More Water, Low Rates Here At Last

BUSINESS MEN PLAN PROGRAM

Movement Started At Lunch Club For Beautification Work Over Entire Town

Plans outlined by the board of directors for sponsorship of the Tahoka Luncheon Club during the next months were outlined at the Tuesday noon meeting by President Geo. A. Dale.

Three projects were submitted to the club, namely: 1. Yard beautification contest. 2. Park improvement program. 3. City-wide clean-up campaign.

The first project was discussed by Bill Sewell and G. H. Nelson, and approved by the club. Incomplete plans call for a contest open to all citizens of the town, with premiums offered winners. With an increased water supply, it was pointed out, many people are improving their home grounds, and the contest is proposed as an incentive for others to join the improvement program.

President Dale stated that the board favored planting the city park to grass, putting in playground equipment and possibly a wading pool. "It is a fact," he stated, "that people are going to Lubbock because of that city's park facilities." He explained that development of this park in Tahoka is of value as a business proposition, as well as to provide a beauty spot for recreational purposes. He also urged the importance of a real clean-up campaign that will include the removal of automobile "carcasses" and other trash from our vacant lots.

Wynne Collier, the new druggist, had charge of the entertainment program and he presented the great man of mystery, Prince Ali Binbo, known sometimes as Dr. K. R. Durham. Remarkable (?) feats of mind-reading were demonstrated by the "Prince" under Collier's direction to the great enjoyment of the club.

Bill Sewell reported that the drive for paid-in-advance members had resulted in the signing of thiry-five business men, with a number of men yet to be seen. The drive was started Monday afternoon by Sewell, Durham, and R. W. Fenton Jr., secretary-treasurer of the club.

A. M. Cade announced that his committee had selected Misses Lottie Jo Townes and Dottie Turrentine to represent the town and county at the "queen's court" this week at the annual Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show at Plainview.

Thirty-three was the attendance Tuesday, and the meeting was declared one of the best.

Mahon Is Speaker In Demo Campaign

Washington, April 4—The Democratic National Committee called on Congressman George Mahon last week in its program of supplying speakers for Democratic Party Organization meetings. Friday night, April 3, he addressed a Democratic meeting was sponsored by the Roosevelt Club of the Fifth District of rally held at Danville, Virginia. The Virginia, and was under the direction of Mr. E. J. Wyatt, chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee for the Fifth Congressional District, and Mr. Robert Anderson, president of the Roosevelt clubs of the state of Virginia.

Congressman Mahon contrasted the status of the farmer, the homeowner, and the average citizen during the Hoover Administration with their status during the Roosevelt Administration and confidently predicted victory for the Democratic Party in the November elections.

SUITS IMPROVING

A. A. Suits, who was badly crippled in an automobile accident near Plainview about eight or nine weeks ago, is reported to be slowly improving. He was removed to his home from the hospital about two weeks ago. Mr. Suits formerly was a mail carrier out of Tahoka.

A. G. Cook has been seriouly ill with the flu for the past several days.

Boys Win Prizes In Show Contests

Lynn county 4-H club boys won four prizes in the recent Quality Meat Show held at Lubbock, V. F. Leo Wenzel of Wilson carried Jones, county agent, reports. away grand championship award on pigs with one of his entries. His litter of pigs also won first place. Carlton Schaffner, Wilson, was 7th with his pig.

Floyd Heck, also of Wilson, won third place with his fat calf.

Wilson Planning July 4 Celebration

Wilon merchants and other citizens in a meeting held there Monday night laid plans for a "gigantic, gala celebration" on July 3 and 4, to which the citizenship of the entire South Plains will be invited, H. G. Cook of the Wilson State Bank announces.

"We are planning a big entertaining program that, we hope, will appeal to all people," Mr. Cook declared. "There will be candidate speaking, ball games each day, dancing each night, a big free barbecue on July 4, and many other entertaining features."

Further plans will be announced later.

Several concession rights are for sale for the two-days' event, with "Doc" Cook in charge of this phase.

SPRING TRAINING

Coach Prentice Walker reports that twenty-two new men are working out in Spring football training at the high school. A game will be played between two divisions of the squad soon.

Jeffries Sisters Coming April 21

Jeffries Sisters and their company of radio, stage and screen stars will appear in Tahoka Tuesday night, April 21, at the High School auditorium, under the auspices of the Marion G. Bradley Post of the American Legion, Sam Holland, the post commander announces.

The Jeffries Sisters, two little girl musicians, have appeared in all the larger theatres of the country, and recently had a two weeks engagement in one of the largest theatres in Dallas. They will be remembered here for their vaudeville appearance with Harley Sadler's show last year. They have also appeared in motion pictures and over many radio stations. Singing, dancing, instrumental numbers, and comedy skits will be included on the program, and the girls will be assisted by a company of stage artists.

Admission will be 10c and 15c, a part of the proceeds going to the local Legion post.

Attend Rural Mail Carriers' Meeting

L. D. Gildersleeve, president of the West Texas Rural Letter Carriers' Association, W. E. Suddarth, editor of "The Texas Carrier", Sen. G. H. Nelson, and about ten other Tahoka people attended the annual banquet of West Texas Carriers and their wives at the American Legion hall in Lubbock Saturday night.

Nelson gave the principal address of the occasion. Among others program numbers were: Saxaphone and clarinet duet by Vance and Dale Gildersleeve; solos by Betty Suddarth, accompanied by Mrs. Suddarth; and bass solos by Gordon Suits formerly of Tahoka.

JOIN U. S. ARMY

Guy Bulman of Tahoka and Buford Beavers of Lakeview have enlisted in the U. S. Army and will be stationed at Fort Bliss, El Paso. They were to have reported for duty April 2.

CITY ELECTION VOTE IS LIGHT

St. Clair, Durham And Rainey Are Elected To Offices As Tahoka City Aldermen

Homer St. Clair, Dr. K. R. Durham, and N. C. Rainey were elected to places as Aldermen in the City election held here Tuesday. Miss Rosemary Nelms, was re-elected city secretary, unapposed.

The vote was as follows: St. Clair 127, Durham 122, Rainey 103, and J. L. Heare 67.

The three new aldermen, to be sworn in at the next meeting of the body succeed W. O. Thomas, Heare, and E. A. Park, the latter having resigned several weeks ago.

The mayor, Jim Dye, and two other aldermen, T. J. Bovell and Jim Burleson, hold over for another year.

New Lynn School Children On Radio

A chorus of 35 New Lynn school children singers, directed by Marie Barton English, presented a program of Centennial songs over radio station KFYO, Lubbock, Saturday afternoon.

Special numbers on the program included a reading by Leroy Smith, fifth grade pupil, and a duet by Misses Margaret Barton and Zella Mae Gray. Mrs. Coffee accompanied the musicians.

County Sing-Song Sunday Afternoon

The annual county-wide singsong of school children will be held at the Baptist Church here Sunday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. Between 300 and 400 children representing many of the schools in Lynn county will participate. County Superintendent H. P. Caveness is sponsoring the affair, while much of the program and work is under the direction of L. B. Waldrep, principal at Dixie, and Mrs. Toombs, teacher at Redwine.

Talks will be made by Sen. G. H. Nelson and Prof P. W. DuBose of Petty.

Mr. Caveness says that the Centennial theme will be prominent in the program, with many of the songs by the choruses of a partiotic nature. The program promises to be an excellent one, and the public is invited.

CITY TRUSTEES REMAIN SAME

Turrentine, Burleson Will Remain On School Board; Names Of Two Written In

Dr. L. E. Turrentine and W. L. Burleson were re-elected to membership on the Tahoka school board in the election held Saturday, their names being the only two on the ticket. The board for the next twelve months remains the same as for the past twelve. The hold-over members are Alvin Hicks, F. M. Billman, J. S. McKaughan and Sam Holland.

Though Deen Nowlin and E. A. Park did not allow their names to be filed for trustees, these two men received 9 and 8 votes, respectively. Patrons generally seem pleased with the work of two up for re-election, and these were the only names on the ballot. Turrentine received 116 votss and Burleson 113.

Wilson Postmaster Examination Is Set

Application for civil service examination for the position of postmaster at Wilson must be filed by today at Washington, The News has been informed by the Postmaster General's office.

Civil service examinations for the place will be given at the Tahoka post office. Wilson is a third class office, and the postmaster is paid $1200 per year.

Mrs. Alford, Petty, Died On Tuesday

Mrs. A. C. Alford, 24, died suddenly at her home two miles north of Petty Tuesday. Burial was in the Tahoka cemetery at 2 p. m. Wednesday with Rev. McCullouch, Baptist minister, officiating.

Mrs. Alford leaves surviving her the husband and a little five-year-old son.

The deceased was born May 16, 1911, and was therefore almost 25 years of age. The Alfords have been living at Petty about fifteen months.

Sympathy is extended the father and son and other relatives by a host of Lynn county friends.

ALUMNI BANQUET

The second annual alumni banquet of the Wilson High School will be held tonight, Friday, in the school gymnasiuh. All graduates of the high school are invited to attend.

Pauline Parrish Buried Saturday

Pauline Parrish, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Parrish, residing five miles southwest of Grassland, died at the family home last Friday after a long illness from a heart disease. Burial was in the Grassland cemetery Saturday.

The deceased was born in Cottle county, but the family has been living in this section for some time.

The News joins the many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved family.

Horse Theft Case In Garza Court

District Attorney Truett Smith reports that the criminal docket at Post was disposed of Tuesday, and court adjourned for the term. Next Monday court will open at Lamesa, where the Mont Bridges murder case, transferred from Garza county, is scheduled for trial.

The disrtict attorney reports that every case on which an indictment was returned by the Garza county grand jury, except one, was disposed of during the term.

Monday Bob Walden, ranch worker, was found guilty of horse theft on three counts, and sentenced to two years in the penitentiary in each theft.

Vernon Hill, from Parker county, drew three sentences of seven years each on forgery charges.

LEGION CONVENTION

H. O. Hargett, Tom Hale, A. M. Cade and Jim Dye attended the 18th District Convention of the American Legion in Colorado City Sunday. Dye was elected assistant district committeeman.

Jones Explains Soil Conserving

How the new Agricultural Adjustment Administration soil conservation program may work out in Lynn county is explained briefly by V. F. Jones, county agent.

"Take a typical farm of 160 acres. Native pasture and the land around house and lots cover a total of 10 acres, garden and sudan take up 10 acres. The remainder is normally divided between 85 acres in cotton, and 55 acres in feed, mostly grain sorghums and a little corn and cane.

"The soil depleting base would be 140 acres in this case. The minimum requirement to qualify for a grant calls for at least 20%, or in this example 28 acres devoted to soil conserving or soil building crops or practices. This means that some cotton or feed land must be shifted to other uses." Since there is very little more feed than his stock need, most of the shifting will have to be made from cotton acres.

"Suppose this farmer feels that he must have at least 60 acres of cotton to get along. That will give him 25 acres for soil improvement plantings, buf he needs three more acres to qualify, so he takes out three acres of grain sorghums to make up his 28 soil conserving acres. He may plant these to legumes of pasture grasses, or to small grains to be pastured or turned under. There are other possibilities, but these are the chief ones.

"He finally decides on 15 acres of sudan grass pasture and 13 acres of cowpeas or soy beans to be turned under as a soil building crop. This helps the land and at the same time makes his feed safe. So with 60 acres of cotton, 52 acres of corn, grain sorghums and cane, 13 acres of cowpeas or other soil building crops, 25 acres of sudan pasture, garden, and a little native pasture, this farmer has a pretty fair farming system."

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Haney and little daughter visited in Roscoe and Abilene Sunday and Monday.

WATER SUPPLY IS IMPROVED

Announcement Of Reduced Rates Follows Connection Of New Wells Withs City

With the connection of the two new water wells with the City water system Saturday, Tahoka at last has an adequate supply of pure water—a factor which may mean much in the town's future development.

And along with the increased and improved water supply, comes an announcement by the City Council that a radical reduction has been made in water rates—likewise a boon to the town. The reduction in rates was the last action taken by the old City Council, since three new councilmen will be sworn in at the next meeting of the body. This action was taken at Monday night's meeting.

In the future the following rates will apply to the average user of City water: Minimum of 3,000 gallons at $1.50, as heretofore, but with a 10% discount allowed for payment of bill within ten days of billing. This discount applies all the way through the new rate structure. For the next 7,000 gallons, 20 cents per 1,000; and for each additional 1,000 gallons over 10,000, the rate will be only 15 cents per thousand. Heretofore, a flat 30 cents per 1,000 has been the rate, above the minimum.

New Irrigation Rate

Also, to encourage beautification of home premises, the City is inaugurating a special summer irrigation rate. Under this rate the consumer may receive 10,000 gallons of water for a minimum of $2.50, less 10% for payment of monthly bill in ten days. All over 10,000 gallons used will be at the rate of 15 cents per 1,000 gallons. This rate takes effect beginning with the meter reading of April 20, and will continue in effect until October 31.

To take advantage of this special irrigation rate, however, the citizen must sign and return to the City Secretary, Miss Rosemary Nelms, the contract blank appearing elsewhere in the week's issue of The Lynn County News.

Wells Are Stronger

Water from the two new wells a mile north of town was turned into the mains Saturday, and members of the City Council state that most of the old City wells, which have pumped only from 20 to 90 gallons a minute will be abandoned, since the new wells show prospects of supplying Tahoka for many years to come. The new wells which are located on the E. A. Park farm will

Appoint Supervisor For Writers' Work

Big Spring, April 9—Frank P. Hill, Tahoka newspaper man, has been appointed a district field supervisor of the WPA "writers' project" to compile data for the proposed American Guide Book for the Big Spring district, by J. Frank Davis, San Antonio, state supervisor, according to word received here. Mrs. Alice G. Faw is general supervisor of this district.

District 18, the Big Spring district, is composed of Andrews, Bordon, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Garza, Glasscock, Howard, Lynn, Martin, Midland, Terry and Yoakum—thirteen counties.

Indian Singer Is Heard Here Monday

George Wilson, Indian singer and Baptist missionary to members of his race in New Mexico, presented a program at the Methodist Church Monday evening before a large and attentive crowd.

Wilson's program consisted of a number of tenor solos ranging from Indian sohg interpretations to sacred numbers. He was accompanied at the piano by a Miss Lane, also of Indian blood. Wilson is an ex-league ball player, and also has a considerable radio following.

Hitler's Peace Proposals Scouted by France—Big Italian Victory May End Ethiopian War—Lowden for Republican Key-Noter.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

© Western Newspaper Union.

ADOLF HITLER'S proposals for peace in Europe, together with his flat rejection of the plan of the other four Locarno powers for settlement of the Rhineland situation, were handed to British Foreign Minister Eden by Joachim von Ribbentrop, and passed on by Eden to the French and Belgian ambassadors in London. The British cabinet thought the German scheme worthy of consideration, but the French government looked upon it as a "cunning plan" to split the Locarno powers and make Hitler the virtual dictator of Europe. Premier Sarraut and Foreign Minister Flandin were consulting on steps for frustrating the reichsfuehrer and preserving a united front of the Locarno nations.

Adolf Hitler

Hitler's note made these proposals:

1. A "standstill" agreement to exist on both sides of the German border for four months during which Germany, France, and Belgium would make no troop movements. This "armistice" would be guaranteed by a neutral commission.

2. A 25-year nonaggression pact between Germany, France, and Belgium, guaranteed by an international arbitration court, to be negotiated immediately after the French elections.

3. Negotiation for nonaggression pacts between Germany and her other neighbors.

4. Germany to return to the League of Nations as an equal if the league covenant is separated from the Versailles treaty and with the understanding that colonial concessions will be made.

5. When a general settlement is in sight conferences to be held to secure the prohibition in warfare of gas, poison and incendiary bombs, bombing of civilians, bombing of towns more than 12 miles from the battle zone, and the abolition of heavy tanks and heavy artillery.

6. A general economic and disarmament conference.

FOLLOWING the example of Germany, the Austrian diet has repudiated that nation's military obligations under the St. Germain treaty. By unanimous vote it approved a bill introduced by Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg, providing for general national military service "with or without arms." Every male from his eighteenth to his forty-second year is liable to conscription. This move, which has the support of Premier Mussolini of Italy, was not unexpected, and though it aroused the little entente nations to anger, probably their formal protests will bring no result.

The new law is not likely to bring any great change at present in Austrian armaments, for Austria already had disregarded both the treaty of St. Germain's disarmament provision and its restriction of armaments without serious objection from other countries. Tanks, forbidden to Austria under the treaty, were actually paraded around the Ringstrasse some months ago under the eyes of foreign military attaches whom she had invited.

Hungary may now be expected to violate the treaties and rearm, that, too, being a part of Mussolini's policy.

PEACE negotiations between Italy and Ethiopia, outside the League of Nations, seem imminent, for emissaries of Emperor Haile Selassie already have been received by Marshal Pietro Badoglio, and the Italian undersecretary of colonies is in east Africa to conduct the preliminaries. This news followed closely the dispatches telling of a great victory won by Badoglio's northern troops over 20,000 fresh and picked Ethiopian soldiers whose fight was directed and watched by the emperor himself. The battle, at Mai Ceu, lasted all day and the Ethiopians left 7,000 dead on the field as they fled to join the main body of 50,000 troops south of Lake Ashangi eight miles away. Italian fatalities included 16 officers and about 1,000 soldiers, most of the latter being Eritrean Askaris. It was believed Marshal Badoglio would follow up this victory with a smashing blow at Dessye, main concentration point of the Ethiopians, unless peace negotiations stop him.

Marshal Badoglio

Just before this battle the Italian air bombers attacked and practically ruined Harar, second city of Ethiopia. Most of the populace had fled when scouting planes gave a warning of what was to come, so the casualties were few.

GERMANY'S men and women to the number of 44,389,140 declared by their votes in the reichstag elections that they supported the policies of Hitler. Only 542,898 had the nerve to vote against the reichsfuehrer, and a still smaller fraction refused to go to the polls.

Hitler's victory was thus extraordinarily complete, and the Nazis celebrated it with wild rejoicings in Berlin and other cities. It was the culmination of a three years' campaign in which the leaders sought to persuade the population of the reich that only Hitler could save the country from great danger.

WHILE a house committee is delving into the financial operations of the Townsend plan organization, its founder, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, announced in Washington a complete reorganization of "Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd." The shake-up followed a split between Representative John S. McGroarty of California, who has pushed the Townsend plan in the house, and the California doctor. Doctor Townsend accused McGroarty of conniving to convert Townsendites in California to the Democratic party.

Townsend said that henceforth the movement would be managed by a board and that he would present to it 90 per cent of the profits of the Townsend National Weekly. The national headquarters of the movement will be moved from Washington to Chicago, which was chosen for its central location and accessibility.

Another new policy of the movement will be the selection of an auditing firm to regularly audit finances and report to the directors of each of the Townsend clubs.

Townsend will remain as president. His board of directors was named as follows: Gomer Smith, Oklahoma City, vice president; Gilmour Young, San Francisco, national secretary; Dr. Clinton Wunder, New York, J. B. Kiefer, Chicago, Frank Arbuckle, Los Angeles, and Nathan J. Roberts, Jacksonville, regional directors; and Alfred Wright, Cleveland, Ohio, manager.

LEADERS of both major parties are perfecting the arrangements for the national conventions and picking out the chief orators for those occasions. The Republicans have tentatively selected Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, as temporary chairman and keynoter of the gathering in Cleveland. If this choice stands it is presumed the permanent chairman will be an Easterner, possibly Walter Edge of New Jersey, former ambassador and senator.

F. O. Lowden

Some Western governor is wanted by the Democrats as their keynoter and the honor may be given to Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, C. Ben Ross of Idaho or Clyde C. Herring of Iowa. For permanent chairman at Philadelphia Senator Robinson of Arkansas is likely to be picked. The speech putting President Roosevelt in nomination for a second term may be delivered by Senator Wagner of New York.

New York Republicans of the Old Guard persuasion scored a decisive victory over Senator Borah in the primaries, and the Empire state delegation to Cleveland will be unpledged to any candidate. The triumph of the conservatives was complete. Not only were the Borah candidates defeated in nine congressional districts in which they made contests, but the organization candidates for delegates defeated independent candidates not pledged to Borah in three other districts.

Maine Democrats in their primary pledged their ten convention votes to the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt.

The Kentucky state Republican convention instructed the four state delegates at large to vote for Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas for the Presidential nomination. This, with previous developments, assured Landon of 18 of the state's votes.

WILLIAM N. McNAIR, the Democratic mayor of Pittsburgh, appeared as a witness before the house ways and means committee and was almost thrown out on his ear.

Unable to halt McNair's biting tirade against wasteful spending on the one hand and the proposed new punitive tax on corporation earnings on the other, Chairman Robert L. Doughton threatened to call a policeman bodily to evict the mayor.

"Why all this dignity?" shouted McNair. "Good night!"

A committee clerk brought a policeman to the front of the room as the congressmen quickly passed a motion to excuse the witness. McNair said he would leave "gladly" and departed.

UNABLE to raise $3,200,000 to redeem two bond issues reaching maturity, the province of Alberta, Canada, defaulted. Premier William Aberhart, leader of the Social Credit party, admitted he could not get the necessary funds. In last fall's election the Social Credit party won a big victory. One of the planks in its platform advocated the payment of $25 of social credit "dividends" monthly to every citizen. None of these dividends has been forthcoming as yet.

Hear Lloyd George
News From the Cosmos
Statesmen and Politicians
Sloan's Fine Figures

Lloyd George, who ran the big war for England and won with the help of old Clemenceau, not sympathetic with France this time, says England is dangerously involved and "we shall send our young men to die, this time on German soil, to punish these arrogant and aggressive Teutons for daring to make preparations for the defense of their own soil against a foreign invader."

Arthur Brisbane

Lloyd George is bitter in his denunciation of the suggestion that England be dragged into another war. "France," says he, "can spend $500,000,000 on the erection of huge fortifications. We can vote plans which involve expenditure of an extra fifteen hundred million dollars for protection. But if the Germans propose to throw up even a pillbox to guard their famous cities and their greatest industrial area . . . then 'measures must be concerted' between the general army staffs of Britain and France."

The "fastest" double star is found, and that is the big news. "Twin suns" close together, in the constellation of Ophiuchus, revolve completely around each other in twenty months. The shortest period of revolution for any other "binary" star is five years. Some revolve only once in a hundred years.

Nature is both fast and slow; the electron in the atom revolves around the proton thousands of millions of times in a second. The lens-shaped Milky Way above your head, in which our sun is one of thirty thousand million specks of light, revolves once in 225,000,000 years. No limit to bigness, no limit to smallness, apparently.

That naval conference in London ends, quite to the satisfaction of England, with the situation about as it was when Hiram Johnson of California put the situation in these few words:

"Great Britain builds as she prefers; the United States builds as Great Britain permits."

England actually says to the United States, "You must build no more cruisers with eight-inch guns; we do not like them." And the United States humbly says, "All right, then we shall not build any."

It is the old story: England has statesmen, we have politicians—and some of them are Anglomaniac snobs.

Big business, like little business, has had its trouble, but here and there it is still big business. In his annual report for General Motors, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., reports net sales last year amounting to $1,155,641,511, against $862,672,670 the year before; a gain of more than two hundred and ninety-two million dollars. That means many new cars, and families made happier. The company paid out in wages more than three hundred and twenty-three million dollars, not including wages paid indirectly to thousands of workers producing materials of which automobiles are made.

Sixty of Mussolini's planes have wiped out Harar, Ethiopia's second biggest city, one of 40,000 inhabitants. "Civilized" Europe, England leading, bemoans the fact that a Mohammedan mosque, the Coptic cathedral and a Catholic church were blasted.

They forget what happened in the big war, at Rheims, Louvain and elsewhere, and the German cannon "Big Bertha" throwing at Paris shells that might well have wrecked Notre Dame, the Madeleine or the Sainte Chapelle.

War is as ruthless as was nature in the earthquake that destroyed the great cathedral of Lisbon, killing thousands that had gathered there seeking divine protection.

When Pittsburgh is through with the disaster that has almost overwhelmed the city, a monument should be erected in a park, or on the mountainside, in honor of the courage and recuperative energy of the great industrial city. With lights turned off, water flooding the streets, many men and women calmly continued their work, wearing coal miners' light-bearing caps, like so many gigantic glow worms. Americans still possess resourcefulness and can do what they must do.

"To him that hath shall be given," even in Wall street speculation.

Beginning May 1, if you buy $100 worth of stocks, you must put $55 of your own into the deal. This will compel small fish to operate on a small scale and get rich slowly, if at all.

It has been suggested here often that airplanes might fight forest fires, possibly by laying down from overhead a soapy layer to shut out oxygen. Utah's officials have planned a new parachute, instantaneously opening, that would land from one to six firefighters and apparatus from planes, wherever desired.

No Depression in Wall Street

Wailing Financiers Making More Money Than Ever; G. O. P. Is in Bad Way

By EARL GODWIN

WASHINGTON. — How much are your clothes worth? I'll wager the average man who reads this column doesn't own more than $100 worth of clothes—yet here, as I write this today, I am astounded over the advertisement in the Wall Street Journal by an ordinary, every day tailor, who says that the New York Wall Streeter should have a wardrobe of clothes costing no less than $7,500.

There can't be much depression and economic ruin among any class of men whose tailors are figuring on $7,500 worth of clothes per man. New York is the eastern focus of antipathy to Roosevelt; and Wall Street is the particular poison pot whence comes most of the money which finances these noise-making devices in the way of various "leagues" and "committees" which fill the air and the press with the wailings of the high priced, high salaried executives who are making more money than they have made in years—some of them making more money than they ever made before in their lives—but who yet want to defeat this administration.

Wall Streeters had descended to the point three and a half years ago where their favorite expression was that they had "lost their shirts" under the regime they had built, supported, financed and voted for. Most of them were given back their shirts by the Roosevelt policies, and they know it. They have now recovered so they can be expected to have clothes worth $7,500 for themselves, while any New York newspaper carried almost daily, all winter long, advertisements of women's fur coats running from $5,000 to $20,000. It takes a lot of business to have incomes like that.

This $7,500 basic wardrobe for the average New York business man contains one dozen suits of ordinary everyday clothes, with half a dozen suits of dress-up clothes to wear around at evening functions. There are a dozen overcoats; fancy trousers, and one unbelievable item is a suit of silk to wear at home while loafing. There are 132 different garments in this $7,500 wardrobe, not including shoes, shirts, hats and underwear. I am glad such a high standard exists, and that these Wall Streeters will be generous enough to want to hand some of this prosperity around instead of keeping it all. United States bureau of labor statistics show that the average working man in America rarely spends more than a hundred dollars a year all told, on clothes; the rural householder doesn't average more than seventy-five on his. The contrast between what the average man has and what the well-dressed New Yorker considers a basic standard makes me wonder when these bawling brokers will quit their noisy attack on Roosevelt and his wealth-spreading New Deal.

WALL STREET ADOPTS LANDON

Wall Street has adopted Gov. Alfred Landon of Kansas, as its pet Presidential candidate. The reactionary East has given him the glamour of a great western Coolidge—a strong silent man with tremendous inner strength. Wall Street wants Landon because it sees in him a nice, easy-going, middle grade politician who will "go along" with the gang responsible for his election. I take it, too, that his backers will see that he is increasingly silent, because when he has broken the silence recently he certainly has had nothing to say which would give any hint of Presidential size. They believe that he can be built up in the public mind as the sort of President we need; but if he gets many more questions like the teachers are shooting at him (which he refuses to answer in his silence) he will lose more voters in the West than he attracts in the East. The teachers' organizations are sore at Landon for his habit of budget balancing by taking it out of the teachers' pockets. Is he in favor of doing this everywhere in the realm of public education, they ask him, but the silent man remains silent.

Had he but remained silent all his political life it might have been better, because prying editors in his neighborhood dig up news reports of what Landon was saying about the time that Roosevelt was inaugurated. He saw the country going to rack and ruin with panic and fear; and as the Republican governor of Kansas he came out with the expressed hope that congress would give Roosevelt extreme powers of dictatorship to cope with the disasters which had befallen the republic. Of course Roosevelt did not ask for any such powers—nor did he get them—but it shows what strong, silent Landon would do, or want to do, if he got in a jam.

NO KNOX PLAN

The silence of Alfred Landon produces no more than the noise of Col. Frank Knox, whose violent criticism of the New Deal led me to believe he would come East with a plan to solve our problems. Frankly, he has no plan. All he says is that the situation is terrible, and must be studied. Knox does not attract people with that dull-witted policy; and the Republicans here who thought he was a tremendous figure are feeling slightly seasick. Meantime, the Republican national committee, whose propagandists have been making fun of the so-called "Brain Trust," has hired a brain trust of its own composed of five professors, three from Harvard and two from Yale, to work out some high-pressure intelligence for the G. O. P. which apparently is beginning to wake up to the fact that brains count after all.

G. O. P. IN BAD WAY

So far the ordinarily smart G. O. P. has not raised an issue, the reason being that the Republican party is in a bad way with its most powerful vote getter—Borah—on the rampage. One trouble with the party is that the western agrarians are no longer going along with the eastern industrialists. The G. O. P. was made up of those two widely separated wings; and the western wing was always revolting and producing liberals and progressives, yet trailing along after the leadership of the East. But Roosevelt attracted a tremendous number of those western liberals into his party and they appear to be staying. Roosevelt's main political job now is to hold those wandering liberal Republicans. There is where Borah is the key to the situation because he is one of the few western agrarian leaders holding out against Roosevelt.

If Borah bolts the Republican party now or later on this year, he will probably bolt right straight into the New Deal. That would probably mean a realignment of political parties making the Democratic party the dominant party—as in the days of Jackson. Yet the Republican leaders do not see this at all. They keep on trying to make mid-western Landon (who was almost a New Dealer) into a Wall Street Tory, and are saying that if Borah doesn't look out they will throw him out of the party entirely. And if they do throw Borah out he will carry so much of the G. O. P. with him that it will look as if a cyclone had hit a hay barn!

THE TAXPAYER PAYS

When you view the general inefficiency of the average county courthouse, the average city hall, in contrast to the bang-up efficiency of modern business, you are prone to take it for granted that government simply cannot compete with private industry when it comes to clear-cut methods of getting things done. Well, then, multiply the local situation several million times and you have an idea of the duplication, lost effort, waste, red-tape and fat-headed stupidity that will grow up in a thing as big as the national government—with headquarters at Washington, D. C.

This general overgrowth of weeds is responsible partly for the extra taxes you have to pay to Uncle Sam. Everybody knows it. Every politician yawps about it, but nobody does anything to help it.

The New Deal's emergency organizations to take care of the hungry, the jobless, the broken down banks, the distressed home owners, the muddled agricultural situation, of course added to the burden of government machinery here. But now the party is over. The time is at hand to clear up the mass and find out what should be saved and what should be scrapped. What emergency organizations should be dropped; what should be continued? Which ones should be merged into the regular government establishments to carry on indefinitely? To determine this the President appoints a trio of administrative experts; the senate appoints a somewhat larger committee, and the house expects to have its own group of efficiency experts. They will all get together and frame a new governmental set-up to be presented to the next congress. This is the beginning of the execution of the New Deal's promise to reduce governmental expenses and perfect administration.

DIFFICULTIES IN WAY

Now here's a practical illustration of what an efficiency program will encounter. There is nothing so popular nor so well ordered as the CCC camps. They have proven their worth in scores of ways. Only recently the CCC boys of the flooded East and Northeast moved into the stricken areas and immediately took charge of the work assigned to them. But the camps, with 500,000 young men, cost vast sums of money, and as an economy move the President orders the camps reduced in number and the enrollment reduced to 350,000. Immediately there is a revolt in the Democratic party in the house of representatives. Reduce the CCC camps? Never! Each one is an asset to my congressional district! Each one has its thousands of friends. They are good business. They make money and give jobs! All right, says the President—but some one must pay the bill. Are you willing to vote for a continuance of taxes high enough to pay these bills?

Only congress can raise taxes. Only congress can spend money. Is congress really sincere about reducing governmental expenditures? Will congress accept a reduction of governmental offices and departments? The test is about to come.

Many another President has tried to reduce red tape here. Only small parts of their efforts have succeeded. Now comes Roosevelt with the most comprehensive reduction plan ever put forward. He can save billions if congress and the politicians will let him. And if he does, he ought to have an extra niche in the Hall of Fame.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

Then you may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes; feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay? Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

SYNOPSIS

The Duke, a pleasant, likable youth of twenty-three, jobless and broke, enters an unoccupied summer home in Southampton, seeking shelter from a terrific rain storm. He makes himself at home. Six years ago his father had died in China, leaving the lad, Barry Gilbert, to fight his way back to the States. He did not recollect ever having had a mother. Dozing at the fireside, he is startled by the arrival of a butler, Willetts; a chauffeur, Evans; a cook and a maid. He learns that the son of the owner of the house, Jack Ridder, whom the servants had never seen, is expected. He decides to bluff it out. His supposed parents have left for Germany. Next morning he is given a letter for his "mother." He opens it and finds a message from the real Jack, saying he could not come, and returning a hundred-dollar bill. The boy's father had pensioned him into obscurity. Barry pockets the money, intending to return it later. He orders Evans to take him to Montauk, intending to disappear there.

"Twin Bays Golf Club," replied the gentleman. "Its only about three miles up this road."

"Well," the Duke suggested, "if you're in a hurry, why don't you let me take you there? Then Evans and I can come back, and have another try at this. If Evans can't do anything, I'll send a mechanic from the village."

"That's very kind of you, but I've a better idea. You say you're hungry, too. Why don't you lunch with us, and leave your man to do the rest?"

"Swell!" said the Duke. "Evans, drive us to the Twin Bays Golf Club, and then come back to this job."

"You know what to do, Bates," he continued to his man. "Come on; let's get in!"

Barry turned round to look for the girl in the green dress. She was whispering to Evans, the other side of the stalled car.

As they strolled up the road:

"You're Mr. Ridder, aren't you?" the girl asked.

And before Barry could reply, she went on: "Your man told me. I thought I recognized the car."

"John Ridder's son!" exclaimed the white-haired gentleman. "Well, I am surprised! So you've made it up with your father, have you? You must have heard him speak of me. I'm Judge Hambidge."

For a moment, Barry considered disclaiming his bogus identity. But what was the use? He could see Evans' listening ears through the half-open window between them and the driver's seat, and he wanted to get to Montauk Point.

"Not Judge Curtis Hambidge?" he said, omitting to add that he had seen the name in yesterday's newspaper.

"The same," replied the Judge. "Your father and I are—well, we've known each other since he came down to Southampton, three years ago. This is my daughter, Patricia. Pat, for short, though it takes courage to call her that."

He laughed.

Patricia looked straight ahead.

"Where is your father?"

"On his way to Bad Nauheim."

"That heart of his, eh? Always told him it would cut up again some day." He leaned forward, and wound up the window behind Evans' ears. "Well, I'm glad you two got together at last. It's been killing your mother. She spoke to me about it—privately. Pat and I are the only people in Southampton who know that John Ridder's got a son. He wouldn't mention it, and wouldn't let anyone else mention it. I tried. 'I couldn't act that way to a boy of mine,' I said; 'no matter what he did. Flat on his uppers, somewhere in Florida, and you in a big empty house on Long Island,' . . . I suppose you're going to spend the season here, now."

"I don't know—yet," answered the Duke.

"Well, I would. This is your chance. Make good, and the old man'll be ashamed of himself when he comes back. Haven't got a job, anywhere, have you?"

"I'll bet he dances wonderfully," said the girl.

She had been taking him in, out of the corner of her eye, and now she paid him this compliment with a quiet scorn that was as subtle as her perfume.

"I had a job a few months ago," observed the Duke.

"What happened?"—with a disarming smile. "Did they want you to work?"

"You're being very rude, my dear," the Judge admonished. "The truth is that Patricia's rather fed-up on our young men. And she's heard a few pretty wild stories about you."

They had reached the club now.

"Get Judge Hambidge's car running," the Duke instructed Evans, "and then you and Bates get something to eat, and bring both cars back here."

"Not later than two o'clock," said the Judge.

A moment afterward, he was writing "John Clarke Ridder, Jr., in the guest-book.

"You've got me all wrong," Barry told the girl in the green dress. "I'm not exactly a rich man's son."

"No?" said the girl. "That's nice!"

She was rude. And extremely beautiful. "Hard-boiled," thought the Duke. "There's one lady I'd like to tame."

Together, they strolled through the wide Colonial foyer of the club, and into its white and deserted dining room.

"Early yet," commented the Judge. "Southampton doesn't get going before the end of June. Pleasant club, though. We're opening our house next week. Just ran down today to have the water turned on, and all that sort of thing. How's your place? Still got Willetts?"

"Yes."

"Good servant, Willetts. Your father lays him off all winter, and goes to live in a hotel, but Willetts comes back every spring. How about a little salmon salad, Mr. Ridder?"

"Salmon salad — with mayonnaise, please."

He smiled, remembering yesterday's hot-dog at Huntington.

"Rather a coincidence, meeting you here," he said. "I'd just seen your name in The Globe."

The Judge's brow clouded.

"Yes. Your father's newspaper. They say I'm a Tammany Judge, robbing the peepul."

"It's always easy to work up excitement about the under-dog," Patricia cut in. "As though it really mattered what happened to the under-dog."

"You don't like rich men's sons," the Duke remarked, "and you don't like under-dogs. Just whom do you like, Miss Hambidge?"

"People who make their way."

"Can't you feel sorry for people who don't?"

"Not very," she admitted, frankly. "Nobody does. Most of us pretend to. I don't know why. They're merely the brake on civilization. They don't count. Civilization does."

The hard-boiled minx!

"I suppose you'll be keeping bachelor's hall most of the summer," suggested the Judge. "The Nauheim treatment is eight weeks, I believe. Well, you'll have to make yourself at home with us. I'm a widower, and away a good part of the time, so you and Patricia can fight things out on the tennis court." He glanced at his watch. "We'll be down for good the first of next week. How about dining with us Thursday?"

"Please do," smiled the girl.

"I should be delighted," said the Duke.

"At eight? Don't dress. We wear flannels most of the time out here."

"Flannels it is," said the Duke.

Purring softly, as though nothing had ever been wrong with its vitals, the Judge's car drew up to the steps.

"Until Thursday, then, and thank you for the lift. I'm mighty glad to have met John Ridder's boy."

"I'm glad, too," added Patricia, giving him her hand. "Maybe I'll learn to like rich men's sons."

"Or under-dogs."

"That sounds a little more improbable," said the girl.

They drove away.

Evans' humor seemed to have improved with luncheon.

"Montauk Point?" he asked, holding open the car door.

"No," the Duke answered. "I've changed my mind about Montauk Point. Some other day. I think we'll go home now."

CHAPTER II

Well, of all the mad resolutions!

"I'm going to wind up in prison," reflected the Duke. "And, as a good many wiser men have done, on account of a girl."

"A snip of a girl, at that!"

He grinned at that.

Where was he going to get flannels? Or even a clean shirt? How could he hope to get away with this for a whole week? "Let's think it out quietly. Papa and Mama are safe in Bad Nauheim. Probably for a couple of months. The real John Ridder isn't coming to Southampton."

"Stop at the railway station," he instructed the chauffeur. "I've got to see about my bag."

But, oddly enough, the bag hadn't arrived.

"A big tan-leather suit case?" echoed the baggage-master. "You're going to have a hard time locating it, unless you can find your check."

"Must have dropped it from my pocket when I pulled out my railway ticket on the train," His Grace told Willetts at dinner. Willetts had been very apologetic about sending the master away for lunch. "It's cook, sir. She's new, and, what with the kitchen all upside down—"

"Don't worry," interrupted the Duke. "I had a capital time. But what are we going to do about clothes, Willetts?"

"Well," the butler responded, "there's your father's tailor, sir. Crowell, on Fifty-first street, just east of the Avenue. You could start an account there, sir. And Mr. Ridder Senior gets his haberdashery at Bartlett's, and his shoes at Kennedy's."

"All that takes time," Barry objected, "and I'm going out to dinner next Thursday. And Thursday's five days off. I haven't a shirt to my back, Willetts, or anything else but my father's purple pyjamas."

Willetts' face brightened.

"If you can wear those, sir, I don't see why you can't wear Mr. Ridder's linen—in an emergency, sir. There's a whole high-boy full of it in your closet, sir. And he's got a dozen summer suits in that cedar chest."

"Flannels, too?"

"Oh, plenty of flannels," answered Willetts. "And golf trousers. They're sure to fit."

Both men smiled.

Wonderful what a smile would do. His own broad grin undoubtedly explained the friendliness of the butler, and he himself had fallen victim to the same upturning of a pair of carmined lips. He had resented Patricia Hambidge whole-heartedly until she smiled. He still resented her, but he knew exactly how many days it was to Thursday.

The case against Evans was that he never smiled.

"What's the matter with Evans?" asked the Duke, using his fork on a morsel of sweetbread sous cloche.

"Matter, sir?"

"He seems morose," said the Duke.

"The fact is, Evans' wife is very ill, sir."

"In Patchogue?"

"Yes, sir. We left her there. That's what made us late last night."

"Go on."

"That's about all, sir. Mrs. Evans has been ill some time. It's a kind of anemia, sir. Evans didn't want to leave her. When he found he was coming out here—only yesterday, sir—he asked Mr. Ridder if he could bring Mrs. Evans. There's quite a big room over the garage. And Mr. Ridder said, 'No.' He's—well, he's firm, Mr. Ridder is, I guess you know that, sir. And then Evans decided to put her up in the village for a few days. But she was taken bad at Patchogue, sir, and we had to leave her at a hotel. Evans was a good deal upset. They've only been married a few months."

"I see," said the Duke.

He thought about the matter all through dinner.

As he was quitting the table, "Willetts," he said, "I think you'd better tell Evans to go back to Patchogue, and get his wife. Tonight, if she's fit to travel. Or tomorrow morning. My father won't know anything about it, and it seems a pity to waste that room over the garage."

"Yes, sir," said Willetts. "Thank you, sir. Anything else I can do for you, sir?"

He went on thinking about it before the fire.

"Houses without people, and people without houses."

Funny world!

"If I belonged here—" the Duke repeated to himself.

"The trouble with people like my father," he ruminated, "and Pat, is that they don't know what it is not to have enough. They've never known, or they've forgotten. We must've experienced things to have any feeling about them. If you see a man shot, you're horrified. But if you read about fifty thousand men killed in battle, it doesn't mean much to you.

"My father—"

And, suddenly, he realized that, when he said "My father," he was thinking of John Clarke Ridder.

For the twentieth time since the beginning of this astonishing adventure, his mouth spread itself into that broad grin.

"If I stayed here a month," he reflected, "I'd be calling the old man 'Dad.' Already, I'm calling the girl 'Pat.' Making myself at home—that's what I am. Better clear out after dinner next Thursday. Or after breakfast Friday. I'm simply ruining my appetite for baked beans!"

Willetts interrupted his meditations.

"Evans would like to know if you'd see him, sir."

"Of course. Tell him to come up."

He had an embarrassing ten minutes with the chauffeur—embarrassing, but very heart-warming. The surly Evans was transformed. Barry never had seen anyone else so grateful. "You must have thought I was pretty grouchy this morning, sir, but I was worried sick. I kept thinking how the missis looked when I left her last night. I didn't dare quit, on her account. If it'd been just me, I'd've starved to be with her."

"There's likely to be an awful row when my father gets home," warned the Duke.

"We can clear out before then." Evans hesitated. "The missis ought to be all right in a few weeks. It's wonderful, this sea air."

"When do you want to go for her?"

"I telephoned from the village, and the doctor thinks she'd be all right to make the trip in the morning, sir."

"Tell you what we'll do," said the Duke. "I've got to go to town to get some clothes and things. I'll ride with you to Patchogue, and take the train there. You can bring Mrs. Evans home, and I'll take another train out from New York."

Evans tried to speak, but without success.

"That's all now. You can figure what train I get from Patchogue, and tell Willetts. Good night."

At the door, Evans turned.

"I'll get square with you for this some day," he said, and gulped hard, and left the room.

"Gosh," mused the Duke; "I'd stay a month, if I thought I could do a few more things like that."

Mr. Crowell was most obliging, though a bit suspicious at first. John Clarke Ridder Senior's blue summer suit clung to his bogus son almost comically, and John Clarke Ridder Senior's shirt was choking him. "You made these togs for my father," the Duke remarked, "and I put 'em on this morning because I've just come up from Florida, and lost my baggage en route. I've got to have a suit by next Thursday. Can it be done?"

"I'm afraid not."

"Can you make a pair of flannel trousers by then?"

"I think so."

"Go to it," said the Duke.

No Depression at United States Mints Last Year

The Philadelphia and the Denver mints have reported a prosperous year. In fact the federal mint and depository at Dnever had its most prosperous year since 1928. During the year it handled more than $15,000,000 worth of gold and silver. More money was manufactured at the Philadelphia mint than in the previous two years. It produced more than 20,000,000 coins valued at some $68,000,000 and nearly 10,000,000 coins for foreign countries. —Pathfinder.

BEFORE BABY COMES

Elimination of Body Waste Is Doubly Important

In the crucial months before baby arrives it is vitally important that the body be rid of waste matter. Your intestines must function—regularly, completely without griping.

Why Physicians Recommend Milnesia Wafers

These mint-flavored, candy-like wafers are pure milk of magnesia in solid form—much pleasanter to take than liquid. Each wafer is approximately equal to a full adult dose of liquid milk of magnesia. Chewed thoroughly, then swallowed, they correct acidity in the mouth and throughout the digestive system, and insure regular, complete elimination without pain or effort. Milnesia Wafers come in bottles of 20 and 48, at 35c and 60c respectively, and in convenient tins for your handbag containing 12 at 20c. Each wafer is approximately one adult dose of milk of magnesia. All good drug stores sell and recommend them.

The Original Milk of Magnesia Wafers

This story will interest many Men and Women

NOT long ago I was like some friends I have...low in spirits...run-down...out of sorts...tired easily and looked terrible. I knew I had no serious organic trouble so I reasoned sensibly...as my experience has since proven... that work, worry, colds and whatnot had just worn me down.

The confidence mother has always had in S.S.S. Tonic...which is still her stand-by when she feels run-down...convinced me I ought to try this Treatment...I started a course...the color began to come back to my skin...I felt better...I no longer tired easily and soon I felt that those red-blood-cells were back to so-called fighting strength...It is great to feel strong again and like my old self. © S.S.S. WORRYING ABOUT OUR BLUE WEEDS

We would advise Bro. Hill as well as Lynn county farmers to put out traps and catch all the Terry county sand they can, and save it until it gets real hot and dry this summer and the Lynn county BLUE WEEDS begin to get in their work. When their cotton and feed begins to twist up this summer, and Bro. Blue Weed looks healthy as a lily in a millpond, then, if you had a b't of the good top soil from Terry, it might be your salvation. Better not let any waste, we have plenty and to spare our poor neighbors. By the way Eee Eye, how did you like the Hard Land visitation Monday? Those million feet high dusters ought to suit you fine.—Brownfield Herald.

Don't worry, Jack; our farmers need no traps to catch your sand. They get a fresh layer of it two or three times every week, here lately. It is true that it sometimes comes over, through and across Lynn county at such terrific speed that we are unable to corral it; but usually after one of these gentle Terry county zephers has visited us, and we have rubbed the sand out of our eyes, dug it out of the wrinkles on our necks, washed it out of our hair, spit it out of our mouths, and shaken it out of our socks, we can go out into our fields and pastures anywhere and find old Terry county an inch or two deep all over the terrain. Sometimes it comes early enough in the season to mess up a lot of our cotton still in the fields and even settles all over our fine blue weeds.

But we expect to continue to raise bumper crops of cotton and maize and blue weeds and cane, Jack, in spite of your old "windies."

TRAGEDY THE CORNERSTONE

Tragedy is the cornerstone of the Old Age Pension plans of all kinds and in particular is this true of the Townsend Pension plan about which many find it easy to laugh. The fact that the Townsend Plan seems indefensible as a measure to be adopted and put into practice in the economic life of the country doesn't alter that other fact that its support and popularity has grown out of tears, heart aches and bewilderment.

In the ranks of supporters of the plan are seen few of the faces of the sprightly young go-getters, but mostly one sees the "remnants of a comfortable time." The strongest plank in the Townsend Plan platform is the heart-break of little people who have had the fruits of years of labor and frugality swept away in the depression.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

Volume one, number one of The Lueders Herald, a weekly newspaper, launched by Charles A. Fryar of Albany, with Mildred L. Hammond as editor, reached the News exchange desk this week. Lueders has been without a paper for several years, but with prospects bright for an oil boom, Mr. Fryar evidently thinks the town will again support a newspaper. Luck to you, publisher and editor. Leuders, you can't become a very great city without a newspaper. Give it your support.

Townsend organizers are taking millions of dollars away from the poor people, feeding them with promises of a goose that lays golden eggs. These organizers are on the job because it is a profiatble job to organize and demand the $200 per month. It is a mighty hard thing to keep graft out of any movement, as pure of thought as Dr. Townsend might have been in his original declaration.—Canyon News.

MAN BITES DOG

Mr. Editor: In a recent issue you served notice that your readers and fellow-citizens should send in some news. Accepting your challenge in good faith, I herewith comply.

Years ago Chas. A. Danna's city editer, Doc Woods, thus defined news: "If a dog bites a man, that's not news; but if a man bites a dog that's news." Well, the latter has happened. But after all, the above headline—news in Danna's day—is not news any more, since the particular dog in question was a "hot-dog," and because nearly all men, women and children are constantly biting hot-dogs, to which offense the entire News' force, from the chief in the editorial sanctum down to the "devil," (or up as the case might be) would doubtless have to plead guilty.

But this is not the most important news I want to bring. Under our present social and economic status, it won't be long till multiplied thousands will not be able to enjoy biting a hot-doy, to say nothing of enjoying the "finer, more abundant life" we've heard about. Conditions must be changed. And this brings me to the question of real current news.

The local Townsend club meets next Saturday at 2:30 p. m. It, along with some 8,000 other clubs, is trying to get our legislators to enact into law an economic policy that will end the "depression" and prevent a future one; and it needs the presence and co-operation of every one who desires a peek around the "corner" beyond which "Tom Thumb" economists have told us for five years that "Gen. Prosperity" was coming. But he's not "coming," and if we meet him, we'll have to get going to cut the distance between us. Be with us Saturday, folks—we'll have a speaker. Then go to Central Ward Sunday afternoon and hear Dr. Speck, Baptist minister, from Lubbock.

How Cardui Helps Women To Build Up

Cardui stimulates the appetite and improves digestion, helping women to get more strength from the food they eat. As nourishment is improved, strength is built up, certain functional pains go away and women praise Cardui for helping them back to good health. . . . Mrs. C. E. Ratliff, of Hinton, W. Va., writes: "After the birth of my last baby, I did not seem to get my strength back. I took Cardui again and was soon sound and well. I have given it to my daughters and recommend it to other ladies." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Acid Stomach— Get Quick Relief

If you are suffering from indigestion, atonic dyspepsia, sour stomach, gas pains, "raw stomach," inflammation of the intestines (enteritis), gastric acidity and sick headaches, due to excessive acidity, you can't afford to ignore these warning signs. You should try at once the Doctor's Prescription, known as Gasa Tablets. If you allow these conditions to become worse, the acids may eat into the delicate mucous membrane of your stomach and intestine and possibly cause dangerous ulcers. Gasa Tablets are pleasant to take and they start to work in just a few minutes to give gentle, effective relief of pain and discomfort caused by excessive acidity. They soothe the raw, inflamed lining of the "acid stomach," and help convert starchy foods into dextrose, which is so essential to energy of the body, and preservation of health. Because of their remarkable success in many cases of acidity, and digestive troubles resulting from acid conditions, Gasa Tablets are offered now to suffers under a guarantee that the first bottle must produce results or money back. For only a few cents a day, you may now have the benefits of this Doctor's Prescription which has helped so many other sufferes to a greater joy of living. Ask your druggist today for Gasa Tablets. Take just one or two of those quick-acting, soothing, antacid tablets and see how they help your stomach to "tackle a hearty meal." At—

Laxative combination folks know is trustworthy

The confidence thousands of parents have in good, old reliable, powdered Thedford's Black-Draught has prompted them to get the new Syrup of Black-Draught for their children. The grown folks stick to the powdered Black-Draught; the youngsters probably will prefer it when they outgrow their childish love of sweets. Mrs. C. W. Adams, of Murray, Ky., writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught (powder) about thirteen years, taking it for biliousness. Black-Draught acts well and I am always pleased with the results. I wanted a good, reliable laxative for my children. I have found Syrup of Black-Draught to be just that."

"Hop" Halsey In Legislature Race

Declaring for a better system of old age pensions; increased rural school aid; state monopoly in liquor control, and a unicameral legislature as main lanks in his platform, "Hop" Halsey of Lubbock announces his candidacy for the office of state representative of the 119th district, subject to the action of Demcratic voters in this summer's primaries.

"HOP" HALSEY

Halsey, son of Mark Halsey, Lubbock druggist, said he plans to conduct an active campaign for the office and will endeavor to meet as many of the voters as possible before the July primary.

"I'm not entering this race for the fun of it, as some of my friends and one or two of my opponents have indicated," Halsey said. "I am serious in my intentions and believe a young man is as capable of filling the office as anyone else."

Halsey says the present old age pension system in Texas is wholly inadequate and that he will strive for a more efficient and business-like plan.

He favors state monopoly in liquor control, believing this to be the best method for solving the situation. He favors sale in unbroken packages only.

Finishing his pre-law course at Texas Technological College this year, Halsey says he saw the need for greater appropriations for the school and especially the dire need for a new library building.

"I believe the greatest task a representative from this district can perform is to see that Tech, the third largest school in the state gets appropriations commensurate to its importance as a unit of our educational system," he says. "If elected, I will always keep that point in mind."

He opposes a sales tax of any sort and says he favors, instead, more equal distribution of the tax burden of the state so that natural resources such as sulphur, oil gas and minerals should be levied in comparison to land taxes.

Having worked in a drug store ever since he was six years old, he says he believes his experience in meeting the public would aid him greatly in the duties as a representative. He says he is for "organized labor and will seek to protect the working man's interests as much as possible."

Halsey says he is in favor of shifting the burden of payment of district courts clerks salaries from county to state as recently proposed by county officials associations.

Halsey is a native of Bell county and has been a resident of Lubbock for twelve years.

"Uncle Ro" Adams, once body servant to Gen. Sam Houston, will be 100 years old, March 2, 1936, the day Texas, where Gen. Negroes "Borrow" Car To Leave County

Curtis Watkins, negro, has left Lynn county for parts unknown, accompanied by his wife and pickaninny. He left without telling anyone he was going. But the sad part of the story is that he "borrowed" a model T Ford belonging to Jay Moore of the Lakeview community to leave in. Now, the officers want to find Curtis and the car, and are offering him a cozy little room at the county hotel.

The negroes have been working on the Lit Moore place, but evidently the sandstorm Sunday killed their love for West Texas, for Monday night they stole away while "the shades of night were falling. Now, Jay and his dad don't care much about the negroes, but they surely are after the Model T.

Anson's historic "Cowboys' Christmas Ball" will be repeated in December as a Centennial year celebration which will attract interest from far beyond the state's borders.

One Dollar Income: Two Dollar Outgo!

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

With Congress well launched into its present session, the public is watching eagerly for evidence that pledges to reduce extravagance in government are to be fulfilled.

Thus far the evidence is scant. There have been the usual number of "private bills" to increase individual pensions and the like. There has been talk of huge appropriations for various projects obscure both in scope and in purpose. It begins to look as if enough plans to spend the taxpayers' money will be offered this session to run the total high into the billions—as has been the fashion at Washington during recent years.

Naturally all these efforts on the part of legislators to spend the people's dollars cannot hope to be enacted into law. But the persistence with which such attempts recur indicates something worthy of consideration by all of us who pay taxes, whether direct or "hidden."

It is, that while office-holders like to picture themselves as the people's business agents in government, actually many of them seem to play quite the opposite role. Probably that explains why the Federal public debt has reached an all-time high; why the government is spending almost two dollars today for every dollar it takes in.

What the office-holder should remember is that the ability of any business agent is measured not by the number and the magnitude of the bills he runs up for his employers to pay, but by the efficiency and economy with which he administers the affairs of those he represents. Helping to run up a public debt that would take thousands of years to pay at the rate of $5,000 a day, doesn't quite fit the picture. Yet that, statisticians say, is what reckless spending in government has done to the United States and its people.

Big appropriation bills may help put a legislator's name on the front page—but they don't remedy conditions if they also help put a lot of other men's names among the bankruptcy notices.

W. O. THOMAS WRITES OF NEW RAILROAD TO PLAINS

The News is in receipt of a letter from W. O. Thomas, who, with his wife, in vacationing at Aransas Pass, down on the Gulf coast, but due to the rush at press-time we are unable to publish a very interesting news story, from the Corpus Christi Caller-Times, which he enclosed.

The Caller-Times story tells of a proposed new railroad which plans are being made for, and the route would be through Lynn county. The objective of the road, originating at Corpus, is Roswell, New Mexico. We will give more of the story next week.

Mrs. Beulah Shaw, mother of Mrs. J. O. Patterson, is seriously ill at Slaton suffering from high blood pressure and heart trouble. Reports from her bedside Wednesday night, however, brought hopes that she would recover from the attack. She is reported "slightly improved"

LOVELY GIRLS, HAUNTING TUNES AND STELLAR CAST

In the colorful, glittering atmosphere of the burlesque theatre, with its soubrettes, songs, clowns and comics, the action of the new Fox picture, "King of Burlesque," which comes to the English Theatre, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, takes place.

Warner Baxter heads the gala cast of this picture, which includes Alice Faye, Jack Oakie, Arline Judge Mona Barrie, Gregory Ratoff, Dixie Dunbar, Kenny Baker, Fats Waller and Nick Long Jr., among the featured personalities.

Although the picture is a revealing glimpse into the gaudy world of burlesque, it does not confine its action to backstage drama, but launches into the life story of a genius of the theatre, played by Baxter.

With his two trusted aides, Alice Faye and Jack Oakie, Baxter has climbed from side street honky-tonks to Broadway's glittering palaces. Then when he falls in love with a lovely society woman who represents everything he had hoped to attain, he deserts his erst-while friends.

Things go from bad to worse with Baxter, until his wife, Mona Barrie, deserts him. When things look blackest, Baxters old friends return to help him on the most spectacular venture of his life.

The close of the film shows Baxter suddenly realizing that it was Alice Faye he had loved all the time.

$50,000 Exposition Hall of Religion

It's a long way from the "gospel riders" of early Texas, who carried a pistol in their holster and a rifle in their lap as they rode around their "circuit," to the $50,000 Hall of Religion now being built on the grounds of the Texas Centennial Exposition, the $25,000,000 World's Fair which opens in Dallas June 6. Religious lore of Texas over a period of 400 years will be housed in the building, which is being sponsored and built by stockholders of the Lone Star Gas Company. From the top of the building's 75-foot tower "The Eternal Flame of Life" will burn from the Exposition's opening until its close, Nov 29

Unfair Competition

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman
Sentinels of the Republic

Picture a store-keeper, a dairy-farmer, or a small manufacturer who through years of industry has established a moderately successful business. Out of its returns he supports his family, and pays wages, taxes, insurance and all the other costs that such enterprise entails.

Then into his community enters a competitor. This rival is more fortunately situated. He doesn't have to worry about making a living, or meeting tax bills, or showing a favorable balance at the end of the year. A rich uncle takes care of all that for him.

How long could the store-keeper, or dairy-farmer, or manufacturer continue to meet such competition?

That, in effect, is the question raised by an official report recently submitted at Washington by the Committee on Government Competition with Private Enterprise.

It reaches the conclusion that, except in such fields as national defense, research, conservation and the like, Federal competition is "wholly destructive."

What attention will official Washington give this significant report? That is difficult to say.

For years, citizens who have seen their own taxes used to underwrite competition against them have protested against those methods—without success.

For years, they have pointed out that government competes against private enterprise in more than 200 lines—including certain agricultural products, construction materials, harness, textiles, clothing, printing and a host of others.

For years they have pointed out what the Committee now emphasizes in its report. Namely:

"That government expenditures will be reduced and revenue increased if the Federal Government withdraws from competition with private enterprise except under the conditions specified.

"That under normal economic conditions government competition with private enterprise . . . contributes to the development of a socialized industry.

"That a revival of private industry will permit the return of labor to its normal occupations, will hasten the return to American standards of efficiency and maintain the dignity of labor which has made the American working man the nation's greatest single influence for the advancement of democratic ideals."

Protests of the nation's workers and taxpayers against Bureaucracy's unfair competition have gone unheeded. Will an official report fare any better in protecting them in their constitutional right to earn a living? Let's hope so.

In the words of the report itself, "The government's true function is to protect and promote the economic activities of its citizens—not to supplant them."

A QUALITY FUEL For Your

TRACTOR

COMPARE THESE FACTS:

1. Non-corrosive.
2. 40 degrees below zero pour test.
3. Just under regulations for taxable fuel.
4. Designed especially for tractors.
5. Far superior to any other fuel now being manufactured.
6. More power developed than with kerosene or low grade fuels.
7. Less crankcase dilution, which means a saving on fuel as well as improved lubication, with saving on lube oil.
8. Crankcase dilution alone saves money.
9. Completely treated. Only fuel to be acid treated.
10. More power developed.
11. Non-viscous; therefore will not hold dirt and abrasive matter.
12. Uniform in quality, meaning that once carburetor is adjusted for this fuel that will be all that is necessary.
13. Octane number above necessary count; only fuel with this standard.
14. Insures complete combustion and clean exhaust.

The Junior-Senior banquet is growing nearer and nearer. The Junior class spent some of their home-room periods last week in making plans for the Junior-Senior banquet. We decided to pay a flat rate to a group of town ladies to plan, prepare and serve the banquet. We Juniors feel that this will produce a much more effective and pleasing banquet than any the class members could prepare in the limited amount of time we have. The class will have charge of the program and the decorations. We have discussed a Texas Centennial theme for our decorations, but have not definitely decided upon this. We hope to have about eighty-five guests including Juniors, Seniors, and high school faculty members.

The managing committees are in the process of being chosen and we have decided to have the banquet on either April 24th or May 1.

Annual Work

The past week the Freshman Class has been collecting and writing material for their division of the annual. They are doing all in their power to make it a success.

Last week in History 111-B class Dick Bosworth was talking to Mrs. Stewart. Here's the conversation:

Dick: "Mrs. Stewart—."

Mrs. S.: "Yes, Dick, what do you want?"

Dick: "Are the men that live in Hamburg called Hamburgers?"

Not long ago the Freshman class had a class meeting. They voted on several facts for the annual. They chose their colors, blue and white; their flower, the bluebonnet; and their motto, "Not to the top, but still climbing."

They think the bluebonnet is a very appropriate flower, this being the Centennial year in Texas.

Home Economics 111 Entertain With Breakfast

The first groop of the Home Economics Class 111 entertained part of the faculty members with a breakfast served in the Home Economics dining room last Friday morning. The following menu was prepared and served by class members: Half grapefruit, bran flakes with strawberries and cream, eggs baked in half tomatoes, bacon curls, muffins, jam butter and coffee.

The tables were spread with a yellow tablecloth and the center piece was a bowl of lilac blossoms. The color scheme was accentuated by another bowl of lilac blooms on the buffet.

Guests at this breakfast were: Messrs. Barrett, Walker, and Carter; Mesdames Bludworth, Stewart, faculty members, and Eloise Roberst. Pollyana Walker and Laura Jane Milliken served as host and hostess.

Band Concert

The newly formed Tahoka High School band will give one of its first concerts of the year at 3:15 o'clock Friday afternoon, April 10, at Tahoka Central Ward school. The band boys have been diligently working in order to prepare the music for this concert. They have several well-prepared numbers and would be glad to have any of the town people that would care to come out and hear the concert.

Eight Home Economics girl went to Post Wednesday, April 1. Mrs. Sherrod took her car, Beatrice Falkner, Mary Ellen Conway, Beatrice Estes, Leah Mae Bell, LaVerne Jones, Aletha Goodnough, Jo Alice Brooks, and Marjorie Wells. They took a picnic lunch.

Lamesa-Tahoka Meet On Track

Lamesa scored 54 points to win a track meet over Tahoka, scoring 36 points, here last Friday afternoon. James Minor of Tahoka was high point man of the meet, scoring 18 points. Brownfield was scheduled to compete in the contests but did not show up.

Coach Prentice Walker states the Tahoka team will enter the district meet at Lubbock Friday and Saturday of next week.

Hughes of Lamesa, who competed here Friday, won first places in the shot put and discus throw at the state meet last year at Austin.

The results follow:

100 yard dash—1, McKinnon, Lamesa; 2, Minor, Tahoka; 3, Alexander, Tahoka. Time: 9.9 seconds.

880 yard run—1, Buchannan, Lamesa; 2, Stephens, Tahoka; 3, Jones Lamesa. Time: 2 min. 24.2 sec.

220 low hurdles: 1, Minor, Tahoka; 2, Gilbert, Lamesa. Time: 29.4.

440 yard dash—1, Minor, Tahoka; 2, Medlin, Lamesa; 3, Hilburn, Lamesa. Time: 58.9 sec.

220 yard dash—1, McKinnon, Lamesa; 2, Rudolph Snowden, Tahoka. Time: 25.1 sec.

Shot put—1, Hughes, Lamesa; 2, Stovall, Lamesa; 3, Dyer, Tahoka. Distance: 41 feet, 5 inches.

Broad jump: 1, Minor, Tahoka; 2, Stovall, Lamesa; 3, Gilbert, Lamesa. Distance: 18 feet, 7 inches.

Discus throw—1, Hughes, Lamesa; 2, Stovall, Lamesa; 3, Dyer, Tahoka. Distance: 121 feet 11 inches.

High jump: 1, Tie between Crow, Lamesa, and Dyer, Tahoka. Height: 5 feet, 6 inches.

Mile relay: 1, Lamesa.

No competition in mile, pole vault, and javelin throw.

Mrs. Sherrod favored the sophomore home economics girls with a bean supper. Teh menu consisted of the following: Beans, chow chow, bread and butter pickles, sweet pickled peaches, cornbread, potato salad, lettuce, Southern ambrosia, angel food cake.

The following girls were present: Jo Alice Brooks, Louise Barnes, Percy Dean Tippitt, Leah Mae Bell, Maxine Floyd, Marjorie Wells, Beatrice Falkner, Billie Swafford, and Bessie Mae Perkins. They all enjoyed the evening. Mrs. Beatrice McCasland and Lottie Stephens were visitors.

Refreshing Relief
When You Need a Laxative

Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective... Mr. J. WILSON H. D. CLUB

The Wilson Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. John Lamb April 7.

Due to the absence of Mrs. Kahlich, kitchen demonstrator for the club, who was to have given a demonstration on "Fly Traps and Fly Control," the club had a business meeting.

Mrs. Brandon reported $23.70 proceeds from the play goven by club members last week.

Mrs. Anthony was elected council delegate in place of Mrs. Melvin Todd, who has moved away.

Visitors present: Mmes. D. S. Waldrip, S. A. Cummings, Weldon Lemon, and Miss Margie Lamb.

Members present: Mmes. B. W. Baker, W. I. Lemon, John Lamb, W. H. May, W. F. McLaughlin, J. R. Hamilton, P. D. Server, M. C. Brandon, S. G. Anthony, and W. E. Galloway.

MINOR BATON CLUB

The Minor Baton was entertained Monday evening in the Snowden home.

Mrs. Suddarth taught the last study chapter of the year on history and development of the pipe organ.

During the business session the annual election of officers was held with the following results: President, Vance Gildersleeve; vice president, Harold Snowden; corresponding secretary and treasurer, Ola Lee Stevens; and recording secretary, Betty Suddarth. Other officers are appointive.

Vance Gildersleeve held the lucky number in the candy drawing.

The club sent year and scrap books and offering for the MacDowell Colony to be entered in competition for state honors at the convention in Fort Worth next week.

Delicious refreshments of iced Bavarian cream and vanilla wafers were served, and a social period followed.

Next regular meeting will be announced.—Reported.

MELODY MAIDS MEET

The Melody Maids junior music club met with Rudelle Prater as hostess last Wednesday. Election of officers for the coming year was as follows: Mary Margaret Tunnell as president; Laura Jane Milliken as vice-president; Sara Lou Rumbe as recordin gsecretary; and Pollyanna Walker as corresponding secretary and treasurer.

A picnic was planned for next week. Laura Jane Milliken won the platter of candy in the raffle.

A program on Spring was featured during which Louise Park gave a reading, Julia Snowden sang "In a Little Dutch Garden," Eloise Roberts read a paper on "Spring," and a guest soloist, Ola Lee Stevens, sang "Song of April" by Oley Speaks.

Colorful refreshments carrying an Easter motif of green and yellow with green punch, cheese sandwiches, yellow cookies, green gum drop rabbits, and little fluffy yellow chilkens in green nests, were served to members, counselors, and guests. Two members were absent on account of illness.

The next regular meeting will be April 22 with Mary Margaret Tunnell as hostess.—Reported.

"By the People"— Or by Politicians?

By RAYMOND PITCAIRN
National Chairman Sentinels of the Republic

During recent weeks America has heard a swelling volume of protest against interference by numerous political Boards, Bureaus and Commissions with the lives and affairs of citizens.

The protest comes from various sources—from merchants, in communities both large and small; from many growers and consumers of our food products; from increasing numbers of men and women in the professions and in business.

What is the explanation?

One answer might be that such interference can seriously affect the citizen's means of earning a livelihood. But many keen observers of the current American scene suggest a deeper and more fundamental motive.

The protests, they believe, reflect a surge of resentment against usurpation by political jobholders of powers which American citizens are convinced belong only to officials chosen by the people.

They represent, in other words, a spreading antagonism to Bureaucracy which after expanding swiftly during several decades has achieved an unprecedented growth and power during the past few years.

When one considers the many powers now assumed by the hundreds of Boards, Bureaus and Commissions which crowd the office buildings of Washington, the protests seem more than justified. That such usurpation of authority constitutes an abridgment of the political power of the people is equally obvious.

Under our Constitution the people delegate to Congress—not to appointed Bureaus—the right to make our laws.

Under it we delegate to the Executive Branch of Government—not to appointed Bureaucrats — the power to enforce those laws.

When these powers are usurped by jobholders in whose selection we have no choice and over whose activities we exercise no control, then "Government by the People" becomes an empty phrase.

In its place we get Government by Bureaucrats — which means not only waste of the people's money in unnecessary public payrolls and public expenditures, but a frank surrender of the people's right to govern themselves.

Hundreds of persons will participate in the pageant, "Texas in the Making" which will be presented April 21 at Paris, Centennial year celebration.

Gollehon Appears At Washington, D C

in Washington a couple of weeks ago in behalf of legislation desired by the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union. He was also presenting to a Congressional committee his knowledge of rural farm labor conditions in Texas.

Mr. Gollehon is now one of the organizers for the Southern Tenant Farmers' Union and has recently been working in Kaufman county. He and Fred Mathews of Grassland attended a South-wide meeting of the S. T. F. U. at Memphis a few months ago.

Mrs. George A. Dale was at the bedside of her son, George T., in Lubbock from Friday until Wednesday. He has been suffering from a severe attack of the flu.

Fred Mathews of Grassland was a caller at the News office Saturday and reported that the family are having their home remodeled and greatly improved.

Church of Christ Notes

I had a very pleasant day at O'Donnell last Lords day. The attendance and interest was fine here also. That is as it should be. We don't go to church just to hear the preacher but to worship God.

Some more things that seem inconsistent to me. For people to expect to draw on the bank of heaven when they have made all their deposits at the First National Bank at Tahoka. How people can sing "Oh How I Love Jesus" and then not do what he says. How church people will say that their clothes are not fit to come to church in, and then parade over the streets Saturday afternoon in the same clothes. How christians who sat four or five hours at the Elmo Banks trial and then complain if the church services are over an hour in length.

How people will say they love the church and want to see it go forward but will not invest their money in it. How school trustees will hire teachers and then not let them run the school.

"An optimist is a man who is happy when he is miserable, and a pessimist is a man who is miserable when he is happy."

The Phebe K. Warner Club has invited me to address them on "The Spread of Denomination in Texas" next Friday afternoon. I will give the same address at the church next Sunday night, and the public is invited. I will preach at the morning service also, the Lord willing.

DIXIE H. D. CLUB

Ten commandments for parents was given by Mrs. Paul Johnson to the Dixie H. D. Club members in the home of Mrs. F. E. House on April 1st.

Parents, entertain your children at home. Then you will know where they are and what company they are in.

Teach your children to obey you because they love you and not through fear.

Do not say unkind things about people before children. Aboye all do not criticize their teachers before them. It will cause them to lose confidence in them.

Give your children nourishing food so that they will develop healthy bodies.

Mothers, be a pal to your daughters; and, fathers, be a pal to your sons.

Be honest to your children that you might gain their confidence.

Teach your children to keep good company.

Teach your children to stand on their own feet and not depend on the parents to do everything for them.

The most pitiful home is where the parents are always disagreeing with each other and there is no harmony in the home. Parents should try to overcome this, especially to disagree before the children.

Mrs. Loyd E. Huffaker came as a new member.

Exhibits for the Plainview Dairy Show were discussed. Several members have entries for this show.

Members present: Mmes. Chester Short, A. L. Dunagan, G. S. Cobb, Foy Todd, H. A. Macha, Lee Short, P. R. Johnson, V. H. Macha, B. C. Aycox, F. E. House, Loyd Huffaker, and one visitor, Miss LeBusha Macha.

PRESBYTERIAN SERVICES SUNDAY

Approaching the Easter occasion—the Resurrection and its pledge—we would like to have a fine attendance Sunday. No evening service.

The meeting of the Women's Presbyterial is on the 14th at Fort Stockton. Some of the Tahoka ladies will attend this fine conference on our woman's work.

The El Paso Prebytery convenes at Clovis, New Mexico, April 21st. Hope some of our Elders can attend this year.

Thanks for the fine and faithful cooperation of the Tahoka Church this year, both in our local and church-wide program. The Lord is with the faithful through the years.

Remember our service Sunday. Everybody cordially invited. Morning theme: "The Crowded Out Christ." Come, invite others.

W. K. JOHNSTON, Minister.

MISS MILLIKEN HOSTESS

Miss Robbie Milliken was hostess to the Tahoka Music Club Friday in the home of the President.

The coming State Convention of April 16, 17 and 18, was the absorbing feature of the meeting. Mrs. Federated music clubs at Fort Worth Suddarth will represent the senior club and also the two junior clubs as counselor and proxy. The Tahoka club will rate 95 per cent this year.

The study course on piano music was illustrated with two solos, Handel's "Largo" played by Miss Lowell Douthit and Massenet's "Elegie" by Mrs. Suddarth.

Delectable refreshments of sandwiches and iced tea were served by the hostess. Mrs. Gildersleeve will entertain on April 24th.—Reporter.

MIDWAY H. D. CLUB

Midway H. D. Club met April 2, 2:30 P.M. at the home of Mrs. Howard Draper.

The kitchen demonstrator, Mrs. I. M. Draper brought material for a fly trap. Every member present participated in the making.

We discussed sending exhibits to the Dairy Show at Plainview next week, also the raising of funds to send a 4-H. member to the short course. We have almost sufficient fundas of our H. D. woman's scholarship.

Members present were: Mrs. Lloyd Edwards, Mrs. R. L. Littlepage, Mrs. Essie Russell, Mrs. I. M. Draper and Mrs. Howard Draper.

Child Cripples Are Given Help

Seven Lynn county crippled children have been given aid by the Texas Society for Crippled Children, according to B. E. McGlamery of Eastland, district supervisor of the work, who was here Monday to institute the annual sale for seals for benefit of the organization. Judge W. E. Smith has charge of the work here. Papers were filled out Tuesday for another crippled child to be given care by the institution.

The work of the organization is intended for crippled children from families who are financially unable to aid sons and daughters. State and Federal funds are provided for work being done by the organization, but funds raised from the sale of these seals are used for the aid of children to which these State and Federal funds will not reach, Mr. McGlamery told The News.

"The Society has cared for 800 crippled children since last September 1," he said. "But there are 20,000 such children in Texas who need attention. The normal increase each year of cripples from birth, disease, and accident is the alarming total of 1,200. This is not a guess; it is proven by statistics."

That the movement is a worthy one is shown by the fact that it is endorsed and supported by the state and federal governments, the governor, state and county officials, schools, churches, and civic bodies all over the state.

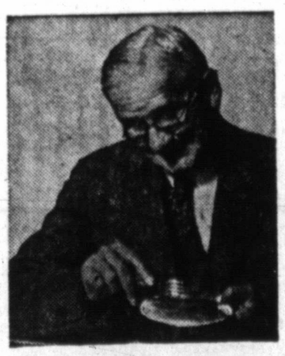
"Pep Up" Your STOMACH

Stimulate Appetite—Relish Your Food

ARE you one of the vast number of sufferers who drag through life, feeling "half sick," rundown, sluggish, without appetite or zest for the good things of life—all because of a stomach, bowel and kidney condition which may easily be relieved by a good mild tonic, stomachic stimulant, diuretic and mild laxative? If you are, don't suffer any longer without trying Williams S.L.K. Formula, which is bringing blessed relief and added joy of living to so many people.

The Prescription of a Former Army Doctor

Williams S.L.K. Formula is compounded from the prescription of a former army doctor who used it in his private practice for many years. Experience has taught army men to seek fundamental principles. These principles have been carried out in the development of Williams S.L.K. Formula. There are many medicines which you might take. What you want is something that will do its intended work quickly, efficiently, effectively—and that is what you get in a bottle of Williams S.L.K. Formula.



Works In Four Beneficial Ways

Williams S.L.K. Formula contains ingredients of recognized medicinal value for the purposes intended. It acts as a mild tonic, stomachic stimulant, mild laxative and diuretic stimulant for the kidneys. These functions are among the most important of your entire body. You can't feel your best when your system is clogged with poisons or when your stomach lacks tone. Take just a few doses of Williams S.L.K. Formula and see how much better you feel. The first bottle must produce results or your money back.

Old and Young Enjoy Life More

Take Williams S.L.K. Formula also for indigestion, nausea, loss of weight and sallow complexion, where a mild tonic, laxative stomachic, tonic and diuretic is needed. You'll like its quick, pleasant action. Being a liquid it is easily assimilated and starts to work almost immediately. Because it is a highly concentrated solution, only small doses are required, therefore it is very economical. Get a bottle today. Try it under the money back guarantee. Made a Clean Job

Little Louise had been out in the yard investigating the wonders of nature and she came running in to her mother, all excitement. "I ate a worm," said she.

Her mother, thinking that it was probably a case of imagination, decided to appeal to the child's finer feelings and she said: "Oh, that wasn't kind, was it? Just think how sad the mamma worm felt to have her little baby swallowed up."

The little girl hastened to reply: "I ate she's mamma, too."—Pathfinder Magazine.

General Has Considered Wedlock; Therefore Single

People who dislike "petticoat government" will be hard put to it to explain the way the Salvation Army is forging ahead under General Evangeline Booth.

Missionary work has been extended, and the Army is now operating in 88 different countries, and teaching and preaching in 86 different languages. In India alone it treats about 200,000 people a year in its own hospitals.

Asked the other day by an interviewer if she had ever considered matrimony, General Evangeline replied: "Yes, I have considered it very carefully. That is why I remain single."—London Answers.

Our Old Clothes Find a Market in Africa and Asia

Lesson for April 12

JESUS TRIUMPHS OVER DEATH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-35.
GOLDEN TEXT—Because I live, ye shall live also.—John 14:19.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Glad Surprise.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Conqueror.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Jesus Is Alive.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Our Living Lord.

The supreme test of Christianity is the fact of the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true. Fortunately, there is no better authenticated fact in all history than that of the resurrection of the body of Jesus Christ.

I. The Empty Sepulchre (vv. 1-3).

1. The coming of the women (v. 1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body. This was a beautiful expression of sentiment but showed their lack of faith. If they had believed his words, they would have known that his body could not be found in the sepulchre.

2. What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre, they found the stone had been removed. How the stone was to be removed greatly perplexed them on their way, but on their arrival they discovered that their difficulty had already been met. They found the stone rolled away, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke most eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

II. The Message of the Men in Shining Garments (vv. 4-8).

1. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). This question has been reverberating through the centuries since it was uttered by the angels.

2. "He is not here, but is risen." Jesus had made all these matters quite plain. He had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would arise again. If they had given heed to his words, they would have been relieved of their perplexities.

III. The Women Witnessing to the Eleven (vv. 9-11).

Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the disciples as idle tales and they refused to believe:

IV. Peter Investigating (v. 12).

While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to dismiss the matter from his mind. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

V. The Convinced Disciples (vv. 13-35.)

1. The walk of two discouraged disciples (vv. 13-15). Emmaus was seven and a half miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked miles northwest of Jerusalem. Just why the disciples were walking this way we may not surely know. The topic of conversation as they walked was the tragedy of the cross and the resurrection rumors. If they had believed what Jesus said about his coming forth from the grave, they would have expected to hear such reports.

2. The unrecognized companion (vv. 16-24).

a. Who he was (v. 16). While they reasoned together on the wonderful events of the past few days, Jesus joined them on the journey.

b. His question (v. 17). Perceiving their sadness and perplexity, he sought to help them by calling forth a statement of their grief. This question surprised them and caused them to jump at the conclusion that he was a stranger in Jerusalem, for the condemnation and crucifixion of the great Prophet of Nazareth were so recent and notorious that no one who had lived in Jerusalem could be ignorant of them.

3. The Scriptures opened (vv. 25-31).

a. His rebuke (vv. 25-30). He rebuked them not for their unbelief of the strange stories that they had heard, but for ignorance and lack of confidence in the Old Testament.

b. Jesus recognized (v. 31). While sitting at meat with the disciples their eyes were opened as they saw him bless the bread and distribute to them.

4. The effect upon the disciples (vv. 32-35). They were so filled with joy over this revelation of the Saviour that they hastened back to Jerusalem to tell the other disciples of his resurrection.

God's Love

God's love gives in such a way that it flows from a father's heart, the well-spring of all good. The heart of the giver makes the gift dear and precious; as among ourselves we say of even a trifling gift, "It comes from a hand we love," and look not so much at the gift as at the heart.—Luther.

Laugh From the Heart

A laugh to be joyous must flow from a joyous heart, for without kindness there can be no true joy.—Carlyle.

IN HOMES where there are small children, it usually is the task of the mother to prepare colored eggs for an Easter egg hunt. This is an important occasion, and the eggs should be cooked and colored so they may be eaten afterward, observes Edith Shuck in the Chicago Daily News.

It doesn't detract from the fun of the occasion or beauty of the eggs to prepare them according to the correct cooking rules. Put them on to cook in plenty of cold water. Place the pan over a low flame and bring the water to the simmering temperature slowly. This keeps the shells from cracking. Cook the eggs at simmering temperature 20 to 25 minutes. Cool the eggs gradually so the shock of putting cold water on them will not break the shells.

When the eggs are partially cooled, place them on a soft towel and dry them so they will not have water circles on them. Keep the eggs away from any grease. Most commercial dyes are best dissolved in hot water, but follow whatever directions are given on the package of dye you use. Stir the dye until it is dissolved, with a well-polished silver spoon, so the dye is not discolored. Dip the warm eggs into the hot dye and then drain them on cake racks. When they are cool, rub them with a buttered cloth to add a high gloss.

Fancy eggs for Easter place-cards may be made if you paint initials on eggs. Give the eggs a very light tint, and have a different colored egg for each guest if possible. Do not polish the eggs. Put the names or initials on the eggs with a fine paint brush, dipped into the liquid vegetable coloring that is used for coloring foods. If you are very ambitious you can draw an Easter lily or daffodils on the eggs. Use egg yolk coloring for the flowers and grape green coloring for the leaves.

A number of customs and superstitions have been woven round the festival of Easter. One old custom, that of Pace-egging, is still carried out in Germany and in parts of the eastern counties.

When Eggs Are Cool Rub With a Buttered Cloth.

An Easter custom, originated 800 years ago, still survives in the village of Biddenden, Kent. Two sisters, Mary and Elizabeth Chulkhurst, lived there. They were joined at the hips and shoulders like Siamese twins, and when they died they left a considerable annuity to be expended in the purchase on Easter Monday of bread and cakes for the poor of their village forever. The cakes, which are called Biddenden Maids, are made in their image and given to strangers.

THE original Easter lily was developed in Philadelphia only a half century ago, according to G. B. Stichter, field inspector of the bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania department of agriculture.

In 1879, a woman returning from Bermuda brought with her two bulbs of a lily which she found growing wild. These bulbs were given to Mary, a florist who had greenhouses in Gray's lane, below Woodland avenue, Philadelphia. The florist planted the bulbs, and for some time they attracted no attention.

A Dutch lily had been used at Easter time, but this was unsatisfactory because it was impossible to control accurately its time of blooming.

Florist Was Successful in "Forcing" the Easter Lily.

Since Easter comes at varying times, it was impossible to "force" this lily in order to have it bloom at a specified time. Therefore, the Dutch lillies were not popular as Easter flowers.

The florist propagated the lily from Bermuda until in three years she had about 100 bulbs. It was then that a Philadelphia florist purchased the bulbs and experimented with "forcing" the lily, in order to have it bloom when wanted. This florist was successful in his experiments, and the lilium harrisii resulted. Since it was possible to cultivate this lily so that it would be in flower exactly at Easter time, it became the Easter flower.

The growing of Easter lilies is today a giant industry, but strangely enough the lily used now—the lilum gigantum—was propagated and improved in Japan from the lily first developed in Philadelpia. It was taken to Japan, where conditions for its cultivation were ideal, developed, and brought back to America. The present-day lily has a larger flower, with more sturdy foliage than the original Easter lily.

Bacon, Eggs, Easter Dish

According to Brand's Popular Antiquities, the custom of eating a gammon of bacon at Easter, still kept up in many parts of England, was designed to show their abhorrence to Judaism at that solemn commemoration of the resurrection. There is also mention, in the same authority, of eggs and bacon composing a usual dish on that day in the Sixteenth century.

Well Proved Fact

Taking all the evidence together, it is not too much to say that there is no single historic incident better or more variously supported than the resurrection of Christ.—Westcott.

Two Lovely Blouses That Will Give Your Suit That Feminine Appearance

1850-B

Blouses have to go a long way toward giving the tailored and mannish suits a sweet and feminine appearance. The model at the top is a new lingerie blouse made of madonna blue crepe de chine and trimmed with tiny crystal buttons. Soft puff sleeves tightly banded and a fluffy bow at the throat contribute the feminine touches.

At the bottom is a most attractive shirt blouse—it has a charming Peter Pan collar and buttoned panel for the waist closing—the model is made of batiste with either short sports or long bishop sleeves.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1850-B—both blouses—is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20; 40 and 42. Corresponding bust measurements 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. The top blouse requires 1⅞ yards of 35 or 39-inch material for size 16 (34), and blouse (B) requires 1¾ yards or 2⅛ yards with long sleeves, size 16 (34).

WATER FROM NEW WELLS IN MAINS; RATES ARE REDUCED

pump about 300 gallons per minute each.

New System Is Paid For

Cost of the new wells, pumps, piping, and labor has been slightly in excess of $8,000.00, and the City has paid for this improvement in cash.

Tahoka now has a water supply comparable to any city on the entire Plains. The low rates are equaled by few towns. The rate here is even lower that Lubbock's special rate. And, the supply at the new wells seems almost inexhaustible.

Also, the water we are now using is far lower in alkali content. Tests made some time ago by the State Health Department show that Tahoka is one of only three or four towns in all Northwest Texas having water that is practically free from properties which cause brown tooth stain.

Long Search For Water

Tahoka's search for an adequate supply of pure water is almost as old as the town itself.

In fact, water played a part in the location of the town. Back in the Spring of 1903 when Sweet and King, Jack Alley, and other formed the Tahoka Townsite Company for the purpose of establishing a county seat for the proposed county of Lynn, plans were to locate Tahoka a mile south of the present location. But, when a water well drilled on the proposed site turned out to be a dry hole, the promoters moved to the north side of section and tried again. Here they struck water, and wells on the present court house square furnished the little, growing, frame-house town with this necessary liquid for a time. Many, many windmills were put up in succeeding years, but always the water-bearing strata of sand were not too well saturated with the necessary liquid.

With Tahoka's incorporation wells were drilled at the present water plant site. As more water was needed, more wells were put down until a score or two had been drilled, always in the same general locality and always resulting in light-pumping wells.

For many years, the large water-bearing strata north of town has been known to exist, but previous City councils have hesitated to drill for it because of the expense involved in laying pipe for a mile or two.

Aldermen Congratulated

Members of the Council who have been instrumental in bringing this water to town have been receiving the congratulations of many happy citizens.

The News joins the rest of the city in doffing its hat to Mayor Jim Dye, Aldermen Jim Burleson, J. L. Heare T. J. Bovell, W. O. Thomas, and E. A. Park, and Water Superintendent Pat Hines, and all others who have been instrumental in securing this abundant supply of water and making possible the new low rates.
