Bombers Hide Behind Clouds In Air Forays

London Is Struck By Most Severe Raiding Of War

DAMAGE CLAIMED

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — The German wireless broadcast tonight that railroad facilities "vital for the supply of greater London" had been demolished today by a Nazi bombing squadron.

It was claimed bombs also were dropped on an airport near London, destroying hangars, halls and barracks; upon a gas works of a city on the southeast coast, and on a merchant vessel which was left sinking in an east coast harbor.

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 9.—German raiders hidden in the clouds attacked London in mid-morning today after overnight bombings in which big explosives smashed an air raid shelter which housed 160 persons and three wings of a hospital housing 108.

Eight were killed in the shelter and an undisclosed number of others were injured.

The bombed hospital was described as possibly the hardest-hit building in London where the raiding up to midnight was reported to be the most severe the city has undergone.

RAF STAGES RAIDS

LONDON, Oct. 9 (AP) — Tons of high explosives and hundreds of incendiary bombs were dropped last night on the vital German seaport of Bremen, the air ministry reported today.

RAF heavy bombers, the ministry said, ranged over Bremen and the naval base at Wilhelmshaven, as well as inland German cities and towns ang the already badly battered English channel "invasion bases."

The attack on Bremen alone lasted more than half an hour, the ministry declared. Time and time again the British unloaded showers of bombs. The air was filled with debris from explosions and fires broke out in the area.

Oil refineries at Gelsenkirchen, in the industrial Ruhr valley, the Krupp munition plant at Essen, a metal works at Hanau, a Kiel power station and the Fokker aircraft factory at Amsterdam were raided.

Death Toll Undetermined

Three wings, two housing men patients and one housing women, were crumbled. Most of the patients were 80 years old or over — almost all of them permanent invalid cases.

As rescue crews dug for victims it was feared that not a single patient escaped either death or injury. How many were dead could not be determined because many had not been accounted for long after dawn.

The first daylight alarm was sounded some time after sounds of distant firing, apparently high above the cluds, were heard in London.

Raiders also were reported over the east coast. One town was divebombed and machine-gunned.

In early afternoon eight German

New Threat To Lives Of Motorists Cited

CLEVELAND, Oct. 9 (AP)—Gasoline fumes and tarred highway surfaces present a new threat to the lives of motorists, the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology was told today.

Drs. Chevalier Jackson and Chevalier L. Jackson of Philadelphia—father and son—asserted in a report before the academy there is "some evidence that gasoline fumes and tarred roads may have a part in the increase in incidence of cencer of the larynx."

Tar particles in dust can act as an irritant to produce the throat cancer and caused death in experiments on animals, the surgeons asserted. Gasoline fumes act similarly, they said.

Oil in tobacco smoke was another suspected cause of this type of cancer, described as "fatal if not treated early—otherwise 85 to 95 per cent curable."

Preparations Made To Cope With Situation

New Ships Bought For Navy; Wheat Subsidy Suspended

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The United States prepared today for "any eventualities" in the far east.

The term "any eventualities" was used in Manila by Francis B. Sayre, high commissioner to the Philippine islands and former assistant secretary of state, to describe the increasing tension between this country and Japan. He followed a public reprimand to Japanese and Spanish consuls for propagandist activities by announcing that the United States was preparing to cope with any eventualities.

WAR "VERY LIKELY"

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9 (UP) — War between the United States and Japan is "very likely," Rear Armiral Harry E. Yarnell, former commander of the Asiatic fleet, held today.

"We may be better prepared for a showdown with Japan now than we will be six years from now when the two-ocean navy is completed," Yarnell told 1,000 persons at the Penn A. C. last night.

"We can't support a nation with everything short of war and then stop there," he said. "But Washington is not going headlong into war. It is trying hard to avoid war. It is not ahead of public opinion in its foreign policy."

"Navy Train" Prepared

These preparations, as revealed in Washington, included:

1. Hasty purchase by the navy department of numerous auxiliary ships to comprise a "navy train" of supply, service, tender and transport vessels to serve the fleet in event it is sent to areas distant from its American bases.

2. Conferences between President Roosevelt and his two most trusted naval advisers, Admiral William D. Leahy, former chief of naval operations and present governor of Puerto Rico, and Admiral J. O. Richardson, commander of the fleet.

Regular Enlistments To Be Taken By Army

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP)— Informed congressional sources said today the war department plans to expand the regular army's enlisted strength to possibly 500,000 men by continuing to accept three-year enlistments after the draft begins.

Authority for the expansion, which would be 25 per cent above the present authorized limit of 400,000, is conferred by a provision in the final $1,482,693,363 defense appropriation which President Roosevelt signed yesterday.

It provided that a $280,174,562 fund for pay of the army shall not be subject "to any limitation on the enlisted strength of the army . . ." —"dance a jig."

Senate Plans For Recesses Move Ahead

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9— Senate plans for a series of recesses until Nov. 18 moved ahead today, over protests by Senator Johnson (R-Calif) that "we are so near war today" Congress should not leave Capitol Hill for a day.

The idea of having three-day recesses starting tomorrow with an informal agreement that no important business be transacted in the absence of an emergency for the next five and a half weeks, Johnson declared, was a "left-handed" attempt to adjourn at a time when "the slightest incident could bring about war."

"Protect Every Senator"

Replying, Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, insisted that the series arrangement would "protect every senator" and permit speedy convening of the Senate for immediate action if any necessity arose.

Earlier Senator Austin (R-Vt), acting Senate minority leader, indicated that the Barkley proposal would win approval of most Republicans who had voted against any final adjournment of Congress.

"Home Guards" Authorized

The Senate passed today legislation authorizing organization of "home guards" within states whose national guard units have been called into federal service. The measure now goes back to the house for action on senate amendments.

The Senate action advanced further that chamber's arrangements for beginning a series of three-day recesses on Thursday, to last until Nov. 18. In the House, however, Democratic leaders abandoned temporarily at least, plans to recess or adjourn. Speaker Rayburn saying they were actuated by "reasons sufficient to us."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP) — Delegates to the 50th annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans blissfully awakened today at — of all places — the place where Julia Ward Howe penned that Yankee tune, The Battle Hymn of the Republic.

The reunion mustered only 57 grey-uniformed veterans. The youngest said he was 89, the oldest 125.

FDR Affixes Signature To New Levies

Excess Profits Tax Is Increased; War Profiteering Hit

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Broad tax legislation using an excess profits levy as a barrier against profiteering on military contracts and intended at the same time to encourage defense enterprises has been signed into law by President Roosevelt.

The new law, signed at 11 p. m. eastern standard time last night, carries an excess profits tax of from 25 to 50 per cent and raises the corporation income tax from 20.9 to 24 per cent, the new rate being applicable on 1940 income and thereafter. The White House announced the signing today.

Aids Defense Program

As a means of activating the defense program, the law permits manufacturers and others to amortize, or to deduct from their taxable income, their entire cost of facilities completed for defense purposes after June 10, 1940. The deductions would be made at the rate of 20 per cent of a year for five years.

It also suspends, during such period as the excess profits tax is levied, present 8 and 7 per cent limits on profits from warships and military aircraft.

Exempts First $5,000

The excess profits tax, designed to retard the creation of "war millionaires," is the first of its type enacted since the years immediately following 1917-18.

The nation's 400,000 smallest corporations will not have to pay it since the law exempts the first $5,000 of every corporation's profits.

Also set up by the law is a government insurance system for members of the present-day military and naval establishments, including draftees and national guardsmen called to active duty, permitting them to obtain low cost policies up to a face value of $10,000.

Batista To Become President Of Cuba

HAVANA, Oct. 9 (AP)—Fulgencio Batista, former chief of the Cuban army, becomes president of Cuba tomorrow, inaugurating not only a new administration but also a new constitution.

The former sergeant who seized control of a new revolutionary movement in September, 1933, and who remained the "power behind the throne" as chief of the army, was elected president in the general election June 14.

Under the new constitution, cabinet members will be responsible to Congress. Congressmen will be eligible for cabinet posts and the premier will direct government policies.

The senate or the house may at any time withdraw its confidence from the cabinet, forcing its resignation within 48 hours.

In the social field, the constitution establishes the 44-hour week, social insurance, retirement funds, 30-day vacations with pay for every 11 months of work, and unemployment insurance.

Willkie Victory Is Predicted In Poll

Willkie Asks What Of War!

(By The Associated Press)

Wendell L. Willkie took his campaign for the presidency into New England today after a speaking tour of New York City in which he demanded that President Roosevelt tell the nation whether there were "any international understandings to put America into this war."

Willkie's demand followed a radio broadcast in which he said that "under no circumstances, would I appease the dictators."

"If You Elect Me"

Addressing a crowd in Manhattan, Willkie said:

"If you elect me, this country won't go to war until the people say they want war."

As Willkie attacked the third term candidacy of the president, Oscar R. (By The United Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 — The Republican national committee today made public the results of the Dunn poll which forecasts the election of Wendell L. Willkie with a minimum of 334 electoral votes.

Using methods which the Republicans said were tested with considerable accuracy in the 1936 presidential and 1938 congressional elections, the Dunn sampling showed that the Republican presidential nominee "undoubtedly" would carry all the states north of Virginia, Kentucky, Arkansas and Oklahoma and, in addition, would win Colorado, Wyoming and Oregon.

"Overcomes Handicap"

Rogers C. Dunn, statistical analyst who directs the survey, claimed to have "found means of overcoming handicaps" encountered by other polls, specifically those which have run contrary to his findings and predicted the overwhelming reelection of President Roosevelt.

The survey, complete except for 15 states in the South and West several of which Dunn conceded to the Roosevelt column, showed the following states for Willkie: Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, Wyoming, and West Virginia — electoral total, 334 votes.

BONHAM, Oct. 9 — Governor W. Lee O'Daniel has discovered that his position isn't an "open sesame," at least where long distance telephone calls are concerned.

O'Daniel stopped at a filling station here last night to place a call to Denison and asked a negro employe to permit him to use the phone for a long distance conversation.

Texan Refuses Comment On Investigations

Capitol Columnist Says Publication To Cause Break

(By The United Press)

ORANGE, Oct. 9.—Rep. Martin Dies, D-Tex., said today that his investigating committee had documentary evidence to expose "once and for all the whole fifth column in the United States."

He declined, however, to reveal its nature.

The state department and the president have the evidence, Dies said, and any revelation of details must come from them.

Asked For Comment

The chairman of the House committee investigating Un-American activities was asked for comment on the Washington Merry-Go-Round of today which said:

"The Dies investigating committee now has documentary evidence of Nazi Fifth Column operations in the United States so explosive that its publication might lead to a complete rupture of diplomatic relations with Germany . . ."

The column further claimed that the state department foresaw it would have to ask that Germany recall some of its diplomatic representatives in this country, and that the German government "is directly supervising and financing a nationwide Fifth Column campaign to oppose and obstruct the defense program, the United States government's foreign policy and aid to Great Britain."

Have Guarded Information

"I have just received a call from Washington," Dies said, "and this story was read to me. I cannot comment on it.

"My committee for several months has been digging up vital information on the Fifth Column, which we have guarded to our utmost ability, and it has been turned over to Secretary of State Cordell Hull and to President Roosevelt.

"I am resolved that nothing I say or do will complicate this nation's foreign relations.

The 24-hour goal was disclosed shortly after President Roosevelt approved recommendations by governors of Maine, Idaho, Arizona and Colorado establishing local draft machinery in those states. This rapid approval of the set-up for other states is expected to follow.

Must Operate Immediately

"All local boards, as well as state headquarters in 52 states and territories must begin operations immediately on October 17, the day after the nationwide registration," the headquarters said.

Comes dawn . . . and the car starts in "no time"

Bad days ahead. But here's how Winter OIL-PLATING maintains needed lubricant in advance—for Safe Quick Starts . . .

Your mind can easily picture a layer of lubricant staying all night—or longer—on a flat metal shelf. But now if you'd tip that shelf straight up, and all the lubricant still wouldn't drain off or dry up in weeks, you'd have some picture of wondrous OIL-PLATING—the drain-proof extra Winter safeguard to give your engine now, by changing to Conoco Germ Processed oil.

Winter doubly proves the worth of OIL-PLATING your engine, since proper starting can greatly depend on speedy lubrication of every cold engine part. And there's no way to outspeed OIL-PLATING. For it stays PLATED direct to engine parts all the while the car stands. Not even the steep cylinder walls drain dry of OIL-PLATING, because it's bonded to inner engine surfaces—"joined up" lastingly—by the rare man-made substance in patented Germ Processed oil.

You change just as simply and quickly as usual—at a perfectly usual price. But your engine gets this decidedly unusual OIL-PLATING that must stay up on duty in advance—your strong defense against the worst wear of Winter starts. And that's how to make your oil mileage stay up. Today at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station, get this long-lasting Germ Processed oil for your Winter OIL-PLATING. Continental Oil Company

MY COLD IS BETTER NOW

"The other morning I woke up with a cold. My nose was running—my eyes were running—and everything seemed to be running but my bowels. Right there mama figured I was temporarily constipated, which made me feel worse. She gave me TEETHINA because mama says TEETHINA is the nicest kind of laxative for little fellows like me. It cleansed my bowels and I feel better now. I want to thank my drug store for always keeping a big supply of TEETHINA on hand. TEETHINA costs only 25c for twelve nice tasting powders." Reads From Memory

Mrs. Crowell, who has written thousands of poems, read from memory in giving her favorite works and those favored by hundreds of readers, as evidenced by request letters. These included "A Prayer for Courage," "I Planted a Rose," "Birth," "Life," "Death," "Miss Humpety Comes To Tea," "The Girl I Used to Be," "Aprons," "At the Flower Show," "Simplicity," "A Prayer for Womankind," "The Beautiful Gift," "Leisure," "Pedro" and others.

Mrs. Crowell, who is a sweet-faced, low voiced woman, thanked her audience for coming to hear her "spout poetry," as she described her reading. She asked for requests from the audience at the close of the evening and repeated many poems, all from memory.

Her husband read several original humorous poems to "rest" his wife during a brief intermission.

In House Party

Officers, members of the finance committee made up of Mesdames H. J. Bingham, chairman, G. V. Fulton, Robert Maxey, Aubrey Woodfin, Clem Boverie, and other members of the Forum were ushers at the program and served in the house party at the reception later in the evening.

At the guest day program Miss Madge Malone sang, accompanied by Miss Imogene Webster. Mrs. R. S. Underwood, president, served punch from a table covered with a gold cloth and decorated with orange marigolds and zinnias and green candles in hurricane lamps.

There were 42 in attendance. Over 300 persons attended Mrs. Crowell's program, including several from Plainview and other nearby towns.

Pull the Trigger on Lazy Bowels

with herb laxative, combined with syrup pepsin to make it agreeable and easy to take

When constipation brings on acid indigestion, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, sour taste and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with good old Syrup Pepsin to make your laxative more agreeable and easier to take. For years many Doctors have used pepsin compounds, as agreeable carriers to make other medicines more palatable when your "taster" feels easily upset. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna, combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully its herb Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines, to bring welcome relief from constipation. And see how its Syrup Pepsin makes Dr. Caldwell's medicine so smooth and agreeable to a touchy gullet. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Buy Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna at your druggist's today. Try one laxative that won't bring on violent distaste, even when you take it after a full meal.

England's Reopening Of Burma Road Designed To Influence Russia

Soviet Policy Being Awaited

BY KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Reopening of the Burma road to China will coincide with the end of the fourth month of the battle of Britain and will thus make Oct. 17 a doubly significant date of the war.

That also is the peak of Indian summer in England, when weather conditions might prove propitious for the last time this year for an attempted German invasion. Yet Russia's judgment of the probable outcome of the battle of Britain could influence world events more profoundly than the Burma road question or postponement of German invasion.

War Is In Doubt

Intensification of Anglo-Japanese friction is to be expected following Prime Minister Churchill's announcement of the decision to reopen the Burma road. That the opening will touch off an Anglo-Japanese war immediately or at all is open to doubt. The British answer to Japan's new and still unfathomed relationship with Germany and Italy under the Berlin pact has been so certainly foreshadowed that its announcement comes as an anti-climax.

Japan obviously has been preparing a counter move in French Indo-China to keep the Burma road barred in fact. She could do it from air bases in that war isolated French colonial possession, presumably with little except improbable scruples over Siamese neutrality to restrain her.

Russian Policy Awaited

Russia's reaction both to the Japanese-Axis pact and the Axis military moves in Rumania must be another factor restricting Japanese maneuvers. It seems reasonably clear that Tokyo will avoid any open clash with Britain, risking war and fresh strains upon her economic resources, until Russian policy is clear.

Viewed from that angle, the Churchill summary of the results of almost four months of German air attack on England is of more consequence than his Burma road announcement. Despite his guarded expression, Churchill's summary vividly disclosed his belief and that of his military staff that the thunder-bolt of German air power has been met and at least stalemated.

At the outset of the battle of Britain, Churchill said its outcome rested on one great question:

"Can we break Hitler's air weapon."

Believe Nazi Air Power Broken

About four months later he clearly believes that if that Nazi air power has not been broken, its possibilities as a decisive weapon in the war have been tested, its edge dulled. Terrible as are the admitted casualties and destruction in England from Nazi air raids, they are, by his reckoning, far below what had been expected.

Announcement of the Burma road reopening so far in advance of its effective date clearly was a diplomatic move designed to influence Russia as well as a symbol of British confidence in ultimate victory. Nor can it be doubted that Moscow, harassed both by the Japanese-Axis deal and by actual or impending German-Italian thrusts to establish Black sea bases in Rumania, is in a mood to listen to British diplomatic overtures.

Russia has played her own game in this war. Her policy now, which could throw an imponderable monkey wrench into Axis war plans, is apt to be determined by her own judgment of the probabilities of British victory or defeat.

DRASTIC CHANGE

Faced with the problem of establishing a currency system for his country, Henry Christophe, Hatti's Negro emperor, proclaimed that every green gourd in the country henceforth was the property of the state. These gourds were paid back to the people for their farm products, which, in turn, were sold in European markets for gold. Today, Haiti has a silver coin known as a gourd.

CANADA'S SEA-GOING SOLDIERS—A rough and rocky coastline alone won't protect Newfoundland from invasion, but it does make it tough for invaders and defenders alike to land. So here Canadian soldiers are towed ashore by small Royal Canadian navy power launch after being ferried for duty to this unidentified Newfoundland point by Royal Canadian Navy destroyers.

"Build-Up" Relief Explained To Women

A simple method has saved many women a lot of suffering!

It is based on the fact that headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain are often symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition.

Help for this condition so often follows the use of CARDUI, because it usually increases the appetite and the flow of gastric juice; thus aids digestion and helps build physical resistance. Usual result is less periodic distress.

Many who take CARDUI a few days before and during "the time" have found this also helps ease periodic discomfort. Women have used CARDUI for more than 50 years! Adv.

Scout Drive To Close Tonight

Annual Boy Scout sustaining club membership drive is within approximately two-thirds of its goal, members of teams reported at a breakfast in Lubbock hotel this morning, according to W. G. McMillan, solicitations chairman.

The two-day campaign is to be brought to a close tonight at 7 o'clock with a victory dinner for colonels and captains at the Lubbock, the chairman announced. He reminded that team members are expected to make final reports to their captains by 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Teams Are Unreported

Contest between the rival divisions of the present drive is the closest in history, McMillan said.

The reports this morning, with reports missing from five of the 20 teams, disclosed that $1,001.50 of the goal of $1,650 in cash and pledges has been secured. Of that amount, the "Bombers" headed by O. J Sexton reported $502 and the "Spitfires" headed by C. H. Hamilton $498.50. The colonel of the winning team will be privileged to clip the shirt-tail of the loser at the dinner tonight.

Top team of the drive was that headed by Jerry Fulton with $220. It is part of the "Spitfire" division. Top team among the "Bombers" was that of Cecil Cagle, with $150.

London Aid Raids

planes were seen over the Thames estuary, apparently headed for London. They were met by heavy anti-aircraft fire and turned back when British fighter planes rose to challenge them.

First reports said bombs were dropped on at least two London districts during the morning raid.

After the night attack grass-strewn streets, heaps of rubble that had been homes and workshops and lengthening casualty lists were reported from 102 sections of England. Thirty-eight of the areas of new bomb-wrought devastation were in London, which again bore the fullest force of the bombings that started England's third month of severe air siege.

Next to London, the hardest hit area was the tattered triangle down the Thames to the barbed-wire guarded southeast coast.

Incendiary Bombs Light Way

During much of the night a dozen or more bombers were over London simultaneously. Sometimes bombs screamed down four or five a minute. "Molotoff breadbaskets" of incendiary bombs dumped in the suburbs lighted the way for the attack.

Casualties elsewhere in England were reported, but their number was unestimated.

Fires were started in London and its suburbs, where hundreds of bombs were sal dito have fallen in the first hours of the attack. A child was killed and several other persons were injured when a single bomb wrecked a row of homes. A group of workers' apartment houses in another borough was hit.

foreign affairs."

Domestic Issues Stressed

Domestic issues were stressed, meanwhile, in other campaign developments.

At Cape Girardeau, Mo., Senator Taft (R-Ohio) rapped the administration's fiscal policies last night.

"The spending policy is not only vain," Taft said, "it is utterly dangerous and destructive. We are stimulating artificially a number of war industries and building up employment which sooner or later must come to an end."

Calls For Support

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb) in a statement issued at Washington through the National Committee of

GEORGIA DEMOS FIGHTING

ATLANTA, Oct. 9 (AP) — All Georgia supporters of Wendell Willkie united behind a single slate of electors today but Anti-Roosevelt Democrats clung to their party label even while fighting to swing the state to a Republican presidential nominee for the first time.

A solid front on the presidential issue was welded between Republicans and Willkie Democrats yesterday when the general election ballot was drawn up with identical lists of presidential electors topping the tickets of the Republican and the new-born "Independent Democratic" parties.

But here the similarity ended, with the "Independent" ticket listing some of the same state office candidates as the regular Democratic party.

Independent Voters for Roosevelt and Wallace called for farmers to support the Democratic ticket.

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president, assailed the "uncommonly blundering statesmanship" of Mr. Roosevelt in a campaign speech at Kansas City last night.

Meanwhile, Chairman Gillette (D-Iowa) said the Senate campaign expenditures committee would investigate a charge that the number of federal relief jobs was being increased prior to the November election.

To Ask For Report

Gillette did not identify the source of the complaint. He said, however, he would ask the Works Projects administration for a complete report on charges that WPA rolls have been increased 100,000 since July 1 although the defense program has cut unemployment and army enlistments have taken thousands of men."

Gillette said he would ask the committee to act tomorrow on complaints that the Agricultural Adjustment administration was engaging in political activities in the Middle West.

LAMB GETS CHECKS

AMHERST—Lamb county farmers cooperating with the Agricultural Adjustment administration continue to receive payments, the past week seeing $112,000 received, for cotton parity and $24,000 for wheat parity.

Nothing Dull In Girl's Diet; She Apes Blade-Eater

OAKLAND, Calif., Oct. 9 (AP) —Doctors looked at X-ray pictures of seven-year-old Joan Isom's stomach today and found there's nothing dull in her diet.

They found 24 broken bits of razor blade. She swallowed them at school yesterday, she said, to prove to her school chums that she could duplicate the feat of the lady razor-blade eater at the fair.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — The market slipped a bit today but after fractional declines held fast around a raising point of steels and motors.

Uneasiness over the mounting tension with Japan contributed to traders' caution. Only about 450,000 shares changed hands.

The session opened with a nervous downturn which thinned and finally faded when such leaders as U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber and New York Central failed to follow the general trend.

Some analysts suggested that prices had encountered lower resistance levels established in the two previous days of declining quotations.

Issues which were backward through most of the session included Caterpillar, Douglas, Eastman, Allied Chemical, Du-pont, General Electric, American Can, American Smelting and Texas Corp.

Pointing up Wall Street's trade Pacific worry was a sharp break in Japanese bonds. Corporate liens followed the path of stocks.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 9 (AP) — The wheat market was steady today with trading restricted by cautious operations in view of uncertainty of international affairs. Commercial and professional transactions were governed almost entirely by the domestic supply situation.

Illustrative of the effect of the government loan program in reducing commercial supplies a car of No. 4 red weevily wheat sold for 88 cents a bushel here. This price was about 4 cents over the government loan rate for No. 2 red or hard wheat here. Traders estimated more than a fourth of the domestic supply eventually will be tied up either under loans or held off the market under provisions of the insurance program.

Better Sober Up Before You Start Giving Police Tips On Saboteurs, Man Learns

If you have a tip to give police on alleged saboteurs you'd better be sober when you show up at the station to give it.

That was the advice given this morning to a 35-year-old Lubbock man who was described as having been too staggery late Tuesday when he came in with a tale of sabotage directed at the "new airport" here.

Police officials didn't know much about any new airport, although they had read of Lubbock's having been designated one of the key cities in a Works Projects administration report which, if the red tape were cleared, would result in a WPA appropriation of something like $300,000 for the airport's extension, including great concrete runways and ramps.

Listened To "Jokesters"

The man's indecision, however, led officials to believe he had been listening to "jokesters," one of whom reputedly said, "Hitler is a great man."

The man in jail had not been arraigned early this morning.

Police said the Green Lantern cafe at 218 Avenue H, had been entered by a burglar over the night, but Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police, said preliminary checks had disclosed not more than $2 missing.

Traffic temporarily was blocked in the east Broadway underpass when a freakish incident happened. The bed of a large truck was dislodged and filled one of the avenues through the underpass.

A Peeping Tom was active in 1700-block Texas avenue, but no one was arrested, reports said.

Congress Plans

home guards measure as previously passed by the House was a provision giving the secretary of war control over the proposed new military units. Senators said this would meet a complaint by organized labor that the House bill would have made possible formation of "vigilante" groups to supress unions.

The legislation would amend a section of the 1916 national defense act which limited "state troops" to the National Guard. With many guardsmen called into federal service for a year of peacetime training, governors of a number of states had asked congress to authorize substitute military units within the states.

With regard to recesses, Rayburn said the House leadership had made no decision.

Garza Attorney Dies

and, relatives said, had remained since, practicing law and holding county office.

His first office was county attorney, then he became county judge and returned to the office of county attorney, serving several terms in each office. He was to have been sworn in Jan. 1 for his second term of this tenure.

Survivors are: the widow; a son, T. A. Smith of Waxahachie; two daughters, Mrs. Clarence E. Woods of 2114 Eighth street in Lubbock and Miss Marjorie Smith of Post, graduate last scholastic year of the economics and business administration department of Texas Technological college; a twin brother, Homer H. Smith of Tolar, N. M., and two other brothers, P. P. Smith of Sebastian, Texas, and Elmer Smith who lives in southern Texas, and a sister, Mrs. C. B. Alexander of Wichita Falls.

Moved To Post In 1909

Mr. Smith stocked his ranch, which was composed of railroad land, and in 1909 sold the layout and moved into Post, where from 1910 onward he was a political figure, being elected that year as Garza county's second county attorney. He was reelected in 1912, without opposition, and in 1914. In 1918 he became county judge, an office to which he was reelected in 1920 and 1922. In 1926 he again was elected county judge. In 1928 he was defeated in a race for reelection, but in 1930 came back to be elected county attorney, to which he was reelected in 1932 and 1934. In 1938 he again was elected county attorney and had been nominated without opposition for the post in the last election.

Officials said his official successions were without parallel in Garza county.

Bearers at the funeral, at which Rev. A. C. Hardin, Baptist pastor will officiate, assisted by Rev. Marvin Boyd, Methodist pastor, will be courthouse officials: Lee Bowen, county judge; Ray N. Smith, county clerk; Bob Davis, deputy sheriff; Jim Power, sheriff; Oscar Graham and John Stotts, county commissioners; Joe S. Moss, assistant county attorney, and Homer Thompson, county agricultural agent.

Twenty honorary bearers were named.

New Test To Detect Rickets In Newborn Babies Described

BY STEPHEN J. McDONOUGH
Associated Press Science Writer

DETROIT, Oct. 9 — A new test to detect rickets even in newborn babies was described today before the annual meeting of the American Public Health association.

The disease, due to too little vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, causes malformation of all the bones of the body and results in retardation of growth.

Dr. Don J. Barnes of Harper hospital, Detroit, told members of the association it is possible to disciver the earliest cases of the disease by measuring the amount of phosphatase in the blood of children.

It is an enzyme, or organic chemical which decomposes other substances, such as bone, by making them absorb water. A small amount of it is necessary for proper body functioning but too much causes disintegration which may oftentimes not show up until late in life.

The administration of vitamin D in sunshine baths or by the use of cod liver oil, tuna fish oil or viosterol will cause a reduction in the amount of phosphatase and a corresponding increase in the absorption of the bone-building elements to correct the condition before permanent damage has been done.

Judge Frey asserted that many traffic officers merely parade highways for the purpose of scaring, ridiculing and browbeating the motoring public.

"The traffic cop who greets the motorest with 'Where's the fire?' or 'Who do you think you are, Barney Oldfield?' does more to break down public respect for traffic law enforcement than any other factor," the judge averred.

Five Persons Given Suspended Terms

Five persons received suspended sentences—four of them after pleas of guilty before the court—and Judge E. L. Pitts Tuesday afternoon dismissed his jury panel for the remainder of the week.

Only cases to be heard are those in chambers, it was announced.

Forrest Tanner, charged on indictment with burglary of the residence of C. J. Cummings, pleaded guilty and was allowed suspension of a five-year sentence.

Also receiving a five-year suspended sentence was Marvin Sooter, who entered a guilty plea to forgery.

Ocie Landrum, a negro woman, was tried before the jury and given a three-year suspended sentence for forgery by false endorsement. The court heard a plea of guilty of Willie Sparks, negro co-charged with the Landrum woman, and assessed a similar penalty.

Other criminal matters will not be heard until Nov. 12 when the jury again reports to Judge Pitts.

shuffle them, and assign them serial numbers for the lottery to be held to determine the order of men called to service. The lottery is expected to be held within 10 days after registration is completed.

Meantime, draft officials were preparing to issue quotas to the various states for the first call fro conscripts. Each state is given credit for the number of men voluntarily serving in any branch of the armed services of the nation.

To assist in getting the local boards housed and organized by October 17, conscription headquarters yesterday released detailed regulations governing such things as obtaining offices, hiring clerical help, and procuring office equipment and supplies.

Officials estimated that it would require about $24,000,000 to handle administrative expenditures of the program during the remaining nine months of the current fiscal year. About 15 per cent of this amount, it was said, would be needed for non-recurring items such as printing registration forms and questionnaries.

Further Registration Data Arrives Here

The county clerk's office this morning authorized Avalanche-Journal publications to inform Lubbock county's election board further instructions and materials had arrived for registering the county's young men Oct. 16 in conjunction with the selective service act.

The supplies are being sent to the judges, who have been asked to obtain plenty of volunteer help in preparation for registration day.

It also was announced that a public meeting would be conducted at 8 o'clock Monday night in 99th district courtroom for purpose of instructing judges, their assistants and volunteer help in duties of registration. Talks will be based on instruction sheets being sent to judges through the mails.

Almost 15,00 forms of one class had been received here, 10,500 of another class and 200 of a third, said Louie F. Moore, deputy county clerk.

Services of as many Lubbock city firemen as can be spared from regular duty will be available to conscription work Oct. 16, the county clerk's office was informed Tuesday.

Cecil Casey, assistant fire chief, said firemen could work shifts of perhaps half a day.

Brother Is Appointed Estate Administrator

Joe B. Mauldin has taken oath as temporary administrator of the estate of his late brother, William Andrew Mauldin, who died Oct. 1 from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Bond of $2,500 was executed, since William Andrew Mauldin, who drew a will dated the day of his death, did not list an administrator, and Oct. 21 was set for hearing application of Joe B. Mauldin to be named permanent administrator.

William Andrew Mauldin's will directed that his surviving brother be beneficiary of a building in Crosbyton and a heavy automobile, as well as certain moneys set out as due on a life insurance policy. To a sister, Mrs. Blanche Mauldin Sipe of Dallas, it was directed, will go all other life insurance and world belongings.

Jack M. Randal, Lubbock attorney, was named to settle business of the Hardwick-Mauldin Furniture company, which was solely owned by William Andrew Mauldin. The will said property probably would approximate $10,000, out of which the administrator is charged with settling indebtedness, after which he is charged with disposing of furniture, leasing the building and taking over notes, accounts, books and personal belongings.

Oklahoma Fugitive Is Arrested In Georgia

ALBANY, Ga., Oct. 9 (AP) — A man who had lived here as a reputable citizen for the past 15 years was arrested today on a charge that he jumped bond in Oklahoma in 1924 shortly after he had been sentenced to 25 years under a highway robbery conviction.

He was taken into custody on a warrant signed by Governor E. D. Rivers yesterday which listed him as "Louis Henry Clouette."

Stokes said the man admitted his identity.

Sheriff O. F. Tarver said he talked with Sheriff Lew Wilder in Sapulpa, Okla., by telephone and was informed that Clouette was convicted of conspiring with a group of train robbers in a holdup of a train on which he was conductor.

Jubilant Rhineland Fans Have Tough Time Picking Hero Of World Champions

Cincinnati Has Wildest Night In 22 Years

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 — Headachy but happy after a night of spectacular celebration, Cincinnati's baseball fans came to slowly today pinched themselves a few times, and finally awakened to the realization it was true — the Reds had won that old championship.

Yessir, those good old Reds had done it. Whee! Old Paul Derringer, the people's choice, had licked Detroit's Buck Newsom, 2 to 1, in the seventh and deciding game, as tense and thrilling a battle as ever climaxed a World series.

They Go "Nuts"

Streets of the town still were littered with the paper and rubbish that showered down from ten thousand windows an instant after Earl Averill, a pinch-hitter, slapped a ball at Lonnie Frey and was snapped off at first for the final out of the long-drawn play-off yesterday afternoon on Crosley field.

Those who witnessed both said it was the most delirious night Cincinnati had experienced since the armistice was signed in 1918.

Couldn't Pick Hero

Today the proud celebrants had only one big problem on their minds — to name the hero of the series. And it was a real problem.

Derringer? The big pitcher who produced one of his greatest masterpieces; didn't permit an earned run to one of baseball's finest array of sluggers in the clinching struggle?

Bucky Walters? The stout hurler who twice in the series stopped the Tigers with three-hit and five-hit performances when the Reds were trailing by a game and appeared to be on the verge of defeat?

Werber Leads Hitting

Bill Werber? The scrapping third-baseman who led both clubs in hitting for the seven games with an average of .370 and whose fielding was spectacular?

Or even little Billy Myers, the shortstop, who clouted the long fly off Newsom in the seventh inning to score Jimmy Ripple from third with the Reds' second and winning run? Billy didn't do much before that, but in the view of Cincinnati fans he could have made up for a lifetime of lapses with that one vital blow.

Newsom Still Tops

Heroic in defeat was Buck Newsom, who pitched the Tigers to two stirring victories, blanking the Reds over one stretch of 16 consecutive innings, but on whom the terrific pace finally told at the very climax of the series.

After Bobo won his second game on Sunday, his arm was so sore he scarcely could lift it. But out there yesterday was Bobo, firing them across with only one day's rest, and it wasn't until the seventh inning that Frank McCormick and Jimmy Ripple rattled the fences with successive doubles to start the rally that beat the big South Carolinian out of the third World Series triumph he craved.

Wilson Given Praise

From a romantic standpoint, the grandest figure on the field for six of the seven games was Jimmy Wilson, the 40-year-old coach who pulled his ancient catchers mitt off the bottom of his locker and filled the big shoes of crippled Ernie Lombardi behind the plate for the Reds.

He was a trouper! He was strapped up with 40-odd yards of adhesive tape yesterday for what he said, vehemently, was the last game he ever expected to play. He was limping on both legs, if that is possible. But Jimmy hit two singles, laid down a perfect sacrifice in the Reds' winning inning, and stole the only base of the entire seven games. Manager Bill McKechnie sounded like he might choke up as he watched Jimmy play his valedictory:

"Just look at him. What if a manager had a whole team of players with hearts like Jimmy's?"

STEERS STRESS DEFENSE

AUSTIN, Oct. 9 (U.P.)—Pass defense, a weakness emphasized in last week's game with the Indiana Hoosiers, received the attention of University of Texas coaches and players here today as the Longhorns continued workouts for the Texas-Oklahoma game at Dallas Saturday.

AGGIES ON WAY

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 9 (U.P.)—A 34-man Texas A. & M. squad was en route to Los Angeles today for its tussle Saturday with U. C. L. A., given a rousing send-off after practice yesterday by the entire Aggie cadet corps packed around the station.

'Snooze' Priced $50,000

BY FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 9 — The second guessers are calling Dick Bartell's seventh inning mental lapse—when the Cincinnati Reds scored their World Series winning runs—the "$50,000 snooze."

Here's what happened. The Detroit Tigers were out in front, 1 to 0 as Frank McCormick led off the Reds' seventh with a blistering double against the left field wall. Jimmy Ripple followed with another two-ply shot against the right field barrier, it looked as if Bruce Campbell might catch Ripple's hard drive, and McCormick "tagged up" at second.

As the ball hit the wall, McCormick started for third, but slowed almost to a walk after rounding the bag. Campbell threw to Bartell, between second and third, but Bartell, despite yells and gesticulations from his mates, didn't notice McCormick was only halfway between third and home until too late to make the play. At the same time McCormick didn't know the ball was back in the infield and just jogged across like a guy who hit a homer.

Anyway, the experts figure if Bartell had caught McCormick at the plate, the Tigers would have had the game 1 to 0, and the series along with it. The out would have left Ripple on second with one away, and Wilson would not have followed with a sacrifice, which put the runner on third from where he scored the winning run on Myers' long fly to center.

The difference between the winners' and losers' share of the series gold is far above $50,000, but the second guessers settled for that amount on the "snooze" angle.

Deacon Should Get 'Miracle' Title Of '40

By HENRY McLEMORE
United Press Sports Writer

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 — Isn't it high time, now that the shouting is over, that someone wrote a piece for the papers about the forgotten man of the World Series?

I think so, so today's little literary gem will be devoted to one Bill McKechnie, alias the Deacon, and the man who managed the Cincinnati Reds to the first National league World Series victory since 1934. In all the drum beating for the Jimmy Wilsons, the Paul Derringers, the Bucky Walters, the Buck Newsoms and the Pinky Higgins, the quiet, little man with the spectacles has been sadly neglected.

Won Three Times

And that's not right, because when the end of the year comes and the boys start naming the miracle men of 1940 sports, McKechnie is going to get the No. 1 spot. Just look at what he has done. In the first place, he has beaten the American league three times in the space of six months.

The first licking he gave the supposedly invincible sluggers from the younger league came in March, down in Tampa, in the All-Star game between the two loops for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund. McKechnie organized a National team, drilled it in his percentage baseball beliefs, and knocked off the sluggers, 2 to 1.

Won The Hard Way

He handed out licking No. 2 in the big All-Star contest in St. Louis in July. His club was a 3 to 1 underdog, but he hopped the National leaguers to a point where they went out and blanked the mighty men of Harridge, 4 to 0.

And then came the World Series, the real baseball payoff, where important money rides on every pitch and every hit. With a team that was shot with injuries, and which was still suffering a hangover from the four straight beatings it took a year ago from the Yankees, McKechnie won. Not only did he win, but he won the hard way. Three times the Reds had to get off the canvas and fight back, and the way they did it stamped them as a club with a heart.

Joost Came Through

Mind you, McKechnie went into this series with a seven-man ball club. His hardest hitter—in fact, just about his only hard hitter—was out with an ankle injury. The loss of Lombardi was a blow, but McKechnie has the love and loyalty of his men, and for him Jimmy Wilson forgot his years and gave one of the greatest clutch catching exhibitions baseball has ever seen.

The Reds went into the series with no second baseman, and even little Oscar asleep back there on the last row knows that second base comes close to being the key point on a ball club. With Frey out all McKechnie had left was Eddie Joost, a kid not long out of California high school. A light-hitting kid with no experience under fire. But for McKechnie the youngster went out there and played like a veteran. He got his base knocks and fielded superbly.

They All Like Him

It was for McKechnie, more than for himself, that big Paul Derringer pitched his heart out to win two ball games. Paul told me that his highest baseball aim was to help pitch the Reds to a pennant for McKechnie.

"He's the greatest guy in baseball," Paul said. "He deserves a winner, and damn if I don't want to help get him one."

Paul feels no differently than the other Reds. From the top to the bottom of the batting order they are McKechnie's boys.

The series had just finished, and the Reds still were piling into their dressing room, when Del Baker, manager of the Tigers, came in to congratulate McKechnie.

"I hated to lose it," Baker said, "but, Bill, if I had to lose, I'm glad it was to you. You're okay in my book."

That goes for everyone who has ever known the man.

Of Mat, Ring And Grid
By Collier Parris

WRESTLING MAESTRO Sled Allen closes down his outdoor wrestling season tonight with a three-ring show that ought to be a better than average curtain-ringer downer.

The main spasm features Prince Omar the Persian, who's pretty good when he's not running from somebody, and Chuck Powell, the mumbling monkey who could be pretty good if he wrestled his opponent instead of the referee and the crowd. Larry Tillman, one of the better middleweights out of Oklahoma during Allen's Auditorium days, comes back to grapple with the colorful Scot, Ed Gideon. Joe Banaski and Whispers Malone, a newcomer, are on the prelim.

Just what plans Allen has for the future of wrestling hereabouts haven't been unfolded yet. He's casting about for an indoor arena, and no doubt hopes to set up shop closer to town right away. After a slow start, wrestling seemed to be catching on rather well late this summer and this fall.

L. D. "PUP" THOMAS, the boxing promoter, evidently doesn't plan any more boxing at the outdoor arena this season. The proposed Babe Hunt-Bob Sikes bout for the Southern championship fell through when Sikes demanded too much money for risking his title here. It's just as well, because Sikes is no great shakes as a boxer, anyway, and probably would go the way of the others who have been fed to Babe Hunt around here.

Hunt and Thomas, however, are not laying down their guns now. They went to New York recently, talked a lot of fight with a lot of people, took in the Max Baer-Bob Comiskey fight, and came home with the promise of a match with Buddy Baer.

Ancil Hoffman, manager of the brothers Baer, and more or less obligated to Thomas as result of the Ritchie-Max Baer fight (it set Maxie up on the comeback trail and has meant about 50 grand to him already) told Pup to come home and see what he could do about lining up the Buddy Baer-Hunt go. Thomas visited in Dallas the other Boys who make good under his coaching generally make good farther up the line, and they are all Mrs. Davis' "boys." The lady pictured above was born and had her early raising at Grapeland, Texas, finished high school there, then attended University of Texas, where she was a member of the Kappa Delta sorority. She came here in 1924, met up with old Mule in the fall of that year, and they were married in August of 1925—and haven't been very far off since then. In addition to football, her favorite sports are hunting and fishing, and she's a constant companion of The Mule on his various jaunts across country to new fishing and hunting grounds.

ELIZABETH LORA LEAVERTON—One of the most important football coaches in Lubbock considers the above pictured lady as "the most wonderful gal in the world," and few men in sports or athletics anywhere have a more loyal and sympathizing "partner in business" than has J. Mule Davis, the coach of the Lubbock Junior High Cowboys, the oldest "head coach" in Lubbock, in number of years of service at the same place, that is. Mrs. Davis is one of the No. 1 football fans of the community, a fact that will grow with the years because she has four sons who aspire to play football. All of them are old enough to kick a football around and the two oldest, Johnny, 13, and Sam, 10, are already doing a good job of it. ## Pushovers Are Thing Of Past

By EARL HILLIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—The Western conference appears headed for its greatest competitive football season in a decade, one which could become the greatest gridiron campaign in Big Ten history.

With Chicago out of the picture, there doesn't seem to be a pushover in the field—one which even this early in the year presents such standout elevens as Ohio State, Michigan, Minnesota and Northwestern.

Natural Bobs Up

For all-around strength, the conference apparently has bobbed up with a natural this season. Ohio State routed Pittsburgh and was expected to have little trouble Saturday with Purdue, but the conference champions squeezed through 17 to 14 on a last minute field goal as the Boilermakers showed surprising power.

Michigan, a pre-season favorite with Ohio State, overwhelmed California 41 to 0, then came back to trip a tough Michigan State team, 21 to 14. Minnesota, conceded to have only a fair team before the season opened, whipped Washington 19 to 14 and then defeated Nebraska last Saturday, 13 to 7. Northwestern, reportedly weak in its forward wall and of unknown offensive quantity, rolled over Syracuse, 40 to 0.

Others Good Too

The other four conference teams, even though they faced weaker opposition, did surprisingly well Saturday. Wisconsin showed power in its 33 to 19 conquest of Marquette, while Iowa routed South Dakota, 46 to 0. Illinois whipped Bradley, 31 to 0. Indiana lost to Texas, 13 to 6, but the Hoosiers showed an aerial game that probably will give plenty of trouble to every opponent from now on.

Embellishing the picture are numerous backfield stars whose performances give the season a lusty sparkle. Tom Harmon, with seven touchdowns, heads the field, but he has stellar company in such standouts as Minnesota's George Franck, Ohio State's Don Scott and Jim Langhurst, Mike Byelene of Purdue, George Paskvan of Wisconsin and Northwestern's Bill DeCorrevont and Don Clawson.

Tar Heels Fear Frogs May Unleash Aerials

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 9 (AP)—North Carolina fears Texas Christian's passing attack and has the figures to show why. The Tar Heels point out that such famous flingers as Davey O'Brien and Sammy Baugh compiled college records of .482 and .458 for completing passes while so far T.C.U.'s aces, Kyle Gillespie and Jack Odle, have averages of .538 and .495. Last season the Horned Frogs completed 49 per cent of their passes and they've made it an even .500 in two games this season.

REASON TO MOAN

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9 (AP)—Don Elser of St. Benedict's college, Atchison, Kans., is a frank football coach. The former Notre Dame fullback admitted making 47 mistakes in one game. They all came in the second half, too, he told the "college of complaint," an organization of fans and coaches. St. Benedict's lost, of course, 0-33 to Wichita U.

Raiders Leave For Montana

Final Wrestle Show Tonight

Appropriately enough, Promoter Sled Allen rings the curtain down on his outdoor wrestling season at the Sportarena tonight with a cast of performers who are as versatile as they come.

A little of everything presented during the past summer and early fall weeks should be reeled off anew tonight. The three-event card promises such a program.

Starting time is 8:30 o'clock. Admittance prices remain the same.

Tangling in two out of three falls, two hour time limit main event will be Prince Omar of Persia and Chuck Powell of Birmingham, two somewhat puggy boys who may mix it up in a bloody brawl if they decide it isn't cricket to hide behind someone—the usual procedure when either is concerned.

Their last appearance here was two weeks ago in a team brawl agajnst Farmer Jones and the Flying Scot, the latter two winning. As a result of the match, there was a bit of ill will exchanged between the Prince and Chuck—and now they have a chance to put their boasts into deeds.

Semi-final sends Ed Gideon, he of the colorful dress who parades under the name of Flying Scot from Glasgow, mixing it up with Larry Tillman, an oldtimer from Oklahoma. The event is scheduled for two out of three falls duration with a 30-minute time limit.

Opening the card will be a special 20-minute or one fall event featuring the "Frankenstein" features of Joe Banaski and Whiskers Malone, a newcomer. The Prince, Tillman and Banaski turned in pleasing performances during the Auditorium days. Their opponents tonight are comparatively new to this circuit.

KEY GROUND-GAINERS — Sam (Nig) Oatman, pepper pot in the backfield of the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboys, at Abilene, is president of the H-SU student body. A Paducah boy, Oatman and Moon Mullins, Henderson, are key ground-gainers in the Coach Frank Kimbrough grid machine.

Linkswomen Are Visiting Here Today

Lubbock Country club women today are playing host to a group of Amarillo golfers as a highlight of weekly "ladies day" activities here.

Matches got under way early this morning and were to continue this afternoon following luncheon at the club house. Approximately 10 visitors from the helium city were expected.

Co-hostesses for the day were Mrs Wright Kerr and Mrs. Olan Key. They also are acting as captains of the locals.

Two prizes are to be awarded, one exclusively for the Amarillo player who fires the low net score for 18 holes, the other to the Lubbock or Amarillo player who scores low net on four blind holes of the first nine.

Gene Autry's Horse Flies Across Nation

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP) — It cost $3,700 last night to win for Film Cowboy Gene Autry's steed, "Champion," the distinction of being the first horse to fly across the continent in an airplane.

Autry flew the horse here from Los Angeles for a rodeo appearance. The bill for chartering the 14-passenger (TWA) transport was $3,000 and $700 was paid to convert the plane into a horse stall for the trip.

ANOTHER BEAR INJURED

WACO, Oct. 9 (U.P.) — Weldon Bigony, hard driving Baylor fullback, sported a broken nose today after yesterday's scrimmage against freshmen and reserves who ran Arkansas plays at the varsity.

HEADS TITLE ASSOCIATION

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 9 (AP) — R. L. Rustan of Port Arthur was elected vice-president of the Texas Title association at its closing session here yesterday.

Westerners To Play At Home

Coaches Pete Cawthon and Dutchy Smith bundled their Red Raider gridders onto a special pullman and headed into the mountains and toward Missoula, Montana early this afternoon — their guns loaded for Bear.

Seeking their second triumph of the current season, the Crimsons will tangle with Montana university's Grizzlies come Saturday afternoon and not only do the Scarlet and Black charges face a tough aggregation in their week-end assignment but face the ordeal of a long and tiring road trip.

Traveling Squad Named

The group stops briefly in Amarillo this afternoon for a short workout, resuming the journey tonight, possibly arriving in Missoula late Thursday night.

Following Tuesday afternoon's rough workout, the following boys were named to make the trip:

Linemen Francis Bingham, Prince Scott, Clarence Tillery, E. J. McKnight, Robert Duncan, Newman Ledbetter, Jack Shanks, Marvin Shields, Robert O'Connor, Wayne Pipes, Rafe Nabors, Edwin Irons, Lonnie McCurry, Charlie Daniels, Doyle Caraway, Will Allbright and Loyce Baillio, and Backfield Ed Harris, C. L. Storrs, Roger Smith, Tom Douglass, Peter Blanda, Charlie Dvoracek, Walter Webster, Red Amonett, Milton Hill, Glenn Lowe, Ty Bain and Bill Brown. Also in the party are Publicity Director Bill Parker and Trainer Lewis "Doc" Spears.

The Red Raiders worked out strenuously on defense yesterday afternoon against Coach Doug Fessenden's Montana offense as set up according to scouting notes and reeled off by Berl Huffman's freshmen.

Huffman even had a couple of freshman backs dolled up and painted up like negroes emulating the great negro tailback star for Montana, John "The Ripper" Reagan, a 200-pound sophomore sensation from Chicago a triple-threater. The pseudo-Reagan, working around both ends, over and through the middle with an assortment of laterals, triple-passes and long forwards, as well as straight-through line bucking, offered considerable problems to the varsity defense, which worked until nearly dark.

The freshmen, incidentally, will have the rest of the week and part of next to work on their own defense and offense in preparation for their game next week with the Cameron Aggies at Lawton, Okla.

In the meantime, the Lubbock Westerners will entertain Lubbock fans with what should be an interesting game Friday night against the Hobbs, N. M., eleven.

Tickets for the Friday night encounter, the city's major football attraction for the week, are on sale at the three regular agencies for 75 cents per throw. Both middle sections of each stand are on the market.

Agencies are Lubbock Hotel Drug, Hub Clothiers and Mark Halsey No. 2.

MUSTANGS ENTRAIN

DALLAS, Oct. 9 (U.P.)—Southern Methodist university's Mustangs, 34 of them—including 21 backs and ends—entrain today for Pittsburgh, scene of their intersectional battle Saturday with Charlie Bowser's "de-emphasized" Pitt Panthers.

AIM TOO GOOD

NEWBERG, Ore., Oct. 9 (AP)—Monroe Miller took aim, fired and saw the pheasant drop—at the feet of Frank B. Wire, state game supervisor. Miller was fined $25 for hunting pheasant out of season.

Brownfield To Play Levelland In 5-A Clash

(Special To The Journal)

BROWNFIELD, Oct. 9 — Brownfield's Cubs, winners in the southern division of District 5-A for three consecutive years, begin the chase for their fourth crown in a row Friday night, playing the tough Levelland Lobos at Brownfield.

Each team is undefeated. Brownfield has subdued Kermit, Crane and Monohans, while Levelland holds victories over Anton, O'Donnell, Sudan and Post. Two of Levelland's victories — O'Donnell and Post — were conference games.

Cub Aerials Threat

Levelland possesses a pair of conference victories, having defeated Post and O'Donnell, Brownfield, on the other hand, has one league triumph under its belt, that being a forfeit win from O'Donnell.

Friday's fray will have a lot of bearing on the outcome of the southern section of District 5-A and should prove a thrilling encounter. Brownfield's brilliant aerial attack provided the margin of victory against a favored Monahans eleven. Three successful passes in a row set the stage for a winning touchdown which came on a short toss. With W. D. Warren, ace Cub back, well under cover, Deverelle Lewis stole the spotlight. Fifteen year old Lewis scampered 25 yards for the first score and then caught the winning pass in the final period.

Line-Up Listed

Coach Aubra Nooncaster used but fourteen players in whipping Monahans. Co-captain Jiggs Tankersley suffered a slight injury, but will be ready for the Levelland contest.

The game is being sponsored by the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce. Starting lineup for the Cubs will find Gene Hill and Monroe Rowden, ends; Co-Captain M. J. Akers and Lewis Waters, tackles; Floyd Perry and Paul Bagley, guards; James Mullins, center; Lewis, quarterback; James Bryan and Warren, halfbacks; and Tankersley, fullback.

Training Is To Be Provided

Lubbock's Allen Bros. post of the American Legion will sponsor organization of one or more companies of the "Texas defense guard," members of the post executive committee announced after a special meeting Tuesday afternoon.

The step was decided upon unanimously, according to J. Louis Murfee, commander of the post, following receipt of a communication from Brig. Gen. J. Watt Page, adjutant general of Texas, which read:

Authority To Be Given

"When the Texas national guard is called into federal service, the state of Texas will be without means of taking care of internal disturbances, and to take care of this situation, under authority extant, the governor will authorize the organization of such infantry units as may be deemed expedient and necessary."

In the effort to hasten the organization as much as possible against the time when the local national guard units may be called into service, Murfee said, details of procedure will be discussed at the semi-monthly meeting of the Legion post in the home, 910 Texas avenue, Monday night.

Cooperation To Be Sought

Cooperation of officials, civic organizations, patriotic organizations and others will be sought, he added.

Members of the executive committee participating in the preliminary preparations and authorizing the sponsorship of the infantry units were E. Kelley Nail, C. E. Luce, A. C. Jackson, D. C. Weeks, Chas. Whitacre, who is 19th district commander of the Legion, and Murfee.

The communication from General Page, Murfee said, the post authorized immediately to "make application for permission to organize one or more companies of infantry," the application to be made directly to the governor. The application, the letter said, should bear the signatures of five or more leading citizens

Each Consists Of 74 Men

Each unit organized will consist of 74 men.

Eligible for enrollment will be able-bodied men between the ages of 18 and 64 years.

Uniforms and equipment, including arms, will not be furnished immediately, but may be furnished later.

No one will be paid for service unless ordered or called out by the governor.

Officers of each unit will consist of a captain and first and second lieutenant, to be appointed.

Must Take Oath

Enlistments will be completed on an enlistment blank furnished by the adjutant general. Those enlisting will be required to take the prescribed oath of allegiance. Enlistment period will be for three years unless discharged sooner by competent authority.

Enlistment will not be an exemption from military service under federal law.

When an organization is authorized and the prospective commander designated, according to instructions received here, he will be furnished with the necessary Texas defense guard regulations and other instructions covering the duties, responsibilities and obligations of the unit and the individual members thereof. Instructions on training will be issued by the adjutant general.

It's a cheap way for one of the South's better-off men to grab some publicity.

It must be nice to be wealthy, and give schools and colleges such things as $50,000 stadiums, million-dollar endowments, etc., but it must be a lot nicer to be wealthy AND gracious. Luther Stark has been wealthy and a big giver, but he has never been gracious with his gifts. He has "purchased" instead of given; purchased things he could run himself, like a yacht or a stable of fine horses, or like the University of Texas and Orange High school.

We don't blame the coach from quitting, having been so disillusioned. Why, Dexter must have thought, being head coach and athletic director, he would have something to say about running the team and the athletic department! And wasn't it funny, the way the board of directors and the school officials "didn't have anything to say!"

Mr. Ickes says the New Deal has no pork barrel, and for once, The Plainsman agrees with the bad tempered Secretary.

It has, however, the latest in streamlined gravy trains!

SPEAKING of Mr. Ickes reminds us of the presidential campaign, and thinking of the presidential campaign brings to mind the fact that the usual "whispering" assaults are getting under way with both candidates serving as targets.

Anti-Rooseveltians are circulating the report that Harry Bridges, the West Coast radical, alien, labor boss is soon to quit his well-paying job, will remain quiet for a few weeks and then, if Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected, will bob up in a nice government job in Washington.

Matching this report, anti-Willkieites are spreading the tale in Catholic communities that Mr. Willkie is anti-Catholic because "although his father embraced the Catholic faith on his deathbed, members of the family buried him in 'unblessed ground.'"

The Plainsman doubts that either of these rumors will hurt either of the candidates with thinking voters and would be willing to bet that neither of the reports is true.

However, as Mr. Barnum remarked, the world is full of saps who will believe anything they hear.

The Plainsman can't for the life of him see where it makes any difference whether the elder Willkie was or was not a Catholic convert. And where and how he was buried can't possibly effect whatever talents and abilities his son Wendell may have in the presidential line.

And as for the rumor that Mr. Roosevelt will put Harry Bridges in a soft government job after the government has spent nearly a million dollars trying to run him out of the country, (at which it has failed because of Modom Secretry Perkins, adequately described by Irvin Cobb as "the Queen Bee of the Fifth Columnists") we simply won't believe it until it happens.

While Mr. Roosevelt has played around with a lot of wild-eyed pinks, we give him credit for being both a smart man and a patriotic American at heart.

If he is either, he'll have no official truck with Bridges.

IT won't get into what pass for newspapers in Italy, Germany and Russia, and probably not in so-called newspapers in the Balkans, France and other European nations outside of England. But if it did, the story of the funeral of Henry Horner, late governor of Illinois, would be startling news, indeed.

Until his death early Sunday, Governor Horner was one of two Jews serving as a state chief executive in this nation, the other being Governor Lehman, of New York.

But when he was laid to rest, last rites were administered not by a rabbi, alone, but a Protestant minister and a Catholic priest, as well.

Thus did Henry Horner, although dead, preach a powerful sermon of tolerance to those who had been his fellow citizens.

We don't know whether it's true, or not. But we understand that one of the advertising boys on Radio Station KFYO turned up for work the other morning wearing a coat and pants to match and was sent home and told not to return until he had dressed in the proper Hollywood attire!

* * *

SINCE The Plainsman knows how to get around in Lubbock, and since he's never been caught, at least, while running a stop-sign or a red light, he doesn't know how the policemen here conduct themselves with strangers.

Knowing Chief Don Reeder well, and being acquainted with a half dozen or so of the local constabulary, we imagine the boys are polite and helpful under even the most trying circumstances.

But be that as it may, a police force can be a wonderful goodwill builder for any community—or it can so conduct itself as to hurt the town it is supposed to serve.

If you ask us, one of the things that makes New York a wonderful place to visit is the attitude of the police force there.

The Plainsman is a great hand to poke around in strange towns by himself at all hours of the day and night and thus frequently finds himself bumfuzzled, especially in a place as big as New York. But while he has appealed to Gotham coppers scores of times for information—and probably has put to the bluecoats many questions which to them are silly—he has never run into a more pleasant, helpful, courteous and hospitable group of men.

They are schooled to know the answers to any and all questions a citizen may put to them and they are walking time-tables and maps when it comes to subway, bus, elevated and surface car connections.

And they help the visiting firemen as if they enjoyed doing it!

DR. Robert Travis Canon tells a true story that would be hard to believe about a policeman in any big city in the world outside of New York.

During the World war, Dr. Canon, a naval officer, was dumped into New York's roaring midtown, carrying orders to report to a ship anchored in the Hudson many, many blocks to the north and west.

Having no idea how to get to his ship, he dodged traffic to a point in the middle of a Broadway intersection where a traffic cop was operating the hand traffic signals used in those days.

As soon as the policeman heard Bob's question, he adjusted the semaphores to permit traffic to move both ways and said, "follow me."

Much to the doctor's surprise, the policeman not only showed him to his subway train but got on with him, got off with him, took him to the right wharf and pointed to a naval vessel. "There she is," he said, and walked away.

On top of all this courteous service, Dr. Canon recalls, the cop even paid the subway fares!

"Marry in haste and repent at leisure," reads an old saw, but in Hollywood they've changed the last three words to "repeat at pleasure."

* * *

That Man on Avenue Q says no rapid progress will ever be made by civilization until somebody figures out how to merge the enthusiasm of youth with the experience of age.

* * *

When the radio brought the word of Wendell Willkie promising to put the whole country back to work again, a heavy silence fell over the domino parlor!

PERHAPS they were picked for their appearance, and perhaps they weren't. But the fact remains that the U. S. army boys, whose model camp at the fair last week was quite an attraction, were about as fine a looking group The Plainsman has ever seen.

We paid particular attention to the youngsters and every one we saw was clean-cut, intelligent, well set up and, in most cases, downright handsome.

The Plainsman, father of three boys, found himself thinking that he would just as soon have his kids in that group as in any other group of young men he'd ever seen if the country had need of them.

It occurs to us that a year of army discipline in peacetime would help more youngsters than it would hinder, especially in an era where jobs are scarce.

SUE MARY JEFFERSON—stenographer in a law firm, alone in city, seeking new friends.

JOE STEFANSKI—ambitious, college educated worker, in love with Sue Mary.

NICK ALEXANDER—leader of the Youth Progress group.

VERA OLIVER—active worker, who combines social and political duties.

YESTERDAY: Sue Mary Jefferson, small town girl, is lonely in the city. She has her stenographer's job, and ambitious, hardworking Joe, who loves her, but the five-day week gives her an idle day. Waiting in the park for Joe, Sue Mary listens to a soapbox orator. His tirade leaves her puzzled, worried. Joe calls him "crackpot," hurries her away.

Chapter Two

Life went on: work at the office and two days off each week to try and fill, so that the gnawing loneliness experienced by a girl alone in a big city might not become unbearable. As long as Joe could be with her it wasn't so bad, but Joe worked and the hours stretched dull and empty. And even Joe, like so many others around her, seemed preoccupied these days.

Sometimes it angered her. This constant waiting for something to happen.

The war had upset her world. But the war wasn't here. There was a whole ocean between that world and this. People here were working, had pay envelopes, and food and fun. This land was free.

Certainly there was happiness for her in it. If only she could fit herself as the others had to these new conditions. She now had time for fun and play.

Kitty blossomed under the wealth of hours spent trying new hair styles, discovering new dress bargains, and new shades of nail polish. Her conversation sparkled with tales of luncheons and cocktails, at the Wonderbar and the Golden Bell; of dances, at the Greenbriar Club and the Four Hundred. And Babs grew lyrical and breathless with her detailed description of trousseau shopping.

But how, Sue Mary asked herself when Tuesday rolled around again, can you do these things on what I make each week? It costs money to play. It costs money to do almost anything.

A feeling of frustration rose within her. She decided to go downtown. The sight of the four walls of her room and the stifling heat made her want to scream.

She walked slowly. No point in taking a bus, that not only cost a dime, but also carried you along much too swiftly, when there was no destination ahead.

She wished adventure might catch up with her; the sort of adventure one read about in novels. She wished a handsome young man in a low-slung, gleaming roadster would swing around the street corner and then and there open up a road to romance.

Her heels clicked down harder and harder on the pavement. Anger, futile and sickening, carried her on. She supposed she could go to the library again: sit there for an hour pouring over dog-eared books. Or walk to the museum and stare at pictures as she stared at them on other Tuesdays. Then eat a sandwich and drink a malted milk at a corner drugstore, and go home, without having said a word to a single soul.

She was almost downtown when she saw the sign. She didn't remember having seen it before, and she thought by now that she knew every house, every window, and billboard along the beaten path. But there it was and she slowed her pace to read.

An art exhibit. Modern art, it said, and under that, more important still, it invited the public. It was free.

Sue Mary hesitated a moment. The building was old: an old house that once had been a red brick mansion with gingerbread trimming, set in a patch of lawn. Now it was stained with age and wear, and the lawn was a pathetic square of trampled dirt.

Yet within there was an art exhibit. A free one—and a girl should find it perfectly proper to view an art exhibit. Sue Mary turned back and went in.

Her heart beat a little faster and she chewed her lower lip from sheer excitement. Stupid, she scolded. It is stupid to get like this simply because I'm going into a strange building. It proves, though, just how helpless and naive one can get moving along in a rut this way.

Within there was nothing to add to her excitement. There was a big room—an old-fashioned parlor, she supposed, with a high ceiling and a marble fireplace that had been fixed for gas. And around the walls hung pictures.

Sue Mary shook her head in disbelief. Yes, they were pictures, but not like those in the museum.

They were weird: horrible colors and unintelligible shapes. Stiff fish and fruit, wooden-faced people, strange objects protruding from human heads like nightmares.

And the titles were just as odd: "Romance at Noon"; "Thoughts While Telephoning"; "Love From the Sky"; "Nude in a Parachute"; "Slaughterhouse Fantasy."

And on pedestals and tables were more weird art pieces: bits of wood and metal, and feathers and clay. "Horse in Flight"—"Mother and Child"—"Head of a Girl"—only the titles and the works had no connection. Sue Mary stared, wandered from one to another.

A young man was hanging a picture in an adjoining room. A blond girl, her hair in a long bob, stood beside the stepladder, handing him a hammer. Sue Mary watched them until the man turned and looked at her.

He was dark: thick black hair that was mussed and curly; dark eyes; a nose that was finely chiseled; a mouth that was thin-lipped and twisted in an amused smile.

He stared at her until she flushed and looked away, moving back into the other room and concentrating on another strange picture. She heard his steps behind her but she didn't turn.

She wished she hadn't come. There were no other people there and she felt conspicuous and awkward.

"You're the first guest," he told her in a voice that had a faint accent. "Maybe you'll be the only one. It's the first art exhibit the club has put on. How do you like it?"

She continued to stare at the picture not knowing what to say.

He moved closer, straightening the picture and looking at her. "We really aren't finished hanging them yet. We didn't expect anyone to drop in until later. Well, what do you think of it?"

She turned toward him. "I—I really don't know. I just dropped in to look around. It—it's supposed to be modern isn't it? Only, well—I don't understand what any of them are about."

"Well I don't either. I'm not a painter. I just came to help. Most of this gang work and they couldn't come here until later. Don't you work?"

His abruptness startled her. She found herself hurrying into an explanation. "I saw the sign outside. I've been to the museum several times. I liked that, and I didn't have anything else to do—"

"A lady of leisure, eh? Time on your hands and a mind to improve. Well, maybe you came to the right place." He looked at her searchingly. "Haven't I seen you some place before?"

"No," she said startled.

But even as the word passed her lips, a scene flashed before her eyes. That day in the park when she had been waiting for Joe and listening to the soapboax orator. That was it. Now it all came back. The dark young man standing beside her and his intense face.

"Who pays the bill?" he had demanded. It had been but a moment from the past, but she remembered it vividly.

"Well, I could have sworn I knew you. At least, that I'd seen you sometime or other," he was saying and Sue Mary looked away, puzzled and upset.

But at the same time she wondered what kind of a fate it was that made her meet this man again out of all those in the city.

But she had no time to ponder. This strange young man—Nick Alexander—was introducing her to the blond girl, Natalie Russo, and a second, dark, serious person, Vera Oliver.

And they liked her. Sue Mary smiled her happiness. Here were friends, new friends!

MR. ICKES IS CATALOGUED

To Denver, Colo., goes the distinction of having placed an exact political value on the speeches delivered by Secretary of the Interior Harold M. Ickes.

Mr. Ickes now is on tour making speeches which are supposed to be of assistance in the re-election of Mr. Roosevelt. Rumor has it that the Democratic organization would have been far better pleased had he remained at home and kept his mouth shut, but couldn't do much about it when the bull-headed secretary insisted that the nation was clamoring to hear him.

At any rate, in Denver, members of the Republican party are drumming up the Ickes appearance. Reports are that the Democratic organization is soft-peddling the publicity just as much as courtesy to a cabinet member will permit.

The whole situation is a public recognition that one of the strongest assets the Republican party could desire would be for the Democrats to keep Ickes busy making speeches.

Roosevelt Will Oppose Hoover's Plan To Feed Starving Europe

British Buck U. S. For South America Trade

By BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9— If and when the campaign to sell the U. S. on feeding starving Europe gets started—and it's looked for some time this fall, probably under Herbert Hoover's direction — you can expect the Roosevelt administration to oppose it bitterly.

Catton

Its opposition will take two forms: a balancing of "starving Americans" off against the blockaded Europeans, and a plea that "it's a matter of building our country up until it's strong enough to defend itself before we build up a Europe strong enough to attack us."

All of this is clearly foreshadowed in official utterances of various administration officials—most notably, perhaps, in a speech made more than a month ago at Minneapolis by Milo Perkins, head of the Federal Surplus commodities corporation.

Perkins asserted that more than 15,000,000 Americans are badly underfed right now; that if they all got enough to eat practically all of our surplus foodstuffs would be consumed; that an adequate diet for all Americans would mean an expansion in farm production, in place of the steady contraction of recent years—and that, in short, to call for the sending of food to Europe before American hunger is satisfied is a disguised form of appeasement.

Will Appeal To Generosity

As a matter of fact it was this target that Henry Wallace was really supposed to be aiming at in his famous acceptance speech, in which he wound up by accusing Willkie of seeking appeasement.

The Agriculture department brain trusters who gathered material for him had expected he was going to hit the feed-the-starving-Europeans proposal. It's Perkins's speech, not Wallace's, that really lays down the administration "line" on the matter.

Understanding here is that the Hoover campaign will get rolling within a few weeks, probably in the form of a series of direct appeals to the public. The administration theory is that since Americans are easily reached by an appeal to their generosity, the best way to meet such appeals is by stressing the amount of underfeeding that goes on at home.

Inter-American Trade Pushed

The State department isn't in the least worried by the fact that the British have a trade mission in South America, even though some British exports might compete with U. S. exports there. As one State department expert puts it, "If the British can take South American products that we can't take, we can't very well object to the success of British salesmen, can we?"

Much more interesting to the department are the trade discussions recently begun between Brazil and Argentina, the type of bi-lateral trade agreement the U. S. is interested in.

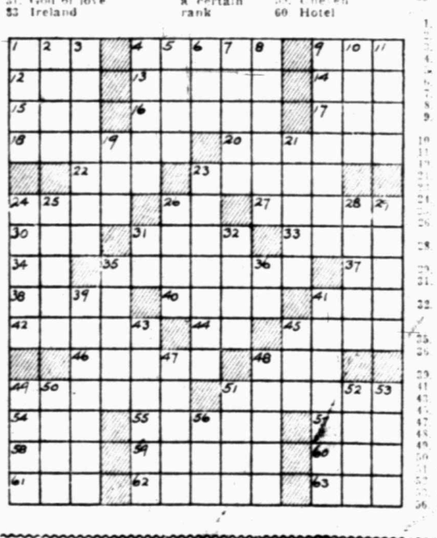

No U. S. cash has been put up to get the ball rolling. However, the recent deal whereby American capital is to help Brazil set up a steel industry is considered a step in that direction. Experts here hope that Brazil ultimately will be able to sell plenty of steel to her neighbors.

They point out that at present South American countries sell only about eight per cent of their exports to each other. The figure could easily be 20 per cent, and no one will be happier than the U. S. State department if it finally hits that level.

The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include, for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

ON DEMOCRACY

Dear Plainsman: The foremost issue at stake today is the preservation of American Democracy. That it should be preserved, the American public is unanimously agreed.

However, there is a wide difference in the conception of the word Democracy.

Democracy, to one group, means the form of government enjoyed by the United States for about 150 years. This form of government was founded by patriotic men of great foresight, who wrote the Constitution of the United States.

This constitution guaranteed each individual complete liberty to pursue any honest occupation he desired, in whatever manner he desired, without any regimentation or interference by his government. It also guaranteed each individual state and municipality the right to govern itself as it saw fit so long as it conformed to the Constitution of the United States. Under this form of government, the United States grew from a few ragged wilderness states to the mightiest, richest, and most powerful nation on earth.

Democracy, to another (and perhaps larger) group is rather vague. Its meaning, perhaps, is to alter our constitution to conform to any new theory of government; thus, giving our constitution about the same value or prestige as Hitler's treaties. This group dedicates itself to the theory, individuals should give up at least part of their individual liberties, and follow the guidance of one man, who in return, promises them at least some financial security. They also believe that the practice of state and municipal rights is outmoded, and that all governmental power should be centralized in Washington, under the guiding hand of one man. They further believe, that since this new theory of government is the brainchild of one man, that he should be kept in office, not for two terms, but just as long as he shall see fit to remain and administer his theories to the people.

Another belief of this group, is that these theories (even though they smack of communism and fascism), can be given the name Democracy, and be justifiable.

This is the situation as I see it. Am I right or wrong?

A reader of your column.
Wm. Shell,
Ralls.

(Dear Mr. Shell: Your letter is well written and well thought out. As to whether you are right, or wrong, that is a matter of personal opinion. Thanks for writing. The Plainsman).

New Pattern Of Government Needed To Save Democracy, Says Stewart Edward White

Twenty-third of 24 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and Lubbock Evening Journal by the nation's most famous authors.

BY STEWART EDWARD WHITE
Author of "Long Rifle," "Story of California," "Ranchero," etc.

IT is a commonplace to say that it is up to us—the United States—to "preserve democracy for the world," now that it has practically collapsed out of Europe. But I think our job is bigger than merely preserving a form of government. There is to be a drastic readjustment. Nobody—anywhere—is going to live just as he lived before. There is going to be a new pattern, and we have the chance to blueprint that pattern. And it has got to be a new pattern. Otherwise we shall land—later—just where this one has landed the rest of the world.

Stewart Edward White

History has conducted itself on the basis of self-preservation, with the accompanying greed, indifference to the other fellow, hatreds, cruelties and treacheries necessary to carry out that scheme of things. We have fatuously returned to that basis every time we have been jarred away from it by catastrophe, though mere self-preservation is no longer the vital issue. And our devotion to it has obscured for us the two underpinning truths on which this "democracy" we talk about depends.

THE creator is more important than the thing-created, no matter what it is. When the thing-created is made more important, you have totalitarianism.

Now we have this job of "preserving democracy" and redesigning the pattern for life simply because originally our republic was laid down pretty much in accord with those two principles. Originally. We have backslid somewhat, especially lately. We have been exalting the thing-created at the expense of the creator.

It has not taken us many years to build that golden calf, but the things we are beginning to sacrifice to it are the slow growth of age long struggle. Such simple things as sacredness of promise; sense of moral obligation; ordinary veracity; personal integrity; individual liberty; elementary justice—what we call the homely virtues, spiritual values. And by just that much we are turning totalitarian, no matter what we call ourselves. Democracy is not a form of government; it is a pattern for government. Lately we have been forgetting that. Nevertheless most of the old staunchness is still intact.

WE can do the job. But not on the old material basis that has collapsed—each day for itself and devil take tomorrow—man is made for the thing he fashions, including government. Rather on the rock bottom principle—I repeat—that democracy is the union of all parts in the common good of all, with complete opportunity for each individual to do unhampered what he can do, but only to his full capacity—with no obligation to do more—or less. Shall we have that much common sense?

All of which is the practical way of saying that we must get back to building on spiritual rather than material values.

Katherine Brush sums up the American case, presents the tenets by which we live, in the concluding article of this series on "Our Country."

Cotton Loan Papers May Be Made Through AAA Offices If Charges Are Continued

Execution of cotton loan papers for federal cotton loans through the Commodity Credit Corporation may be handled through Agricultural Adjustment Administration county offices in West Texas, if excessive charges continue to be made against farmers, it was indicated in a statement made Wednesday by V. L. Cade of Carlisle, member of the state AAA committee from this district.

The statement came following a visit here of F. D. White of Washington, D. C., assistant director, cotton division, Commodity Credit corporation, during which he and Cade went to numerous gins and loan offices in this section. They spent a major portion of Monday here.

Checked On Reports

White was enroute to Washington from a visit to Oklahoma and other states, doing similar work. He was checking on reports of alleged overcharges for handling loan papers and after leaving Lubbock went to Abilene and from there was to go to Dallas, and possibly other points, before returning to his office.

"It is the opinion of both state AAA officers and the Washington office, that, in order that all cotton loan applications be handled promptly, they be handled through the various communities, in the regular channels," said Cade. "We had hoped that farmers would not be charged an excessive amount for making out loan applications, but, if it is found, farmers are being charged an excessive rate for this service, the county AAA offices can, and will take care of the filling out and executing of loan papers, as was done in all wheat loans."

Range From 40 To 65 Cents

The two men on their trip over this section, accompanied by L. O. Buchanan, of the district office of the USDA charged with handling CCC loans and the Smith-Doxey act, were given information concerning charges for handling papers. They ranged from 40 cents a bale, up to an average of 65 cents, with still higher in some instances.

White was asked for a statement of the attitude of the CCC on the situation and the handling of cotton classing work here. His statement said:

"I am very favorably impressed with the splendid service being rendered by the two government classing offices in Lubbock. These offices class cotton produced on the plains and are doing a very excellent job of keeping abreast with the crop.

"More cotton from this area is going under loan than I had anticipated, several estimates given to me during my visit here are between 90 and 95 per cent of the total crop.

"I was informed that many farmers in West Texas are not receiving the full benefits of the loan, on account of deductions being made locally for assisting farmers in getting a loan. We had thought that the storage and interest rates allowed on loan cotton was sufficient to cover all costs to the farmer in obtaining a loan, with the exception of 15 cents per bale for classing for those who are not members of one-variety communities and who do not have access to free classing service. In other parts of the cotton area, I am informed no extra fees are being collected from farmers for assisting them in obtaining a government loan on their cotton.

"The loan program has undoubtedly prevented a price collapse on cotton in West Texas this year. The wars in Europe and Asia, are severely restricting the use of American cotton there, with the result that stocks of cotton are piling up again in the United States. This has caused prices to go down rather than up. There must be an increased use of American cotton before any real improvement in the cotton situation can be expected."

Crop Losses Are Noted

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Latest forecast of the Texas cotton crop by the federal agricultural marketing service, released today, notes a loss of 89,000 bales during September from previous estimates and puts the total at 3,390,000 bales for the state, compared with 3,846,000 bales in 1939.

The indicated lint yield is 188 pounds per acre.

Most of the loss in prospective production during the month occurred in the Northwest, the N. W. rolling plains, primarily, where inadequate moisture resulted in considerable reduction from the splendid prospect in that area a month ago. Moderate declines also were shown in some counties in the northern and northeastern parts of the state. In other major areas the crop was sufficiently advanced on September 1 so that there were no appreciable changes in indicated production during the month.

Unusually high per acre yields and better than average total production are being realized in the southeastern district and in the irrigated areas in West Texas. Per acre yields are above average in all districts except the North Plains and in south central Texas.

Because of smaller than average acreages planted to cotton, production is below the 10-year average total in all areas except the southeast and extreme west.

Weather conditions were favorable for picking and ginning during the month, with some shortage of pickers reported in south central counties. Ginnings in Texas prior to October 1, 1940, are reported by the bureau of the census at 1,481,000 running bales, compared with 1,968,000 bales ginned to the same date last year.

Students Exchanges Given Ratification

Thirteen countries ratified the plan for exchanges of teachers and students by colleges of the American republics, according to information received in the office of President Clifford B. Jones of Texas Technological college.

Data regarding exchanges has been received from the United States office of education. Under plans made at a convention for promotion of inter-American cultural relations, two graduate students or teachers will be exchanged by the United States and each of the other countries ratifying the plan. The other countries are Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Canada, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru and Venezuela.

Cramped Conditions In Tech Are Noted By Livingston Man

Cramped conditions at Texas Technological college are not due to neglect on the part of the state of Texas but to failure to realize the extent of growth and needs of the college, in the opinion of Sen.-Elect Clem Fain of Livingston.

The official, who visited Texas Tech for the first time, this week, was amazed at size of the school. "It is impossible for anyone who has not visited Texas Tech to realize how big the college has become," he said.

"With what you have had out here to work with, you have done marvelously, but you have outgrown your plant," he stated.

"I feel sure Texas Tech will grow as an outstanding school not only in this state but in the United States. The state owes an obligation not only to the students of this section but the whole state, and I feel sure the state will do right by Texas Tech."

New Nash Cars Being Shown

The highly-publicized models of the Nash motor car—which have created one of the biggest advertising splurges of the new 1941 automotive season—may be seen at the Caraway Nash Motor company, distributors of this section, at the Caraway company display room at 919 Texas Avenue.

From Kenosha, Wis., comes information of the Aeropowered Nash Ambassador six, one of three new cars to be shown by Nash Motors division of Nash-Kelvinator corporation. Aeropower motors and a new kind of body construction made their first appearance in the medium price automobile market with introduction of the Ambassador six lines, the announcement said, continuing:

The new car will be offered to the public at a price considerably under the cost of last year's Ambassador six.

Distinguished by smooth, low streamlined styling, the new car also lays claim to being the automobile industry's first convert to new trends established by the aviation industry. Its new aeropower motor will be America's only six-cylinder engine of valve-in-head, twin ignition construction a U. S. government specification for commercial aircraft.

Inlet manifolds are built in for uniform temperature control. The motor has a seven-bearing, radio-balanced crankshaft, and develops 105 horse-power.

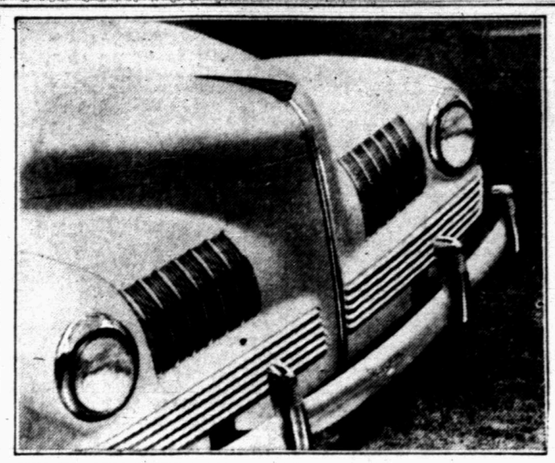

Lighter, stronger, roomier bodies (front seats are said to be nearly five feet wide) were made possible in the Ambassador six series by the development of an internal bridge-truss type of body construction known as "unitized". Welded at every point into a single, twistproof unit, the new bodies have an integral chassis frame, as well as a second, powerful box girder sub-frame.

Polytone interiors, which harmonize with a wide variety of single and two-tone body colors; greatly improved visibility; concealed running boards; a new type of independent front wheel suspension, with airplane-type shock absorbers set inside powerful coil springs; greater gasoline economy, and a new type cooling system were cited as being among the most important features of the new car.

He said that with the public apparently divided in preference between slipstream and trunk backs, the new Ambassador six will be offered in both styles, as well as a brougham and convertibles.

Lower and rangier, the new car is 16 feet, 8 inches long.

It also was announced from the Caraway company that the Nash models may be seen at Gresham Motor company in Lamesa, M. J. Craig Motor company in Brownfield, Odessa Motor company in Odessa, M. & M. Motors, Inc., in Midland, Oil Belt Motor company in Seagraves, Schuler Implement company in Lorenzo, Motley County Implement company in Matador, and Berry Motor company in Spur.

KIN TO AIRLINERS is this new 1941 automobile—the Aeropowered Nash Ambassador Six, which was announced this weekend by Nash dealers country-wide. It is powered by a twin-ignition, valve-in-head, six cylinder, in-line engine of 105 horsepower. Most of the world's big airliners and war planes boast the twin-ignition principle. This new Nash is a big car over 200 inches long, and has front seats nearly five feet wide. It will sell in the low-medium price field.

First Concert Given By Westerner Band

A swing arrangement was included on the program of the Westerner band when it presented its first concert of the year Tuesday afternoon in the Senior High school assembly program.

Director C. S. Eskridge and the concert band were in complete uniform for the program, and received rousing applause which showed the approval of the Senior High students of the "swing" music which was played. As the students assembled the band played "Trumpets of Victory" by Jewell.

Eskridge introduced all selections at the opening of the concert.

Other selections played were "Star Dust" by Hoagy Carmichael; "China Boy" arranged by Yoder, a medley of "Sophisticated Lady," "Mood Indigo" and "Black and Tan Fantasy," also arranged by Yoder. The program was closed with the "Westerner School Song."

Oil Companies Found Guilty Of Charges

DALLAS, Oct. 9. (AP)— A district court jury held in a verdict on special issues Tuesday that ten East Texas oil companies have been guilty of permitting salt water and oil well waste to flow into streams of the Neches river system.

Judge John A. Rawlins set a hearing for 9 a. m. Friday in the 116th district court to hear argument from attorneys on a judgment.

The jury also found that the salt water made the river injurious to fish and agriculture, as well as unfit for domestic and industrial uses.

Ford Upheld In Court Case

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Oct. 9 — Henry Ford was upheld in the tentative right today to follow the practice of distributing pamphlets in telling his 80,000 workers what he thinks of labor unions, but lost other phases of his three-year battle with the National Labor Relations board over the alleged dismissal of 29 men from his huge River Rouge, Mich., plant.

In a decision regarded as certain to be appealed to the United States Supreme court by both sides, the sixth U. S. circuit court of appeals:

Provision Set Aside

1—Held that the Wagner labor relations act does not "sanction an invasion of liberties guaranteed to all citizens by the first amendment" of the U. S. constitution, and set aside a provision of a board order forbidding "dissemination of propaganda" by the Ford Motor Co. among its employes.

2—Found that the company was responsible for a riot at the River Rouge plant May 28, 1937, and that the riot thus was an unfair labor practice.

Reinstatement Ordered

3—Ordered reinstatement of 22 workers allegedly discharged for activities with the United Automobile Workers of America. One Emil Tomkow was excepted. Five others have found other jobs or moved away and one is dead.

4—Ruled that Trial Examiner John Lindsay who heard the case "overstepped the bounds of that judicial propriety which contestants have a right to expect," but held his "injudicious conduct reaches no such clearly prejudicial impropriety as was held to invalidate the decisions of the board" in other cases.

The opinion devoted some 1,700 words to the issue of freedom of speech raised by the company in connection with views expressed by Ford in pamphlets distributed to workers when the wave of sit-down strikes was sweeping the nation.

Famous Pianist Is On His Way To America

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 9 (AP) — Ignace Jan Paderewski, who will be 80 years old next month, arrived in Lisbon today, so enfeebled that he could not walk unaided, but exclaimed:

"Thank God: my hands are still as strong as ever! Feet are less important for a pianist."

The famous Polish pianist and ex-premier who plans eventually to go to the United States, was accompanied by his 83-year-old sister and his secretary on the hard journey from Lausanne, Switzerland.

Ill and saddened over the fate of his country, he now finds his only solace in playing in solitude the funeral works of Chopin.

OBSERVER—To serve as a special naval observer, Rear Admiral Robert L. Ghormley, assistant chief of naval operations, has been sent to U. S. embassy in London.

Two Bandits Crack Waxahachie Safe

WAXAHACHIE, Oct. 9 (U.P.)—Two bandits early today cracked a safe at the Texas Power and Light company office here and kidnaped a 74-year-old night watchman, forcing him to ride for an hour and a half in the trunk back of an automobile.

Bob Cunningham, the night watchman, was released unharmed after the couple blew open the safe and drove to Dallas. Deputy Sheriff Hillyer Estes said.

Company officials said an exact check of the loss had not been made but that "it couldn't have been over $25 or $30."

Cunningham was able to give only a meager description to sheriff's deputies of the men who surprised him and forced him into the trunk of the car. He said there were at least two and possibly others.

Sheriff's deputies here and in Dallas began a search for the bandits.

Mrs. John F. Lewis Is Buried Tuesday

FLOYDADA, Oct. 9 (Special)—Following last rites in Stalice Catholic church in Plainview Tuesday morning, body of Mrs. John F. Lewis, 38, was buried in Floydada cemetery. Mrs. Lewis died Monday afternoon in a Floydada hospital of injuries suffered last week.

The wife of a prominent Floyd county stock farmer, Mrs. Lewis was struck by a weight that fell from a windmill at the family residence 21 miles northeast of here. Her skull was fractured by the 25-pound weight that fell 30 feet from the windmill tower.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were married in 1925. She was born Aug. 13, 1902 and moved to Plainview with her family at the age of nine. She was the former Miss Dora Elnora Seipp.

Survivors other than the husband are five brothers and two sisters.

Pallbearers were Bob Echols and W. E. Burleson of Matador, Calvin Steen of Floydada, W. E. Schott, Marvin Tull and Marvin Reed of Silverton.

MUST KEEP FAITH

HOUSTON, Oct. 9 (AP) — Young America must be inoculated with the needs of their forefathers to keep internationalism from creeping in, Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor university, told a centennial session of the Baptist Union association last night.

The educational leader said there had never been a time in history when Americans needed to keep closer to the faith of religion. This was necessary, he said, to keep Fascism and Communism out of the churches and American homes.

Conditions Are Less Favorable

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, Oct. 9 — The international institute of agriculture reported today that the European wheat crop, exclusive of Russia, would total about 1,460,000,000 bushels, 35,000,000 less than last year, with crops in Rumania, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Bulgaria about one-third less.

Emphasizing that "a great amount of conjecture" was required due to scarcity of official figures, it gave this summary:

Central European, 560,000,000 bushels, off 90,000,000; Danubian countries, 295,000,000 bushels, off one-third; Sweden, off 60 per cent; Denmark, off one-third; Lithuania, off 16 per cent; Estonia, off 10 per cent; Portugal, poor; Greece, good; United Kingdom and Ireland "rather lower."

It was noted that conditions for other cereals were less favorable than for wheat, but that the Danube countries had an improved crop of maize and that potatoes appeared to be abundant in several countries.

Fire Prevention Is Being Observed

Extensive observance is in progress of national fire prevention week, according to J. E. Maisen, chairman of the chamber of commerce fire prevention committee.

Elmer East is to deliver a 15-minute talk over KFYO at 8 o'clock tonight and a question-and-answer program is scheduled at the same time Wednesday night.

Speakers are to appear at each of the service luncheon clubs during the remainder of the week, the chairman announced.

Church Expects Goal Reached By Friday

Twenty-five of the 50 new members sought for the new St. John's Methodist church, Fourteenth street and Avenue X, have been enrolled, according to announcement at Tuesday night's revival service by Rev. Luther Kirk, pastor.

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt is to speak Friday night and expectation is the goal will be reached by that time.

Rev. R. B. Huckabee, of Muleshoe, who is leading a revival, spoke Tuesday night on "God's Horror of Our Ungodly Acts," in which he discussed the moral and spiritual decay as a result of "our neglect of religious instruction for our boys and girls."

"Personal Influence" is the sermon theme for tonight. Thursday night there will be a rally of Methodists of the west and southwestern sections of the city, with the stewards and their wives as hosts and hostesses to all visitors.
