In the first group of checks for 1939 soil conservation payments were 49 payments totaling $7,526.09. They were received at the county AAA office in the city hall and distribution started Saturday. All farmers in the county who complied with provisions of the 1939 farm program will receive a soil conservation payment and the checks are expected to arrive at intervals during the next month or two. The payments are for crop reduction and soil conservation practices. The first checks this year arrived about two months earlier than last year.

SLICK TRICK FELONS ESCAPE BY RUSE

About 18 months ago, Sheriff Dick Moore received a letter from two inmates of the state penitentiary at Huntsville and in the letter they confessed burglarizing the R. H. Norris Hardware company here about a year previously. The two convicts said they wanted to plead guilty in the case here in order to "clear their records". A short time later Sheriff Moore was in Huntsville, so he stopped at the penitentiary and talked to the two men. After the conversation, he was convinced that they had nothing to do with the burglary here and were planning a ruse to escape hard work in the pen or to escape. Last Tuesday, Sheriff Brooks Ellision of Aspermont went to Huntsville for two convicts who confessed burglary of the Old Glory store, near Aspermont, two years ago. They were indicted on the testimony of another convict, who had been taken from Huntsville to Aspermont a few days pre- (Continued on page 11)

Stevenson Balks At Proposal to Suspend O'Daniel

AUSTIN (UP)—Lt. Gov. Coke Stevenson Saturday quelled the movement to "suspend" Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel with an unequivocal statement that he will not call a special session of the legislature under such circumstances. Suspension of the governor had been proposed by Rep. Bailey Ragsdale of Crockett as a means to make Stevenson temporary governor and have him convene a session to raise social security funds. The dispute over a special session has resulted from the financial difficulties of the state's old-age pension fund. Some members of the legislature have demanded that O'Daniel call a special session to raise new taxes and O'Daniel has refused to do so on the grounds that the legislature had a chance to raise taxes at its regular session but could not agree on a method. Under Ragsdale's plan the house would convene itself to impeach the governor, the only purpose for which it can meet without the governor's approval. Then O'Daniel would be impeached and suspended (Continued on page 12)

A Biblical character hated for centuries but always regarded as a powerful personality, Judas Iscariot, subject of a dramatic monologue to be given at First Methodist church here tomorrow evening, has lately been studied by psychologists and dramatists with more sympathy than scorn.

Rev. J. Albert Steele, pastor of the Vernon Presbyterian church, will give his interpretation of the complex character here, in an appearance sponsored by the Hughes Bible class and First Methodist choir. The public is invited. An offering will be taken to benefit the church organ fund.

In studying the personality of Judas and using it as a base for his monologue, Rev. Steele was following the lead of several Bible students and psychologists of recent years.

In the past Christians all reviled Judas and dismissed him as a traitor, but writers have drawn powerful pictures of his rash betrayal of Christ and his succeeding repentance and suicide. His penurious care for the disciples' funds, as told in the New Testament, was pointed out as indicating an overpowering love for money and a clue to his bargain of his leader's life for silver.

Analysis by modern psychologists, however, has given other pictures of Judas. One authority, indeed, has presented him as simply a practical man who was deeply devoted to Christ but unable to understand his mysticism, and so betrayed him to the Roman authorities for what he considered his own protection.

An outstanding portrayal of Judas on the screen was given by Joseph Schildkraut in a spectacular movie a few years ago.

Special lighting and a musical prelude will heighten the effectiveness of Rev. Steele's monologue Monday evening.

The Bobcats have a new fan, and her friends say she wouldn't miss the Electra game Thursday for anything. She is Mabel Phipps, who had never cared for football or gone to the games. Then somebody persuaded her to see the Childress-Wichita Falls thriller last week and when Holder got started on a second long run they say she did the best yelling of the season.

Nancye Coffee, who had heard the whole story of "The Wizard of Oz", had her hands full at the movie version the other night reassuring Annette Cochran, who didn't know how it came out and was afraid the Wicked Witch was going to make good her threat to set fire to the Scarecrow and kill Dorothy. Sort of a reverse performance of the usual movie-plot-teller, who without being asked wants to tell you that she saw the picture in Dallas and that the furtive secretary didn't really commit the murder.

News Writing Is Practiced by Club Reporters

Actual practice in reporting home demonstration club programs was given reporters of county clubs in a meeting yesterday afternoon with Miss Laura Lane, state extension service editor, who was here from College Station.

She asked Miss Reba Curtis, county agent in whose office the meeting was held, to give a brief demonstration, then the reporters were asked to write a story as though the demonstration had been given in their own clubs. Later these stories were discussed and suggestions were given for improving them.

Bombs Explode In London, but Irish Blamed

LONDON (UP)—Bombs believed to have been planted by the Irish republican army exploded at intervals early Saturday morning in London and Birmingham, injuring several persons and terrorizing whole neighborhoods.

Many persons believed a German air raid was in progress. Most of the explosions were in telephone booths and mail boxes.

Sandbags piled as protection against air raids were hurled into the streets and thousands of persons ran from bed toward air raid shelters.

It was believed the terrorists had worked in "flying squads" sowing mines in the northwest London triangular area extending from Marble Arch to a point near the Harrow road.

The explosions occurred from 2 a. m. to 4 a. m.

Extra policemen were called out along with air raid and fire wardens to reassure the people that the Germans had not come.

Sen. Pittman Opposes Jap Appeasement

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Key Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee said Saturday night that the United States should not even attempt to "appease" Japan.

Urging strong-arm methods, Pittman served notice that he would urge the next session of congress to enact legislation giving President Roosevelt power to impose embargoes against Japan.

"I see no occasion for acts of appeasement or even expressions of appeasement on behalf of the United States toward Japan," Pittman said. "The conditions between this government and Japan are the same as they were, if not more aggravating, than at the time our government denounced the commercial treaty of 1911."

U. S. Destroyer Runs Aground

NORFOLK, Va. (UP) — Navy tugs, a coast guard cutter and a destroyer Saturday tried unsuccessfully to refloat the U. S. destroyer Yarnell, aground since 5:30 a. m. on a sand bar three miles inside the entrance of Chesapeake bay.

An attempt to refloat the ship was made at high tide. Another attempt was made at the night's high tide, about 7:30 p. m. The coast guard said there were approximately 70 men aboard the Yarnell. Unofficial navy reports said 101 enlisted men and five officers were aboard.

Movie Strike Is Called Off

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — William Bioff, leader of the American federation of studio workers, announced late Saturday that the movie producers had agreed to union demands for a ten percent wage increase and that a threatened strike would not take place.

Bioff had threatened to close every theater in the United States over the weekend if producers continued to refuse to accede to the union's wage demands. As head of the international alliance of theatrical stage employes Bioff could have called out projectionists in every city and hamlet and thus enforced his threat.

Woodring Says He'll Retire

TOPEKA, Kan. (UP)—Secretary of War Harry Woodring said Saturday he would be hunting for a job after Jan., 1941. He didn't mean that the democrats would lose. He said that the party is a cinch to walk away with the 1940 election but he just isn't going to serve in the cabinet next term no matter who is president.

He said he'd like to settle on a Johnson county farm "if I can find a job in Kansas City to support a Johnson county farm."

Woodring said he expected the democrats to lose possibly five or six states in next year's election, possibly Pennsylvania and the New England group, but "we certainly will carry Kansas, probably four times over."

When told that some of his friends were boosting him as a favorite son for candidate for president, Woodring replied, "Well, your friends are generally the ones that get you into trouble."

"The Store With Modern Ideas"

WISE and OTHERWISE

By Fred L. Haskett

I sit at my desk in Dallas and each day note folks pass by who used to live in Childress. There are nearly a hundred former Childresses living in Dallas, that I know about. Most of them are doing fairly well, although some not so good as when in Childress.

A few days ago Red Andrews, whose folks farmed down in Garden Valley, stopped in for a chat. He is now on his own working out possible oil production. Doing pretty nice and quite successful, too. Almost every day I see Dr. Wm. E. Howard on his way to his office. Dr. Howard used to be associated with Dr. Cristler in Childress. His hobby is old books and documents relating to Texas history, which was recently placed in the Texas Buildings at Fair Park. The collection is worth perhaps a hundred thousand dollars. A great work and Dr. Howard spent a small fortune acquiring the old books and documents, some assistance being given by the writer while on trips to Mexico City.

Dr. Raworth Williams, brother of Mrs. Percy Merrick, passes our office twice each day to and from his office in the Medical Arts. Dr. Raworth always has a smile and a salute to us, and now and then when time allows he comes into our office to chat about old times in Childress. Dr. Williams is now a famous doctor and known over the nation. He performs the most difficult operations and yet is a fine polo player, riding hard any opponent, but on top of all this a fine person, just like his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Williams.

Richard (Dick) Broyles is with the First National Bank, and he has made good. Dick used to be the best pitcher on the Childress baseball team, high school and semi-pro.

Will (Bill) Kendall, whose father used to be in the grain business in Childress, is in the insurance business, as is Herman Schluter, who has a top-notch position as state agent for a major fire insurance company.

There are many Panhandle men in Dallas. Frank Ryburn, who used to live in Amarillo, is a prominent corporation attorney. C. C. Renfro of Paducah, has a fine law practice in Dallas. Quite often I see Beahl Sneed, former county attorney of Childress county. A. C. Nicholson, formerly district attorney and residing in Wellington, is with the Great Southern Life Insurance company. Dudley H. Pace, manager of the John Deere Plow company in Dallas, and who did much to build up the agricultural show of the State Fair, has been transferred to Kansas City, being a promotion. He came from Paducah. Jack Patton, the famous cartoonist, married one of the daughters of Dr. Geo. R. Cooper, who used to live in Childress, and one of the first oil promoters, and a brother of Dr. M. A. Cooper is doing well in his practice, but will talk oil if given half the opportunity.

Mrs. J. Woodall Rodgers, Dallas' first lady, her husband being our mayor. She was Edna Cristler, passes my office frequently, and I also lunch quite often with her husband in the Athletic Club. Edna always has a smile and a hand wave. She will always appreciate her friends she knew in Childress.

Larry Miller, who used to be linotype operator on The Index some twenty years ago, has a good job on the Times Herald, our leading afternoon daily. He married the eldest daughter of Mrs. W. B. (Judge) Howard. Arthur Trout, who one time was boss of the composing room in The Index is now boss of the ad allez in the Dallas News. John Elmer King has been transferred as managing editor of the Dallas News to the post of Washington correspondent. Quite a nice boost and far less work.

While sitting at luncheon at the roundtable in the Athletic Club a few days ago a man remarked: "Little men from little towns become big men in big towns but I have never seen a tycoon of a small town grow bigger in a big town."

Said to be the newest things in the prevention of plane raids is an "aerial mine field". Small bombs attached to hydrogen-filled balloons are reported to be able to float at the altitude desired.

By Henry McLemore.
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UP)—Even here, in the home of the fighting Irish, the football player who is talked about is Nile Clarke Kinnick of Iowa.

It would be just the same if I were in Minneapolis, Champaign, Chicago, Lafayette, Madison or any other Big Ten football center.

Kinnick is the player of the year as far as this section is concerned, and after 24 hours of listening to accounts of his prowess I am convinced that if he doesn't get the Heisman Memorial Trophy for the standout gridiron performance of the season, then that award might just as well be split into kindling wood to start somebody's fire.

Here is a man who weighs only 170 pounds, just a sturdy little blue-eyed boy with an all-over cowlick for a haircut. Yet he has played 360 consecutive minutes against six of the toughest football clubs in America. They haven't even had to call time out for him. He has run into and tackled the biggest guys in the biggest league without once landing on the flat of his back. He just ducks a shoulder, tucks a chin behind it, and pours it on. He isn't fast and he isn't tricky at lugging the ball. There is nothing cute or fancy about his running. He plays it the tough way.

But he is as tricky as a snake on a rock or a red-headed gal when it comes to throwing that ball or calling plays that capitalize to the fullest the smallest chink in the armor of his foes. He knows how to fake when he fades back to throw a pass, and when he lets it loose even Annie Oakley would have to stand up and holler "boys, there's a guy who can shoot." Here's a few things he has done:

Against Notre Dame: He couldn't run to a score from left half back so he changed to right half and tore that side of the Irish line part.

Against Wisconsin: He threw three touchdown passes.

Against Minnesota: In 80 seconds he drove his team 80 yards on four plays, throwing or carrying the ball on each one. He came back, and in six plays, on five of which he handled the ball, he rolled what Bert McGrane of the Des Moines Register has aptly termed "the heroic handful" 79 yards for the touchdown that meant the game.

After 360 minutes of bruising play there isn't a wound on him. The worst injury he had all year was a pair of red splashes on his shoulders, wound stripes earned when driving in against men pounds heavier.

He isn't just a football player. A senior, his four years' average mark in the classrooms is two percentage points higher than is necessary to qualify for Phi Beta Kappa at Iowa University. He majors in economics.

He is a better basketball player than a football player, but refuses to go out for the Iowa cage squad. He says it would take him from his studies.

Nile Kinnick is frightfully modest. When the townsfolk of Iowa City tore the precincts of that town apart after the Notre Dame and Minnesota victories the hero wasn't there to see it done. He carefully sneaked out of town to avoid being lionized.

Iowa will tell you that there is only one thing to prevent his being elected governor of the state at the next election. And that is that Iowa would hesitate to pay him such a slight honor.

"Till Tomorrow, I Will Spare Your Lover's Life." King Zog, former ruler of Albania, spoke these words to a woman he wanted for his queen. Read what happened in a double page, illustrated feature about this mountain monarch and his search for a queen, in The American Weekly, the magazine distributed with next Sunday's Chicago Herald-American.

ELECTRA IN FAVORITES ROLE IN THURSDAY GAME

Potent Tigers Have Impressive Scoring Record

Definitely the underdogs following the Electra Tigers' amazing 46-0 victory over the Graham Steers Friday night, the Childress Bobcats will make their bid for the district 2AA football championship when they tangle with the Tigers at Electra Thursday afternoon.

The Bobcats are leading by a half game, as a tie with Vernon is the only blotch on their conference slate, while the Tigers dropped a decision to Olney three weeks ago.

However, Electra has a more impressive record for the season and as a result have gained the favored role.

The game will start at 2:30 Thursday afternoon and one of the district's biggest crowds is expected to be on hand.

Score 215 Points
In eight games this season, the Tigers have rolled up 215 points to 47 for their opponents and have completely slaughtered two foes, Nocona and Graham.

A deceptive and powerful running attack has carried the Electrans to their challenging position and they depend but little on passes to gain ground.

A big, hard-running fullback, Gayle McLaughlin, is the kingpin of their attack, but he is ably assisted by speedy Ben Ely, triple-threat tailback and Ledford Smith, veteran halfback. McLaughlin is the district's leading scorer, having replaced Vic Bates of Childress.

At the other backfield post, Coach George Blair alternates Morris and Haralson, a pair of little fellows.

Jack Sachse, who lettered two years at fullback, is the Tiger center. A 175-pounder, he is a capable offensive man and a first-class line-backer.

Gillis, a 170-pounder, handles one guard job while Ledbetter and Todd divide time at the other post. Both are big, hard-charging boys.

Joe Edd Elliot, 195-pounder, is at one tackle and Scholdberg, 180-pounder, handles the other post. Both are veteran performers.

Joe Smith, 190-pound veteran is the left end and Barnett handles right wing duties. Smith is a defensive terror, an excellent pass receiver and has scored several times this season on end around plays.

The Tigers will average almost 170 pounds to the man and the line will average 175 pounds.

The Electrans run most of their plays on the Notre Dame system, using a T formation and shifting into a box. They also employ a short punt formation, featuring deception and speed.

CAREY TO SPONSOR TOURNEY

The first basketball tournament of the new season in Childress area has been scheduled for Dec. 8-9 at Carey.

Invitations have already been issued to a number of teams, including Shamrock, Wellington, Morton, Memphis, Estelline, Williams, Turkey, Quail and Paducah. A large entry list of strong teams is expected.

The Carey Cardinals, again a power in this area, will be among the favorites.

The Cards will meet the Tell Tigers in a game at Tell Tuesday night.

GRAHAM FADES BEFORE STRONG TIGER ATTACK

● SCORING McLaughlin Wrests Lead From Bates

Running completely wild against the impotent Graham Steers Friday night, Gayle McLaughlin, big Electra Tiger fullback, wrested the district 2AA scoring leadership from Vic Bates of Childress.

McLaughlin scored 26 points to take a four-point lead over Bates in full season scoring and gain a decided margin in the district race.

The Graham Steers folded up under the withering attack of Electra's Tigers Friday night and the Bengals rang up a 46-0 victory to move into the championship lap of the district 2AA football chase.

After a scoreless first quarter, in which the Steers threatened to score, the Tigers turned on the power and made three touchdowns in the second period, scored two more in the third session, and two more in the final period.

The Electra powerhouse functioned smoothly as Gayle McLaughlin and Ben Ely ran rough-shod over the hapless Steers, who faded badly after the Tigers pushed over a pair of touchdowns. Coach George Blair of Electra sent his reserves into the game for a brief period in the third stanza, but returned his regulars to the contest in the fourth quarter against the rapidly tiring Graham squad.

The Tigers are now a half-game behind the Bobcats and the title will be settled in the Childress-Electra game at Electra Thursday afternoon.

The Wichita Falls Coyotes salvaged third place in the race by beating Olney 25-21 in a wild offensive duel at Wichita Falls, and the Vernon Lions overcame the Quanah Indians, 25-20, at Vernon. In addition to the Childress-Electra affair Thursday, Olney will invade Quanah, Graham will play at Vernon and Wichita Falls will be host to Mineral Wells, the latter a non-conference game.

● DISTRICT 4A Lockney Moves Within Sight Of Title

The Lockney Longhorns virtually sewed up the district 4A football championship Friday night when they scored a last-second touchdown to beat Matador, 15-14.

The Longhorns can do no worse than tie for the crown and have only weak Ralls in their path to an undefeated conference season. The Longhorns, if they win, will meet Shamrock of district 3A in the bi-district game.

After getting the worst of the tussel, the Longhorns blocked a Matador punt and rushed over for the winning touchdown on the last play of the game. They had spotted the Matadors a 14 point lead in the first half and had to turn on the steam to win the game.

Paducah's Dragons moved up a notch by beating Ralls 26-13, and can finish in the first division by trimming Matador this week. Floydada beat Crosbyton, 21-13, to hang on, one game behind Lockney. Floydada will play at Spur this week.

Simpler Homes, Lower Costs

Low-income families who are getting a little tired of folding beds and cupboard kitchens can take heart from the fact that the average home built during the first six months of 1939 cost less than did the average home built during the preceding three years. This does not mean building costs were down, but rather that people were building less elaborate houses.

According to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, the average cost between January and July of this year was $3,611; in 1936 the average was $4,044. These figures represent the bare cost of the building. They do not include land, land improvements, profits and commissions, which will bring the cost to the purchaser to something better than $5,000.

This figure is still too high. The Home Loan Bank Board says it's too high, and I. N. Tate, vice-president of the Weyerhaeuser Sales Company, St. Paul, Minn., agrees with the board. Mr. Tate declares that about 75 per cent of all the homes being built retail for more than $5,000—and only 25 per cent of the wage-earners in the country can afford to buy a home at this price.

The U. S. attorney general's office is currently investigating high building costs. It is possible that this campaign will result in price moderations. But even if every abuse is eliminated, the result will not be the complete answer to the building enigma—it will be merely a step toward bringing prices within the $2,000-$4,000 range, which most workers can afford.

The rest of the problems will have to be solved by the people who build houses and the people who live in them. The basic prices of materials will not be reduced very much; and the price of labor can scarcely be expected to decline. But if the home owner were willing to live in the kind of house his income can stand instead of feeling that he must have a house better than the Joneses', next door and the Smiths', across the street, he would be much better off.

The four Hoess brothers in Hammond, Ind., tried out that idea, and it worked. The brothers had a lot of idle land on their hands, so they cut it up into acre lots and built identical houses. Each house sold for $2,600—complete with the land. The purchaser had to make some of the improvements, but he had his home.

This is the answer that the construction conferees in Washington suggested. Some builders were optimistic enough to predict that the cost of homes will be reduced by 50 per cent if buyers aren't too fussy about having something "different" and if they don't ask for too many frills in the design.

It's pretty well established that mass production cuts down costs. Each house will cost less and can be more quickly erected if the builder can use the same pattern throughout his project.

Perhaps if potential home owners get together with builders they will be able to afford to buy homes—and still have enough money left over to eat regularly.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

By BRUCE CATTON
WASHINGTON—The old age insurance feature of the Social Security Act is the part that affects the most citizens, involves the most money and draws the most attention.

Other parts of the act, however, are of vast importance, and amendments which go into effect on Jan. 1 will touch the lives of millions.

These "other parts" constitute a broad program of federal-state co-operation for types of relief not covered under other programs. What the Social Security Act amendments do is make this relief more liberal. The program covers monthly payments by the states to needy old folk, to dependent children and to the needy blind, and is based on the principle of "matching"—that is, each state determines how much it can afford to pay its needy citizens in these categories, and the federal government matches that sum with money from its own treasury.

U. S. INCREASES MAXIMUM GRANTS

On payments to needy old people and to the needy blind, the federal government heretofore has matched the state contributions on a straight 50-50 basis up to a maximum combined contribution of $30 a month. The amendments boost this maximum to $40.

How much this will eventually mean in the way of increased federal expenditures depends, of course, on the action the different states take.

Taking the country as a whole, the average sum paid monthly to needy old folk is $19.43. It is substantially higher in certain states. The Social Security Board expects that a number of state legislatures this winter will raise their own payments.

Equally important is the new ratio set up for aid to dependent children. Under the old law, the government would contribute a sum equal to one-third of the state's expenditure, up to a federal-state maximum of $18 for the first dependent child and $12 for each additional dependent child in the same home. The new law boosts this contribution from one-third to one-half.

AGED, BLIND, CHILDREN AIDED

These three forms of direct relief—aid to the aged, to the blind and to dependent children—affect a large number of families. Figures corrected to mid-September of this year show that benefits were being paid to 1,874,651 needy aged, to 299,264 families having 721,232 dependent children, and to 45,214 needy blind persons.

To meet these three kinds of contributions, Congress voted $278,000,000.

Unlike the old age insurance program, this form of contribution is expected in the long run to diminish rather than to increase. Ultimately, it is hoped, old age insurance coverage will be so broad and solid that there will be little need for payments based on need.

FURTHER INCREASES IN SIGHT

It is probably, too, that still further increases in the federal government's contribution to state pension systems for the needy aged will be made by Congress.

Compared with the sums envisaged by the Townsend groups, even the $40 a month which is now possible as a federal-state payment looks small.

At the last session of Congress efforts were made to set up a sort of sliding scale, under which the government would better its present 50-50 ratio of contributions to states unable to finance very large pension programs. These efforts

Cotton Futures Show Moderate Gains in Week

NEW YORK (UP)—Cotton futures set up moderate gains last week despite restrictions imposed by the Thanksgiving day suspension of business.

At Friday's close prices were two to nine points higher compared with last Saturday's finish.

Leading spot houses and foreign sources were the principal buyers, particularly in Friday's session.

Most of the foreign demand represented Bombay and Liverpool buying which dominated the market here for the second consecutive week. Offerings were supplied on hedges, scattered liquidation and some New Orleans selling.

The week's activity was without particular feature as many operators made only cautious commitments or remained wholly on the sidelines until after the holiday.

Cotton men began to show deep concern this week over the intensified sea warfare. Although a good demand has developed for cotton abroad, little business is being done because of the lack of cargo space.

It is estimated that throughout the nation during the month of October, 214,000 new passenger cars were registered, thus making the best October in eight years.

will be renewed shortly.

Minor changes were made by the last Congress in still other forms of state-aid grants. The federal government's contributions to the states for maternal and child health programs were hiked from $3,800,000 a year to $5,820,000; for services for crippled children, from $2,850,000 a year to $3,870,000; for vocational rehabilitation, from $1,938,000 a year to $3,500,000; and for public health, from $8,000,000 a year to $11,000,000.

• THE FAMILY DOCTOR

V. M. REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(This is the second of 14 articles dealing with the nine principal causes of death in the United States. During the course of the series, Dr. Fishbein will advise his readers concerning preventative measures.)

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

Especially serious among the diseases of the heart that attack people past middle age are coronary thrombosis and angina pectoris. The rates for these diseases have risen steadily in recent years.

Our real knowledge of the diagnosis of coronary disease goes back only about a quarter of a century. Dr. James B. Herrick, an American, was the first to recognize and describe definitely the effects of obstruction of the coronary arteries of the heart, a work for which he recently received the distinguished service medal of the American Medical Association.

If diseases of the coronary arteries, including angina pectoris, were separated from all other forms of heart disease, they would still rank eighth in the leading causes of death.

Men suffer more from these conditions than do women. There are many theories concerning this fact, the chief explanation being that men are constantly under greater strain and drive than are women. Men are likely to indulge in dietary excesses much more than are women. Use of alcohol and tobacco, and exposure to intoxicating substances, such as industrial poisons, are much greater among men than among women. Finally, their active lives expose them much more often to infection than is the case among women.

Doctors are likely to say that the chief factor in diseases of the coronary arteries is hypertension or high blood pressure. All over the world studies are now being made in the prevention of high blood pressure.

We know now that early detection of this condition and the adoption of a suitable hygiene of life in relationship to it will do much to keep hypertension under control. Such activity will also yield good results in the prevention of coronary disease and angina pectoris.

NEXT: Rules for protecting the heart against disease.

British Sub Trap Is Sunk By U-Boat

BERLIN (UP)—The German high command announced Saturday that a Nazi U-boat had destroyed a British submarine trap disguised as a Dutch steamer and also a 1000-ton naval auxiliary ship.

The sinkings occurred in the U-boat's "operations area," the Nazi communiqué said.

It was the first mention in this war of British "Q-boats" devised in the World War to meet the German U-boat campaign. These "Q-boats", disguised as impotent steamers, cruised the merchant ship lanes in the World War and on the approach of submarines swung out hidden guns.

The guns sometimes were behind partitions in the ship's sides and the partitions could be thrown open on an instant's notice. Others had guns hidden on decks or in lifeboats from which the sides swung down. They became an effective weapon in the anti-submarine warfare.

WAR FILMS FEATURED AT CHILDRESS THEATERS THIS WEEK

John Garfield At Palace on Wednesday

Two views of war are presented in movies opening the week here—the romantic aspect in "The Real Glory" at the Palace and the tragedy in "Nurse Edith Cavell" at the Gem. One is a fictionalized story of the Spanish-American war with dashing heroes, the other a documented case from the World war with a quiet heroine.

Although "Nurse Edith Cavell" adheres carefully to facts in order that its propaganda be directed against war rather than against one of the belligerents, it glorifies the British nurse and her profession and audiences have gained no admiration for German wartime methods from its story.

Anna Neagle is starred as the Englishwoman who led in smuggling soldier refugees into neutral territory, and was ruthlessly executed by the Germans. Supporting her are Edna May Oliver, May Robson, George Sanders, Zasu Pitts, H. B. Warner and other actors of stellar caliber.

Fighting as it was done in another era of warfare is depicted in "The Real Glory," which is set in the Philippines during the Moro insurrection following the Spanish-American war. Gary Cooper and David Niven play gallant American officers who lead the native constabulary in putting down the bloody rebellion.

In addition to an exciting story, the movie is full of star-spangled patriotism. It also offers the decorative presence of Andrea Leeds.

As a contrast to all the fighting, the Monogram bill today and through Tuesday is headlined with "What a Life," a comedy about a high school boy whom most families will recognize. The movie is based on the "Henry Aldrich" comedies of radio, with Jackie Cooper in the name role.

Typical teen-age trouble and comedy fills this film, which has been so well received by fans that it threatens to become another series. In addition to Cooper, featured players are Betty Field, John Howard, Lionel Stander and Hedda Hoper.

John Garfield's latest role as a defeatist victim of circumstances is in "Dust Be My Destiny," which comes to the Palace Wednesday and Thursday. Again he is teamed with Priscilla Lane, and this time he marries her after nobly renouncing her in a couple of previous screen romances.

He is seen as a hunted murder suspect, drifting from place to place to elude arrest. Miss Lane loyally drifts with him until he is about to be convicted of a crime he did not commit, when she takes matters in her own hands and wins him a chance at security. Alan Hale, Frank McHugh and Billy Halop are prominent in the cast.

Another newly-released film will close the week at the Palace. It is "Remember?" which stars Robert Taylor, Greer Garson and Lew Ayres.

Showing at the Monogram Wednesday and Thursday will be "Death of a Champion," a murder mystery with more than a touch of comedy. Its unique locale is a society dog show where the first murder, that of a prize dog, is committed.

With Lynne Overman as the super-snooper who peddles encyclopedias when he isn't solving murders, the audience knows what to expect in the way of laughs before the mystery, including the death of two dog fanciers, is unraveled. Young Donald O'Connor and Virginia Dale have important roles.

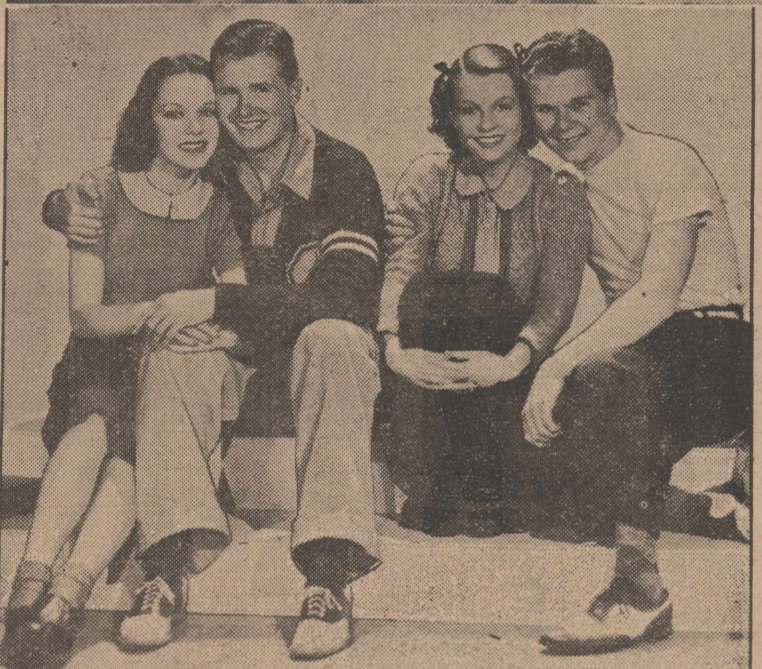

Charles Starratt is the hero of "The Man From Sundown," Monogram western scheduled for Friday and Saturday. Range music and muscles are its forte.

Music plays a big part in "She Married a Cop," to show at the Gem at midweek. Jean Parker plays a movie studio aide who is seeking an Irish tenor, and finds him when neighbors call the cops to stop try-outs. The cop is Phil Regan, who sings three new numbers.

Also in the cast are Jerome Cowan, Dorothy Kent and Benny Baker.

Gene Autry fans may flock to the Gem Friday and Saturday, assured of getting their money's worth at "Mountain Rhythm." Autry does not neglect to save the public grazing lands for the ranchers while he is singing hill-billy hits to pretty June Storey, and at the same time Smiley Burnette and Maude Eburn see that comedy is supplied.

On Childress Screens

ROBBERY OF BANK FAILURE

KANSAS CITY (UP)—Alexander R. J. Hilson, 30, of Hamilton, Ontario, a one-armed itinerant "inventor", attempted to hold up a bank Saturday but he was overpowered by the man he was attempting to rob.

He rigged up a bag to appear that it was loaded with nitroglycerin. He entered the Produce Exchange bank Saturday morning and under pretext of wanting to borrow some money asked to see James E. Hensley, vice president.

Hensley overpowered him before he had a chance to explain that his bag was filled with "nitroglycerin".

Secretary Wants Big U. S. Navy Immediately

WASHINGTON (UP)—Acting Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison told President Roosevelt Saturday night that the navy should build more ships as quickly as it can and man those it now has to full wartime strength.

The "threatening international situation" makes these steps advisable, Edison told the president in the annual navy department report.

"The importance of continuing an orderly program of additions to and replacements within our fleet from year to year without lapse again is stressed", Edison said.

"In view of the threatening international situation, it is probable that our present orderly program may have to be accelerated, but under no circumstance should it be retarded".

Phillips' 66th Birthday Party Is Scheduled

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (UP)—Everybody is invited to Bartlesville, Oklahoma, on Nov. 28 to what will probably be the largest individual birthday party ever held in the United States. On that date Frank Phillips, founder of the Phillips Petroleum Company and originator of Phillips 66 gasoline, will be 66 years old. A gigantic celebration in his honor is being planned by the employees of the Phillips Petroleum Company. From every section of the company's territory, covering 33 states, special trains, airplanes, busses and automobiles will bring employees of the company from the lowest rank to the highest executive to honor their "Uncle Frank," as he is affectionately known to them.

The employees of the company are in sole charge of arrangements, the company official has no part. November 28 has been declared an official holiday by all divisions of the Phillips company. It is the employees day and they expect to make it the outstanding event in history in honoring the man who in twenty-two years has built up one of the largest oil companies in the United States, furnishing employment to thousands.

Delegations of employees will come to Bartlesville from each of the operating groups throughout the company's territory. Between eight and ten thousand employees and their families are expected. In addition many of Mr. Phillips' friends outside the company have indicated that they want to pay honor to a man who has done so much for the petroleum industry.

As a tribute to Mr. Phillips' contribution to the development of aviation, his aviator friends from throughout the country are flying to Bartlesville to take part in a spectacular air demonstration. The official program of the day will start at 1 p. m. when Billy Parker, veteran aviator and head of the company's aviation department, will fly his spider-like 1912 model pusher plane over town while Colonel Arthur C. Goebel, winner of the Dole Race across the Pacific under Frank Phillips' sponsorship, writes "Happy Birthday" in smoke two miles over the crowds. This will be the signal for the parade to start.

Preceding the parade Mr. and Mrs. Phillips and Governor Phillips will drive over the parade route to the reviewing stand. Chrysler Motor company has placed at Mr. Phillips' disposal the special automobile which was used by the King and Queen of England on their recent visit to the United States.

The front section of the parade will be a cavalcade of Frank Phillips' life starting with a covered wagon depicting his pioneer parents on their way to Nebraska in 1872. Other vehicles, floats and displays will represent various periods in his life.

Among the vehicles used are buggies, wagons, high wheeled bicycles, and old model cars which are already being assembled in Bartlesville for the event. Other sections of the parade will include employees marching by departments, with floats and other interesting exhibits characterizing the various departments.

The parade will end at the Municipal Stadium where the birthday ceremony will take place. Governor Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma will be the principal speaker. Among the birthday presentations that will be made to Mr. Phillips will be a huge birthday cake hauled there on a truck.

There will be various forms of entertainment for the thousands of guests throughout the remainder of the day, climaxed by a basketball game, four dances, and an entertainment at Civic Center.

As of July 1, 1939, there were 26,144 licensed pilots and 11,160 aircraft in the United States.

The two pleaded guilty at Aspermont and were sentenced to two years each in the penitentiary.

Early Friday morning, the two sawed the bars of the county jail and escaped.

The fugitives are John Bratcher, former Childressite who was serving a long burglary term in the pen, and Joe Ely, also a long-temer on burglary charges.

The other prisoner who gave the testimony before the grand jury at Aspermont was Lacy Wingfield, also a long-temer.

Same Two
The two who wrote to Sheriff Moore last year, "confessing" the Norris burglary here were the same John Bratcher and the same Lacy Wingfield.

At Aspermont, Wingfield told the sheriff he refused to escape when the other two sawed the bars Friday morning. However, he was taken to the Wichita Falls jail for safekeeping Friday.

Aspermont officers have secured the assistance of officers throughout this area in searching for the fugitives.

PERSONALITIES TODAY'S PROFILE

By The United Press

As a professional bench-warming baseball pitcher 20 years ago, Dr. Homer Price Rainey asked for mound assignments on the days when the wind was blowing from the batter's box. He found it helped his curves.

"Best game I ever pitched was at Galveston just before a hurricane," he recalled. Today he sees a similar opportunity for American colleges, and particularly for the University of Texas, in Europe's troubles.

He will be inaugurated Dec. 7-9 as president of the oil-rich university at Austin, and already is planning to make it the center of Pan-American cultural relations and commercial research.

Rainey got his release only this year from the Houston Buffaloes of the Texas baseball league, although he has not played for many years. He also obtained his release this year from directorship of the American Youth Commission of the American Council of Education to become president of the University of Texas. He chose it as advantageously situated for a great Pan-American institution fusing the Americas.

At 43, he keeps fit playing tennis. On the university's courts he gives such former tennis greats as Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn some surprising competition at times.

"With a little practice I still could pitch the Buffaloes to a league pennant," he said when his formal release was tendered at a testimonial game.

Rainey is a native Texan, born at Clarkville in the blackland cotton-raising section of the state, on Jan. 19, 1896. At 17 he was high school valedictorian at Lovelady, Tex.

He received his first degree from Austin College, Sherman, Tex., where he was also the college's star pitcher. Later degrees were earned at the University of Chicago, and honorary degrees have come from many colleges. He became professor of education at the University of Oregon; president of Franklin College (Indiana) and then president of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pa. There his activities for young people attracted national attention and offer of his post in the American Youth Commission.

His salary of $17,500 a year was notable in placing the president's compensation higher than the $15,000 a year paid the university's football coach and athletic director, Dana X. Bible.

from office and the lieutenant governor would then have authority to call a special session to raise taxes. After the taxes were raised the impeachment charges would be dropped, under Ragsdale's plan, and O'Daniel would regain his office. Stevenson declared that was impossible.

"They can't do that," he said. "If they could I would not call a special session. I wouldn't do it at all. I wouldn't do anything while temporarily serving as governor that the governor did not want me to do."

Highlights From Latest Books

Sidonie Matsner Gruenberg believes children are human beings to be enjoyed, not sounding boards for every new scientific experiment. At the same time she takes a wholly modern attitude toward child psychology. You get all the answers and a volume of interesting advice in her vital book, "We the Parents" (Harpers: $2.50), excerpted below:

You can score your skill as a parent by the number of times you find it necessary to reward and to punish. The frequency of punishments and rewards is in inverse ratio to the effectiveness of our positive guidance or discipline. With increased confidence in ourselves, we find less and less need to rely upon penalties and threats to support our authority.

We will also learn that there are no punishments that will make children truthful, no rewards that will make them neat, no matter how we may succeed in threatening or bribing them into a simulation of these virtues.

In the modern family parents are challenged, as never before, to a wise practice of discipline. For today, with our small, widely-spaced families, our relationships are largely those of two adults and one child, or, at any rate, one child at a time. Furthermore, the relationship is a prolonged one, since the children now remain dependent upon their parents for many years.

More important than the establishing of any set of habits or accomplishments, therefore, is the building of a relationship between us and our children that will stand through the years. How we will get along with our children at 16 and 18 and 20 will depend very much on how we live with them at one and two and four and ten. . . .

In the family of a few generations ago a father might deal harshly with his boy before breakfast and wash out the incident in the course of their work together before lunch. Today the irate father dashing through his breakfast to catch the 8:15 train has to ask himself some questions his father never had to ask:

"Can I afford to have this quarrel as my only contact with my son today? And how often can I afford it?"

planes returned home unharmed," the official announcement said.

LONDON (UP)—The admiralty issued a communique Saturday night saying that German aircraft had made two bombing attacks on British warships in the North sea but failed to make any hits or inflict any casualties.

"Many bombs were dropped by two bombing attacks on His Majesty's ships in the North sea this afternoon, but no hits were obtained," the statement said.

LONDON (UP)—A group of airplanes, believed to be German, flew close to the Orkney islands naval base Saturday night, arousing speculation as to whether they were planting sea mines by parachute.

The all clear signal was given after a 35-minute air alarm.

BERLIN (UP)—Germany charged Saturday night that Great Britain was violating international law and trampling "the rights of neutrals underfoot," by the "damnable" disguising of war vessels as neutral ships in order to trap nazi U-boats.

The German reply to this "typical English hypocrisy" can be only a totalitarian attack, the nazi press warned in announcing that one British U-boat trap had been destroyed in waters north of the British Isles.

At the same time, the German high command announced in a series of communiques that there was sharper artillery firing on the front, especially against French infantry lines in the Merle forest; that five enemy planes were shot down on Thursday by German fighting craft; that U-boats had sunk a 1,000-ton British naval auxiliary vessel, three more cargo boats and one fishing vessel in English waters.

Singing Sam On New Program

Singin' Sam is coming to town—in a new daytime radio program called "Refreshment Time With Singin' Sam" under the sponsorship of the Coca-Cola Bottling company of Vernon and Paducah. The program will go on the air over Station KVWC, Vernon, Monday at 11:45 a. m. and will continue at the same time daily, Mondays through Fridays.

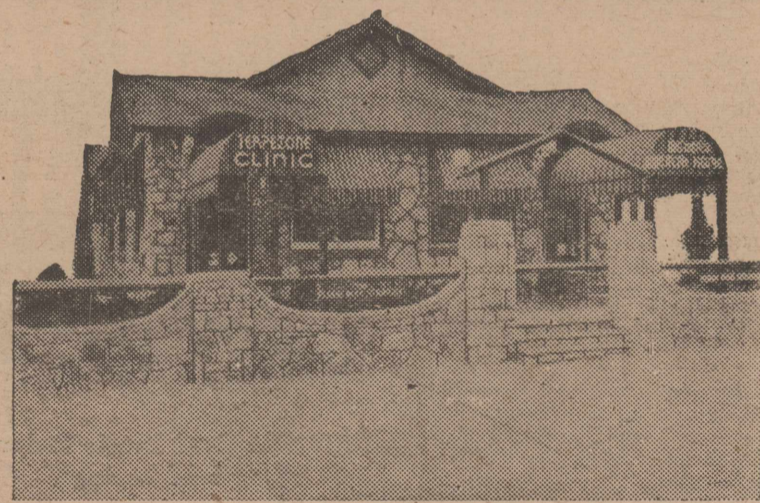

Singin' Sam is considered one of the best-known personalities in radio. He is also one of the oldest radio performers, having come to the airways about eight years ago after a long stage career. He sings all the popular songs—old familiar tunes as well as current hits. His program is billed as a quarter-hour of "songs you love to hear."

Eunice Wilson, president of the Coca-Cola Bottling company of Vernon and Paducah, in announcing this new addition to Childress radio musical menu, made this statement concerning Singin' Sam: "Everybody who is familiar with Singin' Sam and the type of program he presents will welcome the news that we have selected him as the feature of our new program called Refreshment Time. His deep, rich, friendly voice, singing old and new popular songs, will provide a refreshing musical interlude in anybody's busy day."

"Refreshment Time With Singin' Sam" will present, in addition to Sam, a quartet of mixed voices and a skilfully blended orchestra.
