WHO WILL PAY THE FREIGHT?

For the past few weeks quite a bit of talk has been going the rounds about how much taxes we will have to pay to support our city.

It is the contention of some of our citizens that all our city's government will have to do after they are elected is to assess and collect taxes and then spend the money, or as some would have it, spend the money first, and then collect it, by issuing defficiency warrants to create an obligation .

The Chamber of Commerce long ago recognized the possibility of the city's administration issuing a large amount of deficiency warrants and passed the following resolutions:

Be it resolved by the members present, That we go on record as opposing at this time or at any future time the issuance of Deficiency Warrants in the excess of $5,000 by the City officials of Junction, and be it further

Resolved, that we will oppose by every method within our power to the issuance of such warrants over and above the above specified amount.

Kimble County Chamber of Commerce.

The object of specifying an amount not to exceed $5,000, was to permit the purchase of some kind of fire fighting apparatus. The present need of this was exemplified in the fire of a few days ago.

When taxes are assesed the big businesses of your city will have to pay the major part of them. The small home owner will pay in proportion to the valuation of his home. Yet he receives as many benefits as will the much larger taxpayer.

Taxes are assessed and collected in a city for a set purpose. The city officials meet and create a budget, an advalorum tax is assessed to meet this budget of expenses for the maintenance of the city government, such as city hall, police and fire department. Naturally when bonds are voted by the people additional taxes will be assessed to createt an interest and sinking fund sufficiently to take care of them.

CAFES CAUSE DIVORCE: WOMEN CAN OPENERS

Buffalo, N. Y.—The American restaurant is one of the chief causes of the high divorce rate, Mrs.Christine Frederick of New York declared in an address before the National Restaurant Association in convention here.

"If you agree," Mrs. Frederick said, "that the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, then it follows that whoever caters most closely to his appetite will have a chief hold on his affections. Women used to hold this place in man's emotions, but the woman of today is no longer a cook. She's a can opener".

SNIP'S, BARBER SHOP IN NEW HOME

Within a few days Junction will have a real up to date barber shop, equipped with all modern accessories for the convenience of their customers as well as the barber. When completed three of the most modern chairs will be installed with individual laboratories, doing away with the necessity of having to wait your turn for a shampoo.

Two bath rooms are being installed, one for hot or cold shower; the other with tub.

Each of these rooms are sufficiently large enough to give ample room for dressing with all the ease and comforts of home. As a usual thing a bath at the barber shop is a difficult feat, often due to the smallness of the room, making it necessary to dress and undress in the tub.

The building is sufficiently large to care for two more chairs and three or four more baths.

Some folks are angry if their vacation trips are mentioned in the newspapers, and they feel slighted if they are overlooked.

Some of our men are expecting to have a wonderful time out in the woods this fall, getting mistaken for a deer.

NOXVILLE ROAD BOND ISSUE WENT OVER BIG

The people of the Noxville community last Saturday voted a bond issue for the construction of a road east from Noxville to Harper, which will do more to develop that section of Kimble County than any other move that has heretofore been made. It will give them easy access, not only to the county seats of two counties, where a ready market is obtainable for their production, but will bring more people into that fine ranching and farming section of Kimble County and consequently enhance the valuation, more than any other move they could have made.

It is hard to estimate the number of tourists we have each summer out of the counties in South and East Texas, and they have heretofore been compelled to come over highway 27, which we are sorry to say has not been maintained in the manner we would like to see it maintained. A conservative estimate of the number of said tourists is probably 15,000 annually. There is no question but what they will now follow the road from Houston, Brenham, Austin and Fredericksburg and on into the "Hill Country" rather than highway 27, as all of the road will be in fine condition and the route will be nearly 100 miles nearer than the one they have heretofore been compelled to travel. The same thing will apply to the Transcontinental traffic from the west. It will in all probability go over this new highway rather than 27, by reason of the fact that they will be nearer to the East Coast on this route.

If highway 27 is not now maintained and continues to deteriorate in the next few months as it has the past three years, there will be no highway left, and unless it is kept in a ntavelable condition people will ntaurally go over the good road.

We commend the spirit of foresightedness that has brought about a realization of this highway and opened up a country that has heretofore been absolutely cut off from markets.

ANNUAL FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Fire Prevention Week is to be held this year from October 9 to 15. Throughout the country various organizations will attempt to train the public in offsetting the greatest menace in the United States today. Our people will do well to learn, and profit by example.

The tragedy of fire is that it is almost entirely preventable. There are, of course, natural causes for conflagrations that cannot be helped, but these are a very small percentage of the total. The greatest damage is caused by carelessness and ignorance. Billions of dollars are wasted and destroyed each year by a few people's carelessness. It would not be so reprehensible if the loss were borne by them alone. But it must be shared, directly or indirectly, by every citizen and taxpayer.

It is the duty of every citizen to co-operate in the observation of Fire Prevention Week. And it should be his pleasure. Fire loss can be stopped. And in a single week, if everyone will observe and learn, a great deal can be accomplished in the way of reducing it.

SHEEP-GOAT EXECUTIVES MEET AT BRADY

The State executive committee of the Sheep and Goat Raisers' Association will be held in Brady next Oct. 10

President T. A. Kincaid will preside at the meeting. G. R. White of Brady is a director and Jamie Brook has taken an active part in the organization. One vacancy in office is to be filled at the meeting here.

Some think that President Coolidge will run for the senate, though one would not think it was much of a place for a man who does not like to talk.

Formerly the freshmen were hazed by putting them under the pump, ducking them in the pond, etc., but no one is hazed any more except the professors and teachers.

WILL TARVIATE HIGHWAY No. 28 NEXT YEAR

At a recent meeting of the convention of County Judges and Commissioners for the State of Texas, held in San Antonio, the Highway Maintenance Program for the coming year was discussed.

In the spring of 1928 the State Highway Commission contemplates the tarviation of all of the gravel surface roads west of San Antonio on Highway 28, in addition to other similar roads. This is a thing we have hoped for for many years, as it will answer a long needed want.

There is little question but what this will be done, and it will make our access to outside markets easier and be one of the greatest conveniences to the travelling public that could possibly be put over by our Highway Commission. As it is purely a maintenance proposition, the counties will probably not be asked to assist in any way.

JUNCTION NOW HAS ONE STRONG BANK

On Friday of last week the Junction State Bank and the First National Bank became one, giv ng our people the advantage of one strong banking institntion instead of two banks of smaller size.

The bank will be known as the Junction State Bank, and is now housed in quarters formerly occupied by the First Nat onal Bank.

Plans and specifications are being prepared for a large modern bank building on the corner where the old State Bank formerly held forth.

Many of these flappers who are reducing their weight, don't have any special weight of brains that has to be reduced.

KIMBLE COUNTY HAS 2 TO 4 INCHES OF RAIN

Last Saturday morning Kimble County's drouth was broken by one of the heaviest rains that has visited this section of the State in a number of years. Reports coming in from different parts of the county vary as to amount of rainfall, but from what we are able to gather, from 2 to 4 inches of rain fell over the entire county, causing all streams to overflow. Auto traffic was at a standstill from Saturday evenng till noon Sunday. Saturday's mail from Kerrville didn't get in till about noon Sunday.

We have had several rains in the county recently but not a general rain, and to a great extent the county had begun to suffer. It looked for a while like this would be another hard, dry winter. Ranchmen have been selling quite a bit of stock off to save feed bills. Worried looks have turned to good natured grins, for we are assured of good pasturage for this winter.

Just as an example of how much rain fell, Mr. James Prentice says that Bois d'Arc Creek had more water in it Saturday than has been known in 40 years.

LONDON LOCALS

Miss Ethel Vance of Menard is visiting her brother and sister, Mr. John Vance and Mrs. T. H. Walton, htis week.

Miss Fae McKinney was home from Brady Saturday and Sunday. Fae is attending school in Brady.

Mr. G. R. Ivy has moved back to London from the Big Canyon ranch at Sanderson.

Mrs. Willie V. Ivy is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Genry, this week.

Mrs. M. A. Hunter is in town this week.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Bill McCollum will entertain them with a shower Wednesday night.

The Parent-Teacher Association will entertain at the Community Hall Friday night, Nov. 7. Ice cream, cake and other refreshments will be served. The proceeds of same to be used in the purchase of library books. Now let's everyone attend. If you cannot attend in person, send your approval in the shape and value of at least one American dollar. I will; will you? I have no children to reap the benefit therefrom; likely you have. On with this good work. Let's put books in reach of our girls and boys that will lead them on to greater ambition and higher attainments.

My! The hog pens built close in are rather a strong proposition just now.

I wonder where that Welfare Association has parked?

The Yates mail was waterbound from Saturday until Monday. Fine rains; everyone pleased

Over 700 bales to date, and lots of cotton yet to gather. Rah! for London.

On to the ice cream supper Friday night.

Mr. A. S. Adams is setting posts for a fence in front of his dwelling which will add to the looks and also keep out the town, C.

Our school is progressing nicely. Everybody interested and at work. That is the right way. If you are like I, too old to attend school, then work for the benefit of them that can attend. If you are not quite so old as I, but still in the scholastic or privilege age, then you ought to be in school doing your best to prepare yourself for a more useful citizen than I.

Don't forget the Parent-Teachers' ice cream social and entertainment Friday night, Sept. 7.

JUNCTION BOYS ATTEND BALL GAME AT BRADY

Last week Louis McElroy and Albert Mason of this city, went to Brady to see the ball game played between Dallas and Fort Worth teams.

Considerable rivalry has always existed between the two towns and to witness a ball game between their teams is a real treat. The score was 5 to 3 in favor of Dallas.

GOAT MILK SELLS HIGH AT ST. LOUIS

What is believed to be one of the most prosperous goat dairies in the United States is conducted near St. Louis, Missouri, by Dr. McClean and W. E. Fuetterer. This dairy supplies nearly 100 quarts daily to St. Louis customers at 75 cents per quart. Dr. McClean is said to be very capable in his profession and is an authority on the properties of goat milk. His health was completely lost in the service of his country in the World War, and after every available remedy and treatment failed his health was restored by the use of goat's milk. Mr. Fuetterer is a capable business man and efficiency expert and has put this goat dairy on what is said to be a very profitable basis.—The National Bulletin.

12 MOHAIR BIDS AT KERRVILLE REJECTED

Kerrville, Oct. 4.—Bids of 12 Eastern buyers were rejected as unsatisfactory here Tuesday on the season's first offering of 450,000 pounds of mohair, officials of the Schreiner Commission Company announced.

The lot was the first of 1,100,000 pounds of the 1927 fall clip of mohair already in the warehouses. An additional 150,000 pounds is expected to come in within the next two weeks, bringing the clip this fall to 1,250,000 pounds.

Failures of buyers to meet the expectations of the growers on their bids on the first lot held the remaining 600,000 pounds off the market.

The next mohair sale will be held at Uvalde Thursday and a third sale at San Angelo next Tuesday. No further bids will be considered until after these two sales, it was announced Tuesday night

ROAD BUILDING IN TOM GREEN COUNTY

Tom Green County is starting its road building program, which when completed will have all-weather highways leading from San Angelo to the county line in eight directions. Work was started on the Robert Lee road this week, when Judge J. T. Mathison ordered all the county's road building machinery to that road. The work on this highway will take between six weeks and two months, and when finished the machinery will be moved to another highway and work started on it.

LIFE IS CHEAP IN NEW YORK

We note from the big dailies a man was sentenced to serve the balance of his life for stealing 20c in New York City.

That seems severe enough, but when we compare the above news item with one of recent date, when a crowd of master mind bootleggers were found guilty of selling poisonous corn whiskey, stuff that would cause a man to go blind if he should take a drink of it, got off with a light fine and a short jail sentence.

When we make the comparison we cease to wonder why justice is blind-folded.

DEPARTMENT STORE INSTALLS NEW FIXTURES

In order to take care of the demands of his patrons Mr. Joseph has been compelled to buy an unusually large stock of merchandise this fall.

While in the East he bought some new up-to-the-minute fixtures, consisting of one shirt show case that will care for several hundred shirts ,two wordrobe show cases that will care for 100 men's or boys' suits each. Mr. Joseph hopes to be able to re-arrange his stock so as to better display same.

DR. PAUL H. ROGERS

Dr. Paul Hamilton Rogers, under the aaspices of Junction City Lodge No. 548, A. F. & A. M. on Wednesday afternoon, October 5, 1927, was laid to rest in Junction Cemetery.

Dr. Rogers has been a resident of West Texas nearly all of his professional life time, and for the last 18 years in this county. During that period of time he has served practically every resident citizen professionally and many others. He was a very capable dentist and unstintingly gave all his time to his profession. In some of his mannerisms Dr. Rogers was not like some of the other people of the world, but his intentions were always for the best ,and he had two outstanding characteristics that made him a worth while citizen of this community: First of all, he was plain and open with the people with whom he had business and social dealings, and secondly, he was honest and truthful, and firmly and loyally stood by his friends through storm or sunshine.

Dr. Rogers died in the Baylor Hospital in San Antonio on the afternoon of October 4th and his remains were brought to this place by the Porter-Loring Undertaking establishment.

He had long been a member of Scottish Rite Masonry and Bros. P. D. Mathis and Dr. McDaniel accompanied his body to this place, and Brother Matthis conducted the funeral services at the grave. The beautiful floral offering at the grave and the many friends who attended the funeral, attested the high esteem with which Dr. Rogers was regarded by those who knew him.

Another land mark passed into history and the part which Dr. Rogers played in this community will ever be remembered by his people with high regard.

CITY OF SAN ANGELO REDUCES TAX RATE

As evidence of the prosperity of West Texas, the City Commission of San Angelo has slashed 3 cents off the city tax rate this year, making it $3.20 on the $100 valuation. This comes despite an $800,000 bond issue, part of which has been sold. The valuations this year amounts to $11,930,240, which is expected to yield $371,767.68 for operation of the city government. Appropriations were raised from the general fund for parks and the Board of City Development, the commercal organization. The school maintenance rate is the same, $1.

SOUTH LLANO NEWS

Our community was blessed with a fine rain Saturday, lasting about 6 hours and the river came up very high, taking fences trees and everything in its wake. The river was not fordable until Monday morning. Quite a number were water bound on Sunday. Some of the crossings are impassable until work is done on them. The telephone line is broken on the river at the Hodges ranch and all connections on this part of the line is entirely cut off. The Divide people have to go by way of Cedar in case of sickness which there were two patients at Mr. Mack Huffman's. He was thrown from the wagon and badly bruised and hurt, but at this writing he is resting very well. Hope to see him out again soon.

Our school is progressing nicely.

School was postponed Monday on account of the teacher being on the opposite side of the river.

Dr. Henderson and Mr. Stubberfield were guests at F. M. Hodges Monday.

Mr. Martin and wife of Houston are visitors in the community.

Miss Gussie Burris spent the week-end with Joe Gardner and wife.

Everett Smith and family went to Junction Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Lane Hodges and children were guests at the J. H. Hubbell and Everett Smith homes Sunday.

Our intellectual highbrows should not develop such heavy brains, that they can't belance themselves on their feet.

PATRIOTISM IN EVERYDAY LIFE

(By E. V. S., London Special Correspondent)

We are often inclined to think of patrioism as a quality which is displayed only by some soldier on the field of battle. We know patriotism only as it is associated with the life of some brave soldier boy, or as it is associated with the spirit of an entire army.

We revere the lives of all brave soldiers who have given their lives, or even risked thir lives to champion some great cause, which they believed to be just. When it is apparent that some foreign foe is about to enter our country intent upon seizing our territory, destroying our homes, marauding our populace in th coldest blood, it is then that we rally with all the strength of our manhood and answer our country's call to chase away, drive back or defeat these invaders. Every red-blooded American today who has lived during the time that our country was ever engaged in war, has felt that throb or pulsation of patriotism when they realized that they or their neighbors are being oppressed by some tyranical foe.

We shall never be able to properly appreciate the acts of our American boys who faced the enemy on Flanders Field. The most substantial monument that we can place in memory of our boys who paid the supreme sacrifice during the World War is to say: "They fought for a cause which they believed was just."

All of these actions, we think of as patriotic acts, and they are. The slacker in times of war and danger is one who should be detested by everyone, and we should never fail to appreciate thoroughly the action of our own armies, which defend us.

However, patriotism has a much broader definition than all of this, if we stop and consider properly.

Patriotism is a virtue that should characterize the lives of all people in their civic lives if they seek to give to society that which it is their duty to give.

An individual may demonstrate a lack of patriotism in his home if he wilfully fails to provide the necessities of life for his own loved ones. He is unpatriotic if he, by his own will, deprives his children of proper food, clothing, education and social advantages.

Acts of selfishness and acts that are unpatriotic are very closely related, because the selfish person thinks chiefly of himself and thinks chiefly of the advantages or disadvantages that would come to him under certain conditions. The person who is lacking in patriotic motives, also reasons as does the selfish individual and sees only himself and fails to give any recognition to posterity.

A lack of civic patriotism is seen on the life of the individual who fails to give his strength and support to any good cause that may arise either in his own town, county, state or nation.

Again we think of an unpatriotic citizen as one who takes delight in being pessimistic. His daily prophecy is that his home merchants will fail in business, that the banks will all soon close and that the world is rapidly growing worse, and that it is only a short time until the human race will perish from starvation. In reality we know the fellow who croaks thus is not normal mentally and we have no intention of allowing his philosophy to become a part of our lives, but since we are creatures of environment, it is almost impossible to entirely seclude ourselves from this type of influence.

Lack of patriotism is manifest by the man or woman who wilfully absents themselves from the polls on election days. They seek to justify their absence from the voting place by saying: "I am too busy to go," or "It doesn't make any difference with me who is elected," or "I dislike to offend either side as I should do if I should vote." We have all heard these remarks, but the one who gave utterance to them was only displaying an act that was selfish or unpatriotic.

When public or individual issues arise, it is necessary that a man, by proper reasoning and study of facts choose the side which he believes to be right or just and to give support to this side with all of the vigor that his mental and physical body may do.

He should not be ashamed to "tell the world where he stands." Failure to do this is a species of unpatriotism.

In next week's issue of the Eagle I shall attempt to discuss briefly the following subject: "Some Hungers of Man."

Bro. Kelley of Hext preached at the London Community Hall during the week-end.

Simp Pierson of Red Creek is preparing to leave in a few days for New Mexico where he and family will reside.

Range conditions are being improved by the fine rains that we are having.

The heavy rain which fell Saturday, Oct. 1, amounted to about three inches and resulted in a rise of 20 feet in the Llano River, and also a heavy rise in the Big Saline Creek.

A called meeting of the London Rural Telephone System was postponed because of the heavy rains.

The London High School football boys are working earnestly in order to develop a fast team.

Quite a bit of land will be sown in oats in the London country this fall.

London is enjoying a period of prosperity as never before—good crops, good roads, plenty of pork in sight and a population of boosters amounting to almost one hundred per cent. "London Locals," do your stuff.

SHOULD CHECK UP ON PAST YEAR'S WORK

College Station, Oct. 4—Now is the time for the cotton farmer to check up on the resuits of his year's work by getting squarely down to brass tacks on certain phases of his production, J. S. Mogford, of the agronomy department, A. & M. College, points out.

Among the questions that a cotton grower should ask himself Mr. Mogford said, are the following: Was the planting seed used this year a good one, one that would be preferred for next year? Did the seed germinate ninety per cent or better? Were they clean, pure seed, large, free from disease, and did they produce strong, healthy plants? How long was it from planting to flowering and from flowering to the first open bolls? Were the plants close jointed, strong, healthy and well fruited? Were the bolls large? Were the bolls of all plants alike? How many bolls were there to the pound? Just exactly what was the acre yield? Was the harvest 250 pounds of lint to the acre or was the cotton production carried on at a loss?

"Cotton is grown chiefly for the lint it produces and therefore the grower should be sure that the variety grown produces a good, strong fiber that will meet the demands of the market," Mr. Mogford said. "If the farmer is unable to determine himself whether the staple is at least one inch long, if it is hard and strong, if all the fibres are of approximately the same length, if there is a heavy body of fibers on the seed, he may by sending his sample of lint to the Textile Department of the A. & M. College, get such information. If your cotton does not come up to the requirements of a good variety, don't start next year's crop with poor seed. Get pure seed, of a good variety, from a State certified seed breeder."

SLAVES OF THE LAMP

Aladdin had but to rub his magic lamp and immediately a slave appeared to do his bidding.

The Arabian Nights have now been so far outdone that every man, woman and child in the United States has 900 slaves waiting at command. This means that, reckoned in terms of man-power, our 110 millions have, in the field of electricity alone, 100 billion man-power at their service. A new power house in New York City will alone deliver more than 10 million man-power.

These invisible slaves, far swifter and more obedient than the slaves of any Pharaoh or rajah, light our streets and homes, drive our chariots with a speed and safety unknown to the ancient world, sew our clothing with a swiftness and accuracy impossible to human fingers, sweep and dust, bake and boil, wash and iron, and stand ready to do a thousand other things that we have not yet asked them to do.

ORGANIC MATTER NECESSARY TO SOIL

College Station, Oct. 4—While the burning over of fields is not practiced as much now as was formerly the case, there is still too much of this being done and every year millions of dollars worth of valuable plant food goes up in smoke, to say nothing of the value of the organic matter destroyed, E. A. Miller, agronomist of the Extension Service, A. & M. College, said in a recent discussion over Station WTAW of the value of organic matter.

"The average plant food value of the stalks and leaves of cotton plants is $8.50 per acre, corn stalks $6.50 an acre, wheat straw $3.75 an acre and oat straw $3.50 an acre," Mr. Miller said. "Other crops are in proportion but in addition to the actual plant food, there is always the big value of the organic matter.

"Many farmers underestimate the value of organic matter in the soil and as a result the soil fertility has been decreasing. It should be remembered that soil fertility is the basis of profitable agrculture and that without a certain amount of organic matter there can be no really fertile soil. There are three necessary conditions for a fertile soil, as follows: The soil must be in good physical condition, it must have plenty of available plant food and it must have good water holding capacity. One of these conditions will always be the limiting factor and the yield will be determined by which ever is lacking. All three of these soil conditions may be obtained usually by providing sufficient organic matter. Organic matter may be provided by plowing under manure, cotton stalks, corn stalks, weeds, grass, cover crops, green manure crops, including legumes, etc."

PUBLIC SENTIMENT

All that is needed to accomplish many gains and improvements in a town like Junction, is favorable public sentiment. If you can convince a good number of people that a certain thing should be done and that it can be done, it becomes much easier to accomplish it.

When the sentiment of the people is behind a change, when people are heard talking in favor of it, then it gets an impetus behind it that promotes action. Everyone who merely talks in favor of a needed public improvement helps get it done. If he also will help organize the work of pushing it, he becomes one of the leading people of his community.

WINTER GRAZING CROPS

In a recent address President Coolidge made the statement that the size of the farms in the vicinity of his old home in Vermont was measured by the number of cows they would maintain, that is, some men had eight cow farms, other men had twelve cow farms, and others might have farms that would be known as twenty cow farms. On these farms all the crops produced are marketed through the medium of the dairy cow. On other farms in other states we find the crops marketed through beef, sheep, and hogs as well as dairy cows. In Texas unfortunately we market most of our crops in the raw state, and this brings a return which barely covers the cost of production.

In a survey recently made by the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association it was found that dairy cows, after paying for all the expenses for labor, returned 42 per cent above the farm value of the crops fed. Baby beef returned 44 per cent above the farm value of the crops fed. Fattening lambs returned 155 per cent above the cost of labor and feed, and hogs returned 108 per cent above the farm value of the crops fed.

Texas needs more live stock on the farms, but in order to produce live stock economically the farms must produce an abundance of pasture, advises Charles H. Alvord, Director of Extension Service, A. & M. College of Texas. Native pastures are good so far as they go, but on the farm they do not go very far, and must be supplemented with crops grown for grazing purposes. For summer grazing sudan grass ranks above all other cultivated crops for pasture purposes. For winter grazing we have a great variety of crops from which a selection can be made. All the winter grains—wheat, oats, rye, barley, and spelt—will do well in any part of the State, and if sown early in the fall, will produce an abundance of nutritious feed for winter grazing. Sweet clover and alfalfa will furnish pasture twelve months in the year unless the season should become so dry in the summer as to stop the growth.

The Extension Service of the A. & M. College has recently issued a record book for the purpose of enabling farmers to accurately determine the value of winter grazing crops. Anyone interested in keeping a record of the amount of pasture they can obtain from any of these crops will be furnished one of these books free. Application should be made to the County Agent or directly to C. H. Alvord, Director of Extension, College Station, Texas. This book not only furnishes the blanks for keeping the records, but gives some valuable information concerning rate of seeding and kind of crops to plant.

SOLE SURVIVORS TEXAS CIVIL WAR COMPANY

New Braunfels, Texas—Their combined ages totaling 272 years, Capt. Julius Giesecke, 89, of New Braunfels; Otto Mackenson, 97, of Houston, and Sam Amsler, 87, of McGregor, are the sole survivors of Company G, Fourth Regiment, of the Texas Mounted Volunteers that took part in the Civil War.

Speaking of his military career. Captain Giesecke, who is the father of Prof. F. E. Giesecke, of the faculty of the Texas A. & M. College, said:

"Our regiment was mustered into the service of the Confederate States near San Antoninio in September, 1861. It constituted the first regiment of Sibley's brigade, to which belonged also the Fifth and Seventh Regiments of Texas Mounted Volunteers.

"The first campaign of this brigade was in New Mexico, where we had three victorious engagements on rather a small scale, and yet we returned from New Mexico in July, 1862, totally stripped of everything we had. We were then furloughed long enough to remount and equip ourselves. Our regiment was reorganized in Brazos County and made ready to participate in the retaking of Galveston on Jan. 1, 1863. From there we were ordered to Louisiana, where we met General Banks, first expedition to Texas at Franklin and sent him back to New Orleans after hard fighting and a doubtful outcome. In this engagement I, with many other officers and men, was taken prisoner and I was held in New Orleans several months and then with seventy-one other officers, was to be transferred on a small island steamer, the Maple Leaf, to Fort Delaware for safe keeping to the end of the war. After leaving Fortress Monroe, we overpowered the guard on the ship and forced the captain to change his course and to effect a landing thirty miles below Cape Henry lighthouse, where fifty-two of us left the ship and went ashore in North Carolina. After a hard chase and terrible hardships for eleven days, all of us reached our lines. The next day we were taken by train to Richmond, Va., and from there we rejoined our several commands.

"About March 20, 1864, we were ordered to meet General Banks' second expedition to Texas near Mansfield, La., and after sending him back to New Orleans we started to Arkansas with General Price's army and were held there till near the end of the war."

HAM SMOTHERED IN SWEET POTATOES

Casserole dishes are always popular with the homemaker. They are easy to prepare and usually afford an attractive way to serve a number of foods from one dish. The Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, suggests this method of combining sweet potatoes and ham in such a dish: 1 slice of smoked ham cut into slices for serving; 3 cups raw sliced sweet potatoes; 1 tablespoon butter or ham frynings; 2 tablespoons sugar; 1 cup hot water. Broil the pieces of ham lightly on both sides and arrange them to cover the bottom of the baking dish. Spread the sliced sweet potatoes over them; sprinkle with sugar. Add the hot water and extra fat. Cover the dish and bake slowly until the ham is tender, basting the potatoes occasionally with the gravy. Brown the top well.

There always seem to be plenty of mermaids on the beaches, but not enough housemaids in the kitchen.

Many of the women folks who can't be persuaded to vote and read about politics, would be awfully stirred up if the ballot was taken away from them.

OWE MORE THAN TAXES TO COMMUNITY

In a recent address on "Civic Leadership, Development and Responsibility," Samuel Insull, president of the Commonwealth Edison Compay, of Chicago, said:

"I hold that ever yman owes something besides his taxes to the community in which he lives. The more he has been favored mentally and materially by fortune, the more he owes. In discharge of that debt, he is under obligation to do for the community something that he does not get paid for, something that he does not make money by. His ogligation to do this is not just a once-in-a-while obligation; it is a continuing obligation and what he does in discharge of it should be limited only by his abilities and his oportunities.

"A true sense of civic responsibility springs from recognition of this obligation. Individual response to it produces the civic leadership that assures continuous, well balanced, symmetrical community development—the development that provides for social and spiritual needs, so to speak, as well as for the physical and material needs of a community.

"It is to the men of constructive vision that we owe the welding of this continent into one homegeneous whole—the greatest amongst the modern creations of empire. It is to this constructive class that we owe the development of our great communities and our great businesses, anw from them you should draw your inspiration for taking your share of civic responsibility and community service."

FORD INFORMATION

We have been repeatedly asked for information concerning the New Ford, and we are pleased to give our readers the full benefit of the inforamtion we have gleaned from first one source and another. Here it is:

The new Ford product will be known as the Linford, taking its name from Abraham Lincoln, its founder, and Henry Ford, its manufacturer. Some other name may be substituted.

The car will be equipped with a runing gear, engine, body, gasoline tank, radiator and other accessories usual to other automobiles.

The wheels, of which there will be four, will be set on axles and will turn round and round, forward or backward, depending on the choice and skill of the driver.

On the extreme front end, the car will be equipped with a radiator which will serve as a reservoir for water with which to water the road. The front of the radiator will be meshed so as to be an excellent smasher of bugs, insects, other people's chickens and the like.

Situated somewhere on the car will be a gasoline tank which will contain a certain number of gallons of gasoline, or any liquid sold as gasoline by filling station. A lesser number of gallons can be used if desired. No wobble pumps will be used.

All seats will be equipped with cushions of more or less softness. On the touring and sedan models the front seat will be placed directly in front of the back seat and the back seat directly behind the front seat. Both seats will be protected from sun, rain, etc., by a top.

In front of the front seat and behind the radiator will be placed a windshield which will serve as a barometer. When it is raining the windshield will become smeared with mud, water, etc., from passing vehicles.

The car will be guided by a steering wheel which will turn the car to the right or left, but never both ways at the same time.

Entrance to the car may be gained through doors cut somewhere in the body, or, if desired, by climbing over.

The sedan and coupe models will be closed cars, and the touring cars and roadsters will be open cars.

The engine of the car will be usual in design and equipped with gears, rings, rods, pistons, sylinders, spark plugs, wires and other doodads that frequently get out of whack, as in all other cars.

The car will be equipped with pneumatic tires, which will be placed over the wheels, tending to give the car a soft, airy, easy-riding feeling.

This information is thought to be correct, but its authenticity (that's a good word) is not guaranteed and we do not guarantee it.

KNOW TEXAS

The following are legal holidays by statute in Texas: New Year's Day January 1; Washington's Birthday February 22; National Independence Day July 4; Labor Day September 5 (1927); Election Day November 8; Thanksgiving Day November 24 (1927); Christmas Day December 25; Arbor Day (Washingtin's Birthday) February 22; Texas Independence Day March 2; San Jacinto Day April 21; Jefferson Davis' Birthday June 3; Texas Pioneer's Day August 12.

East Texas has a considerable advantage in disposing of truck crops because of its proximity to large and growing markets. The principal difficilty with successful operation of the truck farms in the past in Texas was the lack of market facilities. The extreme rapid growth of Texas cities in the last 10 years has done much to open the way for truck garden development.

There are in Texas about 2,350 places having postoffices. The total number of commercial centers, including everything from large cities down to the cross roads general store, is about 2,800.

HOME TOWN PROGRESS

Making money is not the highest of motives, but the desire to make good financially and render service that shall be profitably rewarded, leads to a lot of good work being done. It is a motive that should promote work for home town progress.

The more a town prospers, the more valuable any job is likely to become. Business men can pay better wages in a prosperous town. There are more chances for promotion. If you acquire property or a business, home town growth makes the same more valuable. It is for the prsonal interest of all of us, to co-operate with every movement for civic progress.

ICE does a perfect job of Refrigeration

The merit of ice lies in its ideal balance of atmospheric conditions. It causes the air in a refrigerator to circulate. It keeps the air cool enough and not too cold; dry enough and not too dry. It keeps the air moist enough to keep food at its best.

And it always works automatically. When the air is warmer the ice melts faster and thus keeps the temperature just right. When it is cooler the ice melts more slowly to maintain the same cold. Ice never gets out of order; does not frost or become insulated.

All that is necessary is to keep the ice chamber properly filled. More and more housewives are doing this all the time—winter as well as summer. They know it pays. There is no refrigerant like ice. It is the ideal and natural way of preserving food and food flavor.

Need Substantial Encouragement

One of my newspaper friends writes to say that he endorses what was said recently in "Texas and Texans" about the little encouragement the average editor gets in his work, that he gets at least a dozen criticisms to a word of praise, although he tries constantly to be of help to his town and all its people. He says the knockers in his community are evidently much more energetic than the builders and that some of those for whom he does most will even dodge him when he goes out to collect his bills. He wonders if other towns are like his in that respect. The idea seems to prevail that a newspaper man in a small town merits no praise and needs no money, though I can't think that this is true of all towns, for most Texas papers appear to be prosperous. At least that seems true of those using this column, which are about the only papers I ever see. To do his best work the newspaper man needs a little praise and much money. Should any reader of this paragraph have been a bit niggardly with either, I hope he may have a change of heart.

Natural Gas in Texas

Texas has an over-abundance of natural gas, so much that Texas gas is being sold to other states. Gas for household use is as great a luxury as electric lights or the telephone, and wherever it is possible to obtain it, it should be provided. One of the inquiries now made by people who contemplate locating in a town is whether it has natural gas at reasonable rates. For this reason, as well as for the better comfort of the people, enterprising towns are hurrying to contract for gas. In one day's news reports I noticed that Bryan, Miles and Slaton, three widely separated places, are each negotiating for or getting gas, and dozens of othr towns over the State are studying how they may avail themselves of this comfort-giving fuel.

Enforcing Nepotism Law

It is stated that the anti-nepotism law is to be enforced more strictly in the state departments at Austin. It is said that relatives of State officials in some cases are holding positions under persons related to them. Whether this is true or not, numerous instances could be found where the spirit of the law is violated through direct or implied trading. An official, wanting a place for a relative asks a position for the relative in some other department, and in turn is obligated to help the department head who favors him by employing his relatives. The efficiency of State service would unodubtedly be greatly improved by eliminating these "trade" positions.

Too Many Employees

This seems a good time to say that in some departments there are too many employees for the most efficient work. They crowd upon each other, and the enforced idleness, encourages all to idle. Both branches of the legislature set a bad example in this respect by using many more employees during the sessions than are really needed. Employment in the State service of more help than is needed and of incompetent help is a form of grafting that should be stopped, and the beginning should be made by the legislature itself.

Sweet Potato Marketing

The sweet potato curing plant has worked a wonderful change in the marketing of the crop by stabilizing the market. Pittsburg, Camp County, is perhaps the leading market of the State, and will ship this season some 400 cars of potatoes. Potatoes are now shipped in crates and under trade labels, the marketing lasting the year around. One Pittsburg firm now has seven curing plants with total capacity of about 100,000 bushels.

East Texas to "Tech"

The fall enrollment shows that many East Texas students are going to Texas Technological College at Lubbock. Ten boys are enrolled from Athens and more are expected. Why not? East Texas has much to learn from West Texas and West Texas can learn much from East Texas. The boys from Athens will go back with a lot of the pep that has made West Texas prosperous, and Athens will get much of the Western enthusiasm. Modern travel has almost eliminated distance, and the habitual stay-at-homes are the only people who do not progress.

Nacogdoches School Gets Them

East Texas schools are also proving drawing cards. Seventy-five families located in Nacogdoches in two weeks at the opening of the fall term of the State Teachers' College, drawn there by the school. Other good school towns are making like reports.

Longview Canning Plant

Longview has a canning plant that has been canning cucumbers the past season, the cucumbers having been grown with profit by neighboring farmers. One farmer realized $260 from one acre. The cucumbers are grown on small tracts of from one to thirteen acres. The canning plant has cleared a 10 per cent dividend for its stockholders. The capital stock is to be increased to equip the plant to handle other vegetables besides cucumbers and to run the entire year. It does't take a mathematician to figure that a well-managed cannery pays everybody, including the merchants.

Rocks Not Fertilizers

San Saba wants to sell its rocky hills for fertilizing sections not so rocky. San Saba usually succeeds in what it undertakes, but while the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station found that the limestone rocks contain nitrates and potash salts they are not in sufficient quantities for commercial purposes. Give San Saba plenty of time and some use will be found for those limestone hills.

* * *

Building New Courthouses

A number of East Texas counties are building new courthouses, the old buildings of a half century or more ago now proving inadequate. San Augustine is replacing its antiquated brick structure, and Rusk county will soon begin a new building. It is difficult for Texas people to foresee the public needs a half century ahead or to plan to meet those needs.

Football Season Here

The football season has opened, and it may be mentioned incidentally that the schools are opened, too, to accommodate the football players, if one may form an opinion from the newspapers which are devoting whole pages to reports of the games and only a few lines to the educational features of the school rooms. The papers are not to blame, however, for they play up the things in which the reading public seems most interested.

Forty Years Service

Frank Gaston, of the Granbury News, has completed 40 years of service as editor and publisher of that paper. In referring to it he modestly gives a large part of the credit to his wife, children and friends. I know Gaston and his work well enough to say he has worked conscientiously and faithfully for his community and that he has conducted a paper clean in tone, broad in its interests and persistent in its efforts for the general good—a record of which any one may be proud.

MODERN YOUTH'S FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE

There is no end of complaint because modern children are not taught to obey, and family discipline has become very weak. Among the many reasons that could be cited for this change, is the fact that children become financially independnt at an earlier age.

Years ago, children found it difficult to earn money, and hence had to depend wholly upon their parents. Today many boys and girls feel that if the parents do not like their conduct, they could quit school or college, and easily find jobs and earn their own self support. Many are already earning good wages at an early age. This makes them feel very indepndent. They become able to hire or own or borrow automobiles, go on excursions or tours, train around with their own friends without any parental supervision. Many of them have far too much money for th[illegible] own good.

In the days when the only means of transportation was the family horse, which was locked into the barn, with the key in Father's pocket, youth had to stay at home. Today youth has money, and often spends it unwisely.

It is impossible to return to the ways of those times. The modern family must depend upon persuasion to influence its young people. It must learn how to give the young crowd such a good time in wholesome ways, that they will not look for the risky and undesirable ones.

The young people are not going to be controlled by repression, but by giving them such pleasant activities that their thought will be occupied, and diverted from harmful pursuits. The parents will have to enter into the sports of the children to a greater extent, or the youngsters will have their own sports not so good in character.

Cleanliness

Wash your hands before every meal and before you touch any food that you or anyone else will eat.

Some kinds of dirt can be seen, but other kinds are too small for you to see. It is dangerous to let these get mixed in with food. Wash them away with soap and water.

Pencils and playthings should be held in the hand, never in mouth.

The boy or girl who is neat and clean makes friends more easily than the one who is dirty. People like to have such children around.

A warm bath, with soap, should be taken at least twice a week. It washes away the dirt and waste matter that collects on the skin, gives the skin a chance to "breathe," and helps the blood to flow faster.

A child who wiggles and squirms when his head and ears are being washed has a harder time than he would if he held still, and besides he misses the fun of keeping clean. It's a game which every child should learn to play by himself as soon as he is old enough.

Mothers are kept so busy with cleaning the house, washing dishes and clothes, and putting things in order, that every child should learn to do his share: For instance, wiping shoes carefully before coming into the house after playing, cleaning the tub after taking a bath, helping to stack and set away dishes after a meal, putting away clothes when they have been washed and ioned.

How well we all remember the pictures in our fairy tale book of the Old Lady Who Lived in a Shoe with her many children sticking their heads out in all directions; the Pied Piper of Hamlin and the hundreds of kiddies following in his wake to the strains of his flute; Jack and Jill tumbling down the hill, and numerous others.

Even now, we do not, when reading a beautiful poem or a great story, understand that we have jumped up behind a genius on his magic carpet and are being transported either by or as his hero or heroine? And it's all our imagination—the greatest recreative mental power God has given us. If we did not have great and vivid imaginations, our souls could never enjoy the magic rides of both childhood and grown-up days.

Someone has said that "A child takes up a twig and calls it a King," and it is true that the imagination of a child is a most supreme and wonderful gift. Talk to a child but for half an hour about this earth which we grown-ups all see with cold, matter-of-fact eyes and we are soon convinced that it is full and bubbling over with more romance and wonder on all sides than we ever dreamed it contained.

Bare facts are like pig iron or bricks in a pile. They are of not much use to us until put into usable shape. Pig iron can be turned into a watch spring or a battleship—bricks into a school house or prison. The putting of these facts into usable shape has been accomplished in compiling the famous Compton's Pictured Enclyclopedia. The old Chinese proverb "One picture is worth a thousand words" is very true in its application to the Pictured Encyclopedia. A child sees a picture or reads an interesting story on a nature story or mythology, and gradually geography, history, science unfold before him. The beautiful King Francis edition is so named because the practical, washable, durable Fabrikoid binding is a rendition of the work of the mastercraftsmen of the period of King Francis.

GOOD BREEDING IN BUSINESS

A recent newspaper article comments upon the "agreeable politeness" of telephone operators, and wonders that the thousands of religious and social organizatinos in this country do not try to improve people's manners generally.

Probably the editor did not take into account that many religious and social organizations are in a position where they have their own axes to grind, and politeness is not one one of them. Their position is secure; they feel safe even from adverse comment. And so, they do not bother to improve either their own or "the people's" manners.

The telephone company, being farsighted, sees the virtue of politeness in promoting good will and improving service. Their girls speak millions of times a day to their customers, and soothe them by modulated musical voices. Telephoning is a pleasure under the American system.

Contrast the telephone operator's voice with the bruspue, unpolished utterance one must often endure after a telephone connection has been made. The comparison is odious and obvious.

The newspaper struck nothing new in its comment. But it again called attention to the general competence and good breeding of the present-day efficient business corporations and their employes, from office boy to president. The result is good service and valued public esteem.

"INSIDE" INFORMATION

As veal shops have much less fat in proportion to lean meat than other chops, they are likely to dry out considerably in cooking unless protected by a coating of egg and bread crumbs. This is the reason for serving veal chops and cutlet "breaded."

Apple sauce, as well as stewed prunes, apricots and other fruits which have a pronounced flavor when cooked, makes a good dessert called "snow" or "float," combined with stiffly beaten egg whites—half a cup of sauce per egg.

There is no foundation for the widespread notion that fish is particularly valuable as a brain food. The idea seems to have originally gained headway because fish was supposed to contain relatively large proportions of phosphorus. There is, however, no experimental evidence to warrant the assumption that phosphorus is any more essential to the grain that nitrogen potassium or any other element that occurs in its tissues. Various other foods furnish a higher proportion of phosphorus than fish.

BEST TIME TO WORK

The months of autumn are the most favorable time of year for work in most localities in this country. The heats of summer have passed, and the temperature is moderate and life giving. The languors of the spring air are missing. The atmosphere has an invigorating crispness. People have not much excuse for not taking hold in earnest in the favorable climate of Texas at any time of year, and anyway these conditions are now ideal.

It is a good time for renewed vigor in all our enterprises. We need to put a little more energy into solving the problems of our work and meeting its demands.

It is a fine time also to take hold of civic enterprises. People feel like doing more things in the fall, and they will not be so apt to lie down and say "it can't be done." So let us all take hold in these bright and cheerful days and see what the coming months can do for our personal and community objects.

LET US SERVE YOU

The Vocational Agricultural Class of the Chas. Schreiner High School is always ready to serve the farmers and ranchmen of the Junction community. They are also ready to help the town people.

After school opened the class cleaned up the football grounds and school yard. They also made several field trips for the purpose of investigating and studying the soil problem of this section. This problem is not well understood by anyone in the community, state, or elsewhere. Therefore the class has already made a number of experiments in an effort to solve this problem and shall continue to do so till the close of the school year.

The class is anxious to run more irrigation ditches for anybody who wishes to irrigate. They have only had one opportunity for this type of work. An irrigating ditch, which Mr. Schneider already partly dug was surveyed. It was found that the dam must be built further up the stream than first planned due to the high level of the field to be irrigated. The class aims to return on another day to locate the proper place for the dam.

More work ahead for the boys. Two farmers want their land terraced; two farmers want their blue bugs killed; several people want their fruit trees treated; 15 ranchmen want several thousand pecan trees thinned, pruned and budded. This means work ahead.

But the boys are doing more; they do repair work for the home, and some are building fly traps. The class has declared war on the blow flies and will make special efforts in exterminating them next sping. Then there has been rumored that the boys shall build a few rooms for the school. Well they are ready for the job this fall.

It seems as if the boys will have lots of work to do this year, but they enjoy it and are ready to help Junction solve any problem they can. Just call on them; they are ready to serve you, because they want a more prosperous Junction. Now these boys need a truck to carry them from place to place.

The Vocational class enjoyed the visit of Porf. Alexander last week, of the A. & M. College. He made the boys a good talk on a Growing Project. The boys took a personal liking to the A. & M. professor but somehow "Buckshot" could not fully understand the style of the professor's little mustasche. Prof. Alexander is always welcome here; come again.

LANDLORD AND TENANT IN ENGLAND

Of course, we have two distinct classes in British agriculture. With us few of the operating farmers are landowners, but we have no one-year, two-year, or even five-year tenants as you have in the South. Most of our renters stay on the same place for life, and the son usually takes over the same farm when his father dies. As a matter of fact, it is more profitable in England for a farmer to rent land than to own it. Land ownership, especially the ownership of an ancient estate, carries a certain social distinction with it, and men are willing to buy or retain estates for this reason, expecting the rents to pay them only around 2½ per cent a year.

So the farmer rents for 2½ per cent, whereas if he bought it would cost him 5 per cent for interest alone. The average farmer, therefore, prefers to rent the land and put all his capital into livestock, machinery, and other equipment. Renters average an investment of $100 per acre in such things. And the law is that whenever a rental agreement is terminated, the renter gets pay (assessed by a disinterested authority) for all improvements made on the place during his tenency, including increase in soil fertility. Furthermore, if a landowner makes a renter move simply because the landowner desires it and without the renter having at fault, he must give the renter the equivalent of a year's rent for disturbing him, besides paying the renter for improvements have been made. —Sir John Russell in The Progressive Farmer.

"IF I WERE COACH"

By WILLIAM S. CAMPBELL
Himself Nine Years in Moleskins

"YOUR COACH"

Night after night, long after you have gone to sleep, your coach lies awake worrying about his team and YOU.

Are you doing all you can to make his yoke easier? Or, are you listening to—and perhaps agreeing with—outside gossip? And, are you telling your friends that the coach has-it-in-for you and is not giving you a "square deal?" Experience proves that nine times out of ten the player is wrong.

Now that this subject has come up, why not ask yourself these questions: What kind of a fellow am I, anyway? Am I the only fellow on the squad who has troubles? Am I working for the good of my team and school or am I selfish?

Be true to yourself and you will be square with your coach. Answer these questions, and I'll wager you become a bigger asset to your team. Your attitude will change, and both you and the team will profit. Brace up and play the game. Turn that wasted energy in the right direction and know the good results that follow. You will play the game on the field instead of in the parlor and barber shop.

Apply the Golden Rule and give your coach a "square deal." Go to him, before or after practice, and tell him your troubles; that you are being slighted and you feel you are a better man than your rival. That is all you need do, and is not handshaking. Your coach is always looking for men of your type—MEN, "square shooters," who will fight. Not fist-fighting, however, but football fight. Here is your chance; if you have the goods you will deliver. On the other hand, if you are wrong and have overestimated your ability, don't get soured on the world. Instead, keep right on fighting, and harder, too! Go back and re-learn your fundamentals. After all, the successful player is the one who has perfected his fundamentals with his own ability.

As soon as you again feel capable, ask your coach for another trial. Repeat this procedure until you do succeed. Man, you are bound to make good and all the time you are building character!

I have in mind a boy who, according to the boys, was too fat and akward to even be on the squad. He was considered a joke by everyone. To me, his greatest draw-back was his "loud mouth" and the real cause of his being a joke. However, a year on the side lines snapped him out of that and he decided to talk-it-over with the coach. He made All-State Tackle last year.

"Fat" should remember the big thing that put him there. If he does, his success will continue; on the other hand, if he forgets he will go right back to his place of beginning. Stars are often made and broken over-night.

Boys, your coach wants every one of you to make good.

In conclusion, ask yourself this question: What kind of a football team would our team be, if every man on the spuad were just like me?

"YOUR STUDIES," Article No. 2, will appear the same day next week in this paper.
