Greek Refugees Flee Italian Guns After Shell-Fire

Hundreds Destitute in City Squares of Corfu Include Many Armenians

CORFU, Island of Corfu, Sept. 4.—With their meagre belongings piled about them, hundreds of refugees, whose quarters were made uninhabitable by the Italian bombardment, are sleeping in the open squares and along the streets. The Armenians who fled from the Turks have found a refuge here under the patronage of American and British charities.

The wounded, most of whom are children, are being treated in the civil and Near East relief hospitals on the island.

It is contended by the local authorities that the Italians fired after they had instructed the Greek prefect to ask the government at Athens to reconsider its refusal to surrender the island and before the time had elapsed for a reply to be received. The local Greeks make much of the remark attributed to an Italian officer, "Are there any British hurt?"

The specific clauses were included in the Italian demand for surrender. They were:

The Greek flag to be hauled down.

The Italian flag to be hoisted and saluted by 21 guns.

Command of the island to be taken over by the Italians.

Barracks to be surrendered by the Greek troops and the Greek gendarmes to be disarmed.

Depots of arms, munitions and military effects to be surrendered.

Greek soldiers to be disarmed and concentrated.

Barrack to be provided for the Italian troops of occupation.

Immediate suspension of telegraph, telephone and postal facilities.

Control of communications and transportation to be given to the Italians.

These demands were refused by the Greeks and it was their non-acceptance that caused the Italians to bombard the place. The Italians have expressed their regret over the casualties and have offered to make reparations to the families of the sufferers.

Word Clash at League Conference by Italian and Greek Delegates

By The Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 4.—A high political drama was played at Geneva today when Greece appeared before a hurriedly convoked public session of the council of the League of Nations and announced terms for a settlement with Italy. The Greek proposals were as follows:

"The Greek government suggests:

"Firstly, that the council should appoint one or more neutral representatives, (A) to superintend in Greece the judicial inquiry which the Greek authorities have already begun, and also the trial of those responsible for the Janina murder; (B) assist in the work of the commission which Greece has proposed through the council of ambassador for investigating in Albania and Greece the circumstances which preceded and accompanied the crime.

"Secondly, that the council should instruct a commission composed of three high judicial authorities, Greek, Italian and neutral—for example, the president of the Swiss federal tribunal, or the president of the permanent court of international justice—to meet as soon as possible at Geneva to settle the amount of indemnities which is just that we should pay the families of the victims.

"Thirdly, that the council should agree that the Greek government forthwith deposit in a bank in Switzerland fifty million lire as a guarantee for the immediate payment of whatever indemnity may be decided upon."

Delegates Clash

Those who succeeded in entering the council chamber witnessed a courteous but wordy clash between Signor Salandra and M. Politis, Italian and Greek delegates, respectively, in amiably tossing of oil on the troubled waters by Lord Robert Cecil, and witnessed also a proceeding which puts up to Italy for the second time the question as to whether she will accept in any form whatsoever the assistance of the league in regulating her differences with Greece.

M. Politis, who was born and reared in Corfu, speaking in Greek with a pronounced Corfu accent, placed his second stroke today with a fine Grecian touch, but Signor Salandra, always jolly and smiling, in keeping with the league atmosphere of conciliation and good humor, won his point in insisting that in presenting his new proposals that Politis should not indulge in the togensics of Demosthenes, but get down to bald facts, without attempting to argue the justice of the Grecian cause.

M. Politis then proposed the new Greek suggestion, adding that this indemnity was the amount Italy originally demanded.

There was tragedy in the air but Lord Robert saved the situation by suggesting that the Greek leader put his plan in writing immediately. M. Politis and his colleagues retired and returned shortly with the Greeks' new solution.

This latest project, which would mean direct negotiation with Italy, but through the medium of the council, does not involve bringing into play the league ministry, as provided in the covenant, but if accepted by Italy would probably satisfy the league leaders, whose goal is a peaceful settlement. As the proposition involves the council of ambassadors, its text was telegraphed to Paris, to get the ambassadorial body's views. The Italians did not disclose their view on the Greek proposals.

COAL CONFERENCE TO BE CONTINUED

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 4.—Miners and operators charged with working out a new wage contract between the workers and mine owners tonight were preparing to resume their conferences tomorrow at Harrisburg, where they were temporarily suspended last Saturday. The best information obtainable here was that neither side has changed its position, and unless Governor Pinchot has some new idea to present to bring about settlement and end the suspension of mining, the negotiations may last longer than generally was expected.

The wage question is the big issue.

Reports from the coal fields today where the suspension started last Friday night, when the contract signed in September, 1922, expired, indicated that no coal is being mined.

ARREST SIX IN DRIVE TO STOP SAFE CRACKING

Police Chief Threatens To Put All Idle Men Behind Bars

IDLERS MUST GO

Plenty of Work in Cotton Fields for Those Who Want It, He Says

Six suspects were arrested early Tuesday morning by Dave May, chief of detectives and Detective John Boone, in a drive to break up the series of safe crackings and store entries by burglars.

The police department, according to Chief Hodgins, is going to put every man that is not working behind the bars. "There is no need for any idleness in Wichita Falls now. With farmers paying high prices for cotton pickers, everybody can have a job who wants one. If all the suspects who won't work are locked up, this thieving business will stop," Hodgins said.

CHANGE IS MADE IN HUNTING LAW

An important change in the laws of Texas which govern the hunting of game in season, is pointed out by Harris H. Roberts, deputy game and fish commissioner. Formerly the law made made it possible for a man to hunt game in his own county without hunting license, but the law, as it now reads, provides that no one shall be permitted to hunt anywhere other than on his own premises without a license.

Every hunter should also acquaint himself with the seasons during which game may be hunted, as ignorance of the law does not excuse a violator. The open seasons on game were printed in full by The Record News last Sunday.

PRAIRIE DOGS MAY GET 38 ARRESTED

Prairie dog extermination will begin in Wichita county on an extensive scale as a result of the county commissioners' ruling Tuesday that Sheriff Pat Murphy should arrest every land owner in the county who is making no effort to get rid of the dogs.

A total of 38 names of land owners was submitted to the commissioners Tuesday. It was claimed these were allowing prairie dogs to infest their lands. The commissioners took the viewpoint that unless the landowners all over the county obeyed the prairie dog extermination law it was useless for only a few to try to rid themselves of the pests.

The names were turned over to Sheriff Murphy with instructions to see that these began prairie dog extermination immediately.

BUSINESS IS ON SOUNDER BASIS KELL BELIEVES

Prominent Man in 45 Minute Address Sees Better Future For All

CRUDE MUST DROP

Kay Speaks for Supreme Court As Check to New Congress Laws

"We have no impending disasters and the country is on a sound basis," Frank Kell told the members of the Technical club and their visitors at the semi-monthly meeting last night at the Wichita club, his subject being "Business Conditions."

Kell, in a 45 minute address, reviewed the financial, agricultural, political and oil situations giving a resume of the economic conditions entering into things as they are at the present time. The trend of his speech was optimistic but he did not fail to point out the worse side of present conditions as well as those that are showing up at their best.

The speaker reserved his comments regarding the local situation until the last few minutes of his address. He said that Wichita Falls had the greatest potentialities from a business standpoint of any city in the west. He paid tribute to the men who are making Wichita Falls nationally known. "I have often said that Wichita Falls is the city of young men. Men of comparatively young years have stepped in and shouldered responsibilities in the making of this city and have made a success of it," he said.

In a recent visit to Omaha, Nebraska, said he had occasion to meet representative of the chamber of commerce from every town of importance in Nebraska. He said this visit gave him an opportunity to compare chambers of commerce with the Wichita Falls chamber. He said, so far was the local chamber of commerce with its young and old business men working hand in hand on so many important matters, than those of that state it was striking.

The irrigation project was also discussed by the speaker. "It occurs to me, without that big dam which is being completed as part of the irrigation project, this city would, the last few months suffered a loss of 25 or 30 per cent of its population. The population would have been in fright at the scarcity of water. As it is now we have an inexhaustible supply of water and that danger forever past." He discussed the possibilities of the project and compared the area which will be benefitted with other sections where irrigation has come in and converted deserts to farms.

Crude Must Drop.

Speaking of the oil situation from a local standpoint, Kell said he was confident the oil situation from was gradually righting itself. He said as he saw it, the price of crude would have to go down before things could be adjusted and the refiners able to sell. "There is no more reason to think that the price of crude should stand at $2 a barrel, year in and year out, than that the price of wheat should uniformly stay at $1.50 a bushel. There are just as many circumstances to cause fluctations in the oil business as in any other business. Before the situation the oil business is now in is adjusted, I believe that the market must go down the same as in any other business."

Kell discussed agricultural conditions locally and referred especially to the cotton situation. "I know a man on a farm near here who says he is going to make seven bales of cotton this year. He has sold one bale for around $140. When the irrigation project which is now all but completed gets to functioning this same man will make 21 bales of cotton instead of seven. This goes to show how our city is going to derive benefits from the increase in agriculture ventures due to the irrigation project."

As one thing entering into his subject of "Business Conditions" Kell discussed the recognition of Mexico. He said he believed where this country was now doing 12 millions worth of business with Mexico, recognition would mean that ratio would be raised 12 million dollars or four fold. He said the establishment in Mexico of a branch office of the Eleventh federal reserve bank was now underway and that leading Mexican business men and bankers are strongly favoring the proposition. This branch of the federal reserve bank in Mexico, Kell said, would do much to stimulate financial relations between the two countries.

Flays Immigration Law.

The immigration problem in its relation to the labor situation was discussed at length. Kell said the present immigration law which he said was written and passed by organized labor was doing this country much harm. "The immigration law as it now stands does not allow the bringing in of enough high class immigrants to relieve the labor shortage," he said. Kell pointed out that the immigration law as now enforced had caused the big factory owners of the north and east to come south and

Big Airship ZR-1 Makes Successful First Trial Flight

By The Associated Press.

LAKE HURST, N. J., Sept. 4.—The rigid airship ZR-1 of the United States navy, made its first trial flight over the naval air station here late today.

The monster ship rose rapidly to a height of 1,000 feet and headed east for the Atlantic ocean. As she arose, two airplanes, one representing the army and the other the navy, left the ground to accompany the balloon on her maiden voyage.

The big ship sailed smoothly for nearly an hour, then begun circling the field at a speed of about 30 miles an hour, preparatory to landing.

After being in the air 55 minutes, the dirigible was brought to the landing field without a mishap. Great satisfaction was expressed at the flight.

Nearly 400 men were required to hold the giant ship as she was slowly dragged from the hangar. About 250 hung on the ropes while the others clung to the fore and aft ears.

Coal Strike May Make or Break Coolidge, Said

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The coal strike may make or mar President Coolidge's chances for nomination at the 1924 republican convention in the opinion of Frederick W. Upham, treasurer of the national republican committee, who let it be known on returning yesterday from abroad that Chicago, "being the geographically logical place for it," probably would be the scene of the next republican national convention. That city, he said, is the choice of a majority of the committee.

Mr. Upham predicted that President Coolidge would be nominated next year to succeed himself, if he has a chance meantime to demonstrate his ability and if he chooses to be a candidate.

"The president," he added, "has many hurdles to negotiate between now and next June and he hasn't demonstrated what he can or will do. If he seeks the nomination he will be in the position of a pole horse because he will go into the convention as the reigning head of his party."

Senator Ralston of Indiana has a great chance as a candidate for the democratic nomination, Mr. Upham said he had learned from members of the democratic national committee.

Mr. Upham predicted that Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., will be president some day "if he is not too ambitious and does not try to run toosoon."

OSAKA REPORTS NEW OUTBREAK; NIKKO IS SAFE

Water System in Tokio Repaired and Lighting Is Restored

DEAD REPORT VARIES

Estimates of Casualties Still Range from 100,000 To 500,000

By The Associated Press.

PEKING, Sept. 4.—A new volcano has broken out in the Chichibu range, about fifty miles northwest of Tokio, according to advices from Osaka.

Nikko, country seat of the imperial family, is reported not to be seriously damaged. Many foreigners were reported earlier to have been staying at Nikko when last Saturday's quake occurred.

Conditions Improving.

By The Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—Improvements in conditions in Tokio is reported in wireless advices received tonight from its Iwaki radio station, 155 miles north of Tokio, by the Radio Corporation.

The water supply system has been repaired and is furnishing water in all sections of the capital. Street lighting has been restored in four wards and food supplies have begun to arrive at nearby points.

The havoc wrought by earthquakes, fire, tidal waves and storms in Tokio, Yokohama and vicinity since Saturday noon, remained tonight as far from being accurately estimated as at any previous time, due to the isolation of the locality, to the excited condition and the sad plight of most of the survivors and to the difficulty with which such an estimate can be made.

Reports of Dead Vary.

Brief reports and messages from various sections of Japan and the Orient have made their way to the Associated Press. Estimates of the casualties during the day ranged from 100,000 to 500,000. The former figure was reported from Moscow where it was said higher estimates were believed to be exaggerations. The latter figure came to the Associated Press from Peking, where it was received by wireless from the Mitsui wireless agency of Japan.

A later estimate was received this afternoon from Shanghai which said the Eastern News agency estimated the dead in the entire stricken region at 320,000, of which 150,000 was the estimate for Tokio, 100,000 for Yokohama, 60,000 for Yokosuka and 10,000 for Atami.

All these messages are being transmitted by the Associated Press without vouching for their acuracy, realizing the difficulty in obtaining exact information and the inevitability of extreme and exaggeration accompanying such a disaster.

Great Territory Devastated.

Estimates indicate that most of the territory within a radius of 40 or 50 miles of Tokio virtually was destroyed. In this vicinity torrential rains have fallen since the earthquake and this has added to the misery of these left homeless by the successive disasters. The rains also have made the roads so nearly impassable that overland communication between Tokio and the remainder of Japan is almost impossible. A report from Shanghai, tells of a new island that has appeared near the Idzu group.

Six naval vessels arrived at Yokohama and Shinagawa (a point on the bay of Tokio, close to Shiba ward of Tokio city, one of the scenes of greatest devastation), with cargoes of rice.

Viscount Takahashi, head of the seiyukai party, who yesterday was reported to have been killed with 20 of his party followers by collapse of a building where they were holding a meeting, is safe, the advices said, as is also his residence.

216 Earthquake Shocks.

There were 216 distinct earthquake shocks experienced in Tokio last Saturday, the most sever having a duration of six minutes from first to last. There were 57 shocks the following day.

Earlier reports of the death of the Princess Kaya were denied but she was injured seriously.

An official report whose source is given is quoted to the effect that of all Yokohama only two houses remain standing, all the others having colapsed or been destroyed by fire.

Rumors and unconfirmed reports are current everywhere, few of the newspapers, even, being able to obtain confirmed information regarding the disaster, the Radio corporation's message concluded.

350,000 Homes Destroyed.

By The Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 4.—Mayor Watanabe of Yokohama, a man and his wife by the name of Skriff, believed to be attached to the American consulate and H. Horne, commercial secretary of the Yokohama British consulate, are reported to have lost their lives in the earthquake.

Latest reports from Tokio report that the devastated district of the capital extends three miles north and south and seven miles east and west. It is declared 350,000 houses were destroyed by the fire which followed the earthquake. The fire raged fifty hours before it was brought under control.

Stoner Wins Hurling Duel From Kunz, 3 to 2

TENTH INNING RALLY NETS CATS RUN WHILE SPUDDERS HELPLESS BEFORE STONER

Game is One of Fastest Seen Here This Season; Bob Bescher Hits Freak Homer Through Hole in Rightfield Fence; Kunz Twirls Brilliantly, Also

BY BILLIE SMITH.

Lil Stoner, the league's leading pitcher, pitched and batted out his own victory yesterday, beating Earl Kunz in a ten-inning hurling duel, 3 to 2. The Panthers taking the first game of their last series here this season.

Stoner held the Spudders to six blows, one of them being a home run by Bescher in the first inning, the rest were singles. He did not directly cause any Panther runners to cross the plate, but his two singles put a man in a position to score each time.

Kunz In Good Form.

Earl Kunz pitched a creditable game of baseball, but of the seven hits that he allowed, they were bunched so that two would come in the innings that resulted in every Fort Worth run. Kunz whiffed five Panther batters while his opponent whiffed seven of the Bergerites.

The most peculiar blow seen at Spudder park this season was a home run by Bob Bescher in the first inning. Bob was the first man to bat and slammed the first ball Stoner pitched through the right field wall. The ball went through the divide between the top and bottom part. The blow put the Spudders ahead for five innings.

It was a hard game for Kunz to lose, for, during the first four innings he held the vicious Cats hitless and runless. He weakened momentarily in the fifth and let Moore touch him for a single and Tavener for a double which tied the score. A walk, a forceout and two more singles scored the tying run in the seventh, and a single, a double and a sacrifice fly unknotted the count in the tenth.

Stoner Pitches Brilliantly.

But when one pitches such a steady game as did Lil Stoner it is harder still to lose. Stoner gave up but six hits and one of these being a scratch blow that scored the second run for the Spudders in the fifth. Another was Bob Bescher's freak homer through the right field fence in the first inning. Of the six hits Stoner gave up, Tanner, Bescher and Locker secured all. The crafty Cat hurler also caused seven Spudder batters to bite the dust, taking pity on no one as every one of so-called hard hitters were whiffed at least one time.

Bob Barrett and Red Williams for the Spudders and Rabbit Tavener and Ziggy Sears for the Cats furnished the fielding features of the game. Barrett handled nine chances at second and but few were easy to handle. Tavener handled and fielded cleanly eight chances at short. His stop and throw of Bischoff's apparent hit, which Rapp barely touched, was fast and bordered the sensational.

Sears and Williams made a pair of good running catches each. Sears' catch saving a run, while Williams' catch of Kraft's high fly near the fence, holding the Panther score down to three in the tenth.

Calvo started the game by lining a high one to Locker, who speared it after a high leap. Sears went out via short and Edington struck out. In the second Hoffman walked, went to second on Kunz's balk and to third on a wild pitch. Rapp walked and stole second but Tavener was an easy out.

Bob's Freaky Blow.

Bob Bescher opened the scoring by rapping the first ball Stoner threw up through a hole in the right field fence for four bases. Tanner also secured a single, but Barrett struck out.

The Cats tied the count in the fifth on a single by Moore and a double by Tavener, but the Spudders made it one better in their half of this round on Locker's single, a sacrifice by Bischoff, an infield out by Kunz and a scratch hit by Bescher.

Again the Atzmen knotted the count. In the seventh, Moore walked and was forced at second by Rapp. Tavener struck out, but Stoner sent Rapp to third with a single past first. Calvo lined a single to center scoring Rapp.

In the tenth, just before the rain started falling, Stoner opened with a single to left and pulled up at third on Sears' long double to right. Edington lifted a fly to Williams, Stoner scoring on the play.

Iowa Park
NEWS AND PERSONALS

IOWA PARK, Texas, Sept. 3.—There was gathered in the hall of the Masonic lodge of Iowa Park last Saturday night the largest crowd every assembled in Iowa Park for the confering of the Master degree on J. W. Beasley.

The welcome address was made by Rev. C. W. Dennis, pastor of the Methodist church and talks were made by the following out-of-town state officials:

Grand Senior Warden W. C. Hatfield gave an inspiring talk, also Chairman on Committee of Work of Sherman, J. D. Avis, Wichita Falls; Grand Master of the Council Albert Ellis, Wichita Falls; Recorder of Maskat Temple S. A. Gaines, W. M. Aster of Faith Lodge, Wichita Falls; and more than 15 other members from Faith lodge helped confer the Master degree on J. W. Beasley. The officials were dressed in full uniform during the initiation and the work was put on in grand style.

After the initiation was over talks were made in order by the following: W. C. Hatfield, J. D. Avis, Albert Ellis, Gwinn Williams and others.

One of the big attractions of the initiations was the big luncheon served after the ceremony. Ice cream, cake, pie, various kinds of meats and many other kinds of good eats were served.

TO HAVE COMMUNITY FAIR

On Sept. 18 and 19 Iowa Park will have First Annual Community fair. Several hundred dollars have been subscribed for premiums to be given away on above date.

This fair will begin at this date so as to have as good exhibit as possible for the T.-O. fair at Wichita Falls the first week in October. The people of Iowa Park decided to have a local fair several weeks ago, but on account of conflicting dates with other community fairs in the county, the above date was only selected last Wednesday at the chamber of commerce luncheon. More than 30 business men were present and the committee on entertainment will report soon as to the various entertainments that will be furnished on the above dates.

The place for holding the meeting will be in one of the rooms of the Iowa Park motor company's home. The people of Iowa Park hope to have a large crowd present and everybody is invited to come.

IOWA PARK SCHOOL OPENS

Monday, Sept. 10, the Iowa Park public school will open and the exercises for the opening day will be held at the Methodist church. Talks will be made by representatives of the city council, chamber of commerce, school board, pastors of the church an other distinguished townsmen.

The following teachers are on hand ready to assume their duties as teachers of the above school. They are: High school—B. L. Bradford, principal, vocational agriculture; Miss Pearl Burkhead; history, Mrs. Otis Kidwell; mathematics and Latin, Mrs. M. L. Hines; English, Miss Thelma Trussell; domestic science. The grades: Miss Nelle Bruce, Mrs. Bralton Reeves, Miss Ruby Banks, Miss Rena Moore, Miss Ethel Kidwell, Miss Mable Carney, Miss Gladys Shepherd, Miss Gertrude Prunty, Miss Nancy Kemp, Miss Gene Craig and Mrs. Paul Zink.

FUNERAL OF REV. MORGAN

Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock Rev. J. W. Morgan was laid to rest before the largest crowd ever assembled in Iowa Park for a funeral. At 3 o'clock the Odd Fellows met at the home of the deceased and marched to the church, where Rev. Powers, pastor of the Baptist church of Wichita Falls conducted the funeral services to a packed house. After the services at the Baptist church the remains were followed to the Highland cemetery by a procession more than a mile long. At the graveyard the body was taken in charge by the Masonic lodge and laid to rest with usual burial ceremony. About the time the grave was covered, 16 knights of the ku klux klan appeared at the grave dressed in white caps and gowns and paid their last respects to the deceased. After the ceremony they disappeared as quietly as they appeared.

Take It Or Leave It

By BILLIE SMITH.

Panthers and Spudders again today at Spudder park. Manager Berger hasn't decided just who he will pitch but will probably select a new man whom Spudder fans haven't seen perform yet.

卐 卐 卐 卐

Was a tough game for Kunz to lose. He pitched brilliantly, but his fate was spelled out before the game started as Lil Stoner pitches but few bad games and yesterday was one of his very best. Kunz was a trifle wild, several times his wildness put him in a bad situation. But in the rounds that the Cats scored their runs it was mainly the result of bunched hits.

卐 卐 卐 卐

Both teams played wonderful ball afield. Goldie Rapp making the only bobble during the game. Incidentally this was Rapp's first appearance since he joined the Cats sometime ago, and some fans after seeing him perform yesterday are wondering how he ever became field captain of a major league team or how he managed to stay in the big show as for that matter. At the bat Rapp did not connect with a real honest-to-goodness blow, and around third he looked just mediocre.

卐 卐 卐 卐

Bob Barrett, Red Williams, Ziggy Sears and Rabbitt Tavener pulled several good fielding plays during the game. Barrett featured with his all round good playing at second, while Tavener made several nice stops and throws at short.

卐 卐 卐 卐

"Hooks" Cotter is still a victim of illness. He was out in uniform yesterday and went into hit for Kunz in the tenth, although he was feeling anything else but fit to play. Cotter will probably be out of the game all during the Fort Worth series.

卐 卐 卐 卐

"Heine" Meine was an interesting onlooker from a seat in a box back of the Spudder dugout. Meine is still carrying his arm in a plaster cast, and from the way it looks he will probably not be able to use it any more this season. The doctor has advised Meine not to try to use his right wing any more this season. Meine went along for about three weeks with his arm in a bad condition but because of a shortage of pitchers he took his regular turn in the box. By not dropping out right at first Meine probably inflicted a life long injury. He is to be commended for staying in there and showing the "stomach" when most any one else would have quit, but Heine is no quitter.

卐 卐 卐 卐

One admirer of Red Ostergard remarked last night that the only reason the Galveston star did not hit a home run yesterday was because the Crabs were rained out.

卐 卐 卐 卐

Clarence Kraft is going after more homers and seems very anxious about his crown. That fact was shown yesterday. Twice he nearly swung himself down trying to connect with one of Kunz's baffling curves. Once he struck out by trying to hit the ball out of the park.

卐 卐 卐 卐

Denver Grigsby went hitless again yesterday. The former Spudder has not hit safely but once since his big day when he broke into the lineup for the first time.

卐 卐 卐 卐

Coach "Bud" McCallum had his prospective football stars out yesterday for a few minutes of light workout. He busied himself with trying to get the fundamentals of the game into the youngster's mind, as every player was furnished with a copy of this year's rules.

DOUBLE KNOCKOUT REGISTERED AT ALAMO CITY

By The Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 4.—Boxing in a drizzling rain in open air arena, tonight, a double knockout was registered by Gene La Rue, Canadian flyweight champion, and Kid Pancho, claimant of the southern flyweight title in the fourth round of a scheduled 12 round bout. With the ring drenched with a steady downpour, both came from their respective corners, and simultaneously hit each other with terrific punches, La Rue landing a left to the jaw, while Pancho landed a right to the chin. The impact of the blows, caused each man to fall face down, and both were counted out. On gaining consciousness, La Rue, in delirium, struck the referee and everyone who attempted to check him from attacking the unconscious Pancho.

Both had scored a knockdown in the previous rounds.

Municipal Course Adds Four More Holes to Links

Four more holes are being added to the Municipal Golf Club links, making a 13 hole course, the heavy increase in those taking advantage of the golf priviledges of the club making it necessary to lengthen the course, it was learned yesterday.

City officials who have sponsored the Municipal Golf club idea, say the club is now a success and has passed the experimental stage. It is planned to have an 18 hole course at the links next year. The land on which the links have been built was leased for a year and the golf course installed as an experiment. So successful have the club officials been in their venture, that it is now planned to buy the land under lease now or other lands and make the course permanent.

NO-HIT NO-RUN GAME FOR JONES

Yank Pitcher Lets But 29 Men Face Him and Wins Easily, 2-0

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 4.—Sam Jones of the New York Americans, pitched the first no-hit, no-run game of the season in the major leagues today, blanking the Athletics, 2 to 0. Jones was in great form. Only 29 men faced him, of whom three reached first base, Galloway received a base on balls in the first inning.

In the eighth Welch reached first on Scott's fumble of his grounder and Dykes got on when he forced Welch at second. The Yankees gave him wonderful support and many of the stops and throws were of a spectacular nature.

GOSLIN AND CO. BEAT BOSTON, 3-1

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—Goslin's hitting was the principal factor in Washington's 3 to 1 win over Boston today. His double in the first inning scored Peckinbaugh; his single in the third scored Liebold, and he himself subsequently scored at the head of a double steal.

65 REPORT FOR FIRST PRACTICE

Coach McCallum Puts Men Through Light Work On First Day

The football season opened with a bang in Wichita Falls Tuesday when approximately 65 college and high school men reported for practice. About a dozen college men reported Tuesday morning and after a brief talk by Coach Bud McCallum, took a light workout on the Austin school grounds. The men were issued track suits in order that all stiff muscles could limber up before the heavier football togs were worn.

Among those to report Monday morning were Walker, Haney, Harris, Pardo, Richardson and others. This number will be greatly enlarged as the practice continues. Several of the men who plan to report are still working and will not quit their jobs until the last of this week.

In the afternoon approximately 45 men reported for high school practice and it is thought that this number will reach 75 by the first of next week. The new coach gave the men a brief talk and issued a number of rule books for the men to study. Those who had shoes were issued track suits and approximately 30 men took a light workout at the Austin school grounds.

Among some of the old men to report were Copeland, Baldwin, Moore, Strinner (captain) Waggoner, Brackan, Tyson, Miller, Mackechney, Harris, Cameron, Deems, and Taylor.

Time is a Great Teacher

IF YOU set out to buy a certain breed of dog, you'll be better satisfied if it stays that breed and doesn't develop into something else. When you've been using Darcova Valve Cups you don't want something that looks like them when new.

You don't pick up Darcova quality in unexpected places. It comes only with the Darcova label.

For fifteen years Darcova Valve Cups have been first and finest. The composition they are made of holds up better than the material in ordinary cups, because it resists the cutting action of the sand.

Time has already shown that you can't afford to use any other valve cup except genuine Darcova. Ask the oil men. Tell your dealer it's Darcova or nothing.

An Invitation to the Teacher

Get acquainted with this store this week, before you take up the duties of another school session.

Maybe you're not a newcomer, and are already acquainted—but come and see what a comprehensive array of the new things we have this fall. Last year a good many of the out-of-town teachers at the Institute learned to look to this store for the things they couldn't obtain nearer home. Our mail order service proved mighty convenient for them.

The Tru-Wauk Shoe, made by I. Miller, combines style and looks with comfort and service; a shoe designed to be easy on the feet of those who must stand up a good deal.

SEPTEMBER

Sing a song of sunshine,
Steeped in bowl of blue—
Sing a song of autumn wine
The wind is pouring through.
Sunflowers a-nodding tall,
Bumblebees a-bloom—
Who can say the mellow fall
Cannot compare with June?

Sing a song of autumn blaze
Gilding hill and lea—
Sing a song of dancing days
Capering by in glee
Asters purple as a dream—
Westing winds a-swoon
Who shall say September's gleam
Cannot compare with June?

TODAY'S RECIPES

Spanish Meatballs en Casserole—One pound ground beef, one-half pound ground pork, one cup crumbs, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon parsley (finely chopped). Sauce—One and one-half cups cooked tomatoes, one-half teaspoon salt, slice of green or red pepper chopped fine. Mix together meat, crumbs, salt, paprika and parsley. Balls will hold together better if the crumbs are moistened and wrung dry. Shape into about eight balls, rolling portion of the mixture in the hands. Roll balls in flour, brown in hot fat and place in a covered casserole. Add tomatoes, second portion of salt and the pepper chopped fine. Have casserole deep enough so that the tomatoes will not boil over. Bake one to one and a half hours in a moderate oven. Serve on platter with sauce poured over, and potatoes or cooked spaghetti or macaroni around it.

Strawberry Shortcake—A rich biscuit dough is generally preferred for shortcake, say four tablespoons of fat to two cups of flour and a quarter of a cup of sugar. An egg may be added if desired. Four tablespoons (level) baking powder, one teaspoon salt and milk enough to make a soft dough. I seldom roll out shortcake dough. Put it on the floured board and pat into a large cake, or if individual cakes are desired, of course roll out and cut with a biscuit cutter. Bake in quick oven. Cut in half, butter each half, cover one with sweetened berries, lightly mashed, if liked, put the other half on top and serve with whatever the family likes, cream and sugar, whipped cream, or plain.

SUGGESTIONS

When Making a Pudding—Always grease basins, molds, etc., to prevent sticking. Leave a pudding to shrink a few minutes before turning it out. Loosen it gently from the sides of the basin, put the dish over the top, reverse it, and remove the basin carefully. If steaming a puddin, do not quite fill the basin, or there will not be room for it to rise, but in boiling one see that it is quite full or the water will get in. Crusts of bread may be used to fill up a gap, but must be removed before the pudding is turned out.

Wedding Cake—The real wedding cake is not a fruit cake, as is generally supposed, but a cake made of several cakes put together in steeple form—each one smaller than the one below, and held together with almond paste and sugar icing. The cake itself is a white cake or of the silver or angel variety. This makes a very elaborate looking cake, and for the bride who cuts the cake with her husband's or father's sword, as is frequently done at military weddings, it calls for a good deal of skill to make a clean cut without disturbing the tower-like structure.

ZONAGALE

With Russell Gore Writes On In Collaboration

MONKEY ON A CHAIN

The monkey hops mournfully on his chain. Mournfully the barrel organ drones. "I dreamt that I dwelt in marble halls, with vassals and serfs at my side."

The crowd laughs as the animal shows scorn for pennies. Each time a copper is tossed, the aged wrinkled face is turned to the master with the question, "Must I?" The chain jerks the answer, "You must."

A dime is tossed into the circle. Melancholy brute eyes ask: "What is the sense of this? If it were a peanut I could understand, but must I pick up this useless thing?" Impatient jerks instruct the monkey to hustle faster for the silver than for copper. The organ drones "And I also dreamt, which pleased me more, that you loved me just the same."

This is the financial district. These folk are bank messengers, bank policemen, brokers, a lawyer or two, clerks, stenographers out for a hurry-up noon day lunch. They are amused at the naivete of the monkey. "Fancy his not hopping any more for the dime than for the penny," says flapper to flapper. The grave, self-sufficient animal looks beyond the changing crowd at the changeless building in the background, a one-story Greek Temple which seems contemptuous of the cracker box sky-scrapers that hem it in. It is a bank built by Stanford White.

A quarter is tossed within the grinning circle. Frantic jerks force the monkey to understand that he must not only pick it up but also must doff his absurd little hat. And he obeys—solemnly, sardonically. The bend of the red-jacketted body is a bow in the house of ribbon, a gesture of obeisance to quarters and a repudiation of the whole absurdity.

Brokers and brokers' vassals, telegraph operators released from the ticker for a few moments of the golden August noon, a policeman paddling his beat like a portly penguin, flappers on their rush back from the cafeteria. Mr. Babbitt and Mr. Babbitt's mytidons in the realty business have paused before the temple bank to mark a red-jacketted, red-capped monkey taught the value of money by a jerk of the chain.

But on which end of the chain is the captive? Is Monkey freer than the man? Crude joy, crude sorrow have marked the grinning faces in the gaping human ring. Beneath the monkey's sloping forehead is the impenetrable mystery of the jungle. His mournful eyes glitter in perennial wonder at the master who jerks a chain to force a brute to pick up metal discs.

Civilization descends the temple's marble steps in the groomed guise of a bank oficial. Amused, he throws into the pavement ring a crumpled bill, with a conservative "One" peeping from the corner. The eagle ignores it until eager perks remind him that this, too has value for his master.

"Ain't it a scream that a monkey must be taught to pick up money?" remarks a languid bank messenger to the crowd in general.

"No, it ain't, buddy," a fat man with a brief case interjects. "It'll take years and years to make you scramble lively for pennies, dimes and dollars."

A shabby, slow-eyed person adds: "It isn't natural to scramble for money. Money grabbing has to be taught to monkeys and to men."

The organ grinder has stuffed the greasy dollar bill in his pocket and, presumably in honor of manna from the skies, the instrument is wheezing out another lyric from the Bohemian Girl: The heart bowed down by weight of woe."

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am an undecided girl. There is a young gentleman who is deeply in love with me. Somehow I cannot return his love. This young man would do anything within his power to keep steady company with me. He would let me go anywhere or with anyone, however, before he would see me unhappy.

It was through this young man I met another for whom I care more. The second fellow says he cares a lot for me, but at times I doubt his word. He is a jealous-hearted man and gets angry every time I go to a dance or any place where I can enjoy myself. Yet he won't take me there. He is even jealous of my employer.

Please tell me which man I should keep company with, and why.

UNDECIDED.

My advice is to keep company with both of the young men, since the first one is such a loyal friend and you care so much for the second. Probably in time you will grow tired of the second because he has qualities which do not promote happiness. You realize, of course, that your chance of happiness is greater with the first young man because his is an unselfish love. I do not advise you to give up the second for him, however, because you do not love him enough. It may be that the good qualities of the first young man will make you learn to love him, but on the other hand you may never learn to care any more than you do now. Perhaps your future has some one else in store for you. Therefore I would not advise you to make a choice until you are confident you love the man and can be happy with him.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am troubled over the condition of my scalp. Eight years ago I had such thick hair and now I have hardly any. The top of my head is sore all the time and my hair combs out by hands full. I think the starting of it was putting my hair up wet with a cap on after swimming.

I have used all kinds of hair tonic and they seem to make it worse. Will massage make the scalp more sore or will it overcome the soreness? What can be done to overcome this soreness and the falling of the hair? Can nervousness cause this soreness? I am 26 years old.

TROUBLE.

Nervousness is very likely the cause of your trouble. As your nerves and physical condition improve, the condition of your scalp will also improve. I would advise you to consult a physician and build up generally.

There is no hair tonic which brings about more satisfactory results than mange cure. Since your scalp is so sore, however, I doubt if you could use anything so strong at present. Massage will be beneficial although it may be painful in the beginning. Red vaseline is soothing and healing and it promotes the growth of hair, and therefore I would advise you to use it on your finger tips when you massage, a thing which should be done gently every night for a while.

I am confident that you can overcome the bad condition of your scalp if you work with the matter. It is imperative, however, to consult a physician and improve your general health.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am invited to a "foolish shower" which is to be given for a boy friend who is going to Canada to be married and take up work there. The girl who is giving the shower said she couldn't think of anything for a man in the way of a shower and so she thought if each one brought a foolish gift it would be fun.

I have tried to think of something to take, but I can't. What would you advise in this case?

DOROTHY.

A foolish shower is something new to me. You might take a toy set of dishes or furniture or a doll's knife, fork and spoon. The toys would represent articles necessary for the establishing of his home.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am an unmarried woman thirty-two years old and I have a married sister who is two years older than I am. She has three children. For some time my sister's health has not been good and now the doctor has said she must go away for a month's vacation. They have located a place on a farm where she thinks she would like to stay if she can get any one to stay with the children. She wants me to come, but I hardly know whether it would be proper since my brother-in-law would stay there too. I do not feel I can do anything that would compromise my reputation, which is good, if I do say it. What do you think?

ANNA W.

Nothing in the world would be more natural than for you to stay with your sister's children. People would not talk because the situation would be quite proper. It seems to me you ought to consider your worn out sister in this matter anyway and relieve her while she gets a good rest.

"OUR MAN"

No matter who he is, no matter how he looks, every hero in a book is like "our man."

Every lover in a poem, every wooer in a song, every gallant in a war is like "our man."

And it makes all singing sweeter, and it makes all reading better, as we follow page and note, to be thinking of "our man."

Love and adoration, passion, admiration, in books or poems appeal to us more strongly when we are in love ourselves.

Having a sweetheart that we truly love, enhances the value of things about one hundred per cent.

We are already in the atmosphere of a love-play or story before it begins. Our imagination does not have to be worked up to appreciate the feeling of the lovers—we already have that feeling.

Every girl should have her man, and every boy his girl if they would get the sweetest essence out of everything in life.

GOOD RESULTS IN BILIOUSNESS

Black-Draught Recommended by a Lady, Who Describes Her Daughter's Interesting Case

Paris, Tex.—"We have been using Black-Draught for seven years," says Mrs. M. B. Salter of this town, who related the following description of how Black-Draught proved beneficial in the case of her daughter

"Our oldest daughter would get very bilious; was 'naturally of a bilious temperament,' said the doctor. The medicines we tried seemed too strong and would leave her in a weakened condition, and her stomach so weak.

"We began to look for a remedy that would correct this and not leave her so weak. Some one suggested Black-Draught. We tried it and the result was so good we never use anything else with her.

"We make a tea from Black Draught, and it certainly gives satisfaction. I, myself, use Black-Draught for headache and indigestion and colds, and recommend it to others. Am sure it has benefited us."

Biliousness has been relieved in many thousands of cases, by the use of Thedford's Black-Draught. It is easy to take, and has none of the disagreeable after-effect of calomel and other mineral drugs. Black-Draught is purely vegetable. Try it. Sold everywhere. 25c a package.

AMONG THE CLASSICS

George B. Christian has written for the press a eulogy of Warren G. Harding. Judson K. Welliver has written a eulogy of Warren G. Harding. George B. Christian was the private secretary and the life long friend of the statesman who has passed on. Judson K. Welliver was the friend and the publicity agent of the statesman who has passed on.

These eulogies may be notable contributions to current literature, but the man who rang the bell and evolved a classic from his mental workship was Samuel G. Blythe and this, too, before the beloved son of the Buckeye state and America for this matter, had closed his earthly career.

No pen picture of the dead president or a portrayal of his achievements while at the white house equals that written by the American writer who was neither a private secretary nor a publicity agent but is ever a chronicler of events and a dispassionate analytical carver of the motives of public men and their actions and their achievements.

Samuel G. Blythe let loose his contribution at the psychological moment. "A Calm Review of a Calm Man," was its title. It appeared in a weekly periodical which claims almost three million readers and the last words Warren G. Harding ever uttered were in approval of the Blythe classic with Mrs. Harding, by his bedside as a loving reader and wifely nurse. "That's good," said the president, "Read Some More." He never spoke again.

No biography of the dead president will be complete without the inclusion in its pages of a "Calm Review of a Calm Man." Samuel G. Blythe penned wiser than he knew when he created one of the most interesting as well as humanizing articles of the age.

CIVILIZATION LOOKING UP

Professor Henry L. Whitfield will be the next governor of Mississippi. He has been declared the democratic nominee by sixteen thousand majority. He defeated former Governor Theodore G. Bilbo. It is admitted that the scholar in politics in Mississippi was given a hot race by the idol of the Hill-Billies.

Of course the friends of the professor before the primary and the run-off insisted that the voter had his choice. He could vote for Whitfield and intellect or Bilbo and ignorance. Not many people outside of Mississippi have ever heard of Whitfield until he announced as a candidate for the democratic nomination. Very many people outside of Mississippi had heard of Bilbo and the sympathy of the discriminating ones was on the side of the man they had never heard of as against the man of whom they had often heard. There is a choice when an issue of that sort is narrowed down.

Professor Whitfield had been the president of the Mississippi state college for women. This should have given him a big boost in the beginning, and sent him over in the runoff by a much heavier majority.

Mississippi in days of old was the home of statesmen. It is now to be hoped that in future days Mississippi will produce another race of statesmen instead of political runts and misfits.

EASY MONEY OVER HERE

There is easy money everywhere in Amrica. There must be. There are fourteen million automobiles in America. Isn't America on wheels? There are seven million tin lizzies in America, and the petroleum hunters and refiners have ten billion dollars invested in the gasoline industry.

American women dearly love fur bearing animals. According to a furrier writer American Women spend three hundred million dollars a year for furs and to obtain these furs 25,000 wild beasts are trapped and the Lord knows how many bob cats and rabbits and musk rats and squirrels. A writer on furs and fur bearing animals declares that half the furs used in the United States are produced in this country, but upwards of a hundred countries and colonies trap furs for shipment to America.

Ice is no longer a luxury. A writer on ice statistics lets loose the information that just fifty years ago the industry was launched in the United States. Now the American people consume a million dollars worth of ice every day and since 1890 the output has increased from $13,781,000 to $158,889,000.

Speaking of gum, Chicago and Cleveland let loose the information that at retail Americans buy a million dollars worth of chewing gum a week and the value of the output is increasing every year. Not many years ago a soldier at Fort Leavenworth invented the recipe for gum making and later along in the city of Cleveland his wife was the manufacturer over her own cookstove and the inventor was the selling agency of his firm, hawking his ware from house to house and street to street. Now America chews a million dollars worth of gum a week and likes it.

These are samples. Speaking of the movie, it is the third great industry of America with billions invested in the game. Where do the nickles and dimes go? Ask the movie men.

And get this, the movie is here to stay. It isn't an experiment. It is a stabilized and standardized institution and ranking next to the press it should become one of the greatest educators under American skies, although the pulpit will never agree to this.

This is a grand old world if you take it the right way. When in doubt wear furs, imbide ice drinks, chew gum, patronize the movies and then put your foot on the gas. They all appear to be doing it now.

WHERE THEY EDUCATE

New York is said to be a city of foreigners. If so the men who rule New York are strong for popular education. Just the other day the board of education set the amount of its expenditures during 1924 at $138,687,198.45. New York state has a population of less than ten millions. Texas has a population of five millions. Is Texas strong for education?

THE BRIGHT SHAWL

In reply to all this she whispered that she loved him. Her arm slipped up across his shoulder and the tips of her fingers touched his left cheek. A momentary dizziness enveloped him at her immeasurable sweetness; and then his emotion perished in the bareness of his heart to physical passion.

Charles Abbott kissed her softly and then took her hands. "You wouldn't want me, Narcissa," he continued; "if I failed in this, I should fail you."

She drew her hands sharply away. "It's you who are young and not I," she declared; "you talk like a boy—like Andres. All you want is a kind of glory, like the gold lace the officers of Isabella wear. Nothing could be more selfish!"

"You don't understand," he replied patiently.

Narcisa, he felt, could never grasp what was such a profound part of his masculine necessity. Abstractions, the liberty, for example, of an alien people, would have little weight against her instict for the realities in her own heart. Her emotion was tangible, compared with his it was deeply reasonable; it moved in the direction of their immediate good, of the happiness, the fulness, of their beings; while all his desire, his hope, was cloudy, of the sky. In the high silver radiance of his idealism, the warmer green of earth, the promise of Narcisa's delicate charm the young desire in his blood, were, he felt, far away, dim....below.

CHAPTER X.
Just a Bright Shawl.

The conviction fastened upon him that this chance realisation would determine, where women were concerned, the whole of his life. But that space, he reminded himself, short at best, was in him to terminate almost at once. All his philosophy of resistance of strength, was built upon the final dignity of a supreme giving.

His thoughts went back to Narcisa as he sat in La Clavel's room in the St. Louis, watching a hairdresser skilfully build up the complicated edifice of the dancer's hair. A towel was pinned about her naked shoulders, she had on a black fringed petticoat, and dangling slippers of red morocco leather.

La Clavel was faced away from Charles, but, in the mirror before which she sat, he could see her features and vivid changing expressions.

The truth was that, close, he had found her disconcerting, almost apalling. Climbing the long stairs to her room, he had surrendered himself to the romantic devotion which had overwhelmed his intimates. This had nothing to do with the admirable sentiment of a practical all-inclusive lover: it was aesthetic rather than social. But, bowing, inside the door of her chamber, he had been positively abashed at the strange actuality of her charm.

She hurt him, struck savagely at the idealism of his image; indeed, in the room permeated with a dry powdered scent, at the woman redolent of vital flesh, he had been a little sickened. However that had done. It was strange, he thought, how life granted one by one every desire.....when it was no longer valued: the fragrance, the tender passion, of Narcisa, the preference in La Clavel singling him out from a city for her interest!

She dismissed the hair-dresser, then, bending above a drawer, she brought out the vivid shawl in which she danced. La Clavel folded its dragging brilliancy squarely along its length, laid it across her breast, brought the fringed ends under and up over her arms, crossed them in a swift twist, and she was wholly, magnificently, clothed.

Then she asked him about Tirso Labrador, Charles Abbott quickly gathered that his presence was for that sole purpose.

"I heard all that was said," she warned him: 'and I don't want that repeated. Why did he try to garrote DeVaca with his hands? There was more in it than appeared. But all Ceaza will say is that he was a cursed traitor to the crown. If, as it must be, Cuba is subjected, why doesn't it ignore the unpleasant and take what the days and nights always offer? This Tirso was a particularly a friend of yours?" she went on. "You were always together, watching me dance and eating ices at the El Louvre."

He spoke slowly, indifferently, keeping his gaze elevated toward the ceiling. "Tirso Labrador was a braggard, he was always boasting about what he could do with his foolish muscles. What happened to him was unavoidable. We weren't sorry—a thorough bully. As for the others, that dandy, Quintara, and Remigio Flores, who looks like a coffee berry from their plantation at Yuelta Arriba, and Escobar, I am very much in their debt—I bring the gold and they provide the pleasures of Havana. They are my runners. I haven't the slightest interest in their politics; if they support the revolution or Madrid, they keep all that out of my knewledge."

Leaning forward, she laid a firm square palm on his knee. "You have told me all that I wanted—this Tirso, who was killed, he was your dear friend and his death, an agony; the smaller, the coffee berry, you are devoted to his goodness and simplicity; beneath Quintara's waistcoats you find a heart of gold. But Escobar—is it Andres? '—You love better than your life. They care nothing for your American dollars; it is evident they all have much more than you. What is it, then, you are united by? I shall tell you—Cuba. You are patriots, insurrectionists; Santacilla was right. And neither is your rebellion crushed, not with Agromonte alive." She leaned back with glimmering eyes and the cruel paint of her mouth smiling at him.

She, was then, Charles Abbott reflected, an agent of Spain's, getting information for Santacilla. At this remembering the adoration if his circle for her, he was brushed by a swift sorrow. She had been the utmost flashing peak of their desire; and now it was clear to him that she was rotten at the core. La Clavel was merely a spy; what had engaged them was nothing more than a brilliant flowery surface, a bright shawl.

CHAPTER XI
La Clavel Reveals Herself.

"You are wasting your efforts," Charles told her, with an appearance of complete comfort. "Even if you were right—I mean about the others—what, do you think would make them confide in me almost a stranger? You understand this so much better than I that, instead of questioning me, you ought to explain the whole Cuban situation. Women like yourself with genius, know everything."

She utterly disconcerted Charles by enveloping him in a rapid gesture, her odorous lips were pressed against his cheek.

"You are as sweet as a lime flower," La Clavel declared. "After the others—" her expression of disgust was singularly valid. "That is what I love about you," she cried suddenly, "your youth and freshness and courage! Tirso Labrador dying so gallantly—all your beardless intent faces. The revolt in Cuba I've felt it ever since I landed at Havana, its in the air like wine! I am sick of officers and gentlemen. They were always superior, condescending; and always inside me, I hated them. They thought, because I was peasant born, that their attentions filled me with joy, that I should be grateful for their aristocratic presences. But, because I was what I was, I held them with their ladies' hands and sugared voices in contempt. There isn't one of them with the entrails to demand my love.

"I tell you I was smothering in the air about me. My dancing isn't like the posturing of the court, its the dancing of the people, my people, passionate like a knife. I am from the Morena, and there we are not the human sheep who live in the valleys, along the empty rivers. How shall I explain?

"But how can you explain yourself? You are not a Cuban: this rebellion, in which you may so easily be killed almost before you begin to live, it isn't yours. What drew you into it? You must make it plain, for I, too, am caught."

"Men are different from women," he replied: "what ever happened to me would be useless for you, you couldn't be helped by it." Yet he was forced to admit to himself that all she had said was reasonable at bottom it didnt contradict his generalization, for it was based on a reality; on La Clavels long resentment, on the dignities to her pride: on, as she had said, the innate freedom of the mountain spirit. If she were honest, any possible attachment to Cuba might result from her hatred of Spain, of Sevilla and Madrid. Hers, then, would be the motive of revenge.

"You are right about the difference in our experiences,' she agreed; "I was dancing for a living at 6; at 10 I had another accomplishment. I have lived in rooms inlaid with gold, and in cellars with men where murder would have been a gracious virtue. Yes, lime flower, there is little you know that could be any assistance to me! But the other—your purity, your effort of nobility—that I must learn from you."

He explained his meaning more fully to her, and she listened intently. "You think," she interrupted, "that a woman must be attached to something real, like your arm or a pot of gold. You know them, and that at your age, at any age, is a marvel enough in itself. The wisest men in Europe have tried to understand the first movement of my dancing—how, in it, a race, the whole history of a nation, is expressed in the stamp of a heel, the turn of a hip. They wonder what, in me, had happened to the maternal instinct, why I chose to reflect life, as though I were a mirror, rather than experience it. And now, it seems, you see evtrything, all is clear to you. You have put a label, such as are in museums, on women; good!"

She smiled at him, mocking but not unkind.

"However," he told her crossly, "that is of very little importance. How did we begin I have forgotten already.'

"In this way," she said coolly; "I asked if it would be of any interest to —let us say, your friends, to learn that the United States, in spite of the administration, will not recognize a republican Cuba."

"That might be important to the insurgents," he admitted; "but where are they to be found—in the cubildos of Los Egidos.'

More Truth Than Poetry

FIFTY FIFTY

The robin nests upon a limb
And pays nobody rent,

And that he'd be content.
Yet when the tomcat happens by,
As tomcats often do,
You see that he, like you and me,
Has got his troubles too.

The tiger always is the boss,

When he is on his rounds.
But with a single rifle shot

The shark can gratify his wish
To swim about the sea,
And dine upon the little fish,
A happy brute seems he.
But fish are sometimes bait on hooks
Upon a strong steel line,
And then the shark may no more lark
Amid the hissing brine.

When after climbing up life's tree
We gather bitter fruits,
We often think we'd like to be
Like birds, or fish, or brutes.
But things are equal, more or less,
On sea and air and land;
One sees distress and happiness
Go always hand in hand.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

Into what sized farms should the surplus lands on the irrigation project be divided?

THE COST OF PASTURING

If land is very valuable, pasturing dairy cows becomes unprofitable, and other means of feeding must be resorted to.

By making a little study of land values, number of cows per acre and interest on the value of the land, it is possible to work out a statement whereby it can be determined whether or not pasturage is profitable.

To illustrate: If interest at 6% is allowed on the value of land, and the number of acres it takes to feed a cow is estimated, it works out as follows:

Acres per cow.	$25	Value Land per Acre $50	$100	$150	$200
1	$1.50	$3.00	$6.00	$9.00	$12.00
1½	2.25	4.50	9.00	13.50	18.00
2	3.00	6.00	12.00	18.00	24.00
2½	3.75	7.50	15.00	22.50	30.00
3	4.50	9.00	18.00	27.00	36.00
3½	5.25	10.00	21.00	31.50	42.00
4	6.00	12.00	24.00	36.00	48.00

If we reduce this to cents per day cost per cow, with a pasturage season of 150 days, it works out as follows:

Acres per cow.	$25	Value Land per Acre $50	$100	$150	$200
1	1c	2c	4c	6c	8c
1½	1½c	3c	6c	9c	12c
2	2c	4c	8c	12c	16c
2½	2½c	5c	10c	15c	20c
3	3c	6c	12c	18c	24c
3½	3½c	7c	14c	21c	28c
4	4c	8c	16c	24c	32c

If the land is worth a certain sum per acre, and it costs a certain sum to feed a cow in the stable, it is possible to figure by the above whether or not pasturing is profitable.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

VIRGO

Moon in Cancer a feminine sign, governs the stomach. Be very watchful of your diet. Today is fairly good for general business and routine duties. The hours between 6 and 12 in the evening are excellent for all social affairs. This is a very uncertain day for marriage.

A child born today will have sterling qualities, perserverance and steadfastness being its dominant characteristics.

If today is your birthday you should be primarily intellectual and secondarily powerful in mind and body an apt creator of plans with sufficient nervous energy to carry them to a successful outcome.

Logic is your greatest faculty. There is almost nothing which you cannot reason to its just conclusion. You would be excellent in public life as a lawyer, as you have also a distinct oratorical talent.

However, be sure you use this talent in its proper sphere, as you are occasionally tempted to regard it as an indoor sport and your technique is too caustic to be giving free shot at your intimates associates.

You are rather contemplative in disposition and slightly moody at times when you lack stimulating companionship. You should take better care of your health than you probably do for you are naturally robust, but for this very reason you are inclined to run on your nerve and overtax your strength.

Your tastes are discriminate and dainty, as you have an eye for color as well as a tooth for sweets not to mention an ear for music. In fact all of your senses are unusually alert more alert it might be said than your ambition, which must be inveigled in to action with promises of rich rewards.

The wives of men born under the sign of Virgo are often unhappy, but when Virgo men are probably treated with kindness and persuasion they are the gentlest of comrades.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The cotton market lost part of its pre-holiday advances during today's trading. The buying movement created by Friday's crop figures appeared to have been checked by unsettling features in over-holiday news abroad, and after some irregularity, prices broke under liquidation. Dec. sold off fTAOININNN dation December sold off from 25.10 to 24.61, or 41 points net lower and 56 points below the high price touched on the government report of last week. That delivery closed 24.62, with the general market closing easy at net declines of 35 to 45 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of five points toa decline of eight points and sold up several points during the early trading on the wet weather map and comparatively steady showing of Liverpool over the Labor Day adjournment. Sentiment was evidently disturbed by news of the Japanese disaster, while more or less uncertainty was also expressed as to the outcome of the affair between Italy and Greece and European political conditions generally. This acted as a check on fresh business, and the market turned easier during the afternoon under scattered liquidation which was probably promoted by the outlook for better weather in the south and the failure of demand to broaden on the early rally. Liverpool was a considerable seller here on the late decline, and there was also scattered southern selling in addition to local and Wall street liquidation.

October sold off to 24.68 and January to 24.26, or 37 to 49 points net lower and last prices were within a few points of these figures. Private advices received in the trade stated that the cotton mills of Japan had not been involved in the disaster, with the possible exception of a few mills near Tokio comprising about 600,000 spindles. Liverpool cables attributed the steadiness of the market there to an improving spot demand and a better tone in Manchester, as a result of increased inquiries from China.

Exports today were 9,577 bales, making 337,422 so far this season. Port receipts 29,342. U. S. port stocks 203,008.

Fort Worth Livestock.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, September 4.—very modest receipts of cattle and calves arrived Tuesday and the market was a slow, quiet affair, but prices held to a level that was generally in the week's opening decline. The count called for 2,000 head of cattle and 1,000 calves. The best steers here stopped at 6.75 and the most desirable calves were of heavy weight and cleared at 6.50.

Buyers found relatively few before steers and those that were here were not very desirable. One car went at 6.75 for a high range and a few deal was made at 6.00@6.25.

Cutters sold mostly at 2.00@2.65 and canners went at a range of 1.50 @1.85. Medium to good sows cleared at 3.00 to 3.60. Odd bulls sold from 2.25 to 3.75.

Conditions in the stocker and feeder division remained quotably unchanged. Receipts were moderate and quality offered nothing that particularly appealed.

Continued strength characterized the hog trade. The day's market was an active snappy affair with sales generally 10 to 15 cents higher. Only 1,200 head were here. Order buyers were in the market for several cars and their purchases ranged up to 9.65, a new high level for the year. Packers bought at 9.50. Most of the receipts cleared at a spread of 9.25 @9.50. Only a few pigs are arriving and due to the scarcity the market continues to soar despite the efforts of buyers to hold values in check. The day's top was 7.00 for good fat weighty pogs and 6.50 for desirable stockers.

It did not take the buyers long to clear the yards of all the good sheep and lambs that the receipts offered. The count called for 500 head. Prices on all grades remained steady and the demand was good. A small bunch of choice ewes sold at 7.00, but best wethers were stopped at 8.00, nothing very good under that classification being available. Yearlings sold around 10.00, but they lacked finish.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

Did you ever get anything for nothing? Probably not. Yet most of us spend a great deal of our lives trying to.

You can't get even ten per cent on money with safety, yet people jump at so-called safe "investments" netting 100 per cent.

Since there is plenty of money for legitimate productive enterprises at low rates, why, should anybody offer 100 per cent? Simply because there is very little chance of getting any money back again.

If some one pointed out how much money was made in horse racing, and offered to sell a chance on his bet, you would laugh at him if he said it was safe.

You can't get something for nothing.

The same is true of investments. Don't be fooled by promises of big profits. Remember that people pay for taking risks.

BUSINESS IS ON

take millions of negroes there to work, hurting this section by making a labor shortage. He said he did not believe in throwing down the immigration bars but did believe in allowing enough high class immigrants who would make good citizens to take care of the labor shortage.

Speaking of present day markets Kell said two year old steers now brought $50 a head whereas not so long ago four year old steers only brought $20 a head. He said corn is now 18 cents a bushel higher this year than last year. The wheat crop he said is the one which should be given the closest consideration. He said the enormous wheat crops produced in 1914-15 by the United States and Canada saved the world from being whipped by Germany. He said that when the Dardanelles is opened up and Russian wheat can again supply western Europe, that this country and Canada will suffer greatly. To avert disaster this question he said should be closely considered by American business interests.

"As We Think."

Referring to the oil situation generally he said the so-called "big boys" of the game had been accused of taking advantage of the present situation to further their own interests. These he said could not be blamed for that because business men in every other line always did the same thing. Summing up Kell said "We have prosperity in this country if we only thought we had. I had a talk with the chairman of the shipping board recently who assured me that this country is in a stable condition and coming out of the reaction following the war. This assured me and confirmed my own conviction that though we may still meet with some difficulties problems our feet are on firm ground and we are moving forward in a business way."

Congress Needs Check.

The other speaker of the evening, Judge J. C. Kay though discussing an entirely different subject gave some side-lights on a constitutional question that were possibly as timely. Judge Kay discussed the perils of taking from the supreme court the power of being able to rescind acts of congress. He said this question was a rising cloud which was threatening this country. He compared conditions in Russia with what might happen here should the supreme court be denied the right of being "the very conscience of the constitution."

Judge Kay said congress which is always swayed by factions could pass any kind of unjust laws it pleased and without interference if the supreme court had not the power to intervene. He said the supreme court was held in the highest esteem of the American people and to prevent anarchy simil r to that in Russia the power of interpreting the constitution mus be left in its hand and not delegated to congress.

George Taylor with his banjo entertained with a number of solos ranging from folk songs to popular melodies.

Julian Montgomery as master of ceremonies conducted the proceedings in a manner which produced much humor.

Address Postponed.

The proposed address "Responsibility of the Citizen to the Schools," which was to have been delivered by T. H. Shelby, University of Texas, educational department, at the First Baptist church last night, has been postponed until 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening. Director Shelby became ill Tuesday morning and was unable to appear last night. The address will be at the First Baptist church, Ninth and Burnett streets.

New Archer Well.

Henley & McCarthy Oil company's L. F. Wilson No. 1, block 678, Wilson ranch lands, American Tribune colony survey, Archer county, has encountered an oil sand at 1,585 feet. The sand has been penetrated one foot. Indications are to the effect the test will make more than 100 barrels when put on the pump.

WHEAT SUFFERS PRICE SETBACK

Market Closed Heavy With Corn and Oats Following Wheat Slump

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Wheat underwent a setback in price today owing chiefly to lack of sustained buying. The market closed heavy, 5-8 to 1 1-8 cent net lower, September 1.01 1-2 to 1.01 5-8 and December 1.05 3-4 to 1.05 7-8. Corn finished at a range varying from 5-8 decline to 3-4 cent gain, with oats 3-8 to 1-2@ 5-8 cent down, and provisions showing losses of 5 cents to 27 cents.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat and as a result of favorable crop reports as to corn. September delivery of corn, however, scored an advance owning to scarcity of immediate supplies.

In the provision market, selling on the part of commission houses more than wiped out an advance due to higher hog values.

That and Italy's Defi Are Cause of Moderate Reaction

High 1923, 90.63; low 76.78.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—Today's moderate reaction in the stock market was generally attributed to the Japanese disaster. Other contributing influences were cabled reports that Italy had challenged the league of nations' authority to intervene in its dispute with Greece, the suspension of hard coal mining and relatively firm money.

The chief reflection of the earthquake was found in the bond market, City of Tokio 5's dropping 10 points and the Japanese goverment issues one to three points, but all recovering part of their losses before the close.

Among the active industrials losses of one to three points were recorded by Baldwin Locomotive, American Can, Gulf States Steel, American Smelting, Bethlehem Steel and Beech-Nut packing.

Davison Chemical gave another erratic performance, opening unchanged at 36, dropping to 35 1-2 and then spurting to 42 1-2 for a net gain of 6 1-2 points on the day.

Favorable trade and industrial developments during the day included the raising of the annual dividend rate on Mack Truck from $4 to $6, and publication of a report of the Hay and Wheat company showing net earnings of over $1,200,000 in the first half of this year.

Call money ruled steady at 5 1-4 per cent. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Demand sterling touched a new bottom for the year at $4.52, off 2 1-4 cents, and German marks sold as low as 6 3-4 cents a million. Spanish pesetas dropped 11 1-2 points to 1.35 1-2 cents, but only nominal changes took place in other European currencies.

Home Insurance Co. Makes Rapid Growth

EARLY THIS YEAR a group of men and women of this county believing in co-operation formed a Mutual Aid Life Insurance and Accident Association. They wanted insurance that would be paid promptly and cover funeral expenses and more in event of death. They wanted to pay for what they got and get what they paid for. They were willing to pay $1.00 each time a member died, but they wanted each class and group to which they belonged to be similar in age. As a result THE WICHITA HOME INSURANCE COMPANY was organized, several classes or groups for both men and women were formed:

Class AA—Ages 50 to 69
Class A —Ages 35 to 50
Class B —Ages 10 to 35
Class C —Ages to 15

Accident features are included in
Class D—Ages 10 to 55

1,500 members are included in each group, thus always assuring $1,000 insurance. The insured agrees to pay $1.10 for each death and $1.00 each six months to the expense fund.

Only healthy white men, women and children of good, moral character, living in Wichita county are accepted. Under this plan, insurance may be had at actual cost. It is a fair plan. It is a just plan. It is a saving to the rich, a blessing to the poor. Will you join and let us solve our problems together?

Chain Stores Have Created American Business Romance

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—One of the greatest romances in American retail business has been the growth of chain grocery stores, 20,000 of which now transact slightly less than 10 per cent of the nation's retail grocery business, estimated at $20,000,000,000 annually. If the present radio of growth is maintained, this will be increased to 25 per cent within the next five years.

Economy of operation by reason of the fact that the business is transacted on a cash basis with a heavy turn-over and small profits, and the rapid development of American suburban and community life, have been the two main factors responsible for this tremendous growth. Scientific investigation has revealed that a community of 1,000 persons will permit the operation of a chain store grocery at satisfactory profits, though one store can serve several times that number.

The first chain grocery stores in the country were viewed with suspicion on the theory that the lower prices they charged meant inferior products. This feeling, however, has to a large extent disappeared, mainly due to the fact that the chain stores have offered nationally advertised articles at prices below those charged by independent grocers.

Says Rheumatism Leaves You Forever

James H. Allen once, a rheumatic cripple, who discovered ALLENRHU and with it banished every trace of uric acid and every sign of rheumatism from his body, says that every druggist guarantees a full pint bottle of ALLENRHU to show the way to complete recovery or money back.

It relieves at once, and immediately after you start to take ALLENRHU the good work begins. It searches out uric acid deposits, dissolves the secretions and drives rheumatic poison out of the body through the kidneys and bowels. Even in cases where suffering has been piteous and painful, all traces of this dread disease disappear in a few days.

Palace Drug Co. and Central Drug Co. will supply you. Mail orders accepted.—Adv.

VERNON, Texas, Sept. 4.—W. W. Burch, charged with an attempted assault on his 10-year-old stepdaughter, was found guilty by the Forty-sixth district court here today and sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary.

It was one of three similar cases tried by the district court this year. The girl was the only witness of the alleged crime.

The indictment charged that the alleged assault was made last October, nine miles south of Vernon, where the accused and his family were picking cotton. The family had just come to this county, and the girls' mother was still in Montague county. All minors were ordered from the courtroom this morning as the girl told her story. The accused man pleaded not guilty.

TEACHING MADE LEADING RACE

Professor Marquis Lauds Profession at Meet Of District Teachers

'Teaching is a profession. Since the dawn of history teaching has played a dominant part in civilization's progress. The most brilliant men of history, were taught. The most paramount reason the Anglo-Saxon races are leaders of the world, is because of the excellent teaching of the children during the centuries" thus did R. L. Marquis, Denton, president of the North Texas Teachers' Institute, bring to a climax his address delivered to the district teachers institute at the First Baptist church, Ninth and Burnett streets, yesterday afternoon.

Professor Marquis dealt at length upon teaching as a life long profession. He stated too many young men and women taught only for a year or two and then decided to enter other professions.

T. H. Shelby, director of the institute was ill during the day and confined to his room, 1002 Burnett street. Minnie Graves author of the penmanship course used in the text books of the state and head of the writing department of the Waco high school, substituted for director Shelby.

Miss Graves talked before the general assembly using as her subject 'Writing.' Miss Graves is considered one of the most learned of the teaching profession in Texas, and is regarded as an authority on penmanship.

The morning program was opened by an invocation by Rev. C. L. Powers of the First Baptist church, and was followed by song service led by R. E. Shepherd.

The delegates to the institute went immediately to the different departments and where courses were being given following dismissal of the general assembly.

The primary section was under charge of Kate Haynes, of the Alamo school; talks on subjects of interest to teachers were given by Miss Haynes and Miss Dixie Crabtree. In the intermediate section talks on 'Control of Learning Process' were made by various teachers. E. W. Cullers, spoke on "Classification of small high schools" and "Should all pupils be required to take two years of Algebra?" was the subject of A. K. Preston and W. R. Bradford.

William Braumbalow, superintendent of schools, Burkburnett, and S. E. Parks, of Alamo school also made brief talks in the intermediate section.

W. L. Hughes, department of education, A. & M. college, delivered an excellent address using as his subject 'Boys." The subject was a popular one with all the visitors, and the teachers agreed that Mr. Hughes evidently knew boys.

The night session of the institute was postponed until Thursday night due to the illness of T. H. Shelby, University of Texas, who was too ill to speak.

Among the superintendents of the independent districts and counties who will have charge of sectional meeting are: Burt Bryan, Wichita county; S. M. Rider, Wichita Falls; E. J. Woodward, Burkburnett; R. M. Dinsmore, Electra; W. R. Bradford, Iowa Park; W. T. White, Fairview; G. W. McDaniels, Clay county; C. F. Walker, Henrietta; Judge Hooper, Archer county; W. S. Wilson, Archer City; J. F. Kemp, Seymour; E. L. Dohoney, Vernon; O. L. Childress, Chillicothe; and J. P. Williams, Petrolia.

Chillicothe and Quanah are not included in this district, but the two cities were assigned to this institute.

Approximately 675 instructors, superintendents and teachers have registered. It is quite probable that the list will reach 700 as several more were to arrive to take the course. Some have not registered.

The program for the day is as follows:

9:00-9:10—Invocation, Rev. J. L. Keevil.

Old Home Town Stuff

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

Police Commissioner John T. Young, who has been vacationing in Canada the past six weeks is expected home today.

Justice O. L. Gibbs and family have returned from a weeks' visit in Mangum, Okla. The judge says the same system of administering law in due and ancient form to vags, speeders, peace disturbers ,et al will be enforced as heretofore.

With the return of the baseball club Tuesday a number of grandmothers who have been in excellent health the past two weeks, got on the sick list again.

Paul Craig pleaded guilty to a charge of swindling and was sentenced to five days in jail by Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law.

Gertrude Wilson, negress, was found guilty of carrying a pistol by a jury in Judge Guy Rogers' court Tuesday drew a 30 day jail sentence.

A total of 159 bills was ordered paid by the county commissioners' court Tuesday.

Winfield Ikard, principal of the Archer City high school, is among those attending the institute this week.

The county commissioners' court Tuesday instructed Mrs. Alma T. Miller, county clerk, to index the proceedings of that body to date.

Guy Raley, county tax collectors, says that an average of 20 cars a day are registered. This year 17,500 have been registered while only 14,000 were registered during 1923.

A total of $1300 of delinquent taxes was collected Tuesday by the county tax collector's department.

A scarcity of cotton pickers and so many vagrancy cases in the justice courts is a question which might be solved so as to eliminate both of those circumstances.

Two holidays in a row was pretty hard for that bunch who take their week-ends so seriously.

SEVERAL AREAS REPORT RAINS

Wichita Falls Gets Only Drizzle Out of Threatening Clouds

Light rains fell over scattered areas in southwest Oklahoma and in several districts in north and northwest Texas, according to information obtained from offices of the Ft. W. & D. C. and M. K. T. railroad offices.

Rain estimated at one inch is reported between Iowa Park and Vernon, with an unusually heavy downpour at Harrell between 4 and 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rain began falling at Decatur at 7:30 o'clock last night and was still falling along the line of the Ft. W. & D. C. railroad to Fort Worth at an early hour this morning.

Along the Wichita Valley railroad rain was reported falling at Anson, Stamford, Haskell, Dundee and intermediate points. The rain was heaviest at Stamford where one-half an inch was recorded.

Showers were reported at Vernon and a heavy rain is said to have fallen over much of Wilbarger county. Three-quarters of an inch fell at the experimental farm south of Chillicothe between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The city of Chillicothe received only a small shower.

Light rains visited Frederick, Altus, Snyder, and Hobart, Okla., in the southwestern part of the state. Later reports were to the effect it was still cloudy and drizzling over several of the southwestern counties of that state.

Bowie received a light rain, and Henrietta reports stated a rain was expected as clouds were dark and threatening. Bellevue received a small shower.

Reduce Those Dangerous Swollen Veins

Doctor's Recent Discovery Also Heals Boils, Carbuncles, Abscesses, and Open Sores in a Few Days

Physicians are prescribing and hospitals using a new and harmless, yet very powerful germicide that not only causes enlarged or varicose veins and bunches to become normal, but also reduces goitre, enlarged glands and wens.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time, and furthermore, if this wonderful discovery does not produce the results anticipated, you can have the price refunded.

It is not wise for anyone to allow swollen veins to keep on enlarging. Often they burst and cause weeks of pain, suffering and loss of employment. Start the Emerald Oil treatment as directions advise, and improvement will begin at once. Your druggist can supply you.—Adv.

CITY WILL BE IN GAS FIGHT

Mayor to Attend or Send Representatives to Sherman Hearing

Mayor Frank Collier will either attend or send a representative to Sherman next September, 14, when the hearing in the district court comes up to determine whether the temporary injunction secured by Hamp Abney, Sherman attorney representing Wichita Falls and 20 other Texas cities, against the Municipal Gas company, is to be dissolved or not, it was learned yesterday.

In a letter to Mayor Collier received Tuesday the Sherman attorney asked that Wichita Falls be represented by its city attorney and other officials if possible. The injunction granted temporarily restrains the gas company from collecting a ready to serve charge on all meters installed.

HUMBLE MEETS CUT

The Humble Oil and Refining company has met the cut in crude oil posted by the Magnolia Petroleum company on all grades, effective throughout the mid-continent district last Saturday. The Humble met the reduction Monday, according to announcement made through local offices of the company.

The Humble is the only one of the major companies operating in North Texas to meet the reduction. Among local oil circles, however, it is thought others are sure to meet the reduction.

Several independent refineries are said to be taking oil and paying a price slightly below that posted by the Magnolia Petroleum company.

FAIR GRANDSTAND FOUNDATION DONE

The concrete foundation has been completed and the steel network will be commenced on the Texas-Oklahoma fair and exposition grandstand this morning. Three carloads of steel for the structure was unloaded and hauled to the location yesterday, according to R. E. Shepherd, assistant secretary of the fair association.

Several carloads of running horses are due to be quartered in the stables during the week. L. J. McClure is now in Oklahoma City, where numerous stables are in training for the Oklahoma State fair and the Texas-Oklahoma fair.

LEAF WORM NOW THREATENS COTTON

That the cotton leaf worm is becoming a menace in Wichita county and should be combatted at once by every farmer in the county, was the warning issued Tuesday by County Agent Guy Jones.

According to Jones, the leaf worm is not as destructive as the bollworm, but does considerable damage when it takes a territory. The worm is about a quarter-inch long and is greenish-yellow in color.

Jones says the cotton worm can be exterminated by spraying the cotton leaves with a mixture three parts of flour to one part paris green. This should be done early in the morning while the dew is still on the cotton stalks to get the quickest results.

The county agent asks every farmer in the county to inspect their cotton and begin at once to get rid of the leaf worm.

COTTON PICKERS GETTING SCARCE

Wichita Falls and vicinity has about supplied its quota of cotton pickers and there are none left to supply the demands which pour in at the federal employment bureau at the city hall by telegraph, mail and telephone daily, Richard Hudson in charge of the office said Monday.

Hudson said the demand for cotton pickers was acute and farmers from over the state are offering all kinds of inducements to secure labor to gather the crop. Hudson yesterday received a telegram from Rotan asking for 25 families to be sent at once. Not a family or an individual could be found.

MUDDY ROADS STOP CARAVAN TO FAIRS

Members of the chamber of commerce and officials of the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition will not leave on the proposed caravan which was to visit fairs at Altus and Hobart, Okla. Heavy rains along the route of travel, muddy roads and swollen streams, made the proposed trip impracticable. R. E. Shepherd, assistant secretary of the fair association, will visit the two Oklahoma cities, making the trip on the trains.

Shepherd plans to arrange for entries for the Texas-Oklahoma Fair and Exposition to be held here October 1 to 7, inclusive. He will post advertising matter, and meet owners who are exhibiting.

The two cities have fairs on the same dates, Setpember 5 to 8. Shepherd will leave at 7 o'clock this morning, and will return Thursday.

INFECTED COWS INCREASE HERE

Dairymen Warned By Health Department to Have Animals Examined

A warning to dairymen and others who sell butter in Wichita Falls to have their cattle examined for tuberculosis was issued Tuesday by the city health department.

Dr. L. I. Lucey, who inspects dairies and cattle, said all cattle in the city would be given tubercular tests this fall. The state law provides no one can sell butter and other dairy products unless the cows have been tested for tuberculosis.

Merchants are warned not to buy butter unless they know the product is from cows that have been tested for tuberculosis. The merchant is as liable to prosecution for sale of such butter as the owner of the cattle, according to Dr. Lucey.

A total of 38 cases of cattle with tuberculosis in this section has been discovered by the city health department this year.

County taxes, $3,305.36.

SECOND EFFORT TO RECOVER TAX

City Attorneys Say Federal Tax on New Sewer Was Illegal

A second effort of the city to recover $1,468.35 from the federal commissioner of internal revenue which was paid out as taxes when the city installed its present sewer system is being made by Parfet and Martlew, attorneys.

The contention of the city is the taxes assessed against it by the federal government was an error because the city was exempt. The San Antonio Sewer Pipe works from which company the city purchased supplies too high for the sewer project was not exempt from taxation. The governments contention is that Wichita Falls assumed the status of the company from which the supplies were purchased.

The brief in the case has been prepared by the attorneys representing the city and will be sent to the revenue office at once.
