Candidates looking to final round

The Associated Press

Walter F. Mondale challenged Gary Hart on Friday to disavow his support of the so-called build-down approach to nuclear arms control and also accused him of being "wishy-washy" on a controversial California nuclear power plant.

The chief rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination made back-to-back appearances on a call-in radio show in Los Angeles.

There, and in other campaign appearances, Mondale gave a preview of Sunday's debate, which is to be sponsored and televised by NBC.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, meanwhile, campaigned in the San Francisco area where he told interviewers he plans to return to Central America soon — perhaps Cuba — to push a regional peace plan.

On the Republican front, Frank Fahrenkopf Jr., chairman of the Republican National Committee, announced that U.S. Treasurer Katherine Ortega, a native of New Mexico, will be the keynote speaker for the GOP national convention in Dallas.

He said she was President Reagan's personal choice and will be the second woman to keynote a Republican convention. The first was Anne Armstrong of Texas — in 1972.

The Democrats are counting down to Tuesday's round of primaries in California and four other states that will allocate 468 delegates to the national convention and, perhaps, give Mondale enough to claim the nomination.

Largely because his campaign has been so effective in winning the backing of technically unpledged delegates chosen from among state party and elected officials, Mondale is closing in on the 1,967 magic number needed for the nomination.

Although Hart has won five of the last seven primaries, Mondale actually has widened his delegate lead during that period and now has 1,683 delegates to 983 for Hart and 330 for Jackson.

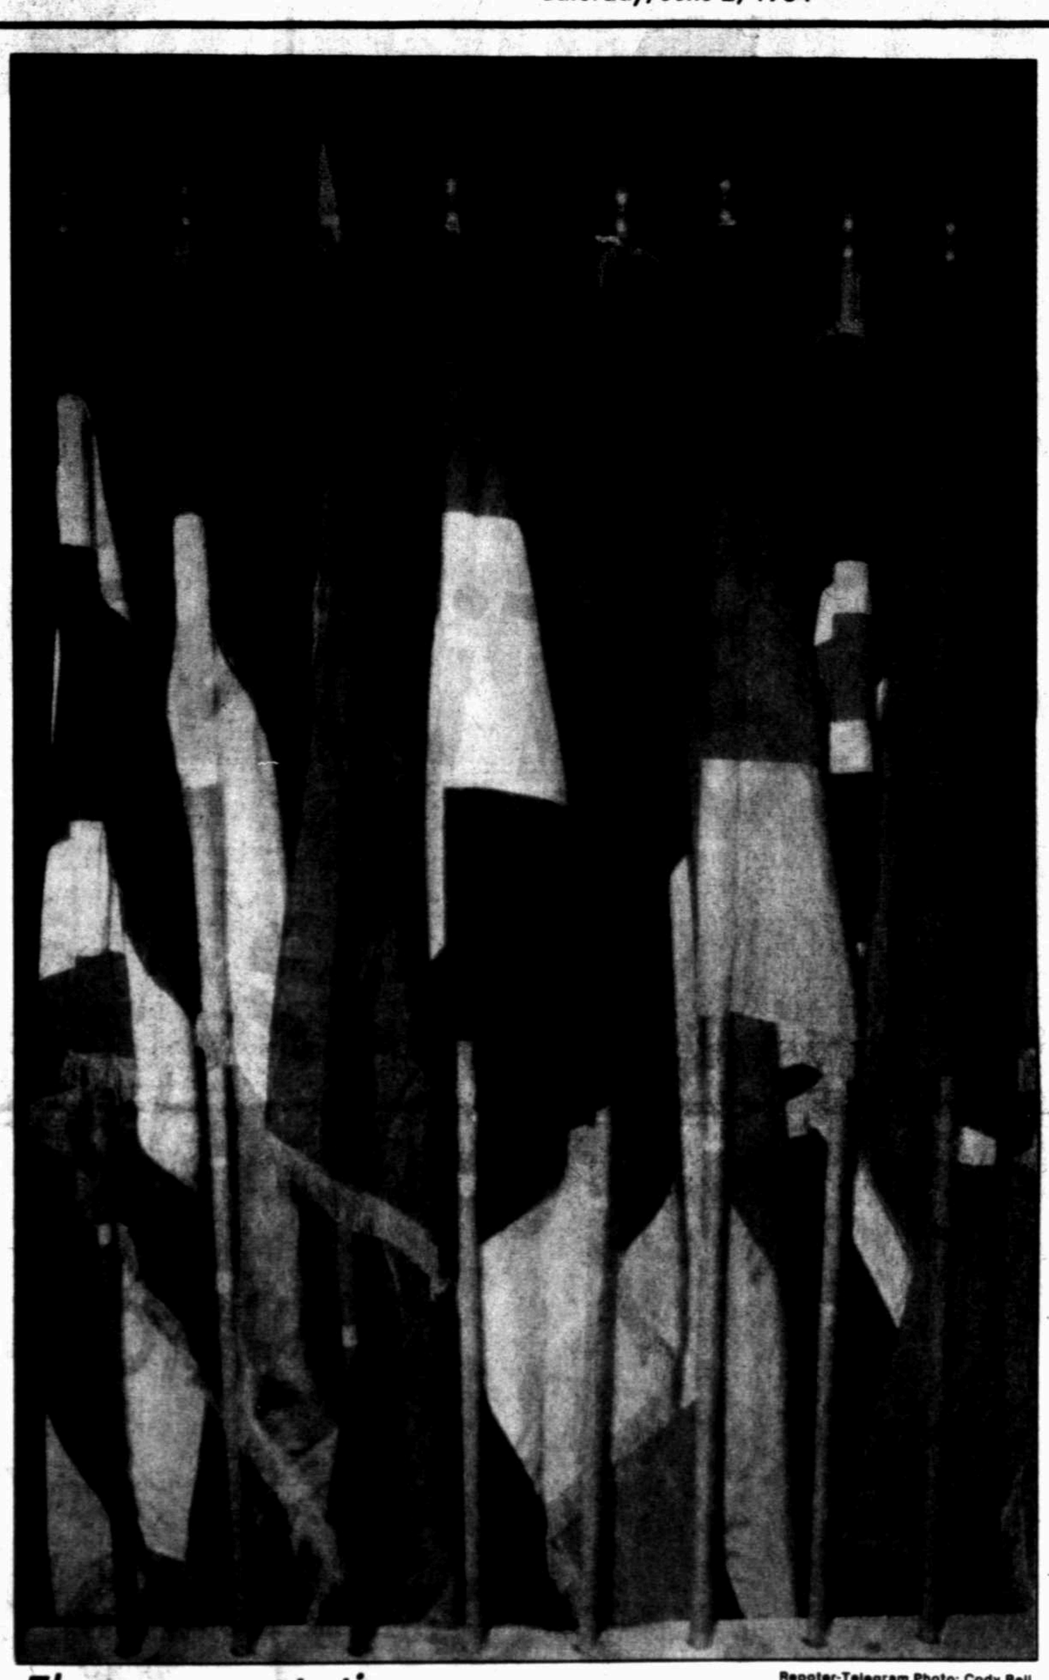

Mondale needs just 284 of the final 625 delegates to be selected to claim the nomination.

Even if Hart won every remaining delegate — plus all those already selected except the ones pledged to either Mondale or Jackson — he still would be 48 short of securing the nomination.

Mondale made clear Friday he will brace Hart at Sunday's debate on three issues dear to California voters: the nuclear build-down, immigration reform and the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant.

In particular, Mondale attacked Hart on the opening of the Diablo Canyon plant on the California coast. "My opponent has taken a wishy-washy position," Mondale said on a radio talk show. "I challenge Gary Hart to say the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant should be closed down forever," he said.

Reagans embark on sentimental journey abroad

SHANNON, Ireland (AP) — President Reagan began an 8,000-mile European journey of sentiment, patriotism and diplomacy Friday with a visit to Ireland, his ancestral homeland.

"I want you to know that for this great-grandson of Ireland this is a moment of joy," Reagan said upon his arrival at Shannon airport on the Atlantic coast. "I am returning not only to my own roots, but to America's roots."

During his second foreign journey of this election year, Reagan also will attend an economic summit of the United States' major trading partners in London, and visit Normandy for what undoubtedly will be an emotional commemoration of the 40th anniversary of D-Day, the Allied invasion of Nazi-held France.

Opponents of Reagan's policies in Central America and toward nuclear arms were threatening a series of demonstrations during Reagan's visit to Ireland. But the welcome the president and his wife Nancy received from the country from which his great-grandfather, Michael, emigrated more than a century ago was a warm one.

The president was greeted by Irish President Patrick J. Hillery and Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald as he alighted from Air Force One onto a long red carpet. Before he spoke, the president was given a 21-gun salute and a rendition of the U.S. National Anthem as he stood with Irish officials under a partly sunny sky.

In an apparent reference to the expected protests here of Reagan's Central American policies, Hillery said Reagan displayed "an appreciation of the sincere anxieties of many of our people in relation to world affairs. We feel that it's our duty to express our genuine concern about such matters."

But the over-all tone of the ceremony was warm as Hillery bid Reagan "100,000 welcomes to Ireland."

Reagan said, "To be able to begin our journey on this isle of wondrous beauty...to be able to stand on the soil of my ancestors among all of you...is for me a very special gift."

"We are beginning a mission to strength historic ties of friendship and cooperation among the world's leading democracies. It is our deepest hope and our earnest conviction that we can make a safer world."

President and Mrs. Reagan wave as they board the presidential helicopter, the first leg of their trip to Europe.

Reagan also said, "We pray tolerance and reconciliation will one day unite Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland in a spirit of communion and community."

"And that is why those who advocate violence or engage in terrorism in Northern Ireland will never be welcome in the United States," he added.

When the officials stopped speaking, bagpipes began to play.

Before he boarded a helicopter to the 13th-century castle where he was to spend the night, Reagan shook hands among the select group attending the ceremony on the tarmac.

The third U.S. president to visit the Emerald Isle, Reagan set aside four days to visit Galway, the Ballyporeen town of his forefathers, and Dublin, where he scheduled an address to the Irish Parliament.

Security was intense in the face of the expected rallies, protests and fasts by a wide-ranging assortment of dissidents, and Reagan was not expected to do much sight-seeing or mingle with the public.

'Marias' evicted from Nuevo Laredo

NUEVO LAREDO, Mexico (AP) — City officials have vowed to continue a campaign to rid downtown streets of Marias, the colorfully dressed peasant women who sit at sidewalk's edge begging or selling small trinkets to American tourists.

About a dozen of the women and their children were rounded up by Nuevo Laredo police last weekend. At least six of those were put on a train and deported to their home states in the interior, authorities said.

Several other women were allowed to stay after they proved to officials they were bonafide city residents.

By the beginning of the week, only one of the Marias could be found on Avenida Guerrero, the main commercial street through town.

Before the weekend sweep, the Marias begged or sold gum or handmade dolls up and down the street, usually sitting with their children in the same spot each day.

City officials feared the women marred Nuevo Laredo's image and offended tourists. Their removal was part of a civic drive to make the city more attractive to foreign visitors, officials said.

Many of the women had come to the border from the interior hoping to cross into the United States, said city legal advisor Octavio Garcia Garza.

"Those who don't make it...stay here and it seemed like each day there were more," said Garcia, adding that the number of Marias on city streets had multiplied after the 1982 peso devaluations.

Local Chamber of Commerce members had lobbied city officials for several years to remove the Marias and street vendors. Action was finally taken after the new mayor, Ricardo de Hoyos Arizpe, took office Dec. 31.

Street vendors were evicted first and forced to relocate after de Hoyos and the city council agreed the vendors diminished the city's reputation as a clean, safe tourist center.

"It's not that city officials are against them," Garcia said. "But we have to think of the greater good. These women do not work and are often exploited by others.

"We believe they should try decent work instead of begging."

Several local leaders challenged the city's eviction of the women.

Hector Molina Garcia, president of the Nuevo Laredo Bar Association, charged that the roundup and expulsion was unconstitutional.

Molina told the newspaper, El Diario, that the action taken by police was unjustified, particularly because they arrested the women without a warrant.

Leopoldo Lara Salinas, president of the Nuevo Laredo Enterprise Center, disputed the city's right to detain or deport any citizen for begging. He said the women are victims of an economic crisis in Mexico.

Valedictorian cancels speech to protest

VIENNA, Ga. (AP) — A high school valedictorian refused to deliver his address to protest alleged racism in the school system, but the senior class canceled its plan to "walk off" from Friday night's ceremony in honor of a classmate who died on graduation day.

The valdictorian of Dooly County High School's senior class, Todd Vasko, said the students felt "obligated" to participate in the ceremony in tribute to 17-year-old Carlton Williams, who died Friday of gunshot wounds.

"I don't what the cause was," said Sheriff Barney Thomas of the Thursday night shooting. "All we know is he was shot. We don't know if it was accidental or if he meant to."

Vasko, who is white, was listed in the graduation program as valedictorian, but his portion of the program was deleted.

Vasko accepted several student awards during the ceremony, and received hearty applause from the crowd of about 1,500 people.

More than 100 students, most of them members of the 125-member senior class, Thursday night, to plan their commencement walkout and to sign a petition demanding that the Dooly County Board of Education fire School Superintendent Warren Alexander, who also is white.

A key issue in the protest was the recent removal of the school's black principal by the largely white Board of Education.

Thaddaus Laidler, an 18-year-old senior and student leader, said 335 of the 860 students at the predominantly black school had signed the petition. He said seniors had planned to leave the ceremony in protest "after everything has been done."

"The issue is not black against white, but the issue is right against wrong," Laidler said. "The issue is correct against incorrect, scrupulous against unscrupulous and justice against injustice — that's what the issue is."

The racial unrest at the school began when the board asked Principal Carlos Keith, a black, to resign and hired a white man, O'Neal Bozeman, for the job, said Roscoe Keaton, the only black member of the school board.

Keith has said only that he would be taking a position with another school system. He was not in his office Friday when called for comment on Keaton's account, a secretary said.

The Dooly County football team refused to participate in spring practice, and students walked out for two days last week in protest of Keith's dismissal, according to Dr. Truman Vasko, the valedictorian's father.

The younger Vasko said he decided not to deliver the valedictory address because "I can't ever remember not hearing a valedictorian give a speech. I figured this would be the strongest form of protest I could give them."

So-called 'spy' wins invasion of privacy suit against oil company

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — A woman who perched in a tree house and used binoculars to spy on a neighboring oil company has won a court battle against the firm and its president, who claimed she violated their privacy.

Patricia Schaefer of Tabernacle did not act illegally by conducting surveillance of the Noble Oil Co. for three years with devices including binoculars, a telescope, a camera and a tape recorder, Superior Court Judge Martin L. Haines ruled.

Haines said the woman's surveillance "resulted from her legitimate concerns about alleged zoning violations, the improper operation of a hazardous waste facility and the seepage of oil into her property."

The judge dismissed on Thursday the suit brought in 1982 by Noble Oil and its president, Christopher Grungo.

"She's a very persistent woman," Thomas Norman, Mrs. Schaefer's attorney, said Friday. "She beat city hall."

On May 10, Noble Oil, Grungo, his two brothers and a cousin were named in a state grand jury indictment charging them with illegally mixing toxic chemicals with heating oil for sale to the public. All have pleaded innocent to the charges.

There was no connection between Mrs. Schaefer's surveillance and the indictment, said John Musarra, the deputy attorney general prosecuting the case.

Mrs. Schaefer, a 39-year-old school bus driver, said she began watching the company in 1980 because she believed it had violated zoning ordinances and feared oil spills at the facility might pollute her well.

When she complained about the alleged zoning violations to the Tabernacle Township Committee, then-Mayor Frank V. Grungo, the plaintiff's father, told her she had no proof, Norman said.

Teen can't graduate because of bombing

PLANO (AP) — A teen-ager charged with helping to place a bomb outside his high school has been barred from today's graduation ceremonies, school officials said.

The 17-year-old student, Robert William O'Neil, has been suspended indefinitely and his grades and diploma are being withheld pending a review by School Superintendent H. Wayne Hendrick, said Plano Senior High School Principal Sherman Millender.

O'Neil, two other students and a graduate, O'Neil's brother, were arrested and charged in connection with the prank. The device, a fire extinguisher filled with over a pound of gunpowder, exploded inside a circular message board on a campus sidewalk Tuesday, causing $700 in damage but no injuries.

The other two students, junior Steven Thomas Stephenson, 18, and senior Eric Dilg, 17, were also suspended and their grades withheld, Millender said. Dilg was ineligible to graduate because of low grades.

Joseph Michael O'Neil, 18, a 1983 Plano graduate, and Dilg were charged with criminal mischief amounting to more than $200, a Class A misdemeanor. O'Neil was released on a $5,000 bond and Dilg was released on a pretrial release bond, a spokesman at the Collin County Sheriff's office said.

The younger O'Neil and Stephenson were charged with possession of an explosive device on school premises, a third-degree felony. They were both released after posting $15,000 bond each.

Dallas attorney John McShane, who is representing the O'Neils, said that he did not think the school district should withhold Robert O'Niel's diploma.

Ernest Dilg, father of Eric Dilg, said his son was a trouble-free kid who got caught in the rat race.

"He was in the wrong place at the wrong time," he said.

The Stephenson family was unavailable for comment.

Lucas sentenced to die

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Henry Lee Lucas, a self-proclaimed mass murderer who claims to have killed 360 people in a seven-year spree, was formally sentenced to die Friday for the 1979 slaying of an unidentified hitchhiker.

The sentencing by State District Judge John Carter was a formality. A jury convicted the Lucas, a 47-year-old drifter, of capital murder last March and ordered the death penalty.

Lucas was found guilty of killing a young female hitchhiker, whose mostly nuded body was found dumped in a culvert near Georgetown on Halloween 1979. The case was heard in San Angelo on a change of venue.

Carter became the first judge to order Lucas to die. Lucas also has been convicted on two other murder charges in the slaying of an 80-year-old Ringgold, Texas, woman and his 15-year-old commmon-law wife.

On May 24, Lucas pleaded guilty to the 1970 stabbing death of Linda Jane Phillips, a 26-year-old elementary school teacher whose body was found near Kaufman, and was sentenced to life in prison.

Prosecutor Ed Walsh said during Friday's hearing that police have cleared 140 killings through Lucas' confessions.

"For whatever reasons, Mr. Lucas is sincere about wanting to help authorities, and we owe it to the families of the victims to clear as many of these as we can," Walsh said.

In a confession played during his trial in San Angelo, Lucas said he had killed 360 people in every available manner, except poisoning.

Carter granted a motion by Walsh that Lucas' transfer to Death Row at the Ellis Unit of the Texas Department of Corrections be delayed. Lucas will remain at the Williamson County Jail in Georgetown so that law officers can continue to question him about other unsolved slayings, Carter ruled.

The judge also ordered Lucas to turn over all proceeds from any book of his life to a crime victims' restitution fund in Texas.

Four birthdays mean four cakes

HOUSTON (AP) — Heather and Amanda and Eric and Nathan Granata celebrated their third birthday Friday. It was no ordinary celebration.

"Everybody's going to get their own birthday cake," said their mother, Janice Granata.

The four children, born in Findlay, Ohio, are the product of a fertility drug their mother took after she and her husband, George, tried unsuccessfully to add to their family. A fifth child was also born, but died shortly after.

Mrs. Granata says when the five babies were born, doctors warned that maybe one or two would survive.

WEATHER SUMMARY

National Weather Service NOAA U.S. Dept. of Commerce
AP Laserphoto Map

The National Weather Service forecasts rain for parts of New York, Michigan, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Texas, Colorado and Kansas.

Chance of showers could dampen Midland's weekend

A chance of rain could dampen the weekend for Midlanders, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Today's forecast calls for partly cloudy skies and a high in the lower 90s. Winds will be southeasterly at 10-15 mph.

A 30 percent chance of thunderstorms tonight should increase Sunday with widely scattered thunderstorms expected.

Tonight's low should drop into the lower 60s with a high on Sunday expected in the upper 80s.

Friday's high of 93 missed the record high for the first of June in 1958 by eight degrees. The overnight low of 61 was 13 degrees warmer than 1970's record low of 48 degrees.

NATION

As a weeklong storm that caused flooding from Oklahoma to New England moved out to sea on Friday, volunteers in Utah and Wyoming stacked sandbags along rivers swollen by melting snowpacks.

The Southeast, meanwhile, shivered through the first day of June with record low temperatures set in more than two dozen cities. But the desert west sweltered in triple-digit temperatures.

Flood warnings were discontinued for most of the rivers and streams in New England, marking the end of one of the worst New England floods on record, the National Weather Service said.

In Massachusetts, the Connecticut River had reached its highest level since the hurricane flood of September 1938.

In central Utah, the Logan River poured over its banks, forcing 50 families from their homes. In Casper, Wyo., residents of low-lying areas sandbagged the banks of the North Platte River to avert flooding.

Among the cities where record lows for June 1 were set were Mobile, Ala., 49 degrees, and Raleigh, N.C., 42.

At the other extreme, the weather service said May 1984 was the hottest one on record in two Arizona cities. In Tucson, the average maximum temperature for the month was 96, and the average temperature was 79.8 degrees, surpassing records set in 1958. In Phoenix, the average maximum temperature last month was 101.2 degrees, surpassing a 50-year-old mark by 3.8 degrees.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 p.m. EDT ranged from 48 degrees in West Yellowstone, Mont., to 100 in Palm Springs, Calif.

For today, scattered showers and thunderstorms were forecast from the southern and central Plains through the lower Missouri Valley to the upper Great Lakes, with showers lingering over northern Maine.

High temperatures were forecast in the 60s across northern Maine and from the Washington coast to the northern Rockies; 80s from the southern and mid-Atlantic Coast to the southern half of the Great Plains; low 90s across much of the southern Plains; 80s and 90s from New Mexico to southern and central California; and above 100 in some desert areas.

STATE

A warming trend with moist southerly winds embraced Texas on Friday as clear to partly cloudy skies dominated the state's weather picture.

Afternoon temperatures also showed a continued warming trend, moving away from the unusually mild readings earlier in the week.

The National Weather Service reported temperatures in the 80s and 90s in most of Texas.

Winds were southerly at 10 to 20 mph across most of the state, while southwesterly breezes were reported in far West Texas and the Panhandle.

The forecast called for early morning cloudiness today over portions of South and North Central Texas. Otherwise, the forecasters predicted fair to partly cloudy skies and continued warm weather through the weekend.

Krueger has 'more spine' to endorse Hance

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Assistant City Editor

Claiming that it takes "a little bit more spine" to make an endorsement of Kent Hance for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, former U.S. ambassador and Democratic senatorial candidate Bob Krueger traveled with Hance to Midland for a Friday afternoon news conference.

Hance is facing State Sen. LLoyd Doggett in today's run-off. Krueger had been the third major contender in the Democratic race until losing by about five votes per county in the primary.

It was on Wednesday that Krueger announced he would prefer Hance over Doggett and said Hance stands a better chance of winning in the November general election. At Friday's press conference, the two men denied rumors that Hance would pay off Krueger's campaign debt in exchange for the endorsement and explained Hance's solicitation of contributions from political action committees.

"It would be easy to stand on the sidelines and say nothing," said Krueger. "That's not the basis of public responsibility. I knew who I was going to vote for. I'd had a chance to travel with both candidates."

Krueger decided he had more "spine" than Doggett had contended. During the primary, Doggett in his campaigning had pulled a plastic spine out of a sack and said Krueger had no spine.

Hance recalled those times. "I saw Doggett pull the plastic spine out of the sack. After I saw Doggett's ads portraying me as a liar and a butler, I knew how Krueger had felt. But I felt Doggett was going too far when he mentioned my lack of hair."

He added that Doggett's ads have resulted in a backlash, turning voters toward Hance.

Krueger's late endorsement has helped "tremendously," according to Hance, who is hoping for a large turnout at the polls today.

He denied any deal had been made between the two men. "I have a campaign debt and Bob has a campaign debt. If anyone here wants to contribute to either one, we won't turn you down," Hance said half-jokingly to the supporters who filled the room at Midland Regional Airport.

Krueger pointed out that Hance has focused on issues during the campaign and Doggett on personalities. "It will take an issue-oriented campaign to win this Senate seat back to the Democratic party and the people of Texas."

Hance criticized the $5,000 donation made to Doggett's campaign by Sen. Ted Kennedy's political action committee. Doggett's office this week announced that Hance also had sought money from the same PAC. But Hance said an independent firm in Washington, D.C. sent a "Dear Friend" letter to all PACs, Democratic and Republican. Then the contributions were screened before being accepted.

"If Ted Kennedy had given me one, I wouldn't have accepted it," said Hance.

Polling places listed

Polls for the Democratic run-off featuring three races in Midland County will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. today.

On the ballot are:

U.S.Senate: Kent Hance, Lloyd Doggett.

Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 2: W.C. "Bill" Davis, Roy E. Greenwood.

Judge, Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 3: Bill White, Thomas B. "Tom" Thorpe.

Persons who can vote in this run-off are those who voted in the May 5 Democratic primary or who didn't vote in either primary.

The polling places will be as follows:

Precincts 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106: Alamo Junior High School, 3800 W. Storey.

Precincts 201, 202, 203, 208, 209: Lee Freshman High School, 1400 E. Oak Ave.

Precincts 204, 205, 206, 207: Bowie Elementary School, 805 W. Elk Ave.

Precincts 301, 302, 303, 304, 307: South Elementary School, 200 W. Dakota Ave.

Precinct 305: Carver Cultural Center, Carver and East Wall Street.

Precinct 306: Crockett Elementary School, 401 E. Parker Ave.

Precincts 401, 402, 403, 404, 405, 406, 407, 408: Rusk Elementary School, 2601 Wedgewood.

CANDIDATES

He said Hart sent a "wishy-washy letter to the Nuclear Regulatory commission, saying they should study the safety problem. You can't study an earthquake fault out of existence."

Mondale also said Hart should repudiate his support for the nuclear arms build-down concept, in which two nuclear weapons would be destroyed for each new one produced.

"This week and then again this morning, Gary Hart again confirmed that he supports the build-down," Mondale said. "The build-down is nothing but a qualitative arms race."

And he said Hart should endorse the immigration reform bill proposed by Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., which calls for increased financing for border patrols to stem the flow of illegal aliens into this country.

Hart has not specifically opposed the bil, but takes the view that immigration reform requires a broader approach.

Hart re-endorsed the build-down concept during his appearance on the radio show, preceding Mondale. The two did not meet at the station.

The Colorado senator said he "supports the notion" of the build-down. "I find that a concept hard to quarrel with," Hart said.

Hart first gave his support to the build-down concept a year ago, before it was adopted by the Reagan administration as a way to help win congressional approval of the MX missile.

With large numbers of nuclear freeze activists in New Jersey and California, both states with primaries on Tuesday, Hart's support has become an issue.

Until Friday, Hart had made no public statements specifically on whether he still supported the proposal.

Hart said Mondale should know he is committed to arms control, and complained that the former vice president continues to suggest he is weak on nuclear arms issues.

Hart emphasized later that he opposes linking the build-down with Reagan's support for the MX missile.

SPY

By 1982, Mrs. Schaefer was peering through binoculars over the company's 8-foot fence from a child's tree house and keeping detailed records to prove her contention.

Grungo filed suit Nov. 17, 1982, charging that the spying hindered smooth business operations and invaded his personal privacy.

"They filed suit as a form of harassment to get her off their backs and frankly it backfired," said Norman. He said his client has filed a counter suit against Grungo and Noble Oil seeking compensatory and punitive damages.

Grungo's attorney, John Prior, said he did not know if his client would appeal the ruling.

In his decision, Haines wrote that Grungo "did not suffer any outrageous invasion of his personal, intimate affairs which would shock the sensibilities of a reasonable man."

Norman said Mrs. Schaefer never made the records she kept public, a key factor in winning dismissal.

REAGANS

Reagan was to spend two nights at Ashford Castle near the Atlantic coast, a luxurious hotel that dates back to the 13th century. Sprawling on the banks of Lough Corrib, the nation's second-largest lake, the 27,000-acre estate is owned by Irish millionaire John Mulcahy.

The highlight of the Irish trip, in the eyes of presidential advisers, is his speech Monday to the parliament, in which Reagan was expected to reaffirm his desire to improve relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

But the president seemed most excited about the two-hour sentimental journey home to Ballyporeen, which his son, Ron, visited just last year.

With some 40 million Americans of Irish descent, there have been the inevitable questions about whether the trip was inspired by the November election, but Reagan told a recent interviewer he would be going even if he wasn't seeking a second White House term.

Though Reagan visited Ireland twice before he became president, he only learned the identity of his great-grandfather's town since then. The president said that, after his roots were traced to Ballyporeen in the last several years, "I've always known I was going to have to go there. I want to go there."

After Ireland, Reagan will head to London, for lunch with the queen and a working dinner with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher on Tuesday. He flies to Normandy for the D-Day ceremonies Wednesday.

He then returns to London, this year's site of the annual economic summit of the non-communist world's seven most industrialized nations, from June 7-10.

Boy injured in accident

From Staff Reports

A 13-year-old Midland boy remained in fair condition at Midland Memorial Hospital Friday night following a major traffic accident at Shell and Midkiff at noon Friday. Steven Quenzer of 3330 Providence was listed in fair condition with lacerations and is expected to remain hospitalized for observation, according to the MMH house supervisor.

No details of the accident were available.

The burglary of a business at 1904 W. Wall Ave. was reported at 9 a.m. Friday by Gus Jones. According to police reports, a television, 12 cans of beer, six cans of beans, two cans of tuna fish and several eating utensils were taken. Total value was placed at about $475.

Entry apparently was gained through a north window, where tennis shoe prints and three pieces of broken glass with blood on them were found.

The burglary took place sometime between 1:30 p.m. Thurday and 9 a.m. Friday.

In other police action, JoAnn Glenn of 112 N. Glenwood reported a burglary of her residence in which frozen meat, cleaning and laundry detergent and canned goods were taken from her garage between 5 and 8:45 p.m. Thursday.

Total value of the missing items was placed at $200 while another $350 worth of meat spoiled when the freezer door was left open.

Entry apparently was gained through a sliding glass door and the exit was believed to have been through the garage door.

DEATHS

H.O. Cain

H.O. "Boots" Cain, 73, of Midland died Friday at his home.

Services are pending at Ellis Funeral Home.

Fire ant's stings painful

Fire ant's painful stings often cause serious allergic reactions in humans. These pests, which infest about 230 million acres across nine states, ranging from the Carolinas to Texas, chew the roots of growing soybeans, and their mounds in pastures and fields damage farm equipment.

Four people hurt in two-car wreck

From Staff Reports

Four people were injured in a two-vehicle accident a mile north of Stanton on Texas Highway 137 at 7 p.m. Friday.

Listed in good condition at Malone and Hogan Hospital in Big Spring were Victor Hewtty, 36, of Lenorah; John Richard Phillips, 19, of Graham; Mann Wounder, 23, of Yuma, Ariz.; and Billy Joe Odell, 22, also of Yuma, according to the Department of Public Safety in Midland.

Reports indicate Hewtty was traveling south on Texas Highway 137 approaching the intersection of the north service road of Interstate 20 when he collided with the other vehicle, driven by Phillips. Phillips was traveling west on the service road when his vehicle hit Hewtty's car broadside on the driver's side.

Hewtty's vehicle was thrown into the ditch while Phillips' car, carrying Odell and Wounder, rolled a quarter of a turn, according to the DPS.

EPA's Ruckelshaus defends Hart's record on environmental issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Environmental Protection Agency chief William D. Ruckelshaus defended Gary Hart's record on environmental issues Friday against attacks by Walter Mondale which he called "not believable."

"There is nothing wrong with Hart's environmental record. He has a very strong environmental record in the Congress," Ruckelshaus said in a rare comment by a Reagan administration official on contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

At a brown-bag lunch with reporters, the EPA administrator refused to say whether he would recommend that President Reagan veto a House bill that would extend the "superfund" toxic waste cleanup program.

Although Ruckelshaus previous had said Reagan probably would sign the bill, he said Friday that a House Energy and Commerce subcommittee had add many objectionable features.

As an example, he cited a proposed array of deadlines for EPA action at each stage of the cleanup of a hazardous waste dump. The deadlines, he said, would vastly multiply the opportunities for environmental groups to fil lawsuits in federal courts.

Ruckelshaus said that could put cleanups under the supervision of judges and "greatly slow up the momentum we've been able to create here in the last 12 months."

Only six of the agency's 552 priority dump sites have been cleaned up, but the EPA says it expects to have work under way by Sept. 30 on about 400 sites.

Asked whether he would recommend a veto, Ruckelshaus replied, "I'm not going to speculate about that. I think all that does is get everybody's emotions up."

Referring to Mondale's charges that Hart did not care enough about the "superfund" to vote for it in the Senate in 1980, Ruckelshaus said, "Standing on the edge of these dumps all over the country saying (his opponent) doesn't care about cleaning up these dumps — I mean, really, it just is not believable."

Hart's defenders have said the Senate vote to which Ruckelshaus referred was so lopsided that Hart's vote was not needed. They say also that several environmental organizations have given Hart high ratings.

Killing may have been in revenge

NEW YORK (AP) — The "vigilante" who claimed he killed one man and stabbed another to help clear the streets of drug dealers was arrested Friday, and police said his real motive was simple revenge for receiving bad drugs.

"There was no vigilante motive in these attacks," said Police Commissioner Benjamin Ward after the arrest of Richard "Benny" Simpson, 38, of Harlem.

Police said Simpson, allegedly a habitual cocaine user, was arrested at 9 a.m. at Park Avenue bank, where he worked as a short-order cook in the commissary. Simpson went to work Friday to collect his paycheck and planned to leave town Friday night, Ward said.

Simpson charged with second-degree murder in the fatal stabbing of James Oliver Griffin, 38, and with the attempted murder of Fred Jones, 41. Both were knifed Sunday afternoon in Harlem.

Ward said he was certain that Simpson was the same man who called police and approached a local television reporter, claiming to be a crusading anti-drug vigilante bent on helping rid Harlem's streets of drug pushers.

But after his arrest, Ward said, Simpson made "unsolicited statements" that showed "there was no vigilante motive in these attacks. No desire to help police rid the streets of junkies as Mr. Simpson stated in his calls to police and WNBC-TV."

Instead, he said, the attacks on Griffin and Jones were "revenge" because "Mr. Simpson felt that they had given him bad drugs and then later stole his money on at least two separate occasions."

Ward said the three men knew each other and regularly used cocaine together.

An anonymous man called police after the attacks Sunday and warned that he would kill again unless the police commissioner issued an anti-drug statement. Ward complied and no further attacks were reported.

The next day, a man approached WNBC-TV reporter David Diaz outside a Harlem police precinct and said "I might have a story for you." The man later called the reporter several times, claiming to be the drug-hating vigilante.

On Tuesday, he told Diaz he would surrender in 48 hours, but the deadline passed and the man did not call again.

Meanwhile, Jones — who survived having an 8-inch butcher knife plunged into his back — provided information to detectives who searched for the supposed vigilante.

Jones told police where Simpson lived, but the suspect did not go home Thursday night. Detectives eventually learned where he worked and arrested him without incident.

Simpson has an arrest record that dates back 10 years and includes a homicide charge and several minor offenses. Ward would not elaborate and said he did not know the disposition of the homicide arrest.

Despite the false "vigilante" claim, Ward said he wouldn't have handled the case differently.

'Increasingly people are beginning to attempt to use the media," he said. "The media finds itself in the middle of these things. There's not much we can do and, in my opinion, there's not much the media can do except act responsibly in the way that Mr. Diaz did in this case."

Diaz said he had doubted parts of the caller's story all along but said he continued to talk to him "in the hopes that I could get some other information that could help" the case.

Asked if he knew why the suspect made up the vigilante tale, Ward replied, "No, I don't. But I suspect that when he gets to Attica or Auburn (state prisons) or wherever he's going, he'll become a pretty good writer for the prison newspaper. He's got a vivid imagination."

Kidnapped couple won't be returning to Sri Lanka

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Ohio couple held five days by terrorists in Sri Lanka last month said Friday they have decided not to return to the country.

"We saw 11 faces. My wife and I would just not feel comfortable or safe there," said Stanley Allen, 36. Allen said he and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, 29, could identify the 11 Tamil separatists who held them captive.

Allen said, however, that the Akron-based Ruhlin Co. will complete the $4 million water plant construction project that he was working on at the time of the abduction.

Police to probe beating

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A man whose widowed mother-in-law was beaten and robbed when it took police more than an hour to respond to her telephone call for help is demanding an explanation from police officials.

Bill Leffler's 79-year-old mother-in-law, Grace Hering, called the 911 emergency number late Wednesday to report a prowler around her home. She made the call minutes before a man broke through a window and demanded cash.

After she gave him the money, he beat her with the pistol and demanded more, she said.

Officers arrived one hour and 16 minutes later, after a second call for help and after the woman was beaten so badly that she required more than 100 stitches.

"I don't want to sound vindictive, but somebody screwed up," Leffler said.

Police blamed the foul-up on a computer malfunction or human error and are investigating, officials said.

Leffler said he was distressed by the incident and that it could have been prevented through proper communication.

Leffler said he met Thursday with state Rep. Frank Tejeda on the matter. He said he would accompany the legislator Friday to a meeting with Police Chief Charles Rodriguez.

Police officials confirmed Mrs. Hering's call was received at 10:37 p.m. Wednesday. Records showed no officer was dispatched to investigate.

"It was entered into the system, but the question is what happened once the clerk entered it into the system," said Lt. Don Brooks, head of police communications.

A recording made by police shows that Mrs. Hering told the dispatcher, "Can you send somebody over here? I hear noises. I don't know. I'm afraid."

Brooks said he is investigating the incident and would talk with the dispatcher.

Tejeda said he was concerned that the incident occurred just a few blocks from his parents' home.

"I'm requesting a meeting with Chief Rodriguez. We will be requesting a full accounting," the lawmaker said.

Mrs. Hering called Leffler before she called police. His wife, DeLores, advised Mrs. Hering to phone 911. The Lefflers got dressed and left for Mrs. Hering's house.

The clerk who received the call told the woman an officer would be sent.

After the man broke in and beat her, Mrs. Hering managed to escape and flee through a rear door. She ran to a neighbor's house, and the neighbor called police again.

Police received that call at 11:50 p.m., and an officer arrived in three minutes. The assailant already had fled.

Geter will soon sign movie deal

DALLAS (AP) — Lenell Geter, whose life sentence for armed robbery was overturned after nationwide publicity caused doubts about his guilt, says he expects to sign a contract soon for a television movie about his ordeal.

Geter, who met last weekend in New York with several movie producers, says that the contract "is coming, it's very close."

The production companies vying for the rights to Geter's life story include CBS, Fries Entertainment Inc. of Los Angeles and a California-based company affiliated with Norman Lear, creator of "All in the Family," the Dallas Times Herald reported Friday, quoting sources familiar with the negotiations.

A spokesman for Geter's agent, Ron Bernstein of New York, said there was "nothing to report" on the progress toward a contract decision. But one of Geter's lawyers, Edwin Sigel of Dallas, said an agreement could be announced in a few days.

"It could change society's viewpoints on a number of things," said Irv Wilson of Fries Entertainment, which has produced 53 television movies, including a biography of slain civil rights leader Medgar Evers.

Wilson said a movie about Geter's case would underscore "a very badly structured legal system, not only in Dallas but in many cities across the nation."

A lawyer who has worked with Geter and asked not to be identified told the Times Herald that Geter, 26, may receive as much as $100,000 for the movie and a book about the ordeal, although several several movie industry spokesmen say the deal would probably be less lucrative.

The movie is expected to highlight Geter's allegations that racism and shoddy police work played a key role in his 1982 armed robbery conviction in a Dallas court. Eyewitnesses identified Geter as the man who held up a fast-food chicken restaurant in Balch Springs, a southeast Dallas suburb.

After the CBS investigative program, "60 Minutes," spotlighted Geter's case, District Attorney Henry Wade agreed to give Geter a new trial. Later, Wade asked that the proposed new trial for Geter be scrubbed because he found a "Geter lookalike" who he said he believed to be guilty of the robbery.

Dutch parliament OKs missile deployment, links it to Soviet behavior

WORLD

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Holland's Cabinet on Friday approved deployment of U.S. nuclear missiles on Dutch soil, but it compromised with missile foes by delaying the installation and linking the size of the deployment to Soviet behavior.

"If the Soviet Union deploys one more SS-20 (nuclear missile), we will deploy all 48 cruise missiles," Premier Ruud Lubbers told a news conference after the Cabinet meeting. The decision requires approval by Parliament.

It was the first breakdown in the NATO schedule for putting 572 missiles in five Western European countries and raised the possibility that the entire plan might start to unravel.

U.S. State Department spokesman Brian Carlson said the United States did not believe the Dutch announcement would have an impact on deployment of the nuclear missiles by other NATO nations.

Three previous Dutch governments had stalled a decision to implement the 1979 NATO plan calling for deployment of the medium-range nuclear missiles in Western Europe to counter Soviet missiles already in place.

The Cabinet said its plan would postpone the Dutch deployment, but would complete it before NATO's December 1988 deadline for the full European deployment.

The NATO plan called for the Netherlands to install 16 of the missiles by the end of 1986 and 32 more in the first half of 1987.

Lubbers said his center-right coalition government would fall if the decision is rejected by Parliament. The missiles are opposed by the largest Parliamentary delegation, the Labor Party, as well as by members of Lubbers' own Christian Democrats.

Officials of other NATO nations had insisted that all 572 Pershing 2 and cruise missiles must be installed on schedule in order to show solidarity against the Soviet Union.

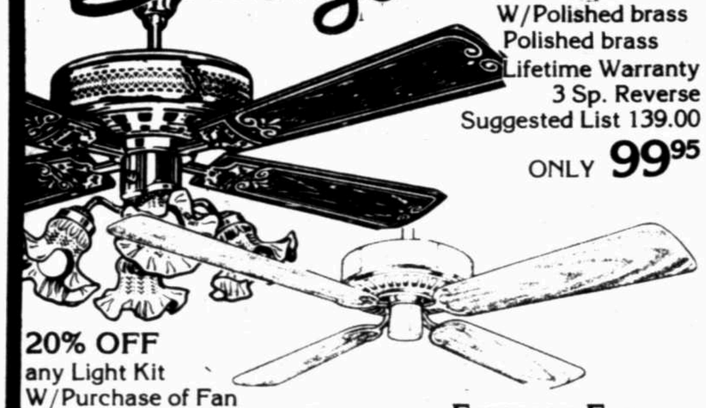

Referring to strong pressure from other NATO nations, Lubbers said, "the allies cannot say that the Netherlands is not doing everything to curb the Soviet SS-20 threat."

FCC urges 'dial-a-porn' services be restricted to nighttime

WASHINGTON (AP) — The staff of the Federal Communications Commission is urging that operators of "dial-a-porn" telephone services be required to restrict their operations to nighttime, knowledgeable sources said Friday.

The sources, who spoke only on condition that they not be identified, said the general counsel's office of the regulatory agency circulated the recommendation to the five commissioners Friday and was expected to publish a final decision early next week.

The recommendation was said to conclude that the only practical way to limit children's access to dial-a-porn services featuring sexually suggestive tape-recorded messages is to ban their operation during daylight hours.

The staff is suggesting a rule restricting such phone services to between 9 p.m. and 8 a.m., the sources said.

The new rule would not apply to dial-a-porn services that require a caller to provide a credit card number for billing, on the theory that children under 18 do not have their own credit cards, the sources added.

FCC Chairman Mark S. Fowler, asked about the report, refused Friday to discuss the matter.

The staff recommendation was described as unconstitutional, however, by Jonathan Rosner, an attorney for one well-known dial-a-porn phone service in New York City that is advertised in "High Society" magazine and operated by Carlin Communications.

Several sources at the agency said any such rule might not withstand a court challenge but that the commission had no choice but to issue a regulation under a law signed by President Reagan last December.

That law prohibits the commercial operation of a dial-a-porn service if it is easily accessible to people under 18, and gave the FCC until June 5 to develop regulations that would determine whether a service has been properly restricted to adults and thus may continue to operate.

"First of all, it seems to me that kids are supposed to be in school from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and those hours should be available," said Rosner. "Secondly, how difficult do you think it is for a 14-, 15- or 16-year-old to find out a parent's credit card number?

"More directly, we believe the law itself is unconstitutional and we've already filed suit (in federal court in New York) challenging it," Rosner said. "You know, in New York the legislature just enacted a bill allowing 14-year-old boys to get married, which means you can get married at 14 but you can't listen to these messages until you're 18."

Dial-a-porn is a term used to describe a telephone service in which the caller listens to a tape-recording or an individual simulating sex or using sexually suggestive language.

Although such telephone sex services are now operating in cities across the country, it was the service advertised in "High Society" and begun last year in New York that drew the FCC into a dispute over the legality of dial-a-porn.

The commission dismissed complaints filed against the New York service, finding the law that banned obscene phone calls applied to persons who placed such calls and not to a service where a caller voluntarily dialed the number.

Mrs. Reagan says son urging her to research her roots

ABOARD AIR FORCE ONE (AP) — Nancy Reagan said Friday her son keeps urging her to delve into her own ancestral roots, but for now she's content "flying on the heels" of President Reagan's journey to the land of his forefathers.

"You really can get so involved in the family-tree business," the first lady told reporters en route from Washington to Shannon, Ireland.

Mrs. Reagan said she has never looked into her own ancestry, which she believes includes some English and Welsh. "I really don't know," she said.

The first lady said her son, Ron, who traveled to Ireland last September to write about his heritage, keeps urging her to investigate her own background, but she didn't say whether she intended to take him up on it.

Though Reagan has visited Ireland twice before, he didn't know at those times that his great-grandfather, Michael Regan — which is how the family name once was spelled — hailed from Ballyporeen in County Tipperary.

Mrs. Reagan said she believes the trip to Ballyporeen on Sunday will be a highlight of the 10-day journey.

She said she was aware of plans for protests to dog the president during his three-day stay in Ireland, but "I've also been hearing about people who wanted us to come."

Mrs. Reagan, speaking to reporters shortly after takeoff, said she and her husband had once again tried the anti-jet lag diet which alternates days of light eating with days of regular eating in an effort to acclimate one's body to changes in time zones.

Four schools cleared after acid spill

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Firefighters evacuated "several thousand" people Friday, including pupils from four schools, after hydrochloric acid spilled at a water processing plant.

No injuries were reported, but officials also closed the combined Interstate 215 and Highway 60 nearby as a precaution.

Initially, firefighters feared the acid might mix with a nearby tank of sodium hydroxide — also known as caustic soda — and form a cloud of toxic gas over downtown Riverside.

But a University of Southern California chemistry professor said the two chemicals would not interact to make such a gas.

"Either one can damage your skin or eyes, but neither one is terribly serious. They're the sort of things that students handle in the laboratory," said the professor, who wouldn't give his name. "No, you don't expect any cloud, any gas. There would be neutralization with a little bit of heat. There is minor danger from direct contact with either one."

But by itself, hydrochloric acid slowly gives off a toxic gas, the professor and fire Battalion Chief Gary Anderson said.

"Hydrochloric acid itself will tend to slowly give off gas that is very noxious," the professor said from Los Angeles. "You wouldn't want to go into a room where there's a lot of it spilled. It's an acid gas... It's choking and can be damaging to mucous membranes in your mouth, throat and lungs."

The spill was from a 3,700-gallon tank at the Culligan Deionized Water Services plant, fire officials said, but they weren't immediately sure how many gallons spilled.

John North High School, University Middle School, Highland Elementary School and the Garden School were all evacuated without incident, firefighters said.

The schoolchildren were sent to other schools out of the area, fire Capt. Chris Jensen said, while other residents of the area were sent to a civic center.

Authorities said the spill occurred when a McKesson Chemicals truck delivered hydrochloric acid to a storage tank, which ruptured.

A private company pumped the spilled acid back into the truck, fire officials said.

Surgery opens orphan girl's jaw

BOSTON (AP) — Looking cheerful but a bit confused by the teary-eyed friends who saw her off, a 6-year-old Ecuadoran orphan left for her homeland Friday, a month after surgeons unlocked her fused jaw and gave her the ability to eat, smile and laugh out loud.

Alexandra Balcazar, who was abandoned on the steps of a city hospital when she was barely 6 months old, smiled, waved and said, "Bye, Adios," as she boarded the plane to return her to her orphanage in the capital city of Quito.

The little girl, wearing a frilly white dress and clutching a doll, was accompanied on her return flight by a physical therapist and the doctor who freed her from her rare birth defect.

Dr. Martin Dunn of Brockton's Cardinal Cushing General Hospital said Alexandra is in excellent shape, enjoying her new-found ability to eat solid foods.

Before the operation, Alexandra's jaw was clamped shut and she ate mashed foods through a tiny opening between her two front teeth.

"We feel so badly that she's leaving. We've become very, very good friends," said Dunn, who reconstructed the girl's jaw using one of her ribs. "We're going to miss her."

He said he and therapist Diane Plant are accompanying Alexandra to Ecuador to teach doctors how to help the child exercise the weak and atrophied muscles of her face.

Since the child's story received national attention, at least 300 American families have appealed to Dunn in hopes of adopting Alexandra.

Speech shows Iran may be ready for peace

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — After 44 months of war with Iraq, the speaker of the Iranian parliament gave the first indication Friday that his government would be willing to use dipolomacy to avoid catastrophe in the Persian Gulf.

But in the third warning to the United States in as many days by Iranian leaders, the commanders of the Revolutionary Guard threatened to sabotage U.S. bases throughout the world if America interferes in the gulf.

Iran's Parliament speaker, Hojatoleslam Hashemi Rafsanjani, struck a conciliatory tone when he said in a prayer sermon, "We are not eager to see a catastrophe in the Persian Gulf...and we will strongly refrain from it, but not to the point of jeopradizing the honor and spirit of our revolution."

Arab and Western diplomatic sources in Kuwait and Bahrain said the statement, given in a congregational prayer at Tehran University, was the first indication that Iran might be more receptive to peace overtures.

"As far as it is possible, we will prevent such a catastrophe for humanity from occurring by diplomacy and appropriate talks and meetings," said Rafsanjani, who spoke as a representative of Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

It was the first time since the war began in September 1980 that a high official in Tehran spoke openly of talks, diplomacy and meetings, said one Arab diplomat, who refused to be identified.

However, Rafsanjani insisted that the way to bring peace to the gulf was to get rid of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein, and the foreign minister of Turkey, which has been trying to play a peace-making role between the two countries, said Friday that Iran is not ready for peace.

The Turkish minister, Vahit Halefoglu, told a Washington news conference, "Iran at this moment is not prepared to accept a peace. Iran says that Iraq was the aggressor and the aggressor should be punished."

Iran's ambassador to the United Nations, Said Rajaie Khorassani, rejected as one-sided a Security Council resolution Friday that called for a halt to Iranian attacks on oil tankers using the neutral waters of the Persian Gulf.

Tanker traffic in the gulf was reported to be minimal, with a few vessels sailing to Iran's Kharg Island.

There have been no reports of Iranian attacks on tankers in the gulf since May 24. But Iran had previously sent its warplanes against Kuwaiti, Saudi and Liberian ships in Saudi and neutral waters.

Iraq has attacked the ships of other nations when they approached Iran's harbors and oil terminal, and the Security Council resolution, requested by six Arab gulf states, was not addressed to Iraq.

The commanders of the Iranian Revolutionary Guard issued their warning to the United States at the end of a meeting in Bandar Abbas near the Strait of Hormuz, which the Reagan administration says it will insist on keeping open to international traffic.

"We hereby warn the arch-Satan, the criminal United States of America and its collaborators, that should the Americans intervene in the Persian Gulf, their bases throughout the world would be subjected to attack by Islam's soldiery," the guards said in an Iran state radio broadcast monitored in Bahrain.

The Revolutionary Guards, a paramilitary force of civilian volunteers, are the strongest supporters of Iranian religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in his so-called "sacred war" against Iraq.

Two jets crash; Pilots eject

The Associated Press

Two U.S. Air Force F-4 Phantom jets crashed Friday near the North Sea coast of West Germany after apparently colliding, but all four pilots ejected safely, authorities said.

The jets were en route from George Air Force Base in California to the West German airbase at Jever to participate with 22 other Phantoms in month-long NATO exercises which began Friday, said Air Force spokesman Joe Carter.

The Phantoms went down around noon in a marshy area near Emden, West Germany, about nine miles from the North Sea coast, said Carter.

"They crashed in an open field and as far as I know they didn't hit anything else," Carter said.

He said the cause of the crash was under investigation and there was no confirmation that they had collided, although West German authorities said it appeared they had.

The pilots, whose identities were not released, were taken to a hospital where preliminary examinations disclosed no serious injuries, according to Wilhelm Goebel, spokesman for West Germany's air force.

Pilots also bailed out safely Friday when a French Mirage jet fighter crashed near a residential area on the French-West German border and an AMX prototype fighter plane crashed near Turin, Italy.

Jewish population down in Germany, figures show

FRANKFURT, West Germany (AP) The number of Jews in West Germany decreased by 411 last year, bringing the population down to 27,791, the Center for Jewish Welfare reported Friday.

The largest Jewish community — 6,370 in West Berlin — showed a decrease of 297 between Jan. 1, 1983 and Jan. 1, 1984, according to the Frankfurt-based organization. Bavaria had the second-largest community, with 5,460 Jews recorded.

The figures are compiled from statistics provided by local Jewish communities on births, deaths, emigration and immigration. The Frankfurt center is an umbrella organization for the local groups, spokeswoman Eviva Goldschmidt said.

Ms. Goldschmidt told The Associated Press in a telephone interview that the country's Jewish population has fluctuated only slightly in recent years.

AIDS deaths reported

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Eleven new cases of AIDS have occurred in Great Britain since the first of the year and seven people have died, the World Health Organization reported on Friday.

A total of 23 people have died of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome since Great Britain began compiling figures in January 1982, and there are 42 active cases in the country now, the World Health Organization said.

Of the 42 cases in Britain, 35 are homosexual or bisexual men, including one who also used drugs, two are heterosexual men with unknown risk factors such as drug use, two are hemophiliacs and three are females.

Pope urges leprosy study

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II urged increased research Friday to find a cure for millions of lepers who are "still condemned to a sort of civil death."

Addressing 25 scientists in a Vatican audience, the pontiff said governments, international institutions and philanthropic associations should make more contributions to those who are working "to knock down the barrier separating the untouchables from the human community.

"For the sake of these people, efforts must be everywhere increased to ensure that those who are still condemned to a sort of civil death can rediscover life, improve its quality, and find in society a place corresponding to their human dignity ...," the pope said.

M-Cubs home for Gators

BY TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Midland's Cubs, seeking to generate momentum for the second half Texas League race, return to Cubs Stadium tonight to open a six-game series against the Beaumont Golden Gators. For the remainder of the season single games will start at 7:30 p.m. instead of 7 p.m., in vogue for the first two months of the season.

Midland is mathematically eliminated from the first half, but a new race begins June 21 and every one will be starting from scratch.

Midland is coming off a 5-7 swing through the East Division, taking the series from Arkansas at Little Rock and losing five out of seven at Tulsa where the Bruins ran into strong pitching.

The Drillers blanked Midland in both ends of a doubleheader, one of the wins a no-hitter, and in three other games at Tulsa the Cubs were held to one run.

In the 10 games between Beaumont and Midland, the San Diego Padres' farmhands are 7-3 against Midland, sweeping the series at Beaumont while Midland won the Cubs Stadium series, 3-2.

Despite Midland's 16-34 won-lost record, there are some bright spots. First baseman Jeff Jones leads the team in hitting with a .354 average and also is the pacesetter in rbi with 37. Jones, signed after being released by the Cincinnati Reds this spring, has 10 dubles and seven homers.

Ricky Baker owns a .329 average, the only other Cub over .300 while Danny Norman is hitting a solid .290 and leads the team with nine homers and 12 doubles and is second in rbi with 35.

Shortstop Shawon Dunston has a .285 average, although hampered off and on by nagging injuries.

Second baseman Gene Varsho is hitting only .239, but his hits are coming in the clutch. His 26 rbi are third best on the club.

Midland also has some impressive earned-run-averages with Ray Soff's 1.27 with a 2-0 record leading the way. Soff was a reliever last year, but this year has been starting, when he hasn't been on the Disabled List. Joe Housey is 2.93 with a 4-2-0 while relief pitcher Jorge Carpio is 4-2-0 with a 2.93 and John Huey has a 3.39 ERA out of the bullpen.

Bramble takes title from Mancini in 14th

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Livingstone Bramble unleashed a savage barrage of punches and stopped Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini in the 14th round Friday night to win the World Boxing Association lightweight championship.

It was the second upset of the night. In the first of two title fights, Gene Hatcher needing a knockout to win, stopped Johnny Bumphus at 2:35 of the 11th round to become the WBA junior welterweight champion.

Mancini opened strong and in control for the first six rounds of the fight, but then Bramble, who raised pit bull terriers and fought like one, took the play away and battered Mancini over the last eight rounds before it was stopped at 53 seconds of the 14th round.

Mancini was ahead on two of the three official cards when the end came. But he was helpless and taking a beating along the ropes when referee Morton Denkin jumped in and stopped it.

Texas, Michigan post victories

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Darren Loy scored two runs and knocked two more in to lead defending champion Texas to a 6-3 victory over New Orleans in the opening game of the 1984 NCAA College World Series of baseball.

Loy scored the Longhorn's first run in the second, hit a solo home run in the fourth and singled home Doug Hodo to stake Texas to a 4-0 lead in the sixth inning Friday night.

Texas, ranked fourth with a 58-12 record, added two more in the seventh when Steve Labay led off with a double and scored on a single by Hodo. Rusty Richards also singled home a Texas run.

New Orleans, ranked sixth with a 45-25 mark, picked up three runs in the eighth when Longhorn pitcher Greg Swindel gave up a leadoff homer to James Bullinger and walked pinch hitter Stuart Weidie.

Eric Boudreaux came on in relief, but gave up consecutive singles to Scott Raziano, Mark Higgins and Pat Cummings before Labay came in to end the rally and preserve the win.

Texas advances to Monday night's winners' bracket contest against the winner of the Michigan-Cal State-Fullerton contest from Friday night.

New Orleans will face the Michigan-Cal State-Fullerton loser in a Sunday elimination game.

College Series

Fishel collected three hits and scored the winning run on a sacrifice bunt as third-ranked Cal State-Fullerton battled from behind to spill No. 8 Michigan 8-4 in first-round NCAA College World Series of baseball action.

Fishel's double in the bottom of the eighth Friday night in Omaha sparked a five-run inning capped by Larkin's three-run double to earn the Titans a spot opposite Texas in Monday night's winners' bracket contest.

Texas, 58-12 and fourth ranked, earlier downed New Orleans 6-3. Michigan meets 45-25 New Orleans Sunday at 4:10 p.m. in an elimination game.

Michigan, 43-19, led 3-1 heading into the bottom of the sixth when Fishel sliced a homer, his 15th of the season, over the right field fence.

Michigan added another run in the seventh, which Cal State-Fullerton matched in its half of the inning on Larker's squeeze bunt to score Kirk Bates.

Then the 62-19 Titans put together the big inning to erase memories of a 1982 College World Series appearance, in which the Fullerton team failed to score a run in two tournament games.

Scott Wright, 6-1, picked up the win in relief for Cal State-Fullerton. Gary Wayne, 8-3, took the loss for the 43-19 Wolverines.

ABC, CBS would retain TV rights

DALLAS (AP) — ABC and CBS would retain telecast rights for college football games next season under a contingency plan unveiled Friday at the opening of the annual meeting of the College Football Association.

Delegates from the 60 CFA schools spent most of the day considering two similar national television plans, one put together by a committee from the CFA and another hammered out by a group of CFA officials and representatives from the Big Ten and Pac-10 conferences. Those two conferences are the only major college football leagues that do not hold CFA membership. But both sides reached a tenuous agreement to put aside their differences and work together in a television plan in case the U.S. Supreme Court rules that the NCAA's controls of college football television rights is illegal.

The court's decision is expected this summer. If the ruling of two lower courts is upheld, the NCAA's contract with ABC and CBS totaling $140.5 million the next two years would be thrown out and every school and conference would be free to wheel and deal their own football television rights. All schools agree that some restrictions are necessary, but there are sharp differeces on what kind of restrictions are needed.

Delegates will break into separate groups of athletic directors, coaches and faculty representatives on Saturday for further discussions closed to the media. The two plans are not competing.

CFA Convention

"It is entirely possible the NCAA contracts will be held valid," Dan Gibbens, faculty representative from Oklahoma and chairman of the CFA television committee, told the convention.

"We need to have a CFA plan unless the other doesn't go," said Gibbens. Schools will not have to commit to one plan or another until later this summer. Adding to the uncertainty is the possibility the NCAA will win the case, brought by Oklahoma and Georgia almost three years ago.

"At some point in time, a whole bunch of people are going to have to agree on what they're going to do," said Gene Corrigan, Notre Dame athletic director and chairman of the 12-man group that worked out the CFA-Big Ten-Pac-10 concept. The group elected to call itself the "Football Television Planning Committee," and even its name was questioned from the floor.

"It was thought at first that we would be called a coalition," explained Gibbens. "But the word 'coalition' sounds like we're coming together with the Big Ten and the Pac-10. We're not coming together. We're just creating a national television marketing package."

Both plans would reserve the period from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. for network games. That would leave the evening and morning time slots for an "open window" period, when schools and or conferences could telecast their games individually.

ABC and CBS would continue to share the network appearances as they have done the past two years under the NCAA pact. Both the CFA and FTPC plans would contribute a percentage of the television revenue to the NCAA "to assist in underwriting such services as enforcement, football promotion including the statistical service and post-graduate scholarships."

All rights fees would be open to negotiation.

Corrigan, in explaining the FTPC approach, noted the deep divisions that exist among many schools and among CFA and NCAA loyalists. He said many CFA schools would prefer to have the NCAA continue administering football television rights while others "would not want the NCAA to have a hand on it."

"But in the best interests of major college football, the best thing to do is to stay together," said Corrigan. "We've heard that from the networks. We've heard it from everybody. This is our chance to try to stay together."

Tiger homers bury Orioles

Braves sweep Reds; Cubs romp

By The Associated Press

Alan Trammell, Chet Lemon and Lance Parrish hit home runs to back the combined seven-hit pitching of Dan Petry and Doug Bair as the Detroit Tigers bombed the Baltimore Orioles 14-2 Friday night in the opening game of their weekend showdown.

Trammell's seventh homer of the year keyed a six-run second inning, Lemon's 10th of the season drove in three runs in the third and Parrish's ninth highlighted a three-run fourth.

PETRY, 8-2, scattered three hits in six innings, walking one and striking out one, before Bair took over.He gave up John Lowenstein's two-run homer in the seventh. Scott McGregor, 6-4, lasted only 1 2-3 innings for Baltimore, giving up six runs on five hits as the Tigers ended his personal five-game winning streak and the Orioles' five-game winning string.

The victory improved the Tigers' major league-leading record to 38-9, opened an 11½-game lead over the third-place Orioles and kept them 5½ in front of second-place Toronto in the American League East. The game was the first of 14 the Tigers will play against the Orioles and Blue Jays in 13 days.

"This game was important because I think we'd like to win each series," Trammell said. "But even if we got beat, we still wouldn't feel out of it. The fans seem to put more importance on this series than we do. It's still too early to be a pennant race."

Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken echoed Trammell's comments."We know we're not going to make up 10½ games overnight," Ripken said. "It's a long season. We lost tonight. We'll just have to bounce back and beat them tomorrow. We've still got over 100 ballgames."

IN TORONTO, Cliff Johnson and Willie Upshaw slugged two-run homers to lead a 15-hit attack and Doyle Alexander scattered five New York hits in eight innings as the Blue Jays routed the Yankees 10-2. The Blue Jays jumped on Ray Fontenot for four runs in the first inning, then put the game away with a five-run fourth.

Elsewhere in the AL, Harold Baines, Vance Law and Greg Walker hit two-run homers, Walker's breaking a sixth-inning tie, to power the Chicago White Sox to a 6-4 victory over the visiting Oakland A's.

In Milwaukee, Mike Easler's two-run triple sparked a three-run fourth inning and Bruce Hurst pitched a five-hitter to lead Boston to a 3-1 victory over the Brewers.

Ken Phelps hit his sixth homer of the season in the top of the eighth inning, a tie-breaking shot that helped boost Seattle to a 5-3 victory over Texas.

In Minneapolis, Willie Wilson hit his 13th career inside-the-park home run and Charlie Leibrandt scattered six hits over eight innings in his first AL game as the Kansas City Royals downed Minnesota 7-1. And in Cleveland, Mike Brown and Bob Boone each drove in two runs as California beat the Indians 5-2.

IN THE National League, Ryne Sandberg hit two homers and a single as the Chicago Cubs routed Philadelphia 12-3 and moved back into first place in the East, one-half game ahead of the Phillies.

In New York, Tito Landrum's pinch-single broke a 1-1 tie and Andy Van Slyke added a two-run single to highlight a four-run ninth as St. Louis defeated the Mets 5-1.

Pittsburgh relief pitcher Rod Scurry wild-pitched home Montreal's first run in the top of the ninth inning and muffed a throw from catcher Tony Pena to let the second one as the Expos won 2-0.

In a double-header in Cincinnati, Rafael Ramirez bunted home Atlanta's tie-breaking run in the fifth inning and Jerry Royster doubled for another run in the inning as the Braves won 4-2, then Alex Trevino's bases-loaded double highlighted a five-run seventh that powered Atlanta to a 7-3 victory for the sweep.

In two late NL games it was Houston at Los Angeles and San Diego at San Francisco.

White, Hogeboom...tough decision

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN

DALLAS — Tom Landry stopped between appearances at charity golf tournaments and campaigning for President Reagan the other day to discuss the 1984 Dallas Cowboys.

Now that the National Football League draft and quarterback school are over, Landry has a brief breather before what promises to be one of the most interesting training camps in Cowboy history in July.

Landry was as affable as always, having just captained his team to the championship of the Larry Gatlin charity tournament at Las Colinas.

"I didn't even know we had won until the next day," he said. "I couldn't hang around because I had a speech to make."

LANDRY TALKED candidly about his Cowboys, saying, "Our goals are not quite as lofty this year. Our goal is to build a stronger program. Last year, it was winning the Super Bowl."

After a 12-2 start, the Cowboys faded in the stretch, with the Washington Redskins again making it back to the Super Bowl.

Landry said he isn't certain what sort of tempo he will set for camp.

"I'll vary it this year," he said. "I'm going to watch and see what will happen. We certainly must perform better."

And that goes for the all-important quarterback position, which will be a battle between incumbent Danny White and challenger Gary Hogeboom.

"Who starts at quarterback could become too big of an issue," Landry said. "White performed very well at quarterback last year, but stats don't always say how things are. We have two good quarterbacks and that makes it good."

Then Landry touched upon a danger point:

"I'm afraid a lot of people are second guessing and taking sides," he said. "If our players continue to do that, we won't have a championship football team."

LANDRY'S credo is for his players to cool it or pay the consequences.

"Players on our team shouldn't say one guy is better than another," Landry said. "It's a situation that has to correct itself."

There's only one person who is going to make the decision who starts at quarterback for the Cowboys and the rest of the club has to live with it.

Landry said it was easy when he picked Roger Staubach to succeed Craig Morton as the Cowboys' No. 1 quarterback.

"That was not a tough decision," Landry said. "This one is a tough decision.

"We have a great challenge this year and I think our players feel it," he said. "We certainly won't be picked by many people. We have failed to make it to the last three Super Bowls. The oddsmakers would have to go nuts to pick us."

Washington should be a role model for all to follow, the coach said.

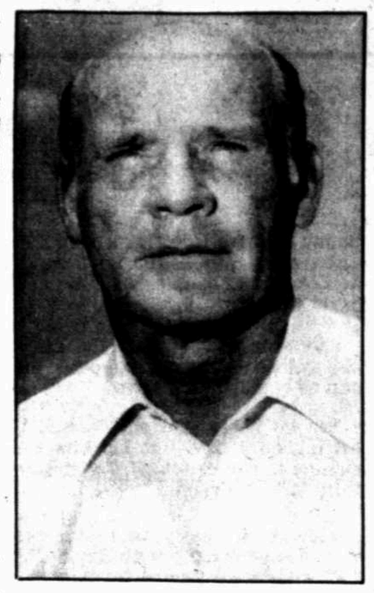

"If you learn one thing from Washington, you learn that you can win with what you got," he said. "The Redskins played hard together. They didn't have some of the talent other teams have. They proved you can win without dominant personnel."

The message is clear: Dallas has had better talent than Washington, but doesn't have the togetherness of the 'Skins.

Landry plans to change all that soon.

And he may or not change quarterbacks.

He's expecting his players to back any decision 100 percent or spend another January watching the Super Bowl on television.

Notre Dame, OU, E.Carolina closing ranks

DALLAS (AP) — College football's elite are closing ranks...Oklahoma...Notre Dame...East Carolina...

Yes, the Pirates of Greenville, N. C., may be on the verge of joining one of the most exclusive fraternities in athletics, the College Football Association.

Since its founding in 1975, the CFA's membership has remained almost steady at 60, including every major football conference and independent except the Big Ten and Pac-10. But during their annual convention in Dallas this weekend, the 60 CFA schools are expected to approve the admission of three new members, schools which do not usually come to mind when the discussion turns to big-time college football — Cincinnati, Louisville and East Carolina.

REPRESENTATIVES from all three schools arrived in Dallas early.

"I believe it's always a good idea to present your position when you can, in a graceful manner," Ken Karr, athletic director at East Carolina, said in an interview. "But I also believe our bid for application is on a solid foundation."

Admitting the three new members is certain to draw jeers from those who have opposed the CFA, including the powerful and prestigious Big Ten and Pac-10 conferences.

Some question how can the CFA say it speaks for the big-time football powers when the CFA includes Louisville, Rice and Kansas State, but not Southern California and Ohio State? Just two years ago, Cincinnati was in danger of being kicked out of the NCAA's top football division for failing to meet the minimum average attendance requirement of 17,000.

OTHERS HAVE pointed out that Tulsa and San Jose State, to name two, are schools with more successful football programs than many CFA members but they are not being welcomed into membership.

"We've been aggressively upgrading our football for several years, since the administration made a commitment to do that," said Karr, who was previously athletic director at San Diego State. "We have a stadium that seats about 35,000 and we plan to add about 10,000 or 12,000 seats by 1987. We're adding two games with Penn State and one with LSU for the 1985 and '86 seasons. So I believe it's obvious the direction we are taking with our football program."

EAST CAROLINA, a liberal arts institution with an enrollment of about 13,000, dropped out of the Southern Conference in 1977 and made a commitment to go big time. The first real signs of progress did not come until after 1980, when Karr was named director of athletics. Last year, in the most glorious season in their history, the Pirates went 8-3, finishing No. 20 in the Associated Press Top Twenty while guard Terry Long was named first team All-America.

"I find it difficult to visualize a team in the Top Twenty meeting the criteria for admission and not being accepted to the group," said Karr.

Who's afraid?

UCLA gymnast Mark Caso, who suffered a broken neck trying to make the 1980 Olympic team, says he has a routine for dealing with his fears. "I write little messages in my sneakers," says the 23-year-old senior who is now one of 18 gymnasts who will compete for seven positions on this year's U.S. team in trials at Jacksonville, Fla.

Larry, Gerry sign for fight

From wire reports

BOXING— Heavyweights Larry Holmes and Gerry Coetzee signed letters of intent for a fight Aug. 17 at Las Vegas, Nev., promoter Bob Arum said. "These are no formal contracts, but we hope finalize everything next week... They'll be fighting for Holmes' International Boxing Federation title. Coetzee is giving up his World Boxing Association title so King won't have any ties to him."...

Mexico's Gabriel Bernal retained his WBC flyweight title Friday when he stopped France's Antoine Montero halfway through the 11th round at Nimes, France. Bernal had Montero in serious trouble when he pinned him in a corner at the end of the 10th round, when according to ring doctors, the challenger's jaw was fractured...

BASEBALL— A pending grievance hearing involving Steve Howe has been settled and the Los Angeles Dodgers' relief pitcher will sit out the remainder of the season while undergoing drug rehabilitation, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced. Howe was suspended by Kuhn for one year on Dec. 15, 1983 for repeated drug involvement, and a grievance hearing challenging Kuhn's ruling had been scheduled for Tuesday in Los Angeles. "With all parties agreeing that he should concentrate for the present on rehabilitation and recovery rather than baseball" all issues related to the grievance have been settled, Kuhn's statement said...

The Texas Rangers recalled catcher Donnie Scott from Oklahoma City and requested waivers on veteran relief pitcher Jim Bibby. The Rangers also purchased the contract of veteran right-handed relief pitcher Joey McLaughlin from Oklahoma City and optioned southpaw reliever Ricky Wright to the 89ers. In 46 games at OC, Scott had 54 hits in 167 times at bat, including 15 doubles, two triples and three home runs...

BASKETBALL—The Women's American Basketball Association has signed an signed an agreement with Satellite Program Network to televise 12 regular-season games this year and the all-star game on Christmas. The first game televised by the Tulsa, Oklahoma-based network will be the Sept. 30 contest with Columbus hosting Dallas. Others teams in the league are New York, New Jersey, Baltimore, Boston, New Orleans, Chicago, Atlanta and Houston...

OLYMPICS— Ethiopia's national Olympic committee announced it will not send a team to the Los Angeles Olympics, the Soviet news agency Tass reported. Ethiopia, Moscow's strongest African ally, becomes the 12th country to join the Kremlin in officially refusing to attend the Summer Games...

AUTO RACING— Driver Jacques Villeneuve has been told he can't compete in a this weekend in Milwaukee because he hasn't fully recovered from a severe concussion he suffered in a spectacular crash while practicing for the Indianapolis 500. Villeneuve underwent an electroencephalogram test on Thursday which showed he had edema, a swelling of brain tissue caused by fluid buildup. Neurologist Dr. Andre Bellavance said Villeneuve also suffered from occasional dizziness and drowsiness...

Cruz, Conley seek doubles

AP Laserphoto

Oregon's John Zishka, left, goes by Washington State's Peter Koech to win the 5,000 meter run in NCAA meet at Eugene, Ore.

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Oregon's Joaquim Cruz, Arkansas' Mike Conley and Florida State's Randy Givens all successfully began their quests for individual doubles in the NCAA Outdoor Track and Field Championships Friday night.

The bullish Cruz, whose physique and running style resembles that of Cuba's Alberto Juantorena, the 1976 400-meter and 800-meter gold medalist, won the men's 800-meter race for the second straight year.

After letting Alabama's William Wuyke set the pace for the first 500 meters on the windy Hayward Field track, the irrepressible Cruz burst to the front.

He quickly opened a commanding lead of about eight meters, then coasted to victory in 1 minute, 45.10 seconds.

Down the final straightaway, he looked over his right shoulder five times, glancing back at his cloesst pursuer, Earl Jones of Eastern Michigan, who was fruitlessly chasing him.

"I thought the only thing I had to do was stay behind him (Wuyke) and let him set the pace," said Cruz. "But just after the 400, I noticed he slowed down just a bit, so I had to take the lead."

Jones finished second in 1:45.79, Pete Richardson of Arizona State was third in 1:47.64 and Wuyke fourth in 1:47.68.

CRUZ will try and complete his distance double today in the 1,500, in which he is the favorite. The Brazilian also is considered a strong contender in both the 800 and the 1,500 in the Summer Olympic Games at Los Angeles.

Conley, the bronze medalist in the long jump at the World Track and Field Championships last year and the NCAA indoor champion, added the outdoor collegiate title with a wind-aided leap of 27 feet, one-quarter inch.

The junior from Chicago was very consistent, clearing at least 26-6¼ on each of his first four attempts, before fouling on his last two tries.

Conley, fourth in the triple jump at the World Championships and the NCAA indoor champion in that event, too, will go for the outdoor title today.

The slightly built but swift Givens led a 1-2-4 Florida State finish in the women's 100-meter dash.

Overcoming teammate Brenda Cliette with about 30 meters remaining, the smooth-striding Givens was timed in a wind-aided 11.06.

Cliette wound up second in 11.14, and her teammate, freshman Michelle Finn, was fourth in 11.20.

NCAA Track

Breaking up the Florida State domination was Houston's Jackie Washington, third in 11.17.

The 1-2-4 finish gave favored Florida State 36 points in its bid to win the team title.

Meanwhile, Cathy Branta of Wisconsin set an NCAA meet record in winning the women's 3,000 in 8:59.57. The previous mark of 9:03.51 was set last year by Stanford's Alison Wiley, who finished eighth this time.

Iowa State's Nawal El Moutawakil, the collegiate record holder, broke the NCAA meet record and the Hayward Field record in winning the women's 400-meter intermediate hurdles in 55.84.

GEORGIA'S men's 400-meter relay team of Neal Jessie, Sam Palmer, Stanley Blalock and Lester Benjamin cracked the Hayward Field record in outlegging Baylor in 39.38. Sothern California had set the mark of 39.4 in 1972.

Baylor finished second in 39.47, edging Arizona, third in 39.51.

Earlier, colorful Matt Mileham of Fresno State, the collegiate record holder, won the hammer throw title with a toss of 241 feet, 11 inches.

Fuming McEnroe beats Purcell

PARIS (AP) — John McEnroe, angered by the court, the crowd and the cameramen, was warned and penalized Friday before overcoming fellow American Mel Purcell in the third round of the French Open tennis championships.

McEnroe won 6-4, 6-4, 6-1 in just under two hours, and often played dazzling tennis. But his fine display of shotmaking was offset by repeated complaints about conditions on court No. 1 at Roland Garros.

Because the start of play was delayed three hours due to rain, Jimmy Connors' third-round match was postponed 24 hours. The No. 3 seed will now play Martin Jaite of Argentina today.

But fifth-seeded Jimmy Arias did get on court, saved two set points in the opening stanza and went on to beat Claudio Panatta of Italy in straight sets to join McEnroe in the final 16.

MARTINA NAVARTILOVA and Hana Mandlikova reached the same stage in the women's competition at the expense of French opponents.

Navratilova, the top seed and tournament favorite, defeated Marie-Christine Calleja 6-3, 6-1, while Mandlikova, seeded No. 3., fought off a brave challenge from Catherine Tanvier to win 6-3, 7-5.

Three more women's seeds reached the fourth round: No. 6 Zina Garrison of Houston, No. 8 Kathy Horvath of Largo, Fla., and No. 14 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany. And West Germany's Petra Keppeler, a qualifier, moved into the round of 16 with a 6-1, 6-4 victory over Elena Elissenko of the Soviet Union.

McEnroe, who has never gotten beyond the quarterfinals here, was in a tempestuous mood in his match against Purcell, shouting at the crowd — only a few feet away from the players on the cramped court — hollering at the photographers and arguing with the officials.

After complaining about several bad bounces, he refused to continue midway through the opening set until the court was overhauled. Four groundsmen came on with their brooms to brush away uneven sections of the red clay court.

When they had finished, McEnroe again declined to continue to play until the balls were changed. Umpire Claude Richard obliged, but he was overruled by the supervisor, who said it was not time for a ball change.

French Open

Out came the old balls, and after another heated exchange between McEnroe and the officials, play got underway after a 30-minute delay.

McEnroe went on to take the set, but was soon letting off steam again.

Richard had asked the cameramen behind McEnroe not to take photographs while the 25-year-old New Yorker was serving. But McEnroe, who doesn't understand French, exclaimed, "This is a disgraceful exhibition of humanity," and was given a warning for delay of game when he again asked Richard to talk to the cameramen.

Late in the second set, the tournament favorite and No. 1 seed broke for a 5-4 lead. But, just as he was about to serve for the set, there was more trouble.

MCENROE asked for the supervisor after another outburst over the state of the court and the photographers, but was handed a penalty point for delay of game.

That put him 0-15 behind, but he served and volleyed his way out of trouble and took the set despite the whistling and jeering of an impatient French crowd.

In the third set, he broke Purcell twice for a 4-1 lead, yet still had time to yell, "I can't concentrate in this zoo," and have another swipe at the photographers before moving into the final 16.

McEnroe, Purcell and chief supervisor Ken Farrar all agreed the court was poor.

Farrar said he thought McEnroe had "a legitimate gripe about the condition of the court, but it was playable in my opinion."

The two players both described Court One as unplayable.

"I think it's the worst I have ever played on . . . It wasn't even level — forget about the 50 holes that were all around there," McEnroe said. "This is supposed to be a Grand Slam event, but I have never played on such a bad court."

On his numerous outbursts over the photographers, McEnroe said: "It's the only place in the world where they have cameramen behind the lines.

"You ask them to stop and they say, 'Yes,' but keep taking your picture. They are the most inconsiderate people in the world. Today was an absolute disgrace."

Purcell complained of "big chunks in the clay" and said of McEnroe's behavior: "He's such a perfectionist, anything will bother him. That's just Mac. It's what people want to see — see him complain. I think it's kind of funny usually, but today I didn't."

But he paid tribute to McEnroe's play.

"I would hit these great shots and he would return with drop volleys. It just makes you sick. He's so good, so intimidating."

Feds booked on drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Federals defensive back Mike Guess and wide receiver Ricky Simmons, both arrested Thursday on charges of possessing marijuana and cocaine, will remain on the active roster pending a final examination of the incident, the United States Football League team said Friday.

"By no means does this mean the club condones the use of drugs but you have to listen to the full story and act accordingly," said Federals General Manager Dick Myers following a two-hour meeting with the players Friday afternoon.

An investigation by the team and league security officials is continuing, Myers added.

The two players were arrested Thursday evening by U.S. Park Police plainclothes officers at Hains Point, a public park some three miles from the team's training facility at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium.

Betsy King sets pace in LPGA

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Betsy King, bidding to become the first three-time winner in women's professional golf this year, parlayed her best putting round of 1984 into a 5-under-par 67 Friday and the midway lead in the LPGA Championship.

King, 28, needed just 22 putts on the Nicklaus Golf Center's Grizzly greens, leading her to a 36-hole total of 139, five strokes better than par in this major tournament.

The member of Furman's 1976 national college champions, second in money-winnings and third in stroke average this year, led defending champion Patty Sheehan by two strokes going into the third round today.

Sheehan shot 70 for a 141 total and said, "I don't think anybody is going to tear this course up. I feel calm, confident and blase. I like my attitude," she said.

Another stroke back, tied for third place at 142, were Alice Ritzman, non-winner Robin Walton and rookie Amy Benz. Ritzman and Walton posted 69s. Benz matched par of 72.

Then, at 143, came two-time U.S. Open champion Hollis Stacy, Pat Bradley and Japan's Ayako Okamoto, first and third in 1984 earnings; and Hall of Famer Sandra Haynie.

JoAnne Carner was 11 strokes behind in her quest to win a second successive LPGA tournament and collect a $500,000 bonus. If the 45-year-old veteran should win here and the next tournament in Malvern, Pa., she would qualify for a $1.5 bonus, posted by the three tournament sponsors.

Carner, no lower than sixth in this major in the last six years, shot 76 for a 150 total.

King was surprised over her putting round, at least five strokes better than any of her 1984 performances. "I had a putting lesson Tuesday and I haven't felt comfortable over the ball since. I feel like I am pushing every putt," she said.

King, the winner in Hawaii and Orlando earlier this season, strung together six birdies to offset a single bogey. She also saved three pars with 1-putt greens.

King has missed only one of the 15 LPGA tournaments this year. "I'm a little tired, but I have a high tolerance level. I can practice a lot. So I stay fresh. Others get overplayed. I don't burn out so easily," she said.

Top tracksters run at Turin

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Some of the world's best track and field athletes, who will not compete in Los Angeles because of their countries' decision to boycott the Olympic Games, make their seasonal debut in a major outdoor meet in this northern city Saturday and Sunday.

Among those competing in the two-day men's event are athletes from Italy, the Soviet Union, Poland, Hungary and Cuba, including 10 Olympic champions and five world champions.

For the Italian athletes, the events will also serve as qualifying rounds for the Olympics.

The four Communist countries are among the 14 pro-Soviet countries, which have decided to boycott the summer Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

Howard wins at RHCC

From Staff Reports

Glenda Howard posted a two-day net score of 133 this week to win the Ranchland Hills Country Club's annual Women's Golf Association handicap golf championship.

Following Howard in order of finish were Betty Howell, Betty Clarke, Martha Floyd, Phyllis Maxwell and Sylvia Alvarado.

Howard also won the closest to the pin competition while Clarke won low gross honors over the two days with rounds of 85 and 82. Clarke also won the Division A long drive contest. Frances Huggins won the Division B long driving competition.

Clarke and Mary Robinson tied for low putts and Jo Dickson won the chipping contest.

Correction

In Wednesday's Midland Reporter-Telegram story on Rebels signing college scholarships, Midland Lee linebacker Michael Johnson was erroneously refered to as Charles Johnson.

Norman leads Kemper by four strokes on 68

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Greg Norman, the Australian import who has come to be known as "the Great White Shark," used his awesome length off the tee to advantage in compiling another 4-under-par 68 and moving out to a four-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $400,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

"I'm playing very well," said Norman, who collected 29 titles in a globe-trotting career before settling in the United States.

"But there's 36 holes left. I've got to forget about a good, nice, comfortable lead, and go out and shoot as low a score as I possibly can over the last 36 holes."

Outlaws face Blitz

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The Oklahoma Outlaws are trying to find the reasons for the team's six straight losses as they prepare for today's USFL game with the Chicago Blitz.

"There are several reasons why we were winning games earlier that we're not winning now," said Outlaws Coach Woody Widenhofer. "We were coming off a tough pre-season camp, our players were hungry and didn't know how good they were. We won two or three games we probably shouldn't have."

Chicago has won four of its last eight games, including a 29-17 upset at Denver two weeks ago.

Dollar plunges over Latin America debts

NEW YORK (AP) — The dollar plunged Friday amid jitters over huge Latin American debts held by U.S. banks and expectations that the loan problems would hold down American interest rates.

Meanwhile, the dollar's plight and falling interest rates propelled gold prices to two-month highs.

Trading activity picked up from Thursday, when many major European markets were closed in observance of Ascension Day.

By day's end, the dollar had dropped nearly 1½ cents from Thursday's late rate against the British pound, and had fallen 4 West German pfennigs and more than 11 French centimes. There are 100 pfennigs in a mark and 100 centimes in a franc.

"The dollar lost its steam," said David Arbesman, a first vice president at Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. in New York. "The sentiment is now bearish for the dollar."

Currency dealers at home and abroad said traders are worried about the impact of huge loans to Latin American countries by U.S. banks.

On Wednesday, Bolivia temporarily suspended its debt payments to foreign banks. On Friday, Argentina's economics minister said other Latin American nations may be obliged to follow Bolivia's example.

In addition, currency dealers attributed the dollar's decline partly to a slide in U.S. interest rates, something that would make returns less attractive on dollar-denominated investments.

The dollar began the trading day by slipping to 231.45 Japanese yen in Tokyo from 231.63 yen Thursday. But the dollar was up from last Friday's 231 yen.

Later in London, the dollar dropped to 230.00 yen. And by day's end in the United States, the dollar stood at 229.95 yen, against 231.475 yen Thursday.

Answer to today's Crossword Puzzle

Celts-Lakers exciting, but

NBA Playoffs

BOSTON (AP) — It was a finish filled with heart-pounding thrills worthy of a championship series. But it was lacking in championship-caliber basketball.

Helped by four Los Angles Laker mistakes, Boston survived its own errors to erase deficits in the last 20 seconds of the fourth quarter and overtime and make Friday's flight to Los Angeles "a little easier," said Celtic hero Scott Wedman.

Boston's 124-121 victory here Thursday night evened the best-of-seven final round, 1-1, with Games 3 and 4 in Los Angeles Sunday and Wednesday night.

The major miscues began with 20 seconds left in regulation time and the Lakers leading 113-111. At that point, Kevin McHale missed two free throws for Boston, which had squandered a 13-point first-half lead.

"You want to help the guy and say 'it's all right,' but really, you feel, 'Charlie Brown, you blockhead,' " said Celtic forward Cedric Maxwell.

After a timeout, the Lakers' James Worthy marred a game-high 29-point performance when he lofted a poor crosscourt pass. It was picked off dramatically by Gerald Henderson, who streaked in for a game-tying layup.

"I never thought we'd turn it over," said Los Angeles' floor leader Earvin "Magic" Johnson. "We let it slip out of our hands. But we'll be back Sunday."

The Lakers' second mistake came when Johnson, facing a strong defensive effort, dribbled the ball too long and they were unable to get off a shot before the buzzer.

In overtime, Wedman's jumper from the left baseline put Boston on top 122-121 with 14 seconds to play. The ball then went to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had it slapped away by Boston center Robert Parish. But the Celtics lost that opportunity when it went out of bounds off Larry Bird with eight seconds to go.

The next time, the ball went to Bob McAdoo. Again, the Lakers couldn't hold on as Parish knocked it loose. Bird picked it up, was fouled, and made two free throws to end the scoring and finish with a team-high 27 points.

A.C.A. is an anonymous fellowship of adult children of alcoholics, (although all are welcome). Many of us grew up in alcoholic homes or are at the present time faced with dealing with the consequences of this disease in a parent, relative or friend. In this fellowship we have come to understand that alcoholism is an illness which we did not cause, cannot cure and cannot control. We have found by sharing our experience, strength and hope and by following the 12 suggested steps of AA we can live our lives in a more meaningful manner and can change our attitudes, old patterns and habits to find serenity, even happiness. Adult Children of Alcoholics meets Mondays at 8 p.m. at St. Nicholas Epsicopal Church, 2900 Princetou St. For more information, call the Midland Council on Alcoholism, 682-4721.

Olympic Games' cultural counterpoint unveiled

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Olympic Arts Festival, a 10-week cultural counterpoint to the Summer Games featuring more than 400 performances of theater, dance and music, opened Friday with the unveiling of a massive bronze sculputure standing sentinel at the Memorial Coliseum.

Under the "Olympic Gateway", which is topped by the bronze figures of two headless athletes, the Olympic torch will pass into the Coliseum for the opening of the Games on July 28.

"The festival begins. The Olympic summer is here," Robert Fitzpatrick, director of the Olympic Arts Festival, told a gathering of 300 civic and community leaders.

"We appreciate the many nations who are sharing with us their finest treasures in the visual as well as performing arts," said Paul Ziffren, chairman of theLos Angeles Olympic Organzing Committee.

Events for the $11 million festival include shows by 12-foot-tall puppets from Quebec's Theatre Sans Fil, the Royal Shakespeare Company from London, acrobats from the China Performing Arts Company, an exhibition of art from the Louvre, the U.S. debut of Britain's Royal Opera of Covent Garden, a Greek-language performance of "Oedipus Rex" by the National Theatre of Greece and a Japanese-language production of "The Trojan Women."

In all, there will be 400 performances and 24 exhibitions by artists from 18 nations.

The 25-foot-high bronze was created by sculptor Robert Graham at a cost of more than $250,000.

They have worked hard for this moment, these graduates, and we're proud of them. They are starting life equipped with a vast store of knowledge that will help them in their chosen profession.

But the greatest school in the world cannot teach wisdom. Often, wisdom comes only through painful experience as the years pass. To some it never comes at all.

Life's ups and downs can break the spirit . . . unless one has an inner core of courage and an inner certainty of the presence and love of God. Church membership and Church teachings can help you gain these invaluable blessings and help you achieve a greater wisdom.

Midland churches invited to 'Wildlife Encounter'

GRAND PRAIRIE — All churches in the Midland area are invited to participate in "Wildlife Encounter," a religious symposium which will be held June and July at the International Wildlife Park, Grand Prairie.

The one-day event is designed for youth groups from pre-school through high school and is available seven days per week. The program includes a tour of the 350-acre preserve, a special lecture by leading wildlife authority Dave Richtman and access to all rides, shows and attractions in the Entertainment Village.

"Reservations are required for Wildlife Encounter," says Hayley Spencer, education coordinator at the International Wildlife Park. "The series by Dave Richtman promises to be very popular, and seating is limited to Wildlife Encounter participants only."

To receive a free, 1984 pamplet, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Wildlife Encounter, 601 Parkway, Grand Prairie, Texas, 75050.

'Spirit Wind' to perform

"Spirit Wind 1984" will be performing at St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 N. Main St., at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

This choir is a select group of United Methodist Church young people from churches all over the Panhandle and West Texas area. This year's group consists of 43 youths representing 18 cities and approximately 25 churches who were selected from more than 70 who auditioned this past year. The members are representative young people from all size churches in the Northwest Texas United Methodist Conference.

The program includes selections from different periods of church history, as well as several styles. It includes musical compositions of Johann Sebastian Bach, Guiseppe Pitoni, through the music of Stephen Schwartz, composer and writer of the Broadway musical "Godspell."

"Spirit Wind 1984" is directed by Bert Bostic and Patsy Giles with Debbie Vester as pianist.

The public is invited to the free performance.

Churches must respond

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Southern Baptist specialists say churches had better begin accepting single-parent families as OK because by 1990 nearly half of all households in the United States will be maintained by one parent or one person.

Research by Paul C. Glick, an Arizona State University sociologist and former demographer for the U. S. Census Bureau, was cited, indicating dramatic increases in the 1980s of households headed by singles and single parents.

Benefit tea to be held

A Texas college benefit tea will be held at the Kerr Center of St. Paul CME Church from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday. Guest speaker is Dr. Ruby Padgitt Johnson of Houston.

Theme is "Black Colleges and Today's Challenge." Dr. Johnson is a graduate of Sam Huston College, now Huston-Tillotson College. She received a master's degree from Texas Southern University and a doctorate from the University of New Mexico. She teaches language at Houston Community College.

Music will be provided by Ethel Barnes, Norma Short and Aretha Roberts.

Church gets minister

The First Presbyterian Church has announced that the Rev. John Calvin Rose begins his interim ministry Sunday.

Rose had previously retired from The Miami Shores Presbyterian Church, Miami, Fla., after serving that pastorate for more than 20 years. Since his retirement, he has held several interim pastorates throughout the United States.

Rose and his wife now make their home in New Castle, Pa. For the duration of his interim ministry, the two will live in Midland.

Church has celebration

A Cosmic Celebration is the theme of a party at 7:30 p.m. today for members of the Permian Basin Church of Religious Science being held at 203 Club Drive.

Special guests are Michael Owen and Thomas Breslin, author and director-choreographer of "Revelations of a Rainbow Rider," a new musical to be performed in Dallas in the near future. They will perform bits from the play.

The party commemorates the church's pledge program.

'Playcation' to open

First Christian Church will offer Summer Playcation June 11 through 15 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for kindergarten through fourth grade.

Classes in painting, sculpture, puppetry, music and recreation will be using the theme "Creation."

Playcation will be held in the church classrooms at 1301 W. Louisiana Ave. Registration is open free to the public now through Wednesday. To register call the church, 682-2541.

Holy Communion set

The American Episcopal Church of St. Pauls, 801 Andrews Highway, has Holy Communion the first and third Sundays of each month at 10 a.m. The second and fourth Sundays of each month the church has Morning Prayer at 10 a.m.

Rector of the church is the Rev. Kenneth Weaver.

Vacation school begins

Vacation Church School begins Sunday at Memorial Christian Church, Disciples of Christ, Andrews Highway at Cuthbert Street.

Designed for children three years of age through fifth-graders, this year's church school begins at 5 p.m. Sunday with an ice cream social, followed by classes for children. The session will end at 7:30 p.m. Sessions Monday through Thursday are scheduled from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Theme for this year is "God's People Living With Promise." Director of the school is Pat Warnell.

Adults are invited to attend the ice cream social, which will be followed by a short entertainment program at 5:30 p.m. and a vesper service at 6 p.m.

Women's movement affecting Judaism

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Eva Oles, an Orthodox Jew, does not drive on Sabbath. So at least once a month, she picks up her 59-year-old legs and walks to services — a hike of six miles, up and down San Francisco's hills.

She need not go so far to find an ordinary Orthodox synagogue. But there, Mrs. Oles would have to sit in an area reserved for women, behind a curtain. She could not climb the pulpit and read from the Torah, like a man.

"I've always felt that I was as good a Jew as a man," said Mrs. Oles. So she walks six miles to join a prayer group where women and men are equals.

Every step that Mrs. Oles takes is another stride in a women's movement that has swept American Jewry over the past 15 years. It has produced women rabbis and enlarged the role of women in Jewish life.

The changes have been greatest in the Reform and Conservative branches; among the Orthodox, women like Eva Oles still face the dilemma of Yentl, the movie and short-story character who dressed like a man to gain the religious prerogatives reserved for men.

MOST ORTHODOX women, it appears, do not have that yearning. "It's true that the bulk of Orthodox women are not into these issues," said Blu Greenberg, an Orthodox feminist and writer. "They're quite contented."

But Mrs. Greenberg is not. She attends a woman's prayer service, one of several in Berkeley, Los Angeles, Boston and New York where women play the roles usually assigned to men. And she agitates for something that many believe will never happen — female Orthodox rabbis.

Reform Judaism uses Jewish law — halacha — as a guideline. To Conservatives, the law is something to grapple with, something to be interpreted. But to Orthodoxy, Jewish law is God's law, and thus immutable.

AP Laserphoto

Eva Oles, an Orthodox Jew, walks to a synagogue in San Francisco for Sabbath services. She must walk to the services because her religious beliefs do not allow her to use modern conveyances on the Sabbath. She walks six miles to attend services because the closer Orthodox synagogue does not treat men and women as equals.

RELIGION

For example, Orthodox women are unable to secure religious divorces — according to halacha, only men can do that, and if they refuse, their wives cannot remarry.

Mrs. Greenberg said halacha doesn't "even deal with women as rabbis." Most of the Orthodox disagree; they say laws such as those that prevent women from acting as witnesses also prevent them from serving as rabbis.

"I don't believe it's a real issue in Orthodoxy," said Julius Berman, president of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations. "I don't believe the average Orthodox woman has ever thought in terms of being a rabbi."

"ORTHODOX WOMEN already have a religious role," agreed Rabbi Sally Priesand, who became the first female Reform rabbi in 1972. "They're honored and respected, but their role is in the home."

Ms. Priesand is the rabbi at Monmouth Reform Temple in Tinton Falls, N.J. Some Reform congregations are hesitant to accept women as rabbis, she said, but that is changing; there are now more than 70 women rabbis nationally, and half of the Reform movement's rabbinical students are women.

The Conservative movement, more cautious than Reform, first counted women in prayer quorums in 1973. Now, after a long debate, the Jewish Theological Seminary is about to admit its first female rabbinical students.

"I've been waiting around a long time to waiting for this to happen. And when it did, there I was, knocking at the door," said Nina Beth Cardin, one of the first women admitted to the seminary's rabbinical program.

Not everyone is happy about the decision. Rabbi David Novak of Congregation Darshay Noam of Far Rockaway, N.Y., said he might change his affiliation to Orthodox.

"THIS IS A radical reconstruction of Judaism. But once they've reconstructed it, it isn't Judaism any more," Novak said.

Traditionalists have even fewer kind words for those who want to eliminate what they see as sexism in prayer. "That's a pettiness that only insecure women — and insecure men, if I may add — worry about," said Berman.

But Rabbi Marjorie S. Yudkin of Congregation Temple Emanu-El in Rye, N.Y., said prayer can be "enhanced" by changing masculine names for God to neutral terms. She also wants to de-emphasize circumcision, historically the sign of God's convenant with the Jewish people.

Ms. Yudkin would have the surgery done by doctors, instead of the mohelim who now perform circumcisions. She would give girls and boys baby-naming ceremonies instead. "It seems to be the only way to have equal rights for children, regardless of their sex," she said.

Government targeting 'sanctuary movement'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The government has struck its first legal blows against the widespread church "sanctuary" movement for refugees from embattled El Salvador, but churches have rallied in defense of the operation.

Their stand has brought out extraordinary collaboration between Protestants and Roman Catholics, each group chipping in to support work and provide legal funds for the other.

The Rev. Minerva Caracano, a United Methodist pastor in McAllen, says government prosecution of some participants has made the movement stronger than ever, and spurred Protestant-Catholic solidarity to new heights.

About 110 churches, Protestant and Catholic, have opened their premises in 60 cities as asylum to Central American refugees, transporting them through a network of volunteer driver relays, with hundreds of other churches supporting the activity.

Nevertheless, law enforcers have made initial forays against the church tactics, raising speculation of a widened crackdown. Church groups say border patrol checks have been expanded on roads north of the Rio Grande.

A Catholic social worker, Stacy Merkt of Colorado Springs, Colo., has been convicted, and Jack Elder, head of a Catholic refugee center at San Benito, Texas, and Phil Conger, a United Methodist of Tucson, Ariz., are under indictment for transporting Salvadoran refugees.

Disputing the charges, Conger says "it's the government that is breaking the law." He contends the refugees have a "well-founded fear of persecution" and the law doesn't demand their return in such cases.

But the Immigration and Naturalization Service rarely accepts such claims, insisting on documented evidence, which few refugees have.

Ms. Merkt, scheduled to be sentenced June 27 on charges carrying a maximum punishment of 15 years in prison and $6,000 in fines, told the National Catholic Reporter, "I'm not a criminal and neither are the refugees from Central America. My head is not bowed."

Her conviction May 14 by a U.S. district court jury in Brownsville, is being appealed.

At the time of her arrest, she had been helping out, hauling refugees from the Casa Oscar Romero center in San Benito, where refugees are temporarily fed, clothed and sheltered until taken to safer sanctuaries around the country.

United Methodist and other Protestant churches give aid to the center, founded by Catholic Bishop John J. Fitzpatrick of Brownsville. Its indicted director, Elder, is scheduled for trial July 2.

He had been arrested for taking three Salvadoran refugees to a bus station. "These refugees have run for their lives, and they need help," he says.

The Lutheran Church in America has provided $18,000 bail for the defendants, who initially also included Sister Dianne Muhlenkamp, who had been arested with Ms. Merkt, but the nun's case was separated.

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, June 3, 1984

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Confederate President Jefferson Davis, singer-dancer Josephine Baker and auto racing great Barney Oldfield were born on this date. Also sharing your birthday: actress Paulette Goddard, Philadelphia '76ers coach Billy Cunningham, Tony Curtis, actress Colleen Dewhurst and golf's Hale Irwin Jr. Steady performance is the key to real success. Romance becomes more serious. Show loved ones that their confidence in you is well-placed.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A wonderful day for meditation, spiritual renewal and charity work. Family matters and health concerns are in the spotlight. Tact helps you avoid a confrontation with member of opposite sex.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A sermon gives you new insights regarding a family matter. Stress the need for improved communication if trying to salvage a relationship. Your popularity zooms with a member of the opposite sex.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): An argument with a loved one could upset your plans. Try to compromise. Relatives are more cooperative than in the past. A meeting with a college chum could lead to new employment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Parents develop better rapport with their teen-agers by listening more, talking less. An older person helps you sort out a personal matter. A phone call or special-delivery letter sets your heart racing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be careful not to take your loved ones for granted. Plan a special treat or outing. Be candid if you are not ready for a romantic commitment. Partner deserves honest answers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A relative helps you in several ways. Encourage a young person to solve his/her own problems. You could meet someone new at church. Give more thought to your responsibilities.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A friendship will be tested. Domestic activities demand top priority. Take family members' needs into account when making plans for the coming week. A newspaper could provide a new employment lead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your personal relationships are deep and rewarding. Emphasize the interests you share with attractive member of opposite sex. Romance begins to sizzle. Your rapport with loved one is excellent.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Those temporarily short on cash should do their entertaining at home. Personal possessions have become less important to you. Mate will be supportive if you must make a difficult decision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friendship is very important to you now. A young person requires careful handling. Discuss your feelings in quiet, relaxing surroundings. A shared spiritual experience gives you new insights.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): A loved one's problems could cause tension. Change your plans to accommodate others. A sensitive Cancer makes a strong appeal. Rise to the occasion. Avoid taking unnecessary risks.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Continue to exercise caution in your relationships. A long-sought personal goal moves within reach. A domestic situation calls for greater patience. Try to understand loved ones' emotional needs.

Program honors musicals

By MICHAEL KUCHWARA
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK — Tailoring the Tony awards for television requires the ability to entice an audience that probably hasn't seen or even heard of many of the nominees.

Past shows have been built around themes — theatrical superstitions, the plight of the understudy, a history of the Winter Garden Theater. This year's broadcast, Sunday night on CBS, is no exception. It celebrates the music of Stephen Sondheim, Jerry Herman and the team of John Kander and Fred Ebb.

All four have impossible jobs. They make their living writing for the Broadway stage. And all four, not coincidentally, are nominated for Tonys — Broadway's equivalent of the Oscar — this year.

Sondheim's "Sunday in the Park with George," Herman's "La Cage aux Folles" and Kander and Ebb's "The Rink" are nominated for best score. "Sunday in the Park" and "La Cage," along with "Baby" and and "The Tap Dance Kid" are nominated for best musical.

FOR best play, Tom Stoppard's tale of a writer looking for love, "The Real Thing," goes up against this year's Pulitzer Prize winner "Glengarry Glen Ross" by David Mamet; "Noises Off," the frenzied British farce, and "Play Memory," the story of a woman's remembrance of her alcoholic father.

But viewers of the Tony awards don't usually tune in to root for plays or musicals. They look for recognizable names, and this year they won't find the one name most theater professionals thought would be on the Tony nomination list — Dustin Hoffman.

Hoffman was lavishly praised by the critics for his portrayal of Willy Loman in the revival of "Death of a Salesman," as were several other actors in the show. None received nominations, and that could dampen viewer enthusiasm.

Instead, three classy British actors — Rex Harrison, Ian McKellen and Jeremy Irons — are in competition with newcomer Calvin Levels of the short-lived "Open Admissions" for best actor in a play.

STILL there won't be any shortage of big-name stars with impeccable theater credentials. This year's co-hosts are Broadway's Fair Lady, Julie Andrews, and its own Music Man, Robert Preston.

Alexander Cohen, executive producer of the Tony awards show, wouldn't have it any other way. Since the Tonys first were televised in 1967, he's demanded theater respectability from his program hosts.

"They had to have been on the Broadway stage. They have to be of the theater," he said. "It would be wonderful to be able to have great stars that are television artists or terrific draws, but we don't think that it carries the integrity of the theater with it. So we've made it a rule that we won't do that."

HE won't have any lack of name talent among the performers, though. Liza Minnelli, Raquel Welch, Carol Channing, Gwen Verdon, Anthony Quinn, Chita Rivera and Tony Randall were scheduled to perform.

But there are difficulties that the other awards shows don't have.

"We are working around performers who are working in the theater," said Cohen. "And they're working eight times a week.

"To make a rehearsal schedule for the Tony awards is the single most difficult operation in show business because it all has to come together in live segments."

There are compensations for all the trouble, of course, especially the box-office boost for the winning shows and enhanced name recognition for the winning performers.

"It's been good for the industry," Cohen said.

DEAR ABBY

Unwed mother-to-be wants to raise child

By ABIGAIL VAB BUREN

DEAR ABBY: "No Regrets in Missouri," who found herself pregnant and unmarried, chose not to have an abortion. Instead she gave up her baby for adoption.

I am also pregnant and unmarried, but I am going to have my baby and raise it alone if necessary. The father of my child wanted me either to have an abortion or to give up the child for adoption, but I would not consider either alternative.

I realize there is a long list of childless married couples who are praying for a child, but there is no way in God's world that I would give away my baby.

I was raised to accept responsibility for my own actions, and since I chose to enter into a sexual relationship, I now accept the responsibility that goes with it.

I know that raising a child will not be easy, but my child will never have to wonder what kind of woman his biological mother was, where she is, and all the questions that plague most adopted children. Sign me... NO REGRETS IN IOWA

DEAR NO REGRETS: You don't say how old you are or how you intend to support yourself and your child, but you sound like a very determined and together young woman. I wish you luck. An unwed mother who chooses to keep her child and raise it alone (if necessary) will need luck in abundance.

DEAR ABBY: In recent years the subject of adoptees who have searched and found their birth parents, and vice versa, has become a popular one. We would like to know: After the adoptive child had been reunited with his biological parents, (a) how did the adoptive parents feel? (b) How was the relationship between the adopted child and the parents who raised him affected? (c) Were the adoptive parents and the birth parents genuinely happy to meet each other?

These questions are of valid concern to my wife and me, as we have three adopted children who one day might want to find their biological parents.

We hope your readers will respond honestly so that we and other adoptive parents will know what to expect. — CURIOUS IN FLORIDA

DEAR CURIOUS: I, too, am curious. Readers?

Rev. James C. Holman

Local pastor honored at church meeting

ABILENE — The Rev. James C. Holman, pastor of St. Paul's United Methodist Church of Midland, was named recipient of the Denman Award for Excellence in Evangelism at the Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the church being held here this week.

Holman, who came to St. Paul's in 1979, was recognized for the work he has accomplished in increasing church and Sunday school membership and attendance, designing new programs and church development.

The Denman Award is presented annually by the conference to an outstanding pastor in recognition of evangelistic work.

During Holman's six years at St. Paul's, the church has grown in membership from 802 to 999; average attendance at Sunday morning worship has increased from 184 to 365 (98.3 percent); and average attendance at Sunday school has risen from 113 to 243 (115 percent).

In addition, the church's budget has grown from about $100,000 in 1979 to $250,000 today.

During the past year, the church also has added a full-time music director and an associate pastor.

Also under the leadership of Holman, St. Paul's has completed a new fellowship hall and renovations to the existing buildings. In the area of programming, Holman has initiated the Bethel Bible series, mission awareness weekend and visitation training for lay persons.

Snapping turtle shot for biting cow

PENOBSCOT, Maine (AP) — A 24-pound snapping turtle with feet as big as "bear claws" was shot and killed after it bit a 1,400-pound cow on the nose, a woman says.

"I've never seen a turtle that big," said Elaine Dorr.

She said she and her husband, Ed, found the turtle last week after they went to investigate a commotion in a pasture behind their home in this coastal town.

"The cow was in the pasture making this horrid noise" and bleeding profusely from its nose, she said.

EXTRAORDINARY PERFORMANCE FOR THE ORDINARY BUDGET.

Do you ever wonder why so many people who seem to understand and appreciate high-performance cars wind up buying ordinary, undistinguished automobiles?

It might be easier to understand if you knew that the average price of a new car today is around $11,000. And if that's the price of an average new car, what does it cost to own an outstanding new car?

For example, take the Saab 900, one of Europe's most widely praised sports sedans. Here's a car that's justly famous for performance and handling; a car that couples a powerful two-liter, fuel-injected engine to one of the world's most fully developed front-wheel drive systems. It's a car that is far above average in comfort, strength and luggage capacity.

What does it cost to own an extraordinary car like this? About the same as it costs to own a just-average car.

SAAB

The most intelligent car ever built.

"I'VE SEEN EVERY APARTMENT COMMUNITY IN MIDLAND."

"My feet hurt and my patience was wearing thin. I'd seen every apartment community in Midland, and none met my standards... until I discovered Oakridge Apartments. Just a little off the beaten trail, Oakridge has the quiet, private location I'd been looking for. Plus all the other extras I'd just about given up on. Like new construction, nice, friendly neighborhood appeal and superior amenities—indoor spa and sauna, clubhouse and pool, to name just a few—Oakridge is the greatest. I should know, I've seen them all."

1- and 2-bedroom and 2-bedroom studio apartment homes are available now. Take Loop 250 to N. Holiday Hill Road and look for the giant American flag.
