Hopes For End Of Two Major Disputes Dim

Walkouts In Coal, Steel Industries Hit Employment

(By The Associated Press)

Thickening gloom appeared to have smothered today any hope for early peace in the nation's industrial-crippling coal and steel strikes.

Nowhere was there any apparent progress toward a break in either of the two major disputes as unemployment mounted and more industries became hobbled. Some railroads prepared to curtail train services because of dwindling coal piles and layoffs continued in industries dependent upon steel supplies.

Concessions Hoped For

There was no indication that President Truman had decided to intervene in either strike but spreading dislocations in the nation's economy made such action seem more and more likely. Administration policy, however, was described yesterday as still one of hope that some strike-breaking concessions might be forthcoming soon and that White House action would not be necessary.

But out of the dismal week-end developments came settlement of two other strikes—the 45-day tieup of the Missouri-Pacific railroad by train and engine men and the 176-day walkout of stevedores at five of six Hawaiian ports.

Pennsylvania Hardest Hit

But these settlements scarcely dented the nation's total of nearly 4,000,000 idle workers which Secretary of Commerce Sawyer says might climb to 5,000,000 by Dec. 1 unless the steel and coal strikes are settled meanwhile.

More than a million are idle as a direct result of the steel and coal shutdowns alone. Most of the others were reported in an Associated Press nationwide survey Saturday as eligible for and receiving unemployment compensation. Pennsylvania, with 330,000 idle from the steel and coal strikes, was the hardest hit state. It listed 180,000 out of work because of the steel strike, 100,000 from the coal walkout, and 50,000 others laid off in allied industries.

State labor department and unemployment compensation claims indicated the nation's total idle at 3,837,000. Of these, 500,000 are striking steelworkers, 380,000 striking miners, 16,000 striking aluminum workers, and 2,941 others, including those laid off or involved in widespread smaller strikes.

The Townsend company at Brighton, Pa., became the 17th steel fabricating concern to ac-

Beef At Highest Value Since November

Package Food Makers Reverse Selves, Predict Price Increases

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Talk about dollar-a-pound coffee by next year makes you wonder. Is inflation going to show up again in the place you'll like it least—the family market basket?

Already the men who package foods are starting to prepa.e you for price hikes all along the line before the end of the year, reversing their own pedictions of a short time ago. They acknowledge large surpluses of grain but they say the government buys these up and neutralizes the law of supply and demand.

A lot of other items add up. Beef on the hoof is selling at the highest price since last November. The agriculture department today says meat prices may be lower—but adds that'll be next year, and mostly in pork.

Sugar edges a shade higher at wholesale, although there is a world surplus held off the North American market by law. Cocoa has climbed up the price ladder again. And some candy makers are reported hard pressed to line up all the chocolate they'd like for the Christmas trade.

The reason packaged food handlers advance for higher prices to come is: They fear the steel, coal and aluminum strikes will soon cause shortages of necessary supplies in their plants and raise their costs.

Trend Upward

"With the strikes in basic industries," says Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, "it isn't possible for food prices to continue to drop as we thought they would. On the Cornerstone-Laying For UN Structure Is Speech Occasion

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—President Truman pleaded anew today for safeguards to banish the atom bomb and "negotiation and mutual adjustment" to end the cold war's threat to peace.

The President addressed 16,000 at an unprecedented open air session of the United Nations assembly. The principal speaker at the cornerstone ceremony for the United Nations' new home here, the President referred to the structures as "the most important buildings in the world."

Destruction Is Feared

All mankind, the President declared, is in fear of destruction from the awesome atom bomb.

"To assure that atomic energy will be devoted to man's welfare and not to his destruction is a continuing challenge to all nations and all peoples," President Truman said.

"Ever since the first atomic weapon was developed, a major objective of United States policy has been a system of international control of atomic energy that would assure effective prohibition of atomic weapons and at the same time would promote the peaceful use of atomic energy by all nations."

Given Big Welcome

Mr. Truman spoke after a tumultuous welcome to New York from a police-estimated crowd of 750,000 along his route from Pennsylvania station to the U. N. site of 42nd St. It was his first visit to the big city since his victorious election campaign.

The band played "Sidewalks of New York" as the chief executive drove up in a 25-car motorcade. The song was chosen by U. N. officials who decided no national anthems would be played on this international occasion.

The weather was raw and breezy but the sun peeped out from behind the clouds just before the President arrived.

A slight cheer arose from the

He Prefers Solitude Of Klink To Home And His Family

Jailbird Is Without Sentence

(By The United Press)

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 24—Joe Sullivan, a jail inmate without a sentence, has one ambition in life—to remain in the klink.

Sullivan can leave any time he wants to, his last sentence—30 days for intoxication — having expired 15 years ago. But Warden Van Rensselaer Taylor said he prefers the solitude of the big Albany county jail.

"He has been here almost 28 years," Taylor said. "Before his last sentence, he was out at different times—two or three days or a week at a time—but he'd come back. It was always for intoxication. His last sentence was 15 years ago, but he doesn't want to leave."

He also doesn't want to see anyone — including his own brother, the warden said.

"He has had trouble—family affairs, I guess—his sister died not long ago and he wouldn't even go to her funeral. And a lawyer wanted to see him—had some money to give him from the family—and he wouldn't even see him."

Newspapers give Sullivan his only non-jail contact.

"He likes to read the papers —follows sports like anyone else. He reads other news too, but it's mostly sports, like baseball."

A recent news story telling about his voluntary incarceration made him "very bitter" the warden said. "He just wants to be left alone."

Sullivan is 65 years old, weighs 165 pounds, is almost six feet tall and solidly built. His face is full and his hair gray. He keeps his institution

Divorced Parents Argue Over Child

Four Persons Shot To Death After Dispute At Farm Home

(By The Associated Press)

BLAIR, Kas., Oct. 24—A brief argument between divorced parents over custody of a child ended in the fatal shooting of four persons and the wounding of a fifth.

A coroner's jury today classified two of the deaths as murder and two as self defense.

The shooting occurred Saturday in the farm home of Oscar Wilman Tarter, 58.

Officers said Galen Wood, 29, had demanded his ex-wife, the daughter of Tarter, give him custody of one of their two children. Mrs. Wood refused. The parents were divorced last week.

The coroner's jury ruled Wood killed Mr. and Mrs. John H. Sharp, of Elwood, Kas., who were visiting Tarter. Tarter and Wood also were killed.

The jury ruled they died in a scuffle over guns. It said Wood and Tarter each shot the other twice. The jury called their deaths self defense because it could not determine which shots were fired first.

Frank Freiburg, Bern, Kas., who also was visiting Tarter, was wounded. His condition was reported as fair.

Mrs. Wood, grazed by a bullet, fell to the floor and pretended to be dead until the shooting stopped.

Cotton Harvest In Plains Area Is Stalemated

Rivers Are Rising; Colder Weather Is Due Tuesday

By BILL CLARK
Journal Staff Writer

Torrential rains fell in North Texas today, real gully washers struck the Dallas-Fort Worth areas, and misty drizzles continued to stalemate the cotton harvest on the South Plains.

Four inches drenched Rockwall, on the East fork of the Trinity river, in a fall continuing through this morning. The overnight fall at Fort Worth was 3.21 inches. Low areas of Dallas were flooded by an early morning 2.73 inch downpour.

Meanwhile, the Weather bureau in Lubbock had this to offer: Mostly cloudy through today and tonight, with occasional rains, a little colder tonight and clearing conditions starting late tonight.

Take Colder Tuesday

The South Plains will be only partly cloudy but colder Tuesday, it was predicted.

Lubbock has received a total of .99 inch of rainfall since Saturday morning, while other parts of the Plains have received moisture ranging from .12 to 1.25 inches, area observers reported.

The temperature dropped from a maximum of 54 Sunday to a minimum of 42 this morning, and the Weather bureau expects tonight's minimum to be either 33 or 34 degrees.

Collision of cool air from the north with warm, Gulf Air that had been ranging over the state was responsible for the Texas rains, the Weather bureau in Dallas said.

Streams Are Rising

Thousands of North Texans splashed through veritable rivers of water on their way to work. Streams and rivers in the north-central portion of the state were rising rapidly.

By 7 a. m. the Trinity stood at 17.7 at Dallas and was rising sharply. It is expected to reach flood stage, 28 feet, by this afternoon.

Del Rio reported .19 inch, Tyler .16 and Waco .04. Other rainfall reports included Bonham 3.55, Wichita Falls 2.59, Abilene 2.11, San Angelo 2.20, Mineral Wells 2.52, Ozona 1.95, Trinidad 1.05, Muenster 1.45, Junction. 70, Big Spring .58 and Marfa .34.

Yesterday's high was 88 at Brownsville and Laredo and the low 51 degrees at Dalhart. Dalhart also had the low minimum of 35 and Bronwsville the high minimum with 76.

Light Drizzles Continue

Meanwhile, light drizzles continued over the entire South Plains, telephone checks by The Evening Journal showed. Heavy

CLOTHING AND FOOD PROVIDED

Children Aided By Jaycees' Program

Three children wore warm clothing to school today and ate something besides crackers for breakfast after being the first children aided in the Lubbock Junior Chamber of Commerce youth welfare program.

One little boy had been wearing torn jeans and the helmet he wore in the 1948 Soap Box Derby, in which he won in his division. One of his sisters had been wearing jeans cut down to fit her and another sister had been wearing a frayed dress and worn shoes.

The clothing was provided at cost by Dunlap's.

The money used is part of the proceeds the Jaycees obtained as result of sale of tickets for the Rogers Bros. circus. Proceeds the Jaycees received will be used in the new youth welfare program, which will not be limited to race or creed or color or to type of need. Clothes, food, medical care or other help will be given in needed cases involving children.

In addition to providing clothing for the three children who were the first to benefit under the program, the Jaycees are providing food for consumption at home and are arranging for lunches in the school cafeteria.

The children range from 6 to 14 in age. Jaycee investigation showed the father had left them. The mother has been picking cotton to support her family.

The youth welfare committee is composed of Dustyn Norris, chairman, Hill Baggett and George

Man Changes His Mind About Dying; He Weds Instead

ALLEGAN, Mich., Oct. 24. (U.P.)—Le Roy Irwin, 92, whose ready-made tombstone says he'll die in 1950, announced today that he changed his mind and got married instead.

The elderly farmer, who put up the gravemarker for himself a year ago, was to have wed a 62-year-old widow today. But at the last minute he blushingly told friends they just couldn't wait, and married her secretly last Thursday.

Irwin put the tombstone up, he said, because he didn't have any relatives to care for it after his death.

He inscribed it: "Born 1856, Died 1950."

"But I've changed my mind now," Irwin said. "I don't know how long I've got to live but I'm starting all over today."

His bride is 62-year-old Mrs. Mary Mathews Sage, who agrees with Irwin that the tombstone guess was premature.

"I think I'll get him over the 1950 deadline," she commented dryly.

"After all, I kept one husband alive five years after the doctors said he was supposed to die."

Irwin met Mrs. Sage, he said, when he went to her

Community Chest Fund Climbs Slowly

Lackadaisical attitude on the part of team workers and Lubbock citizens who should be making contributions is slowing down Lubock's 1950 Community Chest drive, it was indicated today.

At 1 p. m. this afternoon, only $13,260.76 had been collected toward the $98,850 goal set for the campaign, J. Ray Dickey, general chairman of the Community Chest campaign, reported.

"We had hoped to have at least 50 per cent of the goal reported by the close of the first week of solicitations in the drive," Dickey said, "but it looks like now that we will fall far below that figure unless workers and contributors alike get on the ball."

Solicitations in the campaign started last Tuesday and Wednesday and campaign leaders planned to contact team captains again today and tomorrow in an effort to speed the collections.

None of the teams in the drive thus far have made a complete report on the lists and districts assigned to them.

Baby Is Death Victim Twice

FORT WORTH, Oct. 24 (AP) — A 13-month old baby died twice today in a local hospital as physicians worked frantically to save his life.

The little heart of Teddy Nall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Nall of Hamlin, stopped beating at 8:20 a. m. as three physicians endeavored to remove a bean from his lung.

Swiftly one of the physicians picked up a scalpel and with a sure stroke made an incision. Gently he massaged the heart.

Picked Up The Beat

Ten harrowing minutes elapsed. Then the heart picked up the life-giving beat without aid.

The physician returned back to the task of removing the foreign object—imperiling the child's life.

The physician managed to get all of the bean out of the collapsed lung, but only a portion could be drawn through the windpipe.

Three hours had elapsed. The heart faltered several times, but on each occasion it had resumed work.

At noon it stopped again.

But this time massage failed.

The father and mother drove the baby at 8:30 p. m. Friday to a Hamlin hospital, 10 miles from their home. There, attendants re-

MYSTERIOUS MAN SOUGHT IN UNUSUAL CASE

Foul Play Is Feared In Disappearance Of Philadelphia Woman; Police Press Search

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24 — The words "foul play feared" in a police teletype message today spurred an 11-state search for a 40-year-old woman believed abducted from her home clad in pajamas.

The missing woman, Mrs. Dorothy Forstein, disappeared last Tuesday. Her husband — City Magistrate Jules Forstein — sought police help on Thursday.

One of the first persons questioned was the attractive blonde woman's nine-year-old daughter, Marcy.

The little girl told police she had seen a man carry her mother from the Forstein home. At first police doubted the child's story. Then they took her to a psychiatrist who reported Marcy "apparently is telling the truth."

Story Is Revealed

It was then that Detective Inspector George F. Richardson asked police in 11 states to join in the search for Mrs. Forstein. He concluded his message with the words "foul play feared."

Richardson said Marcy told him this story:

"I was asleep in the back room (of the Forstein home), I heard the door open downstairs. I went and looked over the rail. I saw a man come up the stairs. He walked right into mother's room in the front of the house.

"Mother was lying on the floor on her face. She had been resting. The man turned her over on her back, picked her up and put her over his right shoulder so that her head hung over his back. She had on pajamas.

"As he turned the steps I said: 'What are you doing?' and he said: 'Go back to sleep, little one, your mother is all right.'

"He patted me on the head. As he went out the front door, I heard the snap lock close. I went back to bed but I could not sleep. And 15 minutes later my father came in."

Richardson said the little girl told him the man was about 40

Uneasy Truce Settles Over The Pentagon

Defense Official Hints That Axe Is Out For Adm. Denfeld

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—An uneasy truce settled over the Pentagon today in the wake of congressional airing of bitter policy differences among the armed services.

But the quiet along the Potomac seemed more illusory than real.

Hardly had the House armed services committee recessed its hearings than a top-placed official of the defense establishment hinted the axe was out for Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations.

Denfeld fired the final broadside for the navy in its case against the joint chiefs of staff. He summed up navy complaints that naval sea and air power were being scuttled to the detriment of national security.

No Reprisal Intended

There was a widely-held belief that should Denfeld go, he probably would be followed by some other top admirals who have bucked Pentagon policy.

Despite sharply-worded warnings from some congressmen against a Pentagon purge, the word was reported passed that non-conformists on the military unification "team" would have to be replaced.

Those talking of such action said this would not mean reprisals as a result of House hearings. They said it did mean that those who could not work on Secretary of Defense Johnson's "team" would have to give way to those who can.

Reps. Short (R-Mo) and Sasscer (D-Md) in week-end talks with reporters said the Defense department had better go slow on any purge. Short said everything can be worked out "if there's not too much vindictiveness."

Senator Wherry (R-Neb), Republican Senate leader, said in a speech at Lenoir, N. C., that Pres-

Deputy's Trial Is Postponed

BELTON, Oct. 24 (AP) — Sam Smithwick, former Jim Wells deputy sheriff, was granted a continuance today in his murder trial here for the slaying of Radio Commentator W. H. (Bill) Mason of Alice.

District Judge Wesley Dice granted the continuance after defense attorneys said only two of their 20 witnesses were present.

Set For Dec. 12

The case was postponed until Dec. 12 at 10 a. m.

The state had announced ready when the case was called to trial at 10 a. m.

Defense Attorney Henry Taylor told Judge Dice that five or six material witnesses were absent.

The defense asked that the case be postponed until the January term of court and that the present venire be quashed. Judge Dice overruled both motions but granted a postponement until Dec. 12. Taylor said one of the absent witnesses was Iturbo Flores, who operated Rancho Allegro, a tavern on the edge of Alice.

Sen. Morris Speaks Here

Senator G. C. Morris, acting lieutenant governor of Texas, today told Lubbock Jaycees "indifference by voters within the state is why we are losing our state's rights to the federal government."

Speaking at a luncheon meeting in the Hilton hotel, the veteran lawmaker said "the trouble with Texas is that one voter does the thinking for the other three citizens of the state when it comes to expressing political desires."

He pointed out that only 990,000 Texans voted in the 1948 gubernatorial election of 4,000,000 potential voters.

Overspending Explained

"The coming election Nov. 8 when Texans will vote on 10 constitutional amendments will find only one of every 10 Texans at the polls," he predicted.

In rapid fire order, Senator Morris berated fellow office holders by saying "the state needs higher caliber public servants" and "many of our office holders need to do right from moral and spiritual standpoints."

However, he said the overspending of some legislatures was due

Man Thought Dead In Dallas Roof Cave-In

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—A roof cave-in at the Portland Cement Co plant early today apparently killed one man, injured another, and caused so much noise some witnesses mistook it for an explosion.

E. T. Spain, 55, switchboard operator for the company, was trapped on a second level catwalk inside the plant. He was believed dead though his body was not been removed.

Dallas fire department battalion chief A. B. Williams said an accumulation of a thick layer of dust on the roof of the power plant, weighed down by heavy rain, apparently caused the collapse.

Ex-Grid Star Of Temple High School Shoots Himself With Constable's Pistol At Sonora

(By The Associated Press)

SONORA, Tex., Oct. 24—A one-time star high school football player killed himself yesterday with the town constable's pistol.

"I want you to see this," William Barney Hamm, jr., 24, told Constable Newt Poteet and Night Watchman Sam Adams.

Then, they said he placed the pistol between his eyes and fired.

Justice of the Peace George Barrow returned a verdict of suicide.

Hamm lived in Temple, but had been working here. He starred as a schoolboy football player in 1941 and later played for Baylor university.

He shot himself in Poteet's filling station early yesterday morning.

This is the story Poteet and Adams told Sheriff Clyde Henderson.

The constable and Adams were sitting in the filling station talking. Poteet took off his pistol belt and put it inside a showcase to be more comfortable.

About 2 a. m. Hamm, who was working in Sonora with the Stanford Electric Co., walked in the door. He talked with the men a few minutes and then went on up the street.

A few minutes later Hamm returned.

He went to the showcase and picked up Poteet's pistol.

"Is this loaded?" he asked.

Before either of the men could answer he fired a shot into the floor.

"I guess it is," Hamm said and motioned Poteet and Adams to stand to one side of

MILITARY STOCKS TO BE SHARED

U. S. Will Commence Job Of Re-Arming Western Europe

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24—This week the U. S. government begins the job of helping re-arm western Europe. This briefly explains it.

First, the Senate approved our joining the Atlantic pact, made up of 12 nations: U. S., Canada, Portugal, Iceland, Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway, Denmark.

They agreed to help defend one another from attack. Russia wasn't mentioned as the possible attacker but Russia was meant.

But if the Atlantic pact countries nearest Russia were going to stand off, if only a while, a Russian attack, they said they needed arms from us.

Three countries not near Russia—Canada, Portugal, Iceland—did not ask help. The other eight did: Britain, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway, Denmark.

Equipment Classified

Then congress voted $1,000,000,000 to supply them arms. Actually, they will receive from us arms worth about $1,450,000,000. This is why:

We'll send them three kinds of military equipment: excess stuff, reserve stuff, and brand new equipment.

1. Excess—Now we have on hand a number of items of military equipment over and above what our military planners think we may ever need, even in case of war. This is considered unneeded, excess material. We'll send some of that.

But—Congress said we cannot send abroad excess equipment which, altogether, originally cost more than $450,000,000. (That same excess equipment, if made now, might cost double the $450,000,000 when it was made.)

We'll send Europe the $450,000,000 in excess equipment allowed by Congress. This, added to the $1,000,000,000 voted by Congress for the program, will bring our total arms help to Europe to around $1,450,000,000.

Reserve To Be Replaced

2. Reserve stuff—We have on hand now, but stored away, a lot of equipment which our military planners figure we'll need in time of war, but don't need now.

We'll send some of that reserve to Europe. But we'll have to replace it. Some of the $1,000,000,000 voted by Congress will be used to have brand new reserve material manufactured and kept in this country.

3. Brand new material—. Some of the equipment we'll send Europe will be brand new. We'll have to get that made. The rest of the $1,000,000,000 fund will be used for that.

This week State department people start talking with representatives of those eight countries which need arms. They'll talk here in Washington and draw up agreements.

Secrecy Involved

The eight must agree to a number of things, under the law passed by Congress, before we can send them arms. For example:

1. That they'll use our arms in accordance with the terms of the law.

2. That they won't hand over and of our arms to another country, without our permission.

3. That they'll keep secret anything we send them—in cases where we want secrecy. Secretary of Defense Johnson says any western European country with a communist in its cabinet will get no arms aid or military secrets.

4. That in turn they'll furnish us—or any of the other eight—such assistance as we or they require. For example: we might want Belgium to give us certain kinds of raw material in return for our help.

When the agreements are signed here, we'll send teams of American political, economic and military experts to each of the other eight countries. There, with the European experts, they'll work out in detail what each country needs or wants and what we can send.

The talks will take weeks; they are being figured on to be finished by Dec. 1. So a real flow of arms to Europe may not start before Jan. 1.

In addition to the $1,000,000,000 for Europe, Congress voted $314,010,000 in help for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea, the Philippines.

30,000 Attend Pageant At Aaronsburg

Town Observes 163rd Year Of Racial, Religious Tolerance

AARONSBURG, Pa., Oct. 24. (AP)—Aaron Levy would have been proud of this little town he founded 163 years ago.

For Levy, Jewish immigrant who came to this country from Amsterdam, gave Aaronsburg more than just his name. He gave its people a goal—racial and religious tolerance.

That goal came a little bit closer yesterday as the hamlet's 400 inhabitants were joined by thousands of visitors in a mass plea for universal brotherhood.

A crowd of more than 30,000, including a number of international leaders of many faiths, gathered on the grassy slope beside the little Lutheran church built on land donated by Levy.

UN Notable Speaks

They heard a succession of distinguished speakers tell the "Aaronsburg Story"—the story of how the people of one small town have lived together in peace regardless of racial origin or creed.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, former United Nations mediator in Palestine, told them the world "is living on borrowed time."

"In the atomic age," he said, "the further cost of continuing bad relations would appear prohibitive. The road of human understanding is the only road to peace."

Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter of the U. S. Supreme Court warned that "the upheavals of the late war let loose forces from which hardly a corner of the world is immune. The ideal which holds us together beyond any other is our belief in the worth of the individual—whatever race or religion."

The observance was proclaimed by Gov. James H. Duff a part of the annual Pennsylvania Week celebration—a week set aside to call attention to the state's greatness.

Every able bodied resident of Aaronsburg took part in the preparations and the celebration itself.

An historical pageant with a cast of 1,000 told the story of the founding of the Salem Lutheran church in a valley surrounded by the Nittany mountains.

The town itself has grown but little—mostly because of its relatively isolated location—but the dream that prompted Aaron Levy to found it was bigger yesterday than ever.

Many Buying Geiger Counters To Smell For Ore In Northwest

By ART RIDDLE
United Press Staff Writer

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 24—One of the post-war world's most fascinating products, the Geiger counter, has been selling faster than a Boston-banned novel in the Northwest this year.

Dick E. Shanks, 26, is one of the half-dozen dealers handling Geiger counters in the Northwest. He reports that anyone, from an old prospector to the city's wealthiest physician, is apt to step into his 16 by 16 shop to buy the device.

A product of the atom age, the counter is used to detect the presence of radioactive material, especially uranium. Portable units such as Shanks sells weigh about four pounds.

They are simple in appearance, consisting outwardly of a plain metal box, a pair of earphones and an aluminum cylinder, about the size of a flashlight, connected to the box by a two-foot cord. A Geiger-Mueller tube, sensitive to radiation, is contained in the cylinder.

Demand Is Heavy

Portable units range in price from $55 to $375, but Shanks said a trustworthy insrument is not likely to be sold for less than $100.

Shanks, a Navy veteran who learned instrument work at the Hanford atomic plant near Richland, Wash., has sold about 85 counters in the year he's handled them. Only recently has he been able to get enough to keep up with demand.

"Doctors and dentists seem to have a particular liking for the counters," Shank said. "They take them along on vacations and get in a little uranium prospecting as well as hunting and fishing."

Others who have bought the device include engineers, mining companies, land owners, real estate men and old-time prospectors.

"More than once an old duffer has shuffled into the shop looking as though he expected a handout," Shanks said. "But invariably it'll be a weather-beaten prospector, and he'll slap down a hundred dollar bill for a counter.

Assaying Free

Shanks, who is nearly as proud of his two-year-old business as he is of his two-weeks-old son, also runs an impromptu assay office.

He said eight or ten persons stop in each day carrying samples of ore. They want to know whether it's radioactive.

"I don't hcarge them anything to test it," Shanks said. "After all, there's only one chance in a million that any particular sample will be 'hot'."

Shank's shop originally dealt in air pressure gauges, thermometers and a myriad of other industrial meters. Shanks is glad he added the Geiger counter to his list.

He's looking forward to the day when the counter will take its place beside the thermos bottle and portable radio as standard equipment for vacationers and picnickers.

Meet Bill Freeman—Another "Do-it-yourself" American

Made his ideas add up!

No convincing William E. Freeman of Atlanta, Georgia, that a shop helper can't make himself new opportunities—today especially! Even with time out for three years' Navy duty in the war, Freeman worked up from truck repairman in 1939 to a supervisor's job with H. W. Lay Co. in 1946. He kept a sharp eye out for opportunities for plant improvements. And he made his ideas work! Without a high school diploma, he taught himself about machine layout, processing, packaging. For Freeman it all added up to a key executive's spot. Today at 37, he's plant engineer . . . and he got there on his own!

☆ It's the American Spirit!

BILL FREEMAN would be the first to tell you he's no exception; you'll find folks like him on every Main Street in the country. Folks who today are opening up "new frontiers" for themselves in the American "do-it-yourself" spirit. They're making their own energy and ideas add up to a better life for themselves and their families—and for America!

An example of the strength of this do-it-yourself spirit is all around you: 78 million Americans, wanting to take care of their own on their own, are providing for their wives and children through life insurance. Their life insurance serves another way, as well. It indirectly makes opportunities for more jobs, for better schools and highways . . . for better living. These opportunities come from life insurance dollars invested in industry and government, in homes and on farms.

Since life insurance does so much for so many, more and more people turn to it every year. While life insurance must grow to meet their needs, the business remains a personal business, too. For each of the country's 150,000 trained life insurance agents gives his individual service to the men and women in his community. These Agents represent 584 individual life insurance companies, each one competing actively to help Americans help themselves!

It's a Fact...

It's a fact that the earnings on life insurance assets are of direct financial importance to every policyholder... because:

- The premiums you pay do not cover all the costs of insuring you.
- Income earned by the investment of life insurance assets pays part of the cost. Out of each dollar of total income of all life insurance companies, about 80¢ now comes from premiums and about 20¢ from investment earnings.
- If the rate of interest available on prudent investments were higher, the cost of life insurance to you could be lower.

CHANCES FOR CABINET DIMMED

Bidault Third Frenchman To Try Hand In Political Crisis

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Oct. 24—Georges Bidault, leader of the Popular Republicans (MRP), sought today to lead France out of a 19-day-old political crisis. His chances for success in forming a cabinet were dimmed considerably by mounting sentiment for a new national election.

The veteran negotiator and former foreign minister was the third man to try to form a government since disputes over wage and price policies toppled Premier Henri Queuille's cabinet.

Jules Moch, a Socialist, and Rene Mayer, a Radical Socialist, have tried and failed to rebuild the three-party coalition which has ruled France under various premiers since early in 1947. That coalition of Socialists, Radical Socialists (Moderates) and Popular Republicans has steered France between communism on the left and De Gaullism on the right.

Conferences Pressing

President Vincent Auriol designated Bidault as premier last night. As he merged from the president's office, Bidault told reporters:

"Because of the length of the crisis I judged it necessary not to employ any further delay. This is why I have definitely accepted.

"There are before us some international and financial obligations which require responsible men in the government."

These obligations include various European conferences coming up in Paris this week and next.

Normally the next election of a national assembly would be in 1951. If France has to hold an election now to resolve the crisis, the communists would be brought back into the government, at least temporarily. The constitution of the fourth republic requires that a cabinet representing all parties shall hold office while a new election is being organized. The communists have been kept out of the government for two and a half years.

Vote Chances Debated

On the surface, at least, a new election would appear to benefit Gen. Charles De Gaulle's rally of the French People (RPF). De Gaulle's party was organized after the present assembly was elected on Nov. 10, 1946. He claims the current legislature no longer

McAbee is general contractor on the structure. Here a steel roof truss is hoisted into place by a large crane. The building, measuring 125 by 75½ feet, features a curving corner with broad expanses of plate glass and seven vertical lifting doors on the first floor. It will contain air conditioning and heating systems, a hydraulic passenger elevator to the second floor, steel sash, and is being constructed of brick and pumice tile. The Firestone store recently left its location in 1100-block Broadway to make way for a new S and Q Clothiers building, and is temporarily quartered at Broadway and Ave. M. (Staff Photo).

Mother's Shooting Leaves Her Little Girl Without Home

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 24 (AP)—An uncertain future today faced blonde five-year-old Judy Mae Nichols who witnessed the fatal shooting of her mother.

Mrs. C. E. Nichols, a 24-year-old divorcee, and Kenneth Fleet Conklin, 45, an unemployed bartender, were found shot to death Saturday in Mrs. Nichols' apartment.

Judy Mae told police Conklin shot her mother and killed himself after an argument.

"They both fell down and went to sleep," she said.

The shooting left Judy Mae homeless. She is being cared for by relatives, pending the finding of a permanent home.

The girl said that after the shooting she went to sleep in her bedroom. Her sobs the next morning attracted a maid who found the bodies.

Vajaya Lakshmi Pandit, silver blue; and Lone Ranger's horse "silver," for silver topping.

All colors are subject to change, Fonda said.

Policeman Captures Wandering Elephant

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 24 (AP) — A hefty cop and a circus elephant had a tug-of-war yesterday. The cop won.

A housewife called the police station and reported: "There's an elephant in our block."

Baton Rouge's biggest policeman, H. E. Lambert, found his quarry gamboling down the middle of a residential street. The cop latched onto a dangling neck chain, threw his 255 pounds into reverse and halted the pachyderm.

An excited elephant keeper from the circus soon relieved Lambert.

Twin Brothers Are Charged In Murder

ROCKDALE, Oct. 24 (AP)—Twin brothers were charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of an air force private Saturday night.

Murder charges were filed yesterday against Bill and Crump Morrison.

C. N. Knight, jr., 19, was fatally stabbed in the affray near a night club. Wayne Lawrence, 30, was seriously slashed and Knight's older brother, Bill Knight, was less critically stabbed.

Constable Ed Sexton said the fight climaxed a long-standing grudge.

National Council Successful In Efforts To Encourage Growth Of Cotton In North

MEMPHIS, Oct. 24 (U.P.) — The old refrain, "Pick dat cotton, tote dat bale," no longer is confined to the South or the irrigated areas of the Far West.

From now on, strap-hanging cotton farmers of the North will be a part of the cotton picture. For nowadays many a citizen in colder climes who never saw a boll before in his life is making a crop."

It all started last January when the National Cotton Council placed advertisements in buses, trolleys, trains and other assorted commuter modes of transportation. In 297 cities, the millions of passengers were offered free cotton seed and instructions on how to grow cotton at home.

North Responds

Their curiosity piqued, the commuters responded with thousands of letters to "Cotton, Memphis, Tenn."

The seed packets and instructions went out to such un-cotton-ish places as Seattle, Salt Lake City, Boston, Detroit, Chicago and Washington.

Now the results have come in. Letters, cards and pictures tell the story of the proud cotton farmers of Yankeeland.

A Kentuckian (who might not like the idea of being considered a Yankee) sent a photograph of himself standing beside a stalk seven feet three inches tall. He explained that the plant had plenty of "pods" and was still blooming.

A Pennsylvanian reported that he planted six seeds and, "I now have between 60 and 70 bolls, some as large as chicken eggs."

A Washington, D. C., Post Office Department official said that he had a seven-foot stalk in his backyard, "covered with cotton bolls."

Kids Try Luck

Teachers and mothers reported unusual success in arousing interest in the small fry.

And, of course, there were the problems. Some seeds which were watered too much or planted in poor soil failed to produce. Others apparently were not fertilized properly.

The Northern cotton planters had their troubles, although none reported difficulty with that blight of farmers below the Mason and Dixon line — the boll weevil.

But the seed mailings turned up a new cotton foe. A Boston housewife asked for additional seeds, explaining that her first plants came up fine but when they reached a height of a few inches "the cat ate them."

longer represents the political temper of the country.

However, there is a growing belief in the Socialist and Radical Socialist camps that both the De Gaullists and the communists are in a decline and that it would be good political tactics to have an election now. Such a belief works against Bidault's chances of forming a cabinet.

Some sources thought Bidault might succeed where Moch and Mayer failed because the predominantly Catholic Popular Republican party lies between the Socialists and the Radical Socialists in the political spectrum. Despite their name, the Radical Socialists are a moderate political group.

Mary Haworth's Mail

With Wedding Plans Made, Girl Is Stunned When Fiance Slaps Her In Quick Anger

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 18 and very much in love with Ralph, who is 20. We have been going together for two years and have made plans to be married, but a certain aspect of his behavior worries me.

Ralph has been very wonderful to me; he has never once been indifferent or unfaithful in any way, and has given me all the love a girl could want; but the other night he did a shocking thing that I can't understand. This was a second offense, but worse than the first.

We got into an argument that was really rather trival and rather than squabble I started to walk into the house, whereupon he grabbed me and shook me and slapped me, in an ugly way that I had never thought possible in him—or in anyone else for that matter.

ORDERED HIM OUT, BUT HE'LL BE BACK

WHEN I FREED myself he ran after me and actually broke down in tears and begged forgiveness, but as this was a second offense, I was so stunned and indignant that I told him to get out, that I would never marry him. As he was leaving he told me he loved me and I am sure he does; also I know that he will be back; but what should I do?

Believe me, he has been very wonderful except for these outbursts; but he is terribly jealous of everything I do and now I am almost afraid to be his wife, although I love him very much. He loves children, has a very good job, neither drinks nor smokes and would be an excellent provider, I'm sure. But dare I risk marriaeg to him? Please answer soon. Signed. T. L.

SUGAR-COATED SAMPLE OF WHAT TO EXPECT

DEAR T. L.: Behavior in courtship is only a sugarcoated sample of what to expect in marriage; and that's why most marriage counselors advise lengthy association in various social situations as the best test of congeniality before taking the final step.

Educators have conducted several major studies of factors contributing to success or failure in marriage, and information gleaned from thousands of married couples indicates that marriage based on five years' courtship seldom breaks up; and that marriages based on three years' courtship also have a healthy chance of survival.

Further, the age of the contracting parties seems to make a difference, for better or for worse; and the girl who marries at 18 is running great risk of experiencing two causes of dissatisfaction somewhat later. Girls who marry around 23 constitute the majority of the happy wives who feel they have chosen well.

The girl who marries at less than 20 hasn't matured sufficiently to evaluate men in terms of adult-character values, and may be more "in love" with being loved than rationally devoted to the lad she espouses as husband—and I rather think this applies to your erstwhile blind acceptance of Ralph's (at times) "wonderful" treatment of you.

SIGNS OF SERIOUS EMOTIONAL DISORDER

ALSO the girl who marries quite young, which is to say under 21, invariably, without exception, sooner or later regrets the haste with which she leaped from the pastures of youth into heavy harness; and she has moods of feeling "sick with longing" for years of youth she threw away, even though her husband may be a sterling fellow whom she loves dearly.

Now, about Ralph: his terrible jealousy and insane temper—for such it is when the control slips, obviously—give evidence of serious emotional disorder, which may have a neurotic origin or might refer to incipient paranoia, a tragic affliction in which distrust of the beloved is a characteristic symptom.

In fairness to you, who seek advice, I must warn that whatever its significance, it disqualifies him to be a good husband, no matter how ardently he cares for you. In situations where reasonable restraint is most required, he is least able to maintain it—and to safeguard your welfare, you should heed your instinct and refuse to marry him. M. H.

Try Unusual Design When You Arrange Pictures

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

IF you've ever been in a home where you have been tempted to straighten a picture, or to group some in a more interesting arrangement, you probably realize how important pictures are as accessories.

Very often the pictures on your walls show the character of your home. Some people do not like pictures and the very scarcity of them makes the room look cold. Other people buy pictures to use up space. They do not purchase them to harmonize with decor, but scatter them on the walls at random.

You do not have to spend a fortune on original paintings, pictures or etchings. Often a color photograph clipped from a magazine, suitably framed, will add just that extra bit of charm.

When planning a picture and mirror arrangement, take into consideration the furnishings and color scheme of your home. Victorian furnishings, for instance, would take better to a Gay Nineties motif in pictures, prints and frames than would a Louis XIV or a modern background. Colors in pictures should not clash with drapery, rug or upholstery colors.

After pictures have been selected, choose correct frames and make sure pictures are cropped and matted by someone who knows his business.

Watch Those Frames!

Delicate colorings and airy brush strokes of Oriental prints should never be overwhelmed with massive heavy frames; on the other hand, solid, dark oils should have frames that approximate the heavier, somewhat solid character of the subject.

Photographs and lithographs, widely matted and framed in simple narrow frames, will show well against a patterned background. The first and final purpose of a frame is to present the picture to advantage. If it fails, the wrong frame has been used. This is not something the neophyte decorator learns overnight. You will have to browse through art supply stores and cast an appraising eye over different frames.

Choose pictures you like. Stick to your choice no matter what general comment might be. You are the one who is going to live with your pictures. Set them off advantageously. Don't put a miniature picture over the sofa where a large one or a grouping of six or eight pictures would look better. And don't put a huge picture on the wall over a chair or a small table.

To give color and design interest to a wall above a day bed, try a simple grouping of three pictures of the same size and similar subjects placed in a row and neatly spaced.

Treat your pictures as important accessories to your home. Plan out dimensions, frames and colors so that the final effect will be pleasing to the eye.

DON'T IMPLODE THAT TUBE

NEW YORK (AP)—An "implosion" is just the reverse of an explosion. It occurs when something bursts inward instead of outward, such as the breaking of a highly evacuated device like a large electronic tube.

Strikes Could Force Railroads Into Operation By Government

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (U.P.)—The nation's coal and steel industry strikes have put twin pincers around the heart of freight-carrying operations, and one railway executive has predicted possible federal operation of the lines.

T. J. Deegan of Cleveland and New York, here to attend a convention of the Associated Traffic Clubs of America, said nationalization would be a reality if the two strikes continue "for an indefinite period."

Losses Huge

Deegan is a vice president of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway company, and is a delegate to the 26th annual ATCA convention opening here today.

The earning ability of the railroad industry, Deegan stated, was only 3 per cent.

"When it is faced with labor crises in other industries . . . railroads can stay in business only for a foreseeable period."

An end to the coal strike this month would still mean a $15,000,000 loss to the C&O, since 7 per cent of its business comes from the coal industry, Deegan pointed out. The C&O laid off 6800 employes this month, he said.

Travel Ordered Cut

The continuance of strikes would soon bring a situation of "no return" to the railroads. "Then the railroads would go broke. Then the government would have to take over."

ATCA board chairman J. M. Fitzgerald said the most ominous result of the strikes was the interstate commerce commission order last Friday to cut passenger travel on coal-burning railroad lines. Fitzgerald is vice chairman of the Eastern Railroads Presidents' conference in New York.

Some 1200 delegates and guests are expected at the convention, which closes Wednesday. A highlight address will be given Tuesday night by Fred G. Gurley, president of the Santa Fe railroad.

Silvers Goes Home To Mother-In-Law After Separation

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (INS) — Comedian Phil Silvers, stage and screen star, and his wife, the former Jo Carroll Dennison, Miss America of 1942, have separated.

They pulled a Hollywood switcheroo on an old vaudeville gag. Phil has gone home to his mother-in-law, while Jo Carroll checked out of their Hollywood home and rented a "bachelor" apartment.

"My mother-in-law, who understands me better than anyone else in the world," Phil says, "now has complete custody of both me and the family dog."

Phil further added that he hoped Jo Carroll would overlook their disagreement and come to mother, too.

Achieves Stage Hit

The funnyman of many 20th Century-Fox movies and his svelte wife met five years ago on the set of "Something For The Boys" in which they both were appearing.

Following a brief courtship, Phil and Jo Carroll were married March 2, 1945.

Silvers, who began his theatrical career as a burlesque comedian, has achieved an outstanding personal success during the past two years as principal comics in the New York musical comedy hit, "High Button Shoes."

Body Of Panhandle Youth Is Recovered

AMARILLO, Oct. 24 (U.P) — Emergency crews removed the body of 11-year-old Jerry Hanson from the chilled waters of Buffalo lake early today, then waited for lake waters to calm before continuing the search for his uncle, I. E. Hanson, 34.

The Panhandle residents drowned in the lake, some 30 miles southwest of here, when rough waters capsized their small boat last night.

Bobby Douglas, 14-year-old nephew of Hanson from Plainview, was rescued after more than an hour in the cold water. He was treated for shock and exposure in a Canyon hospital.

The body of young Hanson, who moved to Panhandle only last week from Plainview, was taken to a Canyon funeral home.

The tragedy occurred while the Hanson and Douglas families were having a family picnic at the lake.

Increase In Postal Receipts Reported

AUSTIN, Oct. 24. (AP)—Climbing postal receipts in Texas cities were reported today.

The Bureau of Business Research said September receipts were up one per cent from August and up 13 per cent over last September.

Denton's 45 per cent was the highest increase over August.

Lamesa, Borger, Cisco, Edinburg, Gainesville and Gladewater recorded large monthly gains. August-to-September declines ranged from a fractional dip in Pampa to 21 per cent in Bryan.

Compared with September 1948, increases varied from fractional gains in Odessa and Port Arthur to 91 per cent in Snyder; and declines ranged from 1 per cent in Texas City to 11 per cent in Palestine.

Hungarian Officers Hanged For Treason

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 24. (U.P.)—Lt. Gen. Gyorgy Palffy, one of Hungary's highest-ranking generals, and three other officers were hanged today for treason.

A ministry of defense communique said the four officers had been convicted at a secret military trial.

Two Stabbings Are Reported

Damp weather and the suggestion of discomfort in the temperatures contributed to slowing down weekend infractions of law expected at this period of the harvest season, officers said.

Two persons were reported stabbed. There was an attempted burglary. An automobile was stolen. Fewer than usual misdemeanor thefts were under investigation. Other than traffic law violations, that just about summarizes the picture up to midmorning today, officials said.

Bert Thornton said his store, Thornton grocery, at 1511 Eighth, had been "torn down" at the rear, but nothing had been missed. He said he doubted if anyone entered it.

Car Is Stolen

The car, a 1941 green Oldsmobile sedan, license AS 455, was stolen from Charles A. Adams, jr., of 2101 Seventeenth.

Spur authorities said a Mexican was suspected of having stolen a tire there. He was believed to have "headed toward Lubbock."

Both stabbing victims, Emory S. Haygood, of 119 East Ninth and Thomas Garilay, 26, of Monroe, were released from hospitals here after treatment for minor wounds, officials said.

Man's Shoulder Broken

According to police reports, Haygood was wounded on a country road on the east side of the Avinger addition about 3:30 p. m. Another resident of the East Ninth address, 53, was detained, then released to West Texas hospital for treatment of a broken shoulder.

City detectives, meanwhile, were attempting to piece together details of the other stabbing. Garilay, taken to the Porter clinic following an altercation in the Mexican section of the city, told officers he was uncertain as to who had assaulted him. He said he had risen from his seat in a cafe preparatory to leaving the place when one of four men attacked him.

He told investigators he did not realize immediately that he had been cut, and said he had not seen a knife in the hands of either of the four men.

A physician at Porter clinic said the shallow knife wound extended from Garilay's neck behind his left ear to a point over the right collar bone.

Rex Sallis, of 2818 Eighteenth, reported theft of a man's gray hat and two raincoats, total value $30, from his car parked in the 1200 block Ave. J.

Theodore Tallard, 29, an employe of the Tidwell shows, a carnival playing east of Lubbock, was arrested on a charge of reckless driving after a truck he was driving allegedly knocked down four gas pumps at the McLain filling station at 118 East Broadway about 4:30 p. m.

Mexican's Are Arrested

Five "wetback" Mexicans were arrested for deportation to their homeland. They allegedly entered this country illegally.

Four employes of a carnival were reported fined $38.15 each, including costs, and released by D. W. Robertson, justice of peace. Two of them, gypsies, were charged with vagrancy, two others with gaming after a Lubbock person had complained of the theft of money from him. The gypsies "left town" after their release, officials said. Arrests were by the sheriff's department.

In the justice of peace court of C. E. Lynn, eight gamblers were fined a total of $373.30.

Domingo H. Vasquez, about 32, was fined $75 and costs when he pleaded guilty of drung driving, county court officials said.

Transient Workers Threaten To Quit

Quick Action Of Lamesa C-C Manager Ends Coal Shortage

LAMESA, Oct. 24. (Special) Cold, damp weather and a temporary shortage of coal posed another threat to cotton farmers in the Lamesa area today, but quick action by Mrs. Matt McCall, manager of the chamber of commerce, has the situation under control.

The problem arose when a farmer in the area complained to the chamber of commerce that his Mexican pickers were threatening to quit because they were unable to get coal to heat their dwellings.

Mrs. McCall explained that the Lamesa firm, which heretofore has stocked coal to sell to transient workers, had decided to discontinue handling it.

She called A. B. Davis, manager of the Lubbock chamber, who referred her to the G. F. Hill Supply company. A load of coal was on its way this afternoon from Hill to the Barnett & Ayres Seed company of Lamesa, which has promised to handle the fuel for the Lamesa area.

Hill said that there was no apparent shortage of coal supplies for the South Plains, but pointed out that the early cold spell had created a demand for fuel which had not been foreseen. The greater percentage of coal demand comes from transient workers, he added, and oftimes the cotton crop is harvested and the workers gone before cold weather sets in.

Fireman Is Injured In Train Collision

WINAMAC, Ind., Oct. 24. (U.P.)—A fireman was injured today when a Pennsylvania freight train plowed into the rear of another Pennsylvania freight here, derailing 20 cars of one train.

Fireman R. H. Carroll of Logansport, Ind., suffered a back injury. He and engineer Charles Leybet, jumped back into the coal tender when they saw they were going to hit the other train, which was standing at the station. Twenty cars of Leybet's train were derailed.

Heard Around

Thirteen Gideon members attended a prayer and praise service at a breakfast Sunday morning in Hilton hotel. The group voted to hold similar breakfast services each Sunday morning from 7:30 to 8:30 a. m. at the hotel. Earl Burnett, president of the local Gideon camp, presided at the Sunday morning service.

Ray Sooter of 2706 Maple complained to police today that two spinner-type hub caps had been stolen from his car.

Slight damage was reported by firemen who answered two alarms this morning. At 108 East Broadway, a neon sign became short-circuited and set fire to a roof, about 5:30 a. m. Three hours earlier, an electric motor began smoking at Plains Ice Cream company, at 2230 Nineteenth.

Tickets for Saturday afternoon's Rice-Texas Tech football game at Houston now are available at the Texas Tech athletic office, Athletic Director Morley Jennings announced today. Ducats for the game may be reserved by phone, but must be picked up not later than 5:30 p. m. Thursday, Jennings said.

Melvin Simmons of Lubbock has gone to Albuquerque to attend funeral services at 10 a. m. Tuesday for his brother, Doyle, who died there Sunday night after a brief illness. He is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Annie Simmons of Wolfforth.

COSTLY STRIKE COMES TO AN END

Missouri-Pacific Operations To Be Resumed After 45 Days

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24 (AP) — Missouri Pacific trains, stalled for 45 days by a strike of operating employes, were scheduled to start rolling again today.

The strike was settled at a meeting of company and union officials yesterday, ending the longest work stoppage on any major road in nation's history.

It cost the railroad, workers and businesses in ten states many millions of dollars.

Wages Not Involved

The strike ended following submission of a union proposal for settlement of 93 grievances by arbitration under railway labor act and by railroad adjustment board. The nature of the claims and the wishes of the union will determine whether the grievance will be settled under the act or by the board.

Originally there were 282 claims based on differing interpretations of working rules, but 189 were settled by lengthy negotiation after the strike started. Basic hours and wages were not involved.

Paul J. Neff, chief executive officer of the railroad, said operations could not return to normal immediately over the 7,200-mile ten-state system. He said the strike would officially end at 11 a. m. (EST) today, but asked all employes to start returning to work on their regular shifts.

Others Laid Off

Neff said some passenger trains might start operating today, but others would have to await inspection and servicing of long-idle equipment. It was estimated two to three days would elapse before operations are back to normal.

About 5,000 members of the brotherhoods of locomotive engineers, enginemen and firemen and railway trainmen and of the order of railway conductors were involved in the walkout. About 20,000 additional employes were laid off because of the stoppaged.

The strike, according to unofficial estimates, resulted in a loss to the company of more than $24,000,000 and of at least $12,000,000 to employes in wages. Other millions of dollars were lost by thousands of industries served by the railroad in midwest and southern states.

States served by the road are Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado.

Couple Sells Home In Michigan To Make Dream Come True

Dashew Family Has All Conveniences Of Home On World Trip--Even Baby-Sitter

By RICHARD KLEINER
NEA Staff Writer

NEW YORK.—There's one nice thing about a pretty baby-sitter named Jane Drake. The family who retains her services doesn't have to worry about getting her home after her night's work is finished.

It'd be tough if they had to—they live on a boat, which stopped off in New York harbor on its leisurely way around the world. Jane Drake is only one of the landlubbery conveniences the Stanley Dashew family have installed aboard their 91-foot schooner, Constellation.

Mr. and Mrs. Dashew are a couple who have made their dream of sailing around the world come true by selling their home in Grand Rapids, Mich., and their car to finance the jaunt. The Dashew's two children Stephen, 7, and Lesley, 7 months, are along, too, which accounts for Jane Drake's presence. Four others are making the trip.

Position Is Unique

To make Jane's position unique in the baby-sitting world, she had never done any diapering or formula-mixing or lullabying before. But, as an experienced yachtswoman sailing out of Detroit, she knows boats. When she read of the Dashews' contemplated adventure, she wrote, asking for a job, and was promptly hired.

Her main job is to look after Lesley when the Dashews take shore leave on the Constellation's frequent port calls. She admits feeling terror when she first was handed Lesley and a diaper, but now feels that Lesley is "a doll" and she handles a diaper as calmly as she reefs a jib.

Miss Drake, 35, also helps Stephen with his lessons, which can't be by-passed for a little think like a cruise around the world.

Gave Up Job

The 33-year-old Dashew, who gave up his job as branch manager for a business machines corporation to go down to the sea, says he and his wife, Martha, 31, have been planning the trip for 12 years.

By saving and by selling their worldly goods, they got together enough money to buy the Constellation, which was formerly an officers' training ship at the Coast Guard's New London, Conn., academy. They also got together a $10,000 "kitty," which will finance their round-the-world-in-who-knows-how-long cruise.

They started in July from Chicago, and first sailed through the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river, then down the Atlantic coast to New York. From here, they're going on down the coast, through the Caribbean Sea, the Panama Canal and eventually up the Pacific coast to San Francisco. If the "kitty" has enough lives, they may push on to Alaska.

Galley Is Stocked

Mrs. Dashew has stocked the galley with 10,000 cans of food and a few additional cases of baby food. The medicine chest holds 65 types of medication. A ship-to-shore phone has been installed.

ALL HANDS ON DECK (except the baby sitter): Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dashew strike a sea-going pose at the wheel with son Stephen, 7, and daughter Lesley, seven months old.

She says that rearing a baby at sea is easier than on land. The diaper-disposal problem, for example, is a cinch, with the ocean or the river at hand. Mrs. Dashew uses surgical dressings instead of old-fashioned diapers. She's also using a disposable-type feeding bottle, which goes over the side after each feeding, thus cutting down the sterilization difficulties.

Lesley, whom her father says is "the best sailor aboard," has a specially-built crib built into one of the cabins, and equipped with an air-foam mattress and air-foam lining on the walls. The Constellation can pitch and toss, but Lesley sleeps calmly in her rubber-lined crib.

Once the "kitty" is exhausted, or the crew gets tired of aimless sailing—whichever happens first, but the crew bets it will be the former—they'll all be moving ashore again. And Stanley Dashew will go back to work to get together another kitty.

20 Victims Of Colombia Riot

CALI, Colombia, Oct. 24 (AP) — Troops patroled the streets of this coffee and mining center today following a weekend outburst of violence in which 20 persons were killed and another 40 were injured. Four women and two infants were among the injured.

A mob touched off the disturbance by storming a Liberal party meeting Saturday night. Some of those killed and injured were walking along streets in the neighborhood and got caught in the riot.

Parties Express Regrets

Soldiers dispersed the attackers by firing in the air. All political parties expressed regret at the outbreak.

Tension has been mounting steadily in Colombia with the approach of the presidential election on Nov. 27. Laureano Gomez is the Conservative candidate to succeed President Mariano Ospina Perez, also a Conservative. Dario Echandia is the Liberal candidate.

Both the Liberals and Conservatives have accused each other of resorting to violence and bloodshed. Archbishop Ismael Perdomo, Roman Catholic primate of Colombia, issued a pastoral letter in Bogota yesterday in which he declared that the country's most urgent need is restoration of public order.

SHOOTING CLIMAXES GAY PARTY

Wife Of Slain U. S. Officer Will Be Held Pending Trial

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 24. (U.P.)—Weeping and trembling, Mrs. Yvette Madsen, 22, was held for trial today on a charge of killing her U. S. air force husband, Lt. Andrew E. Madsen of Oakland, Calif.

A woman neighbor testified at an arraignment hearing that the beauteous brunette mother of two had admitted the shooting after a midnight party. Mrs. Marie A. Hinman said Mrs. Madsen ran to her home early Thursday and cried: "I shot him! I shot him! I shot him!"

Mrs. Hinman also quoted Mrs. Madsen as saying she had loaded the death weapon, a .45-caliber service pistol, herself.

Mrs. Madsen told her she was angry because somebody had insulted her at a party and "Andy laughed," Mrs. Hinman said.

Treated For Shock

The witness testified that she was awakened about 3 a. m. last Thursday by the doorbell. She looked out the window and saw Mrs. Madsen crying and hysterical.

Mrs. Madsen who is from Brooklyn, was taken to a hospital for treatment for shock immediately after the shooting. Her husband, a 32-year-old World War II veteran, was slain in the Madsen home near the Rhine-Main air base when he returned from a gay party. Mrs. Madsen had left the same party a short time before, investigators have said.

Continuing her account Mrs. Hinman said Mrs. Madsen entered her house, threw her arms around her and told her it was "Andy" who was shot. Mrs. Hinman called her husband, air force Capt. W. C. Hinman, provost marshal of the Rhine-Main base.

"I stayed with Yvette while my husband ran across the street, she testified. "I asked her where she found the gun, and she said she found it in a drawer."

Mrs. Hinman quoted Mrs. Madsen as saying: "I found a bullet and loaded it (the gun) myself. I never held a gun in my hand before. I didn't think I could load it or fire it."

Mrs. Madsen, shaking and with her eyes closed, sat beside her counsel, Elmo Gower of Cumberland, Md., in the U. S. district court here. She wore a simple grey dress, black shoe and a camel hair sports coat. Her hair fell to her shoulders.

She broke into sobs when Capt. Hinman testified that he found her husband's body on the living room floor of the Madsen home. A woman lieutenant of the air force, acting as an escort, wiped tears from Mrs. Madsen's face.

Ordered To Custody

U. S. District Judge T. T. Marye of Arlington, Va., ordered her remanded to custody for trial. He said the prosecution, conducted by District Attorney William F. Johnson of St. Louis, had shown sufficient probability of guilt to warrant trial. The charge against her in the German law corresponds to the charge of first degree murder in the United States.

Mrs. Madsen did not utter one word during the proceedings. When the judge asked her whether she had read the summons and charge she stared vacantly.

"You can indicate by nodding, if you feel it is an effort to speak," Judge Marye said. Then she nodded.

Gower said she would be returned to the Wiesbaden air base hospital and that it would be some time before the trial was held. The defense attorney added: "She is in no condition to be tried. You saw her today. That was no act."

Police Search For Burglar Called Off

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Oct. 24 (AP)—Police Capt. Robert Collins returned home from work, tried to flick on his television set but it didn't work.

The insides of the set were missing. He called police headquarters and immediately lieutenants, sergeants and just plain cops began an all-night citywide search for a TV burglar. Not a clue was found.

The captain himself called off the search yesterday. Embarrassed, he told fellow officers that he had sent the set's chasis out to the repair shop. And then forgot about it.

Interment followed in East Lawn Memorial Park cemetery under direction of Bryan McDonald and Son Funeral home.

Young Williams died at 9:10 p.m. Friday in Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he was taken after having been found unconscious at his home at 2 o'clock that afternoon.

He served in the infantry from September, 1944, until March, 1949, and had been enrolled in the University of Texas as a business student.

Israel Accuses Iraq Of Mistreating Jews

TEL AVIV, Israel, Oct. 24. (AP)—An Israel foreign office spokesman has accused the neighboring Arab state of Iraq of arresting and torturing Jewish men and women there.

He said yesterday the Israeli government has asked the United States and Britain to intervene in Baghdad, the Iraqui capital. The spokesman gave this account of what he termed the persecution of many Jews in Iraq:

Reliable news reaching the Israeli government during the last three weeks indicated Jews were arrested, their property seized and the internees were held in a concentration camp in Amara, south of Baghdad. The detained Jews were accused of belonging to the Zionist movement and to organizations which help Iraqui Jews flee to Israel.

For the time being, the spokesman said, Israel was abstaining from bringing the matter before the United Nations.

Top Teams Battle This Week

Michigan Will Meet Illinois

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP)—Nine teams held the thinning line of major unbeaten-untied college football forces today, but the casualty rate is getting terrific.

The season may be lucky to squeeze through with as many perfect elevens as last year when Michigan, California and Clemson alone closed out with spotless escutcheons. California and Clemson fell later in bowl games.

Notre Dame and Army, the country's two top-ranking powers, appear good bets to survive the last six weeks of wrangling without mishap and fourth-place Oklahoma may extend its string.

Face Rough Foes

But the other untarnished teams —California, Cornell, Baylor, Pennsylvania, Boston U. and Virginia—have rough seas ahead.

The California Bears may make it if they can get by UCLA, winner of five of its six games, at Los Angeles Saturday. This is one of the week's feature attractions on a schedule that highlights sectional warfare.

Cornell and Penn meet in the season finale Nov. 24. Baylor has yet to meet the Southwest titans—Texas, Southern Methodist and Rice. Virginia winds up with Penn, Tulane and North Carolina. Boston U., with a favorably mild schedule, may be sidetracked by Maryland Nov. 12.

Four teams with nothing but big, fat victories took a tumble Saturday in the most violent reversal of form this season.

North Carolina, Minnesota, Kentucky and Pittsburgh went down with a thump that jarred budding bowl hopes.

North Carolina was stunned by Louisiana State in a night game at Baton Rouge, 13-7.

Ponies Drub Kentucky

Minnesota's Gophers, already eyeing the Rose bowl, were trimmed by Michigan's defending national champions who bounded back from two straight defeats to win, 14-7.

Bear Bryant's Kentucky, riding a five-game winning streak, lost to Southern Methodist, 20-7, and Pittsburgh, with its supporters beginning to dream of a return to that old position of prestige, slipped up against a fired-up Indiana team, 48-14.

These upsets, plus others scattered around the country, promised an upheaval in the nation's first ten, which will be determined by an Associated Press vote today.

Minnesota had ranked third in the last weekly standings with North Carolina sixth and Kentucky seventh.

Irish Meet Navy

Notre Dame, idle last week, gets back in action Saturday against an up-and-down Navy at Baltimore.

Army, which overwhelmed Columbia 63-6, should enjoy another touchdown parade against Virginia Military Institute. Unbeaten Penn entertains Pittsburgh in one of the east's top attractions.

Michigan will meet Illinois at Champaign in a game that should help unravel the confused Western conference race.

The best games in the South send Mississippi State against Tulane, Tennessee against North Carolina and Duke against Georgia Tech. Texas at Southern Methodist is the Southwest headliner.

Oklahoma, which has piled up impressive scores against five foes, has Iowa State next on the agenda. Missouri is the most menacing team left on the Sooner's slate.

POWER DRIVE—Kentucky Back William Leskovar (33), rams througs left tackle for eight yards as Southern Methodist Back Frank Payne (41) hangs on to one leg in the third period of the game in Dallas. SMU End Charles Russell (83), is ready to meet him head-on. SMU won, 20-7. (AP Wirephoto.)

Longhorn League To Keep Class D Rating

ABILENE, Oct. 24 (U.P.) — The Longhorn Baseball league was ready to "play ball" today after deciding to retain its Class D classification.

The matter was settled, for 1950 at least, at yesterday's annual fall session when the circuit voted to stay Class D, thereby retaining Roswell, N. M., as a member club. Abilene of the West-Texas-New Mexico league sought the franchise if the Longhorn league voted to become Class C.

The eight directors approved a rule change raising the number of veteran planers, or class men, from two to three and reducing the number of limited service players from eight to seven. Each club will continue to carry six rookies.

Owner-Manager Bob Huntley announced his Vernon club was for sale. If his terms aren't met, he plans to move the franchise to another town.

The directors from Sweetwater, Ballinger, Roswell, Big Spring, Odessa, Midland, San Angelo and Vernon re-elected Hal Sayles, managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News, as president-treasurer of the league for his second term.

RACE MEET STARTS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 24 (AP) — Pimlico opens a 21-day meeting tomorrow with Calumet farm's first string—headed by the speedy Coaltown—in the stables.

SCHOOLBOYS "PLAY FOR KEEPS"

Conference Games Feature Schedule

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Texas schoolboy football moves under virtually full steam into the championship fight this week. Eighteen of the twenty districts of the City conference and Class AA have conference games. In seven of the districts the tests are most important to title hopes.

Only six undefeated, untied teams remain in all Texas. Two of those may tumble this week in conference games.

Feature battles are Henderson vs. Marshall in District 9 and Corsicana vs. Waco in District 13 of Class AA.

Henderson and Corsicana are among the unbeaten and untied. Marshall, which fell before South Park (Beaumont) 13-7 in the major upset of last week, has long been the District 9 favorite.

Waco, defending state champion, meets the team expected to be District 13 kingpin if it can get by this one. The game is in Waco and Corsicana has its work cut out for it.

Other undefeated, untied teams are Wichita Falls, Lubbock, Grand Prairie and Port Arthur. None of these appears in for trouble this week. In fact Grand Prairie doesn't even play. But from what happened last week it seems the only safe team is that one with an off week.

Lamesa, Ysleta, Highland Park (Dallas), Marshall and Galena Park were pitched from the unblemished class.

The biggest show of strength was Lubbock's 47-7 victory over Amarillo. It skyrocketed the Westerners' stock and brought forecasts that the teams in the finals this year will be Lubbock and Port Arthur.

Port Arthur didn't play last week but swings back into the grind next Friday night against Orange, the team that has been expected to offer the Yellow Jackets their strongest competition for the District 11 championship.

Games Are Slated

Stephen F. Austin meets San Jacinto in the feature clash of the Houston district in the City conference this week. They are two of three teams unbeaten in conference play. John Reagan, which incidentally is the last unbeaten team over the season route in the City conference, is the other one. Reagan has been tied, however,

San Antonio's district also has a highly important game, matching Brackenridge and San Antonio Tech. These two teams along with Thomas Jefferson are undefeated in conference warfare.

In Class AA, crucial games are scheduled in five districts.

Childress and Vernon, two of three unbeaten teams in conference play, get together. The other team—Wichita Falls—has an easy game with Quanah. Wichita Falls added to its prestige last week by beating Highland Park 14-7.

Denison and Paris battle in District 7, this result to go a long way toward the title.

In District 14, Corpus Christi plays Kerrville in an important tussle. The winner will contest Austin for the championship.

Records of Texas schoolboy football's undefeated, untied teams.

Grid Club To Meet Tonight

An overflow crowd is expected to be on hand at the Hilton hotel tonight at 8 to hear Coach C. R. Pattison of Lubbock High school tell about the Westerners' 47-7 victory over Amarillo Friday night.

The occasion will be the weekly session of the Quarterback club and there should be joy all around. All three Lubbock institutions won their games last weekend for the second time this year.

Coach Dell Morgan, whose Texas Tech Red Raiders turned back Arizona 27-7 in a Border Conference game, will be on hand. So will Damon Hill, whose Dunbar High school Panthers beat Blackshear High school of Odessa 25-0.

A three-man committee was appointed by President Bill Collins last week and they will supply the program.

There is a possibility that pictures of the Amarillo-Lubbock game may be shown.

Sievers, Newcombe "Rookies Of Year"

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 22. (U.P.)—Roy Sievers, 23-year-old outfielder signed two years ago by the St. Louis Browns for the price of a pair of spiked shoes, today was named American league rookie of the year by the Sporting News, national baseball weekly.

Don Newcombe, negro pitcher for the Brooklyn Dodgers, was chosen as the outstanding National league rookie by the same poll of baseball writers.

Sievers jumped from the Springfield, Ill., club of the Class B Three-I league last spring to a regular job with the Browns. He led his team with 92 runs batted in, 16 home runs and batted .306.

The Sporting News said Sievers now has a price tage of $200,000 on him.

Newcombe's seletcion was unanimous on the basis of his record of 17 victories, including five shutouts, to eight defeats.

Kilgore, Lamar Set Pace In Junior Loop

(By The Associated Press)

Kilgore and Lamar of Beaumont set the pace in the Southwestern Junior college conference with more than half the schedule out of the way.

Kilgore jumped into the favorite's role last week after knocking down hitherto unbeaten, untied Tyler 14-7. Lamar won all right but managed only a 7-0 decision over thrice-beaten Tarleton State.

Kilgore and Lamar each has won six straight games.

Three conference games and two of intersectional variety are on the card this week.

Friday night San Angelo plays Tarleton State. San Angelo walloped Paris 40-0 last week. Saturday night Tyler takes on Arlington State which lost to Schreiner 19-0 last Saturday. Schreiner plays Kilgore.

Lamar jaunts to Mexico City to engage the national University of Mexico. Paris goes to Tishomingo, Okla., to play the Murray Aggies.

Yankees Drub San Francisco

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—New York Yankee Coach Red Strader said last week, "we have the best line in professional football."

Everyone laughed.

Today Strader repeated, "we have the best line in professional football—and a pretty good offense to go with it."

No one laughed, for, alas, it appeared that this engaging chap knew whereof he spoke. That defense he talked about held the vaunted San Francisco Forty-Niners to a paltry three points. And the offense rolled up 17 second and half points for a 24 to 3 all-America conference upset victory yesterday.

Yankees Gain Tie

The Yankees thereby moved into a tie with the idle Cleveland Browns for the league lead.

Buffalo scored touchdowns the first two times it got the ball in the first period, and added an 11-yard field goal by Chet Adams in the second to beat the Los Angeles Oons, 17 to 14. For the Bills withstood a two-touchdown second half rally by the Dons.

Meanwhile, the Chicago Hornets rolled up all their points in the first half for a 17 to 7 triumph which shoved Baltimore deeper into the conference cellar.

Upsets Jolt Loop

Upsets jolted the National Football league. Charley Conerly's four touchdown passes gave the New York Giants a 35 to 28 victory over the Chicago Bears while the Detroit Lions snapped their seven game losing streak with a 24 to 7 victory over the Chicago Cards.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Rams took a commanding lead in the western division with a 35 ot 7 win over Green Bay and the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Philadelphia Eagles retained their eastern division first place tie, the Steelers rolled over the New York Bulldogs, 24 to 13, and the Eagles licked the Washington Redskins, 49 to 14.

Raiders To Face Rice

Ponies Clash With Steers

By ED FITE
United Press Sports Writer

Defending champion Southern Methodist, Texas and Texas Christian come up to their "last ditch" stands for survival in the Southwest conference football race this week.

While Rice's comeback specialists and the plugging Baylor Bears rock along on top of the heap with two victories apiece without a loss, the Mustangs, Longhorns and Horned Frogs—with one setback each in title play—reach the crossroads early.

Top games of the week will send SMU and Texas, the shocked victims of Rice's last-half victories, against each other in Dallas before a sellout throng of 75,345 with the loser due to tumble out of Championship contention.

Raiders Face Rice

Next in line of importance will be the Waco clash between Baylor's undefeated, untied Bears and pass-happy TCU.

Arkansas and Texas A & M, each already beaten twice in conference play, will engage in what may well be a "battle for the cellar" at Fayetteville, while Rice takes it easy at home against Texas Tech.

There still was ample doubt that SMU's all-American Doak Walker would be able to play against Texas, but Mustang supporters feel much better about their team's chances against Texas without the Doaker than they did a few days ago.

For SMU proved last Saturday it would win a touch one without the spirited sparkplug as Kyle Rote took over the heroics to lead the Mustangs to a 20-7 victory over hitherto undefeated, untied Kentucky.

Rice trailing 15-0 mid way through the third period, staged its second successive uphill battle to topple Texas 17-15 on James Williams' field goal in the final 10 seconds of the game.

Burk Paces Win

Baylor coasted to its second straight title win at College Station with Adrian Burk tossing passes for a 21-0 margin over Texas A&M.

TCU, meanwhile, had to pull out all the stops in outscrambling a touchdown-mad Mississippi team 33-27 in a night game at Fort Worth, and Arkansas slid by Vanderbilt 7-6 at Nashville.

Randall Clay of Texas held to his individual scoring lead last week by scoring one touchdown and kicking one extra point for a total of 61 points, while Rice's Williams climbed into second place with five points against Texas to give him 37 for the season, one ahead of Arkansas' Don Logue.

Bobby Brown Tops State Honor Roll

DALLAS, Oct. 24 (U.P.)—A brilliant South Plains back who performed as well on the receiving end of enemy passes as he did on the chunking end of his own captured the top spot in the Dallas Morning News weekly roundup of schoolboy football stars today.

He was Bobby Brown of Lubbock, who intercepted four Amarillo passes and completed seven of nine for 108 yards as the undefeated, untied Westerners romped to a 47-7 win over the Sandies.

Brown, who also is quite a baseball player, pegged passes for three touchdowns in the rout that gave his team its first win over an Amarillo eleven since 1939.

Stellar Players Are Listed

Others making the week's honor roll included:

Wayne Wall, Texarkana back, who scored two touchdowns and plunged for two extra points in the Tigers' 21-7 win over Gladewater.

Wally Curry, Beaumont South Park back, who connected six out of nine times passing in the rain for 43 yards to spearhead the Greenies' to an upset 13-7 win over previously unbeaten, untied Marshall.

Blois Bridges, Grand Prairie back, who scored two touchdowns, one on a 63-yard jaunt, to pace the Gophers to an 18-0 win over Mineral Wells.

Ernest Winfrey, Henderson back, who caught one pass for 62 yards and a touchdown, hit Billy Leach with touchdown passes of 42 and 44 yards and kicked four extra points as the Lions remained unbeaten and untied by trouncing Tyler 37-0.

Garnet Reeves Is Honored

Garnet Reeves, Lubbock end, who recovered three fumbles, one of them for a touchdown, scored another six-pointer on the receiving end of an 18-yard pass and played a jam-up defensive game.

Dick Miller and Harold King, Cleburne, who teamed on touchdown passes of 42 and 33 yards as Cleburne beat Hillsboro 18-6.

Jack Gunlock, Breckenridge back, who scored both touchdowns, one on a 52-yard pass play, in the Bucks' 12-0 win over Brownwood.

LOOP OFFICERS NAMED

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 24. (AP) — The Gulf coast baseball league is a step closer to actual existence today. Five cities—Lake Charles, Crowley and Opelousas, La., and Galveston and Port Arthur, Tex., paid membership dues and elected temporary officers yesterday at a meeting here.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

Congratulations to Coach Pat Pattison and the entire Lubbock High school football squad for bringing home that glorious 47 to 7 victory over Amarillo. Like one or two or more of the players, we just wish that they had made it 50 points. As it was, the defeat will rankle in the breast of Amarillo players and public for a whole year. It gives them a chance to experience the humiliation and chagrin that Westerner supporters have felt all these years. And now that the Westerners have done it once, we expect them to keep right on. But before next season, they have a few games left in this one. Notably they are Lamesa, Odessa, Midland and Brownfield. Take 'em.

Followers of Texas Tech still are bewildered by the horrible showing the Red Raiders made Saturday. Possibly it was a letdown feeling after Baylor. Possibly it was that coupled with small respect for Arizona. Possibly, to face the truth, Tech doesn't have it this year. But one thing the game indicated; unless the Raiders brighten perceptibly between now and the games with Texas Western and Hardin-Simmons, Tech is in for a dismal conclusion. Abe Chanin, sports editor of The Daily Star at Tucson, has seen both teams in action against Arizona. After watching Tech Saturday, Abe said that the Raiders had a day of reckoning coming when they played Western and Simmons.

Lubbock hunters, not content to remain here until the Texas game seasons open, are availing themselves of opportunities to go elsewhere. Many hunters are converging on New Mexico for game and report that it's thick this year. Others are going to other states. Among the latter are Randolph Rampy, I. A. Stephens and Carl Maxey. They took off this past week in Maxey's private plane for South Dakota, where they will hunt pheasants in that state's lush fields. It's been a long time since we tasted that succulent bird, so we are filled with greeneyed envy. Which reminds us of a story.

Back in the New York college which we attended were excellent hunting opportunities. It was located in the foothills of the Adirondack mountains and both bear and deer were only a few short miles away. The duck season always was rich, as was the pheasant season. If you liked fishing, less than a half mile from the college was a fine brook trout stream. But this story concerns pheasants. Seems fraternity brothers of ours tramped the fields every day (we had to study too hard) looking for pheasants. Occasionally they came in with some and we ate. One fall, however, the hunting wasn't so good. Pheasants just weren't in evidence. The day the season ended, a group of us were standing in the library window. As we gazed out across the lawn, two splendid cock pheasants strolled carelessly through the brush. Across the fraternity house lawn they strutted. Up the driveway and past the house. And then they proudly disappeared into the fields and woods 100 yards away. The accompanying language from the house shall ever be omitted from the tale.

A letter from an irate Slaton reader follows: "After reading your article in this evening's Journal (Oct. 18) I feel that it's my duty as a supporter of the Slaton High school Tigers to let your in on a little secret. Slaton has one win and no loss to their credit in the conference race for District 4-AS. Therefore, they can not be counted out of the race until they are beaten (true). There is going to be a football game at Post on the 11th day of November 1949, and until that game is over I don't think you'll see any Post Vs Littlefield, Post Vs. Sudan or Post Vs any north half champion tickets going for sale. There is a chance that when those tickets are printed, they might have Slaton on them (true again).

"I suppose we fans of the Slaton Tigers aren't very intelligent people (who said dat?) according to your statement because we are not going to bet on the defending champions. If you think this isn't a sample of what the people of Slaton think about the treatment Slaton has received in your articles as well as the rest of the sports articles in your paper just print it (we are). P. S. No. 1 Wake up Mr. Kelly (still yawning from Saturday night) and wake the rest of the Avalanche-Journal staff up. There are about three or four times as many subscribers to your paper in Slaton as there are in Post. P. S. No. 2 Come to Post November 11, 1949 and see a MIRACLE!"

Since the reader signed his letter, we take pleasure in thus prominently displaying it. It was written Oct. 18 and had, we assure you, nothing to do with the decision to send a staff writer to Slaton to cover the game there Friday night. We have a good deal of respect for the Slaton Tiger football team, but we still insist that the old maxim that you put your money on the champion until he is beaten is a sound one. We may have implied that Slaton is out of the running, but such was not the intention. Outside of the mosquitoes at the baseball park, we like the city. And believe us, we'd be just as happy to see Slaton win the district as we would Post, O'Donnell, Tahoka or Seagraves. Perhaps we will be in Slaton Nov. 11. Look us up.

THE ROUNDUP: Tech's press box windows were as dirty as ever Saturday . . . Eural Ramsey showed that he is a coming Raider star and Walter Maloney turned in the kind of performance fans have been expecting to see for a long time . . . Jim Black pulled the understatement of the year Friday night when, with 47 seconds left, he observed that the Westerners stood a good chance of beating Amarillo! . . . Tech now has scored 108 points in seven games while allowing 123 . . . Tuffy Nabors was here scouting Tech again . . . Connecticut college beat Newport Naval 125-0 Saturday. Funny thing about it, Newport Naval was favored by 11 points before the game . . . Amarillo's Gold Sox have sold Ray Faust to Little Rock and have obtained Stan Surma back again.

Patton Breaks Kicking Mark

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24. (U.P.)—Big Cliff Patton, a pink-cheeked Texan with a boyish grin, was balanced deliciously on his right toe in the National Football league record book today.

The former Texas Christian lineman, now a guard on the NFL champion Philadelphia Eagles, kicked seven extra points yesterday to run his precision placement performance to 77 straight in 19 league games.

His seven points, coming as the Eagles walloped the Washington Redskins 49-14, blotted from the books the 12-year record of 72 straight established by automatic Jack Manders of the Chicago Bears in the years 1933-1937.

Last Miss In '47

Patton, now in his fourth year of NFL play, hasn't missed an extra point since Nov. 16, 1947, when End Nick Scollard of the Boston Yanks, blocked a placement after an Eagle touchdown.

Two weeks later the 25-year-old 240-pounder began to wing a methodical toe and for the remainder of that season, all of last season and in the Eagles five games this year made a mechanical extra point after every touchdown.

In addition to his kicking record, Patton converted seven points in as many tries in three playoff games. However, only points scored in regular season games are noted for the records.

The Big Texan, son of a guntotin' sheriff at Clyde, Texas, came to the Eagles with no fanfare in 1946 and became a kicker under the tutelage of Coaches Earle (Greasey) Neale and Charley Ewart, then backfield coach of the Birds.

Lose Point Kickers

By 1947, the Eagles were without placement specialists Augie Lio and Roy Zimmerman. Patton casually "allowed" one day that he had done a little kicking in college, and during his service football with a mechanized calvary unit.

Neale and Ewart took the big fellow, who had played only a total of 10 minutes during 1946 but who was averaging 55 minutes as an offensive and defensive guard in 1947, in tow.

They rid him of several faults, including the major one of lifting his head as he kicked. He was taught, in golf language, to keep his head down.

Team Given Credit

Patton kicked 22 of 24 attempts before he began his record run in 1947. He closed the season kicking.

In three seasons, he also kicked 11 field goals, including a 38-yarder last season which gave the Eagles their first league victory of all time over the Chicago Bears.

"Tommy Thompson made some remarkable saves in that spring," Patton said. "He gets that ball down in perfect position no matter how they come back. The line holds and the backs block. All I gotta do is swing my toe.

WOULD HAVE MADE THE DIFFERENCE — Ray Stone, Texas university end (89), failed to catch this pass behind the goal line at Austin because Oather Pugh (46), Rice end, knocked the ball into the air. Rice took the game, 17-15. (AP Wirephoto.)

McMurry To Bid For Third Conference Triumph Against Austin This Weekend

(By The Associated Press)

McMurray's rampaging Indians try for their third straight Texas conference victory this week against Ray Morrison's Austin college Kangaroos.

Brad Rowland paced McMurry to a 21-0 victory over Abilene Christian college last week and this game was doped as the last big barrier in the way of the Indians' path to a second straight title.

Austin won its first game of the season in a convincing manner, beating Southwestern Missouri Teachers, 33-0.

In other games last week, Howard Payne dumped Southwestern, 20-7, and Texas A&I knocked off Daniel Baker, 33-0.

This week, there is just one conference game scheduled. Howard Payne tackles Trinity of the Gulf coast conference; Southwestern meets independent East Texas Baptist and Texas A&I plays Sul Ross.

Abilene Christian is idle.

Brad Rowland Paces Grid Scoring Chase

NEW YORK, Oct. 24. (AP)—Brad Rowland, a halfback on the McMurry team of the Texas conference, today paced the nation's college football players in individual scoring with 78 points.

Rowland heads the list by virtue of having scored 13 touchdowns.

Second with 74 points is Bill Young, who has clicked for 10 touchdowns and 14 points after TD's for the Hillsdale (Mich.) midwest independent team.

Sectional leaders included Randall Clay of Texas with 61 points.

School Will Honor Coach

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Next Saturday will be Zuppke day at Champaign, when the University of Illinois honors one of the grandest guys who ever coached a football team . . . Incidentally it will be the 25th anniversary of the day when Red Grange took the ball six times in the first quarter against Michigan and scored four touchdowns . . . So what could be more appropriate than to repeat a few of "Zup's" sayings that still are applicable and are too good ever to be forgotten?

Mentor Is Quoted

"Football may be a brutal game, but brutes cannot play it . . . A fresh dub is better than a withered star (and they say the platoon system is a new idea.) . . . Neutrality is being afraid of one side and ashamed of the other . . . A team of eleven good tacklers is hard to beat; a team with too many gold footballs is apt to list . . . A football coach is responsible to an irresponsible public . . . All quitters are good losers . . . Too many backs run too fast and too long on one spot . . . Football still is a great kicking game. However, the kickers are in the stands at $3 per seat . . . We don't care how big or how strong opponents are, as long as they're human . . ." . . . There are many others, but don't forget Zup's definition of an all-American star—"A player who has weak opposition and a poet in the press box."

Bob Wyman, Wayne university guard, was somewhat puzzled when he came out of a scrimmage in the game against the Quantico Marines with a lacerated left hand . . . Bob couldn't figure it out until after the game, when a husky Marine guard came up and apologized: "You had your hand in my face," said the Marine, "and I thought I ought to do something about it—so I bit you."

Clubs Get Checks

Bert Bell, National Football league commissioner, sent $5,000 to each club last week as the first installment on what the league calls "distribution" income. It comes from such things as movie highlights of each week's games, sold in various cities, television of exhibition games in non-league towns, etc. The take this year will run about $100,000 . . . It takes three mineographed pages to explain to Wisconsin students just how their coupon books will enable them to see six home basketball games this winter . . . When Frank Gifford kicked a field goal for Southern California in its 16-10 defeat by California, it was the first three-pointer by a USC player since 1935 . . . See Zuppke's remarks above on kicking.

The National Baseabll congress is trying to line up junior chamber of commerce organizations as sponsors of district championship non-professional baseball tournaments . . . After carrying the ball 33 times against Iowa State, Kansas State Fullback Gerald Hackney explained: "I felt fine as long as I had my hands on the ball, but after I was downed I could hardly drag myself back to the huddle."

Luke Sewell Named Cincinnati Manager

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 24. (U.P.)—The Cincinnati Reds had a new manager today in dapper Luke Sewell, an old hand at teaching second division ball clubs pennant tricks.

Sewell, only man ever to lead the St. Louis Browns to a pennant, signed a two-year contract last night to pilot the Reds in 1950 and 1951. The good-looking 48-year-old former American league catcher succeeds Bucky Walters, who recently was dismissed after Cincinnati finished in seventh place.

Not only did Sewell have a new two-year contract today, but a heart-warming sendoff from club President Warren Giles as well.

"We know Luke as a well-educated, intelligent person with a fine background and successful experience," Giles declared. "He has an outstanding record as a major league coach, player and manager.

"He did almost a miraculous job with the St. Louis Browns and did a fine job as coach. He knows our ball club and we are confident he will do a great job."

SPECTATORS KILLED

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Oct. 24 (AP)—A careening race car killed its driver and 10 spectators yesterday during a 500-mile auto race at Rafaela.

Southern Gridders Have Poor Records

ATLANTA, Oct. 24. (INS)—Shed a tear for those former ring leaders of the gridiron syndicate—the Southeastern and Southern conferences.

As the '49 season goes into the stretch, neither of these old gentlemen of football can find a representative that might half do for national honors.

Saturday, the final blocks were thrown when the SEC's banner team, Kentucky, pulled a quick fade-out before the Southern Methodist onslaught, 20-7, and North Carolina, the Southern's last undefeated eleven, lost to LSU, 13-7.

The LSU win over the vaunted Tarheels did service to mix a few bright streaks of color into the Southeastern picture, but, at the same time, it completely wrecked the Southern tableau.

Fact is, the teams of the Piedmont country have just missed batting out a prodigious .000 in their major intersectional tilts this fall, with North Carolina's win over Georgia and Duke's trampling of Tennessee the only two saving factors.

In seven other big league clashes, the Southern's best have limped away through the back door.

The Southeastern has fared no better. LSU has accounted for both the top-notch intersectional wins, downing Rice and North Carolina.

Four of the SEC's eight intersectional losses came during the past weekend.

Vanderbilt was quieted by Arkansas, 7-6, while the Georgia Bulldogs, in a Friday night joust, were halted by underdog Miami, 13-9. Ole Miss lost out to Texas Christian, 33-27.

Virginia Is Undefeated

All this adds up to just one thing, Virginia, a non-conference aggregation sliding through a light schedule remains as the lone football group below the Mason-Dixon that doesn't have to blush a polite crimson when thrown with a mixed crowd.

Playing within the confines of their own league Saturday, Wake Forest finally managed to give evidence of the power predicted in pre-season forecasts.

After lying door-mat during their first four forays, the Deacs came to life and scalped the William and Mary Indians, 55-28.

Duke, celebrating homecoming and the inauguration of a new president, put the clamps to tiny Virginia Tech, 55-7. Maryland scattered the North Carolina State Wolfpack, 14-6.

In the top Southeastern conference game, Georgia Tech bounced back from a seven-point deficit to drub Florida, 43-14.

The Alabama gridders made a gala day of it for their ole alums as they bounded over Mississippi State, 35-6.

And Tennessee paddled through a "breather" and sunk Tennessee Tech, 36-6.

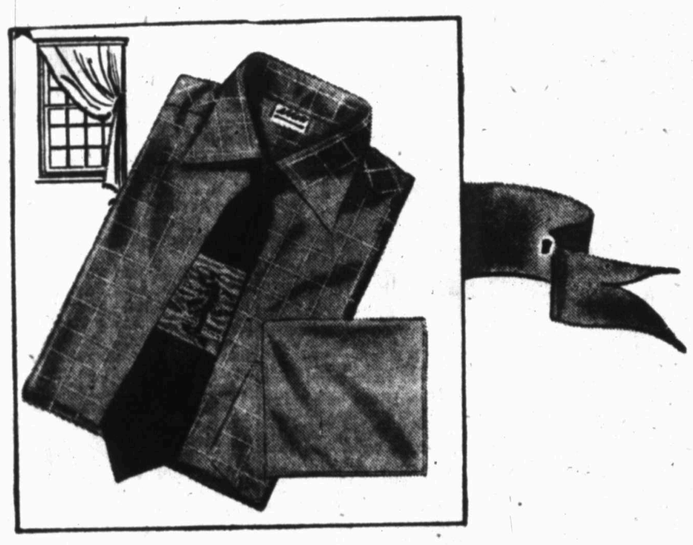

TAR HEEL EDITOR SAYS FIELD WATERED

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 24. (AP)—Coach Carl Snavely of North Carolina declined to comment tonight on reports that his Tar Heels were beaten by Louisiana State on a muddy football field when it had not rained in Baton Rouge in two days.

However, Sports Editor Billy Carmichael, III, of the Daily Tar Heel, UNC student newspaper, said the condition of the field was such that the visitors were forced to use mud cleats during the game which they lost to LSU last night, 13-7.

Carmichael said the turf in Tiger stadium was watered down Friday evening, wet down again yesterday morning and a third time yesterday afternoon with a fire hose turned on it for three hours. LSU officials, according to Carmichael, freely admitted the fact, but declared that it was a mistake.

GUNMAN SOUGHT IN ARIZONA

Hundreds Of Officers Press Search For Escaped Badman

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 24. (U.P.)—Hundreds of FBI agents, deputies and police searched today for notorious badman Jack Tatum in one of the biggest manhunts since the days of John Dillinger and "Pretty Boy" Floyd.

Authorities used planes, horses, and speedy motorcars in an attempt to track down the thick-lipped, tatooed gunman who escaped from the Marieopa county jail after a gun battle in which two other prisoners were slain by a crippled watchman and two others taken into custody before they could flee.

Roadblocks Thrown Up

Roadblocks were thrown up at the California and Nevada borders and all cars were stopped and searched.

Police feared, however, that Tatum, whose exploits as a bandit, burglar and jail breaker are almost legendary, had once more eluded pursuers and made his way into one of the bordering states.

There was evidence that he had been aided by someone outside the jail.

Tatum is a member of a three-man family gang that has terrorized the southwest repeatedly in the past with forays of gunmanship and banditry.

Big Search Underway

Despite the belief that he may have escaped over state lines, a big search for him was launched in the nearby Salt River valley which has been a refuge for outlaws since the two-gun days of the old wild west.

Sharpshooting FBI men, called int othe case because Tatum is wanted for transporting stolen cars across state lines, were prepared to shoot it out with Tatum as they did with Dillinger.

They doubted that he would give up without a fight and believed they probably would have to kill him.

Posses Are Ready

The search was the most widespread since officers tracked down Billy Ray Gilbert, another southwestern gunman, at a suburban auto court here last Feb. 27 and shot him in a hail of bullets.

The latest report on Tatum's route came from 81-year-old Mrs. Carmen Sainz who told in broken English that she found a man, whom she identified as the gunman, hiding yesterday in a shack behind her home at Tempe- Ariz. He apparently had spent the night in the lean-to.

As guards at the Nevada and California borders were redoubled, officials in those two states were prepared to join the hunt if it appeared that Tatum had slipped through into their areas.

Posses of horsemen were ready to forage through the hinterlands for the fugitive, who faces a possible 50 years in prison when recaptured.

The theory that Tatum had escaped over the borders was strengthened when his cold trail was picked up yesterday on the southeast outskirts of the city.

Wayland College Is Observing UN Week

PLAINVIEW, Oct. 24 (Special)—Observance of United Nations week was begun at Wayland college today with a chapel address by Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview, a member of the Texas Democratic Executive committee.

The pitiless spotlight of world publicity is turned on the general assembly and "world opinion is what keeps the members in line," said Mrs. Walker.

She said she shares the general dislike among Americans for Russian methods but that she found Andrei Vishinsky of Russia was the most convincing speaker she heard at meetings of the United Nations she attended.

Mrs. Walker, a graduate of Texas State College for Women and past president of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, discussed the organization, functions, history and future of United Nations.

"For a time United Nations seemed bogged down on problems in Korea, Palestine and the Balkans," she said. "However, a way out was found by special investigating commissions and large scale war has been averted."

She urged her audience of 500 Wayland students and faculty members to go "all out" in support of world peace.

She was introduced by Bobby Rine of Quanah, president of the International Relations club at Wayland.

Benson, Anderson And Howard Form Law Firm Here

Formation of a new law firm by a trio of Lubbock attorneys, W. D. Benson, jr., Hugh Anderson and Robert Howard, was announced today. The firm will be known as Benson, Anderson and Howard and will have offices in the Lubbock National Bank building.

All three men are widely known in Lubbock. Benson was reared here and attended Lubbock public schools and Texas Technological college before graduating from the University of Texas law school in 1929. He has practiced law here ever since, with the exception of a year in Albuquerque, N. M.

Anderson attended Texas Tech, 1926-30; taught school over the area and was admitted to the bar in 1932. From 1942-45, he served in the Army and served as assistant staff judge advocate to the commander of the Eighth Army in the Pacific.

Howard came to Lubbock in 1940 after graduating from the University of Texas Law school with highest honors. He practiced here a year before entering the Army, where he served five years, being separated as a major in 1946.

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

PRICES ARE SCRAMBLED

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Stock market prices were thoroughly scrambled today in a narrow range.

Gains were from fractions to around a point. Losses were largely fractional.

Trading was at the rate of 1,300,000 shares as compared with Friday's 1,290,000 shares.

Gold shares were generally higher with Homestake touching a new high with a gain of more than a point.

Gossip of possible changes in the price of U. S. gold from the present $35 a fine ounce, a return to payment of gold coins on demand for paper currency, or even of changes in the gold content of the dollar, all were being discussed — in the face of official denials. But despite these denial sof any change in the gold situation on the part of the U. S. gavernment, interest in gold mining shares continued as it has for many weeks.

Higher were Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, Sinclair Oil, Celotex, Gulf Oil, American Smelting, Alaska Juneau, Allied Chemical, Childs Co., Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Chrysler, International Harvester, and Philco.

Lower were Goodyear, J. I. Case, Douglas (after reaching a new high), National Distillers, Radio Corp., Phelps Dodge, International Nickel, American Cyanamid, Philip Morris, International Paper, Union Pacific, Texas Co., Eastern Air Lines, and Goodyear.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Cotton futures were steady in slow trading today. Most of the demand came through mills in the nearby deliveries, with New Orleans buying the new crop months which are selling at a discount to the old positions. Hedge selling was limited.

Heavy rains in parts of Central Texas overnight were expected to slow the harvest and lower the grades.

Cotton closed steady.

overcast was becoming higher in some areas, local observers said. However, no indication of a halt in intermittent rainshowers had been seen late this morning.

The heaviest rains appeared to be in the south portion of the South Plains area, with lighter rains to the northwest. The showers were scattered, varying even within different areas of towns.

At Abernathy Mrs. M. O. Hood said Mr. Hood had measured .49 inch on his rain gauge shortly before another brief rain started, bringing the total to an estimated .51 inch.

The Western Cotton Oil company at Littlefield reported total moisture at mid-morning at .44 inch as recorded by a rain gauge the company maintains.

Unable To Work

Riley W. Carlton, head of the Soil Conservation service work unit at Brownfield, reported that .72 inch of rain had fallen there up to mid-morning. He said the town was crowded with farm laborers who were unable to work in the wet fields.

"The sandy soil in this area will dry out quickly," he commented. This morning the cotton fibre was wet and farmers were hoping that a slight thinning of the high overcast meant an early end of the rain.

Gordon Houghton, weather observer at the Soil Conservation service office in Morton, said .36 inches had fallen over the weekend there, and this morning a light misty drizzle was still falling. "Farmers are anxious for it to stop," he added.

Overcast Is Lifting

Lamesa's rainfall total this morning was .93, with .55 inch having fallen in the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a. m., .03 inch since that time and .35 Saturday and early Sunday morning.

H. V. Smith of radio station KPET said it was misting and raining intermittently this morning, although the overcast appeared to be lifting.

Post has received 1.20 inches of rain in the past two days, said J. R. Durett of the Double-U Ranch company there. The area received .25 inch Sunday and .95 in the night and this morning.

The rain continued until 8:45 o'clock this morning in Post. The harvest was at a standstill.

.40 At Lorenzo

Rev. H. J. West, pastor of Lorenzo Baptist church, said his rain gauge measured .40 inch this morning.

At Crosbyton, the rainfall total this morning was 1.04 inches, said W. H. Curry, editor of the Crosbyton Review. A heavy overcast and intermittent drizzle still threatened the area at mid-morning.

Levelland had received a total of .45 inch, said Edgar Brasch of Brasch-Mitchell Hardware company, which has a rain gauge.

R. J. Klump, Muleshoe's city secretary, said the rain gauge had recorded .63 inch so far. It was drizzling late this morning.

Rainfall at Ozona, 85 miles south of San Angelo, has totaled 5.8 inches since Saturday.

Beneficial To Ranges

The rain was beneficial for ranges but halted cotton harvesting.

Other rainfalls in the San Angelo area included Bronte 3.2; Blackwell 2.3; Eden 3.5; Mertzen 3.1; Sonora 1.53, and Rocksprings 2 inches.

The South Concho river at Christoval, 18 miles south of San Angelo, was running over the highway bridge. Highways between Ozona and Del Rio were closed Sunday.

A fall of 1.41 inches stopped cotton picking at Big Spring.

Local Fans Clamor For Odessa Ducats

Lubbock football fans made an invasion-size assault on the athletic department office at Lubbock Senior High school this morning in an effort to reserve tickets for the District 3-AA grid clash or the Westerners and the Odessa Broncos Friday afternoon, Nov. 11, at Odessa.

Phone calls started pouring into the office at 8:30 o'clock this morning and continued in a steady stream until noon. Long lines of would-be ticket purchasers formed at the windows of the athletic office during the morning, with as many as four students being kept busy taking reservations.

Although no exact count was availabue at noon, Business Manager E. J. Lowrey reported that he was certain the Lubbock ticket quota was over-subscribed, Lowery expects to get only about 3,000 adult tickets from Odessa, and holders will be given priority. The tickets have not actually arrived, Lowrey said, and only reservations have been taken.

Truman Speech

crowd as Mr. Truman shook hands with Russia's Andrei Y. Vishinsky upon his arrival with Secretary of State Acheson at the blue and white draped rostrum at the dead end of East 42nd street on the East river.

Standing bareheaded in the autumn breeze, he addressed the cheering crowd here and millions vio radio, television and short wave broadcasts.

Control Is Objective

It was his first foreign policy declaration since his Sept. 23 announcement: "We have evidence that within recent weeks an atomic explosion occurred in the U.S.S.R." The President declared:

"Ever since the first atomic weapon was developed, a major objective of United States policy has been a system of international control of atomic energy that would assure effective prohibition of atomic weapons, and at the same time would promote the peaceful use of atomic energy by all nations."

Mr. Truman spoke at the laying of the cornerstone of the secretariat building of permanent United Nations headquarters on UN's fourth anniversary.

The United States has offered to surrender its bombs under the Russian-opposed, but general assembly-approved "Baruch plan" providing rigid UN inspections and controls to assure against illegal bomb building.

Digs At Russia

The President did not mention Russia by name, but indirectly challenged the Soviet government to offer a "better and more effective plan."

He said the United States is now, "and will remain, ready to do its full share" to meet the atomic weapon's threat to peace.

In another obvious dig at the Soviet orbit Mr. Truman also sharply criticized disregard of human rights which he said were "indispensable to political, economic and social progress." He said UN members know that "disregard of human rights is the beginning of tyranny, and, too often, the beginning of war."

He spoke just two days after the general assembly voted agreement with western charges that Russian satellites Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary are suppressing human rights and freedoms. The questions first were raised after trials of Josef Cardinal Mindzenty in Budapest and other religious leaders in Bulgaria.

Baruch Plan Backed

"Respect for human rights, promotion of economic development, and a system for control of weapons are requisites to the kind of world we seek," Mr. Truman said. "We can not solve these problems overnight, but we must keep everlastingly working at them in order to reach our goal.

"No single nation can always have its own way, for these are human problems, and the solution of human problems is to be found in negotiation and mutual adjustment."

The general assembly approved, 40 to 6, Nov. 4, 1948, the United States-endorsed plan drafted by Bernard M. Baruch and others of the UN atomic energy committee.

"This is a good plan," the President declared. "It is a plan that can be effective in accomplishing its purpose. It is the only plan so far developed that would meet the technical requirements of control, that would make prohibition of atomic weapons effective, and at the same time promote the peaceful development of atomic energy on a cooperative basis.

"We support this plan and will continue to support it unless and until a better and more effective plan is put forward."

This was a new notice that the United States will continue building up its stockpile of atomic bombs until controls are guaranteed. The Russians have insisted on outlawing the bomb as a preliminary to discussion of controls.

Meanwhile, the Atomic Energy commission went ahead with a $300,000,000 expansion program involving increased facilities at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Hanford, Wash., plants. Mr. Truman told a news conference Thursday the plans were under consideration long before the Russians produced their explosion.

The President also laid heavy emphasis today on the importance to peace of:

1. Technical assistance and capital investment in underdeveloped areas where "at least half of mankind lives in dire poverty."

This was a new notice that the United States will continue building up its stockpile of atomic bombs until controls are guaranteed. The Russians have insisted on outlawing the bomb as a preliminary to discussion of controls.

He promised to ask Congress in January to "give high priority to proposals which will make possible additional technical assistance and capital investment" in such areas.

2. Attaining basic civil and political rights "for men and women everywhere—without regard to race, language or religion."

He further expressed the hope that eventually "every nation on earth will be a fully qualified and loyal member" of the United Nations.

contrary, an upward trend in all foodstuffs will become noticeable shortly and be more pronounced toward the year's end."

Roasted coffee prices have gone up four times in recent weeks in the wholesale market, reflecting the sharp advance in the price of the coffee bean. Last February a pound of green coffee beans brought 23 cents a pound, but now is around 38 cents. Future prices for December delivery are at an all-time high on the New York coffee and sugar exchange.

Roasters are now asking as much as 60 cents a pound for their popular brands. Retailers say their prices will soon go to 70 cents, and my the end of the year may hit $1.

The situation is blamed both on man's growing taste for it, and on nature's lack of cooperation the last two years. World consumption is now greater than production, and we are fast drinking up the surplus Brazil stored in its fat years.

There was no evidence of any door or window being forced in the house, nor was anything stolen, Richardson said.

In a radio broadcast, the detective inspector said Mrs. Forstein's right shoulder "falls out of place without physical effort," adding "she needs hospitalization to have this reset and this occurs about three times a year."

The police official also said the woman "is known to suffer from a very high nervous strain" and that she may use the names Dorothy or Dora Cooper.

Since the hunt for Mrs. Forstein was started, police have investigated nearly 100 tips from persons who reported they had seen her. One tip came from a Camden, N. Shapiro said the woman was wearing a rust-colored coat draped over her shoulders.

The committee will not give money to persons aided, but will pay bills for food or clothing or other items provided.

Persons knowing of children who need help under the program may call Norris, 2-0969; Baggett, 2-5531, or the Jaycee office, 6861, it was announced today.

The committee is seeking to locate a food store which will aid in the program, either in providing food for cost or other arrangement.

to groups who let their wishes be known.

"The most powerful force in the world today is not the atom bomb but public opinion," he declared, "and unless the majority of the citizens of this state make their wishes known, the legislators will go right on listening to those small groups who at least take a stand."

Jaycees Commended

Senator Morris also stipulated "it is false economy not to meet the present needs of our eleemosynary institutions. Those institutions are in such deplorable condition that Texas will face a national scandal within a year unless something is done in the near future," he warned.

He commended the Jaycees for their participation in promoting higher salaries for school teachers and for improvements of the Texas prison system.

"I know of no organization with more viltality of potentiality than this group of young Texans," he said.

In a lighter vein of thought, the senator apologized for his speech inasmuch "as it should be made to an older group of men. You young men take such an active part in sponsoring good government that you don't need as much speech-making," he added.

Plane Delayed

Morris, who was introduced by Homer Wright, chairman of the Jaycee Americanism committee, arrived at the luncheon at 12:30 p. m. because of delay to his plane trip caused by inclement weather.

Bill Tinney presented man-of-the-month awards to L. B. Smith and W. Thelburt Miller for their work on the agricultural committee in handling the first bale of cotton event here during August.

Jack Blankenship, who was program chairman, introduced Eddie Lennox of the Adair Music company, who played an Organo, an instrument that looks like a piano but plays organ music.

The publication contains eight pages printed on slick paper.

Frank Bernson gave the invocation and R. S. Wilkinson presided.

"We never have any trouble with him," Taylor said. "He is quiet, doesn't mix with anyone and minds his own business—a lone wolf. He's never told me anything of his family background, but I think he was born in Albany. He never told me why he took to drink and I never asked him."

Sullivan earns his keep as a baker in the jail kitchen. At night he is locked up in a cell along with other inmates and his routine is exactly the same as that of any man serving a sentence.

Taylor said no one has ever tried too hard to persuade Sullivan to leave.

"We've asked him several times, but it's just something he doesn't talk about. After all things have changed pretty much on the outside in 28 years. What would he do?"

The attorney said Flores would testify that he had management, control, operation and lease of Rancho Allegro and that the defendant had no control over it as alleged by the deceased.

"Charges made against the defendant were without foundation and the remarks were such as to arouse and disturb his state of mind," Taylor told the court.

Taylor said several other absent witnesses would testify that at no time "did lewd and lascivious women ply their trade at Rancho Allegro while they were there."

Mason in his last broadcast charged loose women plied their trade at the night spot.

SURVEYING STARTED ON PROJECT

Lions Organization Planning To Build City Near Chicago

BY BERT GOLDRATH
NEA Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 — Twenty-seven miles south of Chicago's Loop, a new city is about to be born.

Surveying has already begun on "Liondom," a multi-million-dollar project of the International Association of Lions Clubs. Three to four hundred acres of now-vacant prairie will soon sprout forth homes, shops, office buildings, a parking lot and even a cemetery.

Silver-haired Melvin Jones founder and secretary-general of the organization, says the project "isn't any vision or 'dream city.' It got out of the dream stage long ago and was always more than a gleam in the architect's eye. It's going up—and soon."

Lions international headquarters will remain in downtown Chicago, but the new site will include space for additional offices and storage facilities, a post office and library, motels for visitors, a hotel with banquet rooms, hospitals, schools, colleges, churches, a printing plant and an old people's home. The envisioned cemetery will be know nas the "Garden of Memories."

Expanson So Needed

The project grew out of a need for expansion of present headquarters and to provide for member Lions visiting the Chicago area. The Lions' nerve center now employs more than 225 persons, many of whom are expected to make their homes in Liondom.

Jones has announced that 1000 of the 7454 clubs in 26 countries are raising $1,000 each to help build the model town.

Realizing that America's population is growing at the rate of a million a year, the directors of Lions International conclude that it would be up to employers and groups like their own to provide housing for employes and members.

Low-Cost Housing

Low-cost housing is one of the principal goals. Homes in the $10,000-class are under discussion, although no specific plans for homes have so far been adopted, William Bird, publicity director of the Lions, says that building will probably start next year. The Lions will hold their 1950 convention in Chicago and the directors intend to have something concrete to show conventioneers, he says.

Already more than $500,000 has been spent for land, and more may be bought. Additional millions will be required for actual building. Negotiations for the property so far acquired were carried on in secret so the price of the land would not skyrocket.

At least $38,000 was voluntarily contributed soon after announcement of the Liondom project.

The tract for the new city lies along the Illinois Central suburban tracks, with a switchback and a station at which all I. C. trains stop. The Loop is 47 minutes away by rail. For commuters, a 400-car parking lot by the station will provide the finishing touch.

One Killed, 16 Injured In Area Accidents

Woman Victim In Car Crash

(Special To The Journal)

HOBBS, Oct. 24 — Mrs. Inez Richard, 38, Brownfield restaurant owner, died about 7 a. m. Sunday, in Hobbs General hospital from injuries received in an auto accident near here late Saturday.

Injured critically was J. D. Perkins, 38, of Seagraves. Less seriously injured were Arthur D. Barton, 38, and Miss Estelle Adair, 25, both of Brownfield.

Traffic Toll Climbs

(Two minor Sunday mishaps, one in Lubbock and another on the Plainview highway near Lubbock, brought the total number of persons injured in the area over the weekend to 16.)

The accident occurred about 11 p. m. Saturday on the Denver City highway about three miles north of here. Investigating state police officers said a 1947 DeSoto convertible being driven north by Perkins, with Mrs. Richard, Barton and Miss Adair as passengers, and a 1947 Buick sedan being driven south by J. W. Findley of Hobbs, sideswiped each other.

Perkins' car left the highway and rolled over five times before coming to rest. Officers said all four occupants were thrown clear but probably not until the car had almost stopped rolling.

Suffers Severe Injuries

Investigating officers said hospital attendants had told them that Perkins' injuries included a broken arm, possible broken shoulder, fractured pelvis, and internal injuries.

Barton was described as suffering from a broken left arm and head injuries. Miss Adair suffered lacerations, bruises, and possible internal injuries. Hospital officials said Barton probably would be released today.

Five persons were riding in the car with Findley at the time of the accident. None were injured, police said.

State police did not learn of the accident until about 11:30 when it was reported by a passing motorist upon arrival in Hobbs. Two ambulances were dispatched to the scene by the policemen, and the victims were rushed to the hospital here.

Mrs. Richard died from internal injuries caused by a crushed chest, according to hospital attendants. State police said they still were investigating details of the accident.

The body of Mrs. Richard was returned to Brownfield Sunday by a Brownfield Funeral home ambulance.

Services will be today at 3 p. m., in the First Baptist church at Brownfield, with the Rev. A. A. Bryan, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Brownfield cemetery.

Mrs. Richard had been a resi-

Five Airmen Dead In Midland Crash

MIDLAND, Oct. 24. (AP)—Five men were killed yesterday when an air force bombers smashed into brushy ranch country and exploded.

The two-engine plane—a B-26—was demolished and small bits of wreckage and bodies scattered over a mile square area.

Victims Identified

Lt. Col. Charles J. Lutz, 34, El Paso, commanding officer 2602 tow target squadron, the pilot.

Capt. Thomas Hillmann, 39, Shreveport, La.

Capt. James R. Butler, El Paso, co-pilot.

Capt. Billy H. Miller, 27, Fort Worth.

Sgt. Robert E. Lee, 21, Biloxi, Miss.

The plane was flying from Biggs, its home field, to Barksdale air force base, Shreveport. It was on course when it crashed at 1:15 p. m. (CST).

Several Heard Crash

Midland Police Chief Jack Ellington said bits of identification of the five crewmen were found in the crash area. He said it was of a personal nature—a billfold, a dog tag—indicating no one parachuted from the plane before it hit.

Several people heard the crash, though no one saw it. Skies in this West Texas area were heavily overcast yesterday.

Officers at Biggs field said all the information they had received indicated the plane's engines quit suddenly and it nosed into the ground without giving the crew time to jump.

Chicago Mayor Plugs Home-Town Industry

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. (AP)—The first direct long distance telephone line between the United States and Alaska was opened recently. Mayor Martin H. Kennelly of Chicago spoke with Gov. Ernest Gruening of Alaska, at Juneau, beginning with this message:

"Hello, Governor. It's good to hear your voice; this equipment was built right here in Chicago."

Joan Crawford Is Tireless As Years Slip By In Films

BY BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24 (AP) — How does she do it?

It has been quite a parcel of years since Lucille Lesueur from San Antonio became Joan Crawford and the nation's symbol of flaming youth. She outranks her sister stars by more years of stardom than I would care to remind her and even nears the record of Ronald Colman for longevity of film service.

JOAN

Bounce Of A Starlet

Yet she has the bounce of a starlet. She attacks each film job with rare enthusiasm and is often on the night club circuit and hence in the gossip columns. How does she dot it?

"Oh, I don't go to the night clubs often," she said defensively on the set of "The Victim." "I go in spurts. Recently I had three dates with Bill O'Connor, two with Mel Dinelli and a couule with Cesar Romero, who is an old friend. Now I'll stay home for a while."

Uh-hum, she also has had a dinner date with Brian Donlevy, who is the latest swain to be linked with her by the gossipers. Out here a date is a romance, three an engagement.

Never Grows Weary

A common sight on a Crawford set is Joan surrounded by a dozen people, each serving a different function. Doesn't she ever grow weary of this routine?

"Heavens, no," she answered. "This is the most fascinating business in the world. I love everything about it. How could I ever get weary of something so invigorating?

"I'll tell you when I get weary.

Cafe Society Figure Shot

HOUSTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—A youthful New York cafe society figure, Allen Thomas Sturges, lived today—with a bullet in his brain.

Homicide Detectives J. D. Irvin and Frank L. Murray said that Sturges attempted suicide in the bedroom of a pretty airline employe.

Hospital attendants said his condition was critical. A surgeon said the bullet was fired through the right temple, struck the opposite side of the skull and glanced back into the brain.

Is Believed Paralyzed

The surgeon said it was found inadvisable to remove the bullet. He said he believed the wound had paralyzed the 26-year-old man.

Police said Sturges was shot Saturday at 5 p. m. (CST). Four hours before this the New York Journal-American called the Associated Press in New York and reported it had been tipped that Sturges had tried suicide. The newspaper would not say where the tip came from.

Detectives here said Brownsville, Tex., officers were seeking Sturges on two felony warrants. At Brownsville, Sheriff Boynton Fleming said that Sturges was charged with removing a mortgaged automobile from Cameron county and with check swindling.

Fined In California

Court records at Los Angeles showed that Allen T. Sturges was fined $500 in 1945 after pleading guilty to robbing the home of Actor Bruce Cabot of $1,500 in jewenry on March 15 of that year. He was placed on five years probation and ordered to leave California.

Sturges was found slumped in a chair in the bedroom when Miss Marion Yturria, 23, and two other young women came home. Officers said he apparently broke into the house in her absence. Miss Yturria said she met Sturges only last Tuesday.

Police found three notes in Stunrges' pocket. One was addressed to Miss Yturria. It expressed endearments and regrets. A second named his mother as Mrs. A. T. Sturges of New York, told where he was born and said he was "known by all newspapers in New York."

The third note purported to be a will, leaving all of Sturges' pos-

NEW YORK, Oct. 24—Twenty years ago this week the stock market crashed in a tragic ending to an era of prosperity.

The Coolidge bull market died a violent death that shocked and stunned this nation and financial capitals throughout the world.

There is no standard by which to measure the selling panic which crept into Wall street in cat-like silence and ripped the financial district wide open.

Plunged By Billions

Described in generalities, the market value of the nation's productive machinery plunged, in a matter of minutes, by billions of dollars. The decline lasted for three long heart-breaking years.

In human terms the losses could be measured in dollars and cents: in the bankruptcy record, the destruction of lifetime savings, in foreclosed morigages, in pawn shop tickets. It could be measured, too, in the desperate, haggard faces of the new poor, in dead dreams, in the pathetic bewilderment of little people and big people all over the country.

The prelude to panic was enough to lull the most astute financial men. Government and business leaders painted the future in rosy colors.

Just Wanted To Buy

Everybody knew the market was going up and up. There were a few people who disagreed, but they were viewed with the same suspicion as an ardent supporter of the Communist party is today.

People begged, borrowed and stole money to buy stocks. Not good stocks in particular, or even bad stocks. Just stocks. The total of brokers' loans, a figure which indicates the amount of stock bought on credit, soared to an astronomical figure.

Stock prices advanced until many were simply absurd in relation to the ability of a given company to earn money and pay dividends.

The first intimations that something was wrong came in the week which ended Oct. 19, 1929. That was a bad week for the market—but not too bad. The bull market has paused before. It was nothing serious.

Then Panic Struck

The next week panic struck. The bottom literally dropped out of the market. For a while some stocks could not be sold at any price. The ticker tape, pounding out oblivion for speculators all over the world, ran hours beyond the market's close in order to catch up with an avalanche of transactions. Nearly 13,000,000 shares of stock changed hands, a record that stood for nearly a week.

The city's big bankers got together, finally emerged with an announcement which certainly a materpiece of understatement. They found, it seems, "a little distress selling."

The market rallied for a while but on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 28 and 29, the climax was reached.

Missing Plane Hunt Delayed

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (U.P.)—Rain early today continued to hamper an aerial search for a small plane missing since Friday night when its two Houston, Texas, fliers took off from Tulsa, Okla.

No sign of the missing craft was reported yesterday by a few civil air patrol planes which defied low-hanging clouds to wing low over the course of the Houston-bound ship, feared to have crashed near Tyler, Texas.

Ready For Search

Aboard the plane were Orval Switzer, the pilot, and J. H. Harrington. Authorities weren't certain whether a third person made the flight.

More than 60 search planes were ready to join the hunt when the weather cleared, Maj. Howard A. Smith of the CAP air rescue service said. A 40-mile wide strip from Houston to the Oklahoma border would be covered.

In addition to 40 CAP aircraft, 18 air national guard planes from Hensley field here would patrol the region, concentrating on the Tyler area where a thunderstorm and heavy rains were reported Friday night.

Guatemala Considers Asking Loan Of U. S.

GUATEMALA, Guatemala, Oct. 24 (AP) — Guatemala, hard hit this month by storms and floods, was reported today to be considering asking the United States for a loan of $50,000,000 for relief.

Red Cross officials have said approximately 500 persons lost their lives. Earlier estimates by government officials placed the total as high as 4,000.

THE ANSWERS

LEON ELKINS, route 1, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Elkins, first grade student: "I like pets so that I can play with them. I like best to play with dogs. I think it's nice to take care of a pet. I like dogs because they will bark when they see a stranger coming."

TAGS HIS OWN CAR

MACON, Ga. (U.P.)—Traffic officer Roland Banville wrote a parking ticket and left it on a new car. Called to pay off in police court, he sheepishly explained that he hadn't recognized his own automobile.

JIMMY THOMAS, 415 Wolfforth St., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Thomas, sixth grade: "I like dogs best, because mine keeps me at home. I don't like to go away from home and leave him there, so I stay home. He also keeps other dogs and strangers out of our yard."

PATSY JO JONES, 216 Hub Homes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Jones; sixth grade: "I like dogs, because I like to play with them. Family Is Finally Together On Name

DETROIT, Oct. 24. (U.P.) — The seven Fantaro children finally have the same last name.

Their father, a native of Italy, gave his five sons and two daughters differently spelled last names when he registered their births.

Juan Fantoro, 34, was the first to appear in probate court. He had his name changed to Fantaro, and the others agreed on that spelling.

Their names had been Fantore, Fornaro, Fanilator, Fantora, Fernetti, and Fernetto.

LEVELLAND, Oct. 24. (Special) —Graveside services for Mrs. Leo Nichols, 28, victim of an Oct. 14 shooting at her farm home near Whiteface, will be held in Muleshoe at 2 p. m. Tuesday.

The husband of the dead woman, meanwhile remained in county jail here in lieu of $20,000 bond set following a charge of attempted murder filed shortly after the shooting.

E. G. Pharr, assistant district attorney, said in Lubbock that "new charges would be filed against Nichols in Morton," probably today.

Mrs. Nichols died in Phillips-Dupre hospital here Saturday of a gunshot wound in her chest.

WHERE'S AMARILLO?

Congratulations, muchisimos congratulations, to all the Lubbock Westerners, all the Westerner coaches, to all the local fans—and special congratulations to the Amarillo Sandies. In keeping the Westerner score under the 50 mark they accomplished one of the major tasks of Texas schoolboy football in this good year of 1949.

So much for the game and the victory.

Now, congratulations to the hundreds of drivers who made the Lubbock-Amarillo round trip without a serious mishap. In fact, the only accident of the day involving local people was between downtown Amarillo and the football stadium and while it was bad enough, it fortunately wasn't fatal.

Congratulations are due, too, to the Lubbock invaders of Amarillo.

Our under-cover operatives report that the Lubbock folk, while naturally jubilant in victory, were well behaved and made fine ambassadors nearly all the way up and down the line. That's swell and certainly in keeping with Lubbock's fine football team—a really great team that for the first time in years has raised this city's old time football prestige back to a new high.

There's still a rough and rocky road stretching ahead of the Westerners in their own district and in the playoffs, but thus far everything has been peaches and cream. We hope it will continue that way and if Amarilo wins in its district—which is no cinch—this may be the year when we'll beat 'em twice, but good!

But come what may now, Friday night made 1949 an eminently successful year for the Lubbock Westerners and their countless well-wishers.

See you at the Cotton Bowl in late December—maybe!

Come Sunday afternoon, Nov. 6, Mr. Dietrich is going to put on a dog exhibition for the Boy Scouts of Post and he's gathering together a fine, fine group of especially trained dogs—getting 'em from all over this part of the country.

Thus far, however. Mr. Dietrich hasn't been able to line up a Seeing Eye dog for his exhibition and has asked us to try to find one available for his event.

Any South Plainsman who has a Seeing Eye dog that can be shown at Post at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday, Nov. 6, is asked to write Mr. Dietrich, or call him at Post, No. 150.

WHEN Lyndon Johnson was running for the U. S. Senate in 1948, the principal argument used against him by his opponents was that "he'll be a New Deal Rubber Stamp." They loved to recall Mr. Johnson's personal friendship with the late President Roosevelt and his support in the House of Representatives of early New Deal measures.

Those who know Mr. Johnson knew he'd never be a "rubber stamp," a blind follower of anybody, or of any ism, wizzem, or skizzem. But the anti-Johnson boys beat the drums long and loud on that theme.

Recently, as all now know, Mr. Truman turned on all the power at his command to ram one Leland Olds down the gullets of the Senate as the result of an earlier political trade the President made with leftwingers in New York.

It so happened that Lyndon Johnson, now Texas' junior senator, was the key man in the Olds case. Knowing Olds' record as power commissioner, knowing his leftwing ideologies and his radical intimates, Senator Johnson picked up the cudgels not only against Olds, but against the President, the most powerful politicians in the Democratic party, as well.

Senator Johnson was hammered from all sides. He was threatened by the political gangsters of the party's left wing. He was bitterly attacked by every pink commentator and columnist. But he stood his ground and, when the chips were down, other sound Democrats in the Senate lined up with him to relegate Leftist Olds to the sidelines.

Senator Johnson's speech in the Senate was a masterpiece of logic and of restraint. It turned many Democrats away from the dictates of the President and from the party bosses. It was the stand of an American citizen against the enemies of freedom and free enterprise.

THE other day we got a letter from Senator Johnson.

While the letter was purely personal, there's a part of it we think should be passed along, because it is a good statement by a high public official—the kind of statement which should be made, and stuck to, by all our high public officials. We hope Senator Johnson will not object to our making public this part of his letter, which reads:

"As you can understand, I have been under very heavy personal and political pressure here throughout (the Olds case). A freshman Senator is not exactly in the best position . . . when the President and the chairman of his party 'take him on.' So, naturally, I was pleased by the number of Democratic Senators who, after listening to the record, voted conscientiously on this (to refuse to confirm the Olds reappointment.)

"I have no desire, or intent, of being known as a Democrat who capitalizes on bucking the party, but I do intend to maintain my independence. I believe the people of Texas want an independent Senator—and that is what I intend to be."

That's the sort of language most Texans understand best. That's the sort of creed to which most Texans subscribe.

Most Texans don't go in for subservience, themselves. And they don't want it from their elected representatives.

BY DREW PEARSON: ANALYSIS CLAIMS MORE FARMERS WOULD BE HELPED BY PROGRAM

Manufacturers Lend Support To Brannan Farm Plan

WASHINGTON.—The last pressure group you would ever expect to support President Truman's fair deal is the National Association of Manufacturers. In fact, if the powerful NAM says anything good about the White House, it's headline news. However, believe it or not, but the NAM is now sending its members a confidential analysis of the most controversial feature of the fair deal—the Brannan farm plan—putting it in a favorable light.

PEARSON

Without hysteria, the NAM has prepared a detailed, factual analysis of the Brannan plan, which is neither for nor against. But the sum total of these facts is surprisingly pro-Brannan.

Though not yet off the press, preview copies have been sent to several NAM members along with a letter explaining: "Many, even though they recognize the importance of the Brannan plan, nevertheless found it too abstruse for ready understanding. To help remedy this, the NAM research department has done a painstaking analysis of the plans, objectives, operations, etc."

Here then is what the NAM says about the Brannan plan:

"Qualified persons have pointed to several apparent advantages in using the Brannan plan to support farm income. They emphasize its directness and simplicity of method, fairness of the period 1939 to 1948 as a starting point for an income base or 'yardstick,' encouragement to continued high level production of nutritional foods, logical classification of storable and nonstorable farm products, 'orderly marketing' provisions, financial coverage of farm groups hitherto inadequately provided for in farm programs, and its importance to national security.

Brannan Weaknesses

"On the other hand, several weaknesses in the plan are apparent. These shortcomings mainly concern the objective of trying to narrow the gap between farm and nonfarm income, the price distortions present in the period of years selected as the starting point for an income base or 'yardstick,' the unsoundness of attempting to project these distortions into the future, the discretionary power to alter prices dictated by the pricing formulas of the plan, the lack of built-in flexibility in the pricing formulas, and the practicability of again resorting to subsidies, production controls, marketing controls and other techniques of manipulation designed to implement the support of farm income. . . ."

Then the NAM proceeds to answer some of these criticisms.

"From the standpoint of those who believe that agricultural prices must be maintained at near wartime levels in order to keep agriculture healthy," the NAM diagnosis continues, "the choice of the base period 1939 to 1948 is a logical one. Considered from this viewpoint, it must be pointed out that only with the price relationships existing in these years were farmers as a group in a position to lift their social and financial standards from the depths to which they fell following World War 1.

"It was the level of income from 1939 to 1948 that enabled farmers to correct many of the maladjustments that were said to be depressing agriculture in the preceding twenty years. With this income, mortgage debt was reduced, housing and living conditions improved, more machinery and efficiency in farming operations were introduced, the number of tenant farmers were substantially reduced, schools, roads and other transportation facilities serving farmers were expanded and improved."

THE NAM report also points out that past price supports have chiefly aided a few basic and storable commodities. The Brannan plan, on the other hand, would help a much broader group of farmers.

It would support, the NAM continues, "income of the producers of most of the nonstorable commodities such as meat, dairy and poultry products and fruits and vegetables. Thus, this plan would extend financial assistance in times of stress to a large and important segment of the agricultural industry that has so far probably not been adequately provided for in the basic farm programs of the country. In this respect, the Brannan plan would probably be more closely integrated with the entire farm problem than has been the case with the farm programs in past years."

The NAM analysis also lauds the idea of continued high-level production "without resorting to production controls or a program of 'scarcity production'." Hence, the "greatest number of farm products would be comparatively free of production and marketing controls.

American People Need Food

"Even though the prices of some of the perishables might fall below their price support standard," observes the NAM, "there is some merit to the provision that allows high level production to continue in order that consumers may have a plentiful supply of such highly nutritional foods as dairy products, meat, fruits, eggs, etc. The advantage lies in a probable stimulation of needed improvements in the diets of consumers."

The NAM report also points out that "the Brannan plan would likely encourage and perhaps expand the operation of several farm enterprises important from the standpoint of national security . . . It should be noted that if national security is to be an important part in the farm program of this country, the Brannan plan would, if operated as designed, provide a more integrated program for directing the use of this country's soil and farm resources, than has any previous farm program even in times of war."

On the $64 question—cost of the Brannan plan—the NAM is cautious, but believes the cost "would approximate 3½ to 4½ billion dollars exclusive of administrative costs . . .

"Although the Brannan plan so far does not contain a defined limit of cost within which it would operate," says the surprising NAM report, "Congress could, through appropriations, exercise a continuing control over the expenditures made under this, or any other program for supporting farm prices and income."

Courage Of Judge Medina And Navy War Hero Draws Praise

MR. and Mrs. United States! Duty is a majestic word—harder than diamonds—and more rigidly fixed than the North Star. . . . Duty can single out a man on a Federal Bench—or on the bridge of a stricken ship . . . This is a study of both and of two great Americans, Judge Harold R. Medina of the United States District Court and Capt. John S. Crommelin of the United States Navy.

WINCHELL

Though under the heaviest barrage of perosnal abuse and mistreatment, Judge Medina defeated the Moscow propagandists by giving the Communist defendants a fair trial . . . While the Communist lawyers, working in relays, tried to goad him into a mistrial (through temper or exhaustion)—they did not succeed in separating him from his objective, protection of every right of the ACCUSED.

Judge Medina deserves a civilian Congressional Medal of Honor for standing the cunning insult of enemies beyond human endurance.

P. S.: After he sentences the eleven American Reds Friday morning, we wish His Honor would please instruct the U. S. Marshals to march the eleven past Miss Liberty on their way to jail.

The Old Gal is entitled to a chuckle, too.

Every fighting service has men of equal courage and devotion. And as I reported in a recent Collier's, the "Blueprint for Disaster" is that they are fighting each other . . . This fight cannot be settled by court martial . . . It took a Jap warhead torpedo to blast Capt. Crommelin from his bridge. But it couldn't stop him from continuing the fight from the water.

Capt. Crommelin, who fought for free speech, is entitled to at least as much of it as Paul Robeson.

If, under the Constitution Capt. Crommelin is entitled to a jury of his peers, then the only men qualified to try him are wearers of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Whether or not Capt. Crommelin is mistaken in his ideas, his integrity is beyond question . . . He has offered more than his life for his country. . . . He has offered the four stripes on his battle jacket—and not even the Commander-in-Chief has the right to twist battle ribbons into a gag for a war hero.

NATIVE Communism has suffered a decisive defeat, but it would be folly to consider the guilty verdict as the party's epitaph . . . Democracy emerged triumphant, but the war continues. . . Its battlefields can be labor unions, social groups or your mind.

It cannot be stressed often enough that Communism is more than a political party. It is a cancerous idea—and you can't put an idea behind bars any more than you can destroy a man's thoughts by closing a door . . . We reduced German cities to rubble without shattering the Nazi idea. It still clings to the minds of most Germans.

Canada outlawed the Communist Party in 1940, but Canadian Communists continued to operate behind the misleading name: The Labor-Progressive Party . . . Five years after the Reds' party was banned in Canada, the front pages on this side of the border exploded with the revelation that the most prominent members of it were engaged in atomic espionage for Stalin & Co.

LIKE all well-disciplined armies, native Communists are prepared for retreat. It's simply a military maneuver. . . In his books, "Problems of Leninism," author Stalin put it this way: "Tactics may have to be changed many times in a period of a given stage of the revolution, according to the ebb and flow, rise and fall of the revolution. We must maneuver with the reserve calculated to effect a correct retreat when the enemy is strong, when the retreat is inevitable, when the disadvantaves of engaging in a battle forced upon us by the enemy are obvious, when retreat is the only way under the given alignment of forces to ward off a blow from the vanguard and keep the reserve intact."

Incidentally, this column is gratified to see that the U. S. Govt's evidence against the eleven convicted Communists included the Stalin book mentioned above. . . A long time ago, the col'm sounded a warning that this book was Stalin's "Mein Kampf," and we frequently quoted from it in an effort to enlighten the American people.

The only surprising factor about the conviction of the U. S. Reds is that it took the government so long to put them on trial, because native Communists never made a secret of their violent aims . . . William Z. Foster, the U. S. Red chief (who escaped trial by pleading illness but who is well enough to attend the B'way shows), brazenly admitted this in his book, "Toward a Soviet America": "In the early stages of the revolution, even before the seizure of power, the workers will organize Red guards. Under the dictatorship of the proletariat, all capitalist parties (Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, Progressives, etc.) will be liquidated, the Communist Party alone functioning."

The book was published in 1932!

You'd Be Tired Too!

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

IF you want your compliments to a woman to be appreciated and remembered you've got to do better than just "say something nice."

Here, then, are a few safe rules to give your compliments a little added zip.

One. Steer away from general compliments. "How nice you look" may make a women feel pleased for a minute or two — but she won't remember that kind of compliment an hour later, unless she is unused to ever hearing anything nice. Much bettel to tell her the color of her dress is perfect on her (a fact she can store away and act on again) or anything else that is specific enough to mean something.

MILLETT

Two. Pay a compliment at an unexpected moment. For instance, complimenting a woman the minute you see her is all right. But she'll expect that compliment as her due. Make her wait a while to get it—and she'll be a lot more pleased.

Three. Don't pay the same woman the same compliment over and over. Find something new now and then to praise her for.

KEEP A STRAIGHT FACE

FOUR. Don't try to make a joke of a compliment. That's all right between men—but a compliment from a man is no joke to a woman. It's one of the things she lives on.

Five. Phrase the compliment in such a way she doesn't have to deny it or go into explanations. You see what a compliment like: "What wonderful pie. Did you make it yourself?" can lead to. It can even lead to your hostess having to explain that she bought the pie at a delicatessen.

Six. Don't figure on buying your way with compliments. You can overdo 'em, just like anything else.

Seven. Remember that a woman never appreciates a compliment so much as when she's got a cold, is dog-tired after a hard day's work, or is competing with a more glamorous woman. In times like those ANY compliment is welcome.

Guy Lombardo Keeps At Top Of Business By Pleasing Public

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—We paid a call on Mr. Guy Lombardo the other night, in his accustomed spot at the Roosevelt hotel—the first since 1931, when he was playing a set of dances at an educational emporium I frequented. We found him and his music largely unchanged, which makes some sort of argument of a political or ideological nature, I dunno which.

RUARK

Mr. Lombardo has grossed something between 25 and 30 millions since 1924, playing a type of music that has earned him nothing but sneers from the esoteric members of his craft, and nothing but money from the vast cross-section of America which still worship him as the high priest of dance music.

The worship has never let up, despite catcalls of "corn" and the interminable jokes about him and his brothers. Lombardo has kept an eye sharply on a middle stratum of audience, and saw a steady succession of frantically popular musicians go bust.

Still Watches Customers

Lombardo still watches his customers as closely as a football scout looks over a rival club. Through his observation of the hoppers and the leapers and the jiggers and arm jigglers and swoopers, he can tell to a thousandth of a beat whether or not his band is still providing the great middle class with what is desires for festivity.

About the only people who get fired from Lombardo's band are arrangers. If, come down with the desire to emulate Artie Shaw, an arranger suddenly starts tricking up the music, out he goes. The band members, otherwise, seem content, eight of his crew have been with him 25 years. The orchestra is a three-way partnership between Guy and his Brothers Lebert and Carmen, but the musicians average from $15 to $20,000 a year.

Carmen, who used to handle most of the vocals, is the only member who ever got real sensitive about being kidded. For years burlesquers of his quavery singing style aped him by allowing themselves to be shaken violently by two other singers, thereby achieving Carmen's quivery tones. He sings seldom, now, and confines himself largely to the flute.

LOMBARDO'S scheme has been pretty simple, over the years. He recognized early that the majority of Americans, apart from youngsters and specialists, are non-expert on a dance floor. He has therefore attempted to please a vast segment of dancers who are confused and embarrassed by a straight jolt of jive; a too-torturous rumba; an over-vehement polka or an unleavened helping of be-bop, tango or waltz.

It is possible to do a technical rumba to Lombardo's rumba; it is also possible to perform the fox-trot or the waltz to the same tune. In watching the crowded floor the other night, I never saw anybody leave it until the complete set had been finished. This is impossible in most places, since it would take a Fred Astaire to work through a complete serving of hot jazz, rumba, samba and the other stuff that is peddled piecemeal in the average city night club.

The people at the jammed tables had the kind of faces you see in paintings by Thomas Benton and Grant Wood. For the most part they seemed eager and happy and reasonably prosperous. They would, at home, form the backbone of the community. They seemed to be enjoying themselves in a modified sort of way, doing modified steps to modified tunes.

Most of the audience seemed to consider Lombardo as a special friend, he signed a steady flow of menus as he sat at his table. Nice old ladies and nice young ladies and sedate gentlement stopped by to say hello and pat his shoulder. Lombardo beamed at all. He seemed happy to be there, too.

This happiness with the help and with the customers, while unpleasing to the long-hairs and the faddists, has reaped a great many things for the Canadian. He has such sidelines as a $200,000 restaurant; an interest in an airline; heavy oil holdings; a music publishing outfit and a recording and transcription business to keep him in the expensive speedboats he fancies.

There is some sort of sermon in the man, somewhere. The prolonged success may be due to the fact that he plays all requests for anniversaries and birthdays, but it is possible that his endurance results from a refusal to attempt to remodel his market to his own whim. It might be something for our loftier leaders to remember.

Solution of Saturday's Puzzle

Today's Journal Editorial

IT'S STILL HAMBURGER!

One George L. Wensel, a self-described "consultant to restaurateurs," has been trying for several years to persuade operators of all eating places to charge 10 cents for a cup of coffee. He hasn't gotten to first base and apparently has given that effort up as a hopeless job.

But he came up with a new idea when he addressed a meeting of restaurant men in Atlanta, Ga., the other day. He wants them to "glorify" the hamburger, give it a "fancy" name—and charge 55 cents for it.

The Editor is one among the millions who share the opinion that there is no better eating on occasions than a good hamburger. It is, by universal acknowledgment, the most typically American and the most popular of all sandwiches.

But no more effective way could be imagined to knock it from that position than to hike the already swollen price to patrons who are pretty well in agreement that, in most places, "burgers" are too darn high already. And no new name could be fancy enough to disguise the fact that it still would be a hamburger, not worth 55 cents to the average patron.

One Killed, 16 Are Injured In South Plains Accidents

dent of Brownfield since 1942. She owned and operated a cafe on the Tahoka highway in the eastern part of town. Her husband died about two years ago.

Only survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Ozelle Tucker of Brownfield, and two grandchildren.

TWO PERSONS HURT IN LUBBOCK MISHAPS

A seven-year-old boy and a Latin-American laborer were hurt in mishaps on the local traffic scene Sunday.

Both, the boy, Ronald Hensley, of the Avinger addition, and Pedro Gonzales, were treated for minor lacerations of the face at hospitals here.

The Hensley boy was injured when cars driven by E. M. McAdams, 39, of the Avenger addition, and Derwood Hays, 16, of 809 Ave. M, collided at Fifteenth and Ave. E at 10:50 a.m. McAdams was given a ticket for failure to grant right of way, Hays for defective brakes.

Gonzales, highway patrolmen said, apparently drove his 1934 Ford into the back of a Fresh Bread company truck parked beside the Plainview highway four miles north of Lubbock about 4 p.m.

The driver was not in the truck at the time of the accident, it was reported, and major damage was caused only to the front of the car.

The two mishaps brought the total number of persons injured in the area over the weekend to 16.

A recapitulation of the injured list shows seven persons hurt, six of them Tech students, in an accident near Amarillo late Friday; two more hurt in a headon crash one mile northwest of Posey the same night; two pedestrians injured in Lubbock, also Friday; two women hurt in a collision at Main and Ave. J late Saturday; and the Hensley boy and Gonzales, injured Sunday.

Only three of the wreck victims, all Tech students, remained in hospitals. They were:

Rueben McGilvary, 27, of Hereford, fractured pelvis and lacerations.

DUMAS WOMAN HURT IN HIGHWAY ACCIDENT

SOUTHLAND, Oct. 24 (Special)—A multiple-car accident near here about noon Sunday resulted in serious injury to only one person.

Mrs. W. A. Cox, 43, of Dumas, was admitted to Lubbock Memorial hospital Sunday afternoon, after suffering a broken right leg at the knee in the mishap. Her husband, 49, was treated for a broken nose, and her children, Mancy, 11, and Barto, 8, escaped with only bruises and shock. Only Mrs. Cox was hospitalized and her condition was not considered serious.

The highway patrol said the accident happened about six miles southeast of here when Mrs. Cox, driving a 1939 Buick sedan north, tried to pass a 1949 GMC truck being driven by Lgnacio Molino, 34, of Corpus Christi.

Travelling north ahead of the truck was a 1942 Ford army staff car occupied by two soldiers, and ahead of it was an Army ambulance towing an unoccupied jeep.

Cutting back into the right lane ahead of the truck, the car driven by Mrs. Cox struck the left rear of the staff car, knocking it off the road to the right, Mrs. Cox's car swerving off the road to the left.

Molino's truck then plowed into the rear of the jeep, which was bent almost in two by the impact.

Only the Cox family was injured. A passing motorist took them to Post where they were given emergency treatment. They were then brought to Lubbock by a Mason Funeral home ambulance.

The highway patrol said the Army vehicles were on the way to Clovis, and were not connected with the Lubbock Air Force base.

FLAMINGOS ARE SMART

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Flamingos, famed pink birds of Florida, know how to take care of themselves in a hurricane. When the great winds come, the birds take to dry land, form themselves into a wedge, with the V pointing into the wind. The point shifts as the direction of the wind changes.

Man Is Shot

sessions to his mother and directing his body be cremated.

Elmer M. Olson, the family attorney in New York City, said Sturges' mother is Mrs. E. N. Taveniere, widow of a former New York banker. Olson said she is seriously ill at her home in New Jersey.

He said the family is not wealthy, but was well known during Taveniere's lifetime.

Sturges was much seen about New York night clubs before coming to Texas.

He was married twice, first to Judith T. Scott of Lynchburg, Va., and then to Anna Marie Saportas, daughter of Mrs. Arion Tiffany Saportas, known in New York society and theatrical circles.

Brownsville officers said Sturges came there about three months ago and had been working in the aluminum welding department of a company which is building a synthetic gasoline plant at Port Brownsville.

Panic Struck

Stocks of the country's leading industries collapsed. Sales on "Black Tuesday" totaled more than 16,000,000 shares. The ticker tape ran hours after the close of the market. Grim brokers and their staffs worked far into the night.

Fortunes Melted Away

That was the day the insiders, the big money men, the millionaires, saw their fortunes melt away. The little fellows had already been sold out. The big fellows lasted a few days longer.

An era of prosperity, and of speculation, greed and manipulation ended in the nightmare of those October days. That October, too, was the curtain-raiser for a new set of values, a new kind of thinking, not in Wall street alone but in every city and town in the land.

The stock market of today has come a long way from the market of 1929. The past 20 years have been a period of purification, a process often bitterly resisted but never stopped.

The stock exchange itself has been reorganized from top to bottom—after its president went to jail for using money that didn't belong to him. Some old-timers claim that stock trading, like a reformed criminal, is not quite so interesting as it used to be—and they may be right. But the interest of the public is protected now as it never was before.

Sense Of Responsibility

Wall street is still a whipping boy when "the interests" have to be damned. The financial district, though, has a sense of responsibility which did not exist in 1929.

The Securities & Exchange commission, created by Congress, is the watchdog of the securities business. The SEC has a keen eye and a long probing finger. It is respected as well as feared. For a long while it was hated.

The 1929 crash left a scar on the nation's investors which is still visible. A generation has grown up with a profound distrust for the operations of Wall street.

The stock exchange is engaged now in a campaign to persuade people that it's a good idea to buy stocks for investment—not for speculation.

MILK RUN FOR FIREMEN

STARKSVILLE, Miss. (U.P.)—The fire department answered an alarm at Mississippi State College dairy barn but found they were just in for a milk run. The students had decided that a silo was too old for further use and had set it on fire, forgetting to notify the fire fighters.

Dolls With Boxing Trunks And Black Eyes Just One Of New Ideas For Christmas Toys

By JACK HAAR
NEA Staff Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 24 — Michelle Ricks, three, was somewhat surprised when she saw the boy-dolls dressed in boxing trunks and gym shoes.

But the buyers at the Merchandise Mart, where Michelle was getting a sneak preview of what's likely to be under the Christmas tree this year, weren't surprised at all.

There is a certain time, it seems, when boys like dolls. Not ones like a new model with nylon hair tht can be set in different hairdos, which fascinated Michelle. But masculine dolls.

That is what inspired the boxing doll, one of the thousands of new items which turned the Mart into a vast toyland for buyers. Along with trunks and gym shoes, the doll has big, detachable boxing gloves and will retail for $5.95. Black eyes are optional, and are produced with paint, not by socking the doll in the face.

Greatest Year Seen

As orders pile up, some wholesalers are predicting the greatest year ever in the toy business.

"Things are almost too good," groans Herbert Sherman, manufacturer of toy racers and airplanes. "Right now my factory is 175,000 orders behind, and we'll have to go some to make that up before Christmas buying starts."

Prices will be comparable with last year and the merchandise will be of superior quality, wholesalers claim. An expected increase in business makes it possible, they say. The kiddie population this year is at an all time high.

The most widespread trend this year is a Western motif in toys, stimulated by the popularity of such characters as Hopalong Cassidy, Roy Rogers, and Gene Autry. About 40 per cent of boys' clothes will have a cowboy touch.

Toys Are Realistic

The realistic trend is as strong as ever. To supplement the doll that actually wets, a manufacturer is marketing a plastic "stepon" can where the little mother can dispose of the wet diapers. It will cost $1.95.

Another realistic toy is a frankfurter wagon just like the one the kids see at the beach. It comes complete with everything but an edible hot dog.

Tops in realism, s always, are the electric trains. This year they range from a basic set that costs $15.95 to a startling electronic railroad that markets for $199.50.

A new accessory is a cattle car which unloads seven cows on a platform and returns to the same spot to pick them up. This interesting but pointless operation will cost father $14.95.

STRIKE IS STARTED

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 24 (U.P.)—A 24-hour strike of 100,000 meat workers began just after midnight today in protest against lay-offs in the industry.

SHINER: Michelle Ricks was surprised, but not the buyers.

Many Americans Find Button Collecting Is Interesting Hobby; Groups Organize

WATKINS GLEN, N. Y., Oct. 24 (U.P.)—There used to be a game children played with buttons, but nowadays grownups are collecting 'em.

Take for example Mrs. Charles Quirk of Watkins Glen. She's got the button bug. She inherited it, by marriage. And now, besides a husband, Mrs. Quirk has buttons—hundreds of them.

For the person who thinks a button is just something to hold a coat together, Mrs. Quirk's enthusiasm is a trifle hard to explain. But ever since she inherited the button collection of her late mother-in-law, she has found plenty of other button collectors to share her enthusiasm.

Every now and then Mrs. Quirk and her fellow button collectors meet for a convention to compare buttons. They have a state and national organization, and periodicals and books are published for the pleasure and edification of the button bugs.

Collectors Convene

According to Mrs. Quirk, a button collectors' convention at Rochester recently revealed that the most valuable button in her collection is a large disc called "The Children's Circus." A circus scene, showing a child performing on a trapeze, is finely etched into the metal of the button. In the background is a gallery of cherubic faces, done in fine detail.

Among the storybook buttons in Mrs. Quirk's collection are many depicting fables, myths, Biblical tales, historic events and famous people. One represents the old Testament story of Eliezer at the well.

"The Sentinel at Caracow," a button dating from about 1880, shows the figure of a trumpeter standing on a parapet. It symbolizes a story which goes something like this:

During the Tartar invasion of Poland, a trumpeter was playing a melody when he was shot in the throat by a Tartar arrow. From that day on, the melody was played in exactly the same way, ending upon the same note that marked the death of the Polish warrior.

Depicts Pain

Another button appears to have been the forerunner of modern advertising featuring an imaginary character known as "Peter Pain." On the button is a dwarf hard at work with a chisel on the face of an unfortunate victim. The button, which is quite commonly owned by collectors, is known as the "Imp of Pain."

The avid button collector, Mrs. Quirk said, is not easily kidded by modern copies of old buttons.

"The common everyday plastics are called 'goofies' by the collectors," she said.

And a collector would rather lose his favorite button than commit the error of mistaking black glass for true jet.

"Jet," according to Mrs. Quirk, "is easy to identify. We know that jet is a vegetable matter. We scrape a little from the back of a button and, if it burns, we know it's jet."

THREE SPECIAL ELECTIONS SET

Opinion On Congress' Record May Be Shown November 8th

By JACK BELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Two House races and a Senate contest may provide some inkling next month of how the people feel about the record of the 81st Congress.

The three special elections all will be held Nov. 8.

Republicans generally concede that GOP Senator John Foster Dulles is facing an uphill battle against former Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman. They are running to fill the unexpired term of Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat who resigned.

Woman Is Favored

Lehman said here yesterday after a call on President Truman that he and the President have "definitely concluded" he is going to win. He said the President had offered to make a campaign speech for him, but that this would not be necessary.

In another New York race, a woman Democrat, Mrs. Edna F. Kelly is favored to win the tenth district Congress seat vacated by the death of Democrat Andrew L. Somers.

This Brooklyn area is heavily Democratic. Republican George H. Fankuchen is given only an outside chance to win, despite the presence of American Labor party and Liberal party candidates in the race. The latter pair might be expected to cut the Democratic vote.

A special House election in the fifth California district may furnish some idea of what west coast voters think about national issues.

Senate Race Eyed

Despite the fact that they have held the district for about 40 years, Republicans say they are none too sure of electing a party member to take the place of Republican Rep. Richard J. Welch, who died.

Welch had won both Democratic and Republican nominations since 1926, so there has been no real general election battle there in 23 years.

Republican Lloyd Cosgrove, a lawyer, is being opposed by Democrat John F. Shelley, an American Federation of Labor official, on a ballot that does not carry party designations. Charles R. Garry, who ran on the Henry A. Wallace Progressive party ticket last year, is a third entry in the race.

The New York senatorial race result may have a widespread effect on the 1950 battle for control of Congress.

Lehman has endorsed most of what President Truman calls his "fair dael" program. The administration intends to make that program the main issue next year, if it can.

Dulles, on the other hand, has been attacking what he calls the centralization of government in Washington, a theme that is likely to be popular with Republicans throughout the country if he should win next month.

Attendance At State Fair Exceeds Record

DALLAS, Oct. 24. (AP)—The state fair of Texas reached its goal of two million attendance and then some.

Despite showers, 97,886 persons went to the fair on its final day yesterday to boost attendance to 2,047,540, a new record. This was 182,213 over last year's figure.

A Denton housewife, Mrs. Chester E. Lovelady, was the two-millionth visitor.

"Oh," she said when Fair President R. L. Thornton handed her passes to fair entertainment, "this is the first time anything like this ever happened to me."

Escapees From Jail Captured In Kansas

HORTON, Kas., Oct. 24 (AP) — Nathaniel Richard Johnson, 25, of San Antonio, Tex., and Lindreth Du Puis, 26, Topeka, Kas., were captured by officers at a farm house near here last night.

The two, accompanied by four other prisoners, escaped from the Topeka city jail last Wednesday.

Johnson was under a five year sentence for burglary.

Sister Of Hollywood Star Married Sunday

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 24. (INS)—Linda Darlnell's 21-year-old sister, Monte, was married early Sunday in Phoenix, Ariz., to Dr. Daniel D. Wilson, Burbank obstetrician.

Her famous actress-sister was Monte's matron of honor, and Dr. H. L. Lapham was best man.

Linda's husband, Pev Marley, ace Hollywood cameraman, and Dr. Lapham's wife were the witnesses.

Dr. C. J. Barnhill officiated at the simple rites.

Monte, who has been a star track rider in national rodeo events, recently recovered from serious injuries suffered several months ago. At the time, she took a bad fall in a rodeo arena when she attempted to ride Roman style two horses through a flaming hoop.

Hawaiian Dock Strike To End

HONOLULU, Oct. 24. (AP)—Hawaii's striking CIO stevedores will go back to work tomorrow and Wednesday in five of the islands' six ports. They started the territory's most crippling labor tieup May 1.

An agreement covering all ports except tiny Mahukona was signed yesterday afternoon—176th day of the strike whose known losses start at $100,000,000. The memorandum was signed by officials of all but one of Hawaii's seven stevedoring firms and the international longshoremen's and warehousemen's union.

Contract Extended

The agreement covers fringe issues which had blocked return to work since Oct. 6 when the 2,000 ILWU stevedores were granted an immediate pay boost of 14 cents an hour with seven cents more March 1. They struck to raise their $1.40 hourly wage by 32 cents.

Longshoremen refused, however, to reopen the docks until side issues involving non-stevedoring workers in ports outside of Honolulu had been settled. Under yesterday's agreement they will go back at the five ports without waiting for a settlement covering Mahukona's 23 ILWU members.

The memorandum provides the agreed wage increases, extension of contract to June 15, 1951, and no discrimination against the strikers.

Same As Recommendation

ILWU regional director Jack Hall hailed the settlement as "a great victory for all unions in Hawaii" and a "great stride" toward parity with mainland west coast longshoremen. West coast base pay is $1.82 an hour.

A Hawaii employers council statement said it was "the same settlement basis recommended on June 28 by the governor's emergency board and accepted then by the companies, but rejected by the ILWU."

A 14-cent hike was proposed by Gov. Ingram M. Stainback's factfinders but there was no suggestion for an additional raise in return for an extended contract.

The six firms quickly informed Stainback of the signing yesterday and asked him to turn back their firms. They were seized under an act passed by a special session of the territory legislature Aug. 6. Under it the government set up its own stevedoring operations in an attempt to open Hawaii's ocean lifelines.

SCOUT PROBLEMS

ST. JAMES, Minn. (U.P.) — Boy scouts got to jumping up and down in one of their weekly sessions in a room upstairs over the public library here. They jumped so hard that a large section of plaster fell from the library ceiling. The only book damaged was "Problems of Child Delinquency."

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

When you buy Barcentrate, you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not pay for any printed diet or for vitamins to fortify you against weakness while on a starvation diet. You need never know a hungry moment while taking this preparation. Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice recipe for weight reduction.

Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it.

Lost 56 pounds

Here is what Mrs. L. J. Bryant, P. O. Box 56, Whitewright, Texas, wrote us:

"I want to tell you what Barcentrate has done for me. I weighed 248 pounds when I started taking it. I now weigh 212.

"I have taken my dress size down from size 50 to 44 and never felt better in my life and everybody tells me how much nicer I look than I did.

"I am still taking Barcentrate as I want to get my weight down to 165 or 170 pounds."
