Hunt For 3 Planes Goes On

(By The Associated Press)

Search planes roared through murky skies in the east and west today hunting three aircraft which vanished in flight over the weekend with 69 persons aboard.

The bizarre sequence of aerial disappearance sent scores of military planes into the hunt.

The missing planes:

1. A non-scheduled airliner carrying 40 persons which disappeared on a 190-mile Pittsburgh to Buffalo flight. It took off Saturday night for the normally one-hour hop with a three-hour gasoline supply.

2. A C-47 military transport, last heard from yesterday afternoon near Phoenix, Ariz. It was carrying 28 persons including 19 West Point cadets on a flight from Hamilton Air Force Base, Calif., to Goodfellow Air Base, Texas.

3. An Air Force F-51 Mustang fighter, which vanished after its pilot, believed the only person aboard, radioed for landing instructions at Tucson.

STILL ANOTHER

In addition, still missing was another C-47 military craft which vanished last Wednesday with eight persons aboard on a flight from Spokane, Wash., to Travis Air Base, Calif.

Bad weather hampered search efforts.

But despite thickening skies 45 Navy, Coast Guard, Air Force, Civil Air Patrol and Royal Canadian Air Force planes joined in the hunt for the airliner.

In Arizona rain clouds and high winds kept all but heavy search planes grounded. These zoomed over the rugged mountain area northeast of Phoenix.

FREEDOM FOR FOUR FLIERS — The four U. S. fliers, freed by $120,000 ransom from a Hungarian prison, are seen shortly after their release at the Austrian border. Civilian in center is unidentified. The airmen are, left to right: Capt. Dave H. Henderson of Shawnee, Okla., Capt. John J. Swift of Glen Falls, N. Y., Sgt. James A. Elam of Kingsland, Ark., and Tech. Sgt. Jess A. Communist Press Accuses U.S. Of Knowing Fliers' Location

BUDAPEST, Hungary — (AP) — The official Communist press charged yesterday that the U. S. government knew the whereabouts of the four American fliers jailed by Hungary while an Allied aerial search was made for their plane last November.

It also carried on the theme that the United States is trying to get spy-saboteurs into Hungary.

A front-page editorial in the official party newspaper, Szabad Nep told Hungarians the U. S. government knew the plane had not crashed but "accused us of being nihilistic, causing worry to the relatives of the airmen."

It said the big secret that forced down the C-47 cargo plane Nov. 19 in Hungary was a "fake and added:

"Today, the whole world knows that the U. S. government could have consoled the relatives immediately, but political speculations overcame humanity."

RAPID CONTACT

The paper said the fliers maintained uninterrupted radio contact with their bases until they landed in Hungary.

The fliers, released Friday on payment of $120,000 by the United States lost their way in bad weather on a flight with embassy supplies from Erding, Germany to Zagreb, Yugoslavia. Capt. Dave Henderson told reporters after his release that the plane sent messages until the landing but that they must have been garbled because they were not received in Frankfurt.

One of the last reports from the plane in flight said it had been fired on. First reports to reach the west after the plane disappeared were on Dec. 3 from the Russian news agency Tass, which said the plane was forced down by Soviet fighters in Hungary.

CREW RESTING

Henderson and the two non-commissioned officers in the crew are resting at Erding. The fourth member, Capt. John J. Swift, was due to reach West over Field, Mass., by plane at 10:25 (EST) today to visit his father, who is ill in Syracuse, N. Y., and his wife and children at Glens Falls, N. Y.

Szabad Nep commented sarcastically on the U. S. government decisions closing the Hungarian consulates in New York and Cleveland and banning American travel in Hungary.

Of the consulate closings it said: "The Hungarian peoples democracy will certainly endure this terrible blow."

It said the travel ban "does not frighten our working people too much . . . the United States does not permit honest, peaceful diplomats to go abroad very often. Those American guests, apart from members of the diplomatic corps, who still visit Hungary, slip through the frontier testily by night, supplied with atomic clone guns, hand grenades and false papers. Such guests, how ever, are patronized by the Hungarian state security office sooner or later."

The editorial insisted the military court verdict convicting the fliers of deliberately violating Hungarian borders and setting fines of $50,000 each, with the alternative of three months in jail, was "just and correct."

New Type Of Pilotless Craft May Replace Present Bomber

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States may be starting to build the last of the man-flown bombers.

When these big planes reach the obsolete age, a new generation of transoceanic guided missiles are expected to be ready to take over the long range aerial bombardment jobs.

Air men familiar with planning for the future told a reporter today that doesn't mean the current new heavyweight bombers will be out of date soon.

The Air Force has two heavy jet bomber type projects. One, Boeing B-52, the first model of which is completed and undergoing tests and the Consolidated Vultee B-60, the swept - wing jet successor to the combination piston-jet B-36, a prototype model of which is approaching completion.

There are several arguments advanced against keeping on building bigger and bigger bombers including these:

1. Heavy bombers are getting too costly in money, manpower and materials.

2. Guided missiles, when the improvements are attached to guidance systems, can do everything the heavy strategic bomber does at less cost in manpower, materials and perhaps, in a major war, in planes.

Using the B-52 as an example, military aviation officials make these points.

At combat planes go, it will be a long time, perhaps five or ten years, because the aerodynamic design of the airframe appears to be about the maximum that can be expected. It is so streamlined, as efficient as it is, as the drafting board and can make it.

The airframe design will go through several generations, no engine design. Indeed different type engines may be used in different B-52s for different kinds of missions.

The standard jets are growing progressively more powerful and faster. Of equal importance, designers are gradually cutting down the fuel - thirst of the engines, getting more mileage out of them. In 1946 jet engines were producing about 4,000 pounds of thrust. Recently, in a report to stockholders, Frederick B. Rentschler, chairman of United Aircraft Corp., claimed that the Pratt & Whitney J-57 engine, going into the B-52 had a thrust comparable with or superior to any engine in production or ready for production. He had mentioned among others the British Sapphire with a 7,500 pound thrust rating.

Sports Fans Enjoy Being Snow Bound

RENO, Nev. — (AP) — Hundreds of winter sport fans were snowbound today in the high Rockies and Sierra Nevada by blizzards that killed at least one man.

Three men were reported missing, presumably trapped in snow slides.

Another was found alive after two hours under a snow avalanche.

Transcontinental highways were closed in the mountain passes of Colorado and along the California-Nevada state line.

Among the hundreds stranded in Sierra Nevada winter resorts were New York Yankee star Joe DiMaggio, his divorced wife and their son. The ex-couple, who were feared on Mt. Rose highway, achieved a truce of sorts after several hours of bickering with each other.

A dozen other Sierra Nevada ski resorts were reported jammed. None was in danger. Resorts reported guests enjoying their predicament . . . with ample food, fuel and drink.

In Colorado 500 persons, most of them were trapped by the winter storm. Snow piled from Sunday atop 11-ft. drifts on high Berthoud Pass. But the unofficial census of 500 cars moved out, not counting those forced across the tracks and waved the pass again.

A Colorado state highway patrol officer said a huge snow board struck a truck carrying three men on the night. One was said to have escaped. The other two were reported missing. None was identified.

An avalanche in the Sierra Nevada near Echo Summit, 55 miles southwest of Reno, on the main California highway, depositing a car, their truck and a snow plow, James Swafford, 29, Oakdale, Calif., was killed.

Mother Of Pampan Dies In Oklahoma

Funeral services for Mrs. S. B. Dunnidge, mother of Mrs. Myles Morgan, 1300 Garland, will be held at 11 a. m. Tuesday in Hillsboro.

Mrs. Dunnidge, 61, died Sunday morning in a Norman, Okla., hospital where she had been under treatment several days for a heart ailment. Her home was in Norman.

Services will be held in Hillsboro Baptist church with Rev. Allen Small officiating. Burial will be in Ridge Park Cemetery in Hillsboro under the direction of Mansell and Mansell Funeral home.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Morgan, include the husband, Shakespeare Dunnidge of Norman; four sisters, Mrs. C. L. Snyder, Dallas; Mrs. J. L. Beavers, Hillsboro; Mrs. Hattie Hyde, Dallas; and Mrs. Watson of Arkansas; six grandchildren, Mrs. Rosalind Miller of Norman.

Childress Bank Robbed Of $5000

CHILDRESS (AP) — The First State bank was entered Saturday night by burglars who fled with $5000 in silver after cutting a hole in the vault with an acetylene torch.

Clarence Harp, bank vice president, said the burglars apparently entered with a key to the door. He said no doors nor windows had been forced.

The silver was in various denominations. The burglars did not take any currency.

Sherman Without Bus Service

SHERMAN (AP) — Everybody going to work today either had to use his own car, thumb a ride or walk — the city was without public transportation for the first time since 1937.

William McCarthy, Dallas, president of the City Transit Lines which halted operations Saturday night said Sherman would not be restored. He said the company had operated in the red since 1936.

Acting City Manager Tom Dennis said service will be restored Wednesday by a new firm, the Sherman Transportation Co. He said it will operate over the present transit routes.

Acheson Warns Against Red Treachery Even After Peace

NEW YORK (AP) — Any peace in Korea must be followed by safeguards against treachery, Secretary of State Acheson said today in effect he called Red aggression in South East Asia or other areas "open season."

That prospect was held out by the secretary last night in a keynote foreign policy address to the New York Council on Foreign Relations.

He said he felt the chief danger to the free world is the possibility that "there will be no peace at all in any genuine sense of the word."

"I would like to be able to say that the Korean war seems likely to end in the near future," he said. "I cannot say that. What I can say is that we are ready to end it on honorable terms."

The great decision to be made in the defense of Western Europe, Acheson said, concern a united Atlantic alliance mobilization effective for the holding of a peace [illegible] South West Germany and the admission of Western Europe to [illegible] Germany.

In addition he held out to the people of the European area free [illegible] gets [illegible] Korea [illegible] remaining constant [illegible] in the next year.

The capital other words listed were Indo-China, Burma, Egypt and Iran.

He gave this summary:

1. Korea [illegible] can be settled on honorable terms. We are ready to agree on [illegible] a removal of Communist [illegible] from northern Korea. We will not [illegible] the Red [illegible] on a basis that [illegible] a direct threat to the Korean [illegible] on a basis that [illegible] a direct threat to the Korean [illegible] to face as they [illegible].

Beaten Boy Slightly Improved

VERNON — (AP) — Dist. Judge Jesse Owens today postponed the "parental right" suit involving Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale Simpson, parents of Tommy Yates.

Judge Owens said the hearing would be held later, pending a more definite outcome of the 4-year-old child's condition.

No date has been set. The parents are still being held in an "undisclosed" jail.

The couple was charged with assault with intent to murder in the beating of the youngster on Christmas Eve.

Hospital officials said Tommie had regained partial consciousness yesterday . . . six days after he was beaten. He could open his eyes and was able to eat cereal, the first solid food he had eaten since his arrival in Dallas.

Folk in this Northwest Texas town have promised Tommie a huge Christmas party when he recovers to make up for the Christmas he missed.

A reporter visited the empty Simpson apartment last week and found Tommie's present around the Christmas tree — a tricycle, a truck and a drum.

Two unopened packages under the tree were marked "to mother from Tommie" and "to daddy from Tommie". They contained a wallet and a pair of earrings. Tommie had bought them a few days before Christmas.

Wilbarger County Juvenile Officer Ben Woodington has had temporary custody of Tommie since charges were filed against his parents.

Boy Scouts Richer Because Of Prank

Because of a prank the Boy Scouts were $100 richer today.

Somebody placed a classified advertisement in The Pampa News saying 25 cents would be paid for old Christmas trees if they were brought to 1125 Charles —the address of Jake Garman, president of Texas Gas and Power Co.

A group of Boy Scouts went to hustling and a young forest soon appeared on the Garman lawn.

Instead of getting mad at the trick Garman went to the Boy Scout office this morning and plunked down a check for $100.

"I think," Garman said, "that the party who had enough money to spend on an ad sending those little fellows on a wild goose chase like that should also be willing to match this $100. Those kids really worked hard in gathering all those trees."

Subversive Detention Camps In First Steps Of Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General McGrath is quietly taking the first steps toward setting up detention camps for dangerous subversives in this country, should the need arise.

It is a big-scale operation, providing for a possible roundup of many thousand potential spies and saboteurs.

Federal prison labor is already at work — or soon will be — on three major installations with a combined capacity for housing more than 3,000 persons.

One of these is the former military airport at Wickenburg, Ariz. and others are World War II prisoner of war camps at Florence, Ariz., and El Reno, Okla.

Surveys of other similar unused government properties are being made, including Tule Lake, Calif., where some 20,000 West Coast Japanese were held during the last war.

The entire project is under the supervision of James V. Bennett, director of the federal bureau of prisons, a division of the attorney general's office.

AT WORK

Bennett, in response to a letter from porter's inquiries says that during the winter and that the bureau is at work on a [illegible] years of standby prison camps, [illegible] ding applications for work and for use in event of emergency unemployment claims.

He says he is not authorized to say more at the time.

Call Issued For Construction Men

The call was out today for 50 construction workers by the local office of the Texas Employment commission. According to L. P. Fort, manager of the local office, any able-bodied man over 21 years old can go to work immediately.

"This is an unprecedented situation this time of year here," Fort said today. He said many outdoor construction projects were slowed down by the weather during the winter and that the bureau's primary work was handling applications for work and unemployment claims.

In addition to the construction workers, Scott said there was also a heavy demand today for machinists, [illegible] all Shamrock fire equipment was battling the ice company blaze.

Puts To Sea 3 Days Later Than Planned

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. — (AP)—The liner Queen Mary, carrying Prime Minister Winston Churchill to America for talks with President Truman, put to sea three days late today.

Delayed first by the heaviest Atlantic storms in years and then by a balky anchor, the 81,000-ton vessel finally got away at 11:58 a. m. (5:58 a. m. CST).

She originally had been scheduled to sail with her 1104 passengers Friday.

Churchill and his party of 35, including Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, had been waiting on board since 45 minutes after Saturday midnight.

Cause Of Ice Plant Blaze Undetermined

SHAMROCK — Cause of the blaze which Sunday destroyed the Shamrock Ice Co. plant, had not been determined by noon today, according to Abe Glascow, Shamrock fire chief.

The chief said, however, that several electrical switches had been turned on in the plant and that probably the cause would be laid to electrical wiring.

Fire departments from four towns fought the blaze which at one time threated a battery of tanks in which petroleum products were stored. The tanks were directly across Rock Island tracks north of the plant. It was feared the wind might blow sparks or embers onto the tanks and ignite them.

WORRY

"That was what worried us," Glascow said this morning.

The fire did no apparent damage to 700 food storage lockers housed in the frame ice company building.

Owners of the $75,000 property, Emsell and Lewis Hill, said they believed no harm was done to any of the food stored in the lockers. It was being moved this morning.

Fire also destroyed a farm home owned by Sam Scott who lives just southwest of Shamrock and an undetermined amount of feed at the Dola Gragg dairy [illegible] popularly known as the McCarran [illegible] pa recently.

These two places burned while all Shamrock fire equipment was battling the ice company blaze.

Lefors Resident Is Taken By Death

Leman William Upham, 52, died at 4 p. m. Sunday in a local hospital. He was a resident of Lefors.

Mr. Upham was born May 6, 1899 in Ryan, Okla., and had lived in Lefors since. His survivors he was employed by Southern Production Co., formerly Dancy. He moved to Lefors from Eaton, N. M.

He is survived by his wife, Charlotte Mae Upham; one son, Maurice Lefors; three daughters, Mrs. Pauline Koon, Pampa; Mrs. Eva Hughes, Eureka, Kan.; Mrs. Juanita Vinson, Lefors; his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Upham, Dock Springs, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Mable Dickey, Tulia, Texas; Johnnie Norris, Mineral Wells; two brothers, C. L. Jr. Okla., and Jess, of Memphis, Texas.

KITE FLYING WEATHER — The unusual weather in Pampa today prompted 10-year-old Clyde Brewer, 209 Cook, to drag out his kite and take advantage of the high winds which have buffetted Pampa and the area the past two days. But he may be using his sled tomorrow. According to the weather forecast, a cold front is expected to bring snow to the Panhandle tonight. (News Photo)

BLOOD MONEY

WHAT'S AHEAD: The magazine Business Week finds a growing uneasiness in the industrial world. A substantial minority of men in business see a recession, or an outright depression, just around the corner. Some say it has already started, that it has been going on since last spring. Others think we'll face the real thing in about 18 months.

They don't like to put their fingers on any specific cause. It's a sort of feeling [illegible] come from feeling. They are aware that a saturation point has been reached in many lines of consumer goods. They know that much higher production than that which created those goods will keep the saturation point satisfied.

Business Week notes that most of this minority group are men who were burned in the fire of the thirties. They learned their lesson the hard way, and they speak from a background of experience rather than from something out of a book. When the minority took a long look and battened down their hatches in the summer of 1929 they were assured by their friends that their judgment was slipping. Remember that and don't sell this minority short.

OFF THE RECORD: Here are some of the things these men are saying: "We are operating as though the world's worst depression is 'around the corner.'"

[illegible] "It has been [illegible] business started falling off in April." "Something's got to give in our economy, and that means a recession."

Without being specific their reasoning follows these lines: "Our economy is abnormal and not healthy. You can't keep pumping up a uncurbed boom forever."

"We've got to get the rotten eggs out of the basket." "Once we run out of hope-profit things we'll get tough." "This kind of a joy ride doesn't go on forever."

Almost everybody fails to grasp the tremendous productivity of the [illegible] and one of these days it is [illegible]

Hardly anyone disagrees with the thesis that spending for war is the big prop under the economy. But spending for war can't hold business up forever any more than can spending for peace, and these men recall the downturn of 1937-38 right in the middle of government spending.

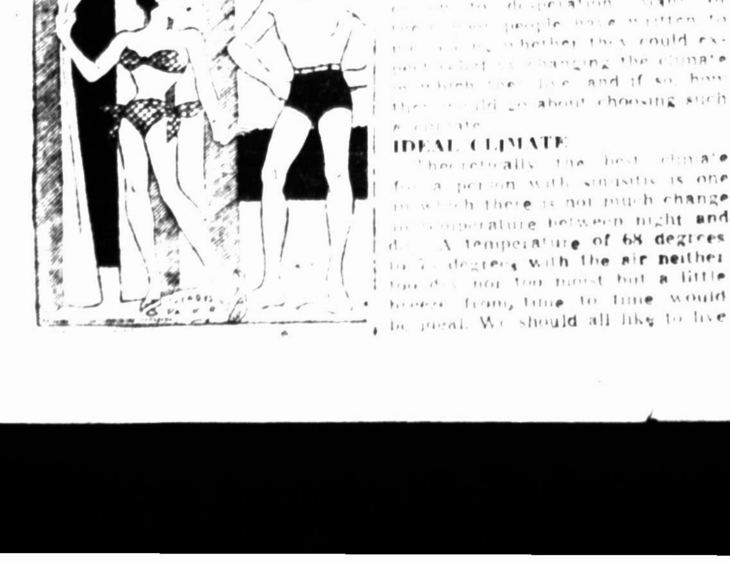

WAR SAVES THE DAY: It was agreed among administration supporters that war orders from Europe was all that blocked the 1937-38 [illegible]. So spending [illegible] There was room for expansion in 1939, with a substantial number on the unemployed list, but that is changed today. Now we operate at or very near capacity, and neither spending nor orders can create more men to increase production or to [illegible] more goods.

Pessimism is reflected largely in the heavy industries and among retail dealers. They see the deadly effect of the new tax bill and physical controls. Collections are lagging on private credit. Merchants and installment bankers are having to [illegible] to get the money. More checks are bouncing and credit bureaus are "[illegible]"

A big financial advisory bureau in Washington warns: "Now, as in the 1920s [illegible] conditions have been building up that call for correction ... This period may prove to be the calm before the storm." They advise conversion to a liquid condition. But all this chatter is only beating around the bush. We are suffering from welfaritis, and it's a horrible disease.

BASIS FOR BOOM: Our boom is floating on an ocean of blood. That's stating it bluntly, but we might as well face it. We live in a cockeyed economy that is dependent upon war or preparation for war to keep the wheels of our industries turning at full speed. Either through ignorance or design, or a mixture of both, this is what

The Worst Sort Of Monopoly

By THURMAN SENSING
Southern States Industrial Council

It is axiomatic of American economic and social philosophy that monopolies are bad. We therefore have anti-trust laws. We believe in a free competitive economy.

It is not so generally recognized, though, that government ownership and operation is a monopoly — and the worst sort of monopoly. There can never be any competition with government. Government can make up losses with taxes. The consumer must take whatever the government offers, of whatever quality, and at whatever price — or do without. There is no other source of supply.

The British found this out during six years of socialist government. The government took over, owned, and operated certain industries. Losses in these nationalized industries were enormous, but it took six years for the stockholders — the taxpayers — in these industries to reach the point of firing the management. This has now been done — but the new management have inherited almost bankrupt concerns.

We have seen the danger of monopolies in this country much more clearly than have the people of Great Britain. That has been one of the great faults of Britain during the years, perhaps they realize this now. But even here we have not realized the danger of government monopoly.

A good illustration is the government monopoly of electric power in the Tennessee Valley area. We even find chambers of commerce in this area taking very positive stands in favor of free enterprise and at the same time bragging about the cheap electric power available in their communities, entirely disregarding the fact it is subsidized power and completely monopolistic.

The people in the TVA area, at least, have been led to accept this monopoly as a good thing. They have had constantly drilled into them — by the publicity department of the Tennessee Valley Authority itself — the good things the TVA has done.

It is entirely fallacious to lead the people in the Valley to believe that the improvement in their standard of living since the TVA was inaugurated has been due to the TVA. The people of other areas have experienced the same improvement — some of them considerably greater improvement. It is fallacious to say that because the TVA has done some good, it is therefore completely good. Hitler did some good things in Germany; Mussolini did some good things in Italy — but their philosophies of government were wrong, and therefore they were wrong. If a project is wrong in principle, it must be wrong in practice — and the TVA principle is contrary to all the principles of the free enterprise system under which our nation has lived and prospered.

And if the patrons of the TVA system ever get too self-satisfied with cheap electric power, don't let them forget, aside from the fact that present rates are subsidized, that they are buying from a monopoly; don't let them forget that a government that can fix the price low can also fix it high. It could easily come to pass that the people of the Valley area might some day be paying the highest rates in the land instead of the lowest — and when and if this time does come, what can they do about it?

There are some signs now on the horizon. The TVA has in recent months increased it price to large industrial users. It is now building and operating many steam generating plants (though electric power was supposed to be only incidental when the TVA was inaugurated) and it is estimated that in another four years half its power output will be steam generated. The TVA will not be able to hide the cost of this power by allocating it to flood control, navigation, conservation, etc., as has been the case with its water generated power; it will have to charge the consumers the full cost. If this full cost under government operation runs true to form, it will be considerably higher than under private operation — but the consumers will have to pay it just the same.

The sweet taste of so-called "low cost power" that we have been enjoying in the Tennessee Valley area in recent years may yet turn to ashes in our mouths.

The Nation's Press

EISENHOWER WARNS NATO COMMITTEE
(The Dallas Morning News)

It was not in the usual parlance of diplomacy that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed the North Atlantic Treaty Organization planning committee at Paris Saturday. The Associated Press dispatch called it a warning to our Western European Allies. It was a warning to ourselves and to the entire free world that the grand strategy for defense against Russian Communism is in danger.

A lot of fine things have been said about the NATO potentialities. And it has great potentialities. It is the one logical way to meet Russian aggression in Europe. Yet a review of actual developments is discouraging. The European countries, most of them, are continually falling below their promises, below the minimum that must be expected of them.

There are several reasons. First, there are millions of Commies in these countries and all of them are dragging their feet to obstruct any plan of defense against Russia. Second, aid from the United States is getting to be a part of the "way of life" of some of these nations. Third, and closely associated with the foregoing cause, is the fact that the contending political factions in these countries are using our financial aid to bolster their regimes rather than using it to bolster their defenses against Russia.

Of course, there is no easily distinguishable line between use of our aid funds for domestic purposes and use for purposes of military defense. A strong economy is the basis of a strong military defense. We recognize that in the Marshall Plan and other aid. But there is no denying that political party leaders have pushed the line pretty far in the direction of their partisan political interests.

This is what General Eisenhower was talking about when he lectured the NATO planning committee because, as the Associated Press reported it, "some nations are rebelling against boosting their military spending in fear it would upset civilian affairs."

General Ike is as right as a rock. They should put up, or we should pull out. We can't afford to spend billions over there merely to court defeat.

has been thrust upon us as a substitute for the normal business cycle of a free and peaceful economy.

To maintain full employment we must have no saturation point. Obviously, then, preparation for war is not enough to keep the boom booming. The war materials must be used up so that more can be made to maintain our artificial expansion, lest the business cycle turn down, jobs fall off, and a general decline set in, which would spell political defeat for the present administration. For this same reason, an economy such as we now have could not afford a complete victory in war for that would end the need for war production and, again, we would face that fearful bugaboo, the business cycle.

Our boom is dependent upon all these fallacies. In the end it must break. Our job will be to pick up the pieces, if we can beat Stalin to it, but we can never salvage the lives that have been sacrificed thus far in the interest of domestic luxury and political folly.

John L. Lewis Wants To Use Murray As Stooge And Buffer

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — Phillip Murray, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, has no illusions about John L. Lewis' New Year's offer of financial backing, if he should engage in economic strife with the Truman administration and "big steel" over wage increases and fringe benefits amounting to approximately 35 cents an hour. This explains Murray's delay in accepting any Greek gifts from his foe.

In reality, the head of the United Mine Workers Union seeks to utilize Murray, whom the Iowa-born Welshman despises, as a stooge and buffer. John L. anticipates a real battle when he negotiates a new contract with the operators in a few months. He realizes, too, that a coal strike in the midst of the rearmament program would incur public and Presidential resentment.

DEBTS — Therefore, if he can stiffen Murray into calling out his men now or later, a steel walkout will take some of the heat and pressure off himself. John L. also wants this powerful CIO union to break the wage-price ceilings, if possible, and for the same reason. It will make it easier for him to defy the government.

The far-reaching and self-serving nature of the Lewis strategy is measured by the fact that he owes several large debts to "big steel," which he now aims to harass through Murray. In several Lewis disputes with the coal operators over wages, hours and pensions it has been United States Steel which first bowed to his demands with respect to its captive mines.

When this key corporation surrendered, its competitors had to fall in line. In fact, as a result of their willingness to buy off John L., Myron Taylor and Benjamin F. Fairless were severely criticized by rival steel magnates.

IRONIC — The canny Lewis also has another arrow to his bow. He detests President Truman in the same way that he does Murray, or he regards both of them as weak opportunists.

If he can force Mr. Truman to resort to use of the Taft-Hartley Act to prevent a steel strike in a reelection year, he figures that it will hurt the Democrats.

Ironic as it may seem, Lewis has greater admiration for Taft than for Truman.

BLOW — The tremendous loss of life in the mine disaster in West Frankfort, Ill., falls as a blow on both President Truman and Lewis, although it may react against the man in the White House more seriously than against the labor leader. Among the first on the scene of the tragedy were John L. and Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman.

Mr. Truman, as the UMW boss frequently noted, has devoted more thought and words to labor political issues than to enactment of a federal mine safety law with teeth in it. The present statute simply permits federal inspectors to recommend safeguards and improvements.

The government cannot force states and operators to comply with regulations, despite the interstate commerce nature of its operations.

USELESS — As with the question of Civil Rights and other Fair Deal objectives, Mr. Truman has reiterated demands for Taft-Hartley repeal, although he knew that Congress would never acquiesce. There has not been an equal emphasis on the need for protecting the miners' lives.

Likewise, Lewis has concentrated on such problems as wages, hours, pensions and Taft-Hartley repeal. All these matters are of great importance to his men, naturally. But the question of mine safety is not a broad, popular issue.

It becomes such only after such events as the useless death of 119 miners on Christmas Eve. Pensions and high wages cannot compensate the widows and orphans.

CALLOUS — Had John L. exerted himself as devotedly on behalf of strong federal mine safety legislation as he has for other objectives, it would have been a happier New Year for the families in West Frankfort.

Along with Congress, another callous group of so-called statesmen who should suffer from the tragedy are the members of the Illinois Legislature. Besides refusing to enact drastic laws against the gamblers and crooks that besiege the state, they have refused to provide elementary protection for the men who work underground.

The Nation's Press

THE EMPEROR'S EDICTS
The Wall Street Journal

If misery does love company, Mr. DiSalle ought to be able to get some comfort from the historical dredgings of Professor William L. Westermann of Columbia. The professor reports that the first recorded attempt at price controls, and the first failure, occurred in 1950 - 1950 B. C.—in a Sumerian town in Mesopotamia.

But to us that statistical footnote is not as intriguing as the professor's report on a later attempt at price control, of Rome about 301 A. D. The emperor then, like presidents of a later date, was having trouble with his fiscal policy; the mint was turning out too many coins bearing the emperor's face and people were getting so they wouldn't trade them at face value. Prices, complained the populace, were skyrocketing.

So, the emperor, with a terrible blast against the greed of businessmen on prices and the avarice of the artisans on wages, issued an edict setting maximum wage and price scales. All, he said, was for the "general welfare," an oddly familiar phrase.

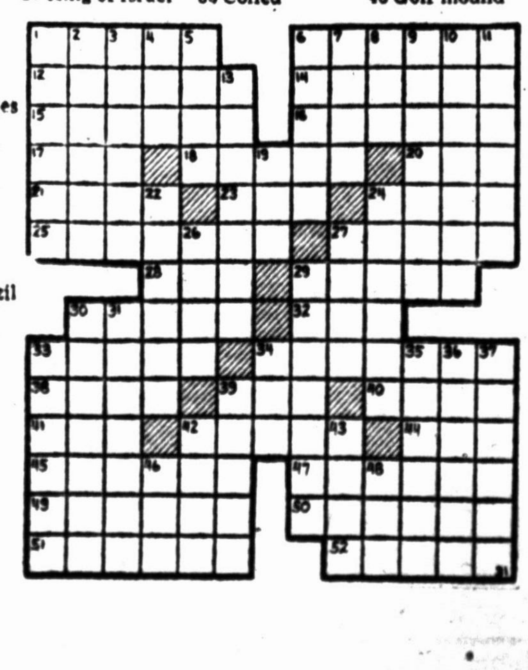

Professor Westermann, who spoke at a symposium at the Metropolitan Museum of Art, reports that the emperor didn't have too much difficulty with the big time operators. After all, he had a law with teeth in it; unlike Mr. DiSalle, the Diocletian controllers could administer capital punishment. But not even the threat of chopping off heads could control the little fellows. "In the 40 years after Diocletian published his list of prices," says the professor, "it would seem from the monthly price lists . . . that the Roman government had given up its efforts to dictate the prices to the little fellows."

There's another familiar note in all this history. The government kept up the pretense of price control even when it couldn't control prices. The emperor's edicts, like another emperor's clothes, were pretty transparent but nobody would admit it. An edict once tailored is worn till tattered no matter how much it exposes the wearer.

Business School Opening Scheduled In Pampa Jan. 2

A new business school, Pampa Modern School of Business, will open here Jan. 2 at 113 1-2 S. Cuyler.

Heading the new school will be Dr. J. J. Rance who comes here from Houston. Dr. Rance, who has been superintendent of schools for over 22 years in Nebraska and Iowa, will be assisted by his wife.

They will offer courses in accounting, bookkeeping, comptometry, shorthand, business English, spelling, civil service, commercial art, business administration, salesmanship and filing.

Dr. Rance has taught in three business colleges; Gates college, Waterloo, Iowa, Hartnett college, Hammond, Ind., and Draughon Business college, Houston.

Mrs. Rance was well known in Iowa for her oil paintings. She won acclaim for a painting of Herbert Hoover's birthplace. The painting now hangs in the former president's office.

According to present plans, day school hours will be from 9 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. five days aweek. Night courses are planned for Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 7 until 9 p. m.

BRINGS CHOIR HERE — Robert Page, above, will bring his 40-voice Eastern New Mexico university choir here Jan. 7 for an appearance at Pampa High school at 9 a. m. The program here will be among 13 concerts slated in the Texas Panhandle.

Holiday Deaths Climb; Near 175 For Yule Week

By the Associated Press

Holiday violence grew steadily today in Texas, pushing the number of persons killed in the long Christmas-New Year's holiday to 175. Traffic fatalities neared the 100 mark.

The Dept. of Public Safety estimated 222 persons would lose their lives during the year-end period. An estimated 115 of those will be in traffic mishaps.

A total of 99 traffic deaths have been reported to the Associated Press since the Christmas holiday tabulations began Dec. 22. Twenty-eight persons have been shot to death and 24 died of burns.

The latest violent deaths reported include:

Walter Kirkpatrick, 17, Port Arthur, who drowned Friday in Lake Sabine.

C. C. Nolther, 48, Spearman construction worker, killed when his car overturned north of Stinnett in Hutchinson county Saturday.

STRUCK BY CAR

Albert Monroe, 53, killed when struck by a car in Maverick county Wednesday.

Danie Fletcher, 22, Lamesa farm laborer, killed in an auto accident south of Lamesa Saturday.

Fred Moore, 2, drowned in a pond at Wascom, Harrison county, Friday.

Maria Ester Rodriguez, six-months-old, died of accidental smothering at New Braunfels Friday.

Elsie Roberts, 27, Humble waitress, died of suffocation in a tourist court at Houston Saturday.

Louis Mitten Bors, 83, retired New Braunfels musician, was found dead Friday. Coroner H. R. Voges ruled the death an apparent suicide.

SUFFOCATED

Doris Lee Bell, 3, died of suffocation at her home in Corpus Christi Sunday.

Gus Hill, 30, killed when struck by a car in Austin Sunday.

Harold Leon Ballard, 32, of Smithville, killed in an automobile accident Sunday in Williamson county.

Mrs. J. L. Barnes, Huntsville, killed when a car overturned on U.S. Highway 75 in Leon County Sunday.

Pfc. John J. McGown, 18, Bergstom Air Force base, killed when hit by a car in Leon county Sunday.

Mary Pershing, 80, who died of burns when her dress caught fire in old folks home at Edinburg Wednesday.

Robert Davis, an Air Force technical sergeant stationed at Sheppard Air Force base, died of knife wounds Saturday. Police are investigating the death.

The Detroit Red Wings are the first athletic team in the city of Detroit to wear shoulder badges in celebration of the 250th anniversary of the city. Every athletic team in Detroit will wear these badges in 1951.

Henry Chadwick is regarded as the "father of baseball writers."

Big Spring Pastor Will Speak Here

Rev. Dick O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist church at Big Spring, will be main speaker tonight at the annual banquet of the Men's Brotherhood of the First Baptist church here.

A last minute change forced revamping of the program. Rev. Leon Hill, Amarillo, had been scheduled as principal speaker, but was unable to fulfill the engagement, members of the brotherhood said this morning. Rev. O'Brien consented to serve as the substitute speaker last night.

Politician Takes Office To People

NEW YORK — (AP) State Senator Enzo Gaspari has figured out how to take his office to the people — he's outfitted an automobile trailer as an office with a bridge table for a desk.

Gaspari, a Bronx Democrat, says he will drive his mobile office to different points in his district every Saturday to hear complaints and suggestions from his constituents. He made the first trip over the week end.

TWO FINED

Two men were fined $15 each this morning in corporation court on charges of intoxication. Both were picked up last night by city police.

torney general with the responsibility for rounding up and holding all persons likely to commit sabotage or espionage should there be (1) an invasion of the United States or its possessions, (2) a declaration of war by Congress; or (3) an insurrection within this country in aid of a foreign enemy.

The law provides that should any of these things occur, the president may proclaim an "internal security emergency", and thus set in motion a roundup of "each person as to whom there is reasonable ground to believe that such person probably will engage in, or probably will conspire with others to engage in, acts of espionage or sabotage."

REASONABLE GROUND

The McCarran act suggests that membership in the U. S. Communist party anytime during the last three years be considered as one item in arriving at the "reasonble ground" for detention.

An elaborate procedure for hearings and appeals is provided for persons picked up, but meanwhile the attorney general must keep them in "places of detention", which may not be ordinary criminal prisons.

Those arrested must, within 48 hours, be given a hearing before a preliminary hearing officer, appointed by the President. The hearing officer makes the first decision on release or continued detention, after which the case may be taken to a detention review board.

This board, not yet created, would be composed of nine presidential appointees, confirmed by the Senate, with not more than five members of the same political party. Board decisions may be appealed up to the supreme court.

The review board members would draw annual salaries of 12,500 and could not engage in any other employment.

The detentions would continue until the end of the emergency.

National Football Emphasis Put On Bowl Games Tomorrow

Sugar Bowl Matches Two Of Top Unbeaten, Untied 11's

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK (AP) — College football may be in the process of de-emphasis, but not for some 825,000 fortunate pigskin fans scattered from Florida to California who'll jam into the New Year's Day bowl battles tomorrow.

For the four major Jan. 1 bowls, it will be football as usual, and try to get a ticket if you haven't got one as the customers stream in to see:

THE LINEUPS

Illinois and Stanford in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Tennessee, voted the nation's No. 1 college team of 1951, versus Maryland in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

And, Kentucky against Texas Christian, the Cotton Bowl dish at Dallas.

Plenty of gridiron power is represented. Of the eight teams, six figured in the top 10 of the final Associated Press poll of the season. After Tennessee came Maryland, No. 8; Illinois, No. 4; Georgia Tech, No. 5; Stanford, No. 7; and Baylor, No. 9. TCU was No. 11 and Kentucky, No. 15.

The day's biggest crowd around 100,000 is expected for the Rose Bowl, where the Big 10 champion meets the Pacific Coast Conference winner for the sixth straight year. Illinois remains a six and one-half point favorite to continue the Big 10 domination over the coast teams, which have lost five in a row since the two loops made the bowl pact. Ohio State tied Illinois, and only California beat Stanford in the 1951 season.

RAIN

Rain has soaked the Los Angeles area and officials are hoping for clear skies by tomorrow.

In '01, the last time Illinois played at Pasadena, it won 45-11 over UCLA.

New Orleans reports rain is possible for the clash between Coach Bob Neyland's Tennessee Vols and Maryland's Terps coached by Tom Tatum. But even rain won't keep 75,000 out of the Sugar Bowl, the only bowl boasting two unbeaten and untied elevens.

Teams are figured by even points and veteran coaches are about 50-50 in their opinions on the final outcome.

In its last Sugar Bowl appearance, Tennessee whipped Tulsa, 14-7, in 1943. Last Jan. 1, Tennessee beat Texas, 20-14, in the Cotton Bowl.

The weatherman in Miami forecast partly cloudy and mild for the battle between Baylor and Georgia Tech, to be seen by 65,000. The pricemakers here set the odds at 6 to 5 and take your pick. — Baylor which lost only to Texas Christian and tied Texas A&M, or Georgia Tech, unbeaten but tied by Duke.

In 1948 Georgia Tech defeated Kansas, 20-11, in the Orange Bowl.

Cool weather and the same odds, 6-5, and take your pick, rule for the Cotton Bowl affair between Kentucky and Texas Christian — both beaten four times during the season. Kansas, Texas Tech, Southern California and Texas defeated TCU, while Kentucky bowed to Texas, Mississippi, Georgia Tech and Tennessee. However, the game's a 75,349 sellout.

Clemson and Miami (Fla.) renew their new year's rivalry in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., before 38,500. Last year Clemson eked out a 15-14 win over Miami in the Orange Bowl.

College of the Pacific and Texas Tech, each with a record of six victories and four defeats, play before 11,000 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.

Houston, with a 5-5 mark in 10 games, meets Dayton, tied twice in three tilts, in the Salad Bowl at Phoenix, Ariz., where 21,000 are expected.

In other bowls:

Cats Hopes Rest On Kentucky Babe

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP) — Tomorrow afternoon, as 75,000 roar in the Cotton Bowl, Vito (Babe) Parilli will face his greatest test.

The Kentucky babe, that lithe, rugged young man of Italian extraction who has been in the nation's headlines for three great collegiate football years, will be handing and passing the ball for Kentucky against slashing Texas Christian.

It's the final appearance of Parilli as a collegian and he feels that this is the time when he must play his greatest game. Saturday he becomes a professional in the Senior Bowl at Mobile where the players get paid for their services.

BAD MEMORIES

But there will be professional football scouts in the stands tomorrow watching Parilli as he weeks to wipe away the bitterness that Texas has brought him. Twice the quarterback of the Wildcats has played in this state and twice he has been defeated.

Parilli wants to play professional football and there's no doubt but that he will, because all the clubs want him.

Parilli is in the air ROTC at Kentucky and when he graduates next January automatically receives a reserve commission. So he may be called into the service then. He hopes to get in a year of pro football before being called.

Thus he feels that tomorrow's game is the greatest test of a career that has seen him set four passing records in collegiate football.

"I look on this as my greatest test," said the Babe. "It is the final game of my collegiate career. It must be a great game for me to be remembered. You know how it is — it's always the finish they think about. And then there's professional football."

While Parilli's passing is the topic of the hour, TCU can fling the ball pretty good, too. In fact, TCU has three of the best passers in the Southwest in Ray McKown, Mal Fowler and Gil Bartosh. McKown has rolled up 860 yards, Fowler 351 and Bartosh 233.

It wouldn't be surprising to see both teams go all out in the air — and that's why even the coaches are predicting the greatest flood of touchdowns in the sixteen years of the Cotton Bowl.

Both teams wind up training today and all members of the two squads will answer present for the kickoff. TCU is in top physical condition. Eight Kentucky players have had the flu and may not be up to standard but all will be ready to play.

Red Raiders Made 3-Point Favorite In Sun Bowl Contest

By FINIS MOREHEAD

EL PASO (AP) — Conquerors of two teams which went on to bigger bowls finish polishing attacks today for their own private war in the Sun Bowl.

Both coaches promised only a light final drill for Texas Tech and College of the Pacific before tomorrow's fray — rated a toss-up.

Rugged regular seasons prompted caution among oddsmakers. Both clubs wound up with only 6-4 won-lost records, but each dumped worthy foes along the way.

TOPPED BOWLERS

The College of Pacific Tigers routed Clemson 21-7 early in the campaign. Clemson went on to land a 'Gator bowl berth with Miami of Florida.

Texas Tech hung a 33-19 defeat on Texas Christian, which, as Southwest Conference champion, takes on Kentucky in the Cotton Bowl. But the Techsans took their lumps from two other bowl-bound elevens. They bowed 6-0 to Houston University, which plays in the Salad Bowl, and were squelched, 40-20, by Baylor, headed for the Orange Bowl.

After studying the records, the gents who like a fast buck accorded Texas Tech a hesitant three-point edge.

Coach Ernie Jorge's COP Tigers are bigger, outweighing their opponents an average of 10 to 15 pounds per man. The Red Raiders of Texas Tech, coached by DeWitt Weaver, appear to be a trifle faster.

Both are clubs with powerful rushing games. Pacific's ponderous T-formation netted 3,168 yards in 10 games. Texas Tech cut loose from its explosive split-T for 2,434 yards net.

Baylor-Georgia Tech Orange Bowl Battle Rated A Tossup

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two high-scoring football teams from the Southeastern and Southwest Conferences — Georgia Tech and Baylor — clash tomorrow in the 18th annual Orange Bowl game before a sellout crowd of 65,000.

Most experts predict a free scoring affair with the game rated a toss-up. Pre-game betting was 6-5 and take your choice.

ALL-AMERICANS

A passing duel was forecast between Georgia Tech's Darrell Crawford and Baylor's Larry Isbell. Crawford completed 77 of 136 passes for 1,153 yards and 12 touchdowns last season while Isbell, Baylor's all-America quarterback, completed 105 of 214 for 1,430 and 10 touchdowns.

Tech also boasts an all-America player in Ray Beck, six-foot two-inch, 209 pound senior guard. Opposing him will be Bill Athey, Baylor's 215-pound guard who was on the Associated Press' second all-American team.

Georgia Tech took it easy since arriving here Wednesday, going to the races, sight-seeing and relaxing. Yesterday Coach Bobby Dodd reversed the procedure with a 90-minute workout that included blocking and tackling.

Dodd said the team had lost excess weight picked up during the Christmas holidays and he was "pretty well pleased" with the workout.

Harry Wright, reserve halfback, injured a knee and will be out of the game but Hal Miller, regular offensive tackle who was sidelined with an injured leg, may be ready to go.

RECORDS

Baylor, holding two-a-day workouts since arriving here Thursday from Waco, took yesterday off to attend church and go sightseeing.

A dozen wives of Baylor players arrived by plane, including Isbell's bride of a week. Isbell had interrupted his honeymoon to come here with the squad.

Tech, first team to play in all four major bowls, holds a 5-2 record including two won and one lost in the Orange Bowl. During the season, the Engineers won 9 and were tied by Duke, 14-14.

Baylor, which won eight, lost one and tied one in regular season play, is making its first appearance in a major bowl. The Bears defeated Wake Forest in the Dixie Bowl in Birmingham in 1949.

The weather bureau forecast a bright, warm afternoon with a temperature of about 80 degrees and moderate Southeast winds.

Both teams scheduled final workouts late today. Tech will hold a light drill at Memorial Field, Miami Beach, while Baylor dons full game uniforms for a visit to the Orange Bowl stadium.

NM Aggies Cop Sun Bowl Meet

EL PASO (AP) — North Texas State lost the Sun Carnival basketball championship, 55-54, yesterday to the New Mexico Aggies.

West Texas State slapped the Texas Western Miners, 71-51, to win third place in the tournament.

The good team work of the Aggies produced enough points to stave off a last-second threat by North Texas, but aggressive guarding kept the New Mexicans from scoring consistently.

It was in the last 10 seconds that North Texas was able to crack a two-point spread, which marked their closest approach to the Aggies during the contest.

Ladd AFB Wins Ice Bowl Battle

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (AP) — It took nearly all day to do it but they finally marked up some touchdowns in the annual Ice Bowl football game after four years of trying.

But then the days are short up here.

And once they got the hang of it the Ladd Air Force Base team really stacked up the touchdowns. They scored seven in beating the University of Alaska 47-0 in yesterday's annual snowbound affair.

Harvesters Entertain Hawks At Junior High Tomorrow

Pampa's Harvesters, fresh from an outstanding victory in the annual Howard Payne Invitational basketball tournament at Brownwood, return to the home court tomorrow night to host the Phillips Blackhawks in a New Year's night game.

The A team game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock with the Guerillas meeting the Hawk B team at 6:30 in the preliminary. In an earlier meeting at Phillips, both Pampa cage squads turned in victories.

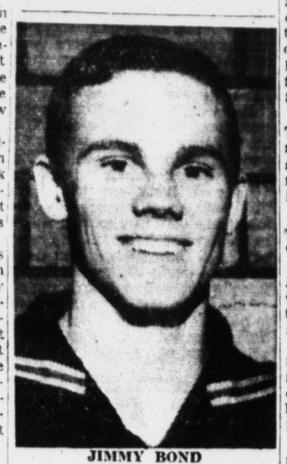

Coach Clifton McNeely's cagers never looked better this season than they did in turning in their victory over Amon Carter Riverside of Fort Worth in the championship game Saturday night at Brownwood. Behind the brilliant scoring of Jimmy Bond and the outstanding defensive game played by the entire team, the Harvesters definitely marked themselves as a threat in the District 1-AAAA chase.

NINE STRAIGHT

The four victories turned in at Brownwood ran the Pampa win streak to nine straight without loss. This weekend they participate in the annual Childress tournament, where they are the defending champions.

The Harvesters placed two men, Jimmy Bond and Tommy Smith, on the all-tournament team at Brownwood. In addition, Bond was a close contestant for the high-scoring honors of the tourney, racking up a total of 68 points in the four games played by Pampa.

Tuesday night's game with the Blackhawks will likely be the last for the Green and Gold in the junior high school gymnasium. Their next home appearance is on Jan. 19, when they open their home district season against the favored Borger Bulldogs. That game is expected to be the dedication game for the new field house. Tomorrow night's game will be broadcast by KPDN, starting at 8 o'clock.

San Francisco, Loyola LA Drop Football For Economy

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — For financial reasons, two of the west's major independents—University of San Francisco and Loyola of Los Angeles — have abandoned football indefinitely.

By prior agreement, the announcements came simultaneously yesterday and brought to 36 the number of schools which have canceled their football programs since the 1950 season.

USF, unbeaten and untied this year behind the running of all-America fullback Ollie Matson decided it was "financially imprudent" to continue the sport in the face of world conditions and high operating costs.

Loyola, for whom quarterback Don Klosterman set a national passing record, revealed football has been costing the school upwards of $100,000 a year since 1946.

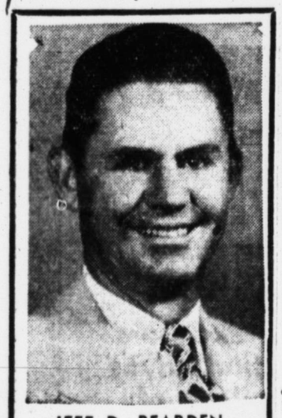

Both Matson and Klosterman were standout performers in last Saturday's Shrine East-West game in San Francisco.

Although Loyola won only three of its nine games, its decision came as more of a surprise than San Francisco's, which had been in the wind since head Coach Joe Kuharich quit to seek employment with a pro team.

The withdrawals left Santa Clara as the only one of the Pacific Coast's Catholic big four still active on the gridiron. St. Mary's quit last year.

The decisions also pointed up the problems which have beset independent and smaller schools in the past several years — ballooning costs, over-emphasis, dwindling material and difficulty in drawing crowds.

It was evident, too, that the future of other independents would become even more precarious with these two big ones on the sidelines. Presumably, USF and Loyola will continue to field teams in basketball, track, and other sports.

Oleander Clash Morning Contest

The game is the nation's only New Year's day football game played in the morning. Kickoff is set for 10 a.m.

A close game is expected, despite the decided weight advantage the Mississippi team will have. The defensive line of Hinds is 23 pounds per man heavier than the light West Texans, who average only 175.

But the San Angelo Rams are rugged on defense. Six members of the team won berths on the all-Pioneer Conference defensive team and two others placed on the offensive team.

Fullback Willard Rachal and quarterback James Ratcliff have been standouts in the Eagle backfield.

Records Set In Sugar Track Meet

By JAMES SAGGUS

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — Dean Smith, a flying Texan with a double portion of stamina, won the first heat of the 100-meter dash in 10.4 yesterday and followed it with a 10.3 run in the finals to set a record in the Sugar Bowl track meet.

Smith, from the University of Texas, and Buddy Fowlkes, former Georgia Tech sprint star, staged a two-man duel in the finals, with Smith pulling ahead in the final stages.

The event was one of six in which Sugar Bowl records were established.

Bob Richards of the Illinois Athletic Club won the pole vault with a 14 foot 8 inch jump — the only event which did not set a record.

Denis Johansson, a Finn attending Purdue, won the 1,500 meter run in 3:53.2, breaking the old mark of 3:55 set by John Hulse of New York Athletic Club in 1947.

John Voight of Oklahoma A&M finished the 400 meter run in 48.1 to better the 12-year old mark of John Quigley of Manhattan College by three-tenths of a second.

World record - holder Dick Attelsey of the Naval Academy won the 110-meter hurdles in 14.2, two-tenths better than the 1947 Sugar Bowl record of Ross Nichols of Oklahoma A&M.

Smith, Carl Mayes, Ralph Person and Charles Thomas made up the winning Texas University team in the 400-meter relay, turning in 41.4. North Texas State was second.

Oklahoma took the 1,600-meter relay with a team of Jerome Meador, Charles Coleman, George McCormick and Quanah Cox. They stepped it in 3::14.1.

Eddie [illegible]lan won the singles championship of the tennis tournament and the team of Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., and Sidney Schwartz of Brooklyn the doubles title.

Player Losses Slow Salad Tilt

PHOENIX — (AP) — The University of Dayton Flyers and the Cougars of Houston University get a first look at the Salad Bowl field and stadium today on the eve of their big battle.

Dayton is scheduled to work out in the Salad Bowl at 2 p.m., weather permitting, and Houston takes over at 3:30 p.m.

It will be a final drill for both teams before the 2 p.m. kickoff Tuesday. A crowd of 21,000 is expected.

Overcast skies and intermittent showers have hampered both teams in putting on final polish for the game.

Clearer weather is expected later today, but a possibility of more rain on Tuesday still exists.

Houston showed snap and precision in its light workout yesterday, and Dayton eased up after a jolting day of hard scrimmage. Both teams are beginning to be troubled by player losses.

Arkansas State Tangerine Choice

ORLANDO, Fla. — (AP) — Arkansas State's high scoring football team, which also was second best on defense among small colleges this fall, is rated an edge over the Stetson Hatters in the Tangerine Bowl game Tuesday night.

Arkansas State already has one post-season victory in the Refrigerator Bowl after going through the season with only one defeat.

Stetson lost only to Florida State during the season but was tied by Tampa and Wofford.

Area Gridders On S-T All-State

Van Pennington, brilliant Shamrock Irish end, was named to a starting flank on the Class AA state team selected by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and announced yesterday. He was the lone area AA gridder on the first team, although Bud Carter of Phillips was named on the second string.

The class A teams had no area gridders on the first or second teams, but several received honorable mention. They were Jimmy Doom, Lefors end; Joe Woods, Panhandle, tackle; Buddy Gross, Canadian center; Ray Dickerson of Lefors and Tommy Schaef of Canadian in the backfield.

Southwest Conference Cage Scramble Opens On 6 Fronts

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The battle for the championship starts this week in Southwest Conference basketball with six of the seven teams involved.

Texas Christian's mighty Horned Frogs, winners of the first annual tournament held last weekend, take on Southern Methodist in the inaugural at Fort Worth Wednesday night.

The Frogs slammed through the tournament in Dallas, having trouble only with Vanderbilt of the Southeastern Conference—the visiting team. The classy Purple whipped Rice, 69-57, in the first round, edged Vandy, 51-49, in the semifinals and strapped Texas A&M, 65-35, in the championship game.

TCU appears to have too much all the way around and is expected to roll up one of the finest records of any year. The Frogs have won 10 of 11 games, the only defeat being to Manhattan in New York.

Texas and Texas A&M appear to be the teams most likely to come through if Texas Christian should falter. The Aggies nosed Texas by a point in the tournament semifinals but it must have taken too much out of them. They were like putty in Texas Christian's hands in the finals.

A&M plays erratic Arkansas at Fayetteville, Rice opens with Southern Methodist at Dallas and Texas Christian meets Texas at Fort Worth Saturday night.

Baylor plays a nonconference game, tackling Southwest Texas State, power of the Lone Star Conference, at Waco Friday night. The Golden Bears, who have won only one game in 11 this season, open the conference race Jan. 11 against Texas Christian.

Texas landed the most players on the all-tournament team with James Dowies making a forward spot and Ted Price being picked for center. Dave Kardokus of Vanderbilt was selected at the other forward while Johnny Ethridge of Texas Christian and Jewell McDowell of Texas A&M were named to the guard posts. Ethridge was selected by the 40 sports writers, officials and coaches as the tournament's outstanding player.

The tournament drew more than 10,000 paid attendance and was a financial success. It will be decided by the conference soon whether the tourney is to be continued.

George McLeod of Texas Christian, who almost beat out Price for center on the all-tournament team, leads the conference in scoring. He has hooked in 198 points.

Illini Made 6½ Point Favorites To Win Rose Game

By BOB MYERS

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP) — Old father Rose Bowl, the pappy of all the postseason college grid attractions, is ready to present his 38th attraction tomorrow.

The old fellow has been staging these contests for many years, the first in 1902, and there's no reason to hold back on this one, no matter what the elements may be. The weather man says it will be cloudy and windy.

The principals are Illinois and Stanford, tangling in the sixth contest in the series between the best teams of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences. They are ready, too, or as ready as they'll ever be.

One hundred thousand fans are waiting to see the game in person and millions of others will watch for the first time across the nation on their television sets.

The kickoff is set for 4 p.m. CST.

The Illini, a light but shifty, quick hitting outfit with a powerful defense, remains the favorite to win by six and a half points. The role doubtless stems from its record of nine victories and one scoreless tie.

Stanford, a gambling, come-from-behind band, has its ardent supporters, of course. All are banking on the potential devilment which could be cooked up by quarterback Gary Kerkorian, all-America end Bill McColl or such backs as Bob Mathias, Bob Meyers or Harry Hugasian.

Tennessee Is Made Choice

By STERLING SLAPPEY

NEW ORLEANS — (AP) — When national champion Tennessee meets Maryland in the Sugar Bowl tomorrow in football's biggest game, the favored Vols will be trying again to stop the trend of favorites losing in the major bowls.

Tennessee, No. 1 team in the nation in the Associated Press poll, and Maryland, No. 3 team, kick off at 1:45 p.m. (CST) in 82,000-seat Tulane Stadium, known every New Year's Day as the Sugar Bowl.

Every ticket has been sold for weeks.

Bob Neyland, coach of the Tennessee team, has trained his touchdown favored men for nearly a week at Baton Rouge, La.

Tennessee arrives by bus tomorrow. The weather — cloudy and mild, the weatherman says.

When Tennessee won the national championship the Vols immediately faced the job of overcoming the bowl trend against the favorites.

In the last three major bowl seasons, eight teams rated lower won games from superior ranked opponents. Only three higher ranked teams managed victories while one bowl game involved two unranked teams.

Miami Favored In Gator Contest

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. — (AP) — Clemson and Miami, two football teams which specialized in speed, meet in the seventh annual Gator Bowl game here Tuesday.

Miami is favored, just as it was last year when these same teams met in the Orange Bowl. Clemson won that one, 15-14.

The game is a sellout in advance for the first time in its history, largely because of the big-Clemson following.

Miami is the favorite by about a field goal even though Frank Smith, star halfback who won honorable mention all-America the past two years, is definitely out with an injury. The Hurricanes also lost tackle Joe Bartolovich.

McLemore Plans Quiet New Year Celebration In Mexico

By HENRY McLEMORE

MEXICO CITY, Mexico — In case you've lost your calendar, this is New Year's Eve.

It's the time when adults blow juvenile horns, turn around and kiss people they have no right to kiss, ring out the old and ring in the new with more spirits than are normally handled. Were I in New York I'd be a fiend of the first order with palms. I would hop, skip and jump with a sprightliness unbecoming to my years. I would hug men, even though I'm not a natural man-hugger. In short, I would act like millions of American men do once a year.

But I'm in Mexico. Kiss a senorita here without the right to kiss a senorita and you find yourself slapped across the face with a gauntlet, which is Spanish for glove. Seconds run up and give you their cards. "Choose your weapons. they cry" and meet us at daybreak in Chapultepec park."

Wishing to conform to the customs of the country, I am going to spend the quietest most boring New Year's Eve I have ever spent. My schedule follows:

8 a.m. — Orange juice laced with tomato juice.

11 a.m. — A call to the National Museums asking if I may be permitted to browse around amidst things that were born centuries before I was.

Noon — A shot of tequila, against my will, of course, chased with lime juice and salt.

2:30 p.m. — A turn through this lovely city's streets in a taxicab driven by four, matched prancing burros.

5 p.m. — An hour with Horace and Hiram and the comic books that I brought along with me.

6 p.m. — One solid hour of wishing that I were in New York City, sailing and sloping with friends who are sailing and sloping.

11 p.m. — A call to the Del Prado room service asking for graham crackers and lukewarm milk. You may not believe it, but there's nothing in the world that taste like graham crackers and lukewarm milk unless it be lukewarm crackers and graham milk.

Midnight — 1951 has taken the count from 1952. Bells ring. Hoots from Shoreacres across the Alamo in my little room. I wonder about Pat, now gone and forgotten.

Many columnists will write about how glad they are to see it go. Not I. In the first place it gave me 365 days of living. It gave its share of lovely sunsets, lovely sunrises and high and sweet riding moons. It gave the Veep a trip to Korea and a chance to prove that no matter how old you are you can ward for the missing performers, at least, or.

1951 proved that Americans can take it, even from Washington to South America, means River James who never had a mink of Silver.

Hunter Paints Equipment For Big Expedition

By J. HAROLD HAWKINS

NEW YORK — When Commander Attilo Gatti, photographer, explorer and author, who sailed recently on the S. S. John Weddy, again goes into the backlands of Africa, paint will play an important role in the success of his project.

He is taking with him a personal crew of 18 men as well as four large trailers in which they will live and work, three trucks and five American jeeps. The exploring and photographing expedition will last an entire year.

Knowing by experience the rigorous treatment his mobile units will receive on the rough and hazardous roads and being fully aware of the destructive force of sandstorms, he is taking along protective paints, brushes and spray guns to safeguard his equipment against rust and to maintain his blue and gray color scheme.

It is his plan to make two feature-length films in color, as well as to do a great deal of still photography. With him are 50 technicians who know the vital importance of having dark rooms that are truly dark. To insure the success of both films and prints, they are taking along metered booths from which paint can be sprayed. With them, they will spray flat optical black paint on the inside of the various interiors where their work will be done.

Understudies Hop To New Assignment

LONDON (AP) — Three understudies were given a chance today to take top billing at the circus — and they hopped at it.

The stars they replaced, had been stolen along with them and chariots, police reported.

The flea circus proprietor has offered a 10 pounds ($28) reward for the missing performers.

The name of Rio de la Plata, means River James who never had a mink of Silver.

MORE PRECIOUS THAN RUBIES!

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

Copyright 1951 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Alma Conroy, designer for an exclusive jewel firm, Trumbull & Company, once more fears her husband has failed her. Tommy had been given a promotion, but he quarrels with Alma and has been drinking. Alma finds more than $16,000 in his pockets. The next day Tommy says the money is not his but belongs to The House and that he had spent more than $300 of the firm's money.

• • •

XIV

ALMA CONROY repeated her words to her husband: "You've said you'd stop drinking before, Tommy. But this time the consequences are so serious that I suppose I've just got to help you, whether I believe your promise or not. But right at this moment I can't see where the money is coming from."

"You'll have to believe this promise, Jewels," Tommy said earnestly, "because I mean to keep it. I guess it took a bad scare like this to get me on the wagon—but believe it or not, I'm there!"

He went into the bathroom to shower and shave and Alma put breakfast on the table absently as she considered what she might best do. She had $60 left in her bank account. Of course this emergency would come up the day after she had paid both the rent and the monthly bills!

Then, there were her savings. But the savings bank required several days' notice for a withdrawal and Tommy had to have the money before night. She could not ask Papa Victor to help her for the old man had only his intermittant earnings and a small nest-egg. Besides, he would suspect at once that Tommy had been up to something, and would ask too many questions.

How on earth was she to get $240? Joe Denton? Oh no! She simply couldn't ask Joe. Neither could Tommy ask Denton for that matter—not just when he, Tommy, was supposed to have received a big salary boost! She stood stock still, a plate of fruit suspended in midair, feeling exactly as if she had run into an impassable wall.

Then all at once the little white radio answered her question. Musically it suggested that she sell her old gold and diamonds to the Mammoth Gold-buying Company.

At that moment Tommy stalked into the room, freshly shaved and dressed, and switched off the radio.

"Mind?" he asked. "I have the world's worst headache."

Alma merely shook her tawny head.

"Think of any way to raise the dough?" he asked.

"Yes. I'll have it here for you by 5:30 this evening."

He did not ask her how she intended getting the cash and she did not volunteer her solution.

"God bless you, darling!" he said gravely. "You'll never know what you've saved me from."

"Are you going out?" He made a wry grimace.

"I have to. There's a little unfinished business I must take care of. See you later, Jewels. You're a great girl!"

• • •

WHEN he had gone Alma went to the drawer in which she kept a shoe-box containing odds and ends of old jewelry—discarded gold settings, childish ornaments, ugly pieces inherited from her family, which she had stowed away thinking to remodel them some day in a leisure hour.

She ran them through her fingers now, remembering the history of some, puzzling over others. There were two heavy gold bracelets which she had entirely forgotten she owned. But there was one item, well remembered, which appeared to be missing. This was a pair of gold and moonstone cuff-links which she had designed and made for Tommy's birthday the first year they were married.

Her taste had run to the florid in those days, and the cuff-links had been too large and too ornate. Later, she and Tommy had tacitly agreed that the links were suitable only for fancy dress and the gift had found its way into the old shoe-box. But they were missing now.

She looked hastily through Tommy's things, but the links were not to be found and it was getting late. Alma made up her package without them. At lunch time she would take this package to the Mammoth Gold-buying Company. Her expert eye told her that she had enough stuff to obtain the amount she needed.

Undoubtedly Trumbull's would pay a higher price, but she did not dare take the things to The House, for solvency was imperatively required by Trumbull's; employees were liberally paid, and not supposed to get into financial difficulties—the companies which insured the fabulous stock made sure of that! Alma tucked the package under her arm and went off to work.

• • •

THOUGH she was late in reaching Trumbull's, Old Victor was not at the bench when she arrived. She began to work rapidly hoping that when he came his keen old eyes would not read the strained anxiety in her heart. But when he arrived at last her grandfather was fairly glowing with excitement and happiness. For once he was too deeply absorbed in his own concerns to notice anything wrong.

"My small beautiful!" he cried, kissing her on both cheeks. "I have done it! It is approved!"

"Yes, but what, Papa Victor?"

"Surely you cannot have forgotten? My latest design, the Gold Star pin! The pin to be worn in memory of our heroes—in sapphires, diamonds and rubies for the haute monde, in plain gold or in patriotic enamels for the bourgeoisie! Mr. Muncie has said okay!"

"Mr. Muncie never said okay in his life!" she protested smilingly as she kissed him in return. "But I am so glad, Papa Victor! It is sure to be a great success!"

Drouth, OPS, Price Paradox Hard On Cattlemen In 1951

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK
Associated Press Staff

The drouth, the Office of Price Stabilization, and the paradox of prices have made 1951 a turbulent year for the Texas livestock industry.

Meat prices have been high and gross receipts have skyrocketed. But while livestockmen have made some money, profits have been slimmer. Operating costs have dipped into sales returns that would have meant handsome profits under operating conditions of a few years ago.

Parched pastures, the high cost of feed and the forced reduction of herds make the outlook at the year's end a gloomy one.

When the year dawned, livestock prices at the farm level were good — 63 percent higher than they were during World War II. But the soaring price tags on meat in butchers' display cases prompted OPS to freeze wholesale and retail meat prices.

Then the OPS ordered a 10 percent rollback in the price of beef cattle to take the squeeze off the processors who were caught between the frozen retail prices and the rising cost of meat on the hoof.

And the OPS announced two more proposed rollbacks of cattle prices of 4 1-2 percent each for Aug. 1 and Oct. 1. Livestock markets over the country were jammed as cattlemen sought to sell their animals before the deadline for the 10 percent rollback.

Fighting mad, the cattlemen carried their battle to Washington. The first rollback stood but Congress rescinded the two other rollbacks the OPS had planned.

The cattlemen won a victory in Washington but back home the weather was becoming a far more serious threat. Scorching 100 degree temperatures kept Texas in their grip most of the summer, searing pastures and rangelands and shriveling feed crops before they had a chance to mature.

When the 10 percent rollback went into effect, cattle shipments to market had stopped as if someone had turned off a faucet. Cattlemen, rather than sell at the reduced price, had planned to hold their animals.

But the prolonged drouth forced them to change their plans. With ranges parched, feed crops short and the cost of concentrates and other feeds rising, cattle shipments to market started again. By the years end they were hitting a crescendo.

The combination of favorable cattle and calf prices and the unfavorable range conditions have encouraged liberal selling of farm and ranch supplies. The Fort Worth stockyards estimates it will handle approximately 10 percent more cattle and almost 30 percent more calves during 1951 than it did during 1950.

In the Panhandle, the drouth caused one of the heaviest late summer and fall run of cattle sales in history.

The Amarillo Livestock Auction Co., largest cattle sales ring in the world and the leading market for High Plains stockmen, sold 41,098 head for $7,120,080 in October for its highest month of sales.

Up to Dec. 15 a total of 318,200 head of cattle had been sold in the Amarillo ring for $52,706,472 compared with 342,675,638 for 335,860 head of cattle in all of 1950. Company officials estimated that receipts by Jan. 1 will have exceeded 1950 sales by 12 million dollars but that the number of cattle sold will be 8,000 less than last year.

The drouth has not only forced cattle to market but it has increased out-of-state shipments. In the Panhandle the movement from ranges to feedlots was the heaviest in four to five years. Railroads were under pressure to move the supply in October and November with a large number of cattle going to Colorado as well as midwestern points.

Through El Paso, trainload after trainload of drouth stricken cattle are being moved to grass in other states in a modern version of the days when herds were driven overland in search for greener pastures.

El Paso railroad officials say that these shipments, which started in late August, represent the greatest cattle movement over their lines in history.

From August through November, an average of 70 cars, or 2800 head of cattle were unloaded daily at the El Paso Union stockyards for rest, water and feed before resuming their trip to ranges or feedlot in California, Arizona and other western states. During December shipments through El Paso have come from the scorched West Texas rangelands. The shipments have included cattle from south of San Antonio, from around Houston and from the Gulf Coast areas.

While the cattle and calf population of the nation is expected to increase about seven million head this year to a new high of 81 million, it is higly doubtful that Texas will show its proportionate share of increase.

The drouth with the resultant forced sale of animals and out-of state shipments will reduce the anticipated increase in many sections, keep the cattle at about the same number in other sections, and even cut cattle population at some points.

In the Victoria area, Arvle Elliott, vice-president and agricultural specialist for the Victoria Bank and Trust Co., estimates the number of cattle is 15 to 20 percent below the normal of the past few years because of the drouth.

Keeping cattle fed is a big problem in many sections and livestockmen are having to dig deep into their cash reserves to do it.

Because of lack of sub-soil moisture, wheat, which usually provides excellent winter grazing for cattle, is dormant. In the Panhandle, threshed grains have been plentiful but sorghum bundles have been scarce. Roughage has been selling for $35 a ton and alfalfa — when it has been available — has been selling up to $50 a ton.

At Temple, the Southland Cotton Oil mill has been having the heaviest run on its cottonseed products in years. Trucks are in line every morning at 7 a.m. and usually it is a matter of only a few hours until the supply milled overnight is gone.

In the South Texas area, the severe cold has weakened cattle already suffering from the drouth. Pastures are seared and even the Guajilla country in Duval and Live Oak counties lacks the usual brush growth for winter browsing.

Ranchers and some dairymen have been forced to use prickly pear to keep their herds going in South Texas and thousands of cactus-covered acres have been put to the pear burner. Even the huge King ranch, where pastures are lightly stocked, have had to resort to the burner which singes off the stickers to make it possible for cattle to eat the plant.

E. H. Marks, veteran Barker rancher, estimates that the drouth will cost ranchers in the Houston area more than a million dollars in extra feeding costs before Jan. 15.

Heavy feeding has been carried on throughout the year in the Corpus Christi area. Joe Finley, operator of the big Callihan ranch in Webb county says 1951 has been one of the most difficult years he has experienced in his 29 years of ranching.

Failure to provide supplementary feeding has taken its toll. In East Texas area around Marshall, Tyler and Palestine, hundreds of head of cattle have died of "white muscle disease" caused by a vitamin dificiency.

The drouth has not only caused loss of weight but has weakened cattle. Some ranchers fear it will result in poorer breeding and a smaller calf crop in 1952.

Sheep and goat raisers have also been hit by the drouth. At Fort Worth sheep and lamb sales are down about nine percent. Many ranchers sold their sheep and lambs direct to feeders in the North rather than send them to market in poor condition.

Dairying had also had a rough year. Because of the high cost of feed, many dairymen have culled their herds closely to eliminate poor producers. Others have found the margin of operation too small and have dispersed their herds. In the Plainview area, some dairy farmers have sold their milk cows and are concentrating on cotton which requires less work and brings more return.

The drouth, reduced calf crop and increasing taxes and feed costs are cited by Joe M. Evans, pioneer Southwestern cattleman as the big problems on the dawn of 1952.

"We have plenty of problem but we can handle them, if the government will leave us alone," Evans said. "No cowman can plan very far ahead. If we have a warm, wet winter, most of this southwestern country will have some feed."

And then he voiced the opinion of most Texas livestock men when he added "there is nothing wrong with the cattle business that heavy rains won't cure."

Top Newsprint Prices, Low Supply Plague Publishers

NEW YORK — (AP) — Newsprint prices rose another $10 a ton to the highest level in almost 30 years during 1951 and supplies remained too tight for comfort.

On the basis of a 1951 United States consumption of 6,000,000 tons, the price increase added some 60 million dollars to the costs of publishing.

Prices of newsprint vary with location of the buyer but on a New York basis it was $116 a ton.

Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. said, however, the supply situation was not generally "perilous."

No daily newsaper had to suspend solely because of the lack of newsprint.

Industry observers explain it this way: Many publishers are not getting all the newsprint they could use or want. But all are getting enough to keep going with economies here and there.

Estimates of the Newsprint Assn. of Canada — United States publishers get about 80 percent of their needs from the Dominion — show a world shortage continuing. Many countries outside North America are actually in dire straits.

But the estimates also indicate the shortage is getting smaller. They show that gradually supply and demand are getting into closer balance.

For instance, the newsprint makers figure the world shortage in 1950 was 415,000 tons. For 1951 they estimate it at about 307,000 tons and the coming year 276,000.

European newspaper publishers appealed to the United Nations General Assembly in Paris to deal with this world shortage.

The executive committee of the International Federation of Newspaper Publishers at their annual congress asked an equal sharing of available newsprint, thorough search for new raw materials for paper production and cutting of existing prices.

The Food and Agriculture organization of the United Nations was urged to find a substitute for northern hardwoods for the manufacture of wood pulp to relieve the shortage.

A Cuban-born sugar engineer — Joaquin de la Roza said a partial answer to the shortage was newsprint made from bagasse — the waste material of sugar cane.

He is president of the United Bagasse Cellulose Corp. and inventor of the pre-hydrolysis process for making paper pulp.

Several Latin-American countries, where sugar cane is easily available, were investigating possibilities at the year end.

The National Production Authority estimated supplies of newsprint would continue scarce through 1952 although a continued increase in production is expected.

Reporting to publishers who make up the Newspaper Industry Advisory committee, NPA officials said in November that 1951 production will approximate 6,600,000 tons in North America, compared with 6,200,000 tons in the previous year.

R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Assn. of Canada, put the dominion situation this way:

He said before the war Canadian mills made about 3,300,000 tons of newsprint annually and shipped 72 percent to the United States and 22 percent overseas.

In 1951, he estimated, the Canadian mills made 5½ million tons and shipped 87 percent to the United States and less than seven percent overseas.

The foreign needs were described as one of the big problems facing United States publishers now and in 1952 as the pressure grew to give up newsprint to countries abroad as a part of a world defense program for freedom.

There was criticism from foreign countries about the "bigness" of many American newspapers while they were newsprint-short. But Fowler defended their "bigness."

He said every one will agree that newspaper is many countries are inadequate in size and should be larger. But, he added, the newspapers in United States and Canada play a totally different role than those in Europe and South America.

"Here," he said, "the newspaper is used to advertise a specific article described in detail and available for sale on a specific day or hour."

Another problem of the industry was sulphur, a much needed ingredient in making newsprint. Williams said the sulphur shortage has knocked down the supply on hand at Canadian plants to a 2.7 month's inventory compared with the usual seven months.

Lack of one ton of sulphur, newsprint manufacturers say, means a loss of 44-45 tons of newsprint.

Increased costs of labor and production forced newsprint manufacturers to hike prices $10 a ton in July. Freight rate increases also were among the reasons given by producers for the boost.

Today's price of $116 on a New York basis compared with an all-time top of $120 in the late 20's and a low of about $40 in the depression years.

During the 1938-42 period the price was $50 a ton. In 1946 it went to $84 and the next year it climbed to $90. By mid-1948 it was $96. At the end of 1948 it was $100 and in 1950 it jumped to $106.

Agriculture's Achievements May Provide Its Headaches

WASHINGTON — (AP) — American agriculture's biggest achievement in 1951 may cause its biggest headache in 1952.

Its major accomplishment in the old year was a sharp expansion in the number of livestock on farms. The inventory is the largest of record. The increase was made in response to a strong consumer demand for more meat, milk, other dairy products, poultry and eggs.

This demand was reflected to the farmer in the form of very favorable prices.

But to maintain the livestock production at the current level, farmers will need a lot of feed — in fact much more than they produced this year.

But if corn and other feed grain crops are not sharply increased in 1952, the livestock industry will be forced to retreat to a lower level of production. Such a retreat would involve liquidation in some beef cattle and dairy needs and poultry flocks.

Production of crops and livestock and livestock products combined in 1951 set a new record. But the task set before agriculture for 1952 calls for an even larger volume — an increase of 4 percent over the old record and 50 percent over the pre-war average.

In addition to grains, the government is urging production of another big cotton crop to match the 1951 harvest which topped the average by about 30 percent.

The new year may well see demands arise in Congress and elsewhere for building of larger food reserves for emergencies such as droughts, floods and war.

Under the impact of the growing defense program, incomes of farmers as well as non-farmers increased substantially in 1951. The Agriculture department estimates farmers received a net income — amount left after paying production costs — of $15 billion compared with $12.7 billion in 1950.

This income, however, is about a billion dollars less than farmers received in 1948. The department forecasts that the 1952 income will be about the same as this year.

It is possible that the new year may see government price ceilings extended to more farm products. They are now limited to beef cattle, wool, cotton, soybeans and cottonseed. Grains appeared to be next in line for controls because of recent price advances. Potatoes, which a year ago were selling at very low levels, also may be brought under control. A short 1951 crop has been followed by sharp price increases.

The government expects agricultural exports in 1952 to exceed the large quantity shipped in 1951. With a larger cotton crop, removal of U. S. export controls, and relatively short foreign stocks, evports of cotton probably will be substantially larger. Wheat shipments are expected to continue large under influence of an export subsidy program set up under an international wheat agreement.

The new year is a big election year, but agricultural problems are likely to be less important as campaign issues than in the presidential campaign of 1948. Nevertheless, Republicans are expected to project the controversial Brannan farm plan into the campaign.

The Truman administration, on the other hand, may come up with new farm plan proposals designed to shove the Brannan plan into the background.

National Day Of Prayer Held Here

Catholics in the Diocese of Amarillo are observing a national day of prayer, mourning and reparation today for millions of people in Iron Curtain countries who have become victims of Communist persecution.

Bishop Laurence J. FitzSimon, has directed pastors of each parish to determine the form of observance prayer today.

Archibishop Francis P. Keough of Baltimore referring to the fact that the proclaimed day of prayer follows immediately after the feast commemorating the martyrdom of St. Thomas a Becket said ". . . we feel that on that day Americans will be given not only a renewed consciousness of the suffering that is being endured by persecuted people abroad but they will be given as well an opportunity to offer by prayer and mortification some concrete indication of their solidarity with those who suffer for the sake of their faith."

Navy Opens Offices For Contract Service

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Navy will establish two information centers in Texas to assist small business firms looking for contracts for Naval ordnance.

It notified Sen. Johnson (D-Texas) today the centers will be in the Lowich building in Dallas and the Matrige building in Houston.

MR. AND MRS. MARVIN THRASHER

Ramona Hightower And Marvin Thrasher Wed In Skellytown Baptist Church

WHITE DEER — (Special) — The First Baptist Church, Skellytown, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Ramona Hightower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Hightower, Skellytown to Ensign Marvin P. Thrasher, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Thrasher of Amarillo, Wednesday, December 26, at five p.m.

The double-ring ceremony was read by Rev. M. O. Evans, of Oklaunion, former pastor at Skellytown, before an altar decorated with baskets of white gladioli with large bows of delft blue ribbon, and white candles in tall, white candelabra. The candles were lighted by the ushers, John Pontis, Bunavista, and Jim Trenfield, Higgins.

Pre-nuptial music, played by Miss Billy Joyce Adams, pianist, included "Always," "Serenade," and "I Love You Truly." Before the exchange of vows, Miss Dorothy Broome, accompanied by Miss Adams, sang "O Promise Me," and at the close of the ceremony, she sang "The Lord's Prayer." The traditional wedding marches were used.

Miss Lora Dale Wells, Eunice, N. M., who wore a wine-colored suit with white accessories and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations, served as maid of honor. Beryl West, Borger, was best man.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white wool swing-back suit, with blue blouse, white hat, and navy blue shoes. Her bouquet was of white roses centered with a white orchid.

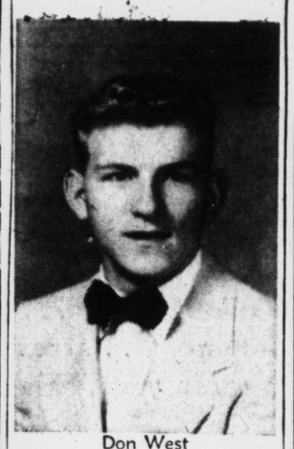

Her mother was attired in a brown suit with blue blouse and brown accessories. Her corsage was white carnations. The bridegroom's mother wore a black dress with blue-gray accessories and a corsage of red roses.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor. Miss Thadice Hightower, cousin of the bride, registered guests. Mrs. Russell Talley served the wedding cake, and Miss Carla Gores served puch. The table was laid with a lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of white carnations, and white and blue candles.

Mrs. Thrasher graduated in 1950 from White Deer High school, where she was a member of the National Honor society, the National Thespian Society, and co-captain of the basketball team. Now a junior at West Texas State College, she has appeared in a number of plays there and is a member of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics society. After mid-term she will join her husband at Bayonne, N. J.

Ensign Thrasher is a graduate of Amarillo High school and Amarillo Junior college, where he was a member of Tau Delta. He received his degree in business administration at West Texas State college last spring. On January 5, he will report to the Navy Supply Corps school at Bayonne.

Don West Is Delegate To National Meet

Don West

Donald Mack West, son of Rev. and Mrs. Russell G. West, formerly of Pampa, has been named a delegate from McPherson College, to the 16th Quadrennial Conference of the Student Volunteer Movement in Lawrence, Kansas, December 27 to January 1.

He will be one of nearly 2500 young men and women to meet on the University of Kansas campus for what has been described as this year's largest and most widely representative student conference under inter-denominational auspices.

In addition to United States and Canadian students from 700 colleges and universities, representing some 40 Protestant denominations, the meeting will include over 200 students from foreign lands, and 200 missionaries, student and church executives who will provide the Conference leadership.

Eminent speakers who will address the student group include: Dr. John S. Badeau, president of American University, Cairo, Egypt; Dr. John A. Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary; Mr. Eduardo Mondlane of Portuguese E. Africa, and Miss Clea Machado of Brazil; Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, professor of Union Theological Seminary, New York City; Dr. Charles W. Ranson of New York City, general secretary of the International Missionary Council.

Since the Student Volunteer Movement was first organized in 1886 some 20,000 students have gone out as missionaries, and a total of 50,000 have dedicated themselves to support of missionary tasks.

Don West graduated from Pampa High School in 1948. He is now a student minister in his junior year at McPherson college. He is a member and the student leader of the McPherson college male quartet.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL TALLEY

Billie Meadows And Russell Talley Exchange Wedding Vows In White Deer

WHITE DEER — (Special) — Miss Billie Meadows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Meadows, and Russell D. Talley, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Talley, were united in marriage, Monday, December 24, in the First Baptist Church, Skellytown.

Rev. Gerald Seright of Fort Worth read the double-ring ceremony before an altar flanked by tall baskets of orchid gladioli and lighted by white tapers in seven-branched candelabra.

Bill Miller of Carey, Texas, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Teddy Harvey who is with the Army Air Force at Chanute Field, lighted the candles and served as ushers. Charles Ray Meadows, brother of the bride, was best man.

Preceding the nuptial vows, Miss Betty Jean West sang "Tell Me Why" and "Because," accompanied by Miss Billy Joyce Adams, who played the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Carla Gores was the bride's only attendant. She was attired in a dress of purple net over orchid satin, with matching juliet cap, and carried a colonial bouquet of orchid carnations.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white lace over nylon net, with net yoke, fitted bodice and long sleeves of lace. The lace overskirt fell into points over a full skirt of net. Her shoulder-length veil was attached to a juliet cap. She wore on a chain around her neck a hunting case watch belonging to Mrs. John Gores. On a white Bible, borrowed from her bridesmaid, she carried a bouquet of white carnations centered with a purple orchid.

Her mother wore a cadet blue dress with black accessories, and the bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue suit with light blue accessories. Their corsages were of pink carnations.

At the reception following the ceremony, Miss Ruth Smith presided at the bride's book, Miss Lora Dale Wells served the wedding cake, and Miss Romona Hightower served punch.

For going away, the bride wore a navy blue bolero-styled dress with white blouse and navy accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Both the bride and the bridegroom were graduated from White Deer High school. He is now an instructor at Chanute Army Air Force base, Rantoul, Ill., where they will make their home.

A new handy key caddie can be attached to the inside of the bag so that the key is available and easy to find.

First Christian Schedules New Year's Service

The order of service for Holy Communion at the First Christian church New Year's Eve was announced today by Rev. Henry H. Tyler, church minister.

The scripture lesson will be John 15:1-7.

Among the special musical selections are "The Prayer of a Penitent," "I Heard the Bells," and "O God of Love, O King of Peace." Tracy Cary will be organist and soloists are Mrs. Dorothy Peacock and Barbara Blair.

Central Baptist WMU Plans Royal Service

The Central Baptist church will hold its monthly Royal Service Luncheon at the church Wednesday.

Services will begin at 10 a.m., according to an announcement by circle chairmen in charge of arrangements for the program.

William J. Levitt Sees Easier Credit For Home Builders

NEW YORK — (AP) — The home building industry will be influenced in 1952 by easier credit on low-cost housing and the rising demands of the defense program, William J. Levitt, builder of mass-produced low-cost homes, declared in a year-end statement.

"The government's designation of defense areas will tend to concentrate new housing where it is needed most," he said. Greater emphasis of lower priced houses is indicated by the new credit regulations allowing lower down payments on homes costing $10,000 or less, revising the 1951 pattern, he added.

Levitt's company, Levitt & Sons Inc., is currently building a city of 16,000 homes in the critical defense area of Bucks County, Pa.

MRS. A. L. LEONARD

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Leonard Will Make Home Here After Recent Wedding

In a double-ring ceremony performed December 22 in the Central Baptist church, Faye Weddle became the bride of Mr. A. L. Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Leonard, Pampa. Mrs. Leonard is the daughter of Mrs. Dave Widener, Clinton, Okla.

Rev. Hal Upchurch officiated at the ceremony. Attending the couple were Mrs. Denzil Leonard, matron of honor and Mr. Denzil Leonard, best man. Mrs. Leonard wore a gray suit and winter white accessories. Her corsage was white carnations.

The bride wore a mauve imported sharkskin fitted suit with navy and pink accessories, and a pink carnation corsage.

The bridegroom served in the Army during World War II. He is a graduate of Mobeetie High school, and is now employed by the Plains Motor Co. here.

Mrs. Leonard is employed by Johnson's Cafe.

After a short trip to Oklahoma, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are at home at 520 Yeager.

Suits Are Crisp, Warm

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK —(NEA)— When a woman is lucky enough to take a winter vacation and to spend that vacation in the tropics, the first thing she thinks of is a suit.

She knows she will need it en route and even after she arrives. There are times, even in the tropics, when the weather becomes downright chilly.

The suit she will dream of owning is one that won't wrinkle, will be neither too warm nor too light, that will maintain its crisp look.

A new and ideal suiting that has these assets is now available to women. It's made of 55 percent spun dacron and 45 percent wool. This means that it's highly-wrinkle-resistant, that it stays crisp, that it's lightweight but warm enough to ward off a cool wind or a sudden drop in the temperature.

From Ben Gaynes (left) comes a suit in this highly adaptable fabric. In tiny checks and the color gray, it has a neat fitted jacket with arched hipline. Skirt goes wide and full, has six gores.

Another suit from this house (right) shows the skirt with the straight line. Done in a frost point, it has a double-breasted jacket with interesting curved and slashed pockets.

Ruth Millett

You're a wonderful cook and having 15 or 20 guests to a buffet supper is fun instead of a headache. Yet every time Clara comes out in a new frock she whipped up herself or Barbara starts talking about her job you begin to feel downright stupid.

Well, that's a common fault of housewives. They are much too hard on themselves.

They aren't content to do a few things exceptionally well, most things reasonably well, and to admit that some things just aren't their dish.

They figure they've got to shine at everything. To look as carefully groomed as Mrs. A. To cook as well as Mrs. B. To entertain as effortlessly as Mrs. C. To tame as well - mannered children as Mrs. D. To sew as professionally as Mrs. E — and so on.

And all the while Mrs. A, B, C, D, and E are envying each other's talents. They feel frustrated because in this ability or that they fall short of a friend who excels at it.

That sort of envy and low-rating of self isn't just a waste of good time. It's downright destructive.

So let's cut it out. Let each of us decide where we shine and be content with that bit of excellence. For the other jobs, let's just do them reasonably well. And when it comes to something we can't seem to do even passably, we might as well admit it is clear out of our line.

Men specialize at their jobs. A paperhanger doesn't mind admitting he doesn't know anything about plumbing.

Women can't specialize to that extent, if their career is homemaking. But they can take pride in the things they ARE specialists in instead of frustrating themselves by the feeling that they ought to be able to win a specialist's rating on any number of jobs.

Sulphur Shortage To Become Acute

NEW YORK — (AP) — The world sulphur shortage will become more acute in 1952, Langbourne M. Williams, Jr., president of Freeport Sulphur Co., warned today in a year-end statement.

Noting that supplies were tight during 1951 despite record production of 6,200,000 long tons by the American brimstone industry, Williams said the shortage will become increasingly pronounced in 1952 because of acceleration of the rearmament program.

Any increase in the overall supply is "less than a year away," he said.

"COFFIN" CRUST

The crust of a pie was called "the coffin" in early English cook books. Mince pies, long associated with Christmas, once were baked in coffin, or oblong, shapes to represent Christ's manger.

And I said to the man at the gate of the year: "Give me light that I may tread safely into the unknown." And he replied, "Go out into the darkness, and put your hand in to the hand of God, that shall be better than light, and safer than a known way."

NEW YEAR'S EVE
a time for worship
MONDAY 11:15 P.M.

The Fourth Annual New Year's Eve Service of Worship and Holy Communion will begin with the organ prelude at 11:15 p.m. Monday in the church sanctuary.

Every member of the First Christian Church and all friends of the church are urged to be present and begin 1952 by offering prayers for peace and deliverance to Jesus Christ the Prince of Peace.

Greet the New Year in with worship and solemn dedication.

Higher Farm Supports A Big Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The question of whether the government should support farm prices at higher than present levels promises to be a big issue in the coming session of Congress.

Demands for higher support prices will be made by several farm leaders in Congress. Chairman Ellender (D-La.) of the Senate Agriculture committee already has announced he will sponsor legislation to this effect.

Most non-perishable products are supported at maxium allowed by law. The maximum is 90 percent of parity. Parity is a standard for measuring farm prices declared by law to be equally fair to farmers and those who buy the products.

Those who will press for higher supports contend that if the farmer is not guaranteed higher returns, farm production will fall short of needs. They cite increased farm production costs and the failure of some crops to meet government goals this year.

They cite in particular a sharply declining farm labor force, arguing farmers cannot pay wages to compete with factories unless they are assured better prices.

Two major farm groups, the American Farm Bureau federation and the National Grange, will fight higher supports. They contend market prices themselves will offer enough incentive if the government does not interfere with price ceilings.

The National Farmers Union, on the other hand, favors higher price guarantees.

Administration officials have remained mum on the question.

Those who oppose higher supports argue that once supports are raised it is difficult to get them down again.

It is true production of cotton and livestock feed grains, particularly corn, fell short of production goals this year. But it was unfavorable weather that caused the deficit.

Farmers planted enough to have produced big enough crops had the weather been better.

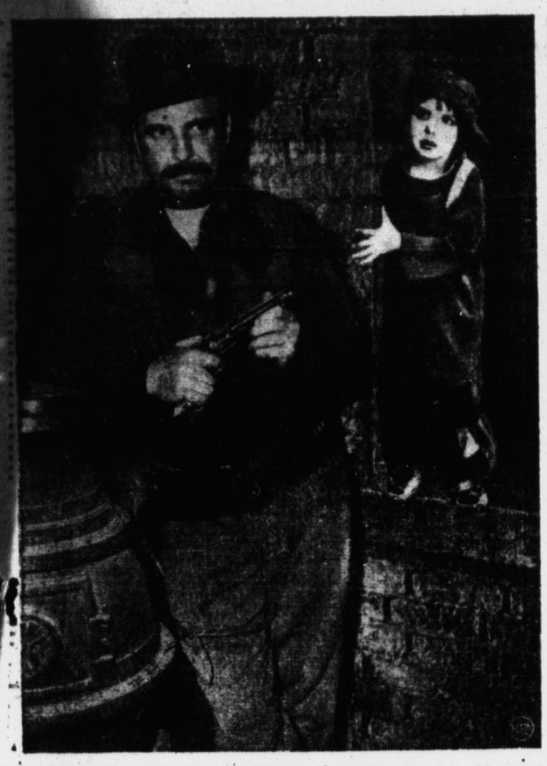

OUT OUR WAY — By J. R. WILLIAMS

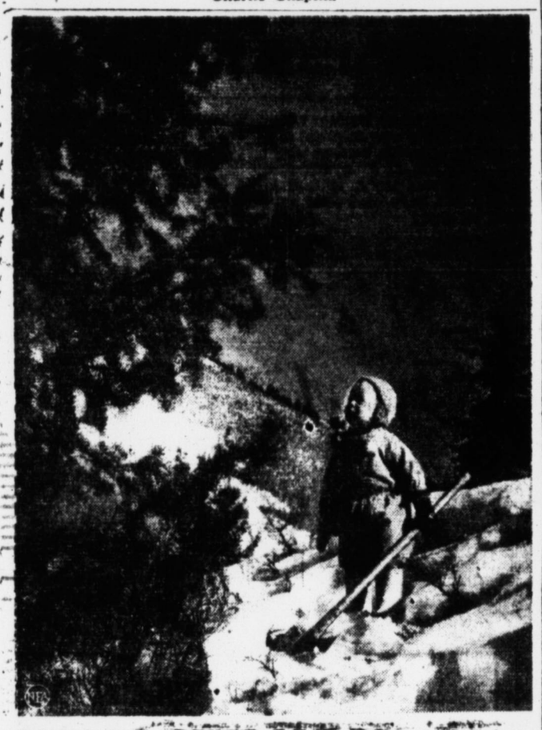

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — with MAJOR HOOPLE

"THE KID" GROWS UP—There's a span of more than 30 years between the movie "hard guy" above and the ragamuffin peeping around the window ledge. But, they're one and the same—Jackie Coogan, now a 37-year-old Hollywood character actor. Thirty years ago he was "The Kid," a wide-eyed moppet who became famous at the age of four as a "straight-man" to the great comic, Charlie Chaplin.

FIR ENOUGH—"That one ought to be about right," says young Bill, son of a staff member at the Sun Valley, Ida., resort, as he eyes a towering evergreen. Bill's axe is big enough to bring it down, but the question is: can he get it home for Christmas?

PROBES G.I. LOANS — Rep. Olin Teague (D., Tex.), above, heads a House committee looking into alleged irregularities in G.I. housing loans in the San Diego, Calif., area. Some 40 Veterans Administration officials, contractors and officers of lending and mortgage concerns have been subpenaed to appear at the hearings in San Diego.

DEMS' MONEY MAN—Former Gov. Roy Turner of Oklahoma, above, has been named treasurer of the Democratic National Committee by Chairman Frank E. McKinney. Turner, an Oklahoma oil and cattle producer, will fill the vacancy created by resignation of Sidney Salomon, Jr., of St. Louis.

BASEBALL CZAR—Ford Frick, former newspaperman and National League president, was named Sept. 20 as commissioner of baseball to succeed A. B. "Happy" Chandler.

BUSINESS REVIEW AND FORECAST

Wishing Each Of You A Happy New Year

Mead's Giant Vans Make Possible Your Getting Fresh Bread Each Day

Knotty pine effects an interesting correlation of a traditional wood and contemporary design. Handsomely designed, the grouping renders an air of warm informality, and is a happy balance between old and new. Note that pieces are raised from the floor to permit easier house cleaning. (Menasha of Rockford.)

The housewife buying her groceries never stops to think of the behind-the-scenes services which makes it possible for her to get a fresh, pure loaf of Mead's Fine bread.

Out of the spotless Mead's Fine bread plant in Amarillo there moves a steady stream of giant vans and delivery trucks which carry bread to store counters, . . . and into homes. . . throughout the Panhandle and surrounding areas.

It is a successful battle against time which the Mead's Fine bread folk wage in order to assure the housewife and her family of healthful, delicious bread that is soft and tasteful.

Mead's Fine bread is delivered to grocery counters throughout those towns, the cities, villages and communities in between and to othe. points.

New York City's police department, which has three helicopters, has used them to save many lives in the harbor and nearby waters during the past three years.

Jonas Warns Of Neglect To Clothing During Winter

Oliver Jonas, popular owner of the Service Cleaners, 312 South Cuyler, has never been known to hold anything back when it comes to giving the best of service to his customers. As a result he has one of the finest cleaning businesses in Pampa.

Jonas, long in the cleaning busines, wants it to be known here in Pampa that winter weather of the snow, rain, sleet and ice variety is not exactly the kindest thing that can happen to high quality wearing apparel. What he meant was that it is high time you got those quality duds into the cleaners to get them rejuvenated in a hurry. When the sloppy streets (and they might be that way anytime) keep rearing up to toss another dram or two of slush and grime into your clothes it doesn't pay to push your luck too far. A word to the wise, you know. Let Service Cleaners do the rest.

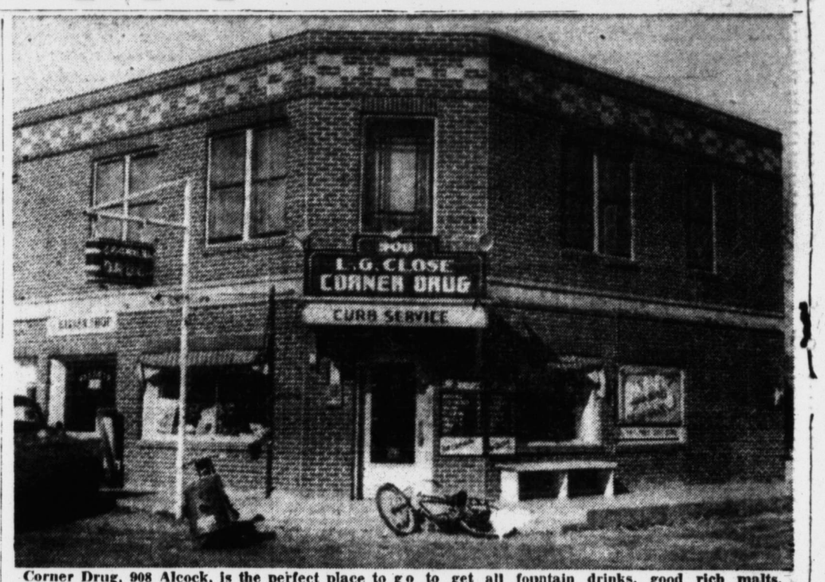

Jonas would like for you to take into consideration a few facts taken from a bulletin of June, 1949, published by the Better Business bureau.

Don't just send any kind of soiled garment to your cleaner without explanation and expect him to pop it back to you in a crisp bag, fresh and good as new. He didn't make the laws of chemistry.

Using research findings of his trade, he fights a running battle with all the new fabrics and plastic. He can't always win. He inspects before cleaning for spots, stains, prior damage, faulty weaving, tricky buttons or trimmings that won't stand chemicals or heat. But help him out. After all, it's your clothing.

Tell him about stains on your garments, food, liquids and the like. Some stains don't show up until heat hits them. Then it's too late. Certain liquids will react on rayon under heat and cause the material to disintegrate. Always get the garment to your cleaner at once after spillage.

Give your cleaner a fair chance. It hurts him when he returns a garment in an unsatisfactory condition. He wants your continued patronage. And again . . . after all, it's your clothing. Stop in at Service Cleaners, 312 South Cuyler, as soon as your clothing becomes soiled or call 1290 for prompt pickup and delivery service.

Corner Drug, 908 Alcock, is the perfect place to go to get all fountain drinks, good rich malts, sandwiches and sundaes. Come in whenever you are near or drive up for quick, efficient curb service. At Corner Drug you will find a complete line of drugs and will receive K-K Trading Stamps with all purchases.

If you are a record fan you won't want to miss the big record sale now going on at Corner Drug. Regular records are three for 89 cents; 45's are fifty cents each. Come out soon. We are open 9:30 a.m. till 12 midnight week days.

Freedom Of Thought, Speech Necessary For Public Liberty . . . Benjamin Franklin

"Without freedom of thought, there can be no such thing as wisdom; and no such thing as public liberty without freedom of speech; which is the right of every man as far as by it he does not hurt or control the right of another; and this is the only check it ought to suffer and the only bounds it ought to know. . . Whoever would overthrow the liberty of a nation must begin by subduing the freedom of speech; a thing terrible to traitors." — Benjamin Franklin

Suppose your newspapers were TVA-ized? If they were, no self-respecting newspaper, nor editor, could long survive. Freedom of the press, freedom of speech, freedom of enterprise would soon perish in, and vanish from America.

HERE'S WHY: If newspapers were operated by the Government, in a large section of the United States as is the Tennessee Valley Authority (in the electrical field) the taxpayers would have to put up the money for the equipment; taxes would be only about one-fourth those paid by individually owned newspapers; federal agencies would set as subscription and advertising solicitors without cost to the government-owned newspapers; their employes would be permitted to live in houses built with taxpayers money, with rents so low that interest on the investment would not even be included in the rent; subscription and advertising rates would be cut so low that privately owned newspapers could not compete.

Start The New Year Right, Give To The Mile O' Dimes

Can you spare a dime? Won't you start the New Year right by making a generous contribution to the "Miles of Dimes" fund for the benefit of sufferers of infantile paralysis? The campaign begins soon so start planning now to contribute your share.

Just as wars are never over for our disabled veterans so, too, will scientists never relax until they have completed the search for a welcome cure to the dread polio. Your dimes and dollars pay for this research, for the training of nurses in the treatment of infantile victims, and for giving all possible care to the afflicted here at home.

Happiness can only come to all of us in 1952, if out of the tragedies of the past years, we have learned tolerance, understanding, charity, and sincere sympathy for the poor unfortunates of the world.

So let each of us resolve to gather up those extra dimes which mean so little in these times and turn them over to the workers in this campaign, in the hope that each dollar contributed will bring that day nearer when one more of the world's fearful — infantile paralysis — will be completely conquered.

Because this disease visits the homes of the young and the old, rich and poor, of all races and religious persuasions, Democrats and Republicans, let no one of us in Gray County fail to do his part.

You will spare a dime — or a dollar won't you?

Join your friends in this community, and groups all over the nation in helping in the fight against Infantile Paralysis. Join the March of Dimes and contribute all you are able to this worthy cause. Whatever amount you contribute will help in the fight against this dread epidemic. One-half of this money will be used locally to help Infantile Paralysis victims in Gray county. The other half will go to the National Foundation for Medical Research, and developing methods and treatments of the disease.

A discarded brace — an empty wheel chair — a happy child at play. These are things that will be your reward for contributing to this great humanitarian project.

School desks that cannot be chipped, worn or initialed, have an upper face of tough durable material surfaced with melamine resin. Marks from ink, pencils, modeling clay, and other classroom supplies can be wiped off with a damp cloth.

Unlike paint, which hardens when exposed to air, a new material announced by scientists hardens when away from air. It is a material to stop invisible leaks, to lock a nut on a bolt, or to bond other material together.

Scientists can boil liquid helium by "heating" it with liquid air, at a temperature of 340 degrees below zero. It works because liquid helium is more than 100 degrees colder than liquid air.

Newspaper Welcome Guest In Home; Advertisements Read At Leisure Sell

It has been said that the best time to approach a man to win him over is right after a good meal. This is the theory of the housewife with regard to the most favorable time to approach the nominal head of the house with any proposition in which she wishes to interest him.

Undoubtedly it would also be the best time for any salesman to come into his presence, were it not for the fact that this is quite the wrong time to get a hearing.

With breakfast comes the newspaper. After breakfast, a good cigar and the motor car to work. After dinner, the evening is usually spent tinkering about the grounds or in the garage, after which the "nominal head" gets into robe and slippers and usually grabs the faithful old pipe and again the newspaper. To these, the man grants a willing audience.

One of the foregoing is available for capturing his attention . . . the newspaper. This "salesman" is not merely received, but welcomed. The fact that a message is sent through the medium of this highly esteemed guest enhances its power because it arrives and is read at a time when the reaer is at leisure. It is perused unhurriedly and with the utmost of care.

Because all of the advertisements in the newspaper are placed in close proximity to the day's news events, there is sometimes consciously and other times unconsciously, a keen desire to also read the "business news" of the community.

Everything is in the advertiser's favor, . . .the time at which the newspaper is received, either morning or evening . . . the place in which the advertisement appears, and the mood in which it finds its customer.

Newspaper advertising is an investment which will return more dollars for the amount paid out than any piece of merchandise in a given store. But, the advertising must be well groomed, consistently used and featuring rightly priced merchandise which is wanted or needed, and of a seasonal character.

GABLE IN NEW OUTDOOR ROLE

"Across The Wide Missouri," spectular outdoor Technicolor drama, brings Clark Gable to the LaVista screen next Friday for a six day engagement. Once more he is in a virile, fighting type of role which made him the screen's biggest boxoffice champ. He plays a fur trapper of the early West whose determination to blaze a trail through the wilderness faces him against Indian battle and a series of thrilling adventures. Shown above with Mr. Gable is Maria Elena Marques, a new screen find.

New Year's Means New Resolutions!

I came across a New Year Resolution written over 1500 years ago. It is so complete and yet so simple, that in it one can find the answers to all the ills of the world — and for himself, peace of mind.

Thinking of what a beautiful world this would be if each and every one of us followed this resolution, I will take this opportunity to pass it on to you.

"Lord, make me an instrument of thy peace;
Where there is hatred, let me show love;
Where there in injury — pardon;
Where there is doubt – faith;
Where there is despair – hope;
Where there is darkness – light;
And where there is sadness – joy;

"OH, DIVINE MASTER,

Grant that I may not so much
Seek to be consoled as to console,
To be understood as to understand,
To be loved – as to love.
For it is in giving –that we receive
It is in pardoning – that we are pardoned
It is in dying – that we are born
To Eternal Life."

HAPPY NEW YEAR
