Young men from the Loraine territory are serving in various branches of the armed service of our country. Parents of these young men, their families and neighbors, are proud of them. We are all proud of them and want to give them every bit of praise and publicity they so richly deserve. We are planning to publish the picture of each young man together with a sketch of his life.

We want to publish these pictures as soon as we can and to do so we want to enlist the help of everyone in getting the pictures. For instance your neighbor may have a son in the service and he, the neighbor, may not be a subscriber to The Mitchell County News. In this case you can be of service to us and your neighbor if you will ask him to bring us a picture of his son with a sketch of his life. We want a picture of every young man. We shall announce right away just when we plan to publish the pictures—but in the meantime we want to get a picture of ALL young men in the service from the Loraine territory.

We wouldn't presume to tell anyone how to vote in the senatorial race Saturday, except to vote as you think best for your country. If you think Mr. O'Daniel, who voted to disband the army a few months before Pearl Harbor against the recommendation of President Roosevelt and the secretary of war; who has not been able to get more than four votes on any proposal he has made in the senate; if you think he is the man we need for U. S. Senator then vote for him. But we do urge you to investigate thoroughly before you vote.

Mrs. R. K. Thornhill left last week for Dallas where she will buy fall merchandise.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Thomas and daughters spent the week end in Dublin visiting their parents. Mrs. Thomas' mother returned home with them for a visit here.

Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Gray of San Angelo and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Coon left Monday to spend a week vacationing in the mountains in New Mexico.

Sidney Meek arrived Friday from California where he has been working the past several weeks.

Former Derryberry of Abilene visited in Loraine Sunday.

Price Hall had his tonsils removed at the Johnson Hospital last Wednesday.

Pfe. Robert V. James and Mrs. James of Lubbock visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. James Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Oren Coon of Lingo, New Mexico is here this week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. McGowan.

H. T. DAVIS BURIED MONDAY

Funeral services for Henry Thomas Davis, 82, who died Saturday night at ten o'clock, at the Johnson Hospital, where he was admitted June 24 for a fractured hip, result of a fall. Mr. Davis had been in fairly good health for the past few years until this time.

W. H. Davis was born in Grayson County, Texas, April 16, 1860. He moved from Grayson to Runnels County, and was married there in 1889 to Miss Callie Donia Williams. Mr. Davis with his family moved to Loraine in 1925 and has made his home here since that time.

Services for Mr. Davis were held at Yates Funeral Chapel at Sweetwater at 2 p. m. Monday with Rev. Stovall Pastor of the First Baptist Church of Sterling City officiating. With burial in Montvale Cemetery, Sterling City.

Pall bearers were five nephews and one grandson.

Surviving are four sons and three daughters, Joe E., Big Spring; Jeff of Loraine; M. H. of Sundown; W. B. of Los Angeles, Cal.; Mary of Dallas; Mrs. Florence Smith of Sweetwater; and Mrs. Reta Beasley of Dallas. Fifteen grand children and four great grandchildren also survive.

Transfer Your Children Now

Parents who must transfer their children from one school district to another are to remember that such transfers must be made before August 1. Those who wish to transfer to Loraine should see Mr. Cook, superintendent. He is in town every day and will be glad to help you. Since he is new here and does not know many people he will appreciate it if you will look him up.

If you are in doubt as to whether or not to transfer your children go ahead and transfer them. Transfers may be made with the County Superintendent, Mr. Roy Coles, or with Mr. Cook here.

FOURTH SUNDAY SINGING AT PLEASANT VALLEY

The regular fourth Sunday singing will be held at the Pleasant Valley Church Sunday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock. All lovers of good singing are invited to attend.

HUSBAND OF FORMER LORAIN GIRL DIES

Word was received in Loraine Sunday of the sudden death of Wesley Bentley, 36, of Charlotte, N. C., husband of the former Juanice Blakley of Loraine.

The body was brought to Abilene for burial Wednesday.

Mrs. Bentley is a niece of J. L. Pratt.

ALVIS ARMSTRONG HONORED THURSDAY

A picnic supper honoring Alvis Armstrong here from Brooks Field, San Antonio, was enjoyed on the lawn at the Alfred Richey home Thursday night. Those attending were: Mrs. G. J. Richey, Boyd Richey, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Armstrong of Colorado City, Mrs. Jack Richey and daughter Jackie, Mrs. Garland Cary and children, Bob Looney, Louise Hallmark, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Richey and Wanda and the honored guest, Alvis Armstrong.

REA BOOKKEEPER WILL ATTEND SPECIAL ACCOUNTING SCHOOL

Blanche McCarley, bookkeeper of the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc. will leave July 16 for Lubbock where she will spend the week of July 20 to 25 attending a special Rural Electrification bookkeepers' school, according to O. I. Griffin, superintendent of the system.

The first four days of the school will be devoted to a study of approved standard accounting methods used in rural electrification systems throughout the country, and on Friday the sessions will be given over to general operations problems.

Member meter reading practice that has been used in the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc. system for more than two years as well as in a great majority of the 788 REA cooperatives throughout the country, is doubly important now with the conservation of rubber and gasoline vital to the war effort. Several hundred thousand miles of driving along the nation's 360,000 miles of REA lines are saved every month through this member-participation practice.

Part of the final session will be given to a discussion of what REA lines have, one, and can best do, in the war effort. How to make the best possible use of present facilities and how to prepare and maintain the cooperative's records in such shape that quick adjustments can be made to every war emergency, will be discussed at Friday's session.

Mrs. Homer Hart underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Sweetwater Hospital Friday, and was brought to the Johnson Hospital here Sunday.

S. W. Gibson underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Sweetwater Hospital Thursday and was brought to the Johnson Hospital here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Wilson of Sweetwater were dinner guests in the Marvin Martin home Sunday.

Old Phonograph Records Wanted

The American Legion is calling for all old phonograph records. These old records will be used in making new records for use in army camps throughout the country. If you have any old records, even though they are scratched or broken, and would like to give them to a good cause bring them in to The News office or leave them at your favorite store where they will be picked up. The drive for old records will end July 28, so please bring yours in before that time. Roy Sisson is head of the record drive in Loraine.

MRS. DUNNAHO DIED SUDDENLY

Funeral services for Mrs. S. D. Dunnahoo were held from the Methodist Church Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock with Rev. E. C. Raney officiating. Interment was in the Loraine cemetery under direction of G. W. Hendrick. Rev. Polnac and Bro. Pettigrew assisted in the services.

Mrs. Dunnahoo passed away early Tuesday morning, having become ill earlier in the night. Flora Cowan Dunnahoo was born February 6, 1877, at Searcy, Arkansas. She left Searcy with her parents when a child, coming to Carlton, Texas. She came to Loraine in 1907. She was converted and joined the Methodist Church in early life.

She was married to S. D. Dunnahoo November 11, 1899, at Holland, Texas. To this union five children were born, two of whom died in early infancy. Her husband preceded her in death January 27, 1940.

Survivors are three children, M. A. Dunnahoo of Loraine, Mrs. G. W. Perry and Euster Dunnahoo, both of Corpus Christi. Six grandchildren also survive.

Pall bearers were G. A. Hutchins, Jack Coffee, Hubert Thomas, Wiley Walker, O. W. Baumann, and Virgil Wimberley. Flower bearers were Louise Hallmark, Mary Love Walker, Eleanor Green Gloria Martin, Margaret Watson, Laticia Basham, Mara Lee Coffee, Eula Fay Anders, Gypsy Ted McCollum, and Naomi Walker.

R. L. Mahoney will leave Monday for Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells, where he has enlisted in the air corps.

Election Board Here Sat. Night

Following the usual custom, The Mitchell County News and the Loraine merchants will have a board in Loraine Saturday night on which returns from the election will be posted. It is our plan to get as much information about the election as we can so come in and be with us.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Meadows this week are Sallie, Dale and Pug Mahon, children of Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Mahon of Lubbock.

Mrs. Charles Wyatt of Colorado City spent the week end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cook.

Mrs. J. W. King and son, J. W., Jr., were in Abilene Monday on business.

Lions Club Will Meet Tues. Nite

Officers and directors of the Lions Club decided Tuesday that the next meeting of the club, which is on Tuesday, July 28, will be held at night rather than at noon in order to have with us a speaker from the British Flying School at Sweetwater. The flyers cannot be here at noon so the meeting was changed to night in order to have them. It is said the flyers have among their number interesting speakers and entertainers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hallmark left Sunday for El Paso where they will visit her sisters this week.

Mrs. Ed Small and daughter Barbara went to Sudan Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Small's uncle there.

Baptist Church In Revival

The revival is in progress at the tabernacle with the pastor, Rev. Huron Polnac, conducting the services. The time was changed due to conflicting with the Methodist revival for a few days. The pastor is delivering special spiritual messages to the crowds both morning and evening. The morning service at 11 a. m. and the evening service at 8:00 with prayer services at 8:30. The public is cordially invited to attend regardless of belief. We enjoy the fellowship of friends and neighbors in our community.

The S. S. attendance is on the increase and we are trusting that it will remain so. Won't you come and do your part?

We want to especially thank the Methodist people for the use of the tabernacle and their cooperation in the services. It takes a praying people where harmony and love dwell to promote Christianity and its great cause.

LIONS WANT SCRAP IRON COLLECTION

Dr. Bruce Johnson, president of the Lions Club, is urging everyone who has scrap iron they will donate to the Lions Club to please let him know about it. The Club is planning to purchase a permanent meeting place and the money derived from the sale of the scrap will be used for that purpose.

Henry Neill and Olen Mayes were in San Angelo on business Monday.

John Jarratt of Anson spent the week end here with his father, A. E. Jarratt.

Mrs. Naomi Forbus and Calvin and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brewer and Alma Ruth Collier visited Mrs. Ruby Jennings at Merkel Sunday. Louise Forbus, who has been visiting there, returned with them.

Inductees May Be Examined Locally

Because calls are becoming larger, State headquarters of Selective Service, Austin, has added three physicians to the number already examining registrants for local physician examinations.

The three doctors appointed are Dr. Bruce Johnson, Loraine, and Dr. W. S. Rhode and Dr. O. E. Rhode of Colorado City. These are in addition to Dr. H. A. Logsdon and Dr. J. Melvin Crymner, who, since Selective Service began operating, have been examining registrants and will continue to do so. All doctors so appointed, like the three members of the Selective Service Board for Mitchell County, serve without remuneration.

BETHEL REVIVAL STARTS FRIDAY NIGHT

The revival meeting for the Bethel Baptist Church at Bauman will start Friday night, July 24, with the Rev. B. B. Edwards of Cisco doing the preaching. Evening services will begin at sunset and morning services at 11 a. m. The pastor is expected to attend every service for the ten-day period, according to Rev. L. B. Edwards, pastor.

There were about twenty guests registered and gifts of linen were presented to Miss Palmer.

STATE AUDITOR SAYS OLD AGE ASSISTANCE PROPERLY HANDLED

Austin, July 22—State Auditor, C. H. Cavness reported today, after his current examination of the records, that in his opinion all taxes collected for the Old Age Assistance Fund have been properly handled by the State Comptroller and State Treasurer and that every individual old age assistance applicant who has been duly certified by the State Department of Public Welfare has been paid in full the entire amount to which he is legally entitled to date.

The State Auditor pointed out that under the present Federal law, with which the State law must conform, all monthly payments to each individual are fixed by the Department of Public Welfare after investigation of each case to determine actual individual need. He said that the amount of the cash balance that may be on hand cannot legally be used to increase the size of the checks—that any excess cash over the amount necessary to pay the ones on the roll can be used only to increase the number, and that the total cash balance after the July 1942 checks had been written was only $15,813.96.

Cavness also stated that 176,413 Old Age Assistance checks were issued for July 1942, or an average of $19.85 per check. In July 1941 checks were issued to 144,359 old people—average $18.54. This is an increase in 12 months of 32,054 checks and $1.32 in their average monthly amount. Since January 1941 the lowest average check was $11.47 in May 1941 and July 1942 was the highest, the average having increased somewhat every month since June 1941.

Mrs. Russel Cope and Mary Frances, Mrs. Alfred Richey and Ray Furlow left Wednesday morning for Corpus Christi for a visit with Corp. Russell Cope and Mr. and Mrs. John Horton. Mrs. Marion Rhodes and daughter returned to her home there with them after a visit here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Green.

Cecil Polnac of Walnut Springs is here visiting his brother, Rev. and Mrs. H. A. Polnac.

Grady Furlow left Sunday for San Angelo where he has employment.

Nazi Steamroller Pushes Soviets Back In Struggle for Control of Caucasus; Government Wheat Sells for 83 Cents; Wage Pattern Set by Ruling on Steel

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Coast Guardsman Jack Cullen, 21-year-old hero who confronted the Nazi saboteurs who landed on American soil from a submarine, is shown as he was congratulated by Vice Admiral Russell R. Wachsche, commander of the U. S. coast guard, for his devotion to duty and outstanding performance that led to the capture and trial of the spy ring. Cullen was advanced from seaman to coxswain in recognition of his service.

RUSSIA: Nazi Steamroller

Adolf Hitler had demonstrated that the long delay before he launched his monster offensive against the Soviet Union had not been wasted and that despite terrible losses his tank forces had lost none of their striking power.

For the mighty thrusts which started originally in the Kursk and Kharkov areas had steadily gained in weight and momentum, forcing their way through the Don basin. The attack developed three spearheads aimed to split the armies of Marshal Timoshenko in the Ukraine and those of Marshal Zhukov in the Moscow area. The northern objective was Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway; the central thrust was aimed at Kubyshev; and the southern had Stalingrad as its goal.

Moscow made no effort to minimize the danger of a broad breakthrough. For once holding a line from Rostov to Stalingrad, the Nazis would be in position to swing southward to Astrakhan on the Caspian sea and into the Caucasus itself, where waited their supreme prize—the fabulous oil pools of Tiflis and Baku. Moreover, such a move would pave the way for a junction by Nazi Marshal Von Bock with the armies of Japan poised on the borders of India far to the east and those of Field Marshal Rommel, on the shores of the Mediterranean.

EGYPT: Collision of Tanks

Air-borne from Crete came Rommel's long-awaited reinforcements. Tough and battle-seasoned were they and expert at storming defenses such as the British were manning against them in Egypt's crucial El Alamein sector.

Tricky Marshal Rommel employed a battle device that had won for him on many a previous occasion—that of beginning his attack at dusk when the sun was in his opponents' eyes.

Bringing up heavy tank reinforcements, both sides battered each other in battles on which the fate of Alexandria and Suez depended.

The Nazis' immediate goal was a desert coastal ridge five miles west of El Alamein which the British had won from him days before. In the fiercely contested struggle, the RAF was actively engaged, with fighter bombers and light bombers scoring many direct hits on tanks and ranging far to the rear to harass Rommel's thinned-out supply and communication lines.

DRAFT: 'War Effort'

"Contributing to the war effort" will be an important factor in determining the draft status of married as well as single men.

In defining what constitutes "contributing to the war effort," selective service headquarters outlined 34 different types of jobs which would place a man in that category and thus delay his induction. Draft officials emphasized that the supply of single men of all classes would have to be exhausted first.

Trends were clarified in the revised policies announced by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of selective service. While reiterating that "bona fide family relationships will be protected as long as possible," General Hershey instructed local draft boards that when the time comes for calling men with dependents to service, those who are not contributing to the war effort should be called first. Last class to be inducted would be married men with children who are contributing to the war effort.

WAGES: Raise for Steelmen

In a decision regarded as a yardstick for future wage disputes, the War Labor board laid down the principle that workers were entitled to a 15 per cent increase, based on higher living costs between January, 1941, and May, 1942.

The ruling was made when the board approved a daily wage increase of 44 cents for workers employed by the so-called "Little Steel" companies: Bethlehem, Republic, Inland and Youngstown Sheet and Tube. Directly affected were 157,000 men. Indirectly the decision was expected to affect more than a million workers, including 600,000 throughout the steel industry generally and 400,000 automobile plant workers.

The CIO United Steel Workers originally had asked for a $1 a day increase. The WLB voted the compromise wage increase 8 to 4, the labor members dissenting.

SURPLUS WHEAT: To Sell at 83c

News bulletins had carried the bare announcement that the house of representatives had concurred with a senate proposal to convert government-owned surplus wheat into United Nations war needs by feeding it to livestock to produce meat, milk and eggs.

But back of that announcement was the story of the breakup of a six-months' legislative log-jam, a victory for the administration's anti-inflation program and acknowledgment by the farm bloc that it must accept less than a parity rate for the sale of its grain.

Twice before the house had voted to bar the sale of surplus wheat unless it was made at the full parity price of $1.25 a bushel. Now it agreed to go along with the senate and allow the sale of 125,000,000 bushels of government-owned wheat at 85 per cent of the parity price of corn—or about 83 cents a bushel—for feeding cattle and hogs. The house also agreed that any amount of government-owned grain might be sold below parity prices for the manufacture of alcohol for rubber or munitions.

MIDWAY SAGA: Better Than Expected

When a naval communique released the first official detailed account of the Battle of Midway, the steadily growing conviction that the United States had won a victory of major importance was confirmed.

The communique revealed for the first time that Japan had sent an armada of 80 ships to assault Midway as a prelude to the conquest of Hawaii.

Final score of the battle was 20 Jap ships sunk or damaged, including four aircraft carriers sunk and three battleships hit; 275 planes destroyed, and 4,300 men killed or drowned. American losses included the destroyer Hammann sunk, the aircraft carrier Yorktown put out of action and 307 officers and enlisted men lost.

SUBMARINES: Menace Grows

Official acknowledgement that something drastic must be done to counteract the Axis unrelenting submarine attacks on United Nations shipping was seen in Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox's announcement that a convoy system had been set up in the Caribbean area and would be established in the Gulf of Mexico.

Coastwise convoys, however, would have to get along without the help of destroyers, it was indicated.

U. S. Leaders at Saboteur Trial

Attorney General Francis Biddle, J. Edgar Hoover, FBI chief, and Colonel Ristline are shown seated around a table in the courtroom in Washington as they listened to the proceedings of the famous saboteur trial. This is the trial of the eight Nazi saboteurs who were landed in this country by submarine for the express purpose of wrecking America's war machines. Caught by the FBI before they could fulfill their mission, they faced trial as spies. Speaking over the radio, Hoover declared that those who gave these eight Nazis aid were traitors to their country.

U. S. Bond Purchases Are Better Than Forced Savings

Federal Taxes Unable to Cover Total of Present War Expenses; Transport Planes' Importance Growing.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

Washington, which never hesitates more at offending the electorate than in election year, today is faced with doing that most offensive thing of all—taking away the people's money.

The President's anti-inflation program has not been carried out and nobody dares take the first cruel step to put it into force.

The love of money may be the root of all evil, but the presence of too much money in too many pockets has become an evil, too. The two methods of rooting out this evil are to stop the money coming into all these pockets and to take it away after it gets there. I have had an interesting glimpse into plans for the taking away process through the eyes of some of the men who have some very decided views on that subject.

My story begins in a very ornate corner of the Capitol building just off the senate floor.

Senator Z was opposite me. I always call on him when I want an idea in a couple of pungent paragraphs. He was once a newspaper man himself, and as a timid representative of a news syndicate many years ago I used to beard him in his news den.

"Senator," I said, "what are you going to do about taxes?"

Senator Z's eyes lighted up. He shifted his cigar. "Baukhage," he said and slapped my adjacent knee, "I am not going to do anything—now. When the time comes I am going to do a lot. Let me tell you something. Last January Secretary Morgenthau came and talked to some of us. He said: 'I know it's hard for you folks to vote for a big tax bill in election year. But it's got to be done. And I'll tell you what I want. I want the country to pay for the war two-thirds of the way as we go. I want you men here to make a team and agree to that. Taxes to equal two-thirds of expenditures.'"

"So we agreed. But in the five months since then the expenditures have increased so that the balance has been thrown completely out. Instead of paying with taxes two-thirds of current expenses we will be lucky if we can pay one-third."

"And let me tell you this: It is a lot better to make the taxes lower, to leave some money in the taxpayers' pocket and force him to buy bonds. I'm not coming out for compulsory savings now for that would defeat itself. I am going to wait until Joe Doaks begins to realize what is happening."

"And let me tell you this!" "When this war is over, unless the money to fund the war debt is still in Joe Doaks' pocket, Joe is going to lose it and the whole economic framework of the country will go to pot. Joe doesn't know that. He thinks the money in the bank is still his. It isn't. It's the bank's. Now Joe won't keep the actual money in his pocket. He'll spend it. Eventually the bank will get it if he does. But if he buys a government bond and puts that in his pocket, he will be safe. So will the country."

"Well," I asked the senator, "when are you going to do something about this, are you going to come out for compulsory savings?"

"No," he said, "but I have a plan, and when Joe Doaks realizes that Henry Morgenthau's voluntary purchase of bonds has fallen down I'll be ready."

Americans Show They Can Do It

Nobody dislikes anything compulsory more than red-blooded Americans, but when an emergency arises, if they feel it is a real, national emergency, they will do what they are told and do it willingly. Three million men did it willingly in the last war when they were told they had to go and fight. Millions are preparing to do it in this war.

Now saving is something that Americans talk about but never have done so much about. In the piping times of peace the insurance agents used to tell me that 90 per cent of the American people had no estate at all when they died and were utterly dependent when they quit work.

Working men and farmers are two of the most independent thinking classes in America today. But strangely enough, the same day that I talked with Senator X in the overstuffed chair in the senate anteroom I ran into P. P. is a great friend of the oppressed. He is also a great friend of the laboring man, oppressed or otherwise.

After an exchange of greetings I said to him:

"How do you fellows expect the farmer to be willing to let farm prices be curtailed in any way when wages aren't frozen?"

"I don't," he said, "but I have a great idea. I have been working on Phil Murray about it. It is simple. Let all wage raises from now on be paid in non-negotiable war bonds. That will stop inflation, for it will keep the money out of circulation."

Well, as I say, I'm no economist but after those two experiences I have begun to get ready to sign up right now for so many bonds a month.

Military Transport Planes For Troop Movements

"Which would you rather try to lick? One wild cat or a swarm of hornets?"

Naturally, I chose, not too willingly even for a purely mental combat, the wildcat.

"So would the Germans!" My lunch partner leaned across the frail restaurant table and pounded it until the tomato-juice cocktails leapt into the air and frightened war-workers looked at us apprehensively.

"You could take a million men across the English channel in ten days in small planes that could be built in six months. They would be as thick as hornets. Those planes could be built without the slightest strain on our war effort."

"That's just an example," my friend went on, "of what we could do with planes if we could get these fossils to build them. Check my figures with the Civil Bureau of Aeronautics if you want to."

"What I am really getting at is this—my friend went on and then stopped to absorb the agitated tomato juice. Soon he was off again on a most interesting exposition concerning air-power. I tried to keep up with him."

It is hard for a layman to assay these enthusiasts. What they say is always studded with figures quoted from official records. And they usually can quote volumes to prove that people who disagree with them said the same things about Billy Mitchell's ideas all of which have been proved correct.

What my friend was getting at was this: That military transport has been woefully neglected. That only now are we beginning to build transport planes on a scale to meet the demands.

Germany has 10,000 transport planes in service. We only have five plying between China and India. But even a plane carrying 1½ tons could do the work of a hundred and fifty trucks over the Burma road.

I had just heard the surprising word from the lips of a Chinese general that even before the Burma road was destroyed, China was getting very little more in the way of supplies than she is today. Why didn't we begin plane transport then? I thought of the couplet by Pope:

Be not the first by whom the new is tried Nor yet the last to lay the old aside.

I thought we had gone a long way in transport already. Our transports or ferries are over every continent except Antarctica. The Pan American Airlines, which established a regular service across Africa, transporting its own supplies and men to equip the fields, is about to be taken over by the army.

But, according to my friend, we would have been much further along if it hadn't been for "Brass hats who think only in terms of text books that don't even contain the words 'dive-bomber,' or 'glider' or more than passing mention of any aircraft except balloons."

I don't know—perhaps it is time "to lay the old aside."

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

American aircraft manufacturing has increased its annual production rate of warplanes almost 1,000 per cent in 25 months.

More military airplanes will be built during 1942 than were manufactured between the time the first military plane was delivered to the army in 1909 and the first of the present year.

It looks now as if farmers will send to market this fall and winter 5½ to 6 million more hogs than ever before marketed in the period from October 1 through next April.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX W-N-U Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan is determined to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher who is out to run the cattle country his own way. As a rancher, Morgan knows he must protect his own rights, but he doesn't like Herendeen's methods. Of his former friends, only Hack Breathitt has not gone over to Herendeen's side. The rest—Charley Hillhouse, Gurd Grant and Lige White, for example, are supporting Herendeen, more or less in self defense. They don't like his methods, either, but they believe that if they don't follow him they will lose everything.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IV

At daybreak Clay Morgan rode as far as the Antelope Plains with the roundup crew and worked with it until mid-morning. Afterwards he set off to have a look at the grass and water on the western edge of the Moguls. Gurd Grant, having business at his own ranch, went along. Gurd was a big and completely friendly man of Morgan's age with light features and a consistently pleased expression in his eyes. There was no malice and no subterfuge of any kind in Gurd. But now, as he rode, he spoke in a rather troubled, uncertain way of Herendeen.

"You know, Clay, he ain't such a bad fellow. I hate to see you two start chewing the same piece of leather. Of course, you never did like each other. I can remember as far back as school when you and Ben got in some pretty tough jangles."

"Gurd," said Morgan, turning toward his partner, "I want to warn you. Ben's the kind of a fellow that gets worse the farther he goes. Maybe he'll start by chasing a few crooks out of the country. But he won't stop there. He'll get the idea that nobody has any rights unless they're riding close to him."

Riding on through the short hills, they came to Crowfoot's quarters seated in a small round valley backed against the Haycreek Hills. A creek, charging out of the pine timber, crossed the meadow in front of a low, long-galleried white house surrounded by poplar trees. The two dismounted in this pleasant shade and went back to the dining room for a late noon meal.

They were still at the table when a single rider came out of the hill trail at a full gallop. A moment later Catherine Grant appeared.

"Gentlemen," she said, "you are both very solemn."

Gurd Grant held his seat with a brother's habitual indifference but Clay Morgan rose at once before this laughter-loving girl with the gay and gently blue eyes. This was Catherine Grant, who, with her brother Gurd, ran Crowfoot.

"Once," she reflected, "there was a man named Morgan. He lived on top of a mountain and never did come down. He grew a beard, so they say, and got the habit of talking to himself. I wonder whatever happened to him?"

"Crazy as always," said Gurd. "And quit running your horse down that trail, you hear?"

She didn't hear. She stood in front of Clay, stripping away her riding gloves—smiling and watching his answering smile break the solid healthy darkness of his face. Gurd Grant sat as an interested and forgotten spectator to this scene, quick to note his sister's instant gaiety in front of Clay, and Clay's lightning expression. There always had been an odd closeness between these two people. Sometimes, as now, that closeness puzzled him and sometimes bothered him; he never could get at its meaning. All he knew was that whenever they met they seemed to share some old memory which excluded everybody else, as now. He rose and left the room.

The cook brought Catherine her meal. She sat opposite Clay, eating a little and talking a little. Clay lighted a smoke. He braced his elbow on the table, chin propped in his long, heavy hand. "Your hair," he said, "is getting darker."

"That's gray you see. Gray from worry."

"When you were eighteen it was almost a carrot red."

She said: "I remember you said that once, a long time ago. It almost made me cry. I came home and wondered if I could dye it."

"We used to talk pretty straight, didn't we? We had some tall quarels."

She gave him a straight, smileless look. "Why did we ever quarrel, Clay?"

"Maybe," he said, "it was because we always stuck together and had so damned much fun." He wasn't sure of what he wished to say. This girl was a close, deep part of his life. Once, she had been nearer to him than any other woman. Some of that old feeling remained, so that when he sat by her now he had a feeling of pleasant ease; knowing that he had to explain nothing to her, knowing that she understood.

Suddenly she rose and turned away, knowing what was in his mind. He left the table, following her out to the house porch. He said: "See you later, Catherine."

"All right, Clay."

Gurd came around the house. He said to his sister in a teasing, amused voice: "Rakin' up the ashes of an old fire?"

"Hush."

"You two," commented Gurd, "used to be pretty thick. Before

"Why don't we go into War Pass some night, Catherine, and paint the town?"

Lila came along. I always wondered how thick?"

She straightened against the porch post and showed him a self-contained expression. Gurd laughed a little, seeing his sister close up on him, and ceased to laugh, when he thought of something else. "I don't like the way he's acting. He won't talk to Ben."

"No," said Catherine. "He never will."

"It was something that had to do with Lila and Ben, wasn't it?"

She shook her head. "Never mind, Gurd."

The quick ruffle of horses' hooves turned her against the porch post and in this attitude she watched Herendeen and Lige White cross the meadow. When they reached the porch Lige White lifted his hat with a gallant flourish he could never escape. Herendeen simply stepped down, saying: "Want to see you, Gurd."

Herendeen said, "Why don't we go into War Pass some night, Catherine, and paint the town?"

They sat down in the drowsy shade of the living room. Lige White looked around, chuckling over a sudden fancy. "I remember how your mother used to receive visitors here. A very proper and courteous woman, Gurd."

"Gurd," said Ben Herendeen, blunt and impatient as always, "we're going to set some men on these hill trails at night. Just to see who travels 'em after dark. Lige has agreed to take care of the Antelope Plains. I'm posting one near the west base of the Moguls. I want you to keep some men up there on the high trail to War Pass. Be sure they don't talk and be sure they do this after dark."

"All right," said Gurd. "But you're fishin' with a pretty loose net. What we need is a man to just ride around with his eyes and ears open, without being suspected."

"Range detective," said Lige White.

Herendeen gave both of them a stolid look. "Already got that man."

"Who?" asked Gurd.

Herendeen bent forward and let the man's name drop softly into the room. "Now," he added, "say nothing about it. Anybody knew it was him, his life wouldn't be worth much." He put his hand stare on Gurd Grant. "I don't want Morgan to know, either."

"Well now," answered Gurd Grant with slow discomfort, "I don't know about that. He's in this, too."

"What was he playin' along with Ollie Jacks for? Anybody know where he really stands? Anybody got a square answer out of him? No. Until we do we'll keep this to ourselves." He had a way of dropping his closed fist through the air to drive home his talk; he did it now. Then he added, dryly: "It may be he's on the other side of the fence."

"That's a damned fool thing to say," flared up Gurd Grant. "I don't like it."

"He's protecting Hack Breathitt," pointed out Herendeen. "And what's Hack? Figure it out."

"Wait a minute," said Gurd Grant, "Hack's all right."

"He made camp with Pete Borders last night," said Herendeen. "Grant scowled at the news. "Foolish thing to do," he admitted.

Herendeen rose. "You two fellows meet me at my place around six. Maybe I can show you something. Maybe, before long, we'll smoke out Morgan. Far as I'm concerned, it's fish or cut bait. We'll have this country empty of people that don't belong in it by ninety days." He slapped his hand sharply against his knee and rose, leading the other two to the porch.

Catherine remained by the steps. Herendeen paused and put his round blue glance on her, cool and appraising; he betrayed himself to her, in the way he used his eyes. He showed her what he was thinking. "Friday night then, Catherine," he said and went to his horse, riding out of the meadow with Lige White.

"Gurd," reflected Catherine, "be careful in what you promise Ben."

Gurd said: "We've all got to stick together," and went back through the house.

"What's the trouble?"

A TYPICAL MARINE WHO WANTED A FIGHT

THE TWO THINGS from which Lieut. Col. Kink Beecher, United States marines, derived greatest pleasure was to fish and to fight. He could spend long days on a favorite Wisconsin lake, and while he preferred a black bass, he did not despise the lowly perch. But even better than fishing, to Kink, was a good scrap. Fighting with him is an avocation, as well as a vocation. He is a "from the ranks" officer and has fought with the marines in France, in Nicaragua, China, Haiti, and other places. The last time I saw him was at Quantico, the marine barracks near Washington, where he was unhappy because there was no prospect of a fight. I last heard from him at Shanghai. He left there for Manila some two weeks before Pearl Harbor. I trust he still lives even though he may be a prisoner of the Japs, but to be out of the fight would be the greatest hardship that could befall him. To me Lieut. Col. Kink Beecher typifies the United States marine corps.

GOVERNMENT BONDS IN WAR TIME

WE HAVE IN AMERICA today considerably more than twice as much currency in circulation as we had during World War I, and we then had some slight inflation, but not enough to be ruinous. During World War I the public purchased the greater portion of the Liberty bonds issued by the government, as a result of special sales drives, with a house to house canvass.

Within the past ten years most of the government bonds issued have been sold to the banks, with a smaller percentage to the insurance companies and the public. When the banks buy, they, in turn, use them as a basis for additional bank note currency, and that accounts for our ever-increasing money in circulation. Every increase in the amount of our circulating currency increases the danger of inflation. The banks cannot take up the government issues without turning them into increased bank note currency. That is one of the reasons for the effort to sell the bonds to the public instead of to the banks. The other reason is to take out of the hands of the public money people would otherwise use in the purchase of commodities. We cannot produce a sufficient amount of consumer commodities to meet such a demand. When the public has money to buy more commodities than can be produced it pushes the prices up to inflationary levels. The only other remedy is fixed prices, and fixed prices will leave money in the hands of the people.

AMERICAN DEMOCRACY AND THE COMING PEACE

MRS. ROOSEVELT, in the American Magazine, tells us we are fighting for the privilege of revolutionizing the world on the lines of democracy, rather than permitting Hitler to revolutionize it on the lines of German totalitarianism. She says the war is but the first step in that revolution. She does not say what the final step is to be.

Governor Stassen of Minnesota, in a recent interview, proposes several plans for the purpose, he says, of making the Roosevelt-Churchill Atlantic program a reality at the peace conference.

Both give America something to think about, and we should be a unit as to what we want by the time that peace conference meets—a few months or a few years from now.

To help us in the thinking it would be well if Sumner Blossom, editor of the American Magazine, would find someone to interpret the type of world Mrs. Roosevelt is expecting the revolution to produce.

IN 1941 THERE WERE on the roads of America 27,300,000 of what the government considers non-priority cars. That is, cars the government would not permit being replaced during the war. Government experts figure that should the war last until 1945—three more years—the number of non-priority cars then in operation would be down to 3,900,000. What a dead place America would be under such conditions. Let us hope the Huns, the Japs, and the Wops are licked long before we reach such a point.

THERE IS ONE WAY of insuring retreats for your automobile tires. Get a job as an official of a labor union. They are considered essential to the war effort, but farmers, salesmen, merchants, and others of the common people, including workers, may walk.

CLASS-CONSCIOUSNESS

OUT OF THE WAR we will achieve a freedom for which we are not fighting the Huns or the Japs. Out of the war we will achieve a freedom from that growing class-consciousness.

There were those with selfish purposes encouraging a recognition of class and class distinctions. Any effort along such lines is subversive to our ideals. It has been only in recent years that we have recognized, even in a small way, any class distinctions.

China's Total War

By Owen Lattimore

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Colliers Weekly)

IF YOU want to know how to win the war, study China.

The Chinese show us what can be done when every man and boy does his part. They do not worry whether that part seems glamorous or important; they know that the sum total of effort is the thing that counts—the millions of little contributions which go into the common pot. The individual Chinese may be only breaking stones with a hammer or carrying earth in a basket, but by the thousands they build an airport in the mountains as well as we could build it with our elaborate machinery. Each knows that he, with hammer or basket, is fighting in a great cause.

Not long ago, in a cave in Southern China, I watched men making rifles. With Japanese planes ranging frequently overhead, this was the only safe place for the machinery. Moisture dripped from the roof of the cave, so the men had to work under tarpaulins.

A 14-Year-Old Boy's Experience.

One of the most highly skilled workers, handling a delicate multiple adjustment lathe, was a 14-year-old boy. He told me he came from a little farm in northeast China. Two years ago the Japs swept in. The farmhouse was burned, the boy's parents were killed or disappeared. The boy escaped, crept through the Jap lines, and traveled 2,000 miles on foot into South China.

Now this homeless farm kid, by the hardest kind of application, has made himself a first-rate machinist. He not only puts in a hard day's work himself, but studies at night in the factory school which is helped by government funds. Every little factory in China is now a technological training institute.

This boy, and his experience, tell a good deal about the new China. Millions of others, like him, have made their way through the Japanese lines to join the army or to help in production. Millions, pushing into sparsely populated western China like American pioneers, have opened up surprising new sources of coal, oil, iron, and so on. "There carry on the no gas rationing. Chigonna be no run-off."

Others, ms of all the world that the new in iron. All the masterly freedoms that men nation. I through the slow cent.

The induc finan plants are to a hundre.

have grown up into thriving private enterprises. So, from almost nothing, in the midst of war, from under the shadow of defeat, China created an industry able to maintain an army of 3,000,000 men.

Under Chiang Kai-shek.

This army, fighting with rifles and bayonets against the massed tanks, planes, and heavy artillery of Japan, suffered heavy defeats and terrific casualties. But, under the strategy and leadership of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, it was never routed. It never fell into panic. It was never encircled.

Chiang realized that his men, without modern arms, could not defeat the mechanized Japanese armies in the flat coastal regions. He fought, fell back, scorched the earth (the Russians learned something from that), and fought again. As he says, "I traded space for time."

Then, when he reached the wooded hills and mountains, where Japanese tanks and trucks could not operate, and where his men could find shelter from the swarming Jap planes, he held. There he still holds.

He showed how to break up the dread Jap "infiltration" attacks, which so baffled the British in Malaya and the Dutch in Java, and turned Japanese advances into traps where thousands were cut to pieces. He learned the tricks, habits, and weaknesses of the Jap military machine. I think it would be wise for us to invite some of Chiang's veteran officers to advise our armies in these matters. The swift Japanese method of landing operations, which took some of the United Nations so by surprise, have been used on the Chinese coast for four years.

ELECT A WEST TEXAN!

To The United States Senate
By VOTING for

JAMES V. ALLRED

In the more than one hundred years of Texas history, Texas has never been represented in the United States Senate by a West Texan. This year, for the first time, you have an opportunity of electing a West Texan to that high position by voting for James V. Allred, who was born and grew to manhood in West Texas, and who knows and understands the problems of West Texas.

His record of two terms as attorney general and two terms as governor of Texas is filled with pages of successful solutions of West Texas problems.

IN THE ancient wicked days when drinking still was going on, Riley Wilson, the official humorist of West Virginia, met on the streets of Huntington a friend of his from up in the mountains. Extending the customary hospitality, Wilson invited the hillman to have something.

The visitor was agreeably inclined. They crossed the street and entered the swinging doors of a life-saving station.

At one end of the bar an electric fan was buzzing. The gaze of the mountaineer froze on this novel object. So absorbed and interested was he that he almost forgot to help himself from the bottle which the bartender set out for him. He put down his emptied glass and, walking close up to the fan, continued to watch it in a fascinated silence.

"Well, old man," said Wilson, "are you ready to move along?" "Riley," answered the mountaineer without turning his head, "if you don't mind, I'm going to stay a spell longer. I don't know how much longer I must be here, 'cause I aim to wait until this here little critter stops spinnin' his wheel around so I can get a good look at it. I've seen some peart squirrels caged up, in my time, but this shore must be the peartest one that ever was ketched."

CANDIDATE FOR

Representative

117th Dist.

I appreciate my many friends in Mitchell County and it has been a pleasure to campaign among you. If elected I will serve you to the best of my ability.

B. N. Carter, Candidate for County Attorney,
Makes Final Appeal to Voters

Having faith in the triumph of right and truthful statements over wrong information and wrong impressions concerning the administration of the office of county attorney for five and a half years, I hear and now say to you that the records of my work are written into the permanent court records of this county, and those records relating to violations of the Criminal Laws of this State may be investigated and should be investigated by all fair and impartial voters, who may doubt my conduct of the office.

The Justice Courts are empowered and have jurisdiction to assess fines in vagrancy cases brought before them. The County Courts are empowered with jurisdiction in all misdemeanor cases wherein a jail penalty may be a part or all the penalty.

Violation of the Local Option Law by habitual violators of said law may be handled by the Justice Courts under the Vagrancy Laws. Such violations may also be filed in the County Court under the Vagrancy charge. They may also be filed in said court under Article 666-41 of the Liquor Law. My record in dealing with such cases in these courts is open to you and we welcome inspection.

To disabuse your minds of any erroneous idea you may have formed, our Statutes, Article 667-27 of the Liquor Control Law places in our District court the power to issue injunctive orders against the place where the law is being violated and the party found operating such place. Under Article 4666 of our Civil Code, the same Court is empowered and given authority to close and padlock such place for a period of one year, and the party violating the said law may be enjoined by said court from ever selling or possessing for sale illicit liquor inside the boundaries of this county. After being served with such injunctive writs, if the party is caught in any acts of sale or possession of such contempt of its injunctive order, for each and every act of violation, not to exceed $100.00 and a jail penalty not to exceed Three days.

The records of the District court of this county disclose that that court, acting on petitions filed by members of the Attorney General's Office, and at the expense of the State, has for a number of years resorted to the drastic Statutory order: against the places and persons where the law was being violated.

Thus, my friends, does the law fix the responsibility for the enforcement of the Liquor Control Law on all our courts having criminal jurisdiction.

I am 67 years of age. My education, both literary and law, has been secured in the school of hard knocks. Raised as a poor farmer boy, and without the advantage of college degrees, I have fought the battles of life with the help of the God and Country I love, and I still rely on the same God, the same faith and the confidence of my friends, believing that neither will fail me July 25th. I harbor no ill-will towards those who would injure me politically or personally, and, if returned to the office of county attorney, I shall still be, as I have ever been, the humble servant of each and every man, woman and child in this good county.

Friends, this is given you to set the record straight. I have not been able to see you personally and ask you to take this as my visit with you asking for your vote and support.

Your county attorney.

vertise the flour he was peddling. His connection with the army is much more recent than that.

While he was governor, there was much activity in the National Guard. A great deal of the paper work connected with the National Guard was done at Camp Mabry, on the outskirts of Austin. Governor O'Daniel has never been able to get along without hired musicians. He put several of these hired musicians on the payroll at Camp Mabry. Their services there consisted mostly of drawing their monthly pay. They furnished the patriotic governor the political music he regularly gave out on Sundays and on other occasions.

In the first campaign for governor that O'Daniel made in Texas he sang "Pappy, pass the biscuits," and dodged all issues. In the second campaign for governor, he talked about "professional politicians" and dodged all issues. In the third—his sensational senatorial campaign last year—he sang "There ain't gonna be no war," and dodged all issues.

On the night of June 22, 1942, in a speech at Austin, Texas, to a small and unresponsive crowd, Senator W. Lee O'Daniel said: "Professional politicians got us into this war." That is the way he meets the issues now. That is the way he remembers Pearl Harbor. That is his answer to declarations of war by Germany and Italy against the United States. He says that it is up to Roosevelt to win the war. That is the O'Daniel plan for national cooperation.

No citizen can get away from the war. It is a total war. A year or two years from now the people will realize much more intimately how total and terrible the war is. American soldiers and sailors by the tens of thousands will lie at the bottom of the seas and oceans of the world and on the continents and islands stretching from the equator to the poles.

The Texas tradition is a fighting tradition, and already in this war the Texans have drawn themselves the eyes of the world. On San Jacinto Day last April, the

Serve It Right Out of Your Locker

Good Beef is made Better and Poor Beef is Improved when it is QUICK FROZEN. All of the original goodness is frozen in and comes out only when it is cooked.

Beef is one of the most healthful foods and should be served to your family often. A quarter, half or whole beef stored in your locker will provide fresh meat for your family regularly—and the cost is much less than when you buy a little now and then. The beef will be cut like you want it, wrapped in packages to suit your family, frozen and placed in your locker and you can take it out any time you like.

Texas boys on besieged Corregidor sang "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You." One day last month a thousand Texas boys were sworn in together at Houston to avenge the Japanese sinking of the S. S. Houston. Before the United States was bombed into the war, so many Texans had volunteered for the Canadian air force that this magnificent body of men was jokingly called the Royal Texas Canadian Air Force. Among the seventy-nine men that Doolittle led to bomb Tokyo, there were nineteen Texans—a fourth of the force.

The Flying Tigers in Burma and China are distinguished by Texans. While one of their daring leaders called "Kirk of San Saba" flies obsolete planes, Mr. O'Daniel campaigns with five luxurious touring cars, two sound trucks and one station wagon.

No man claiming to represent a people ever stood more isolated from them than W. Lee O'Daniel stands today among the Texans. While he glides over the smooth highways of Texas on the thirty-two wheels of rubber that his campaign caravan "conserves," the United States Congress appropriates over $42,000,000,000 for carrying on the war. This is the greatest appropriation for war that any nation in the history of the world ever made. It is greater than all World War I cost America. And while the nation forges, strives, arms, goes down in ships, goes over the waters to fight and die, the mighty scene brings from Mr. O'Daniel only a galvanized chant: "There ain't gonna be no gas rationing. There ain't gonna be no run-off."

"The nations of all the world are clanking in iron. All the rights and freedoms that men have gained through the slow centuries are in the balances. Doomsday itself is at hand. W. Lee O'Daniel asks to be elected to lead us in these most difficult of all times—times that demand the strongest and sincerest characters for leadership. As he asks for votes, he smiles his manufactured smile and yaps out his hired music to the tune of "There Ain't Gonna Be No War."

NEW IDEAS
for Home-makers
By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

GIVE an old wicker chair a smart cover of gay chintz and it will be ready to start a new life. The chintz for this chair has a quaint pattern of strawberries with green leaves and the skirt with its trim box pleated corners is plain green. The cover is removable with a zipper opening down the center back and long stitches with heavy thread through the cover and the wicker are used here and there to hold it neatly in place.

The padding for the inside of the back lends both style and comfort. The cotton batting is fitted and cut on the chair. It is then used for a pattern to cut a slightly larger muslin foundation and the chintz, as shown at the upper left. These three layers are then basted and stitched together to make the puffed ridges for this part of the cover. Plain seams are used to stitch the pieces of the cover together.

NOTE: Mrs. Wyeth's booklet No. 7 gives complete directions for making the ottoman shown in this sketch. Also more than 30 other fascinating homemaking projects, each with working drawings. If you have never made slip covers you will want Book 1, as it shows the beginner exactly how to cut, fit and sew them. Send your order to:

It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer sagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

- In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.
- It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.
- When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

NOAH: GOD'S COVENANT WITH MANKIND

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 9:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—I will remember my covenant.—Genesis 9:15.

God does not forget. He keeps His promises now just as He did in the days of Noah. Since our lesson of last Sunday, a long period of time had elapsed. Generation after generation had come and gone, and all the while man grew more and more wicked. Finally, God saw that He must put an end to the corruption of the human race, saving just one righteous family, that of Noah, with which to begin anew.

He warned Noah of the judgment of the flood, and he in turn doubtless warned others, but finally the day came when God shut him in the ark and poured forth the waters of judgment upon the then inhabited earth. But the same God who shut Noah in (Gen. 7:1), in due time called him out (Gen. 8:15, 16).

Noah had obeyed God, and He now rewarded him. The man who had borne the ridicule was now honored by Him. The experience of Noah brings before us—

God's Three Gifts to a Believing Man:

I. Power (vv. 1-4).

Man is the "lord of creation," not because he has brought about his subjection, but because God gave him that power. It was first given to Adam (Gen. 1:26), and it is renewed here, with the additional promise of the animal as food. This was not to be, however, after the manner of wild beasts (v. 4).

No man ever lost anything by obeying the commands of God, even though appearances may seem to so indicate. The ridicule of those who called Noah foolish for obeying God, had now been silenced by the judgment of the flood, and he stood forth vindicated, empowered by God, with authority over the whole earth.

Faith is still the victory. Men who put their hopes in the kings and empires of this earth have seen them "rise and wane," and even unbelievers are beginning to talk about the necessity of a spiritual anchorage for the souls of men. It is found only in Christ, but in Him is found both peace and power for victorious living.

But we see a second gift of God—

II. Protection (vv. 5-7).

Human life is not as cheap as men would have us think. Their estimate based on greed and lust for power makes man but a unit in a machine designed to build up political power. The blood of those who are not profitable to such an enterprise, is shed in utter callousness.

Those who do such things, need to read the words of God, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed: for in the image of God made he man" (v. 6). What a tremendous bill some men will have to pay when they stand before the seat of judgment of our God. Even the animals who kill men are to be slain (v. 5). How much greater shall be the condemnation of the man who violates God's command.

But we see a third gift of God, designed to remove a deep fear from his heart, namely God's—

III. Promise (vv. 8-16).

God made a covenant with Noah and with his descendants and every living creature (vv. 9, 10). This is the third of God's eight covenants with man, beginning with the one to Adam in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 1:28), and closing with the new covenant (Heb. 8:9).

This was a promise of God's grace that there should be no more judgment by flood, and as a sign He chose the rainbow, which, appearing in the very time when rain should fall, would reassure men that a new flood was not coming upon them. What a beautiful symbol!

"I will remember," said God, and He has not forgotten. Though thousands of years have passed, there has never been such a cataclysm of judgment. How unspeakably precious it is to recall that God has not forgotten a single one of us; that He remembers every promise He has ever made; that He keeps every covenant. And on the contrary, how disturbing it must be to the unbeliever to realize that God has not forgotten his sin and unbelief, nor the judgment which is sure to come.

The story of Noah should stimulate our faith, causing us to trust God, to obey His every command, and to look to Him for His power in our lives. His protection over us, His promise of grace to all who believe.

Faithful in Small Things

Duty, be it in a small matter or a great, is duty still, the command of Heaven, the eldest voice of God; and it is only they who are faithful in a few things who will be faithful over many things. Only they who do their duty in everyday matters will fulfill them on great occasions.—Charles Kingsley.

Household Hints

by Lynn Chambers

Prepare for Winter With Delicious Canned Fruit

(See Recipes Below.)

Fruit Canning

Plan now to put up those fruits from the market or your victory garden while you can still capture their garden-freshness and summer sweetness. This year's canning will require more careful planning than ever before, for waste in the fruit itself, canning jars, rubbers or sugar is highly undesirable.

Chart your plans before embarking on the canning program. Consider first how much sugar you will have available, with the five pounds per person allotment for people who are canning. Plan this amount so it will do for the jams, jellies, preserves, and sugar syrups for fruit canning.

If possible, can in the early morning hours when you are rested and your mind free from too many other thoughts. You will then be able to follow recipes more carefully, to work with more energy and spirit. The day before you will, if you are the bright and alert homemaker, have gathered together your jars, washed them, bought necessary supplies of rubbers and covers and other equipment.

Bring out the preserving kettles and pressure cookers, too. See that they are well scoured, that you have the racks, petcocks, pressure gauge, and steam-tight cover on the pressure cooker well in order.

A hot water bath is best for processing fruits because they are acid. They can safely be processed at high temperatures, and texture, flavor and color are best. Oven canning is good also. For the hot water bath, use a large wash boiler or vessel with tight fitting cover. Fit this with a rack at least 1/2 inch from the bottom. Fill the rack with enough water to cover jars at least one inch over the top. Count the processing time as soon as water surrounding the jars begins to boil. There should be free circulation of water around jars.

For oven canning, set the temperature at 250 degrees. Set jars on a rack in the cold oven, however. Start counting time when the oven is switched or turned on. Do not allow the temperature ever to exceed 250 degrees as this causes liquid to boil away and evaporate.

In placing your jars in the oven, allow for free circulation of heat between them. Do not allow the jars to touch each other, as this will often cause breakage, and do not allow them to come in contact with the sides of the oven.

If liquid evaporates during the processing in the oven, do not fill the jars after you take them out. Some evaporation does not affect successful canning of the fruit.

The Sugar Question.

Fruit may be canned successfully without sugar or sugar syrup with water or fruit juice used in its place. Sugar, however, does mellow and ripen the fruit, giving it a better flavor. You might try making your fruit syrups for fruit canning less sweet than usual if you are short on sugar.

Honey may be used in place of sugar in making the sweet syrup, but the fruit will be somewhat more dark than if sugar is used and the fruit flavor will be intensified. Use honey for each cup of sugar in the substitution.

Lynn Says:

How many jars are you putting up of the fruits? Here's a guide to help you pick out jars:

- Cherries: 9 baskets yield 2 pints pitted, 7 pints, if whole.
- Peaches: 2 1/2 pounds (small basket) yields 1 quart.
- Plums: 1 1/4-pound basket yields 25 pints.
- Strawberries: 1 crate yields 28 pints, if canned whole; 31 (7 1/2-ounce) glasses of jam.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- Smothered Steak With Onions
- Green Beans Scalloped Potatoes
- Tomato-Lettuce Salad
- Bran Muffins
- Whipped Fruit Gelatin Beverage

White corn syrup is another acceptable substitute, but since it is less sweet than sugar, substitute 1 1/2 cups of corn syrup for 1 cup of sugar.

Syrups to Use.

Thin syrups (No. 1) are used for small, soft fruits such as cherries and berries. Make the syrup by using three parts of water to one part of sugar.

Medium syrup (No. 2) does best with sour berries, acid fruits as cherries and rhubarb, and peaches. Boil two parts of water with one part of sugar.

Heavy syrup (No. 3) is prescribed for the large, sour fruits in which you desire extra sweetness. Measure one part water to one part sugar and bring to a boil.

Apples or Pears. (Hot Pack)

Wash, pare, core uniform-sized apples and cut to desired sizes. (If fruit is to stand long enough to discolor, drop in to water which has been slightly salted, until ready to use.) Drain from brine. Boil 3 to 5 minutes in a medium syrup and pack into clean jars, filling with syrup to 1/4 inch of the top. Put on cap, screw band tight, process in hot water bath 25 minutes, or in the oven (at 250 degrees) 75 minutes. If using a pressure cooker, process at 5 pounds for 10 minutes.

Apples or Pears. (Open Kettle)

Select uniform fruit, wash, pare and core. Cut into halves or slices. Drop into boiling No. 1 syrup, and boil for 20 minutes. Pack into clean, hot, sterilized jars and seal tight.

Peaches. (Open Kettle)

Select firm, ripe peaches. Peel or dip peaches in hot water, then in cold and slip off peel. Leave whole or cut in halves or slices. Boil 20 minutes in No. 2 or 3 syrup, and pack in clean, hot, sterilized jars. Seal tightly.

Peaches. (Hot Pack)

Prepare as above, removing peel and pits. Precook for 3 minutes, or then pack into clean jars, add syrup to within 1/4 inch of the top. Put on top, screw on firmly, and process in a hot water bath for 20 minutes, or in the pressure cooker for 10 minutes at 5 pounds, or in the oven (250 degrees) for 68 minutes.

Plums. (Hot Pack)

Use the same method and time as for peaches, except do not peel the fruit, merely prick the skins.

Berries. (Cold Pack)

(Except strawberries and cranberries)

Wash, stem and pack berries. Pack into clean jars and add No. 2 or 3 syrup. Put on cap, screw tightly. Process in hot water bath 20 minutes or in pressure cooker 8 minutes at 5 pounds or in the oven at 250 degrees for 68 minutes.

Cherries. (Cold Pack)

Wash, stem and pit cherries, if desired. Pack into well cleaned jars, fill with No. 2 or 3 syrup depending on the sweetness desired. Put on cap and fasten tightly. Process 20 minutes in a hot water bath, 10 minutes in the pressure cooker at 5 pounds, or 68 minutes in a 250-degree oven.

If the directions for the fruit you desire to can are not given here, or if you have any query on other canning problems, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, explaining your problem to her. Address your letters to her at Western Newspaper Union, 210 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

History in the News

by L. H. WILSON

The Real 'Father of Independence'

ASK the average American who was the "Author of the Declaration of Independence" and the chances are that he will answer correctly—"Why, Thomas Jefferson, of course!" But we who, on the Fourth of July, honor the signers of that immortal document, are all too likely to forget completely the real "Father of Independence!"

Richard Henry Lee was his name and for him, "Independence" was more than just a word. It was a living reality—and a family tradition. When Oliver Cromwell overthrew the rule of the Stuarts, his great-grandfather, Richard Lee, with Sir William Berkeley, held the colony of Virginia to its allegiance to Charles I and it was Richard Lee who made the treaty with Cromwell's forces by which the colony was recognized as an independent dominion.

With such a heritage, it was not surprising then that Richard Henry Lee should become a valiant defender of the right of men to be free. Elected to the house of burgesses in 1757, his first speech was one denouncing the institution of slavery and advocating a tax upon the importation of slaves so heavy as eventually to destroy that traffic. Long before his fellow-Virginian, Patrick Henry, was demanding "Give me liberty or give me death!" Richard Henry Lee was rebelling against the attempts of the government overseas to limit the liberties of its American colonies.

In 1772 Lee protested against the establishment of admiralty courts, which took away the right of trial by jury, and when the Boston port bill was passed, he suggested the sending of delegates to a colonial congress which should take such measures as were necessary to resist such tyrannical acts. When the First Continental congress was called the next year, Lee was one of the first delegates chosen from Virginia and in that congress he became a member of all the leading committees. He wrote the memorial to the British people, pleading with them to help correct the injustices to their American cousins and he is also credited with writing a similar address to the king.

Then came the convening of the Second Continental congress to which Lee was again elected a delegate. In 1775 he was one of a committee which drafted the commission of another fellow-Virginian as commander-in-chief of the Continental army and George Washington put on his buff-and-blue uniform to lead the fight for American liberties.

Heretofore the talk had been about the "rights of English citizens" but as the year 1776 opened men began to talk about the "rights of Americans." And of all those who dared to begin using the word "independence," Richard Henry Lee was the most outspoken.

Then came June 7, 1776, and on that date Richard Henry Lee offered his historic resolution "that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, free and independent states, that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown; and that all political connexion between them and the State of Great Britain is, and ought to be, free and totally dissolved."

Some of the fainthearts were horrified at this drastic step. But slowly and surely the sentiment for independence gained ground. At last a committee was appointed to draft a Declaration of Independence. By every right Richard Henry Lee should have been on that committee and have written the historic document. But he had been summoned home by illness in his family. Thus the task fell to Thomas Jefferson, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin. So Jefferson became the "Author of the Declaration of Independence." But who can deny that to Richard Henry Lee rightfully belongs the title of "Father of American Independence?"

Although Lee returned to Philadelphia in time to sign the declaration, it is an ironical fact that he almost lost that liberty which he so loved. For a force of British swooped down upon Stratford, his ancestral home, and Lee narrowly escaped capture by them. Until 1779 he remained in congress, taking a leading part in preparing plans for treaties with foreign nations which brought the help so desperately needed by the Patriots. For a time he commanded the militia of his native county in repelling British raids along the coast of Virginia.

The Woes of a Prospective Bridegroom

By IRVIN S. COBB

A HUSKY young Irishman strolled into the Civil Service room where they were holding physical examination for candidates for places on the police force.

"Strip," ordered the police surgeon.

"Which, sir?"

"Get your clothes off, and be quick about it," said the examiner.

The Irishman undressed. The doctor measured his chest and pounded his back.

"Hop over this rod," was the next command.

The man did his best, landing on his back.

"Double up your knees and touch the floor with your hands."

He lost his balance and sprawled upon the floor. He arose, indignant but silent.

"Now jump under this cold shower."

"Sure an' that's funny," muttered the applicant, but he obeyed.

"Now run around the room ten times. I want to test your heart and wind."

"I'll not," the candidate declared defiantly. "I'll stay single first."

"You'll stay single?" repeated the puzzled physician. "Say, what did you come here for?"

"For a marriage license, of course," said the stranger.

NEW POLICY ON

TIRE RATIONING

Because of an increasing shortage of rubber and in accordance with Tire and Tube rationing regulations, the Mitchell County War Price and Ration Board has announced a new policy in regard to applications for new tires and tubes.

Applications will now be accepted for new tires and tubes only when the vehicle is completely down and cannot be run further without them. In this connection all applications now filed with the Board are being cancelled. This does not apply to applications for recapping. Owners of eligible vehicles, that are down, will be issued new tires and tubes as the quota will permit.

Tire dealers are being instructed not to fill out applications unless the tire or tube will no longer run. It will also be necessary that a member of the Board inspect the tire or tube at the time the application is filed.

Tuesday and Friday afternoons will continue to be set aside as the regular meeting days of the Board for tire and tube rationing.

Three new members have this week been added to the Mitchell County War Price and Ration Board. They are A. E. McClain, O. B. Price and D. L. Buchanan. The Board will be reorganized in two panels with three members each. The panels will be in charge of separate activities of the Board, these divisions to be announced later.

Miss Clorene Montgomery has been added to the office personnel. Mondays and Thursdays will continue to be set aside as days for registration for canning sugar and Tuesdays and Fridays for tire and tube rationing.

The Board Office is located at 147 Elm, Colorado City.

Raymond McGough of Peacock and his sister of Sweetwater visited in the C. F. Cook home Thursday.

WILL MEAN LAW ENFORCEMENT FOR MITCHELL COUNTY

Lifetime Resident of Mitchell County.

A LETTER TO VOTERS

Dear Voters: I wanted to visit you again but have had to work the past month. I want to say to you to remember the good I have done for you in the past, and you are still enjoying cheap gas, oil and kerosene which I fought the big oil companies six years for until I went broke. Now I am asking you for another chance to help you by electing me your commissioner in Precinct 4. My name will be on the ticket, so if your conscience condemns you when you go to scratch it, please leave it and I will appreciate it.

There is a statement in this paper showing we have a large amount of money in the treasury so if I am elected I will use some of it on the roads and bridges of this precinct. I have a copy of the county's report and will ask you to compare Precinct 4 since 1939 with others. Will say more if I am in the runoff.

Thanks A Million

It is with everlasting gratitude and a deep feeling of humility that I take this means of expressing to the people of Mitchell County my sincere thanks for the heartening encouragement and the splendid co-operation you have given me during my tenure of office. I pledge you my very best efforts through the remainder of this term and for the next four years and to endeavor, at all times, to be efficient and courteous, trustworthy and progressive.

Though I have no opponent I earnestly solicit your vote and influence, and will appreciate it as much as if I had an opponent.

Sincerely yours,
