

County volunteers prepare for their part in MDA telethon

Volunteers in Aransas County are getting ready for a one-day effort to raise $3,000 for "Jerry's Kids" in conjunction with the Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon to aid the Muscular Dystrophy Association this weekend.

Nationally, the telethon will begin Sunday, Sept. 5, and continue through Monday, Sept. 6.

It will be televised over Channel 6 out of Corpus Christi.

The local effort, sponsored by the Business & Professional Women's organization, will be from 8 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday. The Aransas County Pledge Center will be in the Rockport fire station and two telephones will be set up. Persons who want to make pledges to the MDA can call 729-0237.

Last year, the Aransas County Pledge Center raised $2,735 for the muscular dystrophy telethon. This year, says Rockport Telethon Coordinator Ruth Gordon, "we want to do at least 10 percent better. We want to meet a minimum goal of at least $3,000."

Volunteers who will assist at the pledge center as of Wednesday were Sarah and A.B. Bates, Pam Brock, "Uncle John" and Dorothy Leslie, Helen Andrews and Ellie Specht.

The local Boy Scout troop under leadership of Dr. Curtis Kovacs will be in charge of the fishbowl at Super D, Gordon said.

Area youngsters who would like to collect funds door-to-door for the MDA effort may come by the pledge center Monday morning to pick up their collection materials, Gordon added.

Susan Kovacs will be in charge of providing food for the volunteers.

This will be the third year that the local MDA pledge center telethon has been sponsored by the BP&W.

Land sale stirs discord

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

Sale of a 4.22-acre tract on Rockport's Austin Street has created bitter feelings between tenants now leasing the land and the Southern Pacific Railroad Company that sold it.

Tenants say they were not notified of the sale and that it violated a long-held though unwritten understanding that they would be given first-refusal rights if the land ever should be offered for sale.

A railroad official maintains Southern Pacific Railroad was entirely within its legal right to sell the land to Gordon Stanley of Rockport and that none of the tenants leasing on the property wanted to buy the tract in its entirety — which is how the railroad wanted to and did sell it.

Five tenants lease property on the land which extends to the water and includes, according to one lessor, about 500 feet of waterfront. The five are Gene Carter (Gene's Lounge), J. R. Kline (Kline's Cafe), the Rockport Shrimp Co-op, Woody Jackson and Norvell Jackson (Jackson Sea Food Co.).

Shrimp Co-op President Alton Kinsel Jr. says the sale was in violation of a verbal agreement between the Co-op and the railroad — made when the Co-op leased its site 13 years ago — that the Co-op would have first refusal rights.

Of concern to the Co-op members is whether they might lose their lease or face non-renewal of the lease when it expires next March.

Kinsel said he had talked to Stanley earlier, soon after learning about the land sale, "and he said he still wanted to lease to the Co-op." But, he added, Stanley was "supposed to get back to us" on a final decision. As of Wednesday, Kinsel said he had not heard from Stanley again and the question of what will happen to the Co-op's lease is still unresolved.

Kline, contacted Wednesday evening, said, "I haven't heard a word from Mr. Stanley." He added his lease was renewed in July for a year — but at this point, he doesn't know what will happen. "I'm just sittin' and waitin'."

Kline said he has been leasing the land for his cafe for 12 years. "I told the man I got my lease from that if they (the railroad) ever sold this land, I'd like to buy it." Kline had nothing in writing and added the man he talked to "is retired now."

As for the sale of the land, Kline said, "They never did tell us a thing. The first thing I knew, it was sold."

The Carters, operators of Gene's Lounge, were also taken by surprise by the land sale. "We were not aware the land was for sale or that it had been sold," Betty (Mrs. Gene) Carter said Wednesday. "We heard about it through gossip."

She said she and her husband have talked to Stanley since the sale "and he told us he would continue our lease."

Mrs. Carter said she and her husband did not have a written option to buy "but we assumed we'd have the opportunity."

Stanley, whose purchase of the land was finalized Aug. 10, said he has no plans at present for use of the 4.22 acres. He said he bought it "for investment — that's my business."

Kinsel said after he found out about the land sale, he tried to contact J. M. Speer Sr., senior land agent for the railroad. "Mr. Speer wouldn't even talk to us about it," he said.

Speer, contacted in Houston, said, "That is an inaccuracy." He said he did talk to Kinsel, questioning him "on three legal points — we had a legal right to sell that land."

He said he told Kinsel "I wanted to sell the whole property not a part of it."

He said Kline also called him "and I have heard that Gene Carter would pay $150,000 for the tract his place is on."

"There is a lot more to it (the sale) that I am not going to say," he said. "They're doing an awful lot of talking without full information. We have our reasons for making the sale we did."

Both Stanley and Speer declined to say how much the property had been purchased for and Speer said, "What we sold that property for is our business." He said he has heard a price mentioned in gossip about the land transaction, "but they are operating on rumor."

Kinsel said members of the Shrimp Co-op "have talked to different lawyers and they said in Houston, rental property is sold two and three times and the tenants never know about it. But we don't live in Houston and we figure it's different circumstances."

Auto coverage goes up

The State Board of Insurance approved a new rate structure Tuesday, Aug. 31, by a vote of 3-0, which clears the way for statewide auto insurance increases. The new rate structure will mean a little more than a 10 percent increase for Aransas County, which is considerably less than the 14.8 percent average statewide increase.

The new rates become effective Nov. 1 and are significantly less than the 33.2 percent increase requested by the insurance industry. The board originally considered a 17.3 percent increase but that was cut to a statewide average of 14.8 percent after the board received a report of the insurance industry's 1981 investment income.

According to Rockport area insurance agents, it is too early to tell how the new rate structure will translate into actual dollar amounts paid by policyholders. According to Jack McDavid of Glass, Sorenson & McDavid, the state board will eventually send a breakdown of the calculations of the actual rates in each county to insurance companies. "When the actual rates come out," says McDavid, the board "will not release them to the agents more than 30 days ahead of the time they go into effect." This is to prevent early termination of existing policies in order to take advantage of a new policy at old rates, he said.

Both McDavid and Mary Griffin of Whitney Vaky cited inflation and the high cost of automobile repairs as the main reason for the increase. "It's tough on everyone when things go up," says Griffin, "whether it be construction, telephone, or the cost of auto insurance."

Rain? Weekend weather

The forecast through Monday holds out the possibility of widely scattered daytime thundershowers. High temperatures are expected to range in the mid to high 90s, lows mostly in the 70s.

Of Matagorda rocket

All systems are 'go' for launch

Plans were proceeding on schedule this week for a Sept. 8 launch of Space Service Inc. of America's (SSI) first solid-fuel booster rocket from Matagorda Island.

"We got our FAA license approved about half an hour ago," SSI official Charles M. Chafer reported Wednesday afternoon. "And we expect approval from the Department of State in the next couple of days — before the weekend."

Starting this past Thursday, SSI was scheduling firing of test rockets from the island to calibrate radar. Chafer said tests are scheduled at least one per day — "on some days two rockets" to the launch date. The solid-fuel booster and its mock payload were to be "completely erected" by this weekend, he added.

Launch time is 10 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 8, The Rockport Pilot will be open Labor Day.

with a five-hour count starting at 5 a.m. More than 300 people — representatives of the news media and invited guests of SSI — will be taken from the docks in Lamar to Matagorda to witness the event.

Plans call for the Conestoga I to launch vehicle to be propelled on a 10.5-minute suborbital flight on a southeasterly path, reaching an altitude of 167 nautical miles. The 1,097-pound payload is to separate and spin-up just before apogee, continue 279 nautical miles down range and land in international waters in the Gulf of Mexico.

The launch vehicle and payload will not fly over any permanent human habitation or the sovereign territory of any nation except the United States and SSI will not attempt to recover booster or payload.

Although on a suborbital flight, the Conestoga I trajectory will exceed the minimum boundary of outer space, according to company officials. If the upcoming test flight was an operational launch, a full-up Conestoga in this configuration and with a 46,500-pound-thrust booster would normally put a payload of up to 600 pounds into low-earth orbit.

The booster that will be used in Wednesday's launch has been used as a Minuteman second stage and was obtained from NASA at a cost of $340,000.

Former astronaut Donald K. (Deke) Slayton, vice chairman of the SSI board of directors, is mission director for the upcoming launch.

Slayton said the objectives of this mission include a demonstration of SSI's ability to organize, fund and develop privately-owned launch vehicles, launch sites and related facilities and creation and use of cooperation between the private sector and relevant federal agencies — the FAA, FCC, state Department and NASA.

He added the engineering tests conducted during the suborbital flight will qualify Matagorda Island as a potential long-term launch site.

Conestoga I is the first in a family of commercial solid-fuel space launch vehicles SSI plans to develop with private venture capital. No federal funds are involved directly in this flight, officials have said. Costs, expected to reach some $2.5 million, will be borne by a group of private investors and their limited partners.

Wednesday's test flight will be SSI's second [See Launch, page 16]

Weekend is 'looking good'

It's going to be a busy Labor Day weekend for area motel owners, according to reports from some of the owners themselves, the Rockport Area Chamber of Commerce and the Rockport-Fulton Tourist Association.

"Things are shaping up fine (for the weekend)," one Rockport motel owner reported Wednesday. "It's looking good."

Said another in Fulton, "We're full. Everybody's full."

Surveys by the Chamber of Commerce and RFTA Secretary Liz Phillips showed that by midweek most of the area motels were full and additional reservations were expected through Friday.

Most businesses and stores in the area will be open Labor Day, Monday, to accommodate the visitors to the community. Both the RFTA office and Chamber will be closed Monday but the Chamber office, located in Rockport, will be open from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 4.

Aransas County schoolchildren will get their first holiday of the 1982-83 year as schools close Monday.

Banks and savings and loan institutions will observe the one-day holiday as will all offices (except the sheriff's office) in the county courthouse.

City halls in Rockport and Fulton will close for the day. In Rockport, Monday garbage pickups will be suspended until Tuesday, Sept. 7.

City, county and state law enforcement officials will be on duty through the holiday period.

Talk about an irony

Talk about irony. While more than 10 million Americans were out of work, as of June 30, nearly 200,000 full-time jobs were available through state employment banks across the nation, the Labor Department has reported.

The major portion of these jobs, about 43 percent, involved clerical and sales or service work.

Labor Department spokesmen said jobs generally available through most employment banks were automobile mechanics, restaurant cooks, insurance sales agents, secretaries, waiters and waitresses.

June data showed 198,000 openings at job banks, an average of 1,215 each. The total included 91 more jobs than in May, only the second increase since September 1981.

Although the number of available jobs has declined sharply in the Houston area during the past several months, classified advertising sections in Houston metropolitan newspapers continue to list job openings in several categories, but many require qualifications not generally possessed by rank-and-file workers now without jobs.

The Labor Department also announced that:

1. Rockford, Ill., and Modesto, Calif., had the highest metropolitan area unemployment rates in June, 19.1 percent and 19 percent respectively, and Stamford, Conn., the lowest, 3.4 percent.

2. Twenty major cities and areas will receive $7.5 million to help local governments find additional jobs and training assistance for disadvantaged youth under the expiring Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

3. The $98.3 billion tax increase bill just passed by Congress contains funds to help states supplement unemployment compensation payment extensions.

In its monthly report on job banks, the Labor Department's Employment and Training Administration said there were 47,800 openings for clerical and sales workers and 38,000 for service workers among the 198,000 total.

It said openings increased about one percent overall from May, with most occupations showing only slight increases or decreases. An exception was openings for janitors and construction and maintenance painters, which increased by more than 30 percent.

Miami was the only major area that showed a gain of 30 percent or more in job openings between May and June. Despite the May-to-June overall gain, the report said the same job banks a year ago had 29 percent more jobs available. It added that the most severe drop in openings since June 1981 was in amusement and recreational services and non-electrical machinery manufacturing.

Freedom Act needs change

If it is true, as CIA Director William J. Casey claims, the Freedom of Information Act gives foreign intelligence agents "legal license to poke into our (CIA) files," no more time should be lost in repealing the law.

Because of his position in the government, credence must be given Casey's statements and they should serve notice on Congress that action is needed.

The U.S. has a hard enough time concealing its secrets without inviting foreign government representatives to inspect files of intelligence agencies.

Casey has warned the nation's security is suffering and its intelligence network losing effectiveness because security agencies are forced to comply with the Freedom of Information Act.

We would be among the last to condemn the purpose of the Freedom of Information Act, which is to provide citizens more information about government activities. Before passage of the act, it was easier for bureaucrats to keep the public in the dark.

Casey's criticism of the act came in a speech before the American Legion's national convention in Chicago. He said he questions "very seriously whether a secret intelligence agency and the Freedom of Information Act can co-exist very long."

The willingness of foreign intelligence services to share information and rely on the U.S. fully and of individuals to risk their lives and reputations to help us will continue to dwindle "unless we get rid of the Freedom of Information Act," Casey warned.

Casey's disclosure that the FOI has enabled the Soviet Union to steal or buy information that has helped it improve the accuracy and power of weapons was the focal point of his attack on the law.

He defended secrecy as an accepted way of American life in the medical and legal professions and in business and should be applied to the "intelligence community" as well.

Citing the dangers of perpetuating a public information policy detrimental to U.S. security, Casey pointed out that Soviet influence has doubled in the past 10 years. In 1972, he said, 25 nations were under Soviet influence and the number is now 50.

The U.S. should move quickly to determine the validity of Casey's allegations and be guided by the results.

Editorial & Opinion

Many years ago before television

Austin at Wharf

CHANNEL 16 HAS OFFERED some very fine productions of late, but they have been presented in huge gulps. For example "The Commanders," accounts the experiences and personalities of three World War II leaders, Sir Arthur Harris of England, Isoroku Yamamoto of Japan and Russia's Georgi Zhukov.

Characters of the three were interesting and revealing, but I'll say no more because my objective is to point out that an hour devoted to each of the men in the same evening is a bit much. For that reason I deliberately skipped "Search for the Nile." That went on for three hours for two successive nights. Both presentations were feature offered to support the current Public Broadcast Service membership drive.

With the reduction of government funding, PBS has to drive harder than ever and those drives are always tedious to say the least. Naturally I regret the loss of government support, but at the same time acknowledge that it is reasonable. After all — by Channel 16's own account — there are only a few more than 5,600 subscribers in its viewing area in which there are more than a half a million people (meaning that there are some people who free-load); but more I suspect who don't care for the station's programming. This naturally reflects adversely upon the cultural level of South Texans. However, according to my scouts the circumstance prevails throughout the land.

ALL THIS I REPORT with sadness and with a large measure of anger. I am no authority on the regular networks which I gave up long ago, except for the evening news and that is nothing to write home about. On the national level, it is generally slanted and of course interrupted with inane commercials.

Local news, here and elsewhere, is more play acting and the acting is not very good — although not so bad as the hammy performances of car, clothing and appliance dealers who produce their own commercials. Can those things possible pay or are the advertisers simply on a personal vanity trip? Can a single one of them honestly believe that his ghastly performance is appealing?

RATHER NEEDLESS TO say, my real anger is directed toward the three commercial networks — people who in the beginning had an opportunity to make this a better country by elevating public taste in music, drama, the sciences or, in truth, every facet of life.

They have failed — failed miserably. The average dramatic (what an affront to the word) presentation is so badly acted, the plot so empty and trivial, that is is comprehensible to the six-year-old as well as the grown adult.

MANY, MANY YEARS ago, before television there was a radio program each week, presented by Ford Motor Company called the Ford Concert Hour. At the beginning the announcer simply stated "You are listening to the Ford Concert Hour, presented by the Ford Motor Company" with similar words at the end. Although at the half hour there were a few words about Ford, I was then and have since been grateful to Ford.

Nowadays PBS does much the same thing. "Masterpiece Theater" is sponsored by Mobil Oil and one briefly glimpses the company logo. I can put up with that and I am grateful to Mobil and other PBS sponsors. Why, one must ask, do these same people also offer silly commercials on the regular networks? Ah, but when has man been predictable?

I HAVE NOTED, WITH no small degree of satisfaction, that a 21-year-old Californian has been tossed into jail for failing to register for the draft. He faces a five-year jail term and a $10,000 fine. I hope he gets both. A more lenient Virginia judge gave another young man three years probation and ordered him to register.

The first pretense of this nation, or any other to be worthy of calling itself civilized, is recognition and acceptance of laws. Otherwise, only anarchy and chaos can prevail. None of this is to say that there are not bad laws. They can, and in time, are changed — but not be blatant defiance. It so happens that in my opinion, the registration law is a good one. Unfortunately perhaps, but the fact remains that this country has always had to be prepared to defend itself, and the circumstance is as true today as it has been in the past. A person unwilling to defend his country has no right to enjoy the privileges of living in the country. This means the right to hold a job, eat, sleep, own a home, whatever.

Twenty-year-olds are, of course, not really dry behind their ears; they are often filled with false concepts which they regard as idealism. Even so, if their idealism leads them to defy the law, they must expect to pay the penalty. Willingness to do this makes them heroes — in the eyes of fools.

The floor is no place for anyone to file valuable papers

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grasshopper farm challenges a psychologist this week.

Dear editor: According to a prominent psychologist, a cluttered desk is a symptom of a cluttered mind.

I know lots of people who have a cluttered mind and they don't even have a desk. When I read what that psychologist said I took a look at my desk in the office out here which used to be a smokehouse. Whether your mind is cluttered or uncluttered, you can figure out that a freezer now beats a smokehouse for preserving meat, although unsuitable for an office.

I have had an occasional visitor who has commented on the state of my desk, but not many because of my office, only 8x12 feet, has no guest chair. A chair encourages visitors to stay longer than they have anything to say.

The occasional visitor though has asked me how I can find anything on that desk. It's simple. I merely reach for it. The system works smoothly unless I need a clipping or some notes more than a decade old. Those take a little longer to find.

The idea that a clean desk is symbolic of a clear-headed, clear-thinking mind runs into trouble when you wonder about the clean desks of the embarrassed and almost broke car manufacturers who, a few years back, couldn't see that smaller cars were becoming more popular than gas-guzzlers. A lot of them with clean desks have car lots cluttered with thousands of unsold cars.

And some of the cleanest desks in Washington are manned by some of the world's worst bungling bureaucrats.

Nonetheless I intend to clean my desk off, and will the minute things on it begin to topple. The floor is no place to file valuable papers.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

Deal with crime or be inundated by it

Although more than 1,000 men and 13 women are under sentence of execution on the nation's death rows, including 163 men and two women in Texas, few face imminent execution because most appeals take several years to go through the courts.

Only one man, John Spenkenlink in Florida, in recent years has been executed against his will. A few days ago in Virginia, convicted murderer Frank Coppola was executed. He had appealed in a handwritten plea to the Supreme Court to be allowed to die.

Coppola became the fifth man to be executed in the U.S. since the Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of capital punishment in 1976.

Death penalty laws are on the books in 35 states, with the most recent addition being New Jersey, where Gov. Tom Keene signed a bill into law. In several other states, capital punishment remains a stormy issue.

Massachusetts voters in November will consider a constitutional amendment that could open the way for death penalty legislation.

In Oregon, death penalty proponents failed earlier this year to get enough signatures to place a similar measure before voters in November.

New York has a statute applying only to people under life sentence who kill prison guards, but it is generally conceived new laws would have to be passed before the death penalty could be invoked in that state. Outgoing Gov. Hugh L. Carey has repeatedly vetoed such attempts.

Besides those three states, the District of Columbia, Iowa, West Virginia, Alaska, Maine, Kansas, Rhode Island, Michigan, Vermont, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota and Hawaii have no death penalty.

The nation's death row population has grown rapidly since January, 1977, when Gary Gilmore became the first person in nearly 10 years to be executed.

Nearly 300 more than the number who waited 17 months ago have been added to death row lists over the nation.

As they do when an execution is imminent, crowds assembled in Virginia to express vocal opposition to the death penalty. About 100 chanting people gathered outside the state penitentiary where Coppola was scheduled to be executed. They carried candles and placards reading "Thou Shalt Not Kill."

It is argued by those who oppose capital punishment that it is not an effective deterrent to crime. There is, of course, no convincing proof that it is or is not.

If not capital punishment, we in America are faced with a choice of being inundated by crime or devising other effective means of dealing with it.

Violators must be punished

The government has set the stage for stepped-up prosecution of young men who fail to register for the military draft.

A 21-year-old philosophy student was convicted by a jury in San Diego, Calif., for failing to register and was immediately ordered to jail by a federal judge who said he had reason to believe the defendant might flee to Canada.

Benjamin Sasway, who dared the government to prosecute him, had said he wanted a test case. He admitted on the witness stand he knew the law required him to register with Selective Service.

Sentencing has been set for Oct. 4. Sasway could receive a maximum punishment of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. There has been no word yet from his lawyers on whether they plan to appeal after sentence is pronounced.

The federal jury of eight women and four men deliberated less than an hour before convicting Sasway. He is the first person indicted and becomes the second one convicted of failing to sign up since mandatory registration was reimposed two years ago.

For several months after registration was reinstated, the government followed a policy of leniency but warned young men who had failed to sign up they would eventually be prosecuted unless they complied with the law.

Now, the government says the "honeymoon is over"

and prosecutions will be stepped up.

A Virginia college student, Enten Eiler, was convicted in a case similar to Sasway's and received three years probation by a judge who ordered Eiler to register for the draft or face prison. Sasway said before his trial if he received a similar order from the court, he would disobey it.

He may have an opportunity to carry out his threat if his sentence does not include imprisonment. The judge in Sasway's trial would not allow him to remain free on the $10,000 bond he had posted before the trial, saying it was the judge's normal practice to remand defendants to jail immediately after conviction.

Sasway and others who may eventually be prosecuted for failure to obey the registration law may not understand the full impact of their defiance. It is no laughing matter to be convicted of a federal offense, even a misdemeanor.

The fact there were eight women on the jury that convicted Sasway may indicate women who may serve on future juries in similar cases may not be as sympathetic toward young men in trouble with the military draft law as many Americans previously suspected they might be.

Sasway's and Eiler's disregard for the law was deliberate. Their convictions should serve notice on young men throughout the nation they cannot pick and choose federal laws they will obey.

Poles again defy masters

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again."

Substitute the word freedom for truth and you describe the situation in Poland where citizens have again begun defying their communist masters by staging forbidden demonstrations.

Poland was brought to its knees several months ago when the communist regime crushed a revolt spearheaded by the Solidarity labor union that had, despite an unfavorable climate, become a strong national force — and a dangerous one to the communist government.

Now the gnawing desire to be free, or at least partially free, is again driving Poles to organize demonstrations to disrupt governmental functions.

Hundreds of shipyard workers staged a brief protest, as the new round of demonstrations began, the third leading to a major gathering to commemorate the outlawed Solidarity union's second anniversary.

The Solidarity underground ordered the demonstrations, which attracted large crowds of citizens and workers and included a strike at a shipyard in northwestern Poland.

Several hundred were involved in the shipyard protest. It didn't last long and there were no incidents, according to news dispatches from Warsaw.

The official Polish news agency PAP said organizers and demonstrators will be penalized, but didn't say what the punishment would be.

Letters to-the-editor

On Oct. 27, 1981, my husband fell and fractured his hip. Our Aransas County Medical Services Inc. paramedics transported him to our doctor's office. When it was determined that he needed hospitalization, our paramedics were all on emergency call. Tri-County EMSI was called and did transport him to Spohn Hospital. The paramedics told me the charges were $145 and we would be billed.

By Nov. 14 we had heard nothing, so I mailed a check in the amount of $145 to Tri-County EMSI. This check stamped "Deposit only, Tri-County EMSI" — was paid at our bank on Nov. 24, 1981.

On Aug. 17, 1982, a few minutes before we left home

Demonstrations were preceded by a stepped-up poster and leaflet campaign lasting two weeks. On the first of two nights of protests, police dispersed crowds of people praying and singing hymns and pro-Solidarity songs around a 40-foot floral cross in Warsaw's central Victory Square.

The Polish military government apparently couldn't abide the public impact the floral cross was having, so a wall was built around the square with the excuse the square's cobblestones needed leveling.

Floral crosses have been placed in Victory Square each day during the summer to honor the memory of the late Cardinal Stefan Wyszynski. Police removed the flowers during the night, and a few days ago authorities tried to end this symbolic protest by using riot police and water cannons. When that failed to get results, the wall was built.

While government workers were building the wall, other floral crosses appeared, one in Castle Square and another at a nearby church.

There were also reports of a bomb explosion that rocked the local administration building in a town south of Krakow. The building houses a post office, local communist party offices and local offices of the United Peasants Party.

The world is watching to see how far enslaved Poles will go to regain a measure of freedom, and cringes as it contemplates what Poland's military rulers might do.

Rockport Pirates worry Panthers with Walls

Dewey Smith, head football coach for the Aransas Pass Panthers says about the only way he thinks his team has a chance of beating the Rockport-Fulton Pirates in the season's opening game is to keep the Pirates from getting the football.

Smith says he doesn't expect to win the game but he hopes his young team can hold the Pirates to a minimum of scoring.

He thinks the game will be a tough contest and feels his teams biggest problem will be containing Pirates running back Dwayne Walls.

The 5-foot-9, 195-pound Walls has rushed for 1,956 yards, gained 100 yards a game nine times and posted 20 touchdowns for the Pirates and made all-district two times.

Smith says the size of the Pirates is a worry to him and the Panthers. He says he will be relying on the Panther defense to keep the ball away from the Pirates. "They can't score if they can't get the ball," said Smith.

Smith says his team is small but they are very fast with a good defense and he says he hopes the Panthers can keep Walls out of the secondary.

Pirates head coach Brian Connolly says he believes Walls will be a marked man this year.

Deer permits up for grabs

AUSTIN — Approximately 2,700 permits to hunt deer on nine state wildlife management areas will be up for grabs when the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department holds a drawing Sept. 30 to determine the lucky winners.

About 40 of the permits will be issued for mule deer on the Sierra Diablo WMA, 32 miles northwest of Van Horn in Culberson County.

The remainder of the permits will be for white-tailed deer on eight areas. Areas to be hunted are Chaparral, in Dimmit and La Salle Counties; James E. Daughtrey (formerly Choke Canyon) near Three Rivers in Live Oak and McMullen Counties; Engeling, near Palestine in Anderson County; Kerr, near Hunt in Kerr County; Pat Mayse near Paris in Lamar County; Gene Howe, near Canadian in Hemphill County; Somerville Unit, near Caldwell in Lee and Burleson Counties; and Walter Buck, near Junction in Kimble County.

To participate in the drawing, hunters must submit application cards which are now available by writing the Parks and Wildlife Department at 4200 Smith School Road, Austin 78744 or by calling the toll-free information number, 1-800-792-1112. Applications are also available at many department offices around the state.

Costs for those successful in the drawing will be $20 for a two-day whitetail hunt and $40 for the mule deer hunts.

All applications must be submitted to Department headquarters in Austin by 5 p.m. Sept. 27. The drawing will be held at 10 a.m. Sept. 30.

Antlerless permits needed

AUSTIN — Antlerless deer hunting permits for the special archery season will be issued on Sept. 10 in eight counties where the permits are required by special local law, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The department stresses that these permits are only for the Oct. 1-31 archery season in these counties. In many other counties antlerless deer may be hunted during the archery only season without a permit.

Ducks Unlimited annual banquet set for Sept. 25

The Rockport - Fulton Ducks Unlimited chapter's fifth annual banquet is in the final stages of planning. This year's banquet will be held Saturday, Sept. 25, beginning at 5:30 p.m. with a buffet-style dinner and attitude adjustment hour.

Those people who attended last year's banquet should have already received their "Early Bird Letter" with the opportunity to purchase tickets early. All "Early Bird" ticket sales must be made by Tuesday, Sept. 7, after which the remaining tickets will go on sale. Persons wanting to purchase banquet tickets should contact Jim Friebele at 729-5676 or Ronnie Baker at 729-7012 or any other DU member.

A few Rockport-Fulton Ducks Unlimited belt buckles designed by Robert R. Logan are still available. Each of the heavy brass buckles, of which 250 were cast, is signed and numbered. These buckles are already collectors' items and they make wonderful gifts. They will be available at the banquet or from any DU member.

The Little Bay area in Rockport was officially designated the "Connie Hagar Wildlife Sanctuary" by act of the Texas Legislature in 1967.

Area businesses are again donating generously for the banquet auction and raffles, including many prints and paintings. Persons wishing

State Tiger Shark record broken

AUSTIN — The state record for tiger shark was broken three times within a 16-hour period by anglers fishing from the same boat off Galveston May 22-23.

Another oddity of the catch was that one of the fishermen — Bob Derrick of Alta Loma — already held the current tiger shark record.

His catch of a 837 pounder in 1980 was the record until 6 p.m. May 22, when he hauled in an 845-pounder. Then at 1 a.m. the next morning, boat mate Charles Bailey of Hitchcock connected with one weighing 854 pounds.

Not to be outdone, N. W. (Nick) Stepchinski, also of Hitchcock, caught a tiger shark that weighed 867 pounds at 10 a.m.

All three sharks were taken within a few hundred yards of each other, some 30 miles southeast of Galveston.

Stepchinski's record fish was 139 inches long and 70 inches in girth.

Dimension

For older adults

Safety begins in the home

COLLEGE STATION — Help make a home safety check for the older adult in your life whether it be a parent, other relative or friend, suggests Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing and home furnishings specialist.

Aging persons often live in older, spacious homes that may require extra precautions or changes for safety, she says.

Owens is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System. Here are safety features she advises considering:

A one-floor living area cuts down the possibility of stairway accidents.

If there are stairs, secure and sturdy hand rails are a necessity.

Pay special attention to the area between bed and bath — where most falls occur.

Bathroom safety features include grab bars and a non-skid surface in the tub or shower. A seat in the shower stall would aid older persons with disabilities. Also, a bathroom door which opens outward is important in case of an accident — that gives emergency medical teams better access to the older adult.

To make the home secure, be sure doors are fitted with dead-bolt locks and peep holes for the older adult.

For security at night, a bedside light control and telephone are helpful.

To reduce the risk of burns, front controls on cooking appliances are helpful because they don't require the older adult to reach across burners or heating elements.

Storage safety starts with easy-to-reach shelves and compartments so the older adult doesn't have to climb on step stools.

Exposed hot-water pipes inside older homes should be insulated to prevent burns, too.

For home-furnishings safety, avoid throw rugs with frayed edges to prevent trips and falls. Be sure furniture is sturdy enough to lean on without sliding — and light enough for easy moving or cleaning.

Home upkeep is a factor in safety, too. Elderly persons need a living environment that requires minimal upkeep, is convenient and promotes a feeling of independence.

Bon Appetit

by Ann Thomas

Since the Pilot goes to fifty states and many of our readers are harvesting late summer gardens, this week we'll have some recipes from one of my favorite cookbooks, "Putting Food By."

PICKLED CARROT STICKS
1 pound carrots, peeled
3/4 c. vinegar
3/4 c. water
1/2 c. sugar
1 t. mixed whole pickling spices

Slice carrots in thin sticks. Cover with boiling water (salted) and cook 10 minutes. Drain. Combine remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer three minutes. Pack carrot sticks in hot sterilized jars and cover with the hot spiced liquid, allowing headroom, then process in a boiling water bath for five minutes to insure the seal. Makes two pints.

WATERMELON PICKLES
8 c. prepared watermelon rind

1/2 c. pickling salt
4 c. cold water
4 t. whole cloves
4 c. sugar
2 c. white vinegar
2 c. water

Choose thick rind. Trim from it all dark skin and remains of flesh; cut in one-inch cubes. Dissolve salt in cold water, pour it over rind cubes to cover; let it stand five to six hours.

Drain, rinse well. Cover with fresh water and cook until barely tender — no more than 10 minutes; drain.

Combine sugar, vinegar and water, add cloves tied in cloth bag and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer for five minutes. Pour over rind cubes, let stand overnight. Bring all to a boil and cook until rind is translucent but not at all mushy — about 10 minutes. Remove spice bag, pack cubes in hot sterilized jars (pints); add boiling syrup, leaving a half-inch of headroom; adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath for five minutes to ensure seal. Remove jars and complete seals if necessary. Makes about four pints.

RHUBARB-ORANGE JELLY

4 c. chopped uncooked rhubarb, not peeled
2 1/3 c. water
1 6 oz. can frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed
1 - 1 3/4 oz. package powdered fruit pectin
4 c. sugar

Combine rhubarb and two cups water and cook over moderate heat 15 minutes. Strain in a sieve, rubbing pulp through. Measure out two cups and add orange concentrate. Add remaining one-third cup water. Set over high heat and bring to a full, rolling boil, stirring constantly. Stir in pectin, continue boiling and stirring for one minute. Remove from heat and skim. Seal in hot sterilized glasses. Yields two and one-half pints.

Any of you wishing specific recipes for canning, freezing or drying send your request with a SASE to Ann Thomas, 123 Ocean Dr., Rockport, Tx. 78382. By the same token, feel free to share your favorite recipes with our readers in fifty states. Bon appetit!

Healthful hints

Protein shampoo helpful

By Jean Glowka

Q. I know that a lot of shampoos contain protein. Are they really good for the hair just because they have protein in them?

A. Beauty experts in the nutritional field say that shampoos containing protein are very good for the hair. They caution us, however, about a couple of things. First of all, you MUST give protein shampoos time to work. If your hair is severely damaged, it may take as long as six months or more to see permanent improvement. For those who stick with it, however, (and try also a good protein conditioner) the "jewel-shining" effect will be well worth the wait.

When buying protein shampoos and conditioners, be a "label reader"! There are many shampoos on the market containing protein —

BUT not just ANY protein will be absorbed into the hair. Look for the word "hydrolyzed" on the label. Hydrolyzation is a process which breaks down the protein molecules into a smaller size and weight so that the amino acids (the building blocks of proteins) WILL be absorbed into each individual's hair shaft.

And, remember, putting good quality protein (brewer's yeast, liver, egg, soy, milk, wheat germ, etc.) IN the body is as important as putting protein ON the hair, skin, etc.

Q. What are some herbs which are specifically good for bladder infections? I KNOW there are millions of herbs. I just want the names of a few to try.

A. Okay. Here's what I found. Herbs which have been found to be beneficial for bladder infections are rose hips, golden rod, burdock root, juniper berries, shavagrass tea, parsley-mint, catnip, buchu leaves, clivers and uva ursi.

Please send questions to: Rt. 1, Box 437, Rockport, Tx. 78382.

Texas Extension Homemakers to meet in El Paso Sept. 14-16

EL PASO — More than 900 members of the Texas Extension Homemakers Association from throughout Texas are expected to assemble in El Paso for the state convention of the association, Sept. 14-16.

"This will be the 56th annual meeting of the homemakers organization, and a blue ribbon program has been prepared," announced Mrs. Billie H. McGraw, president of the 22,680-member group. McGraw is from Raymondville.

Conference sessions will be at the El Paso Civic Center.

Registration will begin at 1 p.m. Sept. 14. Special activities for that afternoon and again the afternoon of Sept. 16 will be bus tours to Mexico, with emphasis on several historic sites and cathedrals, and a visit to a federally-sponsored shopping center in Juarez.

Among key speakers will be the Rev. Donald Anderson of San Antonio, who will discuss "A Total View of a Healthy American Family," and Kathryn Blissard, a Houston television personality, whose subject will be "How Important Are You?"

In addition to Texas homemakers, there will be a delegation of New Mexico homemakers attending, McGraw says.

Other conference highlights will be business sessions, a series of workshops and learning sessions.

"Workshops are planned in the areas of health and safety, cultural arts and international understanding, leadership and membership, family life education and family resources, citizenship and legislative affairs and young homemakers. Two other special workshops also are planned for guests," McGraw says.

An election of officers is slated for Thursday morning, with installation of officers to take place that evening.

The Texas Extension Homemakers Association has members in 1,326 clubs in 250 Texas counties. During the past year, members have reached and taught more than 100,000 Texas homemakers through a wide array of educational activities, McGraw adds.

Small game a big recreational pastime

AUSTIN — Hunters may think of deer, turkey or waterfowl when fall hunting seasons are mentioned, but a recent Texas Parks and Wildlife Department survey indicated that small game species such as rabbits and squirrels are a valuable part of the state's outdoor recreational picture. The survey of about 15,000 hunting license holders showed that an estimated 400,000-plus hunters went afield during 1981 for rabbits and squirrels. Squirrel hunting, which is most popular in the Pineywoods region of East Texas, accounted for more than 900,000 hunter-days, with more than 230,000 hunters harvesting 1.3 million squirrels statewide. The Pineywoods region's estimated harvest alone accounted for more than 680,000 of the total. The survey indicated similar popularity for rabbit hunting, but the harvest was spread over a wider area of the state. An estimated 200,000 hunters spent more than 790,000 days taking 1.1 million rabbits, for a success rate of 87 percent. Department officials believe the popularity of rabbit and squirrel hunting is a result of the wide availability of the two species, relatively low costs and hunter success rates which are high compared to those for hunters of larger game. Success rates ranged from 80 to 90 percent for both rabbit and squirrel in most ecological areas of the state. Hunting regulations are fairly liberal for squirrels, and there are currently no closed seasons or bag limits for rabbits. In East Texas, many counties offer both a fall and spring squirrel season, and a large number of counties in other parts of the state have no closed season or bag limit.

FORT WORTH — Co the election of a president really hang on the tilt of eyebrow? Maybe so. Studies have shown that nonverbal behavior — gestures, post shifts, nodding, direct contact — has definite leadership relationship.

The Shepherd's staff

By Rev. Charles Fake
First Baptist Church,
Rockport

Have you ever attended a concert which brought the audience to its feet with cheers and applause for the orchestra? No doubt the musicians and their instruments, under the inspiration and direction of their conductor, had caused you to experience the gamut of emotions that thrill the soul. The patting foot, the chills up and down the spine, the feeling of an expanding balloon within your chest, the tears — all being called forth by the many different sounds blended in beauty.

But what if the orchestra were all violins? Or trumpets? Or trombones? Or drums? There could be no concert of the type that touched you within and caused you to rise with others in prolonged cheering. It takes many instruments and many musicians to accomplish such moving of the human spirit. Each instrument is different and each musician has his own style. Were it not for the difference, there could be no concert.

Paul pointed this out to the Corinthian church. They were confused about their spiritual gifts. Which one is best? Paul said, "None is best. We need them all." They were confused about leaders. Who is best? Paul? Peter? Apollos? Paul again reminded them, "None is best. We need them all."

What the great apostle said about preachers and spiritual gifts, we must say also about churches. Believe it or not, there is unity within the Christian Faith. We share the basic Truths. There is also diversity of method and emphasis. Which is best? We should be thankful for all. Each is fulfilling God's purpose. The differences in approach and personalities of the local churches and their leaders offer diverse opportunities to Rockport people. The best one is the one which is best for you. We need them all.

Commit your life to Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, and find a church where you can have fellowship with other Christians, learn about Jesus, grow in God's grace, worship the Lord regularly, discover channels of ministry, and find strength to share God's love with others.

The oldest church structure in the area is the Catholic Chapel of Our Lady of the Sea, located near the Schoenstatt Convent in Lamar. Work reportedly began on this structure in 1854.

The first resident pastor of Rockport's First Presbyterian Church was the Rev. T. O. Perrin, in 1908.

Rockport's original Methodist Church was located on the corner of Live Oak and Bay. The deed was recorded in Refugio County (of which Live Oak Peninsula was then part) and was dated Nov. 4, 1870.

If God had believed in permissiveness, He would have given us the Ten Suggestions.

Keeping in touch

That mail-box on the city corner . . . that post office at the country crossroads . . . what would we do without them?

Life is too complex for us to live by ourselves. Man's interests and his welfare reach far beyond the boundaries of his community. Communication with people and corporations hundreds of miles away is a part of modern living that we take for granted. We have to "keep in touch."

But long before life became so complex, men discovered their need for another kind of communication—prayer. The courage and faith and hope which steel men for the challenge of each day come from God. The deep spiritual needs of the soul can be supplied only by keeping in touch with God.

We think our mail-boxes are indispensable! Even so, one church means more to a community than all its postal facilities. For not so long ago men lived very happily without a postal system. But men have never lived happily without God!

From the candidate

To the voter

AUSTIN — Senator Bill Meier, Texas' Attorney General candidate, said his opponent, Jim Mattox, is trying to downplay his lack of respect for Texas laws and is attempting to camouflage his liberal record.

Meier, a 10-year state senator from Tarrant County, said that his opponent is completely out of touch with Texans. He said he intends to detail the "abysmal record of Jim Mattox throughout the state in the next two months."

"This in one of the most important campaigns in Texas this year because of the clear differences between Jim Mattox and Bill Meier. The voters of Texas will never elect an incompetent liberal with a record and pattern of disrespect for the law like Jim Mattox," he said.

"Jim Mattox once said 'it is not Democratic to hide the meaning of our votes from the American public.' And I agree. It is important for voters to know where their legal counsel stands. There is no question about my conservative record in the State Senate. I intend to see to it that the voters of Texas know about the dismal performance of Mattox," he added.

"This week I filed a lawsuit against Mattox seeking an injunction from further use of his illegal and misleading campaign advertisements," Meier said.

"It is not too much to expect a candidate for Attorney General, above all others, to know and follow the law. Jim Mattox violated the Texas Election Code through unlawful use of an office title in his campaign literature mailed to voters during the primary and runoff elections this year," he continued.

Meier said he intends to see to it that Mattox stops this unlawful use of campaign materials in the general election.

As another example of Mattox's "camouflage attempts," Meier said Mattox is trying to cover up his liberal career.

"Throughout his career, Jim Mattox has carried the water for organized labor and the liberal causes. Now that he is running in a statewide race with a large conservative vote, he is proclaiming himself as a 'progressive' or as a 'moderate,'" Meier said.

But Jim Mattox is perhaps "progressively liberal," Meier said.

"As the rest of the nation has moved toward the center, Jim Mattox has moved to the opposite direction. In 1981, Mattox received his highest score since his first year in Congress from the liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA). This group rates congressmen based on their votes in harmony with liberal policies. Mattox received a score of 55 percent from the ADA," he said.

In 1977 and 1978, when organized labor's big issues were being pushed, Mattox earned AFL-CIO ratings of 65 percent and 79 percent, according to Meier.

"On the other side of the coin, his 1981 ratings with the National Federation of Independent Business, the Independent Petroleum Association of America and the National Association of Realtors are easier to remember. All of them rated Mattox with a big fat zero," he emphasized.

"Yet this is the man who claims to be a moderate?"

This is the man who claims he will represent Texans and the Texas way of doing things?" he continued.

"Jim Mattox is not personally or professionally qualified to represent Texas as the attempt to launch a privately-built rocket. On Aug. 5 of last year, the first attempt ended on the launch pad when a malfunction of a fuel valve caused an explosion during ignition test of the liquid-fueled rocket. It was that explosion that prompted SSI to go to the solid-propellant Conestoga.

Dove, quail hunts set

"About the only potential problem now," Chafer said this past Wednesday, "is the weather — and the long-range forecast looks good."

Chafer arrived in Rockport Wednesday and was joined by SSI official Walter A. Pennino following a press conference at the SSI offices in Houston. Chafer said he will remain in Rockport "until at least the day after the launch."

TP & W needs sightings

AUSTIN — Private individuals can provide an important service to the Parks and Wildlife Department by reporting sightings of color-marked pelicans.

Department biologists recently marked about 50 young white pelicans with yellow dye as part of a continuing effort to follow their movements. The young pelicans were marked in the upper Laguna Madre near the only coastal breeding location for this species in North America.

About 12,000 to 14,000 white pelicans winter in Texas and it is unknown whether locally produced pelicans mingle with them or move to other areas. Observations during the first three years of this five-year study indicate that some southward and inland movement occurs, but sightings have been scarce.

If marked pelicans are seen, the date, time, location, number of pelicans and any other interesting information should be recorded.

Permit requests

The following applications for permits have been filed with the Army Corps of Engineers. Comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P.O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553, on or before the deadline shown.
