Surprising Evidence Believed Likely To Result As Trial Moves Into Another Angle Of Prosecution

Third And Fourth Handwriting Experts Heard, As Is Man Who Manufactured Guard For Baby Lindy's Thumb

BY JOHN FERRIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Jan. 12. — Three German relatives and the nurse of Isador Fisch, Bruno Hauptmann's dead alibi man, were hidden as secret state witnesses tonight as the carpenter's murder trial prosecutors announced themselves ready to explode "the Fisch myth."

The mysterious manner of their landing from the liner De de France in New York harbor stole considerable interest from the little old Hunterdon county courtroom where the state of New Jersey seeks to send Hauptmann to the electric chair for the kidnap-killing of the Lindbergh baby.

CASE AT A GLANCE
(By The Associated Press)

1—Three relatives and nurse of Isador Fisch, Hauptmann's alibi man, hidden by prosecutors following secret landing from ocean liner.

2—State announces it is prepared to explode Bruno's story that ransom bills came from Fisch, now dead.

3—Third and fourth handwriting witnesses pin ransom notes to Hauptmann; defense hints Fisch might have been author.

4—Thumbguard maker, "surprise" state witness, says his product doesn't rust, hints defense charge.

Two More Experts

It was Fisch, says Bruno, who went to Germany to die and left with him a shoebox containing more than $14,000 in ransom bills—the bills with which the carpenter was trapped last September.

In the musty, crowded courtroom two more handwriting experts— the third and fourth—testified Hauptmann wrote the 14 lying letters that led to payment of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's $50,000 ransom for a baby already dead.

Surprise Witness

A "surprise" witness for the state, Henry Maish, Cincinnati manufacturer whose firm made the metal thumbguard worn by the kidnaped baby, testified his product would not

Pilot Claims His Handling Was Bad

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 15. (AP)—Major James R. (Jimmy) Doolittle, veteran speed pilot, crossed the continent in a transport plane in a minute less than 12 hours today but blamed himself for not cutting 90 more minutes off the west-to-east record.

"I guess it was just a case of poor piloting," the stubby 38-year-old flier said after he had broken the transcontinental transport mark set two months ago by another veteran, Eddie Rickenbacker. "I got 300 miles off my course in some way and wasted an hour and a half. If it hadn't been for that we'd have reached here that much earlier."

As it was, Doolittle, accompanied by his smiling wife and Robert Adamson, an oil company official, touched the wheels of his low-winged monoplane to the ground at Floyd Bennett field at 8:26 a. m. (EST), 11 hours, 59 minutes after he had taken off at Burbank, Calif. Then he raced here for a landing eight and one-half minutes later.

Sweetwater Votes General Obligation Hospital Bonds

SWEETWATER, Jan. 15. (AP)—Citizens voted 394 to 94 today to issue general obligation bonds of $55,000 to be used in the construction of a municipal hospital. The bonds would be supplemented by an outright grant from the federal government, to bring the total to be expended to $73,000.

Sale of the bonds is assured by the public works administration. They will mature serially over a period of 30 years, with interest at four per cent. Sweetwater is without adequate hospital facilities.

Anti-Nazis Fear Bloody Reprisal

Navajo Too Wise And Keeps Quiet

GALLUP, N. M., Jan. 15. (AP)—A Shrewd old Navajo squaw has made up her mind she doesn't want to go the way of her goats.

Byron Hunter, reservation census supervisor, told today that he found the aged woman stolidly silent to all his questions. He asked why.

She related how a government field man came and counted her goats a year ago, explaining they were to be bought by Uncle Sam and killed.

Recently the old Navajo heard about an "old age program" and she feared the field men were counting the aged members of the tribe, preparatory to "burning them" in a new kind of restriction program.

Saar Police Control Is Established By Winners

(By The Associated Press)

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 15. — Nazis late tonight were still whooping it up over their crushing victory in Sunday's plebiscite while the few thousands who opposed reunion with Germany awaited expected reprisals.

As Adolf Hitler's supporters, exuberant over having polled 477,119 of the 525,756 valid votes cast, seized control of the Saarbruecken police force, Socialists, Communists and others who voted for continuance of the League of Nations pleaded with the league governing commission for protection.

No Violence Reported

Late this evening, however, there had been no violence and the league commission, its authority virtually superceded as the jubilant victors rebelled against foreign control, limited itself to watchful waiting.

The Nazis, romping carefree fashion through the streets of Saarbruecken and displaying the German and swastika flags everywhere, set out as soon as the outcome was officially announced to round up 120 asserted anti-Nazi members of the capital's police forces. Thirty, including some refugees from Nazi Germany, were reported under arrest shortly after mid-day.

Meanwhile Socialists streamed into the socialist center building here from all over the territory, among them many women and children, and Col. G. G. Knox, head of the league governing commission, was swamped with frantic appeals for military protection.

It was estimated some 400 anti-Nazis already had fled with other hundreds expected to depart before the League of Nations officially turns the territory over to Germany.

In tens of thousands of shop windows and homes of Saarlanders tonight candles burned under portraits of Hitler while through the main streets of all Saar basin cities and towns paraded torch-light processions of exultant Nazis, shouting "Our leader, Adolf Hitler" and "Victory! Heil!"

Grade Crossing Elimination Advanced As Key To Relief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—A half-billion dollar grade crossing elimination program was advanced in official quarters today as a key plan in the administration's effort to remove 3,500,000 from the relief rolls.

Plans for elimination of 8,000 crossing with this sum have been worked out in detail by railroad engineers. Those who sketched the plan said that it, alone of the programs approved by the president and the national resources board, could be started immediately.

Favorable Reports Received On Loan For Brazos Project

Norris, chairman of the Texas board of water engineers in which he said surveys the Texas delegation here had asked were being prepared and went so far as to suggest that proponents in that state might even bring the information to the capital in person.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—From a 30,000 word report, embodying plans for dealing with five phases of the social security problem, President Roosevelt tonight drafted his own orders to congress for a wide program of social legislation.

As outlined in authoritative sources, the plans sent to the president by his cabinet committee included:

Wagner-Lewis Details

Unemployment insurance, financed, in part, at least, by a payroll tax; the federal government to handle the funds and the states to administer them; the details to follow largely the Wagner-Lewis bill of last year.

Old age persions divided into at least two, probably three, sections; the first to give joint, federal-state aid to finance monthly gifts to persons already over 65; the second to compel employer and employe to contribute to funds which would give persons over 65 annuities when they reach that age; the third, if approved, to permit persons to buy such insurance against want in old age.

Would Aid Mothers, Children

Aid for dependent children in which the federal government would help the states to enable mothers to care for their children and designed to bring about a coordination and upbuilding of standards for such care.

A widening of public health service with regard to sanitation, disease control, prevention and health research work.

College Presidents To Atiend

Brabham, Texas Woman's college, Fort Worth; Rev. King Vivian, Southwestern university, Georgetown; Dr. E. B. Hawk, dean of the school of theology, S. M. U., Dallas.

Split In Bonus Ranks Seen; Patman Advocates To Meet

No Compromise Held Likely; American Legion Blamed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. — Congressional advocates of the Patman cash bonus bill today decided to fight for its enactment despite support thrown to the Vinson measure by the American Legion.

A call for advocates of his measure will meet Thursday night to organize for the battle was issued late today by Representative Patman (D-Tex), author of the bill, following conferences with many of his colleagues. His move, indicating a split in the bonus forces, came shortly after Frank N. Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion, in an interview, said:

Source Is Difference

"There will be no compromise on the Vinson bill as far as we are concerned. We are going to go down the line for that bill because it is the mandate of the national convention at Miami."

The major difference between the Patman and Vinson measures is in the source for payment. The Vinson bill provides for no financing, the money simple to be appropriated. The Patman measure would finance payment by issuance of non-interest bearing notes, a direct inflation plan.

Patman Worried

The Vinson bill would cancel interest on all loans made since inception of the act; Patman's bill beginning with loans in 1931.

Obviously disturbed by the legion's stand for the Vinson measure, Patman said:

"The truth is that my friends believe the legion is trying to split the ranks of the cash bonus advocates.

"My friends think that since my bill has passed the house twice it will be a serious mistake to change horses in midstream."

Seventeen Indicted After Nelson Gang Harbor Probe

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15. (AP)—The federal grand jury here today indicted 17 persons on charges of conspiring to conceal and harbor "Baby Face" Nelson and his wife, Helen Gillis, in this area last year.

Those indicted include John Paul Chase, now held in Chicago accused of murder for the fatal shooting last November of two United States department of justice agents near Chicago in the fight in which Nelson, notorious gangster, was killed.

Menard Case Further Slowed As Severance Motion Filed

MENARD, Jan. 15. (AP)—The case of H. B. Opp and L. E. Trimble, charged with the slaying of Wylie Tomlinson, was further delayed today when the defense presented a motion for severance.

Earlier in the day District Judge Thaxton had overruled a defense motion to quash the venire. The defense charged the veniremen were chosen only from the south and eastern parts of the county.

Pilot Point Woman Fatally Burned; Clothes Catch Fire

Mixed Emotions Felt By Retiring Mrs. Ferguson

Her Congratulation Of James V. Allred Is Not Affected, However, At Inaugural

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson, 59, for the past two years the nation's only woman governor, today returned to private life as young James V. Allred was inaugurated to succeed her.

Mrs. Ferguson has served two terms and did not seek re-election. She and her husband, James E. Ferguson, himself twice chosen governor, said last spring that the people of Texas had been extremely kind to them and they were willing to step aside.

The retiring chief executive was not as happy as she would have been if her successor had been a political friend. However, she and her husband sat on the platform for the inaugural ceremonies and an occasional smile lighted her face. She grasped the hand of her successor as he arrived and she planned to attend the inaugural ball in Mr. Allred's honor.

But for the impeachment of Governor James E. Ferguson in 1917, Mrs. Ferguson, a home-loving woman, probably never would have participated actively in politics. However, "Farmer Jim" was barred from again holding state office and it was up to her to vindicate the name.

Opponents of the Fergusons made much of the charge that Mrs. Ferguson would be chief executive in

Thirty-Four Graduates Urged To Independent Thinking; General Program Conducted At High School

George W. Dupree, a local attorney, last night urged 34 mid-term Lubbock High school graduates to confidence, courage, and independent thinking. He was commencement speaker for a program conducted in the school auditorium.

Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, president of the board of education, presented diplomas. R. W. Matthews, principal, presented the graduates to Supt. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer, who in turn introduced them to Doctor Hutchinson.

Speaks Of Courage

Although Mr. Dupree did not announce his subject, his address followed the theme of "Independent Courage."

"There comes a call for men and women who think for themselves and in that thinking act for themselves," he said.

"There is a need for pioneers, independent thinkers who do not need a government to think for them."

The speaker urged the graduates to say "I have a body that is capable, a soul that I can cultivate, a mind as good as anyone else has and I am going to use them to make a success of my life."

General Program

Woodrow Barnes, president of the class, led the processional, which was played by the high school orchestra directed by Miss Beulah Dunn. Rev. R. M. Hocker, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, gave the invocation. A girls' chorus, directed by Mrs. Waldo Trotter, sang

Dollar Pops Up Like Jack-In-The-Box; Turnabout Sharp

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—In the sharpest turnabout in a year the dollar today popped up as suddenly as a released jack-in-the box.

The gold block currencies in the foreign exchange market dropped to far below the point at which the yellow metal can be shipped profitably to New York.

At the same time gold shares on the stock exchange were under selling pressure that carried leaders off $1 to $3 a share or more and homestake mining, a high priced issue, dropped $28 to a price of $350. Grains gave up a cent or so a bushel in the Chicago pit.

Governor Says He Will Fight Against Crime

Ringing Address Is Applauded By Thousands And Capitol Hill Shaken By Reception Given Ex-Newsboy

While Deploring Numbers On Relief, Allred Says State Has Nothing To Fear, That Recovery Is Coming

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—The mantle of the highest office in the gift of the people of Texas dropped today upon the youthful shoulders of James V. Allred.

While cannon boomed an official salute, the former newsboy of Bowie was inaugurated governor of the biggest state in the union, and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas first and only woman governor, retired to private life.

Address Hits At Crime

Standing on the steps of Texas' big granite capitol, Governor Allred delivered a ringing address, pledging cooperation with the national recovery program and use of all his powers to stamp out crime in Texas.

An estimated throng of 10,000 persons witnessed the ceremonies, made resplendent by the presence of high state dignitaries, five former governors and officers and several battalions of the Texas national guard.

Occasion Solemn

Despite the solemnity, the occasion, begun with the playing of the national anthem and concluded with official state song, "Texas My Texas," by a military band, was very human. Allred himself was smilingly at ease and his manner was communicated to the thousands massed before him.

At the start of his address, he turned to Mrs. Allred, saying, "come up here, honey." Then to the audience, "I want you to meet my wife and my little cowboy." The latter reference was to his 13-month old son, David, sound asleep in the arms of a friend. Jimmy, jr., five years old, also was presented, as were "Mother and Dad," Mr. and Mrs. Reene Allred, sr., of Bowie.

Great Applause Given

Thunderous applause swept the great assemblage as Allred denounced crime conditions in Texas, saying gangsters, bandits, thugs, and thieves had no place in the "clean life of Texas."

"As governor of Texas it is my duty under the constitution to cause the laws to be faithfully executed," he declared vehemently. "I am going to perform that duty and I want you, my friends, to call upon your local officers to en-

As a result of collision of two automobiles on south Avenue H about 8 o'clock last night, Miss Elva Mauldin, 27, of Amarillo suffered a broken left thigh and a broken nose. She remained in Lubbock sanitarium for treatment.

Police reported that a Ford-A panel delivery and a Ford V-8 automobile were involved in the crash and that Miss Mauldin was in the newer model. Drivers of the two cars suffered minor injuries, police said. They were treated at Lubbock sanitarium and released.

Ex-Soldier Who Stole Rifle Must Spend 18-Months Term

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 15. (AP)—Kenneth V. Watson, returned from Mobile, Ala., to face charges of theft of a government rifle, was sentenced in federal court today to 18 months in prison.

In his first court appearance here Watson said he had no previous record, but subsequently it was found he was dishonorably discharged from the army and had been charged with larceny and passing bad checks.

Young Executive Asks Hamburger As He Reaches Mansion, Finds No Meal

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Governor and Mrs. James V. Allred moved from their "little cottage on the dusty side street," to the executive mansion today and spent the first several minutes looking for something to eat.

Governor Allred was visibly surprised to find the mansion cupboard bare, although the retiring executive family had given no public indication it would leave a hot meal on the massive dinner table to greet the Allreds and their intimate circle after the inauguration.

"I think I'll go and get a hamburger," Allred said, while members of the family posed for newspaper photographers and sound cameras. An aide swiftly arranged an elaborate luncheon for the family at a hotel. They were whisked off to lunch escorted by a squad of state highway patrolmen with sirens screaming.

RELYING upon agricultural and economic history to show the way, Francis Flood, a field specialist for the agricultural adjustment administration, told nearly 200 Lubbock county community committeemen, in substance, that continued production control was essential to their wellbeing.

Mr. Flood, a former farm journal writer and foreign correspondent, spoke at Texas Technological college in the morning, before the Lions club at noon, and before the assembly of farmers, in the district criminal courtroom, in the afternoon Tuesday.

Chairmen, vice chairmen, and secretaries of community units of the Lubbock County Farm association, and members of community cotton, corn-hog, and wheat production committees formed the bulk of the afternoon gathering.

Valentine Appointments Are Featured At Covered Dish Luncheon On Tuesday

The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

BEGINNING today we are continuing our pattern series in the Lubbock Morning Avalanche. We thank you for your inquiries concerning the features and are glad to discover they fill such a need in the dress schemes of our county and city readers.

WE SUGGEST REFORMS

IF we were going to practice reforms (and rest assured that we are not) we would begin with two items. One would be to eliminate business meetings and useless reports before a visiting speaker's address at a convention, club meeting or banquet. The other would be to teach courtesy to movie patrons.

IT ISN'T FAIR

AS for the first, we could spend hours in discussing the advantage of a simple program if an educated person is to speak on an interesting subject and if the evening's success is to be built around his talk. Haven't you attended meetings that dragged to such a length that you were exhausted before the speaker of the evening had an opportunity to take the floor. Sometimes a minor character gets himself mixed up with the main attraction and gets lost in listening to his own flow of oratory.

We remember a time when a third rate speaker decided to usurp the evening at a patriotic gathering. He fought three wars for his audience and was well into another when a man who had gone to war with him arose in the back of the house and gave him signals which during war days meant "Cease Firing." He did!

WE BECOME HEATHENS

WE have wondered what it is about a theater that transforms otherwise gentle people into frenzied individuals. "Sit down!" the person directly behind you will hiss while you grope along hoping you aren't in a lap. A baby's fretful cry will cause more murmuring than the prediction of a prolonged drouth and just accidentally step on some ones toes!

After all, not being quadruped animals that purr, we can't see when we are suddenly thrust from brilliant daylight into immense blackness and the picture show is labeled an amusement house. You are supposed to keep cheerful.

BACK TO THE SOIL

MOST men, it now appears, have grown up with the longing to live on a farm. Most men, that is, who didn't grow up living on one. With the general exodus from the farm to the city in this section, it is directly opposite in the East.

Bargain sales in Chicago and resulting epidemics of buying bring it all to light. Within the last month, the rolling country out from the Windy City has suddenly acquired new neighbors. And without exception, the wives make the explanation: "My husband has wanted to live on a farm all of his life."

We know of several families who have moved to Lubbock from their farms because they couldn't make sufficient livings there to send their children to school and give them advantages.

HOPE SPRINGS ETERNAL

THERE has never been a country like this one for inspiring its inhabitants to live on hope. What good Mexicans we would make because our cry is "manana" as year by year we predict that next year will be a good one. Our pioneers tell us if it doesn't rain by a certain day the crops will be lost and the day arrives and the baleful prediction is moved up and we continue to live and our motto continues "Tomorrow."

Beware Of Colds NOW!

With Flu in the Air Colds Are Doubly Dangerous

COLDS—always treacherous—are doubly dangerous now, with flu reported in many sections. Colds lower body strength and often pave the way for flu and other serious ills. Heed even the slightest sniffle as a danger signal. It's no time to take needless chances.

The safest course to follow is that outlined in the famous Vicks Plan for better Control of Colds. The Plan's effectiveness in helping its followers to greater freedom from colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians—and proved in every-day home use by millions. Full details of the Plan are in each Vicks package. Briefly, it is this:

TO HELP PREVENT COLDS: At the first sniffle, sneeze or nasal irritation—quick!—use Vicks Va-tro-nol—a few drops up each nostril. The timely use of Va-tro-nol helps to prevent many colds—and to throw off other colds in their early stages.

TO HELP END A COLD: If a cold has developed, or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime rub on Vicks VapoRub, the modern external treatment for colds. Its double direct action—by Stimulation and Inhalation—soothes inflamed membranes—loosens phlegm—eases the breathing—helps break congestion.

(NOTE—FOR ADDED PROTECTION: When flu is in the air, it is a wise precaution to gargle, night and morning, with Vicks Voratone Antiseptic. Voratone thoroughly cleanses the oral cavity, and aids in defense against infection which enters through the mouth.)

Follow Vicks Plan for better CONTROL of Colds.

Ask Your Doctor First, Mother

Before You Give Your Child an Unknown Remedy to Take

According to any doctor you may ask, there is one duty every mother owes her child. The duty of asking him before giving her child an unknown remedy to take.

Yet, unthinkingly, every day mothers violate this simple rule. Take the advice of "unqualified persons — instead of their doctors" — on remedies for their children.

If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take the chance.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS' For Your Child

When it comes to the very frequently used "milk of magnesia," authorities stand solidly together.

Ask your own doctor about this. For over 50 years, doctors, whose life work it is to study the safety and quality of drugs that go into the home, have said "PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia for your child."

For "Phillips'" is the result of over a half century of continuous laboratory experiment. And is rated among the finest products that science knows in its field, the kind of product your child deserves.

So Always Say "Phillips'" when you buy. And see that your child gets what you ask for — Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Do this for your own peace of mind.

Also in Tablet Form: Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets are now on sale at all drug stores everywhere. Each tiny tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

A startling fact

Even on coldest days we perspire a quart of odorous waste. Play safe about "B. O."—bathe regularly with Lifebuoy. It lathers richly in the hardest water, deodorizes pores. Its own fresh, clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy protects!

Reciprocal Trade Agreement With Canada Likely To Be Concluded In May

Canada Second In Trade List

Commercial Pact With Brazil Also Proposed And Complete Arrangements Likely To Be Announced Soon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP)—A new reciprocal trade agreement with Canada, this country's second biggest customer, was reported authoritatively today to be almost in the negotiation stage with expectations that it will be concluded in May.

State department officials confirmed that informal preliminary discussions had been in progress with William Duncan Herridge, the Canadian minister, for several weeks and that announcement of the beginning of formal negotiations is slated to be made within a week or ten days.

Brizilian Pact Likely

At the same time it was learned a new trade agreement with Brazil under negotiations for several months, practically was concluded and its signing was only a question of a few days.

Trade agreement officials were described as confident it would be possible to conclude an agreement with Canada by May.

Some Items Not Included

All indications are, however, that the pact will not cover all items in the commerce between the two nations but will be limited as much as possible to non-competitive products, or to products in which competition is at a minimum.

Liquor, now under a heavy duty, is understood to be one of the items on which concessions could be made with mutual benefit.

AAA Address

quently drawing upon his travels in foreign lands to point a conclusion with effective whimsy, Mr. Flood conceded that the agricultural adjustment administration, from its technical advisors to its local committeemen, had made mistakes. It had, nevertheless, enabled the farmer to avert complete disaster and had buoyed him up with a monetary return that, said the agricultural adjustment administration representative in some instances was greater than it would have been had immediate sale of total production at market price been permitted.

For all her ancientry, Egypt had not learned that cotton production could not be expanded indefinitely without a backwash. Waters were unleashed, through canals, into the great sudan, which drank greedily. Beside the River Nile 2,000 miles in the interior, he saw the resultant greenery, the first the sudan ever had, Mr. Flood related. Egypt grew cotton and more cotton. Finally, too much cotton.

Coffee production became a problem in Brazil. Experts succeeded in heightening the price despite increased production for several years. Then, the "pyramid collapsed," and 60 million bushels of coffee went into the sea.

"No body asks the right," Mr. Flood asserted, "to produce all he can produce at a profit."

Industry does not ask it. Why should the farmer?

Imagery Animated Yet Casual

His imagery as animated as it was casual, the one-time farm journal writer continued to return to illustrative experiences, to trim, spick-and-span, cooperative Denmark, with more stringent regulation of hog production than has this country, and to Shanghai harbor and its beggars so symbolic of China's defiance of change.

Then back to the United States:

With a surplus of food, manpower, raw materials, and money, in the winter of 1932-33, "in the midst of all our physical surpluses, we were slumped down, out of balance," he recalled.

Want Amid Plenty

"Our economic and social system had not kept up." And as an afterthought:

"We had the largest wheat supply in the world when we had the longest breadlines in our history." And wheat, he added, dipped to its lowest price. That did not seem to shorten those bread lines.

What had evolved the twin evils of too much and not enough?

In wartime, we had broken virgin land, and the plow was kept in those extra acres after the war ended. The demand for horses and mules grew slim.

Nation Becomes Creditor

The United States had emerged from the war a creditor nation, for the first time in its history and as the greatest creditor of all time. Historical precedent had it that creditor nations bought for the most part while the debtors sold. We would upset that. We continued to export heavily, sustaining a practice begun as colonists. Europe bought, but now with money borrowed from the seller, the United States. We exported and we lent until we decided, belatedly, that the IOU's of European nations were comparable to those of an intoxicated poker player.

Cooperator Penalized

Secretaries of agriculture who immediately preceded Henry A. Wallace, the New Deal appointee, had recognized the dangers of rising surpluses, and had suggested adjustment of production. They were, however, without a workable plan of control, and a program of "education and persuasion" among Kansas wheat farmers, said Mr. Flood, taught that the one who paid no heed profited and the "poor devil who cooperated was the one penalized."

With the beginning of the Roosevelt era, and establishment of the agricultural adjustment administration, a goal of parity was set up, to be reached by awarding those who cooperated in production control. Surpluses have dwindled, from planned reduction and from drouth, but normal and some abnormal carryovers remain, assuming that the next season's production will be normal, said Mr. Flood.

"Parity" Is Explained

By "parity," the agricultural administration means, for example, he explained, that it shall have been reached when a "bale of cotton will buy as much goods as it would just before the war," and not necessarily that the money-prices correspond.

The speaker conceded, hurriedly and incidental to remarks upon cycles in the cattle industry, that there is a "natural form of production control," which, however, is "cruel" and functions by "starvation methods."

Agriculture maintained near-normal production long after industry had slashed drastically, while agriculture held up production its prices fell greatly, and industry, its output whittled down, retained a near-1929 price level, said Mr. Flood. Nor need the farmer apologize on another point: The eventual crop and livestock reduction contributed little to unemployment while factory shutdowns sent millions out jubless, he said.

Price Rises And Exports

A high price for cotton does not necessarily swell exports, the government agent said, referring to criticism, especially apparent in Texas, that control of cotton production has led to sacrifice of foreign markets.

"Handlers who have ridden to prosperity on the back of the cotton producer and want volume regardless of price are those complaining that reduced production has caused loss of export markets," Mr. Flood asserted.

Comparing export figures for the first 10 months of each of the last seven years, from 1928-34 inclusive, he said the lowest price, 5 cents a pound, was in 1931, thus before the present administration; that 4 1-2 million bales was exported in 1934 as compared with 6 1-2 million in 1933, a relatively slight decline, he intimated, in view of natural conditions that also impaired cotton growth last season.

Price "Minor" Factor

Price is a minor rather than controlling factor in cotton export volume, he concluded.

Brazil's doubling of production has resulted in only 500,000 bales, a trivial figure in the world market, he said.

In closing, Mr. Flood said he would not hazard a prophecy of the outcome of approaching legislation affecting the agricultural adjustment administration. Nor was he familiar with proposals being pressed to congress by Secretary Wallace and his aides.

Matadors Snatch Second Win From Arizonans; Jap Mat Artist Here Tonight

Tech Controls Contest After Early Minutes

Gilmore And Weaver Set Pace For Hustling Matadors Who Sweep Series To Take Lead In Border Loop Race

Providing the scoring punch when punch was needed, the Texas Tech Matadors once more came from behind to defeat their basketball foes, last night winning a 31 to 24 victory over the Arizona State Teachers college Lumberjacks from Flagstaff to sweep the two-game series.

Their fourth consecutive conference victory without a defeat gave the Reds undisputed lead in the Border conference cage race, and established them as favorites to win their third straight conference title. The Flagstaff team had defeated University of New Mexico, considered a serious threat for the title, in two games before coming here.

Crews Breaks Away

From the time Leroy Crews took the ball away from Burdell Porter in one end of the court and dribbled, unattended, down the floor to score two points, a minute after the opening tip-off, and give Tech the lead, until Chester Fuller poured in a field basket with 2 minutes to go in the last half, the game was a riproaring tide of basketball excitement.

The Lumberjacks were battling hard to stay ahead and at least split the series they'd travelled so far to play. They tied the count and took a brief lead early in the game, because when Crews took the ball away from Porter, the latter did some snatching on his own behalf, and almost as fast as they could be counted he rolled up ten points before any of his mates had scored. Five field goals in the first half and a free toss in the last half gave Porter 11 points and scoring honors of the evening. After his first half sally, his attack was stopped cold.,

Matadors Are Faster

Although they scored less points, being harder pressed by a hustling Lumberjack quintet, the Matadors broke into a run last night for the first time of the season. At times they tore out fast, and headed down the field like sprinters. They have not yet developed into a fast-breaking club, however; when that is accomplished, they will have nearly all the attributes necessary for a classy college quint.

It was a great game to watch. Defensive basketball stood out all during the game, making the offensive spurts all the more spectacular. After Crews took the lead, Porter bagged a crip shot to tie the count. Gilmore gave Tech the lead again with a free shot (he fired five of 'em last night), and Weaver stepped it up to two points. Porter sifted through the defense, took a pass from Church and scored a basket from under the backboard to tie the score again.

Porter repeated, with his third field goal in less than a minute, and Tech called time out to talk things over. Arizona was ahead, 6 to 4.

Gilmore Takes Lead

As play resumed, Weaver ran under the basket, called for the ball, got it and scored the tying tally. Gilmore gave Tech the lead again with a field goal, and the Matadors never relinquished it. Larry Priddy fired a basket, and Tech was ahead, 10 to 6, about midway of the period.

Porter shot another field goal, but Weaver poked in a long one from beyond the toe-line. Chubby Overson, active little guard for the Teachers, shot a beaut of a field basket, but was caught fouling a few seconds later and Gilmore rubbed out the rally by sinking both free shots.

Then there was a bit of see-sawing. Church made a free goal on Gilmore's foul, Gilmore made a free goal on Church's foul, and Snodgrass counted one point on Porter's foul. Porter grabbed the ball from Snodgrass and made a field goal. There was plenty of action.

Standing under the basket, all alone, Crews caught a tip-off on a tied ball and rolled it in for two points, and Tech was ahead, 18 to 13, at the half.

Defenses Tighten

The tempo increased as the second half started, although there was less scoring. It was almost swapout all the way, with Tech scoring only two points more in the last 20 minutes than Arizona.

After three minutes of hard defensive play, Priddy slipped through and under the basket, took a pass and shot a field goal. Snodgrass followed suit, and Tech was eleven points ahead. Porter piled in a free shot, and Emmett, who had not registered in the first half, made a field goal from the side. Then Emmett, doing all his scoring in less than 15 seconds, shot a long one from out front, and the score was 22 to 18.

Gilmore and Overson were caught in a double foul, and both made good on their free shots. Weaver then sunk one from scrimmage, but Fuller nullified it with a long one.

Lateral Pass Attack

Breaking fast and passing crisscross down the court, the Matadors gave Gilmore the ball for another field goal. One point of it was taken back when Overson shot a free throw, but Crews slipped in a field goal to get it back.

Scrapping hard and desperately, the Lumberjacks scored in the last 2 minutes when Fuller slapped in one in a free-for-all under the Arizona basket, following Weaver's final two-point toss, which ended the scoring.

Tech made good on seven free shots out of ten, Gilmore making five of them in six attempts. The Lumberjacks missed five and made four.

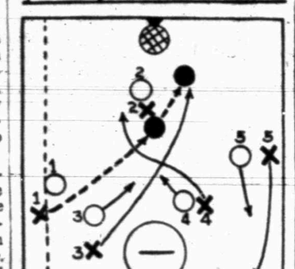
No Gloves Used In Bout Between Boxing Moguls Who Meet To Bar Barney

WINNING BASKETBALL
By Nat Holman



An out-of-bound and pivot play combined is illustrated here.

As X-1 receives the ball outside, X-2 moves into position to take the pass.

X-3 and X-4 cross-cut each other, thereby seeking to maneuver their guards into conflict. They cut sharply around X-2, who is hunched over with the ball in the pivot position.

X-2 feeds either one at his discretion.

Lightweight Champ Must Box Ambers Or Else . . .

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. — The New York State athletic commission decided today that Barney Ross, lightweight champion, can't fight here until he defends his title against Lou Ambers, youthful aspirant from Herkimer, N. Y.

This made it unanimous, inasmuch as Ross decided some time ago that he wouldn't fight here anyway.

The crisp, bald reason for the commission's action was Ross' failure to defend his lightweight crown within the six months' grace allowed every champion. As a matter of fact Barney hasn't defended his title in 16 months, not since he whipped Tony Canzoneri here in September of 1933.

Klick Suspended

"Ross is suspended until such time as he signs articles of agreement for a match with Ambers," announced General John J. Phelan, chairman of the board. "Furthermore we will also suspend Frankie Klick of San Francisco for fighting Ross down in Miami Jan. 24. No boxer licensed here is allowed to have any truck with a suspended boxer."

The commission then paved the way for Ambers to get himself eliminated from the situation by fathering a match in Madison Square Garden Feb. 15 or 22 between the Herkimer youth, who outpointed Harry Dublinsky of Chicago last Friday night, and Sammy Fuller of Boston.

Winner Meets Ross?

Fuller and Ambers will fight fifteen rounds at the lightweight limit, 135 pounds. The commission did not specify however, that the winner would be considered the logical challenger for Ross.

The meeting was enlivened by a passage at arms between dumb Dan Morgan, famous fight manager, and Joe McOwen, chief of deputy commissioners, over the still smouldering situation surrounding the referees and judges. Morgan thought that McOwen was spreading rumors that he (Morgan) could purchase the decisions of one referee and one judge at any fight for a nominal sum.

Morgan threw a left hook at McOwen, which Commissioner Bill Brown neatly blocked, and McOwen crossed a right to Morgan's bald head. Morgan missed with a long right because there was a table between them. The fight stopped when Brown got tired of keeping them apart, walked away and threatened to suspend both for fighting without a license.

Abilene Christian Cagers Beat Howard Payne, 32-25

ABILENE, Jan. 15. (AP)—Spurting from behind in the last four minutes of play here tonight, Abilene Christian college trimmed Howard Payne, 32 to 25 in a Texas conference game.

Whitehead, Howard Payne forward, looped four field goals and three free tosses for high scoring honors with 11 points. Stone was high scorer for the Wildcats with 9 points.

Ray Brubaker, former manager of the Oakland, Cal., baseball club, will probably be a Pacific Coast league umpire next season.

Vic Ghezzi Wins West Coast Tilt

LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB, LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15. (AP)—Victor Ghezzi, of the Deal, N. J., golf club, won the Los Angeles open golf championship today when he shot a 37-36—73 to defeat Johnny Revolta, of Milwaukee, in the 18-hole playoff. They had tied at the end of 72 holes yesterday, one down, 288.

Revolta took 75 strokes today.

After trailing by a stroke at the end of the first nine, Ghezzi evened the match on the tenth, where he picked up his par and Revolta took a bogey five because he was short on his approach. They played on an even basis for the next five holes, but Ghezzi moved into the lead on the 16th.

Although he dubbed his drive, Ghezzi got an excellent second shot, was on in three, and dropped a seven-footer for four, while Revolta three-putted.

On the 18th, Revolta took a trap to the left, then missed a 15-foot putt. On in three, Ghezzi holed out his ten-footer for a four, and a 36 coming home, as compared to his opponents' 39.

Southern Methodist Mustangs Win First Conference Game Of Season; Owls Falter In Stretch To Go Down

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 15. — Southern Methodist university basketeers won their first 1935 Southwest conference game tonight when they defeated Rice of Houston, 32 to 19. Rice took a 5 to 0 lead the first 8 minutes but a late rally gave the Mustangs a 17 to 13 lead at the half.

Coming back with a tight defense and fast shooting offense, Southern Methodist pulled away to a big advantage and completely out-played the Owls who appeared travel-weary. They have been on the road since last Wednesday. Briggs, guard, paced the Mustangs with six field goals and four gratis shots for 16 points. It was the Owls third defeat this season. Captain Journeay, Rice's star forward, made only one free shot.

They Can't Get The Old Man Out Of There

(MORE RUMORS —BY PAP)

SOME day the experts are going to realize the futility of trying to guess what Connie Mack is going to do.

In their minds they have retired him every fall for the last 25 years; planned trades for him that never were consummated; and made all sorts of decisions in advance for the veteran manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

And yet Connie doesn't seem interested in their random predictions for he goes right on doing just as he pleases—and with considerable success.

Fact is, more often than not he does exactly the opposite of what is expected of him. That comes under the heading of strategy.

Recall, if you please, the opening game of the 1929 world series between the Athletics and the Cubs in Chicago. While everyone was debating as to which of his three star pitchers—Grove, Earnshaw or Walberg—he would choose, the wily Connie completely crossed them all and sent the shop-worn Howard Ehmke to the mound. Mack himself must have been at least mildly astonished when the veteran slow-baller not only won the game but also set up a new world series strike-out record by fanning 13 Cub batters.

Mack has repeatedly named this as the outstanding thrill of his 51 years in baseball.

AFTER having mentally bounced Babe Ruth all around the American league, and a good part of the National as well, the guessers decided that the right spot for the Bambino was with the Athletics.

Hadn't Mack and Ruth been very chummy on that Oriental junket? they reasoned. Why, the pair had their pictures snapped together and everything!

Upon his return from the far east Mack was very generous in praising the fine job Ruth made of handling the All-Stars. He pictured Ruth in the role of ambassador of good will and lauded him for all he had done in the interests of peace and better understanding.

All those kind words were just a build-up for the big announcement, the crystal gazers figured to themselves—Babe Ruth would surely be the next manager of the A's.

That would have been just fine, had Connie Mack heard the rumors. But he hadn't, or if he had paid no attention to them. First of all he did not need a manager at present, inasmuch as he was determined to handle the Athletics for the next eight seasons, i.e., until he reaches 80.

HE HAS no use for a "good will ambassador" around Shibe park. What he really wants is a fast, young, hard-hitting outfielder but Babe Ruth hardly fits that picture. Looks like they've guessed wrong again.

There is one other angle the guessers have overlooked—Ruth still is the property of the New York Yankees and Col. Jake Ruppert insists that to date no one has approached him with any kind of an offer for the big slugger.

Connie Mack is back at his desk, after the vacation in the far east, making his plans for the coming campaign. He plans to use Jimmy Foxx behind the plate, as he did when the chubby-faced Jimmy reported to the A's a rookie. Frank Higgins will be on third base as usual, despite all the trade rumors. More than that—just sit tight until the season rolls around, you won't get to first base guessing.

National League Must Find Park For Braves Or Do Without Them In 1935

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—Club-owners of the National League, called into special session here Friday by President Ford C. Frick, either must find some means of recovering the use of Braves Field for the financially-harassed Boston club, meanwhile barring its use for dog-racing, or else face the alternative of operating a seven-club circuit this year.

Any last, lingering prospect of moving the Boston Nationals into Fenway Park, home of the rival Red Sox, was dispelled today by Thomas A. Yawkey, millionaire owner of the American League club.

Want No Tenants

"I have rejected the idea of having the Braves use Fenway Park for several reasons, but chiefly because I desire to make it exclusively the home of the Red Sox," Yawkey said. "We have built the team and we rebuilt the park. We do not want any other tenant."

Apparently the main hope of keeping the Braves in the league, in which they are a charter member, lies in the fact the owners of Braves Field have not yet closed for rental to the Boston Kennel club.

Aggies And Longhorns Clash In Conference Game Tonight

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 15. (AP)—The Texas A. and M. Aggies and University of Texas Longhorns clash here tomorrow night in a Southwest conference basketball game.

Texas, by virtue of victories over Southern Methodist, Texas Christian and Baylor, has a half game margin over Arkansas for the conference leadership. The Aggies lost their conference game to Rice. The Cadets believe they hit their defensive stride the past week-end when they held the Sam Houston Bearkats to six field goals, only one of which was made in the first half. Coach John Reid, noted for his tight defense, has expressed himself as well satisfied with the Aggies defense and hopes they will have one of the conference's strongest defenses for the season.

Young Matsura To Meet Tough Texas Watkins

Dory Detton And Bobby Burns Provide Semi-Final Treat; Youthful Japanese Star In Main Event Battle

TONIGHT'S CARD

Main Event

Matsuda Matsura, Oregon, vs. Sailor Tex Watkins, Post. Two falls out of three to a finish.

Semi-Final

Dory Detton, Salt Lake City, vs. Cyclone Bobby Burns, Memphis, Tenn., 30 minutes time limit.

Preliminary

O. H. "The Great" Britain, Lubbock, vs. Dave Luttrel, Lubbock, 20 minutes time limit.

Since he established headquarters at El Paso several weeks ago after successfully fending off Pacific coast rivals, young Matsuda Matsura has engaged in 18 feature length matches against the best this section has to offer. And he won all eighteen of them, losing four falls during the entire campaign.

That's the kind of record the 21-year-old American-born Japanese mat artist brings to Lubbock today and takes into the Auditorium ring tonight against the terrible Tex Watkins in the main event.

Uses Japanese Tricks

Schooled in the Japanese manner of grappling, Matsura combines exceptional speed and strength with the tricks of the trade which distinguish Japanese wrestlers. His father, Matty Matsura, was a grappler in his native country, and a close friend of the late and great Matty Matsuda. From Matsuda, the elder Matsura learned that stylish's tricks first hand, and passed them on to his son.

The younger Matsura's record bears out all the complimentary notes that have been passed out concerning him. Victories over Otis Clingman and Yaqui Joe, Danny McShain and Joe Kopecky, who need no more introduction, would be enough to set Matsura in a class by himself. He has licked Clingman, undoubtedly the greatest middleweight this section of the country has produced, in two meetings.

Can Turn Tough, Too

Fundamentally a clean, legitimate grappler, with due respect for grappling laws of the state, Matsura has been known to turn demon when placed in the ring with a demon. First, he tries to win by clean wrestling. That failing, and if his opponent needs a lesson in rough stuff, Matsura is capable of turning on the heat.

In Sailor Watkins, Matsura meets a grappler whose defeats can be counted on the fingers of one hand, but who usually gains his victories through illegal methods, withal possessing unusually powerful muscles and a canny brain.

Something is due to pop when the wily Matsura, bringing his jiu-jitsu tricks into action, bumps into the unpopular Watkins this evening at the Auditorium.

Popular Favorites Clash

A fast special feature precedes the main event, with those two favorites of the clean style of fighting, Dory Detton and Cyclone Bobby Burns, get together again.

One of the most pleasing main events staged here in a long time occurred when Detton and Burns mixed here recently. It was clean, hard warfare, with Burns taking Detton in the first fall, only to be caught in his tricks to lose the second and third settos. Both were well on the way to fatigue when it was over.

Clemency Goes To Many Cons

Fifty-Seven Texans Are Given Pardons As Mrs. Ferguson's Term Fades; Last Few Days Of Tenure Crowded

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (AP)—Fifty-seven convicts received pardons Monday from Governor Miriam A. Ferguson as she neared the end of a two-year term marked by liberality in granting full and conditional pardons.

In addition to 15 full and 42 conditional pardons, the governor granted a general parole, several furloughs and 34 reductions in sentences, in some of which immediate freedom for convicts resulted.

Doors Close Early

Relatives and representatives of convicts thronged the offices of the governor and of the secretary of state, where clemency proclamations were typed, and overflowed into capitol corridors, because of the rush, the governor's outside doors were closed early. Additional typists were recruited to aid in preparation of proclamations.

The governor may exercise the pardoning power until she relinquishes office today noon to Governor-Elect James V. Allred.

The governor ordered Lonnie Wilkerson, former Fort Worth policeman, released on a conditional pardon from a sentence of five years for murder without malice. He was convicted in June 1932, in the shooting of a youth on a Fort Worth golf links.

Banks Gets Pardon

The governor also issued a conditional pardon to Jim Banks, who was sentenced to death in March, 1914, for murdering an unidentified white man near Dallas in March, 1914. Former Governor O. B. Colquitt commuted the sentence to life.

A voluminous file of clemency petitions related doubt of Banks' guilt, a contention supplemented in recent years by an officer who participated in the case.

Life sentences of Clyde Thompson, once condemned to death for murder in the shooting of A. L. and Leon Shook in Eastland county, Sept. 7, 1928 were reduced to 15 years. Former Governor R. S. Sterling commuted Thompson's death sentence in the Shook killing August, 1931.

Again Convicted

Thompson was represented as only 17 or 18 years old at the time of the killing. Subsequently he was convicted in Brazoria county of murder in March, 1933 and assessed a concurrent life term.

Mrs. Francis Daniels, Potter county, April, 1934, driving while intoxicated, one year; Wm. E. Davenport, Tom Green county, January, 1934, theft, two years; J. M. Pope, Garza county, October, 1931, unlawfully receiving deposits in an insolvent bank, sentence not stated (received conditional pardon Jan. 30, 1933.)

Conditional pardons included:

Carl Sims, McLennan county, June, 1933, theft and burglary, six years; Cullen Rowan, Van Zandt county, January, 1934, burglary, four years; J. D. (Shorty) Payne, Potter county, April, 1928, rape, 25 years; Jack Rose, Howard county, February, 1934, assault to murder, one year; J. C. Rose, Taylor county, January, 1932, assault with intent to rob, five years; Owen Sellers, Eastland and Bexar counties, Dec., 1933, violating liquor law, theft and burglary, two years; George McCraig, Ellis and McLennan counties, August, 1931, robbery with firearms and burglary, 15 years.

Commutations of sentences included: Malcolm Holloway, Taylor county, September, 1934, forgery, seven years, reduced to two years; Bob Walker, Potter, Moore and Sherman counties, March, 1933, robbery, burglary and robbery with firearms, 10 years, reduced to seven years.

T. F. Naborf, Howard county, May, 1930, rape, 30 years reduced to 10; Rosser P. Beaird, Van Zandt, Collin, Ellis, Eastland, Wise, Kaufman and Parker counties, January, 1934, theft, burglary, accomplice for advising the commission of burglary, burglary of a railroad car at night, accomplice to theft, accomplice to burglary of a railroad car and burglary of a box car, 18 years reduced to three years; K. A. Stone, El Paso county, March, 1934, robbery, 24 years reduced to ten years; Luther Kirkpatrick, Atascosa county, January, 1934, cattle theft, five years reduced to two.

Closely Watched

The test has attracted wide attention, hundreds of people visiting the scene almost daily for the past few days. Oil scouts and other company representatives are watching closely.

Located north of the Hobbs oil field in Lea county, a new pool is seen if production is of commercial quantities. It is believed by some geologists that the field would be an extension of the Permian basin of Texas, the trend ranging across Andrews, Gaines, Yoakum, Cochran counties into New Mexico, with the Lea county area to the west of Texas being included.

Bodies Of Boys Who "Walked Into Pond For Dog" Found

OKEMAH, Okla., Jan. 15. (AP) — The bodies of two small boys who drowned in an attempt to save the life of a pet dog, were recovered yesterday from a pond near Micawber, tiny village in the northwestern part of Okfuskee county.

The boys, Bobbie Lee Clark, 14, and Charles Clark, 11, were drowned several days ago, probably Friday, but no trace of them was found until yesterday when two playmates told their parents the boys had "walked into the pond after their dog."

Sixth Kennard Bank Suspect Arrested; One Is Released

CROCKETT, Jan. 15. (AP)—Harry Webb, arrested in Houston today in connection with the $1,700 Kennard bank robbery, was charged here by County Attorney Leon Lusk with robbery with firearms. He was the sixth person arrested in the case.

Mrs. Roy Wheat, wife of one of the men held, was released today after charges against her had been dropped. She had been charged as an alleged accomplice.

County Attorney Lusk said more than $1,000 of the loot had been recovered. Three men robbed the Farmers' Guaranty State bank at Kennard Jan. 8.

Ancient Egyptians used funeral wreaths as early as 1200 B. C.

TEMBLOR DEATHS

ISTANBUL, Jan. 15. (AP)—Reports from outlying islands in the sea of Marmora today showed 49 deaths from the earthquake which began shaking Turkey Jan. 4, and continued with 58 shocks for four days.

"Alfalfa Bill" Goes Out

COLORFUL to the last, "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, now ex-governor of Oklahoma, seeks to keep his name before the public by withholding information as to where he will spend his well-earned vacation after four hectic years as governor of Texas' neighbor on the east and north.

"I'm going to Tishomingo for a few days," the Associated Press quotes the former governor as saying. "After that, I won't be available. I'm going where you can't find me."

"Alfalfa Bill" is leaving the governor's chair over in Oklahoma after four years of service that kept his name on Page 1 of America's daily newspapers more frequently than most chief executives. Shrewd, politically and otherwise, more inclined to swim upstream against current opinion than down stream with it, keenly alive to the necessity of having his name before his public, Murray was able to gain publicity where many other men would have failed.

His frequent run-ins with then Governor Ross Sterling of Texas over free bridges across the Red River, brought him nation-wide notoriety. Also, his frequent calling out of the Oklahoma National guard to enforce his orders, brought him still further glory—or was it infamy?

Murray's life has been one series of ups and downs. After a colorless service as a school teacher in Texas he went into the then territory of Oklahoma and began a service that brought him at last to the highest office within the gift of his adopted state. He served Oklahoma as a member of the state constitutional convention, where he was chairman; as a member of Congress and finally as governor. He also found time to go to South America where he spent a number of years in an effort to found a colony, only to return, broken financially.

The chances are that within a few months "Alfalfa Bill" will find a new way to keep before the public. He had been too long in service of one kind or another to sit idly by and let his former honors go by the board.

AN AVERAGE AMERICAN FAMILY

The Allreds are just the average American family after all, even though they occupy Texas' so-called "White House."

Packing up their belongings to move from their small Austin home to the governor's mansion, Mrs. Allred, according to press dispatches, was presented with a rabbit's foot by admiring friends.

This she added to her already packed horseshoe, a gift at Christmas time.

Care should be taken to see that the horseshoe is firmly fastened to the door, so that it cannot fall. Also the rabbit's foot should be kept out of the reach of the younger Allred in case he desires to use it for a plaything.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

"Sharley's Shurnal of Hubbock said recently that they would in the future try not to duplicate so much in pictures of accidents, trials, wrecks and other incidences," "Doc." Andy Jackson Stricklin strictly heralds in the Brownfield Herald. "To which we might add that a change in the scenery at the top of his column might suit some of the folks. In fact, we think The Plainsman is badly in need of a shave, and that is not too expensive, we would kindly recommend a facial surgeon who specializes in lifting. Too much nose spoils the face, and a cigar or a pipe might be substituted for the well used cigaret that hangs from his lower lip." All right, Doc, how about borrowing one of your pictures for a new cut; will you stand good for a shave if we come down to collect that bottle of ale and- that you still owe us for. Thanks. CAG.

"The term 'Senior Dignity' does not mean that I am privileged to do what I want to, in the manner that I want to," confesses Edith Barnett in "Edith's Eye View" in the Abernathy Review. She substituted last week for Old Archibald, who was too busy to columnize.

Add the first simile for 1935: "as free of mercenary motives as a Lubbock goodwill tour," Willard Bright in the Seagraves News.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Happy is the man that findeth wisdom, and the man that getteth understanding.

For the merchandise of it is better than the merchandise of silver, and the gain thereof than fine gold.

She is more precious than rubies: and all the things thou canst desire are not to be compared unto her.

Length of days is in her right hand; and in her left hand riches and honour. Proverbs 3:13-16.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

SENATOR COPELAND (N. Y.) tossed his new food and drug bill into the hopper so early it drew the number "S. 5." Those who oppose it say the New York doctor-legislator is determined to have his name attached to any pure food law that passes. The antis say the current measure is much more objectionable than the one which failed of passage last year after wearing Prof. Rex Tugwell's name for half the session.

Manufacturers, etc., are shouting that Copeland's latest draft would make the Secretary of Agriculture a complete dictator over their business. They profess to see in its clauses the fine Italian hand of F. J. Schlink, former Food & Drug administration official, who now puts out "Consumers' Research Reports" which analyze standardly-advertised products and others for the benefit of the consumer.

Patent medicine makers are crying to high heaven that the provision requiring them to disclose their formulas on the label would ruin them. Representatives of advertising media claim the sections pertaining to advertising are intolerable.

PILOT: All concerned have demanded an early hearing. It is understood Chairman Erwin L. Davis, of the Federal Trade commission, has been prevailed upon to appear and demand the advertising provisions be eliminated. Those who should know say Davis will contend that regulation of advertising is a function of the Trade commission and not the Department of Agriculture.

Copeland is in a much more strategic position this session to push his bill than he was in 1934. Last year Senator Hubert D. Stephens of Miss. was Chairman of the Senate Commerce committee. Proponents of the food and drug bill suspected him of sitting on it and burying it in committee.

But Stephens was beaten in last fall's elections. That made Copeland chairman of the committee. This year the M. D. Senator will have his own way about piloting the bill.

PROTECTED: With the convening of the 74th Congress the lobbyists have descended on Washington like the locusts of Egypt. Always numerous, cooking of the New Deal's alphabet soup has provided them such vegetables to buzz around among as they never saw before.

Some of the administration insiders are disturbed by the situation. They say there ought to be a law. Unfortunately others have said the same thing ever since the Federal city was established on the banks of the Potomac in 1800.

It is a fair bet that the New Deal will have to struggle along with the lobbyists and all the other boll weevils who fatten on each administration in succession.

Back in 1913, during consideration of the Underwood-Simmons tariff act. Woodorow Wilson tossed a momentary bombshell into the ranks of the representatives of the so-called predatory interests. He started a lobby investigation which ran many days—but no report was ever made.

Several years ago the late Senator Thad Caraway of Ark. got many headlines from his lobby investigation—but no legislation.

It has been proposed time and again that the lobbyists be forced to register publicly their connections. Even should an order prevail it would not stop them from using their influence, real or imaginary, on the members of our august Congress.

WDSU: When there's another trump left in an opponent's hand, count on Huey Long to take it out.

The Louisiana Kingfish, in common with all other members of Congress, can demand radio time from either of the two big broadcasting companies. They are afraid to say no because there is always the chance of unfavorable radio legislation. They meet the issue by putting the would-be orators on around midnight and limiting them to 15-minute speeches, advance copies of which must be turned in for perusal.

This irked the Louisiana Kingfish. So he had his automatic state legislature slap a tax on corporation returns at the rate of 50 cents per $1,000. Revenue thus derived is to be earmarked for Louisiana State university—and L. S. U. is duty-bound to buy Station WDSU of New Orleans with the proceeds.

Thus Emperor Long will have a radio station over which he will be able to talk unchecked and uncensored.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

BIG-TIME oil men were greatly disturbed by the Supreme court decision that federal control under the Recovery act is illegal. They had no abiding affection for Mr. Ickes or his methods but the alternatives that now confront them are even less pleasing. The outlook is either for legislation declaring the oil industry a public utility and subjecting it to far more rigid control than before or for a price war that might breed extreme chaos.

The situation is squarely up to the Texas Railroad commission at present. The only serious hot oil problem is in East Texas. If state authorities can keep it under control the price structure will be saved and federal authorities may be persuaded that the drastic legislation they have in mind isn't needed.

The commission is awake to the emergency and is evidently doing its best. But its enforcement record is none too glowing and illegal production has already jumped a mile since the court ruling. The big fellows would be glad to lend a hand but there's little they can do.

The small independents—whose interest lies in maximum output—are harder to pin down than a flea on an elephant's back. If their present pace isn't checked prices are likely to hit the sub-cellar before the federal government can organize a rescue expedition.

WARNING: Conservatives in other lines aren't whooping it up for the oil decision as you might expect. They cherish no illusions that it knocks the principle of federal regulation by NRA on the head.

Instead they rate it chiefly as a warning to Congress (and the White House) to frame future New Deal laws in more precise language—a warning they believe will be heeded. This adds to the tensity of the forthcoming argument between industry and labor over the rephrasing of Section 7A. It's a safe bet that its convenient vagueness will be changed to a clear-cut definition of what collective bargaining implies. It will make a whale of a difference whether the essence of that definition upholds majority rule or proportional representation.

BANKS: Officials of large New York banks found this year's stockholders' meetings as peaceful as a South Sea lagoon compared to the lively sessions of 1934. Comparatively few stockholders showed up and those that did showed no inclination to ask embarrassing questions. The fact that most banks increased their earnings in 1934 contributed to the mellow atmosphere.

Leading bankers here and officers of the American Bankers' association are sincere in promoting friendly relations with Washington. They are having their troubles keeping some of the country cousins—who still don't like the New Deal and want to tell the world about it—from busting into print with criticisms which might blast the prevailing harmony to shreds.

TOUCHY: New York is nervous about Senator Wheeler. He isn't expected to get anywhere with his plan to whittle big corporations into little ones with a graduated tax on capital at this session of Congress. But conservatives are afraid he's planting seeds in the popular mind which are likely to sprout later into potent political pressure. Some stalwarts favor giving him all the silver legislation he wants if it will only keep him quiet on this touchy topic.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE FIRE PLANT

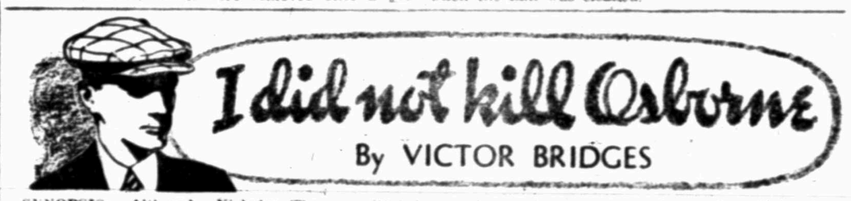
The seeds of the Black Wattle tree, (whose Latin name is Acacia Mollissima, meaning the Softest Acacia also Acacia Decurrens) are covered by an outer shell so hard that it requires the adoption of extreme measures before it will burst and permit the embryo to expand and start the young plant. Ordinary rain permeating the soil will be of no avail even after the seed had been imbedded for a number of years. Sometimes it is necessary to boil the seeds in hot water before they will crack or soften. But the most effectual natural means to effect their germination are bush fires, following which thousands of young plants will spring up in the ashes.

The Wattle is indigenous to Southern Australia and is highly valued for its bark which is rich in tannin, used by tanners.

FINGER NAIL OF 33 INCHES

Prior to the overthrow of the Manchu Dynasty and the establishment of the Chinese Republic high caste Chinese considered manual labor to be a disgrace.

To avoid being ranked with the toiling classes the Chinese gentleman and lady cultivated their fingernails with a determination which appears incredible to a European. Ladies usually sported fingernails a foot long. But the subject of my cartoon, who was a nobleman of Soochow, seems to have established a record. When he was admitted to the Soochow Hospital for treatment in 1912, the length of the nail of his ring finger was measured and found to be 33 inches long. The nail of the little finger measured 15 inches. Forty-four years of the most careful cultivation were behind this achievement. The nails were sheathed in long bamboo thimbles, which were removed once a year when the nail was cleaned.



SYNOPSIS: Although Nicholas Trench, the young sculptor, has been acquitted of the charge of murdering his old schoolfellow Osborne, he feels that the general public may not agree with the verdict. He has gone to see his cousin, Sir Seymour, and Sir Seymour has made it clear that the trial may materially affect Nicholas' prospects. The cousins are not too good friends.

Chapter Six
STORMY INTERVIEW

"What do you mean?" I asked. "Are you suggesting that people still think I'm guilty?"

"No, no." He raised his hand. "I don't go as far as that. I am merely pointing out to you, in your own interest, Nicholas, that if you attempt to resume your former life you must be prepared to encounter a good deal of unpleasantness."

I thought of the young man in the teashop. "It wouldn't surprise me," I observed. "As Cresswell says, there are always a certain number of fools about who enjoy being malicious."

Seymour moved uncomfortably in his chair. "I am afraid that things are even more difficult than you imagine. It is very painful for me to have to tell you so, but the general attitude amongst—well, amongst people who really matter — is such that any successful career for you in this country will be practically out of the question."

I put down my glass. "Whom are you referring to?" I inquired. "The Prime Minister and the Archbishop of Canterbury?"

"I am speaking in absolute seriousness. I had an interview yesterday with Lord Redland, who, as you know, is chairman of the Royal United Arts. He was very upset about it all, and as considerate as he could possibly be, but he assured me that, in view of the feeling in the club, it was absolutely essential that you should send in your resignation. Otherwise the committee will expel you."

"Indeed!" I said slowly. "And what do you propose to do about it? You put me up: in fact, you insisted upon my joining the place."

He shrugged his shoulders. "My dear Nicholas—what can I do? As a member of the Government, I possess a certain amount of influence, but ..."

"But you naturally don't wish to exercise it on behalf of a discredited relation?" I helped myself to a cigaret from a box on the table. "Well, as far as I'm concerned," I added, "the Royal United Arts can go to the devil. I don't care in the least whether they expel me or not. You can tell Redland so, with my compliments."

"It is useless to take that line. The committee have only acted as any responsible public body would have been compelled to do in the circumstances. I have been informed for instance, on the best authority, that although the design you submitted to the Board of Works was regarded as exceptionally clever, there is not the smallest chance of your being offered the commission. If such a thing were even suggested there would be protests from all over the country."

I laughed a trifle bitterly. "I expect there would," I said. "What the public really appreciate is something like the Albert Memorial."

"I am afraid that it's hardly an occasion for joking." He got up from his chair and walked over to the hearth-rug. "For your own sake I implore you to listen to reason. No one in your position can afford to set himself up against public opinion. I warn you that if you attempt to do so the results will be disastrous. All your respectable friends will cut you, you will get no work, and you will be unable to earn a living. In six months time, when it is too late, you will be cursing yourself for not having accepted my advice."

I looked at him thoughtfully. This outburst of eloquence was so foreign to his character that I couldn't help wondering what lay behind it.

"Well, let's hear your advice," I said. "So far you've done nothing but prophesy."

He came back to his former seat. "There is only one thing to be done. You must leave England and make a fresh start in some other country. After all, you are still quite young and abilities such as yours are bound to bring you to the front. Here it would be quite hopeless for

Lions Addressed By AAA Speaker

Lubbock Lions club, meeting at Hilton hotel yesterday, heard outlined some of the activities of the Agricultural Adjustment administration.

The speaker was Francis Flood, Washington, D. C., a field representative of the AAA, who was a guest of County Agent P. T. Montfort.

Paul Sherrod, chairman of the constitution and by-laws committee, was in charge of the program.

In North Dakota, said Mr. Flood, wheat checks from the AAA to farmers, amounted to more than the total collection of taxes by the state, counties and other groups. In South Dakota, the government's wheat checks were 16 times greater than the value of the wheat crop, which was only $300,000.

The South, he pointed out, in a recent seven-year period, exported more cotton when the price was above 10 cents a pound than it did when the price was below that figure. In 1933, he said, cotton exports amounted to 6,500,000 bales, valued at around $300,000,000, while in 1934, exports of 4,500,000 bales were valued at approximately the same figure.

Rev. Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, Methodist pastor, made his first appearance before the club as a speaker. Taking as his subject, "Measuring Ourselves." Referend Lipscomb said when a new man came into a town or community, he was generally subjected to questioning as to "Where were you born?" "What do you know?" and "What are you worth?" Man measures himself by three things, the speaker declared: 1—his dreams; 2—his devotion; 3—his duties.

Cardui Brought Improvement

Because she was subject to pains, nervousness, irregularity, and began to feel so weak, Mrs. Retta McDonald, of Stearns, Ky., began to take Cardui. She writes: "Cardui is fine. I could see an improvement right off. I took about eight bottles. I am lots better. I am over the weakness and my head and back do not bother me now."

Resistance to monthly pains is naturally increased, bringing relief, as strength of the whole system is built up. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. ADV.—

TARZAN AND THE GOLDEN LION, No. 21

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Upon the crumbling outer wall of the ruined city of Opar stood a lone figure. Tarzan, Jane Clayton and their black Waziri were the only strangers that the denizens of Opar had ever seen within their valley. Only in half-forgotten legends of a bygone past was there any suggestion that strangers other than these had ever visited Opar. Yet from time immemorial a guard had always remained upon the summit of the outer wall.

Down through the ages the race had deteriorated and finally through occasional matings with the great apes, the men had become the beast-like things they were. Yet through some strange freak of nature, the women of Opar were straight, well-formed, often of comely, even beautiful features. Typical of the men was this lone watcher, short, stocky, and with matted hair. His low, receding forehead, small close-set eyes and fang-like teeth bore evidence of his monkey ancestry as did his short crooked legs and long, muscular ape-like arms.

As his wicked eyes watched the progress of the party across the valley, low growls issuing from his throat gave evidence of his growing excitement. Descending the wall, he passed at a rapid trot across the broad avenue beyond, and disappeared within a crumbling but still magnificent temple. Cadj, the High Priest of Opar, squatted beneath the shade of the giant trees which now overgrew what had once been one of the gardens of the ancient temple. With Cadj, were a dozen members of the lesser priesthood, his intimate cronies.

All showed much concern as the breathless guard came among them and cried: "Strange men descend upon Opar—fifty of them at least, still a great distance away!" All waited for Cadj to speak. "It has been many moons since the great Tarmangani who called himself Tarzan of the Apes was among us," spoke Cadj solemnly. "He promised to return to see that no harm befell LA. But return he has not and the High Priestess believes him dead. Come, we will go and see who it is dares enter forbidden Opar!"

...ou, but in America or France—I am assuming, of course, that you will change your name—I see no reason why you shouldn't build yourself up a most successful career. If you are willing to adopt this suggestion I, for my part, am ready to assist you."

In a sudden illuminating flash I perceived clearly enough what Seymour was driving at. All he really wanted was a definite assurance that I would disappear. Provided I was safely out of the way the scandal and gossip aroused by my trial would soon begin to die down, and in a little while the unfortunate fact that I was first cousin to a rising and ambitious politician would have faded conveniently from the public memory. For a moment I was almost too amused to be angry.

"How do you propose to assist me?" I inquired.

"In the way which will be most useful. I don't know exactly how you are situated, but I should imagine that most of the capital you have will be swallowed up by the costs of your defense. Well, I am not a rich man—far from it—but at the same time I am prepared to act as generously as I can. If you will be sensible enough to do as I suggest I will send Cresswell a cheque for the whole of your legal expenses. The only stipulation I make is that in order to give yourself a fair chance you will—er—abandon the name of French and leave England at once."

I fought back a sudden intense longing to kick him round the room.

"You've quite finished?" I inquired pleasantly. "You're sure there's nothing else you want to say?"

He shook his head. "I think that covers everything."

"Well, I don't!" I threw the stump of my cigaret into the fireplace and rose to my feet. "I always thought you were a pompous snob, but I did at least give you the credit of imagining that you might have some small traces of decency and courage. I've been dragged into this hideous mess through no fault of my own, and at the very time when I'm most in need of a little help and sympathy, all you can think about is your own blasted convenience."

Thomas Hitchcock Is Moved Down To Nine Goal Rating

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP) — The United States Polo association today ratified a drastic shakeup in the national handicap list, including removal of Thomas Hitchcock, jr., the famous internationalist, from the maximum 10-goal rating for the first time in ## years.

The handicaps of two Western stars, Cecil Smith and Elmer J. Boeseke, jr., who shared the 10-goal honors with Hitchcock in 1934, also were reduced in one of the most sweeping revisions ever made in the ranking list. Smith and Hitchcock, each dropped to nine goals, now share the top with Winston Guest, who was elevated from eight goals on the strength of his play with the victorious East team in last season's East-West matches. Boeseke's handicap has been cut to eight goals.

The association's action leaves the polo world without a single ten-goal player and marks the first time since 1916 that America has not had at least one man with the maximum handicap. This country's high-goal players, however, still dominate the international list. Only one other polo star, the Nawab of Bhopal, an Indian potentate, is rated as high as nine goals.

Besides cutting down Smith and Boeseke, the association dropped Eric Pedley, California star and H. W. (Rube) Williams, the Texas veteran, from eight to seven goals each.

Although taking no definite action on the subjects of renewing the East-West matches, which have featured the last two seasons, the association indicated it favored dropping the international rivalry for at least a year so as to concentrate on making the national open champion at Meadow Brook the 1935 headline affair.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY FRANK MACMILLEN
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—The dollar swirled higher in U. S. trading foreign exchange market today as financial quarters here and abroad again experienced misgivings over the coming supreme court decision on the legality of the gold clause.

Stocks, leading grains and commodities and most secondary bonds responded with sharp setbacks, only partially compensated by modest recoveries at the close.

Gold and silver mining shares were the first and severest sufferers, with losses of from 1 to 4 or 5 points each, while high-priced issues in this group dropped even more. Homestake, at 360, lost 28 points, and was about ten points worse than that at its lowest.

French francs, the principal gold currency, receded to 6.48 1-2 cents at their low, and closed at 6.56 1-8, substantially below the point at which it is profitable to ship gold to the United States from Paris. The disturbed condition of the market made exchange more cautious, however, and no engagements of metal for import had been made so far as could be learned.

Although declines in leading trading stocks were substantial at times, the list as a whole was not under pressure. The Associated Press average for 60 selected stocks decline 1.08 points to 38.46 and the turnover amounted to 1,378,910 shares.

The bond market refused to be stampeded by the prevailing uneasiness. Most prime investment issues were steady to a shade better, along with federal government obligations which improved from 1-32 to 9-32 each.

Leading grains lost 2 3-4 to 4 cents a bushel, and cotton was down 45 to 75 cents a bale, while futures in the lesser grains, metals and foodstuffs practically all netted declines for the day.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15. (AP)—The cotton market was decidedly active today but prices developed a sharp decline due to weakness in foreign exchange, hedge selling and liquidation induced by declines in stocks and grain and uneasiness as to the forthcoming decision of the supreme court in the gold case. Stop loss orders developed on the scale down. After starting steady and a shade up prices later declined 22 to 31 points from the highs but rallied 5 to 6 points on the end on covering and some recovery in sterling. The market closed steady at the decline with prices showing net losses for the day of 14 to 17 points.

March closed at 12.35, down 14 points net for the day, May at 12.48 and July at 12.41, both months 16 points net down. October closed at 12.25, down 17 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 6 to 6 penny points down.

Port receipts 16,307, for week 38,682, for season 3,886,233, last season 5,904,327. Exports 17,702, for week 54,932, for season 2,994,643, last season 4,483,158. Port stock 1,007,582, last year 3,061,373. Combined shipboard stocks at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 84,302, last year 134,043. Spot sales at southern markets 11,107, last year 18,984.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 15. (AP)—A decline of about $1 a bale in cotton today was attributed to nervousness over the gold situation combined with weakness in foreign exchange, stocks, and the grain markets. Final prices were a little above the low, the market closing steady at net declines of 9 to 15 points.

Liquidation became more active as prices worked into new low ground for the movement. Stop orders were uncovered on the break which extended to 12.27 for March and 12.22 for July, making net losses of 14 to 21 points on the active positions.

After their execution pressure subsided and prices rallied partially on trade buying and covering.

Exports today 16,788 making 2,742,182 so far this season. Port receipts 16,307. U. S. port stocks 2,963,237.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 15. (AP)—Receipts of 35,000 cattle at 11 midwestern markets were little changed compared with total supplies the same day a year ago. Monday's levels were maintained on the better grade of steers and yearlings while the lower grade which has shown the maximum upturn recently suffered a loss of around 25 with instances of a further decline at Chicago. Good choice heifers and mixed yearlings went unchanged but short feds ruled steady to lower in a slow trade. Cows were generally steady to weak except at Chicago where all grades cashed weak to 25 off. Stockers and feeders again were taken readily at firm figures. Strictly choice medium weight steers scored 12.15 at Chicago. Another new high mark with choice heifers up to 10.25. At Kansas City best yearling stockers made 7.00.

A total of 70,000 hogs compares with 118,227 the same day last year. A narrow outside demand and a setback in fresh pork prices at eastern centers resulted in a continuation of the recent decline in live hogs. Generally 10 to 25 lower rates prevailed with 180-lb. weights and above closing at a further loss at some places. A top of 7.95 at St. Louis was the circuit's best price.

Fat lambs ruled weak to mostly 15 to 25 lower. Sheep and feeding lambs moved a strong to 25 figures with occasional sales of feeders 25 to 40 up. At Chicago choice native lambs reached 9.75.

Colquitt and resulted from personal friendship between Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Colquitt.

Despite the lack of food the Allreds appeared happy in their new surroundings.

Young Jimmie, jr., 5, undoubtedly was happiest of all. When the official party arrived at the mansion "Jim-Boy's" tricycle was on the porch. He broke away from the group and streaked for his treasured possession and rode gaily up and down the spacious mansion walk.

He again reached the heights of youthful enthusiasm when Company K, 143rd Texas infantry and the 243rd infantry band, their colors flying brightly in the strong breeze, marched from the capitol to the mansion grounds and maneuvered into a guard of honor before the house.

Grains

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP) — Grain prices collapsed today under a flood of liquidation inspired primarily by fear that supreme court decision on the pending case involving constitutionality of gold clause abrogation might disturb the market structure.

Wheat nose dived around four cents to the lowest point in almost three months as traders dumped holdings in sympathy with acute weakness abroad, particularly at Winnipeg. Other grains dropped accordingly, corn losing as much as four cents, oats two cents and rye around four cents.

New low records for the season were established in July and September wheat, September corn and all rye deliveries. Stop loss selling filled the pits with offerings after midsession. May and September corn contracts at one time were within 1-8 cent of the maximum loss permitted in one day by trading rules.

Mild rallies from bottom levels occurred before the final bell but most contracts closed near the day's low point. Wheat finished 2 3-4 to 2 7-8 cents below Monday's close, May 95@95 1-4, and corn was 2 1-2 to 4 cents off, May 84 1-2@84 5-8. May wheat was 22 cents below the season's high and more than six cents below the price a week ago.

A break in cash corn premiums, lower hog prices and a private estimate of 400,000,000 bushels exportable surplus for Argentina were bearish influences on corn prices.

Provisions fell with grains, bellies breaking 50 cents, the maximum decline permitted for one day by exchange rules.

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Jan. 15. (AP)—Demand for grain was slow at Fort Worth Tuesday. Receipts were estimated as only 12 cars wheat and 2 of corn. Prices largely followed the decline of contract markets. Quotations:

pardons and paroles and would not act on any clemency application without advice of the board. Allred announced this policy during his primary campaign.

Crime Attacked

Much of Allred's inaugural address was devoted to an attack on crime conditions in Texas.

During the campaign, Governor Allred was a bitter critic of the pardon policy of former governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

More than 400 acts of clemency were filed by Mrs. Ferguson during the closing weeks of her administration.

Kidnap Trial

rust even though exposed to the elements for weeks.

The defense had made much of the testimony that the thumbguard, when found by Nurse Betty Gow in the Lindbergh roadway at Hopewell a month after the kidnaping, was "bright and shiny."

Important Link

Prosecutors contended the kidnaper dropped it there when he allegedly ripped the sleeping suit from the slain baby's body the blustery night of March 1, 1932.

The state considers the abandoned thumbguard an important link in its charge that Hauptmann killed the baby when he fell from a ladder while descending from the child's nursery.

The handwriting experts were John F. Tyrell of Milwaukee and Herbert J. Walter of Chicago.

Penmanship Questioned

Fisch's name was brought directly into the cross-examination of Walter after defense counsel had sought to lay the groundwork for its theory that the furrier wrote the ransom notes in questions asked both experts.

Walter was handed a letter and Egbert Rosecrans, defense counsel, asked him if the writer was "a good penman."

Foreign Witnesses Arrive

The witness said he was "pretty good" and Rosecrans asked if he noted that "it is the handwriting of Isador Fisch."

"I see a name 'Isador' and below, 'I. Fisch, Elipsig,' in the lower left corner," said Walter.

The German witnesses are Isador's brother, Pinchus; his sister, Hannah; Pincus' wife, Caerna, and Minna Stegnitiz, the nurse who was with the frail furrier when he died in Germany last March.

To Bolster State Case

With associates of the little man and others who knew him in this country they will be ready to bolster the state's contention that Fisch was innocent.

"We are prepared to tell Fisch's life from 'A' to 'Z'," said one of the prosecution staff, "and show he had no connection with the kidnaping."

However, Attorney General David T. Wilentz declined to discuss the German relatives or to say where they will stay prior to their testimony—probably on state's rebuttal at the close of the trial.

Landing Is Shrouded

They were slipped aboard the coast guard cutter Raritan just as the liner dropped anchor at quarantine. Customs and immigration officials who met the ship gave them a quick examination and release.

Setting a course for Brooklyn, the cutter landed the party at a pier on that shore. Transferred quickly to a motor car, the witnesses were driven away to an unannounced destination.

Germans Keep To Selves

Throughout the voyage, passengers said, the four were shielded from contact with other persons by Detective Johnson. They ate at secluded tables and talked only in German, avoiding any deck conversation.

When the witnesses were taken aboard the cutter the women rushed down the improvised gangplank and into the Raritan's cabin, shielding their faces.

A burly detective, carrying a brief case, followed. Pincus Fisch, also hiding his face in the collar of his coat, brought up the rear.

Witnesses In Hiding

Late in the afternoon Detective Johnson, in charge of the witnesses, arrived in court and took a seat next to Lindbergh. The German witnesses were nowhere in evidence.

Another witness from the state may use in its expose of what it calls the "Fisch myth" is Louis Blitzer, New York attorney.

Claim Alibi Laid

Blitzer said Hauptmann came to him last June, three months before his arrest, and sought entry to Fisch's safe deposit box, claiming his former business associate had gone to Germany owing him $14,000. Blitzer, a lodge brother of Fisch, said he knew nothing of such a box.

The prosecutors indicated they believed Hauptmann was attempting to build up an alibi at that time. When arrested, he said he had found something more than $14,000 in ransom bills in the shoebox Fisch left him.

Other Developments

Other developments outside the court today:

At York, Pa., Arthur P. Myers, who with Samuel C. Malone quit the defense staff of handwriting experts, declared the action was taken "because our findings were not favorable to the defense."

The New Jersey state senate, moving to preclude any possibility of a mistrial, hastened confirmation of the appointment of Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, presiding at the Hauptmann trial. His present term expires Saturday.

May Favor Carpenter

The appellate division of supreme court in Brooklyn, although reserving decision on the appeal of Hauptmann's attorneys for access to data, indicated it would favor the Bronx carpenter. The data now is in the hands of James W. Fawcett, former attorney for Hauptmann, who retained it as security for counsel fee payment on a supreme court order.

Presidential Message On World Court Is Promised

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15. (AP) — A White House promise of a special presidential message to the senate tomorrow on the world court was cheered tonight by proponents of American adherence as virtually assuring the success of their drive.

Debate began today with Senator Robinson, the administration leader, challenging the opposition to bring forward a better plan for settlement of international disputes.

force the law.

Asks Cooperation

"If they fail to do so, I want you and your representatives and senators to back me up in the performance of my duty. I pledge the good officers and decent citizenship of Texas that once these law violators are behind prison doors they will receive clemency only when entitled to it, based on merit, and merit alone."

While deploring that thousands were on relief rolls in Texas, Allred said the people had nothing to fear, and already were facing a new cycle of progress. By public works projects, old age pensions, soil erosion prevention and other means, he proposed to work closely with the federal government in easing economic distress.

Signature Is Affixed

His first official act, after being rushed to the governor's suite under the watchful protection of state highway patrolmen, was to sign a receipt for $1,500,000 in federal funds, making it available for state relief.

Mrs. Ferguson, voluntarily retiring after her second term as governor, had no part in the program other than to witness the ceremonies. As she came on the platform in the official procession, she and her husband, former Governor James E. Ferguson, were warmly greeted by Allred, although they had been strong political antagonists.

Mr. And Mrs. Ferguson Retire

Immediately after the ceremonies, Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson went to their home in a suburb, while Mr. Allred, with his family and relatives, entered the governor's mansion, two blocks away.

For the Fergusons the occasion meant their probable retirement from office-holding in Texas, although they had said they would continue an active interest in politics.

Fourth Such Move

It was the fourth time they had moved out of the Texas "White House." Twice-elected governor, "Farmer Jim's" second term was cut short by impeachment. Mrs. Ferguson was elected in 1924, defeated for re-election in 1926 and again elected two years ago.

Allred, 36, is the second youngest governor in the history of Texas. Dan Moody, who could not attend Allred's inauguration because of a trial at Menard, was 33 when inaugurated.

Roar Rocks Hill

Promptly at noon, a roar of greeting rocked Capitol hill as Associate Justice William Pierson of the Texas supreme court led the procession of dignitaries out of the main capitol entrance. Under the crossed swords of the Ross Volunteers, crack drill unit from the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, the procession advanced.

Mr. Allred escorted Mrs. Ferguson and Dick Waters, Allred's close friend, accompanied Mrs. Allred. Mr. Ferguson followed with former Gov. W. P. Hobby. Other former governors present were in line.

Woodul Takes Oath

The great assemblage heard an invocation. Then Speaker Stevenson officially announced Walter Woodul had been elected lieutenant-governor, and, after a brief introduction by Witt, Woodul was administered the oath. Speaking briefly, Woodul pledged cooperation with the new administration.

Senator Kin Regan presented Senator Tom Deberry, who introduced Allred. There was tense silence as Deberry turned to Allred, and then cheers as Allred arose. Allred stood silently until the demonstration subsided.

Smyer School Program Given

Producing Quality Cream Is Subject Of Tech Vocational Agriculture Trainers And Good Crowd Attends

"Producing Quality Cream on the Farm," was the subject of a community program given Monday night in the Smyer school in eastern Hockley county by a group of vocational agriculture trainers of the division of agriculture at Texas Tech. The program was one of a series that has been going since December.

K. M. Renner, head of the department of dairy manufacturing at Tech, spoke on the subject. He said that "Since the quality cream program has come into effect in Texas the quality of cream has been raised 15 per cent above former levels. Farmers have received approximately three cents per pound of butterfat more for their cream."

Play Is Presented

Claude Brown and Guy Bratcher, students in the department, presented a play, "Producing Quality Cream," written by Mr. Renner and dealing with the problem of producing a higher grade of cream.

Marshall Howard acted as chairman of the meeting. He introduced J. P. Smith who gave a preface to a discussion on "How Can We Afford to Feed Dairy Cattle in 1935?" which will be given Monday night, January 21.

Average Attendance 28

An average attendance of 28 has been reported by the meetings, which began in December. The school was established by C. Luker, vocational agriculture supervisor at Tech to give students in that subject direct contact with farmers in a discussion of their problems.

Some of the regular attendants at the evening schools have been: Superintendent of Schools Davis, O. L. Davis, Less Davis, Roy Campbell, J. B. Forbes, A. Milton, R. L. Curtis, Harley Woods, W. W. Scott, J. W. Kearney and L. M. Dawson Other attendants from Tech include: C. Luker, K. M. Renner and Arthur Prichard.

Not Even Last Day As Governor Of Texas Is Serene For Mrs. Ferguson

DALLAS, Jan. 15. (AP)—Pictured as "the moral dictator for the people," Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, retiring today as governor of Texas, refused comment on allegations in a $175,000 damage suit filed here charging her and James E. Ferguson, her husband-adviser, with defamation of a slain woman's character.

Relatives of Mrs. Pearl Hall, deceased, alleged language of a proclamation pardoning Mrs. Mary Boone of Dallas from a five-year sentence imposed for the slaying of Mrs. Hall, formed the basis of the suit.

The mother, brother and sister of the deceased, Mrs. E. Singletary, F. L. Singletary, and Minnie B. Singletary, all of Rusk county, and O. L. Fewell, and Mrs. O. L. Fewell of Dallas, were listed as plaintiffs.

Language in the proclamation was slanderous and libelous, the plaintiffs charged.

Mrs. Hall was slain in November, 1933. Mrs. Boone never entered the state prison on the five year sentence, furloughs having been granted before the outright pardon.

Bucholic Adoption At McAdoo Has For Principals Bovine And Lamb

McADOO, Jan. 15. (Special)—Her own calf dead, a 2-year-old Jersey cow owned by John H. Johnson adopted a 2-month-old lamb.

That was about four months ago. Now the two animals seemingly are as fond of each other as any cow and calf.

Mr. Johnson said the young cow always was willing to protect the lamb from a dog or any other animal which might harm the sheep.

Soon after the calf—the heifer's first—died, the lamb began bedding down with the cow.

"Now," continued the farmer, "the lamb follows her about like a calf. She thinks as much of it, I guess, as if it were her own. Once she was turned into the pasture without the lamb. When she noticed it was missing, she returned at once to the barn-lot, bawling for all she was worth."

Thompson To Be Advanced To Rail Commission Chairman

AUSTIN, Jan. 15. (AP)—E. O. Thompson, junior member of the Texas Railroad commission, will advance automatically today to chairman when Lon A. Smith, re-elected, takes the oath of office.

Thompson, however, was in Washington. Smith, who has been chairman two years, said he would continue to act in that capacity until Thompson's return, expected within a few days.

Judge O. S. Lattimore of the court of criminal appeals will administer the oath to Smith, who has served ten years.

Superior Court Judge Orders Cusack Children Returned To Their Father

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15. (AP)—Mrs. Ann Hamilton Cusack, who left California during the Christmas holidays with her children and was pursued into Texas by her husband, Charles Edmund Cusack, was ordered today by Superior Judge Isaac Pacht to surrender their three sons to Cusack.

Cusack, member of a prominent Chicago family, petitioned for custody of the children, who had previously been awarded to Mrs. Cusack after the couple had instituted divorce action which was denied.

Judge Pacht revoked his previous order giving the children to Mrs. Cusack and sharply criticized her. The boys are Charles, jr., 9, Thornton, 7, and Leroy, 5.

Judge Pacht read a telegram from Mrs. Cusack, sent from Cuero, Tex., which said she was "powerless to appear" in court here. He had previously ordered that the children should not be removed from the state.

The hearing today opened with testimony by Mary B. Stone, formerly employed in the Cusack home, who said she had to leave Mrs. Cusack's employ because Mrs. Cusack was cruel, drank heavily, and whipped the three boys.

The wire which Judge Pacht read from Mrs. Cusack follows:

"Unbearable persecution of all by their father, the children and I left California Dec. 15 last without your knowledge and consent. Dec. 26 the DeWitt county district court assumed jurisdiction over the children, enjoining their parents from taking action anywhere affecting the children's custody without the court's order. Consequently, intending no disrespect toward California court's proceedings, I am powerless to appear or to be represented in your court."

Joseph Scott, attorney for Cusack, immediately asked Judge Pacht to hold Mrs. Cusack in contempt of court.

"The court specifically ordered that the children should not be taken from the state. This is plainly a conspiracy of Mrs. Cusack and her mother, Mrs. Mary Agnes Hamilton, to spirit the children from the jurisdiction of this court," said Judge Pacht.

"This is more than a mere matter of custody. If the state of Texas does not recognize the order of this court in a sister state, I advise the husband to take this matter into the federal courts."

Cecil Fox Has A Red Fox And So—

SPUR, Jan. 15. (Special) — A red fox, rare in this region, was caught in a steel trap recently by Leonard Ward at his farm 20 miles southwest of Spur. Ward had been losing chickens.

Ward gave the fox, a male, to Cecil Fox of Spur, who already had a gray fox, also a male, among several captive animals kept in cages. Fox, an amateur taxidermist, said he intended to mount the red fox.

Lockney Man And Son Robbed While En Route To Home

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 15. (Special)—Two men held up W. H. Rexrode and his son, Jewel, who reside 10 miles north of Lockney, in Floyd county, as the two men were enroute home from church services at Sterley Sunday night. Loot amounted to $44 from the elder Rexrode, and $20 from the son.

When the family stopped the car 300 yards from home, to open a gate, two men sprang out from weeds nearby and, at the point of guns, ordered the family to get out. Mrs. Rexrode did not have any money in her purse and a daughter hid $18. The pair disabled the Rexrode car and then fled in a waiting auto.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 15. (AP)—A payless payday confronted all New Orleans city employes today because of the controversy between Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley and Senator Huey P. Long.
