Suicide Notes Of Girls Who Plunged From Plane Read

HAMILTON KIDNAPS 3 FARM BOYS

LETTERS READ OVER PROTEST OF AMERICANS

CALL DEATHS 'PRETTY STRAIGHT' CORRIDOR TO DEAD MEN

ROMFORD, Eng., Feb. 25. (AP)—Elizabeth and Jane Du Bois, who plunged from an airplane to death last week, visualized their suicides as a "pretty straight" corridor to the dead men they loved.

A coroner's jury today returned a joint verdict of "suicide while of unsound minds" after it had heard the contents of two letters which the girls had intended only for their father, Coert Du Bois, United States consul general in Naples, and their mother.

The father, tight-lipped and white-knuckled, attended the inquest. The mother stayed alone at at hotel, still unaware of the complete details of her daughters plunge from a commercial transport ship.

Consul Protests

In their letters, the two beautiful American girls told of their grief for the deaths of Flying Officer A. C. Forbes and Flight Lieutenant Henry L. Beatty, who were killed at Messina, Sicily, two weeks ago when their Royal Air Force flying boat, "Ace of Diamonds," crashed into a hillside.

The letters were read publicly over the protests of Franklin C. Cowen, United States consul. Cowen argued the letters should be submitted to the jury privately as Coert Du Bois, father of the two young women, had hoped that their contents might not be made public. The father, Cowen said, wished later to read the communications quietly to his wife.

Each girl had written alternate paragraphs in the letters, one of which was addressed to the father and the other to the mother.

The letter to Du Bois, beginning "Darling Coert," read:

"We never explained things to you as we should. There's been so much doubt and worry. You've been kind to us and forgiven us and you'll forgive us this as you must feel a little of what we did when we heard of the flying boat cracking up.

Planned Marriage

"Do you remember Charles (Flying Officer John A. C. Forbes, one of the two aviators killed in a crash at Messina) telling about the corridors? The one before us seems

Stories in STAMPS

HUNGARY'S short-lived Soviet Republic, established shortly after the World War by Bela Kun, has left a weird memento of its existence in a set of five postage stamps. Issued in 1919, the stamps represent five revolutionary leaders of Europe—Karl Marx, Friedrich Engels, Gyorgy Dozsa, Alexander Petofi, and Martinovics.

The dread sketches on these stamps have led collectors to dub the issue "Hungary's Rogues' Gallery."

Bela Kun's power lasted only 143 days. It was known as "Magyar Tanacskoztarsasag," or the Hungarian Soviet Republic.

Bad Influences Of City Are Blamed For Tragedy; Boys Once Fast Friends.

Bond of $5,000 was set this afternoon for Glen Earl Davis, charged with the fatal stabbing of Kenneth Campbell, 18, last Saturday night. Preliminary hearing was waived.

Young Davis, blond youth weighing about 125 pounds, appeared in Justice James Todd Jr.'s court with Aaron Sturgeon, his attorney. His manner was calm, troubled, and attentive, but he showed no emotion. His eyes seemed tear-stained. He talked in low tones to his father, who had been in conversation with Justice Todd before the youth appeared. His right hand and wrist, injured in the fight, were bandaged.

The grand jury is in adjournment until March 4, but posibly may meet sooner to consider this case and other matters.

Young Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Davis, finished Pampa high school last year with high honors. He was a member of the National Honor society. He was a member of the typing team. He joined the Boy Scouts in Elk City, Okla., when he was 12 years old. He had been active intermittently since, and had attained the rank of Star. His father had felt concern over the fact that his son had drifted away from Scouting and into "bad company." Friends and his former teachers were shocked by news of the tragedy.

Started In Pool Hall

The two boys had been close friends for three years. Officers, piecing together isolated facts leading up to the slaying, learned that in the last few months the lads had frequented dance halls, pool halls, and other places where youngsters assemble. A few weeks ago they had a fight at a local dance hall. Investigators have been told that both were "drinking" on that occasion. The Campbell boy won the scrap. The friendship cooled. The trouble lingered. Challenges were hurled, boasts made. Acquaintances aggravated the trouble with their tale-bearing. The boys frequently played pool together and acquaintances said they often argued over the game.

Saturday night the boys met at a pool parlor uptown. Witnesses differ as to which invited the other outside. But, at the doorway, fisticuffs began. The boys were ordered outside. They walked, arguing, south toward the Stark elevator. Five boys, two of them in a car, followed them. They fought again near the elevator. This time Camp-

MOBILIZATION OF HUGE MOB IS PREDICTED

CLAIM JOBLESS WILL MARCH TO SUPPORT RELIEF BILL

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A mobilization in behalf of work relief "that will make the bonus army look like a Boy Scout parade in comparison" was foreseen in one quarter today "if it becomes necessary" to secure passage of the administration's $4,808,000,000 bill.

Paul V. Betters, director of the United States conference of mayors, made the forecast in a formal statement as senate leaders marked time on the Roosevelt work relief program with its unwanted McCarran prevailing wage amendment.

At his Hyde Park home, President Roosevelt watched silently for national reaction to the 44 to 43 senate vote which attached the prevailing wage amendment against his wishes and forced democratic leaders to return the bill to the appropriations committee.

There was some belief Mr. Roosevelt may, at a later day, ask the senate to reconsider the bill.

Betters said that "telling 3,500,000 workers they can not work, regardless of the reason, is to foment social unrest which will be unparalelled." He added:

"When it is considered that three and a half million workers represent close to 15 million dependent family members now on federal relief, this congressional sentence is more severe and serious than any action taken by any government in the history of the world."

Huey Long, And His Armed 'Mob' Back In South

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 25. (AP)—Surrounded by bodyguards, Senator Huey P. Long arrived in New Orleans by train from Washington today and took an automobile immediately for Baton Rouge where martial law has been in force for about a month due to the fight his enemies have been waging on his political leadership.

The senator as council for the Louisiana public service commission said he was resuming today his investigation of telephone rates before the Louisiana public service commission in the capital city.

In the midst of more than a score of attendants, Long walked hurriedly from his train in the railroad station to his automobile which was parked close by in the center of a line of six cars.

When he left the train his army of bodyguards surrounded him and no one was permitted to speak to him. Some of the attendants of the senator held their hands to their pockets as they rushed Long across the station platform to the line of automobiles. Long and his guards filled the cars and the motor caravan sped away.

ATLANTIC GALE BATTERS SHIP; SAILORS DROWN

Many Vessels Are In Danger; 10 Die In France Storms

(By The Associated Press.)

A howling gale that for three days has swept North Atlantic shipping lanes and battered the coast of France as it turned thru the Bay of Biscay into the Mediterranean added today to its mounting toll of lost lives and disrupted shipping.

Several fishermen were lost when washed overboard as the waves lashed their tiny craft in the Bay of Biscay. Ten were killed ashore in France as winds of the gale forced interrupted communication.

Eight were killed and five injured in earthquakes in Greece. Other earthquakes were reported at Malta and Cairo.

Four persons were reported killed and several injured when an explosion smashed the hold of the S. S. Gouverneur General Jonnart in the harbor of Tunis, Tunisia.

Two ships reported themselves in urgent need of assistance while dozens of others were endangered by the mountainous seas.

The Italian S. S. Caterina Madre, about 40 miles west of Ille-D'Yeu said that her propeller was gone and added "dangerous situation. Save us."

The 2,993-ton Greek steamer Eftichia Vergottis called for help, saying steering apparatus was disabled. She gave her position as latitude 46, north, longitude 8 west in the Bay of Biscay.

The S. S. Ottinge, without a rudder off Lands End, reported that she had been taken in tow.

The Belgian S. S. Syrie, bound from Antwerp to the Levant sent an SOS asking immediate assistance; and the British S. S. San Melio, from Tuxpan to Tyne, reported that it had asked the American S. S. Liberty to stand by and was jettisoning the cargo.

DESPERADO IS SHOT IN JAW IN GUN FIGHT

SPENDS PART OF NIGHT AT FARM HOUSE THEN FLEES

M'KINNEY, Feb. 25. (AP)—Raymond Hamilton, slippery desperado who narrowly escaped death in a police ambush near here last night, was reported fleeing west today with three abducted farm boys after spending part of the night at a farm house three miles west of Celina.

It was reported that Hamilton was shot in the jaw last night when officers poured a barrage of shots into the car in which the condemned killer and a companion fled from McKinney to Weston, 10 miles northwest of McKinney. The fugitives abandoned their car about a mile and a half west of Weston.

Although officers searched thruout the night for the gunmen, they could find no trace of them until this morning and then it was learned the fugitives had continued their flight at daybreak, taking with them three captives. They were last reported headed in the direction of Denton. They were in a 1929 (Chevrolet) sedan.

Officers learned that after abandoning the bullet riddled car near Weston, Hamilton and his companion had held up J. C. Loftice, 16, a farm boy, and driven away in his roadster.

They drove to the farm of Bill Mayes, three miles west of Celina, a town 18 miles northwest of McKinney, and spent the remainder of the night. At dawn they left, taking with them Buster Mayes, son of the farmer, J. C. Harlow, a farm boy, and young Loftice.

The district attorneys' office here was advised that Hamilton and his companion were armed with two automatic rifles and two pistols. The automatic rifles were stolen about a week ago from the Beaumont National Guard armory.

Dallas officers said they believed Hamilton's companion is a West Dallas hoodlum.

Denton county officers patrolled roads leading from Celina this morning but were unable to sight Hamilton and the captives.

Eight McKinney officers lay in ambush along the old road two miles north of McKinney last night and, when Hamilton and his companion came by, opened fire on them. About seventy shots were fired at the two outlaws. It was considered probable that Hamilton's

5TH DEFENDANT IN BARROW-PARKER TRIAL PLEADS GUILTY; BILLIE MACE TESTIFIES

Tells Of Various Meetings With Bandits; Traveled With Clyde To Arkansas.

DALLAS, Feb. 25 (AP)—Government and defense testimony was completed today in the trial of 20 persons accused of harboring the slain outlaws, Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

Arguments got under way at noon, with each side being allowed one hour and 30 minutes.

Billie Mace, Bonnie's sister, was the only witness during the morning, and, when she left the stand, both the government and the defense announced they had no further testimony to offer.

Among the defendants were Mrs. Cumie Barrow, mother of Clyde; and Mrs. Emma Parker, Bonnie's mother. Mrs. Barrow testified Saturday. Mrs. Parker did not testify.

Trial of the case began last Friday, the formal charge being conspiracy to harbor and conceal Clyde and Bonnie while they were fugitives on a Dyer act charge between May, 1933, and May, 1934.

The government put on 44 witnesses. Its case was based for the most part on statements from James Mullen, W. D. Jones, and Henry Methvin, three of the defendants. Their statements detailed activities of the gang during the period mentioned in the charges. Other witnesses corroborated these statements.

The defense had three character witnesses for John Basden, who today changed his plea to guilty.

Mrs. Mace testified that Clyde and Bonnie, who were slain last year by officers in Louisiana, had always notified them of an intended meeting by placing a note in a bottle and tossing it in Barrow's mother's yard in West Dallas as he sped past in an automobile.

DALLAS, Feb. 25 (AP) — John Basden changed his plea of not guilty today in the mass trial of persons charged with harboring the slain outlaw couple — Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

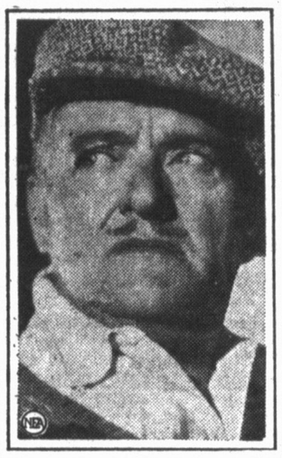

He was the fifth defendant to admit guilt since start of the trial in federal court.

May O'Dare and James Mullen, ex-convict, changed their pleas Saturday.

At the start of the trial, when 20 friends and relatives were brought

CERTIFICATES WILL BE GIVEN IN BCD DRIVE

C. of C. Memberships Are Offered To Subscribers

Membership certificates in the chamber of commerce affiliated with the Board of City Development will be presented in connection with the current drive for a special fund, it was announced today.

The chamber of commerce will be, in a sense, the membership body of the B. C. D. Its funds will be used for projects on which B. C. D. funds cannot, under the law, be used. It is the plan to have a meeting of the chamber members soon to discuss how the $2,500 it is proposed to raise will be spent.

The drive, which already has made considerable progress, will begin at full speed tomorrow at 9:30 a. m., when solicitors will meet at the B. C. D. rooms in the city hall to receive final instructions.

The money to be raised will enable progress to be made on several projects which now are "ripe" for action, and will finance a drive for industries.

MITCHELL'S IS THEFT VICTIM THIS MORNING

Shoplifter Takes $35 Worth Of Hose At Store

Shoplifting, sometimes the death knell of a business, continued unabated in Pampa over the week-end despite the fact that merchants have determined to be more alert and officers more vigorous in their campaign against violators.

Mitchell's store was a sufferer this morning when a man, dressed in blue overalls, blue jumper and cap, entered the store. He told a clerk that he was waiting for his wife who was to come to the store and purchase a dress. He talked with Dr. Mitchell for a few minutes.

Soon the attention of Dr. Michell and the clerks was demanded by customers and the man was forgotten. Suddenly he stepped behind a counter close to the door and scooped up between 25 and 30 boxes of silk hose and placed them under his coat. He stepped through the door and disappeared east of Foster avenue.

Dr. Mitchell gave chase while a clerk called the police. Although Dr. Mitchell ran to the alley, he saw no trace of the man. Police searched possible places where the man might be found but to no avail. Later officers were led to believe that the man stepped into the stairway of the Smith building and probably made his way upstairs and out of the building the back way.

This morning Kees & Thomas store clerks missed a pair of cowboy boots from the store. They remembered a man looking at boots during a rush period Saturday night. He later entered the rest room and then left the store. It is believed the man took the shoes to the rest room, put them on, and placed his low-cut shoes in his pocket.

The loss at Mitchell's store was set at about $35. Kees & Thomas' loss was $16.

WEATHER

WEST TEXAS: Fair, colder in southeast portion with temperature 24 to 26 tonight; Tuesday fair, rising temperature.

VIOLENT DUST STORM CLOUDS THIS SECTION

SNOW FALLS FOR TIME THIS MORNING IN PAMPA

(By The Associated Press.)

A freakish blizzard, lashing the state with chill north winds, snow, sleet, and dust storms, was marked today by overnight temperature drops of as much as 50 degrees in places.

Balmy-springlike weather which prevailed much of last week was suddenly dissipated as the mercury began its violent drop.

Dust clouds raced across the western plains yesterday in advance of the cold wave. At Pampa and Amarillo this morning the temperature had fallen to 8 degrees above zero and dust, which clouded the air yesterday, had disappeared. A north wind of moderate intensity still was blowing and some sleet fell.

The mercury tumbled from 76 yesterday afternoon to 21 this morning in Dallas. A dust storm followed by a thundershower, preceded the hail and sleet which blanketed Dallas during the early morning hours. Fine sleen still fell this morning.

The weather bureau reported snow falling at El Paso, where the temperature hit a minimum of 32.

Abilene had a mercury drop from 77 yesterday afternoon to 20 this morning. A severe dust storm there last night was followed by some sleet. Dust and a strong north wind were shipping through town today.

A 50-degree temperature fall occurred at Corsicana, where the mercury hovered around the 31-degree mark this morning. Rain and sleet fell and hard winds damaged signs and trees. Sleet was falling heavily at Corsicana today.

San Antonio had a 38-mile wind, with a heavy dust storm and the temperature down to 39 degrees.

Wichita Falls reported a minimum of 20 degrees, but there was no moisture. The worst sandstorm in many years whipped through Wichita Falls for several hours yesterday afternoon and early last night.

The mercury was tumbling rapidly at Houston and a freeze was expected there before nightfall. The temperature had fallen from 73 yesterday to 43 this morning. There was some rainfall.

The temperature also was dropping rapidly in Shreveport, La., the weather bureau there reporting a slump from 65 degrees at 2 a. m. to 42 at 7 a. m. Chill winds, cloudiness and occasional light sprinkles of rain accompanied the norther.

San Angelo had a low reading of 24 degrees today—a drop of 57 degrees from the 18 minimum yesterday.

Lubbock's temperature this morning was 9 above zero, and there was a 24-mile wind blowing. A violent dust storm fogged the area. The wind was from the north and the dust storm was abating today.

Corpus Christi had a minimum temperature this morning of 68, Brownsville 70, Del Rio 40, and Austin 36.

Andrew Mellon Guided Policies Of Huge Fortune

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 25. (AP)—Andrew W. Mellon personally shapes the policies and guides the destinies of the great Mellon fortune, the banker's secretary, Howard M. Johnson, told the board of tax appeals today.

Called as a witness for the fourth day at Mellon's $3,000,000 income tax inquiry, the former book-keeper, who has drawn up the financier's income tax returns for 20 years, was asked by government counsel Robert H. Jackson:

"Were sales or purchases made on your part without consultation with Mr. Mellon?"

Johnson answered:

"An individual sale might have been made but it always was in line with the policies set by Mr. Mellon."

"Then Mr. Mellon made these policies entirely of his own accord?" queried the attorney.

"Correct," was the witness' firm answer.

Attorney Jackson asked Johnson if Mellon always was in close touch with his financial situation, and the secretary said:

"He always was actually in charge, with the qualification that while he was in Washington he did not have the same close touch."

EDITORIAL

MERCHANTS NEED PROTECTION

Whatever "soaks" the merchants also costs the public.

It is impossible to separate the welfare of a community from the welfare of the business men. Merchants pay heavily in taxes, interest, rent, donations, thefts, and fraud. They must get the money for these things from the public; they could not remain in business if they did not.

Merchants ordinarily are long-suffering. Many of them give hundreds of dollars to various causes in the course of a year. Inevitably, this cost adds to the selling price of merchandise. These same merchants lose hundreds of dollars annually through shop-lifting, bad checks, and fraud. They could safeguard themselves, it is true, but only by being so cautious that they would offend many persons.

It is this fear of offending which leads to waves of shop-lifting and forgery. It is the uninformed public attitude which makes it so easy to give offense. The situation has become very bad in Pampa. Merchants are forced to act. The purpose of this editorial is to impress upon the reader the fact that merchants must be cautious. It is for the benefit of the legitimate customer that this caution must be invoked.

Rather than become offended, a buyer should be sympathetic and patient when the merchant asks for his credit rating. A good rating can be based only on satisfactory credit experience which is recorded in the central credit bureau. A good rating, like a good reputation, should be deliberately built up. Prompt payment of obligations is vitally important. If one cannot pay promptly, he can frankly talk it over with the merchant and make satisfactory arrangements. And, above all, the customer should not pay cash at some other store just to avoid seeing his creditor.

Treat the merchants fairly; they deserve cooperation. To help them avoid losses is to result in a saving to consumers.

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—A large part of the administration's relief program for next winter will consist of a glorified CWA.

It won't be called that, of course, because CWA is supposed to have a bad name. And there will be distinct modifications of the huge civil works program which hastily put 4,000,000 persons to work in the winter of 1933-34.

Just the same, enough of the administration's concealed and only half-formulated plan has leaked out to show that certain fundamentals of theory and practice trace directly back to that great emergency effort.

Roosevelt favors the "force account" method over the contract system in spending most of the $4,000,000,000 Congress will give him for work relief in the fiscal year 1935-36.

"Force account" means you go out with a lot of money and hire a lot of people to do a lot of work. That was what CWA did, as against the slower, much more economical PWA scheme under which all projects were thrown open to competitive bidding and contractors were bonded to do the job at stipulated cost.

* * * *

"Force account" is the fast way to spend money. The money is handed to a mayor, say, for his works or relief administration, which proceeds to expend its work force by drawing from relief rolls and starting on certain projects.

In such program, talk of self-liquidating projects—such as has come from the White House—is absurd. Contractors, instead of drawing from relief rolls, would recruit the most skilled crews available.

Politics, graft, and waste obviously are unavoidable under force account. That's why administration leaders are divided between those who want to pump money out rapidly and those who want to be slow and careful about it.

Roosevelt sides with the first group, recalling the decided fillip which CWA gave to business and insisted that all employables be put to work.

* * * *

After General Johnson went away from NRA, there were frequent reports that sooner or later he would be brought back into the administration. A rumor that he would be utilized in a big new federal construction program died hard.

But the general's magazine articles have ended those rumors and have left no doubt that he will continue to stand on the outside looking in.

His slurs at Donald Richberg, Secretary Perkins, and other administration figures—as well as policies—make it obvious that his presence at the New Deal council table again would be rather embarrassing.

* * * *

Indications are that Roosevelt's temper has become a bit shorter and that he is not quite his old gay and grinning self.

One of his most important boards called on him in a body recently, determined to make a mild protest against a public overruling of one of its important decision. The board never did get its protest lodged satisfactorily.

"The president is a very difficult man to talk with," one of its members explained later in private. "You start to say something to him and he interrupts you and talks steadily for five minutes. You can't interrupt the president, of course, and when he bows you out, you're through."

If Malcolm Campbell can't make 300 miles an hour, all is not yet lost. There still are hundreds of grocery and bakery truck drivers who'll keep on trying it around corners.

Senator Vic Donahey demands an investigation of the natural gas situation. And just when Huey Long was asking that they quit investigating him for awhile.

Now maybe the country can go ahead and recover. Charley Schwab had a birthday recently and didn't make his annual statement that he was optimistic about America's future.

Don't worry about the dollar, says Secretary Morgenthau. Just worry how to keep on making it.

Destruction of the Macon just goes to show that the United States couldn't stand inflation even with helium.

Dusting The Covers Of Texas History For THE TEXAS CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF 1936

Crisp orders were being given in the Texan camp. It was the afternoon of April 21, 1836.

"Cavlary to the right!" Colonel Mirabeau B. Lamar on his fine horse paced out to the front of his cavalrymen.

"Captain Millard, infantry to the left!" The men quickly stepped into line.

Hockley moved the "Twin Sisters" into line of defense. They (the cannon) were gifts from the people of Cincinnati to the cause of Texas.

All was set for the big battle. The band, minus any martial music, but feeling in the spirit of playing, piped forth with "Will you come to the bower." Over and over again they played as the last recruits were whipped into line, and all was arranged for the conflict.

General Houston looked at the sun. Then he looked at his timepiece. Four o'clock. With keen anticipation in his voice he gave the command, "Forward!" So eager were the men to begin fighting that it was all Houston could do to keep them from an immediate attack when they were hardly within shooting distance. Quite suddenly the Twin Sisters were wheeled around, and into the midst of the Mexican camp was poured a volley of cannon and gun shots. Immediately all was turmoil. Cries of pain, audible prayers, and wild screaming roused the Mexicans who had not seen the Texans coming.

Santa Anna, asleep in his tent, turned over and over. His fitful sleep was one of nightmares. He kept hearing his foes screaming "Remember the Alamo! Remember Goliad!" The cries seemed nearer. He fancied he could hear cannon shots. Then, springing from his cot, he was wide awake, and in a glance took in the situation. His dreams were realities. The Texans were in his camp! They were killing his men; they were shooting those who were trying to run away; they were yelling like fiends, stabbing, fighting, giving their hair-raising war cry.

Castrillon had tried to form a line of defense. He was killed at once. Santa Anna looked about in desperation. Juan Bringas, servant of his aide-re-camp, rushed up and pleaded with his master that he take his. Juan's horse, and escape. Without hesitation, he jumped on the horse's back, and fled toward Vince's Bridge, which the Texans had destroyed early in the day.

The Texans with fiery vengeance stabbed at random, crushed with glee, and killed men right and left. The slaughter was so terrific that in the half hour during which the battle was fought, 630 Mexicans were killed, and 208 were wounded. Only 12 Texans were killed, and 40 wounded. Running over the boggy ground to escape, 730 Mexicans were rounded up and brought back prisoners. Some died in the mud and water of the San Jacinto.

The Lone Star flag that had waved so proudly over Goliad was to wave henceforth over the entire state. Texas was free! The battles were over! Life could begin anew and the battlefields could be planted to corn, wheat, and oats.

All was well—except for the fact that Santa Anna had not been captured. By another sundown, he would be in the hands of the Texans.

One hundred years later Texans were to recall with humble gratitude this glorious victory by observing Texas' Centennial in 1936.

2 Missionaries In China Slain, Reports Claim

SIAN, Shensi, China, Feb. 25. (AP)—Unconfirmed reports received by the local office of the China Inland Mission today said two missionaries, the Rev. and Mrs. S. C. Frenchman, stationed at Ninkiang in southwest Shensi province, had been kidnaped and murdered.

Mr. Frenchman is an Australian from Melbourne and his wife a former resident of London. Both are less than 30 years old. They have been married not quite a year.

Concern was felt in view of the reports for the safety of two American women missionaries stationed at Fenghsien in West Shensi. The Americans, Miss R. V. Thompson of Nevada, Iowa, and Miss Mary Artibery of Chicago, were reported to be missing. They evacuated Fenghsied Feb. 18 and have not since been heard from.

Within the past few days 25 American, English, Australian and Canadian Missionaries have been evacuating western and southern Shensi under harrowing conditions as the result of heavy snowfall and bitter temperatures. The whereabouts of a majority of them, including women and children, is not known.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

FREDERICK, Md., (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cronise looked back on 62 years of happy married life today, they reflected, association of names might have had something to do with it.

For many years after they were married in 1873, they lived at a place called "Harmony Grove."

HARVESTERS AND ALLISON WILL BATTLE IN CRUCIAL TITLE GAME TONIGHT

LOCALS MUST WIN TO STAY IN CAGE RACE

RESULT IS A TOSS-UP; NEITHER TEAM IS FAVORITE

For the seventh time this season, the basketball teams of Pampa and Allison will clash tonight in a gruelling contest. The battle will begin promptly at 7:30 o'clock at the gym.

If the Harvesters win, and they believe they can by putting out everything they have, a second game to decide the basketball supremacy of district two will be played tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at the high school gym. If the Pampa boys lose, it will be curtains for them.

If Allison wins, the scheduled three-game series which began Saturday night when the blue-clad boys "lucked through" for a 19 to 18 victory over the Harvesters, will be abruptly terminated and Allison will be handed the district basketball championship.

No Favorite Tonight

There will be no favorite tonight, despite the fact that Pampa has defeated Allison four times, two here, once at Allison and once at Mobeetie. Allison won from Pampa once at Miami and here Saturday night.

In two of the six games already played Pampa has nosed out the veteran cagers from Allison all of whom have played together on the Wheeler county team for three years, by one point. In the other two games, the Harvesters won by four points in each fracas. Allison has won from Pampa by one point.

It was Jones, elongated, beefy Allison guard, who whipped the Harvesters Saturday night. It was Jones in fact who won every game Allison played in the tournament except the one Saturday morning which Allison dropped to Pampa, and Jones went out on personals in the fourth quarter in that game. Hays was the man the Harvesters had feared, but Bill Dunaway stopped him cold in both games.

Plan To Stop Jones

Jones scored 15 of the 19 points Saturday night. It was a new scoring record for Jones. He had never scored so many points before, and the Harvesters say he will never do it again.

Yesterday, Coach Mitchell and his first team of J. R. Green, Stokes Green, Dunaway, Scott and Nash met at the gym to map out ways to beat the visitors. They believe they have hit upon a defense to stop Jones, and if they have, with Dunaway holding Hays, they should win the game.

Two Men On Green

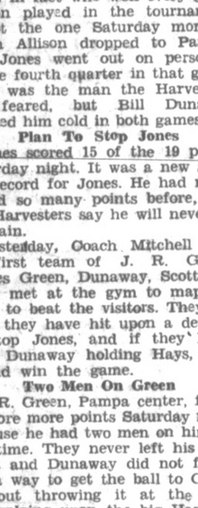

J. R. Green, Pampa center, failed to score more points Saturday night because he had two men on him all the time. They never left his side. Scott and Dunaway did not figure cut a way to get the ball to Green without throwing it at the goal and relying upon the big Harvester to nab it. This happened twice but Allison soon caught on and created a jam under the basket. The referee helped by calling entirely too many held balls—in fact that was the glaring weakness of his officialing during the tournament.

Admission tonight will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children.

High school officials are preparing to seat a record crowd. The gym was crowded to capacity Saturday night. Chairs will be placed around the sidelines if necessary. It is believed that enough seats will be available for all who want to see the game.

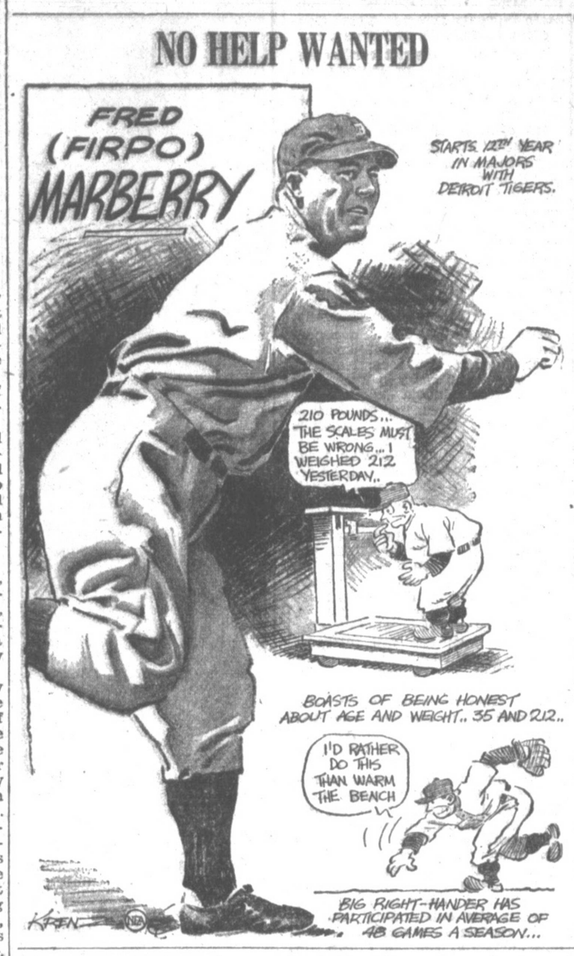

The winner of the series will compete in the regional tournament at Canyon this week-end. Four district champions, including Crowell, Lamesa, and Amarillo will enter the meet. Crowell is favored over Lamesa and Amarillo. Either Pampa or Allison would have a good chance to win the regional and represent the Panhandle at the state meet in Austin, it is believed.

Girls Will Play Goodnight For Title Wednesday Night

Bi-Sectional Crown Will Be at Stake At Local Gym

The sectional basketball title in the girls' division will be at stake when the Pampa Harvesterettes and the Goodnight Lassies meet here at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night for the third and deciding game, with the winner eligible to meet Perryton in the bi-sectional playoff.

Goodnight swamped the Pampa team in Goodnight last Monday night. On Thursday night Goodnight came to Pampa and was greeted with the same treatment. The game Wednesday night is to play off the tie. Garrison Rush, coach at McLean, will officiate.

Miss Kathleen Milam, Harvesterette coach, will return to Pampa tonight and will have charge of the team Wednesday. Miss Milam was out of the city when her team defeated Goodnight here. Coach Odus Mitchell of the Harvesters had charge of the sextet which demonstrated its best basketball of the year.

All the Harvesterettes will have to do Wednesday night is to play the type of ball they exhibited in their last win. The girls broke fast and passed accurately. In the past the forwards had to have the ball before they broke for the basket. Against Goodnight, the girls received the ball under the basket for many shots.

Stopping Williams and Tidwell will have to be accomplished by the Pampa girls. The two Goodnight forwards were stopped last week for the first time this year. In the opening game, Williams looped 13 points. Thursday night she was held to a single field goal.

The lineup which defeated Goodnight was Shields and Heiskell, forwards, Feltner, center, Williams, Grey and Jeffries, guards. Feltner showed scoring ability for the first time in many games as she looped five field goals.

Goodnight's lineup is usually Williams and Brown, forwards, Tidwell, center, Reid, Timms and Shores, guards.

Moreland Wins Houston Title For 4th Time

HOUSTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The Gus Moreland of two years ago—the Moreland who bagged five major titles and a berth on the Walker cup team—today placed his fourth Houston Country club invitation golf title in a crowded trophy chest.

All the courage, putting genius and cleverness the Dallas youth once possessed, but which had temporarily let him down, was there yesterday as he capped a week of sparkling play with a 5 and 3 victory over Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City's western amateur champion.

Moreland, shorn of all his titles last year, gave his warning in the semi-final round when he blasted Johnny Dawson of Chicago, defending champion, with a marvelous under-par exhibition.

Against Eaton he did not shatter par, for a driving wind swept the course, but he strung along with perfect figures to start his comeback.

After the morning round of 73, two over par, Moreland held a two up lead over his slight rival, who needed 75 shots. Eaton's putter misbehavec. several long putts gliding over the lip of the cup when a dropped putt would have tightened the match.

Once Moreland holed a 60-yard approach shot for a birdie two after driving badly from the tee, snatching the hole despite Eaton's perfectly played three. He was three up at the end of 27 holes.

Moreland went four up at the 28th and increased his lead to five with another birdie at the 30th hole. Eaton slashes his lead by taking the 31st hole and they halved the 32nd with par fours.

Moreland finished brilliantly, lacing a long iron shot true to the pin for a birdie three on the 33rd hole, winding up a dazzling exhibition.

Their cards:

Morning round:

Moreland out	445	543	544—38
Eaton out	346	553	553—39
Moreland in	352	445	345-35—73
Eaton in	443	544	345-36—75

Afternoon round:

Moreland out	445	553	344-37
Eaton out	435	563	553-39
Moreland in	353	543
Eaton in	544	444

President May Take Power Plan To U. S. Voters

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25, (AP)—The possibility of taking President Roosevelt's power policies to the people in what would amount to a national referendum was considered today by some administration advisers.

Under a plan suggested for possible use if the government's intention to sell electricity in the Tennessee valley is blocked by the supreme court, the public's sentiment would be tested by submission of a constitutional amendment to the states.

The amendment was one of several possibilities studied for use in event the government should lose finally the appeal it is preparing from a decision by Federal Judge W. I. Grubb of Alabama. He ruled last week that the Tennessee valley authority has no right to sell surplus electricity.

Another proposal given consideration by administration advisers was that a corporation financed largely by the government but not connected directly with it might be set up to carry out the president's plans.

FAMED STEVENS AND MOTHER GO FOR BOB RIDE

70-Year Old Woman Depicts Ride on Mountain Run

Editor's Note: The Mt. Van Hoevenberg bobsled run, a mile and a half of glistening ice with high bank, zig-zag and right angle turns, provides one of the world's most thrilling rides. Yesterday Mrs. James Stevens, 70-year-old mother of the famous bobsledding brothers, agreed to ride with her four sons just "to stop all this bob talk I have been hearing around the house for five years." In the following atricle she describes her ride for the Associated Press.)

BY MRS. JAMES STEVENS.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 25 (AP)—Just as I thought I was going about as fast as anyone ever came down the Mt. Van Hoevenberg run.

Hubert, my eldest son who was piloting the sled, would call "let 'er go" to Curtis at the brake.

Paul, who sat behind me, kept calling for more braking and the three couldn't seem to agree as to the speed that would suit my taste. But I liked it and I wish I had ridden sooner so that I could get use to it and see more as the sled went down.

With the idea of breaking the wind in my face I lowered my head several times in the curves and Paul kept telling me to turn around. When I did all I could see was a great wall of ice.

They forget the brake on the finish stretch and then I had a real ride. I wanted to go as fast as I could as long as I was making the ride, and we certainly sped along. I don't see how the boys ever collect their wits to know how or where to steer.

I wasn't frightened because I knew if there was any danger the boys wouldn't ask me to go with them. The only time I felt a little worried was when I lost hold of the strap at Whiteface, the Hairpin turn, but I soon found it again and everything was all right. I didn't feel at all like falling off the sled as they tell me some people do.

My sons have been after me for five years to try the slide but I always felt there were enough Stevenses bobbing. Like my first plane ride, I kept putting it off and last year I decided to wait until after my seventieth birthday.

Now I'm glad I've finally got around to trying it. I can understand what the boys are talking about. As we hit Whiteface I remembered the study Hubert made of that curve when racing first started at the run. In Shady, the right angle curve, I though of the problem that turn use to be for Curtis.

When the trip was over I didn't feel at all shaky even though the boys thought I should be. I was brought up to take things as they come and, in my family, bobsledding is one of the things.

Two More Rosses in Ring

If they're anything like their brother, Lightweight Champion Barney Ross, two other members of the Rasof family of Chicago are going to help rebuild the fight game. Barney's two brothers, Sammy, left, and George, right, entered the Chicago Golden Gloves tournament and were cheered on by the champion, center, who got his start by winning the featherweight crown in the same amateur tournament a few years ago.

AZUCAR WILL RUN AGAIN IN NEXT SUMMER

JUMPER WILL COMPETE IN GRAND NATIONAL IN ENGLAND

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 25 (AP)—Turf followers of the east who think it was another case of luck of the Irish when Erin-bred Azucar won the richest individual purse of all time by taking the Santa Anita handicap may have a chance to find out for themselves.

For Fred M. Alger Jr., Detroit owner of the revamped jumper which took $108,400 in stakes from the classic, today started formulating plans for campaigning the 7-year-old gelding by Milesius in the middlewest and east next summer.

Then, in 1936, if everything goes well, he'll return to his first love, competing in the grand national steeple-chase at Aintree, England. But first of all "Sugar"—Azucar is the Spanish name for it—will move up to Bay Meadows to compete in the $50,000 spring handicap there March 23.

How Azucar got his name Alger doesn't know. The chestnut charger was christened by his former owner, Joseph E. Widener, who knocked him off to Ager for $8,000 last year.

But the 45,000 persons who saw him raced to a surprise victory Saturday by capable Georgie Woolf, a product of the Montana cattle range, were unanimous in the opinion his earnings were heavy sugar in any language.

Azucar proved a sound investment. Since he was purchased six months ago the gelding has earned no less than $128,000. Of this amount, $8,000 was won in steeplechase victories before Alger suddenly became aware his bargain perhaps was a greater runner on the flat. It is an interesting fact the horse has earned $112,680 in the 53 days of racing at Santa Anita park.

His time of 2 minutes, 2 seconds—as the electrical cameratimer caught him—was little short of being a sensation, in a cumbersome field of 20 starters. This was two seconds slower than the world's record.

Azucar had to thread his way through the greater share of this field to win. Second away from the gate, he was fourteenth at the quarter post, eleventh at the half time and fourth at the three-quarters. He went out in front a furlong from the finish. Thundering in behind him was Ladysmap, two lengths back, with Time Supply, fading at the end after staying close to the pace throughout, third another length in the ruck.

What happened to Equipoise, the heavy posttime favorite, may never be completely answered. Raymond (Sonny) Workman, his pilot, said he "simply wouldn't run."

While Equipoise passed up a golden opportunity of becoming the leading money winner of all time, he still can make the grade in the Bay Meadows $50,000 event.

He has won $334,110, and first place money at Bay Meadows would raise his total to slightly more than the $376,774 figure credited to Sun Beau.

MINNESOTA SIGNED

AUSTIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—The athletic council of the University of Texas today signed a contract for two football games with the University of Minnesota on a home and home basis. The first game would be in Minnesota, on Nov. 14, 1936, and the second at Austin in November, 1937. Longhorn officials indicated, however, they would seek to have the first game in Texas because of Texas Centennial celebration in 1936.

NO SHOWDOWN FOR RUTH TILL SEASON'S END

McCARTHY IS MAN ON 'THE SPOT' NOW EXPERTS SAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 25. (AP) — The trouble with trying to solve the celebrated case of Babe Ruth's future in baseball is that it's more embarrassing than it's mysterious to the principal parties concerned.

Whether the one-time home run monarch signs with the Yankees for 1935, as a player or merely as an ornament, there scarcely can be any real show-down before the closing of the coming American league season.

The Babe's fondest ambition is that he can stay in New York and eventually manager the Yankees. Since he hardly can be given any assurance on that score, for the time being, he would jump at the chance to pilot any other big league club that would give him something substantial to work with. The possibility exists, of course, that developments will open up a managerial prospect for Ruth during the season.

Meanwhile the man "on the spot" will be Joseph Vincent McCarthy, the Buffalo Irishman, whose fat contract as manager of the Yankees runs out this year. "Marse Joe" took charge of the club in 1931 after a bust-up with the Wrigleys in Chicago.

He piloted the Yankees to an American league pennant in 1932 and had the satisfaction of beating the Cubs four straight in the world series. He was rewarded with a three-year renewal of his contract at a salary reported to be $35,000 annually. Since then the club has run second to Washington and Detroit.

As everyone knows, however, Colonel Jacob Ruppert loves a winner, not a runner-up. The Yankee owner never has spared the checkbook in helping his managers to produce one or more. Nor has he ever hampered his team leaders, otherwise.

His support of the late Miller Huggins was unwavering at such times as "Hug" had run-ins with Ruth or was the target of critics. McCarthy has had similar backing and he will have it this year, Ruth or no Ruth. It is no secret that Joe and the Babe are not exactly pals.

There are two distinct viewpoints on the matter but it seems definite that Ruth damaged the prospects of achieving his main ambition when he rejected Ruppert's suggestion a year ago that he try his hand as a manager with the Newark Bears, No. 1 farm club of the Yankees.

This in itself was proof that the Colonel had in mind the possibility that Ruth would make a logical pilot, some day, for the Yankees. But he wanted something beside the Babe's popularity and playing record to go on.

Ruth on the other hand, insisted there was nothing he could learn about baseball by going back to the minors after 20 years in the big show.

They have known each other since high school days when Miss French was a student at North Dallas high and (Pinky) was Oak Cliff high's outstanding athlete.

Three Teams In Southwest Are Now Tied

(By The Associated Press.)

Three teams, Southern Methodist, Arkansas and Rice Institute, all hold chances at the Southwest conference cage flag as the season goes into its last week.

The fourth possibility is that the trio could end in a deadlock for top honors.

Arkansas, smarting from two straight defeats handed them by the Methodists at Dallas over the week-end, meet the Texas Aggies in two games at Fayetteville on Friday and Saturday. The Porkers looked at two defeats, 30 to 22 and 41 to 27, while in Dallas.

The Methodists, at the top of their stride, rate heavily over their two scheduled opponents. They meet the Baylor Bears at Dallas Tuesday night and may encounter trouble, but should sail to an easy win over Texas Christian at Fort Worth Saturday night. Baylor looked great in trouncing Texas, 43 to 25, at Waco Saturday night. The Christians took a 28 to 25 lacing from the Aggies at College Station Saturday night.

Rich hooks up with two tough opponents, meeting Texas at Austin on Friday night and then bumping into Baylor the following night at Waco. The Owls dropped Texas, 29 to 25, at Houston Thursday after beating the Aggies, 33 to 23 on Tuesday at College Station.

In the other game scheduled, Texas meets Texas Christian at Austin Tuesday night.

The one remaining game on the schedule finds the Aggies, fighting hard for an upper division berth, tackling Texas at Austin on March 6. It will be their last game under Coach John Reid, ending a seven-year period as Aggie basketball coach.

DALLAS, Feb. 25. (AP)—The Southwest conference basketball standing, including games tonight, follows:

	W	L	Pct.	Pts.	Op.
Arkansas	7	3	.700	355	284
Rice	7	3	.700	336	300
Southern Meth.	7	3	.700	342	263
Texas	4	5	.444	293	317
Texas A. & M.	4	5	.444	289	311
Baylor	4	6	.400	291	246
Texas Christian	1	9	.100	239	326

Next games:

Feb. 26—Texas Christian vs. Texas at Austin; Baylor vs. Southern Methodist at Dallas.

March 1—Rice vs. Texas at Austin; Texas A. and M. vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville.

March 2—Texas A. and M. vs. Arkansas at Fayetteville; Southern Methodist vs. Texas Christian at Fort Worth; Rice vs. Baylor at Waco.

Sheriff Removes Clothing And Leg To Punish Pair

SHERMAN, Feb. 25 (AP)—An attempted jail break was frustrated here last night when Walter Enloe, assistant Grayson county jailer, surprised two prisoners in the act of digging through the brick wall to the outside.

The two men had severed the same steel bar through which Mallay (Red) Kuykendall and Jim L. Hasley made their escape last December 27.

The prisoners attempting to escape were Jodie T. Lloyd, convicted burglar, and Lacy Wingfield, under indictment for burglary. They had sawed the locks on their cages so they might work on the outside cage at night.

As punishment for attempting to escape, Enloe took away all but the underclothing of the two men and removed Lloyd's artificial leg.

TEACHERS TO PLAY LEFORS TUESDAY EVE

PEDAGOGS WILL FACE STRONGEST QUINT OF SEASON

Two crack faculty basketball teams will meet Tuesday night in the LeFors gymnasium when the teachers from Pampa battle the LeFors mentors. Both teams have won six games and lost one and each have defeated some of the same teams by large margins.

Game time will be 7:30 o'clock with admission 10 cents for students and 25 cents for adults. Proceeds will go to the Boy Scout fund for the purchase of new uniforms. Boy Scouts are selling tickets and the LeFors faculty will give the patrol selling the most tickets a pup tent. The LeFors faculty basketball team has already raised $50 for the fund.

LeFors won two games last week, defeating the White Deer faculty 32 to 31 and the Groom Independents 29 to 17. The Pampa team, minus Monroe and Mitchell, were nosed out 17 to 16 by the Skellytown profs in Skellytown last week.

The Pampa basket shooters will be without Monroe, elongated center, when they meet LeFors. Monroe received a badly sprained ankle in a game with Groom and will be unable to play. The local team will have the job of stopping Coaches Bill Bronson and Francis Smith of the LeFors aggregation. Smith has scored 116 points and Bronson has looped 110 points of the total of 247 points made by the team.

Probable starting lineups for the game will be:

LeFors—Bronson and Brown, forwards; Smith, center, Hill and Duncan, guards.

Pampa—Mitchell and Bennett, forwards; Love, center; Dennard and Savage, guards.

Twenty-five separate families of Smiths are represented in the student body at North Carolina State college and the Browns and Johnsons are tied for second place with 17 each.

Monarchism Dead, Declares Hitler

MUNICH, Germany, Feb. 25. (AP)—Monarchism and republicanism are dead in Germany, says Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

The Fuehrer so told his old Nazi campaigners yesterday in an aggressive address commemorating the 15th anniversary of the party's foundation.

The speech, delivered in the huge Munich town hall and broadcast throughout the Reich, marked a return of Hitler's old time fighting style of oratory and elicited uproarious cheers from his followers.

"I prophesy again," he shouted, "that none of the old systems will return.

"We had no confidence in the existing regime, but in the German people when we began our fight. democracy promised to enable a majority of outstanding achievements, but jobbers and usurers destined German economy, charlatans and criminals Germany policy.

"We didn't believe in Germany as represented before the war," Hitler said, turning to the monarchial system.

WINTER MEALS NEED FRUIT TO GIVE VARIETY

Fresh or Dried Fruit Is Recognized as Necessity

DENTON, Feb. 25.—The use of fruit in the diet is no longer looked upon as a luxury but as a necessity. At least two fruits should be eaten daily. Fresh fruit is to be preferred but when it can not be secured dried fruits may be used to a good advantage.

The use of dried fruit has many advantages. They are within the reach of everyone the year round. It is especially during the late winter and early spring when fresh fruit is scarce that dried fruit holds an important place in the died. They are inexpensive and for this reason can be used by everyone. They are important in the diet because of the valuable mineral salts and organic acids present. They are a good addition to the diets of both children and adults. They may be combined with many other foods. Cereals are especially good when combined with raisins, dates, and apricots. The juice left from dried fruits may be used in puddings, sauces, gelatin desserts, sherbets, ices, cold beverages, or fruit salads.

Many people make mistakes in cooking dried fruits. In order to have a perfect finished product, they should be properly cooked. They should be washed thoroughly and then covered with cold water and allowed to soak for several hours. The fruit should be cooked in the same water in which it is soaked and kept at the simmering point until it is done. If sugar is to be added, it should be added when the fruit is nearly done.

Menus With Fruit

The following menus show dried fruit may be used in the diet:

Breakfast: Orange, Cream of Wheat, Cream, Sugar, Bacon, Toast, Milk.

Blue Tops Color List For Spring

BY ANNA PETERSON,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Any doubts remaining that blue will be the strongest color in spring costumes were dissipated this week when the official color card gave top listing to blues in four of its five groupings.

The dress market which is faced with the momentous decision of choosing among all the bright and beautiful tints that appear at this season, finds guidance in the officially approved colors.

For dress suits, four shades of blue led all others. Two blues led in dress coats. Continental blue is the first choice for dress costumes or ensembles; and a whole range of blues was given top ranking for silk dresses.

These included a dark navy called commodore; a bright dark blue; a medium tone, a pastel and turquoise, called biscayne.

Not by several shades does this complete the story of spring blue. A vivid tone—strong and clear—called nassau has been introduced recently. While only blonds can wear it happily, there is a lighter shade, described as bluebird which is becoming to almost every coloring—golden haired, brunettes, or red heads.

The peacock blue of the winter is far from disappearing. In lighter tints it is carried over into spring silks, cottons, and woolens.

Among the "weathered" colors given high approval in resort clothes, there are several faded blues as well as faded reds and greens, distinctive and wearable.

Mauve, lilac and violet are new favorites in evening clothes. These old-fashioned tints have appropriately been revived along with the silhouette and styles of the regency period when they were generally worn.

Mrs. Alexina "Mother" Christy of Bisbee, Ariz., spent nearly a full year making a quilt which was sent to President Roosevelt.

Montana Rides Again

A RAPID-FIRE ROMANCE BY EVAN EVANS

SYNOPSIS: The Montana Kid and Mateo Rubriz have outwitted Sergeant Andres and obtained entrance to the fort of Duraya. They are about to blow open the governor's safe and recover the emerald crown of Our Lady, stolen from the church by the governor, when they are surprised. The governor makes sure the crown is safe, then questions Andres. He confesses he thought Montana and Rubriz were the girl, Rosita, when they tapped gently at his gate.

Chapter 21
ROSITA

"That girl," said the general, "is the daughter of Miguel Santos. She is Rosita Santos, eh? Is she behind this deviltry. Has she been sent for?"

"She has been sent for," said Don Luis, nodding. "Unless she has run for her life, she should be here by this time."

"This sergeant," said the general, in a gentle voice, "at the risk of stifling himself managed at last to give the alarm. Otherwise, who knows what might have happened? For that reason, see that he's paid a hundred pesos. That's a reward for a hero.

"Also, he was the fool and traitor who let danger into the fort. Because of that, strip the coat from him, tie his hands to his back, and flog him out of the fort and through the town till you've seen the last of him."

A quick smile of appreciation greeted the depth and the wisdom of this judgment. And even Sergeant Andres only rolled up his eyes once to heaven. For he could not even conceive a beating that would not be healed and instantly forgotten for the sake of a hundred silver pesos. So he was swept out of the room.

The general then demanded that the scoundrels who had entered his rooms and locked the door behind them should be produced instantly.

There was no one to produce! The whole of the two rooms had been searched, and nothing had been found. People had even looked out the windows . . .

"Did you think that they were birds, that you looked out the windows?" shouted the general, so loudly that his mustache was thrown into confusion by his cry.

"No, you fools! You rushed into the rooms in a crowd, and the two thieves slipped out from behind curtains and joined you in your search. They milled around with you, like two more head among so many cattle. And then they sneaked away from the fort.

"They are in some inn now, drinking and laughing at the soldiers of Duraya. The garrison of the fort becomes a laughing stock. The President will hear of this. All the army will begin to laugh at me—me—me!"

He raised his voice a bit for each of the last three words, until his shout was a hoarse scream. His officers gave back a little. He looked as though he might charge them with his fists at any moment, and he had been known to do such a thing before this.

And then he saw, between two soldiers at the door, the pretty face of Rosita, from the inn of Miguel Santos. Some of his rage disappeared at once. He had her brought in. As he watched her walk forward, he began to forget about everything. Even the emeralds of Our Lady turned into bits of green glass, so far as he was concerned. However, he knew that a good way is to sound the loudest trumpet first.

"To draw soldiers from their duty, that is treason!" he thundered at her. "Do you know the punishment for treason?"

"To be stood against a wall and shot down," said the girl. And she spoke with such a quiet, even voice that Ignacio Estrada was moved.

"You have a story to tell," he said to her. "Every woman can at least tell lies. Come out with your pack of words."

"I know nothing except poor Sergeant Andres," she said.

"Why do you call him 'poor' Sergeant Andres?"

"They were beating him with whips as I came in through the gate."

"He's your lover, eh?"

"To me he is nothing."

"But you come to tap at the postern when it's his turn to be on guard behind it?" shouted the general.

"I never have tapped at it. He told me how to knock if I wanted him. I never wanted him."

One of the officers bit his lip to the blood to keep from smiling.

"Ah," said the general, "and you sold your information to thieves. Is that it? Thieves and murderers—and you knew them— and you sold the news to them?"

"What did I sell?" said the girl. "The sergeant owed money to a poor man. The poor man could never meet Sergeant Andres to ask for the money that was owing. So I told him to tap on the postern and how the sergeant would answer him. That is all."

She made a little gesture with both hands, raising her shoulders a trifle. She smiled a bit and shook her head so that all guilt might drop away from her.

"When did you tell this?" asked the general, grimly.

"A week—ten days ago."

"To what man?"

"I never knew his name. But he was drinking in the inn and complaining about Sergeant Andres. That is all."

"Where is he now?"

"How can I tell, Excellency? I only see what comes into the inn, and he has not come there for many days."

"Friends," said the general, suddenly, to his officers, "is she speaking the truth."

"She is too pretty to tell a lie," answered Don Luis.

The general frowned, and the frown pulled the shag of his black hair down over his eyes.

Then he waved his hand, saying: "The rest of you leave me. Remain outside the door. I am going to see what the truth of this may be."

He added, with a roar, "Stop your damned smiling and get out!"

The officers got out in haste, and left Ignacio Estrada alone with the girl.

He pointed to a chair. She thanked him with a little bow and slipped into it. For a time he remained with his thoughts. Then he arose and began to pace up and down the room with his left hand on the hilt of his sword. He knew how to move his hand a little so as to bring from the scabbard an ominous and a martial sound of humming steel.

He began to marshal words like soldiers; for he felt that he was about to attack a prize greater to him than any rich city.

The wind had fallen from a yell to a moan and the rain no longer whipped those aching bodies which remained rigid on the ledge under the windows of the governor's room.

"After a time we'll grow cold and weak enough to fall," said Rubriz to his friend. "And then we'll climb back inside to make a last stand. But we'll be no good, then. It would have been better if we had fought it out in the beginning, when they broke down the door."

He pointed down. Below them went the lights of a patrol. Every few minutes those lights had been passing. The fort of Duraya was as tensely prepared as though a great army were about to rush to the attack, and every man was at his post.

"Still wait for a little," said Montana. His jaws ached with cold as he spoke. The words came shuddering out of his throat. "We still have some part of a long chance."

"What chance?" asked Rubriz.

"One chance brought us up to the governor's rooms. Another chance may get us out of the fort again. Hush! That—that is Rosita!"

There had been a slight lull in the rain again, and he heard the sweet voice of the girl, penetrant because of its high pitch. He worked quickly along the ledge until he was under the window of the bedroom again.

He could look in over the sill, while Rubriz was posted on the farther side, whispering: "Now that he's alone there with the girl—we could leap in and kill him, Montana. That would be worth more than slaughtering a dozen of the soldiers—"

"Hush!" commanded Montana.

The girl had come into the bedroom and was looking quietly around her. Behind her moved the governor, his eyes glittering through the black shagginess of the hair that still pitched from his forehead. General Estrada was excited; but the girl had in her eyes that blank look which the Kid had seen in them once before, as though thought were mastering her senses.

She turned around and looked up at the general with those blank eyes which were seeing the future, perhaps.

State Worker to Attend Each of P-TA Conferences

BY MRS. J. M. CRAIN, Claude, State Publicity Director, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers.

A series of 15 district conferences of Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers will be held from March 15 to April 20.. The various meetings will convene in 15 different parts of the state and 15 district presidents will preside over them.

The theme for all conferences will be, "Building for Tomorrow," which was the subject of the state convention held in Corpus Christi. Each district will discuss problems of the child relative to the home, the school, the church, and the state, and each district will have as its paramount concern the welfare of the children in its particular section as well as the state generally.

Miss Frances S. Hays, a representative of the national congress, si scheduled to visit several district conferences and cities in Texas this spring. Her valuable experience in the national office, her educational attainments, her varied activities in many phases of public service—such as the P. E. O., American Association of University Women, American Red Cross—should mean much to all who are privileged to hear her.

A state representative will attend each district conference and she will give that which will help serve the district in the best possible way; she will discuss with the local delegate the congress program as it is, to see where it does or where it does not serve best; she will interpret congress terminology and the importance of its correct use; she will extend greetings on the opening evening from the state branch; she will conduct the conference on the question box and will be free as much time as possible for individual conferences and inquiries.

New and weak parent-teacher associations at the spring conferences are given the benefit of the experiences of older organizations. The local reports, oftentimes given in the form of story activities, are the real nucleus of the conference and are of inestimable value to all in attendance. A findings committee considers the outstanding features of the reports as presented at the conferences and comments upon the value of the local reports as given.

Eighth district will convene at Canyon, March 21-23.

RAY HAMILTON ESCAPES AGAIN AFTER BATTLE

BELIEVE DESPERADO IS WOUNDED; CAR IS BLOOD-STAINED

McKINNEY, Feb. 25. (AP)—Raymond Hamilton was believed suffering from serious bullet wounds in a rain-drenched, wooded section north of here today after again cheating death or capture by running the gauntlet of machine gun bullets laid down from ambush.

The automobile the notorious desperado used to flee a police trap on a deserted lane three miles west of here at nightfall last night was found near Weston, a community 10 miles north of here, early today.

Blood covered the front seat. Bullets had torn holes in the body.

A farmer found the machine on a muddy by-road. There had been no report of a stolen automobile in the vicinity and fifteen officers, armed with machine guns, who scoured the vicinity, believed Hamilton and his companion to be hiding in the woods—wounded.

Hamilton and another man, driving a grey sedan, drove directly into the ambush.

His answer to a command to halt was sputtering from a sub-machine gun.

Six officers, led by Constable John Record, went to the spot after being tipped Hamilton would drive along the road. Ten minutes after they left their machine hidden, and flattened beside the road, Hamilton drove by.

"Halt, we're officers," shouted Record.

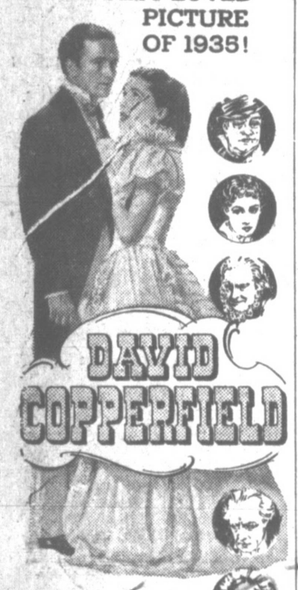

Hamilton speeded up. The officers sent a volley of 70 shots at the car. It slowed down 200 yards down the road and a round from the machine gun splattered around the officers. It appeared as if the two men changed positions as the car drove slowly forward in f. it gear some 400 yards, Record said. Then they sped away.

The officers, including two state highway patrolmen and four Collin county officers, jumped in their car and gave chase. They lost the trail at Weston, 10 miles north.

Hamilton and a man reported to be his brother, Floyd, fled a similar police trap at Dallas several weeks ago. City detectives opened fire on them as they stopped at an apartment house. Both fled afoot, Raymond later stealing a light truck for his getaway. Floyd was arrested on a bus the next night at Shreveport, La.

Hamilton, using smuggled pistols, broke out of death row at the state prison in Huntsville several months ago while awaiting execution for slaying a prison guard during another break for freedom from a prison farm.

DEFENDANT

into court for prosecution on federal charge of giving aid to fugitives from justice, Joe Francis and Mrs. Blanche Barrow pleaded guilty.

Judge William H. Atwell today overruled motions made Saturday for instructed verdicts of acquittal for Mrs. Emma Parker, Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, Mrs. Steve Davis, Marie Francis and Audrey Fay Barrow. He had the motions under consideration over the week end.

Mrs. Parker is the mother of Bonnie Parker. Audrey Fay Barrow is the wife of L. C. Barrow, clyde's youngest brother. Mrs. Mildred Hamilton is the wife of Floyd Hamilton, bother of Raymond Hamilton, a former member of the Barrow gang. Mrs. Steve Davis is Raymond Hamilton's mother. Marie Francis is a younger sister of Clyde Barrow.

The first witness called today was Billie Mace, daughter of Mrs. Emma Parker and sister of the slain Bonnie.

Mrs. Mace told of various meetings with Clyde and Bonnie when they were at the height of their depredations in 1933.

On June 18, 1933, she said she went to Lake Dallas with L. C. Barrow to meet Clyde. She then related how she and Clyde went to Fort Smith, Ark., to the bedside of Bonnie, who had been burned critically when an automobile caught fire.

Mrs. Mace told of staying six or seven days in a tourist camp at Fort Smith with her sister, but she declared she did not dress Bonnie's burns.

The witness testified that Bonnie was unconscious when they arrived at the tourist camp and that she remained in that condition for a day or two.

"I went to Bonnie because mother wanted me to go and because I wanted to see my sister," Mrs. Mace said.

She told how Buck Barrow, who later was slain by officers, and W. D. Jones, one of the defendants in the harboring trial, joined them at the tourist camp. They came thru Oklahoma to Texas in a small coupe, she said.

Mrs. Mace said she left the others, either at Sherman or Denison, and came to Dallas by interurban.

The witness told of another meeting with Clyde and Bonnie on the Eagle Ford road near Dallas. This time she was accompanied by her mother, she said.

On November 22, 1933, Mrs. Mace testified she witnessed an ambush of Clyde and Bonnie by officers. The ambush was near Sowers, a town near Dallas, where Mrs. Mace and several others were to have met the outlaw pair. The witness testified that the officers began shooting when they got within 30 feet of Clyde's car.

Action On Race Law Is Deferred

AUSTIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—Another test on repeal of the pari-mutuel race wagering law was deferred when the Texas house today voted to adjourn until tomorrow without acting on a bill to stamp out race bookmakers. Adjournment took the house off the suspension calendar on which the bookie bill was pending.

ONE HOUSE PROPOSED

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—A unicameral legislature will be proposed in a constitutional amendment prepared for introduction tomorrow by Representative Wilson H. Fox of Taylor. Under it all legislative proceedings would be concentrated in one chamber.

HAMILTON

companion was wounded in the runing fight as the officers pursued the two men to Weston. Hamilton returned the fire.

Constable S. L. Betty said he and his force raided a local hide-out of Hamilton a few days ago and four Browning automatic rifles were seized. Two of these guns were used by the officers in their ambush fight with Hamilton last night.

The constable said Bill Mayes and the youths held captive at the farm near Celina apparently were threatened by Hamilton and his companion. Mayes was not tied during the night or when the outlaws left with the boys this morning. There is no telephone at the farm and details of what occurred during the night were not learned immediately.

A farmer and his wife, returning home late from a party near Weston, reported seeing the hard-pressed outlaws hold-up J. Loftice with the automatic rifles and climb into his roadster.

They abducted him from a point about a mile and a half west of the town of Weston and near where they abandoned the car in which they escaped from the McKinney trap. Weston is 10 miles northwest of McKinney.

Officers believe Hamilton and his companion would release Loftice unharmed in some lonely section or, as they have done with other captives in the past, tie him to a fence or tree so he could not inform pursuers of their whereabouts for hours after they left him.

Hamilton and his companions forced their way into Bill Mayes' home, waving their guns. Aiming a weapon at Mayes, Hamilton said:

"I'm Ray Hamilton. There's no need for you to get scared, for I never harmed anybody in my life. We're going to stay here tonight. Treat us right and we won't hurt you."

Shortly afterward, they forced Mrs. Mayes to cook them a meal.

According to Mayes, the family was treated kindly by the fugitives who, however, kept a sharp lookout for possible intruders or officers.

Before retiring to sleep, Hamilton and his companion cleaned one of the automoatic rifles, which had jammed on them in the fight last night.

Hamilton and his companion took turns sleeping and keeping watch until dawn.

"We're going to Denton," Hamilton was reported to have told Mayes as they left at daybreak.. "I know of a (V-8) car in that town that I believe I can get hold of."

The four Browning automatic rifles recovered by officers in the raid a few days ago are property of the United States army. They bear serial numbers 81829, 1113191, 107682, and 110038. Six clips and six belts of ammunition also were recovered.

Car Hits Truck— Cargo Is Strewn

A Lee Way truck loaded with drums of oil and electric refrigerators held no terror for a wildly driven Ford V-8 coach yesterday morning on Highway 60 east of Pampa, and as a result the truck and its cargo were strewn over the highway and the Ford raced away, with only a dented fender.

Police and State Patrolman R. H. Routh searched for the hit-and-run car but this morning had found no trace of it or the driver. The car, after the collision, raced south on a side road and outdistanced a pursuing car driven by S. W. Wilson Jr., who witnessed the crash, and L. W. Vaughan, driver of the truck.

The car raced crazily under the falling truck, barely missing a telephone pole, and then proceeded south on a side road near where the accident happened. The car driven by Mr. Wilson stopped and the driver assisted Vaughn from the truck. He was stunned but was able to get into the car and give chase, which was futile.

Several of the drums of oil were smashed and the oil lost. The refrigerators were also damaged. The truck was brought to Pampa under its own power after it had been placed on its wheels. The truck was being driven from Texola to Pampa.

RELIEF BATTLE IS CONTEST IN MASS PRESSURE

Both Sides Seeking 'Pull' In Every Direction

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The work-relief struggle became today a quiet contest by opponents seeking to apply mass pressures for and against the McCarran amendment calling for prevailing wages on public works.

Meantime this 74th congress, far more prone than its predecessor to debate and criticize administration measures, approached its third month with practically all the big controversies unsettled. The peace of major legislation through committee was proving so slow that both houses had only relatively minor business to do today.

As administration leaders strove to re-assert control after the defeat on the prevailing wage amendment, the capital wondered whether President Roosevelt would make another of his fireside chats to the nation soon in behalf of his fight for "security wages."

Administration strategist, who had the $4,880,000,000 work and relief bill sent back to the committee after the McCarran amendment had been tacked on to it over White House opposition, watched today for what they hoped would be a tidal wave of telegrams and letters in behalf of the administration's plan of $50-a-month wages.

They indicated these protests already had begun to come in. They counted especially on state, counties and municipalities eager to get public works money. Their plan apparently was to keep the huge public works bill in committee a while to let the protests register with the McCarran supporters.

The American Federation of Labor, a leader in the drive for the McCarran amendment, gave no indication of any change in its announced intention to exert all the might it could muster in behalf of public works wages equaling those of private industry.

Chairman Glass (D., Va.) of the appropriations committee had yet to set a date for a meeting of the relief bill, though one was expected this week.

While the relief bill was held in committee democratic chiefs prepared to receive a special message from the White House later in the week recommending merchant marine aid to supplant the existing mail contract system.

Jimmy Walker Says His Wife Pays All Bills

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Jimmy Walker, with lots of bills due but unpayable, told a chancery court today how he once made a $25,000 salary as mayor of New York, got $10.000 of it for his very own, and is now reduced to $5,000 of which he pays out 40 per cent.

He described this financial maze in answer to summonses from American companies which are trying to collect bills.

He testified that his move actress wife, the former Miss Betty Compton, financed their honeymoon and a recent trip to Spain.

"I can make no offer at this time," Walker said, replying to questioning by counsel for Sommers, Inc., who with the 60 East 65th street corporation brought the action.

"I have no means," he added.

Walker said that during his recent tour of the continent with his wife, the former Betty Compton, stage actress, Miss Compton paid the bills.

"During the time you were mayor of New York," the Sommers' attorney asked, "you were possessed of considerable wealth?"

"No," Walker replied, "I had a salary of $25,000 a year, over $15,000 of which was given to my then wife who caused these debts."

40,000 PERSONS 65 AND OLDER ARE ON STATE'S RELIEF ROLLS

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. — There are more than 40,000 persons 65 years old or older on the relief rolls of the state, results of a survey conducted by relief authorities have revealed. A study of relief cases for the month of December, 1934, showed 41,787 persons in that age classification receiving public aid.

More than half, or 24,697, were white persons; 12,303 were negroes; 4,787 were Mexicans.

Of the total, 23,856 were men, 17,931 were women. There were 9,499 single men and 9,878 single women reported. Married couples, both 65 years old or older, on the relief rolls totaled 6,358, while there were 9,693 married couples recorded in which either the man or woman had reached the age of 65.

Similar statistics were compiled on relief clients 70 years old and older. There were 24,832 such clients in December.

Bexar county had the greatest number of clients in the 65-year-old classification, 2,357. Harris county had 2,348, but Dallas county had the surprisingly low total of 813.

Relief funds required to care for these more than 40,000 relief clients in December amounted to $328,078.50, administrators reported.

Results of the survey will be presented to the State Board of Control and will be available to legislators interested in drafting social security legislation, Adam R. Johnson, state relief director, said.

A FORTUNE FROM CATTLE

DORCHESTER, England, (AP) — Farmer George Chell's cattle are getting extra-fine fodder these days —and why not?

While grazing the other day, the cattle kicked up a half dozen gold coins which started the farmer digging in his pasture. He unearthed more than a hundred coins dating back 300 years. The treasure, worth about $5,000, is believed to have been buried during the reign of the Stuarts.

MISTRIAL IMPENDS

RUSK, Feb. 25 (AP)—A mistrial impended today in the case of W. O. Farrish, Palestine officer, on trial for the slaying of Charles Murphy in a court house fight. The jury had been considering the case since Saturday night. The state charged Murphy was slain with a blackjack in the Cherokee county court house on July 12, 1934.

CENTENNIAL NEWS ITEMS

Official Pledge Adopted by the Texas Centennial Commission:
"I will think—talk—write ... Texas Centennial in 1936! This is to be my celebration. In its achievement I may give free play to my patriotic love for Texas' heroic past; my confidence in its glories that are to be."

LUFKIN, Feb. 25.—The history of Angelina county, which is preparing for participation in the celebrations of Texas Centennial in 1936, dates back to 1806, when General Cordero explored the Angelina, Neches, and Trinity Rivers, but the origin of its name dates back to 1690 when Alonzo de Leon made his second visit to the Province of Texas.

De Leon, accompanied by the Franciscian, Damian Manzanet, established a mission and presidio on a stream known as San Pedro creek, a tributary of the Neches and located in a Hasinai Indian village, in which is now known as Houston county. Father Manzanet, in his missionary work, encountered a pre-possessing Indian maiden, who quickly learned the Spanish language and was given the name of "Little Angel," or Angelina. The Indian village and the stream, accordingly, were named Angelina—hence the name of the Angelina river and Angelina county.

Although history of this section around 1830 for the most part is merely traditional, it has been accepted generally that in that year, Gen. Mier y Teran built a town on the Neches river and named it after himself. He received large grants of land for establishing this town and left it under the command of Col. Ellis P. Bean, who, coming to Texas with the disastrous expedition of Philip Nolan, had been captured by the Spaniards in the battle in which that filibuster met his death. After being taken to Mexico as a prisoner he became a Spanish officer.

In about 1836, the Mier y Teran settlement was abandoned, its occupants returning to Mexico. Early settlers flocking into East Texas about that time, took possession of the huts left vacant, but the rude structures, owing to a lack of stone building material in this section, decayed rapidly and, until a few years ago, even the site of this ancient city was unknown.. The site forgotten in the hundred years since its building, recently was established as being located a few miles east of the sawmill town of Manning. Caves in the ground and a few other signs of habitation are all that remain.

Best information is that the first permanent settler in what is now Angelina county was George T. W. Collins, who passed over the ground that is now Lufkin in 1825. This country was described at the time as being covered with tall grass, fringed around with cane at the timber line. Bear, deer, and other game were plentiful. Collins was the first sheriff of Angelina county.

Other early settlers include John Massingale, who came in the early 30's; William Harrington, who settled at Stanley's creek, in the western part of the county in 1832, and Matthew Caldwell and Samuel Gilliland, who settled on Popher creek, named after one of the early Indian chieftains. Hiram Brown was another old settler, as was Samuel Burris, who first settled at Gann's Prairie with Solomon Gann, after whom the place was named. Other old settlers were the Stanleys, the Grahams, and John Quinalty, who had grants of land from the Mexican government.

Thos. Walker, at one time sheriff of Angelina county, settled, in 1836, four miles below the old town of Marion at what was known as Walker's Crossing on the Angelina river. Peter Gallway and J. B. Bridges came in the early 30's; Mahathy Charles, James Delaney, William Cockrum, Lem Caldwell, and John R. McGinnis all were settlers under the Mexican regime.

McGinnis was one of those participating in the death lottery of the ill-fated Mier expedition, but drew a white bean and later escaped from Mexico swimming the Rio Grande handcuffed to a companion, Raford Riley.

The first religious edifice constructed in Angelina county was that of the Methodists, built in Homer in 1866. It was used by other denominations as a place of worship on the Sundays when the Methodists had no pastor. The H. L. Stegall general merchandise store, established in Homer in 1868, was one of the first stores built in the town. Both of these structures were constructed of hand-planed lumber, the first used in this section, cut by the mill of Dr. D. D. Manning, the first sawmill in Angelina county. The second story of the Stegall store was the first meeting place of Masonic Lodge No. 57, the first in the county.

NAZIS ARE BUILDING SOMETHING, IT LOOKS LIKE HUGE AIRDROME

BERLIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—You can drive 18 miles between Berlin and Potsdam along the main highways and see such Nazi prides as new roads and homes.

But leave the usual routes and you will view places so well guarded that indiscreet interest may mean imprisonment.

Visible to all travelers along the "backway" to the historic suburb are four gigantic construction projects involving the erection of numerous two and three-story buildings, extensive leveling of broad fields, and the employment of hundreds of men.

Barbed wire encloses them. Each is screened off by old forest growth or newly planted trees which soon will shut off the view. Before one are sentry boxes with uniformed guards on duty.

Until recently writing or talking about the new structures constituted espionage, meaning imprisonment or death.

The Wilhelmstrasse, in its reply to Anglo-French security proposals, has indicated Germany possesses an air fleet but still mystery surrounds the new undertakings. Workers show identification cards to enter or leave the grounds. "No trespassing" signs are numerous.

Intense activity today prevails where less than one year ago were only nondescript dwellings, pastures, lakes and forests. A little imagination enables one to envision there most modern barracks, huge flying fields, proving grounds, laboratories, ammunition dumps and complex tunnels within a few weeks. And that may have some bearing on Adolf Hitler's negotiations with the British and French.

LETTERS

pretty straight. Charles was engaged to another girl and he was going to break it off and we would have been married this summer probably.

"There never will be anyone else for me."

"We heard of his death in Paris on Monday. We came on to London the next morning and came to the Ritz. We did not want to see anyone. Comfort Mother with all your strength. I think she will feel as we do. Luck is with you now.

"Betty and Jane."

The second letter read:

"Mother darling:

"Do not doubt that we are with you now and always and with great love. Please do not think that we have done anything wicked, for we were given proof that if there is a a rule, an exception has been made for us.

"We went to St. Martin's-in-the-Field (a church at the corner of Trafalgar Square) because they were to pray for Charles and Dick during the service. They knew we had not been confirmed, but they let us take communion and be absolved from our sins.

"The lesson was the parable of the laborers in the vineyard. You must have known when you heard that the crash in Sicily would pull us over a line which has never been well enough defined for us.

Mentions Unemployed

"I think you knew that Charles and I were going to spend our lives together and I must keep my part of the bargain. We had spent the day loaded down with half crowns (fifty cent pieces) for the proletariat to drink to him. What is left in the bank is all Coert's.

"If it is considered outs, it goes to the unemployed at Pembroke Docks (from where the flyingboat "Ace of Diamonds" hopped off for Singapore) or for Royal Air Force widows. Our bags are at Victoria station. Do you think George Peterson can be published? (The coroner explained that this probably was a book they had written.)

"Darling, there is no one else on earth we can even hope to have understand. We are together with you.

"We would like that there be nothing in this letter to hurt. It is only the smaller things, sentimentalities, that do that. Think of us as undivided and happy as we would never have been after our lives became complicated with servants. We loved you and that can never be broken or destroyed.

"You must not be discouraged if there are difficulties. It will pass. This is the greatest trust which we have ever put in you.

"Forever,

"Bessie and Jane."

The bodies of the two sisters were to be cremated later at Golder's Green.

POLITICAL SITUATION EXISTING IN TEXAS IN 1833 DEPICTED IN LETTER WRITTEN BY IRA INGRAM

Letters Published For First Time By University

(Note: This is one of a series of articles taken from the 300 special collections of family archives in the University of Texas library. The collections cover all periods of Texas history, from the earliest days of the Spanish missionaries in the province of Tejas, through the colonial era, to the present. This series of articles presents interesting excerpts from a number of these family collections, some chosen for their intrinsic significance in the development of the empire of Texas, others for their purely human interest in portraying personalities, economic conditions and social intercourse.)

AUSTIN, Feb. 25.—An authentic view of the political situation as it confronted the colonists in Austin's settlement just a hundred years ago is given in letters written by Ira Ingram, one of the settlers, to his uncle, Roswell Ingram in New England. Ingram was one of the leaders of the community, and, being a member of the Texas congress, was in a position to be in close touch with the various developments of the move for recognition as a state of Mexico and with other governmental matters. These letters are part of the Ingram collection of unpublished historical materal in the archives of the University of Texas library. They cover the period from May 12, 1830, to January 9, 1835.

On March 19, 1833, Ingram wrote:

"As to Texas—the civil commotions which have overspread a considerable portion of Mexico proper, with suffering and fevers, have rather tended to invigorate and improve her condition. Too remote from the theatre of action, and too unimportant in resources to attract the eye of ambition, it was the obvious policy of this portion of the country, to do little else, than watch the progress of events, and hold itself in readiness to improve them to the best advantage. This policy was adopted early in the contest, and has been pursued with the most patriotic fidelity and zeal.

"All that has thus far been done by the people of Texas, (about thirty-five thousand in number; twenty, to twenty-five thousand of whom are North Americans) is to remove those out-works of ambition which the usurper had thrown around the principal settlements, by capturing the garrisons, or permitting them to retire without bloodshed or annoyance; and to adopt measures preliminary, and preparatory to the formation of a state government, as a member of the confederation.

"A convention by deputies, of all the people of Texas, has been called, in pursuance of previous arrangements, to meet on the first of April next, for the purpose of framing and adopting a constitution for the state of Texas—this step is likely to be very warmly opposed, by what is here called the Aristocratic party, headed by Stephen F. Austin, the founder of this colony. The leaders of the opposition to the state question, are charged by its friends, with having engaged, and with having combined in, a scheme, for engrossing a very important and extensive portion of the domain of the country, which belongs, of right, to the people. A few well-meaning and credulous, but ignorant men, have innocently, tho' unworthily inclined to the side of the question espoused by the speculators. Having listened to the artful and ingenious tales of these rapacious swindlers, they have been led to believe that their true interest consists in continuing for a time, at least, as we now are, without any local government at all. It will therefore be attended with some delay, will require firmness of purpose, and some perseverence, to eviscerate and exhibit the facts on the subject, in a light, and with that connextion required, to dispel the delusion."

A month later, April 18, 1833, he wrote of the framing of the constitution:

"I inform you that a convention of the people by means of their delegates, were then about to meet, for the purpose of framing a constitution for the State of Texas. This convention met on the first of April, had a quorum on the third, and proceeded to business. They framed a constitution, and adopted it by a unanimous vote, and elected three delegates to proceed to Mexico, and present it to the National Congress, 'for its resolution.' How it will be received there, it is utterly impossible to foretell. We have, however, endeavored to conform it to the constitution of the general government of the Mexican United States, in all respects—We have neither claimed, nor asked, either more or less, than we are clearly entitled to as a right, under the laws, usages, and solemn decrees of the general government of the Republic—this, we have sustained, by an elaborate exposition of the claims of Texas, by means of a memorial to the Congress.

"We have recommended an organization of the militia of the country, have organized a central, and subcommittees of correspondence, vigilance and safety, and are preparing, by the use of all prudent and silent means, for the worst that can happen.

"There is now but one mind, one head, one soul, one wish, and one resolve, concerning the future course of the injured and oppressed settlers of Texas. . . .

"We have thus far occupied the attitude of defendants in the cause, and do not intend, either to shift, or abandon our position.

"In short, our policy is to merit, that we may command, and enjoy, in case we should need them, the sympathies of the civilized world.

"I leave here for the town of Brazoria, 70 miles below, to superintend the publication of our Memorial to the Congress, and our constitution. From there, I will write you again."

In mid-summer, July 23, 1833, he hinted at the posibility of independence of Texas from Mexico:

"News from the interior of Mexico, augurs unfavorably to the cause of Union and United counsels. Our present Executive, Gen. Santa Anna, appears anxious to give a new, and vigorous impulse to the civil authorities of the country, by reducing the privileges of the clergy, and the influence of the military. This has already led to some irregularities on the part of the latter, favoured no doubt, by the secret intrigues of the former. Where, or how, or when, these commotions will terminate, is impossible I apprehend, for any living man to foretell. The ordinary laws of domestic and national strife, afford no barometer by which to calculate the incantations of a nation of semi-barbarians. If they will listen to the claims of Texas, and receive her as a State, by herself, in this quarter, all is safe. But if not, and Mexico revolutionizes, Texas must go for herself, and stand or fall, alone."

The question of adoption of the Texas constitution was still unsettled almost six months later. On December 9, 1833, Ingram wrote:

"No doubt is now entertained, that Texas will soon be a co-ordinate, and co-equal member of the Mexican Federation. Should this event take place as we now flatter ourselves it will, within the ensuing year, and we can succeed in putting our private affairs in the train which we now have in contemplation, it may be in our power, if life and health are spared us, to visit, ere long, the land of our nativity."

Spring still found the political status of Texas undecided, but prospects were more promising, Ingram wrote:

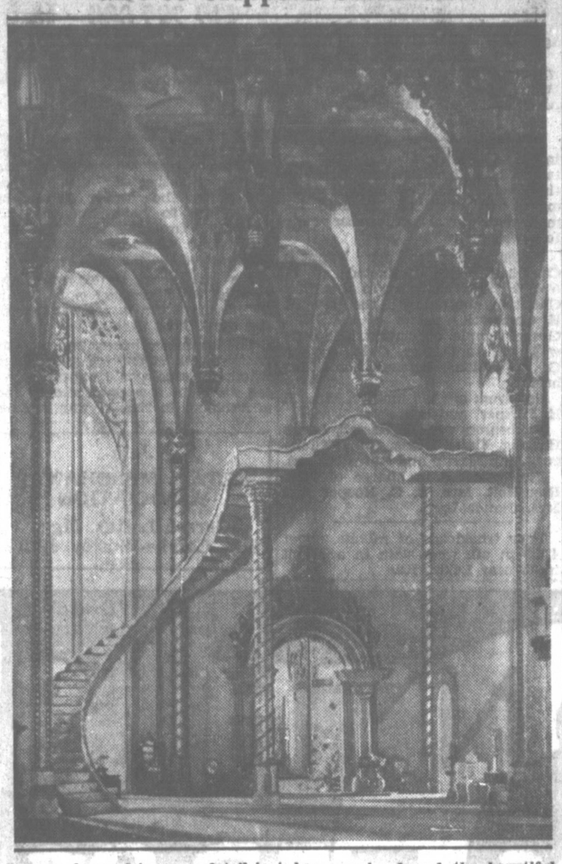

"The question of a State government is yet undecided, and may be suspended for some time to come, but many improvements have recently been made in the local affairs of Texas, occasioned, no doubt by the spirit indicated by the conventions of 1832 and '33; reconciling the people, for the time being, to a temporary suspension of the act of separation. An entirely new, and greatly improved organization of the judiciary system of Texas, is one of the effects already realized, of the general and decisive movements here one and two years ago. With this, and such other improvements as we much need, and hope to obtain, we can move quietly, and prosperously along for some time to come, attached as we still are, to the government of Coahuila. And indeed, under even a partial reform, making our situation at all tolerable, I would greatly prefer temporary delay, to the untried expedient of organizing immediately, with present materials, a separate State government."

The year 1835 found the State question "lost," Ingram wrote, and organization of a State government was indefinitely deferred.

"The reaction which I feared, and more than half predicted in my last, is now in full progress. The Congress of the Nation, was, I have since learned, composed mostly of young men — inexperienced of course; and too hasty in the work of reform. This I feared. How the powers that be can soothe the awakened sensibilities of the mass of the nation, without making concessions according to the friends of toleration, and of highly prejudicial to political freedom, is beyond my pretensions to foretell. However, these moral and political excitements do not affect all portions of the country alike. We of Texas, are immediately, but little affected by them. But they have an indirect and remote influence, even on us. They excite alarm for the security of rights, and thus retard immigration.

"The State question is lost—at least, for the present. And for the cause, we may look to the infidelity of its professed, but weak-minded and indiscreet friends. The benefits, therefore, which were anticipated from the immediate organization of a State government for Texas, are now indefinitely deferred. And perhaps it is better to defer the change till we have more, and better materials to organize with."

Gift to Crippled Children

Immensely regal in every detail is the Great Hall of the $435,000 fairy castle doll house built by Colleen Moore, famous screen actress, for exhibition on a world tour to raise funds for crippled children. This view of the grand stairway that winds toward chambers overhead and the beautiful mural decorations on high vaulted and chandeliered ceiling fills the observer with awe for the fidelity with which the proportions of this amazing chamber have been carried out—the materialization of most elaborate childhood dreams imaginable.

POLITICS at Random

BY BYRON PRICE,
Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington.

Apparently it will be a long time before politicians reach any sort of agreement as to the political consequences of the gold decision.

The supreme court's pronouncement was greeted with real jubilation among many supporters of the Roosevelt administration. It soon developed, however, that opinion was far from unanimous.

One democrat holding high office privately expressed the view that the court's language in declaring abrogation of the gold clause invalid, as applied to federal government bonds, might have wide repercussions in future political discussion.

The immediate effects will begin to show, of course, when, and if, pending inflationary proposals come up for active consideration in congress. The alignments developed by such a debate will be most interesting.

It will be in the 1936 presidential campaign, however, that the issue will emerge into the open—granting that it ever does.

Some Saw Confusion.

The concern with which administration politicians looked forward to the court decision was quite patent. They foresaw the greatest confusion if the justices let the administration down, and they were not at all certain where they would come out of such a situation.

The first reaction when the court acted was one of great relief. Things were left as they were, to all intents and purposes: the "chaos" feared by Attorney General Cummings had been avoided, even though the court did say some harsh words about the government bond gold abrogation.

Various administration men still appear to persist in that view of it. They declare the net effect of the decision has been to add to the prestige of the president. They look thankfully to the high court as the medium through which a new seal of approval and orthodoxy has been put upon the plans and projects of the new deal.

Criticism Interpreted.

That is one conception of it. The other is that while the administration won a technical victory, it lost caste in that the court declared it had attained its ends by unconstitutional and regrettable methods.

To those who feel so, the court simply has said to Mr. Roosevelt and to congress: "You have done wrong, but this time you escape through a loophole in the law. Next time, watch your step."

One suggestion advanced on capital hill is that those who contend they actually have lost by dollar devaluation, plus those who are stirred by altruistic resentment over what they call "repudiation," may be welded by the court's action into a bloc of appreciable political power.

The posibilities of the strong phrases of Justice McReynolds' dissenting opinion, properly transcribed and circulated as a campaign document, are not overlooked by those who hold such a view.

They think much could be made of a supreme court justice's terse protest: "The constitution is gone."

Future Decisions Count.

Much may depend, of course, on what the court itself does hereafter.

Other new deal legislation is coming up for judgment. NRA is next in order.

If the court now generally approves the other things done under Mr. Roosevelt's leadership, the gold decision may pass out of the political picture. If criticism continues to come from the highest tribunal of the land, however, the president's opponents may be expected to capitalize the situation fully.

Quakes Kill Eight Persons In Greece

LONDON, Feb. 25 (AP)—Earthquakes in Greece today killed at least 8 persons and injured 5 more, according to reports from Athens.

The casualties were in the Canada and Crete districts where there was also considerable property damage.

Other earthquakes were reported at Malta and Cairo. The report from Malta said the epicenter of the quakes felt there were believed to be in the sea of Marmora.

DR. KIEL APPOINTED

AUSTIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today appointed Dr. O. B. Kiel of Wichita Falls to succeed the late Dr. J. M. Witt of Waco on the state board of medical examiners. Dr. Kiel's term will run until 1939. The governor said he had reached a decision on the four other appointments to the medical board to be made this year and on a new state banking commissioner to take office in September. He added, however, that he was not yet ready to announce his selections.

TORNADOES AND STORMS KILL 4 AND INJURE 130

Dust, Snow, Sleet and Rain Sweep Over Southwest

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 25 (AP)—Blizzards, tornadoes and dust storms—a strange weather mixture—marked their passage with death.

Four persons were killed and more than 130 injured by storms which struck between the Mississippi and the Rockies.

Tornadoes ripped over a narrow triangular course from Wichita, Kas., to Commerce, Okla., and Joplin, Mo., last night, leaving damage estimated unofficially at more than $200,000.

Mrs. Ellen Teague, 69, was killed in a tornado which swept the mining communities of Commerce and Douthat, Okla.

Ruby Reiff, 16, Ordwar, Colo., died with the overturning of her motor car in a highway sand drift.

Two women were killed in Chicago traffic accidents attributed to a wet, blinding snow.

Dust, snow, sleet, and rain storms presented a baffling hodge-podge over western Kansas, eastern Colorado and the Panhandle country as a norther pushed rapidly toward the Texas gulf coast.

Trains, buses and motor cars were delayed by the heavy veil of dust. Planes were grounded. Temperatures—springlike for a week in much of the area—fell toward zero.

Forecasters predicted one of the worst snow storms of the winter for northern and central Illinois. Highway maintenance crews worked throughout the night in Iowa, fighting steadily growing drifts. Colorado, Wyoming, and south-central sections of Nebraska reported between six and eight inches of snow.

Funnel shaped clouds which moved with express train speeds, carrying away homes and buildings, struck Wichita, Independence, and Baxter Springs, in Kansas; Joplin and Webb City, in Missouri, and Commerce, North Century, and Douthat in Oklahoma. Twenty-one houses were wrecked at Independence, and property damage was estimated at $100,000. At Joplin, a tornado cut a swath about 100 feet wide and three blocks long through a residential district.

Nineteen persons injured in the Oklahoma communities were treated at a Picher, Okla., hospital.

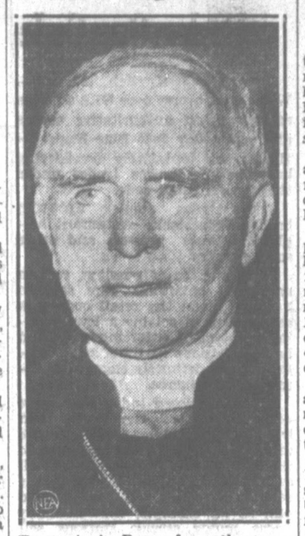

Stockmen in the plains states feared for the sheep and cattle as near zero temperatures followed the snow.

TWINS FOUND

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—The 8-year-old twins, John and Margaret Miller, who were the objects of a frenzied all night search after they disappeared yesterday in Indian creek swamp in nearby Maryland, were found early today on the Baltimore-Washington pike by a Maryland county policeman.

Municipal water, gas and electric plants operated by Danville, Va., showed a net profit of $300,000 in 1934.

JUST PLAIN POSSUM

CHICAGO, (AP)—Desk Sergt. Edward Davis of Englewood station knows his animals.

So when policemen brought in a queer looking animal they had found on the street, he inhaled deeply and said:

"That's a marsupial of the didelphidae, of the kind commonly called didelphis Virginiana. It is aboreal, nocturnal, virtually iminverous — and it's good to eat. In the language of the street, it's possum."

He plans to demonstrate the last thought, if no owner claims the creature.

Game authorities estimate there are 15,000,000 sportsmen in the United States who spend $750,000,000 annually in hunting and fishing.

GOVERNOR DUE TO NAME HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER IN NEAR FUTURE

AUSTIN, Feb. 25 (AP)—Sharp interest in Governor James V. Allred's impending selection of a state highway commissioner today spotlighted his continuing task of filling key administrative posts in the state department.

Who the governor would select and how the nomination would be received by the senate, which must confirm the nomination, was eagerly awaited.

Thus far Allred has scored 100 per cent in nominations, as none has been refused confirmation, but filling the post af righway commissioner, who also will be chairman, presented a ticklish situation. Much pressure has been exerted to obtain reappointment of W. R. Ely of Abilene, whose six-year term ended February 15.

Beset with many petitions, Allred announced he had sufficient recommendations in support of each candidate and pleaded for time to study the records.

Next in interest on the governor's list of appointments to be made soon was that of a regent of the University of Texas to succeed Beauford Jester of Corsicana, chairman. Allred said he would not reappoint Jester.

Most other important posts, in which incumbents' terms end during Allred's administration, will be filed after adjournment of the legislature. Recess appointments will serve pending confirmation in a future session.

Other nominations Allred may make during the session include three of nine regents of the agricultural and mechanical college; membership of the state commission of the blind; pink bollworm commission; Texas historical board; five of 12 members of the board of medical examiners; sundry commissioners of specific parks, and five members of the board of veterinary medical examiners.

BOY AT SAYRE KILLS FATHER 'TO KEEP FROM FACING HIM'

SAYRE, Okla., Feb. 25 (AP)—Ramifications of the "obscene pictures" case that brought death to a Holiness preacher and a murder charge in the offing for his 14-year-old son, extended to Oklahoma City today as a postal authority there announced his intention of investigating to learn whether the mail laws were violated by the sending of the pictures.

"We will investigate the boy's story," said Maurice Foster, postal inspector. "That is a serious offense and it should make a strong case if the pictures were sent thru the mails."

The boy, Jack Campbell, who sobbed his story that it was easier to kill his father than to face him after being discovered with the pictures, said "somebody in Oklahoma City was sending me the pictures to sell here. I guess I wasn't doing right."

Meanwhile, Ralph T. Hood, young county attorney, prepared a murder charge and said he would file it today against the youngster from Carter, who has been in jail here since shortly after the slaying Saturday.

The grieving mother of the boy found his act all the harder to understand because he and his daddy "were always crazy about each other."

Press Rogers, Carter marshal, found the boy with the pictures. Of his father, the lad said, "when Mr. Rogers said he was going to tell, I just couldn't stand to face father. It was easier to kill him than to face him. He was very nice to me. He was my buddy."

ASK NEW TRIAL

SHERMAN, Feb. 25 (AP)—Attorneys for Harlod Locke, sentenced to die for the slaying of Marshal Ches Estes at Whitesboro, have filed a motion for a new trial. The motion alleged that Judge R. M. Carter committed a material error in admitting testimony of John Clark over objection of defense counsel. Clark had testified that the defendant had made a criminal attack on a young Whitesboro woman.

AUSTIN, Feb. 25. (AP)—Jack Chevigny, head football coach at the University of Texas, underwent an appendicitis operation today. His condition after the operation was described at satisfactory.

Service Trades May Be Placed Under One Code

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—While controversy over NRA's future continued, an authoritative source disclosed today that Blue Eagle officials are tentatively considering bringing the service trades under the general retail code.

These trades employ 5,000,000; barbers, bootblacks, restaurant employes, pants pressers and other such workers.

After months of puzzling, certain recovery chieftians were said to have hit upon the retail code idea as a means of solving a long-pending problem of enforcing wage and hour provisions in these small businesses not definitely engaged in interstate commerce.

It was disclosed today that some officials believed the barber and beauty shops, dyers and cleaners and other trades could be linked to the retail code because almost all sell preparations in addition to the services rendered. It was pointed out, as an example, that in many cases motor servide stations sell tobacco and candy as well as oil, gas and tires.

A definite decision to move to bring these businesses under the big code has not yet been made, so far as is known.

STABBING

bell it was who failed to rise, to "come back for more."

Davis Boy Weeps

The spectators thought Campbell had just been knocked out. They put him into the car, went to a filling station, and bathed his face with a dampened handkerchief. He still did not revive. They drove a short distance, laid him out on the ground, and made an examination. Noting blood on his shirt front, they became alarmed and took him to a hospital. He was dead when they arrived there. Davis was arrested shortly afterward and, when told that Campbell was dead, almost collapsed, it was said and began weeping, crying, "Oh, my God, I didn't mean to do it," to a city officer who arrested him.

The lethal weapon was a pocket knife with a blade more than 3 inches long, razor sharp. County Attorney Sherman White was investigating a report that Campbell had feared the knife and had once refused to fight "unless Davis had pulled out his pockets"; another that Campbell had said he "guessed he would have to whip Davis again"; a third that Davis had been the aggressor.

The State's complaint named as witnesses to the affair Lonnie Coburn, Fred Mason, Virgil Frazier, Alvis Smith, and James Kidwell.

Funeral Is Held

Citizens generally appeared much interested in the event. Ministers talked of influences more powerful than school training and Scouting experience. Talk of the need for more recreational facilities for young folk was revived.

Funeral services for Kenneth Campbell were conducted at 11 o'clock this morning in the First Christian church with the Rev. H. E. Comstock, pastor of the Full Gospel temple, officiating. The body was sent to Garber, Okla., by the G. C. Malone Funeral home, for burial.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. T. E. Fortner, and one sister, Vivian.

Pallbearers were Ed Hassell, James Herring, Elmer Irving, Kelly Kitchens, John Martin and Rufus Holmes.

Flowers were in charge of Mrs. Roy Holt, Mrs. E. C. Hooper and Mrs. Claude Lard.

Four truckloads of rabbits, about 4,000 in all, were slain in a rabbit hunt near Lakin, Kas.

Shipbuilder Paid $12,282,000 In Bonuses By U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25. (AP)—Bonuses paid to Eugene G. Grace as president of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding company and Bethlehem Steel corporation were disclosed today before the senate munitions committee to have amounted to $12,282,000 from 1917 to 1937, in addition to a salary of $12,000 a year for most of the period.

Just previously, he expressed opposition to elimination of all profit in the event of a future war involving the United States.

The bonus testimony was in connection with committee questioning whether Grace would approve having his plant commandeered by the government in time of war and his own salary cut to that of a general, "about $10,000 a year."

"I can't conceive of the government taking over an institution and telling the man at the head to go on and run it," he replied. "That is not government."

He contended government operation of industry would be "inefficient."

SHIP MESSAGE EXPECTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25 (AP)—A forthcoming message in which President Roosevelt is expected to recommend direct subsidies to American shipping in place of ocean mail contracts will drop into a congress which holds differing opinions on the subject.
