Festival Features . . .

Fun, Food, Lots Of Art

Plenty of food, plenty of fun...and of course...plenty of good art highlight the two days of Rockport's annual Art Festival.

Now in its 10th year, the Festival is bigger than ever, with more than 100 artists and craftsmen from throughout Texas exhibiting works that range from oil paintings to sculpture, acrylics to ivory and wood carving, batik to pen and ink to watercolors and photography.

For the artists and craftsmen exhibiting in the show, events get underway Friday afternoon, June 29. that's when exhibitors check in, beginning at 4 p.m., at the park near Rockport's Ski Basin to get their booth assignments.

From 6 p.m. until 7 p.m. Friday, artists and their assistants are invited to the tamale feast, which features tamales and drinks.

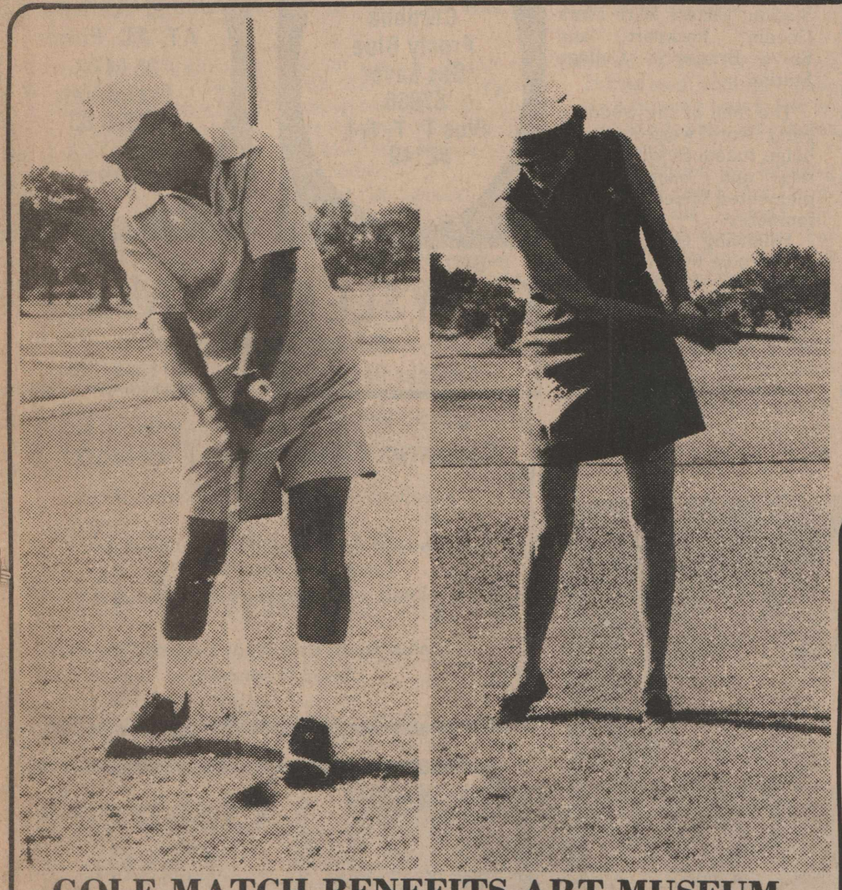

Saturday morning, June 30, beginning at 8:30 a.m., the artists can begin putting up their booths. By noon, all booths and tents will be ready and the festival will be officially underway.

Festival hours -- when booths will be open and arts and crafts on display -- are from noon until 9 p.m. Saturday and from noon until 6 p.m. Sunday, July 1.

In addition to the exhibitors' booths, visitors to the Festival will find plenty of food and drinks being sold, and the Art Association, which sponsors the annual show, will have a public address - hospitality-information tent.

Crowds of 8,000 to 10,000 are expected at this year's Festival, according to Cam Leonard, chairman of the event.

Many of the artists and craftsmen in this year's show have been exhibiting since the Festival began in 1969. Estelle Stair, president of the Rockport Art Association, said the show is popular with artists and the Association has a waiting list of 500 to 700 artists who have applied for booths in the Festival.

Council Calls Meet On Ski Basin

By Pat Blair

Rockport's City Council has called for a joint special meeting of the Council and other state, federal and local districts and organizations to "do something" about hazardous conditions in the Rockport Ski Basin.

The action was taken during a meeting of the Council Monday night, June 25, in which the Council also approved Aransas Natural Gas Company's request for a rates increase.

During the meeting, Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. also announced that, at his recommendation, the Texas Municipal League is backing a letter from Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz to Governor Bill Clements requesting the Governor to provide an emergency fuel supply to the Coatal Bend area.

Falk took the letter to a meeting of the TML Sunday, June 24, and asked that the League adopt a resolution stating the League's support of Sen. Schwartz's request. The League did so. If Clements acts on the letter, Falk said, this would mean Rockport and other cities in the Costal Bend area would have the fuel they need in event of an emergency, such as a hurricane.

The Council set July 10 at 7 p.m. for a meeting with the National Marine Fisheries, Texas Parks and Wildlife, the Aransas County Navigation District and U.S. Fish and Wildlife to determine who has control over the Ski Basin and how it could be made less hazardous.

The meeting will be in the District Courtroom if it can be arranged with the other agencies involved. Dr. J. Martin Shaw made the motion to call the special meeting during a scheduled discussion of the Ski Basin at Monday's session. At that time, it was brought out that city officials are not sure who does have control of the Ski Basin.

The motion was seconded by C.H. "Burt" Mills Jr.

The Council approved a request by Aransas Natural Gas Company that will increase the basic rates for gas by 10.57 percent -- about 59 cents a month for the minimum user. The minimum rate -- which was increased to $5.58 in April, 1978 -- is now $6.17 a month.

Following a joint public hearing by the Council and City Planning and Zoning Board, both boards gave approval to a request by William J.B. Hughes for rezoning of six lots in the Manning Subdivision fronting approximately 250 feet on Highway 35.

The Zoning Commission, after hearing the matter with the Council then retiring to consider the request, recommended that the City Council approve Hughes' request for B-1 business zoning of the property. That recommendation was accepted.

Adjacent property to the north of Hughes' lots had been recently been rezoned to business. The area rezoned Monday includes the closed portion of 4th Street.

The Council tabled action on a proposed new zoning ordinance and map pending additional work to bring the map up-to-date and type the ordinance in finished form before giving final approval.

The Council appointed Joe Valdez a member of the Board of Adjustment to replace William G. Walston who resigned.

The Council also gave approval to an ordinance closing a portion of Allen Street between Nopal Street and Highway 35 and approved a recommendation of Police Chief J.A. Craigmile that the probationary period for new police officers be extended from six months to 12 months.

City Work Keeps Mayor Busy

By Pat Blair

Talk to Walter S. Falk, Jr., for any length of time and the topic turns to Rockport--his views of the city, his hopes, his efforts in the city's behalf.

Falk has been mayor of Rockport for seven years, an experience he has found "rewarding in many respects." As to his goals in city government, he said during a recent interview at his tome, "I wanted Rockport to be the same little town as I found it--to keep that small-town flavor as it grows. That seems to be the feeling of the majority of the people."

A native of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, Mayor Falk has lived in Rockport "off and on" about 17 years, he said. "I was the last commander of the Air Force Radar Station at the Aransas County Airport--that's how I found this place."

During his service with the Air Force--he retired on April 27, 1967--Falk was stationed for a time at Neah Bay in the state of Washington, the northernmost point in the continental United States. Falk said after serving in places where temperatures got down to below zero, "I wanted someplace as far south as I could find."

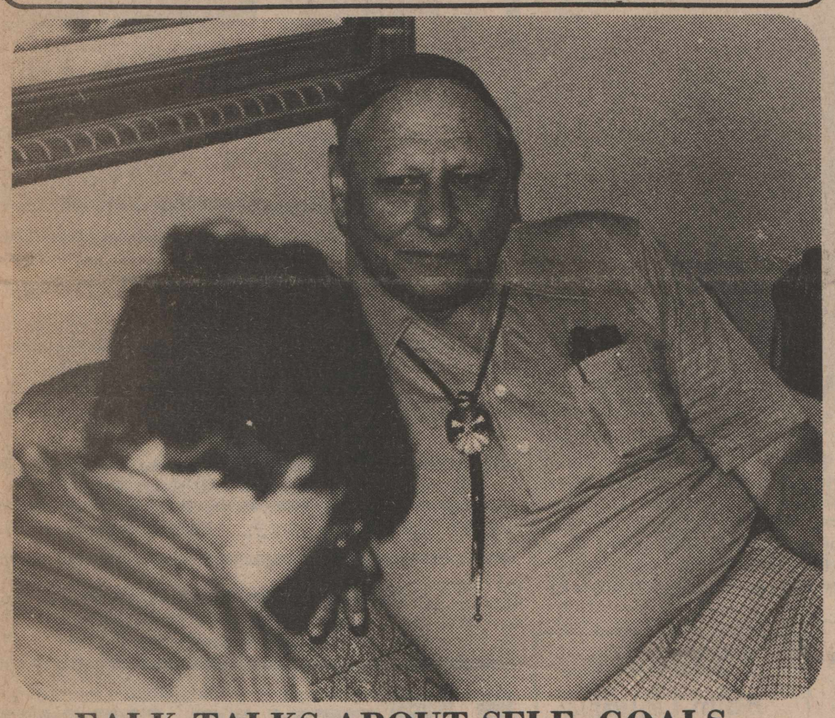

It was at Neah Bay that Falk received one of the many mememtos that decorate the Falks' home at 1506 Shadyside Drive. The Macah Indians from the Reservation there presented him with a carved wooden fish in the center of which is a gold plaque inscribed, in part: "Major Falk in appreciation,658th Radar Unit."

Another of Falk's honors is the Valley Forge Freedom Foundation Award, presented to him in 1955--when he was a captain-"for Outstanding Achievement in Bringing About Better Understanding."

The Falks' home contains many such mementos, not only from Falk's career, but also that of his father--who was in the Navy. "My father served in the Spanish-American War then went into the Navy. Then I went into the Air Force," Falk says.

Included in the collection are the senior Falk's Naval

Charter Article II Sets Down Home Rule City Powers

NOTE: The following is the second in a series of articles on Rockport's proposed City Charter.)

By Pat Blair

Article II of Rockport's new City Charter establishes Rockport's status as a Home Rule City and sets down in the Charter the powers the City may have.

This is the article under which the City of Rockport claims the right: to control the public streets...to make public improvements such as waterways and water and sanitary sewer facilities...and to legislate.

N.F. Jackson, chairman of the Charter Commission, said the provisions contained in Article II are fairly consistent with the same article in other city charters - with one exception.

The exception is under Section 2.3, "Public Improvements", which states, in part, "The City shall have the power to construct and maintain, within or without its corporate limits, canals, waterways and other flood control facilities and sanitary, water and storm drainage facilities."

Jackson said other city charters merely imply the power to construct and maintain storm drainage facilities. "We specifically included this in Rockport's proposed charter," he said, "because so many areas of the city have drainage problems."

Otherwise, he said, the wording and the power are similar to the wording and powers, implied and stated, of other city charters. The proposed Article does not give the city any powers it does not presently have under the Texas Constitution and State Law.

The first section of proposed Article II enumerates the general powers of the city. These include the right to use a corporate seal; the right to sue and be sued; to make contracts; to aquire property in or out of the City limits "for any municipal purpose...by purchase, gift, devise, lease or condemnation" and to dispose of any property it owns or acquires.

This section also sets down the city's right to pass ordinances and enact any other regulations "subject only to the limitations imposed by the State Constitution, the State Laws and this Charter."

The second section gives the city exclusive dominion -- the power to establish, police and regulate -- all public streets, rights of way and public parks "within and without the corporate limits of the City, as may be provided by law."

This section gives the City the right to maintain alter or abandon these public facilities.

Section 2.3, in addition to giving the city the right to construct and maintain flood control, sanitary, water and storm drainage facilities, also gives the city the power to levy assessments to help pay for these improvements.

Under this section, the City is given the power to establish liens to secure payment of assessments, "and shall have the power to compel the use of such improvements by the inhabitants of the City."

Section 2.4 states, "The City shall have the power to establish and maintain ordinances and regulations governing the use of lands within the city and to enforce by all lawful means said ordinances and regulations, within and without its corporate limits."

This section also allows the City to "authorize, regulate and inspect all construction and existing structures within or without its corporate limits, and to establish and enforce ordinances and regulations concerning their use, construction and reconstruction."

Under this section, the City has the right to license and regulate "persons, corporations and associations engaged in any business, occupation, profession or trade."

Section 2.5 provides for the City of Rockport to exercise any and all other powers permitted under Texas Constitution and State Laws, in addition to the powers enumerated.

Goodin-Cooper Exchange Vows

Against a background of gladiolas and carnations, Nancy Jo Goodin and Michael Lesley Cooper were united in marriage on May 19, at the First Baptist Church in Rockport.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goodin, Rockport, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cooper, Tarkington, Texas.

The afternoon wedding was performed by Pastor Charles Fake, with music provided by Michael Morgan on the piano and Mrs. William Dill, who sang "Evergreen."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white organza gown, featuring an off-the-shoulder ruffle and a three-tiered skirt flowing into a chapel train. An organza and lace hat completed the outfit, and she carried a bouquet of daisies, red rosebuds, and baby's breath.

Sandi Walker, Moody, Texas, as Maid of Honor, wore a pink pebble satin gown with a ruffled oval neckline and an empire waist. The bridesmaids, Misses Lisa Fain, Houston, Debbie Fake, Rockport and Lee Nuckles, Nacogdoches, wore similar gowns of blue pabble satin. All the attendants carried nosegays of daisies and baby's breath, and wore ribbons and daisies in their hair.

Miss Tracy Dill, Rockport, was the flower girl. She wore a whilte eyelet dress with ruffles, with daisies and ribbons in her hair. She carried a wicker basket of rose petals.

The best man was Charlie Rice, Tarkington, and groomsmen were Ben Obregon, Tarkington, Carleton Kervin, Huntsville and Byron Cowert, College Station. Ushers were Mark Goodin, Rockport, and Steve Branecky, College Station.

The men of the wedding party wore western-styled beige tuxedoes with string ties and boots, complemented by red rose boutonnieres.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Members of the house party included Mrs. Ralph Goodin, Altus, Oklahoma, Mrs. Jack Hash, Lawton, Oklahoma, Mrs. Paul Loveless, Lawton, Oklahoma, Miss Mary Ling, Houston, Mrs. C.E. McElveen and Mrs. Del McLain, Rockport. Attending to the guest book was Mrs. Steve Branecky, College Station, Texas.

The couple will make their home in Rockport, before returning to Texas A&M University in August, where they will both be seniors.

PONDERING

Pondering simply means to "weigh." To reflect, consider or meditate; therefore a weighing mentally. Pondering has a place in religion, carefully should we weigh every act of faith to ascertain if it is right with God. Bible Faith always comes by the Word of God [Romans 10:17]. Good is the advice of Solomon:
"Ponder the path of thy feet, and let all thy ways be established" [Prov. 4:26]...

MINE IS A CRAFT IN WHICH WE ARE EXPECTED to be naturally, natively, articulate, at least when the pen or typewriter is before us. That is customarily so, but not with me at this moment.

And that not because I have been wrong and am hesitant to correct an error, a mistaken judgement. Instead because I, in all sincerity, believing that I had the true facts at hand, wrongly condemned Herman Johnson, Rockport city secretary. Spelling out the details of my error would be pointless. Suffice that I, among others, did not know of the manner in which representatives of the Rockport Sailing Club presented an application for a waiver of a city ordinance. Mr. Johnson, under the circumstances had no alternative but to deny it. It is always painful to be wrong, doubly so when character of an individual is involved. I have personally apologized to Mr. Johnson, and although I do not know him personally I have been assured by men and women who do that he is a genuine asset to the City of Rockport, all that was said and implied in last week's Weekender editorial in this newspaper.

In other regards I have over a period of a year made numerous statements with respect to the RSC lease of the so-called "salt water swimming pool." Each and every contention other than those words with respect to Mr. Johnson is truthfully factual, can be substantiated, and I would not erase a single line.

BOB RHODES, EDITOR OF THE CORPUS CHRISTI Caller-Times is an amazing man. Naturally his Sunday columns are interesting to those of us who pursue his craft, newspapering. Scarcely a week goes by that a friend, doctor, lawyer, businessman, taxi driver, doesn't approach me without a commentary upon his Sunday effort. Could a doctor friend so engage me with the nuances of his profession? I fear not. Were I an aspiring young journalist I should file Rhodes' columns on the chance that they may not some day be published within hard covers.

HUMANITARIANISM ASIDE, I THINK OUR STATE Department has acted unwisely with respect to circumstances and conditions in Nicaragua. In a word,we should keep our cotton-pickin' fingers out of the show. In these late years of the 20th century, it may seem a bit unrealistic to heed the words of late 18th century Americans such as Washington and Jefferson—avoid entangling foreign alliances.

Yet they apply, along with all Jimmy Carter's nonsense about "human rights." Let's face it. Nicaragua's president is, to put is mildly, no great shakes. He may even be despicable. On the other hand what about the revolutionaries? Perhaps we should pause and remember when many of us thought Fidel Castro was a really great guy?

For my own part, history has rightly or wrongly taught me the lesson that the people of Central and South America are by their very nature not capable of maintaining stable governments. And in that regard I don't care whether those governments be democratic, communistic, dictatorial, or whatever. That's their business. Our business is to leave them alone, maintain the stiff upper lip, do nothing more than attempt to maintain polite diplomatic relations.

Now, lest anyone feel that there is no milk of human kindness in me, let me say that the alternative is to move in, wave a big stick, rule those countries and run them. It's the only way, and I can think of a lot of people who might not like that, and not just the Nicaraguans, but others in that part of the world and elsewhere. Here include the Russians.

"IN SIGNING THIS TREATY WE ARE HELPING TO defend the most sacred right of every man--the right to live," said Soviet President Brezhnev, and President Carter echoed: "You and I both have children and grandchildren and we want them to live, live in peace."

Noble words, I'll not deny. Be not even skeptical as to whether either man believes what he said. Truth to tell, I do believe that the intent of each was to be truthful.

But get down to the hard lines. Nothing in SALT II even implies mutual trust. For openers, the Russians have an implicit and historically justifiable belief in American naivity and they play it to the hilt with President Carter. The treaty would allow them to outgun us, something that is questionable in certain quarters, I'll agree.

But it remains without question that the Kremlin firmly disagrees to on-site inspections. In other words Russia will treat SALT II in whatever way it likes.

Now, were this a nation experienced, had we a good track record in the field of diplomacy, I might, for all of that, go along with the treaty. But cold, hard facts are to the contrary, very much to the contrary, and no one knows that better than Ivan.

I am not, never have been an admirer of Sen. Henry Jackson, who has called SALT II appeasement. In that instance, he is right, 100 percent right. If SALT II is finally agreed to, it will be time to start singing "God Bless America"--and pray God we get those blessings. We'll need 'em!--ahab

Some Who've Made It

In the 10 years since Rockport's Art Festival began, a number of exhibitors have "gone on to bigger and better things" and no longer exhibit in the Festival, says Estelle Stair, president of the Rockport Art Association.

Among those artists and craftsmen who have simply become too busy to be able to appear in the annual Festival are three from Rockport: oil painter Steve Russel, watercolorist Dorea Taggert and Shirley Farley, who works in acrylics.

Others who have exhibited in past shows but no longer do so include San Antonio artists Raul Guiterrez, Gilbert Duron and Bob Dale, watercolors; Amy Freeman Lee, mixed media; and Joe Snead, oils.

Bob Garden, an oil painter from Irving, is among these former exhibitors as is Armando Hinojosa of Laredo, who works in bronze and watercolors and watercolorist Robert Johnson of Castroville.

Two former exhibitors live in Houston, Dick Turner, mixed media, and J. Howard Robby who does acrylic paintings. Oil painters Barbara Savage of Raymondsville and H.J. Nichols of Victoria -- who also turns out wood carvings and sculpture -- are also among past exhibitors.

Corpus Christi artists who no longer exhibit their works in the Festival include Dot Turner, oils and watercolors, and Ron Stephenson, oils and acrylics. Others include Walter McCowen of Waco, mixed media; Joe Bish of New Braunsfel, collage; and Steve Akin of Austin, acrylics.

Come 'n' Get It At Art Festival

Rockport's Art Festival is a feast for the appetite as well as for the eyes.

Members of the Rockport Art Association make sure there's plenty of food and drink on hand to take care of the hunger and thirst raised during a day of walking around, seeing what there is to see at the arts and crafts booths.

The food booths this year will be serving up ranch steaks and polish sausage, hot dogs and tamales. To go along with that, there'll be corn, bunelos -- tortillas wrapped around beans and maybe cheese -- and nachos. For dessert, the menu will feature pan dulce.

Getting thirsty? There are always plenty of soft drinks, iced tea and beer available.

Art Association members Jo Hughes and Wanda Sorem are chairmen in charge of food this year, and Pete Lazidis and Bill Janecek are the beer committee chairmen. Bob and Carol Bernardy are the iced tea chairpersons.

Together and separately, they've worked to see that this year's Festival is a culinary as well as artistic success.

Rockport Art Festival Saturday And July 1 Be There!

Doll House To Help Fund City Art Museum

Visitors to Rockport's 10th annual Art Festival will have a chance to win an authentically-designed Victorian era house--complete with original work by leading Rockport artists and craftsmen.

Measuring 20 X 28 X 36 inches, the house is an authentic reproduction of an architectural style known as Sea Island Gothic--"like some of the old Galveston homes," says Jane Turner of Turner Construction Company who built it.

The two - story brown house with white trim will be on display in the tent with the guest registry during the June 30-July 1 Art Festival. Tickets will be on sale for a chance to win the house.

Cost of tickets are $1 each or six for $5, and the drawing for the house will be in late November or early December, Mrs. Turner said. Purpose of the drawing is to raise money so the Rockport Art Association can build an art museum on the Bayfront.

The house and its "family" of dressed dolls are scaled to size, and all clothes and furnishings are keyed to the 1880s, Mrs. Turner said, adding, "They have running water, but no electricity--just oil lamps and candles."

In addition to building the house itself, Mrs. Turner also built "a good portion of the furniture. Pat Barnett, another Rockport Art Association member petit-pointed the two rugs in the living room. The rugs, Mrs. Turner pointed out, are copies of actual old Persian prayer rugs.

Rockport Art Association member Honey DaCosta made the costumes for the members of the "family" as well as doing the table settings and an afghan. Association member Mary Conner made the draperies, the satin bedclothing, and an afghan and other crocheted work.

As an extra touch, several locat artists have done paintings for the walls of the house, Mrs. Turner said, so whoever wins the drawing next fall will have a houseful of original art!

"We've tried for authenticity and exact proportions," Mrs. Turner said. Special details include hinged doors, a spiral stairway in the living room, another stairway to the attic. There's even a Siamese kitten hovering over a spilled bucket of milk in the kitchen, while upstairs, Grandpa is taking a nice sudsy bath!

Much care and detail have gone into creating this comfortable little home from Victorian days. And $1--or $5--this weekend could buy the lucky ticket that will be drawn next fall.

Everybody Wins In Benefit Match

The Rockport Art Association won $200.

Sylvia (Mrs. Ed) Berry figures she won $100. So does Carl Moore.

Moore and Mrs. Berry played nine holes of golf Friday morning at Rockport's Live Oak country Club, and another nine holes Sunday morning. The loser was to pay $200 to the Rockport Art Association's building fund.

They finished both days in a tie. "I won't give the scores," Mrs. Berry said after the first game Friday, "but we came in even."

They also finished Sunday in a tie--again, no scores available.

So they each wrote a check for $100 payable to the Rockport Art Association.

"We figure I won $100 and he (Moore) won $100--because neither of us had to pay the full $200," Mrs. Berry said Monday morning, after the two nine-hole matches.

Play began at 9 a.m. both mornings at the Country Club, and Mrs. Berry got things started when she presented Moore with a "present" he could use to tee off--a golf tee with ball glued on!

The match "really was fun," Mrs. Berry said, adding that the match--which is going to be an annual event--began last year "as a joke."

Moore, she explained, plays golf every day and she, until last year, "hadn't played golf in 10 years." She won last year's game, in part, she figures, because she arrived early "and psyched Carl out."

There was a small crowd of spectators on hand to watch the Berry-Moore match both days of play.

The money was donated to the Art Association's building fund which will be used to build an art museum on Navigation District property on Rockport's bayfront.

Some Of The Faces Will Look Familiar

To visitors who attend the Art Festival every year, the faces of some of those artists in their booths take on a pleasant familiarity--a feeling of "I know who that is."

And the visitor is very likely right, according to Estelle Stair, president of the Rockport Art Association that sponsors the annual Festival. A number of the artists in this year's show have been exhibiting their works every year since the Festival began in 1969.

Among those artists are J. Royal Tilford, who does watercolors, and Wesley Wolberg, assemblages, both of Corpus Christi.

Although they are two of the nearer artists, others are returning from farther away--from Austin (such as watercolorist George Bentwell) or San Antonio (Alberto Meza, watercolors and bronze works, and batik artist Lee Rose). Still others come from as far as Waco (Rozelle Hughes, mixed media) and Dallas (metal sculptor Robert Beckner).

Mrs. Stair emphasized that these are only a few of the artists who have been associated with the Festival since its beginning 10 years ago, that there are "many more" who will help this year's Festival observe its 10th anniversary.

Billboards Spread Word 'Come To Art Festival'

A billboard on Highway 181 South in Sinton is advertising Rockport's June 30-July 1 Art Festival.

So is a billboard on Highway 77 North in Woodsboro and another one on the Aransas Pass Highway 361 East.

In all, five billboards have been put to use to announce the Art Festival coming up this weekend.

"Butch" Adams of Rollins Outdoor Advertising is responsible for getting the message onto the boards, says Eileen Harrison, co-chairman of publicity for the Festival. She added, "The use of this choice billboard space to advertise our annual art festival has been most appreciated for many shows."

Locations of other billboards are on Highway 35 North, Rockport; and Highway 181 at Beeville.

14 Local Artists To Be In Festival

Fourteen artists in the Rockport-Fulton area will be among the more than 100 artists exhibiting their works in Rockport's 10th annual Art Festival June 30-July 1.

Exhibitors from Rockport include watercolorists Rip Harrison and Jack Martin Erlich; metal sculptor Ron Crabbe; Nanci Barnes, pottery; oil painter Esther Lonquist; Cory McBride, weaver; Tina Vickers, calligraphy; W.B. Tilden, cast seagulls, etc.

some of the exhibitors will show works in more than one medium. These include Gene Murray, watercolors, pen and ink; Mike Rollins, pastels, oils and acrylics; George Shirey, pastels and oils; Betty Walters, oils and decorative painting; Ed Fickett, oils and watercolors; and Jim Alexander, oils and acrylics.

Although no out-of-state artists will be in this year's show, the festival features exhibitors from throughout Texas, as close as Corpus Christi and Portland to as far as the Dallas - Fort Worth area.

Exhibits will include all forms of arts and crafts: jewelry, sea shell decor, photography, sculpture, wood and ivory carvings, wallhangings, sketches, watercolors, oils, acrylics, pastels, batiks and more.

Cam Leonard, general chairman of the Art Festival, said the Rockport Association, which sponsors the show, is anticipating crowds of 8,000 to 10,000 people at this year's show.

sword, a Civil War shotgun, a World War I rifle. There's a tablecloth that is now a museum-piece, "and I have probably one of the finest tapacloth collections," says Falk.

The cloth, made from the inner bark of the tapa tree, and colored with dye made from nuts, was a gift to Falk's father from the last queen of Samoa.

Mayor Falk's grandfather was a cabinet maker and carpenter, and Falk himself built about half the house he and his wife live in, he said. After they bought the house, he extended two of the bedrooms by about another 20 feet, built another bedroom, dining room and storage rooms and added the patio.

"I like beautiful things," Falk said, adding that he and his wife collect "everything"-from firearms and swords to stamps and coins, ceramic figurines and glassware.

"When we go on a trip," Mrs. Falk says, "it's fun to have something to look forward to, and since we collect everything, anything we see can be added to our collection."

Falk said he and his wife "take one big trip a year" and are presently planning a future trip to Egypt, Jordan, Israel and Turkey. Their daughter, who lives in Bridgeport, Connecticut, will join them on this trip, he added.

The Falks also have a son in Austin and a granddaughter in Lufkin. At present, they share their own home with two cats-a "Mississippi alley cat named Princess and an orange-and-white male, 'Heput'--'he' for boy and 'put' for 'puttycat'," Mrs. Falk explained.

Falk is a graduate of Drexall Institute of Technology--now Drexall University--in Philadelphia, and took graduate courses at the University of Pennsylvania. He also graduated from Staff and Command College, School of Personnel, at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, "which is as high as you can go" in the military, he said.

He served 20 years of active duty with the Air Force, plus an additional 10 years in the Reserve Corps, serving through three wars--World War II, Korea and Vietnam.

"My life has been divided into chapters," he said. "I was an executive with General Electric, I had an interrupted military career --I was recalled four times--dedicated several years to the Lion's Club, then the First Presbyterian Church, becoming a deacon in that."

The current chapter is, of course, devoted to serving the City of Rockport as its mayor. Falk works at being an active mayor, in being involved with such organizations as the Texas Municipal League and the Coastal Bend Council of Governments.

As a director of Texas Municipal League representing Region 11 and as second vice chairman of the Coastal Bend COG, he said, he is in a position to work for Rockport's interests.

"You have an influence in seeing things accomplished," he said.

"A mayor can cut ribbons and do nothing else," he added. "But by being active, I'm enhancing the image of Rockport tremendously."

Falk is proud of Rockport. He mentions that the city has only had one tax increase in 110 years...that it's "very unlikely we'll need a tax increase in the near future--and I don't know of any other mayor who can say that"...that the city will pay cash for its new fire engine.

And although cutting ribbons is part of his job, it's only a small part for this very involved mayor.

Eat Yourself Slim

By SHIRLEY BRIGHT BOODY
Registered Dietitian
Copley News Service

Old concepts in the dietary treatment of diabetes have undergone radical changes in recent years. For the last two centuries every possible dietary combination has been tried and promoted as unique therapy for diabetes.

Some of the special diets created for diabetics were so unpalatable and restrictive, that many patients were both unwilling and unable to follow them. Recent resurgence of interest in the importance of diet and nutrition on the general health of the public and the high incidence of obesity has led to reassessment of basic nutritional practices in diabetic management.

Overweight is probably the greatest single factor triggering the onset of adult diabetes. Obesity, combined with a family history of diabetic tendencies, can create a sometimes life-threatening situation, unless the weight is reduced and the diet controlled. Today, the most important objective of the diet is to reduce the TOTAL calories, not just carbohydrates. Increased nutritional levels, and healthful, controlled weight reduction of one or two pounds per week will lessen the need for oral medication and-or insulin.

It is a well-known fact that weight loss reduces blood sugar levels and improves glucose tolerance. High blood fats (triglycerides) and high cholesterol levels also will drop with proper weight reduction. Improved pancreatic function occurs, which means that the diabetic may begin to produce more of his own insulin, so less medication is necessary.

Restriction of simple sugars such as candies, sugar and sweets, is still necessary for diabetics, because they provoke high blood sugar peaks. Insulin-dependent diabetics who suffer rapid swings in blood sugar levels are particularly vulnerable to simple sugar. However, the more complex carbohydrates found in vegetables and starches seem to be safely included in larger quantities and wider varieties, than they were years ago.

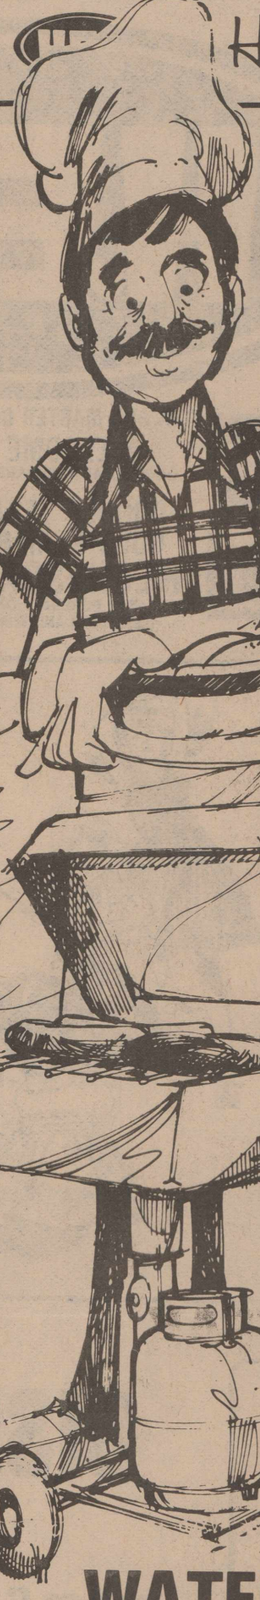

Diabetics respond like non-diabetics to a reduced intake of saurated fats, with lowered cholesterol and triglyceride levels. Roughly, the total fat consumption should be about 30 percent of the total calories, 55 percent carbohydrate, 15 percent protein, with polyunsaturated fats predominating. They are best supplied by safflower and corn oil soft margarines and salad dressings. Saturated fats are animal (meat) fats, butter and milk product fats. Fats in general should never be totally excluded from any diet, because they provide much-needed nutrients, including fat-soluble vitamins.

Many clinicians have questioned the need for special "diet foods." Generally speaking, the diabetic diet can be easily designed to include everyday foods from local markets. A professional, registered dietitian should handle the diet prescription since it must be tailored to the individual's needs.

Cooking Corner: A little bit of Spain in a big pan

By JEANNETTE BRANIN
Copley News Sevice

Roldan was born in Cordoba, took his doctor's degree at the University of Seville, and taught in Seville. He is a biologist, and went to University of California San Diego eight months ago to conduct a two-year research program in plant psychology.

The first recipe is for Paella, the most famous food of Spain.

PAELLA

3 medium tomatoes, chopped fine
4 cloves garlic, minced
1 small onion, chopped
1 medium green pepper, diced
⅓ cup olive oil
6 pieces chicken
6 to 12 shrimp, depending on size
6 to 12 clams, depending on size
6 medium-sized squid (see note below)
3 tbsps. chopped pimiento
⅓ cup frozen peas
⅓ cup canned artichoke hearts
3 cups rice
15 "strings" Spanish saffron
½ tsp. black pepper
Salt to taste
½ cup dry sherry

Note regarding squid: Almost any kind of seafood or meat can be substituted.

Soak strings of saffron in water for several hours and then grind them in a mortar with a pestle.

Fry the chicken pieces in olive oil until brown and remove from oil. Saute cleaned and cut squid in same oil and remove. Saute garlic, onion and green pepper until soft: add tomato and continue cooking until fried. Add the chicken, squid and six cups of water. Bring to a boil.

When the water boils, add saffron, sherry, pepper and salt to taste, remembering that as the liquid evaporates the salt flavor will be stronger. Add rice, distributing it evenly across the pan. When water boils again, reduce the heat and add clams, shrimp, peas, artichoke hearts and pimiento. Boil slowly without stirring the rice for about 15 minutes, until rice is almost done and almost all the liquid has been absorbed. Remove from heat, cover with a cloth, and set aside for five to seven minutes. Serve at once.

In Spain, this dish is made in a container called a paellera, a wide and shallow pan. Any frying pan with those characteristics can be used.

"Tortilla" in Spain bears little resemblance to tortillain Mexico. It is more like our omelette. This is the classic and simplest way to make this dish: variations can includeother vegetables. It is served cold as an hors d'oeurve. It should be cold before cutting cubes.

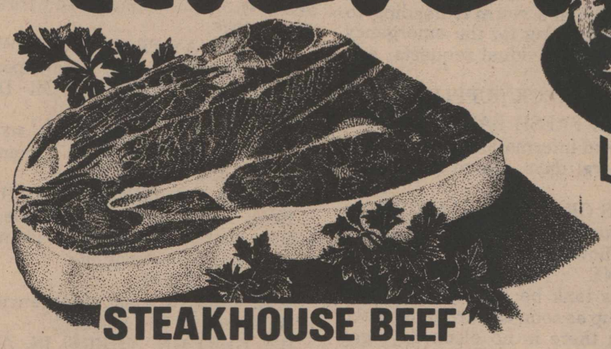

NARANJAS AL KIRSCH

6 oranges, sectioned and peeled
1 cup canned black cherries, drained
1 cup frozen raspberries
2 tbsps. powdered sugar
½ cup sliced almonds
½ cup kirsch
½ tsp. allspice.

Arrange the fruit in alternating layers in individual parfait glasses, or other similar stemmed glasses. Put a little sugar, allspice and sliced almonds between each layer. Pour the kirsch over the fruit and marinate in the refrigerator for two hours. Serve chilled.

HURRICANE SURVIVAL CHECKLIST

This material is provided as a public service. Its purpose is to increase hurricane awareness. The key to survival is advance preparation. This is a joint effort by the Governor's Division of Disaster Emergency Services, Texas Catastrophe Property Insurance Association and the Texas Costal and Marine Council.

BEFORE A HURRICANE YOU SHOULD KNOW:

ELEVATION OF YOUR HOME ABOVE SEA LEVEL

Get this information from local Civil Defense officials. Your nearest Weather Service office can supply flood-stage data for streams and bayous.

MAXIMUM STORM SURGE WHICH MIGHT OCCUR

Information about the potential for inland flooding and storm surge is available through the nearest Weather Service office.

ROUTE TO SAFETY IF YOU HAVE TO LEAVE

Plan your escape route early. Check with Civil Defense for low points and flooding history of your route.

LOCATION OF NEAREST OFFICAL SHELTER

Civil Defense or Red Cross can locate the shelter nearest your home and explain what you should bring with you.

HOW SAFE YOUR HOME IS

Near the seashore, plan to relocate during a hurricane emergency unless you live in a high-rise above the third floor level. If you live in a mobile home, always plan to relocate.

THE INVENTORY OF YOUR PROPERTY

A complete inventory of personal property will help in obtaining insurance settlements and/or tax deductions for losses. Inventory checklists can be obtained from many sources, including your insurance representative. Don't trust your memory. List descriptions and take pictures. Store these and other important insurance papers in waterproof containers or in your safety deposit box.

WHAT YOUR INSURANCE WILL COVER

Review your insurance policies to avoid misunderstanding later. Take advantage of flood insurance. Seperate policies are needed for protection against wind and water damage, which people frequently don't realize until too late.

IMPORTANT: Do not wait until a hurricane is in the Gulf -- by then, it's too late. When a storm is heading to shore, officials are too busy preparing for the emergency and won't be able to respond to individual requests, and insurance can't be obtained.

WHEN A WATCH IS ISSUED CHECK SUPPLIES:

TRANSISTOR RADIO WITH FRESH BATTERIES

Radio will be your most useful information source. Have enough batteries to last several days. There may be no more electricity.

FLASHLIGHTS, CANDLES OR LAMPS, MATCHES

Store matches in waterproof container. Have lantern fuel for several days. Know how to use safely.

FULL TANK OF GASOLINE

Never let your vehicle gas tank be less than half-full during hurricane season; fill up as soon as hurricane watch is posted. Remember: when there is no electricity, gas pumps won't work.

CANNED GOODS AND NON-PERISHABLE FOODS

Store packaged foods which can be prepared without cooking and need no refrigeration. There may be no electricity or gas.

CONTAINERS FOR DRINKING WATER

Have clean, air-tight containers to store sufficient drinking water for several days. The city supply will probably be interupted or contaminated.

MATERIALS FOR PROTECTING GLASS OPENINGS

Have shutters or lumber for protecting large windows and doors and masking tape for use on small windows.

MATERIALS FOR EMERGENCY REPAIRS

Your insurance policy may cover cost of materials used in temporary repairs, so keep all receipts. These will also be helpful for and income tax deductions.

WHEN A WARNING IS ISSUED, ACT PROMPTLY:

LISTEN CONSTANTLY TO RADIO OR TV

Keep a log of hurricane position, intensity and expected landfall. Discount rumors. Use telephone sparingly.

IF YOU LIVE IN A MOBILE HOME

Check tie-downs and leave immediately for a safer place.

PREPARE FOR HIGH WINDS

Brace your garage door. Lower antennas. Be prepared to make repairs.

ANCHOR OBJECTS OUTSIDE

Garbage cans, awnings, loose garden tools, toys and other loose objects can be deadly missiles. Anchor securely or bring indoors.

PROTECT WINDOWS AND OTHER GLASS

Board up or shutter large windows securely. Tape exposed glass to reduce shattering. Draw drapes across windows and doors to protect against flying glass if shattering does occur.

MOVE BOATS ON TRAILORS CLOSE TO HOUSE

Fill boats with water to weight them down. Lash securely to trailer to the ground or house.

CHECK MOORING LINES OF BOATS IN WATER, THEN LEAVE THEM

STORE VALUABLES AND PERSONAL PAPERS

Put irreplaceable documents in waterproof containers and store in highest possible spot.

PREPARE FOR TORNADOES AND FLOODS

Tornadoes and flash floods are the worst killers associated with a hurricane. In a tornado warning, seek inside shelter below ground level. If outside, move away at right angles from tornado; if escape is impossible lie flat in a ditch or low spot. The surge of ocean water plus flash flooding of streams and rivers due to torrential rains, combine to make drowning the greatest cause of hurricane deaths.

CHECK YOUR SURVIVAL SUPPLIES ONCE AGAIN

IF YOU REMAIN AT HOME:

STAY INDOORS

Don't go out in the brief calm during passage of the eye of the storm. The lull sometimes ends suddenly as winds return from the opposite direction. Winds can increase in seconds to 75 m.p.h. or more.

PROTECT PROPERTY

Without taking any unnecessary risks, protect your property from damage. Temporary repairs can reduce your losses.

STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS AND GLASS DOORS

Move furniture away from exposed doors and windows.

STAY ON LEEWARD OR DOWNWIND SIDE OF HOUSE

As wind direction changes, move to another room. If your home has an "inside" room, stay there during the height of the hurricane.

KEEP A CONTINOUS COMMUNICATIONS WATCH

Keep radio or television tuned for information from official sources. Unexpected changes can sometimes call for last minute relocations.

REMAIN CALM

Your ability to meet emergencies will help others.

IF YOU MUST RELOCATE:

BE CERTAIN THERE IS A SAFE REFUGE TO ACCOMMODATE YOU - LEAVE EARLY, IN DAYLIGHT IF POSSIBLE

Dangerous winds and tides may arrive three to five hours before the hurricane.

DON'T TRAVEL FARTHER THAN NECESSARY

Roads may be jammed. A stranded auto may become a coffin.

LOCK WINDOWS AND DOORS

Check to see that you have done everything to protect your property from damage and loss.

CARRY ALONG SURVIVAL SUPPLIES

- First aid kit
- Canned or dried provisions, can opener, spoons, etc.
- Bottled water
- Extra family medication
- Spare eyeglasses, hearing aid and batteries, if required.

KEEP IMPORTANT PAPERS WITH YOU AT ALL TIMES

Parks Discontinue Reservation Fees

AUSTIN--Cash deposits no longer are necessary to make reservations for state park facilities, according to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Parks Division Director Paul E. Schlimper said in response to recently passed legislation, the $2 nonrefundable reservation fee and first-day user fee will no longer be required to reserve cabins, campsites and screened shelters.

All $2 nonrefundable reservation fees which were collected on or after June 7, 1979, will be refunded or applied as credit when the reservation is claimed, Schlimper said. Park users still may reserve facilities at each individual park by mail, telephone or in person, and the department has revised the system to include a more definite re-confirmation procedure. All reservations must be claimed not later than 8 p.m. on the first day of intended occupancy or the reservation will be cancelled and the facility made available to those arriving without reservations.

Reservation requests made in person will be confirmed at the time of placing the reservation. Telephone or mail reservation will be confirmed in writing if recieved three days or more in advance of the occupancy date. Persons who make requests by mail or phone and have not asked for a written confirmation should contact the park by telephone before departure from home.

Mainly For Seniors

Fun is where you find it

By JOHN T. WATTS
Copley News Service

Dear John: You have mentioned that you went to the Mardi Gras in New Orleans this year. Is that a fun thing for the senior citizen to do — and how expensive? — Senior Traveler.

Dear Senior Traveler: Fun is where you find it, and everybody can't find it in the same place. And yes, New Orleans is expensive for the tourist ... as what place isn't?

Breakfast at Brennan's cost $20 per person. For this we got whiskey punch or a bloody mary, hot baked apple, two eggs on English muffin and covered with Brennan's own sauce — something like eggs Benedict, but not the same, plenty of crispy French rolls and coffee, and dessert.

I understand this was the everyday price and not just for the Mardi Gras, also that Brennan's is a must in the eyes of many visitors. And you must make reservations, although the place holds a couple hundred people.

Also on the expensive side in the French Quarter were alcoholic drinks, ranging from $1.95 up to nearly $7. Of course a floor show was thrown in, if you want to call it that (minimum of two drinks).

You sign yourself Senior Traveler, which indicates to me that you travel in a motor home or camper. We stayed at the Parc D'Orleans and found it a delightful place, with the management very accommodating. Also Parc D'Orleans has two buses of its own, which take the visitors to the French Quarter all day long, free of charge. This was a great convenience, because you could hardly park a VW in downtown New Orleans, let alone a motor home. And of course the vehicles were barred from Bourbon Street most of the time.

A couple of brief visits there were enough for us. The street was filled from wall to wall with screaming, hysterical humanity. Painted faces seemed to be the mode of the day, also unclothed bodies. We saw no violence, however, despite the police strike. There were National Guardsmen and state troopers everywhere.

The French Market with its unique doughnuts and coffee was a bright spot. Also the boat and bus tours about the area, learning that the river is higher than the land, having to go through locks to get into the bayous beyond.

We attended a ball and that might be fun for some. No dancing at these balls, but sort of a tableau on some particular theme, a showcase for the costumes of the group in charge. And strict black tie for those attending.

Dear John: I started getting a pension May 1, 1979. The pension is $450 plus $300 supplement, until age 62. I will be 58 in October, so I will receive the supplement for approximately four and one-half years.

My question is, will both the pension and the supplement be taxable? (Federal income tax.) Or will only the pension be taxable? — Dave L.

Dear Dave: Without more information, it is difficult to answer. If you did not contribute toward the pension and supplement, obviously both will be taxable. Better talk to a tax expert, and give him all the details.

Letters may be sent to Mainly for Seniors, Copley News Service, in care of this newspaper. Volume of mail prohibits individual replies.

Sheriff's Report

Wanda Shiley reported to sheriff's deputies on June 19 that gun shots had been fired near her residence at Hwy. 881 and Rowe Street. Upon investigation, officers found the shots had broken the rear glass of a two-door LTD, and had hit the side window of a trailer in front of the Shiley house. In addition there was a third bullet hole in the front window of the house.

Edna Taylor reported an attempted burglary on June 18, when she saw the shadow of a person near the kitchen window of her house and heard breaking glass. Officers found the kitchen screen on the front porch.

Cheryl Regestuar reported a case of criminal mischief on June 16. She told officers she had left her residence at 112 Bay Leaf the day before, and when she returned the next day noticed a front window screen broken and raised. Nothing was missing from the home.

Whit Hunsaker reported a theft June 14, after noticing a nail gun and a radio were missing from his residence. A suspect in the case had spent the night with Hunsaker on June 13, and upon awakening the following morning Hunsaker found the suspect and the articles gone. Value of the nail gun and radio are estimated at $480.

Frank Casterline reported a burglary June 12, aboard the Alice "H" shrimp boat. Missing from the boat was a hailer valued at $300 and two Lorans valued at $500. Entrance to the boat was gained by an open door to the wheel house.

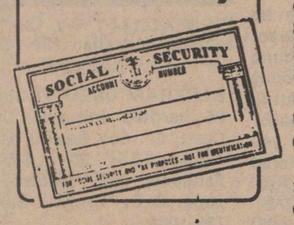

Permit Requests

The Army Corps of Engineers has received a request for permit from Frederick E. Barrett, 510 Calumet Place, San Antonio, for an existing fill on Redfish Bay, Lot 3 of the Burton and Danforth Subdivision, approximately five miles northeast from Aransas Pass. Approximately 996 cubic yards of trucked-in sand was placed in a wetland area measuring 85 by 135 feet behind an existing seawall, to reinforce the seawall and raise the land level. Comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P.O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553, on or before July 19.

Your Social Security

Payees collect SSI for drug addicts

Copley News Service

Q. I have heard that a lot of alcoholics and drug addicts receive Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments. It doesn't make much sense to me to pay money to those people when they will probably spend it on drugs or alcohol. — Y.J.

A. Whenever a person is found disabled because of drug addiction or alcoholism, the law requires that payment be made through a representative payee — someone who will control the payments and will manage the money so that it will be used wisely.

The law also requires that the individual be referred to a designated state agency to arrange appropriate treatment. If the individual does not follow the course of treatment, benefits may be suspended.

Q. I last worked for a certain employer five years ago. I just got a statement of my earnings from your Baltimore office and I don't think the wages paid by that employer are on my record. What can I do about it now? — P.F.

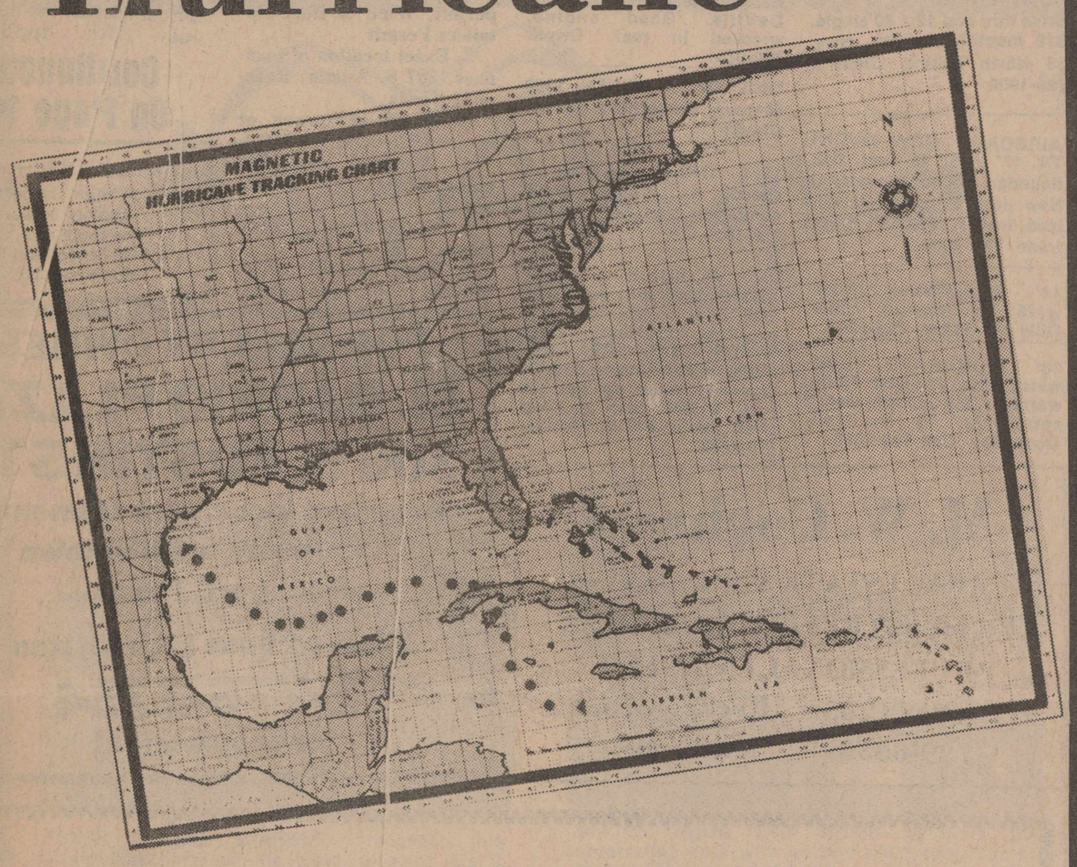

A. Normally an earnings record can be corrected at any time up to three years, three months and 15 days after the year in which the wages were paid. That rule would not apply if the employer made no report of any wages paid.

It's best to check with your Social Security office. They can check to see if that particular employer reported correctly and, if not, can take the necessary action to correct your record.

Q. I have just learned that my father is getting Social Security benefits since my mother's death last year. They were divorced many years ago and in the meantime, my father had remarried. his second wife died prior to my mother's death. Should he be getting those benefits? — Anon

A. If your father and mother were married at least ten years prior to the divorce, he could receive benefits on her account.
