VISITS POULTRY FARM AT ANGELO

A group of parties interested in poultry production motored to San Angelo last Wednesday for the purpose of making an inspection of the Breezeland Poultry Farm.

Mr. Tunnell, of the Hatchel community, took the initiative in getting together a group of poultry fans for the trip, and those making up the party were Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Batts, Mr. and Mrs. Vergil McShan, L. M. Bales and son, Mrs. E. F. Batts, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Eaton and Mr. Tunnell.

The party went to make a study of practical poultry growing on a commercial scale. The Breezeland Poultry Farm, of San Angelo, Misses Bigelow & Schott, proprietresses, was selected as the place to visit. This is considered one of the very best poultry farms in this section of the state.

Upon arrival the visitors were taken to the incubator cellar where they have two mammoth incubators with one thousand egg capacity each. These were running at full capacity, each turning out a stream of baby chicks every few days. The incubators were electrically driven by Deleo plants.

Next the breeding pens were visited where was found one of the direct Tom Brown strain roosters heading the list. This bird cost $175 and along with him were other birds as well bred, all selected because of performance records, and from strains varying from 200 to 300 egg capacity, having trap nest records.

Mated with these high standard cocks are what is known as 100 per cent hens, all trap nested and showing a record above 200 eggs per annum, and also hens that have continued to lay thru the moulting season.

All hens are selected from the standpoint of vigor as well as production. No male is kept for breeding unless his progeny shows vigor and production.

The trap nesting house was next visited, where all pullets from breeding pens are trap-nested for one year and those above 200 egg production become the breeders for the coming year.

From here the laying pens were visited where some 1500 hens are kept. One section contains the 200 egg or above trap-nested flock. From these eggs for incubating are selected and for supplying the public for setting purposes.

All breeding stock is pedigreed and a record of all papers issued is kept so that anyone who buys from this farm will get birds of proper mating or not too closely related.

Proper methods of breeding, feeding and housing were also investigated by the visitors. Thus the party had a very helpful trip for they were made to recognize that they had visited a couple of young women who knew their business and who were cautious and enthusiastic in giving out practical information for the general good of the industry.

The two young women also proved that with poultry alone, without even growing a grain of feed, that under proper management poultry growing can become profitable business, and that the most profitable phase of the business is the egg production.

The difference between snobs and nice people is that snobs live across the street.

The rest of the days for many people depends on the rest of their nights.

NEW BILL MAY CUT GAS SUPPLY

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Feb. 24.—Texas may lose a supply of natural gas from Oklahoma and Louisiana and other states, if the Carbon-Black bill now pending in the Texas legislature becomes a law. W. A. Morehead, of the Lone Star Gas Company, in commenting on the bill today said that it would be a heavy blow to the state to pass such a bill.

ANTI-SMOKE BILL BEFORE HOUSE

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Feb. 24.—The anti-cigarette bill was offered in the House today. The measure is intended to stop traffic in cigarettes by prohibiting the manufacture, sale and giving away of same, and was introduced by Representative McDaniel, of Comanche.

The Stewart and Edwards amendments to the free text book law, reducing the amount the commission be allowed to spend for books, and regulating changes, was introduced in the House.

An international commission to settle disputes, agree upon water rights between Mexico and the United States is proposed in a resolution prepared by Representative Rountree.

Governor Neff submitted a message to the legislature today, requesting the lawmakers to work out an adequate system of financing the state penitentiary. The governor pointed out that it will require approximately $900,000 to run the prison until the cotton crop is moved next fall, and he asked that appropriations be made to cover this deficit.

The prison system now has on hand $70,000, the governor's message stated, and owes approximately $300,000.

BULLETINS FROM NATION'S CAPITAL

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—President Harding's communications written to congress today are described as important, but their nature was not made public.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Opponents to the shipping bill today moved to kill the bill through recomittal. The motion is pending for a vote Monday. It is generally conceded that the bill is dead, or will be by the vote Monday. The vote for Monday has been agreed upon by the democratic and republican leaders of the Senate. Proponents and opponents of the bill agreed on the pending motion to take up the bill Monday, on which final test vote will come.

Senator Jones, in charge of the measure stated that if the bill was killed that he would make no further efforts in its behalf.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—Despite published reports to the contrary, Secretary Hoover of the American Relief Administration, said that he had reached no decision on the question of cutting off further relief shipments to Russia. It is said that Russia is exporting grain to Germany, while the American relief administration is shipping in supplies to feed "starving Russians."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—The composite farm credits bill, embracing the principal features of the Lenroot, Anderson and Capper bills, has been completed by the House banking committee. Chairman McFadden said that the bill would be formally reported to the House Monday, and taken up for passage probably by Tuesday.

LOCAL SCHOOLS GET MORE AID

The Ballinger Independent District will share in the recent $3,000,000 school aid appropriation made by the legislature, to the amount of $2523.00, according to notice just received by the local school board.

The board received notice that an additional apportionment of $3 per capita had been made and that the additional aid would be available for the present term, which brings the total apportionment up to $13. $10 per capita having already been apportioned by the department of education.

There are 841 children in the Ballinger Independent District, and on a basis of $3 per capita additional aid the local schools will receive $2523.00. The extra fund comes in handy for the local schools, as the board was operating on a close margin and has been wondering where they would get money to make improvements which are absolutely necessary to keep the schools going.

A nine months' term had been assured for the school for this term, but no funds would have been left in the treasury for carrying on maintenance work which would keep the schools in affiliation rank. With the addition aid to come from the state the prospects for solving the school problems are made easy.

The work of taking the scholastic census is to begin next month, and prospects are that a record breaking scholastic population will be the result. The schools are already filled to overflow, and others are being kept out through the fact that house room is not available in Ballinger and people are being kept away.

KLAN PARADE IN MAYOR'S RACE

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, Feb. 24.—More than three hundred and fifty automobiles, bearing banners and aflame with red torches, paraded through the streets of El Paso last night in boosting the interests of P. E. Gardner, candidate for mayor. Gardner heads the ticket endorsed by the Ku Klux Klan. He is being opposed by Senator R. M. Dudley, heading the anti-Klan ticket.

The election is being held today with both sides claiming a victory.

TWO HELD FOR MURDER ARE RELEASED

(By Associated Press)

WACO, Feb. 24.—Charges against Mrs. Mabel McCarter in connection with the killing of her husband, Arch McCarter, were dismissed, it was said today and the woman returned to her home from Dallas, where she was carried Thursday. Charges against her brother-in-law, L. O. Samon, were also dismissed, and her father, S. W. Smith, who was being detained, was also released.

The man and woman were arrested and carried to Dallas for safekeeping Thursday. McCarter was shot to death in his home last August. Mrs. McCarter pleaded self defense. The grand jury failed to indict her, but the case was reopened by the officers a few days ago, and the woman again arrested. She has been released for the second time.

MAN RESCUED FROM BURNING GAS WELL

(By Associated Press)

FT. WORTH, Feb. 24.—The efforts of twenty-five men working in hard rain last night, were required to rescue J. T. Lewelyn, an oil operator, who was caught in the flames of a burning gas well in the Putnam field.

Lewelyn was standing on the floor of the derrick when the well came in and caught on fire. Flaming gas was thrown over Lewelyn, and the drilling crew went to his rescue. The man was rescued after being badly burned about the face and head, but physicians believe he will recover.

WET WEATHER CUTS SATURDAY CROWDS

Three wet Saturdays in succession have been responsible for small crowds in town, and business has been on the lag on account of the condition of the roads and the inability of the people throughout the country to get to town.

Reports received here indicate that the larder is running low in some remote sections of the county, and the people are "living at home." The month is closing as one of the wettest if not the wettest on record in this country. There have been perhaps two other Februaries during the last thirty years history of the local weather record when more rain fell, but there has perhaps been no February when the rain fell in such a way as to all soak into the ground, and that too accompanied by a snow and freeze which added to the moisture.

To express it in the language of one prominent citizen, who says he is ready for a change in the weather, the ground is "rotten." Not only are the roads in the worst condition known here for many years on account of the protracted wet weather, but the city streets are impassable due to the paving work which is under way. While trade is being seriously crippled, and auto travel and traffic in general made almost impossible, the rains are storing away surplus moisture which guarantees a good start on a big crop, and with anything like average seasons throughout the crop growing period, this country will enjoy an era of prosperity which will exceed all previous records.

The farmer who plowed before the rain is the farmer who will make the best crop.

Money sometimes gets a man into trouble, but it is also a friend when it comes to getting a man out of trouble.

With favorable seasons no country can offer more joy in spring-time than West Texas or this part of West Texas and the approaching spring promises to be one of flowers, bird songs and busy days on the farm.

If we include the cost of funerals it must be admitted that prohibition has cost the country a snug little sum, but even at that the cost just about equals legal interest rate on the drink bill.

What has become of the old-fashioned girl who held the center of popularity on her record as a good housekeeper and ability to cook?

Some people think that the town which can muster up the greatest number of endorsements from other towns, will get the new college. Not so; the locating board is not composed of politicians, but are level headed leaders in education, and they know the requirements for making a good college site.

Mr. Tregoe, representing the Credit Men's Association, recently visited Texas, and returned to Chicago with a report that most of Texas was in good shape, and recommended a liberal line of credit. Runnels county people are not asking for much credit. Most of them are on a cash basis. The credit man also said he found most of Texas enjoying a good season. He should return now and take another look since the last week of rain. She is wet from rim to rim.

There is some complaint that the recent freeze up did not kill the common house fly, and that the pesky germ breeders and deliverers are buzzing around entirely too freely for this season of the year. The flies probably found a warm nook in some bed chamber and got by without having his filthy feet frozen, but a good fly swatter will put him out of business, and any home without a fly swatter is not completely furnished. One fly swatter in early season means a million flies less for the later season.

A PAGE AD FOR A TEN CENT ARTICLE

The Ledger carried a page ad for the American Tobacco Company this week, and the advertisement appeared in all the leading papers throughout the country.

The tobacco company used the full page ad in hundreds of papers just to advertise a ten cent article—"Bull Durham," which is already a familiar name with every cigarette smoker.

Why should this tobacco company spend thousands of dollars to advertise a ten cent article which is already so well known, and when the Bull Durham sign hangs in every grocery store, tobacco store, many drug and confectionary stores throughout the nation?

It is because the tobacco company has tested the value of printers' ink, and realizes that advertising pays. New consumers of tobacco are being made every day, and old ones are passing out, and the tobacco company realizes that the best way to keep its business before the public is through the columns of the newspapers.

Other big business concerns are doing the same thing, and there are many articles the names of which are made household words through advertising; yet there are some local merchants who say that advertising does not pay, and "everybody knows them."

They Appeal to Our Sympathies

REPUBLICANS FACE BIG HANDICAP

The Washington Star sees much trouble ahead for the republicans in the next congress, and says that even should the republicans have a majority they will lack in leadership and knowledge of parliamentary rules, while the democrats have many members who are versed in the rules.

In the present congress the republicans have a majority of 160 in the House, but they have been beaten time and again by the democrats, supported by some dissatisfied groups of republicans. In the next congress the republicans will have a majority of probably seventeen, which on a division can be overcome by a switch of eight or nine votes.

The Star says that knowledge of the rules is of great benefit to a member of congress in the discharge of his duties. The rules are extremely complicated, and few members of the House know anything about their intricacies, and the Star points out a number of democrats who have made trouble for the republicans and who will continue to do so in the next session.

The Star refers to a number of democrats who are so well versed in parliamentary facies, that they have blocked the republicans many times, even with the large majority against them, and among the number referred to is Thomas L. Blanton, from the 17th Texas District. The Star says: "There is Representative Thos. L. Blanton of Texas, generally referred to as 'obstreperous,' but Blanton has learned the rules and the exceptions and the reasons therefor probably better than any of the younger members of the House and has a peculiar quality of persistence and irrepressibility which even in this Congress has caused endless trouble for the republican leaders."

No matter how able a member of the House may be, or how adroit a debater he may be, if he is performing and does not know the rules, he can be tripped up by members who do know them, held out of order and lose the floor before he realizes where he is. The Star says that the democrats, though they should be slightly in the minority, will have a wealth of seasoned parliamentarians, while the republicans will not have one really strong parliamentarian.

"WORSE THAN PAIN"

Louisiana Lady Says She Has "Never Found Anything Better Than Cardui for a Run-Down Condition."

Morgan City, La.—"It would be hard for me to tell how much benefit I have derived from the use of Cardui," said Mrs. I. Q. Bowman, of 1319 Front Street, this city.

"I was so run-down in health I could hardly go. I was thin, I had no appetite. Could not rest or sleep well. I was so weak, and so very nervous, I was no pleasure to myself.

"I suffered some pain, but the worst of my trouble was from being so weak and easy to get tired and out of heart.

"This nervous condition was worse than pain.

"Some one told me of Cardui, and I decided to use it.

"After using a few bottles, I regained my strength. I wasn't so nervous, and began to eat and sleep, and grew stronger and was soon well.

"I have never found anything better for a run-down condition."

If you suffer as this Louisiana lady did, you, too, should find Cardui helpful for your troubles.

NEW MAYO PICTURE FOR THE FO-TO-SHO

Frank Mayo comes to the screen of the Fotosho Theatre Saturday in a film version of Hugh Pendexter's magazine story, "Wolf Law."

The story is one that did Pendexter credit as a foremost fiction writer, and Charles Sarver, who has scenarized many of the Mayo vehicles, attempted to preserve every charm of the fiction plot in preparing it for the filming.

Stuart Paton directed Mayo and a remarkable cast. Opposite the star is Sylvia Breamer, whom Paton chose to play opposite Mayo once before when he directed "The Man Who Married His Own Wife." Harry Carter, Nick de Ruiz, Charles Brinley, Fred Kohle, Frank Weed, Paul Wismer, Edward Monerief and other players of high standing have principal supporting roles in "Wolf Law." Nick de Ruiz, it will be recalled, played with Mayo in "Honor Bound."

Remember "The Man Who Married His Own Wife"? That same dramatic effect is promised in "Wolf Law."

SAFETY FIRST WELL MUST NOT BE LOST

Editor Ledger: "People surely have common sense. With $90,000 now invested will $6,000 be refused by the entire population of this community, losing the opportunity to know there is, or there is not oil in 4,000 feet?

"This well is down now 3400 feet. The drill will start drilling or be removed in less than thirty days. Which shall it be?

"All those now holding oil leases in this section on 100 acres, paying yearly lease rent, where will you stand thirty days from now? If the drill leaves you have nothing. Why not give fifty acres to keep the drill going, and then you will have fifty acres left that will represent a real live lease and may be worth something to you, if the well is a success, or you will know to cease paying rentals if no oil is found.

"The Ballinger Oil & Gas Company has $5,000 worth of oil stock to sell—200 shares at $25 per share. Why not buy $100 worth of this stock. All the money goes towards sinking the drill down to the 4,000 foot depth. You might answer, "I would lose my $100; I have tried that several times and they got my money, and I got nothing." I reply, "yes you took shares in some outside company, possibly a swindle, and if so they got your money, and you were the sucker."

"This is a home company, five citizens handling it. Men you see every day. You might say 'if they get my money and get no oil it is gone just the same.' I say 'no, that is not my feeling; I give my $100, and if the worst comes and 4,000 feet is drilled and no oil, I will always be glad that I spent the $100 to help my community in trying to make the people richer and happier.' That will be my feeling, should the worst come.

"J. W. POWELL."

BOTH MASTERS OF RHETORIC

Scholarly Consideration of the Literary Styles of Abraham Lincoln and Thomas Jefferson.

In American letters we fix on Abraham Lincoln as our type of natural expression; the legend of his humble beginnings and the plainness of his manner deceive us into a conviction that he was less indebted to art than Thomas Jefferson, and we therefore talk of the rhetorical extravagances of the Declaration and contrast them with the Attic simplicities of the Gettysburg address. John Erskine writes in the North American Review. Perhaps we see a final proof of our sound taste in the story that Matthew Arnold gave up the address for lost when he got to the colloquial "proposition"; "dedicated to the proposition," we say, was more than his artificial spirit could bear. Whether Arnold expressed such an opinion, or whether he would have been right in so doing, is of less consequence than our emotional readiness, if we cultivate the natural, to accept the Lincoln speech as an illustration of our ideal, and to set it over against the artifice of Jefferson's great document—to detect a literary manner in such a phrase as "When in the course of human events," and nothing but naturalness in "Four score and seven years ago"—or to find an empty and sounding rhetoric in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," but only the democratic syllables of common sense in "government of the people, by the people, for the people." Both documents are as rich as they can well be in rhetoric, as all great oratory is, and of the two Lincoln's, as a matter of fact, is rather more artful in the progress of its ideas.

NOT LONG HELD IN MEMORY

Cleveland Man's Experience is Very Much What Would Come to Most of Us.

It isn't the Rip Van Winkles only who come back to find themselves forgotten. That sort of thing occurs with painful frequency in everyday life. Nor is it necessary for the victim to stay away 20 years. Much less time will efface him.

Some time ago a man came back from the West, where he had made his home for ten years, and set out to renew old acquaintances. He had been a prominent man in the business life of the city and a member of a leading firm. It was to the habitation of this firm that he directed his footsteps.

As he passed down the salesroom one of his old partners came to him with outstretched hand.

"Why, hello, how are you? How new things going, and how long do you stay? Sorry I'm so busy. See you later." But he never came back.

Then the senior partner saw him and came forward.

"Well, well, this is a surprise," he cried. "How are things coming, and how long do you stay in the city? Drop in whenever you can find time. Sorry I'm so busy. Good-bay."

This visitor went away, feeling hurt and ignored, but after all there's little sentiment in business, and this Cleveland man's experience has been duplicated countless times, no doubt—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ARLISS A CHANGED MAN IN "RULING PASSION"

After twenty years' successful presentation on the stage of roles portraying the cynic, the satirist, the crafty, designing schemer and similar roles, George Arliss, probably the most widely known and most popular character actor in this country, has given to the public something new and entirely different from anything he has heretofore attempted.

This new role comes in the photo play, "The Ruling Passion," a comedy drama, second of the Arliss film productions for United Artists Corporation, and which has been announced by the management of the Fo-to-sho Theatre as the special feature on next Wednesday and Thursday.

In this new motion picture Mr. Arliss will be seen in the role of a kindly hearted philanthropist whose chief aim in life is to bring out only the best in himself and in all those with whom he comes in contact. This characterization is wholly opposite to that in which Mr. Arliss has come to be known so widely; the exact antithesis of the sinister roles, the in the presentation of which he has had a long career of unbroken successes. "The Ruling Passion" abounds in quaint humor and subtle comedy, with a thread of what might be called health philosophy running thru it, but without any definite attempt to point a moral or teach a lesson.

Not the least particle of the deft and subtle artistic touch that has made this celebrated star so popular among so many hundreds of thousands in the public is lost. In this photoplay are to be found all the expressive facial mannerisms, all the speaking gestures, all the telling finger lifts, and the quizzical smile that have made Mr. Arliss a past master on the speaking stage as well as on the screen.

Religious Denominations Differ In Detail Only

"For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office; so we being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members of one another."—Romans 12:4-5.

SCIENCE has proved that no two things in nature have been created exactly alike. No two individuals have ever been identical either in their physical or mental construction, and therefore, it is reasonable to assume that the Divine Creator intended that humanity should arrive at the truth through different processes of thinking and reasoning. Many different and divergent types of human nature make up mankind, yet back of all these difference in detail the ultimate goal remains the same. There are many religious denominations in the world today all putting forth their fullest effort for the ultimate good; the interpretation of the will of Divine Providence and the application of these truths to individual life. The only difference between these denominational beliefs are minor details. Religious denominations and sects are the outcome of different types of human nature. Your process of reasoning may not coincide with the doctrine of all the churches, but you have the privilege of making your own church affiliation on the basis of your belief.

GOOD PROGRAM CIVIC LEAGUE

The Civic League is planning one of the most interesting, and what promises to be one of the most successful social occasions in the history of that organization, and one which will aid financially the league in a program of work it has outlined.

On Tuesday afternoon and evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Baker on Eighth Street, the folks have been invited to attend a birthday party. Your age is your invitation, and you will not be required to make public what it is. Just drop in the box as many pennies as you are years old, and if you cheat a little, it will not be held against you.

The birthday party has been arranged for a two-fold purpose: first to acquaint the public with the plans and objects of the Civic League, bringing them together for a social afternoon and evening, and at the same time creating a little fund to aid in civic improvement work.

In order to get the full benefit of the splendid program you will have to attend both afternoon and evening, as the program for the two hours is different. Following is the program:

NEW VIOLA DANA

"June Madness," Viola Dana's new Metro starring vehicle, to be seen at the Maeroy Theatre next Friday, with special orchestra music, is a delightful, amusing, rapid-action comedy of a runaway bride who makes a dash for liberty at the altar, throwing an entire churchful of wedding guests into confusion, particularly because the bridegroom is supposed to be the catch of the season.

Despite the groom's million dollars or so and Mama's eagerness, little Clytie—as she is called in the photoplay—goes to the altar under protest. She watches her opportunity. Noting that the officiating minister is about to utter the fatal words, she darts off like a flash, incidentally getting a black eye as the result of a fall.

The whole shouting, crying assembly is after her, mamas, daughters, ushers and all. Outside the church there passes in a roadster an orchestra leader known as the Jazz King. Clytie would have jumped into his car if he had been a fish merchant. However it happens he is a jazz king and a handsome one, and quite willing to help Clytie elude her determined pursuers.

What happens at this juncture of the story can best be told in Viola Dana's charming way on the screen. Mere words are cold to express her art in the silent play.

Miss Dana plays throughout with a vivacity that has come to be expected of her productions. Bryant Washburn as the orchestra leader is equally forceful and amusing whether making love or providing synecopation. The production was directed by Harry Beaumont, who also made the adaptation from the original story by Crosby George. Beaumont, it will be remembered, directed Miss Dana in "The Million Dollar Baby," etc., and Mr. Washburn in "Skinner's Dress Suit," and other big comedy hits.

Bird's Curious Modification.

There is in New Zealand a form of crow (Hura) in which the female has undergone a very curious modification. It is probably the only case in which the bill is differently shaped in the two sexes. The bird has taken on the habits of the woodpecker, and the stout crow-like bill of the cock-bird is admirably adapted to tap trees, and if they sound hollow, to dig down to the burrow of the insect within.

But it lacks the horny-pointed tip of the tongue, which in the true woodpecker is provided with recurved hairs, thus enabling that bird to pierce the grub and draw it out. In the hura the bill of the hen-bird has become much elongated and slightly curved, and when the cock has dug down to the burrow, the hen inserts her long bill and draws out the grub, which they then divide between them.

Siamese Fashions.

To be really in the fashion in Siam it is not enough to have clothes of the latest cut and a knowledge of what, when and where to wear these garments. Good taste does not help much, either. There is a rigid rule for every day of the week, which is followed by those who have the inclination and the price. On a Sunday the things to wear are red robes and rubies. On a Monday nobody is in style without moonstones and white-roganite. Tuesday, pink and coral-should be worn, with stripes and onyx ornaments kept for Wednesday. No one can look smart on Thursday without going out in green with emeralds. Light blue and diamonds are the thing for Friday, and on a Saturday one wears dark blue and sapphires.—New York Sun.

Forget the past—The future will always have enough worry in store for everyone.
