech supporters at the Cotton Bowl jubilee. A dress length was saved. The stripes are being arranged artistically in the dress.

The dress, sports style, will be worn by Miss Hill when she assists at the Tech exhibit in the lobby of the hotel. She will demonstrate the weaving of the material such as that used in her dress and the hat and arm bands. A power loom from the college will be included in the exhibit.

Miss Hill continues to receive honors in her position as the National Cotton girl. She and M. E. Heard, head professor of textile engineering at the college, will be guests at a dinner to be given by Herbert Jones, vice president of Postex Cotton mills, for the mills' staff at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night at Lubbock hotel.

Cabinet Crisis

Feversham, of the ministry of agriculture. All are parliamentary secretaries.

Newspapers Discuss Situation

Today's newspapers discussed the situation frankly. They said that the fight was particularly aimed against War Minister Hore-Belisha on the allegation that he had misled the country regarding the progress of rearmament and particularly of anti-aircraft rearmament. As regards the four ministers generally, it was said that the juniors complained that they had failed to take advantage of the breathing space after the Czechoslovak crisis to speed armament.

Some predicted that there would be a reconstruction of the cabinet early in the new year, immediately after the return of the prime minister from his mid-January visit to Primier Benito Mussolini if not before. It was intimated that resignations of a big scale might be avoided by a general switch in posts.

mal boundaries of Greater Germany.

The totalitarian design for the next move to the east is based on the Ukrainian independence movement, which established a short-lived independent republic at the close of the World war which was suppressed by the Bolsheviks. The Nazi policy would be to use the autonomous Czechoslovak province of Ruthenia or Carpatho-Ukraine as the nucleus for an uprising of Ukrainians.

Depends On Nazi Aid

Just as the Spanish insurgent movement has been given strength on the battlefield by Italy and Germany, the Ukrainian fight for independence would depend upon Nazi aid for military success. Radio stations on German soil have started broadcasting propaganda to the Ukrainians. There is talk that almost a million Czarist Russian refugees scattered throughout Europe might aid the independence movement, although it is unlikely that Hitler would count heavily on such assistance.

The Ukraine matter far transcends the difficulties of either from the Nazi viewpoint. It was only a few years ago when the German army was being built up by Hitler that the late Marshal Josef Pilsudski of Poland asked the fuehrer whether he wanted to fight it out or sign a 10-year non-aggression treaty. Hitler signed.

Polish Army Equals Nazis

The Polish army and trained reserve today is above 1,500,000 which would probably equal Germany's, and Poland is doing another diplomatic about-face in order to line up with the unknown but admittedly great Soviet armed force. In Rumania, King Carol has antagonized the Nazis and indicated that he might stand with Poland and Russia in a crisis.

The question which Hitler is hoping to answer—probably by a series of indirect test punches next year—is not so much whether Russia will fight but how well she fights.

severe constipation for years. I would bloat terribly after every meal and my stomach would swell making it so hard for me to breathe that I thought I couldn't stand it. For weeks at a time I would have to sit up in a chair to get any sleep at all. I felt drowsy and completely worn-out all of the time. I could not work in this condition and was so disappointed in the failure of so many medicines that I had little if any hope of Gly-Cas being different when my mother persuaded me to try some from a box she had been using."

"I cannot praise Gly-Cas enough for the great amount of benefit I have obtained from its use in such a short time," continued Mr. Morries. "My bowels have been regulated and I haven't a trace of that former dreadful gas and bloating. I am once more able to get restful sleep, former strength and energy has been restored and I am ready each morning to start my days work. It is almost unbelievable what a single medicine can do after so many have failed . . . thanks to Gly-Cas."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns.—Adv.

Attention: SW Conference

By Collier Parris

PETE CAWTHON'S "COUNTRY boys" are supposed to be stricken with all kinds of awe and confusion early tomorrow when they get a big city reception upon arrival in Dallas.

The city of Big D. has arranged all sorts of colorful fireworks, bomb tossing and confetti throwing — a party that will make a Broadway, N. Y., Corrigan reception look pale in comparison—for the Red Raiders entry, and it is all very nice indeed.

Texas Tech, Lubbock and West Texas duly appreciates this gesture of welcome that will spring from the ground, the air and from tall office building windows; they are grateful that the Dallas Mayor and fire department and police department and the heavy citizenry of Dallas are planning such homage, and they are proud indeed to be the recipients of such a fanfare of expression.

It will be something new and different for the Red Raiders, the big fete to be staged in their honor when the team bearing the Raider caravan arrives at Union terminal. The big bomb salute, the showers of thousands of pounds of cotton confetti down Main street, the sirens, the bells and the multitudes — Dallas will know when the Red Raiders hit town, because Dallas has planned it that way.

Thus the Red Raiders have "been around," and they are not altogether and exclusively the "country boys" that Coach Cawthon likes to talk about. It will take more than a few loud bombs and several tons of cotton confetti to disturb the acumen and serenity of the Texas Tech players. They know what it is to be escorted by the cops through busy downtown districts of big cities; they have been met by big bands and city officials, and they have been feted and fed in the most exclusive big city hostelries. They will get a big kick out of the welcome Dallas plans tomorrow morning.

The biggest kick they get out of a reception, however, is on the occasions they return home from a road trip and see a hundred or so earnest and honest students and townspeople gathered at the platform of the local Santa Fe station.

Nobody on the Tech squad, except maybe George Philbrick, the only Dallasite or "big city" boy on the squad," will be overly excited tomorrow morning when the squad hits Big D.

And now for a bit of correspondence.

You have heard and read considerable about Coach Pete Cawthon of Texas Tech. Consider now a communication to this department from MRS. PETE CAWTHON, for whom we're ready to lead a campaign for her election as chairman of a large and important campaign committee. Mrs. Cawthon, a devoted football fan whose interests are all for Texas Tech, writes as follows:

"Texas Tech is the third largest educational institution in Texas, and its teams have played representative teams from 21 states of the nation in recent years. The Red Raiders have upheld the honor of the Southwest on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, and have done much to advance the prestige of the Southwest and Texas.

"Sixty per cent of Texas is west of Fort Worth, yet this vast territory has no representation in the major athletic conference of Texas. West Texas is due some recognition. There are thousands of exes of the seven Southwest conference schools living in this section, all of one mind — desiring to see their teams play Tech.

"The yearly attendance at Tech games will compare most favorably with teams of the conference, and in at least two cases will out-draw them. We have proven that we can play on an equal basis with any Southwest conference team, having defeated Baylor three out of four games, won from the Frogs with Sammy Baugh at his best, split two games with the Mustangs, and lost two to University of Texas and one to the Texas Aggies.

"We have the finest football weather in the state, cold and snappy, condusive to fast football playing; we have had one rainy day for football during the last nine years, and only one snow during that time.

"Texas Tech has over 3600 students, an enthusiastic football team. In addition we have 35,000 ex-students, all boosting the school.

"We have won sixty-five football games, while losing only twenty and tying four. In the National ranking, Tech was placed in the high position of eleventh (in one case) and eighth (in another case) topping all others of the Southwest except Texas Christian university.

"Being selected as the host team for the Cotton Bowl classic shows the high regard this school is given over the Southwest.

"So why are we not in that conference?"

Thanks, Mrs. Cawthon, for a very nicely written and delivered argument. You have the right idea, in every sentence, and you have the support of more thousands of people than it takes to put over any ordinary "election."

Now if we could get Mr. Sportometer to write us a letter . . .

FITTING IN WELL with Mrs. Cawthon's letter is a bunch of paragraphs we take pleasure in "lifting" from Jack O'Brien's "No Foolin'," a weekly newspaper edited and published by the former sports editor of the San Antonio Express-News. Mr. O'Brien, who devotes his weekly exclusively to sports, and who knows nothing about Texas Tech except what he has heard and read but who is open-minded and fair, writes as follows in his personal column:

"Just why the Southwest conference pappies assume that wishy-washy attitude in connection with the admittance of Texas Tech to the conference is hard to understand. Now they have 'put off' considering the application until next May, making sure that Texas Tech can't be included in the 1940 operations of the conference.

"Most of the football schedules are already set for next season and lots of times those schedules call for home-and-home arrangements. The more the delay, the further away is the acceptance of Texas' third largest school in the SWC.

"Certainly, Texas Tech, scholastically, is as good as any school in the conference. We all agree that the coaching staff is on a par with that of any of the conference schools. The boys going to Tech have legs, arms, bodies and heads just like all other boys going to any conference school and as far as records show, Lubbock is not a leper colony. Then why, oh why, all this 'passing-the-buck' stuff when it comes to admitting the fine Tech institution into the conference?

"Oh, yes, we have heard that old wheeze about 'how Tech gets its athletes' and that Pete Cawthon teaches rough football and all that sort of thing, but hell's fire, is a school to be kept out of its rightful place in the conference because they have some big rough and tough lads who play football for keeps?

"We have known Pete Cawthon for many years. We have always found him to be a SQUARE SHOOTER. Surely, he plays the game hard. He doesn't want any pansies in his outfit. He believes in the he-man type of football, and who doesn't?

"There have been some nasty little cracks about 'subsidized athletes' at Lubbock. Nuts! They aren't any more subsidized at Lubbock than they are at Texas, Aggieland, T.C.U. or any of the other schools.

"Of course the business men of Lubbock help their school and the boys in it. Well, doesn't the Humble Oil and Refining company help the boys at Rice. Don't the business men of Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and Waco help bring boys to the respective institutions? Of course they do.

"This thing of the SWC talking about 'subsidized athletes' at Lubbock as USED TO BE THE KICK is like the kettle calling the pot black bottom!"

AND THANK YOU, Mr. O'Brien of San Antonio. It must be nice to own and run your own paper and say what you think right out in public, and you'll find a lot of support in this section when you run for governor.

Junior High's Cowboys May Be Factor

Weldon Chapman, smiling boss of Lubbock's mighty Westerners, will realize an ambition of 17 years standing Monday if his team comes through with the state schoolboy football championship over Corpus Christi.

It was in 1922 that Chapman, a product of Austin college, began his high school coaching career. He took over the reins at Cisco, a hotbed of Interscholastic league football in those days.

Tickets bought in Dallas will sell for $1.50. Student tickets are to sell for 50 cents. Persons making reservations must pay for the tickets when the reservation is made, E. J. Lowrey, business manager of athletics, announced. Two thousand adult tickets and 500 student admissions make up Lubbock's allotment.

Teams Always Tough

His teams became known as the toughest in the race and twice he carried them to the semi-finals. The Big Dam Lobos lost to Oak Cliff of Dallas in 1924 and Oak Cliff went on to win the state title. In 1925 the Lobos were back in the semi-finals but were nosed out by Forest of Dallas which lost to Waco in the championship game.

Chapman stayed at Cisco until 1931 when he transferred to Lubbock. There he gave the Westerners a district championship but the team lost to Abilene in the quarter-finals. In order to get to the quarter-finals Lubbock was forced to play four games in two weeks.

Seasons Have Been Lean

Since 1931 the seasons have been rather lean at Lubbock what with Amarillo running riot, but in 1936 Chapman saw a silver lining to the clouds. It was that year that seven youngsters who had played together on the junior high team came up to the "big time." Those seven youngsters are still playing together—the backbone of one of the strongest teams ever produced in the Panhandle.

Lubbock folks began to talk about a state championship in 1937 because a couple of other fine prospects had joined the squad and the year before a lad named Walter Webster had transferred from Cisco. Today Webster is hailed as the greatest back of the year in scholastic football.

Two Others Join Them

The seven who had played together from junior high school on were Ernest Winter and Joe Bob Foster, ends; Jerry Nash, tackle; Lloyd Sanders and Joe Pytel, guards, and Wayne Johnston and Harold Parsons, backs. Lete Jackson, a back, and Pat Farris, tackle, had also played in junior high but were not large enough to make the first team along with the seven.

This year Wayne Pipes broke into the line-up when the regular center was injured in the first four minutes of the season's opening game. The center, Sparkman, received a broken leg and went out for the year.

Corpus About Same

But Lubbock will go up against a team at Dallas Monday that has been built up much the same way. There are eight regulars at Corpus Christi who have two years experience to their credit. These, with Pat Hall, hailed as the season's best wingman, furnish a nucleus that compares very favorably with that of the Westerners. Hall is a first-year man—and he has another season of eligibility.

So it's experience against experience in the state finals. That's why the critics are forecasting one of the greatest games ever played for the Interscholastic league's top prize.

Mortensen To Face Banaski On Mat At Auditorium Wednesday

Lubbock wrestle fans will have an opportunity tomorrow night to see one of the most unusual bone benders that has hit this circuit in some time.

He is Leo Mortensen, brown headed demon from New York. Last week he smashed Sailor Tex Watkins all over the ring only to lose the match. This week he meets another bad man, Joe Banaski, in the main event.

In the special event at the Allen arena the women take the spotlight again. Last week they made a big hit with the fans with their wrestling as well as giving Referee "Big Train" Clements plenty to do by keeping from getting mixed up in the hair pulling. Clara Mortensen, sister to the boy in the main event, who is recognized as the women's wrestling champion of the world meets Margie Steele for two out of three falls or a two-hour time limit.

Another new face will appear in the curtain raiser, Frankie Hill of Kansas City. He will oppose Bill Cazzell.

Jack Tidbald About Ready To Fill In For Budge But He's Not Ready To Admit Ability

BY HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 20—In 1930 California sent east a tennis player named Jack Tidball. He was 18, red-faced, long-legged, cocky, and hard to handle.

He had a game as hot as a firecracker, and a temperament to match. He had just as lief hit you as a forehand, and while his backhand was all right his behavior wasn't, and his language wasn't quite as impeccable as his lobs.

He Threw Racquets

He hadn't played in more than two tournaments in the Effete East before sportswriters had dubbed him "The Terrible Tempered Mr. Tidball." He threw racquets. He swore so loudly that the twenty-five cent standees could hear him. He tore out his hair as often as he tore out the hearts of the tennis officials, who like their players to be gentlemen if not scholars.

Tidball was such a cutup on the courts that he received airmail letters of admonition from the Pacific Coast association and his parents. And admonition at six cents a letter really is admonition. Pilots risked fog and poor visibility to carry corrective hints to Tidball.

Job Is To Replace Budge

Now, eight years later, this same Tidball is preparing to go east. He will travel with Gene Mako, and his job will be to replace the now professional Donald Budge as the American Davis cup doubles partner of Mako.

Can he do it? Can Tidball, the former screwball, combine with Mako well enough to form a team that can beat back the challenge of the Australians next June?

Asked Tidball Himself

I didn't know the answer to this burning question, so I had lunch with Tidball and put it directly up to him.

"Well," he said, "if you want to know whether I am good enough to make up for Don Budge, the answer is no. No, and two more noes. I'm not good enough to fill Don's shoes, and no other tennis player in the world is. But I think Mako and I will make a pretty good team. We're not new to one another, you know. As long ago as 1933 we played together through a whole season

Bill Lee Best In National

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—William Crutcher Lee, jr., strong man of the Chicago Cubs, was the leading pitcher of the National league last season, official figures released today showed.

The big righthander led both in percentages with .710 and in earned runs with an average of 2.66 per nine-inning game to dominate the circuit's mound corps as completely as Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants formerly had done.

Had Most Victories

Lee turned in the most victories, 22, against nine defeats, had the most shutouts, nine, and tied for starting the most games, 37.

Four of his shutouts came in succession between September 5 and 22 equalling a venerable league record held by Ed Reulbach of Chicago and Grover Cleveland Alexander of Philadelphia.

Lee appeared in a relief role seven times and pitched a total of 291 innings, second biggest load of any pitcher. Of the 1,191 batters he faced, only 281 made hits. 4 received bases on balls and 10 sacrificed.

Reached Top Again

Worth noting too was the fact that Lee led the league in games won and lost in 1935 and the Cubs won the pennant just as they did last season when he reached the top again.

The ten leading pitchers ranked by their earned run averages were Lee; Derringer; Dan MacFayden, Boston, 2.95; Klinger, 3.00; Fred Fitzsimmons, Brooklyn, 3.01; Hubbell, 3.067; Russ Baers, Pittsburgh, 3.075; Clay Bryant, Chicago, 3.10; Vander Meer, 3.12; and Lou Fette,

Corpus Christi High-Scoring Grid Team

Should Lubbock's mighty Westerners entertain any thoughts of plastering a smashing defeat on the Corpus Christi Buccaneers next Monday in the Cotton Bowl without a lot of trouble Coach Chapman might improve matters by reading the southern champions' season record to his charges.

The Bucs lead Class A scoring with 446 points to the oppositions' 79. Like Lubbock the boys of Coach Harry Stiteler have only one contest marring a perfect season, an early season scoreless tie with the Temple Wildcats. But to show that they had improved into one of the best elevens in the state the Bucs proceeded to topple the Temple eleven last week, 20-7.

Team Leaves Thursday

In three out of the 13 games played by Corpus Christi they have made 57, 59, and 59 points respectively. In their district, bi-district, quarter-final and semi-final contests Coach Stiteler's lads have amassed 144 points to 7 for the opposition. That last touchdown was scored by Temple's Tom Pickett.

In comparison the Lubbocks have made 12 points to their opponents' 38. Possibly the reason for the large total scored by teams opposing the Westerners is the fact that those teams were the better offensive clubs than those the Bucs have been meeting.

Coach Chapman plans to run the squad through a stiff workout this afternoon and another hard session tomorrow. The team leaves Thursday morning arriving in Cisco in time for a workout that afternoon.

Plans call for the coaches and team to journey on to Dallas Friday working out there that afternoon and Saturday. Christmas Day will be a holiday for the boys.

Bucs Are Versatile

In the Westerners' hurling charge to the finals for the first time the one thing that has aided them more than anything else has been a stronger forward wall and a more versatile backfield than the opposition could boast. But when the Bronc Riders clash with the Bucs they will be meeting something new. The coast champions have no individual stars. They, too, have a versatile quartet that knows which way to run with the ball, and they do it in a very convincing manner.

Coach Stiteler does have an all-state candidate in Quarterback Emory Nix but he has not piled

Dallas Plans Big Welcome

(Special To The Journal)

DALLAS, Dec. 20—A welcome rivaling that given the president of the United States will be the opening ceremonies for the Red Raiders of Texas Tech when they arrive here early tomorrow morning.

Hundreds of bumbs bursting in mid-air, a "snow" storm of cotton confetti, thousands of cheering persons and a parade up the main section of the city led by the colorful Southern Methodist university band and several local high school bands will be the greeting given the Southwest's representative in the Cotton Bowl classic, Jan. 2.

To Receive Official Welcome

As the Crimson grid machine of Tech rolls into the Union terminal a twenty-nine bomb salute will touch off the celebration.

After receiving an official welcome from Mayor George Sprague, the West Texas delegation will climb into special automobiles for the parade up Main street. It is then that the aerial bombs will be set off and the cotton confetti from office buildings will shower down on the Raiders.

Everyone has been asked to aid in the gigantic greeting to the fighting West Texans and there is little doubt but that one of the largest crowds in the history of Dallas will throng the parade line.

Only a few hours from now Texas Tech's Red Raiders will be rolling toward Dallas and several days of intensive workouts for the Cotton Bowl classic.

Coach Pete Cawthon, 38 football players, two student managers, a trainer and an assistant coach entrain tonight. When the group arrives in Dallas early in the morning the city will give them one of the most colorful receptions accorded anyone since the visit of President Roosevelt.

St. Mary's Gaels, now working inside because of rainy weather in California, arrive in Dallas late next week. Coach Ed Madigan and his special train of followers plan to stop in Lubbock for a big greeting.

Capacity Crowd Expected

The battle between the two squads is expected to fill the Cotton Bowl to capacity for the first time since the games were started. It is Tech's first chance at widespread national recognition and thousands of West Texas fans have bought tickets while orders for ducats continue to pour in from over this section of the state. Several special trains will leave here and nearby cities for the classic.

Final plans for the Raider reception are being made today by Line Coach Smith who drove on to Dallas yesterday.

The squad rushed through its final home workout yesterday with more spirit than has been shown all season. New practice jersies were "broke in" yesterday. New uniforms will be available for the big game it was announced.

Members of the squad were further "dressed up" last night when they were presented with red leather and wool jackets, appropriately adorned with the Tech football emblem. Business men of Lubbock made the classy jackets possible for the coaches, team members and student managers making the Cotton Bowl trip.

After the celebration Coach Cawthon will take his squad to the S. M. U. field where they will hold their workouts until time for the contest.

Those making the trip include: Ends—Prince Scott, Grapevine; George L. Webb, Itasca; E. J. McKnight, Mexia; George Philbrick, Dallas; Jack Wheelis, Mart, and Francis Bingham, Spur.

Tackles—A. B. Murphy, Beaumont; Lechard Latch, Cisco; Bill Davis, Grapevine; Elbert Overton, Yeso, N. M.; Lloyd Taliferro, Plainview; J. B. Gilbert, Cameron; Steve Miller, McAdoo, and Durwood Herring, Mineral Wells.

Guards—Dixie White, Lubbock;

BUY NO ANTI-FREEZE ...until you read these facts about Du Pont "Zerone"*

TESTS PROVE that "Zerone" would keep water from freezing solid even at 215° below zero. You'll never encounter temperatures like that, so you can be sure "Zerone," used in accordance with directions, will protect your car in the coldest weather you'll ever experience.

Materials from which "Zerone" is made are so effective you need comparatively little "Zerone" to achieve protection. That's economy. Properly used, replacements of "Zerone" are little indeed—and that's economy, too.

Tests prove that the mixture of "Zerone" and water passes off engine heat better than water alone. That improves engine performance.

"Zerone" in a clean cooling system prevents formation of rust and corrosion—avoids power losses, helps save fuel and oil. Those are the facts, so ask your dealer to protect your radiator with "Zerone" today. It's only $1.00 a gallon. Du Pont, "Zerone" Division, Wilmington, Delaware.

Declares Facts Must Be Given

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20—Senator Clark (D-Mo) warned the nation last night against propaganda for vast increases in armament—propaganda in which he said "some high government officials" were participating.

"The American people are entitled to know the facts before we embark upon a new program of riotous expenditure," Clark said.

The Missouri senator, an embattled critic of some administration policies and an advocate of a rigid neutrality law, made his remarks in an address prepared for delivery on the Washington Evening Star's Radio Forum (NBC).

He said "a sedulous effort is being made to work the country into a state of pre-war hysteria in which physical facts will be utterly disregarded and our people induced to abandon their hard common sense and see ghosts on every side."

Mentions Johnson By Name

"From high official sources we learn our nation is 'tragically unprepared', as it is put," Clark said.

He mentioned only one government official by name.

"Honorable Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war," he said at one point, "recently raised a cry of panic as to the state of our air forces and somewhat hysterically proposed that we should proceed to build 10,000 planes."

The nation should determine for what purpose it intends to use its armament before proceeding further, Clark contended.

Mailing Of Lace-Trimmed Panties To Duke Footballers Regarded As Psychology By Jones; Blue Devils Depart Today

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20. (U.P.)—Mailing of lace-trimmed panties to two members of the Duke football team with the suggestion that they wear them in the Rose Bowl Jan. 2 against Southern California, was regarded here today as a screened attempt to fire the Blue Devils psychologically.

"Every attempt is being made to give Duke the psychological edge over our boys," said Coach Howard Jones of U. S. C. "I'm sorry that a few people outside of the university have been attempting to belittle Duke. They are just stirring those boys up and making it tougher than ever for the Trojans in a game that at best looks like an even chance for our team."

Jones winked and added jokingly:

"I believe that coaching staffs sometimes inspire their teams in manners similar to this 'pantie' episode."

Blue Devils To Halt Here For Workout At Tech Field

DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 20. (U.P.)—It's "westward ho" for Duke today and everybody but the coaching staff was happy as the Blue Devils worked out briefly before entraining for Pasadena and the Rose Bowl.

The team leaves at 4 p. m. on a 10-car special train and will practice at Pine Bluff, Ark., and Lubbock, Tex. They will practice on Texas Tech's field, Dec. 22.

up any more yardage than has William Dolan, fullback, and Kenneth Mathews, right half. Even the Bucs' blocking half, Jesus Garza, has given a good account of himself when he toted the mail this season.

Hail Are Linemen

In the line the same situation prevails. There is no one standout. However, in the Temple clash last week Pat Hall, 16-year old 202 pound right end, demonstrated he had the ability to become a star. But taking into consideration all games Corpus Christi has played the team has come nearer achieving the aim of playing as a unit than any other schoolboy eleven in Texas.

Those are a few of the reasons why the Westerners do not rule heavy favorites to swamp the Buccaneers and clinch their first Interscholastic league state championship without plenty of opposition. Those are the reasons Coaches Chapman and Keyes are centering everything upon further improving the Lubbock grid machine past its present smooth performances.

Man Who Produced 'Wonder' Teams In Old Lewis Academy 40 Years Ago Finds Players

FORNEY, Dec. 20 (AP)—Edward S. Lovejoy of Boston, Mass., who 40 years ago coached a football team that was undefeated for three years and was top of its class in Texas, has come back to find the school only a memory.

It was at old Lewis academy, where he taught languages and athletics, that Lovejoy produced the "wonder" team of its day. He was fresh from a football playing career at Bowdoin college in 1897 when he came to Lewis academy.

Today he found Lewis academy gone but Madison Brooks, center on the team, still lives here. Frank B. Fowler, now cashier of a bank at Crandall, was a fullback.

Lovejoy used the double criss cross and other plays for the first time in this section. The team played "rings around" all opposition.

and were good enough to win the national clay courts title. We've played a lot together and the only teams that ever beat us were the Elly Vines and Keith Gledhill and Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull of Australia."

Being a thorough, if not tactful, reporter, I asked about his temperment.

"I've Grown Up"

"Just put me down as having grown up," Tidball answered. "I didn't know much then, and was just a kid. Everything I felt I showed, now that I have grown to be a man, and had a try at making a living, I have found that you can't show all the things you feel. I use all my energy playing tennis now, and not cussing myself, the umpire, and my opponent."

Tidball, after nearly four years away from serious tennis competition, returned to the wars last October and best he could do was to lick Eric Filby of England. Jack Bromwich of Australia, and Bobby Riggs in a row. And that was in singles, a game at which he is not as proficient as he is at doubles. Four years of playing for fun has not only changed his temperment—it has cured his forehand weakness, and today he is an even money bet against any amateur in the world.

I have no explanation of this change in Jack Tidball, except that the boy has become a man.

Sturdy's Suspension And Fine Is Upheld; Manager Is Sought

MARSHALL, Dec. 20. (AP) — Guy Sturdy, manager of the Marshall club of East Texas league, was informed today a suspension of 90 days and a fine of $50 imposed on him in connection with a run-in with an umpire last Aug. 12, had been upheld.

George M. Trautman of Columbus, Ohio, chairman of the executive committee of the National Association of Professional baseball leagues, wrote Sturdy that the penalty imposed by Judge W. G. Bramham, minor league czar, had been unanimously upheld by the committee to which Sturdy had appealed.

"The obligation of the executive committee in reviewing your appeal," Troutman wrote, "was to determine whether or not you were guilty of the alleged umpire attack. By your own testimony and that of others it was definitely established that you did participate in a demonstration against the umpire which might have resulted in serious consequences. . . . It was the unanimous opinion that for the good of the game such demonstrations cannot and will not be tolerated."

Sturdy, on receiving the decision, announced that Marshall was now in the market for a manger of the 1939 club. Sturdy previously had taken over the club from Willard Coker.

Taylor Named Frog Captain And Looney Selected Co-Captain

FORT WORTH, Dec. 20. (AP)—Bud Taylor of Austin, a guard, will captain Texas Christian university's football team next season with Don Looney, end from Sulphur Springs, as co-captain.

They were elected at the annual gridiron dinner last night at which time the Houston Post trophies to the most valuable back and lineman in the Southwest conference for 1938 went to David O'Brien and Ki Aldrich, Frog quarterback and center respectively.

O'Brien also received the Dan D Rogers trophy as the most valuable player and Allie White, a tackle, received the Grassy Hinton award as the best all-around player on the Frog team.

Texas Tech Textile Engineers Producing Hat And Arm Band Souvenirs For Bowl

One of the more attractive souvenirs of the approaching Cotton bowl game are arm and hat bands being woven by students in textile engineering at Texas Technological college.

Supplies of the bands, which are being offered for 25 cents, already have been placed in sale in a number of local establishments, according to information given this morning by M. E. Heard, head professor of textile engineering.

Those selling the bands are doing so without profit to themselves.

The money, Heard said, will be used by the Tech Textile Engineering society for 'some worthy cause.

They also will be available in Dallas where many of them will be woven in the space where an elaborate exhibit will be set up in the lobby of the Adolphus hotel. Several machines will be in operation in that space, weaving these souvenirs which will be the official insignia of Tech boosters at the bowl game.

They will be made of cotton grown at Tech. The cotton will be reduced to thread, the thread will be woven into cloth, portions of it will be dyed and the entire processing of the bands will be completed before the eyes of on-lookers.

Those now available here, many of which already have been sold, are of white material through the edges of which are drawn bordering threads of black. Upon the band in inch-high letters of red and black are the words, "Texas Tech Red Raiders."

Support by the Alumni and Ex-Students association of the sale is being given, according to Calvin Hazlewood, secretary.

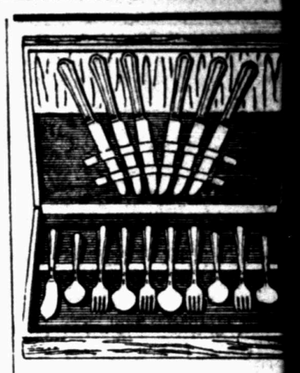

Mail orders will be filled promptly if received at the Textile building before Dec. 21, according to Cash Stanley, jr., assistant professor of Textile engineering.

Legislative Committee Named For County Officials Group

SHERMAN, Dec. 20. (AP)—Judge Jake J. Loy of Sherman, president of the County Judges and Commissioners Association of Texas, has announced the legislative committee of the organization.

The members, from counties listed, included: Judge Oscar C. Caney, Cameron; Judge Wesley Dice, Bell; Judge J. N. Riggs, Potter; Judge Reagan R. Huffman, Harrison; Judge R. V. Hammack, Lamar; Judge Joseph McGill, El Paso; Judge George S. Matthews, Travis; Commissioner O. Jack Orr, Wilbarger.

Judge Loy plans to work with the committee in sponsoring legislation to promote further efficiency and economy in county government. Believing one of the greatest needs is to clarify overlapping and conflicting laws governing the counties, different interpretations of which result in confusion, the Grayson county judge plans to carry on an active campaign for legislative reforms with the aid of the committee.

That Girl on Broadway says another reason she dislikes to grow old is because she finds it increasingly hard to fool herself.

Citizens in increasing numbers are beginning to suspect that Uncle Sam has been playing Stanta Claus by robbing Peter to fill Paul's stocking!

EVERY once in awhile you hear somebody talk about how Abraham Lincoln used to study by the light of a log fire and what a job he had to be cleaning the old-fashioned lamps and cutting their wicks; and how our modern lighting facilities are such an improvement.

And all of that is very true.

But when it comes to modern lighting — and its use — we "ain't seen nothin' yet!"

We're just getting started.

Recent reports from the electric industry are to the effect that it won't be long until lighted golf courses, for night play, are as common as lighted football and baseball fields are today.

Experiments are well under way to scientifically extract the glare from automobile headlights without sacrificing any of their lighting powers.

And it will not be long, we are told, until both highways and city streets are illuminated for night driving in a way that beats all hollow the illumination of any present city street anywhere in the nation.

Well, this is not only good news. It is important news.

Even the most sluggish imagination can visualize what more and better illumination will mean to mankind.

Widespread lighting will open up many here-to-fore impossible fields of entertainment and recreation and, at the same time, will eliminate most if not all of the eye injury traceable to imperfect illumination.

It is something toward which we all may look with great pleasure and anticipation.

And before we get clear away from the subject of electricity, a new type car battery is expected to emerge — but a year or two in the future — from experiments now under way.

It will not use any water, thus doing away with the necessity of having battery water added from time to time.

THERE'S no doubt about it. The younger generation is going to the bow-wows. They are soft.

In case you read the sports columns, you've been reading from time to time the pleadings of Sports Editor Collier Parris for a bigger, better, streamlined, air-conditioned press box out at Tech stadium — replete with hot and cold running water, maid service and all the conveniences of a modern jail. Mr. Parris says the poor sports writers just can't do their work under the present tenement conditions and shouts that the press box is overcrowded with scouts and the blah-blah boys of the radio.

To be brutally frank about it, present-day sports writers don't know anything about real trials and tribulations when it comes to covering the games. Warm and dry —and with a half-dozen assistants each — they "master mind" the grid contests as snug as so many bugs in an equal number of rugs.

The Plainsman, who was covering football games when most of the current sports-writing gentry were wearing diapers, used to have to run up and down the sidelines, even at big-time games, through the dust or the mud and in the cold or the heat — and without a carload of assistants, to boot.

Doubtless they need a bigger and better press box out at Tech, but we'd like to see some of the current sports experts really buck up against some tough going sometime, just so's they'd realize how lucky they are!

Let's hope that 1939 will be a boom year — and not a boom-boom year!

JOHN L. Lewis and his CIO will attempt to take a big hand in the activities of the Democratic party in 1940. Lewis has so declared.

We can't imagine anything worse for the 1940 ambitions of the party.

Lewis and his gang are unpopular with a great part of labor.

They are unpopular with the great majority of American citizens in other walks of life.

Their support in innumerable instances has been "the kiss of death" for their approved candidates.

Give Comrade Lewis a big hand in the Democratic party's operations and watch the party crumble almost over night.

Americans, whether they be Democrats or Republicans — don't want Lewis and they don't want the CIO.

Murder To Music

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MYRNO DOMBEY — heroine. Wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero. Newspaper photographer—detective.

ANNE LESTER — Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELEY — officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday: When Tait calls Myrna's he finds she has disappeared. This makes the situation look extremely bad on the eve of the trial.

CHAPTER XXIV

"Have you looked for a note from Myrna?" Tait asked Anne when he reached the apartment in response to the news that Myrna Dombey hadn't returned.

"Everywhere," Anne said. "But it wouldn't be like her to just leave a note and run. I can't understand it, Bob. She seemed in good spirits."

"Maybe thinking about the trial got on her nerves. Remember, she took a run-out powder on us before."

Anne nodded. "I know. But that was when she was frightened and shocked. This isn't like that. She wasn't worried about Barkley's trial. She knew she didn't kill Dombey and she had faith in you and Dannie Feeley."

Tait sighed, "I wish I could be sure we'll find the murderer of Dombey before Barkley gets under way. It doesn't look too good, Anne. And now with Myrna gone like this—"

"I tell you something's happened to her, Bob. I mean — somebody must be holding her."

Tait was silent a moment. "It might be a stunt of Macy's — or even of Barkley's for that matter. If he can make it look as if Myrna is trying to escape coming to answer the charge against her—" He stopped, fumbled distractedly for a cigaret.

"Bob, aren't you any nearer to knowing who might have killed Dombey?"

"Well . . . probably a lot nearer than we think. That is, we've turned up some suspicious circumstances. But as for an idea as to who and why, we're plenty in the dark. I've found a woman — and she's mixed up with Harris Rogers some way. But I've a feeling we won't get a step closer until we can find the screwy musician who wrote 'The Cat's Meow.'"

He grabbed his hat and stood up. "One thing sure, and that is we've got to get going. Can you stay here for a couple of days—not move out of the apartment?"

"Yes. I'll tell the office I've a cold."

"Good! Myrna may try to telephone you, if she can. And there's the off chance that she'll show up of her own accord. If she does, I don't care what you do as long as you keep here here. If I run into anything that looks cheerful, I'll give you a ring."

It was just as he stepped out of the Claremont that Tait had a hunch — and he played it immediately. Instead of returning at once to his own room for some much-needed sleep, he hurried down to the building of the newspaper where he had last been employed. But he did not take the elevator to the editorial rooms. Instead he went to the classified advertising counter on the street floor. There, unrecognized by the all-night man at the counter, he wrote out the following:

THIS IS THE CAT'S MEOW.

Publishers of Ludden Dombey's song hit, "The Cat's Meow," will pay $10,000 advance against royalties for similar swing band hit. Amateurs with pet songs please do not apply. This is an appeal to professionals who feel they are as good as Dombey was. Address Box ——.

'I want that in the Personals column," Tait said. "Run it until I order it canceled." He started away, then returned. "Mind if I use your 'phone?"

"Help yourself."

Tait picked up the instrument and dialed Dannie Feeley's home telephone number. On the other end of the line he heard the signal buzzing insistently for almost half a minute. At last the sleepy and exasperated voice of Feeley answered. "What's up?"

"This is Tait, Dannie."

The voice came instantly awake. "Yes, Bob. Anything new?"

"Not much. But I'm going to hit the hay for several hours and I want to keep you posted. I've found the girl with the perfume. She's Nelda Starr, lives in 1009 at the Beresford Tower. And she's a friend of Rogers'. I met her tonight at the Golden Bowl, and went with her to the Beresford. Rogers was there."

"The devil you say! I'll have the dame tailed from now on."

"Might be a good idea. And I've had a hunch. I'm advertising in the Personals column for our screwy swing song composer. I'm saying that the publishers of the Lud Dombey song will offer $10,000 for another like it."

"Sounds goofy to me. He'll never bite."

"It's just a hunch, Dannie. I have good luck with hunches, and if this bird is as full of ego as I think he is he may bite."

When he had allowed the detective to go back to bed Tait turned to the attendant. "If I get an answer to that can you telephone me immediately at Elwood 6750?"

"Of course."

As Bob left the newspaper building he was literally in a daze, fatigued from loss or sleep and energy —and worry over Myrna. His inclination was to try to find her, but he knew that he was too dead gone to even think. He had dared not tell Dannie Feeley that Myrna was gone. It would have made Feeley wild, and in his panic he might have started a police search and told the world. Tait felt that if Myrna was being held against her will she was relatively safe, for the killer of Dombey would not be likely to do away with the suspect surest to stand between him and the chair. The plan was probably to hold her until the police and the newspapers were in full cry, then let her be found. By then public opinion would be in such a state that almost any jury would go against her—especially with Barkley urging them.

Somehow he made it to his apartment, dropped his clothes around him, and fell into bed. . . .

He was startled by the screaming of his telephone. The room was still in darkness. Muttering under his breath, and still half asleep, Tait answered. It was the classified department of the newspaper.

"We have an answer to your notice in the Personals column, sir," said a pleasant voice. "You requested that we telephone you."

In amazement Bob realized that he had slept through the day and into the next night. "Send it to me by messenger, will you, please?"

He switched on the light and looked at the clock. It was almost 10! In a frenzy he telephoned Anne Lester. "Have you heard from Myrna?"

Anne Lester hadn't and was almost hysterical. "Keep your chin up," Tait pleaded. "I think I'm on the track of something now. I'll keep in touch with you."

In a few moments a telegraph messenger was at the door. He handed Tait a white envelope, addressed to a newspaper box number in an erratic scawl. Tait's fingers trembled as he took it. Trembled so hard that he could hardly find change with which to pay the messenger. In that smudged envelope might well be encased the solution to the murder of the tom of the swing cats. In it might be Myrna's freedom.

It's been a long time since we've received a Letter to the Editor signed "Taxpayer." Which gives rise to the suspicion that having received his notice from the Lubbock Independent school district and the information that the City of Lubbock has hiked it's rate he's reached the point where he can't afford a postage stamp!

"THE Night Before Christmas" probably always will be our favorite Yuletide literature, but just the other day we ran across a piece by Ogden Nash which is worth at least one reprinting—if not one million.

The piece, under the heading "Merry Christmas. Nearly Everybody," appeared first in the Red Book magazine but was brought to The Plainsman's attention in "The Clubwoman," publication of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, of which, we must confess, we are not a regular reader. But anyhow, we believe you'll like Mr. Nash's biting observations.

Here they are:

"Christmas time used to be the time when everybody loved everybody.

"And even in the subway when everybody had their arms full of packages nobody shoved everybody.

"People went around looking benevolent,

"And good will was pleasingly prevalent.

"And the cockles of people's hearts were all warm and cockley

"And crisp new bills were showered on elevator boys like broccoli.

"And people had grandmothers and were fond of their family.

"And the weather acted more New Englandly and less Miamily.

"And on Christmas Eve people would assemble their friends and merrily sing carols with them and merrily congeal with them.

"And they sent Christmas cards to people because they liked them and not because they hoped to put over a deal with them.

"Yes, the good old Yultide was indeed sublime.

"But that was once upon a time.

"Because now everybody has somebody they are trying to blow to pieces or dismember.

"And people can't concentrate properly on blowing other people to pieces properly if their minds are poisoned by thoughts suitable to the twenty-fifth of December.

"Hence my thesis.

"Which is that I think it is much nicer to have a nice Christmas than to blow somebody to pesis,

"So please excuse me for a moment while I momentarily take my mind off Tokio and Peiping and the Rebels and the Loyalists;

"Forgive me if I temporarily ignore the disagreement between Mr. Lewis and the Economic Royalists;

"This is not the season for tales of Der Fuehrer and his sportsmanship;

"Call again on the twenty-sixth if you want to discuss the Chief Executive and his Supreme Courtmanship;

"Christmas comes but once every Anno Domini,

"And I want an oldfashioned one and I invite everybody who is on my side to enjoy it the way it ought to be enjoyed, even though everybody on the other side will undoubtedly cover us with ignominy."

Hooray for an oldfashioned Christmas (and don't dare spell it with an "X"!) like Ogden Nash's!

THE COMMISSION'S WISE DECISION

Some may have wondered whether the City commission acted wisely recently when it refused passage of an ordinance which would have required a full stop of all vehicular traffic before moving over any railroad grade crossing in the city limits.

Admittedly, grade crossing accidents would be fewer if every vehicle was brought to a stop before moving upon the rails. At the same time, that practice is not necessary to safe driving. The driver who has his vehicle under control and who looks to right and left before going upon the crossing is in no danger of an accident.

Objection to the ordinance is that it would have been wholly impractical. The only way to have enforced it would have been to keep a man on constant duty at every crossing. That would have been a forbidding expense, and one not justified by circumstances.

One is inclined to suspect that sponsors of the ordinance were motivated selfishly. If an accident should occur with such an ordinance on our books, and if a damage suit should result, the railroads might immediately have as one defense that the victim of the accident was a violator of law—even though it were a needless law.

We agree with the City commission. There was absolutely no reason for further cluttering city law books with a needless, unenforceable ordinance.

THE PRIVATE Papers of a Cub Reporter: There's Ken Murray's anecdote about the Nazi customer in a beer garden who greeted a waiter with: "Heil, Hitler!" . . . The waiter ignored it. . . . When the patron said it again and the waiter didn't tumble, the patron exclaimed: "Didn't you hear what I said? Aren't you a Dutchman?"

"I'm from Holland," stiffly replied the waiter.

"You'd better watch out," said the Loud Mouth, "the Leader took Austria and Czecho-Slovakia. He'll go over to Holland soon."

"Well, we found room for the Kaiser," said the waiter, "so I guess we can take care of Mr. Hitler, too."

In The Stork the other midnight Beatrice Lillie was showing her friend, Sally Braberry of London, the local sights. "Over they-ah," said Lady Peel, "you see Ethel Merman, a dear gel who seengs sahngs. At the nayxt table is Senator Walsh of somewhere or othah, and ovah they-ah you see Verah Zorinah and Robert Morleh of the stage. All of them intristing persahns of New York!" . . . Sally looked over at a group at a corner table where sat Sherman Billingsley, the Stork owner, this newsboy, Clyde Tolson and John Edgar Hoover, G-Men-about-town. "I suppose," supposed Sally, "those men are gangsters."

THE OTHER afternoon Mrs. Roosevelt and Kitty Carlisle were in the Paramount building to pose for pictures to help the sale of Christmas seals. . . . They took the same elevator down, too. . . . As they reached the sidewalk, Mrs. President said: "Can I give you a lift?" . . . The admiring actress, welcoming the opportunity of spending more time with The First Lady, said she'd love it. . . . As they proceeded to Mrs. R.'s cab—a voice from the crowd (that Kitty tried not to hear) shouted: "Oh, Miss Carlisle! Here I am! Your car is around the corner!" . . . It was Kitty's chauffeur, who probably had no idea why she glared—until he sees this here.

Among other little known "celebrities" is Deputy Sheriff Matthew Larkin. He takes all the Mighty Who Have Fallen on their last ride to Sing Sing prison. . . . Whitney, the stock exchange king, and Murderer Irwin were among his most recent guests Up There. . . . He is a popular man this Larkin, because he does more to cheer up his charges than any of the pep-systems. He doesn't give them any false hope— such as a new trial "and you'll be out." . . . He merely points out to them, with a convincing philosophy, that it all seems easier if they take it like men. . . . The only thing that burns up Larkin is that the newspapers invariably refer to the prisoner's escorts as detectives. . . . They are not detectives, but deputy sheriffs—the Last-Mile friends of rich and poor alike—when they go up to pay their debt to society—meaning pure folks—like you.

SPEAKING of gangsters, an ex-convict lifted the eyebrows of a group last night when he told of his stay in Leavenworth, the federal hoosegow. . . . In all federal pens, he said, the prisoners aren't known by numbers as prisoners are known in this and that jail, penitentiary or lockup. . . . In the federal hoosegows the inmates have name plates on their cell doors—"Alphonse Capone," for instance, "Alvin Karpis," and so on. . . . The inmates of Uncle Sam's prisons, the ex-con added, always have orchestras (sometimes as many as 25 instruments) during luncheon and dinner. . . . Tennis, handball, badminton, baseball, football and horseshoe pitching are some of their diversions, and they don't have to work. . . . If they do work —they are paid for what they do. . . . In short, said the ex-con, the real prisoners in the federal pens are the guards. . . . They work ten hours every day—for that doesn't rate the dignity of the word—salary. . . . And the food they get is inferior to that enjoyed by the lawbreakers!

One of the drama editors is noted for his greediness in the matter of passes. The press agents' phones are kept tingling by this bird's constant calling up for a pair "for tonight." . . . The other day he telephoned the press agent for a leading musical hit and requested four seats. . . . The p. a. said "O.K." and put his name on the list for four seats. . . . When the show's producer saw the list he hit the ceiling. . . . The p. a. explained that the fellow rated the seats as he had given the show some publicity breaks and suggested that to turn him down would be running the risk of incurring his disfavor. . . . "But," protested the producer, "how do you know it was he? Couldn't it have been someone who used his name?". . . "Listen," snapped the p. a., "nobody but that chisler would have the nerve to ask for FOUR seats!"

Failure Of Investment Not Due To Failure Of Funds; Statistics Prove That Opinion

BY JOHN T. FLYNN
NEA Staff Correspondent

The years 1925 to 1929 are generally regarded as years of amazing and rising prosperity. The years 1933 to 1938 are usually looked upon as years of great depression.

In spite of this the following singular fact is worth recording. From 1925 to 1929 inclusive bank deposits in the United States increased from 20 billion to 55 billion. That was an increase of 35 billion dollars.

From 1934 to 1938 bank deposits increased from 37 billion to 53 billion. That was an increase of 16 billion. Both represent enormous increases.

FLYNN

The question is, how did bank deposits rise so mightily in these depression years? And why were we prosperous under one great deposit rise and continuously in depression under another?

The answer is that as bank deposits rose in the banks of America in 1925 to 1929 the accumulations of depositors were promptly poured into business through new investments. But from 1933 to 1938, as deposits rose, very little of these new deposits made their way into new investments.

In the first group of years the deposits of banks rose under the influence of private borrowing at the banks has slowly diminished But government borrowing increased. And deposits in the second group of years increased under the influence of government borrowing.

Funds Keep On Growing

The bald truth revealed by these facts is that the failure of investment is not due to the failure of funds. Funds have steadily risen. The first theory behind government borrowing was that as government credit was used to create deposits at the banks, these deposits would begin to flow out into business. The first proponents of this theory believed that a few hundred million dollars would do the job. That was called priming the pump.

Since then not a few hundred millions, but a staggering number of billions have been poured into the banks through government loans. But they have failed to flow out. Why?

The pipe line along which savings flow from the savings reservoir of the country into new industry is called investment. What has happened to that pipe line? Why do savings refuse to flow through it into industry? What force along the way is causing the trouble?

Here May Be The Answer

I have one suggestion. The old pipe line, the financial system once used, was a bad one. It needed repairing. Too much of the savings sent through it never reached new industry, but leaked off into the hands of promoters and other parasites along the way. It was necessary to rebuild that pipe line. But it was of the most imperious importance that it should be rebuilt quickly.

Instead the rebuilding of it has been going on since 1933. It has been cluttered up with the workmen, the machinery used for rebuilding it. The job has been dragged out.

A wise administrator would have seen the need for tackling this job first thing in 1933 and getting it done within a year or two and then throwing the pipe line open for public traffic. That pipe line is a public highway. You cannot expect traffic to flow along a public highway which is perpetually under repair. That is one of the reasons for the lack of traffic along that line.

Allred Urges Parole Study

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 20.—Extreme caution in revising clemency and parole laws was advocated today by Governor James V. Allred who warned against turning out criminals before they served their terms.

The governor discussed proposals to permit more clemency in order to reduce an increased prison population, in a portion of his address to be delivered to the legislature convening in January.

ALLRED'S RECORD CHECKED

AUSTIN, Dec. 20 (AP)—A check today showed 830 conditional pardons and 453 reprieves had been granted convicts from Jan. 1, through Nov. 30 by Governor James V. Allred upon recommendation of the board of pardons and paroles.

Fifty revocations of clemencies were ordered by the governor because of new convictions of improper conduct of the convicts so pardoned.

Many Are Diseased

"During the past year, our of 2,900 convicts received at the penitentiary, 1,300 were suffering from venereal diseases, he said. Some 850 of the 1,300 were afflicted with sypihilis. It takes over a year of treatment in the state penitentiary to render this disease non-communicable.

"Does anyone advocate a veneral policy the release of convicts suffering from communicable diseases upon a public already terrified by disclosures of health authorities as to the increasing prevalence and ravages of this most dread disease?"

Praises Work Of Board

Governor Allred praised the work of the board of pardons and paroles and more than 150 voluntary parole boards over the state, said less than 10 per cent of thousands of convicts released on condition clemency had been returned for violation of conditions and urged legislators to keep the three-man advisory parole board in Austin instead of removing it to Huntsville as had been suggested.

Admitting much criticisms had been heaped on the parole board for an increase in prison population from 5,800 to 7,000 during his four-year administration, the governor said:

"The increase has been attributed to (1) an increase in the number of convicts received at the penitentiary; (2) refusal to recommend or grant clemency to convicts suffering from venereal or other communicable disease; (3) We have not been quite so 'liberal' in releasing men as has been done upon past occasions; (4) a change in the method of figuring commutation and overtime under the present law as construed by the court of criminal appeals."

Classification Has Aided

The governor said the most far-reaching reform achieved by the state prison board in recent years was installation of a classification bureau by which each convict was studied, analyzed and classified as to his probable rehabilitation—whether he was a good, fair or poor risk.

He said prior to his administration no attention was paid to the physical condition of the convict when clemency was granted, a policy which had been changed and for which he had no apologies.

Should Be Cured First

"I regard as a constructive achievement," he said, "promulgation of the rule requiring, except in special cases, a venereal disease 'clearance' before discharge on clemency."

Governor Allred explained the court-corrected commutation law for good behavior as two days per month for the first year, three days a month or 36 days a year for the second, four days a month or 48 a year for the third year, etc., increasing one day per month for each year up to and including the ninth, and for the tenth and subsequent years, 15 days per month.

"In addition," he said, "the board is allowed to give the convict credit for overtime—a credit of one extra hour for each hour put in. In allowing this overtime—where a man has built up 300 hours of time, (he is credited) with 30 days, basing it on a 10-hour day.

Wouldn't Board Do Better?

"If the present law should be be changed to the extent proposed by some . . . men might be automatically discharged long before serving the actual time assessed by the jury. Might it not be better to leave worthy cases in the discretion of the board and the governor where their clemencies could be promptly revoked, rather than permit discharge too long before the expiration of the term adjudged by the jury?"

The governor reminded the legislators that in 1936 a constitutional amendment took the unrestrained powers of clemency out of the governor's hands and required that before the governor could exercise the power it must be recommended by a majority of the board of pardons.

Elephants are not afraid of mice, as a popular superstition would have you believe.

News Briefs

Back To Location—The Farm Security administration office, located for some months in the grand jury room on the second floor of the federal building, has moved back to its location after having been in one of the army recruiting rooms temporarily.

Car Stolen—A blue (Terraplane) coupe, license 666-171, was reported stolen from a Mrs. Woods, said Lubbock police. Authorities were watching for another car, description of which they had received, driven by a man reported wanted at Muleshoe on a bad check investigation.

Tools Sought — E. D. Champlin of 1122 Fourteenth street Monday gave authorities name and description of a man Champlin said he believed took from him plumbing tools. The man formerly lived at Colorado, Texas, Champlin said.

Leavertons Have Daughter — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leaverton of 2305 Twenty-fifth street are parents of a daughter born at 9:30 o'clock this morning at West Texas hospital. The baby weighed 5 pounds 9 ounces.

Off For Penitentiary—C. E. Luce, United States deputy marshal, this morning accepted custody of six federal prisoners and transferred them from county jail on the first leg of a trip to Leavenworth and El Reno federal prisons. All had been sentenced in federal district court here last week.

Purse Missing — Her purse and $25 were missing this morning, reported Mrs. L. G. Brown of 1219 Sixteenth street to police. She said there were papers in the purse that would establish identity of the owner. She missed it after a shopping tour.

Condition Unchanged—Mrs. Matilda Popejoy of 2313 Ninth street remained "unchanged" this morning, said family members. The "oldest Lubbock mother" has been in a stupor three days. If she lives until Jan. 24 she will be 93 years old.

Stewart At Lions—Dr. Allen T. Stewart discussed socialized medicine and a proposed government program governing establishment of a national system, at the Lions club luncheon today at the Hilton hotel. Dr. M. H. Benson was chairman. Plans for the annual Christmas party Saturday were outlined by W. H. Evans, chairman.

Car Stolen—Jack Barr told police today his 1937 (Ford) two-door sedan, license 130-067, had been stolen Monday night.

None Hurt In Wreck—Fred Doyle, 26, of 2104 Main street and H. M. McEachern, 56, of Lubbock route 1 escaped without injuries when their automobiles "sideswiped each other" at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Thirteenth street and Avenue L, said police.

Marksmanship Protested—O. G. Kershner didn't like the implications figuring in a hole drilled in a glass door of his residence at 1708 Fifteenth street. He telephoned police someone had fired a bullet into his house.

Mailing Rush

the postmaster. "We have force large enough to dispatch all outgoing mail in time for the night train."

Incoming mail, brought in sacks from the depots, is worked into streets and blocks. These packages are resacked and distributed to the six trucks used in distribution of packages over town. Each truck makes two or more trips a day.

Howard again emphasized the necessity of affixing proper postage to Christmas cards. Many delays have resulted from persons not putting the proper postage on envelopes.

"If there is a message written on a Christmas card it becomes first class mail matter and the sender will be notified to supply the additional postage," he said. "Postal regulations do not permit forwarding cards without sufficient postage."

Special Train Plans

are expected.

Definite schedules for the special trains to the Tech-St. Mary's games will be arranged at the convenience of the public. Those planning to go were asked to call the Santa Fe station and say when they would like to go. One train probably will leave Dec. 31 and one on Jan. 1, although both possibly will leave Jan. 1. Round trip fare will be $7.15.

Fans may go on the regular 10:10 p. m. trains Dec. 30-31 or Jan. 1 and receive a round trip rate of $7.90. Those going on the regular trains at that special rate may return on the Avalanche-Journal chartered trains.

First class rate for the specials to the Tech-St. Mary's game will be $16.05, with added berth rate of $1.60 each way in tourist cars or $2.90 each way in standard cars.

A pullman will be taken on the special to the high school game if as many as 15 persons request.

Crash Probe Is Ordered

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 20.—Coast guard officials from Washington, D. C., were to arrive here today to launch an investigation into the crash of a coast guard plane near Boerne, which claimed the lives of the pilot and three passengers.

Bodies of the men, which were blown to bits by the terrific explosion when the ship nose dived into the ground, were identified from belt buckles and papers found in billfolds. They were:

Lieut. P. S. Lyons, 34, pilot, unit commander of the United States coast guard, El Paso.

C. H. Teague, United States naval ensign, El Paso.

Rupert H. Germaine, 32, coastguard, El Paso.

George C. Latham, enlisted man at Fort Bliss, El Paso.

Crashed Last Night

The plane, enroute from El Paso to Houston, crashed in the M. A. Schumard, pasture, 100 yards from the south Boerne city limits, near the old San Antonio-Boerne highway at 9:58 last night.

Justice of the Peace H. L. Davis of Boerne, who resides only a block from the scene of the tragedy, said that while several persons were of the opinion that the ship was aflame before it struck the ground, he believed the explosion resulted in the blaze.

He said from his investigation, he believed the plane had developed serious motor trouble and was attempting to locate a landing field.

Bright lights, seen before the crash, were flares dropped by the pilot, Davis asserted.

"When the plane hit the ground," Davis said, "a terrific explosion occurred, shaking the town.

"I rushed over there and found a gruesome sight. The wreckage and bodies were scattered over 350 yards."

Assisted by C. E. Haley of El Paso, a coast guardsman who was in San Antonio, Davis gathered up bits of bodies in boxes, working until 3 a.m. today. After identifications were made, the bodies were brought to San Antonio.

Wrapped In Parachute

The body of Pilot Lyons was found wrapped in a parachute, indicating that he had prepared to jump.

Fort Sam Houston hospital authorities said the bodies would be held there pending positive identification and instructions from El Paso.

An official said "we have all the clothing and bodies but identifications must be verified."

Special Meeting Of Commission Is Scheduled For December 28

Special meeting of the city commission has been set for the afternoon of Wednesday, Dec. 28, to consider for passage on first reading an ordinance providing for the pavement of 41 blocks of residence streets, according to information given at the city hall this morning.

The meeting had been planned originally for next Thursday. Postponement became necessary, however, when it was discovered that insufficient time remained to give the required 10 days' public notice that the ordinance was to be considered.

The notice, officials explained, is required for benefit of those who may desire to appear in protest.

'Bugs' Listen In On KFYO Test Program; Letters Received

From coast to coast and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico radio "bugs" listened in during the early morning hours of last Dec. 6 to the monthly DX test program of KFYO, the Avalanche-Journal station.

This was disclosed this morning in a report to the chamber of commerce of cards and letters from those who heard the program.

The DX program, it was explained, is a monthly test required of all stations by the federal radio commission. It is intended to ascertain whether the station is keeping on its assigned frequency. That of last Dec. 8 from KFYO was dedicated to members of the Newark News Radio club, an organization of fanatics who listen for distance. Its membership is described as the largest in the world.

Among those from whom acknowledgements have been received, the chamber was advised by De-Witt Landis, KFYO manager, are fans in Cleveland, Ohio, Long Island, N. Y., San Diego, Calif., St Louis, Lawrence, Kan., Des Moines, Iowa, and numerous nearer points.

The event, incidentally, was termed the "Red Raider" program and gave further opportunity to publicize Texas Technological college and the Raiders as well as Lubbock and the South Plains.

Four Detours Are In Effect On Highways In Area This Week

Four detours on state highways in this division are in effect and will be for, the week beginning Thursday, said George M. Garrett, division engineer. Detours are in Gaines, Castro, Swisher and Garza counties.

Mayor LaGuardia Knocked Down On Steps Of Gotham City Hall

NEW YORK, Dec. 20 (AP)—Mayor F. H. LaGuardia was slugged today as he mounted the city hall steps by a heavy-set gray-haired man tentatively identified as J. Hagen.

The assailant, who leaped upon the mayor from behind and struck him down with the blow of his fist, was set upon by bystanders and police and beaten insensible.

The attack occurred in the presence of hundreds of persons gathered in and near the City Hall plaza to watch the demolition of the old federal building that stands there.

Musica Rites Held Monday

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 20—The body of the most spectacular swindler of this age, Philip Musica, who was born a Catholic, kept a book on Christian Science by his bedside and listed himself in 'Who's Who" as a protestant, was interred Monday with ceremonies by a Methodist minister.

He was buried as "F. Donald Coster," though the discovery of his long masquerade under that name led to his suicide last Friday.

In a burnished copper casket placed in a crypt of a Brooklyn mausoleum.

Only Six Present

The burial was private, as was the earlier funeral service at a mortuary, and so far as could be learned the only persons present were the Rev. Albert E. Beebe, pastor of the First Methodist church of Bridgeport, Conn., and five professional pallbearers.

Mrs. Coster-Musica had called earlier at the mausoleum and had arranged that this inscription be cut into the face of the crypt:

"F. Donald Coster
"1844—1938."

Snow And Sleet Fall

Snow and sleet fell as the hearse arrived, accompanied by only one motor car—for the hired pallbearers. The Rev. Mr. Beebe read from the scriptures as the coffin was placed in the crypt.

The same minister had conducted the funeral services held in a Brooklyn funeral home in the presence of two other members of the strange Musica clan, Arthur Musica and Robert Musica, who like the head of the family had adopted other names—"George Vernard" and "Robert Dietrich." They were handcuffed to officers.

The third brother, George E. Dietrich-Musica, assistant treasurer and assistant vice president of the firm, in charge of the crude drugs department which built up the illicit or ficticious $18,000,000 assets was brought down from New Haven, Conn., but did not attend the funeral.
