University And Six Texas Cities To Receive $2,207,000

Public Works Cash Allotted To This State

Largest Single Amount Given University For Construction Of Administrative Library Building On Campus

30 Per Cent Grant

Schools And Water Systems To Profit In Other Projects; Several Hundred Men To Be Given Employment

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The University of Texas and six cities and towns in the state shared today in allotments totaling $2,207,000 from the public works administration.

The largest single sum in the day's list—$1,633,000—went to the university for construction of an administrative-library building to replace the main building.

30 Per Cent Is Grant

Thirty per cent of the allotment was an outright grant and the remainder a loan secured by four per cent general obligation bonds. Debt service charges will be a lien against the income derived from the available university fund. The building will cost a total of $1,800,000, the institution furnishing the balance.

Buford Jester, Corsicana, president of the university board of regents, said he felt no discouragement due to the fact two other applications from the university—for money to build a men's dormitory costing $210,000 and a women's dormitory to cost $180,000—were not passed upon.

Delay Is Explained

"There is a legal question which held up those applications," he said, "and we think we will be able to straighten it out."

Jester explained the new administrative building would occupy the site of the present main building, and would house the university library. The present library building, he added, probably would be converted into a museum.

Other Texas allotments, all save one made on the basis of 30 per cent grants and 70 per cent loans, together with the time required for completion and the number of jobs to be provided, under administration estimates, follow:

Other Allotments

Glen Rose, $63,000, for construction of waterworks and sewage systems, four months, 100 men.

Pittsburg, Camp county, $108,000, for waterworks improvements, six

Three Sentenced To Prison Terms

Three persons tried yesterday in 99th district court for eight burglaries received sentences in the penitentiary totaling 46 years. One man was acquitted in two trials for burglary.

Jose Garcia, a Mexican, waived jury trial, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to 10 years for each of three Slaton burglaries. The sentences will be served concurrently, said Judge Clark M. Mullican. Garcia is under a 2-year sentence for a Post burglary.

George Wright was convicted in three burglaries, drawing two sentences of 5 years and one for 2 years. His brother, Raymond, was acquitted of two burglary indictments. Allie W. Squires, a nephew of the Wrights, drew 2-year sentences in each of two cases. George Wright accepted responsibility for the burglaries, resulting in acquittal of his brother. Noble E. Squiers, brother of Allie W. Squiers, and also charged with burglary, is a juvenile. His case will be transferred to county court.

The Wrights and the Squierses are wanted for burglary in Haskell county.

Big Reception For Grid Fans Promised Saturday

Former Senator Pulls Surprise

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13. (AP)—James A. Reed, outspoken Missourian in the United States senate from 1911 to 1929, was married at a surprise wedding here tonight to Mrs. Nell Q. Donnelly, 43 for whom he directed the search as her attorney at the time of her sensational kidnaping in 1931. She is a wealthy garment manufacturer.

The fiery Democrat, whose sharp tongue frequently lashed out at the policies of President Wilson during his senate days, took as his bride an attractive business woman who has long been his political supporter and friend.

Another friend of long standing, Federal Judge John C. Pollock officiated at the ceremony, witnessed by only a few friends at a dinner of duck and venison which Reed killed on a northern hunting trip.

"It's a surprise," Reed announced, his blue eyes sparkling.

Local Cars To Carry Visitors To Field; Specials Coming

PLANS for elaborate reception and entertainment of visiting fans here Saturday for the Pampa-San Angelo fooball game were formulated at a meeting of a 25-member hospitality committee at chamber of commerce offices yesterday.

Special trains, which will be run from both Pampa and San Angelo, will be met by the Lubbock High school band and pep squad. Joining with the pep organizations of the respective schools, the Westerner groups, commanded by Dan Powers, will lead a parade to the hotel headquarters of each delegation. Courtesy cars will be available for fans who do not care to join the parade.

Cars To Be Available

At 1 o'clock about 150 cars will be at both the Lubbock and Hilton hotels to transport visitors to Tech field. The cars will be parked in a specified area and will bring the visiting fans back to their hotels after the game.

Goal posts and seating sections will be decorated in Pampa and San Angelo school colors.

One special train will leave San Angelo at 7 a. m., arriving here at 12 noon. It will leave here about 6 p. m., arriving home about 11. The Pampa special will leave at 7 a. m. and is scheduled to arrive here at 11:30. It will depart about 6 p. m. and arrive home about 10:30.

Buster General Chairman

Dude Buster was elected general chairman of arrangements at yesterday's meeting.

Dr. I. E. Barr, president of the chamber of commerce, presided.

Sub-committees were appointed to handle various duties for the day.

Windy Watkins and Jimmy Kennedy were appointed co-chairman for reception and transportation for San Angelo headquarters at the Hilton Hotel. Brownie Akers was appointed chairman for Pampa headquarters at the Lubbock Hotel. Dude Buster will be chairman of the group to meet the trains. A. C. Jackson and Charles Whitacre will drive to Abernathy to meet the Pampa train before arrival, advising the Pampans of local plans for reception, and Ross McWhorter and Lewis Price will meet the San Angelo train at Slaton.

The Rotary, Kiwanis, American Business, and Lions clubs, Texas Tech and the high school were given quotas in the procuring of 300 courtesy cars for the day Saturday. The cars procured by the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs are to report at the Lubbock Hotel at 1 p.

Woman Tells Of Life With Young Farmer

Declares Mistreatment Caused Her To Divorce Husband And Not Attentions Paid Her By Trial Defendant

Mistreatment at the hands of Leonard Redwine, 19-year-old farmer, during their married life and not attentions paid to her by T. A. Holeman, 49-year-old dairyman, caused Pauline Benton to leave and divorce Redwine, the girl testified Wednesday afternoon in the trial of the youth's $45,000 alienation of affections suit against Holeman in 72nd district court.

The girl's testimony featured testimony for the defense and brought denial of any "love affair" between the 19-year-old girl and the defendant. Testimony in the trial is expected to be brought to a close today with appearance of rebuttal witnesses. The case will likely go to the jury sometime Friday.

Denies Allegations

The plaintiff's divorced wife made repeated denials of allegations brought by her former husband's attorneys in questioning of previous witnesses and declared there had never been "anything improper" between her and the defendant. She said she left Redwine "because I didn't love him."

She testified she lived with Redwine from Feb. 20, 1932, until Oct. 19, and said that during that time he had always been jealous of her and tried to prevent her from visiting with neighbors and her mother "because they were trying to break us up."

She told of going to the farm of the defendant to work and related various incidents brought out previously in testimony. She denied that Holeman had shown her any attention and declared Redwine had never mentioned him in that manner and she did not know of the allegations until the suit was filed.

Denies Making Trips

She denied going to the world's fair with Holeman or making any trips plaintiff counsel charged she had made.

Her testimony was preceded by that of her mother, Mrs. L. B. Besinger of Monroe who said Pauline and Leonard "acted like they didn't care about being with each other" soon after they were married. She was questioned at length on cross

Santa Claims Mickey Mouse Muscles In On Xmas Business

Old Fellow Joins NRA And Demands Less Snow; More Dough And A Monopoly

By JAMES H. STREET
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Santa Claus joined the NRA tonight and asked for less snow, more dough and a monopoly of the business.

It seems that Mickey Mouse and the three little pigs have muscled in on Santa's territory and are competing with the old saint in the toy shops.

So the Santa Claus association with 100 members who ring bells and listen to the wants and woes of little children drafted its code tonight, along with a telegram asking Gen. Hugh S. Johnson to come to the aid of the cause.

Barkers Are Barred

It bars "barkers" from the business and asks a 35-hour week, more money and less work in the snow.

Only married men can be saints, the code says, since "single men do not know properly how to handle the job."

Blue Eagle Santa Clauses must be plump, for "too many skinny men are parading around the city as Santa Claus and hurting our professional reputation."

The code complains that unfair competition has sprung up, many stores "using other interests to attract children with the three little pigs and Mickey Mouse being impersonated by humans."

Santas Quite Serious

"This must stop," said Santa Claus. "It isn't right for us to compete with pigs and mice."

The Santas were quite serious about it all. The headman of the Claus clan, John Mangum, who was in the full dress of the order, almost blew off his whiskers when a skeptic asked "so what?"

"Indeed, so what," said he. "It's labor being Santa. We have to stoop over all the time and listen to youngsters until our backs creak. Thirty-five hours a week of stooping is plenty."

"And have you," asked the skeptic, "any children of your own?"

Business Pretty Good

"Six," boomed Mr. Claus, "and I have to listen to 6,000 Christ-

Seven Bandits Enter Bank To Overpower Five Persons And Grab Loot; Gang Equipped With Wireless Set

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. — A wireless equipped gang of seven armed men today invaded the Unity Trust and Savings bank, overpowered and blindfolded five persons, smashed their way through 99 of its 335 safety deposit boxes and escaped with several thousand dollars worth of loot.

Officials of the bank, now in receivership but kept open for convenience of customers having boxes, said they were unable to ascertain the amount of securities, jewelry and cash taken, but feared it would exceed $50,000.

Solons Favor Reducing Tax Upon Liquors

Members Of Tax Committees Of Congress Are Described As Leaning Toward A Figure Of $1.75 To $2

Witnesses Heard

Quotas For Foreign Nations On Imports Are Announced; Italy First With Allotment Of 1,100,000 Gallons

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Members of the congressional tax framing committees were described tonight as leaning definitely toward a distilled spirits tax of between $1.75 and $2 a gallon.

Doubled with this, they were reported to be inclined favorably toward the recommendation of the interdepartmental committee named by President Roosevelt that the chief executive be given broad powers to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with liquor exporting countries.

The tax figure, said those who have been closely studying the working of the house ways and means and senate finance committees, found favor with many of the committee after a parade of witnesses at the joint hearing of the committee had warned that a high tax would be the salvation of the bootlegger by jacking up the cost of legal liquor.

While the committees on Capitol Hill were working toward a solution of the domestic liquor problems, the federal alcohol control administration disclosed the figures on which the government based permits for four-month liquor imports from foreign countries.

Imports Are Cited

Although the grand total for the number of gallons of liquors, wines and beer from all countries to come in under the four-month permit system was given as 5,595,137, the total of the importations for ten leading liquor exporting countries fell well below this.

It was explained that the total of 3,702,000 gallons accounted for in the quota figure announcement were arbitrary allotments and that the 1,893,137 gallon difference was made up by Canadian imports of American type rye and bourbon with small amounts from other countries.

Italy ranked first in the quotas with an allotment of 1,100,000. France, a wine and brandy producing country, ranked next with 784,000 gallons. Great Britain, from which there is exported large quantities of Irish and Scotch whiskies, was allowed 607,000.

Other Quotas Given

The other quotas were: Germany, 399,000; Spain, 395,000; Japan, 187,000; Netherlands, 110,000; Portugal, 60,000; China, 35,000; Greece, 25,000.

The low federal tax figure found support in the committee hearing

Labor, Humanity Being Offered A Squarer Deal

SEN. HIRAM JOHNSON

Fiery Senator Says Nation Must Back FDR's Program

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. — Still enthusiastic for the Roosevelt recovery program despite his opposite party label Senator Hiram Johnson returned to the capitol today with a forecast that the country would "go to hell economically" if the administration policies were not carried out.

The silver haired Californian, often referred to as the "bloc of one" because of his independence of voting in the senate and in national elections, made his prediction to newspapermen who gathered around his rose decorated desk at the capitol.

Pass Though Revolution

He said the country was passing through an economic and social revolution that was, and would continue to have, the effect of realigning political forces, but not necessarily resulting in formation of more parties.

"As I see the situation now I will support the president in any fashion I can," Johnson said, added:

"There's a different alignment among human beings now. That's the situation today. Either we are going through with this program that levels up the merits of human beings or we are going to hell economically. That's the big thing in Mr. Roosevelt's program—a leveling process."

Get Squarer Deal

He said he meant by this "leveling process" that financial and industrial captains of 1929 had been "dethroned" and that labor and humanity in general were getting a squarer deal than ever before.

"The revolution came so quickly," he said, "that few of us who were in it know fully what has happened. The gods of 1929 whom you have seen marching in disarray before the senate banking committee were stripped so bare that they no longer are reckoned with at all.

Furnish Consolation

"They furnished us with just one consolation. That is, while we have known only a little about finances, we know now that the great leaders of finance know nothing at all about it."

The fiery Californian dismissed with a sweep of the hand reports that he had been summoned here by the president to discuss a possible appointment to the supreme court or to attend a secret meeting in Chicago at which progressives

Lives Lost In Ocean Storms

British Isles Hit By Furious Gales; American Seaboard Frozen As Mercury Plunges To 10 Below Zero

(By The Associated Press)

Furious gales swept the British Isles Wednesday and sent to destruction a cargo steamer with all hands while a lifeboat fought through the surf of the East Suffolk coast in a futile effort to reach the ship. A dozen lives were thought to have been lost.

On this side the Atlantic a gale pounded the Nova Scotia shore, and heavy loss to fishermen was feared.

Seaboard Frozen

While most of the United States reported normal winter temperatures, the northeastern seaboard was frozen with temperatures as low as 10 degrees below zero in Maine. Along the northwestern states fringing Canada the mercury hovered just above zero.

More than three inches of rain fell in parts of Southern California, Los Angeles suffering floods four feet deep in some sections.

The near zero wave in France had moderated, and snow covered the central part of that country as the temperature rose toward the freezing point. Two aviators who left England in stormy weather to fly across the channel were missing.

Hughes Says He Probably Will Enter Political Race

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Maury Hughes, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, announced here today that he probably would be a candidate for governor of Texas next year.

Relief Plans Of President Will Continue

Ultimate Figure Is Expected To Be Six Billions Or More For Expenditures In Next Fiscal Year

CWA To Get Cash

Lowest Estimate On Emergency Expenditures Is Placed At $2,775,000,000; Funds Now Are Running Low

By RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13—The administration will ask congress for appropriations of at least $5,375,000,000 at the coming session of congress and the ultimate figure may be six billions or more.

This became apparent today as President Roosevelt's aides added up minimum estimates for emergency expenditures and found they totalled $2,775,000,000 without figuring in a cent for the Reconstruction corporation, whose requirements cannot be forecast at this time. To that sum they added $2,600,000,000 of budget bureau estimates for the ordinary governmental operating expenses during the next fiscal year.

To Continue Program

One of the items figuring in the budget was brought prominently to the fore today by the disclosure by President Roosevelt that he intended to continue the work of the civil works administration until next spring, gradually tapering off the work between March 1 and May 1. By that time, the administration hopes that the public works program will be able to absorb gradually those men cared for by the civil works plan.

Meanwhile, Acting Secretary Morgenthau of the treasury, disturbed at continuing newspaper dispatches of dissension between himself and his subordinates, called reporters to his office for a special press conference. He praised the work of Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the bank deposit insurance corporation, and expressed the hope that he would stay with the treasury as long as he himself continues

Ancient Disease Claims One Life

STAMFORD, Dec. 13 (AP)—An ancient disease, typhus fever, but so rare in West Texas that even pioneer physicians here cannot recall another fatality, today took the life of a Jones county farmer, W. B. Amerson, 63. He died in his home in the Stamford area.

Mr. Amerson became ill 18 days ago. Doctors said it was probable he was bitten by a flea transmitting the fever from a rat. His death will hasten preventive measure in Jones county, where typhus made its appearance about three months ago, after the beginning of an influx of itinerant farm labor, and has made considerable headway. A rat extermination campaign on a large scale will be conducted under direction of county health authorities, assisted by the United States biological survey, which has a representative already in the county.

Health authorities estimated today there are 25 cases in the general Stamford area. Latest case diagnosed, yesterday, was on a farm in Haskell county six miles north of this city. All cases have been mild to date except that of Mr. Amerson.

Cotton Chief Says South To Receive Almost Twice As Much For 1933 Crop

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. — Cully Cobb, government cotton chief, set down figures today to show that the South would be paid almost twice as much for its 1933 cotton crop as it would have received without the plow-up campaign.

If the farm price averages 9 1-2 cents a pound "as now appears probable," Cobb said, the current crop will bring $787,000,000 as contrasted with $397,000,000 producers received for lint in 1932.

Without the reduction program this year and assurance of future control of production, the cotton chief said universal opinion was that the 1933 crop would have averaged not more than five cents a pound, which for an estimated 17,600,000 bales would have brought farmers but $440,000,000.

While he said other factors had some influence, Cobb declared the increase in growers' returns undoubtedly was due to the success of the plow-up campaign which reduced the large potential crop by 4,400,000 bales. This production control,

Albert Bates To Remain In Solitary Until He Surrenders Urschel's Cash

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Albert Bates, life termer, will stay in solitary confinement until he surrenders the fortune he collected in the kidnaping of Charles Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan said today—and he has told Bates the same—that the kidnaper must remain in his solitary cell until he reveals the whereabouts of his $100,000 share of the $200,000 Urschel kidnap ransom.

Keenan, who prosecuted this case, visited Bates at Leavenworth penitentiary. In the same prison George "Machine Gun" Kelly is serving a life term for his part in the Urschel abduction.

"I told Bates," Keenan said, "that he was sentenced for life and that admittedly he got $100,000 of the ransom money. He didn't deny he had the money.

"I said that any man with $100,000 where he can get at it is an exceedingly dangerous prisoner and would be treated accordingly. I told him he could remove this dangerous characteristic by turning in the

THOSE husbands who regret that their wives talk too much can thank Dr. Wolf Adler, Columbia university physician and psychologist, for a remedy provided they do not consider the cure worse than the original trouble. Dr. Adler believes that women who are too garrulous should have music played to them and should play some musical instrument themselves. This "will quiet her and make her a better citizen," he explains.

So, if your husband begins urging you to take up music, you will know what he thinks of your talking.

CHRISTMAS WEATHER

IT doesn't seem like Christmas is almost here, does it? Even now, women are appearing on the streets almost every day without coats and, except in the early morning and evening, the cold is hardly felt. We have gone thus far in the fall without any rainy spells. In fact, right up to Christmas the sun still shines and beautiful open weather continues.

This is an advantage. Farmers have had no trouble with the harvest. Mail carriers are thankful and hoping that such days continue until they have finished delivering their Christmas loads, but for the rest of us a little winter weather would help make Christmas seem more like winter time.

Beautiful weather is to be desired, of course, but just a little snow or rain might help Santa feel at home when he comes down in his furs. And Christmas Day is a week from next Monday.

A NEW YEAR

YOU have a mighty short time now in which to do all those things you anticipated doing in 1933. The old year is waning fast and before you know it we will be starting a new one. Even though you may be feeling that your Christmas shopping is coming off early because it is hard to think of Christmas on a balmy day, the time is coming around soon and after that it is only a week to New Year.

CALL US UP

BY the way, your holiday company is going to be arriving in a short time. Let us know about them. Young people will be returning from school, while relatives and friends will be making Christmas trips. Many times at the holiday season we are reminded by people that they had company but that we did not get their names for the paper. It is hard for us to know when you are going to have company or when you have it unless you tell us. So, call us up and tell us about your holiday visits or visitors.

A RESOLUTE STAND

THOSE of us who would like to see an end to wars may receive some encouragement from the statement of Albert Einstein that "If two per cent of our population should take a personal, resolute stand against war, that would end war."

* * *

But the big difficulty is in getting any great number of people to take a resolute stand against anything. Most of us are eager to oppose a thing as long as it does not inconvenience us or is not counter to any of our personal tastes. Unfortunately, wars mean profits for some people and they continue to work resolutely toward conflict.

Sixteen Years Of Official Isolation Between Two Nations Are Broken

Bullitt Visits Soviet Leader

Ambassadorial Credentials Of American Are Presented To Kalinin; Friendly Relations Are Pledged

MOSCOW, Dec. 13. (AP)—Sixteen years of official isolation from each other between the United States and Soviet Russia were broken today when William C. Bullitt presented his ambassadorial credentials to Mikhai Kalinin.

The ceremony was accompanied by more than an ordinary cordial exchange between the president of the general executive committee and the American envoy and was marked by the emphasis of both men on the fact that while the United States and the Soviet union represent two widely divergent political and social systems this in itself presents no bar to their successful co-operation.

Calls On Litvinoff

Both pledged their respective governments to forward "not merely normal but genuinely friendly relations" between the two countries.

Upon leaving the Kremlin, where the ceremony took place, after an hour's visit, Mr. Bullitt proceeded directly to the foreign office, where he called formally on Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff, who himself returned only recently from the United States. Litvinoff engaged in talks with President Roosevelt that led to the establishment of normal relations between the two nations.

Later the American held a reception for the Soviet and the foreign press in his suite at the National hotel.

Decide On Site

He told the newspapermen he expected to remain here only long enough to decide on a site for the American embassy and then would return to Washington to recruit his staff.

Bullitt and Kalinin met for the first time in the old "winter palace" of the Kremlin, the executive offices of the Soviet union.

Kalinin, Bullitt said, is a "delightful human being." The American, too, apparently created a favorable impression upon Kremlin officials.

Mr. Bullitt, in presenting his letters, conveyed President Roosevelt's "cordial and friendlily greetings, as well as his earnest hope for the welfare and prosperity of your great country."

"I do not come to your country as a stranger," he went on.

"My profound interest in it has existed for many years and I come with a deep conviction of the importance and historical significance of my mission.

"That mission, Mr. President, is to create not merely normal but genuinely friendly relations between our two great peoples who for so many years were bound to each other by traditions of friendship.

"A firm establishment of world peace is a deep desire of both our peoples, and a close collaboration of our governments in the task of preserving peace will draw our peoples together.

"Each of our nations in its own manner is seeking with the same indomitable will and limitless energy but by different methods to promote the welfare of its people.

"This sumultaneous effort, rather than a source of conflict, offers an opportunity for creative collaboration."

President Kalinin replied with cordial greetings for President Roosevelt.

Livestock Shippers Protest Rates Charged By Railways

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP) — Seven Livestock shippers and handlers in western states today complained to the interstate commerce commission against rates on cattle, hogs and sheep charged by Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and 35 other railroads for shipments from Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas to Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, South Dakota, and Wyoming.

The complainants alleged that the rates charged by the railroads since January 25, 1932, were "excessive unjust and unreasonable." They asked the commission to fix lower rates and to award them reparations.

Toy Woolley Acquitted At End Of Spectacular Murder Trial In Dallas

Leaves Court After Verdict

Taken To Home Of His Sister And Later Will Go To The Family Home Where He Plans To Rest Up

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Toy G. Woolley, 28-year-old auditor, was acquitted today at the end of a spectacular trial on a murder charge filed after his young bride, Dorothy, was killed in the bedroom of their home with a shotgun she had given him as the hunting season opened.

Woolley's counsel contended that the shooting was accidental and occurred as he cleaned the gun, while the state sought to show that he shot his wife so that he might return to a former wife, Mae Cantrell, in Austin.

Is Whisked Away

Scarcely had the jury verdict, reached on the third ballot, been read when Woolley was whisked away in a waiting automobile to the home of a sister to rest in preparation for the trip to the family home in Comanche county, where he expressed a desire to go to "build myself back up."

Unusual tactics of the defense led by Currie McCutcheon, attracted hundreds more than could be accommodated to the 10-day trial. First, the bedroom furniture from the Woolley home was brought into court and the setting of the slaying was reconstructed. Again and again the weapon with which Woolley's wife was shot was slammed against the floor and only the intervention of Noland C. Williams, presiding judge, kept the defense from having the gun fired in front of the jurors.

Stuck To Truth

"I stuck to the truth," Woolley said. "I'm going away. I'll try to build myself back up. I'm going home to my mother."

Woolley did not testify, although McCutcheon indicated several times that he would.

The abrupt change in procedure came when Robert L. Hurt, district attorney, sought to show discrepancies between the trial testimony of Miss Mina Woolley, the defendant's sister and only eye-witness, and the statement she made to him after Woolley was arrested.

McCutcheon then asked Hurt for the voluntary statement Woolley made to Hurt but the district attorney refused to surrender it and the defense rested.

Thirty Per Cent Of Plains Cotton Is Said Extra White

Thirty one per cent of the cotton sampled from district No. 2, the high plains district, during the week ending December 1, was extra white or white and graded from middling to strict low middling, a report issued by the division of cotton marketing at Austin, said. Approximately 55 per cent was spotted; seventeen per cent was shorter than 7-8 inch staple and 81 per cent 7-8 to 31-32 inch. The bulk fell into the 7-8 to 29-32 inch class.

Slightly more than 26 per cent was untenderable on futures contracts, the report added.

There was "virtually no change in the distribution of the various grades and staples found in the Texas crop this week, (December 1-7) as compared with last week," the report added. "However, there was a slightly greater increase in the production of extra white cotton classed this week than last. The proportion of spotted cotton remained almost unchanged, while that of cotton falling in the inch to 1 1-32 inch group increased slightly."

Consumption of fertilizers used on Alabama farms this year exceeded by 81,000 tons that of last year.

Robbers Get $20,000 Loot

Three Men Are Bound By Two Bandits Early Wednesday As Vault Is Cleaned; Victims Tied With Wire

TURNERS FALLS, Mass., Dec. 13. (AP)—Two robbers bound three men with wire in the Crocker National bank and escaped with cash estimated at $20,000 after forcing one employe to open a vault early today.

Andrew Sauter, janitor of the bank, was cleaning up at 8 a. m. when two men came to the door with a package. Sauter was about to sign for the package when the men struck a gun against him, forced him into the back of the bank and bound him with wire.

Ten minutes later, Earl Squires, a teller, arrived. The men covered him with their pistols but before they could dispose of him Thomas Frawley, paymaster for the Keith paper mill, arrived to get the payroll. He, too, was made a captive. Frawley was bound with wire and then Squires was forced to open the bank vault under threat of death. After the vault had been cleared he was bound with wire. The bandits then escaped in an automobile.

Other bank employes discovered the three men lying on the floor bound when they arrived.

Electric Chair Death Rather Than An Operation Is Prisoner's Choice

Critically ill with acute appendicitis, the prisoner, Ross Caccamise, 24, balked on the operating table of the prison hospital and said, "I won't go through with it."

Caccamise is sentenced to die in the electric chair for the killing of Edmund P. Van De Water in Monroe county, N. Y. He has been in the death house at Sing Sing since Oct. 7.

Dr. Charles Sweet, head surgeon, and attending nurses were astonished at the patient's protest, which was not made until he reached the operating room. He had been carried on a stretcher 1,100 feet from the death house.

Caccamise has an appeal pending. In the event he loses, he would not be executed before April 1.

Application For Habeas Corpus Writ On Marble Board Question Dismissed

AUSTIN, Dec. 13 (AP)—The Texas court of criminal appeals today dismissed the application of Joe Day of Travis county for a writ of habeas corpus in which Day attacked constitutionality of the law levying an occupation tax on coin operated marble machines.

The court did not pass on constitutionality of the law, but dismissed the application on grounds the question was moot and because the complaints against Day were defective.

Day was arrested for alleged violation of the law, which was enacted at the regular session of the 43rd legislature. He sought a writ of habeas corpus from the Travis county district court and appealed when it was denied.

In holding the attack was moot, the court pointed out that the first special session of the 43rd legislature enacted a law on the subject which, if valid, supersedes the regular session pronouncement.

A sentence of 50 years' imprisonment imposed on Newt Miller in Mitchell county on conviction of the murder of N. M. Davis was sustained.

John Williams, Potter county, convicted of the murder of Bura Stanley and sentenced to 15 years, was denied a motion for rehearing.

Affirmance was given to the conviction of Clint Sloane, Dallas county, sentenced to 25 years in the slaying of Robert Franklin.

Doctors Kill Like Thugs When They Forget Science And Turn Murderer

Famous Cases Reveal They Are Primitive In Their Methods

By NEA Service

WHEN the medical mind turns to murder, strange and hidden paths to death might be expected. The medical familiarity with weaknesses of the flesh, the special knowledge of deadly drugs and instruments, add a touch of gruesomeness when a professed healer sets out to kill.

Yet, often as not, in the red moment when comes the urge to kill, the physician is only a man or a woman, the expert knowledge of his profession falls away, and he kills like any common cut-throat.

The slaying of Mrs. Rheta Wynekoop in Chicago, which her mother-in-law, Dr. Alice L. Wynekoop, confessed, is remarkable as much for the commonplace means of committing it, and the clumsy efforts to hide it, as for its more horrible aspects.

Slew Like Common Thug

YET this is not so remarkable when other murders hatched in medical minds are called up.

No more professional-looking physician ever practiced than Dr. Walter K. Wilkins of Long Beach, N. J. An apparently kindly old practitioner of three-score years, bearded like an academician, he brutally beat his wife to death with a hammer one night.

A jury failed to believe his story of three burglars who invaded his home and committed the murder. While the doctor had taken certain precautions, like wrapping the hammer handle with newspapers to avert leaving finger prints, the whole thing was done in just the vicious way any pluguly might have done it.

And when the doctor, convicted and awaiting sentence in Mineola jail, decided to end his own life, he administered no secret potions, took no scientific way for his own farewell, but simply hanged himself.

Chokes Widow To Death

DR. CHARLES M. McMILLAN of Los Angeles was found guilty of another brutal murder in which the special knowledge of a medical man did not seem to figure. The body of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, a wealthy widow, was found by a roadside near San Fernando, sewn in a canvas sack, the arms tied with surgeon's knots.

She had been beaten savagely and choked, and apparently thrown from an automobile, and left to die of exposure.

Dr. McMillan, as a retired physician, had been directing both her personal and business affairs, and a will indicated him as Mrs. Appleby's heir.

Though he steadfastly denied the murder, so great a mass of circumstantial evidence piled up against him that even his professional calm could not save him.

Nor was any more finesse evident in the murder by Dr. S. Oliver Netherton of his wife. They were Kansas farm folk, and took up truck and fruit farming at Olathe when Dr. Netherton quit medical practice. Dr. Netherton, patient, practical and reflective, was well thought of in the community.

Wife Shot; Given Life

ONE day his wife's body was found in the basement of their home, pitched forward by the cellar stairs, two bullet wounds in her head. A jury did not believe his story of robbery, and he is serving a life term, though many of his fellow-townsmen still refuse to believe that this medically-trained man stooped to a gun murder of the kind that any passing tramp might perpetrate.

None the less, physicians there have been who used with deadly results the knowledge they gained as healers, and who tried to veil in the mysteries of science the guilt they knew was theirs.

Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, whose life ended in the chair at Sing Sing, was such a man. Dr. Waite was a promising young dentist, rapidly building a practice among New York's wealthy. He was well-educated, personable, a coming man. He married well, uniting with Miss Clara Peck, beautiful daughter of J. E. Peck, a millionaire drug manufacturer. Everything looked rosy for the rising young dentist.

Poisons Parents-in-Law

THE bride's parents came to visit the young couple in New York. But soon Mrs. Peck died, apparently of Bright's disease. Dr. Waite dutifully accompanied the body back to Grand Rapids and arranged the funeral. Six weeks later, Peck died, too. Again Dr. Waite went to Grand Rapids, and suggested cremation.

But a mysterious warning to a member of the family suggested that an autopsy be performed. It said, "Suspicion aroused. Demand autopsy. Do not reveal telegram." It was signed K. Adams. And K. Adams happened to be the name of a woman murdered by poison in a famous case years before. Somebody remembered that.

So an autopsy was performed, and arsenic found in the stomach of the dead man. Dr. Waite was arrested, and in court under oath he told a revolting story of administering both poisons and disease germs to his parents-in-law in such a way as to make their deaths appear natural.

It was their $2,000,000, to which his wife would have been heir, that Waite wanted.

Wife Marked To Die

HE had planned further to murder his wife in the same way later, and, as heir to the Peck fortune, to lavish still more jewels and money on another woman.

His medical knowledge, abused in so dreadful a fashion, could not save him from death in the electric chair at Sing Sing.

Perhaps the arch medical murderer of all time was Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen. He was an American physician who married Belle Elmore, an actress. They went to London to live at Hilldrop Crescent, North London.

Crippen was 47, short, and by no means good-looking. But he soon tired of Belle, and won the affections of a young typist, Ethel Le Neve.

Body Found In Cellar

ONE day Dr. Crippen announced to Miss Le Neve and others that his wife had gone back to California. So Miss Le Neve moved into the house at Hilldrop Crescent as housekeeper.

Friends of Belle Elmore were disturbed, because they could not get in touch with her in California, and were suspicious of Dr. Crippen's evasive answers to their queries. They called in Scotland Yard.

But meanwhile Dr. Cripen vanished, before the cellar at Hilldrop Crescent yielded up the fragments of a body that had been that of Belle Elmore.

Detectives, amateur and professional, swarmed over England looking for Dr. Crippen. But the first "tip" came from far out in the Atlantic, from the captain of the Montrose. He had become suspicious of a man and his son who boarded the steamer at Antwerp.

By wireless the identification of Dr. Crippen was made, and the "son" was shown to be Ethel Le Neve in boy's clothing!

Captured And Hanged

INSPECTOR DEW of Scotland Yard boarded the Laurentic, a faster ship than the Montrose, and caught Crippen before he landed in America. Examination of the fragmentary remains of Belle Elmore's body, buried beneath the flagstones in the cellar of Dr. Crippen's home, revealed traces of a rare poison. And when a druggist testified that Dr. Crippen had bought such a poison, the jig was up.

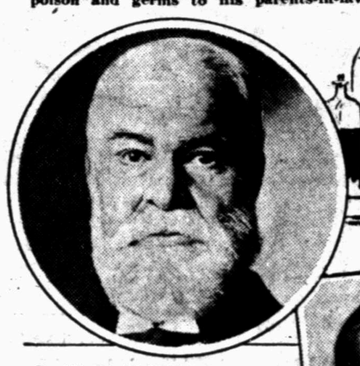

A jury promptly found that Dr. Crippen had poisoned his wife, deliberately and carefully dissected the body in the cellar, burned most of it, and buried the remainder beneath the flagstones. Dr. Crippen was hanged.

Dr. Arthur Warren Waite . . . was put to death at Sing Sing for administering fatal poison and germs to his parents-in-law.

Dr. Charles M. McMillan . . . was convicted of brutally beating to death a wealthy widow.

Dr. Walter K. Wilkins . . . beat his wife to death with a hammer . . . then hanged himself before justice was done.

Physicians, with their intimate knowledge of the human body, seldom do murder. . . . When they do it is often by the same methods an ordinary murderer would use . . . yet some skilled physicians used all their knowledge in an effort to hide the evidence of their acts.

Dr. S. Oliver Netherton . . . serving a life term for shooting to death his wife.

Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen . . . administered a rare and fatal poison to his wife.

"Rough House" Nelson Tells How He Became Brute To Aid His Reputation

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 13. (AP)—A candid story of how he turned "brute" to rehabilitate his reputation as a wrestler, was unfolded before a circuit court jury by "Rough House" Nelson in a $25,000 damage suit resumed here today.

Nelson was a witness for Tom Packs, veteran St. Louis sports promoter and defendant in the suit brought by Harry Sharpe, referee who claims he was injured by infuriated wrestling fans after a bout in February, 1930.

It was nearly 10 years ago, "Rough House" related, that he reluctantly decided he was finished as a straight wrestler.

"I was no gentle wrestler," he said, "but I decided I would have to change my tactics and become a brute. The promoters liked my new style because these methods drew bigger crowds."

Asked if he wasn't known as the "bad boy" of the wrestling game, Nelson replied, "I guess so. I am an expert hair puller and eye-gouger."

The More The Better

"And the more you could get the fans to holler and swear at you the better?" asked Robert Kratky, attorney for the plaintiff.

"Yes, sir," replied Nelson.

"Your opponent had all the sympathy of the audience?" Kratky asked.

"I suppose they did," replied the wrestler. "I know I never got any. But I could get more matches and make more money. Even though the fans were infuriated they would pay to come to see me and they liked it."

"How about throwing your opponent out of the ring?" asked the attorney.

"That's a good idea," the witness responded calmly. "Usually that cripples them and you don't have to bother about them any more that night."

"Rough House" modestly refused to "claim the honor" of founding the "new school of wrestling."

J. Ed Glenn Out For Texas Office

KOPPERL, Tex., Dec. 13. (AP)—J. Ed Glenn, who unsuccessfully sought nomination as governor in the last campaign, announced today that he again was a Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

"Cutting the cost of government," he said in a statement, "an equitable distribution of the tax burden and an equal sharing of human privileges and opportunities is the foundation on which we must weave the tapestry of future success, as a people and as a government.

"This country has been dominated so long by machine politics that discharging the duties of the governor's office according to the dictates of an honest conscience is going to be a two-fisted fighting job. If I did not know I have the moral courage to take punishment and fight, I would not be out running for the office I intend to keep free from all political clicks and clans."

Glenn summed up his "political loss" in the last campaign as "the nomination, 85 cents in cash, and a dern good old houn' dog."

He said he favored an amended constitution to provide that "one-half the members of the state legislature and one-half of our representatives in congress shall be women."

TAXES COLLECTED

FLOYDADA (Special)—More than $40,000 in Taxes was collected during November, Frank L. Moore, collector, reported.

Remittances included: to state, $13,760.13; to the county, $11,296.68 and to the schools, $13,854.26; total, $40,631.69.

The Hudson Valley was ancient before the Grand Canyon was even started.

Two Men Face Federal Count

Murph Harrold And John Foster Named; Bonds Of $1,000 Each Set By Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey

Murph Harrold of Lubbock and John R. Foster of Littlefield were charged yesterday afternoon with possession of equipment for transferring the likeness of United States currency.

Victor H. Lindsey, before whom the complaint was filed, set bond of each at $1,000. Harrold and Foster pleaded not guilty on arraignment.

A second count in the charge alleged the men partially reproduced a $5 national currency note.

Both Have Attorneys

Both men yesterday had employed attorneys. Durwood H. Bradley represented Harrold; Wade Pottier of Littlefield represented Foster.

The men were arrested in a Southland hotel Monday.

A federal agent, who prepared the charge, said that the purported counterfeiting equipment confiscated by Sheriff W. F. Cato of Garza county, Sheriff Tom Abel of Lubbock county, and Jack Reaves, state highway patrolman of Lubbock was not capable of producing counterfeit bills.

To Persuade Victims

Officers, who investigated the case, said they believed the "equipment" was used to persuade prospective victims of an alleged confidence ring to invest money in the purported counterfeiting activities.

Report of a Post man that he had been fleeced of $900 resulted in the arrests. Another Post man and his son went to the suspects and pretended to be interested in a scheme similar to that in which the other man had been duped. Waiting officers then caught the suspects with the "equipment."

No Plates Found

Liquids and powders which were intended as an impressive part of the paraphernalia were said to be of little use in actual counterfeit production. No photographic or copper plates were found.

Iodine, an iodine solution, an iodine and iron mixture, an alcoholic niter, creosote, powdered soap, sodium and potassium tartrate, and a talcum-like powder unidentified, were the contents of bottles and vials confiscated. None was believed to be of use in making effective reproductions of currency, except that some possibly could be used in dyeing and dye-setting.

English Flier Is Missing On Jaunt Over The Channel

LONDON, Dec. 13 (AP)—A constant search again today failed to reveal the wherabouts of Vicomte Charles De Manneville, who left Croydon airport on a lone flight to Paris yesterday morning.

His plane was last reported over Lymphne, English air base near the channel, at 10:15 a. m., 45 minutes after he had left Croydon.

Ships searched the channel throughout the night. Wireless messages from Croydon and from the air ministry asking shipping to keep a lookout were repeated today.

Captain Leburgue, a French pilot who flew here from Paris at about the time De Manneville should have been crossing, said the sky was clear between Boulogne and Dover.

The Vicomte was an amateur flier. His father, the Comte De Manneville, formerly was French Minister to Rumania.

INSTALL EQUIPMENT

POST (Special)—A new freezing display counter has been installed in the Packinghouse Market by J. R. and Clyde Hundley, the owners. Wallace Simpson of Lubbock was engaged as manager. The two men bought out the interest of W. R. Graeber in the business.

Settlement Of Claims Sought

American-Mexican Claims Are Subject Of Discussions In Mexico City; Daniels Makes Some Progress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13 (AP)—Settlement of American - Mexican claims, troublesome issue that has dragged along since civil war days, was the subject of a special study concluded today by experts in the state department, whereafter attempts for an en bloc settlement reverted to Mexico City for further negotiation.

Claims dating back to 1868 are included in the billion-dollar demands made by Mexicans and Americans, which the late Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow attempted to adjudicate with a lump sum settlement, arrived at on some precentage basis of the difference between American claims against Mexico, and Mexican claims against the United States.

Progress Reported

Recent reports from Mexico City said that Ambassador Josephus Daniels had made progress toward the lump sum settlement. Mexican Ambassador Fernando Gonzales Roa left Washington three months ago to enter the Mexico City discussions, and the latest word is he may not return until the negotiations either succeed or fail.

The state department is being represented at Mexico City by the American embassy.

American claims against Mexico total nearly $1,000,000,000. Mexican counter claims approximate $300,000,000. General and special claims commissions have wrestled with these figures for a decade and have made little progress. Less than 5 per cent of the claims have been studied thus far.

Seek Lump Sum Payment

With commissions recently renewed for a two-year period only, there is little hope of making substantial headway unless the two governments can reach agreement for a lump sum payment that would wipe out all claims.

Most other nations' claims against Mexico now have been settled on the basis of approximately 3 cents on the dollar. These were largely for damages during the Mexican revolutionary days, however, and it is believed that inasmuch as the bulk of the American claims are outside that period, they have a better valuation. In general the claims cover demands for damages in loss of life and property.

It is known that the United States has suggested for discussion an amount which probably would be acceptable to the United States senate, while Mexico has countered with an amount it would be willing to pay to clear up the claims. There is a wide difference in the amounts asked and offered, and attempts now are being made to bridge this gap.

Hope that the issue might be cleared up within the next year recently has been heard.

Harvesters, Bobcats Prime For Game Here; Lamesa To Meet Hereford

Driving Lines And Charging Backs To Meet

High School Classic Of West Texas Booked For Matador Field Here Saturday; San Angelo Vs. Pampa

A brace of hard driving forward walls coupled to a versatile pair of backfields collide at Matador field Saturday afternoon when San Angelo and Pampa high schools battle it out in a quarter-final Texas Interscholastic league game which also holds for the championship of all West Texas.

Fresh from victories over Abilene high school and Bowie of El Paso, the two teams are due to pitch an aerial circus on Tech field this week. But passes won't get all the consideration. Both teams boast driving offensive on the ground.

Lubbock's limited quota of ducats for the championship match are on sale at the J. & J. Sporting Goods store. Student tickets, going at 25c are on sale at Lubbock high school.

Comparative scores point strongly to a Harvester triumph. Pampa shellacked Big Spring, 20 to 0, early in the season, while San Angelo was only able to gain a 0-0 deadlock with Obie Bistow's outfit. With Abilene as a yardstick, the comparison is still more one sided. The Eagles took the Bobcats into camp, 20-12, and then succumbed last week to Pampa, 27-7.

All-Star Players Here

San Angelo brings a trio of all-district 3 performers to Lubbock in Quarterback Reid, Fullback Hays and Pivot Costello. Hays is rated one of the finest backs in the state. Pampa also has her share of all-district team members — Heiskell, fullback, Hamilton, quarter, Eldridge, guard, and Owens, end, being of this calibre.

So it looks like a great battle between opposing fullbacks, field generals, and linesmen.

The Pampa and San Angelo season records are:

Pampa

Pampa 6, McLean 6 (tie).
Capitol Hill (Oklahoma City) 7; Pampa 6.
Big Spring 0; Pampa 20.
Shawnee, Okla., 7; Pampa 0.
Cisco 0, Pampa 27.
Plainview 0, Pampa 6. Conference.
Canyon Teachers Frosh 7, Pampa 6.
Amarillo 9; Pampa 6. (Forfeited) Conference.
Lubbock 0; Pampa 26. Conference.
Borger 6, Pampa 25. Conference.
Pampa 27, Abilene 7.

San Angelo

San Angelo 26; Brownwood 6.
San Angelo 26; Cisco 6.
San Angelo 12; Abilene 20.
San Angelo 61; Coleman 6.
San Angelo 29; Winters 2.
San Angelo 0; Big Spring 0.
San Angelo 27; Colorado 7.
San Angelo 34; McCamey 0.
San Angelo 12; Sweetwater 0.
San Angelo 27; Bowie (El Paso) 7.

Pampa Team And Fans Plan Invasion

(Special To The Avalanche)

PAMPA, Dec. 13.—Tickets for the Pampa - San Angelo quarter - final football game on Texas Tech field at Lubbock Saturday went on sale here today with the demand keen.

Pampans are supporting the Harvesters almost to the exclusion of everything else. They will form a large section of the big audience Saturday. The band of 35 pieces and the pep squad of 125 girls will be transported in school buses. Selection of Lubbock as the site was popular.

A special train is being offered by the Santa Fe if 150 tickets are bought at $3.80 each for the round trip.

Team Is At Work

Meanwhile, Coaches Odus Mitchell and Argus Fox are sending the Harvesters through long, light practices in which defense against the heavy lunges of the San Angelo backs are stressed. The Bobcat passing machine is not greatly feared by the locals, whose stopping of such attacks has been impressive this season. But the power in the San Angelo backfield, especially within scoring distances, frankly has the Pampa mentors thinking deeply.

There are few Pampans who believe San Angelo can get through the Harvester line, but there is no disposition to underrate the ability of the foe. It is expected to be a harder game than the Abilene Eagles provided.

Four Harvesters are being offered as all-state timber as the Pampans move downstate in the football eliminations. Heading the list and already widely known is Monroe Owens, 165-pound end who is sensational in every type of play. His position is seldom circled and he harasses the opposing backs constantly. He plunges the line on end-around plays. He can catch passes.

An All-Star Center

Scarcely less brilliant is Roscoe Pinnell, 160-pound center, whose tackling and backing up the line has done much to make the Harvester wall the most difficult to open in West Texas. In Pampa's crushing victory over Abilene, Pinnell played a great game despite an ankle swollen twice its normal size.

In J. R. Green, 186-pound tackle, the Harvesters have one of the most aggressive linesmen in the state. He rushed Captain Cogdell of Abilene until that great player could barely find time to pass and punt. Green also kicks extra points.

Pampa's quarterback, spinning through opposing lines with regularity all season, and calling the plays in Coach Odus Mitchell's deceptive system, is another bidder for acclaim. He is Lloyd Hamilton, an all-round leader.

Other Harvesters seldom equalled are Smith, guard; Heiskell and Marbaugh, fullbacks; and Mundy and Mackie, tackles. Stevens is a great blocking halfback, while Gregory, his running mate, circles ends punts, and plays safety. Captain Jess Patton, end opposite Owens shines principally as an interferer and squad leader.

Gridiron Lads To Be Honored With Banquet

Gridiron heroes of Texas Tech and Lubbock High school will be toasted and feasted tonight at a banquet prepared in their honor by Lubbock business and professional men.

The number of gridders who shall be so honored depend, to a great extent, on the number of fans, business and professional men, attending the banquet. An urgent request for a large number of men to buy tickets was made last night by officials of the Matador club. Approximately sixty tickets, or "plates" had been sold last night. There is need for double that number.

Fans who will buy plates, at 60 cents a plate, for themselves and one or more football players are requested to purchase them today at the J. & J. Sporting Goods store, at the Avalanche-Journal or at Hotel Hilton tonight.

ON THE SIDELINES
BY EDWARD J. NEIL

Those Army Exams

West Point is not such an easy school for an athlete to enter, a glance at the Army football roster indicates. Nearly all the fast-charging halfbacks and bruising linemen have had to prepare for the rigid army exams by going to prep school or college and brushing up on mathematics—and football.

This year, several young players on teams that played the Army liked West Point so well they are thinking of becoming sojers. Lee of Mercer, Pollocks of Penn Military and Hill of Coe are cases reported. But it may be several years—if ever—before you see their names in an Army lineup. It's those darned exams.

Buckler Sticks Out

Take, for instance, Johnny Buckler, one of the Army backs who probably will be named on most of the All-America teams this year. "Texas Jack" went to the Point from high school and failed in his first year as a plebe. He went to Texas Tech, came back for another plunge at that old mathematics line and failed again. So he went to Baylor. After a year at Baylor, he was appointed again by Rep. O. H. Cross, and managed to make the grade.

That is the story behind a great many of the experienced football players at West Point. Nearly all had to study at prep school or college before being sufficiently educated to pass the Army exams.

Joe Stancook, star halfback, spent a year at Notre Dame where he won numerals in football, basketball and track. Bill Martz, another halfback, spent three years at Penn State (but he didn't learn much football there.)

Pete Jablonsky, captain and star guard, who is playing his last year, was at Washington University, St Louis, for three years before seeing the Point (excuse the pun, Pete.)

Old Smarties

There are exceptions, quarterback "Beany" Johnson spent only his freshman year at Ashland (O.) College before being West Pointed, and Jack Lawlor was able to enter the Military Academy as a plebe after spending only one year at Harvard.

One of the notable varsity exceptions this year is Pete Kopcsak, who went straight to the Point from Greensburg, Pa., high school, played a great game at end for three years and will be graduated with the class of 1934. Not only that but he's a color sergeant, member of the cadet choir, pistol sharpshooter, rifle marksman, first-class gunner in the field artillery and a Sunday school teacher!

Heinz Has His Hands Full Of Mr. J. Curtis

Local Favorite Finally Wins Graceful Argument In Main Event Last Night; Sailor Moran Punches Way To Win

A substitute was pitted against Tommy "Sunshine" Heinz in the second match of a wrestling double header at the Auditorium last night, but long before the end of the third fall, the 500 fans were wondering: "Where has this guy been hiding? Boyoboy, he's got what it takes."

A murmur of approval that greeted the "substitute," one Jack Curtis of San Antonio, swelled into a roar of appreciation before Heinz finally floored him for the third and decisive fall.

Heinz, evidently, had expected a set-up when the substitute for Jim Cushing of Seattle was announced. Cushing was unavoidably delayed en route, and failed to arrive in time. But the match developed into one of the fastest, neatest grappling contests so far offered Lubbock fans by Promoter Sled Allen.

All He Had

The little, brown-skinned youth from South Texas didn't need a thing—except possibly a little more reserve strength. He took plenty of punishment from the aggressive Heinz. But Heinz had his hands full, and but for a couple of good breaks they might have been going till yet.

Heinz was as surprised as any of the crowd when the handsome black-thatched youth skillfully eluded the fourth of series of head-on rushes one of Heinz' favorite modes of attack, let Tommy crash into the ropes standing up, then crouched behind him, catching Heinz on the rebound in as neat a bit of "clipping" as you ever saw on a football field. Heinz was caught off guard and off balance. Curtis quickly applied a head-lock and smother to win the first fall after 21 minutes of fast, tricky wrestling.

They came back for the second, Curtis wearing a patch over an eyebrow which had been bleeding in the first fall. They were more careful, particularly Heinz. Curtis withstood Heinz' rushing attack and came out neatly from hammer locks and head scissors. They exchanged arm stretches, quick as cats in a fight. Curtis began ramming at Heinz then, and Red got groggy. But Heinz, who can match trick for trick and blow for blow with any and all comers, fell into a semi-Japanese crab, or a single toe hold, and there was nothing Curtis could do about it. The second fall lasted 12 minutes.

Watches For Tricks

Curtis tried the "clipping" game again, but Heinz was on to that trick. He even turned it into a trick himself, coming away from the ropes over Curtis' body, then grabbing an arm for a slam, finishing with a body smother that won the fall in 12 minutes. It was a well-matched bout, fairly clean and above board, all the way.

Sailor Moran, the Arkansas Hillbilly, came back to digest the hisses and catcalls of a Lubbock audience again last night, and took away a full share of them. He met a young demon in Charlie Heard, the fellow who whipped Art Belcher of Amarillo to a pulp in a prelim here last week. Heard crowded Moran all over the ring. They were well matched as to size and weight, looking somewhat alike, and they used the same fighting tactics. It went the fall distance, one fall being awarded on a foul.

Referee Entangled

They slammed and battered each other around, with Moran paying more attention, apparently, to the referee than his opponent. The result somtimes was painful to him. Referee Marty Fiedler went down with Moran in the ropes after Fiedler attempted to admonish Moran about choking, hair-pulling and slugging with fists. He might have quoted certain sections of the law to Moran, something about the penalty for murder in cold blood or something. Anyway, Moran attacked him, and for a minute or two all three of them were tangled up in the ropes.

Moran took the first fall in 29 minutes with a body smother after a series of rabbit punches and body blows. Heard was knocked groggy, and barely able to leave the ring.

The San Antonio youth showed the effects of the first round beating in the second fall. Moran took advantage of this, and kicked him in the stomach, knocking him down. Referee Fiedler called it a foul and awarded the fall to Heard.

There was no wrestling at all in the third fall. Heard never hit a lick nor got a hold. It was a sudden series of rabbit punches, and fist blows, and on the fifth knockdown, Heard stayed down, unable to rise for several seconds.

To Boss Blues

ROGER PECKINPAUGH

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP)—Roger Peckinpaugh, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, was signed today to pilot the Kansas City Blues of the American association. The Boston Red Sox also announced a working agreement with the Kansas City club.

Trading Winds Blow Hard At Baseball Meet

Goose Goslin Goes To Detroit For Jonathan Stone; Carl Reynolds Cut By Browns; Jim Levey To Hollywood

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP) — Baseball's trade winds, unleashed yesterday with history-making fury as Connie Mack broke up his once unbeatable Athletic combination, blew more noted stars helter skelter today.

Leon "Goose" Goslin, outfield star of the championship Washington Senators, was swapped outright for Jonathan Stone, rising outfielder of the Detroit Tigers.

Carl Reynolds, hard hitting outfielder, was traded by the St. Louis Browns to the money flushed and ambitious Boston Red Sox for Pitcher Ivy Andress and Smead Jolley, another slugging outfielder.

As soon as Manager Rogers Hornsby of the Browns, considered one of the keenest David Harums in baseball, completed the deal, he sent Jolley, Pitcher Wallace Hebert and Shortstop Jim Levey to Hollywood of the Pacific Coast league in a straight deal for Allen Strange, regarded as one of the prize shortstop prospects in the game.

Red Sox Sign Farm

Roger Peckinpaugh, former manager of the Cleveland Indians, was signed as manager of the Kansas City club of the American Association and the Red Sox—they're getting in almost every deal and stirring up most of the activity—announced they had signed a working agreement with Kansas City as a first step toward establishment of a farm system.

Outdistanced for probably the first time during a trading spree, the National League managers convinced observers that a uniform ball was certain for the two major leagues, effective next season.

A Livelier Sphere

Asked by President John Heydler for the opinion, the National League managers voted almost unanimously for a livelier sphere. Only Bill Terry, manager of the world championship New York Giants, cast a vote against it.

Meanwhile, the American League club owners did nothing about the ball, adopting a "watchful waiting" policy. They were convinced a uniform ball would be adopted and that it would be the American League ball, a livelier sphere with a cover .005 of an inch thinner and one stitch less.

Santone Team Eligible For Further Games

Corsicana's Protest Is Overruled By State's Executive Committee; Brackenridge To Meet Greenville

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 13. — Corsicana High school's contest of the eligibility of Brackenridge High school of San Antonio to continue in the state school boy football championship race was denied by the executive committee of the University of Texas Interscholastic league today.

Corsicana, which was eliminated by Brackenridge last week, contended the San Antonio school had violated Rule 11 of the league which limits to 10 the number of games a high school football team may play between the opening of the season and the Saturday following Thanksgiving.

No Formal Protest

Roy B. Henderson, league secretary, said Corsicana did not enter a formal protest but sought, instead, a friendly ruling on the question. Henderson said Corsicana officials expressed no desire to reenter the championship race.

After hearing representatives of both schools, the executive committee ruled that Brackenridge had not violated the regulation in that its "A" team had not played more than 10 games. Officials admitted that a "B" team had played games with Edison High school at San Antonio and with Floresville, making the number of games total 12.

Applied To "A" Team

The construction the executive committee placed on the rule was that it applied only to the "A" team. Henderson said, however, a committee would be appointed to clarify the rule to prevent a recurrence of the Brackenridge situation.

Principal O. P. Douglas and Coach John Pierce represented Corsicana at the hearing and Brackenridge was represented by Principal Enos Gary and Coach Manor Puckett.

Members of the committee which gave the interpretation of the rule were T. H. Shelby, chairman; Roy Bedichek, secretary; R. C. Cox, C. A. Wiley, T. A. Rousse and Roy B. Henderson.

Brackenridge will go to Greenville Friday to play Greenville High school in a quarter final game of the race.

Cage Teams Of Tech And Lubbock High In Drills

Matadors To Open With McMurry Wednesday

Dell Morgan's Texas Tech goal-shooters start the basket balls rolling next Wednesday night in a game with the strong McMurry college cagers of the Texas Conference.

Lubbock high school's 1934 model basketball machine went through its initial official workout yesterday with some thirty candidates on the floor at Westerner gym.

With about twenty men, letter men, former squad members, transfers, and likely freshmen, the Matadors have prospects of a successful season, but in the invading Abilene club they face no setup. Last season McMurry placed second in the Texas conference, and most of their team has returned.

In Regular Conference

Competing in a regular conference this season, the Westerners play a brace of games with each of the class A high schools of this district, Amarillo, Pampa, Plainview, and Borger. All the games are definitely arranged with the exception of dates for the Amarillo clash.

The conference race does not get under way for some time, however, and Basketball Coach Swede McMurry said that his team would like warm-up games with any court aggregations in this vicinity.

Tuesday night the first regular practice was held at Tech gym. Alvin Crews, Polk Robison, Henry Loter, Will Gilmore, J. C. Thomas, Trueman Green, and Lawrence Priddy are letter men of last year. Former squad members include Bulldog Hale, Robert Butcher, and George Nixon.

With the stimulus of a conference race as a preliminary to the state eliminations, considerably more interest will go with the Westerner campaign this year. Season tickets for all the Westerner games will be on sale soon.

Warren Kerr, long, lanky letterman, is expected to put in the strongest bid for the center's job on the high school team. Kerr, built along greyhound lines and standing well over six feet, was a star of the '32 team, but was not in school last year, and will not be eligible until next semester.

Newcomers At Tech

On the Tech team, Leon Weaver, a transfer from John Tarleton has been looking well in practice. Houston Wester, hot-shot from Plainview high, Leroy Crews, brother of Alvin, Vinson Stamphill, Marshall Cook, and Chester McCarty are promising men off last year's Fish team.

Lefty Sollis, Marion Harris, and Matt Hitchcock, through with pigskin chasing for the year, are out for the basketball team.

Bidding strong for the high school guard positions are four men off the Westerner football team, Robert Dowell, Jack Cole, Estel McGaw, and Othie Upton. Gambill and Simms are also shooting for the guard assignments.

Rayburn Hale, a letterman of last year, and Rufus Ryan, former squadman, become automatically ineligible at the end of this semester under the four-year ruling, but Coach McMurry is planning to use them extensively during the early games. Hale was one of the outstanding forwards on the club last year, and Ryan, general utility man, is expected to be considerably improved.

McWhorter, Mast, Williams, Loftiss, and Patterson are other possibilities at forwards.

Two other potential squadmen are Russel Fulton and Andy Smallin. Smallin, a transfer who has looked exceedingly good so far, will not be eligible until February 4. Fulton, a nice performer last season, dropped out of school last spring, but may possibly be eligible by the end of the semester.

Porker Cage Team Averages 6 Feet 3; Open Up Tonight

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Dec. 13. (AP)—A basketball team averaging 6 feet, 3 inches in height will take the floor for the University of Arkansas when the Razorbacks open their cage season in a pair of games with the Northeast Oklahoma Teachers, of Tahlequah, tomorrow and Friday nights.

A strenuous schedule for the next eight days send the Razorbacks against seven opponents, including a skirmish here Saturday night with the Springfield, Mo., Teachers; and a state barnstorming trip in which Arkansas will face the Fort Smith Oilers Dec. 18, Conway State Teachers Dec. 19, and the Little Rock Colonial Bakers in a two-game series Dec. 20 and 21.

Carnera Due In America To Open Negotiations For Bout

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (AP)—Stormy weather delaying the arrival of Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, who is sailing here from Italy, halted negotiations today for the title match Madison Square Garden plans between him and Tommy Loughran in Miami, Feb. 22.

Conferences planned at the Garden were postponed a day. While Carnera already has signed for a title defense his opinions of Loughran as an opponent, Miami as the site, and Feb. 22 as the date are not known. Loughran has asked a larger percentage than the 12 1-2 ordinarily paid a title challenger.

The New York state athletic commission today examined Cleto Locatelli, Italian lightweight champion, and Tony Canzoneri, former world titleholder, and pronounced them fit for their match in the Garden Friday night.

Last summer more than 25 research professors were engaged in archeological work in Southern Utah.

Tornado Meets Hereford For Class B Title

Regional Championship Game To Be Played At Hereford Friday Afternoon; Lamesa Team Slight Favorite

LAMESA, Dec. 13. (Special)—Fighting it out for the championship of Class B, Region I, Lamesa and Hereford high schools meet, for the first time since 1929, at Hereford tomorrow.

Negotiations were completed by officials of both schools late today, and it was agreed that the game, deciding the title for Class B districts 1, 2, 3 and 10 should be played at Hereford. In 1929 Hereford invaded the Golden Tornado's field and took a close 12 to 6 bi-district game.

Rotan Is Loser

Last week Lamesa defeated Rotan for the bi-district title of the southern half, while Hereford ran over Dumas for the title in districts 1 and 2.

Both aggregations are exceedingly strong, both on offense and defense. Until last week, the Tornado's goal line had not been crossed by a Class B team in 20 games, and the Lamesa team has run up 325 points to opponent's 20. Hereford also has an enviable record playing strong teams during the fall, and winning by sizable margins.

Coaches McCollum

By a strange coincidence, both teams are coached by McCollums. F. T. McCollum of Baylor university is Lamesa's mentor, while Hereford's high school gridmen are tutored by Tommy McCollum of Simmons university.

Interest is considerably aroused in both cities over the forthcoming championship contest.

Baylor Awards 22 Gridiron Letters To 1933 Season Team

WACO, Dec. 13. (AP)—The Baylor university athletic council today awarded 22 regular and two honorary letters to members of this year's football squad, which, on the basis of games won, finished in a tie for second place in the Southwest conference.

The honorary letters went to Abe Barnett and Murrel Freels, seniors who saw little action during the season just ended.

Regular letters were given to Raymond Buchanan, Jimmie Cloyd, Bennie Clark, Harold (Red) Clem, Hulen Hall, Frank James, Archie Kroney, A. W. Norton, J. R. Nutt, jr., Jimmie Parks, Joe Jack Pearce, Austin Peay, Jim Tom Petty, Carl Price, Maurice Sanderson, Tom Schneider, Aubrey Stringer, Lawrence Thornton, Jim Weatherby, Warren Feathers, Hugh Wilfong, and John Williams.

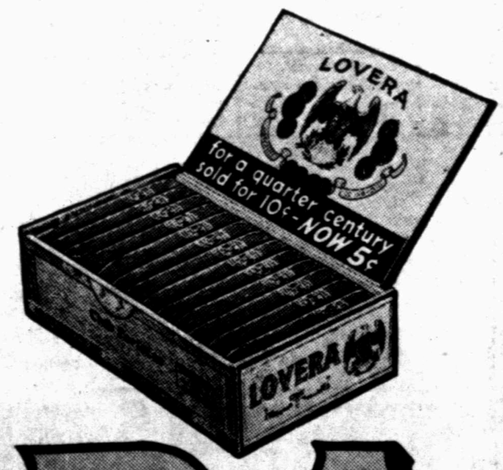

Nutt was business manager of the Bear team.

ALPHABETICAL CAPTAINS

FULTON, Mo. (AP)—Captains for the 1933 Fulton high school football team were chosen in alphabetical order and served for a single game. The seniors came first, then the juniors.

Hundreds of square miles of mountainous Utah have never been visited by white men.

A Lesson For All Of Us

INDIVIDUALS and communities, which for some reason or flood of reasons may have all but given up in their fight against economic stress, should read of the record made by Compton, California, a thriving suburb of Los Angeles.

A half year ago Compton, in a 30-second period, was laid waste by the terrible earthquake which damaged much of the Los Angeles area. Compton, hardest hit of all, was nothing but wreck and ruin, once the quake was over. Its entire business area was little more than sagging walls and piles of brick and masonry.

You can imagine—anyone can visualize—the pall of pessimism which must have fallen over that stricken community.

What could be done to rebuild?

How could the great task be accomplished?

At first blush, many of Compton's business men must have wanted to give up in the face of nothing else in sight to do. But spirit rallied and Compton went to work.

Detailed in the recent issue of Editor and Publisher, trade journal of newspaperdom, Compton's glorious battle against obstacles is described as follows:

"Carl Bigsby, co-publisher of the Compton News-Tribune, called a meeting of Compton's business men to survey the commercial situation. Gathered on the lawn in the shadow of the shattered City hall, they found themselves confronted by an appalling problem. With all the places of business untenantable for a period of from six weeks to six months, the small business men of the community were faced with stagnation and ruin.

"Only one solution was possible: in order to save the commercial life of the town, the entire business district must be moved bodily to a large exposition building, undamaged, one-half mile north of the ruined area.

"Undaunted by the enormity of the task, a committee headed by Mr. Bigsby made arrangements for leasing the building, organized the merchants, and, exactly one week from the day of the quake, supervised the formal opening of Compton's Emergency Business Center. Ninety per cent of the town's stores were represented in booths along two intersecting aisles, representing the two main intersecting streets of the ruined district, each booth in a position on the aisle corresponding to its location on the street in the abandoned district.

"Residents of Compton, and those of other less ingenious communities, flocked to the opening and merchants reported record-breaking business grosses throughout the following fortnight.

"Heartened by this demonstration of courage and resourcefulness, the people of Compton began their rebuilding program, and five months after the disaster again called on Mr. Bigsby, this time to be chairman of the general committee in charge of Compton's Comeback celebration.

"Visitors to Compton during the celebration found a new city, with attractive, modern-design, earthquake-proof buildings, draped and decorated in honor of the town's rejuvenation."

TO The Morning Avalanche, Compton's courageous assault against the odds of fate and its almost super-human victory in the face of what looked like certain and total defeat, is one of the most inspiring stories of the year.

The small California community, through its never-say-die spirit, shames many another town and city and millions of individuals who, not faced by such overwhelming odds, have all but 'laid down in the traces' and quit pulling.

In the years to come, when the California quake's ravages have been obliterated by time, the story of Compton's brave stand will and should be added to the sagas of California's progress and history.

Little Compton has led the way, has sprung anew from its own ashes, has done a hard job well.

Men advertise that they won't be responsible for debts contracted by their wives. A wife who "contracts" rather than "expands" debts is something to advertise.

STARTING AT HOME

"These twelve Jesus sent forth, and charged them saying: 'Go not into any way of the Gentiles, and enter not into any city of the Samaritans; but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.'"
—Matthew, 10:5, 6.

Some people might use this passage of scripture to show that Jesus was not interested in race equality. If we stop to think why Jesus requested his disciples not to go to these other people, we can see that it was because he realized he must first try to win some of his own people before going to others.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

UNCLE Sam is taking an intense interest in what the half-million-odd members of the underworld will turn their hand to now prohibition is out of the way.

In fact our federal gumshoe employees are undertaking an unofficial census of the situation. If the booties and hi-jackers turn to labor racketeering, bank stick-ups and the like, that will be a problem for the states and municipalities to stamp out.

Should they decide to turn a dishonest penny in counterfeiting, dope, kidnaping and smuggling, that will be another matter again.

ROUND-UP: When President Roosevelt appealed for a return to law observance along with repeal he was speaking from the administration handbook of reforms that MUST be made.

A fair period of evolution probably will be allowed.

Then if organized violence and disregard for federal laws are still rampant, don't be surprised if a concerted drive on the criminal is started from Washington, using the underworld's own weapons.

Several plans for formation of a federal police force with extremely wide powers have been in the President's hands for some time.

Of course he's reluctant to encroach on state functions. If liquor's return has the desired effect, the plans will remain in the pigeon-hole.

A general turn to making phony money, peddling dope and childsnatching may well produce a ruthless little army of men with one cardinal order—roundup the mobsters with or without lead in them.

RISKS: The Secret service is watching for any increase in counterfeiting. They already have 50 new men on their efficient force. If trouble pops up they'll probably get fifty more.

Depression times have given the Secret service one break. In the past makers of the "queer" have specialized on twenty-dollar bill reproductions. They bring so much more real change when passed in small stores. Little shops which used to be the passer's paradise are apt in these days not to have change for a twenty.

A New York counterfeiter admitted the profession was even being reduced to ones. Only five or six thousand bills can be run from a plate before it wears out. There is much risk and little profit in bad dollar bills.

RE-HIREDS: Last week, the Census Bureau completed its check of nation-wide Blue Eagle reemployment for the NRA. The survey, based on 3,000,000 questionnaires distributed to code employers, is being studied by the President and his aides.

Before attempting the national count of new jobholders the Census bureau did a sort of cross-section preliminary test.

Revelations of the grand total probably won't follow the trial census showing but they are interesting and haven't been printed.

Detailed questionnaires were sent to firms in 145 industries that got in under codes fairly early—all of them small.

Factory employment showed a gain of 18.4 per cent between June 15 and Sept. 15. The number of office workers picked up 8.8 per cent in the same period.

Eighty-six assorted factories returned comparative figures between June 15 and Oct. 15. Wage earners in the shops had increased 28.7 per cent. Office employment for this fragmentary report was off 6.5 per cent. Wages for the most part showed a slight increase.

Industries represented in the first group included such as wool felt, metal lath, drapery and upholstery trimming, asphalt and mastic tile, fibre wall-board, etc.

The 86 reporting for an extra month were from linseed oil manufacturing, wallpaper, the surgical trade and metal hat die and wool hat block.

That's enough of a cross-section for a size up.

NOTES: Hugo Mock, representing the toilet articles manufacturers, chided government officials for talking about misleading advertising (as would be prohibited under the proposed food and drug bill) when the government itself was guilty of the same thing. He was talking about those alluring posters that invite you to "Join the Navy and See the World"—It was almost painful to watch some of the boys in the AAA set-up trying to maintain strict neutrality until they found out which way the battle was going—They were ready to leap the second the winner's hand went up—Almost without exception opponents of the Food & Drug bill who testified last week endorsed it "in principle"—Then they proceeded to tear the hide off it.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE utilities have acquired valuable allies for their battle against the rising tide of municipal competition with federal backing.

F. H. Ecker of Metropolitan Life wasn't talking for fun when he spoke out against subsidized competition. He had moral support from the other big insurance companies. While utility securities are only a small fraction of their investments they own enough to make the fight worthwhile. Even operating company mortgage bonds can depreciate if municipal plants take away their business.

Most utility companies have been afraid to try to mobilize security holders directly for their defense. They've given unofficial aid and comfort to various security owners associations formed for the purpose but up to now these haven't been strong enough to count. Enlistment of insurance interests—traceable to skilled diplomacy by the utilities—changes a corporal's guard to an army corps.

And the mutual companies especially are prize allies because they aren't open to the charge of special pleading on behalf of a privileged few.

The active adoption of their cause by insurance people has emboldened the utilities to strike more aggressively on their own behalf. George B. Cortelyou's threat that there won't be a permanent utility code unless the government lays off fostering competition is a sample—not to be taken too seriously—of what's to come. There will be legal action against projected municipal plants in Camden and elsewhere and publicity rockets will soon give reminders of a feverish Fourth of July.

YARDSTICK: New York defenders of the administration's utility policy contend that the encouragement given to city-owned plants is not aimed at destruction of private utilities but at setting up yardsticks of costs so the public will know where it stands on its electric light bills. This will undermine paper set-ups to some extent and should have more effect in lowering rates than any quantity of state commissions. They add that no objections raised so far are considered valid cause by the government for changing its course.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

AN EXTRAORDINARY FEAT OF MEMORY

The historian Thomas Babington, Baron Macaulay was a voracious reader in his boyhood and his power of memory was extraordinary. Forty years after reading two poems in the "poet's corner" of his country newspaper in 1813, he repeated the poems perfectly from memory. All during the forty year interval, he had never recalled the poems even once, yet his recitation was as perfect as though he had memorized them only the day before.

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN — ©1933 NEA SERVICE INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER meets a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.

Next morning Bannister reads that TRACY KING, orchestra leader in a movie theater, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King the night before. Bannister, remembering the girl in the taxicab, is puzzled.

He sees her again that morning. The girl tells him her name is JULIET FRANCE and that she knows nothing of the murder. She begs Bannister to help her and he agrees.

He goes to see his old friend, JIM PAXTON, editor of the Tremont Post.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VI.

Jim Paxton's face lighted as he saw the figure in the doorway. "Hello there!" he exclaimed. "Glad you came around." Paxton put aside the cigar he had been chewing and leaned back in his chair. "Lord!" he sighed. "What a morning!"

Bannister sauntered to a chair beside the editor's desk. The desk itself was piled high with a litter of newspapers, galley proofs, large manilla envelopes and a stack of letters that had not been opened. "How much did you lose last night?" Bannister demanded.

"Oh, it isn't that. I followed your example and went home early," Paxton assured him, "but I've been down here since six o'clock. That blasted murder last night hit us in a bad way. The Times had all the best of it, of course, coming out this morning. Did a good job, too."

The Times was Tremont's only morning newspaper but the same publishers issued the evening News-Press. Against such opposition the Post had prospered but it was a continuous fight.

"It hit us in a bad way," Paxton repeated. "Kennedy, the city editor, is laid up in a hospital and his assistant is a new one. Only been on the job two months. Besides that," he frowned, raising his two hands in a gesture of defenselessness, "we're short-handed. One man off on a late vacation and another quit without notice. There are a couple of youngsters filling in but they don't know what it's all about!"

"What's new on the murder?" Bannister asked.

"Nothing — apparently. I guess they're still looking for the mysterious blond. More promises that they'll have her at headquarters 'within 24 hours.' Say, it's a whale of a story, isn't it? You don't know what a sensation that crooning orchestra leader has been in this town! Girls and women all crazy about him. Sending him letters and cakes and all sorts of presents. Asking for autographed pictures. Why, our telephone operator's eyes are red and swollen and they say one of the girls in the business office has been crying half the morning—"

"Must have been popular," Bannister agreed shortly.

"Popular's no word for it! And then there's the society angle—his engagement to Denise Lang, the richest girl in Tremont. Why, it's the sort of story that doesn't break once in five years and," bitterly, "we don't even start on it before the Times has cleaned up!"

"I wouldn't say it was cleaned until they find out who killed him."

"Oh, no, of course I didn't mean that. But the Times had the whole story—all anyone's been able to get so far. If Kennedy were only here or I had two more reporters—!"

Bannister had been sitting with his chair tipped back. He brought the two front legs of the chair to the floor now, straightened and said quietly, "You want more reporters, do you? Well, I'll take the job."

"You'll take it!"

Bannister nodded. "I'd like to take a fling at it," he said. "Remember what we were talking about last night—about the thrills and excitement we used to have? Well I'm bored. I've been bored for months. Haven't a thing to do with myself or my time. Here a cracking good murder breaks and I'd like to get in on it. Maybe it's because I'm back in Tremont—"

"Why, Lord love you, Dave! You don't mean you want to be a reporter on the Post again, do you?"

"Why not?" Bannister was talking eagerly now. "I'd like to find out who killed Tracy King—and why. Oh, I don't suppose I'll be much help to you! Probably I'm stale; been out of harnass too long. But I can do leg work. I'd like to be on the inside of a murder story more and see the wheels go around. I used to have a pretty good standing with McNeal and I'll bet I still know half the force—"

"Go to it!" Paxton told him curtly. "There was never a better police reporter in Tremont than you were, Dave. Maybe you'll get some ideas you can use in a novel."

"Yes, and maybe I'll get my neck broken." Suddenly Dave Bannister grinned. "This is going to be fun! Going to be—" He stopped. "There's one thing," he said, "I don't want to cut in on any of your boys. I mean whoever is handling the story. Your man can write all the by-line stories. All I want to do is work with him. Whatever I get I'll turn over for him to write—"

Ten minutes later Paxton and Bannister were in the city room—the same large square city room, scarcely changed, where Bannister had worked years before. The city desk was set at a different angle. Bannister recognized none of the men gathered around it. Desks and cabinets covered most of the floor space. They had been rearranged, too, but the room had the same air of activity, of disorder and preoccupation that he remembered. From beyond came the muffled roaring and whining and grinding of machines. Oh, it was all quite familiar.

But the faces of the men and women about the room were different. Paxton strode a few steps forward, then called, "Oh—Gainey! Got a moment?"

Down came the outspread pages of a newspaper. Down came the tipped-back chair. A young man with a brown felt hat tipped back at a rakish angle upon a head of very red hair emerged from behind the newspaper. He crushed out his cigaret and got to his feet.

"Yes, Mr. Paxton," said J. Randolph Gainey. "Sure! Is there anything—?"

He did not finish the sentence.

Side Glances —By George Clark

"Now, take my oldest boy. He's plenty ambitious, but just can't get interested in anything."

The UNKNOWN BLOND

By Laura Lou BROOKMAN — ©1933 NEA SERVICE, INC.

A pair of eyes of unusual blueness searched Paxton's. J. Randolph Gainey was slender and slightly below average height. His checks and the ridge of his nose were amply sprinkled with the freckles that so often accompany red hair and a fair skin. J. Randolph Gainey was 22 years old but he had packed into those 22 years a list of activities that was amazing. Confidence and energy he never lacked. One subject, and only one, was there on which J. Randolph Gainey was susceptible to the world's darts and that, at least in the office of the newspaper, was unguessed. No one on the Post knew that the "J" in the wirey little reporter's name stood for Jeremiah. No one would ever know it if it were possible for J. Randolph Gainey to prevent it.

"Gainey," Jim Paxton was saying, "this is Mr. Banister—David Bannister. Used to work here. Since then he's been to New York and written some novels and made a name for himself. Been to Mexico, too, and Hollywood and I don't know where all."

A cheerful grin overspread the reporter's face. "Sure", he said. "I saw the picture they made from 'Cheerful Liar,'" Called it 'Slave of Desire,' didn't they? It was a good picture, too. I heard that you were in Tremont—"

"Wait a minute," Paxton said, "I'd better get Austin." Austin was the assistant city editor, carrying on in place of his chief.

In another moment the four men stood together while Paxton explained Bannister's status as a sort of ex-officio member of the staff. Austin was nodding understandingly and Gainey looked perplexed. Some of this perplexity fadded as Patton repeated, "It's still your story, Gainey. Bannister's not to write any of the copy. He's to work with you, take part of the burden. Who's down at headquarters now, by the way?"

"Cunningham," Austin infromed him.

"I came in to write the lead," Gainey explained. He glanced at the clock on the opposite wall—a quick, nervous glance. "Guess I'd better be getting back," he went on.

"Bannister will go with you," Paxton spoke tersely. "And see if you can't get something this time! Make Henley talk. He must have something he's holding back Try to get the description of that girl they're looking for. How do they expect to find her if they don't let us know what she looks like? For God's sake, give us something new for the final—!"

A telephone shrilled, interrupting. A loud voice called, "Austin! It's Cunningham on the wire. From headquarters!"

The assistant city editor ran to the desk and picked up the instrument. "Hello, hello!" he said nervously. "Yes—this is Austin."

The others drifted nearer, as though drawn by an irresistible force. Now Austin was pulling copy paper toward him, one hand holding the receiver to his ear.

"Yes," he said excitedly, "I got it. Go on!" With a quick half-turn toward Paxton he exclaimed. "They've just brought that girl in—the one they've been looking for!"

THE BEASTS OF TARZAN, No. 46

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Somehow Rokoff managed to escape before the ape-man saw him, and as Tarzan entered the "bomba" the five sailors, recognizing him, fled in the opposite direction. Carefully he circled the outside of the enclosure and soon came to indications that something had recently passed into the jungle. Moreover, his acute sense of smell told him that both of those he sought had fled in same direction.

Ever afterward Jane wondered how she lived safely through that night alone in the awful jungle. On this second day, the terror-stricken girl was slinking along a narrow game trail, fearful that the next moment would bring her face to face with some savage beast or equally savage man. As she ran on, hoping her direction was toward the great river, she came suddenly upon a strange sight.

Hiding in a clump of heavy bush, she watched. A great ape sat surrounded by several smaller ones, and in their midst a lithe, sinewy panther glided to and fro. If she was surprised at the sight of these natural enemies fraternizing, it was with emotions little short of fear for her own sanity that she saw them presently joined by a tall, muscular warrior. Now she saw that he seemed actually giving them orders.

The entire company filed on across the clearing and disappeared in the jungle. She could not know that they were the Beasts of Tarzan. But another individual, a half mile behind her, lay frozen with terror as the hideous band passed quite close to the ant hill behind which he hid. This one was Rokoff; and he recognized the members of the awesome aggregation as allies of Tarzan of the Apes.

Stocks
WALL STREET REPORT
By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Sluggishness accompanied a downward drift in several markets today. Wheat's weakness and an absence of speculative incentive gave stocks a moderate reaction, though turnover was reduced on the setback and losses were again largely fractional.

The unchanged gold price and narrowness of dollar movements against foreign currencies have probably lessened the appeal which inflationary possibilities held out to speculators. On the other hand, improvement in U. S. government obligations and the firm undertone of the whole investment market are manifestations of trend which have not escaped notice in conservative circles.

Possibility of a communication company merger directed attention to shares directly interested in such an eventuality, and the immediate response was an advance by western union and postal telegraph preferred, the latter closing a point higher.

Cotton
NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13 (AP)—Except for a brief period of activity in late trading cotton was decidedly quiet today. An early decline of 2 to 4 points was followed by some late buying and prices advanced 7 to 10 points from the lows. The close was steady 5 to 7 points up.

The opening was rather dull although Liverpool cables were decidedly better than due. Wiser interests were likely going up and the market rallied moderately later in the morning owing to some trade buying and shorts covering.

Prices weakened in the afternoon on a sharp break in wheat making new lows for the day at 10.04 for March and 10.19 for May or 3 to 4 points below the previous close. In final trading there was some buying on an improvement in stocks and shorts covering and values rallied 7 to 10 points from the lows with March at 10.14 and May at 10.36, new highs for the day. The close was at the top with March showing a net gain for the day of 5 points, July of 7 points.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 3 to 4 penny points up.

Port receipts 18,888, for week 120,923, for season 5,164,727, last season 5,399,211. Exports 15,789, for week 101,063, for season 3,698,848, last season 3,892,242. Port stock 4,112,849, last year 4,230,846. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 160,820, last year 195,460. Spot sales at southern markets 17,169, last year 13,710.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 13 (AP)—After fluctuating irregularly in a quiet market, cotton prices rallied moderately in the late trading today. Mid-afternoon declines had reflected heaviness of stocks and grains. March contracts rallied from 10.07 to 10.17 and closed at the high, with the general market closing steady at net gains of 3 to 8 points.

While the market was steady early in the day, selling up to net gains of about 2 to 4 points, December was relatively easy under liquidation influenced by issuance of notices representing about 1,000 bales.

Reaction in other markets brought out a little selling and there was also some pressure from January liquidation prior to first notice day next week. Prices moved nervously over a narrow range in response to moderate orders either way and at one time ragged to net losses of 3 to 5 points. Rallies of about 9 to 11 points from this level followed the appearance of spot house buying of January in the late trading and the market closed at or within a point of the best.

Exports today 15,789 making 3,743,601 so far this season. U. S. port stocks 4,-112,475.

money.

"We are not desirous of cruelty of any kind and there won't be any, but we must take special precautions in such cases."

In Denver Ben B. Laska, Bates' attorney, asserted that his client knew nothing of the $100,000 and that he was considering filing charges of "uncalled-for brutality" against those responsible for keeping the prisoner in solitary confinement.

"Unless I find that Bates is being held in solitary confinement for violating some prison rule or regulation I will file charges against the officials responsible," Laska said.

Bates has been in solitary confinement for six weeks. He is permitted to see only his attorney and then when accompanied by a prison official.

Keenan said Kelly, as the result of boasting that he would make his getaway by Christmas, was known as "blabbermouth" by other Leavenworth prisoners and was the "most disliked man" in the institution.

"They blame Kelly for the extra precautions which have been taken as a result of his threats," Keenan said.

Iner C. Nelson, Seattle engineer who laid out the city's airport won his pilot's license five years later.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13 (AP)—Supplies of cattle at the different markets were not burdensome and a general steady to strong trend developed for fed steers and yearlings. Chicago quoted a top price of 7.00 on choice 900-lb yearling heifers, light weight fed heifers and mixed yearlings at various points, at 5.75-6.65; long yearlings and light weight steers of better grade, at 5.35-6.50; bulk medium weight and heavy beeves, 3.50-5.00; medium to choice replacement steers, 3.00-4.25. Receipts of cattle to date this week at eleven markets totaled 140,200 as compared with 134,583 last week and 115,797 a year ago.

Chicago secured a late hog top of 3.45. Majority of desirable wooled lambs cleared around 6.60-7.25, fed shorn offerings made 5.75-6.25.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13 (AP)—Hogs 1,200 including 588 directs and 222 through; practical top 3.55; few head up to 3.60; packer top 3.50; truck hogs mostly 3.50; packing sows 3.00.

Cattle 1,300; calves 1,000; trading slow, all classes cattle and calves about steady. Plain and common steers 2.00-75; weighty steers around 4.50; slaughter yearlings 4.00-50; medium grade fat cows 2.00; bulls 1.25-2.00; slaughter calves 2.75-3.00; few weighty calves 3.25.

Grains
FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13 (AP)—All grains were slow sale Wednesday on the Fort Worth cash grain market.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to delivery point:

Delivered Texas gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: wheat No. 1 hard 88 3-4@90 3-4. Barley No. 2 nominally 59-60; No. 3 nominally 58-59. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally 104-106; No. 3 milo nominally 102-104. No. 2 kafir nominally 91-92; No. 3 nominally 89-90.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: corn No. 2 mixed 63-64; No. 2 white 64 1-2@65 1-2; No. 2 yellow 63 1-2@ 64 1-2. Oats No. 2 red 45 1-2@46 1-2; No. 3 red 44 1-2@45 1-2.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (AP) — Overcome by pressure of liquidating sales and a market bare of buyers, wheat tumbled today to a maximum of 4 1-4 cents under Monday's top level.

Eastern interests were conspicuous in letting go of wheat holdings. Uneasiness over likelihood of code proposals which would severely curtail speculative operations in the grain markets appeared to be largely responsible. Another disturbing influence was an official estimate indicating about 30,000,000 bushels increase of Argentine wheat production this season as compared with last year.

Wheat closed nervous lower than yesterday's finish, corn 1 1-8@1 3-8 down, oats 1 1-8@7 1-8 off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 27 cents.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock; Grain—S. E. Coop Grain and Feed company, following prices being bid by Lubbock grain dealers; Cotton—Blocker Cotton company. All prices subject to change during day.

he said, not only adjusted the immediate supply downward, but also gave assurance future supplies would be reduced.

"As a result of the added increase in price, the augmented income, and due to the fact the 1933 crop left to be harvested was the best in history in yield and cheapest in point of production," Cobb said, "business conditions throughout the cotton belt show radical improvement over what they have been at any time during recent years."

examination by Jess Levens but she maintained she "didn't figger they're sweethearts." She said she came to the trial "to testify for Pauline."

Mrs. J. Burns, living eight miles northwest of Lubbock, testified to visits the girl had made to her home and told of conversation with the girl regarding her relations with Redwine. The jury was retired when she gave this testimony.

Two Others Heard

J. R. Hacker of Plainview and Dr. Sam G. Dunn were the last two witnesses of the day. Hacker testified the girl worked for his son a week last summer. The physician gave medical testimony.

The morning's session was featured by insinuations on cross examination by plaintiff's counsel that the 49-year-old defendant and Redwine's former wife are already married, and that Holeman carried the 19-year-old girl with him to the World's fair at Chicago this summer.

Asks About Marriage

Jess Levens, one of Redwine's attorneys, asked Buck Benton, a brother of the girl, and an employe of the defendant:

"Buck, don't you know that they have already married and are married now?"

Levens also indicated in a question that Benton knew about Holeman taking the girl to Chicago and that he had carried her to Plainview to meet Holeman so that he could take her to the fair. Benton flatly denied each interrogation.

Besides Benton, the girl's stepfather, L. B. Besinger, Monroe farmer; Mrs. Juanita Matheny, dance hall hat clerk; Mrs. Myrtle Gilley, employe of Mr. Holeman; H. Gordon and W. B. Warren, Swift & Co. employes, and Raymond Boyd, farmer living six and one-half miles southeast of Lubbock, testified this morning.

"Not Pauline Redwine"

Boyd testified to seeing Mr. Holeman and a girl at the fair in Chicago around the latter part of June but said positively that the girl was not Pauline Redwine.

Warren and Gordon both testified that Mr. Holeman delivered milk to the Swift plant daily during the month of September and October, 1932. On severe cross examination by Levens they still maintained he had been at the plant every day during those two months.

Mrs. Gilley testified she had seen no display of affections between the defendant and Pauline Redwine. She testified to various details including a swimming party previous witnesses had told of but said Mr. Holeman acted "a gentleman."

Benton testified that the girl was not making her home with him. He said he had agreed to keep her in his home "as long as she treated his family right." He told of an incident when Leonard Redwine had declared he was jealous of Pauline and that he had warned him it might cause trouble.

"Paid For Divorce"

He related how Pauline had sent him a telegram from Sterling City asking him to come and bring her back to Lubbock and how he had sent her a bus ticket. He said he paid for her divorce and had been furnishing her in clothes since she had been living at his home.

On cross examination, Levens brought out that Benton was receiving a salary of $25 a month at Holeman's and that he had paid $20 or $25 for the girl's divorce out of those wages. Benton denied ever putting liquor in the plaintiff's car and then calling officers to search it as Levens charged in a question but did testify to calling officers to search Redwine for a gun he had been said to be carrying. Benton said he took Pauline to Plainview so that she could work for a couple and flatly denied she met Holeman there to go to the fair.

as its chief.

Cummings is planning to retire soon after January 1 to assume an important post with the Chicago bank. Thomas Hawes, assistant secretary, resigned yesterday because of friction between himself and Morgenthau resulting from orders by the latter virtually stripping him of his responsibilities.

"Mr. Cummings has done the finest kind of work since he has been here and has given me the finest kind of co-operation he could give anybody," said Morgenthau. "The man has done a magnificent job and a fellow who's rendered as fine a piece of service as he has done deserves all the commendation he can get."

Price Continued

Earlier Morgenthau had announced a continuation for the day of the domestic newly mined gold price that has prevailed since December 1, $34.01. During the day the treasury's bookkeepers wrote off additional sums from the scheduled receipts of December 15 with word that Belgium and Estonia had decided to default on war debt installments totalling $3,294,860.

President Roosevelt renewed his study of the 1935 budget late today in a conference attended by Morgenthau, the latter's assistant, Earle Baille, and Lewis Douglas, the director of the budget. They reported progress.

The estimate of emergency expenditures, involving disbursements after February 15, when present funds will be exhausted, included $350,000,000 which Mr. Roosevelt said today would be asked for the civil works administration, $250,-000,000 Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator estimates as the minimum needs of the emergency relief corporation, including the federal surplus corporation, and the figure most generally mentioned for the public works administration, $1,875,-000,000.

Regarded As Minimum

The last figure is regarded by public works officials as an absolute minimum. Their present appropriation of $3,300,000,000 is nearly exhausted. They have applications pending which, if all were approved, would entail outlays of nearly $3,000,000,000 more. These may be cut nearly in half, however, as numerous projects are eliminated. Meanwhile additional applications are expected. Figures mentioned in congressional circles run as high as ten billion dollars.

In addition, the NRA will need money for running expenses, as may the Tennessee valley authority, but these sums will be relatively small. The theory behind the farm administration is that it pays for itself with the taxes levied on processors of foodstuffs.

Shannon Selling Stock From Farm

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13 (AP)—R. G. (Boss) Shannon brought a truck load of yearlings to the Fort Worth market today.

The yearlings were raised on his farm near Paradise where Charles F. Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma oil man, was held for ransom after being kidnaped. Shannon is under life sentence in that case, and is at liberty on $10,000 bond until January 9.

"Everything on the farm is being shaped up so that if I have to make a one-way trip back, I want to have everything ready, Shannon explained. "I shall be there on January 9 as I promised."

Shannon has gained eight or ten pounds since his vacation, granted by the court for him to wind up his affairs before beginning his life term in Leavenworth penitentiary. He is planning to bring another load of yearlings to Fort Worth soon, he explained on departing for his home.

mas week and then go home with the backache and be Santa to my own."

Business is pretty good this year, the Santa Claus association agreed, but, oh, the woes!

Children, they say, are getting blase about it all, but there are moments in the business when the heart is twisted and a lump grasps the throat and sobs shake the fatigued figures of the make-believers.

"Only yesterday," said one Claus, "a lad sat on my lap, pulled my ear to his mouth and whispered:

"'Just forget me, but please bring my dad a job'."

"I told him not to pull my whiskers—I hadn't noticed him you see—and the lad said:

"'I have to pull your whiskers to feel that you are here. I can't see, you know'."

Approached first by the leader of the gang was Joseph Kinch, custodian at the bank. The robber said he wanted to rent a box. Kinch was alone in the bank at the time.

Other Members Enter

As Kinch led him to the vault to inspect the boxes for rent, other members of the gang entered, some carrying sledge hammers and chisels.

Four other persons, one W. G. Nelson, field agent of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, entered the bank on business and each was shoved into the room, tied up and blindfolded, and kept prisoner with Kinch.

For three hours the swinging of the sledge continued, but the remoteness of the vault from the street door of the building prevented the sounds from carrying outside.

proposed additional emergency relief expenditures.

He did say, however, that more money for public works would be needed and possibly additional funds for unemployment distress relief.

Call On President

Johnson said he would call on the president soon, but on his own initiative.

One of the ultimate consequences of the "new deal," he said, would "certainly be an alignment of political possibilities different from those in the past.'

"Not necessarily formation of a third party," he said, "but there has been a loosening of party lines. It is different from 1912 (when Johnson ran for vice president on Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose ticket). Everything has gone topsy turvy. It has led to a loosening of party lines, but to say there is to be a different label I don't know—six months, maybe."

today from an adviser to the Rockefeller committee which made a study of liquor control.

Dr. Luther Gulick said that the combined state and federal levy should not be above $2.50 and that the single federal levy, if no agreement were reached with the states, should be between $1.50 and $2.

In some sections of the country, he testified, "$3 to $4 a gallon was paid for protection by the bootlegger."

Asked what he meant by protection Gulick replied it included "gangs, gang defense and that there have been rumors that some of it (the protection money) goes into politics."

He contrasted with this high protection cost a statement that in other sections of the country "a drop-off price of fifty cents is reported to be paid to the local cop on the beat in certain cities."

Negro Murder Trial Started

Testimony That Woman Put Up Terrific Struggle Before Death Given; Full Penalty Will Be Asked

By CECIL B. DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

LEESBURG, Va., Dec. 13.—Testimony that Mrs. Agnes Boeing Ilsley put up a terrific struggle for her life before she was slain in her Middleburg cottage was placed before a Loudoun county jury today in the trial of George Crawford, negro, for murder.

After 12 white men had been selected to decide the guilt or innocence of the negro, Judge James L. McLemore admonished those in the court room against "giving ear to anything that would stir feeling in this case."

Neither Assaulted

Dr. Oscar B. Hunter, Washington pathologist, testified that neither Mrs. Ilsley nor her maid, Mrs. Mina Buckner, who also was found dead, was criminally assaulted.

He added that the former apparently had fought hard before she was beaten down under blows that fractured her skull.

Skin and hair believed by him to be that of a negro, the physician said, were found under her long, tapered finger nails, one of which had been pulled off.

Seek Full Penalty

In opening the case, Commonwealth's Attorney John Galleher said the state intended to prove that the defendant was guilty and told the jury:

"I hope you give this man the penalty commensurate with the horrible offense he has committed."

Dr. H. A. Spitler, Middleburg physician and Dr. John A. Gibson, the coroner, described the scene of the crime, agreeing that while Mrs. Buckner was killed instantly by blows on the head that Mrs. Ilsley struggled before her death.

Farm Leaders Approve Roosevelt's Policies

Useless Delay Is Criticised

Devices For Improving Farm Lot Would Be Broadened In Scope And Strictly Enforced In Resolutions

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP)—The American Farm Bureau federation today gave virtual blanket approval to President Roosevelt's agricultural policies, suggesting only that his devices for improving the farmer's lot be broadened in scope and strictly enforced.

Expressing the desires of its nearly 1,000,000 members, the federation spent the last way of its 15th annual convention discussing 27 resolutions and dealing with questions ranging from the monetization of silver to the need for eradicating tuberculosis in cattle.

Delay Is Rapped

To the agricultural adjustment act, under which the administration has conducted its farm program for seven months, the farm bureau gave its unanimous and emphatic support. However, the convention suggested "enough time and effort have been given to reconcile opposition to this legislation, which opposition largely consists of those who have enjoyed unjust and unfair advantages under the old system of processing and distributing.

"Such delay is resulting in the bankruptcy of many more farmers and can not be further condoned."

Too much attention can not be given by the government, the delegates agreed in another resolution, to restoration of "an honest dollar" in order to give agriculture a price parity and enable debts to be paid in the same value of currency as they were contracted.

Discuss Resolutions

Considerable discussion was given to both resolutions, and various delegates insisted on the wording being changed in several instances so that the documents could not be considered as criticism of the administration.

The emergency farm mortgage act of last spring received favorable comment, but, again, the farm leaders objected to delay.

Regarding export trade in farm produce, the farm bureau urged that the government "extend proper credit to the Soviet union to enable it to buy our farm products." Immediate granting of independence to the Philippines also was urged.

Congress was called upon in the federation's recommendations to guard against letting down tariff barriers which might cause the nation to be supplied from the outside with produce on which farmers have cut down production under the AAA. Mention was made of the importation of oils or fats reacting unfavorably on the farmers of the United States.

Reduction of governmental expenses wherever warrantable was recommended, together with levying upon new sources of revenue rather than increasing taxes on real estate.

The new organization is to be known as troop 13. The present troop is No. 3. E. V. Hicks will be chairman of the troop committee and other members will be announced later.

From 'Way Down Austin Way

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

Charles E. Simons

AUSTIN, Dec. 23. (AP)—Widespread manipulation in bonds of Texas political subdivisions was revealed by the inquiry being conducted into state departments by a house investigating group.

As a result of the inquiry the committee likely will recommend to the legislature establishment of an investment bureau to supervise the purchase of securities by the state board of education for the permanent school fund.

Market Lost

The testimony of an assistant state auditor brought out that some persons and firms who formerly sold bonds but lost their market during the depression, had purchased securities of political subdivisions at sacrifice prices and profited through refunding arrangements. The assistant auditor testified he had found instances in which a school district repurchased an original bond issue for considerably below par value, refunded, and then sold the issue to the state board of education for par.

It was explained to the committee that buyers contact purchasers of original bond issues, buy their holdings at the prevailing distressed market price and in turn sell them to the issuing authority for less than par. The political subdivision then cuts down its bonded debt by refunding the issue.

Example Is Given

One case, the auditor related, worked like this:

A bond speculator bought bonds for 70 cents on the dollar and sold the issue to the political subdivision for 84 cents. The latter refunded and sold the new issue to the state board of education for par. Thus, both the speculator and the political subdivision profited.

This practice also is being followed by officials themselves, it was disclosed by Rep. A. K. Daniel of Crockett. He said he knew of an instance where a community in his district that had sinking fund cash available to retire its bonds at face value purchased them from a bond speculator for considerably below par value.

Transactions of this nature were made possible, the auditor said, because many persons would rather sell the bonds at a sacrifice than keep them with the possibility of further declines and also because many of the bondholders are in need of cash.

Rep. Harry N. Graves, chairman of the investigating committee, claims that his experience in examining witnesses has taught him to tell when a witness is evading the truth.

"When a witness begins to 'hem' and 'haw,' gets red in the face and tells you to ask so-and-so if what he says isn't the truth, then you can bet that he is misleading you," Graves said. "Another way to tell is to watch his 'Adam's apple.' When it begins to get up high in a witness' throat he is lying."

More than 5,000 applications were filed for 60 positions on the newly organized Ohio state highway patrol.

Joint Achievement Day For 4-H Members Will Be Staged

A joint achievement day for 4-H club boys and girls will be held Saturday, December 23, as an all-day meeting, Miss Hazel Bratley, county home demonstration agent, announced yesterday.

The meeting will begin at 11 o'clock and at noon a luncheon is to be served by the chamber of commerce and the women's home demonstration club council.

One feature of the program will be the presentation of club pins to the boys and girls who have completed their year's work and turned in a satisfactory record and report. Both boys and girls are to receive pins. More than 100 in each group probably will be given these awards.

Why Get Up Nights

Drink lots of water and milk. Not much tea or coffee. Eat plenty of fruit and non-starchy vegetables. Not much meat and starches. Use a bladder laxative to drive out the impurities and excess acids which cause the irritation that wakes you up. Take juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc., called BU-KETS (5 gr. tablets) the bladder laxative, 25c at all druggists. Works on bladder similar to castor oil on bowels. After four days if not satisfied, go back and get your money. If you are bothered, frequent desire, burning, getting up nights, you are bound to feel better after this cleansing.—Bowen's Drug Store says BU-KETS is a best seller.—Adv.
