Pampans Sounding Off Against Ruling

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

In a five to four decision May 4 in Washington, D.C. the United States Supreme Court ruled that a health inspector can search a home without a warrant.

The case at issue arose when Aaron D. Frank, of Baltimore, was fined $20 for refusing to admit a health inspector who had no search warrant. The inspector had requested admission after a neighbor complained of rats in the area.

The Pampa Daily news in the past few days began an informal poll among Pampa residents to determine their feelings on the matter. Asked for their opinions were two lawyers, two of the community's most prominent women, two men connected with local government, and five Pampa businessmen.

Asked of each of the 11 persons was: "What is your opinion of the Supreme Court decision?" Although persons were picked more or less at random, their opinions coincided closely. None showed satisfaction with the decision; most agreed that "it was the longest step yet toward the invasion of a person's right to privacy in his own home," a guarantee granted in the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

Below are printed the opinions of the residents polled:

ED MYATT, mayor of Pampa, 2121 Charles — "The recent decision as handed down is further evidence of a creeping socialistic form of government that will eventually rule and govern unless the people revolt and return to the concepts and principals of our Constitution and Bill of Rights.

"A voice in this future and a return to the original form of representation can only be attained if each individual will take an active part in local, state and national political affairs by electing qualified and responsible people to all offices."

ATTORNEY ROSS BUZZARD, 2429 Christine — "The decision represents a complete disregard of many rights which we have heretofore regarded as inalienable. The distinction made by the court had to do with the motive of the search . . . but it seems to me that the motive is an improper test. The resulting invasion of privacy is just as onerous in one case as it is in another."

GEORGE CROW, 520 W. Francis — "Individual rights are now to give way to group rights, at least as far as health inspectors are concerned. We no longer have the right to decide whether or not a search of our home is "unreasonable," and demand that a search warrant be issued.

"The implications are apparent. The Fourth Amendment is greatly weakened, and in danger of being invalid because of this decree."

MRS. MARION GEORGE, 1412 Hamilton — "I believe the decision is a violation of Constitutional rights. A decision such as this could lead to many further abuses of private rights."

ROBERT K. SWANSON, 2125 Chestnut — "These freedom - bandits (the Supreme Court) are beyond the call of the public, and a thousand years of struggle against tyranny has, at one insane stroke, been blotted out.

"Make no mistake, it will be regained only through a terrible fight. The issue is so serious that I urge no hasty action. But every word in protest that is uttered — to a congressman, to this newspaper or to other citizens — is the same registered indignation that preceded the Boston Tea - party. The stakes are even higher now; the question of our survival as a free people is on the block."

JAMES W. HART, 1212 E. Browning — "I feel the Supreme Court has taken a large step to deny the individual his rights as a citizen. Everyone should write their congressman and protest this action. Who knows, maybe the next action by the Supreme Court will deny us the right to protest."

ATTORNEY JIMMY THOMPSON, 1912 Dogwood — . . ."I still believe that the law ought to be that a man's house is his castle, and that no officer of the state, whatever his office, may enter therein without due process of law or the consent of the owner. I hope that the time is not far distant when the highest court in the nation will repudiate its recent ruling and reaffirm the rule of law that has restrained both kings and bureaucrats."

JAMES CRAWFORD JR., city commissioner, 1112 S. Nelson — "The decision violates the Fourth Amendment of the Bill of Rights. These rights have been respected by wise men for 168 years. This decision is an infringement upon the rights that our forefathers — who defeated the tyranny and suppression of a king — passed on to the citizens of this nation. If we lose this right, what will our next one be?"

MRS. ARNOLD PETITFILS, 2131 Chestnut — "Our personal freedom has been infringed upon. It seems to me as an individual that our freedom is in the hands of nine men (the Supreme Court) who are doing their best to stretch it into an already unrecognizable state. The Supreme Court is going backwards into a socialistic uncivilized state of power."

M. G. "GRIS" ROGERS, 1304 Mary Ellen — "If the facts bear out that our rights are not being protected by the court, but instead are being diluted by the very body created to protect them, then it is time that we the people take legal action to preserve the fundamental dignities of man.

"But we must first have the facts, and I, therefore, implore the press to ferret out these facts

EPPERSON RANCH PAINTING

By RICK PEZDIRTZ

Area farmers and ranchers — the men whose daily efforts with crops and cattle help keep Top o' Texans' tables covered with good things to eat — were the honored guests of Pampa's Downtown Kiwanians at the local civic club's regular weekly luncheon Friday.

The farmers, ranchers, Kiwanians and other guests heard an informative speech presented by O. F. Armstrong, planning engineer of the Texas State Soil Conservation Board from Temple.

Special tribute was also paid W. C. Epperson, Pampa farmer, who received an award from A. L. Crossland of Canyon as one of the top 25 soil and water conservationists in Texas.

Epperson, named the Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce "Farmer of the Year" earlier this year was presented a colored aerial picture of his farm, from Crossland on behalf of Great Southwestern Life Insurance Company. "We need more men like this. The United States today is only ten inches away from starvation . . . and that is the ten inches that comprises our top soil."

Crossland warned, "We're losing a million acres a year by erosion and poor crop management."

The guest speaker, Armstrong, was brought to Pampa by Jim Smathers, area work unit conservationist, and introduced to the Kiwanians and guests by Jack Skelly, program chairman of the day.

Armstrong began by discussing principals and morals of soil conservation. He explained that "the most important thing on the face of the earth is the individual. They are more important than the government. The individual is the most sacred thing on God's earth kingdom," Armstrong stated.

The speaker told his intent listeners that there are 174 Soil Conservation Districts in Texas and that a soil - conservation district promoted state rights. He briefly told of a petition that was circulated to organize the Gray County Soil Conservation District and of the five elected supervisors who govern the conservation district, caring for complaints of area agriculture men who must seek action only through the district's governing body, rather than trying to contact Washington or Austin governmental officials whose hands are tied as to solving problems of the immediate districts.

"Everybody today must come to learn the tremendous importance of the conservation of water and soil and then offer both their time and finances to remedy our present situation.

"We in the United States will surely lose some of our democracy if we allow land regulations. I'm in favor of land regulations if it means there'll be people hurt if we

Armed Forces Day Is Observed By C-C Group

Armed Forces Day in Pampa was kicked off with a breakfast meeting in the Pampa Hotel Saturday morning with The Military Affairs Committee of The Chamber of Commerce and M. K. Brown playing host to officers of all local units of the armed forces.

Warren Hasse, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting with Rev. E. Douglas Carver, pastor of the First Baptist Church, giving the invocation. Mayor Ed Myatt brought greetings from the City of Pampa and Rev. Dick Crews, pastor of the First Christian Church, and a Chaplain in the last World War, gave the address of the morning.

Sgt. Major M. K. Brown of the British Armed Forces, who served in the Boer War, attended the breakfast and spoke briefly.

It was announced at the meeting that the newly formed Military Affairs Committee of the Chamber will include representation from all units of the Armed Forces plus several civilian personnel. The group will work together in coordinating community life of Pampa, and establishing closer liason between the various units of the Armed Forces locally.

Following the breakfast a flag raising ceremony was held at the flag pole of the United States Post Office, with representatives of the various units taking part.

At noon a luncheon was given at Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Given Vance's home with guests including Commissary First Class and Mrs. Nick Chunko, Sgt. First Class and Mrs. John F. Dills, Mayor Ed Myatt, Warren Hasse of KPDN radio and Rick Pezdirtz of the Pampa Daily New.

Russia Rejects West Plan; Does Favor Some Points

Reds Hoping For 'Big 3' Split Up

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
United Press International

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia Saturday rejected the Western peace package for Berlin as a "cold war plan" but admitted that it contained some points worthy of discussion at the Geneva foreign ministers' conference.

Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, in a mildly worded speech in Moscow, served notice that Russian strategy at the conference would be to split the package into parts, while at the same time trying to divide the Western Big Three on the various issues involved.

There was growing belief among observers at the conference that the matter finally would go to the summit. It was learned during the weekend conference recess that the U.S., Britain and France were preparing for a summit meeting in mid July — possibly in San Francisco.

Khrushchev revealed the Russian position on the Western plan for Berlin, German reunification and European security in an apparent attempt to test Western unity.

The Western package was presented as an indissoluble whole — all or nothing. The Soviets countered with a demand that there be a separate peace treaty made with each of the two Germanies and then a discussion of the Soviet demand that the Western powers clear out of West Berlin and turn it into a "free city."

Khrushchev stressed that this remained the Russian goal. It would be up to Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to try to exploit the Soviet stand and probe for weaknesses in the Western united front.

"Questions must be taken separately and not together, as is being done by the Western powers, into one big knot which cannot be untied," Khrushchev said.

He said the Western plan was actually nothing but "the plan of the cold war, the plan for the conduct of policy from positions of strength."

Rejects Proposal

The Soviet Premier specifically rejected the Western proposal for a European security system unless the Allies first "liquidated" military bases in Europe and withdrew armed forces from foreign soil.

Such a demand would mean the end of NATO and the return home of all U.S. forces abroad.

The West has been rejecting such Soviet proposals for years.

McIlhany Informs C-C Of Finances

By WALLY TRUESDELL
Daily News Staff Writer

"We don't have the same income we had two years ago," Grainger McIlhany, represenative of the 87th Legislative District said in reference to Texas' financial problem Friday. McIlhany, who returned to his Wheeler home from Austin Wednesday, spoke at a gathering of Chamber of Commerce directors, Pampa City officials and members of the Gray County Commissioners' Court.

The Wheeler hardware store owner reports back to Austin Monday for a special session of the Legislature called by Governor Price Daniel. "The biggest problem we have every two years is the General Appropriations Bill," said McIlhany. "Texas is run on a cash basis. If we were the Federal government, we'd have voted bonds and gone home."

McIlhany said that the State comptroller must certify that the state has sufficient funds for an appropriations bill. Texas is operating under a deficit for the first time, according to McIlhany. The problems are two-fold:

1. Mid-Eastern oil imports have caused oil production shut-downs.

2. Children coming into the school system have increased the cost of administering the school program.

By August the State will be $67 million in the red but half of this is a bookkeeping figure. Once the August receipts are added, the deficit will amount to only a little over $30 million, McIlhany reported.

The special session was called because the Legislature did not pass a general tax bill. Sixty tax bills were discussed in the house before a much-amended tax bill was sent to the Senate.

The Governor will probably approve any fair tax bill that gets the support of both houses, McIlhany observed. He added that the Chamber Opposes Any Oil Depletion Cutting

Chamber of Commerce directors Friday voted to oppose any reduction of the oil industry's depletion allowance. Texas Congressmen will soon receive letters, stating the Chamber's stand for the continuance of the 27½ per cent allowance.

M. G. Rogers, a Pan American Petroleum Corp. engineer, spoke in support of the 33 year old allowance at the Chamber directors meeting Friday.

"The depletion allowable applies only to production," said Rogers. "It is no more a tax loophole than the $600 exemption you get for your dependents."

The allowance is designed to let the oil industry expand with the economy. "If we have to cut down on expiration, we'll have to go overseas for it, and domestic production will drop immediately. The only way we could stay in business would be to raise our prices," he declared.

Rogers said that the government might have to subsidize the oil industry if it reduced the depletion allowance. If it were subsidized without controls there would be waste and inefficiency; if it were accomplished with complete controls, there would be little incentive left.

Jack Miller, deputy District supervisor of the Texas Railroad Commission and chairman of the Chamber's Oil and Gas Committee, stated two problems which beset the oil industry. One is foreign oil imports. The other is a possible reduction of the depletion allowance.

Cameron Marsh, chairman of the Legislative and National Affairs Committee, said that his committee was inclined to oppose the reduction. Director Dudley Steele moved that the Chamber support the request for continuation of the depletion allowance in the oil industry. The proposal was unanimously adopted and the Chamber office, authorized to send letters of protest to Congress.

President Warren Hasse, who presided, introduced Clyde Reeves of the Beaver Express, who will extend his unique trucking service into Pampa June 1. The company has been granted a franchise from Canadian to Amarillo, which includes Pampa.

Reeves stated that his trucks would give Pampa overnight service from Tulsa and Oklahoma City seven days a week.

Woodrow Adcock, Aviation Committee chairman, stated that his group is working to get an airline ticket office into Pampa and to secure "badly-needed repairs" at the airport. The committee is working with the County Commission and the airport to prevent disasters.

Roy McMillen, chairman of the Fire Prevention Committee, reported that 454 loads of trash were cleared from alleys in a recent city - wide campaign. Last year the figure was 423 and since last May a flat - bed truck has been picking up 75 loads a month. "However, we're not doing so well in the fire prevention part," McMillen said.

Hasse announced that 65 new members will be introduced at a May 25 Membership Luncheon. The members were enlisted in an annual membership campaign recently.

The directors voted to discontinue the membership luncheons during the summer months. Board meetings, however, will be called as needed.

Dulles May Be Dying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Foster Dulles, stricken with cancer and pneumonia, may die in a matter of days, friends said Saturday.

They reported the strength of the 71-year-old diplomat was ebbing and that he was growing weaker every day.

The former secretary of state is in Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

Members of his family have gathered here. Dulles has been bedridden since last Saturday when it was discovered he had pneumonia.

The State Department reported Friday the pneumonia has persisted and "there has been some further decline in his general condition."

Man Injured In Driveway

Lawrence Stein, about 47, was run over by an automobile Friday night in the driveway of the Kit Autry home at 428 N. Zimmers, Pampa police reported Saturday.

Stein, a resident of the Hillson Hotel, was not seriously injured. Officers reported that Stein was presumably lying asleep in the driveway near the street.

The car ran over Stein's right side and shoulder and grazed his head. The injured man was driven to Highland General hospital by the Dienkel - Carmichael ambulance at about 8:45 p.m.

7 Teenagers Killed When Train Strikes

MATTOON, Ill. (UPI) — Seven teenagers returning home from a formal high school prom were killed Saturday when a passenger train slammed into their car at an unguarded country crossing near here.

Some of the victims were hurled 100 yards by the impact of the collision.

Although there were no witnesses on the immediate scene, persons who saw the mishap from a distance said the train "opened the car up like a tin can."

Six of the car's eight occupants, all dressed in party formals and dinner jackets, were dead on arrival at Memorial Hospital here. They included three girls and three boys. A fourth girl, Dorothy Thomas, 18, died several hours after the crash.

Ivan Moon, 22, believed to have been the driver of the car, was the only occupant of the auto still alive. But hospital authorities said he was still unconscious and in "very bad shape."

Those killed instantly in the accident were identified as Jerry Hill, 18, Ilene Moon, 16, Lyle Pfeiffer, 18, his sister, Loraine, 17, Judy Keen, 18, and Jerry Ray Hays, 19.

Hill, Pfeiffer, Miss Thomas and Miss Keen were to have graduated this spring from Shelbyville High School, 23 miles west of here, where the annual junior-senior prom was held Friday night. The prom also was a birthday celebration for Miss Keen, who was 18 Friday.

Miss Moon was the highest ranking girl scholastically in the junior class, and was to have been inducted into the National Honor Society Monday.

C. R. Segley, principal of Shelbyville High, said the bodies were so badly mangled he could not even recognize the dresses of the girls, which he had seen at the prom only a few hours earlier.

Shelbyville was the scene of frenzied confusion shortly after the accident. Cole County Deputy Coroner J. E. Caudill said, when police and hospital personnel called parents in attempts to identify the dead. Many of the children had not arrived home yet from the prom.

don't have them, but still we lose some of our democracy by them," Armstrong commented.

Using hard and cold statistics the Temple visitor painted an ugly picture of the future when he told of this country's expected growth of just over 150 million people in 1950 to 228 million by 1975 and then 335 million by the year 2,000 A.D. Each year there is less and less land with which to grow crops to feed our increasing population, Armstrong pointed out. "Wind and rain is claiming our precious land at an alarming rate," he declared.

Armstrong also cited the fact that fifteen million acres have been lost in the last 17 years to city expansion, super highways and airports. He said 36,000 acres alone would be lost to a four - lane highway stretching across the width of Texas, from Texarkana in the northeast corner to El Paso in the southwest tip, a distance of some 900 miles.

The state soil conservation agent pointed out that 16 per cent of the land in Texas is irrigated but that 40 per cent of our total crop output comes from that 16 per cent of irrigated land and that by 1975 we will have lost at least 40 per cent of that land as the water lands will be gone.

"I believe in the natural laws," Armstrong challenged, "and those are the laws of God." Picking up a salt shaker from his table, Armstrong explained that for man to take sodium or chlorine alone would mean death, but that a mixture of the two gives us the ordinary table salt we need to season our food. That is the way God wants it, he said.

Armstrong stated it was the "law of God that we replenish our land by conserving the organic matter in our soil, by crop rotation and spasmodically resting the soil".

In closing, Armstrong said, "We must become good stewards of the land to insure our children and their children will be able to have food, shelter and clothing."

In other Kiwanis business, membership committee chairman introduced H. M. (Red) Watson of 1819 Chestnut, who was inducted into the club by president Sam Begert. Watson is manager of the Harvester Bowl.

Kiwanian Ralph McKinney also announced the local club would meet Amarillo on the Amarillo Country Club golf course next Thursday for a playoff for the area links trophy. A special Ladies Night Bar-B-Que was also announced for the night of Thursday, June 4.

tax problems of the past decades have been solved in special sessions.

"Over half of the Legislature is committed against a general sales tax," he noted. They are also against a gross receipts program, which would correspond to an income tax on every dollar taken in. The only real hope, McIlhany pointed out, is a revamping of existing rates. "I hope they don't increase severance taxes on minerals in the area," he said, bringing up the repeal of the carbon black tax that he secured for local interests.

H. V. Wilks, Chamber vice president, asked if the lawmakers are against a sales tax because they feel the people of the State are not in favor of it.

Noting that Daniel ran on a platform of "no sales tax and no income tax," McIlhany replied that the State has to operate and that no one would go to the extent of vetoing a sales tax bill if that were the only way to keep the state in financial order.

Griswold Rogers, a local oil man, suggested that the State would require less money if it would reduce its expenditures.

"Ninety - two percent of the State's money goes for highways, roads, hospitals, schools and old age assistance," said McIlhany. "There has been no push to reduce teachers' salaries or stop building four-lane highways."

He added that a move was made to investigate the operation of the Executive Department but that the bill did not pass.

"You ought to spend more time on it," Rogers said. "Oil companies have to cut expenses when they don't have the money. Maybe we're providing too many services in some fields." Rogers did not name any specific fields.

"The appropriations bill takes up more time than anything else we do," McIlhany said. An appropriation must be set for each department and about half of each department's requests are granted.

Mayor Ed Myatt asked McIlhany how he stood on House Bill 60, which regulates the hours of firemen and policemen in major cities.

McIlhany said that he voted for it with the local option that cities can accept or reject it.

"Don't you think that's an infringement on municipal rights? The city pays the bills," said Myatt.

McIlhany replied that the bill was designed for cities like San Antonio in which police and firemen have a 72 hour week.

Myatt wondered how soon the bill would affect smaller cities.

AF Academy Is Accredited As First Graduation Set

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (SPL) — The air Force Academy has received word of its accreditation by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, one of six regional organizations in the United States which consider and certify whether institutions of higher education are of acceptable quality.

Normally, the Association will not consider accrediting an institution until it has graduated at least one class. It gave early consideration to the application of the Academy, which will graduate its first class on June 3, 1959, because the law provided that the Academy could not award Bachelor of Science degrees to its graduates until it was accredited.

The North Central Association bases its accrediting decisions upon the total pattern a school presents as an institution of higher education.

Accreditation of the Academy recognizes its achievements in the field of academic and airmanship studies, which include:

1. Development and refinement of a broad curriculum, balanced almost evenly between the basic and applied sciences, on the one hand, and the social sciences and humanities, on the other. Upon a foundation of mathematics, mechanics, chemistry, and physics, such studies as electronics, nuclear physics, aerodynamics, thermodynamics and astronautics build the basis for future development and understanding in a wide range of technical fields.

2. Development of a curriculum enrichment program which permits students with special ability or preparation to develop well beyond the prescribed curriculum in fields of special interest, including science, the liberal arts and military airmanship.

3. Cadet achievements in national standardized tests administered by the Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J. In a 1958 test of sophomores in 73 selected colleges and universities, the average cadet of the Class of 1960 surpassed 91 per cent of the other sophomores in mathematics, 91 per cent in science, 92 per cent in social studies, 85 per cent in reading and 75 per cent in writing.

4. Selection of a cadet as a Rhodes Scholarship winner before the Academy had graduated its first class. Cadet Bradley C. Hosmer of Dunseith, North Dakota, will study philosophy, politics, and economics at Oxford University, England, starting this fall, under a two-year Rhodes Scholarship.

5. Of five members of the Class of '59 who have applied for graduate training at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the California Institute of Technology and Princeton, all five have been accepted.

6. Attainment of 183 credit hours of prescribed academic and airmanship instruction in the Academy's four-year program, equivalent to five years of instruction at the average undergraduate college. Cadets study approximately 11 months of the year instead of the normal nine months.

Facts, Oddities In Geographic News Release

By LEON BURNETT
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Turns out that all the thousands of people who have been accused of "eating like a pig" haven't been insulted after all.

Take as authority for this the National Geographical Society, which has the long-standing habit of preparing news releases on various facts and oddities that come to its attention.

The truth about pigs is, the society reveals, that they never overeat.

Which is not a very useful fact, except possibly as a retaliatory told they dine like swine. But for weapon by persons who are told they dine like swine. But for what it's worth, here's more information of the same caliber:

—Among the undersea creatures that make noises are certain shrimp which — possibly sensing their ultimate destination — sound like fat frying.

—The grave of Sitting Bull, the Indian chief who led Sioux warriors in the Custer massacre, is near Mobridge, S.D.

—The bright-eyed, bushy-tailed Pomeranian—or at least a dog very like him—has been a favorite pet of ladies since ancient Greek times. Pictures on gems and jabs more than 2,000 years old include a dog that appears identical to the modern breed.

SPACE STEWARDESS — Pamela Jayson, a registered nurse with a master's degree in psychology, is the first candidate to be a space stewardess. She was selected after interviews and tests in Los Angeles.

Gloria Grahame On Good Terms With Ex-Husbands

Hollywood
By VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A handy bit of knowledge in this community of multiple marriages is the ability to get along with ex-husbands or wives.

Thrice - married and divorced Gloria Grahame has found the answer. She not only is on speaking terms with her former spouses, the blonde actress is good friends with them.

What's more, the boys are even civil to one-another.

Gloria's first was actor Stanley Clements (1945-48), then director Nick Ray (1948-52) and finally producer Cy Howard (1954 - 58).

"There's no reason for bitterness once you're divorced," Gloria said over a highball. "I don't see my ex-husbands very often, but when I do everything is friendly and relaxed.

Has Two Children

"It takes time to soften the tensions and emotional upsets. But until you realize your association is over it is difficult to make the adjustment. Divorce is terribly upsetting and a horrible experience. I hope I never have to go through it again."

Gloria, who had one child each by Ray and Howard, says mature people must make an effort to be friends for the youngsters' sake.

"Every child needs a father—a man to help direct their lives and to help develop their character," she advised. "I think Nick and Cy have done all they can to help."

CASH FOR PAPER

Bill Flenniken, a local X-Ray technician, displays the certificate of merit that he received for a paper on public relations, presented at a state convention in April. As first place winner, he also received $50 in cash. (Daily News Photo)

Pampan Lauded For X-Ray Paper

By WALLACE TRUESDELL
Daily News Staff Writer

"Every time we open the door to an X-ray room and call another patient we have an entirely new and different individual to deal with. One is quiet, withdrawn and responds slowly to direction. Another is eager, talks and responds readily to any direction. Each person is an entirely new challenge."

This could have been written only by an X-ray technician with a consciousness of public relations. The writer is Bill Flenniken, R. T., a bright young man with the Overton Clinic. Public relations is especially important to Flenniken who has just won $50 for a paper on the subject.

Flenniken presented his paper, "The Importance of Good Public Relations," at the 29th annual convention of the Texas Society of X-Ray Technicians April 23-25 in Corpus Christi. Although 15 papers were presented at the convention, only about six were eligible for prizes.

The Pampa technician won the first prize of $50 and received a certificate of merit. The other winners were Weston Luckenback of Fredericksburg, second; and Larry James, R. T. of Seton Hospital, Austin, third.

Writing winning papers is nothing new for Flenniken, who presented the best paper on a local level, when he was with the Baylor University Hospital in Dallas. At that time he was concerned with "Gastro-Intestinal Studies." His PR paper was written in the last three months.

Flenniken was in Dallas from 1951 to 1956. He now lives at 504 Yeager with his wife and two children and is a member of the High Plains Society of X - Ray Technicians.

"At Baylor Hospital, where I trained, we had a public relations department," writes Flenniken. "A very efficient and competent lady was in charge. She had been thoroughly trained to take care of the institution's relations with the staff and general public. However, each of the employees was a personal representative of the hospital to the patient."

Flenniken then goes into the interdepartmental problems of large hospitals

"We are all aware that the reputation our employer enjoys is the main cog in the wheel that keeps the business growing," he writes later. "However, it is hard for me to see a business growing where the personnel is disgruntled and unhappy. If we are unhappy with our job, we will be unhappy at home and with our friends."

Noting the "apparent lack of applications for training in approved institutions," Flenniken asks if technicians have not brought this upon the profession.

"Many times I have overheard conversations between a technician and someone outside the field," he writes. "Often the technician would be saying that he didn't like his job for one reason or another. Is this good public relations? I don't think so. I will agree to this one point that someone has pointed out, 'A person who is satisfied is in a rut.' But I believe that underlying meaning of this statement to be that we should always be trying to improve ourselves and our organization through education.

"I don't believe it means that because we feel we are underpaid or have to take night calls or do colon exams that we should be continually complaining. Most of us had some inkling of this after a short time of training and there was plenty of time then to amend the problem."

He believes that if the public sees a "congenial, seemingly happy, well adjusted and satisfied X-ray technician, we will have no trouble keeping the vacancies filled in our training schools."

Flenniken finds that the following words are at the heart of good public relations: "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you."

Steps To Learning

The problem of education these days has become insensibly involved with the problem of finding money. Essentially, these are two different problems.

But because, in the past 200 years or more in this country, we have made money - raising and education a wedded couple, it appears most difficult to talk at all about education as a thing separate and distinct from the problems involved in paying for it.

Whenever we begin talking about education as a device for imparting the wisdom of our great minds to younger generations, we are challenged at once: "Yes, but how are you going to pay for it?"

This time we are going to give a very short answer to this question and move on to the subject of education, itself. We will reply that education should be paid for by those who receive the education or by those who are responsible for the ones to be educated. Additionally, education could be (and is) supposed voluntarily by those persons of means who wish to put their money to work in this avenue. This would entail the placing of education in the free (and un-sugsidized — by compulsive means) market, so that those to be educated become customers in the freest and most noble usage of the word.

But what of education itself, what should it properly be like?

To us, education means a drawing out of the student his innermost reality. The competent educator or teacher would concentrate upon the task of reaching the student and in inspiring him with a thirst for truth. A rapport must be reached in which the student recognizes that the instructor is not the fount of wisdom, but rather the bed of a stream, down which the rivers of knowledge may flow if the student expends his own energy. All teachers are nothing but older and more experienced students.

Once this rapport has been reached, cerain fundamental facts, the tools of further learning, must be acquired by the students. Without these tolls in his hands, the student can learn little.

The first of these tools is a recognition of certain basic principles of life which are self-apparent. Co-existent with life itself, and moral in an absolute sense. Even the additional tools of mathematics, reading, writing, spelling, are of less magnitude than a firm grasp of moral certainty. For it should be understood that even the primary subjects are useful and worthy ONLY when they are comprehended within a moral framework. Mathematics relates to truth and truth is always moral. It is morally as well as arithmetically sound to insist that two and two add up to four. To learn to read is not enough. The student must also have moral judgment as to WHAT should be read. To write and to spell are not enough. One must have a moral background in order to know what to write about. And spelling is merely another step in honesty and truth. Words should be presented as they are with full recognition of their growth, application and meaning. honesty and truth are impossible otherwise.

Once these basic steps have been taken, the student is not educated. Rather, he has reached the state in his acquired skills that a mechanic has reached when he has mastered the use of wrench, hammer, pliers, levers, screws and drills. He understands his tools. He is now ready to employ them.

Employment beings by the application of his tools to the accumulated wisdom of the past in any and every field. History, Science, Literature, the Arts, all relate to past achievements. The student takes his tools, first his moral certainty, then his skill with figures, words and thoughts, and conducts an exploration, adding to his store of information the great thoughts, the nobleactions, the inspiring record of others who have gone before.

Finally, as a master mechanic in the realm of knowledge, the student is ready to begin his education. Having learned the basic things; having acquired judgment and a sense of logic; having scaled the peaks of greatness found in his precursors, he is ready to learn. He learns by putting himself to work, totally.

The educated man is the man who is most capable and most skillful in doing work.

Whatever his line of endeavor, that strange and elusive essence which is the individual, can at this juncture truly expend itself. He is no longer a sponge, soaking up the experiences and knowledge of others. He becomes, himslef a unique contributor to the human scene regardless of his bent. Yet, at the same time, he is a more receptive instrument than ever before. The habits of retention are retained and at the same time converted into avenues of expression.

Education never ceases. This is true because no man is ever fully educated nor fully at the point where he no longer has to expend his energies To stop being educated is to stop living. And no one will ever know the degree or extent of man's capabilities in respect to living and learning.

It's Up To You

Forced Charity Is Creator Of Ill Will

By HOWARD KERSHNER, L. H. D.

Sharing with the needy is a Christian virtue, entirely to be commended. It is very different, however, from the compulsive welfare state which strives to equalize the income and property of its citizens. Attempting charity by force of law generates ill will between those from whom wealth is taken and those to whom it is given. It destroys the good will and love which are the basis of real charity.

That Jesus did not sanction the welfare state conception of charity by majority rule and administered by the police, is evident by His life and work.

Of the many instances of this, several of which we have previously commented upon, we wish to mention here just one: the parable of the foolish virgins.

When the bridegroom came, these five foolish young women had no oil in their lamps and begged the wise virgins to share with them. The latter refused, on the ground that there might not be enough for ten lamps, and advised the foolish ones to provide for themselves.

The plain implication of this story is that provident people are not required by the words and example of Jesus to endanger themselves and their loved ones by excessive sharing with the improvident. Jesus had no word of criticism for the wise virgins.

The Christian Gospel enjoins sharing voluntarily and gladly with the needy, but not necessarily, especially to the point of endangering the worthy, with the improvident. A friend of the editor summed it up recently by saying "If a man makes little effort to help himself I am not willing to pay taxes to support him."

The welfare state encourages shiftlessness and irresponsibility. It makes "drones" and "dead beats." If we persist in it we shall crush the thrifty trying to carry the impossible load of the shirkers.

Safer To Know What United States Owes

For several articles I have been trying to warn people as to the amount of debt our national government owes. I have been quoting from Medford Evans' article "What Is The National Debt?"

He started with $275 billion admitted liabilities, and then he figured that with Social Security's rising cost, since it was not payable in a given amount of dollars but was an agreement to take care of the needs of so many people, the actual liability was $350 billion; that when this was added to the admitted bonded indebtedness, plus the $105 billion of commitments of Congress yearly and carry-overs, we had a total of $380 billion. Adding this Social Security liability of $350 billion, we have a total so far of $730 billion.

Other Contingent Liabilities

Then he quotes:

"As of dates between June 30 and Dec. 31, 1954, the Treasury itself tabulated 'contingent liabilities' of the federal government, outside of the direct federal government indebtedness subject to the statutory debt limit, amounting to slightly over 291 billion dollars. It cautioned against adding the entire amount of these obligations to the national debt, because of possible overlapping and misleading indications. So we have to explore inside this confused confession a bit further."

Then Dr. Evans goes on to explore these various contingencies. Under the head of "Paper Currency," he explains that we have a certain amount of United States notes, national bank notes and Federal Reserve bank notes that are outstanding to the amount of $550 million. But he points out that we have a reserve of $156 million in gold. So there is a net obligation of $400 million. But he says $400 million is too small an amount to consider in contingent liabilities, so he crosses that off.

Then he goes into the Federal Reserve notes. He asks the reader to take a Federal Reserve note out of his billfold and look at what it says. It says the United States of America will pay the bearer $5 or $10 or $100, whatever the paper bill specifies. He also points out that the name of the Treasurer of the United States and the name of the Secretary of the Treasury are also printed on the bill. Therefore, it is a contingent liability of the United States government, although it is issued by the Federal Reserve banks, and the banks owning the stock in the Federal Reserve have a four-fold liability to pay off these notes; that the Federal Reserve banks have 25 per cent gold reserve of these notes, plus 75 per cent in commercial paper, but consisting mostly of government bonds.

30 Billion Federal Reserve Notes

He answers the argument that the federal government will never have to pay these obligations of over $30,000,000,000 in this manner, under the head of "Responsibility To Pay:"

"But we are not considering at the minute whether, under normal or near - normal conditions, the federal government might be called on to pay these obligations. Our question is whether it has that responsibility under all conditions. And to that the answer is clearly yes. The July 5, 1955, Tax Review, of the Tax Foundation, Inc., states categorically: 'The Federal Reserve notes, as well as amounts due depositors in the postal savings systems in the United States and the Canal Zone, are definitely contingent liabilities of the government.' There are plenty of other authorities to support a tabulation based on that view. What is far more important, however, is that circumstances which could make that remote theoretical liability a very near and practical one are not nearly so unlikely as some of the economists take for granted. The reasons why this is so are interesting and disturbing."

The author explains that the owners of the Federal Reserve banks would have to do their best to pay it, and so the "liberals" contend that this contingent liability is not important. Dr. Evans answers this argument this way:

"Of course both statements are, and since 1933 have been, false and misleading. Nor is this an obiter dictum, dragged in because of any pleasure in criticizing the federal government. The point has direct bearing on the problem under consideration. For it doesn't make sense to speak of redeeming a ten-dollar bill for 'lawful money' if all you get in exchange is another ten-dollar bill exactly like it. 'Lawful money,' as used here, either means gold or it means nothing. And the U. S. Treasury will not pay to the bearer on demand the value of that ten dollars in gold unless he is a foreigner; American citizens have been denied the privilege of redemption. It is undoubtedly because of this fact, that so far as the source from which any sizable demand for redemption might normally be expected, the Federal Reserve does not have to give the demanders anything but more 'money' of the same kind and origin, that the belief is so prevalent as to the government's contingent liability being meaningless.

"This discounts too much and too easily, however, another source of demand. Any 'recognized' foreign government or foreign central bank can take any of these Federal Reserve notes it gets its hands on, and insist that our government redeem them in gold."

Innocent Bystanders

Robert Allen Reports:

Please Mr. D.A. Won't You Step Down!

WASHINGTON — Attorney General William Rogers is having a tough time trying to figure out how to get rid of a top Federal District Attorney without actually firing him.

Robert Tieken, U.S. Attorney in Chicago, has flatly rejected demands for his resignation, despite the fact that he is under fire by two congressional committees, and one of them has formally called for his ouster in a blistering report charging him with "abusing the power of his office" and other shortcomings.

Reasons for Rogers' painful dilemma are:

On one hand — Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill., is vigorously backing Tieken in holding on to his job, notwithstanding the efforts of Rogers and the two critical committees to get rid of him.

On the other hand — one of these committees, the Appropriations Subcommittee headed by Representative John Rooney (D., N.Y.), is delaying action on the Justice Department's $275 million budget until Rogers cracks down on Tieken.

Another curious aspect of this affair is that nominally Tieken is only "Actiag" U.S. Attorney.

His original four - year term expired last October. He has never been reappointed. Under the law, he continues in office until replaced. But Senator Dirksen is blocking that. So Tieken is firmly holding on to his job in the face of Rogers' demands for his resignation and the prodding of the two congressional committees that he be kicked out.

Assistants of Rogers have repeatedly assured the committees that Tieken will be "relieved". Only last week the Appropriations Subcommittee again got that word.

But when and how Tieken will be unhitched remains to be seen.

THE BLOCKBUSTER — The Chicago Federal District Attorney was under White House consideration for a judgeship when the roof fell on him.

He had been strongly recommended for a federal judgeship by his good friend Senate Republican Leader Dirksen. But just about that time the House Anti - Trust Investigating Committee, headed by Representative Emanuel Celar (D., N.Y.), blasted Tieken in a report to Rogers.

Hastily the Attorney General advised the White House to do nothing about naming Tieken to the federal bench. Simultaneously, Rogers also saw to it that Tieken was not reappointed for another term as U.S. Attorney — For the second largest jurisdiction in the country.

By these tactics, Rogers figured Tieken would take the hint and get out.

He didn't. Instead, with the potent support of Dirksen, Tieken has refused to budge.

This has proved highly distressing to Rogers, caught between Dirksen on one hand, and the Celler and Rooney Committees on the other. Dirksen is saying "no," and they are insisting on "yes."

Backing their demand for Tieken's ouster is the scorching unanimous report that was sent to Rogers last October. Its highlights are as follows:

"The Anit - Trust Committee established conclusively Robert Tieken's record of misconduct. It is clear that Tieken abused the power of his office, and the process of a U.S. grand jury for private gain. Tieken's conflict of interest has not only impaired the administration of justice in the Northern District of Illinois, but has brought the position of U.S. Attorney in that area into public disrepute.

"Tieken abused the power of his office and the process of a U.S. grand jury in issuing subpenas without any official justification ... To coerce and intimidate state officials when they were unwilling to settle Tieken's land condemnation cases on terms acceptable to him.

"Tieken has on numerous occasions flouted Department of Justice instructions on established policies, and arrogated to himself decisions which, for the efficient and uniform administration of justice throughout the U.S., are reserved to the Attorney General."

Senator Dirksen, in addition to being Republican Floor Leader, wears two other influential hats. He is ranking GOP member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which handles all legal appointments, and top Republican member of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee that has jurisdiction over the Justice Department's budget.

Those are further reasons why Dirksen has been able to swing so much weight in this extraordinary backstage hassle.

The Doctor Says:

by EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

It is depressing to see how many people there are with round shoulders, protruding abdomens or other forms of poor posture. In some of these, undoubtedly, the bad posture actually interferes with the health, perhaps by slowing the circulation of the blood.

The best time to make sure that the standing and sitting posture will be satisfactory is during youth.

Those responsible for the design of school furniture — and the designers of seats in buses, railroads, airplanes, movie theaters and other public facilities — are coming to realize the importance of comfortable seating which helps to build up or maintain good sitting posture.

But no one can help when it comes to standing but the individual himself.

There are three basic postures: standing, sitting and lying.

Good standing position does not necessarily mean standing at attention as though on the parade ground.

As a matter of fact, long continued standing at attention slows the blood circulation and too much blood gathers in the lower extremities. This explains the fainting which sometimes happens to military men held at attention for long periods.

In ordinary standing, the weight should be shifted from one foot to another and from the heel to the toes. If the body is allowed to make such shifts one becomes less tired and tense.

The body should be held erect with the knees and feet directed straight ahead. The abdomen should be held flat but not tense.

The shape and height of a chair or seat is important for proper sitting. The trunk and head should be held straight above the seat or tilted forward.

The height of the chair from the floor ought to correspond to the distance of the legs from the knee to the heel. The back of the chair should be straight but comfortably fitting. Comfort cannot be ignored.

Too low and too soft seats tend to cause poor sitting posture. Because we are not all built alike, adjustability of seats is desirable, though not always possible.

All of us spend a lot of time lying in bed. Many mattresses are softer than they should be. This causes too much relaxation of some muscles and tenseness of others. Some backaches are produced from too soft beds.

If this is the case, innerspring mattresses may have to be eliminated. When the bed has too much sag, a piece of plyboard can be placed under the mattress. Also, some manufacturers make "firm" mattresses.

Good posture also requires proper exercise. Exercise increases the supply of air to the lungs, improves the circulation and favors good health. Good upright position while walking is as important as good posture at other times.

SENSING THE NEWS UNIONISM: IMAGE AND CHALLENGE

In the final days of Senate debate on the mistakenly labeled labor "reform" bill, the ugly character of modern unionism was exposed in a small North Carolina town.

Weeks of labor violence against the Harriet Henderson Cotton Mills and its non-striking empoyes culminated in nightly barrages of riflefire by union sympathizers. Bullets shattered the window of a state police vehicle. Non-strikers were forced to risk their lives in order to earn their bread.

Despite obvious abuses of freedom committed by unionists, the Senate refused to enact legislation needed to fully protect American working men and their employers. A compromise was reached in the Senate. Only one Senator dissented. I can understand why this lone Senator took this stand. He said the Senate had labored long "and like the proverbial mountain it brought forth the proverbial mouse." I can also understand the position of those conservative Senators who accepted the compromise. They saw that they were heavily outnumbered by the senatorial friends of the union bosses. Thus they hoped to salvage something from the McClellan labor rackets hearings. A little, they no doubt reasoned, was better than nothing at all.

The McClellan hearings developed a record of corruption, ruthlessness and tyranny unparallelled in American history. Documented now are all the evils of boss-ridden unionism. But the votes weren't there to produce the true reform legislation which the nation needs so badly. Though the news of riflefire in Henderson, N. C. was in the Washington papers, the Senate would not act to free workingmen from the violence and tryanny of big labor.

There was much talk of a bill of rights for labor. In my opinion, such a bill need contain only one plank: a national right-to-work law. Until the right-to-work is upheld in every state of this union, the labor bosses will hold decent Americans as their captives, destroy the peace of American towns and cities, and ride roughshod over the rights of property owners.

Because good government and freedom didn't triumph in Washington this year, it does not mean that the union bosses have won a war. They have emerged from a battle with hardly a scratch. But I am sure that they will be checked in time to come — as sure as I am of the essential decency and law-abiding qualities of American citizens.

We must remember that the union bosses were successful in the last Congressional elections. They sent numbers of their men to Congress. It was too much to expect that men elected with money supplied by union bosses would turn on their masters and speak up for freedom.

The Henderson strike, whatever its outcome in term of a contract, will leave a bitter taste in the mouths of Americans. They will remember, I am sure, a dark image of unionism. The unions can speak from their Washington headquaters with sweetness and light. But the public will still hear the shots and remember the violence that shook a small American town.

If this accurate image of unionism is borne in mind, reform may result in the next few years. Decent people in decent communities will not endlessly tolerate the violence on which unionism thrives. They will establish once and for all the right of a man to work without any card certified by a union czar.

It is not enough, however, for Americans to become indignant. To suppress tyranny, laws must be passed. And in order to pass such laws, Congress and the legislatures must receive transfusions of new blood and strong principles. The people must select representatives who will not fear to slap down the aggression of union tyrants against free citizens.

Mrs. Luce Uses Lacy Language Nicely

By HENRY MCLEMORE

Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce's use of plain, everyday English, understandable to all who read it, could very well mark a new and refreshing era in diplomatic language.

When Mrs. Luce said her troubles began when Senator Morse was "kicked in the head by a horse," she kicked over the traces that have bound the talk of diplomats for too many centuries.

When the world was younger and more graceful it was appropriate, I suppose, for ambassadors to couch their meanings in words of finery and double - talk. Nowadays, when a bomb is called a bomb, lacy language is as anachronistic as powdered wigs, buckled shoes and snuff boxes.

By backing Mrs. Luce, President Eisenhower placed his seal of approval on unadorned language, so it would not be surprising to see the exchange of words and notes between countries and their ministers undergo a radical change.

"Go fly a kite!" Secretary of State Herter may answer Russia when it next challenges our right to fly our planes at any height we see fit.

Such an answer not only would leave no doubt in Russian minds as to how this country felt, but it would save a tremendous amount of paper work, for it has been estimated that the United States has wasted thousands of dollars on formal, ring-around-the-rosy letters to the Soviets.

Just in case the men in the State Department, and our representatives to foreign countries all over the world, have forgotten many of the good, old phrases, and how to use them, I gladly make a list of some of them, and appropriate times to employ them.

To Prime Minister Macmillan when he urges a more flexible policy toward Russia: You must have bats in your belfrey.

To Pravda when it accuses the United States of being a warmonger: So's your Aunt Minnie.

To Mikoyan on his next visit: We wouldn't trust you as far as we can throw a piano.

To Field Marshal Montgomery when he next spouts off against the President as a leader: You don't know your head from third base.

To Jimmy Hoffa when he talks of organizing the policemen of the country: Go soak your head.

To Khrushchev when he orders our troops from Berlin: Go jump in the lake.

To Red China seeking admission to the UN: You haven't got all your marbles.

Still other good, ringing, phrases for the new diplomacy are:

You got about as much chance as a snowball in —.

If you don't like it, lump it.

Button your lip.

You got a screw loose.

GE ADVISES RE INFLATION

In its 1958 Annual Report to its stockholders, the General Electric Company points out that inflationary forces have reduced the purchasing power of the dollar to less than half its value in 20 years and that two of these should be of particular interest to stockholders:

1. Government expenditure policies that tend to exceed the country's tax - collecting ability and result in deficit financing and increase in money supply; and

2. The monopoly power of labor unions in major areas of the economy to force unrealistically high wage commitments which must be accommodated by further inflation;

Then General Electric advises that share owners can help fight inflation by marshalling public support for sound legislative and administration measures by insisting on:

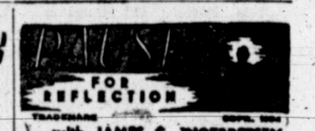
Moderation of government spending so that taxes will be sufficient to avoid further deficits that must be accommodated by money creation;

An amendment to the Employment Act so as to make the stability of the dollar a prime requirement and objective in government fiscal and welfare policies;

Development of public understanding and support for efforts to moderate the unions' drive to enforce inflationary wage settlements.

This advice by General Electric to its stockholders can be applied likewise to stockholders of all companies. Acting collectively, stockholders can put the brakes on inflation.

Birds are an offshot of reptile stock that was laying eggs millions of years before the first bird flew.



OF CARS AND CHARACTER

It is hard to avoid meanings in the recent survey at an Idaho high school, setting off the controversy over scholarship versus student ownership of cars. It showed no straight "A" students having the use of a car, 15 per cent of the "B" students having cars, 41 per cent of the "C" students, 71 per cent of the "D" students, and 83 per cent of those with "F".

It would be oversimplification to say that we encourage scholarship by shifting the means of locomotion from tires to shoe leather. Many a Phi Beta Kappa drives a Cadillac. Nevertheless, a searching significance is here.

For it has long been urged, especially by socialists, unionists, and "the Social Gospel," that we must first take care of material needs. Provide for the kingdom of the flesh, and the kingdom of the mind and spirit will flower from it.

If this were true, it would seem that car ownership would promote scholarship — that thought would depend upon things, character upon cash, the culture of the soul upon the buttons we can push.

But the evidence is strongly otherwise. Material well-being is good, but only as it stems from morality and meaning. Reverse the priority of spirit over substance, and you finally destroy even the substance. "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness," we are told, "and THEN all the other things will be added!"

Navy Offering Trade School In Five Fields

Navy Recruiter, Chief Quartermaster Given Vance, of the Navy Recruiting Station, Pampa, has announced that the Navy is offering, to qualified high school graduates, guaranteed trade schooling in the field of their choice. There are five fields available in this program: Electronics, Nuclear, Airman, General Ratings, and Hospital and Dental. An applicant is enlisted in his chosen field, and upon completion of recruit training and leave, he will report for schooling to one of the many Navy schools for training.

Chief Vance also states that this is a fine way for young men to put that high school diploma to work for the first time after graduation, as an applicant cannot be guaranteed a trade school, prior to enlisting, without a high school diploma.

Upon completion of an enlistment in the Navy, a young man not only has his military obligations fullfilled but also is trained in a field that can be applied in civilian industry. While receiving this technical training young men are also being paid, with the opportunity of world travel after completion of their schooling.

All young men, with high school diplomas, are invited to visit your Navy Recruiting Office, Post Office Building in Pampa and talk with your Navy Recruiters to learn of the many opportunities offered by the Navy.

Cotton mills are enjoying the most favorable profit margins since January, 1957, according to the Agriculture Department. The spread between cloth selling prices and raw cotton costs widened in April to 27.18 cents a pound, compared with 22.75 a year ago.

The free market price for gold in London rose to $35.145, highest since the British market reopened in 1954. The cause of the rise was said to be speculation generated by the recent outflow of golf from the U.S. that a possible boost in the official U.S. price of golf was in the making.

Swift & Co. announced it will end all cattle killing and processing in Chicago June 13. The exodus is part of a trend brought on by the fact that farmers are sending their animals to plants close to producing areas. Last year Chicago stockyards accounted for less than 3 per cent of the nation's livestock slaughter, against 17 per cent in 1919.

Pampa Teen-Ager Waxes Long-Play

By MARVIN OLSEN
Daily News Staff Writer

An attractive teen-age Pampa vival singer, Sheron Montez ade, made an unheralded ap-arance on the music recording ene two weeks ago. Her hopes r the future, at the moment, rest a long-play recording of revivist tunes that went on sale here o weeks ago.

The recording, on Miss Wade's vn "Montez Melodies" label, has own some early signs of success, d according to the artist herself, With some publicity it might do ry well."

Sheron Wade, 17, has already ade a name for herself on the vival circuit and in a number area churches where she has erformed vocal and piano solos. She began piano lessons at the nder age of five with a gentle odding from her parents, Mr. nd Mrs. A. B. Wade, 1314 Charles.

In early attempts at revival singing Miss Wade was well received, and as the years passed was asked more and more for recordings of particular favorites. Finally, in January, she cut her first recording for Clifford Herring in Ft. Worth where she was attending business college.

Several pressings were made by Allied Records of Hollywood, and two weeks ago a shipment arrived in Pampa. They are now on sale ($3.98 a copy) at Tarpley's and the Christian Book Store.

Eight of the nine tunes on the long-play feature the Pampa girl's voice with her own piano accompaniment. The ninth is a piano solo of "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Miss Wade's voice has a wide range, and the songs, she said, are family favorites. The tunes should be familiar to followers of revival meetings.

Most of Sheron's future hopes are pinned on the record "at least breaking even," which would mean the sale of at least 400.

"My main hope is that the public likes it, whether it makes money or not," she said. "If it sells we plan to record a song written by my uncle and myself. Her uncle is Rev. W. C. Wade, pastor of a church at Denver City, Texas.

While not on the revival stage Sheron attends school. She was a student at Pampa high school, has attended one semester at Waxahachie, and recently ended a semester at Ft. Worth where she studied business and made the class honor roll.

Miss Wade said she hasn't given up the idea of traveling as a revival soloist, but would also like to go back to college for secretarial training.

Asked if she ever tires of hearing her own voice on a recording — an experience few of us have ever had — she replied simply: "Never."

ARTIST, FIRST RECORD

Sheron Montez Wade of Pampa hopes that her first recording effort on her own Montez Melodies label will at least "break even." The 17-year-old songster's long-play album, featuring nine revival songs, is now on sale in Pampa. (Daily News Photo)

Steel Inventory Not Meeting Demands

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UPI)—The steel inventory buildup in the face of a threatened strike on July 1 is not progressing as rapidly as hoped even though shipments will exceed consumption by more than a million tons this month.

Steel magazine, the metalworking weekly, said that if the United Steelworkers strike there will be more than a few consumers seriously threatened. If the walkout lasts more than three or four weeks, some manufacturers may be forced to shut down.

The major reason for the inventory deficiencies is the suddenness of the business recovery, according to Steel. The magazine said that metalworking executives had no idea that sales would improve so rapidly. Many underestimated second quarter needs and have had to divert steel purchased for stock into immediate use.

Apparently Are Apprehensive

Automakers apparently are apprehensive about their inventories. Ford Motor Co. and American Motors Corp., after repeatedly boosting production schedules, are in the market for extra tonnage.

Chrysler Corp. is trying to achieve a 45-day inventory by the end of May and a 90-day inventory by July 1. Ford, with a 30-day inventory, has similar aims.

The inventory crisis is compounded by the fact that steelmakers are behind schedule on shipments of flat-rolled products and heavy plates. Consumers face delays of three to four weeks on cold-rolled, hot-rolled and galvanized sheets. Shipments also may be hindered by a shortage of trucks and freight cars and scattered wildcat strikes.

Steelmakers last week operated their furnaces at 94.5 per cent of capacity, unchanged from the previous week, and produced 2,676,000 net tons of steel. Nine of the 12 steelmaking districts were at or above the national ingot rate.

Outlook Is Brightening

The trade weekly said the third quarter outlook for steel is brightening. Plates, galvanized sheets and tin mill products will be in strong demand even if a strike is avoided.

The construction industry may set higher records this year than anticipated by the experts — $52.3 billion in work put in place. Steel reported that building had picked up a lot of momentum during the first four months, contract awards are continuing at a high level, housing starts have shown only a slight decline, and industrial construction is beginning to pick up.

Industry leaders predict there will be a more stable, less hectic market over the rest of the second quarter for copper, lead, zinc and aluminum. They forecast fewer price changes, a continuation of sales at near present levels with perhaps slightly less hedge buying, and more market conservatism as contract negotiations draw near.

Steel's price composite on steelmaking scrap was off 66 cents to $33.67 a gross ton last week, lowest since May, 1958.

Christian Science Founded On Young Widow's Recovery

RELIGION IN AMERICA
By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

On Thursday evening in February 1866, a frail young widow named Mary Baker Eddy was seriously injured by a fall on an icy sidewalk in Lynn, Mass.

She was carried unconscious to a nearby home. For two days she remained in critical condition and her friends despaired of her life. Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Eddy asked for a Bible. She read (in the ninth chapter of Matthew) the account of Christ's healing of a man with palsy.

Although she had read the familiar passage many times before, Mrs. Eddy found in it, on this occasion, a new significance. After a brief prayer, she closed the Bible, arose from bed, dressed herself and walked into the parlor to greet her startled friends.

Out of this event, and Mrs. Eddy's subsequent reflections, grew one of America's major religious denominations—the Christian Science Church. Formally established in Boston in 1879, it now has more than 3,200 branches in 48 countries. In keeping with Mrs. Eddy's wish, the church does not publish membership statistics, but it is known to have several hundred thousand adherents.

Evil Is "Unreal"

Christian Science is usually identified in the public mind with spiritual healing. But the church's distinctive teachings about health can be understood only in the context of its basic theology, which is outlined in Mrs. Eddy's book, "Science and Health, With Key to the Scriptures."

Christian Scientists believe that God is "infinite good" and that all "reality" in the universe is necessarily good, because God created it.

The evil, sickness and death which men think they see in the world could not have come from God; hence they must be "unreal." they afflict men only so long a "erring human belief" causes them to seem real. When men achieve true "spiritual understanding," the "illusions" of sin and sickness vanish, just as a bad dream evvaporates when the dreamer awakes.

laws which are impartially avail-

Christian Scientists say that thousands of people have been healed of every kind of disease and ailment, from cancer to broken bones, by the application of this insight. They do not regard these healings as "miracles" but as the natural working of divine laws which are mpartially available to all—men.

It should be emphasized that, in Christian Science teaching, the "healing" that flows from apprehension of spiritual truth is not confined to physical illness, but also applies to family and business problems, social injustices, psychological tensions and "moral confusions" — The Christian Science synonym for what other churches would call human sins.

Jesus the Way-shower

When Christian Science denies the reality of sin, it parts company with the main stream of Christian tradition. This holds that evil, however it got into God's creation, is a very real thing, and that Christ's mission on earth was to deliver men from its bondage and enable them to enter into a new relationship of love with God and each other.

Although Christian Scientists acknowledge Jesus in their formal creed as the son of God, their favorite term for him is "The Way-shower." They believe that Christ saved men, not from their sins but from their misconceptions, by demonstrating in His healing ministry and in His resurrection "the allness of soul and spirit and the nothingness of matter."

The Christian Science Church has no ordained clergy. The healing ministry is entrusted to "practitioners," men and women who are licensed for this service after careful examination of their understanding of Christian Science doctrines.

In local churches Sunday worship services are conducted by "readers" elected by the congregation. Most churches also sponsor one or more "reading rooms".

It was a sunny June 23 of last year we inked out a bad rap on the Indianapolis 500 race, much to the dismay of at least one gentle reader. Pat Walsh of 701 Browning.

It was on a gloomy June 25th of last year we ran a rather warm letter from same Mr. Walsh taking us to task for rapping auto racing.

It was because of the death of Pat O'Conner in last year's Indianapolis 500, the 48th fatality in 42 Memorial Day matches with the Grim Reaper over the blistering Indiana bricks that we rapped auto racing.

They're already tuning up for this year's '500' Run and we'd just like to inform the gentle public and Mr. Walsh that at least five starters in last year's Indianapolis 500 will be missing from the field this Memorial Day. Four are dead —O'Conner, Jimmy Reece, George Amick and Art Bish— and another, Ed Elisian, is under suspension.

Baylor Bags Bearden

From Amarillo Friday afternoon came the hominy - grits voice of Chuck Purvis, Baylor University assistant coach and recruiter who was excited as a kid at his first taffy-pull.

The Georgia product had good reason to be feeling his oats, however. He had just signed White Deer's fine all-state end, Jeff Bearden, to a Bear letter of intent.

"I saw him play in the finals against Elgin and have looked at two of his playoff games on film," drawled Purvis. "We wanted him bad. He's a real smart boy and what with our standards tightening up more and more he's the kind of guy we have to go after. Those dumb kids lose you games in the critical moments anyway and we want kids who can think alla time they're out there on the field," Chuck related.

Bearden, the only Top o' Texas gridder selected to play in the annual Texas Coaching School game in Fort Worth this August, was the state's top scoring wingman last autumn with 68 points. He exhibited his defensive toughness too for Otis Holladay's Bucks by holding down a tackle slot on defense and when basketball season rolled around, Jeff paced the Buck thump - thumpers to a second straight district title as the team's high scorer for the season. Jeff stands 6-4 and weighs 195 and like Purvis commented, "Man, he's got real good size and may grow some more."

"He's the kind of kid we want. One that won't be likely to get hurt. We've had enough of those darn injuries at Baylor. Like Doyle Traylor for instance. He could have been one of the conference's all-time great backs if he'd have stayed healthy," Chuck exclaimed.

And Coach Purvis wasn't just whistling Dixie there. We still have bitter memories of playing against the mighty Mr. Traylor in the 1952 Temple-Lufkin tilt that wound up 35-28 with Traylor throwing Temple to a district title. "Them kind never quit hurting," Chuck sympathized.

Snead Fires Phenomenal 59

By ERNEST BARCELLA
United Press International

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — Sam Snead shot one of the greatest competitive rounds in golfing history Saturday — a phenomenal 59 — to forge far out in front in the third round of the Sam Snead Festival Golf Tournament.

Slammin' Sammy's 11 under par set a competitive record for a major tournament. He and six others had shot 60's in previous tournaments.

The sensational round gave Snead a 54-hole total of 196 for the tournament named in his honor.

E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the leader at the halfway mark with 136, was still out on the course when Snead came home with his record round. Harrison, who started out the day one stroke ahead of Snead, didn't appear to have a chance to catch up with the red hot Snead.

Nine Strokes Ahead

Sam was nine strokes ahead of the nearest competitor among the early finishers — Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N. Y., who shot a 66 for a 54-hole total of 205.

Snead's round was an all-time tournament low on a private course and tied the tournament mark for an American course— set some years ago by Earl Fry of Alemeda, Calif., oon th Northern California municipal course.

The PGA-sponsored tournament record low is 60 — shared by seven golfers, including Snead who was the last to tie it in the Dallas Open in 1957.

This was the greatest round of Snead's long and distinguished career.

"This is the highlight," Snead said jubilantly as he walked off the 18th green. "I've always wanted to break 60 in tournament play. I was hoping I'd be able to break 60 before I hung up my sticks. Now that I've done it, I'm not going to hang up those sticks."

Lowest of Career

Snead went out in 31 — four under par. He came home in a blazing 28 — the lowest nine-hole score of his career and only one over the all-time record for nine holes set by Souchak at Brackenridge Park in San Antonio, Texas, in 1955.

Snead, who jested that "I didn't know it could be so easy," fashioned his record round by firing nine birdies and an eagle. He missed another eagle on the 17th when he hit a seven-foot putt too hard.

Slammin' Sam, famed for his long hitting, attributed his astounding achievement to his putting. He had 11 one-putt greens and, all told, took only 125 putts over the 18 holes.

He appeared well on his way to winning his sixth championship here. He needs a 66 Sunday to beat his all-time 72 hole score of 263 made when he won the Greenbrier Open here in 1951.

White Deer Names Head Grid Coach

WHITE DEER (Spl) — Coley Huffman, 33, has been named head football coach at White Deer, succeeding Otis Holladay, who left to take the football coaching job at Colorado City.

Huffman faces the job of rebuilding the team which won the 1958 class A state championship. Most of the starters on the state champion squad are graduating this year.

Bob Moore, the only holdover from last year's staff, will replace Sam Christy as head basketball coach. He also will retain last year's duties as girls' basketball coach and B team football coach.

A replacement will be named later for the assistant football coach's job, also vacated by Christy.

Huffman comes to White Deer after 10 successful years as a coach in class A and class AA schools.

During the last three seasons, he has been head grid coach at Friona. His squad won the district championship, in a class A district, in 1957. In '58, Friona moved up to AA. The team failed to win district, but did act as spoiler, knocking favored Dalhart out of the race.

Before going to Friona, Huffman was at Springlake, a class A school, where he won two district championships. Huffman is a graduate of Clarendon High School and Texas Western College.

U.S. Team Takes 16th Walker Cup

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI)— The United States trounced Britain's best amateur golfers Saturday to win the Walker Cup for the 16th time in 17 meetings.

The Americans' decisive victory was clinched by young Ward Wettlaufer of Buffalo, N. Y., who whipped Michael Lunt, 6 and 5. It was the Yanks' second victory in the concluding singles matches and gave them an unbeatable 3-2 lead. They swept Friday's opening Scotch foursome matches to gain a 4-0 advantage.

Harvie Ward of San Francisco scored the first U.S. victory of the day when he trounced Guy Wolstenholme, 9 and 8. Then Reid Jack of Scotland spoiled the Yanks' shutout bid by turning back Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., 5 and 3.

British Amateur champion Joe Carr picked up another point for his team when he edged Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City, Okla., 2 and 1, but then Wettlaufer came through with the Yanks' decisive victory.

Lamar High Put On Probation

AUSTIN (UPI)— Lamar High School of Rosenberg Saturday was suspended in track and field competition in 1960 and placed on probation for 1961 by the University Interscholastic League.

The league said action was taken because Lamar permitted Charles Allen, a student at Fabens High School in far West Texas, to participate on the Lamar track team under an assumed name. Allen was declared ineligible for all future participation in league activities.

Lamar officials admitted they used Allen in an invitational track meet this year at Alvin. The complaint was lodged by the superintendent of the Fabens schools.

Harvesters Impressive In Scrimmage Against Exes

By RED GRIGGS
Daily News Sports Editor

The '59 Harvester football team went through a dress rehearsal Friday of Thursday night's future-exes game, with the seniors from last year's grid squad, and scored two touchdowns against the "exes."

The Friday scrimmage was a little one-sided, since the "Futures" had the ball all the way, and there were no kickoffs. But even with those advantages to start with, the '59ers looked impressive.

Mert Cooper scored both touchdowns for the '59 squad, the first on a 30-yard off-tackle slant and the second on an 8-yard quickie play.

There were two completed passes during the scrimmage, and one of them set up the second touchdown. The first pass, a short rollout toss from Buddy Rawls to Lucky Dunham, was good for seven yards. The second, a long pitch down the left sidelines from Ronnie Smith to Charles Warren, gained 40 yards and set up the final touchdown on the exes 10-yard line.

This marked the first time during the two weeks of spring training that the Harvesters had thrown the ball.

Head Coach Babe Curfman said after the scrimmage that the Harvesters' blocking against the seniors was "pretty fair," but could have been better." He added that "they were opening up the holes pretty well."

"Overall," said the Babe, "I think they handled that senior line pretty well. And I believe that if they can handle a line that rugged, they can handle anything they come up against next fall."

"Curfman said that the only thing which really displeased him was that the Harvester trap plays didn't work too well.

"Actually," Curfman concluded, "the line looked better and the entire team played harder and showed more hustle than they did in most of their games last year."

The Harvesters had a brief intra-squad scrimmage Saturday morning, with all six units alternating both on offense and defense. No unit ran more than three or four plays in succession.

Curfman said after the intra-squad scrimamge that he thought the gridders had learned their plays pretty well, up to now. However, he added that they still had a few more to learn next week.

"We'll work a lot on passing and defense next week," said the Pampa coach," and quite a bit on rushing defense."

The Harvesters will have three more days of workouts — Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday — and then will climax their three-week spring training period with the future-exes game Thursday night in Harvester Park.

The future-exes contest will be a regulation game, not a scrimmage. There will be kickoffs, and full 12-minute quarters will be played.

CARTER LEADS '500' QUALIFIERS

Champion Bettenhausen Hurt In Pre-Race Crash

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Little Johnny Thomson smashed the one-lap qualifying record and national driving champion Tony Bettenhausen escaped from a spectacular crackup with nothing worse than a bloody nose Saturday as time trials opened for the 500-mile Memorial Day auto race.

Thomson, a 5-foot-7 speedway veteran from Boyertown, Pa., was the fastest of the first four qualifiers for the holiday classic.

Driving a new pink four-cylinder roadster owned by racing associates of Indianapolis, Thomson hit 146.532 miles per hour on his record-shattering third lap and averaged 145.908 for the 10-mile sprint.

The old one-lap mark of 146.509 was set last year by Ed Elisian.

Thomson, whose best of six previous "50" performances was fourth in 1955, barely missed the four-lap mark off 145.974 set by Dick Rathmann last year.

Fastest driver Saturday wins the pole position in the 33 - car starting field.

Other early qualifiers were Duane Carter, 46-year-old deposed director of competition of the United States Auto Club, who came out of a self-imposed three-year retirement to register an average of 142.795; Rodger Ward, Los Angeles, 144.035, and Johnny Boyd, Fresno, Calif., 142.812.

Boyd was third in last year's race.

The initial qualifications were delayed an hour by Bettenhausen's wreck, which tore a portion of a guard rail on the backstretch of the two and one-half mile racing course.

The 42-year-old veteran of a dozen Memorial Day races, fourth last year, lost control while roaring around the oval at an average speed of about 144 miles per hour. His maroon car first hit the outside retaining wall, then ricocheted across the track and smashed into a wooden guard rail, tearing out about 15 feet of the barrier.

The car was damaged badly as it overturned, and ended up sideways, but the Tinley Park., Ill., driver - farmer sustained only a bumped nose.

"The only thing that hurt is my feelings," Bettenhausen said after he was released from the speedway hospital.

Hillsdale Cops LA Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI)— Hillsdale, the sensation of winter racing, picked up where he left off at Santa Anita Saturday by scoring a brilliant win in the $55,350 Los Angeles Handicap at Hollywood Park, one of America's richest sprint races.

Laying off the early pace, Hillsdale closed with his customary rush going into the stretch and drew out to a victory by some three lengths over Seaneen with Amerigo third and The Searcher fourth in the field of nine.

Detroit industrialist C. W. Smith's Indiana-bred colt showed renewed vigor as a result of his two-month layoff. He raced the seven furlongs in the exceptionally fast time of 1:21 flat, just a second off the track and world's record.

The score was a record low for the first three rounds in the Hot Springs Open.

Third Leader

Littler, an ex-sailor from Singing Hills, Calif., became the third leader in as many days. His round Saturday was only one stroke off the torrid pace set on the opening day by Art Wall, Jr. and duplicated Friday when second-round leader George Bayer shot the second 63 of the current tournament.

However, Littler's lead going into Sunday's final 18 holes was not as big as Wall and Bayer enjoyed. Bayer was in close pursuit with a 202 after shooting a one-under-par 71 Saturday.

Wall, who ballooned to a 73 Friday after his opening 63, also shot a 71 Saturday for a total score of 207.

Littler, like Wall and Bayer, used an eagle on the par five 18th hole to climax his round. He had three birdies on the first nine holes and gained ground with birdies on the 10th, 13th and 14th.

He used his putter as his chief asset but admitted he did not play any better Saturday than in the previous two rounds.

"I simply putted better," Littler said. "and I believe I am playing better than at Phoenix and Tucson." Littler won the Phoenix and Tucson tourneys.

Jim Feree, of Crystal River, Fla., took over third place behind Bayer Saturday when he shot a 68 for a total of 204.

Doug Ford, Paradise, Fla., with a five under par 67, moved into a tie for fourth at 206 with Bob Goalby, Crystal River, Fla., who shot a 70.

Wall's 71 left him at 207.

Bunched at 208s were Don Whitt, Borrego Springs, Calif., Johnny Pimer, Tulsa, Okla., and Ernie Vossler, Midland, Tex. Whitt shot a 65 and Vossler and Palmer each carded 68s.

Bo Wininger, a former Hot Springs champion, was the day's biggest ground gainer. He shot a 66 and passed 41 players to move up to 212.

Ingemar Johnasson Starts Training

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — Heavyweight challenger Ingemar Johansson of Sweden began training for his June 25 bout with champion Floyd Patterson today by working out for a total of 11 rounds.

Royal Orbit Takes Preakness

By RAY AYRES

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Royal Orbit, after trailing the field for half a mile, cut loose with a tremendous drive rounding the turn into the stretch at Pimlico Saturday and pulled away to win the $190,300 Preakness Stakes.

With jockey Willie Harmatz in the saddle Royal Orbit, blocked repeatedly in the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago when he finished fourth, took the lead a full quarter of a mile from the finish.

Then with a tremendous drive through the stretch he pulled away from the 10 other thoroughbreds in the world's richest race for three-year-olds to haul down a winner's purse of $136,200.

Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer was second in the second jewel in racing's triple crown with Dunce third.

Royal Orbit skimmed across the finish line four full lengths in front to bring a grin of contentment to trainer Reggie Cornell.

A year ago Cornell shipped the famed Silky Sullivan east for a crack at the Triple Crown Classics only to have old Silky run miserably in both the Kentucky Derby and the Preakness. He was not kept around for the Belmont Stakes.

"Someday I'll be back with a better horse," Cornell vowed as he shipped the Irishman back to California.

Cornell was back sooner than expected and with a tremendous horse. Once Royal Orbit started to pick up his rivals as he charged down the backstretch, and made his bid on the final turn with his bright red silks shining in the sunlight, the 83rd running of the Preakness was all over.

Sword Dancer, nosed out of the Kentucky Derby by Tomy Lee and ridden Saturday by Willie Shoemaker, the boy who beat him at Churchill Downs, tried gamely.

On and on rolled Royal Orbit to complete the trip in 1:57 flat, the fifth fastest running of the Maryland classic but far off the track and stakes record of 1:54 3-5 set by Nashua in 1955.

Royal Orbit was third choice in the betting with First Landing the favorite and Sword Dancer the second choice.

First Landing, with Eddie Arcaro aboard seeking a seventh triumph in the Preakness, ran out of gas on the turn into the stretch and dropped out of contention once he reached the head of the straightaway. Arcaro, once his mount was beaten, did not ride him out and First Landing finished ninth.

Marauder, at odds of 198 to 1, was a surprising fourth with Festival King, a 225 to 1 chance, fifth. Then came Our Dad, Rico Tesio, Manassa Mauler, First Landing, Open View and Sundown 2nd.

Red Griggs ★ the pipeline

Much of the luster was taken from Saturday's Preakness race because the Derby winner, Tomy Lee, didn't even enter. By failing to enter the Preakness, Tomy Lee lost any chance of winning racing's most coveted trophy, the Triple Crown.

The Triple Crown is won by taking three of the toughest races in the country—in succession. They are the Derby, the Preakness, and the Belmount Stakes.

To racing fans, passing up a chance for the Triple Crown may seem on a par with passing up a chance to break Babe Ruth's home run record, or to equal Bobby Jones' famous golfing "grand slam."

But many race horse owners, especially those who make their homes in Western states, don't look at it that way. Fred Turner, the Texas oil man who owns Tomy Lee, is among those who just don't give a hoot about the ballyhooed Triple Crown.

Eastern Glory, Western Gold

Turner, passing up the glory in the East, is hunting for gold in the West. Tomy Lee will be entered in the $100,000 Californian next Saturday at Hollywood Park.

After the Californian, Tomy Lee could be entered in any of several lucrative three-year-old races in California, including the $100,000 June 27 Hollywood Derby. He stands to win much more money, with less effort, than if he was raced in the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

Turner isn't the first owner to keep his Derby winner out of the Preakness and Belmont. Determine in 1954 and Swaps in 1955 also did not bid for the Triple Crown.

Their owners, like Turner, lived in Western states, and felt more at home racing their horses in California. They also did not want to be tied up with one horse for a month, while a whole stable was idle back home.

They all may also have believed the old saying that "discretion is the better part of valor." Many very fine horses have failed to win the Triple Crown. Three great horses of the past decade — Native Dancer, Nashua, and Tim Tam, failed in the attempt.

Only eight three-year-olds have ever won all three races — Sir Barton, 1919; Gallant Fox, '30; Omaha, '35; War Admiral, '37; Whirlaway, '41; Count Fleet, '43; Assault, '46; and Citation, '48.

Trophies were designed for the Triple Crown winners in 1950, and and presented to winners of past races. But the current trophy has been gathering dust for 11 years.

Brownie Leach, a director of Churchill Downs, where the Derby is held, said the he was going to "fill the trophy with aspirin." And he added that "the afternoon I don't chunk one in is the day we see another Citation.

Giambra Is Strong, Smart

Joey Giambra, Texas' newest contender for a boxing title, has impressed his sparring partners and others with his great strength and his shrewdness in the ring.

Giambra fights Ralph (Tiger) Jones Monday night in Dallas, and the winner of that match is expected to get a shot at the winner of the Basilio-Robinson fight, if and when it takes place.

Aman Peck, a ring-wise colored man who has been sparring with Giambra, says that the Dallasite is "the only white boy I haven't been able to handle as far as brute strength is concerned."

Billy Sewell, another sparring partner who was in the camp of former welterweight champ Virgil Akins, says he's impressed with Joey's brainwork as well as his footwork. "Whenever I've tried to outthink him, he's always there first," says Sewell.

A couple of quick quotes from "Baseball Leadoff," which precedes the television game of the week each Saturday and Sunday:

Rocky Colavito, Cleveland — "I'm a changed hitter now. I used to try and hit a homer every time up. Now, I just swing to meet the ball. The homers will come by themselves."

Gus Triandos, Baltimore — Paul Richards never lets me know when Hoyt Wilhelm is going to pitch. He wants me to get a good night's rest and not have to worry about the knuckleball."

Wayland Sets Cage Camp

Wayland College in Plainview is holding a basketball camp for youngsters 10-18 years old. The camp will be held June 8-19, and campers will be divided into two age groups, 10-13 and 14-18.

Thirteen boys have already made reservations for the camp, and a total of 40 can be accomodated on the Wayland campus. Those who stay on campus and eat their meals there will pay a fee of $60. Those who provide their own accommodations and just attend day camp pay $20.

The campers will receive individual instruction in basketball two hours a day, and will pay on organized teams four nights a week. Swimming and trampoline instructions are also available, for out-of-town campers.

Bob Clindaniel, coach of the Plainview High School Bulldogs, and Ed Billings, coach of the Wayland Pioneers, will conduct the camp. They'll be assisted by Wayland College varsity basketball players.

Bobby Morrow, billed as the world's fastest sprinter, may also be trying to win the title of "busiest sprinter." He'll be running in three track meets during the next four weeks, after competing in two the past two weeks.

In addition, he'll be speaking at various banquets and preaching at several churches. The meets Morrow will enter include the California Relays in Modesto May 30, the Meet of Champions in Houston June 6, and the National AAU in Boulder, Colorado, June 19-20.

Texans Try For National Open

United Press International

One hundred and 10 golfers are entered in three regional National Open qualifying tests in Fort Worth, Houston and Midland Monday, but only one out of every five will be successful.

There will be 51 amateurs and 59 pros — all but a handful Texans — trying to win the 22 berths in the sectional qualifying rounds to be played at Dallas Athletic Club June 1. Ten will make the grade at Fort Worth, eight at Houston and four at Midland.

The Fort Worth tests, at Colonial Country Club, drew the largest sided international sports event entry list.

Sox Beat Yanks In 11th After Mantle's Bobble

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Chicago White Sox, given a lift by Mickey Mantle's three-base error, rolled to their eighth straight victory Saturday by beating the stumbling New York Yankees, 4-3, on Del Ennis' 11th-inning single.

The Yankees apparently had the game locked up, 3-2, when Mantle dropped Nellie Fox' fly ball for what should have been the final out of the game. Fox steamed into third on the error and then scored the tying run on Sherm Lollar's single.

Fox opened the 11th with a walk, moved to second on Jim Landis' sacrifice and came across with the winning run on Ennis' single to center field. Ennis, passed up by all National League clubs and claimed from Cincinnati two weeks ago, delivered his game-winning blow off Art Ditmar, the third Yankee pitcher.

What A Card!

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Rookie right - hander Gary Blaylock pitched the St. Louis Cardinals out of the National League cellar with an 8-2 win over Philadelphia Saturday. The slumping Phils fell to last place.

The loss was the sixth straight for Philadelphia and the club also is trailing in a game suspended by the Pennsylvania blue law.

Blaylock, who scored his second win against one setback, put the Cardinals in front in the third inning with a 380-foot two - run homer into the left field bleachers. It was his second homer of the season.

Rock Rips Bosox

BOSTON (UPI)—Rocky Colavito paced a 16 - hit Cleveland Indian assault with his 10th and 11th home runs Saturday as the Boston Red Sox went down to their fifth straight defeat, 12-6.

Left hander Herb Score held the Red Sox to six hits, all the Boston runs coming in the fifth and sixth innings when Score gave up four of his seven bases on balls. It was the third victory against two defeats for Score who fanned nine and went the route for the fourth time this season.

Senators Win

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bob Allison and Jim Lemon each hit his eighth homer of the season Saturday to help the Senators defeat the Kansas City Athletics, 7-2.

Camilo Pascual, temperamental Cuban right-hander, had a no-hitter going for seven innings. Bob Cerv hit the first pitch in the eighth for a double. Up until that time the only Kansas City man to reach first had been Hector Lopez, who was hit by a pitched ball.

The incident precipitated a near-battle between Lopez and Pascual, who screamed at each other in Spanish over a protecting wall of umpires.

Knuckling Down

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Knuckleballer Hoyt Wilhelm won his fifth straight game of the season without a loss Saturday pitching the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-1 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

The veteran scattered nine Tiger hits over the first six innings, then pitched hitless ball the rest of the way. He walked but one on a windy day that is supposed to affect his control. He struck out three.

Cubs Nip Bucs

CHICAGO (UPI)—Bobby Thomson smashed a bases-loaded single in the ninth inning Saturday to give the Chicago Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The single and the winning run broke up a six-hit pitching performance by starter Harvey Haddix and tagged the Pirate's southpaw with his second loss of the season.

Haddix struck out Al Dark to lead off the ninth, but catcher Hank Foiles dropped the ball and Dark was safe at first base. Chick King ran for Dark and advanced to second on Ernie Banks' short lob to center field. Walt Moryn then beat out a bunt along the third base line to load the bases.

Ole Cepeda!

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Orlando Cepeda, roaring out of a slump which had made him the lonesomest looking guy on the ball club, drove in four runs Saturday with a homer and a single while propelling the Giants to a 9-2 victory over Cincinnati.

Cepeda went into the game after a three-day layoff and with a record of two hits in 19 times at bat. He singled in two runs during a Giant rally in the fourth inning then whacked his seventh homer of the season into the left-field stands during the sixth after Willie Mays had cracked his third single of the afternoon.

...in a road-hugging Wide-Track Pontiac!

You control this car with a vivid sense of security, a new sense of balance. It has a steadier stance because it has a wider track. Its wheels are five inches farther apart. You cling to curves and corners with much less lean and sway. You drive with a feeling of confidence, security, complete control. This is without a doubt the easiest handling automobile you could possibly choose. Wide-Track design does not widen the car—only the stance. It's the big reason Pontiac is now first in sales in its price class.

PONTIAC! AMERICA'S NUMBER (1) ROAD CAR

THE ONLY CAR WITH WIDE-TRACK WHEELS

Dotted lines show conventional wheel positions. Pontiac's wheels are five inches farther apart. This widens only the stance, not the car itself. Pontiac hugs tighter on curves and corners. Sway and lean are considerably reduced, ride is smoother, steadier.

Lee PTA To Welcome New 7th Grade Parents

Robert E. Lee PTA will welcome all parents who have children entering Robert E. Lee Junior High school next fall at a meeting to be held Thursday afternoon in the school auditorium.

The program is planned for special interest to these parents and will be presented by Mrs. Essie Mae Walters on the topic "Education Is Life In The Making."

Mrs. Jack Foster, District 19 parliamentarian, will install new officers for the coming year.

Robert E. Lee's year-book, publicity book and historian's book will be on display.

Mrs. O. E. Stanfield and Mrs. Norman Henry will be in charge of the hospitality hour.

There will be visitation of the seventh grade rooms.

RUTH MILLETT

Memo to parents:

You usually don't get one bit more from your children than you expect of them.

If you expect them to be so careless that they can't be trusted to remember anything important without half a dozen reminders from you, they'll let you do their remembering for them.

If you give and give and give and ask for nothing in return, nothing is just about what you'll get.

If you think passing grades are good enough even though conscientious study habits could produce "A's" you'll be lucky if the grades are always passing.

If you think it is only natural for young people to be thoughtless and inconsiderate, you aren't likely to get the telephone call that keeps you from worrying nor the help with the housework when you are tired.

If you don't expect any thinks for the many things you do for your children, they will all be taken for granted.

If you don't expect your children to tell the truth, chances are they won't when it is easier not to.

If you don't expect your children to do their share of the family chores, you can't have much hope that they'll get the idea of taking responsibility all by themselves.

Children are perceptive. They easily sense what is expected of them and they are human enough to try to get by with doing less than is expected rather than more.

When you travel, take along enough lingerie to keep you comfortable through the entire trip. You won't want to spend all of your time hanging over a washbasin and laundry service is not always reliable.

Miss Phyllis O'Gorman Repeats Vows With William Zaiontz In St. Patricks

SHAMROCK (Spl) — Miss Phyllis Gorman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Gorman and William Zaiontz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zaiontz of Yorktown repeated nuptial vows in St. Patrick Catholic Church on May 2 at 4:30 p.m. with Rev. Fr. H. J. Halfman officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

Lighted tapers illuminated the altar, where large baskets of white stock, the white kneeling bench and white aisle cloth completed the setting. Mrs. Robert Roach Sr. provided the traditional wedding music and was accompanist for the choir in vocal selections.

BRIDE

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was gowned in ballerine-length white nylon lace over white taffeta designed with a scalloped neckline finished in lace medallions and seed pearls, and long tapering sleeves which came to bridal points at the wrists. Her shoulder-length Veil of Illusion was secured to a tiara of seed pearls. She carried an arrangement of white carnations atop a white Bible showered with maline and white satin ribbon tied with wedding rings in Lover Knots atop a white Bible. The white Bible was a gift from the maid of honor, Miss Francis O'Gorman, bride's sister. Miss O'Gorman as maid of honor and Miss Kathleen Garrison, bride's cousin, as bridesmaid were dress identically in ballerina-length dresses fashioned with low necklines, fitted bodices and cap sleeves trimmed with blue ribbon bow. They wore matching gloves and carried colonial bouquets of blue carnations arranged with puffs of net and white satin ribbons tied in Love-Knots.

Misses Pat and Pam Garrison, bride's soucins, of Wheeler, were flower girls dressed in white organdy and carried white lace baskets holding rose petals.

Marvin Zaiontz, bridegroom's brother, of Yorktown was best man. Melvin Zaiontz also of Yorktown served his brother as groomsman. Ushers were Joe Zaiontz, another brother and Jack Roach of Shamrock. Danny O'Gorman, bride's brother, was ring-bearer.

Mrs. O'Gorman, bride's mother, chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of navy blue linen complemented with a small navy hat and navy accessories. Mrs. Zaiontz, bridegroom's mother, wore a navy dress with white accessories. Their corsages were of pink carnations.

RECEPTION

A reception followed the exchange of vows in the home of the bride's grandfather, Roger O'Gorman. The bride's table was covered with a white linen cloth centered with the attendants' bouquets. The four-tiered cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Silver and crystal completed the table appointments.

The bride was graduated from Shamrock High School and attended West Texas State College at Canyon and Dallas University, Dallas. The bridegroom was graduated from Yorktown High School and is employed by the Rayflex Exploration Co. of Midland. After a wedding trip to points of interest in Colorado and New Mexico, they will be at home in Midland.

New El Progresso Officers In Orbit After Installation At PCC Luncheon

Mrs. George Hrdlicka was hostess to El Progresso Study Club at one o'clock in the Pampa Country Club with a "Launching A New Satellite" luncheon. Members and guests were presented with pastel corsages upon registering.

Mrs. Elmer Fisher, as outgoing president, expressed appreciation to members for their cooperation during her year of presidency. She then introduced Mrs. Arnold Petitfils, a guest, who installed new officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Petitfils used the solar system as the installation theme in keeping with the club's year of study, "Exploration Of Our Space." She likened the officers to the different planets and said that she was especially tempted to use the outer space for the installation theme not only because it had been studied this year, but because it became more convincing as a description of women. "For instance," she said, "some of the descriptions of our planets were quite amusing, when compared with women. Like, Heavenly bodies rushing at incredible speed toward unknown destinations."

In installing Mrs. Bob Banks as president, Mrs. Petitfils likened the president's office to earth "because earth is the most important planet in our solar system." She said, "Earth is a beautiful deep blue planet as seen by other planets, with a gravatational force which attracts all other planets." She went on to say that earth receives light from the Sun, whom I have likened unto the parliamentarian, Mrs. Carlton Nance, which is neither reflected nor transmitted, but absorbed and converted into other forms of energy."

Mrs. Petitfils compared the office of vice president, taken by Mrs. John Gill, unto the very bright and white planet of Venus. She said, "Just as Venus is most like the earth than any of the other planets, so the vice president is more like the president in her duties and capabilities."

To Mrs. Rex McAnelly, secretary, whose office was likened to the planet Mercury, she said, "Though it is the smallest known, it is the smallest and swiftest of all. Just as the secretary is the least heard, but is the swiftest of all in performing her duties."

To the treasurer, Mrs. J. F. Curtis, the installing officer said, "I have likened the treasurer unto the moon, because it is next to the sun in importance to the earth. The best likeness, however, is in the fact that the pull of all other planets on the moon causes her to wobble somewhat in her orbit and what treasurer hasn't had to wobble and juggle her books for some reason or other."

Mrs. George Hrdlicka was installed as reporter with these words, "I have likened the reporter unto the planet Mars because its fiery redness might suggest a very warm and vibrant person as we always picture a reporter to be."

Mrs. Petitfils closed the installation by saying, "A good thought to remember through the years is the Law of gravity. The law of gravity is simply that every body attracts every other body and that material attraction between the planets and sun keeps the planets gonig in the right direction around the sun instead of going in a straight path."

In the business session, preceding the installation, Mrs. Fisher asked for a Council of Clubs report from Mrs. Tom Perkins, council delegate, who reported that the Presidents' Reception will be held in the City Club Room at 8 p.m. on May 29 and that Mrs. Bob Banks, El Progresso president, will be installed as council president for next year.

Mrs. W. R. Ewing gave federated news highlights from "The Clubwoman" and reported on the state meeting of TFWC held in Lubbock on May 4-5-6.

Members present besides those mentioned above were Mmes. V. J. Drew, Knox Kinard, J. G. Lyons, J. G. Morrison, Glenn Radcliff, George Walstad, Harold Wright, P. C. Ledrick, and Jess Clay.

Mrs. R. Sanford Is TC President

Twentieth Century Club's Installation luncheon was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Ronald Hubbard, 515 N. Gray, with Mmes. Roy McKernan and Walter Pung as assisting hostesses.

Mrs. Duncan chose a patriotic theme in keeping with the club's year of study, "The Miracle of America," for the installation. Each incoming officer was given a picture, which, when assembled together, formed the American flag.

Incoming officers are Mmes. Robert Sanford, president; Ronald Hubbard, vice president; Bob Andis, secretary; Lorene Locke, treasurer; Jack P. Foster, parliamentarian; H. E. Stanfield, reporter; W. R. Campbell, critic.

During the meeting, Mrs. Duncan introduced Robert Wong, recipient of the Twentieth Century scholarship, who is planning to attend school at Texas Tech. In expressing his appreciation, Mr. Wong said, "This is Democracy in action."

It was announced that the club will be hostess for Senior Citizens on May 14 with Mmes. E. Roy Smith, W. R. Campbell, and Robert Sanford as hostesses.

Plans were also announced for the art exhibits, which the club will sponsor for students of Dord Fitz. The first show will be held Oct. 18 and a later one on April 1, 1960.

Special guests were Mrs. Lee Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Culberson and Mrs. Fred Neslage, whom the club is pleased to welcome back as an active member.

Other members attending, in addition to those mentioned above were Mmes. E. L. Campbell, F. M. Culberson, J. W. Gordon, Raymond Harrah, Lloyd Hicks, V. J. Jamieson, R. W. Stowers, Tom Rose, and H. R. Thompson.

Civic Culture Club Installs Officers

Mrs. A. D. Hills installed the following officers Mmes. C. F. Pennington, president; Emmeat Osborne, vice president; W. J. Morris, recording secretary; Louise Sewell, corresponding secretary; Jack Hon, treasurer; Carl Axelson, parliamentarian; R. E. Dauer, Council representative.

Chase Blots With Tender Probing

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

The best aids for ridding yourself of those unsightly blackheads that tend to collect in the oily areas of nose and forehead are a strong light, a good mirror and a bowl of steaming hot water.

The light and the mirror will show you just where you need to go to work. The bowl of hot water, plus a terry washcloth, is to help you steam out those little plugs of dirt that clog your pores. Because that's what they are. Dirt in the air and the oil in your skin mix, fill the pores and there you are.

After you have steamed the areas thoroughly, you can lift the offending blackheads out easily with a blackhead extractor. (These are available at any drug or department store.) Beauty experts take a dim view of using fingernails to pry out blackheads. Too often infection results from this. You may also break tiny blood vessels near the surface of the skin and wind up with a mottled nose.

Hunting For Job Calls For Neatness

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

This is the time of year when teen-agers start looking for summer jobs. It stands to reason that some are going to win out while others lose.

The deciding factor will undoubtedly be personal appearance. There's no need to try to deck yourself out like your favorite movie star. In fact, this will go against you. What the prospective employer wants to see is you, looking neat, clean and presentable.

Wear gloves and a hat, by all means. Your hair should be shiny clean and well - trimmed. If you like the notion of white touches, make sure they're really white. Go easy on the make-up but don't show up with a shiny nose and patchy lipstick.

Stay away from blood-red nail polish; most men detest it. There are enough pale polish colors to choose from these days. Be pleasant, businesslike and above all, don't giggle when you're asked a question.

Absolutely one of the best ways to possess a flat stomach is to haul it in. That is, each time you find yourself slumping, straighten and pull in your stomach.

Hold your stomach flat as you walk and sit. This strengthens the stomach muscles and makes them do the work they're supposed to do. Don't depend on a girdle to hold the line. A girdle is an enormous help and you should wear one. But it's intended only to supplement the work of the stomach muscles.

And incidentally, holding your stomach flat will also automatically improve your posture. Try it and see.

The gal who is short-waisted has a special problem. If she is to avoid looking dumpy, she must stick to streamlined (but not tight) one-piece dresses in solid colors.

The darker colors, lightened by bright touches, are her best bet. Wide belts are not for her since they tend to saw her in two and cut down on her height. She should avoid separates unless she wears dyed-to-match sweaters or blouses and skirts. These give her the all-in-one look that she needs.

She should also be careful about foundation garments. A one - piece foundation is best for her since it will tend to smooth her out in the middle and give her a sleek look.

MEAT INDEX

With the approaching summer months, use those meat leftovers in combination with fruits or vegetables in a cold meat salad. Meat salads can afford the homemaker with many avenues of unusual combinations.

Americans pay a total of five billion visits to the movies annually.

RUTH MILLETT

Things you can now do without and keep your head up socially—

A back yard barbecue pit. Parties are moving from the back yard to the front parlor. Dinners with candlelight are fast replacing the come-and-get-it type of entertaining.

A hi-fi system. You can have one if you like music — but don't expect it to impress your friends. Listening to other people's hi-fi is now almost on a par with having to view their home movies.

A rumpus room. If you've already got one in the basement, it's time you got rid of the cute little bar and the clever signs on the wall and put in bookshelves (with books) and started calling it the family room or quiet room.

A mink stole. Don't give away the one you've got — but don't expect it to make you look pampered. Too many women have bought their own on time.

A swimming pool. They don't put in the movie-star league. They grow in popularity each year.

A do-it-yourself project that you can point to with pride. If you can afford to, it's now quite all right to hire a craftsman and just take credit for dreaming up the idea.

A brand new home. So many new families are living in brand new homes that to get any attention today you almost have to buy an old run-down place and have it remodeled.

Ulcers. So many people now have ulcers that they no longer are a mark of the man who has "arrived."

Ladies Aid Has Monthly Meeting

Interested friends are invited to attend both recitals.

CHEESE RABBIT AND TOMATO ON TOAST

With color to captivate, this Cheese Rabbit and Tomato on Toast also has flavor with plenty of flair. Slices of hot toast are covered with a hot cheese sauce, topped with a second slice of toast and more cheese sauce. Crisp bacon slices can be criss-crossed over the cheese, while crimson wedges of fresh tomatoes garnish the sandwich.

Manners Makes Friends

When sending flowers to a funeral either enclose your personal card or write your full name on a plain white card. If you use only your first name there may be some question later as to who sent the flowers.

You may also write a message on the card such as "With deepest sympathy" or "Our thoughts are with you."

Mrs. Warren Hasse Takes Over As Manager of "Radio Station TCCC'

An eleven o'clock luncheon in the Colonial Inn featured the final meeting for the Twentieth Century Culture Club. Hostesses were Mmes. Jeff Bearden, Ross Buzzard, Jack Merchant, Doyle Osborne and L. J. Zachry.

Miniature radios marked each place setting with a Spring Garden floral arrangement on the headtable.

Installation of incoming officers was conducted by Mrs. Michael Wilson, who keynoted the ceremony with "This is Radio Station TCCC broadcasting on an assigned frequency of 1931 kilocycles, the year the club was formed, as authorized by the Federation of Women's Clubs."

Mrs. Wilson continued, "Mrs. Warren Hasse, as manager of Radio Station TCCC, I give you this microphone as a symbol of your office." To Mrs. V. L. Hobbs in absentia as vice president, Mrs. Wilson said, "As assistant manager and chief disc jockey, you will be responsible for all programming of the station. I give you this 45 rpm recording to symbolize your office."

"Mrs. Art Dobbin, as secretary and TCCC script writer, you will transcribe all business of the station. To assist you in this task, I give you this pen."

"Mrs. Jack Merchant, as financial officer, you will keep a record of all incoming and outgoing funds. In order that you may always remain solvent, accept this bag of gold "coins."

Mrs. Dudley Steele, as parliamentarian, it is your assignment as traffic control officer to use this whistle to warn members of errors."

Continuing with the installation service, Mrs. Wilson said, "Mrs. Ronald Merrill every radio station must have a reporter to keep the audience and the world at large informed of its activities, this memo book should serve as a reminder for you."

"A Public Relations representative is necessary in any station and Mrs. Rufe Jordan as our Council of Clubs representative has consented to do this for us. Viola, you must attend all meetings of our local council to keep us in touch with all other stations so that we may remain an integral part of the community. Here are some Master Keys, which may help you to unlock doors in council that might otherwise be closed to us."

To conclude the clever installation, Mrs. Wilson said, "Ladies, I now pronounce you duly installed officials of Radio Station TCCC for the 1959-60 Club year. May you all heed your charges given today and may your radio audience be fully cooperative in all your enterprises. This is radio station TCCC of Pampa, operating on an assigned frequency of 1931 kilocycles completing another broadcast day and signing off until 3 p.m. Oct. 31, 1959. As we leave the air, may we wish all of you a pleasant good year."

Mrs. Dudley Steele, out - going president, presided during a brief business meeting preceding the installation, during which members voted to use project funds to buy clothing for a deserving school girl.

SAY, HOW ABOUT those new educational sleep records that we've seen advertised around??? . . . there's a little gadget attached to a phonograph player that you can put under your pillow to play records while you are sleeping . . . and you learn while you sleep . . . they have records for "winning friends and influencing people" . . . financial security . . . losing weight . . . learning a foreign language . . . even records for children that will help them to stop nail-biting and other infantile bad-habits . . . to like to study . . . to be obedient, happy and well-mannered . . . looks like we'll have to throw ole Mom away one of these days . . . it works on a time-device and turns itself off after you have passed into a dead-sleep and pass the period of a working sub-conscious mind, which, the originators of the idea "sleep while you learn and/or "learn while you sleep" deem is after the first five hours after retiring . . . well, today, we'd like to have one that works in reverse . . . one that would record all the interesting and choice tid-bits in our sub-conscious that we have seen and heard this week . . . and assemble it in a neatly typed and "ready for the press" Peg O' Pampa column . . . guess we still must have a case of Spring Fever . . . though it's difficult to tell our Spring Fever from the fever we have in the Autumn, Winter and Summer . . . Fever by any other name might be tagged Lazy.

WEEK OF SIGHS . . . presidential sighs, that is . . . if you were anywhere near PTA officer installations or study club installations this week these sighs were sometimes more than faintly audible . . . and if you listened closely enough there were two types of sighs . . . one from the out-going and one from in-coming presidents . . . each with a different intonation . . . Ah, Spring, guess we will have to add the presidential gavel along with the baseball catcher's mitt as another Sure Sign of Spring . . . to us, these sighs are perfectly understandable and praiseworthy . . . for the incoming presidents, realize the Big Responsibility that is theirs to measure up to the out-going president as well as to the PTA's or club's standards and take their responsibility not lightly . . . this was a busy week, as most of you know, with several more still on the agenda . . . since we are not five people in one, we did a little inquiring about the pretty installations held round town . . . Beulah Merchant did the pretty centerpiece for the TC Culture Club's luncheon in the Colonial Inn . . . pretty white, but tinted pink, snow-balls were arranged above a circle of heavenly purple Iris . . . and the guest favors were very clever miniature radios, made from match boxes and filled with mints . . . the installation service by Mrs. Michael Wilson was in the form of charging the new officers with duties of radio personnel, which, we imagine made Peg Hasse, the new Culture president, feel right at home . . . Ruth Smalley did the beautiful Iris arrangement for the Varietas Study Club installation . . . a great sweeping bouquet of colorful Iris covering a portion of the head-table was the focal point for installation service conducted by Mrs. H. H. Bratcher who started the new officers off just right with a "Vacation" . . . as gay as a giggle was the Spring Luncheon Zee Holloway entertained with for the TC Forum Installation . . . the dessert was cleverly served in small white flower pots topped with a long-stemmed bright red strawberry . . . saw Connie McDaniel wearing a real pretty pale green dress stepping from a real pretty matching pale-green car to attend the luncheon . . . a nice color for this Fair Lady . . . we thought the touch that Evelyn Petitfils used to end her Celestial Installation for El Progresso was one of the nicest we have heard . . . at the close of the installation, she handed each office a miniature telescope and asked them to look heavenward for their real Guidance throughout the new club year . . . thereon the lens of the telescope was written in tiny script, The Lord's Prayer . . . we heard that Jean Duncan suffered a few bad moments when she lost an important blue star, which was an integral part of her installation service for Twentieth Century Club's installation in the home of "Mac" Hubbard . . . but we are glad to report that she found the star and duly installed Angela Sanford as the new president along with the rest of the officers in an impressive Patriotic service.

NOW TO LET OUR sub-conscious mind take over and report impressions during the week . . . we think that David Gantz's new bride has the prettiest name we've heard in a long time . . . Robin Brooke Sumner . . . doesn't it suggest Springtime??? . . . her mother, Lumarion Sumner, is a writer for the Amarillo paper so we suspect a bit of literary creativeness in the selection of the name . . . And, Robin herself is as pretty as her name and quite artistically-inclined we have learned . . . speaking of brides as we love to do at this time of year especially . . . you always expect things to go awry at the last minute even at the best planned weddings . . . things like, oh, the bridegroom fainting . . . or the best man losing the wedding rings . . . or the mother-of-the-bride forgetting to bring a hankie . . . but one of the most unusual that we have heard of recently is the Betty Boynton-Frank Frandsen wedding in Denver, Colo. . . . thirteen members of the wedding party, including the minister, got stuck in the elevator on the thirteenth floor on the day of the wedding!!! . . . guess we'd better add the happy ending as always should be done with love stories . . . they were all rescued and the bride and bridegroom are now happily residing in Salt Lake City, Utah . . . we are sure that it was Richard and Grace Qualls, newlyweds themselves, that we saw this week visiting with Richard's parents, Clarence and Sybil . . . which reminds us . . . the wind blew down the little photographer mobile that they had hanging above their home address on their lawn-light . . . and we wish they would put it back, it looked so distinctive there . . . you simply must go by and see Mrs. A. M. Nash's beautiful Iris at 721 N. West Street . . . just oceans and oceans of colorful blooms . . . she even has a rare black one . . . we hear that Adrienne Foster has some orchids blooming . . . and we can think of no lovelier lady that deserves them . . . Saw Ruth Hutchens this week at a luncheon wearing the most attractive dress in red and orange floral print with matching orange shoes (orange is not the fashion word, we know, but the correct one escapes us at the moment) . . . we remember back in our first grade days, our art teacher told us never, never to put red and orange, or blue and green together for they just didn't look well together . . . Oh, teeechur, they do now and very prettily . . . saw Katie Vincent at a Coffee this week looking very perty and pretty in a white Spring Bonnet . . . Mrs. Willis White entertained with a Coffee for her sister, Mrs. Guy Brogdon of Cisco who is visiting with her . . . who else, we ask, can wear a bow in her hair as prettily as Julia McKernan . . . no one, we vow . . . Ethel and Jess Clay spent a pleasant week end last week just browsing around in Colorado watching the skiiers sweep down from the snow-covered mountaintops . . . hope Vera Andis is up and about soon after a minor stint in the hospital . . . this is no time to be ill . . . but then is anytime? . . . well, we must close for now, so until next week . . .

Love, Peg

Mature Parent

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Frank Dodge owns three thriving drugstores in the city.

This weekend Frank Jr. was home from college. Among other things he said to his father, "Oh, by the way, I've decided not to major in economics next year after all. Maybe I'll take medicine. There's no sense in boning up on all that economics stuff if I'm going to land in medical school."

Though his father was awfully discouraged by this career uncertainty, it never occurred to him to say, "Why not consider pharmacy, Frank? I'm going to retire one day. You could take over. But to run the Dodge drugstores, you'd have to know something about drugs."

It seems to have become part of the American parent's code of honor never to suggest that children follow our career footsteps. Our young must always blaze their own trails independently without reference to any paths, however appropriate, that we have made.

This is tough on young Frank who's like nothing better than to take over his father's business. But he never dares say so lest he appear feebly dependent on a parent's success instead of bravely creating a bigger, different one of his own.

In other countries it is not considered disgraceful to follow the occupations of fathers and grandfathers. From childhood young people know where they're going and how they're going to get there. This freedom to use and develop the efforts of previous generations gives them a sense of pride, of continuity, of economic certainty. They do not suffer the kind of anxiety that harrasses our young people who must make their inexperienced career decisions alone from the hundreds presented to them in the cold impersonal pages of their college catalogues.

Why must our young always pioneer new occupations?

Well, I think we Americans lack proper pride in what we can hand on to our children. In our souls we feel that young Frank should be able to do better than we have. Americans are immigrants — and we're still dreaming the old immigrants' dream of eternally greener opportunities beyond the horizon.

In its time the dream helped make America great. Now it's time we woke up from it. Or the old dream may end by making us all so ambitious that we never even notice the opportunities right under our noses.

Pink rose-buds centered the lace cloth on the serving table where Fruit punch was served by Mrs. McGuire and individual cake squares were served by Mrs. Gowdy from a sheet cake decorated in pink script, "Baby Hall."

THE TRUTH ABOUT HORMONES TO MAKE SKIN LOOK YOUNG

As I write this article, I can look through the doorway and see a woman of 45 waiting in the outer office. The light is good and I see her clearly.

She looks 10 years younger today than she did a month ago. What brought about this amazing change? Estrogenic hormones. Reams have been written about hormones. Will they make women of 75 look 16 again? Absolutely not. Will they make women of 60 feel like they are 20 again? Only in a way I shall explain later.

To know the truth about hormones you need to learn just two simple facts: 1. The beauty of a woman's skin starts breaking down as signs of menopause begin, because the female organs fail to supply enough estrogenic hormones to feed the skin—less and less as you grow older. 2. Estrogenic hormones can be supplied to the skin by rubbing on a penetrating formula containing the hormones.

Here is a test reported in a scientific journal, one of many that showed similarly sensational results: Twenty-five women applied hormones to one side of the face and neck, and to one hand. On the other side and the other hand, a similar preparation containing no hormones was applied.

These are the reports in simple words:

Skin lines (or wrinkles) quickly dimmed or disappeared from sight as creases and hollows filled out.

Blotches and "old-age freckles" faded on hands, face and neck.

Skin lines (or wrinkles) quickly lose its chronic dryness, and take on revived freshness and vitality.

All these amazing things happened on the side where the hormones were used. Meanwhile no changes occurred on the other side. The same withered lifeless complexion.

Still another scientist reports in effect, improvement in the skin in women past menopause was striking. These women looked like the years had been turned back toward their youthful "pre-change" appearance.

I've seen this myself. I have seen the improvement so rapid that in just two days women looked younger. And, what a lift to the spirits! I cannot truthfully say that women of 60 felt like they were 20 again. But I have seen the light come back into their eyes—their chins raised with proud confidence—the zest for living return—because I presume—to look younger is to feel younger.

Now to select a good estrogenic hormone preparation, here is what you need to know: the strength of the hormone preparations must appear on the label. The recommended daily allotment for the skin is 330 Units.

The base should be as rich as possible in lanolin and vegetable oils to permit fast penetration and deep absorption and, when "rubbed in" your skin should not feel greasy or sticky.

On first application, your skin should feel a radiant glow of revitalized youthfulness and refreshment.

An extra good buy in hormone products today is a preparation called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It is made by a 28-year-old laboratory that has produced over 80 million packages of pure, fine cosmetics. HORMONEX is so effective in revitalizing aging skin that over 500 leading department stores and thousands of drug and cosmetic outlets recommend it to their customers.

What is more, it is guaranteed to bring you joyous, noticeable results in 5 days or your money back. HORMONEX Beauty Serum is really a bargain at $3.50. So, if you want to see if your dreams of a younger looking skin—with wrinkles dimmed, color and texture improved can come true, I suggest you get a 100-day supply now. Use HORMONEX Beauty Serum for 5 days—then look for amazing results.

A single drop
is so potent

A 100-day supply costs
only $3.50 plus tax

Now you can concentrate your hormone treatment on spots that need it most because Hormonex Beauty Serum is so powerful a drop of it gives skin over three times as many hormone units as a dab of cream. Wonderful about the eyes and mouth, on the throat.

The most potent hormone preparation we know of for beauty culture—33,000 I. U. per ounce—equal to three and one-half 1-ounce jars of standard hormone cream. One bottle lasts about 100 days. Just 7 drops daily gives you the maximum allotment of female hormones. Contains large percentage of Lanolin and Sesame Oil—it penetrates.

You may obtain Hormonex Beauty Serum at:

Bride Can Create Romantic Aura

By ALICIA HART
NEA Beauty Editor

Floating down the aisle in a misty aura of fragrance, the bride is everything a bride should be. Ethereal and radiant on the big day, she trails a cloud of scent that people will remember when the reception is over.

To get a fragrance that will last through a day that's often hectic, start with your bath. Add toilet water to the warm water and soak in the delicious fragrance. After you've stepped from the tub, dust yourself with bath powder in matching scent. Then, before you dress, apply perfume to the pulse spots and give it about 20 minutes to "set" before you dress.

Any bride would love a perfume that combines spice and floral in a beautiful blend. And she'll appreciate the beautiful crystal bottle in which it comes. It has a golden stopper shaped like a crescent and comes in a box lined with green satin.

Soil Bacteria May Lead To Black Gold

By CARTER BRADLEY
United Press International

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)— Bacteria that live in surface soils may show oilmen where they can strike it rich, visitors to the International Petroleum Exposition were told Saturday.

A demonstration of "microbial prospecting" was one of more than 1,500 commercial processes or devices which drew tens of thousands of people to the local fairgrounds for the second day of the 10-day show. A large percentage of the visitors—no one knew exactly how many—were oilmen who came to hear the sales messages of more than 6,000 exhibitor representatives.

Displays ranged from the world's largest rotary drilling rig to the presentation of a method in which organisms too small to be seen with the naked eye are used in the detection of oil. Dr. Raymond J. Strawinski, Baton Rouge, La., claimed his microscopic examinations of surface organisms had proved "highly accurate."

Strawinski said he has been studying soil bacteria for 10 years, with the support of nearly $50,000 from the office of naval research. The research, he explained, proves that gas from oil deposits escapes to the surface, where hydrocarbon-consuming micro-organisms live.

"We know the method is highly accurate in locating oil deposits at a depth of at least 16,000 feet because of the studies done in the southwest Louisiana where four wells have been drilled," Strawinski said. "Two of the wells produced oil and both were in an area of microbial activity. The other two were dry, and were outside the microbial area."

Strawinski, a professor at Louisiana State University, has formed a company to offer the prospecting service to the oil industry.

Over 1,000 landmen, representing 600 oil companies over the United States and Canada are expected to attend the convention. A separate program has been set up for the 800 wives expected to attend.

McLean High Has First 'Play' Title

McLEAN (Spl) — McLean High School's one-act play cast won the state class A championship in the Dallas finals with scenes from Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie".

It was the first time in the history of the school that a dramatic group had passed district competition.

The cast has won top honors in every stage of competition since its beginning in District 2-A, and much credit goes to Speech Director, Keith Wolfe.

The play also led in individual honors, two of its cast winning special awards. Peggy Sharp was named the state's outstanding actress and again in regional received the top award. In each stage of competition she ranked as the most outstanding among all participants. In winning the state award she was given the Samuel Franch Award; the University Interscholastic League Gold Medal; a certificate of recognition for superior acting ability from the National Thespian Society; and a one-year scholarship from Dr. Loren Winship, head of the drama department of Texas University.

Keith Goodman received honors prior to state competition, having been placed on both district and regional all - star casts. The third member of the winning cast, Elizabeth Boston, received special recognition at the state meet for superior acting in the difficult roll she portrayed.

The National Thespian Society presented director Keith Wolfe with a certificate for superior directing.

The all - state technical assistants were Gary Back, Bill Herron, Bill Kingston, Gary Gordin, Jim McDonald and Tenna McMurry. Accompanying the cast and crew on the trip were Rev. Gerald Hill, Carl Dwyer, and Mrs. C. O. Goodman.

Research Is Key To Oil 'Squeeze'

By MAC SEBREE
United Press International

TULSA (UPI) — Research directed toward increasing the secondary recovery of existing reserves may be the most important thing which can be done to ease the economic squeeze on the U. S. oilman, an Independent Petroleum Association of America group believes.

Reporting to the mid-year meeting of the IPAA, held recently in Phoenix, the efficient recovery committe, headed by L. R. Seaman of Bakersfield, Calif., warned that the only way for oil to stay competitive is to reduce costs.

This can be done through research and technology advances, the committee said.

Generally speaking, said the committee, research can be classified as either breakthrough innovations or revolutionary changes.

"Blue Sky"

Several possible "Blue Sky" breakthroughs were listed, which, if successfully developed, would contribute importantly to the reduction of the wellhead costs of petroleum. These were:

—A direct method of locating oil prior to drilling.

—A revolutionary method of rapid, and low cost, drilling.

—A recovery technique that would effect recoveries of all oil in place and which would work in all types of reservoirs.

Increasing secondary recovery was deemed the most important by the committee, since it would increase reserves that will be made available by future discoveries and make possible the recovery of additional from currently known fields.

More Research

Second in importance, in the opinion of the committee, was research leading to an increase in drilling rates looking toward a slash in drilling costs for deep wells. Drilling costs now rise dramatically as depth increases.

For example, the average cost per foot of a well of under 1,250 feet deep is $8.63, while it is $40.20 per foot if the well is more than 15,000 feet deep.

Third in importance, the committee said, would be the development of new exploration techniques, especially those which would increase the odds that a wildcat would prove to be a discovery well, or which would increase the odds of finding a large pool of oil rather than a small one.

Oil Industry Threats Are Reviewed At Tulsa's Show

By CARTER BRADLEY
United Press International

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)— Threats to the oil industry from political and economic forces were reviewed at the opening of the world's largest single-industry trade show—devoted to the industry's technical resources.

More than 500 million dollars worth of exhibits had been set up for the 14th International Petroleum Exposition which runs through May 23. More than 500,000 persons were expected to attend.

Opening ceremonies featured a speech by Gen. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, which regulates the industry in that state. Thompson, in his prepared remarks, urged oilmen to beware of increased refinery runs and attacks upon depletion allowances in the tax laws.

Thompson said the U.S. oil industry "is in the best position for stable progress that I have ever seen in 27 years of close attention to oil economics." But he added, "The refiners hold the key to the outcome as to whether the industry shall be strong."

Predicts Increased Demand

Thompson said industry leaders estimate a 4.5 per cent increase in the domestic demand for refinery products as a result of the recent mandatory controls placed on oil imports by the federal government.

"It is to be sincerely hoped that the refineries will not try to increase their runs so as to increase their foreign import quotas...to do so would threaten success of the mandatory control program, which we are all hoping will succeed in the interest of national security."

Thompson said the depletion principle "was recognized by the Congress in the tax laws in 1926 as the best method to insure adequate reserves in the United States of oil for ever-expanding peace time economy and for national security in case of emergency."

If war came, he said, "Russia has 600 submarines which would doubtless be used to deny us foreign shipments of foreign oil by tanker.

Greetings From Ike

"It would be remembered most vividly by everyone that Germany, with only 47 submarines capable of trans-Atlantic travel, reduced our tanker tonnage frightfully. Think what Russia could do with 600 modern submarines."

Thompson's talk was scheduled following greetings from President Eisenhower to be delivered by Wendell B. Barnes, a former Tulsan who is administrator of the Small Business Administration in Washington. Gov. Howard Edmondson was to welcome the guests to Oklahoma.

The roar of dozens of huge drilling machines and other industrial devices echoed in the crowded 3-acre exposition grounds prior to the opening. Nine major drilling rigs were among 375 exhibits devoted to that phase of the industry.

Other exhibits include 150 devoted to oil exploration, 400 to production, 350 to pipelines, 325 to refining and 75 to chemical processes.

Your Only Real Security A Home Of Your Own

THE ROBERT S. BRUNER HOME, 1801 N. WELLS

"After considerable shopping," Bob Bruner said, "We used our GI loan to buy a Highland Home. It had the quality, beauty and convenience we wanted." Billie, his wife, said it was the tile kitchen and bath and many built-in features and beautiful hardwood floors that sold her. In addition, the couple agreed that the location was ideal. Thinking of their three-year-old son, Denver, they liked the wide streets, quiet neighborhood and nearby location of schools.
