CARPENTERS WORKING FOR $8 PER DAY

Contractors Report That Lower Scale Being Accepted by Artisans on All New Jobs.

Union Officials Deny New Wage Proposals Accepted or That "Card Men" Draw Less Than $10.

All work started by members of the association since April 1 are paying for carpenter work on the new scale of $8 per day, and the men are working for that scale, members of the general contractors' association reported at their regular meeting Saturday, according to an official announcement issued following the meeting.

On all work instituted before April 1, the carpenters are being paid at the old scale of $10 per day.

The association, it is declared by members, represents practically every legitimate contractor in the city.

None of the contracting firms which have been invited to join have declined, and these outside were not asked and are not considered legitimate general contractors, members declare.

Denies Abatement of Stand.

Emphatic denial of the carpenters that union carpenters had abated their stand for their old scale of $10 per day, was made by the business agent of the carpenters' union.

He said Saturday night that the contractors might have men carrying cards on their jobs, but that these men were not union men. He declined to say, however, that any expulsions from the carpenters local had been made, saying he was not privileged to divulge that information.

"No modification of our by-laws which set the wages of members of the local at $10 per day has been made," he said, "and none are contemplated. Practically all our men are working, though there are some idle carpenters."

The plaintiffs were unsuccessful in a lower court because of lack of evidence that McDougall owned the bean.

Great Britain Intends to Abide by Agreements Made in Paris at January Conference on Reparations

By Associated Press.

LYMPHNE, Eng., April 23.—It is Great Britain's intention to abide by the provisions of the agreement arrived at in Paris last January with regard to what steps should be taken to coerce Germany into meeting her reparation's debt; she agrees that failure by Germany to meet her obligations in this respect should be met with further pressure.

That became known in course of today's meeting between Premier Briand and Premier Lloyd George, who came here to confer on the situation arising from Germany's stand on the reparations questions and what is to be done if she continues her recalcitrant attitude.

M. Briand, at his own request, explained to the British prime minister at a conference which occupied the best part of this afternoon and evening, the French proposals for setting up an economic administration in part of westphalia, including the Ruhr coal basin, should the Germans fail to pay reparations due May 1. Thet proceeds of this administration, such a taxatfon on coal exports and excess profits duties, would, under French plans, be placed in a pool out of which reparations would be paid the allies.

Although Mr. Lloyd-George doubtless was aware of the general character of the French plans from the communications exchanged between the British and French foreign offices, Premier Briand expressed the wish to explain personally some of the important features affecting the general policy of the allies, in order to obtain a complete unity of purpose.

Today's conversations, therefore, began with an extended exposition of the French scheme by M. Briand and Philippe Berthelot of the French foreign office with Mr. Lloyd George interrogating them.

The conversations were held in the black and gold room of the residence of Sir Philip Sassoon. There was no table in front of the conferees, who lounged in arm chairs. Those present, in addition to the principals were M. Krammerer, the official repository of many French state secrets and Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary to the committee on imperial defense, Sir Philip Kerr, Robert G. Vansittart and M. Sylvester, the latter four assisting Mr. Lloyd George.

During the afternoon word reached Lymphne from Berlin that the German cabinet was discussing fresh proposals, which it was reported might reach here before the conference breaks up Monday. M. Jaspar, the Belgian foreign minister, will visit London Tuesday to discuss the reparations matter with Mr. Lloyd George.

Speaking jocularly this evening of Germany's request to the United States government that it be the intermediary between the Germans and allies, Premier Briand said:

"To hear this gives me pleasure, because after the Washington government forwarded Germany's proposals it would doubtless make itself responsible for their execution."

Local Theaters May Open Sabbath Days In Next Two Weeks

One Picture Show had Planned Showing Today but Change in Seats Prevented.

Although unable to carry out their original intentions, and open today, Wichita Falls moving picture shows will open and attempt to run on Sunday during the coming summer, probably two weeks from today, it was learned from an authoritative source Saturday.

The fact that the spring opening will come on Monday, necessitating a change of seat covers which the use of one the theaters as a Sunday school Sunday morning would prevent before the opening of the show, is assigned as the cause of the delay in the opening.

The attitude which will be taken by the authorities on this matter could not be learned Saturday.

It is known however, that the moving picture show men are hopeful that the county and state authorities will take the position taken in other cities of Texas, that it is a matter of local police regulation, and that the local police would decline to interfere.

That either of these agencies would take this attitude, however, is only conjectures, so far as could be learned Saturday.

Rumors Current

Rumors of the intention of the moving picture show men in this connection have been current for several weeks, but it was not known positively until Saturday that a definite step could be expected in the near future.

While none of the local moving picture show men expressed themselves on the subject, the belief is apparently generally held, both on the part of those opposed and those in favor of the move, that the recent expression by individual directors of the Chamber of Commerce in favor of the same course of proceedure in Wichita Falls as in other of the larger cities of Texas has had a considerable bearing on the making of the decision by the moving picture men, together with expressions some months ago at a membership meeting of the Retail Merchants association and complaints from travelers stopping at local hotels.

Hotel Men Interested

The hotel men of the city will, it is believed, back the moving picture men sodidly, as the hotel men have been among the chief complainants at the lack of Sunday amusements—declaring that their lack is responsible for a general exodus to Dallas, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City about Friday, and that the hotels remain unfilled until about Tuesday of the following week.

It is not believed that the moving picture men will be able to carry out their program, however without a bitter fight from those opposed to the Sunday moving picture show, the element which has been victorious on the former occasions on which Sunday operation was attempted.

AUSTRALIA THINKS U.S. POWERFUL

Premier Believes Britain Should Frame Pact With America to Stop War

Subject of the Anglo-Japanese treaty was prominent in the discussion and in alluding to it the prime minister said:

"I have said repeatedly that the chief problem before the Great Britain is to draw up a treaty which will not involve us or Britain in a struggle with the people of the United States. The hope of the world depends on some sort of an understanding between America and the empire and it is to find a way of realizing that hope that the minds of those attending the imperial conference should be directed.

Democratic Opponents Declare They Will Carry Fight to Floor of Senate and Ask for Record Vote.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Despite some Democratic objection to Brigadier General Clarence R. Edwards, the senate military committee today voted to recommend confirmation of the 12 major and 14 brigadier generals nominated recently by President Harding for promotion. General Edwards, who commanded the 26th (New England) division overseas until relieved by General Pershing and returned home, was the only nominee on the list under fire. The committee vote on his name today was reported to have been 12 to 3 with three Democrats opposing and three others voting for his confirmation. Those said to have opposed General Edwards included Senators Hitchcock, Nebraska, and McKellar, Tennessee.

Senators Robinson of Arkansas and Myers of Montana, Democrats, were reported to have joined the Republican members in supporting him. Senator Sheppard of Texas, and Fletcher of Florida, the other Democrats in the committee, declined to indicate their vote.

Carry Fight to Senate

Democratic opponents of General Edwards, whose name headed the list of nominees for major general, intimated they would carry their fight to the senate floor. No filibuster, it was said, would be waged, but a record vote at least, it was declared, would be demanded. Republicans predicted that the entire list of general officers would be promptly ratified by the senate, thereby paving the way for a dozen more romotions to the rank of brigadier, many other promotions down through the whole service and for selection of a chief of staff.

Members of the senate committee expressed the belief that 'General Edwards would not be chosen chief of staff, after today's meeting at which Secretary Weeks was called in again for further discussion of General Edward's record. Major General Harbord, according to opinion of prominent Republican senators, will be selected chief of staff to succeed Major General Peyton C. March.

DEVELOPMENT LACKING IN WHISKEY CASE

No new developments were reported Saturday in connection with the raid of federal officers Thursday night in which they secured 1,400 quarts of whisky in a vacant house at 1109 Austin street. No arrests have been made.

It is known that the case has been called to the attention of the department of justice at Washington and it is believed that special effort will be made to run down several clues which indicate that local officers have uncovered a bootlegging industry.

The liquor was brought here two weeks ago and delivered at the Austin street residence during the day, according to evidence that was verified Saturday. It is believed that as high as 2,000 quarts were held at the house at one time. Empty barrels indicated that over 300 quarts had been distributed here within the last few weeks.

The place where the liquor is being held awaiting action by the federal court as to its final disposition is not announced by federal officers. Considerable interest is manifested as to the disposition of the liquor said to have a retail value of $50,000.

It is believed that a large part of it will be turned over to the internal revenue department for sale under governmental regulations. It is also believed that a request will be made that a part of the liquor be turned over to local hospitals for medicinal purposes.

Sentenced to Six Months on Theft Charge

A jail sentence of six months for theft of property valued at $1.50 and being placed under $500 bond for the alleged theft of more than $50 was the fate of J. W. Dozier, Saturday in county and justice courts.

On a petty theft charge Saturday morning, Dozier was given the six months sentence by a jury in the county court-at-law after evidence had been introduced showing that he had stolen a canvas covering to a wagon which was said by witnesses to have a value of $1.50.

After the case had been under consideration by the jury a few minutes the foreman asked for information as to whether or not the defendant was married. With the consent of attorneys in the case, the defendant stated that he was single. The jury rendered its verdict a few minutes later.

Immediately after the jury had announced the decision, Dozier was taken to Justice of the Peace Gwinn's court where a preliminary hearing was held on a charge of theft of over $50 was held.

Dozier was arrested in Bowie Thursday night by Sheriff Smith. According to the evidence introduced at the preliminary hearing, Dozier is alleged to have stolen several sets of harness here. The trial of the case in the county court-at-law was not concerned with these alleged thefts.

Jail Musician Gets Release

With the release Saturday of T. Boggs, federal prisoner, the county jail lost one member of a cast which had become famous for the musical entertainment among other inmates and that section of the city immediately surrounding the courthouse grounds.

Boggs, who had been held as a witness in the important federal counterfeit cases, was released Saturday after his musical partner, G. A. Cooper, and Phil Claiborn had pleaded guilty to the counterfeiting charges before Judge James C. Wilson, and he was not needed as a witness.

Cooper and Boggs, according to prisoners and jailer, are "playin' fools" when it comes to handling the guitar and violin. Their playing has caused considerable comment among outsiders who have passed the jail.

Cooper was sentenced to 18 months in the federal penitentiary during the past week and will probably be taken there during the coming week.

JAIL CROWDED TO CAPACITY, SMITH REPORTS

With a total of approximately 70 prisoners the county jail now has the largest number since Sheriff Smith assumed his duties in December. The unusual number of prisoners has resulted in a crowded condition which has necessitated several emergency measures to handle the situation.

According to Jailer Cass Tarver, some of the prisoners are allowed the use of the runways during the day, as the cell space is not adequate. At nights temporary cots are placed in the runways to provide sleeping accomodations.

It is expected that the situation will be materially relieved during the coming week when several federal prisoners will be removed to places of permanent confinement.

During the last week six have been given prison sentences and they will be removed during the coming week.

Several prisoners will also be released during the coming week, their jail terms expiring or their fines paid.

Two federal prisoners were removed to the Tarrant county jail Saturday.

Foster, oil man. The suit was for attorney fees alleged to be due plaintiff from the defendant for having represented him in several law suits.

The case which went on trial Friday morning, was the most hotly contested of the present term of federal court. Following the verdict, the suit of the plaintiff against the Reliance Oil company was dismissed by the court.

In his youth Goodman was a steamboat "nigger" working on the upper branches of the Ohio river and he was born near Nashville, Tenn. He is visiting E. Jenkins, a Wichita Falls negro.

SCOUTS HIKE FROM BURK IN THREE HOURS

From Burkburnett to Wichita Falls in three hours was the record set by six boy scouts of Burkburnett who Saturday morning delivered a letter to Scout Executive Taylor which was addressed to the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. The trip was made in what the scouts call "Scout pace" which means that 50 yards are trotted and 50 yards walked, relays being stationed every two and one-half miles.

As this is the first hike of the kind reported to the local scout organization Mr. Taylor says it aroused considerable interest among the boys and it is probable that some of the local troops will return the visit.

Wilfred Erm, assistant scout master of the Burkburnett organization reported to Mr. Taylor that one full troop of scouts had been organized and that a recruiting campaign that would give that place another troop was under way.

So much interest is manifest in Burkburnett over the scout movement, Mr. Taylor, says that they are discussing plans for a permanent scout encampment site to be situated on Red River.

ALLRED WILL BE ASSISTANT TO ZWEIFEL

The practically assured appointment of Ben P. Allred, court reporter of the 89th district court as assistant district attorney for the northern federal district, was announced here Saturday. Information regarding the appointment of Allred has been rumored since the visit here last week of Henry Zweifel, newly appointed district attorney who will succeed R. E. Taylor present incumbent, the first of May.

It is understood that Mr. Zweifel, while here, indicated that he would appoint Allred as one of his assistants and it is also known that the appointment has been recommended by several well known lawyers, including Mr. Taylor.

The probable appointment has caused some comment in local political circles due the fact that Allred, a democrat, is of opposite political faith from Zweifel, a prominent republican in this district.

Allred, who was recently admitted to the bar, has been court reporter of the 89th district court since its creation last June. He is well known among the members of the local bar association.

It is expected that his appointment will be announced the first of the week and that he will assume his new duties at the opening of the federal court term at Abilene May 2.

Resurfacing On Ohio Will Start Monday

Redressing the wood block paving on Ohio avenue will start Monday, the engineer's office said Saturday and that section of the street between Tenth and Thirteenth will be the first to be treated with Tarvia.

The whole of the wood block paving will be treated with this substance the department says, but as it requires two days for the dressing to set, it will be done by blocking off the section worked on.

This is done in hopes that it will prevent the buckling of the blocks, which it is said has been quite noticeable of late.

COMMITTEE VOTES RANK FOR EDWARDS

officers along with that of Charles G. Dawes of Chicago, to be brigadier general on the reserve list, will be submitted to the senate Monday.

Weeks Searches Files

Information submitted today by Secretary Weeks regarding General Edward's record, was given in executive session. Members of the committee said that it disclosed existence of differences between General Pershing and General Edwards over the latter's course in commanding the 26th division in France. Secretary Weeks, however, was reported to have declared emphatically to Democratic senators opposing Edwards' promotion that a thorough search of the war department files had been made without finding any record of such charges as Democratic senators said that they understood to have testified tolay that after opposition developed at yesterday's committee meeting against General Edwards he had talked over the case last night with General Pershing. The latter, it was said, told Secretary Weeks that he had not recommended General Edwards for promotion and if called on to act again would not now recommend General Edwards for a higher rank. Secretary Weeks was said to have stated also that General Pershing did not now disapprove General Edwards' confirmation, desiring to refrain from intervening in the matter.

Edwards Criticizes

Information given to the committee today by Secretary Weeks, according to committee members, was to the effect that events which led to relief of General Edwards from command of the 26th division, had their inception during the previous July. The order relieving General Edwards from command came, it was said, on the day before his division went into action. The committee was told, it was said, that General Edwards had criticized decisions regarding strategy emanating from general headquarters. Another circumstance said to have been involved was that of co-operation of General Edwards in executing plans of the campaign involving his division.

TRUCK FARMERS CONSULTED FOR CIVIC MARKET

A temporary organization consisting of a committee to consult with truck growers of Wichita Falls and viscinity in regard to opening a public market and to look into other details necessary to the establishment of a producer to consumer market, was effected at a meeting Saturday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce rooms attended by representative truck farmers, Mrs. T. B. Smock of the Civic league, J. A. Kemp, J. M. McFall and others.

After considerable discussion of the plan it was decided to name the committee to work out the organization detail and report at a meeting called for next Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m. at the Chamber of Commerce rooms.

Solon Downing was appointed chairman of the committee, and Joe Tyson, secretary, with the following members: L. B. Brumer, J. W. Mix, J. B. Nicholson, J. M. McFall and Mrs. T. B. Smock.

Meeting of this committee will be held Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the chamber rooms at which time reports of the sentiment in the different sections of Wichita county of truck growers will be presented with any other plans which have been developed.

The desire of the truck growers as well as the Civic league and citizens of Wichita Falls is to give the market a thorough try out.

While the movement of vegetables and other truck garden products will not be very great at the present time, it is the hope of the farmers and members of the truck growers' association in process of organization, to get the thing started before the season opens.

OIL EXPERT TELLS HOW TO SAVE GAS

There is no question of more interest to the motorist than is "gas", the friendly name given to gasoline by all who own cars. If there is any way to reduce the cost of gas, the motorist is interested. That is why the opinion of A. R. Elliott, assistant petroleum engineer of the bureau of mines, should be of the greatest interest to all owners of motor cars. Elliott believes that it is possible to recover more than 2,000,000 barrels of fuel and to stop yearly losses, which total more than 15,000,000 barrels. Here is what he says:

By A. R. ELLIOTT.
(Assistant Petroleum Engineer, Bureau of Mines.)

The great demand for petroleum resulting chiefly from the increase of oil-burning devices and motor-driven vehicles forces producers of this essential mineral to take advantage of every opportunity to increase its production by seeking new sources of supply and what is more important, to use new methods for saving more of the oil brought to the surface than has been retained heretofore. As in other kinds of mining, it is thought possible that a large additional recovery can be obtained at a profit by working over the wastes in certain fields and by using more economical methods of production in the future.

A survey of the oil districts of California was made by the bureau in order to ascertain whether the visible masses of wasted oil-bearing sands would be a profitable source of supply. From the data collected, it is estimatted that 2,359,100 barrels of oil, valued at more than $3,500,000, could be obtained from the sand piles about producing wells and from the out-cropping in the vicinity of the fields. Also many times that amount of oil scattered over nearly the total oil producing area might be recovered from seepage. Seepage, in this case, is the oil that is permitted to return into the ground or remain on the surface of oil-saturated ground.

Quoting from reliable authors (Arnold, Ralph and Garfias, V. R. Methods of Oil Recovery in California, Tech. Paper 70, Bureau of Mines, 1914, p. 7) "It is probable that 10 to 15 per cent of the total gross production of the state has ben wasted, through seepage or evaporation." This represents a loss of 15,000,000 barrels of oil yearly. Probably one-quarter to one-half of this amount seeps into the ground.

Recovery Wastes.

As possible means of recovering a large amount of oil from these wastes, the following should be considered: (1) Recovering oil left in the sand that is produced with the oil; (2) reclaiming the oil that seeps into the ground through waste in production, and (3), refining and treating the material in oil-bearing outcrops and asphalt beds that occur in certain sections of the state.

In the early days of a productive field the rush of gas into a new well frequently sucks oil and sand with it in large quantities. Oftentimes adequate means of holding in the well are not available, and the oil is permitted to flow "wild" until the gas pressure diminishes enough to enable controlling the well. This may require days or even months. In many instances the sand thus extracted piles to a height of ten to fifteen feet on the derrick, sloping to a radius of over fifty feet. There being no commercial use for this oil-saturated sand it is removed from the immediate vicinity of the well or otherwise disposed of as valueless.

Throughout many of the oil districts of California, particularly in the San Joaquin valley, a noticeable feature is the large cone-shaped mounds near each of the wells where sand is produced with the oil. At many wells the mound completely surrounds the derrick, and is often 15 to 20 feet high. To provide for the sand in districts where considerable quantities are produced, pumps are excavated about ten feet deep and the floor of the derrick is elevated six feet. These mounds of sand have been building since the wells started to produce oil and will no doubt continue to increase in size, though at a slower rate, until the end of production.

Producing for Years.

Many of the wells have been producing since 1909 and some were drilled as early as 1904 and 1900. The amount of sand produced varies as a rule, between 20 and 60 per cent and may be as high as 90 percent of the gross production of the well, depending upon the gas pressure and the character of the sand. In wells where the sand is loose and fine grained and agitated by a high gas pressure naturally a greater amount rises to the surface with the oil.

In the Sunset field, wells with high gas pressures have produced more than 5,100 tons of sand in two to four years, representing nearly two-thirds of their gross productions. In the Midway field there is a well producing about 500 tons a month and wells near it with an output nearly as large. In the Kern river and West Side Coalinga fields the oil is of heavy gravity and with the aid of an agitator such as air, large amounts of sand are lifted to the surface. Each well yields ten to 25 barrels of oil daily; the production on sand carried with it various between 20 to 60 per cent and probably averages 40 per cent of the gross production. The amount of sand per well, because of the small oil production, is small, but owing to the great number of wells in these districts the aggregate amount is large.

Where wells produce only a small amount of sand, the so-called sand boxes are frequently used. The sand box is a long, narrow, open trough closed at the ends and fitted with baffles running cross wise to the flow. The oil flows slowly over the sharp baffles, the sand emulsion set—OIL EXPERT— Gal 2— auto tles to the bottom of the box and are shovelled out as often as necessary.

How It Can Be Done.

Also, in the districts that produce heavy gravity oils, a convenient way of separating the sand and oil is to permit the oil to flow through long open ditches to reservoirs where the free oil is removed by a suction pump. Evidently great quantities of oil con be wasted through seepage along the ditches and around the reservoir. If some accurate method could be used to compare the amount of oil as it came from the well with the amount actually recovered, the difference would be surprisingly large.

It is reported that the loss between the well and the field storage tank of one large producing company is approximately 40,000 barrels a month. Other companies report a proportionate amount.

Hardly a rough estimate can be made of the waste, as it is scattered over a wide area, and in many cases at a considerable distance from its source. For example, of the 10,000,000 barrels of oil that flowed from the Lakeview gusher, 4,000,000 barrels overflowed the roughly constructed reservoirs and spread over the low region a mile from the well. The oil was of light gravity and much of it seeped into the ground. Consequently spread over asphaltic crust, underneath which is sand saturated with oil to a depth of two to six feet.

Further search for sources from which crude oil might be extracted reveals the fact that in the natural asphalt beds and seeps along the coast of California enormous quantities can be obtained.

LAST WEEK OF FEDERAL COURT OPENS MONDAY

The last week of the present federal term of court will open Monday morning with numerous law and criminal cases yet to be tried. Although numerous pleas of guilty were made during the week, no contested cases were tried and some doubt is expressed as to whether it will be possible to try any criminal cases due to the fact that several important law cases set for trial will probably consume the entire time.

Four applications for naturalisation papers have been filed and will be acted upon by Judge Wilson during the week. There are also five applications hanging over from the last term of federal court. They are mainly from German residents of Clay county.

Clouting the ball to all angles of the field and sending six over the various fences that enclose the ball park, the Fort Worth Panthers barely managed to finish out in front of the Spudders yesterday afternoon by the score of 14 to 11 after nine long and hectic innings.

The locals put up a terrific battle along the entire route. The hitting of Kraft, Rigney and Clark were easily the features of the fray, Kraft garnering three homers and two singles in five trips to the plate, Rigney getting two homers in five times up and Clark enjoying a perfect day with a home-run and three singles in four times up. Miller got three doubles in four times and Sears' day's work amounted to a single, double and a four-base clout. Altogether, the visitors made 20 safe hits and the Spudders 17. Seven home-runs, one triple and five doubles were made during the contest.

Manager Salm, McElwee and Pate of the visitors were put out of the game during the afternoon. Salm drew his park exit in the fourth frame for disputing a decision made on strikes while McElwee and Pate were sent to the showers after a mixup during the sixth inning when Pate acidentally hit McElwee in the middle of the back with the ball. Mac hurt, threw his bat into the infield and Pate thought Mac had intended to throw it at him. Pate rushed to the place intent upon jumping on Mac but Umps Kane intervened. The entire both teams circles around the home station drawing "John Law" with them. Kane handled the situation with ease however, sending Mac and Pate out of the game and making the players go back to their positions. Bischoff finished the game in Mac's place in right field and ran for Mac in the sixth.

The contest was in dispute during the entire nine frames hardly an inning passing that at least one squawk wasn't made. Miller's double in the fourth chapter was the cause of Fort Worth making a kick and Kane announced the visitors would continue the game under protest. Miller's double sent in two runs ahead of him which put the homelings in the lead although Jake was retired at third trying to stretch the hit to three bags. The Atz contended that both runs should not score as Miller was out at third making the last out of the inning, but Kane ruled otherwise. Tanner, acting manager for the Spudders, contended that as Coombs had tried to kick the ball by kicking it as it went out should allow Miller to be entitled to a three-base blow. Kane's ruling was fair for both sides as he allowed the putout and also allowed the scores.

The contest started off rather heavily, nine runs being scored in the first inning. Salm sent Anderson to the mound to perform for the Spudders but the Idaho boy looked bad in kicking the first man and allowing Sears to double. Kraft's home-run over the centerfield fence, which by the way was the longest hit ever made on the local diamond, proved to Andy that the showers were better than the mound and Leo Mangum was sent in to finish the inning. Leo retired the side after Haley shot a single to left. With the score 4 to 0 against them the slugging Spudders came right back in their half hopping on the formerly invincible Wachtel for six hits and three runs. Rothfuss came to bat twice during the inning striking out once and going out at first the second time. Tanner started the fireworks by shooting a single to right. McDonald struck out but Clark picked out one he liked and the pill drifted over the left center field fence. Miller then made his first double of the day, followed by McElwee's single to short. Works beat out a dribble to third and Miller scored. Kitchens was walked filling the bases. Mangum came through with a single to right and McElwee and Works counted, putting the Spudders in the lead by one counter. Rothfuss went out Wachtel to Kraft.

The Panthers jumped ahead in the third but the Spudders came right back in the fourth and went into the lead with two scores. Again the visitors tied the count in the fifth but the homelings couldn't see it that way, putting over three runs in the sixth. Kraft's second home-run of the matinee brought the visitors within two runs of catching Salm's crew in the seventh.

After two hits had been made off Mangum in the eighth, Salm who was still on the field giving orders, although far away from the bench, yanked Leo and sent in Ruth. Coombs sacrificed Ruth to Works and the runners moved up a notch. Ruth filled the bases and Salm pulled his belt and yelled for Abe Bowman. The big hurler chucked a couple at Sears and then watched the pill sail out of sight for a home-run which scored three with it. Taylor singled but was out trying to steal and Haley struck out ending the inning.

With the visitors having a three-run lead the Spudders were still fighting and almost knotted the count again in their half of the fatal eighth. Tanner singled and McDonald got on when Haley trying for a double play threw the pill to right field. Tanner stopped at third and Mac rested on the initial sack. Clark's long fly to centerfield scored Tanner but Miller ended the inning by hitting into a double play.

The Panthers made it 14 in the ninth when Rigney's second hit of the day was his second homer. Appleton who hurled the last two frames for the visitors held the Spudders at his mercy in the ninth, fanning Bischoff and Works and making Kitchens fly to Haley.

Fort Worth is here today and tomorrow the last two games to be played here before the Spudders make their first trip. It is hoped that the teams put up a little hitting and running for pencils cost more than they used to and it took a whole one to score that game yesterday.

FROM THE ROOF

Jakey Atz wanted to know why both runs should count in the fourth inning when Miller almost trippled to left. The Umps told him.

Kane had to work the game by himself as Daly was sent to handle the Gassers-Marine contest, but the former big leaguer got by nicely, even though there were at least 4,511 arguments during the fray.

Kraft's three home runs in one game may be recorded. Hope that Bill Ruggles will tell us.

Clark had a perfect day and again leads the Spudder sluggers. One home run, three singles and a sacrifice fly completed Danny's defensive work for the day.

Quiet ole McElwee got throwed out of the game in the sixth and all he did was to throw his bat in the infield when hit by a pitched ball. Pate thought McElwee intended to hit him with the club, but those who know the right fielder realize the thrown bat was more because Mac was hurt and not because he held any malice toward "Bugs."

EMERY LEADING IN SOUTHERN LEAGUE

The Southern Association batters are being shown the way by Emery of Birmingham, who has an average of .542. Eleven players have connected for one home run each. Mullen of Mobile heads the base stealers with four thefts.

Glancin' 'Round The Sport World

WITH VAN

Is Johnny Wilson a "cheese champ?" Not to hear him tell it he isn't. In fact the Boston Wop claims that not only will he give every middleweight in the world a chance at the title but will go out of his way to make matches. The two bouts with Mike O'Dowd, one in which Wilson won the title and the other when he retained it, were used as a reminder as to what he can do, when the champ and Frank Menke had a chat in Ole New York a few days ago. "They call me 'cheese' Johnny said, but I showed the 'wise' boys' that I can fight and that is all I want to show anybody."

Jimmy Zinn got away with a nice contest the other day when he handed the Moranmen a 6 to 1 walloping. The former Spudder hurler allowed the 1919 champs 10 hits, but kept them scattered and was never in trouble. Zinn is fortunate in being with the Pirates for many eminent sport writers believe the Pittsburg crew have the best chance of beating the "conceded champs," the Giants, to the wire, next October.

The Pirates are going to be sorry they never gave Rothfuss a chance this spring, if the former Steel leaguer continues his slugging. "Frog-eye" has up until Saturday cloisted the pill for 14 safe blows in 29 trips to the plate which is just around the .500 mark. According to local dopesters the Frenchman looks better than Josefson or Johnny Mokan ever hoped to be. And by the way, Mokan has been in the Pittsburg lineup so far this season.

AMES RUNNERS WIN TWO-MILE RELAY SPRINT

By Associated Press

DES MOINES, April 23.—Running the fastest two miles ever made by a team of American runners, the Ames, Iowa, relay quartet established a new two-mile record of 7:52 2-5 for the Drake relays in the twelfth renewal of the games at the Drake stadium today. Five other records for the games were shattered and one equaled.

The Ames relay team, composed of Arthur Wolters, Stanley Graham, Herbert Webb and Ottis Higgins, smashed the American record of 7:53 for the two miles, held jointly by the Irish American Athletic Club of New York and Yale University.

Near World Record

The Ames flyers came within two seconds of equaling the world's record of 7:50 2-5 for the distance, made by the combined team of Oxford-Cambridge runners in the Pennsylvania relay last year.

Pennsylvania Scores First Track Victory

PHILADELPHIA, April 23.—Pennsylvania, the inter-collegiate champions, defeated Harvard in a track meet on Franklin Field today by the score of 69 1-3 to 47 2-3. Rain swept the oval during the meet and left the field and track boggy and unfit for record time.

Captain Earl Eby and Everett Smalley of Pennsylvania, divided honors, each winning two first places. Eby gave his team ten points in the quarter and half mile, while Smalley did likewise in both hurdles. The Pennsylvanias swept through the track events, losing only one first place when Ned Gourdain, Harvard, captured the century dash.

Today's victory is the first Pennsylvania has ever scored against Harvard in a dual meet.

Duncan to Have New Ball Yard And Classy Team

DUNCAN, Okla., April 24.—Arrangements have been completed whereby Duncan is to have a fast independent ball team in the field within two weeks. A company has been organized to put this project over and the plans include the erection of a modern ball ground at the city park. The grounds will be inclosed by an eight foot wall and the modern grand stand and bleachers will have a seating capacity of 5,000.

It is expected to have the grandstand up and the grounds ready to play ball by May 15.

A number of fans have been working on this project for some time and all who like to see a good fast ball game will rejoice to know the team is assured. The company handling the enterprise is headed by Sam Robinowitz, president; Johnny Burns, secretary and treasurer, and manager; Johnny Fant, captain of the team. These men are all well known here and their interest in the team makes its success assured. The captain will be remembered as the fast center fielder seen in action here last season.

A number of Duncan players will be given a tryout and fast players will be imported from other places to make up a team that will be able to cope with the best league teams, who will come here for off-day games.

MISS THELMA BASHAM AND THOMAS M'DANIEL WED

A pretty though quiet wedding of the past week was that of Miss Thelma Basham and Mr. Thomas McDaniel, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Basham, Tuesday afternoon.

The ring ceremony was read by the Reverend H. D. Knickerbocker in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

The young people are well known here, the groom being the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. McDaniel on Ninth street.

The reception suite of the Basham home was attractively decorated for the occasion with baskets of pink roses, ferns and potted plants.

As the bridal party entered, Loengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Thava Salmon.

The bride was attended by Miss Carrie Gates as bridesmaid, and Mrs. E. M. Haney, sister of the bride, matron of honor.

CITY COUNCIL TO ORGANIZE MONDAY NIGHT

Organization of the city council for the coming year, the appointment of a city physician, an examination into recommendations as to the budget for the year and routine matters will occupy the attention of the city council Monday night according to Councilmen, Reed, Bonner and Bralley.

All the city commissioners have their reports as to personnel and pay prepared, ready to submit, they say and while some of the departments may not have their money requirements drafted entirely, preliminary steps toward the final budget will be begun, Dr. J. F. Reed says.

Grocer Viewpoint Will Be Topic at Ad Club Meeting

"Advertising from the viewpoint of the wholesale grocer" with E. S. Goodner, president of the Goodner Grocery Co., the principal speaker will be the topic for study at the regular weekly luncheon of the Ad Club, it was announced Saturday by Mrs. M. M. Kavanaugh, secretary of the club.

The attendance prizes will be given by the Mid-West Printing Co., by Mrs. W. Wismiller.

The Study division, which meets on Tuesday evening, will be in charge of T. A. Bradley, advertising manager of the Perkins-Timberlake Co.

The Study division at their last meeting made a study of advertisements, recently published for local firms, and after passing on their relative merits, the secretary was ordered to mail the criticisms, found by the division, to the firms, who had ordered the ads published.

Funeral For Soldier Dead Held in Graham

Funeral services will be held this afternoon in Graham for C. C. Carlton, former Gulf scout and popular young oil operator of Wichita Falls, who died Thursday night in a Dallas sanitarium, where he had recently undergone an operation.

The body was taken to Graham from Dallas Saturday and was accompanied by J. A. Gardner, district superintendent of the Gulf, who remained to assist in the funeral arrangements. Practically the entire Wichita Falls office of the Gulf will accompany Mrs. Carlton and members of her family to Graham, going by automobile this morning, and a number of other close friends and business associates will also attend the funeral from Wichita Falls.

The news of the death of "Doc" Carlton, as he was known throughout this district, was a distinct shock, though he was known to have been in poor health for months. Ill health was one of the reasons for his resigning his position as scout for the Gulf Production company last summer, and he had shown occasional improvement, though in the last few weeks he had suffered several acute attacks, diagnosed as gall stones. His stalwart build and strong vitality, however, had given his friends cause to believe that he would stand the operation splendidly, and the news of his death came very unexpectedly.

Mr. Carlton had been a resident of Wichita Falls about five years, including the period of time when he served in the depot brigade at Camp Travis. During the time until last summer he was connected with the Gulf's scouting force, and was one of the most popular scouts of the district, and was considered one of the best informed as to the local oil fields. He had been operating independently since his resignation from the Gulf.

Four years ago he was married to Miss Nina Hall, also with the Gulf company, and also a former Young county resident. Mrs. Carlton has continued her connection with the Gulf company, being private secretary to the superintendent, Mr. Gardner.

The bereaved wife will be accompanied to Graham by her father, E. E. Hall, and sisters, Misses Elizabeth, Katherine and Lillian Hall, and brother, Ferris Hall, of 1403 Ninth street, and by the members of the Gulf force, and other friends.

Mr. Carlton's mother died only a few months ago. His father and several brothers and sisters survive.

Upon its record of achievements, its financial strength and its long term of usefulness to the Wichita Falls district, the City National Bank of Commerce solicits new accounts—large or small, Checking or Saving.—Adv.

TEXAS OSTEOPATHS WILL MAKE EXAMINATION OF CHILDREN WITH POOR HEALTH DURING MEET HERE

Any parents having children below the age of ten years, for whom they wish a complete diagnosis are invited to bring them to the "Children's Health Conference," which opens the twenty-first annual convention of the Texas Osteopathic Association, convening in Wichita Falls Friday, May 6, it was announced Saturday by Dr. R. H. Peterson, chairman of the arrangements committee.

Dr. Jeanette Hubbard Bolles of Denver, Colo., member of the National Public Health Committee, will direct the conference, acording to the announcement, and will hand to each parent a complete reading of their children's health condition, together with suggestions for the treatment of any short comings found in the examinations.

Dr. Peterson said that while the children will each be graded, according to their health development, the conference will in no wise be in the nature of a contest, but will be solely for the purpose of giving information for the better care of babies and children.

The conference will open at 9:30 o'clock at the Kemp hotel and will be closed at 12 o'clock.

Dr. Jeanette H. Bolles, Denver, Colo

[illegible] nearly 500 delegates are expected to arrive in the city for the conference, according to Dr. A. O. Scharff, president of the Texas association. The delegates are expected to arrive Thursday afternoon and night and will be in the city until after the closing session, on Saturday night.

Among the prominent physicians who will attend the conference are: Dr. Henry Tete of New Orleans, diagnostician; Dr. J. J. Conley of Kansas City; clinical diagnosis; Dr. C. C. Reid of Denver, Colo., eye, ear, nose and throat specialist; Dr. R. R. Norwood of Mineral Wells, orthepedic surgery; Dr. L. von Gerdine of Kansas City, neurologist, and Dr. R. E. Huff of Wichita Falls, dental surgeon, all of whom will assist in the children's health conference, at the opening of the program.

Parents who wish to have their children examined are requested to notify Dr. Peterson at his office, 308 Morgan building, before the opening of the conference.

FARMERS PLAN NATIONAL TOWN MEETING

George P. Hampton, left; William H. Johnston, center, and Benj. A. Marsh.

Representatives of many farm organizations are in Washington for the national town meeting arranged to plan a joint legislative program. Among the leaders are George P. Hampton, manager of the Farmers' National Council; William H. J. Johnston, president of the International Association of Machinists, and Benj. A. Marsh, secretary of the People's Reconstruction League.

AFTER "STRAY" CATTLE

Varsity Club Minstrels All Rarin to Go

Real singers in the chorus, song hits hot from Broadway's latest offerings and vaudeville skits, brimming full of timely and untimely thrusts that will let few of the leading citizens of the town escape their barbs, are only a few of the entertaining features of the University Club minstrel and vaudeville offering, which begins Monday evening at the Wichita theater, as announced Saturday by members of the cast and committee in charge of sales of tickets.

Members say that the program is to be snappy and contrary to the general run of home talent efforts, will be brought to a close before 11 o'clock.

Ben Neal and Roy Thomas are announced as the black face artists who will appear on the ends, while Norris Ewing, in the role of interlocutor will conduct the introductions.

Mrs. Paul Larkins will appear in a solo number, as will both the end men and George Hodgens, who will appear in black face.

Saturday afternoon it was asked that the show be announced in every church in the city at the Sunday morning services and the members told of the condition of the students' athletic funds.

THROUGH CAR INAUGURATED TO DUNCAN

Starting Saturday night the M., K. & T. railroad inaugurated a through merchandise car to Duncan, Okla., which will be daily service as long as business warrants, an announcement states.

It is planned to attach the car to a freight train which leaves here during the night transferring the car to the Rock Island at Ringgold arriving in Duncan about noon the next day.

Shipments from Wichita Falls to Duncan have been heavy in the past few weeks on account of the increase in oil developments in the fields close to that city and Katy officials believe the merchandise car will prove very popular.

HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATED IN TWO CONTESTS

The combination of a hitting streak by the opponents and a disposition of the local High school baseball team to fumble the ball at critical times in one inning of each game, gave the Senior High school baseball team the small end of two games, played Friday and Saturday at Childress and Vernon, according to their reports, on returning Saturday night.

The first went to Childress to the tune of 5 to 3, while Vernon counted 15 to the locals 6 Saturday afternoon.

The Childress boys scored 4 of their runs in the fourth inning, and Vernon sent 8 runs home during the eighth frame.

Players said that Maccabee, star pitcher on the local team, went into the Saturday game slightly stale from having to work five innings on the previous day after the Childress boys had begun to pound Pope's offerings to all corners of the lot.

Friendships in Business Helps Says U. S. Judge

"Sargint Jim" Gets Military Burial Honors

By Associated Press.

MANDAN, N. D., April 23.—They buried "Sargint Jim" Flannagan here today with the military honors they felt due him as the last surviving scout of General George A. Custer's frontier campaigns. "Sargint Jim" died Thursday, he was 84 years old.

Two hundred former service men, veterans of Indian fighting, the Spanish war, the Boxer rebellion, the Civil war and World War joined in paying tribute to the old scout. There were uniforms of a dozen different types in the slow moving column that followed "Sargint Jim" to his grave.

Flannagan was known throughout North Dakota as "Sargint Jim" Flannagan.

His experiences included participation in the gold rush to California from Greenfield, Mass., where he was born, and service through the Civil war with the Eleventh regiment of Ohio cavalry.

SILK, NOT COTTON, WORN IN SOUTH

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 23.—Women in the south who wear silk stockings and—um—other things will be the object of a movement launched here to enhance the value of cotton products.

Strangely enough the south, home of cotton, is sadly addicted to the use of silk. Therefore a movement has been started urging southern women to wear dresses made of cotton goods alone. F. Gordon Cobb, mill superintendent, started the movement, which has been taken up by the Greenville chamber of commerce. Other cities will be asked to help.

ROUND UP TO OPEN THURSDAY WITH PARADE

Promptly at 11 o'clock next Thursday morning Miss Rene Hafley of Ridgeway, Colo., official bugler for the Round-Up will sound the opening call of the Round-Up parade and while four bands dispense music along the route of the pageant, citizens will have a chance to give the local men, cowboys and cowgirls who will take part in the season's biggest entertaining event the once over.

Preceeding the parade, will be the usual cordon of mounted police clearing the way of traffic. Then will come Miss Hafley, sounding the bugle to apprise the populace of the approaching pageant.

She will be followed by the flag bearers, carrying Old Glory and the Round-Up banner.

At the head of the parade will ride His Honor Mayor Cline, mounted upon one of the most beautiful horses in the entire state, furnished by the W. F. Weeks stable for this special occasion.

With the mayor, one on either side will ride Tom L. Burnett, supreme purveyor of cowboy sports and Mrs. Lucille Burnett, the great woman roper, mounted on the best horses of the Tri-angle Ranch.

Then will come the first band followed by a number of decorated cars in which will ride city officials, many other prominent guests of the Round-Up.

These will be followed by the high school and gaited saddle classes and will include W. F. Weeks, local horse breeder and fancier, Virgil Keel, of Gainesville, Miss Mamie Francis and California Frank Hafley of Ridgeway, Colo., Geraldine Griffith, Dick Griffith and others making altogether a great collection of gaited and schooled horses. Next will be seen a score or more of cowgirls, those queens of the prairies, in gay silken costumes and big velour hats each trying to outshine the other in the matter of bright colored wearing apparel.

Separating these from the remainder of the parade will be the fire department of the city showing the greatest array of fire fighting equipment and men ever assembled in a city of this size.

Next comes the greatest display of trained cow horses and real cowboys ever strung out in one parade in this state. A hundred strong these knights of the saddle and lariat will file past, mounted on their favorite cowhorses. In this bunch will be seen such famous horses as George Weir's famous roping horse "Wizard;" Mrs. Burnett's two roping horses, "Bud" and "Creamy;" Frank McCarroll's famous bulldogging mount, "Man O War," named after the famous racer; Hugh Strickland's two noted roping steeds, "Powder" and "Anville;" Chester Byers' mount, "Stray Leaf;" Tommy Kirnan's imported South American beauty "Rubio;" Slim Caskey's famous bulldogging mount, "Charlie," and scores of other steeds from which it would be hard to part the owners.

Following the cowboys will be the chuck wagon, the traveling "cowboy hotel," once a familiar sight in this section during the round-up of the herds. The tarpaulin covering this particular chuck wagon is one of the cherished possessions of Mr. Burnett and might be called a family heirloom, it having seen service for 30 years on the Four Six and Triangle ranches and has painted upon it the leading brands of the largest cattle outfits of Texas 30 years ago.

Another band of music will follow the chuck wagon, after which will come the Indians in war paint and feathers, mounted on Indian ponies and replete with beaded mocasins, elk tooth necklaces and other bright vari-colored trappings, customary with the red man on the war path.

Following the Indians will come auto parties from other cities in parade formation, completing the longest round-up parade ever staged in this state.

Romping at will throughout the pageant will be Red Sublett, the famous cowboy rube on his "semi-annual" bucking mule Dynamite.

Little Joe Hetzer, the diminutive cowboy rube and comedian, 39 inches in height, will be mounted on the largest horse in the state, an animal that tips the beam at 2,200 pounds.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Bryan Roach, arena director, will sound the blast that will send the hundred or more contestants dashing into the arena in the various stunts for which Mr. Burnett has hung up nearly $10,000 in prizes for the winners.

The regular contested events will take place each afternoon while a series of high class stunts or exhibitions will be presented each night for the benefit of those who cannot attend the regular contest in the afternoon.

Wind Prevents Spraying Work On Lamar Trees

High winds Friday and Saturday prevented satisfactory work being done in spraying the trees of Lamar street Park for insects that are ruining the foliage of these trees Commissioner J. F. Reed said Saturday.

Work started Friday afternoon on this project but the winds were so high that the spray could not be put to the top of the trees.

The cemetery's sprayer was used pending the purchase of another sprayer which Dr. Reed says he will recommend to the council at Monday's meeting. He hopes then to have a permanent crew working daily until the trees of the city have all been sprayed.

Payment for this work of spraying will be from the general fund, if Dr. Reed's recommendations are followed by the council.

Dr. Reed says that in the past it has been unsatisfactory for the city to do only part of the work allowing the individual property owners to pay for the spraying of their trees.

Local Business Men Will Aid in Foreign Finance

Wichita Falls business men are to see that the city's share in the underwriters syndicate being formed by Nathan Adams, Dallas banker, to permit advantage being taken of the operation of the foreign finance corporation organized under the Edge bill, and aid in the finding of a market for cotton, it was definitely learned Saturday.

"We will see that Wichita Falls does its full share in this movement as in everything else," one of the business men, who is participating in the movement, declared.

"With our wheat crop, it remains only for us to aid in making a market for cotton to be able to liquidate this country easily and completely," he continued.

MILADY'S UMBRELLA MAKES HANDY WEAPON FOR DEFENCELESS WOMAN WHEN ATTACKED BY MASHER

Miss Myrtle Tannehill stopping a masher's advances with her trusty parasol.

Miss Myrtle Tannehill, a talented actress who plays the part of a secret service agent in "The Broken Wing," which has been one of the stage successes of the past season in New York, is a firm believer in the independent woman. It is a coincident that she is playing the part of a secret service woman in the play and that she is in reality well equipped to face all the dangers that a woman in such work must meet. Here Miss Tannehill is showing how an umbrella or parasol, yes, even the prettiest and daintiest of silk ones, may be employed to land a knockout blow. Here you see her pushing the umbrella underneath the jaw, a most vulnerable spot in the human anatomy and likewise a 100 per cent way of putting a footpad temporarily out of business. No great physical strength is required in employing this means of defense and any woman, no matter how slight or frail, can put a husky thief at her mercy. Alphonz Ethier, the leading man in "The Broken Wing," is playing he's the bold, bad footpad in the picture.

PAPA'S KNAPSACK NOW CARRIES BABY

Alice Delysia, popular French actress, sailed for home after winning popularity here in the spectacle "Afgar."

SHIPS, BUILT DURING WAR, GRINDING SELVES TO PIECES

J. B. Patton, port captain for the U. S. shipping board, has made the statement that forty ships belonging to the board are grinding themselves to pieces at Palls Island, between Elizabethport and Perth Amboy. Others are pounding aground, he says. The ships were built for commercial purposes during the war. They could be sold for but a fraction of their cost.

IS DOROTHY ARNOLD MYSTERY SOLVED?

Dorothy Arnold.

Has the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Dorothy Arnold, the New York heiress who suddenly dropped out of sight eleven years ago, been solved? Police Captain John H. Ayres, head of the bureau of missing persons of New York city, was recently quoted in a New York newspaper as saying that the mystery had been solved by his department. Later he stated that the mystery had not been solved by his bureau, but that he was convinced the Arnold family felt satisfied in their own minds of what happened to Miss Arnold.

Wichita Falls Hostess This Week to Club Women of First District

WICHITA FALLS OPENS DOORS TO FEDERATED CLUB WOMEN OF DISTRICT MONDAY MORNING

Tomorrow Wichita Falls' hospitable doors will open to welcome the club women of Northwest Texas for the three most important days in the entire club year—the annual meeting of the First District of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs. These club women, coming from more than fifty counties of the great northwest of Texas, and representing more than one hundred and fifty clubs, high important factors in the life of the country, are expecting an unusual entertainment from Wichita Falls. And, after several weeks of efforts thoughtfully and carefully expended, the hairman of the various committees for these hospitalities, and their assistant committee members, feel justified in the statements that these expectations will be lived up to completely.

The district president, Mrs. Mark Henry, and the district program chairman, Mrs. W. R. Potter, who suggested the lines the social features of the meeting should take, have been very enthusiastic in their approval of the program, and they have been kind enough to say that nothing could have been added to the plans. Mrs. Charles R. Hartsook, the general chairman for the local arrangements has this past week received the approval of both on the program she has worked out locally as desired by the district officers and she, and all of her special chairmen, as well as chairman of the standing committee report their committees in complete readiness for the opening of the Federation, Monday afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Walter S. Robertson, district chairman of music, has had charge of the musical numbers for the official program, and the numbers she has announced show some of the representative musical talent of district, with only a few local artists appearing, except on the program for president's evening.

For the Wednesday noon concert, at the Palace Theater, Mrs. Lucile Brooks is chairman, and this program has been arranged from local artists.

The music for the Tuesday evening reception is also to be contributed by Wichita Falls musicians.

The official programs were off the press Saturday afternoon, Mrs. C. Y. Tully, the chairman of printing announced. The program in full is announced in another column.

CLUBS YET TO HEAR FROM

Approximately 40 clubs in the district have not made reservations for their delegates and visitors, according to Mrs. G. D. Anderson, the chairman of the homes committee. The required 200 homes have been secured and about 125 delegates have

AUTO OWNERS ARE REQUESTED TO LEND CARS TO VISITORS

Wichita Falls automobile owners were put into splendid practice last week, during the Knights Templar Grand Conclave, for the coming of the two hundred club women which the city will have as their honored guests during the first half of this week, when the First District, Texas Federation of Women's clubs will hold its eleventh annual convention.

Mrs. C. W. Snider is chairman of automobiles for the convention, and her committee consists of Mesdames T. P. Adams, Claude Woods, Bentley Bacon, W. W. Anderson, A. H. Britain, J. L. Jackson, N. H. Pounds, C. F. Spencer, George Moulder and Abe Marcus.

Mrs. Snider, in addition to having automobiles at the trains to meet the arriving delegates and visitors and take them to the homes they have been assigned, and providing transportation to and from the headquarters, the First Methodist church, south, for all sessions, will be in charge of the automobile ride over the city which will feature the Tuesday afternoon session.

Each member of the committee has been assigned a certain share of responsibility for transportation, during the three days.

Mrs. Snider asks that the motorists of the city be as thoughtful of the club women visitors as they were during the Knights Templar conclave, see to it that no one ever lacks for transportation.

CLUB MEETINGS WILL BE OPENED TO GENERAL PUBLIC

Every session of the First District Federation of Women's clubs, beginning with President's Evening, Monday, April 25, is to be opened to the public, it is announced by the chairmen who have been making the local arrangements, Mrs. C. R. Hartsook, special chairman, Mrs. W. M. Priddy, chairman on arrangements and Mrs. W. Newton Maer, chairman on entertainment. The women of the city, whether at present members of any club or not, are extended a most cordial invitation by the city and district federation executive boards to attend all sessions and a large attendance is hoped for, to show that Wichita Falls, the hostess city, appreciates the importance of the meeting which it is entertaining.

The noon concert, which will be held at the Palace Theater, commencing at 11:30 promises an unusually splendid program, and this special event is also opened to any one interested. Mrs. Lucile Brooks Huff, the president of the Musicians Club, is hostess for this event. The federation is indebted to Mr. Ford, and the D. F. R. management not only for the use of the theater for the occasion, but also for the printing of the program and the various other accompanying details of the concert.

The only afairs on which it has been necessary to place any restrictions as to the local attendance are the two luncheons, Tuesday at the First Christian church, and Wednesday at the Kemp hotel. These restrictions were imposed by the limited capacity of the two places, it having been the desire of those who have been working on the entertainment details to have all local club women in attendance

MRS. MARVIN SMITH HOSTESS TO GUESTS

Among the prominent women who will visit the city during the First district meeting will be Mrs. D. C. Webb, president of the federation of women's clubs of Fort Worth, and Mesdames Louis Ikard and F. O. Moore of Henrietta. All three will be guests of Mrs. Marvin Smith. Mrs. Webb is a cousin of Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Ikard, a sister-in-law.

Cass and made flower decorations to be used in the basement of the church Tuesday at noon when the Christian church women will prepare and serve luncheon to the delegates who will attend the first district federation meeting.

REGISTRATION BEGINS TUESDAY MORNING

Tuesday morning the work of the Federation begins in earnest. The delegates and visitors will be registered and their credentials received at the First Methodist church, South, corner of Tenth and Lamar. Mrs. C. B. Knickerbocker, D. J. Carithers, Abe Marcus and John Davenport.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE LUNCHEONS

Due to the limited capacity of the dining room of the Kemp, and also of the dining room of the First Christian church, where the Tuesday luncheon will be served, it has been necessary, failing any definite estimate of the number of out-of-town club women who will be present, to make any provision for local club women to attend these two affairs. In the event that the out-of-town club women do not fill all the places, it is announced, tickets for the open reservations will be placed on sale at the information desk in the church. The hotel limit is 200 and the First Christian women can serve 300. Tuesday several of the nearby towns will be represented at the federation by entire club membership, but in spite of this larger attendance on that day it is believed that there will be opportunities for a number of local women to attend the luncheon.

Pink candles tied with fluffy tulle surrounded the flowers. The guests found their places at the table with hand-painted place cards attached to hand-made rose buds.

RECIPES FOR A DAY.

Walnut Sandwiches.—Chop finely a quarter of a pound of shelled walnuts, half a cup of stuffed olives and two peeled sliced apples. Blend the ingredients together with the assistance of a boiled dressing and use as a filling between buttered slices of bread.

Apricot Sherbet.—Drain one quart of canned apricots and rub through a sieve. Boil together for five minutes one cup of the apricot syrup and one and one-half cups of sugar. Cool and add to the fruit puree with the juice of one orange and one lemon and two cups of apple juice drained from baked apples. Chill and free slowly, using three parts ice to one of rock salt. When half frozen remove the cover and stir in the stiffy whipped whites of two eggs. Continue to freeze until firm and smooth and serve in sherbet cups.

Buster Keaton and Natalie Talmadge snapped while shopping in New York recently.

Corn Salad.—Drain one can corn, add pinch of mustard and marinate with French dressing. Let stand one hour or so. Then drain and arrange in lettuce of cress.

SUGGESTIONS FOR HOUSEWIVES.

If vegetables are set to cook in boiling water the flavor and nutritive properties are retained.

Cocoa is more digestible if allowed to cool and reheated after the globules of fat have been removed.

Lemons will be ripe and juicy if kept in cold water. Change water every week.

A pinch of baking powder will hold the omelet from falling.

Old nightgowns make excellent closet coverings for suits and evening dresses.

To grease a waffle iron use a piece of salt pork or a brush dipped in melted fat.

To prevent the smoke that often makes the cooking of hot cakes unpleasant tie some salt in a cloth and rub the griddle with this instead of greasing it.

DISCOVERIES.

Use a piece of candle instead of a cork in your glue bottle. It will not stick and the glue will not become so dry.

If vegetables have to stand after paring cover completely with cold water to prevent wilting and discoloration.

Rubbing wash goods with egg yolk before washing will take out spots.

Sweet oil for varnished furniture and kerosene for oiled furniture will remove finger marks.

A potato ricer is just the thing for wringing out compresses from water too hot to bear the hands in.

Great Britain says she isn't aiming at any oil monopoly. The Standard Oil company used to say that, too.—Lansing State Journal.

THE BUSINESS SIDE OF FARMING.

One of the most encouraing signs of the times is that the farmer is beginning to express himself not so much in political terms as in business and economic terms. It is true that he has his organized lobby at Washington to keep Congress from forgetting him, but he is devoting himself more and more to the practical task of working out his own salvation by getting his business under his own control, and in developing agencies which will connect him directly with his markets, and enable him to get the best financial results from his crops. Conferences recently held in Chicago and Boston show an increasing trend on the part of the agricultural mind toward practical business methods, both as to labor and as to the distribution and marketing question. The farmer, more than ever before, is making a point of studying these and kindred matters intimately related to his occupation.

In Maryland, as in other parts of this country, progressive farmers are realizing that only half their work has been done when a good crop has been raised. The production, packing, shipment and distribution of food is far more complex than in the good old days when Baltimore was small and the State was large. Under such conditions the basis of successful operation is for them to produce better goods than their competitors, to pack them better, to deliver them in better shape.

It is such problems as these which European farmers have studied for years. Through co-operative societies or as individuals they have standardized their products, they have introduced efficient methods of production and transportation and have, in many cases, specialized on the production of foodstuffs for which they are peculiarly fitted. The development of the dairy industries in Holland and Denmark is well known; but more important than such specialization is the general use of scientific methods throughout the whole range of operations by which food is produced and brought to the consumers.—Baltimore Sun (Ind. Dem.)

UNFAIR TO THE MEN VOTERS.

The convention of the National League of Women Voters which meets in Cleveland next week is to consider means by which the political education of women may be advanced, so they will know how to vote and whom to vote for. On the face of it, it looks like a blameless and even a praiseworthy purpose.

But a little reflection will show the highly dangerous character of such a proposal if successfully carried out. It is plainly calculated to destroy the principle of equality upon which the suffrage is based. Equality was all the women asked for when they went after the vote. It was equality the men thought they were giving them when the nineteenth amendment was adopted.

But what becomes of this equality between men and women voters if the women acquire a political education and learn how to vote and whom to vote for? The men have no such information and never held a convention to devise means to acquire it. Therefore, it is as plain as anything can be that it is unfair, unjust and probably unconstitutional for the women to take any steps to gain this advantage. The National Federation of Women Voters should be compelled either to amend their plan to include the education of men voters or abandon it and vote on an equality with the rest of us.—Kansas City Times (Ind.)

Optimist—A man who puts his hat in the alleged rack under the theater seat and expects it to stay there.—Nashville Tennessean.

DISCUSSION BEFORE RUPTURE.

Whatever may be the political leanings of Secretary Davis, of the Department of Labor, makes no great matter. But that he is a man of considerable force and conviction is emphasized in his announcement that he is in favor of open conferences between employers and employes before and not after direct action by either. Carried out to its logical conclusion, both lockouts and strikes meet with his disfavor until every possible means are used to prevent them. If, therefore, the sound position of Secretary Davis may be taken to reflect the attitude of President Harding, and if Congress can be brought to the point of understanding that this is the mature opinion of the vast majority of American citizens, an enormous amount of lost motion will be kept in play for the national wealth. Conferences before direct action, before men's minds are poisoned and made red by vindicative utterances, would save American industry from many a brawl, from sporadic outbreaks, and from much rusted machinery.

It is foolish for capital to say to labor, "I can run my business without you."

It is foolish for labor to say to capital, "I can subsist without you."

Both English labor and English capital assumed that gamecock attitude just now, and when the contestants realized how perfectly absurd it was to sap at the very industrial basis of their mother country, they found themselves up against a granite wall. They turned back.

What Secretary Davis of the Department of Labor is standing for is an attempt to create arbitration by a mere act of discussion and threshing out the difficulties before heads get so hot that they are for bumping anybody off.

Secretary Davis may be a pioneer today. But tomorrow he will have millions of Americans demanding such legislation as he now proposes.

Congressmen who lean toward capital and Congressmen who lean toward labor will understand, some of these days, that the interests of everybody concerned are hinged upon production, supply and distribution. These things should be guaranteed by the laws of the land. When capitalist and laborers agree to discuss agreements, whether they come to agreements or not, dead capital and idle laborers will not have a part in the modern world.

Face to face talk, such as collective bargaining, is cheap and helpful and constructive. Long-distance communications, such as abuse and invective, are exceedingly dangerous and bring no good to anybody. —Birmingham News. (Dem.)

PUBLIC WELFARE IN THE CABINET.

With all of the sensible, wholesome substance in President Harding's message it is a disappointment to find a considerable part of it devoted in argument far from convincing and sentiment by no means inspiring to the setting up of a new Cabinet office for public welfare work.

In the first place, if there were room or justification for more Government heads of Cabinet rank—and there is not—it is a poor sense of proportion that would place such a vastly important national business as transportation, for example, second to any enterprise as yet existing only in the imagination. Or to take another example, aviation, which needs to be organized, coordinated and systematized under one supreme chief, with various branches of it then operated particularly for the army, navy, postal service, etc.

But as a matter of fact, nothing more, whether of the immediate and massive dimensions of the railroad problem or of the remote and visionary outlines of an uplift sensation, should be jammed into the already overcrowded Cabinet to make it like a town meeting, where there are too many voices on tap for the gathering to get down to the practical business of doing things instead of talking about them.

Any man, though he be a steam engine for work and a wonder for achieving results in the world of affairs, knows how perfectly hopeless it is to get anything worth while done by a large committee. The beginning and the end of its functioning is nearly always talk. Pretty much everything in between is talk. Decision is postponed for conversation, and accomplishment is sidetracked by debate. It can be no different with a Cabinet.

If the Cabinet needs anything in the way of reconstruction it is not expansion but curtailment. It would better have half a dozen members than a dozen. It would be more businesslike and effective, as any railroad executive or industrial head knows in a compact, high powered, smoothly working form of five Cabinet offices, each containing as many departments and other subdivisions as might be needed.

If public welfare, as such, calls for treatment by the Federal Government in the very biggest and broadest way it should not add to the numbers in the Cabinet throng. It can be handled more sucessfully, in a department or bureau under the chief of some Cabinet office already in existence, while the Cabinet itself can be saved from becoming a populous rather than a practical institution.—New York Herald. (Ind.)

If that telephone line to Cuba had been a pipe-line there would be more interest in its completion.—Pittsburgh Gazette Times.

Editorial Digest

THE PRESIDENT'S FOREIGN POLICY.

The enunciation of the administration's foreign policy, as outlined in President Harding's message, has brought forth a much greater variety of comment than the message itself. Almost every yiew is represented from the New York world's (Dem.) ironic offer of a year's subscription to Harvey's Weekly to "anybody who will tell us precisely what Mr. Harding meant;" to the assertion, on the part of the Wichita Eagle (Ind.) that the message "is definite and unequivocal in its statements on the most important question before the administration." Between these extremes are many contradictions. Some, like the Providence Tribune (Ind. Rep.) declare that "the league idea still lives," while others agree with the Louisville Courier Journal (Dem.) that the president "has finally satisfied everybody that he stands with the 'irreconcilables' of his party for the absolute rejection of the League of Nations."

The charge that Mr. Harding has left America's position in relation to her late allies and the rest of the world "as much up in the air as ever" is made by the Muskogee Chronicle (Ind.) although it concludes that "he is doing the best he can under trying circumstances." To the former statement the Indianapolis News (Ind.) seems to be in agreement for it, declares that "the situation is as confused as before the president spoke." The Star (Ind. Rep), of the same city, admits that "he is not explicit as to what will be his peace proposals," but notes with obvious approval that "he makes it evident that no time is to be lost in clearing up unsatisfactory conditions."

While the Norfolk Virginian Pilot (Ind. Dem.) grants that Mr. Harding "takes two cards and lays them face up"—rejection of the league in its present form and the peace resolution—he makes "a labored effort at concreteness" but "without achieving anything concise." The Fort Wayne Journal Gazette (Dem.) acidly displays the order: "Try to explain the president's foreign policy to your wife" as the caption of an editorial which declares: "He has merely served notice that the people are to get what they bargained for in November — a wiggle-wobble, vague, vapory, debatable international policy."

However, many writers of anti-Republican tendencies see very definite conclusions in the president's remarks. Says the Cleveland Plain Dealer (Ind. Dem.):

"President Harding lays down a new foreign policy, general in some of its terms but specific enough to indicate to the American people which course it is proposed to take during the next four years. There is nothing to indicate that the public, generally speaking, will be either surprised or disappointed in the program."

Late comment by the New York Times (Ind. Dem.) also reveals a more sympathetic attitude. "Every day," says the Times, "deepens the note of national self-assertiveness of the new administration's foreign policy." And, it concludes, "what the United States would not do under lofty altruism it may be got to do as vigorous 'Americanism'." Some feel that the irreconcilables have won the day and the message, as the Sioux City Tribune (Ind.) puts it, "reaffirms" their victory. Others like the Charlotte (N. C.) News (Dem.) feel that the president played on both sides, by seeming to "reject to everything done at Versailles" for the benefit of Borah and Johnson.

Then speaking of salvaging part of the treaty, "he came over and played the fiddle a little while for the mild reservationists." The Atlanta Constitution (Dem.) is not so critical and indeed finds "substantial hope" in the assumption that the president intends to make "earnest efforts toward "associating America with organized forces for world peace."

DINNER STORIES

"I reckon," said Farmer Corntossel, "as how mebbe barbed wire ought to be counted as one of the most useful inventions of the age."

"For what reason?"

"When there's a lot of work to be done barbed wire makes it impossible for a feller to sit on the fence an' look on."

There is an official in Washington who likes nothing better than a fling at the medical profession. He was afforded an opportunity not long ago at a public dinner to chaff the medicos, and he did so in this wise:

"Physicians may be divided into two classes—the radicals, who kill you, and the conservatives, who let you die."

"Some people say that the Irish people are cruel to animals," says Dorothea Conyers in her Irish Sporting Reminiscences. "If they are, it is without thought that dumb beasts feel pain."

A priest met a man going into Kilkenny. He was beating a thin donkey cruelly. "Shame, Martin Casey!" he said, "beating the poor beast like that. Don't you know it was the good, kind animal which carried our Lord into Jerusalem?"

Martin poised his stick, his face unmoved. Then, "Indeed, your reverence," he said—whack! came the stick—"if He had to be above on this wan He'd never have got there."

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

A LITTLE SLICE O' LIFE.

I was riding down town
In a street car the other day
And next to me stood a man
Past middle age and of very refined
Appearance, with iron gray hair.
He apologized for being obliged
To keep his elbow between my ribs
And then told me that he was
A scientist, connected with
A well-known university.
It was my ill luck to be
Chewing gum at the time and My unexpected friend spake thus:
"My friend, I see you are chewing gum,
Now, it is none of my affair, but
I think I should tell you,
As I have told many others.
That I have made a study
Of the vital fluids of the body.
There are only two of them,
The great life fluid and
The saliva. Now, when you
Chew gum as you are chewing it,
You use up the saliva faster
Than it can be produced and you
Are shortening your life."
I immediately canned the gum.
That evening, going home,
I saw the same man who
Told me I was shortening my life
About ten minutes a day by
Chewing gum. He was some way off
And was reading an evening paper
And he was chewing gum.

A prominent New York song writer, who is also a singer, was invited to sing at a funeral. "Who is going to be buried?" he asked over the telephone. "A music critic," was the reply. "I'll be pleased," said the song writer, "and if you'll bury a half-dozen of them, I'll sing all day."

An actress of national repute has started a fund to help the poor chorus girls, but where is she going to find a poor chorus girl?

SPRING, B'GOSH!

The hollihocks are hollerin',
The daffodils are yellin',
The bullfrogs all are bellerin',
The woods with music ring.
The weather, it is mellerin',
The young folks gallin', fellerin',
So, nacher'ly, it's follerin'
We've got an early sring.

SILK, NOT COTTON, WORN IN SOUTH

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 23.—Women in the south who wear silk stockings and—um—other things will be the object of a movement launched here to enhance the value of cotton products.

Strangely enough the south, home of cotton, is sadly addicted to the use of silk. Therefore a movement has been started urging southern women to wear dresses made of cotton goods alone. F. Gordon Cobb, mill superintendent, started the movement, which has been taken up by the Greenville chamber of commerce. Other cities will be asked to help.

Jefferson Potlocks has come to the conclusion that Columbus discovered America too soon. If he had waited until now he would have had his name in all the papers and could have been met by the ways and means committee.

Miscreants broke into the office of the Horse Doctor in the Calf Ribs neighborhood Monday night and drank up the last two bottles of horse medicine in stock.

"PAY DAY"

WEST TEXAS TOWNS MUST STORE WATER

By W. HAMILTON WRIGHT.
Record News Staff Correspondent.

CISCO, April 23.—The calamitous drouth which prevailed over Texas in 1917 and 1918 gave a "tip" to West Texas to prepare against eventualities. Not less than $6,000,000 in bonds have been voted in the last three years to overcome difficulties that beset the dignity and progress of towns during temporary water shortages. This figure does not include funds being expended on irrigation projects.

Most of the towns in West Texas are dependent almost wholly upon surface water impounded in large earthen basins at flood time. The magnitude of some of these lakes is seen in the gigantic storage they must afford to quench the municipal thirst of growing metropolises.

West Texas, fortunate or unfortunately, has not been blessed with large streams from which may be drawn the elixir of life for industries and human consumption. That is the reason that advancing West Texas towns must look to their hills and valleys for succor in the future.

Irrigation Projects.

The great development in the water systems of West Texas in the last few years presages an even greater advance in that direction for the purpose of irrigating immense tracts of unusually fertile lands in the future. In contemplation at present are innumerable irrigation projects whose consummation will require the expenditure of huge sums, some of which are now reaching a stage of development that will insure their early construction.

Some of the greater projects now in course of construction or which have been provided for by bond issues are:

Stamford.

Stamford: Lake Fenick, 15 miles southeast of Stamford is being rapidly completed. The Clear Fork of the Brazos is being dammed by a concrete barrier at a cost of about $500,000. The basin so inclosed will impound about 4,000,000,000 gallons. Work on this project is reported about 75 per cent completed. The pipe line connecting the lake with Stamford, with laterals to Avoca and Lueders, was completed last fall. Water will flow by gravity from settling basin to city and will be pumped by hydro-electric power generated at the dam to the settling basin. Stamford will begin to enjoy the fruits of its investment about August 1.

Abilene.

Abilene: The dam across the Elm Fork of the Brazos in the Buffalo Gap Mountains 19 miles southwest of Abilene has been completed with the exception of considerable rip-rapping. Spring and flood water is now being impounded. The project will have cost about $750,000 at completion. Pipe line to connect the lake with the city has not been laid, but bonds for it have been issued and will be sold when the bond market is more propitious. This lake will impound five billion gallons that may be brought to fifteen billion gallons by increasing the height of the dam. It will be known as Lake Abilene. It sits nested in majestic hills of a rare picturesque cast. Water will flow by gravity to Abilene.

Cisco.

Cisco has already started a mammoth water project to guarantee a lasting supply for a mammoth city. The capacity of the lake will be around five billion gallons. The site is north of town. Probably a million dollars will have been expended upon its completion. The basin is enclosed by gigantic hills in a rugged, wooded country that possesses rare scenic value.

Graham.

Graham is increasing the height of the dam across Salt Creek in order to augment its water supply by 400,000,000 gallons. About $75,000 is being spent on the addition. Graham is insured against thirst no matter how great it may grow, by reason of its proximity to the oil fields, since a chain of dams may be built up and down Salt Creek, impounding billions of gallons.

Colorado.

The growth of Colorado recently caused citizens considerable anxiety over its water supply. But quick to grapple with municipal problems city fathers have arranged for the damming of a creek running through town with a concrete structure, giving a permanent and lasting supply. Colorado will spend between $50,000 and $75,000 on this venture, which, besides the great water reserve it will bring, will provide a magnificent city lake for boating, fishing and bathing. It is believed the dam will hold back a head of water for two miles.

Wichita Falls.

Wichita Falls will in the near future start construction of its super-water supply to guarantee the fastest growing city in the state an adequate supply for domestic and industrial purposes for all future time, as well as surplus to irrigate 200,000 acres of land in the fertile Wichita river valley during crucial crop periods. Wichita Falls is laying particular stress upon this project because it means the rejuvenation of agricultural development in this section in no mean way.

Mineral Wells.

Mineral Wells: The beautiful health resort city during the last few months has completed a super-water project that insures it against drouths that sometimes intrude upon the business serenity of the southwest. This supply is four billion gallons. About $600,000 was spent on the project.

Sweetwater.

Disappointment at failing water supply at crucial hours in development caused Sweetwater to vote several hundred thousands of dollars in bonds for a water project whose completion has had much to do to increase interest of outsiders in the city of railroads and of the future. The supply of Lake Trammell, 8 miles south of the city, approximates three billion gallons. The lake has an elevation of about 300 feet higher than the city, making gravity flow practicable and eliminating the necessity for a pumping plant and guaranteeing low water rates.

Amarillo None.

Amarillo is probably the largest city in all West Texas which has not yet made a tangible effort to reinforce itself against water famines. It is much disturbed over the prospect and is casting about for a solution. Since Amarillo came into being in 1900 it has been supplied from wells in the city limits ranging in depth from 200 to 300 feet. These wells until the last few years have been equal to the growing demand, but with the phenomenal increase in industrial and growth of the city the matter of supplying water has become a very pressing problem. City fathers are now considering the utilization of flood waters impounded in deep defiles dammed by concrete structures, or by drilling wells in other parts of the Panhandle, underneath which lie great subterranean streams of water. Probably at the present time the most serious hindrance to the continued growth of the Panhandle metropolis lies in its insufficient water supply.

Hamlin.

A few years ago Hamlin smote the water bugaboo with a bond issue of around $75,000 and today it has a large lake that furnishes an immense supply of water for domestic, factory and railroad terminal use. The lake has an extensive watershed which is expected to protect it against the most severe drouths.

Ranger Insufficient.

Ranger's water supply at present is sufficient, but with growth or a disastrous drouth such as occurred in 1918 it would be much enfeebled. Several measures have been proposed for solution, one of which is the damming of a defile east of the city to impound a quantity of water sufficient to insure its myraid interests against all eventualities.

Eastland.

Eastland at present is well supplied from a number of lakes recently constructed. The other oil field towns are making a forward move in the matter of providing adequate water supplies, with the result that additional water projects may be heralded shortly.

Plainview.

Plainview and surrounding towns are situated nicely in the shallow water belt where it is only a matter of drilling a few feet to find subterranean rivers without limit to supply. For this reason it is anticipated by sages that large towns will spring up in that section in time.

NEW YORK SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 23.—The raw sugar market continued unsettled, owing to liberal offerings of uncontrolled sugars, with sales of 20,000 bags of Porto Rico reported at 5.02 for centrifugal, a decline of ¼c from the last previous sale. Cuban sugars were unchanged at 4¾c, cost and freight, equal to 5.84 for centrifugal. No further changes were reported in refined, which is listed at 7.20@7.25 for fine granulated, but the undertone was unsettled, owing to easier ruling on the spot market, with demands light.

Futures were easier earlier under scattered selling by commission houses and after showing declines of 2 to 11 points, prices rallied on covering, closing unchanged to 1 point net lower. May closed at 3.96; July 4.06 and September 4.08.

COTTON IS STRONGER ON CABLE NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, April 23.—Higher trend of prices in the cotton market today was mainly due to dispatches from England indicating that there was chance of settling the coal strike this coming week, although continued wet weather in the eastern half of the cotton region and claims of a better spot demand in markets of Texas contributed to the steadiness.

Late in the day prices were 17 to 19 points up with May at 11.77 and July 12.27. The close showed gains of 10 to 12 points.

While the weather was better over the western half of the cotton region this improvement was offset by the storm area in the northwest and the cold wave back of it, leading to fear that the coming week might bring more bad weather to the belt. Small recessions were caused by cables from Bremen claiming that German spinners were well supplied with cotton, but the effect of this was lost when reports were received that Germany had given in to the demands of the allies regarding transfers of gold. Messages from Texas spot markets said that much of the spot demand of the last day or two appeared to come from large spot concerns ahead. This early covering on forward spot commitments made a favorable impression toward the close.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 23.—Reflecting an improved sentiment in connection with reparations and the British miners' strike, the cotton market today was active and generally stronger. The opening showed an advance of 1 to 6 points and in subsequent dealings the market sold 20 to 26 points above the previous night. May led the upturn with an advance to 12.06, based on large covering orders by Wall street houses. July sold as high as 12.72, October 13.34 and December 13.80 and while some of the improvement was subsequently lost in the final hour, the market closed steady at a net advance of 11 to 16 points. A broadening of outside speculative interests was one bull factors of the day, the public being interested in new crops because of the unfavorable weather reports from the south. Another buying motive was the reported increase of foreign demand for spot cotton in the south.

Domestic trade reports for the week were better. Sales of print cloths at Fall River for the week were 95,000 pieces, while curtailment owing to a holiday last Tuesday, amounted to fully 180,000 pieces.

RAIL SHARES HAVE INNING ON EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, April 23.—Railway shares, especially those comprising the investment or dividend paying division, had their inning during today's short but lively stock market session.

The market in general was disposed to enhance gains of the last few days.

The bond market was fairly active, most branches of the list holding steady, except liberty issues, where several minor recessions were registered.

Foreign exchange was mostly strong, especially the British rate with demand sterling at 394, the highest quotation in many months, but considerably under the maximum of little more than a year ago.

The noteworthy feature of the clearing house statement was the decrease of $68,630,000 in actual loans and discounts. Net demand deposits decreased about $42,550,000 and a cash contraction of approximately $6,850,000 reduced reserves to about $9,600,000.

WHEAT GOES THRU SEASON MINUS CHANGE

CHICAGO, April 23—Moving within narrow limits today's short session grain market was unmarked by important developments and wound up about where it stood at the opening. A strong undertone in corn and an advance in provisions furnished the only outstanding features of a dull day.

Wheat futures averaged higher and May gained four cents spread over the July option, despite heavy selling of May by a Chicago elevator interest which was transferring its holdings to July.

At the close wheat was unchanged to a fraction higher with May at $1.30 to $1.30 3-4 and July at $1.07½ and $1.07 3-4.

Corn showed about seven cents above the low mark of last week. There was some rather persistent buying with sales to the seaboard on demand of exporters for cash grades. May closed at 61 3-8 to 1-4c, July at 63 5-8 and September at 66 to 65 7-8c, net gains ranging from 1-8c to 5-8c. Local cash sales totalled 214,000 of which 145,000 bushels were for export.

At the close, oats were 1-4c higher to 1-8c lower, with May at 38 1-4 to 38 3-8, July at 39 3-8 and 39½ and September 39 3-4 and 39 7-8c.

Pork, lard and ribs all scored advances. Packers representatives were buying provisions and there was a lift in the market for live hogs. No appreciable attempt was made to stem the advance and all provisions closed strong.

The Tender Magic of Live Steam

There's tender magic in the live steam with which we press your garments—it's marvelously gentle and yet wonderfully efficient.

This vital force, as it surges through and through the fabric, has the same effect on woolen fibres that life-giving oxygen has on the human system—it rejuvenates, renews life and youth, and at the same time it sterilizes.

Things cannot go wrong with the American Steam Garment Press which there's no possibility of scorching—there's no iron surface to rust, no hard rubbing to roughen the fleecy woolen fibres and leave seams and pockets shiny.

Keep your garments wholesome and looking fit—you'll find it an investment in personal pride that's profitable.

SAYS MAN LIVED WITH CROWBAR THROUGH BRAIN

BOSTON, April 23—The fact that a crowbar was driven through a man's skull here without causing death was cited today by Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, eminent alienist commenting on the removal of a bullet from the brain of a prisoner at Sing Sing in an effort to cure him of suicidal mania.

Years later, just before he died, the man willed his head to the Harvard Medical school. The skull is at Warren museum and is used in lectures almost daily.

Dr. Briggs said the man was holding the crowbar, which was being struck by another man with a sledge hammer. The man moved until his chin was directly over the top of the bar. Not noticing the change in position of his fellow-worker the man with the hammer struck him a smashing blow on the head, driving the bar upward from the chin through the head and out of the top of the skull. Dr. Warren, the eminent surgeon, performed an operation, removing the bar and inserting a silver plate at the point in the skull where the crowbar emerged. The man lived many years.

The skull now reposes at Warren museum with an iron bar running through it to illustrate to students just how the accident occurred.

Dr. Briggs, Dr. George M. Kline, head of the state department of mental diseases, and City Health Commissioner Woodward, all said that only time can tell whether the Sing Sing prisoner will be cured of epilepsy and suicidal mania by the removal of the bullet.

AUTO SECTION

WICHITA FALLS, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 24, 1921

ABOUT HALF OF CARS ARE SOLD ON CREDIT

Between 45 and 50 per cent of all cars sold today are being marketed on some deferred payment system.

This is the first absolutely authoritative answer to a question that has puzzled many sales executives of the automobile industry, and which has interested leaders in many other lines of activity, including banks which advance money on securities issued by the time-payment companies, and also manufacturers and dealers in such things as pianos, talking machines and furniture.

Estimates Have Varied.

Heretofore estimates on the percentage of automobiles sold on a time-payment basis have ranged all the way from 60 to 90 per cent. These percentages being merely guesses made by men more or less familiar with actual conditions in restricted localities. The present figure of between 45 per cent and 50 per cent, or, to be exact, 46.7 per cent, is made available by the General Motors Acceptance corporation, the statistical division of which has just completed tabulating the replies of a questionnaire which was sent more than 10,000 dealers in all parts of the United States. Over 10 per cent of the dealers to whom the blanks were sent made complete reports, showing a total of 149,136 cars sold, of which 79,407 were sold for cash and 69,729 were sold "on time," or 46.7 per cent of the total number.

The period for which the questionnaire asked information was that from August 1, 1919, to July 31, 1920, and therefore includes the latter half of a summer selling season, the following fall, winter and spring season, and the first half of the succeeding summer selling season. It is, therefore, a comprehensive sweep of sales conditions over a full yearly cycle of the industry.

City Dwellers Pay Cash.

As was to have been expected, city dwellers paid cash more frequently than the farmers, only 44.9 per cent of cars sold to city dwellers being through credit arrangements, there being 61,081 cash sales out of a total of 110,920; 40.6 per cent of the new passenger cars reported sold to city dwellers were sold on credit, while 53 per cent of the new trucks sold to city dwellers and thus placed in the service of mercantile houses were partly financed. It is interesting to note in this connection that only 51.2 per cent of the used trucks were sold on time, and 51.9 per cent of the used passenger cars were sold to city dwellers on finance plans.

Very much the same relative position is shown by the figures representing sales to farmers of passenger cars and new and used trucks 48.2 per cent of new passenger cars delivered to farmers being sold on deferred payments, and 38.1 per cent of the used passenger cars being similarly disposed of, while 59.9 per cent of the new trucks are sold on time to farmers and 56.7 per cent of the used trucks. This figure of 59.9 per cent for new trucks is the highest percentage in the whole list.

The dealers also reported the maximum amount of time they allowed on deferred payment sales to city dwellers and farmers, the average being 9.3 months to city dwellers and 11.1 to farmers. The average down payment on all deferred payment sales reported was 40.3 per cent of the cash selling price.

Auto Worthy of Credit.

Cash sales of musical instruments, such as pianos and phonographs, represent only from 5 to 8 per cent of the total number. Obviously the automobile, which occupies an essential position in the economic life of the country, being a provider of exceedingly efficient private transportation for persons and goods, is much more worthy of credit than are luxuries such as pianos. It is, however, doubtful that the automobile will ever be sold on credit as extensively as musical instruments are today.

Economic experts estimate that about 25 per cent of the industry's production always will be sold for cash, since motor vehicles necessarily must be bought by persons of somewhat advanced financial standing.

Reorganization Of Maxwell Plant Nearly Complete

DETROIT, April 23.—The organization of the Maxwell Motor company, inc., today entered upon the final stages leading toward a successful completion.

This is the meaning of the institution of a temporary and friendly receivership in the United States district court. The primary purpose of the receivership, which was agreed to by all the interests concerned, is to establish title to the properties under the reorganization.

The court appointed as receiver, W. Ledyard Mitchell, president of the company, who, with Arthur E. Barker, general sales manager, has been in active direction of the Maxwell business during the period of the reorganization.

Members of the committee said that this appointment is evidence of the continuance of the policies which have had so much to do with the recent upbuilding of the properties.

They said further that the receivership clears the way for carrying out the larger plans which had already been put into operation on a limited basis. Strengthening and expansion of the factory and dealer organizations will proceed along the lines recently followed.

The sale of the properties in accordance with the order of the court will no doubt be advertised almost at once, which will clear the road for the discharge of the receivers and the consummation of the reorganization plan, thus rendering available the new $15,000,000 of cash which has been held ready for some months for the use of the company

BLOW-OUTS FROM AUTO ROW BY FLAT TIRE

The reported sales of automobiles for the week just closing show that business is picking up all along auto row. New cars have not been much in demand, but the used car line has been moving steadily, almost every firm reporting the sale of from one to three machines.

W. S. Langford of the Motor Supply company left Thursday for a ten-day trip to South Carolina where he has some interests. Mr. Langford said before leaving that his firm is selling all the Fords it can get just now and that things look bright.

Julian McFall of McFall Brothers, popular Dodge Brothers dealers, says that business is good these days and that it would be still better if they could get some Dodge roadsters. It is not often these days you get orders ahead but that is the plight of this firm just now.

Our secretary, Al Booth, left for Dallas Thursday to be gone four or five days. Hope he is not gone too long for Dougherty can't stick around the office too close.

One of the classiest jobs seen in the city lately is a Standard Eight Sedan, shown by the Standard Automotive company on Ohio avenue. Mr. Moon, the manager, says that this job is one of the best sedans seen in Wichita Falls in a long time, it being a blue paint job with black fenders with two-tone blue upholstering to match. The blue silken window shades lend privacy and harmonize with the rest of the car. This sedan has all those little things that go to make for convenience in a car of this type such as vanity sets, smoking sets, door pockets, etc.

O. C. Sommers of the Victory Motor company and Carl Waelder of the Franklin Sales company combined their efforts last week and put over a used car sale. We say "put over" and if what we hear is true they sure put it over in grand style.

Lealey Stringer of the Nolen-Stringer company, local Lincoln distributors, reports the sale of four cars for the past week. Now four is a whole lot for one week, or, at least, it would be if they were Lincolns, but these happened to be Fords from the used war stock.

F. D. Kleim has not let these wonderful demonstration days of the past week go by without netting him some business. Mr. Kelm let go three new Studebakers since last Sunday which speaks well for his organization or the Studebaker, we don't know which.

Its not every dealer who can put on a show of his own and satisfy the people but this is what the Fritz Motor company has been doing the last few days with their "Baby Marmon" display. D. L. Fritz says that his crowds have been very good and especially the children who all want to carry one of them home.

W. K. Thompson of Packard fame delivered three Packard Single Six's last week, besides making a trip to Dallas and driving back one of the nicest jobs seen on the streets lately, it being a special twin-six. Just what he is going to do with this new high-powered, high-priced, million-dollar automobile we are not at liberty to say, but Karl says we will see someone else besides himself in the driver's seat before very long.

E. V. Lesley of the Auto Tire company on Scott avenue has been working overtime getting things in shape to open up his new battery service station. Lesley says he will have a regular autoists' department store before long and all anyone will need will be an automobile and the money to be served in any line at his place.

The Motor Supply company's baseball team has been hard at practice these fine days getting in shape to meet all similar local organizations. Their grounds are located at Pearl and Brook streets and any evening you may see them going through some strenuous work on the diamond. The baseball idea was fostered by W. S. Langford, owner of this firm, and he is to be congratulated on the success of the team and the kindly feeling it has created among his men. We have not been fortunate enough to see these men in action, but we can imagine Omohundro grabbing off a hot one from the infield, or Quiesser trying to make first on a short bunt.

G. J. Moulder of the Wilhelm-Moulder company local Chaudler distributors, has been holding a little tire sale this last week and according to G. J., that don't mean they have gone into the tire game, for auto sales really do happen now and then, even if others are crying for business.

Helpful Facts For Car Owners To Know About

After the mixture of gasoline and air is drawn into the engine cylinders and compressed, it must be ignited to force down the pistons and give power to the engine. This is accomplished electrically by the ignition system. The electric current is supplied by the generator or batteries, passes by means of electrically insulated wire to the timer and from there to the spark plugs, where it jumps in the form of a spark from one spark point to the other.

The principal parts of the ignition system are: Magneto or generator, batteries, starter, spark plugs, timer, wiring.

Electric current is supplied to the ignition system either from the generator or batteries. The generator operates and delivers current only when the engine is running; the batteries can deliver current either when the engine is running or not. In ordinary running the generator supplies enough current both to operate the car and keep the batteries well charged with electricity.

Care of Batteries.

The batteries need careful and regular attention. In cold weather water should be added about every 14 days; in summer, about every seven to 10 days. Only distilled water should be used; ordinary water may contain impurities that are harmful to the battery. If a funnel is used, it should be one made of glass or rubber. Metal funnels are conductors of electricity and are liable to spoil the batteries.

In cold weather special care should be taken to keep the battery well charged and full of distilled water. If this is not done, the danger of the battery freezing is increased. A completely charged battery whose specific gravity is about 1,275 freezes at 90 degrees below zero; its specific gravity is 1,150, the battery will freeze at 20 degrees above zero. The batteries should be protected to prevent tools, chains or other articles from falling on and short-circuiting the battery terminals.

The starter is an electric motor which takes current from the batteries and turns over the engine for starting. When the engine starts the starter is disengaged from the engine automatically. Releasing the starter button brings the starting motor to a stop.

About Spark Plugs.

Spark plugs should not be screwed into the cylinder head too tight; they exand when heated and have been known to crack the cylinder. Spark plugs should be kept clean; otherwise the engine may start hard, miss or lack power. Handle spark plugs carefully. A crack in the porcelain weakens the compression, permits leakage of the electric current and completely spoils a spark plug. The gap between the points in a spark plug should be about the thickness of a thin dime.

The timer is a cam arrangement which automatically opens and closes the electric current at different points so that electric sparks are produced at the exact instant they are wanted. The timer requires careful adjustment and should not be tinkered with except by an experienced person.

Inspect all wiring terminals and connections at least once each month. The majority of automobile fires are caused by improper defective wires and connections. All electric wires and cable should be kept dry and clean. Dirt, oil and moisture are liable to cause a short circuit. It is especially advisable to clean off all corrosion which might form at the battery terminals. When cleaning commutators, distributing discs and contacts, use fine sand paper (not emery cloth.)—Automobile Topics.

BULLETIN SAYS USE OF TRUCK ON INCREASE

Another advance in the progress of motor transport is charted by the Firestone ship by truck bureau, Akron, Ohio, in a bulletin dealing with "The Motor Truck Terminal."

This bulletin tells how to organize truck terminals, defines the length of the "short haul," cites examples of terminal operation, and shows how trucking through terminals adds to the efficiency of motor transportation.

Both the public and the commercial hauler gains by the operation of truck terminals, says the bulletin. In addition to expediting the movement of freight, a truck terminal gives the shipper a receipt for his goods from a corporation of unquestioned responsibility, and assures the shipper that cargo insurance will be carried on his merchandise. The principal advantage to operators may be summed up in increased efficiency, which brings to motor trucking the same orderly processes that mark other established lines of transportation.

Organization Necessary.

"It is not to be expected that the motor trucking industry can attain maximum efficiency while composed of a multitude of individual operators, with resultant large duplication of effort," says the bulletin. "Recognizing this fact," it continues, "many of the most progressive men in the motor trucking industry are interesting themselves in the organization an conduct of motor truck terminals."

Speaking of the advantage of cargo insurance, the bulletin says:

"In the past, in dealing with individual operators, the shipper either has had to take the time to hunt up the more or less rare operators who carry insurance, or take a chance. The fact that many shippers have refused to take either of these alternatives has been a great factor in limiting the tonnage available."

Terminal advantages include, according to the bulletin, a known and accessible place to deliver and receive merchandise, a published tariff, scheduled routes, insurance, responsibility, receipt for goods, increased speed in delivery, improved and in many instances cheaper service.

Various Functions Discussed.

The bulletin discusses the principal terminal functions, the field for terminals, types, details of organization and operation and the scope of terminals as an industry in itself.

One chapter discusses terminal cooperation between cities. Terminals in neighboring cities not more than 200 miles apart should actively cooperate with each other, it is claimed. This would greatly increase the volume of tonnage handled by popularizing motor transportation for less car lot shipments and fragile and perishable commodities.

"The Motor Truck Terminal" is the seventh of a series of bulletins published by the bureau which sets forth a phase of truck efficiency, or which points out new fields for the use of trucks. Bulletin number 5, "The Relation of Costs to Motor Truck Transportation," has been distributed upon request to more than 200,000 truck operators, dealers and libraries.

Auto Tourist Travel Turns To Best Camp

By W. HAMILTON WRIGHT.
Record News Staff Bureau.

AMARILLO, April 23.—Progressive west Texas towns are preparing for an augmented tourist travel this season, in a way to denote appreciation of this type of patronage. Many have already ingratiated themselves into the favor of the auto public in such a manner as to insure that the latter will not soon forget to take advantage thereafter of accommodations unselfishly provided for their comfort and convenience.

During the recent war, luxury in the form of auto travel for pleasure was taboo. The man of means or even the "proletarian with a jitney who essayed to take a surcease from labor or away from the circulation of newspapers to forget the horrifying news of destructive combats was looked upon as an accentuated "slacker."

The automobile business has been resumed on a more impressive scale. Travel by rail has fallen into disuse by reason of exorbitant passenger rates and the inelasticity of opportunity to stop over at the spot the tourist likes in his perigrinations.

On the other hand, highways, improved in the last two years, are now threaded daily by a passel of automobiles that carry every conceivable sort of passenger, from the millionaire down to the near-pauper in his dilapidated "used." These passengers go to make up an agregation of human traffic not limited to main arteries, who push themselves into the towns and beautiful rural country, stopping here and there for the night to get repairs done at the country garage and otherwise to distribute their spondulicks in the great scheme of coin circulation.

Good Roads Bring Transients.

The historic days of railway construction and projection have passed. No more do capitalists seek large bonuses and deeds to rights of way in order to push their steel lines into new commonwealths. Now it is a matter only of co-operative work on the part of rural sections to build better earthen roads in order to attract swarms of tourists in quest of the novel and the beautiful. Some towns in the path of this progress have learned a lesson in auto travel. They have profited and today they are reaping benefits of thorough knowledge of the situation.

West Texas Particularly.

West Texas towns particularly have availed themselves of the knowledge that to afford accommodation to the traveling public bringing results worthy of expense and trouble incurred. It is, therefore, becoming commonplace here to find all striving to impress tourists not only with local scenery but hospitality, free camping grounds, close in to the tired tourist. To find a nice, clean tract well supplied with fuel, outhouses, water and other conveniences, all free for his use, is sufficient to give a good opinion of the place. In some cases these accommodations are sufficient to incite the tourist to remain over a day or two to rest up and make necessary car repairs.

Foremost Towns.

Among the towns foremost in concern over the interest of the traveler are Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Stamford and Abilene.

At Amarillo a pleasant camp has been established near San Jacinto heights, where an abundance of water, wood and other accessories may be found.

Stamford has prepared a most beautiful camp site on the banks of College lake, where in addition to water and wood, the tourist may fish, bathe and bout to his heart's content.

Abilene recently decided to provide accommodations for autoists traveling the Bankhead and other highways converging there. Many other towns have done in like manner, with the wholesome result that they are finding most tourists stopping with them from one to twelve hours. Their presence adds to the business aspect for they trade, often purchasing wares, auto supplies, gasoline, oil and having repairs made.

Hospitality Advertises.

Some of the tourists travel aimlessly with no particular place to go. Therefore, for them to ride into a town where hospitality is unbounded and effort made to entertain, they soon regard it as a live place and thereafter speak a good word for it to other travelers. In this way, the fame of the town for hospitality becomes known generally throughout autodom.

Many West Texas towns are contemplating adding free camping grounds to meet the exigencies of the new mode of travel. Initial and maintainance cost is very light compared with benefits that accrue to the towns. In some towns, owners are eager to give free use of large vacant lots to stimulate tourist trade.

Prominent automobile dealers are behind the movement for a complete camping ground system in all towns on principal highways of West Texas, realizing that hospitality extended the tourist will bring a happy remuneration in increased travel and trade to the remote sections which are gradually being sapped by the larger towns that have sprung up in the region.

Good Roads Men To Meet May 9 In Washington

A national good roads conference will be held in Washington on May 19 and 20 under the auspices of the American Automobile association with the object of seeking to impress upon congress the fact that the time has arrived for the creation of a national system of interstate highways.

It will be remembered that nine years ago the American Automobile association called in Washington, as federal aid in roads convention, to learn if sufficient sentiment existed to warrant in asking congress to give assistance to the several states in highway building The answer was emphatic and to the point and subsequently resulted in the passage of the federal aid road act.

Another epoch seems to have arrived, according to American Motorist. The exact question at issue is whether or not a national system of interstate highways should become a matter of federal concern in construction and subsequent maintenance, or shall an interstate system be "evolved" by some modification of the present 50-50 arrangement between the national government and the states?

REICHSTAG HUMOR.

BERLIN, April ?.—Fireworks in the reichstag during a recent debate:

Deputy Adolf Hoffman (communist)—"The president of the reich is an absolutely superfluous piece of furniture. The parties of the right (anti-radical) are satisfied with him because he does as they bid him do. But he isn't even fit as an object for the funny papers."

Hoffman—"The best joke of history is that Herr Mueller was for a few days German chancellor."

MAY REVISE VANDERBILT PRIZE RACE

Revival of the famous Vanderbilt and grand prize automobile race over the historic courses of Westchester or Long Island is proposed by the New York Automobile Dealers association.

Since the dismantling of the Sheepshead Bay speedway New York has been without motor racing of any kind. Recently vigorous interest in a revival of racing made itself manifest culminating in the appointment of E. S. Partridge by the directors of the New York Dealers association as chairman of an executive committee to take charge of a racing program.

Prospect of success is especially favorable, it is believed, because of the fact that the dealers' association is headed by W. C. Poertner, a racing enthusiast of first water.

In the old days Poertner was closely identified with the national racing teams that captured the road racing championship of the world in 1911 and swept the speedways in 1912. Though he has since not actively engaged in the sport, Poertner has always followed in with keenest interest and done everything he could for its advancement.

In the event that the program to revive the Vanderbilt cup and grand prize races meets with success, it is believed that Poertner will marshal ever yeffort to bring national racing teams back into competition.

The return of national racing would, it is believed, bring many others of the old line American manufacturers into the fold as well, restoring the sport to the universal plane of interest that it occupied in the historic days when Simplex, National, Marmon, Mercer, Stutz, Mercedes and Fiat were waging their classic engagements for the world's racing championship.

JAP DISTRUST OF AMERICA IS GROWING

By GUSH H. PARK.

TOKIO, April 23.—Lieutenant-General Baron Giichi Tanaka, minister of war for Japan, in an interview given the representative of the International News Service in Tokio recently, dwelled frequently regarding reports in America and Japan that this country entertains territorial ambitions in Siberia. One by one the minister of war took up the various actions of Japanese troops and their commanders in Siberia and finally he took up for discussion the attitude of the headquarters staff in Tokio and finally he discussed the charge that "militarists of Tokio" control the government of the empire.

"It has been frequently stated here as elsewhere," said General Tanaka, "that Japan has no territorial ambitions in Siberia. Replies to this query have been made by Premier Hara, in the diet and by various persons occupying positions of authority.

"The true object of our troops stationed there today is to protect Japanese subjects and to maintain order therein. We desire sincerely to withdraw our men from this region just the moment that a stable Russian government is established, but we cannot withdraw until Japanese subjects and property there are made safe. The idea advanced in some quarters that we have ambitions to keep our troops there permanently in absurd."

Langdon Incident Proves Thorn.

The minister of war is busy almost every day now with questions directed at him in the imperial diet regarding the maintenance of troops in Siberia. The Langdon case, recently settled amicably by Japan, has given critics of the war department an opportunity to become more caustic in their speeches against General Tanaka and the party that he represents. In seeking to aid the overthrow of the Hara ministry by embarrassing the head of the war department the members of the opposition have given the Langdon case, the charge that Japan is dominated by militaristic forces, that soldiers are maintained in Siberia while trade pacts with that part of the world are neglected, fullest mention.

"The minister of war has the deepest sympathy for the family of Lieutenant Langdon," said General Tanaka in his interview. "We feel that there is nothing more than can be said regarding this case, but the United States can be assured that the judgment of the courtmartial, which recommended that punishment be given these officers responsible for the outcry's action will be carried out. This will not be interfered with by any opposition that is made by members of the Reservists Association of Tokio."

Koreans Looks to Siberia.

Reports that the spread of the bolshevist rule are reaching out into Manchuria and toward Korea are borne out by frequent news items that manage to emanate from the Korean cities. While much of this is censored by Japanese, it is known that malcontent Koreans are now working with bolshevikis in their plots to injure Japan. Seven hundred Korean malcontents recently joined with bolshevist forces in Manchuria in an effort to spread the influence of the Korean "Provisional government" through whatever means were at hand.

General Tanaka believes that the bolshevist influence is still a great menace to Japanese property interests in Siberia. "The bolshevist influence extends into every corner of Siberia," said the minister of war, "except in the vicinity of Vladivostok and Nikolaievsk, where are stationed the two divisions of Japanese troops. The principles of the bolshevik are spreading into Mongolia and Manchuria at an alarming rate. Koreans are being made the tools of these agents, and consequently the Japanese are having difficulty in their desire to maintain order in both Korea and Chientao."

Japanese Distrust of America.

The opinion that obtains in Japan regarding the contracts of Washington D. Vanderlip is that Vanderlip sought trade concessions, not for financial gains, but as military assets with which war could the better be waged with Japan. This report as carried in a story from the Tokio Asahi Shimbun's correspondent in Moscow reads:

"A statement attributed to Nikolai Lenin, the bolshevist dictator, quoted that bolshevist as asserting that one reason Vanderlip wanted the Kamchatka leases was that the United States government could use this section as a naval base against Japan and America.

"If the soviet government had consented to sell Kamchatka to the Americans the American government would have gladly recognized the coviet," Lenin is quoted as saying.

The publication of these reports gives some idea of the distrust with which some Japanese look upon Americans. General Tanaka, in his interview, was inclined to look upon the establishment of trade connections by Vanderlip as not reliable. But it is a known fact that the newspapers of the country, which are among the most democratic influences in Japan today, do not hesitat to speak of America, and the American trade expansion, as a menace to the power of the Japanese empire.

Rich Man Gives Much and Then Turns Laborer

By EARLE C. REEVES.

LONDON, April 23. — A few weeks ago a country gentleman, living in a palatial residence, Austin Hopkinson, M. P., is today living the life of a wage-earning bachelor in a tiny cottage alongside a canal.

He made the change voluntarily because he believes that sacrifices by those who are wealthy is the only way of avoiding a revolution in England.

Hopkinson is completing the "short sleeves" cycle in a single generation. He started as a coal miner, became an engineer, invented coal cutting machinery and today has contracts with almost all the large collieries in the country.

As a successful engineer and man of wealth he occupied Ryecroft Hall, a $150,000 mansion in Audenshaw, Lancashire, with a retinue of servants.

Built Twenty Homes.

He recently built twenty houses, costing $3,500 each. He has now given his residence and these houses to the local council, unconditionally.

He disposed of his furniture, giving much of it away, and selling part at figures that made the transactions almost gifts. His car he gave to his chauffeur, who has started a taxi business with it. Now the M. P. when he wants the use of a car, pays his ex-chauffeur taxi rates for the use of his own machine.

Hopkinson had previously become famous in England by invention of something new in the profit-sharing line and for his model factory, where coal cutting machinery is made. The greater the profits of the plant the less money Hopkinson receives. After the profits reach a certain sum the owner comes to receive any income from the plant, the whole of its earnings going to the workmen.

LONELY ITALIAN BURGLAR

GENEVA, April 1.—The governor of the prison at Bellinsona was obliged to ask the aid of the police to expel an Italian burglar named Morano, who had been sentenced to two years' imprisonment followed by expulsion.

The prisoner refused to leave his cell after the expiration of his term, stating that he was perfectly comfortable where he was and did not want to change his quarters and seek work.

Some Things Auto Campers Should Have

To keep your windshield clear of mist on rainy days, rub a sliced onion over the glass, with an up and down motion. This will be found to be an admirable protection against rain obscuring the vision, but it is not as well adapted to falling snow

In driving through large cities watch the signals of the traffic officer on busy corners, as regulations vary in different cities.

Always stop for street cars unloading or taking on passengers. In most cities this is required by ordinance rigidly enforced.

There are two laws governing the "right of the road"—the law of courtesy and the statute law.

Do unto other motorists as you would have them do unto you, when you find them stuck on the highway.

It takes gas to propel a motor vehicle—profanity won't do it.

The most obnoxious animal in the world is the road hog. He is as objectionable as any other hog and you can't eat him.

It is not only necessary for one to his know he owns his car, but it is often necessary to prove it—keep your certificate of title in your car.

To make tough meat tender lay it for a few minutes in a strong vinegar water.

To keep ants away from food put a feice of powdered chalk a few inches from the food and all around it.

To keep away mosquitoes rub citronella oil on hands and neck.

To remove grease spots use cold water, a tablespoonful of ammonia and soap to clean the cloth.

To heat a tent on cool nights fill a bucket with stones, made piping hot by the camp fire. Place the bucket in an inverted position in the tent and it will radiate heat for a long time.

A small amount of shellac will stop small leaks in radiators.

Pure vinegar will clean celluloid windows in the curtains of your car.

A piece of an old inner tube placed between the casing and a blowout patch will remove most of the friction between the two fabrics and prolong the life of the patch indefinitely.

Butter, oleomargarine or cocanut butter are excellent for softening road tar for easy removal from fenders.

An excellent camp clock, which, however, will only function on clear days, can be made by constructing a crude sun dial on a convenient spot. Put a stick in the ground and note where its shadow is at 12 o'clock. Then mark out the hour positions by use of a watch. The shadow of the stick will tell the time, like the hour hand of your watch.

If the can opener be lost or broken, do not spoil a good knife by attempting to substitute it for the opener. Use the camp axe and cut a cross in the top of the can, bend the flanges back, but do not use the fingers in doing this or you may cut them on the sharp points of the tin.

Use your watch for a compass. If the sun shines point the hour hand to the sun. Half way between the hour and 12 o'clock is south.

On cloudy days the general direction may be determined by the fact that the bark of trees is rougher and thicker on the north side while the limbs are longer on the south side. Pine trees generally lean slightly to the north.

A few postal cards are much more practical to take along than postage stamps which will gum together when damp.

To dry out the inside of wet boots or shoes, put a few pebbles, previously heated in a frying pan over the fire, into them.

Kerosene will stoften shoes hardened by water.

To make a fire without matches scrape a fine lint from a piece of cotton cloth. On this focus the sun through the crystal of a watch or compass or the lens of a pair of spectacles and the lint will soon start to glow. Blow this into flames.

To soften water for washing, add an ounce of quicklime dissolved in water to every 12 gallons, or put some wood ashes in water and allow to stand over night. It will be clear and soft.

When water is hard, mix with vinegar or lemon juice, make quite sour and drink freely.

To open a fruit jar place a hot rock on the top of cover for a couple of minutes.

The Most Beautiful Car in America

The One True Test

The one sure way to determine actual motor car value is by a thorough, exhaustive demonstration.

In the show room, you can tell at a glance whether a car satisfies your artistic demands. The next step, then, is to get out on the road and discover what lies under the hood. Power, Speed and Endurance are qualities of action that only a ride can establish.

We suggest just this course in judging any Paige 6-66 model. We go one step farther, however, and invite you to compare it with any other car—at any price—on the American market. Take the comparative demonstrations first. Then inspect the price tags.

Paige, remember, is the stock car speed champion of the world. And the motor that you will find under a 6-66 hood belongs to Paige and Paige alone. Don't forget that.

JAP DISTRUST OF AMERICA IS GROWING

By GUSH N. PARNE.

TOKIO, April 23.—Lieutenant-General Baron Giichi Tanaka, minister of war for Japan, in an interview given the representative of the International News Service in Tokio recently, dwelled frequently regarding reports in America and Japan that this country entertains territorial ambitions in Siberia. One by one the minister of war took up the various editors of Japanese papers and their commanders in Siberia and finally he took up for discussion the attitude of the headquarters staff in Tokio and finally he discussed the charge that "militarists of Tokio" control the government of the empire.

"It has been frequently stated here and elsewhere," said General Tanaka, "that Japan has no territorial ambitions in Siberia. Replies to this report have been made by Premier Hara, in the diet and by various officers occupying positions of authority.

"The true object of our troops stationed there today is to protect Japanese subjects and to maintain communications. We desire sincerely to withdraw our men from this region just the moment that a stable Russian government is established, but we cannot withdraw until Japanese subjects and property there are made safe. The idea advanced in some quarters that we have ambitions to keep our troops there permanently is absurd."

Langdon Incident Proves Them.

"The minister of war is busy almost every day now with questions directed at him in the imperial diet regarding the maintenance of troops in Siberia. The Langdon case, recently settled amicably by Japan, has given critics of the war department an opportunity to become more caustic in their speeches against General Tanaka and the party that he represents. In seeking to aid the overthrow of the Hara ministry by embarrassing the head of the war department the members of the opposition have given the Langdon case, the charge that Japan is dominated by militaristic forces, that soldiers are maintained in Siberia while trade pacts with that part of the world are neglected, fullest mention.

"The minister of war has the deepest sympathy for the family of Lieutenant Langdon," said General Tanaka in his interview. "We feel that there is nothing more than can be said regarding this case, but the United States can be assured that the judgment of the courtmartial, which recommended that punishment be given these officers responsible for the enemy's action will be carried out. This will not be interfered with by any opposition that is made by members of the Reservists Association of Tokio."

Koreans Looks to Siberia.

Reports that the spread of the bolshevist rule are reaching out into Manchuria and toward Korea are borne out by frequent news items that manage to emanate from the Korean cities. While much of this is censored by Japanese, it is known that malcontent Koreans are now working with bolsheviki in their plots to injure Japan. Seven hundred Korean malcontents recently joined with bolshevist forces in Manchuria in an effort to spread the influence of the Korean "Provisional government" through whatever means were at hand.

General Tanaka believes that the bolshevist influence is still a great menace to Japanese property interests in Siberia. "The bolshevist influence extends into every corner of Siberia," said the minister of war, "except in the vicinity of Vladivostok and Nikolaievsk, where are stationed the two divisions of Japanese troops. The principles of the bolshevik are spreading into Mongolia and Manchuria at an alarming rate. Koreans are being made the tools of these agents, and consequently the Japanese are having difficulty in their desire to maintain order in both Korea and Chientao."

Japanese Distrust of America.

The opinion that obtains in Japan regarding the contracts of Washington D. Vanderlip is that Vanderlip sought trade concessions, not for financial gains, but as military assets with which war could the better be waged with Japan. This report as carried in a story from the Tokio Asahi Shimbun's correspondent in Moscow reads:

"A statement attributed to Nikolai Lenin, the bolshevist dictator, quoted that bolshevist as asserting that one reason Vanderlip wanted the Kamchatka leases was that the United States government could use this section as a naval base against Japan and America.

"If the soviet government had consented to sell Kamchatka to the Americans the American government would have gladly recognized the soviet," Lenin is quoted as saying.

The publication of these reports gives some idea of the distrust with which some Japanese look upon Americans. General Tanaka, in his interview, was inclined to look upon the establishment of trade connections by Vanderlip as not reliable. But it is a known fact that the newspapers of the country, which are among the most democratic influences in Japan today, do not hesitat to speak of America, and the American trade expansion, as a menace to the power of the Japanese empire.

Rich Man Gives Much and Then Turns Laborer

By EARLE C. REEVES.

LONDON, April 23. — A few weeks ago a country gentleman, living in a palatial residence, Austin Hopkinson, M. P., is today living the life of a wage-earning bachelor in a tiny cottage alongside a canal.

He made the change voluntarily because he believes that sacrifices by those who are wealthy is the only way of avoiding a revolution in England.

Hopkinson is completing the "short sleeves" cycle in a single generation. He started as a coal miner, became an engineer, invented coal cutting machinery and today has contracts with almost all the large collieries in the country.

As a successful engineer and man of wealth he occupied Ryecroft Hall, a $150,000 mansion in Audenshaw, Lancashire, with a retinue of servants.

Built Twenty Homes.

He recently built twenty houses, costing $3,500 each. He has now given his residence and these houses to the local council, unconditionally.

He disposed of his furniture, giving much of it away, and selling part at figures that made the transactions almost gifts. His car he gave to his chauffeur, who has started a taxi business with it. Now the M. P. when he wants the use of a car, pays his ex-chauffeur taxi rates for the use of his own machine.

Hopkinson had previously become famous in England by invention of something new in the profit-sharing line and for his model factory, where coal cutting machinery is made. The greater the profits of the plant the less money Hopkinson receives. After the profits reach a certain sum the owner ceases to receive any income from the plant, the whole of its earnings going to the workmen.

A small percentage of your income set aside regularly each week or month in a Savings Account with the City National Bank of Commerce will make you independent of friends or charity as age comes on. The bank welcomes deposits of any amount from a dollar upwards and pays 4% compound interest.—Adv.

When the bowels are costive the waste matter ferments, producing a gaseous condition that is disagreeable. To remove the impurities quickly, a dose of Herbine is needed. It does the work thoroughly and pleasantly. Price 60c. Sold by your druggist.—Adv.

LONELY ITALIAN BURGLAR

GENEVA, April 1.—The governor of the prison at Bellinsona was obliged to ask the aid of the police to expel an Italian burglar named Morsro, who had been sentenced to two years' imprisonment followed by expulsion.

The prisoner refused to leave his cell after the expiration of his term, stating that he was perfectly comfortable where he was and did not want to change his quarters and seek work.

—A month, or six months, or a year from the day it is new, the Hupmobile is just as easy to care for, performs just as well, costs just as little to keep up, and is just as faithful.

Some Things Auto Campers Should Have

To keep your windshield clear of mist on rainy days, rub a sliced onion over the glass, with an up and down motion. This will be found to be an admirable protection against rain obscuring the vision, but it is not as well adapted to falling snow

In driving through large cities watch the signals of the traffic officers on busy corners, as regulations vary in different cities.

Always stop for street cars unloading or taking on passengers. In most cities this is required by ordinance rigidly enforced.

There are two laws governing the "right of the road"—the law of courtesy and the statute law.

Do unto other motorists as you would have them do unto you, when you find them stuck on the highway.

It takes gas to propel a motor vehicle—profanity won't do it.

The most obnoxious animal in the world is the road hog. He is as objectionable as any other hog and you can't eat him.

It is not only necessary for one to his know he owns his car, but it is often necessary to prove it—keep your certificate of title in your car.

To make tough meat tender lay it for a few minutes in a strong vinegar water.

To keep ants away from food put a fence of powdered chalk a few inches from the food and all around it.

To keep away mosquitoes rub citronella oil on hands and neck.

To remove grease spots use cold water, a tablespoonful of ammonia and soap to clean the cloth.

To heat a tent on cool nights fill a bucket with stones, made piping hot by the camp fire. Place the bucket in an inverted position in the tent and it will radiate heat for a long time.

A small amount of shellac will stop small leaks in radiators.

Pure vinegar will clean celluloid windows in the curtains of your car.

A piece of an old inner tube placed between the casing and a blowout patch will remove most of the friction between the two fabrics and prolong the life of the patch indefinitely.

Butter, oleomargarine or cocanut butter are excellent for softening road tar for easy removal from fenders.

An excellent camp clock, which, however, will only function on clear days, can be made by constructing a crude sun dial on a convenient spot. Put a stick in the ground and note where its shadow is at 12 o'clock. Then mark out the hour positions by use of a watch. The shadow of the stick will tell the time, like the hour hand of your watch.

If the can opener be lost or broken, do not spoil a good knife by attempting to substitute it for the opener. Use the camp axe and cut a cross in the top of the can, bend the flanges back, but do not use the fingers in doing this or you may cut them on the sharp points of the tin.

Use your watch for a compass. If the sun shines point the hour hand to the sun. Half way between the hour and 12 o'clock is south.

On cloudy days the general direction may be determined by the fact that the bark of trees is rougher and thicker on the north side while the limbs are longer on the south side. Pine trees generally lean slightly to the north.

A few postal cards are much more practical to take along than postage stamps which will gum together when damp.

To dry out the inside of wet boots or shoes, put a few pebbles, previously heated in a frying pan over the fire, into them.

Kerosene will stoften shoes hardened by water.

To make a fire without matches scrape a fine lint from a piece of cotton cloth. On this focus the sun through the crystal of a watch or compass or the lens of a pair of spectacles and the lint will soon start to glow. Blow this into flames.

To soften water for washing, add an ounce of quicklime dissolved in water to every 12 gallons, or put some wood ashes in water and allow to stand over night. It will be clear and soft.

When water is hard, mix with vinegar or lemon juice, make quite sour and drink freely.

To open a fruit jar place a hot rock on the top of cover for a couple of minutes.

While you may not believe in signs it is safe to assume that caution and danger signs are not erected for the mere amusement of those who took the trouble to put them up. —American Motorist.

The Most Beautiful Car in America

The One True Test

The one sure way to determine actual motor car value is by a thorough, exhaustive demonstration.

In the show room, you can tell at a glance whether a car satisfies your artistic demands. The next step, then, is to get out on the road and discover what lies under the hood. Power, Speed and Endurance are qualities of action that only a ride can establish.

We suggest just this course in judging any Paige 6-66 model. We go one step farther, however, and invite you to compare it with any other car—at any price—on the American market. Take the comparative demonstrations first. Then inspect the price tags.

Paige, remember, is the stock car speed champion of the world. And the motor that you will find under a 6-66 hood belongs to Paige and Paige alone. Don't forget that.

FOREIGN TOURS ARE POPULAR THIS YEAR

Motor touring in Europe by American automobile owners promises to be more popular this year than in any previous season, not excepting the pre-war days, when travel was easy and hotel accommodations ample and reasonable. During the last month, said Edward H. Wakefield, manager of the foreign department of the Automobile club of America, more inquiries have been received from members regarding European touring this season than was ever known before in a similar space of time so early in the year.

It indicates, he feels, a marked revival of foreign touring interest, not due wholly to curiosity to view the more or less devastated war zones, but a genuine desire to visit many of the choice scenic localities in various parts of the continent, as well as in the British Isles. European travel for pleasure has been so thoroughly restricted for some time that now, with a return to more normal traveling conditions, hundreds of Americans who have not been able to visit Europe except for war work are now anxious to go over merely for the old-time vacation enjoyment.

Long Trips the Rule.

Many of the members of the Automobile club of America who are preparing for a foreign tour are planning a stay of from three to six months, and the great majority of them will take their cars with them. Several cars have already been shipped, a very unusual thing for this season, and Mr. Wakefield has just made all necessary arrangements for the shipment of ten or a dozen cars during the first two weeks of April.

Most of the cars already shipped abroad have gone to France, and this will be true of those going in April, but a few have gone direct to England and some have gone to Holland. There will also be some touring in Italy and Switzerland, but comparatively little in Spain, owing to the poor roads outside of the main routes to the larger cities. Brittany and Pyrenees sections of France seem to be the most popular touring sections. Several members with their families who are planning European motor trips, were abroad during the war, and, in laying out the routes for them, many have stated that they had enough of war scenes during the conflict and have no desire to go through the battle-scarred areas at this time.

Through its affiliations with the recognized automobile clubs of Europe, such touring difficulties as customs payments and many other details are greatly simplified by the ability of members of the Automobile club of America to obtain triptyques, which permit the passage of the American-owned automobile all through the customs fee required for the entry of such a car is paid here; if two or more countries are to be visited, the required fees from all of those countries are paid and on the return of the owner the money is refunded. Practically all of the foreign countries allow a car to be entered free for twelve months. If it remains in the country longer than that, the government exacts the customs fee. While Italy still prohibits the importation of foreign cars for permanent use or sale, tourists are allowed, by the Italian triptyques, to take their cars into Italy for three months' use. An extension may be obtained for another three months, but under no circumstances will the privilege be granted for longer than six months.

It is necessary for prospective tourists to obtain licenses, but the fee for these is small. Motor tourists also escape the automobile tax for the first four months in Great Britain. This has lately been increased in Great Britain to 1 pound per horsepower, while in France it is even higher under the new regulations, which are very complex. More than two months' stay in France, however, will make it necessary for the owner of a foreign car to pay the motor tax.

Gasoline is still expensive all over Europe, although cheaper than was the case one and two years ago. The average price in France at present represents about $1 a gallon, and in England it averages about 75 cents.

Gas Sometimes Scarce.

Predictions made last year, said Mr. Wakefield, that a large number of American motorists would visit Europe were not borne out by the facts. While several club members took their cars abroad in 1920, the number was not in excess of those sent abroad during an average touring season before the war. Hotel accommodations were rather scarce and the price high. These conditions have changed for the better this year, and while tourists will not find rates as low as in pre-war days they will be materially less than prevailed last year.

Regarding gasoline supplies to France, several members reported that it will sometimes be necessary on long tours to send ahead for a proper supply [illegible] at the end of the day's [illegible] the more remote parts of [illegible] the stocks are small, and it is not always possible to obtain all that may be needed.

Tourists found that the main roads, or "routes nationales," in many parts of France suffered severely during the war, due to immense amount of motor truck traffic. In the war zone these roads were constantly kept in good repair for military necessities, and the main roads in the war localities are fully as good now as ever. In fact, several tourists now have motored extensively in France in former years stated that many of the war zone roads are better than in pre-war days. In the other parts of the country the national routes have been under repair, and improved conditions will doubtless be found this season. On the other hand, the byroads were reported as in excellent shape and much better time with additional comfort was often found in using them than by taking the main truck roads.

CONDITIONS IN AUTO INDUSTRY ARE IMPROVING

Signs of recovery everywhere in the automobile business were declared to be apparent this week to directors of the national automobile chamber of commerce. While much of the long session which was held was of necessity given up to consideration and planning for the industry's interest in approaching acts of congress, the usual careful survey of the trade both from authentic local reports and from the information given by factory shipping records was, brought before the directors and warmly approved. Shipments, it is made known are once more on a fairly substantial level, and most territories reporting to the chamber tell of conditions which indicate that the cars are moving rapidly.

Better Business Noted.

In a survey of 15 states, scattered through the country, an almost general trend toward better business is notable. St. Louis reports that it expects April and May to produce about the same volume of trade as was turned up last year in the same phenomenal months. The South and the two Dakotas appear to be the only sections in which a lag is evident, and even in the South, Georgia and Florida are finding some signs of improvement. Moderate gains are reported, too, from Iowa and Kansas, though it is found in general the business is running more slowly in farming sections. Wheat is beginning to move in Kansas, however, which is having its effect on the buying power of the farmer in that state.

Trucks are still moving only slowly, it is found. Credit conditions are found to be relaxing, and to be considerably better in some sections. Used cars, too, are moving freely under pressure from energetic campaigns on them by dealers. It is hinted that in many cases a part of this campaign has involved accepting less for the cars than had been anticipated when they were taken in.

Factory Shipments Increasing.

Shipments from the factories, as reported to the directors, while still incomplete, provided sufficient records to support an estimate of 16,500 carloads and 10,000 drive-aways. That this is 63 per cent greater than the movement of automobiles in February merely tells how curtailed that month's record was. March a year ago, it is remembered, was a record month, abnormally so, but in comparison with it, March of this year shows about 42 per cent of the shipping. The current year, however, is declared to be taking ample care of its own record, since the 63 per cent increase from February to March was a continuation of the movement started when February itself went 59 per cent ahead of January.—Automobile Topics.

SHORT SKIRT PENALTY.

LONDON, April 2.—It has been ruled in England and a woman cannot get compensation for a dog bite if she happens to be wearing a short skirt at the time.

A young woman complained to the magistrate in the Thames police court that a dog had bitten her in the calf of the leg.

The magistrate—"It is one of the disadvantages of the short skirts."

Closed Market for Stolen Cars Urged By Police Chief

"There would not be as many automobiles stolen as there are if there was no sale market for them," said Chief of Police Huff recently, in speaking of the large number of cars that are annually stolen and afterward sold.

"The great incentive to the thief is the chance to sell the loot. The best way to break up this form of crime is to check the buying of 'used' cars, not accompanied by an absolute assurance of honest ownership—namely, evidences of the different ownerships from the time the car left the factory down to its present possessor.

Way to Limit Market.

"If the State would adopt a law that will prevent the registration of new cars without written evidence of transfer from an authorized factory dealer, together with other curtailments to prevent the fraudulent registration of cars, the market can be so limited that the number of cars stolen will be reduced to practically joyriding thefts.

"Anyone purchasing a second-hand car without ascertaining that it is honestly owned by the seller takes a serious risk of involving himself in a criminal transaction. He may lose the machine, should it be identified as having been stolen and might be accused as implicated in the theft, as a receiver of stolen property. Dealers in used cars are in similar danger if they are not scrupulous in their acceptance of machines for sale.

Owners Are Careless.

"One thing that makes the theft of automobiles comparatively easy is the fact that many owners are very careless in the manner in which they care for their cars. While numerous devices have been adopted to check thievery, the race between mechanical ingenuity and criminal dexterity is a keen one, and professional motor thieves frequently find ways of beating the locks. Cars are frequently stolen from garages, both public and private, and more often from the streets under the very eyes of even officers of the law. The police can not be blamed, however, for the thieves are shrewd and operate with great adriotness.

"If the 'fences' can be located and the leaders of the gang corraled, the industry would be greatly checked. But, as has already been stated, the surest way to break up the traffic in stolen cars is to close the market for them, which can be done in a large measure by the adoption of such laws as suggested."

CAR SHORTAGE FORECASTED BY OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, April 23. — A shortage of cars in the spring is now foreseen by government officials who are keeping a close tab on the automobile industry.

Manufacturers are balked by supply markets, which are unable to resume output on a quantity basis, while indications are that 1,000,000 autos will be needed to meet the demand. The best expert opinion here is that prices are not going to change and that those who contemplate buying a car during the year 1921 and are in a position to purchase now will do well to place their order and be sure of securing delivery.

Question of Production.

When quantity production can be resumed is a question that no one to date has been able to answer. To get on this basis of production it is necessary to contract for enormous quantities of material at least a year ahead. Not only must the material be contracted for, but a great deal of it must actually be delivered. With the constant fluctuations in the material market today no manufacturer deems it good business to tie himself up to a contract which may in six months from now be proved to be at a figure that is high. Were it possibly to determine just what the condition of the material market was to be for a year, it would be at least 90 days then before production could be resumed on a quantity basis.

Buying Period Here.

The resumption of production at the conclusion of the war proved that it took at least this long to get things running smoothly in the plants. Three months from now the spring season will be here, and that is always the peak of the buying in the automotive world.

Indications are at present that by May 1 there will not be enough new cars to go around, for it will take at least 1,000,000 to replace those that have been worn out in the past 12 months, and once a man has owned a motor car there is little probability of his ever doing without a machine. Motor cars are indispensable to those who have once owned them.

MAKE POLICIES KNOWN, SAYS NAVY LORD

LONDON, April 23.—The future naval policies of England and the United States should be made known to each other and instead of "hands across the water" there should be "heads across the water." Thus Lord Lee of Fareham, first lord of the British admiralty, stated in a straightforward address at the annual dinner of the Institution of Naval Architects.

Referring to the international aspects of naval policy, he held that England should lay her cards on the table and discuss frankly with America what the future would be. Lord Lee said that the board of admiralty was today faced with some of the most perplexing problems that had ever confronted naval administration in this country.

Discussing the broader aspects of naval policy, the first lord of the admiralty said:

"I think all of us must be asking ourselves frequently the question—whither are we going after the triumphant conclusion of that war which was to make the world safe for civilization? It is hard to believe that those who were fighting side by side to save that civilization are now going to build navies against each other, if for no other reason because it would be so ridiculous and so silly. I am encouraged in this matter by the moderate view which is being taken by the governments of other great naval powers, but it is better that we should speak plainly of the greatest naval power in the world apart from ourselves."

America's Policy.

"We see the United States of America senate is laying down the principle that America shall maintain a navy at least equal to that of any other power. That is a claim to equality which this country has never expected in the past—and never would expect save in connection with a great English speaking nation that sprang from its loins and musht ever hold a great place in our regard and confidence. We have twice affirmed in the most formal way possible our expedients for the future of a one-power standard. If you look across the Atlantic you see that Mr. Denby, secretary of the American navy, has said that American interests naturally call for a navy equal to that of any other power.

The difference between our formula and that of America is too slight to be made a subject of controversy, still less of friction or hostility. I join issue with those who say we should not discuss this question, because war with any of our late allies and with America is unthinkable. Wars do not become impossible because people never think about them and this is a subject about which we ought to be thinking—thinking day and night—with the fixed intention of making it impossible. Because if ever a war is going to take place between us and any of our late allies it will be the fault of blind or criminal leading for which our statesmen, whether in London, Washington, Tokio or the capital of any other naval power, would be condemned and execrated in history if they fail to avert such a tragedy."

Britain's Example.

"Mr. Denby had said that the greatest calamity that could overtake humanity would be war between this country and America and that between us we could control the sea. "I have no doubt," he said, "that between us we could, but the question before us today is whether we are heading in the right direction with regard to our navies without consulting with each other. In that respect I think the government of this country has a clear record. We have in our estimates of this year set an example of reduction. We have admittedly taken risks as regards the relative position of our navies and of others and we are prepared to go as far as possible in that direction by mutual agreement. But merely to talk of 'hands across the sea' is not sufficient; we must have our heads across the sea as well. It is not enough to talk about blood being thicker than water. What we want is that plain sense which is characteristic of both our countries and personally from a long knowledge of America I have a profound belief in business talk leading up to a square deal."

Harding's Policy.

"I hold strongly that in this matter we are not engaged in a game of poker or of bluff, but in a sort of game where we ought to lay our cards on the table and discuss frankly with our friends what the future should be. The only point that remains to be settled is who is to make the first move to initiate the discussion. Still we are not disposed to stand upon ceremony in this or any other matter. We welcome the hint, which has been thrown out by President Harding and it will continue to be met with the most cordial and helpful response here. I can say this that if the invitation comes from Washington personally I am prepared to put aside all other business, pressing though it may be, in order to take part in business than which there can be nothing more pressing in the affairs of this world."

Court Decree Did Not Clear This Tangle

SALEM, Mass., April 23.—The matrimonial predicament of Mrs. Bertha J. Knowlton, an attractive young authoress of the Swampscott, who left her plea for annulment of her marriage to Arthur Llewellyn Griffiths, of Marblehead, explorer and friend of former President Taft, is stranger and more involved than any domestic problem of fiction from her own pen.

Mrs. Knowlton's latest book is said to be based on her two tempestuous experiences between the ages of 15 and 25. Mrs. Knowlton, who prefers the name although her first husband divorced her six years ago, by the court's ruling is still Griffith's wife under the Vermont ceremoney which Judgge Quinn alluded to as a "pretended marriage."

Griffiths had a wife, Mrs. Stella Wood Griffiths of Winslow, Maine, whom the court found he had not divorced before marrying Mrs. Knowlton.

And there developed the matrimonial enigma. Either Mrs. Knowlton is still Griffiths' wife or the years they lived together following the Vermont marriage were not spent in legal wedlock. Or she never had any legal claim on Griffiths. Or Griffiths had two wives. Judge Quinn's decision would indicate that under legal ethics the Vermont ceremony would have no standing in court.

Mrs. Knowlton, mother of one child and twice married, at the age of 25, is left in a matrimonial muddle. She is socially prominent on the north shore.

Barney Oldfield On Long Tour in Pet Speedster

To Barney Oldfield, noted veteran of the speedway, a mere Pullman as a means of cross-country traveling has no appeal whatsfoever. After several months on the coast, he is heading east at the wheel of his Marmon speedster, the car which has been his constant companion since he drove the pace-making lap at the 1920 500-mile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

The southern route has been chosen by Oldfield, who has announced that his itinerary will carry him through Phoenix, Tucson, Douglas, El Paso, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Wichita, Kansas City, St. Louis and Indianapolis and Akron his destination.

This is not Barney's first extended trip in his speedster, for it has been his means of transportation not only to the coast, but on countless side-trips of considerable length while there. This is the first time, however, that he has made a direct trip across the continent with a minimum of stops, and he reports that thus far everything has gone along in an exceptionally smooth manner.

Turkey Facing Grave Crisis In Finances

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The Terrible Turk has gone down another notch toward the end of his rope.

Turkey's finances are shattered and the government can not longer pay the salaries of its civil and military functionaires.

Whatever may be left of the Turkish army may go on a strike.. American consular reports showed that conditions in Turkey are more chaotic than ever.

The Turkish deficit on account of unpaid salaries for government officers, both civil and military, extends over the past five months. A crisis of serious proportions impends, according to American commissioners at Constantinople.

Allied high commissioners at Constantinople, it was said, now are considering allowing the Turkish government to raise the "specific" duties to render them equivalent to an 11 per cent ad valorem duty.

Financial relief to some extent may be realized from collection of the property tax from inhabitants of Constantinople and the revenues from customs may lighten the burden, it was declared.

But allied representatives, the department of commerce was advised, view the situation as most serious for discontent and disorder among the people are growing daily.

The City National Bank of Commerce is progressive in policy even as it is conservative in banking practice. The men who direct and manage it know the Wichita Falls district and its needs and opportunities. The customers of the bank benefit thereby.—Adv.

GULF POOL IN EXTREME EAST OF SOUTHEAST BURKBURNETT FIELD PROVES INTERESTING

Completion of a good producer on the Hudgins lease in the 900-foot sand, in the 1,450 foot sand, most producing in this section, and a rest prior production in a sand at that depth, made the Gulf pools in the extreme east of the southeast Burnett shallow field, unusually interesting this past week. In addition to these there were sufficient developments in the Electra district as a whole to greatly stimulate activity.

Henry Hobbs et al have completed their first producer in the 900-foot sand, their No. 3 Burnett being drilled through the 930-foot sand down to the deeper sand and reported Friday as flowing by heads. Estimates on its production are from 50 to 75 barrels.

The depth in this well is reported around 930 feet. Slightly higer than the Gulf & Larkin 900-foot wells in this pool to the east of the Hobbs lease. These wells got the sand around 970 feet.

Larkin Well Producer.

The No. 1 Parker Williams of W. B. Larkin is reported making about 0 or 40 barrels in the 1,450-foot sand a few feet. There have been oil showings reported in various tests around the 1,460-foot level, but this is apparently to be the first successful test in the pool.

The No. 13 Burnett-A of the Gulf Production company, offsetting the discovery 970-foot well of the pool to the south, is reported on an oil sand at 1,900 feet and now reaming to set casing and test.

The No. 1 Burnett-D, slightly to the northeast of the shallow production got a showing below 1,900 feet a couple of weeks ago, but failed to get production. This is now drilling around 2,000 feet in shale, according to latest reports.

Powell Well Interesting.

The past week's developments in the Powell, Long & Hines well on the J. L. Powell, just west of Fowlkes station, have served to definitely open up new and highly promising possibilities for development in this vicinity.

Though not completed as yet, the well the later part of the week made a good sized flow, while tubing and rods were being removed to permit of cleaning out to put on the pump.

It also pumped around 70 or 80 barrels in about six hours time, according to reports, before trouble with the pressure developed.

A well of any size at this depth would be important, but this was promised to be at least a fair producer. The bottom of the hole is 1,864 feet at present.

West Fowler Features.

The operations of Fisher and Gilliland, Sheegog & Scott, and the Gloria Oil company are features of the West Fowlkes section at present. Fisher & Gilliland are reported drilling around 150 or 200 feet in their No. 2 Fisher, which started drilling Friday.

This is a tear machine test, to go down to the 970-foot sand, tested out in the No. 1 but passed up for the 1,430-foot sand. The shallower sand showed up for about 100 barrels in the two days test and the deeper sand in the first location made a smaller producer, between 40 and 50 barrels.

The Sheegog & Scott No. 1 J. A. Fisher, cable tool test located east of the Fisher & Gilliland lease, was due to start drilling Friday.

To the south of the Fisher & Gilliland the Gloria Oil company No. 1 L. P. Douglas also started drilling on Friday.

Reports of a 1,600-foot sand encountered in the Finley & Dodson on the Davis, a mile northwest of the Powell, Long et al well, turned interest to this test which has been drilling a short time. Friday reports were to the effect that casing was to be set and a test given the new sand. This location is sufficient distance from production to make even the report of a sand worth looking into.

Show on Allingham.

Another point of interest is afforded by the reports of a sand showing oil around 1,600 feet in the Hereford Oil company test on the C. H. Allingham, about three quarters west of the Gladiolus pool. This is reported preparing to test.

Casing is reported set and testing under way in the 1,435-foot sand of the Ashley & Prince No. 1 Gulf Oil company.

The No. 11 Burnett of the Mary Davis Oil company is reported on the sand at 900 feet and completing. The No. 12 on this lease is reported drilling around 600 feet near the No. 12 a locating.

The No. 2 Burnett of W. R. Harris et al is reported drilling around 300 feet.

The No. 4 Burnett of the Madison Oil & Gas Co. is reported drilling around 1,610 feet with a small bit.

The Gladiolus Oil company No. 23 Burnett is reported drilling around 1,200 feet and the No. 25 Burnett is reported drilling around 1,300 feet. Both are expected to be completed in the 1,400-foot sand this coming week.

The No. 1 Burnett of the Simms Oil company is reported drilling around 350 feet. This location is in section 5 of the H. T. & B. survey.

Pick Up 900 Sand.

The No. 4 Burnett of Melton & Hart is reported setting casing on an oil sand slightly below 900 feet.

The Iowa Park Producing & Refining Co. is reported drilling around 650 feet in the No. 2 Burnett and around 400 feet in the No. 3, same lease.

The Planet Petroleum company No. 8 S. B. Burnett lease A is reported drilling around 700 feet.

On the W. T. Waggoner, west side of the South Electra shallow pool, the No. 1 of Lambert & Tolliver is reported drilling around 1,000 feet.

The Bryan Oil corporation is reported to have started drilling in its No. 7 Burnett.

The cable tool test of the Humble Oil & Refining company, on the Ancell ranch, is reported this week end as drilling around 1,495 feet.

Cauble on Dale.

Reports that the Dale ranch test of the Cauble Oil company is preparing to resume drilling have occasioned considerable interest, this test having been closely watched for months some time ago.

It was temporarily abandoned below 2,500 feet and it is now reported that a rotary is moving on to resume operations. When the Hazel Burk test came next in consideration in the deep tests, but during the winter months when operations were held up, there had been nothing heard from either test.

It is understood that a second test is to be made for the 2,500-foot sand on the Hazel Burk lease, though there have been no recent announcement to that effect.

On the Henson reach, between the South Electra shallow and the producer on the Nance lease of the Ryan Petroleum, McClure and Dyer have an oil sand around 1,280 feet, reported bailing in.

In Sunshine Hill the No. 1 Ward & Todd of Browning & Browning is reported a 25-barrel well in the 970 foot sand.

South Bend 2,100-Foot Sand Receives Slight Eastward Extension Through Completion of No. 1 Stovall Well

South Bend's 2,100 foot sand received a slight eastward extension the last of the week through the completion of the No. 1 Stovall of the Jake Hamon estate, which was flowing at the rate of 250 barrels when first drilled into the sand at 2,000 feet.

This well offsets the Hall & Rutherford No. 1 Stovall to the east and the two wells form the eastern point of the field at present and are something like a mile east of the McCluskey producers of the Panhandle Refining company.

This new well was the feature completion in the way of outside locations for the week, though several of her developments which hold out promise are reported.

On the Burgess lease, east from the McCluskey-Graham pool the North Am... No. 1 is reported drilling in an oil ... around 2,10... ...bout 1,500 feet of fluid, mostly oil in the hole.

SHOWING ON SCHOOL LOT

A fifty-barrel showing in the 1,500-foot sand level was reported from the test being drilled by Furlow et al on the Lone Star school house grounds, a short distance from the present line of production on the west side of the McCluskey-Graham. This test is reported now drilling around 2,000 feet.

The No. 1 Granam of Danciger-Beardmore and Hivick, to the south of the pool, is reported drilling around 2,700 feet, without getting production, or showings in the usual sand depths.

This is to be made a deep test, according to present plans and will give this immediate vicinity the first test for the 2,300 and deeper sands.

The No. 5 Granam of Emrich & Danciger is reported drilling around 1,275 feet and the No. 7 same lease drilling around 600 feet.

The Danciger-Shamrock No. 2 McCluskey is reported drilling around 300 feet.

The Danciger-Robinson No. 1 Graham is reported drilling around 2,350 feet. This test got the usual showing around 1,900 feet, looking good for about 600 barrels.

The sand at 2,090 feet, estimated good for 300 barrels, will be passed up to drill immediately down to the 2,500-foot sand in the Shamrock's No. 6 M. K. Graham, lease A, according to reports. The No. 7 this lease is drilling around 1,550 feet the No. 8 reported rigging up and the No. 9 drilling around 850 feet.

Konowa On Sand.

Reported about ten feet into an oil sand around 2,580 feet, the Konowa Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Stovall is showing up in a fair way to make the first producer on the Stovall offsetting the Panhandle wells on the McCluskey across the Clear Fork.

The first producer on the Stovall was the Hall & Rutherford, a mile to the east of the McCluskey producers. The Shamrock test on the Stovall failed to get production in the 2,100 or 2,500-foot sands and is now reported setting five-inch casing around 3,000 feet.

To the north of the pool and with a dry hole or two intervening, the No. 1 Stovall of Vandervoort and Seale is reported still working to get the bailer out of the hole to test an oil showing encountered at the 2,090-foot depth.

Texas National Showing.

A showing around 3,120 feet is reported in the No. 1 M. B. Dooley of the Texas National Oil company. This test is a wildcat west of the producing area.

Drilling is reported resumed on the No. 1 Dooley of W. B. Shanklet al, which had been shut down for a short time around 1,900 feet. It is reported 2,125 feet deep now.

The No. 2 McCluskey of Hedrick & Spoonts is reported on the 2,120 foot sand, making 80 barrels of oil and about a half million feet of gas. The No. 3 on this lease is reported drilling around 1,400 feet and the No. 4 and No. 11 are reported rigs.

The No. 6 Graham of the Godley Oil & Gas Co. is reported drilling around 1,450 feet. The No. 7 is reported drilling around 600 feet and the No. 8 drilling around 800 feet.

The Panhandle Refining company No. 10 McCluskey, offsetting to the south the Hall & Rutherford No. 1 Stovall, is reported drilling around 1,400 feet. The No. 9 is reported drilling around 400 efet and the No. 8 is reported rigging up.

The No. 1 McCluskey is still engaged in drilling down to the deeper 2,500 foot sand, found last week in the No. 2 on this lease. The No. 11 McCluskey between Nos. 2 and 3, both producers, is reported rigging up.

The rig is up for the North American-Roxana No. 2 Ford, a short distance east of the Panhandle No. 10 McCluskey. This test is in position to practically prove up the entire McCluskey tract on the east.

The Oklahoma Petroleum & Gasoline Co. is reported rigging up on No. 4 Graham and its No. 6 is reported a rig. No. 2 M. V. Keller is reported spudding in and the No. 6 is reported a rig.

Hobbs Wolvy Flowing.

The Hobbs et al well on the Hall farm, south of the town of South Bend, has been cleaned out completely and is still reported flowing around 300 barrels daily. The North American Oil & Refining Co. is reported a rig to offset the Hobbs well, this being their No. 2 B. F. Scott. The No. 1 B. F. Scott is reported rigging up to drill.

The No. 2 Donnell of the North American-Roxana is reported a 60-barrel well at 1,900 feet sand, given a small shot.

Preparations are being made by these interests to plug back the No. 1 Ford to 1,900 feet, where there was a sand with a good showing. This had been intended for a deep test but this plan was abandoned because of casing lost in the hole. The No. 3 Ford offsetting the No. 1 Burgess, reported earlier on a 2,100-foot sand, is reported a rig.

The No. 1 McCluskey is reported setting eight-inch casing at 2,500 feet.

This is to be made a deep test, in accordance with revised plans, it is announced. The No. 2 Pratt is reported rigging up 700 feet west of the No. 1 Braddock, which is reported still producing at the rate of 400 barrels daily.

Other Operations.

Reports from other Young county operations:

Arkansas Oil & Gas No. 1 Jeffrey, small showing of oil at 4,165 feet.

AMERICAN WOMEN BREAK PRE-WAR SPENDING RECORD

WASHINGTON, April 23.—American women of fashion, leaders of the world as lavish spenders for personal adornment, have surpassed their pre-war record as heavy buyers of Paris gowns and millinery.

Their purchases at French shops reached the unprecedented total of $10,261,000 last year. This figure represents money spent for gowns and millinery, imported to the United States from France.

Consul Thackara reported to the commerce department that the amount spent in 1920 exceeded by more than $6,000,000 the figure shown for the preceding year.

Milady's demand for diamonds also caused a big jump in the imports of "sparklers" from France. Diamonds imported from France amounted to $4,892,000, as compared with $2,149,000 the preceding year.

Reports for the first month of this year reveal that a continued heavy demand is in evidence for the output of the French designers of wearing apparel.

AMERICAN GIRL IS QUEEN OF JUNGLE LAND

OAKLAND, Cal., April 23—"How does it feel to be a jungle queen?"

Very frankly pretty Miss Ella Mair Bennett does not know. At least that is what she told the interviewer shortly after she had learned that she had become the mistress of a vast domain of South American jungle territory through the same court decree which gave her a divorce from Bruce Vincent Douglas and permitted her to resume her maiden name

"I'd much rather not talk," she said with a wan smile at her cozy little apartment upon her arrival there from her duties as a hair dresser in a downtown beauty establishment.

"It's all such a surprise. It hardly seems possible, but I know it is true, as my attorney tells me there is no question as to my legal right to the property which belonged to my husband. I felt a bit tired this evening as I usually do."

The uncrowned queen of a principality larger than many European countries and sole ruler of a kingdom of 1,440,000 acres is a good-looking brunette, who looks younger than the 25 years credit given her.

Has No Plans.

"It has come too suddenly to make plans," she said in response to a query as to what disposition she would make of the property awarded her by Judge A. F. St. Sure in lieu of alimony.

"Will you go down and develop it yourself or sell it?" persisted the interviewer.

"That question I can't answer just now, for I will not be granted any final decree of divorce for a year and until that time my attorney tells me I will be unable to actually take possession of the property. That gives me plenty of time to plan.

"Yes, I'd like to go down there but perhaps it would not be the best thing to do. I really don't feel like a queen at all."

"You will give up your position?" she was asked.

"No, not at all. I'll be back at work tomorrow as usual. There is really no reason why I should give it up, is there?" she parried naively.

Mrs. Douglas or Miss Bennett as her decree entitles her to be called, lives with her mother and sister.

Both her mother and sister are guarding her against publicity in connection with her newly won domain. It was only after persistent efforts that she agreed to see the interviewer and not until she had received word from her attorney that it "would be all right to talk."

Prefers Her Romance.

She was much more willing to discuss her romance with Douglas, now serving time in Sing Sing, than how it feels to be a jungle queen.

"Mr. Douglas was a diplomat, explorer and soldier of fortune. I met him in Oakland early in 1920. We were married in New York City a short time after—April 3, to be exact. The day after the wedding I was forced to return to Oakland because of business reasons relative to Mr. Douglas. He followed me here a month later and we left for a honeymoon."

"I understand it was a rather whirlwind affair," the interviewer asked. "Whirlwind is right," she said, laughingly. "In less than a month we toured the entire United States, always stopping at the best hotels and taking in every worthwhile amusement. He seemed to have plenty of money and I never thought anything but that he was a millionaire until when in Seattle he was arrested on a charge of passing fictitious checks and is now in Sing Sing serving time. I understand he is wanted in practically every state in the union on the same charge and that the northwest mounted police want him for something."

"But how did Mr. Douglas acquire the territory awarded to you in Brazil?"

Sure of Title.

"The property was awarded him by Don Manuel Valdes for the Brazilian government. The property originally belonged to Valdes's father who had been given it by the queen of Portugal years before. My attorney has investigated the matter thoroughly and says there is no question as to my ownership of it.

"The tract is 225 miles long and 130 miles wide. It is located in the province of Mattagorsa and is bounded by the River Jurueana, the Rio Tapogas and the Rio Sumidor rivers. It is some 700 miles inland, but there is only one mountain range between it and the coast and transportation facilities would not be difficult to establish, as there is a railroad now within 30 miles of it.

"Whether or not Mr. Douglas aided the late Theodore Roosevelt in his explorations of Brazil I can't say. I do not believe he was with Roosevelt for he told me he was in Brazil before Roosevelt."

The life of Douglas, as detailed by his divorced wife, sounds more like an ever-colored modern novel than a chapter from real life.

According to Mrs. Douglas her husband is but 33 years old and despite his youthfulness served as a major in the Brazilian army for many months, years ago. He also is said to have discovered the "River of Doubt" made famous by Theodore Roosevelt, and carried on Roosevelt's work of exploration into new territory.

"Mr. Douglas was [illegible] in the Brasilian army because he suppressed a revolutionary uprising in that country, so he told me," she said.

"The country is really not a jungle," Mrs. Douglas added, "and contains a vast growth of rubber trees, mahogany, hardwoods of a rare and costly variety, besides an abundance of tropical nuts and fruits, valuable mines of gold, silver and diamonds, and other minerals.

"I have never been in the country but have information that it is now inhabited by semi-civilized Indians, who are making an effort to develop the resources there. Because of this it seems to me that it would be easy to develop the country. But as I said I have no definite plans as yet, because the whole thing came as such a complete surprise."

According to Mrs. Douglas her husband's real name is Hugh H. Newelt.

"THE INSIDE OF THE CUP" AT OLYMPIC IS EXPOSURE OF SHAMS

Said to be one of the most remarkable picture productions of the current season, "The Inside of the Cup," a Paramount - Cosmopolitan picturisation of Winston Churchill's famous novel will be shown at the Olympic Theatre for three days beginning Monday next.

When this book was published in 1913, its exposure of phypocrisy among wealthy churchgoers, provoked bitter criticism by the clergy of England and this country. The hero of the story, as in the picture, is the Rector of a fashionable church, who becomes disgusted with certain elements of his flock and severely arraigns them for their shame and hypocrisies.

Director Albert Capellani, however, has paid more attention to the dramatic features of the story than to the philosophy which makes the book almost unforgettable. The scenes are thrilling and the heart appeal culminating in the fruition of a love romance, is irresistable. The cast, headed by William P. Carleton and Edith Hallor, is unusually large and artistic.

Says Girls Are Picking Older Husbands Now

WASHINGTON, April 23. — "Whether it is suffrage or some other influence, it is a fact that the marriageable young woman of today prefers to pick her future husband from among men of mature age," according to Captain Kroll, the capitol's marriage license clerk.

"The psychology of the girl who contemplates marriage has experienced a decided change during the last two years," observed Cupid's official intermediary, who insisted that a girl these days has an eye to a safe future with comfort with a husband with good sense, even though older than herself, rather than a "life full of romantic uncertainty with a handsome youngster who may change his mind over night and get a divorce the next morning."

Colonel Kroll was not prepared to say whether this rather startling development in matrimonial contemplations would be lasting or whether the principle of "like likes like" would again gain the upper hand. "It may be that the girls desire more independence and it may be they think an older man can guarantee such a state with more facility than a young husband just starting out in life. Young husbands as a rule are also jealous and wish to dominate over their brides, while men with more experience are more tolerant."

LET THERE BE PATIENCE

MOSCOW, April 25.—A hitherto unknown novel by the famous Russian writer, Turgenieff, has been unearthed. It is called "Life, for Art." Its publication is still withheld, primarily because it is the intimate story of the author's affair with the famous singer, Viardot-Garcia. Turgenieff stipulated in the foreword that the novel is not to be published until ten years after her death.

CONSTANCE BINNEY IS PLAYING LEADING ROLE IN "MAGIC CUP"

COMING TO THE EMPRESS WEDNESDAY

"CHICKENS" AND A MINISTER FEATURE IN "PINK TIGHTS"

Home-baked cakes and currant jelly and fried chicken! It was a surprise party for the minister, but the "surprisers" were the most surprised. They might as well have left the chicken home, they found. The minister already had one—and she wore tights!

"Pink Tights," which comes to the Strand Theatre next Wednesday is the story of a beautiful circus queen, played by the charming Gladys Walton, whose parachute lands her on the roof of the minister's house in a little New England village. The effect on the stupefied pastor and on the scandalized villagers may be imagined. There are complications, too, when the manager of the circus learns that his sweetheart is in the minister's bedroom.

Jack Perrin has the role of the minister, and Dave Dyas—a newcomer to motion pictures—is the circus manager. Stanton Heck is seen as a husky villain, and Rosa Gore, Dan Crimmins and Dorothea Wolbert are amusing village types. Two spirited boys of the kind called "naughty" but really only mischievous, are played by Martin Neilan and Reeves Eason, Jr. The latter is the son of Reeves Eason, who directed the picture, and who was fortunate in being able to secure the finest circus atmosphere shown on the screen in some time.

Every feature of the canvas exhibition, from its dressing tent to the sideshow and from its menagerie to the balloon ascension, has been reproduced for "Pink Tights" with marvelous fidelity. Nearly 8,000 people figure in one of the scenes, watching the ascent of the mammoth gas bag. The story is by J. U. Giesy, and Philip Hurn made the screen adaptation.

"SHINE GIRL" OPENS WEEK AT PLAZA; HAS INTERESTING PLOT

The "Shine Girl" which shows at the Plaza today received her nickname from working in a boot-black establishment. Not that she only shined shoes, but also shined grouchy dispositions.

To help out a neighboring family that is in great distress, she steals a loaf of bread, is arrested, and taken to the juvenile court. Explaining the situation to the judge, she was released on probation, but was cautioned by him that it was not "playing square" to take other people's property.

The judge became a daily visitor to her bootblack stand, and deciding to spend some time in the country with his mother, asked the "Shine Girl" to accompany him. She did, and became a very polished and accomplished young lady. During this time, the judge became very much attracted to a young married woman whose husband devoted most of his time to his business. To be near the judge, she decided to visit her sister who had a country place next to his mother's. While there, she and the judge decide to elope, but are frustrated by the little "Shine Girl" who intercepted a note telling of the arrangements. She flew to the city and asked him the question that made such an impression on her, was he "playing square" to take something that belonged to another person. Realizing the truth and the justice of her pleadings, he explained the situation to the other man's wife and after some time, he realizes he needs the little "Shine Girl" for his partner through life.

FOREIGN LOANS OF U. S. ARE ONLY MORPHINE INJECTIONS, SAYS HUNGARIAN BANKER

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

BUDAPEST, April 23.—A cartoon from the New York American on February 28 entitled "Illegal Loans to Foreign Countries," and picturing the United States taxpayer pouring his gold into the bottomless pit of Europe, hangs on the wall of the office of the Hungarian Minister for Finance, Mr. Hegadus, whose efforts to restore the Hungarian currency to a sound basis has brought down upon his head both blessings and maledictions. In an interview recently he laid his cartoon before me, and, slapping it with his hand, said: "The man who drew that cartoon knows what he's talking about. Foreign loans to Europe are like constant morphine injections to a sick patient—a pleasant treatment, only eventually the patient dies. What Europe needs and what Hungary is going to get is a surgical operation, mighty unpleasant while it lasts, but it will cure."

Hears System on Einstein Theory.

Hegadus was for twenty years president of one of the largest banks. For twenty years he was a member of Parliament and for ten years a professor of economics in the university. He has worked out an absolutely new and highly ingenious state finance system, which he claims is based on the Einstein theory. He is the closest and most enthusiastic student of Einstein. The feature which makes it differ from every other system is that it taxes mobile capital instead of static values.

"Up to now," he explained, "Hungary has always adopted the German system of taxation—60 per cent of the value over a period of twenty-six years. This system is nonsense. In Germany a man is asked how many shares he has in the bank, or in a corporation, and then he is taxed on the presumable value of the shares. What happens is, first, that everybody lies or else he sends his money abroad. I say to every corporation—every incorporated organization: 'You must level your capitalization by 15 per cent, and you must give me 15 per cent of your share. Then I sell his share back to him. I get the money; he can't escape. You have deposits in the bank. I don't ask you to declare what you have. I take 20 per cent of all deposits without any declaration from anyone, and all is finished.'"

An Extraordinary Personality.

The man who has doubled the value of the Hungarian krone in three months is an extraordinary personality. He is a little, stooped man, with piercing gray eyes and a drooping mustache. He walks up and down the room all the time he is talking, and he speaks an absolutely amazing English—a combination of Chicago slang and French and German expressions. He never stops unless he is interruted. If he doesn't know the English phase for his idea he inserts a Hungarian sentence without pausing for breath. He is the only man I have ever known who speaks a language better than he understands it. He has remarkable fluency, but has to ask twice before he can comprehend a simple English question addressed to him. Twenty years ago he was in America and has brought back extremely vivid impressions.

"Listen," he said to me in the middle of a discourse on taxation schemes in Central Europe, "the Hungarians are a conceited people. That is why the Americans are so sympathetic to us. I am a conceited man. I am almost like an American. Other countries of Europe whine for American help, but I adopt the American philosophy, which says that a man must be self dependent and that foreign money is a hindrance, not a help. I have studied your financial systems exhaustively. You have the best budget in the world. Indeed America and England are the only countries—outside of Japan, perhaps which I haven't studied—which have decent budgets at all. Your Secretary Houstan's plan is a marvel. In May I shall have a budget in which expenditures balance credits—and without any foreign loans. But to do it, I am having to make cuttings which are colossal—fantastic."

Walking up and down the room, and punctuating his remarks with vigorous gestures, Hegadus told how he had thrown out clerks from Government offices, taken away official automobiles and said: "The next thing which I shall force to reduce its expenditures is the army."

No More Money For War.

I interrupted to repeat what I had heard on pretty good authority, that France was considering a modification of the Treaty of Trianon in order to permit Regent Governor Horthy to keep more troops than the treaty as at present framed provides. Hegadus jumped up and down and banged the table:

"No," he shouted, "Hungary cannot have any more troops. She can't keep what she's got. She's got to cut. No one needs to send a Reparations Commission or anything else to make us reduce our army. Hegadus will reduce it—by cutting off its allowance. The war is finished. This everlasting arament is mad, MAD M A D. The only way we can fight bolshevism in Central Europe is to get back on a sound economic basis. People who think fighting will save us don't know what is true."

Map of Central Europe Nonsense.

"Hungary," continued Mr. Hegadus, "has her chauvinists. They say that the map of Central Europe is unjust. So it is. It is crazy. But war won't remedy it; fighting won't win us back what we have lost. Natural economic adjustments will, if we bide our time.

"When we get order we shall appeal to America. We shall ask her to throw her influence and might behind a movement to compel free trade in Central Europe. We need that more than anything else. When I was in Chicago I used to like to see Kid McCoy box. I like boxing—particularly the American kind. And I would say to America: 'Give us a fair chance in the ring and we will get our forces together and wallop the rest of these people that some of our statesmen seem to be afraid of.'"

Mr. Hegadus had a word to say about his enemies. He has more I presume, than any man in Hungary. The men and women who sit about in the Ritz and Hungarian hotels may tell you that he is ruining the country. Says Hegadus:

"If I level the money the stock exchange goes down. Who is cursing me? The porter of the hotel or the rich speculators and foreigners? All the nations of Europe are living in a rosy delirium. Would you rather be happily insane or grimly sane? That's the question. Some countries in this part of the world are saying to America: 'Help us to continue our sweet delirium.' But I say to my people: 'Wake up and face the music; make the sacrifices which you have got to make, and one of these days we'll pull out of this beastly hole.'"

Angling for the Peasants' Support.

People have said that Hegadus would strike his first real snag when he came to tax the canny peasants. But Hegadus has an idea here, too. "The peasants have got to pay," he said. "But I am going to help them get something which they very much want and that is land. The land reform bill breaks up the big estates, but a mere law does not always deliver goods and the peasants are not getting the land to which they are legally entitled. Now I shall tax land. The small holders must pay in produce, which I shall sell; the middle holders in money. But the owners of the big estates must pay in land. Then I will sell the land to the peasants at a cheap price and we shall kill two birds with one stone."

Hegadus has three planks in his platform and has given himself one year to accomplish them. He came into office on December 16 and swears that on December 16 next he will resign. The three planks are: First, to stop the printing presses. "If you keep on pouring water into the tea after awhile it ceases to be tea, doesn't it?" he asked in his picturesque way. This promise he has already fulfilled. Inflation has stopped in Hungary. The printing presses are at rest.

The second is to design a budget. He proposes to introduce a budget on the first of May and thereafter to publish the state's balance weekly, exactly as though he were reporting to the shareholders in a private corporation.

The third is to liberate Hungary from the Austro-Hungarian bank system. He told me he proposed to introduce a bill on April 6 changing Austro-Hungarian bank notes into state notes.

Finally, he proposes to establish a permanent system of taxation which will distribute the burden equitably.

"The present time is an emergency period," he said. "These measures which I have introduced and pushed through against every opposition are extravagant—they are bizarre. But they are necessary to meet an extravagant and a bizarre situation. My predecessor had a monthly deficit of a billion kronen. I stopped this. The tax on tobacco is the most exhorbitant in history—but from it I get five hundred millions. From this 20 per cent levy I shall get three hundred billions of kronen.

This year Hungary shall get onto her feet. Then we must plan our future policy. We must subsidise children, because our country is fearfully depopulated. The American income tax provides proportionate exemptions for families with children, and that is an idea which we shall introduce into Hungary. We must have funds for social service. I shall shortly propose a bill taxing all those people who took no part in the war and the funds derived therefrom shall be used for disabled soldiers. Their state is terrible. How much worse it would have been had not the American Red Cross and the other relief administrations assisted!

What Hungary Owes to America.

What Hungary owes to America cannot be stated. You stopped the war. If America hadn't come in we should be fighting yet. Then, America made peace. Other natons signed a peace and acted as though the war was still going on, but America did not sign and acted as though it were over. We shan't forget it. Hungary is like America in lots of ways—we both eat green corn and watermelon; we both hate dependence; we both believe in ourselves."

AMERICANS 2ND IN LIST OF TOKIO'S FOREIGN PEOPLES

By DUKE N. PARRY.

TOKIO, April 23.—Americans rank second in the list of foreigners residing at the capital city of Japan, it was announced recently by the metropolitan police department of Tokio. Of the 5,245 foreigners living in Tokio 653 of them are Americans, according to these 1921.

A notable increase in the Germans living in Tokio is one of the outstanding features of the announcement. As a reason for this is given the fact that German business men are attempting to regain ground lost here during the great war. The 50 Germans who lived in Tokio during the war have increased to 127 already. China ranks first in the list and Great Britain's residents are third. The list follows: Chinese 3,466, Americans 653, British 367, Russians 227, Germans 127, French 92, Filipinos 37. Hollanders 28, Swiss 26, Hindoos 21, Italians 21, Swedes 20, Czechs 16, Siamese 15, Portuguese 13, Belgians 12. Argentinians 12, Spaniards 12. Norwegians 6, Canadians 5. Australians 4, Greeks 4, Bulgarians 3. Malayans 3, Finns 2, Burmese 2. Brazilians 2, Mexicans 2. Rumanians 2. Luxembourgeois 2. Persians 1.

THRILLS PROMISED IN PARTNERS OF THE TIDE, AT STRAND

The Strand Theatre announces as its featured attraction Monday and Tuesday "Partners of the Tide," an Irvin V. Willat Production released by Hodkinson.

Irvin V. Willat, it will be remembered, is the man who gave the screen "Behind the Door" and "Below the Surface," those two truly great sea pictures of the past seasons. But it is said that in this, his newest production, he has gone far beyond those pictures which have hitherto been called his best. Many of the scenes were taken under the water, with the aid of a new process perfecte by Mr. Willat, and many a thrill is promised lovers of the unusual.

"Partners of the Tide" was adapted to the screen from Joseph C. Lincoln's novel of the same name and a capable cast of artists were assembled to do this great production full justice.

EXPERIENCE VS. SERMONS

—No sermon about saving, no matter how forceful or eloquent, can ever have the same weight as the experience of having money when you need it, or of being without it when the need is pressing. The lives and experiences of non-savers are the best sermons on the subject.
