Editor W. Dickson of the Iowa Park Herald makes this comment on a recent marriage. "Announcement of Clara Hamon Smith's marriage to William Gorman, moving picture director has been scattered broadcast and is receiving much comment, pro and con—mostly con. She wired her sister that the marriage occurred at 4:30 p. m. and that Mr. Gorman was a "wonderful man and good." Clara is a most peculiar figure. She declared after her trial in which her liberty was restored that she would have nothing more to do with man. But the "wonderful man" showed up and she was espoused to him. One thing sure, he will have to watch his life for Clara is some gunwoman." Well, why not give the girl a chance? The same number of the Iowa Park Herald prints the following from the pen of Editor Dickson. "The Herald knows of several instances in Iowa Park where parents are letting their daughters keep company with young men who do not have a moral reputation. The Herald knows that there is no moral line drawn in many of the social functions that take place in our city. The Herald knows that there are people in Iowa Park who have committed the last word in sin and are held in high esteem by many. The Herald knows that there are people in Iowa Park who have by virtue of matrimony attained a high rank in church circles, but disregard all and are actively engaged in wordly matters when their influence could be of power amidst church work." If so why draw the line on Clara?

Jerry Dalton is the Editor of the Memphis Democrat. Jerry is an old timer and wields a facial pen. This is his latest: "Every goveror of Texas since the time of Coke has been supported by a majority of the legislature during his first term—with the exception of Mr. Neff. Can Rev. Atticus G. Webb explain how it has happened that Neff breaks the precedent?" Oscar B. Colquitt had a row with his law makers; Thomas M. Campbell had a row with his law makers; James E. Ferguson had a row with his law makers, and all the people know what happened to "Jim." William P. Hobby got by without a row, but where is Hobby now?

There are gunmen in Hall county. They "Shot up" the house of County Attorney Bragg. Now the Hall county commissioners' court has offered a reward of $500 for the detection and conviction of the scoundrels. Jerry Dalton says in his Memphis Democrat "Judge MacIntosh informs us that the reward will be doubled by citizens who will offer another $500 on the same terms. Persons from all sections of the county have expressed indignation at this attempt to intimidate and murder and many have offered to contribute to a reward for the purpose stated." County Attorney Bragg has been prosecuting moonshiners and whisky runners. Now he is fearful that they are going to get him.

Editor R. H. Nichols of the Amarillo Tribune prints the following: "There is a possibility that the Palo Duro Canyon may become a state park. A movement has been started by W. B. Estes, secretary of the board of city development in association with Hon. Lee Satterwhite, for securing for the state of Texas and for posterity certain acres for state parks, especially in the district of Palo Duro canyon. A resolution has been adopted by the state legislature, by which a committee will be appointed by the lieutenant governor, who will act as an ex-officio member, to investigate the proposition and visit The Canyon is full of big game and prepared to render a report on same. The Canyon s full of big game and beautiful scenery and would make an ideal playground for the state according to Mr. Estes." There should be two or three state parks in Texas. There are many beautiful and romantic sites. There is no reason why the committee appointed by the legislature should not make careful investigation and report at the regular session of the Thirty-eighth legislature.

Editor R. H. Nichols of the Amarillo Tribune, speaking for the grain growers of the west, editorializes in his paper: "Grain growers should be substantially benefitted through the action of western railroads in reducing freight rates 15 per cent on shipments to gulf ports. But the reduction of five and one half cents on the hundred pounds from western points to gulf ports at the same time a cut of seven and a half cents on the hundred pounds was made from eastern states to the Atlantic seaboard will not be understood by shippers here and over this territory. Why lower rates should be granted grain growers of eastern states than shippers of the Texas, Oklahoma and other southwestern states has not been explained. If growers are to benefit by freight rate reductions no reason has been given why growers of this section are to be discriminated against. No doubt wheat men of the southwest would be glad to learn the cause for such action on the part of the railroads.

Senator Bledsoe made a gallant fight for the west. Editor W. C. Warwick of the Randall County News is responsible for the following: "It is clearly seen that the redistricting bill as finally passed is a purely political one. The time of becoming effective has been placed three years hence, which is a clear indication that the legislators now in office have looked well to their own interests in the formulating of this bill. By that time most of them

ASSERTS FORD WOULD OBTAIN POWER FREE

Gifford Pinchot Is Opposed to Offer of Henry Ford to Lease Muscle Shoals Plant.

Says Proposal Would Pay Only Small Portion of Real Value of Projects Concerned

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28.—The recent offer of Mr. Henry Ford to take over government property at Muscle Shoals on the Tennessee river is so important that I take the liberty of laying certain essential facts before you.

The first part of the Ford offer is to lease the Wilson dam and dam number 3 for 100 years, with indefinite renewals, provided the government will complete them and install machinery to produce 850,000 horsepower. Mr. Ford offers to pay 6 per cent on the 28 million dollars which he estimates will be necessary to complete this work, or 3 4-10 per cent on 48 million dollars, Mr. Ford's own estimate of the whole government investment in dams, locks and power houses. Even if we add all other annual payments (the so-called amortization payments, and payments for the repair, maintenance, and operation of dams, gates and locks), the total would be equivalent to interest at the rate of only 3 6-10 per cent. Mr. Ford offers also to give the government 300 horsepower to operate the locks.

Would Get Power Free.

Please note that for the waterpower itself Mr. Ford would pay nothing, and he would be free from all taxes on the property. Other lessees of waterpower rights from the government not only bear the total cost of building their own dams and powerhouses and pay taxes on them, but they also pay for the waterpower in addition. The Ford offer is like offering a man 3 6-10 per cent on the cost of his factory as rent, and then asking him to throw in a coal mine to supply fuel for the engines for nothing.

There is no allowance for depreciation, and the government would, beyond question, have to pay the cost of injury to the dams or locks from floods or other causes. Moreover, there is nothing in the offer to indicate that the government, in order to protect its own property, would not have to bear the expense of replacing enormously costly machinery when it had been worn out in Mr. Ford's service.

The second part of the Ford offer is to buy nitrate plant number 1, which cost the government in round numbers 13 million dollars, nitrate plant number 2, which cost the government in round numbers 70 million dollars, and other property which brings the total cost to 85 million dollars, and to pay 5 million dollars for it all. The property for which this offer is made incudes steam macainery to produce 160 thousand horsepower, which alone is worth far more than Mr. Ford's offer for the whole. In addition, the government is to buy from the Alabama Power company the land upon which certain of the foregoing structures were built, and to turn that over to Mr. Ford also.

The Offer.

In return for the lease, for the purchased property, and for the waterpower without charge, Mr. Ford offers in addition to the payments mentioned above, to do three principal things:

"First. To maintain nitrate plant number 2 ready to be operated . . . in time of war for the production of explosives," and in the event of war to turn it over to the government for that purpose.

"Second. To operate nitrate plant number 2 to approximate present capacity in the production of nitrogen and other fertilizer compounds," and in this business to limit his net profits from the manufacture and sale of fertilizer products to eight per cent.

"Third. The offer as written suggests producing, but contains no direct proposal to produce, fertilizer for the benefit of American farmers. That could, of course, be corrected in the final contract, for I have no doubt that Mr. Ford desires to make fertilizer at a total net profit of 8 per cent. Nitrate plant number 2, however, is not adapted to making fertilizer, but only cyanimid, one of several materials used for the production of fertilizer, and not one of the best at that."

The fact is that the Ford offer is not mainly a fertilizer proposition. It is seven parts waterpower to one part fertilizer, even if the fertilizer part should work out. For, if nitrate plant number 2 were to be permanently employed in the manufacture of fertilizer it would consume but 100 thousand horsepower out of the 850,000 installation. This is the heart of the whole matter.

As a waterpower proposition, the Ford offer is in every important point directly contrary to the Roosevelt waterpower policy, which after 15 years of struggle was finally enacted into law last year.

The Roosevelt policy provides that all waterpower leases shall be limited to fifty years. The Ford offer asks for 100 years with indefinite renewals.

The Roosevelt policy provides for return of the government works at the end of fifty years. The Ford offer provides for indefinite private possession of the government works.

The Roosevelt policy provides for regulation of the price to the power consumer. The Ford offer, so far as the United States is concerned, provides no check on what the power consumer must pay.

The Roosevelt policy provides that public waterpower taken for profit

Every One Underfed in Russia And Nothing Gay But Theaters, Asserts Returned Woman Writer

Louise Bryant.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—"The Soviet is abandoning the more radical features of its programme," was the message brought back from Russia by Miss Louise Bryant, who has returned from that strife-torn land. Miss Bryant is the widow of John Iteed, who died in Russia.

Young, extremely good-looking, with her luminous gray-blue eyes and fluffy black hair, she seems to be in good health and spirits herself and describes her experiences with a bit of of humor.

To convey an idea of the way in which everyone in Russia lives she said:

"One piece of black bread, with a cup of unsweetened tea, is not a particularly good start for a day's work. The bread is probably nourishing enough, what there is of it. But it doesn't taste good. It gets terribly monotonous.

Conscious of Hunger

"Everyone is always conscious of being underfed. Thinking all the time about food is very destinctive.

"And the surest sign of being undernourished is not the necessity of thinking about it, but the concrete fact that one has lost twenty pounds in a short time.

"It is possible to live on and on with little to eat. But we are a finicky people and want things palatable, as well as something merely to assuage hunger.

"Life in Russia today is difficult. They have had war for six years, a blockage, a revolution, failure of crops, food shortage and bad housing conditions.

"Outside of going to the theatre there is nothing to make for gayety any more.

"In a revolutionary state no one can flaunt possessions of any sort before others. It wouldn't be safe. If Lenine's wife went to the theatres in sables there would be a riot. But she never would. She is a woman of plain tastes.

Wore Furs Unmolested

"Still, I had a fur coat myself and had to go out at midnight to send off my stories on the wire, and no one ever molested me. It took until late

POLICE WARN NEGROES TO FIND WORK

The practice of negro men meeting in groups and loitering on the street in the residential district must stop and arrests are to be made where the order is violated, according to information Sunday from Chief of Police Morgan.

"Too many negro men apparently have nothing to do gut meet in groups or gangs both day and night," declared the chief Sunday, "and complaints have been made to us by residents on the hill regarding the practice."

According to the chief the negro men found loitering will be brought back to the police station to show why they should not be held for vagcancy. The chief said trat a large number of the unemployed negroes could now obtain work in the cotton fields in some parts of the state.

Officers from the police and constable's department Sunday arrested fifteen negro men for gaming, all the men being arrested in the residential district. Several of the negroes attempted flight when the officers approached one of the houses where the games were being conducted.

FOUR SMALL BOYS HELD ON CHARGES OF PETTY THEFT

One 16-year-old youth and three boys about twelve years of age were brought here from Burkburnett Sunday morning and turned over to Juvenile Officer Yates. They were arrested in Burkburnett by police officers of that city.

According to the officers the four boys have stolen merchandise from Burkburnett residents during the last few days. A hearing will be held in juvenile court today for the youths who were held Sunday night at the juvenile jail.

COLLECTIONS FOR REVENUE FALLING OFF

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Internal revenue collectons from all sources during the fiscal year 1921 decreased more than $342,000,000 as compared with the previous year while the cost of collection advanced from 55 cents to 88 cents for each $100 collected, according to a primary statement issued tonight by Commissioner Blair.

The increased cost of operating the internal revenue service during 1921, which amounted to about $40,000,00, he explained, was mainly due to reduced collections and increased expense in supervising regulatory laws.

Total collections for 1921 amounted to $4,595,000,765 as against $5,407,580,251 in 1920, while income and profits taxes yielded $3,225,790,653, compared with $3,965,936,003 the previous year, and miscellaneous taxes produced $1,369,210,112 against $1,450,644,248 in 1902.

Income and profit taxes represented seventy per cent and miscellaneous taxes 30 per cent of total receipts during 1920 compared with 73 per cent for income and profit taxes and 27 per cent for miscellaneous taxes during the previous year.

Receipts from the national prohibition act during 1921 were $2,152,083 as compared with $641,029 collected during the previous fiscal year. In addition Commissioner Blair estimated that collections made by justice department from fines and forfeitures for violations of the act would yield approximately $2,500,000.

New York, with a total of more than $1,000,000,000 produced the most federal revenue among the states and Pennsylvania was second with nearly $488,000,000.

Income and profits tax receipts fell off as compared with 1920 in all but nine states, the decrease ranging from less than one-half of one per cent to 64 per cent in New Mexico states showing increases included Florida 26 per cent.

Income and profit taxes in Florida 26 per cent, Oklahoma 8 per cent.

Income and profit taxes and total revenue collected in Kansas were $26,860,108, and $138,188,958.

Oklahoma, $21,554,000 and $27,011,758.

Texas. $52,147,922 and $76,545,125.

Five Fall In Fight In West Virginia

By Associated Press

STATE POLICE HEADQUARTERS, ETHEL, W. Va., Aug. 28.—Five men fell in an encounter early this morning between an armed band and state troopers on Black Creek, Logan county, near the Boone-Logan county line, Captain J. R. Brockus, commanding state police and deputy sheriffs, reported this afternoon. There was much shooting on either side, he said. Whether all the men who fell were killed, Captain Brockus was unable to state. He added that after his men had seen those who had fallen picked up and carried away by their companions, the state troopers and deputies retired because some of their number were in civilian clothes and it was difficult to distinguish them from the men composing the armed band.

The clash was at close range, according to Captain Brockus' report, the men firing at each other when but eight to ten feet apart. Prior to the fight, Captain Brockus said, eleven prisoners had been taken by the patrolling party which set out from Logan yesterday, ostensible toward Blair and Sharples.

Four of the prisoners escaped during the engagement, it was said, and one of them is believed to have been killed. Captain Brockus was at the head of the advance guard of troopers and deputies. It was this detachment, comprising 12 men, that engaged the armed band. The patrol while proceeding towards Sharples, Captain Brockus reported, ran across five men on foot. All were armed with rifles and one had a shotgun he said.

"We called upon these men to disarm which they did" the Captain continued. "We placed them under arrest and proceeded down the road. Further on, we met two automobiles and placed six additional armed men under arrest.

"With eleven prisoners we marched on toward Sharples and came upon another squad of five armed men. Some one called to us that we would not be allowed to pass. We called upon them to surrender their arms, but received in reply a volly of shots.

"Our men returned the fire and in the fight five men fell to the ground. We waited until we saw that they were picked up and carried away and then decided to discontinue the advance for the present. It was very dark and some of our deputies were in civilian clothes, hampering our distinguishing them."

Captain Brockus intimated that probably four of the five men were killed.

He said that he had talked with a man who came from Shraples after the battle had taken place and this man said that "some minors were killed." Captain Brockus said that later reports from Sharples indicated that the state police "had played in luck" in stopping where they did.

"We learned from Sharples that there were between 1500 and 2000 armed miners waiting for us to walk into a trap," Captain Brockus said, "and if we had advanced it seems assured a very serious situation would have developed."

All along the way, he explained, "pot shots" were being taken at the officers from men in ambush.

STRIKE VOTE ORDERED BY RAIL WORKERS

Trainmen Ballot on Acceptance or Rejection of Recently Granted Reductions in Wages.

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 28.—Strike ballot on the acceptance or rejection of the recent $400,000,000 wage reduction recently ordered by the railroad labor board were mailed tonight to the 409,000 members of the "Big Four" brotherhoods and the switchmen's union of North America.

The ballots revealed a difference of opinion among the chief executives of the five organizations, the brotherhood of locomotive engineers, brotherhood of locomotive firemen and enginemen, order of railway conductors and the switchmen's taking a joint ballot while the brotherhood of railroad trainmen sent out a separate ballot.

The trainmen's ballot stated that it had been the intention of all the organizations to use a joint ballot but that this was impossible because the ballot adopted by the other organizations "did not in our opinion, contain an impartial and unbiased recital of all that is involved, nor did it convey the assurances that the wishes of the men, if against working for reduced wages, would determine the question, and that they would be permitted to leave the service."

The joint ballot declared that if the membership vote was to reject the wage reductions which became effective on July 1, 1921, "it is to be understood that the men were permitted to withdraw from the service of their respective companies unless satisfactory settlement can be reached under the laws of the organization."

"The proposition which confronts our members and others," said the trainmen's ballot, "carries with it an attempt to reverse the decision of the United States railroad labor board on the wage reduction now in effect since July 1, or else persuade or compel the railroad companies to reinstitute wage rates that the labor board decided should be reduced.

"Many general chairmen at the Chicago meeting (on July 5) favored an immediate vote of the members on the wage cut and held that if the necessary majority of the membership voted to leave the service that a strike should be called forthwith, in an effort to force a restoration of the rates that were in effect on July 30, 1921.

"All members and others are hereby notified that if the membership vote is of a lawful necessary majority to leave the service rather than continue service under the reduced wages now in effect, they will on any or all lines where such vote is secured (with the sanction of the general grievance committee) be given authority by the president of the grand lodge. The president of the grand lodge will not (with the information given above) undertake to prevent the wishes of the men, as expressed in their ballot, from being adhered to."

The number of active members of the five organizations to whom ballots were mailed was estimated at 150,000 trainmen, 115,000 firemen, 80,000 engineers, 50,000 conductors and 14,000 switchmen. In addition the wage reduction had been previously voted upon by the six shop crafts under the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor.

HARDING TO INQUIRE INTO EMPLOYMENT

President Plans Investigation of Employment and the Reasons for This Condition.

Representatives of Greater Industries and Cabinet Members Will Attend the Conference.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—President Harding will call a national conference representative of the whole country to meet here next month to inquire into the unemployment problem.

Announcement of the president's intention was made tonight by Secretary Hoover, who was asked to formulate plans for the gathering. These, he said, would be ready for the president within ten days.

"The object of the conference," Mr. Hoover said, "will be to inquire into the volume of needed employment, the distribution of unemployment to make recommendations as to measures that can be properly taken in co-ordinated speeding up of employment by industries and public bodies during the next winter, and, in addition, a broad study of economic measures desirable to ameliorate the unemployment situation and give impulse to the recovery of business and commerce to normal. Many constructive suggestions have been made to the department by employers, governors of states and by city officials."

He said, it is intended to invite representatives of the greater groups of industries and thought, and the co-operation of national organization will be sought in their selection. The personnel of the conference, Mr. Hoover added, will be made up so as to represent the country geographically. The commerce department is to co-operate with the labor department on representation of labor.

"While the business situation is steadily improving," Mr. Hoover stated, "some sections of the workers may have exhausted their savings by the coming winter and they must be a matter of extreme solicitude. It is inconceivable that America, with its surplus in food and clothing, with housing — though crowded—and with an abundance of fuel, could allow any suffering amongst those of our own people who desire to work."

BANDITS ATTRACT ATTENTION AFTER BECOMING DRUNK

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—After an afternoon spent in raiding the vaults of a safety deposit company in the Masonic Temple, in which more than $1,000,000 in currency was said to be stored, three robbers became intoxicated, made so much noise that they attracted the attention of a passerby and then escaped through a hail of bullets from the pistols of twenty-five patrolmen and detectives early tonight.

Behind them they left two handcuffed watchmen.

OBREGON TO DEVOTE WEEK TO PETROLEUM

Question of Oil With Vexatious Problems Will Consume Time of Mexican President Several Days.

Chamber of Deputies Expected to Take Up Article 27 Before Close of Session Wednesday.

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28.—This is to be oil week in Mexico City. Petroleum in all of its vexatious phases, embracing taxation and alleged property confiscation, will be discussed by various branches of the Mexican government with a view to removing this tumbling block to resumption of diplomatic relations between the United States and Mexico.

The five heads of large American oil companies, enroute here to take up oil questions with the government are expected to arrive tomorrow. Couples with their visit is announced the determination of the supreme court to render a clarifying decision not later than September 15, on the alleged retroactive and confiscatory article 27 of the Mexican constitution.

There also is a possibility that the chamber of deputies may take some action amending article 27 during the last hours of its extraordinary session, which will close Wednesday.

The visiting American oil men are scheduled to arrive here in the morning and conferences with Secretary of the Treasury De la Huerta relative to the tax on oil exports are to begin immediately. These conferences probably will continue for several days at the secretary's office and then are expected to shift to the national palace where President Obregon will participate.

Settle Questions Soon

It has not yet been disclosed here whether the conferences will extend beyond a mere discussion of the recent taxation decree but it is regarded as highly probable that the end of the week will see some definite understanding reached. Either a compromise on the tax or an agreement to disagree.

A new phase to the situation has been presented by the failure of several American oil companies to pay into the national treasury their July taxes which fall due on August 25.

President Obregon's recent decree imposing an approximate increase of twenty-five per cent upon oil export taxes became effective July 1 and the vigorous protests against this levy were increased last week when the government ordered a new tax upon oil stored within the country. Representatives of some of the oil companies asserted that this last tax was imposed so suddenly that immediate compliance was possible and they therefore postponed all tax payments.

Deferment Causes Worry

Rumors were current here today that this deferment on payment had caused an unfavorable impression among high government officials who were reported to be considering a possible cancellation of the approaching conference with the American oil men until payments have been made. So far as can be learned however, there is no official ground for such reports.

Hearings before the supreme court on approximately 180 oil cases, which were begun last week are to be continued, and, according to newspaper reports, the court expects to hand down a decision within the next two weeks. Although it is realized here that the oil question is not the only one at issue between the United States and Mexico, there is an apparent belief which is reflected in newspaper editorials that once the question is settled the path to amicable understanding is clear. Officially there is no expression of sentiment beyond the bare announcement by President Obregon that the American oil men were coming.

INSURANCE FIRM ANNOUNCEMENT IN PAPER ERRONEOUS

In announcing the consolidation of the Robbins company and the Finch and Belcher insurance agencies under the firm name of The Robbins company in the Sunday morning issue of The Record News it was erroneously reported that the new firm will be under the management of Horrace Robbins, F. M. Belcher and Walter Robbins.

The announcement should have said that the new firm will be under the management of Horrace Robbins, John Finch and Walter Robbins as Mr. Belcher is retiring from the business with the consolidation of the two firms.

The consolidation is effective September 1 and the new firm will maintain their headquarters at 420-422 and 424 Rob Waggoner building.

RUSSIANS UNDERFED WOMAN OBSERVER TELLS AMERICA

to have the business of censoring the stories put through, and I never wor- ried, for no one was ever held up in Moscow."

Miss Bryant described her travels in the East, up in the northern prov- inces of Russia, in the Caucasus and down into Turkestan and Bakhara.

"Down there," she said, "there was a revolt, too. Just a little one against feudalism.

"During the month I was there I was the only unveiled woman about. They didn't quite know what to do with me. Four men were detailed to guard me.

"At the invitation of the presi- dent, a young man of twenty-four, son of the richest man in the country, I was permitted to visit the harems.

She Sees Harem Women

"I was intensely interested in the lives of these penned-up women. They seemed like happy children. They play with the babies and sit around and string beads all day long. They are not at all discontented.

"They don't have to think or plan their lives. They haven't a care in the world.

"You know good followers of Mo- hammed have only four wives, be- cause Mohammed himself had that number. But the Emir, the ruler, has ninety-six. The groups of wives in harems seem to get along very well—in fact, are good friends.

"Four men guarded me. It made me nervous to have them attend me at every step. They seemed to fear that something would surely happen to an unveiled woman.

"They used to walk up and down outside my door. When I wanted to wash my hands they would bring in a fancy enamelled pitcher with a long thin spout and pour water over my hands. That was pretty unsatisfact- ory and very different from Russia, for no matter what anyone tries to say about the Russians they can't truthfully say they don't bathe. They are a clean people."

Silk Robes Are Cheap

Miss Bryant showed me some gor- geous native costumes which she brought back from Turkestan and Bokhara. Like enormous coats, the heavy silk garments of dazzling hues were lined with oddly-printed stuffs. They appeared to be expensive af- fairs.

"One cost one dollar and a half of our money, the other two dollars," Miss Bryant said, to my great sur- prise. "Of course that is thousands of rubles in Eastern money.

"Talk of restoring a monarchy in Russia is absurd. That will never happen.

"The Soviet is rapidly abandoning its radical programme. It must, to be practical."

shall make a return to the public. The Ford offer asks for many hundred thousand horsepower for nothing.

The amount of power Mr. Ford could develop, under his offer, is greater by half than all that is now being developed at Niagara Falls. If Mr. Ford were to pay for it at the rates charged by the government to other companies that build their own works, as Mr. Ford would not, it would cost him about 150 thousand dollars a year.

Beyond question nitrate plant No. 2 ought to be maintained in condition for producing explosives in case of war. Most certainly it ought to be used for making fertilizer for Amer- ican farmers. The wisdom of develop- ing the waterpower on the Tennessee and its tributaries is beyond question.

But all these things can be done with fairness to the public.

Believes Should Change Offer.

I do not believe that Mr. Ford's offer should be summarily rejected. I do believe that it should be changed.

First. To make it fit the Roose- velt waterpower conservation policy, now the law of the land.

Second. To make it pay for the property of the people something ap- proaching what that property is real- ly worth, and Third. To make what it offers to the farmers clear beyond doubt.

It is said that certain Wall street magnates who hate Mr. Ford are anxious that his offer should be re- jected. What these men think about Mr. Ford and his offer is surely no reason for giving him public property of enormous value for a consideration wholly inadequate and on terms utter- ly unfair to the public.

I should be glad to see Mr. Ford make money, and plenty of money, out of taking over the property of the people as he proposed to do, but not such perpetual and gigantic prof- its as his offer would assure. It is fair to consider the public also, and to remember that all the annual pay- ments Mr. Ford offers to make would amount to only one-third of the year- ly taxation necessary to meet the in- terest charge (at the Liberty loan rate of 4 1-4 per cent) on the gov- ernment's net investment in the prop- erty he proposed to take over, and that he would get the waterpower for noth- ing.

Sincerely yours,
GIFFORD PINCHOT.

NEW CHIEF OF THE CHILDREN'S BUREAU

Miss Grace Abbott.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—As soon as the senate confirms her nom- ination, made last week by President Harding, Miss Grace Abbott will be- come chief of the children's bureau, succeeding Miss Julia Lathrop of Chicago.

The resignation of Miss Lathrop was accepted August 19 by Secretary James J. Davis in a letter in which he expressed his keen regret that she was leaving the bureau and his appreciation of her "conscientious and devoted service." She was ap- pointed by President Taft nine years ago.

Miss Abbott is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Abbott of Grand Is- land, Neb., and a sister of Miss Edith Abbott, who is a professor in the graduate school of social serv- ice in the University of Chicago. She has served nearly three years in the children's bureau as director of the child labor division and as the secretary of the child welfare standards conference of 1919. She is a graduate of the University of Chicago and has served as director of the Immigrants' Protective League of Chicago. She has an interna- tional reputation as an authority on immigration.

DIVORCED WIFE OF JACK GERAGHTY IS MARRIED AGAIN

Mrs. Julia French Williams

Miss Julia French, divorced wife of Jack Geraghty and daughter of Amos Tuck French, Newport mill- ionaire, has just become the bride of Howard T. Williams, Boston insur- ance man. The elopement of Miss French with Geraghty, then a chauf- feur in Newport, in August, 1911, created a big stir in social circles. She later divorced him on grounds of non-support.

Movieland

It has been finally decided by Goldwn to give Raymond Hatton a leading male role. The production will be "His Back Against the Wall," a story by John Frederick. Hatton has done some of the finest screen work ever seen and is one of the very best character and comedy actors working for the camera. He has given remarkable interpretation of old men, villains, hicks and a score of other types.

I shall always remember him in "Joan, the Woman," and in some of his roles in Wallace Reid pictures. He also gave a very excellent bit of work to us in his role in the Scottish play, "Bunty Pulls the Strings."

Living His Part.

Fame of Ralph Lewis, character- ization of Pere Grandet in the Rex Ingram picturization of Bazac's "Eugene Grandet" spread like wild- fire in the motion picture community.

"I hear your husband made a sen- sation as the miser in "The Con- quering Power," Vera Lewis was told by a friend at the Goldwyn studio.

"Yes, indeed; why he actually lived the part—even at home,' re- sponded the noted actor's noted wife. "Do you know, all the time he worked in Mr. Ingram's picture I couldn't get a nickel out of him."

Buster as a Multitude.

If you think one Buster Keaton is funny you should see his next picture, "In the Playhouse,' in which he acquires a multiple personality. By some marvelous stunt of the photographer you will see an entire audience composed of Buster Kea- tons a performance with only Buster Keatons on the stage and best of all the Buster Keaton sceneshifter, who breaks up the whole show.

WHAT THEY'RE DOING.

Carmel Myers and Wallace Mc- Donald are to do a fifteen-episode serial for Vitagraph.

WILL RADICAL RECTOR LISTEN TO CALL OF LOVE OR DUTY; CHURCH SET AGOG

NEW YORK, Aug. 2 —Is his love for the beautiful and fashionable di- vorcee, Mrs. Philip M. Lydig, to drive Dr. Percy Stickney Grant, New York's most radical rector, from his pulpit at the Ascension church?

Across the engagement of this cele- brated couple, the announcement of which has caused a storm of conjec- ture to arise in prominent Episcopa- lian circles of New York falls the om- inous shadow of Episcopal disapprov- al.

Bishop William T. Manning, who must pass upon the marriage, when located in San Francisco, declared that he had no statement to make at this time concerning the approach- ing marriage of Mrs. Lydig and Dr. Grant. The tenets of the Episcopal church forbid the marriage of a mem- ber to a divorcee unless she was the innocent party to a divorce.

Twice has Mrs. Lydig been divorc- ed. Her husbands were the million- aire W. E. D. Stokes and Maj. Philip M. Lydig, whose name she bears.

Dr. Grant's attitude toward divorce as against the rule of his church is not of recent adoption. Some time ago he caused a stir among the mem- bers of his congregation when he de- clared:

Divorce Justified

"A marriage is founded for affec- tion of two persons for each other. And if love is the basis of marriage, why should the union between the man and woman endure if that love should change to loathing?

A third party who will be vital- ly affected by this crisis in Dr. Grant's career, a tiny crooning party who does not appreciate what is transpiring, is the baby Faith Wil- lard, the little foundling who has been cared for by the rector since left upon the steps of his home, 7 West 10th street, last May.

Although Dr. Grant has taken no steps to legally adopt the child, he has expressed a great affection for "Faith." But will the fashionable society matron want the waif to be- come a part of her household?

The present Mrs. Lydig first came into the public eye in 1895 at the age of sixteen. She was then Miss Rita Hernandez de Alba, de Costa, an impulsive daughter of Spanish- Cuban parents. Her marriage at that time to Stokes, the millionaire, prov- ed quite a mild sensation.

Divorced From Stokes

The romance with the millionaire lasted five years. In 1900, she ob- tained a divorce from Stokes, and a son, W E. D. Stokes, Jr., was award- ed to her. She was granted alimony of $12,000 a year, with the provis- ion that it be canceled should she re- marry. Later the divorced woman voluntarily returned the boy to the custody of his father.

Then, on February 5, 1902, so- ciety was again interested by the news that she had married Philip Lydig. The ceremony, held in the Grace church chancery, came as a complete surprise, especially sine Mrs. Lydig was kgnown to be a devout Catholic. For a time it was reported she would go to Rome for a dispen- sation from the pope, but this plan was abandoned.

After the marriage the couple left upon an extended honeymoon, which carried them to Egypt, the Riviera, England, France and many places on the continent. Immediately upon their return to this country a series of brilliant functions were held by them.

New Domestic Storm

At the time the war began, the domestic sea of the Lydigs began to be ruffled by severe storms. It was then that the subsequent divorce be- gan to take shape, but the culmina- tion was held up until the conclusion of the world struggle. Major Lydig left for Russia to take charge of the American ambulance there and his wife plunged into war work.

It was in 1917 that she stirred all classes of society when she declared that civilization in this country was menaced by drugs, that one out of every ten persons was an addict. She went so far as to say that many of her "charming friends" were marked by this curse. She implored that so- ciety be less brutal with the unfor- tunates. She made this statement before a legislative committee inves- tigating the drug traffic.

In 1919 she went to Paris and there obtained a decree of divorce against her husband, then a major in the army. Her charge was incom- patibility.

If the career of Mrs. Lydig has been colorful, not a whit less so is that of Dr. Percy Stickney Grant. He was born in Boston in 1860 and was graduated from Harvard Uni- versity in 1883. Three years later he was ordained a deacon, and a year after that he became a priest.

His first assignment was to St. Mark's Episcopal church, Fall Riv- er, Mass., and it was not long before his striking sermons began to attract nation-wide attention. He first set his lance against the Y. M. C. A., called it "narrow in scope," and said that he would like to see poolrooms, card tables and other outlets for boy- ish enthusiasm in every "Y" in the country.

When he was offered the pulpit of Ascension church, 5th avenue and 11th street, he declared that he could not accept unless the pews that were rented at $17,000 a year were open- ed without barge. In this he scored a signal victory and the pews were thrown open without rental.

Champions Cause of Strikers

He mixed in politics long enough to advocate Roosevelt for governor of New York in 1909 and he excor- iated the rule of Tammany Hall in a vigurous campaign.

He left the parlors of society, where he was a favorite, and championed the strikers in a big textile tieup at Lawrence, Mass., in 1912, with views so liberal that he was accused of be- ing a Socialist.

He never failed to plead for free speech, and his slogan was, "You cannot change a man's thoughts un- til you know what he is thinking about.' His Sunday night classes be- came famous.

In 1900 he visited Manila as a sec- retary to the Rev. Henry C. Potter. Dr. Grant took the trip because he was keenly interested in spreading the Episcopal faith in the United States possessions.

Dr. Grant was vitally interested in civic affairs and was an advocate of an "all woman's" court, where fe- male offenders might be given a sec- ond chance in life.

For years he pleaded for more lib- eral divorce laws, never thinking at the time that the divorce question would play such an important role in his own affairs.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

will have gratified their political am- bitions so far as being members of the State Legislature, and do not care one cent what becomes of the country after that time. Our Sena- tor Bledsoe fought hard for the pas- sage of the bill putting it into ef- fect at an earlier date, but failed on account of too great odds against him. A good time for the voters to have a cleaning up of the represen- tatives who fought for the amend- ment placing the redistricting date at three years hence, would be at the next election. The voters should know how every legislator stood on this question and see to it that he gets a just reward according to his vote. This is a question of right and wrong. The legislature has violated the constitution by not doing this work three years ago, and then to put it off for three years or more longer, is an additional crime, and criminals should not be members of the law-making body of Texas. Put men in who have the nerve to stand for the things that are right, regard- less of the consequence, and the af- fairs of Texas will soon begin to show a wonderful improvement." There are leading democrats who say that Senator Bledsoe will be the next at- torney-general of Texas—that is if he will permit his friends to an- nounce his candidacy, and push his claims for that office.

Editor W. C. Stewart of the Elec- tra Star makes the following an- nouncement: "Warnings to leave town, to make changes in their style of living and veiled threats are al- leged to have been received by no less than five Electra citizens Wed- nesday. It is rumored that many more have received warnings. Some of the letters were signed K. K. K. Others were unsigned. The Star re- ceived a letter, a portion of which is printed. In addition another com- munication was received today tell- ing of their method of procedure. It was left in the office in a mysteri- ous manner." Then the "K. K. K.'s" have envaded Wichita County and may be very much in evidence later on. "Electra is becoming known," writes Editor Stewart. "People who come here are impressed when we send delegations away the delegates make the visitors remember them. Last week while Electra was enter- taining the Northwest Texas Press Association the local team of the Rebekah lodge was in Childress win- ning practically all the prizes they had to offer. Electra outclassed Wichita Falls in team work as a whole, and individual members of the lodge competing for prizes, won five out of the seven offered. Electra is known as the home of live wires. Let's live up to the reputation."

Plans for the formation of a pool for the purpose of co-operatively mar- keting the Texas pecan crop were formulated in the city of San Antonio when nine directors of the Pecan Growers' association of Texas met in the office of Col. Ike Pryor, South Texas ranchman and owner of one of the world's largest pecan groves, bordering along 18 miles of the Nu- eces river in Zavala county. J. W. White of Mason county, president of the organization, and J. H. Burkett of Brown county, will be at the head of the organization, which will file application for charter, Colonel Pryor said. "There are produced in Texas an average of from nine to ten mil- lion pounds of pecans annually, or from 600 to 700 carloads," said Col. Pryor and the plan of the organiza- tion is to start a pool to concentrate between three and five million pounds of pecans, the present indication pointing to San Antonio as the con- centration center for the pecans. "Buyers are already in the field of- fering around eight cents for the crop, and we believe we should get more for our product," Colonel Pryor said. The entire Texas pecan crop is sold each year unsystematically, about four large firms handling the entire crop and virtually controlling the market.

Ralph Shuffler, publisher of the Olney Enterprise, is a preacher's son but he does not believe in ex- treme laws or extreme advisers. This editorial on fanaticism and coercion is very much to the point: "It is never wise to go to the extremes in any- thing. Those who go to the extremes are not mentally well balanced, and they invariably endeavor to coerce everybody else into their way of thinking and doing. They are al- ways in a vast minority but that fact does not seem to enter their heads at all. It never occurs to them that the big majority might possibly be right and they wrong, and the reason for this is because they go to the ex- tremes and become egotistical and fantatical. The ultra radical ele- ment among the Communists, Bolshe- vists, Socialists and Union Labor be- come dictorial and undertake to force others into their ways and views, and that element of such organiza- tions is to blame for frequently get- ting their cause and their organization in bad with the majority of the peo- ple, who think and believe otherwise. It is also applicable to religion. One can get as crazy over religion as over anything else, and go the extreme with it, and seek to coerce others in- to modes of living and beliefs which are entirely obnoxious to them. Right now there is a bill before Congress which seeks to prohibit by law the running of any train on Sunday, for any purpose whatever, it also pro- hibits the printing and selling of Sunday newspapers, closes all the- tres and all factories and every place of business on Sunday. It prohibits the delivery of mail, the sale or de- livery of milk, and all other articles of commerce. The preacher who got it introduced in Congress said it was better for babies to go without milk than for others to sell and deliver it. Such a man is not only a coercive fan- atic but he is also a fool. He hasn't the common sense of a worm, and he belongs in a sanitarium where he can receive treatment. tI is never good sense to go to extremes, and fan- aticism and coercion always fail."

RAIL EARNINGS DUE TO LESS EXPENSE.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—In- creased earnings of railroads during the first six months of the year were attributed in a statement issued today by the association of railway exec- utives to reductions in operating ex- penses and to "postponement of ex- penditures that must be made if the roads are to be adequately main- tained," the increase in earnings, the statement said, was "due largely, to a decrease in the expenses such as would have to be resumed if business were to revive toward normal."

Fewer trains were run, less coal used and fewer men employed "with- out however, any reduction of wages" according to the statement which also pointed out that there was a reduc- tion in the amount of material used and that fewer bad order cars and engines were put into condition.

"It should be borne in mind," the statement said, "that the first six months of 1921 showed no relief to the railroads from any reduction in basic wages, nor from any change in rule and working conditions. Begin- ning July 1, a wage reduction of ap- proximately twelve per cent went into effect and some progress is being made toward working conditions con- ductive to greater efficiency and economy. The second six months of 1921 should therefore show an im- provement over the first six months."

Surgeon, Cutting Out Wrinkles, Gains Insight Into Womanhood

British wags asked him if he could raise the face value of the pound note.

For that's one of the many surgi- cal feats for which Dr. Leroy Stod- dard, of this city has gained distinc- tion, face lifting and other branches of cosmetic and plastic surgery.

From tired women he lifts burdens along with wrinkles.

From worried wives who have lost the gay look of youth that won them a husband's love he takes away mental turmoil as well as sagging cheeks.

He is the sworn enemy of the crow's foot and of the little paren- theses of wrinkles that too often en- close a woman's mouth.

Dr. Stoddard returned from Eur- ope the other day on the Olympic.

Studies Woman's Vagaries

In addition to his surgical achieve- ments, Dr. Stoddard, the husband of Alice Nielsen, the opera singer, is quite a psychologist and a deep stud- ent of the vagaries of feminine na- tures.

"The Psychology of looks is an im- portant phase of life. Looks have a tremendous power. Surgery applied to correct facial defects is now an ac- complished fact and is one of the ac- knowledged branches of academic ac- tivity," he said recently.

"It is possible to a great extent to remove the marks of time or acci- dent.

"Good looks affect the very heart and soul. If a woman is conscious that she looks well, that she is ex- quisitely groomed; if her hair as well as her gonw, is correct, she will be completely at ease. Her satisfac- tion will be reflected in her manner. She will have complete control of her- self both in speech and demeanor—nearly always in thought, too.

"That famous character, Sherlock Holmes, said, you remember, that men see, but they don't observe. And that was the only difference between himself and other men.

"How fortunate that all men don't admire the same type of woman! How fortunate that whatever a cer- tain man may see in a certain wo- man is always a mystery to other people. The cause of such attrac- tion is something we cannot under- stand.

"But it has nothing to do with looks.

"Looks—good looks—react favor- ably upon the individual who posses- ses them, not necessarily for anyone else.

"The eye operation is my special hobby," Dr. Stoddard smiled. "By this the wrinkles and sagging thin skin above and below the eyes is tightened and the whole appearance thereby rejuvenated.

"It is a simple procedure. The su- tures are removed in forty-eight hours.

Ambrine Solves Trouble

"Much of the trouble in the past, for instance, in removing a disfigure- ment due to burns or accident, was due to the surgical dressings which had to be applied. They became mat- ted into the surface. When taken out they tore unendurably at the raw flesh. That condition is all changed now.

"Ambrine has brought about the difference, it is a form of paraffin.

"A coating of this substance is poured into the wound fairly warm, and it cools on the surface; then gauze is put over all to hold the shape. There is no sticking or discomfort as- sociated with the process.

"Cartilage is used extensively in facial operations now. It is taken (green—meaning fresh) from the ribs and placed where needed on the face. Major H. D. Gillies, in Lon- don, has got wonderful results with it.

"In London I met the major at Queen's Hospital, which has been an emergency hospital for facial cases. There nine hundred facially mutilat- ed soldiers were treated during and after the war.

Faces and Spirits Made Over

"The wounded soldier is made into a person who does not fear to be seen. Often sides of a face, or the center of it, or the entire jaw is blown away. But the hospital re- ports one thousand per cent improve- ment, nevertheless.

"Features can be built out upon these faces; one side can often be de- veloped to match the uninjured por- tion of the face. Celluloid jawbones can be put in in some cases where the destruction of the surrounding flesh has not been too complete.

"In London one sees frightfully wounded soldiers all about. In Paris nothing of the sort is visible at least "England is much worse off now than France.

"England is dull and stupid. Yet some wag asked me to lift the face value of the pound note.

"These poor ex-soldiers one sees covered with medals abound in Lon- don. They are accompanied by some one who tries to collect money, while the improverished ex-warrior plays pitifully on some musical instrument They display their deformities, of course.

"Never in France have I seen such spectacles. Maybe this is part of a campaign to keep France happy and gay, to turn a pleasant face toward the tourists. France is undoubtedly making a play for the travellers, while England is asleep.

"I want to say that I didn't see in Europe any skirts as short as those in New York.

"We are an extreme people and overdo things."

DANCES HER WAY OUT OF RUSSIA

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—Sixteen- year-old Luna Nester, who danced her way out of Russia, likes America because here one does not eat horse- flesh.

At least so she told a reporter. Luna knows only a few words of Eng- lish. Her little brother, Stephen, knows a few more. Her mother, Mrs. Stephanie Nester, and her grand- mother speak no English, but con- verse fluently in Russian, Polish, French and German.

In Petrograd, when Luna was a baby, the family was well-to-do, the father, a military engineer. The child learned to dance without any lessons. "God taught me," she said, with a smile that was only half joking.

Her mother corroborated her. "She was a virtuoso when she was five years old. Her solo dances attracted such attention that she was put in the Imperial Ballet. The Grand Duchess Tatiana grew much interested in her and Luna danced twice for the czar at Tsarskoe-Selo when she was ten years old."

Among the artists whom the family knew in those days was Lydia Lip- kowska, Russian prima donna.

Then came the war. The father was called to service. Slowly the grip of hunger tightened.

In 1918 the mother, grandmother and her two children went into Si- beria. For more than a year they drifted with the White Army from city to city. Luna danced wherever she went, sometimes for relief funds, sometimes for money to buy food. Finally they got to Japan.

They stayed in Japan a year, earn- ing money to come to America. Eight he is alive or dead. They are living at No. 174 East 74th street.

weeks ago they reached New York. No word has ever come from the fa- ther and they have no idea whether

A few evenings ago Luna danced at the Atlantic Yatch club. And among the artists who watched, astonished, from the wings was Lydia Lipkowska!

"And," cried Luna, "she sent for me to come to her. She is trying to get me an engagement."

BOOTLEGGERS RECEIVE BLOW BETWEEN EYES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—"Bootleggers have been hit squarely between the eyes."

This was the gleeful view held by Roy A. Haynes, chief of the Prohibition Bureau.

He feels sure that one of the worst of bootlegging evils has been successfully met by the prohibiting of shipments of liquor by truck.

Commissioner Haynes said bootleggers have been getting a large part of their illicit supplies over the "truck route."

The methods have varied, he said. One of the favorite means of getting fresh liquor stocks is for bootleggers to conspire to hold up shipments en route from distillery or bonded warehouse to the person who bought the liquor.

The fact that shipments of liquor by truck have been permitted has made it exceedingly difficult, he said, to detect other movements of illicit liquors from other sources than those of distilleries.

Under orders now being enforced by Commissioner Haynes, dry law agents will keep a stricter watch out on all highways and, under new methods employed, expect to be able to detect liquor caravans with less difficulty.

STAMFORD MAN LOSES EYE WHEN STRUCK BY COB

STAMFORD, Texas, Aug. 28.—Struck in the eye by a chance corn cob thrown by a small boy, Lewis Wells, 23, farmer living at McCauley, Texas, will lose his sight, according to an eye specialist here. According to eye witnesses, Wells was coming around a corner of a barn where he had been feeding some horses when he was struck by the stray corn cob. The cob penetrated the eye ball, the specialist said.

WHAT'S NEW AND ODD IN DAME FASHION'S NOTE BOOK

A peep into Dame Fashion's note book shows that there will be fads and odd styles aplenty during the coming season. That changeable woman will never run out of new ideas with which to attract the feminine interest. Here are just a few of fashion's newest fads.

At the left is a hat which looks like a lampshade and which is really of Spanish influence. It is edged with deep fringe and trimmed with a shell ornament which looks for all the world like a high Spanish comb.

In the center are milady's next slippers of the season. They are fur pumps. It seems that it is to be a fur winter and so these broadtail slippers have been designed for wear with fur frocks and wraps.

The huge fan at the right will be the new season's rival of the ostrich fan. It is fine black lace embroidered in sequins. It is an odd shape, being longer at one edge than the other, and will be very effective, although perhaps a bit cumbersome, when worn with evening frocks.

Other Oddities of Fashion.

Narrow silver ribbon is used to finish the edges of lace tunics.

Bias stripes of taffeta are used as bindings on organdie dresses.

Combinations of black and white and navy and white are favored.

Morning frocks and simple afternoon dresses have elbow sleeves.

A mushroom hat of gray canton is trimmed with wee glace flowers.

Puffed sleeves and narrow gathered guimpes are charmingly used.

Fancy cape wraps are made of taffeta. They feature self-ruchings.

Dresses of Canton crepe are embroidered in dull floss and steel beads

Novel sets of collar, cuffs and fancy filet are made of colored striped oilcloth.

Lingerie blouses show much filet lace and insertion and often hand embroidery.

Very smart dresses use loops and fringes of ribbon as trimming.

Beige and gray suede gloves are worn rather than white.

Crepe dresses have matching silk fringe upon hips to hem.

Eyelet embroidery linen is used for some charming frocks.

TRAMPING LIFE LURES CO-EDS

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 28.—Two co-eds of Syracuse University have responded to the "lure of the road." One of the girls, Winifred Hoyt, hails from Yonkers, N. Y., the other, Marion Clifford, is claimed by Newark, N. J.

Both are sorority girls. They recently met Beatrice Rollens, of New York City, who tanned and dressed in khaki, had "hiked" the highways for one thousand miles or more, and from her learned the lesson of "the road and simple life." They decided to try it.

DO MEN GO TO CHURCH TO SEE PRETTY GIRLS?

LONDON, Aug. 28.—Is it to see pretty girls that men go to church?

This question was discussed at the Vestry of St. Peter le Bailey Church, Oxford, where it is noticed that young men come once and do not return.

A woman member of the congregation suggested that the reason was that there were no girls in regular attendance.

"I do not think that in the London churches pretty girls attract men," said the Rev. John Evitt, vicar of a fashionable London church. "This does sometimes occur in the country, but I may safely say that little 'ogling' goes on and that the behavior of young men is always excellent.

"I think that many young men prefer to wait outside the church, and thus have an opportunity to speak to the girl after the service."

The reverend gentleman made it known, however, that many churches in America make a point of selecting the prettiest girls to take the collections and to show people into their seats.

With the Women of Today

There was a time when it was astonishing how few professions and lines of business were open to women. That time is past. The astonishing fact today is that with practically every field open to women which is open to me, so few women avail themselves of the openings. Not long ago figures were given out which stated that only 1,000 women in the entire country had been graduated in law. Figures for other professions would undoubtedly be a great deal less.

There is no question but that engineering is a field which has been neglected by women, and there is no question but that women can make good as engineers, for some are gaining fame and fortune building bridges and ships and the like. There is only one woman west of Chicago who is a certified member of the American Association of Engineers. She is Miss Adelaide Cooper of Seattle, Wash. She is a graduate and practical civil engineer. She is employed in the oldest established firm in Seattle, and in addition to her duties as "the west's leading woman engineer" she acts as secretary and treasurer of the Pacific Northwest Society of Engineers.

WESTERN WOMAN'S CLUB BUILDS CHURCH.

Nebraska women living on great cattle ranches in and around Keith county formed a club which has accomplished great things. When a railroad came through the section the town of Keystone sprang into being and not long after the club had a town library of 1,600 books.

The community was without a church, but the women were equal to that also.

More Catholics, Lutherans and Presbyterians were found than any other denomination, and the club proposed to these people that it would erect a church if joint use were made of it. The proposition was received with enthusiasm, the necessary dispensation secured for the Catholics, and now once a month a priest drives across country from Agallala, the county seat, to say mass.

Two altars have been erected, one at each end of the audience room. The seats are so constructed that they can be turned over, and thus each denomination is able to face its own altar.

The Catholics hold services the first Saturday in every month and the Lutherans and Presbyterians have alternate Sundays.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE DAYS IN KANSAS CITY

Carefully—very carefully, then, for the next six months Arline had stopped at nothing in her desire to win him for her own. The more she saw how attractive he was to other girls the more determined was she to bring him to the proposing point. For all her tidily spread nets Ned was extremely slow in biting. This worried her many a night, after she had retired to her room, and was pondering over his not having asked her to become his wife as yet.

There were several things that kept Ned from proposing to Arline, the most important being that he was not in love with ther. He liked her and enjoyed her company, but then he enjoyed being with most of the healthly, attractive girls he had met since his arrival in Kansas City.

He had made up his mind to be very sure of himself before ever marrying. His mother and father having been a warning to him ever since he could remember. They had married in haste and repented at leisure. There had been nothing in common between them almost from the start, and he, their son, was going to profit by experience, if it were humanly possible.

In many ways, Arline reminded him of his mother, and although Ned loved his mother, and had always been her right-hand man, he knew that he never would have been able to get along with her in any relationship other than mother and son. It had been hard enough at times doing even that, for Mrs. Randall was high spirited, exacting and domineering. She shunned the softer side of life and had never really loved her husband as Ned wished the girl he married to love him.

In spite of her many blandishments and her adopted attitude of clinging vine, Ned saw through Arline much more than she ever dreamed possible. He admired her efficiency in making her own way and getting along by herself, but he often trembled at the mere though of having to live with a nature like hers.

Sometimes Arline invited him to her cosy apartment, and made dinner for them there. These were the times that he enjoyed most, for here in her own domain she looked most appealing and played hostess in a way warming to Ned's heart.

She would cook an excellent dinner and serve it daintily, which was refreshing to the man grown weary of boarding house service as Arline well knew. The flowers were never lacking about the two little rooms. Arline was a good cook when she wished to be, and she did wish to be for this Prince Charming whom her heart was set on winning.

After the dinner she would sing for him, simple little songs that she knew Ned liked. Maybe she would read to him in her soothing voice from some book of poems. Several times on these occasions Ned had caught himself wondering if after all Arline would not make him the finest wife in the world? But always some streak of prudence within him had kept him from making his thoughts known to her, even when she turned her most melting glances in his direction. This is what had piqued the girl most—his power to resist her.

CRASH NOT SERIOUS TO BURK YOUTHS

Virgil and Jim Jones, two youths injured when their motorcycle collided with a Dodge automobile at the Lone Star Refinery on the Burkburnett road Saturday night, were reported to be out of danger at the Wichita General Hospital Sunday.

The two brothers were thrown from their motorcycle when in a head on collision with an automobile belonging to Deputy Constable Bean. When the car and motorcycle stopped one of the brothers was on top of the automobile and the other laying across the radiator. Both sustained severe cuts about the face and body.

The motorcycle and automobile were wrecked. The cause of the collision is not known.

BANDITS TORTURE BOOTH KEEPER

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Torture, reminiscent of methods of the Middle Ages, when such methods frequently were applied by bandits as well as by minions of the law, were utilized by three masked men who robbed Stephen Vassilatoulous of $2,100 in cash and liberty bonds at Coney Island.

Vassilatoulous conducts a dozen small booths on the boardwalk at Coney Island between the Parkway Baths and Brighton Beach. He sleeps in a room adjoining his office in the rear of one of the soft drink stands.

According to his story to the police he woke up as three men forced their way into his place early yesterday morning. One of them threw him on the bed. While two of them attempted to open the safe in the office, the third man wrapped adhesive tape over Stephen's eyes and mouth.

They were unsuccessful in opening the safe. The concessionaire yelled in agony as they ripped off the adhesive tape. They poked revolvers in his ribs, and under threats of death the victim opened the safe. He then was tied to the bed.

He made a slight movement as the safe was being rifled, and his guard pulled a hair from his mustache. Each time he moved the process was repeated. Before the bandits left practically all the hairs on one side of the mustache had been yanked out.

Stephen was told that to cry out meant certain death. After the three men left Vassilatoulous succeeded in freeing himself. The police obtained fingerprints and the numbers of the stolen liberty bonds.

"THE WORLD LOVES A FIGHTER AND A FIGHTER ALWAYS WINS"

W. Bradley Alley is the editor of the Texas Oil Ledger. He isn't a pessimist. This is the caption of an editorial in the current number of the Oil Ledger: "The Fight Is Won." Editor Alley has supreme confidence in self and cause. This is review of price conditions and the future outlook.

"Operators throughout the Mid-Continent fields are jubilant. They have won their fight for existence against heavy odds. First the large purchasing agencies against the curtailment order, which at first seemed to be a death blow, but after a few weeks of hard fighting the operator was again holding his hand above water.

"Then came the greatest blow of all, that of cutting the price of crude from $3.50 to $1.00 per barrel within six months time. This was supposed to be the final and death dealing blow for the independent operator.

"Some of the weaker ones cried out for help, but this cry was unanswered and as in every line of business the weak must go. But the great majority of oil operators are big men, hardened to ways of the world and the methods of the big interests. It was these who set their teeth and fought with the grim determination of a man with his back to the wall.

"For six long weary months the fight continued and it was a bitter one, for the major companies were struggling to get a strangle hold while the operators were fighting for their very existence.

"But now the storm clouds have rolled by and the sun is shining upon the entire oil industry for the larger companies were compelled to give in to the demand of the world for oil—more oil—and as a result they are now fighting each other in their haste to make contracts for the delivery of crude for one, two and even three years hence, giving substantial bonuses on these contracts.

"Oil prices in Eldorado have risen from 40 cents per barrel to 90 cents, the posted price, and a few concerns are getting as high as $1.10 for their oil. The fields of Texas are also experiencing the same reaction, for during the past week the Pierce Oil Corporation and the United Producers Pipe Line company have offered premiums of 25 cents per barrel, thus giving the operators $1.25 for their oil.

"This is but the beginning of the great reaction which the Texas Oil Ledger has been predicting, for after reading all of the propaganda which the big interests have been spreading for the past six months we find it is very contradictory, for in one statement they claim an over supply of crude oil, the next day they go before congress and cry out that we need Mexico's oil free in order to save the United States from an oil famine.

"Yes, the fight is won and from now on the oil industry will see its greatest prosperity. Oil prices are steadily rising and the demand is daily becoming greater both in America and in Europe. The world loves a fighter and a fighter always wins."

Most reassuring, to say the least. American oil kings are in the City of Mexico. They hope to force a compromise with the Mexican government. They hope to be able to bring influence to bear upon President Obregon which will cause that gentleman to recall his exports tax decision. There is a tremendous revival coming some day which will create a tremendous demand for the crude as well as the refined products. This is the logic of the situation.

FOREIGN COMPETITION THREATENS AMERICAN TEXTILE INDUSTRY

American textile manufacturers might as well give up all thought of export trade on such lines as come in competition with European-made goods, according to William M. Wood of Boston, president of the American Woolen company, who just returned from a tour of England, Belgium, France and Germany. With labor so much cheaper in the foreign mills than it is in American mills, the manufacturer in the United States can consider himself lucky if he holds his own home market, and will in all probability have to rely on the aid of a substantial tariff to protect him from low-priced competion from abroad.

"The wages in England are much lower than they are here," said Mr. Wood. "Our wages are six times what they are in France and Belgium and ten times what they are in Germany. We cannot compete, of course, with such labor costs, and are out of the running so far as foreign markets are concerned.

"Germany is fairly teeming with activity. The people are busy as ants. The factory chimneys are smoking and the wheels hum along, and there seems to be a universal desire to produce. Wages are very low, when compared with ours over here, but the cost of living is also held down to proportionately low levels, so that the German workman, although working at small pay, is really better off and more comfortable in his living conditions than he has ever been before. There are vigorous regulative measures for keeping prices of food and other necessities down to reasonable levels, and everybody seems to be pulling together in truly commendable fashion. Germany is going to be a factor to reckon with in the world's markets in the near future."

This is no surprise to The Record News. All the economists of the world have predicted it. Germany was compelled to disarm. Germany is without an army or navy. Germany has 40 years time to pay an indemnity of 33 billion dollars. Germany was splendidly favored by the allies when they compelled disarmament. An army and navy would have cost Germany a greater sum than 33 billions the coming 40 years. All machinery in Germany is intact; the government of Germany is furnishing employment for all the workers of Germany; Germans work long hours; they are receiving very low wages. If Germany as a militaristic nation was a menace to the liberty life of the world then industrial Germany is a menace to the commerce of the world held by other nations. Germany is coming back, economically speaking, with a vengeance. Unless all other manufacturing nations disarm in 40 years the Tutons will be the economic masters of Europe and perhaps of the world.

TEXTILES ARE IN DEMAND

According to a New York correspondent there seems to be more trust in the stability of the present movement in cotton goods than has been evident at any previous time this year. Confidence from the manufacturer's standpoint grow out of the orders already on his books for future delivery, and he believes that at or near current levels the distributer can move the goods through to the consumer at a price which will mean absorption of a considerable volume.

Already certain lines of colored cottons are sold out of the market. Ginghams for next spring are an example of this, and the buying of percales and prints has been of such marked volume lately as to place these lines in a strongly entrenched position. Denims have been well sold, and cheviots, chambrays and like materials are benefitting by a current of demand to fill needs not anticipated to the usual extent at the opening of the season on these lines. Export orders for brown sheetings have put the products of some mills nearly under order for the remainder of the year, and the orders coming to hand this week in this division of the gray goods market is filling in the gaps on mill books. Assurances that a fair proportion of the industry's machinery will be engaged during coming months give a better feeling in regard to the future of the raw material, and helps to break up the lack of confidence which has held many merchants back.

There is a famine cotton crop of cotton the world over. There may be a carry over supply of eight million bales of American cotton. Very conservative southerners say that the crop this year will fall below 7,500,000 mark. Cotton is selling from the wagon in Texas at 15¼ cents. There is no telling where the price will go between this time and the end of the fiscal year in the month of August, 1922. It is admitted that the foreign world is ragged or bare. It is also admitted that there are millions of bales of cotton in America of the crop of 1920, but a vast deal of this cotton is of low grade and the European manufacturers know how to make high grade goods of low grade raw materials.

Federal Judge Renesaw Mountain Landis favors Saturday afternoon off for laboring men. If the count was correct, there are five million six hundred thousand laboring men off all the time just at present. Just what would the judge do for these enforced idlers.

Rains have fallen from Paris on the north to Abilene of the west and from Fort Worth to Temple in the heart of central Texas. Jupiter Pluvius is a most important personage.

Who is holding the whip hand—Standard Oil or President Obregon? Mexico needs the money; Standard Oil is reputed to have billions in its big chest. Money talks.

Panhandle cotton growers are jubiliant. Crop prospects are fine and neither the boll weevil nor the pink boll worm has invaded the territory.

Thank God for Texas and Oklahoma.—James Goold, editor of Woman's Wear of New York. The editor of Woman's Wear has a level head. All the manufacturers of the East thank God for Texas and Oklahoma and Mexico. They are buyers.

After all the uproar the state over University totals were cut only $39,214. This shows the value of publicity agents to the state institutions. A publicity agent knows how to go about it to get the ear of the people. And while he is getting the ear of the people he is protecting his own job.

Fort Worth is enjoying a gasoline war, with one retail dealer selling the stuff for 12 cents per gallon. Three concerns have cut the price to 14 cents. Well, the little fellows will blow up before the big fellows take notice of their presence.

Heavy rains end Texas heat wave.—Dallas News. Thanks awfully but the rains have failed to materialize "in our midst." There were heavy rains in many places and good showers in other spots. Fort Worth had a downpour that broke a drouth of sixty days and many towns in central and northeast Texas were likewise favored by the rain god.

Rippling Rhymes

THE RENTED HOME

The money you have paid for rent is gone beyond recall, though you have paid it for a tent, or for a stately hall; some landlord took it, cent by cent, and left your bundle small. Some landlord took your iron men and left you feeling sore, for you were needing every yen to buy things at the store; and every month he came again, and took away some more. You've bought that residence, alack, you poor misguided gent! You've bought the blanied place front and back, and by the strain you're bent; and still the landlord owns the shack, and bones you for the rent. Not yours the rooftree overhead, not yours the cistern pump; the landlord owns the fence and shed, the whole works in a lump; when you can't pay him you must tread the pathway to the dump. When you are sick or out of luck the landlord stern appears, and clamors loudly for each buck for which you're in arrears, and hauls your dunnage in a truck to soulless auctioneers. A sane and prudent wight is he who in his own shack dwells, though it may plain and humble be, not built for blooming swells; we see him 'neath his vine and tree, and note he's wearing bells.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

Governor Neff submitted to the legislature the senatorial and representative redistricting bill. The senatorial bill was passed at the first called session but the governor objected to the senate amendment deferring effectiveness until April 1, 1924. He said to the lawmakers, in this respect that the bill does not fulfill either the letter or the spirit of the constitution of the party platform. The Record News congratulates the governor. He faced the issue squarely and he told the senate standpatters of the Woods type that they had flouted the constitution of the commonwealth, the platform of the democratic people of the state and violated the principle of justice and fair play. We are chawmed to note that Arnold Bennett has joined in the skirt controversy. We never had supposed that Arnold took any cognizance of such things or that he would ever know that such a controversy was going on, but it appears that he, like all the rest of us, has been rather more or less observing. He openly defends the present style, and says in addition that men dress more foolishly than women. His expert opinion is that skirts are not immodest if they do not pass the knee. But does he mean they would be immodest if they passed the knee on the way upward or immodest if they passed the knee on the way downward? We hope the old topper will come across with an exptanation, for we would jolly well like to know.

A WILFUL MISSUSE OF POWER

(From the Houston Post.)
The interstate commerce commission has granted the application of the eastern carriers for permission to file tariffs carrying a reduction of 7½ cents per 100 on export grain and grain products from Chicago and Mississippi crossings to Atlantic ports.
This reduction will reduce the present differential of 10 cents in favor of gulf ports to 2½ cents, and it is calculated that it will divert much of the grain now reaching gulf ports to Baltimore and New York.
The present differential of 10 cents, effective in western territory, in favor of gulf ports is due to a palpable natural advantage, and was supposed to equalize conditions as between the carriers.
Now the interstate commerce commission neutralizes the advantage of distance and unbroken hauls of the north-and-south trans-Mississippi lines, and arbitrarily transfers an advantage bestowed by nature from the north and south lines and the gulf ports to the eastern carriers and the Atlantic ports.
At least that is what the reduction will amount to unless there be an immediate reduction in the rate from western grain centers to gulf ports.
Here is where we obtain an object lesson of bureaucratic government. The Southwest has no representative on the interstate commerce commission. The gulf ports are therefore badly handicapped in all matters involving competition with the Atlantic ports, even when the traffic competed for originates in territory naturally tributary to the gulf ports.
If the State of Texas or the State of Louisiana, noting such arbitrary rulings of the commission, should attempt to protect its natural commerce and export trade through the exercise of its power, it would be unable to do so. The bureau at Washington, dominated at all times by eastern interests, can nullify at will all state action.
Thus this bureau has its grip on the very economic life of any state or section, and shippers know how that power is used.
The gulf ports are especially adapted to the economical handling of export grain from a large section of the trans-Mississippi grain region, just as the Atlantic ports enjoy certain advantages with respect to export grain and other shipments in other zones of production.
To juggle rates and divert the natural traffic of one section to the lines and ports of another section is a misuse of power that will bear bitter fruit for this country some day. It will be sure to create sectional bitterness and animosities or worse, and complicate our domestic problems in a most dangerous way.

GOLD IS GARNERED FROM SUNKEN SHIP

LONDON, Aug. 28.—The little treasure-seeking expedition which left Portsmouth Harbor in the Admirality boat racer some weeks ago to resume work on the Laurentic, the liner that was torpedoed and sunk during the war off the Irish coast, has succeeded in recovering another large quantity of bullion.
How much the ingots raised are worth the treasury refuses to disclose, but the amount is known to be substantial.

GREAT GUNS—AND HE USED T O BE HIS BEST CUSTOMER, TOO!

Who's Who

REAR ADMIRAL NATHAN C. TWINING.

Rear Admiral Nathan C. Twining, the newly appointed American naval attache at London, was chief of staff of Admiral W. S. Sims as commander of the United States naval forces in European waters during the World war, and member of the allied naval council in Paris.

He was detached as chief of staff December 20, 1918, and ordered to the United States. January 2, 1919, he was placed in command of the battleship Texas and when the fleet was divided was appointed chief of staff of Admiral Hugh Rodman, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet. Admiral Twining held the latter position at the time of his appointment as naval attache at London.

Admiral Twining served as aide on the staff of Admiral Sims as president of the naval war college at Newport, R. I., from June, 1916, until April, 1917, and was ordered to report to Admiral Sims in London during July, 1917.

For four years, from May 25, 1911, Admiral Twining was chief of ordinance, navy department. On October 6, 1913, he assumed command of the U. S. S. Takoma at Vera Cruz.

The new American naval attache was born in Boscobel, Wis., January 17, 1869, and was appointed to the Naval Academy on September 4, 1985, from the third Wisconsin district by Robert M. LaFollette. He attained the permanent rank of captain in July, 1915, having meanwhile served as chief of ordinance with the rank of rear admiral. He has seen many years of active sea service and has an excellent record.

Admiral Twining will assume his new duties at an early date.

NEW MEMBERS NORTHWEST TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

(From the Electra Star.)
Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, of the Wichita Falls Record News became a member of the Northwest Texas Press association. He is one of the brightest lights in Southern journalism. His experience has been broad and varied. He has witnessed the transformation of Texas and West Texas, from cow camps to flourishing cities. While attending the meeting he showed that he was a real newspaperman and could not resist the impulse to "cover" it thoroughly. His column on the front page of the Record News contained many interesting observations of those who were present at the association.

GARNER IS PICTURESQUE

W. L. Garner, of the Chillicothe Valley News was one of the picturesque guests at the Northwest Texas Press association here last Friday and Saturday. Garner is picturesque because of his difference from other people. He has led a spectacular life in the newspaper and political life of Texas and Oklahoma. He served eight years in the legislature of Oklahoma and was in the old territorial assembly that helped draft the state constitution and says that he helped make Oklahoma possible for a white man to live there. He has made money in the newspaper business. Especially has he been successful in making legal advertising pay, which is more than most newspapermen can say. His ideas and experiences revealed at the press meet added to his popularity, for he knew his subject well. West Texas will benefit from the associations of a man like Garner.

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS
BY GEORGE BINGHAM.

Sile Kildew has a new squirrel rifle. It is longer than his old one, as the squirrels are farther away this season.

Atlas Peck still maintains that the mere carrying of an Irish potato in the pocket will remove all pain from the body. He recalls that he used to have rheumatism so bad he could not get up or down, but that a potato drew it all out. Wash Hocks says if this is so, the Irish potato now has the rheumatism, but don't show it.

The Hog Ford pastor, who has been allowed to keep all he collected, has asked for a raise.

A STATE PARK.

(From the Waco Times Herald).
Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald has this to say in the columns of his paper, the Wichita Falls Record News:
"Flowers for the living. George H. Clements, secretary of the Toyah Chamber of Commerce is responsible for the state park idea and H. N. F. would not rob him of the glory. It is a splendid proposition. Texas should have a magnificent state park. It should be set aside by the legislature and when money is easier, a legislative appropriation should be made in order that the park may be made a reality. There are glorious hunting and camping grounds, there is a salubrious climate, there are mountain tops and picturesque hunting and camping places in the territory which it is to be inspected by a committee appointed by the legislature. George H. Clements has had a unique career. He was born in the city of Dublin under the British flag. After his education he escaped to America and became a magazine writer and newspaper freelance. In Mexico, he saw Diaz dethroned. He saw Madero sent to a bloody grave; he witnessed the rise of Carranza; he knew Villa better than any American correspondent knew him; Obregon is his friend; El Paso was his headquarters for years until the oil boom hit Toyah and in that thriving town, the state park idea evolved from the brain of the free lance correspondent and soldier of fortune. H. N. F. hereby pledges in advance George H. Clements any influence of voice or pen he may command with the legislators in the work of giving the people of the state an ideal state park where the tourists may spend their summers and the health seekers their winters in that paradise created by nature in the foothills of Davis mountains."
It is a brilliant idea and it will be a great achievement, this of a State park in the Davis mountains. The location is ideal; in all the world you will find no more picturesque scenery than is afforded by these mountains out there in West Texas. And the climate is not surpassed anywhere in the world. You would motor from Waco to Cisco, a distance of 150 miles. At Cisco you would strike the Bankhead highway, being built by the federal government, and the 400 miles from Cisco to the State park would be so soon traversed that you wouldn't know you had been on a journey. It is a splendid idea, this of a state park, and the Davis mountains give us the ideal location.

Breakfast Stories

They were discussing that ever vexing question—the question of getting up in the morning.

"I don't think," said Frederick, "that an alarm clock is any good at all. I hear the bell of my alarm clock go every morning. I simply lay my hand on the nearest thing I can pick up and hurl something or other at the clock. I am constantly paying for new alarm clocks, but they only rouse me for a minute, and I go to sleep again."

"I've got a new kind of alarm clock," reported Charlie. "I don't know how long it will last, but it is simply doing fine work at present."

"How does it differ from others?"

"It toots just like a motor horn. As soon as I hear it I jump out of bed to avoid being run over by a three-ton truck."

When Masefield, the British poet, visited Yale, he finished his evening's talk and readings earlier than was expected, and the chairman of the meeting suggested that the poet should read any poem requested by the audience. The audience, as usually happens, was dumb. It was an awkward moment. Finally, one of the younger English department members rushed agitatedly into the breach.

"Won't you please read 'The Tewksbury Road,' Mr. Masefield?"

The poet looked amazed, then puzzled, and at last said with a hesitating desire not to offend "these singular Americans": "Ah—er—I—ah!—would be charmed to do so—really—but I've just read it!"

"What do you consider is the present state of national affairs?" challenged the bewhiskered passenger as he laid aside his newspaper and addressed his nearest neighbor in the smoking car. "Oh," came the prompt response.

"I don't like a friend to domineer over me," said the young man with the patient disposition.

"Who has been doing that?"

"My roommate. He borrowed my dress suit."

"That's a good deal of liberty."

"I don't mind it, but when he asked for my umbrella I told him I might want to use it myself. But he got it just the same."

"How"?

"He simply said: 'Have your own way. They're your clothes that I'm trying to keep from getting spoiled, not mine.'"

How carefully the children of John D. Rockefeller, jr., are kept in ignorance of the fact that they are prospective heirs to the greatest fortune in the world is illustrated by a story of Mr. Rockefeller told recently.

Mr. Rockefeller has an estate at Seal Harbor, Me., where John D. Rockefeller III, his eldest son, has been amusing himself with a very old and very dilapidated rowboat, at which a neighbor's boy, a Seal Harbor native, turned up his nose.

"Why don't you have a motor boat?" asked the native lad.

"Gee whiz! Who do you think we are—Vandelbilts?" asked the grandson of the world's richest man.

SPUDS WIN IN THIRTEEN FRAMES AND LOSE IN FIVE, WHILE MUTT WILLIAMS POURS IT ON CATS

Coming from behind with the regulation, made-to-order, rush, the Sluggin' Spudders tied the first game of yesterday's doubleheadder in the ninth frame, and slugged their way to victory in the thirteenth when Danny Clark drove the apple out of the orchard with two men on the bags—and then darkness and some splendid twirling by young "Slim" McGrew defeated the Spuds in the second contest 1 to 0 in five innings.

But while the Spudders were dividing their twin bill, San Antonio was handing a double licking to the Fort Worth Panthers by the lopsided scores of 7 to 1 and 14 to 0. San Antonio, did we say? Nay, it was mostly one man who slipped the arsenic to the Cats—"Mutt" Williams, who hurled both games for the Bears and held the alleged Clawin' Cats to nine hits in eighteen innings!

The Spudders used three twirlers in stopping the Crabs in the opening game. Abe Bowman traveled three and two-thirds, but was derricked in the fourth when the Crabs began getting rough; Jim Sewell went along nicely without being scored upon through three and one-third innings, but had to retire when a pinch hitter was used in the eighth, and Rabbit Dorough finished the battle, going strong.

Galveston got away to a one-run lead in the first frame, when with one out Roy Ellam tripled to deep left and scored on Schliebner's sacrifice fly. The Spudders tied it up, however, in the third, Buddy Tanner socking a homer over the right field wall with nobody on; and they took the lead temporarily by scoring again in the fourth on Works' single, Gross's sacrifice and a timely single by Abe Bowman.

Crabs Get Rough.

The Crabs, however, went "into high" in their half of the fourth, and regained the lead by bagging two tallies. Ellam started it with a single inside third. Schliebner flied out to Clark. Distel beat out a hit to short, and Ellam went to third when Buddy made a bad throw. Abe walked Thrash, filling the bases. Allen socked a single to center scoring Ellam and Distel and putting Thrash on second. O'Brien flied to Danny Gross in center. Hughes walked, filling the bases again—and then Jimmy Sewell replaced Abe. Jim promptly whiffed Bill Fincher for the third out.

That one-run lead looked mighty big for some little time. The Spudders had a wonderful oportunity in the seventh, but failed to score. Sewell was safe of Schliebner's error. McElwee hit to Fincher whose peg to second was dropped by Hughes, and Buddy Tanner beat out a hit down the first base line, loading the sacks with none out. Tex McDonald rolled one to Fincher, whose throw forced Sewell at the plate, and O'Brien doubled Tex at first. Clark then was walked intentionally, and Kitch lofted one to Schliebner for the final out.

Tied in Ninth.

The Spuds finally tied 'er up in the ninth, when with two out, Tex busted a two-bagger to right, and came home when Danny Clark followed with an equally husky double to center.

And then Bill Fincher and Rabbit Dorough continued to battle along neck and neck until the Spuds came to bat in the thirteenth. Tanner was safe on Hughes' fumble. Tex, coming through one more in a pinch, singled over first, sending Buddy to third—and then Danny Clark proceeded to beat the whey out of his former team-mates by lifting the ball out of the lot over the right field fence.

The second game was a five-inning battle between Holly and McGrew, with the honors going to the Galveston youngster, darkness ending the game in the fifth after one man was out and the Crabs had scored one run. Allen started the inning with a two-bagger to center, and went to third when O'Brien beat out an infield hit. Sam Knight hit to Clark whose throw to the plate was too late to get Allen. McGrew was thrown out by McDonald. Bittle was hit by a pitched ball—and then his Umps called the battle off.

The Spudders in their half of the fifth had lost a fine chance to score when an outfield error and a sacrifice put McElwee on third base with one out. On an attempted squeeze play, however, Tex laid one down too close to the plate, and Mickey O'Brien put the ball on Mac as he dashed home. Clark flied out to left.

BLACK SPUDDERS BEAT BLACK CRABS TWICE IN TWIN BILL

Playing exceptionally airtight ball behind good pitching of Robertson and Johnson, the Wichita Falls Black Spudders did a little "pouring it on" the Black Sandcrabs from Galveston, annexing both games, 7 to 4 and 6 to 2. A fair sized crowd witnessed the games.

Batteries for the games were, first: Wichita Falls, Robertson and Pardell; Galveston, Giles and Gil; second game, Wichita Falls, Johnson and Pardell; Galveston, Ste[illegible] Gil.

The same teams will play today. Returns of the [illegible] game will be announced between innings.

JACK JOHNSTON, BEAUMONT OUTFIELDER, JOINS SPUDS

Jack Johnston, Beaumont outfielder and first sacker, will report to the Spudders today. The following telegram was received last night by The Record News from R. O. Harvey in Galveston:

"OUTFIELDER JACK JOHNSTON AWARDED US TODAY BY WAIVERS. REPORTS HERE TOMORROW, ALSO ANOTHER OUTFIELDER. NAME LATER."

Johnston has played both the outfield and the initial sack for the Exporters, and has always been a .300 hitter. Early in the season he alternated in left field with "Cutie" Breaux, and later held down first base when Manager Pat Newnam benched himself. Johnston has been out of the game with a broken thumb for a month, but is reported to be in shape again now.

In 96 games this year Johnston was at bat 288 times, scored 47 runs, and made 91 hits for a batting average of .316.

The question may be raised as to why Beaumont asked waivers on a .300 hitter like Jack. One answer might be that the Exporters have a good enough outfield now with Ripperton, Durst and DeMaggio, while any kind of money, even the waiver price of $500 looks good to the Beaumont owners near the close of a tough financial season—that may be the answer, and it may not. At any rate, with Beecher, Miller and Josefson in the outfield, Johnston should be a valuable man to have as a pinch hitter or even to play the first sack in a tight hole against southpaw pitching by the opposition.

AN APOLOGY TO "RED" JOSEFSON

By C. F. Carter

We owe an apology to "Red" Josefson for doing him an injustice on this page recently—and right now is a good time and here is a good place to say we are sorry, and to correct a false impression regarding Red.

Several days ago we stated on this page that Josefson was trying to hold up the Spudder management; trying to sandbag Salm into giving him the franchise and a few other things before Red would come to the aid of the Spudders in their present outfield predicament.

We were wrong; not intentionally so, for we received our information from a source we considered authentic.

Red Josefson will join the Spudders in Fort Worth next Wednesday, and he will do so without knowing until after he arrives what his salary will be. Here are some facts regarding Red:

N. O. Monroe, prominent local realty dealer, is a close friend of Josefson. Last night Monroe showed us six telegrams Red had sent to him from Huntington, Pa., at Red's expense, each wire stressing the fact that Josefson DID NOT WANT TO TURN DOWN HIS FRIENDS IN WICHITA FALLS. Here is an excerpt, for illustration, from one of the wires:

"Will let R. O. Harvey and you decide upon that (Red's salary). Willing to do anything for you personally and friends there, as I feel obligated. Can leave Pittsburgh Saturday night. Will do as you say."

As a result of those telegrams, Monroe got in immediate touch with Salm and Harvey, and the deal to obtain Josefson was put through. The club is guaranteeing Red's transportation, and the salary question will be settled after he arrives. Josefson's last telegram to Monroe on August 27th stated briefly:

"Leaving tonight. Joining club in Fort Worth Wednesday."

If Josefson is leaving his home town back east, where he has been successful in the management of an independent team, and is coming all the way to Texas to pay an obligation to his friends and to help out the Spudders, without a definite agreement of any kind regarding his salary—then Red's a regular guy, and we had him pegged all wrong.

We are sorry.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

Take your hats off, fans, to Mutt Williams, as fine a twirler as there is in the Texas league today. Where will you find another who can travel eighteen full innings against the Panthers and hold em to nine hits and one lone run? The longer he lasted, the better he got. Mutt allowed 7 hits and 1 run in the first game, and then blanked the Cats in the second with two lonely bingles.

Bill Stellbauer, who has hit .432 since his acquisition by Fort Worth, went to bat six times yesterday, and was unable to get a semblance of a hit off Mutt. Also the Santone twirler kicked in with three hits himself. Take your hats off to Mutt, say we.

Speaking of Mutt Williams, rumors were afloat yesterday that the Spuds had obtained Mutt and Joe Connolly from Santone, via the New York Giants. Anything is possible, but personally we don't believe it. Just another of the rumors that start daily in this good old city when we're all worked up to a fever pitch over the Spudders' pennant hopes.

"Slim" McGrew vindicated our judgment in placing him on an All-Texas league team, by holding the Spuds to two hits, one a scratch Texas leaguer over second, and striking out 6 men in five innings. He turned in rather a novel brand of pitching in the first inning of that second game, when he walked two and fanned three; struck out McElwee, walked Tanner, struck out McDonald, walked Clark, struck out Kitchens.

The fans gave Dutch Schliebner a loving cup between the two games, and also presented a gift of some kind to Danny Clark. We tried to find out what Danny received, but the Galveston wire operator laconically replied:

"Can't see. Clark has taken same to dugout without acknowledging receipt thereof."

Walters, Okla., home of "Borneo" Knadler, is edging into the limelight again, this time through the acquisition of Sid Myers outfielder by the Salt Lake Bees of the Pacific Coast league. We have it on pretty good authority that George Wakefield, skipper of the Bees, will be leaving Walters tonight with Myers.

The Oklahoman, who has batted .412 and fielded 984 in 72 games with the Walters club this season, was originally an Electra youngster, and held down a regular outfield berth with the Oklahoma City team of the Western league last year. Unless the papers already have been signed transferring him to Salt Lake, he is still the property of Oklahoma City—although we understand Jack Holland released him to the Bees by telephone with the understanding that the papers might be signed later.

Our informant, who has been in close touch with the Walters club all season, stated also that Skipper Walter Salm had beaten George Wakefield to Ramsey; that the Salt Lake City manager wanted the big right hander but spoke his piece a little late.

From up in Duncan our old friend "Dutch" sends a letter enclosing a rebuke administered in metrical style to the fans of Fort Worth for moaning over the split season. Although it has been published before. Dutch begs us "for land's sake, don't pass this little ditty up," so here goes, gang:

"Listen, you bunch of Fort Worth fans,
Who are about to have a fit,
And cussin' the rest of the baseball clubs
Who voted a season split.
It seems you're a very poor bunch of sports,
Or else your memory is gone,
For just a couple of years ago
You were singing a different song.
Shreveport then was leading the league,
With Fort Worth trailing behind.
It was then you hailed the season split
As the saviour of your nine,
Now you'll try to justify your howl
By the fact that you're in Class A.
But it seems to me a very poor rule
That only works one way!"

Pourin' it on 'em, we'll say! Amen!

The Chicago Tribune is curtailing its professional baseball reports, defending itself editorially on the ground that "an active doubt exists as to the value of professional baseball in American life." While the Trib may be correct in assuming that amateur athletics produce a sounder citizenry than professional sports, it will take a bigger influence than the Chicago Tribune, big and influential as that paper is, to weaken public interest in professional baseball. And for the Trib to curtail its reports of the games is merely bad newspaper policy—the refusal to publish news to which the public is entitled.

FORCE GREEKS TO RETREAT ON SAKARIA FRONT

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 28.—After three days of fighting the Turks have forced the Greeks to retire across the Sakaria river in Asia Minor. The Greeks lost many prisoners, much material and cannon and transport wagons.

The entire plan of campaign formulated by the Greeks has been temporarily held up.

The Greeks are said really to have been defeated by the Salt Desert, lack of water and many men stricken with malaria.

Greeks Meet Disaster.

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The right wing of the Greek army which was attacking the Turks along the Sakaria river in Asia Minor has met with disaster and been completely severed from the main body of the Greek troops, according to a dispatch from the correspondent of L'Information at Constantinople. The statement adds that the entire Greek army is thus placed in a most difficult strategical position. The Turks are attacking and seem to have plenty of ammunition.

COTTON ADVANCES DURING WEEK ON SOUTHERN MARKET

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28.—It was a week of strongly advancing prices in the cotton market, new low levels being reached on the opening session when the trading months were 10 to 16 points higher than the close of the proceeding week and the highest levels coming on the closing session when prices were 253 to 275 points up, new high quotations for the season being made on all months. At no time were prices under the close of the preceding week. The close showed net gains of 256 to 270 points. October traded up to 15.40 and closed at 15.35; March traded up to 15.75 and buyers on the close bid 15.78 without being able to get any cotton at that price, the highest in many months.

Spot displayed strength and middling was sent to 14.88, or 288 points above the closing price a week ago. A year ago at this time middling stood at 30.75 with October position at 28.45.

Continued crop damage and belief in the lowest August condition report from the government on record were the main factors at work, although a somewhat better spot demand helped and the work of the co-operative marketing association in several states of the belt and in keeping cotton off the market made a bullish impression.

The drouth in Texas continued unbroken almost to the end of the week and was the constant cause of much bullish comment. The rains in Texas on the closing session at first caused moderate selling, but outsiders continued to buy on the view that rain would do untold damage in Texas because of the vast quantities of the open cotton in that state and the breaking of the drouth finally was actually the signal for some of the heaviest buying of the week.

Extremely bullish private bureau reports on the condition of the crop brought in heavy buying. They ranged from 52.7 down to 51, as compared with 55.7 per cent of normal as the lowest August report ever put out by the government in 1918. The crops indicated by the coming week ranged from 7,470,000 bales down to 6,100,000 bales. This unquestionably will be the main event.

WILL GIVE TRIBUTE TO MINE HEROES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The unsung, unheralded heroe who performs his deeds of valor thousands of miles from the bullet-swept battlefields, in dark underground crannies reeking with deadly gases that attend mine explosions and fires, is to be accorded well-merited recognition at the International First Aid and Mine Rescue Meet in St. Louis, Mo., on September 1-3.

Gold medals and diplomas of valor for saving, or dying in the attempt to save the lives of their fellow miners will be awarded to twelve heroes of mine disasters, or their nearest surviving relatives, by Foster Bain, director of the United States Bureau of of Mines in co-operation with the American Red Cross, the National Safety Council and various miners' and operators' associations.

Will Award Medals

Medals will be awarded to K. P. Krueger, Lew E. Ryan, Frank Pierce Herbert Farlin, George Reichert and John Gregovich, Butte, Mont., miners for their efforts to save the life of a surveyor who was overcome by gases from a mine fire in the Leonard Mine. Medals will be presented to the nearest relatives of Francis Henry Murphy and William Ferrington, of Franklin, Kan., who lost their lives in a mine near there in an effort to rescue two shot-firers who were imprisoned following an explosion in the mine and who were later found dead.

Alex Ogilvie and Thomas Gold, of Lehigh, Okla., will each receive a medal for extricating at great risk a worker who accidentally came in contact with an electrically-charged wire. Medals will be presented to the nearest relatives of Lasco Robinson and Clarence Williams, of Degnan, Okla., who died in their attempt to warn miners of an impending explosion from an accumulation of gas within the mine. Before they reached the men to give warning the gas accumulated and the explosion occurred, resulting in the loss of ten lives, including their own.

Will Work for Safety

The Joseph A. Holmes Safety Association was founded in 1915 to honor the memory and continue the work of Joseph A. Holmes, the first director of the Bureau of Mines and the popularizer of the slogan "Safety First." The association is completing its plans for the formation of local safety chapters of the national parent organization. The proposed chapters, it is hoped, will be the means of bringing together the miners and mine officials as common workers in the great cause of making safer the operation of the 35,000 mines, quarries and smelters in which a million men do their daily toil.

Among the speakers at the meet will be Governor A. M. Hyde, of Missouri; John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America; Representative Marion E. Rhodes, chairman of the House Committe on Mines and Mining; H. Foster Bain, director Bureau of Mines, and J. G. Bradley, president of the National Coal association.

BRIGHT HAT GIVES AWAY YOUNG GIRL

An orange colored hat proved the undoing of Larue Clinkscales, pretty sixteen year old girl of Duncan, Oklahoma, Sunday afternoon.

Larue's father and brother have been searching for her since she ran away from home a couple of weeks ago. They returned to Duncan from here Sunday morning after they had spent some time in a vain search for the daughter and sister they believed to be in this city.

They had given a detailed description of the girl to police officers including the fact that she wore an orange colored hat. Sunday afternoon city detectives Boone and Hendree seated in front of the police station saw a girl with the orange hat enter the postoffice. She was taken to the station and promptly confessed that she was the runaway girl wanted.

The father, J. W. Clinkscales and brother were on their way back here Sunday night. The girl was being held pending their arrival.

Funeral services will be held at the First M. E. Church, South as soon as the body arrives. Burial will be in a local cemetery.

Thomas L. Ford was twenty-four years old when he received injuries while fighting with his organization in the Thirty-sixth Division early in October, 1918. He died a few days later.

His mother, Mrs. A. E. Ford of Holliday, is at the home of George Dobson, 1410 Eighth street, awaiting the arrival of the body here.

LASKER SAYS STEAMER LINE DIVERTS MONEY

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Charges that the United States mail steamship company had diverted through prior uses $1,200,000 obtained for immigrants were made today by Chairman Lasker of the shipping board, after the government had gained possession of nine ships originally chartered to the company. Mr. Lasker announced that with the vessels restored to the board by court order, they would be operated by a special committee until the board decided whether to sell them or to charter them to another company.

He declared that the $1,200,000 represented advance money collected from immigrants for passage, hotel expenses, railroad fares and immigration head taxes, and that decision temporarily to operate the vessels as a patriotic service was reached because "the government feels that it could not permit fraud and hardships to be worked on thousands of immigrants." Diversion of the funds, he asserted, was an "unconscionable act."

The fight for possession of the nine vessels has been in progress since they were seized by the board last month on the ground of non-payment of rental. The company temporarily regained possession of the ships through injunction proceedings, but when the cases came up today before Federal Judge Manion, he ordered receivers for the company, appointed after the seizure, to return the craft to the board. The receivers requested that the decree be issued and informed the court that they intended to dispose of the company's assets for the benefit of creditors.

The committee, which will operate the vessels comprises W. Averill Harriman, Kermit Roosevelt and A. V. Moore, who will serve without compensation. Mr. Lasker, in his statement declared that the board had started its action "to maintain the American flag flying on the seas and to protect innocent immigrants who we discovered were being fleeced."

"No so-called 'alien shipping' interests will be permitted to drive the American flag from the seas—not so long as American citizens are willing and able to operate American ships for Americans," Mr. Lasker added.

The nine vessels which Judge Manton ordered returned to the government are former German liners.

The Agamemnon, Susquehanna, President Grant and America now are in New York; the George Washington and Princess Matoika bound for this port; the Mount Vernon in Boston; the Potomac in Bremen and the Pocahontas in Naples.

Mr. Lasker's statement said that the receivers on examination of the affairs of the company found conditions even worse than had been represented by the shipping board.

"It was impossible for the receivers," the statement said, "to further operate the ships with the company's income already diverted through prior uses. The government, consistent with its policy to do everything possible to keep its premier fleet on the seas, consented to the return of the ships and agreed that it would honor these immigrant tickets, making good the cash deposit and taking an assignment from the immigrants of their claims against the United States mail steamship company, inc.

FIND NOTES FRENCH HOLDS ARE SPURIOUS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Evidence disputing the claims of Z. W. Davis, Cleveland and Canton millionaire that $600,000 of Davis' notes seized by federal agents in the investigation of Charles W. French, and his alleged "swindle ring" are either twenty years old or else forgery was made public tonight by Colonel John V. Clinnin, assistant United States district attorney. Davis was arrested at Canton today and released under $25,000 bond.

The evidence produced by Colonel Clinnin is a letter on the stationery of the Diamond Portland Cement company of which Davis was president and signed with his name. It is dated March 29, 1921, at Cleveland and addressed to E. J. Coach of that city. The letter after recommending French to Coach and endorsing the securities development company being organized by French at Kansas City, Mo., says in part:

"Other men have given Mr. French $400,000 in personal notes and I have given him $600,000 in my personal paper and $50,000 in cash with which to capitalize his organization at Kansas City."

A written memorandum attached to the letter lists the $600,000 notes as one of $100,000 dated October 1, 1920, and five for $100,000 each dated November 18, 1920. The list corresponds with the six notes surrendered at Milwaukee Wednesday by Alva Harshman, French's private secretary and treasurer of the Pacific Trust Company of Missouri, parent organization of development securities and some twenty other companies.

The Davis letter was seized at Cleveland by John W. Shaken, agent of the department of justice which brought it and $10,000,000 in unsigned notes of the Ideal Tire and Rubber company of Cleveland and sent to Chicago today. The notes were turned over to Sawken at Cleveland by Charles Hawkins who was arrested here with French a week ago today.

MOCK PLUM PUDDING

A California housewife recommends the following pudding for warm weather, as well as cold, and when baked, can be put away in a box or jar and kept for weeks and used from as needed. Before serving, put in a steamer over the kettle and serve "piping hot."

Pour cold water over a pint of stale bread crumbs and drain—add: One-half cup dark molasses, one-half cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 pinch salt, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon allspice, one-half cloves, 1 tablespoon flour, one-half cup raisins, one-half cup currants, one-half cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon of soda. Bake for one-half hour.

"Longies" the Latest Camp Costume

The hiking costume is quite as important an accessory for camping out this season as are the portable tent, the cooking utensils and the food. The latest word in hiking costumes comes from the south of England and Wales where girls are wearing a suit known as "longies!" Agnes Ayres, newest Paramount star, who was leading woman for Thomas Meighan in "Cappy Ricks," has had one of these made and many happy hours are spent in them between pictures in the California mountains.

The sketch in mannish mode shown was made from this suit of Miss Ayres, and is delightfully informal and comfortable. It is made of light weight flannel with a vest of contrasting shade.

The sports costume worn by Miss Ayres in the halftone is worn on an ordinary tramp when a trip in town is scheduled as well. It is of tan colored tweed, with patch pockets in the lower and upper part of the coat. Giving breadth to the skirts are inverted pleats which tend to distract from its severity. There are found, too, in the back of the coat. The hat is of jade green angora and is trimmed with brown pheasant quills.

Another staunch standby of Miss Ayres may be found in the heavy boots shown here, which have a sensible half inch sole of felt and an added reinforcement of the strap over the instep. These are used especially for swampy lands or for fishing. The stockings are of heavy wool with a Scotch plaid design.

The greatest comfort in the world is claimed for the soft hat sketched here. It is a felt cloche and may be crumpled and folded as much as necessary without altering its pleasing line. They are unusually becoming and are found in jade, green, tan and old blue.

ASSERTS CAN PUT HARNESS ON GRAVITY

DENVER, Aug. 28.—Investigation of a machine that will "harness gravitation" is the claim of W. F. Garbe, Denver mechanic and shopkeeper.

A working model of the new invention, which is on display in Garbe's North Denver shop, is attracting wide attention.

The machine comprises a system of wheels, around which link chains operate—there being a weight affixed to the center rigid portion of the machine, which contains the axis wheel, also rigid. The weight, instead of dropping like that of a clock, revolves and thereby, Garbe declares, counterbalances the slack and produces gravitation which forms the force of the machine and which it harnesses, ready for man to use.

Garbe asserts that, with his machine perfected and built to suit all purposes, it will run any kind of machinery and will eliminate the necessity of fuel in producing power.

"Will Run Indefinitely.

"Some might call my machine perpetual motion, but there is no such thing as perpetual motion," Garbe declares. "My machine, however, will run indefinitely.

"I realize that it has been universally taught that harnessing gravitation is an impossibility, but I am confident that I have solved the problem.

"I do not claim to know what the force of gravitation is; nor does the electrical expert know the composition of force of electricity, nor the physician the force behind radium, but for more than thirty years I have been interested in the study of harnessing gravitation, having studied it from every angle, and my machine is based upon mathematics.

"Force We Cannot Understand."

"We know that it is gravitation that holds the unnumbered worlds together—a force that we cannot understand.

"In Ezekiel there is mention of a 'wheel within a wheel,' and of 'the spirit of the machine,' and it is the combination of these that I have worked out. I have assembled my machine on the planetary system, with mathematical precision, and 'the spirit of the machine' is that unknown force.

"I am a practical machinist, and I am convinced that I have solved the problem of harnessing gravitation. I am perfectly willing to give demonstrations to the skeptical.

"I know with my machine I can increase or decrease power; that in my working model I can demonstrate this power, and, as it operates itself and has its own power in operation, there is no need for coal or other fuel.

"With this machine I can run a sawing machine or operate a great industry."

GUNNERS OF NEW MEXICO IN LEAD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The battleship New Mexico, flagship of the Pacific fleet, is perhaps one of the best, if not the best, fighting ship afloat, on the basis of exercises recently completed. This vessel came off with highest honors for battleship efficiency gunnery and engineering of any ship in her class of the American navy.

"GAY PAREE" IN BOSTON.

BOSTON, Aug. 28.—More than 5,000 persons attended a "block party" given on Newbury street, Back Bay, by the Girls' City club and the Scollay Square Service club. The novelty of dancing on a Back Bay public street appealed to the big crowd and the scene smacked of Gay Paree or New Orleans at Mardi Gras time.

POLITICS AID IN DEFLATION OF SECURITIES

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Deflation in values in the securities market attained more impressive dimensions this week, when nearly forty different stocks broke into new low territory for the year.

The political element figured in the week's developments. Banking and business interests expressed disappointment at failure of congress to formulate definite policies regarding railroads, tariff and taxation before recessing.

Rails were least affected and many excellent July statements of earnings were submitted. Pronounced diminution however, of the recent demand for bonds and high grade stocks was generally attributed to absence of legislative relief.

Increase of production from early August low levels was reported in many basic industries. The notable exception was furnished by the steel and reduced its prices for plates and sheets and this action induced buyers to limit purchases to immediate necessities as they look for further declines.

Pig iron ruled steady to firm at the recent advance, but while business is fair it is not proving as large as some had hoped for on the recent spurt of activity.

Copper has remained very quiet and prices for spot and prompt electrolytic have been shaded slightly by dealers and some of the smaller producers. No export business has been reported for the past fortnight, owing partly to the weakness of the London market and it is claimed that except for occasional small lots, domestic buyers have been almost entirely out of the market.

Under these conditions small lots have been available at about 11.75 delivered but the larger producers have refused to shade 12 cents, and are asking from 12 to 12 1-4 cents for September and October.

Tin has declined to 25 5-8 for straits, the lowest in 18 years. Weakness in London and apathy on the part of buyers apparently offset the higher sterling exchange.

Lead continued fairly active with the undertone firmer especially at the west.

Zinc was quiet as buyers anticipated fresh concessions, but holders are refusing to meet large bids just under the market.

Additional expansion of federal bank reserves and steady inflow of gold strengthened the impression that the final quarter of the year was likely to bring another reduction of rediscounts and interest rates. Well informed bankers believed, however, that the attitude of the federal reserve board in this connection hinged on further liquidation of grain and cotton bills at western and southern points.

Discussion of the foreign exchange situation revolved around Germany's additional reparations payments next week. In round figures these were estimated at one hundred million dollars, half of which may be deposited here, the balance probably going to London.

POLICEMEN NEVER GO TO CHURCH

"Mistah! doan' yohall evah go to church," moaned a dusky crap shooter Sunday shortly before noon on the road toward the county jail in the custody of Constable Frank Morgan and City Detectives John Boone and Bob Hembree.

Three of the negroes were reported to have jumped out of a window of a servant's house in the 300 block on Monroe street when the officers surprised nine of them engaged in the pastime of African golf, the first carrying a window screen framed round his throat. They, however, were met by the officers who forced them back through the window into the house. The negroes were lodged in the county jail.

AMERICANS AND BRITISH SOLID, WRITER ASSERTS

LONDON, Aug. 28.—"There is no shadow of doubt as to the solidarity of the goodwill existing between the Americans and the English."

With this comment Mr. John Drinkwater summed up his experiences while on a lecture tour in the United States, from which he has just returned.

He is thoroughly optimistic about the future of the relations between the two great English-speaking nations.

"No Reason to Be Scared."

"Of course," he went on, "there is the small minority, with a loud voice, which wants watching and answering from time to time, but there is no reason to be scared about them.

"Americans and Englishmen were, of course, made to like each other. Although I could not live anywhere else but in England. I have the highest regard for Americans. A man like J. W. Davis, the retiring ambassador, for example, is the salt of the earth.

He is enthusiastic about bringing the two nations closer together by the aid of literature and the fine arts.

"Literature Moves Westward."

"It is a great pity that the great stream of literature moves westward," he commented; "there is a great and generous public for English literature in America, but one can hardly say the same here of American books."

Mr. Drinkwater suggested that some such body as the English-Speaking union should organize a lecture touring England for some half-dozen of the great men of American literature, giving as his reason that if England wanted to strengthen its friendship with America she should pay some of her writers the compliment that they have paid Englishmen and begin to take more interest in American works.

WALKS 500 MILES TO SEE DYING SISTER

ATTALLA, Ala., Aug. 28.—When Mrs. W. O. Chambers, of this city, learned that her sister was dying in Jacksonville, Fla., she determined to go to her bedside. Lack of funds failed to shake Mrs. Chambers's determination. Realizing that she could not make the trip by rail, Mrs. Chambers packed a few belongings into a small bundle and, accompanied by her two young sons, started the trip afoot.

The distance was nearly six hundred miles, but the plucky woman and her children covered it in ten days. She arrived in Jacksonville several days before the death of her sister.

DEAD BODY IS NOT YET IDENTIFIED

Identification of the body of a man, registered at a local hotel last Thursday under the name of J. Doyle and whose dead body was found in his room the next afternoon at 4 o'clock, bearing deep scars from carbolic acid about his mouth and throat, was little nearer on Sunday than when first found, according to Undertaker O. W. Hines, who has charge of the body.

The latest development in the effort to identify the man, who is believed to have registered under an assumed name and attempted to obliterate all marks of identity, was reported to be the finding of the initial J. Mc. in his coat. The initial, according to Mr. Hines was sewn in the coat by the maker of the clothes.

Mr. Hines said that he would attempt to get in communication with the makers of his shoes and hat and suit of clothes in an effort to trace the man's identity.

Officers expressed the opinion that the deceased had been a man who had held considerable trust, prior to his coming here. They also expressed a belief that the man was attempting to accomplish his death and burial without the fact ever becoming known to his friends, relatives or associates in business.

Mr. Hines expects to have photographs of the deceased to be sent authorities of the North and East as a further effort to identify the man.

BLAMES BOOZE FOR HAVING FOUR WIVES

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 28.—Paul Gross, of this city, confessed to police that he has four living wives and married one after the other without the formality of divorce proceedings.

Gross said he was twice confined to an insane asylum at Logansport, Ind.

"Were you insane when you married so many women without getting divorces?" he was asked.

"One would think so," he replied, "but I wasn't. I was drunk every time I married, except the last.

"I love my present wife dearly and hope she sticks by me."

Which the lastest Mrs. Gross says she will.

CURIOUS GAZER FINDS MUMMY IS HIS DADDY

PONCA CITY, Okla., Aug. 28.—The petrified body of "Wood Jim, the outlaw," was being exhibited by a carnival company here. Frank Thompson entered to view the odd freak. He gazed upon the face of the dead father, who disappeared more than twenty years ago.

The body was purchased from a Muskogee undertaker, the carnival manager explained, after being held for identification for eighteen years.

BELIEVE BOYS LOOTED LOCAL GROCER STORE

Forcing their entrance by prying the lock off the front door with a jimmy, burglars, believed to have been small boys, Saturday night looted the Live Oak Grocery store, obtaining seven cartons of cigarettes and eight cans of peaches.

The theft of a Ford roadster also was reported to the police Sunday by A. H. Beazley, 712 Ninth street. The car was stolen from in front of Mr. Beazley's residence, according to the report.

DRUG ADDICTS TRIPLE NUMBER IN 3 YEARS

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—There are three times as many drug addicts in New York City since prohibition went into effect, according to Bird S. Coler, commissioner of the department of puble welfare.

In 1918 department of public welfare hospitals treated only 116 cases. This number leaped to 339 in 1919 and 493 in 1920. These figures, it was pointed out, represented but a small proportion of the total number treated for the drug habit in this city.
