

For Nikita & Party Celluloid City Rolls Out 'Red' Carpet...

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev came today and taunted his hosts that they were afraid to take him to Disneyland lest his personal safety be endangered.

The Communist and his wife got a star-studded turnout from the very elite of Hollywood actors and actresses and industry executives on his arrival here from New York after spanning the continent in five and one-half hours.

Some stars stood on table tops just to get a look at the man from the Kremlin. It was a sight scarcely to be believed.

Frank Sinatra escorted the beaming and blushing Mrs. Khrushchev to a table and took a seat at her left while David Niven and Bob Hope chatted from the other side of the table. Marilyn Monroe held a minor court of her own a few tables away.

Generous Applause
The audience gave Khrushchev generous applause and laughter

until he suddenly lashed out in a biting and critical attack on what he said was the American security decision that it was not safe to take him to the big tourist mecca built by Walt Disney.

"Just imagine, I — a prime minister, a Soviet leader — I was given a program of what I was to be shown and who I would meet here. But just now I was told I could not go to Disneyland."

"I asked 'why not?' What do you have there — rocket launch pads? I don't know. Is there an epidemic of cholera. Or have gangsters taken hold there who will destroy me?"

"Your police are so tough they can lift a bull by the horns. Surely they can protect me. I very much would like to go and see Disneyland. But then, we cannot guarantee your security, they said. What must I do, commit suicide?"

"For me, such a situation is inconceivable. I cannot find words to explain this to my people. Come to our country. I will personally accompany anyone anywhere there."

Police Decision
Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. ambassador to the United Nations and Khrushchev's escort on the tour, said the decision to cut out the Disneyland trip had been made by the Los Angeles police.

"Why should you risk the life of a great man?" Lodge said. "It just makes no sense if the local police chief says it is dangerous."

Marilyn Monroe, in a form-fitting dress, got there early for a change. Eddie Fisher and Liz Taylor, whose marriage is still not legal in California, were not far behind her.

Gathered at the luncheon in the commissary, called the "Cafe de Paris," were the top stars of movieland — Jack Benny, Gary Cooper, Kim Novak, Gregory Peck, Kirk Douglas, Eddie Fisher, Deborah Kerr, David Niven, Powell, Ginger Rogers, Dina Shore, Dean Martin, James Mason and dozens of others.

Khrushchev, his wife and family landed at the Los Angeles Airport at 12:10 p.m. pdt (2:10 p.m. est).

Police Handclapping
Once again, as he had in Washington and New York, Khrushchev was greeted with mild and polite handclapping and an immense security guard.

The roly-poly five-foot-er, dressed in a light grey suit and wearing the Order of Lenin, headed straight for the 20th Century Fox movie lot where a who's who of the entertainment world awaited him.

Frank Sinatra was set to sing the Premier and his wife a song from the movie, "Can Can," now

FREE WORLD IS SKEPTICAL

By SAM FOGG
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A skeptical free world made careful study Saturday of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for "total disarmament." There were no immediate takers.

President Eisenhower, at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm, decided to withhold comment until later. He was studying an outline of the plan, presented to the United Nations Friday.

The Gettysburg White House reported that for the time being Eisenhower was willing to let the American position remain as stated Friday by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Herter said the plan seemed essentially the same as one the Russians put forth several years ago, and that it would "require very careful examination."

"Other than the statement Secretary of State Herter made in New York, there will be no additional statement by the United States at this time," press secretary James C. Hagerty reported.

Herter's statement
Hagerty also pointed out Herter's statement that although the United States had made repeated proposals for arms control, each had "gone on the rocks" because of Soviet opposition.

Khrushchev proposed that every nation in the world disarm over a period of four years, each maintaining only a small police force to control internal affairs. Eisenhower has said he would willingly consider any plan provided it contained iron-clad enforcement controls.

Herter said the United States "will go as far on the path toward controlled disarmament as any other country."

Then he added: "I stress the word 'controlled' because up to now the previous proposals have foundered on the Soviet government's refusal to agree on effective control."

Former President Harry Truman said in New York that he saw merit in the Khrushchev plan inasmuch as "any attempt to stop the cold war has merit."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), chairman of a Senate disarmament subcommittee who met with Khrushchev for eight hours in Moscow earlier this year, said he would discuss the plan "at length" in a speech here Monday.

Diplomatic and congressional sources viewed the Khrushchev presentation as a grandstand propaganda play that sounded dandy on the surface.

Predict Hitches
In their opinion, hitches will develop when the West seeks to have the Russians agree to control.

Sikkim Border Patrolled By Red Chinese

By A. K. DAS
United Press International

GANGTOK, Sikkim (UPI) — Strong forces of Chinese Communist troops are patrolling the Sikkim border and have made contact with Indian troops protecting the tiny Himalayan state, reliable sources said Saturday. At least one gunfight was reported.

Press estimates in New Delhi said as many as 5,000 Red troops were massed along the border of the state which is defended by India under treaty.

Officials in Gangtok, capital of Sikkim, refused to confirm or deny reports that on one occasion Chinese troops from Tibet penetrated Sikkim and were beaten back by Sikkimese guards.

Reported Incursion
Shortly after the reported incursion on Sikkim's northern border, reinforcements of Indian troops arrived along the newly-built Indian-Sikkimese road to bolster and expand the border garrisons.

Last Thursday it was reported that Chinese Red troops on the border halted Indian patrols and tried to fraternize with them. There was no shooting.

Sources said the Reds tried to pry from the Indians information about Indian manpower, defenses and supplies.

Local observers said they believed that the Communists merely were feeling out the border positions and probably would make any full-scale assault from the north.

Sikkimese Dewan (Prime Minister) B. Prasad was to leave Gangtok Sunday for a 10-day inspection tour of the northern frontier.

Lamas Arriving
Phalpas of the Tibetan-lamas (priests) arriving in Gangtok from Tibet confirmed reports that much of their homeland still was up in arms against the Chinese Communist rulers.

A brave young lad, Randy Guthrie, 3, fastened a pair of large, brown eyes on Nurse Yvonne Ollinger while taking his polio shot Saturday at Highland Hospital. Holding the lad's hand is his mother, Mrs. H. B. Guthrie, 615 S. Finley.

Randy was one of 220 youngsters and parents who were given shots of Salk vaccine at Saturday's clinic. Well over 100 were turned away when 25 vials of vaccine were depleted.

Highland Has Polio Shot Rush

Highland General Hospital reported an overwhelming response to the county's free polio shot clinic Saturday morning.

Dr. Joe Gates said 230 shots were given before a supply of 25 vials of Salk vaccine was depleted. An estimated 120 youngsters and parents were turned away.

Dr. Gates said a requisition of serum failed to reach the hospital in time for Saturday's clinic, and it became necessary to use serum from Gates' office supply and to make an emergency run to Richards Drug in downtown Pampa for eight more vials.

The county's free clinic is held each Saturday morning at Highland Hospital from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m.

It was emphasized that a second shot of polio vaccine should be given from two weeks to one month after the first shot. The final dose is administered seven months after the second shot.

A 19-year-old youth from rural Groom, Jerry Calvin McCracken, was killed Friday night when his car plunged off Highway 70 into a deep ravine seven miles south of Pampa. McCracken's body and his demolished 1958 Chevrolet were found Saturday morning at 7:30 by a Pampa youngster passing the scene on a motor scooter.

No one witnessed the violent accident which took the life of McCracken, the son of County Commissioner J. M. McCracken.

Highway patrolmen Travis Underwood and Sgt. E. G. Albera estimated that the accident occurred about 8 p.m. Friday, the time a trucker said he passed the scene and saw fresh skid marks near the bridge spanning the N. Fork of the Red River.

The trucker, Jess Wright of Pampa, told officers of seeing the marks when he passed the scene again this morning while workers were bringing the demolished site out of the ravine.

Patrolmen said, as far as they can determine, McCracken was headed south from Pampa when he missed a curve at the crest of a hill near the Red River bridge.

His car ran over the right side of the road onto a shoulder, came back on the pavement and went into a roadside ditch. The car slid into the left bar ditch side ways, skidded off an embankment and plunged 40 feet into the ravine on its top.

The last persons to see McCracken alive said the Groom youth was at Caldwell's Drive-In, 220 N. Hobart, about 7:30 Friday night.

McCracken's body was taken to Pampa by the Dunkel-Carmichael ambulance. The car, brought back to the highway by the Groom wrecker and a county winch truck, was taken to Groom.

McCracken, born in Pampa May 4, 1940, attended grade school at Grandview and high school in Pampa. He worked as a farmer and lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCracken, in a home 17 miles southwest of Pampa.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Pampa. Rev. Douglas Carver will officiate.

Jerry McCracken is survived by his parents, one brother, James, and two sisters, Mrs. Carl C. Morgan and Mrs. Loren V. Miller, both of Tulsa, Okla.

BURGLAR IS SENTENCED

Joe Hartwell, who burglarized the Sier Inn a month ago, was sentenced to two years in the state penitentiary Friday by District Judge Lewis Goodrich. Hartwell, indicted two weeks ago, waived a jury trial.

Also sentenced Friday was Jack Edwards of Pampa who was placed on 18 years probation for sodomy.

An organizational meeting for the Gray County Farm Bureau will be held in the County Agriculture Building of the Courthouse Annex at 8 p.m. Monday. The meeting has been called by W. B. Jackson, president of the 32-member Gray County Farm Bureau, and W. C. Eperson, membership committee chairman.

Marvin Webster and J. D. Skaggs of the membership committee have sliced Gray county into seven areas, with these men appointed area chairmen: Paul Bowers, Grandview School to Alameda; Ralph McLaughlin, Laketon; Melton Carpenter, Laketon; Homer Abbott, McLean and Alameda; and J. R. Moore, northwest area.

Webster is community chairman of the southern area to the Grandview School and Skaggs will serve as chairman of the northeast area to the old Pampa Air Force base.

Safety Week Is On Tap

Driver education classes in city schools will begin their annual observance of Texas School Traffic Safety Week on Monday, driving instructor Terry Culley reported Saturday.

Each day this week emphasis will be placed on a separate phase of traffic safety, beginning Monday with "The Pedestrian."

Culley said that students in his 2nd-period class will concentrate their campaign in the high school, while his 5th hour class campaigns through the city's elementary and junior high schools.

Activities will include the display of a wrecked car in downtown Pampa, the distribution of pennants, announcements over school public address systems and at least two radio broadcasts.

A number of students will also begin passing out some 500 bumper stickers Monday which bear the words, "Alert today, alive tomorrow."

The first radio broadcast will be heard Monday at 9:30 a.m. when Tony Cable and John Arthur appear on KPDA's Staff Breakfast.

On Wednesday morning at 8:30 Cable and Arthur take to the air again on KHHT's morning show.

The safety program ends next Sunday, but not until after the city's school students have heard a series of traffic safety talks by Sgt. E. G. Albera of the Highway Patrol, Police Chief Jim Conner, Drivers License Inspector John Cowan and an unnamed local insurance man.

Albera, Conner and Cowan will be guests of the schools during class assemblies Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Reception For Teachers Set

An annual reception honoring Pampa Public School teachers will be held at Robert E. Lee Junior High School Monday evening, according to Winford Veale, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce public relations committee.

The Chamber will join with the Classroom Teachers Association and the City Council of PTA in sponsoring this event, beginning promptly at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Two hundred and 75 public school teachers with their wives and husbands plus business and professional people and members of PTA organizations will be in attendance.

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria followed by "get acquainted" games, and an informal program in the auditorium.

Official greetings will be brought by Chamber President Warren Hasse, Miss Martha Montgomery, president of the Classroom Teachers Association, will give the response.

Aubrey Steele, School Board president, and Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, will also appear on the program.

9 Pampa Youths At Altus 'Home'

By WALLACE TRUEDELL
Daily News Staff Writer

Nine Pampa children are residents of the Victory Children's Home, a church-affiliated institution near Altus, Okla. These young Pampans like the ten other children in the home come from broken homes and other situations involving the loss of one or both parents.

J. R. Kenmore, who has been superintendent of the home since its founding in 1957, was in Pampa Friday with three of the children, one of whom was returning for an eye operation.

The superintendent said that every effort is made to create a family atmosphere. Meals are served family style in a dining room. Girls rotate cooking and washing jobs.

The boys have chores on the home's farm, milking the two cows or building a henhouse.

For recreation there is an indoor gymnasium as well as outdoor sports.

On Sundays all children go to church in Altus. They attend school in Duke.

The home is located six miles west and one-half mile north of Altus on Highway 62. Formerly a consolidated school, the building is located on a 35 acre tract, five of which are owned by the home. The other 30 acres are leased.

The purchase of this stone building was made by the Missionary Baptist Association of Oklahoma, part of the North America Baptist Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenmore were elected in Sept., 1957 to head the home as superintendent and matron. Mrs. Kenmore died in a car accident recently. There are three full-time and two part-time workers.

The first child, a 14 month old girl, was accepted in Feb., 1958. Since that time 22 boys and girls have been accepted. Five of them have since left the home. Of the remaining 19, nine are from Pampa.

The children at the home range in age from two to 18 years. The usual agreement is that they will stay until they are 18. All needy children, regardless of their religious affiliation, are eligible. They are usually referred through local welfare departments; they are placed in the home by people who care about them and are not for adoption.

"We feel that it is much more important to build homes of this sort to encourage and train children than it is to pay for the establishment of more penitentiaries and homes of correction," Kenmore said.

The home is financed by free-will offerings from churches and contributions from individuals who are interested in the needs of boys and girls. When the necessary funds have been raised, the building will be expanded to house approximately 100 children.

"We are proud of all the children who are part of this home," Kenmore declared. "The desire of each worker is to train them in such a manner that they will be good citizens if they come back to your community after leaving our home," he explained.

Kenmore expects to accomplish the aims of the home through the help of others and through the prayers of those who care.

Any inquiries may be addressed to Kenmore at the Victory Children's Home, Route 2, Olustee, Okla.

Nixon, Nick Continuing Verbal War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Vice President Richard M. Nixon are continuing in this country the verbal battle of words they started in the famous Moscow "Kitchen" debate.

Khrushchev said Wednesday he would "swear on the Bible" that Nixon was wrong when the vice president stated in New York that Russia's successful moon hit was preceded by three failures.

The Soviet leader challenged Nixon to take a similar oath on a Bible if the vice president thought his account of the failures was correct.

Nixon had no comment on Khrushchev's challenge. Reporters questioned him when he left the Russian premier's dinner for President Eisenhower at the Soviet embassy Wednesday night. Asked if he stuck by his statement of the failures, Nixon grinned broadly, shook his head, and replied, "no comment."

Khrushchev, apparently still smarting from Nixon's barbed remarks during their spirited debate in the kitchen of the model home at the U.S. exhibit in Moscow, also said the vice president had "a very wrong conception" of the Russian people "and myself."

The Soviet premier told reporters at a reception before his speech at the National Press Club Wednesday that Nixon had his misconceptions about Russia and its people both before and after his recent trip to the Soviet Union.

McLean Campaign Raises $44,000

McLEAN (Sp) — A public subscription campaign aimed at furnishing loan funds for an expected expansion of the Marie Foundation garment factory here has netted almost $44,000 to date, according to City Manager Dan Mize.

In a committee meeting Friday afternoon, campaign leaders totaled the above amount in pledges for the no-interest expansion loan. The money will be available to factory owner Cal Fraser whenever he expands the plant here.

Mize estimated that when scattered pledges are rounded up the total will be around $45,000.

The campaign has been pushed by the City of McLean and came as an outgrowth of a community meeting more than a month ago. Purpose of the campaign is twofold: to supply ready cash for the expansion, and to assure Fraser of the community's wholehearted support of the factory.

A total of 200 citizens of the McLean community have signed pledges for various amounts.

The brassiere manufacturing concern began operation here about two and a half years ago and currently employs about 140 women from McLean, Shamrock, Wheeler, Wallington and Erick, Okla. When the expansion is made it is anticipated that about 200 women will be employed here.

The City of McLean, in order to meet the need for labor, has arranged for two buses transporting women here from Shamrock and Erick. Other arrangements will be made when the expansion comes, according to Mayor John Haynes.

Factory manager is Tom Greenwood. Fraser lives in Gardena, Calif.

The reverend is married and has one child. His wife will join him here in about a month.

Rev. McCormick will fill the vacancy left by Rev. Gerald Hill who moved to the Farmington, N.M., Presbyterian Church earlier this summer.

Soil Bank Rules Eased

SOIL BANK REGULATIONS EASED

With the deadline nearing for farmers who are interested in the 1960 Conservation Reserve, the Gray County ASC announces two changes in Soil Bank regulations that should make more farmers eligible to participate.

One change affects situations where a tenant leaves the farm voluntarily and the owner takes over the operation. The other covers situations where land has been lost for public use under eminent domain.

Under the program as originally announced for 1960, a farm which was operated wholly or partially by a tenant or sharecropper in 1958 or 1959 could not be placed in the conservation reserve next year unless a tenant or sharecropper was designated to share in the annual rental payment.

The purpose of this provision was to protect tenants against being forced off Soil Bank farms. The new provisions permits a contract with a land owner where a tenant leaves the farm voluntarily, and the owner finds it necessary to take over the operation.

In such a case, a conservation reserve contract for non-tenant operation may be entered into for 1960 provided it can be established definitely that the tenant left the farm of his own accord.

This may be proved either through a statement signed by the tenant or sharecropper, or if he is not available, through statements signed by three disinterested persons who know the situation.

The other newly announced change provides an exception to the general rule that land purchased since December 31, 1956 is not eligible for the conservation reserve. Under the new rule, a farmer who has lost land through eminent domain since 1956 and has bought replacement land can place this new land in the 1960 conserva-

VARIATIONS ON A LIGHT THEME

To realize how far we've traveled on the path of effective home lighting, we have only to compare our present incandescent and fluorescent lighting devices with those of the gas-light era with its flickering Welshbach mantels. Today we plan our home lighting with the utmost care-taking into consideration the double aspect of comfort and decoration.

Lighting comfort demands ample light without glare or shadow. The light plan for every comfortably lighted room is composed of direct illumination which focuses the light for specific activities such as reading or needlework, and indirect illumination which sends the light upward to be reflected from the ceiling.

A room with dark walls and wood surfaces requires up to four times the quantity of light as would be needed in a room with light walls and wood finishes. Lamps play an important deconative as well as lighting role in the living room sketched above. Note how the lamps have been arranged to direct light from the white draperies as well as from the ceiling, and make the window the focal point of the room.

Consider the advantage of companioning your lamps with commodities that provide extra storage space and double as lamp tables. We offer you several sizes and styles that are appropriate for this purpose. Beautifully crafted pieces that you'll enjoy living with.

Kiwanis, Key Club Hears Melvin Munn

Pampa's Downtown Noon Kiwanis Club paid special tribute to the Pampa High Key Club at their regular weekly luncheon Friday in Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church here.

Key Club vice president Philip Gist presided over the meeting in the absence of president, Butch Dunham. Gist introduced the main speaker for the day, Melvin Munn, a Kiwanian and active Key Club advisor.

Munn spoke to the youth of today in the United States, pointing out: "We spend three times as much money on narcotics as we do on education in America. It is no wonder we hear so much about juvenile delinquency and that over two billion dollars worth of property are destroyed each year by vandalism."

Munn also said, "the youth of today have more freedom and know less what to do with it than ever before." The speaker cited a case of a 20-pound and 6-foot tall form athlete in Dallas who said when his son was arrested for setting fire to a school, "I just can't do nothing with the boy." His son weighs 110 pounds and was 2 years old.

Munn also pointed out that adults in the United States must begin to take more responsibility for their children and to stop setting such bad examples, such as lying and stealing in business and at home.

"You don't fool these kids any more. You might have 20 or 30 years ago, but no more. They're plenty sharp now. Munn continued, "All all boils down to this, the teenagers of today want three main things:

1) They want to be recognized as an individual. They want to be treated as a human being, just like you and I, with their own little and

2) They would like and appreciate adult help and guidance. We must guard, however, not to spoil them anymore than we already have. Let's remember, they are children of a war and we are children of a depression.

3) They want their good deeds to be noticed and favored by adults. We get too much "mouth help" from adults today dealing with our youth and not enough actual work.

The present membership of the Pampa High Key Club is 38, but some 15-20 new members are expected to be added to the club in the near future.

Other officers, besides Dunham and Gist, include: Ricky Schmidt, secretary; Don Curry, treasurer; Jim Scott, senior director; Bill Nesage, junior director; and Ancel Joyner is the faculty advisor.

being filmed on the lot. The "Cafe de Paris" was decorated with red roses, pink stock and red and pink carnations. The head table had American and Soviet flags at either end. The waitresses were dressed in pink and blue gingham.

Correspondents who had covered the entire Khrushchev visit so far said his airport reception was the coolest and briefest he had received so far. His plane halted clear across the field from the regular terminal where Mayor Norris Paulson and other city officials greeted him.

10-Mile Route

His 10-mile route from the airport to the movie lot was not announced in advance so there were no great crowds as there had been in the capital and New York. He rode in a closed car with Paulson and U.N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, his escort on the tour.

Khrushchev flew in the Boeing 707 jet that President Eisenhower had used on his tour of Europe. The plane flew above 20,000 feet and had cloudy but smooth weather except for a thunderstorm in the area around Kansas City and Des Moines.

The skies were clear over Arizona for the most spectacular sight of the trip—the magnificent Grand Canyon.

Khrushchev and his wife had expressed a desire to see movie stars and never had a wish been so fulfilled.

UPI correspondent Vernon Scott said that in 10 years of covering Hollywood he had never seen so many stars in one place.

The Fishers, Eddie and Liz, were seated five tables away from and out of sight of Debbie Reynolds. It was the first time they had attended a social function together since their marital breakup.

Brief Struggle

There was a brief struggle outside the 20th Century gate when a group tried to plant a stake with derogatory Russian words. It was quickly confiscated by police.

The Khrushchevs were greeted at the 20th Century lot by Buddy Adler, chief of studio production, and his wife, actress Ava Louise. Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, made the introductions.

Khrushchev said that his first sight of Los Angeles reminded him of Baku in Russia—particularly the presence of the oil wells he saw not only driving in but which also were pumping right on the movie lot.

Mrs. Khrushchev seemed as excited as a child at the sight of real live movie stars gathered all in one room. She wore a big grin and laughed with everyone else when her husband, in response to some question, shouted "okay."

The jetliner departed from New York at 6:42 a.m. p.m. (8:42 a.m. est.) while statesmen still were digesting Khrushchev's world disarmament proposal to accept all armies and weapons in the next four years. His proposal Friday before the United Nations was generally received with skepticism in the Western world.

The tightest security program in Los Angeles history was set up by the State Department and Los Angeles police for the Premier's visit. More than 500 policemen were assigned to protect Khrushchev, including a personal bodyguard of 15 officers armed with shotguns and machine guns for his personal protection. A 15-man scientific team, including bomb experts, will test Khrushchev's food and water during his stay in Los Angeles.

Doctors Set Singer's Leg

TORONTO (UPI) — Doctors worked two hours Saturday setting the double-fractured leg of perky French singer Genevieve, star of the travel musical "Can-Can," who was dropped Friday night while she was being carried backstage because her dress was too tight to wait in.

The gem-like star, a top performer on Jack Parr's TV show, was worried that the "break" would result in a permanent limp.

Jack Trefall, an official of the show which was scheduled for a 15-week tour in the United States and Canada, said "Can-Can" would be folded.

"It's all over for us," he said. "We can't go on without Genevieve."

It was Genevieve's first part in a play—something she said has been a goal of her life.

The French born singer was reported to be worrying about the rest of the cast despite the painful break. Lee Poret, her music arranger who was the only person allowed to see her in the hospital, said it was "tragic."

Genevieve was being carried by an unidentified member of the cast because the dress she wore in the last act of the show was too tight for her to walk up a ramp to her dressing room outside the show tent. The east member tripped over a bench and Genevieve fell to the pavement.

Surgery Fails On Australian Boy

HOUSTON (UPI) — Little Alan McKenzie, two-year-old Australian boy who flew 10,000 miles to Houston for heart surgery, died today at Texas Children's Hospital.

Hospital administrator Dr. M. W. Martin listed the cause of death as congestive heart failure. The blue-eyed, blond boy, born with a congenital heart defect, underwent major surgery on Monday. After the three-hour operation, doctors seemed optimistic for his recovery.

Tuesday night, however, he suffered breathing difficulties and was taken to surgery again for an emergency operation to relieve a congested lung. Doctors took a portion of his lung out at that time.

The boy's condition worsened Friday night and he died at 10:45 a.m. Saturday.

The hospital spokesman expressed his deep regret to Alan's mother, Mrs. Frank McKenzie, who accompanied her boy on the trip after fellow Australians raised the money to finance it.

"The doctors and nurses have done all they can," Mrs. McKenzie said. "They worked all night long. I hope they won't feel bad at all. Everybody has been wonderful. I thank you all for everything."

Coronary heart failure, in layman's terms, occurs when the heart functions improperly and blood dams up in the lungs making it impossible to breathe. Alan's defective heart had blood flowing into it from the lungs from the left side instead of the right.

A team of specialists, headed by Dr. Denton Cooley, corrected the defect by transposing the veins and

SC To Install New Officers

Student Council and class officers at Pampa High School will be installed in an assembly program Wednesday, according to Mrs. Ruby Capps, Student Council sponsor.

Officers of the Student Council are Jim Scott, president; Duane "Butch" Dunham, vice president; Karen Capps, secretary; and Mart Cooper, chaplain.

Joe Boudland heads the senior class with Jackie Collins as vice president and Nita Cartwright as secretary. Officers of the junior class are Lucky Dunham, president; Pete Lewis, vice president; and Lyn Strohle, secretary.

Sophomores elected their officers last week from nominations made in homerooms.

Dick Batson, 1958-59 mayor and valedictorian of Robert E. Lee Junior High School, was elected president.

The new vice president is Sue Guthrie, head Rebel cheerleader, and "Best All-Around Girl" of the Lee ninth grade last term.

Gail Culpepper, who served Pampa Junior High as mayor last year, is the sophomores' choice as secretary. She is one of four Harvest twirlers.

Inserting a diaphragm partition. The new circulation of blood in Alan's body caused a strain on his tiny heart, and apparently the heart was unable to keep up. Blood backed up into the lungs, and the boy died.

New Tax Weapon

We recently read of the plight of Mrs. Robert Heinlein, who, in making out her estimated tax return for a three-month period, made (possibly) an horrendous error amounting to one cent. The Internal Revenue was quick to point out this mistake and to demand an adjustment.

The demand, costing a four-cent stamp, secretarial time, stationery, bookkeeping and an alarming total of red-taped procedures, was far more formidable than the possible one-cent delinquency.

Robbie, without a show of anemia, we this dispassionate and Mrs. Lockwood confidently changed them and draped the odorous cast-off on the back of a chair.

Came the noon hour. Mrs. Lockwood opened jars of baby food and arrayed them temptingly on top of a clerk's desk. The children dived in. Strained epics and sweet potatoes were happily splattered over everything in sight including a stack of tax returns. Robbie began to choke in his childish greed, and one of the clerk's suggested that the mother not let him perish.

"Mind your own business," Margaret snapped. "It's my baby, not yours!"

The afternoon stretched on. Rene found a full wastebasket and gleefully upset it. A clerk spoke to her sharply and obligingly she began to scream at the top of her childish treble. Robbie joined in, making it a chorus of shrill sound.

After four and a half hours the Internal Revenue service ran up the white flag, and Mrs. Lockwood hauled down the dapper. They informed her that if she would call at her husband's office the check in question would be waiting for her.

Of course, they didn't give up totally. They will not proceed to collect the sum which is in question over a period of time, in small dribbles. But the action taken by Mrs. Lockwood opens up some delightful possibilities.

So, it might be in order to suggest to Mrs. Heinlein that, since she has no children of appropriate age, some can perhaps be rented for the occasion. A determined foray into the offices of the Internal Revenue people with the expectation of staying there until some reasonable approach to sanity is reached, might result in wonders.

Whether or not Mrs. Heinlein is in position to conduct such a siege, the incident may serve to firm up many a shaky resolve in literally millions of homes. The new war cry may ultimately become: "Have children; will invade IRS for purposes of justice."

The children cooperated beautifully. Exuberant Rene dipped into a box of raisins, scattering at least half of the contents all over the office floor. She and Robbie made (possibly) an horrendous error amounting to one cent. The Internal Revenue was quick to point out this mistake and to demand an adjustment.

Further Explaining Sermon On The Mount

I am continuing to quote from Frederick Nymeyer's essay on the "Hebrew-Christian Law of Love." The last installment ended by Nymeyer saying: "Even though it will prompt the crime, it will not be a legitimate ingredient in the application of the punishment."

Then Nymeyer goes on to explain, under the heading of "The Breakdown of All Law," as follows: "It is one thing to admit the general necessity of equivalence of punishment in proportion to the crime, but that does not justify the proposition that I may use violence against my neighbor because he has already employed violence against me."

If every time a man lies to his neighbor his neighbor may therefore lie to him; if every time a man steals from his neighbor his neighbor may therefore steal from him; if every time a man commits adultery, his wife may therefore commit a compensatory adultery.

It all that is true, then it follows that when one man breaks the law therefore another man may break the law. This says in effect that a man can paralyze or temporarily abrogate the law of God until he (the man) has "gotten even" with whoever has wronged him. In other words, the law of God would be temporarily shelved. All vengeance has that premise in its reasoning. That reasoning is erroneous. The law of God is never legitimately shelved.

"All reasoning which declares or implies that because A broke the law of God therefore B can also do the same thing to A is a violation of the great principle of forbearance. Before we demand punishment identical to the crime we must forbear. We must ask: can the criminal be brought to contrition and restitution by a simpler and easier means than identical equivalence in the punishment, and can the criminal potentially be deterred without recourse to identical equivalent punishment."

"Without forbearance society is continually in the process of becoming chaotic. Any interpretation of the law of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is a wrong interpretation. It leaves out forbearance. That was what had been done in Christ's day: the law of an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth was used as an excuse for, as a justification of, a ruthless demand to have eyes gouged out and teeth knocked out."

"Forebearance can be defined in minimum terms as being loving and temporary forgiveness. Having applied forbearance in that sense, and having obtained a gratifying result, the full definition of forbearance must be broad in the unqualified sense of the term."

"The second and equally important objection to the demand of a wronged man that he be authorized to get an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth is that he may be welcoming the opportunity for revenge. If ill - will prompted the original wrong, that does not justify ill - will in the punishment. If that were legitimate, the law of God would again be abrogated, paralyzed, shelved."

"The obligation of goodwill to the neighbor, the obligation to wish him well for his sake and not to wish him harm, that obligation is timeless, boundless, and universal."

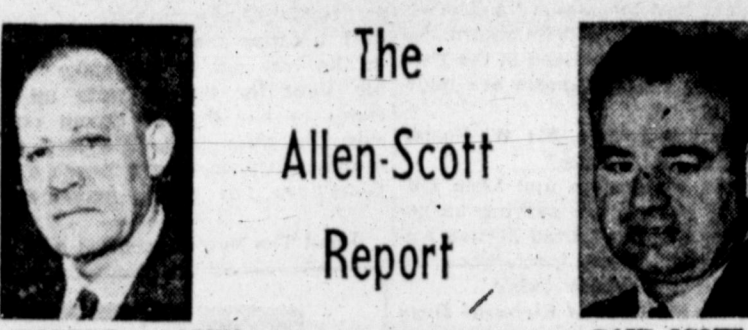

"The obligation of goodwill from man to man is never abrogated. The Amian Doctrine Not To Resist Evil."

"We come now to the doctrine which appears to many as being one of the most astounding and contradictory doctrines in Scripture - the doctrine, not to resist evil (as expressed in the King James version). The exact words in the Revised Version are: 'But I say unto you, Resist not him that is evil; and then follows the advice to turn to a wrongdoer the second cheek, give him your cloak to go with him a second mile.'

"On the face of it, this section of Scripture teaches that the neighbor does have a claim on me. If that is correct, then all that has previously been written in this analysis of brotherly love must collapse as erroneous; not only must we apparently live for our neighbor but you must tolerate violence (sixth commandment), theft (eighth commandment), and carnal lust (sixth commandment), against yourself, by him, and you must encourage him in his evil conduct. Moses, it seems, was all wrong; he forbade harming the neighbor; here the neighbor, according to the New Testament, must be encouraged to trespass the commandments at your expense."

"Merely to state the problem fully in that manner immediately brings urgent; to the fore the necessity of a more - sensible explanation."

Dream Come True

ROBERT S. ALLEN

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott are on vacation. During their absence the president of the American Medical Association unfurled a new and intriguing plan for dealing with the widespread and urgent problem of the steadily rising costs of hospitalization.)

By DR. LOUIS ORR
President, American Medical Association

NEW PLANNING, MATERIALS AUTOMATION CAN CUT HOSPITAL COSTS, IMPROVE CARE

MONTGOMERY, Ala. - It is often charged that we doctors must "do something about" the rising patient cost of hospitalization or help bring socialized medicine upon ourselves. I agree.

Americans are paying eight times as much for hospital care as 20 years ago. However, this increase is due primarily to the increased cost to the hospital for goods, services and labor. Even at this price many hospitals aren't clearing expenses.

Obviously, if we're to take care of all the new people expected in the 1960s, we must explore every possible way to cut cost and yet continue to improve services. But how can we do this when newer life saving "wonder drugs," and scientific operating procedures are adding to the cost all the time?

Dr. Hugh C. MacGuire, a lank, 40-year-old child surgeon, in Montgomery, Ala., may have the answer. At least he is one of many doctors actively working at "doing something about" high hospital bills.

Unhappy about costs at his hospital, MacGuire, three years ago, called together a group of leading Montgomery businessmen and founded a non-profit organization called Atomedics, Inc. Working in their spare time, this handful of practical idealists determined to do nothing less, eventually, than revolutionize the entire U.S. hospital system.

Some of the beliefs that have stirred MacGuire and his group to action - beliefs in which I strongly concur - are these:

1) The general hospital of 1959 is as out-of-date as the general store of 1900, and as comparatively inefficient. It hasn't changed in basic design or methods since horse-and-buggy days.

2) The opening of the atomic and space age has given us the tools with which to change this situation. We can cure what's wrong with hospitals - and medicine in general - if science, industry and medicine (now performing separate wonders in different and isolated places) will "get together."

If the three of them will tackle our medical problems with the same kind of combined, all-out effort with which they would face any other national emergency.

Looking Sideways

By WHITNEY BOLTON
NEW YORK - The man you always think should know most about such things as the ceiling, the floor and the ceiling, he thought about it, and then he turned and said: "You are going to go talk to Wally Cox? I wish you luck." Obviously, that couldn't be the end of it. Why did he wish me luck? Because, he said, it is almost impossible to talk to him. You'll ask a long question or two questions in one and Cox will think for 10 minutes and then say "yes." Or he might say "no." But that would be all. Like pulling teeth.

New York bated and stewed in the midday sun, the stroll being deep and the smother awesome. The taxi wound and wiggled its way far downtown to Sixth Street and Second Avenue, where a rehearsal hall stood. The date was for 1 p.m. sharp, and thanks to traffic it was now 1:30. Cox stood inside the show doorway.

"I'm sorry I'm late," I said. "Traffic."

"You're just in time," he said. "I was late, too. Perfect timing. You want lunch? I have to have some. Somewhere in the neighborhood. What's good?"

He was standing next to one of the best restaurants in New York - Ratner's - but he looked in and saw a crowd and shook his head. I suggested a Ukrainian place around the corner in 7th Street.

"Good," he said. "Side street means one side has to be shady. Law of physics, or something."

We found the shade and got to the place and he ordered a sandwich and a bottle of Lowenbrau beer.

"Means lion," he said. "In German, Lowen is lion. That Leeuwen, which was his name was and however he spelled it, the Dutchman who invented the microphone, his name meant Lion's Claw. I am virtually loaded with this kind of useless information which does not earn me a penny."

"Not to rip your bankbook out of your hand," I said, "but you have this long NBC contract which pays you whether you work or not. Do they suspend their payments while you work in your new play, 'Mour Bids' and earn stage salary?"

"It's not that complex," he said. "My stage salary goes to NBC in fact and they send me my regular TV check as called for by contract. But I'm happy to be doing this play. I go mad in idleness. Don't let anyone tell you a weekly check, work or not work, is the greatest thing invented since velvet."

"This one is a fantasy, I hear?" "Not really. It is fantasy because a young man who is a faculty coordinator in a college can move an inkwell from here to there by thinking about it? Or, later, he discovers he can transform unhappy people into birds? By our standards, yes. By the standards of people who can do it, no. I never met anyone who could but that doesn't mean it can't be done. Teleportation isn't just a fancy word. It exists. Maybe there is a young man who can move objects by thinking about it. I know some buildings in New York I'd love to move. Right out into the deepest part of the ocean."

"Mr. Cox," I said, fixing him with a level eye (that's the left eye, I mean), "I have heard you are hard to talk to, inaccessible. What brought about this ugly reputation?"

"I think because I have a built-in deterioration-for-élite and because I also have an acute and reliable sense of embarrassment," he said, ducking neither the question nor its implications. "I worked for awhile in a sea of cliché. I turned rigid. I know when I am doing all right in a performance and immediately when I'm not. I feel myself getting horribly embarrassed and I'm saying to myself: 'Hence, what they think. Are you having trouble talking to me?'"

No, I wasn't. Not any. It was smooth and effortless. Did he make furniture and jewelry and sculpt in wood?

"Yes," he said. "I complete the furniture and the jewelry. I never finish what I sculpt."

"You are like Chaucer. He never work for the good of terrestrial mankind."

In his dream hospital, each patient, lying in his room, would wear a number of transducers at all times waking and sleeping. Continuous records of what was happening inside them would be received and filed by a centralized computer.

Fair Enough

Gadgetry, Treasure
Of the American Way

by WESTBROOK PEGLER

STOCKHOLM - After a brief, surly silence, the off-American indomitable who "hate communism" decided to deplore as infantile a hastily improvised American exhibition which had left the Muscovites awestruck by the very luxury and beauty of the specimens and the exuberant spirit of the Nixon mission to Moscow. The complaint that this midway of ours was nothing but gadgetry implies that the Russians would have done better and in more intellectual mood. The fact is that they tried and failed horribly.

Gadgetry, however, is not only the precious treasure of the American way but the envy of the world and, thus far, the exclusive product of a culture which sells things on installment plans. In this, the British under their deplorable socialism, which has them rationing butter in a time of delicious abundance, are now trying to follow our example. They are awkwardly fomenting a local adaptation with a view to booking prepaid holiday business for next summer in their own dismal seaside resorts.

"Good," he said. "Side street means one side has to be shady. Law of physics, or something."

We found the shade and got to the place and he ordered a sandwich and a bottle of Lowenbrau beer.

"Means lion," he said. "In German, Lowen is lion. That Leeuwen, which was his name was and however he spelled it, the Dutchman who invented the microphone, his name meant Lion's Claw. I am virtually loaded with this kind of useless information which does not earn me a penny."

"Not to rip your bankbook out of your hand," I said, "but you have this long NBC contract which pays you whether you work or not. Do they suspend their payments while you work in your new play, 'Mour Bids' and earn stage salary?"

"It's not that complex," he said. "My stage salary goes to NBC in fact and they send me my regular TV check as called for by contract. But I'm happy to be doing this play. I go mad in idleness. Don't let anyone tell you a weekly check, work or not work, is the greatest thing invented since velvet."

"This one is a fantasy, I hear?" "Not really. It is fantasy because a young man who is a faculty coordinator in a college can move an inkwell from here to there by thinking about it? Or, later, he discovers he can transform unhappy people into birds? By our standards, yes. By the standards of people who can do it, no. I never met anyone who could but that doesn't mean it can't be done. Teleportation isn't just a fancy word. It exists. Maybe there is a young man who can move objects by thinking about it. I know some buildings in New York I'd love to move. Right out into the deepest part of the ocean."

"Mr. Cox," I said, fixing him with a level eye (that's the left eye, I mean), "I have heard you are hard to talk to, inaccessible. What brought about this ugly reputation?"

"I think because I have a built-in deterioration-for-élite and because I also have an acute and reliable sense of embarrassment," he said, ducking neither the question nor its implications. "I worked for awhile in a sea of cliché. I turned rigid. I know when I am doing all right in a performance and immediately when I'm not. I feel myself getting horribly embarrassed and I'm saying to myself: 'Hence, what they think. Are you having trouble talking to me?'"

No, I wasn't. Not any. It was smooth and effortless. Did he make furniture and jewelry and sculpt in wood?

"Yes," he said. "I complete the furniture and the jewelry. I never finish what I sculpt."

"You are like Chaucer. He never work for the good of terrestrial mankind."

In his dream hospital, each patient, lying in his room, would wear a number of transducers at all times waking and sleeping. Continuous records of what was happening inside them would be received and filed by a centralized computer.

"Through this kind of automation," MacGuire proposes, "we can make a continuous study of man starting at birth and continuing thenceforward. Then, we may be able to find out what normality and health is. If we do, we can possibly spot abnormality or disease before it can get a real hold on the patient."

"Is there a better way to cut medical costs than to learn to stop sickness before it starts?"

Westerners sometimes laugh at the tenacity with which Moslems orient their activities to the pilgrimage to Mecca. The current vogue in what we call the Christian world, seems to be oriented to political pilgrimages to Moscow, another non-Christian city. Who's laughing over this one?

You may gather by now that some doctors are trying to "do something" about hospitals. The Atomedics plan calls upon American initiative and free enterprise to solve medicine's problems - and make a profit. Is there a better solution - or even another reliable one? Socialized medicine is not the answer.

I have received requests to write basic plays and accordingly I devote my articles to this subject for a while. Today's hand illustrates the play down as the obligatory finesse. With a four spade bid is a slight catch but the play would be the same at any spade contract. South ruffs the third club and attempts to hold his trump losses to the trick if he can.

The odds are against him since he is missing the ace-jack-ten and one more but things aren't hopeless. He simply leads low spade toward dummy and lets up the king. Now he plays second spade. West plays the king or ten and South must play. This is the obligatory finesse. It is marked with the ace as East would have played it in the king-if he had held it. The play of the queen can't be good at all but the play of the low card can and as work wonders. West's only spade is the ace. He has to play it and now South takes the rest of the tricks. Of course, it is a guess as to which spade honor you lead to in the first place. However, having nothing better to go, most players would probably lead West for the spade ace after at shows up with the ace and king of clubs.

ART, FOR ART'S SAKE—Forming a fanciful pattern, dancers Budd Thomson (foreground), Sophie Racchi and Umberto Pergola are practicing a new ballet on the isle of Ischia, Italy. They're going through a dance based on a poem by the late Spanish poet-playwright Federico Garcia Lorca.

IT'S EVERYWHERE—Trying to win a personal battle against the torrid heat in Paris, this young lady is sitting on the bank of the Seine River. The European continent has been hit with one of the worst heat waves in years, and temperatures of over 100 degrees were recorded in many places.

SHOW OF STRENGTH—Men, machines and architecture are massed in a pattern of power at West Berlin's giant Olympic Stadium. The sweeping panorama was part of a dress rehearsal for the annual Berlin Police Show.

SHORT SHRIFT—Barrelling toward the bag, baserunner Wilbur Stickles appears to be safe by a mile, but the umpire called him out in this Little League game at Middletown, Conn. Actually, Wilbur misjudged the distance and only slid as far as 3rd baseman Bob Zolack's left leg. Bob looked down, saw Wilbur off the bag and tagged him for the out.

Kids from the Hoofbeats Club took part in it, tossing their boots on the pile, then riding barefoot to the starting line. On signal, they gallop for the boots (right), each trying to slip on his or her own before dashing back to the finish line.

DIVING DISC JOCKEY—Announcer Gordon Kent is being bolted into a deep sea diving suit by two Navy handlers before going to the bottom of a hotel swimming pool to do a newscast in Las Vegas, Nev. The staff of a local radio station set a record by broadcasting under water for 48 hours.

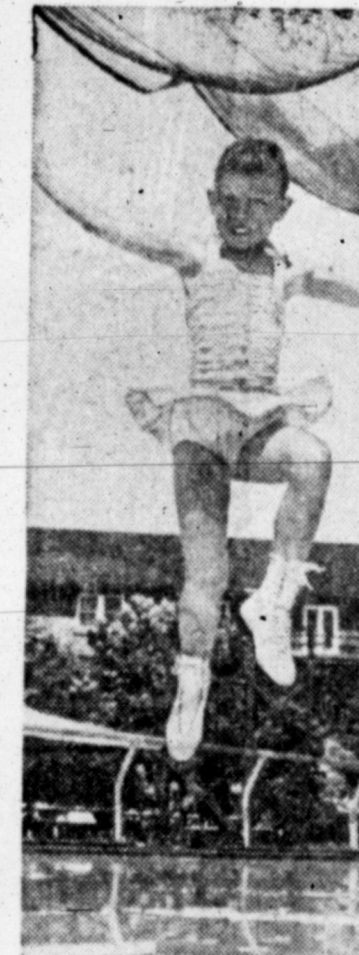

SPARRING PARTNERS—Ten-year-old Bert Karseboom, of Newark, N. Bert's the son of former New Jersey amateur flyweight boxing champion "Spider Kelly."

SKI'S NO LIMIT—She may seem to be confused, but this gal isn't at all. Pretty Judy Justice is merely dressed for the part after being named "South America's Swim and Ski Queen" by employees of an airline. She's demonstrating in New York the varied possibilities of an airborne vacation.

FREE WHEELER—Concluding a 35,000-mile "round-the-world" trip on his motor scooter, Don Ahlstrom looks none the worse for wear on arrival in Minneapolis, Minn. After leaving Stuttgart, Germany, in November, 1957, Ahlstrom covered 25,000 miles on land by scooter, and another 10,000 miles by ship. He rolled through 19 countries in Europe and Asia.

HIGH HOPES—Leaping gracefully above the ice is Avril Allan, a pig-tailed pixie of eight, who could well be a member of the American Skating Team in the 1968 Olympics. Avril was born in Scotland but lives in Hollywood, Calif. However, she was photographed while practicing at Sun Valley, Idaho.

HEADING OUT TO SEA—In San Francisco, dancers Eldora Blodgett (left) and Sheba Stucker appear to be going "down to the sea in ships." Theirs, of course, is a small one—a canoe—but the girls are willing and able to do their own paddling clear across the Golden Gate.

SOAR HEADS—Looking more like blimps than sea creatures, these flying porpoises do their swimming in thin air. They've jumped out of the tank at the Miami, Fla., Seaquarium to snatch a fish from feeder Jimmy Kline.

THIS IS THE LIFE!—Two race horses are shown getting a rubdown in front of the new barns at New York's Aqueduct Race Track (top photo). Area Science Teachers Will Meet Sept. 26

The Panhandle Science Teachers Association will hold its first meeting of the current school year in the Pampa High School cafeteria on Saturday Sept. 26 from 9:30 until 11:30, according to Mrs. Elaine Ledbetter, acting chairman.

All science teachers within driving distance of Pampa are invited and urged to be present. The program will feature demonstrations in physics, chemistry, biology and general science. An informal coffee hour will precede the meeting.

Business to be discussed will include the chartering of a bus to transport the group to Austin for the Sixth Annual Conference for the Improvement of Science and Math Teaching to be held late in October.

The association was organized last year under the leadership of Mrs. Ledbetter, head of the Pampa High School science department. The purposes are to strengthen science teaching in this area and to promote fellowship among the members.

Russians Jubilant Over Reception Of Khrushchev

Foreign News Commentary
By PHIL NEWSON
UPI Foreign Editor

The man-of-the week: Ivan, Russia's man-in-the-street.

The place: Moscow.

The quote: "At last it's come true."

Moscow, look on a holiday on this week, and the usually standoffish Russians were extending the hand of friendship to Americans in a way unprecedented since the end of World War II.

The quote above was uttered with a contented smile by a Russian neighbor of UPI correspondent Aline Mosby in a Moscow apartment house. He had invited her in to listen to a radio report of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's arrival in Washington.

Soviet News Unreal

The air of unreality in Moscow was enhanced further by the total unreality of the reporting of Soviet news correspondents in their reports back to Moscow.

Wrote a reporter for Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper:

"The streets of Washington are packed with people... a solid line of people lines the sidewalks... people are in windows of houses, on fences and roofs. The applause grows into ovation... all along the way they warmly greet Khrushchev... you hear friendly shouts at Khrushchev."

In Moscow, there was no one to tell Ivan that it wasn't quite that way.

There had been bigger throngs in Washington and certainly more demonstrative ones.

Crowd Was Restrained

Wrote UPI correspondent Jack V. Fox: "(Khrushchev) drove through crowd-packed streets amid polite applause but scarcely a cheer of welcome."

This was a wait-and-see crowd. Undoubtedly, a large part of its makeup was curiosity—the first leader of Soviet Russia to come to the United States, a man who could reel off a homely parable, who could talk of peace and freedom even as he charmed to Western diplomats, "We will bury you."

But this crowd also contained an awareness that it would take more than a toothy smile or a gesture to sweep away barriers, many of which were of his or of world Communism's own making.

The Eisenhower meeting was one long-sought by Khrushchev and he lost his time in springing his own particular type of propaganda.

Olive Branch Contains Rocket

"Our countries are much too strong and we cannot quarrel with each other," he said.

It was an olive branch entwined about a rocket.

But of the sober reflections in Washington and elsewhere in the United States, Ivan was told nothing.

For him, it was the prelude to the end of the cold war and the restraints were falling away.

Ivan will do as the state tells him. If he is disappointed at the outcome of the current meetings, the state will tell him how to react. But the effects of the reports going back to Moscow are global

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet nuclear-powered icebreaker Lenin has been loaded with a 1,000-ton cargo and fitted out with a marine radio service and a library for its sea trials, the news agency Tass reported today. Losing Streak Ends; PHS Blanks Arlington Heights

LUCKY RUN—Lucky Dunham (37) of Pampa goes for a seven yard gain in the third quarter of Friday night's Pampa-Arlington Heights football game, before being brought down by Ronnie Vance of Arlington Heights. Coming up to help on the tackle is Jim Fletcher (86) of the Yellow Jackets.

Last year the Pampa Harvester football team had plenty of luck—all of it bad.

But Friday night, the gods of the gridiron smiled on the Harvesters, and they got every kind of break a football team could get, as they broke an eight-game losing streak with a 12-0 whitewashing of the favored Arlington Heights Yellow Jackets.

Not that the Harvesters didn't deserve to win. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Pampa line, outweighted 15 pounds to the man, completely outplayed the big Arlington Heights boys for at least 44 of the 48 minutes of Friday's game. And in many cases the Harvesters helped make their own breaks, by charging hard and tackling hard.

Perhaps it was just the law of averages catching up with Pampa, because last year the Harvesters lost three close games, at least partly because of bad breaks—and in all three of them played on equal terms with their opponent.

Pampa's last football win, before Friday, was in the third game of the 1958 season, when the Harvesters beat Bowie of El Paso, 22-8. This same Bowie team is the next squad on the Harvester schedule. Pampa plays Bowie this Friday in El Paso.

Lady Luck first favored Pampa only moments after the opening kickoff. But the Harvesters had a big hand in making their own luck, as they did throughout the game.

Pampa kicked off to open the game; an Arlington Heights ball carrier was dropped after a short return to the 24, on a fine tackle by Lynn McGee. The Jackets did manage one first down, but they were then held for downs on the 39, thanks to tackles by Charles Warren and Terry Rexroad, which threw Jacket halfback Len Brantley for losses of one yard and six yards.

Homer Price dropped back to punt, but the snap from center was wide, and he had to chase it back to the 14-yard line, where he fell on it. Pampa took over there.

The Harvesters had to run only one play, as fullback Terry Joe Haralson broke through right tackle and went all the way for a touchdown. The attempt to kick the extra point was smothered, as the snapback was fumbled, and Stokes was downed attempting to run it out. The touchdown and conversion proved to be Pampa's only running plays of the first quarter.

Pampa's other first quarter play, however, was spectacular and of vital importance. Pampa halted an Arlington Heights drive on the Harvester 2-yard line, and was forced to punt out. Ronnie Smith kicked the ball over the safety man's head, and it landed at the 30-yard line. The ball then rolled back to the Arlington Heights 29. Smith had credit for a 70-yard punt, and Pampa was out of a dangerous situation.

Second Touchdown

The Harvesters left the field at halftime with a 6-0 lead, and came back in the third quarter to add another touchdown—again with Lady Luck and the Harvesters cooperating closely.

Arlington Heights quarterback Dwain Heath fumbled on the Jacket 20, and Rowland Stone pounced on it. Runs of eight yards by Mert Cooper and seven yards by Lucky Dunham gave Pampa a first down on the 5-yard line. But the Yellow Jackets made a fine goal line stand, and stopped Pampa on the 1-yard line.

However, their effort was wasted, as Heath fumbled on the first play, and Duke Garren fell on the ball at the 4. The big Jacket line again held for three downs, but on the fourth down Haralson plowed through the right side of the line for Pampa's second touchdown. Stokes' kicking conversion attempt was blocked, and Pampa led 12-0.

Pampa made three other serious threats, moving to the Arlington Heights 6-yard line in the second quarter, and to the 19 once and the 23 once in the fourth. They were held for downs the first two times, and lost a fumble on the third drive.

Arlington Heights was stopped on two serious threats, in the first and fourth quarters. In the first quarter, they moved to the Pampa 7-yard line on the passing of Heath and the running of fullback Mike O'Grady. They were then set back to the 19 on a 15-yard penalty. Heath completed a fourth-down pass to Price, but it was halted two yards, short of the end zone by two Harvesters.

In the fourth quarter, the Jackets marched from their 23 to the Pampa 15, but the final gun sounded before they could go any further.

TOUCHDOWN!—Terry Joe Haralson (on one knee) of the Pampa Harvesters scores from the 1-yard line during the third quarter in Pampa's 12-0 win Friday night over Arlington Heights of Fort Worth. Two Arlington Heights players attempt to bring him down, after he has already crossed into the end zone. This play, coming on fourth down, was perhaps the most crucial of the game, since it gave Pampa a fairly comfortable two-touchdown lead, instead of a paper-thin six-point margin.

Nicklaus Captures Amateur Crown

By GENE MEAKINS
United Press International

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—Jackie Nicklaus, an impetuous 19-year-old sphinx of the links, wedged a shot six feet from the pin on the 36th hole Saturday for a birdie that gave him a 1 up victory over tiring Charlie Coe and made him the youngest National Amateur golf champion in 50 years.

After trailing by three holes midway during the morning 18, the muscular, blonde Ohio State junior from Columbus, Ohio, took advantage of Coe's deteriorating game to overtake the defending champion with a remarkable under-par stretch for the 18 afternoon holes.

Not since Robert A. Gardner won this tournament in 1909 at the age of 19 years and five months has anyone as young as Nicklaus achieved the feat. Jackie will be 20 next January.

The disappointing setback for Coe, after he had taken a 2 up morning 18-hole lead with a methodical two-under-par round, ruined his hopes of becoming the first golfer since Bobby Jones to win the amateur crown more than twice. Coe had won in 1949 and last year.

The dramatic finish came on the final hole as the gathering shadows encroached upon the picturesque mile-high 7,010-yard Broadmoor course at the foothills of Rocky Mountains.

Coe, the slender 35-year-old old broker whom most had figured had too much savvy and precision for Nicklaus, had tied the match on the 35th hole when the sturdy young Ohioan hooked a drive into the rough, took four to get on the green and two-putted for his only bogey of the afternoon.

District Teams Bat Even .500

District 3-A teams didn't fare too well this week against outside opposition. The best the Top of Texas gridiron could do was three wins, three losses, and a tie.

Pampa broke an eight-game losing streak with a 12-0 whitewashing of Arlington Heights; Tascosa blanked Permian of Odessa, 13-0, and Amarillo whipped Panch 14-0, to give the district three shutout victories.

However, Palo Duro was stomped by Midland, 36-0; Plainview was routed by AAA Phillips, 38-0; Lubbock was defeated Thursday by Odessa, 26-0, and Brownwood managed only a 19-1 tie with Yalata.

It's all a matter of simple mathematics. It when that big ole bruiser is fighting for his and his ach's dear life, within the shadow of his own goal posts. It was a magnificent display of sheer determination and ll to win that carried the Harvesters to victory. The kind stuff of which champions are made, by cracky. Certainly it required eight plays (with a fumble recovery ched in between) for Pampa to push over its second TD om five yards out.

LSU Downs Rice, 26-3

By JOHN G. WARNER
United Press International

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Defending national champion Louisiana state came to life in the last half Saturday to take a leisurely 26-3 win over Rice Institute.

The sleepy Bengals, performing on the first nationally televised game of the year in the season opener for both clubs, sputtered helplessly through the first half, while Rice grabbed a 3-0 edge on Gordon Speer's 46-yard field goal.

But the defending champions came snarling out for the second half and scored in less than five minutes, sending All-America halfback Billy Cannon around end for 17 yards and the touchdown that got LSU back on the track. The Bengals poured through two more touchdowns and a field goal before time mercifully ran out. Wendell Harris kicked the field goal from the Rice 23 at the opening of the third period. With less than five minutes left in the game, played before 48,000 in windy, warm weather, LSU's Tommy Neck plunged over from two yards out.

Rabb Passes For TD

With 30 seconds left, quarterback Warren Rabb passed to fullback Merle Schexnaydre for 12 yards and the final touchdown.

Rice, however, completely dominated the first half. Bengal coach Paul Dietzel used his storm troops comparatively little, relying for the most part on the "go" team and the defensive "Chinese Bandits."

The Owls from the Southwest Conference came to play a kicking game and did a good job of it in the first half.

The third time was the charm on the field goal. Bill Buckle tried the first one from 17 yards out and it failed. Speer tried the next, on the first play of the second period, from the Tiger 36 and it didn't reach the goal posts.

But late in the same quarter, Rice recovered a fumble on the LSU 40 and Speer, kicking from the 36, lofted a lazy boot through the goal posts to give the Owls the lead at halftime.

Rice used the quick-kick, its great advantage, employing three in the first half that set the Tigers back deep in their own territory and helped keep the champions off balance.

Tigers Roar Back

Cannon and company saw practically no action in the first half.

But the Tigers came roaring out for the second half and Rabb, a tackle hanging on his arm, passed to Cannon for 14 yards to the LSU 14.

Moments later a pass from

Rabb to Donnie Davis was good to the Rice 35, and a tricky reverse-pitchout left Rabb carrying the ball for 10 yards to the Rice 17.

On the next play, Cannon hopped around right end behind a wall of blockers for the touchdown. Harris converted for a 7-3 count with 10:11 left in the third quarter.

The GO team and the Chinese Bandits took over for the rest of the quarter and racked up enough yardage for a touchdown, but were frustrated by penalties on five consecutive long gaining plays.

LSU took over late in the period and Cannon and Rabb combined to bull it to the Rice 23. From there Harris booted a flat, field goal that barely cleared the bars for a 10-3 score with seconds gone in the fourth period.

Midway in the last period Schexnaydre intercepted a pass from Rice quarterback John Schnable on the Owl 33 and returned it to the 20.

Moments later, after several thrusts through the line, Neck came over from two yards out to rack up a touchdown for the Chinese Bandits. Darryl Jenkins passed to Schexnaydre for a pair of extra points to make it 18-3.

With time running out, LSU took over on the Rice 41 and five plays later Rabb passed 22 yards to Schexnaydre on the 10 and he took it over.

Cannon ran the two points over to make it 26-3 with 30 seconds left.

Rice wound up with a puny 48 yards rushing and only 120 total yards, compared to 472 for the Bengals.

The Longhorns, whose speed in the backfield makes them one of the powers in the Southwest, capitalized on fumble recovery, the second touchdown in the second period and a 14-0 halftime lead.

Longhorn halfbacks took turns zipping through the slower Husker lineup and three different players produced touchdowns.

Nebraska battled deep into Texas territory shortly before the half, but quarterback Tom Kramer and halfback Clay White collided behind the line, causing a fumble which Texas tackle Larry Stephens gobbled up to end the Husker threat.

On the next play, quarterback Jim Saxton zig-zagged his way across the goal to make it 14-0.

The first Texas touchdown came on the first play of the second period when Jack Collins sprinted around end from the two. Rene Ramirez had set up the score with a 12-yard sprint on a double reverse.

Texas wrapped up the scoring early in the third period when Bobby Lackey pitched 12 yards to Bob Gurwitz. The Longhorns

Red Griggs the pipeline

We received a letter here Friday which (I am sure the writer will be surprised about this) I agree with about 95 percent. Here's the letter

Dear Mr. Griggs,

About the subject of the Harvesters recent loss to Wichita Falls, a subject you Pampa sports writers constantly mean and carry on about: it is my belief that the size of Wichita Falls High School has less to do with the fact of their winning than many of you excuse makers care to admit.

Breckenridge (class AAA) has less enrollment in its school than does Pampa. Yet they manage to make a very respectable showing against the Coyotes.

As a former resident of Wichita Falls, I know that the biggest reason for their football success lies in the fact they want to win and work to that end. When they do lose, which sometimes happens, they do not blame some half baked excuse, like they triple platooned us, or their boys are pro footballers disguised as high school players, or some other excuse.

I feel that if Pampa put as much effort toward their football program as they do toward basketball they would be a football power to contend with. Me, I'm satisfied that we're state 4A champs in basketball, and Wichita Falls in football. After all, you can't have everything. If you could, Wichita Falls might well win state in basketball.

Sports Fan,
Billy Wright

P.S. Count your (Pampa's) blessings.

Of Breckenridge and Pampa

Mr. Wright, we want to thank you from the bottom of our little black heart for putting your finger directly on the reason why Pampa does not have a powerful football team. We will get to that a little bit later.

First, though, I like yourself, used to live in Wichita Falls, though only for a brief time. I, too, believe that Wichita Falls has a good football team mostly because they work hard at it, rather than because of the size of the school, but I do think their size helps quite a bit.

I did a little writing for the Wichita Falls paper, and had an opportunity to meet "The Coyote" football coach, Joe Golding. I consider Joe to be on the same level as a football coach as Clifton McNeely is in basketball — which is tops. Coach that he is, though, he could not do the job he has done unless his players had the best attitude toward the game of football.

And judging by what I've seen of them, they do.

You made two other statements which impressed me. That Breckenridge, a class AAA school, always manages to make a very respectable showing against Wichita Falls; and that if Pampa put as much effort into its football as into basketball, this city would be a football power to contend with.

There is a clear parallel between these two situations, so now we shall get down to brass tacks.

Breckenridge—a Football Town

First, why is Breckenridge (which is one of the smallest schools in AAA, by the way) a perennial football power, able to challenge such big schools as Wichita Falls?

I think the answer can be summarized in one sentence. Breckenridge is a ONE-SPORT school.

This may be fairly common knowledge, but I won't rely on rumor to back up this statement. Instead, I'll use the opinion of Breckenridge's chief opponent, Joe Golding himself.

While I was in Wichita Falls, Golding told me and Wichita Falls sports editor Randy MacPherson, before the Breck-WF game of '58, the facts of life about the Buckaroos.

In Breckenridge, he said, a boy

sports, it is bound to weaken the other sports programs. This is especially true if the player begins his four-season work in junior high.

There is nothing in the Inter-scholastic League rules against year-around basketball workouts. Coaches and players who take part in such workouts are simply going above and beyond the call of duty, and are to be commended for their zeal and ambition.

However, the rules specifically prohibit football workouts before Aug. 17, or after the close of the regular season. This makes it impossible to "put as much work into football as into basketball."

It is illegal.

Basketball, by the rules, automatically has a privileged position over football and the other sports. If the basketball coaches are sufficiently industrious and energetic to take advantage of their opportunities, and if they are allowed to work with their players the year around,

Pampa does, it must be admitted, usually have good baseball and track teams, and on occasions a fair football team. This fact is much to the credit of the coaches and players in those particular sports.

But nevertheless, when a dozen or more of the top athletes in a town the size of Pampa, concentrate the year around on basketball, to the exclusion of all other sports, it is bound to weaken the other sports programs. This is especially true if the player begins his four-season work in junior high.

Yankees Defeat Boston Red Sox

NEW YORK (UPI)—Whitey Ford pitched his first complete game in three months Saturday in hurling the New York Yankees to a 3-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox to make Yogi Berra day a success.

Berra, the veteran Yankee catcher who was honored in pre-game ceremonies, suffered the usual jinx players do when given a day. He failed to get the ball out of the infield in four trips to the plate.

Ford, winning his 15th game and going the route for the first time since June 23, allowed only four singles and held the Red Sox scoreless for the first seven innings. The lone run he allowed was unearned.

Bobby Richardson, who extended his hitting streak to 13 games, drove home what proved to be the winning run in the fifth.

Craig Beats San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Roger Craig, a surprise starter, hurled the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 4-1 victory over San Francisco Saturday and pulled his team to within one game of the league-leading Giants in the opener of a day-night doubleheader.

Manager Walt Alton had planned to go with Craig Saturday night but decided to switch him with Don Drysdale when statistics disclosed that the latter pitched better at night than in the sun.

The first part of Alton's hunch paid off. Craig, who has a lifetime record of six wins and one defeat against the Giants, scattered six hits in posting his ninth win of the season.

Johnny Antonelli, who was taking a third shot at becoming a 20-game winner this year, got the hook in the fourth inning when Los Angeles was drawing out to a 3-0 lead.

After the Reds had taken a lead with a single run off F in the top of the 12th, Dick Stenhouse doubled off starter Don Nuxhall to tie the game.

Manager Fred Hutchinson immediately called upon southpaw pitcher Joe Nuxhall who responded, getting Smokey Burgess out on grounder as Stuart took third, another strategic move.

Lawrence took over the pitcher's chore for the Reds.

ERICK, Okla. — Wheeler's Mustangs won their first victory of the season here Friday night, a 1-0 setback at the hands of strong class A teams. The Mustangs defeated the host Erick team, 19-12.

Jolly scored two of the Wheeler touchdowns, and passed for the third. Carl Martin ran for the third touchdown.

Erick scored first, in the first quarter, as Martin ran two yards for the second touchdown.

Hotcomb kicked the conversion then Jolly passed 29 yards to the second touchdown.

Martin cut Wheeler's lead to 12 in the third period with a yard scoring jaunt, but Jolly-60 yards in the fourth period gave the Mustangs some instantane.

Clemson Nips North Carolina In Thrilling Finish, 20 to 18

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (UPI)—Clemson's Tigers mounted a hefty early lead and made it stand for a 20-18 triumph over North Carolina in a battle of Atlantic Coast Conference co-favorites Saturday by spilling a two-point conversion try in the last 80 seconds of play.

A crowd of 45,000 fans saw the fast, veteran Tigers explode in quick scoring bursts in the first half against the late Jim Tatum's "team of destiny." Clemson's 7-0 victory over the Tar Heels last year led them to the Sugar Bowl.

The Tar Heels, coached by Tatum's successor, Jim Hickey, came back in the second half to score twice, but Clemson defenders nailed Bob Elliott on the two-yard line in conversion pass play from quarterback Jack Cummings.

Cummings had passed 24 yards to halfback Milam Wall for the first Tar Heel touchdown. Then a series of long Cummings passes to "swinging end" Al Goldstein, a maneuver Tatum contrived, set up the second TD achieved on a four-yard smash by Wall.

Wall had fumbled the opening kickoff and Clemson's Gary Barnes fell on it on the North Carolina 44. Eight plays later, quarterback Harvey White crashed over from the three.

The Tigers drove 43 yards for their second score which came in the opening minutes of the second period on a plunge by fullback Doug Cline. White passed to Bill Mathis for the two-point.

Score by Periods:

North Carolina 0 6 0 12-18

Clemson 6 6 6 0-20

Scoring summary:

Clemson — White 1 run (kick failed), Cline 1 run (White pass failed), Mathis 2 run (pass failed).

North Carolina — Knochak 4 run (pass failed), Wall 4 run (pass failed), Wall 24 pass from Cummings (pass failed).

Harvesters

team played fine defensive ball. On eight different occasions, Pampa players broke through to throw Jacket ball carriers for losses totaling 33 yards.

Garren played a superlative game, as he recovered fumbles, threw ball carriers for losses, knocked down passes, and in general became a big thorn in Arlington Heights' side.

Stone, Warren, Rexroad, Butch Dunham, Charlie Giese, Benny Stout, Harold Stokes, Jim Scott, Stone, McGee, and Steve Dobbin all made some fine defensive plays, and many of the same boys did some excellent blocking, opening holes which allowed Harvesters ball carriers to go for gains of 10 yards or more.

Haralson and halfback Murt Cooper were Pampa's work-horse backs. Haralson picked up 56 yards on 13 plays, and Cooper made 59 yards on 13 plays.

Quarterbacks Buddy Rawls and Bobby Stephens did some of the best running. Rawls went for 35 yards in only five carries, and Stephens, although thrown for two long losses, made 21 yards on six tries. Both signal callers made one of their yardage on the quarterback option play, around the ends.

Heath's passing was the big weapon for Arlington Heights. The 122-pound quarterback made a number of accurate passes during the first three quarters, but many of them were dropped by the intended receiver. Heath threw a little wildly in the last quarter, as he began trying for greater distance.

Pampa's only two big weaknesses were a pass defense which was still leaky, though somewhat improved; and a complete lack of a passing attack of their own. Stephens and Rawls tried a total of six passes, but completed none of them.

Baltimore Orioles Edge Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Willie Tasby hit his 13th home run Saturday to help the Baltimore Orioles defeat the Washington Senators, 5-3.

Milt Pappas, 26-year-old right-hander, continued his domination over the Senators by winning his fifth straight over the Washington club without a loss this year. It was his 15th victory of the year.

The Senators were leading, 3-2, in the seventh when the Orioles came up with two runs on a walk and three singles. Bob Boyd's single drove in the winning run. Tasby hit his homer in the ninth off Chuck Stobbs, who took over from Tex Clevenger, the loser. The Orioles got nine hits while Pappas yielded five.

After the 40-0 downfall at Wichita Falls nine days ago, Coyote coach Joe Golding stated: "The Pampa bunch hit my kids as hard or harder than they've ever been hit. It's not so much that I think so, but several of my players told me the same thing."

After the 12-0 triumph here Friday night, Arlington Heights mentor, Homer Ludiker, said: "Man they really tore us up in more ways than one. Our regular quarterback (Dwain Heath) and a our fullback (Mike O'Grady) were really given the business out there. Both have minor hurts now."

Downtown after midnight in front of the Pampa Hotel the two largest Yellow Jackets, 247-pound Jim Johnson and 225-pound Jim Davis, both tackles, agreed: "Our size ain't gonna scare nobody. We've gotta start to work next week."

Our vote for top defensive player Friday night goes to junior center — linebacker Duke Garren. It was the best effort the big red head's ever made on the gridiron.

His fumble recovery set up the second, Pampa TD on the four. There were others. Jim Scott's coverage on kicks was superb. Roland Stokke pounced on a loose 'Jacket fumble on the A-H 20, and Pampa drove to the one-yard line before giving the ball over to the Jackets for one play before they lost it to Garren on a second fumble. Then there was Harold Stokes who hauled down O'Grady after a 32-yard pick-up in the first period as the last man between the 'Jacket fullback and an open field for a TD.

Lynn McGee opened the game with as beautiful a shoe — stinging tackle on the kickoff as you'll ever see. Seconds later Terry Rexroad broke through to smear Len Brantley for a six-yard setback.

In the second period Benny Stout slammed O'Grady for an eight yard loss and there were others, many more, who sparked-plugged the Big Green's defense.

"I only wish we were going 20 miles instead of 520 this next Friday night, spoke Curfman Saturday, already thinking ahead to the long trip to El Paso where the Bowie Bears will be snarling to devour one of the four clubs who whipped them last season."

Look out those Harvesters have a chance of becoming a WINNING outfit this week.

Lee 7th Graders Beat PJH, 14-6

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

Robert E. Lee's seventh graders took the first game of this season's three-game junior high city series, as they defeated Pampa Junior High's seventh Friday on Harvester Park practice field, 14-6.

Both Harold Moore's Lee squad and Frank Craig's Pampa Junior High team looked especially good, for boys that age. Although both teams, as might be expected, made their share of mistakes, they made up for it with their hustle and spirit.

There were a number of good defensive plays by both teams, including some hard, low tackles of the type usually seen only in high school and college football.

Lee took a 6-0 lead in the first quarter, as Ronald Klein ran 30 yards around right end for the first touchdown of the game. The running conversion attempt was stopped short.

Pampa Junior High came back immediately after the following kickoff to even the score. Jim Arthur swept around end for 41 yards, before being stopped by Tommy Henley. Keith Griffin, and Johnny Robinson, on the Lee 2-yard line.

On the next play, Larry Flippo went over for the touchdown. The running conversion attempt was a snafu, and the score was tied 6-6, early in the second quarter.

Canyon Shuts Out Perryton Rangers

PERRYTON — The Perryton Rangers, hampered by the loss of three varsity players lost their second straight game of the season here Friday night, 26-0 to the Canyon Eagles.

Quarterback Danny Fletcher, tackle Gary Black, and guard Jim Latham are all lost for the season.

Perryton actually had a more powerful offense than the score showed, with 211 yards rushing and 23 yards passing, but the Rangers were hurt by the loss of three fumbles, two intercepted passes, and 65 yards in penalties.

Perryton threatened twice, driving to the Canyon 23-yard line in the second quarter and to the Eagle 9-yard line in the fourth quarter. They also had a mild threat, driving to the Canyon 30. They were halted all three times.

Canyon scored in each quarter. The first three TD's were on sustained drives. The fourth was on a 12-yard run by Chuck Nester, after a 52-yard scamper by Mike Poole.

Warriors Romp Over Channing

MIAMI (Sp.) — The Miami Warriors, warmed up for this week's crucial clash with Booker by taking an easy 40-13 win over Channing Friday night. Miami and Booker, the leading contenders for the 3-A (six-man) title, meet here Friday.

It was Miami's stout defense which made the difference in Friday's game. Three of Miami's six touchdowns were scored on pass interceptions or punt returns, and two safeties were chalked up against Channing. All of Miami's touchdown plays covered 30 yards or more.

Paul Thompson tallied three touchdowns for the Warriors, on a 60-yard punt return, an 80-yard return of an intercepted pass, and a 50-yard run from scrimmage. He also threw a touchdown pass.

Gerald Anderson tossed a touchdown pass; scored on a 30-yard runback of a pass interception. Larry Anderson caught a 40-yard touchdown pass, and Tommy Hollis snagged a 30-yard TD loss. Tucker Sells twice caught Channing runners behind the goal line for safeties. Miami did not convert after any of its touchdowns.

The Warriors' passing offense was not quite as sharp as in last week's 42-0 rout of Mobette. This time, they completed only seven of 22 passes, whereas last week they connected on 12 of 12.

Larry Anderson and Sells were Miami's defensive leaders, with eight tackles each. Jim Bowers and Charlie Christopher each made seven tackles.

All of Miami's 20 players got into the game. Channing scored its touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters against reserves. The first Channing TD came on a Miami fumble, and the second on a pass.

Burns-Less Bucks Roll by Spearman

SPEARMAN (Sp.) — Despite the loss of halfback Jackie Burns on a controversial play, the White Deer Bucks defeated Spearman here Friday night, 18-8.

Burns, who had been shifted from quarterback to halfback by Coach Coley Huffman, was ejected from the game on a pass play in the second quarter. Passing from the Spearman 18, he overthrew his receiver, and kicked in disgust.

The referee said that Burns had kicked a Spearman player, and ejected him from the game. Huffman and Burns protested, claiming that he had only kicked the ground. But Burns was ejected, nevertheless, and White Deer went into something of a slump.

Booker Routs Mobette, 41-7; Will Play Miami This Friday

BOOKER (Sp.) — Booker removed any doubts about the quality of its football team here Friday night by walloping the Mobette Hornets, 41-7.

Miami, the team Booker meets this Friday in Miami in a game which could decide the 1-B (six-man) crown, beat the same Mobette squad last week by a score of 42-0.

Booker scored four of its touchdowns on runs of 50 yards or more, one on a short run, and one on a pass. Booker's line held the Hornets to an almost incredible (for six-man football) minus 10 yards rushing.

Booker's "long" touchdowns were on a 72-yard end run by Noel Cates in the second quarter, a 70-yard punt return and a 50-yard end run by Leslie Lee in the third period, and a 70-yard kickoff return by Gary Ruiz in the fourth quarter.

Peg O' Pampa

SSST! SSST! SSST! don't breathe a word of this to your soul... and especially not to the local police department, but Peg has her car registered incorrectly and has also been issued a Driver's License under false pretenses... we hadn't thought of it before, but this week has pointed up the fact that our private operator's license should, in fact, be issued as a Chaffeur's License and our private car registered as a taxi... but we imagine that there is a mob of mothers in town, who are also driving under the same false pretenses... but we must be of good cheer, for surely some of the extra trips to town, to school, dancing lessons, scout meetings, church choir practising, music lessons, etc. ad infinitum, will lessen soon and we can again be a leisure-driver... we could never pass that Chaffeur's Test anyway... did well to get under the wire after five successive attempts to pass the private operator's one.

WE CAN'T SEE MUCH chance of the old family-buggy posing stolidly in the garage this week... even while the kiddoes are in school... on Monday afternoon the Pampa Garden Club is having a Guest Tea that sounds most interesting... the guest-speaker will be Mrs. A. L. Manjeot of Hereford, who has titled her topic "A Garden Clubber Looks At Europe"... she will project slides of a recent European Trip and then will spotlight floral arrangements, using fresh-cut garden flowers, representing beautiful European buildings and scenes... sounds fascinating... and then on Monday evening the Chamber of Commerce with the PTA City Council and Classroom Teachers will extend hands of welcome to local teachers, both new and old, at a reception in Lee Jr. High... Katy Key, the new PTA City Council prexy, has been busy all week conferring with committee chairman... wrapping up plans to give a warm welcome to new teachers... this, plus moving into her charming new home on Fir Street... we might say that the Keys have a new set of keys, but we won't... but we just did, didn't we?... well, that's the way it goes with jam-writers... and then on Tuesday morning, there is a very charming affair planned in the Pampa Country Club for the friends of Nadine Douglass, Ruth Morrison, Mrs. James Hopkins, and Beverly Malcolm... they've bid a roster of friends to hear guest-reviewer, Elizabeth Peabody of Dallas dramatize "The Flower Drum Song"... she will be assisted lyrically by Elizabeth Sounderstrom, also of Dallas... this should be a refreshingly delightful morning... and a "just-for-chatty-fun" Coffee will be given on Wednesday morning by Joan Searight, Donna Deaton and Vivian Lapoland in Loretta Wilkinson's home.

To him whose elastic and vigorous thought keeps pace with the sun, the day is a perpetual morning. —Thoreau.

WENTIETH CENTURY CLUBS have a lovely affair planned for Thursday morning as they entertain with their annual Presidents' Coffee in Lovett Memorial Library honoring the four incoming presidents of TC Clubs... Angela Sanford of Twentieth Century... Thelma Bray of Twentieth Century Cotillion... Peggy Daniel of Twentieth Century Forum... and Peg Hasse of Twentieth Century Culture... D. E. Scott of Wellington has been invited to be the guest speaker... he's that sage of the Golden Spread (and we do mean Amarillo) who writes with such understanding, humor and intelligent down-to-earth philosophy the "Cross Roads Report" which is an almost daily feature on the front page of the paper to the north of us... The reception will afford members and guests of Twentieth Century Clubs an opportunity to come out and express to their presidents, "we're behind you, Prez"... and we know that each president will feel a glow of pride if they see most of their own club members there... as one "ex" president told us once not long ago, "It can be mighty lonesome in the receiving line, when you are surrounded by mobs of members from other clubs."

BACK TO SCHOOL BIT... The Warners, Alice and Ben, left this week to accompany sophomore-son, David, to the Cheshire Academy in Cheshire, Conn., where he will attend school this year... Jim Schuneman left this week to pursue engineering studies on the campus of Texas Tech... work on the sports-car he is building with his ten little pinkies and mechanical mind will be shelved for a while... anyway, he didn't anticipate finishing it for a couple of years, yet... Kay Lawson was home briefly this week to rest up from a week of "rushing" at Oklahoma University and to replenish her wardrobe and head back for another year of studies on the Big Red Campus... hear that Linda Steele has pledged Tri Delta at Texas Tech... and Mary Ann Kelley Jr., in the shadow of Pike's Peak, will call Colorado University at Boulder home for the next few months... at least until Thanksgiving or Christmas time... Jo Ann Jones has deserted Stephens College for her own home-state university, Texas Christian for her sophomore year... but she won't be the least-bit lonesome, for in addition to some ex-Harvesters already there, Marilyn Fite, Linda Skewes, and Kay Waggoner have donned TCU freshman beanies.

The world is divided into people who do things and people who get the credit. Try, if you can, to belong to the first class. There's far less competition. —Dwight Morrow.

MUSING WHILE MEANDERING... saw Wanda Hudson this week in an attractive black and white checked dress with a chic black beret donned rakishly on her ash-blond hair... she and Jeanette Aftergut are the new adult sponsors for the Sigma Delta Sub Deb Club... but they still keep Nita Luna, who did such a wonderful job with the club, as a conferee... won't North Duncan street be wide and wonderful when the paving is completed? it has been a holy mess for the past few weeks what with dust and having to detour, but when it is completed it will be well worth the waiting and inconvenience... and we get more and more anxious by the day for the opening of Behrmans... this week they had a hundred brackets or more attached to the outer bricks on the upper story to which steel rods were secured and later will support a snazzy store front and side... it should be a fabulous corner one day real soon... and we've been reading avidly in a recent issue of Harper's Bazaar of a new cosmetic device that provides gentle electric stimulation for cleansing the face and applying make-up... the cleansing buffer, as we understand it, used with your favorite cream or liquid stimulates the inner layer of your skin and floats away blemishes... your make-up, applied with the gentle actions of a different buffer, is homogenized by the applicator to form a smooth finish for your face and gives you a dewy-look all day... that's for us... we hear, too, that the device will be introduced locally within a few days.

BEATNIK BRIDGE BIT... friends of a certain hostess in town are still talking about the "off-beat" bridge party she gave recently... she said that she might describe it if we promised not to use her name... we promised... but it was such a fun idea that we wanted to pass it along... as her bridge guests arrived, she presented each one with a black beret to be worn all during the evening... then as they topped a light liquid refreshment by soft candlelight, she read selections of "beatnik" poetry against a beatnik musical background by recordings... and at the end of the evening of Bridge, she presented the high winners with a book of beatnik poetry just off the press... man, like the evening at that pad was just real Kukeyville.

Must cut-out now. Peg

Garden Club Plans Guest Day Tea

Mrs. A. L. Manjeot of Hereford will be the guest speaker on the topic, "A Garden Clubber Sees Europe." She will show color slides of foreign countries which will include Germany, France, Italy, Austria, and each country will be represented by an arrangement of fall garden flowers, cut from the gardens of Garden Club members.

line with an aqua sash. Her headpiece was fashioned from white pompon mums.

Mrs. Tingle, mother of the bride, chose a beige lace dress with green hat and shoes and beige gloves complemented with a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Richardson, bridegroom's mother, wore a Dior Blue organza with insets of lace, matching blue shoes, hat, and white gloves. Her corsage was fashioned from white roses.

Friends were received in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth over aqua centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and mums in a crystal bowl flanked with crystal candelabra holding aqua tapers. The four-tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Travis Taylor of Amarillo. Aqua-tinted punch was served by Miss Marilyn Brown, also of Amarillo. Mrs. Mark Buzzard, gifts.

The bride was graduated from Pampa High School in 1938, attended West Texas State and has been employed by the Credit Bureau. The bridegroom was graduated from Pampa High School in 1936 and is now in the US Navy stationed in Pearl Harbor, Honolulu, Hawaii. Mr. Richardson will return to Hawaii, where Mrs. Richardson will join him in November.

Among the pre-nuptial courtesies was a rehearsal dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Richardson, parents of the bridegroom, in the Lamar Dining Room on Friday night and a simultaneous bridal shower given by Mrs. Travis Taylor of Amarillo. Aqua-tinted punch was served by Miss Marilyn Brown, also of Amarillo. Mrs. Mark Buzzard, gifts.

Chief Jim Conner Is Altrusa Guest Speaker

ALTRUSA SPEAKER

Chief of Police Jim Conner, guest speaker at the Altrusa Club luncheon meeting held Monday in the Pampa Hotel, was introduced by Mr. Lorene Locke, Public Affairs chairman.

With sixty-six and a half million vehicles driven by 80 million licensed drivers covering 650 million miles a year in the United States, citizens, both driving and walking, must become traffic-conscious, were the introductory statements made by Chief of Police Jim Conner at the Altrusa Club luncheon on Monday in the Pampa Hotel.

Mrs. Lorene Locke, Altrusa Public Affairs chairman, introduced Chief Conner as a member of the local police force for the past 16 years and Chief of Police since 1952.

"40,000 people are killed and 1,400,000 are injured on US highways every year, resulting in a dollar and cent loss of $5 1/2 million. There is an average of seven Texans killed per day, which is approximately every three hours and 44 minutes. There is one person injured every four minutes," Chief Conner said. "If we knew of a disaster, of any kind, that would take place within the next 12 months, with this death and injury rate, every state official and private citizen would become alarmed."

"Tremendous progress has been made locally in lowering the death and injury rate since 1957. We began working on traffic ordinances here in 1956 and studied the plans working in other cities. Since each city has a different problem, it was necessary to work out the ordinances that would best suit Pampa. In 1957, traffic ordinances in the city of Pampa were approved and passed by the City Commission and a traffic commission was formed. It is staffed by 14 members and a chairman appointed by the mayor. James Hart is the present traffic commission chairman."

Mr. and Mrs. Homer R. Kitchens

MATURE PARENT Golden Date Noted By The Kitchens

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The red cardboard horn was tied to the baby's stroller. As Alan's mother hadn't yet emerged from the supermarket, he decided to blow it while he had the chance. Certainly its owner didn't seem to mind. At the sound of the horn's hoarse peep, he just went on placidly sucking his thumb.

So Alan was preparing to blow it again when the lady rushed—at him, grabbed it and cried, "Freshie! Don't you know you can spread germs by doing things like that?"

So shocked was Alan by this disapproval that he ran into the supermarket to find his mother. But instead of sharing his shock, she said, "She was just scared 'you might hurt her baby. After all, that's not so strange. She doesn't know you, does she?" So the strange lady's disapproval lost its shock effect and soon became tolerable to Alan.

As he's entering school this fall, this was a good thing.

His acceptance of the strange lady's disapproval will help him live more comfortably with the lady called teacher may be occasionally disapproving, too.

Little children about to enter school need to discover the fact that the world isn't wholly peopled by adoring Mommies and Daddies. And they do discover it, if we don't interfere. Aunt Mable glares at Jane when she spills her milk; the supermarket clerk blows up at Eddie's investigations of his fruit counter. Jane and Eddie are quite aware that these growups do not feel parental affection for them and are quite able to stand this reality if we can.

But if we habitually try to protect them against other adults' disapproval by protesting it on their behalf, we are doing them a disservice. Then, as school time nears, they begin to wonder if teacher will. And becoming scared that she won't, they may either insist on our staying around to see that she does or refuse to approach her at all.

In the preschool weeks the more easily we can tolerate other people's criticism of children, the less disturbed they are by the prospect of teachers. Then they can approach her with realistic expectations.

In the recent collections, Paris showed satin coats with swansdown linings for evening. Swan was used for capes, collars and trimming, too.

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My son is 15. My neighbors have complained that he and his pals have been shooting at robins' nests with their BB guns. Abby, I had nothing to do with my son's buying a BB gun. He bought it with money saved from his allowance, so I can't take the gun away from him.

The neighbors say that my son killed a few baby robins. But what are a few baby robins compared with a son's love for his mother? I don't want to risk losing my son's love by doing anything that might turn him against me. And I don't want the boy's father to hear of this because he has a terrible temper. What can I do?

MOM: DEAR MOM: A boy who uses a BB gun to kill robins should have his gun confiscated, no matter who paid for it. If he saved his money and bought marijuanas, would you let him smoke it because he bought it with his own allowance?

Your definition of "love" baffles me. A mother who truly loves her son does not withhold punishment when he needs it. Better to let his ill-tempered father deal with him now than to cry useless tears later. You are raising a problem for society.

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago when I married Jim (not his real name), his sister, Mary, (not her real name) let me know that I was not welcome in their family. (My "crime" was being older than Jim). Mary is the bossy sister and she runs the whole family.

I was excluded from all family gatherings. I felt bad, but I never made an issue of it. Now, Mary's daughter (whom I haven't seen in four years) is being married. Mary telephoned me that "Aunties" were expected to give showers, and when am I going to give mine?

I don't care to give this bride a shower because I feel that I am being used. My husband says I should give one anyway. What do you say?

BETTY (not my real name) DEAR BETTY: I say, if you give a shower, you are the biggest

RUTH MILLETT

Once a woman makes up her own mind that she isn't attractive, it's not hard for her to convince the rest of the world that she's right.

For one thing, she has an apologetic air that says louder than words, "I'm really not much—but if I keep real still maybe nobody will notice."

Then, too, the belief that she can't compete against other women keeps her from walking straight and tall and proud, makes her enter rooms timidly, and makes her too shy to express her own opinions.

Somehow or other she gets the idea that if she never makes any pretense at being good at anything, she won't be criticized. So she runs herself down constantly. "I don't know how I could have been so stupid," she says. And she is always making other self-deprecating remarks such as "clumsy me" and "an old maid like me" and so on.

It never occurs to her that she can build other people up without tearing herself down in contrast. She can't praise another's talents without pointing out that she has none herself.

When she does excel at something, she denies it. Even those who want to give her credit for an accomplishment find it hard going. She can't accept any compliment without protest.

School Child Needs Post-School Snack

Nutritionists encourage the after-school snack because the growing child needs food more frequently than adults. As one sees people in business, trades, and homemakers over their "coffee breaks," she decides that snacks have become a necessary part of modern American life. True, the average family does not have the heavy meals that the previous generation did, but certainly the children need nourishment between meals if the snack is kept scant in calories. Children enjoy preparing their own light-lunches when they come from school. An easy one for them to try first is a graham cracker sandwich. Honey spread on the cracker and topped with peanut butter is a favorite with children and their mothers because it's a wholesome food. The new honey spreads such as creamed honey or honey butter made by mixing equal parts of honey and butter together, are delicious on a cracker, on bread, or on ginger-snaps. Homemakers can surprise the young snack-makers by sending them to the refrigerator to find more elaborate snacks awaiting them. They might be called "Friday snacks" because by the end of the week the child is tired and will be delighted to find a "bite" ready for him. Dates, prunes, or figs filled with honey, creamed honey, or honey spread makes a good surprise snack for children of any age. Beverages are just as nutritious and, if dinner is to be early or heavier than usual, are a substitute for the more filling snacks. Honey-spiced milk is a favorite. To one cup of milk add 3 tablespoons honey, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon of ginger. Heat and serve warm or hot on ready-to-eat cereal or serve with doughnuts for Halloween. Even one tablespoon of honey stirred into one cup of milk is energy promoting. A hungry child is irritable; a satisfied child is a happy one.

X-15 Succeeds 'Other Woman' Gives Errant Husband Comfort, Sympathy

By STAN HALL
United Press International

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — The rocket-powered X-15 has passed its first powered flight with flying colors.

Next major step: Taking man 100 miles up to the fringes of space—at speeds of more than 4,000 miles an hour.

The sleek 50-foot craft proved beyond expectation Thursday that it is an airworthy half rocketship, half airplane that can streak through the thin upper atmosphere under its own power.

North American Aviation test pilot Scott Crossfield showed that the powerful craft will respond to the commands of its pilot.

Crossfield expertly guided the stubby-winged X-15 over a 100-mile course above the Mojave Desert for 11 minutes before bringing it down on Rogers Dry Lake at 200 miles an hour. Any lesser speed might cause the craft to drop like a stone because of its abbreviated wings designed for the thin atmosphere.

"Everything worked perfectly," announced Crossfield.

The Air Force said the actual powered flight lasted only four minutes, two minutes less than expected.

The shortened powered flight time was explained as being the result of the craft's superior performance. The fuel burned faster, the craft went higher and faster than anticipated.

No exact performance figures were released, but the Air Force said the X-15 sped through the sky at 1,300 to 1,400 miles an hour and climbed "in excess of 50,000 feet."

By RON BURTON
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — The so-called other woman in the eternal triangle usually isn't as pretty as the ewing husband's wife, doesn't dress particularly well and doesn't know him as well—but she does listen to him, and she does give him comfort and sympathy.

These are the conclusions of Dr. James A. Peterson, minister, marriage counseling professor at the University of Southern California and narrator of a TV dramatic series based on his 25 years in the clergy and in family counseling.

"The other woman frequently comes to see me in the course of a counseling," Dr. Peterson said.

"I've seen and talked to many of them. Their makeup and dress are ordinary. Often they're not so pretty as the wives. Of course, they at first may appear new and fresh to husbands, but you must remember that even a new car soon becomes just transportation."

Dr. Peterson, a gray-haired, friendly man who never hesitates for a word, said the other woman falls into three fairly distinct categories. His experiences with them are reflected in material for the TV show, "For Better Or Worse" (CBS-TV).

Termed Tragic Figure. "The real tragedy of the other woman situation is that she is basically a tragic figure," he said.

"In most cases it is she and not the husband who has the problems. It is she who needs psychiatric care."

Peterson calls the first type in the group the sociopath. She's a person who is essentially a transient in many ways. She doesn't pay her bills; she's amoral, egotistic, moderately attractive but no siren and has no feeling for propriety.

He finds one sub-group here—a neurotic who was hurt at home by her parents, probably in competition with other children. She feels unworthy and gets herself in unpleasant situations as self-punishment. She's afraid of the responsibility of being a wife and would say "no" if her married lover asked her to marry him.

This is the kind who is not very attractive—the ugly duckling as a child.

Type number two needs love desperately. She has to be loved. She probably was rejected by her father. "This is the first man who's ever shown me tenderness, and I'd do anything for him," one woman—a co-called office wife—told Peterson.

The third kind is, in Peterson's gently enunciated words, a little stupid.

Gets Involved Unwittingly. "She unwittingly gets involved," he said. "She's probably a secretary and, like many secretaries, is closer to the man than his wife is. She comforts him. She sees his troubles. She meets his emotional needs."

"Suddenly they're entangled—but she's the most troubled one in the triangle. She comes to me and says, 'I didn't want this situation. I love him.'"

"The husband tells me, 'I love my wife, I'm an elder in the church, and I have children. How did I get here?'"

"The husbands actually have problems only in the third case," said Peterson, a graduate of the University of Chicago seminary and the son of a Congregational home missionary. "The wives—well, in many cases they say their husbands must have been missing something at home—that their husbands' needs weren't being met.

"To me this is very important. Realizing this is half the battle of counseling. Marriage really is nothing more than a series of needs which must be met."

FHA Looking Forward To 18 Months Of Relative Calm

By EDWARD COWAN
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Housing Administration (FHA), whose mortgage insuring program has been down but not out for most of the year, is looking forward to 18 months or so of relative calm.

The reason: Congress' "third try" housing bill — the one that was finally acceptable to President Eisenhower after two predecessors were vetoed — gave FHA $8 billion dollars of new insuring authority with no cutoff date.

Officials figure that sum should cover the agency's mortgage insuring activities through 1960.

Passage of the bill may also make it easier for home buyers to get FHA-backed financing. With the agency using "agreements to insure" instead of the old-fashioned firm commitments, builders and lenders who watched the tug of war between the Democratic Congress and the Republican President were starting to shy away from FHA deals.

FHA Teetering Along

When the year's third housing bill cleared Congress the FHA was teetering along on unused insurance authority of 500 million dollars. The agency had been balancing its insuring operation on that sort of financial high wire for many months.

The housing bill has two provisions that will affect some home buyers directly:

— It lifts from $20,000 to $22,500 the maximum insurable mortgage on a one-family house. The ceiling for a two-family dwelling was lifted from $20,000 to $25,000.

— It authorizes a cut in minimum downpayments on houses costing more than $15,500. For example, on a house valued at $16,000 the downpayment would be lowered from $780 to $655. FHA Commissioner Julian H. Zimmerman will probably put the lower requirements into effect this autumn in time to help bolster home builders prospects for next year.

The bill also extended for one year — until Oct. 1, 1960 — the FHA's program of insuring home improvement loans up to $6,000. Another shot in the arm will go to the government's slum clearance and urban renewal program. The bill carried 350 million dollars for this year and 300 million dollars for 1960.

Applications Stalled

Applications for federal grants have been stalled since January when money ran out. (There was no housing legislation in 1958). Officials estimate that applications for about 300 million dollars of slum clearance funds are in various stages of processing.

Spokesman for the program promised that the applications — from cities all over the nation — would be processed as speedily as possible. Projects begun with previously committed funds have not been affected. But the start of new projects has definitely been delayed in some places.

The bill increased from $100 to $200 maximum payments to individuals who are forced out of urban renewal areas in some circumstances. The top allowance to businesses was raised from $2,500 to $3,000.

A new feature in the government's array of housing programs is not expected to get going for quite a few months. This is direct loans for construction of housing for elderly persons. The bill authorized $5 million dollars for such lending but no money can actually be doled out until Congress makes an appropriation. That won't come before January, at the very earliest.

Ike, Nikita Trade Toasts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev told President Eisenhower at a glittering banquet recently that "the ice of the cold war... has started to crumble" as a result of his U.S. visit.

Toasting his "good friend" the President with a goblet of champagne, Khrushchev predicted that his meeting with Eisenhower would lead to "a warm spell in international relations."

Eisenhower, replying with a champagne toast of his own, expressed hope that the talks "mean at least the beginning of that melting of the ice of which Mr. Khrushchev speaks."

The leaders exchanged the sentiments at the end of Khrushchev's dinner for the President and Mrs. Eisenhower and top U.S. officials in the "golden hall" of the Soviet embassy.

The menu included such Russian dishes as Ukrainian borscht, Caucasian shashlik, and caviar; served on gold plated dishes borrowed from the Mayflower hotel. Vodka and two kinds of Russian wine were served during a cocktail hour and vodka and four types of wine were on the U-shaped table for dinner.

Guests described the banquet as "friendly" and "a good party."

After the dinner, Eisenhower and Khrushchev engaged in a "general discussion" of world problems.

In his friendly, sometimes witty toast, Khrushchev said, "The ice of the cold war has not only already shown signs of a crack, but

Randall Lifts Weights To Keep In Shape For Career

"TV-OFF CAMERA"
By DOC QUIGG
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Anyone for serious drama, comedy, musical comedy, parlor songs, monologues, panel shows, hosting, producing — on TV, the stage, radio, the movies, records?

Tony Randall, one of the busiest and most versatile young men in show business, is the man for any one of these occupations, and it's hard to say at any given moment just which one he'll be doing next in what medium.

His show business life is so strenuous that he works out lifting weights — two hours a day, five days a week — just to keep in shape.

And he has added a new dimension. He's now a writer. He has recorded, for issuance soon, a record album entitled "Hits And Pieces" in which he sings eight songs and does four monologues. He wrote the monologues himself, every word.

Bitten By Writing Bug

The writing bug got him a couple of years ago when he replaced Steve Allen on the old "Tonight" show for six performances. He was determined to be as successful at ad-libbing, so he sat down and wrote out all his ad libs the night before each show. A year later, he replaced Godfrey and trusted himself to ad-lib for real. But writing was added to his repertoire, and he kept at it.

Next month, in addition to the issuance of the record album, he's due to star with Sid Caesar on the latter's opening CBS-TV special and with Rock Hudson and Doris Day in the Universal motion picture "Pillow Talk." And not long after that he takes off for Hollywood and the choice character role of "The King" in the movie version of Mark Twain's "Huckleberry Finn."

Acted In Teens

Randall began acting professionally in his early teens back home in Tulsa, Okla. He was on the Broadway stage both before and after World War II, but his big chance to do comedy came on television, and it won him national public attention. That was on the "Mr. Peepers" TV series of some years ago when he played Peepers' buddy, Mr. Weskit.

He had worked as a radio announcer as well as an actor before the war. After wartime service in the Signal Corps, he came out to some lean, hard times trying to get re-established and employed. Finally, he got on the old Henry Morgan half-hour radio show in comedy routines, and he's never been out of work since — hardly even had time to snatch a vacation.

Andrew Duggan, left, and Richard Long hang out at the Absinthe House in "Bourbon Street Beat." If the theme seems familiar...

RED WRITER BANNED
LONDON (UPI) — The United States refused a visa to Frank Gullet of the London Daily Worker who wanted to cover Premier Nikita Khrushchev's tour, editor George Matthews of the Communist newspaper said Thursday. Matthews said he was advised of the rejection by telephone from the U. S. embassy.

SKELTON HOSPITALIZED
SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Physicians said today that comedian Red Skelton, 46, probably will be released Monday from St. John's Hospital where he has been resting since he returned last weekend from a personal tour of Japan. Doctors said Skelton has started to crumble.

"I believe that by joint effort we will reach the objective and will really melt the ice and create normal conditions of life for our peoples and good friendly relations between our states."

Raising his glass at the end of the toast, the Soviet leader declared, "To your health, dear guests. To all those present here, although this wine is cold, may our relations become warmer."

matter of FACT

Fifteen spoken vowels are commonly used in English. These are musical tones produced in the voice-box (larynx) and sent through the throat and mouth. The mouth is shaped differently for each vowel. A clear idea of spoken vowels is gained by saying these words aloud: hit, hoot, hat, hot and hut. They are alike except for the vowels. Notice the differences in mouth shape and sound required to produce them.

The Oil Outlook

By MARVIN OLSEN
Dunigan Re-Elected

A Pampa oilman, E. J. Dunigan Jr., has been re-elected the Panhandle district vice president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association. It was announced in Houston Friday.

The association held its elections Wednesday in Houston. Four new district vice presidents were elected and a total of 25 new directors were named.

Named president of the association was Estill S. Hayser Jr., 45, an independent oil producer and attorney from Dallas. He had been a vice president the past two years and was one of the planners in the recently announced reorganization of the association for more effective Washington representation of the industry.

AICE Meet Set

The September meeting of the Texas Panhandle Plains section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers (AICE) will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Sam Houston Jr. High in Borger.

Speaker of the evening will be Dr. C. F. Hammer Jr., a superintendent for DuPont at their Sabine River Works in Orange. His subject will be "Polymer Engineering."

Union Figures Drop

The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union (OCAW) — which convenes Oct. 5 in Cleveland for its 5th Constitutional convention — reports that there has been a net loss in union membership despite the fact that nearly 22,000 new members were added to OCAW's rolls this year.

The OCAW, in a news release dated Wednesday, went on to state that:

"The officers (at the convention Oct. 5) will report that, in general, OCAW has been subjected, along with other unions, to a severe two-pronged attack by management, both in collective bargaining and in legislation.

"Strikes in the past year have been more serious and of longer duration than ever before in the union's history. Most of these work stoppages have been efforts to prevent management from taking away contract provisions and protections that have been in effect many years.

"A detailed, audited financial report (to be presented at the Cleveland convention) will show that while a small net increase in the union's total resources took place in the fiscal year, operating funds have declined as expenses took a heavy toll, particularly in strike payments."

The OCAW convention will open Oct. 5 and likely close either Friday (Oct. 9) or Saturday. Delegates are expected from 40 states and 6 Canadian provinces.

Drilling Increase

During the week of Sept. 14 there were 128 rotary rigs drilling in West Texas, three more than a week ago, the Hughes Tool Co. reports.

Across the state there were 722 rigs in operation, or 23 less than the previous week. A year ago on Sept. 13 there were 155 rigs drilling in West Texas and 681 rigs in operation across the state.

Oil Co. Promotion

George W. Nichols of Minneapolis has been promoted by the Apache Oil Co. from assistant to the chief accountant to chief accountant.

Nichols, a University of Minnesota graduate, joined Apache in 1958. He is 29.

PGAC Name Change

Stockholders of Perforating Guns Atlas Corp. of Houston voted recently to change the company's corporate name to Pan Geo Atlas Corp.

Following the decision to change the company's name, Paul Charin, president, said:

"For a long time our former name was not appropriate for our business — due, primarily, to our many new oilfield services developed over the years and our expansion to world-wide operations.

"Our firm has been popularly known as 'PGAC' for many years throughout the oil industry; and this symbol of identification will continue because each word of our new corporate name carries the same first letter as formerly."

District manager of PGAC in Pampa is J. C. Boyles.

Personnel

Realignment

Realignment of key personnel in the sales division of the expanded Maloney-Crawford Tank and Manufacturing Co. was announced Saturday at Tulsa by Vice president W. H. Ladd.

Among those promoted were Ed C. Kopp, to vice president at Ft. Worth office; George W. Smith, sales manager at Houston; Clint B. Warren, division sales engineer; Thomas G. Mayes, branch manager at Tulsa; Mac W. Miller, division sales engineer at Dallas; Charles K. Gravis, division sales engineer in Harvey, La.; James W. Young, branch manager at Lafayette, La.; Fran J. Henke, branch manager in Corpus Christi; and H. R. Stoker, branch manager at Nocona.

Mobile Raises A Red Light

By HARRY WILSON SHARPE
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—General Counsel John J. Scott of Socony Mobil Oil Co. raised a red light this week against pressuring Congress for "special interest" legislation.

In the oil industry, he warned, it works almost invariably like a complicated Rube Goldberg machine, he said, "People convince themselves that a piece of legislative machinery is the ideal device for solving their special problems. What they don't see is that this complicated machine—in the long run—is very likely to apply a boot to their own posterior."

Scott gave his views in the company's magazine, the Flying Red Horse, in the wake of sine die adjournment of Congress. The lawmakers went home without passing major oil bills but with plenty in reserve when they return Jan. 7.

There is the famous 8-11, for example. It would curb so-called "good faith" price concessions and is being pushed relentlessly by its co-author, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.). Then there is an increasingly strong bloc determined to cut the 27 1/2 percent income tax depletion allowance.

Faces Close Scrutiny

The latter, called the lifeblood of petroleum and natural gas and mentioned specifically by Scott, faces close scrutiny starting Nov. 1 when the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee opens hearings on general tax revision.

Some marketing elements keep constant pressure on Congress to reduce the allowance. Retail outlets have followed a similar course with pricing legislation.

Scott warned all segments of the industry that these measures are in the Rube Goldberg category, and said in effect that it is time to "stop and think."

He asserted that in almost every instance where one area of oil wins preferential legislation, the whole industry and consumers ultimately are hurt.

"Sometimes the law works like a Rube Goldberg machine," he said. "People convince themselves that a piece of legislative machinery is the ideal device for solving their special problems. What they don't see is that this complicated machine—in the long run—is very likely to apply a boot to their own posterior."

Scott included mandatory oil import curbs as an "example" of what can happen. Socony is a big importer and was among those forced to cut back their shipments.

"Many oil producers had argued long and hard for import controls," he continued. "But then came the boot. When the curbs were set up the decree included a clause saying the government would maintain 'surveillance' of oil prices.

"No one is quite sure what the word means but it strongly implies that the government expects to keep enough oil coming into the country to prevent domestic producers from raising prices. It is common knowledge that production costs are steadily rising. But now, if they try to get a higher price for their crude, the government has arrogated to itself the power to stop it."

New Construction Techniques Save Weight In Small Cars

By JACK VANDENBERG

DETROIT (UPI)—The demand for a more economical American built car which forced the auto industry's "Big Three" to bring out their smaller autos will benefit even those who decide to continue buying larger ones.

Under the pressure of developing a smaller car which would provide greater economy while maintaining most of the comforts of the bigger cars, the auto companies came up with new construction techniques which resulted in weight-savings in the small cars.

Eventually these new techniques will be used on the standard sized cars, resulting in lower costs because of materials savings and greater economy of operation because of reduced weight.

Saved Six Pounds

Ford Motor Co., for example, saved six pounds in developing its new Falcon merely by making the top of the gas tank serve as the floor of the trunk. This meant one piece of metal doing the job formerly requiring two.

In all Ford was able to save three quarters of a ton in developing its Falcon. Some of this of course resulted from the scaled down dimensions of the Falcon compared with Ford's standard-sized Fairlane.

But Ford officials, from President Henry Ford II down through a long list of engineers who spoke about development of the Falcon, emphasized that much of the saving was the result of new techniques.

"It was possible to achieve all of this through the most extreme design simplification and critically accurate engineering," Ford said. "If we had not been able to reduce weight without impairing handling and roadability — we would not have been able to build a car of this quality and size to sell in this new price class.

"It's the three-quarters of a ton we've taken out that makes possible the low price to the consumer."

Aided By Mutt
Ford Vice President Robert S. McNamara said his company's development of the military utility tactical truck (Mutt), the Army's successor to the jeep, aided in the development of the Falcon.

"In recent years," because weight was not a major factor, engineers tended to figure out on paper how much strength was needed in a part, and then double or triple the specifications just to be sure," he said.

"When our engineers designed the Mutt, they couldn't afford this approach. They had to engineer in needpoint theoretical tolerances and then make sure they passed the grueling tests of the proving ground," he said.

HONESTY BEST POLICY

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Honesty paid off for Charles A. Lupine, 31, when he admitted Friday in an accident case that he had six or seven bottles of beer and was "too drunk to drive." Judge Loren L. Lewis, noting it was the first time he had heard anyone admit to more than "one or two beers," suspended Lupine's 30-day jail term, and put him on probation for a year.

DOG DIDN'T WATCH

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Brooklyn watchdog got his cope and robbards mixed up Friday. Police said the dog merely wagged his tail when two armed bandits ransacked a home of $3,000 worth of silver and terrorized three women occupants. Later, when two men

Surplus Stock Forces Slash In October Oil Allowable

AUSTIN (UPI)—A surplus of stock crude and products oil today forced the Texas Railroad Commission to slash the state's October daily oil allowable 51,536 barrels.

The commission set the October allowable at 2,714,862 barrels daily on a nine-day producing pattern. A majority of major producers had called for a 10-day pattern.

Charles O. Shaver of Humble Oil and Refining Co. nominated an 11-day pattern and told the commission that Humble had lost one crude customer because it couldn't supply his demand for 20,000 barrels daily. He said Humble was unable to buy spot oil.

Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson reminded Shaver the product stocks were still high although crude was below desired level.

Thompson said the total stocks of crude and products were 58,300,000 barrels above the level the industry had said was desirable last March. Total stocks of crude and products were 631,300,000 barrels, Thompson said.

The commission set its next production hearing for Oct. 16 in Austin.

Indiana Oil Co., Shell Oil Co. and E. L. Wilson, a Dallas independent, called for a nine-day pattern.

Atlantic Oil Co., Magnolia Petroleum Co., Cities Service Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Sinclair Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co., Standard Oil Co. of Texas, Phillips Petroleum Co. urged a 10-day schedule.

Baby's Energy Requirement 3 Times Greater Than Adult's

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI)—Twenty-three centuries ago, Hippocrates, the father of medicine, said: "Growing bodies have the most heat; they therefore require the most food."

Modern scientific research into the energy metabolism of infants and young children verifies the accuracy of Hippocrates' observation.

It has been shown that in calories per pound of body weight, the energy requirements of young babies might be three times that of an active adult.

By the end of the first year of life, the rate drops to about double that of adults.

The high caloric requirements of babies is the result of three factors: Relatively high basal metabolism; perpetual motion and growth.

A Scientific Benchmark
Basal metabolism is a scientific benchmark meaning energy spent in barely keeping the body alive.

The daily caloric needs of infants from one month to two years of age, for checking purposes, follows:

—One month, 500 calories; two months, 600; four months, 700; six months, 800; nine months, 900; one year, 1,000; two years, 1,200.

Carbohydrates, proteins and fats are the main sources of energy—calories. After ingestion, these bring about changes leading to their ultimate oxidation—burning.

It is through this combustion that energy stored in foods is released to power body activities. Carbohydrates are the most readily available sources of energy. Requiring the fewest chemical changes before oxidation.

'Mack the Knife' Climbs To Top

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bobby Darin's version of the old-time tune "Mack the Knife" was the nation's top song this week, according to United Press International's top 20 survey.

The Browns' "The Three Bells," leader for the last five weeks, fell to the number three spot. Santo and Johnny's "Sleepwalk" was in the second position.

There was little change in the rest of the top 10, with "Till I Kissed You," "I'm Gonna Get Married," "Red River Rock" and "Teen Beat" the next four songs in that order.

Four newcomers to the top 20

The RECORD SHOP

were the Fleetwoods' "Mr. Blue," the Fireflies' "You Were Mine," Bobby Rydell's "Kissin' Time," and Andy Williams' "Lonely Street."

The Almanac

United Press International

Today is Sunday, Sept. 20, the 263rd day of the year, with 102 more days in 1959.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Venus. The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Mercury.

On this date in history:

In 1519, the Portuguese navigator Ferdinand Magellan began his global voyage to find a western passage to the Indies.

In 1797, the United States frigate "Constitution" (Old Ironsides) was launched at the Boston Navy Yard.

In 1850, Congress voted to ban slave trading in the District of Columbia.

In 1921, one of the earliest radio newscasts in the United States got underway at station KDKA, Pittsburgh, introduced a daily news program emanating from the city desk of the Pittsburgh Post.

In 1946, Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace was asked to resign following a speech in which he criticized the current United States policy toward Russia.

A thought for today: It is written in the Bible: "He that is merry of heart hath a continual feast."
