2000 TRAPPED ON CRUMBLING LEVEE

FEE SYSTEM SCORED IN JURY REPORT

Investigators Approve Legislation to Curb "Self-ishness"

MANY SUGGESTIONS

"Liquor Orgies" By Some Officers Charged In Report to Court

Nullification of the judicial fee system and the cleaning of the courthouse were recommended in the county grand jury report returned Friday to Judge E. G. Thornton, in the 30th district court.

Charges that certain officials had conducted "liquor orgies" was also contained in the report. The grand jurors set out that they had been advised that there is a degree of friction among officers in the court house, that is not conductive to the best results.

The report, two indictments and one "no bill" were returned Friday when the grand jury adjourned for the spring term of district court.

The indictments were returned against Ben F. Cox, alias Ben F. Everett, who is held in the Duncan, Okla., jail on robbery and assault charges. Cox was indicted here for robbery with firearms and a statutory offense.

Kiersey Cleared.

The "no bill" was returned Friday in favor of Cliff Kiersey, deputy sheriff. Charges filed against him were the outgrowth of the shooting of Elmer Hill, who it is alleged was attempting to evade arrest.

The grand jury reported that 244 witnesses had been examined since it convened April 4 and that 106 indictments were returned.

The personnel of the district attorney's and sheriff's office were praised by the grand jury for co-operation in working with that body.

The presentation of the bills to the grand jurors was made by E. F. Freuchte, assistant district attorney.

The report in full follows:

"The grand jury has gone about its work cognizant of its responsibility and with no disposition on the part of any members to shirk his full duty. Aside from a few frivolous matters, which are not unusual, and some efforts at using this body as a collecting agency (which we resent) our time has been occupied in a conscientious effort not only to bring the transgressor into the pale of the law, but also to create more respect for the law.

Orgies Charged.

"Right in this connection the grand jury expresses its utter disapproval of an absolute contempt for public officials, more especially law enforcement officers who, in the garb of authority, weaken the respect for the law and the administration of justice by their conduct. Unmistakable evidence of improper orgies on the part of some officers in liquor cases have been brought to our attention.

"We have examined 244 witnesses and 106 bills of indictment returned. There is an alarming increase in the passing of forged, altered and worthless bank checks, drafts, etc. Much of this practice is by young men. Auto theft is another offense, a mean and malicious crime, which rapidity of transport, ease of trade and change of identification numbers, make detention difficult. There are felonies in which youth in-

PRETTY 'FRISCO WOMAN SLAIN

Wife of Californian Killed By Unknown Man

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22. (AP) Mrs. Frances Elliston, 25, pretty blonde wife of Roy Elliston, a local resident, was shot to death by an unidentified man today in an apartment which she had rented under the name of "Miss F. Thy Thomas". She had lived in the rented apartment since Tuesday and had given the impression that she was an actress.

The shooting followed a terrific struggle for life, in which the woman struck her assailant on the left temple with a sugar bowl, inflicting a wound from which blood streamed as he fled down the hall, waving a pistol and intimidating residents of the apartment house who tried to stop him.

He escaped, but his victim's husband after identifying the body furnished police with clews expected to result in his capture.

Elliston told police his wife had left their apartment and rented one in a house frequented by theatrical folk. He said the woman was on friendly terms with a man he did not know. Police began a search for this man in the belief that he is the slayer.

Residents of the apartment house said Mrs. Elliston had admitted the man to her apartment and that the two were eating luncheon when the quarrel started. Police found remnants of the lunch scattered around the kitchen while broken dishes covered the floor.

Shots Draw Crowd.

When the shots rang out, three men tried to break into the apartment but were halted when the door opened suddenly and the slayer appeared, pistol in hand.

"If you move, I'll kill you," he shouted and then ran down the stairs. He was pursued but disappeared in another apartment house and although police surrounded the block they had failed to find a trace of him at a late hour.

Heir to Millions Wroth When Quizzed About Family Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22. (AP) Horace E. Dodge Jr., heir to the Dodge Motor millions, was arrested here today on three charges of assault preferred against him by newspaper reporters and cameramen after he had staged a wild melee on the steamship, President Madison.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge were returning from Honolulu today. Dodge left here recently for the islands where he was reported to have sought reconciliation with his wife.

Dodge became enraged by the efforts of interviewers to learn whether he had become reconciled with his wife who earlier in the day denied such a report.

In the fracas aboard the steamer Dodge locked several reporters in his state room and refused to release them. He was accused of using profane language against the newspaper men and to have smashed cameras and battled photographers who sought to take pictures of him garbed in the ship's engineer's overalls which he had donned in an effort to land unrecognized.

Soon after the trouble aboard ship Dodge was arrested in his cabin and booked at the hall of justice, leaving later after giving bail.

In the meantime Mrs. Dodge came ashore holding a fur coat over her face to escape photographers' cameras. She entered the automobile of Conrad Kahn, son of Congresswoman Kahn, who had called for her and after a wild chase through the streets eluded further attempts to interview her.

Refugees Scream In Terror As Water Gnaws At Narrow Dirt Dike In Roaring Rage

HELENA, Ark., April 22. (AP)—Two thousand refugees were on a crumbling levee, two and a half feet wide at Knolton's Landing on the Mississippi river, screaming for help, R. P. Beith, a farmer of that section reported tonight upon his arrival here.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 22. (AP)—Thirty-eight known dead, upward of 75,000 homeless, more than 7500 square miles of land inundated and the crest of the flood still to come. This was the story the lower Mississippi valley told tonight and among these reports came others of additional breaks in levees endangering hundreds of persons and threatening to add millions of dollars to the already enormous property loss.

The number of dead included 19 persons who perished when the government launch, Pelican, was swamped by a break in the Mississippi river levee at Knowlton's Point, Ark., while on a rescue mission last night.

In his appeal for help for the sufferers, President Coolidge quoted Red Cross officials as saying that 75,000 was a conservative estimate and that this number would be doubled or trebeled if the floods rise to the predicted heights within the next few days.

Hundreds in Danger

M. L. Kaufman, former member of the Mississippi levee board, in a statement at Rosedale tonight said hundreds of persons were caught in the delta and were in danger of drowning unless aid reaghing them during the night. He appealed for boats to assist in the rescue work.

Many families are in trees and on house tops, he said. "The flood is spreading fast. I cannot number the persons caught in it. None of them made preparations for this disaster. No one had moved their families to the hills.

"We know these women and children are in the flood, crying for help, but the people of Rosedale can give them little assistance because we lack facilities.

"This is the most disastrous flood this country has ever had."

Along the lower reaches of the Arkansas and down the Yazoo delta a vast panorama of suffering and desolation was spread before the Red Cross and other relief agencies. Cities, towns and plantations were inudated; refugees were huddled together in more than a score of camps, and the fate of others remained undetermined.

Whole Town Marooned

More than 200 persons were marooned in what remains of Clarendon, Ark., by from 10 to 28 feet of water. The town was short of water and almost without food, the refugees said in their urgent calls for help.

Greenville, Miss., was flooded early today when waters of the Mississippi, let through by a crevasse at Stops Landing, flowed over the municipal levee, cutting off the water supply of the 12,000 inhabitants and 6000 refugees. The electric light and power plant was threatened.

The Mississippi broke through the levees at additional places during the day. A new crevasse occurred six miles north of Stops Landing and breaks were reported below Rosedale and at Eutah, Miss., a short distance north of Greenville.

The main levee at Ferriday, La., opposite Natchez, Miss., was reported to be crumbling with another break expected at McCarthy's also in Louisiana. Army engineers have abandoned the main dike at the head of Albemarle Bend, north of Vicksburg where water was flowing over the top.

With both wire and railroad communication with the Mississippi delta country badly interrupted, adequate reports covering that section were unavailable tonight, but from such information as came through it appeared that Leland, Shaw, Moore, Indianola, Belzoni, Percy, Silver City, Hollandale and Mayersville would receive flood waters. The town of Scott, near Rosedale already was under water.

Refugee Stations

Refugee plants were being hastily prepared at Vicksburg, Greenwood and Yazoo City, with the state militia, Red Cross and army officers co-operating in the work of rescue and care of flood sufferers.

By nightfall more than a dozen counties in the Yazoo delta had been flooded and in Arkansas the flood waters were pouring over LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., April 22.—Darkness had fallen and a cold rain was slashing at the narrow windows of the old Queens county courthouse in Long Island City tonight when the jury was finally completed for the trial of Mrs. Ruth Brown Snyder and Henry Judd Gray.

It really seemed an occasion for cheering when the attorneys for the state and the defendants muttered "no challenge" after their examination of Phillip McCabe, a teacher of electrical installation, of Elmhurst, but the bailiffs quickly hammered down a mumble among the spectators, most of them talesmen waiting to be called, and as quickly quelled an impulse in the press section toward immediate evacuation of the premises.

Sigh of Relief

However, the bailiffs could not restrain a general sigh of relief from all present. The blonde Ruth Snyder's cold face took on a sudden rush of pink color and even the inert Gray stirred and straightened up. He had been whispering to William L. Millard throughout the examination of McCabe. It would appear that the listless little corset salesman was impressed by the man who became juror No. 12.

As a matter of fact, McCabe was the thirteenth juror accepted. At a moment when it looked as if the jury was all assembled this afternoon, Justice Townsend Scudder suddenly excused one Harry Arnold, the only unmarried man who had passed the fire of questions from the embattled attorneys.

Labor Mass Meeting Protests Use Of Mexicans; Favor Asked For Whites

A demand that contractors in Wichita Falls employ white labor instead of Mexicans and negroes will be incorporated in a petition to be presented the contractors, city council and county commissioners by a committee representing a group of white laborers who held a mass meeting Friday night in the court house.

Several speakers at the meeting alleged that the contractors were favoring the employment of Mexicans. It was estimated by the speakers that approximately 65 per cent of the common laborers in Wichita Falls were Mexicans.

During the meeting, at which J. B. Allison presided, and O. B. Kelly acted as secretary, the following committee was appointed to call on the contractors Saturday morning; the county commissioners Monday afternoon and the city council Monday night:

H. A. Baffer, R. G. Condon, H. C. Good, J. C. Neeley, H. S. Shannon and E. F. Johnson.

The contractors, councilmen and commissioners will be requested to take some action towards giving preference to white laborers living in Wichita Falls. According to the speakers a large number of white laborers cannot obtain employment in the city.

A resolution in which the organized labor unions will be requested to protest the immigration of Mexicans to Texas, was passed at the meeting.

The group of white laborers will hold another meeting next Friday night in the court house at which time the committee will report and a permanent organization perfected, it was stated.

Slush Pit Bubbles Bring Ambulance To Rescue "Drowning Man"

Bubbles from the exhaust of a steam line into a slush pit partly filled with waste oil, caused an ambulance run to the Continental Oil company refinery, north of the city, late Friday afternoon after two girls had assumed that the bubbles were signs of a drowning man's last efforts to save his life.

The two girls, according to plant officials, saw the commotion caused by the steam exhaust and reported it to two workmen nearby who rushed to a telephone to call an ambulance before investigating the cause of the excitement.

Before an ambulance arrived, however, it was learned that the movement of the oil was caused by the pressure of the steam.

Texas Ashamed of Ma's Pardon Record National D. A. R. Convention Is Told

Delegates to Convention Loudly Applaud Criticism Of Mrs. Ferguson's Acts While Governor

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP)—A delegate to the continental congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution who apparently confused her Wyoming and Texas politics today was the instrument for a public denunciation of former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of the lone star state.

In a sequence to an ovation given former Governor Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming soon after today's session opened, an unsigned note was sent to the presiding officer's desk protesting against the demonstration on the grounds that the only record Mrs. Ross made as governor "was one for convict pardoning."

"That is not Governor Nellie's record," indignantly declared Mrs. Alfred J. Brosseau, president general of the organization. "It belongs to another state."

From the section occupied by the Texas delegation, a woman rose with precision. "It belongs to Texas," she confessed, "and every woman in Texas is ashamed of it."

The congress applauded loudly.

The excitement from this show of spirit had hardly subsided when another incident stirred the congress. It was the reading of a letter from E. J. Ervine, secretary of the Washington chapter of the American association for the advancement of atheism, roundly scoring the congress' recent resolution reaffirming faith in the Bible. While the communication, which denounced the D. A. R. for alleged bigotry, was being read the hall resounded with cat calls, jeers and hisses.

"Order, order," came Mrs. Brosseau's voice over the hub-bub. "Only geese hiss, not women."

STRAW HAT DAY

Hub Company Drops New Headgear From Airplane

Straw hats and more straw hats were seen Friday on the down town streets and even in the air as twelve brand new, shiny, hats came tumbling down to earth from an airplane as a contribution to the success of the day by The Hub Clothiers.

At four o'clock, people in the business section were surprised to see a number of perfectly good straw hats falling on the pavement and sidewalks. A mad ruch ensued; even an austere policeman hot-footed it down the street after the scurrying head-gear to claim it as his new straw.

Lindsey Fights To Stay On Job

Noted Juvenile Judge Goes To Supreme Court

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, noted juvenile court judge of Denver, Colo., today carried to the United States supreme court his fight to upset a decision of the Colorado supreme court ousting him from office. He asserted that the state court had not given him a fair trial.

After Judge Lindsey had been declared elected in 1924 for another term and had begun serving, his election was contested by his opponent in the campaign, the late Royal R. Graham.

Charges of fraud and miscount of ballots were filed against Judge Lindsey. The state district court at Denver dismissed the case but the state supreme court reversed the lower court and issued an order that Judge Lindsey be ousted.

BLAST TRAPS CAMERA MEN

Work of Taking Film Of Blast Costs Lives

LONGVIEW, Wash., April 22.(AP) Three motion picture cameramen were drowned this afternoon in the Columbia river near Stella, Wash., while taking pictures of a huge blast of rock being cut away for the Ocean Beach highway.

The men drowned were T. G. Randolph, international photographer, of Seattle, F. H. Randolph, of Seattle, his brother, and Arthur Bassett, 34, of Longview, an amateur photographer.

The cameramen were caught by a wave 10 feet high which resulted from the blast of a rock. They were carried into the river along with their equipment.

JURY SCORES FEE SYSTEM

dulge, and for which suspended sentence is the too frequent compromise. We deplore the abuse of the well-meaning provision—suspended sentence—and urge our petit juries to be more cautious in its application.

"The district attorney's office has cooperated with the grand jury to the fullest extent, giving serious and willing attention to every cause. Also, the sheriff's department has shown every courtesy. We have inspected the county jail and find that Sheriff Bralley is caring for a large number of prisoners in a most commendable way. Cleanliness in the kitchen and prison section is noticeable. The woman's ward and juvenile department has also been inspected and is in capable hands and well kept.

Courthouse Abused

"The Wichita county courthouse is a beautiful structure. Part of the exterior walls and columns are discolored from accumulations resulting from neglect. The interior walls in court rooms and corridors are shamefully defaced by the promiscuous striking of matches. We now ask the courts to warn the public against the practice and to inflict penalties that will put an end to this abuse. We find transoms throughout the courthouse laden with dust, the main stairs leading to second and third floors are dirty, and mop marks on the marble baseboards in the corridors. Some of the interior woodwork needs paint. We recommend these matters for attention.

"The county poor farm has been inspected by this body and we report building in good repair, inmates well cared for, ample poultry and livestock and everything in excellent shape.

"The leniency of the law toward 'home brew' manufacture in the private home has been construed by a vicious element as license to enter the brewery business on a scale of astounding proportions for profit. The manufacture and sale of such product is illegal, and we commend the law enforcement in their efforts to break up this nefarious business.

"The grand jury desires to go on record as unalterably opposed to the fee system. We welcome any legislation that will curb the pernicious fee business and put service ahead of selfishness in public office.

"No man, whether he be lawyer or layman, can shut his eyes to the fact that the magnifying of rules of procedure has brought about such a condition of willful mal-practice by both lawyers and litigants as is a public scandal and a reproach to the state of Texas. It involves every issue which can be embraced in the term, "public safety."

"It was the Apostle Paul who declared, 'The letter killeth, the spirit gives life.' The trouble with the courts of Texas today is that 'the letter' has been magnified and the 'spirit' has been destroyed. Substantial rights are destroyed by the application of procedural rules.

"It is idle to deny that courts and systems of procedure as they now exist are creatures of the lawyers themselves. They set up the claim that laymen have no right to interfere, and they must be held responsible for whatever is to be found in the courts and in the profession of law.

"The American Bar association, in recent sessions, has made a long step forward in the advocacy of rules of procedure which conform to common sense and the ordinary reason of mankind. The State Bar association, under present leadership, we are glad to note, is following the national organization in this matter.

Courts For Public

"These few preceding paragraphs are embodied in our report with the hope that laymen might become aroused and that conscientious and well-meaning attorneys may lend their efforts to elevating the courts from legalized games of chance to which they have been reduced by the magnifying of rules of procedure. Too much of the court's work is nullified and the attendant expense because of technicality and delay is too burdensome to taxpayers and litigants. We believe that courts should exist not for the benefit of lawyers or for the benefit of court officials but for the benefit of the public.

"The grand jury finds there is a degree of friction among offices in the courthouse, that is not conducive to best results. We recommend a better spirit of co-operation among those to whom the county's business is entrusted. We recommend a more equal distribution of the county's purchases. We further recommend that the county auditor and commissioners court take immediate action and steps to audit the books and records and clarify all dormant funds."

Many Imperilled By Flood Waters

Lincoln and Desha counties as a result of new breaks between Pine Bluff and the mouth of the Arkansas.

Even with clear weather promised in the lower Mississippi valley for several days many observers said that additional breaks would occur lower down the river as the flood waters piled up.

More than 500,000 cement bags were loaded on a special train at Birmingham, Ala., for shipment to New Orleans where they will be filled with sand and dirt to reinforce the river levees in that district.

Rising temperatures over most of the stricken area promised to allay much of the suffering in the concentration camps in this section occasioned by the cold weather of last night and today. As the refugee centers became more crowded, sickness particularly measles and whooping cough spread, but with the Red Cross and army cooperating with state and municipal authorities those in charge of the concentration camps hoped to prevent any serious outbreaks.

Increasing funds with which to aid the homeless are promised speedily as a result of the proclamation issued today by President Coolidge and the call of a group of his cabinet officers for a $5,000,000 fund.

150,000 To Be Homeless.

Secretary Davis of the war department estimated that when the flood waters had subsided 150,000 persons would be homeless.

On the Mississippi and other rivers north of Memphis the rescue work is going ahead steadily. An additional 700 refugees were taken to Hickman, Ky., by the coast cutter Kankakee, which set out again for a trip through the Cairo district to pick up refugees.

Conditions in the St. Francis valley in Arkansas also were reported as improved except that water was rising around Marked Tree, Gilmore and Elaine, Ark., were under from six to 10 feet of water, but all except 24 of the population of 1000 had departed. Those remaining were in no immediate danger.

In Union county, Arkansas, on the Ouachita river there was clearing and warmer weather, the first respite in more than a week from heavy rains. Oil field operations were reported progressing at a normal rate, although, due to tie up on both the Missouri Pacific and the Rock Island lines, both north and south of Eldorado no freight and little passenger traffic was possible.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 22. (AP)—Boats whose searchlights gleamed across debris laden flood waters as beacons of salvation for hundreds of persons, marooned on knolls and high places in Arkansas, continued to ply the swollen streams tonight, hourly adding to the list of refugees saved from exposure and hunger.

Refugee camps, hastily constructed received belated and meager supplies of food and clothing while health authorities concentrated on efforts to prevent the spread of disease which has struck in several concentration points.

Other refugees less lucky than those taken off the high places, by boats were marooned in freight cars.

Two Trains Marooned

Two such trains were marooned at Hughes, Ark., where a shortage of food and clothing may cause suffering.

Along the lower reaches of the Arkansas river and in sections of the St. Francis river basin where waters were still rising a serious situation prevails because of lack of sufficient boats to carry on rescue work and bring supplies. Airplanes replaced trains and boats wherever available. One airplane arrived here today from Kansas City, with 500 yeast cakes for bread. Meanwhile, Little Rock, isolated by rail and highway for several days, carried on relief work with hampered facilities.

Several hundred families found refuge here. The Red Cross has assumed control of the relief situation and established soup kitchens.

Many Rescued

So thoroughly did the boats comb this immediate section yesterday that as far as could be learned today no families still were in danger.

A shortage in the water here has been averted through unceasing efforts of hundreds of men who fought off the flood waters menacing the pumping plant. Officials announced tonight there was no further danger to the water works plant.

TUNNEL CAVE-IN HALTS ARKANSAS TRAIN SERVICE

JOPLIN, Mo., April 22. (AP)—All operations on the Missouri and North Arkansas railway, which serves territory between here and Helena, Ark., were halted today as the result of a cave-in of a tunnel at Grandview, Ark., 35 miles south of Joplin.

MODISH MITZI — And She Bought a New Address Book! — By JAY V. JAY

There are so many places Mitzi must visit that she has bought a special address book for her Paris trip. Of course, there are the fashion openings—but she won't need an address book to remind her of those. Do notice her rose beige crepe frock with the sun dial tucking.

"The only place in the world to get a Crepe Suzette, says the much travelled person in the black crepe frock with its tie faced with white. Mitzi being modest as well as modish doesn't ask what Crepe Suzette is and hopes that she can spell it. Where is the place?

The lady can't quite remember. You turn to the right, from the Ritz and then—well, then she doesn't quite remember. "Of course, for bouillabaisse," remarks another voice—the voice belonging to the young woman in the tucked frock speaking to the draped dress—

She didn't remember the exact address, but anyone at the Dome could tell Mitzi. Just ask. It isn't until Mitzi is home again and has changed to a tea gown in two shades of violet with chiffon sleeves that she realizes the whole afternoon didn't give her a single address!

School Teachers Make Best Wives Because They Have Learned Order

Do School Teachers Make Better Mothers Than Other Girls?—The Sister-in-Law Who Prefers Living on Her Sister's Husband's Income to Making One of her Own—The Man Whose Ungovernable Temper Makes His Wife Afraid to Stay With Him.

DEAR MISS DIX—Do you think school teachers make better wives and mothers than other girls?

Answer: School teachers have ever been a preferred matrimonial risk and the demand for them for wives is so great that it interferes seriously with the work of educational institutions. For no sooner does a pretty school ma-am get really worked into her job than she ups and marries.

But how the school teacher compares with other girls as a wife and mother I do not know. I should think that her training and her experience in handling children might better fit her for motherhood, but that it might disqualify her a trifle for wifehood by developing in her a tendency to be arbitrary and bossy as is likely to happen when a superior mind deals habitually with inferior ones.

However, this is merely theoretical. Certainly the wives that I know who were teachers before their marriage are among the most efficient and helpful of helpmates, and are the heads of happy and contented families.

But whether a girl teaches or goes into business, the fact that she has earned her living before she married does more than any one thing to fit her for matrimony. To begin with, the self-supporting girl is likely to make a far wiser choice of a husband than the home-staying girl.

The working girl has had a close-up of men that it is not possible for the girl to have who has known men only socially, and this alone knocks into smithereens all of the fantastic illusions about men being godlings and fairy princes that so many girls entertain. The business girl has seen men with their coats off, spiritually as well as physically. She knows when the veneer knocks off just how many are mean and stingy and high-tempered and irritable and beastly and sensual, gentlemen only on the outside and when they are dressed up for society.

And she knows what others are gentlemen through and through, chivalrous to old and weak and helpless women, kind and tender, honest and honorable, and so when she chooses a man for a husband she isn't very apt to be fooled in him, or taken in by any fine talk.

And the girl herself gets a discipline in business that stands her in good stead the balance of her life. She learns to be prompt and efficient, to do things on time, and to control her nerves and her temper and her emotions. And she learns how to get along with men, and this is invaluable, for you use exactly the same process in smoothing down an irritable husband that you do in handling a cranky boss.

And she learns the value of money. No woman who has earned a dollar ever looks at it in the same was that the woman does who has always had her money given to her. The one sees it stained with sweat and blood. The other looks upon it as a mere scrap of paper, and so the girl who has supported herself knows how to save money and the importance of laying it up for a rainy day.

Finally, the woman who has been in business makes a better wife because she understands what her husband goes through as no woman ever can wh ohas not labored and known the weariness that leaves one spent in mind and body at the end of a day of strain and anxiety. Also, she can talk shop with her husband, and that is the greatest bond that can be between a husband and wife.

So whether a girl is a school ma'am, or a clerk, or a stenographer, she makes the better wife for having earned her own bread and butter.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a man who loves his wife and home, but cannot have any home life because of my wife's sister, who insists on living with us. We denied ourselves things we really needed to give her a business course, thinking that in that way we could get rid of her, but she will not work. She prefers to sponge on us. An extra one to feed and clothe means much to me, as I am on a small salary, but, worse still, I have gotten so I hate to go home in the evening, knowing she will be there, and I can never have any time with my family alone. What shall I do? WORRIED JIM.

Answer: Have enough courage to tell the girl frankly that she must leave. You really don't deserve any sympathy because you are the victim of your own weakness, and if you had the spunk of a mouse you would pack up the girl's clothes and send them to the Y. M. C. A. and pay her board there for a week, and tell her that she would have to make her own living or starve. And that you are through being her goat any longer.

And you would be doing the girl the greatest possible kindness, for you would make a respectable member of society of her instead of aiding and abetting her in being a deadbeat. As it is, you are encouraging her in being a lazy loafer, and that destroys everything that is fine and good in anybody's character.

Your sister-in-law thinks that you will let her hang on to you until she can transfer herself to some poor man whom she will victimize for the balance of her life. For the girl who hasn't enough principle to go out and earn her own living makes the kind of a wife that burns her way through matrimony also.

She is no more willing to work in a kitchen than she was in an office, and she curses the man who gets her as a wife. So for your own good and the girl's good, force her to go out and support herself. Look around you and you will see that the finest, the happiest, the most alert girls that you see anywhere are the business ones. DOROTHY DIX.

* * *

DEAR MISS DIX:—I have been married more than ten years and have two boys, 4 and 8 years old. My husband is a good provider and a domestic man, but he has the most ungovernable temper I have ever seen, and he curses and abuses the children and me until it has become unbearable. One of his mildest expressions is to wish we were dead and in Hades with our backs broken. I feel that I can't raise my boys like I want them with their father showing so little respect for them, their mother and himself, so I am thinking seriously of leaving him. I think I can support them and I figure God will show me a way when it is for their good. What do you thing about it?

WORRIED WIFE.

Answer: It is, of course, a question that you must settle for yourself. You must decide whether the support you get from your husband outweighs the insults you have to stand from him, and whether it is better for your boys to have no father at all than such a father as they have.

Personally, I think that nothing is so intolerable as to have to live with a man with a fiendish temper, and that nothing can repay a woman for living in dread of maniacal outbursts, or so degrade her in her own sight as for her to take foul abuse from a man in a rage, when he takes leave of every vestige of sense or sensibility.

Perhaps if you leave your husband on account of his temper it will give him a shock that will bring him to reason and make him control himself. For you will observe that the very men who vent their ill-humor on their families are polite enough to strangers. They can control their tempers if they will, because they do it in business and in society. Otherwise they would never hold a job, or have a customer or client. And the first able-bodied man they cursed would whale the life out of them.

SOPHIE IRENE LOEB Says—

Why Children Should Respect Cripples

Recently I wrote an article, "Do You tare at Cripples?" Many letters have come from deformed persons—letters that would wring the heart of a stoic over the acute suffering caused by the stare of curiosity.

One of the letters reads as follows: "I hope the article did a great deal of good in that the offenders read it and took it to heart. It does seem so hard and, sometimes useless to try to educate people on this point. It is simply a 'heart' matter, and still I believe a great deal of the curious staring is thoughtlessness.

"While I am not exactly of the cripple class, still I too have suffered because of a peculiar facial birth mark, and my attempts in trying to draw attention away from myself have been almost identical to those of the case you describe.

"I always heave a sigh of relief on getting out of a car with a feeling, 'Well, that's over again.' I suppose one of the hardest things is to put one's self in the other fellows' place. I think it should be part of a child's schoo' training, otherwise so much needless pain is caused just because people don't know how much it hurts."

This sufferer makes a very good suggestion—begin with the children. It would certainly be worth while to start such a propaganda in the public schools. The child, as a natural thing, sympathizes with little deformities and wants to help such unfortunate ones.

It becomes accustomed to a crippled schoolmate and does not pay more attention to it than others. But when the children leave their particular precincts and are confronted with an unfamiliar kind of cripple they are prone to stare without any realization of wrongdoing.

An effort should therefore be made to have the child understand the suffering it causes by staring and it should be urged to respect unfortunate humans. Especially must a sympathetic strain be encouraged in case of junior cripples.

How much more they must endure when stared at by children of their own years who are well and strong. To the child the longing to be like others is more keen than in the grownup, and every effort must needs be put forth to help them bear their burdens.

Another cripple, who is bent with rheumatism, writes: "I am growing older. I can bear the rheumatism. I can bear the inconvenience it brings, but I just can't stand being stared at.

"It's the hardest cross I have to bear. Before I was a cripple myself I always managed to be looking the other way if I passed a poor deformed man or woman, and I cannot understand the rudeness and cruelty of a person who deliberately stares at deformity."

And that is the thing to teach to the children—to divert their attention when a cripple passes. The best way is to tell all the reasons to the child. Children are very sympathetic.

If mothers would make the little ones realize how unfortunate are those who have a deformity and cannot hide it, and how badly they feel in being made the object of curiosity, the child would soon understand "to look the other way."

And if everybody would treat the cripples as a matter of course, the cripples would regard their misfortunes as less of a curse. The plea of the unfortunate person mentioned should be heard—begin with the children.

Creager Sees Chance to Get National Meeting

SPLAWN HAS A MISSION

DR. W. M. W. SPLAWN told the regents in a signed statement that he desired to give his entire time to teaching and research work. For this reason he tendered his resignation as president of the University.

Dr. Splawn is a young man and for a young man he has travelled far. He was the first native Texan to hold the presidency of the university. He was born on a farm. He burned midnight oil in his boyhood. He fought his own way. He was a glutton for books and a glutton for study.

Pat Neff made him a railroad commissioner. He made good as a commissioner. He visited Washington often. He made the members of the ICC sit up and take notice. Splawn was and is strong on economics.

As a railroad commissioner he received lots of publicity from the metropolitan newspapers and the magazines of the country. He had something pertinent to say about rail valuation, rail freight rates, rail passenger rates. He said it without being a demagogue.

Pat Neff was for him for president of the university. He was elected by the regents. His administration is known to all who read and think. Now he is going to give his entire time to teaching and research work.

It is significant that he was immediately elected by the regents professor of economics of the university faculty. He is not a shriveled localism. He is known abroad. He has recently been appointed as one of the federal wage arbiters.

This is a recognition of his ability and his fairness and his sense of justice by the federal powers that be in the City of Washington. His Texas friends and admirers wish him well wherever he goes, wherever his star of destiny may call him, for they know that he will follow his flag and his convictions according to the lights before him and surround him.

VOICE OF THE PIONEERS

THERE is a state association of Texas pioneers. It should be made an all powerful organization. Not only should the legislature appropriate money to acquire all privately owned and commercially used property in the Alamo block, but the state should buy and preserve to posterity the old Spanish Palace and the old Spanish Mission. This is the concensus of opinion among members of the pioneers at their last meeting.

Frank H. Bushick, for many years managing editor of the San Antonio Express is president of the association. In advocating acquisition of the Alamo and Missions around San Antonio President Bushick in his address, declared the state already owns the San Jacinto battle grounds and "public preserves have been acquired for the perpetuation of wild life and for public pleasure, but the old Missions around San Antonio are the nation's greatest ruins, rich in historical and romantic association as the first outposts of civilization on the North American continent."

Governor Moody named a committee to investigate and report to the legislature. This committee is composed of Mrs. H. H. Sevier of Austin, Col. Thomas H. Henderson of Milam county and the Hon. Sam P. Cochran of Dallas county.

San Jacinto will ever be a shrine of Texas. Now what of the Alamo, the cradle of Texas liberty? What of the Missions established centuries ago? What of all the historic spots, which should be preserved for posterity by the people who are now on earth?

SPEAKING OF CREEDS

THOMAS JEFFERSON was the founder of the democratic party. He was the author of the first statute for religious liberty ever written into the laws of Virginia or any American state. He did not believe that a political party representing the people should be a religious organization.

He did believe that the fundamentals of democracy or a democratic form of government were the requisites at all times, and the party which he founded should be the party of the people, ever opposed to special privileges to the few and ever for equal justice to all the people regardless of creed or nationality.

For this he was branded as an atheist, and agnostic, a menace to the established order of thing by his political critics and his personal enemies. He gave his life to the people. He was an aristocrat who believed in the people regardless of the accident of birth or the church or churches in which they worshipped.

He has been dead a long time. His achievements are his monuments. He is one of the immortals. His political creed isn't dead. It lives in the hearts of millions. Some day those who have kept the faith will return to the house of their fathers. They will drive from power the republican party, the party of Big Business and not the party of the people.

It may not come in 1928. It may come in 1932, but it is written in the book of destiny that it is coming in the not distant future.

RUSSIA IS READY

SOVIET RUSSIA is ready for war. Premier Alexis Rykoff has sounded the warning. He says war may be thrust on Russia by imperialist nations. Therefore, it behooves the soviet union to prepare actively and meet the threat.

In an address to the thousands of delegates from all parts of the Russian communistic commonwealth this prime minister expressed the opinion that war may come this year or next year, "but sooner or later, since jealousy on the part of the imperialists over Russia's success of establishing a true socialistic republic, will impel them provoke a conflict."

Rykoff is said to be one of the most brilliant of the Slav leaders. He believes the policy of the great powers is a concerted effort to involve China in war with the soviet union.

Mars has been the God of War through the ages. Is he coming back? Were the sacrifices made in the World war made in vain?

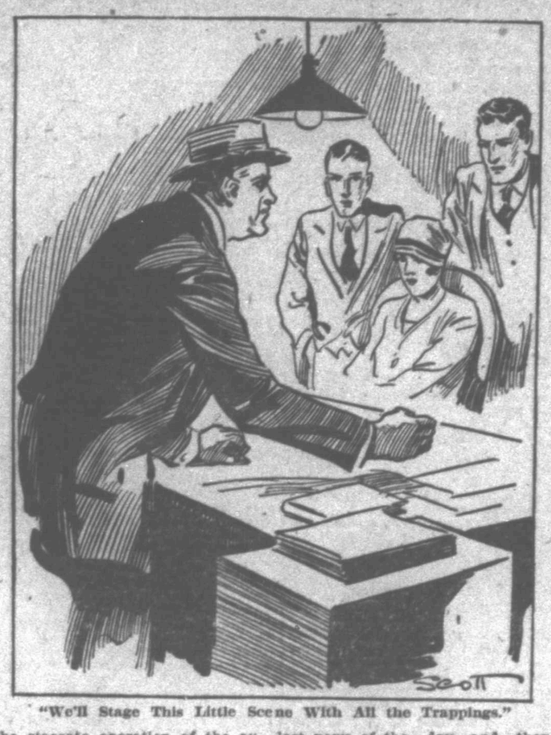

THE SOB-SISTER

A STORY OF MYSTERY, SUSPENSE AND LOVE

"We'll Stage This Little Scene With All the Trappings."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED.

DIANA BROOKS, beautiful daughter of ROGER BROOKS, owner and publisher of the Catawba City Times and a chain of nine other newspapers, had been kidnaped and in a few days released. Her father is engaged in a persistent fight against the corrupt administration of Catawba City and through the medium of the Times redoubles his scathing attacks on politicians and the Underworld.

Brooks himself is kidnaped, but in five days he reappears to find that his newspaper stock is being manipulated. He suspects JOHN W. WALDEN and undertakes to fight him.

Brooks' closest friend is young DONALD KEENE, his literary editor and guardian of TEDDY FARRELL, reporter and Sob Sister. Teddy is in love with Don, who, not knowing which one he really prefers, makes love to three girls: his ward, Diana and LOLA MANTELL, Diana's cousin.

Teddy and Don install a dictagraph in Walden's office. They then take the instrument to the Times and find that it has recorded parts of conversation between Walden and his son that are conclusive evidence against them.

NOW READ ON.

CHAPTER XLII.

"That all?" Young Walden's voice came sharply from the machine.

"No, not altogether, not by a damn sight. I'm afraid of that damned Copley. I know he's a rat, a squealer. If they ever get to him with a little jack he'll cough up all he knows. I wish you'd pay him off—settle his hash."

"I tell you that's all paid for, the Brooks job. One grand. The killing of Valetti saved us two grand. The other—"

Teddy nudged her companion. "That's the part I heard, remember?"

Don nodded and held up a finger. The machine ground on.

"The other job ain't finished yet. Diana Brooks won't marry me—so I'm going to get her the other way! Next time she disappears she'll stay put!"

There was vindictiveness in the tones that registered plainly on the record. Teddy shuddered.

"Don't be a fool, boy. Women always get you into trouble. Better leave her alone!"

"Like hell I will! That jane is due for something for what she handed me. I don't forget so easy!"

"Well, it's Brooks that worries me. It's been hell ever since you, like a fool, got scared the morning after that damn sob sister made her getaway and you told Tony Mascal to let Brooks go. He'll get my hide if I don't get his first. I'd have him bumped off any minute if I could just get control of that damn Times once."

A long silence followed, broken occasionally by a brief question or some remark relating to matters of business.

Don and Teddy waited impatiently while the cylinder kept on turning, turning, slowly, steadily. Then again came that hoarse voice, harshly drawling, long-toned like its owner.

"I think that fellow Keene is too busy for his own good. It may be necessary—"

"I'd like to take that job myself," cut in the voice of the younger Walden. "He's the one Diana is bugs over. What 'n 'ell the women all see in him beats me. But they do. At the country club dance I noticed a lot of things. Even that vamp, the Mantell woman, seems to have a case on him. I'd bump him off with good grace!"

Don flashed a look at the girl by his side. Her face had gone chalk white. In her eyes was a look of terror. The voice of the record went on:

"You talk like a fool. What have we the Valetti gang hired for? No sense in taking personal chances."

"For my own satisfaction. But I'll take no chances."

Again silence held while the cylinder kept on steadily turning.

A gasp from the white-lipped girl struck Don's ear. He reached over and took her hand in his.

"You're as white as a sheet," he said with a forced lightness of tone. "You mustn't let their talk frighten you. 'Barking dogs seldom bite'."

"Yes they do, Don!" came Teddy's quick contradiction and he felt his fingers clutched in a spasmodic grip. "Such dogs as this Walden. Oh, dear, you must be careful!" she cried and with a swift impulsive movement pressed his fingers against her lips.

He drew her gently close where for a moment she clung, trembling. Then she drew back, a deep flush staining her cheeks and forehead.

"You mustn't worry, Ted," he said, his voice choked.

He turned away. She was crying softly.

Roger Brooks' battered straw hat was tilted far back on his white head. Pop was concentrating. Dinny and Bill Canfield sat expectantly waiting for him to speak. The ancient hat shifted to the left and then back again over the right ear. Teddy, sitting absolutely still for once, near Pop, dilated her eyes and nostrils.

To the little sob sister this was drama, the enviable reality of a big event that outsiders got only in fiction or on the stage.

The four were congregated in Brooks' office to perfect a plan. It was nearing five o'clock and the clicking of a battery of telegraph instruments drifted in through the transom. Somewhere out in the editorial room sounded the staccato operation of the automatic typewriters.

The old hat was shifted once again. The publisher cleared his throat. His eyes wandered slowly over each one of his employes, lingering with a swift gleam of admiration on the rapt face of the little sob sister.

"Closin' in, eh—so Walden said his father was closin' in!"

Roger Brooks' fist came crashing down on his desk, jarring the ink well and the telephone. Jane Dexter, standing before a filing cabinet with a sheaf of letters in her hand, gave a start. Pop's voice had exploded the silence like the boom of a miniature cannon. There was an unaccustomed ferocity and exultation in the strong lines of the old man's face. His mustache bristled.

"Well, Pop, it looks as if we had the means at hand to relieve the Waldens of the formality of closing in," Canfield ventured with an ironical smile.

"Beyond my fondest hopes," nodded Pop and a relentless spark glinted in his still youthfully bright eyes. "We've got enough to hang them on," he continued, "and as rotten as the administration is, they won't dare ignore the evidence. I called you all in to work out a plan of procedure. The fact is, we must figure out a way to get the evidence before the grand jury."

Teddy leaned forward. The halo of anticipation surrounding her seemed to elevate the diminutive figure to an immense height. She raised her head and expanded her chest, gripping the arms of her chair with tense fingers.

"Then we've got everything? The main source of the plot to wreck the Times, all of it? And there's absolutely no loop-hole?" asked Dinny Morrison, speaking with a rising inflection.

"Absolutely perfect!" replied the publisher grimly.

"The regular stockholders' meeting doesn't come off for nearly two weeks yet, does it?" asked Bill Canfield.

"No—and that's too long to wait. By George, that gives me an idea!" exclaimed Brooks enthusiastically, "we might as well do this thing right. Spectacularly, if you will, but Walden—" the publisher clenched his fists—"he didn't spare us in creating sensation and spectacles. Thought he was going to break the old man—eh? Make the Brooks breed grovel—"

Jane Dexter winced at the harshness of her employer's intonation.

"We'll call a special meeting," resumed Pop, "hold it right in the editorial room. Bill, you arrange to get the Waldens here—let's see, today is Wednesday. We'll have them here next Tuesday. I'll fix things to have Judge Wharton of the Superior Court, you know, present. Also District Attorney Bolton. We've got to have the evidence for the judge to submit to the grand jury before they'll issue an indictment."

Brooks hesitated. Then continued: "Make it say, two o'clock sharp. In the editorial room. We'll stage this little scene with all the trappings the Waldens have invited! They'll find out who's going to grovel! And Teddy—" turning to the little reporter who, by this time was almost bursting with excitement, "I want you there as well as Don and Diana. It'll be quite a reunion." Pop concluded with a sardonic grin.

It is characteristic of all morning newspapers that the bulk of activity is carried on at night. Usually there is a comparative lull in any metropolitan newspaper plant throughout the morning.

In the late afternoon tension begins to gain momentum and a feverish bustle prevails from that time until long past midnight.

For the Times 2 a. m. was designated as the final deadline. At this hour the presses flung out the last news of the day and then ceased their thunderous functions.

It was early afternoon of the first week in September, approximately six months after Pop's sensational disappearance, that Don sat idly in his office, abstractedly contemplating the panorama of Catawba City visible from his window.

The literary editor had finished his quota of work for the day and waited for sounds that would tell him that Diana and Lola had arrived. The cousins had called him that morning, announcing that they wanted to be taken for a long-deferred trip throughout the plant.

This had been a portentious summer and a turbulent one, Don reflected. And his soul-interests had strangely been interwoven with the business fate of his paper.

He could not think of Teddy, for example, without instantly associating her with his beloved Times. And Diana and Lola, both were drawn with increasing frequency to the big plant.

His meditations were broken by the appearance of the two girls themselves.

THE ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

Thou visitest the earth, and waterest it; thou greatly enrichest it with the river of God, which is full of water; thou preparest them corn, when thou has so provided for it.

Thou waterest the ridges thereof abundantly; thou settest the furrows thereof; thou makest it soft with showers; thou blessest the springing thereof.

Thou crownest the year with thy goodness; and thy paths drop fatness.

They drop upon the pastures of the wilderness; and the little hills rejoyce on every side.

The pastures are clothed with flocks; the valley also are covered over with corn; they shout for joy, they also sing.—Psalm 65:8-13.

BO BROADWAY ..... By Joseph Van Raalte

"Speed the road is clear before you, when the old Spring Fret comes o'er you,
And the Red Gods call to you."

NEW YORK, May 22. (EFS)—Joe is 12 years old and the Spring Fret got him. He lives with his Gran'maw in Corona, which as everyone knows, or blushes for not knowing, is the back yard of New York.

Joe likes adventure books; but his Gran'maw won't allow him to ply his dark trade in heroes round the house. Thus he plans and reads in the school room—which is a tough situation.

The other day the weather was balmy and the windows in the hot-bed of learning, were wide open. A bird started to sing amid the bare boughs out on the school house lawn, and right then and there Joey decided that this being the fire of spring, he should his winter garment of repentance fling

Home he went for luncheon where he drew $500 allowance in advance from Gran'maw's private, personal, domestic safety deposit vault, without the formality of appraising Gran'maw of the transaction. Her wedding ring was reposing hard by and Joey took that along also. In the years to come, long, long after the miserable money had been squandered, Joey wanted something to remember Gran'maw by.

So he was set for the big Adventure and out he trudged down the Big Road.

Late that night, tired and dusty, he entered the police station in Bayonne, trudging a bicycle and trailing a busted illusion. He said his name was Benjamin Franklin. He was on his way to Philadelphia. He sought information as to the character of the lodgings in the neighborhood of the Bayonne precinct.

Strangely enough the police suspected at once that the traveler's name was not Benjamin Franklin; and when they discovered that he carried $436.62 in his pocket and had packed his bag with a loaf of bread and two packages of breakfast food their curiosity knew no bounds.

That's the worst of policemen. They are always interfering in things that are none of their affairs. Sufferin' cats! Why don't they mind their own business!

After awhile Joey told them his story and Gran'maw was reached by telephone.

"Oh, dear," she said, "I'm terribly exercized. Never mind, I'll start over there at once!"

That's a fine advent for Spring: Twelve years old.
Tired of Corona.
Gran'maw "terribly exercized."

What was it Sadie Thompson said: "Life's a quaint present from somebody—there's no doubt about that!"

Curing Pruritis Through Diet

There is intense burning or itching with all forms of pruritis. The form which effects the membrane around the rectum and generative organs is the kind to which physicians usually give the name of pruritis. When the itching is located just around the anus it is called pruritis ani. This is a very common disorder and is not primarily caused by any infection, so, therefore, cannot be cured by the external application of remedies.

Physicians usually recognize that there is a nervous origin for pruritis, but frequently find that lithemia (alkaline urine) or excess acidity of the urine is present in many cases, and the toxemias which produce this change in the urine also produce the irritation around the anus or, in the female, around the valva. In many cases, it is associated with, or actually due to, vascular lesions hepatic sclerosis, renal degeneration or other processes of a fibroid nature.

Nervous excitement, no doubt, makes the trouble worse, and the use of tea, coffee, and alcohol is especially irritating to this trouble and, in fact, to every kind of an itch caused by toxicosis. Constipation and the consequent absorption of poisons must be cited as an important cause, while incompatible food mixtures, such as cereals with sugar, produce an irritation of the entire alimentary canal and, of course, the rectum and anus are also irritated.

In the wintertime, when the elimination from the skin is less, more poisons are thrown out through the colon and bladder. These poisons irritate the delicate membranes of the generative organs and the rectum, so itching in these parts is more common in the winter than in the summer. Patients frantically try every remedy they hear of to stop the burning and itching but without much relief.

A few weeks ago I examined a patient whose doctor had gone to the extreme of operating and removing sections of skin around the rectum thinking, that by the removal of this skin, he would be able to stop the terrible itching. The skin-removing operations were however, unsuccessful and the patient came to me almost insane with distress.

She is now entirely well and has no itching at all. Her cure was effected through taking a short fast followed by a well balanced diet which got rid of the auto-intoxication and the intestinal poisoning from which her trouble originally developed. I have never seen a case which did not respond to this blood-building, body-cleansing treatment, and I cite the above case simply to show you what results can be obtained, as this was probably one of the worst cases I have ever observed.

If you are troubled with any disorder of this kind, start dieting at once and treat your trouble systematically and not locally. It may be a week or two before you will notice a change, but a cure is certain as soon as your system becomes completely detoxicated.

QUESTION: Horace K. writes: "I am a young man of 22. Have had pimples and eruptions on my face and neck for several years. What is a quick and sure way to get rid of them?"

ANSWER: There is no quick way to get rid of pimples on the face and neck. They may gradually disappear if you get your colon in a clean condition and stop the absorption of toxin from the alimentary canal. Stop creating these poisons and your skin will soon become normal.

QUESTION: V. J. J. writes: "I read your articles every day and find them helpful. I read somewhere that thread worms originate in the human from eating uncooked vegetables and fruit. Kindly give me your opinion on this."

ANSWER: This is an exploded theory which was first put out by Metchinkopf. Thread worms can be easily eliminated by taking two enemas daily for about a week. These worms live almost entirely in the large colon, and can be easily washed out.

QUESTION: Mrs. Edith B. writes: "Is there a special treatment or diet that will help near-sightedness? I have heard ther is."

ANSWER: A fasting and diet treatment will always be beneficial in any form of eye defect. If you are suffering from near-sightedness, it is because of a certain shape of the eyeball, and this can seldom be completely cured. Help yourself all you can in a general way by proper dieting, and be sure to wear suitable glasses, if your optometrist tells you they are necessary.

Spells of Nervousness Also Troubled This Lady Who Gives Cardui Credit For Making Her a Well Woman

Depew, Okla.—"For six years," says Mrs. Ed Burton of this place, "I suffered as bad as a woman can suffer and still keep going."

"I was good for nothing, was lifeless and pale, unable to eat anything. Nothing agreed with me. At times I had such bad pains in my sides and back I would have to go to bed. I had cramping spells and would faint if I stood on my feet any length of time.

"For six years I was as nervous as could be. My nerves would become upset at the least little thing and I would have spells of crying that were so exhausting they left me prostrate.

"Several of my friends suggested that I take Cardui. They told me of their experiences with it, how much they have been helped. At last I decided to try it.

"In a few weeks, I could see that I was improving, so I kept on. I did not expect the troubles of years to disappear in a few days, nor did they, but in time I was much better. I kept up the Cardui treatment for several months and thanks to it I am a well woman now."

GOOD WAFFLES EASILY MADE

New Recipes Given For Housewives

Waffles and pancakes are easy to make and there are so many good receipes that really there is no excuse for becoming tired of them because of sameness.

The first essential for good waffles is an iron in good condition, and be sure to preheat your iron regardless of whether it is electric or cast iron. A steel bristled brush will prove excellent for brusing off the crumbs and aids in keeping the iron in good condition. Never wash any waffle iron! Of course the second essential for good waffles is a good basic recipe. And the third essential is the ingredients used.

Have you ever tried Pineapple Waffles? They are easily made. All you have to do is to add 1-2 cup of crused, drained pineapple to your standard waffle batter. Serve them with a pineapple sauce made by cooking together to a thick syrup 1 cup of crushed pineapple and juice and 1-2 cup of sugar.

Of course maple syrup on waffles or pancakes is hard to surpass but everyone likes a change. There are a number of syrups on the market which you will like. Try honey on them, or sprinkle powdered sugar and cinnamon over the buttered pancakes or waffles. The butter for waffles or pancakes is more easily handled if it is melted. Jellies, jams and marmalades offer still other changes.

BEAN LOAF.

Pour half cup of boiling vegetable of meat stock onto one cup of bread crumbs and mix to a paste. Add two cups of cooked beans finely chopped, three shredded pimentos, the beaten yolks of two eggs, one teaspoonful of salt, a few drops of onion puice, a bit of grated lemon rind and a tablespoon of melted butter. Then fold in the stiffly whipped egg whites and pile in a well oiled bread pan. Set in a pan of hot water and bake slowly until set in the center. Serve with a tomato sauce.

SAIL, GROW THIN ON LINER.

Among the accommodations on a new liner operating between South America and England are a reducing machine and a beauty parlor. Every woman passenger is given a pair of curling and waving tongs, and in each cabin is a special electric equipment for heating them. Among the exercising apparatus in the gymnasium is a back-punching machine.

WOMAN WEIGHS 783 POUNDS.

"Jolly Nelly," who is said to weigh 783 pounds, is making a tour with a carnival company in the Orient. She recently appeared in Manila, where she signed a three-year contract for appearances in the Straits Settlements, Borneo, Java, Indo China, India and other countries. She is to receive $50,000 a year in Philippine money, says her manager.

HERO BECOMES FARMER.

Ex-Gunner Jenkins, who is said to have fired the first British shell in the drive against Von Kluck's troops in the Battle of Mons, arrived recently at Auckland, N. Z., to take up farming. Jenkins served with E. Battery, R. H. A. He took part in many large engagements on the Western front and came through uninjured.

Health Parade All Sunday.

To educate the natives of India how to be well, a health procession was held in Calcutta from 8 o'clock in the morning until 8 in the evening on a recent Sunday. The long educational cortege was led by the leading doctors of Calcutta, and included many exhibits mounted on auto trucks. Along the line of march members of the Ghola Anti Malaria society sang a song suitable to the occasion. At principal street corners a series of lectures on "Sanitation and Economic Conditions of Bengal" was given by Sj Jnanajan Neogy.

Food Value of Cereals High

Most abundant food material in cerals is starch, which serves the body as fuel and which makes up nearly three-quarters of all grains.

Protein comes next. It supplies nitrogen for tissue building and makes up approximately one-eighth of the wheat kernel, something more of the oat kernel, and a trifle less of the rice and corn however, are not efficient or complete, which means that they do not furnish everything needed to make body protein. They may be completed, however, by the use of small amounts of the protein of eggs, meat, cheese and milk, as is indicated in the appended recipes:

GRAHAM MUFFINS

One cup bread flour (White)
One cup graham flour.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-third cup evaporated milk diluted with 2-3 cup water.
One egg well beaten.
Two teaspoons butter.
Two eggs.

Sift flour before measuring. Resift the measured flour with the baking powder, sugar and salt into the bowl in which muffins are to be mixed. Add the bran that remains in sifter to dry ingredients. Add diluted milk and butter to beaten egg. Make a depression in the liquid, and mix as quickly as possible. This stirring cannot be too quick. Pour immediately into prepared muffin tins. Bake at 425 F. Yield: 12 muffins.

OATMEAL BREAD

Two cups oatmeal.
One teaspoonful salt.
One teaspoon sugar.
Two tablespoons baking powder.
One cup unts.
One cup raisins.
Two-thirds cup evaporated milk diluted with 1 1-3 cups water.

Measure ingredients into a large mixing bowl. Combine well. Pour into two well greased bread pans. Bake about 40 minutes in a moderate oven. Yield: 2 loaves about two inches deep.

SPOON CORN BREAD

Two cups corn meal.
Four cups boiling water.
One and one-half teaspoon butter.
Three eggs.
One-half cup evaporated milk diluted with one-fourth cup of water.
Two teaspons baking powder.

Add salt to boiling water and stir in corn meal. Cook a few minutes directly over low flame, stirring all the time. Cook 30 minutes in the top of double boiler. Add butter, diluted milk and well beaten eggs to which baking powder has been added. Beat until well mixed. Pour into greased casserole and bake in a moderate oven 350 F. for 45 minutes. Yield: 6 servings.

GRAHAM PUDDING

Two cups graham flour.
One cup molasses.
One-half cup evaporated milk.
One-half cup of hot water.
One teaspoon soda.
One teaspoon salt.
One teaspoon butter.
One-half cup nuts.

Pour hot water over butter and molasses. Add soda, cinnamon and salt and stir well. Add evaporated milk and flour alternately putting in the nuts with the last of the flour. Steam two hours in buttered pudding moulds. Serve immediately, or reheat in steamer when desired. Serve with whipped cream sauce, or any other pudding sauce. Yield: 12 servings.

MAKING MODERN MENUS

It was the first real day of spring and Mrs. Jones and Hall were planning their gardens. Leaning on the fence separating their lots they told each other their plans.

"I'm going to plant loads of vegetables," Mrs. Hall said—"John is so fond of them, and they can be prepared in so many ways. Have you ever tried—"

TOMATO BISQUE.

Three cupfuls tomatoes, 1 bay leaf, 4 cloves, paprika, 1-2 onion, 2 teaspoonfuls sugar, 1 teaspoonful salt, 1-4 teaspoonful soda, 2 cupfuls thin white sauce.

Cook the tomatoes, spices, onion, sugar and salt together five minutes, strain, add soda, and when ready to serve, add two cupfuls of thin, hot white sauce. Serve at once, do not heat after combining.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

EXTRA! SPUDS FINALLY LOSE

Shreveport Shades Wichita Falls, 6 to 5

By BLONDY CROSS

They finally lost one and in doing so lost the game just in the best place in the world to lose it. For a loss to these boys does far less damage than one to any other club higher up the ladder.

Carl Williams' Spudders toppled before a Shreveport attack, at last, dropping the final game of the series Friday at Athletic orchard, 6 to 5.

They were bound to miss fire on one sooner or later, so they picked the Sports rather than wait and give the Dallas Steers anything. The Steers, you know, blow in Saturday for a three-day stand.

Tom Estell flogged along in pretty nifty style until the ninth inning when the Dugan gang rose up and asserted itself about like it did the day before only this time it cost our nine. Tough on Tom, but somebody had to lose one.

She was a pretty tight pitchers' affair between Estell and Williamson most of the way with Williamson grabbing an edge on number of base blows not allowed but almost going under when you consider the two Petes got rosy again. Pete Turgeon and Pete Lapan slapped Willie for homers.

Pete Little Lucky

Pete T.'s four-bagger came in the second with the paths unoccupied and gave the domestics a one-run lead. It was a drive that would have cleared the 1926 port palisade with large margin to spare, but this year's wall jumped up in the way, the ball landing squarely on top and flopping on over in one bounce to the wilds beyond.

The Sports got over for a couple in the fourth on a bunch of infield floozers. They mixed four safeties with a sacrifice and a walk for the runs. Wasn't but one of the hits an honest-to-sure-enough wallop.

Well, maybe we ought to have won that game, but we didn't, so that's that. Anyhow, it looked like we almost had it in the bag when the smoke cleared away in the seventh. Jenkins, Swensen and the other Pete got gay in this round and almost before Umphs Kane had awakened to the fact the game had been started seven innings before, our bunch had shoved over three markers. But about Kane: Seems this year that when he isn't over on first base or some where sleeping, he's running around with a chip on his shoulder barking at somebody. And they say Harry really isn't so very tough. Just a left-hander.

A Real Drive

But to the business: Tom led away with a dirty drive to right and stood over on the sack and giggled while Turgeon popped out to the pitcher, trying to bunt. Pete's the best little straightaway hitter in the world, but he does seem to find the going rough when he wants to lay one down. Then Swenson dropped a single into left field. Nason almost caught it, but muffed a shoe-string try at full gallop. That was all that was necessary for Pete number two. Your Mr. Lapan strode to the rubber and whammed the daylights out of one of Williamson's offerings rifting her far over the left field fence. With the runways cleared our next two hitters couldn't function. If there had been somebody on, it might have been different—the old incentive, you know.

Shreveport narrowed the lead in the eighth and threw up a big dust screen that augured not so much, but scared for a moment. Taylor and Barnes singled in a hurry, Chink going to third on Sam's blow. Then Johnny Mann came up with another pinch double play, snuffing Sam and Dumovich. Taylor scored on the play. Nason walked and was chunked out by Lapan when the Injun tried to abscond with the keystone.

Just Too Bad

Harris and Woehrs bingled to start the ninth. Tom struck out Ritchie, but Clarke went in as pinch hitter and filled the bill with a two-bagger to left center that scored both his mates. Distel went out, Turgeon to LaFayette. Then Taylor shot a sharp one between short and second, scoring Clarke. Barnes followed with another single, but was cut away on an attempt to steal, again Lapan to Mann.

Jenkins started her off in the Spudder half of the ninth like a good old-time batting rally, but we just couldn't make the ripple. Tom's blow was a loud liner to left for a single. Turgeon grounded to short and Distel messed up the play in effort to pull a twin killing or something. That put two on and nobody out. Swenson hit one to third and Woehrs threw wildly to second, the ball trickling on into center field. Jenkins scored and Turgeon went to third but Swenson tried to leg it to the keystone and was thrown out. Lapan grounded out to short with an advance. Benton, batting for Estell, waited to Nason in left. That left us a run shy.

Anyway, Mann gave the boys a few to think over the way he worked at short. Just a fielding fool!

No Champion and His Pride Are Soon Parted ..... By Ed Hughes

No man, according to the discerning Edmund Burke, ever had a touch of pride that was not injurious to his peace of mind. The thing, however, reverses itself nobly betimes to compensate for the moments of discomfort and loss. Pride as often represents itself as the power house of the driving power of inspiration. Particularly is this so along the trail of sport where the legal pride of a champion is forever on display, either in a creditable or discreditable light.

The self-esteem with which a champion generally accords himself is a precious thing in his life, one that he will usually battle tenaciously to preserve. All of which harangue brings us to the familiar subject of Babe Ruth and what effect a fat three-year contract will exercise on his slugging exploits over that span of hours.

Probably no athlete's character and disposition has been so universally dissected with such a variety of findings as has Ruth's. Many maintain, that long-term contracts are suicidal to the behavior of the Babe both on and off the diamond. 'Tis argued that this irresponsible play-boy of the national pastime can be at his best when the knout is snapping and cracking about his calves.

Any document, they say, that assures him of his place in the spotlight for several years to come is certain to act as a deterrent to to his ambition and consequently to his playing form. They speak of Babe's lapse in hitting form during 1925, pointing out, in comparison, his whirlwind contract finish of last year. The hint, of course, is that Ruth made an especial effort in the end to justify renewal of contract. Perhaps this is so, yet the writer is inclined to doubt it.

Analyzing the Character of Ruth

Ruth has his temperamental shortcomings, his "blind spots" of character. He is a child of fate, a prima donna, and hilarious toy with which the diamond gods often amuse themselves. That he should be held accountable for ingrained traits over which the human frame has no control is asking a great deal. You might as well have asked a Carusco or a Charlie Chaplin to lead a rule-of-thumb existence. Such a character doesn't fit the make-up of a genius, and no needle, thread, tailor's chalk and tape measure will make it.

Every genius is an artist. The mainspring and backbone of the type is pride, a supreme satisfaction in strutting the royal stuff. The genius is never more depressed, crestfallen than when things go wrong through whatever be the circumstances. He misses, desperately, the applause of conquest. Every withered stroke of failure fanning its accompaniment of "razz" tears his artist's soul. Ruth fanning out instead of, poling a ringing homer, is a soul in distress. You can read the agony in his sour visage, in the hang-dog of his demeanor. That is why I'd be willing to bet Babe Ruth doesn't "fall down," of his free will, on his new three-year contract. What value to an artist of a place in the sun if it is only to be "sunburnt?" None at all.

Hagen Has the Pride of Genius

Pride manifests itself curiously with many champions in the realm of sport. And mostly for the good There is no haughtier ruler in sport than Walter Hagen in the sphere of sport. Here is an artist with all the characteristics, conceit and pretentions of the breed. Hagen would rather win than be right or president. "The Haig" is as jealous of his fame and prowess as any diva that ever regaled the "diamond horseshoe" of the Metropolitan opera house. Defeat cuts him to the quick, particularly that of match-play, a field in which Walter is an unparalleled performer.

Hence the phenomenal success of Gene Sarazen in leveling the great Hagen in four out of five jousts on the side of the water was especially humiliating to Sir Walter. Hagen really looks upon the talented little Italian as an "upstart" in golf. And compared to the achievements of "The Haig" he is. That is why defeat at his hands is so insufferably hard on the haughty Hagen.

Jinx Barnes and the "Lowly" Canadian Championship

Jim Barnes was a proud, imperious champion, too. A few years ago Barnes won the British open—the blue ribbon of golfdom. A prominent American golfing magazine, wishing to promote interest in the sport, was anxious to arrange a four-cornered match featuring the British, French, American and Canadian champions. Though widely advertised it didn't materialize, and the true reason is forthwith being printed for the first time. Barnes didn't consider the Canadian championship of sufficient importance to be included in the match. Leo Diegel held the "despised" title at the time. Barnes didn't mind playing the British, French, American links' kings, but he couldn't see where Diegel as Canadian champion, "belonged."

Funny angle. Some great American golfers have met with scant luck in the Canadian tourney. Bares himself failed several times. Hagen had never been able to annex that particular trophy, though he has striven for it four times. Bobby Jones entered once and finished tied for second with Barnes—exactly 16 strokes behind the late J. Douglas Edgar. Yet Barnes considered it more or less of a district affair.

Regal Pride and the "Grim Game"

There have been some interestingly conceited champions of the ring despite the commercialism that flavors the grim game. Dempsey was mighty proud of his qualities as a bruiser. One day the Jamaica Kid cut Jack's eye in a gym bout when Dempsey was preparing for Willard at Toledo. Much, of course, was made of the feat in the papers. Dempsey was much annoyed and angered thereat. Life as sparring partner held little joy for Jamica after that. Dempsey knocked him cold the following day and never let up on the colored man until the training grind was over.

Benny Leonard was seldom satisfied unless he outclassed his man beyond dispute in a ring bout. Leonard prided himself on his sterling skill as a boxer. He used to boast that he could weather such a bout without his opponent being able to muss his hair. That was an excellent method of rousing Benny's ire—mussing his hair.

Packey McFarland was like Leonard. For years Packey boxed so cleverly that he never received even a black eye. Once a second-rate slugger—Kid Burns—actually gave him one. And highly infuriated was Packey. He made another match, purposely with Burns in order to obtain revenge for injured pride. Poor Burns was hammered unmercifully before being treated to the kindness of a knockout.

Pride keeps a real champion pounding on all cylinders long after the nerve and sinew has deserted him.

Now They're Talking About Giving Jimmy Walker Ban Johnson's Job

NEW YORK, April 22. (AP) — Mayor James J. Walker of New York has been approached with an offer to replace Ban Johnson as president of the American league at a salary reported to be $100,000 a year, according to an apparently reliable source close to the city hall.

No formal offer of the baseball job has been made to Mayor Walker, it was said, but he is credited with having been "sounded out" on the subject by several American league club owners while on vacation in Havana a few weeks ago.

The mayor was quoted as saying he had not received a "formal offer."

Mention of a salary figure of $100,000 which would be $35,000 more than Commissioner Landis is getting, drew from his friends at the city hall an assertion that this "would be no object" and that he could "write his own ticket," if he took the post.

WELL, WELL, MAYBE SO.

CHICAGO, April 22. (AP)—Reports of an offer to Mayor James J. Walker of New York to replace Ban Johnson as president of the American league were received with surprise and doubt today at American league headquarters.

Mr. Johnson had gone to Excelsior Springs, Mo., for a week-end rest but his secretary, William Harrigan, said he had heard nothing of the move.

Johnson's term of office under his present contract, does not expire until 1935. His salary now is $40,000 a year. It was increased from $30,000 in 1921 when his 20-year contract, signed in 1910 was extended for five additional years.

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—Texas Christian university won the opening contest of the two-game series with Baylor university, 7 to 3, here Friday afternoon. SPORT a la CARTE

BY ROY GROVE

Not for a Champion.

That Benny Leonard will come back to scrape his feet on the resin canvas is folly, and so un-Jewish like in respect to common business methods.

Bennah is smart. His point of intelligence was "exemplified" when he retired from the ring "Champion of the World," undefeated.

If Leonard wasn't a smart box fighter, in the first place, he would have stayed in there and brought home the wrinkled ears.

Benny Leonard can't come back with the clear eye and smooth muscles he had when leaving the roaring mob.

He would have to do a fight a month to stay with his old pace. He would have had to train daily. He would have had to stay champion all the while he has been retired if he is to come back.

Today Leonard is an honorary champion with an unequaled record. Why spoil it as Jim Jeffries did when Jim knew, as well as his age, that he was no match for Johnson?

When Leonard meets his foe, when his eye sees the mark and the faithful left jab falls a bit short, and his right misses, then his brain will wonder, and he will then know that you cannot lay off and come back.

How Bob Does It.

We were talking to a very interesting person the other afternoon. Ross was his name. He has caddied for Bobby Jones in most every big national event Bobby has entered.

Ross was with Jones when he had hard sledding to the two championships. He was with him in his glory at Inwood, and he alone knows and feels the personal side of that great struggle to golf supremacy.

"A sportsman was Bobby," said Ross. "He played golf according to golf, all the way through.

"I was with him the day he touched his ball at Brookline. I never saw it; no one saw it. Maybe Bobby never saw the ball move, but he had that sensitive touch and knew the ball was struck in addressing it. Consequently he must have moved it.

"He penalized himself one stroke on that putting green and added to his score.

"Bobby always expects the opponent to play as he plays. He expects the etiquette of the green and tee, just as he radiates with it.

"I love to go alone with Jones. He loves the game. If he misses a poke he knows it is his own fault and he also knows just as well, or even better than anybody else, how it should have been played.

"That accounts for Jones playing to form. To play the game as it is taught or analyzed, is the fundamental of golf. To build upon that base is to be a champion."

Bears Beat Good In Tenth, 6 to 5

BEAUMONT, April 22.(AP)—After tying in the ninth with three runs, the Exporters lost the last game of the series to San Antonio today, 6 to 5, the Bears coming back with one run in the tenth. Sep Good twirled good ball until the ninth when he staged a typical southpaw blowup. The Exporters really should have won the game in the inning, but poor base running ruined their chances.

Byers Captures Doubles Crown

East and Bates Go to Top In Singles Play

The tennis tournament of the district meet was brought to an end at the Wichita Falls Country club Friday afternoon with the last game of the boys' doubles being played off in a sensational five-set match won by the Byers team.

Addie East of Burkburnett flashed through all competition to win the girls' singles from Dorothy Davis from Nocona in straight sets. Emmett Bates led the Byers high school to victory in the boys' singles with a sensational victory over Vic Davis of Burkburnett.

The girls' singles final was played off in rapid order with Addie East taking two hard fought sets, 6-4, 6-4.

After two hours of battle that favored first one and then the other Emmett Bates emerged the victor of a four-set match with Victor "Red" Davis of Burkburnett who had been picked by all early critics as the winner of the match.

Bates took the first two sets from Davis, 6-1, 6-4 but the Burkburnett lad battled back strong and took the third 4-6. Bates then captured the last set 6-2. It took two hours for the match.

Graham arrived at 10:30 Friday morning and in time to enter the boys' doubles, but was quickly eliminated by Archer City. Ben Powell and Ben Turpin of Archer City defeated Robert Jones and Everette Butler of Graham, 6-2, 6-0.

Harrold Crites and Luke Hall of Nocona then played their way into the finals with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over Jacksboro. Byers then followed them into the finals with a 6-1, 6-2 win over the Archer City Wildcats.

Emmett Bates and Clyde Cummings then carried the second tennis team from Byers into the state meet after five long sets had been battled through. Nocona played a great game, but the fast little Byers couple was too much for them to conquer.

Byers lost the first and fourth sests to the Crites-Hall combination while Bates and Cummings captured the others. The sets scores were, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

This places the Electra girls' team in the state meet for girls' doubles and Burkburnett to state in the girls' singles. Byers sends both boys' doubles and singles to the state meet.

FROG STOCK RISES

FORT WORTH, April 22.(AP)—Texas Christian university track stock took a rise when announcement was made today that Captain Curtis Dickenson, who has been off the squad for several weeks because of injuries to one of his legs, is in shape again and will be entered in all future meets.

RUNYON SAYS

Meet Mr. Roy Moore—
Stirs Up Australia—
Was Born in Arizona—
He Had No Fame Here—
Now He Is Big Shot—

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright 1927 by International Features Service, Inc.)

Our friends the Australians are somewhat excited over one Roy Moore Gardner, an American fighter commonly known as Cowboy Roy Moore, who has just returned to his homeland leaving the Antipodes buzzing about his fisting ability.

He licked the best men in Australia in the middleweight and light heavyweight divisions, although just what the best men down yonder mean at this time I am unable to say. I doubt that they grade up to the Bob Fitzsimmons, the Dan Creedon, or even the Les Darcy that Australia sent in other years.

Moore did quite a bit of fighting in this country before going to Australia and attracted little attention, but I have clippings from Australian papers that indicate he showed astonishing form there. One paper devoted several columns to his knockout of Alf Stewart, of Melbourne.

Moore was born in Arizona and is 21 years old. He spent his early life on an Arizona ranch. He has been boxing four or five years, and claims to have won all but four of about 53 fights. He says Jack Britton, the former welterweight champion, is the only man who ever knocked him off his feet.

Moore had no fame in America when he went to Australia. For that matter he has no particular fame now, but my old amigo, Mr. Larney Lichtenstein, now of Los Angeles, is doing his baldheaded best to remedy that omission.

Mr. Larney Lichtenstein is managing Roy Moore, and is also looking after Billy Grimes, the Australian feather and lightweight weight champion. Without reference to what Mr. Lichtenstein in his managerial enthusiasm says about Billy Grimes, I have heard that the young man is quite a gladiator. We shall see, as the Englishman said.

In fistic style Roy Moore is said to be awkwardly clever, very difficult to hit, and very cunning. Moreover, he seems to be a heavy puncher when he opens up, as he won three fights in Australia by knockouts. He is tall, slender and has curly hair and amiable habit of smiling pleasantly when the fighting gets hot.

The middleweight division of the Manly Art of Scrambling Ears in America can use a few new ears for scrambling purposes. The old ears are all scrambled up to such an extent that they lack interest as well as beauty. I judge that Roy Moore will not linger long in that set, however, as he is six feet, one inch tall and taking on weight rapidly.

In my opinion the best of the young middleweights of today is George Courtney of Oklahoma, a good looking, black-haired fresh youth who has been coming on the past year like the well-known house afire.

I believe I have expressed this opinion before of George Courtney. He can fight. But outside of young Joe Anderson of Kentucky, Harry Ebbets of Brooklyn and a few others, the new middleweights of promise are very scarce. Dave Shade, the long-shinned California, seems to be fighting in that division just now but I have heard no official renounciation of welterweight claim from Dave Shade or his manager, the ubiquitious Mr. Leo Pizen Flynn.

Shade as a middleweight ought to be a great fighter. We had few men in any division of Shade's pugilistic intelligence, if I may go so far as to attribute intelligence to any man engaging in pugilistic endeavor. The Californian was quite ill for some time, but he seems to be regaining his old form.

It would appear that the middleweights will have to content themselves with struggling for what you might call contendership honors until late in the summer at least, as Mickey Walker, the champion, is going to Europe to box Tommy Milligan in July.

Milligan did some battling in this country as a welterweight. At that time, when Walker was welterweight champion, I think he would have had little trouble beating Milligan, but they say Tommy has improved.

In any event, Walker is getting more money for taking his title to England than any pair of fighters ever drew over there, let alone received, and I would say that whatever the result the match is well worth his while.

If he beats Milligan, I am sure cined to think Walker will meet the redoubtable Tiger Flowers in a return match here in the early fall. It was from the Deacon that Mickey won title in Chicago after losing the welterweight title to Pete Latzo, of Scranton. Here is another chap that I would not be surprised to see in the middleweight division before long, especially if he should chance to blow his title to Joe Dundee of Baltimore, when they meet in May.

ABOUT TIME TO QUIT

Long Distance Golfer Throws Up Marathon Racket.

EL PASO, April 22.(AP)—Doc Grahame, who left Mobile, Ala., with the intention of driving a golf ball to California, has again forsaken his venture. Grahame arrived in El Paso this morning having temporarily dropped his marathon golf attempt at Ozona, Texas.

Shortage of funds were responsible for the change in his plans, he said. Grahame had made 35,948 shots and used 140 golf balls at the time that he quit.

BUCS CONTINUE VICTORY PATH

Cincy Takes Short End Of 3 to 1 Score

PITTSBURGH, April 22. (AP)—Pittsburgh continued on the victory path by defeating Cincinnati 3 to 1 today. The bespectacled Meadows held the Reds safe in the pinches while Pittsburgh bunched hits, walks and sacrifices in three innings. Wright, Pirate shortstop accepted ten chances without a slip while Rhyne at second made eight errorless plays. Luque hurled a good game for the Reds holding the Pirates to nine hits, three of which were bunched in the 6th. Some four thousand fans were on hand despite the near freezing weather. Score:

Electra Favored In Track Meet

Cinder Path Boys Get Down To Business Today

Track and field events of the district meet under way at the Junior college are scheduled to begin Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. The field is in the best of shape and all contestants are ready to get started. The Electra Tigers are at present the favorites of the meet with the other teams divided.

The Bowie team blew into town Friday and was wild for action. It came with one man believed to be good for two first places in the field events. Dan Sadler is being favored heavily in both the shot and the discus.

Sadler won both of these at the big Wichita Falls invitation meet and has been places both of them over much distance of late. He should at least take one of these events.

Jack Raines and Roy Porter are expected to have a merry battle for the high jump. Raines is from Bowie and Porter of Wichita Falls. Both of them have been getting around six feet.

Another star who will be watched closely in the track meet this afternoon is Langford from Deer Creek. Langford is a hurdle man and field man of great ability.

Pat Hood in the mile run is being carded as another man for a cinch place in the meet with an outside chance af a dark horse coming to the front and beating him out.

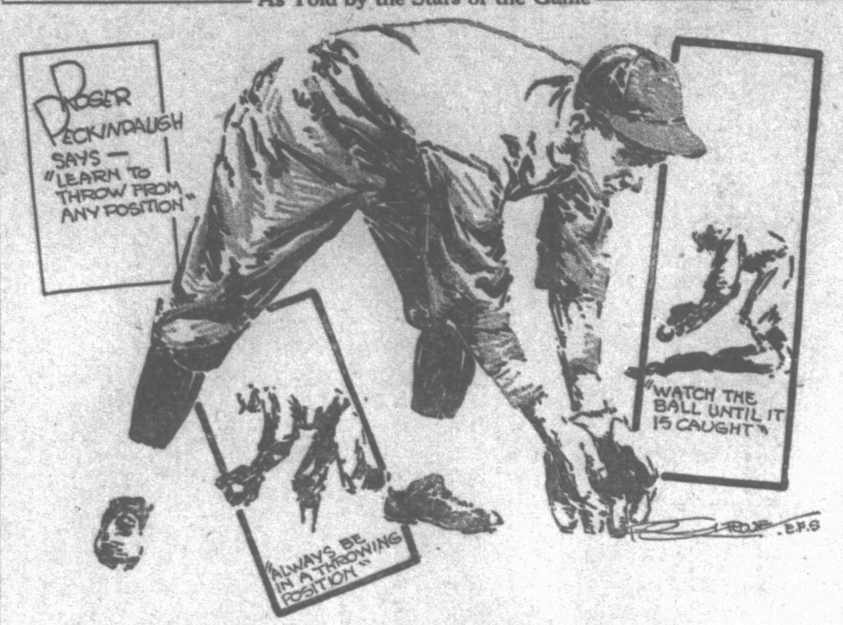

Dick Houser is being favored to take the 100-yard dash and maybe the 220-yard dash for the Electra Tigers.

Still none of the teams are expected to run up a very high team score for the day and many good races are expected. The greatest race of the day as picked by many will be the 880-yard run. There are at least five men in this event with more than a passing chance to win.

HOW TO PLAY BASEBALL

SHORTSTOP IS MOST DIFFICULT

As Told by the Stars of the Game

By ROGER PECKINPAUGH
Famous Shortstop, Chicago White Sox.

The fielding averages show that the shortstop position is the most difficult to play. This is due to the long throw necessary after fielding a ball, together with the rapidity with which that throw must be started. It follows then that a shortstop must possess a good throwing arm and learn to get rid of the ball quickly. He must also learn to throw from any position, because the hardest chances are the ones off to his right; also the slow hit balls. On these plays he does not have time to straighten up before making the throw. Suppleness and rhythm therefore are necessary to their quick fielding and proper execution.

A shortstop, as do other fielders, must learn to judge ground balls and field them on the best possible bounce, at the same time getting into throwing position before the ball arrives. The speed of the batsman and the speed with which the ball is coming determine the time he has in playing the ball.

He must also shift his position in the field to the place where the batter is most apt to hit, or, if he thinks it not necessary to move, he should be on his toes ready to go to the left or right, as the case may be.

The kind of ball—fast, curve or slow—that the pitcher is delivering to the hitter usually determines the direction in which the shortstop should be ready to start, since most batsmen will pull a curve or slow ball more than a fast one.

He must keep his eye on the ball until it is caught. Otherwise you will see an easy chance turned into a fumble when a double play should have been made. A good shortstop never peeks at the runner while fielding the ball.

In straight double plays the shorstop should give the second baseman the ball where he can handle it easily and quickly. The extra time taken to do this will safeguard the second baseman's relay to first.

DEMPSEY DUE BACK IN RING

At Least, So Believes One J. J. Tunney

By ED FRAYNE,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 21.—James Joseph Tunney, the champion of all the champions, was the big news along pugilistic Broadway today. He eased into the home village after three months of acting, public speaking and turning down breakfast invitations in the wild west.

The champion was in good shape and good humor. The old town looked good to him after his long theatrical engagement. He was "fed up" on punching a time clock at the stage entrance four times a day, he said.

In chronological order, he also said:

1—"I think Dempsey will come back. He has kept Gus Wilson and Jerry the Greek on his payroll, and why should he have two trainers unless he is in earnest?

2—"There is no understanding between me and Tex Rickard that I will meet Dempsey. If Dempsey fights, it will not necessarily be me. Rickard will pick the contender, not me.

3—"I may not go to Europe. My proposed exhibition there has been postponed, not cancelled. I was supposed to appear on May 20, but the date has been put off to June 15. The matter will be decided definitely by the end of the week.

4—"I have one legal engagement pending, with Tim O'Mara. That is the only one in sight that I know of. But I have been here only a few hours and maybe the process servers haven't had time to find me.

5—"I am much heavier than I used to be. I weighed 183 pounds the night I defeated Dempsey. I jumped to 194 pounds at one time on this trip. I lost five pounds in one exhibition bout the other night."

The champion will hold a conference with Tex Rickard upon the promoter's return from Florida Saturday. Rickard is obligated to deposit $100,000 in escrow for Tunney on May 1, and Tunney must deposit a similar sum as a forfeit.

Houston Defeats Waco On Error

HOUSTON, April 22.(AP)—Thanks largely to the erratic work of "Dusty" Boggess, Waco shortstop, the Buffs Friday defeated the Cubs, 7-6, and swept the three-game series and won their fifth straight.

Joe Mathes' men, as a wedding present for a former Buff, Ray Benge, newly wed, clouted Ray's offerings for 14 blows. Ray was hurling well until Burgess tossed away a chance to make a double play, which would have retired the Buffs in the fifth, with Waco leading 3-2. After the Buff heavy artillery had got in its work, following Boggess' error, the Bisons led 6-3.

Dallas Runs Over Panthers For 7-2 Victory

DALLAS, April 22.(AP)—Shuman was as steady as a rock Friday and the Dallas Steers made it even with the Panthers again by defeating the Atzmen 7 to 2. Joe North broke in the second inning, Bird followed him and Dallas was helpless again after the third.

Snowden McSweeney No. 1 Hughes, being completed from 2526-32 feet, made 297 barrels in 24 hours.

Crane county's new well, Humble's No. 8 University swabbed 160 barrels in 14 hours after topping the pay at 2828 feet and drilling to 2960.

A daily average of 750 barrels is being made by Winkler county third and latest producer, Independent's No. 1 Hendricks, from 2995 feet.

RECOVERY IN STOCK PRICES

Firmer Tone Follows Early Profit-Taking Sales

BY BROADAN WALL.
Universal Service Financial Expert.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Profit taking in stocks was followed by a recovery in the stock market today. High priced issues again forged to the front and established new record prices. Shorts have received a drubbing in General Motors reaching for the "top" in that issue. There appears to be no change in the program. The stock probably will go above 200 as forecast by its sponsors.

Japanese yen were rather weak but Italian money strengthened. Commodities were lower. Cotton sold off although the news from the Mississippi valley was rather disturbing for the crop. Money again loaned at 4 per cent.

Considerable significance is attached to the lowering of the British bank rate. The astute English financiers had advance information of the financial crisis in Japan and lowered the rate as a means of getting the far east trade.

The crisis in Japan, bankers say, means the passing of the Japanese as the dominant power in the trade of the far east which they held for a number of years, and the entrance into those markets on a greater scale of American and English business interests. It should benefit Pacific coast industries and should bring more shipping and commerce to our Pacific coast ports. It should give to American and British interests when quiet is restored in China, absolute control of the trade there.

A list of the Standard issues—both railroad and industrial—is understood to be scheduled for next week. Delaware and Hudson today crossed the 200-mark. The company must segregate its coal and iron properties under a decree handed down by the U. S. Supreme court. The D. and H. has been slow in carrying out the orders of the high court. When the road is separated from the coal and iron companies, the rail, coal and iron corporations will be separate and distinct companies. As Delaware and Hudson is one of the large holders of coal properties this company will be in a position to pay 10 per cent in cash following dissolution of the coal and iron properties from the railroad.

Interborough Rapid Transit has more hidden assets than any coal operating railroad in the country and is the last to dis tribute its coal and iron properties. This is compulsory and can no longer be delayed. Delaware and Hudson, on the basis of this segregation deal, should be worth in the neighborhood of $300 a share.

General Motors made a new high. The stock is near the 200 price indicated here a few days ago when it was selling near 10 points lower. The new development in General Motors is its new washing machine. On account of its closed connection with the public utility companies, the G. M. will develop this machine on a big scale as it has frigidaire.

Tobacco Products and Cigar Stocks reached new peaks for this issue. Developments in the tobacco business are more far-reaching than the public and Wall Street realizes. The big business success enjoyed in the handling of outside products in all of its stores is now beginning to bring results. A large number of tobacco users are now buying their cigars at stores in these stores. Profits on the sale of outside goods are showing up well in the earnings of Cigar Stores. Another development is the profits on realty holdings. Upon expiration of leases to sub-tenants. New leases are being made at rentals from $200 to $400 per cent higher.

Bayuk Cigar is being picked up in preparation for a new move. There are only 72,000 shares of stock. Earnings in the last quarter were equal to about $3 a share and this is generally the poorest quarter of the year for the company. Increased earnings are looked for on account of the bigger sale of the cheaper cigars.

International Nickel led the specialties with a gain of five points. Recent weakness of Radio is due to the earnings for the quarter. Earnings were approximately $126,000 as compared with $1,-150,000 in the same quarter last year. Orpheum Business showed a decided falling off.

Tennessee Copper and Chemical continued active. The company has been developed into a big chemical concern. On account of the big demand for chemicals the company is understood to be on the eve of reaping the benefits of the research work done by the John D. Rockefeller interests. The company has been brought up to a high state of efficiency and no doubt will come back and prove to be one of the greatest low-grade mines in the country.

Accumulation is taking place in Reading company. And Baltimore and Ohio. The New York Central is expected to dispose of its holdings in Reading to the Baltimore and Ohio at a rumored price of 100. Buying of New York Central is based on this sale of Reading holdings and also the negotiations now going on for the sale of its holdings in Philadelphia and Reading Coal to banking interests.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 22. (AP)—Prospects for better weather in the south promoted heavy realising after yesterday's excited advance in the cotton market and there were reactions in today's trading. July contracts which had sold as high as 15.29 on Thursday, broke to 14.89 and closed at 14.96, compared with 15.21 at the close the previous day. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 20 to 27 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of seven to 10 points under overnight selling orders brought in by the advance of yesterday together with local and southern selling which was probably promoted by the indifferent showing of Liverpool, talk of mill curtailment in Lancashire and the more favorable weather map.

Further buying on the Mississippi flood situation was readily supplied, the market showing considerable weakness during the forenoon under liquidation by recent buyers.

Stop orders were uncovered on the break which extended to 14.65 for May and 15.17 for October, net declines of about 30 to 32 points. Thereafter there was a somewhat better demand, which probably included reburing by some of the early sellers as well as covering by shortsthemselves more or less nervous and irregular. At the close prices showed rallies of eight or 10 points from the lowest. Trading was very active during the morning, but the market turned unexpectedly dormant when later when there was evidence of a disposition to even up commitments to await weather developments over the week-end.

Exports today 22,362, making 5,445,935 so far this season. Port receipts 21,670; U. S. port stock 2,152,793 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, April 22. (AP)—Profit taking and selling based on the forecast for fair and warmer weather in the belt carried prices down 28 to 30 points during the early morning session of the cotton market today. Mildness of the predicted cold wave in the western belt also helped to weaken all positions. A good portion of the loss was recovered in the early afternoon however on outside buying which developed at the low spots on fears of further flood damage.

Liverpool was four or five penny points down and the trade here likewise figured losses of three to seven points. Prices continued to sag during the morning until July traded at 14.92, October at 15.12, 29 to 30 points under Thursday's close.

The decline attracted trade buying and by mid-afternoon those two positions had recovered 21 or 22 points, but the market turned easy when the late weather and private estimate of acreage reduction of 31.5 per cent and quotations dropped back to about the lows of the morning, closing near the bottom for the day. Secretary Hester made mill takings for the week 211,000 bales.

Exports for the day 28,862 bales; for the week 191,462.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN.

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—A freeze that didn't materialize was the primary cause of wheat dropping almost a cent on the Fort Worth grain exchange Friday. It was prognosticated Thursday that the wheat belt would experience 32 degrees and lower before sun rise Friday. It was a wrong guess; wheat didn't sustain damage and prices dropped.

Corn and oats were about stationary but weak. Demand was nominal. Other grains acted indifferently.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, April 22. (AP)—Any semblance of a crop scare fizzled out in the wheat pit today. Decided changes for the better in weather conditions appeared evident, and prices went lower. Export business from North America totaled 1,250,000 bushels but failed to bring a much needed rally. Wheat closed weak, ⅝ to ⅞@1c net lower, corn ½@¾ to ⅞c down, oats ¼ to ⅝c off, and provisions showing 2 to 32c decline.

Corn and oats sympathised with wheat weakness. Eastern shipping demand for corn continued to be very slow, but a fairly good reduction in the visible supply total is looked for on Monday.

Provisions were responsive to lower quotations on hogs.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP)—Shs stock on the Fort Worth market Friday had a decent outlet at steady prices. Calves were slow to move along with yearlings and beef steers. Hogs were 10 cents to a quarter lower and sheep threatened with similar treatment.

The pick of the eight cars of beef cattle moved just after the noon hour at $9.00@9.50, averaging between 950 and 1050 pounds.

Shs stock took a favorable position in the day's transactions, beef cows selling up to $7.00 and butcher cows up to $6.50. Canners sold around $3.25. Up to 4 o'clock not a full car of slaughter cows had gone across the herade being confined to Jack Pots.

Heifers and yearlings made out to get to the scales soon after noon at $6.75 to $9.00 for heifers and $6.50 to $9.00 for yearlings.

Bulls were steady, if one can define a market that was confined to less than a half dozen specimens, selling $4.50 to $5.50.

Calves closed about steady after some backing and filling in on the part of traders. Quality failed to show up in the calf run, the best of the heavy calves taking $8.00 and a few light veals $9.00.

For the first time in weeks the hog trade was active enough to permit buyers to get early soon after noon. Trade was 15 cents lower, a shipper taking a load of light butchers at $10.55, packers paying $10.15 for their best hogs. Sows were a quarter lower and pier steers 25 lower.

Genuine spring lambs made $12.50 to $13.00 and short lambs $12.00. Ride on wethers a quarter lower.

Cattle 1200 including 400 calves; market easy on lower grades $6.00@8.00; stockers $3.25@7.50; fat cows $4.00@6.75; cutters $3.50@3.85; canners $2.25@3.25; heifers $5.25@10.00; calves $7.00@10.25.

Hogs, 1500; steady; lights $10.15@10.25; mediums $10.10@10.15; heavy $10.00@10.25; common $7.00@9.00; sows $8.00@9.25; pigs $7.00@10.50.

Sheep and lambs 5200; steady; lambs $12.50@14.00; shorn feeder lambs $10.00@12.00; wethers $8.00@8.25; culls $1.00@3.25; stockers $2.00@6.25; goats $1.50@4.50.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION CORPORATION.

The Electric Refrigeration corporation is a holding company which was organized late in 1925 and which owns practically all the stocks of the Kelvinator corporation, the Nizer corporation and the Grand Rapids Refrigerator company together with control of various marketing subsidiaries. The three main companies involved are engaged in complementary but distinct fields of the electric refrigeration industry. The Nizer company produces units for commercial users particularly dairies, ice cream manufacturers, butchers and grocers. The Grand Rapids company manufacturers household refrigerators and ice boxes and the Kelvinator company makes electric refrigeration units.

The parent corporation controls Canadian and British subsidiaries and a discount company which facilitates sales of units on part payment plans. The main plants of Kelvinator and Nizer are at Detroit and of Grand Rapids Refrigerator at that town. The Canadian plant is at London, Ont. Combined sales have risen from about $5,000,000 in 1922 to $15,500,000 in 1925 and $17,163,000 in the first three quarters of 1926.

Funded debt consists of $2,980,000 in 6 per cent bonds, an offering of $3,000,000 of temporary notes and $2,000,000 in bonds of a building subsidiary. Capital stock outstanding consists of 604,096 shares of no par common. The concern has 3000 employes and about 3200 shareholders. MEXICO OUSTS CHURCH HEADS

Six Catholic Chiefs Expelled From Country

MEXICO CITY, April 22.(AP)—Six of the foremost members of the Catholic Episcopate have been ordered out of the country and are on their way to Laredo. They were taken from their residences last night by government agents and placed on a train bound for the border.

The deported churchmen are Jose Mora Del Rio, archbishop of Mexico; Leopoldo Ruiz Y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan, and Bishops Salvador Uranga of Cuernavaca; Ignazio Valdespino Y Diaz of Aguascallentes; Gerardo Anaya of Chipas, and Jose Maria Echeverria of Saltillo.

Charged With Unrest

The government's drastic action follows upon recent charges made by General Alvarez, chief of President Calles' staff, that the Catholic Episcopate was the main cause of the religious unrest, and had been directing the revelouition and inspiring such outrages as that Tuesday night against a passenger train in the state of Jalisco.

The government already has made public reports received by it alleging that three Catholic priests and one delegate of the league for the defense of religious liberty were the ring leaders in the Jalisco outrage.

The expulsion of the six prelates, with Bishop Pascual Diaz of Tabasco, expelled three months ago, and Francisco Orozco Y. Jimenez, of Guadalajara in hiding removes all the foremost church leaders from activity in Mexico.

Others In Hiding

Other prelates still in various parts of the republic are also in hiding and not a few of the religious have from time to time made their way out of Mexico.

Concurrently with the government's move against the Episcopate a strict censorship was established over all cablegrams and telegrams. The newspapers thus far have abstained from publishing other than official information on the Guadalajara train attack.

Jury Ready For Trial of Lovers

expression of deep surprise, but hastily left the courtroom. This was after the original number 12, Frederick Groh, had been accepted, so the attorneys had to search for another juror.

No reason was given for Arnold's dismissal, though there is much surprise. It came after the lawyers had done a lot of whispering about the matter at the noon recess and was given out as by consent.

At 7:06 o'clock McCabe was taken and the other 11 men who had been sitting patiently against the back wall of the courtroom, some for many hours, moved forward into the jurybox, hoisted their right hands and nodded their heads as the clerk of the court intoned the oath.

Judge Warns Jury

Then Justice Scudder warned them not to talk to anyone about the case, told them they might go home and adjourned court until Monday at 10 o'clock when the 12 men will commence to hear the state's story of the slaughter of the art editor of Motor Boating, Albert Snyder, his wife and Henry Judd Gray.

A total of 390 talesmen was examined since last Monday morning, 146 shuffling through the box today alone. Most of them were excused for cause, for holding opinions of one kind and another, for business reasons, on account of age or health. Each defendant used 21 of the 30 peremptory challenges allotted them, and the state used 17 of its 60.

Fine-Looking Jury

I would call it a fine-looking jury. It is made up as follows:

Foreman—William E. Young, publicity, married, 38.

No. 2—Charles B. Meissner, landscape gardener, married, 45.

No. 3—Albert R. Kramer, plumber, married, 38.

No. 4—Herman Ballweg, ex-bartender, married, 63.

No. 5—John Schneider, florist, married, 30.

No. 6—John Connolly, engineer, married, 30.

No. 7—Lewis Ruckdaschel, employment manager, widower, 41.

No. 8—Everett J. Van Vranken, secretary, married, 48.

No. 9—George Ziegler, printer, married, 47.

No. 10—John Vanderhyde, clerk, married, 32.

No. 11—Frederick Groh, piano maker, married, 40.

No. 12—Phillip McCabe, electrical installer, married, 36.

Selection of Juror McCabe was made necessary when the court excused juror No. 8.

Bitter Fight Seen

This trial will undoubtedly develop at once into a bitter fight between Mrs. Snyder and Gray, each trying to throw the blame on the other. Under the circumstance, a joint trial with two defendants offering different defenses is said to be almost unprecedented. Moreover, it would seem to present opportunity for some confusion, with one defendant wishing to introduce evidence objectionable to the other.

As I understand it, Mrs. Snyder's defense will be, in substance, that she tried to discourage Gray from committing the murder, whereas the corset salesman will seek to show that Mrs. Gray instigated the crime—that he was her unwilling dupe. Both made confessions to the police, which will probably be offered by the state, but Mrs. Snyder subsequently repudiated her confession.

Both Sides Satisfied

Both sides said tonight that they are satisfied with the jury. Mrs. Snyder and Gray were taken from the courtroom when the jurymen were assembled in the box and she gave the men who will decide her fate a swift sidewise glance. Gray walked out stiffly upright, with short, nervous steps and never turned his head. Still, he says he likes the jury.

137 TAGGED IN TRAFFIC DRIVE

Police Department Sets Record Friday

Strict law enforcement tempered by courtesy at all times was the keynote of a number of talks made at a meeting of all traffic officers of the Wichita Falls police department Friday night.

The meeting was held after a day of heavy activity by the traffic men, 137 tickets having been issued to alleged violators of the over time parking ordinance. This is a record for traffic arrests in one day for recent years. Only 28 of the alleged violators had appeared at the police station and posted appearance bonds.

Fire and Police Commissioner Roy E. Carter was the principal speaker at the traffic meeting and outlined policies advocated by him in handling traffic problems. Mr. Carter declared that the laws must be enforced but at the same time officers should practice courtesy.

"Be kind and gentlemanly but firm," Mr. Carter told the officers.

Police Chief Frank Burns expressed the opinion that an officer with a smile and kind word would find it less difficult to perform his duties than an officer of the "hardboiled" type.

Following a short talk by Traffic Captain J. A. Scott a general discussion was held among the officers and officials.

Tiny Girl Swears She Was Burned But Woman Is Cleared Of Brutality

NEW YORK, April 22.—Mrs. Everett S. Pratt, of Des Moines, Ia., was acquitted late today of a charge that she had burned the legs of her 7-year-old daughter, Roberta Jane, with an electric curling iron.

Although the little girl was the most spectacular witness of the day, the mother made a sweeping denial of all the child's charges. Roberta also accused her foster mother of beating her.

Mrs. Pratt testified that during the two years she has had the girl she had tried hard to break her of story telling, stealing and shocking language that she picked up in her early environment.

She's Tiny Witness

Little Roberta Jane told her story from the big witness chair to three serious looking judges. She was so small that when she sat erect her bare feet hardly poked over the edge of the seat.

She admitted that she sometimes told stories, stole oranges and candy and scratched pictures on the foot of the mahogany bed, but lawyers and judges could not shake her story that her mother had burned her legs.

Before she was given the regular oath she was quizzed by the three judges on the difference between truth and deceit. Justice Nealy did most of the questioning. "Roberta," he asked, "do you know what would happen if you told a lie?"

"I would go to jail," she replied.

She Knows Truth

"Do you know what it means to take an oath and answer to God to tell the truth?"

"I know I must tell the truth."

"This child has more intelligence than many adults who comes before us," said the judge and then he administered the oath.

The child testified that she was burned because she played in the hotel lobby against her mother's orders one night while the Pratts were out.

"What happened when your mother came in?" she was asked.

"Nothing happened last night, but the next morning when mama was curling my hair she said, 'I have a good notion to burn you' and she stuck the curling iron under my stocking."

Then Roberta insisted, her foster mother whipped her.

"Did it hurt?" she was asked.

"No, there was no pain."

She Loves "Daddy"

She testified that she "loved daddy Pratt" but didn't love mama so much. Then she added:

"I like her though."

Mrs. Pratt was in court and watched every movement of the child as she leaned to hear every answer. When the foster mother entered the room she waved to Roberta Jane and the little girl waved back.

PAINTERS END STRIKE HERE

Men Return to Work Under Old Scale

The painters' strike in Wichita Falls came to an end Friday morning when the executive committee ordered the men who had ceased work Monday to return to their respective jobs at the same wage scale and conditions existing heretofore.

The order from the committee came as a result of a meeting of the striking painters held Friday morning in the Labor temple.

A statement issued by Bob Newman, secretary of the union, following the meeting, set out:

"We decided that it was not advisable to burden the public with a raise of wages at this time."

Approximately 60 painters went on a strike Monday when the Master Painters association, the employers, refused to advance the wages of the employes from $8 to $9 a day.

The master painters at a meeting Wednesday night declared that operations on work under contract would be resumed Thursday morning.

Several of the union painters, who had joined the strike, returned to work Thursday morning at the old wage scale.

Garcia also suffered a badly bruised arm in jumping from the engine cab, falling on his left arm.

Fumes from the oil used in firing the locomotive became ignited and a blaze caught the man's face. He was carried to the General hospital where attending physicians stated that his condition was not serious.

Price Raising at C-C Convention "Treason to City," Hamilton Warns

Persons in Wichita Falls should be classed as "traitors to their city" if they raise prices during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, W. B. Hamilton, chairman of the convention committee, said Friday in an address to the business council of the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Hamilton stressed the subject of raising of prices during his address. He asserted that no reports had been received by the committee that prices would be raised, nevertheless, Mr. Hamilton said, he desired the citizens of the city to know that price raising would not be countenanced by the chamber of commerce.

C-C Heads Praised

The work of Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, and H. J. Adair, publicity director, in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was highly praised by Mr. Hamilton.

A. L. Huey, chairman of the housing commitee for the convention, in a short talk pleaded for the co-operation of the members of the council in obtaining 10,000 rooms in the city for the housing of delegates and visitors to the convention.

The success of the recent De-Molay convention in Wichita Falls was outlined by J. D. Bright, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee in charge of the convention. Many of the delegates to the convention desired to return to Wichita Falls next year for the convention, Mr. Bright said.

Activities of the publicity committee relative to the convention were told by H. J. Adair, chairman of the committee.

Invited to McAllen

Mr. Adair said that 300 questionnaires to ascertain the attendance at the convention were recently mailed to towns and cities in West Texas. Twenty of the towns reported an expected total attendance of 4100 persons.

An invitation to council members to attend the interscholastic meet now being held at Junior college and high school was given by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, Wichita Falls superintendent of schools.

Dr. R. H. Graham, president of the Lions club, issued an invitation to members of the chamber of commerce to join with the members of the Lions club in the trip to the state convention of Lions clubs to be held in McAllen.

Dr. Nat F. Grafton, D. B. King, Grady Snuggs, the Rev. E. F. McGaughey and the Rev. W. D. Johns have returned from Amarillo where they attended the annual Presbytery meeting which was held in that city Wednesday.

Attention of the man who declared that no successful play could be constructed without a villian is respectfully called to "McFudden's Flats," now showing at the Majestic theater.

For the screen production of this feature comedy, like the stage play that endured for more than 50 years of successful and continuous runs, is practically without the suggestion of villainy.

While more laughs, numerous, unusual and side-splitting situations have been added to the original stage play in order to fit it for the screen, it is as much without the usual "heavy" work of the ordinary play as when it first was produced.

"The substitution of many laughs must have made up for the lack of villany," said Edward Small, who produced the comedy for First National Pictures. "Newer productions are proving that audiences, the world over, love to laugh and that they don't mind if the usual rules of production are overlooked in the finding of those laughs. Successful entertainment of the future will run more to humor than sobs, and money will be expended for ideas rather than lavish settings."

Chester Conklin in "McFudden's Flats," showing at The Majestic through Tuesday.
