Volume 43

Junction, Kimble County, Texas, Thursday, February 3, 1927

Number 42

Lawbreakers Beware!

News County, Kansas, can now boast of the first woman sheriff in the Sun Flower State. Mrs. Frank Chaso succeeds her husband to this exceedingly "he-man" post as keeper of the peace and law.

Architects Accepted New Junction Hotel

The inspection of the Junction Hotel last week by M. C. Frederick and G. M. Baker, architects with the Adams & Adams firm of San Antonio, proved to be the final inspection of the building, and showed the construction had been done according to the plans of the firm. There are, however, a few minor details that will have to be attended to before the hostelry is opened to the public.

The hotel will contain twenty-three guests rooms, eighteen of which will have connecting bath; five remaining will open into corridors leading to bath rooms. The building has been wired for telephone in each room if desired; the electric fixtures are of the latest type, and connections have been placed for steam heat, all that remains to be done for heating the building is to install radiators in each room.

The septic tank was finished last week and the connections are being made with the main building.

The building in itself is of the Spanish type of architecture, and will be an addition to the town of Junction, of which every citizen may feel proud. It will also stand as a monument to the untiring efforts of those men who are responsible for its erection.

The ground in front and at the sides will be cleared and planted to shrubs of various kinds, and the old Fritz hotel will be razed and placed in the rear of the hotel to serve as servants quarters, or to care for the over-flow of the new hostelry. Definite decision has not as yet been made as to which of these plans will be carried out, but the directors of the Hotel Company are of the opinion that some arrangement will be necessary to care for the great number of tourists that are expected to visit the Hill Country this summer and also in future years.

The Fawcett Furniture Company of Kerrville have secured the contract for the furnishings, and this will be shipped in a short time.

The Junction Hotel, when completed and furnished, will cost approximately $60,000.00, and it is hoped by the directors and proprietor, Mr. Joe Fritz, that the hotel will be ready for occupancy and open to the public by the 15th of March.

Mr. G. H. Lang from Kerrville with the help of Schreiner Institute boys will hold Presbyterian services February 6, at 11:00 o'clock. Special music.

The meaning of Connecticut is "long river."

Will Not Publish Unsigned Articles

The Eagle has at various times called attention of its readers to the fact that all communications intended for publication must be signed in order to insure appearance in these columns. That, of course, does not mean that the writer's name will appear with the article, but the management must know from whom the article comes in order to verify any alleged incorrectness that may be contained in the article.

There is on file in this office now, an interesting communication from the Gentry Creek community, but owing to the lack of signature, it will not be published. This is regrettable in view of the fact that the Eagle is always anxious to secure and publish communications from the various communities in the county, and would indeed be glad to have the writer of the Gentry article send in his or her name, that this article may appear next week.

If our readers will bear this in mind it will eliminate a possible misunderstanding in regard to the position of The Eagle in matters of publishing communications from the neighboring communities.

The Eagle will be very glad to have regular correspondents at all the community centers in the county, and will furnish stationery for the purpose, and will also furnish postage for mailing. Now if you are interested in the social happenings of your community, call at the Eagle office and get information necessary to act as your community correspondent.

The construction of a car wash room and work room for Leonard Cowsert in the electric and battery charging business, was begun this week and is now nearing the point for placing the roof. The McDonald Brothers will use the car wash room and Leonard Cowsert will occupy the east side with a battery charging equipment.

Things That Children Should Know

That most of the dice used in playing African gold are made of cotton? How logical! The southern negro makes his money picking it; the northern darky loses his money rolling it.

That your "ivory" mirror and hair-brush backs, combs, button-hook handles, pin trays, powder puff boxes, etc., are made of cotton? That your "tortoise shell" hair pins and combs, your carnelian umbrella handle, your auto curtain window lights, even the leather-like coating on your chairs and lounges are also made of cotton?

That fiber "silk" or rayon is made of wood? That "real" silk contains a large proportion of steel and tin which were certainly never produced by the industrious silk worm?

That cotton is the base of one of the stickiest and most waterproof varieties of cement; that it is the base for the hardest and most waterproof enamels; that the toughest and most transparent lacquers are of the same material?

That parliodin—the "new skin" of surgery and invaluable as a sealer of wounds—is another cotton product?

That the powerful blasting powder that rends the hardest rock in our quarries and the anthracite in our coal mines is made of such seemingly harmless and common things as charcoal, soda and sulphur?

That two of the most important ingredients in dynamite, the mighty explosive, are ammonia and glycerin—the same ammonia you use in washing dishes, linoleum, painted woodwork and glass and the same glycerin used in your soap; in the glycerine and rose water preparation you use to soften the skin of your hand?

That most of the fast, brilliantly colored dyes are made out of coal—dirty black coal?

What makes dynamite the powerful explosive it is? Its ability to resolve itself into a body of gas many time more

Foundation Herd of Herefords Received

Tuesday of this week Jim Wright of Junction received a foundation herd of Herefords, consisting of 100 cows which he recently purchased from the Cardwell Ranch. These cows were all either Maria Highland Herefords or daughters of Marfa Highland Herefords, and there was not a single mottled face or red foot in the entire one hundred head.

Mr. Wright is to be complimented on this purchase, as the Hereford cattle are a known quantity as well as of known quality, and he has made no mistake in his selection of a foundation herd.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Holekamp returned Thursday from San Antonio where they were the guests of relatives.

Mrs. Jas. Parker and daughter, Mrs. Ernest Dunbar, spent Monday with Mrs. Parker's mother, Mrs. Joy, at Noxville.

Mrs. Mayfield Wilkinson is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bailey, at their ranch, near Ingram. She was accompanied by Mrs. Barney Ragland.

John Treadwell and Ray Wyatt of Menard, Clay and Roy Holland of Fort McKavitt, passed through Junction Friday on their way to Kerrville to visit a friend at the Legion Hospital.

voluminous than itself. A little stick of dynamite eight inches long and one inch in diameter is detonated. It instantly changes into gas. This gas fills a space many times 8 x 1. If the dynamite was packed tightly in earth or rock or coal when detonated, filling a space 8 x 1 inches, it becomes necessary for something to give way when the much more bulky gas takes its place. Result: The coal, rock or earth is violently forced aside—so forcibly that pieces sometimes fly hundreds of feet away. This describes what happens in a dynamite blast or shot.

Takes Ban's Place

American League baseball club owners have named Frank J. Navin to take Ban Johnson's place as president of their circuit.

Suggestion For a C. of C. Secretary

In discussing the matter of the reorganization of our Chamber of Commerce recently, it has been suggested that we request our Commissioners' Court to employ a County Demonstration agent to work in co-operation with our business men, as the directors and Court might determine and not contrary to the regulations governing the work of these specialists, which of course, we would have to accept to, in order to obtain their assistance.

As the men who are employed as demonstration agents, are especially fitted for work that would inure to the general benefit of the county and our Chambers of Commerce have for their purpose the same idea, there is no reason why the suggestion is not a good one, and might be a solution to the problem of paying an adequate salary to the secretary.

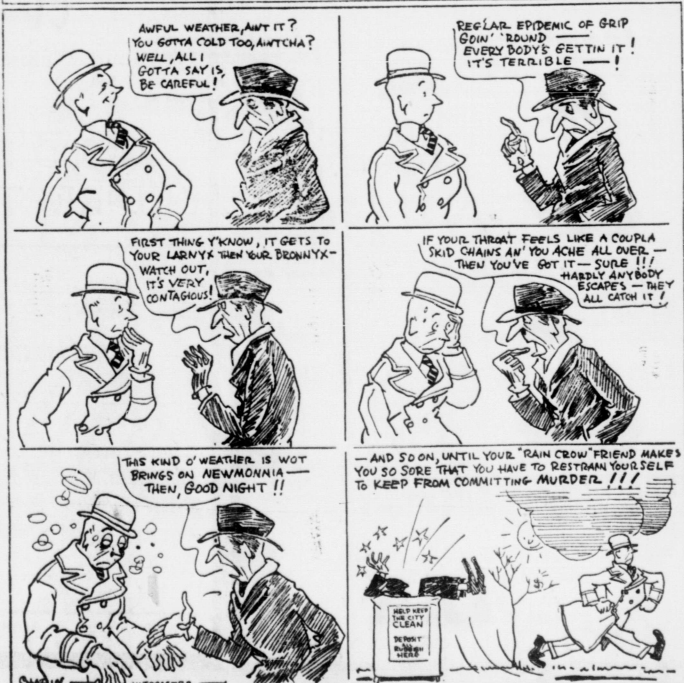

There is no question about the value of the services of a county demonstration agent, if the right man can be found for the county. The Judge of a neighboring county recently made the remark that five times as many people called on their local agent for his advice in plant production and animal husbandry, as called on him in the discharge of official business. Hundreds of counties of the nation are using them to good advantage, and there is no good reason why we cannot do likewise. The money provided for the salary of these men comes from the counties and the State and National Government. If we do not utilize their services, we lose not only the help they might render, but also lose our part of the tax money set aside in our government budget to pay their salaries. We are not compelled to accept this service from the government, but it is available for those who wish to take it.

The Vocational Department of the State Department of Education also offers the services of their men in this work, by permitting him to use fifty per cent of his time in school work. Their men are also well qualified for the work. This plan would call for the school board to pay one-fourth his salary, the Chamber of Commerce one-fourth and the government one-half. What do you think about it?

Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Ray of Mason were here Saturday and Sunday. Rev. Ray is pastor of the Mason Christian Church. He preached two sermons of interest to his congregation here Sunday.

Barry Proposes

"Will you marry me, Sallie?" Barrington Pierce ignored my outburst of temper and his voice was vibrant with hope if he had not heard my irate criticism of him, which I had offered in Curtiss' defense.

"Never in all my life had I been so surprised. Notwithstanding the fact that my astonishment must have manifested itself on my face, Barry was undisturbed.

"Won't you dearest?" he urged.

"I can't even think that you're not joking," I replied, "why Barry, since when have you been in the habit of running around the country proposing to married women?" I wanted him to think that I regarded his proposal in a flippant light.

A puzzled frown swept his face for a moment and then he continued talking, his mood gaining in intensity with every word. "Love will drive us to great lengths, Adoree," he said, "it gives courage to him who has no reason for hope and puts wings to fancy's flight. Spurred on by visions of the happiness we could attain I was compelled to ask you to come with me, my dear."

A dancing light gleamed in his great brown eyes which never for an instant left my face. "Listen Sallie," he hurried on, "I can see it all! You and I going hand in hand along the highway of life, high winds of adventure fanning our emotions and keeping us ever responsive to the call of youth. How sweet, how thrilling, how satisfied and joyous each day would be with you by my side through the golden hours."

His love-making, like his music, was out of the realm of the commonplace. There was an exquisite poignancy about it and a genuine sincerity that rang in his every word. I could no longer regard his affection for me in a light hearted manner, for to have done so, would have been to the young musician a cruel blow to his earnestness and his pride.

I realized that his proposal was impossible from the start but, on account of his serious attitude. I knew I would have to go into the subject, and, step by step, show him the utter folly of his plan.

"In the first place," I began.

"O, I know," he interposed, "you're going to bring up the subject of Curtiss again, but I swear to you I will MAKE you forget him, once you are mine. It is your loyalty to the things that you think your marriage stands for that makes you continue to uphold him at any cost. Then too, time has dimmed the unhappiness you have suffered when you were with him and felt his unpardonable neglect. It has softened the pang of those desolate hours. Remember, dearest, my sole purpose in life will be to fill your days with joy."

"No, no, Barry, please," I put out my hand as if I would stop him by force. He misinterpreted the gesture and, taking my hand in his, held it close, "aside from the question of Curtiss," I stumbled on, "what about yourself? You told me in Paris once that it would ruin your future to even consider 'taking unto yourself a wife.' Don't you remember, Barry, your song about the 'Little House,'—that you wanted but could never own? Because you felt that you would have to sacrifice all thought of domestic bliss on the altar of your career?"

He listened intently and I felt that at least I had hit upon a more appealing argument to turn his attention from the plan he had proposed.

"I didn't think there was a chance then of my ever having YOU, Sallie, dear, and that's why I said what I did," he hesitated a full moment and then continued, "there was another reason, as well, at that time," he said.

"Lemoyné?" I asked softly and although he did not reply I knew that I had discovered his reason for declaring that day in his studio that he would never wed. As vivid as a haunting strain of music or the echo of some remembered perfume came the tete-a-tete I had had with Andre Moliere the night of Lemoyné's triumph at the Opera Comique. He had told me how it was common gossip among their set that the singer's adoration for Barry greatly exceeded his regard for her and had also hinted that while Barry had, at one time, faintly responded to her charm that his sentiment had changed and that his only interest in the singer, even then, was that of a very dear friend.

"But you cared for her once? You loved her very much at one time?" I questioned again.

"Not love, Sallie. Lemoyné will tell you that I never loved her. A friend, a chere amie, but love, the sort of love I have for you, never!" he exclaimed.

"But what of her, Barry, you can not possibly ignore the way she feels towards you!"

"You haven't seen her lately, you know, and—if she ever had it,—she's outgrown any such idea. If she thought she cared it was probably the result of her highly strung imagination." Barry's modesty was one of his most charming traits. For instance he was bound to have known the depths of the singer's adoration and yet, in spite of the flaming idolatry lavished on him by her for years, I don't think he even admitted to himself that he had the whole heart of the beautiful Lemoyné.

And so, one by one, my objections to his proposal were swept aside.

"But your music?" I returned to the subject which, more than any other, had more influence in his life, "you have already gained a certain measure of fame, and, I know some day you will be one of the immortals, like Beethoven, Chopin or Bach, if you allow nothing to come between you and your art."

"But, my dearest, don't you realize that you would inspire me to greater heights, your faith in me would be an incentive to the accomplishment of all my dreams."

I shivered although the room was warm, because I thought of how Curtiss had begged me to have confidence in him and I lacked sufficient faith to do the thing he had asked.

"You must not idealize me so, for, even in the qualities you admire most, I have failed. I have so many limitations, which I realize myself, and I would have you do the same."

"Your unpretentiousness is one of your most blessed traits and I won't permit you to say untrue things about your own perfect self."

A clock in the distance chimed out the hour of six. Barry moved restlessly, "I hate clocks and time," he declared, "I wish there were no such things."

Then completing his thought he said, "listen Sallie, dear, I'm playing in our first concert of the series tonight. I'm going to play 'Vesniaka,' your composition, for the very first time. Can't you give me a bit of hope so that when I go before the audience tonight I'll put something into my music that I've never found there before? Can't I have the assurance, from your own sweet lips, that perhaps some day," he dropped his voice to a whisper, "you'll be mine?"

My first impulse was to deny the possibility of the relationship which he so desired and which I knew could never exist. To assure the young musician of my friendship for him but to remind of the irrationality of his suggestion and ask him never to mention the subject again.

Then, swift as an eagle's wing, my thoughts changed. To dash his hopes to the ground just before he was to appear in concert and give his marvelous composition to the public for the first time, would be unnecessarily little and mean. I must not allow myself to be as selfish as that! Knowing the musician's mercurial nature it was just possible that upon my answer would depend the successful rendition of his glorious music which he had written for me, and, in my honor, named the Russian word for "Spring." It would be an act of kindness to encourage Barry on his "night of nights."

I dropped my eyes to my dainty tea cup in which the amber liquid had long grown cold and my lips moved. "Perhaps," I said softly. But when I looked up again I knew by the light that leaped in Barry's eyes that he had heard.

(To be continued next week)

TEXAS AND TEXANS.

(By Will H. Mayes.)

Texas Second in Exports

Texas was close to New York and was more than double any other state in exports for the third quarter of 1926. New York's exported goods amounted to $195,379,000; those of Texas to $184,499,192. Pennsylvania came next with $83,248,000. That is something for Texas to brag about, but the figures reveal something to be ashamed of. A large part of New York's exports was manufactured commodities of all kinds, especially cotton and wool goods made from products grown in Texas and manufactured in New York. When Texas uses its idle capital for building manufacturing instead of lending it to New York capitalists at low interest, there to be used in manufacturing industries, Texas exports will more than double those of "little old New York." When that will be done is largely up to Texas banks, which after all, determine the use of the finances of the State.

Judge Kittrell Passes On

Judge Norman G. Kittrell, of Houston, statesman, jurist, author, unselfish and tireless worker, has laid down his daily tasks at 78 years to enter upon that higher work for which life has fitted him so well. He was busy to the last a member of the Texas legislature and writer of the Houston Post-Dispatch. Few men have ever served their country more faithfully, more usefully, than did Judge Kittrell. His patriotism was never questioned; his sincerity was never doubted; his tirelessness and earnestness in his labors furnished example and inspiration to thousands of younger men. Thinking back over his career, as I have known it for nearly 40 years, perhaps his most fruitful work was his lay sermons written for many years for every Sunday edition of the Houston Post and the later Post-Dispatch. Multiplied thousands have come under the beneficent influence of those pleas for better living, for closer walking in the footsteps of the Great Master.

Davis Mountain Hotel

A hotel to cost half a million dollars is to be built at once at Madera Springs, at the mouth of Madera Canyon in the Davis mountains of West Texas. The capital will be furnished largely by Texans who have acquainted themselves with the beauties of the section, its climate, and its many advantages as an all-year health and tourist resort. The spot selected is less than half the distance from Denver to Dallas, it is 1,000 feet higher than Denver, and it may be reached by roads as good as those from Texas to the Colorado resorts. In summer the climate is more equable than in Colorado and in winter it is balmy and invigorating, but as mild as the more southerly resorts. There is a vast area in that part of Texas that is destined to become favored as a resort for both Texans and Northern tourists and health seekers.

Good Times Ahead

Despite the low price of cotton, Texas is unusually prosperous, for even the cotton has brought more money into circulation than usual because of the large acreage and production. The money spent for labor in growing, picking, ginning, selling and shipping has far exceeded that of any former year, the growers being the only persons who have suffered any loss. The winter to this time has been all that could be desired. The weather has been mild and winter grown products have escaped frost injury; rains have been abundant; the grass range is fine; cattle, sheep and goats are in the pink of condition; poultry yards are enriching their owners; dairying is increasing; pecan trees and fruits have yielded abundant fruitage; pantries are filled; the State government is in safe hands. Let us rejoice.

Texas Coal-Mines

Texas is coming into notice as a coal-mining State, and the coal production is increasing. There are 37 bituminous coal mines in the State, employing 2,108 men and producing 1,008,375 tons of coal. About half of this is produced by machinery, the rest by hand. While Texas produces but a comparative small part of the coal consumed in this country, the production amounts to considerable in the State's wealth.

Punish the Small Offender

San Antonio reports 70 arrests on a recent Sunday. More than half of these were on minor gambling charges. When the small gambler is fined a small amount, he immediately starts gambling again to recoup his losses. If gambling doesn't prove remunerative enough, the gambler is likely to resort to hi-jacking, burglary, or other criminal methods of getting money without effort. The only way to check gambling is to make it decidedly unremunerative and this, probably, could best be done by cumulative punishment for the gambler.

Small Farming Pays

The Denton Record-Chronicle tells how J. P. Sitz and wife, living a few miles out of Denton make farming pay on a 40-acre farm. Mr. Sitz says 40 acres is enough for a farmer to work to make money. He plants no cotton; he has an orchard of an acre or so; he milks eight cows; he has 100 or 125 hens; he grows sweet and Irish potatoes and other vegetables—enough to sell; he raises hogs; he fertilizes his land; he pays cash for what he buys; he WORKS. Briefly told, that is the secret of farm success.

Credit System Doomed

The Elgin Courier says the credit system of merchandising is doomed. The Courier is right as usual. The credit system is unfair to business, to those who buy on credit, and to those who pay cash. The credit merchant has to add an extra charge for the use of his money and to cover losses. The credit customer thus pays the losses, or the merchant eventually fails. The credit usually charges the cash customer as much as the credit customer, or else acquires a reputation for discrimination that loses his trade. The man who "pays as he goes" usually knows where he is going; the others seldom do and too often find themselves headed for bankruptcy.

Tidying Up for Summer

A statement in the San Marcos Record that the new Rogers Park is being planted to trees and beautified in a way to make it "a park in reality," is referred to as a reminder to other Texas towns to profit by the large tourist business Texas is sure to have next summer to begin getting ready for that business. Automobilists simply will not stop in unattractive places longer than they have to stay. They are more and more seeking beauty, and certainly are entitled to comfort. Every Texas town and village could be made a resort, at least in a small way and without large expense.

Oliver Wendell Holmes did not decide to devote his time to writing until he was 45 years old.

SCOTCH

"Never borrow money from that man, he is a Shylock. In winter he takes 50 per cent, and in summer sixty."

"But why does he take more in summer?"
"Because the days are longer."

White ants annually cause enormous damage to buildings throughout the United States.

Try to know yourself before you try to know the other fellow.

THAT'S WHAT WE ALWAYS WONDERED

The teacher had been lecturing his class on the wisdom often displayed by animals and birds. He compared it with that of human beings, to the latter's disadvantage.

Having finished his discourse, he invited his pupils to ask questions bearing on the subject.

One small boy held up his hand.

"Well," said the teacher, "what is it you want to know?"
"I want to know, sir," was the reply, "what makes chickens know how big our egg-cups are?"

The best joke in the world ain't funny enough to laugh at, if you made it up yourself.

TOOTH EXTRACTED; SIGHT RESTORED

Denver, Colo., Jan. 30.—After twenty-eight years of total blindness, Mrs. William H. Dunagan, 38, has regained her sight. Extraction of an abscessed tooth early this week was the simple remedy, she says, which ended long years of the "darkness."

Dental surgeons and eye specialists described the case as one of the most astonishing ever to come under their observation.

Mrs. Dunagan said she lost her sight at San Diego, Cal., when she was ten years old, following an attack of scarlet fever.

Soft woods used in automobile manufacture in the United States in 1925 totaled 364,792,000 feet.

IN THE TOP POCKET

An old Irish woman sent a parcel to her son, in which she enclosed the following note:

"Pat, I am sending your waistcoat; to save weight I have cut off all the buttons. Your loving mother."
"P. S.—You will find them in the top pocket."

In 1925 automobile industries in the United States consumed 28 per cent of the nickel used.

IT'S YOU!

If you want to live in the kind of a town Like the kind of a town you like. You needn't slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long, long hike. You'll only find what you left behind, For there's nothing that's really new. It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town; It isn't your town; it's you. Real towns are not made by men afraid Lest somebody else get ahead. When everybody works and nobody shirks You can raise a town from the dead. And if while you make your personal stake Your neighbor can make one, too, Your town will be what you want to see. It isn't your town; it's you.

We do not know the author of the foregoing poem, that appeared in the February edition of the West Texas Utility News, but we do know it contains some good philosophy. It was read by the four-year-old daughter of Dr. C. E. Eaton at a banquet of business men held in Robert Lee, Texas. "A little child shall lead them."

WORTHWHILE ADVICE

There are shallows in Masonry where a lamb can wade and there are depths where an elephant can drown. The shallowest thing in Masonry is a brother who gives currency to slander about another. And he who lends a willing ear to defamation is quite as guilty as he who sets the story going. No one loves to tell of scandal except to him who loves to hear it. Both principal and accessory should be hanged—the first by his tongue and the other by his ear. A safe rule of Masonic conduct is this: Believe that story false that ought not to be true! Don't smile upon the defamer, lest, like a pleased spaniel, he puts a dirty paw upon you.

The above is an excerpt from the Scottish Rite News, that appeared in a recent issue. It is good advice, not only to Masons, but the whole of the human family.

TON LITTER CONTEST FOR 1927 ANNOUNCED

Several important changes in regulations governing the annual Texas Ton Litter Contest will go into effect for the 1927 competition, announcement of the rules of the contest made by E. R. Eudaly, swine specialist of the Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas, show. Among the most important changes is that specifying that the awards will be made on a basis of average of pigs, regardless of the number in the litter. Heretofore, winners have been selected on total weight of the litter. The new rules will give an entrant with a litter of only six or seven pigs the same chance to win as the contestant with a litter of twelve or fourteen pigs.

The contest for 1927 will be conducted by the Extension Service, A. & M. College, and the Progressive Farmer, agricultural publication, Dallas. The 1926 contest was conducted by the Extension Service and the Texas Swine Breeders' Association.

In announcing the rules for the 1927 contest, Mr. Eudaly said: "Farmers are again stocking up on hogs following a period of the greatest hog shortage that Texas has ever known. This was due to the adverse conditions for the hog business in 1923 and 1924. Judging the future by the past, we will have adverse conditions again. In order to prevent another liquidation of hogs, such as we had in 1923 and 1924, it is necessary that the farmers learn to raise hogs economically. The Ton Litter Contest offers the best means of demonstrating economical hog production. Therefore, we expect to have another Ton Litter Contest for 1927."

Another change in the rules permits competition for prizes by club boys and girls. Money premiums will be as follows: Heaviest litter of 7 pigs or less, $40; heaviest litter of 8 pigs, $45; heaviest litter of 9 pigs, $50; heaviest litter of 10 pigs, $55; heaviest litter of 11 pigs, $60; heaviest litter of 12 pigs, $65; litter with heaviest average weight, regardless of number, $100; clubs boys and girls only, litter with highest average weight, $50.

Fifty dollars will be given to the County Agent or other county supervisor turning in the greatest number of record on ton litters, making a ton or the equivalent of a ton, if weighed before 180 days.

Any hog owner residing in Texas is eligible to enroll in the contest. Litters must be farrowed between Feb. 1 and May 25 to be eligible—they may be pure-bred, grade or scrub.

The period of the contest covers 180 days. Litters may be weighed the day they are 150 days old or any time between 150 and 180 days, after farrowing. Awards will be made on basis of the actual weight above the required weight for age.

AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

Great Auxiliary Program, Feb. 18, will be a great day in Texarkana. On that day, the American Legion auxiliary of Texas and Arkansas will stage a joint program, to welcome the visit of the National Auxiliary President, Mrs. McCauley, who will deliver an address. The state president of the American Legion of Texas, Mrs. Frank Hardin, of Harlingen, and the state secretary, Miss Ada May Maddox, of Austin, will also be present and will be on the program. THE RECOGNIZED NEEDS OF THE HILL COUNTRY

It is noted in the "Think" column of the San Antonio Express that the needs of the Hill Country are being recognized by the people of San Antonio, as well as those of the Hill Country section, as is seen from the article which appeared in this column, "Think," a few days ago.

The article in question follows:

"Need of the spider-web system of highways in the Hill Country was mentioned in this column recently. Hill Country citizens know the need and are working to meet it. Not only has Kerrville launched its program to build a highway to Rock Springs, but Mason is preparing to construct a good road to Menard this summer, Menard joining at the upper end.

"Besides, Mason, Menard and Kimble Counties are united in a program to build a first-class highway from Mason, through London, to Junction. In fact, most of the work is already done. Too, the road between Mason and Llano has been improved.

"Thus, there actually remain among the highways listed as needing attention, only the roads between Kerrville and Fredericksburg, Kerrville and Leaky, and Llano and San Saba. The Hill Country counties are doing the highway-improvement themselves, and the results they have already accomplished are worth an automobile tour."

ALL TRUTH AND SOME POETRY

She's an angel in truth, a demon in fiction. A woman's the greatest of all contradictions. She's afraid of a cockroach, she'll scream at a mouse, but she'll tackle a husband as big as a house. She'll take him for better, she'll take him for worse; she'll split his head open and then be his nurse; and when he is well, and gets out of bed, she'll pick up a skillet to throw at his head. She's faithful, deceitful, keensighted and blind; she's crafty, she's simple, she's cruel, she's kind. She'll lift a man up, she'll cast a man down; she'll make him her idol, she'll make him her clown. You fancy she's this, but you find she's that, for she'll play like a kitten then scratch like a cat. In the morning she will, in the evening she won't, and you are always expecting she does, but she don't.

LEGION LEGISLATION

The American Legion will be represented at Austin in the person of Mr. Ben Dean, of Breckenridge, who will look after the legislation needed for the Legion.

Among the several matters which legislative action will be pressed by Mr. Dean is a bill which will legalize boxing bouts when staged by the American Legion. No bout to go more than ten rounds and ten per cent of the proceeds to go to the public school fund of Texas.

Another bill will seek to have all Legion property in Texas exempted from taxation, like church property. There are several other measures of more or less importance. The state headquarters of the Legion hopes that every Legion post in Texas will get behind these measures and help Mr. Ben Dean in his efforts to have them enacted into law.

WELL ROUNDED MEAL OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

The value of well and scientifically arranged menus to each member of the family formed the basis of a radio talk by Miss Lola Blair, food specialist of the Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas, delivered over Station WTAW recently, in the opening of a series of talks on "Feeding the Family." These talks will be given each Tuesday night at 7:00 o'clock by Miss Blair until the series is finished. In her initial talk, Miss Blair gave several examples of well balanced and practical menus. She said in part:

"If the housewife had to make a yearly report to her firm or organization, which is composed of her husband and herself, I wonder how she would measure up. Give yourself an examination at the close of the winter and ask these questions:

1. Have I used enough milk for my family to have had two glasses every day? If they do not drink it, have I used that amount in cooking, or in cheese? No family is well nourished without this amount.

2. Have I served one raw fruit or vegetable every day, such as cabbage, onions, lettuce, radishes, apples, etc? These are essential for a laxative and for vitamins as well as iron.

3. Have I given them one leafy vegetable every day whether cooked or raw, such as greens, string beans, cabbage, collards, rape, onion tops, and lettuce?

4. Have I served tomatoes canned or fresh three times each week?

These foods are all essential. Specialists tell us we must have these foods every day: (a) milk, two glasses for each person; (b) two raw fruits or vegetables; (c) one leafy vegetable; (d) tomatoes three times each week.

Now that we are started on a new year you might be interested in planning meals which will leave you full of pep and energy at the close of the winter instead of that tired feeling."

Miss Blair gave the following menus as examples:

Breakfast—a cereal, such as oat flakes, cream of wheat, or plain mush, and with this stewed fruit; bread, butter and milk. If the men are working outside and the children walking a long distance to school, eggs and bacon may be added.

Mid-day dinner—meat, turnips and greens, cabbage slaw, corn bread and milk, hominy; There should be enough of the dinner left for supper; if there is not, plan to have mush and milk, tomato soup, Irish stew, or other simple dishes; probably something canned in the summer and put away on the pantry shelf for such occasions.

Sunday dinner—baked hen with dressing, peas and corn from the pantry shelf, canned fruit salad, cake with lemon sauce, or lemon pie, or bananas and cream.

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

by John Joseph Collins, M. D.

WINTER-DAY SUGGESTIONS

In days, when the front door is kept closed as much as possible, and the windows are jealously guarded—when ventilation holds discomfort along with its purifying influences, I cannot help thinking of the increased liability of infection within the winter quarters of those who live in the frigid temperatures of our northern states. The outdoor members of our families are abroad during the day, either from choice or necessity. Being exposed, they "pick up" colds, bronchial infections, throat disturbances febrile in character, and, certainly communicable. They bring their complaints home with them. Children going to school are extremely liable to contract lung or throat diseases, by their association with groups some of whom are almost certain to be carriers of respiratory germs. Somebody in the family may be tubercular—a most serious infection.

What I am driving at is, to avoid the spread of disease in the home where we spend our evenings, or should, if we do not. I do not like to hear of colds "going through families," and I am convinced that such misfortune can be prevented by intelligent precaution. Under no circumstances should expectorated matter be permitted to dry within the sitting room or bed-room. The handkerchief used by the sufferer should be thrown in a vessel of water when soiled.

Then, coughs should be carefully disciplined; a hard cough will hurl bacteria ten feet. It may be deadly to sit in front of a tubercular who coughs immoderately without training for safety. It is just as easy to dispose of expectorated matter before it dries, and sickness may be prevented by kindly restriction. Try it in your home.

ANNOUNCE WINNERS IN JUDGING CONTEST

College Station, Texas, Jan. 31.—Winners in the freshman agronomy judging contest just held at the A. & M. College of Texas have been announced as follows: J. E. Tatum, Dublin, score of 1620 out of a possible 1800; O. W. Thompson, Winnsboro, score of 1600; W. R. Stark, Portland, score of 1580; J. W. Richards, Waco, score of 1570; A. J. Bierschwale, Roosevelt, score of 1550.

Scores were based on judging of corn, grain sorghums, wheat, threshed oats, barley, rye, other crops, and gold weeds. Medals were offered in the contest for the first five winners by A. M. Waldrop & Co., Wilson Bradley, Holmes Confectionery, of Bryan; and Casey's Confectionery and the Campus Barber Shop, J. F. Lavinder, proprietor, College Station. Presentation of medals to the winners will be made at the first Agronomy Club meeting to be held after the opening of the second semester.

The contest was held to stimulate interest in a team to the Intercollegiate Crops Contest held in connection with the International Grain and Hay Show at Chicago.

J. S. Mogford, Ralph T. Steward, associate professors, and M. B. Sturgess, instructor of agronomy, conducted the contest.

WAYSIDE STRANGERS AND THE SAFEST PLACE

"Play safe and don't pick up the stranger."

That is the advice of the Atlanta Motor Club as it appeared in a recent issue of The Sunday American.

Oscar Haymond, secretary of the Club, who issued the advice to the public through the newspaper, pointed out that "the minute the motorist stops to pick up some stranger, boy or adult, he immediately becomes responsible for the safety of the passenger."

And looking at it from the standpoint of the fellow who accepts the proffer of a "lift," Secretary Haymond pointed out that the Good Samaritan who invites you to ride may prove to be one who would rob you of your last penny, to say nothing of the danger you might incur by his possible reckless operation of the automobile.

And, of course, it always works the other way around. The fellow you pick up may be wanted in the next state for murder, as Mr. Haymond points out. It is no rare occurrence to hear of a free-hearted motorist being found slugged and robbed after he had offered a "lift" to a stranger.

Your Birthday

Is it this week?

Jan. 29—Feb. 5

If your birthday is this week you have a very progressive nature, and a quick, receptive mind. You have the gift of caution, prudence, and good judgment, as well as a great amount of self-confidence and initiative.

You are optimistic, and cheerful, even in the face of adversity. You have a generous, sympathetic nature, and any worthy cause appeals to you so strongly that you do not hesitate to make personal sacrifices in order to be of practical assistance.

You are always agreeable and can retain your dignity on all occasions. You rarely lose your temper, but are quick to resent any fancied or real hurt.

You possess many rare talents, which, if developed, will take you to supreme heights.

The women are very domestic, and usually marry and become excellent wives. They also possess literary and artistic ability.

Men born during these days become inventors, carvers, sculptors, architects and scientists.

Hiram S. Maxim, inventor, was born Feb. 5. Lord Salisbury, Prime Minister to England, was born Feb. 3.

BAPTIST CHURCH

We wish to thank everyone for their co-operation in the revival meeting just held. Rev. Childs gave us some mighty good messages and we know that his being with us these ten days has been a great blessing to each one.

Our Sunday School attendance is not as good as we would like to see it. Will you not meet with us Sunday morning at ten o'clock? Come and study the Word of God.

The pastor will speak on a subject that every child of God should hear and one that will be helpful to any one that has not yet accepted Jesus as their personal Saviour. Evening sermon beginning at 7:15 promptly.

"Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

"Let us go into the house of the Lord on the Sabbath day."

"Draw nigh unto Me and I will draw nigh unto you."

"The gift of God is Eternal Life."

J. A. DEKLE, Pastor.

CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

A most happy occasion was the celebration of little Miss Lucile Motley's birthday, last Friday afternoon, at her home.

Games, contests, music and readings made the time slip by all too soon for the happy young folks.

The birthday cake, a confection of pink and white, bearing thirteen candles, was cut and served with lemonade and chocolate cake.

The Spindletop oil field near Beaumont will have produced fifteen million barrels of oil this year.

One sign everybody believes in is the dollar sign.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Pierce Hoggett complimented her brother, Carleton, with a party last Saturday evening in honor of his twelfth birthday.

Amusing old-fashioned games were played throughout the evening. After Carleton unwrapped his gifts, the birthday cake was brought in and cut for the cunning favors.

Hot chocolate and whipped cream and cake brought the evening to a happy close.

A. P. Boyett was in San Antonio this week-end on business, and was accompanied home by Mrs. Boyett and "Pat," who had been visiting Mrs. Boyett's parents.

The 1,000,000th Atwater Kent Radio Set

What Is Keeping You From Enjoying It, Too?

In more than a million homes Atwater Kent Radio is doing more than was expected.

And now here's the most astonishing set of all—the Atwater Kent Receiver with only One Dial. Just pick your broadcasting station, turn One Dial with a twist of the wrist—and there it is!

It's as simple as that—really! Try it yourself.

You won't be bothered by any of the secondary tuning devices which make some other so-called single control sets so complicated. One Dial does the whole job—if it's an Atwater Kent.

The tone, too, will delight you and your friends. It's as clear and true as church bells on a frosty morning.

Radio programs are now at their best. Don't miss them. The safe way for you is the way a million others have traveled—to—
