

Mass Arrests Threatened By the Nazis

Demand Surrender of Policeman's Slayer By Night of Czechs

PRAGUE, June 9. (AP)—Germans reported today mass arrests would be carried out if Czechs failed to produce the slayer of a German policeman in Kladno by tonight. They said the arrests would continue until the person responsible for the first German fatality since Reichsfuehrer Hitler absorbed Bohemia and Moravia into greater Germany.

The Mayor of Kladno is already under arrest.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The slaying of a German policeman in Bohemia-Moravia brought stern measures yesterday from Nazi officials already confronted with growing "passive resistance" among restive Czechs recently brought under their rule.

This development in the protection of Germany carved out of former Czechoslovakia came during a day in which Great Britain served notice on the "men who have it in their power to precipitate conflict" that any future attempt at aggression would "meet with wide and resolute resistance."

The British position was stated by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax who declared "the day has gone when the independence of European nations can be destroyed by unilateral action."

His words before the house of lords were preceded by a statement by Prime Minister Chamberlain in the house of commons that Germany's attitude of late on colonial and economic issues had placed further obstacles in the way of possible steps towards European adjustment.

The stringent measures Germany ordered in Bohemia-Moravia in an effort to find the slayer of the policeman shot to death yesterday in the district of Kladno, included:

1. A ban on all open air meetings, the closing of all theaters, public houses and several schools because of the agitating activity of a greater part of the faculties.

2. An order that all house windows and doors remain locked from 10 p. m. to 5 a. m., under threat that guards would shoot into open windows.

3. Removal of the mayor of Kladno and other city officials and the introduction of a government commissar to govern the city.

4. The removal of the arms of the present Czech state police for failure to "fulfill their duty."

Konstantin von Neurath, reich's protector for Bohemia-Moravia, announced further measures would be taken in order if the slayer were not caught by tomorrow night. Reports reaching Prague said mass arrests already had taken place in Kladno.

Britain, meanwhile, was presented with more complications in the Far East, a Japanese government informant in Tokyo declaring reluctance with the old world power had been aggravated "almost to the breaking point."

At the same time, a spokesman for the Japanese admiralty declared a "calm attitude" must be preserved if "serious international repercussions are to be avoided."

Japanese newspapers charged that Britain was adopting a stronger attitude in the Far East in the belief that the United States would back her and because she feared resistance of the Chinese was weakening before the Japanese military.

Taking cognizance of the Far Eastern situation, Lord Halifax said he declared his government's determination to protect British Far Eastern interests and to see that Japan observed treaty obligations.

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—The securities commission announced today it had started to investigate "facts and circumstances" involved in alleged "discrepancies" reported in transactions in DuPont common stock by Pierre S. DuPont, chairman of the company's board.

The commission said these "discrepancies" had come to light in corrections of DuPont common stock transactions submitted to the SEC by DuPont.

The committee took the games from St. Moritz because the Swiss Olympic officials refused to obey the international committee's instructions.

Governess Is Held For Abduction of California Child

SAN JOSE, Calif., June 9. (AP)—Miss Graham Gaylord, 19-year-old governess, was arrested here last night as the ransom-kidnaper of Kreche Osborn, 5-year-old San Francisco boy, who was found in a hotel with her.

News of the kidnaping had been withheld by newspapers and press associations for more than 24 hours because a note left in the Osborn home in San Francisco threatened death to the boy should it be made public.

San Jose Police Inspectors Roy Farler and William Brown, aided by San Francisco police, traced the girl to a San Jose hotel. They said she submitted calmly to arrest.

Kreche, they said, was playing with a toy train and a flag in the hotel room.

Mrs. Mabel Osborn reported the asserted kidnaping to San Francisco police yesterday afternoon. She said the governess and Kreche disappeared about 1:30 p. m. and that she had found a note in the kitchen demanding $1,600 ransom.

Police Lieutenant Frank Winters said she was cautioned in the note not to notify authorities and instructed to insert an advertisement in a San Francisco newspaper last night saying that the money was ready.

"Then, if you have not called police I will contact you," the note said.

Alf Landon Breaks 2 Ribs in Fall on Boat

ROCKLAND, Me., June 9. (AP)—Alfred M. Landon, Republican presidential nominee in 1936, slipped and broke two ribs in disembarking here late Thursday from the ketch Blue Moon on which he has been cruising along the Maine Coast.

Although hospitalized briefly for X-ray examinations which Dr. F. Brown said showed fractures of the sixth and seventh ribs, Landon returned to the ketch and continued the cruise.

Lying in his bunk aboard the craft, owned by Arthur B. Smith, Southwest Harbor, Landon said he had slipped in getting from the ketch into a small boat, and had fallen on the coaming, striking his left side.

The former Governor of Kansas said he hoped to be "all right" in time to give the commencement address at Boston University June 12.

U. S. Woman To Be Freed By Russians

Mrs. Rubens to End 18-Month Sentence In Jail Tomorrow

MOSCOW, June 9. (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Marie Rubens, American woman whose long detention in Russia caused extended United States diplomatic intervention, was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment in court today but was told she would be free tomorrow because she had served all but one day of the sentence.

She was charged with entering Russia on a false passport. She disappeared from a Moscow hotel with her husband, known also as Donald Robinson, in December, 1937, and a month later the United States embassy officials here were permitted to see her in prison.

Her husband's whereabouts have never been established.

British, Japanese Tension Increases Over New Incidents

TOKIO, June 9. (AP)—Relations aggravated "almost to the breaking point" by the increasing number of incidents in China, a government informant asserted Thursday.

A spokesman for the admiralty declared at the same time that "calm attitude" must be preserved if "serious international repercussions" are to be avoided.

Newspapers charged that, as Asahi put it, Britain "is seemingly endeavoring to intimidate Japan" that she is adopting a strong attitude in the belief the United States will back her and because she fears the resistance by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is weakening before the Japanese military in China.

The latest of the incidents creating the present situation was reported Wednesday night by Domei, the Japanese news agency, which declared a foreign warship, "apparently a British cruiser," fired upon a Japanese air transport east of Hong Kong. Japanese naval planes have boarded several British coastal liners just outside Hong Kong waters in the last three weeks, against which the British formally have protested.

Other incidents included: The death of a British cotton mill employe at Shanghai of wounds received in an encounter with Japanese military operations in the slaying of a Tientsin official. Japanese at Peiping indicated further representations would be made. They thought also Cooper might be released soon but that Spear would be questioned further.

The admiralty spokesman said the death of the Shanghai mill employe, R. M. Thinker, was of itself a small incident, but that it created a "very unpleasant impression," and while the navy "officially" does not regard his reported actions as an insult, "there is not one Japanese blue-jacket who does not regard it as such."

Shanghai Japanese charged that Thinker pointed a gun at a Japanese officer. British authorities, meanwhile, reported the mysterious death Wednesday night of a second mill employe and announced an autopsy would be conducted to determine whether he was poisoned.

He hoped, the admiralty spokesman said, that the British would regard the Shanghai incident calmly.

BRITISH SOVEREIGNS GREETED BY SOLONS

Queen of Great Britain steps off an American part of royal journey as she steps back into train following five-minute welcoming ceremonies at Niagara Falls station. Ready to board blue-and-silver special for trip to Washington are the king and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, U. S. greeter.

Members of Both Houses Greet Rulers

Royal Handshake Is Given to More Than 400 in Ceremonies

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—Britain's youthful sovereigns exchanged cordial greetings with American legislators today in a brilliant capitol reception demonstrating anew the close bonds of friendship between the two great English speaking people.

Standing in the capitol rotunda, King George and Queen Elizabeth had a smile and a royal handshake for 400 old senators and representatives crowded into the chamber.

The monarchs stood less than 100 yards from the spot where victorious British troops held a mock legislative session in the house chamber 125 years ago, then sacked and burned the capitol.

The royal couple was first greeted at the door of the rotunda by Vice-President Garner and Speaker Bankhead. On the capitol plaza, blazing under the hot sun, thousands cheered the arrival of the royal visitors.

At the British embassy a few minutes earlier, American war veterans who fought for the British empire won special greeting from their majesties. The king conversed with a number of them.

Representative Mansfield, Texas, in a wheel chair he has used for years, was the first member of the house to greet the monarchs.

Congressman Asks King What Nation To Do About Debts

WASHINGTON, June 9. (AP)—King George had no more than got to town Thursday before a member of congress demanded that he say what Great Britain intends to do about its war debt to the United States.

Representative Sweeney (D-Colo.) read in the house a telegram he said he had sent to the British monarch at the White House suggesting that as long as England is spending "a few billion dollars" annually for armaments, she might give "some consideration" to her debts to a country "whose world war assistance made possible continuance of your majesty's government."

The telegram added: "Because London dispatches have characterized your visit to the United States as an official one, I believe that I am acting within the boundaries of propriety in demanding x x x that you publicly state what your government intends to do about payment of war debts due this nation x x x."

Yesterday Sweeney joined Representative McGrawney (D-Pa.) in protesting the detection of a defect in the outlawed Irish republican army. Immigration authorities charged Russell had made false statements upon obtaining admittance to the United States five weeks ago. He was released on bond.

The two congressmen said there were others who considered the Russell incident "a bold affront" and would remain in their offices during the reception for the king and queen.

"They won't all be Irishmen, either," Sweeney added.

Boy Scouts Get Break as Health Officials Prescribe More Time for Sleep at Camp

Editor's Note: Billy Noble, correspondent for The Reporter-Telegram at the annual Boy Scout Camp, Barksdale, Texas, writes today his first account of routine in connection with opening of Camp Fawcett. Results of swimming contests and other interesting information will follow during the course of the camp.

With the regular annual Boy Scout Camp started Tuesday, June 6, the encampment being at Camp Fawcett near Barksdale, Texas, many definite improvements have been made.

At the suggestion of leading health officers of the country, the camp program has been changed to allow more time for sleep, first call being scheduled at 7:00. This is forty minutes later than the old program and is considered by all as a much-needed improvement. Not only does the longer period of sleep make for a healthier, happier group of scouts, but it also permits a much more efficient daily program, with all boys actively participating.

First call sounds at 7:00 a. m. with reveille ten minutes later. Breakfast is at 7:45. After inspection, an activity period, and swim, lunch is served at 12:30. Rest period, activities, hikes, and swim are followed by supper at 5:45. Taps is sounded at 9:30 p. m. after a general play period and campfire program.

The camp has a well-prepared, well-rounded day, necessitating a large amount of restful sleep. Another convenience for the camp is the addition of twelve new wall-tents. Other tents in first-class condition supplement the large requirement for shelters.

The camp this year has also taken great steps in sanitation. The water, which is of high-test, is, for safety chlorinated every day. Instead of the old system of drying the dishes after washing, they are placed in a perforated tub which is dipped into a larger tub of boiling water and left for two minutes. When taken out, the water quickly evaporates, leaving a cleaner, more sanitary dish. All tableware is done this way.

Tuesday at noon, only thirty-nine boys and men were in camp, the largest group being the twenty-five from Midland. However, troops have been steadily arriving during the afternoon, and over one hundred boys and men are expected before Wednesday.

We Have a Career Service

For years, students of government have been crying out for a permanent civil service in the United States government, "something like the admirable British civil service."

So much shouting has been going on about federal jobs as patronage awards that, as in so many cases, the thing sought has been gradually growing up and is well on the way to accomplishment while reformers are still demanding it.

These facts about the federal service have been revealed by two Columbia professors, Arthur W. Macmahon and John D. Millett, after studying 62 units of 10 great government departments:

The average head of a government bureau is 58, has served as a chief for 16 years, came up through the ranks of government employes, attended an institution of higher learning, and has made a life career of government service.

Which shows that much more than a beginning of a "British-type professional service" is already well established in the United States government.

How Much Freedom?

With Fascists and Communists vying with each other in trying to impress the country with the other's dangerousness, we are probably in for a flood of restrictive laws against both.

How far can a democracy go in defending itself against subversive elements without sacrificing the freedom essential to its own nature? That question is going to lie at the bottom of all such efforts.

No sane person questions the right and the duty of every government to protect itself against forcible and irregular overturn. This is especially an obligation of such a government as our own, which makes adequate provision for orderly change whenever the majority wish it.

One could go farther and fare worse than to turn to the words of the late Justice Holmes in defining his idea of proper limitation of free speech:

"The question in every case is whether the words used are used in such circumstances and are of such a nature as to create a clear and present danger that they will bring about the substantive evil that the state has a right to prevent. It is a question of proximity and degree."

Get Your Safe Conduct

(Abilene News) — If you're a Texan and plan to drive your car across the state line, you'd better see the head of the nearest highway patrol district and get a safe conduct.

You'll need it, because the driver's license you carry expired April 1 and constables and patrolmen of other states may ruin you.

By common consent and extraordinary decree the license is still good, but non-Texans may not know it.

So the state safety commission advises you to get a letter from the district patrol office, setting forth that all Texas driver's licenses are valid in spite of the fact that they expired last April 1.

This fine kettle of fish results from failure of the legislature to enact a new license law to take the place of the one which expired over two months ago. Sporadically the lawmakers have taken up and considered the matter, but without result. It still hangs fire somewhere in the two houses. Chief bone of contention has been the proposal to give the safety commission authority to suspend driving rights pending disposition of traffic charges. Some of the solons would compel the commission to go into court and get an order before suspending a driver, as under the old law. The new law would put the monkey on the law violator's back, by compelling him to go into court and prove his right to drive if the privilege has been suspended for cause. Some states have that provision; it is a part of the uniform code which Texas so badly needs to adopt.

Don't forget your safe conduct, or passport, if you plan a trip. You might need it to stay out of jail.

Vocations with Best Outlook Enumerated by Roger Babson.

Opportunities for Today's Graduates Told by Economist

By ROGER W. BABSON (Copyright, 1939, Publishers Financial Bureau.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9.—This month the supply of workers in the United States and Canada will be swelled by a huge wave of over 2,000,000 school and college students. Getting these young people employed is a serious task. However, I believe that if parents analyze their children and attack this problem intelligently, it can be solved. Certainly, conditions are much better today than a year ago. Six fields.

Opportunities for today's graduates may be divided into six groups: (1) Agricultural, (2) Professional, (3) Building, (4) Manufacturing, (5) Selling, (6) Finance. I have never seen a young person who was not fitted for one of these groups. It is much more important to ascertain whether a boy is best adapted to selling or to teaching, than it is to ascertain whether the chemical industry or transportation offers the best opportunities. For which of these six divisions is a child, by inheritance, training, and environment, best fitted? That is the problem which parents and teachers must answer.

Many readers have written me asking my advice as to the best fields for their newly-graduated children to enter at this time. In reply, I say it is easy to select an industry, such as air-conditioning, as offering the best opportunity at the moment. On the other hand, if this is generally recognized, air-conditioning will become overcrowded. Contrariwise, if the general feeling is that the investment business no longer has good opportunities, this very fact may cause it to offer excellent opportunities for the few who enter it. Therefore, I will name twelve industries all of which look good to me. I will endeavor, moreover, to list these in the order of their importance.

(1) Air-Conditioning. I especially have in mind air-conditioning of new small houses and selling individual air-conditioning units. Hotels, offices, restaurants, and stores in the south and central west must adopt air-conditioning to survive.

(2) Chemicals. Most chemical companies are already prosperous, while the future offers untold possibilities. Were I eighteen years of age, I should go to a college where I could major in chemical engineering.

(3) Alloys and Plastics. Great developments are taking place in the sale and use of alloys, while the plastic industry offers tremendous opportunities. Most household articles will be made from plastics within a few years.

(4) Automatic Machinery. The mistaken attitude of labor leaders, plus the new wage and hour act, is forcing manufacturers to purchase more automatic machinery. Yet, probably not more than 20 per cent of the manufacturers are using their profitably.

(5) Merchandising. This includes stores, mail-order, advertising, and other features of selling. Wherever goods are made or whoever makes them, they must be sold, irrespective of the value of the dollar or the strength of our government. Trained merchandisers should always be in demand.

(6) Electrical Equipment. All divisions of the heavy industries, except building, are dull at the present time; but these industries must come back before the employment problem is finally solved. Manufacturers of heavy electrical equipment should be the first to prosper when this "comeback" develops.

(7) Household Equipment. There are many other new forms of household equipment which should come into general use. Ninety per cent of our homes may become obsolete within a few years. Homes will be purchased in the future, not for their appearance, but for their interior equipment.

(8) Investment Banking. With the large amount of money now piling up, the floodgates sometime must break through. "Idle money ultimately burns a hole in one pocket." After the stock exchanges are reorganized and the SEC regulations modified, the investment business will again be prosperous.

(9) Gasoline and Tires. Whether one has an old car or a new car, he must buy gasoline and tires. These are both basic and repeat industries. They are always worthy of consideration.

(10) Automobiles. Although the automobile has come to stay, the market is temporarily over-saturated. It is a sound and fundamental industry, but it may not offer the opportunities which it did twenty years ago.

(11) Automobile Accessories. The above criticism does not apply to auto accessories,—that is, manufacturers specializing in parts and gadgets for automobiles. These have a broad base to work upon. Their manufacture does not require a great capital.

(12) Real Estate and Building. I am very bearish on old houses; but some day there will be a building boom of small modern houses. The current revival may well be the beginning of the boom. Prefabricated houses interest me greatly. I also believe there will be a great demand for small farms, especially in the vicinity of college towns.

Another Suggestion. Instead of waiting until war comes and then have your children used for cannon fodder, is it not much better for them to make a little sacrifice now and train for home defense work? I have in mind that they become experts on gas masks, anti-aircraft guns, nursing, and other protective lines. Finally, let me say that it is far more important for children to develop character, health, desire for babies and for land, than to select any definite industry!

Tragedy at Sea

FAILURE OF MACHINERY

FAILURE OF MAN

BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, June 8. — Dr. Francis E. Townsend is going full steam ahead with a smashing attack to send back to private life all of the congressmen who voted against the Townsend bill after previously having accepted Townsend support.

He is undertaking to do this through a carefully-planned maneuver which will, he believes, have a direct effect at the polls in the next election.

"Flying squadrons" of Townsend Club organizers are being sent into the field. They will work by congressional districts, taking selected members in turn, covering them thoroughly and aiming to establish in short order from 50 to 60 new clubs in each district. Work has already got under way in southern Illinois, and Texas is the next state in line; thence the squadrons will move into the middle west and New England.

In each case, the organizers will select some district represented by a congressman who is looked on by the Townsends as a turncoat—that is, one who received Townsend support at the last election but voted for the defeat of the Townsend bill when it came up in the House the other day.

HE GOT HIS COUNT OF NOSES.

DR. TOWNSEND doesn't know, offhand, just how many of these there are; he'll have to check his records, he says. He recalls that 151 members of this Congress were elected with Townsend support. Of the 97 who actually voted for the bill, quite a few were members who had received no Townsend support and had made no pledges; the doctor suspects that if all his "pledgers" had voted his way the bill would have received upwards of 175 votes.

Meanwhile, he is not discouraged by the bill's defeat. He says he got all he expected to get—a count of noses. He knows now whom to sharpen his knife for. And, meanwhile, he says his organizational work is booming.

During May, before the new flying squadrons were organized, 600 new Townsend clubs were organized. This makes a total of 2000 new clubs since the first of the year, he says. The 25-cent membership cards are now being signed at a rate of 6,000 per day; about half of these are renewals of old memberships, and the rest represent new members. During one ten-day period in a recent month, 141 new clubs were organized in communities which had never had any Townsend clubs before.

The national convention of the Townsends is scheduled for Indianapolis, June 22. Dr. Townsend predicts this will be just about the biggest political convention ever held in America; there will be upwards of 14,000 delegates, he says, and several times that many members who are not delegates but want to listen in on the proceedings.

He calls it a "political convention" advisedly. For he is giving serious consideration to the thought of launching a third political party.

OFFERS BOTH PARTIES EQUAL CHANCE.

"Mr. J. B. Howell, Custodian, The Scharbauer Hotel, Midland, Texas.

Dear Friend:
Understand you are the Straw Boss for a lodging house there in Midland. Heard some mention of a Lions gathering on your premises May 3, 4, 5, or 5, 6, 7, next 1940. Now I ain't aming to bunk down in the open; goin' to put me on some dog; so kick that cracker box lid out the window, sweep out the extra cell, fine up the cob box and hang my name on the hook. I'll see how it feels to sleep under a roof during a convention.

May be late when I bail out at the stock loading chute the day this brawl begins; the T-P freight ain't running West on time no more; so if you leave the key to my stall hanging there on the nail by the wash stand (the nail where the comb is tied in front of the mirror) I'll just ankle on in.

Oh yes, Mr. Howell, if your dump is 2 stories (and I don't like altitude either) and you have to put me upstairs; then don't put me over the kitchen, the flies are bad in the Spring and I don't like the smell of cabbage cooking.
Don't know much about the rules of traveling folks in boarding houses (however I play dominoes and know a couple of jokes about a traveling salesman and the farmer's daughter) and if you have to have any of your rent on tap, I'll pay you a Buck as soon as Mr. O'Daniel sends me my $30.00 for last month. Wish you would send me one of them post cards with a picture on

Although classifying cats as rugged individuals, Dr. Diserens wants it understood that felines have a genuine capacity for gratitude. He says this fact may often be noted during and after medical treatment, when they become deeply grateful and very often more affectionate.

Some cats are aggressive, some are lazy; some like to fight, some avoid scraps; some appear to think philosophically and more think quickly and practically. Dr. Diserens says, but all display individual personalities as distinct as those of human beings, he adds.

Jury Service Excuses All Seem to Be Weighty

AKRON, O. (U.P.) — George W. Crouse, Jr., thinks he has some good reasons for not doing jury service.

Appearing before Clerk of Courts V. T. Bender, Crouse put it this way:

"I'm secretary of an insurance company, so attorneys never let me serve on damage cases, and I don't like to play cards, so there's nothing for me to do but sit around. Furthermore, I'm a farmer, and this is the farmer's busy season."
Clerk Bender, a farmer himself, said the thought Crouse's dismissal might be arranged.

Paul's Proposal for Solution of Church Problems Effective Today

Editor's Note: The following discussion of this week's Sunday school lesson is printed here through courtesy of J. Fred Cooke, teacher of the Business Men's class of the Methodist church.

I. Cor. 1:1-3-10-11. I. Cor. 4:14-21. I. Thess. 5:12-15.

His solution for church problems are praying for grace and peace, being in the same mind and judgment, leaders not to humiliate (but to warn), by being a leader so morally pure and wise that they can say, "Follow me," leaders who visit and know their congregation to keep them from being puffed, by the church members knowing their leader, and seeing that none render evil to any one. A careful observation of these rules and techniques will lead a church to a greater influence in the solution of world society.

1. Praying for grace is where unmerited favor and equanimity work in the hearts of men. If you have not had the grace or love of God in your heart and life heretofore, prayer will bring just that to you. As the motto seen yesterday in a home, which read, "Prayer changes things." For prayer does alter things which are bad and unbecoming by bringing the love and unmerited favor of God to rebuke the unseemly, and lend dignity and place to that which is good, (along with peace of conscience). Cited examples are when God would destroy the Children of Israel for their wickedness, but Moses in prayer changed the mind and purpose of God who spared the Children of Israel, the people in sackcloth and ashes changed the purpose of God and spared the city of Nineveh, Jerusalem, with dismay and terror spreading in every home because of Sennacherib's boasting from his encampment just outside the city gate was comforted after Hezekiah had called all to prayer in sackcloth and ashes. Prayer brought peace and the unmerited favor of God upon these people, by the death angel passing over and slaying 185,000 men and those who thought evil of God's chosen people.

"For the angel of death spread his wings on the blast and breathed in the face of the foe as he passed and the might of the gentile unsundered by the sword Hath melted like snow in the glance of the Lord."

And as the sun arose upon Jerusalem's homes, temple, and mansions the next morning they could sing with David, "Peace be within thy walls and prosperity within thy palaces." Prayer changes things: Paul thought it altered things when he said to the doctrine-disturbed Corinthians, "Grace be unto you and peace from God the Father."

2. The presence of the Holy Spirit will make good men have the same mind and judgment. E. Stanley Jones said that the Church would have been saved from centuries of disagreement if they had sought the leadership of the Divine Spirit. He asserts that before the coming of the Spirit of Pentecost the disciples used the lot method in their deliberations, but after that time they sought the will of the Lord through inspiration. The world takes very little interest in doctrinal differences, but it spends a good deal of time in advertising small minds quarreling over ceremonies and forgetting the Spirit who ought to give ceremonies their values. "Public servants, social organizations, interdenominational work are hampered because they have to take into account petty little feuds arising between those who say they represent the patient and kindly Nazarene. If we put our mind in proper attitude to receive the Spirit, He will give direction to thought and bring us to the same judgment. At Pentecost they had no leader and when they were all, all, all, yes when they were all filled with the Holy Ghost they spoke as the Spirit gave them utterance. And their actions were prompted by the Divine from that time onward. So we see God standing by advising that they continue in a certain place, as in Corinth; a night vision is the case at Troas; the Spirit testifying to Paul that bonds and afflictions await him, as in his journey in Jerusalem. The Spirit fell on all in the upper room, but do all have Him now? And are all led by Him now? Yes, the promise is unto you and to your children and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." The Spirit calls all and all who accept the call are in agreement and by Him are led.

3. A leader should not humiliate but should warn others as a father or teacher, not with that autocratic air which some parents show to their heirs but with that love and interest which is manifested by all good sires. What true teacher would intentionally put a stumbling block in the way of a student? Not like the tutor who in order to humiliate a pupil called the boy, "Farmer Brown." But similar to the professor who encouraged their fourteen year old boy who had not had good school advantages. He even looked over the youth playing hooky a few times because he did not want to go to class to expose his ignorance. "Reprove, even rebuke, but with all long suffering and doctrine." All Paul's admonition to the Galatians is to the point when he says, "Brethren, if any be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual, restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself lest thou also be tempted." No independent booster would be able to lead another into the truth.

4. Of course the best leaders are like Paul who could say, "Follow me as I follow Christ." Not many such front rank soldiers of Christ are under your and my observation. Would that there were such a man who could truthfully and without egotism say that they were followers of the Christ; if there were, many would be attracted and turn to the Savior as a result of that light that is within us. Let us remember if we do not strive to be a good example we will be a bad influence for, at least, some whom we contact. Like the little four year old who stumbled around his father's knee swinging to his dad's hand, at the same time using curse words. The man said, in a low tone to a friend nearby, "I will never curse again." Some are following dad the wrong way.

Men, doesn't it make you feel like saying, "By the help of God I will never swear nor sin again?" Polk, let us strive to enter into the straight gate, following in the pure path provided by our Lord and we shall not go alone. We will then not go without the beautiful golden sheaves.

"Will you go and empty handed Will you meet your Savior so? Not one soul with which to greet Him"

Will you empty handed go? What you say? Will we not help somebody to enter in while we have an opportune time?

5. It will help greatly in the solution of church problems for the leaders as well as others to visit so that they may know as well as others, aspirations, struggles, ambitions, and feelings toward the Church and our

in his church, but be acquainted with those in other churches and those especially who are lost sinners outside the pale of any organized Christian congregation. Personal contact with men will help in this regard. Any person who is never contacted by Christian people will become alienated from those who call themselves by the name of Christ. Many there are in this world who have never been told in that warm-hearted spiritual way about the Christ who should be the guest of every home and every man, woman, and child of the several walks of life. Get acquainted with your sinners, friends. You might like them. You may find them as conscientious and responsive to the Christ Spirit as you.

"Make friends of God's children" And sinners who are weak. Forgetting in nothing Their friendship to seek.

6. Then too, men should know their preacher. He may be serving you at a great sacrifice; and yet, he may be making a good showing toward maintaining the dignity of his office. Some years since there was a minister who was above the average preacher who rebuked sin in the church, and the wealthy chairman of the board with three or four others tried to embarrass him by withholding their individual support and failed to approach him on their part to care for him until his contract with the church expired. The chairman met the clergyman and didn't speak to him. The preacher walked up to him and said, "You will not ignore me in such fashion when my wife is even sewing to maintain her children respectfully while I serve as pastor of this church." It is similar to the King of Jerusalem when the city fell, according to our memory, seventy years after the coming of Christ. The Roman army besieged the city for many days. The prince of the Holy city was walking around arrayed in a gorgeous robe. Two women called to him and said, "Why do you dress thus? Come and see how we have prepared this infant for food," who was the son of one of the despondent and desperate women. The King replied, "I'm wearing this to maintain the dignity of my office and to hold up the morale of our cause." Then he pulled his outer garment back so the women could see sackcloth which he was wearing next to his bosom.

A young preacher at a recent conference said he held up an old suit between him and the sun to see if he could make the day on it. In levity he told this to express gratitude to the Ladies Missionary Society for a new suit they had presented him. Yet, the writer knows that his salary was not luxurious. Some of these ministers are interesting men and they certainly have an interesting cause to plead before the American public. Hence, you are to be congratulated if you really know their ideals, aspirations, struggles, ambitions, and feelings toward the Church and our Country.

7. One of the most effective ways to solve the church problems suggested by the world-famed apostle is to render good for evil. We must always remember that Jesus did not come just to help men attain to current and popular ideals. The righteousness of those who follow Him was to exceed the righteousness of those about them, even the best about them. They were to get above the ordinary in the matter of doing good not only to their friends; for even the publicans did that. They were to do good to their enemies and to love those who hated, and despectfully used them. They were taught to do some kindness to those who used them shamefully, in contrast with the current opinion that they should resist evil, and pay back with the same coin that was dealt. No more an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, which was the prevalent custom, but they were to love the good; yes they were to be interested in lifting up sinners and to prudently help them from this evil way. And their interest was to be so much in the erring ones, that this interest would deepen into sympathy, and even love.

Window Curtains Make Three-Fold Contribution

Screens in good repair not only add protection from flies and other insects but they add much to the beauty and appearance of the place. Miss Alpha Lynn, county home demonstration agent, told the Westside home demonstration club meeting with Mrs. W. T. Forehand Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The value of curtains lies not only in the color contribution they make but also in softening light and emphasizing construction lines which may give the effects of larger rooms or higher ceilings, according to their length and draping, the speaker explained.

Mrs. M. T. Walker, president of the club, was selected with Mrs. Mrs. J. A. Mead as alternate to spend June 17 visiting on the TSCW campus at Denton.

Ten minutes were devoted to recreation, with Mrs. S. L. Alexander as leader.

Refreshments were served to eight members and Miss Lynn. The members were: Mmes. J. A. Mead, Jimmy Smith, W. R. Tillman, C. C. Carden, S. L. Alexander, W. A. Conn, H. L. Albrecht, M. T. Walker and the hostess.

Twelve-ite Club Meets for Bridge And Luncheon

Pansies, larkspurs, and roses were employed as the flower motif in the entertaining rooms when Mrs. R. I. Dickey was hostess to the Twelve-ite club with a morning bridge and luncheon at her home on Louisiana street Thursday.

Guests arrived for bridge games at 10 o'clock, two tables being appointed for play.

Following the games, luncheon was served at four o'clock.

Mrs. J. R. Martin was club guest. Members present were: Mmes. J. D. Dillard, W. B. Harkrider, W. P. Knight, L. G. Mackey, Harry Prickett, W. G. Whitehouse, C. B. Truitt, and the hostess.

Mrs. John Dunagan Is Hostess to Needlecraft Club

Opening the morning's activities, coffee was served to members of the Needlecraft club when they gathered at the home of Mrs. John Dunagan, 1904 W. Wall, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

Roses, used in party rooms, gave a fragrant and festive note to the gathering.

After the coffee hour, various kinds of sewing occupied the group as the chief interest of the morning.

Present were: Mmes. O. R. Jeffers, Geo. Phillips, H. H. Watson, J. O. Vance, Jerry Norris, and the hostess.

FEMININE FANCIES

By Kathleen Eiland

That people are growing more and more to be world-citizens is evident as one considers the number of people who are making long-distance vacation trips.

Not so many years ago, a trip to California or to Chicago was an EVENT in any community. Now it is a commonplace. Europe, Mexico the Caribbean, South America, not to speak of New York and the Fair, San Francisco and its Exposition—all are places that Midland people plan for as vacation habitats.

Some people may deplore the tendency to such wanderings but we approve it. After all, if man is to savor the real joy of living in his own journey through this old world, he must not know something of the beauties of nature in other places than his birthplace? Must he not know how people feel and think and live in other areas than that with which he is familiar? We think so.

It's a queer thing to us how temperamental a lawn is. By the time we have watered it thoroughly, we find that the corner which was watered first is considering itself neglected and the little grasses are turning yellow with insult to such treatment. By the time that corner is again sufficiently wet, some other spot is flying a distress signal of drought.

It's a great life. But we apparently were not meant to be a gardener.

Not too heavy for a summer-day meal is a salad of English peas in white sauce combined with chipped cheese and apple. The cheese should be in pieces large enough for a comfortable bite and the apple ditto.

Wonder how people ever managed to exist without electric fans? And every day? And the daily newspaper?

Smart for Kitchens

Printed oil-cloth, glazed chintz and some of the new oiled silks that come in such fine gay patterns and colors are all suitable for kitchen curtains, are easy to arrange and to make, and can be washed off with a damp cloth and re-hung in a jiffy.

New "Cream" Helps Easy Does It

By ALICIA HART Nea Service Staff Writer

Beauty experts agree that make-up should be used to dramatize the natural texture of the skin — and conceal it. They advise us to wear a light film of powder — not a thick coat of it. They want our cheeks tinted — not colored; our lips colored — not painted.

Therefore treatment preparations are highlighted on cosmetic counters these days.

Particularly interesting is a new type of cleanser which, if used correctly and regularly, will remove foreign matter from enlarged pores. Once the fatty deposits are removed, the pores tend to shrink back to normal. Furthermore, the cleanser really leaves face and throat shades whiter than you've dreamed they could be.

CREAM, YET NOT A CREAM

It looks like a cream, but it isn't exactly a cream. You simply smooth a film of it on face and neck, then massage it in. When it has disappeared, moisten fingertips with lukewarm water and rub them lightly over the surface of the skin. The action of the water with the "cream" produces a thin, light lather.

Using circular motions, work the lather around and around. Then remove it with a washcloth wrung out of tepid water. Rinse skin with cold water in the usual manner. Use the cleanser only at night if your skin is quite dry and sensitive; both night and morning if you have a normal or oily complexion.

We, The Women

By RUTH MILLETT

No woman has to put up with boredom. The reason that so many do is because get-up-and-get seems to be at a premium among a certain group of women.

They are the married women who haven't any children, who hire someone else to do their housework, and who try to make clothes and "beauty" and a man reason for living.

You can't talk to such a woman for ten minutes without hearing that she is bored to death. Even sleeping late in the morning, instead of eating breakfast with her husband, doesn't help much in shortening her days.

If she has enough money she goes in for expensive fads to amuse herself—having her figure made over in a beauty salon or changing her home every time a decorator gets an idea she thinks is "amusing."

But she is bored — and usually boring.

COULD USE TIME TO BETTER PURPOSE

And there's no sense in it. There is so much she could do. A beginning would be to stop saying, "I wish I could do so-and-so." She probably could if she devoted some of her restlessness to learning.

In fact she is the woman with the perfect set-up for accomplishing things—becoming a leader in the community, turning some latent ability into a business, or becoming an expert on some subject that interests her.

With all there is in the world to be done and to be learned and to be enjoyed — a confession of boredom is a confession of dumbness.

A bullet can be photographed in flight by new, high-speed, photographic methods.

Junior Shakespeare Club Organization Is Planned Here

Mrs. Bernard K. Buffington and Miss Lydie G. Watson have been appointed Midland supervisors to head local organizations of the National Junior Shakespeare club. Invitations are being sent out and organization of the Midland clubs is expected to be carried out next week, according to Mrs. Buffington.

Nationwide in its scope, the Junior Shakespeare club is composed of children from the first through the ninth grades in school. Membership in the clubs is limited.

The organization is educational in purpose and is designed to give grade school and junior high school children a combined course in speech, dramatics, and story telling, based on the works of Shakespeare. The work is given in simplified form and in such manner as to appear like play. The course is regarded as a preparation for high school English also.

Details of the Midland organization will be given later.

COWBOYS DROP 11-INNING THRILLER TO OILERS BY 5-3 SCORE

Team Will Play Same Club Again At Pampa Tonight

The hapless Midland Cowboys battled 11 innings last night before surrendering the old game of the series to the Pampa Oilers, 5-3.

It was Bob Bailey, Pampa first baseman who is hitting about his weight, that broke up the game. With one mate aboard in the 11th, he slapped one over the left field wall to give hurler Grabek his second win in the three games played here.

The two teams left immediately after the game for Pampa where they will play tonight, tomorrow night and Sunday. The Cowboys then return home for three games against the Clovis Pioneers.

"Slim" Leonard was on the mound for the Cowboys last night and deserved to win a game if any pitcher ever did. He weakened badly in the closing innings but had held the visitors to one earned run through the regular nine innings.

Just about all the tough breaks that could fall on one club were received by the Cowboys last night. Before the game, Manager Charlie Smith received an offer to report to the Dallas club and was given his outright release by directors in order to take the offer.

Already without a business manager, that left the Cowboys high and dry for leadership. However, Joe Piet was installed as temporary manager for the second time within the past two weeks and he will serve in that capacity until another leader is procured.

Club officials announced this morning that a new manager would be here within a few days—although no definite choice has been made yet. Also, a third baseman, outfielder and another starting pitcher is being sought.

The Cowboys got off to a one run lead in the fourth inning of last night's game when Eddie Guynes blasted one over the wall in left field. The lead was increased to two runs in the seventh when two hits, an error and a fielder's choice led Johnny Volk cross home plate.

The Oilers came back with one in the eighth on consecutive singles by Reeves, Seitz and Nell. Nell's hit was deep into left field and only a relay by Guynes to home from

The Cowboys got their final run in the eighth when Guynes singled, stole second and came home on a single by Joe Piet, who had gone into the game when first baseman Wooten was chased by Umpire Capps.

The Oilers got a couple of breaks in the ninth to tie up the game. Summers, first man up, reached first when Blair made a low throw to first on his grounder. Pietras singled and both were moved up a notch by Bailey's sacrifice hit. Cross popped out to Volk at first but Beavers, sent in to hit for hurler Hutton, lined one down over third base to send both runners home.

Grabek went into the game for the Oilers and got the only three men to face him in the ninth out in order. After Pampa had got two men on base in the tenth without scoring, Grabek again retired the Cowboys: one, two, three. Pietras led off in the eleventh for Pampa with a walk and Bailey hit the one that broke up the game.

Volk singled with two out in the last half of the frame but was forced by pinch hitter Brown to end the game.

Several Good Bouts Lined Up For Fight Card Tonight at Club

Winning fighters on tonight's amateur boxing card will be fighting for a chance to represent at the all-state tournament at City on June 23-24.

Eleven bouts have been lined up for tonight's show, to be staged at the Midland Athletic Club beginning at 8:30, and eight of the boys will get their chance to enter the state tournament.

The local team will be directed by Bob Royall and trained by Benny Wilson, former American middleweight champion. All expenses for the boys will be paid to the tournament.

Efforts were being continued today to land an opponent for Earl Pace on tonight's card. Pace is rapidly rounding into one of the best welterweights in this part of the state and if an opponent can be procured for him fans are assured of getting their money's worth.

A grudge fight that should stop a lot of argument by the two principals is that slated tonight between Brooks Roberts and a Mexican mauler by the name of Armando Gueterz. These two boys have been anxious for a get together since each won a bout at the AAU tournament held here.

Baseball's Popularity Threatened by Softball Games

First of four stories on softball, America's fastest growing sport.

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD, NEA Service Sports Writer.

Baseball's kid brother has grown up and the 65,000,000 fans who will watch softball played this summer should be proof enough that the sport soon may be recognized as the most popular in the country.

That many people, plus more than 10,000,000 active participants, can't be wrong. However, the tremendous appeal softball has for spectators will not harm baseball; instead, many competent observers feel it will prove a very valuable adjunct to the national game.

Opinions differ as to whether softball will prove a training ground for big league baseball material, but it is agreed that softball has done so much to arouse interest in baseball as a sport that the big leagues are bound to benefit commercially.

This, despite the fact that in many cities softball games outnumber baseball games by thousands. George Sisler, who reputedly made a small fortune by organizing softball in St. Louis after he concluded his major league career, is foremost among those who do not regard softball as a big league talent feeder.

HENRICH KELTNER WERE SOFTBALL STARS.

"EVEN though softball requires just as much skill," he points out, "the difference in size of the playing field, and the ball, call for a definite technique. Unless a boy has had a lot of previous hardball experience, he will find it difficult to adapt himself to actual baseball."

Heinie Groh, New York Giant scout, concurs. He says youngsters realize this, and those who have their eyes on big league careers and the fat salaries to be made therein are passing up softball for baseball.

Softball players, however, have gone to major league stardom. Tommy Henrich of the Yanks and Ken Keltner of the Indians are two outstanding examples, having played the game in Massillon and Milwaukee, respectively.

A small minority, headed by Joe Corbin, manager of the Red Sox, contend that softball is a natural step toward baseball — provided the boy doesn't wait too long before entering the hardball field.

SOFTBALL A PRODUCT OF THE DEPRESSION.

SOFTBALL, largely a product of

Speed... action... color! Just three of the reasons why softball has hit the heights in popularity.

the depression, received its big impetus from the fact it could be played in less room with less equipment, which in turn meant less expense.

The Amateur Softball Association of America did much to organize the sport by standardizing rules, receiving sanction of the National A. A. U. and promoting the world series of softball which is held in Chicago each year. Here the finest softball teams in the land compete for what is tantamount to the world's amateur championship.

It has become a natural sports opportunity in school, church, city and industrial leagues. Parks equipped for night games have sprung up all over the country.

Crowds as large as 30,000 have witnessed nocturnal contests in Los Angeles. Night games give fans who don't get a chance to see league baseball games in the afternoon an opportunity to sit in on their favorite pastime.

Finals at the softball world series in Chicago have drawn more than 35,000. In St. Louis, Cleveland, Rochester, Detroit, Los Angeles, and other softball hotbeds, crowds at night games frequently exceed the turnstile figures of a major league contest played that same afternoon.

GIRLS' TEAMS LEAD ADDITIONAL COLOR.

POSSIBLY the greatest contributing factor to softball's success was the advent of feminine competition. Not only do they add a dash of color with their modern scanty uniforms, but the better girls' teams play a brand of ball that is almost unbelievably fast.

Speed throughout has been the keynote of softball. Rules are about 90 per cent the same as baseball, but the game is staged on a smaller diamond. Instead of the old 14-inch ball that was popular a few years back, the game is played with a 12-inch ball that is far from soft. All players but the pitcher wear gloves. There's nothing soft about softball as the better teams play it.

The Detroit recreation department, making a study of softball growth in the Motor City, was amazed at its findings. The ratio is 8 to 1 over hardball. More than 51,000 players play on 3400 softball teams, as compared to 6588 performers with 366 organized hardball clubs.

Detroit has 214 softball diamonds, and they are so much in demand that five permits a day are granted every day for each.

The trend is much in the same direction throughout the country. Baseball's kid brother is much more than a novelty.

Golf Tourney Of Collegians Opens June 26

DES MOINES, Ia. (UP)—An expected 200 college student golfers will battle it out for individual and team championships on the difficult Wakonda country club course in the 42nd national collegiate golf tournament June 26 to July 1.

It will be the first time the championships have been held west of the Mississippi river. The course should test the collegians' mettle as thoroughly as any of the eastern courses which have been favored with a majority of the previous meets.

The Wakonda course is long and hazardous. Naturally par is 73 for 6,416 yards, but the course has been lengthened to 6,536 yards and the perfect figure reduced to 72.

Because of the high caliber field usually attracted by the tournament, Jack Walsh, Wakonda professional since 1922, predicts several par-shattering cards. The course record of 66 was set by Pat Sawyer, Birmingham, Mich., pro, in 1936. Clarence Yockey, Kansas City, turned in a 65 last summer, but he was not playing tournament rules.

Course Called Fair

"The course seems to scare a lot of golfers, but I don't think it is more difficult than any of the other first class courses in the country," Welsh said.

"The boys will have to hit them just right to keep in the running, but I expect several of them will shoot 70."

Although none of the holes should prove easy, Welsh admitted at least seven of them would really

Texas Tops States in Getting Federal Cash for Wildlife Restoration Aims

AUSTIN.—Texas is ahead of all other States in the amount of money reserved to date from the Federal government for wildlife restoration purposes, the Game Department was advised today by the American Wildlife Institute.

A total of $53,600, three-fourths of it Federal money, will have been spent during the fiscal year ending July 31 for wildlife restoration in Texas under terms of the Pittman-Robertson "Federal-Aid-To-Wildlife" Act passed in 1937. Pennsylvania ranks second with a total of $52,383 available at present for game work. The total cost of Texas' five-year game project now under way will be $300,000, approximately twice as much as will be made available to any other State included in the last American Wildlife Institute report.

The Pittman-Robertson Act earmarked for wildlife a fund of approximately $3,000,000 annually, an amount equal to the Federal excise tax on arms and ammunition. The money is being allotted the various States through their Game Departments, which were invited to submit projects for the approval of the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey and the Secretary of Agriculture.

Texas was one of the first States to submit a project—a long-range statewide wildlife survey, demonstration and management program intended to last five years, its purpose being to determine what makes certain species of wildlife click, and, with this information at hand, to launch game bird and animal restoration programs as soon as possible.

The project won immediate approval of Federal authorities and was started in August 1938, with 13 trained wildlife experts in the field, directed by a supervisor. The Federal government allotted $40,200 for the project, and the Game Department matched it with $13,400, as required by a regulation that each State must match Federal funds in the ratio of 1 to 3 on each project.

The research phase of the Texas program, described as the first ever proposed on a large scale, won national attention and was imitated by several States, notably Missouri and New York. Of 25 States listed as participating in the Pittman-Robertson program June 1, 17 had research programs of some kind under way.

The program in Texas is expected to go a long way toward providing the sportsman more game to hunt and more fish to catch, Department heads asserted.

5th, 6th, 9th, 10th, 14th and 16th. A par 5, No. 5 is 491 yards of rolling hills, necessitating an excellent drive and second shot. No. 6 is considered by many Wakonda golfers as one of the toughest holes of the course. It is hilly, interspersed with traps almost the full 423 yards, and has a fence

A remarkable camera effect obtained during the opening day of the Belmont Park, L. I., races makes this set of horses look as if they were cast in bronze for an equestrian statue group.

Par 3 Hole Tricky

Golfers with a hook should be wary of No. 9, a par three 195-yard hole. A good tee shot will put a player on the green, but a hook means out-of-bounds and plenty of trouble.

Nos. 10 and 16 are 435 and 403 yards, respectively, and both are par 4s. Water hazards comprise the main difficulty on No. 10, while the left, combines with bad roughs to bother one on No. 16.

An elevated green demands an accurate tee shot if a par three is to be carded on the 173-yard No. 14.

The remaining holes of average difficulty range a 130-yard par 3 to a 529-yard par 4.

Water Hazards on Five Holes

Five holes have water hazards and the rough throughout the course is treacherous, although not particularly tall.

Early indications are for an excellent field. Johnny Burke of Georgetown will defend the title he won last year at Louisville. Included among his keenest competitors will be Bob Babbish of Detroit University, who won the western amateur championship last year, and Bert McDowell of Louisiana State.

Stanford University also will be on hand to defend its team championship. Jack Wallace, Bill Boyd, and Art Doering virtually were certain to be mainstays on the team again.

Several entrants already have tried a few practice rounds on the course, but they have been confined largely to the Middle West.

Clinics Reduce Misfits in Life

SHREVEPORT, La. (U.P.)—National polls, recently popularized as instruments of political forecasts, are old stuff to psychology clinics.

Years before political parties claimed pre-election victories on the basis of national polls, manufacturers were gauging production schemes two years in advance from information collected through psychology clinics.

Records here in the clinic of Prof. C. L. Odom, psychologist at Centenary College, reveal that the business polls for automobile makers were within 1 per cent of perfect.

Prof. Odom, instructor here for 10 years, now is working for his Doctor's degree at Columbia University in New York City. He started the clinic as a division of his psychology department. It soon outgrew the department and became a separate enterprise.

One of Earliest Clinics

It was the first clinic outside of New York and Chicago. Now there are others in Denver, St. Louis, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

People who want to know what their professions should be go through the clinic. Students receive aptitude tests, advice on vocational guidance.

More than 100 charts and questionnaires are used on those who go through the clinic. The psychologists say they can tell positively when a patient is lying because the patient will contradict himself several times in the course of tests unless he tells the truth.

Misfits Are Readjusted

In the clinic's files are many cases of readjustments of misfits in business, of students preparing for professions in which they were least capable. There is the case of one youth whose parents were pushing him through pre-medical for a medical career.

After two years of poor grades and little interest in pre-medical the youth was sent through the psychology clinic. The parents were advised they might as well take the youth out of college and turn him out to care for himself; that he most likely would have his own store of his own in a few years.

The prediction was accurate. That youth now is a happy business man in a small Louisiana town.

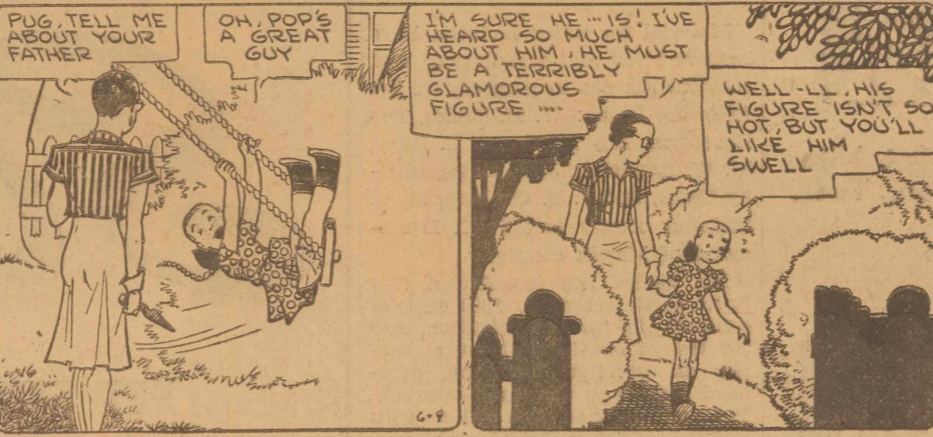

Prof. Odom will return to Shreveport next year to teach one or two classes at Centenary and devote the rest of his time to clinical work. He will be in charge of research and investigations in Louisiana and Arkansas to the Psychology Corporation of America.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

I KNOW YOU HAD YOUR HEART SET ON TAKING YOUR ORCHESTRA TO SOME MOUNTAIN RESORT THIS SUMMER.

THAT'S RIGHT, POP!

OF COURSE, A JOB LIKE THAT DOESN'T HOLD MUCH PROMISE OF ADVANCEMENT, SUCH AS MR. GIMLET MIGHT HAVE OFFERED.

BUT YOU'VE COOKED YOUR GOOSE WITH MR. GIMLET, AND SINCE I DON'T WANT YOU WASTING YOUR TIME HERE THIS SUMMER, I GUESS YOU'LL HAVE TO GO TO THE MOUNTAINS!

I KNOW THAT NEWS IS QUITE A BLOW TO YOU, BUT TRY TO BRACE UP!—I COULDN'T BEAR TO FACE YOUR LOOK OF DISAPPOINTMENT!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with MAJOR HOOPLE, OUT OUR WAY

SCHOOLS OUT, UNCLE AMOS, AND AM I GLAD! NO MORE JAIL FOR 90 DAYS! I HOPE SOMETHING SERIOUS HAPPENS SO I NEVER HAVE TO GO TO SCHOOL AGAIN! UNCLE AMOS, IF I GET LUMBAQO LIKE YOU, COULD I STAY OUT OF SCHOOL? WILLIE CROCKER SAYS THAT NEXT LABOR DAY, JUST BEFORE SCHOOL BEGINS, HE'S GOIN' TO TRY TO CATCH THE GOUT FROM HIS UNCLE JULIUS!

HAW, ALVIN, MY LAD! YOU SHOULD SEIZE YOUR VACATION AS A CHANCE TO IMPROVE EACH SHINING HOUR! AT YOUR AGE I PEPPELED TOY BALLOONS TO FINANCE MY EXPERIMENTS WHICH BLAZED THE WAY FOR THE WRIGHT BROTHERS' CONQUEST OF THE AIR! INSTEAD OF TAKING SILLY SUGGESTIONS FROM WILLIE CROCKER, PATTERN YOURSELF AFTER THE GREAT SCIENTISTS—LIKE GALILEO FOR EXAMPLE, WHO DISCOVERED IN THE SWAYING LAMP'S OF A CATHEDRAL THE LAW OF THE PENDULUM!
