Joe Wyatt speaks

Supports Reagan plan

By Ted Norman

Speaking to an enthusiastic and responsive audience at Allied Live Oak Bank in Rockport, former U.S. Congressman Joe Wyatt said he thought that President Ronald Reagan is doing a very good job.

Wyatt continued in his opening remarks telling the audience that he has spent the last two years — since deciding not to run for re-election — making some changes in his attitude about himself and taking a deeper look at this country.

The former congressman said he made the decision not to return to Washington because he wanted to fully regain his health. He said that during the two years he won his battle with alcoholism and lost 70 pounds.

Wyatt said this nation has increased its national budget from a total of 89 billion dollars 20 years ago to a 100 billion dollar debt today.

And he said we have nothing to show for it but one program after another, "We refused to pay for them and we went out and borrowed the money. It was a consumptive debt and today we don't have anything to show for it except a 100 billion dollar debt."

Wyatt continued his talk by telling the audience that corporations and wealthy American shouldn't have to pay for defense, Americans should pay for it.

The former congressman said that one out of seven people this country are fed by the U.S. government and he told the audience, "When a family of four sets at a table to eat they should set a place for the government."

While speaking about the social programs of the country Wyatt said, "I wish everyone could go to school but I have to ask the question, who is going to pay for it?"

"It's so easy to say what we should do is balance the budget but nobody wants to say how to balance the budget," said Wyatt.

He said that Social Security is probably going to be bankrupt in the future but today it has enough revenue to pay its way.

Speaking about defense Wyatt said, "It's time we stop kidding ourselves where we are. We have to catch up or we are going to lose the ballgame."

"It may not be a nuclear attack but a chipping away in Central America and the Mid East," Wyatt said. "We could have a tough time doing anything in Central America." He continued, "We don't have the planes or the ships to carry the troops on. The military situation is deplorable."

Wyatt said that 11 of the 14 divisions of the United States Army are unprepared to fight in combat. He said that we have lost at every war game we have attended.

"We must make the hard choice of what we are going to defend and what we are not going to defend," said Wyatt. "Any congressman that comes along and tells you there is an easy road is a person you better take a look at," he continued.

Wyatt said, "Congressman Bill Patman voted for a supplemental assistance heating oil program with the sum of the money going to the north east. This is the same congressman who tells you he is a conservative and in favor of a balanced budget."

Wyatt said he has knowledge of a

Country club annexation advances

By Ted Norman

Accepting the advice of the city planning and zoning commission, Rockport's City Council in a regular meeting Monday night voted to annex the new Rockport Country Club and Estates development, subject to plans being completed and the outcome of the two public hearings.

Planning and Zoning chairman Delmar Hiller explained that the final plat, deeds and restrictions and all other variances would be delivered to Rockport City Hall upon completion so the city could make the final action on the annex move.

Located north of Rockport just off Highway 35, Rockport Country Club Estates is a multimillion-dollar development that, according to the plans, will eventually include an 18-hole championship golf course, club house and other recreational facilities in addition to residential units. First phase of the project, now under way, calls for development of a nine-hole golf course, swimming pool, two tennis courts and pro shop and installation of roads and utility service for 140 fairway and 60 off-fairway lots.

When completed the project will provide approximately 750 homesites.

Annexation hearings have been set for 7:15 p.m. March 8 at City Hall and 5 p.m. March 22 at the site.

Council members voted unanimously to approve a $5,000 general homestead exemption on property taxes in Rockport. The exemption is provided under a state constitution amendment approved by voters last November.

The Planning and Zoning Commission also recommended that the council include a special use permit in the rezoning request made by Gene Goins to have an area rezoned from 1B to 2B. Goins said he wanted to build additional motel units or a coffee shop or a combination of both if the zone request was approved. Goins is the owner of the Las Brizas Motel on Broadway.

J.C. Gurley, Director of Public Works, told the council he had received information that it would cost between $8,000 and $15,000 to dismantle and haul off the elevated water storage tank located on South Magnolia Street. Gurley recommended that the work begin on March 22.

Councilman W.B. Allan asked Gurley if there wasn't someone who would do the job just to get the scrap metal and Gurley said there wasn't. Allen asked Gurley if he knew how much scrap metal was worth and Gurley replied he didn't. "You better find out then, because scrap metal is like gold," Allen said.

Gurley also recommended that 35 three-yard containders be purchased on March 22 to be used on new garbage trucks and packers.

The council accepted the first draft from City Attorney Allan Lee of a proposed ordinance to create the position of city administrator. Lee read the proposed ordinance to the council and they voted unanimously to accept it.

In other business at the Monday night meeting the council voted to allow Mineral Research Inc. access to Memorial Park to string a cable across the southeast corner of the park to do seismographic work for Houston Mineral and Oil. Mineral Research Inc. agreed to pay the city $100 for the access approval. Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. said the work would not interfere with any activities at the park and the seismographic work would be completed before the start of the 1982 Little League season.

City Secretary Herman Johnson told the council a survey has been completed in Rockport of homes with and without combustible roofs and the findings would result in a lower fire insurance rate for the city.

Johnson also told the council he had returned from an emergency management and explained that the federal government has established a new system for figuring emergency grants. Johnson said the new system was based on the city requesting the aid to submit a financial statement and the decision to grant aid would be based on that report.

Deadline approaches for ACMUD

Editor's note: The following is an account of Monday night's meeting of the Aransas County Municipal Utilities District No. 1 The Pilot's series on the past, present and future of this district and of Goose Island Lake Estates which it serves will continue in the Weekender.

By Pat Blair

Debt obligaitons totalling $125,000 due by March 1 and insufficient funds to meet the payments confronted members of the Aransas County Municipal Utilities District (ACMUD) board of directors in their meeting Monday night, Feb. 22.

In the meantime, no word had come from attorneys at South Most Savings & Loan who were reportedly examining district documents to determine if a lawsuit is feasible against the company that designed the malfunctioning water plant that serves residents of the district.

And board members made public a letter received last month from the Texas Department of Health in Austin concerning the poor quality of water presently provided through the district's water system.

Board members rejected a suggestion by attorney for the district, Herman Little, who recommended that the district write checks for the debt payments and send them, with a letter, to the Merchantile Bank in Corpus Christi where the payments are due. Little said the board should ask, in the letter, that the checks be held until money was available to cover them.

ACMUD Secretary Steve Shenk who relayed Little's message to the board — Little was unable to attend Monday's meeting — suggested that the board sign the checks but not mail them until money was available. "I'm not too keen about releasing the checks if they aren't covered," he said.

The money is owed in three separate payments to cover two tax anticipation notes and one bond payment. A tax anticipation note totalling $50,675, issued in 1980, is due on Feb. 26. Shenk said this note has been extended once — last year — and the noteholder now wants full payment.

A payment of $69,887.50 is due on a bond issued in 1977. Due date is March 1. Also due March 1 is payment of $4,675 ($4,600 in interest plus $75 to cover bank expenses) on a tax anticipation note issued in 1981. Payment of the principal on the note was extended for another year.

Board members tabled any action on the payments, with the possibility that an emergency meeting may be called sometime in the next two weeks.

Board member Daughtry Roberts, during discussion of the payments, observed, "If we don't come up with the money by the first of the March, I guess we'll be defaulting, right?"

Shenk added that officials at South Most Savings & Loan "are aware we don't have the ability to pay the notes promptly." Board members held to the hope that money to meet the payments will come from some source, either South Most or through payment of some of the district's current or back taxes.

In other action during Monday's meeting, Shenk, reporting on a recent conversation with Little, said the attorney told him the board of directors of South Most Savings & Loan met last week.

"They made no decision as to their participation in terms of financing or any assistance to the district," he said. He added the company's attorneys have not yet made any recommendations on what type of action to take, if any, against Environgenics Systems Co., the designers of the district's water plants.

Last month, Gary Counts, a representative of the savings and loan company, urged lawsuit against Environgenics and indicated that attorneys of South Most's board of directors might be willing to undertake such a measure on the district's behalf.

Shenk passed out copies of a letter dated Jan. 25 from officials at the Texas Department of Health to Hughes. The letter states, in part, "Chemical analysis of the water collected from your system on April 28, 1981, indicates concentrations of 710 mg. per liter of chlorides and 2120 mg. per liter of dissolved solids, both of which greatly exceed the limits established by the Department's 'Drinking Water Standard'."

In other matters before the board, Tax Assessor-Collector Alma Johnson told the board that, according to the law firm retained recently to pursue delinquent tax cases, "by next week there will be 30 lawsuits in progress."

Nelda Lee, Jack Bohn seek offices

Two more candidates have added their names to those filing for offices on the Aransas County school board and Fulton's city council.

Nelda Lee, a representative of the Committee for Better Schools has filed as a candidate for the School Board in Place Six.

Lee is "personally committed to expanding the school curriculum and upgrading the school conduct code at all levels." Other goals outlined by Lee and the Committee for Better Schools include planning for anticipated school district growth, encouraging community involvement in the schools and providing teachers with an opportunity for professional growth.

Lee says, "The ultimate goal is to improve the quality of our children's everyday experience and provide a stimulating and controlled environment for leading."

Lee has 15 years of experience in Texas schools. She holds a Bachelor's Degree in Education from Southwestern University, a Master's in Supervision from Trinity University and has two years of post-graduate work in the doctoral department of the University of Texas. She also holds teaching and professional certificates in six areas of education.

Lee is married to local attorney Allen C. Lee and has two children in Aransas County schools. She is presently the owner of Crazy Daisy Flower Shop.

Bait stand operator Jack Bohn has filed for Place 3 on Fulton's city council.

The spot is presently held by Alderman Elgin Dietz who has filed for re-election.

"I want to be involved in my community," was Bohn's explanation of why he is seeking the council chair.

A resident of Fulton for three years, Bohn and his wife were drawn to the area because of "boats and the water," he said. Starting out as a shrimper, Bohn still does all his own shrimping for his Beach Road Bait House which he opened 18 months ago.

"I plan to stay in Fulton," Bohn said, adding, "I want it to grow. This community, I believe, survives mainly on tourists. I want to beautify and promote the area to hang onto that tourist business."

Bohn emphasized that he owns his own business and "I am not obligated to anybody."

If elected, he said, he would like to see some type of project started to take care of the area's sewage problems. "And," he added, "I would like to see some type of full time law enforcement officer of our own."

He emphasized "I am not talking about two cars and three people but one man. I would like to see us (the city of Fulton) have our own people as we can afford it."

Computerized Instructional Management System

Bliss explains computer system

By Becky Werhan

"What I like about this system is that it doesn't remove the teacher from the learning process. It makes it easier for the teacher to teach." Those are the words used by Dr. Wayne Bliss to describe the Computerized Instructional Management System. This curriculum management system, which Bliss further describes as "not just regionalized, but localized for the Aransas County school system," was okayed for use in this district by the Aransas County School Board of Trustees at their meeting of Feb. 8. (See Pilot Midweek, Feb. 10)

Bliss, a former superintendent in the Nueces County School District is the head of Educational Aid Systems Inc., the Austin-based company which provides the computer system service. He stressed that this service is designed to aid the teacher in management of the "overwhelming amount of paperwork" involved in grading and evaluating students in the areas of Language Arts, Reading and Math. These are the subjects in which students were "grouped" — provided instruction commensurate with their individual skill levels — for the first time this year.

The Computerized Instructional Management System will be initiated for teachers in grades three, four and five and would then be "moved up" as those students advanced through the higher grade levels.

"This system is for the teacher. It is not a computer-assisted-teaching program," emphasized Bliss. "The students will probably never see the computer."

Plans are being made however, for students in the high school vocational education classes to receive some computer experience on the machine purchased by the school. Bliss estimates that it may be a year before the program is operational in Aransas County. "It takes a lot of work to set it up, but when it gets going, it will pay off."

First step in the adoption of the system is the purchase of the single micro-computer needed for the program. The choice of computer is up to the school district and has not been finalized yet. Also needed is a scanner and a printer. Estimated cost of this equipment is $11,000. This, when added to the cost of participation in Bliss's program should give a two year cost factor of approximately $30,000.

"Our program was originated with the large main-frame computers in mind," said Bliss. "When micro computers came in, the cost naturally dropped." The program was originated in New Orleans, where it is used on a main-frame computer system.

After purchase of the hardware by the system, a set of student performance levels, or measurable objectives are developed by county teachers, administration and Bliss's staff.

Following this step, what Bliss calls "criterion reinforcement test items" are developed by the same group. Some 10 test items are developed for each objective. "There will probably be about 450 objectives per subject," estimated Bliss.

Test items should come from four sources — the objectives set, the standard basic skills assessment used by teachers, textbook suggested items and the input of Bliss's staff.

An inventory of reinforcement material derived from available texts, library books and films is then programmed into the computer system.

When the teacher administers a test, it is graded by the computer which provides the teacher with a list of grades within a few hours. Also provided by the computer is an assessment of individual students and reinforcement suggestions for re-testing, using the sources previously programmed into the system.

Bliss said, "I was a teacher in Texarkana in 1970 and the paperwork that has fallen on teachers just since then is overwhelming. It takes an enormous amount of their teaching time away.

He contrasted this with, "With ths management system, if every teacher in the district gave a test and had it graded on the same day, they would all have their grades in a few hours."

Pilot Office Supplies

The Pilot newspaper sold the office supply division to the Carters who have re-opened at 520 E. Market.

Cost is stumbling block for solution to sewer problems

The big stumbling-block to a solution to Aransas County's sewer problems is cost.

County and city officials agree there is a problem, they agree something needs to be done — but they also agree that whatever is done will be expensive and they express doubts that county taxpayers will be willing to foot the tax bill.

"We definitely would like a sanitary sewer system," says Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline, speaking for himself and the city council. "There's definitely a need; we know that. And I'm sure within the next two years, the subject will be brought up pretty strong.

"But I don't think Fulton with its present tax base would be able to do anything like this," he added. "Unless they come up with a grant."

County Sanitarian Harold Scheer has called Fulton the county's worst sewage problem and has said that hundreds of gallons of raw sewage flow into the bay daily from motels and other businesses along Fulton Beach Road.

Attorney Allen Lee, speaking as a private citizen, has commented on the increasing pollution in area bays.

And the problem is one of long standing. A federal study in 1972 identified the entire Coastal Bend as a sewage pollution problem — and approximately three years later, a study by the Coastal Bend Council of Governments (COG) specifically pinpointed Aransas County as a problem area.

Lee has suggested as an interim measure — "strictly temporary" — that the City of Rockport might expand its facilities to provide sanitary sewer service to some areas, particularly along Fulton Beach Road.

But Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr., contacted on the matter, offers little hope that this can be done. "We can't operate even if we wanted to in someone else's area of responsibility," he said. And Rockport's responsibility does not extend into the township of Fulton.

"We could provide sanitary sewer service in 'no-man's land' (the area between Rockport and Fulton city limits) if they would pay for it or join the city," he said. "But the city of Rockport has taken the position in the past they don't want to put up a bond issue our people will have to pay for but won't benefit from."

The City of Rockport is presently waiting word on an application for a federal grant that would allow the city to expand its existing sanitary sewer plant just to cover its own projected needs over the next several years.

The city is ready for this grant, Falk said, but the project is pending a priority rating by officials in Austin. The rating will determine if Rockport receives funds any time in the near future for the project.

As a longer range solution to the problem, County Judge John Wendell has pointed out that Aransas County has the "tool" in the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District (ACCRD).

The ACCRD tried in 1980 to do something about what was then seen as a bad sewage pollution problem in the county. The board of directors applied for — and received — a federal grant for a study of the feasibility of a county-wide sanitary sewer system.

The study ended in a public hearing on June 8, 1981 — which also effectively ended the sanitary sewer project when county residents in a nonbinding vote overwhelmingly rejected the proposed facilities — on the basis of cost.

The county's share of costs for design and construction of the first phase of the facilities would have amounted, at that time, to more than $3 million. To pay this cost, a benefit tax was proposed that would be assessed only to owners of sewered lots and would have ranged from an estimated $159 to $243 per year.

But it all depends on the costs, whether people are willing to pay for the facilities officials believe Aransas County needs.

At this point, the officials seem doubtful.

Texas Brownbuilder Doyle McGehee: One of the Best

Doyle McGehee, from Angleton, is helping build the economic growth and progress of his state as part of Brown & Root's worldwide engineering and construction team.

Doyle joined Brown & Root in 1964 as a laborer and is now a maintenance foreman. He and his wife, Lee, live in Angleton and have three children. A U.S. Air Force veteran, Doyle is a member of American Legion Post 241 in Angleton and enjoys hunting and fishing on the weekends.

Another thing about Doyle: he's one of the best. He's helping Brown & Root do a better job, because he knows his job and gets it done right. His advancement with Brown & Root speaks for itself.

Wherever Brown & Root works, we always look for people like Doyle. We give preference in hiring to people in jobsite communities and offer them opportunities to advance as fast and as far as their abilities and merit take them. That way, we share the benefits of every job with local people and share the economic benefits of payrolls, purchases, savings and taxes with local communities and states.

Brownbuilder Doyle McGehee helps us all by being one of the best.

Medical students show increase

The number of students enrolled in Texas' seven medical schools during the 1980-81 academic year increased by nearly nine percent over the previous year, says the Texas Medical Association.

And the number of graduates from the state's medical schools rose by 26 percent during the same period.

The statistics were tabulated from nationwide figures compiled by the American Medical Association. Nationally, the number of students enrolled in medical schools during 1980-81 increased slightly over the previous year — from 64,195 to 65,497.

In Texas, medical school enrollment increased from 3,811 to 4,150 students, while the number of graduates rose from 741 to 938 over the same one-year period. The number of first-year medical students increased slightly — from 1,123 to 1,137.

Reflecting a national trend, the number of women enrolled in Texas medical schools increased from 860 in 1979-80 to 1,000 in 1980-81. Statistics for 1980-81 show that women comprised 24 percent of Texas' medical school enrollment and 26.5 percent of the nation's medical students.

Texas continued to rank third in the number of residents entering medical school — 1,044. Leading were New York with 1,941 and California with 1,428.

Freshmen win again, barely

All season long, Bill Mott has led the Pirates in scoring, but foul trouble and a tight defense forced him to the bench and the other Pirates took up the slack to help the team past Tuloso-Midway's Freshmen 46-42 in Tuloso Friday night.

Rockport jumped out to a ten-point lead in the first quarter, mainly on the sharp-shooting of Louis Solis who hit ten of his 16 game-points in the opening quarter. At the end of a period, the Pirates led 16-6.

Things slowed down in the second period and Tuloso closed the gap a bit, leaving the halftime score 26-19. Only Trinelle Walls's eight points kept the Pirates ahead by that margin.

Tuloso made the game tight in the third period as they whittled the lead to a mere 34-38. The Pirates had to play for all they were worth to hold the Warriors down at the end of the game.

With Mott scoring only nine for the game, others like Solis and Steve Odom (10 points) had to pick up the scoring lead.

JV blasts Tuloso-Midway

In a convincing manner, Rockport-Fulton's JV bounced the Warriors of Tuloso-Midway 61-46 on the Warriors' home court Friday night.

Both teams played it even in the first half with the Pirates getting a 16-13 first quarter lead, and then holding off the Warriors to lead by only two baskets at the half, 28-24. In that first quarter, Rusty Stovall, playing tough ball of late, scored six points to help stake the Pirates to the three-point lead. Then, Charles Showalter posted six points in the second as the Pirates upped their lead by one.

The third quarter proved to be the finest for the JV, scoring 18 points, and holding the Warriors to only seven. Stovall was the hot man in the third period, hitting 10 of his 19 for the game in that quarter.

Jay Turner turned in a fine second half performance, scoring eight points and grabbing numerous rebounds and starting the fast break.

By the end of the third period, the Pirates were on top 46-31. Big John Longino was a factor in the middle under the basket, snaring rebounds to control the ball for the Pirates.

Good hustle and team play kept the Pirates on top for the remainder of the game. The fourth period was highlighted by an incredible over-the-head shot by Ross Huff, and the basket brought the fans and the Pirate bench to their feet.

Pirates go down to defeat again

After going 5-3 in the first half of the District 15-4A race, the Rockport-Fulton Pirates found a way to give another game away Friday night to the lowly Tuloso-Midway Warriors, 73-69. After losing in the last seconds to Sinton on Tuesday because of poor defense, the Pirates seemed to forget everything they had been taught in the first half Friday in the loss that sends them to 1-6 in the second round with a single game to play.

Early in the first quarter the Warriors exhibited their outside shooting ability as they took a 12-4 lead before the Pirates began to respond. Coach Bobby Flanagan repeatedly told his troops, "If you let them set for their shot without a challenge, they'll kill us." And as if he were a prophet, the Warriors did just that.

The Pirates closed to within three points at the end of the first quarter, cutting the lead to 15-12. The Warriors tore the Pirates up on the backboards, grabbing almost every available loose ball.

In the second period behind the shooting of Micheal Simmons, the Pirates fought back and even took the lead, but then the Warriors kept the pressure on the Pirates with the outside shooting and maintained the lead, 32-28 at the half. The Pirates had some players on the floor in the first half which seemed not to have their minds on the ballgame, some just standing there and letting the Warriors have their way.

In the second half, the Pirates seemed to wake up, but even that did not do the trick because the Warriors played with the same intensity as before. Jon Shaw and Simmon hit baskets starting the second half to tie the game, but the Warriors jumped back ahead to stay for the remainder of the game, despite what the Pirates did.

As has been the fate of the Pirates in the last few games, the officiating did not go in their favor. The Pirates were whistled for 23 team fouls, while the Warrios had only 13 fouls against them. The Pirates never got to the free throw line in the first half, and the Warriors hit 8 of 12. In the second half, the Pirates had to wait until 6:50 remained in the game before the first Pirate free throw was shot, and that was by Zack Green. The Pirates finished the game with seven of 10, but the Warriors finished with 25 of 35.

The Pirates tried hard in the last quarter to narrow the lead, but the Warriors, who have won only eight games all season, had on their shooting clothes, and they did just that.

The Pirates trailed 52-48 after three periods of play, and Tuloso struck quickly in the first few minutes of the final quarter to get as much as a nine point lead at 57-48 before the Pirates made a run at the score. When the game was over, the scoring would indicate that the Pirates had a good night with four players hitting in double figures, but the defense gave up double figures to four Warriors as well. Tim Redden led the Pirates with 18 points, mostly coming from the outside. Simmons, who kept the Pirates close in the first half, cooled off and finished with 16 for the night. Both Rory Morgan and James Walls finished the night with twelve. Walls, however, scored his points in the second half, not even scratching in the first sixteen minutes of play. Aaron Commander, who had a tough night shooting, did get on the backboards and lead the Pirates with a total of 10 rebounds.

Sugar Ray Leonard thinks of retiring

Welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard is only 25, but he's thinking about retiring next year. "I might not even go that far," said Leonard, who is training for his Feb. 15 title defense against Bruce Finch at Reno, Nev. "I won't retire and then unretire and retire and unretire. I'll know when it's time to quit."

Dallas Green, the Chicago Cubs general manager, noted at the team's mid-winter press conference that "the weather is frightful but everybody is talking baseball." Green, whose first move was to hire Lee Elia as manager, said, "Lee knows he'll be the first to be fired if we don't get the job done and I'll be the second."

On a report of a possible trade of shortstops, Ivan DeJesus of the Cubs for Larry Bowa: "I will not trade DeJesus even up for Bowa," said Green. "If I can get two other players from Philadelphia to fill key positions, I'll take a shot at it. The matter is in Philadelphia's court." ...When you're heading home even the sky seems to say it's Red. Johnnie Walker Red. The right scotch when all is said and done.

Enos Slaughter, the former St. Louis Cardinals' star, said there's little doubt which of the great Cardinals' teams he played on ranks at the top — the 1942 world champions. "There's no question in my mind that of all the clubs I played on, this was the best," Slaughter told me, the rightfielder on the team that won 106 games and the pennant after trailing the Brooklyn Dodgers by 10 games in August. The team included: Johnny Beazley and Mort Cooper, who combined to win 43 games; a rookie leftfielder named Stan Musial, shortstop Marty Marion, Whitey Kurowski, Terry Moore and Walker Cooper. "I didn't make much money, but I'm happy I played in that era," said Slaughter, a career .300 hitter who hung up his uniform in 1959.

If there's any sports figure who quintessentially defines the emerging 1980's, surely it's Sugar Ray Leonard. With his boyish good looks, a smile that won't quit and a demonstrated poise both in and outside the ring, Sugar Ray has added impetus to today's continuing repopularization of boxing.

A development that hasn't been evident since the celebrated Muhammed Ali first came to national prominence. Never one to flinch from ever newer and greater challenges, Sugar Ray Leonard now embarks on an even more diversified role with his participation as star and host for MCA TV's new syndicated series on national team boxing, "Sugar Ray Leonard's Golden Gloves." There would be no better forum for his participation than with Golden Gloves boxing competition, as Leonard has certainly "paid his dues" within the Golden Gloves system. There can be no doubt that Leonard is ideally suited to an enterprise that emphasizes the introduction of extraordinary young boxers.

What could be more valuable and pertinent to the world of amateur boxing than the commentary of a champion with the stature of Sugar Ray Leonard.

Carson Thompson, a former Temple basketball star who coached Portland Trail Blazers coach Jack Ramsey at Darby Township High School, isn't that thrilled with the changes in the game. "The players are so fast," said Thompson, who graduated from Temple in 1932. "They just get big men who are in shape and can run. In my day, they used to spend half of each practice on defense. I don't think they bother with that today."

Lynn Swann, the Pittsburgh Steelers' big-play receiver, has been named the 1981 National Football League Man of the Year. The winner is determined on the basis of contributions to his community as well as playing excellence. The former Southern Cal all-American serves as national chairman for Big Brothers and Big Sisters and works closely with the Pittsburgh chapter of the Multiple Schlerosis Foundation, among other civic projects...

...Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner has not yet given up in his attempts to acquire free-agent outfielder Reggie Jackson. "I don't know what'll happen, but I'll be talking to Reggie again soon. Real soon. I'm going to try like hell to pull it off. I haven't made my last offer yet. Just think how much fun it would be to have Reggie in Atlanta."

Dogs can develop hepatitis also

Hepatitis like leptospirosis is spread through the urine. The virus can be transmitted by placing infective material, such as urine or saliva, in the mouth of a susceptable dog. If the dog has been immunized through preventive innoculation, the dog will not develop hepatitis.

On the front page of The Rockport Pilot, Wed. Feb. 17, there appeared, in large print, this statement "Aransas County is a big sewer pit." Because of sea level elevation, many septic tanks over flow and the residue drains into ditches. Among other things, this residue contains urine.

Hepatitis is easy to prevent in dogs by giving an innoculation to all dogs three months of age or older, then repeating four weeks later. An annual booster innoculation should be given thereafter. Most veterinarians use a vaccine that also gives protection against leptospirosis and distemper in the same injection. Don't be a spreader of hepatitis; be a preventer. Have your dog innoculated.

Speed up tax refund: use label

Taxpayers can help speed up the processing of tax returns by using the pre-addressed, peel-off labels and by double checking their arithmetic before mailing the returns. As simple as the items appear, they are the cause for thousands of errors every year, the IRS says.

The lable comes with the tax package in the mail and lists the taxpayer's name lists the taxpayer's name, address, social security number and other bits of information which help the IRS in processing the return quickly.

If any of the information on the label is incorrect, the correction can be made directly on the label. Taxpayers should also use the coded envelope included in the tax package. It's preaddressed and helps the IRS sort returns.

Errors such as checking the wrong filing status, failing to sign the return, math mistakes, and the omission of necessary documents are common mistakes, which can delay taxpayers' refunds. The IRS must correct the errors or obtain the documents before processing the return.

Most errors can be avoided if the return is double checked for accuracy and the label is used.

SSI report important, says spokesman

It is very important that people receiving supplemental security income (SSI) payments report every event that could affect the amount of their payment, David Tutt, Social Security district manager in Corpus Christi, said recently.

At the very least, failure to report an event can result in the person receiving a payment that was not due. This money would have to be paid back. In addition, the person may have to pay a penalty of as much as $100 for not reporting when he or she was supposed to.

Reports can be made by telephone, by mail, or in person. Any report should include name, Social Security claim number, change being reported, date it occurred, address, and signature if the report is made by mail.

The following changes must be reported:

- Any change of address or move.
- A change in household — if anyone moves in or out of the home.
- A person enters or leaves an institution.
- A person leaves the U.S.
- Marriage or end of marriage.
- A person's income changes.
- Any change in a person's resources, what he or she owns.
- If a person is a sponsored alien.
- Change in school attendance for person under 22.
- A drug addict or alcoholic stops treatment.
- A person cannot manage funds.
- A person dies.

A person getting SSI because he or she is disabled or blind must report if his or her condition improves, taking a job, or change in work expenses.

More detailed information about reporting requirements can be obtained at the Social Security Office. The telephone number is 1-800-392-1603.

Wallace praises new solar-heated bank building

SAN ANTONIO — Expressing hope that it is "the forerunner of a trend in the increased development and use of solar technology," Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace joined officials of Texas Bank in opening the bank's new three-story solar heated building in San Antonio.

Wallace, who is chairman of the Solar Advisory Committee of the Texas Energy and Natural Resources Advisory Council, said the solar apparatus used in the Texas Bank building represents one of the first major independent investments of private funds for a solar project in the state.

Citing upcoming reductions in federal funds for solar projects and research, Wallace said private investment would be called upon to take up the slack. He said federal monies would be cut from $257 million in fiscal year 1982 to $72 million in fiscal year '83.

Wallace warned against energy complacency just because foreign oil imports and gasoline prices are declining, saying "the risk of turmoil throughout the Middle East continues to threaten an oil supply line we depend upon for 3.4 million barrels of crude oil per day. If that line is cut, we are without."

"The energy debate of the 70's must give way, not to a complacency in the 80's, but to a commitment to reasonably produce and develop all of this nation's vast and precious energy resources," he said. "If we push and push hard, solar and other renewables can play a most vital role in the total energy mix."

Fulton woman injured in mishap

Cathy Hendrickson, 19, of Fulton was taken to Coastal Bend Hospital after suffering minor injuries in a car-pedestrian accident at the Circle K in Fulton Saturday evening, Feb. 20.

Hendrickson was in the roadway on Highway 35 North, according to a report by Texas Highway Patrolman Mark Little, when she was struck by a car driven by Faustino Perez, 35, of Star Rt. 1.

Perez was subsequently charged with driving while intoxicated (DWI).

Little's report said that "60 feet of skidmarks were laid to the point of impact."

Hendrickson was taken to the hospital by a unit of the Aransas County Emergency Medical Service. The accident occurred about 7:05 p.m.

Social Security rep to visit

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be at the Courthouse in Rockport at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, March 3.

The representative will answer questions and also help the questions and also will help claimants file applications for the regular Social Security benefit payments as well as for Supplemental Security Income benefits.

Landlords should require rentor to fill out applications before accepting them as tennants

If you are a landlord, here is one way to screen prospective renters. Require them to fill out applications before accepting them as tenants.

Some of the more detailed applications ask for name, social security number, salary, employer, supervisor, bank and the names of present and previous landlords. This helps you determine the applicant's reliability. Along with the application, you can ask for a deposit of as much as one month's rent, which must be returned if the application is turned down as a tenant.

A credit check may be required from the local credit bureau, and you may ask for a letter from the applicant's employer, confirming the salary statement. It is really a matter of judgement when it comes to granting a lease, but checks on the prospective tenant will give you some basis for that judgement.

Adjusted mortgage loan allows interest to vary

For years mortgage lenders have been talking about needing greater flexibility because of inflation and rising interest rates. Yields on mortgages have not kept pace with the increasing cost of loanable funds.

In response, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board has issued regulations for the new adjusted mortgage loan, which allows federal saving and loan associations to offer mortgages with interest rates that can change as often as every month.

There are no limits on increases in interest rates and monthly payments. Changes in the interest rate, however, must be tied to changes in an index beyond the lender's control.

Lenders must lower the mortgage rate if the index goes down, but increases are optional and can be passed on to the homeowner through the monthly payment, the pricipal or the term of the loan up to 40 years.

Renting has advantages

While much has been said about the advantages of owning a home, there are advantages to renting as well.

Renting means freedom from financial risk. A house can lose value, especially if it is not kept up. If you are forced to relocate quickly, you may not be able to get your money back when it comes time to sell.

Neighborhood quality can decrease if other owners do not keep up their homes or if there is increasing crime, noise, traffic or other problems. Renting means freedom from a long-term commitment.

Typically, mortgage payments extend 20 or 30 years. When you rent, your money is not tied up for a long time. And renters do not have the maintenance problems that owners have.

Remember, renting has advantages and disadvantages. Examine both before deciding whether to rent or buy.

High interest rates cause trouble for savings and loans

You may have noticed news of financial trouble for many of the nation's savings and loan institutions. The industry cites high interest rates as the source of its current problems.

The high rates push up the cost of deposits for a savings and loan because the S&L must compete against other investment opportunities for these deposits.

Teens' faith in president Reagan drops

NORTHBROOK, ILL. — Just one year ago, 19 percent of the nation's outstanding teenagers expressed a great deal of faith in the office of the presidency. Today, 45 percent of the teen leaders say they have tremendous faith in the country's number one office.

This dramatic change is recorded in the results of the 12th Annual Survey of High Achievers conducted by the publishers of "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Some 22,000 student leaders participated in the survey.

In the latest survey, three-quarters of the respondents expressed support for Mr. Reagan's proposed federal spending cuts and 67 percent listed the economy as the President's first national priority.

If the top ranking students had the option to tell government what to do with their tax dollars, 82 percent would support education. More than two-thirds would allocate funds to defense and 67 percent would put their money towards energy resource development.

Considering national issues, eight out of 10 students advocate mandatory registration of handguns. Yet three-quarters think criminals will still get guns and use them.

A fair majority (56 percent) of the teens favor mandatory draft registration and in the case of Third World conflicts where communist nations are involved, 48 percent would send "military advisors." Further, these teens would favor U.S. military intervention if a communist country were the aggressor in South/Central America (68 percent), Europe (70 percent) and the Middle East (48 percent).

Some 68 percent favor the use of nuclear power as an energy source and a little more than that number(69 percent) are in support of capital punishment.

It would appear that the nation's teen leaders take a hard line in dealing with national and global issues.

Anyone can do any amount of work, provided it isn't the work he is supposed to be doing.

January drilling report

AUSTIN, Tex.. Railroad Commission Chairman Jim Nugent announced that Texas operators reported 121 gas and 43 oil discoveries in January 1982.

One year ago, 65 gas and 64 oil discoveries were filed with the state's energy regulatory agency.

Gas discoveries in the first month of the year included 43 in deep South Texas, 28 in Southeast Texas, 18 in the Refugio area. 15 in West Central Texas, four each in East Texas and the San Antonio area, three in East Central Texas, two each in North Texas and the Midland area, and one each in the Panhandle and the Lubbock area.

Oil discoveries included 11 in Southeast Texas, 10 in the San Angelo area, six in North Texas, four in the San Antonio area, three each in deep South Texas and the Lubbock area, two in the Midland area, and one each in East Central Texas, East Texas, the Panhandle, and the Refugio area.

In January, operators reported 562 exploratory and field tests wound up as dry holes. New applications for permits to drill oil and gas tests totaled 2,862 in January compared with 3,028 in the same period of 1981.

Applications to drill, deepen, plug back and for service wells in January amounted to 3,099 against 3,271 a year earlier.

Operators filed 791 amended applications to drill.

3131 most popular number in Rockport

The busiest number in Rockport may well be 729-3131.

From its installation on Aug. 27, 1979, through Dec. 31, 1981, some 424,645 calls have been made to it. Through January of this year, 32,920 have been placed.

What makes it so popular? It's First National Bank's "Time and Temperature" number. Just those seven digits will guarantee the caller an up-to-the-second report on time and current temperature here in Aransas County.

Those who call the number frequently may be surprised to learn that the friendly feminine voice coming to them over their telephone actually comes from a machine. The voice belongs to Jane Barbe (pronounced Bar-bee) a resident of Atlanta, Ga., who — in addition to making commercials — records telephone messages for Audichron Co., also of Atlanta.

Audichron is the company that provides the time and temperature machine used by First National Bank of Rockport.

A native of Florida and longtime Atlanta resident, Mrs. Barbe's telephone messages are heard just about world-wide. She is able to adjust her voice to fit most any situation, from a business-like edge for Audichron's users in the North to a little lilt in her "Texas voice."

Located in the Southwestern Bell Telephone building in Rockport, the time and temperature machine has three separate wheels on which information is recorded.

On one wheel are First National Bank's "messages" — plugs for its services, special holiday greetings. Another wheel is a continuous recording of times.

The third wheel, attached by cables to a sensor on the roof of the building, consists of temperature announcements. As the wheels revolve, the message is repeated continuously with the time and temperature readings inserted automatically in the appropriate places.

The entire recording, according to George Hawkins with the phone company here, takes about 10 seconds. This means it plays about six times a minute, 360 times an hour, 8,640 times a day.

GeorgeAnn Lesterjette and Ernie Camehl take care of the machine and change the message wheel periodically so that people who call at the same time every day — and many do, Hawkins says — don't always here the same "commercial" for First National Bank. The message wheel is the only one of the three that is changed.

Problems with the machine have been few, Hawkins says. The temperature gauge "has stuck a few times during cold weather" but the machine has not been "down" since its installation.

During its first not quite five months of service, through Dec. 31, 1979, the time and temperature number was dialed 60,779 times. In 1980, there were 177,761 calls and in 1981, 186,105 calls.

Based on this, officials at First National expect 729-3131 to be dialed even more during 1982 . . .

Oysterfest is drawing near

FULTON — Fulton's volunteer firemen are running out of time to prepare for their third annual Oysterfest. The event starts next week, March 5.

However, says General Chairman Leslie Cole, they have all the time they need and everything will be ready when the 'Fest gets into swing — literally — with a country-western dance at the Paws & Taws Building on Friday night.

The dance will be followed by the Blessing of the Fleet and boat parade at 9 a.m. Saturday, March 6. Also at that time, the arts and crafts booths — more than 40 in two big tents — and "kiddy" rides and games will also open, Cole said.

"We'll have arts and crafts, food booths, video games, country-western music — and of course the bucking bull," Cole says. The bull will be operating from 8 p.m. until midnight Friday during the kickoff dance, all day Saturday and all day Sunday.

Danch the Clown will be part of the entertainment scheduled for younger 'Fest-goers, Cole added.

Special events during the Oysterfest will be highlighted by the Oyster Eating Contest at 5 p.m. Saturday, winners of which will be crowned king and queen of the event.

Also included in special events will be a demonstration by Fulton firemen of their Jaws of Life equipment, an oyster stew cook-off Sunday afternoon and — new this year — an oyster-shucking contest that starts Saturday and climaxes in finals at 3 p.m. Sunday, March 7.

The Oysterfest is sponsored by the Fulton Volunteer Fire Department which uses the profits from the event to purchase needed equipment and supplies. Money from this year's Oysterfest will be used to help pay for the FVFD's new pumper truck.

Thefts range from beds to boat

Thefts ranged from beds to boats in Aransas County last week, with a bicycle, trailer and unrevealed amount of cash rounding out the reports of county sheriff's deputies.

The boat, a 1974 16-foot Quachita, and the trailer it was on, totalling $600 value, was taken around noon Wednesday, Feb. 17, from the residence of Herman Dabbs on Fuqua street.

Also on Wednesday, sometime between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., someone took a Western Flyer bicycle valued at $100 from the garage of Richard Dominguez, North Ann.

The vehicle is a 20-inch boy's bike with dirt bike wheels.

The bed was reported by Aransas County insulation Co. and was reportedly valued at $225. Also missing, according to the deputy's report, was a "substantial" amount of cash.

Elections scheduled for county water, utility districts

Directors will be elected to two of Aransas County's water and utility districts in a busy day of balloting coming up Saturday, April 3.

In addition to school board and city elections and a local option decision on bingo, voting is also set on April 3 for two directors of the Aransas Coutny Conservation and Reclamation District (ACCRD) and three on the board of the Aransas County Municipal Utilities District No. 1 (MUD).

Up for election on the ACCRD board are the seats held by Jack McDavid — board chairman who resigned last month — and Wileen Schmidt. So far one candidate has signed up, Frank Samson of Rockport, seeking to fill the vacancy created by McDavid's resignation.

Because McDavid's term expires in April, both terms to be filled are for a full six years.

Residents of the ACCRD — which includes most of Aransas County — will vote in the north lobby of the Aransas County Courthouse on April 3. Absentee balloting, which gets under way on March 15, will be in the office of County Clerk Ruby Hart.

Only residents of the ACMUD — the district that serves Goose Island Lake Estates in Lamar — who are qualified to vote will be eligible to cast ballots in that district's election.

In order to run for the director's office, a candidate must own property or reside in the district, according to Board of Directors Secretary Steve Shenk.

Skip Hughes, current president of the board, and board member Leonard Owens have signed for re-election. Also up for re-election this year is Daughtry Roberts. As of Monday, Roberts had not signed for re-election but Bill Southern, a district resident and property owner, is seeking election.

Filing is at the ACMUD office on 8th street in Lamar. This will also be the site of absentee and the regular elections.

Three burglaries reported in Rockport

Burglars hit three Rockport residents last week but made off with the goods in only one of them, according to police reports.

A television set valued at $100, 12-gauge shotgun valued at $200 and a $20 AM/FM cassett radio were reported missing after the residence of Charles Dupnik was burglarized between 5:30 p.m. Friday, Feb. 19, and midnight Saturday, Feb. 20.

Burglars removed a screen from the window to gain entry.

In another attempted burglary Sunday, Feb. 21, police were alerted about 1:32 a.m. when an alarm was triggered at the Harbor Oaks residence of Earl Sword.

Police said the window on the west side of the residence was broken out with an unknown instrument but nothing appeared to be missing.

The third burglary, which occurred sometime during the past weekend, was at the residence of Virgil Landeth where someone gained access through the north side of the structure.

Nothing was reported missing. The incident occurred sometime between noon Friday and 12:30 p.m. Monday.

Accident

Cars driven by Bunny Jo Ousley of Rockpot and Paul Joseph Holzinger of Midland were in collision about 2:30 p.m. Monday at the Orleans-Broadway intersection.

Police said Ousley was west bound on Orleans and Holzinger southbound on Broadway when the accident occurred.

Theft

Carl Hoit reported 16 letters, valued at $1 each, were taken from the sign in front of his business at Compass Printing.

The theft occurred between 6 p.m. Sunday and 8 a.m. Monday.

In other activity over the weekend, police arrested a Fulton man on charges of shoplifting a pair of sunglasses from a local grocery.

Another man was charged with theft under $5 and public intoxication after he allegedly took canned meat from convenience store in Rockport.

Two persons were charged with driving while under the influence.

Women of ACMSI move into workshop this week

The Women's Committee of Aransas County Medical Services Inc. will begin moving into their new workshop--First National Bank's Town Hall Building -- this week.

That was the report from Mary Casey, workshop chairman, at the committee's luncheon meeting Friday, Feb. 19, at the Sandollar Restaurant.

Joann Haskell, chairman of the Valentine Dance, gave the final figures on the funds raised by the dance on Feb. 13, telling those at the luncheon the committee took in $5,070 and netted $4,028.19.

All proceeds from the dance are used to help maintain Aransas County's Emergency Medical Service. Mrs. Haskell also extended her thanks to all those who volunteered time, services, food and door prizes to the affair.

Dr. Bill Kemmerer, surgeon at Pockport's Enterprise Medical Clinic, was guest speaker at the meeting Friday. Dr. Kemmerer showed a film on breast cancer provided through the American Cancer Society.

Rabies upswing ending

Texas had 698 confirmed cases of animal rabies last year and hopefully is nearing the end of a four-year rabies upswing which started with 556 cases in 1978.

Dr. William R. Bilderback, Director of the Zoonosis Control Division in the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, said the trend has been downward since the occurrence of 1,198 cases in 1979 and 945 cases in 1980.

The cases last year resulted in at least 824 exposed persons, who were brought to succesful treatment with rabies vaccine because of the efforts of veterinarians as well as public and private physicians. Although not charged as a Texas case, a presumptive case of rabies led to the death of a 27-year-old man in Oklahoma. He was bitten by a rabid animal while camped out near Corsicana.

Cats were the source of many human exposures last year. In rural areas, many cats are allowed to live in barns, under sheds and houses where they come into direct contact with skunks, the number one source of rabies in Texas. Because of the playful nature of cats, which includes biting and scratching, exposure often occurs before rabies is evident in the animal, Dr. Bilderback said.

Skunks also are the primary contributors to rabies in dogs, horses and cattle. In fact, last year skunks accounted for 515 cases, or almost three-fourths of the total number of confirmed cases, which were spread over 147 of the 268 counties. Other mammals found to be infected included 79 bats, 27 cattle, 25 foxes, 22 cats, 12 dogs, eight horses, seven raccoons and five others, including a badger, ringtail, goat, lamb and bobcat.

Dr. Bilderback reminds us that the key to lowering the number of human contacts with rabies is the vaccination of all pets, especially cats and dogs, and the removal of stray and sick animals. Many communities are enacting leash laws to help eliminate strays.

THE SIGN BEHIND OUR NEW SIGN

Allied® Live Oak Bank

There is a sign on a wall in an office that says, "If it works, don't fix it."

If it weren't for that sign, and the philosophy it stands for, there might not be an Allied Live Oak sign going up outside our bank right now. Because Live Oak Bank works. And it's always worked. And if it didn't work — day in and day out — in the best interests of the folks in Aransas County, we'd never have been as successful as we have.

Allied Bancshares recognized that. In fact, that's the kind of bank Allied wanted to merge with — one that's already doing it right, and one that can only benefit the community even more with Allied's help.

So while there are some exciting changes in store for us all, there are some things we wouldn't change for the world. The people, the friendliness, the attitudes, and the concern for Aransas County that you knew at Live Oak are still the same at Allied Live Oak. All the checks, envelopes, deposit slips, and other forms you have are still good, and you can use them 'till you run out. And we know that when it does come time for you to have new ones printed, you'll be as glad to see "Allied Live Oak" on them, as we are to see our new sign.

Because the only changes that are being made, are for the better.

Hearing scheduled to air Matagorda land question

CORPUS CHRISTI — A public meeting will be held here March 8 to gather information for preparation of an environmental impact statement (EIS) for the disposition of 19,000 acres of federal property located on Matagorda Island. Input gained at the meeting will be incorporated into an EIS to be prepared by the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, officials said.

The meeting will be hosted by the USFWS and the General Services Administration. It will be from 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. in Room 223, Bayfront Plaza Convention Center, 1901 N. Shoreline Dr.

The proposal calls for transferring the property to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for management as a state park and wildlife management area, as summarized in its Matagorda Island Conceptual Plan.

The 19,000 acres in question have been managed as part of the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge by the USFWS under a 1971 Memorandum of Understanding with the Secretary of Defense. Before 1975 the site was a U.S. Air Force installation.

Persons interested in making oral presentations at the meeting should contact Thomas Smith, U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, P.O. Box 1306, Alburquerque, NM 87103. Written statements or comments may be submitted and should be sent to the USFWS Regional Director at the same address by March 11, 1982.

Officials said the draft environmental impact statement should be available to the public in late May 1982.

National Council sponsors National Cooking Contest

Each year the National Council sponsors the National Chicken Cooking Contest. This contest awards $20,000 each year to the five best recipes for using broiler-fryer chicken (2 to 3½ pounds) - $10,000 for first prize. Practically anyone may enter - professional home economists, poultry specialists, Extension Homemakers or even chefs. Please note that this is different from the usual policy of excluding professionals. There are no age limitations so 4-H'ers may enter also. All entries must be in by April 1 to be eligible for this years' cookoff in Dallas, on August 18.

For the 1982 National Chicken Cooking Contest

1. Enter - by mailing a recipe for broiler-fryer chicken (2 to 3½ pounds) by April 1, to: National Chicken Cooking Contest, P.O. Box 28158, Central Station, Washington, D.C., 20005. Write name, address and phone number on each recipe.
2. Recipe - should give exact amount for each ingredient. Chicken may be whole or any part or parts.
   All ingredients should be familiar to most people and nationally available.
   Should be written for approximately four servings.
   Total preparation time must not exceed three hours (including marinating, deboning, etc.).
   Should not include garnish. Garnish is anything that is not essential to the taste of the finished dish.
   As many recipes as you like may be included in the same envelope, but each recipe must be on a separate sheet of paper.
   An official entry form is not required.
3. Person - entering must be a resident of any one of the 50 states or D.C. and living there at the time of the cookoff.
   Previous $10,000 winners are not eligible.
   Employees and directors of the National Broiler Council and their families are not eligible.
   No age limitation.
4. Calendar - Entry period Jan. 1 - April 1.
   Texas Cookoff - Austin, May.
   National Cookoff - Dallas, Aug. 17-18.
5. Judging - All eligible recipes judged equally on simplicity, appeal, taste and appearance.
   One finalist from each state and the District of Columbia cooks in the national cookoff.
   Texas cookoff of five best recipes - as determined by judging agency - will determine Texas winner.
   Texas cookoff sponsored by Texas Broiler Council and Texas Department of Agriculture.
6. Prizes - Any contestant in Texas will have expenses paid to Dallas.
   Top prize of Texas cookoff is eligibility to cook in National cookoff in Dallas.
   Every contestant in national cookoff receives from National Broiler Council: expense paid three day trip to National cookoff and a trophy.
   Cash prizes at National cookoff awarded by National Broiler Council:
   $10,000 - First Prize
   $4,000 - Second Prize
   $3,000 - Third Prize
   $2,000 - Fourth Prize
   $1,000 - Fifth Prize
7. Cookbook - Each year a cookbook is published containing current national finalist's recipes, some previous winning recipes and chicken information.

State can raise money without new taxes

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday the Comptroller office is fully capable of bringing in the money in 1983 and 1984 to take over costs of the food stamp and dependent children programs without new state taxes.

"We in the Comptroller's office will meet President Reagan's challenge of 'New Federalism' just as we have met other challenges, by increasing efficiency, dedication and hard work," Bullock said.

For the past four sessions of the Legislature the Comptroller's office has increased tax collections to pay for new and expanded services authorized by the Legislature without deficit spending.

He noted that in 1981, Texas' population increased 1.9 percent and that inflation was 8.9 percent but that state tax collections by his office increased 23.2 percent over 1980.

"This additional 12.4 percent — or $900 million — over and above population increases and inflation in 1981 just didn't blow in with a blue norther," Bullock said.

Approximately 1.2 million Texans take part in the food stamp program and 296,000 mothers and children receive help from the aid to families with dependent children program.

Cutright to seek office

John Cutright, conservative democrat from Austin, announced Monday that he is seeking election as state treasure in the May primary.

"Being a businessman, and having served as a bank director," Cutright said, "has given me a good working knowledge of how the state treasury should function." Cutright also stated that he felt the state treasury when managed properly could benefit both the people of Texas and the banks which serve as depositories.

Cutright, 46 years old, is an independent oil and gas producer and has several real estate interests. Cutright has been politically active for many years, having served as a delegate to the state convention last year and participated in several house interim study committees. Cutright holds a B.S. and M.S. from East Texas State University in Commerce, Texas, and was once a government teacher there.

Cutright is married to the former Janna Thanisch from Dalhart, Texas, and they have two children.

If you're going around in circles perhaps it's because you are cutting too many corners.

Denton to seek re-election to Court

Justice James G. Denton announced that he will be a candidated for re-election to his seat on the Supreme Court of Texas.

Judge Denton will be seeking a third six-year term on the state's highest tribunal, having been elected to that post in 1970 and re-elected in 1976.

"I have enjoyed my service on the Supreme Court," Denton said in a prepared statement. "I believe my 30 years of valuable experience at both the state and local level enables me to continue to make a worthwhile contribution to the judicial process."

Denton stressed that he will continue to be an independent, conservative voice on the Court, and will be guided in his opinions "only by the facts, and with impartiality toward all parties."

Denton, a native of Bonham, was educated at Texas Tech and the University of Texas School of Law. After a period in private practice, he began his judicial career as Judge of the County Court of Law in Lubbock County in 1950. He was elected 99th District Court Judge in Lubbock in 1952 and served until appointed Chief Justice of the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals in 1959. He was twice re-elected to that position before his election in 1970 as Associate Justice to the Supreme Court.

Denton said that he will again file as a candidate in the Democratic Primary.

Who votes, who doesn't

Election judge has final responsibility

The final responsibility for deciding who is — or is not — eligible to vote in a city election rests on the election judge.

That's the word from city officials in Rockport and Fulton during a discussion of the voter registration lists — the computer printouts that election officials use to check the names of persons voting in an election.

The question of a voter registration list was brought up during last week's workshop meeting of the Fulton city council, when Fulton resident Dan Shelton asked city officials if the city planned to put out a list of registered voters in the city.

To this, Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline replied, "We never have."

What Fulton does have, furnished each year by the county, is a list of registered voters in precincts 3 and 4, the two county precincts that include — but are not limited to — the City of Fulton.

The list that comes from the county clerk's office includes registered voters living outside as well as inside Fulton city limits. This list goes as is to the election officials, says Casterline, and it is up to the election judge, when a would-be voter comes in on election day, to determine whether that person is a resident of Fulton.

"That's the way it is in any election," Casterline says. "That's the way it's always been." Asked if this has ever caused a problem, he said, "Not before this. No."

In Rockport, several thousand residents larger and quite a few years older than Fulton, the voter registration list "is a problem," according to City Secretary Herman Johnson.

"It's been a problem for a long time," he said, adding that "seven or eight years ago," there was a court case involving the alleged voting of someone who was not a resident of the city.

The city does provide election judges with a list of the street addresses inside Rockport city limits, but it is still up to the judge to check these against the voters' list provided by the county.

Ultimately, says Johnson, "it's the judge's responsibility."

State laws, according to Jim Boyd with the elections division of the Secretary of State's office in Austin, require only that the county maintain a list of registered voters. "There is no separate registration for cities," he said.

But, he added, the county is required to furnish a list of voters to the city and "the city should be aware of who is eligible to vote" in its elections.

"One of the important parts of the election is that list of registered voters," Boyd said. "It's basic to the process."

But for cities who must cope with dividing the eligible voters from the non-eligible, says Johnson, "it's a problem you have to try to cope with the best you can."

Newsletter helps parents understand child

Growing Child

What does an infant really see? How does a child learn to walk? Talk? Feed himself? Is the child who keeps banging a spoon against a pan purposely trying to drive her parents crazy?

There is a newsletter for parents that answers questions like these. It's called Growing Child, and it tells about the physical and cognitive development of children during their first six years.

It would tell the parents of the child banging the spoon on the pan, for example, that what the child is really doing is learning about cause and effect. She's learning that something she does (moving her arm up and down) causes something else to happen (noise). She's delighted at her discovery, so she does it over and over to make sure it still works.

The parent who understands that is much more likely to be able to tolerate the noise with some measure of good humor.

Each issue of the newsletter tells parents what their child is capable of doing. It tells why the child does what he does (like banging the spoon), and what he's learning while he's doing it.

The way the newsletter does this is a unique subscription system based on the child's age. If a child is one month old, for example, the parents get the newsletter that tells all about the growth and development of one-month-olds. The next month they receive the issue that tells about two-month-olds.

The writers are all specialists in children. Their theories are based on real-life observation and experience.

One of them is a practicing optometrist who specializes in visual and perceptual learning disabilities. Another is an internationally known expert on children's motor development. Two others are husband and wife team who are developmental psychologists specialzing in special children — the gifted, and those with learning disabilities, mental retardation, emotional disturbance, and speech and hearing problems.

Another of the writers is a disabilities therapist who develops special education programs in the schools for children with learning problems. One is a practicing pediatrician who is concerned primarily with the communication of health information to parents. The staff also includes a speech pathologist and a counseling and guidance professional. Altogether, it took the writers and editors eight years to complete 72 monthly installments, and they are constantly updating the newsletters to reflect new research findings.

A second newsletter, called Growing Parent, accompanies each issue of Growing Child. "Growing Parent is written to help parents know themselves, understand others, and just cope with the day-to-day realities of being a parent," Ms. Kleckner said.

The third and most colorful part of Growing Child is a catalog that offers over 600 educational toys, books, and records. The toys are especially selected to help a child in the growing, learning process.

A year's subscription costs $11.95. For a free sample of the newsletter, write to Growing Child, P.O. Box 620N, Lafayette, IN 47902. Be sure to include child's birthdate when writing.

Visitors take advantage of travel services

AUSTIN — More visitors than ever before took advantage of travel services offered by Texas State Tourist Bureaus in 1981.

Operated by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation, most of the 12 bureaus are at highway entrances to Texas. They serve travelers with information, routings, suggestions for itineraries, and help with travel-related questions about Texas and its attractions.

The record number of 2,652,579 visitors served during 1981 was 16.3 percent more than the previous-year total. An additional 265,136 inquiries for tourist information were received and processed last year.

Visitors to the bureaus received some 6.3 million pieces of travel literature of which almost 1,725,000 were publications of the highway department. The single most popular publication was the Official Highway Travel Map, with 603,100 distributed.

The private sector of Texas tourism - local chamber of commerce, commercial attractions and other tourist-related entities - provided an additional 4.6 million free, colorful brochures.

Tom Taylor, director of the highway department's Travel & Information Division that oversees the tourist bureaus, said, "Before the year started, we were confident our services would attract an increased number of visitors. There were uncertainties as we approached 1981, but our confidence in the tourist industry was justified by the record-setting number of visitors we served last year.

"We are approaching the 1982 season with the same confidence," Taylor added, "and we remain hopeful that 1982 also will be a banner year for Texas tourism."

Broadway is my beat

Natalie should have listened

With Joey Sasso

Cast of Characters . . . Senator John Warner, tormented and humiliated by publicity surrounding his wife Elizabeth Taylor, took the initiative in ending their six-year marriage. When news of their split first broke in December, Liz issued a statement saying that the separation was amicable and that she and Warner accepted the "change in their relationship with sadness but with no bitterness between them." But Washington insiders claim it was the climax of Warner's last-ditch "love-me-or-leave-me" effort to bring the wayward Liz back into line . . . and save his faltering political career.

Ever since Liz threw herself back into her showbiz career last year in the Broadway play Little Foxes, her 53-year-old husband has had to endure a barrage of newspaper speculation linking her romantically with the show's producer, Zev Bufman. More recently, there have been reports of a romance with soap star Tony Geary, whom she met while filming some episodes of General Hospital in which he plays heartthrob Luke Spencer.

Even the prestigious Washington Post began to print rumors of Liz's alleged infidelities and every day Warner had to go before his colleagues knowing that Liz's behavior was the main topic of conversation on the Washington cocktail party circuit. A close friend of the senator's revealed: "Warner is a proud man . . . and these things are difficult for anyone to read in the paper.

"For a while John tried everything. He became interested in her acting career and was ecstatic when she got the part in Little Foxes. He hosted cast parties and tried to be supportive in every way. "Maybe he was trying to gain control of his marriage. I don't think anyone knows for sure - not even John. "But one thing is for sure: He realized he couldn't let things continue the way they were.

"And he knew that if things didn't change he wouldn't have a marriage worth saving. "That's why he forced her to make a decision. "But I don't think he really thought it would work. " . . . When you're heading home, even the sky seems to say it's red. Johnnie Walker Red. The right scotch when all is said and done . . . Superstar Natalie Wood would be alive today if she had paid attention to her daughter's dreams, say sources close to the family. Natasha, Natalie's 11-year-old daughter from her marriage to scriptwriter Richard Gregson, suffered psychic nightmares for seven days leading up to the Nov. 29 tragedy. Those nightmares foretold of Natalie's death, says a friend who saw Natasha and her grieving stepfather Robert Wagner in Switzerland at Christmas. "Natasha kept dreaming that Natalie was going to leave them" the friend told me exclusively. "But every time Natalie was awakened, she just comforted Natasha by telling her, 'Don't worry, I'm not going anywhere.' "Regrettably, the vision of her leaving took on tragic overtones in shocking circumstances nobody thought possible. It was definitely some forms of premonition."

Presbyterians conduct 'Adventures in Living' series

Presbyterians, visitors, and friends will be conducting their second in a series of seven "Adventures in Worship", at 8:30 a.m. Sunday, Feb. 28, in the Sanctuary of First Presbyterian Church located at Live Oak and Laurel Streets. This historic worship service was celebrated in Rome in 155 A.D. in either the home of a Christian family or in the catacombs.

The catacombs were the ancient burial grounds of the Romans. They were damp, musty, the dark corridors festooned with cobwebs, but they were ideal for the secret meetings of that early sect, the Christians. The local gossips of Rome speculated that the Christians were a dark assembly of seditious fanatics who engaged in orgies and cannabalistic feasts!

"Christians took great risks meeting together and we know the kind of penalties they paid — crucifixion, burning at stakes, becoming playthings for gladiators," explained the Rev. Bradshaw, pastor. "In fact," he said, "the early Christians were a minority group, hounded by the establishment of the day; and that is a disturbing fact when we remember that we are the 'establishment' of our day."

Tax returns up

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Thursday returned $106.4 million in local sales tax payments to 954 cities who levy the one-percent local tax saying, "This is the biggest single payment since city sales tax rebates began in 1968."

Rockport received a check for $48,950.67 for its share of the state tax refund. This was a decrease of $2,967.53 over the same period last year.

The refund brings the cities total refund to date to $59,297.51 an increase of 5.60 percent over the same period last year.

The city of Fulton received a refund check of $4,953.26 for its share of the sales tax refund and this was an increase of 64.32 percent over refunds received by Fulton in the same period in 1981.

Heritage Day nears

March 2 is Texas Flag Day. Over 10,000 flags are expected to be flying for this official Texas Heritage Day.

Around Texas, organizations and individuals are taking this oportunity to pay tribute to their state and its flag by flying the "Lone Star" on their homes and public buildings. Local activities will include flag raisings, proclamations by mayors and county judges, speeches and special programs by service clubs, historic organizations and patriotic groups.

The Texas flag was adopted in 1839 as the official standard of the Republic. It became the state flag after the Treaty of Annexation was signed in 1845.

There were several designs for a national flag prior to 1839, but each of them incorporated a single star. The star signifies that Texas was alone in the Mexican Confederation and that the star of liberty was rising.

This gave Texas it's nickname, "The Lone Star State".

Texas Flag Day is a Texas Heritage Project of the Texas Historical Foundation. For more information about this and other programs, contact the Texas Historical Foundation, P.O. Box 12243, Austin, TX 78711, 512/472-6784.

Bullock announces small business refund

AUSTIN — Comptroller Bob Bullock said that 16,000 small business corporations in Texas are in line for refunds ranging from $10 to $450 because they overpaid their corporate franchise taxes last year.

"A refund on taxes overpaid is just as important to us as a due bill on taxes underpaid," Bullock said of the refunds to small corporations who filed the franchise "long form" when the "short form" would have saved them money.

The businesses were identified by computer programs developed by Bullock's office to spot overpayments as well as tax delinquents.

A corporation with less than $1 million in assets that does 90 to 100 percent of its business in Texas is eligible to file the shorter return. However, the law requires that copies of a federal income tax return accompany the state short form.

Although these smallest corporations account for 18 percent of the 165,000 firms that pay the Texas franchise tax, they produced only about one percent of the $417.4 million the state received from this tax in 1981.

"The short form is far easier for the taxpayer to complete and cheaper for us to process," Bullock said. "After we show these companies how much they can save by using it, we expect more of them to take advantage of it next time they pay their taxes."

The Comptroller's Business Tax Division will re-figure the companies' taxes and issue refunds.

New Little League park requested in hearing

Development of Rockport's newest park land as a new ballfield for the Aransas County Little League was requested in a public hearing on annexation of the 4.009-acre site Monday afternoon.

The hearing, the second public hearing on the proposed annexation, was held on the recently-purchased land in keeping with state laws that now require two hearings on any proposed annexation, with at least one hearing to be held on-site.

No opposition to the annexation was expressed and annexation of the land was tentatively approved in Monday night's regular council session.

Anita Dingenary put forward the Little League's reques for use of the land, telling the council at Monday's hearing, "The Little League is in bad need of another ballpark."

She said the organization presently has two playing fields for some 500 youngsters and one ballpark which is too small for the older Little League participants.

"We feel this would make an excellent ballpark," she said of the newly-purchased park site.

Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. observed that it is a city park and that the ACLL represents the entire county.

"We're not getting any support from the county in developing and taking care of this property," he said.

He reminided Mrs. Dingenary Monday afternoon's hearing was strictly on the subject of whether the land should be annexed into the city. "Our policy now is that the use of the land go through the city park board," he said. "You have to talk to the park board first."

He and other city officials present urged that Mrs. Dingenary go to the park board.

As part of the request for use of the land by the Little League, Mrs. Dingenary asked that the city not proceed at this time with plans to fence the park.

She was told that the city fences its park property routinely and that, because fencing the park is part of the grant application through which the city got the funds to buy the land, the city must fence the area.

Also present at Monday's hearing were Christi Vaughn and park board member Kathryn Winkleman and council members Burt Mills. Murray McMillan, and W.B. Allen. Alderwoman Betty Jean Ward was absent.

Public School Week scheduled March 1-5

March 1-5 is Public Schools Week and area schools are already extending a welcome to parents and other visitors. During this week visitors may drop in on classrooms and get a chance to get acquainted with their child's school environment.

All area public schools will be open during the week for visitation.

At Live Oak Elementary School, a special bicycle safety program sponsored by the VFW Ladies Auxiliary and the Sheriff's Department will take place right in the middle of the Public Schools Week, at 2 p.m. on March 3. Children in grades 3-5 will see a film on bicycle safety and will receive special reflective tape for their bikes.

At Rockport Elementary, the bicycle safety program wil be presented on Tuesday, March 2 at 2:30 p.m., again by the VFW Auxiliary, in conjuction with the Rockport Schools Week, the Rockport Elementary PTA meeting will feature a special music program put on by the Rockport Elementary fifth graders.

Fulton Elementary is busy all during the Public Schools Week, beginning on Monday, March 1 with the bike safety program by the Ladies Auxiliary and the Sheriff's Department. On Wednesday, Fulton students will compete in a kite flying contest, using only homemade kites. This contest runs during the Fulton P.E. classes, from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Thursday night is Fulton's Open House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The fourth and fifth graders will present a special program for visitors.

On Friday, a Heart Association - sponsored jump rope marathon will wind up Public Schools Week for Fulton. "Jump Rope for Heart" marathoners will collect pledges for how long they jump. This special event begins at 12:30 p.m. and is expected to last for two or three hours.

Wyatt

government program in Corpus Christi that pays $4 per hour to people to go clean houses. "I ask you this. Do you want to pay for it?" Wyatt asked the audience. Wyatt said this is a fifteen million dollar program, "And don't forget there are thousands of 15 million dollar programs out there."

During a question and answer period Wyatt told the audience that Texas is getting $1 back for every $1.14 it sends to Washington. "We used to send 97 cents and get back a dollar," he said.

Wyatt said he had no sympathy for the layed off auto workers and was against the government program of giving $1,000 to people who buy American cars. "It's time the American auto makers come to grips with the reality of the world," he said. He continued saying he didn't have any sympathy for a person making $20 or more an hour and drawing 85 percent of his salary on unemployment and not having to pay taxes on it. "I have very little sympathy for the auto workers in case you can't tell," said Wyatt.

Wyatt said he believes that President Reagan is doing the right thing in his efforts to cut taxes and balance the budget. He said the most important thing about the Reagan tax bill is that there are incentive to save. "I think President Reagan has done the right thing and hopefully we are going to be able to infuse capital into the American system."

Wyatt said there is no magic wand and that's what we have to come to grips with. "If we don't vote republican we are going right back into the silly mess we had before," said Wyatt.

Wyatt then turned his attention to an article written by Congressman Bill Patman in which Patman warned that Soviet Submarines could come into Lavaca Bay. "If there is a Soviet submarine in Lavaca Bay I can assure you it will be aground."

Wyatt, responding to an audience charge that the news media is always writing about what is wrong, said, "Someone out there is always looking for a problem, then they ask the federal government to solve it," he said.

Engineers begin fee collection

Mustang Park, including Bear Creek, Shady Rest and Mustang Point campsites, is one of the campgrounds involved in the new User Fee Collection Program started by the U.S. Army Corp of Engineers on Feb. 1.

The collection of fees is required under the law at all federal campgrounds providing tent or trailer spaces, drinking water, sanitary facilities, access roads, reasonable visitor protection and other facilities. Electrical hookups for campers are available in some parks as well.

The fees range from $3 to $6 per day at designated campsites. Fees of one dollar per day will be collected for use of electric outlets in addition to the campsite fee. The Corps of Engineers will be providing at least one free camping area, without electrical hookups, at each Corps of Engineers lake.

The basic family fee at Mustang Park is $6 for the Bear Creek and Shady Rest sites and $3 for the Mustang Point location. The additional dollar for electrical hookups brings the fee to $7 for Bear Creek and Shady Rest. No electricity is provided at Mustang Point. Period of collection will start April 1 and run through Sept. 30.

Holders of the "Golden Age" or "Golden Access" passport will still receive a 50 percent reduction of camping and electrical hookup fee at all Corp of Engineers operated fee recreation areas.

Gestalt therapist to speak

Dr. Janes Oldham, Gestalt therapist, psychiatrist, author and world lecturer, will be guest speaker at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 25, at the Center of Positive Thought, Magnolia at Cornwall.

Dr. Oldham will explore the subject of "attractiveness" — ways in which people inhibit their natural attractiveness and how they can enhance their attractiveness to others. Dr. Oldham believes attractiveness is something people learn, not something they are born with.

Dr. Oldham became interested in how people attract each other when, as a surgeon, he began studying the communication between doctors and patients.

This research led him into the field of psychiatry and to his present post on the faculty of the Gestalt Institute of Toronto, Melbourne and Perth.

Art Association plans sale

The Rockport Art Association has received furniture and appliances and many other items from donors in the area, however they need a lot more items for their upcoming garage sale. There are about five weeks left to gather, tag and price these items in preparation for the sale.

If you have anything to donate to the sale take your contributions, as soon as possible, to the Art Association headquarters at 406 Austin Street. The association headquarters is open seven days a week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Rockport art student receives award from CCSU

CORPUS CHRISTI — Jeffrey Maxwell of Rockport was among 97 junior and senior high school art students from 24 area counties honored at an awards ceremony Feb. 13 at Corpus Christi State University.

Maxwell received an Honorable Mention for his work in acrylics at the Southern Texas Scholastic Art Awards ceremony.

These awards are annually sponsored by CCSU and the Corpus Christi Junior League. Works will remain on exhibition at the Center for the Arts Weil Gallery through March 7.

Scholarship fund established

A new $1,000-per-year scholarship for graduate computer science students has been established at Corpus Christi State University.

The H.O. Hartley Memorial Scholarship Fund is funded by an anonymous donor.

The first scholarship will be awarded this Fall. Preference will be given to applicants who are in need of financial assistance, those who have a history of academic excellence and those who are minority students.

Dr. Herman Otto Hartley (1912-1980) founded Texas A&M University's Institute of Statistics in 1963. While at A&M, he served as president of the American Statistical Association in 1979. At the time of his death, he was a Duke University professor.

Notable Notes

Explorer program

The Rockport Law Enforcement Explorers, Post 343, will hold a Felony Awareness program at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 27. Rockport police officers, County and reserve deputies, and local DPS Troopers will participate in several life-like scenarios that they could encounter on routine patrol duty.
If this program is successful, the Explorers hope to take it to other towns.

Seafood dinner

The Women of the Rockport Church of God are busy making plans for a seafood dinner Saturday, Feb. 20. Beginning at 11 a.m. in the Fellowship Hall and lasting until everything is sold, plates will be served for $3.75 per plate. The Women of the Church of God invite everyone to come by for the meal.

AARP dances

Rockport's AARP chapter sponsors dances every Thursday from 7 until 10 p.m. at the Paws & Taws Building on Fulton Beach Road. Music is by Gene Rickles and the dances are open to the public.

P.E.O.

P.E.O. Chapter EO will meet at the home of Mrs. W.K. Thomas, 2009 Glass Ave. at 1 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 23. Should visiting P.E.O. members wish to attend, please call 729-6941.

Fulton Elementary Winter Carnival — fun for (almost) everyone

This youngster seems to have her hands...and mouth...full of cotton candy. She was one of the many children enjoying this sticky stuff and all the other treats at the Fulton Elementary Winter Carnival last Saturday. Several hundred attended the carnival, which is an annual event at the school.

Seems like everyone wanted this tot's face painted but him. He just didn't seem to enjoy it as much as all the other children who had "make-up" jobs done at the Fulton Elementary Winter Carnival last Saturday. Face painting, cartoons, balloons, cotton candy, jelly bean guesses, fire truck rides and more were enjoyed by the kids and adults alike at this annual event.

A FLAIR FOR BEAUTIFUL DECOR is what you'll see in this beautifully decorated & furnished house. Cool whites & blues let you feel the sunlight inside this house; the high ceiling of the den with its storey windows and canopied ceiling make you feel you can touch the sky. The 3 upstairs bedrooms are carefully coordinated & decorated to make you feel special. A spiral staircase descends to the ground floor den, tastefully colored in shades of brown & accented with a white mock fireplace & contemporary panelling. Also on the ground floor, a fourth bedroom & third bath, plus gameroom, artificial turf-covered patio. Furnished, carefully coordinated & absolutely beautiful. $129,900
BEAUTIFUL PLANKED AND BEAMED CEILING is raised over large den and dining areas, as well as the kitchen, of this canal-side home. In different directions off the central living area are two bedrooms and two baths, front and back partially covered decks running the length of the house, and an enclosed stairway leading to another bedroom and bath downstairs. Also included are the boat dock and fish-cleaning table, a washed concrete patio, storage/work room, two car carport, and an established yard. $152,500
YOUR TROPICAL PARADISE could be here when you see all the shrubs and palm trees. Covered deck, your own private boat dock, boat lift, large concrete patio. The house itself is beautiful with four bedrooms, three baths, spacious panelled family room, utility room, enclosed parking. $159,500
YELLOW FLOWERING HIBISCUS are part of the mature landscaping complementing this pretty yellow house on the water. Situated on an extra-wide lot, the house had plenty of room for its three bedrooms, three baths, large kitchen, and separate dining area with a clear view of Little Bay. Lots of extras including ceiling fans, boat dock on a wide canal, utility room, two car garage with extra space and workbench, and dual air-conditioning and furnace systems. Comes furnished. $199,500
TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THIS OPPORTUNITY — This home has a bit of everything you want (waterfront location, a den & master suite overlooking the canal, wet bar with soda dispenser & icemaker & a den with a fireplace), and everything you need (a den, a gameroom, 4 bedrooms & 3 baths, a kitchen with a Corning cook top, a workshop, an office, & a large storage room). Other pluses include a washed concrete patio a deck overlooking the canal, a fenced backyard, and enclosed entrance and stairway. Large assumption. $225,000
STRUCTURALLY SOUND AND LIVABLE, TOO — Take note here of heavy beams and posts bolted on iron bases and the practical and pretty living arrangement. All the daytime living areas are downstairs; the large kitchen, water-side den, formal dining and living room, half bath, utility room, air conditioned workshop and two car enclosed garage. Then upstairs, three bedrooms, two baths, and lots of storage. Many extra features include a flower garden, boat dock, fish-cleaning table, cable TV, and intercom system. Comes furnished. $250,000

Physician believes that health care cost can be reduced

AUSTIN, Texas, — An Austin physician who helps administer the Texas Medicaid Program believes that something can be done to slow the increase in the cost of health care.

Fred Lucas, M.D., says that preventive care can be one of the most effective weapons in the battle against soaring medical expenditures.

Lucas is medical director of National Heritage Insurance Co. of Austin. National Heritage, a subsidiary of Electronic Data Systems Corp. of Dallas, underwriters and administers the Texas Medicaid Program. Lucas has appeared on several Texas radio and television shows to discuss preventive care. He also writes "Healthy Advice," a weekly newspaper column offering hints for good health.

"One important method used to promote preventive health care is the Early Periodic Screening, Diagnosis and Treatment program, which is state administered, using funds allocated for Medicaid," Lucas said.

Through the Texas Department of Human Resources, the agency responsible for the state Medicaid program, all Texas families eligible for Aid to Families with Dependent Children are notified in person or by letter of the date and location of special health-screening clinics.

At those clinics, counseling and instruction are given to either the child or a responsible adult, depending upon the child's age.

"The instruction is a preventive measure designed to help the family develop self-care habits. At the same time, doctors and other health care providers doing the checkups also can discover previously hidden medical problems," Lucas explained.

Lucas reported that out of 250,000 Texas children eligible to participate in the EPSDT program, approximately 60,000 were screened at clinics in 1980. One-third, or some 20,000 children, were referred for further treatment. All of those over the age of 3 were referred to dentists for treatment.

Lucas related the story of how the program helped a Dallas mother discover a serious problem in her infant daughter.

"The mother, who was head of a single-parent household, realized that her child had a serious problem when the baby continually experienced difficulty sleeping. The child's weight dropped and breathing became difficult. Then, she became disoriented and developed a low-grade fever.

"After a referral from a state case worker, the mother took the baby to a participating physician. The doctor diagnosed that the child had an acute case of bronchiolitis and otitis in her right ear. After the infant received further treatment, the disease was cured.

"Both the mother and her daughter were fortunate," Lucas explained. "While otitis is a fairly common ear ailment, particularly in children, it could have developed into a complicated condition that might have resulted in permanent deafness.

"Bronchiolitis, when it strikes a very young child, can easily lead to pneumonia. The baby had no way of telling her mother just how bad she felt or where she was hurting. Only a doctor could determine the problem."

Lucas pointed out that the story is only one example of what has been accomplished in the EPSDT program.

Early diagnosis and treatment also helps to establish effective health care practices during childhood. According to Lucas, that may lessen the demand on health care resources in later years.

"But just as important is the fact that when we discover and treat illnesses in the early stages, more people will live longer, healthier lives," he explained. "In addition, money will be saved. That's why preventive health care is such a bargain."

Poll shows high achievers drink more

NORTHBROOK, ILL. — More of America's teen leaders are drinking today than in past years, but when it comes to drugs and sex, a good majority still practice abstinence.

This is revealed in the 12th Annual Survey of High Achievers, just released by "Who's Who Among American High School Students." Nearly 22,000 outstanding teens answered survey questions.

The current poll recorded a significant leap in the number of high achievers who drink. Some 53 percent say they occasionally take a drink, compared to 40 percent two years ago and 31 percent in 1975. However, drugs are still taboo with this group. Nine out of 10 have never used drugs and the same number report they wouldn't even use marijuana, even if it were legalized.

The top teens want to be educated about sex, but a majority would rather save the experience for marriage. Three-quarters think sex education should be taught in the schools. But 73 percent have never had sexual intercourse and a plurality (44 percent) believe premarital sex is not acceptable under any circumstances.

Abortion is out of the question for these teens, too. If they did engage in sex and became pregnant, almost two-thirds of the young women said they would not consider abortion. More than half of all those polled do not favor abortion in any case.

Traditional marriage is in the cards for the high achievers. Some 90 percent will opt for the official blessing and certificate. A third think living together outside of matrimony is morally wrong and 44 percent say it's okay for others, but not for themselves. Half the teens plan to have two children and almost 25 percent want three.

Although a good majority of the teens are career-oriented, two-thirds feel that working in the home and raising children can be totally fulfilling for a woman.

You and each of you are hereby commanded to appear and answer before the 36th Judicial District Court in the Aransas County Courthouse in Rockport, Aransas County, Texas, at or before 10:00 a.m. on the first Monday after the expiration of forty-two days from the date of issuance hereof, being at or before 10:00 a.m. on Monday, the 22nd day of March, 1982, then and there to answer the petition of Houston Oil & Minterals Corporation in Cause Number 5836, styled HOUSTON OIL & MINERALS CORPORATION V. STATE OF TEXAS, ET AL, in which Houston Oil & Minerals Corporation is Plantiff and each of you are Defendants. The said Petition, filed October 5, 1977, discloses that the nature of said suit is as follows:

Plaintiff is the lessee and Defendants and others are the lessors, under oil and gas leases, covering certain real property in Aransas County, Texas. All of the leases are located, at least in part, within the West Nine Mile Point Gas Unit No. 2, Aransas County, Texas, and are within a Unit Agreement executed by Plaintiff and the Commissioner of the General Land Office, on behalf of the State of Texas. Plaintiff has filed a suit for interpleader to determine the proper owership of the minerals in and under certain acreage within the Unit and royalties attributable thereto, in that a dispute has arisen as to the ownership of the minerals and the corresponding royalties. The individual Defendants are required to appear and answer this Petition and Interpleader and to assert any claims they may have to any royalties attributable to the acreage in question.

If this citation is not served within ninety days after date of the issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

ISSUED AND GIVEN UNDER MY HAND AND THE SEAL OF SAID COURT on this the 3rd day of February, 1982 at Rockport, Aransas County, Texas.

New farm bill fails family farms

TEMPLE — Although many farmers are facing financial difficulty because of today's cost-price squeeze, the Farmer's Home Administration (FmHa) intends to do all it can to help its borrowers stay in farming, FmHa State Director J. Lynn Futch said today.

"We regognize there are problems, problems with high interest rates, inflation, a grain embargo, adverse weather and other causes," Futch said. "And these have been intensified by overall bumper crops that have affected prices."

"As Secretary of Agriculture John Block said recently our farm economy is in a valley right now and needs some help to move on up the hill on the other side."

Futch said Block had instructed FmHa to explore the use of private credit to supplement its own lending resources whenever possible. In addition, existing legal authority to reschedule or defer payments is to be used where practicable.

"We intend to be reasonable, just as Secretary Block ordered," Futch said. "Our objective is to keep farmers in business. That isn't to say there won't be some who go out of business, because there will be, but we are going to use the best judgement we can and reasonable criteria in making our loan decisions."

Secretary Block said that borrowers who have made good faith efforts to pay their loans, who have maintained their loan security in good condition, who follow sound, recognized management practices, and who have a reasonable chance to succeed can reasonably expect FmHa to stay with them.

"We will be working with our borrowers and with the commercial lending institutions to overcome these temporary problems," Futch said. "Agriculture is basically healthy, just as the Secretary said; there is no question about it. We just have to move out of the present situation and dig in for the long run."

"Holiday Foods" publication available

Holidays are special in every family and a new publication from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service can help you plan a menu for almost any occasion. Entitled "Holiday Foods" the bulletin conains many menu ideas and recipes which were tested by homemakers throughout Texas. Food for birthday parties for family members usually includes a cake and a beverage. complementary foods such as ice cream, nuts, sandwiches, pickles are sometimes included. For the next big party try this recipe.

CURRIED CHICKEN SALAD SANDWICHES

4 cups finely chopped white meat of cooked chicken
2 cups toasted blanched almonds, chopped fine
4 teaspoons grated onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
1 cup mayonaise
1 cup sour cream
4 teaspoons curry powder
2 teaspoons salt
1/2 to 3/4 cups finely chopped chutney
1 bunch parsley
3 loaves decrusted, thin-sliced party cheese bread

Combine all ingredients except chutney and parsley and chill several hours. Cut the bread into rounds with a 1 1/2 -inch cutter. Cover the bread with a moist towel to keep it soft until ready to use. Spread the rounds generously with curried chicken. Garnish with a dot of chutney and a sprig of parsley on each round. Makes about 100 open-face sandwiches.
