Nazi Defeats Turn To Rout

Reds Say 183,930 Killed Or Captured During First Week

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, July 1.—The Red armies' rout of German forces in White Russia mounted to historic proportions today as Moscow announced that German losses in the first week of the Soviet summer offensive were 183,930 killed or captured, and the fighting carried all the way from inside the former border of Poland on the north to the center of Pripyat marshes on the south.

Red troops broke into the key railway town of Borisov, on the direct route to Minsk; captured Disna, a frontier town just inside old Poland; took Slutsk, an important railhead far to the south; and more than 430 other populated places inside the sprayling 350-miles White Russian front, the broadcast Russian communique said.

30 Miles From Minsk

In at least one sector, Soviet troops were less than 30 miles from Minsk, pouring across the Berezina river north of Borisov in a thrust of 19 miles.

Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent, said in a dispatch from Moscow that huge forces of Red infantry, tanks and cavalry were already converging on the outskirts of the White Russian capital.

Under continuous cover of Russian fighter and Stormovik planes, these troops were preparing for a mass storming of the outer approaches to the ancient city, Gilmore cabled.

The full extent of the German debacle was made known in a special announcement by Moscow, which said that the first White Russian Army fighting for Bobruisk had killed 50,000 and captured 23,680 and the Second White Russian Army which took Mogilev killed 30,000 and captured 3,250.

Dead Alone Total 132,000

Coupled with figures announced Thursday for the Third White Russian and the First Baltic armies, the dead alone in the week's operations amounted to 132,000.

German losses in equipment over this period were equally staggering. Moscow said the Germans during the week had lost 941 tanks and self-propelled guns, 5,149 guns of various caliber, 3,776 mortars, 16,054 machine-guns and 29,662 trucks.

The regular nightly communique announced big advances for the Soviet forces all through White Russia as the German defenses crumbled into nothing.

Reinforcements Fail

The early morning supplement to the Soviet communique said that the Russian troops were rapidly driving the enemy back toward Minsk even though reinforcements had been brought up for the German divisions.

Midwest Truck Strike Delayed

(By The Associated Press)

Sixteen thousand workers were idle yesterday in the eastern half of the nation as a result of labor disputes, but a threatened walkout of 26,000 midwest truck drivers, scheduled for midnight (Friday), was postponed awaiting outcome of a War Labor board hearing in Washington next week.

Announcement of the postponement was made in a telegram to the War Labor board from Thomas E. Flynn, executive assistant to the president of the AFL International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Earlier Friday the WLB ordered the Midwest Operators association, representing 113 trucking companies in twelve midwest states, to show cause at the forthcoming hearing why they had not complied with a WLB directive granting the drivers a wage increase.

Some Already Comply

Dexter Lewis, director of the Central States Drivers council said employers in Ohio, Michigan, Illinois, Indiana, and Wisconsin had complied with the WLB order. The strike was to have been called at midnight by drivers in North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and Kansas.

The War Labor board directed the CIO United Steel Workers to terminate a strike at the Timken Roller Bearing Co., Canton, Ohio, where 9,000 walked out in protest against what union leaders called "a complete breakdown in labor relations." The strike began Monday. The WLB said it was seriously affecting production of vital war material. The board also said a hearing set for July 5 was postponed and no action would be taken until the stoppage ends.

Coal and Steel Plants

At least 6,500 workers were off the job in five coal mines and two steel mills in Pennsylvania, although three other walkouts ended in the same industries in the state, sending 1,350 back to work. The continuing strikes affected the Homestead and Clairton plants of Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, which the CIO said were unauthbrized, and five coal mines. The miners disputes involved issues such as the Rubberoid Co., roofing material makers, at Joliet, Ill., stopped work, protesting proposed use of a new type machine before a new wage scale was agreed upon.

At Camden, N. J., 20,000 employes of the New York Shipbuilding and Drydock Corp., demonstrated for 20 minutes in protest against what they called a delay in new contract negotiations, but the assembly was during a change in shifts so there was no production delay.

New Workers' Control Starts

WASHINGTON, June 30 (AP) — Employment controls designed to make best use of the available labor supply become operative on a nationwide scale tomorrow with manpower officials hopeful 200,000 new workers can be attracted into essential industry.

By cooperative action of both workers and employers, all males except farmers will be required to be hired through the U. S. Employment service or agencies it designates. War Manpower Commissioner Paul McNutt says the plan has worked effectively for some time in certain tight labor areas.

Have Right Of Appeal

Both employers and employes will have the right of appeal from any decision of the local officials of the War Manpower commission.

The "referral" procedure, already in use in a number of tight labor areas, requires that a man seeking a new job must present himself to the local USES office or such other agency—for instance, a union hiring hall—as may be designated by USES.

LOCAL COMMITTEE NAMED ON EMPLOYMENT PLAN

Membership of the local committee named by Lubbock County council of Defense to work with the War Manpower Commission and the U. S. Employment Service in connection with the priority referrals employment plan to be put into effect Saturday was announced this morning.

Members are R. F. Bayless, W. H. Carpenter, H. H. Van Aken, C. C. Williamson, Arno Dalby, Lloyd Risinger, Roy Macky of Slaton, J. W. Simmons, J. C. Clark, Capt. C. H. Morrison, civilian personnel officer at South Plains Army Air field, and Capt. R. H. Purrington, civilian personnel officer at Lubbock Army Air field.

Announcement also was made that the committee met Thursday afternoon and elected Bayless chairman, Carpenter vice chairman and Van Aken secretary. F. A. Wells of Amarillo, WMC area director, and John Sorenson of Austin, WMC administrative representative, explained the purposes of the referral plan.

Gen. Weygand Is Reported In Escape

MADRID, June 30. (AP)—Reports that could not be confirmed circulated here today that Gen. Maxime Weygand, former commander-in-chief of the French armies, had escaped from German imprisonment and is now somewhere in France helping to organize the resistance movement into greater strength.

Weygand disappeared shortly after the Germans overran all of France subsequent to the Allied landings in north Africa in November, 1942, and there has been no definite word of him since.

Finns Called Nazi Puppets In U. S. Break

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 30.— The United States snapped the frayed thread of its relations with Finland today and branded the present government of that long-friendly country as a "puppet" used by Nazi Germany to help stem the advance of victorious Allied armies in Europe.

The American action came at the end of a ten-day period which some day may be recognized as one of the most critical in the history of the 25-year-old Finnish republic. In those ten days a planned pro-Allied coup failed to come off at Helsinki, according to reliable reports here. A group of die-hards opposed to peace with Russia clinched their hold in the government, and under the guns of German warships, Nazi land reinforcements poured ashore while planes of the luftwaffe moved in large numbers onto key airfields.

NOTICE IS FORMALLY SERVED ON FINLAND

STOCKHOLM, June 30 (AP)—Edmond Guillon, U. S. charge d'affairs, delivered the American note formally advising the Finnish government of a break in relations to Foreign Minister Ramsay in Helsinki at 6 p. m. today.

In a telephone conversation with the Associated Press in Stockholm, Guillon said he and his staff of five, together with their families, expected to leave Finland for Sweden next Tuesday.

Had Clung To Hope

It was as a result of these developments, reflected in an official Finnish announcement of an alliance with Germany last Tuesday, that President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull decided late yesterday to break the final fragile link. They had preserved it for months in the hope it might help Finland to make a peace with Russia and get out of the war.

Opinion here is divided as to whether the Finns will stay in the war until smashed by the military power of Russia or throw their country into civil war in an effort to regain their independence.

The severance of diplomatic relations was accomplished about 10 a. m. central war time today when Alexander Thesleff, the Finnish charge d'affaires, arrived at the office of George T. Summerlin in the State department. Summerlin, special assistant to Secretary Hull, handed Thesleff his passport and a letter from Hull announcing the break.

Swiss To Take Over

Meanwhile, in Helsinki, Edmund Guillion, the American charge d'affaires, had received instructions to request passports for himself and the five members of his staff and members of their families. The Swiss government was requested to assume protection of American interests.

Hull's letter declared that the Finnish government had "entered a hard and fast military partnership with Nazi Germany irrevocable throughout the war for the purpose of fighting the Allies of the United States, in alliance with the enemies of the United States."

About ten days ago, reports began coming through of moves for the secret formation of a peace government at Helsinki backed by representatives of the country's three parties, Social-Democrat, Progressive and the Swedish People's party.

Coup Almost Succeeded

The coup to place it in power almost came off. Just why it failed remains a mystery outside of Helsinki.

Finnish-United States friendship has been traditional since the country attained independence at the end of the first World war. But on June 16 the State department announced that the minister, Hjalmar J. Procope and three of his councillors had been handed their passports because of activities "inimical to the interests of the United States." It was specifically stated then that there was no rupture in relations.

Procope and two of the councillors left last week. Mrs. Procope, expecting another child, remains here with her children and so do Mr. and Mrs. Urho Toivola, because of Mrs. Toivola's serious illness."

NEW SERVICE BAR

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—A service bar was authorized for Army men today to indicate each six-month period of service overseas. A similar decoration was used in World war No. 1. The bar is in addition to ribbons designating service in individual theaters.

NAZI BARRIERS IN NORTH ITALY—Nazis in Italy broke and ran again Friday before the powerful smashes of the American Fifth Army, and the Yanks were less than 20 miles from Leghorn. Also expected to fall any time was Siena, only 30 miles below Florence, central anchor on the noted Rubicon line, first major Nazi barrier in north Italy. Shaded line farther north is the Po River line, strongest natural defense south of the Alps.

Battered Nazis In Italy Take Flight

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

ROME, June 30 — The Allied war machine rolled forward tonight on a 100-mile front from the Tyrrhenian sea to beyond Lake Trasimeno, with the battered Nazis in full flight before Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Americans on the extreme left wing.

Despairing of fighting even an effective delaying action, the Germans broke off contact along Highway 1 skirting the west coast and fled before the wall of Yank armor, which plunged on within less than 20 miles of Livorno (Leghorn) and within 27 miles of Pisa, anchor of the enemy's "Gothic" line defending the valley of the Po.

The fall of Siena 31 miles below Florence, was believed imminent. American armor and infantry punched to within seven miles of the city from the southwest and threw a tank column almost due west of its outskirts, threatening to flank any Germans trying to make a house-to-house fight in Siena. French colonials were only 10 miles from the city on the southeast.

Farther inland the British Eighth Army, again ploughing

Saipan Invasion Costs New High In U. S. Casualties

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, June 30.—Americans battling on Saipan have paid the highest price so far in the Pacific—9,752 killed, wounded and missing in two weeks — for one-half of a small but highly important island of the Marianas.

The grim figures, announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, were: dead, 1,474; wounded, 7,400; missing, 878.

The total was far more than double that at bloody Tarawa in the Gilberts last November, when 3,583 Americans were killed or wounded in 76 hours.

Doubled Guadalcanal

It more than doubled the losses on Guadalcanal in six months of warfare—3,767.

Enemy losses in the bitter fighting that has wrested half of rugged Saipan from the Japanese also have been heavy. Nimitz said no accurate estimate was possible but 4,951 Japanese dead already had been buried. Many dead or wounded had been removed by the Japanese as they retreated.

As at Tarawa, which up to that time was the most costly victory in Marine corps history — the losses on Saipan were heaviest among the Marine assault force. The total, covering the period from the invasion June 14 through last Wednesday, included 1,289 killed in action. At Tarawa 988 Marines lost their lives.

Army dead on Saipan totaled 185.

The wounded included 6,377 Marines and 1,023 Army men. Missing were 827 Marines and 51 Army men.

New Gains Scored

Despite difficult terrain and intensified resistance, American ground forces scored new gains at the center of the island-wide battleline and on the eastern or right flank. Nimitz reported a dominating position had been occupied near the small mountain town of Charan Danshii, on the eastern end of the front.

Enemy strong points in the Tanapag harbor area on the western side were being pounded steadily by carrier planes and warships. The final showdown battle for the island may occur in that area north of Garapan.

Neutralizing bombardments continued against Tinian and Rota islands, to the south, and against enemy bases in the distant Caroline and Marshall island groups.

Jap Poison Gas Use Is Charged

CHUNGKING, June 30. (AP) — The vital rail junction of Hengyang is encircled by three Japanese divisions but still is in Chinese hands, a Chinese Army spokesman said in a press conference today, and he reiterated charges that the enemy was using poison gas against the defenders of the city, loss of which would remove the last major Chinese position along the entire length of the Canton-Hankow railway.

(The Tokyo radio broadcast a dispatch of Domei, Japanese agency, dated yesterday "in the suburbs of Hengyang," telling of the fall of the American air base in the area last Monday. This was admitted yesterday in a communique of Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's headquarters.

City Said In Flames

(Another Tokyo broadcast said the city of Hengyang was in flames since Wednesday, and that reduction of the junction had reached a climax with fighting in the streets.)

Maj. Gen. C. C. Tseng said that captured field orders showed that a Japanese column which tried to bypass Hengyang on the east had as its objective the railway town of Leiyang, about 35 miles southsoutheast of Hengyang. He said this column was halted north of Anjen, 38 miles east-southeast of Hengyang.

Probable Jap Move

Gen. Tseng admitted the probability that the Japanese, if they occupied Hengyang completely, probably would strike southwest toward Kweilin, provisional capital of Kwangsi province, and south toward the Canton area in Kwangtung province, to complete the conquest of the Canton-Hankow railway.

Tonight's Chinese communique said only that "sanguinary fighting" was continuing on all sides of Hengyang throughout yesterday and today, with heavy losses on both sides, and that heavy fighting also raged on both the east and west banks of the Siang river, without any change.

31ST NAZI DOWNED

LONDON, June 30. (AP)—Wing Commander Johnny Johnson, British Spitfire pilot, shot down his 31st German plane today over Normandy to become the leading Allied fighter ace in this theater. He commands a Canadian wing based in Normandy.

Heavies Lash Nazis Moving To Normandy

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Saturday, July 1. — Allied heavy and medium bombers struck at German installations in a wide arc around the Normandy battle zone throughout Friday, flying 3,000 sorties from dawn to dusk in which they dumped most of their explosives on targets whose destruction would halt the movement of Nazi reinforcements.

The weather, which limited air activity over the fighting front all week, improved enough to permit stepping up the offensive, but it still was far below the daily average since D-day.

21 Nazis Downed

German fighters offered only spotty resistance, but 21 were downed by the Allied pilots—17 by the RAF fliers who operated from bases in Normandy.

An indication that Allied bombers were slashing deeper into the continent by night came from the German radio. A program was interrupted at 12:30 a. m. (5:30 p. m. Friday, and an announcer said enemy planes were approaching northwest and western Germany.

RAF heavies were out three times, making two attacks on flying bomb launching platforms and an assault on armor and troops near Villers Bocage. In an evening attack beginning shortly after 8 p. m. and lasting only 12 minutes, Lancasters and Halifaxes descended below 4,000 feet to drop a terrific concentration of explosives on the enemy a few miles from the firing lines.

Airfields Smashed

American Liberators and Flying Fortresses, 250 strong, escorted by a like number of Mustang fighters, roared through clouds to smash 750 tons of bombs against three airfields in northern France and one in Belgium, in a continuation of the campaign to drive the German air force even farther away from the battle area, and not a single German fighter was met. All the planes returned safely.

The RAF in the forenoon sent Lancaster bombers to plaster the launching ramps for Nazi rocket-bombs, as the robot planes were hurled throughout the day at southern England, opening the third week of these attacks. None of the Lancasters was lost, but one escorting Spitfire failed to return.

Tactical Support

In their second mission of the day the RAF turned to tactical support of ground units driving west of Caen, and then, late in the evening still another formation of British heavies attacked a large concentration of German armor in the west flank of the Caen sailent. A SHAEF spokesman said the target was of "immediate tactical important."

(The Hungarian news agency MTI said in a dispatch to the Hungarian press that "several hundred enemy aircraft" had bombed greater Budapest early this morning and raided the town of Kapsovar in Trans-Danubia. The agency said the planes attacked in three waves, and added the claim that German and Hungarian fighters had shot down several of the attacking craft, forcing the formation to turn back. The dispatch was reported by U. S. government monitors.)

The German radio reported the Italian-based Allied planes had

Caen Battle Rises In Fury

Nazi Pull In All Reserves But British Smash Forward

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, Saturday, July 1.—A great armored battle raged south of Caen last night as the British drove on toward the Orne river and the Germans threw in veteran troops as fast as they reached the front in a reckless attempt to stop the Allied advance.

A supreme headquarters communique said the Allied drive pressing the Germans back toward the Orne had "Compelled the enemy to throw in strong armored reserves." Front line dispatches said that these included every armored division the Germans have in Normandy, and that among the troops were veterans of the war in Russia.

"In spite of repeated counterattacks by these formations," the communique declared, "our positions not only have been held but were improved."

Enemy Lines Strafed

As clouds lifted over the flaming battle front, Allied warplanes bombed and strafed enemy positions and communications and by mid-afternoon had made 1,000 individual flights.

(German broadcasts said a U. S. tank division had entered the battle southwest of Caen, that U. S. troops north of St. Lo—far to the west—had dented the German lines and that a "new large-scale American offensive is imminent.")

The British steadily widened their bridgehead across the Odon river and were within 11 miles of having Caen encircled. It was probable that Allied artillery now commanded the last four German-held roads into that communications hub.

Reckless Use Of Reserves

A British officer described as "reckless" the use of German reserves piecemeal as soon as they reached the front, and said the enemy now was putting the most desperate defense U. S. troops cut the Cherbourg peninsula.

(DNB, the German news agency, said that Gavrus, on the right flank of Allied positions below the Odon, had been recaptured by the Germans.)

At stake in the battle for Caen was access to the open country to the south which would permit the Allies to employ their superior armor more freely.

The costly Nazi counterattacks on the southwest front showed the German high command's concern. At one time the enemy drove a wedge one mile into the base of the Allied positions, but the attack was broken by a storm of artillery fire. The British then swept back and widened their salient.

With the initiative still firmly in his hands, Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery then struck both east, directly toward Caen, and

Argentine Aids Blacklist Firms

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Information from official sources that the Argentine government has been giving direct aid to Nazi firms on the United States blacklist boosted the freezing of Argentine funds to top spot tonight in discussions of what may be done next to express disapproval of the course Argentina has taken.

The Treasury is known to have the machinery ready for blocking the funds, awaiting only the order to put it in motion.

Prosper In Country

Blacklisted firms have prospered in Argentina in many cases, officials said, because Argentina has failed to apply measures taken in all the other hemisphere republics and because the Argentine government has supported those firms.

Since the blacklist has been extremely effective against Axis companies in the other countries, the Germans use their Argentine branches to collect profits, send aid and information and keep Nazi firms going in the rest of the hemisphere, it was disclosed.

Following examples of Argentine support to blacklisted firms were cited:

1. The Argentine Navy placed a contract for 100 radios with Siemens-Schuckert, a blacklisted contracting firm, and obtained for this company an American-made radio to use as a model.

Sought Newsprint

2. The Argentine government attempted to obtain newsprint from this country for Nazi-subsidized newspapers and when that failed, ordered domestic paper producers to turn to the manufacture of newsprint for them.

3. The Argentine government obtained by its own purchase steel from this country which it turned over to German contracting firms.

At the Rio De Janeiro conference in January, 1942, and later that year at a special meeting in Washington, Argentina agreed with the 20 other American republics to take necessary steps against Axis aggression, including economic warfare, in this hemisphere.

"Minister" Fails To Gain Army Release

DALLAS, June 30. (AP)—George M. Mayborn, 21 year bespectacled member of a religious sect from Oregon, today failed in federal court to gain release from the Army at Camp Barkeley, Abilene, on the ground that he was illegally inducted.

Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson denied the youth's plea for a writ of habeas corpus after hearing his story and the testimony of four officers and three enlisted men from Camp Barkeley.

Mayborn contended that his Rosenburg, Ore., draft board wrongfully declined to classify him as a minister and that he was illegally and forceably inducted into the Army after refusing to take the army oath.

Judge Davidson ruled that the Oregon draft board acted legally in classfying Mayborn and that it was within the discretion of he Army to waive his taking of the oath.

Brownell Named GOP Chairman

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, June 30.—The team of Thomas E. Dewey and Herbert Brownell, jr., went into action officially tonight in an attempt to enlarge its feat of winning the New York governorship into a presidential victory.

With a smoothness that sustained Governor Dewey's assertions that unusual harmony prevails in the party, the Republican national committee unanimously elected the 40-year-old Brownell, who managed Dewey's 1942 gubernatorial campaign, as its chairman.

Returning To Albany

Winding up two days of intensive conferences with party leaders, Dewey prepared to take a train tonight for Albany. Accompanying him were Mrs. Dewey, Brownell, J. Russell Sprague, New York national committeeman; Edwin F. Jaecko, state chairman, and about 30 reporters and photographers.

Appearing before the national committee, Dewey pledged "a gigantic effort in this campaign toward the saving of the republic and the winning of the war."

He told members, who helped nominate him Wednesday, that they could expect "all the busy propaganda agencies of the national government to direct their efforts toward a division of our party."

"You may be sure they are experts on division," he said. "They have been creating the impres-

New Price And Wage Control Plan To Take Effect Today

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP) — Government officials worked late tonight preparing scores of changes directed in new price control and wage stabilization legislation effective tomorrow, with indications that not all the revisions can be made on time.

The deadline was emphasized as President Roosevelt signed into law the bill embracing the changes, which extends price control and wage stabilization one year, to July 1, 1945.

An OPA spokesman said that only the amendment providing for adjustment of textile prices had named a specific deadline for the revisions ordered.

The textile-cotton amendment directs the adjustment of ceiling prices on "major" textile items to reflect parity for raw cotton.

OPA officials were in the second day of a meeting with cotton industry executives to try to reach an agreement as to which are "major items," and what pricing formulas should be used.

Another amendment provides that the administration shall take steps to maintain the prices of all basic agricultural commodities, as well as prices of others where growers were encouraged to increase production, to reflect to producers either the current price or the highest average price during the first nine months of 1942.

Under a preliminary interpretation, an Agriculture department spokesman said this would require action raising the price of wheat, cotton, eggs, peanuts and possible

Ration Lifted From Tubes, Tire Allocations Increase

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The Office of Price administration, in a move to conserve tires, today abolished all rationing restrictions on inner tubes, which have been rationed since January, 1942.

The OPA, announcing at the same time that passenger tire allocations for July and August will be 50,000 a month above the June quota, reported that the inner tube stockpile has grown enough to meet the anticipated future demand for 1,500,000 tubes a month.

OPA emphasized that available tires will continue to trail far behind demand and pointed out that by making new inner tubes more readily obtainable it hopes to dimish tire wear. A good tube properly inflated, officials explained, will extend the life of a tire.

OPA announced that the office of rubber director allocated 1,950,000 new passenger tires (grade D for July and the same amount for August, an increase of 50,000 tires each month over the June allocation.

Estimating that conditions would prevent "A" gasoline card drivers from receiving tires until early next year, Deputy OPA Administrator Charles F. Phillips said:

"It will not be possible for some time to bring tire supply in line with the demand. It will take more time than we originally thought to supply 'B' card motorists."

OPA reported that about 733,000 unfilled tire applications from

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

(Here is a column of news notes for you to send to someone in the armed services who does not subscribe to the paper.)

DEAR:—

This has been a week filled with news of political and military significance. Downtown talk of the day has been concerned chiefly with the Republican convention.

Judge Alton B. Chapman of the 110th judicial district of Floydada has promised a formal statement today in regard to his telegraphed instructions to county Democratic executive committee chairmen to withhold his name from the July 22 general primary election as a candidate for the state senate.

It was deemed probable that his action, also announced in a brief telegram Friday to Avalanche-Journal publications, hinged on the Texas Supreme court's action last Saturday in holding unconstitutional a recent act of the legislature providing in substance that "administrative and judicial" officers were expected from statutory provisions making it mandatory that persons holding a four-year term of office, the terms of which they seek election or appointment commenced would have to resign their present office.

Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer at Lubbock Army Air field since March 1943, has been transferred to the staff of the Central Flying Training command, San Antonio. His successor, Col. Howell M. Estes, jr., has reported to the post.

Col. Estes has been c. o. at Waco Army Flying field for two months. He is 30 years old, a graduate of United States Military academy, West Point, N. Y., and originally was a cavalryman. Married, he is the father of two small sons.

Col. Estes' father, Col. Howell M. Estes, sr., commands Fort Evans, Mass. He, too, is a graduate of West Point.

Speaking of West Pointers, Lt. Bill Jones, as slim and handsome an officer as ever called Lubbock home and who was graduated from there recently, and Billy Wright, a cadet, are visiting their families and friends here. Lt. Jones is to report to Fort Benning, Ga.

Farewells are being said to Rabbi Isadore Garsek of the Congregation Shaareth Israel who has been appointed chaplain, first lieutenant, in the U. S. Army and is to report to Harvard July 14 to attend the commandant chaplain school. He will be content anywhere he is sent, he said, but is hoping for overseas duties.

Three officers have been transferred from South Plains Army Air field after having served at that base since 1942, year the post was established. They are Maj. Dudley Berwick, transferred to Orlando, Fla.; Maj. Fred Carson, to Bolling field, Washington, D. C., and Capt. Frank Corwin, to Greensboro, N. C.

Tech college directors met in Fort Worth Tuesday but failed to name a successor to President Clifford B. Jones. However, Chas. C. Thompson of Colorado City, board chairman, said he and other members of the directorate hope to be able to name the new president within a week or ten days.

Many Lubbock business establishments will be closed from closing time Saturday until Wednesday morning. These will include banks, the First Federal Savings and Loan association, most county offices and more than 50 member firms of the Retail Merchants association.

The possibility of resuming the Panhandle-South Plains fair next fall was discussed at a meeting of directors of the fair association Thursday afternoon at City hall and it was decided to cancel plans. This will be the third consecutive season there has been no fair here. Principal reasons for the action were shortage of all sorts of manpowar essential to carrying on the fair; lack of time for farmers to prepare and bring in exhibits and tire and gasoline prohibitions.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Scarbrough have received word from the war department their son, 2nd Lt. Milton G. Scarbrough, who has been reported missing in action since April 24, is a war prisoner of the German government. He is a fighter pilot.

Lt. Clyde L. Jones, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde L. Jones, has been reported as missing in action in the European theater. He had five planes downed to his credit. Jones was pilot of a P-38.

Lt. Chas. L. Snure, former Tech student and member of Jack York's orchestra, has been reported as missing in action over Yugoslavia. He was a bombardier and had been in Italy only four days when he went on a mission and did not return.

Visitors to Lubbock Friday included Henry Frnka and Buddy Brothers of the coaching staff of Tulsa university.

That's all this week.

Good luck to you.

Life, Early Career Of Mrs. Dewey Is Told By Writer

BY JASMINE HATCHETT
United Press Staff Correspondent

SAPULPA, Okla., June 30. (U.P.)—Sapulpa remembers Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey, who the Republicans hope will be the nation's next first lady, as an attractive, intelligent but reticent girl with a marvelous mezzo-soprano voice.

When Frances Eileen Hutt, now the wife of he GOP presidential nominee, moved to Sapulpa in 1914 from Sherman, Tex., she was almost a veteran, though only 11 years old.

She began singing at church ice cream socials and other civic gatherings in the Texas city several years earlier. She was a popular entertainer at school and other entertainments here.

Meets Dewey

It was her music that led to her meeting with Dewey, now the governor of New York but then an ambitious young man trying to become an opera singer. After graduation from high school, where she was valedictorian of her senior class, Miss Hutt went to Chicago and New York to pursue her music aspirations.

She was studying with Percy Stephens rector in New York at the time she met Dewey. They found mutual interests in music, and were married in 1928.

But before her marrige, Miss Hutt became one of the most promising mezzo-sopranos in popular musical shows of that period. She had some outstanding roles in broadway musicals.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Hutt, are proud of their daughter's music career. Hutt is quick to explain:

"Frances rose to the top on her voice. She wore just as many clothes on the stage as she wears now."

Mrs. Dewey has been back in Sapulpa infrequently since her marriage to the racket-busting one-time prosecutor. The last time was in 1940. She has devoted full-time to her home and two sons, John Martin, 8, and Thomas Edmund, jr., 11.

Are Publicity Shy

The Hutts, like their daughter, shy from publicity. They still live in the neat frame cottage they purchased when they came to Sapulpa in 1914. Hutt, a retired railroad employe, painted the home himself last year, and installed a new-type living room ceiling, to which he points with pride.

Mrs. Dewey's parents retain their deep-grained interest in music. When they visit their daughter and famous son-in-law in New York, they always form a quartet for a songfest.

The Hutts were guests at the Republican national convention which closed at Chicago Wednesday night. He was a delegate from his home county to the state party convention at Oklahoma City last April, and received a celebrity's ovation.

Even if the Deweys move to the White House next January, her parents plan to continue making their home here.

"No other place could seem like home to us," says Mrs. Hutt. "We'll never be too big to live in Sapulpa."

Details Of Sinking In 1942 Announced

HALIFAX, N. S., June 30. (A.P.)—The U. S. destroyer Ingraham, which went down as the result of a collision in a fog near the Canadian coast in 1942, sank in 25 seconds and only a handful of the more than 200 men aboard the smart new craft survived.

Censorship today permitted publication of this information. The sinking was announced in Washington Aug. 27, 1942, without detail.

Torn by explosions from her own munitions, the 1,600-ton Ingraham went down in one of the swiftest sinkings in maritime records.

The collision occurred not far off Halifax as the Ingraham was escorting a convoy.

All-Time Record Set For Sheep Receipts

FORT WORTH, June 30. (A.P.)—Sheep and lamb receipts at the Fort Worth livestock market today were estimated at 14,500 to push the month's total to 659,912, compared with 605,432 the previous month.

The June total is an all-time record.

Prices at the end of June were down on all ages and grades of sheep. Spring lambs that topped at 14.00 at the end of May were quoted Friday at rates $2 and $2.50 lower; shorn lambs were down $2 to $3 compared with the May 31 prices when they topped at 13.00. Shorn ewes and aged wethers sold Friday at prices $1.25 to $3.00 below the May 31 rates when the top was $6.25.

Sen. Pepper States South Being "Used"

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 30. (A.P.)—Warning that a split in the Democratic party would mean "the certain election of a Republican," Sen. Claude Pepper (D-Fla) charged here last night that "the South is being made the football of selfish and sinister forces."

The senator spoke at the 16th annual banquet of the association of county commissioners and probate judges of Alabama.

Pepper declared that the "Texas revolt" . . . is merely an attempt to disenfranchise a large number of votes" and that "one of the leading forces in the attempt to defile the Democratic traditions in Texas is an ex-congressman, a defeated Republican from the North . . . working closely with a group of northern capitalists within the Republican party."

GOP Plank Seen As Curbing Demo Revolt

WASHINGTON, June 30. (U.P.)—The anti-poll tax and anti-lynch law recommendations made by the Republicans in their 1944 platform will go a long way toward halting the anti-Roosevelt revolt by some southern Democrats, Rep. Robert Ramspeck of Georgia, House Democratic whip, predicted today.

He said those two GOP proposals, plus the endorsement of a permanent fair employment practice committee, proved that the Republicans at Chicago offered the South "exactly nothing." It is now clear, he added, that the chief hope of settling the South's racial problems lies with the Democratic party.

The Democratic organizations of Texas, Mississippi and South Carolina have all warned the Democratic national convention in advance that any attempt to adopt a racial equality plank would force them to vote against the Democratic nominee in the electoral college.

This might prevent any candidate from getting a clear majority of electoral votes. In such a case, the constitution provides that the House shall decide the victor.

"Throwing the election into the House would only benefit the Republican party," Ramspeck declared. He predicted that as the campaign progressed the southern "revolt" would "disintegrate of its own accord."

APPOINTMENT CONFIRMED

AUSTIN, June 30. (U.P.) — Appointment of Hall Logan to be director of the Texas post war planning commission until Oct. 1 was confirmed by the executive committee of the commission in a session here today. Chairman Gibb Gilchrist was authorized to select committees, personnel of which will be announced later from A&M college.

MORE WHISKY AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, June 30. (U.P.)—The War Production board today authorized 13 industrial alcohol manufacturers to divert up to half of their August production to beverage purposes, adding an estimated 10,000,000 gallons to the nearly 50,000,000 gallons of whisky expected to flow from distilleries this summer.

Dedication Set On Denison Dam

By WALTER P. BOSWELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

DENISON, June 30.—A three-mile-long earthen barrier across the Red river between Texas and Oklahoma—the Denison dam—begins officially with dedication ceremonies tomorrow its dual function of flood control and hydro-electric production.

Ceremonies start at 9:30 a. m. (cwt). The principal address will be delivered by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas at noon. Speakers include the Army's chief of engineers; and six members in Congress of both Texas and Oklahoma.

Congress authorized teh $54,000,000 structure and the Army engineers built it. There is an estimate that from it will accrue benefits of $2,805,000 annually in $1,600,000 savings from floods in parts of four states from Denison to Alexandria, La., and $1,205,000 income from power sales and savings in rates.

Other Aids Cited

To that estimate prophets add for the immediate area about the dam industries seeking power or an abundance of water; development of a huge recreational area based on a reservoir of 145,000 acres, and the possibility that something may come of the House of Representative's request that Army engineers renew studies on creation of a navigable stream from Denison to Fulton, Ark.

Among those present to hear the addresses will be residents of the two-state area about the dam to which its construction brought a boom; representatives of the governors of Texas and Oklahoma; a number of district Army engineers and other Army officers; the mayors of at least seven cities, and many county and state officials from the states.

A welcome address will be given by Mayor W. L. Ashburn of Denison. Then in order will speak Major Gen. Eugene Reybold of Washington, chief of Army engineers; Milam E. Ewing, representing the Red River Valley Development association, Madill, Okla.; Reps. Ed Gossett and Wright Patman of Texas; Rep. Paul Stewart of Oklahoma; Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, and Rayburn.

Radio station KRRV of Denison and Sherman will carry the whole program; Texas Quality network will broadcast it from 10 to 10:30 a. m., and KRLD, Dallas, from 12 noon to 12:30.

A 35,000 kilowatt generator has been installed in the dam's powerhouse and tested. Power produced will be fed into transmission systems of the Texas Power & Light company and the Oklahoma Gas & Electric company under contracts between these companies and the Southwest Power administration.

Although it is the largest rolled-earth dam in the world and the fourth largest American-built earthen dam, enough concrete was used in the project to construct 240 miles of highways.

Twenty-seven miles of railroads, 16 miles of highways, 43 miles of communications and transmission lines, and five miles of pipelines were relocated. The government acquired 187,500 acres of land for the project; moved the towns of Aylesworth, Woodville, Powell, and Isom Springs in Oklahoma, and Hagerman, Tex., to higher ground; about 2,000 graves were relocated, and dykes and channels built in the reservoir area to protect the Cumberland oil field in Bryan, Marshall, and Johnston counties, Oklahoma.

Up Red river the reservoir will extend 80 miles; up the Washita river in Oklahoma the northern arm will extend 60 miles. At spillway level the reservoir will have a shoreline of 1,600 miles.

Portions of Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Louisiana will receive flood protection benefits. Engineers estimated that effects of late spring floods this year were mitigated by the dam.

The National Park service is working on plans for the recreational area, with present proposals for such things as boating, swimming, and picnicing, and postwar plans which include resort hotels.

Byt the end of the year more than 11,000,000 fish will have been placed in the reservoir by Texas, Oklahoma, and federal agencies.

Five-Month Traffic Toll Reaches 9,400

CHICAGO, June 30. (A.P.)—War time traffic in the United States took a toll of 9,400 lives in the first five months of 1944, the National Safety council said today, an increase of 11 per cent—about 1,000 lives—over the corresponding period of 1943.

Increased motor vehicle travel was responsible for part of the growing traffic toll, the council said, adding that motor vehicle mileage was up 6 per cent in the first four months this year, compared with the same period a year ago.

Of 41 states which reported statistics for the first five months of 1944, increased fatalities were shown in 30, decreases in nine and no change in two states.

Safety leaders in each population group, and their death rate per 100,000 due to traffic included: 25,000-50,000 population, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Nazis Seize Medical Aid Tent, Brutally Slay Wounded And Ill

By LEONARD MOSLEY
War Correspondent for British Kemsley Newspapers
(Distributed By The United Press)

WITH THE BRITISH 6TH AIRBORNE DIVISION IN NORMANDY, June 29. (Delayed)—This is the story of one of the most brutal actions perpetrated by the Nazis against British troops in Normandy—the story of how German soldiers broke into a medical aid post of killed and wounded in the Orne valley on D-day, killed the helpless men and then murdered the padre, George Edward Maule Parry of the Sixth Airborne division, who tried to defend them.

Parry, 29, formerly of St. Johns, Leytonstone, and Emmanuel church, Forest Gate, was killed by knife and bayonet.

Details Pieced Together

Here are the details of the Nazi murder raid on the wounded as far as could be pieced together for me by the officers and men of the Sixth Airborne division to which I was attached.

The parachute division was given the job early on D-day of dropping by parachute and capturing intact the vital bridges spanning the river Orne and the Caen canal. Parry dropped with them. Soon all were engaged in defending themselves against some of the most bitter and determined Nazi counter-attacks of the invasion.

Hearing that "A" company of the battalion holding defenses in the perimeter along the west side of the canal near Le Port village was in sore straits and aid for the wounded badly needed, Parry went to join them through the darkness. Not long after he arrived, Nazi forces infiltrated between the company and the rest of the battalion, cutting them off from all help.

Commander Badly Hurt

Soon after dawn a Panther tank and a self-propelled gun opened fire on them taking a heavy toll of men. "A" company's commander was so badly wounded that he carried on the direction of the battle from a stretcher. All efforts to get help from the rest of the battalion failed and many died trying to get through.

Then after one attack the enemy broke "A" company's line at one point penetrating sufficiently to reach the medical aid post where Parry was working on the wounded. Those near enough to see what happened say that the Nazi troops who seemed to be in a completely frenzied condition set upon the wounded, shooting and bayoneting them.

Bayonets And Knives

Parry immediately went to the aid of the helpless Britons lying on the dressing station floor. He protested vehemently against the murder of the helpless paratroopers and then, when this was ignored by the enraged Germans, he is believed to have tried physical intervention, putting himself between the Nazis and the wounded troops. He was then charged by the enemy and in the following struggle the Nazis use bayonets and knives and Parry was cut down. He fell beside the men he tried to save.

Owing to the desperate situation prevailing it was impossible for anyone in "A" company to aid him or their comrades and for several hours the medical post was in no man's land. Later the company's second in command managed to reach the battalion headquarters to tell the story. Despite a wounded shoulder he crawled through the gardens of the shell-wrecked houses of Le Port and dodged through the Nazi lines until he reached a bridge. There he refused to have his wound dressed but asked for a patrol and immediately returned to his company, fighting the whole way back.

It was this patrol which recaptured and occupied the medical post. They found all the occupants dead, with Parry lying beside them. Then, with this small reinforcement, "A" company held off the subsequent Nazi attacks until the late evening when troops from the beaches fought their way through and relieved them.

Parry was immensely popular and the news of his death and the way he died sent a wave of fury and indignation through the whole division. The paratroopers had been fighting magnificently but fought even more finely after that. I was with the men during many hours of D-day watching their successful battle to hold a bridge, and I know how deeply they felt the loss of the man who had dropped with them in the dangerous darkness of the night before. I don't think there was a man in the whole battalion who didn't fight that day to avenge Parry's death.

Dysentery, Measles Reported On Increase

AUSTIN, June 30. (U.P.)—The state health department today reported 481 cases of dysentery in Texas during the week ended June 24 to the seven-year median of 190.

Measles continued on the upward trend with 842 new patients reported to the median of 196.

Sudan Man, Victim Of Wreck, Buried Friday

SUDAN, June 30. (Special) — Funeral services for Doyle C. Morrow, about 40, local wholesale oil company agent who was fatally injured in an automobile accident south of Muleshoe Wednesday, were held at 10 a. m. Friday in the Sudan Methodist church with the pastor officiating.

Burial was in the San Angelo cemetery at 6:30 p. m. Friday under the direction of Hammonds Funeral home, Littlefield.

The accident occurred about five miles south of Needmore about 4 o'clock and he was immediately taken to a Muleshoe hospital for treatment. Mr. Morrow died at 8:25 p. m. as a result of concussion of the brain. It was presumed that the car he was driving went out of control on a curve and turned over several times. No other car was involved in the accident.

Doyle Morrow had been in the tractor implement business in Sudan since 1932. He became agent for a local wholesale oil company in 1936 and in December, 1943 became associated with Shorty Davis in an implement concern in Muleshoe.

He was inducted into the Army in September, 1943, was sent to Fort Sill, Okla., for basic training, then to Denver, Colo. He was honorably discharged from the service at Baton Rouge, La., in April, 1944, when service men over 38 years old were released.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Elsie Morrow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Morrow of San Angelo and a brother, B. L. Morrow, also of San Angelo.

Permit Issued For Apartment Building

The city's 1944 building permit total was boosted to $344,452 Friday by issuance of permits for a 12-unit brick and tile apartment house at Tenth street and Avenue R and for a four-room addition to Sanders school.

Both permits were issued to Guy Gilstrap as owner-contractor of the apartment house and as contractor for the school addition. Cost of the apartment building, as shown on the permit, is $46,450 and for the Sanders addition, $14,580.

Authorization for the apartment house was given under a War Production board order which approved construction of 50 additional living units in Lubbock. The permit is the first to follow that order, which was issued several months ago.

The Sanders addition was included in a school expansion program approved recently by city trustees. Contracts also have been awarded for an addition to Dunbar negro school and for a new elementary building in Northwest Lubbock, but building permits have not been asked for these.

Confusion Caused By Unannounced Closing

Hundreds of Lubbock county citizens went to the county War Price and Rationing board here Friday only to find the office closed for the day. Officials said the board had closed its doors for the purpose of taking inventory at the close of the government's fiscal year. The board will open again this morning, however.

Much confusion was caused when officials of the board failed to publicize the fact that the board would not be open during the day. Many were under the impression that today was the last day on which to apply for home-canning sugar, but Frank Ford, chief clerk of the board office, announced this afternoon that applications for the full amount of canning sugar would be received until Dec. 1, 1944. A new directive to this effect was received by the board Thursday.

Plant Work Halted By Labor Shortage

With only one of its crew of negro laborers reporting for work, the Plains Compress and Warehouse company, located southeast of the city, could not operate Friday, according to a report to the U. S. Employment service.

The other five to seven laborers who have been employed at the plant quit because they can make more money doing yard work, said the report. Furthermore, information continued, usually there is no withholding for income tax from a yard worker's pay.

The plant is operating under a government lend-lease contract, reports to the employment service said.

Officials said that the problem will be discussed with the local committee named here in connection with the priority employment referrals plan which is to be put into official national effect Saturday. No opinions were offered as to what action, if any, might be attempted.

Repeal Of Electoral College Considered

BONHAM, June 30. (AP)—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn, opening his congressional campaign here last night, said "the two-thirds rule in a convention does not mean as much to the South, the West and the small states as does the electoral college."

The Texan told a hometown audience on the courthouse plaza that "happenings of the past few weeks have caused serious proposals providing for repeal of the electoral college."

Rayburn represents the Fourth Texas congressional district.

"I would not run in a Democratic primary if I did not intend to vote in the general election for every Democratic nominee—in precinct, county, state and nation," he asserted.

Rayburn added he was optimistic as to the outcome of the national presidential election and predicted Democratic victory.

Earlier, in an interview, he said he considered the 1944 Republican platform "a collection of ambiguities which cannot appeal to the American people.

"The people of America want a bold and definite policy which is not couched in weasel words," he declared.

Capt. Vernon Turner Receives Silver Star

Mrs. Cora Jean Turner, 3003 Nineteenth street, received the Silver Star medal Friday morning from her husband, Capt. Vernon R. Turner, pilot of the P-47 "Thunderbolt" fighter-bomber "Cora Jean, II," who is stationed at an air base in England. The medal was awarded the captain in March for "gallantry in action."

Capt. Turner was recently promoted to the rank of captain and is now operations officer of his squadron. A graduate of the United States Military academy at West Point with the class of 1943, he has been overseas six months. During that time he has completed a number of missions and has brought down four enemy planes. He has 14 clusters to his Air Medal.

Before going to West Point, Capt. Turner attended Texas Tecnological college for two years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Turner of Levelland and is a graduate of Levelland High school.

Mrs. Turner is the former Cora Jean Watson, daugther of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Watson of 3003 Nineteenth street.

Citizens Urged To Do Own Thinking

BEAUMONT, June 30. (AP)—Secretary of State Sidney Latham of Texas, in an address delivered before the Young Men's Business league here last night, called upon citizens to do their own thinking and their own voting on the issues and principles as they see them.

On the subject of federal grants, Latham declared:

"For every dollar that has come to Texas from Washington, $1.25 has come out of our own pockets . . ."

Latham had this to say about perpetuity in office:

"When a man becomes overtaken by the viewpoint that his re-election is more important than the good of the state or nation, his value to that state or nation is destroyed. A man is worthy of your vote only if he has the ability and the moral backbone to do what he knows is best for the state or nation."

Texas Should Have Cash Balance Jan. 1

SAN ANTONIO, June 30. (AP)—Texas will be "out of the red and enjoy a cash balance by January 1 for the first time since I can remember," predicts State Comptroller George Sheppard.

Addressing a one-day conference of the South Texas County Judges and Commissioners association, Sheppard said yesterday that state revenues this year have exceeded expectations and added:

"If this holds up until October when ad valorem taxes start coming in, and if, as in the past, we obtain about 75 per cent of the ad valorem taxes in October, November and December, then we should have at least a small cash balance by the first of the year."

U. S. Aerial Victories Over Japs 5-1 Since Pearl Harbor

WASHINGTON, June 30. (U.P.)—The Navy revealed today that Army, Navy and Marine Corps fliers have destroyed at least 12,086 Japanese planes in the air or on the ground since Pearl Harbor at a loss of 2,726 American planes—a victory ratio of almost five to one.

Of the 12,086 enemy planes destroyed, the Navy said, Navy and Marine pilots accounted for 6,259 while their own losses were 1,277.

Figures To May 15

Army fliers destroyed 5,827—4,103 in the air and 1,724 on the ground — and probably destroyed another 1,409 in air combat, while their own losses were 1,449, of which 1,241 were suffered in the air and 208 on the ground.

The figures, covering the period from Dec. 7, 1941, to May 15, 1944, do not include enemy ground losses for 1942 or 1943, nor enemy losses to anti-aircraft fire.

The Navy noted significantly that 65 per cent of all its airmen shot down have been rescued.

Breakdown Is Given

It gave this breakdown of Naval air losses as against Japanese losses since the start of the Pacific war:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1942 (incl. Dec. 1941) | 1134 | 384 | 3 to 1 |
| 1943 | 2212 | 351 | 6.3 to 1 |
| 1944 (air) | 2175 | 525 | 4 to 1 |
| Total | 5521 | 1260 | 4.4 to 1 |
| 1944 (ground) | 738 | 17 | 43 to 1 |
| Grand total | 6259 | 1277 | 4.8 to 1 |

Rear Admiral A. W. Radford, acting deputy chief of naval operations (air) said the lop-sided ratio of ground losses in 1944—43 Japanese planes for every naval aircraft lost — was explained by the fact that U. S. Carrier task forces can surprise the Japanese and destroy their planes before they can rise to fight.

This has cut down the ratio of victories in the air, he said, because "fewer Japanese planes are available for air combat," while the enemy pilots that do come up are becoming "less and less anxious to close in with our pilots."

"This is more than compensated, however, by the 43 to 1 ground ratio," he added. "We don't care where they are when we destroy them."

Meanwhile, the War department reported that the U. S. 10th airforce in India during May dropped 2,000 tons of bombs on Japanese-held Burma and Thailand and destroyed 68 enemy planes, probably destroyed 16 more and damaged 48 others. American losses were one heavy bomber, four medium bombers and three fighters.

The 2,000 tons of bombs dropped, almost 500 tons more than in any previous month, destroyed, among other things, 35 bridges in enemy-held territory.

Congratulations Are Received From Stalin

WASHINGTON, June 30. (U.P.)—President Roosevelt today received congratulations from Premier Josef Stalin for the "brilliant" Allied liberation of the Normandy port of Cherbourg.

Mr. Roosevelt received similar messages from Stalin following the capture of Rome and the opening of the western European front in France. Stalin termed the latter the greatest military operation of all time.

The text of Stalin's message to the President as released by the White House follows:

"My warm congratulations go to you on the liberation of Cherbourg from the German usurpers. The valiant American and British troops are greeted by me on the occasion of their brilliant success."

Estate Of More Than Half Million Dollars Given To University

HOUSTON, June 30 (AP)—The University of Texas will receive an estimated $600,000 to $700,000 for cancer research under terms of the will of Miss Rosalie B. Hite, last survivor of a pioneer Texas family, who died Sunday.

Miss Hite, a lifelong Houston resident, bequeathed all her real estate, notes, bills receivable, bonds and stocks to the university to be used exclusively for research into the cause, prevention, treatment and cure of cancer.

The will was filed for probate yesterday.

Included among the real estate was Dallas property leased to the W. T. Grant company and California and Houston property. The bonds included $150,000 in government bonds.

If the university will not accept the bequest, she asked that some other college, university or institution be given the funds.

In the will written two days before her death Miss Hite said: "I do earnestly request that great care and attention be given to the administration of said bequest in order that the greatest benefit be obtained in said research for the purpose of alleviating human suffering from a dreadful disease which has caused much grief and sorrow."

Money Parley To Open Today

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Two special trainloads of master money mechanics headed northward tonight for tomorrow's opening of the United States monetary conference at Bretton Wood, N. H.

There in the seclusion of the White mountains resort country they will labor on the working model of an $8,000,000,000 machine designed to hold international financial transactions on an even keel after the war.

On their work benches, too, will be the rough blueprints for a $10,000,000,000 companion machine intended to stimulate the flow of long-term credit that will be needed to repair the ravages of war and speed the world's peacetime industrial development.

Will Only Recommend

Forty-four United and associated nations will be represented at the sessions, generally regarded in diplomatic quarters as second in importance only to the peace conference. Deliberations will be consultative only: each of the governments, including the United States, must act upon the recommendations.

Specifically, the proposals to be considered at Bretton Woods are for an international monetary fund designed to total $10,000,000,000 when it is opened to present neutral and enemy nations; and for a United States bank for reconstruction and development.

As a basis for monetary control, it is proposed to fix values related to gold for the moneys of all member countries. The monetary fund, by buying and selling foreign exchange (dollars, pounds, rubles, francs and the like), would aim to make available to each nation the right kind of cash for meeting the bills that arise from the differences between imports and exports.

Broad Outlines Drafted

Broad outlines for both projects have been drafted—those for the monetary fund by technical experts of more than 30 countries and for the world bank by United States Treasury technicians.

At stake under presently drawn plans is some $6,000,000,000 in American money — $2,500,000,000 for the monetary fund and $3,500,000,000 for the bank—double the ante of any other country.

TIMKEN WORKERS STRIKE

CANTON, O., June 30. (AP) — Four divisions of Timken Roller Bearing Co. were virtually shut down today as 9,000 of the 10,000 employes walked out in protest of what union leaders termed "a complete breakdown in labor relations."

Gov. Kerr Favored Griswold Or Stassen

OMAHA, June 30. (AP)—Democratic Governor Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma said today in an interview with the Omaha World-Herald that the Republican ticket would be stronger "if they had nominated either Griswold of Nebraska or Stassen of Minnesota."

Kerr, who said he is being considered for temporary chairman and keynote speaker for the Democratic convention in Chicago next month, stopped here en route to Denver from Minnesota where he said he has been working on his keynote address.

Kerr declared:

"This is no time for a green hand. Governor Dewey revealed his lack of knowledge of the Midwest at the governors' conference in Columbus last year, when he demanded that Midwest farmers ship their corn to New York dairy farms at the ceiling price of around $1.08 a bushel. He did this at a time when farmers out this way could get $1.60 a bushel out of their corn by feeding it to livestock."

Commenting on the refusal of Governor Warren of California to accept the Republican vice presidential nomination, Kerr told the World-Herald:

"He (Warren) was willing to sit in on the build-up but balked when they tried to shove him into the coffin."

St. Louis Browns Win In Series Final Over Yanks

The Browns made but five hits off rookie southpaw Joe Page, but one was a home run by Vern Stephens with one on, in the first inning. Stephens also made two others, both singles.

The league leaders scored their last run in the fourth, on singles by Stephens and Chet Laabs, an error by George Stirnweiss on Mark Christman's grounder and Milt Byrnes' double play grounder.

Page give up only four hits in the eight innings he worked, but as in five of his 13 previous starts, he couldn't get by the first inning unscathed. Jim Turner finished out, giving up the last St. Louis blow in the ninth.

Cards Salvage Last Game With Phillies

ST. LOUIS, June 30 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals batted from toeholds today, rapping two Philadelphia pitchers for seven doubles out of 13 hits and an 8-to-4 victory.

The slugging brought to an end 20 consecutive innings of play in which the Phillies had held the champions scoreless, and gave the Cardinals one game of their three-game series.

But the Phillies actually added three games to their victory column during the visit by finishing and winning one that was called at the end of seven innings to allow them to catch a train during their last series here.

Morton Cooper was credited with today's victory but he was removed at the start of the eighth inning with the score 5 to 3. "Blix" Donnelly finished.

The Phillies made 12 hits but only two were lustier than singles and they were fairly well scattered.

Segura, Texans Reach Finals

EVANSTON, Ill., June 30 (AP) The defending champions—frisky Francisco (Pancho) Segura of the University of Miami in the singles and the University of Texas in the doubles—today impressively stroked their respective ways into tomorrow's finals of the N. C. A. A. tennis tournament at Northwestern University.

Segura primed for his payoff meeting with Notre Dame's Charles Samson with a semi-final triumph over Frank Willett of Georgia Tech, 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

The Texas twosome of Johnny Hickman, who was a doubles finalist last year, and Felix Kelley, pushed aside the Notre Dame duo of Samson and Jerry Evert, 7-5, 6-2, 6-3, in their semi-final scrap today. The Texans tomorrow battle Nick Buzolich and Gary Ruby of George Pepperdine college for the doubles crown won last year by Hickman and Walt Driver.

Letters To The Editor From Readers

POLITICAL PLAYLET

Editor, The Avalanche: After waiting for a month for your interpretation of the "Democratic" convention, I have decided to give you my own version of the little drama—The Texas "Democratic" Convention or the Oil Hall Putsch.

This great production was arranged and financed by Uncle Joe Spew of the Sun Oil Co., directed by Wilbert O'Spaniel with a flour sack over his head, and staged in Standard Oil's branch office with the counsel and consent of C. Robot Stevens, Humble's Texas stable boy. Advisors and god-fathers of the show include J. Hog Jones, J. Ape Farkey, and J. Nasty Garnet.

Act I (Office of the Standard)

Spew: Boys, is it all arranged?

O'Spaniel: I have the house in order. I told you that I would do anything for a price, and I am ready for the curtain. Furthermore, I have a poem of my own composition.

Robot: To hell with your poetical belly-aches. You ain't on the air. Shall we arrange for any publicity on the show?

O'Spaniel: Yea, we could turn your newsmen over to the job. They haven't written anything in three years except that you have gone to the bath room daily, and returned clean—most of the time.

Spew: The publicity is in charge of the Houston Branch of the Christian Front. They'll cover the town with pamphlets. They hate Roosevelt with a green passion. Let's adjourn until after the show.

All: Ok, boss. We'll do anything you say. (Aside) For a price.

Spew: And shut up mumbling or I'll see that neither of you is re-elected.

Act II

(Texas' 3rd House, S.F.A. Hotel

Spew: Boys, that was a masterpiece if I ever saw one. Now the boys in Texas have two chances to vote for Dewey, and none to vote for Roosevelt.

Robot: But what about the people whon want to vote for Roosevelt? I'm afraid they'll raise hell.

Spew: Let 'em raise hell. This is a democracy, wasn't it? We had a majority at the convention, didn't we? How much did it cost me, O'Spaniel?

O'Spaniel: You got off cheap boss. My books show, 150,000 for spontaneous uprisings, 50,000 for liquor, 50,000 hush money and 30 cents to the free press. And, I have composed a poem.

Robot: Well, we'll listen to your poem, but if it has anything in it about that old gray-haired mother, I'll dial you out before you get ot the little brown Church in the Dale. Give me an aspirin before it starts.

O'Spaniel: Oh you silly-dillie stable boy. You don't know a radio aerial from a cedar fence post. My poem is titled "You can't vote wrong in Texas."

(Reads)

Oh beautiful, Beautiful Texas,
We run your political show,
You can vote Democratic or Republican,
But still for Dewey it will go.

You may vote in the towns or the cities,
Or out where the coyotes wail,
Still, you poor ham, it won't make a dam,
Spew has your state by the tail.

A disenfranchised Democrat.

Dictated By Past Events

REGARDLESS of the merits or demerits that may be contained in the Foreign Policy plank in the Republican platform, the man who should be least surprised because it does not incorporate the ideas of Wendell Willkie is Mr. Willkie himself.

It is true, of course, that Mr. Willkie made a vigorous fight in behalf of a plank of his designing. There can be no doubt as to the sincerity of his personal convictions in the matter. But it borders upon the remarkable if he had any real hopes that his efforts would succeed.

Mr. Willkie went before the platform-makers with virtually the same plank that he had urged while a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. As everyone will recall, Mr. Willkie predicated his candidacy upon his "One World" ideas. In the first popular test to which those ideas were subjected—in Wisconsin—they were repudiated so overwhelmingly that, within 48 hours, Mr. Willkie withdrew as a candidate. Yet it was these very same ideas that Mr. Willkie sought to have included in the platform of the Republican party. He asked the convention to do something which masses of the party had flatly declined to do when given their one and only opportunity—one apparently was enough for Mr. Willkie—to express themselves on the subject.

Whether the plank as finally adopted is for bad or good we do not pretend to know. But we do agree with expressions at the time the plank was adopted that American people are going to want their boys back home just as soon as possible after victory is won. We don't believe that many Americans would favor an exercise of force to maintain world peace which might mean that their fighting men could be kept for years in alien lands. Perhaps the implication is not true—but the implication still was made that a plank such as that favored by Mr. Willkie might mean that American men would be kept from their homelands for years to "enforce" the peace.

But, regardless of that, the Willkie ideas went out the window—which was the treatment to have been expected in view of popular expressions on the subject in pre-convention tests.

Finale For The WASP

FEW tears will be shed because of the Army Air Forces' announcement the other day that the WASP training program is to be discontinued. This accords with the emphatically indicated wish of Congress.

The actions do not reflect upon the contribution that members of the Women's Air Service Pilots have made to the war effort. But it is a reflection of poor judgment—almost stupid judgment—on the part of some of those who have tried to promote the interests of the WASPs. These admirers tried to get so much that they wound up by getting less than nothing. Because they focussed critical attention upon the women's unit by unreasonable demands, there soon won't be any WASPs at all.

These enthusiasts started out by trying to obtain congressional approval of a bill under which members of the WASP would have obtained easy Army commissions. From the beginning, congressional regard for the measure was something less than lukewarm. There were charges that the real motive behind the measure was an attempt in administration circles—with particular reference to Mrs. Roosevelt—to pin high Army insignia upon some very "dear friends."

But most of the fire was engendered by the attempt to award commissions to WASPs when no similar provision was made for civilian men pilots who were able to make an infinitely more valuable contribution to the war effort. These civilian pilots were the ones who took the very greenest of fledglings and gave them the very first training which helped them eventually to become the nation's crack warbirds on fighting fronts throughout the world. The injustice of such a maneuver was so obvious that congressional and popular reactions became extremely unfavorable to the WASP. Nor was the cause in behalf of the WASP help when an attempt was made, belatedly, to tie recognition of civilian pilots as a shirt-tail to the WASP measure. The subterfuge was so obvious that even the civilian pilots resented it.

Possibly, if less had been asked for the women pilots, the WASP might have continued to function awhile longer. But now it is to be abolished—and it seems just as well that this should be the case.

The One Minute Sermon

O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name for thou hast done wonderful things; thy counsels of old are faithfulness and truth.

For thou hast made of a city an heap: of a defenced city a ruin; a palace of strangers to be no city; it shall never be built.

Therefore shall the strong people glorify thee, the city of the terrible nations shall fear thee. Isaish 25: 1 through 3.

VIII

God apologized for the house, but to Pinky or Emily no apology was necessary.

You could see where it had been remodeled often, down through the years, but the added wings and porch extensions only seemed to increase its attractiveness. And if, as Pinky's father used to say, "The porch of a house is the smile of a house," then his house had a smile which stretched from ear to ear.

The porch was wide and ran three-quarters of the way around the house. A dozen old and worn rockers, some with cushions and some without, lined the railing. There was a hammock in one corner, and next to it, on a table, a small white radio.

Behind the porch, the windows were floor-deep and open from the bottom; like petticoats in a breeze, lace curtains fluttered there. And there was a picket fence out front and a gate and a gravel walk leading up to the steps. On the steps a part-collie dog was lying and thumping his tail.

The gate creaked as the old man opened it.

Julie heard it from inside, and, carrying the meat platter, marched right through the hall to the screen door.

"Father, where have you been!"

"Oh, hello, Julie."

"Don't you know what time it is? I finally had everybody sit down!"

"Hello, Pinky and Emily," but she scarcely glanced at them, not wishing to divert one tiny speck of her outrage against the errant one. "You know how everybody gets when they have to wait!"

"Now, Julie, calm down, we're coming in now."

"Everything so cold already!" With that she turned and left them.

"It's just she's been with me so long," the old man explained. "Thinks she can boss everybody. Doesn't hurt to be nice to her though," he confided.

* * *

At the steps he paused to pat the dog, thoughtfully. "I'll be out to talk to you in a minute, Shep." Then he went in.

"Like to wash up, Emily?"

"Yes, please."

He directed her upstairs, the first door to the left.

"Here, Pinky, there's another one down here."

While he waited for them to come back, the old man retraced his steps to the front porch. He stood there for a moment. The dog raised his head.

"Shep, I don't just quite know how to tell you this," he began falteringly.

The dog sat up quickly.

"No use beating around the bush about it, though, I guess." He sat down beside the animal, looked him squarely in the eyes. "Tate Peters is not coming up here, Shep."

The dog looked at him incredulously.

"It's funny," the old man went on, "but I always thought Tate'd pull through and we'd be seeing him up this way." This, the old man knew, was exactly what the dog was thinking. "But I guess, well, it just didn't work out that way."

The dog got up, shook himself.

"Look, Shep, we wish you'd stay. We like you here, you know, and—and I'm afraid you won't find it as nice down there." But he knew it was no use.

The dog wagged his tail, slowly, forlornly, then moved down the walk, nosed the gate open, turned once, and looked back.

By the time he reached the corner he was loping along quite fast, his legs stretching out, his muscles moving rhythmically, his lungs breathing deeply, as he prepared for the long downhill run to Tate's new home.

The old man shook his head, thinking how some men were luckier than gods and yet how little they appreciated it. He'd just like to see somebody run half-way across the world to find him. There had been a few in the past, but these latter years they came with lingering footsteps and sad, wondering faces. Some were even worse, mad and resentful, and had to be pushed onto the train. Well, you couldn't blame them, young as they were, and thinking it was not time yet. And it wasn't time yet, but that was not his fault.

"Father?"

"Oh, yes, son, coming right in."

Emily was waiting, too, at the foot of the stairs. There was a faint sweet smell of soap about her.

"My, Emily, you look—" He suddenly stopped, as in the distance there was that sound again. That low angry rumble.

Pinky turned to the door, listening. "What was that?"

It sounded louder now.

"You ought to recognize it, son."

Gravely their eyes met.

"Guns? But not that close!"

"We hear them now and then," the old man admitted sadly.

He led the way down the hall to the closed, sliding doors of the dining room.

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

FREE speech and a free press being among the sacred privileges of a free America, every writer including myself, takes full advantage of his right to criticize our government.

It is good that it be that way, because the printed word is the mirror in which those who are criticized may see their blemishes and those who are praised their good points.

I have freely "panned" the government, its red tape, its officiousness, its intrusion into private rights, the pompousness of its minor, and sometimes its major officials.

Therefore, I cannot refrain from telling you about the pleasant experience I had last night with my local OPA board in Mamaroneck, N. Y., which takes care of a large area in Westchester county, inhabited mostly by New York City commuters.

I am telling you this because you, too, may be one of the millions who dislike the OPA and consider everything it does as so much nonsense and deliberate attempt to annoy the citizens.

I had run completely out of gasoline. With the invasion and with election coming on, we newspapermen are on the go more than ever and have to cover a lot of territory.

My car is big and getting old. I get about 10 miles per gallon, although the OPA arbiters allow gasoline on the assumption that every car, regardless of its age and weight and size gives 15 miles to the gallon.

So I went down to my board in Mamaroneck last evening, all set for a scrap and anticipating a turn down.

I was ushered into the office of John V. Baum, chairman of the board, and was immediately disarmed by his courtesy, his sympathy with my predicament, and his earnest desire to help me.

He, and a charming lady associate, took out the rule book—a thick tome of hundreds of pages and tried to find a way to issue me more coupons.

They discovered a rule which allowed them to issue a "hardship ration," and I walked out with a new conception of government cooperation, when the government officials in question are ladies and gentlemen.

MR. BAUM and his associates are volunteers without pay. He is a nengineer with a big firm in New York and a commuter.

When I talked to him at 8:30 last evening, he had just gotten off the train from his office and gone directly to the OPA office for two hours of unpaid work, without supper, without having had a chance to go home first.

Why don't we all try to be a little more lenient with these splendid men and women who are doing their share just as you and I, and who will be happy, just as you and I, to cut up all the red tape of the war into confetti on the day when victory is won and gasoline will flow as freely as the waters of the sea.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

CHICAGO—Republican leaders expect to win the presidential election by a short, sharp campaign, largely based on domestic issues. They believe that Franklin Roosevelt is utterly vulnerable on the home front.

The foreign policy plank in the platform, the stadium speeches and every word uttered at private huddles reflect the GOP's determination to eliminate the war and the peacemaking from the political struggle, if possible.

The plank promising cooperation in a "World Organization," pledged to work and fight for orderly and friendly relations between nations, was framed with the sole idea of matching any Democratic pronouncement on that subject.

Two of our greatest Secretaries of State collaborated indirectly in the writing of the Chicago covenant Charles Evans Hughes and Cordell Hull.

HUGHES: The former Chief Justice, as well as his closest friends, has frequently talked with members of the Republicans' Foreign Policy committee named at Mackinac Island last September. His beliefs, as informally expressed, are emboidied in the document framed by Sen. Arthur Vandenburg of Michigan.

In fact, it can now be told that party strategists tried to persuade the elderly jurist to be the convention keynoter. But he took the position that he is, in the public mind at least, an ex officio member of the Supreme court and he did not want to do anything which would seem to plunge him into partisan politics.

None who consulted him had the nerve to remind him that in 1916 he stepped off the high bench to run for the White House in an emergency comparable to the crisis which today confronts the country.

HULL: Two authors of the foreign policy planks—Senators Vandenburg and Warren Austin of Vermont—are members of the Congressional committee which has been discussing postwar arrangements with President Roosevelt's Secretary of State.

No spirit of partisanship marked these meetings, except for the question whether the proposed "World Organization" should be formed now or after defeat of the Axis. There was no serious disagreement between FDR's first minister and his Republican conferees.

It may be hard for Mr. Hull to attack the Chicago plank openly, especially if Mr. Hughes endorses it.

ARMY: Thomas E. Dewey's ideas on this and the war issue are already known. Mr. Dewey says, in effect, and so will every other opposition orator from now until Election Day:

"I am not so presumptuous as to think that the identity of the man in the White House will determine the outcome of this historic conflict. That would be in the nature of a slur on the millions of Americans who are carrying a gun on the front or those at home. It would be an insult to the people who will really be responsible for final victory.

"The war will be won by your gallant and self-sacrificing boys. It will be won by the millions who toil in the factories, who till the land, who pay taxes and buy bonds, who give their own blood and flesh to the Army, the Navy and the Air Forces.

"In the last analysis, the Axis will be defeated by the brains of the Army General Staff and the Navy Board of Operations, working in conjunction with their United Nations' opposites.

"And I pledge my word that not a single man in the armed Services, from Gen. George C. Marshall and Admiral Ernest J. King down to the Humblest GI Joe and sailor or airplane mechanic, will be removed without justification and without telling the American people why!"

DEFENSIVE: It will be impossible, naturally, to conduct the contest as if there were no war and no postbellum problems for the next administration to solve.

Nevertheless, as Republicans return home to do battle against the "Champ", their leaders who fix the important policies and map official strategy think that they have built the only possible defense against the "don't change horses while crossing a beachhead" argument.

But the fact remains—and they realize that Mr. Roosevelt's smart aides will make the most of it—that even in choosing their ticket they had to go on the "defensive" regarding the questions which trouble every American's mind and heart—and even the hand with which he will write his ballot or pull the voting machine lever next November.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

NEW accounts smuggled to the New York underground from overseas reveal growing internal pressures in the Reich.

Demonstrations of antagonism between the veterans of the Russian campaigns and the smartly dressed Waffen SS stay-at-homes break out openly. Men on furlough from the steppes wear the coveted red ribbon in their coat lapels and are said to be the only persons in Germany who are not afraid of the Gestapo. Himmler's bullies call them "front pigs" but dare not molest them.

Yet from the Nazi party's point of view these soldiers are political dynamite. Although they fought the Reds, some of them have picked up Communistic ideas. They—more often than the unpopular Junker generals—might be the core around which future revolt will crystalize.

FRIGHTENED: Nazi dirty linen was washed in public in Ankara. A brawl arose between military intelligence personnel and Gestapo agents in Hitler's embassy. Himmler's crowd won.

German businessmen who had lived so long in Turkey that their ardoor for Nazism appeared to have cooled were summarily ordered to pack their bags and return to the Reich. They were so frightened that many made their wills and told neutral friends that they were going to certain death.

Nothing has been heard of them since early May.

GROUSE: Russian workers in Germany hit upon a clever way to cause unrest.

Technicians among them are compelled to occupy key strategic positions in the moving belt system of Reich industry. A group fabricates one important item in the assembly process. Its members stall a little or make small blunders that hold up production.

As a result, overtaxed German craftsmen at the end of the line have to toil on longer shifts to make up for lost time. This causes them to grouse, not at the subtle Reds but at their own bosses and government.

SUSPICIOUS: A symptom of disunity was uncovered when the Gestapo found that "soldiers committees" were being organized among battalions of older men in northern Germany.

The critics began with a fairly harmless issue, the demand for warm meals. But while a probe was in progress, this ominous phrase was chalked on a barracks wall: "End the war."

Berlin remembers only too well that the first sign of the 1918 collapse came when trade unionists formed "Soldiers and Workers Councils."

To make matters worse, German prisoners of war held by the Russians and now members of the Free Germany National committee in Moscow are broadcasting: "Officers and soldiers of the Hinterland, refuse to obey Hitler. Form army groups of the 'Free Germany' movement."

To forestall any overt act against the state, more and more security duties have been given to Himmler. His picture now appears on a postage stamp—a shrewd reminder to the citizen of his sinister presence and power.

A French officer who escaped from a barbed-wire camp reports that he was aided by German civilians, one of them hiding him in his home. The most tragic feature of the country, he explains, is the terrible fear one German has of another. "My friends spoke frankly to me but the same persons were silent and suspicious when several of them met."

Beauty Operators Get All The "Lowdown" That's Out

By JEANE ENGEL
Avalanche Staff Writer

A WOMAN'S life is an open secret to her hairdresser and nothing is reserved!

There is something about sitting in a comfortable chair in a beauty "shoppe" that prompts a woman to "let her hair down." At the drop of a hairpin she's off and there is no holding her back until she's told everything.

Consequently, a hairdresser knows more about everybody in town than you could find out in a lifetime of snooping, prying and guessing.

She could "crack the town wide open" with her knowledge of current flirtations and by-gone love trysts. She knows plenty but secrets are safe with her—usually.

"I never tell anything," one beauty operator confided, "not even whether a woman dyes her hair or not. I've had a good life and I want to live a long time yet."

Feel Work Is Essential

The beauty operator knows what Mrs. Pretty's face really looks like; she knows Mrs. Not-So-Young has wrinkles on her neck like a dried prune; she knows the panicky old maid who has visions of spending her declining years in a Chippendale rocker; and she knows Mrs. Pest who would like "a nail patched, dearie," or a comb "run through" her hair when everybody is the busiest.

"Of course, we get bored at times but most of us wouldn't do anything else," a beauty operator said. "We feel that our work is as important on the home front as our sisters who rivet or make guns, planes and tanks. We make every woman feel like a glamor gal and that, my dear, in most cases is an accomplishment."

BEAUTY shop conversation runs the gamut from nothing at all to something that would rock the town if generally known.

On a recent tour of beauty shops here's a bit of conversation jotted down:

"Honey, how nice your skin looks today. Now rub a little bit harder right there, dearie, near my ear. Yes, you are looking wonderful—what on earth have you done to your hair? Please, dearie, just a little more on my scalp back there. . . ."

"Say, what did Mary get today? Did she get a rinse or a sure enough dye?" a customer asks suspiciously. "I told my husband last night I believed she dyed her hair because it is getting that hard look . . ."

"I don't understand why I can't get married. Of course, there aren't so many eligible men around now, but I don't look so bad and I am a nice girl. Honestly, honey, I've got a chest just full of gowns the moths are eating up." She sighs. The operator sighs too but for a different reason. She's been on her feet since 8 a. m.

The Same Old Palaver

If you won't tell a soul I'll tell you something. I had a date with that man again last night. He's simply out-of-this-world."

"Tell me, honestly, do you think my skin is any clearer than it was last week?" a customer hopefully asks an operator.

"Oh, sure, I could tell it right away."

"Could you really?" She jumps forward for a closer peek at herself in the mirror and upsets the hairpins parked on her shoulder.

* * *

A COUPLE of women are under the dryer eating lunch. One screams to the other above the roar of the machines, "What is this?" she asks, waving a sandwich. "It's delicious."

"I don't know but it's darned good. Hand me a magazine."

"Here, take this one," she says, and begins munching the sandwich again. "Isn't this de-licious?"

"What?" Her head pops out of the dryer.

"I said, isn't this delicious"?

"Oh, yeah, "she yells back and ducks under the dryer obviously disappointed over what she hadn't heard. After going to all the trouble of pulling her head out of dryer, she looked as if the least exciting thing she might of heard was where she could buy a yard of elastic!

Retail Costs Of Food Increase During June

AUSTIN, June 30. (U.P.)—Retail cost of food increased .84 per cent during June over May prices, the monthly report of the Bureau of Labor Statistics showed today.

The survey of 85 basic food items showed cereals up 1.85 per cent, baker products down 2.16 per cent, beef cuts up .49 per cent, veal up 2.98 per cent, pork up 1.25 per cent, lamb down .24 per cent, poultry down 3.63 per cent, fresh fish up 3.76 per cent, fresh vegetables up 3.61 per cent, with eggs showing the largest increase of 4.47 per cent.

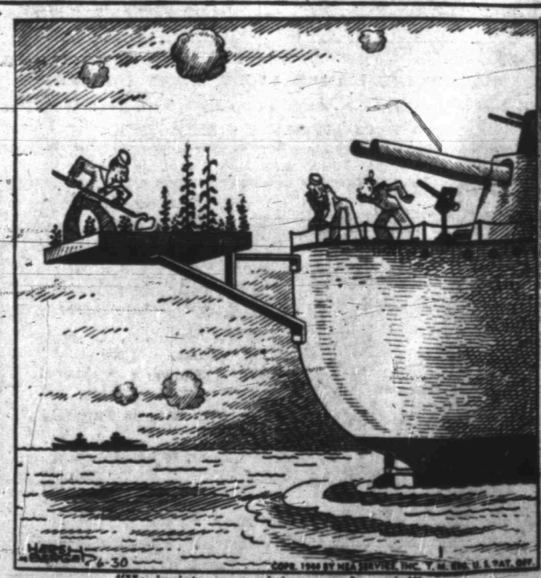

The prices reflect an increase of 32.33 per cent in the retail cost of food in 19 cities in Texas since April 1941, Labor Commissioner John D. Reed said.

Increased Poultry Shipments Foreseen

AUSTIN, June 30 (U.P.)—Texas poultry raisers shipped 27 cars of chickens, nine cars of turkeys and 870 cars of eggs to out-of-state markets during May, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported today.

This movement compared with 850 cars of eggs, no chickens and no turkeys in May, 1943.

PRICES CLOSE STRONG

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—The stock market today closed the books on June with a lively recovery sprint in low-priced utilities and specialties, a comeback of the rails and selective strength for scattered "blue chips."

Rising tendencies generally predominated after a steady opening and advances of fractions to 2 or more points were in the majority when the curtain was rung down on the session.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .2 of a point at 55.5. Transfers totaled 1,750,630 shares compared with 1,889,640 the day before.

At peaks for the year or longer were American Telephone, U. S. Steel, American Water Works, Bethlehem, Standard Gas preferred, Panhandle Producing, Amerada, Thompson-Starrett, York Corp., U. S. Lines, Lehigh Valley Coal and Armour.

Railway bonds rallied. Scranton Spring Brook Water climbed 6 points in the curb.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 30 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 30 to 70 cents a bale lower today on trade and commission house liquidation.

Apathy was attributed by traders to confusion over the amended price control bill, favorable crop weather and an increasing amount of spot cotton coming into sight because of the rising price for futures. Final values were at or near the lows of the session.

Normandy Battle

south, deepening the salient between the Odon and Orne rivers.

Fighting raged unabated 2 1-2 miles north of the city, where 16-inch shells from the British Battleship Rodney unloaded destruction on German positions.

Another column of British troops fought toward the city from newly-captured Marcelet, four miles west of Caen.

To complete the picture of virtual encirclement of this Normandy communications hub, the British on the west and those on the east near Troarn were 11 miles apart and probably had placed under artillery fire all four of the roads that remain open to the Germans.

Yanks Slow Down

On the American flank to the west, major Gen. J. Lawton (Lightning Joe) Collins slowed down the pace of his advance to conserve the lives of his troops methodically mopping up the last German resistance on Cap de la Hague.

(A Berlin broadcast said the Americans broke through to Jobourg, three miles beyond Beaumont, further hemming in the last remnants of the Cherbourg garrison—possibly 3,000 troops. This would be nearly two miles beyond last reported U. S. positions).

The Cherbourg mop-up gave the Allies a second German airfield to be captured in Normandy. It is at Fort de Querqueville, three miles northwest of Cherbourg.

Close To Third Field

The British were close to a third if they had not already reached it. That was a field just east of Marcelet, from which Montgomery was applying further pressure towards Caen.

Allied forces have killed or captured the equivalent of seven full German divisions in 24 days of invasion, a U. S. staff officer disclosed, with Americans alone killing 10,000 and capturing more than 38,000.

German divisions destroyed were the 352nd, 709th, 77th, 243rd, and 91st. The killed and captured from other enemy units reached the equivalent of two other divisions.

(Berlin announced that Col. Gen. Friedrich Dollman, commander of the German Seventh Army, had been killed in Normandy and he may have been a victim of an RAF rocket and bomb attack on a German corps headquarters Tuesday. He is the highest ranking of eight German generals thus far killed or captured in France).

Losses Relatively Light

The U. S. staff officer said Allied losses have been relatively light.

Supreme headquarters announced that the British 51st Highland division, which made the gallant attempt to crack the German hold on Abbeville in the retreat from Belgium in 1940, was in the thick of the battle for Normandy. It was the battering ram when Montgomery cracked the German line at El Alamein in North Africa.

lines at Minsk, Baranovichi, Polotsk, Luninets and Molodechno on Thursday night were announced.

In the lake country northwest of Lepel, 45 miles north of Borisov, last big rail center on the route from Smolensk to Minsk, the supplement said the Germans brought up fresh troops and launched 15 counterattacks, all of which were repulsed.

Other German counterattacks west of Mogilev also were disclosed, but the supplement said a Nazi infantry regiment was wiped out and 340 prisoners were taken.

The latest supplement also amplified the report of the naval and air action in northern waters first described early Friday morning. In all seven enemy transports totalling 40,000 tons, one tanker and five smaller vessels were sunk in attacked on a convoy en route to Petsamo in Finland and in the Norwegian port of Kirkenes.

Aerial Forays

thundered again into the Balkans, bombing the vicinity of Vienna and striking at Zagreb, Yugoslavia. This indicated a quick follow-up of the blow delivered in the same region last night, when RAF Wellingtons, Halifaxes and Liberators from Italian bases hit an airfield at Feuersbrunn, 30 miles northwest of the Australian capital.

Medium bombers and fighter-bombers of the Allied Expeditionary Air force ranged over a wide area behind the fighting front, ripping new holes in railroads in a drive to block movement of reinforcements for Field Marshal von Rundstedt's hard-pressed armies in Normandy.

Waves of these planes still were shuttling across the channel in the evening, and pilots of some of them were able to see RAF fighters shooting down pilotless lanes near the southern England coast.

Mustang fighters which escorted the American heavyweights over northern France and Belgium dive-bombed and strafed one airfield, six rail yards, 41 railroad cars, three locomotives two barges, a canal lock and a concentration of 40 to 50 barracks.

forward after a fortnight of yard-by-yard progress up the shores of Lake Trasimeno, swept through numerous villages and captured the picturesque town of Castiglione Del Lago on the lake's west bank. British patrols thrust to the vicinity of Magione on the east bank and reached the Chiascio river above Perugia.

The new breakthrough appeared to be paving the way for the fastest Allied advance since Field Marshal Albert Kesselring succeeded in checking the disorganized flight of his forces far above Rome. It virtually guaranteed that the Allies would be smashing at the "Gothic" line long before the summer is out.

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Saturday, July 1 (AP)—Eight Japanese Zeros were shot down and 63 tons of explosives were dropped in the sixth raid since June 22 on Yap in the western Carolines, headquarters reported today.

In the latest reported raid, which was made Wednesday, 29 Zeros battled with the New Guinea-based Liberators.

On the night of the same day Yap was hit, other Liberators over the western Carolines set fire to a Japanese merchantman near Palau.

News Briefs

Officials of two jurisdictions scratched their heads Friday over the status of Jesse Martin, 27. Martin, charged with burglary, was in custody of county officials. His attorney took him from custody to make a $1,000 bond. But the city recorder, Solon Lea, had placed a holdover request for him, and insisted that Martin pay a fine of $100 for drunkenness. Martin's attorney left the man at city jail, decided not to post the $1,000 bond, then decided he would probably post the bond later—since the county indicated it too would place a holdover request after Martin serves in jail the city assessment. "All very confusing," a sheriff's deputy said. "They changed their minds several times today," said Lea.

War bonds in the amount of $11,125 were purchased in a rally at Cooper Friday night held in connection with the Fifth War Loan drive.

Roy Boyd, Lubbock county rural bond chairman, said attendance was lighter than expected, and said this was perhaps due to the fact that most farmers in the community are working long hours in the fields.

A talk was heard from Durwood Bradley, Lubbock attorney. Joyce Halsey and the Drug Store Cowboys of ration station KFYO furnished a musical program. Wesley Youngblood, KFYO announcer, read a poem, "The Crippled Soldier." Sgt. "Swede" Larsen, of the local Marine recruiting station, showed a motion picture film, "The Battle of Tarawa."

Boyd was program chairman and assisted E. A. Robertson, community bond chairman, in the sale of bonds.

One of the members of the bond committee, Jesse Johnson, was unable to be present because of a heart attack earlier in the day which sent him to West Texas hospital. There it was reported that his condition was "fair" at midnight.

Other members of the committee are L. D. Stanford, "Squire" Mash, Frank Kitten, Chester Smith and Joe Schraam.

No Room For Holiday Travelers, Says ODT

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense transportation, tonight warned the public that "there is no room today on the country's trains or intercity bus lines for holiday travelers."

Estimating that more than 20 per cent of present-day railroad travel was non-essential, Col. Johnson urged in a broadcast (NBC) that "only those on essential business have the right to travel in these crucial days."

"If you fail to heed our request I must warn you that your non-essential pleasure trip may turn out to be rather unpleasant," the ODT chief said.

"War takes no holiday," he added. "Over the Fourth (of July) the war plants, the Army, Navy, Marines, the Merchant Marine, and the government will be very much at work."

Col. Johnson said that rationing of travel would not be necessary if the public continued to cooperate in ODT's travel-conservation program.

Girls Stranded When Air Training Curbed

SWEETWATER, June 30. (AP)—Forty-two girls who came here to take WASP flying training, only to learn that the training program had been discontinued, are being fed and lodged temporarily at Avenger field here, the commanding officer, Col. George Keene, said today.

Keene said he understood that telegrams from the Army notifying them that the training program had been discontinued failed to reach them. They came here at their own expense, under Civil service rules.

They will be flown back to their homes by the Army Air forces, "probably tomorrow," Keene said. They have been coming here for two or three days, and authorities wanted to be sure that all the late comers were here before starting the homeward movement. The would-be fliers came from widely scattered points in the nation.

This WASP training center is continuing the program for those enrolled before the Army's announcement of the discontinuance of training.

No Favorites Played On Diners These Days

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP) — Even cabinet members wait their turn in dining car lines these days as Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard can testify.

State Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald yesterday received a telegram from Wickard, who with an official party was en route to Mexico.

The telegram, received at 4 p. m., was a request for lunch, specifically, 12 sandwiches, six pints of milk and six bottles of soda pop."

McDonald delivered the food personally when the train reached Austin. The Wickard party had been unable to reach the dining car for lunch.

"This is our second meal in 24 hours," declared Mrs. Wickard.

Equipment, Labor Shortages Are Slowing Area's Wheat Harvest

(By The Associated Press)

Reports of equipment and labor shortages continued today as Texas wheat growers, fearing a change in weather conditions, pushed the harvest of the state's 61,000,000-bushel crop.

Scattered showers in the state Thursday and a damaging hailstorm in southwestern Moore county Wednesday were reminders that the weather, which already had turned the bread basket topsy-turvey, was to be reckoned with, alongside wartime conditions.

Preliminary estimates of wheat damage from hail was $150,000 to $200,000 in a strip of Moore county where hail fell in spots. Harvesting operations had been resumed yesterday. Average yield in that county was estimated at 25 bushels to the acre with some 50-bushel yields indicated.

Several Days Early

With the second largest Texas crop on record waving in fields, where it matured from three days to a week sooner than was exjected, the equipment shortages included combines, trucks and boxcars, and labor shortages were in drivers and shovelers.

Shippers attributed the inadequacy of cars partially to the fact that loaded cars are piling up on sidings because there is not the labor to shovel the wheat out of the cars into the elevator pits—to keep the cars rolling.

"Insufficient and inefficient labor" was the way Jack P. Burrus, president of the Tex-O-Kan Flour Mills, Inc., put it. His firm operates 22,000,000 bushel storage facilities in Texas and Oklahoma and he estimated that almost 90 percent of the space remained available.

20 Per Cent Harvested

Of the Texas crop, Burrus estimated about 20 percent has been harvested, 20 percent of that has been moved, and 12 percent has been put into elevators.

"There is a very strong likelihood that some wheat will have to be piled on the ground," he said.

Rains would be damaging to such piles. Moderate rain on wheat standing in the fields probably would cut the state's yield, he explained, but could lower the quality.

Freakish Harvest Trend

The Texas A. & M. Extension service reported the peak of the harvest season in the area from Plainview to the Oklahoma line will be reached about July 4, while the peak in the area between Plainview and Floydada is looked for about July 10.

Freakish weather this year reversed the normal northward treak of the harvest season in Texas, with wheat in the North Plains maturing before that in the Souh Plains.

D. A. Adams, farm labor field assistant at Plainview reported that at the beginning of the harvest in the North Plains there was a shortage of 450 combines, 1,000 trucks and drivers, 800 combine operators and more than 800 laborers such as scopers. Recruitments were made in East Texas and around San Antonio in an effort to relieve those shortages, Adams said.

Full Cooperation

"So far we have been able to get the small grain crops harvested in record time in many areas, and we will do so in the Plains, too," Adams said. He added that the smoothness of operations was due to county-wide planning; inventory of physical resources by victory councils and agricultural agents co-operating with the AAA and other organized groups, and the co-operation of the Office of Defense Transportation and the Office of Price administration in providing gasoline and tires for the free movement of combines and other necessary harvesting equipment.

4,000 War Prisoners Put On Texas Farms

COLLEGE STATION, June 30. (AP)—C. Hohn, a Texas extension service official, says 4,000 prisoners of war available for farm labor in Texas have been placed.

War prisoners can be used for all emergency farm labor for the time being, said Hohn, state farm labor supervisor for the extension service, but he added that when the rice harvest begins about Aug. 15, that work will take priority upon their services and as many as may be needed will be moved to rice growing areas.

At present, a majority of the war prisoners are employed at chopping cotton. Among counties using them are Taylor, El Paso, Brown, Cooke, Kaufman, Lamar, Limestone, Navarro, Rockwall, Bexar, Montgomery, Trinity, Walker, Brazos, Burleson, Robertson, Brazoria, Colorado, Fort Bend, Galveston, Harris, Liberty, Matagorda and Wharton.

Price Control Extened To Cover All Alfalfa

To prevent further increase in the cost of alfalfa, brought about by increased demands and reduced production, the Office of Price administration has extended price control to cover all alfalfa hay produced in or imported into the United States. The regulation is effective July 3, 1944.

In making the announcement, J. B. Mooney, district price executive for the Office of Price administration, stated that the base price for ungraded, loose alfalfa hay at the farm in all of Region 5 during the period of May through October is $20.50 per ton. Transportation costs are allowable, and in addition $5 per ton is to be added for baling.

The regulation provides for retailers' and dealers' markups over their delivered cost and allows additional markups if the hay is warehoused by the seller at a point not on the farm where produced.

But, said the Republican candidate's wife at a press conference yesterday, she scarcely has had the chance to talk with her parents. The Deweys and Hutts did have a "family" dinner last night.

Texas Wheat Income Expected To Double

AUSTIN, June 30 (U.P.) — Texas farmers will earn more than twice as much this year as last from wheat alone, Dr. F. A. Buechel, University of Texas business analyst, estimated today.

"The latest government estimate is more than 60,000,000 bushels, almost twice that of a year ago, and current farm prices are approximately $1.40 per bushel, or well above the price at this time last year, he said.

With three-fourths of the state's wheat production in the north Panhandle, centering around Amarillo, he forecast 1944 farm cash income in that district at approximately $60,000,000—or an average of nearly $5,000 per farm for wheat alone in the area.

Farm cash income for the state during May was $83,000,000, an increase of 14 per cent over May, 1943, Dr. Buecel said.

Receipts for the first five months of 1944 totaled $328,000,000, compared with $319,000,000 during the first five months of 1943.

Notice Given On Fateful Grapple

By WILLIAM FRYE
Associated Press Staff Writer
(Substituting For Kirk L. Simpson)

The appeal by the nation's three top military commanders for all-out devotion on the home front to the job of winning the war is a ringing announcement to the enemy that the grapple has begun.

It is also a formal and solemn warning to the public that the final campaigns are the hardest, that they demand of soldier and worker more sustained effort than all the preparations.

Not An Accusation

Despite its similarity in some respects to previous official blasts against "complacency" at home, the appeal contained in the report to President Roosevelt by General Marshall, Admiral King and General Arnold was not an accusation of complacency.

Nevertheless, these military leaders are seriously concerned about informal reports from all sections of the country in which they find a tendency to believe that the supply job is done, that all that remains to be accomplished is a quick cleanup by the armed forces in the field.

Feeling Easily Explained

If that feeling exists as the military leaders believe it does, the reason is fairly obvious. Each day bring fresh reports of Allied success from every theater but China. Germany is on a desperate defensive on three fronts. The Japanese are aggressive in central China, but they have the American Navy at their throats in the Marianas and General MacArthur's forces on their backs in New Guinea.

The pattern of victory is becoming plain. The military commanders acknowledge that, and see in it a matter of gratification for the entire country. But they see beyond that—they see a German Army of hundreds of divisions, with no shadow of a crack in its discipline, and they know that Germany is not defeated until that Army is smashed. They see the Japanese being pushed, but a long way from broken.

Mrs. Guy Vaughn Is Hurt In Auto Wreck

Mrs. E. R. Vaughn of 2420 Twenty-first street received a message Friday afternoon that her daughter-in-law, the wife of Lt. Guy O. Vaughn, was seriously injured in an automobile accident near Jackson, Tenn., Wednesday night.

She received a fractured thigh in the accident, which was caused by blinding lights of both cars, the message stated. She was enroute alone from Greenwood, Miss., where Lt. Vaughn is stationed, to Covington, Ky., to visit her parents and to meet her husband who had been to Florida and was flying to Covington.

She was unconscious for several hours and officials at Jackson had considerable difficulty in locating relatives. She will remain in the hospital for at least 15 weeks, the message said.

Changes Made In Air Raid Warning System

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—The Office of Civilian Defense said today "slight changes" were being made in operation of the air raid warning system for Texas.

The entire system has been streamlined in accordance with warning systems in various other states, OCD said.

The major change in Texas is the transfer of the warning system operation to the Texas Department of Public Safety which sends out the warnings through the state highway patrol system. This went into effect several days ago.

The OCD stressed that jurisdiction of the air raid system still remained with the Office of Civilian Defense.

Slight Change Seen In Texas Business, Trade

AUSTIN, June 30. (AP) — Although current activity is well above that of a year ago, Texas industry and trade show only a one-fourth of one per cent change from April to May, said Dr. F. A. Buechel, University of Texas statistical analyst.

Dr. Buechel pointed out that while "no marked departure from the prevailing general business picture in Texas is indicated immediately, changes could occur rapidly in specific lines as a result of the war."

PRICE CONTROL ORDERED

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP) — Retail sales of sweet peppers, hot house cucumbers and a wide variety of melons were brought under price control for the first time by the Office of Price administration today. The new regulation becomes effective July 5.

Chapman Gives Up Senate Race

The race for State Senator from the 30th Senatorial district apparently is a one-man handicap. Judge Alton B. Chapman of Floydada has withdrawn, leaving Sterling J. Parrish of Lubbock unopposed.

Chapman's withdrawal came in telephone calls to friends and in the form of a telegram received Friday morning by the Avalanche-Journal from Fort Worth, where Judge Chapman, retiring president of the state judiciary, had been attending the convention of the State Bar association.

"Please carry my request to all county chairmen to leave my name off ticket. Will make formal statement later," Chapman's telegram read.

No Official Notification

L. C. Ellis, Lubbock county chairman, said he had been informed "indirectly" that Judge Chapman, of the 110th judicial district, wished to withdraw his name but that he had not received any official notification from Chapman himself.

Ellis and other county chairmen were required to print the ballot as immediately as possible after June 26, date when by election law the primary committees met to make up the official ballots for the general primary in the counties. Ellis said approximately half of Lubbock county's approximately 16,000 ballots had already been printed with Chapman's name on the ticket.

Complexity was added by Ellis' lack of interpretation of resultant problems: Can he issue the rest of the ballots without the judge's name? Can he "black out" by a printed bar the name of Judge Chapman on ballots already printed? Would he be justified in leaving off Judge Chapman's name without "direct instruction" from him?

Ellis In "Quandary"

Ellis admitted the move "puts me in a quandary" as it probably does the other county chairmen in the district.

Rumors that Judge Chapman might withdraw candidacy for state senator had been heard since publication of the state Supreme court's decision Saturday in the case of Robert E. Burroughs and Roger A. Knight petitioners, against A. G. Lyles, county chairman of Grimes county, and others, respondents, from the Fifth Senatorial district.

The opinion, delivered by John H. Sharp, associate justice, decreed that Long was not eligible to the legislature (he had offered candidacy for the senate) since his term as county superintendent of Houston county would not expire before the term of the office he sought commences, and recited Article III, section 19, State Constitution:

"Sec. 19. No judge of any court, secretary of state, attorney general, clerk of any court of record, or any person holding a lucrative office under the United States, or this state, or any foreign government shall during the term for which he is elected or appointed, be eligible to the legislature."

Legislative Act Voided

Justice Sharp held that the above provision made unconstitutional Article 2929a, Vernon's Annotated Statutes, passed by the last legislature, which provided in substance that:

No person who has been elected or appointed to an executive or administrative office in Texas for a term of more than two years shall be eligible to run for . . . any other public office the term of which would begin before the expiration of the term of the original office to which he was elected or appointed, without first resigning from the office to which he has been elected or appointed.

Provision Said Discriminatory

Justice Sharp called that provision "discriminatory" and "for that reason . . . void."

He invoked articles 2927 and 2928, which in substance provide that no ineligible candidate, as defined by the constitution, shall have his name placed on the ballot for any Texas election.

Judge Chapman's term as 110th district judge will expire two years after his term as senator, if elected, commences, so is presumed to fall directly in political status under the scope of Judge Sharp's opinion.

Dream Comes True For Texas Airman, Hero Of Mission

HOUSTON, June 30. (U.P.)—Sgt. George E. Donnelly, somewhere in England, probably doesn't know it yet, but one of his hopes was fulfilled today.

For Donnelly, who won the Congressional medal in his first aerial mission over Europe, has become the father of a son.

Mrs. Donnelly gave birth to George, jr., at Memorial hospital. The baby weighed 5½ pounds.

The mother was "awfully pleased." The sergeant, she said, "has been writing proudly about the son we were going to have."

Sgt. Donnelly was awarded the nation's highest military decoration last Christmas week. Flying home from a particularly tough mission, he took care of badly-wounded crewmen, extinguished a fire which broke out in the radio compartment and singlehandedly manned the ship's guns to drive off a horde of enemy craft which swarmed in for what looked like an easy kill.

FDR Signs Filipino Independence Bill

WASHINGTON, June 30. (AP)—Legislation promising independence to the Philippines as soon as possible after United States forces rid the islands of Japanese invaders was signed by President Roosevelt today.

The two congressional resolutions also authorize the establishment by the United States of land, sea and air bases in the islands for the mutual protection of both countries.

Before the war the Philippines were to have received their independence on July 4, 1946.

Freedom can come to the islands, Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement, upon the accomplishment of "two tasks of great importance: Those who have collaborated with the enemy must be removed from authority and influence over the political and economic life of the country; and the Democratic form of government guaranteed in the constitution of the Philippines must be restored for the benefit of the people of the islands." The President paid tribute to the "heroic role of the Philippines" in the war.

Vice President Sergio Osmena of the Philippine government-in-exile hailed the new legislation as "a long step toward the real freedom and independence of the Philippines and its survival as a free and Christian nation."

One of the two resolutions creates a Philippine rehabilitation commission to prepare the economic and financial restoration of the islands.

Texans Score Victories Against German Fliers

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS Allied Expeditionary Force, June 30. (AP)—At least two Texans took part yesterday in Allied air battles against the Germans over France.

Mustang pilots led by Lt. Col. Roy Webb, jr., of Pampa, Tex., reported destroying a dozen German planes and damaging six others on the ground by strafing an airdrome.

Lt. William S. Fennel, Gilmer, Tex., was among others in yesterday's scoring column.
