DECLARE MARTIAL LAW AT SHERMAN

Central and South Texas Areas Flooded by Heavy Rains

SIX INCHES OF RAIN FALLS IN MEXIA SECTION

Streams Leave Banks at Temple Inundating Farms

CLOUDBURSTS REPORTED AT MART AND MARLIN

Brazos River Expected to Reach Flood Stage Soon

By The Associated Press

Just recovering from tornadoes that took close to 80 lives, sections of Central and South Texas Saturday night were battling flood waters that resulted from storms that in one instance was again classified as a tornado.

The heaviest rain since 1921, when 100 were drowned in flood waters of the Little river, fell in the vicinity of Temple, causing streams to leave their banks and damage farm lands and halt highway traffic.

GOODLAND, Kan., May 10. (AP)—Snow began to fall here tonight after 12 hours of rain. A cold northeast wind was blowing, the temperature was near freezing and there was danger of serious frost damage if the sky cleared. Heavy snow was reported west of here in Colorado.

Near Mexia the heaviest fall in seven years was recorded. Six inches fell in that section, forcing streams beyond their banks and washing out bridges and destroying railroad trackage.

The tornado struck in the hill country 30 miles north of Austin, killing one man and injuring five other persons and doing some property damage.

Cloudbursts at Mart and Marlin, near Waco, caused streams in that section to leave their banks and flood lowlands and damage highways. Seven inches of rain fell at Mart, causing sections of that city to be flooded.

The fall at Marlin measured six inches. Very little rain fell in Waco, but the Brazos river there was ex-

Red Cross Director Declares More Funds Needed for Storm Victims In Navarro and Hill County Area

CENSUS REPORT GIVES HOUSTON TOTAL 290,811

HOUSTON, May 10. (AP)—The population of Houston was announced today by the district supervisor of the census as 290,811. The census of 1920 showed the population as 138,276. This indicates a percentage increase of 110 per cent.

Littlefield Grows

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, May 10.—The population of Littlefield has been officially announced as 3,218. The last census showed Littlefield to be a small village. The growth of the town in the past five years has been phenomenal.

Cleveland Has 895,997

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 10. (UP)—The population of Cleveland today was tentatively set by government census supervisors at 895,997.

On the basis of the tentative figure, this city's rate of increase over the 1920 tabulation would be about 12 per cent.

Population Columbus, Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 10—The population of Columbus is 295,735, an increase of 48,704 since the 1920 census, complete unofficial figures announced today by the local census bureau, revealed. The CORSICANA, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Capt. Albert Evans, national director of American Red Cross work, who has established headquarters for relief work in the Navarro and Hill county areas swept Tuesday by tornadoes, said today that the original estimate of $150,000 needed for Texas sufferers was too low and that it would approximate at least $200,000.

He said Governor Moody would be asked to make another appeal to the people of the state.

All sufferers have been given temporary aid, clothing and food, he reported.

According to Evans' figures, 20 persons died in the tornado in Hill county, 24 were sent to hospitals and 32 were treated for injuries, a total of 56 injured. Sixty-one farm buildings in Hill county were demolished and 51 damaged.

In Navarro county 22 were killed, 62 were sent to hospitals and 52 received treatment. A total of 114 were injured. In Frost, 67 homes were demolished and near there, 32 farm houses, with a total of 276 families in that county suffered losses from the tornado.

NINE PERSONS HURT TERRELL

Two Automobiles Crash in Head-on Collision

TERRELL, Texas, May 10. (UP)—Nine persons were injured, six seriously in a head-on automobile collision six miles west of here this afternoon.

Those hurt were: Clifford Cosby, Dallas, severe cuts on head and arm; Mrs. Lillie Cosby, his wife, severe cuts and internal injuries; Earl Eugene Cosby, 2, broken hip, cuts and bruises; Joe Hill, Dallas, broken hip; Mrs. Elsie Hill, double fracture of the lower jaw and internal injuries; Naomi Jean Hill, 3, broken leg; Hansford Elliott, minor cuts and bruises.

The car driven by Cosby was going east and met the west bound car when the latter attempted to pass a wagon.

Ill War Veteran, Son of Wichitan, Shoots Self Fatally New Orleans Asks Father to Care for His Dog

NEW ORLEANS, May 10. (AP)—Standing before a mirror in his room at the Roosevelt hotel here today, Fred H. Reese, a former drug salesman, killed himself by firing a bullet into his brain.

A letter found in the room with the address, "2306 Jasper street, Wichita Falls, Texas," led to the belief that Reese was a Texas man.

An open Bible lay on the bed in the room where the man took his life and among several notes he left was one asking "dad and Harry" to "take care of my dog."

Reese was 36 years of age.

Relatives Reside Here

T. E. Reese Sr., the father, and three brothers, T. E. Jr., L. B., and H. H. Reese, all residing at 2306 Jasper street, survive Fred H. Reese whose body was found in a hotel room at New Orleans, Saturday, according to a press dispatch to the Times.

Mr. Reese, according to friends, had been in ill health for several years and had spent much time recently with relatives here, although he had called Dallas his home. His most recent visit here ended about a month ago after he spent about six weeks with relatives.

He was a veteran of the world war and it was to disabilities contracted in service that his subsequent ill health was attributed, according to friends.

The dog to which a note found near him referred is "Jiggs" and has been cared for here by the father, by whom it was given to the son.

Members of the family had not completed funeral arrangements late Saturday.

C-C DRIVE ADDS 770 WICHITANS TO CENSUS LIST

More than 1,200 names were given to the census department during the past week by the chamber of commerce in the final drive to make the enumeration here complete. Of that number 770 names were not on the list and 25 cents was paid for each name. Indications show that Wichita Falls will remain the largest city in Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma John Boswell, in charge of the committee assisting the census takers, said.

The final report will probably be released by Thomas L. Ball, district supervisor, early next week, Mr. Boswell said. A large number of the names that were brought in on the last drive were those of transients who had not been enumerated in any city. Some were names of school children, whose parents thought they had been counted in the schools.

The drive officially ended Saturday night, although very few names came in during the last two days. Names will be accepted at the census office, however, until the office at Washington D. C., asks for the preliminary report, Mr. Boswell stated.

Crushed By Auto

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 10. (UP)—His chest crushed against a post when his sister-in-law backed an automobile into him, Hurbey Hite, 19, died here this afternoon. He was adjusting the brakes when the relative, Mrs. Jack Hite, engaged the gears in reverse.

MOODY SIGNS PROCLAMATION DECLARING MARTIAL LAW IN SHERMAN RESULT OF RIOTING

DALLAS, May 10. (AP)—Gov. Dan Moody said at 10:45 p. m. that he had signed the proclamation declaring a state of martial law in Sherman. He said Col. L. E. McGee would remain in command.

Additional troops would not be ordered there unless needed," the executive added.

"They will remain in Sherman as long as they are needed," the executive said.

He said the proclamation was issued upon representations made to him by substantial citizens of Sherman that martial law was needed to clear up mob disorders.

The document proclaiming martial law termed the death of George Hughes, 41-year-old negro, in the burning of the Sherman courthouse, an act of "murder and arson." Stripped of legal verbiage, the proclamation was as follows:

"A mob formed in Grayson county yesterday and made attempt to take one indicted for a felony, and in their efforts destroyed the orderly proceedings of a regularly and legally constituted district court. When the sheriff resisted the attempts, members of the mob committed the offenses of murder and arson by setting fire to the courthouse and destroying the life of the prisoner.

"The mob then engaged in an outburst of vandalism and acts constituting arson; officers and members of the national guard were illegally assaulted.

"Reputable citizens and officers of Sherman, including Judge B. M. Carter, have reported to me that the mob threatened to form again to the further danger to lives of citizens and endangering the safety of citizens, and have advised that a declaration of martial law is essential to the preservation of law

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—"Hi say, is this the governor of Texas?"

Thus came the voice of a correspondent of the London Daily Mail, 5,000 miles away who was calling Gov. Dan Moody to ascertain particulars of the riot at Sherman, Texas. The call was received by Moody at 5 a. m. today.

After querying the governor about what was going on, the correspondent asked: "Well, well! Is this a common occurrence in Texas?"

Assured by the governor that it was not, the correspondent hung up with "thanks and cheerio."

FRESH REPORTS CHARGES HEARD AT CONFERENCE

Two More Bishops May Face Attack at Meeting

CANNON TO BE ACCUSED OF MARGINAL TRADING

Investigation Scheduled to Begin Monday at Dallas

DALLAS, May 10. (AP)—Fresh reports of charges to be preferred against bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, were heard today at the quadrennial general conference of the church here with Bishops James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., H. M. Dobbs of Birmingham, Ala., and W. B. Beauchamp of Atlanta, Ga., the new targets of attack.

It was definitely learned that charges will be filed against Bishop Cannon next week alleging marginal trading in stocks, and the reports said charges against the other bishops named would probably be brought by unfrocked ministers in their jurisdiction who sought redress.

One of these ministers said he was awaiting a hearing before the episcopacy committee, and intended to get it "if I have to break down

BEE COUNTY OIL FIELD EXTENDED THREE MILES

BEEVILLE, Texas, May 10. (AP)—The Bee county oil field was extended three miles west today when on a drill stem test the Cosden Oil company's No. 1 McKinney filled 510 feet in 15 minutes with high gravity oil. Pay was topped at 3,655 feet, and penetrated to 3,667 feet.

Discovery of a potential new pool seven miles south of present production also was reported today. C. F. Nichols et al., No. 2 Hicks which had encountered five good gas showings, topped pay at 3,608 feet and penetrated to 3,619 feet. On a drill stem test the well made a strong flow of wet gas at high pressure, but the pressure gauge was put out of commission before an accurate reading could be taken.

Tour of Militia Units

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, chief of the militia bureau, war department, began a 4,000-mile flight today on a tour of inspection of national guard encampments. He was piloted by Lieut. V. J. Meloy. The flight will take him into Pennsylvania, Illinois, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah, North and South Dakota, New Mexico, Arizona, Texas, Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.

Arkansas Tornado

HELENA, Ark., May 10. (AP)—Reports to The Helena World tonight said that several buildings in Aubrey and Oak Forest, small communities, about two miles northwest of here, were demolished tonight by a tornado. Telephone lines were down and roads were impassable. No reports of loss of life were received.

JUROR COLLAPSES AFTER DISSENTING 73 HOURS

LOS ANGELES, May 10. (UP)—The extortion trial of Morris Levine and Miss Leontine Johnston, one of the many actions connected with the famous Julian Petroleum corporation collapse, ended in a sensational manner late today when the jury was dismissed as it stood 11 to 1 for conviction of the pair.

The dissenting juror, Herbert A. Shuey, was led from the courtroom in a state of collapse from the strain of almost 73 hours deliberation in which he is reported to have held out against a verdict.

Two Thousand Brave Stinging Sandstorm Open Industrial Mart

Nearly 2,000 persons braved a stinging sandstorm Saturday night to be present at the dedication and formal opening of the Wichita Falls Industrial Mart, when the inauguration program was broadcast over radio station KGKO by remote control, featuring prominent speakers, Frank Bird and his Bluebirds and several special musical numbers.

The silver loving cup for the best exhibit was awarded to the Wichita Ice Manufacturing company, with honorable mention to the Morrison Supply company, Buchanan's Stationery company, the Empire Paper company and the Lehrack creamery.

Jerry Vinson, president of the Junior chamber of commerce, sponsor of the project, was the first speaker. "It is, of course, no secret that the Junior chamber of commerce heartily indorses the industrial mart," he said.

"Now that it is in being, we take a great deal of pride in our part in its origination. We think it supplies a long-felt need in our civic life, bringing under one roof, as it does, the various manufacturing and jobbing products of our community, where visitors and our own citizens as well may see in a concentrated form some of the things which Wichita Falls makes and sells.

"We are gratified at the enthusiastic reception which this project has already been accorded, and are deeply grateful for the cooperation it has received from sources too numerous for individual acknowledgement.

Crowning Achievement

"We want to urge that all citizens utilize this mart as often as possible to show their visitors and their neighbors the actualities and

WORST SANDSTORM IN CITY'S HISTORY RAGES AT MEMPHIS 10 HOURS

Southern Oklahoma and Texas Panhandle towns continued to be victims of freak weather Saturday as wind, sand and hail made life unpleasant in many sections.

Memphis, in the lower Panhandle, reported the worst sandstorm in that city's history had hidden the skies from view most of the day. The storm started early Saturday morning and did not abate until after 6 o'clock in the evening. The wind velocity was estimated at 60 miles an hour when the storm reached its height and the few crops that were already up were ruined.

A few small buildings were blown over and considerable sand damage was reported. A light rain had fallen Friday night. At 9 o'clock Saturday evening skies were completely clear again.

Amarillo suffered a hail storm and wind of gale proportions most of the day. Pampa had a heavy downpour.

Altus, Okla., reported the wind was so strong Saturday night that it was only with the greatest difficulty that persons were able to walk in the open.

FIVE PERSONS FATALLY HURT IN STORM CELLAR BLAST AT MISSION CITY

SEMINOLE, Okla., May 10. (AP)—The deaths of three children in a hospital here tonight brought to five the number of dead in an explosion of gas in a storm cellar at Mission City, four miles southwest of here, late today.

Bonnie Edwards, 7, her brother, Sonny Boy, 5, and Dorothy Breedlove, 8, who were injured in the blast which occurred as they were entering the cellar to escape a storm, were those who died tonight. Mrs. Charles Breedlove, 41, mother of Dorothy, and her 5-year-old son, Le Roy, died a short time after the blast.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Edwards, parents of Bonnie and Sonny Boy were only slightly injured. They had just started to enter the cellar when the explosion occurred.

The two families lived in the same house and sought refuge in the cellar when they saw the storm approaching. As the children entered the cave, one of them lighted a match and the explosion followed. Cause of the blast had not been determined.

No damage resulting directly from the storm was reported.

AMERICAN KILLED PAYROLL ROBBERY COLOMBIA PLANT

BOGOTA, Colombia, May 10. (AP)—A payroll robbery near Bucaramanga today, something new in Colombian crime, resulted in the death of Paul Leroy Keating of Oil City, Pa., paymaster for the Tropical Oil company.

Keating, accompanied by three other employes and a member of the constabulary, was carrying payroll funds of $33,350 in a pay car and had reached the plant.

When he began paying the workmen, robbers appeared and opened fire with revolvers, killing Keating. Then they seized the car and compelled the driver to speed them away, later putting him out.

The Colombian government began searching for the assailants immediately and notified the American state department it would do all it could to capture the slayers of the 23-year-old American.

Because of the spectacular nature of the holdup, which has greatly excited Colombians, police believe it was the work of foreigners.

SIX INCHES RAIN FALL MEXIA AREA

pected to reach a flood stage of 21 feet from the heavy rains over its upper watershed.

Streams around Georgetown also were overtaxed by heavy rains Friday night. Rains were reported in many other sections of the state, and in some cases, especially in the northwest area, were expected to be beneficial.

River Out of Banks

GRAND SALINE, Texas, May 10. (AP)—The Sabine river here was out of banks and over the Golden bridge as the result of a heavy rain in this section. Two inches fell here today. The crew at the W. J. Carnes No. 1 well, near here, had to abandon the derrick because of the overflow.

Five-Inch Rainfall

ROSEBUD, Texas, May 10. (AP)—A five-inch rain which fell here in four hours today caused streams to leave their banks and 200 feet of railway trackage between here and Chilton was washed out. A creek just east of Rosebud was higher at noon than it had been in 20 years. Much land was overflowed.

Heavy Damage at Mexia

MEXIA, Texas, May 10. (AP)—A six-inch rain here today did widespread damage in this section, washing up young crops, destroying bridges and delaying train service.

After several hours of delay, repairs were made to damaged trackage of the Southern Pacific's main line near here and service was resumed.

Two men, C. A. Truitt of Detroit and H. N. Broyles of Houston narrowly escaped drowning when their automobile was washed from a bridge.

Highways in many places were impassable and bus service was suspended.

Washout on Railroad

SAN MARCOS, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Workmen were sent out of here late today to repair the Missouri Pacific line between Buda and Manchaca where a washout occurred. It was expected the damage could be repaired within a few hours.

Highways Impassable

CORSICANA, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Creeks were out of banks and highways were impassable in this section as the result of a three-inch rain today. The downpour was accompanied by considerable lightning and a negro cabin at Blooming Grove was struck. No one was injured.

Traffic Resumed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Traffic was resumed from Fredericksburg to San Antonio Saturday afternoon when rain stopped and the Gaudalupe river at Fredericksburg and the river and Cypress and North creeks at Comfort receded from the road enough to let automobiles through. Busses were detained from about 8 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Small damage was inflicted by hail in the northern part of San Antonio and in Alamo heights to greenhouses and florists and several small trees were blown down in the Olmos basin. Hail fell about 4 p. m. here. Small hail was reported in towns north of San Antonio.

A heavy hail storm hit Somerset at about 3 p. m. and lasted for five minutes. Crops were damaged and a few automobile tops were torn but other damage was light.

About an inch of rain fell Saturday morning at Waring, flooding the Guadalupe river over the bridge. Traffic was destroyed through Comfort.

At Kerrville 2.5 inches of rain fell in the morning.

Comfort received .75 inches of rain, forcing the Gudalupe river to six feet and Cypress creek to seven feet. Three to four inches of rain was reported on Cypress creek about 20 miles northwest of Comfort and 2.15 inches fell on North creek about eight miles north of the town.

Traffic Paralyzed

TEMPLE, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Traffic around Temple was paralyzed for several hours today following a severe storm which brought a 5½-inch rain, the heaviest to this section in 10 years.

Streams in this vicinity went out of their banks and flooded farm land along their courses. Between Temple and Belton travel on highway No. 2 was not resumed for several hours after Pepper's creek had swollen from a 25-foot stream to a width of 300 yards in some places.

Traffic also was halted between Temple and Little River and automobiles could not go through until late afternoon. A strong wind accompanied the storm and blew down most of the growing corn and much of the other standing crops. Land also was badly washed.

Marion Hawkins, rural mail carrier, became stalled in his car at Pepper creek, five miles north of Temple and went a few hundred yards to a farm house for aid. When he returned the machine had floated down into a pasture. Little river and Leon river were reported flood stage. A heavy rain was reported at Gatesville.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad officials reported the rains were general throughout this section.

Water was over the tracks at Georgetown and trains were being detoured by the way of Elgin and Granger.

Man Killed Near Austin

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—One man was dead, another seriously injured and four others less seriously hurt as the result of a tornado that swept the hill country 30 miles north of here this morning, uprooting trees and demolishing one house.

The tornado hit in only a small area. Property damage, owing to the lightly populated section, was expected to be slight. The tornado apparently swooped down in the vicinity of Anderson Bend and traveled only a short distance.

Unconfirmed reports said the home of Chris Sylvester had been destroyed and that Sylvester had been seriously injured. Other members of his family were reported injured, none seriously.

The dead man was F. W. Tucker, 36, lumber worker. Harold Johnson was seriously injured when struck by flying debris. Less seriously injured were M. S. Fletcher, L. G. Fletcher, W. H. Johnson and J. A. Tucker.

Tucker was killed when the six men, who were in a house at Anderson Bend, rushed from the structure when the tornado struck. A heavy timber, borne in the teeth of the gale, hit Tucker in the back of the head, killing him instantly.

Johnson was caught under a falling truck, overturned as he sought shelter along its side. Three other trucks in the yard of the house were torn to pieces, one of them being carried completely away.

The remaining four of the group that rushed from the dwelling were caught by the tornado and buffeted about trees and stumps.

Although heavy damage was reported from other sections in the vicinity of Austin from rain and windstorms, there were no other fatalities. Reports that Bertram and Burnet, two villages 50 miles northwest of here were destroyed by a tornado were disproven when disrupted telephonic communication was reestablished.

Tornado Victim

ENNIS, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Mrs. Lou Wood, 85, died here today of pneumonia contracted after her hip was broken in the tornado Tuesday. Hers was the fourth death in this vicinity from the storm.

Kerrville Drenched

KERRVILLE, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Two and one-half inches of rain fell here today. During the downpour lightning struck the building of the Kerrville bakery, tearing a small hole in the roof and damaged telephone and power lines. Small creeks were out of banks and the Guadalupe river was rising.

Three Inches of Rain

FREDERICKSBURG, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Three inches of rain fell in Gillespie county today. All streams were rising and highway traffic was halted in some sections.

WOLFF, WICHITA FALLS THIRD VICE PRESIDENT TEXAS DIVISION T. P. A.

DALLAS, May 10. (AP)—C. M. Cafas of Fort Worth was elected president of the Texas division, Travelers Protective association, at the concluding session today of the 41st annual state convention. Galveston was chosen as the 1931 convention city.

Other officers: Arthur Hirsch, Houston, first vice president; E. M. Bray, Dallas, second vice president; H. D. Wolff, Wichita Falls, third vice president; R. L. Wilson, Dallas, secretary-treasurer, and Rev. W. J. H. Petter, Dallas, state chaplain.

The deepest body of fresh water to be discovered as yet is Lake Kaikal, in Siberia. It is 5,350 feet deep.

DECLARE MISTRIAL IN ALSUP MURDER CASE FORT WORTH

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 10. (AP)—The jury in the John Alsup murder trial was discharged at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon when it reported it was unable to agree on the penalty after deliberating 24 hours.

Just before noon it sent word that it had agreed on the guilt of Alsup. District Attorney Stuart announced that the case in connection with the slaying of Isaac Tate probably would be reset for trial two weeks from Monday.

Alsup was charged with murder after he killed Tate and George Terrell, negroes, on April 10. The shooting followed the attempted robbery by the negroes of the First State Bank of Polytechnic, a suburb of Fort Worth.

The state's theory was that the negroes were induced to stage the robbery by Alsup so that the $5,000 a head reward for dead bank bandits could be collected. Alsup denied this and said he acted in good faith in shooting the bank bandits.

Paintings to Be Shown on Monday By Indian Artists

A display of more than 50 paintings, depicting Indian life, done by Munro Huntinghorse and Steve Mapope, Kiowa Indian artists, who are studying under Oscar B. Jacobson of the University of Oklahoma, will be on exhibit at the new Industrial Mart during Monday.

The paintings have been on display abroad and in galleries throughout the United States. The artists are here through the courtesy of the Western Garment company and Mrs. Willie Boze Lane, artist of Chickasha, Okla.

The two presented a short aboriginal entertainment at the dedication program of the Industrial Mart Saturday night and will sing and dance in the entertainment there following the arrival of the Oklahoma City civic delegation Monday afternoon. Mr. Huntinghorse sings in the native Kiowa tongue and Mapope dances Indian steps.

The Indians are studying painting through the aid of Lew Wentz, Oklahoma oil operator. The paintings that they will have on display have been recognized by prominent critics as outstanding in their depiction of Indian characters and the study of Indian life. The paintings will be offered for sale. Prints of them have been included in a book of paintings to be published by Oscar Jacobson of the art department at the university.

NAVAL ENSIGN FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM

NEW YORK, May 10. (US)—Despondency over ill health is believed to have prompted Ensign Vincent Shenkle to end his life in the Hotel Pennsylvania while his comrades of the Atlantic fleet were making merry.

His parents, Vincent and Olive Shenkle, came on to New York from their home in Spokane, Wash., to visit him here. They said their son's naturally nervous disposition had been intensified by a sun stroke he suffered while playing tennis at Guantanamo bay.

Clad in a blue uniform, his body was found on the floor of a room he engaged at the hotel. He had fired a bullet into his head. In his suitcase was found a receipt for a revolver he purchased.

the possibilities of this community, and we hope this mart will become a permanent institution in our city."

J. L. Jackson Jr., vice president of the senior chamber of commerce, was also a speaker on the program. "It seems to me that this is the crowning achievement of the Junior chamber of commerce," Mr. Jackson said. "From the beginning, they have filled a large place in our community, but none of their many accomplishments has been quite so commendable as this great idea of showing things made and sold in Wichita Falls to the public of Wichita Falls."

"As chairman of the industrial development committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, I wish to thank every manufacturer and merchant and jobber who put his products here," said Shadie F. Hale, whose committee began the ball rolling which resulted in the establishment of the mart.

Linton H. Estes, chairman of the jobbers and manufacturers division of the senior chamber of commerce, congratulated the junior organization on the exhibits and extended invitations to the "missing" to be present on other evenings of the exhibit.

Special music was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Underwood and Mrs. Victor B. Lowrey. Mr. Underwood sang "Come to the Fair" as a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Underwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Underwood sang Schubert's "Song of Love" from "Blossom Time," accompanied by Frank Dinkins.

Mrs. Lowrey sang "Song of the Nile" and "Into the Dawn With You." She was accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr.

FLEXIBLE FEATURE TARIFF BILL HUGE STUMBLING BLOCK

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—The vexing flexible provision of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill proved such a stumbling block to the conferees today as to threaten final passage of the entire measure.

For two hours the conferees wrangled without reaching anything like an agreement. The Democrats and insurgents insisted upon the senate provision curbing the president's power to raise and lower rates which administration leaders oppose.

As a result the issue will probably be brought before the senate for another vote next week. In the event the coalition wins again, the old guard stalwarts may decide to kill the bill rather than let it pass with any such provision.

The debenture and several other controversial provisions still remain for compromise, but both sides believe they can be disposed of without serious trouble.

PHOTOGRAPH AND LABEL CLUES TO BODY FOUND

MEXICO CITY, May 10. (AP)—A photograph and a tailor's label tonight remained as the clues by which the authorities believed they had linked the body of an almost penniless man found in an apartment here with the theft of $200,000 in a far-off Canadian city.

The label said "T. Brown, Stratford, Ontario." In that city the name stands for attorney and public official who fled with a fortune embezzled from his clients.

A bankbook showed that original deposits of $7,500 had dwindled to 43 cents. Persons living as his neighbors said the man had spent money lavishly, with a handsome young woman who was known as his sister. To these neighbors, to his bankers and to the Mexico customs officials, he was Joseph Thomas Boyd of Buffalo, N. Y. His entry permit had been issued in New York City.

Brown or Boyd, or "Eric Hauser" as he also called himself, lived first in a fashionable hotel. Then his means gave out and he removed to a shabby section. The young woman soon disappeared.

NEBRASKA STORM DAMAGE RAISED TO $750,000

HASTINGS, Neb., May 10. (UP)—As Red Cross officials neared the end of their survey of the path of destruction blazed by tornadoes in this vicinity this week, the estimates of the loss were revised to a much larger figure.

The damage that was wrought by Thursday night's tornado which vented its fury on this city, is more than half a million dollars and may come closer to $750,000, officials said Saturday night. Previous estimates had placed it at $250,000. Damage to glass alone will come to $125,000, the revised figures indicated.

Within a week's time, a series of tornadoes that have harassed Nebraska have done more than a million dollars damage and taken the lives of six persons.

PROHIBITION ISSUE TO COMPLICATE CAMPAIGN SENATOR OF NEW JERSEY

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—A prohibition fight today loomed in New Jersey to complicate the already tense Republican senatorial primary fight.

Observers foresee a situation embarrassing to President Hoover in a statement today by Representative Franklin Fort that he was on the verge of tossing his hat into the ring against Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow and ex-Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

Fort and Morrow are among the president's closest friends and political arvisers.

In a speech at Newark next Thursday, Morrow is expected to announce against prohibition. Frelinghuysen already has done so.

In his statement today, Fort, apparently anticipating Morrow's move, declared he was not willing to let the dry side go by default. Frelinghuysen, who voted for the 18th amendment and the Volstead act when in the senate, only recently turned anti-prohibitionist.

It is said Fort will have the strong backing of the anti-Saloon league if he runs.

MEXICAN AVIATOR TO STUDY AT BROWNSVILLE

MEXICO CITY, May 10. (UP)—Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican army aviator, flew today to Brownsville, Texas, where he will take a short course in blind flying under Edward Snyder, chief pilot of the Mexican aviation company. From there he will go to Burbank, Calif., to receive his Lockheed-Sirius plane which he will fly to New York.

Colonel Fierro intends to try to lower Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's record from New York to Mexico City, and then fly to South America, Africa and Europe.

MORE BISHOPS FACE CHARGES

the door." The episcopacy committee by tradition meets in executive session.

Political Charges

DALLAS, May 10. (UP)—Investigation of charges of political activity against Bishop James Cannon Jr., and three fellow clerics is scheduled to begin Monday in the general Southern Methodist conference here.

A report from Dr. Rembert G. Smith of Washington, Ga., who originated the charges—facts of which the episcopacy refused to disclose here—intensified public interest.

Doctor Smith named Bishops Cannon of Virginia, Edwin D. Mouzon of North Carolina; John M. Moore of Texas, and H. M. Dubose of Tennessee. He charged them with violation of laws of the church by participation in the 1928 presidential election.

Bishops Cannon, Mouzon and Moore were objects of additional and separate charges of "attacking the political rights of Roman Catholics."

The bishops refused to comment on the situation tonight. Church dignitaries and delegates likewise put off queries with the reply that the matter would be considered by the conference.

Not a hint of internal strife was evinced in today's general session.

Episcopacy Committee

The episcopacy committee will first consider the charges. If it considers they are merited, the bishops will be called before an ecclesiastical church court composed of 25 delegates to the conference. Defendants will have the recourse of an appeal to the general conference.

Doctor Smith's explanation of the charges was that political activity violated laws of the church; that when ordained the bishops took vows not to engage in politics; and that such activity violated specific instructions of the general conferences of 1922 and 1926.

Alleged attacks of Bishops Cannon, Mouzon and Moore upon participation of Roman Catholics in politics were "contrary to the constitution of the United States, as they nullified the constitution of the church and violated the spirit of the federal constitution," Doctor Smith was quoted as saying.

First definite move to limit the terms of bishops from life to a fixed period was made at today's general session, when Dr. George B. French presiding elder of the Denton, Texas, district moved to amend an article of the constitution then under discussion.

His amendment proposed election to the bishopric for more than eight years be prohibited, and that a bishop not be subject to re-election until four years intervene after his past tenure. Adoption of a motion for adjournment prevented consideration of the proposal, which was scheduled for Monday.

ARMED CAVALRYMEN BEAT VIRGINIA WOODS IN HUNT FOR SLAYING SUSPECT

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—Armed cavalrymen were today scouring the woods of Arlington county, Virginia, in search of an aged hermit wanted for questioning in the fiendish slaying of Mary Baker just four weeks ago.

Washington police have received information tending to link the recluse with the murder of the pretty navy department worker. The suspect is said to have lived in the woods near where the slaying took place, sleeping in a different spot each night.

RELIEVED OF PILES AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING

Kansas Postmaster Urges Others to Seek Real Treatment Instead of Home Remedies

Every reader of this paper who is afflicted with Piles or any other rectal trouble will be glad to learn how J. D. Eisenhower, Postmaster at Navarre, Kansas, was relieved after years of suffering.

Mr. Eisenhower says:

"I had been afflicted with Piles and other rectal complications for eight years. I tried all manner of home remedies, salves and suppositories and all I ever got was a little temporary relief. I went to several local physicians with no success. Then I was urged to go to a real specialist, Dr. McCleary, at Excelsior Springs, Mo. I did, and I have him to thank for my present good health and happiness. The results were marvelous and I urge everyone who suffers as I did to write Dr. McCleary at once."

If you or any of your friends are interested in knowing more about the McCleary treatments, write Dr. McCleary, C-541 Elms Blvd., Excelsior Springs, Mo., today. Ask for his book, "Piles Treated Without Surgery," and reference list, which will be sent to you free and without obligation of any kind. Over 20,000 men and women from all parts of the United States and Canada have been treated by Dr. McCleary and his associates.—Adv.

BRECKENRIDGE TO ENTER HOME TOWN ESSAY CONTEST

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 10.—Some high school youth will represent Breckenridge in the "My Home Town" contest to be held at Abilene in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention late this month, according to a decision reached Friday by John Z. Martin, chamber of commerce secretary, and officials of the schools.

This is one of the most interesting contests held during the convention, as it includes students from every school in West Texas. The students choose their own composition, which is one referring to the town represented by the young speaker.

Mr. Martin said that a local elimination would be held at the high school on the night of May 21 to decide who shall represent Breckenridge. The contest is under the supervision of the chamber of commerce. Contestants must be bonafide students of the senior high schools and must not be a graduate before the end of the year.

N. S. Holland, local superintendent, will present the local winner with a $10 prize. Winners in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce contest receive a $100 first prize, while several other prizes are being offer to runnerup speakers, as well as scholarships to a dozen or more Texas colleges.

Mrs. Jack Kearns Files Answer to Annulment Suit

CHICAGO, May 10. (INS)—An answer to the annulment suit of Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey, was filed today in the circuit court here on behalf of his wife, Mrs. Edith Angel Kearns.

Kearns has contended that the marriage never existed. Mrs. Kearns, in her answer, says she and Kearns were legally married in August, 1921 in the office of the mayor of Atlantic City, N. J., and also lived together as man and wife in New York state, which recognizes common law marriages.

Mrs. Kearns also denied Kearns' claim that she obtained from him through coercion a contract in which she is guaranteed an income of $500 per month. She asserts that he entered the contract voluntarily, and that she has obtained judgments of $1,000 for back payments in California courts and for $500 in New York.

Mrs. Kearns is now in New York. Kearns is living at a hotel here.

Political Club

VERNON, Texas, May 10.—B. S. King was elected president of the "Cecil Story for Attorney General club" at a meeting of Wilbarger county citizens Thursday night at the Wilbarger county courthouse. Much enthusiasm was shown by the group attending the meeting and plans for the assistance of Mr. Story in his campaign were discussed and approved by the group. O. O. Franklin was elected secretary and M. K. Berry was elected treasurer.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR GRADUATION OF RALLS CLASS

RALLS, Texas, May 10.—Fifty-five boys and girls will graduate from the Ralls high school this year. This is the largest class in the history of the school.

Commencement exercises will begin May 11 and the final program will be held on Friday, May 16.

Plans are completed for commencement exercises, the baccalaureate services, the senior play, the annual class banquet, and the many many informal parties in keeping with the graduation days. All city schools will complete their work on the 16 of this month, however, the seniors will be turned loose a week early.

Sunday, May 11, at 8 p. m., Dr. Jack Lewis, pastor of First Presbyterian church of Lubbock, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon at the municipal auditorium.

Letha Shaw is valedictorian of the class, having made an average of 90.93 during the last two school years. Clarence Young is salutatorian with an average for the two years of 89.37.

Members of the class are Fern Barnes Russell Benton, Earl Bonine, Georgia Lee Bonner, Clifford Brown, Celes Bryan, Robert Bryant, Lela Joe Collins, Mack Colvard, Louise Cornwell, T. J. DeFee, Floyd Dunn, Gladys Eddins, Jean Furry, Irvin Gabbert, J. H. Gale, Buster Hampton, Malvin Harkins, Ealy Harris, Ellis Henry, Gladys Henry, J. Teston, Elbert Walker, Katherine Payne, Helen Dewell, Opal Wood, James O'Hair, Letha Shaw and Clarence Young.

GEORGE W. FELLOWES TO BE DEPORTED RESULT OF VIOLATIONS RADIO LAW

ST. LOUIS, May 10. (INS)—George W. Fellowes, on trial here on a charge of violating the federal radio act of 1927 will be deported to England by immigration authorities.

This became a certainty here today when Fellowes agreed to be deported instead of serving a year and a day in a United States penitentiary. He was found guilty by a jury last night.

Fellowes was charged with operating a short wave radio station without a license and rebroadcasting programs of licensed stations.

Authorities recently attempted to deport Fellowes to Canada but the effort failed when dominion authorities ruled he was not a citizen of that country. However England is said to have agreed to accept Fellowes.

Fellowes' trial was the first in the United States under the criminal provisions of the radio act.

GULF WILL REBUILD OIL REFINERY AT BAYONNE

BAYONNE, N. J., May 10. (AP)—The Gulf Refining company plant here, partly destroyed by a fire which still is burning but under control, will be rebuilt immediately, Charles B. Berger, vice president of the company, announced today. He estimated it will cost $1,000,000 to replace the equipment destroyed.

The flames gradually were subsiding today. The fire was started by the explosion of a small gasoline tanker Thursday.

SOUTH GATE, CALIFORNIA, FIRST 'UP FROM NOTHING' CITY SHOWN BY CENSUS

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—South Gate, California, today took from Longview, Washington, the "up from nothingness" record of the 1930 census.

South Gate, starting at Scratch, ran to the 19,501 mark, all gain. Longview, also non existant in 1920, totaled 10,491.

The census results also revealed that here and there over the landscape old man coincidence was at work.

Sweetwater, Texas, growing at a 151 per cent rate, caught up with Santa Fe, New Mexico, jogging along at 50 per cent, the very day the census taker came to the door—tally for both 10,844.

Bristol, Pa., 11,800, passed Carlisle, Pa., 11,796, by, possibly, a couple of new born babies.

Lubbock, Texas, making a 408.8 per cent leap, landed at 20,612, two ahead of Tuscaloosa, Ala., 20,610, smartly progressing at 71.7 per cent.

FOURTEEN DEAD RESULT BATTLE IN PHILIPPINES FIFTEEN ARE WOUNDED

MANILA, May 10. (INS)—Fourteen dead and 15 wounded was the toll today of the two battles staged between a band of Moro outlaws and the Philippine constabulary at the village of Kawayan, province of Lanao.

One officer and four enlisted men of the constabulary were killed and 15 were wounded when the strong position of Sultan Mamur was stormed. Nine of the outlaws were known to have been killed in the fighting.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS INITIATE 19 PAGES

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 10.—Nineteen "strangers" and citizens of Breckenridge were initiated into the mysteries of the rank of "page" in the order of Knights of Pythias, at the regular meeting of Breckenridge lodge No. 464 Thursday night. The initiatory ceremonies were conducted by W. D. Odell, master of work, and his selected team, and witnessed by about 50 members of the lodge.

Following are the names of those who assumed the obligations of the rank: G. L. Adkins, S. O. Allgood, Cecil R. Blackburn, G. W. Brantley, Dr. Tom B. Clay, J. N. Cook, J. D. Daniel, W. M. MAKE DEFINITE PLANS FOR REUNION OF OLD TIMERS AT BRECKENRIDGE

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 10.—It was practically assured Thursday night at a meeting of the "old timers" committee that Breckenridge would stage a two-day reunion and celebration either late this summer or in the early fall. The one thing holding back a final decision on the reunion plans is that of adequately financing the proposition.

subcommittees were appointed Thursday to determine the approximate cost of financing the various events planned for the celebration. These subcommittees will make their report next week, and it is likely that definite plans will begin to unfold for holding the memorial event.

EARLE MAYFIELD OPENS CAMPAIGN CONROE ADDRESS

Declares Law Enforcement Outstanding Question Texas Campaign

SCORES CHAIRMAN OF DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE

Discusses Taxation, Highways and Other State Problems

WINNSBORO, Texas, May 10. (AP)—The outstanding question engaging the attention of the people is law enforcement, former United States Senator Earle B. Mayfield declared in an address here today opening his campaign for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Mayfield said that disrespect for law is the quicksand in which the blessings of government perish, while respect for law is the rock on which governments endure. He charged it was common belief among "higher-ups" that laws were made for the poorer classes and that the rich can violate the statutes with impunity. It is this influence which is undermining the supremacy of the law, he said.

Referring to prohibition, Mayfield declared the Volstead and attendant laws were here to say. He asserted the wheels of progress never turned backward and pointed out that no amendment to the federal constitution has ever been repealed. Opponents of prohibition offer nothing to take its place and repeal of the 18th amendment means legalizing the sale and manufacture of intoxicating liquor. Mayfield stated this could not prove satisfactory because government sale of liquor has proven a greater failure than prohibition.

Scores John Raskob

Mayfield scored John Raskob as chairman of the Democratic national committee for contributing money to the anti-prohibition association and declared he was as much opposed to Raskob being head of the Democratic party as he was to "any other Republican being in such a position." The purpose of the anti-prohibition association is to elect "wet" Republicans over "dry" Democrats, Mayfield said.

He promised, if elected governor, to use his influence to prevent a repetition of "the fiasco that took place at the Beaumont convention." The speaker asserted that Texas would send a delegation to the national convention that would use its influence to unhorse Raskob and vote solidly against the nomination of Gov. Al Smith of New York or another Democrat for president who is in sympathy with the "organized movement" to break down the prohibition laws and repeal the 18th amendment.

Tax Problem

Commenting on the tax problem, Mayfield said that more than one-half of the taxable wealth of the state now is escaping taxation and that the tax burden has been shifted to the farmers, ranchers and small homeowners. Modernization of the tax system that would bring about an equitable distribution of the tax burdens should be effected at once. He declared the present system is inadequate since it permits billions of dollars of corporate wealth to go untaxed and urged that all public utility concerns and other corporations doing a state-wide business be placed under the intangible tax law.

He also advocated a tax on the sale of ginger ale, malt extract and kindred products, a tax of one cent on each cigar and each package of cigarets purchased in Texas and a tax on money, stocks, bonds and credits. Mayfield said that taxes of this kind would produce enough revenue to cut the ad valorem tax down to five or six cents per $100.

Mayfield charged the present prison system was responsible for a large part of the crime wave because it tended to breed and increase crime instead of training prisoners for useful and honorable lives. He stated the prison system should be constructed on the lands now owned by the state. The failure of the penitentiary system to be self-supporting is due to antiquated method of management, he claimed.

Would Drill for Oil

He also asserted that test wells for oil should be drilled on the Imperial farm since one oil company has produced more than 4,000,000 barrels of oil on an adjoining tract since 1927.

Touching on the pardoning power of the governor, Mayfield said it should be used with discretion and should not be abused.

He declared he was opposed to the proposed plan of financing a state highway system through the proposed state-wide bond issue and urged the pay as you go plan instead of one whereby the state would lose $163,000,000 in interest. He also announced himself as favoring an elective highway commission that would be responsible to the people.

Among other things he urged that land titles be made secure through the establishment of recognised corners and boundaries; recommended that the state interest itself in impounding the water of its rivers for navigation, flood control and power purposes; advocated the preservation of the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively; urged liberal appropriations to make the education system of Texas the best in the United States; favored increased relief for world war veterans and increased appropriations for the Texas national guard; declared himself as favoring control of chain stores to prevent monopoly; stated the department of agriculture should be raised to a high state of efficiency; declared that a commission should be organized to draft a plan of court reform; asserted that regulation of public utilities should be left in the hands of the railroad commission; promised improvement in the operation of charitable institutions.

Mayfield also stated that he favored uniform legislation in the cotton growing states as a means of relief in the event the federal plan failed of its objective and that if elected he would [illegible] of cotton growers and bankers to devise some means of aiding the farmer.

He urged state aid for persons seeking to own their own farms through the establishment of a rural credit system, declaring that when farms are owned by the tillers it will bring about better conditions.

WANT CHARLES CHAPLIN FOR WITNESS IN TRIAL OF HINDU 'LOVE SEER'

LOS ANGELES, May 10. (US)—Wanted for testimony in the trial of Bantappa Raw, Hindu "love seer," a bench warrant may be issued Monday for Charles Chaplin, film comedian, Judge Raymond Turney said today following unsuccessful efforts to serve the actor with a subpoena for court appearance.

According to Judge Turney, process servers met with abrupt rebuffs by the actor's servants, while attempting to serve the subpoena.

Meanwhile Miss Gloria Swanson, the second prominent motion picture actress to take the witness stand in the case, appeared in court to testify.

Occupying the stand little more than a minute, Miss Swanson gave testimony similar to that of Miss Mary Pickford, who appeared yesterday, denying that she had ever seen the Hindu seer.

Following Miss Swanson's testimony, Judge Turney adjourned the hearing until Monday. Raw, who is being prosecuted on five grand theft charges and three statutory offenses, is charged by several witnesses with having told them that Chaplin, Miss Pickford and Miss Swanson attended his spiritual readings.

SAN ANTONIO IS LEADING CITY IN BUILDING PERMITS

DALLAS, May 10. (AP)—San Antonio led the state in building permits issued this week, with permits of more than $250,000. The week was unusually light, only three cities coming within the $100,000 class.

Permits by cities follow:

Cities	Week	Year

ENGLISH WIVES BATTLE SEA TO SAVE HOMES

WINCHELSEA, Sussex, England, May 10. (US)—While the men of this bungalow community are at work in the cities, the women are down on the seashore fighting to stem the onrush of the seas which daily threaten to inundate their homes.

Their homes are built on the green pasture land which lies seaward of the old 13th century city. A few weeks ago the sea broke through the beach that protects their communal homes and flooded a large extent of the land. In receding the sea left a breach 30 feet wide in the sands. Since then their homes have been menaced.

The crest of the high tides is due tomorrow, and it is feared that if the barriers are again broken down their homes and possessions will be swept away.

All during the day the women work at reinforcing the beach line with concrete blocks made on the spot. When the men return from the city they take over what appears to be the hopeless task of building up a sea wall which is only swept away at the next high tide.

At the moment the situation is well in hand, but the crucial day is tomorrow. If the tide is normal, their homes are saved, but if the tides are accompanied by squalls, then their bungalows are ruined.

NAVY PLANES COMPLETE HAMPTON ROADS TEST

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—A fleet of 134 naval planes, probably the most formidable air armada ever assembled in the United States was safe at Hampton Roads today after a remarkable test of reliability of the craft and efficiency in personnel.

The planes are from the aircraft carriers Lexington, Saratoga and Langley and are now back on the decks after a flight of 1,000 miles in which they theoretically destroyed the more important cities on the Atlantic seaboard.

The planes flew in formation over Washington, New York, Boston, Hartford, Providence, Springfield, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Annapolis. Making safe landings at various fields without injury to a pilot and only minor damage to one of the planes.

Naval experts were highly elated. They said the flight had proved beyond question that a large number of airplanes could be safely launched from aircraft carriers, travel great distances, do untold damage, and return in safety.

PLAN TO CHANGE PILOTS OF PLANE IN MIDAIR

NEW YORK, May 10. (US)—Changing pilots by means of a rope ladder and a parachute an effort is to be made on May 28 at Roosevelt field to break the endurance flight record held by the St. Louis Robin of 420 hours.

The foregoing was announced tonight by Seth Low, president of Roosevelt field. As the first pilot jumps off in a parachute the relief pilot will get aboard by means of the ladder, keeping a continuous elevation and doing away with the gruelling one or two-man practice.

The New York-New Jersey Endurance Flight, Inc., of which J. S. Donaldson is president, is sponsoring the flight.

Action Postponed

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—Action on the Shipstead anti-injunction bill, which outlaws the notorious "yellow dog" contracts, was postponed until Monday by the senate judiciary committee today.

Employers' organizations have declared war on the measure which lays down a drastic policy to curb the powers of equity courts in labor disputes.

PROFESSOR SEES GREAT CHANGE IN WORLD RELIGIONS

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—World religions are undergoing their greatest transformation in history, Dr. A. Eustis Haydon, of the University of Chicago, told the World Congress on Mental Hygiene today.

Modern science has "undermined all the ancient theologies and religious philosophies," he declared, in warning against "the danger of using the traditional guarantees and compensations of the old theology in dealing with young people in this age of science." He added:

"In the Orient, where religion has always been a way of life in this world, even though it was also a technique of escape from it, the transition to our modern age is easier.

"In the west world, where Christianity as a religion of other worldly salvation has been separated from the secular activities of politics and business, as well as from education, science and philosophy, there is great bewilderment."

Mental hygiene calls for the emancipation of young people from the parental home, Floyd Dell, novelist, told the congress.

Declaring that the needs of modern life are distinguished "from outworn and mischievous patriarchal-family rules," he said that mental hygiene "takes its stand against sex-segregation and sex-ignorance." He added:

"In all these respects, mental hygiene is the interpreter of the new conditions of life in our time to a population still hag-ridden by patrarchial fears.

"One of the most mischievous of these patriarchial fears and the hardest to banish is the fear of normal sexuality. Landed property had good reason to fear normal sexuality. But our modern civilization is founded on it, and is learning to be afraid of thwarted and incomplete sexuality.

"Perhaps we may say that mental hygiene is simply the voice of our own civilization when it offers to the world the hope of bringing up its children so that they may achieve the full satisfaction of their deepest instinctive sexual needs and wishes."

LINDBERGH FORECASTS SHORTER AIR SCHEDULES

NEW YORK, May 10. (UP)—Air schedules will be shortened within the next four years so that Buenos Aires and New York will be only three days apart instead of seven, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh predicted in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"I believe that we also shall have air mail service between Europe and the United States within the next four or five years, either by airplanes or dirigibles, or both," Lindbergh said. "Passenger service will follow."

The noted flier holds that postal transportation will always depend chiefly on airplanes over land areas, but he acknowledges the possibility of dirigibles proving of great value, especially on long routes over water.

"I believe that future air transportation will depend on fast land type planes having a great deal of reserve power. Engine reliability and the ability to stay in the air in case of motor failures is more important, and will give greater safety than a boat hull. That means multi-motored planes, of course."

Deaths

C. W. Gethmann

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Funeral services for C. W. Gethmann, Central High school principal who died early yesterday, will be held at the First Methodist church here Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

Dr. A. W. Jayne, pastor, will officiate.

Many of Gethmann's friends in Shawnee, where he was a high school principal from 1917 to 1921, are expected to attend the services.

Andrew Watrous Smith

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—Andrew Watrous Smith, retired financier and sportsman, died today at his home on Park avenue after a long illness. He was 72 years old.

He began his financial career in New Orleans. He owned many famous race horses that were trained on his farm near Lexington, Ky.

MARRIAGES

Powell-Gamble

HENRIETTA, Texas, May 10.—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Elberta Gamble, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gamble of Los Angeles Calif., to C. Doyle Powell, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Powell of this city. The marriage was solemnised at the Methodist parsonage in Childress, the Rev. J. T. Griswold officiating.

Mrs. Powell is a graduate of the Henrietta high school, attended the University of California where she was officiated with Zeta Tau Alpha sorority. She received her B. A. degree from C. I. A. in 1929. Mr. Powell is a well known young business man of Henrietta where they will make their home.

TWO STERN WHEELERS TO STAGE RIVER RACE

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 10. (UP)—Two old stern-wheelers—the Tom Greene and the John W. Hubbard—will churn up the murky waters of the Ohio river on June 7, in a race that will determine whether the Greene line will retain its claim of owning the fastest boats on the river.

The race was arranged today when Capt. W. E. Roe, owner of the John W. Hubbard, made a "disparaging" remark concerning the racing success of the Greene family and Greene boats in general.

LEAKING GAS CAUSES AUTOMOBILE EXPLOSION

REDLANDS, May 10. (US)—Percy Hicks, civil engineer, stopped his car on Fern avenue here today to inspect an orange grove.

When he re-entered his machine and stepped on the starter, he and the car were lifted into the air by a terrific explosion.

It was discovered later that Hicks had parked his car over a leaking Southern California Gas company main, and sparks from the starter ignited the escaping gas.

When the machine again reached earth, it was afire, and Hicks was forced to leap for his life.

TO GIVE ORGAN PROGRAM WEDNESDAY

Frank Dinkins, pianist in the studio of radio station KGKO, who will present a 30-minute organ program from the First Methodist church here next Wednesday night.

REVOLUTIONARY CHANGES FOR CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE PROPOSED BY LAW INSTITUTE

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—Containing many revolutionary changes, a model code of criminal procedure was adopted at the closing session of the American Law Institute today.

Two of the most drastic changes recommended are that defendants be allowed to waive jury trials in all but capital cases, and that verdicts may be returned on less than a unanimous agreement by juries in all but capital cases.

Other outstanding changes set forth in the code law:

Procedure for appeals simplified by permitting appellate courts to reduce sentence where appeal is based on claim of excessive sentence.

Summons instead of warrant of arrest as initial proceeding in minor offenses.

Admission to bail discretionary in serious offenses, or where defendant has forfeited bail or is charged as a second offender.

Prosecution by information, alleged by prosecuting attorney, instead of by indictment.

Selection of extra jurors in protracted trial to avoid necessity of another trial in case a juror dies or is stricken ill.

Assails Nation's Laws

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—George Wharton Pepper, former senator from Pennsylvania, tonight assailed the present state of the nation's laws as being in "a fair way to become a mess," and characterized the senate as unfitted to remedy the situation.

Pepper addressed the closing meeting of the eighth annual convention of the American Law Institute, attended by 600 leading members of the bench and the bar, who, a few hours before approved almost in its entirety a "model code of criminal procedure," proposing a score of drastic changes in legal practice.

They had also devoted two days to consideration of the institute's proposed 18-year task of "restating" the tremendous volume of the nation's common law.

It was this undertaking to which Pepper referred. Even if congress had authority to undertake it, he said, "one shrinks from the spectacle of the senate debating a restatement of the common law."

"Even the confirmation of presidential appointments on a commission to make the restatement," he continued, "would involve interminable and acrimonious debate.

"The area of choice would be limited by excluding all who had ever expressed intelligent opinions on any subject or had been indiscrete enough to talk in their sleep."

CYCLONIC WINDS STRIKE AGAIN IN NEBRASKA

LINCOLN, Neb., May 10. (UP)—Cyclonic winds struck in two sections near here tonight, causing damage of approximately $25,000 to farm buildings and crops.

One storm struck near Kramer and Hallam late today and damaged five farms. The storm was about 15 miles from Lincoln.

The other twister cut a destructive path through five farms near Fairmont, about 50 miles southwest of here, and then passed on to Bradshaw, where it did but little damage. This storm, striking early this evening, missed Fairmont by two miles. It destroyed buildings on five farms.

Four persons escaped injury on the farm of Ed Schernikau near Hallam when they saw the twister coming and took refuge in a cave.

Death Penalty

PECOS, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Pedro Aguilar, charged with murder today was assessed the death penalty by a jury in the 109th district court here. The jury was out only 30 minutes. Aguilar was convicted of shooting and killing C. R. Dakan, a member of a posse seeking his arrest for the alleged slaying of two other Mexicans in the Ward county jail April 6.

Reopen Rate Probe

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 10. (UP)—Re-opening of investigation into the purported $100,000 extortion of Michael H. Katz, wealthy druggist, was the first official act of B. H. Thurman, newly appointed chief of detectives, here today. Thurman expressed the hope of ridding Kansas City of this often repeated form of crime.

MINNEAPOLIS ALDERMAN SHOT THREE TIMES AND WOMAN TRIES SUICIDE

MINNEAPOLIS, May 10. (INS)—Alderman J. Russell Sheffield was shot three times in the back early today by Mrs. Marie Riley, a young widow, who then shot herself through the chest and abdomen.

Both were taken to the hospital. Mrs. Riley is believed to be dying. Sheffield may recover.

Mrs. Riley is alleged by Sheffield to have shot him as the result of jealousy over the attention he paid another woman at an early morning party.

Mrs. Riley is the mother of one child. Sheffield, who is married, was indicted last year during the municipal graft investigation and is awaiting trial.

DES MOINES COLLEGE MAY BE OPENED SOON

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 10. (UP)—Des Moines university, whose buildings have stood idle on a picturesque campus since last year when it went into bankruptcy to the accompaniment of rotten eggs flung by disgruntled students, soon may reawaken to the buzz of student gossip and the clang of classroom gongs.

A committee from North Park college, Chicago, completed an inspection of the school plant today and will decide later whether the Swedish Evangelical Mission school will be moved here.

LIONS OF TEXAS WILL HOLD MEET AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—Approximately 1,000 persons were expected in Austin Monday for the 12th annual convention of Texas Lions Clubs. The session will last through Wednesday.

The opening event of the program will be a breakfast for deputy governors and will be followed by business meetings and social affairs.

The 1931 convention city, the district governor and other officers will be chosen Wednesday. Port Arthur and Corpus Christi already are bidding for the 1931 meeting.

MISSING FLIER LANDS AT ALBUQUERQUE PORT

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., May 10. (UP)—John Henry Mears, globe-circling aviator for whose safety fears had been felt during his scheduled flight from Los Angeles to Kansas City, landed at the airport here late today.

Mears had turned back after nearly reaching Amarillo because of unfavorable weather. He said tonight that he would continue his flight at dawn tomorrow.

Port Arthur to Entertain East Texas C-C Meet

PORT ARTHUR, Texas, May 10. (AP)—With over 3,000 delegates already on hand and approximately 10,000 more expected to arrive on five special trains tomorrow, Port Arthur for the next three days will be the "capital of East Texas" as it entertains the fourth annual convention of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Sunday will be devoted to registration and dedication, the latter exercise taking place at a massed religious ceremony in Convention hall.

Business of the convention will get under way Monday with addresses of Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, Gov. Dan Moody, and Dr. T. O. Walton, president of Texas A. & M. college.

During Monday afternoon 21 East Texas bands will compete in the annual band contest which will be brought to a close by a massed band concert in which approximately 2,000 musicians will take part.

The convention will close Tuesday with reading of annual reports, election of officers and selection of the next convention city. Martin and Paris are conducting a spirited advance fight for the 1931 meeting.

COMPROMISE PLAN MEETS OBJECTIONS WICKERSHAM LAW

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—A compromise plan to meet objections to the Wickersham law enforcement commission's recommendation of "juryless trials" of minor prohibition cases and at the same time meet President Hoover's demand for action to speed up disposition of dry law cases in the federal courts is being drafted for consideration of the house, it became known today.

The proposed plan would permit United States commissioners to accept pleas of guilty in minor cases these to be reported to the district court judge for sentence. Where a prisoner demanded trial by jury he would have the right to have his case heard in the district court.

District attorneys would be permitted to prosecute minor cases on information instead of being compelled to obtain grand jury indictments before prosecution.

The maximum penalty for minor violations would be reduced to six months' imprisonment and $500 fine by amending the Volstead and Jones laws.

The recent supreme court decision upholding a waiving of trial by jury would be written into law.

CHARLES CURTIS SAYS LILA JIMERSON WILL RECEIVE 'FAIR TRIAL'

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 10. (UP)—Vice President Charles Curtis is determined that Lila Jimerson, young Indian woman accused of instigating the murder of her lover's wife, shall receive a "fair trial," Chief Clinton Rickard of the Tuscarora tribe, revealed today while here to confer with Lila's lawyers. Chief Rickard produced a letter from the vice president assuring him that proper government officials will see to the protection of Lila's legal right.

Rickard, who exhibited his letter from the second highest official in the land very proudly, said he was satisfied that Lila will be treated fairly with the vice president standing behind her.

Meanwhile the two lawyers who have volunteered to take Lila's case, John S. McGovern and Thomas F. Rogers, prepared the arguments they will present in supreme court Monday to support their application for dismissal of the defendant.

COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS CLOSE 1930 CONVENTION

FORT WORTH, May 10. (AP)—Waco was selected as their 1931 meeting place and L. M. Woodward, Houston, was elected grand council of Texas, United Commercial Travelers of America, here today.

Pantages Appeal

LOS ANGELES, May 10. (US)—An extension of 30 days in which to prepare briefs for the appeal of Alexander Pantages, under sentences of from one to 50 years for attacking 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, was granted counsel for the multimillionaire showman today by the appellate court. The order was issued on the grounds that Earl Daniels, a member of the showman's legal battery, had suffered a nervous attack. The motion for delay was not opposed.

Woman Sentenced

SEATTLE, May 10. (US)—Her son already serving a life term in the penitentiary as a habitual criminal, Mrs. Mary E. Smith was today sentenced to jail for a period of from five to eight years following her conviction on grand larceny charges. Mrs. Smith and her son were charged together with stealing the effects of James E. Bassett. Bassett, who has been missing for a long time, is believed by authorities to have been murdered.

Gold Star Mothers

ABOARD S. S. AMERICA, May 10. (UP)—The first contingent of gold star mothers, en route to visit the graves of their sons in Europe, will observe Mother's day with ceremony aboard ship tomorrow. Flowers will be laid at the plate of each mother at breakfast, and at 1 p. m. they will be presented with medals donated by Paul W. Chapman, president of the United States lines.

Parachute Record

AKRON, Ohio, May 10. (UP)—Earl "Red" Miller of Canton, Ohio, was believed tonight to have established a new world altitude record for parachute jumping, when the dual altimeters on the plane from which he leaped late today were found to register 20,400 feet. The present official world record is 17,400 feet established by a German parachute man.

Census Figures Early Fall

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—No accurate figure as to the total population of the United States will be ascertainable until early fall, the census bureau announced today. It will require all summer to check the population data now pouring into the bureau's central offices here.

Smuggling Suspects

WESTMORELAND, Calif., May 10. (US)—United States immigration officers today arrested Harold Matsumoto, Filipino, and Frank O'Gawa, Japanese, on suspicion of smuggling aliens. Eight Japanese were found under a heavy tarpaulin cover in the rear of a truck the pair were said to be driving.

Pilot Seriously Hurt

FRESNO, Calif., May 10. (US)—Pilot George Navy, 28, of Los Angeles, was perhaps fatally injured today when his plane nose-dived from a height of 100 feet into a vineyard. Navy was engaged in spraying the field at the time of the accident.

The sapsucker, or yellow-bellied woodpecker, drills a row of downward sloping holes through the bark of a tree, forming cups in which the sap gathers. He will then stay at these cups all day long drinking until he becomes quite stupefied.

METAL CLAD AIRSHIP TO COST $4,500,000 PLANNED

BELLEVILLE, Ill., May 10. (UP)—Proposed plans for building a metal clad airship at the cost of $4,500,000 by the United States army at Scott field here was announced today by Col. John A. Paegelow, commandant of the field.

The announcement of the plans came simultaneously with the introduction of a bill in congress providing for the expenditure of $4,500,000 for such a ship.

The proposed ship would be 547.2 feet long with a maximum diameter of 119.5 feet. The air displacement would be 3,806,500 cubic feet and a gas volume of 3,758,300 cubic feet. The ship would be powered with eight engines developing a total of 4,800 horsepower driving the ship at a maximum speed of 100 miles per hour, or 25 miles an hour faster than the Graf Zeppelin.

The ship when completed would be a veritable flying port. The plans provide for carrying a crew of 40 men, two airplanes, 10 machine guns, 30,000 rounds of ammunition, 15,000 pounds of bombs and a 1,000-watt searchlight.

FOURTEEN MEN HELD SHERMAN

and safety; and there is imminent danger of riot and breach of the peace.

"Therefore I, Dan Moody, governor of Texas, do declare conditions above described do exist and are clearly violative of the constitution, and do declare martial law in that territory, effective at 10:30 p. m."

Shooting Inquiry

SHERMAN, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Col. L. E. McGee, commanding national guardsmen patrolling the town here, declared tonight that investigation today revealed that two boys shot last night in a mob demonstration here were not injured by bullets from the guns of guardsmen.

He said Dr. C. D. Strother, county health officer, had reported that the bullets extracted from the boys' wounds were lead pellets.

In view of this, Colonel McGee said it appeared a certainty that the boys were struck by wild shots fired by members of their own mob. Since cartridges used by the guardsmen all had steel jackets.

Furthermore, he added, the guardsmen were under strict orders to fire into the air and not to shoot into the crowd, during the melee in front of the jail last night.

The injured youths were reported tonight to be recovering in a Sherman hospital.

Additional guardsmen arrived this evening, bringing the total to 42 officers and 377 enlisted men called here before Governor Moody issued his martial law proclamation, effective at 10:30 o'clock tonight.

Machine Rifle Guards

SHERMAN, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Three men with machine rifles were stationed on each corner of the courthouse square tonight and neither automobile traffic nor pedestrians were permitted to go within a block of the jail. Colonel McGee had instructed his men to permit no loitering of pedestrians on downtown streets during the night.

This was believed to be a precaution against a possible attempt to rescue the men held here in connection with last night's rioting. The entire town was being patrolled by troopers, particularly the negro quarter.

Sherman was a "closed town" for the night, virtually all stores being closed.

"We're going to protect property and life," Colonel McGee declared, after issuing night orders to his men.

Randolph Bryant, United States district attorney, offered Colonel McGee the assistance of the United States marshal's office if it were needed.

Executive Meeting

SHERMAN, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Col. L. S. Davidson of the Texas National guard declared here tonight that "martial law was not contemplated for Sherman as a result of yesterday's rioting."

Colonel Davidson made this announcement after a merchant who had attended a mass meeting had told newspaper men that it had been decided at the conference to request Gov. Dan Moody to place this city under martial law.

Col. Lawrence E. McGee, who was said by the merchant to have asked along with Capt. Tom Hickman of the Texas Rangers that city and county officials and business men accede to martial law being declared, said he "didn't know anything about it." He said he had not called the governor.

Stores to Close Early

The merchant also said the business men had agreed to close their stores at 6 p. m. in an effort to keep crowds from gathering on the street after dark.

Thirteen men have been arrested in connection with the rioting and were held in the county jail, guarded by 100 troopers. Rumors were prevalent that an attempt would be made to liberate them.

It had been reported that 16 arrests were made and 11 of the prisoners later released. Sheriff Arthur Vaughan, however, said he had been mistaken in telling newspaper reporters that some of them were freed after their names were recorded.

Questioned regarding the martial law report, Captain Hickman said: "If that happened, I don't know anything about it." He said that another arrest was made tonight, bringing to 14 the number held.

The meeting was executive.

Saturday Night Crowd

At 7 p. m. most of the stores were closed and a fair Saturday night crowd was on the streets, although well scattered.

No charges had been filed against those under arrest, and Sheriff Vaughn said none would probably be placed until feeling had subsided further. The officer pointed out that the destruction of the courthouse would hamper civil bodies in performing their duties.

The regular grand jury meets May 19 and there were no indictions of a special term.

Justice of the Peace W. M. Blaylock held at an inquest that George Hughes, negro, whose attack on a white woman last Saturday incited the crowd to rioting, died by "suffocation while confined in a steel vault of the courthouse."

Tonight Colonel McGee stationed a unit of guardsmen around the negro brick schoolhouse.

The London city directory contains such names at Gotobed, My, Whiff, Ohno, Cops and Looney.

CONTINUE TO HEAR EVIDENCE LIBEL SUIT BROWNSVILLE

New Settlers Testify in Action Against Colliers

R. B. CREAGER CLAIMS DAMAGES FROM WEEKLY

Defense Witnesses Take Stand at Saturday Session

COURTHOUSE, BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Men who came here to settle on new land testified today in the libel suit of R. B. Creager against Collier's Weekly that what they were convinced was a political alliance between Creager, Republican national committeeman from Texas, and Sheriff A. Y. Baker's Democratic faction in Hidalgo county, had been instrumental in depriving them of the privilege of voting for the Republican party—the party of the tradition.

They were called as witnesses by the magazine to support its contention that in the article entitled "high handed and hell bent," the weekly accurately charged the committeeman with helping maintain the A. Y. Baker Democratic faction in office in Hidalgo county.

Earlier the magazine demanded the right to "prove" that assertions in the article made against Baker were true, the judge having held they were not denied by the plaintiff's pleadings.

The court held this unnecessary.

Republicans Testify

A. A. Highbarger of San Benito, formerly of Iowa; B. S. Graham of Weslaco, formerly of Missouri; R. B. Steward of San Benito, from Indiana; and S. K. Williams, of San Benito, another witness, declared they formerly had been Republicans, but since coming to Texas had had little opportunity to vote for candidates of that party because no party ticket had been put up.

Several testified they had heard it "talked around" generally that Creager was politically allied with Baker.

Williams declared that once when he asked Creager about having a local Republican slate, the committeeman replied, "they let us rule the city of Brownsville and we let them have the county."

Mexican Votes

Graham, testifying concerning Mexican voting in Hidalgo county, said casually, "once, when I went in to vote, they questioned me closely but a Mexican was behind me and they didn't question him at all. Sometimes they'd bring Mexicans in trucks to the polls—a lot of them."

The most melancholy picture of the day was presented by Santiago Guzman, former deputy county tax collector who had been charged, he testified, when accused of "disloyalty to the organization."

"The average Mexican," he declared, "thinks that if he doesn't do just what A. Y. Baker commands he will be killed or sent to Mexico."

Guzman swore he helped organize the "Latin-American league" to help teach Mexican people their "rights and duties."

He testified that Baker disapproved of it in a circular distributed among Mexicans which said, among other things, "I still consider myself your superior chief to whom you have confided your destines." Another phrase he quoted said Baker had "tender regard" for the race.

Around Town

Mrs. L. C. Van Ness, 1005 Tenth street, cashier for the Postal Telegraph company, who recently underwent an operation at a hospital in Dallas, has been removed to a clinic to be under the care of a bone specialist, who performed the operation, it was learned by friends here. She will probably be sufficiently recovered to return home in a few weeks, it was said.

R. A. McElrath of Gainesville, county tax collector of Cooke county, was a visitor in Wichita Falls Saturday, en route home after having attended the funeral of a young grandson at Stratford, Texas.

Local Deaths

Mrs. Ada Smith

Mrs. Ada Smith, 46, of Sulphur Springs, died in a local hospital at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The body was forwarded to Sulphur Springs at 2 o'clock Sunday morning by the Hines mortuary, accompanied by her husband, E. N. Smith, who was the only survivor.

Mrs. Sarah McMillan

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah McMillan, 71, of 206 Second street, who died in a local hospital Friday afternoon, will be held from Lamar Avenue Baptist church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon with Rev. S. F. Martin, pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Riverside. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Lee Jones of this city.

Counterfeiting Suspects

CHICAGO, May 10. (US)—Four persons said to be members of a national counterfeiting ring which already has passed more than $800,000 in bad money were arrested here today by secret service agents. They were arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker and held to the federal grand jury. They gave their names as Mrs. Jean Powers, Joseph Gondolfo, Chauncey Smith and John Levy.

SOONER APPEALS COURT CONDEMNS JOHN DOE WARRANTS

State Court Holds Warrant Invalid Where Date and Name Were Altered By Executing Officer in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—The practice of certain officers carrying John Doe search warrants issued in blank or changing valid search warrants "to fit what they consider the facts at the time a search is made" was condemned by the criminal court of appeals today in an opinion by Judge Will H. Chappel.

The opinion of such practices was given when Chappel reversed the conviction of L. C. Spencer and J. B. Ellison on a liquor charge. They were each sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 in Hughes county.

Officers obtained a search warrant Dec. 29, 1928, to search the premises of a man named Sutton. Sid Huddleston, a deputy sheriff changed the date of the search warrant to Dec. 30 and wrote in the name of L. C. Spencer, after striking out Sutton's name, Chappel stated in the opinion.

Chappel held the search warrant invalid and said:

"We cannot too strongly condemn the practice of some officers who carry about with them 'John Doe' search warrants issued in blank or who change valid search warrants in their possession to fit what they consider the facts at the time the search is made."

PETITION FILED OPPOSING PARDON FOR TILGHMAN BOY

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—A petition signed by approximately 500 Grady county citizens who oppose executive clemency for Woodie Tilghman, 16, was on file today in the office of State Pardon and Parole Officer E. P. Hill.

Tilghman was sentenced to five years in the state reformatory last January when he pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the death of James Chitwood, Minco farmer, shot during an alleged dice game raid.

Those protesting clemency for young Tilghman, son of Bill Tilghman, famous Oklahoma peace officer, were headed by County Attorney B. F. Holding and Sheriff Matt Sankey.

They contended the youth should not be released from the reformatory until "he has served long enough to feel he has been punished."

Tilghman's case is to come before the state pardon and parole board at its Granite meeting May 20.

Tilghman's clemency plea will be presented to the board despite the protest, Hill said.

OKLAHOMA MAN SHOT DEFENDING GIRL FROM BANDITS DIES FRIDAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Police believed today they had found a clue to the identity of one of two youths who fatally wounded Fred Dunlap, Oklahoma City, during a holdup Thursday night.

Dunlap died of a bullet wound at an Oklahoma City hospital last night. His brother, Homer, gave blood for a transfusion late yesterday in an effort to save the victim's life.

Dunlap was shot in the abdomen by one of two robbers who robbed him and his companion, Miss Rose Olvey, Oklahoma City. He was shot when he turned upon the men as they suggested they "take the girl with them."

He was unable to describe his assailants.

While police continued their investigation into the shooting of Dunlap, 10 couples were held up last night at Lake Overholser.

A. G. Brady, a taxi driver, reported he was robbed by a negro who entered his cab at the Santa Fe railroad station.

E. B. BONAPARTE DENIES ALLEGED BOND PURCHASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Former Oklahoma County Treasurer E. B. Bonaparte said today he did not purchase a bond while in office, in answer to assertions that he must face questioning regarding good township bonds allegedly bought after they were past due.

County Attorney Callihan checked county records to determine whether the $7,800 in bonds still unpaid were bought after they were due and whether legal action would be brought against Bonaparte's bondsmen to recover the sum.

Assistant County Attorney I. L. Harris said the bonds were purchased in 1921 and not in 1926 as indicated in some reports. The first legal step was taken to recover $7,800 in bonds and interest due from the township when suit was filed in district court last Wednesday.

OKLAHOMA SPIRITUALISTS TO CONVENE AT TULSA

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Oklahoma Spiritualists will hold their 1931 convention in Tulsa, it was decided at the last business session of the state meeting here late yesterday.

Carl Wicks and D. O. Gilles, Tulsa, were re-elected trustees. J. J. Schofield, Tulsa, was named trustee for a one-year term, and T. H. Ford, Tulsa, was elected treasurer.

HEALTH SERVICE DOCTORS

Will Give Free Examination Till May 25

As a great many persons could not be seen or could not come to the Health Service Institute previous to May 1, a thorough physical examination including blood pressure, urine, microscopic examinations of pathological secretions, etc., will be given free of charge until May 25. (This does not include Wasserman blood test, which will be only $3.00.)

The Health Service Doctors are affiliated with three large Health Institutes of the East and Southeast, at Newark, N. J., Atlanta, Ga., and Birmingham, Ala., which insures everyone who calls on them the latest methods for the relief of deep-seated chronic conditions, using the light's electrical modalities, intra-veneus medications, including 914 and advanced dietary methods in the treatment of stomach and intestinal troubles, disease of the blood, nerves, rheumatism, diabetes, high or low blood pressure, diseases of the rectum and all conditions due to faulty metabolism.

Remember an examination will cost you nothing until May 25 and that the Health Service Institute is located at 727½ Indiana avenue. Office hours are daily 9 to 5; Wednesday and Saturday evenings 7 to 8; Sundays 10 to 12 only.—Adv.

FIVE PRISONERS SAW WAY OUT OF JAIL AT LAWTON

LAWTON, Okla., May 10. (UP)—Officers searched today for five prisoners who sawed their way out of the Comanche county jail here last midnight.

Friends of the prisoners were believed to have passed saws into the jail. Bars of one window were sawed.

The escaped men are Raymond Larsen, 25, Temple, serving 12 months on a federal liquor charge; Jim Harris, 27, who still had 40 days to serve for violation of interstate autmobile transit act; J. J. Harrison, 32, Meadows, Texas, 15 days to serve on a 1926 liquor law violation; Owen Steites, serving three months on a federal liquor conviction; and Lowell Stacey, 19, Lawton, serving 90-day sentence for liquor law violation.

Twenty-five other prisoners who were in the run-around at the time of the escape, refused to leave the jail, Sheriff George Frampton said.

FIGHT FOR RICH OIL TRACT OKLAHOMA CITY APPEARS TO BE CERTAIN

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—A fight for a two-acre tract of land in the heart of Oklahoma's richest oil field here was seen today when George M. White, Oklahoma City real estate operator, filed a mineral deed to the property.

The deed, if upheld, gives White the right to all minerals beneath the surface, including oil and gas.

This plot of seemingly unclaimed land first came to the attention of officials when Forrest Parrott, Oklahoma City, found the tract and filed an affidavit to homestead it. He placed a plain board sign there with the crudely painted words on it, "Forrest Parrott."

Parrott claims the land by virtue of the homestead law. U. S. District Attorney Roy St. Lewis said it belongs to the government.

EXPECT DELAY IN TRIAL OF 'JAKE' SALE CASES

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Early trial of Dr. D. Richardson Ray of Kansas City, wholesale druggist, and more than a score of Oklahoma drug store owners on charges growing out of the "jakitis" epidemic, was rendered unlikely today when defense counsel appeared before U. S. Judge Edgar S. Vaught with an application for permission to take depositions which would trace jamaica ginger sold in Oklahoma back to its manufacturer in Boston and Brooklyn factories.

The cases, charging Ray and his fellow defendants with conspiracy to violate the national prohibition act in the sale of ginger extract for beverage purposes, had been tentatively set for May 23 at Guthrie.

AFFAIRS OF UNIVERSAL OIL FIRM PLACED IN HANDS FRED BRANDON

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (INS)—Affairs of the Universal Oil and Gas company, the officers and promoters of which including Mr. and Mrs. S. E. J. Cox, are under federal mail fraud charges, were definitely placed in the hands of Fred P. Brandon, former chief justice of the Oklahoma supreme court today.

W. F. Collins and Hans A. Kroeger, attorneys for the Universal and themselves facing prosecution, appeared before United States Judge Edgar S. Vaught and formally consented to Branson's appointment with full power to operate the company.

At the same time, Branson was likewise appointed receiver for the Turnbull Oil company, another Cox concern, with properties in the salt dome country along the Texas gulf coast.

The Coxes remained in jail today, apparently making no effort to secure bond.

KANSAS CITY DRIVER CHARGED WITH SOONER BUS LAW VIOLATION

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Charges of operating a motor bus in Oklahoma without a corporation commission permit were filed in county court against H. H. Byers, Kansas City, by Ed Hicks, corporation commission secretary, and J. G. Duncan, bus enforcement officer, today.

Byers had 15 passengers in his bus bound for California when arrested at Edmund by Hicks and Duncan. He did not have an Oklahoma license on the bus but bought one today.

Bus operators even intrastate and only those operating on occasional trips, are required to have a permit from the corporation commission. The filing fee in applying for a permit is $100.

Byers was not held in jail but was turned over to Sheriff Stanley Rogers for detention pending outcome of the case.

NEWS ITEM LEADS TO LOCATION OF OWNER OF BICYCLE STOLEN HERE

A brief item in Friday's issue in The Times resulted Saturday in the finding of the owner of a bicycle which had been seized on suspicion, according to information given by J. A. McDonald, juvenile officer.

The wheel was stolen several days ago from Albert Noack, about 14, of 1431 Thirty-sixth street. Thursday, a deputy sheriff took it from a small negro boy who was unable to give a satisfactory explanation of his possession. A number of inquiries were made to him concerning stolen wheels before the owner was found, Mr. McDonald said.

OKLAHOMA TEXTBOOK COMMISSION TO MEET

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—The state textbook commission will hold a preliminary meeting Sept. 27 to arrange for the textbook adoption in November, John Vaughan, state superintendent of public instruction, announced today after a conference with the commission.

Books to be adopted this fall for a five-year period are readers, penmanship, Oklahoma history, agriculture, junior and senior high school science and high school economics, Vaughan said.

MORE LIBERAL MOTHERS' PENSION LAW PROPOSED

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—A plea for a more liberal mothers' pension law and a more stringent child adoption law was made by Mrs. Mabel Bassett, commissioner of charities and corrections, before the state child health conference today.

Mrs. Bassett also urged a license law for child placing associations and maternity hospitals.

WAGONER COUNTY GIRL BEST SPELLER IN OKLA.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Alice Shannon, 18-year-old Wagoner county eighth-grade student, was the state's champion rural school speller today. She won the spelling bee at the annual meeting of the county superintendents here.

Second prise went to Alice Crawford 13, an eighth-grade Blaine county pupil. Ruth Friesen, Garfield county, won third.

Robbery Trial

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Leon Lemons and Charles W. Rhea, charged with robbing Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Harrison of $135 as the aged couple prepared to close their grocery store here on the night of Jan. 14, will go on trial in district court Monday. They are charged with robbery with firearms.

Elk City Asks Trade Trippers To Cancel Visit

ELK CITY, Okla., May 10. (UP)—The Oklahoma City good will trippers may not visit Elk City next week because of a purported controversy between President Ed Overholser of the capital city chamber of commerce and the Elk City chamber.

Officials of the Elk City chamber sent a telegram today to the Oklahoma City civic organization suggesting that Elk City be omitted from the tripsters' itinerary. The Oklahoma City delegation is scheduled to visit here next Friday.

The telegram read:

"Due to developments in the controversy between Ed Overholser and the Elk City Chamber of Commerce, our members do not feel that they can properly entertain your good will tour of May 16 unless these differences can be satisfactorily adjusted before that date, we suggest you leave Elk City off your itinerary."

GIVE NOTICE OF APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT IN COTTON GROWERS CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Notice that an appeal to the supreme court will be made from the district court order denying the request of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association to dismiss a temporary receiver was given today before District Judge Chambers.

The association last week asked the court to dismiss the receiver on the grounds that it did not have sufficient cause for its action in appointing the receiver two weeks ago. Judge Chambers denied the motion.

R. H. Wilson was appointed temporary receiver by Chambers when 30 members of the association brought the $2,000,000 receivership suit in district court.

The association requested the appeal notices be placed on the trial docket.

Varicose Veins!

Start Today—Reduce These Swollen, Bulging Veins to Normal—A Simple Home Treatment

It's nothing more than human nature for people to admire beautifully shaped and attractive legs.

No matter how pretty a woman's face or how stunningly she is gowned—glances are bound to be directed at her legs and woe betide her if they are disfigured by swollen, bulging veins and bunches.

Poor woman—doesn't anyone ever stop to consider the pain and terrible soreness these enlarged veins cause—must folks think merely how hideous and ugly her legs are!

A 2 ounce bootle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any drug store brings immediate and blessed foot and leg comfort—soreness disappears. And joyous wonder—it quickly helps reduce the swollen and bulging veins to normal. You'll be able to wear the finest and sheerest stockings, the shortest skirts—appear at beach in bathing suit because no longer will you be embarrassed by these unsightly Varicose Veins.—Adv.

KIOWA COUNTY TO PUT MORE FUNDS IN COUNTY ROADS

HOBART, Okla., May 10. (UP)—Kowa county commissioners said today they expect to place all available funds on township and county roads which they contend have been neglected by recent construction of state roads.

Such action, they said, is in reply to requests of the state highway commission that they provide for state construction within the county.

The state has asked that the county make $80,000 available for expenditure by the highway commission, and matching with state money to build up highways 7 and 9, the commissioners said.

Highway 9 is already practically completed by the county and $20,000 has been turned over to the state for other state road, the officials said.

The county commissioners, A. P. Duggan, Deroy Burns and George Neal, have offered to match funds for specific improvements on the two roads, but said today they are not interested in turning over a lump sum for the state to administer, without consideration of the county's plans.

The Kiowa county gaps are said by the state to be the only remaining links on either road from Oklahoma City to Texas, to be without new grades and gravel surface.

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this get two ounces of calomite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The calomite powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.—Adv.

N. D. WELTY EXPECTED TO BE REAPPOINTED ON SOONER ELECTION BOARD

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—N. D. Welty, Bartlesville newspaper man probably will be reappointed as the Republican member of the state election board, it was indicated today.

Welty, appointed by former Gov. Henry S. Johnston, resigned late yesterday to permit Gov. W. J. Holloway to appoint a member of the board.

Holloway asked State Republican Chairman Fred C. Clarke to submit a list of five Republicans from which to select the appointee. Clarke said today Welty's name would head the list.

The governor said in a letter to Clarke:

"I wish to assure you as chairman of your party that the services of Welty have been entirely satisfactory to me. Whether his name is resubmitted is a matter entirely in your hands."

WERE REMARKS PART OF SHOW?

ALVA, Okla., May 10. (UP)—Robert Hammerstead, janitor of Northwestern Teachers college who played the part of one of the 12 disciples in a passion play presentation here last night, broke his toe as he walked off the stage.

Members of the audience discussed today whether his remarks were part of the show.

PARKER TO SPEAK TO EDITORS OF OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—G. B. Parker, New York, editor in chief of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, wired his acceptance today to an invitation asking him to address the Oklahoma Press association convention at Woodward June 6.

on FRIDAY

The thing that started it was an advertisement in The Times on a lazy Sunday morning.

There was a picture of a lawn-swing in the advertisement, and it registered. Every once in a while, through Sunday, and Monday, and right through to Friday, the household's General Manager found herself thinking of that lawn-swing.

On Friday she went down town, looked at it, and bought it.

That is quite typical of the way Sunday Times advertisements work. They plant a message during this day that is an impression-interval, when people take their time about things—and such messages persist all through the week.

That is why the Sunday advertisements are, as you have undoubtedly noticed, built rather differently from those of week-days—that they may work throughout the week that follows the impression-interval. They do not aim at same-day sales—stores are closed, anyway, on Sunday; they aim rather to equalize and stabilize sales over several succeeding days. They reinforce, and are reinforced by, the advertiser's daily messages—but they are designed to get to you when you're enjoying your interval between two busy weeks, and have the leisure to welcome new impressions.

All through this week merchants will be selling lawn-swings, and iced-tea sets, and radios and autos and rugs and things, because the Sunday Times started readers to thinking about just those purchases. Advertisers make strong impressions, during this Sunday interval.

WICHITA FALLS' MASTER SALESMAN

BOB LONG AGAIN TO SEEK PLACE IN LEGISLATURE

Referring to himself as a "peanut politician" who has left "only faint footprints in the sands of time," Bob Long formally announced Saturday that he will be a candidate for re-election to the legislature from the 111th (Wichita county) district, subject to the Democratic primary in July.

Referring to his activities in regard to a pending legislative investigation in regard to the leasing of university lands for oil exploration, he expressed the hopes that the activities of a committee of which he is a member will bring about the recovery of several hundred millions of dollars for the university.

His announcement follows:

"To the voters of Wichita county:

"Most candidates seeking re-election would offer their record while in office as the major part of their platform. But to tell the truth, I have no record, but as most 'peanut' politicians, I have only very light 'footprints in the sands of time.' Although the footprints are but faintly discernible, my desires and efforts have not been lacking. I am, of course, for lower taxes, economy and a business administration; these, as usual, are the burning issues upon which the candidate bases his platform.

"Like a majority of this year's candidates, I am opposed to the state-wide highway bond issue, and the relocation of the prison system near Austin; the only difference being that I have voted and will continue to vote against the same.

Aid Oil Industry

"My promise in the last campaign was to weigh both sides of a question and to vote for the question as right dictated. I have followed this rule in the past and will continue to do so in the future. My main interest, as a member of the legislature, has been to protect and aid the oil industry in every possible way, as any oil operator of Wichita county that was a visitor in Austin, during any session of the 41st legislature, will testify.

"As a member of the University oil lease investigation committee, I hope to help recover several hundred millions of dollars lost by the university through fraudulent leases. After a year's thorough inquiry on my own part and the expenditure of several hundred dollars of my own money, I became convinced that a legislative investigation was necessary.

"The legislature ordered the investigation and named me as a member of the committee. I hope to be able to complete the work that has already taken so much of my time.

"I sincerely hope that I will have no opposition at the coming primaries, as I desire to attend the university law school this summer, in order to make up for time lost attending the last six sessions of the legislature, and to make up the courses that I am bound to 'flunk' this spring."

Opportunities Plentiful for Used Car Buyer

For the family that is unable to afford a new car of the larger makes but does not wish to buy a smaller one, the used car market offers an opportunity to get the kind of automobile to suit any purpose at a low cost, in the opinion of F. C. Webster, who has charge of the used car department for McFall Brothers at 600 Scott avenue.

Used cars are an especially profitable investment for the man who wishes an extra automobile for business or family use in addition to the one he already has, when they are renovated and well serviced, Mr. Webster believes.

CARNIVAL MEN FINED ON PLEAS OF GUILTY HERE TO 'CORN' GAME CHARGES

Two men accused of gaming in connection with the operation of a "corn" game at a carnival which played in Wichita Falls during the week pleaded guilty in the county court at law here Saturday and were fined $10 and costs each by Judge Irvin J. Vogel.

They were arrested by Warren Belcher, deputy sheriff, after he and Wayne Somerville, county attorney, reported they had made an investigation of the game Friday night. The game was closed.

A "corn" game, it was explained, is one in which the player attempts to complete rows of figures upon cards. The first to complete such a row receives a prize, the officers said.

The English motor industry employs about 270,000 persons.

CONVENTION HIGH LIGHTS

Editor's Note: This column written by Shirley Donnell will appear on each Wednesday and Sunday of the week until the convention which will be held here during June. The high lights are given for the benefit of those interested in the work of the organization.

The state Christian Endeavor convention committee is busy planning for the large delegation from all over the state expected to attend the 41st annual convention to be held in the First Presbyterian church of this city, June 11 to 15.

Registrations are coming in every day and all indications point to one of the greatest conventions in the history of the state union.

If you have not already registered do so now and plan to attend the opening session on Wednesday evening, June 11, and stay through to the close on Sunday evening, June 15.

Completion of the pavement from Vernon to Crowell should make it much easier for the Endeavorers from that part of our district to attend the convention. Crowell has a lively group of Christian Endeavorers and we are expecting a large delegation to attend the convention from that city.

On April 27th a delegation of flying squadron members from Quanah motored to Paducah and held a rally. Clouds bearing a rain aspect lessened the number in attendance but in no manner lessened the enthusiasm, and our district vice-president, Robert Hamilton, reports a good meeting. Quite a large group from that city will be here to meet us at the convention.

Graham is planning to send a large group to the convention. According to information received they plan to charter a bus, and we might add that the weather man can have no part in their plans as they have pavement all the way.

Word from San Antonio informs us that a large delegation may be expected from that place by automobile caravan. We will be glad to welcome the Endeavorers from San Antonio district, and our one wish for them is that they can leave tire and motor trouble at home.

We don't know what plans are being made in the districts in the far western and extreme southern parts of our state, but we would like to hear from them.

Littlefield Barbecue

LITTLEFIELD, Texas, May 10.—Littlefield is planning a big barbecue, with various attractions, celebrating the Fourth of July this year under the auspices of the American Legion and chamber of commerce.

Potentate Ed Peterson of Maskat temple, announced Saturday that arrangements are completed for the spring ceremonial, which will be held Thursday, May 15. A class of 50 is expected. Mr. Peterson said that the following officers of Medinah temple, Chicago, the largest temple in the United States, with a membership of 23,000, will be present:

Albert Hancock, potentate; U. J. Hermann, assistant rabban; Hyde Perce, high priest and prophet; B. J. Metzger, oriental guide; E. L. Schneider, captain of the guard; Charles D. Heller, chief aide to the potentate; George D. Chase, manager of the brass band; George R. Lemmer, chairman of transportation committee; E. E. Mills, past potentate; Will H. Wade, past potentate.

This is the greatest distance in the history of Shrinedom that the divan officers of one temple have ever gone to visit another temple. Complete arrangements have been made for their reception.

The ceremonial will be held in the Memorial auditorium and will be known as "Charter Members' Ceremonial."

The schedule for the ceremonial is as follows:

Registration of novices, 8 a. m. to 4 p. m.
Business meeting, Maskat temple, 11 a. m.
Parade, Horrace Robbins in charge, 4 p. m.
Ceremonial, first and third sections, 6 p. m.
Memorial auditorium. (No smoking during these sections).
Ceremonial, second section, 7:30 p. m.
"Hollywood Review."
Dance for nobles and ladies, 9:30 p. m. Maskat temple. 1930 card and fez.
Introduction of charter members. Awarding of medals, between third and second sections.

Ladies' Program

Out-of-town ladies register at Kemp hotel from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.
Room reserved for ladies at Kemp hotel. Theater tickets may be had from Mrs. Ed Peterson by out-of-town ladies.
Dinner and entertainment at Kemp hotel for out-of-town ladies and dance at Maskat temple at 9:30 p. m.

There are about 92,000 motor buses being operated in the United States.

NIGHT CLUB OPERATORS GIVEN JAIL SENTENCES

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 10. (INS)—A decision of national interest was rendered today by Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell here when he imposed jail sentences and fines upon two operators of a night club in which patrons were found drinking, although there was no evidence that liquor was sold in the place.

The defendants, were Claude Williams, owner, and Lester Thurman, an employe of the famous Log Cabin night club near New Albany, Ind., a favorite gathering place for the socially elect of Louisville, Ky.

Williams received nine months in jail and a $1,000 fine, and Thurman four months in jail and a $500 fine.

Lawton County Court

LAWTON, Okla., May 10.—County court will endeavor to clear the dockets in the term which sets here May 17, arraignment day and date for hearing motions and demurrers. Monday will be devoted to civil cases and the criminal docket will be taken up Tuesday. As usual, the big majority of cases on the criminal docket are liquor cases.

FARMERS VALLEY BOY WINS PRIZE AT LEAGUE MEET

TOLBERT, Texas, May 10.—Ernest Duckworth, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Duckworth of Farmers Valley, won second place in senior boy's declamation, rural division, at the state interscholastic league meet at Austin last Friday. After winning first places in Wilbarger county and at the district meet at Wichita Falls.

Ernest is in the tenth grade at the Farmers Valley High school and a student of E. H. Tooley, principal. Mr. Tooley accompanied the student to Austin.

His speech was "The Liberty Bell" by George Lippard.

QUANAH MAN DIRECTOR FREE BRIDGE SOCIETY

QUANAH, Texas, May 10.—R. R. Gilliland of Quanah was elected one of the members of the board of directors of the Red River Free Bridge association which was permanently organized at Lawton, Okla., last week. The purpose of the organization, it was stated, is to "tie Texas and Oklahoma together with free bridges."

An endeavor will be made by the association to promote purchases of the toll bridges at a reasonable compensation to owners, and have them operated by the states as free bridges. A free bridge every 50 miles is entirely inadequate, it was contended, for the accommodation of those most interested.

Home Economics Class

LAMESA, Texas, May 10.—Home economics students of Lamesa High school will be afforded the opportunity of making an extra unit during their summer vacations in a special home project course taught by Miss Una Earnest, home economics instructor. The pupils will earn the half credit with special home work similar to class work, as recommended by Miss Lillian Peek, state supervisor. Over 40 girls have applied for the course, according to Miss Earnest.

Will Drawn 35 Years Ago Forms Center of Law Test Filed Here

A fight growing out of a will made 35 years ago and involving an estate having a present estimated value in excess of $250,000 has been tentatively set for hearing during the June term of the Wichita county court, according to an announcement Saturday.

The will over which the court action is concerned is that made by C. C. White, one of the most prominent of the landowners, capitalists and wholesale merchants of pioneer days in Northwest Texas, who died Sept. 14, 1896, leaving an estate having a value then estimated at $150,000.

The pending court fight, opened several days ago with the filing of a claim in county court here, centers about provisions made in Mr. White's will for the sharing by the widow, Mrs. M. C. White, who died in 1925 without having remarried, in the community property of the estate left by him.

The action now pending seeks for 33 grand and great-grand nieces and nephews of Mr. White that portion of the property held by Mrs. White at the time of her death which had accumulated from her portion of the community estate left by her husband. The petition filed in county court alleges that such estate is being held from claimants by children of Mrs. White, who are the stepchildren of Mr. White, according to information given by attorneys. The petition was filed by Taylor, Muse & Taylor, Wichita Falls attorneys.

Most of those named as defendants in the action reside in Texas and Oklahoma, though one resides in Hawaii and several reside in California, according to the petition.

Ed Tucker, of Wichita Falls, grandson of a brother of Mr. White, is plaintiff in the action, while among the defendants are named F. M. Avis of Imperial Valley, Calif., J. D. Avis, Mrs. Nancy Belle Hodges and Mrs. T. M. Palmer, all of Wichita Falls, in addition to the grand and great-grand nieces and nephews.

The petition sets out that Mrs. White, following her husband's death, accepted a lifetime interest in a share of his community estate amounting to $27,804.66. In addition, it is further set out, her half of the community estate which became hers in fee simple by the laws of descent and distribution amounted to $55,609.36.

When Mrs. White died in 1925, the petition continues, she left an estate which included, among other items, bank shares having a cash value of $28,400; cash amounting to $40,000; and downtown Wichita Falls business property valued at $130,000. The further claim is made that she possessed other property of a value not known to the plaintiff.

The plaintiffs contend that one-fourth of her estate represents the accumulation from her share of community property left her by Mr. White and in which, it is alleged, she held only a lifetime interest. The surviving heirs of Mr. White, it is further urged, became the sole heirs to that portion of the estate on Mrs. White's death.

The petition alleges that the estate is being withheld from such claimants by F. M. and J. D. Avis, Mrs. Hodges and Mrs. Palmer. The court is asked to hold that none of those is entitled to any portion of the amount claimed and to determine the proportion in which claimants shall share in the estate.

NEW PAVED VERNON-CROWELL HIGHWAY IS OPENED ON FRIDAY

Lee Highway Paving in Texas Reaches Crowell—Grade Ready On Long Strip Toward Muleshoe

The day is not far distant when the Lee highway will be paved across the state of Texas, commemorating in a material and tangible manner the memory of the great leader of the Confederacy. Friday, May 9, the completion of the paving of this highway in Texas as far as Crowell was celebrated with a meeting at Crowell of 600 to 800 citizens, representing 12 or 15 towns in West Texas.

The Lee highway, which has suffered many reverses since the Lee Highway association was formed to promote a road across the continent from Washington, D. C., to San Diego, Calif., enters Texas at a point on the Red river, north of Oklaunion and traverses a great section of the Panhandle-Plains, going by way of Vernon to Crowell, Paducah, Matador, Floydada and Plainview, connecting at Muleshoe with another state highway that is a part of the Lee highway system.

The road in Texas is now all paved as far as Crowell and the road on from Crowell west and north has had grade and drainage structures over a large section. The grade and drainage is all in from Crowell to Paducah and the paving is laid from Paducah to the Motley county line. Grade and drainage structures are now being put in in Motley county. Floyd county is the only county in Texas that has not taken action for the paving of this road and the county judge of Floyd county, speaking at the Crowell celebration, stated that he was one that would do all he could to see that Floyd county took steps toward the paving of this highway. He said he thought that the people were in favor of taking such action and would do so when the proposition was laid before them.

At the Crowell celebration R. H. (Dick) Coffee of Vernon gave a detailed history of the Lee Highway association and the progress it had made in getting the road designated and the progress made on having the highway improved. He paid tribute to the highway department for the cooperation that body has lent in promoting the road across Texas.

George D. Self of Crowell acted as master of ceremonies for the celebration of the newly-laid paving. The arrangements had been in charge of a committee headed by Mack Boswell, secretary of the Crowell Chamber of Commerce and editor of the newspaper there.

The welcome address was delivered by T. N. Bell, banker of Crowell and the response was given by C. C. McDonald, Wichita Falls attorney.

C. C. Small of Wellington, candidate for governor of Texas, made a short talk of a non-political nature and congratulated the people of the section on this fine new road. He said that he drove over the road from Fort Worth and that he found himself rocked to sleep when he got on the new Vernon-Crowell section.

Judge W. N. Ely of Abilene was the principal speaker on the program and he dwelt, in the main, on the matter of a state highway bond issue for the construction and maintenance of roads in this state. He strongly advocated such a move.

Other speakers on the program were Judge L. S. Kinder of Plainview; Judge Adams of Muleshoe, Bailey county; Judge McGehee of Floydada; Fred Schrier of Olton, Lamb county, a builder for the Santa Fe railroad; Judge C. L. Glenn of Matador, Judge Whatley of Paducah, Ed McRae of the highway department of the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce; Ned Hoffman, secretary-treasurer of the McClung Construction company of Fort Worth; Byron Reese, Foard county resident engineer; J. A. Parrish of Earth, and Grady Shipp, secretary of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce. Colonel Smythe of Plainview was introduced to the audience when the master of ceremonies asked him to stand.

Two entertainment numbers were given on the program. The high school Choral club of Crowell sang two numbers, "Hello, Baby" and "Singing in the Rain" and Frank Humphrey of Wichita Falls rendered two numbers on the Scottish bagpipe.

Towns represented at the Crowell celebration were Muleshoe, Earth, Olton, Plainview, Floydada, Matador, Paducah, Crowell, Thalia, Lockett, Rayland, Vernon, Wichita Falls, Electra, Fort Worth, Throckmorton, Quanah, Chillicothe and Benjamin.

HIGHWAY FROM CROWELL TO VERNON COMPLETED

Pouring the last foot of concrete, giving Crowell a paved highway to Vernon and Wichita Falls, an event celebrated with appropriate ceremony Friday afternoon, in which towns and cities along the route took part.

The completion of the pavement from Vernon to Crowell, shown in heavy black on the map above, gives to Crowell a paved outlet to Wichita Falls, since the section from Wichita Falls to Vernon has been paved for some time. The Lee highway, shown on the map, enters Texas at a point on the Red river north of Oklaunion and goes by way of Vernon, Crowell, Paducah, Matador, Floydada and Plainview to Muleshoe, where it connects with another highway that is a part of the Lee highway system. The heavy black on the map shows the route from Wichita Falls to Crowell.

BROADCAST NEWS FREE IN GERMANY COURT DECLARES

BERLIN, May 10. (INS)—Newspapers and particularly press associations in Germany today were seriously concerned over a ruling just handed down by the supreme court of Leipzig declaring: "Broadcast news is free for publication by anybody, and cannot be protected by copyright."

The ruling was handed down on a test brought by the Reich Broadcasting company against a publisher of Oebisfielde, Saxony, who issued an "extra" on the news of the safe landing of the Graf Zeppelin on its return from the United States on Nov. 1, 1928. The news of the landing was broadcast by the Reich company.

The decision is considered a severe blow to press associations in Germany which transmit their news to their client newspapers by radio broadcast, preceding the broadcast by the announcement that the news is copyrighted and publication prohibited, except by subscribing papers. The court's ruling, it is believed nullifies the validity of this announcement.

The court based its decision on the following grounds:

1—Broadcasting is not copyrighted.

2—Reprinting of broadcast news by newspapers is no violation of good business ethics.

3—All news items published by newspapers are free to be broadcast.

ROY TOOMBS GIVEN ADDED PRISON TERM

ST. LOUIS, May 10. (INS)—Roy C. Toombs, former president of the defunct International Life Insurance company already serving a prison sentence today was sentenced to an additional three-year term in the state penitentiary.

Toombs was found guilty by a jury in circuit court here today which in addition to the sentence imposed a fine of $1 to $3,000 besides the prison term.

In a previous trial Toombs was sentenced to three years in prison and fined $3,000.

Toombs was convicted on an indictment, charging that he caused the issuance of 9,000 shares of the capital stock of the company above the authorized issue in obtaining a loan of $500,000 from E. P. Greenwood, president of the Great Southern Insurance company of Dallas, Texas.

PRISON HEAD SAYS SYSTEM FAILS TO IMPROVE INMATES

WASHINGTON, May 10. (INS)—The nation's system in handling prisoners fails to transform them into good citizens again, Sanford Bates, superintendent of federal prisons, told the International Congress on Mental Hygiene, and cited the prison riots and horrors of recent years.

Declaring that there were more criminals in the United States than in European countries, he said this was due to the attempts made during the past 25 years to raise standards of conduct by making acts criminal by law which never before had been considered wrong.

Warning a fight is prevailing between society and criminals, Bates said the policy to be adopted in the treatment of prisoners in the next few years would be of extreme importance to the future welfare of the country.

He said indirect responsibility for the prison riots and the Columbus, Ohio, prison catastrophe lay in crime commissions which called for increased punishment; legislatures which increased the penalties, and to the judges and parole boards who had lost a sense of proportion in dealing with sentences.

Prisons of the future should be a disciplinary school for those who can be reformed, a place for the permanent segregation of the incorrigible, and a laboratory for the study of crime, he said.

Marie Refuses to Ride in Second Auto in Parade

BUCHAREST, May 10. (INS)—Piqued because she could not ride in the first car of Rumania's Memorial day parade, the dowager Queen Marie departed ostentatiously for her villa Bacic, on the Black sea, today, leaving behind her reports of a rift in the royal household.

According to authoritative information, the dispute was between Queen Marie and Princess Helene, wife of the exiled Crown Prince Carol and mother of the boy king Michael.

Ever since King Michael was proclaimed sovereign, Marie has ridden by his side in the leadng car of the procession. It is understood Princess Helene asserted her rights and insisted the queen should ride in the second car.

Dissension has been rife in the royal household for some days, according to reliable reports. Queen Marie and her son, Prince Nicholas have been working strongly for the return of Prince Carol. They have been opposed by some members of the regency council as well as by Princess Helene, who fears her son would be deprived of his kingship if the prince returned.

We furnished the gravel for the new Crowell highway which was officially opened Friday, May 9. At the same time we were furnishing gravel for the highway from Seymour to Olney and for highways in Lubbock and Hardeman counties.

We are now supplying the gravel for the Wichita Mill project in Wichita Falls, which will consume as much gravel as an ordinary highway job.

We want to congratulate the people of Wichita Falls, Vernon, Thalia and Crowell on the opening of this fine, new paved road.

We Wish to Congratulate the People of Wilbarger and Foard Counties on the opening of the highway leading from Vernon to Crowell and giving Crowell a paved outlet to Vernon and Wichita Falls. It will not be very long until the Lee Highway is paved entirely across the state from where it crosses Red River, near Oklaunion, to the New Mexico state line beyond Muleshoe.

We had a part in the building of this highway by constructing grade and drainage structures along the route where the paving has been or is to be laid.

GRAF ZEPPELIN SOLD OUT FOR FIRST EUROPE-SOUTH AMERICA NON-STOP FLIGHT IN HISTORY

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service)
Universal Service Special Cable

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, May 10.—The Graf Zeppelin, globe-girdling dirigible, is sold out for the first Europe-to-South America, non-stop, passenger and mail flight in history, which starts next Sunday, May 18.

The famous craft is scheduled to leave its dock here next Sunday and point toward Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro, Havana and Lakehurst.

All cabins will be full. There are 19 or 20 passengers, including three women—Lady Drummond Hay, a Spanish marquise, and an American girl whose name is not yet announced.

The Graf will moor at Seville over night to take on several Spanish passengers and mail for South America, and will get off on the second leg the following morning.

The Canary islands will be reached the same evening and the Cape Verde islands the second morning. Of the flight, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, said:

"We should have very delightful and smooth sailing from Seville to Pernambuco, and I believe that leg will take us not more than 47 hours."

Dr. Eckener in Berlin

Dr. Eckener is now in Berlin to arrange for the last mails to be brought from Berlin to Seville by fast plane.

If expectations of the 25-mile pusher trade wind are realized, the Graf will probably run the greater part of the distance on four motors. Dr. Eckener is not certain yet whether he will moor the great ship at Pernambuco before continuing on south to Rio de Janeiro, or not until he returns from the capital city of Brazil. There will be two days' stay at Pernambuco for refueling.

On the flight northward from Pernambuco, the Graf will not attempt to set up a speed record. Dr. Eckener declared today:

"I want to show the passengers the scenic beauties of the whole string of West Indies from the air in a way that no one ever has seen all of them in one flight."

It is probable that a landing will be made at Havana for several hours, and from there, the north route will carry along Key West to Miami and Palm Beach.

As this is another pioneer flight of the Graf through trackless spaces where no airship has been before, with the exception of the Los Angeles flight to Havana, much attention will be given to the study of atmospheric conditions in equatorial regions, and close touch kept with weather stations in the Caribbean sea.

The Sibley-Taylor Epworth league will hold a pie supper at the Sibley-Taylor Methodist church next Friday night to raise funds for the purpose of sending a delegation to an assembly to be held in Sherman June 2 to 7.

DISMISS CHARGES THAT ALLEGE WILLFUL NEGLECT

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 10. (UP)—Charges of wilful neglect of duty and maladministration against C. R. Henson, suspended chairman of the Muskogee county commissioners, were dropped here late today when Judge Enloe Vernor sustained a blanket demurrer made by Hinson's counsel.

Hinson, with A. T. Ingram and Irvin Blanchard previously had been acquitted by a jury on a joint charge against the three of maladministration.

Hinson probably will be restored to the board chairmanship Monday by order of the court, it was said. Amos Marlin, Muskogee, named by Gov. W. J. Holloway, has been serving in his place. Trials of Blanchard and Ingram, on similar charges of which Hinson was acquitted, are pending.

ANNIVERSARY SAILING BASE HOSPITAL UNIT

WASHINGTON, May 10. (US)—Tomorrow is the 13th anniversary of the sailing of base hospital No. 5 for France, the war department today announced.

This was the first unit of the A. E. F. to have personnel killed by the enemy. Lieut. William T. Fitzsimmons, for whom Fitzsimmons General hospital at Denver is named, and Private Oscar C. Tugo, Rudolph Rubio Jr., and Leslie G. Woods were killed when the hospital was bombed on the night of Sept. 4, 1917.

Hoover Answers Call of Fishing Camp Virginia

PRESIDENT HOOVER'S CAMP, Va., May 10. (US)—President Hoover and many members of his official family today answered the lure of rod and reel and stream.

The president was up at daylight rallying his little fishing cabinet and at 7 o'clock left by motor for his camp at the headwaters of the Rapidan river in Virginia. He made record time and at 10 o'clock was casting in the well-stocked stream. A new roadway, just opened, enabled the party to cut 30 minutes from the usual time.

The president was accompanied by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, Justice Stone of the United States supreme court, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hope, and Mark Sullivan, writer. Secretary Hope is a recruit to the little coterie of anglers and this was his first trip. Lawrence Richey, secretary to the president and Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician who always accompany him, went along.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who has been ill for several weeks, has been recuperating in the president's camp for several days and joined the party upon their arrival.

Mrs. Hoover is still kept to the White House with a wrenched back as the result of a fall several weeks ago, and could not make the trip.

While the president was fishing on the Rapidian Secretary of State Stimson went to some unannounced resort. Before going he refused to say anything beyond that he preferred to fish alone, had an old favorite stream nearby and that he would return to his desk Monday.

Dreams Former New York Society Girl Come True With Oil Property Transfer That Nets Her $2,500,000

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10. (UP)—That Marion Hollins, former New York society girl and one time national women's golf champion, had dreams and hopes of earning more than one million dollars was disclosed today.

The dream came true this week when the Honolulu Consolidated and Standard Oil company of California purchased the Kettleman Oil company. The price was in excess of $10,000,000 and Miss Hollins' share was $2,500,000.

Today Miss Hollins spent $50,000 of the money in paying wagers made several years ago. Eric Pedley, Pacific coast polo star, received $25,000 and an unnamed woman friend received a similar sum.

The trio, a few years ago, agreed that the first to possess one million dollars should pay the others $25,000.

Miss Hollins came to Pebble Beach, on the the Monterey peninsula, six years ago and entered the real estate business in an effort to regain the family fortune which disappeared during the hectic days of the world war.

Lays Out Golf Courses

Laying out golf courses was a profitable sideline to the real estate business and Miss Hollins profited by her experience as a golfer.

Not only is the fortunate girl continuing with her work, but friends say she has ambitious plans for branching out on a bigger and more extensive program. Other offices of the Hollins Estate company, financed by oil money, will be opened, it is said.

Just now Miss Hollins is completing a contract with the Pasa Tiempo Golf club of Santa Cruz, a resort city near San Francisco.

The development of Kettleman Hills, probably the world's richest oil field, is an interesting part of Miss Hollins' career. When the Mariand Oil company failed to interest major concerns, Miss Hollins went to New York and interested capitalists in the field's exploitation.

It is said that approximately $100,000 was invested and that this sum brought the lucky ones more than $10,000,000.

Hand-to-Hand Struggles With Venomous Fish Part of the Price Paid by the Noted French Maritime Artist Cheverlange as He Actually Makes Oil Paintings Under Water While Breathing With His Own Perfected Device

M. Elie Cheverlange, fearless French undersea artist, is touching up a painting which he executed many feet below the surface

M. Cheverlange descending to his undersea "studio" to paint the beauties of tropical marine life in its native element

Remarkable submarine photograph showing starfish, sea urchins and beche-de-mer, seemingly planted in a living coral garden

By R. O. Todd

THRILLING adventures have become almost commonplace to Monsieur Elie Cheverlange, marine artist, while pursuing his lifework of exploring the fantastic ocean floors around the South Sea Islands, so he can study first-hand the loveliest undersea creatures in their native haunts off the romantic coral reefs.

In his quest for beauty and charm in the remote corners of the globe, the famous painter, who has just completed an important commission for the Smithsonian Institution, has grappled again and again with giant octopuses and has successfully put to rout many other weird and dangerous creatures of the tropical seas.

Yet the fearless Frenchman is loath to discuss his daring experiences, preferring rather to emphasize what he modestly regards as his most notable contribution to the world — the development of a unique device that enables him to remain under water for half-hour periods at a time while perfecting a technique of painting submerged many feet below the surface.

Wearing especially devised sea goggles and with fifteen-pound weights attached to his feet, he descends with a long rubber tube in his mouth. He must train himself to inhale and exhale air through the same tube. So he takes a long breath, expels the air through the entire length of the tube, waits until it is clear, and then takes another breath. By painstaking practice he has reached the point where he can remain under water in perfect comfort. Mme. Cheverlange, the artist's charming wife, has likewise mastered this technique.

THE artist actually has been able to make oil paintings under water by using paint of a certain consistency and having the canvas stretched on a heavy metal plate. He also sketches on slate, steel and copper, later transferring the work to paper.

Some of M. Cheverlange's fascinating experiences are described graphically in his own words:

"First of all, I ought to point out that I started out early in life with a youthful desire to live pretty much as an adventurer. Born in France, of an artist father, I started following in his footsteps at the well-known Nationale School, at Paris. Back in 1901, however, my restlessness dominated me and I set sail for the United States, thereby beginning a life of travel that took me to Canada, India, Japan and China, before finally settling down to my major life interest—painting tropical fish.

"All the while, however, I was gaining valuable practical experience in my chosen field of art. Generally, I followed the trade of lithographer, but spent a couple of years as cartoonist on a Japanese newspaper owned and controlled by the French.

"It's really hard to say when I first acquired the urge to paint fish. It might have been in the neighborhood of fifteen years ago when, without funds, I took on a temporary job in a British Columbia salmon fishery, thus gaining quite an intimate acquaintance with at least one species of the finny tribe. More probably, my interest was whipped into enthusiasm by the lovely creative work of the Japanese artists, who are prone to emphasize the elfland which we call the sea bottom. But it was in China, in Saigon, in the French section, that I first wore a diver's suit. I had been fascinated while watching the almost uncanny skill of the professional divers employed in construction work along the rivers there.

"However, my actual undersea painting did not begin until 1920. While in the South Sea Islands my friend, Monsieur Hérve, a high-ranking French official, urged me to try to paint some of the undersea beauties for which the islands are world-renowned.

"Very soon I borrowed regulation heavy diving equipment and was amazed at the colorful undersea scenery, which I would describe as strange, silent gardens bathed in a weird green fog and filled with fluttering colors through which loom the orange, rose-red and yellow towers of fairy cities.

"Of course, I tried to do a bit of painting while I was underneath the surface and was pleased to find that certain heavy pigments could be transferred to canvas very satisfactorily. Yet the cumbersome diving suit interfered so seriously with my free movements that I soon resolved to develop a device of my own.

"After many failures I achieved success in this respect, devising a light tube, entirely water-tight, that is held between the teeth of the wearer, goes underneath the arms and up to the surface, being passed through a float made of wood, so as to achieve constant buoyancy. So as to protect my nose I wore a clothespin and over my eyes a pair of sea goggles tied tightly behind the head to keep the water out.

"THE main beauty of this apparatus was that I needed not a stitch of clothing, save a loincloth. However, I did find it necessary, in order to stay down, to wear the regulation diving shoes, which weigh about fifteen pounds.

"After considerable practice, I trained myself to remain on the ocean's bottom, at depths around ten feet, for periods of half an hour. No discomfort was suffered, so that now and then I persuaded my wife, also an enthusiastic naturalist, to go below for short intervals.

"As for my painting equipment, I had to work out my own salvation. But in a few weeks I developed what looks to the casual observer like a very crude technique, but which has worked admirably. This involves the use of a piece of copper sheeting, about a quarter of an inch thick, twenty-five inches long and fifteen inches wide. To this I attached, by means of strong string and pins, a piece of heavy canvas of the same size.

"Many of my distinguished friends smile when I tell them that instead of a paint brush, which, of course, is too light to use to advantage under the water, I employ half of an old pair of scissors. This works very well with the thick color pigments which I found necessary to employ.

"In addition to all this painting equipment, I always follow the practice of descending with a harpoon in one hand. It is the only adequate defense against the weird octopuses that abound in the coral caverns. While most of them are small, I have personally met and grappled with quite a few giants of about five feet in circumference.

"Some little-known facts about the devilfish, as he sometimes is called, are these: he doesn't do a great deal of swimming, though he can if he so chooses. Usually he prefers to crawl about on the ocean bottom on three or four of his eight arms. Each of these arms is covered with a double row of suckers, which are used in capturing crustaceans, his chief food, after being paralyzed previously by a poison secreted by the octopus' salivary glands."

M. CHEVERLANGE is probably the first artist to study the octopus in its native haunts. He has watched it change color from second to second, almost too rapidly for the human eye to follow; from dark sepia through flesh color, pink and white, according to the coral over which it passed. The strange creature proceeds swiftly through the sea like a folded umbrella, the webs between its tentacles a lovely green, matching the color of the green coral sand. Usually it hides in holes in the coral and always travels alone.

As a result of many extremely intimate experiences with giant octopuses, M. Cheverlange has had to develop his own technique of protection. First, he explains, he tries to harpoon it, and then as quickly as possible endeavors to turn it upside down. In that position its powerful arms are almost helpless, enabling a human being actually to grasp the creature and strangle it to death.

Many a time M. Cheverlange has killed devilfish by adopting this procedure, and has even caught some of the smaller ones alive so as to make first-hand paintings of them.

Besides the octopus, he tells of meeting other gruesome horrors that lurk in the silent undersea gardens, which are always teeming with life and color. Most dreadful of these is the patui, a giant relative of our rock cod, which hides in the coral caves. This fish, says the artist, seems to be almost entirely a gigantic mouth. It is only about three feet from tip of tail to tip of mouth, but the mouth alone, rimmed with sharp teeth, opens to a width of at least two feet.

This creature will attack anything it can get into its mouth, grabbing the head first. Occasionally it has been known to pick off a native diver of the South Seas, literally swallowing the man's head and trunk, leaving the legs sticking out of its massive mouth. Then it proceeds to chew up and digest the suffocated victim at its leisure. Fortunately, however, the patui is not particularly common. The best procedure, when one is supposed to be in a given neighborhood, is to give it a wide berth. If one happens to come near you while you are undersea, then look to your trusty harpoon!

There is also a peculiar species of sea eel which grows to the size of a boa constrictor and will dart like lightning at a human being, sinking its razor-like teeth into an arm or ankle. Frequently a creature of this species has bitten an entire finger away and it can inflict wounds which will cause its victim to bleed to death. A man would be helpless against one of these creatures, M. Cheverlange says, if it were not for a trick familiar to the natives. In its quick dive the eel achieves any grip it can and holds on. All the attacked person has to do is to endure the pain until the fish opens its mouth. Then, if the man moves quickly enough with spear or weighted foot, he can push the creature away and escape to the surface.

Another marine marauder is the nohu, or scorpion fish. Only about a foot long, it looks like a combination between a bunch of small stones and a huge toad. Its skin is soft, pulpy and altogether loathsome-looking. One is in no danger if he encounters a nohu, Mr. Cheverlange says, unless he happens to step on him. Then he should beware, for the creature will sting him, emitting a milky-white substance that is extremely venomous and causes extreme nausea.

THE coral caves are also alive with multi-colored sea snakes, members of the dreaded cobra family, whose venom is fatal. Yet again and again M. Cheverlange has picked them up in his hands without ill effects.

"The most prominent feature of the undersea landscape," M. Cheverlange explains, "is the floating, translucent green fog which envelops everything. All the living creatures and objects in the landscape seem to be emerging out of this fog, as if they were bits of the mist itself, meanwhile assuming weird shapes. The whole landscape is such as one hardly would expect to find here on earth, but is one we might read about in an imaginary description of the scenery on the moon or on another planet. It is indeed like discovering a new world."

M. Cheverlange believes the landscape on the sea bottom has gone undiscovered by artists so long only because few have previously taken the trouble to observe it from a truly artistic perspective. Men in diving suits see everything with a distorted perspective, he insists, and lack the necessary freedom of movement which is made possible by his own device.

CALL TO ARMS BRINGS TENSE AIR TO INDIA

Followers of Gandhi Plan Uprising Against British

POSTERS URGE NATIVES TO MILITANT REVOLT

Moslems Celebrate Fete Under Special Guards

BOMBAY, May 10. (US)—A call to arms was issued by Nationalist followers of the imprisoned Mahatma Gandhi at Poona today. That city, gathering point of the refugees from Sholapur and the surrounding inflamed countryside, awoke to find its buildings plastered with posters calling for an organized revolution against British authority.

Printed in glaring red ink, the posters urged the population to collect arms and ammunition for a concentrated militant effort against the British. They were signed "commander in chief of the Hindustan army."

The posters created a great deal of excitement, particularly among the several hundred women and children but yesterday arrived here from Sholapur. Added to this came reports that the latter city is still in a state of electric tension.

A false alarm that the mob was marching on the police ammunition magazine caused the troops to turn out and occupy strategic positions throughout the city. The day, however, passed without any untoward incident, despite the celebration of the Mohammedan feast of Bakrid, which it was feared would precipitate scenes of violence all over India.

Moslem Ceremony

Today, commemorating Abraham's sacrifice of a lamb, the Moslem population kills the sacrifical cow, an animal sacred to the Hindu. In view of the Moslem refusal to join the civil disobedience campaign, it was feared that the day would see bloody conflict between the already estranged followers of the two religions.

In Sholapur it was thought the Moslems would seek reprisals for the burning alive of six Mohammedan policemen during the riots of Wednesday and Thursday. However, the extraordinary precautions taken by authorities prevented any outbreaks.

Open sacrifice of cows and goats was forbidden the Mohammedans, while Hindus were ordered to refrain from playing music before Mohammedan mosques.

In Rangoon, a city already desolated by the recent earthquake, the day was marked by a strike of dock workers, paralyzing the city's business.

In this city, J. N. Patel, resigned president of the Indian legislative assembly, called upon all Indians to boycott government servants and to refuse the payment of taxes until Gandhi is released from prison.

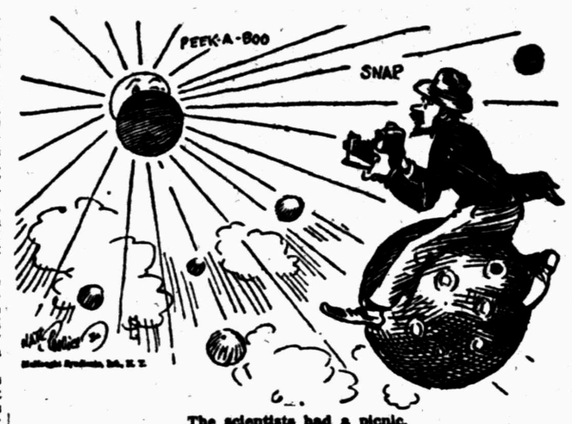

At the same time, it was learned that the Nationalist leader's arrest will not interfere with his planned march upon the government salt depots at Dharasana. His followers plan to leave Surat on Monday, raiding the depots Thursday.

THE BREAKS ARE ABOUT EVEN

By WILL ROGERS

The scientists had a picnic.

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. Our delegates getting back home on one of our own boats a couple of weeks ago was big news for when they went over it was thought they would sink so much that they would have to borrow a boat to come home on. Well, they come dragging in, they dident bring much back in the way of a Treaty, but enough to save their skin. They layed it on to France and Italy that they, America, England and Japan dident get any further. In other words they used France and Italy as an Alabi for them not agreeing better.

But take it all in all I guess the Boys did as good as could be expected. I know when I over there after listening to them for two and a half weeks I dident think they would ever get back home with their Pajamas.

Now comes the big fight in the Senate over what they brought back. Anything that has to pass by that Senate is just like a Rat having to pass a Cat convention, its sure to be pounced on, and the more meritorious the scheme is the less chance it has of passing. But there should be no serious opposition to any fair scheme they brought back. They wont sink much, and it wont hurt us much. This dissarmament is very dear to Mr Hoovers heart, and the Senate ought to at least let him have his way once. They have objected to everything else. I look for em to pass a resolution denouncing his brand of fishing tackle.

Scientists Had a Picnic

Course the Eclipse come and went away and the Scientists had a Picnic. They get more pleasure out of some fool thing the sun or moon does than you or I would get out of a new wedding. They got pictures of it. Why an Iowa Tourist that caught Mary and Doug out in the yard and got a snapshot of it wasent any prouder than these Boys when they found they had shot the Sun whiling it was hiding behind maby Venus or Neptune. It wasent as dark as it was at that Eclipse five or six years ago. That was a dandy. We are not putting on as good Eclipses as we did under the Coolidge administration. Hoover is falling down on our Eclipses. What we want is bigger and darker eclipses.

Say and you talk about these learned Scientists that know all about when these are going to happen, well let me tell you one, did you know that the Hopi indians out in Arizona that put on that snake dance every year, know about as much about the Moon and Stars and whats going to happen as these College Birds do. Those Indians dont let it be known just when the dance will be held till they have figured out various happenings of the elements. You see this dance is in the nature of a prayer for rain, and what I mean they get it. They are doing some praying that is backed up by some previous knowledge. They dont just grab a snake in their mouth and jump around and ask the Lord to drown them out just because they are asking it. These old Indians study the heavens for weeks ahead and they know about the time that rain is maby leaving Honolulu and headed this way, well then they say we will dance on the 6th of next month. Well I was up there year before last and before they could unwrap these rattlesnakes from around their necks and ears and tongues, why the old rain had started in. Those old Indians dont just take snap judgment on having their prayers answered. They know whats going to happen and then lay their prayers accordingly. Then we call em uncivilized. The trouble with our praying is we just do it as a means of last resort. We just pray for anything whether we got any dope on it or not. But not these Indians. Say the rain come down so thick and the roads was so bad and slippery that the Indians had no more than stopped praying for the rain to come than the Whites started praying for it to stop so their Fords wouldent slip over into the Grand Canyon. Well its just as I told you, we had no previous data on what could be expected of the duration of this particular rain, so we lost our prayer entirely. Now how do those Indians with no instruments, no cameras, no observatories, no Fraternity Pins, not even a College Pennant, Now how do they go about getting their advance information? But they know so many things we don't that its got so its no novelty to try and find out why they know it.

Knowledge and Happiness

You know I believe the Lord split knowledge up among his subjects about equal after all. The so called ignorant is happy. You think he is happy because he dont know any better. Maby he is happy because he knows enough to be happy. Well the smart one knows he knows a lot, and that makes him unhappy because he cant impart it to all his friends. Discontent comes in proportion to knowledge. The more you know the more you realize you dont know, so you see after all the Lord evened it up dident he? He evens up everything in the long run. Rockefeller has got a Billion dollars and cant eat corn beef and cabbage. Hoover has surveyed the entire Universe and fed the World, yet he cant catch a Sail Fish. Andy Mellon takes up our collection, and cares for our votes in Philadelphia. Henry Ford can jolt the Gizzards out of humanity but he spends his time trying to master the old fashioned quadrille. Coolidge was President of these great United States but he spends his time writing fiction for the Magazines.

Aimee McPherson has the whole of Los Angeles worshipping at her shrine, but over in Jarusalem they wont let her ask the blessing without she joins the Moslems. And the rest of us we have our little blessings in one way or the other. Here I am scratching around trying to tell enough jokes to pay my taxes and interest on what I owe every Bank out here. But I can dance a quadrille better than Henry, can eat anything, have no ambition to catch a fish, and just crazy enough to be happy. So when we all figure up, the breaks are about even.

SENATE EXPECTED CONFIRM ROBERTS WITHIN 10 DAYS

Thorough Study Will Be Made of Nominee First

M'BRIDE STATEMENT IS BLOW TO OPPOSITION

Norris and Borah Both Indicate Support for Philadelphian

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—The nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Philadelphia, to the supreme court faces thorough study by the senate, but leaders were confident today of his confirmation with a week or 10 days.

The wet issues raised against the nominee by Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, is simmering, but a statement issued toady by F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the anti-saloon league was hailed by the Roberts advocates.

"Integrity of character, legal qualifications, intellectual honesty, judicial temperament and capacity to deal with legal questions from strictly judicial viewpoint without bias created by personal predilection should determine the fitness of members of the judiciary, rather than other considerations," McBride said. "If Mr. Roberts measures up to these qualifications he should be confirmed." Informed that Roberts had denied a story stating that he denounced the 18th amendment in a speech in 1923, Senator Sheppard said he would withhold judgment on the nominee.

Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee said the nomination would be considered at the regular session Monday. A report from a sub-committee the following week would be in prospect.

Both Senators Norris and Borah, Republican, Idaho, who led the fights against Chief Justice Hughes and against Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina, have indicated their support of Roberts.

SECOND TRIAL OF JUDGE BRADY WILL BE MUCH SHORTER

DALLAS, May 10. (UP)—John W. Brady's second trial for murder as the aftermath to his fatal stabbing of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, supreme court stenographer, will be much shorter than the first, and the former appellate judge, may know his fate within a few days, it appeared tonight.

After less than two days of testimony the state rested its case today. When court reconvenes Monday the defense will open its attempt to show why the white-haired former judge should not pay with his life, as the state will demand, for the slaying.

So unexpected was the state's action in resting that the defense was taken off guard, and counsel asked for a recess through the remainder of the afternoon to prepare its case.

Only one important witness was called to the stand today, Otto Crider of Marble Falls, who was at the apartment house in which Miss Highsmith lived at the time she was killed on Nov. 9. He testified that he heard screams outside the apartment, among which was the girl's plea: "Please don't kill me." He said Brady replied: "I have been waiting for this a long time," and struck her several blows with a long-bladed knife.

Dr. H. A. Scott was called to testify that the girl's death resulted from stab wounds, of which there were four in the body. The fatal slash was six inches deep, he said.

COWBOY FINDS TOO MANY DISHES AND NOT ENOUGH GRUB IN CHICAGO CAFE

The "Last Rustler" went to Chicago once, and he reports, in his cowboy vernacular: "I rolled into one of them white linen restaurants where they serve all dishes and no grub. Women set around and supped tea like it was hot solder. There was a fancy waiter stood right by me as if I didn't know enough to wait on myself. A time or two he reached for something the same time I did. I had to shove him out of my way. I figured I was old enough to feed myself." The last straw, however, was, he says (in "The Last Rustler: The Autobiography of Lee Sage") when he saw a pair of sugar tongs—"they even used tweesers to handle the loaf sugar."

CONDITION ANDREW BASS IS REPORTED IMPROVED

BENTONVILLE, Ark., May 10. (UP)—The condition of Dr. Andrew Bass, Columbia, Mo., dentist, who attempted to commit suicide in the Benton county jail here, where he is held on a murder charge in connection with the death of W. R. Pearman of Columbia, was improved tonight, attending physicians said.

It is believed Bass will recover. His condition has been critical since he slashed his wrist late Thursday night with a safety razor blade.

If Bass' condition improves he will go to trial May 26, Sheriff Edgar Fields said. This is the original date set for the trial.

It is believed attorneys for Bass will attempt to have the trial continued.

Troubled With Dandruff and Rash. Healed by Cuticura.

"My scalp began to itch and burn and I was troubled with dandruff. Later a rash broke out all over my scalp. I could not sleep on account of the continual irritation. My hair came out in combfuls and was dead and brittle. I usually wore a hat so that people could not see the condition of my hair and scalp.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it the burning and itching sensation left so I purchased more, and in about two months I was healed." (Signed) Miss Hattie M. Martin, Offerman, Ga., June 11, 1929.

SPUDDERS AND CUBS SCHEDULED IN DOUBLE-HEADER SUNDAY

The Spudders, after finishing with San Antonio and Waco, have tougher things ahead in the remaining games of the road trip. Monday they move right into the same arena with Houston's herd of Buffaloes that have been elevated by general opinion to the seat of favoritism in the Texas league race. The Buffs are the only club in the league up to Saturday holding an advantage over the Spudders on the season's series. By winning two out of three at Wichita Falls, the Buffaloes hold the edge by one game. Three games are scheduled at Houston Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and if the Spudders are to catch up with this rival they must win the odd game of the trio. That looms as no easy assignment.

After the Houston series things become no easier rapidly. Nothing soft is in sight in three games at Beaumont, the final stop on the South Texas junket. Then come three games at Dallas, three at Fort Worth and five at Shreveport. No sir, there's nothing easy in that program, not even the Dallas and Fort Worth series. The Steers and the Cats may not rate very high in the standing column, but nevertheless they are not soft pickings for any club. The strength of the league is so evenly divided that no club is easy, unless it is San Antonio's maltreated Indians.

If the boys can come through the remainder of this trip, they certainly will be at a big advantage to do great things. Following this trip, there are 19 games slated for the home lot. This total includes two postponements with Fort Worth and Waco that are sure to be played off, as both the Panthers and Cubs are scheduled here on Sundays. A postponement with Beaumont also might be played off to increase the number to an even 20. Every rival team except Shreveport visits Athletic park during the long home siege. All except Houston are scheduled for three-game series, the Buffs remaining only two days. If the team has the stuff to survive this road trip, it ought to do things in a big way when it gets home for a stand almost as long as the road journey.

Organized baseball often places queer interpretations on its rules, but none is more laughable than the Southern association's construction of its non-class rule. The Southern has the same rule that is employed in the Texas league and it was written into the record for the same purpose. The sole idea of the rookie regulation is to protect clubs against themselves; to force them to develop a percentage of young players. The Southern incorporated its rule even before the Texas league, but the sister league certainly is putting it to queer usage.

Four players on the Atlanta club officially and otherwise listed as non-class men are Lee Meadows, Milton Stock, Jimmy Johnston and Ivy Wingo. It would be difficult to find four men on the same minor league club with as extensive major league experience as this quartet. As far back as our memory goes, Meadows was pitching for the Phillies, Stock playing the infield for at least three National league teams, Johnston doing likewise for Brooklyn and Wingo catching for Cincinnati. The Southern association has placed the interpretation on its rule that any player coming up from a lower class league is a non-class man, regardless of the previous experience he may have had in higher leagues. Men signed as free agents apparently come under that heading, too, for Milt Stock, we know, was signed last winter as a free agent and likely some of the others.

It comes under the heading of the Southern association's own business how it handles its rookie rule, but it strikes us that it would be much better simply to do away with the thing than to handle it in such a manner that players who have been in the majors 10 years and longer come under the classification of rookies. The league certainly defeats its own purpose and makes its non-class rule absolutely valueless. In the Texas league the infielder, outfielder or catcher who has been at bat less than 100 times in leagues of A or higher classification and the pitcher who has appeared in less than 50 innings in A or higher comes under the classification of non-class men, regardless of the class of league the player was obtained from. The one exception is that non-class men remain such in the Texas league for their second year. The Texas league enforces that rule just as it was intended to be enforced and profits thereby in forcing every club to develop a certain amount of young talent.

The following letter is particularly timely in vie wom Milt Steengrafe's victory Thursday at San Antonio:

"Mr. Al Parker,
"Sports Editor Daily Times,
"Wichita Falls, Texas.
"Dear sir:—

"I have just finished reading the Lookout column and I see a letter from a Mr. Donnelly of Bowie, Texas, same being in reply to Mr. Brubaker's letter which was published in the Sunday paper.

"Mr. Donnelly's letter sounds just about like that curve ball that he told of Milt Steengrafe possessing —(Some curve ball). Mr. Donnelly states that Milt possesses such wonderful curve ball that it takes time and hot weather for him to get it working. I'll admit that Steen has a wonderful curve ball, but if you will always notice he curves most of them right down the gut and you can imagine the rest. That is usually the case when I'm present at Athletic park.

"Mr. Donnelly also states that when hot weather arrives Milt will have plenty of stuff on that big apple. If you will recall last summer it was about as hot as it ever gets this side of purgatory and Milt didn't have too much stuff on it. However, he managed to have a hitting club behind him and they made from eight to fifteen runs for him and he must have won about 15 games. That's wonderful pitching, Mr. Donnelly says that the only

Downpour Forces Cancellation of Opener Saturday

Consistent Pitching and Hitting Feature Hopeful Winning Streak

The Spudders were stopped dead in their tracks at Waco Saturday, but it was an enemy common to the Cubs as well that put a temporary halt in the winning streak of seven straight games for Skipper Carl Williams' ambitious youngsters. A downpour at Waco Saturday at noon prevented the staging of the opener of a two-game series between Spudders and Cubs, but the two clubs were scheduled to make up for lost time Sunday.

A double-header was ordered for the Sabbath by the Waco powers that be and the Spudders were ready with a well rested pitching staff for their second double time program of the 1930 campaign. Southpaw Hal Wiltse loomed a certain starter in one of Sunday's games, with Lester White or Fred Vincent likely to get the call in the second.

The prospective chunkers for the Cubs were Ralph Stein, Hank Thormahlen and Preacher Thurman.

Consistent Pitching

It is not difficult to place one's finger on the reason for the Spudders' phenomenal success during the last week. Consistently good pitching, coupled with timely batting, forms a combination that will win in the best regulated of pennant races, and the figures for the seven games will testify to the amount of pitching and hitting the Spudder club has produced against four different clubs.

While Wichita Falls' pitching has not been sensational, it has been the very essence of consistency. In the seven victories—five over San Antonio and one each over Fort Worth and Houston—the Spudder staff has allowed 20 runs, an average of slightly less than three per game. The pitchers, too, kept the 20 runs spread out through the seven games, and no enemy club during that period has scored more than five times. Twice the foe scored five runs, twice four, once two and two were shutouts.

White's Relief Work

Five members of the staff have participated in the winning string, Lester White in no less than three games. The blonde curver appeared on the scene to win one game in a relief role, started and finished one victory and saved another with his relief work. Earl Caldwell boasts two of the seven wins, and Hal Wiltse, Milt Steengrafe and Fred Vincent one each. The shutouts were scored by Vincent and Wiltse, both at the expense of San Antonio.

Though the Spudders have made their share of errors during the seven-day period, the pitching undoubtedly has been given steady support. Opposing clubs have averaged approximately eight hits, but slightly less than three runs, as evidence that Spudder fielding, as well as pitching, has been of an excellent order in the pinches. The writer can speak as an eyewitness for the class of the fielding in the four home games, when the work of Spider Levey and Lin Storti at the keystone positions was particularly brilliant, but the statistics will have to speak for the trio of road victories.

Timely Hitting

The Spudder attack has functioned just as the defense, consistently if not spectacularly. Wild batting orgies have played little part in the string of seven wins, for in only one game has a score been registered in double figures. Their greatest number of runs in one game was 10 and the least three, with games of eight, seven, six, five and four in between.

In hits the Spudders scored in double figures three times and averaged slightly under 11 per game. They scored 43 runs, or an average of approximately six per game.

The timeliness of the hitting is shown in the fact that Wichita Falls made every 11 hits count for six runs while the opposing clubs were getting only three runs from each group of eight hits.

Larry Bettencourt's long distance hitting has provided much of the punch, but most of the Spudders have come through with their share of timely hits. Recovery from the hitting slump that marred Howard Fitzgerald's work during the first two weeks has provided one of the highlights of recent games.

Team Mark Improves

While some of the individual averages have not prospered materially, the team as a whole raised its batting average some 15 points during the week. Last week's averages showed the Spudders in seventh place as a club, but the latest release, which includes games through Thursday, shows them in fourth position.

While Spudder stock has climbed substantially during the seven-game winning streak, the recent successes cannot be taken too seriously in view of the fact that no less than five of the victories were at the expense of the lowly San Antonio Indians. With Waco, Houston, Beaumont, Dallas, Fort Worth and Shreveport lurking in the offing, each to be met in series of two or more games, tougher things undoubtedly are ahead for the Williams crew.

Following the double-header Sunday at Waco, the Spudders move to Houston Monday to open a three-game stand with the Buffs that more than likely will have the league leadership at stake.

Buffaloes Win Only Texas League Clash

Allyn Stout Earns Sixth Victory of Season, 5 to 4, and Fans Eight Panthers; All Other Texas Games Forced to Bow to Weather Man

HOUSTON, May 10. (AP)—In a drizzling rain Saturday the Buffs defeated the Fort Worth Cats, 5 to 4, in a game that sparkled with brilliant fielding. Each club performed errorlessly.

Allyn Stout won his sixth game and added eight strikeouts to stretch his string to 49. The winning run was scored in the seventh on Binder's single and Mishkin's triple to right.

Since all the other Texas league games were rained out, the Buffs by their victory gained one-half game, not only on the league leading Spudders, but on the entire field. Score:

Texas Trapshoot Honors at Stake In Houston Meet

Classy Field of Target Breakers Expected to Compete Monday

HOUSTON, May 10.—Texas trapshooting champions will be crowned at Houston Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday when the state tournament will be held. According to reports from headquarters here interest in the sport is on the increase throughout Texas and indications are that a new attendance record will be set at the state shoot.

E. F. Woodward of Houston won the state singles championship last year by breaking 197 out of 200. He was closely followed by Forest M. McNeir of the same city who had one target less.

Another Houston man, N. V. Pillot, won the doubles title in 1929 with a score of 92 out of 100. D. W. Caldwell of Amarillo, with a score of 98 out of 100 was crowned handicap champion. E. F. Woodward of Houston, with a count of 487 out of 500 was all-around champion.

Tommy Levett of Houston won the junior championship with 194 out of 200 and will be on hand to defend his laurels. Mrs. W. S. Witte of Waco copped the ladies' title with a score of 172.

Winners at the state shoot will be eligible to represent Texas at the grand American handicap tournament to be held at Vandalia field, Dayton, Ohio, Aug. 18 to 23.

TULSA HIGH IS WINNER OKLAHOMA TRACK MEET

STILLWATER, Okla., May 10. (UP)—Tulsa High school track team ran true to form here Saturday and won the 22nd annual state interscholastic track and field meet at Oklahoma A. & M. college.

Tulsa scored 46 points to outclass the flashy team from Maud in the class A division. Maud scored 20 points and Muskogee was third with 18¼ points.

Checotah, winner of the interscholastic meet at Norman last week, triumphed again in the class B division, amassing 34¼ points.

Two state records fell before the onslaught of 1,115 athletes representing 84 schools, despite the muddy field.

FRESHMAN RULE OFF FOR ONE YEAR IN T. I. A. A.

DENTON, Texas, May 10. (AP)—The freshman rule of the T. I. A. A. was suspended for one year at the spring meeting of conference officials Saturday. Freshmen entering before Oct. 1, next, may play during the remainder of the year.

The rule will permit freshmen entering before Oct. 1 to play football, basket ball, tennis and track all of next year.

LONGHORNS AND FROGS IN IMPORTANT SERIES

AUSTIN, May 10. (AP)—What is expected to prove the crucial series of the Southwest conference baseball race was to start here Monday when Texas Christian university's Horned Frogs invade the corral of the University of Texas Longhorns for two games. T. C. U. is leading the pennant chase with the University of Texas only a few points behind.

HEFTY CATCH FROM DIVERSION LAKE

Positive Evidence

That the fishing was good last week-end at Diversion lake is attested in the above photos. The top view shows Bill Pardo (left) and O'Dell McDuffy bearing up bravely under the weight of a splendid string of bass and channel catfish. The third member of the party to bring in the big catch was R. J. Pardo, not shown in the photo. The lower view presents a better idea of the size of the larger prizes on the string.

Gallant Fox' Sensational Victory in Preakness to Change Odds on Derby

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 10.—Out of the dust of a half century of the great stake races at Churchill Downs and the hilltop at Pimlico has risen only one thoroughbred—Sir Barton in 1919—whose greatness was so elastic that he could win the Preakness during one week-end and the Kentucky Derby during the next. But the old champion long since has passed to the clover that awaits all good horses and today they were seeing his image in the flesh of another.

The latter is called Gallant Fox, doubtless because he is a horse whose gallantry wasn't even asked a pertinent question during Friday's running of the Preakness. He was so much the best of his field that he won in a common gallop, to use the patois of the paddock, and so within a few hours he will be riding into the west toward another great race and what many now regard as an inevitable victory in the Derby.

Other candidates have commended themselves by their performances in training but there is nothing so impressive as the thing they call racing form and Gallant Fox has shown a great plenty of that, first in the Wood memorial stakes and Friday in te greater and sterner test, the Preakness. Smart handicappers around town tell me that he won't be worse than 2 to 1 in the future books from now on, thus displacing Gallant Knight, Tannery and High Foot, the Trinity that had shared the honor mark at 4 to 1 earlier in the week.

Lengthen on Others

The price on this trio it is said, probably will lengthen to 6 to 1, with the possibility that Crack Brigade, second in the Preakness, will share their position. The remainder of the quotations are likely to remain unchanged, although when comparable with horse racing a woman's mind is constancy in a glass case.

Where, for example, are those sirens of the early "play" on the Derby—Dedicate, Desert Light, Flying Heels, Gone Away and Sarasen? Gone away with Gone Away is the answer.

But the turf was ever a staunch disciple of success and, from now on, it will remember only that Gallant Fox, crowded in the early stages of the Preakness, ran over everything in the last half-mile and won by almost two lengths in the clinking time of 2:00 3-5 for the mile and three-sixteenths. He was expected to win. He did. The turf is very elemental about things like that. It never asks questions of results.

Proved Several Points

In truth, the horse proved a number of things Friday, including the essential fact that neither weight nor distance is the cross he must bear. He won't figure to get the interference at the downs that came to him Friday, for the Derby course starts on a straightaway of nearly three-eighths of a mile in length and no horse is entitled to run into major difficulties there, particularly with a rider like Sande on his back. So much for the 2 to 1 gamblers.

However, two dollars can go as far wrong as two million. Clyde Van Dusen obviously wasn't the best horse in the field last year, merely the best horse in the race as it happened to be run.

They haven't had a drop of rain out that way in weeks and the deluge is imminent. If they run this race in mud, Gallant Fox may or may not survive. He is not supposed to be fool-proof under these conditions.

There is no doubt, of course, that he can beat the Preakness entries all over again next week, next month and perhaps next year. Crack Brigade is improving with every race, but not enough so as to matter. Snowflake, the third horse, isn't entered, and Michigan Boy, in fourth place will hardly do, unless the mud is deeper than his hocks.

Western Challenge

Therefore, granting that little can happen to alter Gallant Fox' status in the week remaining, there is only the western field to be considered in the way of a challenge. This probably will come.

Horses like Gallant Knight, Tannery, High Foot and Sydney, and none knows how insistent it may turn out to be.

Gallant Knight recently did a mile in 1:39 without any great urgency. Tannery breezed another in 1:42. They clocked High Foot and Sydney in 1:44, with neither of them let down to his real running. But, after all, these were time trials, not races.

The turf only pays off on services rendered under the galling urge of actual performance and that is why it thinks two dollars is worth one on the Fox in the Derby. It knows something of the Fox and exactly nothing of the others. The turf won't bet a nickel on hearsay when it was confirmation as a hot play.

AMERICAN WALKER CUP PLAYER TIES FOR TOURNAMENT TITLE

Willing Tops U. S. Players in First Competitive Test

British Women's Championship to Get Under Way Monday

By HARRY CROCKER
Universal Service Special Cable

SANDWICH, England, May 10.—Dr. Oscar F. Willing, member of the American Walker cup team scheduled to meet the British amateurs on Thursday and Friday, exhibited his brand of golf Saturday. He tied with R. W. Hartley of Britain, in the St. George's vase challenging matches with a low aggregate of 148 for 36 holes. They play off the tie Sunday.

The other American amateurs in the challenge match, Don Moe, George Voight and George Von Elm, did not appear to bad advantage, although Voight was the only one to finish near the top, taking a tie for third.

Done Moe astounded the field by shooting a brilliant 71 for the first 18 to tie for the lead with the Hon. Michael Scott of Britain. But Moe blew up with an eight on the fourth hole of the afternoon round and was never able to recover, shooting an 87 for an aggregate of 158 to finish eighth.

Voight was well up in the morning round with a 72 and Von Elm with a 75, but both found the afternoon round harder and each took 78 strokes. Had the Briton, Scott, not blown up for a 79 in the second round, he could have stood head and shoulders over the rest as the scores rolled in.

Willing Most Consistent

As it was, Doc Willing provided the most consistent American play of the day with a 75 outgoing and a fine 73 coming home. Hartley took 76 in the early play, as did Roger Wethered, but was back in 72 to tie Willing. T. A. Torrance, present St. George's vase titlist, cinched second place with 74-75—149.

Britain's Walker cup golfers fared better than America's, taking the tie for first, and second, fifth and seventh places, although two, W. Campbell and J. N. Smith, finished ninth and tenth.

Douglas Fairbanks, who had entered for the match, was scratched at his own request. Douglas Grant, Another American, finished fourth.

Don Moe's round of 71 was the prettiest of the day. He had only two bad holes—the 12th, where he hooked his drive into a bunker, and the short 16th, where he took three putts. On the 18th, his putt lipped the cup and ran out, cheating him from leading the field.

He had no gallery until the 15th, when the crowd began to flock. He played the course Friday for the first time, but even then the 71 looked like a winner. The 87 killed the goose, though.

Women Start Monday

FORMBY, England, May 10.—A record entry of 170 players has been received for the women's open championship which starts here Monday.

Twenty-two American players, an unprecedented number, have entered and contestants from Australia, Canada, South Africa and Tasmania have helped to swell the list.

The draw was turned out disastrously in that a very large number of the most famous muzes are congregated in the top section by byes. American entrants, in particular, are not favored by the draw, for in addition to being paired with very strong English players, the draw develops so that they will, in many cases, have to slaughter one another in the second round, should they survive the first.

It is also unfortunate that Miss Glenna Collett, most welcome of the American invaders, is likely to meet Miss Molly Gourlay, champion of England and France and her most formadable rival, as early as the fourth round.

PETE LAPAN, VETERAN CATCHER, IS RELEASED BY SPUDDER PRESIDENT

Pete Lapan, Spudder catcher for four years from 1926 through 1929, was given an outright release Saturday, according to announcement of William E. Huff, president of the Wichita Falls club.

The veteran catcher was sold conditionally during the winter to the San Antonio club and Friday was turned back by the Indians. Failing to interest other clubs in Lapan's purchase, he was made a free agent.

Lapan boasts a formidable batting record for the last 10 years and it is not likely that he will long remain idle.

Trio of Games in Valley Loop Tops Amateur Program

Major City and Merchants League to Stage Important Clashes

WICHITA VALLEY LEAGUE
Sunday
Panhandle Refining company, Wichita Falls, at Iowa Park.
Burkburnett at Byers.
Archer City at Electra.

MAJOR CITY LEAGUE
Sunday
E-Z Grocery vs. Pond Laundry company.
McElreath Motor company vs. Clarence Saunders Stores.

MERCHANTS LEAGUE
Monday
P. B. M. company vs. Texas Electric Service company.
W. B. McClurkan & Co. vs. Southwestern Glass and Paint company.
Tuesday
Security National bank vs. Furniture Dealers.
Thursday
P. B. M. company vs. Southwestern Glass and Paint company.
W. B. McClurkan & Co. Security National bank.
Friday
Texas Electric Service company vs. Furniture Dealers.

Amateur baseball in the Wichita Falls district swings into its second week Sunday, with three games in the Wichita Valley league topping the week's activities.

This newly organized circuit opened its season last week with two great games, while the third succumbed to rain. Electra and Byers took the lead by defeating Iowa Park and Archer City, respectively. The Byers nine was forced to travel 10 innings to win a 1 to 0 verdict from the Archer county team, while Iowa Park refused to bow to Electra's 5 to 4, until 11 innings had been played.

The two idle teams last week, Burkburnett and Panhandle Refining company of Wichita Falls, are scheduled to get off to a belated start Sunday with road games. The Panhandle crew invades Iowa Park, while the Burkburnett outfit travels to Byers.

City Major Loop

The third game finds Archer City playing at Electra, and this promises to be a real battle, judging from the form displayed by both teams in their openers last week.

All Wichita Valley league games during the season are scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

The City major league, strictly a Wichita Falls organization, introduces two new teams Sunday when Pond Laundry company and Clarence Saunders stores go into action for the first time. The laundrymen are to clash with E-Z grocery, while the Saunders entry plays McElreath Motor company. The idle teams this week are Headquarters company of the Texas National guard and Sullivan Grocery.

Merchants League

This league, also a newcomer this season, faces considerable uncertainty in view of the lopsided scores that marked the opening a week ago. The guardsmen failed entirely to meet the kind of baseball played by the E-Z entry and must strengthen its lineup if interest is to be maintained. McElreath's gang also found Sullivan's easy pickings in the opener, wining a 14 to 2 victory.

The high spot in the week's schedule of the Merchants league, which calls for each club to go into action twice, as provided Monday afternoon when the two leading clubs clash. Southwestern Glass and Paint company and W. B. McClurkan & Co., each with victories in its first two starts, are to settle their argument at least temporarily.

P. B. M. company and Texas Electric Service company, tied for third and fourth place, also are slated Monday afternoon.

CLUB TOURNAMENT IN PROGRESS AT MEMPHIS

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 10.—Fifty-six golfers qualified this week in the annual Memphis Country club tournament which will continue through Sunday.

Frank Foxhall, with a score of 71, was medalist, and Bailey Gilmore, who shot an 84 won the president's prize, a Gladstone bag. The "booby prize" was captured by Edwin Thompson, who shot 126.

Qualification scores for the first two flights were as follows:

First flight—Frank Foxhall 71, Irvin Johnsey 83, R. V. West 80, M. G. Tarver 84, B. Gilmore 84, Thos. Hampton 82, J. W. West Jr., 83, H. E. Tarver 86.

Second flight—R. S. Greene 85, Omer Johnsey 168, G. D. Beard 88, T. M. Harrison 86, W. B. Quigley 88, Regna Greenhaw 88, M. J. Draper 85.

Brown Is Chief Rival Of Beaumont Leader

Eckhardt Holds 40-Point Lead Over Runnerup in Swatting Race; Exporters and Cubs Scrap for Club Leadership; Stout Leading Tosser

Still easily topping the Texas league in hitting with an average of .440, Oscar Eckhardt, Beaumont, has a closer rival since Ed Brown, Dallas, has fought his way to within 40 points of the leader. Those players are the only league .400 hitters, though batting is on the upgrade and two clubs, Beaumont and Waco, are now hitting .300. Other individual leaders are: Runs, Whelan, Shreveport, and Wade, Beaumont, 28; Kauffman, Houston and Easterling, Beaumont, 26; hits, Eckhardt, Beaumont, 44; Selph, Houston, 42; Wade, Beaumont, 41; two-base hits, Stewart, Shreveport, 12; Mullen, Beaumont, 11; Stapleton, Beaumont, 10; three-base hits, Rye, Waco; Wade, Beaumont; Schinkel, San Antonio; Tavener, Fort Worth; Cox, Fort Worth, and Stewart, Shreveport, all 3; home runs, Stuvengen, Waco, and Bettencourt, Wichita Falls, 7; Wade, Beaumont, and Kelly, Fort Worth, 6; stolen bases, Hunt, Houston, 10; Whelan, Shreveport, and Levey, Wichita Falls, 8.

Beaumont, with .305, tops the clubs in batting, but the Houston Buffs have the best offensive record, leading in runs, hits, doubles and stolen bases. Fort Worth is the triple leader, Wichita Falls first in circuit swats. The best winning pitching records belong to Stout, Houston, who has won 5; Burns, Beaumont, and Tuero, Shreveport, 4 each, against no defeats. Stout has worked the most innings and leads in strikeouts with 41.

Players hitting .200 or better in 10 games or more, club batting, and pitchers credited with victory or defeat through Thursday's games follow:

COAST SPRINTER STEPS CENTURY IN 'NINE-TWO' WITHOUT AID OF WIND

LOS ANGELES, May 10. (UP)—Frank Wykoff, U. S. C. sprinter, broke the world's record for the 100-yard dash here Saturday when he ran the distance in 9 3-5 seconds at the Southern California A. A. U. championships.

Official timers said that four watches caught the Trojan flash, who ran without the aid of starting blocks. There was no wind to favor him, it was announced.

Boston Youngster Takes Lead Among Swat Specialists

Tom Oliver Paces Field in American Loop; Judge In Second Slot

CHICAGO, Ill., May 10. (AP)—Tommy Oliver, discovered by Philadelphia Athletic scouts down in Arkansas and then sold to the Boston Red Sox, is the latest ascendant to leadership in the American league batting championship race.

Hitting safely one or more times in 16 consecutive games, the rangy Red Sox outfielder took the lead with a batting mark of .407 at the end of the third week of campaigning, unofficial averages including games of last Wednesday disclose. During the third week he hit better than .500 to boost his average 57 points. In 86 official times at bat Oliver has hit safely 35 times.

Joe Judge, veteran Washington first baseman, and Al Simmons of the Athletics, who were tied for first place a week ago, slumped and fell to third and fourth places with averages of .382 and .380, respectively. Other leaders were Jamieson, Cleveland, .379; Rice, Washington, .378; Foxx, Philadelphia, .375; McManus, Detroit, .368; Myer, Washington, .366, and L. Sewell, Cleveland, .365.

Cleveland boosted its team batting average from .301 to .302 to lead the league again, while the Red Sox took second place with .288. In team fielding the Athletics jumped from fourth to first place with a .984 percentage. Detroit was second with .982.

"Lefty" Grove, slab ace of the Athletics, finally got going during the week, starting and finishing two more games to get into the tie for pitching honors with three victories and no defeats. Clint Brown, sensational Cleveland rookie, barely escaped defeat during the same period and remained in a tie with Grove, Hogsett of Detroit and Marberry of Washington. Grove stretched his strikeout string to 35, the longest in the league.

Other leaders: Team runs Philadelphia, 111; fewest opponent runs, St. Louis, 75; double plays, Detroit, 26; hits, Oliver, Boston, 35; hits for most total bases, Simmons, Philadelphia, 55; doubles, Regan, Boston, 9; triples, Regan, Boston, 4; home runs, Simmons, Philadelphia, 5; runs batted in, Simmons, Philadelphia, 26; stolen bases, nine tied at three each (Cissell, Chicago; Rice, Washington; McManus, Detroit; L. Sewell, Cleveland; Combs, New York; Blue, Schulte and Gullic, St. Louis, and Johnson, Detroit).

O'Doul Goes Into Accustomed Lead In National Loop

Paul Waner and Babe Herman Make Close Race For Swatting Lead

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—With Frank O'Doul of the Phillies, last year's National league batting champion, in the lead, 11 regulars representing six National league teams have hit at a clip of .400 or better to split up the slugging honors. Official averages, including last Wednesday's games, show O'Doul in his accustomed post with an average of .500. Paul Waner of Pittsburgh is second with .493 and Babe Herman of Brooklyn third with .465.

Waner is given first honors in two departments and second in another while Herman tops the list in three respects and is second in total hits. The Pittsburgh star has made 34 hits to tie with Johnny Frederick of Brooklyn in this respect. Herman's total is 33. Waner also has stolen six bases and is tied with Kiki Cuyler of Chicago.

Herman and Adam Comorosky of Pittsburgh have scored 19 runs apiece, one better than Waner's total, and another Pittsburgher is tied with Herman with 22 runs batted in. George Fisher of St. Louis is one behind. The Brooklyn Babe also is one of six sluggers who lead in home run hitting with five apiece.

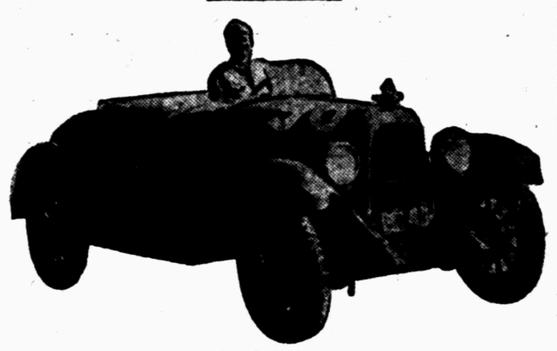

Jake Flowers of Brooklyn and Chick Hafey of St. Louis have hit nine doubles apiece to head that column while Suhr has outdistanced all rivals in hitting three baggers by clouting five.

Behing the three batting leaders, among the players who have been at bat 35 times or more, come Reese, New York, with an average of .462; Stephenson, Chicago, .432; Fisher, St. Louis, .426; Klein, Philadelphia, .409; Terry, New York, .403, and Frederick, Brooklyn, Comorosky, Pittsburgh, and Lopez, Brooklyn, tied at .400.

The New York Giants have risen to the top of the team batting averages with a .333 mark, leading Pittsburgh by six points. Cincinnati has pulled far ahead in club fielding with a .981 average.

Bennie Frey of Cincinnati has won his way to the lead of the league's pitchers by winning three consecutive games, two of them shutouts. No other undefeated pitcher has more than one victory to his credit. Of the harder workers, Harry Selbold of Boston and Pat Malone of Chicago lead with four victories and one defeat each.

Hundred-Mile Modified Stock Car Event Features Sunday Race Card

Wichita Falls Speed Ace

The above photo of Henry Williams in his Whippet was taken shortly after he captured the first annual 100-mile stock car classic in 1928 on the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds speedway. Williams is acknowledged to be the only one armed race driver and is Wichita Falls' own speed ace. He will again be at the wheel of a new Whippet six in Sunday's third annual 100-mile classic at the fair grounds.

With the drop of the starter's flag Sunday at 2:30 o'clock, the third annual 100-mile modified stock car auto race classic will be sent off with nearly all the old-time favorites and many new drivers battling for the substantial prize money that has been offered by the promoters. The race is to be staged on the Texas-Oklahoma fair grounds speedway.

The two previous 100-mile stock car events here have created much interest in automobile circles and have attracted national attention through the motor magazines due to the fact that the race each year is acknowledged to be the longest dirt track event on record in automotive racing circles.

The heavy rain Friday night has greatly assisted in getting the course in tip-top condition and the 100-mile run is expected to be run off in much faster time than either of the two preceding events. The purse money with trophies and added prizes will amount to more than $1,000, with $500 going to the winner. As announced at the track last Sunday when the spring showers prevented staging the entire program of professional races as scheduled, the ticket holders who were in attendance at last Sunday's card will be admitted free through the main gates and to the reserved grandstand section for this week's race. The management has made this concession in appreciation of the loyalty of the fans who came out last Sunday in the threatening weather, according to announcement.

A "hobo junk car" race again will be the clown race of the program. In this race the cars must not be worth more than $75 and anyone in the audience can purchase the entries for not more than this amount. This race, together with a special match between a new model A Ford and a new Chevrolet six for 15 laps of the track, will be the curtain raisers of the program.

Inundated Track Results in Delay In Titular Event

Faculty Committee Continues Investigation of Athletic Conditions

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, May 10. (AP)—A driving rain which began falling at noon Saturday forced postponement of the annual track and field meet of the Southwest conference here until Monday.

Faculty representatives of the conference who have been holding a series of sessions to work out conference problems delayed the decision until a late hour, but agreed upon the postponement when the track was under water and there was no prospect of a cessation of the downpour.

The opinion was general that the postponement would not affect the results Monday inasmuch as the track is well drained and, given a few hours of sunshine, will be in better condition as the result of the rain. In the preliminaries Friday the track was a little soft and needed settling.

Coaches and athletic business managers of the conference in session adopted baseball and basket ball schedules for 1931 and also drew up a constitution and bylaws, all of which were submitted to faculty representatives for approval.

Faculty representatives spent a great part of the day considering schedules but on their program was a place for discussion of the investigation of athletic conditions in the Southwest conference schools, particularly means of financing it.

At a meeting Friday night, Dr. D. A. Penick, president of the conference, announced an investigation already was under way and would be prosecuted vigorously.

IT'S WISE TO CHOOSE A SIX

A demonstration tells you why it's wise to choose a six

Everywhere, buyers in the low-price field are agreeing "It's wise to choose a Six." And if you want to know why—get a demonstration of the new Chevrolet Six.

The Chevrolet Six is always smooth. When you idle the motor—drive fast in second—or travel at top speed—the power flows easily and evenly at all times. And everyone in the car enjoys a pleasant ride.

Developing 50 horsepower, the Chevrolet motor is also a marvel of flexibility. Needless gear shifting is avoided. And on the steepest hill, there is a reserve of power more than equal to every need.

And six-cylinder smoothness protects the entire chassis from the destructive effect of vibration. As a result, the whole car lasts longer—and resale value is increased.

Moreover, a demonstration reveals many other reasons why it's wise to choose a Chevrolet Six.

Chevrolet offers the smartness and luxury of bodies by Fisher—built of hardwood and steel, the finest type of body construction known.

Coach, $565, f.o.b. factory

Chevrolet's four semi-elliptic springs and four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers provide comfort and security wherever you drive.

And Chevrolet's completely enclosed, weather-proof, four-wheel brakes give definite assurance of quiet, positive braking control.

It will take only a few minutes to confirm all these reasons why it is wise to choose a Chevrolet Six. So come in today. Get behind the wheel—and drive!

And, as you do, remember this fact: The Chevrolet Six is just as economical as any car you can buy. It costs no more for gas, oil, or service. It is priced as low as $495 at the Flint factory. And it can be purchased for a small down payment with unusually easy terms.

SIX-CYLINDER SMOOTHNESS AT LOW COST

IT'S WHAT a city does with the natural resources spread about it that counts . . . that makes the whole difference between a sleepy country town and a driving, going, growing industrial capital.

From One man and a mule... to $45,000,000 a year!

MANY a man and woman in Wichita Falls today can close his eyes and see in memory the picture of the eventful beginning of a great industrial city.

Only fifty years ago—well within any average lifetime—one man, a sorghum mill, and a trusty mule were the center of manufacturing activity in Wichita Falls.

A brickyard had opened the chapter a short time before. One enterprising pioneer had seen opportunity in the clay that lay plentifully in the bed of a small lake near what is now the heart of the city.

Soon after, the sorghum mill. Another pioneer had seen another opportunity. There was need for processing the chief raw material produced by the land round about.

A few years later, a grist mill entered the picture. This was about the time the railroad came through. And then, about 1890, an event of real importance. A mill—not a mule-power grist-mill, but a real industrial plant—a mill, with steam power and a whistle.

45 MILLION A YEAR!

One man, one mill, one mule. And fifty short years.

Fifty short years—less than an average lifetime—and one mule power grows into billions of throbbing horsepower turning the wheels of a great industrial city.

Fifty years—and one sorghum mill grows into thousands of mills and lathes and ovens and crucibles and drills and brakes in 118 thriving plants. Fifty years—and one man working for himself grows to a pay roll of 3,200 men and women—a little city itself—earning $5,670,000.00 per year.

Fifty years—and the value of production of that one sorghum mill—perhaps $500 per year—has grown beyond all standards of comparison. For today, products manufactured in Wichita Falls bring into this city new wealth at the rate of $45,000,000.00 every year!

NATURAL RESOURCES!

There are reasons behind any such immense, yet substantial growth as this. Reasons made up of many things. Of the very wealth of the land itself. Natural resources! Manufacturing has to have them. How richly blessed is Wichita Falls! Manufacturing must have fuel. Think of the oil and gas—in unlimited abundance, and low in cost. Factories built almost at the casinghead. Manufacturing takes raw materials. Think of the mineral sources—clay for brick and sand for glass. Think of the cotton to feed the spindles and the looms—to come out golf trousers and overalls. And think of the rich farming country, with its every year flood of golden grain, its beef, its pork, and its dairy herds and flocks of hens supplying a vast and growing food products industry in Wichita Falls.

Natural resources! Fuel, raw materials, and a mild, open climate—there's a foundation for manufacturing growth!

A MARKET CLOSE AT HAND!

But there are other reasons. Manufactured goods must have a market. And for the products of Wichita Falls factories, there is a hungry market close at hand. A dense market, with a purchasing power per family $1,000 higher than the average for the state. And in this marvelously wealthy area every man, woman and child had $836 of spendable income last year! A market—not only rich, but growing by thousands every year.

TRANSPORTATION!

Markets must be reached. Thus, transportation is the bottle-neck of industrial growth. Raw materials must come in. Manufactured goods must pour out, swiftly and cheaply, to the markets of the world.

For more than 40 years, Wichita Falls has been the transportation center for a vast territory in Northwest Texas and South Oklahoma—a position built on splendid location and on the faith of transportation builders in the future of Wichita Falls. And in the two years just past, as in the current year, this position has been immensely strengthened—new rail lines, new air lines, new highways. New carriers of commerce. New arteries of life-blood for the manufacturing industries of Wichita Falls!

FINANCED IN WICHITA FALLS

And most important of all things that build an industrial city is abundant finance, at home. Nowhere more than in the backing of industrial enterprise has the vision of the men who have built Wichita Falls been more clearly shown. They know industry builds a city. And any sound industrial project finds abundant backing and willing backing, right here in Wichita Falls.

It is significant that most of the industries of Wichita Falls were started with local capital. This has brought steady development from within. Modest beginnings and substantial growth. Careful management and expansion of existing industries. An industrial structure built on the solid rock of home financing.

SOME REASONS WHY

These are some of the reasons why "unit manufacturing" has grown to great proportions in Wichita Falls. Why factories for building lines allied to those already here take root and thrive. Why you can secure anything in the foundry line from the coarsest grey iron casting to the finest core of brass or bronze. Why in a city of 50,000 people, more than 20,000 are employed!

These, then, are some of the reasons behind the growth of Wichita Falls industrially to a dominant position among the cities of the Southwest. In less than an average lifetime. What other city of the country can boast such a growth as this?

EXPANSIONS EVERYWHERE, TODAY!

Yet future growth promises to outstrip the past as the 45 million dollar output of last year outstrips the year's production of "one man, one mill and one mule."

The storage capacity of the largest mill in Northwest Texas is being trebled this year. Mills and elevators of the city will invest more than $400,000.00 on expansion in 1930.

Refineries plan investments in expansions and improvement of plants and equipment to total more than $500,000.00 this year.

Milk plants continue to expand. A great garment factory is adding new lines and new equipment. Poultry dressing plants grow to take care of constanly mounting volume. One of the biggest foundries in the state has recently added much new machinery and is planning immediate expansions.

A FUTURE GREATER THAN THE PAST

Fifty years ago, three hardy pioneers believed in the future of Wichita Falls. Fifty years ago, they backed that faith with what cash they had, and with their honest sweat.

All along the line, men of vision have believed as they have believed. And Wichita Falls is a great industrial city today.

Men of vision believe Wichita Falls faces a future growth that will surpass even the fabulous growth of the past.

ROOF OF MANY COLORS COVERS NEW BUILDING ON HOLLIDAY

Seventeen Kinds Roofing Material Joined in Decorative Headpiece of Pullen Roofing Company's Building

Most roofs are designed for the buildings they cover but the new building of the Pullen Roofing company at Sixteenth and Holliday streets was designed for its roof. The building was designed by F. A. Rosser, 1638 Lucile street, with the especial view of displaying on its roof the various kinds of roofing work done by the company. In its roof 17 kinds of roofing material are used. It is said to be the only building west of the Mississippi river erected for the sole purpose of stocking, displaying and selling roofing materials.

The Pullen Roofing company was established in Wichita Falls in 1921 by J. L. Pullen, with headquarters at the residence at 2607 Grant street. Mr. Pullen started in this field of work with but one man to do the work of putting on new roofs and making general repairs. Now the company employs six men in this department, while one salesman is on the road covering 10 counties in northwest Texas and southwestern Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. Pullen take care of the office work.

The new building was erected when Mr. Pullen saw the need of a building in which to house his office, take care of his stock and display the wares to customers. A site was purchased on the corner of Sixteenth and Holliday, a tract of 100 by 150 feet, at a cost of $6,750. On this site was erected a fireproof building that covers an area of 40 by 80 feet. This building has a well-lighted office in the front and in the rear is the stock room which contains all kinds of roofing materials. At the rear of the building is a cement platform for loading and unloading of stock and materials. The building was constructed of cement and asbestos at a cost of $4,500.

Varied Materials

This building, as said before, is known as a building of 17 roofs. The materials used were Certainteed products, of which the Pullen Roofing company is agent, and asbestos and slate. In the Certainteed line are: Speed-Lay, Universal, Cut-out, Four-in-One, and Hexagon in various colors. In the asbestos there are: Color-Blend, Bronze, Green Asbestos, Red Asbestos, Pastel Asbestos and the walls of the building are in gray asbestos. The slate used is Vendor. Certainteed is also used in the flat part of the roof.

The roof of the building has what is known as a mansard front in that the main roof of the building is flat with a beveled front and it is on this beveled front that the 17 different roofs have been placed.

On the top of the building is a big sign "Pullen Roofing company," which was made out of Certainteed Roofing products. This sign is 9x26 feet in size.

The Pullen Roofing company now has on hand and plans to carry in stock at all times about $10,000 to $12,000 worth of roofing materials.

The ceiling and walls of the office room are covered with Celotex board, a sound-proof material that keeps the room warm in the winter and cool in the summer. This product is sold in Wichita Falls by Steve's Sash and Door company.

In the office is a large rack on which are displayed 12 different kinds of Certainteed Roofing products.

MAYOR NELSON PRAISES HOME MODERNIZATION

Urging the people of the city to cooperate in the home modernization movement now under way in Wichita Falls, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., issued a statement Saturday regarding the project, as follows:

"Too much commendation cannot be given the modernizing movement which is producing results here as well as elsewhere. This success is due, it seems, to the able and effective assistance rendered both by the national organization and by its local sponsors under the direction of Walter Curlee.

"There are many citizens of our community who have desired for years to add many improvements to their homes in the way of beauty, comfort and convenience, all of which incidentally will increase the value and salability of their property. Never before, however, have the people had such assistance from the builders, supply houses, labor and the financial interests.

"One of the attractive features of the movement and a vital factor which contributes to its popularity is that those who desire to do so may pay for their improvements by the month. This is indeed an inducement.

"This movement, to my way of thinking, is very timely, for it provides work for many worthy and deserving citizens who are now unemployed and anxious to work.

"All in all, the primary aim of the modernization movement is for the civic betterment of Wichita Falls, for with it comes employment, increased values, better living conditions and other benefits which contribute to the making of a happier and more prosperous community.

"The modernizing movement should have the enthusiastic cooperation of the entire citizenship."

MUSIC WEEK PROGRAMS STAGED AT SEYMOUR

SEYMOUR, Texas, May 10.—Beginning Monday evening, May 5 Seymour has observed music week with a program at the city hall each evening.

The music teachers of the town have presented their pupils in twilight recitals from 6 until 7:30 o'clock each evening.

On Monday evening the beginners in the Melody Way class was presented by Mrs. G. A. Buie and on Tuesday evening different teachers presented pupils from the grade school.

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings the high school pupils gave programs. Each of these programs were well attended.

The climax of the week of good music came Friday night when the Harmony club gave an ensemble program. Invitations were sent to music clubs of all surrounding towns and many out-of-town guests were present.

THE ALTRUISTIC ALLIGATORS

"Well sir, I met that alligator crashin' along through the brush goin' toward our lake, an' behind him was 16 or 20 other 'gators, follerin' along."

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

It was a still, clear night and while the guide slept through the sounds that came from the jungle the chuck-will's-widows and the alligators, singing together, interfered with my rest. A chuck-will's-widow is a form of whip-poor-will with a louder voice and infinitely more industry. He goes on the job about dusk, and hoots his call till daylight. If he discovers that he is not making an impression on you he will perch on a limb right outside your window, and raise his voice by degrees till he is satisfied that you will hear him. Then, if you do not open the window and throw something at him, he will go and get two or three of his fellows, and the combined racket that all of them make will bring you to the door with a firearm. That pleases him, so he and his friends prudently withdraw to the shades of the livesoaks, where you can't see them, and continue for the rest of the night.

When there were intervals in the widows' lamentations the alligators filled them in. An alligator's grunt is not much louder than that of a bull frog, but it has far greater carrying power. I heard one a few nights ago which sounded as if it were just outside the door, but when I went out to look for the creature it was not anywhere around, though its chanting seemed as loud as ever. I walked, I think for a mile in the direction of the sound, and then gave it up. Either the brute was backing away from me at a speed equal to mine, or else he was throwing his voice afar, as ventriloquists are said to do. Anyway, it was dark, and there were rattlers and water moccasins about, so I came back to the shack and turned in. Through the window came the grunt of the saurian, as loud as ever.

The next night I asked the guide to tell me something about alligators, whether they were dangerous, how they managed to project their voices so far, and whether, as they are reputed to be, they are the most unintelligent of all created beings because of the extreme smallness of their brain pan, which is about the size of a guava.

"How they send that bark of theirs all over the country I can't tell you," said the guide. "All I know is that they do. I've been four miles out to sea in my boat on a still night an' heard them yellin' to each other on shore. An' I've heard them miles away over the land. I knew it was miles away, because there wasn't any streams or ponds for that distance, an' they never bark when they're travellin'. Do they travel? Sure they travel. You can't keep one of 'em in a pond if he don't want to stay there. He's just as fond of takin' a walk as you be. The alligators around here has been pretty near everywhere that us guides has, except in towns an' cities, of course. They don't care much for city life, probably because it would be hard for 'em to find a livin' in the streets. But when a alligator gets his appetite up—an' he's got a big one, I can tell you—he goes where food's to be found, an' he don't go slow, like a turtle. Once he gets them short legs of his workin', he can cover ground.

"About their havin' such a small brain that they ain't got no sense, that's just a lot of talk by them nature fakirs. A alligator's brain ain't big, but it's all solid gray matter, you can take it from me. I'll tell you somethin' that'll prove it to you.

"Ten or 12 years ago I give up guidin' indiscriminate, an' went to work for a rich feller from New York who had bought a big tract of land with 18 or 20 lakes in it. All of 'em was bass lakes, an' most of 'em had been stocked that year by the state, so he figured there would be swell fishin' for him an' his friends. My first job was to go out with a rifle an' kill out the 'gators, so the bass wouldn't be all et up.

"The first day I killed two, an' the next day I didn't kill none, because they was all gone. All they needed to know that there was danger around was to hear them shots. I'd go out at night with a flash, but I couldn't pick up no shinin' pairs of eyes to shoot between. So the next day I quit, an' told the boss I had cleaned 'em all out. I had too, for the time. But I didn't figure on them scout alligators, for up to that time I hadn't seen any of 'em work.

"I happened to be goin' over to town the next week, an' I almost walked over a big one that was travellin'. He was headin' for our lake, an' he was in such a hurry that he didn't pay no attention to me. That night I heard him gruntin' an' I knew he had got to where he was goin' But one alligator couldn't do much harm, so I didn't worry about him, but went on with some clearin' work that I had to do.

"The 'gator must of found the fishin' pretty satisfactory, for he was busy all the next night. I could hear him ploshin' off logs to grab a passin' fish, and thrashin' through weeds where the little fish was. So I made up my mind to kill him the next day, when he was sleepin' in the sun. But the next day he wasn't there. I hunted all around that lake, but nary an alligator did I see. For two days it was the same. Then I was sent over to another lake to bring in some friends of my boss, an' on my way back what do you suppose I met?"

"Well sir, I met that alligator crashin' along through the brush goin' toward our lake, an' behind him was 16 or 20 other 'gators, follerin' along. What he'd done was to bring all his friends along to such a swell fishin' place, knowin' there was more bass than he could ever eat.

"Now that shows not only sense, but a kind feelin' for his feller critters, don't it? You can't tell me that a 'gator who would do a thing like that hasn't got a brain, an' a heart too. In the morning I killed a couple of the visitors, but almost before the second one was cold, my old friend ploshed up out of the water across the lake, grunted a couple of times, an' the whole regiment comes swimmin' to the shore an' follers him off. And before they got through with that campaign there wasn't a bass big enough to eat in any of them lakes. Where they went after that I don't know, any more than I know where they come from. But I do know that they got sense, in spite of their little brains, an' I ain't goin' to believe that critters like that is ever goin' to be cleaned out. There's just as many of them around here as they ever was, in spite of what the alligator census takers say. All that's happened is that they're layin' low an' fishin' on the quiet, an' the boss alligators is leadin' the bands from one place to another, keepin' 'em there while the fishin' is good, and tollin' them out when people begin to shoot at 'em. You wait a hundred years, if you kin, and you'll see just as many of them brutes down here as they ever was."

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop Twenty

Troop 20, W. F. Newberry, scoutmaster, met Friday night at the First Southern Presbyterian church. The meeting opened with the raising of the flag, with reveille blown by the troop bugler, Woody McFayden. Roll was called and five new members were introduced to the troop. A general discussion of the scout laws was held. Thomas Caldwell and Harry Lair completed their tenderfoot test. The troop was divided into two groups, led by Woody McFayden and Joe Witherspoon, with the scoutmaster as referee, and some lively contests were held. The meeting was closed with the lowering of the flags and taps, followed by the scoutmaster's benediction.

Troop Two

Troop two, W. R. McClure, scoutmaster, opened its meeting Friday night at the First Methodist church with the scout oath and laws. Following patrol reports and roll call, the field day events were used in an inter-patrol contest. The Bisons won by one point, with the Woodpeckers second, Rattlesnakes third, and Teddy Bears fourth. The meeting was dismissed with the scout oath and laws. A patrol leaders' meeting was held after the troop meeting and troop business was discussed.

Troop Fourteen

Troop 14, J. B. Cissell, scoutmaster, opened its meeting Friday night at the Yale Evangelical church with the scout oath and laws. First aid was practiced and the scoutmaster gave a talk on the value of first aid. A resume of the troop week-end at Camp Ephriam Griffin was given. On this week-end the boys had some good fishing and good meals. Sunday school was conducted Sunday morning by the scout executive, Frank B. Creighton. The meeting was dismissed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Troop Sixteen

Troop 16, the Straight Shooters, held its meeting Friday night at the First Baptist church with Kenneth Erwin, scoutmaster, in charge. The meeting opened with the pledge of allegiance to the flag. Troop finances for the past year and the coming year were discussed. Seven new members were presented with their tenderfoot badges. Following the 30-minute patrol meetings, the standing in the inter-patrol contest was announced as follows: Black Bass patrol, 1,580 points; Cuckoo patrol, 1,385 points; Gorilla patrol, 1,330 points; Roaming Buffalo, 1,230 points. Events for the field day were discussed. Following the game period, an overnight hike for next Friday was discussed. The troop will leave the church at 5 o'clock and go to the usual camping grounds on the Seymour road.

Troop Four

Troop four, John Tevis, scoutmaster, was entertained Friday night by John Hays, chairman of the troop committee, with a weiner roast at Weeks park. Twenty-five boys were in attendance. Lots of weinees and a good time were the main features of the evening.

Valley View and Mankins

The scouts of Valley View visited the scouts at Mankins Friday night and held several contests, among them pillow fights, rooster fights, tractor pull and head pull. Prizes were awarded the winners of the contests. Approximately 1,000 people were in attendance at the meeting.

Field Day

Great enthusiasm is being shown for the field day which will be held May 30 and 31 at Weeks park. The scouts will bring their material for three meals and their blankets. A big council fire will be held Friday night, with lots of stunts. Directly after breakfast Saturday morning the field day will start and it will continue until about 4 o'clock, allowing an hour and a half for dinner. The following scoutmasters from out of town have assured the local scout office of a large delegation and hopes of winning quite a few events: C. C. Childress, Valley View; O. C. Haralsen, Geraldine; Sam Householder, Byers; Jack Ralston, Iowa Park. Other communities are interested but have not as yet specified the number of boys they will bring. The boys will be here from all the troops in Archer, Clay, Jack, Throckmorton, Wichita and Young counties. It is expected that over 500 scouts will sleep out Friday night in Weeks park and over 600 will participate in the field day on Saturday.

The scout executive accompanied the Lions club boys' band to Austin and will return Wednesday night. Merit badges, tests, etc., will be taken care of after that date.

Board of Review

On May 26 the regular regular board of review will be held at scout headquarters. Advancements now will be added and counted toward any jamboree that may be held in the fall. Now is the time, therefore, to keep the boys working on advancements, getting up a good reserve score. This will be the last board of review before camp and there should be quite a few boys appearing.

Week-End Camps

Troop 10, under the leadership of Paul Woodward, is spending the week-end at Camp Ephriam Griffin. Next Friday troop 15, under the leadership of J. E. Rudy, will spend the week-end in camp. Only two other week-ends will be available before camp starts. First come, first served.

Good Turn

Troop 16 pulled off the best good turn last week that has been pulled off this past year. The troop gave the Kemp Public library a year's subscription to the magazine, Scouting, so that patrol leaders in other troops would have the opportunity of seeing the good things that come out in this magazine each month.

Honor Campers' Trip

More interest is being shown this year than ever before on the 'honor campers' trip. It may be because the trip will be made to a point 60 miles west of Denver, Colo., and one week will be spent camping nearly on the Continental divide. The building is only a short distance from the great divide and for one week the boys will make pilgrimages to different points of interest in the mountains. Only a limited number of boys can be taken and a boy must have spent at least one week in camp to make the trip. The trip will cost the boys approximately $25 for 18 days. This includes transportation and meals. Personal expenses are not included.

Camp

Folders for camp are in the hands of the printer and every boy will have one mailed to him during the coming week. This year a system of councilors or instructors will be used and also eight life guards to safeguard water activities. The camp will be directed by the scout executive, assisted by several scoutmasters.

Several improvements have been made at camp. Arbors have been erected, providing shade for activities during the day. Special arrangements have been made to take care of all the handicraft on the porch. A bench and stools are provided for all boys. Joe, the cook, will be back again, and dishwashers will be provided. A number of surprises are in store for the campers this year. A field meet, an aquatic meet, battle of flowers, order of the Tong, and honor campers joining the Order of the Arrow are some of the things planned for this summer. A boy who goes to camp this summer will remember it for a long time. Requests for information in regard to the camp have been received from the seven troops around Burkburnett, the troop at Byers, the two troops at Graham, the troop at Henrietta, the troop at Iowa Park, and the troop at Archer City. The scouts from Baylor county can attend this camp this year, as on camp is being provided for that county.

GOOD TASTE IS VITAL ITEM IN PLANNING HOME

If a woman aspires to the title of "Master Home-Maker" she must have rare good judgment, tact and practical ability. Personal taste will vary to a large extent, but, at the same time, certain fundamental ideas of good taste should lie at the foundation of everything about the home.

Rugs of a medium dark shade should be used in a room to make it look larger than it really is. The furniture should be chosen to fit the scale of the room and upholstered furniture is apt to make it look too stuffy and overcrowded. It is not a good policy to overload a room. Wall paper should have a lacy pattern and the ceiling could well be covered but the moulding, if used, should not be more than a few inches down from the corner.

There are some simple rules for the hanging of various items in a room. It may be an oil painting, mirrors, or what not. A mirror should be placed where it will reflect light and will therefore probably be located in a darkened corner. Oil paintings may go on almost any open wall or over a fireplace. Other scenes that are appropriate for fireplace position are those that depict large, open spaces. Oil portraits might be placed in entrance halls. Family portraits are better relegated to the bedrooms, rather than prominently displayed in living room or parlor.

It is well to remember that parallel and horizontal lines in the placing of furniture give one a more restful feeling than when furniture is set at angles. However, the general structural lines of the room should be followed to give proper balance and proportion.

When a fireplace is present, it is always the center of interest in a room. Chairs may be drawn up facing the fireplace, with smoking stands at convenient points.

If no fireplace is available for such grouping, than a davenport might be considered the center of social interest and chairs grouped about it, with book tables and floor lamps at advantageous points.

Quite a bit of interest has been taken in promoting the use of warm colors such as reds, yellows, and browns, in north rooms to make them more pleasant. However, that will have to conform to individual taste and those colors might not be at all pleasing to the persons who use the room, particularly if it be a bedroom, as it is very apt to be.

A sample room might contain the following: A maple bed and dresser, the rug a gray green one with a narrow border; the walls hung with paper in old ivory background and containing flowers in gay, warm colors; a lounging chair covered in dark sateen; the window curtains of light rose organdy, ruffles edged with ribbon of deep rose, green and silver. The bed spread a changeable, two-toned rayon silk fabric; a slipped bench at foot of the bed covered with chints, with background of green and flowers like those of the wall paper.

In decorating a room for a boy it must be remembered that boys especially like loud colors, therefore fitting in well with the plan of having rooms on the north contain rich, warm colors. Walnut furniture will look well against such a background, with a brown rug and pleasing wall paper.

Wichita Falls Motor Factory Makes Special Kind of Truck for Transit Mixers, Inc., San Francisco, Calif.

The Wichita Falls Motor company, manufacturer of Wichita trucks, located in the factory district of this city, makes a special truck for transit mixers, a special product of Transit Mixers, Inc., San Francisco, Calif.

This transit mixer is a machine that fits on a truck and mixes the various ingredients for pouring concrete while the truck is en route to the scene of work. It has a revolving body that thoroughly mixes the various ingredients and saves the time and trouble of mixing at the scene of operations, as well as saving the cost of a special mixer.

Where these mixers are in operation, the truck, hauling the mixer, is backed up to an elevator which contains the ingredients properly compounded. A drop is attached to the rear door of the mixer and the ingredients allowed to flow into the mixer, which is rotated to the left so that the fins on the inside will push the compound to the front of the mixer. When the mixer is half full, the truck leaves the elevator and the truckman opens a valve which permits water from the tank on top of the mixer to flow down into the barrel. The water container holds just the proper amount of water for the mixture.

When the truck has started to the scene of work, the truckman moves a lever on the side of the transmission and this rotates the barrel of the mixer to the right, the fins pushing the mixture in the barrel to the rear and next to the opening. This rotating movement to the right is maintained while the truck is moving forward, when it is standing still or when it is in reverse.

When the truck reaches the job, the mixer is hoisted on the special hoist that is a part of the truck. The hoist up-ends the mixer with the door down, allowing the mixture to flow into the container. To facilitate the passing of the ingredients, the barrel is rotated to the right, the fins pushing the mixture out of the barrel.

Specialty of Factory

Customers wishing to use one of these mixers, first buy the mixer and then get a truck to mount it on.

This is a more difficult proposition than at first thought, for the truck must be specially built to handle the mixer. Standard stock trucks that are handled by most distributors are not equipped for mounting the mixer and the change must be taken care of in the factory.

In this respect the Wichita Motor company is favorably situated in that it has made a regular business of equipping its trucks with special apparatus for handling the mixer. Five of these Wichita trucks, with Transit Mixers mounted, have already been sold in Dallas and four in Houston. An order for three more to be used in Dallas will have been filled by the time this article is printed.

Concrete mixers are made by several different firms, among them the Paris Transit Mixer, San Francisco; the Good Roads Machinery company, Kennett Square, Pa.; Highway Truck Mixer company, Cleveland, Ohio; Jaeger Machine company, Columbus, Ohio; Lee Transit Mixer company, Indianapolis, Ind.; and Stephanian Truck Mixer company, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Wichita Truck company can mount any of these mixers made by any company, but has specialized in mounting the transit mixer because they are the only ones to have invaded Texas. Up to the present time only transit mixers have been mounted.

A Distinctive English Cottage

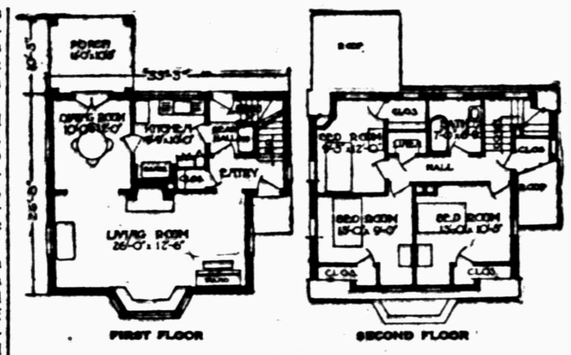

As taste in architecture becomes more discriminating in this country, a greater variety of houses is being developed. Small houses that are attractive and distinctive are in vogue.

The English Cottage illustrated here is typical of the newer designs. Every effort has been made to keep it simple. And yet its pleasing proportions, the placing of windows, the skillful handling of the brickwork, all contribute to make the house charming.

Face brick, because of the charm in color and texture it possesses, has been chosen for the exterior wall construction. In this way, a range of color is gained that sets off the pleasing patterns that have been designed at the corners and in the steep gables.

This plan is adaptable for either a city or country site, as all rooms have exposure to the front or rear. It may be placed on either a narrow or shallow lot. The rooms have been placed to reduce to a minimum the number of steps necessary for the operation of the household. Both front and rear doors and stairs are conveniently near the kitchen, or each other, and just a step from the living room. The basement stairs are so located, with outside door at grade, that an outside basement entrance is unnecessary.

Entering at the side, under ample shelter, one finds a good-sized stair hall, off which is the coat closet. The unusually large living room occupies the entire front portion of the house. The attractive bay and the fireplace opposite are features not usually found in houses of this size. The dining room opens from the living room, beyond which is the porch at the rear for those who like the view of their garden. The kitchen, though directly connected with the dining room, is well isolated, has good light over the sink, and is equipped with cabinets instead of pantry. Note the convenience of the rear entrance.

The basement is the full size of the house and contains a laundry, heater and fuel rooms, vegetable cellar, and storage space. The first floor ceiling height is 9 feet, the second floor 8 feet, and the content is 25,000 cubic feet.

If you are interested in working drawings for House No. 602, the editor of this paper will gladly tell you where they may be obtained.

WILDCAT TESTS IN COOKE AND ARCHER HOLD OIL SPOTLIGHT

Completion of Gulf Production Test As 35-Barreler From Deep Sand May Open Vast Territory for Exploring

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Wildcat tests in Cooke and Archer counties, many good wells brought in, a big increase in the number of locations staked out, and a noticeable gain in the amount of drilling in all fields were the features of another busy week in the development of Wichita Falls oil district.

In Cooke county, two wildcats held the attention of the operators both of these being located in the southwest portion of the county. O these, the Gulf Production company's No. 1 J. T. Donald, east of Ross ton townsite, is completed as a 35-barreler from a deep sand at 2916 feet. While the well is of a small caliber, it opens up for future exploitation a new vast scope of territory and it is the opinion of many operators and well informed oil men that it is but a short time until a more productive pay will be encountered in this section.

South of Hood townsite about one mile, and two and one-half miles east of the Gulf producer, the Faith Oil corporation's No. J. F. Bugg, in the northwest corner of the Harriett Nail survey, abstract 790, a rank wildcat, has set casing on top of a sand at 300 feet to test. This pay was drilled 71 feet and showed plenty of oil.

During the week, Archer City received the first thrill of having the possibility of an oil pool within the confines of its corporate limits when Bo Minnich began bailing considerable oil from a sand at 1100 to 1107 feet from his No. 1 S. Covington test. This well, which is located 150 feet from the south line and 450 feet from the west line of the Covington tract out of the John Richards survey, is in the northeast corner of Archer's metropolis and is standing with 50 feet of oil in the hole and preparations to drill a little more sand is being planned.

Sand Shows Oil

North of Mankins one mile in Archer county, Luke Hodges' No. 1 C. A. Mangold in block 8, Mangold subdivision, picked up a sand at 1761-66 feet and when bailed showed some oil after setting. Later, the sand was drilled deeper and a shell formation was encountered. Passing through this, another sand was picked up and casing was set to test. This is in wildcat section and is attracting much attention.

Wildcat Tops Sand

Burns and Long's No. R-1 L. F. Wilson, a wildcat one and one-half miles north of the Oil Investment pool, and in block 1, section 108, A. T. N. C. L. survey, topped a sand at 1450 feet which was drilled one foot. Pipe was set and a test will be made Monday.

Northeast Montague county added two producers to its number in the Bridwell pool in the Finiss Robertson survey with the completion of the Arco Oil company's No. 3 Mrs. Salmon, making 50 barrels, and the Bridwell Oil company's No. 4 J. S. Dennis, good for 100 barrels. Both wells are on the pump producing from the 1680-foot sand. One mile north of the pool's production, the Bridwell Oil company's No. 1 Crownover tested a show of oil in a sand at 1265-75 feet but is drilling ahead to the 1700-foot sand.

Young county development in three pools, the Olney townsite, Graham and the Shaw-Kissinger, failed to slow up in the drilling under way. In the townsite pool, many wells are nearing the pay and several completions are looked for in the next day or so. East of Graham on the tracts around the Nash-Windfohr producer which is still making 198 barrels per hour from the deep pay, many tests are drilling but none have reached below 2,000 feet. Others rigging up will in a few weeks make this sector one of the most active deep areas in North Texas. Southeast of Herron City in the Shaw-Kissinger pool, a number of wells are drilling The Independent Oil and Gas, Atlantic, Christie brothers, and Shaw interests all are drilling one or more on their various leases.

The completion of the Lambert-Trout No. 1 W. W. Overby in the Sharpe survey southwest of Iowa Park in Wichita county as a 200-barreler has been the factor in the making of a number of new locations on the adjoining tracts, and by the middle of next week this section will be the county's most active spot. Staley-Wynne made location for No. 1 Neil to the north, and one to the northeast of the well on their recently purchased leases out of the Neal farm. Comac-Prairie company made location for a direct offset to the east, and one to the northeast of the producer. Lambert & Trout staked out No. 2 W. W. Overby and started drilling 300 feet west of the producer.

C. P. Sheldon and associates has built derrick for their No. 1 Swanson test to be drilled in the northwest corner of the Marshall land in the James Cole survey, but in Blount survey, abstract 791, north Wichita. This test is a wildcat two miles west of the Hirschi pool, and some distance north of the Deep Oil Development's 6,000-foot test on the John Hirschi farm.

Development of the Jack, Throckmorton, Wilbarger, and Clay county pools are going ahead with many tests drilling but nothing of a sensational character during the week was reported.

Pipe line runs for the week averaged 106,220 barrels per day, a gain of 837 barrels daily as compared with the figures of the previous seven days which were 105,588 barrels.

OIL GEOLOGISTS MAKE SURVEY IN HARDEMAN AND FOARD COUNTIES

(Special to The Times)

QUANAH, Texas, May 10.—The Texas company has a crew of geologists working from Foard county north into Hardeman county toward the Liberty school house directly south of Quanah.

This company has been busy leasing land over which the geologists have made the survey. Much of the land in south Hardeman has been under lease to the Texas company for several years, and one wildcat well was drilled on the holdings about three years ago.

Two wells are now being drilled south of Chillicothe in the eastern end of Hardeman county by independent companies, and will go to 2,000 feet. A third well is to be spudded in within a few weeks.

Leases on Pease river in this county have been held by Roxana, Texas, Dixie, Empire, Emerald, Mid-West and a number of other companies. Efforts to lease land lying within two miles of Quanah have recently been made.

Oil men say the larger companies are again looking to this section for their wildcatting activities, and that a few counties in the lower Panhandle will be thoroughly tested for oil during the year.

Archer, Jack and Young Permits

(Special to The Times)

OLNEY, Texas, May 10.—Drilling permits for 41 new wells have been taken out during the past week for Young, Archer and Jack counties, according to George W. Tilley, deputy supervisor of the oil and gas division of this district. Young county led for the week with 27 permits granted.

The following is a list of permits for the week ending May 8: W. C. Duncan ,et al., J. W. Jones, abstract 252, S. Sallie survey, Young county; Scott and Nance No. 6, Mrs. S. J. Payne, W. E. Smith survey, Young county; Scott and Nance No. 7, Mrs. S. J. Payne; Panhandle Refining company No. 3, J. D. Lowe, T. E. & L. survey 250, Young county; W. J. Grisham, et al., No. 1 J. B. Terrell, abstract 58, E. Crockett survey, Young county; E. M. Remington No. 1, J. B. Terrell, J. M. Peverley survey, Young county; Hunter Oil corporation No. 2, Bloodworth A. T. E. & L. survey 157, Young county; T. F. Hunter No. 1, J. M. Bloodworth B. T. E. & L. survey 157; Nix and Dale No. 2, J. B. Daniels, T. E. & L. survey 164, Young county; G. A. Terrell and E. H. Remington No. 4, E. M. Remington, T. E. & L. survey 2248, Young county; G. A. Terrell and E. H. Remington No. 1, Calvin and John Graham, T. E. & L. survey 2249, Young county.

W. R. Stafford No. 1, E. M. Corley, T. E. & L. survey 179, Young county; Hunter Oil corporation No. 4, H. H. Benson A. T. E. & L. survey 157, Young county; Wooten and Reed No. 1, H. F. Haygood, T. E. & L. survey 1468, Young county; Shappell Oil company No. 8, D. Garrett "A," T. E. & L. survey 1487, Young county; George A. Alexander Jr. No. 1, J. B. Foster, T. E. & L. survey 284, Young county; George A. Alexander Jr. No. 1, S. R. Jeffrey, T. E. & L. survey 51, Young county; The Bonner company No. 9, J. W. Davis, T. H. Taylor, abstract 428, S. P. R. R. Co. survey, Archer county; Gilliland-Rosser Oil company No. 4, Gustave Symank, G. P. Meade L. M. pasture subdivision, W. M. Probert survey, Archer county.

PLANS MADE FOR CLASS EXERCISES AT CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, May 10.—D. E. L. Moore, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Vernon, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon next Sunday to the Chillicothe high school graduates. The class consists this year of 20 students who will receive diplomas at the commencement exercises Friday evening May 16. The commencement address will be delivered by Ed L. Gossett, attorney, of Vernon.

Francis Wiginton, selected as valedictorian; Emma Lorice Anderson, salutatorian; Roy Pearl Stuckey, class propheteas; Cecil Ayers, historian.

The list of graduates are as follows: Emma Lorice Anderson, Cecil Ayers, Mary Baldwin, J. E. Calvert Jr., Guy Craighton, Otis Fincher, William Grammer, Ohma Haynes, Mary Margaret Oliver, Carl Price Jr., Roy Pearl Stuckey, Katherine Wey, Francis Wiginton, Erma Word, Clyde Young, Margaret Flynt Rollo Davidson, Zera Boucher, Lois Higginbotham, and Archie Higginbotham.

James E. McKanna No. 1 J. Ware, located in the J. W. Manning survey, abstract 188, east of the Nash-Windfohr producer in the Graham pool, south Young county, is drilling at 2060 feet.

PRODUCTION OF SHALLOW WELL IN IRION GAINS

Heavier Flows Mark Test As Best of Oil Field

JECOS VALLEY GETS PRODUCER AND GASSER

Three Completions During Week in Penn Pool Of Ector

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 10.—More and heavier flows by Carl C. Cromwell's No. 2 Nutt, stamping it as Irion county's best shallow producer of high gravity sweet oil; the drilling in of one producer and a gasser that sprayed oil in the Pecos Valley field in Pecos county, and the addition of three wells in the Penn pool in Ector county, swelling the total number to 27, were high lights in oil development this week in the West Texas Permian basin. Three more wells in the Penn pool were shot successfully and three others were listed as completed producers.

Of greatest interest and most importance in Ector county was the question of whether or not Independent and Tidal's No. 1 Schar-bauer, in section 6, block 44, township 3 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey, would produce, thereby marking a three-quarter mile northwestern extension. Drilling had reached 3695 feet in hard grey lime Thursday morning without oil being encountered, save a slight show at 3656 feet. At 3695 feet, the test was 359 feet in the grey lime, which was topped 407 feet below sea level. Shell's No. 1 Jones, farthest northern producer, struck the first oil at 3615-20 feet and topped the main pay at 3685 feet, 355 feet in the white lime.

Texas-Pacific's No. 1 McKensie, in section 28, block 45, three-quarters of a mile northwest of Independent-Tidal, had drilled to 3620 feet in grey lime, which was topped low at 3457 feet, 322 feet below sea level. Gibson and Johnson's No. 1 Scherbauer, in section 4, block 15, nine miles northwest of the field, had drilled to 3934 feet in grey lime without shows. Grey lime was reported topped at 3829 feet, 831 feet below sea level.

Cosden's No. 2-A University, in section 2, block 35, south offset to Skelly-Amerada's No. 2-A University, topped the pay at 3620 feet, made its first flow at 3655 feet and was completed at 3700 feet. During 24 hours ending Monday morning it gauged 958 barrels. Gulf's No. 1-G Kloh, east offset to Shell's No. 1 Jones and in the southeast corner of section 5, topped pay at 3700 feet, made a small flow at 3718 feet and at 3730 feet swabbed 77 barrels of oil in seven hours. Its south offset, Humble and others' No. 7-D Kloh, topped a pay at 3709 feet and at 3778 feet made one flow of 36 barrels.

Shooting of Shell's No. 1 Jones with 120 quarts from 3657 to 3705 feet virtually doubled its production, which attained 955 barrels before the well was pinched. This was one of three wells completed, the others being Gulf's No. 1-A University and Humble and others' No. 4 York.

Marketing of the first high gravity sweet oil produced in Irion county at depths of less than 1500 feet was scheduled late in the week. The San Angelo Refining company will pay Carl Cromwell $1.01 per barrel, the posted price for West Texas crude of 36 gravity and above, plus loading charges, which will boost the figure to around $1.04 or $1.05 a barrel. Oil from Cromwell's No. 2 Nutt tested 39.2 at the well. The posted price in North Central Texas for crude of this grade is $1.395, and failure to obtain around that figure for their oil has prevented Perry Fox and associates from marketing the production from their No. 1 Tankersley, one and a fourth miles north of Cromwell's No. 2 Nutt. If Irion county produces a considerable amount of high gravity, sweet oil, as now seems likely, it doubtless will gain the higher scale.

Cromwell laid a 2-inch pipe line from his No. 2 Nutt to a junction with the 2-inch line which Fox and others built some time ago from their No. 1 Tankersley to the Santa Fe railroad, and bought a half interest in the siding laid by Fox and associates. This line and the loading rack were completed Thursday and Cromwell's No. 2 Nutt was tubed, preparatory to being placed on the pump. Twenty-six barrels that it made in its first flow of nine minutes duration the week before, plus production from Cromwell's No. 1 Nutt until it shut down about six weeks ago, filled a 1,000-barrel tank and a 250-barrel tank. The new well swabbed and flowed Tuesday into a second 250-barrel tank.

Analysis of the oil at the San Angelo Refining company's plant here revealed 38 per cent U. S. motor gasoline of 57.8 gravity, 9 per cent kerosene of 41.5 gravity, 38 per cent fuel oil of 19.7 gravity and distillation loss of 3 per cent. The oil showed less than 1 per cent sulphur content, and the gasoline meets all U. S. specifications. As soon as his No. 2 Nutt is on production, Cromwell will resume pumping of No. 1 Nutt and will start No. 3 Nutt 300 feet south of No. 2. The latter is located 450 feet south and 1162 feet from the west line of subdivision 6, Gonzales county school land. Straugn & Texannati Oil company is drilling a west offset to Cromwell's No. 1 Nutt and will start a west offset to Cromwell's No. 2 Nutt. F. E. Webb & Son will offset Cromwell's No. 1 Nutt on the north. Fox and others' No. 3 Tankersley, three locations south of their No. 1 Tankersley producer, had spudder 110 feet early in the week.

Cromwell's No. 2 Nutt is the first Irion county well that has not shown water either in, immediately above or below the pay, and has more gas than any of the others. Acreage in the area is cut up into small tracts and much drilling is anticipated.

Southern Crude Oil Purchasing company's No. 1 Eaton, which last week indicated an extension of the Pecos Valley pool in Pecos county about one mile north and slightly west, drilled into sulphur water at 1680 feet that increased at 1725-36 feet. Drilling had reached 1770 feet, but it was thought that the well shortly would be plugged back in an effort to develop commercial production in pay topped at 1580 feet. At 1612 feet the well swabbed at the rate of 20 barrels of oil daily. It is 330 feet from the southeast line and 1650 feet from the southwest line of section 35, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey.

Black & Dittman's No. 2 Pecos Valley later struck oil at 1547 feet, had an increase from 1550-60 feet and shut down at 1580 feet, making an estimated million cubic feet of gas and variously estimated to be good for 50 to 75 barrels of oil daily. The well headed when tools were drawn. It is 1520 feet from the southeast line and 1160 feet from the southwest line of section 34, block 3, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, about 1000 feet northeast of Black & Dittman's No. 1 Pecos valley. The latter is the largest producer in the field and one miles north of the discovery well, Pecos Valley Oil company's No. 1 fee.

Buell & Hagan and Independent Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Pecos Valley, virtually a due south offset to Black & Dittman's No. 1 Pecos Valley, sprayed an estimated 10 barrels of oil daily with 8,250,000 cubic feet of gas at a total depth of 1585 feet. The first gas was struck at 1526 feet, increased to an estimated 10,000,000 cubic feet at 1529-30 feet and rose to an estimated 15,000,000 cubic feet between 1530-53 feet. The third and last gain was immediately below a hard lime break at 1553-55 feet. Oil showed from 1563-65 feet. The well is 150 feet from the northeast line and 1160 feet from the southeast line of section 21, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey.

Sulphur water definitely caused abandonment of two Pecos wildcats during the week and dimmed the prospects of a third. Arkansas Fuel and Transcontinental's No. 2 White & Baker, four miles west of the Yates field, began plugging at 2111 feet with the hole full of water. It showed live oil from 1850-57 feet while carrying water from 1815 feet and struck more water from 1757-71 and 2097-2100 feet. The test is 330 feet from the south and east lines of section 7, block Z, T. C. Ry. Co. survey. Continental Oil company's No. 1 Robinson, in the center of the southwest quarter of section 68, block 10, H. & G. N. Ry. Co. survey, and west of Cranfill & Reynolds' No. 1 Masterson, a discovery producer 10 miles southeast of the Pecos Valley pool, started plugging at 2005 feet. Five bailers of sulphur water hourly were struck at 1915 feet and increased to a flow at 2005 feet.

Shappell Oil company No. D-1 K. & Kempner, located 750 feet from the south, 2330 from the east line of block 54, W. V. F. L. in K. M. A. pool, Wichita county, is rigging up for a rotary.

Daily Production Wichita District Boosted 837 Barrels in Past Week

Pipe line runs for the week ending Saturday, May 10, 1930, in the Wichita Falls district averaged 106,425 barrels daily, a gain of 837 barrels as compared with the previous week's figures.

Completions in the Bridwell pool northeast of Nocona boosted the Montague county runs around 100 barrels over the preceding week's output. Gains were also shown in the Archer, Throckmorton and Wichita figures. All other pools showed small losses. Below are the runs by pools.

GOLDING-COCHRAN SELL BLOCK LEASES ARCHER AND YOUNG FOR $235,000

One of the most important deals made in the district for oil and producing properties was closed Saturday when Golding & Cochran, Wichita Falls operators, purchased from the Sun Oil company of Dallas several leases in Archer and Young counties for a consideration of $235,000.

The leases acquired by Golding & Cochran are: H. E. Brown, with 300 acres and three producers; F. C. Green, 185 acres and three producers; W. T. Richardson, 100 acres and five producers; N. E. Andrews, 184½ acres, one producer, all in Archer county; the O. Deitrich 114 acres and 13 wells; M. J. Kunkel 205 acres, three wells in Young county. The six leases total 1,088½ acres, with a daily production of 253 barrels.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Thirteen new oil wells completed in the Oklahoma City field this week added 106,309 barrels to the initial production, while 23 other wells in other areas totaled but 6,350 barrels, making total initial production 112,659 barrels.

Mid-Kansas Oil and Gas company is expected to start work soon on another deep test in the Nicoma park area 12 miles northeast of the city. Failing to find commercial production, the No. 1-A Trosper deep test will be abandoned. Plans for drilling the well to 8000 feet also were abandoned.

Skelly Oil company completed its No. 6 Hoopes well in the south city field today. The well blew in last night with a flow of 75 barrels an hour and bridged.

Further evidence of dissatisfaction of Oklahoma City field operators with present drastic proration schedules, was revealed today when C. C. Herndon, vice president of the Skelly Oil company, made public a message received from Wirt Franklin, chairman of the city field operators. Herndon is chairman of the state proration committee.

"What we are allowed to produce here does not begin to repay us for the cost of production," Franklin said. "We must have relief."

FOUR REPUBLICANS SEEK OKLAHOMA JUDGESHIPS

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 10. (UP)—Four Republicans filed today as candidates for district judges.

They are A. M. Armstrong, Pitcher; Douglas Allen, Idabelle; J. W. Bird, Enid, and O. C. Wybrant, Woodward.

Leroy G. Cooper, Democrat, filed as a candidate for superior court judge in Pottawatomie county.

Other filings were: State senate, G. A. Rogers, Claremore; house, Stansel Whiteside, Altus. Henry Clary King, Kelleyville, and W. N. Barry, Okemah, all Democrats.

Lawton Graduation

LAWTON, Okla., May 10.—Rev. Samuel L. Gibson, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Oklahoma City, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon before the Cameron high school and college graduates of the Cameron State school of Agriculture, in the school auditorium at 8 o'clock Sunday night. All members of the faculty as well as class graduates will be in academic dress. The college graduating class is composed of 63 students and the Cameron high school class of 29 students.

Junker & Perkins staked out No. 1 J. Marcelle to be drilled 150 feet from the south and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 2155, T. E. L. survey in Throckmorton county.

STORM SLOWS OWN ACTIVITY WALTERS FIELD

Every Derrick in Area Damaged by Raging Tornado Winds

FIVE NEW PRODUCERS LAND BEFORE STORM

Eight New Locations Are Staked Out; Completions Expected

(Special to The Times)

DUNCAN, Okla., May 10.—Operations on the northeast side of the Walters field of Cotton county were slowed down by Monday's tornado. Every derrick in the area was blown down except one and it was being skidded. Rig builders have been brought in from as far as Ada and Perry, Okla., to repair the damage.

The Shasta Oil company completed five new producers before the storm. Eight new locations have been staked and a number of wells are due for completion when operations are resumed.

Its No. 13 Slogan, in the southeast, northeast, northeast of 2-2s-10w, pumped 75 barrels from oil sand at 2197 to 2203 feet. Its No. 2 E. Chambers, in the center of the north line of the south half of the northwest, southwest of 1-2s-10d, pumped 37 barrels from oil sand at 2200 to 2219 feet. Its No. 3 E. Chambers, in the northeast, southeast, northwest, southwest of 1-2s-10w, pumped 20 barrels from sand at 2180 to 2182 feet.

Shasta set casing at 2211 feet on the No. 9 Patterson, in the southwest, northeast, northwest of 1-2s-10w, an oil sand drilled at 2213 feet. The well was drilling at 2240 feet in shale.

Shasta was testing oil sand from 2303 to 2219 feet in its No. 10 Patterson, in the northeast, southwest, northwest of 1-2s-10w. Its No. 3 Watkins, in the southwest, northwest, northeast, southwest of 1-2s-10w, was being cleaned out at 2199 feet.

Casing was set at 2182 feet on its No. 14 Slogan, in the southeast, northeast, northeast of 2-2s-10w. Its No. 7 Burneaugh, in the center of the south half of the northeast, southeast of 2-2s-10w, a new location, was drilling at 2197 feet. Its No. 8 Burneaugh, in the center of the north half of the northeast, southeast of 2-2s-10w, a new location, was drilling at 1875 feet.

Other Locations

Its No. 9 Burneaugh, in the southeast, northeast, southeast of 2s2s-10, a new location, was a rig. Its No. 4 Chambers in the southwest, northwest, southwest of 1-2s-10w, a new location, was drilling at 50 feet, and the No. 11 Patterson, in the center of the southwest, northwest of 1-2s-10w, a new location, was being rigged up.

Baldwin and Sultan have casing set at 2188 feet on the No. 4 Patterson, in the southwest, northwest, northwest of 1-2s-10w. Their No. 5 Patterson in the northwest corner of 1-2s-10w, is a new location.

Harris and McNeil set casing on oil sand at 2171 feet to 2180 feet on No. 6 Chambers, in the northeast, northwest, southwest of 1-2s-10w, and the pipe collapsed. They have casing set at 2156 feet on the No. 1 McCombs, in the southwest, northeast, southwest of 35-1s-10w. They were drilling at 1047 feet on the No. 5 Chambers, in the center of the north half of the northwest, southwest of 1s2s-10w, when the rig blew down. They have staked locations for the No. 1 Shackelford in the northeast, northeast, southwest, of 34-1s10w, and for the No. 1 Smith, in the northwest, northwest, southeast of 34-1s-10w.

Cullum and Perkins set casing at 2222 feet on oil sand drilled to 2230 feet on the No. 2 Chambers, in the center of the north half of the southwest, southwest of 1-2s-10w, and were drilling ahead.

Jenkins and Arrington have rigged up teh No. 1 McCloud, in the northeast, northeast, southwest of 14-2s-11w, a wildcat location just north of Walters. The rig survived the storm but operations are held up by muddy roads.

Two drilling opertions in Stephens county were halted when rigs blew down in the storm. About 30 pumping rings blew down over the county.

George Pace abandoned his No. 5 Watkins, in the southwest, northeast, northwest, southeast of 21-2s-7w, a mile east of Comanche as dry at 1776 feet, and was skidding the rig to a location for his No. 6 Watkins, 320 feet east of his No. 3 Watkins. The rig blew down Tuesday.

Fish have been taught to recognize the bag containing their favorite food by means of letters at a Berlin university.

BUSINESS SURVEY SHOWS GOOD GAINS MANY RETAIL LINES

NEW CROP COTTON GAINS MORE THAN DOLLAR PER BALE

Old Crops Advance About 50 Cents per Bale During Week

REVERSAL IN TRADING ON NEW YORK EXCHANGE

Little Attention Paid to Crop Conditions and Weather Reports

NEW YORK, May 10. (UP)—Old and new crop situation was reversed in trading on the New York cotton exchange during the past week and new crop months scored gains of more than a dollar a bale, while old crops advanced about 50 cents a bale. For the past month the close of each week to-day the same story of old crop months advancing and new crop months declining. Near month premiums soared to abnormal heights and trades were prominent in the buying of near positions while selling the old.

This condition led to an oversold condition in the last and deliveries and when scarcity of contract developed during the early part of the week, shorts were driven to cover. little attention was paid to crop conditions and weather reports and although these factors were favorable, gains in new crops were fairly well attained. Profit taking developed in the latter part of the week coincident with the breaking of the drought in the central belt and to a moderate degree in the eastern belt. Georgia reported, however, that the drought in that section continued but outlook was favorable.

Farm Board Holdings

Old crops were again dominated by the holdings of federal farm board in July and covering in those months from the trade and shorts continued. Premiums soared until July held a more than 200 point advantage over October, an unusual situation occurred at this time and July which normally sells about $1 a bale under Liverpool advanced to about 75 cents a bale over that market.

Mills in the south who were operating on a curtailment plan were reported to be planning shipment of cotton to New York, and even points in the interior were attracted by this abnormal condition. Liquidation swept over old crops carrying them downward until July held about a 75 point premium over October as compared with the 200 point differential early in the week.

Mills both here and abroad showed little change in their unsatisfactory status, and the political disturbances in India continued with the resultant depression in Manchester.

Weather developments on the whole, were decidedly favorable and in many sections on the belt planting, growing and chopping were far in advance of the previous season. Weevil reports were scarce and the outlook for the crop was depicted as best in seasons. Acreage reports continued to show little hope for reduction and only in Texas did indications point to a small decrease.

KANSAS WHEAT CROP ESTIMATE 10,000,000 BUSHELS OFF FOR MAY

TOPEKA, Kan., May 10. (INS)—The Kansas wheat crop for May will be off 10,000,000 bushels, according to a report issued today by J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture, in conjunction with the federal department of agriculture.

The board of agriculture's crop correspondent estimate prospects for a total yield of 134,962,000 bushels, which is about 10,000,000 bushels less than last month's estimate and 3,000,000 bushels less than harvested last year.

The harvesting acreage this year is placed at 11,735,000 acres.

SUBSTANTIAL GAIN IN WHEAT MARKET ON CROP ESTIMATE

CHICAGO, May 10. (AP)—Forced upward by surprising reduction in official estimates of expected yields of domestic winter wheat this season, wheat prices today finished at substantial gains. Besides the bullish effect of the government crop report, private crop advices late today from the Southwest indicated that not only has wheat growth failed to improve since recent rains but instead has suffered deterioration. Prospects of a notable falling-off in the United States wheat visible supply total on Monday tended also to lift values.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1¼@2c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅛c off to ½@⅝c up, oats advanced ⅞@1c, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 3c.

Highest prices of the day in the wheat pit were reached just before trading ended. This circumstance was due largely to the fact that the greater part of the government's 18,000,000 bushels curtailment of crop estimates applies to Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas, and that today's late unofficial advices apparently showed that unfavorable conditions in the southwest have persisted since the government data was gathered. Late developments today indicated also that there had been fair-sized stocks owned by private interests as well as wheat there controlled by government sponsored bodies.

A serious drag at time on the general upward course of the wheat market resulted from selling based on unofficial opinions that the government consumption of the May crop report was unintentionally misleading. It was asserted in some quarters that a lower par yield than usual must have been taken in making the government estimates, and that the official forecast ought to approximate 750,000,000 bushels rather than 823,000,000 bushels, a total ascribed to a seasonal and vacillating par.

Corn rallied at the last with wheat, but not until September delivery of corn had touched a new low price record for the season. During much of the day, enlargement of commission house selling of corn was noticeable and the market was minus any aggressive support. Oats swayed with corn.

Provisions were firm, owing to poise shown by the hog market.

PRICES OVERCOME SALES FOR PROFIT IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—The stock market numbly surmounted the obstacle of week-end profit-taking today and closed with a sprint that brought net gains of 2 to 7 points to many of the prominent shares.

Today's sales were 1,880,450 shares against 4,867,530 a week ago when the recent decline was speeding under full sail.

Speculative activity for the advance began in the utility shares, but soon overflowed into the industrials and specialties.

The decrease of 256,433 tons in the Steel corporation's backlog was somewhat larger than predicted, but the drop had been well discounted by the stock, which gained 3 points, closing at the top price of 178¾.

Copper shares acted well on reports of increased buying of the metal. Anaconda and Kennecott rallied about 3 points each and Chile gained 4.

New highs for the year were made by Borden and the American Tobacco stocks, the latter rising 3 and 4 points. Johns Manville, which is expected to benefit from improvement in new construction, rose 5.

Foreign exchanges eased. Sterling cables sagged to a new low for the year at $4.85 13-16.

Cotton Goods Quiet

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet in primary markets as most of the large houses were closed on account of the funeral of W. H. Baldwin, senior member of the drygoods commission house of Woodward, Baldwin & Co. The week's sales were below production. Southern manufacturers were in the markets holding conferences with selling agents to readjustment contract deliveries and arrange for the 30 per cent curtailment of production planned for the next two months. Raw silk was unchanged. Moderate gains are reported in the sales of wool goods for fall. Burlaps were a shade easier.

RALLIES IN PRICES IN COTTON MARKET FOLLOWING DECLINE

NEW YORK, May 10. (AP)—An early decline in cotton promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables was followed by rallies today on covering for the week-end which may have been promoted by the early steadiness of grains and stocks and prehensions that the central belt was getting too much rain. Rallies were not fully maintained, and after selling up from 16.30 to 16.44, May closed at 16.35 while the new October which had advanced from 14.58 to 14.73 closed at 14.64. The general market closed steady net 3 points higher to 4 points lower.

The opening was steady at a decline of 8 to 10 points, and scattered selling inspired by the easy showing of Liverpool, while there may have also been some selling on reports of showers in the eastern belt. Offerings were light and quiet readily absorbed. July sold up from 16.31 to 16.50 and new December from 14.68 to 14.80 with the general list showing net gains of about 3 to 8 points at the high points of the morning. There seemed to be a little more cotton for sale at 16.50 for July, however, and closing quotations showed reactions of 5 to 9 points from the best. At the close May was 10 points under the price of July and showed premium of 171 points over the new October.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 68,000 bales against 83,000 last year.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, May 10. (AP)—The short Saturday session of the cotton market was very quiet with price fluctuations narrow. The market was influenced to some extent by the weather but was mainly affected by week-end covering up and the straddle operations between July and the new crop months.

With Liverpool cables 6 to 10 points lower than due, the opening here was lower, down 3 to 6 points and as New York made a greater response to the cables than the market here prices eased off further in the early trading, showing losses of about half a dollar a bale.

Prices rallied in the morning on buying induced by a storm warning for the Texas coast and fears of too much rain in that state, gaining 14 points from the lows on the two most active months. Prices eased near the end 2 to 5 points on realizing and the market closed steady at a small net advance.

July after trading to 15.97, down 10 points, rallied to 16.11, up 14 points and closed at 16.09, up 2 points net for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains of 1 to 2 points.

October closed at 14.67, or 1 to 2 points net higher for the day.

Port receipts 9,462, for season 8,256,267, last season 8,261,069. Exports 8,641, for season 6,212,234. Last season 7,206,186. Port stocks 1,658,303, last year 1,282,103. Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, May 10. (AP)—Wool prices have shown a firmer tendency during the week as the result of a little better buying on a number of grades for immediate requirements and the purchase of some new wools for future delivery. Fleece and territory lines of 64, 60's quality were prominent in the orders placed to cover future requirements. The finer grades of fleece also were bought to be graded out of the new wools.

Abe Martin — On Golf An' Walking

Girls eat the most.

Dr. Moppe was the principal speaker at the Young Men's Business League luncheon yisterday, an' said as follers: "I've jest completed my annual spring survey o' the liver an' I find no encouragin' signs that any greater respect is bein' paid this most important of all human organs than there was durin' the previous year. Ther's many contributin' forces operatin' to the detriment o' the liver, the almost universal habit o' ridin' bein' prob'ly the worst menace. The abnormal consumption o' candy is tellin' on the community's livers. Gorgin', over eatin', is the paramount curse o' the nation, the reaps an annual harvest that makes the rum toll look like a dry poll in Massachusetts. Eatin' has become a business. Men used to jump on a bicycle at noon an' ride home an' eat a mild repast, mebbe some liver, an' egg or two, bread an' butter, an' coffee, an' in a few instances a wedge o' pie. Today the many cafeterias are packed, an' hundreds file along past temptin' food displays almost a block long. No matter how many resolutions we've made to lay off o' this or that, or confine ourselves to so

AWAIT REPORT ON FINGERPRINTS OF SLAYING SUSPECT

SAPULPA, Okla., May 10. (UP)—A report on fingerprints taken of a man who said his name is Fred Finch, held here as a suspect in the slaying of State Highway Patrolman Brady Paul at New Castle, Pa., was awaited tonight by Sheriff D. B. Livingston.

Although general description of the man tallies with that of Tom Crawford, wanted in connection with Paul's death, the fingerprints do not correspond, Livingston said.

However, he said the man would not be released from the Creek county jail until he received a report on the fingerprint being made by Newcastle officers.

Finch was arrested several days ago while traveling on a highway near Bristow.

Crawford was believed to be the brother of Mrs. Irene Schroeder and the third party in the murder of Paul who was slain in Butler, Pa., last December when a trio of bandits fled from the scene of a holdup. Mrs. Schroeder, known as the "blonde trigger woman," and Glenn Dague, her sweetheart, face death in the electric chair on the Paul slaying.

YOUNG GOLDSBOROUGH LANDS AT COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 10. (UP)—Frank Goldsborough, aspirant for a new West-East junior transcontinental flight record landed at Columbus tonight flying from St. Louis where he took off at 1:10 p. m. C. S. T. The 19-year-old flier's trip was extended from Tulsa, Okla., from where his small craft bucked stiff winds into St. Louis. He will remain in Columbus tonight.

The Lookout

relief, (as he states it) that he can see in sight for the Spudders is to get them a good, first class fortune teller, to do his stuff right at the start of every ball game, and if they are going to hit our starting pitcher we should pray for rain, or something to that effect. He also states that Mr. Brubaker would probably make them a good man for that job. I must state here that Mr. Brubaker knows enough baseball that he would easily tell them that Milt's offerings would be slapped all over the lot. It would not take a wizard at telling fortunes to tell them that.

"Judging from Mr. Donnelly's letter he has evidently not seen many Texas league baseball games. It takes more than a smart baseball fan to make out just what he is trying to say. He says he read the letter in which Mr. Brubaker handed Milt Steengrafe and Skipper Carl a bunch of raspberries (ramberries), I have never heard of a statement like that. I suppose he means ramberries. He probably picked that up from some of these sport writers down in the Red river valley league, which is composed of Nocona, St. Jo, and a few others.

"I would appreciate seeing this in the Lookout column, and would like to see letters from more of the Spudder fans.

"Yours for the Spudders,
"Marvin E. Banks,

SENATE TO PROBE RANSACKING ROOM SENATOR JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—Aroused senate leaders today ordered an investigation of the ransacking of the office of the capitol last night of Sentor Johnson, Republican, California.

The California senator arrived at his office in the central section of the capitol structure this morning to find his personal correspondence out of the files, the drawers of the desks opened and a private cabinet broken open.

Refusing to voice suspicions or to make any charge, Senator Johnson said "the evidence is conclusive that my private and personal correspondence was sought and read." He added with a smile, "somebody's ears are tingling if this was read."

Apparently nothing was missing. There were no clues as city and capitol police undertook an investigation. It is known only that the room was ransacked between 12:30 and 4 a. m. The night janitor reported the room in order at 12:30 a. m. The iceman entered at 7 a. m., and told police that the files were open then.

The officers in the senate office building of Senator McKellar and Brock, Democrats, of Tennessee, and of Smoot, Republican, Utah, were recently entered.

MYSTERY OF EUCHARIST EXPLAINED BY CARDINAL

CARTHAGE, Tunisia, May 10. (AP)—American and other English speaking pilgrims to the 30th Eucharistic congress of the Roman Catholic church held their first separate meeting today.

On the eve of the closing of the congress they listened to an address on the "mystery of the eucharist" by Cardinal MacRory archbishop of Armagh and primate of Ireland.

He expressed the confident hope that the next congress would be held in Dublin and paid tribute to the intensity of the faith in Ireland.

After the meeting, Cardinal MacRory was photographed by a talking picture camera with the crowd. Though he had never seen or heard a talking picture before, he willingly spoke for one.

MOVE TO CURTAIL POWER OF BISHOPS MEETS REVERSES

Slow Progress Made in Considering Proposed Constitution

DEPLORE ACTION OF MOB AT SHERMAN COURTHOUSE

Defeat Pierce Proposal By Decisive Vote

DALLAS, Texas, May 10. (AP)—Attempts to curtail the power of bishops in assigning ministers in annual conferences met with decided reverses in the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, today, when it voted down proposals to adopt the "open cabinet" policy and to require one-third of the presiding elders of a district to concur in the appointments.

The task of considering the proposed written constitution as recommended by a commission appointed at the Memphis conference four years ago was only half completed, and it was predicted a vote on acceptance or rejection of the perfected document would not be reached before the middle of next week. The college of bishops regarded it as the major piece of business to come before the quadrennial conference.

The conference took notice of the burning of a negro at Sherman by a mob yesterday to avenge an attack made on a white woman, and without a dissenting vote adopted a resolution reaffirming "lasting opposition to all mob violence." The resolution said the conference learned of the "shocking affair" with a "sense of horror and deep regret."

Dr. W. P. King Speaks

Advocating an "open cabinet," Dr. W. P. King of Nashville, Tenn., said the present system of assigning ministers to pastorates was "unfair, unbrotherly and unnecessary discrimination." He deplored that the Methodist church, South, represented what he called "a little section of Christendom, carrying out a wornout obsolete system." He said the "open cabinet" principle would assure all preachers being treated "fairly and equally."

T. D. Ellis of Louisville, Ky., told the conference that there was nothing to prevent bishops from consulting ministers before assigning them and that some were now practicing the "open cabinet" plan. He declared some bishops who had formerly favored it now were against it after having experimented.

The conference voted overwhelmingly against adoption of the principle.

Proposal Defeated

It voted equally as decisively against the proposal of Dr. A. M. Pierce of Atlanta, Ga., that a presiding bishop obtain concurrence by one-third of the presiding elders in the district affected in his assignment of pastors. J. L. Decell of Brookhaven, Miss., said in many instances bishops made appointments only with the approval of all the presiding elders of the district.

Addressing his remarks to an effort to reconsider action of yesterday in amending a section of the doctrinal standards, Dr. F. J. Prettyman of Baltimore, Md., told the conference he hoped it would "put something in that has life and not shy off and put nothing in." The conference voted not to go back over ground previously covered.

Dr. Walter Anthony of Savannah, Ga., opposed to adoption of a written constitution of any kind, said the real question was whether the Methodists wanted a constitution and not a question of "orthodoxy or loyalty to Methodism." He said consideration of the constitution section by section was costing much time and money and tried again to get action on the document as a whole, but was ruled out of order by Bishop John M. Moore of Dallas, presiding.

Just Comin' Back From Where Had Been Says Negro

HOUSTON, May 10. (AP)—"We was drivin' along—"

He was a black and burly dock worker.

He was a witness in justice court today in an examining trial for a negro charged with attempting to steal another negro dock worker's car.

"We was drivin' along,' the witness said. "We saw this man here—this man you calls the defendant—turnin the car around. I jumped down and hopped on the runnin' board of the automobile and stopped him.

"We was drivin' along."

Defense Attorney Abe W. Wagner interrupted.

"We understand fully that you were driving along," he said. "What were you driving along in?"

"A truck."

"And where were you going?" persisted Mr. Wagner.

The negro scratched his head. He was clearly outraged by the question.

"Where was we goin'," he repeated.

"Why, we wasn't goin' nowhere. We was just comin' back from where we had been at."

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO IMPEACH HUEY LONG

NEW ORLEANS, May 10. (UP)—Anti-administration forces will seek to oust Huey P. Long, Louisiana's governor, when the state legislature convenes at Baton Rouge Monday, the United Press was reliably informed today.

Opponents of the young executive will start impeachment proceedings as soon as possible after the opening. The first attempt will be to remove J. B. Fournet, an avowed Long supporter, as speaker of the house.

If the opposition forces are successful, a committee will be appointed to investigate the Long administration.

Long, who rarely leaves his hotel room without two armed body guards, has just returned from a state-wide speaking tour where he denounced efforts of his opponents to discredit his administration.

New Sermon Material

H. L. Mencken's "Treatise on the Gods," recently published by Alfred A. Knopf, has become the theme-of-the-year in America's churches. From Los Angeles to Baltimore ministers and rabbis are discussing this book and delivering sermons on it. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise preaches Sunday at Carnegie hall in New York on both the book and Mr. Mencken, while New Yorkers will have the opportunity to hear the noted humanist minister, Dr. Charles Francis Potter, speak on the same subject soon.

NORTHERN ARMIES CLAIM DECISIVE VICTORY IN CHINA

Leaders Report Government Troops 'Virtually Annihilated'

NATIONALS SUFFER 10,000 CASUALTIES IN BATTLE

Minister of Finance Attacks Statement of Rebels

PEKING, China, May 10. (UP)—The northern armies, with which Gov. Yen Hsi-Shan is attempting to set up a new government at Peking, claimed today to have opened an offensive against the National government at Nanking, with an overwhelming victory.

A communique issued by Yen, whose chief aide is the powerful "Christian general," Feng Yu-Hsiang, said the northern troops had "virtually annihilated" a crack division of soldiers under Chaign Kai-Shek, head of the government at Nanking.

There were 10,000 casualties and 15,000 prisoners were taken in the battle fought along the Lunghai railway, the communique said. The northern armies quickly followed up the victory, advancing ttoward the capital at Nanking, Yen said.

The communique described the "complete demoralization" and rout of the Nanking armies, which were said to have surrendered by thousands. The northern troops were rfom Shansi and from other provinces controlled by Feng. The attack took the forces of Chiang Kai-Shek by surprise.

The communique was not confirmed from other sources, but there has been some minor fighting along the Lunghai railway in the last week. The previous clashes were of little importance, except to indicate that the two opposing forces were coming together.

Yen and Feng recently announced the establishment of the northern government at Peking, and declared their intention of overthrowing Chaing Kai-Shek. Their opposition was directed against Chiang himself rather than against the republic, which they considered was not in sympathy with the Nanking leader.

SHANGHAI, China, May 10. (UP)—Minister of Finance T. V. Soong issued a statement today attacking the interference of the so-called northern armies under Gov. Yen Hsi-Shan with Chinese financial obligations.

"If the National government needs any cause for declaring war on the militarists," the statement as reported by the Kuo Min agency said, "it has sufficient cause in that it is not longer willing to pour out the people's money to pay blackmail. Nothing is more typical of the attitude of the rebels who want to save China for themselves than their decision to evade all responsibility for loans subscribed to by the people of China. They will not find the government powerless."

Americans in Danger

WASHINGTON, May 10. (INS)—Belated advices to American Consul General Douglas Jenkins at Canton, China, transmitted to the state department today declared that seven Americans residing at Kweihsien Kwangsi, are in considerable danger from almost daily bombing of the city by Cantonese airplanes.

The department's record shows the following Americans are at Kweihsien:

Annie Daillie, Turtle Creek, Pa.; Miss Ethel Mattley of San Francisco; Emmett Lackey Broaddus, wife and two children of Lancaster, Ky., and W. G. Smith and wife, whose address in the United States was not given.

Jenkins reported that although he had no indications the Americans would evacuate Kweihsien, he has asked the Kwangsi government to furnish an armed escort to enable them to cross over to the Cantonese lines if they desired.

He said because of the inability of the American gunboat Mindinao to proceed above Wuchow because of low water, he has been able to send no direct help to the Americans and must rely upon the efforts of the Cantonese and Kwangsi military authorities.

Jim Baker Trial

NEW YORK, May 10. (US)—"Texas Jim" Baker will go on trial May 19 on a charge of murdering Henry Gaw, Guggenheim laboratory watchman, in December, 1928, it was announced today. Baker was brought to New York from Detroit last February. He has confessed to numerous other murders.

DETAILED PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR VACATION STUDY

With the end of the regular school term only two weeks distant, summer school likewise looms nearer, and detailed plans for the vacation sessions have been announced.

Grade school pupils are to convene this year at Austin school instead of Alamo, on account of the repair work going on at Alamo. Junior high, high school and junior college classes will be held in the Junior college building.

The elementary session, beginning Monday, May 26, will close six weeks later, July 5, with classes meeting six days each week from 8 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. The tuition charge will be $10 for the entire six weeks. Those taking only one subject, however, will be charged only $5.

W. E. Walker, principal of the Travis school, will be summer principal this year, with Miss Florence Cullen, Miss Lena Stephens, Mrs. R. E. Vigus and Miss Norma Rollins as teachers.

"Prospective pupils should communicate with me or one of the teachers as early as possible," Mr. Walker said Saturday. "All pupils desiring to enter summer school to do advanced work must be sure to get the proper recommendation from their principals before registering in summer school."

Mr. Walker may be reached through telephoning number 6569 or 2-4182.

E. F. Fruechte Is Speaker Sunday At Burkburnett

LOCAL PARTY RETURNS HOME AFTER AIR TOUR

Mr. and Mrs. James E. McKanna, Miss Dean Whatley and William M. Nichols have returned from a three-week stay in New York, having made the trip both ways in Mr. McKanna's seven-place Travelair plane.

Stops were made en route home at Iowa City, Iowa, where the party visited Miss Happy Whatley, a student in Iowa university, and at Marshall, Mo., whence Mr. Nichols made the rest of the journey in his own plane. The flying time from New York was 17 hours.

A present for the children of Wichita Falls—a present that can't be tied up in white paper with pink or blue ribbons—will be presented through the city on behalf of the Wichita Falls Kiwanis club within the next few months.

Continuing in their Santa Claus policy of helping underprivileged children, the Kiwanis club has this time taken into consideration the little boy and his sister who are forced to play in the street—the hundreds of children living in the southern part of the city who have no playground facilities. The present to be given them covers 12 acres—a playground park, naturally wooded, in the exact center of the congested district it will serve.

"The Kiwanians could do nothing better for the children of Wichita Falls," said George D. Fairtrace, city manager, in speaking of the gift. "Such a move is the best sort of crime prevention the city could have. Equipped for playing and supervised by the park department, the park will be a character-building force. It is a wonderful site for a playground."

C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, also commended the Kiwanians for their choice of a 1930 project. "It has been greatly needed for some time," he said. "The city does not own any park property in the southern part of the city except Weeks park, which is too far west to be of any benefit to the people who really need parks. To put a playground and picnic ground in the southeast part of town will mean that a thickly settled part of the city will have for the first time a modern playground and picnic ground."

To Be Well Equipped

The city has agreed to equip the park with playground apparatus, tables and ovens. No artificial beautification will be needed, as the site is really one of the natural beauty spots of the city.

One of the most interesting features of the park will be the swimming pool, since the city does not provide free swimming in any other park. Holliday creek winds its way through the 12 acres, widening at one spot to make a natural "swimming hole," which has already furnished recreation for many a boy. Very little improvement will be needed at this point.

The park will probably be formally opened within the next few months with a huge picnic under the auspices of the Kiwanis club, according to Dr. R. H. Peterson, president.

Funds for the purchase of the ground are being raised through taxation of the members and also through benefits of various sorts. One benefit is the bridge tournament to be held at the Wichita club next Friday, under the direction of the wives of the Kiwanians.

Bridge is to be enjoyed throughout the day by the women, with the husbands joining the party in the evening. Prizes have been donated by local merchants.

The purchase of the park is one of the major projects undertaken by the Kiwanis club in the past few years. The building of the day nursery, the establishment of wading pools in city parks and the annual Christmas activities all are related to the same motive—helping the underprivileged child.

Wichita Falls Open Forum Directors To Meet for Organization Purposes Chamber of Commerce Sunday 3 p. m.

Newly chosen directors for the Wichita Falls Open Forum will hold their first meeting at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the directors room of the chamber of commerce, with Walter D. Cline, chairman, presiding.

BROOK DRIVERS TO MAKE RIGHT TURNS ON 'RED'

Signs permitting motorists to make a right turn on a red traffic light have been installed at the corners of Brook and Ninth, Brook and Tenth and Brook and Eleventh, according to George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

Although this practice is prevalent in many cities and has been in demand here for some time, members of the local safety council and city officials are opposed to it on safety grounds, it was found. The installation of the signs Saturday on the suburban corners is for experimental purposes, Mr. Fairtrace said.

Running against a red light downtown, whether to turn right or not, will continue to draw the same penalty in corporation court, Mr. Fairtrace said.

'Believe It or Not' Subject Is Visitor in City

Earl J. Hall of St. Louis, featured in "Believe It or Not" by Robert Ripley on Jan. 14 of this year, visited the Times office Saturday.

Mr. Hall, who is with the Morris and Castle shows, can breathe through a hole in his back, just below his right shoulder blade, and can exhale smoke through his back as other smokers do through their noses. He can breathe through this means without aid of his nose or mouth, but his queer breathing apparatus has its disadvantages as well—he cannot go swimming or stand in water which comes above his waist because of the danger of strangulation.

Pease River Survey

VERNON, Texas, May 10.—The fourth survey of the Pease river to determine the feasibility of construction of a dam about 10 miles northwest of Crowell will be started next week under the direction of H. B. Newell of Vicksburg, Miss., superintendent for southern flood relief work for the U. S. army, according to information received here. Eight army engineers will make their headquarters in Crowell while conducting the survey. The proposed dam will impound over 350,000 acre feet of water in Foard and Hardeman counties, and would serve as a source of city water for Vernon, Crowell, Electra and Iowa Park, according to the original plan. It would also make possible irrigation for agricultural purposes throughout this section.

AUSTIN P.-T. A. HOLDS ANNUAL HEALTH CLINIC

The spring health clinic, better known as the summer round-up of the children, was held Friday afternoon, under the direction of Mrs. L. J. Garner, health chairman of Austin Parent-Teacher association.

Thirty-five children were given complete physical examinations by doctors and nurses, most of the volunteer mothers being present to lend their aid.

Only two 100 per cent children were found among these, John Edner and Zeona Albritton. Two other youngsters, Billy Bolton and Dora Morgan, were perfect except for two small cavities in their baby teeth. The following children were found to have perfect teeth: Peggy Jane Jetter, Josephine Seay, Charles Fowler, Eugene Hughes, Marvin Cameron, Mildred Moss and the 100 per cent children.

Underweight was found to be the most common defect, one child being 18 per cent under normal weight, with 12 between 7 and 18 per cent underweight.

The health committee hopes to report these cases up to normal weight when the children are examined in the September clinic.

Austin P.-T. A. wishes to thank the school nurse, Miss Matilda Thuman, and Red Cross nutritionist, Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, and Drs. W. P. Bolding, Bailey R. Collins, P. K. Smith, J. A. Johnson and Waldo Lain for their cheerful and efficient service in the clinic.

CARRIGAN P.-T. A.

The Carrigan pre-school clinic was held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock when 20 children were examined.

These children will enter school next fall. The physicians who gave their service in the examinations were Drs. J. B. Hathorn, C. H. Dolph and Maud Lindsey. Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, Red Cross nutritionist, and Miss Thuman, school nurse, were assisted in conducting the clinic by the following mothers from the Carrigan School Parent-Teacher association: Mesdames A. E. Kepley, pre-school chairman; Alex Michael, G. J. Galmiche, J. R. Hanks, R. M. Hurst and M. E. Sansbury. The linens were furnished by the Martin Linen Supply company.

The Carrigan Parent-Teacher association will hold its last meeting of this school year Tuesday night. This meeting will be in observance of the second fathers' night, it was announced. A very interesting program has been prepared for this night. Mrs. W. W. Silk will give the devotional. The Rhythm orchestra, under the direction of Misses Roberts and Swenson, will play. A number of beautiful songs will be sung by the Glee club under the direction of Doris Grant. Faith Galmiche, pupil of Knickerbocker Studio of Fine Arts, will give several dance numbers. Installation of next year's officers will be an interesting feature and a white elephant sale will be held. This is a yearly event and much fun and entertainment is given during this sale. The fathers, mothers and friends of Carrigan district are urged to come and make this one of the outstanding meetings of the year. This meeting will close this year's work of the association.

Musicians Club Closes Season With Luncheon

Culminating the work for the spring and summer season, members of the Musicians club entertained with a beautiful luncheon at the country club at 1 o'clock Friday.

Dainty reed baskets filled with Dorothy Perkins roses and larkspur in pastel shades were arranged at intervals along the tables, and May poles, wrapped in light green paper with streamers of pink, yellow, orchid and blue which led to each plate, were used. A long stream of Kentucky rambler roses was arranged gracefully along the edge of the speaker's table.

In the center of the U in which the tables were placed, stood a small table on which was a lovely May pole with miniature dancers placed in natural positions around it. The dolls were dressed in pastel shades of pink, green, orchid, blue and yellow. A cloth of old rose linen covered the table. The reception suite was also attractively decorated with vases of roses and on the stage were beautiful baskets of roses and larkspur surrounded with sprigs of lacey fern.

Mrs. R. A. Lincoln was toastmistress and introduced Mrs. E. A. Bebb, out-going president of the club, who in turn introduced Mesdames Flora Greenwood and Lucille Brooks Huff as charter members to the club. Mrs. Huff in a few words told of the history of the club after which Mrs. Bebb commented upon the work the club has done this year.

Mrs. W. C. Hamilton, first vice president, presented Mrs. Bebb with a silver cream and sugar set from the club as a token of appreciation of the splendid work she has done this past year. Mrs. Bebb thanked the members for the gift and other courtesies shown her while president of the group. Mrs. J. M. Baber told of plans for next year's work.

New officers were introduced as follows: Mrs. J. E. Hall, president; Mrs. Clara S. Baber, first vice president; Mrs. R. A. Lincoln, second vice president; Miss Lucy Huggins, third vice president; Miss Mary Tancred, corresponding secretary; Mrs. C. A. Rogers, treasurer; Miss Lucille Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. C. E. Beavers, parliamentarian; Miss Harriet Bradley, librarian, and Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, accompanist. Mrs. Bebb presented Mrs. Hall with a gavel that she had fashioned from a mesquite tree.

The feature of the program occurred when Frank Renard, one of Texas' foremost composers and pianists gave "Nocturne" from Chopin and two of his own compositions. Mr. Renard is from Dallas and comes to Wichita Falls once each week to conduct a class. He was welcomed into the club as a new member.

The remainder of the program was given as follows:

String Ensemble .. Suite of Classic Dances
Sara Bande ..... Couperin
Bourree ..... Krebs
Dance of the Sylphs ..... Gluck
Gavotte ..... Gretry
Minuet ..... Mattheson
Rigaudon ..... Rameau

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Guardians Meeting

Guardians association meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon at local headquarters as the meeting planned for last week had to be postponed on account of the stormy weather. All guardians are urged to attend.

Camp

The Man-New-Go group of Archer City sends word to the effect that they are heartily in favor of going to Camp Citivan at Fort Worth for the summer encampment and they are planning to be on hand for a grand time.

Adi-Iwah Group

Adi-Iwah group met Wednesday afternoon in their club room at the First Presbyterian church and elected the following officers: President, Eleanor Weiler; vice president, Edith McClure; secretary and scribe, Margaret Davis. After the business meeting the girls worked on requirements for rank and made candy.

Wokonna Group

Wokonna group of Zundelowitz Junior high did not have a meeting this week on account of activities at the school.

Mankilo Group

Mankilo group of Crockett school met Thursday afternoon in the Camp Fire room. Each girl made a report on her experience when taking her May basket. Plans were made for the meetings for May and June. The meeting next Thursday will be devoted to checking up on honor beads earned and making final plans for the morning swim and sunrise breakfast at Westmoreland on Friday, May 23, and for the ceremonial meeting Tuesday, May 27. The outdor group ceremonial meeting will be held in the early afternoon and will require about one hour after which the girls will earn nature and camp craft beads and play games until time to spread their picnic lunch. They discussed the filling of the world friendship treasure chest to be sent to the children of the Philippine islands and decided to have all day meetings after the close of school and make some handicraft articles to go in the chest. What good times these girls are planning to have this summer in their Camp Fire activities.

Those present at the meeting Thursday were Peggy Jones, Elizbeth McGee, Patricia Hankerson, Mary and Martha Clark, Marie Edmondson, Elizabeth Riner, Bernice Rockwell, Mary Rogers, Mary Louise Yeargin, Virginia Lee Pyle, Louise Rhoads; visitors, Mary Louise Wynn, Mary Kathryn Tarry, Corrinne Morse and Mrs. Maude Bartholomew.

Wenonah Group

Wenonah group where is your scribe? We know you had a meeting but we have had no report.

Gitalaya Group

Miss McIlheran met with the Gitalaya group at the Scotland Evangelical church on Friday afternoon in the absence of the guardian, Mrs. G. A. Turner who left Saturday morning for a car trip to California. Miss McIlheran helped the girls with their individual names and symbols. They also discussed plans for giving a play to earn money for the group. Next week several plays will be reviewed and further plans made.

Ahsonzong Group

Ahsonzong group of Reagan Junior high met Thursday afternoon at the school and earned handicraft honor bead No. 804 by learning to hem, overcast, backstitch, buttonhole, featherstitch, and blanket stitch. Those present were Irene and Pauline West, Loucile Willis, Dorothy Gothard, Lucile Murchison, Gladys Young, Anna Faye Williams, Faith Galmiche, Norma Williams an dthe guardian, Mrs. W. J. Willis.

On Friday afternoon four girls of this group who are working on fire makers rank met at local headquarters and planned the menus for breakfast and dinner for their all-day hike the week of the 29th. The girls are planning to have a sunrise ceremonial meeting, cook their breakfast and spend the remainder of the day in nature and camp study.

Aowakiya Group

Aowakiya group of Alamo school met at the school Wednesday afternoon. During the business session they read the fire lighting ceremonies, 10 girls made reports on their experiences in delivering their May baskets, and plans were made for a group ceremonial meeting to be held next Wednesday afternoon in the school auditorium. All parents and friends of the girls are cordially invited to attend the meeting. Miss McIlheran will meet the girls on Monday and Tuesday mornings at the school at 8:30 who are ready to turn in honor blanks and get their beads in preparation for the group ceremonial meeting. About 25 girls with their guardian, Miss Mount, and Miss McIlheran were present at the meeting Wednesday afternoon.

CITY VIEW NUTRITION STUDY CLUB MEETS

An interesting and instructive meeting of the City View Nutrition Study club was held at the school house Friday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock. Miss McKinney, Red Cross nutritionist, gave a lecture on the four minerals, calcium, phosphate, iron, and copper necessary to the human body and gave a list of the different foods affording these minerals.

Her lecture was illustrated with photographs of white rats taken in the Battle Creek nutrition department.

These photographs showed the effects of different foods and combinations of foods on these animals as experimented upon in the laboratory. As a preface to the next lesson, vitamins A, B, C and D were introduced. The meeting closed with a round table discussion of the points brought out in the lecture. Those attending were Mrs. C. B. Wigley, Mrs. W. T. Johnson, Mrs. M. E. Boydsden, Mrs. C. B. Witeman, Mrs. E. E. Wilson, Mrs. N. K. Shamlian, and Mrs. W. B. Taylor.

QUANAH, Texas, May 10.—Advertisements in the local newspaper are being carried by Quanah's two banks recommending at least a 20 per cent reduction in acreage planted to cotton this year.

BRIEFS AND NOTICES

Members of the Huey P.-T. A. will meet at the school Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock when Mrs. R. P. Willis will have charge of the installation of officers. Miss Macie McClure's room will have charge of the program. The clinic will be held Friday at 1 o'clock. Mothers are requested to accompany their children.

The Sam Houston preschool clinic will be held at 1 o'clock Thursday, when children between the ages of 6 and 7 will be examined. Physicians in charge of the work will include Drs. R. E. Hilburn, R. B. Wolford, B. C. Cammack and Maude Lindsey. The dentist will be announced later. Mothers assisting will include Mesdames W. W. Belcher, C. C. Grantham, J. P. Chastain, F. C. Patton, H. C. Pinkston and N. M. Johnson. Misses Thuman and Pearl Rorabaugh, Red Cross nurses, will assist.

A health clinic for children entering school for the first time will be held at the Crockett school Wednesday at 1 o'clock. All children are urged to be present and mothers are requested to accompany their children.

Members of the Garden club of the Woman's Forum will hold their monthly breakfast at the clubhouse Thursday at 10 a. m. At this meeting the summer flower show will be discussed and it is requested that those who wish to have chrysanthemums in the fall flower show, plant them now. Mrs. Frank Timberlake, chairman of the club will take reservations. An informal program will be given.

READERS CLUB CLOSES SESSION WITH PICNIC

Members of the Readers club closed their activities of the season Thursday with an all-day annual outing at the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Myers near Jolly. A picnic luncheon was served and out-of-door sports enjoyed. At a brief business session, Mrs. Russell Kerbow was enrolled a member to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. Cecil Putty, who is moving to Amarillo June 1. Plans were also discussed for the program for next year.

Those present were Mesdames Homer Karrenbrock, Ella Merle Mathis Bristol, Cecil Putty, Porter Oakes, J. G. Oakley, Sterling Crumpler, Harry Fuller, Darrold Kahn, John W. Thomas, John Rhea and Miss Marguerite Fisher.

National Capital Horse Show Will Gather Socially Elect of Countryside for Annual Event

By GEORGINA WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 10.—For a sports-following first lady of the land, Washington's immediate prospects of entertainment offer considerable of interest.

This week it is the national capital horse show, at which the socially select of this broad countryside gather annually, and the following week it is the world famous Davis cup matches, to be played again at the Chevy Chase club.

Whether Mrs. Hoover will be sufficiently recovered from her recent indisposition to attend the horse show is problematical. She has accepted no social engagements now for some several weeks, and has made no plans for the immediate future. But, with her known love of horses and horsemanship it is whispered authoritatively that if it is a possible thing to do, the first lady will be in her box at the Bradley Hills grounds for at least one of the three afternoons on which the ponies parade.

There seems little doubt that Mrs. Hoover will attend the Davis cup matches.

Last year, when the United States team was playing Japan, she was present each afternoon, nor was her persence the usual official look-in. She came early and stayed until the last ball was lobbed into the backstop. With her, on that occasion, were several young people, then guests of Allan Hoover at the White House.

As to the horse show, it will have an able substitute in the role of official color in the event that the first lady of the land is unable to be present. Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the vice president, has signified her intention of attending the show, and also will head the receiving line at the annual Hunt ball on Saturday evening, the night of the last of the three days of showing.

The Hunt ball is perhaps the most colorful social event in the Washington season from the point of view of dress. All guests must be arrayed in riding togs, and the "huntingpink" is the predominant note.

Substantiation of the rumor that the first lady may attend the horse show is seen by many of the Washington social dowagers in the fact that she and the president have accepted the invitation of the annual polo ball committee to attend that ball during the following week here.

The polo ball, while an important social event, is by no means the point of interest in Washington society that the horse show is.

In connection with the Davis cup play, it is more than likely that the occasion will be accompanied by private tennis matches on the famous White House courts, which by the way, are considered the equal of any in the world. The White House courts were built in the rear lawn of the executive mansion during the administration of President Roosevelt, an ardent tennis enthusiast and excellent player and have been maintained since in perfect condition.

Strangely enough, the cup for which the matches are to be played at Chevy Chase, the famous "Davis cup," was donated by a man who has important official memory in Washington. He was none other than Dwight F. Davis, former secretary of war, now governor general of the Philippines.

NOTES FROM C. I. A.

By LOUISE HANEY

DENTON, Texas, May 10.—Evelyn Hardeman, junior journalism major, was elected editor in chief of the Lass-O for 1930-31. Miss Hardeman has held the position of associate editor this year. Mary Katherine Boone, of Dallas was elected president of the student body.

The annual May day festivities were held at the college last Thursday. Mary Katherine Boone was crowned queen of May on the south green with the court of Henry VIII and Catherine of Aragon together with their court to greet her. Immediately after the ceremony, entertainment for the queen began.

The twenty-seventh annual home coming for all ex-students of the Texas State College for Women will begin officially Friday night, May 30, with the presentation of "Twelfth Night" by the C. I. A. Little Theater. The rest of the program will consist of the annual Blue Chambrey breakfast, a tea, a formal banquet, a garden party, and business meetings.

Copies of the march by John Phillip Sousa, "Daughters of Texas," dedicated to the students and faculty of the college have been received. Sousa and his band appeared at the college in October, 1928. The director was "inspired to write a march in the honor of the young women of the Southwest."

Vida Ramey attended the junior dance Saturday night at the college gymnasium. This was the final junior prom, and 75 couples attended. The Sugariou and Eddie orchestra from Tyler furnished the music.

The senior formal dance will be held Saturday night at the Bralley Memorial library. The fourth year officers and college officials are to be in the receiving line. During an intermission stunts will be furnished by the "little sisters," sophomores, of the seniors. A dinner in the cafeteria will precede the dance.

Evelyn Hardeman was elected as assistant secretary of the Scholarship club. The installation of the officers was held last Friday night.

Vida Ramey has been elected as secretary-treasurer of the Alice Freeman Palmer club.

Mildred Bachman and Maurine Staley were among the guests at a birthday dinner honoring Marie Anderson Saturday night.

Catherine George and Billie Stell were hostesses at a breakfast Sunday morning.

Isabel Waller is one of the contributors of short stories to the Daedalian quarterly, literary publication of the college. Miss Waller had an illustrated short story in the last publication of the Daedalian Quarterly.

Cyrena Wilkes visited her aunt, Mrs. Fred Hunter, in Dallas last week-end.

Anna Belle Hickman spent Saturday and Sunday in Fort Worth.

Vida Ramey had as her guest Saturday and Sunday Mary Louise Clark, of Wichita Falls.

Evelyn Hardeman had as her guest Maurine Clark, of Wichita Falls. Miss Clark attended the college last year.

Isabel Waller had as her guest, Mary Morrow also of Wichita Falls.

Miss Hardeman and Miss Ramey gave a breakfast Sunday morning at the Lodge for these three guests.

Palestine Relics

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 10. (AP)—Dr. George Grant MacCurdy of Yale university, director of the American school of prehistoric research, has been informed of a rich find in relics of the stone age, in Palestine. A single cave in the group of south of Haifa yielded no less than 5,000 tools during the first 10 days of April. These tools date from the aurignacion epoch of the old stone age.

OKLAHOMA CITY CIVIC LEADERS TO VISIT HERE

WILL STAGE PARADE SOON AFTER ARRIVAL

Dance at Wichita Club Is Planned in Honor Of Visit

Preparations for entertaining the Oklahoma delegation which arrives here Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock on the 29th annual goodwill tour of the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce have been completed, it was announced Saturday at the offices of the local organization.

Immediately after the arrival of the visitors, they will stage a parade through the business district of the city. It will end in front of the newly completed Industrial Mart of Wichita Falls, and the visitors will break up there to enter the exhibit hall and be shown the displays of locally manufactured articles.

Plans for completion of an improved highway between Wichita Falls and Oklahoma City will be discussed with the delegation. J. S. Bridwell, president of the chamber of commerce, with a party representing this city, will go to Waurika early in the afternoon and accompany the visitors into the city. Business men from neighboring towns and cities have been invited to be here to meet the Oklahoma City men during their stay.

The delegation will be welcomed by Judge A. H. Britain after the parade. Following a response from one of the visitors, a band concert will be given on the corner at Eighth and Scott streets, where the parade will stop for the welcome. At the industrial mart the Oklahoma City band will give a concert. After the program there, the visitors will visit various business establishments before having dinner on their special train, at which the directors of the chamber of commerce will be guests.

Monday evening they will be guests of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce at a dance given in their honor in the Wichita club.

The party will leave here Tuesday morning at 7 a. m. for Abilene where the second night stopover will be made. Overnight visits will also be made at Lubbock, Altus and Clinton, Okla. Every city en route will be visited, the party arriving back in Oklahoma City Saturday afternoon.

The trip will be made on a special train.

Two baggage cars loaded with souvenirs are attached to the train. The souvenirs will be distributed among school children and there will be some for the grown-ups, too, Sam Trave, souvenir chairman, has promised.

"We are not sending a lot of office boys on this trip," M. E. O'Neil, tour chairman, announced. "Those going on the tour are business and professional leaders of Oklahoma City, the heads of its leading business institutions.

"Governor W. J. Holloway of Oklahoma, Mayor Walter C. Dean of Oklahoma City, the heads of our two big colleges, the editors of our leading newspapers are among the group.

"When we say we are coming to get acquainted, we mean it. Oklahoma City, as well as other cities along the route of the tour, is a part of the great Southwest in whose development all will prosper. We want to work with all these communities in this great common cause. We can do it better if we know you better. That's the only purpose of this trip."

STATE DEPARTMENT CABLES RELIEF FOR QUAKE VICTIMS

WASHINGTON, May 10. (INS)—Through the state department the American Red Cross today cabled $5,000 for relief of earthquake sufferers in Pekia. The money was sent to Charles C. Hart, American minister at Teheran.

Hart cabled the department that 2,000 persons had been killed, many thousands made homeless and at least one town had been entirely destroyed by the quakes.

MANY DELEGATES ATTEND EPWORTH LEAGUE MEET

TIPTON, Okla., May 10—More than 100 delegates and others were present at an Epworth league convention and banquet held at the First Methodist church of Tipton Thursday. The following program was rendered: J. Frank Bumpas, solo; Miss Mildred Austin, Altus, talk; Fern Solo, Frederick, violin solo; Mrs. Wilson, Olustee, piano solo; Owen Lewis, Frederick, marimba solo; Ruth Stanford, Tipton, reading; Rev. Mr. Odem, Elmer, address, "Value of Epworth League."

Officers elected were Mrs. John Harris, Tipton, president; Clyde Moreland, Frederick, vice president, and Mrs. Wilson, Manitou, secretary-treasurer.

MISSOURI CLOSES ANNUAL SCHOOL JOURNALISM WEEK

COLUMBIA, Mo., May 10. (UP)—The 21st annual journalism week of the school of journalism of the University of Missouri was brought to a close at noon today with a round table conference of the Missouri Press association.

Speakers on this morning's program were William T. Van Cleve of the Moberly Monitor Index; J. E. Ford of the Bunceton Weekly Eagle; J. E. MacKeeson of the Laclede county Republican of Lebanon; and Ole Buck, secretary-treasurer of the newspapers association managers, Lincoln, Neb.

Approximately 225 visitors registered during the week.

Standards of journalism are steadily rising, President Hoover said in a message received last night by Dean Walter Williams of the school of journalism. The message was read at a banquet which concluded the celebration of journalism week.

A telegram from Secretary of State Stimson said:

"The interest of public opinion in great national questions is increasing daily and the influence of journalists in international affairs is of growing importance. The purpose of schools of journalism to train men courageously to fulfill the high responsibility of their calling deserves our earnest commendation."

The responsibility of the press of international affairs was emphasized in a speech at the banquet by Dr. F. W. von Prittwitz und Graferon, Germany ambassador to the United States.

ROBIN READBREAST HALTS REPAIR WORK ON HOUSE

MILWAUKEE, May 10. (AP)—W. F. Schellin has stopped repair work on his house. That is Robin redbreast's doings.

Bricklayers had completed a veneer on the house as high as the second floor when Schellin called a halt. There's a robin's nest on a second floor window sill, and there are three eggs in it. One of these days there will be three baby robins.

Mr. Schellin would like to get the repair work done. He does not, however, intend to permit a wall of brick to interfere with an event to which a certain mother robin has been looking forward for quite some time.

GIRL RESERVE ACTIVITIES

Summer Camp

The Girl Reserves of Wichita Falls have been invited by the Dallas Y. W. C. A. to share their camp at Glen Rose, Texas, during the month of June. The camp is a gift to the Dallas Y. W. C. A. by friends in that city. It is built near Glen Rose where the Paluxy and Squaw creek join to flow into the Brazos river. The beautiful grounds surrounding the camp with plots for games, the spacious central lodge with the enormous twin fireplaces of native rock, the attractive small white cottages for living quarters, the indoor swimming pool with great overhanging trees and outdoor playhouse for dramatics, are all arranged for the enjoyment of the girls. Swimming, life saving, tennis, baseball, archery, covered wagon trips, nature hikes, handicraft, kodaking, dramatics, music, are offered as part of the camp program. Girl Reserve secretaries and leaders from the Dallas Y. W. C. A. will act as counsellors.

Miss Abbie Graham, noted essayist, whose books are popular among girls will be head counsellor of the Girl Reserve groups. Miss Graham plans to experiment with a plan adopted to girl's camps located in hot climates. All athletics will be offered in the evenings. Illuminated tennis balls, baseballs and basket balls will be used. An attempt to arrange the program so that the girls will spend more time at rest in the heat of the day will be made.

Registrations for camp will be made through the Y. W. C. A. offices here.

Alamo

A formal recognition ceremonial was held by the Girl Reserves of the Alamo school Wednesday morning in the school auditorium with 19 girls taking part. The candles were arranged in the form of a triangle on the table. The red candle symbolizing health, the blue for knowledge and white for spirit, which made a setting for the ceremonial. Nancy Haggard was leader. Miss Erma Schnelle made a talk on the meaning of the code, those taking part were Elizabeth Sue McHam, Elois James, Mildred Fisher, Lucile Waggoner, Janet Sims, Mary Elizabeth Van Hoorebeke, Jo Ann Selman, Nancy Haggard, Ruth Mary Connor, LaVerne Sullivan, Ruth Eleanor Bays, Roberta Gould, Dorothy Joyce Young, Mary Anna Duncan, Antoinette Adams, Dorothy Svidlow, Pearl Louise Allbritton, Norma Jean Lehrack, Dorothy Elaine Fine and Mrs. C. H. Lewis.

The club will take part on a program at the school Wednesday evening when they will present a code ceremonial and a play "Resolutions of a Girl Reserve." Each girl in the club will take part on the program.

Junior College

The annual election of officers was held at the Girl Reserve meeting at the Junior college Friday morning. Margaret Bone was elected president; Mary C. Boone, vice president; Jean Hunter, secretary, and Bertha Mae Kruger, treasurer.

Barwise

The Girl Reserves at Barwise held their regular meeting Friday in the form of a social meeting. Games and contests, led by Miss Adena Kouri, adviser for the club, composed the program of entertainment. Pearl Williams was presented a dainty vanity as a prize in winning a contest and Elizabeth Wilson won a bottle of perfume. Ice cream was served for refreshments.

Those present were Eva Jo Hampton, Edna Mae Cromeans, Mildred Rogers, Mary Louise Wilson, Vera Mae Decker, Elizabeth Wilson, Louise Wilson, Elicia Brown, Cordelia Smith, Lucille Young, B. B. Haley and Miss Adena Kouri, adviser of the club. The club decided to have a theater party for their next meeting which would close their meeting for the term.

PRINCE OF WALES MAY COME TO AMERICA FOR NEWPORT YACHT RACES

NEWPORT, R. I., May 10. (INS)—This center of summer sports and society was agog today over reports that the Prince of Wales will visit Newport during the international yacht races in September. It was said that if the prince decides to visit America he will be a guest here of General and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt at their estate, Beaulieu.

The prince last visited America in 1924 when he attended the international polo matches at Long Island, N. Y.

Kiwanis Club to Give Tournament At Wichita Club

Members of the Kiwanis club and their wives are making arrangements for one of the most elaborate bridge tournaments of the spring, to be given Friday morning and evening at the Wichita club, the proceeds to be used for the purpose of equipping the new park recently bought by the club and donated to the children of the city.

Trees for the park have already been purchased by members of the club on which name plates will be placed.

The games will begin promptly at 10 o'clock in the morning and at 8 o'clock in the evening and Mrs. Charles E. Watson is general chairman of arrangements. Mrs. W. H. Caldwell is chairman of tickets and reservations may be made with her at 3320 or with Mrs. O. W. Wilson, 9060, Mrs. Van Lesley at 5028 or Mrs. Paul Pearson at 4777.

Handsome prizes have been donated by the merchants and will be on display at a downtown window.

Hostesses for the morning games include Mesdames J. T. Gant, Tom Medders, Tom Moore, J. W. Akin Jr. and Paul Hines. The evening hostesses are Mesdames J. M. Bonner, J. M. Williams, Fred Lane, W. H. Caldwell and Shadie Hale.

Plainview Carpenter's Wife Gains Seven Pounds on Argotane; Now a Well Woman

"I have gained seven pounds since taking Argotane and am feeling like a well woman for the first time in two years," said Mrs. H. G. Cole, wife of a well known carpenter, and living at 217 Hillcrest street, Plainview, Texas, recently.

"I suffered from a severe case of indigestion nervousness and general run down condition," she continued, "and one day a friend came to me and told me so much about Argotane, and what it had done, that I decided to try it. I am certainly getting wonderful results, and had only taken a few doses and I knew that I had found the medicine I needed. I have improved right along ever since and can now eat anything I want and it agrees with me. My kidneys and liver are back to normal, and I rest every night and sleep like a child."

SOME OF WICHITA FALLS' TALENTED YOUNGER ARTISTS APPEARING IN RECITAL

MAURINE ADAMS MARY JO ELLIS MARJORIE ACTON MARY FLORENCE COWDEN

Miss Maurine Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice J. Adams of 2142 Avenue H, recently won the first place in the district junior piano contest held in Fort Worth under the auspices of the Texas Federated Music clubs and later won the state championship at the meeting held in Abilene. She is a member of the Junior Woman's Forum and will be a junior in high school this fall. Miss Adams was one of the young artists taking part in the annual spring music festival given at the Forum clubhouse Friday evening and also appeared in a leading role in "Fairyland Fancies" presented at the Junior college Thursday. She will also give a tap dance for the Shrine Review Thursday.

Mary Jo Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Will S. Ellis, appeared in the leading feminine role in the play, "Creature of Impulse" given at the Dallas Woman's Forum with a group of Dallas artists, a Little Theater production. Mary Jo is a student at the Pitman Art school.

Marjorie Acton and Mary Florence Cowden are piano pupils of Mrs. J. H. Crouch and will be presented in recital Friday evening. Both girls will play solo numbers and also ensemble parts. Marjorie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Acton of 1504 Polk street, and Mary Florence is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sadler.

County Red Cross News

The Wichita County chapter is now raising its quota, $2,000, for the relief of the stricken in the Frost area. The total to be raised by Texas for rehabilitation of this area is $150,000.

May 21, 1881, marks the date of organization of the American Association of the Red Cross. It was in July of the same year that President Arthur issued the proclamation announcing adhesion by the United States to the Red Cross treaty. It represents an organization 49 years old in the United States.

Dr. William Henry Welch, Johns Hopkins university, "dean of American medicine," and our greatest statesman in the field of public health, has just received acclaim on his 80th birthday at Washington.

Tributes and messages of appreciation came from men and medical institutions from all parts of the world. The president expressed his personal tribute and that of the nation to this preeminent doctor. President Hoover's concluding statement and tribute is as follows: "He has contributed more than any other American to the relief of suffering and pain."

The third grade, Miss Ball's room at Crockett have a milk movie. They have taken a strip of paper about 30 feet long and 15 inches wide and have mounted pictures showing the story of milk from the source to the many uses and products. They are taking this to the various rooms and showing and explaining the "movie" to the other children.

The following schools held their child health conference this week: Ben Franklin, Alamo, Carrigan and Austin. Some of the children were found to be in very good condition including weight, teeth and throats. However, some needed some dental work and some were not up to average weight. Some had not had immunization for smallpox nor diphtheria. A few needed eye attention. The first duty of the parent in getting the child ready for school is to see that he is in good physical condition. To begin his first year with any physician handicap puts him at a disadvantage with his schoolmates. Poor sight or hearing may make him seem dull in school and cause him to become discouraged and uninterested.

Some of the schools have made health borders this period. A long strip of brown paper is stretched across the room and each child adds his part of the work. Long hours of sleep, correct foods, care of the teeth, and so on tell the health story in picture and printing.

Bowie school gave their May day pageant this week. Children who had accomplished most in their health habits were chosen in order for the parts. The May queen and her court gave the program to help a little girl who had not learned what good health means. At the end of the story the little girl had learned how to live as the others were doing and she was able to enter into the play spirit of the court.

HEAVY RAINS CAUSE SUFFERING IN CEYLON

WASHINGTON, May 10. (INS)—Advices to the state department today from American Consul S. W. Ellis at Colombo Ceylon, stated that three days of heavy rain all over Ceylon has caused the worst floods in the history of that country.

The rainfall was 10 inches in 24 hours in some places paralyzing power stations and railways and cutting Colombo off from nearby territory and making several thousands persons there homeless.

Serious crop damage was reported and a relief fund has been started. No lives were lost, the consul said.

Highway Project

QUANAH, Texas, May 10.—Word has been received by Carl Guin, manager of the Quanah Chamber of Commerce, from W. R. Ely of the highway commission, stating that the contract for the topping of the southern end of highway No. 51 from Quanah to Pease river will be let at the next sitting of the commission, which will be some time the middle portion of this month.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Praise the Lord; for the Lord is good: sing praises unto his name; for it is pleasant.—Psalm 135:3.

You may be liberal in your praise where praise is due; it costs nothing; it encourages much.—Horace Mann.

THE SHAME THAT WILL ENDURE

Grayson county's shame is awful in its blackness, but it is not alone Grayson county's shame. All Texas partakes of the disgrace. One of the ugliest affairs in all the ugly history of lynch law has stained the good name of the state. No right-thinking Texan is without a feeling of deep humiliation as he contemplates that tragedy. The stigma is upon the state as a whole by reason of that barbaric outburst.

Lynchings can be prevented if the law's officers are determined that they shall be. The mob, by its very nature and purpose, is cowardly. But a mob is not afraid of local officers who lack something, determination or resourcefulness, or both, in meeting its attacks. A mob is not afraid of militia that arrives after the story of disgrace has been written. A mob is not afraid of rangers who have been instructed "to hold him if you can, but don't shoot anybody."

By the sending of that message the governor of this state must share, and share heavily, in the responsibility for what happened. What a way to deal with those who are trying to wreck the very foundations of justice itself! Texas has had governors who did not believe in being gentle with mobs.

We do not doubt that, ere this appears in print, the cry will be heard at Washington for a federal law to deal with such happenings. What can we of Texas say, in reply. What protest can be made by a state that has failed so signally in its duty? How can we raise our hands in remonstrance when those hands are stained with blood?

The ruins of the Grayson courthouse constitute a symbol. Blackness, for the shame that is Texas'. Desolation, for the law's sovereignty flouted and outraged. Ashes, for the hopes of those who thought Texas much nearer to civilization than Friday's crime showed her to be.

The analogy is imperfect. For the ruins can be cleared away in a little while. But the shame of it all will endure.

THE TROUBLE IN INDIA

Developments in India following the arrest and imprisonment of Gandhi indicate that the disturbance is something more than a sporadic one. It appears to be widespread and the elements concerned in it appear to be determined to go the limit in their resistance to British authority. Gandhi in jail appears to be no less potent a factor than Gandhi at liberty, boiling salt water. Some bloody battles have been fought, much blood has been shed, and the natives appear to be thoroughly aroused. There are reports of mutiny in the native regiments. Even if that report be unfounded, it is doubtful if the British government can count upon their loyal assistance of the Sepoys if the use of troops on the large scale proves necessary; and the necessity looms larger and larger.

It is not easy to predict what will follow. The transporting of any considerable number of troops to India would be a signal to the restive natives in South Africa, in Egypt, in Iraq, and in East Africa to make trouble. It is doubtful whether, under existing conditions in England itself, the public would support anything in the nature of an elaborate campaign in India.

P. W. Wilson, former member of parliament, writing in the New York Times of last Sunday, recounted the difficulties which the British are experiencing in each of the territories above listed. In each of them may be heard threats and murmurings against British rule. In each of them, we may be sure, the native population is watching developments in India with intense interest.

In India, there are 70,000 British troops. The native troops, officered principally by British, number more than a quarter of a million. The total British force, including Sepoys, would be inadequate to deal with a general uprising, even assuming that the Sepoys remain loyal. In England, where a Labor government rules, it would be more difficult than ever before in the nation's history to gain general support for the campaign of repression that seems necessary.

From this distance it appears that the British blundered when they put Gandhi behind the bars. Gandhi at liberty, preaching non-resistance, would seem to be much less of a menace to British authority than Gandhi jailed, a symbol of Indian resistance. Blunder or not, it has made the situation more tense, more fraught with direful possibilities for Great Britain.

A JUDGE PROTESTS

Judge C. A. Pippen of Dallas, who is presiding over the Brady trial, voiced the sentiment of a great many Texans when he said last Thursday that "it is a curse in the administration of justice the way we get our jurors."

The judge said that after he had been watching, for four days, the selection of the jury to try Brady. He had heard venireman after venireman questioned in detail about religious belief, occupation, family matters, attitude toward death penalty and insanity plea, and a number of other matters. He had seen business men, farmers and employed men wait, hour after hour, for their turns to be questioned. He had heard some of them perjure themselves by saying they were opposed to capital punishment because they recognized that as the promptest and most effective way to cut short the lawyers' questions and escape jury service.

"I hope to live to see the time when we have men in the legislature with sense enough and courage enough to change the present system of selecting juries," Judge Pippen said. That hope is shared by the great majority of Texans. Occasionally that hope is encouraged by efforts, at Austin, to bring about a change, but such efforts never get far in a legislature controlled by lawyers.

In some states the questioning of the jury is a duty that falls largely upon the district judge. He is able to cut through the voluminous array of information that attorneys desire as to a juror's beliefs. In other states there are laws that reduce the scope of the questioning. In Texas, there is apparently no limit.

During the examination of veniremen in the case at Dallas, one of them was asked if he had any prejudice against the offense of murder. The individual who is without such prejudice is certainly unfit to be a juror. Yet to admit such prejudice would probably result in a challenge by the defense. That is a fair sample of the workings of the jury system.

Judge Pippen and his fellow district judges could do much to organize and develop public sentiment in favor of the changes so sorely needed, if they would speak out more often and with still greater emphasis.

THE CRUISER PROGRAM

The fact that plans are under way for a naval construction program involving the expenditure of nearly a billion dollars would make it appear, considering that fact by itself, that the London naval conference had accomplished nothing at all in the direction of naval disarmament. Those who want to be cynical about it can find plenty of raw material for their cynicism.

To adopt the cynical point of view, however, overlooks the fact that the new construction is limited to cruisers and other auxiliary craft and that this country has done virtually no building of such vessels since the Washington conference. A certain amount of new construction is necessary to replace vessels which have become obsolete and to maintain approximate parity with Great Britain. In other words, this country is simply catching up with its naval construction, after a lay-off.

This country's expenditure for auxiliary war vessels is no greater than what it saves, as a result of the London conference, on battle-ships. There will be no building of new ships of that class for at least five years, and probably for much longer. We might wish that it were possible to quit building of naval vessels altogether. It should be some consolation that we do not have to build battleships as well as cruisers.

VERNON'S GROWTH

Vernon's population is 8,816, not very far from double the 1920 figure. Oil, of course, has been a factor in Vernon's growth. But to credit oil alone with the city's gain would be to take no note of the spirit and energy Vernon has manifested along other lines. It has established an admirable highway system. It has looked well to its school facilities. It has created parks, provided the conveniences that the public demands. It has devoted a full share of attention to its agricultural development. It has given itself a measure of civic attractiveness that many cities of more population might envy. It has realized that while oil stimulates growth, there must be other things if the growth is to be permanent.

Revolution by Education

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

The heady wine of revolt has been here sipped and there swallowed in gulps by the modern generation.

There are many, of course, who have proved total abstainers from this wine of revolt.

They are the ultra-conservatives.

It is too bad that we are so much at the mercy of the apostles of revolt, on the one hand, and the apostles of repression, on the other.

Never did an age need more the truly progressive and yet poised spirit of an Erasmus.

"There have always been," says Everett Dean Martin, in the April issue of Adult Education, "especially since the 18th century, those who would improve the condition of mankind by revolt rather than by thought.

"In the spirit of Erasmus we find a corrective for this program.

"Erasmus had much in common with the radical of today.

"He was skeptical, anti-clerical, liberal, and a pacifist, a man far ahead of his times.

"But he knew the difference between education and propaganda.

"He saw that revolt against authority by people who have never found themselves and who have not learned to respect the personalities of others is futile and results only in establishing a more violent tyranny in place of the one that is overthrown.

"Man must learn his lesson from the wisdom of all times:

"The lesson of suspended judgment.

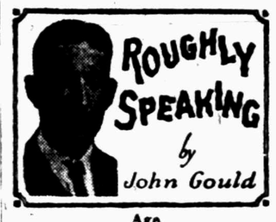

"The lesson of tolerance.

"The lesson of humorous doubt.

"He must learn these lessons of suspended judgment, tolerance, and humorous doubt, even about those apparent certainties for which stupid people always seek vindication.

"Erasmus brought back to education something of the spirit of Socrates, with its skepticism, its tolerance, its freedom of inquiry."

Will we moderns, I wonder, tolerate an education that stimulates in our sons this Erasmus spirit?

Age

When blackberry pie before me is placed,
Three or four pieces is all I can hold,
After that, I seem to lose my taste,
I guess I'm getting old.

Hollywood's population is 17,000 but they think they may have overlooked some of Pauline Frederick's ex-husbands.

Judge Parker's friends are talking of running him for the senate. It looks to us as if he had been humiliated enough already.

The Filipino's Delemna

A recent news item from Manila interested us very much. It said that a law had been passed forbidding the natives to have more than one wife apiece. The present custom, it seems, is to have three or four. And still they talk about Philippine independence!

The law does not require the Filipino to eliminate the surplus wives right away. He is allowed quite a term of years in which to do the weeding out. Probably the law is causing a good deal of concern among those whom it affects. We can imagine some Filipino husband, on learning about it, sitting down and doing some harder thinking than he had ever done before in all his life.

It is a real problem. It is several problems all at once. The Filipino must first decide which of the wives he will keep. That will be difficult, in nearly all cases. But even if he arrives at what is to him a satisfactory decision, there will remain the greater problem of breaking the news to the discards, and making it stick.

The Proper Basis

The most sensible way to deal with the matter, it seems to us, is to make the decision on a competitive basis. Tell 'em that, the one that proves the most satisfactory can stay. The native could call his wives in and put the proposition up to them somewhat along this line:

"Well, girls, I've got some bad news for you. The government has passed a law that I can have only one wife. That means that three of you must, within a few years, find another meal ticket.

"Now, girls, I like all of you. So far as my affections are concerned, I've tried to be fair and square and to give each of you one-fourth of my love. I will be quite frank in this matter and say to you that it doesn't make any great difference to me which one of you four continues to park her shoes by the old family stove. I'm not going to play any favorites in making the selection. I'm going to leave it up to you all. The one that behaves herself the best between now and the time for the great elimination, will stay. The rest will go back to their folks.

"I may say, in thus putting the proposition on a competitive basis, that each of you has her faults and shortcomings. In that respect you are no different from the rest of your sex the world over. But perhaps it would be well for me to point out to each of you some of the ways in which there is room for improvement.

"For instance, you, Neurasthenia, have gotten to be kind of slovenly about the victuals when it is your turn to do the cooking. You seem to have the idea that the can-opener is the Philippine national emblem. No only that, but you're never so happy as when you're using it on a can of spinach. Do you know how long it has been since you cooked me a blackberry pie!—June 3, 1922, that's how long. And things have been even worse since you got to reading about that Hollywood diet. You've made a satisfactory wife in many respects, but you've got to snap out of your culinary habits if you stay around here.

Shortcomings

"As for you, Insomnia, your cooking is all right—you really are something of an artist on fried corn—but you have some traits sadly in need of correction. I don't mind having a radio on the place because I've noticed that it keeps women out of mischief, but you're not as discriminating in the use of it as you might be. This Vallee person is beginning to pall on me, if you want the plain truth of it. And while I put up with Sam and Henry, because it lasts only 10 minutes, this business of spending most of the next day talking about what Sam said to Henry last night, has gotten a trifle tedious in the past few years.

"I presume it is hardly necessary Listerine, for me to discuss your most conspicuous fault. That affair last night should still be too fresh in your recollection for me to do more than refer to it. I have been patient and considerate, but the government says I can have just one wife, so I'll just drop this gentle hint for your benefit—No woman who persistently fails to take me out on an informatory double can continue to use by bed and board.

"Your one great failing, Septicemia, is certainly going to mean a change of boarding houses for you unless you overcome it. I realize how deeply ingrained in your nature it is, but unless you summon your will power and overcome it, you might as well start packing up your extra sarong and your spare beads. I know full well that my driving lacks something of perfection, but I have reached an age and a state of mind where it is more and more irksome to me to have my errors pointed out.

"All of you snore, and I guess there is no help for that. But I do want to say that if I can ever find out which one of you it is that has the concrete-mixer overtones in her snoring, there will be one vacant chair in this household without waiting for the government to take steps.

"I might mention, in dismissing this conference, that I am in the notion of going fishing today, and that I shall need some worms . . . Now then, now then, take it easy. There are enough picks and shovels to go around."

That plan, properly applied, would solve the first problem. The second problem, how to get rid of the discards, is something the little brown brother, as one of our presidents affectionately termed him, must work out for himself.

The trouble in India can't be very serious as yet. England hasn't called on Canada for any troops.

Study Bodily Chemistry

Chemistry has made some wonderful strides within recent years, but even yet chemists are unable to understand many of the chemical processes that take place naturally in the human body. Nature has really accomplished more wonderfully complex and yet complete chemical factories than any which man has been able to devise. Your own body is one of the most interesting chemical factories in existence, and many of the most important physical changes taking place in your body, although of a chemical nature, are only slightly understood by scientists. Even the origin of life has never been satisfactorily explained, but we do know that there is some inherent power in back of all of the various manifestations of life. This power has arranged that certain chemical rules will always work the same under given circumstances.

It seems to me that doctors would have made more progress if they had used more effort in studying the chemical activity within the body and not as much on the activity in the test tube. After all, there must be certain subtle differences between the action of crude chemical and the action of the refined chemicals after they have been assimilated by both plants and animals.

Health seems to be a matter of allowing the natural chemical changes of the body to take place without the interference which sometimes results from bad habits of living. People who are sick usually make the mistake of trying to find some mysterious remedy, when what is usually necessary is simply to restore the chemical balance of the body to normal.

All real progress in medical science must be along the lines of finding out the various things which interfere with health. One can remain well while working at almost any kind of work or while living in any kind of climate. If sickness develops, it is not because one has lived in a certain place, but because one has lived in a certain way. The restoration of health is usually a matter of substituting good habits for bad ones, and a cure can take place and health be enjoyed once again when your bodily laboratory is allowed to work in an uninterrupted manner.

Study your bodily chemistry and especially the chemistry and physiology of digestion. If all of my readers would do this and learn how to live, some of the doctors and undertakers would be looking for other jobs.

Each year the American people spend more than a billion dollars for doctors, druggists and hospitals because of sickness. This is a tax upon ignorance imposed on those who do not understand the laws of nature and do not live a healthful life.

Many wealthy philanthropists give away millions of dollars each year to assist hospitals, doctors and research laboratories to find the cause of disease, and to discover remedies and cures. I hope that some day some of these philanthropists will spend some of this money in making additional investigations into the activity of the human body and discovering the things which interfere with its normal processes.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Acne

Question—U. V. writes: "I cleared up a bad case of acne by following your dieting instructions which you so kindly sent me. However, I notice that some dark bluish spots remain where the acne lumps were. They look as though they were bruised. How can I get rid of them?"

Answer—The dark spots do not occur except where there was severe local inflammation. They are likely to remain until the congestion has entirely cleared up. You can use alternate hot and cold applications to improve the circulation of the skin in these regions. If this does not entirely overcome the trouble, have some treatments with the ultra-violet or actinic light.

Salisbury Steak

Question—Mrs. A. L. writes: "In following your menus, I would like to know how to prepare Salisbury steak."

Answer—Any butcher should be able to prepare Salisbury steak for you. Select a good piece of round steak. Remove all of the fat and gristle, and grind the red, lean part. This appears somewhat similar to hamburger steak, but is more palatable and more easily digested and has an entirely different flavor. There is usually a quarter of a pound of waste to each half pound of lean meat, so that it is advisable to purchase three-fourths of a pound for each person to be served. To cook the meat it should be pressed into a flat, ungreased pan similar to a cake tin, to a depth of about one inch and placed in a hot oven after which the fire should be turned down and the meat cooked for about five minutes.

NEW YORK.—The night life of this cosmopolitan island is not reserved for Broadway or Harlem or any other limited area.

Practically every nation that has sent its sons and daughters to New York has some form of night club or play place. And in many of these the lights burn far longer and later than they do in the giddy gulch.

Thus, for instance, there is a spot where Arabs gather and where few slummers ever cross the doorway, and these enter only when accompanied by one who belongs to the inner circles. Guests do not gather until about three in the morning, an hour when Broadway resorts are closing their doors for the night. Not only is their native food served, but Arabian dancing girls are on hand to remind the patrons of their homeland. The music is of the desert.

There is another, also of Arabic tone, where the younger generation who attend college and have learned to carry hip flasks gather. The proprietor, who holds to the discipline of the homeland, has become annoyed and disgusted at the whoopee raised at one time or another by the transplanted youths. He has threatened to allow no more collegiate lads and lassies in his resort. Yet there are soberer ones who, in this atmosphere of Orientalism, sit for hours and discuss Freud, the philosophies and the poets.

The East Side is a veritable hodge-podge of assorted night-going places. Some have never lost their neighborhood and native flavor. Others have been uncovered by the uptowners and have so prospered that bright lights burn in front of their entrances, tricky awnings cover the sidewalks to protect the taxi-cabbers on rainy nights, and other signs of uptownism have crept in—including a cover charge.

While the Second avenue night spots are open to anyone who may pass by, the Hungarians, Bavarians, Yiddish, Slavic, Rumanians, Greeks and such have many intimate rendezvous on the side streets where one encounters only the "regulars."

Greek coffee houses in the midtown section, many of which clutter in and about Eighth avenue, come to life well after midnight.

Well into the morning the signs and tokens of merriment are obvious to any passerby in the street. The discordant wails or a violin or accordion drifts through the window, accentuated by the stomping of feet. Often peering across streets from an upper window, I have made out the figures of dancing girls. Smokers seemed to line the walls or group around tables, many of them indolently engaging in a card game, unaware of what might be going on about them.

The Hungarians have their zymbalom places, their Gypsy places and their Hungarian-Jewish places. One can hear a singer of folk songs from Budapest or a chanter of old Hebrew songs. Several of these are "family affairs." On a Saturday night mama and papa are out with little Moscha and Rebecca and the whole family, laughing and eating—but always eating and eating. There is no dieting in this clan, and avordupois is a drug on the market.

The Russians have scattered over the city, with swanky Broadway places and colorful East Side places. They, above all the others, have achieved a huge visiting audience. Such places as the Russian Arts and Krischma have dance floors, entertainers and other cabaret attractions, in addition to their balalaika and borsch.

VAIN LONGINGS

by Edgar A. Guest

I never go into a shop
But what at something bright I stop,
And on it turn a wistful eye
Regretful that I cannot buy.

Always in brilliant array
Are splendid trinkets on display,
Uncounted bits of loveliness
It would be pleasing to possess.

One day perhaps I may be free
To purchase everything I see,
But was the mortal ever known
Who gathered all he wished to own?

Life spreads its joys upon display
And some we purchase when we may,
But wisest he who comes to know
That there are charms he must forego.

This life has pleasures great and small,
But none of us can reap them all.
With every man whose voice is stilled
Dies many a day dream unfulfilled.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—American business men are fighting hard to regain the foreign trade which has been lost in the last few months.

Exports, which slumped along with the general business depression in this country, are vital to American prosperity. If they were eliminated completely between two and three million employes would be forced out of work, according to business students. The slump in exports was itself responsible for the idleness of a large number of the unemployed in recent months.

Edward N. Hurley, president of the American Manufacturers' Export association, observes that concerns in this country interested in exports have been applying themselves vigorously since the first of the year to stem the decrease in foreign trade and turn the trend backward toward former levels. The situation is only now beginning to improve.

Go Abroad for Business

Hurley was the wartime chairman of the shipping board. He is a veteran manufacturer and an authority on industry and economics. He was interviewed while here to attended the annual meeting of the United States chamber of commerce.

"I wrote to each of our 743 member concerns in the American Manufacturers' Export association, and had replies from 85 or 90 per cent," he says.

"I found that 113 presidents or vice presidents of these companies were abroad, promoting the development of foreign markets.

"It is going to take a lot of digging and fighting to get back where we were in foreign trade because we are faced with unsettled and unfavorable conditions throughout the world. But many of our manufacturers seem to be on their toes and appear to know what to do to overcome the obstacles.

"Here are some figures which will give you an idea of what foreign trade means to the people of this country:

"Of 3,000 members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association we found that 900 were engaged in foreign trade, manufacturing and selling their wares in the world's markets.

"Those 900 employ 400,000 men, of whom 50,000 are working directly on foreign orders. If you assume that each of the 50,000 workers has an average of three other persons in his family that means that there are at least 200,000 persons in Illinois depending upon and profiting by foreign orders—depending on exports for work and subsistence. That is a rather low figure, I believe, and of course in some other states the percentage of workers dependent on foreign trade is larger.

"The more foreign countries to which we can sell the better off we will be when a slump comes.

"The recent lull in business has not been merely local. Our foreign trade fell off because of various unsettled world conditions and heavy unemployment in many of the large nations, such as Great Britain and Germany. Argentina, Brazil and other South American countries were having their business troubles along with the nations of Europe."

Combine to Sell Abroad

Hurley is undertaking to get more American manufacturers to operate under the terms of the Webb-Pomerene act which permits them to act in concert to promote business and fix prices of their products in foreign markets.

Under that law an association of competitors may be formed which can arrange to sell in any country of the world at the same price. The measure was passed to help out business men meet the competition of the European cartels. It also permits such an association of competitors to chip in and hire a single representative to go abroad and study market possibilities for the benefit of all.

MANGUM, Okla., May 10.—Several local young men have enrolled for the summer session of the citizens military training camp, which will be at Fort Sill from July 6 to Aug. 2, according to Capt. Homer S. Reese, of the Reserve Officers association, and principal of Mangum High school.

Blood Transfusion

MANGUM, Okla., May 10.—Miss Edith Swenson, superintendent of nurses at the Border-McGregor hospital, gave a half-pint of her blood Friday in a blood transfusion operation. The blood was transferred to the veins of Mrs. Maggie Raburn of Martha, who is suffering from anemia. A previous transfusion had been made a few days before, when Miss Reba Risenhover, nurse, gave a pint of her blood for Mrs. Raburn. The condition of Mrs. Raburn is reported satisfactory.

'Paramount on Parade' Featured at Strand Theater for This Week Witl 'Under a Texas Moon' Next Friday

A world of entertainment is now spread before patrons of the Strand where "Paramount on Parade," the long awaited and joyously anticipated festival of the stars plays its enjoyment visit. It's a great party and everybody's invited.

More than 35 stars and featured players of the Paramount studios join in the glamorous, breath-taking entertainment revel. Hollywood, it is said, feels "big" pictures before they are completed, and, in the case of "Paramount Parade," even the most astute Hollywoodians admitted it is bigger than they ever felt it would be.

The picture was five months in the making and, during that time, the greatest secrecy surrounded it. When it was first shown in Hollywood, a delighted audience rocked and roared and hummed and thoroughly enjoyed themselves watching it. It has just been released to the public. The Strand theater is one of the very first theaters anywhere to show this super-special.

"Paramount on Parade" is thrilling, gorgeous, spectacular, funny, exciting, exquisite, tuneful and every other adjective in the language.

And everything is surrounded with a glamorous, glorious aura of songs, music, beautiful chorus girls, gorgeous settings. Many of the scenes are in technicolor. Broadway's famous music ensemble, Abe Lyman and his band, furnishes some of the music.

"Under a Texas Moon"

"Under a Texas Moon," Warner Brothers' first 100 per cent talking, singing, outdoor picture in technicolor, which comes to the Strand next Friday for one week is an adaptation of Stewart Edward White's "The Two Gun Man."

It recounts the gay adventures of another Don Juan, an ingratiating liar, who, with two guitar-strumming companions, makes amorous pilgrimages through the cattle country, capturing thieves and barely escaping capture—only to ride jauntily on, hunting new adventure.

The scenes of "Under a Texas Moon" are exquisite, all being taken in the colors of nature. The capable cast is headed by the inimitable Frank Fay as Don Carlos. Many of the famous beauties of the screen are included, among them Armida, Raquel Torres, Myrna Loy, Mona Maris, Betty Boyd and Edythe Kramera. Western bad men are played by Noah Beery, Tully Marshall, Georgie Stone, George Cooper, Fred Kohler, Jack Curtis, Sam Appel, Tom Dix, Jerry Barrett, Francisco Maran, Charles Sellon and Bruce Covington.

Ruth Chatterton in 'Sarah and Son' Majestic Feature Through Tuesday Dr. Fu Manchu Coming Wednesday

Ruth Chatterton's many admirers will thrill to her "Sarah and Son," the stirring all-talking dramatization of Timothy Shea's well known novel, which opened a four-day engagement at the Majestic Saturday. Miss Chatterton demonstrates her masterly craft in a manner more fascinating than ever before and critics have bestowed upon her the degree of "Charm Dispenser." No one doubts that she has earned the encomium. There is in every moment of a Chatterton portrayal, a convincing quality of magnetic attractiveness—a quality that holds every eye and ear at strict attention.

"Sarah and Son" is a great theme. It concerns the courageous rise to face of a poor and obscure young woman. Miss Chatterton as Sarah, is disclosed as a young nobody who marries a worthless man. Because of his squandering habits they are reduced to penury. Their funds are insufficient to purchase adequate food for their infant son. One day Sarah chides her husband for his laziness. In revenge he spirits the child away and turns him over to a wealthy man whose wife is childless and who had been planning to adopt an orphan. Then Sarah's husband disappears. You will be thrilled as the story is further revealed. It furnishes acting, action and excitement of the highest entertainment value. Frederic March plays the romantic male lead as the lawyer. Fuller Mellish Jr., is the villainous husband. Phillipe de Lacy is the child actor. All give fine performances.

"Our Gang" comedy, "Small Talk" furnishes plenty laughs and "Chords of Memory" a Paramount novelty song number and the Majestic talking news events round out an entertaining program.

Adventures of Dr. Fu Manchu

Dr. Fu Manchu is alive! This will no doubt be good news to the theater fans who enjoyed Sax Rohmer's first mystery picture starring Warner Oland, Jean Arthur, Neil Hamilton, O. P. Heggie and William Austin in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu." Many thought Dr. Fu Manchu dead, but he returns to the Majestic next Wednesday in a new thriller, "The New Adventures of Dr. Fu Manchu," with the same outstanding cast appearing in Sax Rohmer's first picturization of his famous Fu Manchu stories.

On the same program with this feature will be shown a Paramount all-talking comedy, "Fatal Forceps," starring Ford Sterling, Bert Roach and Will King in a comedy of a dentist on trial for nearly murdering a saxophone player whose music nearly drove him crazy. There will also be a Paramount novelty act, "Pining Pioneers."

"The Divorcee"

Advance reports from the studios are to the effect that Norma Shearer's newest all-talking picture, "The Divorcee," coming to the Majestic theater next Saturday for a four-day engagement, is the most pretentious production given Miss Shearer since the actress was elevated to stardom, outdoing even her success in "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

"The Divorcee" was adapted by Nick Grinde and Zelda Sears from the story "Ex-Wife" by Ursula Parrott. An important supporting cast was selected for the production including Chester Morris, who will be remembered for his splendid work in "Alibi." Conrad Nagel, Robert Montgomery, Florence Eldridge, Helene Millard, Robert Elliott, Mary Doran, Tyler Brooks and Helen Johnson, will also be seen in the cast.

Bancroft Comes In Real 'Thriller' At Gem Sunday

The most sensational and thrilling picture in a long, long time is George Bancroft, Paramount's deep-chested star, in "The Mighty."

This hit is a study in men. Bancroft starts off as the gunman who has much contempt in fact that it takes four M. P.'s to put him in the army when he disregards a draft notice. He goes overseas a private, his valor secures many decorations and promotions for him and he emerges a full fledged major and a national hero. On his way back to his old haunts he stops off to see the family of one of his buddies and is offered the position of chief of police, which he accepts.

Esther Ralston is the sister of his old pal, and knows his past, but he does not know this. They are in love. A big police picnic is given in honor of Bancroft and his successful cleanup campaign. The gang prepares to strike. In the middle of the celebration he learns of their plans. The gang sends an old sweetheart of Bancroft's to tell his new love about his past, if he interferes, thinking this will stop him.

He decides to cast his lot with his new "gang" and leading over two score of mounted officers he speeds to stop the wholesale robbery. Machine guns crackle, the officers attack with hand grenades and all the modern implements of peace time war and Bancroft comes face-to-face with Oland.

The rest of this thrilling story you can see for yourself in "The Mighty" at the Gem theater Sunday and Monday.

In this cast are also, Raymond Hatton, Dorothy Revier, O. P. Heggie and Morgan Farley.

WICHITA FALLS FIRMS TO OBSERVE NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY

EVENT HERE MONDAY TO HONOR FOUNDER OF FIRST HOSPITAL

National Hospital day, which will be observed Monday, May 12, is an annual event commemorating the birthday of Florence Nightingale, who founded the first hospital in England, which was also probably the first hospital in the world.

National Hospital day is usually observed by the various institutions holding an open house, inviting the public to come in and inspect the building and grounds and oftimes, where training schools are operated, the graduation exercises are held with appropriate programs befitting the occasion.

On hospital day the mothers of children born in the hospital are usually given a special invitation to visit the hospital again and bring the children with them.

The White sanitarium, located on South Carolina street, in the southeastern part of the city, was established in July, 1926, as a private enterprise. A large, two-story, fireproof building of re-inforced concrete and stucco was erected at that time. There are 20 rooms in the structure. Dr. F. S. White is the superintendent and medical director. The sanitarium cares for nervous and mental patients as well as drug and alcoholic addicts.

The sanitarium is kept pretty well filled with patients all the time. The institution draws its patients from all over the state of Texas and from various points in southern Oklahoma. Dr. White and his family live in the building and he is available day or night as his services are required.

The sanitarium grounds comprise about 12 acres in all, but 10 acres of meadow land are leased out, leaving two acres only for the building and adjacent grounds. The grounds are well kept, the White family taking especial pride in making the landscape attractive and in maintaining a home-like atmosphere.

Patients From Afar

The Wichita Falls Clinic hospital was established Feb. 14, 1926, as a private institution. A four-story brick building was erected containing at that time 57 beds. This was added to in 1926 when a new wing was constructed with 23 additional beds, making a total of 80.

This hospital draws patients from an unusually large territory, including all of Texas and parts of Oklahoma. Last year the hospital had patients from seven different states.

The hospital has every facility in the way of equipment, including an X-ray, adequate laboratories, an electro cardiograph for examining heart cases, and oxygen tent treatment for cases of pneumonia.

The operating rooms, of which there are three, are located on the fourth floor.

The hospital is well filled with patients all the time. However, this year has seen no epidemic in Wichita Falls such as happened last year when the "flu" took a heavy toll.

The hospital uses only graduate nurses on its staff.

The Wichita General hospital is owned and operated by the county and city. It has a bed capacity of 100, half of which are private rooms used exclusively for private patients. Different kinds of cases are segregated.

Three well-equipped operating rooms are located on the fourth floor, as are also scrub rooms, surgeon's dressing rooms, nurses' dressing rooms, utility room, sterilizing room and supply room. The obstetrical department is on this floor, as is also a ward for the city and county poor. There is, in addition, a nursery and a section for the new-born babes.

The third floor is the surgical floor and only surgical patients are admitted. There are a number of private rooms and several of them have private baths for those who desire that class of comfort. There are also wards here for city and county poor.

Modern Equipment

The second floor is used for medical patients. It is for patients, also, who are under observation until a diagnosis has been made and the patient is sent to the proper department. This floor also has a number of private rooms and wards for the poor.

The first floor or basement is equipped with a modern X-ray department and laboratory. There are also several private rooms for negroes and Mexicans. The hospital has a central linen room where all linen is mended and distributed; a modern kitchen, a dining room for the nurses, supervisors and office employes as well as a dining room for other employes.

The hospital, which receives patients from all over Texas and southern Oklahoma, has a governing board of directors, consisting of two doctors, two business men and one woman.

The general hospital maintains a training school for nurses. This department was organized in 1915. At the present time there are approximately 100 graduates of this section, all working in the different fields of nursing.

Only high school graduates are admitted in the school. The probationary term is four months, during which time the students are occupied almost entirely in the class room where they are taught by a full-time nurse instructor. Nursing procedure and elementary sciences are given; also preliminary lectures by doctors on the hospital staff.

The term of training is three years. Nine months of each year the student has classes and lectures and the standard curriculum put out by the National League of Nursing Education is strictly followed. Students are on duty nine hours daily with one afternoon off each week and a half day off on Sunday. Each student gets a two weeks' vacation each year. Students, when ill, receive nursing and medical treatment free of charge.

The students are paid $10 per month for the first year, $12 per month for the second year and $15 per month for the third year. Uniforms are furnished, as well as board, room and laundry. The allowance is made to defray cost of textbooks and breakage.

The students have their own residence two blocks from the hospital. There are a number of single rooms used by the seniors or third year students. In the other rooms there are two girls to a room. There is a comfortable living room in which are Victrola and piano and the students receive their friends here as though entertaining in their own homes.

Graduates of the nursing school of the Wichita General hospital are eligible in any state having the same standards and nursing laws, as well as in the Red Cross and all forms of government service.

Nine young women will be awarded diplomas as graduate nurses Monday evening after having completed their courses in the Wichita General hospital training school. The commencement exercises are to be held at the Episcopal parish house at 8 o'clock.

INCREASE ESTIMATED IN MISSOURI HARVEST

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 10 (UP)—A slight increase in the Missouri wheat harvest for this year is estimated in report issued today by E. A. Logan of the United States bureau of agricultural economics and Jewel Mayes, secretary of the state board of agriculture.

The wheat acreage for this year is 1,500,000 acres after deducting seven per cent for abandonment on the 1,613,000 acres last fall.

The condition of 77 per cent indicated a 12 bushel per acre yield of 18 million bushel crop against 17,200,000 bushel yield last year, it is estimated.

Winter Wheat Crop

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—This year's winter wheat crop indicated by May 1 conditions as being 525,700,000 bushels, compared with 578,336,000 bushels a year ago and 550,636,000 bushels, the 10 year average production, was announced today by the department of agriculture for important producing states.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC

Then as suddenly Jack let Sue go.

"I beg your pardon," he said. "I'm no end sorry. I don't know what came over me. I . . . Oh, hell!"

He walked to the window and stared out and Sue, the kisses still burning on her lips, put her hand on them softly.

"It's all right," she said at last, in a thin little voice that seemed to drift in from a long distance. "I guess we'd better go report the man."

Jack was very quiet, very efficient, but strangely impersonal during the rest of the evening. Ronald, furious with himself because he had waited below, not knowing of the danger threatening Sue, still had a wondering question in his eyes because she had not told him of the ring that was still in her possession.

Into this scene a little later, Corrinne came walking.

Ronald and Sue exchanged glances which pledged each other to say nothing about the strange meeting which Corrinne had had with Harry Becker, and which they had witnessed. Ten minutes later Harry also came.

Sue sensed the difference in him at once. He was solicitous and attentive but it was almost as though he knew that Sue and he were finished. But he wasn't unhappy. Instead there seemed to be release of youth and joy about him.

Was he glad that she didn't want him, Sue wondered? Well he need not think that she would take anyone who didn't love her . . . and whom she ddin't love! What had Jack meant? She was being questioned about the intruder and had to put aside her own thoughts.

"We know now why this wandering Orpheus got a job playing at The Doughnut," Ronald summed up the situation. "It gave him a good opportunity to spy out the land and find out what the visiting jewel boxes offered. He wanted to be here at this particular time."

"But I can't see why anyone who plays so beautifully could be so terrible," Sue puzzled.

"It's because you think everyone is as true and fine as you are, Sue," Jack answered in a nonchalant voice, but his eyes didn't smile when his lips did.

"Oh, he does like me, he does like me," her heart was saying over and over again. She forgot the explanation that was due Ronald, the coming scene with Jack.

"I've certainly given you a mean time, Sue," Harry spoke to her in a low tone. "Nothing but a lot of discomfort from the very first. Is there anything I can do now?"

"Nothing at all. You've been wonderful always." She wondered if, he, too, caught the farewell in her words. It seemed very strange, though such a few hours had passed since her decision, that she had once intended to marry Harry.

And close on that thought another one tumbled. What did Harry know about Corrinne? Why had he met her that evening?

She wasn't surprised when Corrinne curled up in a big chair when they were alone in their room, ran her slender fingers through her tempestuous curls, and watched her with cloudy eyes.

"Sue, I've got to tell you something," she said suddenly.

Next—Corrinne makes ah explanation.

DINKINS TO GIVE ORGAN PROGRAM ON RADIO WEDNESDAY

Radio programs outlined for the coming week by station KGKO contain a feature for Wednesday night in which music lovers of the city will be interested. Frank Dinkins, veteran theatrical organist, and for more than a year pianist with the staff orchestra of the local radio studio, will present a 30-minute program on the pipe organ of the First Methodist church.

Mr. Dinkins served as organist in the Publix theater at San Antonio for more than two years, and was organist at the Rialto in Fort Worth, for a period of about three years. His study of organ was with Texas teachers. He serves not only as pianist with Frank Bird and his Bluebirds, KGKO staff orchestra, but does all necessary orchestration of numbers for their various uses, and accompanies different radio solo artists here. Mr. Dinkins, is also the composer of numerous popular song hits.

His program Wednesday night will include the following numbers: "To a Wild Rose," McDowell; "Chinese Lullaby," Jensen; "Japanese Sunset," Deppen; "Marche Carnivalesque," Friml; "Dear Old Pal of Mine," Rice; "Ecstasy," Ganne; and waltz song, "Love Me," from "Deja," a French light opera.

State Hospital Opens New Buildings Sunday Afternoon

VISITORS WILL BE WELCOME AT DEDICATION CEREMONIES OF TWO NEW HOSPITAL UNITS

The state hospital, located six miles south of Wichita Falls, today will formally observe the opening of the new buildings recently constructed on the grounds there at a total cost of $170,000, it is announced by Dr. C. W. Castner, superintendent. The opening will be held from 3 to 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon, when visitors will be welcomed on the grounds and will be shown through the new men's building, which is soon to be occupied.

The other building recently completed is the tubercular home, but this structure is already occupied and therefore will not be subject to inspection.

The new men's ward building is 188 feet long, 107 feet deep, two-story, of brick and reinforced concrete. It has its own kitchen and dining room, three large dormitories and 42 private rooms for patients. All floors are tile and the building is equipped with the latest plumbing fixtures and the latest modern kitchen equipment. It is heated by the American blower type of radiation, wherein no radiators or steam pipes are exposed. The building has a capacity of 220 patients and will require the services of 15 employes to look after the building and patients. The staff includes night and day nurses, attendants, cooks and dining room help.

This building is equipped with a telephone from the central switchboard in the main building and has its radio loud speaker that also connects with the central radio on the grounds. This building cost the state $125,000.

The tubercular home was completed and equipped at a cost of about $45,000. It is a one-story building of brick and reinforced concrete. It has a capacity of 40 patients. It, too, is heated with the American blower type of radiation. It has two sun porches fitted with window glass that can be penetrated by the violet ray, said to be useful in the treatment of tuberculosis. Special diets are arranged for tubercular patients and special equipment and treatments for that class of patients are provided for in this new structure. This building has its own kitchen and dining room and the milk and eggs used in these departments are produced on the state hospital grounds.

Many Things Made

The occupational therapy department will take care of all patients of the state hospital, including those housed in the new buildings recently completed. In this department the patients make all kinds of rugs, baskets, toys, fancy work of various kinds and other useful and fancy materials. It is remarkable to what lengths the ingenuity of patients will carry ideas in the carrying out of this work. Raffia is also used to work with and new seats placed in cane chairs. Large stands, waste baskets and magazine racks are some of the things turned out in this department. There are two instructors in the present system for occupational therapy, but a plan is on foot to enlarge the department this summer, providing facilities for more of the patients to take the work and for the increase of the faculty by adding another instructor. The instructors have a number of aides who are employes of the hospital. These aides are learning to become instructors in this work and will become such when they have completed certain required work and a certain number of hours of training.

The occupational therapy department is also the play department and outdoor games are enjoyed during the spring, summer and fall months. All equipment is provided for the inmates of the hospital to play tennis, volley ball and golf. A nine-hole golf course has been laid out on the grounds and by playing out and back, 18 holes are available.

The state hospital has some very good golf players and a plan is now under consideration for a golf tournament between the state hospitals of Wichita Falls and Abilene, with the inmates as contestants, to be held some time this summer.

Successful at Baseball

Last year the employes of the state hospital organized a baseball team and competed with employes of the Terrell hospital, who came up for a three-game series. All three games were won by the local institution and Dr. Castner states that the patients proved to be the most ardent fans that could be found anywhere, standing on the side of the diamond and rooting hard for the home team. When the return games at Terrell were played, Wichita Falls hospital won one out of the three, giving them four victories to two losses for the season.

The old tennis grounds were located on the site of what is now the new men's building that is to be shown on opening day. New grounds have been located and will be placed in readiness soon. It is hoped that the tennis games can be started for the season within the next three or four weeks.

Frequently artists of different kinds visit the state hospital and they are put to work entertaining the inmates. There is a room in which is located a microphone that connects with loud speakers in all the wards. In this way the inmates get a treat every once in a while.

Dr. Castner has been called to Washington, D. C., to attend an international congress on mental hygiene. He expected to leave there, however, before the congress ends, in order to be back on the grounds on May 11 for the formal opening.

MOTOR FAILURE BLAMED FOR FATAL AIR CRASH AT CONNECTICUT FIELD

HARTFORD, Conn., May 10. (AP)—Motor failure was held today by Chief Inspector George Pranaitis of the state department of aeronautics to have caused an airplane crash at Brainard field which brought two deaths.

Lewis H. Taylor, 55, who had told friends here that he had been a captain in the air service during the world war and that his home was in Washington, D. C., was burned to death when the plane crashed last night. Milton H. Moore, 30, general manager of the Interstate Airways, believed to have been the pilot, died several hours later.

Taylor had been taking flying instructions for about two weeks from Moore, who was a native of Stephenville, Texas, and an experienced pilot.

Mrs. Moore, a licensed pilot, saw the crash and fainted.

FREDERICK JUDGING TEAM IS SELECTED

FREDERICK, Okla., May 10.—At a dairy judging contest held Thursday at the Fairview and Pendleton dairies of Frederick, participated in by 16 Four-H club members, a team was selected to attend the state dairy show at Duncan May 24-31. Those selected were Ferris Bynum and Theodore Schreiner of Manitou; Curtis Brisley, Oliver Newson and Percy Johnson of Tipton, and Lewis Rice of Consolidated No. 6.

In addition these club members will exhibit dairy calves and make the trip: Carl Gant of Union district, and Joe Farris, Frank Moran and Oliver Newson, all of Tipton.

Perryton Elevator

PERRYTON, Texas, May 10.—The Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Growers association has just let a contract for a 125,000-bushel elevator to be erected in Perryton at once, according to Lee Shorter, who has just received a wire from the Enid office. The association recently purchased a site which contains two and one-fourth acres and has 1,000 feet of trackage space. The investment here, including the site will run about $40,000, and work will be rushed to have this big elevator completed in time for the 1930 wheat crop, according to Mr. Shorter. This will give Perryton three new elevators for extra storage space over that of 1929.

Postal Receipts

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, May 10.—The postal receipts at the local postoffice shows an increase for April, 1930, over the same period last year. The increase was $207.57.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

Former Wichitan Now Completing New Book

Flame in the Wind. By Grace Noll Crowell. Southwestern Press, Dallas, Texas.

(Editor's Note—Mrs. Grace Noll Crowell, former Wichitan who is now internationally praised for her poetry, will bring out her fourth book of poetry, "Flame in the Wind," within the next few days, according to Mrs. J. W. Akin, one of Mrs. Crowell's former neighbors here. Mrs. Akin has written of her friendship with Mrs. Crowell for The Sunday Times Book Review.)

By MRS. J. W. AKIN

There is a house on Elizabeth street in Wichita Falls which may some day become a shrine, for in the year 1917, Grace Noll Crowell had her residence there, and has since that time become an internationally known poet.

She was discovered by a neighbor, who told another neighbor that she was living by a "real poet," one who, as she expressed it, "writes perfectly beautiful things." Accordingly, a party was given by this friend and a little group of about six neighbors was invited in to have tea, with Mrs. Crowell as honor guest, and to hear her read a group of her poems. She had never before tried to recite her poems from memory, and she felt that she had made such a dismal failure that she even questioned the wisdom of continuing under her handicaps. How happy is her hostess to remember that on this occasion she spoke such words of encouragement to her, even uttering a prophecy that has been remarkably fulfilled, "that the world would acclaim her!"

On the occasion of Mrs. Crowell's visit here last October, when she again met with the Crowell circle, it was this writer's happy privilege to extend her greetings and to give her another assurance of our love and support in her beautiful song-writing heart interpretations, and what, we believe, will be undying literature, for we realize that

"Daily God binds the fagots
Of love and beauty
To feed the white fire
Of her spirit,"

and we seemed in this meeting to be living in the reflected glory of her "Silver in the Sun." And just here we cannot refrain from giving a few of the high lights of Mrs. Crowell's life, well-known as they are, but ever a joy to review.

Parents Opposed Writing

She was born of Pennsylvania Duth ancestry, at Inland, Iowa, on Oct. 31, 1877. She was married Sept. 4, 1901, to Norman H. Crowell, a newspaper writer, later author and play-writer. She loved to write as a child, but kept her attempts hidden as well as she could, since her parents were inclined to be amused by her efforts, and never once harbored the thought that they had a poet in their family. If they could only have seen the talent wrapped up in their little one, and have cultivated it, instead of giving it discouragement! According to Mr. Crowell's own accounts, he considered it a disgrace for her to be a "verse-writer," further handicapping her by his opposition. He, however, conceded gracefully when her "Marshland" was accepted by Outing Publishing company, in 1906. This poem is included in "White Fire."

In "Disillusioned," submitted to Satire magazine, and published by it, we have her own version of her discouragement from publishers:

"Each time I submitted verse
I always felt the same
That I'd gain recognition
If I only had a name.
One time I wrote an editor
Some words to this effect,
'Try thinking I'm well known
Before deciding to reject.'
He wrote at once and only once
An answer crisp and terse,
'Your name's all right—
Try signing it
Beneath some decent verse.'"

What a far cry this from her present status with editors, when the Good Housekeeper editor says, "I want everything you'll send me." Mrs. Crowell also sold her 140th poem to English publishers during October, 1928. Her book, "White Fire," is now in the seventh edition, having won the 1925 book publishing contest of the Poetry Society of Texas. It has been published in Braille for the blind. Ward and Locke of London brought out the English edition of "White Fire" in 1928. They say "no American poet goes so well across the water."

"Silver in the Sun," her second book of poems, sold out the first edition inside of 10 days. This volume, critics agree, shows the result of experience and maturity—a broadening of the vision—a reaching outside the boundaries of the home into the bigger interest of the world outside. Still other critics say "it can never replace some of her former verses in 'White Fire,' which are delightfully human and soul-touching, things to be said over and over again from the very music that is in them, and the reflection of the experiences of all hearts. The poems are of the homey things, the gleam of the kitchen fire, inviting husband and children as dusk obscures the world outside; the laugh of a child; the song of a bird."

Poem Set to Music

"The Day Will Bring Some Lovely Thing," is said to be the most popular poem she has ever written. The Buzza Motto company has made a double framed motto in appreciation of this poem. A member of the Crowell circle has composed a singularly lovely melody for these words and it was sung for Mrs. Crowell on the occasion of her last meeting with the circle by one of the city's best loved lyric sopranos.

Mrs. Crowell's third volume, a child's book of verse entitled "Miss Humpety Comes to Tea," came off the press last spring, and has enjoyed a most unprecented sale. It is not only a popular child's book, but the grown folk are loath to give it up to the children. The colorings and drawings are beautiful and so attractive that the tiny tots, who cannot read a word, hug it in their arms until they fall asleep, thinking of dear fun-loving Miss Humpety. One of the Dallas schools of expression is dramatizing the character of Miss Humpety and more poems are being added by Mrs. Crowell for this purpose. The Dallas children, so Mrs. Crowell tells us, think that she is Miss Humpety herself.

The paper read before the Crowell circle, entitled Grace Noll Crowell's Reaction to the Poet, to her Poems, and the Poetry "per se" was the result of the study, this past summer, of a dozen or more of her most beautiful poems, those which were, it seemed, most enjoyed, if it is possible to choose among such great riches.

I will first quote what she has to say of the Poet "in the making," and we find it thus expressed:

The Poet

"Out of the highest agonies of pain;
Out of the holiest sorrows he must come;
From passion unto passion he must gain
The heights beyond the heights —and standing dumb
Within the awful silence of the past,
Burst into song—so winged with flames—so free—
That every tired heart will say:
"At last
Some one has found my voice and sings for me'."

It is well for us to have the lyric definited for us by the cheif of lyrical poets of the South. Paul Yates, a popular reviewer, says, "Some of Mrs. Crowell's shorter poems hover on the borderland of sheer genius —they are vivid as a meteor on a starless night, etching themselves into the memory of the reader." Hilton Greer speaks often of her "pure lyricism" and "sheer clarity" and he says "At her touch the everyday, familiar, even commonplace, is transformed into a new and shining thing." Clara Hood Rugel, herself a lyricist, says: "I found her living as she writes, with her days as beautiful as the lines of her most delicate lyrics." Mrs. Crowell defines the lyric thus:

The Lyric

"The lyric is a thing
Of sweet, tumultuous wings—
A lovely silver frailty
Too delicate to touch—
The lyric is a dragon-fly
That flashes in the sun
An iridescent thing
To love—O, very much.

Pray do not hinder it
Its errand to the skies
A rover among white stars—
Ah, who would bid it stay?
And none would bind a dragon-fly
Or break its wings of light—
The lyric is a thing
To speed upon its way."

In "Eternal Beauty" (which received the Alamo prize in 1922 for the best sonnet) the restless, burning longing for expression seems to have been steered into a peaceful harbor, just over the border line between time and eternity; for, in the greatest spirit of renunciation, she leaves all poets "with God—the ultimate Anthologist."

Eternal Beauty

"When all the poets of earth have flung
Their ecstasies upon the air,
Poems too sweet for any heart to bear
Will cling above old fields and wait
—unsung.
Beyond the spaces where the stars are swung
The jealous years will hold forever
there
The old amaze, the rapture and despair
To which no poet yet has given tongue.

"I need no longer hurry then to make
My small cool songs, for none can take from me
The ancient wonder the white stars wake.
There will be poems through eternity.
With God—the ultimate anthologist."

CALLAGHAN PREDICTS A UNION OF ULSTER WITH REMAINDER OF IRELAND

Morley Callaghan, author of "It's Never Over," just published by Scribners, recently declared to an audience in Montreal that Ulster and the rest of Ireland would be united by bonds of love and mutual respect—within the next 100 years. Emboldened by the safety of his person—Canada is at least 3,000 miles from Ireland—Mr. Callaghan stated flatly that "people in Ireland are fairly content to be part of the British commonwealth of nations." Apparently there were no Irishmen in the house, for the Montreal papers, in reporting the lecture, reported no black eyes. Callaghan recently returned from a trip of several months in Ireland.

GANGLAND IS PICTURED BY ITS OWN ACE

"How to Commit a Murder." By Danny Ahearn. Ives Washburn company, New York. $2.50.

For centuries it has been customary for the past masters of the various trades, arts, and professions to provide the unitiated and amateurs with handbooks, revealing all the secrets of the craft, on "How to Publish a Newspaper, "How to Make Peanut Roasting Pay," "How to Paint a Portrait," et cetera, et cetera; but is remained for Danny Ahearn, gangster extraordinary, to preserve and pass down to posterity all the tricks of gangland.

Ahearn, who admits having been charged at one time or another with all the major crimes, has just completed a 254-page treatise on "How to Commit a Murder," which has been published by Ives Washburn. Conceding that there is an excuse for such a yarn, Ahearn was certainly the man to write it. There is no debating his qualifications. In his short 28 years, he has been booked 22 times on major charges, beaten "the rap" 20 times, served terms in Elmira and Sing Sing and been acquitted twice on murder charges. He admits being "prominent in underworld circles from coast to coast" and boasts of "the best connections in all the larger cities."

The book is entirely his—taken down by stenographers as he told the story. Parts of it have been rearranged and parts cut down to conform to public taste, the introduction explains. All the liberties that Senator Smoot and the Comstockians would allow, have been taken with the public taste. From some of the passages and expressions included, we shudder to think what might have happened had the publishers not been so considerate of the public taste.

How Gangland Gives

The book concerns itself primarily with the underworld and how it makes its living. There are chapters on the criminal credo, how to rob a jewelry store, how to stick up a fur joint, how one thief beats another, beating a frameup, the political racket, the automobile racket, and numerous other topics with which the underworld is concerned.

All in the jargon of gangland the author gives his reader the underworld's point of view, its creed, its code of ethics, its loyalties, and its safeguards against the attacks of organized society. So genuine is the picture and so is the criminal psychology revealed, that it is difficult for the unitiated to realize that there is in our midst a group of people who think differently, live differently, and react differently to all social standards and customs.

In his final chapter "Why I Won't Work" he shows the futility of any such aspirations and adds that any attempt to make him or any underworld character acknowledge any social contract is a waste of time and effort.

Unconsciously, on the author's part, the book before the finish, develops into a problem "novel." Chapter by chapter he discloses how the underworld has tightened its grip on the larger cities, eaten its way into the police departments, courtrooms, business, and into society generally.

It is a simple revelation of underworld life, in the language of a man who knows it. He does not defend gangsters or their practices, neither does he make any apologies.

"Crime does not pay, as I think a guy that is working for $50 a week is better off than his making for himself $10,000 in a year. He is going to throw away like a salary. If he worked for a dollar, he would know the meaning of a dollar," he concludes.

"I give a guy credit that is in business. You don't get nothing working unless you are getting a big salary. I have been used to too much money. I get a lot of money but I give back twice as much to the cops.

"I made my money through gambling. From now on I intend to gamble. I'll gamble until the day I die. From now on my motto is: 'Plenty of women, plenty of cabarets, and plenty of gambling, with booze on the side."—J. B. C.

'PRIZE POEMS' PROVES MOST POPULAR VOLUME

"Prize Poems 1913-1929," Paper Books' current selection, is proving the most popular book yet published in the series, according to Charles Boni, publisher. Sales of extra copies to subscribers and through bookstores indicate that the anthology of prize-winning modern American verse will surpass in total sales Stuart Chase's "Prosperity: Fact or Myth," published by Paper Books in December and on best seller lists at that time.

The enthusiastic reception given "Prize Poems" by Paper Books' 50,000 subscribers indicates an interest in American poetry by the book-reading public which most publishers do not generally credit. Two of the Paper Books editors—Louis Untermeyer and Padraic Colum—are well-known American poets. That and a desire to acquaint a large number of readers with the best of the modern American verse prompted the choice of "Prize Poems" as the May Paper Books' selection.

And a Package of Luckies

The pocketbooks women leave in taxicabs all contain about the same things, Robert Hazard declares in his book "Hacking New York," just published by Scribner's. "The description of one about fits them all," he remarks. "From five to 30 cents; a handkerchief; some sticks of chewing gum with some portions of sticks, the labels carefully folded over the ends; a mirror; lip sticks; rouge; powder puff; a rosary; and a small bottle of bichloride of mercury tablets."

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

What is a novel? There was a time when the answer to this question was pretty definite. With Walter Scott or Charles Dickens a novel was a prose narrative of so many thousand words; this narrative was draped around a perfectly regular plot in which a personable hero and a beautiful heroine were set to run an obstacle race to the goal of matrimony; a villain set up a sufficient number of hurdles; and a group of characters from the lower walks of life was commissioned to furnish comic relief. You invented enough obstacles to fill up three volumes, or 24 monthly parts, and in the last chapter the characters stood around in a circle while the author passed out rewards and reprimands to the virtuous and the vicious. Nowadays we expect similar stock plots and stock characters in the movies; but we seldom write novels like that any more.

When it was borne in upon readers that people in real life did not behave in the smooth and convenient manner of the Scott or Dickens plot, the novelists threw plot out the window. When they discovered that people are interested as much because of what they think as of what they do, they transferred their attention from episodes to emotions and psychological attitudes. When the new psychology showed that people are seldom wholly governed by rational motives, they twisted this last interest even farther away from the original notion of story telling, inventing the "stream-of-consciousness" school of fiction. Meantime an increasing interest in style made it seem desirable to try out new mannerisms in writing; with the total result that today a novel is simply and best defined as anything in prose of a certain length, having to do with one or more characters and keeping up the pretense of narrative.

"Simple" Plot

These not very profound remarks are brought forth by the reading of James Boyd's last book, "Long Hunt" (Scribners, $2.50.) The plot or fable of this book can scarcely be said to exist. Murfree Rinnard, a hunter in Tennessee during the settlement, falls in love with a girl, prefers his freedom to matrimony, runs away from her, and after a period of years gets himself massacred in an Indian fight. Put thus, Scott or Cooper would have sniffed at such poverty of invention. Nevertheless, "Long Hunt" comes closer to what a man like Murfree Rinnard really felt and experienced than, let us say, the Leatherstocking tales do. Mr. Boyd's interest is in Rinnard's experience with the world—his world; the entire book is simply a report on the frontier world through Rinnard's eyes; and it is in Mr. Boyd's extraordinary power to visualize that world through his eyes, to see it down to the last strap on a pack horse, to experience in imagination the difference between the smell of an Indian and the smell of a white man in "town," which makes the book solid and unique. For unique it is; and if the events are not as stirring as Mr. Boyd's previous novels, if "Long Hunt" is less likely to make a wide popular appeal, it is a book, I think, which represents an advance in Mr. Boyd's art. Here is no gim-crack commercial fiction, but a work of integrity. In some such fashion as this the long hunter really felt and thought.

No more startling contrast can be found than that between Mr. Boyd's evocation of a vanished world as it probably was and the attempts of those closer to frontier existence to record it. Mr. E. J. Meine has put all students of American letters deeply in his debt by collecting "Tall Tales of the Southwest" (Knopf, $3.00), an anthology of humorous stories from the period of 1830-60. Most of these are otherwise inaccessible; as an exhibit of the taste of the age the collection is superb; but it is curious and interesting how entirely on the surface of life is the play of comedy in these stories. The crudities are literary crudities; and the book conveys the atmosphere of the Southwest frontier in spite of the narratives and not because of them. To measure how far American sophistication has gone we have only to compare these stories which once tickled the ribs and evoked the loud guffaw with the quiet humor which lurks in "Long Hunt."

Pleasant Stage Story

Dorothy Heyward has brought out her first novel, "Three-a-Day" (Century, $2.50), a pleasant, if not very profound, tale of a temperamental violinist who abandons the concert stage, drifts into vaudeville to keep alive, and associates himself with the "Three Jadrics." Mrs. Heyward conveys the atmosphere of the "three-a-day" world, her book is lively and competent, and if its emotional complexities are not very deep, they are sufficient for her purpose.

Less worthy is "Dagger" (Duffield, $2.00) by Mary Dahlberg, a Texan. So long as the heroine and the author stay on the ranch the book is convincing; but presently "Dagger," the heroine, is put through the world war and set on a fustian journey around the world in search of her first lover; probability vanishes; and one is interested only by the novelist's capacity to crowd invention upon invention. "Shackles of Flesh" (Macauley, $2.00), an anonymous novel, I mention only to condemn. A fictional presentation of the life of Woodrow Wilson, it is in the most execrable taste.

A new novelist, Benjamin Kittredge, of California birth but living now in South Carolina, gives us "Crowded Solitude" (Coward McCann, $2.00), a story about an uprooted young American divorcee in Paris and points continental. Ella Sterling makes a success of her Paris dressmaking connection, marries very suddenly a delightful young American some years her junior, they inherit money, he tries to paint, they have misunderstandings, he goes back to America, she stays abroad. That is the story. It is competently told, the author seems to be at home with his foreign scene, and there are pleasant descriptive touches, but it is easy to detect naivete, unrealized emotion, and a certain fuzziness in characterization. Nevertheless, I think this author's next book will be worth looking at.

Julian and Anne Green

That practised hand, Julian Green, comes back to us this week with some short stories, "Christine" (Harpers, $2.50). I am unable to agree with the almost ecstatic words of the preface, written by his translator, Courtney Bruerton, but I can agree thoroughly that Green knows his craft. These stories, like his novels, deal with obsessions and sinister mysteries, and while I admire the author's skill, I cannot like his themes.

His sister, Anne Green, could hardly be further removed from him in either style or content than she is. In her first novel, "The Selbys" (Dutton, $2.50) she gives us a rippling comedy of an elderly southern pair who have lived in Paris for years and who in the story, take on their rather dumb young niece, Barbara, just out of Savannah, give her a superficial French polish, and eventually clear up the obstacles to her marriage with a most eligible young Frenchman. The book is full of social comedy and gentle satire and good humor. It is almost as if Miss Green had made up her mind that one gloomy writer in the family was enough and had set out to give us a little laughter. She succeeds admirably.

Now that "Green Pastures," that fabulously successful play based on Roark Bradford's first book, "Ole Man Adam and His Children" threatens to last on Broadway long enough for even me to see it, I suppose his second book will be even more popular than the other. It is "Ol' King David an' the Philistine Boys" (Harper's, $2.50), and it is more of the same—humorous versions of Biblical tales, from Saul to Jezebel. Mr. Bradford's dialect is perfect, and I dare say his "negro psychology" is right, too, but I confess that the humor did not always seem natural to me, and I found a good deal of sameness in tone from beginning to end.

And now appears a rival volume —"Black Genesis" (MacMillan, $3.50) by Samuel Gaillard Stoney and Gertrude Mathews Shelby, the story of creation in the Gullah dialect, the language being watered to the point of intelligibility. If the volume had earlier appeared, it would have been received with delight and surprise; as things stand its excellent fables of the creation of the animals and of man may not receive their due reward. I found the book thoroughly delightful.

CENSORSHIP PROVES TO BE INDICATION OF REAL MERIT IN MODERN TIMES

Censorship—whether moral, religious or just obstinate—rarely keeps a good book down.

"A Farewell to Arms" by Ernest Hemingway, which caused Scribner's magazine to be banned in Boston, has been included by the America Library association in the list of 40 books sent to the League of Nations as 1929's most notable publications. "A Farewell to Arms" was also included in the 500 books comprising the new White House library.

The American Library association's list to the League of Nations also includes "Mrs. Eddy: the Biography of a Virginal Mind" by Edwin Franden Dakin, which the Christian Scientists attempted to suppress.

HUMAN SACRIFICES ARE FOUND IN OLD GRAVES

In "Ur of the Chaldees" (Scribner) Leonard Woolley tells of finding in great burial pits, sometimes above, sometimes in front of the royal tomb, the remains of what had been a very gaily dressed company on the day of an ancient funeral. There, still arranged in that manner the Chaldeans had deemed best for the dead, were the dust-like remains of six men-servants and 68 women, fully accoutred and panoplied, lying in the positions they had assumed when, as ecstatic and voluntary human sacrifices, they descended alive into the pit.

Scanning New Books

By RICHARD MASSOCK

NEW YORK, May 10.—American culture is being corrupted by blatant book publicity that panics the public, cries the newest critic of ballyhoo.

Whoever he is, he writes under the pseudonym of Frank K. Notch and his book is entitled "King Mob."

It was perhaps inevitable that the murmur of protest against the book clubs, the popularizers and others who influence what Notch calls the mob should itself find expression in a book.

"A mob is made up," the author says, "of a group of persons unable to think straight because they are affected by the consciousness of their own numbers."

Persons are drawn into it because of panic, the terror of being left outside.

"Panicking the Mob"

"Everybody is discussing 'One-Syllable Philosophy,'" advertises the publisher. "'Ex-Lady' is the fastest selling book in America," shouts another. "'A Swell Epic'—Oscar Umlaut, the Great Critic," quotes a third, referring to one of his titles.

And the mob is thus panicked, says Notch, into reading the books because it is the momentarily fashionable thing to do. Within a month the shouting is renewed in favor of other books.

The same pressure is exerted in the mass-selling of clothes, candy or toothpaste, he adds. The desire for public applause and the mob's "will to applaud" also forms the dubious foundations of political life.

"The word 'popularizer' comes from the old Latin 'popa,' a butcher," Notch says. And turning upon the "popularizers of science, philosophy and the like he attempts to show that they succeed only in butchering their subject, corrupting culture by distorting truth. Culture is not something the public can "have" as it has radios and telephones, but something it must "be."

Notch's plea is for self-sufficiency and self-reliance of the individual soul.

Reprint of the Month

Some reviewers this spring have seen a lowering in the general quality of the literary output. Confidential word comes to this reporter that the club critics have been hard put to find likely manuscripts for recommendation.

At any rate, one club is distributing for May a publisher's annual "Week-End Library," a one-volume collection of 19 reprints of past favorites.

The 1,500 pages include two full-length novels, "Of Human Bondage," by W. Somerset Maugham and Christopher Morley's "Where the Blue Begins." Then there are two novelets—Joseph Conrad's "Youth" and H. G. Wells' "The Time Machine," no less.

To these are added bits of biography, short stories by Edna Ferber, Stephen Vincent Benet, Frank Noyes Hart and Arnold Bennett, two mystery tales, three humorous bits, some of Walt Whitman's verse, adventure stories from T. E. Lawrence's "Revolt in the Desert" and Walter Noble Burns' "Saga of Billy the Kid," and, finally, an Aldous Huxley essay.

The reprinting of former successes in dollar editions lately has been growing into considerable prominence and this perhaps gives them a new significance.

Broadcasting Poems

The National Broadcasting company's well-known "Voices" hour, held every Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, is featuring during May, readings by a number of American poets of their verse included in Paper Books' current selection, "Prize Poems 1913-1929." Among the poets appearing in this national hookup over WJZ and affiliated stations are Charles A. Wagner, editor of the anthology; Mark Van Doren, who wrote the introduction to the volume; Babette Duetsch and Leonora Speyer.

Story Profession and Marriage is Unique

Doctors' Wives. By Henry and Sylvia Lieferant. Little, Brown & Co., Boston, $2.50.

Professional, yet not with the debunking element so prevalent in novels concerning the profession; a story of marriage yet free from the usual Freudian study of inhibitions that clutter up problem novels—those two facts alone should make "Doctors' Wives" at least refreshingly different from the scores being placed on the market every day.

The story, which concerns itself with the trials of Nina Wyndram and Dr. Jude Penning to make their married life bearable, is one that might be true of any young physician who marries a young, sheltered girl who has no knowledge of the demands made on him by his professional life. That he is called to the hospital on an emergency the first night of their marriage is but symbolic of the first few years of their adjustment to each other.

Another delightful difference from the usual novel of this type is the story of Nina's evolution into a capable, understanding wife and the consequent happy ending. It isn't the "married and lived happily ever after," ending, but a "married, quarreled and finally discovered how to live happily" type.

Henry and Sylvia Lieferant, co-authors, claim to be the only successful husband-and-wife collaborators, and further assert that it was a case of "collaboration at first sight" when they met. If their work is really collaboration, it is certainly as rare as love at first hight. The Lieferants have written numbers of short stories, also in collaboration, but "Doctors' Wives" is the first novel. Several of their short stories have been three-starred in Edward J. O'Brien's annual selection.

Jude and Nina are genuine persons—not the less-than-ordinary type that are so popular between book covers and so impossible in real life—and the sage of their struggles should therefore be interesting to more people.—Reviewed by Eleanor Fleming.

"The saga of the week-end" is what people will soon be calling Newman Levy's "Saturday to Monday." This delightful tale of a trip to a friend's country place, shortly to be published by Alfred A. Knopf, describes hilariously the principal features of a summer tragedy in 48 hours. Among Mr. Levy's themes, with illustrations by John Held Jr., are "Ode to a Guest Towel," "The Host With a Radio," "To a Guest Who Sleeps Until Noon," "The Picnic" and others equally poignant.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

EXPERIMENTS GIVE MUCH INFORMATION ON DAIRY METHODS

A list of recent developments on the scientific side of dairying appeared in a recent issue of the Guernsey Breeders' Journal. The experiments were made in various states and countries and cover a wide range of matters in connection with profitable dairying.

Experiments conducted by the Idaho experiment station dealt with the relation of high butter-fat production and profits, 3,700 cows being used in the experiment. It was found that a cow producing 200 pounds of butter-fat per year was twice as profitable as a cow producing 150 pounds; that one cow producing 400 pounds of butter-fat per year made as much money for her owner as five cows producing 150 pounds each; and that one cow producing 500 pounds of fat was as profitable as seven 150-pound production cows.

In another set of experiments it was found that cows calving in August, September, October and November have considerably longer lactation periods than those calving in other months.

Experiments in Great Britain tended to support the theory that disease resistance in dairy stock can be developed by breeding.

It was found through experiments at the Illinois experiment station that there is no way of determining in advance the transmitting qualities of a sire. "The records of at least six daughters should be available as indicators of the sire's transmitting ability" said the report.

Federal department of agriculture experiments revealed the superiority of legume hays over the non-legume kind, as feed for cows.

An experiment in South Dakota furnished a comparison of alfalfa pasture, sweet clover pasture and grain for daily cows. It was found that the alfalfa-fed cows produced considerably less than the grain-fed ones, but much more than the clover-pastured cows. In a Kansas test the superiority of alfalfa over sweet clover was also demonstrated. Another Kansas test showed that heifers wintered on cottonseed meal and sorgo silage gained 1.44 pounds per day, while those on alfalfa hay and silage gained 1.13 pounds per day. In still another Kansas test, alfalfa hay was found slightly superior to soy-bean hay for milk production, but about the same for butter-fat production.

Sudan hay was found decidedly superior to native hay, in tests at the Oklahoma Panhandle station.

An experiment in Ireland disclosed that green rye added to the ration in the late spring increased milk production to an extent sufficient to pay for the crop.

Tests in Montana showed sunflower silage to have about the same feed value as oat-pea silage. An Arizona test showed alfalfa to have a very slight superiority over green alfalfa, for milk production.

MEGARGEL PUPILS HERE ON FARM TOUR, VISIT LOCAL PLANTS

Under the leadership of Miss Amelia Spencer, their teacher, the members of the general agriculture class of Megargel high school visited Wichita Falls Friday and made a tour of local points of interest. They visited the Southwest Dairy Products plant, the Johnson poultry farm, the Bullington dairy and several local produce houses.

Twelve members of the class made the trip.

Hints for Rabbit Breeders

By WM. L. SMITH
Director of Publicity of the North Texas Rabbit Breeders Association

Rabbits for Meat, Fur, Pleasure

Rabbits are vegetarians in the strictest sense of the word, and for that reason are one of the cleanest and purest forms of meat. They are simply the result of a transformation of the vegetable protein into animal protein. It tastes a whole lot like chicken, except that it is richer and more palatable. This is what most everybody says about domestic rabbit meat after they have partaken of this delicious food for the first time. Up to the present time a comparatively small number of folks have had the pleasure of eating domestic rabbit. It seems strange that when such wonderfull food is available that more people have not been introduced to it. The reason is, no doubt, that there are not nearly enough rabbits raised in this country to supply the demand for meat, to say nothing of what this demand would be if rabbit meat was extensively advertised as it rightfully should be. For rabbit meat is a clean wholesome food recommended by physicians and other health authorities for its body building properties. Another thing—rabbit meat is seasonable at any time of the year, and it is especially recommended for the hot summer months because it does not contain the heating properties of other meats. Rabbit meat is prepared for the table in many different tempting ways. A few of these recipes will be printed here.

Rabbit Stew With Vegetables

One rabbit (about two pounds).
Four medium sized potatoes cut into quarters.
Four large carrots cubed.
One medium sized onion.
Three tablespoons flour.
Three tablespoons salt.
Few grains pepper.

Wash the rabbit carefully, cut it into pieces, cover with cold water and allow to boil slowly until almost tender. Add the potatoes, carrots, onions, or other vegetables if desired and cook until tender. Add the seasoning and flour moistened in a little cold water. Stir until the liquid surrounding the stew is slightly thickened, and serve at once.

Rabbit in Tomato Sauce

Two tablespoons lard or butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups tomato pulp and juice.
One large onion chopped fine.
Two tablespoons salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper.
Three cups water.
One large rabbit.

Wash the rabbit and cut it into pieces at the joints. Dip in flour and brown in a little fat. Put the lard or butter in a deep iron skillet or a roasting pan stir in the flour. Add the chopped onion and the tomato juice with the seasonings and the boiling water and cook for five minutes. When this is boiling put in the browned rabbit. Cover and let simmer on top of stove or in the oven for one hour. The tomato sauce cooks down and gives a very good flavor to the rabbit.

A Good Way to Cook Old Rabbits

Cut the rabbit up as for frying, flour well, salt and pepper. Then fry quickly to a rich brown in hot fat; then place in a roaster or pan with a tight-fitting cover, with a slice of onion, a slice of lemon, a bay leaf and a very little bit of thyme. Pour over all a cup of boiling water, cover tightly and place in hot oven or fireless cooker to steam for about two hours.

Savory Rabbit

Wash the rabbit and cut into pieces. Dredge with four tablespoons of flour, two teaspoons of salt, and one-eighth teaspoon of pepper. Brown in four tablespoons of bacon and other fat. Remove meat to stew pan and cover with boiling water, and add one medium sized onion cut in small pieces and two bay leaves. Cook slowly until nearly tender. To the fat used to brown the rabbit add two tablespoons of flour, mix thoroughly and add one cup of vinegar. Pour this sauce over the meat and simmer it until it is very tender. Serve with dumplings. This makes an excellent meal served with fresh or canned string beans and with a desert of baked apples.

LOCAL DAIRYMEN JOIN IN MOVE FOR ACCREDITED HERDS

Owners of five local dairies have taken initial steps toward establishing accredited herds, that is, herds proven free of tuberculosis. The herds of C. I. Francis and A. H. Drake, Orville Bullington, Dr. C. R. Hartsook, Jack Martin and J. B. Ferguson have been entered.

A tuberculosis-free accredited herd is one in which the entire herd has passed two annual or three semi-annual physical examinations and tuberculin tests, and which is maintained under sanitary conditions. The tests and examinations are required to be applied by an approved veterinarian.

The tests and examinations of the herds mentioned will be conducted by Dr. Fred Gross of this city. He is also conducting tests for contagious abortion.

Successful completion of the tests will entitle each owner to certificates from the federal bureau of animal industry and the sanitary livestock commission.

Radio Violation

ST. LOUIS, May 10. (AP)—George W. Fellows, 33, first man to be convicted under the federal radio act of operating an unlicensed short wave broadcasting station, today faced sentencing with a maximum penalty of five years imprisonment or a $5,000 fine, or both, possible. He was convicted by a jury in United States district court here yesterday in what is planned as a test case

Drainage Measure Needed to Maintain Valley Land Values, Say Officials of District in Letter Sent to Landowners

The irrigated district will forfeit much of the advantage which it now enjoys over non-irrigated lands unless the drainage problem is solved promptly and thoroughly, declares a letter sent to district landowners by officials of the two districts. The letter follows:

Dear Sir: This is the second of a series of letters which are being sent to all of the landowners and voters within the boundaries of Wichita County Water Improvement district No. 2. As explained in the first letter, this is in accordance with a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the district in order to bring the drainage problem squarely before those most interested—the landowners who are in reality the owners of the district.

Whenever an irrigation project is created and a bountiful supply of water is available for the lands within the district, it has always been the history of the district that it is only a question of time before drainage works are necessary. Irrigation works are an improvement which greatly increases the value of the lands subject to irrigation. You all know that it is possible here to buy good farm land above the canal system at prices ranging from one-third to one-tenth of the value of the land below the canal. The reason for this increase in value lies in the fact that the owners of the irrigated land have an insurance against drouth conditions and crop failure because of the irrigation system supplying water to their lands which the lands outside of the district do not have. This was well illustrated during the past summer—rainfall here was greatly deficient during the hot summer months and the non-irrigated lands bore little or no crop. Again, this past spring, the irrigation system has been functioning at peak load, bringing water to the irrigated lands, while much of the non-irrigated area has been suffering from lack of rainfall. However, putting water on the land is only half of the story. Means must be provided to remove the excess water applied through drainage works in order to have a balanced irrigation system.

Until these works are constructed it can be expected that water logging of lands will spread until practically the whole irrigated acreage is more or less affected by the rising water table. Unfortunately this is a point quite often misunderstood by the landowners. The rise is so gradual that it is not observed until the land will no longer grow crops and the characteristic damp spots and alkali due to water logging appear. It has been the history of most irrigation projects that until the majority of the lands within the district are actually suffering from this water-logged condition public opinion is against drainage construction. The man whose lands are not actually suffering from water-logging may feel that his holdings are so located that they never will suffer and is reluctant to assume a burden of cost due to drainage construction in order to benefit his neighbor's land. As the development of the district proceeds, however, as more land is brought under irrigation, and lands already under irrigation continue to use large quantities of water, it is only a question of time before he may find that he, too, has a water-logged condition on his holdings and requires drainage relief. When public opinion is once aroused to the necessity of this construction it generally requires considerable time to organize the work, finance it, and construct the necessary drainage ditches, and still more time may be required after the drains are built before the lands which have been damaged by water-logging have been reclaimed. The boards of directors understanding this are anxious that a spread of this seepage menace be halted before conditions become worse.

The irrigable area of both districts No. 1 and No. 2 is estimated as being 51,750 acres, of which 43,000 acres are in district No. 2. In both districts 35,000 acres were actually irrigated during 1929. An increase of nearly 50 per cent in the area under irrigation can therefore ultimately be expected. In order that the full meaning of this may be realized, let us consider the following facts:

You who have lived here before the irrigation system was constructed remember how a period of two or three wet years in succession would raise the water surface in your domestic wells. Many of you will remember how such a period brought on a boggy condition quite similar to the water-logged condition today. Before the canal system was constructed, however, a period of two or three years of excess rainfall would be followed by several years of deficient rainfall and hence the ground water table had opportunity to adjust itself in succeeding periods of wet and dry years through the natural drainage courses of the country. Rainfall records since 1891 or over a 36-year period indicate that for 21 years, or approximately 60 per cent of the time, rainfall was below normal, while for 15 years or 40 per cent of the time rainfall was above normal. So the excess rainfall occurring during 40 per cent of the time was balanced by the deficiency occurring during the remaining 60 per cent of the time. With the irrigation system constructed, when rainfall is below normal during any particular year the deficiency is made up through application of irrigation water, and there is therefore no balancing cycle of wet and dry years. The effect is one of a continuing cycle of wet years so far as the area irrigated is concerned and the natural drainage resources of the country have proved to be insufficient in some localities to prevent a rise in the water table. As the remainder of the district area comes under irrigation, of as half as much again land is irrigated as was in 1929, the water-logged condition of the land will become intensified and grow larger in extent. To prevent this, deep artificial drainage ditches will be required.

The next letter will describe the investigations made during 1929 and give an analysis of the drainage problem confronting us.

Objection of Naval Men to London Treaty Rests Upon Smaller Guns To Be Provided on More Ships

By FRANK H. SIMONDS

WASHINGTON, May 10.—With the submission of the treaty of London to the United States senate the question of ratification becomes the most considerable of pending political issues in the United States. Moreover in recent days it has become clear that the main opposition to ratification will come from naval quarters—from senators and representatives who as members of the naval committees of the two branches of congress have acquired a detailed knowledge of the requirements of national defense, and from the great body of officers of the navy.

The navy, it is clear, despite certain not very significant exceptions, is opposed to the treaty. But, oddly enough, this opposition does not arise from any hostility to the portions of the treaty that entail reductions. The case of the navy against the treaty is not founded upon the belief that national defense has been weakened by any of the scrapping program. In fact, the "Big Navy group," to use the opprobrious term, are opposed to the London document only at the point where it provides a relatively considerable expansion.

The issue can be briefly stated. Naval craft have been divided into five categories: Capital ships, airplane carriers, cruisers, destroyers an dsubmarines. At London it was agreed that there should be reduction in three of these categories, namely, capital ships, destroyers and submarines. And it was similarly agreed that at the termination of the period of scrapping there should be actual mathematical parity in these categories between the British and American fleets.

The sum total of this reduction is approximately 170,000 tons, 70,000 in capital ships, 78,000 in destroyers and 22,000 in submarines. And the navy, without exception, has accepted these reductions without question. No issue arises over the categories in which reduction takes place. And the same is true in a fourth catagory, that of airplane carriers where the figure of Washington—135,000 tons—has been maintained at London.

The case of the navy against the treaty, then, comes down to an almost universal opposition to the arrangements covering cruisers. At the moment when the London conference was called the United States had 200,000 tons of cruisers built and building, and of these President Hoover discontinued temporarily the building of three, amounting to 30,000 tons, as a sort of good will gesture. Now, under the terms of the London treaty, the United States is to have either 339,000 tons or 324,000, as she chooses to distribute tonnage between ships carrying 8-inch and those carrying 6-inch guns.

Fewer 8-Inch Guns

Had there been no conference, however, the famous fifteen-cruiser law called for the expansion of the American navy to contain 33 cruisers, 23 of 10,000 tons, carrying 8-inch guns and 10 of 7,000 tons mounting 6-inch guns. The London treaty calls for 36 cruisers at the least, but at most and only eventually but 18 of these will have 8-inch guns. The United States is then going to have three more ships and 24,000 larger tonnage as a result of the London conference than she would have had under the existing law. But she is going to have five fewer cruisers carrying 8-inch guns.

The position of the navy rests simply on the statement that it prefers the old arrangement, that it is opposed to substituting eight 9,500-ton boats carrying 6-inch guns for five 10,000-ton craft mounting 8-inch guns. It holds that the expansion in tonnage is a waste of money, since it regards the proposed type as far less valuable for our national needs. It would prefer three less ships, thus combining a large saving of money with an alleged advantage in national defense. And if the treaty is ratified it will still oppose building the 6-inch gunned craft, and thus wasting $109,000,000.

As between the 8-inch and 6-inch gunned cruisers the views of Admiral Jones, who was the American naval adviser at London, of the general board, which is the expert body of the United States, and of the chairmen of the naval committees of the house and senate, are well known. All agree that since the British possess a vast superiority in merchant marine, capable of being transformed into warships in time of conflict and equipped with 6-inch guns, only a marked advantage in boats carrying 8-inch guns will insure parity for the United States.

The Fifteen-Cruiser law, giving the United States 15 8-inch gunned ships against 15 for the British satisfied the naval experts. When the president at the Rapidan agreed with MacDonald to reduce this number to 21, American naval authorities were disturbed and dissatisfied. When suddenly there emerged from secret sessions at London the statement of Secretary Stimson, unaccompanied by any reasons, that the American delegation had further agreed to cut down her ships to 18, the navy was aroused. When finally as a result of the Japanese negotiations it was further agreed that the American construction program should be so retarded that no more than 16 8-inch gunned cruisers would be completed before the termination of the treaty of London, a struggle in the senate was assured.

In a word, while the objectives of the American delegation to the naval conference were parity with Great Britain and the maintenance of the 60 per cent ratio of Washington with the Japanese, it is the view of American naval authorities that both policies have been abandoned. In the case of the British, although, in return for an allotment of 18 eight-inch cruisers against 15, the United States has surrendered more than 25,000 tons—the totals now being 339,000 and just short of the 324,000 arrangement with the Japanese, America has abandoned the employment of the right to complete two of the three big boats before 1936.

Against Advice of Board

As far as the navy and the general public know, no reason exists for either surrender. In consenting to reduce the number of eight-inch gunned cruisers, which fulfill the requirements of American naval experts, and at the same time to increase the number and aggregate tonnage of six-inch gunned boats, which the British experts have at all times tried to impose upon the United States, the American delegation broke alike with the advice of her general board and the policy of the Coolidge administration as indicated at Geneva in 1927. In capitulating to Japanese insistence upon an increased ratio over the Washington conference the United States has paid again for what was supposed to have been paid for in full in 1922. For at Washington the Japanese accepted the 60 per cent ratio only after the United States had surrendered the rights further to fortify all insular possession west of the longitude of Hawaii.

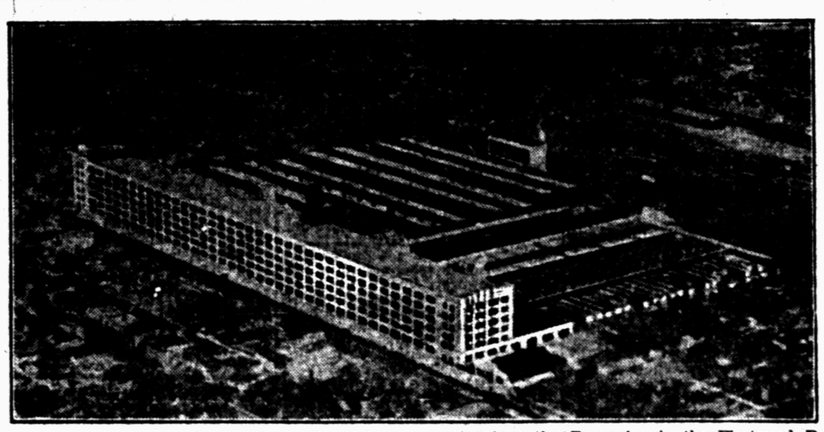

At the Coolidge conference of 1927 all the struggle turned upon the eight-inch cruiser. The president, Ambassador Gibson and Admiral Jones stood fast behind the general board of the navy. But rather than permit the United States to have these ships to the number desired, the British broke up the conference. Now, at London, without any explanation the American delegation has abandoned the American position of Geneva and adopted the British.

Why? Although publicly unexplained, the reasons were privately told at London. If the United States had adhered to the 21-ship program of the Rapidan conversations, the Japanese insistence upon a 70 per cent ratio would have given them 15 eight-inch gunned boats against 15 for the British. But the British dominions were unwilling to listen to an arrangement which gave Japanese mathematical parity and strategic superiority in the Far East. As a result Stimson was told flatly that he must revise American figures downward or the Rapidan totals would have to be revised upward. And as success at London had come to be viewed as conditional upon the maintenance of the Rapidan figures Stimson perforce yielded.

When the United States had got down to 18 big gunned boats, as a result of British insistence, then the American delegation encountered a Japanese demand for 70 per cent of the smaller number. At the moment Japan had 12 eight-inch gunned cruisers, but only eight were of the Washington type—that is of 10,000 tons. The other four were of 7,100 tons. The Japanese demand therefore involved adding two more 10,000 boats. To prevent this the American delegates agreed that the United States would not lay down one big boat until 1933, another until 1934 and the third until 1935. Japan stipulated that acceptance of this agreement should not stop her from demanding full 70 per cent in 1936.

There, broadly speaking, is the case of the navy against the treaty. It is true that the navy is not absolutely united. One sailor of prominence, Admiral Pratt, chief of operations, backed the delegation at London and is to be their chief advocate before the senate. Nevertheless, Admiral Pratt's testimony loses a measure of value since, before he set out for London, he was on record, in testimony before a senate committee, in favor of the eight-inch as contrasted with the six-inch cruiser. In fact, his testimony was regarded in naval circles as the most effective and convincing statement of the views of the general board. Why did Admiral Pratt change front at London? Did the British naval authorities persuade him that he had been mistaken in his former technical views or did he come to set the moral values of a treaty above the material considerations of national defense? This is the question which will be asked at the senate hearings where Admiral Pratt will be the star witness of the delegation against the navy.

FLEETWOOD BODY PLANT NOW LARGEST IN WORLD

Announcement is made by its president, Ernst Schebera, that the Fleetwood Body corporation has completed its removal to Detroit, retaining its permanent salon at 10 East Fifty-seventh street, New York.

Phenomenal as has been the growth of the automobile industry and huge as have been the manufacturing records which have been set up only to be broken again and again by motor car manufacturers, the custom body business remained for many years the especial province of a number of small builders located where opportunity may have found them at the turn of the century building horse-drawn coaches deluxe or passing from the fashionable carriage business which was then rapidly giving way to the motor car.

Emotional among these custom builders was Fleetwood, serving such celebrated makers as Hispano Suiza, Iscotta Fraschini, Mercedes, Minerva, Rolls Royce, Deusenberg, Cadillac, Packard, Lincoln and others with individual creations built to order for the world's most exclusive patrons.

Many great names still live in custom bodies but no built-to-order builder in this country or abroad has had the spectacular growth of Fleetwood.

Nestled among the green hills of Pennsylvania the Fleetwood Body corporation might have gone serenely on building the unusual body now and then as have so many custom builders were it not that the indefinable quality which makes for greatness came forcibly to the attention of the great chassis builders of the world who one by one came to appreciate Fleetwood.

This harks back many years but the seed then sown comes to full fruitage in the bringing of the rapidly expanding Fleetwood Body corporation to Detroit.

From its humble home in Fleetwood, Pa., to the mighty new modern body building institution in Detroit is a step which in any other country or in any other industry would be nothing short of miraculous.

The chief contributing factor to the marvelous growth which has necessitated plant expansion of the Fleetwood Body corporation was the demand for custom Fleetwood bodies on Cadillac and LaSalle chassis.

So rapidly has this demand increased during more recent years that the General Motors corporation found an affiliation with the Fleetwood corporation not only highly desirable, but positively necessary to assure the Cadillac Motor Car company a constant source from which to obtain exclusive custom bodies combining the dignity, character and charm for which Fleetwood is world-famed.

The Fleetwood Body corporation is under the direction of its president, Ernst Schebera, under whose management Fleetwood has grown from an obscure builder to the foremost producer of custom bodies in the industry.

Fleetwood has already taken over in Detroit one of the largest and most modern body plants in the industry. This new Fleetwood plant has a total floor space of more than 1,500,000 square feet. The value of the entire property is estimated at more than $5,000,000.

The manager of all plant operations is O. L. Currier, who estimates that Fleetwood will employ 3,000 men in Detroit.

While Mr. Schebera brings to Detroit the Fleetwood staff designers and craftsmen who have had years of experience in custom body creation and building, it is well known that there are no more skilled craftsmen than may be found in Detroit and immediate environs and it is from this group that Fleetwood will man its new plant.

TWO COWS EXCEED FIFTY-POUND MARK IN FAT PRODUCTION

Two cows in the cooperative herds of this county produced over 50 pounds of butterfat during April, according to the detailed reports given to County Agent G. C. McGown. The highest producing cow's record was 56.6 pounds and the next highest produced 53 pounds.

A total of 103 cows are in the herds from which monthly reports are received. In April, two of these produced over 50 pounds of butterfat, eight produced from 40 to 50 pounds, 28 produced from 30 to 40 pounds, 53 from 20 to 30 pounds and 12 under 20 pounds. Nearly two-thirds of the cows produced less than a pound of butterfat per day.

Cottonseed Meal as a Fertilizer

Cottonseed meal is a very good fertilizer in itself. Manure from animals fed cottonseed meal has lost only 15 to 35 per cent of its fertility as a fertilizer.

When you feed cottonseed meal you get a double value for your money—the value of the meal which is the cheapest good feed you can buy for the money—and the value of the manure for fertilizer.

Mile after mile..... ...Month after month.. ALWAYS DEPENDABLE

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE

The New Oakland Eight is colorful, thrilling. It develops more power than any other automobile of its size and weight. It has acceleration, speed and power that few cars can match, regardless of price.

Yet the very features which give Oakland its superior performance also make it a remarkably reliable car. Its high power is applied to transmission and rear axle in such a smooth, even flow that strain on these parts is materially reduced. And because its reciprocating parts move at an unusually low rate for any given road speed, its engine life is unusually long.

The Oakland Eight embodies sixteen years' engineering experience with eight-cylinder automobiles. And every car undergoes approximately 25,000 separate inspections while being manufactured!

That is why mile after mile, month after month—Oakland performs with that unfailing dependability which is, by far, the biggest factor in the continued enjoyment of an automobile.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values . . . Oakland delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired

PROMINENT EDITOR IN PRESS RADIO PROGRAM

Marien E. Pew, editor of "Editor and Publisher," will be guest speaker during "Bill Schudt's Going to Press" over WABC and the Columbia Broadcasting system at 4 p. m., Wednesday, May 14. He will speak on "Newspaper Loyalties."

Mr. Pew is one of the country's well-known journalists. Beginning as a reporter on the Cleveland Press in 1904 he successively held the managing positions Editor of the Newspaper Enterprise association; news manager of the Boston Traveler; one of the organizers of the United Press association; editor of the Philadelphia News-Post; press representative for the secretary of war; editor and manager of the International Service, and since 1922 editor of "Editor and Publisher."

Outstanding Athlete

Morris W. Johnson, honor student, was awarded a trophy recently by the North Carolina State college because he is the school's outstanding athlete. He starred at the three major sports the past three years.

RADIO IN AUTO 1930 SURPRISE NEW INDUSTRY

Every year the radio industry surprises us with something startlingly new, and 1930 is no exception. The attraction announced for the current season is automobile radio.

Both radio and automobile manufacturers have realized the demand for automobile receivers for sometime. However, there were many technical problems in the way of satisfactory radio reception in moving cars. Because of the cooperation of two great industries these problems have been successfully attacked and the radio industry is now able to say as the marines did during the war—"Yes, we know it can't be done, but here it is!"

The Crosley Roamio is typical of the automobile receivers which will be featured at radio shows this season. It is a small, compact unit mounted on the engine bulkhead of the car, just below the cowl. The controls are carried on a small panel, attached to the instrument board, within easy reach of the driver.

The automobile storage battery is used for lighting the radio tubes. In addition, there are dry batteries, carried below the floor boards, under the driver's seat, or in the rear compartment.

A small antenna must be used, but many automobile manufacturers are taking care of this installation at the factory. Many other cars have metal roof supports which may be used as antennas. If an antenna must be installed, a small section of copper screen, or a grid work of flexible wire is concealed in the roof.

One of the new features that has made automobile radio practical is automatic volume control. This is a system (in addition to the usual manually operated volume control) which maintains reception at constant volume while the automobile travels from place to place. The enormous variation in signal strength in closely neighboring areas are made satisfactory reception in a moving car impossible before the development of this feature.

BROADCAST OVER NBC THURSDAY NIGHT WILL FEATURE RUDOLF FRIML

An unusual musical treat is promised to radio listeners on Thursday evening, May 15, when at 8 o'clock, the Victor division of the RCA-Victor company broadcasts from station WEAF, over an NBC network, a program made up entirely of the compositions of Rudolf Friml.

Artists of country-wide fame, supported by a large orchestra under the direction of Nathaniel Shilkret, will be heard in songs and selections from the operettas of this popular composer. In the list of singers appear such well known names as Lucy Marsh, Gladys Rice, James Melton, Lewis James, Elliott Shaw, Wilfred Glenn and Lambert Murphy. Among the musical numbers to be presented are selections from the operettas "Katrinka," "You're in Love," "The Three Musketeers," "The Firefly," "Rose Marie," "High Jinks," and and "The Vagabond King."

FOR SALE: LATEST TELEVISION GOODS IN CHICAGO STORE

EVANSTON, Ill., May 10.—McKay Brothers, three in number, are today the proprietors of the nation's, and in all probability, the world's first exclusive television store. Their store is located in the heart of Chicago's gold coast which extends from the city's northern limits, north along the lake, to the Cook county line.

The Western Television equipment which the McKays are handling, was presented to the public for the first time May 2 and 3, when, in conjunction with Northwestern university's annual circus, thousands of circus attendants received their introduction to the new art.

The 20-hour television program over western television station, W9XAO, was begun by Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern university. Other nationally known personages participating were Bryant Washburn, screen and stage star; Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, of golfing fame; David R. Forgan, veteran Chicago financier; Jane Addams and Harriett Vittum; Berna Dean, musical comedy star; Louis Panico, orchestra leader, and Tug Wilson, Northwestern athletic director.

'Delightful Rogue' State Sunday Has Supply of Thrills

Romance goes to sea with a 1929 pirate in "The Delightful Rogue," the all-talking radio picture featuring Rod La Rocque, which comes to the State theater Sunday.

ROD La ROCQUE and RITA La ROY in "The Delightful ROGUE"

"The Delightful Rogue" is the first sea story made in sound. It tells of the adventures and leves of Lastro, a pirate who steals a millionaire's yacht, The Golden Rule," and sets to plundering a group of tropical isles.

How he meets Nydra, whose dancing is the delight of an island cafe; how he aids her in a unique test of another's love and how he and his crew of colorful vagabonds settle an affair with the police of Tapit form the highlights of Wallace Smith's yarn, which he adapted from his own original Cosmopolitan story, "A Woman Decides."

Rita La Roy, a tall titian beauty from the vaudeville stage, appears as Rod's leading lady and sings the beautiful theme song "Gay Love," which already has become a radio and dance orchestra favorite.

"Let's Go Places"

"Let's Go Places" coming to the State Thursday, gives an accurate idea of what Hollywood is really like—as accurate, that is, as is compatible with a musical show. Actual sequences of a premiere at one of the big theaters, of various Hollywood parties and places of amusement, are shown pretty much as they really take place. These scenes should prove intensely interesting to the great army of persons who have never been to Hollywood but who yearn to see it. And now they can.

Miss Lela Lane plays opposite Joseph Wagstaff in "Let's Go Places," Fox Movietone musical extravaganza. The other featured players include Frank Richardson, Sharon Lynn, Dixie Lee, Charles Judels, Walter Catlett and Ilka Chase.

Four groups of song-writers, Conrad, Mitchell and Gottler, Hanley and Brockman, Little and Burke, and McCarthy and Monaco, all noted among the leading popular composers of the day, wrote the various catchy melodies of this picture, which is said to be one of the most entertaining musicals yet to reach the speaking screen.

DIRECTOR OF WFAA TO STAGE AUDITION TESTS NORTH TEXAS

Robert S. Pool, director of radio station WFAA of Dallas, has been appointed North Texas' state manager for the fourth national radio audition sponsored by the Atwater Kent foundation. This is the third year the popular director of WFAA has been placed in charge of the details of the local and state auditions in North Texas.

There are few sections of the Southwest where the programs distributed through WFAA do not reach and find response. In his work during the past years with the Atwater Kent foundation and the national radio auditions, Pool has searched the highways and byways for young singers who have operatic or concert aspirations or both and has offered them the opportunity to compete for a share in the $25,000 in cash awards and 10 scholarships offered the national finalists.

"We intend to get a national winner from North Texas this year," Mr. Pool declares in discussing the 1930 audition. "With the energy of our state committee and the enthusiasm already shown this year by young singers through the state, we should find a voice which will win first honors in the national finals next December. We are already preparing for local auditions and expect to have more of them and more singers than in former auditions."

HIGHEST PAID SHORT STORY WRITER IN THE WORLD

Maternity Ward

A Story of Inherent Love of Life

"Observing their drab little uniforms of poverty, their pale faces and their rickety legs it felt unendurable that she continue in helping mothers to bring life into this world."

YOU could not be a nurse in a Maternity Hospital over a period of seven years and not have some rather special ideas about the story of mankind. Vesta had. She had seen, through the long period of her association with an institution dedicated to birth, the mills of the gods grinding out the relentless grist of human destiny.

Day after day, there occurred in the wards of Maternity Hospital the miracle of life or the tragedy of death. Babies, babies, babies; wanted, unwanted, alive and kicking, pink, blue, male and female, opened their blue eyes upon an etheric world bounded by doctors, nurses, internes, wan mothers and blear-eyed fathers.

The eyes of Vesta had come to be a little bitter about this business of birth. It seemed to her symbolic that the new-born child, still blue with the mysterious pallor of those glacial hinterlands preceding life, should first of all, as greeting to his fellow humans, pucker up to cry.

Sometimes, the new-born child, not yet an hour old, lay in his crib and frowned, as if already fear and premonition were upon him.

Poor darling, Vesta found herself saying.

A pink cherub opened its eyes upon a ward of pain; grew up in streets and tenements of gloom and grime, went out into a world of disappointment and chagrin and in turn gave life.

Of course, there was the other aspect. The bright wanted babies who were born into bright loving homes. The youngsters who thrived and prospered and begot happily in turn. But somehow, from the vantage of the hospital ward, the odds seemed so against that.

The tired, broken-down, poverty-stricken mothers, the babies with the thwarted pain-riddled futures seemed so greatly in the majority. Walking along the rows of cribs, it was difficult not to feel your heart hurt. Even in the private rooms, where they lay swaddled in expensive layettes, the odds seemed against them. Anyway, after seven years of the routine of seeing them born, something akin to chronic pain lay in the heart of Vesta.

WHAT a grave responsibility to give life. How sure one needed to be. How thoughtless, unconsciously cruel, reckless and ignorant were most of the parents who dared to dally with the miracle of creation.

It made one fearsome, unventuresome, cautious and tinged with bitterness.

It seemed to Vesta, studying the plights of the stricken parents, that their sense of responsibility, their scarred consciences, must be almost more than they could bear.

Sometimes, walking home from the hospital, moving among the shouting playing children of the tenement-lined streets, observing their drab little uniforms of poverty, their pale faces, the rickety legs, it felt, momentarily at least, unendurable that she continue to play her role in assisting mothers to give life.

Morbid, said some. Embittered said others, or sensitive, wicked, unbalanced, old-maidish, sour grapes, pessimist.

Whatever the case, at twenty-five, there were ridges of vicarious suffering around Vesta's mouth and along her brow and deep in her eyes the muddy waters of pain.

You lived, moved, breathed in a world of pain.

NOT that these thoughts predominated the personality of Vesta. Outwardly at least, she was calm, efficient, even rather beautiful in a pale harassed sort of way. She had gentleness and, strangely enough, great skill in her work.

Sense of humor, one doctor, chaffing, used to tell her she lacked. Sense of humor! Sense of humor about Pain! Pain. Nevertheless, because to live in a world was to learn somehow to adapt oneself to the injustice of suffering childhood, there did manage to survive in Vesta, even with her sensitiveness to the pain about her, a joy of life.

It was not difficult to muster a sense of humor about much of the mortal drama that went on about her. Almost every evening, in the apartment she shared with two nurses, there were hilarious recitals of the anecdotes of the day. The sayings of bewildered mothers, befuddled fathers and precocious children.

Often, the three girls invited young doctors in to dine with them and the zest and vitality of these parties was Vesta. She was good at play. The inner torment, the trials of the day, the vicarious pain for humanity, the sense of frustration, fell from her like a mantle once she was free of the hospital and its etheric aroma.

"AT heart, you are in love with the world," a young doctor named Gregory Ainsworth used to accuse her.

"In love with the world!" she scoffed. "In love with a universe that fosters little children in order to torture them; in love with the scheme of things, that brings children into a world of darkness, injustice, social tyranny, poverty and bad health!"

Of course, long heated discussions of God, metaphysics, religion, grew out of this. Sometimes until long past midnight, the little groups sat weighing the problems of life and death; pro and conning the same dark problems that have caused the wise, tired, harried idealists of all times to ponder.

It was out of these evenings that there spun itself around Vesta the web of romance. The most chaffing of the teasing group around her, brilliant young Ainsworth, became her ardent, headstrong wooer.

"I don't want to marry," said Vesta, knowing from the first time that he asked that she would. "I've seen too much. Suffered too much of the suffering of others. Besides, my work is laid out for me."

IN the end, of course, she did marry him, and they were to establish the first free clinic of its kind in the Middle Western city in which they dwelt. But against having children, she did resolutely hold out over a period of four years.

"My own sins are my own. I won't bring a child into a world into which it does not ask to be born. The fact that I am happy does not insure happiness for my offspring. I don't want a baby."

At the end of four years, when she was her most beautiful, there was to be a child and once more the convictions of Vesta went down before inherent love of life.

"We'll name it Vesta," said Ainsworth.

"We'll name it Gregory," said Vesta.

When the twins were born, they named them Vesta and Gregory.

Should Married Women Hold Jobs? - - - - By Kathleen Norris

MRS. NORRIS

How many women are actually making a success of home-making and job-holding, both at once? Not many, says Miss Frances Perkins, an industrial labor commissioner in the state of New York.

Miss Perkins says that any woman who goes out of her home to earn money and cannot make at least $3,500 a year, is an economic failure, and has no place in business. She has to spend that much for increased household expenses and extra help at home, Miss Perkins says.

My own opinion would be the exact opposite. It seems to me that the very—the very few women who could earn that much money would be too small a minority to talk about, and that the success of hundreds of thousands of women who are combining home duties—jobs as wives and mothers, with lucrative outside work, at wages much less than $300 a month, are an answer to anyone who questions the efficiency of the arrangement.

Indeed, I would go further. I would go far enough to say that the time is rapidly approaching when all women will be wage-earners, in one way or another, and an idle, parasite woman will be regarded with the same contempt and surprise that we feel now for an idle man.

Even when the children of the family are small, there are but a few years when their mother ought not have some outside interest. The slaving, drudging, all-enduring mother has gone quietly out of fashion; she does not belong in today's scheme, and her children are not reared to fit into it either. From babyhood, they are happier and better behaved, and given a better chance generally, when mother delegates some of her duties to the right person, for a few hours a day. Many mothers today deliberately do so, going away from home, just as dad does, daily, only for a shorter time—and spending all the money they earn on the office suit, the cleaner's bill, the motor-car that takes them to and fro, and the helper's salary.

Nurses today are not what they were 30 years ago. The cruel, stupid, ignorant and sometimes child-hating women to whom our mothers and grandmothers cheerfully delegated their offspring truly were evil influences—our tired, nervous, sometimes equally-ignorant mothers were far better for us than they were.

But today the care of children, and the understanding of children, has been infinitely raised and standardized. Crying babies are no longer given "sugar-thumbs" or slippery medicine at the first whimper; pallid little pimply boys don't dine on hot biscuits, veal and bananas. Fits and convulsions and hip disease and crossed-eyes and "crankiness" have departed from the nursery. A dumb, bewildered, foreign-born peasant no longer whips and shakes our children into obedience and terror. They know about spinach and naps and baked prunes and all the rest of it, now.

And with all this ritual of carefully-prepared meals, pleasant voices, efforts to understand and persuade, rather than bully and beat developing little souls and bodies, the undertaking has grown much too complicated for any one woman to handle. The mother who shuts herself in a house or an apartment today, and devotes herself to a racketing, spirited boy of 5, and girls of 3 and 2, is a foolish woman. Her nerves and the children's will pay for this blind and stubborn adhesion to an outgrown custom—this determination to put new wine into old bottles. It can't be done.

In the old slipshod days children could scramble up, in the average middle-income home, without worrying their elders overmuch. They ate whatever they liked, fought, wept, developed all sorts of undesirable traits, like teaching and sensitiveness and jealousy, spoiled their nerves, digestions and tempers. Mother never worried about these things because she was too busy baking, sewing, feeding chickens, putting up fruit. Children were often "pests" and "bothers" and "nuisances" to her, but she did not take them very seriously.

Today she does take them seriously, and they are correspondingly healthier, happier, saner. Today her house is equipped with a thousand conveniences of which her own mother never dreamed, and the housekeeping that used to fill the entire day can be done in a few hours. No grimed wooden floors to scrub, no half-acre kitchens to clean, no oil lamps to fill or ashes to shovel out of a filthy stove, no old woolen dresses to sponge and rip and press, no vegetables to water and gather and shell and cook, no lard to try out, or country boots to grease, with telephone and ice-machine, quick grocery delivery in clean grocery packages—today's housekeeper can reduce her duties to a matter of minutes, if she will.

And she can find some good woman in the neighborhood to run the children for four hours—five hours, with great benefits not only to the older, poorer, simpler woman but to the children and mother, too. Mother appreciates home and babies a hundred times more gratefully, when she has to go away for awhile, and when she comes back tired and cold and hungry to their affectionate welcome. They like to have news, and reports, and questions, and surprises for mother. Dad likes mother's new interest and widened viewpoint. Mrs. O'Brien likes the $15 a week, and the part-time employer likes to get hold of a woman of mother's intelligence and character to run his cash register, or his linen room, or his renting agency.

That's the actual, practical situation and no amount of newspaper suggestions from labor commissioners will affect it. Every year more young girls continue a long-drawn education, follow up high school with college, or with years of special study in music or the professions, and every year more married women step over the threshold of home, and begin to explore the neighborhood for new paths of money-making.

A Chicago woman who employs about 300 other women told me last year that half her "girls" were married, keeping homes and raising children.

"Menace to marriage?" she echoed my question surprisedly. "Why, on the contrary, it's one of the real safeguards. Busy, interested happy women don't get divorces and when a woman has a home, a husband, a baby and a job she has everything life is going to offer her!"

There's that side to it, obviously. And there is the further consideration that part-time jobs make earlier marriage possible, and early marriage, to my thinking anyway, would be an unmixed blessing to the nation. A young husband's sense of burden and responsibility is infinitely lessened when he has a wife who enjoys work who knows the value of money, whose determination to make the venture a financial success is equal to his own.

It won't be half as tiring to either one, believe me, as the jazzing, speeding, drinking, night-club type of honeymoon is—it won't take the part-time-working-wife away from her home any more than beauty-parlors, bridge luncheons, movies and matinees take the women who criticize and condemn her. Indeed, if I had a girl of 18 or 20 to settle in life today, I would infinitely rather see her marrying young, marrying a poor man taking on, almost immediately, some part-time work, going home to serve the partly-prepared dinner, at 5 o'clock, and spending her evening in comfortable weariness, over a book and beside a radio until time to turn in at 9 or 10—infinitely rather have her pattern her life on this sort of scheme, than to have her put off her marriage until her young man was making enough to take care of her and the car and the servants and the night-life, too, or have her marry only to run into discontent and debt and fretful idleness.

Looking back, from middle age, one doesn't see much to envy, in the average marriage of today, with all its noise and extravagance, its silver-hip-flasks and red roadsters, its $4 silk stockings, and $3 lipsticks, its empty, shallow, brainless competition with all sorts of empty, brainless, shallow ideals.

But to marry young, and poor—ah, that remains the great adventure! To work out one's own plan, independent of the jealously watching eyes and the superficial criticisms—to have a budget, and a savings account, to have originality and independence about the whole thing—that's life.

After awhile, like an Indian woman when the tribe is on the march, perhaps the young wife drops by the wayside, for a few months. But presently she is back in line again, all the more vital, and confident, and happy, because the new firm has a third member who must be budgeted and systematized into the scheme.

Thirty-five hundred a year! Why, none of us would ever have gotten started at all if we had had to wait for that income, or half of it! A sister of mine, 17 years old, started to help our family budget, in 1900, on the modest salary of $60 a year—and did help it, too. Even $20 a month is a big help; $60 a month takes care of the grocery and milk and meat bills. By this time any woman reaches the $3,500 a year mark she doesn't need any advice from anybody—she is probably making twice what her husband does.

Meanwhile, my advice to any young mother who finds the care of even the most adorable babies something of a nerve-strain, day out and day in, is simply this—get a part-time job.

(Copy't, 1930, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The time is rapidly approaching when all women will be wage-earners, in one way or another, and an idle, parasite woman will be regarded with the same contempt and surprise that we feel now for an idle man.

Mrs. Norris Says:

The time is rapidly approaching when all women will be wage-earners, in one way or another, and an idle, parasite woman will be regarded with the same contempt and surprise that we feel now for an idle man.

Even when the children of the family are small there are but a few years when their mother ought not have some outside interest. The slaving, drudging, all-enduring mother has gone quietly out of fashion.

The mother who shuts herself up in a house or an apartment today, and devotes herself to a racketing, spirited boy of 5, and girls of 3 and 2, is a foolish woman. Her nerves and the children's will pay for this blind and stubborn adhesion to an outgrown custom.

In the old slipshod days children could scramble up, in the average middle-income home, without worrying their elders overmuch. They ate whatever they liked, fought, wept, developed all sorts of undesirable traits. Mother never worried about these things because she was too busy baking, sewing, feeding chickens, putting up fruit.

Today she does take them seriously, and they are correspondingly healthier, happier, saner.

Mother appreciates home and babies a hundred times more gratefully, when she has to go away from them for a while, and when she comes back tired and cold and hungry to their affectionate welcome.

A Chicago woman who employs about 300 other women told me last year that half her "girls" were married, keeping homes and raising children.

"Menace to marriage?" she echoed my question surprisedly. "Why, on the contrary, it's one of the real safeguards. Busy, interested, happy women don't get divorces, and when a woman has a home, a husband, a baby and a job she has everything life is going to offer her!"

Part-time jobs make earlier marriage possible, and early marriage, to my thinking anyway, would be an unmixed blessing to the nation.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

ZOE BECKLEY

The One Great Wish

"Dear Zoe: I am not popular with boys and want to be—with boys and girls, too. Can you help me? —A READER."

If I could give a sure-fire recipe for popularity would I be sitting here pounding the typewriter? No. I would by this time have become so rich that I could high-hat Mr. Ford. But if every girl cannot attain a degree of charm that brings every man groveling to her feet, any girl with a little effort can acquire enough to get by with.

First: Appearance. Expensive clothes are unnecessary. Simple, neat and becoming ones are possible to everyone these days. And any girl can be sweet and daintily fresh, well-groomed and wholesome-looking.

Second: To attract boys, put them at their ease and make them feel they're wonderful. This is really the whole secret.

Third: Achieve sincerity. The more I ponder this, the surer I am that charm is about 99 per cent sincerity. When one is sincere, one is interested and has therefore no room for self-consciousness. One is entertaining, convincing, animated. Can you think of anybody who is insincere who has charm? Can you think of anyone with charm who is not simple, unaffected and sincere? No—you cannot. Whoops my dears, maybe we have stumbled upon the definition of charm!

Fourth: To attract girls, be frank and friendly.

Here, Boy, Boy!

"Dear Zoe: I have several boy-friends but there is one I simply adore. He lives in another town and I see him about once a month, casually. I want him to come and see me. Would inviting him to a party be out of place? —FRIEND."

Not a bit. A party is always a good idea because it isn't too exclusively personal and it insures him a jolly time. Also it has a pleasant aftermath—the party call—which should be the beginning of a beautiful friendship!

Encouragement Needed

"Dear Zoe: I am in love with him and he with me although he does not know I care. We broke up and he went for a short while with another girl. He is reserved and bashful and is afraid to make the first advance. How am I to win him back? —WAITING."

Some men are hard to attract because they are timid; others because they are swankily self-sufficient. A lot of bosh used to be written about men pursuing maidens without encouragement. The modern girl knows men have to be encouraged by one means or another. They don't just drop out of the clouds. It is a game of tag. You "tag" the lad who attracts you—and then you run. The "tag" may take the form of a bright, heart-warming glance or some other encouragement. What sort must be determined by circumstances.

A casual invitation to call is a simple and safe one. From then on, the way should be easy.

Foolish Sacrifice

"Dear Zoe: We want to marry. He has a good education and a good position. He is a perfect gentleman. Yet my mother disapproves simply because we met at a dance and she thinks any man who goes to dances is no good. —WORRIED."

Any girl who sacrificed her future happiness because her mother disapproved of dancing would be about as sensible as cutting off her finger because it bore a hangnail. If you cannot cure mother's prejudice by asking what she has against dancing and good-naturedly discussing her reasons, don't get fussed. Just laugh it off—and go your way. I think boyfriend might help you. If he has a winning personality, set him the task of charming your mother into common sense.

Give Each a Tryout

"Dear Zoe: I am 18 and have got sick and tired of office work—inside work. I am fit for two kinds of outside work—tree surgery and aviation. I cannot decide which is best for me.

—ALWAYS A READER."

They are so very very different that it would seem a simple matter of temperament. The person with daring and poise enough to become an airplane pilot is usually not the sort to be content with tinkering earthbound trees. Nevertheless the latter is an excellent vocation, pays well and is becoming more and more popular. You are young enough to have a try at it and still take up the other if you seem more suited. Flying, having more danger, also has more money. A good aviator can earn anywhere from $100 a week up.

Questionnaire

"Dear Zoe: 1.—Does a young man expect to be asked into the house if it is about 11? 2.—When dining with two young men should the two girls face each other or sit beside each other? 3.—What argument can I offer to an objection to a boy's nationality? —D. B."

1.—He should not expect it. Say smilingly, "I'd love to ask you in but it's too late. Some other night maybe?" 2.—Face each other, each beside her escort. 3.—If the boy is well-bred and attractive, his being of different nationality only makes him more interesting. There is no superiority of nationality, only of individuals. Culture and character are what counts.

Love in Rompers

"Dear Zoe: I am in my senior year at college and very fond of a girl only 15. I realize the situation and control our affair to great moderation. Should I continue calling no more than once a week or break off entirely—for her own good? To stop would break her heart but if other causes outweigh this I will do so. Please advise me. —J. M. S."

I should say it was a case for moderation and common sense rather than anything drastic. To tear the affair up by the roots would certainly cause pain to the kid as well as to you—and make you want her the more. Real love is of slow growth. Give it a chance. Most early loves peter out naturally. If yours does not, but steadily grows as you continue to know each other, you will be sure of yourselves by the time you are in position financially to marry.

I would suggest seeing her no oftener than you do now, and not on your life tying her up with any fool "understanding." Be free, both of you, and have all the other friends you can. Only that way can you learn by experience whether what you feel is lasting love or youthful fancy.

How's Her Mind?

"Dear Zoe: I am 38 and in love with a girl 21. She truly loves me. I tell her there is too much difference in ages but she insists it does not matter; she wants me. Should we continue?

—JACK."

If she is the sort of girl whose mind will keep pace with yours, take no account of the years. The greatest danger of such marriages is that the wife remains inexperienced and childlike while the husband, who has more contact with the world, progresses mentally. Take her type into consideration and if you can picture her when she is 31 and you are 48 as still companionable, the birthdays will make little difference.

CHICAGO BARITONE IN GENERAL MOTORS PARTY RADIO ENTERTAINMENT

Richard Bonelli, baritone of the Chicago Opera company, and one of the comparatively few American-born singers who have achieved outstanding success in the world of opera, will be guest artist of the General Motors Family party Monday evening, May 12, at 7:30 o'clock through station WFAA. Accompanied by the orchestra conducted by Don Vorhees he will sing four numbers including the "Cavatina" from Gounod's "Foust," in which Mr. Bonelli has developed his most famous role, that of Valentine. Augmenting the guest artist's two groups there will be a concert by the orchestra.

GUEST-TOWELS SHOULD BE SEEN, NOT SOILED—By Sam Hellman

I . . . brings forth a bottle of sarsaparilla.

"Talking of the tariff on axe-handles," remarks the missus, "did I tell you that the Mellishes and Joe Davis are coming down for the week-end?"

"Talking of the walrus-shooting in Baffin Bay," I returns, "you have not, but bad news is bad news whenever you hear it."

"I thought," says Kate, "that you liked Joe Davis?"

"I do," I comes back, "but there are not enough Joe Davises in the United States and southeastern Siam to compensate even for a fraction of a Mellish. If I had my choice between an acute attack of sinus trouble and a Mellish, I'd take inflammatory rheumatism. Imagine Ira and his skillet-wrestler infesting this place for three days! How do you expect to amuse those blah-beans?"

"That's where I was clever," observes the wife, sweetly. "In marrying a clown. I'm counting on you to keep all and sundry in gales of laughter and monsoons of mirth from—"

"Yeh?" I cuts in. "Well, you'd better have your hopes re-ground. You'll find 'em choked with carbon and missing on all cylinders. I may be a pretty wit, but I'm certainly not going to waste my talents on the Mellish miasmas."

"Oh, yes, you will," she predicts. "Your erudities and gaucheries will land the laughs, no matter what you do or say."

"What's this gaucherie gag?" I inquires.

"It's French," explains Kate, "for a lad who has two left hands and all of whose fingers are thumbs."

"Is that so?" says I, and that defeats her. She has no come-back, so she changes the subject.

"Do you know anything about anagrams?" she asks.

"I didn't even know they were sick," I replies. "What are they and what do I care?"

"They're a game," explains the frau, "that's being played nowadays by all the intelligentsia, authors, and so forth and fifth."

"I see," says I. "What does it take the place of—log-rolling and back-patting?"

"It's quite simple," goes on the missus. "You take a word like dog, for example, and scramble it with an 'o' and what do you get?"

"I don't know," I tells her. "I haven't scrambled any dogs lately. What do you get and what does it get you when you get it?"

"You get 'good'," returns Kate.

"'Good dog,' you mean?" I queries.

"No, no," says she. "Just 'good.' Don't you see— 'd-o-g' scrambled up with another 'o' added becomes 'good'?"

"Have it your way," I shrugs. "But I'm agin this scrambling. What Webster has joined together let no man tear asunder. I'm opposed to taking a word that's served long and honorably, introducing a strange leter to it and turning it into something mongrel that's neither fish nor flesh nor good Finan Haddie."

"The trouble with you," sniffs the wife, "is that the game's too deep for you to understand."

"Don't be a sil on Saturday," I snaps. "Anybody studying to be a moron can scramble words. Here's a quick one for you. Scramble 'leaves' with a 't' and what's the answer?"

"I give up," says Kate, after a bit of skull work.

"'Tea-leaves,' of course," I informs her.

"It's just too bad," sighs the missus. "I thought we'd be able to kill some of the week-end with anagrams, but it looks like we'll just have to play cards and hold hands."

Just about that time a car rolls upon Second-Mortgage Villa and out step the Mellishes and Joe Davis. Joe's a buddy of mine, but the Mellishes, to me, are something the angora's dragged in. Minnie Mellish is the stupe of stupes. A couple of battling cats could climb through her head without leaving a scratch.

"You're just in time," I tells her. "We're just about to start a snappy game of anigrams. You're, of course, familiar with anagrams?"

"I should say I am," says she. "You ought to see the anagrams I got on my linens."

"It's just too bad," I murmurs to the wife. "I thought we'd be able to kill some of the week-end with anagrams, but it looks like we'll have to play cards and holds hands. How are you at holding hands?"

"Pretty good," returns Minnie. "I made two grand slams in contract yesterday afternoon and—"

"Fine," I interrupts, "but if you'd been holding the kind of hands I have in mind, you'd have been set at least 600, doubled and redoubled with all the honors up in Mabel's room."

"That'll be about all for you," scowls the frau. "We'd better all dress for dinner."

"It's going to be a good one, too," I promises. "The neighbors have brought in all kinds of stuff. I hope you folks like canned tripe and warmed over spinach."

"They're my favorite form of bird life," grunts Davis. "Take me back to the library, kid. I'm thirsty for something to read."

I leads Joe to a room in back of the house that we call the library on account of the telephone book being kept there, and brings forths a bottle of sarsaparilla.

"Just leave me here the whole week-end," suggests Davis.

"Don't you care about anagrams?" I inquires.

"Not the ones on Minnie's linens," says he. "Why did you have to invite me with that flop and her meal-ticket?"

"Well," I returns, "the wife asked you as a kind of concession to me. She thinks you're a bum and therefore suitable company for me."

"I'm not a bum," declares Davis.

"I know it," says I, "and I've come near to convincing Kate that you're not but—"

"Aren't you men going to dress?" asks the wife, coming to the library at this juncture.

"I'm sorry," says Davis, "but I've just heard that my Uncle Anthrax has been gored to death by a wild spruce in the Maine woods and I must leave at once."

"A telegram?" inquires Kate.

"No," returns Joe, "an anagram."

(The contribution dealing with the proper clothes to wear at week-end parties given under the auspices of the East Secaucus Tulip Growers association, together with suggestions from refreshments to be served after a hunt of the Axminster Beagle Hounds, is regarded by those in no position to know as the last word in social usage. On an early occasion we shall take advantage of our readers to consider another phase of American amusement—The Night at the Opera.)

(Copyright, 1930, Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., and North American Newspaper Alliance.)

You're just in time," I tells here. "We're just about to start a snappy game of anagrams. You're, of course, familiar with anagrams?"

HOLLIS WINS TWO GOLD MEDALS AT COUNTY MEET

HOLLIS, May 10.—Miss Faye Carter, talented young niece of Mrs. Ed Locke, won two gold medals in the recent county school meet which was held here. She won first place in vocal solo, singing "The Little Brown Owl," and won first place in drawing. She also placed in penmanship, winning second place. Faye sang in the junior quartet, which placed first. Other members of the quartet were Alice Margaret Hopkins, Margaret Marie Giles and Demetrice Thornton.

Last year Faye represented Olustee in the Jackson county meet and won a silver medal.

Woman Coach

Miss Jessie C. Brandon coached the Odessa High school soccer team of Elmira, N. Y., to a championship in the Tri-County Soccer league. She is one of the few women in the country in charge of a high school athletic team composed of boys.

Residents New Texas Territory Form Society

HOLLIS, Okla., May 10.—Landowners of the western Oklahoma border whose property the United States supreme court recently held belonged to the state of Texas met here Monday to work out plans for the protection of their titles which are threatened under the change of sovereign ownership.

More than 300 attended the meeting to confer with J. Berry King, attorney general, who promised Oklahoma's aid to the new Texans. A petition to congress and to the Texas state legislature and chief executive is to be drawn up asking for protection as the first move. Hope against legal battle to protect the land titles is held by the group.

A permanent organization was completed with W. P. Ponder of Mangum, as general chairman and Bert Branigan of Hollis as general secretary.

County chairmen were named as follows: C. R. Fox, Higgins, Texas, for Ellis county; R. D. Miller, Hollis, for Harmon county; John Chandler, Reydon, for Roger Mills county, and Charles Boren of Erick, for Beckham county.

Information desired upon any question concerning detached territory, it was suggested, should be passed through the local chairman to the general chairman, who in turn would pass it through proper channels in order that official opinion may be given by the attorney general's office.

Go to Church Today for Mother

This Is Mother's Day

Note the expression of gladness on Mother's face—and why—simply because you are with her.

And if she is miles away can't you see that same look when she received your remembrance today? No matter what it was—no matter what the cost—but just the thought that brings joy to her heart.

Today we do honor, in spirit and reality, to Mother.

U. S. SENATOR FELTON

from Georgia

Modern to the last

MRS. REBECCA FELTON of Georgia, was the only woman ever to hold a seat in the United States Senate.

Always young in spirit, she delighted in modern ways.

When few women went to college she was graduated with highest honors.

Her husband was sent to Congress. She stumped the State in his campaign when other women shunned politics.

She managed her home, five children, a newspaper, three big cotton plantations and fought for better schools in the South.

Living to the age of 94, and modern to the last, she named a trust institution similar to ours as executor and trustee under her will.

THE example of this able and far-sighted woman will surely be an encouragement to other women with property to leave, as well as to husbands, who wish to put the money they intend for the benefit of their families, in experienced hands.

When your wife fully realizes what this means to her, she will welcome our appointment as executor and trustee under your will.
