Texas Baptists Oppose Federal Aid To Church

HOUSTON (AP) — The Baptist General Convention of Texas is on record today as opposing federal aid to church institutions but has opened the way for two institutions to receive such assistance for expansion programs.

At its final sessions Thursday, messengers to the 1.9 million member organization reaffirmed the convention's traditional opposition to church institutions receiving federal financial aid. They then voted to relinquish control of the University of Corpus Christi and the Houston Baptist Memorial Hospital system.

A resolution renewing opposition to a U.S. constitutional prayer amendment now pending before the House of representatives also was approved at the final sessions of the 86th annual meeting.

The action on the University of Corpus Christi opened the way for the school to seek a broader based community support while becoming an independent or state-supported institution.

Similar action now can be taken by Houston Baptist Memorial while carrying out a multi-million dollar expansion program.

Both institutions also will be free to accept federal grants and name non-Baptists to their boards of trustees when the transfers become final.

The hospital transfer was approved 907 to 352 by secret ballot. The university action was approved by a standing vote.

Similar actions earlier had relinquished control of the Baylor College of Medicine in Houston and the Baylor College of Dentistry in Dallas.

A target date of Dec. 31, 1972 was established for university trustees elected by the convention to turn control of the school to a self-perpetuating board. Guidelines established to effect the transfer specify the convention will give up at least 200 acres of the present campus to the new institution but retain not less than 10 acres as a possible site for a Baptist student union or religious center.

Joe Briscoe, a Corpus Christi trustee nine years, said the 20-year-old school "badly needs wider community assistance and support."

Dr. Bob McCreary of Baytown said the action could lead the way for the 565-student university to have an eventual enrollment of 15,000 to 20,000.

Dr. B.H. Eilderback of Waco objected saying the action conflicts with a nine-point urban ministry program adopted Wednesday.

"I can't see how we can vote for urban emphasis and then give away our institutions one by one," he said.

Houston Memorial Baptist, established 64 years ago, has its main hospital in the downtown area with satellite units in suburban areas. A $40 million first phase of the major expansion program includes construction of a new main unit on a 36-acre tract adjacent to the Houston Baptist College in southwest Houston.

Messengers gave voice approval to a resolution that said any amendment to the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution would weaken its strength and open the way to further revision and modification while endangering freedom of religion and religious liberty.

The convention's Christian Life Commission later submitted a report saying the proposed amendment would enable government to impose the limits of "nondenominationalism" on religious practices in any building built in whole or in part by public funds.

A federal financial assistance vote of 1,766 to 724 rejected two executive board recommendations that would have authorized Texas Baptist hospitals to apply for and accept federal capital grants and utilize federal low interest, longtime loan arrangements.

Dr. W. A. Criswell of Dallas, immediate past president of the Southern Baptist Convention, supported federal aid.

ONE-TIME 'ESCORT'

Nurses Going To Miss Masterless 'Old Hypo'

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP) — A handsome white and honey-colored mystery collie languished unhappily in the dog pound today. He would have been a lot unhappier a few days ago if he had known what hung over his obviously well-bred head.

The fix the woman-loving animal found himself in started Tuesday.

That was when the dog catchers—four of them backed up by two police units—finally collared Hypo on the grounds of Northwest Texas Hospital.

The nurses rose screaming into the air.

Hypo had been around the hospital grounds for almost two years. When nurses quit work at night, he escorted them to their cars.

One nurse said Hypo had walked home with her, 2½ blocks, each night for more than a year.

"He walks with me up to my door and stand there until I'm inside and have the light on," she said.

Hypo also is a sort of unofficial guard in front of the nurses' dormitory.

But men he dislikes—possibly he equates all of them with the dog catchers who have chased him, some of his friends speculate.

But the Amarillo law is clear. Hypo must be taken to the animal shelter. If his owner doesn't claim him in 72 hours, he is put up for adoption. If no one wanted him, he would be, euphemistically speaking, put to sleep.

But you don't do that in Amarillo, particularly not when Hypo's story is spread on Page One of the Amarillo News and Globe-Times.

Ticket Sellout Is Reported For Chamber Banquet

Chamber of Commerce officials said this morning there has been a sellout of tickets for the annual Chamber of Commerce membership banquet next Tuesday night in Robert E. Lee Junior High School cafeteria.

However, reservations will be taken for possible cancellations, according to E.O. Wedgeworth, chamber manager.

The banquet is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. but buffet serving lines will be opened at 7:15 p.m.

New officers and directors for the coming year will officially take over at the banquet. The new executive board of the chamber will be Roy Sparkman, president; Jerald Sims, vice president, and Newt Secrest, finance director.

Mrs. Evelyn Hubbard's "Medicine Show" from Frank Phillips College will present a 30-minute musical revue. The Pampa High School Stage Band will play dinner music.

The Rev. Dan Cameron, pastor of First Baptist Church, will be the banquet speaker.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. Lloyd Hamilton, pastor of First United Methodist Church.

Delegations from surrounding towns are expected and chamber officials said today the 400 banquet seating capacity will be filled.

Pampa Woman Hit By Intruder; Probe Continues

Police answered a call to a city resident yesterday where a man told them his wife had been beaten by an intruder.

The supposed victim said she was talking on the telephone when a knock sounded. Thinking it a neighbor, she told officers she told them to come in. She said a man entered put a woman's stocking on his head and started beating her. She stated she regained consciousness on the kitchen floor.

Physical examination showed the woman had not been crimnally assaulted, according to the police report. The investigation is continuing.

Robber Gives Self Up After 10-State Flight

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — James L. Cochran, who led authorities on a week-long chase across 10 states and allegedly took 21 hostages in the process, has surrendered quietly to the FBI.

About the same time 10 FBI agents surrounded Cochran at a motel here Thursday night, authorities in Missouri announced they had found the body of Marilyn Oliver, 21, daid to be an acquaintance of the fugitive. Authorities said they did not know how she had died.

The decomposed body was covered with sacks when it was discovered in an abandoned farm house near Leslie, Mo.

None of the hostages was harmed.

"He's a tough one and I'd have hated to tangle with him. He looks like he could bend an iron bar," said one FBI agent who helped take the 36-year-old Cochran into custody.

Cochran, who had registered at the motel giving his real name and St. Louis address, had wounds in the left arm and right leg that he is believed to have suffered during an earlier shootout with police.

Cochran's multistate flight began Oct. 21 following a $10,000 robbery at the Cass Federal Savings and Loan Association in St. Louis.

In the shootout that followed Cochran escaped but a companion also charged in the holdup, Paul L. Lockhart, was taken into custody. The money was recovered.

Cochran's flight took him as far west as New Mexico and as far east as Eolumbus, Ohio, where authorities got hot on his trail late Thursday.

Police said he apparently had forced four members of a Missouri family to drive him to Columbus, where he released them near a bus station Thursday morning.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat gave this account of how the capture came about:

Authorities said Cochran had called a girlfriend, Judy Wright of St. Louis, Thursday afternoon and said he had locked all of his guns in a car which he had abandoned at Lexington. He told her he was "feeling sick" and might be willing to give up.

FBI agents traced the call to a Lexington service station. When Cochran called Mrs. Wright again an hour later, she put the agents on the line, the newspaper said. Cochran was then traced to the motel, where he gave up after agents surrounded his windowless room.

British Parties Split Over Entry Into ECM

LONDON (AP) — Parliament's historic vote to take Britain into the European Common Market left both major political parties split today and the outcome of the move into Europe in doubt.

With its vote Thursday night, the House of Commons accepted the principle of Common Market membership on the terms negotiated by the Conservative government, serving notice Britain is prepared to give up some of its centuries-old independence for a role in a united Europe.

But a year-long battle remains to push the enabling legislation through Parliament, aligning British laws with the rules of the European Economic Community, before Britain can actually join on the target date of Jan. 1, 1973. All signs pointed to cliff hangers on the more controversial terms of entry.

Prime Minister Edward Heath won approval in principle for entry by a vote of 356 to 244 in the Commons with 22 abstentions. The big majority of 112 exceeed even the government's more optimistic forecasts.

But only massive help from Labor party rebels swelled the majority to that unexpected size. Heath has no guarantee that he can push through the bills that must follow on the strength of his own party alone.

Water Quality Board Concurs With City Plan

The Texas Water Quality Board has acknowledged receipt of Pampa's appliction to amend waste control operations and bring the city sewage treatment plant in line with state requirements.

City Manager Mack Wofford said today a letter from the board was received this morning in which the state board concurred with a time schedule plan submitted by the city for carrying out proposed improvements.

The city manager said the engineering department is in the process of preparing detailed reports and plans which will be submitted to the Water Quality Board by Dec. 1.

The Board at that time will begin a review of the city's report and make recommendations.

Just how the improvements will be financed has not yet been definitely determined, Wofford said.

However, in its schedule sent to the state board, next Feb. 15 has been set as a date for a bond election to cover costs of the improvement.

"This was taken as a precaution," Wofford said this morning, "but I feel fairly certain it can be handled without a bond election."

Policeman Killed, 2 Hurt By Sniper In Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Gunfire killed one policeman and wounded another early today outside a night spot in a partly black neighborhood and investigators said at least two other persons were wounded.

A reporter at the scene said a sniper, apparently perched on the rooftop of a building in a Southeast Fort Worth shopping center, opened fire on policemen who had converged on the area after an earlier disturbance.

Bob-Ray Sanders of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram said he was standing in the doorway of the electric circus nightclub about 12:50 a.m. when he heard a shot.

"I turned around and two policemen were on the ground," he said. "All of the policemen were standing around with shotguns when the shot rang out."

The policemen scattered for cover.

Before the shooting, Sanders said, officers had begun clearing out cars from the shopping center because of the prior disturbance, in which one man was shot.

Police then began stopping and searching all moving cars.

Officers identified the slain policeman as E. M. Belcher, 24. He was shot in the head.

Another policeman, Ronald G. Turner, 28, was taken to a hospital with a head wound.

A teen-age girl also was admitted to the hospital with gunshot wounds.

Senate Defeats Attempt To Cut U.S. Aid To U.N.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crushing the first of several expected attempts to cut the U.S. contribution to the United Nations, the Senate also has discarded a new end-the-war bid and cleared the way for final passage of a $3.2 billion foreign aid bill.

In a long series of roll call votes lasting well into Thursday night, the Senate decided, in addition, to retain restrictions on U.S. spending in Cambodia that were written into the bill by the Foreign Relations Committee.

Earlier Thursday Henry Kissinger, the President's top foreign affairs adviser, warned that Nixon might veto the entire measure unless the Senate eliminated the Cambodia restrictions and dropped an anti-war provision drafted into the bill by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho.

The Cooper-Church provision would have limited all funds for the U.S. military in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia to those needed for withdrawal.

It was struck from the bill in a 47-44 vote despite a strong attempt by antiwar forces to reverse the decision.

Judges Asked To Hold Plan Unconstitutional

DALLAS (AP) — A three-judge federal court has been asked to hold the 1971 legislature's congressional redistricting plan unconstitutional on grounds it violates the "one one man, one vote rule."

Two Dallasites, a Wichita Falls resident, a citizen of Iowa Park, three Lubbock residents and three El Pasoans filed the suit.

One of their lawyers said the 10 were just "concerned citizens" and he had never thought to ask what they had in common, such as political affiliation, such as political affiliations.

The group said in their petition that the new congressional districts "are not as compact, contiguous and as nearly equal in population as is practicable."

According to the petition, the districts "were created as a result of political expediencey, to perpetuate in office those representatives who political philosophy coincided with that of the dominant forces in the state legislature, to create "safe seats' for those of a like mind to provide a political denouncement past political favors or grievances, to neutralize the votes of ethnic or economic blocs, and with only minimal regard to the constitutional mandate of 'one man, one vote.' "

The suit says the largest district has 19,275 people more than the smallest, or a 4.1 per cent difference.

"The vote of a voter in the District (Panhandle) is worth only 96 per cent of the vote of a voter in the 15th District (Lower Rio Grande Valley)," the petiton says.

The court was asked to declare the plan unconsitutional and issue an order forbidding secretary of state Bob Bullock to conduct congressional elections in the new districts. The plaintiffs also asked the court to command the legislature to enact a new set of districts meet the requirements of the federal constitution."

Should the legislature fail to do so, the plaintiffs submitted a plan of their own for the court to enact. They said their plan had a population difference of only 696 people between the largest and smallest districts, or less than one-tenth of one per cent.

Plaintiffs are Dan Weiser and John L. Edwards of Dallas; Donald Coleman, John Fletcher and Benjamin Newxombe of Lubbock; Hugh Elliott of Wichita Falls; John R. Karr, Joyce V. Karr and Marvin Zimet of El Paso; and Norma Palmer of Iowa Park.

At the same time Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas says he expects to file suit Monday in an East Texas federal court challenging the newly enacted House redistricting plan.

The crucial issue of individual House districts which would give minorities a stronger legislative voice probably will be left out of the main suit, he said.

Tony Korioth of Austin, another attorney in the suit, said "the present theory" is to present the singlemember issue later in a petition to be filed by a group who would seek to intervene in the case.

Intervenors would include Negroes, Mexican-Americans, Republicans and other minorities, Mauzy said.

He said that "as a practical matter, it will be Monday" before the basic suit is filed.

Mauzy also said some state representatives or potential legislative candidates also may intervene in the suit on grounds that the high cost of running countywide in a large metropolitan county discriminates against them.

Korioth said the main issue in the basic suit would be the numerous deviations in the plan enacted by the Legislative Redistricting board from the equal population standard. The board said there was a 9.9 per cent spread between the districts with the most and the least populous.

BULLETIN

Pampa police were called to 819 Locust at 10:30 a.m. today where the body of a man had been discovered behind a small building at the rear of that address.

The elderly man, unidentified at press time, was facing the rear wall of the small building. His hat was found some distance away in one direction and some cigarettes, apparently dropped from a pocket, in another direction from the body. The police investigation is continuing.

Nation's 'Big Three' Automakers Report Higher Quarterly Earnings

NEW YORK (AP) —Sharply higher third-quarter earnings reported this week by the 'Big Three" automakers further underscored a general resurgence of corporate profits.

Ford Motor Co., the second largest producer, reported Thursday its quarterly profit rose 16 per cent to $86 million from $73.9 million in the corresponding period a year ago.

Earlier in the week, General Motors reported third quarter earnings of $217 million compared with a loss of $77 million a year earlier when a strike against the company halted output. And Chrysler Corp.'s third quarter net income jumped to $6.2 million from $2.1 million last year.

A survey of 632 nonfinancial corporations by New York's First National City Bank showed profits in the latest quarter were 8 per cent above a year earlier—the same rate of advance over 1970 as in the first half of the year.

In addition to autos, industries showing the biggest improvement, the banks said, were building materials, textiles and apparel and rubber manufacturing.

Many companies cited increased sales and reduced costs as the reasons for the upturn. Auto industry observers said profits of the carmakers in the third quarter would have been even higher if they had not been prevented from raising prices during the wage-price freeze.

Sharp Reported To Have Offered Martin Deal For Purchasing Stock

DALLAS (AP) — Frank W. Sharp, the convicted Houston promoter, once offered Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford a deal for buying a big block of stock in National Bankers Life Insurance Co., the Dallas News reported today.

The newspaper added in a copyrighted story from its Austin bureau that Martin said he turned down the offer, involving "several hundred thousand dollars."

Martin was quoted as saying he could not afford to enter into the transaction and also feared it might not result in profit.

Sharp made the offer, according to the account by Sam Kinch Jr. of the Dallas News staff, about the same time the Houston financier and Ling & Co. of Dallas were trying to sell a sizeable quantity of NBL shares which later figured in the Texas stock scandal.

Around this time the market price of NBL stock reached its peak. During the same period, it has been disclosed in court proceedings, Sharp tried to sell a group of astronauts in Houston NBL shares valued at nearly $750,000.

Martin, as attorney general, two and one-half years earlier wrote a legal opinion which in effect enabled Sharp to increase the capitalization of his now-defunct Sharpstown State Bank by 2,200 per cent, the News said.

It added that the increased capital made it possible for Sharp to engage in loan and securities operations which caused the Securities and Exchange Commission to level charges of stock fraud in a civil suit heard earlier this year.

The newspaper said it was told that Sharp proposed to put as much as 50,000 shares of the insurance company stock, valued at about $1 million, in trust for Martin until the attorney general could pay for it.

However, Sharp was not offered a bank loan to make the purchase as were other state officials, the News said.

Testimony taken by the SEC has established that loans from the Sharpstown bank enabled Gov. Preston Smith, former state Democratic Chairman Elmer Baum, House Speaker Gus Mutscher and Reps. W. S. Heatly and Tommy Shannon to turn quick profits in smaller NBL stock deals.

The Dallas newspaper gave these further details:

John Osisio, formerly NBL president while Sharp controlled the company, told about the proposed stock sale to Martin during a 10-minute talk in chambers with U.S. District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes and SEC lawyer Robert Watson.

Osorio interrupted his testimony while the stock fraud suit was being tried to request the private conference after Watson asked him to whom Sharp had sought to sell a particularly large block of NBL stock.

What Osorio told the two in chambers was not repeated in the courtroom, and Osorio himself later said his remarks were "just hearsay" from conversations with Sharp.

America's Balance Of Trade Moves Into Black In Sept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's balance of trade moved into the black in September for the first time in six months, but administration analysts say it was due to the rush to beat the dock strike, not President Nixon's added import duty and dollar devaluation.

Both imports an exports shot up to record levels as businessmen rushed to beat the Oct. 1 East and Gulf Coast dock strike. The Commerce Department said exports outpaced imports by $265.4 million.

For the previous five months, imports ran from $205 million to $362.6 million a month more than exports.

Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold G. Passer said the full impact of Nixon's new foreign trade policies announced Aug. 15 "is still not evident," and the September figures are not an indication that they have taken effect.

Exports last month reached $4,510.6 million, highest in history, while imports were a record $4,245.2 million.

Panhandle Expected To Have Early Snow

...ns all through the fourth ...P 2—36t PANHANDLE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Arctic air engulfed the Texas Panhandle today, bringing a freezing drizzle around Dalhart and a sharp chill over the rest of that section.

Warning that it'll turn even colder, forecasters posted a freeze warning for the Panhandle tonight and said there might be some snow there and in the mountains of far West Texas.

By early morning the forward edge of the latest cold front stretched from Childress to Plainview and was moving slowly toward the south.

Light rain dotted much of the area from the Panhandle-Plains sector behind and along the frontal system, and extended as far south as Midland, Wink, Rankin and McCamey in West Texas.

Patchy fog cloaked much of East Texas. Skies were at least partly cloudy everywhere else except a few spots near the Upper and Middle Texas Coast, in Southwest Texas and the southern tip of the Lower Rio Grande Valley.

Temperatures near daylight went as low as 30 degrees at Dalhart and 33 at Amarillo and Lubbock. Farther south the readings stood mostly in the 60s and 70s, staying as high as 74 at Brownsville and 76 at Galveston.

The cool snap invaded Northwest Texas on the heels of an unseasonably warm day over the rest of the state. Temperatures went as high Thursday afternoon as 88 degrees at Lufkin and McAllen.

Pampa Youth Hurt In Car-Motorcycle Mishap In Town

Bobby Dale Stout, 15, 1305 N. Dwight, was taken to Highland General Hospital for examination and treatment following a motorcycle-car accident at the intersection of Foster and Somerville.

The Stout youth was traveling north on Somerville on a motorcycle when a car driven by Vickie Jo Cobb, 17, going south on Somerville, attempted a left turn and struck the bike.

Though not visibly injured, according to the report of the investigating officer, Stout was hospitalized because of complaints of pain and momentary unconsciousness.

aroused that Mayor L. Ray Vahue had to make a statement explaining the law.

Merrill Buckles, director of the animal shelter, issued running accounts. Hospital Administrator F. S. Walters had to explain why the hospital couldn't assume ownership.

The deadline of 72 hours is expiring this afternoon. But have no fears.

People have been swamping telephones at the sheriff's office, police headquarters, the newspapers and the shelter with demands that they be allowed to become Hypo's owners.

Nurses pooled their nickels an dimes for enough money to buy Hypo a dog tag in the name of the hospital and promised to care for him, which they had been doing anyway.

Hospital Administrator Walters explained that the hospital could not take the responsibility in the event Hypo caused an injury.

First in with a bid to adopt Hypo were Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Wilhite.

So, says shelter director Buckles, Mrs. Wilhite will pick up Hypo late this afternoon.

He may miss the spaciousness of the hospital grounds, but he will be moving into what is known as silk-stocking district of Amarillo. This will be in ing with his lines, which dog fanciers say show he is well bred.

Mrs. Wilhite says she will re name him "Honey."

Already Hypo is a legend at the hospital.

The story goes, and no one can confirm it, that Hypo's owner died in the hospital.

10 Girl Scouts Leave For 2-Day Field Trip

Ten Cadette and Senior Girl Scouts left early this morning to attend a two-day field trip to Los Alamos, N.M., as part of the Atomic Energy Seminar, sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America.

During the trip, the Scouts will visit installations at Albuquerque, Sandia Base, Kirkland AFB, the Atomic Energy Museum and Los Alamos.

The field trip was preceded by four consecutive Saturday sessions in Amarillo, conducted by 60 scientists, engineers and technicians from the Pan-tex Plant. These sessions included films, lectures and demonstrations about such things as geiger counters, electroscopes, cloud chambers, model reactors and irradiated seeds.

O.B. Schiffman of Pampa drove the bus and accompanied the group to each of the Saturday sessions, as well as accompanying the group to Los Alamos.

Attending from Cadette Troop 3 are Vicki Carter, Jane Shaw, Barbara Whiteley and Kim Hoover. Attending from Senior Troop 2 are Nita White, Patrice White, Betty Felter, Ruth Felter, Glory Newman, Tinker Deist and Terry Morris.

No names or numbers were available on the Boy Scouts attending, other than Benny Schiffman, Randy Linville and Kurt Foster.

securities agreed. They explained that the effect of frozen prices was partially offset by renegotiation of contracts with suppliers, internal belt-tightening and increased volume.

"To oversimplify, by careful management—and sometimes cruel management—they managed to push back the effects of the freeze onto other people, suppliers and such," said Arvid Jouppi, securities analyst for W. C. Roney & Co.

David Healy, an analyst for Burnham & Co., agreed.

"I get tales of woe out of the steel industry and other people," Healy said.

Among the few really dark spots on the third quarter profit picture was the steel industry, whre sales skidded as customers worked off inventories accumulated in anticipation of a strike on Aug. 1. The strike was averted at the last minute.

U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, reported a loss of $10.5 million in the third quarter compared with a profit of $33.6 million in 1970. Earnings of second-ranking Bethlehem Steel were $6.6 million, down $7.77 million from the year earlier period.

Rodeo Officers Re-Elected By T OT Directors

The current slate of officers for the Top O' Texas Rodeo Association was re-elected at a meeting of association directors last night.

Re-elected were Holly Gray, president Bill McIntyre and Dr. Kenneth Royce, vice presidents; Don Kite, treasurer, E.O. Wedgeworth, secretary.

The officers have served for two years but because of circumstances beyond their control have not been able to stage a rodeo.

In 1970 the show was cancelled because of tornado damage to the rodeo arena and this year because of the horse sleeping sickness.

Directors also signed contracts with Tommy Steiner of Austin to furnish this year's stock and with the Taylor Sisters All-Girl Band for the arena performances and rodeo dances.

Egypt Reported To Have Rejected U.S. Plan For Accord On Mideast

By ROGER LEDDINGTON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union announced Thursday Egypt has rejected a U.S. plan for an interim agreement on the Middle East Crisis.

The news agency Tass said in a dispatch from New York that the American proposal was a "diversionary maneuver... drawn up on terms that are quite unacceptable to Egypt."

The agency report was the first public response by either the Russians or the Egyptians to the six-point proposal.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers outlined the plan at the U.N. General Assembly earlier this month.

The plan was primarily designed to open the blocked Suez Canal and link an interim agreement with a permanent Middle East solution.

The Egyptian rejection follows the Kremlin's decision to increase arms shipments to the Arabs.

Just one week after Rogers presented the plan, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat flew to Moscow for a meeting with Kremlin leaders.

Diplomats here said the Egyptian rejection of the Rogers proposals was not an outright refusal to reach some form of a temporary Middle East agreement.

They recalled that the interim agreement concept was first advanced by Sadat himself last February and that Cairo had given no indication it had changed its mind.

They said it was obvious both the Soviets and Egyptians had decided at the Kremlin meetings that Rogers terms were beng turned down, not his over-all idea.

The Krmlin coupled the rejection announcement with a sharp criticism of what it called Washington's "unilateral diplomacy" and urged the United States to return to a fourpower search for an agreement.

The Kremlin demanded that Washington give up its role as middleman and operate within the framework of the four-power consulations.

Critics Of UN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of the United Nations' decision to expel Taiwan won a Senate test Thursday despite a warning they might be jeopardizing President Nixon's forthcoming visit to Peking.

By a vote of 43 to 40, they stripped from the $3.2 billion foreign aid bill a provision repealing the 1955 resolution authorizing presidential action to protect the Nationalist Chinese island from a possible Communist Chinese attack.

To repeal the resolution at this time, Sen. William E. Brock I, R-Ten., contended, would be "enticing" Communist China to attempt a takeover.

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., declared that failure to repeal it "could probably even hinder the President when he sets out on that very difficult journey to Peking."

Sen. Jackson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential hopeful Sen. Henry M. Jackson, hopes to gain substantial ground on his opponents late next month with his formal entry into the White House race and a nationwide television address.

The veteran Washington State lawmaker is planning to announce his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination during the third week of November, probably the 17th or 18th, sources close to the campaign say. He then hopes to go on television that night with a coast-to-coast broadcast, they added.

Jackson's formal declaration will make him the fourth Democrat officialy in the race to oppose President Nixon in his almost-certain bid for re-election next year.

Sens. George S. McGovern, (D-S.D.), Fred R. Harris, (D-Okla.), and Rep. Shirley Chisholm, (D-N.Y.), have already announced they are going for nomination.

Stans Says Retroactive Wage Hike 'Highly Damaging Business'

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans said today that allowing retroactive wage increases after the end of the wage-price freeze would be "highly damaging to business."

However, Stans emphasized that the decision on whethr deferred pay increases should be granted—and whether workers should get the withheld wages retroactively—was up to the newly created Pay Board.

"It is true," he added, "that the Pay Board and Price Commission will have to keep in mind that any retroactivity on wage adjustments would be highly damaging to business because it would be difficult for business to make retroactive price adjustments."

The five labor members of the 15-member Pay Board have insisted from the start that retroactive pay raises is a key objective of organized labor.

Stans was one of a half-dozen top administration officials, including President Nixon himself, who took part in a closed-circuit television discussion of Phase 2 of Nixon's economic policy.

The discussion, sponsored by the National Association of Manufacturers, was viewed by businessmen in 26 cities.

Donald Rumsfeld, executive director of the Cost of Living Council, said "The freeze is on until it is modified.

"The freeze is on today. The freeze will be on until the provisions of the freeze are altered by competent authority."

He and Herbert Stein, vice chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said that all segments of the economy would be subject to the rule that have prevailed during the 90-day freeze until the Pay Board and Price Commissimn draft new standards for Phase 2.

Questions for NAM members tened to focus on the kind of wage restraint that would prevail in Phase 2, especially whether a guideline of 5 to 6 per cent for wage increases would be consistent with President Nixon's goal of reducing inflation to a two to three per cent rate by late 1972.

The guideline decisions will be up to the Pay Board, Stans said. But he predicted the board might set a percentage guidelines and then develop a case-by-case pattern of tolerable pay adjustments.

Nixon, whose remarks were taped in advance, predicted victory in what he described as a head on confrontation, with inflation in Phase 2.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Persons cited for traffic offenses in Fayette County may donate a pint of blood to the local blood bank in lieu of paying a $10 fine.

County judge Robert Stephans said the program is intended to reduce traffic accidents "through tde educational impact of voluntary blood donations to save someone's life."

Another reason is to maintain the supply at the Central Kentucky Blood Center.

GIs In Viet Ordered On Increased Alert For Weekend

By J. T. WOLKERSTORFER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Expecting increased enemy attacks, the U.S. Command Thursday ordered American troops on the alert for the weekend, covering the period of President Nguyen Van Thieu's inauguration.

Under the alert, U.S. troops will enter cities or towns only on official business and their travel in vehicles outside American installations must be essential.

"Intelligence indicates possible increased enemy activity during the period, such as terror, sapper and rocket and mortar attacks," said Maj. Richard Gardner, a U.S. Command spokesman.

The Viet Cong fired rockets into Saigon four years ago on the first inaugural of Thieu.

Thieu will be inaugurated Sunday, and the U.S. alert begins at 5 p.m. Friday. It will remain in effect at least until 5 p.m. Monday.

The alert also is intended as a precaution against anti-Thieu groups that blame the United States for his unopposed re-election. Since early September, 39 U.S. vehicles ave been hit by fire bombs in Saigon. Police believe the bombings were the work of militant students opposing Thieu.

To mark the inaugural, the government announced nearly 3,000 Viet Cong prisoners of war will be released Sunday. these, 618 will be released outright and 2,320 will be transferred to the Chieu Hoi, or Open Arms program of indoctrination.

After indoctrination, Viet Cong in the latter group may return to their homes or serve the government in such fields as propaganda or intelligence. The number to be released is the largest of the war.

Thieu will follow up Monday with a National Day speech on peace and reconciliation. Government and diplomatic sources said it may include new elements acceptable to the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong.

Only minor patrol action was reported in South Vietnam but heavy fighting was reported for the second straight day on the northeastern front in Cambodia.

A Cambodian high command spokesman said enemy attacks along a 25-mile stretch of Highway 6 northeast of Phnom Penh were about as intense as the day before, when 150 wounded Cambodian soldiers were lifted out by helicopter.

Severe fighting was reported around the town of Rumlong, 52 miles northeast of Phnom Penh and at the village of Kiri Andeth, two miles to the east.

The two days of attacks came after enemy frogmen blew up a bridge on Highway 6, cutting off all supplies and reinforcements overland for the 20,000 troops on the northeastern front.

The low level of fighting in Vietnam was reflected in the U.S. Command announcement that seven Americans were killed in combat last week, the third week in a row that fewer than 10 deaths were listed. Battle deaths are at their lowest mark in six years.

The command reported 84 U.S. servicemen were wounded last week, the same number as the week before.

There was a sharp increase of deaths from illnesses and accidents, due in part to accidental helicopter crashes, the command said. There were 32 dead of nonhostile causes, compared with 15 the week before.

The South Vietnamese command reported 394 government troops killed and 700 wounded, compared to 391 killed and 919 wounded a week earlier.

The allied commands reported 1,271 enemy troops killed during the past week, slightly higher than the 1,253 enemy claimed killed two weeks ago.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese commands now have reported these total casualties for the war:

American—45,584 killed in action; 302,104 wounded and 9,8[illegible] dead from nonhostile causes.

South Vietnamese—135,010 killed in action, 292,615 wounded.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong—779,561 killed.

GI Still Walking Around Despite Bullet In Heart

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Two years after he was shot during a holdup overseas, an Air Force navigator is still walking around with a bullet in his heart, medical officials report.

Spokesmen said two men held up the officer Sept. 28, 1969, as he returned to his base from a shopping trip at a nearby town in Southeast Asia.

Difference Between Amateur Brooder And Serious Brooder

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — How are you coming along with your worry list?

The difference between the amateur brooder and the serious brooder is what they worry about. The amateur worrier worries about anything and everything. He doesn't get wrinkles fretting over trifles. He concentrates on the big worries.

With this in mind, it is a good idea for a fellow to weed out his worries periodically so he doesn't waste his time.

Here are a few problems and issues we've decided to put in our discard file and let somebody else worry about:

Is Lassie taking the pill?

Would the U.S. foreign policy improve if we gave our diplomats overtime pay?

What, if anything, is being done to improve the working conditions of laboratory mice?

If we are to close the generation gap, does that mean adults will have to learn to act like teenagers, or teen-agers learn to act like adults?

Why do they still call it the cocktail hour when sometimes it lasts till darned near morning?

Would it help solve your dog's identity problem if you fed him food from a personalized can with his very own name on the label?

Is golf taking the place of sex in the American way of life?

Can a marriage be saved if both the husband and the wife like to watch pro football games on television?

Why is it that the guy who wears them calls them dentures but everybody else calls them false teeth?

When a girl says she likes nothing better than to curl up with a good book, does she really mean it—or has she simply led an underprivileged life?

Why do college commencement speakers always advise the graduates to "live dangerously," when there isn't any other way for anybody to live?

Why do we celebrate Halloween only one night of the year, when life seems like Halloween all the time now?

Yes, remember that successful worrying requires a wise choice of what you worry about. After all, it isn't the man who makes the worries—it's the worries that make the man.

United States Enjoys First Trade Surplus In 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP) — America enjoyed its first foreign trade surplus in six months in September, thanks mainly to increased shipping in anticipation of the East and Gulf Coast dock strike.

An administration analyst said today President Nixon's recent economic steps had not shown their effects last month and so were not a significant factor in the turnaround.

Both imports and exports shot up to record levels as businessmen rushed to beat the Oct. 1 strike. But exports far U.S. $265.4 million to the good for the month, the Commerce Department said.

Asst. Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer said that the full impact of the new foreign trade policies President Nixon announced Aug. 15 "is still not evident.

"Therefore, neither September nor third-quarter statistics provide a clear basis for realistically appraising the nations current foreign trade position," he said.

The nation's balance of trade had run in the red for five consecutve months before September, ranging from deficits of $205 million in May to $362.6 million in June. For the first nine months of the year the U.S. now has a balance of trade deficit of $670.7 million.

The trade figures, which are adjusted for seasonal variations, show that exports reached $4,510. 6 million in September, the highest in history, while imports reached a record $4,245.2 million.

Blount To Quit Chief Of U.S. Postal Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Winton M. "Red" Blount will resign today as chief of U.S. Postal Service and begin a long-expected campaign for the U.S. Senate from Alabama, Montgomery and Washington sources said Wednesday.

Blount, 50, will announce his resignation at a press conference Friday, possibly at the White House, the sources said.

Blount's office would neither confirm nor deny the reports.

Blount has served since January 1969 as President Nixon's postmaster general and guided the department through its transition to its new status as a semi-governmental service which no longer appoints the thousands of local postmasters on a political patronage basis.

Blount has long been interested in making the Senate race. His likely opponent would be Democratic incumbent John Sparkman.

However, Sparkman is 72 and several younger Alabama challening him.

DOCTOR'S INSTRUCTION

Ice, Shaving Cream Still Good For Emergency Treatment Of Burns

DALLAS (AP) — Medical science has yet to come up with anything superior to ordinary ice or just plain shaving cream for the emergency treatment of burns, says Dr. Stephen Lewis, professor and chief of plastic surgery at the University of Medical Branch in Galveston and one of the nation's leading experts on burn treatment.

"The worst things you can use are butter, oil, petroleum jellies or one of the so-called patented 'pain killer' oil ointments," he said in an interview here.

"These seal off the air and seal in the bacteria which cause infection, thus making the burn case into a long-range project that will cost the family thousands for extended treatment," he said.

Of burned children, Dr. Lewis said parents are responsible for 25 per cent of their offspring's accidents.

"They are careless and do not watch for the dangers," he said. "We have over a million children burned each year. Just a little caution could reduce this greatly."

Dr. Lewis said children are burned in many ways: Scalding, by fire (which they usually start themselves), accidental ignition of night clothes near open heaters; and by electricity.

"Every parent should know how to treat these types of burns immediately," he said. "For small burns on less than 10 per cent of the body use ice. For larger burns use shaving cream. And for electrical burns where the heart may stop they should know mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and how to thump the chest sharply to start the heart."

"It is amazing how many small children will bite into the vacuum sweeper cord while the mother is away for a moment," Dr. Lewis said. "Just out of plain curiosity they will bite into any cord. The result is not always fatal but it is extremely serious."

Lawyer Asks Martin's Removal For Moody Case

AUSTIN (AP) —The lawyer who filed a $500 million suit against four trustees of the Moody Foundation said today Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin should be removed from office because of what the lawyer called the way he has protected those trustees.

Roy Cohn of New York told a news conference Martin "has been the man in charge of whitewashing" for foundation Chairman Paul Haas for years.

Cohn talked for more than an hour in reply to a report by the attorney general's office which called for the resignation of Shearn Moody Jr. from the seven-men board of trustees.

Martin approved the report by special Asst. Atty. Gen. Wilmer Hunt, which also urged increasing the trustees from seven to nine.

The Martin-Hunt report resulted from a nine-month investigation requested by Haas and three other trustees after the chairman of a special citizen-legislative committee had called for the resignation of Haas, Marcus Greer, J.M. Lykes and W.L. Moody IV as trustees of the $400 million Moody Foundation.

The chairman, Louis Dugas Jr., Orange County district attorney, said they were using their positions to enrich themselves.

But the Martin-Hunt report stated they have fulfilled their duties to the foundation.

Martin said he would sue in Galveston to remove Shearn Moody Jr., and increase the number of trustees if they did not do it themselves.

Cohn, who said he represents a Moody cousin, David Myrick Jr., in the suit against Haas, Greer, Lykes and W.L. Moody IV, alleged he was offered $100,000 several months ago to drop the suit.

Bible Handy For People Away From Home A Worldwide Drive

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Three traveling salesmen, chatting one night in a Janesville, Wis., hotel lobby, started the idea. Today, 72 years later, it is a worldwide movement of 33,500 men, making the Bible handy for people away from home.

"It's a tremendously growing challenge," says M. A. Henderson, Nashville, Tenn., executive director of Gideons International, made up of business and professional men of various Protestant denominations.

Although its distribution of Bibles has tripled in the last decade, its membership doubled and its budget quadrupled, it recently has been unable to match the expanding need both to replace worn or pilfered books and to stock the fast-increasing new motel rooms.

"Frankly, we just haven't been able to keep up," Henderson said in an interview. "But we're constantly working to get our members to beat the bushes and try to catch up with the huge growth in opportunities."

"It's a never-ending process," said Henderson, 49, a Presbyterian, and the Gideons' operational executive for 15 years. But the "spiritual fruits" are great, he added, citing the constant flow of letters from travelers and others, telling of lives enriched by the book left for them to read.

Besides seeking to keep a Bible in every hotel and motel room in the land, the interdenominational organization also supplies Bibles in airliners, prison cells, physicians' offices, hospitals, to military personnel, nurses, and schoolteachers. It also now operates in 87 foreign countries.

Last year, it distributed 7.8 million Bibles and Testaments, up 8.3 per cent from the year before, and three times as many as 10 years ago. The total since its founding passed 100 million in August, a point marked by presenting a copy to President Nixon.

The Gideons are organized into 1,185 local "camps" in this country, so called in memory of their namesake, the Biblical leader whose small band triumphed over a huge army.

Members of Gideon International must be active church members, committed to witnessing personally to Jesus. About a third of them still are traveling salesmen, although other business and professional men, doctors, lawyers and professors, now are included.

They themselves contribute 40 per cent of the organization's budget, now $4.5 million annually, four times what it was a decade ago, raising about 60 per cent of its through contributions of local churches. The English language Bibles are purchased from the National Bible Press, of Philadelphia, at $1.20 each.

Plane Crash Kills Pilot, Passenger

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A single-engine airplane into a state police transmitting tower Thursday and fell into a residential area, missing a home by about six feet.

The pilot and a lone passenger were killed.

There were no injuries to persons on the ground.

The plane was piloted by Newt Badgett, a pioneer aviator in the area and well-known flyer in the South.

Identity of the passenger, a woman, was not immediately known.

Officials speculated the plane was experiencing mechanical trouble as it flew low over the homes of the Bossier City area, adjacent to Shreveport in northwest Louisiana.

It clipped the state police radio antennae, which stands beside the northwest area trooper headquarters, but the tower did not fall on the building.

The plane plummeted quickly to earth after hitting the tower, and struck the ground about two blocks from the headquarters building. It missed a house trailer narrowly.

TV And Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Only six weeks into the new television season, the three major networks have detected their weak spots and are attempting to strengthen them.

ABC, very disappointed with "Shirley's World," has ordered production halted, considerably short of the full season of shows it ordered without a pilot and just on the strength of star Shirley MacLaine's presumed box-office magic.

NBC starts tonight a salvage effort on "The Funny Side" by broadcasting an episode as a special to follow the 90-minute program heralding the opening of the new Disney amusement park in Florida.

ABC has the greatest number of programs at the bottom of the Nielsen rating barrel, but NBC's fall schedule seems to be the one in deepest trouble. That is because ABC, with a handful of very popular programs—"Marcus Welby, M.D.," "Movie of the week," Monday night football and somes trong feature films has been making its strongest bid ever in the battle with NEC for second place in the Nielsen average.

NBC's "The Funny Side" is a pleasant, light hour attempting to get out of the ordinary TV rut, but it appears to be trapped in a programming blind alley. It comes at the end of NBC's Tuesday night schedule which is loaded with hard-hitting action-adventure tales. It also is scheduled opposite two ABC shows which are among the five most popular shows on the air—"Welby" and "Movie of the week."

"I figure 'The Funny Side' is a program almost nobody has seen," explained Mort Werner, NBC's vice president in charge of programming. "It is an interesting idea to place it in another time period where people may see and, maybe, like it enough to want to see it again."

Werner expects that the Disney special will attract a huge audience with a lot of it staying around for the next hour with "The Funny Side."

"I'd be happy if one per cent of the Disney audience thinks enough of it to tune it in next Tuesday night," Werner said. He refused, however, to say whether he was thinking of moving the series to a less competitive position at midseason.

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A bandit unwittingly staged a demonstration of how not to hold a holdup.

Police said he managed to tie up the manager of a drive-in grocery store, but after that nothing went right.

The gunman couldn't figure out how to open the cash register, police reports showed, and the manager refused to give him directions.

The bandit fled, but he lost his blonde wig, and a witness told police he could positively identify him.

Defeat Of IRA Seen Becoming Economic, Political Imperative

By DONALD FORBES
Assoicated Press Writer

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Commerce Minister Roy Bradford believes that the swift defeat of the Irish Republican Army in Northern Ireland is becoming an economic imperative as well as a political one.

Bradford has warned feuding Roman Catholics and Protestants in this province: "We could face bankruptcy in a matter of weeks."

While other members of the government believe Bradford was exaggerating, they are worried by the decline in foreign investment in Northern Ireland and the damage to business in central Belfast because of the IRA's terror campaign.

Tourist revenue has been waning since the trouble erupted in 1968.

Economic chaos destroying the foundations of Ulster's Protestant-based government is one of the objectives of the IRA, which is pledged to reuniting Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic to the South by bomb and bullet.

Government officials put the bill of Northern Ireland's economic havoc at $60 million up to the end of last year from August 1969. And the 1971 crop of bombings and dislocation could add at least another $36 million to that figure.

Northern Ieland is a province which has traditionally borne chronic unemployment. Because of Britain's economic stagnation and the IRA's policy of economic disruption, one man in 10 is already unemployed and the statistics go from bad to worse.

Nowhere is the effectiveness of the terrorist campaign more evident than in the center of Belfast. Big department stores—the equal of plush shops across Europe—are doing up to 40 per cent less business and are laying off employes.

The government now fears a wave of bankruptcies affecting even the prestige Belfast stores.

A Commerce Ministry spokesman said: "Before all the trouble blew up, we could reckon that half of the province's new jobs created annually came from the expansion of established industries and the other half from new sources. Now the ratio is up to 80-20 because of a slowdown in new outside investment."

He said American or European manufacturers who might have set up factories in Northern Ireland, where wage rates are relatively low and labor relations good, had probably been dissuaded by the violence.

A government committee is currently studying future economic development and methods of stimulating private investment and is due to make its report at the end of the year.

It is expected to press hard for increased public investment.

The rioting has had an inevitable effect on tourism, one of Northern Ireland's major industries.

Tourist revenue stood at $67.2 million in 1969 and dropped to $55.2 million last year.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW rYORK (AP) — "Every few days," says John Scott, president of the American Bottled Water Association, "I get letters from people who say they've got a spring on their place and they're thinking of bottling it."

They can hardly be blamed for trying to cash in on what they feel is a simple, profitable business. If nature delivers the water to their backyard, they figure, it didn't intend them to let it pour down the sewer.

Scott invariably discourages them. Chances are high that the spring is shallow and therefore the flow inconstant. The ingreditnts, and so the taste, may vary too much for customer loyalty to develop.

Moreover, huge amounts of money must be invested in bottles, machinery and marketing. Mammoth corporations are making competition increasingly tougher.

And, contrary to some reports of growing demand, the industry's output grows at a percentage no greater than that for soft drinks.

Sales for the entire bottled water industry total somewhere between $100 million and $110 million a year, Scott estimates. For soft drinks, the yearly increase alone equals that figure.

Says Scott, also president of the Mountain Valley Water Co., Hot Springs, Ark., "People are rushing to bottle it more than they are rushing to drink it." And what they are bottling is hardly the same product.

Some water currently on store shelves came out of the tap and was distilled or reconstituted according to a formula. Some came from artesian wells. Some came from natural springs which bubble to the surface.

So great are the varities of waters in bottles that the term itself is hardly more descriptive than, for example, "soft drink."

Spring waters, which many people incorrectly assume is what all bottled waters are, reach the surface under their own pressure, usually from great depths or great distances. And they are uniform.

Scott maintains that the Mountain Valley spring never changes temperature, mineral content or rate of flow and probably hasn't in the hundreds of years since it pushed its way up through 450 million-year-old marble.

But whether from springs, wells or taps, the waters are united in the claims of purity by their producers, although this also could become their common problem.

The association, which recently concluded its annual meeting, hopes to develop standards of purification, enforced through plant visits and inspections of product, equipment and personnel.

"We may have to tell some companies they should not be in the bottled water business," says Scott.

Brooks International Sells Its Subsidiary

DALLAS, Tex. —Brooks International, Inc., (over-the-counter) has sold its electric contracting subsidiary, the Brooks Electric Co., Amarillo, for a cash consideration substantially exceeding the subsidiary's book value, it was announced today by Tom Brooks, BII president.

Purchasers of the Brooks Electric Co. are its long-term president, Bob McCracken and vice president, John Brewer. The 30-year-old company does commercial and industrial electrical construction throughout the southwest. Besides manufacturing heavy equipment in the Brewer Corporation subsidiary, Brooks International, Inc. also has IBM computers and ancillary equipment on lease to financial institutions and industries throughout the country.

President Claims His Great Freeze A Great Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon forecast victory today in what he described as a head-on confrontation with inflation in Phase 2 of his wage and price control program.

The Presiden's recorded report led off a wage-price discussion by top administration officials, carried by closed-circuit television to businessmen in 26 cities. The National Association of Manufacturers sponsored the presentation.

Nixon said the 90-day wage-price freeze due to end Nov. 13 has been "extraordinarily successful" and called on the businessmen to join with government in a post-freeze effort to revitalize the economy, "so that great goal of full prosperhat great goal of full prosperity in a world of peace."

"We are confronting inflation head-on with this program," said Nixon.

"We have launched an offfensive in this battle against inflation and we are going to win this battle.

"I say that with confidence because the American people and you—an important and influential segment of the American people—have shown such cooperation during Phase 1.

"This ideal of prosperity in a world of peace has uaght the imagination, and summoned up the will, of the American people."

Draft Break-In

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Selective Service offices in Batavia, Genesco and Niagara Falls were broken into during the night and hundreds of records dumped from cabinets and desks, the FBI said toay.

Karl Brouse, special agent in charge of the Buffalo FBI office, said no arrests had been made. His agents were sent to each of the offices.

In Batavia, Jack Sargent, area representative for Selective Service, said it had not been determined whether any records were takn. In Geneseo, officials said a note, apparently written by the raiders, was left behind. They declined to reveal its contents.

Entry at each of the offices was reported to have been made by smashing door windows.

Selective Services offices in Buffalo were ransacked on Aug. 1 The FBI later arrested two young women and three young men. All were charged with theft and destruction of government property as well as committing a crime on a government reservation. Each is free on bail.

Roman Catholic

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) —A Roman Catholic joined Northern Ireland's Cabinet for the first time Wednesday night with an appeal for peace. A few hours later, a police officer and a British soldier were killed and the army claimed at least six guerrillas shot in a gun battle.

Prime Minister Brian Faulkner appointed Dr. Gerard Newe, 64-year-old specialist in social work, as a minister of state in an attempt to reach out to the province's Catholic minority. "Crude window dressing," said a Catholic member of the provincial parliament.

Meantime, the toll of known deaths in the communal warfare rose to 139 in the past two years, including 31 British soldiers this year.

After an eight hour, house-to house gun fight in West Belfast during the night, military headquarters reported troops hit at least six guerrilla snipers. But the dead or wounded were dragged away into the darkness by their comrades, the army said.

Early today raiders ambushed a police car driving along the northern shore of Lough Neagh a few miles from Belfast.

A burst of automatic weapon fire riddled the car, police said, killing a 33-year-old sergeant. A constable with him was gravely wounde.d

Shortly afterward a mine exploded under an army scout car near the border with the Irish Republic. A 22-year old corporal died of his wounds.

The appointment of Newe brought a Catholic into Northern Ireland's government for the first time since the province was separated from the rest of Ireland 50 years ago. Faulkner said his job would be to "consider how best to establish and maintain contact with the various elements of the Catholic community."

The province's Roman Catholic minority has been demanding proportional representation in the government, which would give the Catholics about a third of the Cabinet posts.

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP)—Plans have been approved for three major construction projects at Stephen F. Austin State University at a cost of approximately $6.3 million.

The regents have approved the final specifications on the projects and also authorized Comptroller C. G. Haas to advertise for bids.

Projects include a four-story library at an estimated cost of $4.6 million, a football stadium to cost $1.5 million, and renovations to the Austin (administration) Building for $180,000.

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

Hugh's problem confronts sales managers as well as editors and English Teachers. So try the famous "match test." It is novel, dramatic and forces you to compress your ideas! For more advice, go to your local library and read Chapters V, VII and XII in my textbook, "Psychology Applied."

CASE S-505: Hugh T., aged 41, is a Sales Manager.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "we find that beginning salesmen often talk too much. Thus, instead of letting a prospect sign on the dotted line in the middle of the presentation, our salesmen may insist on reciting the rest of their canned sales talk, regardless. As a result, they may talk themselves out of the deal. And other tyro salesmen seem to lack perspective. They can't tell the difference between major sales points versus trivial details. How can we teach them to be concise as well as dramatic?"

MATCH TEST

In my courses on "Sales Psychology" at Northwestern University and George Washington University, I routinely stressed "hitting the bull's-eye."

This means shooting at the most fundamental motive of the prospect in your opening sentence!

And to dramatize your sales presentation, as well as condense it remarkably, I taught my students to employ the salesman's "Match Test." If a busy executive says he hasn't time to listen to the salesman's palaver, then offer him this surprising challenge:

"Mr. Brown, I realize you are a very successful executive so you often make quick decisions."

Then pull out a pad of matches and tear one loose.

"As a sporting gamble, if I strike this match, won't you let me talk till it burns my fingers and I must quench the flame?"

Now notice what happens!

The executive usually relishes this novel approach.

Besides, he figures the salesman can't consume more than maybe half a minute of time.

Actually, an ordinary safety match will burn for 45 seconds and specially treated matches may last for 2 full minutes.

Meanwhile, the prospect keeps watching the flame, for the salesman should hold the match vertically to slow down its speed of burning.

But he may then need to turn the match horizontally a couple of times to be sure it doesn't go out prematurely.

All of which keeps the prospect's eyes glued to the match flame, thereby letting the sales palaver be absorbed with less hostility or objections.

For sales talk received indirectly will arouse less aversion!

Meanwhile, the salesman must compress his talk into possibly 150 words!

So he will learn to avoid irrelevant comments and focus on fundamental motives.

If he has a legitimate product that falls within the vital needs of the prospect, he should thus "ignite" enough interest in the executive so that the latter will let the salesman complete the sale.

Another method I routinely used with my psychology classes was to let them enter various prize contests where awards were offered for the best 50-word letter describing why they liked a certain auto or cereal or shaving cream, etc.

Clever writers can thus make their 50-word letter convey 100 words of sales arguments, partly by suggestion, over and beyond the actual printed statements.

So send for my booklet "How to Write Salable Copy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of The Pampa Daily News, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

TV & Radio

Despite its excellence, the program probably had audience problems—too long for viewers who can take modern art or leave it alone, but not deep, wide or long enough for students of the artist. For those the middle, the program brought new understanding of Picasso's intent and meaning. Charles Collingwood's commentary helped a lot.

"Chicano," the hour that followed, explored the new and growing militancy among the United States five million Mexican-Americans. CBS called them an "invisible minority," but for the past couple of seasons their problems have been reflected in many television programs.

The program, by news film and interviews, told a now familiar story of an angry minority. The complaints of discriminatory treatment, relegation to menial jobs and police brutality studded the program. Film showed some confrontations in the four bloody, destructive battles beween Chicanos and Los Angeles law enforcement officers in a five month period.

It was a well-balanced presentation of a subject about which emotions run high.

In "60 Minutes," Morley Safer presented a segment on what he said was $10 billion owners of the nations 110 million automobiles pay annually for unnecessary repairs.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What should a mother do when she knows her unmarried daughter is taking birth control pills? This daughter doesn't even have a steady boyfriend.

She works, pays room and board and is paying for her own car. Although her friends have always been welcome at home (though I admit lately I have criticized the appearance of some of them), she seldom has a date call for her at home anymore.

I just don't know what to do. She leaves these pills in plain sight. Do you think this is her way of asking for help? Or doesn't she give a damn?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: How old is this "unmarried" daughter? If she's 18, she could be asking for help. If she's 28, she may not give a damn. You would worry less if you had more communication and a better relationship. For openers, resolve not to criticize her friends. She sounds like a responsible girl, and there is a chance that she is doing nothing of which she's ashamed.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor, (I refuse to call her a "friend") who uses people.

She represents a direct-selling cosmetic company and she is always trying to sell the line to everybody she knows. (I bought some.) She also sells a line of cookware. (I bought some of that, too.) Her son recently started selling subscriptions to magazines, so she sent him around to all of her friends and neighbors; and naturally we couldn't very well turn him down.

She also sells Christmas cards, and gets into people's homes by offering to "collect" for every worthwhile cause you can think of. How can I say "I've had it" to a woman like this?

MILWAUKEE

DEAR MILWAUKEE: In English, Unless you can speak a language she understands better.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is a very lovely, well-bred woman who is employed as a housekeeper. Her days off are somewhat irregular. Since my husband is her only child we include her in most of our plans, outings and vacations. She always spends her days off with us, and sometimes we have no notice whatsoever, and have already accepted a dinner invitation or weekend with friends. When this occurs, my husband calls the hostess for the dinner (or weekend) and tells her that he is bringing his mother.

I think it is very presumptuous to bring uninvited guests, but my husband says as long as it's his mother it is perfectly all right. What is your opinion?

"M"

DEAR "M": I think your husband's obvious consideration for his mother is admirable; even the same hostesses would regard it as an imposition.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HURT" IN MINNEAPOLIS: It takes an enemy and a "good friend" to hurt you to the quick. The enemy to say something rotten about you. And the "good friend" to tell you she said it.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Where, in heaven's name, was pastor Ralph Seiller's congregation?

He seemed to be asking that question on the outside bulletin board of the Travis Park United Methodist Church.

"Where Were You Sunday?" was the topic listed for the morning service.

Safety Measures Given For Kids On Halloween

Trick or treat or trick and treatment?

Which will it be Sunday night as neighborhood ghosts and goblins make their annual Halloween pilgrimage in search of candy and other long anticipated treasures?

For the children it is an evening of great fun and adventure but for some it can turn into a night of tragedy and sorrow.

Each year too many children are injured and killed Halloween Eve by motorists unable to see them as they dart unexpectedly into the street, as their costumes are ignited by flames from lighted candles and lanterns. This does not have to be if parents will observe rules of good sense and safety, such as the following suggested by Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies.

Use only bright costumes. A white sheeted ghost is much more easily seen by passing drivers than a black clad witch. But even a brightly clothed child may be hard to distinguish as the evening darkens so a florescent strip, which would make him even more visible, is suggested.

Liberty Mutual says do not allow children to carry lighted candles or lanterns. Many have been burned in past years when their costumes, which are often made of extremely light, highly flammable material, have caught on fire. A flashlight would be easier to carry and would also make it safer when crossing streets.

Sweetheart Named By Sorority Group

The Preceptor Chi chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met recently in the home of Mrs. Ralph Esson, 2149 Aspen.

During the business meeting, the convention for next year was discussed. It was decided to have a money-raising project for the chapter's part of the annual BSP scholarship.

Mrs. Irvine Mitchell was elected Valentine sweetheart for the chapter.

For the program, Mrs. George Massie showed slides of a tour through part of Colorado.

Next meeting will be at 8 p.m. Nov. 4, in the home of Mrs. Dona Cornutt, 1330 Duncan.

Members present were Mmes. Tom Beard, Dona Cornutt, Stanley Chittenden, Ralph Esson, Gerry Grayson, Henry Gruben, George Massie, Cletus Mitchell, James Trusty and Jack Vaughn.

Your Horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

SATURDAY, OCT. 30

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Your life is now characterized by a steady quest for more thoro answers to old questions plus a stronger and better organized position in the world guided by increasing intuitive vision. Today's natives as a rule are candid, courageous, and gifted with specialized skills.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accept opportunities, be positively for constructive efforts instead of wasting time on either anything or criticizing people.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Make peace wherever needed. Seek out and cultivate older, friendly contacts. Expect new attachments to reveal flaws and possible doubts.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Restless, yes, but productive as well. Check out your facts, look into fresh resources.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You may have to declare your intentions now and stick with them right on. Late hours bring encouragement.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Today you possibly find you're putting energy and resources into a lost cause. Pause and review in depth.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Obvious targets present themselves and people await your detailed, critical comment. Rise above trivia for a better viewpoint.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You must see that your out-put is clear and free of defect. This is the day almost any error can slip past and cause confusion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Cultivate general good will, but pursue no special deals specifically. Terms reached now do not necessarily fit tomorrow's conditions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may hit a windfall but if you aren't careful, it disappears about as rapidly as it came.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): It's unlikely that many of today's schemes will materialize in terms you can benefit from. Take as theory a spectator role as you are able to manage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Today does seem to offer either delay or perplexity about how to avert quickly all that pleases you.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A new idea produces unexpeced results. Gather procrastination.

IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Johnny Can Read Of Religious Traditions In Man's Heritage

AUSTIN — Why can't Johnny read about the religious traditions which are part of man's cultural heritage?

The answer is: he can, and if he goes to school in any one of hundreds of innovative public school districts in the U.S he does.

Successful approaches to the problem of teaching about religion will be discussed in four workshops at the Texas Consultation on Religion and Education Nov. 7-9 in Austin. The Texas Conference of Churches will sponsor the gathering of 250 laymen, educators, clergymen and legislators.

The four work shops, dealing with approaches developed and used in other states, will supplement a program distinguished by three speakers with broad backgrounds of competence and interest in the area of religion in education. The speakers are former U.S. Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark; the Rev. Robert F. Drinan, S.J., a lawyer, priest, and U.S. Congressman from Massachusetts; and Dr. Philip H. Phenix, professor of philosophy and education from Columbia University.

Workshop leaders from Indiana, Florida State, Pennsylvania and Harvard Universities will explore ways of teaching about religion, ranging from the study of Islam to the teaching of moral judgments.

Dr. James S. Ackerman, associate professor of religion at Indiana University, will lead a workshop on the Bible in the English curriculum using methods developed at the Indiana Summer Institute on Teaching the Bible in Secondary English.

Dr. Ackerman says a teacher may deal with the Bible as literature, analyzing books or passages from a literary standpoint; he may stress the role of the Bible in literature, analyzing works of Western literature which employ Biblical imagery and allusions; or he may teach about the Bibile and literature by focusing on a theme which occurs in the Bible and tracing its development in secular literature.

Dr. Robert A. Spivey, chairman of the Department of Religion at Florida State University, will lead a workshop on religion in the social studies curriculum. The Florida State Project has produced 30 instructional units in American history, Western civilization and world cultures.

John L. Meehan, English education advisor in the Bureau of General and Academic Education, Pennsylvania Department of Education, will conduct a workshop on teaching the religious literature of the West. The course introduces students to the three religious traditions which look back to the Hebrew Bible: Christianity, Islam and Judaism. The text includes the Koran and Rabbinic writings and students supplement the book with their own Bibles in order to have primary readings from all three traditions.

Dr. Robert L. Selman of the Harvard Laboratory of Human Development will lead a workshop on the teaching of moral decision-making, using a developmental approach to a system developed by Dr. Lawrence Kohlberg of Harvard.

Kohlberg's theory holds that morality is not a given set of virtues but an idea of justice which is primitive in young children and becomes more sophisticated as the child grows through stages of moral development. The Kohlberg approach avoids imposing a set f moral standards upon students and, instead, attempts to make them aware of the bases of moral judgments.

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Members of the Texas Tech Jazz-Rock Ensemble are making plans to launch a talent scout operation under the leadership of their director, Paul Mazzacano.

The project, funded by a $1,700 grant from the National Endowment for the Arts, is directed toward "finding and developing young jazz talent with the Mexican-American community," Mazzacano said. To accomplish this, the Texas Tech Ensemble will tour the state of Texas, presenting concerts and auditioning young musicians.

Students selected to participate are to attend a five-week jazz workshop at Texas Tech next summer.

People-To-People Celebration Day' At Local Church

Sunday will be "People-to-People Celebration Day" at Hobart St. Baptist Church climaxing a month of "People-to-People" visitation.

In addition to the regular services of the day, members and guests will meet in the Fellowship Hall for the noon meal.

A praise and worship service follows at 2 p.m. featuring the music of the Burns family. This group has gained area prominence singing in many surrounding churches. The Rev. A.E. Burns is pastor of Highland Baptist Church.

The Rev. Ronald Mooney, pastor, Hobart Street Church, will speak at both the morning and evening services. All services of the day are open to public attendance.

Like Halloween Mask, Identity Hidden By Sin

Like the Halloween mask that hides one's face, sin obscures one's true identity.

This aspect of the nature of sin will be brought out at Christian Science church services Sunday in a Bible Lesson Sermon entitled, "Everlasting Punishment."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, this citation will be read:

"The likeness of God we lose sight of through sin, which beclouds the spiritual sense of Truth; and we realize this likeness only when we subdue sin and prove man's heritage, the liberty of the sons of God.

"But now being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life," a Bible selection states.

Rev. Art Wilson To Preach At Fellowship For 3 Nights

The Rev. Art Wilson, evangelist, author, recording artist and radio minister, will be at Fellowship Baptist Church Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights, according to the Rev. E.D. Maddux, pastor.

Services will begin each evening at 7:30. Fellowship Baptist Church is located at the corner of Francis and Warren Streets.

Currently president of the Church Aid Association, Rev. Wilson served Wichita Baptist Tabernacle, Wichita, Kans., 31 years. During that tenure, 26 other churches were started.

The books he has authored and the records made are adjuncts to his active evangelistic ministry and his administrative service.

Rev. Wilson's son and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Ray Wilson, are missionaries to Toluca, Mexico.

Rev. Maddux emphasized that these services are open to anyone wishing to attend.

Rev. Dan Cameron Back From Spain

The Rev., Dan B. Cameron, pastor, First Baptist Church, has returned from a preaching tour in Madrid, Spain and will speak at both worship services Sunday. In the morning service he will continue his series from Leviticus.

The morning services are broadcast on station KPDN and both morning and evening services are telecast on cable channel 13.

In the weekly program of the church, ladies' visitation will begin at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday with the men making calls beginning at 7 p.m. Prayer Meeting will follow the 5:30 p.m. Fellowship Supper beginning at 6:15.

The men of the church will meet for their regular breakfast in the church dining hall at 6:30 a.m. Thursday, Nov. 4.

Central Baptist Will Conduct Ordination Service

A deaconate ordination service will be conducted at the Sunday evening worship service at Central Baptist Church.

Kenneth Wyatt is the candidate and all deacons of the church, active and inactive, will be a part of the service.

For the morning worship, the Rev. Bryan Halliburton, pastor will bring a message entitled, "Three Kinds of Sinners God Seeks."

The church is making preparation for a "Spireno Revival" Nov. 14-21. Evangelist Richard Hogue and a team of seven will lead in the special week of services.

MESAGE OF INSPERATION FRIDAY UNITED PENTECOSTAL CHURCH

Something terrible had just happened. The squeal of tires on a hot pavement had just been heard, mingled with a muffled scream from within the speeding automobile. Then there was the ever so slight sound of something being slammed into followed by the sound of slamming car doors and running feet. Then came the shouts of the onlookers. "Someone call an ambulance-! "Please, would you call the Police Department!!

The full account of the incident was read in the papers the next morning. It seems that a certain gentleman was out of the house for an afternoon stroll. Crossing the intersection at Chestnut and 10th street he had not been able to see far down the street before stepping out in the intersection because of an automobile that was parked nearby and a hedge someone had planted for beauty. This threw almost total responsibility for his safety on his being able to hear the coming auto. If only he had not have been hard of hearing. Possibly it would not have happened. He just did not hear the car coming.

Terrible? Most certainly!

How grievious it is, also how dangerous it is that people are afflicted this way. But, it is even more grievious and dangerous that people could be spiritually deaf. Not being able to hear and understand the Church. Rev. 2:29

NCAA Penalizes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Montana State University has been reprimanded and censured for violating financial aid to athletes rules.

The action was taken Thursday by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Walter S. Brown of the NCAA's Committee on Infractions said that in September 1970 Montana State University's head football coach "presented a $10 cash award to an athlete for his outstanding performance" in the school's football game on Sept. 26, 1970.

Brown also said financial aid awarded to an athlete "was granted in the amount of room and board for approximately five weeks during the spring semester of the 1969-70 accademic year."

The school cooperated fully during the NCAA investigation, Brown said.

Hounds Host Harvesters

By RICKEY WRIGHT

Win or Lose---How the hustling Harvesters will stand in the district will all depend on the outcome of the Harvesters vs Bulldogs bout scheduled tonight at 7:30 in Bulldog Stadium at Borger.

Both teams are 1-1 for the season and the victory will determine who will remain in the district race.

According to head coach Swede Lee, the Harvesters are in better shape than they have been since the Canyon game. During this game the squad suffered numerous injuries.

Only two injuries can hold the Big Green and Gold back and these vacations have been filled. Terry Braddock will not be able to play, nor will Chuck Reeves, both of the delays due to injury. Braddock is out for the season with a knee injury and Reeves is out for two weeks with a badly bruised thigh muscle.

Even with these losses the Harvesters are not hurting as the Roster shows the personnel lined up two deep with talented players.

Bobby Owen and Richard McCampbell can double as either halfback, if it becomes necessary, and Owen can also fill in at split end if Mike Reddell or his sub run into any trouble. It is obvious, through the depth in lineup and the versatility of a few players, that the Harvesters are well prepared.

Borger has a powerful offensive attack with Melton Brooks, a 9.6 hundred-yard dash man, Darden is the other running back who is a powerful runner at 10 flat in the hundred.

Jessie Crockett is the primary receiver for the Bulldogs [illegible] he is now tied with our own Mike Reddell for the leading pass receiver in the district.

The quarterback for the Dogs is Benny Hickman, who leads the district in yards gained through passes. He has completed 10 out of 24 attempts for 131 yards in the two district games.

[illegible] high among the players and the fans in Pampa, and this should be a game to see.

Football Roundup

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

On a mild September Sunday Kansas City and Oakland each opened their National Football League seasons against what were considered easy opponents. That Sunday provided some major upsets in pro football including losses by both the Chiefs and the Raiders.

Six weeks later that single blemish mars their otherwise perfect records. Both are 5-1 and hold a share of the lead in the American Conference West Division. After the seventh Sunday in the NFL schedule, one team gives up its share, and no one is counting on a tie.

Other Sunday contests have Atlanta at Cleveland, Cincinnati at Houston, Dallas at Chicago, Denver at Philadelphia, Miami at Los Angeles, Minnesota at the New York Giants, New England at San Francisco, New Orleans at Washington, the New York Jets at San Diego, Pittsburgh at Baltimore and St. Louis at Buffalo.

Detroit plays Green Bay in Monday night's nationally-televised game at 9 p.m., EST, on ABC-TV.

Kansas City was surprised by San Diego 21-14 on the fateful first day of 1971 pro action while New England and Jim Plunkett were knocking off Oakland 20-6. The Chiefs and Raiders have been riding the winners' trail ever since mainly behind the types of attack that brought them success in the past.

The Chiefs have rallied behind the AFC's leading passer, Lenny Dawson, who, along with wide receiver Otis Taylor, has provided KC with offensive punch to complement its defensive unit's ability.

FAMOUS BROTHER

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Minsky, a full brother to the fabled Nijinsky, has entered the lineup for the Oct. 25 running of the Washington, D.C. International, John D. Schapiro, Laurel Race Course president, announced today.

Minsky's owner, Canadian E. P. Taylor, accepted Schapiro's offer to run the 3-year-old colt in the 1½-mile turf classic.

The rangy chestnut has looked impressive in several outings both in the United States and Canada this year, and earlier this month took the Durham Stakes at Woodbine.

COACH NAMED

ATLANTA (AP) — Lou Burdette, star right-hander of the Braves' 1957 world championship team, has been named the club's pitching coach for the 1972 season.

Burdette, 44, who won 179 games in 12½ seasons with the Braves and pitched a total of 18 seasons in the big leagues, replaces Harry Dorish. Dorish has been offered another job in the Braves' organization, a spokesman said.

Shocker Winning Streak Com To A Halt Against Yannigans

By STEVE BHOLANDER
Sports Editor

The Shockers came to an abrupt stop on their eight game winning streak when the Amarillo High School Yannigans belted them with a 43 to 18 loss last night on Harvester Field.

Don Hartsfield opened the 3:51 remaining in the scoring for the Yannigans with quarter to give the Amarillo bunch a 6 to nothing lead. The Shockers were never to see the lead. The 29 yard scoring effort by the Amarillo team was keyed by excellant running from David Ray and JohnRay Shankle.

The Shockers weren't far behind as David Nipp blasted three yards on the handoff from Toddy Black to place the home team on the scoreboard. The extra point attempt failed locking the score at 6-all.

In the second quarter Mack Jefferies spurted 27 yards around the left side for a Yannigan td and a 12 to six lead with 11:01 remaining in the half.

The Yannigans were able to move the ball against the tough Pampa Junior Varsity mainly due to the loss of Crouch and Moore. Both play defensive linebacker and both were injured in a Harvester practice session where they were running scout plays.

Further Shocker weakness came from the loss of Chuck Reeves, Stevie Mathis and Jody Johnson to the Varsity team. These players should see action against the Bulldogs tonight.

Mark Redus kept the ball rolling for the Amarillo team as he pounded out five yards with 1:47 in the half to give Shankle a chance to pass to Ray for the two point con version and a 20 to 6 lead.

Outgunned by the Amarillo squad the Shockers didn't give up as a 32 touchdown pass flew from the hands of Toddy Black to Split End Rick Smith. The attempt for a two point conversion was knocked out of bonds at the three yard line.

Going in at the half the Shockers trailed the tough Amarillo team by an eight point margin.

With 9:39 showing on the clock in the third quarter Garland Jones slipped past the Shocker secondary into the end zone on a three yard TD play. The conversion attempt from Shankle to Tadlock was right on target giving the Amarillo team a 28 to 12 lead.

The Shockers were pointed in the right direction when Toddy Black connected to John Cook for a 34 yard scoring effort. Cook played one of his better games of the season against the Yannigans. The Shockers attemplated the two point conversion but once against the Amarillo JV players kept the bonus from going on the scoreboard. Pampa trailed by 10.

Jefferies didn't let the ball cool down as the temperature dropped hitting Tadlock on a 56 yard scoring effort. Shankle hit Ray with the two point conversion with 3:17 left in the third quarter.

The final TD of the game came in the third quarter as Jefferies went to the air connecting with Ray for a 12 yard scoring play. Travis Tadlock booted the extra point between the uprights to give the Amarillo team a 43 to 18 victory.

The Shockers held the Yannigans all through the gourth period with some fine defensive play. Crouch playing with a stiff knee made several key plays during the evening as well as King, Cook, Black, Newman and the rest of the Shocker team.

Shane White came into the game during the last quarter to try and lead the Shockers back into the spotlight with his passing game but the injuried players on the Shocker team couldn't stand up to the larger Juniors playing for Amarillo.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Kings of the National Hockey League recalled Jim Stanfield Tuesday from Springfield in the American Hockey League.

The Kings said he will dress for Wednesday night's game in Pittsburgh.

Marymount College Signs Former Pampa Cage Star

Everett "Mike" Morgan, 6-5, All-Navy frontliner, has signed with the Marymount College Spartans. He will be eligible at the beginning of winterterm, Jan. 4, according to Marymount basketball coach Ken Cochran.

He was an All-Navy performer in 1964 and 1971, All Armed Forces in 1971 and was invited to the Olympic tryouts in 1964. He carried a 16.7 rebound average in 49 games and scored at an 18.9 clip.

"Morgan is a strong, experienced frontliner who is a rugged rebounder and top-flight offensive scorer," Cochran said. "I saw him in action at the Inter-Service Championships in North Carolina and he played extremely well against many fine major college players. He is a 'blue chip' athlete and will be an outstanding collegiate player."

Morgan is the brother of Mrs. Artis M. Moultrie, 906 S. Wilcox and a graduate of Carver High School where he was coached by C.E. Petty.

Marymount College of Kansas is located in Salina.

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper

EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Our Capsule Polic.

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capability.

The News believes each and every person would get more satisfaction in the long run if he were permitted to spend what he earns on a volunteer basis rather than having part of it distributed involuntarily.

A Dash Of Color

Do you "feel blue" today because you "saw red" yesterday?

Don't answer. That's just a sample of how colors are used to express moods. The connection between color and emotion is more than just a matter of language. That advice comes from a major life insurance company that studies such things.

Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. reported that, although color reactions are marked by considerable individual variation, you can identify trends in personality traits by reaction to colors. Extroverts favor bright, warm colors; introverts prefer subdued, cool colors.

People who have a vital, perhaps even violent interest in the world, tend to red. They are quick to judge, quick to act. Yellow is double-barreled, it may indicate a preference for intellectual extremes—superior mental power or retarded mentality.

Lovers of green try to have the good things in life and to be well regarded by other. Blue-green types have difficulty in getting along with others, frequently are divorced.

A blue person tends to lead a steady life, seldom acting on impulse, rarely takes a chance. (Now you know how to fool your friends at the poker games.) Navy blue is the ultimate trademark of conservatism.

Automakers report the color of your car is a tipoff to personality. Serious and responsible people go for dark-colored cars. Middle-roaders favor light colors. Showy types like two-tone and bright shades. One who wants to assume high or unusual status goes for very bright colors, like yellow, like red.

Medical tests show that blood pressure and respiration rates go up when a person is exposed to bright red colors and goes down under the influence of blues.

Can't sleep? Paint the bedroom blue. Tests show it is helpful for insomnia.

Bright warm colors — red, orange and yellow — provide ideal settings for vigorous, muscular tasks, according to Northwestern. For mental concentration, try tranquil blues and greens as wall decor.

Color also gives an indication of weight. In one instance, factory employes complained that black boxes they used to tote parts were too heavy. A color-conscious engineer had the boxes painted light blue and everyone was happy that they were so much lighter.

We once met a pressman in a fabric factory. He said that when he ran tans all day, he went home tired. But after a day's stretch on light blues or yellow, he went home ready to take the wife for an evening out.

We suppose the moral is that environment isn't everything, but it definitely is a part. The greater marvel would be if color had no effect at all.

World Park System

One of President Nixon's plans to extend international jurisdiction over American territory and elsewhere, is to set up world parks similar to national parks.

The Nixon plan was submitted by him to Congress on Feb. 8, 1971.

In this message, Mr. Nixon proposed "a World Heritabe Trust to preserve parks and areas of unique cultural value "As the United States approaches the centennial through the world."

celebration in 1972 of the Yellowstone National Park, it would be appropriate to mark the historic event by a new international initiative in the general field of parks," he stated.

The president goes on to say that "the national park concept is based upon the recognition that certain areas of natural, historical or cultural significance have such unique and outstanding characteristics that they must be treated as belonging to the nation as a whole, as part of the nation's heritage."

The next paragraph gets to the point:

"It would be fitting by 1972 for the nations of the world to agree to the principle that there are certain areas of such unique worldwide value that they should be treated as part of the heritage of all mankind and accorded special recognition as part of a World Heritage Trust."

About this time, the reader may be getting the picture of some global agency laying claim to Australia's Great Barrier Reef, the Galapagos Islands off South America, or — for that matter — some local "unique and outstanding" locale such as Disneyland. First alarm subsides, however, when Mr. Nixon assures that "such an arrangement (World Heritage Trust) would impose no limitations on the sovereignty of those nations which choose to participate."

The catch is, Mr. Nixon knows that, just as national authority diminishes the sovereignity a state has within its borders, so a world authority lessens the power of a nation to control internal affairs. Too bad that the proposal for a world park system cannot be allowed to stand or fall upon its merit, that instead it must be "sold" by a misleading disclaimer.

A Flash Of Sanity

"We've passed a lot of controls and we're worse off now than we were ten years ago. We've just been shown an illusion of action only."

Who said that, The News? No, those words came from the granddaddy of controllists, none other than Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court Willian O. Douglas.

He was talking about ecology to a Corvallis, Ore., group Sept. 30. According to the Salem (Oreg.) Capital Journal Douglas said we can no longer trust the federal agencies to look out for our ecological interests.

"I'd rather trust the value judgments of you the people," he said. "Of course, you can turn your country into a sewer if you want, but I don't think you will when it gets right down to it."

Amen!

Even a Supreme Court justice says something smart once in a while.

Unfortunately that's the fade-out point of Justice Douglas' flash of sanity. His proposed remedy for mismanagement by government controllers is to establish supercontrol: "Why not take the northern parts of Minnesota and Michigan and make them one big park....Why not take all of Appalachia—I've tramped it from Maine to Georgia—and turn it all back to Daniel Boone country?"

Who but the government would own th park? Who would control the park except the same-type government agencies that Justice Douglas blames for our current predicament? But give him credit, he started out good.

Question Box

QUESTION: According to a recent article, all Americans are forbidden to own gold nuggets or gtld dust. Yet, one can go to Alaska or to the gold country in California and find persons carrying gold nuggets in their pockets and wearing them on their [illegible] and other places. If it is [illegible]st the law, why is not the la[illegible]nforced.

ANSWER: We [illegible]e heard of no such law. It has been illegal for Americans to own gold in bullion form or in coins, other than those minted before 1934 which may be held by collectors. It has not been prohibited yet to own gold in nuggets or dust or any other natural form, or in jewelry.

It would be impractical for the politicans to attempt to prohibit ownership of gold dust or nuggets, particularly in the gold minning disricts as mentioned by the questioner. Further, the politicians probably don't want to discourage people from relying on money that has value in itself, such as gold and silver. If ownership of good nuggets and dust were prohibited, a miner would be violating the law as soon as he had panned or otherwise mined the substance.

We are informed that some persons do invest in gold dust or nuggets, against the inevitable day when the valuable mineral if freed from government restrictions on ownership. It is not known what gold actually would be worth on a free market. Obviously, price of $35 an ounce. it would be worth considerably more than the government-fixed

Quick Quiz

Q — Who comprised the only U.S. presidential and vice-presidential team to be born in the same county?

A — William Henry Harrison and John Tyler, both born in Charles City County, Va.

WASHINGTON

A Peril To Be Avoided In The Price-Wage Curbs

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Nixon's Phase II marked a turning of the wheel. It is the first time in peace that the United States has turned to government price-and-wage controls.

One of Nixon's principal advisers in this matter told a small group in private the other day that in his mind when in the future the economic going gets rough, with this precedent it will be difficult for any president to hold back from controls. So that wage and price regulation (and perhaps other controls) will become an accepted peacetime solution for economic crises.

The experience with controls is such that each time they are utilized, the easier this way of meeting an economic problem becomes. As time goes on, the temptation will be to apply controls more quickly and for longer periods.

The rationale is this:

To make controls work, the president is selecting a number of large companies and labor unions whose prices or wage increases have the greatest effect on the economy.

Nothing about prices and wages is black or white. There are always special circumstances. The result, therefore, will be almost continual discussions and negotiations between the control boards and this group of major companies and unions so long as controls last—bringing this leadership into a peculiar quasi-official relationship with government.

In much the same way, over the years, the leaders of the aerospace and other military-related companies have been brought into close relationship with the Defense Department, not through evil design but through the intense interdependence required to mak large-scale programs work.

Price and wage controls require the same interdependence between key companies and unions and presidential boards. For controls will not work if there is only lip service, however great the number of court cases.

Not only will these major companies and unions become heavily dependent on the government. But also, as in the case of Lockheed and the Defense Department, the government will become heavily dependent on these large companies and unions.

Even with the vast will (and lack of guile) this type of relationship inevitably develops into a partial "kitchen" government outside the realm of legislatures, courts and the normal executive channels of government.

In developing and enforcing programs on an emergency basis in the exceedingly complicated relationships involved in a nationwide enforcement of price and wage controls and in applying them in a country the size and complexity of the United States, inevitably the basic, critical decisions would come to be made (usually quite sincerely) by a very small number of men.

As these relationships continue and friendship and trust develops, the men in the group would tend more and more to act through each other and to put their faith in the ability and cooperation of the others in this relatively small circle.

Once firmly established, this intimacy would be difficult to end.

For democracy to exist in a major industrial country (or any other country for that matter) there must be a perpetually skeptical and critical rivalry and some mutual if tolerant suspicion between business, labor, agriculture on the one hand and government on the other. If powerful groups on both sides become too cozy and intimate, this is the beginning of danger.

Your Health

By Dr. Lawrence Lamb

Some Pills Can Cause Impotence

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would taking sleeping pills and tranquilizers cause a man in his 50s to be impotent?

Dear Reader — It might depend on how tranquil the pills made him. There are a number of medicines that will have this effect, including some medicine used in treating high blood pressure. There are many other causes though. A man with this problem taking medicine should obviously talk it over with his doctor.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a problem which is very embarrassing to me as I work in an office all day. I have gas which I do pass all day long and its very embarrassing and I don't know just what to do. I do not sit down much so it's not from that. I do eat a lot of fruit and drink a lot of coffee. I have taken medicine but that did not help. Could you please tell me what I can do or take to help me?

Dear Reader — I think you know what one of the problems may be. Stop that coffee drinking and see if that won't solve the problem. Many people have excess gas from using excess coffee. Often what people need to do is correct their living habits, not take more medicine. Don't switch to tea either or use colas. If you just love the taste of coffee, use one of the decaffeinated products. Also, fruit is excellent for the diet but excess amounts in some people cause gas. Some people do not tolerate milk and using milk may cause them to form excess gas. Try these simple measures and if you still have trouble see your doctor for an examination.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I had a kidney removed because of an accident. My doctor tells me that I can live a normal life and do not have to change my eating habits or restrict my diet in any way. Do you agree to this?

Dear Reader — Yes. One good kidney is sufficient to do the job. Some people are born with only one kidney and suffer no ill effects from it. Nature actually did provide us with a redundant system. You can get along with one good lung, one ovary, one testicle and only part of the liver. Even part of the brain is never used nearly to its capacity and some wags claim most of us don't use any of our brain most of the time.

The only catch is that the remaining kidney must be a good kidney. A urinary tract infection can be more serious or if you were to get a kidney stone that blocked the drainage of the kidney you wouldn't have a spare kidney to take over the work.

Q. And A.

Q—What president was buried, wrapped in the Stars and Stripes, with a copy of the Constitution under his head?

A—Andrew Johnson.

Q—Is there any relationship between the position of the earth and the length of total solar eclipse?

A—Yes, totality is longest at the equator.

Q—What is portrayed on the new dollar coin?

A—The "cartwheels" bear the profile of Dwight D. Eisenhower and depict the American eagle on the moon.

Q — Which country of South America is named for a famous Italian city?

A — Venezuela. The name is Spanish for "little Venice."

Liberals to Hold 'Hanging' Seminar on FBI at Princeton

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — A singular two-day "seminar" is taking place at Princeton University next week that is being characterized in official circles as a "hanging without a trial."

A radical-liberal operation from start to finish, it is part of a nation-wide drive to disparage and asperse the FBI and to "get" its noted Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Announced theme of the Oct. 29-30 affair is "The Role of the FBI in American Life." Strikingly indicative of the highly biased and prejudiced nature of this discussion is that without exception every speaker, panelist and other participant is a harsh fore and critic of the FBI and Hoover — most of them of many years' standing.

Several other revealing and significant facts about them are:

(1) All are left of center in varying degrees, ranging from militant liberals and New Leftists to Communists. (2) Without exception they are vigorous opponents of the Vietnam war and vehement denouncers of the so-called "military-industrial complex" — although in most instances they also are clamorous advocates of more arms and credits for weapons to Israel.

Proclaimed sponsor of this carefully staged, one-sided kangaroo court is the Committee for Public Justice, headquartered in New York and headed by an executive council as leftish and hostile to the FBI as the program and participants of the Princeton seminar.

Graphically illustrating this are the following leaders of the council:

Norman Dorsen, general counsel of the American Civil Liberties Union, who has a long record of denouncing the Justice Department in particular and the Federal government in general, and championing far-out liberal causes and crusaders.

Burke Marshall, deputy dean of Yale Law School and Assistant Attorney General in the Kennedy administration and long in the left-of-center forefront.

Blair Clark, aggressive dove and campaign manager of former Sen. Eugene McCarthy's stormy but futile scramble for the 1968 Democratic Presidential nomination. During that campaign, McCarthy and Clark assailed the FBI and Director Hoover and unavailingly tried to make an issue of them.

Ramsey Clark, Attorney General in the last phase of the Johnson administration during which, at a meeting of FBI men, he lauded Hoover to the skies. Since leaving office, Clark has become a strident critic of the FBI and a liberal activist. Earlier this year, he indicated harboring Presidential ambitions but they seem to have evaporated in thin air. Last fall, in reply to snide remarks by Clark, Hoover derisively characterized him as a "jellyfish" and the "worst" Attorney General he ever worked for.

More of the Same

Reportedly, the Princeton seminar will consist of two parts:

In Part I, a number of "papers" will be presented on patently angled topics by equally biased authors. Examples: "Political Uses of the FBI" by I.F. Stone, longtime leftist and publisher of "I.F. Stone's Biweekly"; "Informers" by Frank Donner, New York attorney, who has been the lawyer of Communist Prty functionaries and has been associated with Communist-front organizations over the years. In 1959, he pleaded the Fifth Amendment when questioned by the House Committee in Un-American Activities regarding Communist Party affiliations and activities.

H. L. Hunt Writes

ABOUT LIBERTY

The words of Dr. William S. Banowsky, President of Pepperdine University, speaking at the dedication of the General Douglas MacArthur Building at Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Pa., ought to cause all of us to pause and think. "Never have men and women been more free to think, to read, to speak out, to organize to question authority, to write, to stage, to film what even a few years ago would not have been permissible. We now face a chilly truth: Having flung off one restraint after another, we have not learned to restrain ourselves. Many of our problems result from a profound misunderstanding of freedom."

Dr. Banowsky is talking here about the sense of individual responsibility. The truth of the matter is that many citizens of this Republic have abused the rights that were granted us in the constitution and through subsequent legislation. Whenever a holder of high office makes an address, or just an appearance, he is likely to be insulted and heckled. When vicious crimes against the state and individuals are committed troublemakers show up to espouse the cause of the gilty rather than the forces of law and society. Time and again we have seen the confused, propagandized student of the left get out of line because he believed the rights of the minority or the accused were being abused. Not once did he stop to analyze his own part in demonstrations, to restrain his actions in conformity with the dignity of man and his obligations within the structure of society.

Dr. Banowsky could not have spoken truer words at a better place, Valley Forge, nor in commemoration of a finer man who did understand and exercise restraints--Gen. Douglas MacArthur.
