The great delusion of the people is that Communist dictatorship can come upon them only through conspiracy and use of military power and that a revolution must occur.

WEST TEXAS — Generally fair through Wednesday. Little cooler in Panhandle and South Plains Wednesday and in Panhandle Tuesday night.

Schools Give Insurance To Nine Agencies

The number of insurance agencies which will handle $2,760,000 worth of Pampa public school insurance business this school year has been increased to nine.

Pampa school board members Monday night voted to permit Harry V. Gordon, local insurance man, to have $80,000 worth of business—one-third of the insurance evaluation on the new Lamar School.

Chamberlain and Cree will get $180,000—the remainder, the board decided. That firm was the other to be admitted this year into the public schools' insurance business. A person must be a Pampa insurance man for five years before he is eligible.

The other seven local insurance firms, which have had all the business for 20-25 years, will handle the balance. That would amount to the schools they have been insuring in the past.

Also in the insurance line, George M. Waddill, retired Amarillo public schools business manager, and C. R. Thomas, representing "Flam-ort," a flame-proofing material, appeared before the board to discuss their product.

Their argument was that it was better to have school buildings flame-proofed than insured, that it would save money and time in the long run. Of particular concern to both them and board members was the condition of the junior high school and its attic. That would cost $6,670.

As of today, Waddill and Thomas pointed out, state fire underwriters were allowing a five-per cent credit rating on buildings so treated. The board reserved action till later.

To round the insurance part of the meeting, Duncan advanced a plan to insure school students, going to, in and going home from school. Costing $1 per year, the plan would necessitate the use of principals and instructors to pass out the insurance forms. For that reason, the board decided on a wait-and-see attitude and postponed action.

Commission Reviews New City Budget

The City Commission this morning faced a possible drawn out commission session, running into the afternoon hours to cover an agenda of at least 12 items.

A review of the budget was still in progress at 11:30 a.m., the commission going over each department item by item.

By mid-morning, the commission changed only one item—the summer recreation program. It struck out dependence from outside sources of $1,500 to meet the $3,000 cost for the program. In addition the commissioners struck $300 from the park department, knocking it down from $2,100 to $1,800.

The Fire Department was given the biggest amount of consideration of all departments with Mayor Tom Rose taking time out to insert his feelings about the department and its conduct in fighting the ravaging fire yesterday which gutted five business houses on E. Kingsmill.

"I want to say right here, that those men are to be congratulated on the excellent job they did. If it hadn't been for the way they handled it—doing such an excellent job—that whole block, maybe more would have gone," the mayor declared.

Each of the commissioners added, he wanted to take time out personally to offer his congratulations to the department.

This led into the building of two substations and adding more fire fighting equipment. While nothing definite was decided, the commission indicated Tuesday that the building would include substations and apparatus.

Other departments were scrutinized closely, but none was cut by 11:30 a.m.

Recluse Leaves Fortune Behind

EVANSTON, Ill., Sept. 15—UP—A recluse who lived alone for 44 years in a crumbling mansion left an estate of more than $303,000 in cash and blue chip securities, including 60 new $1,000 bills in a ginger can.

State officials Tuesday searched for the original of a will left by Mrs. Theresa Stoddy Porter, about 80, who died Tuesday.

A 24-hour police guard was posted around the decaying house where she had kept at least $236,000 in securities piled in tomato baskets, hat boxes and scattered over the floor.

Mrs. Porter was injured in a fall last March. The securities were taken from the 10-room house by Evanston police and kept at the police station.

Another treasure cache was revealed Monday when state officials opened a safety deposit box at the Northern Trust Company. They found a will and 60 new $1,000 bills and $4,400 in lesser bills sealed in a tin can labeled "Canton Ginger."

Viet Minh Forces Open Big Offensive

HANOI, Indochina, Sept. 15—UP—Communist-led rebels fought Tuesday to capture the vital Red River Delta before Indochina can receive promised American military aid.

Viet Minh forces began their all-out offensive six weeks ahead of schedule. French high command spokesmen said, and attacked 18 government strongpoints in Northern Viet Nam and Laos.

The rebels overwhelmed four French bastions, but pulled out without consolidating their gains, and the French immediately reoccupied the fortifications.

As the Reds attempted to move forward in Viet Nam and Laos, U.S. Senate Majority Leader William F. Knowland threatened to cut off American military and economic aid to the tiny Indochinese Kingdom of Cambodia.

Knowland, now on a world tour, made a brief and apparently unsuccessful trip to the Cambodian capital of Phnom Penh to get assurances the tiny nation will stick with its sister Indochinese states.

The California Republican earlier had cancelled his trip to Cambodia because Premier Phnom Penh had made a speech bidding for peace with the Communists.

Knowland changed his plans, however, after Foreign Minister Sirik Matak hurriedly assured him Cambodia stands "with the free nations in the fight against communism."

After Knowland returned to Saigon from Phnom Penh, it was learned he failed to get a firm, official declaration Cambodia would fight against all Communist elements.

Stocks Rallying After Big Drop

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—UP—Stocks rallied at an active market opening Tuesday following a series of declines that had sent prices to new lows for 18 months.

Tickers ran late by as much as two minutes. It was the first tickler lateness on a rise since Feb. 24, 1953.

Prices rose further after the opening. Texas Pacific Land Trust gained $3.75 in the oils. Recent weak spots elsewhere were up a few cents to more than $1 a share.

Financial experts before the opening estimated that the stock market had lost $13 million in valuation of all listed issues since the first of the year, more than half of it since the Korean truce was signed six weeks ago.

The "bear market" selling reached earlier proportions than when the market lost more than $1 billion and reached its lowest level since March 3, 1952.

The total amount lost in 1953 is nearly one-fourth of the $53 billion gained during the market upswing that lasted from the beginning of 1949 to the end of 1952.

Most of the experts agreed Tuesday that the investing public is pulling in its horns in anticipation of a decline in business next year. But they said business prospects do not warrant a market recession of this degree.

Livestock Men Ask Beef Price Support

Drouth-Hit Areas Want Re-instated

DALHART, Tex., Sept. 15—UP—President Eisenhower and the Secretary of Agriculture were asked Tuesday by the United Livestock Producers' Association to support beef prices at the producer level and re-investigate the drouth disaster area.

The association, which represents six southwestern cattle-producing states, closed a three-day meeting Monday night and sent telegrams to Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

The cattlemen asked the drouth area be re-investigated with a view to extending the drouth relief designation of some areas not now covered and re-instating some areas taken off the disaster list by the Department of Agriculture.

Designation as a drouth disaster area permits ranchers to buy feed from the government at cut prices.

The association asked a price floor be placed on wholesale beef to insure cattle raisers at least 28 cents a pound for choice stock, 26 cents for good cattle, 22 cents for commercial and 12 cents for canner and cutter beef.

The cattlemen's group, headed by S. E. Brown of Dalhart as president, represents stock raisers in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona.

James Morrow of Raton, N. M., a state senator and rancher, told the 225 ranchers attending their first annual convention:

"There is no reason under the sun why the livestock man has to produce cattle at a loss while everyone else makes a profit."

Another state senator, J. M. Smith of Central, Ark., said the United States "should send our cattle abroad under the Marshall Plan instead of sending money for them to buy Argentine beef."

Rep. Walter Rogers (D-Tex.) said the "bottom hasn't been seen yet unless the government does something and does it in a hurry" for the livestock producer.

Officers elected included Brown, president; Floyd Elliott, Dalhart, secretary-treasurer; and vice presidents Ed Prichard Jr., Dalhart; Ed Jeffers, Springer, N. M.; Murray E. Griffin, Nunn, Colo.; F. N. Cheatum, Syracuse, Kan.; Harold Munson, Woodward, Okla.; and J. M. Smith, Central, Ark.

DENVER, Sept. 15—UP—President Eisenhower will meet here Wednesday with Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson on the "agricultural situation in general."

Benson also was expected to report to the President on the first meeting of the National Agricultural Advisory Commission held in Washington last week.

The meeting will come two days after a Montana and New Mexico wheat and cattle baron's submission to the President of a proposal that would penalize farmers and ranchers who refuse to practice soil conservation and erosion control.

Demos Flay 'Hooverism'

CHICAGO, Sept. 15—UP—Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, following up attacks by former President Harry S. Truman and other top Democrats against the Republican administration, said Tuesday that "creeping Hooverism" is hurting the farmers and threatening the national economy.

Williams led a panel discussion at which Democrats attending a two-day conference mapped plans to capture the farm vote in next year's congressional elections.

Party officials attending the conference were sparked by speeches attacking the Republican administration made at a 100-plate dinner Monday night by Mr. Truman, 1952 presidential nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, Sen. Paul Douglas of Illinois, and House Minority Leader Sam Rayburn. Williams carried on the attack Tuesday.

"Historically, the leaks which floundered our economy into recessions and depressions have sprung first in agriculture," Williams said. "Under the Republican farm policy there is evidence of leaks today."

At Denver, meanwhile, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly, said the administration considered Monday night's speeches by Mr. Truman and Stevenson as "just sound and fury" with no real importance.

"Galloping Recession" Williams said. "Creeping Hooverism can lead to galloping recession if present agricultural trends continue."

The Michigan governor recalled that President Eisenhower, made one of his first major campaign speeches last year at a plowing contest near Kalamazoo, Mich. He said Mr. Eisenhower made "some of history's biggest campaign promises to the farmers" there.

"Everybody remembers those golden promises," he said. "Republican promises are golden—but Republican performance is tarnished brass."

The Democratic meeting will be climaxed Tuesday night when Stevenson makes a nationwide television and radio report on his recent round-the-world tour.

Fight Is Buried The Democrats meanwhile gave their North-South loyalty fight a quiet burial, at least until the 1956 national convention, to join hands for the fight to win control of Congress next year.

Oklahomans Eye Gasser Prospect GUYMON, Okla., Sept. 15—UP—A wildcat oil test southeast of Hardesty in Texas county is showing armaments of being the biggest gas well in the county which already has over 1,900 gas producers.

Gas production was touched at 6,840 feet. Tentative estimates are above 40 million cubic feet daily. The biggest previous producer in the county is 54 million cubic feet daily. The Texas Company passed up good oil shows at 4,500 feet and plans to drill deeper before running checks on either oil or gas.

ACCO Shows Dip In Net Income HOUSTON, Sept. 15—UP—Anderson, Clayton & Co., cotton firm, Tuesday reported a net income of $10,769,306 after taxes for the year ended July 31.

It was a decrease of $3,766,942 from the firm's income of the previous year.

The company said its net sales and operating revenue amounted to $799,904,357 for the period ended July 31, compared with $892,733,355 for the period ended July 31, 1952.

The latest in a series of radio tests for civil defense, but the first one to be publicized, will be made between 1:30 a.m. to 4:30 a.m. Wednesday by both Pampa radio stations, KPDM and KPAT.

The tests will be handled mostly by the stations' two engineers, Garth Osborne for KPDM and Fred Murphree of KPAT. Both stations will change their frequency from regular broadcast to 1240. A telephone line—termed a radio loop—will be connected between the two stations and every other station in the country participating in CONELRAD.

The idea of the test, Coy Palmer of KPDM said, is to coordinate defense facilities in case of an alert or an enemy bombing attack. The stations will be used to tell people what to do. Civil defense teams will take over radio stations during those emergencies. In addition, enemy bombers would become confused in attempting to ride radio beams, because each station would go off and on every 30 seconds, making the planes zig zag and going way off course.

Morse Turns Down Demo Invitations

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—UP—Sen. Wayne Morse said Tuesday he turned down two invitations to the Chicago Democratic rally because he realizes he is "a controversial figure" whose presence would cause a row.

The Oregon Independent, who booted the Republican party last year to support Democratic nominee Adlai E. Stevenson, said he had received invitations to the meeting from Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell and Illinois State Sen. Charles Weber.

Morse told newsmen he telegraphed both men that his "political advisers" had told him his presence would be "inadvisable."

"I am a controversial figure in the eyes of some conservative Democrats," Morse explained, "and my presence would cause feeling among them."

Morse said he wired Mitchell that the Democratic party must develop "maximum unity," and he did not want to disrupt it.

He said Weber had invited him to be his guest at the Midwest rally.

Morse has publicly advocated election of a Democratic Congress in 1954.

His last radio transmission was picked up by Fifth Air Force after he said his fuel supply was running low. Two other crewmen also were aboard.

County Helps Buy State Patrol Radio

Gray County will soon own a one-third interest in another two-way mobile radio unit to be placed in a State Highway Patrol Car. Carson and Wheeler Counties will own the other two-thirds interest. The radio will be placed in the highway patrol car based at McLean.

Last year, the sheriff's department was given an additional radio and it was immediately placed in the highway patrol car operating out of Pampa.

Thus, the two state highway patrol cars operating out of Gray County will each have two radios in them—one on the state band, the other on the band used by the

Model Building To Be On Display At Shamrock Fair

SHAMROCK (Special)—Visitors at the State-Line Free Fair in Shamrock Sept. 17-18-19 will see a scaled model of the First Christian Church building now under construction in Shamrock.

The 16-foot copper-covered spiral atop a six-foot louvered base is now in the framework stage at the site of the full sized model of the new church. Stonework on the sanctuary wing is well underway with the gothic-arched windows and the tapered buttresses rapidly taking shape. The stained glass for the sanctuary windows will be one of the last things installed.

The sanctuary wing will be 70 by 30 feet. The interior walls are of haydite tile, with concrete floors and celotex ceilings with the exception of the sanctuary, which has open beams and wood ceiling finished in a golden oak shade. The educational wing is 100 by 30 feet. The work will be completed in about four to six weeks. The date of dedication has not been set.

At the fair booth where the scaled model is on display the church will have for sale biblical literature for both adults and children.

Sheriff To Seek Food Source For County Prisoners

Sheriff R. H. Jordan doesn't believe in holding "tea parties" for county prisoners, but he does believe in feeding them properly.

The sheriff told this to the county commissioners yesterday afternoon when he asked the court to approve feeding the prisoners meals prepared in the Court House jail kitchen.

Since Johnson's Cafe was burned out this morning, (Monday), he said, "we let our contract place of feeding them. While I don't believe in holding tea parties, I do think they should be fed decently. Under the prisoners cause trouble, break things up in the jail and generally become unruly. We have never had that trouble and I don't want any like that in the future," the sheriff said.

So, the commissioners told the sheriff to use his own judgement in feeding the prisoners until Oct. 1 when the court will decide whether it wants to continue feeding from a local cafe or turn the cooking over to the sheriff's department.

So far, since the fire, the prisoners have been fed from the Court House Cafe.

The sheriff is looking for an increased jail population this winter, basing some of that increase as a result of cases being worked on now. Last winter the average county jail population was 25 to 29 prisoners. One time it ran as high as 40.

Prolific Woman Bears 17th Child

WILLIAMSTON, N. C., Sept. 15.—UP—A 24-year-old woman recently gave birth to her 17th child, a son, at the local hospital. The mother, Mrs. L. L. Llewellyn, said she was born Aug. 19 to Mrs. Viola Rogers Brown.

Reviewing her history of multiple births, she said she gave birth prematurely to quadruplets in February, 1946, when she was 17. In December, 1948, she gave birth to a boy. In July, 1950, quintuplets were born prematurely. Twins were born in April, 1951, and a year later she gave birth to triplets.

The prematurely born quadruplets, quintuplets and the first twins did not live, he said, and Mrs. Brown has six living children.

Her husband, Lonnie Brown Jr., is a Korean war veteran.

Frankie Laine Finds British Bobbysoxers Demonstrative

LONDON, Sept. 15.—UP—Frankie Laine spotted the gray-haired woman as she slithered down the aisle of the Palladium Theater stalking him like a tigress intent on her prey.

In the applause that followed his last song, the ushers apparently did not notice the woman climb the steps to the stage.

"She was just coming at me over the footlights," Frankie said, mopping his brow in remembrance, "when the orchestra struck up 'God Save The Queen.' Thank goodness she was a patriot. She froze to attention standing less than six feet from me."

Wanted Autograph
"Before the end of the anthem we knew what to do and as the curtains closed we grabbed her. Turned out she was just a fan who wanted an autograph."

that is taking a lot of the amusement out of Anglo-American relations. The British used to sneer as they read of American bobbysoxers and wild ovals for crooners.

"Dashed bad show," they used to snort in the fashionable clubs of Pall Mall. "But of course it can't happen here."

Terrifying Experience
Then came Frankie. It has been a terrifying experience for the die-hard and editorial writers.

Frankie agreed to meet some of his fans at the Battersea Park fair grounds. Twenty-seven thousand showed up, including 70-year-old Mrs. Rhoda Fearon. Scotland Yard had to devise a plan for getting Laine into the grounds with all his limbs.

They smuggled him there in an armored truck.

Don't Come on Sunday
Glasgow police asked Frankie not to arrive on Sunday because they couldn't supply enough constables. He had to arrive Monday when a lot of his fans would be working and the crowds easier to control.

In the same city police ordered him not to show himself at the stage door window of the theater because crowds were spilling into the street blocking traffic.

Use Spotter System
At the Palladium his fans set up spotters because the management was sneaking him out of the theater by different exits every night.

"There he is," shrieked a girl assigned to watch an alleyway. The cry raced around the block and soon the thunder of young feet converged on the alley where Frankie was doing some broken field running to his car.

"I always heard those British were quieter than ours," he gasped, "but if anything, they're even more demonstrative. Wow, that was close."

Defense Meeting Stated
COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Sept. 15.—UP—Representatives from 70 cities will meet at Texas A&M College Wednesday and Thursday to plan co-ordination of Texas civil defense activity with that of other states. William L. McGill is state co-ordinator of defense and disaster relief.

Cool Front Seen In Southwest Texas

By UNITED PRESS
A mild cool front headed through the Southwest Tuesday, lowering temperatures slightly but offering no rain because of a dry air mass over all the region except the Rocky Mountains.

Forecasts for the entire Southwest predicted generally fair skies with a few isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers in the higher elevations of Colorado and New Mexico.

A little cooler temperatures were forecast Tuesday and Wednesday for all except east and south central portions of Texas.

The new front, which lay along a line from Denver to Minneapolis Tuesday morning and was progressing southward rapidly, followed the heels of another cool front that still remained stationary across the mid-section of Texas.

High temperatures Monday showed Texas ahead of other states with 102 degrees reported at Dallas, Fort Worth and Wichita Falls. A high of 96 was reported at Roswell, N.M.; 91 at La Junta and Pueblo, Colo., and 87 at Douglas, Wyo.

Beautiful Princess Of Kent Has London Circles Talking

By MARGARET SAVILLE
LONDON, Sept. 15.—UP—Secret discussions are going on in the Royal family about the future of beautiful 16-year-old Princess Alexandra of Kent, who may soon replace Princess Margaret as Britain's No. 1 glamor girl, it was learned Tuesday.

Already society's young men are flocking around the tall, blue-eyed, blonde princess wherever she goes. Older bachelors are delighted with her conversation and fascinating laugh.

Princess Alexandra is the daughter of the beautiful Greek-born Duchess of Kent and the late Duke of Kent. She is a first cousin of Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret and was the favorite grandchild of the late Queen Mary.

Talk of Town
"Sandra" will make her social debut when the court returns to London from Scotland next month. Court circles believe her charm and poise will create a sensation.

They believe she will be the talk of the town in London, just as Princess Margaret, now 23, has been since the marriage of her sister.

Queen Mary left some fine jewels to her and provided sufficient money in her will for the Princess' coming debut.

Queen Must Sanction Plans
Princess Alexandra left school last winter and has been finishing her education at home and traveling abroad with her mother. They are now the Queen's guests at a little shooting lodge, "Alt-Na-Guth."

'Stress And Strain'
CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—UP—The Armour Research Foundation published a report this month quoting a sewing machine expert's views on stress and strains on milady's skin.

"Our goal in every case is to find a seam that gives maximum strength and service. . . . The thread and seam that is suitable for one of Marilyn Monroe's slinky evening gowns wouldn't do at all for one of Esther Williams' bathing suits," the report said.

"The stress and strain would murder it."

Detroit Studies Sales of "Continental" Studebaker

By a WALL STREET JOURNAL Staff Reporter

DETROIT—Studebaker, which was a big factor in setting early-postwar auto styles, may now be setting the pattern for the next few years.

Its 1946 model, designed with lavish use of glass by Raymond Loewy, was the first completely redesigned postwar car. Further major changes until its current 1953's, with these it introduced low, rakish "Continental" styling. Also designed by Loewy, the new model cost $27 million to introduce, double the 1946 cost.

A top Detroit stylist, employed by a rival manufacturer, says that the current more competitive makes than the industry would like to admit, the Studebaker.

MRS. DONALD MOORE

Jerry Slaten Is Bride Of Don Moore In Double-Ring Ceremony At Church

Miss Jerry Slaten and Donald Moore were united in marriage recently at a ceremony held in the Central Baptist Church with Rev. Collins Webb officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Slaten, 929 N. Duncan, and the bridegroom is the son of A. F. Moore, 329 N. Wells. The double-ring service was read before baskets of white gladioli, palms and candelabra.

Miss Joan Robertson sang "In a Love Call" and "Because." She was accompanied by Miss Patricia Stovall at the organ. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin floor-length dress. Her dress featured a lace collar and lace insets on the sleeves. The fitted bodice had tiny satin buttons down the front of the waist. Her veil of illusion edged with lace extended from a small bonnet of lace. The bride carried a white colonial bouquet of carnations centered with an orchid.

Maid of honor was Miss Joyce Pixler. She wore a navy blue faille suit and carried a white carnation bouquet. Miss Jo Ann Pritchard also wore a navy blue faille suit. She carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations.

The bridegroom's brother, Bob Moore, served as best man. Ushers were Dannie Webb, Buddy Epperson and Edward Prince.

Candlelighters were Miss Sue Gill and Dorothy Reneau. A reception followed the change of vows in the home of the bride's parents. Miss Patricia Stovall provided piano music. Assisting in the house party were Mrs. David Shelton at the bride's book. Mrs. Collins Webb attended the punch bowl and Mrs. J. C. Largent served cake.

The bride's mother wore a taupe gray dress with black accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridegroom's grandmother wore a steel blue suit with black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

After a trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the couple will be at home at 414 N. Sloan. The bride chose an olive green two-piece suit with lizard accessories for traveling. She also wore a white orchid corsage. The bride was associated at the

Kit Kat Klub Members Are Honored At Tea In Sheila Chisholm's Home

Kit Kat Klub members were entertained with a tea held recently in the home of Sheila Chisholm. New members were hostesses at the party.

A fall theme was used in decorations. The refreshment table was covered in green and centered with an autumn bouquet of various colored mums. The refreshments included a rose-colored fruit punch, yellow sandwiches, after-dinner mints and cookies.

A candelabra decorated the entertaining room and the program was based around that theme. Each pledge was given a white candle trimmed with blue and silver and took the oath. The ceremony was closed with "The Lord's Prayer."

Participating on a special portion of the program were Misses Alice Seawright, Carolyn Dial, Jiggle Qualls, Janice Baker and Judy Nance, president.

Attending were Misses Joan Rogers, Martha Skelly, Carol Hughes, Carol Henry, Cynthia Cantrell, Anita Wedgeworth, Sheila Chisholm, Dixie Sue Rhodes, Jerry Hills, Alice Seawright, Carolyn Dial, Patsy Darby, Betty Osborne, Jiggle Qualls, Christine Pierce, Adelaide Skelly, Janice Baker, Gladys Dudley, Judy Nance, Janice McWhirt, Su Stone, June Montgomery, Claudette Matheny and Mrs. Jake Osborne, club sponsor.

After the dinner the class was entertained by motion pictures and colored slides of vacationers. E. M. Keller showed pictures taken while he and Mrs. Keller were in Europe this summer. Herman Whatley showed colored slides of a trip to the East Coast.

Present were Mmes. H. T. Thornhill, Earl Eaton, Bess Brazil, Mabel Teague, J. R. Moss; Messrs. Ernest Edwards, W. W. Estes, Hugh Ellis, O. V. Batson, C. E. Forrester and children, W. R. Dunn, G. L. Mother Charged In Shooting Of Driver

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Sept. 15 — UP — An attractive young mother Tuesday was charged with murdering a former New York racing car driver, found dying outside the woman's apartment.

Mrs. Rita C. Myers, 34, was charged in the death of John West Ranstead, formerly of Ozone, N.Y., whose body lay at her door while she sat a few feet away, calmly eating grapes.

Mrs. Myers said she was separated from her Navy lieutenant husband, W. A. Myers, now stationed at Norfolk, Va., and was living alone. She said her three children were either in school or with relatives.

The shapely brunette told Justice of the Peace W. A. Gilleland, who investigated the shooting, that she was scared because Ranstead, who was known as "Cowboy Ranstead" when he used to drive racing cars, tried to break down her door.

Ranstead had lived in Corpus Christi several years, and his wife teaches school at Robstown, Tex.

Officers said Mrs. Myers admitted she had been seeing the racing car driver lately. She said she saw Ranstead coming toward her door and was afraid of what he might do.

JOHNSON IN HOLLYWOOD

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Bouncing Betty Hutton, who has bounced back into the spotlight "Doing What I Was Born to Do" with the greatest one-woman act ever seen in show business, blamed Hollywood today for keeping her "out of touch with the people."

Wringing wet after an hour of singing, yelling, clowning and hoofing at the Desert Inn to the greatest applause I've ever heard in a night club, Betty grabbed a towel, tightened the belt of a terry cloth robe and said:

"After 12 years in front of Hollywood's cameras I was out of touch with the people. You lose greatness on the screen by not appearing before live audiences."

"I lost everything while I was at Paramount. I didn't know it was happening but I'll never let it happen again."

The way Betty jams every ounce of her energy into her performance, it's no wonder she collapsed from a combination of the heat and physical exhaustion and is in the medico's hands. She really "gives her all."

Warming up for a Sophie Tucker filmography since leaving Paramount a year and a half ago, Betty has been an "In Person" star at theaters in San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, New York, London, and the GI's in Korea.

But it wasn't until Betty opened at the Desert Inn here that she joined The Tuckers, the Johnsons and the Cantors with an act to remember in the show world's hall of fame.

"I needed those shows in Frisco and Portland and Seattle," Betty told me. "I was rusty, out of touch."

"Now I know why my first boss in Hollywood, Buddy DeSylva, made me break in all my songs at the Hollywood Canteen. They were great and I was great because they were audience-tested. It's something Hollywood has forgotten."

The Hutton-tot screaming out "Murder He Says" and "You Can't Get a Man With a Gun" is expected. But when she sings a love song like "They Say" and closes with a tear-stinging "I Believe," the roof collapses.

Others Burned
Along with Betty, other movie stars whose talents reportedly were burned out in celluloid are proving that Hollywood can be wrong.

Red Skelton, at the Sahara, doesn't have a night club act. He's just Red — falling down, making faces, laughing at himself and throwing off quips.

But that's enough for the customers. His gaudy, glib routine hasn't changed in 15 years and by now it's a classic.

A few months ago Red told me he'd never play a night club — "I'm just not a saloon comedian."

Then Las Vegas phoned and "At what they're paying me I'd play a club," he grinned.

With SRO signs for the regular Sahara shows, Red sees to it that all the customers are happy by howling it up around the gaming tables in the casino.

To a tourist:
"If you were a little paler you'd look like one of the owners."

To an aged couple:
"I bet you're celebrating your Golden Divorce." To a group counting their money: "You shouldn't have brought it with you because you're not taking it home."

Power Of TV
The power of TV has brought Milton Berle, Gale Storm, Herb Shriner and, next month, Red Buttons to the plush Las Vegas hotels. But it wasn't in the role of Little Margie that Gale launched a storm of calls for tables at the Thunderbird after the word got around.

She steps right out of character and into a sparkling special material singing routine. "I'm an Old-Fashioned Girl," tells of her career in the movies, of operas to westerns, and then it's: "They can have their Cinerama. And ignore this third dimension. Television is here to stay."

A delightful surprise on the same show with Skelton is 16-year-old Anna Maria Albergheiti, who leaps from grand opera to an oompy "Your Cheatin' Heart."

Anna Maria's option at Paramount bounced when the studio switched affections to Rosemary Clooney as its star — but there's still stardust — and plenty of it — in Anna Maria's hair.

Spike Jones, introducing one of his mad musicians for a solo at the Flamingo:
"He worked with Horace Heidt until he turned professional."

Doctor Says DDT Content In Humans A Cause For Concern

By DELOS SMITH
NEW YORK, Sept. 15 — UP — A New York physician subjected samples of fatty tissue taken from 25 New Yorkers who had never handled DDT, except perhaps momentarily, to chemical analysis and found DDT in 23.
This caused the physician, Dr. W. Coda Martin, to ask fellow practitioners Monday night — "What will happen to the entire population in 10 to 15 years from now?"

Addressing the New York chapter of the American Academy of Nutrition, Martin said his patients had accumulated DDT in their bodies from DDT insecticides.

He said that because the chlorinated hydrocarbons — of which DDT is one — are known to be accumulative in animal and human fats it is essential that further studies be made of the chronic toxic effects on the human in order to protect the future health of the nation.

He cited medical and other scientific authority for the following:

1. "One-tenth part per million of DDT in the diet of the rat leads to storage of about 10 to 15 parts per million of DDT in the fatty tissue of the test animal."

2. "x x x x x a minimum of five parts per million of DDT produces definite pathological (disease-causing) changes in the liver of test animals."

3. Rats fed DDT in small amounts from four to six months, stored DDT in their bodies "at a level which is six to 28 times the dietary intake. These rats showed liver cell damage."

4. "Chronic poisoning (from chlorinated hydrocarbons) produces severe degenerative changes in the liver, the most severely damaged of the vital organs. Degenerative changes are also found in the proximal convoluted tubules of the kidney. Although DDT produces serious morphologic (structural) changes in virtually every organ of the body, its most disturbing effects are those of the nervous system."

What Will Happen?
Martin said laboratory analysis showed the DDT level in the 23 out of 25 human fatty tissue samples examined ranged from one part per million to 11 parts per million. "Seven or 28 per cent of the positive samples had five parts per million or more," he said. "The average for all the samples was 3.5 per million. Age and sex seemed to have little influence on the amount of DDT accumulated in the tissue. X X X"

"In the face of all these devastating facts, DDT and other newer and more toxic insecticides are being used each year in greater and greater quantities on our food."

Laws We're For

One politician recently told us: "If somebody asked me what kind of government you stand for, I'd have to say you stand for anarchy. It seems like every time some new law comes up, you're against it. If you're not for anarchy, what laws are you for?"

We told him: "We're for a Constitutional Republic which is set up for the purpose of protecting men's freedom."

"That sounds good, but what specific laws do you believe in?"

We answered: "We believe in all laws which protect human rights. We define those rights in the same way as the Declaration of Independence: Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

This would include the entire penal code which justly punishes crime. It would include traffic regulations. It would include all laws which punish the initiation of force or fraud. It would include the yellow line down the middle of the street, for a man who drives on the wrong side of the street is in the act of initiating force against someone else.

We believe in public nuisance laws. If a man plays his radio too loud at night and disturbs his neighbors, if his dog barks too much, if he throws wild parties, if he does anything which disturbs his neighbors through sound, smell, smoke or force, the neighbor should have the right to sign a complaint against this nuisance.

If a man piles garbage in his back yard instead of arranging to have it hauled away, and the garbage smells, or attracts flies, then it is a nuisance and the court should order the man to cease and desist throwing garbage in his back yard.

These are some of the laws we're for.

Where do we draw the line between good and bad laws? It's really simple. A bad law poaches on personal responsibility and tries to do for a man what he should do for himself. This includes the whole realm of laws which attempt to force men to do good unto others.

There's a vast difference between a law which tells a man that he can't drive on the left side of the street, and a law which tells a man that he must give part of his money to a stranger.

Laws which protect all men's rights equally are good laws. Laws which take from Joe to give to Jim, or in any way rob Peter to pay Paul, are contrary to the idea that men have rights, for every time such a law operates, it violates somebody's rights.

A policeman, when he sticks to his duties, hurts nobody. He does not even hurt the criminal when he is stopped or his lot taken away from him. A man is not really hurt unless his inalienable rights like life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are interfered with.

A tax-supported social worker cannot perform his duties without hurting many good people who are forced to support the social worker and his job whether they like it or not.

We're for laws which leave men free to work by protecting their right to life. We're against laws that interfere with a man's productive energy by telling him that "society has a prior claim on his energy." We're for setting men free of other men.

Washington 'News'

Society scribes writing from the Nation's Capital have been having a field day of late reporting on the momentous changes taking place in Washington society as a result of the changing of the guard.

The problems are portentous and varied: Who will emerge as the Capital's No. 1 hostess? What to do about the husbands of important officials? How to keep up with the Joneses who throw $20,000 cocktail parties? Are all the newcomers really worth cultivating, or will they be returning home so soon it doesn't matter?

According to the reporters, those questions are of great significance because Washington society is an "invisible government" far more powerful than the surface government of elected officials. Nothing is more important, it is said, than regular bids to the right parties, because the real deals are made in the course of conversation over the cocktails.

It's a pleasant fiction, but we doubt if it's true. People in Washington are just like people everywhere else. And everywhere else, it is true, wonderful deals are transacted at cocktail parties. But nobody remembers them the next day.

Down The Drain

Do you wonder what happens to all the money the government takes from you and other taxpayers?

A little is spent usefully. But a lot is wasted. For instance, a State Department employee recently told a House committee that in more than a year of being on the payroll at $9,600 per annum, he'd never been given a specific job to do. He didn't even know what the branch of the Department he was working for was supposed to accomplish.

What excuse can be offered for this kind of waste?

"The Physician's Responsibility As A Leader"

I want to continue to quote from an address made by Dr. Lewis Albert Aleson, reproduced in his book "The Physician's Responsibility As A Leader," and published by The Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho. The price of this booklet is 75 cents.

Under the sub-heading of "Responsibility to Self" the doctor observes:

"First and foremost in a consideration of responsibility arises the question: responsibility to whom? Strange as this may seem, the physician's first responsibility is to himself. In order to respect himself and to feel sufficiently secure to lead others, the physician must have a reasonable working hypothesis concerning his position in the universe. He must believe that there is reasonable justification for his existence and that there is a purpose and a plan for human life, however vague at times that plan may seem.

"In order that the men and women of medicine may have a sane, constructive philosophy to aid them in treatment of those mentally and physically ill, it behooves them to refresh that philosophy from time to time by a glance at the fundamentals.

"One of the great philosophers of all times, whose life and teachings were very similar to those of the Great Physician, was Socrates, who died in 399 B.C. To Socrates there were just three important things in this world — justice, beauty, and truth. He believed and taught that the ultimate happiness of mankind would be found in the search for and appreciation of the eternal verities.

"To Socrates justice was not simply an abstract concept. It was a living, vital embodiment of the best in man and the society in which he lived. Socrates believed that the just society was a society composed of just men. Thus a society composed of such individuals also would function harmoniously and efficiently. Each individual would recognize his own particular talents and would wish to use them for the benefit of all in order that he might profit most.

When Socrates came to drink the poison hemlock, condemned to death because he had taught the Athenian youth to think and to ask too many questions about the status quo, he approached the ordeal with pleasure, for he said he looked upon the entrance into the future life as a thrilling adventure.

"To summarize the wisdom of Socrates, no harm can come to the just man either during life or after death.

"If the physician will put himself or a member of his family in the place of the patient receiving care and will treat the patient accordingly, there will be little doubt about the right of the physician to a position of leadership in his community. This, of course, is the Golden Rule, for which there has not yet been developed a satisfactory substitute."

No wonder I want to quote from this book because that is what this column has been preaching in season and out. But too many of our men professing to be a friend of man are denying by their acts that the Golden Rule should govern when they are acting collectively. They are not enough concerned that they believe that it is not a good guide for an individual, but they deny that it is a good guide for the group.

Responsibility As A Citizen

Then under the heading of "Responsibility As A Citizen," the doctor observes:

"It is the physician's responsibility and opportunity as a citizen that I should like most to stress. By nature and training, most physicians would prefer to have nothing to do with politics but rather to practice their art and science and perhaps spend their leisure time in pursuit of some interesting hobby. Forced into politics through the sheer necessity of defending himself, the physician and his organizations have given an excellent account of themselves in one particular field — that of the threat of socialist medicine. It has for the moment, and for the moment only, been to a limited extent contained.

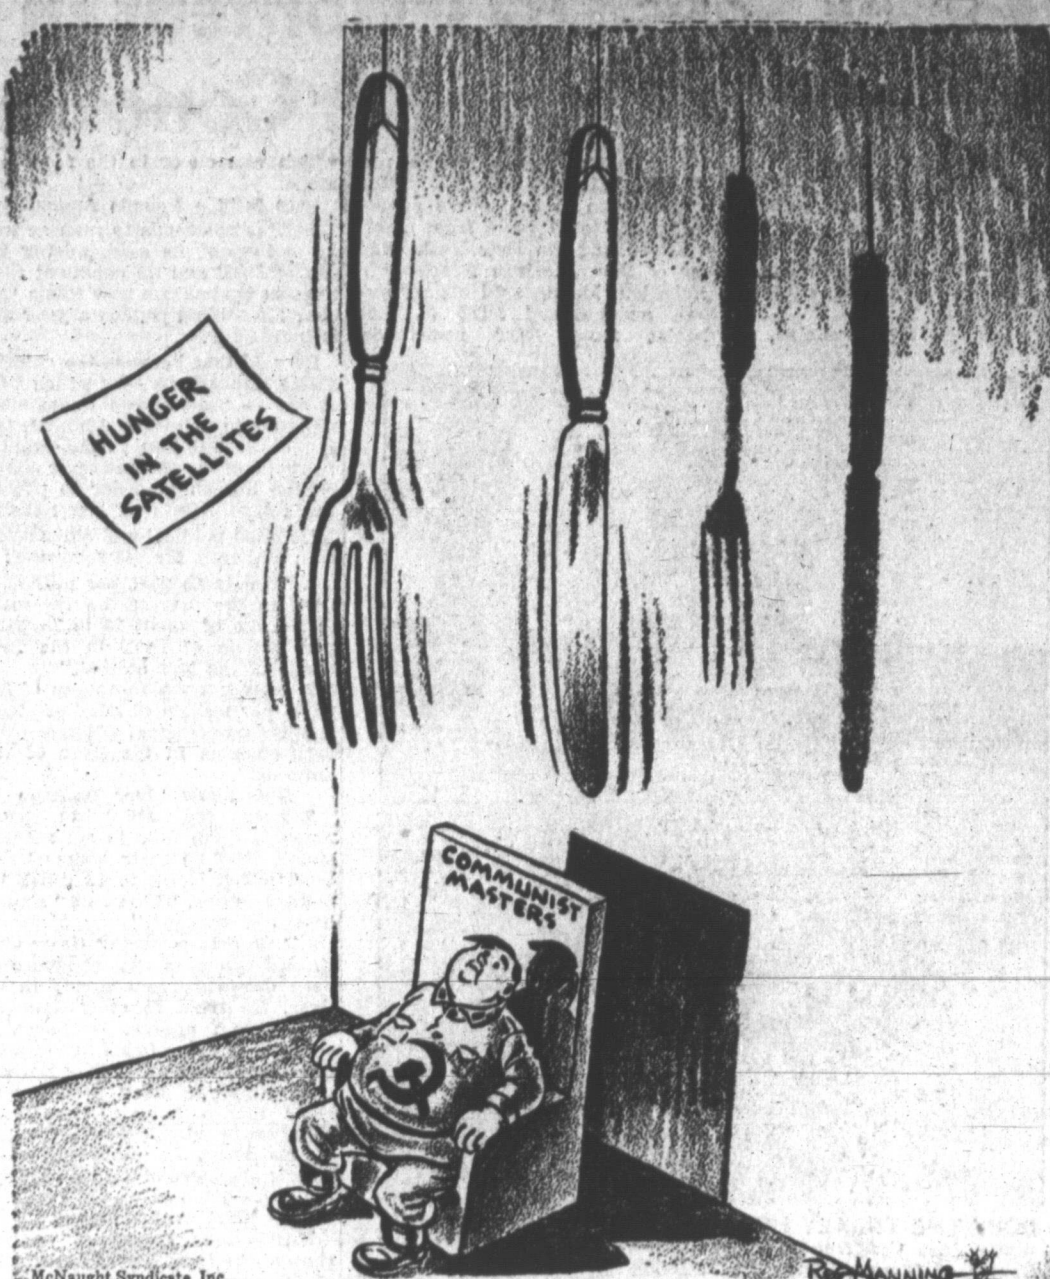

"Since socialized medicine or compulsory health insurance is but one comparatively minor phase of the broad program of the regimented or totalitarian state, the physician would do well to direct his talents and energies toward an analysis of our economic and social system and an exertion of his influence toward the preservation of its fundamental principles against those who would destroy it.

Biology Analogy

Under part II of his book entitled "The Biology Analogy," the doctor sets forth the following: "The student biologist directs his attention first to an understanding of Nature's fundamental unit, the single plant or animal cell. The fundamental life processes of assimilation and metabolism of food, discharge of waste products, growth and senescence, are essentially the same in the single-celled swamp paramecium and the multi-billion-celled mastodon. Out of 800,000,000 years of geologic history, the record of which has been written in the rocks and read and confirmed time and again by unimpeachable evidence, the biologist has sought and found in the almost innumerable manifestations of natural law certain basic and immutable precepts which Nature seems to follow without exception.

"From these observations three cardinal principles are discerned upon which Nature erects her plan of development of all plant and animal life, from the simplest to the most complex: 1—Individual

National Whirligig... Ike Facing Important Decision Of Naming High Court Justice

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The "Eisenhower luck" holds again in that no other President has had so many excellent choices for filling a vacancy on such an extremely critical moment in domestic and international affairs. But the very number and variety of possibilities embarrass selection may determine what kind of a majority will prevail in years when so many fundamental legal and constitutional questions will be brought under judicial scrutiny.

They include such issues as federal ownership of offshore land, school segregation, Communists and civil liberties, the extent and supremacy of executive agreement, government control over natural resources and individual property rights.

POWER OF A CHIEF JUSTICE—The Chief Justice, if he happens to be a man with the forceful personality and legal acumen of a Charles Evans Hughes, is more than just a single vote among the nine jurists. By his arguments in closed sessions, he can frequently sway one of more of his colleagues, like the chairman of a congressional committee.

This factor carries special weight at this moment because two jurists—Justice Clark and Minton—have not yet found themselves. Although Truman appointees, they have alternated between the two now evenly divided factions in such a manner that they can not be classified as liberal or conservative. Thus, the new Chief Justice will exert far more influence than he would under more normal circumstances. In making his choice, Eisenhower will also stand in judgment before the public, the politicians and the business interests which supported him so solidly last November. He is still suspected among Republican stalwarts as being too New Dealish in many respects.

Should he name a broad constitutionalist with an attachment to Roosevelt-Truman principles and philosophy of government, their current fears and conclusions would be confirmed.

WARREN AND DEWEY — Oddly, the two men most frequently mentioned as prospects—Gov. Earl Warren of California and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York—are listed in the ultraliberal category. The

The other is Justice Robert H. Jackson of New York, and a third is Justice John J. Parker of the Fourth Judicial District. All are tops.

OBJECTIONS TO DULLES — John Foster Dulles qualifies for his legal background, but several objections have been raised against him. He is 65, only five years below the possible age of retirement. Moreover, his shift from State would be interpreted as evidence that Eisenhower was dissatisfied with his performance there. And that would be a reflection on Ike's own foreign policy.

OUR TOURISTS SAW IT IN FRANCE

The Tulsa Tribune

Some tens of thousands of American tourists were caught in the Communist traffic jam in France. Let us hope that they return to tell us what they saw. How it feels to be without any means of transportation, no trains, no buses, no taxis. No means of communication, no telephones, telegraph. The postal service paralyzed. All the fruits of thousands of years of progressive civilization pitched overboard to compel the people to be subservient to the Communists who are in control.

These American sight-seers read into a demonstration of what the Communists will do to us if we let them. It is their purpose to overthrow our government as they have overthrown governments abroad. Curious Americans have been going abroad to see what other peoples have done to their governments, or to see what other governments have done to the people.

The social, political and economic lessons that have confronted them on their sight-seeing tours do not seem to have had the slightest effect on their minds. The average American tourist travels with blinders.

In the European countries there is a trend toward government monopoly over the habitations of the people. The trend is toward the "heavenly system" which has been introduced in this development under the Marshall Plan.

Morton Bodfish, an authority on such matters, recently made a report to the Senate Appropriations Committee in which he said that the Coal Industry Union "is a project at Dortmund merely because the union organized a corporation to hold the title and manage the actual construction and operating administration."

"All the houses planned for this development are of good design," he wrote, and the standard is luxurious. "A washing machine is provided in each kitchen, along with an electric stove in a coal mining area where fuel is not a problem."

"It is the miners' union which will be providing this great benefit in the eyes of the people," Mr. Bodfish wrote.

"This," Mr. Bodfish says, "is entirely contrary to the spirit of self-help and makes no contribution to large ownership. The building of a large apartment project in Vienna, owned and operated by the municipality is a shocking example of an arrangement of which the American people would undoubtedly be most critical. Not only is permanent public ownership financed by MSA funds, but the repayment is stretched out over 100 years with a 1 per cent rate of interest."

Fair Enough... Unions Get Credit For Homes Paid For With U.S. Tax Dollars

By WESTBROOK PEGLER (Copyright, 1953, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The Press-agent for David Dubinsky's Communist political agent

In Europe have been strangely demure since the great strikes in France and the attendant anti-American outcry, which prove beyond doubt that the dew is off the nose and that President Eisenhower booted one in expressing confidence in this inveterate Red. I refer, of course, to Irving Brown, the vicarious hero of the barricades, who belongs to the Loveston of anti-Kremlin, phase of world Communism.

Mr. Brown's devotees have insisted for two years that his finger in the dike was all that was holding back the crimson tide. But for Brown, the Muscovites would seize the whole labor movement of France, Belgium, Holland and Italy.

Our juvenile Central Intelligence Agency threw in with this queer scheme whereby Dubinsky, the employer of Jay Lovestone, who is Brown's political mentor and director, stood to become a sort of absentee political emperor of an anti-Kremlin domain this side of the Iron Curtain. Much of our taxes and of Dubinsky's revenues from his by no means overdone needlework has been spent on behalf of Brown's schemes. The CIA and Dubinsky both have insisted that we have no right to know how much they have spent even though Brown admittedly was against the American government.

To round out your comprehension I must add that the press-agents of this weird thing invariably insist that Brown repudiated his old beliefs but without citing chapter and verse. When I asked him he wouldn't open his mouth.

The Marshall Plan housing programs have been no part of Brown's work, but I think we should understand the fact that the unions in Europe have managed to receive credit for the construction for many dwellings paid for by American taxpayers through our taxes. The Brown publicity program has praised these unions and dwelt happily on the fact that in Germany the unions have been given an "equal" voice with the owners in the management of industry. Actually the union's power is greater than that of the owners and the result is that the unions control the properties created by the investments of the owners.

The final form of this development is yet to be seen. Many union leaders are now working to introduce the same process here. In fact, a start has been made, as, for example, where a company must transport all its employees and their families and furniture from Massachusetts to North Carolina because the company decided that North Carolina offers certain advantages. The fact that the agency which makes the decree is a government body does not dilute the fact that the union here can overrule the management in a major decision.

The sovereign State of North Carolina seems to have been ignored altogether. In the European countries there is a trend toward government monopoly over the habitations of the people. The trend is toward the "heavenly system" which has been introduced in this development under the Marshall Plan.

Morton Bodfish, an authority on such matters, recently made a report to the Senate Appropriations Committee in which he said that the Coal Industry Union "is a project at Dortmund merely because the union organized a corporation to hold the title and manage the actual construction and operating administration."

"All the houses planned for this development are of good design," he wrote, and the standard is luxurious. "A washing machine is provided in each kitchen, along with an electric stove in a coal mining area where fuel is not a problem."

Not only is permanent public ownership financed by MSA funds, but the repayment is stretched out over 100 years with a 1 per cent rate of interest."

In Germany, Austria and France Mr. Bodfish discovered that the municipal officials and professional union bosses have manipulated matters so cleverly that the people feel grateful to the city politicians and the unions although the American taxpayer furnished most of the money.

Brown's mission has never been publicly stated but in general terms it is to build up powerful political parties controlled by the unions which thus would control the countries. To this end, unknown amounts of our taxes have been handed to Brown by the CIA without the slightest pretense of public accounting.

FATIGUE FURY VERSUS FACTS!

A carefully — documented report has just been released (August 24, 1953) by the Internal Security Subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee. It is a report on the extent of Communist infiltration into our government, complete with names, positions held, their testimony under oath, and what has happened to them since.

This report is MUST reading for all American citizens, particularly for those self-proclaimed "liberals" and "intellectuals" who spend their entire time and energy denouncing Congressional investigations and "McCarthyism," as well as arguing the nonsense that America is now living in a "climate of fear" under "a reign of terror."

It should also be MUST reading for all responsible government officials in the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, for this report is a devastating indictment of their treatment of the Communist menace when they were in power. Now that ex-President Truman plans to do considerable writing, it is devoutly hoped that he will acknowledge and explain his role in this report. It would be salutary, if Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, in her widely-circulated newspaper column, would cease star-gazing and day-dreaming long enough to concern herself with the realities of this report.

It should be emphasized that this is a UNANIMOUS report, endorsed and signed by the entire committee of Democrats and Republicans, — so it cannot possibly be dismissed as "McCarthyism." In fact this sober report knocks into a cocked hat all the arguments of our "liberals" and "intellectuals" are so furiously employing these days.

For example, it demolishes those favorite cliches that "nobody understood the Communist conspiracy in those days," that all these current exposures are "gross misstatements," "Congressional investigations are unnecessary," that they just "publicize a lot of old material," and that the "FBI alone is qualified to deal with our national security."

For this report clearly reveals that the FBI long ago uncovered, compiled, and fully reported its findings to the proper authorities its great knowledge of the Communist conspiracy in our midst, and that it named names, — but that despite these clear and continuing warnings by the FBI to both the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, — no attention whatsoever was paid to them. On the contrary, those persons who were named by the FBI as Communists, were not only retained, but were defended, lauded, and promoted to even more important positions — year after year.

To quote the report directly: "The Federal Bureau of Investigation cannot expose and cannot force action once it has reported the results of its investigation. . . . The breakdown in the loyalty machinery, encountered in this series of hearings, was basically not in the detection of evidence. Primarily, the breakdown came in the failure on the part of the responsible executive agencies to act on the information which was available."

Furthermore, this record shows conclusively, that it was not until Congressional Committees brought these facts out into the open, and exposed this ignored conspiracy to the American people, — that anything was done about it.

This is an indictment of the Roosevelt and Truman Administrations which those responsible should not be allowed to brush off or ignore with silence — as if it never happened or mattered. It is a moot question which is more culpable for the terrible price we have all paid, — the warped and dedicated conspirators themselves, — or those American officials who aided and abetted them, by ignoring the evidence, pooh-poohing it as facts, and thus allowing them to continue their subversion year after year? These officials who were wholly responsible for the security of the United States, and for protecting this nation from all its enemies both foreign and domestic. They voluntarily chose to ignore their own official FBI reports, and to retain and promote in government positions persons of persons about whom they had derogatory information — is something these officials themselves should be called upon to explain to the American people.

Senator Gable — And now, gentlemen, I should like to challenge you thought and take your memory. Colleague — Say, why haven't you thought of that before?

revolted against this piracy. Its tyranny. They wouldn't stand for this European monarchy stuff. And a great George Washington led them in revolt.

These forefathers of ours would have nothing to do with monarchy. They would accept no tyranny over the people. They were not going to be ruled by one ruler or by a group of rulers who collectively became king under another name.

Grid Fever High As Quarterback Club Holds First Meeting Of 1953 Season

THERE WAS LOTS OF football fever last night at the Quarterback Club meeting at the Sam Houston Auditorium.

The initial meeting of the club attracted some two or three hundred fans—all of whom are raring for the season opener which, of course, is Friday night.

The Grid fans got the low down on all schoolboy teams of the city, the Harvester, Guerrillas and Reapers, from the coaches of the respective teams.

On hand for the first Quarterback confab was the Oiler manager, Porky Pawelek. Porky says he will likely return to Chicago Heights in the next couple days as his job commitments for the winter here seemed to have fallen through.

We might put in right here that all grid fans of the city who would like to join the QB club are cordially invited to come out each Monday night at the Sam Houston Auditorium. The dues are only $2.50 and you get more than your money's worth in just seeing the movies that will be shown at each meeting.

Then you get first hand what the coaches think about their team and their upcoming opponents.

The QB Club has set a goal of 500 members. That shouldn't be too difficult to obtain.

DISSEMINATION OF SOME KIND OR OTHER is going on between the San Angelo ball club and its fans.

Only 572 fans turned out for the first game of the San Angelo-Midland playoff series at San Angelo last night and 762 returned for the second game the next night at the same place. That probably sets an all-time low for a playoff game, regardless of the classification of league.

And those figures are almost unbelievable when you consider that San Angelo has been leading the Longhorn League in attendance the past three years. On a couple of occasions San Angelo has gone over the 100,000 mark in attendance.

While the Colts haven't been drawing as well this year as they have in the past, they probably won't see the attendance prize again this year although the final official figures aren't in.

Then, why the cause of the sudden drop in attendance in the current playoffs? Disillusion is more or less getting the blame.

It seems that San Angelo, who has been leading the race most of the season this year, "blew" their league lead by losing their last four games which enabled Carlsbad to move in to the top rung at the season's end.

San Angelo club officials sought a few weeks back to propose an all-Texas and All-New Mexico series for the opening round of the playoffs to cut down on travel and expense. That was where the trouble started, it is believed.

San Angelo fans wanted a straightaway pennant winner but the Colts, by losing their last four games, dropped into second place and made their wish come true of having proposed all-Texas and all-New Mexico series. That put them against Midland in the opening round while Carlsbad and Artesia met in the other first round series.

At any rate, a lot of Colt fans apparently suspicious the San Angelo club of deliberately letting down on those last four games to lay out their own playoff designs. It didn't go over with the Colt fans as the low attendance figures will attest.

The series, incidentally, returns to San Angelo tonight. The Colts are backing the series, 3-2. Maybe the Colt fans have cooled off by now. But if they haven't, then it's going to be mighty embarrassing to be playing before a handful of fans for such important games.

Redlegs Recall 9 Minor Leaguers

CINCINNATI, Sept. 15—UP—Gabe Paul, general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs, said Tuesday he was backing the series, 3-2. Maybe the Colt fans have cooled off by now. But if they haven't, then it's going to be mighty embarrassing to be playing before a handful of fans for such important games.

Paul said outfielder Wally Post is returning from Indianapolis, and shortstop Alex Grammas from Kansas City in the American Association, and that pitcher Niles Jordan is coming back from Rochester and catcher Dick Kinman from Syracuse in the International League.

He said pitchers Howie Judson and Cliff Boss, and first baseman and outfielder Nino Escalera are returning from Tulsa in the Texas League. Pitchers Barney Martin and Maurice Fisher will return from Columbia in the Class A Sally League.

Judson won 11 games without a defeat in the Texas League, before the playoffs.

Colorado Springs Is Western Champ

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 14—UP—Colorado Springs is celebrating its first western league pennant since joining the league four years ago. The Sky Sox, playing strong in the clutch all season, ended the 1953 race Sunday with a 10 to 7 victory over Lincoln to take the flag by one game from second-place Denver, the defending champion.

Opening games last weekend showed the standout teams of 1952 generally were off to a fast start again this season.

Yokum's Bulldogs started off well, beating South San Antonio 14 to 6, and play San Marcos Academy at home Friday night.

Stamford, one of last year's semifinalists, won its opening game with ease, beating Haskell 58 to 0. The other semifinalist, Huntsville, which lost to Yokum last year in the southern division, did not play.

Only one of the four other 1952 quarterfinalists was beaten — Stephenville — and that loss was to Class AAA Brownwood 48 to 12.

Three others, Childress, Killeen and LaMarque all won. Childress beat Phillips 25 to 6. Killeen edged Belton 7 to 2 and LaMarque bested Vidor 20 to 0.

Pampa Schoolboys Set For Openers

The 1953 football season in Pampa will get off to a rousing start this weekend with all three of the schoolboy teams, the Harvester, Guerrillas and Reapers opening their season schedule.

The feature game, of course, is the Pampa Harvester-Austin High of El Paso game at Harvester Park Friday night. The other two games will also be at Harvester Park. The Reapers take on Lefors Thursday afternoon at 3:30 while the Guerrillas host the Canadian Wildcats that night at 8.

Coaches Tom Tipps and Aubra Nooncaster of the Harvester, appeared before the Quarterback Club last night and gave a rundown on the Harvester prospects and scout reports on two of the future Harvester opponents, Abilene and Odessa.

Tipps was on hand at the Odessa-Fort Arthur game Friday night which ended in a 15-13 tie and Nooncaster, along with Reaper coach, Marvin Bowman, witnessed Abilene's 28-13 win over Highland Park, also Friday night.

The Broncos possibly have the best passer in the state in Carl Schlameyer, Tipps said. "Schlameyer was out most of last year with a broken collar bone but he didn't show any signs of it the other night," Tipps said.

"Odessa has a fine backfield but is not too strong in the line," Tipps continued. "It was just the opposite last year."

Nooncaster, speaking of Abilene, said the Eagles have a fine running back in the person of Jimmy Miller. "Miller returned one punt 60 yards for a TD and returned another one 40 yards before being tackled," Nooncaster said.

"For a team to be playing under a new coach and a new system, Abilene showed up exceptionally well Friday night. Their timing was perfect and they weren't off side a single time during the game," Nooncaster added.

It all added up that not only Lubbock will be tough, the Eagles and Broncos are to be considered before any titles are to be passed on.

Tipps gave a complete rundown on the Harvester prospects. "We lack depth in our backfield," Tipps said. "If one of our five letterman backs gets hurt, we will be hard pressed for a replacement," Tipps remarked.

"In the line, we have only one returning regular (guard Alton Flynn)," Tipps went on. "But I'll probably have a letterman for each of the line positions. Our returning lettermen in the line are Bobby Holder, Travis Taylor and James Jordan, ends; Bob Prigmore, Chick Pippard and Ronnie Elliott, tackles; Flynn, guard; and James Hawkins, center. Elliott is being shifted to guard this season."

The letterman backs are quarterback J. N. Wright; halfbacks Ed Dudley and John Darby; and fullbacks Harold Lewis and Bobby Wilhelm.

Talks also were heard by the Guerrilla coaches, Weldon Trice and Orville Lewis, and Reaper coaches, Marvin Bowman and Deck Woldt.

On defense, it's just a bit more. This is quite a difference from last year when the Panthers relied on weight and power. The light squad this season indicates they'll have to rely more on speed and deception.

Here's how the Panthers will line up:

Offense:

Dick Seagney, 170, and Russell Deter, 165, at end; Jack Mann, 180, and Jim Brooks, 170, at tackle; Paul Bridges, 160, and Jack Wynn, 170, at guard; Frank Mena, 150, at center; Dave Bourland, 165, at quarterback; Whitney Dominguez, 155, at left half; Bobby Elber, 162, at right half; Jim Blackmon, 177, at fullback.

Defense:

Joe Rogers, 160, and Deter at end; Jim Wiggs, 204, and Bishop Bailey, 180, at tackle; Reggie Ponsford, 155, and David Green, 165, at guard; and Dominguez Elber, Blackmon, Bourland and Everett Putney, 155, in the backfield or linebacking. Putney will play safety.

The OUI president threatened to place a statement on the action of straying students in their records if they don't confess before Friday. He said the statement would be attached to their transcript where it can be viewed by prospective employers.

The wife hoax is the latest in a series of dodges Oklahomaans have employed in an effort to get tickets to the Oklahoma - Notre Dame game, a sellout for almost a month. Earlier, some Oklahomaans were warned against trying to enroll as students to obtain tickets.

A statement by General Motors that it had received permission to televise the game regionally only partially abated the ticket hassle.

Vernon Has Big Lead

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15—UP—Mickey Vernon of the Senators now has a 10 point lead over Al Rosen of the Indians in the race for the American League batting championship. Vernon collected two hits in three trips against the Tigers Monday night to boost his average to .339. Rosen had one hit in two at-bats against the Yankees to lift his mark to .329.

Dukes Win 3rd It's Official Now--Yankees Vs. Dodgers In World Series

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—UP—The Yankees Tuesday ruled 7 to 5 favorites to win the World Series—exactly the same price they were quoted a year ago—but triumphantly Casey Stengel hinted "we should beat Brooklyn easier this time."

Outwardly unimpressed by the fact that he became the first manager in history to win five straight pennants after the Yankees eliminated the Indians, 8 to 5, Monday, Stengel immediately turned his attention to the Dodgers.

"There's a fellow that pitched in and out of turn," the grey-haired 63-year-old pilot observed. "He pitched relief for me without a ball club—and if we keep going the same way as we have been, we should beat Brooklyn in the Series."

Pitching Doesn't Worry Casey

"We might not even have it so tough as we did last year. Our outfield and infield are strong and our pitching may worry some people, but it doesn't worry me."

Stengel refused to single out any one key player in the Yankee success but he dwelt a long time on the fine job turned in by Allie Reynolds.

"There's a fellow that pitched in and out of turn," the grey-haired 63-year-old pilot observed. "He pitched relief for me without a ball club—and if we keep going the same way as we have been, we should beat Brooklyn in the Series."

Stengel, who reached the pinnacle of a career that began in Kankakee, Ill., 43 years ago when the Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 5, Monday, insisted in his hour of glory he share the credit with his players, co-owners Dan Topping and Del Webb and the club's staff.

Thanks Everyone

"I couldn't be standing here today as the first manager ever to have won five straight except for the cooperation I've received from the front office, my players and everybody in the organization," Stengel said. "My congratulations and my thanks go to everyone down to the bat boy."

Relaxing after the historic victory, Stengel insisted he had made repeated mistakes during the last five years although during them he attained recognition as one of the most skillful managers in the game's history.

"I made plenty of mistakes," he said simply. "My players won for me and made me a great manager."

Reynolds May Pitch in '54

Topping, Webb and General Manager George Weiss accepted as fact that Stengel would return next year. Webb, in fact, made a bet line for Allie Reynolds' looker immediately after the triumph in an attempt to talk the great clutch pitcher into remaining with the Yankees.

Casey To Return In '54 To Seek 6th Straight Pennant

By FRED DOWN

NEW YORK, Sept. 15—UP—Manager Casey Stengel indicated Tuesday he will return in 1954 to attempt to lead the New York Yankees to a sixth straight American League pennant.

Stengel, who reached the pinnacle of a career that began in Kankakee, Ill., 43 years ago when the Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 5, Monday, insisted in his hour of glory he share the credit with his players, co-owners Dan Topping and Del Webb and the club's staff.

was sure, however, that his partner had a very strong suit and that it couldn't do any harm to unblock it by playing the ace at the beginning.

In accordance with the plan (or, perhaps, with the lack of plan) East returned his seven of spades, and West won the second trick.

West had a chance to make a play which his partner could not really have foreseen, West led the lowly three of spades at the third trick!

Dummy naturally played the eight of spades, and East realized that he was expected to ruff. Obviously, West had the queen of spades and could have led a high spade at this trick instead of leading the three.

It was therefore clear to East that South also was going to ruff this third round of spades and that therefore a high ruff was called for in order to force out a high trump from the South hand.

The situation was so clear that East actually ruffed with the jack of hearts without any apparent hesitation or thought. South had to overtrump with the queen of hearts, of course, since no discard really possibly do him any good. This established a trump trick for West, and East eventually got the setting trick with the king of diamonds.

The point I am trying to make is that bridge is a game of wits and game. You can pave the way for very neat defenses if you just keep aiming in the right direction.

Movie, Video Executives To Support Lucy

By ALINE MOSBY
HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 15 — UP— Executives of two mighty corporations spent a worried week-end they have $10 million tied up in a red-haired comedienne named Lucille Ball.

Both MGM and CBS are sticking by their star who, as husband Desi Arnaz put it, got into a "mess just like a 'Lucy' TV script" when she voted on the Communist ticket 17 years ago because Grandpop wanted her to.

"When the headlines first came out there were some worried executives around here," a worker at CBS said. "But now we're sure the public will stand by her."

Whether the fans will keep her on top as the No. 1 television star, only time will tell.

But MGM is going ahead with plans to release a $2 million comedy starring the husband-wife TV comedy team, "The Long, Long Trailer" in February.

CBS likewise has no plans to wriggle out of its contract to release the couple's high-rated TV program. And the sponsor, Philip Morris Co., also plans to keep its $8 million contract with the pair.

The fabulous contract to continue the show through 1955 was signed last February, with no options or other strings attached. It was the biggest single pact signed in the television industry.

JACOBY ON CANASTA Straighten Out Meld Problems

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"Please settle a question on the concealed hand," requests a San Francisco correspondent. "Both sides needed 129 points for the initial meld. My partner melded some aces and kings with a joker, to start the ball rolling. The player at my right then took the pile and melded some queens, tens and wild cards, discarding a seven from his hand."

"My hand consisted of five sevens, five fours and a deuce. I pounced on that discard pile (which consisted of just one seven), melded the six sevens with a deuce to form a canasta, and also melded my five fours. In short, I melded out, with my own private canasta."

"I claimed that I was entitled to a bonus of 200 points for melding out concealed. My opponents claimed that I was entitled only to 100 points for melding out. (The extra 100 points would have put us over 5,000 points, thus giving us the game.)"

"The opponents contended that I would not have been able to take the discard pile except for the fact that my partner had already melded. His meld relieved me of the duty of showing a count of 1200 points. Hence, I was using his meld and could not get the bonus for melding out concealed. "Were they right?"

No. Their argument was ingenious, but not valid. The rule says that you are not allowed to use your partner's previous melds (if any) in order to meld out concealed. This means only that you are not allowed to add any cards to your partner's previous melds. For example, after he had melded aces and kings, you could not put down additional aces or kings and still try to meld out concealed. (You meld out, of course, but you would get only the normal bonus of 100 points for doing so.)

This is the only restriction. Your partner's previous meld relieved you from melding out concealed. In this game my San Francisco correspondent was entitled to the full bonus of 200 points for melding out.

Constitution Day Set
AUSTIN, Sept. 15 — UP—Gov. Allan Shivers Tuesday designated Thursday as "United States Constitution Day" in Texas. The governor also chose Attorney General John Ben Shepperd to represent the state at the National Citizenship Conference starting Thursday in Washington.

Rita And Daughter Kept Under Guard

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Sept. 15 — UP—Haymes "or you'll get yourself into a lot of trouble."

Rita Hayworth and her two daughters were kept under heavy guard Tuesday as the FBI investigated threats to kill three-year-old Princess Yasmin if the child is not returned to Moslem Prince Aly Khan.

Yasmin and Rebecca, eight, the actress' child by her former husband, Orson Welles, were flown here under guard Monday night to be with their mother, who is waiting to marry crooner Dick Haymes.

Five husky bodyguards from a private detective agency put the children on plane in Los Angeles and three accompanied them on the flight.

More body guards and Haymes met the plane when it landed. When the children arrived at the Sands Hotel, where their mother is staying, shifts of Clark county sheriff's deputies took up a close watch outside the star's rooms. The children had been guarded at Miss Hayworth's West Los Angeles home since the threats were received.

The actress, who had remained at the hotel, threw her arms around her children, crying, "Oh, God, we are all together again. We're all safe."

Miss Hayworth has received two letters from New Rochelle, N. Y., threatening death for Yasmin and bodily harm to the sultry film star father in Europe.

She also was warned not to marry unless the child is returned to her.
