Low turnout logged in primaries

By Becky Werhan

Less than 2,000 Aransas County voters turned out for Saturday's primaries, with approximately 1,608 voting in the Democratic election and 348 voting Republican.

According to the county spokesmen, the turnout was "very low," in light of the fact that 6,733 voters are registered in Aransas County.

One local Democratic race, for Commissioner, Precinct 4 and 4A will go into the June 5 runoff. Incumbent J.M. Spiegel received 125 votes in the primary, with challenger Mike Womack garnering 146 and Judge Elmo Hodges earning 72. Spiegel and Womack will face each other in the runoff.

In the other commissioner's race held this primary, for Precinct 2, incumbent Ray Longino had 505 votes, defeating his opponent Gary T. Olson, who received 60 votes.

Only one other local Democratic race was an opposed one. The County Treasurer's post went to Marvin Wix, with a total of 977 votes over opponent H.R. Bean who received 609.

In the area Republican races, Justice of the Peace for Precinct 3 Bill Walston garnered 132 votes; Justice of the Peace for Precinct 4 candidate Robert Jake Campbell got 50 votes and County Republican Chairman Harold L. Shirey received 294 votes.

Kerry Carruth, running for Precinct 1-1A, received 71 votes; Margaret A. Gill, chairman for Precinct 2 got 29 votes, with two write-in votes cast for Blas Ramirez in the race; Precinct 3's Lenora Beck received 142 votes; Antoinette J. Lamonte in Precinct 4 got 17 votes and in Precinct 4-A, Jan McGlasson received 30 votes.

Democrats running unopposed in the Saturday primary included District Judge, 36th District, Ronald M. Yeager, receiving 1329 votes; District Judge, 156th District, Rachel Littlejohn, receiving 339 votes and County Judge John D. Wendell garnering 1362 votes.

Also, District Clerk Agnes A. "Tony" Harden, who received 1382 votes and County Clerk candidate Val Jean Eaton, receiving 1346 votes.

County Surveyor T.E. Griffith received 1302 votes.

Democratic Justice of the Peace candidates were, for Precinct 1 Bonnie McCarty, receiving 300 votes and David Boling for Precinct 2, receiving 388 votes.

Also, Precinct 3 candidate Phillip D. Baldwin who will face Republican Walston in the November 4 election, received 348 votes, and in Precinct 4, candidate Eileen C. Jeffers, who will run against Republican Jake Campbell in November, received 246 votes.

Louise A. Wilken, running for Democratic chairman received 1232 votes.

Precinct 1 chairman Willie Mae Elliot received 223 votes, Virginia Shivers in Precinct 2 got 427, Precinct 4 chairman Zora Belle Casterline received 106 and Genevieve H. Heldenfels in Precinct 4-A got 161 votes.

Area results in line with state

By Pat Blair

Aransas County proved a fairly accurate barometer of state and federal primaries his past weekend, with county voters casting their ballots pretty much in line with the rest of Texas.

Aransas County Democrats helped elect incumbent Lloyd Bentsen the candidate for the U.S. Senate in November, giving Bentsen 1,212 votes to 309 cast for his opponent Joe Sullivan.

County Republicans went strongly for Walter Mengden Jr. in the race for Bentsen's GOP opponent, casting 172 votes for Mengden, 135 for Jim Collins and 28 for Don L. Richardson. Statewide, however, Collins took the Republican nomination and will face Bentsen in November.

In the race for U.S. Representative, 14th District, Democrat — and incumbent — Bill Patman was running unopposed. But two Republicans were seeking their party's nomination for this office and the bid went to Joe Wyatt Jr. In Aransas County, the vote was 275 for Wyatt, 59 for his opponent, Tom Newton, giving Wyatt approximately 82 percent of the vote.

District-wide, Wyatt received 68 percent of the vote, sending him into the November showdown against Patman.

Republicans overwhelmingly gave the nomination for governor to incumbent Bill Clements. In Aransas County, the vote was 316 for Clements vs. 25 for challenger Duke Embs.

In the race for governor on the Democratic ballot, Aransas County went in large numbers to Attorney General Mark White, giving him 883 votes compared to 308 for second-runner Buddy Temple.

Statewide, the vote was closer with White receiving just over 45 percent of the ballots cast and Temple garnering more than 30 percent in the six-way race. The two will face each other in a runoff June 5 to determine who will go against Clements in November.

Also headed for a runoff next month are Democrats Jim Mattox and John Hannah in the attorney general's race. These two were the top-runners in Aransas County too, but while Mattox led Hannah in the overall state results, local Democrats preferred Hannah, 569 to 410. Max Sherman received 237 votes locally in that race and Jack Ogg pulled 193.

The Republicans didn't put up a candidate for this office.

In the state treasurer's race, in the Democratic primaries, another June 5 runoff shaped up between incumbent Warren G. Harding and challenger Ann Richards. Richards led Harding both statewide and in Aransas County where Democrats gave her 768 votes to Harding's 525. Lane Denton and John R. Cutright received 137 and 50 votes respectively from local voters in that race.

The winner of the June 5 Democratic runoff will face Republican Millard K. Neptune in November. Neptune ran unopposed on the GOP primary ticket.

County Democrats also reflected state results in the lieutenant governor's race, giving Bill Hobby 1,329 votes compared to 156 for his opponent, Troy Skates. Statewide, Hobby garnered nearly 90 percent of the votes. In November, he'll face GOP candidate George W. Strake Jr., unopposed in the Republican primaries.

In the comptroller's race, county Democrats gave the nomination to Bob Bullock and Republicans went to Mike Richards — again keeping with the statewide results.

Redistricting as a result of 1980 census put two new names on the ballot this year, in the elections for state representative, 36th District, and state senator, 18th District.

Redistricting in the Texas Senate moved Aransas County out of the district of Republican incumbent James E. (Buster) Brown and put it in the district represented by Democratic incumbent John Wilson. Wilson ran unopposed for re-election in the Democratic primary. Next November, he

After hearing remarks from a standing room only crowd the commissioners of the Aransas County Navigation District voted to approve a request from Danny Adams to expand the fuel dock in Rockport Harbor and allow him to begin loading shrimp at the dock owned by the Ankele Investment.

Adams had originally made the request for the permit at the April 6 meeting but it was denied because of an improper procedure during the meeting.

At that meeting Adams had filed on the agenda to request a permit to expand the fuel dock. Protests were heard from the audience that the commissioners should not be listening to a request to unload shrimp because that was not on the agenda.

At last Wednesday's meeting the agenda states that Adams was seeking a permit to expand the fuel dock facilities and purchase seafood products.

During the discussion several local shrimpers who said they were members of the Rockport Co-op voiced their opposition to granting the permit while two members of the audience spoke up in favor of the Navigation District granting the request by Adams.

Buddy Bateman, Rockport shrimper, complained that shrimpers were unable to get fuel at the fuel dock and he said no one ever knew when the fuel dock was open and he urged the commissioners to make Ankele Corporation improve the service at the fuel dock.

Leon Bateman asked the commissioners what would happen if another energy crisis comes, "Who do you think is going to get the fuel?" said Bateman. He continued his argument against the granting of the permit, saying, "The thing was built for a fuel dock."

Rockport motel owner Jerry Beattie voiced opposition to the idea, saying he won't even send his customers over to the fuel dock because it is never open.

Two members of the audience spoke in favor of granting the request, saying that they knew that if Adams got a permit to offload shrimp it would be the cleanest operation in town.

During the debate Mrs. Ankele apologized to the commissioners for the manner in which the fuel dock had been run in the past and said the fuel dock would be open regular hours from now on.

Adams concurred and said, "From this

Rites observed for J. D. Gray

Funeral services for John D. Gray, 69, former superintendent of the Aransas County Independent School District, have been set for 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 5, in the Marshall Funeral Home Chapel.

Rev. Barrett Renfro, pastor of Rockport's First United Methodist Church, will conduct the services. Burial will be in Rockport Cemetery.

Mr. Gray died Sunday afternoon, May 2, in a Corpus Christi hospital following a long illness.

A native of Mexia, Gray had lived in the Rockport area for 25 years and served as superintendent with the ACISD for 17 years, from 1957 until 1973. The 1973 "Pirate" Yearbook was dedicated to him, noting that "his desire to remain associated with the education of tomorrow's leaders shone through especially in his abilities to the school system despite his own declining health."

Before coming to Rockport, Mr. Gray was superintendent, for 13 years, of the Pearl and School District and was the first superintendent of the Kline School District. He held that post for 13 years and served also as teacher and coach in the Kline school system.

Gray was a life member of the National and State affiliations of Texas State Teachers Association (TSTA) and was on the executive board of the Texas Education Association (T.E.A.) for several years.

He was a member of First United

EMS building fund drive reaches 25 percent of goal

Boosted by a $5,000 grant and two sizeable donations, the building fund drive for the Aransas County Emergency Medical Service (EMS) is more than a quarter of the way to its goal this week.

The fund has grown to nearly $10,000 in donations and pledges according to Bill Aston, chief paramedic for the EMS. Monday, Aston said the EMS had received a $5,000 grant from the James R. Daugherty Jr. Foundation.

Another large donation came from Makhole which presented the EMS with $1,000 this past weekend. Earlier, Marine Drilling made a $2,500 donation to the building fund.

Goal for the fund drive is $34,000, the amount needed to build new quarters for the EMS which is losing its office space in Enterprise Clinic with the arrival of a new physician.

The new building, to be located on the grounds adjacent to Enterprise Clinic, must be completed by July 1, the date on which a fourth physician will join the staff of the clinic.

The clinic was designed with four physicians' modules. The current staff consists of three physicians with the fourth module being used by the EMS for offices and equipment storage.

The new EMS building is expected to include some 1,800 square feet of floor space and will have an ambulance bay for two vehicles. Plans also call for three offices, a combined storage and bunk area, medical storage facilities, a bath and workshop for equipment.

Along with the move, the EMS is planning to expand its training facilities, Aston said. The EMS has applied for grants to set up a medical education library and has received $5,000 from the Fondren Foundation in Houston for that purpose.

Aston emphasized that donations to the building fund are tax deductible.

Pirates drop one to West Oso

West Oso used the long ball off two Pirate pitchers to lead the way to a 7-5 victory over Rockport-Fulton Thursday evening in Rockport.

The Bears picked up an unearned run in the first inning to take the lead from the start. Then in the third inning, the starting pitcher for the Bears turned hitter and blasted a two-run homer to up the lead to 3-0.

Rockport finally got on the scoreboard in the bottom half of the third when Eric Commander got aboard on a single and then came around to score. The Pirates were threatening to break the game open in that inning, but the Bear pitcher fanned the Pirate batter with two men on base to close out the inning.

The Pirates came back in the fifth to narrow the margin to 3-2 when Commander again got on base, this time on an error. He later found a way to score, giving the Pirates their second run.

The sixth inning proved to be fatal for the Pirates as Oso connected for a solo home run and a three-run shot to up their lead to 7-2.

Behind 7-2, the Pirates did not go down without a fight. The Pirates rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh. Rudy Zavala homered, Commander reached a base on a hit and then Bill Jennings, losing pitcher for the Pirates, blasted a two-run shot, ending the scoring for the Pirates.

The Pirates were to have played again Friday, but the rainy weather cancelled the game with Flour Bluff, causing it to be re-scheduled this week.

Meeting to promote area tennis set for May 8

A combined annual membership meeting and a gathering of others interested in promoting tennis this area has been scheduled by the Rockport Tennis Association for Saturday, May 8 at the home of Gordon and Kay Stanley, according to Ike Boling, association president.

Boling explained that the purpose of the meeting is to stimulate renewal of current memberships in the association and also to encourage those who may not be active players to join in support of tennis in this area with special emphasis on encouraging young people to take up tennis. The annual fee is $10 per family.

In addition to reports on progress of the association, a highlight will be information on the association-sponsored campaign to provide wind screens and bleachers for Rockport-Fulton High school's five tennis courts.

Boling said that both the Lions Club and H.E.B. Supermarket have expressed their support of the program and plan to contribute. He said contributions from other organizations and individuals are sought. Contributions may be sent to Mrs. Claudia Bateman, secretary-treasurer of the association, at her home, 110 W. Tern, Rockport, telephone 729-6602.

Dinner and drinks will be provided by the association at the Saturday meeting which starts at 7:30 p.m. The dinner will be catered by Tony Domingues and reservations should be made with Mrs. Bateman no later than Thursday noon. The Gordon home is at 7 Fulton Beach Road, almost a mile north of the Sandollar Motel.

The Rockport Tennis Association's next tournament is scheduled for June 12 at the Racquet Club and high school courts. Termed the Member-Guest tournament, it provides for each member to invite one guest player. There will be men and women doubles and a consolation round. The entry fee is $5 per player and trophies will be awarded winners and runners-up in all divisions.

Rockport tennis players participating in Corpus Christi's Buccaneer Days tourney last weekend, include Mary Jon Lynch, Polly Bracht, Ellen Koehler, Nan Slusher, Jean

Safety should be practiced always

Whether fishing in the farm pond or a large lake, safety should be practiced at all times, says Dr. James T. Davis, fisheries specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A few safety precautions can prevent a tragic accident.

While in a boat, children should wear life jackets at all times. Cushions are not adequate for children or non-swimmers. Cushion type life preservers are acceptable for the fair to good swimmer if used properly. Davis says that cushions should never be worn on the back with arms through the straps. This has the effect of floating the person face down in the water. The cushion preserver should be worn either across the chest or with one leg and the opposite arm through the straps.

"Don't overload the boat," the Texas A&M University specialist emphasizes. Most stern plates indicate the maximum safe load. If in doubt, don't go out. Balance the load in the boat with more weight in or toward the stern. If the boat does overturn, stay with it. It is usually farther to shore than it appears.

Around the farm pond or near fishing docks, a safety station should be established. Davis says that a simple safety station can be very effective if everyone is familiar with the use of the equipment.

A post set about 15 feet from the water and near the dock serves as a place to hang a rope, doughnut life preserver, innertube, pole or board. A 12 to 15 foot long fishing pole is very effective for rescuing someone who falls in the water near the shore.

For rescuing someone slightly farther from shore, a rope that can be easily thrown works best. Tie a very large knot in the end of the rope to make it throw better and to serve as a hand hold for the person being rescued.

San Antonio State Hospital serves all of Coastal Bend

By Juliet K. Wenger
Coastal Bend Council of Governments

The San Antonio State Hospital is a resource for all the counties of the Coastal Bend. The mentally ill are treated there, as are alcoholics who have reached an advanced stage of the disease. The county judge in each county is the contact for the family or individual when there is a commitment or voluntary admission to the Hospital.

Much more extensive services are available where outreach offices exist. Ann Koger heads such a service in Beeville, reaching out into Bee, Live Oak and McMullen Counties. Cliff Henderson has an office in Sinton and serves all of San Patricio and Aransas Counties. Each is a certified alcoholism counselor.

The outreach centers work in the areas of counseling, education, therapy, treatment and rehabilitation. Whenever it is possible, the services are provided on the community level. Institutionalization is a last resort.

Both Ms. Koger and Henderson go into schools, to service organizations, to churches, or wherever they are invited to give information on alcoholism and alcohol abuse. They work with teachers and with students, as well as with other individuals in the community. Ms. Koger says that everytime she speaks, some one comes up to her afterward and asks for help with family or friend. This is an indication of how great a need exists.

When help is requested, either of the counselors work with members of the family. With intervention, they work to persuade the alcoholic to accept help. Whether or not the alcoholic is ready to do that, the counselors can help the family. They say the family members are often as sick or sicker than the alcoholic by the time they seek help.

When the disease reaches a stage where the alcoholic agrees to have help, examinations are made by physicians and psychologists. Consulting with counselors, they determine whether it is necessary for the alcoholic to go into the State Hospital for detoxification and treatment. It may be possible for him or her to go into a halfway house in the Coastal Bend. In that case, after a short period of time, he or she may be able to continue to work and carry on much of normal life. If the disease is not too far advanced, the alcoholic may be able to remain in the home while undergoing treatment and therapy.

If the alcoholic is out of the home for a time, the counselors will work with the family during the absence. The family members have to make as many changes in life style as does the alcoholic. If they are not ready and willing to understand and provide the support needed upon return of the alcoholic, there is chance that he or she can remain sober.

When the alcoholic comes back into the community, the counselors continue to work with him or her and with the family as long as necessary, and as long as help is wanted. One thing they do in every instance is to strongly encourage everyone involved in work in Alcoholics Anonymous and ALANOS. This provides support for a lifetime and anywhere in the world.

TCU receives contract to study alcoholism incidence in Texas

AUSTIN — The Texas Commission on Alcoholism has awarded a $49,119 contract to Texas Christian University to conduct a major study of the incidence and prevalence of alcoholism in the state, Ross Newby, TCA executive director, has announced.

The contract, the largest ever awarded by the agency, will be funded through federal block grant funds.

The Fort Worth university's Center for Organizational Research and Evaluation Studies will conduct the study under supervision of Barry Tuchfeld, Ph.D., center director, and Patrick Miller, associate director. Tuchfeld is also associate professor of sociology at TCU.

Results of the study will allow TCA to develop better programs and improve the cost-efficiency of its resource allocation, Tuchfeld said.

Miller noted that the study would provide county prevalence estimates for specific age, sex and ethnic origin populations.

He said it represents a state-of-the-art technology transfer, using methodical techniques which have been used in drug abuse studies, human services needs assessments, marketing research and political election forecasting.

One col. Inside...Oil and gas production...sh

DALLAS — The 10th consecutive year of production at the maximum efficient recovery rate in nearly all of Texas' oil and gas fields pushed the state's output of crude oil and condensate last year to nearly 929 million barrels.

The total of 929,710,351 barrels included more than 897 million barrels of crude oil. Figures compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association also indicate that more than 31 million barrels of condensate were produced.

Texas' drilling boom, spawned by crude oil price decontrol, continued last year. Figures from the Railroad Commission's Oil & Gas Division show 24,998 new holes drilled in the state last year, an 18.1 percent increase from the 1980 total of 20,490 wells. Oil completions stood at 15,627, up 21.2 percent from 1980, while drilling applications jumped 17.8 percent between 1980 and 1981. A total of 47,940 applications were received last year, compared to 39,442 in 1980.

Last year's crude oil and condensate production total was 31.6 million barrels below the 1980 figure, a decrease of 3.3 percent. It marked the ninth consecutive year of a downward trend since Texas' output peaked at near 1.3 billion barrels in 1972. However, 1981 production from the nation's No. 1 petroleum producing province pushed the all-time cumulative total since 1866 to more than 46.6 billion barrels of crude oil and condensate.

Avery Rush Jr. of Amarillo, chairman of the Dallas-based Association, noted that although the production decline continued last year, the 1981 decrease reflected a slowing in the rate of decline. It was the lowest percentage drop in the past five years. "It is very encouraging to see that the unprecedented drilling activity of the past two years is beginning to have a positive effect on Texas production," Rush said. "Only by increasing our reserves can we eventually turn around our production decline. And the only way to increase reserves is by drilling," said.

Aransas County, which has had recorded production since 1936, last year produced 663,875 barrels of crude oil and condensate at the rate of 1,819 barrels per day. Production in 1981 boosted Aransas County's production total through the end of the year to 71,323,058 barrels.

Just as in 1980, 21 counties in 1981 produced more than 10 million barrels of crude oil.

Gaines became the state's top producing county, with Yoakum, the 1980 leader, into second place. Ector, which had held third place for six consecutive years, dropped to fourth behind Pecos, fourth last year.

Healthful hints

[Most Often-Asked Questions On Nutrition]
By Jean Glowka

Q. There's a lot of bad things being said against sugar. But, when I'm tired and eat something with sugar in it, like a candy bar, I'm ready to go again. What's wrong with that?

A. Have you noticed that you aren't "going again" for long? When sugar is eaten the blood sugar level rises a great deal within a matter of minutes. Simply put, this rapid increase causes the pancreas to be overstimulated and produce too much insulin. Excessive insulin causes most of the sugar in the blood to be immediately changed into storage fat, and the blood sugar falls again causing more fatigue.

Also, refined sugar overstimulates the production of alkaline digestive juices, interferes with the absorption of proteins, calcium and many other minerals, and retards the growth of valuable intestinal bacteria. Why not eat something more nutritious and that will keep your blood sugar on an even keel and maintain a continuously efficient energy level? A glass of milk and a piece of fruit make a great snack.

Q. Maybe this would sound silly to you, and I'm certainly not going to die from it. — But I have white spots on my fingernails. Could this be from some kind of vitamin deficiency?

A. Could be. A zinc deficiency can cause white spots on the fingernails.

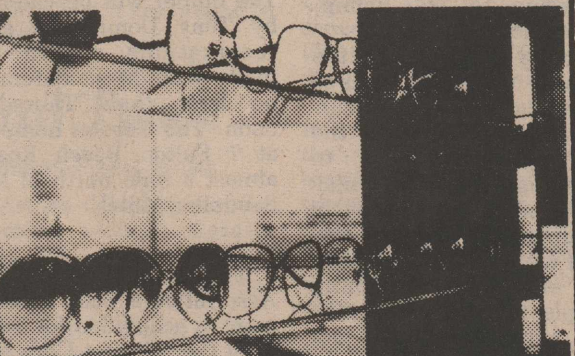

Diets which are high in protein, whole-grain products, brewer's yeast, wheat bran, wheat germ, and pumpkin seeds are usually high in zinc. Also, of course, zinc is available in tablet form.

Until next week, folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

4-H program helps youth make career decisions

COLLEGE STATION — Helping youth with career decisions — that's what the 4-H career exploration program sponsored by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service is all about.

"The program was not developed to tell children what career is right for them, but to open doors so they are aware of various career possibilities," points out Preston Sides, Extension 4-H and youth specialist.

Career exploration is a three-set process in which parents can participate along with the child.

The first step is an awareness of jobs and work. Children are given the opportunity to study their community and types of available jobs. They also look at jobs in their school and local government.

In the second phase, teens find out more about salary, working hours, lifestyles and training required of jobs their community offers and jobs of interest to them. Students can evaluate their own personalities to see what types of jobs fit their lifestyles and interest, explains Sides.

Finally, 4-H'ers develop career interests. They are encouraged to participate in hobbies that will help them build skills. They put together resumes and look for part-time jobs. And they also have a chance to observe people on the job and many times to work alongside them.

"Shadowing" is a program where members spend time with such workers as bankers, dentists and factory workers. At each workplace or office, students are given a chance to try the work or to observe.

"While career exploration programs can help high schoolers make career choices, decisions actually start much earlier and are largely influenced by parents," notes Sides. "Parents begin to influence their children's career decisions from early in life. Parents are examples and models for children. How well parents get along at their job will give children a good or bad impression of work."

Three types of career decision-making patterns can emerge in a family setting, points out the specialist.

The first is child-centered. In this type, parents experience little or no involvement, and children make decisions with no guidance from parents.

In the second type, family-centered, the entire family becomes involved in the decision-making process. Children and parents contribute freely to discussions, and children gradually take responsibility for their own decisions.

The third type is parent-centered. Children conform to parental expectations, and parents make the final decision with little conderation for their children's point of view.

"Generally, families operating in a family-centered pattern are more likely to encourage self-confidence and independence," says Sides. "Children who feel they are a part of the decision-making process will be more willing to consider their parents' ideas when making choices."

The specialist offers these tips for parents in helping guide children's career decisions:

— Encourage career exploration at an early age. Children's hopes often are expressed in fantasy, especially during play. Encourage such actions.

— Investigate new ideas by asking children what they would do if they could not do the first job they think of.

— Be responsive when your child asks, "What do you think I should be when I grow up?" Point out talents the child has and suggest careers relating to these talents.

— During middle years, help your child explore and develop skills needed for work.

— Encourage your child to take up hobbies and other leisure activities that will help develop job skills.

— Help your child understand how important school work will be later in a job search.

— Take advantage of friends to introduce new careers to your child. Encourage youngsters to discuss jobs with teachers and guidance counselors.

— When helping children toward a decision, encourage them to look at all aspects of a particular career. Examine how the career fits their skills and long-term goals and the employment outlook for particular jobs.

Coastal Bend cancer program continues

Coastal Bend Hospital in Aransas Pass is continuing its special program for the prevention, detection and treatment of breast cancer in women.

Questionnaire cards are being mailed out over a four-week period to area women between ages of 20 and 60-plus. The information returned on the cards will be held in the strictest confidence and will help the hospital conduct its program.

Recipients of the cards are asked to fill out the card and write their age in the upper left-hand corner.

The hospital is offering the special program in cooperation with local doctors. These doctors will use a new technique at the hospital, xero-mammography, for the detection, diagnosis and treatment of breast cancer in its earliest stages.

For the 50 years that cancer mortality statistics have been recorded, little success has been achieved in reducing the number deaths from breast cancer, despite steady improvement in treatment.

Earlier detection now offers one important prospect of improving the situation.

Development of the x-ray technique of mammography over the past two decades has provided an important addition to the doctor's physical exam and its value in detecting early breast cancer is now universally accepted.

By Lucille E. Skrobarcek
 The AARP covered dish luncheon on Wednesday, April 28, was a great success, with 70 persons attending.

The honorees at the luncheon were the individuals who so generously gave of their time and knowledge to assist the Senior Citizens in preparing income tax returns. This AARP-sponsored program was without charge and was available from January through April 15. A.B. Bates, co-ordinator, said he and his fellow workers assisted in preparing 582 income tax returns, and issued 2,940 income tax forms. This is a great service to the community and AARP officers and members say, "Thanks all for a job well done."

A delightful program, "Westward Ho! Ho! Ho!", was presented at the luncheon by the AARP "Rhythm Band." Members of the band were dressed as cowboys and indians and many nostalgic songs and musical numbers were enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

Supper" at 5 p.m. Wednesday, May 26, in the Paws and Taws.

The business meeting in Mr. T. will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday, May 12. Coffee and cookies will be served at 9:30 a.m. The guest speaker will be Dr. Kyle Miller, podiatrist from Corpus Christi.

Forty-four persons enjoyed the trip to Brownsville on April 27. After a tour of the Gladys Porter Zoo, a sack lunch was served. Then some went shopping in town, others did their shopping in Mata-mos, Mexico. All met at Luby's for the evening meal, and then the trip home. Mrs. Patti Fishwick, travel chairperson, promises that there will be more bus trips available in the future.

The winners of game afternoon on Thursday, April 29, were Mrs. Frances Cook and S.E. Duncan. The finale was won by Mrs. Helen McCague.

Hostesses for game afternoon on April 29, were Mrs. Irene Hopper and Mrs. Penny Benjamin. Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

The first game afternoon in May will begin at 1 p.m. Thursday, May 6, in the Paws and Taws. One more game afternoon will be held at 1 p.m. Thursday, May 13, in the Paws and Taws.

On Thursday, May 20, game afternoon will be held at 1 p.m. at the Town Hall, First National Bank. These games will continue at the Town Hall until October.

An AARP-sponsored dance will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, May 6, in the Paws and Taws. Gene Rickles' music will be featured and the public is invited.

Scouting news

During the month of May two of the oldest and highest ranking scouts will be presenting programs on survival. Areas that will be stressed will be food identification, shelter and knots and rope work. Darrin Gathright and Scott Love have volunteered to lead this program.

May 11 is the last board of review for advancement before Scout Camp (June 13-19). The boys earning the most advanced points since September 1981 will go to camp free.

May 29 is Troop 49's Annual Fund Raising event. The boys will be selling tickets for $3.75.

Each boy will receive a commission for each ticket sold. Last year about 15 boys sold more than 750 tickets. This year there will be 36 boys selling tickets. A scout who really works at selling tickets should be able to earn enough to largely pay his camp fee, scout officials say.

County agent answers all of your questions about tomatoes

Mike Rothrock
County Extension
Agent-AG
San Patricio-Aransas
Counties

Here are some commonly asked questions concerning tomatoes and hopefully some answers to these questions.

Q. How often should my tomatoes be fertilized?

A. It is necessary to fertilize the garden before planting tomatoes. Apply the fertilizer again when fruit first sets. From that point on, an additional fertilization (sidedress) every week to 10 days is recommended. Plants grown on sandy soils should be fertilized more frequently than those grown on heavy, clay soils. A general sidedress fertilizer recommendation is one to two tablespoons of a complete fertilizer scattered around the plant and worked into the soil.

Q. How do you stake tomatoes?

A. Staking involves pruning or suckering the plant to either one or two main stalks. Tomatoes grown without support develop a bush shape. However, if the plant is to be trellised or staked, it must be pruned to a single or double stalk. The small suckers which develop between the axil of the leaf and the stem are removed to develop a vine structure rather than a bush. A wooden stake an inch in diameter and six feet long is driven into the ground beside the plant. Do not damage the root system when inserting the stake in the ground. The stalk of the plant is loosely attached to the stake as it grows. The plant can be attached to the stake with twist-ties, soft string, strips of cloth or panty hose. The plant is sufficiently supported if it is attached to the stake at 12 to 14 inch intervals. Continue suckering to prevent the plant from developing more than one or two central stems. If a double-stalk plant is desired leave the sucker produced above the first flower cluster since it will be the most vigorous.

Q. What causes a tomato to crack? Is there anything I can do to prevent it?

A. Cracking is a physiological disorder caused by soil moisture fluctuations. When the tomato reaches the mature green stage and the water supply to the plant is reduced or cut off, the tomato will begin to ripen. At this time a cellophane-like wrapper around the outer surface of the tomato becomes thicker and more rigid to protect the tomato during and after harvest. If the water supply is restored after ripening begins, the plant will resume translocation of nutrients and moisture into the fruit. This will cause the fruit to enlarge which in turn splits the wrapper around the fruit and results in cracking. The single best control for cracking is a constant and regular water supply. Apply a layer of organic mulch to the base of the plant. This serves as a buffer and prevents soil moisture fluctuation. Water plants thoroughly every week. This is especially important when the fruits are maturing. Some varieties are resistant to cracking, but their yield and quality are less than other varieties.

Q. What could cause the leaves of my tomatoes to turn brown along the edges?

A. Leaf-burn or scorch generally indicates root injury, quite often caused by heavy amounts of fertilizer applied too near the roots. This injury often results in browning and dieback of the ends and margins of the leaves. Other possible causes are root injury caused by nematodes, insects, or physical injury by cultivation. Also overwatering or under-watering along with diseases might cause leaf-tip burn.

Q. What causes the black spots on the bottom of my tomatoes?

A. Blossom end rot, caused by improper moisture. Maintain uniform soil moisture as the fruit nears maturity. Remove affected fruit.

Q. What causes some of my early tomato fruit from the spring garden to be oddly shaped and of poor quality?

A. This condition is usually caused by low temperatures during bloom and pollination. Fruit that set when temperatures are 55 degrees F. or below often are odd-shaped and of poor quality. The blooms these tomatoes develop from often are abnormal because of temperature conditions and grow into abnormal, odd-shape fruit.

Q. Do products which are supposed to aid in setting tomatoes really work, and if they do, how should they be used?

A. These hormonal products are designed to substitute for natural pollination. They do not work well in Texas. These products work better when tomatoes are failing to set because of too cool temperatures. Most of the fruit set problems in Texas are caused by too high temperatures. Also, tomatoes which set after use of the products will be puffy and seedless.

Q. Should you allow tomatoes to become fully ripe and red on the vine before harvesting?

A. Generally, yields will be increased by harvesting the fruit at first blush of pink instead of leaving them on the plant to fully ripen. A tomato picked at first sign of color and ripened at room temperature will be just as tasty as one left to fully mature on the vine. Picking tomatoes before they turn red reduces damage from birds.

Q. If tomatoes are picked green or before they are fully mature, how should they be handled to insure proper ripening and full flavor?

A. Never refrigerate tomatoes picked immature. Place them in a single layer at room temperature and allow them to develop full color. When they are fully ripe, place them in the refrigerator where they will store for weeks. Those handled in this manner will be of high quality and full flavor.

Police report

Burglars are busy in Rockport

Burglars have been busy in Rockport in recent days, with break-ins resulting in vandalism as well as theft of property.

Some $980 in cash was reported missing after the residence of Donna Price was reported burglarized. That incident occurred last week, between Thursday, April 29, and Saturday, May 1.

In an earlier burglary, occurring sometime between March 7 and last Friday, April 30, furnishings and other items in the residence of Theodore T. Aubrey were reported vandalized but nothing missing.

A purse and its contents, including $100 in cash, were reported taken when the residence of Jane Bianco, in a local mobile home park, was burglarized. The incident occurred between 11:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 27, and 5 a.m. Wednesday, April 28.

And a six-pack of beer and a bottle of scotch were reported missing from the residence of Alan Scheu-make after a burglary sometime between April 6 and Friday, April 30. Police said the front door of the residence was kicked in.

Thefts

Thefts of a boat battery and carburetor were reported to police in the past few days.

The boat battery, valued at approximately $80, was taken from a pickup be-

p.m. Friday, while the truck was in the parking lot of a Rockport business.

In a separate incident,

the carburetor, estimated at $100 in value, was taken from a tractor in the east lot of the Market Center shopping development. Theft was reported by Albert H. Johnson.

Intoxication

Four persons were arrested on charges of public intoxication during the weekend.

Fresh food is good food

COLLEGE STATION — The "fresh approach" is the in-thing this year. Fresh vegetables are plentiful in Texas now, so make sure you get your share.

"Ask for fruits and vegetables grown in Texas," suggest Tom Longbrake, horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "You'll be supporting Texans who earn their livelihood from growing your groceries."

Texas supplies broccoli, cabbage, carrots, spinach, lettuce, potatoes and sweet potatoes in April and May. May also brings cantaloupes, cucumbers, honeydews, squash, peppers and tomatoes. Blackberries, plums and early peaches will be available in late May.

So you can enjoy your new home.

Your new home should be fun for you and everyone else in your family.

Make sure your pleasure isn't cut short by worry about high operating costs—the amount you must pay, that is, to heat and cool your home, and run the water heater, washer, dryer and all the other devices that make your life more comfortable.

Before you buy or build a new house or remodel your present one, investigate the Energy Efficiency Award program sponsored by Central Power and Light Company. The EEA program for all-electric homes is designed to help home owners save money on utility bills by getting full value for every kilowatt-hour.

To qualify for the EEA seal, a house must be well insulated, protected from air leaks, and equipped with an efficient heating/air conditioning system. These features—plus others that contribute to greater energy efficiency—are inspected and certified by a qualified technician from CPL.

And although economy of operation is the outstanding advantage of EEA homes, South Texans who live in them report other benefits as well, including ease of maintenance, increased comfort and higher resale value.

Shouldn't you find out more about the Energy Efficiency Award? For free information, come by or call your CPL office, or get the details from your builder, realtor, designer or architect.

Check for shelter

fund drive; and Castaways volunteers Ramona Lewis and Margaret Wininger. The Crisis Intervention Center needs at least $50,000 to begin work on the shelter which is proposed as a temporary "safe house" for victims of crime such as rape, battered wives and-or children or abused senior citizens.

Garden Club 'said it with flowers' successfully

The Rockport Home and Garden Club is thanking everyone who contributed to the success of their Flower show — "Our Town — Say It With Flowers" held last Thursday, April 29.

Six nationally accredited flower show judges complimented the club on the "beautiful staging" of the show, as well as on the number and quality of the exhibits. These judges were Mrs. Lewis Waite, Mrs. J.C. Martin, Mrs. R.E. Jones, Mrs. E.L.

Smith, Mrs. W.K. Stivers and Mrs. J.H. Martin. Also enthusiastic in their appreciation of the show were the numerous visitors attending.

Twenty artistic arrangements were exhibited, with Mrs. Charles Kaigler's winning "Best of Show" in the division. Other blue ribbon winners in the Artistic division were Mrs. Lewis Caton, Mrs. Gene Garcia, Mrs. J.L. Maxwell and Mrs. B.F. Street.

There were more than 100 entries in the Horticulture division with "Best of Show" awarded to Mrs. F.A. Taylor.

In the Education Division, awards of appreciation were given to Mrs. E.B. Fausey for her "Growing Bromeliads" display and to Mrs. Charles Kaigler for her display, "Rockport is for the Birds."

The club wishes to express its appreciation to Radio Shack, Prophets Radio Shack, Prophets, Inc., Hearn's Nursery and Marshall funeral Home for the use of plants and equipment in staging the show.

City to allow front yard fences

Rockport residents will be allowed to fence their front yards following next Monday's city council meeting.

Long banned by the city's zoning ordinance, the fencing of front yards was approved by Rockport's city council and city planning and zoning commission last week and is expected to become official Monday night, May 10, with the adoption of four amendments to the city zoning laws.

All four amendments are scheduled to become effective immediately upon passage by the council.

The fencing amendment will allow fences "in front of a building to the property line providing there is at least a 40 percent opening" according to the amendment. Present corner lot restrictions will not be affected by the change.

Also scheduled for formal approval Monday night are three amendments to Article 4 of the zoning ordinance, governing land use. These proposed amendments were also approved by the council and planning and zoning commission at the April 26 session.

Among these amendments is one that sets out requirements for motel construction in the city. The amendment will require a side or rear yard line along the boundary with a residential district and requires that five percent of the square footage of the motel site must be left "free of structure to be used for beautification."

Spring Concert to spotlight junior and senior high bands

The Rockport-Fulton junior and senior high school bands will be present their annual Spring Concert this Thursday and Friday evening, April 6 and 7.

Both concerts will be held in the High School auditorium and will be free to the public.

The junior high concert will consist of Beginning, Concert and Symphonic Band performances. The high school portion of the program will feature the Symphonic Band. The Symphonic Band will be performing a wide variety of marches, contest music and novelty tunes.

Included will be Edwin Goldwin's march "On the Mall," Claude T. Smith's "Concert Variations," a folk festival number, "Hootenanny" and a Sinatra medley, among other selections.

The bands will be under the direction of Rolando Zapata, Vernon Denman and Richard Blaylock. The Spring Concert caps off an extremely successful semester for the high school band. Last month's University Interscholastic

League Concert saw the band earn a first division in concert and a second in sight reading.

In March, 50 Rockport-Fulton students participated in the UIL Solo and Ensemble contest, earning 53 first division medals among them.

Association contracts to repair fence

The Rockport Cemetery Association held its quarterly meeting on April 26 at the Aransas County Courthouse. At the meeting, a decision was made to let out a contract to repair cemetery fencing. Also, the association voted to add new equipment and three new gates. It was also decided to purchase a weed eater to facilitate edging.

Aiding in the purchase of new equipment and fencing was a check for $500 from the Latin-American cemetery group.

The Rockport Cemetery Association is composed of all volunteer members.

Health

At the same time Texans are itching to be outside more this spring, poison ivy is also virulent because the plants are easily bruised and the sap is readily released.

The poison of poison ivy is a phenolic or carbolic substance called urushiol, which appears as a sticky, resinous, saplike fluid. It can be — and often is — transferred to different parts of the face and body by the hands.

"In some instances, urushiol has caused skin irritations after being on clothes for more than a year," said Dr. Walter P. Peter Jr., chief of the Bureau of Maternal and Child Health of the Texas Department of Health. Urushiol may also be carried on shoes, tools, by animals and by smoke from burning plants.

Poison Ivy awaits those itching to be outdoors

"A person may not suffer any consequences upon the first encounter with poison ivy, but almost everyone will become sensitive after repeated contact," Dr. Peter said.

For those exposed to poison ivy, a rash may develop as early as six to 12 hours, depending on the sensitivity of the individual and the amount of exposure.

Treatment by a physician may be effective, but often the most that medicine can do is help the victim endure the pain and itching.

"A hurried scrubbing with a strong laundry soap can often prevent or lessen the effects of poison ivy," advised Dr. Peter.

All parts of the plant — leaves, flowers, berries, twigs, stems and roots — can cause a minor skin irritation lasting a few days, or an itching ailment which may go on for weeks.

Poison ivy is recognized as a small shrub or woody climbing vine. The leaves are generally egg-shaped with pointed ends. There are three leaves to a stem, and their edges may be smooth, deeply lobed or sawtoothed. The plant bears small greenish-white flowers in small cluster followed by small, waxy, dullish-white berries.

A poster illustrating poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac is available free from the Public Health Education Division, Texas Department of Health, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756.

Accident report

Trailers cause two traffic mishaps

Trailers were blamed for two accidents this past week in Rockport.

A U-Haul trailer and insufficient clearance were cited as the cause of an accident Saturday in the 1300 block of Alamito Street.

Police said Kent William Smith of Florida was eastbound on Alamito, pulling the trailer, and failed to correctly gauge clearance of a tree limb hanging in the street. Police said the top and sides of the trailer were damaged. That mishap occurred about 6:30 p.m.

A car belonging to Francisco Rivera Gonzales of Sinton was damaged Thursday afternoon when a boat and trailer being towed by Michel Ray McDonnell of Rockport swung into Gonzales' vehicle. The incident occurred about 2:47 p.m. on Magnolia Street near downtown Rockport.

David Perkins wins first prize in Private Property Week essay contest

Editor's note: The following are the first, second and third-place winning essays in the recent contest sponsored by the Rockport Area Board of Realtors in honor of Private Property Week.

The right to own land: a safeguard of liberty
By David Perkins
First Prize

Topic: The importance of the right to own property privately.

The right to own private property is very important because it is this right which separates us from the communist system of government. In the communist society land is owned by the government and is distributed to the people. Since the land is owned by the government it can be taken away from people who speak out against the government. In the capitalistic countries such as the United States, the right to own land is one of the safeguards of freedom and liberty. If the right to own land or any property was taken away, our freedom and entire way of life would be destroyed.

ism. Capitalism depends on many basic freedoms as guaranteed to us in the Constitution, among which is the right of private property. Because of it, people are free to own their own home and business; moreover, they are free to sell their residence or business operations and keep any profits from this type of exchange. The ownership of private property can greatly benefit people today; accordingly, people are eligible for tax exemptions, and senior citizens are even more broadly advantaged by such a proprietorship. Such basic rights as private property that are granted to American citizens in the free enterprise system decidedly distinguish the United States of America from many Socialist and Communist societies that deny citizens such personal as well as business freedoms.

Private Property
Donald Beard
Third prize

Owning property privately is not a luxury that we all have. Private property, in itself, is a possession that we all desire.

In the United States we have this privilege, unlike many of the countries in the world, to possess property. By owning property you have the privilege of doing what you like on your property, privacy, and something that is yours and no one can take it away.

Also, owning property is a very valuable investment. As the years pass, property increases in value. If a person should acquire property and retain that property for a number of years, in time the property will be worth a large sum of money. In return this could bring the original purchaser the amount of money he paid for the property plus a large amount of profit, this is if he chooses to sell.

Private property is owned by people and should be protected. It should be protected because some people work tremendously to acquire this property. If a person should work and have property, and then someone could come and take this away, this in essence means that all this time he has been working for nothing. Some people put their life into their property, so if someone takes their property, they are actually taking their lives. So Protect Private Property.

Private Property Week contestants and judges

Preservation Week proclaimed

AUSTIN— Gov. William P. Clements has proclaimed Preservation Week in Texas, May 9-15, and called upon the people of the Lone Star State to recognize and participate in local observances dedicated to the conservation and appreciation of historical resources.

The Texas commemoration of Preservation Week is part of a national program sponsored by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, with local leadership from the Texas Historical Commission and many community heritage organizations across the state.

Governor Clements noted that the homes and buildings constructed by our forefathers represent the investment of their skills, energy, and financial resources, and that many of these structures merit preservation and continued appreciation. The conservation of such landmarks bestows cultural, social, and economic benefits to present and future generations of our society, according to the governor.

Governor Clements also observed that the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 has established tax credits for the certified rehabilitation of historic buildings. The governor's proclamation further suggested that the renovation of older buildings can help solve such contemporary problems as poor housing, depressed inner cities, declining small towns, and energy shortage.

For further information about Preservation Week, contact your county historical commission or the Texas Historical Commission, Box 12276, Austin, TX 78711.

Leon Bateman continued his opposition, saying, "The question to this board should be how can we better that fuel dock."

Commissioner Kirk Holman stated that he would like the front of the fuel dock left open and available to those needing fuel. He then made a motion that Adams comply with the terms of his letter to the Aransas County Navigation District plus any restrictions drawn up by the Navigation District.

Commissioner Hal B. McKnight told the audience that the lease on the fuel dock is up December 31, 1982, and if the request to offload shrimp is granted it will only be temporary.

Dave Maguglin asked then to have Holman's motion clarified and Nelda Covarrubias read the motion. The motion was seconded and approved.

Also during the meeting the commissioners opened the sealed bids for Phase I Grant work to be done on the Rockport Beach. Golston Corporation of Corpus Christi was the lowest bidder of the new comfort station and lift station with a bid of $78,427. Texas Fence and Supply Company of Corpus Christi won the bid for the vehicular barrier with a bid of $12,338. The renovation project of the existing comfort station was won by Moorhouse Construction Company of Corpus Christi with a bid of $22,750.

Total bids for the three projects is $113,515.

The commissioners also granted Gary Dreiss permission to place a portable bait stand behind his boat slips in Fulton Harbor.

Business Bureau offers fact book

AUSTIN — A little-known, pocket-size paperback may become the Texan's first choice in reference books. Though small in size, the "Texas Fact Book 1982" packs a wallop of information. Through ample use of maps and tables, its 180 pages distill an enormous amount of information about the business and economic life of our big and varied state — information that is often inaccessible or unavailable except to the most tenacious researcher.

Published by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas at Austin, the "Texas Fact Book" gives quick, fingertip reference to many aspects of Texas including its geography, population, income, inflation and cost of living, employment, business establishment, governmental income and expenditures, and vital statistics. The 1982 edition includes the first census data released since 1972 for retail and wholesale trade and for service, manufacturing, and mineral industries.

Callers to the Bureau want to know how Lubbock stacks up against Midland-Odessa as a market area, some need to know how people in a specific area of the state make money, some want both state and national statistics to make comparisons of various types, and some want the names and locations of the largest manufacturing plants in Texas.

The many phone calls the Bureau received each day for information provided the impetus for the original edition published in 1978. The book has been so well received that the Bureau is updating it each year and now plans to make it readily available to the general public in bookstores.

The post Vietnam Era Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP) was initiated for persons entering service on or after Jan. 1, 1977.

Mondale urges support of arts

FORT WORTH — Minds, like parachutes, work best when open.

Former second lady Joan Mondale recently told a Texas Christian University audience that it is art that takes us out of the realm of the ordinary, stretches our minds and changes our perspectives.

She is an enthusiastic backer of the National Endowment for the Arts and expressed dismay over recent budget cuts that have dropped its budget from $165 million to $143 million.

Mrs. Mondale wonders why people question the government's support of the arts. "They might as well ask if the government should subsidize highways," she said. "In the same way we support our roadways, it is important to support the highways of ideas — those routes that stretch us, that pull outside of the boundaries that confine our thoughts."

She pointed to art as good business in that it can be used to rebuild and strengthen cities. The arts make the difference between colorless, average communities and lively, distinctive ones.

"I have seen cities who have faced the loss of downtown businesses and factories with creative solutions," Mrs. Mondale said. "There are warehouse districts changed to galleries, art studios, shops and boutiques. The community can see results in increased business and more dollars for city revenues."

Mrs. Mondale came to TCU from Eugene, Ore., where she had spoken in support of the state's "check off" method of arts support. State income tax filers can check off $1, $5, $10 or however much they wanted deducted from their tax refunds, and the money goes to the state's Arts Council.

She hopes eventually every state will have a check off, but until then she urged her audience to support the arts as individuals. "We cannot afford to do without them."

Broadway is my beat

With Joey Sasso
Pop singer Andy Gibb is so shattered over his breakup with Dallas star Victoria Principal that friends fear for his safety. When the 24-year-old heartthrob didn't show up for a recent taping of his Solid Gold TV series, rumors began flying that he has tried to kill himself with a drug overdose. Victoria was shocked when she heard the stories, and anxiously telephoned her jilted lover to see if he was all right, says one insider. Dick Ashby, who manages Andy's brothers — Bee Gees Barry, Maurice and Robin — told me, "We heard rumors about Andy's suicide attempt, and the family called to make sure he was okay."

"Barry Gibb's wife spoke to him last night, and he sounded very calm." The rumors turned out to be false, but many of Andy's friends are terrified that they may soon come true. "Andy is suffering great grief over the end of his romance with Victoria," reveals one friend. "He can't believe she dumped him, and he's taking it very hard. Some of us are worried that if he keeps punishing himself, there could be tragic consequences."

Let's hope Ed Koch knows how to share, because Bronx Democratic Chairman Stanley Friedman wants a silver bow tie to wear to his country dinner on May 5 — and Ed has got it.

After a Remy Martin ad featuring a male model wearing a silver tie ran in local publications, the cognac people got a call from City Hall asking where to get one like it. Well, the Remy Folks thought Hizoner wanted the tie, so they rushed one over, wrapped around a bottle of their product. But the call came from Jackie Friedman, who works in the Mayor's Office of Special Events. She also happens to be married to Stanley, and was calling on hubby's behalf. We'll be watching Stanley's neck at the dinner to see if it's wrapped in silver.

Host Peter Falk introduces viewers to the "Shoot/Don't Shoot" test, a series of live reenactments of actual shooting incidents through which we will explore what it's like to make the split-second decision concerning the use of deadly force. After an historical perspective on the use of guns to keep the peace, Falk takes the "Shoot/Don't Shoot" test and discusses his reactions with a police officer who offers his comments on Falk's shooting response. Viewers are asked to take the test during the next hour and compare their shooting decisions with those of two citizens who were filmed as they responded to each reenacted scene. The audience is warned to adhere to the following ground rule: "Fire" at the screen only when it appears that you are in imminent danger.

Just three months after beautiful superstar Liz Taylor walked out on him, John Warner has found comfort with a stunning blonde millionaire. Close friends say the Virginia senator has been spending a great deal of time with Rose Marie Bogley, a mysterious 51-year-old widow who is as wealthy, glamorous and exciting as Warner's estranged wife. One friend told me they were seeing each other even before Liz and Warner called it quits. "It's supposed to be a secret," says the friend, "No one is supposed to know about it." Another insider, who was present at one of the couple's secret rendezvous reveals: "They have a very special relationship, although I won't say they are in love."

Broadway's Little Orphan Annie is fighting valiantly against crippling leukemia — but actress Shelley Bruce draws hope and inspiration from a line in the hit musical that says "Tomorrow the sun will shine." The petite 16-year-old — who starred in Annie for more than a year — admits she was terrified when doctors told her she was suffering from cancer. "But I'm a very positive person, so I always look on the bright side," she told me. "I feel that if I do everything the doctors say, and put my trust in God, I will get well again."

Country Queen Dolly Parton has lashed out at rumors that her 21-year marriage is on the rocks. want to put the record straight," says an outraged Dolly. "I'm not about to get a divorce and I have not broken up with my husband Carl. Everything is fine and my marriage is one hundred percent safe — and solid."

A definite show business happening will be the auction next month of hundreds of articles that belonged to Bing Crosby and which covered his career from an unknown singer with Paul Whiteman in the 20s right up to the closing days as one of Hollywood's most beloved performers. Wife Kathryn said she is disposing of the Crosby memorabilia because she feels there are thousands of people who were fans of Bing's and who would want a personal item of his out of respect for his memory. "Even though I am biased I would say that Bing must have meant so much to millions of people," Kathryn says. "Ever since he died we have had a secretary do nothing but handle mail that comes addressed to Bing or making inquiries about him. One record week, on the anniversary of his death, we received 500 letters."

Consumers spending less on food

FORT WORTH — U.S. consumers spend less now for food than they have at any other time or place in history, said the director of the Ranch Management Program at Texas Christian University.

"Last year consumers paid only 13.6 percent of their disposable income for food," said John Merrill. "They could eat well and spend less, so that they could use that dollar difference to pay for gasoline, utility bills and rising inflation. Food has been one of the best friends that consumers have had in fighting the battle with inflation," he said.

"One other thing I think most people are not aware of is that on the average 41 percent of their grocery bill is not food. It's tissues and toothpaste and all the other things we buy in grocery stores that are not food items. I wish each consumer would look very closely at the grocery bill in order to appreciate how really inexpensive food is," he continued.

Merrill said that while the cost of almost everything that farmers and ranchers buy has gone up, the prices they receive from their products have "remained relatively stable or actually declined."

Because of this imbalance, agricultural production declined for the first time in U.S. history last year," he said.

"Another scary thing is that investments in agricultural research have declined because that was an easy place to cut government budgets without a large vocal constituency to resist. When we look for that new information that would allow us to become more efficient, the net result is that it is dwindling to a trickle."

Merrill encouraged consumers to support greater funding for agricultural research. "That would increase production efficiency, maintaining the long term food supply at the lowest possible cost."

New proposal deals with injection

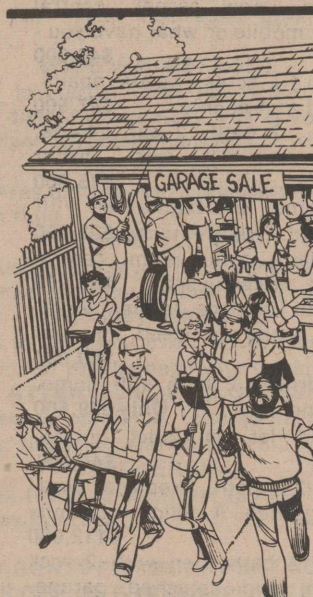

AUSTIN — A new program proposed by the Railroad Commission to deal with the underground injection of fluids in the state's oil and gas fields has been approved by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Texas and Louisiana, which had a similar program approved, are the first states to win federal certification for all types of injection wells.

The new program establishes permit requirements and standards for enhanced recovery and disposal well permit applications to local governments and other interested persons.

The technical standards include requirements for casing and cementing, tubing and valves, as well as for testing, reporting, monitoring and plugging. Review provisions for unplugged wells were established.

Mowing, watering and fertilizing require energy

COLLEGE STATION — Energy-conscious homeowners can take steps to reduce the energy demands of lawn care without lowering lawn standards.

"While lawns offer many aesthetic and recreational benefits, these may be offset by energy requirements of lawn care," says Dr. Richard Doble, turfgrass specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"Mowing, watering, fertilizing, controlling pests and disposing of leaf clippings are all energy-consuming requirements of lawn care. During spring and summer months, watering the lawn and collecting and disposing of grass clippings place a heavy burden on cities for these services. Grass clippings account for more than 30 percent of total trash collections in some cities during spring and early summer," notes Doble.

He offers several lawn maintenance practices to help homeowners reduce these energy demands.

Reducing fertilizer applications to maintenance levels — two to three pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn per year — will go a long way toward reducing energy demands. (That's 20 pounds of fertilizer containing 10 percent nitrogen.) Applying only maintenance levels of nitrogen to lawns can reduce mowing requirements, water use, insect and disease problems, and grass clippings.

"Excessive fertilization is the single most important factor contributing to high energy demands for lawn care," contends Doble.

Another lawn care practice to reduce energy demands is returning or composting grass clippings. Using a mulching mower can be beneficial if grass clippings are not composted, says the specialist.

Also, adopting proper watering practices to reduce water use can save energy.

Reducing pesticide use to only essential applications to prevent loss of turf is another energy-saving practice.

Doble advises new homeowners to select and plant adapted, low-maintenance turfgrasses to reduce energy demands.

In some situations ground covers such as Asiatic jasmine, English ivy or Liriope can reduce maintenance requirements effectively without sacrificing the benefits of a plant cover. In heavily shaded areas and on steep slopes, use these ground covers in place of grasses, suggests the specialist.

"It is possible to enjoy the luxury of an attractive lawn and landscape," contends Doble, "without excessive energy requirements. In fact, the net energy balance for a lawn can be in favor of energy conservation."

Heron stands his ground

This great blue heron was fourth or fifth in a succession of birds to perch on these piling in Rockport Harbor one morning last week. Having successfully gained the excellent vantage point for fishing, the heron held his ground for the better part of an hour, but didn't catch any fish. Maybe he was suntanning.

Land Board to accept bids

AUSTIN — Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong announced this week that the Texas Veterans Land

Board will hold a sealed-bid of 96 forfeited veterans tracts on June 8. Minimum bids will be required.

The land parcels are all 10 or more acres and are located in 49 different counties. Only veterans will be allowed to bid on 84 of the tracts and the board will finance 95 percent of the successful bidding price at seven percent interest for 40 years.

"Considering that we have almost 43,000 tracts under contract at any given time, I am quite impressed with how few tracts have been forfeited and I think we can all be extremely proud of the responsibility with which our Texas veterans have managed their land program loans," Armstrong said.

Details of how to bid on the tracts and where they are located may be obtained by writing Armstrong in care of the Veterans' Land Board, 1700 North Congress Avenue, Austin, Texas 78701.

Mixed drink tax up 21 percent

AUSTIN — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday said collection of the state's 10 percent mixed drink tax during the first quarter of 1982 was up 21 percent over the same period last year.

Bullock said the state received $34.5 million in taxes on the sale of mixed drinks during the first three months of this year.

He said his office is sending checks totalling $10 million to 216 counties and 404 cities as their share of the gross receipts tax on mixed drinks for the first period.

The state's general revenue fund will receive the balance, $24.5 million, of the tax money collected.

Aransas County collected $45,317.72 in mixed drink taxes and will receive $6,947.66 back from Bullock's office. Rockport collected $10,904.67 while Fulton collected $15,699.77.

Geranium most loved flower

By Ted Brice
The Garden Editor

It has been said that geraniums, which are natives of South Africa, are known and loved by more people than any other flower in the world. Geraniums grow almost anywhere with a minimum of care and are found in most gardens. The color range for geraniums are white, pink, brilliant red and a purplish black. Geraniums grow outdoors from year to year with little attention.

They can become shrubby plants four to five feet tall while in colder climates they are treated as small delicate annuals. The Lady Washington Geraniums also called Martha Washington may reach a height of three feet and have huge clusters of three to four-inch single and double blossoms, sometimes blotched with a darker shade on the two upper petals.

The ivy and the common geranium produce single or double flowers. The ivy geranium receives its name from the ivy shape leaves and the trailing and sideways growth that can extend up to four feet. The common geranium which is the most popular normally grows two to three feet tall but may reach a height of six feet or more.

The variety of geranium with the concentric markings on the leaves is among the common variety. Sometimes this geranium is also referred to as zonal geranium.

There are many scented geraniums with a variety of scents. There is not a geranium scent such as other plants have. The geranium may have a rose, lemon, peppermint, apple or nutmeg scent to mention only a few. Then the geranium may have no scent whatsoever. The fragrance emanates from the leaves and not the flowers.

You may use the ivy and common geranium as borders, beds and pot plants because they will bloom throughout the growing season. The ivy geranium is particularly effective in hanging baskets and window boxes. They can also be used as ground cover.

The Lady Washington is not as successful in many sections of the country as other geraniums since it needs temperatures below 60 degrees to bud. It is usually grown by florists for Mother's Day and Memorial Day.

Good Gardening until next week from your Garden Editor, Ted Brice.

JOE WYATT U.S. CONGRESS

Dear Friends,

May I take this opportunity to thank you for your support in the May 1 Republican primary.

We have worked hard to get this far. I can assure you that we will be working harder to achieve victory in the general election on November 2.

The 14th Congressional District deserves a congressman who will work to reduce federal spending and support President Reagan's efforts to balance the budget. Unfortunately, our current congressman does not share these convictions and has voted against the President's budget and tax cuts. Further, I will work with President Reagan to obtain a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget.

I am looking forward to meeting you personally in the coming months and discussing the issues that face this nation and our area. I would appreciate your help and support on November 2, 1982.

Sincerely,

Joe Wyatt, Jr.
