Eagles Win First Round of Regional

The Samnorwood Eagles, winners of the district 12-B Basketball crown, took the first game of regional play from the Mobeetie team Monday night, February 21, by a 55 to 44 score.

Under the class B setup, the Eagles will continue regional play at Canyon Friday night, February 25, at 8:30 p. m. They do not yet know their opponent, according to Coach Purl Tippie, whose team won the district championship for the seventh consecutive year.

The Samnorwood Eaglettes, coached by Judson Williams and also district winners in the girls division, play their first game in the regional competition Monday at McLean against Wheeler.

The Samnorwood-Mobeetie game also was in McLean, a neutral court.

The Eagles led during the entire game, although their opponents played some good ball and scored good shots, Coach Tippie said. The Norwood boys put on one of the best floor games of the season with excellent handling of the ball. Their defensive play, too, was up to par.

Coach Tippie's team this year is the smallest he has coached at Norwood, averaging about 5 feet, 10 inches, and on the whole shorter than the Mobeetie boys whom they defeated.

Irrigation Specialist Here
For Meeting Saturday

One of the outstanding irrigation specialists of the nation, Dr. John Shrunck, whose headquarters are in Denver, Colorado, will be in Wellington Saturday, February 26, to hold an irrigation meeting and clinic for farmers of Collingsworth County and the surrounding vicinity.

He is sponsored here by the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District, according to Tom Cunningham of Samnorwood, a member of the board of supervisors, who will preside.

The meeting will begin at 10:00 a. m. There will be time out for lunch, then the session will resume and continue as long as Collingsworth farmers and ranchers interested in irrigation want it to.

It will be held in the district court room.

"We are bringing a man as distinguished in the development of irrigation as Dr. Shrunck because we feel that irrigation is the most important thing that has happened to Collingsworth County in years," Cunningham declared.

Former dean of agriculture at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Dr. Shrunck is now head of irrigation engineering for a private company.

He is recognized as one of the top sprinkler irrigation specialists in the United States and has just finished laying out a system for President Eisenhower's farm at Gettysburg, Penna.

In addition to his work with the Ireco Company, he also teaches short courses on irrigation in colleges throughout the United States. He will finish a 2-weeks short course at Oklahoma A&M Friday before coming here Saturday.

It was Dr. Shrunck who designed the specifications for sprinkler irrigation for the Farmers Home Administration Loan program.

Collingsworth farmers are being urged to attend and bring with them their problems on irrigation and any questions they may have in mind. The purpose of the meeting is to get information in the hands of those that need and want it—the farmers, Cunningham declared.

Common Sense On Redistricting

The Constitution of the United States provides for congressional reapportioning after each decennial census, leaving to the states the basis of representation "in such manner as they shall by law direct." Texas redistricts by statute, but there is nothing in Texas law to make the operation mandatory. The last regrouping of counties into congressional districts occurred in 1933. Texas did not gain in number of Representatives after the 1940 census, but the shift of population had already made the 1933 redistricting top heavy in spots. The gain of a Representative in 1950 and the remarkable population drift has so aggravated the situation that action is imperative now. (The surplus Representative has been elected at large in both 1952 and 1954.)

There are several bills pending in the current Legislature which offer redistricting plans. But there were such bills in the 53rd Legislature which failed of passage and there is no reason to suppose any measure will fare better now.

House Bill 2, which by exceptional procedure was sent to the floor with committee blessings Wednesday, offers a common-sense solution to the usual problem which confronts redistricting. In case the Legislature fails to redistrict in the session following the decennial census, the job will be done by a board under the terms of this measure.

To go back a bit in history, legislative redistricting was stymied as frequently as congressional up to 1948 when a new amendment was written into the State Constitution. This applied constitutionally to the Legislature the same plan now offered by statute for Congress. It was a foregone conclusion that the Legislature would prefer to do its own redistricting and it has. Similarly, if House Bill 2 becomes law, there will be no longer delay in dividing up congressionally.

Reasons for unjustified delay on both propositions in the past are not far to seek. Constitutions and statutes reason in terms of impersonal theory and ideals. Politics reasons in highly personal terms of individuals. Redistricting by its very nature affects materially individual political fortunes. There is always much pressure to preserve the status quo, even when this no longer represents fairness to the electorate.

Of course, if you provided that all State Senators and Representatives should be shot at sunrise on the morning following a session adjournment without redistricting, that would be effective, too. But the constitutional provision as to the state offices has worked as well that drastic supposition. So let's get House Bill 2 on the statute books.

Newspaper Records Life

When she renewed her subscription recently, a woman who has lived in this valley more than half a century enclosed a brief note thanking The News "for all that your paper has contributed to my life." She wrote:

"I have many fond memories of your newspaper and the people who have been connected with it. Not long ago when I was reading The Hermet News it occurred to me that in the files of your paper is the history of my life.

"Your paper recorded my birth, my childhood parties, my graduation from high school and later from college, my marriage, the arrival of each of my four children and the death of one of them—and now, in more recent years your columns have been recording the arrival, one by one of my grandchildren. I could go on indefinitely mentioning incidents in my life which have been 'written up' in The Hermet News. Is it any wonder that your paper means so much in our home and that we look forward eagerly to receiving it each week?"

Well, we suppose this woman's story is not much different than those that could be told by scores of other long-time Hermet News subscribers—but we think it was rather nice of her to write it and send it to us.

BIRTH OF AMERICAN ENTERPRISE

One day at Plymouth Colony, in 1623, something happened that ought to be enshrined in the memory of every American citizen, generation after generation. It was the beginning of the American economic system based on private ownership of property and individual responsibility. It would have begun sooner or later in America because the pilgrims and those who came before and after them coveted individual freedom. And the private ownership system is the only system that brings personal freedom.

When the 101 passengers and crew of 48 came ashore at Plymouth Rock from the Mayflower, their first action was to set up a colony of buildings to live in. In the center of the colony they built the "Common Storehouse". Then, following the provisions of the Mayflower Compact, they elected community officials for the purpose of maintaining order and a defense against the Indians. Parcels of land were assigned each colonist in the name of King James of England. All the produce from all these parcels went into the central storehouse. And from this storehouse equal shares of everything were doled out to the colonists.

A STAGNATING SYSTEM

This was communal living very much like the tribal communism of man's earliest days on earth—but with two structures of government, the self-imposed colony government, and the rigid code of action imposed by King James whose subjects the colonists were. For about a year the rugged communal life provided the bare needs. But some of the less industrious colonists began to shirk when they found that no matter how little they worked they still got an equal share from the storehouse.

In time, the hard working colonists rebelled at supporting these lazy ones; they, too, began to lean on their plows and sit in the tree shade at the edge of the field. Stores of foodstuffs dwindled. When Plymouth Colony was two years old, starvation threatened. No man could benefit by his own produce or feed his own family. It all had to go to the central storehouse; and when divided up equally, it would not sustain the Colony's life because there were too many shirkers.

THE CHANGE

The Colony leaders called a meeting. Their desperate plight was discussed. It was suggested that the parcels of land be given to each family and that each family have full ownership rights to all it produced. The lazy ones opposed this arrangement, but common sense and the strong impulse for individual freedom prevailed. Private ownership of property became the fundamental base of the new world's economic system. And with it came freedom.

The fields of Plymouth Colony blossomed. Women and children worked at planting and cultivating beside the man of the house. Men cut their timber, hewed the logs and built backyard workshops where they could make crude tools and manufacture furniture—for themselves, and for sale! In time a system of currency was developed to expedite exchange and commerce. Even some of the lazy colonists caught the spirit of enterprise and contributed to progress. At the autumn harvest of 1623, Governor William Bradford of Plymouth Colony proclaimed "Thanksgiving unto God".

FREEDOM'S ANCHORAGE

The solid anchorage of private ownership is the bulwark of freedom in America against which all brands of Welfare State advocates and all varieties of Socialists and Communists direct their most concentrated work. If they could dislodge this keystone they would thus strip our American people of their independence, their freedom, and a central authority dispensing some form of Socialism would take over.

Think a moment about your freedom. If your rights of ownership were taken away, the ownership would go to some form of government. Your home would not be yours. You would live in it subject to the will of the government. If the stores were owned by the government, you would buy what the government offered at the price fixed by the government. Americans will not vote themselves into such a situation with their eyes open. But with their eyes half open they can be fooled, and bit by bit the right of private ownership can be pulled gently away from them. We must examine carefully every move toward "public ownership" of anything. In most cases it carries civilization back toward the stagnation of primitive communism.

St. Paul's Sermon On Love Is Among the Finest

If we omit the sermons in the great parables of Jesus, perhaps the greatest of all Christian sermons in Saint Paul's discourse about love in the Thirteenth Chapter of I Corinthians.

It is a supreme example of brevity, preciseness and simplicity in the presentation of a sublime subject. The subject undoubtedly inspired in Paul the quality of his utterance; but if it were considered only for its style, apart from its theme, this chapter would be remarkable.

Although foreign writings often suffer in translation, the English translation of the original Greek has a balance and rhyme; a music that can feel as he reads it aloud.

Concerning the matter of translation, it definitely does enter into consideration of this wonderful sermon. Perhaps a majority of today's Biblical authorities admit that for the "charity" of the Authorized King James Version we should substitute the word "love", as in the latest "Revised Standard Version".

The same thought apparently applies to the translations of Weymouth, Ballantine, Moulton and Goodspeed.

On the other side of the question, some authorities make much of the various and confusing meanings of the word "love", while maintaining that "charity" has a simple and clear reference.

However, to one who wants sincerely to put Paul's great sermon into his life, the choice of words won't matter.

February 15, 1955

The Wellington Leader,
Hi Folks,

Sure we want to renew our subscription to the Wellington Leader. We don't think much about it until we miss an issue, then we wonder what is going on in Collingsworth County.

For instance, what community is getting the next Farm to Market Road. Will have to say our county judge and commissioners are doing a swell job on getting so many miles of Farm to Market Road, for which we are thankful.

There have been many changes in and around our little town of Wellington in the six years we have been away.

There have been many passed to the Great Beyond in the last six years and many new faces to take their places which takes real men and women to fill them.

We miss our many friends there, but we have many wonderful friends here.

May this be the most prosperous year, spiritually and financially, that Wellington, Collingsworth County, the state and nation has ever known is our sincere prayer.

German Band To Play at Kiwanis

Members are Cynthia Akin, trombone; Kern Pigg, cornet; Jonaquin Cecil and Molly Denley, clarinet; and Harvey Isaacs, sousaphone.

This type band gets its name from strolling bands of central Europe, often composed of out-of-work musicians, that may be seen playing on street corners for pennies from passers-by, Greenwood explained.

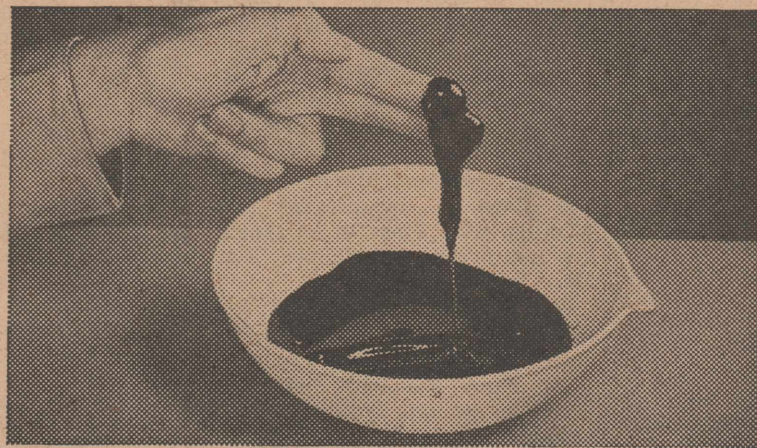

This explanation has brought a shower of small coins to the stage several times when the group has appeared at entertainments here. The members dress the part for their performances.

Because Gulf takes out "goo" like this...

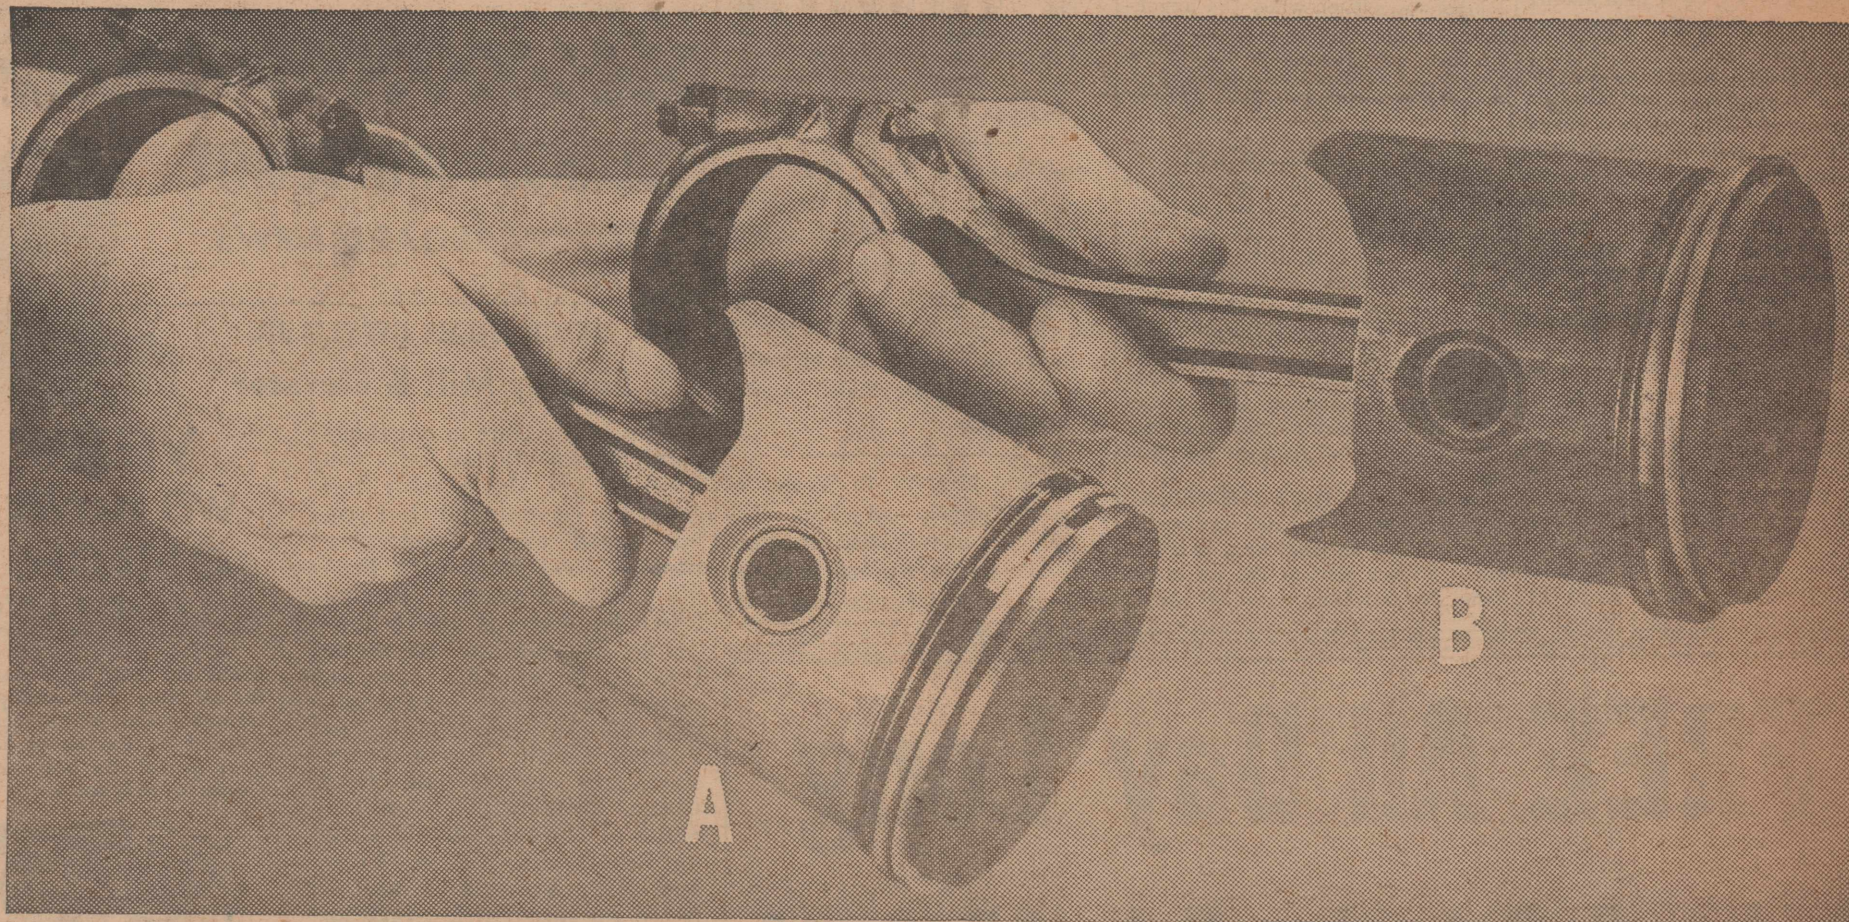

...your engine gets more "go"! This tar-like residue is what's left after evaporating a single gallon of "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline. There's at least this much in a tankful of ordinary gasoline.

1955 No-Nox burns clean like this...

This lamp test shows what a difference Gulf super-refining makes. Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—at the refinery—to bring you new, clean-burning Gulf NO-NOX.

...and protects your engine like this!

Compare clean piston "A" from engine using new NO-NOX with piston "B" from engine using the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline that Gulf refines out. Both pistons shown here, from Gulf test engines, ran the same number of hours under the same conditions.

what's more...No gasoline—no, not a single one—has higher octane than...

This is GULF'S PLEDGE to the motoring public

- We at Gulf make this promise to America's motorists. We will not permit a single competitor—no, not a single one—to offer a gasoline superior to our own superb No-Nox.
- It is our sincere belief that No-Nox is the finest gasoline on the market today, and no matter what others do or say we will keep it the finest—in power, in performance, in engine protection.
- This is not a boast, not a claim. It is a pledge to you, the motoring public—a pledge backed by the resources—and the integrity—of the Gulf Oil Corporation.

New 1955 GULF NO-NOX

Always remember: Octane alone is not enough. Only a gasoline that burns clean can make its full octane power really work for you, mile after mile. And that's why new NO-NOX is super-refined to burn clean and make this power last thousands of miles longer.

Fill up with new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX and feel the difference, right from the start, in lasting power. You'll get all these immediate benefits:

- More complete engine protection than with so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines.
- Extra gas mileage in the kind of short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most.
- Stall-proof smoothness...instant starts...fast, fuel-saving warm-up.
- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines.

It's super-refined...to burn clean!

TSTA President Speaks

Teachers Hear Discussion Of Proposed Legislation

The Legislative program of the Texas State Teachers Association was outlined for Collingsworth county members Monday night, February 21, at the annual banquet, by the state president, Tommy Thompson of Kermit.

Only at the beginning of his talk did Mr. Thompson leave the discussion of proposed legislation in behalf of teachers, and that was for a short pointed talk on "the return to the good old days".

"I give all credit to the good old days and the things they had, but the Lord save me from the Good Old Days", he declared.

He recalled that the one-room school he attended "in the good old days" had six boys in the library; that he carried his lunch to school in a lard bucket, whereas students no eat warm lunches at a cafeteria; and that he walked several miles daily, while boys and girls now ride buses.

"I like today, but I'll take tomorrow, and I want to make whatever advances I can for the future", he added.

The number one objective of the TSTA so far as legislation is concerned, is an improvement of the teacher retirement system, and this is due to be introduced in the Legislature next week, although its passage is not certain.

"The fact we are asking for it doesn't mean we'll get it," he said.

Briefly, the program would cost slightly more than at present, but it would enable a teacher to retire with 30 years experience and on reaching 65 years of age, to draw as retirement pay one-half the average monthly salary for the period 1950-1955.

There are a number of variations, dependant on length of teaching, age, etc, but on the whole the plan would offer teachers much greater security than at present.

It would enable older teachers to receive benefits, and to teach as long as their local boards would hire them.

The plan sought by the TSTA also calls for reciprocity between states, so that a teacher coming to Texas from another state would not lose the benefits built up before coming here.

Another objective of the Association is securing a certification bill "that will not be a joke among the other states", Mr. Thompson said.

Only Arizona has more degree teachers than Texas, but that is only because the local boards of this state demand degree teachers. Only three states in the United States have lower qualifications for certification.

If the proposed legislation passes, teachers not certified would not lose certification.

Other legislation has to do with bonding of districts.

Whereas it is now 50 cents on the rate, the limitation sought would be 10 per cent of the tax evaluation. The amount of bonds, however, would remain the option of the district.

"We public school people feel the schools are the very foundation of American democracy—that a good teacher is unlimited as to the good he can do, and a poor teacher is a great liability," Mr. Thompson said near the end of his address.

Homa Yarbrough, president of the Collingsworth County Teachers Association, presided at the meeting.

Herman Moseley gave the invocation. Vocal selections were given by the Melody Men, composed of Joe Thompson, Gary Phillips, and David McCaskill, accompanied by Ted Parker.

Introducing the guest speaker was Coach Maxey McKnight. Dinner music was furnished by King Bowen.

For Income Tax Purposes

Soil-Water Conservation Expense Deductible

Farmers can benefit on their income tax payments this year and in the future by careful attention to expenses incurred for soil and water conservation, Jimmie Lee, chairman of the county Bankers Agriculture Committee, reminded this week.

All expenditures for soil and water conservation in respect of land used in farming, or for the prevention of erosion of land used in farming are deductible under Sec. 175 of the 1954 Code. Deductible expenses include the cost of leveling, grading, terracing, contour furrowing, construction control, and protection of diversion channels, drainage ditches, earthen dams, watercourses outlets and ponds, the eradication of brush, the planting of windbreaks and other treatment or moving of earth. No deduction is allowed, however, for expenditures paid or incurred for the purchase, construction, installation or improvement of depreciable masonry, tile, metal, or wood structures, appliances and facilities such as tanks, reservoirs, pipes, conduits, canals, dams, wells and pumps.

In order for soil and water conservation expenditures to be deductible, the land must be "used in farming". This means that it must have been used by the taxpayer or his tenant, either when the expenses were incurred or prior to there-to, for the production of crops, fruits and similar agricultural products or for the sustenance of livestock.

SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS
Assessments levied by a soil or water conservation or drainage district in order to defray expenditures made by such district may also be deductible. Deduction is allowed for so much of the assessment, not otherwise allowable as a deduction, as is paid or incurred to satisfy expenses which could have been deducted by the taxpayer as soil or water conservation expenses if he had paid or incurred them.

LIMITATION ON DEDUCTION
The deduction for soil and water conservation expenditures is limited to 25 per cent of the gross income derived from farming during

Now is the time to get those baby chicks started if you want to get those early fall eggs. We recommend that you buy good chicks and give them a good start with Purina Chick Startena. Purina Chick Startena is Micro-Mixed. By Micro-Mixed we mean that it is by this process, owned exclusively by Purina, that all the ingredients in Purina Chick Startena are thoroughly mixed so that every thimbleful is alike. Some of the ingredients such as Riboflavin, Niacin, Vitamin B12, Vitamin A and 3 Nitro go into chick Startena in such small amounts that it is absolutely impossible to mix and blend these ingredients and distribute them evenly throughout a ton of feed without Micro-Mixing.

Baby Chicks are like small babys. We would feed a baby just a few days old the same food that we feed one six months old. The same is true in starting baby chicks. If our baby chicks are to grow and develop into big healthy layers they must get the best starting feed. They must get a ration with all the necessary nutrients blended together so that every bite they get is just the same. It takes quality ingredients and Micro-Mixing to make the most profitable feeds. This is why we recommend Purina Chick Startena to you to feed those tiny baby chicks. Feed Purina Chick Startena or Purina Broiler Chows to get Maximum profits through high livability, fast start, strong frames, vigor, health, uniform growth, fast feathering, bloom and economical feed conversion.

YES—we have CHICK SUPPLIES

Make our store headquarters for all your chick and poultry needs. Our employees are trained by Purina to know your problems and needs. Come in, real soon.

Mr. Frank Campbell was by to get some more Chick Startena for her chicks last week. Mrs. Campbell told me that Startena was the only feed she could raise her chicks on. She has been using Purina for her Chicks now for several years.

Others to get Purina Broiler Starter were Mrs. Woody Woods, Mrs. C. L. Moody, W. M. Williams and Buster Burnam. Why not ask these folks why they feed Purina starting rations.

We now have our split pen demonstration going. One pen is on Purina Chick Startena and the other on ration that is not micro-mixed. The next time you are in town come by the store and see the difference Purina Chick Startena ration. That is why so many people feed Purina Chick Startena.

Wellington Club Joins In

Rotary Observing 50th Anniversary This Week

Wellington is linked this week with more than 8,400 other cities and towns in 89 countries of the world as it commemorates the 50th anniversary of the founding of Rotary.

WORLD-WIDE PROGRAM

In commenting on the program of Rotary Kelly Pigg, President of the Rotary Club of Wellington said:

"Rotary activities throughout the free world are based on the same general objectives as those of our own club—the development of fellowship among business and professional men, the betterment of communities, leading boys and girls into good citizenship, the promotion of high standards in business and professions and the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace."

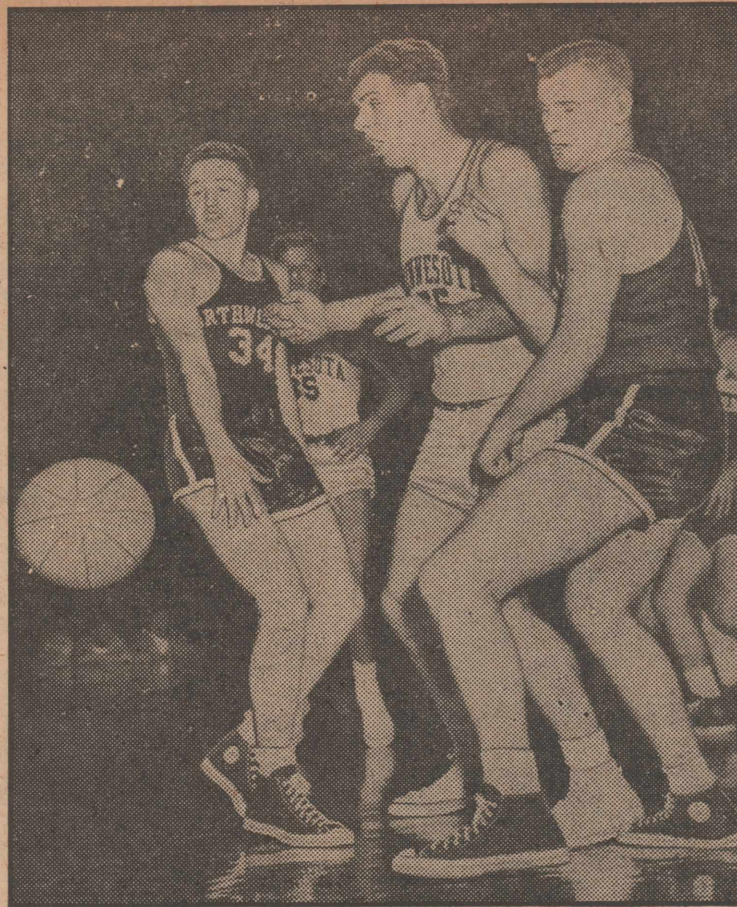

"The one basic objective of Rotary," he continued, "is its 'Ideal of Service' which is to be thoughtful of and helpful to others. To attain this objective, Rotary seeks all that which brings people together and avoids all which separates them. That is the reason why Rotary has become a world-wide institution, whose ideals have been accepted by men who differ widely in language, customs, and historical backgrounds."

CONTINUOUS GROWTH

In tracing the growth of Rotary, President Pigg said:

"The first Rotary Club was organized in Chicago on February 23, 1905, by Paul P. Harris, a young lawyer, who suggested the idea to a group of his friends. The name 'Rotary' was selected because the first meetings of the Club were held in rotation in the offices of its members. The Rotary ideas of fellowship and service to others soon spread from city to city in the United States and Canada and then crossed the oceans to every con-

"For half a century, Rotary has grown in numbers and strength. In the last twelve months, for example, more than 450 new Rotary Clubs have been organized in 58 countries of Europe, Africa, Asia, the Americas and the Islands of the Pacific. Today, Rotary is a world-wide organization of some 400,000 business and professional executives who are members of more than 8,400 Rotary Clubs in 89 countries and the world."

PIONEER SERVICE CLUB

"We are observing not only the golden anniversary of the founding of Rotary, but of the entire service club movement," asserted President Pigg, "since Rotary was the pioneer club to establish its fundamental characteristic spirit of altruism and of service to mankind. As Charles W. Ferguson, senior editor of 'The Reader's Digest' has written, 'the founding of Rotary loosed an idea that was by no means confined to the club that Paul Harris and his associates evolved. It is still rampant and the vitality of it is to be found in the proliferation of comparable clubs. These offer a more eloquent tribute than will be written in words on Rotary's anniversary, and they signify not only the good job Rotary has done but the importance of the idea which Rotary has by now become only a part'."

COMMEMORATIVE STAMPS

President Pigg reported that a number of countries have honored Rotary International through the issuance of special postage stamps commemorating Rotary's Golden Anniversary. Among these countries are Australia, Belgium, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Egypt, Nicaragua, Panama, The Philippines, and the United States of America.

THE GREAT ADVENTURE

One of the major features of Rotary's Golden Anniversary, according to President Pigg, has been the production of "The Great Adventure", a motion picture which tells the dramatic story of Rotary in action around the world. Starring the veteran stage and screen actor Edward Arnold, the film's cast of 80 includes actors from Australia, Brazil, India, Japan, Scotland, Sweden and the U. S. A. Simultaneous premieres of the film are being held this week in all of the 89 countries in which there are Rotary Clubs.

ROTARY FELLOWSHIPS

Referring to one of the projects in which all Rotary Clubs around the world are participating, President Pigg said that the Rotary Foundation Fellowships program was inaugurated as a memorial to the founder of Rotary, Paul Harris. "These Rotary Fellowships enable outstanding graduate students to live and study for one year in a country other than their own, as ambassadors of good will, on grants averaging $2,500," he said.

"More than 700 Rotary Fellowships have been awarded to students from 57 countries. In the past eight years, Rotary's grants in this field of international understanding have amounted to $1,750,000. Through this program of other-country fellowships, Rotary endeavors to foster better international relations by increasing the personal contacts which the nations of the world have with each other."

CHICAGO CONVENTION

Rotary's world-wide Golden Anniversary observance will culminate with a great convention in Chicago, May 29-June 2, where many thousands of Rotarians from most of the countries of the free world will rededicate themselves to Rotary's motto of "Service Above Self".

LOCAL CLUB IS ACTIVE

Supplementing the international aspects of Rotary, President Pigg briefly outlined the history of the Rotary Club in Wellington, which was organized in 1939 and which now has 23 members.

Ted Trew, range specialist with the Extension Service, College Station, visited his mother, Mrs. E. M. Trew Monday. He had been working in Extension District 3, in the area around Tulia.

Mrs. A. C. Pendergrass has been in Sweetwater recently caring for her mother-in-law, who is in ill health.

Mrs. Walter Deger was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital Sunday and was due to undergo surgery later in the week.

COLD COMFORT FOR "HOT" PILOTS—Frosted dummy, above, leads a frigid existence in Republic Aviation's 65-degree-below-zero cold room at Farmingdale, N. Y., so that U. S. Air Force pilots will be sitting pretty in all climates when flying their missions. Research engineer Tom Tomlinson conducts tests of the seat, similar to those installed in F-84 atom-bomb carriers. It hugs pilot protectively and, in emergencies, ejects him from the plane and then opens his safety belt prior to parachute drop.

Dr. Fred Goss To Optometry Meet

Dr. Fred Goss, of Wellington, was one of the 350 optometrists who attended the three day post-graduate session of the Fifteenth Annual Southwestern Congress of Optometry which adjourned Wednesday in Fort Worth, Texas.

Modern education and industry have increased the demands for fast accurate seeing within arms reach for better learning, more production and fewer accidents. Estimates show that the average school child today does 77 times more reading than in 1900. This intense near-point demand is the primary cause of visual problems. A visual problem is not an eye problem but can cause eye problems. The theme of the Congress was the proper care of the visual problems and the prevention of eye problems, he reported.

Outstanding speakers from optometry and education gave the modern concept of prevention. Preventive visual care is equally as effective as preventive medicine or dentistry. Dr. Emmett A. Betts, Physiologist and leader in the reading field, gave several lectures on the reading problems of school children. Drs. Bruce Wolff and W. R. Henry, outstanding optometrists, presented modern thinking in optometric care with emphasis on preventive techniques. Dr. A. M. Sheffington, Director of Education for the Optometric Extension Program and a pioneer in bringing knowledge from other sciences into optometry, gave the latest developments and their relationship to the care of human vision.

Peach and plum trees will grow-off faster and offer chances for bigger harvests if treated early in the year with a complete fertilizer, County Agent J. W. Thomas urges.

One-hundred fifty to 200 pounds of 12-12-12 in February or March on orchards or 200 lbs. of 16-20-0 in orchards that have been bur mulched, will do the job in the orchard.

Spread three to four pounds of the 12-12-12 or 16-20-0 mixture around each tree. Scatter the fertilizer in an area from the outer edges of each tree's shade cover to within three or four feet of the trunk. Disk the fertilizer into the soil to a depth of three or four inches immediately after application if this does not cause a wind erosion hazard.

A grove of 50 to 60 trees needs about 60 pounds of nitrogen, 80 to 100 pounds of phosphoric acid and 60 to 80 pounds of potash yearly. These requirements are partially met with the above recommendation in most of our sandy orchard soils.

Fruit trees need abundant nitrogen early in the season. Heavy applications later, however, may cause excessive terminal growth and delay ripening of the fruit.

Late April and early May is a critical time in fruit production. That is the time when trees develop a fruit crop and set next year's fruiting buds.

Work of Dr. E. W. Jones

Rotary Presidents History Anniversary Project

A valuable piece of work done in preparation for the Golden Anniversary of Rotary, as it is being celebrated by the Wellington Club, was "The Report on the Presidents", a compilation of the lives of the men who have served in that capacity here.

The work was the idea of Dr. E. W. Jones, and it was carried to completion by him, in his capacity of chairman of the Golden Anniversary Committee.

Information for the articles was supplied by the men themselves, but it was written into articles form by Dr. Jones.

These presidents, with the years of their term and present addresses include:

L. A. Manzer, 1938-39, Lubbock.
Dr. E. W. Jones, 1939-40, Wellington.

Tom Campbell, 1940-41, Lubbock.
The Rev. J. Edmund Kirby, 1941-42, Pampa.

S. R. Pinkston, 1942-43 (deceased).

The Rev. Hubert Thomson, 1943-44, Abilene.

Morris Wells, 1944-45, Wellington.

Dr. Chas. B. Jones, 1945-46, Dallas.

Bura Handley, 1946-47, Wellington.

Sandy Parsons Jr., 1947-48, Wellington.

Dr. E. K. Jones, 1948-49, Wellington.

Henry C. Sullivan, 1949-50, Wellington.

Charles Allen, 1950-51, Wellington.

He is a member of Phi Beta Pi, the American Medical College of Physicians; charter member of the Texas Academy of Internal Medicine; associate of the American Therapeutic Society under the Texas Heart Association; and is a member of the World Medical Association.

Dr. Gordon writes and lectures on medical subjects for both lay and medical consumption.

Still another facet of his making is his ability as an after-dinner speaker, and it is in this capacity that Wellington Rotarians and their guests will hear him this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Kent of Canyon were here for the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Murray. Former students in Howard Payne College, Brownwood, they transferred to West Texas State College at mid-term.

John Lee Praised for Work at Granite

Extra Time, Boredom, Fosters Delinquency

"When I was using a board on some of you a few years ago you thought I ought to be in the reformatory. Now I have been for the last three years." A soft giggle ran through the audience of Wellington high school students. Then John Lee, formerly of the local coaching staff and now athletic director at Granite, Oklahoma, got down to the serious business Friday afternoon, February 18, of telling the boys and girls, some of them his former students, what reformatory life is like.

Earlier in the day Lee had spoken pointedly to some of the parents, members of the Wellington Kiwanis Club, on such things as juvenile delinquency, their duty as citizens particularly when they are called on to serve on jury duty. "Don't leave that job to the professional jurors—the $3.00 a day men. If you are asked to serve, serve," he urged them.

Lee has won wide praise for his athletic program at Granite. His boxing team, especially, has done much to make the public conscious of the effort made to give athletic training to the boys sentenced to the reformatory. They have participated in both matched bouts and in the district Golden Gloves tournament at Lawton, where their sportsmanship and ability has been commended highly.

Lee blamed too much time-on-their hands as a major reason for juvenile delinquency.

"Some of the boys we have at Granite are younger than you boys," he said, looking down at the first row. "Their ages run up to 26 years. Some are pretty rough characters. Some are about like you," he continued.

"It's not what you intend to do that gets you in trouble," he declared. "It's usually what you don't intend to do. Maybe you don't have anything to do and you go out hunting something. You are bored. We get boys every day who didn't intend to do anything."

Lee was dead-serious when he spoke of the seriousness of a sentence to the reformatory.

"When you get out, you're an ex-convict, and that record will follow you as long as you live. Even if you're just in one day. You're an ex-convict."

A reformatory operates for two things, one to protect society and the other to rehabilitate the prisoner and educate him so that when he goes out he won't come back.

The boys work 8 hours a day and get $1.00 a month for it, he told a wide-eyed group.

"It costs $10,000 a year to keep you in the reformatory and that includes your $1.00 per month salary. You eat what is set before you and if you don't eat it you go to solitary confinement, he pointed out.

"It's pretty dull. You don't get any liberty. You don't get to run out in the hall between classes. A boy can give a pint of blood every five or six weeks and he will get 4 days off his sentence, if he is good. He can do a one year sentence in seven months.

"You see, life in a reformatory is not what it's cracked up to be. If I were you, I'd listen a long time before I did something I knew was wrong," he said.

The Granite Reformatory has set up the first prison high school in the United States, Lakeside. It is an accredited school like any public school, with a faculty of 12, eight of whom have master's degrees.

Under Lee, the athletic program includes, in addition to the outstanding boxing team, includes such sports as intramural competition in baseball, volleyball and softball.

During the summer he has at least 25 baseball teams going and 8 softball clubs. That is not all. He has promoted such things as a horseshow tournament, chess, and any number of games and athletics that help build the boys sense of sportsmanship.

"We stress sportsmanship first and winning second," he declared.

The biggest need now is a gymnasium where the boys can work out.

On bad days, they have to sit in their cells, one man to the cell or perhaps four men to the cell. The only time they leave is to go to their meals. Naturally they are restless," he said.

The school, because of its limited funds, cannot have a football program.

The athletic teams are allowed to travel away for competition. The boys make the trip by bus with Lee and one guard who acts as bus driver. Neither of the two wears a gun. They have had no trouble.

Lee spoke up for the school athletic programs.

Good athletes do not get in the reformatory," he declared. We get some potentially good athletes at Granite, but they have to be trained. A boy who excels at athletics or music or other activities for that matter, doesn't have time to get in trouble.

Eighty-five per cent of the boys in the Granite reformatory are from broken homes, he said.

"It is pitiful what those boys get compared with what you get," he declared near the end of his talk.

The interest of the students was revealed in the more-than-usual number of questions asked during the question and answer period that followed.

Preceding Mr. Lee's talk, a student program had included the usual Assembly opening ritual, presentation of the Soil Conservation Essay Awards by John Robert Henard Jr., to Max Courtney, Don Crawford and Alta Jackson; musical numbers by the German Band and the Melody Men; and skits from the coming junior play.

Lee was accompanied here by his wife and they were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Handley, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bura Handley.
