Nuptial Ceremonies Said Today For Miss Bishop And Mr. Mullican And For Miss Bryant And Mr. D. Harrell

With one ceremony following the other, Miss Vera Bryant and Miss Della Bishop, were married this morning at the First Baptist church auditorium with Rev. W. A. Bowen, pastor, reading the ring ceremony for each one. The church was filled with friends of the two couples.

The first wedding was that of Miss Bryant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Bryant, 1919 6th Street, and Dan W. Harrell, of Breckenridge. She was given in marriage by her brother, Otis Bryant, of Abilene.

Preceding the entrance of the wedding party, Mrs. R. L. McKnight sang "At Dawning" (Cadmus), accompanied by Miss Vivian Bryant. Mrs. McKnight then played "The Wedding March" (Lohengrin) while the wedding party entered, and continued with "The Flower Song" during the ceremony reading, striking up the familiar wedding sherry from "Midsummer's Dream" (Mendelssohn) as the party left the church.

The bride was lovely in a peach sport frock of georgette with picture hat and shoes and hose to harmonize. She carried a bride's bouquet of salmon colored butterfly roses. Her attendants wore sport frocks of georgette and frills, some in rainbow colors, each wearing a picture hat and carrying an arm bouquet of butterfly roses in pink.

Attendants Pretty
Her matron of honor, Mrs. Boyd King, of Abilene, wore a tan dress over rose slip; Miss Vivian Bryant, maid of honor, was charming in a two-piece dress of soft green, and Miss Ethel Lawson, bride's maid was in a model of tucked orchid. Little Betty Jo Bryant, of Lamesa, the bride's niece, was dressed in a ruffled dress of pink. She played in a bride, scattering rose petals in her path.

The groom was attended by Cecil Bryant, of Lamesa, as best man, and Boyd King, of Abilene, as usher. Mrs. Harrell has been teaching in the Lubbock schools for the last two years, following her graduation from Simmons University, Abilene. Mr. Harrell is a business man of Breckenridge.

Mullican-Bishop
Miss Bishop, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Bishop, 1217 14th Street, was given in marriage to J. T. I. Mullican, son of H. N. Mullican, of Cooper, by her father, this ceremony following immediately after the Harrell-Bryant nuptials.

The bride wore a pretty two-piece crepe dress of white with a pink hat and white slippers with pink buckles. The bottom of both her blouse and skirt were scalloped. Her bouquet was of pink butterfly roses.

Mrs. Nolan Hart, matron of honor, wore a large white hat banded with orchid velvet. The maid of honor, Miss Lolabel McRae, of Slaton, wore blue hat and jacket dress and Miss Lorraine Bishop, the bride's sister and bride's maid, was lovely in large yellow hat and ensemble georgette dress of yellow. These attendants each carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Miss Carter Sings
Preceding this ceremony, Miss Edith Carter sang "At Dawning", accompanied by Mrs. R. L. McKnight, who again played the wedding processionals and "The Flower Song" during the reading. CUBS WIN TENTH STRAIGHT; NOW TRAIL PIRATES ONE GAME

TAKE 11 INNING VICTORY FROM PIRATES 4-3

PIRATES HELD IDLE BY RAIN WHILE CUBS CUT THEIR LEAD

The climbing Cubs ascended today to within a single game of the Pirates at the top of the National League ladder.

In games won the Cubs tied the Pirates with a mark of 32 by beating the Giants 4 to 1. The last of those victories have been consecutive and the last four have come at the expense of the Giants in a clean sweep of the series.

Since the Cubs have played two more games than the Pirates and two more they are still a few runs behind them.

Pirates Rained Out

Rain washing out the Pittsburgh-Pittsburgh game while the Cubs were resting out the Giants in 11 innings gave McCarthy and company their chance to gain. Luck was as good as baseball was with the Cubs as they made one less hit in three more innings than the Pirates. The hit by Third Baseman Pick which drove in the winning run brought forth argument the Giants holding it was a foul but being overruled by the umpire. Another telling warning, unadvised by anybody, was a home run club by Hack Wilson who used to be a Giant. It scored two runs in the sixth and sent the Cubs ahead.

The game saw the debut of Larry Benton, whom McGraw obtained from the Braves in trade, but the ex-Bostonian was not invulnerable, giving place to Clarkson after Wilson's home run crack. Five hits in six innings were made off Benton.

Western Teams Win

Western teams made a clean sweep of the day's games. There were only three as rain was general in the east and cancelled all the American League games. In addition to Chicago the winners were the Cardinals and Reds.

The world champions, in third place, continued to stay very much in the running for the pennant by sweeping clean a four game series with the Phillies. The fourth victory was won at 6 to 4 with all the Cardinal runs scored before the fourth inning.

Four hit pitching by Jake May helped the last place Reds to a 1 to 0 decision over the Braves who are not much better off in the league ranking. With the tieing run on second base, Jake struck out Mann and Farrell.

Hubbers To Play Ropesville Nine In Return Game

The Hubbers about half organized will enter into a battle with the Ropesville club tomorrow afternoon at Ropesville in a return engagement with the lads that gave the Hubbers a hard game here 2 weeks ago. The Ropesville nine, under the direction of Bud Carter, is getting ready for the Hubbers and is anxious to do battle. Ropesville is one of the strongest baseball towns on the South Plains for its size; hardly ever a ball game is played in the Hockley County town without a large attendance.

Stalnaker To Pitch

A group of youngsters will invade the stumping grounds of the Ropesville crew and wage battle with the hard aggregation of that city. The Hubbers will toss Stalnaker, ace right hander of the Auto-Barber nine of the Lubbock City League. Stalnaker will more than likely be added to Hubber forces as pitcher.

The Hubbers will leave here tomorrow shortly after noon to meet the Ropesville lads.

Dempsey Meets Sharkey In Try For Tunney Bout

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 15.—Jack Dempsey's drive to win back the title he lost is to begin July 21 in a battle with Jack Sharkey at the Yankee stadium here. Tex Rickard has spoken.

When he and Sharkey together attended a boxing show at the Brooklyna navy yard last night he broke the news.

One of the most delighted fans present was Sharkey who learned to fight aboard a man o'war. Sharkey is sure he can lick Dempsey or Tunney himself for that matter. The winner of this fray is to have the coveted chance to meet the champion for the title. The fighting marine has started light training in preparation for its defense in September.

Come East at Once

Rickard added the information that Dempsey would come east at once and take over his old training quarters at Saratoga, N. Y.

Dempsey is one of the youngest ex-champions ever to attempt a comeback. He will be 32 June 24. His opponent, Sharkey, is 25.

A gate of a million is the goal of Tex Rickard, the principals to receive 25 per cent each.

Here's Another Of Those Choppers In Ranks Of Heavies

NEW ORLEANS, June 15.—With wood-choppers all the rage as heavyweight fighters, you ought to know "Big Boy" Peterson, the Mississippi ax-wielder.

He admits he's not ready to meet Tanney, Sharkey and some of the better-heavies at this time, but he likes to let you know by his record that he has hopes of being rated in the same class within a few years.

He's 26 years old now. He weighs 190 pounds. He has been fighting only two years but has a string of victories to show now.

Peterson has been doing most of his fighting out in the sticks, but Paul La Croix, his manager, expects to take the Mississippi wood-chopper to the bright lights soon.

Jones Trails Six Strokes In Meet

OAKMONT, Pa., June 15 (AP)—Encountering a streak of difficulties, Bobby Jones, Atlanta amateur, and defending champion, finished the second round of the national open golf championship today in 77, five over par, and ran his two day total up to 152, six strokes behind the leader, Harrison R. Johnson, another amateur of Minneapolis.

Jazz Gets It Again

Five thousand music publishers, convening in Chicago on June 6 for their national convention, will hear Michael Hughes, chief of police in the Windy City, declare that one of the causes of crime is jazz music. It is not a new charge. Critics galore who hold any pastime causing mirth, merriment or the slightest semblance of enjoyment as a source of potential evil have made the assertion before but when the chief of police from a city with the crime record of Chicago makes the charge it takes on weight and is worth looking into. And if Chicago jazz is found so virulent and insubstantial that it incites crime, there is no reason why the music publishers cannot be held criminally liable for maintaining a public nuisance and be put out of business.

Until jazz is found guilty, however, the more liberal minded will be inclined to let the critter live and consider it harmless. Examining the charge, it may be found that jazz is not a primary inciter to crime, but a secondary factor entirely. Investigations into the causes of crime have been so numerous recently that they are now trite and banal. A civilization sick with crime has been diagnosed almost to death. Crime is like cancer. All the doctors know what it is but few know how to treat it. Multiplying and adding to the theories of the cause of crime is at this stage somewhat idle talk. If the Chicago police chief and the music publishers can and will combine forces, abolish jazz, and present to the world a crimeless city, we shall be making progress. Granting that such a course of action could be carried out, it is doubtful if the result would be satisfactory. What is needed is a cure that works, not just another theory that cannot be tested.

Girls With Brains

According to statistics compiled by women's colleges, in England, brains are below par in the marriage market. Girls with high scholarship records to their credit receive fewer matrimonial proposals than their less intellectually endowed sisters. Waiving the point that brains may be handicapped in competition with superficial beauty, it is idle comment to remark that brains and hearts are separate and distinct and often are unrelated in Cupid's scheme of things. A toss of a curl, a dimple in a cheek, a curve of the hips, a gleam of an eye may smite a man who remains cold in the presence of mere brains. Once smitten, his own and his innumerable brains, if she has any, count for little. The man from the distant past still now have testified to the maddening effect of love in robbing its victims of their brains. Besides, after all man does not fancy a superior or even a rival in brains sitting across the domestic hearth. A brainy girl has conceit-smashing possibilities that are fearsome.

Beat 'Em Up!

NAGGING wives have been much to the forefront in European prints lately. One wise British doctor said a nagging wife was good for a man, for she kept him up to the mark. Another retorted that a nagging wife was a bad sign, was a sick woman, probably she was not getting the proper nourishment, or perhaps her husband was not kind to her. And then a French judge just naturally went out and spilled the beans. He probably did it because he was in France where judges are not elected by popular vote and where women have not the right of suffrage. At any rate, taking his courage in his two hands, this Solomon said that a husband had a perfect right to beat his wife if she nagged and irritated him. The applicant just probably took to heart more than his broke the old English saw: "A woman, a dog and a hickory tree. The more you beat them the better they be."

THE PLAINSMAN

Through action of the county commission yesterday something like $10,500 will be saved to the taxpayers of Lubbock county this year. A five cent cut, authorized by the commissioners, will bring about the saving with the original 35 cent levy slashed to 30 cents. The Plainsman congratulates the commission on its action, which should be greeted by loud cheers on the part of the citizenry. Every one seems ready to criticize the officials of any county or commonwealth on actions which do not please but most of us forget to pass out approbation when it is deserved. In the light of giving "flowers to the living" the Plainsman urges a pat on the back for each official from the county as a whole.

There are a whole lot of things about the human body that The Plainsman can't understand and, confidentially, he believes that there are a lot of M.D.'s in the same boat. He just admits it. Now without trying to start any argument over monkeys, evolution or what have you, how come wisdom teeth? What good are tonsils except to swell the purses of specialists and the throats of poor, benighted mortals. What in the thunder could we use an appendix for, anyway, and adenoids—four out of every five have them. The Plainsman, after thinking this matter over seriously, believes that something should be done about it but what is there to be done? We can't use our mental telepathy or our psychiatry to any advantage. I reckon we'll just have to wait a few generations and see if they won't fully disappear just like the men of science tell us they have shrunk in size and usage in recent centuries.

Speaking of road signs Lubbock has fewer markers than any city of an appreciable size in Oklahoma or West Texas. It is the Plainsman's opinion that main highways leading to Lubbock should be marked with "Lubbock So Many Miles" and that all turns should be well guided for a radius of 125 miles. As it is now a motorist can't tell he's coming to Lubbock until he sets the buildings.

WASHINGTON LETTER PORTO RICANS CHARGE THAT ISLAND'S RESOURCES ARE BEING DRAINED BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, June 15.—Foreign economic oppression and drainage of the island's resources is the menace which has stirred up the people of Porto Rico. Until recently, this menace has been the concern only of the Porto Rican labor party, a minority, but it now appears that the conservative leaders of this American possession have come to the conclusion that the welfare of the Porto Rican people is very seriously threatened.

The first evidence of this was apparent recently when the conservative speaker of the Porto Rican House of Representatives and the conservative president of the Porto Rican Senate protested the attitude of foreign-owned corporations to Secretary of War Dwight P. Davis at a dinner in his honor at San Juan.

Porto Ricans subsequently sent many pamphlets containing these speeches to the United States in an effort to tell their story to the American people. A few days ago a delegation of island leaders called on President Coolidge. It included the speaker of the Porto Rican House of Representatives, Jose Tomas Soto, and the Senate president, Antonio H. Barcelo. Most significantly, as in dealing a united front it included Santiago Iglesias, Senate minority leader, and Rafael Alonso, minority leader of the House.

WANT Governor Retained This delegation had been signed to come here by rumors of the sagging tobacco and other big American interests in Porto Rico had been trying to persuade the president to replace Horace M. Towner, governor of the island. The Porto Ricans want the privilege of electing their own governor and Towner is not satisfactory to all of them, but privately they expected that if the corporations obtained another year, Porto Rico would be pushed from the frying-pan into the fire.

The basis of Towner's present popularity with Porto Ricans and his unpopularity with the corporations is said by the former to be his advocacy of adequate taxation of the interests which are taking everything out of the country and not putting anything back in. President Coolidge was not exactly cordial in greeting the delegation when it presented its long and encumbersome legislative resolution asking for Towner's retention. He told newspaper correspondents afterward that he didn't know why it was necessary for these officials to come to Washington to tell him they were satisfied, but assumed that some office-holders in Porto Rico had thought they would enjoy a trip to Washington. The president cautioned them against raising too much money for ambitious road-building and educational programs, but urged all Porto Ricans to study the English language. Some of the more rabid Porto Ricans immediately pointed to Mr. Coolidge's attitude as evidence that he had decided to replace Towner and that he had disappointed this unexpected flank attack from the delegation. Absentee Landlord Problem Foreign corporations and absentee landlords with holdings in Porto Rico have been holding increased taxes for a long time, although the Porto Ricans pointed out to Coolidge that the combined state and federal per capita tax in the United States was $82, as com-

FLYING DIPLOMATS The United States owes a debt of gratitude to its aerial ambassadors, Washington agrees. First, the round-the-world fliers left a trail of good will and friendship clear around the world. Then the good-will fliers through South America performed prodigies in building up a better understanding of the United States in those countries. More recently, Lindbergh and Chamberlin have gone to Europe and achieved more in the way of creating friendship for America than any number of professional diplomats could have done. It is something of which our aviators and our people may well be proud.—Abilene Reporter.

ROAD SIGNS WE NOTICE

The Demopolis Times comments to Alabama's this road sign found in the West: Four thousand and sixty-seven people died from gas last year. Twenty-seven inhaled it; thirty-one struck a match to it, and the rest of 'em stepped on it." A Montgomery sign, after a drive through Georgia, reports that the most impressive sign he saw on the trip was noted as he entered a small Georgia town: "We love our children." It read "Drive carefully."—Montgomery Advertiser.

BARBS

IT'S NOT FAIR, CHARLEY Lindbergh will come straight to Washington on his return. It doesn't seem just fair to leave New York out of it like that. The same thing holds for Detroit, St. Louis, San Diego, Little Falls, Peoria, South Bend, Fort Worth and the Thousand Islands—Lindbergh will need more than a compass in Washington, though. They say the cross-currents of air there are very devastating—Washington is planning entertainment for the young man. Why not call a special session of Congress?—There ought to be at least one good picture in the fact that Lindbergh will be Coolidge's guest, but we fear the photographers never will get it. That would be a picture of Lindbergh in the president's pajamas. Three kings have been invited to attend the Chicago centennial in 1933, according to the committee. The kings, not being so busy these days, probably can find time.

The financial structure of the island government is in excellent shape, but Porto Ricans say that foreign interests are paying wages of from $2.50 to $3.50 a week to the inhabitants and taking everything else out of the country, leaving nothing for Porto Rico. Under the Jones organic act for the island, no corporation can own more than 500 acres of land, but the corporations are alleged to have grabbed thousands of acres with impunity, driving the people into the cities. Porto Rico is not interested at this time in becoming an American state, but like our other possessions and territories, desiring more autonomy as a means of permanent release from economic oppression. Senator William H. King of Utah, who is in sympathy with this aim, will introduce another bill in the Seventy-third Congress providing for popular election of the Porto Rican governor.

Tomorrow's dispatch will consider the case of Alaska.

IN NEW YORK SEE-SAWING and DOWN BROADWAY

NEW YORK, June 15.—Most of the world appreciates that what- ever else New York may be, it's a glorified market place. If anyone has anything to sell, from brains to paste diamonds, Man hattan is the place. Talent is a drug on the market and, perhaps, one of the most fascinating things about this city is its capacity for putting even the greatest reputations on their merits. Most towns have a "shining light" —at least an literary figure to whom the town bows; one musician looked upon as a "master"; one artist who is properly lionized by all and sundry. But once they arrive in Manhattan they become all but lost in the shuffle of assorted talent. Here, indeed, survival of the fit reaches its high-water mark. The "unappreciated talent" of every cross-roads gets here sooner or later and, pitted against the tens of thousands of other talented ones, soon learns that what was taken for quality elsewhere becomes little more than commonplace or mediocrity in the welter of competition. Therein lie the bases for thousands of tales of heartbreak and disillusion.

I RECALL a young writer who left San Francisco—where he was quite a "writing guy"—to cut a swath in the big town. His stories had appeared in leading magazines and, in the west, he was pretty much of a figure. He had been in New York but a couple of months when he came back to Frisco just as suddenly as he left. He was bitter and cynical about Manhattan, making speeches about its lack of artistic appreciation and all that. We listened sympathetically—then? Now of course, I know just about what happened to him. Accustomed to applause, he found himself just another writer. Thousands of other were here to "crack" the big magazines and many were succeeding. Everyone was to busy to give him any more attention than he deserved.

In the world of writing, music, painting—any of the arts—it is the same. Thousands have gone back home bitter and discouraged, crying to any one who will listen of the city's egotism. In a few instances they're right. Some very great people have gone unrecognized but on the other hand, thousands have learned the difference between talent and art. AND yet there is constant inspiration to creative talent. The outlets are countless. You may range through a dizzy list of periodicals and publishing concerns, watching new names flash across the scenes and realizing that, even for the mediocre, there is a great market in the "fan magazines." The trade publications, the organs that cater to clothes, to music, to hats, to umbrellas, to radios, to bridges, to skyscrapers, baseball to anything and everything. Hundreds upon hundreds of anonymous folk make a comfortable living catering to these—and it is the same in the fields of music, business, theater and all the trades and arts. Success and despair walk hand in hand down these streets and, if you can survive the first disenchantments, there comes the satisfaction of just being able to be there in all and grow mellow through the experiences of others.

—GILBERT SWAN.

Lindbergh Takes Much Needed Rest After Hard Night

NEW YORK, June 15. (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh took a morning off in bed today. He slept soundly after a busy night of entertainment that included the city's official banquet in his honor and a special winter garden performance given by the quiet birchmen, an organization of famous pilots of the air. When the Colonel returned to the Harry Frazer apartment on Park Avenue, where he and his mother are staying, the early June dawn was just over the house tops and he hopped into bed. His friends did not call him until noon, or just in time for him to prepare for the luncheon given for him at the hotel Astor by the New York State Chamber of Commerce and the merchant's association. His Playmates Arrive Waiting to see the aviator when he arose was a delegation of four keyhole playmates from Little Falls, Minn., the town in which he grew up. The party motored east in an "old home town" car, and plans to stay in New York until the Colonel leaves, probably Friday. Mrs. Lindbergh planned to return to Detroit on a 5 o'clock train this morning.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, mysteriously summoned to the queer little jungle bordered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, encounters an old friend, VILAK, who tells him it was he who had killed his cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl, owner of a coffee plantation and other land near Porto Verde and has received mysterious warnings to get out of the country. Vilak is alarmed, because several deaths already have occurred and the superstitious natives think some supernatural force is at work.

The day Nunnally arrives another man is killed, TONY BARNETTA, one of Elise Marberry's foremen. He had been hit with a club in the hands of LIMY POTTSS, another foreman. Before he died a strange paralysis took hold of him, and Vilak confides to Nunnally that he is certain Limy Pottss, though he may have struck the victim, was not the murderer. That evening Vilak induces Nunnally to come with him on a visit to the house of GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and formidable man, known to be an enemy of Elise. Vilak believes Prentiss is somehow involved in the mysterious deaths.

Before going to Prentiss' place, Vilak and Nunnally call on Elise Marberry. Vilak refuses to let her go with them. He and Nunnally, on their way to Prentiss', visit a party of natives working on a railroad. Nearby is a forest though the night is hot. Nunnally regards this as strange.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER IX
Their presence had been noticed by the foreman, who appeared to be a sort of foreman, walked behind a dilapidated freight car on a siding. He reappeared in a moment followed by an immaculately white dressed individual whose bearing immediately marked him as the owner. His skin was dark, but it was the tan that comes from long exposure to the tropical sun; his nose was well molded, the mouth sensitive and small. On his upper lip was a small, carefully trimmed mustache. He was obviously a white man, and judging by the blackness of his hair and the perfection of his intonation, a high class Portuguese.

He bowed politely to the visitors. "You would wish something, cavalheiros?" he asked. His manner was unmistakably that of one who could be as much at ease at some of the most important reception in one of the European capitals as here with two or three section hands in the jungle of Porto Verde.

"Nothing, cavalheiro," Vilak replied with equal urbanity. "We merely ride, see the torvades, and go over to look. You come to meet the trucks from the rising sun."

"Yes, senhor. We come from Avilak and began a leaf off a palm tree. Avilak there is fear that the dam will be very bad. Many think the great dam will burst. I think it is not so. It is not pretty, food. Nor cheap. It costs us on the railroad much money. Many say it is not a great road which runs only a few hundred kilometers to the coffee plantations and the Englishmen's houses in the mountains. Nor is it rich. Each year in the rainy season we come. Here I will raise a truck, there I will make strong a bridge, here I will drive a pig. And perhaps shall I start to survey a new line, one which shall go from Porto Verde to Santa Carta. They talk of this, but I do not know."

"Do you think you will be here long?"

He shrugged his shoulders. "Two weeks, a month perhaps. I cannot say. There is much to do."

An altercation broke out between two of the laborers driving a stake. One of them jerked out a knife. The Portuguese leaped over, coolly, quickly he snatched it away. The argument ended. "They are troublesome, my villains," he said, as he returned to the visitors. "No more are there in all Brazil. But on the railroad we take what we can."

while the mats of vines and creepers swaying from the support branches showed like gigantic spider webs against the sky. The path continued this wooded for a quarter of a mile, then light showed ahead and they emerged on to the shore of a small lake. Directly before them the land fell rather sharply to a creek, then rose to a level on the other side where several similar expanses of water sparkled in the moonlight.

"These are a few of the lakes I was mentioning to you," Vilak whispered. "If it were daylight you could see the brick work where some of them have been dammed up. This is the section that Prentiss' father developed and that the quarrel was all about. After old Prentiss died the place was deserted—for about ten years, I think. Until young Prentiss came back and occupied it. That's the house down there." He pointed to a shadowy structure below them on the other side of the creek.

They descended the embankment on which they stood, reached the creek and crossed it carefully picking their way over the wet stones. They saw two faint glimmerings of light which, as they moved forward, they perceived came from two small stone lamps burning smokily over the gate of a high stone wall. "Why has he the lamps?" the old man asked. "And they're singular lamps. Yes—singular."

Vilak did not answer. He was intently looking between the heavy iron bars which formed the massive gate to the dwelling, a few hundred feet beyond. They could see it clearly now, a long, low building, its flatness broken by three short squat towers. Even in the moonlight its dilapidated condition was apparent. A fourth tower near the front had fallen and, being down the surrounding walls had left a gaping hole as though an operation at the hands of an unskilled surgeon. Half the windows were broken and nailed up with boards. One wing was entirely in ruins, only a few broken boards remaining to mark its walls.

There were few signs of decay, however, about the wall through whose bars they were peering, a wall which, massive and lofty, apparently completely encircled the neglected residence. It was so old that in places it was almost obliterated by dense growths of vines. But there were no gaps, no bulges, no indications of weakness in the ponderous stones which formed it. They were as securely fixed to one another as when they had first been set there by the mason years before.

The detail, however, which caught the chemist's attention, was the barbed wire fencing, which had been newly fastened to the top of the wall by a distance of three or four feet above it, meshed so closely that it would have barred the way to any creature larger than a squirrel. The bars of the spike topped gate, of the same height as the wall, were protected in like manner. Two heavy iron crossbars showed along the inside.

"It's a—fortress," a positive "stupidness" the old man murmured. "Has all this merely to—keep out—keep out visitors?"

"If you ask me another question in the next ten minutes I shall be put to the unpleasant necessity of sending you home, my dear Nunnally," Vilak declared, as he began examining the gate. "If I knew the purpose here of the recent improvements on this wall, I wouldn't be here investigating. Incidentally this is the place where the mustache came out and attacked Elise. It is your guard. I'll agree with you that this is an excellent wall. Old Prentiss put it up. He was an extremely old devil. Late father, like you. The need for a wall like this was not greater here than it is now and it was a very definite protection. Every home of consequence had something of the sort."

"Seems to me they still need walls as far as any improvement in the neighborhood goes," old Prentiss in particular had to have something to keep out unwelcome visitors. He was always getting into trouble with the natives, or his European neighbors, or even the government. Almost stood a siege here once, I've heard. The son-in-law that new wire put on about two months ago, shortly after Elise's first visit to him. Had it sent up from Rio. Must have cost a good bit of money."

He bent over, ran a finger along the edge of the ponderous gate and gave a grunt of satisfaction. "Thought I might find it. Two copper wires concealed here so that when the gate open an electric circuit is broken, probably ringing an alarm bell in the house. Good job Prentiss' son did this. He's spread the story that the barbed wire all about here is carrying a high voltage current. I might believe it, except for the fact that the only respectable dynamo in the neighborhood is on Elise's plantation and I know he's not getting power from that. Still he might have rigged up something. We'd better be careful."

He withdrew a small wire from his pocket and began to pick the massive lock. As he did so the break on the outer side of the creek crackled loudly. Both men started.

In the next chapter a call is made on the curious Prentiss, whose actions grow more baffling than ever.

FOUR HELD AND KLAN CHARGED WITH FLOGGING

GOSSIP OF OLD MAN IS BLAMED FOR ATTACK WOMAN AND GIRL

TOOCOGA, Ga., June 15.—Small town gossip thought to have originated with an "old man" in the community, finally reaped $2 blows across a woman's bare back. The story Mrs. Ansel Bowers told of an attack on her and her 15 year old son has led to the arrest of four men and to a charge laid at the door of the Ku Klux Klan.

From a hospital bed in Gainesville, Ga., near here, Mrs. Bowers told newspapermen that 12 men in three automobiles called at her home late last Sunday night, forced her to accompany them to a lonely road and then beat her four times. Her son Floyd, was taken too, she said, and beaten when he cried out against her assault.

Ku Klux Klan Charged

These men are all members of the Ku Klux Klan; there is no doubt about it," Mrs. Bowers declared to newspapermen. "They wore the Ku Klux Klan uniform and threatened to brand the letter 'K' on my back unless I left town."

Nathan Bedford Forrest, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Georgia, replied to Mrs. Bowers' assertion with a statement in which he said: "If any member of the Ku Klux Klan took part in the Toocoga flogging, the Klan will do its utmost to send him to the state penitentiary." Forrest said there was a local Klan in the vicinity of Toocoga but that he thought that men who committed this heinous crime passed as Klansmen to throw the blame on the organization.

Chief Drops Matter

The "old man" to whom the gossip was charged remained in the back ground. A prominent business man of the town told investigators that as president of the "talker" that the chief of police took cognizance of the stories but that after five days he dropped the matter as not worthy of concern.

Mrs. Bowers' husband, from whom she has been separated two years, is a railroad man and two of the men arrested on charges of having participated in the flogging are railroad employees. Elmer Clark and Charles Thomas surrendered to Sheriff T. A. Stover, of Stephens county, late yesterday. Both denied the charge.

The others arrested were W. J. Aker, principal of a high school near Toocoga, and T. A. Lowry, superintendent of a furniture factory. All four waived preliminary hearing. A grand jury to consider the charges is to be convened July 4.

The principal points over which federal judges in eight notable cases have disagreed. These points are: Whether one convicted before enactment of the probation act is eligible for probation; whether one who has begun service of a sentence is eligible for probation; whether one may apply for probation after the term of court at which he was sentenced has expired.

In opposing Dr. Cook's application before Judge Wilson, the government argued solely that the court was without jurisdiction because Dr. Cook had been convicted on that date, and had filed application for probation February 8, 1927. When it applied for writ of error to overthrow the Wilson order at the fifth circuit court of appeals New Orleans in April this year, however, the government advanced the same arguments, but attacked the constitutionality of the law in addition, the first time this has been done in connection with the probation act.

Government's Charges

The government attacked the constitutionality of the act on the grounds: That the act encroaches on the pardoning power reserved by the constitution to the president.

That the act infringes on the president's exclusive power under the constitution to remit fines and penalties. (Reference here was to the suspension of the $12,000 fine assessed against Dr. Cook.)

That the act encroaches on other powers in permitting judges to send debts and obligations to the United States, and that congress has not the right to delegate these powers to the courts.

That the act, which permits a judge to require a person released on probation to make reparations to persons who have sustained losses through his offenses, deprives a person of property with due process of law.

Eight other similar cases have appeared in federal courts on following: Nix v. James, 7th Fed. (2nd) 536; U. S. v. Nix, 8th Fed. (2nd) 759; Archer v. Snook, 10th Fed. (2nd) 567; Kriebel v. U. S., 10th Fed. (2nd) 562; Evans v. U. S., district judge, 12th Fed. (2nd) 64; Morse v. U. S., 14th Fed. (2d) 292; U. S. v. Chifani, 11th Fed. (2d) 622; Dav's v. U. S., 15th Fed. (2d) 597; U. S. v. Davis, 17th Fed. (2d) 777. Only an accident of time prevented one of this number from preceding the Cook case to the supreme court.

Their cars across the road and waited the approach of the bandit's larger car.

Stepped Into Car

When the car came along it stopped, and McAninch walked up to it. Morris watching from his car thought McAninch had arrested him, man when the officer got into the car with the bandit. Morris drove back to Jennings.

A few minutes later he and others saw the car speed through Jennings, McAninch apparently a prisoner.

The bandit drove to a point about midway between Mansford and Teriton, then stopped and ordered the marshal out.

Kimes tied McAninch to a tree. He fastened the officer's feet with McAninch's revolver belt and removed the marshal's trousers belt and fast it around his arm. Then Kimes laid McAninch's revolver on the ground in front of the imprisoned man, and continued on his way toward the Osage hills.

Worked Himself Free

McAninch worked himself free between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning, and went to the home of a farmer and called Jennings to let his wife and friends know he was safe. Then the officer resumed the pursuit joining a Payne county posse. The chase was continued with renewed vigor this morning when Kimes was reported as having been seen at Cleveland, Payne county, just across the river from Osage county.

Stella Pawlucha Car

A few days ago a bandit disclosed by officers to be Kimes, stole a large motor car from the streets of Pawlucha, forcing its owner to accompany him. He escaped into the wooded Osage hills after being forced to abandon the car when pursuit became too hot.

Kimes is wanted for about a half dozen bank robberies and two murder charges. He escaped from the Sequoyah county jail while awaiting a new trial on a charge of killing Perry Chaucate, Indian deputy sheriff, and has been at large since last fall. Several weeks ago he led a band of men into his home town, Beggs, and robbed two banks of about $18,000. W. J. McAnally, Beggs chief of police was killed in an encounter with the outlaws.

Because it was held, submission of a dying declaration unsigned was allowed by trial court, the appellate court reversed and remanded a 99 year sentence placed on N. A. Storey for murder conviction in Cooke county in connection with the slaying of Fred Crain.

State's motion for rehearing of the court's recent reversal of the 99 year sentence given Yancy Storey in Dallas county on conviction of robbing a bank at Krum, Denton county in June, 1925, was overruled in its important points.

CORSICANA, June 15. (AP)—After having been marooned on Love Bridge over Richland Creek for more than twenty-four hours H. H. Clemens and A. L. Bolander, of Goose Creek, were rescued Wednesday morning by a party from Corsicana taking a boat to the scene. Another party marooned early Tuesday morning was rescued by the creek Tuesday afternoon, but the channel was too deep to attempt the trip to the main bridge.

The creek normally about fifty feet wide, is now more than three quarters of a mile wide. Late Tuesday night as the crest of the waters past, only a small space on the main bridge was left above water.

COOK CASE

C. Wilson, Fort Worth, as giving the trial judge "in some respects power not enjoyed by the President of the United States," is scheduled to take his case and perhaps to meet its death largely through the instrumentality of Dr. Cook.

Last February 8, Dr. Cook filed application in the United States district court at Fort Worth for probation, which was granted March 17 by Judge Wilson who also suspended payment of the $12,000 fine. Dr. Cook was not released, however, for immediately the department of justice government attorneys, attorneys for Dr. Cook and Judge Wilson agreed to make the case a test of the probation act before the supreme court in order to settle a wide variety of controversial points. It was agreed that Dr. Cook would remain in the penitentiary until the supreme court had passed on the case.

Three Principal Points

Dr. Cook's case was seized upon because it encompassed three of

A natural question. You can't see all this "plenty of rubber"—and you can't tell it by weighing the tires. A tire manufacturer can make a tire weigh almost anything he pleases by "loading" it with heavy substances which add nothing to the wear.

Dad to be "IT" for a whole day

"Dad" will reign supreme in thousands of homes Sunday, for it will be Father's day.

GIVE HIM A TIE TO SHOW YOUR THOUGHTFULNESS

Everybody will be doing everything possible to make him happy. Mother will prepare for him the choicest delicacies for his breakfast.

HE WILL APPRECIATE IT

Then when he goes to church, the choir will sing songs of praise for him and the pastor will mention him kindly in his sermon.

It will all be a novelty to him, and on Monday morning when he awakens, he will look back upon it all as a pleasant dream.

FARMERS TAKE ADVANTAGE OF RECENT RAINS

PLANTING CAMPAIGN GETS UNDER WAY IN COUNTY

Farmers of Lubbock county are sending the plows into damp soil today, and continued heavy skies are augmenting a reasonable land.

Relative to the possible damage to wheat caused by the hail, Mr. Eaton said, "most of the wheat has been cut. Over the path of the hail storm there was little wheat in the stand."

Hardware stores are busy with dispensing of farm implements. Planters and accessories occupied the attention of dealers yesterday, and the continued sales were not in time in taking advantage of the season.

Autoists coming in over the various roads report that fields are expressive of plant. Farmers are using from three to six teams each in putting the seed under cover, and all available male help of each family is utilized.

Realtors are moving with gusto. Land transactions, which have awaited the rain, are becoming numerous in the real estate offices of the city.

Albanian Envoy Gets Transports

BEograd, June 15.—Albania's minister to Jugoslavia, Terna Bey, has requested and received his transports, and with his legation staff, is leaving the country today.

This completes the severance of diplomatic relations between Jugoslavia and Albania, which was begun with the withdrawal of the Jugoslav legation from Tirana on June 4. The trouble arose through the arrest of an employee of the Jugoslav legation on a charge of espionage.

It is reported here that Italy may demand indemnity from Albania for the killing of four Italian engineers, allegedly by Albanian tribesmen, at Puka, an Albanian territory. Jugoslavia sources hint that Italy may intervene in Albania if the case is not settled promptly.

The Jugoslav-Albania situation came to the front with significant November of the treaty of Tirana between Italy and Albania. Terna Bey charged, in the face of Italian demands, that the pact contained secret military clauses, that under its terms Italy was able to exercise influence on the smaller country and that the pact was aimed at Jugoslav.

American Fliers See New Planes in German Shops

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 15 (AP)—Motoring from Baden-Baden to Karlsruhe, the American trans-Atlantic aviators Clarence Chamberlin and Charles Levine, made the trip to Friedrichshafen this morning in a German passenger plane, arriving at 5:15 a. m. They found the city gaily decorated, and were cheered by thousands of enthusiastic swabians as they alighted at the Loewenthal air dome.

A reception committee including Dr. Hugo Eckener, Zeppelin builder, escorted them to Dornier airplane factory and later to the Zeppelin works.

See New Type Plane At the Dornier factory they were shown a "super-wal", the latest type of large passenger plane. After their inspection the machine was taken up for an exhibition flight.

At the Zeppelin works they were especially interested in the LZ-127, now under construction, which Dr. Eckener yesterday announced would attempt a flight around the world in 1928.

After inspecting the Zeppelin museum, the airmen were taken to Dr. Eckener's home for luncheon.

PARRISH ASKS BETTER ROADS

Time Has Come To Take Definite Action, Is Plea Made To Rotarians

Declaring that Lubbock county must "come alive" and begin now to formulate plans for a hard-surface highway through it and a series of better roads within its borders, Mayor Pink L. Parrish was the principal speaker before the Lubbock Rotary club in regular weekly luncheon session at Hotel Lubbock today. J. F. Hankins and Charles A. Guy also made talks on better highways on the program which was in charge of City Secretary Gus McCleary.

Mr. Hankins told of the proposed hard-surface highway through Plainview on the North and Mr. Guy spoke of the Dal Paso hard-surface route which will lead through Lamson on the South. Mr. Parrish then urged a similar road through Lubbock and told the Rotarians that they should get behind a campaign recently begun here to arrange a bond issue for a paved road through Lubbock county.

Dr. J. H. Ater, dentist of the Ellwood Clinic, was received as a transferred member from Taylor. Rev. Walter P. Jennings, president, was in the chair after a week's absence from the city.

FOUR DROWN IN OVERFLOW

Fate Of Several Others Is Unknown After Mountain Stream Dam Gives Way

(By The Associated Press) ANACONDA, Mont., June 15.—Search of the debris strewn Wise river canyon City miles southeast of here where four persons drowned yesterday when an unspanned Montana power company dam gave way was under way today in determining the fate of several ranchers whose homes were wrecked.

Rivers Cut Off Banks The flood swept 12 miles of the Wise river canyon and then cut the Big Hole river out of banks

Tracey Trueman, his wife and son and Charles Ferguson, perished when the Wise river postoffice was demolished. A dozen bridges were washed out and an Oregon short line train was marooned when nearly a mile of track was undermined. Several persons were believed to have been saved by Chris Noran, a farmer who managed to drive a truck ahead of the flood to warn other ranchers. He also stopped a freight train at the entrance to Big Hole canyon a few minutes before the water rushed into the gorge to wash out a section of track.
