Advisory Council For FDR Planned

Federal Policies Would Be Given Consideration

Plan Is Revealed Wednesday After Commerce Department Council Makes Report

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—President Roosevelt said tonight he was working slowly toward organization of an advisory council comprising all elements of the national economic life to guide him in the formulation of federal policies.

White House aides announced he made this disclosure to the commerce department's fifty-man business advisory council after generally approving a statement of that group's ideas on what should be done to end the present industrial recession.

Modifies His Stand

In addition, he modified his stand of last week for the abolition of all holding companies. Some holding companies, he asserted, have produced a certain amount of mass efficiency in operation or are otherwise in the public interest.

Commenting upon a request by the council for legislation fixing the responsibility of labor unions, Mr. Roosevelt suggested unions should, by common consent rather than by law, list publicly their receipts and expenditures.

Has Been Critical

The council was formed in 1933 at the suggestion of Secretary Roper and has been often critical of administration policy since that time. W. Averill Harriman, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific railroad, and chairman of the council, acted as spokesman. The statement approved the objective of three-hour legislation, but asked a study of the question be made before another bill is introduced. To this Mr. Roosevelt later replied with the expression of a hope that such study would not preclude action at this session of congress.

Cooperation Pledged

It pledged the cooperation of the group in working out legislation for the elimination of harmful business practices; "recognized" that the anti-trust laws are to an extent outmoded," but asserted monopoly and monopolistic practices were incompatible with democracy.

It pledged the council's help in working toward decentralization of industry, geographically, but "viewed with grave concern any general move to outlaw holding companies."

It deplored the administration's

To Quit Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—J. F. T. O'Connor (above) will resign tomorrow as comptroller of the currency, it was learned authoritatively today.

O'Connor, who has held his high treasury position for nearly five years, is expected to return to California, possibly to seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Prisoner Makes Escape From Terry's Jail

(Special To The Avalanche)

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 19.—Howard Atchinson, 32, described by authorities here as being wanted "all over Texas and New Mexico" and an escaped convict from an Oklahoma prison farm, late this afternoon escaped the Terry county jail here, assertedly stole an automobile and sped away. Late tonight no trace of the man or car had been found.

The escape was said to be one of the boldest here in recent years.

Under Three Indictments

Atchinson, under three indictments in this county for forgery, walked into the open after descending from the third floor of the jail. He apparently walked to an automobile parked along the east side of the square, entered it and drove away, officers said.

The man was estimated to have been gone two hours before his absence was discovered.

Carpenters were working in the jail, making improvements and repairs and a door into the compartment occupied by Atchinson was left open. Biding his chance when officers and workmen were not watching, apparently he walked out of the jail unhampered. His escape was believed to have been between 4 and 5 o'clock this afternoon, said

Workman Is Injured In Fall On Campus

Albert Henry Skinner, 48, of Idalou, suffered a fractured left arm and right leg and possible skull fracture shortly before 2 o'clock Wednesday when he fell from the second floor of the new library building at Texas Technological college where he was employed as a carpenter.

Skinner was admitted to Plains hospital for treatment soon after the accident and was under observation there Wednesday night. Attendants said his body was badly bruised and lacerated from the fall.

No one saw the man when he fell, but it was thought he slipped and lost his hold. Witnesses estimated that the descent from the second floor to the ground was about 30 feet.

Skinner is a nephew of Frank Skinner of 1305 Avenue R and a brother of Ernest Skinner of 520 Avenue D.

Records of the construction company showed that Skinner had been employed on the project since Jan. 3.

Veteran Actor Dies After Final Scene Of Picture Is Finished

CULVER CITY, Calif., Jan. 19. (AP) Robert McWade, veteran character actor, finished his final scene late today in the movie, "Benefits Forgot," walked from the range of the camera, slumped in a chair and died of a heart attack.

Director Clarence Brown of M-G-M had just congratulated the 56-year-old actor on his performance.

James Stewart and Gene Lockhart, other members of the cast, noticed that McWade appeared exhausted as he sat down. In an instant, he slumped forward. As actors and technicians rushed to his side he was lifeless.

May Link Anders In Mattson Case

(By The Associated Press)

ST. PAUL, Jan. 19.—Federal agents holding Peter Anders for the kidnap-slaying of Charles S. Ross embarked upon a mysterious mission today.

Several carloads of the FBI men left for an undisclosed destination amid indications they were seeking the bodies of Ross and the prisoner's alleged confederate, James At-

CHILDREN ARE TRANSPORTED

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 19. (AP)—Dr. W. W. Mattson said today federal bureau of investigation agents had transported William Mattson, Jr., 16, and Muriel Mattson, 14, away from their home here.

He refused to disclose whether his children had been taken to San Francisco or whether they were to view Peter Anders, confessed Ross kidnap-slayer, at some other point. He added he did not know where the children had been taken, or for what purpose.

wood Gray, or attempting to find a cache containing the bulk of the $50,000 ransom obtained from the family of the wealthy Chicago clubman.

Questioned About Other Cases

Simultaneously they disclosed Anders was being questioned "about some other kidnapings."

Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal bureau of investigation, denied he was interrogated concerning the abduction and death of ten-year-old Charles Mattson at Tacoma, Wash., but Edward P. Guinane, chief of the St. Paul's G-man staff, said he would be asked about the disappearance of Arthur Fried, White Plains, N. Y., business man who has not been seen since last December 4.

Congectures Draw No Comment

These conjectures drew no comment from the operatives:

1. They travelled toward the Wisconsin-Illinois state line to endeavor to uncover the bodies of Ross and Gray. Hoover reported that Anders slew the two men on the outskirts of Rockford, Ill., and apparently hid the bodies "somewhere over the Wisconsin line."

2. They sought the secreted balance of the ransom sum. Only $14,402 was located among Anders' effects in Los Angeles.

3. They planned a re-enactment of the crime at its locale to bulwark the case against the former lumberjack.

Hideout Being Sought

4. They attempted to find Anders' hideout or the prison where Ross was kept for the fortnight which followed his abduction on Sept. 25 and preceded his death on Oct. 10 or 11.

5. They trailed a second colleague

Fire Death Toll Is Placed At 47

(By The Associated Press)

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Jan. 19.—Officials tonight listed 47 persons dead from the fire that trapped students and teachers in the College of the Sacred Heart early Tuesday.

Twenty-two charred bodies lay in the morgue of this small town, but only four were officially identified.

Others Listed As Dead

Dr. Paul Morin, coroner, opening an inquest into the early morning tragedy, listed as dead the 25 others missing in the belief their bodies were buried under the frozen ruins of the school.

Fears were expressed the death toll might mount to more than 50 when five of the most seriously injured were reported near death.

Twenty-one of those who escaped the flaming structure were hospitalized. Some were injured by leaps into the snow.

Dr. Morin announced the four identified were Brother Jean Baptiste, 64, Sherbrooke, Que., who died of injuries, and three students, Deus Richard, 15, Jean Noel Vincent, 15, and Lucien Leclerc, all of St. Hyacinthe.

FDR Reaffirms His Support Of Civil Service Legislation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—President Roosevelt, reaffirming his support of legislation for extension of civil service system, said today establishment of a sound personnel program was "one of the most important constructive steps in the improvement of government administration today."

The president issued a brief formal statement in commemoration of National Civil Service week.

Another Dust Storm Reported In Borger; Third For Week

BORGER, Jan. 19. (AP)—Another dust storm, third in the past week, moved into Borger today, limiting visibility to four city blocks. The advance of the storm was retarded somewhat by a strong south wind.

Multitude Of Laws Cited By Texan

WICHITA, Kas., Jan. 19. (AP)—A Sedwick county district court jury acquitted A. P. Kinzie of Harlingen, Texas, in 15 minutes today after hearing his defense against three counts of violating the Kansas blue sky laws.

"There are 4,000,000 laws in the land and 3,500,000 of them are obsolete," Kinzie, acting as his own attorney, told the jury. "The Creator set down only 10 laws in the first part of the Bible, yet the politicians had to have 4,000,000."

Kinzie was charged with selling stock that was not registered in the state, selling stock without registering as a broker in Kansas, and selling stock without being registered as a broker's agent.

Mass Flight To Hawaii Made In Record Time

(By The Associated Press)

HONOLULU, Jan. 19.—The navy strengthened Hawaii's aerial defense today by landing 18 more of its long-range patrol bombing planes on Pearl Harbor, in record time out of San Diego, 2,570 miles away.

The planes of two full squadrons and carrying 127 officers and men completed the mass flight in 20 hours, 12 minutes.

New Mark In Number

This constituted not only a record for time but also a new mark in number of planes to fly such a long distance in a "precision" operation.

Completion of the flight brought to 42 the number of big naval planes thus transferred here from the mainland in the last year.

It also brought unofficial estimates of the number of naval planes in Hawaii to 75. Counting army planes, reported to include 40 bombers and 100 pursuit craft, it gave the islands an unofficial grand total of 215 fighting planes.

Had Unfavorable Weather

Lieutenant Commander S. H. Warner, in charge, said the air armada flew through unfavorable weather the first 800 miles, causing an early deviation from the course.

Lieutenant Commander Knefler McGinnis and a crew of 29 men made the first precision mass flight from the mainland—2,400 miles from San Francisco to Honolulu, in 24 hours, 45 minutes. That was on Jan. 10 and 11, 1934.

On Jan. 28-29, 1937, 12 planes carrying 80 men in charge of Lieutenant Commander William H. McDade made the second flight, from San Diego in 21 hours, 43 minutes.

A third flight took place April 12-13, 1937, when twelve planes with 78 men under Lieutenant Commander L. A. Pope flew from San Diego to Honolulu in 21 hours, 25 minutes, the previous record.

MOVE MAY DEVELOP

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—Senator Norris (Ind.-Neb.) said late today a move may develop in the senate to prevent the seating of John Milton as a senator from New Jersey to succeed A. Harry Moore.

Norris said, however, he would not take the initiative in any such move.

Although saying he did not yet have full information on Milton, the veteran Nebraska independent said what he had heard thus far was unfavorable.

British 'Brush' With Japanese At Tientsin

Armed Clash Is Reported To Have Been Narrowly Averted As Jap Demands Refused

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 20. (Thursday)—A dispute between British and Japanese authorities at Tientsin, almost ending in a clash of armed forces, was reported today while Chinese said they had made "further successes" on the Hangchow and Wuhu fronts.

Authoritative British circles said a clash was narrowly averted Wednesday afternoon when Japanese army officers at Tientsin allegedly demanded Chinese within the British concessions be handed over to them.

Force Is Threatened

The British refused, according to these sources. The Japanese then threatened to take the Chinese by force, and the British replied that they would resist. The Japanese let the matter rest there.

British quarters also disclosed the Japanese high command in Shanghai suggested Wednesday that British forces evacuate their defense lines on the western borders of the International settlement, saying Japanese troops in adjacent Hungjao could perform the defense duty. The British refused.

Gain "Dominating Position"

At Wuhu, 60 miles up the Yangtze river from Nanking, the Chinese said they had gained "a dominating position over the city."

At Hangchow, 125 miles southwest of Shanghai, they stated their forces were crossing the Chientang river in "increasing numbers" and approaching the city from the southwest.

Japanese said the Chinese still were on the south bank of the Chientang and were engaged with Japanese troops, but denied they were threatening the city.

Weather Slows Fighting

Chinese reported the fighting along the Tientsin-Pukow railway and Shantung fronts had been slowed down by severe weather and snowstorms.

A strongly reinforced Japanese offensive along the important Lunghai railway zone was indicated by intensive preparations to use Tsingtao, Shantung seaport, as a base for an inland drive.

Sidetracking Of Bill Is Planned

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Southern senators said today they would attempt to sidetrack the anti-lynching bill early next week to clear the way for other legislation.

Southerners have carried on a filibuster against the bill for days, the fight preventing senate consideration of President Roosevelt's legislative program.

Senator Connally (D-Tex) and other opponents of the bill contended they have been picking up strength steadily.

Plan Night Sessions

Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind), a co-author of the bill, predicted night sessions would be held next week in an effort to wear out the Southern speechmakers and bring the bill to a vote.

The bill's proponents said they were encouraged by a statement from Vice President Garner today that henceforth senate debate rules will be "strictly enforced."

Garner said the rules prohibit more than two speeches by one senator on one subject in any legislative day. Also, he said, the rules provide any senator loses the floor when he yields for any purpose except to answer a question.

Connally said strict enforcement

Two Cattle Guards Said To Be Ample; New Dealers Put New Mexico Into Chuckles

(By The Associated Press)

CLOVIS, N. M., Jan. 19.—Local citizens are still chuckling about this story from Washington:

A New Mexico rancher wrote his congressman seeking readjustment of a federal loan, and in an inventory of his property and itemization of his payroll he listed seven cattle guards.

The congressman referred the letter to the federal loan agency, which replied:

"We note in the letter from your constituent an inventory of property and an itemization of his payroll including seven cattle guards. Inasmuch as he seeks a readjustment of his loan from this agency, we ask you advise him to discharge five of these guards, as two should be amply able to care for the number of cattle he has."

Learns Archery In College

LIKE her grandfather, Sitting Bull, night-haired Evelyn Welsh shoots with a bow and arrow occasionally, but she had to go to college to learn how. A senior at Williamette university, Salem, Ore., the descendant of the Sioux chief who led the attack in the Custer massacre was taught archery as a sport. She is a leader in campus affairs, rides and shoots a rifle with equal skill. Her mother is German, her father French and Indian. Miss Welsh considers the Sioux people her tribe.

Restless Citizens Of Four Southernmost Counties Of Texas Propose New State

(By The Associated Press)

McALLEN, Jan. 19.—Some restless citizens of four Texas counties, seeking a short cut to new prosperity, have clasped hands in a secession move to form the "State of South Texas."

They would organize the southernmost counties—Hidalgo, Willacy, Cameron and Starr—into a commonwealth with a 30-day divorce law with a $100 fee; state-owned and operated liquor stores, and legalized, state-controlled betting on horse and dog races.

President Is Elected

The sponsors elected Publisher P. E. Montgomery of "Monty's Monthly" president of their group and appointed committees in each Rio Grande valley city to push an educational campaign.

Assistant Attorney General Scott Gaines, queried at Austin regarding the unusual move, reported the state constitution said nothing of secession. The treaty of annexation, he said, provided that Texas could split into two or more states by the vote of its citizens.

Governor James V. Allred said nothing.

Would Assume Indebtedness

Gordon Griffin, McAllen attorney, set out the cardinal principles of organization, which included assumption of all indebtedness of the four counties and operation without ad valorem taxes.

Griffin outlined a unicameral legislature composed of not less than nine nor more than 21 members elected at large and serving four years without eligibility for re-election.

The judicial branch would consist of a supreme court of three members appointed for 10 years and not subject to re-appointment; one or more district courts for criminal cases; civil district courts and one justice of the peace for each 20,000 inhabitants.

The state's officers would include

Former Fort Worth Automobile Dealer Sentenced For Forgery

EL PASO, Jan. 19. (AP) — William Roberts, 47, former Fort Worth automobile dealer, was sentenced to serve five years in the state penitentiary Wednesday by Judge W. D. Howe, 34th district court, on pleas of guilty to two forgery counts.

Roberts was charged with forgery of the name of Dan E. Lydick, president of the Union Bank and Trust company of Fort Worth, on two checks cashed in El Paso.

Lydick, called as a witness for the trial of Roberts, said the defendant had been sought for several months throughout Texas for asserted passing of bogus cashier's checks drawn on the Fort Worth bank.

Witnesses for the trial included bankers and merchants from San Angelo, Big Spring, Dallas and Fort Worth.

Buried 'Treasure' Near Snyder Turns Out To Be 'Phoney' Stuff

SNYDER, Jan. 19. (AP)—Two Snyder men who unearthed a buried "treasure" near here today found it to be "phoney."

O. D. Dial, Church of Christ minister, and Garland Fambro were making excavations of a house seven miles east of Snyder when they discovered a rusty lard bucket containing more than 100 one-dollar coins.

But the coins were counterfeit, and the bucket also yielded plaster of paris molds for various other sizes of coins. Federal authorities at Lubbock were notified.

Cow, Dog And Flowers All Mixed Up

SEATTLE, Jan. 19. (AP)—Testimony about a cow that ate rhododendrons, a dog that barked at the cow that ate the rhododendrons and a man who kicked that dog that barked at the cow that ate the rhododendrons ended with the conviction of William Morrow on a charge of using indecent language to Mrs. Laura Pleas.

Mrs. Pleas owned the dog Morrow kicked. Mrs. Anna Ayres, who owned the rhododendrons the cow ate, was a witness in the justice court trial.

Morrow, who owned the cow, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail with 50 of them suspended.

Woodward Out For State Post

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 19.—Former State Senator Walter Woodward of Coleman announced his candidacy for lieutenant governor here today.

Woodward made the announcement after conferring here with former State Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, who will manage the campaign.

WOODWARD

Woodward said it is "generally known" State Senator Will Pace of Tyler would not be a candidate.

"Otherwise I would not make the announcement," Woodward said. "I would not care to enter into a contest with him (Pace) because of our personal friendship and the fact we were colleagues in the senate. This is also true of other colleagues of mine, who I believe will not enter the race."

Moore said campaign offices

Wrong Number By-Lined In Federal Prison Magazine

ATLANTA, Jan. 19. (AP)—Federal penitentiary inmates, as well as telephone subscribers, sometimes get called by wrong numbers, it seems.

For the December issue of "Good Words," Atlanta prison magazine, a convict wrote an article on "Christmas." It was given the magazine's customary numerical by-line.

In the January issue, out today, the editor penitently announced: "We are sorry we erringly gave the wrong number as writer . . . It should have been No. 48071."

Brown County Man Is Held At San Angelo

First 'Break' In Theft Of $28,000 In Cash Is Made By Federal Men This Week

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 19—Arraignment of Carl E. Williams, of Brownwood, here this afternoon on a federal charge of receiving and concealing stolen government property was what was termed by usually reliable authorities as the first "break" in the theft of a registered mail pouch more than two months ago between Dallas and O'Donnell containing more than $28,000 in currency and silver.

Williams was lodged in jail here in lieu of bond of $7,500 set upon arraignment before United States Commissioner Jesse Couch. According to the complaint, the property allegedly received and concealed by the defendant was currency and silver addressed to the First National bank of O'Donnell.

Waived Preliminary Hearing

Williams waived preliminary hearing, and as a result no testimony was introduced. The accused man said his attorney would be here Thursday.

The complaint was filed by Postal Inspector P. M. Juvenal who disclosed the theft had happened Nov. 4 or 5 from a railway mail car "somewhere between Dallas and O'Donnell." Federal agents have not disclosed details of the robbery and it was presumed that until recently they have been without tangible clues.

Consigned To O'Donnell Bank

The mail pouch consigned to the O'Donnell bank, contained $28,950 in coin and currency. It was mailed by the Federal Reserve bank at Dallas.

The money shipment was in four packages. One contained $17,000 including $5,000 in $10 bills, $10,000 in $20 bills, and $2,000 in $50 bills. In a second was $11,000 divided into $6,000 in $1 bills and $5,000 in $5 notes. The third contained $800, in half-dollars, and $200 in dimes. Remainder of the shipment consisted of $150 in nickels.

Charge Filed At Abilene

Inspector Juvenal, acting on advice of two other inspectors assigned to the case, filed a complaint at Abilene Tuesday naming the Brownwood suspect. Deputy Marshal C. S. Brown returned to Abilene tonight after transferring the prisoner here from Brownwood.

Early reports, from usually reliable sources and given shortly after the theft, said the pouch had been thrown off the Santa Fe train at Slaton, the junction point, where mail for O'Donnell, Wilson, Tahoka and Lamesa is transferred to a branch line train.

Williams was convicted here Oct. 20 for violation of the national prohibition act and was fined $100 and assessed ten days in jail by Federal Judge William Hawley Atwell.

Other information relative to the case tonight was lacking, although it was indicated further developments may be expected soon.

Kermit Man Shot To Death; Another Held

KERMIT, Jan. 19. (AP)—Wesley A. Reynolds, about 35, was shot to death today in the filling station where he was employed.

Deputy Sheriff Ellis Summers said Ira Jones, an oil worker, walked across the street from the station to the courthouse and surrendered to officers after the shooting. Reynolds was shot several times.

Jones was placed in jail. He has a wife and three children.

THE BANNED NOVEL

THAT novel "Slogum House," by Mari Sandoz that was banned in Omaha, Neb., by the mayor because it was "rotten and filthy" was a candidate for a national best-seller last week and, as Leona Allen said Wednesday afternoon, it probably will head the list this time next week. If you want to sell a book or song or a story; if you want to have the crowds flock to your picture show, your museum or your exhibit have it banned—you'll have to call out the army and the navy to keep the crowds from tramping in the front door.

Critics have said "Slogum House" is hardly a novel for the ladies' aid. That being the case, we suppose the rugged individualists will step forward. Neither belonging to one nor being the other, but in line for the book, you can identify us by our colored glasses and the turned-up hat.

• • •

THE BEST-SELLERS

BOOKS for January, listed in the order of their popularity, are: "The Citadel," A. J. Cronin; "Northwest Passage," Roberts; "The Rains Came," Bromfield; "The Turning Wheels," Cloete; "Home for Christmas," Douglas; "Enchanter's Nightshade," Ann Bridge; "The Arts," Hendrik W. Van Loon; "Madame Curie," Eve Curie; "The Importance of Living," Lin Yutang; Woollcott's Second Reader and "How To Win Friends and Influence People" Carnegie.

Other candidates for the list were "This Is My Story" by Eleanor Roosevelt, "Imperial City," Elmer Rice; "Serenade," Cain and "Trojan Horse," Morley.

DON'TS FOR BEAUTY

ALICIA HART has compiled a list of don'ts for one who would be attractive. For instance, during the months ahead she suggests these don'ts:

"Pile mascara on your lashes for daytime glamor.

"Forget to buy tooth paste or hand lotion until the old supplies are entirely gone.

"Try to look like any motion picture actress.

"Ignore chipped nail lacquer. Or refuse to use cuticle cream at least two nights a week.

"Wear flat-heled shoes to teas.

"Swear off girdles. Every mature woman, regardless of her size, needs some kind of foundation garment.

"Decide perfume isn't worth the bother.

"Let your nose touch your book when you're reading. Or read in poor light. Or refuse to get glasses if you need them.

"Try to make your hair 'do' a few extra days.

• • •

"Go to sleep even once without undressing your face. Or go one single day without a bath.

"Tolerate uneven hemlines. Or think for a second that paying a tailor to take in waistlines, replace snaps and hooks and give several costumes a thorough going over is a waste of money.

"Think it's selfish to have some time alone. Until they get used to it, your family may think it pretty mean of mother to shut herself in her room one evening a week, but, later on, they won't mind—and mother will be a lot happier person to have around.

"Pooh-pooh the sound truth that adequate sleep, moderate exercise and a sensible diet make for real beauty—the lasting variety which doesn't fade with the years.

Defending America Is Group Subject

A discussion of "Defending America" was conducted at a meeting of the International Relations Group of the American Association of University Women Tuesday night in the home of Mrs. Leroy T. Patton.

Miss Bonnie K. Dysart, chairman, presided for a brief business session early in the evening.

Mrs. N. N. Holt was program chairman. Mrs. R. T. Campbell discussed "Military Defenses of the United States" and Mrs. O. D. Elliott discussed "Non-Military or Political Defenses." The chairman mentioned recent changes in the foreign policy of the U. S.

Miss Grace Padley presided at the refreshment table. Featuring the table decorations was an arrangements of small glass ducks that were purchased in China. Other hostesses were Mrs. J. S. Johnson, Miss Flora McGee and Miss Alice Beckett.

Refreshments were served to 20 women.

Class "Kid" Party Is Given In Home Of Miss Robert

DON'T MAKE constipation worse WITH HARSH, NASTY LAXATIVES!

There's no law against a person taking a bitter nasty purgative. But what for? Who said you had to make a miserable experience out of a simple case of constipation?

Taking a laxative can be just as pleasant as eating a piece of delicious chocolate—provided you take Ex-Lax. It gets thorough results—but smoothly, easily, without throwing your eliminative system out of whack, without nausea or stomach pains.

For over 30 years Ex-Lax has been America's favorite family laxative. Now it has been Scientifically Improved! It's actually better than ever. It TASTES BETTER than ever, ACTS BETTER than ever—and is MORE GENTLE than ever.

Equally good for children and grown-ups. 10¢ and 25¢ boxes at your druggist.

COMFORTING RELIEF FOR YOUR "HEAVY" CHEST COLD

Tonight—rub your chest with Penetro before you go to bed. It will ease tightness and pressure so that your cold will "feel easier," you'll be more comfortable. Penetro combines 113% to 227% more medication than any other nationally sold cold salve together with a base of mutton suet, to create thorough counter-irritant action, thereby increasing blood flow and stimulating greater body heat.

Because mutton suet is an animal fat, it helps to better "hold in" this heat by conserving and concentrating it. That's why Penetro brings you such comforting relief, relieves the congestion and pressure of your "heavy" cold. Its aromatic vapors are inhaled into nasal passages to help open up stuffy noses, make breathing easier. Keep stainless, snow-white Penetro on hand to use generously on both children and adults. 35c a jar. Accept no substitute—be sure to ask for Penetro. Sold by all dealers.

Allred Assumes Role Of Cross-Examiner In State Game Department Probe

Testimony Given By Vernon Man

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 19. — Governor James V. Allred today assumed the role of cross-examiner in a senate committee investigation of charges the state game department was grossly mismanaged for political purposes.

Appearing in the senate chamber while the committee was hearing testimony of Jess Showers of Vernon, the chief executive questioned the former commission chairman.

Resigned Early Last Year

Showers and Jack O'Brien of San Antonio, Allred appointees, resigned after a disagreement with the governor early last year over a proposal to discharge Will J. Tucker, secretary of the commission, and other commission policies.

When Showers had testified his chief reason for quitting was because he "couldn't afford to stay on without accomplishing something to correct deplorable conditions in the department," the governor interjected sharply:

"I asked you to resign, didn't I?"

"Yes," Showers answered.

Should Not Criticize Governor

"You recall that among reasons I gave was the statement I thought a member of the 'official family' should not criticise the governor?"

"I don't remember."

Allred read into the record a "confidential report" made to him by Showers while the latter was commission chairman in which Showers said "political pressure and demands have apparently dominated the affairs of the department, and "policies were subject to change on a whimsical basis at any time."

"When you wrote that," the governor asked, "you didn't say anything about Tucker smoking his pipe, his feet on the desk and two months behind with his mails?"

Was Generally Known

"No, but that was generally known," Showers said.

In January a year ago a 3-to-2 vote by the commission, with Showers, O'Brien and Mrs. Hal C. Peck of Amarillo favoring Tucker's dismissal, was recorded. The attorney general held later the action required four affirmative votes.

The governor asked Showers whether Tucker had been given a hearing.

"He wasn't present," Showers answered.

"Did not you and O'Brien," Allred continued, "make a deal with Mrs. Peck that if she voted with you to discharge Tucker, you would let her name Tucker's successor?"

"I don't remember making such a statement."

Pressed by committeemen for a yes or no answer, Showers said "I would not say that I did not make it."

"I'm going to find out about that deal yet," the governor commented.

Flurry Over Statement

There wa sa fulrry when Showers told the committee he had reported to Allred how changes cculd be made in the department which would effect savings of $25,000 a year and the governor said he was not concerned in the report.

Allred sharply denied he had made the statement saying:

"Come on, Jess, don't make up something."

Showers, however, stuck to his declaration.

Showers testified Joe Wall, captain of a commission patrol boat at Corpus Christi, had told him the boat had been used for pleasure purposes at the orders of "Austin headquarters" 28 days in August, 1935.

Complained About Authority

The former commission chairman said Tucker had complained that "practically all" his authority had been taken from him so he could not correct "these and other conditions." Showers said a resolution passed by the commission had destored those powers.

"But," Showers continued, "in spite of that I could not get Tucker to do things which were recommended.

Showers said he had found pollution conditions near oil fields in East and West Texas were bad but that he had obtained co-operation of oil operators in correcting the conditions and thought this was among many things which could have been done, but were not by the department.

He said he knew of friction between Tucker and Beal Jester, assistant executive secretary of the commission, and filed statements of Jester's expense accounts, which he termed "excessive," with the committee.

"There isn't a man in Texas," Showers said, "who cquld make a success of being a member of the game commission as long as Tucker is secretary."

VFW Commander Is To Pay Visit Here On Saturday Night

Arthur D. Dodds, Dallas, department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Wednesday telegraphed Robert J. Allen, commander of the Lubbock post, assuring him he would arrive Saturday afternoon for a joint meeting that night of several posts of this area.

More than 150 members of the organizations of West Texas are expected for the session which will be opened at 9 o'clock that night at the Hilton hotel. Dodds will preside.

Among the visiting delegations will be a degree team of 12 men from Amarillo.

A district meeting of officials will be held probably at 10 o'clock Sunday morning, Allen announced.

Officers of the Lubbock post will attend a dinner at the Hilton hotel Saturday night with Dodds as honor guest before the main meeting is convened.

C. J. Boyd of Boyd AERO Service at Amarillo and commander of the post there said if weather conditions were favorable he would fly here Saturday afternoon for the meetings.

Kemper's Work On Line Cited

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 19.—W. T. Kemper, who died this morning in Kansas City, became receiver for the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad in 1917 and saved "that streak of rust running off nowhere on the prairies of the southwest" from being junked. This has been termed many times one of the greatest services to the Southwest and to San Angelo.

Kemper took the position upon the solicitation of the late Judge John C. Pollock of Kansas City in whose court the receivership of the Orient had been for a number of years. Taking this post without pay, he said he would give his service free of charge as he felt the completion of the road would be of great benefit to Kansas City and the Southwest and he would take his pay from the benefits his home city derived from it.

Become Lines President

Seven years after Kemper took charge and initiated some extraordinary economices, the road showed a profit of $142,000. Kemper became president of the line in 1925. Two years later he and counsel were awarded more than $1,000,000 in fees for their 10-year services. In order to save and conserve, Kemper had the terminal shops at Wichita, Kan., built with lumber from dismantled box cars. Bridge heads, snow fences and depots were constructed of lumber from the same source. Locomotive flues were utilized as posts for sign boards and whistling posts and rails no longer suitable were sawed into short pieces and used along the line as posts for pretective purposes.

Deficiency Cited In Resources

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—A congressional tax committee heard George H. Houston, Philadelphia industrialist, assert today that never in its history has the nation been confronted with "such a deficiency of resources in the facilities of production and exchange."

From James H. R. Cromwell, whose wife, the former Doris Duke, inherited a fortune made from tobacco, the committee received a suggestion that virtually all the present tax system be junked and government revenues raised by a manufacturers' sales tax.

Should Relieve Capital

Taxes should be removed from capital, he said, so that it may be used freely for enterprises that will provide jobs.

Houston, president of the Baltimore Locomotive Works, said the deficiency of resources was a result of a $50,000,000,000 reduction since 1929 in surpluses and capital of both incorporated and unincorporated businesses.

He spoke at hearings on a tax revision program that would modify the undistributed profits and capital gains levies and make many more changes in the revenue laws.

Looks To Destruction

Any tax that "forces dissipation of corporate savings" or limits the discretion of business men, Houston said, "is looking straight to the destruction of private enterprise."

The undistributed profits and capital gains taxes, he contended, have led to imprudent disbursements of profits, discouraged re-investment of profits in improvements and added nothing to the stability of business.

The changes under consideration by the committee, he said, would make the tax law "much better" than it now is.

Confiscated East Texas Oil To Be Sold At Auction On Feb. 1

KILGORE, Jan. 19. (AP)—Tom D. Rowell, states assistant attorney general stationed here, said today 439,112 barrels of oil confiscated in East Texas by the state in the last two months would be sold at public auction February 1.

Rowell said the sale, to be held in Henderson and Longview, would include oil confiscated by district court order in Gregg and Rusk counties.

Rowell said the oil was seized by the state on grounds it was produced in excess of allowable schedules.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

Destruction Of Hindenberg May Have Been Due To Sabotage, Report Of Committee Says

BERLIN, Jan. 19. (AP)—Possibility the explosion that destroyed the German dirigible Hindenburg at Lakehurst, N. J., may have been due to sabotage must be admitted, said a German government report published today.

The report was prepared by a committee named by Air Minister Col. Gen. Herman Wilhelm Goering last May 7, the day after the disaster.

"Proofs that an act of force had been committed could not be adduced," said the report, "although every lead in that direction was followed painstakingly. Nevertheless the possibility of the wanton destruction of the airship must be admitted since there is little proof of any other origin."

Virginia Inaugurates New Chief Executive On Lee's Birthday

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 19. (AP)—Virginians combined their celebration of the birth anniversary of Robert E. Lee today with the inauguration of a new governor, James H. Price, of Richmond, the fiftieth to assume direction of the state's affairs since it became an independent commonwealth. Thousands thronged the city for the spectacle.

Data Is Given On Social Security

(By The Associated Press)

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 19.—A total of 2,766 claims for lump-sum payments under old-age insurance provisions of the Social Security act were filed in the states of Louisiana, New Mexico, and Texas during 1937, it was announced today by Oscar M. Powell, regional director for the Social Security board.

By states the totals included: Louisiana, 764; New Mexico, 85; Texas, 1,917. By field offices in the three states, claims were filed as follows:

Louisiana—Alexandria, 65; Baton Rouge, 65; Monroe, 60; New Orleans, 422; Shreveport, 162.

New Mexico—Albuquerque, 85.

Amarillo Has 51 Claims

Texas—Amarillo, 51; Austin, 114; Beaumont, 200; Brownsville, 8; Dallas, 520, El Paso 72; Fort Worth, 105; Houston, 519; San Antonio, 204; San Angelo, 29; Tyler, 47; Wichita Falls, 48.

The Social Security board also announced 1,602 of the claims received from these states and valued at $37,615.58, an average of $23.48 per claim, had been certified to the treasury total amount of payments and average papments for the year 1937, were:

Texas Average Higher

Louisiana, 348 claims; total payments, $7,669.80; average payment, $22.04. New Mexico, 52 claims; total payments, $1,020.54; average payment, $19.63. Texas, 1,202 claims; total payments, $28,925.24; average payment $24.06.

Powell explained that claims for lump-sum payments may be filed by workers in employment covered by the Social Security act who have reached age 65 since January 1, 1937, and by estates of workers who have died after having been in covered employment since January 1, 1937. Lump sums payable in either case amount to 3 1-2 per cent of the wages received from covered employment.

Grand Championship Beef Sells For Dollar A Pound At Denver

DENVER, Jan. 19. (AP) — Grand championship beef was priced at $1 per pound on the hoof at the National Western Stock show today.

Pretty Boy, an 800-pound Hereford steer which captured the prized blue ribbon for its 16-year-old owner, Gordon Grote of Mason, Texas, was auctioned for $800 to the Burlington railroad.

The price was 24 cents per pound higher than the figure quoted for the 1937 grand champion.

Young Grote, an end on his high school football team, said the $800, plus $100 he won in prizes, means the start of a college education for him. He plans to enroll in Texas A. & M. next year.

Previously, the boy said he wasn't sure what sort of career he wanted to follow but Pretty Boy's triumph made up his mind—he means now to be a stockman, like his father.

Baptist Board Is To Consider New Secretary On February 8

DALLAS, Jan. 19. (AP)—The executive board of the Baptist General Convention of Texas will meet here February 8 to consider a successor to Dr. R. C. Campbell, board recretary. He resigned yesterday, effective March 1, to accept the pastorate of the Immanuel Baptist church at Little Rock, Ark.

Tribute Is Paid To Edgar Allen Poe On Birthday Anniversary

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19 (AP)—A steady stream of visitors paid tribute to Edgar Allen Poe today in a little cottage where he lived from 1842 to 1844 and where many of his strange fictional characters were born.

Today was the 129th anniversary of Poe's birth.

French Propose Revision Of London Naval Treaty To Allow For Larger Ships

Another Step In Naval Race On

PARIS, Jan. 19.—French naval circles today put forward the possibility of a conference among United States, British and French naval experts for revision of the 1936 London naval treaty to allow construction of battleships of more than 35,000 tons.

It was understood that if such a conference were called, Germany and Soviet Russia would be included at least in the later stages because they also agreed to the limitation.

"Exchange Of Views" Reported

Gratien Candace, navy budget reporter in the chamber of deputies, reported an "exchange of views" and declared France was favorable to removing the tonnage restriction since "It is well known that Japan is building 46,000-ton ships."

(Britain, the United States and France agreed in the London treaty that for the period 1937-1942 inclusive they would exchange information on new naval construction and adhere to certain qualitative limitations.

Can Be Released

(Chief among the latter for capital ships was a maximum displacement of 35,000 tons. Escape clauses in the pact authorized the release of signatories from restrictions if a non-treaty power should exceed them.

Both Germany and Soviet Russia came within scope of the pact by separate treaties with Britain in 1937. Russia was exempted from qualitative limitations for vessels stationed in the Far East and from exchange information on vessels constructed and stationed there.)

To Seek Increase

Members of the chamber naval committee asserted they would confer next week with William Bertrand, new navy minister, and Paul Marchandeau, new finance minister, to seek an increase in the 1938 naval building program.

They said the increase to be sought would include two 42,000-ton battleships to be laid down when the London treaty was changed.

Members of the committee, whose authority is limited to advising the government, last week and today said the body favored construction of two of the larger vessels because Italy would build two new 35,000-ton battleships.

Cairo Prepares For Wedding

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Jan. 19.—Ancient Egypt and her friends throughout the world poured gifts today at the feet of King Farouk and pretty Farida Zulficar, who will become Egypt's queen tomorrow.

A camel caravan brought picturesque caskets filled with henna for Farida, who will not see the wedding ceremony herself, and may have to wear in public the traditional veil of Egyptian women.

Not To Use Henna

Slender, dark-eyed, 16-year-old Farida decided not to use the henna, which was sent by a notable Egyptian family and which since the days of the Pharaohs has been used to stain the hands and feet of brides.

Among the gifts at Koubbeh palace—one of seven palaces available to the 17-year-old king and his bride-to-be — were two shotguns presented by British Ambassador Sir Miles Lampson on behalf of King George.

Cairo business was at a standstill for the ceremony which will make Firada the second queen of Egypt since Cleopatra. Flags flew from every building. Troops of Bedouins from the desert performed feats of horsemanship in the streets.

Saving To Railroad In Auditing Change Is Cited In ICC Hearing

FORT WORTH, Jan. 19. (AP) — Consolidation of certain auditing duties could save the Rock Island railroad more than $100,000 yearly, W. H. Burns of Chicago, general auditor of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway testified at an ICC hearing today.

He said such consolidation would erase certain "economic waste" and would not hinder rail service.

The Interstate Commerce commission hearing was held before Examiner W. J. Schutrumph on application of the C. R. I. & P. for permission to lease properties of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf system in Texas.

J. D. Farrington, Chicago, chief operating officer for the C. R. I. & P., and formerly general manager of the Burlington lines in Texas with headquarters at Fort Worth, testified that "to my knowledge, the purpose of this application will not result in removal of any of the staff office and officers now located in Fort Worth and will not alter the service rendered to the public."

Oklahoma Man Is Turned Over To Hockley Officers

Attaches of the office of Sheriff Ed Hofacket of Levelland Wednesday afternoon accepted custody of a 35-year-old Custer City, Okla., man who had been arrested here by Lubbock authorities on pickup orders from Levelland.

Deputy Sheriff W. C. Rogers of Levelland said the man was wanted on two check charges involving approximately $17. He said he believed forgery counts would be filed.

Released On Bond

M. L. Wheeler, charged with a count of forgery in the justice court of S. E. McMillan was released on approval by the office of Sheriff Tom Abel of a bond of $1,000 set by McMillan upon Wheeler's arraignment.

A white man, believed to be out of the county, was named defendant in a charge filed with Walter Davies, justice of peace, alleging passage of a $15 check on a Lubbock bank bearing the assertedly forged name of John Worley. Marcus Gosdin swore to the complaint which had been prepared by Burton S. Burks, district attorney.

Another man who had not been reported arrested was charged with theft of a $25 coat and a $3.50 pair of gloves, the complaint having been filed in the county court of Judge J. J. Dillard. Elmer Adnandus, complainant, set out the property was taken from him. Robert J. Allen, county attorney, prepared the complaint.

A man held for investigation of theft was arrested by city authorities and transferred to the county jail, pending further investigation and possible filing of charges.

Negro Is Charged

An Odessa negro, against whom no charge had been filed late Wednesday, was held in the county jail in connection with his asserted carrying of a pistol, according to Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff. He had been arrested by Ham Odom and W. J. Tucker of the police department.

Two Mexicans entered pleas of guilty of charges of fighting and were fined $1 and court costs by Justice of Peace Davis. They were released from the county jail on payment of fines.

A variety of other asserted infractions found way to records of various jurisdictions. A 23-year-old man was in jail after asserted assault with a deadly weapon on W. M. Whitaker. He was listed as living in 900-block Avenue B. Another 33-year-old man was held for asserted assault on his wife. He lived in 700-block Fifteenth street, police said.

A 1937 delivery coupe, license N618,274, was reported stolen from the private garage of George M. Roach of 1811 Seventeenth street.

CALVES ARE SHIPPED

WHITEFACE, (Special) — Eight cars of fat calves were shipped from here recently to El Paso. The animals, fed at the Fred Snyder & Son feeding pens, weighed about 800 pounds after being on feed 100 days. Peyton Packing company was purchaser.

Doing a Whale of a Job!

Scientifically conducted now, whaling has lost much of its romance and hazards. Still it ranks as one of the most thrilling of industries. Harpooners have to chase whales for days, frequently, before making their catch. But there's always that exciting moment when the quarry offers himself as a fair target for the harpoon. Then you have a scene like that pictured above as a Kamchatka (Russian) whaler makes a strike. The leviathan spouts spray like a geyser, threshes the water in its death throes.

Defense Claim In Trial Given

(By The Associated Press)

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 19. — The defense in the federal gasoline case presented to the jury today its claim that activities of 16 defendant oil companies in 1935 and 1936 preserved competition and carried no monopolistic menace.

Defense Counsel H. H. Thomas of Madison, asserting a gasoline-buying program in the Mid-Continent field was legal irrespective of the NRA code but that it was fostered by the government, said in his final argument to the jury:

Tried To Correct Abuses

"The defense contends that what these defendants did . . . did not constitute a violation of the Sherman law, although the correction of the practice of dumping distress gasoline may tend to stabilize business or produce fairer price levels, and that the Sherman law did not require the defendants to abstain from this effort to correct abuses.

"This is so because the action of the defendants carried with it no monopolistic menace and cannot be condemned as an undue restraint of trade, if you should find that by such efforts a change of conditions was brought about that favored rather than impaired fair competition."

Buying of surplus gasoline, the defense contends, saved the independent refiners whose gasoline competes with that of the major companies.

Minneapolis Woman Is Killed, Daughter Injured In Attack

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 19. (AP) — Mrs. Goldie Rosen, 54, died today from a mysterious attack and her daughter, Bernice, a high school girl, was in a critical condition as a result of the same assault.

Police, called to their home by Henry Mellum, a roomer, who found them last night, found a heavy iron furnace shaker they said had been used to beat the two women in their bedroom after they retired.

Authorities were unable immediately to find a motive.

Here Pete nuzzles in on Byron Eno's deal for a gun to use as bodyguard for the pet.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed.

How do Calotabs help nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminants, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds.

Calotabs are quite economical; only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

WHY 10 GALLONS BEAT TWO 5's
when it comes to sure starting

The more gasoline in your tank, the less space for air—and moisture. Moist air in your cold tank tries to form water. This can keep your engine from starting, even before freezing weather.

Better have the gasoline line and screens cleaned today—a short, inexpensive job wherever you get your car serviced. Then stick to Special Winter Blend Conoco Bronze. Keep your tank full, especially overnight.

That becomes all the easier with Conoco Bronze because it doesn't use up in a hurry...but gee, how it hustles to start your car! Not an extra stroke of the choke, or twirl of the starter. Light Tackle Or Heavy? Salt Water Anglers Fight Each Other, Not The Fish

So Help Me!

Harvey M. Harker of St. Louis and his 106-pound amber jack the catching of which established a new world record.

Four World Records Set A nd Henceforth Light Tackle Will Do The Setting

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

MIAMI BEACH, Jan. 19—Salt water fishermen have wound up fighting themselves instead of the fish.

This is revealed by Thomas Aitken with the announcement of the official 1938 revision of world salt water angling records.

Aitken perhaps is the country's leading authority on salt water fishing. He is the big game angling editor of a national publication, co-author of the standard work on that type of fishing, and a contributor to numerous outdoor magazines. His record charts are recognized throughout the English-speaking world and on the continent as official.

There has been smouldering warfare about heavy tackle in salt water angling circles for several years, with the anglers sharply divided. The biggest criticism of fresh water fishermen toward the oceanic sport has been that salt water anglers use gear big enough to kill a whale.

"Super-heavy tackle developed during the past few years is on the way out," says Aitken. "Designed to assist anglers in fighting big fish, tackle of this type has assumed ludicrous proportions. It exhausts the angler through its weight . . . makes it harder on the fisherman than the fish."

Yet four world records were broken during 1937.

Harvey M. Harker of St. Louis broke the amber jack record with a 106-pounder landed off Pass-A-Grille, Fla.

James Bailey of Los Angeles set a mark for white sea bass with a 68½-pounder snagged off Coronado Island in southern California.

Light Tackle Talk

A RECORD for curved yellow-fin tuna was hung up in Hawaiian waters by James M. Harvey of Honolulu with a 265-pounder.

Maj. Cyril M. Chandler of the United States army accounted for the fourth new record with a 72-pound rooster fish landed in Panama Bay.

"I am convinced," asserts Aitken, "that future records will be set with comparatively light tackle which will permit fish to do the fighting, pitting their strength against the angler's skill.

"Light tackle is not only more sporting, but more practical.

"Even sounding fish will fight nearer the surface on light tackle.

"Hooked on heavy equipment, any big fish tends to sound to tremendous depths.

"Many a record has been lost when fish were killed at such depths, and an exhausted angler was unequal to the task of pumping his victim to the surface, or the water pressure proved too great a strain for even the heavy outfit."

An 821-pound North American record blue-fin tuna caught off Liverpool, N. S., by John Stuart Martin, one-armed magazine editor, is declared by Aitken to have been one of the two outstanding catches of the season.

A 375-pound blue marlin caught off Miami Beach by Marion E. Sibley, Florida attorney, is ranked by Aitken with Martin's catch.

Unluckiest Angler

GIL EASTON, New Jersey member of the Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club, is singled out as probably the unluckiest angler of the year and one of the more courageous. After a thrilling battle with a giant blue marlin, Easton sacrificed a finger rather than lose his hold on the leader wire when the fish showed unexpected resistance on being brought alongside the boat. Easton was confident when he had it close enough to get a good look at it that the fish would set a new world record, but it failed by 24 pounds.

Aiken believes that there is a strong possibility that this record will fall during 1938 due to the large number of anglers who will seek to win the Permanent Sailfish Trophy of the Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club, the most coveted prize of the third renewal of the Metropolitan Miami tournament, which continues until April 17. Last year this tournament attracted 55,000 entrants.

But trout stream fishermen urge the salt water boys to discard their heavy gear.

They fear somebody will get hurt, and crack something about there being considerable difference between an angler and a fisherman.

The Evidence!

Marion Sibley and the 375-pound blue marlin he landed off Miami Beach to set a new mark for United States coastal waters.

Hogs To Renew Cage Pursuits

(By The Associated Press)

Deadlocked with a surprising Baylor team in first position, the touted University of Arkansas Razorbacks come out of temporary retirement on their home court at Fayetteville Thursday and Friday nights to meet the charge of a mediocre Rice Institute five.

The Porkers, strengthened by the addition of Jim Benton, rangy guard who carried over his football chores into New Year's Day, were not expected to have much trouble in disposing of Rice.

Twice spilled by Arkansas, a question mark Texas Aggie team also has two weekend games booked. Friday night at Fort Worth the Aggies meet a hapless Texas Christian team that has shown nothing in two starts against Texas.

The Aggies' Saturday night engagement with Southern Methodist at Dallas should be considerably tougher. The defending champions, already defeated by Baylor, can make but few mistakes from here on out and plan to give the Aggies another high-scoring outfit, a hot reception.

A 19-point spree against Baylor Tuesday night sent Wee Willie Tate, Texas ace, soaring into the lead in the individual scoring race with 44 points. Far behind in second place with 28 points was Louie Freiberger, Aggie center.

Couple Of Guys Named Joe Visit Braddock's Camp

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Jan. 19. (AP)—Two slugging guys named Joe Louis and DiMaggio respectively showed up today to watch the veteran Jim Braddock complete his training for Friday night's bout with Tommy Farr at the Garden.

DiMaggio, the Yankees' home run whanger, thought Jim looked swell, possibly because he had made the 35-mile trip in the company of Joe Gould, who is Braddock's manager.

Louis, looking like a dusky Daniel Boone in a coonskin cap and hunting clothes, moved in to begin training seriously for his tilt with Nathan Mann on February 23.

"First time I ever seen him 'cept when we was in the ring together," said Joe, "but he looks mighty good. Yes sir, this ought to be a good fight."

Galveston May Keep Baseball If $20,000 Is Located

GALVESTON, Jan. 19. (AP)—Galveston will remain in the Texas League if local baseball fans want to buy the club for $3,000 less than it has been offered to outside interests, it was decided late today following a meeting of the directors of the Galveston Baseball association and the executor and trustees of the Sinearn Moody estate.

The Moody estate gave J. Alvin Gardner, league president, an option on the team for $23,000. Local interests may buy the franchise and players for $20,000, and it was also agreed that the Moody estate would take a substantial block of stock if necessary.

Carl Moulden To Quit Job At Borger High School

BORGER, Jan. 19. (AP) — Carl Moulden, Borger High school head football coach for the last four years, said today he would not be a candidate for the job this fall.

Moulden said he had "better prospects" in view, but did not amplify the statement.

Borger won two out of four conference games last season.

Jap Grappler Wins Rough Jacket Go From Moran

In catch-as-catch-can wrestling, rough-and-tumble, or alley fighting, your old friend from the Ozarks can hold his own against practically any middleweight, and nine times out of ten he'll probably win—but he is not at home in an abbreviated night shirt, such as the Japanese commonly wear in their native grappling, although Sailor Moran is not exactly a stranger in the ports of Nippon.

Your sailor friend was holding his own, even last night; in fact Moran was getting the best of it up to the final seconds. Then, all of a sudden, the Tetsura Higami climbed Moran's back like a monkey after a coconut, fastened his "sleep hold" like a leech getting his breakfast, and mighty Moran fumbled, stumbled and rumbled to the floor, as unconscious as an ether victim undergoing major surgery.

Jap Shows Courage

It was the third and deciding fall of last night "Jacket match" at Sled Allen's Auditorium. Each had won a fall, the Jap taking the first, Moran whaling the daylights out of the Oriental to win the second. Referee Clements declaring Higami the loser just before rigor mortis set in.

The veteran, thick-chested, piano-legged Jap came back for the third fall and displayed almost superhuman courage and determination in taking Moran's wicked punches and coming back for more. To keep from kissing the canvas after every blow, Higami played close to the ropes, and well against them. His lips turned blue, his face yellowish-green, but he stayed up there, wobbling like a drunken barfly, waiting his chance. Finally he got it, grasped the lapels of Moran's jacket, twisted them into a choke hold. The Sailor went down, his face livid, and the fans started to rise.

Sailor Discards Jacket

But Moran is a tough customer himself. He writhed near the ropes, and got out. As he came back, he jerked off his jacket, reverted to type and started after the Jap in the old Moran fashion. After thumping him severely and booting him from the ring, Moran was taken in tow by Clements, who ordered him to put the jacket back on or forfeit the match. Grudgingly, Moran re-donned the heavy canvas apron, slammed Higami five or six times, virtually wore himself out. Then Higami climbed him from behind, slapped on the "sleeper," and that was all for the evening. The fall lasted 11 minutes.

Higami, well versed in the use of the jackets, found little chance to employ his strategy early in the match, but finally won the first fall with a wicked arm bar, using the sleeve of the jacket for leverage.

Moran, fighting his favorite fight, battered the Jap badly in the short second fall, winning 9 minutes when Clements stopped him. Higami, bashed around the ring by Moran's cruel blows, required five minutes to recover and reach the dressing room.

Clingman, Venable Win

The supporting card, minus jackets, was up to snuff. Bill Venable won a bloodless preliminary from Cyclone Mackey in 17 minutes with a body pin after eluding a flying tackle. The Alabama Bulldog, outweighing Mackey nearly ten pounds, demonstrated again his villanish role, and won many booes from the large crowd.

The semi-final was quiet a battle, with Otis Clingman, versatile Amarillo native, fixing up big Otto Ludwig of Germany in 22 minutes with a head-cracking pile-driver. Ludwig, choosing to make it a rough match, had trouble recovering, and for five minutes after returning to the dressing room, assisted there by the referee, he groaned with a terrific headache. Clingman, playing along with Ludwig for 20 minutes, taking quite a lot of rough stuff from the big German, cut loose with a couple of slams and the pile-driver after becoming angry.

Grover "Almost" Pleased He's In Hall Of Fame

ALEXANDER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 19. (AP)—Grover Cleveland Alexander has his place in baseball hall of fame—and he's almost as proud as if it meant his picture on the wall in the little spot in Springfield where he works as "greeter" to the trade.

Old Pete's life, weather, and fun-worn face cracked in a wide grin when he learned he was the only one of baseball's greats to be voted a hall of fame niche in the third annual poll by members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

But, it wasn't the biggest thing that could have happened. Possessed of a sense of responsibility he didn't always have, Alexander thought first of the help from Johnny Connors, given when he needed it most, so he'd rather have his picture on the wall of Connors' taproom where he tells the boys stories of major league baseball and drinks a little beer with them.

"Lays Off Hard Stuff"

Alex landed in Springfield about a year ago—flat broke, sick and discouraged. Connors, sports promoter and hotel operator, sent one of baseball's greatest righthanded pitchers to a hospital for treatment of a leg infection, paid his bill, and gave him a job in the tavern when he was able to work.

He exacted a pledge that old Pete would lay off the "hard stuff"—nothing stronger than beer. Alexander, a great fun-lover in the days when he was pitching brilliant baseball for the Phillies, Cubs and Cardinals, has stuck to his word.

"The hall of fame is fine," he said "but it doesn't mean bread and butter. It's only your picture on a wall."

"This place is hall of fame enough for me," he added, as he looked at the photographs of sports, political and stage figures, all friends of Connors, on the wall of the tavern. "If I can get my picture up there, I'll be satisfied."

SCORING RECORD SET

CORSICANA, Jan. 19. (AP)—A season's scoring record for Navarro county was set here last night when K. Wolens, independent basketball team, defeated State Home high school 103-25 in a Y. M. C. A. league game. Cecil Hobbs, county teacher, forward, led the attack with 40 points.

Pacific Coast Conference To "Improve" Athletic Funds

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19. (AP)—The Pacific coast conference drew national attention today with a survey to find out where its college athletes get money for an education.

Chief fact finder was Edwin Atherton, former G-man, commissioned to dig for a year into the affairs of the indivdual schools in the conference and the students who compete in its sports events.

Hugh C. Willett, president of the conference and faculty representative of University of Southern California, set down the program when he said:

"The conference desires to improve its rules governing aid to the athletes to the end that these rules may be reasonable and fair."

Westerners Cop Close Battle From Borger

(Special To The Avalanche)

BORGER, Jan. 19.—Coach Goober Keyes' Lubbock High school Westerners continued their winning streak in the Big Five by downing Borger in a rough and tumble melee here tonight, 27 to 22.

Thirty personal fouls were committed, with the Bulldogs getting the lions' share of 18. Westerner marksmen reversed last week's form by sinking nine of 20 chances from the free throw line. Borger made good on eight of 13 tries.

Robert "Cotton" Allen, lanky Lubbock forward dropped in four goals from the field and a charity toss to account for the high total of nine points. Henry Ford, Westerner pivot man, and Kenderick, Bulldog forward, each amassed eight markers. Ford and Kenderick both netted four free throws and a brace of field goals.

Dutchy Cawthon, Lubbock guard, Kenderick, and Barron, Borger center, were ejected from the contest on personal fouls.

It was the first of a four-game series the Westerners are to play this week against Borger and Pampa. The two teams meet again Thursday night.

Box score:

Larry MacPhail Is Given Post In Brooklyn

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. — Leland Stanford (Larry) MacPhail, the man who introduced night baseball, usherettes and modern color schemes to the big league at Cincinnati, today became executive vice-president of the Brooklyn club.

MacPhail signalized his return to the game by signing a three-year contract at $20,000 per year. He left the Reds in November, 1936, after being general manager three seasons, lifting them from eighth to fifth place in the National league, and startling old-timers with his innovations.

MacPhail has been given full authority to reorganize the strife-torn and financially harassed Dodgers, together with their "farm system," but the first thing his interviewers wanted to know today was:

Would Trade MacPhail

"What's going to happen to Van Mungo?"

"First let me say that I'm willing to trade anybody connected with the club, including Manager Burleigh Grimes or MacPhail, if it will help the team," replied the new head man.

"At least three or four National league clubs want Mungo and have either made us definite propositions or—like St. Louis—offered to meet or better any rival proposition."

MacPhail will confer soon with Manager Grimes on the possibility of making some player deals, as well as to determine policies and discuss training camp details.

Gives Grimes Full Reins

"Grimes will have the fullest authority on the field and all the support I can give him in organizing a winning club," said MacPhail.

Some observers saw significance in the fact that one of MacPhail's first moves was to close negotiations for a working agreement with the Nashville club of the Southern association. Nashville is managed by Charley Dressen, who was installed as Cincinnati's pilot in 1934 by MacPhail. The Reds let Dressen go shortly before the end of the 1937 season. The thought developed that if Grimes does not handle the Dodgers to MacPhail's satisfaction this year, Dressen may be in line.

An exponent of the "farm" system, MacPhail stressed that one of his first moves will be to put the Brooklyn minor league connections on a more productive footing.

Redskins And Bears Tune Up For Dallas Contest

Precedent Is To Be Set By Moe And Abe

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—Unless all shrewd reckoning is wrong, Moe and Abe are about to reach the end of perhaps the most glorious trail ever trudged by manager and fighter together.

Moe and Abe are the affectionate names Joe Gould and James J. Braddock call each other. Their friendship, an astonishing bond in such a lurid trade as the professional fight business, bloomed in defeat and oblivion. The prize ring, all to cluttered with the double cross, never knew anything like their understanding and may never again.

On his word of honor, Manager Gould has promised fight writers he'll never allow "Abe" to fight professionally again if he loses his comeback try against Tommy Farr Friday night. "If Farr licks him by a fair margin," promised Moe, "I'll tell Abe to hang up his mittens forever. And he will. He means far too much to me—and to his countless friends—for me to watch him battered, bit by bit and fight by fight, into a hopeless hulk of a man.

Now you can't believe the general run of fight managers. There are a few who would sell their broken down pugs for cab fare. Yet it seems safe enough to trust Gould's promise. And he probably will be called upon to redeem it for Farr, younger and stronger and tougher, shouldn't have much trouble in whipping boxing's cinderella man, who'll be engaged in his 84th fight at the age of 32. Farr's no great fighter, which makes the probable Braddock finale all the sadder.

In "smiling through," Gould and Braddock became the first manager and heavyweight champion fighter to stick together from start to finish.

ZEKE LOHMAN DIES

FLORA, Ill., Jan. 19. (AP) — The body of Zeke Lohman, 49, oil man and former major and minor league baseball player, who died here yesterday, has been sent to Shreveport, La., his former home for burial.

Friends said Lohman began his baseball career in 1907 as a pitcher for Waco in the Texas League.

DALLAS, Jan. 19. (AP)—Encamped 30 miles apart at Fort Worth and Dallas, the Washington Redskins and Chicago Bears tuned up today for a re-enactment Sunday of their famous grid struggle of a few weeks ago for the world's pro football title.

Once again favored were the Redskins, an aerial-minded band paced by Slingin' Sam Baugh. His shafts dropped the Bears, 28-21, in their tiutlar battle at Chicago.

Nagurski Is Out

Injuries shoved Chicago into the underdog role, three of their finest backs unlikely to play. Bronko Nagurski, ramming fullback, was definitely out with a leg infection, while Gene Ronzani and Beattie Feathers were ailing with a leg hurt and lumbago.

Baugh and his mates, drilling at Fort Worth, were in top condition and likely to be given bright Texas sunshine for their aerial show.

Game officials predicted continuation of warm, clear weather would lure better, than 20,000 inside the Cotton Bowl.

Cowhands Drop Fast Game To Meadow, 28 To 20

Coach Ledbetter's Meadow High school quintet defeated the Lubbock Cowhands at Senior High gymnasium Wednesday night, 28 to 20.

The visitors led all the way in a game that was fast from start to finish.

Gatewood and White paced Meadow's victory, while Jerry Nash and Clifton Hill were outstanding for the Cowhands.

BUY LAND FOR PARK

TAHOKA, (Special)—A plot of ground containing 2.2 acres four miles north of town on highway No. 9 has been purchased by the state highway department as location for a park. It is in a triangle between the old and new highway locations. About $3,800 is available for development.

Riggs And Grant Favored To Battle In Finals At Tampa

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 19. (AP)—Prospects for a finals match between Bobby Riggs of Chicago, America's second ranking tennis player, and Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant, Davis Cup tiny mite of Atlanta, Ga., appeared likely today as the two top favorites headed the field of seeded players into the quarter-finals of the fourteenth annual Dixie Tennis tournament.

Riggs eliminated George Tolley, of the University of Miami, 6-2, 4-6, 6-0.

Grant advanced by beating Bill Hardie, a teammate of Tolley.

Theater Man Named To Head Kilgore Baseball Outfit

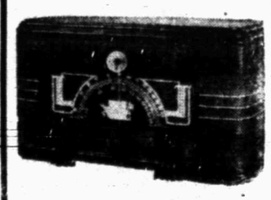

KILGORE, Jan. 19. (AP) — L. N. Crim, local theatre executive, was elected president of the Kilgore club of the East Texas Baseball league today.

He succeeded his brother, J. Malcolm Crim, who was elected vice president.

Crim said directors had decided to rebuild the ball park, which was torn down by a windstorm last fall.

Fifteen-Year-Old Lubbock Youth Sentenced To Five-Year Sentence In Reform School; Juveniles, 9 And 6 Years, Are Paroled

"It is our last resort."

District Judge E. L. Pitts, acting in a juvenile magistrate's capacity, Wednesday afternoon invoked stipulations of a five-year sentence in a reform institution for a 15-year-old Lubbock youth whose father is serving a penal term at Huntsville.

The youth had been before him Dec. 15 for car theft. He had stolen a machine belonging to a high school teacher and had driven it to El Paso, where he was arrested.

Admitted Breaking Parole

He admitted breaking of parole requirements and told the judge he required "time to think it over" while receiving "punishment."

"You would not be doing your duty" if "you did not sentence me," he told the court.

Judge Pitts and Robert J. Allen, county attorney, questioned and advised two juveniles, 9 and 6 years old, before the judge paroled them to their parents on a theft complaint.

"You Belong To The Court"

"For three years you belong to the court," he said. The younger boy opened his eyes wide.

"That means you must answer for your good behavior and your bad behavior," said the judge. "Do you know what that means?"

"I must not tell stories and steal," said the younger.

The 15-year-old youth thanked the judge and members of the court after he had ben sentenced. He was admonished to "find himself" during his five-year sentence, which might be lessened "at any time after the first year if your conduct suggests clemency."

His mother cried silently into her handkerchief during the questioning.

School Officials To Stage Banquet

A county-wide gathering of school trustees, superintendents and a state deputy superintendent of public instruction will be conducted at 7:45 o'clock the night of Jan. 26, said Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent, at Hilton hotel.

Seventy-five trustees of all the rural high schools, the city systems of Slaton and of Lubbock, will attend, as well as superintendents of those institutions.

Earl Davis of Roosevelt, chairman of the county school board, will be toastmaster.

"There will be plenty to eat and smoke, and there will be a variety of entertainment," Supt. Griggs promised.

A Commendable Project

NEWLY announced plans at Texas Technological college for constructive observance of Arbor—or tree planting—day sets an example every organization, every property owner and every civic minded person of the Plains region well may follow.

The plan, as announced from the office of Tech President Bradford Knapp, will involve the planting of 5,000 trees on the college campus. Tech nursery will supply the trees; students and faculty members will do the work under the supervision of O. B. Howell, professor of horticulture and director of college landscaping; the school will declare a half-holiday; and all will feast on coffee and doughnuts. Fittingly the day falls on Feb. 22, anniversary of the birth of George Washington, to whom no greater monument is possible than the dedication of "tree day" to his memory.

Tree planting is a magnificent deed anywhere. It is peculiarly so on the fertile Plains which were about as nearly treeless as could be possible until the coming of the white man. So obvious is the desirability and the value of trees that editorial dissertation on that phase of the subject is a waste of energy.

But there are other matters in connection with tree planting which might be called to mind. One is that trees are not possible on the Plains without human aid. The winds, the uncertainty of moisture and other factors will not permit them to get a start by themselves. But if the right kind of trees are given the proper care—meaning water—for a few years, their roots eventually will find moisture and their trunks will be all the stronger because of their unending struggle with the winds. Then they can take care of themselves.

Many varieties of trees, of course, will not thrive on the Plains. The number which will is almost infinite. Some even might be revenue producing. The pecan, for example. There probably isn't a home lot on the Plains where a properly tended pecan tree would not flourish. But infinitely more important are the facts that a tree—any tree—provides shade, enhances beauty, even does its part in tempering climate, curbs erosion and, best of all, is an inspiration to the human soul.

However, the selection, planting and care should be done with planned intelligence. If you do not know personally about such things, consult someone who does. Texas Tech, your nursery, the federal or state agricultural departments or the officials of various of our state agricultural schools or experiment stations doubtless will welcome the opportunity to supply you whatever information you may need. Then plant with the realization that you have dedicated yourself to the task of aiding the tiny shoot to become a tree.

Seven Criminals At Large

ALABAMA politicians and sentimentalists generally are effusing because only seven among several hundred convicts to whom Christmas leaves were granted have failed to return to prison.

They—the politicians and sentimentalists—insist the record has proved that most convicts at heart are good men AND that the Christmas pardon and parole plan is a good one.

The Morning Avalanche will agree that most convicts perhaps are victims of unfortunate circumstance. It does not agree that a politician or a group of politicians should be permitted to build political fences by turning convicted felons upon the public before they have served a minimum punishment, whether it be Christmas or any other time.

Most convicts are in the penitentiary because they deserve to be there. Most of them were assessed less punishment than their crime would justify. And any casual follower of the daily news knows that a startling percentage of most violent crime is committed by parolees.

It, of course, is unfortunate that potentially good men must remain in prison. If man possessed the gift of distinguishing between the good and the bad among them, then the pardon-parole plan would have merit.

But, in the case of the Alabama experiment, probably the most dangerous of the criminals are among the seven who failed to return. If one of those should murder one law-abiding citizen, it will be irrefutable condemnation of the system.

The One-Minute Sermon

Watch ye therefore: for ye know not when the master of the house cometh, at even, or at midnight, or at the cockcrowing, or in the morning.

Lest coming suddenly he find you sleeping.

And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch.—St. Mark 13, 35 and 37.

Believe It Or Not---By Robert Ripley

EXPLANATION OF CARTOON

THE WHITE HORSE OF KILBURN

The gigantic figure of a horse was carved out of the steep slope of Hambleton Hill near Kilburn, through the initiative of Thomas Taylor, who was a native of Kilburn and had grown wealthy in London. The idea came to him when he saw the famous White Horse of Berkshire. The whiteness of the horse is due to 6 tons of whitewashing which was applied to it. Originally the white horse was an emblem of sun worship reminiscent of the days of pagan England.

Yesterday: Barrymore is called to the rescue of a plane lost over the jungles. It is a bitter test for Linda to have him go. Old Miranda, despite her words, is deeply moved.

CHAPTER VII

Old Miranda was serenely chatty over the coffee urn next morning. She made no reference to her grandson's leaving, but confined herself to caustic comment about some gossip of the town. Barry listened to her with an attention as absorbed and amused as if he had nothing to look forward to in the immediate future but a lazy Christmas vacation.

"The Duchess has a most reprehensible weakness for scandal, Titania," he said. "It comes of living too much in army camps."

"I've always found," said the Duchess, "that a pinch of gossip aids digestion."

Barry spent the whole morning with his grandmother in her room—over some business matter, Linda understood.

Linda went down to lunch trembling in anticipation of the ordeal before her; but she might have spared herself.

At lunch the old lady was seized with a violent chill, and other symptoms complicated by the quantities of sandwiches she had consumed the night before. She was put to bed, fuming with impatience, and gasping out protests which made her grandson grin appreciatively—for the Duchess had a notable grasp of profane technique.

When the doctor was called, he pronounced her ailment a nervous chill.

"Too much excitement," he said. "See that she stays in bed—no matter what she says—until the symptoms have gone."

After the first rebellious few moments, old Miranda's native common sense asserted itself. Assured that if she behaved herself, she might get up to have dinner with the captain before he left for the airport, she became as docile as a child, and soon fell asleep.

* * *

"I'm afraid we'd better wait till I get back to tell her," Barry said soberly as he and Linda faced each other outside Mrs. Trent's door. "The poor old Duchess has had about all she ought to take for one day."

"I'd rather," Linda said. "I'd like it that way."

At the bottom of the stairway where they had sat for so long that day—was it only yesterday?—Barry turned, his eyes burning down at her.

"Listen, Titania," he said softly. "You haven't forgotten what I asked you—right here, the other day, have you? . . . I said," he went on when she did not answer, "Suppose you knew that I had to go away—almost at once; and might not come back for a long time. Would you marry me then—or would you still feel that we must wait until we knew each other better?"

"And you knew then," accused Linda, fighting down tears. "All this time you've known."

"I wasn't sure; but there was a chance."

"But, oh, Barry, this isn't for—a long time. It mustn't be."

"Of course not," Barry agreed smoothly. "But anyhow, what was it you said?"

When she did not answer, he prompted, "You' said, 'I would marry you if it were the last thing I did!'"

"Yes," Linda breathed, "I did say that. But—"

"And heaven help you if you were fooling me, woman . . . Don't pussy-foot Linda. There's so little time left."

"Yes," said Linda. "I meant it . . . But your grandmother — it isn't fair to her."

"We'll tell her as soon as I get back. It will be easier that way—and kinder . . . I think you've spotted the Duchess' weakness. I've always been her exclusive property. . . . But during the holidays she loves giving away things—often the very things she prizes most. When I come back, she'll be so tickled that she'll hand me to you all tied up with Christmas wrapings and a sprig of mistletoe . . . Well, was it a promise?"

"Yes," said Linda breathlessly. "It was a promise."

"I can get a license in five minutes, and we'll go to old Judge Baldwin. He'll keep his mouth shut. . . . Be ready and waiting, darling."

* * *

"I had to—use some rhetoric on Judge Baldwin," he explained, glancing at his watch. "But he understands now. He—Gosh but you look sweet, Titania!"

"If I could only have had more time, Barry," Linda said, glancing down at her dress.

She had slipped on a slim tailored frock of white wool and a small white felt hat. They were not new; they were just—white. And suddenly Linda longed for everything that made a bride lovely.

In the lower hall Barry stopped and picked up a square white box from a side table.

"Almost forgot," he said, offering it to Linda.

Opening it, she found a fragrant nest of white violets. She cried a little from pleasure as she took them from the box and pinned them to her coat.

She was still wiping her eyes, with Barry's arm about her shoulders, when the front door opened abruptly behind them. Turning, they faced Miss Chattam, standing as if riveted to the doorstep, her tense posture very much that of a pointing setter, her quick, pale eyes picking out ever detail of the little scene—Linda's moist lids, Barry's arm about her shoulders, their air of startled conspirators.

"I didn't ring," she explained as Linda hastily detached herself from Barry's arm and turned to adjust her hat at the mirror over the wall table, "because I didn't want to disturb your grandmother, Captain Trent . . . Dr. McIvor just told me she is ill. I—" she hesitated as they continued to stand without speaking— "is there anything I can do?"

"Not a thing in the world, Miss Lydia. Won't you—that is—"

* * *

As Barry vacillated between hospitality and irritation, Miss Chatam interrupted swiftly, "Oh, I couldn't think of staying. I just called to inquire."

She was obviously as anxious to be gone as they were to see the last of her.

"There, by the grace of God," ejaculated Barry as the door clicked behind her, "goes the best oiled tongue in 20 counties . . . I say 'by the grace of God' because it's a miracle some one hasn't fed her poison long before this."

"I wonder," faltered Linda, "how much she saw."

"Does it matter?" Barry laughed, and kissed her.

It was almost dusk as they went out into the frosty air.

"Listen," Barry said while they were driving around the little town park. "I've arranged everything. When we get back, there'll be a telegram waiting for you, calling you away on urgent business—the best excuse I could think up at the moment of writing. The boy is on his way with it already. I'll drive you to the depot. You'll take the 6:30. I'll say 'adios' to Grandmother, take the later train, and meet you in the city. We can manage several hours together."

"You mean I'm to — see you start?"

She wondered if she could bear that.

"Not a chance! Even the Duchess can't stick that field at night. . . . . I can't leave you, Linda—so soon," he begged.

And so it was arranged.

At the edge of the park a stream of holiday traffic held them up. From a waiting car that slid into line beside them, a drawling threaty voice called Barry's name; and Rita Blanchard's pale, narrow face, with its full red mouth and intent, avid dark eyes appeared at the nearest window.

"Don't forget you're coming over for cokctails, Barry," Rita called. Then she peered into the semi-darkness beside him, and her voice dropped to an intimate undertone. "I've just heard about your filght. I must see you before you go . . . And I have something for you, Barry . . . I do pay my debts, you know."

"Sorry," said Barry. "It will have to keep. I sent a message explaining."

"Did you ever think, Barry"—Rita Blanchard's voice took on a faint edge—"that it's sometimes just as bad form not to collect your debts as not to pay them?"

"The account was closed long ago," said Barry. "Your memory is bad."

Then the traffic moved ahead.

Linda sat very still. There had been something disturbing about that brief, enigmatic interchange. And she did so want only happiness for Barry and herself during these brief last hours.

Texas Pipe Line Company Puts In Protest On Valuation Sum

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19. (AP) — The Texas Pipe Line company protested today to the Interstate Commerce commission against the commissions valuation of its properties.

The I. C. C. recently fixed a value of $35,647,309 for the company's properties used for common carrier purposes. The company said this is much less than the true worth. The I. C. C.'s valuation was as of December 1, 1934.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE President's apparent unconcern over the business recession amazes everybody except the advisers responsible for his nonchalance. They have slipped him the theory that industry thrives better under administration hostility than friendship.

In 1933, they note, Mr. Roosevelt acquiesced to the industrialists' demand for an N. R. A., but after a brief spurt in the summer and early fall, an unfavorable reaction set in. In 1934 there arose the cry that enactment of the Securities and Exchange act would destroy private enterprise, but it was in this period that recovery started. The Holding company act and the undistributed surplus tax in 1935 and 1936, respectively, precipitated more wailing, but they turned out to be the rosiest years of the New Deal.

Contrariwise, his experts continue, it was not until he suffered severe defeats on Capitol Hill last summer that signs of recession appeared. Business and industry threw him for a loss on the legislative front, but also lost yardage on their own account. So they conclude, and have so informed him, that he ought to close his ears to new cries of "wolf".

EXERTING: Japanese propaganda in the United States has reached interesting proportions almost overnight since American sentiment soured on Tokyo's rule-or-ruin policy in China.

The American Peace society, for instance, recently offered the columns of its magazine—World Affairs—to Ambassador Saito and Ambassador Wang for presentation of their respective nation's aims. The Japanese Chamber of Commerce of New York immediately reprinted and distributed thousands of copies of Saito's article as a pamphlet. By a typographical trick it is made to appear as if the peace society had sponsored this eloquent defense of Japanese arms and ambitions.

Tokyo has also flooded the country with beautifully illustrated magazine graphically depicting the welcome home which Chinese natives are supposed to have given the invading soldiery. The foreign army is represented as a humanitarian expedition engaged solely in feeding and entertaining Chinese children. On the frontispiece appears a notice that this propaganda comes, not from Japan, but from conquered Manchukuo. Mr. Saito has also engaged a publicity agent to tutor him in the fine points of American journalism.

* * *

PARALYSIS: Quietly, very quietly, White House leaders in the Senate are egging on the Southerners' filibuster against the anti-lynching bill. It's only a bit of parliamentary strategy, however, for President Roosevelt doesn't dare to become involved in this party-splitting controversy.

The prolonged debate serves to camouflage the fact that the administration cannot command support for its legislative program. The various White House proposals are still in various stages of disrepute or disrepair. Neither the Congressional bosses nor chairman can make their Democratic breathern behave. Were it not for the attention which the anti-lynching show draws, the parliamentary paralysis would be evident to everybody.

Senate Leader Barkley threatened to hold night sessions to break the filibuster, but he never made good. Wiser heads tipped him off that it would be smarter to let 'em talk and hide legislative delinquencies. It's a dangerous game, however, for the row is generating bitterness which may shadow future deliberations.

* * *

PERSONAL: Lister Hill's triumph in the Alabama senatorial contest has been touted as a White House vindication on all fronts. But it has changed no votes or stirred no pulses among Southerners who have taken pains to polish up on the facts.

Mr. Hill's victory cheered the President chiefly because he won despite his vote for the wage-hour bill, which most colleagues from below the Mason and Dixon line opposed. Presidential emissaries have cited it as an example and a warning to Democratic antis in cloakroom lobbying. But the facts are that Mr. Hill did not support the measure until he got a dispensation from the A. F. of L., which fought the proposition. He was assured that organized labor would back him in spite of his vote—and it did. William Green simply consented to look the other way.

The election hinged largely on the personality of Tom Heflin and Mr. Hill's admittedly superior ability as a legislator. Poor old Tom gave the state a bad name with his anti-papal tirades a decade ago, and Alahama wanted no repeat performance.

* * *

PAINT: Army officers will welcome the day when Harry Woodring retires as Secretary of War. Their reasons are sartorial rather than military.

Like most men of small statute, the man from Kansas has a Napoleonic complex. He revels in the trappings of military glory, and he insists that officers wear their full dress uniforms when they attend his "at homes." Now, few soldiers have replenished their wardrobes with the more doggy raiment, for regulations no longer require it. It means a drain on their finances to purchase a new suit or repair the old uniform, and few can afford it. It's cheaper to dress for fighting than for sipping cocktails at his house.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

FORTY-SIX members of the Business Planning and Advisory council who assembled at the White House yesterday were in a puzzled frame of mind. They didn't know what Mr. Roosevelt planned to ask of them, but many of them frankly suspected they had been summoned as scenery for a publicity show to convince the public that the administration is on the level about helping business. They rated it significant that the announcement of the conference came directly from the White House instead of from Secretary Roper, who is technically the liaison man between the council and the President.

This is the first time in more than two years that the whole council has been invited to a White House parley. Certain of its committees designated to cover specific problems have requested audiences with the President from time to time, but have never succeeded in selling him any of their ideas.

An optimistic statement about the outlook for improved cooperation was expected when the meeting adjourns. The council couldn't take any other attitude even if it wanted to.

* * *

DISAPPROVE: Obviously a short conference involving 50 people could get nowhere if all present were allowed to express their views. The council forestalled such an impasse by arranging in advance that only the 13 members of its executive committee would speak for it at the meeting.

This committee includes W. Averill Harriman (chairman of the council and of Union Pacific), F. B. Adams (Air Reduction), Charles A. Cannon (Cannon mills), William L. Clayton (Anderson-Clayton—cotton brokes), William C. Dickerman (American Locomotive), Gano Dunn (J. G. White Engineering), Clarence Francis (General Foods), R. J. Hamilton (American Radiator), George H. Mead (Mead Corp.), Sidney J. Weinberg (investment banker—Goldman, Sachs) and Gen. Robert E. Wood (Sears-Roebuck).

As a group, the council is probably more sympathetic to New Deal objectives than business leaders are on the average. But at least 80% of its members strongly disapprove of New Deal methods of approaching those objectives—and dislike the idea of being used as involuntary stooges.

* * *

GUILE: Senator Burton Wheeler's recent castigation of the finance division of the Interstate Commerce commission for approving R. F. C. loans to the Baltimore & Ohio and Erie railroads made a special exception of Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie. The latter was commended for obeying the law and the intent of Congress by refusing to join his associates in certifying that these roads are not in need of financial reorganization.

This compliment was a bit of diplomatic swordplay. The inside story is that Wheeler was trying to head off one of Mahaffie's pet ideas. The real reason for the latter's dissents on the loan applications was that he wants to have the law amended to relieve the I. C. C. of responsibility of determining whether a railroad applying for a loan is in need of financial reorganization or not. He feels that the I. C. C. should not be held accountable for the uncertain futures most railroads face.

Side Glances---By George Clark

"Walter always rushes in like mad when he's late, b he's probably been standing out front talking for the l half hour."

The Plainsman Says:

That Girl on Broadway says the only thing sure about the world's future is that the little fellows won't know what's happening until it's done.

* * *

A hick town is a place where a fellow arouses a lot of suspicion by minding his own business.

* * *

INTERESTING, indeed, is the report from New Jersey that Governor Hoffman has written his memoirs of the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

Soon to become a private citizen, Hoffman, who was in the state's highest office all through the case and the trial, will make public his memoirs but proceeds to be received therefrom will go to charity.

From what The Plainsman hears, Hoffman's book will be sensational in its revelations.

* * *

There is much about the notorious kidnaping and subsequent trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann that the average American cannot understand.

There is still considerable mystery about the whole business and a very appreciable percentage of the American citizenship is of the definite opinion that conviction and execution of Hauptmann did not close the affair, once and for all.

Few, if any, doubt that the Bronx carpenter was mixed up in it; few, if any, regret his execution.

Yet there are a lot of unanswered questions regarding the case and the Hoffman memoirs should make interesting reading.

* * *

That Man on Avenue Q says a determined soul will do more with a rusty monkey-wrench than a loafer can accomplish with a whole machine shop.

* * *

YESTERDAY afternoon almost before the ink dried on The Journal, The Plainsman got a 'phone call from a lady reader.

"I've just finished reading your remarks about the local traffic problem," she said, "and I agree something is wrong, somewhere. But what it is I don't know. Do you?"

* * *

Then she went on to say something that is true as gospel.

"Nobody should criticize without offering a suggestion. How would you arrange our traffic?"

* * *

The lady hit the nail on the head.

Anyone can criticize—but not everyone can offer remedies to improve what they criticize.

Although The Plainsman does not have at hand the voluminous figures and stacks of statistics gathered on Lubbock traffic—which are in the hands of city officials—he does have some ideas about improving the situation.

And he believes these ideas, if put into effect, would be helpful to all.

* * *

IN the first place, The Plainsman would institute a system of boulevards.

Avenue H would be the first one, all the way through town, from north to south. And where there are no lights, he would put stop-signs on both sides of H as every street intersects.

Broadway would be another, from the east side of the city limits to the west.

Avenue Q would be another—and where Q and Broadway intersect, we would have a light.

Sixteenth street, from Texas to Avenue X would be another, and where 16th and Q intersects, we would have a light.

Nineteenth would be another, w a light at that dangerous crossi with Avenue Q, and with anoth light at the bottleneck intersecti with College avenue. College, t would be a boulevard from the no city limits to 19th street.

Texas avenue would be anoth from 8th street to 19th, with a st sign where 8th intersects and wh 19th intersects—stopping Texas tra fic. All other traffic entering Tex —save where there are lights—wo be halted by stop signs on bo sides of the street.

* * *

We'd limit parking on 13th street from Avenue H to Avenue Q to one side of the street and place stop-signs, where there are no lights, on all avenues traversing 13th beginning at K and going through to Q, where a stop-sign would halt traffic on 13th at that boulevard. Then from the west side of Q to the junior high school we would continue 13th as a boulevard, but stopping west-bound traffic on 13th with a sign on the intersection just east of the school.

Eighth street, now in the process of being paved, would be —when paving is completed— another boulevard from Avenue H to College.

Avenue S would be another boulevard from 19th street to 34th and Avenue X would be another, from 10th street south to 19th.

Don't overlook that every thoroughfare entering every boulevard—save where there are lights—would have stop-signs on both sides of the boulevard entrances, instead of being tossed in here and there, as they are now.

* * *

AFTER the boulevard system were charted and signs and lights installed, we would move to be able to enforce the traffic laws.

The Plainsman would drop for ever the idea of trying to make the police department a money-making or even a self-sustaining part of the city.

He would add motorcycle policemen in sufficient number to cover the city reasonably often, add a other squad car for day cruising and another for night cruising.

Enforcement of the law to the letter would soon make Lubbock a better, safer place in which to drive walk and live.

* * *

As for the heavy traffic areas in the middle of town, The Plainsman would have a traffic detail to put a stop to double parking and to sock those legions of thoughtless drivers who run red lights by the hundreds every day.

And on busy days he'd have officers at the busiest corners, seeing that drivers and pedestrians alike behave themselves.

* * *

PROBABLY there are other things which need to be done, such as corner loading zones marked off for buses, occasional taxi stations, etc., but if the above ideas were tried and the laws governing them enforced, we're of the opinion the conditions would be much better.

Certainly they would permit the city to put into effect it's new traffic ordinance, by far the best ever attempted here.

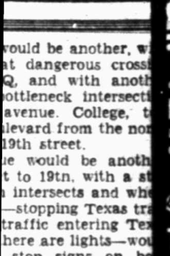

But as things are now, the new ordinance is not any more practicable than the hodge-podge of old ones.

LOVE VERSUS LIQUOR

Editor, The Avalanche: The main difference between love and liquor is that liquor is an intoxicating drink while love is an intoxicating thing. The person who is intoxicated with either usually goes around in a trance and is not responsible for what he does. Sometimes he is extremely happy and then again he is extremely unhappy. Whether he has had a drink of liquor or a dose of love, he is never satisfied with the amount he has had. He craves more. He usually drinks of either until he has completely lost his sense of balance. The liquor fiend is always knocking on the bar, while the love fiend is always knocking on the door. They both do things which they would never dream of doing while sober. Neither fiend should be allowed to drive a car, for it is as unsafe for a man in love to do so with his loved one beside him as it is for the drunkard who has his bottle with him.

It seems that one habit is as hard to break as the other. Whether a man's heart has been broken through love, or he has been poisoned on liquor, as soon as he regains consciousness he begins calling for more. When a child has been burned by fire, he never goes near it again but when a man has been burned by love or liquor he never stays away again. One taste and he is almost sure to be lost forever. Both diseases seem to be fatal in almost every case. Although a few cases of each have been known to be completely cured, there is no positive remedy for either and the patient usually suffers at intervals as long as he lives.

TARZAN THE MAGNIFICENT No. 4 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan gazed out over the weird landscape. Straight ahead lay a plain, fringed by jungle. To the right, a river wound down from a distant mountain range. Somewhere, perhaps within the compass of his eye, lay the mysterious land for which they searched.

"There's no need for all of us to scout in the same direction," he said; "you follow the river; I'll go into the far jungle. In a few days I shall join you upstream. Then we can compare notes." Without awaiting approval or dissent, the ape-man was gone.

Had he remained, Wood and van Eyk might have escaped the terrors and perils which were soon to assail them, but how was Tarzan to know? Never had his experience or imagination extended to the incredible forces which had their residence in those far mountains.

The safari moved on peacefully. Next day it picked up two white hunters, called Spike and Troll, who agreed to join the party. Three hours later, things began to happen. The first warning was the sudden appearance of a horde of tribesmen racing toward them.

MADAME LEADA $1.00 readings, 50c few days only. 1912 16th

Ask The Master Psychologist
Dr. La. Rose, Ps. D.

How to obtain Love Happiness, Success, being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you, can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. You are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men . . . even in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

LEGAL NOTICES

39—Legal Notices

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT IN AND FOR THE WESTERN DISTRICT OF TEXAS, WACO DIVISION

J. M. Hubbert vs. Temple Trust company. No. 236 in equity.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has filed his application with the Clerk of the United States District Court in and for the Western District of Texas, Waco Division, for an order authorizing him to sell and convey to E. M. Adams and wife, Ann Adams, all of Lot Eighteen (18) in Block Fifty-seven (57) of Overton's Addition to the city of Lubbock, Lubbock county, Texas, together with all improvements thereon situated, and for a consideration of $2500.00, and of which amount $270.00 will be paid in cash, and the balance, $2230.00, to be evidenced by one note in said sum, to be executed by said purchasers, payable to the order of the undersigned at his office in the city of Lubbock, Texas, and said note to become due and payable on or before February 1, 1938, and one each on or before the first day of each succeeding 107 months, to bear interest from January 1, 1938 at the rate of seven per cent per annum, the interest to become due and payable monthly, and each payment when made to be applied first to the accrued interest on said note, and the balance to the principal, and to provide that failure to pay any monthly installment of principal or interest thereon when due shall at the option of the holder mature said note; to be secured by a vendor's lien and deed of trust lien on the property and premises above described.

Said application will be heard by the Honorable Charles A. Boynton, Judge of said Court, after this notice shall have been published for a period of ten days, and any person interested in said Receivership Estate may contest this application.

Witness my hand at Temple, Texas, this the 10th day of January, A. D., 1938.

H. C. GLENN,
As Receiver for Temple Trust Company, Temple, Texas.

NOTICE OF BANKRUPT'S PETITION FOR DISCHARGE

In the district court of the United States for the northern district of Texas, in the matter of William Howard Herman, Bankrupt. No. 435 in bankruptcy. Office of Referee, Lubbock, Texas, January 18, 1938.

Notice is hereby given that William Howard Herman of the County of Dawson, and district aforesaid, did, on the 18th day of January, 1938 file in the Clerk's office of said Court, at Lubbock, a petition setting up that he has been duly adjudged a bankrupt under the act of Congress approved July 1, 1898; that he has duly surrendered all his property and rights of property, and has fully complied with all the requirements of said acts and of the orders of the Court touching his bankruptcy, and praying for a full discharge from all debts provable against his estate in bankruptcy, save such debts as are excepted by law from such discharge.

On considering the above mentioned petition, it is ordered that any creditor who has proved his claim, and other parties in interest, if they desire to oppose the discharge prayed for in said petition, shall, on or before the 18th day of February, 1938, file with the Clerk of U. S. Court, for the Lubbock Division of said district, a notice in writing of their opposition to a discharge in the above entitled cause.

W. D. GIRAND,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF LUBBOCK.
January 20, 1938.

Notice is hereby given that an application has been filed with the Texas Liquor Control Board at Austin, Texas, for the issuance of a pharmacists medicinal permit, as that term is defined in H. B. 77, second called session, 44th legislature, as amended by H. B. 5, Acts of the regular session, 45th legislature, and S. B. 20 Acts of the First called Session, 45th Legislature. Said pharmacists medicinal store is to be located at 1202 Broadway in the city of Lubbock, Texas.

LOSSES ARE REGISTERED

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—Backtracking after the recent new year upturn, the stock market yielded today under moderate offerings for losses of 1 to 3 points or so in many rails and industrials.

A few mining and utility issues made minor gains. A late recovery cut losses in rails, motors, steels, chemicals and other groups, but declines predominated at the finish and the Associated Press average price of 60 stocks was lower for the third consecutive session, ending off .6 of a point at 46. Transactions increased to 998,881 shares from 779,060 in the previous session.

Selling in rail stocks, pivots of the market's retreat, echoed wide breaks in a number of carrier bonds.

Traders seemed to think cost deflation might help utilities and gold mining shares. Alerica Jurden, McIntyre Porcupine, Dome, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works and Electric Power and Light closed fractionally to more than a point ahead. Some utility students professed to get comfort from developments in the controversy over TVA purchases of private power properties. Latest power production figures were off 6.6 per cent from the comparable 1937 total.

New State Proposed

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19. (AP)—The cotton market rallied after slight opening declines today and closed steady at the highs, net 8 to 10 points above yesterday's close.

March closed at 8.63, May at 8.9, July at 8.73, Oct. at 8.82 and Dec. at 8.83-bid to 8.85-asked. Prices opened unchanged to two points lower on easier foreign markets but stiffened after the first half hour of trading.

The general belief that the technical position of the market was strong, induced short covering and new buying. Offerings were not liberal.

Also contributing to the advance was price fixing by mills and the belief by some that foreign interests were once more entering the market on the buying side.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.52 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.42 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—Wall Street buying turned cotton firmer today following early slight declines. May sold up from 8.44@8.57 and closed at 8.55, with final prices 5 to 6 points net higher.

Intial losses continued a few points further under foreign selling, hedging and liquidation. The market was thin, however, and responded with recoveries of 9 to 13 points from the lowest on commission house buying of about 16,000 bales. Partial reactions from the best occurred in the afternoon under scattered selling, but the market again firmed at the close on covering.

American Tanker Is Captured Off Spain

PARIS, Jan. 19. (AP)—Authoritative sources tonight reported the American tanker Nantucket Chief had been captured by two Spanish insurgent gunboats off Barcelona Tuesday.

These sources declared the capture occurred while the American tanker was attempting to run Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's blockade of the eastern Spanish coast.

The tanker, formerly named the Gulflight, was enroute to the Catalan capital with a cargo of Russion oil.

The capture was witnessed by French warships which declined to interfere. They reported the incident to the French navy ministry, however, the same sources said.

The Nantucket Chief was flying the American flag and carried an American crew.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 19. (AP)—Jolted by sensational suggestions of a billion bushel world wheat surplus ahead, wheat prices fell 2 cents here late today, then recovered in part.

The suggestions, in a report by an international wheat committee, were ridiculed as visionary by leading crop specialists in Chicago. B. W. Snow, former United States secretary of agriculture, characterized the report as ridiculous long-range weather forecasting the world over for a year or two years in advance.

Preceding the maximum tumble of 2 cents a bushel, the wheat market here had been toppling because of better moisture conditions over domestic winter crop areas southwest and west, as well as persistent slackness of European demand for wheat from North America.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1 cent to 1½ cents under yesterday's finish, May 93¼@93⅝, July 89¾@89⅞, corn ⅜ to ¾ down, May 60¼@60⅝, July 60⅜, oats 1⅛ to 1¼ off, rye showing ⅞ to 1⅛ setback, and provisions unchanged to 20 cents lower.

Prisoner Escapes

Sheriff Ches D. Gore.

The automobile, a 1936 Chevrolet coach, license number 884,693, and believed taken by the escaped prisoner, belonged to Rex Headstream, abstractor here.

Theft of the automobile was reported to the sheriff's office about an hour after the man's escape had been discovered.

Descriptions of the man and car were given to all neighboring officers and were broadcast to all this area over the police radio at Lubbock.

The man was described by Sheriff Gore as being about six feet two inches tall, weighing about 170 pounds, with blue eyes, hair dyed brown, and wearing tan trousers and a dress shirt. The sheriff said he "looks sickly."

Officers said the man either was "sick or was playing sick." Atchinson was transferred here from Breckenridge about 10 days ago.

A $50 reward was posted by the sheriff's department for capture and return of the prisoner.

Escaped Oklahoma Prison

More than 45 years in penitentiaries have been assessed the man. It was pointed out, and Sheriff Gore said he was serving a term in an Oklahoma penitentiary when he escaped in October. Officers were not positive of the nature of the crime for which he was serving the Oklahoma sentence.

Indictments against the man here were in connection with forgery of checks in the Ropesville community. Gore said. Among the other places where he was wanted were Colorado City, Hockley county, Lea county, N. M., and Kent county.

Lubbock officers said a 1936 gray Dodge sedan with trunk on rear and equipped with a radio and heater was stolen about 6 o'clock tonight from Scoggin-Dickey Motor company there from a used car lot in the 1000-block Avenue J.

Officers saw possibility that the fugitive might have abandoned the machine believed stolen here and taken another, but officers tonight had not been able to locate the Headstream machine.

He spoke of racial trends in Egypt and India. Under questioning by Senator Reynolds (D-NC) he also outlined the history of Chinese slavery.

San Antonio Woman Wins Her Fight To Reopen Custody Case

AUSTIN, Jan. 19. (AP)—Mrs. Nat Goldsmith, wealthy San Antonio resident, today won her fight to reopen in Texas courts litigation to determine whether she or her former husband, J. Sydney Salkey of St. Louis, would have custody of their 12-year-old daughter, Joan.

The supreme court held that a decree of a St. Louis circuit court in 1934 giving Mrs. Goldsmith the child only two and one-half months of each year was not final. It ordered the San Antonio trial court to hear the case and decide what should be done.

controversy with the public utility industry and asked that that industry be assured it will not be destroyed through government competition. On this point, Mr. Roosevelt said the misunderstanding affected but fifteen per cent of the industry.

It endorsed the president's housing program.

Calls For Modification

It called for modification of both the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax as impediments to the flow of capital into industry, and under this heading, as well, asserted that the mass of investors "need reassurance as to the direction reform is to take."

It opposed any "further cheapening" of the dollar.

When Harriman had finished reading the statement, Mr. Roosevelt commented on certain of the points it had made. Later Stephen T. Early, presidential secretary, relayed Mr. Roosevelt's remarks to the press.

Favors Listing Expenses

On laoor relations, Mr. Roosevelt asserted he would be for the listing and reporting of expenses by labor organizations, rather than their incorporation. This should be done by the common consent of the unions rather than through legislation, he indicated.

Commenting on the council's remarks concerning the flow of private capital into industry, Mr. Roosevelt was reported to have said that one thing which the bankers and investment bankers had failed to do was to establish new machinery to enable small investors to put their money into new enterprises. Otherwise, he approved the council's recommendations on this subject—which included modification of the undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax.

Working On Plan

Then, Mr. Roosevelt came to the question of the formation of a continuing council to guide him in adopting policies. He said he and others in the government were working with the advisory council and other groups toward the etsablishment of simple machinery. Such machinery, it was said, should represent all elements—business, big and little; labor, finance, distribution, agriculture, transportation, credit, the investors and consumer.

Early cautioned reporters against interpreting this as meaning a revival of NRA.

In addition, there was an intimation what the advisory group referred to was distinct from Mr. Roosevelt's idea of having government and the elading figures of particular industries sit down together to measure the economic future and adust production accordingly.

Conditions Of Two Accident Victims Reported Serious

(Special To The Avalanche)

LITTLEFIELD, Jan. 19.—Conditions of Allie Clark, about 58, farmer of near here, and a sister, Mrs. Rosa Lanotte, about 55, of Post late tonight remained serious and possibly critical, according to Associated Press reports. Both were in an automobile accident between Anson and Albany late Tuesday which instantly killed Mrs. Clark, about 54.

Mrs. Lanotte, admitted to a hospital at Stamford, was "resting well," an attending physician said. Preliminary examinations showed she suffered several fractures of the left leg, fracture of the right leg below the knee, and fracture of wrist. Further examination pended outcome of a severe case of shock.

Clark, taken to a hospital at Abilene, tonight remained in a semi-conscious condition, described as "pretty serious."

Clark assertedly was driver of the machine in which he, his wife, and sister were going to Irving near Dallas to attend funeral rites for C. O. Clark, 87, father of the injured man and Mrs. Lanotte. The machine assertedly crashed into a culvert.

Information relative to funeral rites for Clark, scheduled for today, and Mrs. Clark was lacking tonight.

Injunctions Are Granted Here

Two temporary restraining orders specifying that eight defendants named in two petitions refrain from operation of alleged nuisances and cease asserted sale of alcoholic spirits were granted Tuesday by Judge Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court and Wednesday night Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, said all but two of the defendants had accepted service.

He ordered the defendants to appear at 9 o'clock the morning of Jan. 29 and show cause why a temporary injunction should not issue effective until final judgment in regular term of court.

New Term Is Near

It was pointed out that both injunctions were filed in 72nd district court in that it has a new term starting before the 99th district court of Judge E. L. Pitts.

Nn injunction bond was required of plaintiff, state of Texas through the Texas Liquor Control board. John T. Willis swore to the pleadings. The offices of Burton S. Burks, district attorney, and Robert J. Allen, county attorney, assisted in preparing the petitions.

Named in one petition were L. L. Ford, Carrie Ford, Clarence M. Mitchell, Neta Mae Mitchell, and Margaret Whitley, all of Lubbock. They assertedly are identified with a place on highway 9, a mile and a half north and east of the courthouse on the northwest side of the highway.

Others Are Named

In the other petition were named Bascom Allen, Claude Stewart and Marvin McLarty. The place was described as Claud's cafe, at 1410 Avenue C. Specific sale of liquor Jan. 12 by Allen was alleged.

The petition asked that upon final hearing on merits the places be closed for a year, unless bond of not less than $1,000 in each case be posted to assure no repetition of asserted infractions.

Poll Tax Payments Continue At Snail's Pace, Bryan Reports

Poll tax payments continue at a snail's pace.

H. B. Bryan, county assessor-collector, said approximately 3,200 poll taxes out of the estimated 8,500 to be issued by the Jan. 31 midnight deadline had been purchased at the close of Dec. 31.

That would indicate a buying rush the remaining 10 business days of the month.

It had been estimated approximately 36.2 per cent of state taxes had been collected, 35.5 county taxes, or approximately one per cent above figures for last year at the same date.

Negro Gets Drivers License After Learning Meaning Of Signs; Other Incidents Told

The negro was all smiles.

After approximately two weeks he had been able belatedly to get his chauffeur's license.

Not being able to read, he had been turned down on his initial application.

"R-R," he spelled, looking at the signs on the wall of the licensing bureau division of the state highway patrol office.

"What does that mean?" he was asked.

"I don't know, suh. I just knows what it says."

Authorities, sensing his disappointment, told him the meaning of all signs and told him to go off and memorize them.

He did, and now he drives "just like the rest."

You'd be surprised at the number of left-handed persons who apply for licenses, said office attaches.

"And the one-armed person is apt to be a better driver than those with two arms," said Capt. W. W. Legge. "The difference is found in his realization of disadvantage."

A woman was allowed a class B chauffeur's license recently. It entitles her to drive any size truck provided it has no more than four wheels. She had wanted class A, for a six-wheel vehicle, explaining her husband's truck had a semi-trailer. Because the truck was not available she had to be content with an inferior license.

A 71-year-old man was granted an operator's license Wednesday. He was afraid, apparently, his age would preclude his getting a permit. He attempted to evade the age question.

Report Made On Fire Prevention

A 93-page detailed report of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Fire Prevention committee has been compiled and will be sent this week to the Inter-Chamber Fire Waste council in Washington.

The report consists of exhibits of committee programs and meetings, newspaper clippings, literature and materials used in fire prevention campaigns, photographs of prize-winning fire prevention posters, outlines of instructions to Lubbock public schools, a copy of the annual Lubbock Fire department report, statistical data for Lubbock building and population, and other necessary information.

Two Campaigns Sponsored

Two campaigns were sponsored by the Lubbock committee in addition to the National Fire prevention campaign. One program was sponsored during spring clean-up week and another during the city-wide Christmas precaution drive.

On basis of the 1937 report to the Inter-Chamber council, Lubbock placed second among cities of its classification. Parkersburg, W. Va., ranked first.

Average Loss $23,308.02

Average fire loss for Lubbock from 1932 to 1936 was $23,308.02 a year. Fire loss for 1937 was more than $115,000, but chamber of commerce officials pointed out that two major fires increased the total more than $100,000. Loss in 1936 was $15,000.

Guy L. McAfee, chairman of the fire prevention committee, voiced his appreciation for the cooperation of Lubbock citizens in prevention campaigns.

Factors Are Cited

"Increase in population, increased building, influx of workers here for seasonal labor, and other factors contribute to increase of fire hazards in Lubbock," he said yesterday. "Added precautions must be taken to cope with increasing hazards, and only through cooperation between citizens and fire prevention groups can unnecessary fires be curbed.

Others on the committee are Fire Chief W. E. Twitty, Fire Marshall Cecil Casey, Charles H. Reed, W. B. Irvin, and C. W. Ratliff.

"The city fire department is not expanding in proportion to the expansion of Lubbock's population," Chief Twitty said, "therefore everyone must cooperate in safeguarding property against fires."

But Branch Bobbitt, like so many other independent experts, prefers Luckies . . .

"AT AUCTIONS in my warehouse in Farmville, North Carolina," says Mr. Branch Bobbitt, "the higher the tobacco sells for, the better my profits. So I'm always glad to see Lucky Strike buyers in there bidding. They know what they want and they'll keep bidding right up until they get it.

"Well—in a cigarette—it's the tobacco that counts. I know tobacco and I know what tobacco is in what cigarettes. So that's one reason I've smoked Luckies for 5 or 6 years."

Mr. Bobbitt represents the "aristocracy" of tobacco experts. He judges the tobacco that the growers grow. He's impartial, not connected with any cigarette manufacturer.

Many other experts agree with Mr. Bobbitt. Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.
