County Officials Want 'People To Speak' Before Highway Dispersal Plan Decision

County commissioners court decided Monday afternoon the "people should speak" before final action is taken on a Texas Highway commission-approved program of spending $1,990,000 in the next three years in Lubbock county conditioned on the securing of necessary right of way by the county and the city.

The highway commission, the court was informed Sept. 14 in a letter signed by S. C. McCarty, district engineer of Lubbock, had sought the commission's approval "to a program of construction estimated to cost $965,000 in developing new highway routes through the city; four other projects providing for the widening and improvement of highways approaching Lubbock, at a cost of $792,000, and four farm-to-market projects costing $233,000."

Attached to the letter was an agreement form which "states that these various connections will be designated and locations made providing the commissioners' court is agreeable to securing the right of way beyond the city limits."

It further was pointed out that funds are not immediately available for construction of some routes described, "but it is considered desirable that the locations be made and precautions taken to prevent expensive improvements being made on the proposed new routes. Possibly three years will pass before actual construction can be started on U. S. 62 and U. S. 82 east of the city or on U. S. 84 and U. S. 62 from the traffic circle south of town to Burris switch and Wolfforth. These connections are essential, however, and it is desirable that the right-of-way agreement cover all the routes so as to allow designation and location of the entire system."

Estimates Not Received

Commissioners said they had not been furnished estimates of what the cost to the county would be, were the right-of-way to be purchased. Further, it wrote the highway engineer, "no definite action was taken in signing and approving the contracts, since a bond issue would be necessary to raise funds for the right-of-way and other requirements."

The court suggested to newsmen that the public would have to petition for a bond election before it could take any action on a proposal of such magnitude. The letter to the highway commission was signed by County Judge Walter Davies.

Proposed State Work

The Texas Highway department said that, if right-of-way were, it would designate as state highways and order locatoins made on highways connecting with the city of Lubbock as follows:

1. An alternate route for U. S. 87 from the proposed traffic circle of U. S. 87 1¾ miles south of the Lubbock city limits along a route roughly paralleling East Ave. A to connect with Ave. A at the south city limits and from the north city limits near Ave. H and the P & S F railway crossing to a point on present U. S. 87 near the Country club.

2. A new route for U. S. 87 from the traffic circle 1¾ miles south of the south city limits to a connection with Ave. Q at Thirty-fourth and from the north city limits just east of the P & S F railroad at the intersectoin of Paris Ave. and North Second to connection with the alternate route of U. S. 87 described in No. 1 proposal.

East On Nineteenth

3. A new route for U. S. 62 from the east city limits of Lubbock at Nineteenth to connection with present U. S. 62 at the curve 1.6 miles east of the east city limits.

4. A new route for U. S. 84 from the north city limits at North Fourth and Temple street along the P & S F railroad to College Ave.

5. A new route for U. S. 82 from the east city limits at Fourth to intersection with the present U. S. 82 at the Acuff road intersection.

6. A new route for U. S. 62 from the traffic circle 1¾ miles south of Thirty-fourth in a southwest direction to Wolfforth.

New Route For No. 84

7. A new route for U. S. 84 from the traffic circle 1¾ miles south of Thirty-fourth to intersection with U. S. 84 one mile southeast of Burris switch.

The agreement further provided that the county commissioners agree and obligate themselves before the location were made to fulfill the following requirements

Cannon Assails Vet Job Edicts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP)—A veterans' leader said today Selective Service is running "hog-wild" in its interpretation of "super-seniority" for returning war veterans.

James W. Cannon, general counsel for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, declared in an interview:

"Selective Service now has gone far beyond what Congress ever intended. It has mixed things up until neither business nor the labor union knows where it stands."

Legion Backs Policy

The American Legion, on the other hand, is going along with Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service director.

Here is what brought on Cannon's outburst:

Hershey has issued a new handbook to guide the 6,500 Selective Service boards, which now must see that veterans get their old jobs back.

This is the first time some veterans rights, as Selective Service sees them, have been stated so definitely.

The veteran, says Selective Service:

1. Can have his old job back—and hold it for at least a year regardless of cutbacks in the plant—if he applies for it within 90 days of discharge. A federal court has supported Selective Service on this.

Needn't Join Union

2. Does not have to join a union even though the plant may have become a closed shop in the meantime.

3. Is entitled to a job, even though several men may have been drafted from the same position. Jobs must be found for all of them.

Even if a worker signed a statement, saying he realized he was taking a job temporarily, it isn't necessarily valid, Selective Service says. The employer must prove the job is temporary. In case of doubt, the decision "should be resolved in favor of the veteran."

Senate Backs Up Acheson 69 To 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP) — Dean G. Acheson's nomination as undersecretary of state got 69 to 1 approval from the Senate today after 3½ hours debate on whether he had "rebuked" General Douglas MacArthur.

Senator Wherry (R-Neb), who cast the lone opposition vote, said Acheson had. He lost 66 to 12 a move to send the nomination back to the foreign relations committee.

Majority Leader Barkley (Ky) and Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee said Acheson hadn't.

Tempest In Teapot

Senator Edwin Johnson (D-Colo) said it looked to him "like a tempest in a teapot."

That was about the sum total of the arguments. But a lot of harsh words went into their presentation.

Nobody came right out and said so, but there were broadhints that some senators believed political feeling was mixed up in the whole matter .MacArthur is a prominent Republican and was mentioned last year as a possible presidential nominee.

One such hint came when Connally shook his finger at Wherry and told him, "I'm not blindly following some administration leader — or any political leader either."

Started Last Week

The controversy got its start last week when MacArthur announced that after six months he can handle Japan with 200,000 regular Army troops and let the draftees go home.

The statement clearly was a shock around the State department. Asked about it, Acheson

Terminal Leave For Enlisted Men Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The American Legion has drawn up a bill to give enlisted men the same terminal leave rights as officers.

A Legion spokesman said it probably will be introduced in the House tomorrow.

Officers leaving the service get 30 days pay for each year, or major portion of a year, they have spent in service. The Navy has a limit of 90 days terminal leave, the Army 120.

Michigan Steps Into Detroit Labor Scrap

Governor Checks Reports That Only Small Minority Control Situation

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Sept. 24—The state of Michigan entered Detroit's troubled labor situation today as a variety of disputes and layoffs continued to keep 90,000 persons idle.

Asserting he had reports that "not more than 25 per cent" of the strikers at the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel Co. plant in Detroit favor the month-old strike there, Gov. Harry F. Kelly ordered an investigation into efforts made to end it and the attitude of the 4,500 idle workers.

Repudiated By UAW

He pointed out that the strike had been repudiated by the United Automobile Workers (CIO). Governor Kelly said: "I am interested in finding out if it really is the will and wish of the majority of the strikers."

The Kelsey-Hayes strike precipitated the layoff of 50,000 Ford Motor company automobile production workers. Kelsey-Hayes supplied wheels and brake drums for Ford.

The strikes demand rehiring of three minor union officials whose dismissal for ejection of a plant foreman were upheld by the War Labor board.

Demand Sent Thomas

George W. Kennedy, president of Kelsey-Hayes, wired R. J. Thomas, UAW-CIO president, today demanding that he "instruct employes of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company that their representatives are conducting a strike that is unauthorized," and adding: "After our employes have returned to work, I shall, at that time, be willing to meet with you for the purpose of negotiating a written contract."

Whether the UAW-CIO's demand for an industry-wide 30 per cent wage increase would be climaxed with a strike in one of the larger automobile producing companies remained uncertain today. The big union, which filed a petition with the National Labor Relations board Saturday for a strike vote among most of General Motors' 325,000 employes, will open wage negotiations tomorrow with Chrysler corporation.

Strike Vote Petition

Norman Mathews representing the UAW in Chrysler corporation, said tomorrow's conference would not delay the filing of a petition for a strike vote among Chrysler workers, variously estimated at from 90,000 to 120,000. Mathews said polls taken in several states Sunday among Chrysler employes showed an "overwhelming" majority in favor of a strike vote.

The UAW-CIO's Ford department already has announced that a strike vote petition among the 109,000 Ford employes throughout the country will be filed "about October 1."

Comment Withheld

General Motors, Chrysler and Ford continued to withhold comment regarding the 30 per cent wage increase demand.

Governor Kelly declined to indicate what he might do if he finds that a minority of the Kelsey-Hayes workers are responsible for the strike in that plant.

"I'll cross that bridge when I come to it," he said. "I am, however, very definitely antagonistic toward minority rule in any walk of American life."

Oil Strike Area Remains Calm

(By The Associated Press)

Sixteen Texas plants were cold and quiet yesterday as almost 22,000 gulf coast oil workers remained idle on strike.

Union officials were en route to Chicago for a meditation conference designed to break the paralyzing strike.

Strike areas were calm. No violence has been reported, and Adjutant General Arthur B. Knickerbocker of the Texas State Guard denied rumors any unit had been alerted.

Gen. Knickerbocker said the state guard has no intention of moving toward martial law in connection with the refinery workers strike.

Fuel Shortage Acute

The gasoline shortage remained acute at Port Arthur. Rationing was urged at Galveston, where "panic buying" would deplete stocks quickly. The run on Houston service stations had abated yesterday.

Houston Local 367 was meeting tonight to discuss the situation at the Texas company refinery at Galena Park, near Houston. A strike had been voted there but has not been called.

The Shell Oil company's bulk depot reported a three-day supply of gasoline on hand and C. A. Heilman, depot foreman, said, "we hope to make it last a week," by limiting deliveries. Texas company stations were open but some Sinclair stations were without gasoline.

Conference At Baytown

At Baytown, representatives of the Baytown Employes federation, an independent union which holds bargaining powers for employes of the Humble Oil and Refining company plant there, were conferring with company officials on a wage adjustment. The federation, like the union, is seeking 52 hours pay for a 40-hour work week.

The Galena Park refinery has about 200 employes.

Republic Pipeline company and Taylor Refining company workers near Corpus Christi said Sunday night they would not strike. Earlier, union officials had obtained a 100 per cent strike vote at Republic and Taylor.

Picketing has been orderely. At Port Arthur, Union President J. D. Ford said all men in the picket line at the main Texaco gate were ex-servicemen.

Leave For Chicago

Four Oil Workers International union (CIO) officials headed by President O. A. Knight of Fort Worth left Sunday for Chicago. Knight said he was "hopeful" of returning with an "understanding which will permit oil workers to continue working with no reduc-

Russia Opens New Problem For Big Five

By JOHN A. PARRIS, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Russia tonight raised an entire new issue—speeding the repatriation of Soviet nationals—at the conference of Big Five foreign ministers, swinging discussion farther away from the main problems of European peace settlements.

This development apparently came as a surprise to American and British delegates, who earlier found themselves stymied with the Russians over the question of emergency control of Europe's inland waterways.

Diplomatic quarters were unable to explain immediately how the repatriation question was injected into the discussions at this stage.

Highly Complex Issues

A source close to the foreign ministers said the issue was highly complex. It is understood that one major problem is the fact that many persons claimed by the Soviet Union deny that they are Russian nationals and refuse to budge.

The question was said to be complicated further by the changed or uncertain border lines in postwar Europe, particularly those of Poland.

Until the repatriation issue came up, temporary control of Europe's rivers and canals had been the chief topic before the foreign ministers.

Disagreements Mount

Divergence of views between Russia, on one side, and the United States and Great Britain on the other, again cropped up in the discussions, adding to the mounting heap of disagreements of the past two weeks.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin held a series of Big Three conferences over the week-end in an effort to remove impasses over crucial issues.

The new conflicts broke out when they and the French and Chinese foreign ministers met today to consider immediate action toward getting water traffic moving before winter intensifies food supply and other problems.

China Faces Tough One In Highly-Watered Currency

Dinner For 4 Costs $3,000,000

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—Dinner for four—with drinks—cost 3,000,000 local dollars in Shanghai today.

One doesn't need to be an economist to appreciate that this is just the beginning of the trail of economic confusion left by what some able phrase-maker has called Japan's "cut-rate imperialism."

This means that the Japanese, spreading in 1942 from Manchuria to Burma and Bali, flooded Asia and the Southwest Pacific with currency worth no more than the paper it was printed on.

Shanghai, where one U. S. dollar will buy 140,000 local paper dollars, is just the beginning. Shanghai money was printed locally by the puppet government which functioned under the Japanese. It was issued by a puppet bank called the Central Reserve Bank of China.

A late dispatch from Chungking indicates that the Chinese government for the time being is allowing this money to circulate, "pending the completion of an investigation" into the actual amount of currency issued by the bank and what, if any, reserves are back of it.

In the meantime it cannot be used to pay taxes, nor will official banks accept it. The Chinese are trying to make up their mind what to do—outlaw it completely, or set a value whereby it can be turned in for legal money which will be shipped in or printed.

They recognize there is no fair way to solve this problem. If a value is set, collaborators will reap a harvest—and everybody in Shanghai had to collaborate to some extent to keep alive. If the puppet money is outlawed, poor people will suffer most and many will starve.

Chinese problems are aggravated by the fact that their own legal tender is all paper and is so inflated from wartime economic strain that price levels are several hundred times pre-war figures.

In the Philippines, returning Americans simply outlawed Japanese occupation pesos, which became souvenirs and waste paper. The British have done the same thing for the spurious Hongkong "dollar" issued by the Japanese.

Wherever the Japanese went he left a clear trail of "legalized" robbery behind him. His presses rolled out requisitions for the sweat and savings of Asia.

Reparations? How can you calculate how much of something the Japanese got for nothing—for three years at the least—from half the working people of the world?

Rumor On Hirohito's Abdication Vanishes

Emperor May Call On MacArthur; New Strict Controls Put On Japs

(By The Associated Press)

TOKYO, Sept. 24—Emperor Hirohito—the latest abdication rumor vanishing into the thin air whence it came—was reported today to be arranging an unprecendented visit to General MacArthur.

Whether the emperor meets for the first time the alien boss of his smashed empire, as reliable Japanese sources say, a new series of drastic U. S. decrees showed that neither Hirohito nor his government now had much control over Japan's fate.

MacArthur ordered the Japanese government to install stringent wage and price controls and ration all critically-short commodities to head off wide hunger and suffering among Japan's 80,000,000 people.

Foreign Trade Frozen

MacArthur froze all Japan's trade abroad, except for approved exports or imports. These will be limited to necessities.

He forbade forthwith the import or export of bullion, currency and negotiable Japanese assets while his officers are delving into the complex financial structure that backed the nation's conquests.

He prohibited any Japanese atomic bomb research or atom splitting of any nature and placed all research laboratories of the empire under Allied control.

MacArthur tore down all Japanese government news barriers, stripped the Domei agency of its monopolistic privileges that made it the mouthpiece of the militarists, and threw the news field open to all comers.

Appointment Vetoed

The Japanese said MacArthur also vetoed Vice Premier Konoye's appointment of Seinin Ikeda, former finance minister, to the presidency of the central liaison board which works with occupation forces.

Ikeda was a former manager of the rich and powerful house of Mitsui.

The report that Hirohito would be the first emperor of Japan in modern times to go to another ruler for an audience reached the Associated Press from well-informed Japanese.

They said a decision on a meeting at the American embassy at an unannounced date was arranged recently when Admiral Jugita, grand chamberlain, called on MacArthur.

One thing was sure. There was no tangible evidence that Hirohito intended to abdicate, as a Chungking radio report said Sunday.

(Chungking radio denied it had broadcast a report. FCC monitors in Washington, who heard it, were rechecking on the theory it might have been a hoax broadcast from some other station.)

MacArthur's economic directive told the Japanese government to

Kido Says Emperor Ignored U. S. Plea As Leaders Warned On Opposing War Spirit

By RUSSELL BRINES
Associated Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, Sept. 24. — Marquis Koichi Kido, lord keeper of the privy seal, said today he believed Emperor Hirohito ignored United States peace appeals, issued two weeks before Pearl Harbor, on the advice of government lealers who told the emperor it would be unwise to oppose the war tide within Japan.

Kido, himself one of the emperor's closest advisers and a power in the selection of Japanese premiers, said in an exclusive interview all reports that Hirohito planned to abdicate were "false."

No Commoner Qualified

While foreseeing a trend toward "increased liberalism" and democracy in Japan, the marquis said "I don't see any commoner in sight" competent to become premier. Until a "people's leader" appears on the political scene, the government probably will continue to be directed by men who were influential in the military era, he added.

In well-informed Japanese circles Kido is looked upon as one of wartime collaborators with militarists, such as Gen. Hideki Tojo, and a strong member of the oligarchy which is seeking to prolong its hold on the country.

His Principal Views

The short bespectacled aristocrat who was appointed to his present influential post in 1940, delivered his opinions and views as follows:

He believed Tojo delivered President Roosevelt's peace plea to the emperor, who ignored it on the premier's advice.

Kido personally delivered to the emperor Secretary of State Hull's peace memorandum of Nov. 26, 1941, but at that time "gave no advice." Others, however, reiterated previous warnings to Hirohito that the war sentiment within Japan could not be ignored.

The marquis believed that the freezing of Japanese assets in the United States compelled Nippon to go to war, and he so advised the emperor, with the hope that Japan could bet a "50-50" break in a compromise peace.

Shocked By U. S. Demand

The U. S. State department memorandum was a "shock" to Kido because it "stipulated removal of Japanese troops from China and other requirements." Powerful Nipponese militarist would not permit compliance with U. S. terms.

Hirohito knew nothing in advance about the Pearl Harbor attack.

Kido said he had "good evidence that the emperor was informed in 1944 of foreign reports concerning Japanese atrocities against Allied prisoners, and he believed Hirohito ordered his war leaders to stop them.

The marquis "realized later" that the Pearl Harbor attack "was a big mistake because it aroused American fighting strength."

Prospects of a compromise peace were darkened with the Japanese loss of Guadalcanal, and when Saipan was taken by the Americans Kido believed Japan was beaten. Kido at that time advised the emperor the war was lost.

The emperor was able to bring about the surrender of Japan because the nation "actually was beaten down" and the militarists were not strong enough to continue the war in opposition to the throne's wishes.

Truman Doubts He'll Address VFW Session

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—The White House expressed doubt today that President Truman will be able to attend the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Chicago early next month.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters the President had accepted tentatively an invitation to address the VFW but said he thought he had cancelled the trip.

TWO CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP)—The Senate today confirmed the appointments of Frank McCarthy of Virginia as assistant secretary of state and of Maxwell M. Hamilton of Iowa as minister to Finland.

House Members Back From Trip

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP)—Six members of the House War department appropriations subcommittee were back at the capitol today after a five-week tour of American military bases around the globe, some with definite ideas as individuals about such matters as the atomic bomb and lend lease.

In the group, which made the trip to check on expenditures and determine what can be salvaged in American equipment overseas, were Reps. Snyder (D-Pa), Mahon (D-Tex), Norrell (D-Ark), Case (R-SD), Engel (R-Mich) and Tibbott (R-Pa).

Desire To Come Home

The thing that impressed him most on the trip, said Mahon, was the fervent desire of the GIs to get home.

"The delay has aroused in some of them a resentment that has approached the point of bitterness," he asserted.

"We found the greatest discontentment in those areas where the boys had nothing to do with themselves. If they were busy loading ships or doing any kind of work they didn't mind the waiting so much."

Both Mahon and Case said the return of soldiers was complicated by the fact there are "acres and acres" of American equipment around the world which can't be abandoned.

In Europe alone it aggregates 4,000,000 tons values at $8,000,000,000, said Mahon, adding that the committee intends to recommend to General George Marshall that a large portion of the material be turned over promptly to the Army-Navy liquidation board for disposal.

WE'RE not sure whether or not South Plains Dahlia society has as one of its goals the naming of the dahlia as the official flower in this section, but we see no reason why they shouldn't and about twelve reasons why they should. These reason are twelve richly colored, velvet petaled specimens which are enhancing the otherwise dull looks of the society desks, thanks to Mrs. W. B. Sides' thoughtfulness. Knowing nothing of the varieties of dahlias, we can say only they are as large as plates and twice as beautiful.

One of the blooms has all of the shadings of a Talisman rose; another is sporting orange, red and yellow markings as gay as a post card from California; there are lavender blooms as inviting as wisteria and as deep purple as ink. You should see them.

Well, if you would like to see how this climate is just what dahlias needs, you are invited to the display the society is sponsoring Saturday and Sunday in Kuykendall's Chevrolet show rooms. Moreover, if you have had any luck raising dahlias this summer, you are invited to display your own. If you have any questions, telephone Mrs. Sides or this desk and we'll pass your inquiries along.

AN ISLAND'S SURRENDER

IN coming years when Lubbock men who served their country in World War II tell of their most exciting experiences and regale their families with this and that incident, none will have a better story than Lt. (jg) Rex Webster, USNR. For Lt. Webster was aboard the USS Rhind in Apaan Bay when Pagan island was surrendered and how many Lubbockites can say they saw the surrender of an entire garrison?

Maj. Gen. Umahachi Amau, enemy commander, signed the terms surrendering the island's 2,238 Army and Navy men and 486 Japanese civilians on the deck of the Rhind. Commodore Vernon F. Grant, USN, deputy commander of Saipan, accepted the capitulation.

AS a matter of fact, having been bombed repeatedly by Navy and Army planes, the island was little other than shattered shells of what were once buildings and other installations. Its mobile equipment had been reduced to five trucks. The island is 180 miles north of Saipan.

Lt. Webster spent a leave here early this summer with his wife, Mrs. Madge Webster, 2435 Twenty-first, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Webster, 2515 Twenty-third. The destroyer on which he had served since being commissioned was going to the Pacific after having operated throughout the European war with submarine patrols and convoy escorts in the Atlantic. He expressed the wish they would have a few adventures and he certainly got his wish on Sept. 3.

ATOMIC JEWELRY

WELL, what do you know? Atomic age jewelry has arrived! Atomsite, the fused earth taken from the bomb testing area in New Mexico, has been set in white palladium, and made into a spectacular brooch and earclips for Merle Oberon, movie star.

The green glassy substance which covered the earth for a radius of more than a mile around the tower from which the first test atomic bomb was dropped is said to look like malachite. (That is a semi-precious stone found in Russia, if you are a bit rusty on your semi-precious stones' identification.)

According to Army authorities, atomsite is harmless. Miss Oberon is the first to wear the substance as jewelry and, if the news reaches Japan we suppose it will help to refute their claims that it is radio-active long after an atomic explosion.

The meeting of the board of the seventh district Texas Federation of Women's clubs, has been scheduled for Friday in Amarillo at the Herring hotel, according to Mrs. Raymond W. Harrah, president.

Registration will begin at 11 a. m. at the desk on the mezzanine floor, with luncheon at noon in room 202.

Reservations may be made by getting in touch with Miss Oleta Muddel, jr., at the hotel.

Peiping Is Still In Japs' Hands

By WALTER RUNDLE
United Press Staff Writer

SHANGHAI, Sept. 22.—Peiping, the ancient Manchu walled city, still remains in the hands of the Japanese with 50,000 Nipponese troops milling through the city, a literated American prisoner said today.

Only 2,000 Chinese troops, mostly local units, are in the town, and the population is anxiously awaiting further aid.

Rumors Never Materialized

Cal Hirsh of Portland, Ore., who just arrived from Peiping by plane, said: "We had early rumors that American planes were arriving with Chinese troops but they never materialized. With all those Japs still around, the population is getting mighty nervous."

Hirsh said that shortly after the Japanese surrender Russian troops swept within 12 miles of Peiping, while Chinese Communist troops had hemmed in the town on all sides.

Things Were Tense

"Things were very tense along about then," he said. "For some days after the Japanese surrender, everyone expected the Communists and Russians to join hands and take Peiping. That was before the Sino-Soviet pact was signed. However the situation stabilized and there never were any incidents although the town is still filled with Communist plain-clothes men."

Hirsh said he understood that the head of an American laison team at Peiping, met Russian forces at a point north of Peiping and after a conference the Russians withdrew 105 miles north to Kupekov pass on the Johol province border.

Japs Selling Supplies

Hirsh said remnants of a Japanese naval force, numbering about 17 small ships, destroyers, and tugs had surrendered to the Chinese in a ceremony aboard the United States destroyer Herndon.

The Japanese in Peiping are behaving themselves, but they are busily selling all the stocks of rice, sugar, salt, and motor transport that they can lay their hands on.

The United States Constitution contains seven articles in its body and 21 as amendments.

Economists Give Ideas On Great Problem Of Sustained Prosperity

(EDITOR'S NOTE. This is the first of six articles in which leading economists give their ideas on the problem of keeping the United States prosperous. The articles were condensed by their authors for the Associated Press from a forthcoming book, "Financing American Prosperity."

By BENJAMIN M. ANDERSON

In the days when the making of employment was not looked upon as a federal government function, the problem solved itself amazingly well. The highest unemployment, 1902 to 1913 inclusive, was 6.3 per cent in the year following the panic of 1907, but the figure dropped to 1.9 per cent in 1909.

In the depression following the postwar boom of 1919-1920, we had in 1921 4,754,000 workers unemployed, or 11.2 per cent. But the federal government, old-fashioned, did nothing about it.

Federal Plans Foredoomed

The labor market absorbed all these and more in the years 1921 to 1923. Unemployment dropped steadily from 11.2 per cent in 1921 to 1.7 per cent in 1923.

Governmental economic planning in a democracy is foredoomed. Our Congress works through specialized committees that study only segments of our economic problems. We have independent states with autonomous subdivisions. Governmental economic planning in the United States must be preceded by the subordination of legislature and judiciary to the executive and by the disappearance of the independent states, and of private rights protected by the courts.

Flood of Cheap Money

We began our governmental economic planning designed to create full employment in 1924 under Calvin Coolidge, when the Federal Reserve system flooded the money markets with cheap money, starting a wild upward movement in the stock market.

Hoover's farm board manipulated commodity prices. Following the stock market crash, President Hoover called the leaders of business, public utilities, and railroads together to urge upon them the policy of not cutting prices, not cutting wages, and increasing capital outlay. There must be no let down! Purchasing power must be kept up!

The Democratic New Deal intensified all these things manyfold. And it went in heavily for government deficit financing to make prosperity.

Recent Figures Appalling

In contrast with the figures given above for unemployment when the govenrment did nothing about it, the figures from 1930 to 1939 are appalling. From 1933 to 1939 we averaged 9,402,000 unemployed or 18 per cent.

The road back to full employment is to be found in reducing and modifying the restrictions which the government has placed upon free markets since 1921.

Further federal government deficits to make prosperity, piled on top of our gigantic war debt simply must not be undertaken. We should thereby wreck the credit of the government and go into wild currency disorders. We must have rigid postwar economy in government. We must leave the people to work it out.

Special Legislative Session Not Planned

AUSTIN, Sept. 24 (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said today that there is no need for a special session of the Texas Legislature at this time.

When asked if a session is "remotely" considered, the governor answered that he knew of nothing now that would call for a session.

A special session has been suggested to raise additional funds to pay increased old age pensions authorized by constitutoinal amendment adopted on Aug. 25. A session on veteran affairs, also, has been suggested.

George Ross Given Discharge By Navy

DALLAS, Sept. 24. (Special) — George Calloway Ross, motor machinist's mate 1/c, husband of Mrs. Gene A. Ross 2021 Ninth street, Lubbock, has been honorably discharged from the United States Navy, after a thorough physical examination, and being fully informed of his rights, benefits, and privileges under the GI Bill of Rights. He was discharged under the point-release system at the discharge section of the U. S. naval receiving station, Galveston.

Prior to enlisting in the Navy on August 6, 1942, he was employed as a mechanic.

During his naval service, he saw duty at Norfolk, Virginia; San Diego, California; and overseas with the 89th Naval Construction battalion.

The highest price ever paid for a single postage stamp was said to be more than $45,000, according to the Enclycopedia Britannica. The stamp was a one-cent British Guiana issue from the Arthur Hind collection.

Farm Bureau Recommends Support Prices For Agricultural Products

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP)—The American Farm Bureau federation recommended to President Truman today a 1946 agricultural program calling for support prices on all commodities where increased production is sought.

The delegation, headed by President Edward A. O'Neal, specifically recommended (1) "support prices on all farm commodities for which an increase in production has been asked, whether through proclamation or by official program planning," and (2) price supports during the first postwar year on total acreage of annual crops under production next January 1.

Present Program Adequate

After the first year, the group suggested, the government should support prices on these commodities to the extent that farmers "respond to requests for adjustment in production."

The farm leaders said the present program on corn, cotton, wheat, tobacco, rice and peanuts was adequate.

Other recommendations included:

1. Continuance of support prices on dairy products until consumer subsidies are removed and price increases permitted, and comparable prices for dairy products in line with parity prices for basic commodities.

Removal of Ceiling Asked

2. Removal of the price ceiling of $18 per hundredweight on live cattle, increasing the compliance rate paid by packers on A and AA grades of cattle by 50 cents a hundred weight and early withdrawal of subsidies with corresponding increases in ceiling prices.

3. Lifting of the present ceiling of $14.75 to $15 on good and choice hogs and to $14 on all others, extension of the present price floor to $13 to December 31, 1946, and deduction from packer subsidies of two cents for each cent taken off the farmers' price when the average drove cost falls below $14 a hundred.

Wool Purchase Asked

4. That the government take over all privately-owned foreign wool and become the sole buyer of any additional wool needed with foreign wool to be sold at the same price as domestic wool and become the sole buyer of any additional wool needed with foreign wool to be sold at the same price as domestic wool and the government remaining sole buyer as long as Britain continues its purchasing program; a gradual adjustment in price until that for domestic wool comes down to parity with duty-paid foreign wool.

5. Equitable distribution of protein feed supplies, for poultry. A review of the congressional commitment as to poultry and eggs to determine support levels and early planning to meet anticipated difficulties in price - supporting programs.

O'Neal Commends President

O'Neal said he commended the President for his "outspoken endorsement" of the price support program in his recent message to Congress.

He said he told the President there should be no governmental program of corn acreage adjustment for 1946, but that commodity loans at 90 per cent of parity should be continued.

He suggested retention of cotton loans at 92½ per cent of parity and of the export subsidy program, but said it was impossible to say now whether marketing quotas on cotton will be necessary for the coming crop year.

Jaycees Complimented On Safety Program By Capt. Bob Stinnett

Complimenting the Junior Chamber of Commerce on their work in the current safety program, Capt. Bob Stinnett, head of the drivers license division of the local Texas State Highway department office, gave a short talk before that group at noon Monday in the Hilton hotel.

Stinnett explained briefly a few of the driving laws of the state, all aimed at the goal of safety for drivers and pedestrians alike.

He said that the drivers usually depend too much "on the other fellow getting out of the way." Drivers do not yield the right of way when they should and attempt to bluff their way at intersections, he said.

Stinnett explained that the drivers license bureau did not make it difficult to obtain a license because "they want to be strict but for the safety of all concerned." The officer said that more than 15,000 persons fail their tests monthly in Texas out of about 30,000 that take them. He estimated that 55 percent fail their examinations through lack of skill and/or knowledge.

Preceeding Stinnett's short talk Jeff Steele, chairman of the Jaycees safety program, corrected the mistaken idea that the group is sponsoring a campaign. It is not this but is a program, to be carried out on a year-round basis sponsored by the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce National Safety council, Steele said. He added that the local police are aiding the program and that the Texas Safety association and the Department of Public Safety are assisting in the move in the state.

Steele pointed out the need for more safe driving habits in Lubbock with the fact that 392 automobile accidents have occured in the city this year, with $50,000 property damage, and death of two persons resulting.

Jack Thomas was program chairman and Joe Stanley, first vice-president, presided over the meeting in the absence of President Glenn Woody.

Dr. Moore Speaking In Meeting Series

Dr. Allen W. Moore, pastor of the First Methodist church in Dallas, told about 130 men of the Methodist men's club meeting at the Hilton hotel at noon Monday that "the tragedy of many a life is that God is left out."

"Christianity is life," Dr. Moore declared, "and man cannot live on bread alone . . . Our age has spent time and money extending the span of life and has succeeded in adding 15 years to the normal life, but a deeper problem of life is not to add years to our life but life to our years . . Christ gives purpose to our life, meaning to our existence."

Attending the luncheon as guests were a dozen service and ex-service men, who were introduced by Dr. H. I. Robinson, pastor of the First Methodist church, which is sponsoring the men's club. Next Monday at the Lubbock hotel the club will be addressed by Ray Nichols of Vernon, Methodist lay leader.

Dr. Moore is speaking nightly at the First Methodist church this week. Today, he will speak at a covered-dish luncheon in Fellowship hall at the church. The luncheon is sponsored by the Women's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Guild.

Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock, he will speak at a breakfast for high school and college students in Fellowship hall and Wednesday night he will talk at a supper meeting of the Progressive Leadership Training faculty at the church.

Thursday noon he will address another covered-dish luncheon at the church, attended by the Crusade for Christ committee of 100, the officers and teachers of the church school and members of the Calvary class.

Former Tech Student Is Killed In Crash Of Plane In Japan

Miss Betty Bachman, of Lubbock, said Monday that her brother, Lt. Hiram G. "Bo" Bachman, a former Texas Tech student and later a member of the Avalanche-Journal staff, was killed in a plane crash in Japan on August 29.

A radar officer on an Army Air Forces B-29, Lieutenant Bachman, 21, had been overseas only a short time. A brother, Lt. Justus "Joe" Bashman, also a former Tech student, was reported missing between Australia and New Guinea in January of 1944. He was a navigator-bombardier on a B-25 and still is unheard from.

The Bachman boys were sons of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bachman, of Throckmorton. The parents have heard unofficially from a friend of Lieutenant Hiram Bachman that the latter's plane was dropping supplies to a prisoner-of-war camp when the fatal accident occurred.

Out of 50 men who have gone from The Avalanche-Journal into uniform during the war years, Lieutenant Bachman was the second to lose his life. W. D. Comer, 27, a Navy machinist's mate, was killed in June, 1943, when the plane in which he was flying was lost off the coast of Florida. He was in the classified advertising department of the newspapers.

Navy Draws Most Fire, Gallup Finds

Public Speaks Mind About Army And Navy Discharges

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Complaints about slowness in releasing men from the armed forces are raised to a greater extent by families who have a relative in the navy than by those who have a relative in the army.

While most servicemen obviously want to get home, and have relatives who want to have them home, the majority of civilians are aware of the many problems which the army faces in trying to bring millions back across the ocean in a hurry.

GALLUP

With these difficulties in mind, a majority of the public thinks that demobilization from the army is proceeding fast enough. Even among families who are most concerned with the question because they have a member in the army. A clear majority think that army demobilization is going on about as well as can be expected.

But the families who have a member in the navy are less inclined to be satisfied with the rate at which navy men are being released from duty.

The number who think the navy should release men faster equals the number who think the rate is fast enough.

Views Are Sounded

In view of the fact that Congressmen have recently been receiving a good many complaints by mail from constituents about demobilization rates, the Institute conducted a coast-to-coast survey to determine whether the complaints were truly representative of majority opinion.

The views of the public were sounded on the question:

"Do you think that men in the army should be released faster than they are, or do you think they are being released fast enough?"

The same question was asked concerning the navy.

The same question was asked concerning the navy.

Families with a member in the army feel just about the same way as the general public when it comes to the question of demobilization from the army, as the following table shows:

ARMY RELEASE RATE

Views of General public:
Army should release men faster	23%
Release rate fas enough	56
No opinion	21
Views of people with relatives in Army:
Army should release men faster	29%
Release rate fast enough	55
No opinion	16

Families with a relative in the navy, however, are more inclined to complain about the navy demobilization rate.

NAVY RELEASE RATE

Views of general public:
Navy should release men faster	24%
Release rate fast enough	45
No opinion	31
Views of people with relatives in Navy:
Navy should release men faster	38%
Release rate fast enough	38
No opinion	24

Observers Agree Europe Faces Real Danger Of Starvation And Freezing

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press Staff Writer

Competent observers are agreed that western Europe faces real danger of starvation and freezing this winter.

The political consequences in the liberated countries may be very great. People suffering from cold and hunger become desperate and disillusioned. A state of mind might arise in which the feeling would be: If this is the liberation of democracy, give us Fascism, give us Communism, give us anything, but give us life.

The program does not appear to have entered greatly into the deliberations of the foreign ministers' council in London. The London sessions have been devoted mostly to wrangling over frontier problems, zones of influence, and the like.

Waterways Program

The question of internationalizing European waterways, so strongly urged by President Truman, is reported to have run into difficulties. Mr. Truman sponsored the proposal as being essential to the distribution of food and relief supplies in Europe this winter.

Coal and transport are the key to a solution. The waterways normally play a major part in Europe's inland distribution. In the present deplorable state of the railroads and of motor transport, they are vital.

A new report on the complicated situation has come from an official British observer after a tour of the affected region. His report says that coal is the decisive factor and everything depends on the coal mines of the Ruhr.

Production In Ruhr

There are other coal producing areas in western Europe, the report says, "but the mines of the Ruhr basin occupy such a dominating position that success or failure in avoiding a general catastrophe this winter will be determined by the production of the Ruhr mines."

Coal, and gasoline derived from it, determine the volume of transport for food distribution. Without adequate coal, public utilities and essential industries fail.

In normal times before the war, the Ruhr mines employed some 284,000 men who produced about 400,000 tons a day. The Germans maintained production during the war, in large part by slave labor, but the invasion ended it.

Some Production Restored

By the first of the current month, the British occupation authorities in the Ruhr had succeeded in restoring the number of mine workers in the Huhr to 165,000, who were producing about 110,000 tons per day. In other words, something more than half the peacetime total of workers was producing slightly more than 25 per cent of the peacetime production. The slackening of output per man is attributable to war fatigue, undernourishment, overage of many workers, a shortage of skilled diggers, and other factors.

Increase Indicated

This survey concludes that there is a reasonably good prospect that the present 25 per cent of normal output will approach the 50 per cent mark within the next few months. It is not enough. The report points out the following facts:

The British, American and French zones of occupation in Germany need about 2,000,000 tons per month as the absolute minimum to keep essential service going, quite irrespective of any question of supplying fuel for domestic use by the Germans.

As against that, the liberated countries—France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway—need and rightly claim 2,500,000 tons per months from the Ruhr. The present output to meet all those demands is 1,500,000 tons a month, or a shortage of 3,000,000 tons.

Westerners And Red Raiders Limber Up From Tough Tilts

Coming out of hard battles over the past weekend without injury, both the Lubbock Westerners and Texas Tech Red Raiders took things easy Monday afternoon, limbering up for coming tilts this week.

The Westerners bring their play back to their own back yard this week, tangling with the Big Spring Steers Friday night at Texas Tech stadium.

The Red Raiders will tangle Saturday night with the Texas Aggies at San Antonio in a battle that should produce produce some real fireworks.

Coaches Dixie White and George Philbrick did a little work on pass offense and pass defense, with general limbering up, and called it a day, with plenty of hard work ahead for the rest of the week.

At Texas Tech, Coach Dell Morgan let the players from Saturday's game with Southwestern off with only a little limbering up, but the reserves were put through a rather lengthy workout.

The reserves divided into two squads and worked on the timing of plays, punting and pass defense, but the entire Red Raider squad will swing back into the hard work this afternoon, getting ready for the first of five clashes with Southwest Conference foes.

Anti-Fumble Drills Stressed By Aggies

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Sept. 24 (AP)—Coach Homer Norton is stressing anti-fumbling tactics in hard practice planned twice daily for his Texas A&M football squad this week.

Norton said he hoped to correct the 10 fumbles the Aggies made while defeating Ellington Field, Houston, last Saturday by stressing ball holding in this week's practice.

He said he was pleased at the way starting newcomers Bob Goode, Pewee Smith and Jim Winkler showed Saturday as the Aggies trounced Ellington 54 to 0.

The entire team is in good shape.

Purples Open With Victory Over Whites

The Lubbock Junior high Purple Cowboys punched over two touchdowns Monday afternoon at Chapman field, and opened the season with a 13 to 0 victory over the Whites in the year's first junior high grid battle.

The first touchdown was set up late in the first quarter, when Billy Welch slipped into the flat on a delayed pass, and romped 25 yards to the Whites 10-yard line before he was pulled down from behind by Charley Williams.

Shortly after the second quarter started, Norman Bantz smashed through the line for the touchdown from about four yards out. In the final quarter, Robert Ferguson knifed over right guard to score with another short plunge.

Players Bolster LAAF's Eleven

Bolstered by the arrival of 12 new gridmen, Coach "Slim" Clark's LAAF Fliers are driving hard for their season-opener, Sept. 29, when they take on the strong University of New Mexico team at Albuquerque. The sudden shifting of military personnel, that threatened last week to blow up the LAAF football schedule and caused the cancellation of the LAAF-Hondo AAF game on September 21, proved a blessing in disguise in that incoming shipments have uncovered a wealth of football talent.

Coach Clark now has over 40 experienced gridders to draw upon for his opening lineup next Saturday night and is expressing extreme satisfaction in the way his club is shaping up.

Line Average Jumps

As a result of the bolstering of the LAAF squad, the line weight average has jumped from 172 pounds to about 192 pounds, with the backfield showing a similar increase. The influx of new talent has blown the potential starting lineup sky high, and Coach Clark does not expect to name his starting team until game time.

Finishing up their third week of hard practice, the Fliers are in unusually high spirts, and afternoon blocking and scrimmage sessions are rough, tough, and characterized by aggressive play. Although the team's weight average has jumped up considerably, the coaching staff is still bearing down on a system of speed and deception to back up the augmented power of the LAAF offense. Back from furlough, and once again in uniform is Dexter (War Horse) Walthall, mainstay from last season and former Texas Tech gridder, who is looking good in his old job of signal calling. Other backfield standouts in recent workouts have been K. G. Thompson at right half, and Jacky Kelejian, diminutive speed merchant who thrilled fans with his broken field running last season.

New Boys Heavy

Alternating at left half is tall, shifty Jerry Hugunin, Bill Tosheff, 176-pound LAAF express train who was being groomed for fullback, has been switched over to halfback position where his speed and broken field running will do the most good; and the fullback chores are capably being taken over by two new boys, Wily Williams and Roy Herr, who tip the scales at 212 and 200 respectively. Another recent addition to the LAAF backfield is Milan Kosanovich, 176 - pound former University of Illinois star, who is very impressive in the passing and running department.

On the forward wall, Coach Clark has plenty to choose from, and it is probable that the LAAF team will carry three sets of tackles, guards and ends on its first string lineup. At center, big Bill Norby, 205-pound former Minnesota gridder looks like a sure thing to start. At tackle, Clark has seven huskies to choose from, with three new boys, R. A. Gaynor, R. Harmos and W. R. La Forest shaping up quickly for the opener. With three sets of guards to work with, the LAAF coaches expect to be able to interchange its guards to fit offensive and defensive problems. On the husky side, Charlie Klatt and E. L. Schultz, average 185 pounds, while the aggressive team of Bill Crandall and Vern Sims, averaging 175 pounds, expect to spend plenty of time in the opponent's backfield. On the wings it's still a wide open race, with E. W. Glinski, C. W. Johnston, C. E. Sprague, J. Starbuck, F. M. Blair, and G. Blaser working hard for the nod.

Cubs, Cards In Do Or Die Tilts

CHICAGO, Sept. 24 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs see red the next two days—those mocking St. Louis Cardinals—but unless the Bruins really get mad, their National League pennant hopes may crumble within a bat's length of the finish.

The explosive two-game series brinbs the Cardinals to town trailing by a game and a half and boasting an overwhelming 15-5 edge over the Cubs, who seemingly hold the World Champion Red Birds in schoolboy awe.

NO GAME, RAIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—Rain finished what the schedule makers started and left the major league pennant races suspended in mid-air today with no action in either circuit.

After waiting past the noon hour in hopes of getting a chance to play the doubleheader with Pittsburgh, the Chicago Cubs management had to give up and moved the games to Forbes Field to fill an open Saturday date.

This final test of the Cards' Cub-killing magic in the dramatic set that opens tomorrow afternoon can:

Tumble the Cubs from first place and send St. Louis into its final four games (one with Pittsburgh and three with Cincinnati) with a half-game lead, or Fatten Chicago's lead to an almost-clinching three and a half game margin with five games remaining (two with Cincinnati and three with Pittsburgh).

A split, naturally, would greatly aid the Cubs, still leaving the Cards a game and a half behind in the final spurt to the wire. Tomorrow's opener will be the battle of the season as far as Managers Charley Grimm of the Cubs and Billy Southworth of the Cards are concerned.

Both will come up with their pitching aces—Hank Borowy, the only Cub pitcher recently able to grab a few tail-feathers from the Cardinals, and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen, who holds four straight decisions over the cubs.

Senator's Protest Denied By Harridge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 (AP)—Saddened and bitter, Washington's Senators came home today only to receive a death blow to their American League pennant hopes.

Will Harridge, American League president, turned down Owner Clark Griffith's protest of yesterday's 4-3 12-inning defeat by Philadelphia in the first game of a doubleheader.

"That settles it—both the protest and the pennant race," the 75-year-old Griffith said in a throaty voice that almost broke with disappointment.

"The controversy was over what constitutes a legal catch of a fly ball.

Thus ended for the Senators a wartime season that held out great promise from mid-season on, only to end in a sad-sack sort of way as the team flopped down the home stretch.

The lone remaining hope is that the leading Detroit Tigers will lose three of their last four games, throwing them into a tie with the Senators for the title.

Griffith contended that Umpire Eddie Rommel "misapplied" a rule in the eighth inning when Buddy Lewis fielded Mayo Smith's fly to right field for what apparently was the first out.

After the catch, the Senators say, Lewis switched the ball to his right hand and started to make an under-handed toss to second baseman George Myatt, who had run out on to the grass.

Lewis inadvertently hit his glove with his right hand and dropped the ball. Rommel huled it "no catch." The Athletics scored three runs in that inning to tie, and won out in the twelfth. The Senators took the second game, 4-3, but it was too late then to improve their pennant chances.

FORT WORTH, Sept. 24. (AP)—The mountainous Skymasters of the Army Air Forces Training Command pointed for the Fort Benning, Ga., infantry today, their aerial offensive tested and found all it was cracked up to be in a 29-0 victory over tough Keesler field.

Opening the season as members of the National Air Forces Football league, the Skymasters put on a passing show for 12,000 appreciative fans here yesterday in walloping the youngsters from Biloxi, Miss., without once allowing them in scoring distance.

Bruce Alford, who was an all-Southwest conference end at Texas Christian before entering the Army, took a pass for one touchdown, got two more points for his team by throwing a Keesler ball-carrier behind his goal line and recovered a fumble deep in enemy territory to put the Mississippians in a hole they couldn't get out of before surrendering another touchdown.

Doing the tossing were Johnnie Clement and Jim Hallmark of Southwest conference fame, Herman Rohrig of Nebraska and Dinky Bowen, who starred at Georgia Tech in his college days. Rohrig scored one touchdown, passed for another and kicked two extra points.

Veteran Decries Labor Demands

"G. I. Joe desn't want any union telling him what to do when he comes back looking for a job. He has earned that job and he deserves the best from America, Darrell Brady, a captain in the Army Air Forces reserve, predicted in a talk to members and guests of the Lubbock Knife and Fork club Monday night at the first meeting of the season at Hotel Lubbock.

Brady, who has 602 combat hours, 32 missions over the Pahours, 32 mgissions over the Pacific and 40 over the Atlantic, is of the opinion that thousands of people in America are trying to embalm this world instead of making it a better place in which to live and maintain peace.

Should Prove Worth

"In Detroit right now there are thousands of idle workers. They want the same money they received in wartime but less hours. Maybe they are worth 30 per cent more, but I say let them go to work and prove it."

A 30 per cent increase to workers means higher prices to the consumer and then we have inflation. "G. I. Joe comes home to chaos. Is that what he fought for? I guess not."

The veteran said he found no fault with collective bargaining, but far too many irresponsible people were in the unions for their own selfish gains. "Overseas our men learned to overcome selfishness and fear and they know the importance of team work."

Nazi Germany Cited

In Germany during the Nazi movement, a man wouldn't be employed unless he was a member of the party. "You say, what does that have to do with America? Exactly this, we are headed in the same direction if we continue to let organized labor, cliques and politicians run our country."

Brady, world traveler, movie producer and war correspondent, has faith in American people and believes in the rule of the majority. "But too few of us are exercising our rights as American citizens. Did you vote in the last election?"

He commended Washington for ruling Monday that veterans cannot be forced to join a union to get their old jobs back. "Darn white of Washington, I would say, but it's a shame that a veteran's seniority and right to a job was ever questioned."

Can't Rest On Laurels

"We took a terrific beating at the beginning of this war, but I am glad I have lived to see the Nazis and Japanese eat their words about us being a decadent and soft people."

Brady believes he speaks for all of his buddies when he says we can't rest on our laurels now that we have won the war. It is time for all of us to go to work . . . "there is nothing ignoble about working with your hands" . . . or a rough road lies ahead.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. John Orval Ellsworth, secretary-treasurer of the club.

A round-table discussion followed the talk.

Two Years Assessed In Theft Of Saddle

LEVELLAND, Sept. 24 (Special)—Alfred Blair was given a two-year prison term when a jury found him guilty of theft of a saddle, and two other men were assessed suspended sentences on pleas of guilty of theft charges here today in 72nd district court.

Judge Dan Blair fixed a suspended sentence of three years for John Henry Crisp, accused in the theft of a saddle from Wadke Fowler. The other suspended sentence—for a period of five years—was assessed Jesse Moss for theft of a tractor from J. P. Shofner.

Blair allegedly stole the saddle from Everett Butler.

Two other cases which probably will be heard by jury are set for today, according to District Attorney Burton S. Burks. They involve John Roberts, a negro, charged with the murder of Andrew Garcia, a Mexican, last May 12; and another black, A. C. Clemens, accused of assault to rape on a 9-year-old Mexican girl on Sept. 9.

Blair was on trial under an indictment of two counts, one alleging theft and the other burglary, but the jury reported action on only the theft count, which court officials explained was tantamount to a report of acquittal on the burglary count. The latter count referred to entry of the garage from which the saddle was taken.

tion in wages."

The union is demanding 52 hours pay for a 40-hour work week; a union closed shop; and other concessions.

P. J. Sweeney, vice president and manager of the Pan American company said in a formal statement that the strike at Texas City had violated a contract which "obligates the union not to strike" before expiration date of the contract.

Special Session Urged

At Austin, Lt. Gov. John Lee Smith proposed in a letter to Gov. Coke R. Stevenson yesterday that the governor order a special session of the legislature for consideration of legislation to preserve the open shop and to guarantee exservicemen a preference in public and private jobs.

Car Wreck Victim Still In Hospital

One person remained under hospital care Monday night as a result of an automobile collision Sunday night at Thirty-third and Ave. H.

She was Mrs. George Wood, 22, of Sunray courts who suffered a broken knee cap. She was in West Texas hospital.

The other person the accident hospitalized, Miss Ina King, 17, of Lubbock route 6, was released Monday from Lubbock General hospital. She received an ankle injury.

Mrs. Wood was riding with her husband, George Wood, 29. Miss King was a passenger in a car driven by William Fred Walker, 18, of Bryan, Tex. Wood and Walker received minor injuries but did not require hospitalization.

Suspect Released In Burglary At Bray's

Police said Monday that they had released a suspect in the burglary Sunday night of Bray's Campus Toggery, at 2422 Broadway. A burglar was flushed from the store when C. B. Bray, owner, and Mrs. Bray made an inspection after they had become suspicious of a light burning under the balcony.

After snapping off a window light, Bray noticed the light. He decided to "feel in the man's dressing room—just to be sure."

He felt a man's shoulders.

Jumping back, Bray shoved Mrs. Bray out of the way, and out rushed a man who dived through a door—through a panel he had removed. The fugitive left carpenter tools and a sports coat and moccasins he had been about to "try on."

MOST STOCKS SLUGGISH

NEW YORK, Sept. 24. (AP)—Scattered rails and specialties, including air transports, moved into the rallying column of today's stock market although many leaders failed to work up any rising stamina.

Transfers for the full proceedings totalled 890,000 shares compared with 1,340,000 Friday.

Numerous customers again held aloof because of spreading strikes and lay-offs throughout the nation and fears labor troubles would seriously interfere with reconversion.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 70.3, equalling the eight-year high set Sept. 20. Only the rail composite registered an advance, the industrials and utilities ending all even. Of 916 issues registering, 347 were up and 312 down.

At tops for 1945 or longer were Eastern Air Lines, up three, United Air Lines 1½, American Airlines 1⅝, and Phelps Dodge ⅞. Gainers included N. Y. Highway Project without cost to the state: Provide clear title a minimum of 120 foot right-of-way; remove all obstructions; do fencing.

The highway commission said the four projects providing for widening and improvement of highways approaching Lubbock would require new right-of-way only on the project north of the city between Country club and Abernathy, where a new overpass near Monroe involves a relocation and new right of way.

"I am sure that you recognize the value to the county of these improvements and will not hesitate to provide the necessary right-of-way," McCarty wrote the court.

County commissioners are P. B. Penney, Ben Mansker, T. L. Holt, and Vol J. Farris. Louie F. Moore, county clerk, acted as secretary.

ration all short commodities.

MacArthur promised priorities for the materials needed to produce food, clothing and housing, but cut off at one blow all manufactures that might rearm Japan.

Meanwhile ,steel plants, chemical plants, and all others contributing to the war must be preserved in good condition.

MacArthur's order for the emancipation of the Japanese press was designed "to further encourage liberal tendencies in Japan."

The directive ordered that any foreign or Japanese news service must be allowed equal use of government - owned transmission facilities.

The re-education of the Japanese people toward the ways of democracy was inaugurated, meanwhile, by American armed forces who began broadcasting over one of the Japanese broadcasting corporation's networks.

Their program of news and music shortly will be extended to 19 stations in Japan and Korea.

American occupation forces were preparing to move Tuesday into Osaka, second largest city of Japan.

Acheson also said the military will execute policy but are not its "determinants" — meaning that policy will be made in the capital and MacArthur's job is only to carry it out.

"They have no food and they have no clothing," Wherry said of the Japanese people in today's debate. "What more do you want? I'm not for promoting a revolution that may cost the lives of thousands of American boys."

Wherry demanded to know more about Acheson's "revolutionary policies" before the Senate voted.

It's A Serious Problem

How Much Can We Give England?

CAN the United States, already nearly $300,000,000,000 in debt and facing enormous peacetime expenditures, safely give or loan without interest $3,000,000,000 or more to Great Britain?

This question is one of the many troubling Washington this week, as British and American economists confer on what Lord Halifax calls "The Economic Battle of Britain."

Britain is seeking funds, estimated at between $3,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000 as a non interest bearing loan, or preferably as an outright gift. "His majesty's" representatives contend that this financial assistance is necessary to enable England to weather her current difficulties and recuperate from the war.

This sum would be in addition to the $13,498,000,000 which the United States has already advanced Britain in Lend-Lease aid.

Charles P. Taft, who resigned as director of the Office of Transportation and Communications policy for the State department last July 26, was an outspoken advocate of the loan to Britain.

Arguing that Great Britain is "our best customer," Taft contended that the United States would be serving its own best interests in aiding England.

Various other administration leaders, including President Truman, have also expressed themselves in favor of such a loan. But Congress has not yet proven itself so willing.

"Just what kind of saps do they think we are?" tough, practical-minded Rep. Harold Knutson of Minnesota, ranking Republican on the tax-writing Ways and Means committee, demanded the other day. "If the British Treasury is in such a precarious condition, why did a majority of the voters of the United Kingdom go to the polls at the recent election and vote to have the government take over the coal mines, utilities, transportation, and the banking system, not to mention the liberalization of old-age assistance? Where did they think the billions to finance such an ambitious program were to come from? From the United States of course."

Knudson also charged that this nation would be aiding and abetting in the socialization of the British government, if we granted the loan sought.

These remarks were characterized by President Truman as "silly," and while the majority of Americans will agree with the President that we have no intention of financing the socialization of the British empire and do not consider the loan in that light, many Americans will question the wisdom of loaning or giving millions to an inexperienced British government without something to show for it besides a promise of goodwill.

It may be good business for us to "save" Britain again, but many of us are like the old-fashioned Missourian—we must be shown.

Exit A Great American

WHEN Henry Lewis Stimson, 78 years old and tired, resigned last week as Secretary of War to be replaced by Robert P. Patterson, the American people lost a valued and trusted public servant.

In commending Mr. Stimson for his long and faithful service, President Harry Truman voiced the appreciation felt throughout America. Stimson's service has been unique in a number of ways.

He is the only man to have held the War portfolio more than once—for almost two years under President William Howard Taft, for more than five years under Presidents Franklin Roosevelt and Harry Truman.

More than 27 years elapsed between the time Mr. Stimson left the War department when the Taft administration came to a close and the time he returned to that department again in 1940. No other man has ever come back to the cabinet post after so long an interval.

Daniel Webster became Secretary of State a second time after seven years, and James G. Blaine after eight years.

Mr. Stimson was also the oldest man to have conducted the War department during war. All of the eight preceding war-time Secretaries of War left the post before reaching 65; and Edwin M. Stanton, the secretary during most of the Civil war, and Newton D. Baker, during all of the first World War, were in their forties when appointed.

Even the nomination of Mr. Stimson for Secretary of War in 1940 created an unusual situation. He had been Secretary of War in one Republican administration and Secretary of State in another—that of President Herbert Hoover. He had been also Republican candidate for governor of New York and President Calvin Coolidge's personal representative in Nicaragua. He had served also as Governor General of the Philippines in the Coolidge administration.

Despite this close association with Republican administrations, his appointment in 1940 did not receive general Republican support.

President Roosevelt was accused of trying to break down the two-party system by appointing a Republican and even Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, whose father had appointed Mr. Stimson to the same post many years before, voted against confirmation. Among those voting to confirm Mr. Stimson was the then Sen. James F. Byrnes, now Secretary of State, and Sen. Lewis B. Schwellenbach, now Secretary of Labor.

Truly, Stimson was one man who rose above party lines. His service was above partisan politics.

LEANA IS OFFENDED

IX

THE STORY: Carolyn admits overhearing Leana's conversation but Bob prefers to forget it. Immediately they plan what is to be done with the remaining X-999. Carolyn suggests taking it west, hiding it in a cave. Meanwhile power lines from Boulder Dam can be tapped for the laboratories. Bob thinks it a good idea. He flies west to look over the ground.

Six days after he left, Bob telephoned. It was late afternoon.

"Carolyn!" he cried exultantly, over long distance. "I have found just the spot. I've already started work on it. Have you been all right? I wish I had brought you with me to help with the—Well, anyway, I shall catch a plane out of here tonight. We'll ship the stuff by train. That'll be—let's see — about 14 hours from now I can be home again and—"

Carolyn was astonished at the feeling of elation that came over her when he told her he was on the way back.

The good feeling persisted, too. As trusted secretary, she gave thought to her duties. With Bob returning, that ruled out the possibility of Leana Sormi bossing the next move. Carolyn herself, as Bob's assistant, could start preparations for him.

She had really taken charge of things anyway, since he had been away; such as checking the guards, paying them with money Bob left her, handling the normal business routine. A man expects his secretary to be efficient, and if Bob wanted to transfer everything westward as soon as possible—

Head up, Carolyn went straightway to Leana Sormi, to inform her courteously that preparations for moving the priceless X-999 were already under way.

Two days later Leana went to Bob's office. Carolyn, anxious to escape the unavoidable eavesdropping, or interfering in any way, found excuses to stay away from her desk.

In characteristic bluntness, Leana drove straight to her point. "Robert, now that you have returned to actual work,"—she emphasized the last two words almost bitterly —"perhaps you will be so good to tell me the plans you have made."

The thrust escaped his notice. In truth, Leana was not so much concerned over the future of X-999 as she was of the fact that Bob had returned from the west yesterday afternoon, and had, to Leana's astonishment, taken Carolyn to dinner.

"Right, Leana! I was going to send for you. Or come to your office." Dr. Hale, although superior here, had always tacitly placed Miss Sormi in a position of virtual partnership and equality in their laboratory work. She had come to expect it. "As a matter of fact," he went on, "Carolyn has made most of the arrangements already. She is to—"

"Indeed! The matter was taken right out of my hands."

Her asperity caught his attention. He looked up at her in surprise. "But, Leana, she — why not? Carolyn is to be complimented. For efficiency. She had already ordered a freight car when I arrived home, had the exact train schedule on my desk. She had anticipated my reasoning that a freight car offers the best and safest transport.

"Carolyn arranged to load the car at the Meyer switch, only half a mile from here. The lead containers will be cast and ready by 6 or 7 o'clock tonight. The girl is priceless."

"The danger is enormous," said she coldly.

"Unavoidably." He nodded agreement. "Which is all the more reason for getting our job done with dispatch. Carolyn has some good ideas about packing, too. Look, she suggests if ordinary coil springs be mounted on all sides of the padded containers, and they in turn padded again outside, there is practically no possibility of shock no matter how rough the trip may be. As you know, ordinary shock should not disturb X-999 anyway. Only heat or a percussion cap might do it. And yet, that first effort—!"

He recalled the explosion, which still baffled him. "For getting it to the train, Carolyn agrees that—"

Carolyn! Carolyn! Carolyn! Robert seemed full of her name. Leana's lips tightened, worked in and out nervously. She was shrewd enough to say no more, though, lest she reveal something of the deep resentment she felt. The Tyler girl had no place here, no right. She was an intruder. What had "efficiency" to do with it? Any child could charter a freight car, suggest a packing case.

Leana left Bob Hale's office, ostensibly to go to the laboratory. Actually she was tense with anger, unreasonable but real. She had expected him to spend all of last evening with her here in the laboratory and when he hadn't come at 10 o'clock she had investigated, only to learn that he was dining and dancing again.

Fury over that—Leana held it to be acute neglect of duty on Bob's part rather than any jealousy on her own—caused her to go sleepless most of the night.

The next morning she did not go to the laboratory.

She went to her own office instead, carefully locking the door; sat at her desk to stare off at nothing. Her facial expression then would have caused anyone instant alarm. Again, in characteristic manner, she drove straight to a point, this time in her thinking.

11 Aircraft Carriers Sunk During War

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24. (AP)—The war cost the United States 11 aircraft carriers sunk.

Thirty others were damaged a total of 52 times by enemy action.

A navy recapitulation today showed that all but one of the 11 —the support carrier Block Island—was sunk or damaged by Japanese air, surface or submarine attacks. The Block Island fell victim to German submarine torpedoes in the Western Atlantic.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

THIS column today is dedicated to husbands—and particularly husbands who, like myself, have come to look upon our wives as something that are always around, like furniture or slippers or an old pipe.

I took my wife to the hospital this morning.

Nothing serious, but the doctor wants to give her a four-day penicillin treatment to see whether that won't cure her sinus trouble.

BRANDEIS

We have tried everything else and it hasn't done any good. So Dr. Booth is going to try penicillin. It may help her and it may not, he says. At any rate, it won't do any harm to try.

(By the way, I'll let you know whether she is going to benefit from the treatments. Many of you, who have sinus trouble, will be interested.)

Well, here I am. It's four in the afternoon, and she has been away only seven hours. But what a long seven hours!

A little while ago I went downstairs to get my lunch. When she is home the table is set, and everything is ready —and nice. I couldn't find a thing—except a piece of sausage and a half of a cold, boiled potato. With that and a stale piece of coffee cake I made a meal.

She had told me all about the many things she left in the refrigerator, but to me that box is a maze and I'd never be able to get everything back into place.

After lunch I tried to wash the dishes—you know the way a man washes them: Turn on the hot water full force, and put the dishes under it. It went all over the kitchen floor, of course, but at least the dishes are ready for the next meal.

I USUALLY like my home. But today it is like a ghosthouse—just a big, empty silent box. It's almost gruesome.

Duece, the dog, is sitting by the door, waiting for his "mother" to come home. Usually when I eat my meals he sits at my feet and nudges me for tidbits. Today he pays no attention to me nor to the tidbits.

Don't ever think that I am an old softie. But I certainly miss that wife of mine.

That is the trouble with so many things and people we love. If we have them around all the time, love gets into a rut and we with it.

Familiarity doesn't exactly contempt, but it does breed negligence and dulls appreciation.

When my wife was admitted to the hospital this morning, the reception clerk, filling in her record card, asked, among other questions, "Do you work?" She answered "No."

After washing the dishes and making my lunch today, I wondered why a housewife isn't officially considered a worker.

Maybe "slave" would be a better classification.

Junkets Are Criticized

Congressional Politics Rapped

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A CANDID study of almost every Congressional junket to the European and Far Eastern war theaters indicates that not a single trip was worth its cost to the taxpayers. Picked officers who escorted the MCs on their "inspections" swear that every member who went aboard on the pretext of "studying" military or foreign policy problems should be required to reimburse the Treasury for his expenditures.

TUCKER

The Army, Navy and Air Forces cannot make public their objections because it is their unwelcome guests who pass upon departmental requests for appropriations. The Brass Hats dare not antagonize the men who handle the money on Capitol Hill. They have to fly them, lodge them, feed them, entertain them, even though the distractions handicap the performance of important duties in the occupied areas.

Not one of these tourist parties, according to confidential reports, has turned up any worth-while information or suggestions that had not already been assembled by our Army experts before their arrival. And the statute books are still bare of any legislation inspired by the legislative travelers.

DAIRY: Here is a dairy of the typical day of a distinguished Congressional committee which recently toured France and Germany. The account has been edited slightly so that the informing officer cannot be identified and disciplined by the dozen or more MCs involved.

"When the visitors arrived at a camp or hospital or base, they paid only casual attention to the details of the establishment. They immediately asked the officers to send for soldiers who hailed from their respective states, and preferably from their own Congressional districts. Then the official Army photographers were required to take their pictures as they shook hands with their uniformed constituents past or prospective.

"The congressmen promised to forward the photos and accompanying letters to the servicemen's fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers and friends —also to the local newspapers. If there were no voters from their sections on the ground, the MC's were photographed while they shook hands with each other or with the local commander."

EFFICIENCY: The Army finally improved on this kind of overseas campaigning. It streamlined the vote-getting procedure. Toward the end of the trip the supervising authorities sent word ahead and had squads of soldiers from the various members' states on hand at arrival time. The handshaking and pitcure-taking were staged with military efficiency.

In fact, the Army had its carpenters build standards bearing the labels of the commonwealths which the MCs represented — Kansas, South Dakota, New York, Connecticut etc. They stationed each congressman and his soldier pals under these banners in the same manner that state delegations are arranged at national political conventions. It was costly, it disrupted routine and it caused grumbling in the ranks, but it gave the guests a glow of pride.

These expensive junkets were supposed to have been banned by order of President Truman. Speaker Sam Rayburn also has hinted that the boys ought to stay on the job for which they were elected. But it appears that Capitol Hill never heard of these injunctions.

TEST: President Truman's reputation as a strong and determined Chief Executive — the kind the United States will need in the postwar period — will face its severest test when the present session of Congress forwards to him for approval or veto a reconversion program granting only half of his major demands on the labor, economic and social front.

Mr. Truman's mild and forbearing personality tends to conceal the existence of open friction between the White House and Capitol Hill. He does not command or threaten. But HST recognizes that his old pals are kicking his New Dealish requests around pretty badly.

Although he headlined the proposal for federal payments of $25 a week for 26 weeks to discharged war workers, that proposition is dead. There has been no action on his suggestion that the FEPC be made a permanent unit, and there will be none. The "Full Employment bill" will emerge as only a pious declaration that everybody believes in the virtue and blessing of a steady job. The fate of his request for an increase in minimum wage standards — from 40 to 0 or 70 cents an hour —is dubious.

STUBBORN: He knows that his best chance to cash in on this broad program is at the First session of the Seventy-Ninth Congress. When the politicos return early next year for the Second session, they will be worrying over primary contests and the 1946 elections, and passage of any controversial legislation will be unlikely. The Eightieth Congress, which will be chosen in November of 1946, may have a Republican majority.

The President's reaction to possible failure on Capitol Hill may affect his own re-election chances. Unless he fights for his demands and forces them through, the GOP will stamp him as weak executive. The liberal and labor factions may turn against him, more in sorrow than anger.

Althought his friends do not want to force a premature battle between him and his fellow Democrats at the other end of the Avenue, they pass out word that he can be as stubborn as a Missouri mule when necessary.

"SUGGESTIONS:" The big moguls of the National Association of Manufacturers, which opposes most of the Truman-Roosevelt program, are already chortling over the President's supposedly easygoing ways and sense of constitutional responsibility. Here is a significant excerpt from NAM's latest letter to members:

"This session of Congress is not going to be dominated by President Truman. It can now be said that the Truman reconversion program will be passed to the extent — and only to the extent — that Congress approves. Businessmen who fear that Mr. Truman is following too closely the policies of his predecessor can be certain of this: Congress will decide what legislation to pass and what to rejest.

"Mr. Truman will submit legislative recommendations — as he already has done. But Congress will have the final say. The President will accept Congressional decisions with good grace. There will be no quarreling. Mr. Truman is not that kind of man. He recognizes that the Constitution gives Congress the right to say what laws should be passed. He will be content to make suggestions."

HAPPY: The letter also says that Mr. Truman will not permit "bureaucrats" to misinterpret the laws and execute them in accordance with their ideas of national planning and a controlled economy. It promises that the President will "carry out the intent of Congress." In short, the NAM seems to be quite happy at this prospect.

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN.—Members of the Texas State Prison board are considering the employment of a Rehabilitation director. As explained by General Manager D. W. Stakes, the Rehabilitation director would be an employe who would consider the welfare of the inmate in the light of his needs and desires, and an advisor who could help the inmate solve his problems and at the same time carry on a worth-while educational and recreational program for the entire prison system.

Money for the prison system's recreational program is prisoner-earned. It comes largely from proceeds of the annual Texas Prison Rodeos, held each Sunday afternoon during October.

New Supreme Court Justice Is Sound Man

Burton's Nomination Commended

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Since the late President Roosevelt made his fight nearly 10 years ago to liberalize and modernize the Supreme court, that august body has become much more of a public institution. It has been pulled down closer to the understanding of all of us.

With his so-called "Court Packing" plan Mr. Roosevelt stirred up a great debate that served to turn the light on the court and reveal its important place in our government and society and in the lives of individual citizens. Although lost his legislative battle in Congress, it had its effect.

STOKES

Even before he had a chance to re-make the court through appointments, it began to temper its course to the changing times, reversing its previous trend. Subsequently, the late President did re-make the court—and drastically. Frankly and unblushingly he gave it a very New Deal complexion.

Middle-of-Roader Named

Ever since the court fight, appointments have become a matter of keen public interest. Even more so is the first appointment to be made by President Truman.

The President could have leaned over backward and appointmented a regular, conservative type of Republican, which many had hoped. He could have followed the Roosevelt course of hewing to the sort of New Dealish line that he, himself, followed in the Senate and espoused in his recent message to Congress, which many others would have liked.

Instead he chose a middle course, Sen. Harold H. Burton of Ohio, whom he named and who was promptly confirmed unanimously by the Senate, can be catalogued as a mildly progressive Republican of considerable independence.

AN EXAMINATION of his voting record discloses that he fits almost perfectly the description "middle-of-the-road." It lies about midway between Mr. Truman's own New Deal record in the Senate and that of Mr. Burton's conservative Republican colleague, Senator Taft.

The appointment may prove a sort of index to the Truman administration.

Harold Burton's inherent, broad-gauged humanitarianism was demonstrated in a part of his career that cannot be overlooked in any assessment. He was mayor of Cleveland during desperate times when unemployment was a critical problem and the jobless were camping about City hall. He handled that emergency capably and with the co-operation of the federal government which he sought.

Votes Show Courage

In the senate he has supported a program of co-operation by the federal government in economic and social fields in some directions that are interesting and informative. For instance he voted for continuation of the National Resources Planning board which Congress abolished and for continuation of the Farm Security administration. He also supported the Fair Employment Practices committee to eliminate racial and religious discrimination. He indicated his sympathy for federal aid for education. In some of these he took issue with many in his party.

Labor regarded him somewha unkindly for his co-sponsorship with Senators Ball (R., Minn.) and Hatch (D., N. M.) of the pending Industrial Disputes bill which has stirred up so much controversy. He also voted for the Connally "anti-strike" bill which labor fought and for its passage over President Roosevelt's veto. He was for publication of union financial reports. It cannot be said, however, that he is unfriendly to Labor.

HE INDICATED in his voting record opposition to far flung extension of the federal government into the public utility field which recalls that he once had public utility clients as a lawyer.

He has been a champion of honest, decent government which he exemplified in the Senate, among other ways, in his fight against President Roosevelt's appointment to a federal judgeship of Thomas F. Meaney, the handpicked candidate of Boss Frank Hague of Jersey City.

He distinguished himself as a pioneer in the field of international co-operation. He joined in the campaign for a United Nations organization early with his three colleagues, Senators Ball, Hatch and Hill (D., Ala.) that did so much to arouse the country and pave the way for United States leadership in creation of a United Nations organization.

Prohibited Zone To Halt Smuggling Due

BRUSSELS, Sept. 24. (AP)—Allied plans to create a mine-sown, wire-enclosed prohibited zone along the Belgian-German border to halt food smuggling were disclosed today by Achille van Acker, Belgian prime minister and fuel administrator.

Belgian authorities have complained that British and American troops, sometimes accompanied by German girls, have driven army trucks into Belgium and bought up quantities of food on the black market.

American Survivor Tells Story Of Japs' Bayoneting Nurses, Civilians

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following story was written for the United Press by a bearded American, E. H. Germann, 32, of Buffalo, N. Y., who is on the way home after three years and five months in a Sumatra prison camp. He arrived in Singapore from New York in November, 1941, to take over the assistant superintendency of a Malayan brewery. He left aboard the ill-fated Vyner Brooke, carrying 64 Australian nurses and other refugees in February, 1942.)

By E. H. GERMANN
Written for the United Press

SINGAPORE, Sept. 22—I am alive today because Japanese soldiers cleaned their bayonets before stabbing me. Twenty-one Australian nurses, 20 men and two civilian women were not so lucky. They died.

We were aboard the Vyner Brooke, among about 250 passengers, when Japanese planes bombed and sank the ship off the island of Banka Feb. 14.

I managed to put a frightened child into a damaged lifeboat before our ship collapsed, then pulled in a few swimmers.

Reached Banka Island

We fashioned a Red Cross flag to protect us on the journey to Port Muntok, which the Japanese already had occupied. On Feb. 16, thirty men, women and children who were able to walk started the journey, while 16 men and 22 nurses searched the beach for other wounded.

Then 10 Japanese soldiers appeared and post guards who set up machine guns and separated the men from the women.

Eight Marched Off, Shot

Then the Japanese marched off eight men out of sight, and presently we heard a few shots. We realized what had happened, and with frightened glances at one another murmured:

"I'm afraid they're gone.

Two of the Japanese returned. They ordered the remaining eight men, including myself, to walk on. We arrived at a small cove and saw the bodies of the first group scattered at the water's edge with gaping wounds in their backs.

Four Japanese were busily wiping bloody bayonets and industriously polishing them. Another stood by to mow us down if we tried to run.

I stood at the end of the line, reflecting what a stupid way to end life, and breathed a prayer my mother taught me as a child.

The next thing I remember I was lying face downward with a mouth full of sand and water, with someone's legs across my back, and another person groaning beside me.

A pistol shot finished the groans and froze me into pretending to be dead. But I had to roll my head slightly with each incoming wave in order to breathe.

I slowly inched my head around as the silence continued. Discovering that the Japanese had gone, I dashed into the jungle.

A bayonet had entered my back between the lower ribs and came out of my chest; doctors said later it must have missed vital organs, and I could be thankful the Japanese had cleaned their bayonets, otherwise I would have died of infection.

I hid in the jungle all day and all night. The next morning I returned to the scene. I found the men's bodies bayoneted. Those of the 21 nurses showed only machine gun bullet wounds. One nurse was missing. I met her later in Muntok. She was Vivian Bullwinkle of Adelaide.

Had Only A Flesh Wound

She had only a flesh wound in her side, and fell flat in the water pretending she was dead. When she staggered into Muntok she brought with her a man named Kinksley, who had been bayoneted and left for dead. He crawled into the jungle, where she found him. He died later from his wounds.

I am refusing my company's request to stay and direct the production of beer, and am on my way. When I touch the first United States soil, I am going to kiss it, and then shave off my beard.

Scholarships Awarded Three Tech Students In Textile Studies

Textile engineering scholarships, valued at $200, have been awarded three Texas Tech students of the textile engineering department, L. E. Parsons, head of the department, announced.

They are Nancy Ray of Lubbock, Bobbie Jean Knowles of Tulia and Carl Schmidt of Mexico City.

Miss Ray received the Elsie M. Adams scholarship, awarded to a sophomore student for the first time this year. She has completed the 31 freshman hours, with a high scholarship average, required before being eligible for the ward.

Freshman scholarships were awarded Miss Knowles and Schmidt. Miss Knowles received the W. C. Strickland award.

Schmidt received one of the four scholarships offered by Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas, a member of the Tech board of directors. A graduate of the American High school in Mexico City, Schmidt speaks fluent Spanish and German.

Four of the 16 freshman textile engineering scholarships, made available in 1944 to qualified men and women, were awarded last year. To become eligible for these awards students must meet all entrance requirements to the division of engineering, with no conditions, have a high scholastic average in pre-college training, and be judged of fine character.

Outside Influence In Amvets Is Charged

AUSTIN, Sept. 24 (U.P.) — L. V. Todd, announced here today that he has resigned as second vice-commander of the Amvets in Texas, and said he did so because its publication "The Amvets" has been dictated to by outsiders.

Todd named Karl Hoblitzelle of Dallas. He said that during the routine financial report to the state executive committee of the Amvets here yesterday afternoon, the chairman of the publicattions committee said the Amvet was receiving $400 monthly from Hoblitzelle.

Todd in a formal statement today said:

"While I have the highest respect for Commander George R. Porter and for the majority of the members of the Amvets, I feel that I can no longer associate myself with an organization which allows the publication committee to control the policies of the paper which apparently is dictated by non-veteran outsiders."

People often ask, "There's a telephone already in the place where I'm moving. Can't I have it?"

The girls in the telephone business office would like to say "yes." But it wouldn't be fair to the many people already waiting for telephones in the same neighborhoods.

You see, the telephone won't work by itself. It must be connected by its own pair of wires to complex equipment in a telephone central office. In many places the equipment is all in use. All told, 230,000 people are waiting for telephones in the Southwest.

They expect to get service in their proper turn when someone makes "room" by disconnecting his telephone, or when we can put in additional equipment. That's why we can't just leave a telephone in place, and connect the service for the next person who happens to move in.

That seems the only fair way to do the job...and the way we think you would want us to do it.
