AT&T released the digits 9-1-1 as being designated to be used as the national emergency number in 1968, said Penn.

The number 9-1-1 was selected because: It had not previously been used as an area code; miss-dials are unlikely on step-by-step phones; and it is an easy number to remember, she said.

In 1987, Governor Bill Clements signed into law House Bill 911, which designated 9-1-1 as the emergency telephone number for Texas.

The law allowed counties with populations of under 120,000 to participate in the statewide 9-1-1 program and designated the state's Council of Governments as the regional planners for the system.

Funding to install the 9-1-1 system was provided in part by a monthly service fee of 50-cents on all residential and business phone lines.

Baptist Women meet in Jessie Merket home

The Susan Everman Baptist Women's group of the of the First Baptist Church met Monday, May 11, in the home of Jessie Merket.

Eithelyn Lancaster was program chairman and she introduced Dorothy Savage and Glenda Jones, missionary moms from Snyder.

Mrs. Savage is the mother and mother-in-law of Paul and Kathy Savage, who have been in Tanzania for ten years. She has recently returned from a visit there where she found extremely poor roads made traveling difficult and the driving habits of the nationals really dangerous. She learned to eat native food with her fingers and had Sunday dinner with a national pastor in his one room thatched hut. She said the Foreign Mission Board takes very good care of our missionaries.

Glenda Jones' son Terry, wife Dee and four have just gone to Tanzania. She told of packing an 8" by 8" by 20 container to be shipped to sea with everything they will need four years. She told of the careful planning and packing involved and the loving and assistance of the Foreign Mission Board.

Earline Sellier led the calendar of prayer for missionaries with birthdays on May 11 and prayers for friends and families.

Guests enjoyed refreshments served buffet style.

The next meeting will be July in the home of Earline Sellier.

Wildflower seed collection could help beautification

Mitchell County citizens are asked to participate in an effort aimed at gathering wild flower seeds to be replanted in various sites around the county.

Plastic bags have been provided by Kay McCarley Jr. to be used in collecting bluebonnet and other types of wildflower seeds and may be obtained from the Colorado City Area Chamber of Commerce office.

The effort requests people that are willing to gather seed from such places as around the areas on Highway 208, collect the seed in one of the bags and return the collected wildflower seeds to the Chamber of Commerce office.

Wildflower seeds which are collected will be planted in various locations around Colorado City and Mitchell County.

For more information on the project, contact Kay McCarley, Jr. at 728-3735.

COUNTY AG NOTES

The webworms have invaded again. "Mild winters are pleasant as long as they last but we sure seem to pay the price the next year" says Bryan Limmer, County Extension Agent in Mitchell County. "It looks like we will have 3 or 4 generations of webworms again this summer." These worms, if not controlled, can completely defoliate trees, especially fruitless mulberry and boxelder trees. They can feast on over 100 different kinds of trees.

The fall webworm passes the winter as a brown pupa in leaves under bark or in trash at the base of trees. The adult stage, a white moth with black markings, emerges in early spring, mates and lays clusters of eggs on green leaves in the tree. Tiny worms hatch from eggs and begin to feed and make webs on the leaves.

"This is the stage that can be controlled easily and effectively" says Brian Limmer. "Once the worms get an inch long and the web gets well-formed, they are very difficult to kill." Since the small worms eat a lot of foliage, they can be effectively controlled with insecticides which act as stomach poisons such as the biological worm sprays containing bacteria (Dipel, Bio-worm Spray, etc.) or formulations containing Sevin. However, once the worms are over an inch in length, they do not feed much, so a contact insecticide must be used for effective control.

Insecticides which homeowners can use on mulberry, boxelder and other ornamental trees include the biological insecticides such as Dipel or Bio-worm Spray, Sevin, Orthene, diazinon or Dursban. Licensed pest control operators can use these plus products such as Mavrik Aquaflo or Tempo 2. The biological insecticides should be considered in areas around swimming pools, fish ponds, and other areas very sensitive to chemical insecticides since they are not toxic to humans, pets or fish. These products are effective if used before the worms are one-half in length and if good coverage is obtained.

Another alternative to insecticide sprays is the use of Acecap 97. Acecaps are tree implants containing a systemic insecticide that is absorbed into the trees. Holes are drilled into the tree and implants are tapped into the holes. The number of implants depends on the size of the trees. Acecap 97 implants are not 100% effective but they do appear to help. You may still see a few worms in the implanted trees but defoliation is unlikely.

The users of pesticides are always responsible for their proper use. Check pesticide labels to make sure the product is labeled for the site which will be treated.

Water aerobics planned

A summer session in Water Aerobics will start on June 8th. Wallace Center will be offering a four-week session in water aerobics on Monday and Thursday nights from 6:45 - 7:30 p.m. Instructor will be Laurie Lowrance at the Ruddick Park Pool. Water aerobics is similar to Regular aerobics, but the movements are performed in the water, resulting in less shock to the joints and muscles.

Total fee for this four week session will be $25.00, which includes pool fee.

Due to the liability of the C.I.S.D. and Municipal pool, please, no children allowed on premises during classes.

Anyone interested may register at the Wallace Community Education Center or for further information call 728-2392.

The Wallace Center will be closed from the 3rd of June until the 9th because of building repair. If possible register by the 2nd. Registration will be taken at the pool at 6:30 on the 8th.

Greenlee lauded by San Angelo officials

Editor's note: The following story about Mitch Greenlee appeared in the San Angelo Standard-Times on May 9.

Mitch is a 1974 graduate of Colorado High School and is the son of Don and Janie Lou Greenlee of Colorado City and Jane Duncan of Truth or Consequences, New Mexico. His sister, Leslie Jones, also lives in Colorado City.

By Bob Becknell
Staff Writer for the San Angelo Standard-Times

City and fire department officials on Friday evening lauded a Frito-Lay salesman who drove his van into a flooded San Angelo intersection during a heavy rainstorm April 16 to help save a woman trapped in a stalled car.

"Mitch Greenlee's quick thinking and prompt actions possibly saved the life of the lady in the stranded vehicle," Fire Chief Daryl Eddy said at a ceremony during the opening session of the Concho Valley Fire Control Conference at the fire training center. "Thanks to Greenlee, a serious tragedy was averted."

"I was glad to be there to help," Greenlee said.

"He saved my life," said Santa Rita Principal Linda Sluder, who was driving the car. "He was wonderful. He could see the precarious situation I was in. He was calm and reassuring. I would have been terrified if I had seen the situation."

Sluder said she was returning to school when she drove up to Avenue I and South Jackson Street.

"I had no idea the water was as deep as it was," she said. She said she drove into the high part of the intersection thinking the water would be shallower, but that the car hydroplaned and started to whirl in the water.

She said the car got pinned between a utility pole and another object and started to fill with water, which was quickly rising up to the top of the car.

"I moved to the back seat, opened the window and waited to be rescued," she said.

Greenlee, who was on his way home, drove up to the intersection before fire personnel arrived. "I could see the lady needed help, so I drove into the intersection, using the van as a barrier to keep the water from going completely over the car."

Paramedic Jim Corbett said the van diverted the water and aided the rescue. Otherwise, "I think the car would have been completely submerged, or would have rolled down Sulfur Draw," he said.

San Angelo Firefighter Association President Lt. C. V. Eaton presented Greenlee with a gold belt buckle for helping to rescue Sluder.

Eaton also recognized Dr. Steve Boster for his efforts in guiding and coordinating emergency medical service training for city EMTs for the past 12 years.

Let us show you a Texas you've never seen before.

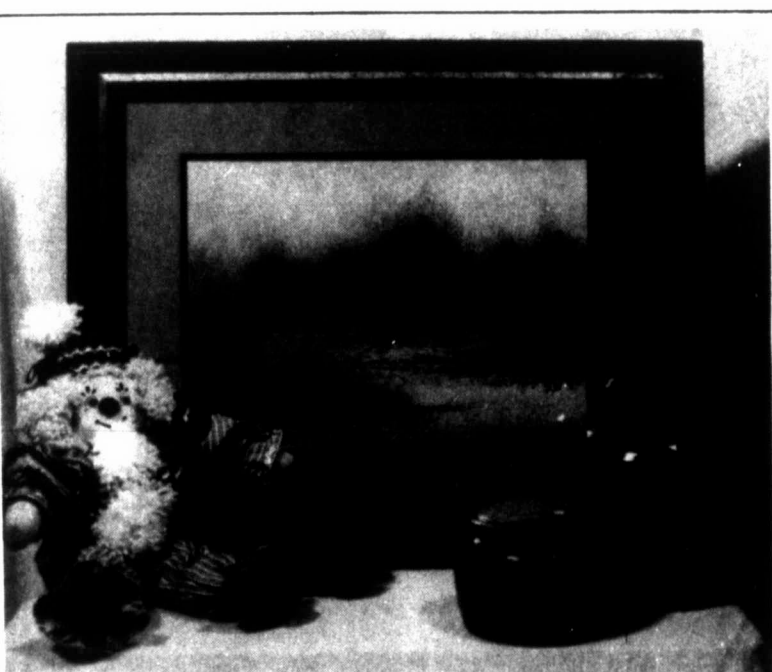

THE ROADS OF TEXAS is the culmination of a mammoth project that has involved many individuals for over two years. When you get your copy of THE ROADS OF TEXAS you'll wonder how you ever traveled the state without it.

This 172 page atlas contains maps that show the complete Texas road system (all 284,000 miles) plus just about every city and community! Texas A&M University Cartographics Laboratory staff members produced the maps, based on county maps from the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The details shown are amazing—county and local roads, lakes, reservoirs, streams, dams, historic sites, pumping stations, golf courses, cemeteries, mines and many other features too numerous to list.

Summer program begins June 15

Plans are now underway for a Summer Recreational and Educational Program at the Wallace Community Education Center.

This summer the session will only be held for four weeks, beginning on June 15, and continue until July 9, for four days a week. Monday thru Thursday, 8:00-12:00 noon. Registration deadline is June 1, said Margaret Truelock, Wallace Center Director.

This program is for Mitchell County children who have been in Kindergarten through fourth grades during the 1991-92 school year.

The program will be limited to the first 30 children enrolled.

A fee of $25.00 will be charged to cover cost of field trips, swimming and refreshments. Drop-ins will be accepted with a fee of $2.00 per day, with one day's notice.

Director for the Summer Program will be Margaret Conway. Activities will include crafts, exercise, field trips, skating, weekly library visits and swimming.

This program is also financed through the generous donations of civic clubs and organizations, without whose help it would not be possible. The aim of this program is to provide worthwhile activities to encourage children to work together in learning and playing.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

DEAN WILLIAMSON

This has been a strange week!
I had to hunt through the back of the closet to find my jacket since I hadn't expected to wear it again until next winter.

The rain has filled up the lake, the lottery has hit town and it's time for graduation.

I remember the excitement when I graduated.
Everyone in my class had the same goal -- to be professional athletes and make gobs and gobs of money!

It took a while to realize that our chances of reaching the goals were most likely not going to be attained.

Then it was up to us to decide what we were going to do once we got up and started our adult lives.

It was a lot easier when there were all the promises that you can do anything you want to -- but then you have to nail the plan down into a focus of action.

Some of the people who showed up at the last school reunion I went to still hadn't nailed down the job they wanted to spend their life doing.

Deep down inside, they still want to be a professional athletes.

As I sat sorting through the mail the other day, I pulled out a letter from Mary Scott Nabers who is the commissioner of the Texas Employment Commission.

I get the letters once a month which normally say the routine type stuff about how this month's compared to last month's and to last year's, but she reported some extra background this time.

I had just heard the news coming out of Washington, that the recession was over and that the economy was going to grow by 2-percent this year.

But the bubble was burst by the words in the commissioner's letter.

She said that the economy of Texas is being negatively impacted due to the fact that because of inflation, wages have slipped and the majority of the new jobs that have been created are low-paying ones.

"If this continues, and the trends are well-established, the standard of living for all Texans will ultimately drop," said Nabers.

That's not good news!

The TEC reported on statewide occupations and found that the most jobs added to the work-force between 1980 and 1990 was in the category of Janitors and Cleaners.

During this same time period, a wage study revealed that the 'real' average weekly wages have decreased since 1984.

It isn't a promising time to be getting a start on a career.

But it looks to me like if I were to go through a time warp and be graduating again, I would still be thinking the same thing that I was at that time: I want to be a professional athlete and make gobs and gobs of money!

Of course, I was like everyone else in my class. On the night of graduation I was more worried about what might not be in the folder.

We worried about the last minute pranks that we pulled during that senior week, and whether or not the teachers had found out -- and if they really had the power to keep us from getting our diploma.

But the glow of the graduation experience lasted through the summer.

It wasn't until Labor Day that the fateful morning came along -- it's on that day that there is a universal bleakness among those who have recently hung their diploma on the wall.

On that day, you wake up and realize that you are an adult.

And as an adult, you realize that it is you alone that is responsible for what is going to happen to you for the rest of your life.

And to be that 'anything you want to be' is going to take some hard work!
