Kosygin Asks Israel Be Marked As Aggressor

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin asked the United Nations General Assembly today to condemn Israel as an aggressor against the Arabs and order the Israelis to withdraw all their forces immediately from Arab territory.

The Soviet leader, addressing an emergency U.N. session, accused the United States of encouraging Israel to war on the Arabs, promised Soviet support for the Arab cause and warned members of the United Nations that the world was watching to see if it was "able" to rebuff aggression.

Kosygin spoke only an hour after President Johnson in Washington delivered a major policy statement urging international cooperation in the search for Middle East peace. The day thus brought indirect confrontation of the leaders of the world's two most powerful nations.

The Soviet leader warned that conflict in the Middle East could lead to nuclear war. He presented a resolution seeking condemnation of Israel, its withdrawal from Arab territories, and restitution by Israel to the Arabs "in the shortest possible period of time all the damage inflicted by its aggression upon the U.A.R. (Egypt), Syria and Jordan and their nationals."

Kosygin's resolution appealed to the assembly "to undertake on its part immediate effective measures in order to eliminate all the consequences of the aggression committed by Israel."

Israel retorted promptly and directly after a minute of applause for Kosygin died away. Taking the rostrum, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said all Israel's troubles were aggravated "by the unbalanced policy of the Soviet Union."

"The Soviet Union has for 15 years been unfaithful" to the responsibilities it has as a great power, he said. He added, "The burden lies heavily upon her. It has contributed much to the tension of Middle East life."

Eban defended Israel's rights to peace, security and access to vital waterways. He spoke of the "torrent of hatred" which had been pouring in on Israel from the Arabs and of a constant threat to Israel's existence directed against her from the neighboring states.

Defending Israel's lightning 130-hour war and victory over the Arabs in the first week of June, Eban said it was beyond "all honest doubt" that between May 14 and June 5, Arab governments "methodically prepared and mounted an aggressive assault designed to bring about Israel's immediate and complete destruction."

Kosygin attacked U.S. foreign policy in virtually all areas of tension in the world, from Vietnam to Cuba but reserved his iciest blasts for U.S. and British roles in the drama of Israel's swift victory over the Arabs early this month.

"The aggressor (Israel) is in a state of military intoxication," Kosygin insisted.

Kosygin isued a "categorical demand" that all Israeli forces be withdrawn from the Suez Canal zone and all other occupied territories, so that a climate might be created for establishing peace in the Middle East.

"Only the withdrawal of Israeli forces from the seized territories may change the situation in favor of detente and the creation of conditions for peace in the Middle East," Kosygin said.

He said the Soviet Union "will undertake all measures within its power both in the United Nations and outside this organization in order to achieve the elimination of the consequences of aggression and promote the establishment of a lasting peace in the region."

He said the world was watching to see whether the United Nations "would be able to give a due rebuff to the aggressor."

Red Attack Blunted By US' Big Guns

By GEORGE MCARTHUR

SAIGON (AP) — A hard-core battalion of some 500 guerrillas left 45 dead on a blackened battlefield today after failing to storm the bivouac of a U.S. armored cavalry force.

Attempting to smash into American positions just after midnight, the guerrillas were met by the heaviest guns in the U.S. arsenal—175mm cannon raining 200-pound shells on the attackers.

Military headquarters said eight men of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment were killed and 31 wounded in the savage one-hour battle about 40 miles east of Saigon.

It was the only significant ground action reported in the day's communique although there was scattered and occasionally sharp fighting elsewhere. U.S. warplanes kept up their heavy raids on North Vietnam with 130 missions Sunday, including strikes on Hanoi's rail supply lines, the showpiece Thai Nguyen steel plant north of the capital and a surface-to-air missile site.

The American cavalrymen got a brief warning of impending attack when a small night patrol ran into a Communist recoilless rifle team. The U.S. patrol was evidently then surrounded by guerrillas heading for the main cavalry bivouac.

While the guerrillas of the hard-core 274th Viet Cong Regiment smashed at the U.S. line with recoilless rifles, .50 caliber machine guns and infantry assaults, the cavalry commander called for air and artillery support.

As American flareships lit the battlefield, a helicopter gunship strafed the Communists surrounding the isolated patrol. The 175mm cannon began to lay down a fire curtain barely 50 yards from the main American camp.

Within an hour the Viet Cong battalion pulled back into the darkness. The cavalry unit reported at daylight that 45 bodies were found and more had evidently been carried off in the darkness.

The cavalrymen also took 13 prisoners and picked up 18 weapons.

Decision Due On Dodd Censure

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to pass judgment this week on Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, accused of financial misconduct. Dodd's chief defender says he is short of the votes needed to block censure.

The vote on the censure resolution proposed by the Senate ethics committee is expected Tuesday or Wednesday.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., said in New Orleans Saturday he was gaining votes but was far short of the majority needed to defeat the resolution.

Long declined to say how many of the potential 100 votes are lined up for Dodd.

Long was to resume today his speech in defense of Dodd, 60, accused of converting $116,083 in political funds to his own use and knowingly double-billing the Senate and private organizations for travel expenses on seven trips.

The Senate will vote separately on the two counts.

Dodd spent the weekend preparing his final plea. He contends he has never profited from holding public office.

The possibility of a filibuster had loomed as the Senate concluded the first week of debate when Long called for a vote Friday on the double-billing charge. This was blocked by Sen. Wallace F. Bennet, R-Utah, vice chairman of the ethics committee.

Bennet said there was some feeling that if the double-billing count should be voted down, a filibuster might be mounted against bringing the other count to a vote. It is regarded as the more serious.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said the ethics commitee, after spending 14 months investigating Dodd, was entitled to decide which count should be voted on first.

"After all," he said, "it is not just Sen. Dodd who is on trial. The committee is on trial, too."

Dirksen said that when the investigation began there was "a lot of cynical comment around the country about a whitewash."

Connally Inks New Laws; Trims Appropriations Bill

By ROBERT HEARD

AUSTIN (AP) — In a whirlwind of penmanship on the final day for signing or vetoing bills, Gov. John Connally put his name on 161 bills and resolutions, vetoed 37 and filed three bills without his signature.

The vetoes did not include the "line vetoes" he made in trimming the appropriations bill by $3.2 million, making a total appropriation from general revenue of $444.3 million for one year.

The governor is permited by law to strike out individual items in the appropriations bill that he does not want.

The deadline for gubernatorial action on the bills was midnight Sunday, the 20th day after adjournment of the legislature.

Among major bills killed by Connally was one that would have extended the beer-drinking curfew to 2 a.m. and the liquor-drinking curfew to 2:15 a.m. seven days a week.

The new bill conflicts with an enforcement provision in present law, Connally said, and if the courts ruled the enforcement provision was rescinded by the new bill, then there would be no way of enforcing any curfew on private clubs.

Connally also axed a bill that would have raised retirement benefits for legislators by 50 per cent. The increase was inserted in a conference committee after the bill had passed the House and Senate in different forms, Connally said, and there was no public notice and no public hearing.

A bill that would have prohibited the employment of anyone under 21 where wine or liquor are sold was vetoed primarily because of the hardship it would work on grocery stores and the effect it would have on the job opportunities "of some 26,000 young people in the State of Texas."

The appropriations bill includes a $48 million pay raise for school teachers. Teacher pay, always a thorny issue, this year was one of the main reasons Connally asked for and got a rare one-year financial program for the state instead of the usual biennial state spending bill.

Financing for 1969 is to be handled, plus any new taxes that are needed, by a special session of the legislature that the governor has said he will call. No date for the session has been set.

The $444.3 million spending from general revenue for 1968 is an increase of 38 per cent over 1967 spending.

Total state spending from all sources of revenue, including federal grants, is $2.38 billion, up 14 per cent from 1967.

President Outlines Principles Of Peace

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson declared today that "certainly troops must be withdrawn" from conquered territory in the wartorn Middle East but firmly linked the pullback to negotiations of a general Arab-Israeli peace settlement.

In a major statement of U.S. policyn the President dealt with the withdrawal of Israeli forces from captured Arab territory as a matter for negotiation along with the problem of Arab refugees, freedom of passage through international waterways, Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist and a limitation on the Middle East arms race.

"Certainly troops must be withdrawn, but there must also be recognized rights of national life—progress in solving the refugee problem—freedom of innocent maritime passage—limitation of the arms race—and respect for political independence and territorial integrity," Johnson said.

The President added that a simple withdrawal of Israeli forces would "not be a prescription for peace but for renewed hostilities," unless accompanied by negotiations for a general peace settlement in the area.

Johnson spoke to a foreign policy conference of educators at the State Department. But his policy statement was set in the context of global debate with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, at a special U.N. General Assembly session in New York an hour or so later.

Johnson, laying down "five great principles of peace" for the Middle East, appealed to the nations there to shun another arms race, abandon "a diet of hate" and strive for a settlement.

"The world is watching," he said for the peace of the world is at stake."

The President's statement generally appeared to support what is understood here to be an Israeli position on troop withdrawals: That is, any agreement to withdraw Israeli troops from Egypt, Jordan or Syria should be linked to issues of vital interest to Israel, notably Arab recognition.

Johnson for the most part was careful not to name specific countries, but it was clear he was speaking of Egypt when he referred to the closing of the Straits of Tiran—an action announced by Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser about two weeks before the fighting started.

"If a single act of folly was more responsible for this explosion (the recent war) than any other," Johnson said, "it was the arbitrary and dangerous announced decision that the Straits of Tiran would be closed."

Johnson, saying Israel and and Arab states must be the peacemakers, promised U.S. support for peace measures both through the United Nations and through methods.

"I offer assurance to all, the President said, "that the government of the United States will do its part for peace, in every form, and at every level and at every hour.

Tuesday Rites For Victim Of Drowning

Funeral rites have been set for 4 p.m. Tuesday for Johnny Gutierrez, 15-year-old junior high student who drowned Sunday afternoon at Lake J. B. Thomas.

The youth apparently stepped unexpectedly into deep water while wading with others at the lake at about mid - afternoon Sunday. The body was recovered some four hours later and he was declared dead by D. P. Ammons, Justice of the Peace in Precinct 4. The drowning occurred near the Scurry County Boys' Club summer camp at the lake.

The Rev. Herman Valladares will officiate at the rites at Our Lady of Guadelupe Church. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gutierrez, 1311 Eighteenth Street; two sisters, Delores and Nellie Gutierrez, both of the home; and three brothers, Bernie, Lupe and Martin Gutierrez, also of the home.

Hurricane Hunter Eyes Trouble Spot

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A hurricane hunter pilot flew out today to scout a potential storm 500 miles northeast of Puerto Rico—the fifth "suspicious area' to develop in the 19-day-old season.

An aerial examination Sunday revealed a large area of clouds and a weak wind circulation. But ther were a few signs of intensification.

Since the Atlantic and Gulf storm season opened June 1, three tropical depressions and two other areas of suspicion have been reported.

One of the disturbances moved inland over North Carolina Sunday and weakened after bringing heavy rains and rough tides to the beaches.

Service Set For Pioneer Of Hermleigh

Rites have been set for Herman F. Wenetschlaeger, 70, of Hermleigh, who died at 4:35 a. m. Sunday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Rosary will be said at 8:30 o'clock tonight at Bolger Funeral Home, and mass will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. John's Catholic Church at Hermleigh. Fr. William Lensing will officate.

Mr. Wenetschlaeger has been a resident of Scurry County for 60 years.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lillie Wenetschlaeger; two sons, Henry of Snyder and Jack of Ballinger; a sister, Mrs. Jim Kubena of Hermleigh; a brother, Paul Wenetschlaeger of Hermleigh; and his father, Frank Wenetschlaeger.

He was a member of the Catholic Church and of the Hermann's Sons of Texas.

Pallbearers will be Frankie Wenetschlaeger, Jimmy Lee Kubena, Royce Beights of Loraine, Raymone Schwartz of Roscoe, Edgar Lammer and Bert Stahl. Burial will be in the Hermleigh Catholic Cemetery, under direction of Bolger Funeral Home.

Rail Machinists Stage Walkout

By JO HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) Members of the International Association of Machinists reportedly walked off their jobs in the Southern Pacific Railroad yards at Roseville, Calif., as a no-strike period imposed in six shopcraft unions by Congress came to an end early today.

The unions had pledged to continue working pending further congressional legislative action.

A spokesman for the Association of American Railroads said the workers quit at 12:01 a.m. and members of other unions were refusing to cross the picket lines.

A spokesman for IAM headquarters here said the union leadership had no report of a walkout in California and added, "If such a walkout has occurred, it is unauthorized."

The no-strike pledge was intended to prevent a threatened nationwide work stoppage of the six shopcraft unions against the nation's railroads, while Congress works out a compromise on proposed antistrike legislation.

There were no reports of walkouts elsewhere

The unions, after winning a victory on antistrike legislation in the House Thursday, announced they would forego any strike until Congress had a chance to work out a compromise on the bill.

Congressional leaders, rather than trying to hold colleagues in session over the weekend to seek a compromise, relied on the union's pledge that a strike would not take place

The Senate position is complicated by continuing debate on the censure case against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., which is expected to run until midweek.

Kosygin Views Manhattan Sights

By RAY KOHN

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin took in the typical tourist sights of Manhattan Sunday, but left his limousine only twice to take a walk — along Wall Street and a Fifth Avenue area of expensive shops.

Following his 2½-hour, 36-mile trip, Kosygin summed it up through an interpreter as "wonderful."

With Kosygin in the air-conditioned car equipped with bullet-proof glass were his daughter, Ludmila Gvishiani, Soviet Ambassador to the United States Anatoly F. Dobrynin, and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

They were surrounded by police security guards. Newsmen were kept at least 50 feet from the party.

Among the sights shown Kosygin were Central Park, Greenwich Village, Chinatown, the Empire State Building, Harlem, the Bowery, the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, Brooklyn Bridge, Union Square, Trinity Church, Grand Central Terminal, and the East Village, the hippie hangout.

The seven-car motorcade, flanked by motorcycle policemen, began and ended the tour at the Soviet U.N. Mission on East 67th Street. Sunday traffic is usually light in Manhattan, and overcast skies also cut down on the number of strollers and sightseers.

Kosygin became the first Soviet premier to set foot in the Wall Street financial district. Nikita Khrushchev was driven along the street in 1959, but stayed in his car.

Kosygyin's four-block walk took him past the New York Stock Exchange and some major firms representing the upper echelons of Amereican economic power.

On Fifth Avenue the premier walked from 38th Street to 23rd Street.

The few passersby showed only mild curiosity. One woman said of Kosygin, who was wearing a dark gray suit and dark blue and black striped tie: "If he didn't have all those people around him, I'd think he was a businessman."

Kosygin drew his first pickets since he arrived Saturday for an emergency session of the U.N. General Assembly.

Around the corner from the Soviet Mission, some 130 Jews protested Soviet support of Arab nations. The group sang, clapped and chanted for several hours before dispersing.

Service For Mrs. Elliott

Funeral services were set for 2:30 p.m. today at the Dunn Baptist Church for Mrs. Rita Elliott, 51, former Scurry County resident, who died Sunday at Quitman.

Mrs. Elliot had lived in Dallas for 15 years before moving to Quitman six months ago to live with a daughter, Mrs. Gwen Collum. She was a native of Loraine.

The Rev. Leroy Collum of Quitman, her son-in-law, and the Rev. Shelby Jones, Dunn Baptist Pastor, were to officiate. Burial was to be in the Dunn Cemetery under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

In addition to Mrs. Collum, survivors include another daughter, Mrs. Betty Wilson of Houston, a son, Don Elliott of Austin, three sisters, Mrs. Fay Adams of Sweetwater, Mrs. E. W. Maupin of Gruver, and Mrs. Doyle Parmer of Snyder; two brothers, Deibert Allen of Stratford and Odell Allen of Gruver; and seven grandchildren.

Clay Plays Clown's Part

By LAWRENCE LEE

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Cassius Clay sang, "You Make Me Feel so Good," today as he arrived at the federal courthouse for his trial on a charge of refusing to be inducted into the armed services.

He also, prompted laughter when a bailiff asked spectators in a corridor, "Are there any more jurors?"

"I'd like to serve on the jury," Clay said.

Conviction of the 25-year-old fighter could bring a 5-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine.

Clay declined to talk with newsmen as he walked through the lobby.

Clay went into a conference room as the bailiff assembled the prospective jurors in the small courtroom of Judge Joe Ingraham.

DEAR ABBY: Our 16-year-old son got a ticket for speeding (he has no car, it was his father's) so we took his driving privileges away for a month. It has been only five days and this boy is unbearable. He is ugly and hateful. He won't eat and he won't look at us. He answers all our questions with grunts and shrugs, and he says he won't be "nice" until we give him one more chance and restore his driving privileges.

My husband is a physician. He has had one coronary and he was told to keep calm and avoid excitement, and this son of ours is making a wreck of him.

I honestly don't know how to cope with this. We have all the questions, but none of the answers. Should we give in?

UNHAPPY

DEAR UNHAPPY: If you "give in" now you will give your son the impression that all he has to do in life to get his way is to punish everyone 'around him with his ugliness. Ignore his act. And if he doesn't eat, it's his hunger. Don't ask him any questions. It will only provide him with an opportunity to exhibit his surliness. Let him sweat it out. You'll be doing him a favor.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I am the 12-year-old sister of a 14-year-old slob. I have to share a room with her and it is murder. How can I get her to clean up her half of the room? I have told her about this a hundred times, but it doesn't do any good.

NEAT

DEAR NEAT: You can catch more flies with honey than vinegar. Be sweet. If all you do is pet yourself a lot of flies, you can either learn to live with it, or clean up her half, too. I'll admit it's not "fair," but it beats fuming and stewing and fighting.

DEAR ABBY: Before my husband and I met and were married, he went with a woman for about three years. He told me that she traveled around with him for weeks at a time. Here is my grudge: After five years of marriage, my husband still keeps in the closet a large box of pictures and souvenirs of this woman. Many of the pictures are of the two of them together.

Abby, am I square and narrow-minded to feel as I do about this? When I married him, I threw away all pictures and souvenirs of past boys friends. I never mention things I did, or places I went, etc. with any other man. But my husband never misses an opportunity to mention this woman's name. What do you think?

TROUBLED

DEAR TROUBLED: I think your husband enjoys tormenting you. But he's your husband now, and if you want it that way, you could possibly minimize your problem by ignoring all references to this woman, AND the box in the closet.

Carmichael Is Arrested

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—"Black power" advocate Stokely Carmichael, arrested along with four other Negro men at the scene of two nights of racial tension, spent Sunday night in jail rather than post $50 bond.

He and the others face charges of failing to move at an officer's direction. They were arrested in the predominantly Negro Dixie Hills section where small racial flareups had occurred two straight nights.

The four, who posted $25 bond each and were released, were identified by police as Donald Stone, Ernest Stephens, Charles Usher and Johnny Burkes. All listed Atlanta addresses.

A hearing for Carmichael was set for today.

Police said Carmichael, wearing bathing trunks and a sweatshirt with the late black nationalist leader Malcolm X's picture on it, was arrested when extra police were called to disperse a rapidly growing crowd.

Hussein Has No Proof

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein said today he had no conclusive evidence that British and U.S. planes working from aircraft carriers helped Israel fight the Arabs.

"I am not accusing any particular nation, but we do not say it is beyond the possibility of having happened," the king said.

Hussein thus did not associate himself with the charges by the Egyptian high command that American and British planes had been seen helping Israel.

"We would like to know exactly what happened," Hussein told a news conference. "We would like to know whether it was Israel alone, or assisted from any quarter. We would like to know that."

Hussein said he emphatically opposed any attempt to turn the Middle East war and its aftermath into a major East-West confrontation.

"We will not stand for any such nonsense," he said. "I shall be extremely upset to see it."

Philippine Catholics Killed By Raiders

MANILA (AP) — Seven members of an independent Philippine Catholic sect were killed today by a band of 200 anti-Christian fanatics who attacked their headquarters in the central Philippine village of Nuevavista, the Philippine Constabulary reported.

A spokesman said the anti-Christian band fled after the battle and was being hunted by troops.

The spokesman said the dead were members of the "National Catholic Church."

Escapee Scared, Wants In Cell

ESTANCIA, N.M. (AP)—Sheriff officers said Thomas Eugene Elbert, 21, of Kansas City, Mo., surprised a jailer who opened the door to his cell late Saturday night and escaped from the Torrance County jail.

But Elbert, who had been jailed in connection with an armed robbery, walked back into jail about five hours later.

"I was scared and decided to come back," the sheriff's office quoted him as saying.

Arizona's Ron Davini Receives Series Award

OMAHA, Neb. ZAP) I Ron Davini, fiery little catcher for Arizona State's NCAA baseball champs, was dumbfounded when told he had been voted most outstanding player of the 21st College World Series Sunday night.

"I can't talk, except to say several other guys deserved it more," stammered the 19-year-old sophomore from Anaheimn Calif.

The award was a tribute to Davini's .409 Series hitting and superb fielding. His uniform is always the first to get dirty. His teammates call him "pig pen." He's so excitable, Coach Bobby Winkles had him write "relax" in big letters on the back of his catcher's mitt.

No Photo Of Grandchild For Johnson

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Father's Day came and went and Luci Johnosn Nugent said she saw no signs her baby's birth was imminent.

Counting on having the baby by Sunday, though, Luci had provided an oval picture frame as a Father's Day gift for President Johnson.

His grandchild's photo was supposed to go into it. But instead, Luci said she provided a poem, explaining to her father about the empty frame. And the felt lining of the picture frame was done half in pink, half in blue, with question marks in pink on the blue and in blue on the pink side, Luci reported.

Luci provided this information for reporters when she and her husband, Patrick J. Nugent, turned up for 11:15 a.m. mass Sunday at their Roman Catholic parish church, St. Mary's Cathedral.

Nearby, at St. David's Episcopal Church, Luci's mother, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, was attending services in the church of her faith. The First Lady has been staying overnight with the Nugents at their fashionable Austin home to be with them when the baby comes.

Mother-to-be Luci was turned out for churchgoing in a vivid print, accordion pleated oni-tent, inches above her knees, worn with white fishnet stockings and white shoes. The eye-catching dress was red, yellow, pink and orange print with a big white bib collar. Luci wore a white head band across her shoulder-length black hair.

Husband Pat was rather conservatively garbed in light beige jacket, dark slacks and pale yellow shirt. He drove to the church with Luci and a family friend, Joe Batsen, a law student from Amarillo, Tex., in his dark green Pontiac Le Mans convertible.

They parked across the street from the church in the underground parking lot of the Johnson family's radio-television station KTBC, where he works. When a cameraman tried to follow there, Pat said, "This is private property. Get out of here."

Later, though, after church, there were plenty of photos of the young couple and Pat joined Luci in banter with the press before they drove off for a quiet day at home.

Luci said she didn't like being photographed full length, due to her approaching motherhood.

"It's disconcerting," she said, adding she wished photographers would just take head shots of her these days.

The auction will be held in the parking lot of the county jail.

STARTING NEW CHURCH BUILDING — Stanley Noah, second from right, chairman of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church Building Committee, turns the first shovel of earth in brief groundbreaking services held Sunday at the site of the new church auditorium. Contract for the project was let last week. Others who took active part in the service as the congregation looked on, are, from left, the Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of the church; Rayburn Burgess, plans committee chairman; and Kenneth Wilson, chairman of the board of deacons.

Fire Damages Local Cafe

The Snyder Fire Department answered a call at Ballard's Cafe at 7 a.m. today, and reported that a fire broke out in the attic which caused considerable roof damage.

The fire centered mainly above the kitchen and a back serving room. Little damage was reported to the inside of the building except ceiling and roof damage.

The cause of the fire was not known at noon, and no estimate of damage had been made.

AMA Trustees Ask Laws Liberalized

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) The trustees of the American Medical Association have urged, for the first time, that the AMA adopt an official policy in support of liberalizing the nation's abortion laws.

The trustees made the recommendations at the opening session of the annual AMA convention Sunday on the basis of a report by the Organization's Committee on Human Reproduction.

Changes Told By Nasser

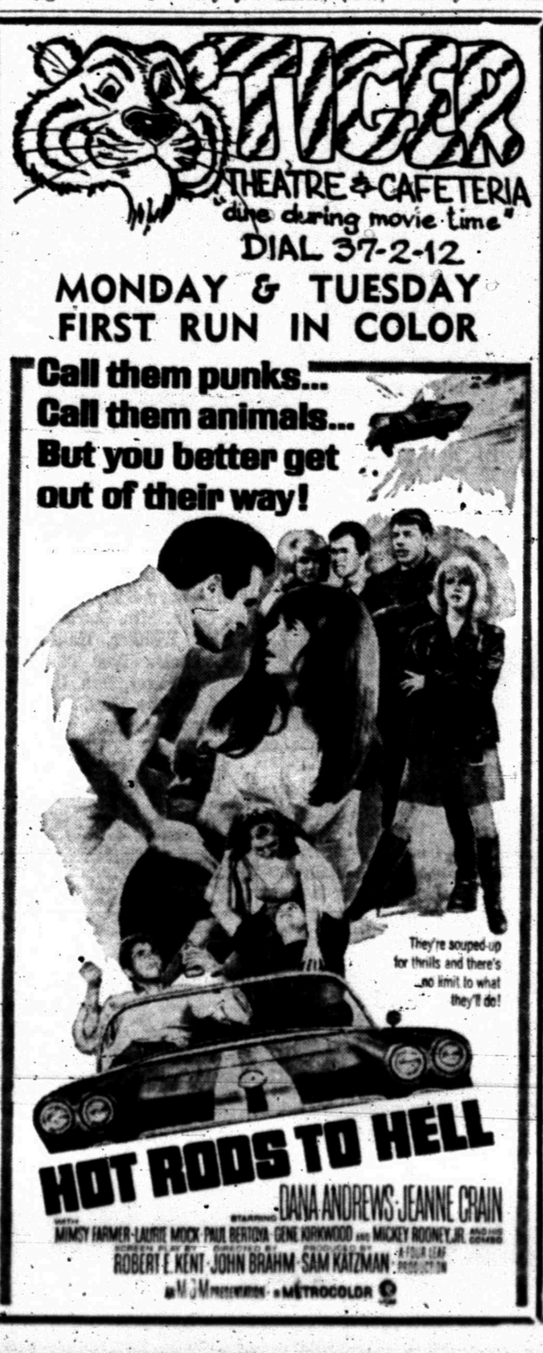

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt announced sweeping changes in the government today and named himself premier of a new cabinet, Cairo Radio said.

The cabinet shuffle was announced 10 days after Nasser offered to resign as leader of Egypt in the wake of the Arab-Isaeli war. Nasser's resignation was withdrawn when the National Assembly refused to accept it.

Cairo radio said Nasser appointed four vice presidents in the new government. One of them was Zakaria Mohieddin, whom he had named as his successor when he resigned.

Premier Sidky Soliman, replaced as premier by Nasser, was named vice president and minister of industry and power. He was also named minister for the Aswan High Dam.

Nasser, who retained his position as president, dismissed his former minister of war, Sams al Din Badran, and named Mohammed Abdel Wahab Bishri as the new minister for war and war production. Bishri was war minister in Nasser's 1962 cabinet.

MISS DORA ANN MAPES, bride-elect of Mr. David (Mokie) Hale, was honored with a gift tea Friday evening in the cafetorium of Kathryn Ryan School. The spacious hall held individual tables laid with white linen cloths and centered with white daisies and pink rose buds. The serving table was laid with a white net floor-length cloth with tiny pink bow adornments. Appointments were in crystal and silver. Pictured above from left, Mrs. Bill Mapes, mother of the bride-to-be, the honoree, Mrs. Cliff Hale, mother of the prospective groom, and Mrs. Geo. Hale, grandmother of the future groom. The couple will exchange vows in July.

The Gardeners Corner

A READER from Pennsylvania asked why his tomatoes became very blotchy and broke open on the top to uncover white spots inside.

This probably is caused by a rather complex condition commonly known as blotchy ripening. It is best overcome by not pruning excessively so that as much foliage as possible is left on the plant. Helpful also will be a good, heavy mulch to provide a more even moisture supply to the plant.

A higher pH (involving the concentration of hydrogen) with addition of calcium limestone) also will improve the situation to some extent.

Sunburn could be a factor, and good leaf cover to prevent sun scald will help.

Tomato cracking also could be caused by excessive water and rapid temperature changes. Mulching should be a preventative.

The use of new lightweight potting soil mixtures is a good reason why sturdy clay pots are desirable. Many plants are now grown in a combination of shredded sphagnum moss, zonolite vermiculite and plant nutrients. These are so light, they cut the soil ball weights of plants by half.

Substantial red clay pots will keep the plant stabilized and prevent tipping.

Nine New Petunias

Hanging from a basket in our kitchen window are several of nine new petunias (from Pan-American Seed). Coral Cascade is doing better than the others for us, hanging down the bright blooms. Other first - generation hybrid single grandifloras are Peach Blossom, early and free flowering, with white centers; Blue Jeans, a medium blue; and Red Magic, early bright and free flowering.

First-generation single multifloras are Sugar Blues, deep blue center shading to light blue petal edges; Rose Star, dark red-rose with white star, vigorous and compact; Purple Plum, deep rich and weather tolerant. Two first-generation hybrid double grandifloras are Valentine, a red double with 3-inch flowers, and Blue Danube, lavender blue with 2½-inch, lacy flowers.

Pennsylvania State University reports it has a new pesticide detection tool that will determine residues of the insect spray dimethoate in plants and farm products.

Samples are extracted from plants with a solvent. After a cleaning procedure, dimethoate is taken from the extract by hydrobromic acid. The dimethoate sulfur is converted to hydrogen sulfide when the acidic solution is boiled. The presence of dimethoate may be measured by the color of the solution.

The method has been tested successfully on pesticide residues in many common garden vegetables and fruits.

but have they stopped to think about what happens to that dollar they spend away from home? Part of it will go to support schools, churches and public projects of the community in which that dollar was spent. All well and good. But what about the schools, churches, etc. in our own community? These must also be supported. China's H-Bomb Said Mao's Gift

By KENNETH ISHII

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's armed forces newspaper says China's first hydrogen bomb was exploded one month early as a gift to Chairman Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution.

"Some of the officials concerned were gripped by anxiety and unable to tackle difficulties involved in the test" and warned against "undue haste," the Liberation Army Daily said.

But "the revolutionaries, rereading quotations of Communist Chinese party Chairman Mao Tse-tung decided to test the bomb early and make it a gift to the cultural revolution," it said.

"Thus they worked day and night and finally succeeded in drawing up the blueprint a month earlier than scheduled. They put the blueprint into shape fragmentarily without waiting for the completion of the whole parts."

The announcement of the Chinese blast Saturday drew no comment from the Soviet Union and was given only one paragraph in Moscow Sunday papers.

Defense Department officials in Washington said the test has not changed the Pentagon's belief that China will not be able to launch a nuclear attack on the United States for about eight years.

Japanese military experts, however, say the Chinese appear to have a number of bombs ready for testing and in transportable form. The blast was interpreted by some Japanese commentators as an implied threat to Japan, which has no diplomatic relations with Red China.

Nuclear debris from the Chinese test was expected to begin falling on Japan today. Two daily flights of planes are to collect fallout dust in western Japan.

The blast was expected to strengthen Mao's hand in his campaign to oust President Liu Shao-chi and his supporters. The Peking communique announcing the explosion said it "greatly heightens the morale of the revolutionary people and greatly deflates the arrogance of imperialism, modern revisionism and all reactionaries."

The bomb was reportedly detonated in the border province of Sinkiang, which has been ruled by Wang En-mao, a district military commander who reportedly opposed Mao. At one time Wang was reported to have threatened to blow up the nuclear facilities in the province, but the test explosion apparently means Mao's forces have the area under control.

Two Youths Joing Navy

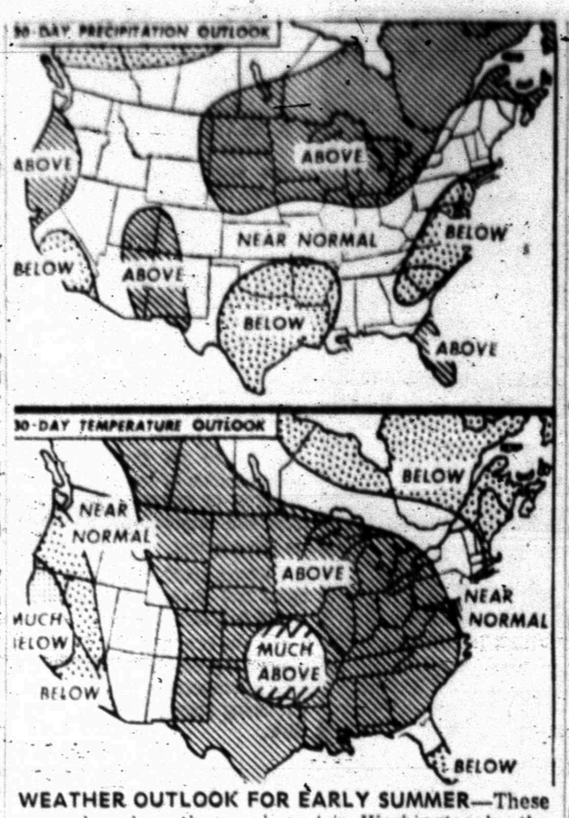

Robert L. Jones Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Jones of 3100 Beaumont, and Gary L. Poe, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Poe of Monsanto Gas Plant, Snyder, enlisted in the U. S. Navy on June 15.

Both young men applied for enlistment with Marv Baker, the local Navy Recruiter, whose office is in Sweetwater, and were sent to Dallas, where they received their oath into the Navy.

From Dallas, they were flown to the Naval Training Center, San Diego, Calif., where they will undergo 9 weeks of Naval basic training.

Jones is a 1967 graduate of Snyder High School and Poe a 1967 graduate of Ira High School. They enlisted together under the Navy's "Buddy Program," which guarantees that they will undergo basic training together.

Baker said that beginning July 5, he will be in Snyder every Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Post Office. Anyone desiring information concerning the Navy or Selective Service may see him at that time. Or information can be obtained by calling BE 4-8000 in Sweetwater.

Rugged Society Program Is Instituted In Singapore

By MERVYN PEREIRA

SINGAPORE (AP) — President Johnson may have his "Great Society" dreams. But in Singapore it is the "Rugged Society" that Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew works for.

"Only the fit can survive," says Lee. "There is no place here for soft and flabby citizens."

This means about 10 per cent of Singapore's civilian population knows how to march in strict army style. And thus any time between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. on any day in this republic of two million, some group is marching somewhere.

The "Rugged Society Program" was instituted early this year. Lee's vision was a Singapore of well-built citizens working for the benefit of the island — "Energy means increased production, energy means survival."

The aim of the program is to instill "pride" in the citizens of Singapore.

The "Rugged Society Program" is a carefully drawn out plan, which includes compulsory military service for youths; health drives; intensive training in sports; oaths of allegiance, and moral rearmament.

Compulsory military training has already put 10,000 Singapore youth — both men and women — in uniform, with a total of some 200,000 to be trained by about 1982. This will constitute one of the largest armies in Southeast Asia, but Singapore's leaders stress the army is for defense only.

In a recent ruling, every child above 9 years will have to undergo strict medical tests twice a year. This will include tests of muscular power, endurance and general health.

Teachers, who are considered "the most important people" in Singapore, also must undergo fitness programs.

Sport has been the republic's main concern. Alarmed at its athletes' poor showing at recent international meets, the Ministry of Culture and Education has now decided to launch a full four-year intensive training scheme for athletes.

The target date is the Asian Games at South Korea in 1970. Promising athletes are to report to the training ground six days a week for intensive coaching and fitness exercises.

Ruggedness cannot be achieved unless the human body and the human mind go through intensive systematic training," a spokesman for the Ministry of Culture said recently.

"The discipline is not that of a slave state. What is required here is a democratically disciplined society, which means that our young people must be built up on a systematic program for the inculcation of self-discipline," he said.

Europe's Working Princes Spend Long Hours On Job

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Members of the lofty profession of princemanship work a seven-day week, long hours and have no union.

Chances of strikes, however, are about as remote as a blind mouse scoring one in a bowling alley.

Who are the working princes of Europe?

Taking the married ones first, they are:

Prince Bernhard, who will be 56 on June 29, husband of Queen Juliana of The Netherlands; Prince Philip, who was 46 on June 10, husband of Queen Elizabeth II of England; Prince Albert, 33, brother of King Baudouin of the Belgians, and Prince Charles, brother of Luxembourg's reigning Grand Duke Jean.

The bachelor princes are:

Crown Prince Carl Gustaf, 21, of Sweden; Crown Prince Harald, 30, of Norway, and Prince Bertil, 55, of Sweden, second son of King Gustaf Adolf. The king's eldest son was killed in an airplane crash in 1947.

Then there's Prince Charles, the Prince of Wales, heir to the British throne, a schoolboy of 18, and as such, hardly to be included among the working princes.

Europe's working princes spend hundreds of hours at official and private dinners, luncheons, cocktail parties, charity balls, and other functions, escorting their ladies.

The bachelors usually go it alone. But sometimes a suitable partner for a particular party is found.

Norway's crown prince works hardest at promoting sport and youth activities at home and, when abroad, representing his country in international yachting.

He is soft-spoken and a bit shy. While Prince Philip and Prince Bernhard actively boost their nation's business and perform super jobs of salesmanship, Prince Harald ducks the commercial side of princemanship.

Harald is the active chairman of the Royal-Norwegian Sailing Club. Along with his father, the widowed King Olav V, he is a member of the International Yachting Union, the sport's governing body.

In Sweden, Crown Prince Gustaf is still at school, and representing his country officially up to now only part-time.

He has just finished a trip aboard the Swedish ship, Aelvsnabben, a sort of good-will craft that yearly sails the world with its young cadets.

Prince Bertil is a resounding success as a kind of Swedish ambassador-at-large. He is constantly on the move between his villa on the French Riviera, the Stockholm palace, South America and other lands.

When the king is ill or out of Sweden, Bertil is regent. He is an excellent and witty speaker.

He keeps in contact with many Swedish youth organizations and is one of the hardest working of the working princes.

In Belgium Prince Albert has one of the world's prettiest princess wives, the shapely blonde Princess Paola, born Donna Paola Margherita Maria Antonia Ruffo di Calabria—in Italy.

Prince Albert is a senator, chairman of the Belgian Red Cross, and chairman of the Belgian Foreign Trade Office. He and Paola have three young children.

Prince Albert makes at least one trade trip abroad each year, heading delegations of Belgian trade experts, businessmen and bankers.

Close by Belgium and married to an American, the daughter of former U. S. Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, is Prince Charles of Luxembourg.

He and his wife play, too, but they also work.

Prince Charles did such an energetic job of attracting American companies to his tiny nation that Luxembourg decided six years ago it had enough foreign companies.

From 1959 to 1961, Prince Charles was chairman of Luxembourg's Board of Industrial Development.

He wed Joan Dillon last year.

As articulate in any company as is Prince Philip in England, Prince Bernard of The Netherlands is, perhaps, a less imperious talker, ready to talk in interviews with the press and television about himself, his family, and the profession of princemanship.

He once summed up the attitude of a working prince by saying:

"No monarch, whoever he may be, has the automatic right to continue as such. Monarchies only have this right when the majority of their members exert themselves and work for the country, so that they personally are respected."

Snyderite In Vietnam

Army Private First Class Edward L. Morris, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Morris, Snyder, and other members of the 572nd Engineer Company completed construction on an air strip near Cung Son, Vietnam, May 27.

A bulldozer operator in the unit, Pvt. Morris and the other engineers began work on the air strip last November, but after fighting monsoon rains for three months, they were forced to abandon the field until the summer heat could dry it.

A 1963 graduate of Snyder High School, Pvt. Morris entered the Army in September, 1966, and completed his basic training at Ft. Bliss. He was last stationed at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., before arriving in Vietnam in March 1967.

Don Wilson Pitches No-Hit Shutout Against Atlanta

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Don Wilson won't mind passing up another breakfast . . if it means more champagne before dinner.

Wilson, a 22-year-old Houston rookie, pitched an overpowering, 2-0 no-hitter — first in the National League since 1965 — against the usually potent Atlanta Braves Sunday.

The 6-foot-3 right-hander walked three Braves, but struck out 15 — including five of the last six he faced — in hurling the first no-hitter in the Astrodome. And he did it all on an empty stomach.

"I didn't change one thing today," he said between sips of the bubbly in the chaotic Astros' clubhouse. "Oh, yes, there was one thing. My wife didn't cook breakfast for me. She wasn't feeling good."

Would he skip breakfast before his next start?

"I'll try it one more time and see what happens."

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis trimmed San Francisco 4-1 to move past Cincinnati into first place while Los Angeles cuffed the Reds 5-3, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs split a doubleheader with the New York Mets, winning 4-3 after lossing by the same score in 10 innings.

The American League-leading Chicago White Sox swept a pair from the New York Yankees 7-3 and 4-0, Washington edged Boston 3-2 in 10 innings, California topped Baltimore 5-3, Kansas City whipped Detroit 8-4 and Minnesota downed Cleveland 4-2.

Wilson, who got a saving assist from third baseman Bob Aspromonte in the sixth inning, walked Denis Menke leading off the eighth, then struck out pinch hitters Rico Cartyn Charles Lau and Clete Boyer.

In the ninth, Felipe Alou fouled out to Aspromonte, Tito Francona fanned — and slugging Hank Aaron stood between Wilson and the champagne.

"I consider him one of the best clutchers in the game," Wilson said later.

"I checked the scoreboard to see who they had coming up. I didn't want to face Aaron, but after I walked Menke in the eighth, I knew I'd have to."

Aaron ran the count to 3-2, fouled off the next pitch, and then went down swinging.

"He just threw it right past me," Aaron said. "This kid threw as hard as anybody we've faced all year.

"He's the kind of guy that makes me want to retire from the game."

The Astros clipped Phil Niekro for their two runs in the fourth on Sonny Jackson's single, Jim Wynn's double, a single by Rusty Staub and an infield out.

Wilson, who came into the game with a 3-3 record, retired the first 14 batters before walking Menke in the fifth.

With two out in the sixth, Aspromonte made a diving stop of Alou's smash to his left, recovered and threw out the runner while still on his knees.

"Aspromonte made a great throw," Wilson said. "He actually saved the game."

The no-hitter was the first in the NL since Sandy Koufax beat the Cubs with a perfect game on Sept. 9, 1965. Baltimore's Steve Barber and Stu Miller combined for a no-hitter against Detroit on April 30, but the Tigers beat the Orioles 2-1.

Bo Belinsky, now with the Astros, was the last rookie to hurl a no-hitter, accomplishing the feat for the Los Angeles Angels against Baltimore in 1962.

The former Houston pitchers — Don Nottebart and Ken Johnson — pitched no-hitters for the Astros on the road, Nottebart beat the Phillies 4-1 in 1963 but Johnson was beaten by Cincinnati 1-0 the next year.

Harvey Haddix was the last pitcher to stymie the Braves, pitching 12 perfect innings against them in 1959 before losing 1-0 on Joe Adcock's 13th inning double.

Dick Hughes stopped San Francisco on four hits and Orlando Cepeda cracked a two-run homer against his former mates as the Cardinals climbed into first place by six percentage points.

Left-hander Claude Osteen weathered Cincinnati 12 hits and stroked a two-run single, helping the Dodgers knock the Reds out of the top spot for the first time since April 27.

Matty Alou collected four hits for the second day in a row, leading the Pirates past Philadelphia. Winning pitcher Tommie Sisk drilled a two-run single in a four-run first inning burst that offset the Phillies' late surge.

Tom Reynolds' leadoff homer in the 10th inning lifted the Mets past Chicago in the opener but the Cubs snapped a 3-3 deadlock in the eighth inning of the nightcap on Lee Thomas' sacrifice fly, following singles by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams.

Wilson, Astros Have Champagne Celebration

By LAWRENCE LEE

HOUSTON (AP) — Wet behind the ears from champagne, rookie right-hander Don Wilson, 22, pondered his 2-0 no-hitter for the Astros against Atlanta and decided upon the explanation: Sunday morning, for the first time, his wife, Denise, had failed to cook breakfast for him.

"I'll try it one more time and see what happens," Wilson said.

Hank Aaron, the last of 15 Braves Wilson struck out, held other theories.

"He's the kind of guy that makes me want to retire from the game," said the hard-hitting Aaron. "This kid threw about as hard as anybody we've faced all year."

Every pitch in the last inning was a fastball, and Astros Manager Grady Hatton called the very last, "as hard as any pitch he threw the whole ball game."

Pitching coach Gordon Jones counted 143 pitches, 75 of them strikes.

"He only threw two off speed pitches all day long," Jones said "one change and one curveball. The rest were all fastballs and sliders. He had overpowering stuff."

Wilson faced 30 Atlanta batters in allowing six balls out of the infield, walking three men and retiring the first 14 before Denis Menké's fifth-inning walk. Aaron walked in the seventh and Menke again in the eighth.

"I didn't want to face Aaron, but after I walked Menke in the eighth, I knew I'd have to," Wilson said. "I was petrified."

Felipe Alou was first out in the ninth, on a foul pop to Bob Aspromonte. Wilson fanned Tito Francona on three pitches and Aaron was up.

Wilson went to a 3-2 count with him. "I decided that either he's going to break up the no-hitter, or I'm going to get him out," Wilson said. "I threw my fastball." Aaron swung and missed. "I wanted to break it up," Aaron said afterwards.

Wilson tossed his glove in the air as his teammates crowded around and the giant electronic scoreboard filled up with rows of zeroes.

In the dressing room he accepted the telephone congratulations of team owner Roy Hofheinz, who gave him a $1,000 contract hike.

Wilson had difficulty opening the champagne. "Look at him, a teammate shouted across the room. "He's more nervous now than he was out there in the ninth."

Wilson grinned, opened the bottle and submitted to the mandatory dousing. Then he stuck his finger in the bottle, shook it up and sprayed himself in the face.

Across the room sat Bo Belinsky, the last rookie to pitch a no-hitter, that for the Los Angeles Angels in 1962.

Wilson gave much of the credit for the gem to third baseman Aspromonte, who made a diving stop of a sharp grounder slammed to his left in the sixth inning by Alou. He was on one knee when he threw Alou out.

"Aspro made a great throw," Wilson said. "He actually saved the game."

The Houston runs came in the fourth when Jim Wynn doubled one home and then scored himself on Ed Mathews' force-out grounder.

Wilson is a native of Monroe, La., who now lives in Compton, Calif. He joined the Astros as a free agent in 1964 and pitched one game for Houston last season.

In 13 previous games this year he pitched 72 innings and posted 61 strikeouts. His earned run average was .8. He had trouble finishing early in the season, but warmed up as it progressed, beating San Francisco 7-4 in his last previous start for a complete game, eight-hitter and 13 strikeouts.

Cassius Faces Court On Draft Violation

By LAWRENCE LEE

HOUSTON (AP) — World heavyweight champion Cassius Clay headed into an important round against Uncle Sam today, the fighter's trial for standing still when other men called by the draft took one step forward into the Army.

If the 25-year-old fighter is convicted of violating the Universal Military Training and Service Act, he could be fined up to $10,000 and sentenced to five years in prison.

U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham went into the trial with no stated rulings on news coverage, but he pointed out that his courtroom is small, and "we've never had demands like this."

The case is a jury trial, but Ingraham's rulings on matters of law will be all-important.

Today's first order of business was the judge's opening statement to the 150-member jury pool.

U. S. Atty. Morton L. Susman said the government's case could be completed in two hours with four witnesses, all of them officials of the Selective Service System. Susman was joined in the case by Alfred T. Ghiorzi of the Justice Department's criminal division and by Marine Col. Robert Todd Hays, assistant to the general counsel of the Selective Service System.

Hayden Covington of New York City was Clay's chief counsel, joined by Quinnan Hodges of Houston.

Covington predicted the trial would end by Tuesday afternoon at the latest. He readied a double defense: that Clay is draft exempt as Black Muslim minister Muhammad Ali, and that Clay and other Negroes are systematically discriminated against by draft boards, which Covington argues are unfairly loaded with whites.

Clay, a native of Louisville, Ky., made his home in Houston last year after a fight in the domed stadium. He is undefeated in 29 bouts, including 25 victories by knockout.

He was called to the Army April 8 and that day at the Houston Customs House, balked at the oath-taking.

His title then was stripped from him by several boxing governing bodies including the World Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission. But he remains the recognized champion in many states cand throughout most of the world.

Ten days later, a federal grand jury in Houston indicted Clay. He entered a plea of innocent and went free on $5,000 bond.

Buckpasser Streak Is Ended

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"We still love him."

That's what trainer Eddie Neloy said after Buckpasser's 15-race winning streak ended abruply on Aqueduct's grass surface Saturday. The upset loss caused cancellation of his scheduled trip overseas for the Grand Prix de St. Cloud at Paris July 2.

The defeat of the mighty 4-year-old equine millionaire by his stable mate, Poker, and Assagai in the $55,400 Bowling Green Handicap still was the main topic of conversation in racing circles today.

It overshadowed the scheduled return to competition of Dr. Fager in the $100,000 Arlington Classic in Chicago this weekend as well as Furl Sail's attempt to sweep the New York triple crown for fillies by taking the $100,000 Coaching Club American Oaks at Aqueduct.

Buckpasser, lugging top weight of 135 pounds and wearing French-style smooth shoes, was beaten by two lengths in the first race of his career on a grass course. Poker, ridden by Bill Boland, led all the way in the 1⅛ miles under 112 pounds in 2:41 2-5.

Poker finished 1½ lengths ahead of Assagai, second high-weight at 127 pounds, with Buckpasser third, half a length back of the runner-up.

Southpaw Jim Kaat of the Minnesota Twins won eight straight games last summer on his way to a 25-victory season.

Petty Has Reached Most Speedway Goals

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — There isnt much left for stock car race driver Richard Petty to do but win more money and set more records for others to shoot at.

Petty, 29-year-old son of former driving great Lee Petty, took the Carolina 500-mile race Sunday and now has won on all of the South's five super speedways except the one at Charlotte. And even there, he crossed the finish line at the head of the pack one time—as a relief driver.

Nicklaus In Open Victory

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. (AP) — "I felt like an idiot, standing there with a one-iron in my hand," Jack Nicklaus said. "But I knew what I had to do to win this golf tournament."

The bulky Golden Bear, at age 27 perhaps the best golfer the world has seen, was explaining the final moments of his record-shattering triumph in the United States Open Golf Tournament Sunday.

"I wasn't thinking about records," Nicklaus said over and over. "Records come. They're made to be broken. I just wanted to win this tournament."

He did. And—he insists it was entirely incidental—he broke Ben Hogan's 19-year-old Open scoring record of 276 by one stroke with a curling, 23-foot putt on the final hole.

It gave him a final round 65, five under par for the stately old Baltusrol Course, and a 72-hole total of 275, adding the Open scoring record to his Masters mark of 271.

But he was more concerned with adding this second Open title—he won his first in 1962 in his first year as a pro—to his collection of three Masters, a PGA and a Brtish Open crown.

"I had to make a decision on the 18th tee," Nicklaus said. The 18th is a 542-yard, par 5 hole. "I was four strokes ahead and knew I had to beat (Arnold) Palmer to wn it.

"Two things were going through my mind. One was what Arnie said last year, that he was thinking about breaking Hogan's record when he had that blow-up in San Francisco.

"The other was that Dick Mayer took a seven on this same hole and lost the Open in 1954.

"Those were the things I was thinking about. I knew the only way Arnie could catch me was for him to get a three and me a seven. So I was shooting for a six or better.

"So I took out a one iron—I felt like an idiot doing it—and aimed it down the right side of the fairway. I was in the rough, on something that looked like a cable. So I got a drop and hit an eight iron back to the fairway."

He reached the green in three "and that's when I knew I had the tournament won."

For all intents and purposes, however, he had it won much earlier, when he reeled off a string of three straight birdies on the third through fifth holes. That gave him a lead he never relinquised.

Palmer, who was tied with Nicklaus and Casper for second going into the final round, finished with a 69 for second place at 279. Playing in the same twosome with Nicklaus, he didn't get a birdie until the 17th, but added another at the 18th.

Casper, the defending champion, was bothered by driving problems and settled for fourth with a 72 for 282, one stroke back of Don January, who had a final round 70.

Marty Fleckman, the 23-year-old amateur from Port Arthur, Tex., who led the third round, blew sky high with an 80 for 289, putting him far, far back in the pack. He started with three bogeys, and also bogeyed six of seven holes on the back nine.

Hogan, 55, seeking his fifth Open title, had a final 72 for 292.

Young Tracksters In Good Showing

A group of young track and field performers in the Snyder Summer Recreation Program made a good showing Saturday at a meet at Brownfield.

The local aggregation, competing against younsters from some 18 West Texas and South Plains cities and towns, were led by Mike Line's winning effort in the junior shot put. His first place toss went 34-5¾.

Also in the junior division, Bobby Burleson placed fifth in the 100-yard dash with a time of 11.8.

In the midget division, Wen Bunch was fourth in the high jump with a leap of 4 feet event.

Snyder had three 5th place finishes and one 6th place in the intermediate division. Danny Farmer was 5th with a time of 2:28 in the 880 yard run, Norman Davis was 5th with a 10.9 in the 70-yard dash, and Gary Shields placed 5th in the 220 with a time of 24.6 and 6th in the 100 with a time of 10.7.

Coach Jerry Bristo, who is supervising the summer track program for youngsters here, said the locals will perform in at least three more meets and possibly more. The next meet will be July 1 at Lubbock. Other meets definitely booked are at Odessa and Abilene. There is a possibility that another meet will be held in the area.

At present, some 20 boys are working out in the summer track program and others are invited to join them.

The entries at the Brownfield meet Saturday came from Lubbock (all schools), Seminole, Tahoka, Borger, Odessa Stanton, Midland, Floydada, Abernathy, Littlefield and other smaller communities.

Holstead Top Golfer

MIDLAND (AP) — Bill Holstead of Wichita Falls is champion of West Texas men's golf. He won the annual tournament Sunday with a closing five-over-par 77 that gave him 288 for 72 holes.

Ken Newell of Fort Worth wound up second five strokes back after winning a playoff with John Shackleford of Shamrock. Each had 293.

BUDDY POWELL, centerfielder for the Snyder Tigers, is one of the five Tigers to be placed on the All-District baseball team. The team was picked by the 3AAA coaches.

EGYPTIAN ROULETTE!

Outcome Of UN Debate Is Unpredictable At Best

By JAMES MARLOW
AP New Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before the end of the Israeli-Egyptian war debate, opening today in the U.N. General Assembly, the United States and the Soviet Union may get along better or worse. It's that unpredictable.

But cynicism is part of the bloodstream of the United Nations which, at the time of its creation in 1945, looked like a holy of holies, or so the world hoped then.

The Soviets, who promised the Arabs their support if they got into war with Israel, did nothing except piously protest violence when the war came and the Israelis demolished the Egyptians. This cost the Soviets dearly in Arab confidence.

So what they did when the quick war ended was obvious: They set out to recapture Arab goodwill be asking the U.N. Security Council to condemn Israel as an aggressor and demand it withdraw from the Arab land it seized.

The Soviets lost on this maneuver in the council when a majority of the 15 members, including the United States, refused to go along. So then Moscow asked the full Assembly to do what the council refused to do.

This was a switch. In 1961, when India overran the Portuguese enclave of Goa-Damao-Diu on the southwest coast of India, territory Portugal had held since the 16th century, the United States, Britain and France asked the Security Council to condemn India's aggression and demand it withdraw.

The Soviets, who had praised the Indian attack, vetoed this proposal. Egypt also opposed it.

In 1956, when Moscow sent its army into Hungary to crush the anti-Communist revolt there, the United States asked the Security Council, with the support of 10 other members, to condemn the action and demand Soviet withdrawal. Moscow vetoed this.

This time, in the General Assembly, the Soviets may try to try a lot of fish. Posing as friend of the Arabs, it can seek to make the United States look pro-Israel and anti-Arab, which the Arabs think it is anyway.

For the Soviets this would be a worthwhile project if the result froze the United States out of the Middle East, which doesn't seem likely, and made itself the dominant force.

But the unpredictables in all this are endless.

Soviet - American relations have been improving, and the Soviets showed reason and restraint when the Mideast war broke out. It's possible that, while trying to endear themselves to the Arabs all over again by castigating Israel, they will try to avoid anything that would anger the United States.

It seems likely that no matter what the General Assembly says about the Israeli-Arab war it will have little effect on a Mideast settlement.

For instance, suppose the Assembly says Israel and the Arabs ought to get together and work out a settlement. Or suppose it condemns Israel and tells it to withdraw and return to the Arabs the land seized in the war.

Before the Assembly could even meet to discuss such problems the Egyptian ambassador to the United Nations, Mohamed El Kony, ruled out Sunday any Israeli-Arab negotiations.

He said, "By all means we are going to get our territory back, whatever the cost." Further, he said, even if President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, who is in New York for the debate, had a summit meeting they "couldn't arrange anything without our consent."

And the Israeli Foreign Minister, Abba Eban, who is also in New York, said Sunday there would be no return to pre-war boundaries "even if the General Assembly votes 121 to 1 in favor of it." He said the Arabs would have to negotiate with Israel about getting their real estate back.

One of the most fascinating parts of the debate will be the American role. It's a good guess the United States will at least start out on a soft line, perhaps letting Israel set off the oratorical fireworks, to avoid any unnecessary showdowns.

A Junior Editors Quiz About UNICORNS

QUESTION: Why did unicorns become extinct?

* * *

ANSWER. Unicorns never did become extinct because they were only mythical animals, existing in the imaginations of people of ancient days. Remember that in those far-off times the world had been only partly explored. Some northern discoverer might have brought back to civilization one of the long-pointed tusks which the kind of whale called a narwal actually does carry on the front of his head (top picture). Then some old Greek or Roman artist may have thought: "How beautiful such a tusk would look if shown on the head of a graceful white horse!" This dramatic but mythical conception was admired for its beauty and called a unicorn, meaning one horn. Sometimes unicorns were given red heads and blue eyes, and the tail of a lion. They came to be emblems of purity, and in the middle ages were often shown in tapestries and paintings in connection with figures of Christ, the Virgin Mary, or the saints. Unicorns became symbols in heraldry, to decorate some of the shields and trappings of chivalrous knights.

Facts Found In Boyle's Mail Bag

By HAVL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Golf balls have up to 336 "dimples." They help a ball go farther and fly on a true course.

People who borrow or rent a motorcycle are twice as likely to have an accident as those who own their own vehicle.

You can't tell a rattlesnake's age by counting the rattles on its tail. These buttons are often broken off and, in any case, the snake may grow either one or two buttons a year.

Oil and gas cost the average motorist about three cents a mile. Tests show you get peak fuel economy by driving at speeds between 40 and 50 miles an hour.

The emperor penguin is one of nature's more responsible fathers. Since there is no material in the antarctic to build nests, he and his mate take turns holding their egg on their feet so it won't freeze on the ice.

Windmills were among man's earliest sources of power. They were used in Persia to grind corn seven centuries before the Christian era.

Does your child suffer already from "the executive syndrome"? A German psychiatrist says that some children just starting school show signs of suffering from the same pressures and tensions that often in later life produce ulcers or nervous breakdown in business executives.

Quotable notables: "A fanatic is one who can't change his mind and won't change the subject."—Winston Churchill.

What country has the world's first national park? This country. Congress established Yellowstone National Park in 1872, just two years after an Army surveying party explored the area.

Many teen-age girls dress so informally they look a bit scruffy, but they are probably cleaner than most grownups who criticize them. A magazine survey found that the average American teen-age girl takes a bath or shower 10.1 times a week.

No wonder people complain about tired feet as they grow older. If they walk three miles a day throughout life, by the time they're 70 they've traveled a distance equivalent to three trips around the globe.

Some talking birds can do more than just talk. They can learn to mew like a cat, bark like a dog, or wail like a siren. Explorer Carveth Wells had a myna named Raffles who was reputed to be able to sing the "Star-Spangled Banner." Yes, he always stood up while singing it.

Exodus Worries British Industry

By STERLING F. GREEN

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — A machinists' migration is in motion today from Britain to Baltimore. It's just a small part of a growing blue-collar exodus to America that has become a major worry to European industry.

Nearly 50 top machinists whose skills are unobtainable in the U.S. labor market have been recruited from London, Liverpool and Manchester by a single American firm, the Koppers Co. Inc.

More than 30 have arrived so far to help staff Koppers' four metalworking plants in the Baltimore area. They brought enough wives and children to increase Baltimore's population by about 70.

They report that they like the new jobs, the pay, the housing, and the price of American cars, petrol and "telly" sets.

In England the departures stir unhappiness. There and in other countries of Western Europe industry is fretting not only about the much-publicized "brain drain" of scientists and engineers but also about the rising outflow of topnotch blue-collar workers to American firms.

In Washington, the Labor Department said it is now certifying foreign workers for entry at the rate of about 8,500 a year. More and more of them — about 80 per cent — are in the higher-skilled classification.

As the pool of available skilled men shrank and then almost dried up entirely in American industrial cities after six years of boom, the department in January eased the entry rules for 80 skilled and semi-skilled occupations, mostly in the blue-collar group. The list includes machinists, arc welder, cabinet makers, draftsmen, millwrights, tool and die makers and structural steel workers.

In the London Times, an officer of the Amalgamated Engineering Union in Birmingham West complained recently that the trend was "bound to denude" British unions.

Most of the new Koppers recruits have decided already: They are here to stay. They estimate they are 30 to 50 per cent better off financially than in England, all things considered. The wage here averages about $120 a week but is brought substantially higher in most cases by overtime.

The wives report that food and doctor bills cost more, clothes cost less considering quality, motorists are more polite, strangers are more friendly, and women's dress is more conservative.

"I wore a miniskirt to the supermarket," said pert, brunette Carole Stock of Liverpool. "I was embarrassed. People stared at me."

The men find the working pace faster than in English shops. Some dislike night work; few British firms work extra shifts. But most enjoy the faster pace as well as the overtime hours.

Koppers is impressed with the average level of competence, education and social savvy of its new people, and well pleased generally with what may be the largest and best-planned mass recruitment of skilled manpower by an American firm.

Key executives and a Baltimore real estate expert made trips to England. They threaded their way through miles of red tape, held group meetings in London, Liverpool and Manchester with 130 prospective recruits and their families. They showed pamphlets and pictures and even shopped English stores so they could provide price comparisons in pounds, shillings and pence. They discussed American taxes, housing costs, food, clothing, cars and television.

Pied Piper of the drive was Douglas MacNab, manager of industrial relations for Koppers' metal products division.

MacNab had decided to try importing because that was his last hope of finding enough machinists — short of pirating them from some other company.

MacNab asked and obtained Labor Department clearance to import up to 125 men. The department's basic requirement, in giving the certification, was that there be no American workers "able, willing, qualified and available" at the time and place needed.

Where do foreign workers go? A Labor Department sampling showed the greatest numbers headed for Michigan, New York, California and Illinois, in that order. Heavy contingents, the department said, also aimed for Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Rhode Island and Maryland.

Koppers chose to go after Englishmen for several reasons, said MacNab. There is no language barrier; they use the same measurements — thousandths of an inch, for instance, instead of millimeters — in their work. And the British immigration quota is large.

There have been no union troubles over the importation. Koppers kept the International Association of Machinists advised of its plans from the start. The union could not supply the needed men; it has received the newcomers cordially. They are all strong trade unionists, and under IAM's contract with Koppers, all must join the IAM within 30 days.

Elsewhere, some other unions have reacted differently. General Electris Co. on May 7 disclosed it has canceled a plan to hire 100 British electrical workders for its Schenecady plan because of what it called "antagonism generated toward them" by Local 301 of th Intrnational Union of Elctrical Workers.

Many U.S. firms deal with international recruiting agents. There are several, some based here and some abroad. Their import volume may total 2,500 men a year or more.

Actress' Daughter In Custody

EL MONTE, Calif. (AP) — How long Jayne Mansfield's 16-year-old daughter, Jayne Marie, will stay under protective police custody was left today to juvenile authorities.

The girl was taken to the juvenile facility with six other girls Saturday, and was not permitted to have visitors Sunday.

A policewoman, Sgt. Shirley Maxwell, said the Mansfield girl walked into the West Los Angeles police station Saturday and said she had been beaten and whipped with a leather belt by a male friend of her mother.

The actress' attorney, Samuel S. Brody, said police had no right to take young Jayne to Juvenile Hall.

A spokesman for the actress, child psychologist Murray Banks, said Miss Mansfield had been having "a severe disciplinary problem with her daughter" and that the actress had "administered corporal punishment."

Juvenile authorities ordered photographs of her alleged hip and mouth injuries.

New Time Helps Confuse Weatherman

ATLANTA, Ga. APP) A spokesman at the Atlanta office of the Weather Bureau said recently Daylight Saving Time is presenting him problems. "I have three clocks in front of me and they all say different times."

Weather observations are done by Eastern Standard Time but workers arrive and depart on Daylight Saving Time. "When we get here, all our observation data is done on the old regular time," the spokesman said. "It's confusing."

Wins Marble Tourney

WILDWOOD, N.J. (AP) — The winner of the 1967 National Marbles Tournament was Barry Blum, 13, of York, Pa.

Scientists Make Plans To Tap The Bountiful Oceans

By JIM STROTHMAN

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — In what may be the most significant scientific endeavor since the advent of the space age, a comprehensive "national oceans program" is evolving to feed the hungry, beef up military defense and open vast untapped mineral riches in the seas.

This technological assault to exploit the oceans resembles in many ways America's space program of a decade ago. It is in scientific infancy, is searching for clear-cut goals and needs strengthened coordination among participating agencies.

In many ways, however, direction of ocean research differs from the space drive and probably always will.

In space, two government agencies predominate—the Defense Department and National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Each venture into the ocean does not cost millions of dollars, however, so other agencies can afford their own special projects.

Besides NASA and the Defense Department, the marine field involves the departments of State, Commerce, Interior, Transportation and Health, Education and Welfare; the Atomic Energy Commission, National Science Foundation and Smithsonian Institution.

Some aerospace firms, numerous universities and other public and private organizations are also pumping dollars into the sea for scientific research and profit.

The potential harvest from this growing national effort is tremendous.

—Enough fish are available in the oceans to fill the protein needs of several times the world population. The U.S. Bureau of Fisheries, in a start toward making this available to the half of the world's population suffering from a shortage of high-quality protein, plans soon to construct two pilot plants to manufacture fish protein concentrate.

—Scientists now know that the ocean surface and lower atmosphere interact as one great heat engine which drives most of earth's winds. They are working on a network of ocean-based observation stations to help produce long-range weather forecasts not always possible from satellites.

— Oceanographers estimate about 50 quadrillion tons of dissolved minerals are in the world's oceans. In addition, vast reserves of oil, manganese, cobalt, nickel and copper lie under the ocean floor. Improved mining and oil drilling methods are being developed which could, in time, change the entire global economic picture.

In a significant start toward reaping these benefits, the federal budget for oceanography has grown from $21 million in 1958 to $409 million this year. And for fiscal year 1968, President Johnson has recommended to Congress a government-wide budget of $462 million for marine science activities — up 13 per cent from 1967.

About $41 million of the increase will be pumped into nine program areas selected by Johnson's chief advisory agency on marine sciences, the National Council of Marine Resources and Engineering Development.

The nine include a new "food from the sea" program to produce fish protein concentrate; implementing a "sea grant" program to strengthen oceanographic education and research; a new study on ways to collect and utilize information learned from the seas.

They also include a strengthened program of deep-sea technology, especially to develop an ability to recover lost equipment such as sunken submarines or classified military hardware; a new research ship to work under polar ice, and new programs to promote international cooperation in peaceful uses of the oceans.

More than half the $462 million budget requested by the President is earmarked for defense. The Polaris submarine fleet must learn to operate in a wider range of ocean environment and search and rescue methods must be improved.

US Admits Possibility Of Strafing

WASHINGTON (AP) The Defense Department says American planes may have strafed a Soviet ship in North Vietnamese waters earlier this month.

Previously, the department denied the Soviet claim that U. S. planes hit the 3,358-ton Turkistan June 2 in the North Vietnamese port of Cam Pha. The Soviets said one man was killed and another was seriously wounded.

The Soviets protested the alleged attack, calling it 'an act of banditry which may have far-reaching consequences." At the time, the Pentagon theorized North Vietnamese antiaircraft fire had hit the ship.

In a statement Sunday the Pentagon said a new report from Gen. John D. Ryan, U. S. Air Force commander in the PPacific, brought forth information indicating U. S. Air Force F105 jets hit the Turkistan with cannon fire.

The Pentagon said the United States was informing the Soviet Union about Ryan's report and added an investigation is continuing.

Cattlemen Open War On Imports

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the nation's beef cattle industry have opened a determined war against imports of meats and on the production of beef fat at home.

Both, they claim, are injuring the beef industry by undermining cattle prices and bringing heavy financial losses to cattlemen.

Taking a lead in a campaign against foreign supplies and against feeding of domestic beef animals to heavy weights is the American National Cattlemen's Denver.

Under is urgings, many bills have been introduced in Congress which would further lower present legal limitations on imports of beef and veal.

Legislation enacted in 1964, at a time when cattle prices were relatively low and imports had climbed to a very high level, directs the president to impose quotas on imports when foreign supplies reach a designated formula level.

This legislation is less satisfactory to cattlemen than it appeared at the time of its passage. Hence, new bills would be designed to correct inadequacies.

The present law imposes no restrictions on imports until the incoming quantity reaches 110 per cent of an adjusted base quota. The base is the average quantity of imports during the period of 1959—1963. As it works out, quotas this year would be triggered only if and when foreign supplies reached 995 million pounds.

Beef industry leaders want the law changed to provide a lower base. They claim imports were exceptionally high during the 1959-63 period. They also want quotas applied when imports reach 100 per cent — not the present 110 per cent — of the base average. And they want quantities of meats bought by the U.S. military abroad to be charged against imports.

The lower import level is being asked at a time when cattlemen are cutting back domestic production in an effort to improve prices. This cutback is sought through the marketing of lighter slaughter cattle. This would reduce the tonnage of beef and advance prices.

Much tonnage of heavy cattle is fat and thus depresses prices.

"In asking a lower import quota, the American National Cattlemen's Association merely asks foreign neighbors to accept a fair share of the American market at a time when it asks our own producers to curtail tonnage," the association said.

The Johnson administration has not been a supporter for a tighter rein on imports. Agriculture Department officials have asserted the present import law is satisfactory. They foresee improvements in cattle prices without adding a further limitation on overseas supplies.

The big cattle association is conducting a campaign to discourage feeders from producing heavier weights. It reports that research shows that over-finishing—or feeding to heavy weights—results in "a very wasty and undesirable" beef carcass and undesirable beef cuts from the cumsumer viewpoint.

It says also that studies show that as cattle become heavier, it costs more in terms of feed to put on a pound of added weight than in the case of a smaller animal. At present prices, it says, many heavy cattle do not bring the feeder enough to pay for the cost of the animal and its feed.

Recent University of Missouri studies showed that the carcass of a steer fed 251 days was 23.61 per cent of undesirable fat compared with only 15.84 per cent of the carcass of an animal fed 39 days.

Motorists Trapped

NEW YORK (AP) — At least 50 times a day motorists confused by signs on the approaches find themselves trapped on the George Washington Bridge and headed for New Jersey when they want to go to midtown Manhattan or upstate New York, says Ernest Black, manager of the crossing.

SWIMMING GRADUATES — The first class of graduates from the Red Cross swimming course at Beacon Lodge presented a demonstration in beginner water skills Friday night. Graduates also received certificates for completon of the course. The program was under the direction of Bill Herrington, volunteer Red Cross swimming instructor.

Second Swimming Class Is Underway At Beacon Lodge

Certificates to the first graduates in the swimming class conducted at the Beacon Motor Lodge on the East traffic circle were presented in special ceremonies at the pool Friday night. A demonstration of beginner water skills also was presented.

The second class was to begin Monday (today) and continue until the end of June. Instruction is offered in six categories beginner, advanced beginner, intermediate, junior life saving, senior life saving, and diving.

Personal instruction is provided by Bill Herrington, a coach in the local school system, and his wife, Barbara, a nurse at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. Both are qualified water safety instructors of the Red Cross, and they are offering their services free. However, there will be a slight fee for the use of the pool.

"If you call today at HI-3-3571 you can still register for the next class," said Mrs. Boston, who operates the Beacon with her husband, Floyd.

They reminded area residents that the Beacon pool will continue to be open to the public from 9 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. each day except during swim classes or when the pool is reserved for private parties. Following the conclusion of the next swimming class at the end of June, the pool will be open to the public on a fulltime basis.

"Why not plan to spend a weekend of relaxation at the Beacon?;" the owners suggest. You can relax in a modern motel room as well as take advantage of the swimming pool. The Beacon also has a restaurant which features popular foods — such as homemade pies, steaks and seafood.

Season swimming tickets also are available to the public at bargain rates. Swimmers and motel guests also can enjoy candy, peanuts and cold drinks from the concession stand near the pool.

Return Home After Round-World Cruise

MONTEREY, Calif. (APP) — A Salinas schoolteacher and his wife are back home after a three-year trip around the world in their 20-foot yawl.

The couple set sail June 22, 1964.

"The greatest thing for us was to be able to go around the world and not be tourists," said 37-year-old Clifford Cain, a former fifth-grade teacher in Salinas, 20 miles east of Monterey.

His wife, Marian, 37, commented, "The greatest thing for me will be living in a house with plumbing and electricity."

Both stayed in good health throughout the journey to Hawaii, Samoa, Australia, around South Africa, across the Atlantic and through the Panama Canal.

Maldives Are Just Beginning To Come Into 20th Century

By JOE MCGOWAN JR

MALE, Maldive Islands (AP) — If you've been looking for an isolated tropic isle, a place where you can get away from television, city noise, smog, and lung cancer statistics, consider the Maldive Islands.

The Maldives—pronounced as in leaves—have no television, no smog, no income tax, no property tax, no banks, no gas stations, no political parties and no dogs.

If you are tired of your wife, all you have to do is walk to the city square, repeat three times, "I divorce you," and just like that, instant bachelorhood. Or, if you are so inclined, you can pick up another wife, or as many as four—all at the same time; it is perfectly legal here.

Money doesn't grow on trees in the Maldives, but you might say it can be picked up along the beaches at low tide. Cowry shells, the home of a type of mollusk, are found in abundance and they are as good as money.

According to Webster's, the cowry has been used as money in Africa and some Asiatic countries. It was the "coin of the realm" in the Maldives for years. According to street corner gossip here in Male, the Maldives' capital, two cowries will even today buy a wife in some places in Africa.

All of the above factors should make for a fairly decent place to vacation, if not retire. But there are some substantial drawbacks, among them the fact that the Maldives just aren't ready for visitors.

A U.S. government background note on the Maldive Islands rather aptly states, "The Maldivian experience with foreign influence has been limited."

First of all, it isn't easy to get to the Maldives, an archipelago of about 2,000 islands with a population of fewer than 100,000 tucked away in the north Indian Ocean. About once a month a chartered Air Ceylon twin-engine plane flies the 400 miles to the Maldives from Colombo, Ceylon, with cargo, mail and perhaps a passenger or two.

The two-hour flight is out for most visitors though, because the Maldivian ambassador in Colombo will, as he put it, "issue a visa only when accomodations are available, and there are no accommodations." Since the plane returns as quickly as unloading and loading can be completed, there wouldnt even be time for sightseeing.

The other possibility is by sea, and there are about two sailings a month by small freighters from Colombo.

I was able to make arrangements with Capt. P.P. Nair of the Ocean Princess, a 2,500-ton British cargo ship under charter to the Maldives, to use the stateroom of a ship's officer who was on leave and to sleep aboard ship the five nights she would be in Male harbor. In view of this, a visa was issued.

The Maldives lie about 300 miles southwest of India's Kerala coast.

None of the 2,000 islets, of which about 215 are inhabitated, is more than five square miles in area and all are level and low-lying, seldom exceeding an elevation of five feet. They would probably be washed out of existence by the periodic typhoons, except that coral reefs make perfect natural breakwaters.

An elected-for-life sultan, Mohamed Farid Didi I, is the constitutional monarch. The Didi family has ruled the Maldives for eight centuries, even during a brief period in 1953 when the Maldives decided to become a republic and Amin Didi was elected president. The experiment failed and the islands went back to a sultanate, with rule primarily according to ancient Moslem law.

Justice Minister Ahmed Zaki, an articulate, husky man of 36, talked freely of the Maldives' problems, aspirations, and Islamic legal system.

"Lashing," Zaki said, "is a form of punishment in the Maldives, but this has been reduced to a minimum. It is used today only in religious crimes such as illegitimate births and adultery."

During the Moslem fasting month of Ramadan last year three Male businessmen were found guilty of breaking the fast — no food or drink may be taken from sunrise to sunset. Each was given 19 lashes, ordered to fast for two months, and placed under house arrest for six months.

Fines also are levied in the Maldivian courts, but perhaps the most common form of punishment is banishment, especially in the cases of crimes of violence. A man may be banished from his atoll for a period of months, or for life.

Justice Minister Zaki admits to many problems confronting his country, but points out the Maldives are just beginning to come into the 20th century. None of the Maldivian judges, for instance, has an internationally recognized law degree. All senior judges, however, have studied Islamic law in Cairo.

"For so long we have been isolated that we tend to be less sophisticated," Zaki said, in explaining how the Maldives have been able to adhere so strictly to Moslem law and tradition. Because of these, no dogs or pigs may be brought onto the island; no alcoholic beverages are permitted and it has only been recently that tobacco was introduced and the women removed the veil.

Moving pictures also have been introduced — there is one cinema house on Male which operates on Saturday nights — but Zaki isn't sure this was a good thing.

"Thefts have become more common and there are many quarrels now. Most of the increase has been the past six or seven years since people began seeing movies. They don't understand the theme 'crime does not pay.'"

"We are trying to push ahead," Zaki says in a pensive moment. "We must have our students prepared for the modern world by the time our lives end."

Hubby Will Be Outranked

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (AP) — A Saturday ceremony means that Melvin Kerr's wife will outrank him in the service, but he vows that he'll be commander-in-chief at home.

At the ceremony, Kerr, a second lieutenant and nurse in the Air Force, administered the oath as his wife, a nurse, became an Air Force second lieutenant. Sunday they were married.

Mrs. Kerr expects to step up to first lieutenant after Air Force orientation.

Her husband must wait until he becomes a certified nurse anesthetist in November before being promoted.

But, said Kerr, he's not worried, adding: "She may outrank me on the job, but she knows who's going to be the commanding officer at home."

Kennedy Family At Sunday Mass

CROOKE, Ireland (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy and her children, Caroline and John Jr., attended Mass Sunday in St. John's church, four miles from their Woodstown House vacation home.

The trio occupied the front bench. The congregation was large but did not fill the church. As she left, Mrs. Kennedy shook hands with some parishioners.

During the service, Irish detectives and U.S. Secret Service men stood outside the church.

In the afternoon, the Kennedys went on a six-hour trawler trip off the Wexford and Waterford coasts.

Requirement Dropped

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — —Texas health officials have announced that visitors to Mexico no longer will be required to prove they had a recent smallpox vaccination before they can re-enter the United States. Previously, visitors who could not offer such proof were vaccinated by border health authorities.

Protest Ad Gets Results For Coed

By BRIAN SULLIVAN

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) Last year a Radcliffe girl got 250 replies to her advertisement in the Harvard Crimson saying she wanted t get married for one year to escape dormitory life.

What happened?

"I got married, says Beth Luey.

As a result of the ad?

"Not really, not directly," Mrs. Luey says. "But it did get me out of the dorm."

Beth, 21, and a native of Pittsburgh, Pa., married Michael Luey, 23, of Syosset, N.Y., last January. She was graduated from Radcliffe a few days ago and will do graduate work in Russian studies next semester while her husband finishes his last year at Harvard Law School.

Beth says she and Michael knew each other before she ran the ad, which drew responses from as far as Vietnam and from a person who described himself as "a red-blooded Alaskan bartender."

At the time of the ad, Beth declined public use of her name to avoid calls from "kooks," but agreed to be identified now when interviewed. She declined to give her full maiden name.

"It all died down slowly," Beth says. "But I still have some of the answers. I'm saving them for my grandchildren."

From Kirkland House at Harvard came this response: "A marriage seems a much better solution than a mere roommate. I will be busy with papers until May 3, but I hope you will let me take you to dinner" after that. "P.S. I have furniture."

Three soldiers in Vietnam wrote: "We have decided that as upstanding all-American men first, and soldiers second, it is our honorable duty to all womankind to help alleviate the problem which you are facing.

"We realize that to offer you shelter in our humble abode would present a small transportation problem, so if you are not adverse to the suggestion, we will have to temporarily maintain separate households until the small matter of a war is straightened out."

Beth's ad was a protest against Radcliffe rules prohibiting students from living off-campus.
