

Boll Weevil Fight Begins

First Diapause Spray Due by September 5

Diapause spraying under the boll weevil control program is due to start in Collingsworth County and Childress County north of Red River by Sept. 5, the state Department of Agriculture has notified County Agent Don Reeves.

Wellington Flying Service, based at Marian Airpark, was awarded the contract for the spraying at $1.56 per acre, with the operator and the state to pay one-half the cost, or 78¢ each.

The Department of Agriculture will open an office at the airpark terminal and all cotton growers wanting to go into the diapause spraying program will make application there. The cut-off date is 48 hours before each spraying, which will be spaced five or six days apart.

Cliff Hartman of Wellington Flying Service said he has not been notified when the first spraying will be.

Representatives of the State Department of Agriculture were due here Tuesday afternoon to open the office and complete other arrangements.

Mrs. Art Kane of Dodson will be in charge of the office, which will be open from 8:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m. each day.

This is the second year the Collingsworth County Cotton Improvement Association has made an all-out push against cotton boll weevil using the diapause spraying method.

Last year's results were considered excellent on about 15,000 acres, part of which was sprayed three times and the remainder four.

Elbert Watts, president of the Association, has urged that the cotton acreage be blocked up to get best results.

Blocks were pretty well worked out in the southeast part of the county and around Samnorwood last year. But he emphasized that any farmer wanting in the program can get in whether or not he is part of a block.

The insecticides used will be 16 ounces of low volume malathion per acre, the same as last year. Malathion is not one of the hard insecticides now coming under fire. It dissipates

Crop-Saving Rains Drench County Up to 10½ Inches

Collingsworth's summer-long drought was broken when crop-saving rains started Friday, Aug. 22 and have continued through Wednesday morning.

As much as 10.5 inches has been recorded in the northwest part of the county and almost every section has received 3 inches or more.

In Wellington the moisture passed the 5-inch mark. Dodson's official measurement was 3.1 inch and at Quail more than 5 inches fell.

A cotton crop that was regarded as average can now become one of the better crops of recent years, depending on the date of frost.

Hardest hit of the county's crops was grain sorghum and these rains have come in time to save a late crop that was hurting most.

It was a hard, lashing rain that broke the drought Friday night, but no damage was reported from it.

Wellington measured 3.40 that night and added 1.4 inches on Sunday night, with lighter falls Monday and Tuesday nights.

Rain was scattered that night, for Cecil Masten, northwest of Wellington had only .5 inch and Earl Patterson .4, while A. C. Shipley just south of town got 2.5.

The area north and west of Dodson had an inch and a half, and Jess Bogle on the state line had 1.6.

George Roberts received two inches at Swearingen and east of Lutie no rain at all fell.

The next rains were more general.

The Hugh Grogan Ranch north of Abra has received a total of 10.5 inches through Wednesday morning, Mrs. Grogan said.

At the Rudie Tate home west of Abra, approximately 6 inches had been received, not counting that which came Wednesday.

Horace Small, who lives south of Samnorwood, reported he had received 4.6 inches through Tuesday morning.

Mr. Small also said that cane which he planted in late May had not sprouted until the rain came Friday. With a late frost, this might get knee high, and he plans to graze it.

The Raymond Ross Ranch at Mabella reported 5.2 inches had fallen through Tuesday morning and a little more moisture was received in this general area early Wednesday.

N. E. Childers had reported 1.75 inches from the Friday rain at Mabella.

At Quail Store Loyd Langley said Wednesday morning that 5.5 inches has been measured there since Friday night.

Pat O'Hair measured 1.95 from the first rain.

The Wren Hartman farm 10 miles west of Wellington measured a total of 3.95 inches through Wednesday morning, with 2 inches of this falling the first night.

Services Held Sunday for Mr. Lineberger

Emery Lineberger, 62, a former resident of the Samnorwood community, died at 5:20 a.m. Friday, Aug. 22, in a Wichita Falls Hospital. He was a retired truck driver.

He was a brother of Ermer Lineberger of Samnorwood.

Born Jan. 14, 1907, in Cass County, he was the son of the late E. D. and Eula Lathem Lineberger, who moved to this area many years ago.

Funeral services were conducted at Kelso Chapel at 4 p.m. Sunday. Officiating was the Rev. Dick Roehr, pastor of Samnorwood Baptist Church, and burial was in the family lot in Plymouth Cemetery under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Pallbearers were John Holton, James McDanel, Benny McDanel, Skeet Clark, Dick Judd and Sandy Parsons.

Mr. Lineberger is survived by two brothers and two sisters: Ermer Lineberger of Samnorwood, Ellis Lineberger of Texarkana, Mrs. John T. Baker of Sheridan, Wyo., and Mrs. Fred Box of Borger.

West Oklahoma Again Eyes Salt Fork Dam at Mangum

Southwest Oklahoma turned its eyes toward the waters of Salt Fork River, in a meeting held recently to discuss the possible construction of a dam across that river in the Mangum vicinity.

Norman Flaigg, engineer for the Bureau of Reclamation was present at the meeting, held in Hollos and reviewed feasibility reports made from many government surveys.

Civic leaders in the Oklahoma area lying immediately east of Collingsworth County have been eager to find large supplies of water which could be impounded to supply anticipated population growth. This water is sought for both irrigation and industrial use.

According to the facts presented in the surveys and explained by Mr. Flaigg, the prospects for obtaining large quantities of water relatively free of salt or gypsum are not promising.

Flaigg explained that if a Salt Fork dam reservoir were developed in the area, Harmon and Greer counties could form an irrigation district. The government would lend $25 million without interest over 50 years. This would be paid back at a rate of $500,000 per year. It was estimated irrigation water from this source would cost $25 per acre foot. The project probably would produce two acre feet of water for each acre of land for irrigation purposes.

It was pointed out that Harmon County's average cost per acre foot of irrigation under present methods is around $22.

Flaigg said the $25 million loans would be secured by liens on land included in the irrigation district. No hopes were assured that the water would be pure enough to be acceptable for domestic or industrial use.

Mr. Flaigg was quoted as saying the water absorbs too much gypsum as it enters Oklahoma from Texas sources, such as Buck Creek, Salt Fork, and the Samnorwood and Dozier areas.

It has been demonstrated in Harmon County that gyp water can be used successfully for irrigation. It is even good for certain types of tight soil, Flaigg said.

133 Relatives, Many Friends at 16th Annual Reunion of Langleys

By Ida Langley Stuckey

The Langley Reunion grounds looked like tent city this year when the 16th session of the Langley Reunion was held August 15, 16 and 17 at the Langley Reunion Grounds 11 miles west of Wellington, as we had 11 tents and one trailer house. The reunion officially starts on Friday morning but the storm Thursday night caught about 35 or 40 of the crowd already on the grounds; by noon Friday most of the 129 relatives who attend were there. Of the 10 brothers and sisters, all were here with the exception of George Langley of Seattle, Wash.

The attendance was fairly good with 133 relatives and 41 visitors in attendance.

Mrs. Roland Zeldon Jenkins, Jr.

Reta Cummings Weds Zeldon Jenkins in Ceremony at Friendship Church

Friendship Baptist Church west of Wellington was the setting for the wedding of Miss Reta Ann Cummings and Roland Zeldon Jenkins, Jr., on Saturday, August 23, at six-thirty o'clock.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Palo F. Cummings of Route Two and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Zeldon Jenkins of 1712 Ellison Street.

The bridegroom's father, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Two bouquets of white gladioli were at the sides of the white kneeling bench, in front of the altar. Along the aisles, pews were marked with satin bows.

Organ selections were played by Miss Janis Gosnell.

For her wedding, the bride chose a floor-length gown of white peau de soie and lace with an empire look. The slightly lowered round neck was finished with a high collar. The front panel edged in narrow ruffles was of lace, as were the long fitted sleeves. A flat bow marked the waist at the back. Her headpiece was a crown of pearls which held her elbow length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations and stephanotis.

Mrs. M. L. McCreary of Dallas, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a sky blue street-length semi-fitted A line dress with a jewel neckline and loose front inset with skirt front gathered. Her headpiece was a flat bow and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

Ralph Long, grandfather of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were George Porter and Jim Rudy.

After the ceremony, a reception honored the couple in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Cummings.

The bride's table was covered with a blue cloth overlaid with white lace. The bride's bouquet was the centerpiece and crystal appointments were used.

The bride was graduated from Quail High School this spring. A graduate of Wellington High School, the bridegroom completed two years work at Clarendon Junior College. The couple will live in Canyon where both will attend West Texas State University.

Mr. and Mrs. Travis Guy Clement and son, Todd, of Pampa, visited with his parents Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Clement and his brother, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Clement during the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Buster Hughs and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Hughs of Plainview left last week for Dallas where they are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Holiman.

Visiting Mrs. Hattie Hornsby recently were Misses Connie and Marylon Estes of Palm Springs, Calif.; Mrs. Richard Amos of Walnut Ridge, Ark.; Lee Roy Wells of West Memphis, Tenn.; and Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Williams of Fort Worth.

Guests over the week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hezze Jones and children were their daughter, Miss Wynona Jones of Lubbock and Mr. Jones' niece, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Frye and children of Lockney.

Notes from Your County Home Demonstration Agent

By Mrs. Leta Hill

Cucumbers

Cucumbers have two classes: slicing and pickling. For crisp pickles, use firm, small to medium cucumbers. Do not buy more than can be processed at one session. Know the strength of vinegar you are using. A high grade cider or white distilled vinegar of 40 to 60 percent grain strength gives good results. Pure dairy or pickling salt should be used if possible, since fine table salt contains a little starch which clouds the liquid.

Use fresh, good quality spices—whole unless otherwise directed. Avoid using copper, brass or iron kettles or ones from which the tin has been worn. Such metals react with the acid of the vinegar, giving the pickles an unattractive dark color. Stainless steel, glass or aluminum should be used.

Select firm but not plump cucumbers for slicing. They should be well-shaped with fresh-looking green skins.

Try this bread and butter pickle recipe. Many, including myself, have found it to be a delightful pickle recipe.

Bread and Butter Pickles

6 cups cucumbers (4 to 5 young cucumbers)
1 large onion, coarsely chopped
2 quarts of water
1/2 cup salt
2 t. Tabasco, divided
2 cups white vinegar
1 cup water
1 cup granulated sugar
1 cup packed light brown sugar
1 t. mixed pickling spices
1/2 t. tumeric

Wash cucumbers; slice thinly (1/4-inch thick) to make 6 cups. Put onion and cucumbers into a brine made of 2 quarts of water, salt, 1 teaspoon Tabasco. Let stand for 3 to 4 hours.

Drain cucumbers; rinse 2 or 3 times with cold water. Let stand in fresh water 5 minutes. Combine remaining 1 teaspoon Tabasco, vinegar, 1 cup water, sugars and spices in kettle; stir and bring to a boil. Drain cucumbers and onions, add to boiling syrup. Bring to a boil again and simmer for 10 minutes. Pack in hot sterilized jars and seal at once. Yield: Approximately 2 quarts.

When Your Child Bites His Nails

A child bites his nails to get relief from some pressure or anxiety too strong for him. Twisting a strand of hair or biting the lips are similar actions. Your child won't stop biting his nails because you dislike his habit and tell him he "mustn't." And he won't stop just because you tie his hands, or put bad tasting stuff on his fingers, or try mechanical gadgets such as metal mittens. He can't. He doesn't even realize he's biting them sometimes! He just has to do something about the tenseness inside him and nail biting gives him some relief.

The tendency in a child past the age of infancy to bite and chew things is a common signal of inner tensions. Nails are tough, insensitive and painless to bite. But once the habit has begun, the rough edges of the nail and the exposed nail bed cause irritation and this provokes more biting. Direct restraint such as bandages or splints only intensifies and worsens the anxiety and strain that are the real basis of the trouble. What causes the uneasiness is often hard to discover since it may have been started weeks or months before. It will take patience and understanding on your part to help your child overcome his habit.

Check on his general physical condition, reviewing his eating and sleeping habits. Make sure they're in line with what are considered to be likely needs for a child of his age. He should be gaining weight steadily and his color should be good. Does he tire readily? If so, something's amiss. Again, ask yourself if he is getting enough activity, running, jumping, climbing, lively outdoor play.

Now, how about his emotional well-being? Here is likely where the real trouble lies. Build up your child's self-confidence by making him feel that he can do things himself, and that when he really needs help you are ready to give it. Show him you're proud of the things he is learning to do for himself.

Slick Freezing Tricks

—Rosebuds in ice! Freeze tiny rosebuds in water poured in refrigerator trays. Place them in plastic bags and store them in the freezer. They are very pretty in party punch or glasses of lemonade.

—Coffee and Tea: Freeze leftover coffee and tea in ice cube trays. Use them for quick servings or in iced tea or coffee to keep it undiluted.

Collingsworth Put on The Map Again by Its Youth

Collingsworth's young achievers have written another fine record for themselves this summer.

Within three days, two were honored for their beauty and charm—Cindy Saied as Miss Wheatheart of the Nation and Jan White as District 1 Farm Bureau Queen. Both are 17 and they will represent their sponsors with poise and confidence.

A little earlier a group of teen-agers won state recognition for their work with the Texas Youth Council, and another group represented District I at the State 4-H Horse Show.

Then there are those a few years older, who at the Spring and August convocations received degrees and scholastic honors, from bachelors to doctoral level.

By far the largest group is getting ready to enroll in colleges and universities—and in numbers that has always been the envy of educators in other counties.

Not one of these is from that radical sector searching for a way of self-expression. They know what they want and they have gone out after it, with both good manners and determination.

Other Editors Say . . .

Remember?

In days when "Americanism" was not a nasty phrase to a vocal segment of the population, phrases coined in the heat of patriotism or battle were quoted throughout the land more frequently, perhaps, than now. Remember these?

Give me liberty or give me reath.—Patrick Henry.
Where liberty dwells, there is my country.—Benjamin Franklin.

I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country.—Nathan Hale.

I have not yet begun to fight.—John Paul Jones.

To be prepared for war is one of the most effectual means of preserving peace.—George Washington.

Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute.—Charles Pinckney.

Don't give up the ship.—Oliver Hazard Perry.

Our country, in her intercourse with foreign nations, may she always be right; but our country, right or wrong.—Stephen Decatur.

I shall never surrender nor retreat.—William Barrett Travis.

Damn the torpedos, full speed ahead.—David G. Farragut.

I propose to fight it out on this line, if it takes all summer.—U. S. Grant.

Speak softly and carry a big stick.—Theodore Roosevelt.

The world must be made safe for democracy.—Woodrow Wilson.

The only thing we have to fear is fear itself.—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Small Town

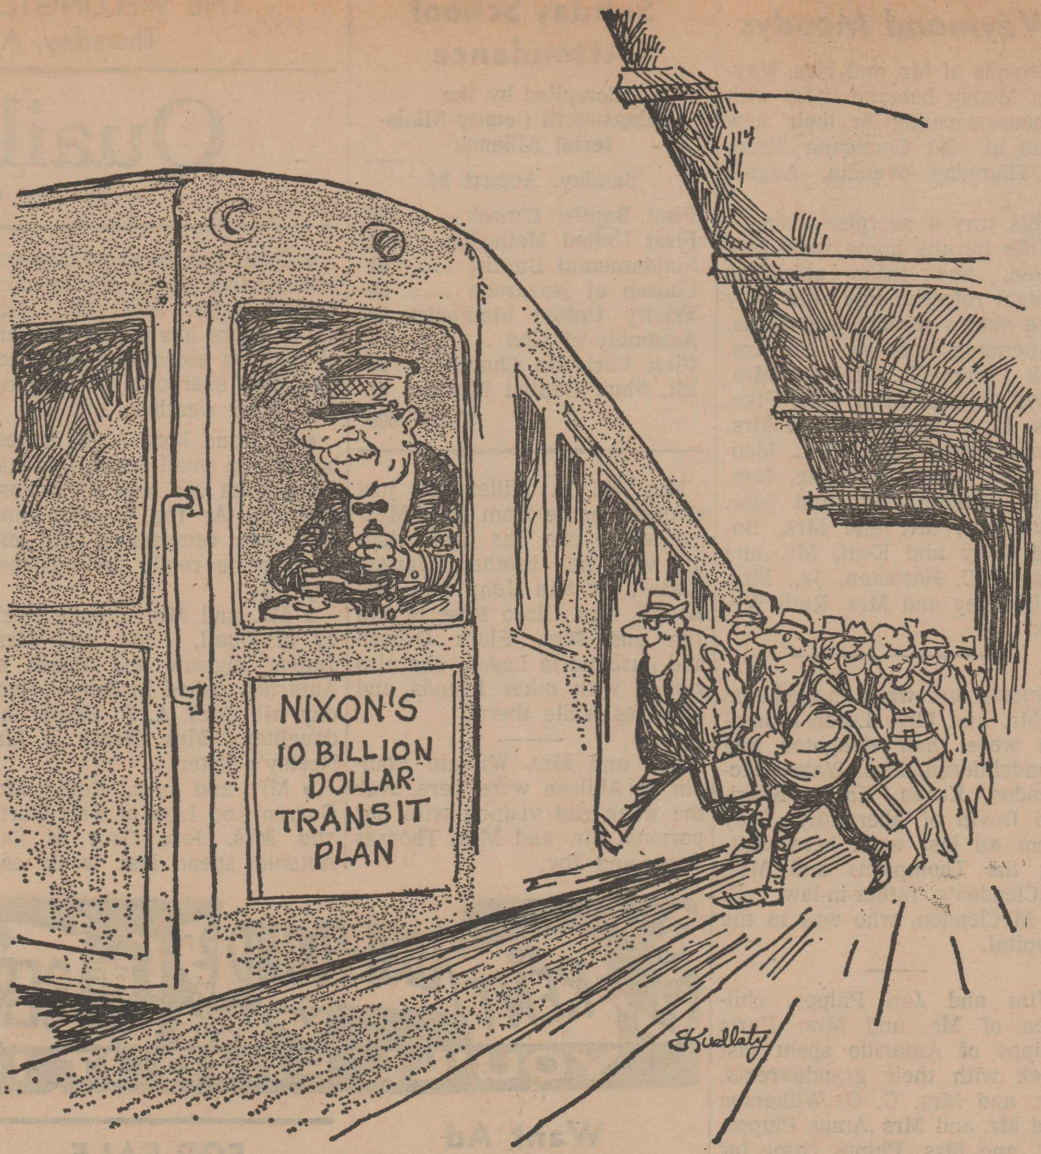

The buildings aren't very high, the police force numbers but one, and the tax rate might get higher than a kite in a stiff breeze; but in times of sickness, death or personal tragedy or strife, there's no place like a small town. A big city can have its huge, yet heartless art gallery, its broad parks that no one uses, its hustle up and wait traffic control, and all the rest. We'll take the small town any day. Other than friendship, love and charity, what else are most of us looking for in life—and these are the simple ingredients that small towns are made of—no matter where!

—Pardeeville (Wisconsin) Times

Baseball fans everywhere will miss No. 7. Not just the big bat, but everything that goes into that rarity, the super star.
The wonder of it is that Mickey Mantle accomplished much of his record with injuries that would put a lot of us in a wheel chair.
He went to the big time fast and was still chewing bubble gum when he first roamed the outfield—and blasted balls out of the park—for the New York Yankees when the New York Yankees were the New York Yankees.
He played on into the era when it became popular to boo the stars anytime they didn't connect—and sometimes even if they did.
Even when he appeared to have trouble getting to the plate for his turn at bat there weren't many fans backing the other team who drew an easy breath until he had either blasted at hit or was retired. He had that explosive quality of the Babe Ruth, Ted Williams, Willie Mays or Stan Musial. He could break up a ball game with one swing of the bat.
Golden Valley fans who used to watch him blast the Kansas City Athletics might rejoice that Mantle one cross the new Royals won't have to bear.
But we doubt that they will cheer Mantle's retirement.

We join the salutes that go out to Big 7.
—The Clinton (Mo.) Daily Democrat

On the Right Track

AUSTIN.—Sharp division between the Texas Senate and House was responsible for the tough tax fight in the final days of the special session of the Legislature.

It was not possible to get a majority of the Senate to agree on a tax bill tilted toward sales taxes, while House majority favored that route.

In past years, it has been the other way around, with the Senate sales-tax minded and the House reluctant.

This attitude goes back to the 1930s, when 59 members of the House blocked the "transactions tax" proposed as a constitutional amendment by Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, and approved by the Senate.

But the one-man, one-vote decision of the U.S. Supreme Court made the Senate more city-minded, and switched the role of the two houses.

Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes, Speaker Gus Mutscher and Gov. Preston Smith all were anxious to get the tax-and-spend issues settled by Tuesday's adjournment, because they had other engagements.

Barnes is president of the National Legislative Council, which opened its annual meeting in St. Louis Monday.

Mutscher planned to head a delegation of House members to the same conference.

And Gov. Smith was ready for the National Governor's Conference in Colorado Springs beginning Sept. 1.

Anti-Crime Projects

Criminal Justice Council of the governor's office has recommended $252,499 in action grants for new local programs to fight crime.

Council voted funds from $1.1 million allocated Texas by the federal government under the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968. State and local matching funds also must be provided.

Largest of grants, $127,000, would go to Houston for an area-wide information and communication system to be tied into a computer and connected with a state and national system.

Fort Worth will receive $60,000 for a police-community relations program; Travis County $35,000 to expand its model adult probation project; North Central Texas Council of Governments $21,000 for a police training program.

San Antonio police department $19,680 for a police-community relations seminar program and $7,339 for a Bexar

CROSSROADS REPORT

A story in the papers says some college students in New Jersey are collecting garbage to pay their school expenses, which experience may be fully as educational as college.

It will teach all of them who are perceptive that garbage men are more important and than any other professionals, because we would soon smother in our own garbage if there wasn't anybody to pick it up and haul it off.

They may also learn on this job if they are the learning type, to recognize same when garbage is fed to them by public speakers, TV, newspapers and professors.
D. E. SCOTT.

County juvenile delinquency prevention project; Galveston $9,360 for a police department management survey; Houston $6,550 for a state school for prosecutors; and Alamo Area Council of Governments $1,500 for a four-week course offered 20 police officers in the region.

Council also accepted a study and report by Systems Science Corporation on a proposed state wide communication and information system to link the criminal justice system including police, courts, corrections, and rehabilitations services.

Oil Allowable Trimmed

For third straight month, the Railroad Commission cut the state-wide oil allowable, setting it at 52.1% of potential.

September allowable allows a maximum per day of 3,237,997 barrels. This compares with 3,284,263 barrels daily under the August 53.1% order.

Six of 14 major crude purchasers sought more oil next month than in August; three wanted less and five the same amount.

Allowable reached 21-year peak in June when it rose to 63.5%, but was cut to 54.7% in July and 53.1% for August.

Railroad Commission Chairman Ben Ramsey said Texas crude oil stocks early this month totaled 104 million barrels, 200,000 more than a week ago.

Treasure Hunt Probe

Three member commission named by district court to inventory the treasure recovered from a Spanish galleon which sank off Padre Island 400 years ago heard testimony that:

—There probably is a lot more treasure beneath the waters of the Texas coast.

—There is not much chance any two-man submarine carted off an appreciable amount of the treasure as charged by Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler.

Diver Jeff Bruke of Rio Honda told the Commission several items not reported on the log of Platoro Inc., the exploration firm which brought up artifacts, were recovered. Burke predicted Platoro will win its lawsuit claiming title to the treasure and "open the door for every treasure hunter in the country."

Secretary of State Martin Dies said Platoro had on license for exploration from the state, and its find belongs to Texas.

Meanwhile, Rep. Frances Farenthold of Corpus Christi offered a House resolution proposing censure of Sadler for his handling of legislative committees and legislators seeking to probe the treasure case.

U. S. Bureau of Customs jumped into the controversy with a demand for an inventory of items salvaged, and claimed they are the property of the U.S. until matters in controversy (including the processing of entry forms) are resolved.

Attorney General Speaks

Coin-operated amusements machine operators may lend money to taverns where strict rules set out in statutes are obeyed, Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin has held. Under the new law, a person cannot have financial interest in both vending machines and business that sells alcoholic beverages for consumption on premises, however.

Judge Supply Plentiful

Texas has enough district judges although they are not always located in areas of need, State Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert told the House Judiciary Committee.

Committee conducted its first hearing in a scheduled year-and-a-half-long interim study of how to improve and modernize the state's court system.

District Judge Truman Robert of Hamilton said some judges are "lazy" and need to be stirred up by Judicial Qualifications Commission. Former Supreme Court Associate Justice W. St. John Garwood, president of the Texas Civil Judicial Council, said the Committee is moving at the right time for court reforms.

Short Snorts

• Newly-elected Rep. E. L.

Short of Tahoka was assigned to the House Committees on Labor, Liquor Regulation, Urban Affairs and Criminal Jurisprudence—the same spots filled by Rep. Randy Pendleton before he left for Washington.

• Texas services to handicapped persons other than the blind will be consolidated under a new Commission for Rehabilitation, governed by a six member board, beginning Sept. 1, as authorized by the 1967 Legislature.

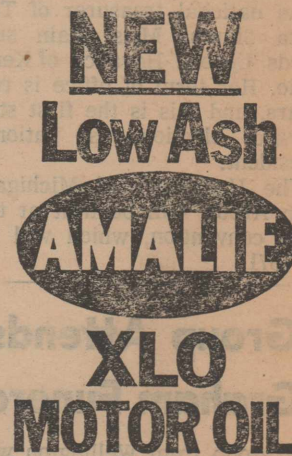

• Gov. Smith has received notification of a $62,336 federal grant to establish a manpower planning staff in his office.

• House resolution proposed study of using atomic energy to de-salt ocean water and transport it to dry West Texas and Rio Grande Valley.

• Lubbock-Amarillo service proposes new air taxi and cargo routes over most of Texas.

YOUTH HOSTELS

Richard Schirram, a German schoolmaster, originated the idea for a chain of youth hostels about 60 years ago. He concluded that hotels were too expensive for many students who would like to explore the countryside and he persuaded fellow teachers to put mattresses in classrooms during the summer holidays. He opened the first youth hostel in an old castle in 1910 and by 1914 there were 200 hostels in Germany.

OFF TO ANOTHER 'BARN-RAISING'

The people of America's rural electric systems are constantly at work—meeting the needs of their communities, searching out new answers for today's problems.

In some areas they're lending assistance and equipment for a modern version of yesterday's barn-raising. Neighbors pitch in and work with neighbors, building their own homes—putting an old custom to work to help solve one of rural America's serious problems, a shortage of good housing.

Self-help housing is just one answer to just one problem. But throughout the countryside, where needs exist, you'll find rural electric people working to find the answers.

At top of the triangle is Betsy Trapp, head cheer leader. In the second row are Mary Saied and Leigh Nall, and kneeling are Sandra McGill, Linda Williams and Carey Lewis. The school was directed by L. R. Herkimer.

Slow Moving Vehicles Target of New Traffic Regulations

Part 4 of 5 Parts

AUSTIN.—Slow-moving drivers who drive on the inside lanes of divided highways may find themselves in trouble after Sept. 1. On that date, Department of Public Safety patrolmen will begin enforcement of a new state law which requires that vehicles traveling at less than the normal speed of traffic be driven in the right-hand lane, or as close as practicable to the right-hand curb or edge of the roadway, except when passing.

Another section of the law requires moving traffic to stay to the right of the center line on roadways having four or more lanes of traffic, except when authorized to go to the left of such center line by traffic control devices or when making left turns into or from alleys, private roads or driveways, regardless of whether there is a double yellow stripe or not.

Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said still another new law provides for the adoption of a "slow-moving vehicle emblem" for display on certain types of vehicles.

Speir said the measure requires that all machinery, tractors, or other vehicles which operate at a maximum speed of 25 miles per hour or less must display a triangular emblem approved by the DPS on the rear of the vehicle.

Operators of such vehicles will have until Jan. 1, 1970 to obtain emblems approved by the DPS and mount them as prescribed by law. Use of the emblem on other types of ve-

THE TEXAS CATTLE FEED- ING INDUSTRY

Structural Changes in Cattle Feeding

Numbers of cattle and calves on feed in Texas feedlots increased from 163,000 on Jan. 1, 1958 to 1,075,000 head by Jan. 1, 1969.

Numbers of cattle on feed in the United States during this period approximately doubled while increasing six-fold in Texas.

The number, size and lot capacity also has changed significantly in Texas since 1955. Texas feed lots with 1,000-or-more head capacity increased from 61 in 1955 to 277 by Jan. 1, 1969. The capacity of these lots increased from 160,000 head to 1,452,350 head in 1969. Feedlots with 1,000-or-more head capacity accounted for 95% of the cattle on feed in Texas on Jan. 1, 1969.

Cattle placed on feed for the period analyzed in this study—July 1966 to June 1967—totaled 1,610,000. Placements by size of feedlots were as follows: Less than 1,000 head capacity, 7%;

1,000 to 1,999 head capacity, 6%; 2,000 to 4,999 head capacity, 21%; 5,000 to 9,999 head capacity, 22%; and 10,000 head and over capacity, 44%. However, feedlots with 10,000-or-more capacity currently account for more than half of the cattle placed on feed.

Kind and Source of Cattle

English breeds and English crosses accounted for 54% of the cattle fed; Okies accounted for 23%; Brahman and Brahman crosses, 19%; and the remainder consisted of dairy breeds, Santa Gertrudis, Charolais, Mexican cattle and assorted crosses. No distinct patterns were detected among size groups of feedlots relative to kinds of cattle placed on feed. Brahman and Brahman crosses, however, were most prevalent in the Rio Grande Plains.

Two-thirds of the cattle placed on feed originated from sources within Texas during 1966-67. Texas imports originated primarily from states in the Southeast, New Mexico and Oklahoma. Feedlots generally tend to reach out farther for supplies of feeder cattle as they increase in size.

Auctions supplied about two-thirds of the cattle fed in 1966-67. They were the major source for all size groups and especially for the smaller feedlots, where the feedlot owner or manager purchased most of the feeder cattle. Auctions generally are located near or within concentrated production areas and serve as concentration points for many feedlot buyers. Less than 10% of the feeder cattle were contracted for more than 30 days in advance by Texas feedlots during 1966-67. The larger feedlots generally used contracting to a greater extent than did the smaller feedlots.

Weights, Quality and Sex of Placements

The average weights of cattle placed on feed in Texas are relatively light, compared to most other major cattle feeding areas. Feeder cattle moving into Texas feedlots averaged 509 pounds during 1966-67. Approximately 80% of the cattle moving on feed in the Texas Panhandle weighed in excess of 500 pounds. This contrasts with the Gulf Coast and Rio Grande Plains where more than 50% of the feeder cattle averaged under 400 pounds.

Length of Feeding Period

Feeding programs generally averaged a little less than 120 days in Texas during 1966-67. Approximately 80% of the cattle were marketed after feeding

Financial Facts

By Jeff Wilson

EARLY VENETIAN FINANCES

The first seed of a State bank was planted in 1160. The Venetian Government borrowed 150,000 silver marks from important merchants to finance it.

The first issue of government bonds took place in Venice. The year was 1171. A forced loan of one per-cent on net incomes was instituted. The bonds paid four per-cent.

By 1300 the city was already using bills of exchange. This was their method of sending money to representatives abroad.

Loans were made by Venetian bankers to ship owners. This was called "bottomry." The risk was great, so the interest was correspondingly high. The average interest was around twenty per-cent.

Various bankruptcies among private bankers in 1502, led to government action. A Supervisor of Banks was appointed.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Here in the midst of late summer tranquility, blessed by rain and good crops and with most of the community in good health, it is impossible for us to realize or feel the travail and the devastation brought to seven states by Hurricane Camille. One week these people were healthy, happy and prosperous. The next there was death, disease and desolation. In the midst of security it is difficult to sense how swiftly and terribly disaster can strike.

In this region we have our occasional problems with the weather and tornadoes, blizzards, floods and drouths are well known; but take it on an average and you appreciate the fact we have about as pleasant and invigorating a climate as any place in the world.

This has been a memorable week for Wellington beauties, who seem to keep flowering here in a manner unrivaled by other towns of our size. Cindy Saied won the title of Miss Wheatheart of the Nation last Saturday in Perryton and is now on a tour of Canada. She is the third Wellington beauty to be awarded this coveted honor—the first being Fayteen Peoples and the second Vada Bell.

In the same period of time Janice White, Collingsworth County Farm Bureau Queen, went on to become District Queen in Amarillo and will be eligible to participate in the state finals in San Antonio in November. And it was not too many weeks back that Tanya Horton was selected as Miss Childress in the Miss Texas Contest sponsored by the Jaycees. One winner in a beauty contest in a single summer would be noteworthy; but when you have three of them in a single summer it is time to pause and take stock of our good fortune. We have cause for pride in our community. To win these girls must have more than beauty of form and face because the judging is done on poise, manners, charm, talent and other factors, all of which reflect something of the cultural life in which they have been reared.

These feelings are especially poignant when we have healing rains like the last four that relieved the unprecedented heat wave of sixty-seven consecutive days. The first of the drouth-breaking rains left some spots with only half an inch of moisture while dropping as much as three inches on nearby farms. The second and third evened the blessing to some extent and left from three to five inches of moisture over the area. And the best thing about the rescue from the heat and dry weather is that the moisture goes far in every direction. We had disastrous floods in the late spring and early summer of 1968. This year we received fair rains in the spring and this is the best late summer rain we have enjoyed in ten years or more. It is wonderful how the crops have changed.

A drive over the county last week would convince you that many crops were near their end. They were not. In the sandy land they were merely approaching the end of a bumper yield. Clarence Blevins has been bringing some of the best shaped and tasting yellow and red meat water-melons to town that he has grown in years and the same is true of J. Finley who also has some perfect cantaloupes. Mrs. W. W. Baker has vegetables and fruits that are excellent and so does Pat O'Hair who still has peaches and peas. There are many others. The important thing to remember is that the quality and taste of these home grown products is excellent.

Few things the officials of Wellington High School have done in recent years have pleased me as much as the selection of Carol Blain as director of the Skyrocket Band. In many respects she has more cultural background in music and the other arts than either of the two excellent band directors who preceded her. In my opinion they were good horn tooters and parade instructors, Carol Blain can do that too; but she is also a teacher by natural ability and her experience in education and travel is broad for a young person of her age. In case any of the boy members of the band are wondering about discipline, I suggest they go up and shake hands with the new director. There is more behind

Bloodmobile Collects 77 Pints on Visit Here

The Red Cross Bloodmobile collected 77 pints of blood during its stop in Wellington on Thursday, Aug. 22—far more than was indicated would be given up to the time the unit arrived.

"It was drop-in volunteers who did it," said Police Chief Donald Nunnelley, blood drive chairman.

Altogether 93 county residents and a few out of town visitors volunteered to give blood, said Mrs. Nunnelley, who was in charge at the donor center. Sixteen were turned down for various reasons. Some were taking antibiotics, others showed a lack of iron in the blood.

Chief Nunnelley praised the generosity of the people in this support of the Red Cross Bloodmobile, since St. Joseph's Hospital depends on the Red Cross for its source of blood and blood derivatives.

Although the number is far short of the 140 pints requested, it is more than double the amount of blood given here a year ago.

Red Cross personnel in charge of the unit said they were well pleased with the response, Mr. Nunnelley said.

Chief Nunnelley was told that the 60-year-age limit for blood donors has been raised to 68 years, and persons older than that may make blood donations with their doctor's permission and if they pass the blood tests given at the center.

The first to take advantage of this was Dr. C. B. Jones, who now past 70 years of age, gave himself permission to donate a pint of blood. Then he went back to work in his office.

"The change in age limitation will enable a number of people in the over-60 group who have wanted to give blood in the past to do so the next time the Bloodmobile comes around," said Mr. Nunnelley.

Platoon Sergeant Robert Valiant of the National Guard unit told Chief Nunnelley that he would give blood every time the Bloodmobile came.

"When I had a son in a hospital and he needed nine pints of blood, I had to go out and contact 45 people to get the nine donors," he said.

Rain

of Swearingen reported a total of 4.5 inches until Tuesday.

In the Loco area 1.8 inches was measured Monday night at both the Hershel Mayhugh and Fred Cox farms.

In the Fresno community, 3.75 inches was measured at the Henry Hunter place and terraces in that area were full of water.

Three miles north of Dodson Truett Holland measured 3.4 inches of rain through Tuesday morning. Approximately one-half inch was measured in the Peck White, Tom Birchfield and other farms at Kelley Monday night.

Rufus Sweat, mail carrier on Route 6, said Tuesday that good rains had fallen all along his route which extends in the area east of Lutie through the Roundup and Aberdeen areas and to within four miles of the state line.

Tom Cunningham said he had received 3.05 inches through the Monday night rain with two inches of it falling Sunday.

that grip and that discerning eye than muscle.

J. B. Oney has resigned as Chief of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department due to the fact that he cannot get adequate male help in his business. The loss of his unselfish and highly trained service is to be regretted but it is understandable. From a utilitarian standpoint it is the most vital and useful organization in our city and in our area.

If it had not been for the birds, how would man have ever learned to fly or sing?

Comanche Scouters to Plan Year's Activity

The annual planning picnic of Boy Scout unit leaders of the Comanche District and their families will be held at the Samnorwood Community Park Thursday evening, Aug. 28.

The program will be directed by District Commissioner Robert Dwight of Samnorwood and district executive Dave Agnew of Shamrock.

This is a planning session for the units during the upcoming year in which membership goals will be set and unit activities set up.

Also final plans will be made for the Comanche District Scout Fun-o-ree which will be held Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 5, 6 and 7, at the Camp M. K. Brown of the Adobe Walls Scout Reservation near Wheeler.

"This is a fun week end for the Scouts of all units in the Comanche District. There will be fishing contests, boating and canoeing, and we hope it will be a period when the boys will go and thoroughly enjoy themselves," said Mr. Dwight.

"In the past, there have been many week ends when the boys went to camp and worked to improve it. This is not a work week end—it is for fun."

Tuesday morning he was feeling much better, his wife reported.

"As each of you know at this time each business is entering into probably the busiest season that it will face during the year," said Mr. Oney in his letter of resignation.

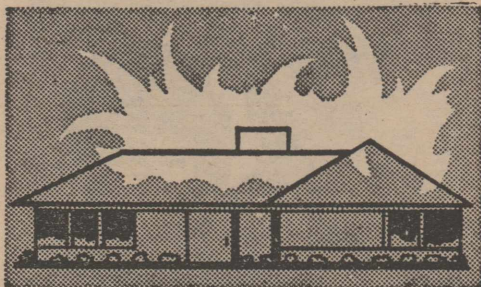

"This of course is true for my business as well as every other. Due to the fact that I am working short-handed and find it almost impossible to find adequate male help that can take over the responsibility of the shop when I am called away, I must take this means to resign from the office I now hold.

"It has been a pleasure and privilege to serve the City and the Fire Department in the capacity of Fire Chief. I ask that each of you understand the situation that I find myself in and it is with deep regrets that I ask you to accept my resignation effective as of Aug. 25, 1969."

Cindy Saied

ing Contest held in Wellington High School each Spring.

Cindy was runner-up to Leigh Nall, as blonde as Cindy is brunette. But because Leigh is below the age limit set for the Wheatheart competition, Cindy went instead.

Cindy Saied is the third Wellington girl to win the coveted beauty title. Blonde-haired, blue-eyed Fayteen Peoples was the winner in 1954, and Vada Bell, a tall brown-eyed blonde who is now Mrs. Farris Wood, won in 1959.

The new Miss Wheatheart is the smallest of the trio.

Just two weeks earlier she was named runner-up in the Miss Grain Sorghum Contest in Dimmitt.

Completing her high school work in three years instead of four, Cindy will enter Texas Technological University as a freshman in September.

David Peters Injures Leg

David Peters received a badly bruised right leg Tuesday, Aug. 26, when he fell while working in a vacant building belonging to him.

Mrs. Peters said the roof had leaked the night before and her husband slipped when he stepped in mud while carrying a 50-pound roll of roofing.

He is at home but having to walk with crutches.

Visiting Rev. and Mrs. R. T. Dyess last week were their son, Rev. Todd Dyess. He is a senior this year at West Texas State University in Canyon where he is majoring in psychology. He led the Sunday services in McLean.

A weekend guest in the home of Mrs. Walter Franks was her daughter, Mrs. Bill Day of Comanche.
