THEY'RE AFTER YOU — This is only part of the group out after new memberships for the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce this week. They're not coming armed with guns. The watch, gun and luggage are part of the prizes going to those working on the membership drive. Some of the persons heading the campaign include Dan Hutchinson, Charles Beil, Joyce Wash, Richard Atkins, Martha Cohorn and Ray Don Williams. Williams, chamber president, is holding the suitcase but said he does not plan to leave town when Big Spring is booming.

The official membership drive of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce kicked off today at a breakfast at the White Kitchen.

Spearheading the drive are Richard Atkins, Ambassador chairman; Joyce Wash, Martha Cohorn, and Johnnie Lou Avery of the membership committee; and Ray Don Williams, chamber president.

Among the membership captains are Dan Hutchinson, Charles Beil and Williams.

The Ambassadors who attended the breakfast included John Arrick, Ron Cohorn, Jerry Foresyth, Jim Gregg, Benny Kirkland, Mel Prather, Jerry Sink, Jerry Thurman, Gary Trim,

The chamber last year sold more memberships than in any given year in its history since the initial year of operation.

Members of the chamber staff at the breakfast included Bill Albright, Carol Hutchinson, Claudene Floyd and Tracy Logsdon.

Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate issued a proclamation declaring this as Chamber of Commerce week in the city.

Monahans man dies, two injured in car wreck

GARDEN CITY — One man was killed and two persons were critically injured in a two-vehicle accident 12 miles west of Garden City on Highway 158 Sunday at 2:06 p.m.

Jeffrey Howard Williams, 25, of 610 NW 7th, Monahans, was killed instantly in the head on crash. He was driver of a car headed west.

A pickup headed east was driven by Fred Fitzgerald, 58, of Garden City. The pickup apparently went across the center stripe and hit the second vehicle head on, according to the accident report.

Fitzgerald is in critical condition at Midland Memorial Hospital with a cut on the head, massive internal injuries, and multiple lacerations.

Melanie Lynn McCann, 22 of 1924 Green Briar in Orange, a passenger in the Williams vehicle, is also in critical condition at the Midland Hospital with massive head injuries, a broken arm, lacerations to both legs and possible internal injuries.

Wade Truner, state trooper from Stanton, was investigating officer at the accident. Williams was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace J. Wooten from Garden City. Services are pending at Ellis Funeral Home in Midland.

Top spellers in county gather for bee Tuesday

Top spellers in Howard County schools will compete for the annual county championship at 4 p.m. Tuesday at Howard College auditorium.

The competition is sponsored each year by the Big Spring Herald, with the winner advancing to regional competition in Lubbock April 15, sponsored by the Lubbock Avalanche Journal.

The winner in Lubbock goes to Washington D.C. to the national contest and through the years, Big Spring has had two students advance to national competition. They were Marydene and Glenn Margolis, a sister and brother combination.

Last year's county winner was Latitia Hernandez of Runnels. The alternate last year was Julianne Raines of Goliad and she is representing Runnels Junior High in this year's contest.

Schools competing include Runnels, Goliad, Coahoma Junior High, Elbow, Immaculate Heart of Mary, Bauer, Kentwood, College Heights, Moss, Washington and Marcy.

There were more students trying out at the local school level this year than in recent years, according to

Mrs. Helen Gladden, elementary coordinator who is chairing the event along with Tommy Hart, Big Spring Herald editor.

Mrs. Janice Rosson will serve as pronouncer and there will be two judges from Howard College. The public is invited to attend the county spelldown.

Smith, Daniel due to visit Tuesday

Two statewide candidates will be in Big Spring Tuesday.

Preston Smith, former Governor of Texas and seeking the nomination again in the Democratic Primary, will be at the Flame Room of Pioneer Natural Gas at 2 p.m. to meet supporters and old friends.

Price Daniel Jr., candidate for Attorney General of Texas, will be in the Chamber of Commerce office from 4:30-6 p.m. at a reception.

Daniel is seeking the Attorney General nomination in the Democratic Primary. He is the son of a former Texas Governor who himself has served as Speaker of the House.

Demos will draw for ballot spots

Democratic candidates will be depending on the luck of the draw tonight at a meeting of the Howard County Democratic Executive Committee.

A drawing for places on the May 6 Democratic party ballot will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the county courtroom.

Placement on the ballot is important since some voters select the first name on the list, when in doubt.

County Democratic Chairman Evan Evans said all candidates and voters are urged to attend the meeting.

essays, poetry and a book about his life.

"When I went to prison, I was a fool," Lokey said outside the gates. "The changes I went through here turned a fool into a thinking man."

He said he plans to study law, but needs a job first.

Acting as his own lawyer, Lokey won a court suit against the state Department of Corrections and the state Attorney General's office.

He successfully argued that he had been removed from minimum security and thrown into the main line lockup without due process. He drew an admission from officials that he had not been sent into the main line for any disciplinary reason, but because of a new departmental policy.

The court agreed with Lokey and all his privileges were restored, including the right to visits from his wife and two daughters.

As he left the prison, Lokey was asked if he would have accomplished so much had he not been imprisoned. "I don't know the answer," he said.

In Rattlesnake Roundup

Excellent attendance put the 16th annual Jaycee Rattlesnake Roundup in the successful category. Over 2,100 persons cruised through the Howard County Fairbarns Saturday and Sunday, observing the collection of rattlers.

Grand prize for snake poundage was collected by the Carr brothers, followed by the team of Clark and Swearingen and the Lister team. The winners turned in 534 pounds of snakes, 800 pounds under last year's winning effort.

"The cold snaps kept our poundage down this year," said one Jaycee,

"but our attendance was very good anyway."

The first and third day trophies for sales went to the Carr brothers, and the Lister team took the second day honors.

The longest snake measured five feet, seven inches and was turned in by Clark and Swearingen. The shortest slitherer measured a mere 15 inches and was the prize of Sherman Smith. The most-rattled reptile counted 14, and was turned in by Key and Lacik.

All awards were presented by Miss Diamondback, Reina Hamby, and Tanya Clinton, Miss Dainty Dixie Doll.

College kids rolling barrel

By MARJ CARPENTER
"Roll out the barrel, we'll have a long walk to Lubbock."

The fun was about gone out of the "World's Longest Keg Roll" by the time a barrel-rolling team reached Big Spring Sunday morning.

More than 120 members of four Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity are pushing a beer keg 330 miles to raise money for St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

They are also trying to break a Guinness world record. The group left Alpine at 7 p.m. Friday rolling the metal keg 24 hours a day for three days and were to arrive in Lubbock sometime today.

The young men actually rolling the barrel go at quite a clip, almost 15 miles an hour and run down the highway with the barrel while their friends ride in vans and cars accompanying the roll.

Of course, nobody lasts too long at the intensive rate they've set for themselves, but they have lots of manpower for relief. And relief is spelled, "Bring on two more guys."

The four chapters include one from Sul Ross, one from the University of New Mexico at Las Cruces, one from Texas Tech and one from UT El Paso.

They are expecting to raise from $5,000 to $10,000 for the Memphis-based hospital.

By the time they reached Big Spring they had already traveled through Fort Stockton, Grandfalls, Monahans, Odessa, Midland and Stanton.

They hit the Big Spring area around 10 a.m. and sent two members ahead to ask for a police escort. They came in on IS 20, bounced up onto the overpass and started north on 87 without pausing for breath.

They got the idea for the keg roll in the summer at the national convention of the fraternity in New Orleans when Danny Thomas, comedian and founder of the children's hospital, spoke to the group.

They also have taken steps to be recognized by the Guinness book of world records.

When they left Big Spring, they still had to roll by Ackerly, on the edge of Lamesa, O'Donnell, and Tahoka before getting to Lubbock sometime today.

When asked if they planned to break open the keg, one fraternity member quipped, "We're going to break open some kind of keg. We ought to have a big party at the Lubbock house Monday night."

West Texas winds plagued the group on their journey and the nights got cold, but they failed to hit a single drop of rain.

However, they lucked out Sunday afternoon and this morning and failed to get caught in a real genuine West Texas sander.

There have been sandstorms in recent weeks between Big Spring and Lamesa that might have discouraged the most ardent keg roller.

But the keg was still rolling along today. The young men who were riding in the vehicles as sidewalk foreman said "We've had a barrel of fun."

Israeli forces pushing deeper into Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Armored Israeli forces, backed up by warplanes and naval bombardment, pushed deeper into southern Lebanon today despite a U.N. resolution calling for immediate withdrawal, the Lebanese state radio reported.

In Tel Aviv, the Israeli military command reported its troops swept past the Palestinian guerrilla stronghold of Tyre, the biblical port 12 miles north of the Lebanese-Israeli border, and seized control of all southern Lebanon up to the Litani River along a 30-mile front.

The Israeli Cabinet issued a statement saying any settlement of the Lebanese crisis must ensure that guerrillas do not return to the area.

The Palestine Liberation Organization here denied the entire area south of the Litani had fallen.

"Scores of suicide squads are now counter-attacking the invaders in many embattled locations south of the river," a PLO spokesman said. He said the PLO "will never observe a cease-fire."

Voice of Lebanon radio, an anti-Palestinian Christian station, said the entire region south of the Litani was "as good as fallen."

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt

Waldheim began raising a 4,000-man peacekeeping force to patrol southern Lebanon as Israeli invaders pushed farther north to flush out more Palestinian guerrillas.

The Israeli advance to points some 15 miles north of the border indicated Prime Minister Menachen Begin's government wanted to flush the guerrillas from the entire region south of the river before the United States forced it to pull its troops back.

There were signs Israel would not heed the U.N. Security Council's demand for the immediate withdrawal of its invasion force. Begin said he wanted assurances that Palestinian guerrillas driven from southern Lebanon by his troops do not return to use the border area as the springboard for terrorist attacks into Israel.

"That must not happen," Begin said as he arrived in New York to confer with President Carter in Washington.

Acting with unusual speed, the Security Council on Sunday adopted a U.S. resolution calling on Israel to withdraw its troops from Lebanese territory immediately and authorizing Waldheim to create a peacekeeping force to restore peace in southern Lebanon.

IN FULL BLOOM — A pear tree in the yard of Dale Vaughn, 2507 Rebecca, breaks out all its blooms on this, the first day of spring. Some cautious West Texans insist we haven't seen the last of the cold weather but the tree may be trying to set a good example.

Offbeat: 'Yankee Doodle' is dandy

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — "Yankee Doodle" has overcome "Boola Boola," to become Connecticut's state song despite arguments that the Yale fight song was better because it is meaningless.

The legislation, approved 23-11 Thursday by the state Senate, now goes to Gov. Ella Grasso for her expected approval.

Senate Majority Leader Joseph Lieberman, a New Haven Democrat and a Yale graduate, lost the battle for "Boola Boola."

He argued that because the lyrics to "Boola Boola" are "Boola boola" sung over and over, the song could not offend anyone. The version of Yankee Doodle adopted by the Legislature, on the other hand, says "and with the folks be handy" instead of "and with the girls be handy" because of alleged bawdy and sexist overtones.

KIDNAP SEARCH CONTINUES — Member of Carabinieri, or National Police, left, watches regular Italian army troops and other police search vehicle at roadblock on outskirts of Rome Sunday. The government added 1,000 battle-clad soldiers to checkpoints around the city to help in the manhunt for former Premier Aldo Moro and his kidnapers.

Plane crash puzzle

HOUSTON (AP) — Investigators were still puzzled about what caused a twin-engine aircraft to crash and burn during what appeared to be a routine landing at Houston Intercontinental Airport early Sunday, killing the pilot and his passenger.

Killed in the crash were 25-year-old Terry William Lane, a corporate pilot for a restaurant chain, and Judith Nunery, 28, an air traffic controller at Houston's Hobby Airport.

Authorities said the plane was landing at the airport after a 10-minute flight from Hobby on the city's south side when the crash occurred about 1:30 a.m.

The nose and cockpit of the Beechcraft 90 were destroyed in a fire after the crash, but an autopsy performed by the Harris County medical examiner's office revealed Lane and Miss Nunery died of skull fractures and chest injuries received before the fire.

National Transportation Safety Board investigators were mystified by the fact that the plane hit the runway in a near-vertical, nose-down position.

Airport manager Bill Backley said it was the first fatal crash on the runways of the airport since it opened in 1969, though some have occurred on approaches.

Begin, Carter to confer

NEW YORK (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin meets with his American envoys today to plan strategy for his talks with President Carter.

One of the main topics of discussion between Begin and Carter when they meet Tuesday and Wednesday is expected to be the Israeli response to the administration-backed Security Council resolution calling for Israel's withdrawal from south Lebanon.

Begin, who arrived here from Tel Aviv Sunday, met for more than an hour Sunday night with Simcha Dinitz, Israel's ambassador to Washington, and U.N. Ambassador Chaim Herzog.

Cubans not up in arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the apparent absence of heavy casualties to Cuban soldiers, Cubans are not up in arms about their country's military adventures in Africa, U.S. intelligence analysts report.

Cuba's "economic and other costs are still well within manageable limits," said the recent report assessing the impact of Cuban involvement in Angola and Ethiopia.

Hanchu Kim trial opens

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is starting its prosecution of Hanchu C. Kim, accused of accepting $600,000 to buy congressional favors for South Korea.

The trial gets fully under way today with the prosecution testimony of Sang Keun Kim, a former agent of the Korean Central Intelligence Agency who defected to the United States.

S.K. Kim has testified on Capitol Hill that he delivered $600,000 in $100 bills to Hanchu Kim on instructions from Yang Doo Wan, chief of the KCIA in Seoul. Hanchu Kim denies receiving any money from S.K. Kim.

Peacekeeping action

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim began raising a 4,000-man U.N. peacekeeping force to patrol southern Lebanon amid signs Israel would not heed the Security Council's demand for the immediate withdrawal of its invasion force.

French clearly right

PARIS (AP) — French voters decisively rejected the leftist bid for power in the National Assembly runoff elections Sunday and gave President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's centrist coalition a majority of at least 85 seats in the National Assembly.

Trull kidnap trial

Billie Sol subpoenaed

TYLER, Texas (AP) — A man authorities say "hasn't lied yet" faces trial here on aggravated kidnapping charges stemming from an incident in which he allegedly tried to force Tyler millionaire Billy Pyron, convicted swindler Billie Sol Estes and others to pay $1.6 million he says they owe him.

Estes is among 55 persons subpoenaed by attorneys for Mississippi promoter Don Trull.

Trull, 40, is charged with holding Pyron's assistant, Bill Mays, hostage in Pyron's office last Aug. 9, demanding restitution for the money he says was swindled from him.

Mays was released unharmed when Trull surrendered to police four hours after he splashed gasoline around the office and threatened to ignite it.

Following his arrest, a high-ranking law enforcement source told The Associated Press Trull was given a lengthy polygraph examination and was asked several questions pertaining to his allegations against Estes.

Kissinger, McMahon are honored by Legion here

Sgt. Ed Kissinger was named Policeman of the Year and Clyde McMahon Sr., citizen of the year, at special ceremonies Sunday night at the American Legion Hall.

The legion each year selects an outstanding citizen and also commends one of the local law enforcement officers.

This year, the outstanding citizen award went to Clyde McMahon, who was active in obtaining industry in Big Spring, active in the attempt to bring Lockheed Aircraft into the city and in many other phases of civic activities.

Sgt. Kissinger, who heads a crime prevention unit at the city police was honored, not for his work out on the streets in law enforcement after the crime, but for his

KISSINGER McMahon efforts in prevention.
He makes talks and shows films at schools, clubs, senior citizen centers and other locations on neighborhood crime prevention, prevention of theft, rape and many other crimes.
Other special guests at the event included Police Chief Stanley Bogard and Capt. Jim McCain.

Police beat Dognappers busy again

Apparently, dog stealing has become a regular pastime around Big Spring, as police were notified Sunday that the dognappers were at it again Sunday.

Steven Davis, 1308 Lawson reported that someone cut the rope holding his pit bull, part-shepherd dog and left with the animal. Davis had been at Moss Lake when the theft occurred, between 6:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. The dog was valued at $15.

Burglars hit the home of Frank Weaver, 413 NW 4th, Sunday, taking a .22 caliber revolver valued at $65.

Juan Perez, 203 NW 8th, reported that someone entered his automobile without his permission while it was parked in front of his home.

Taken was a wallet and contents including credit cards and a small amount of cash, and an eight-track tape deck valued at $40. Because of the credit cards, possible total value of the loss was unknown.

Some $35 damage was done to the door of a residence belonging to Victor Hewitt, of Lenora. Nothing seemed to be missing after the break-in, which occurred between Sunday, March 12 and Saturday at 5:15 p.m.

Brown Beret chapters support Gil Herrera

Fourteen chapters of the Brown Berets, including the one in Big Spring, have voted to retain Gilbert Herrera as West Texas Prime Minister.

The local decision was made at a Brown Beret meeting last Friday.

"We will go along with Herrera's policies in seeking federal intervention and police security in handling demonstrations and crowd control during marches etc., along with the Brown Beret Security Force," Benito Hilario, a Brown Beret spokesman said.

A CB radio antenna was taken from a vehicle belonging to J.W. Estep, 1200 Wood, while the vehicle was parked at his home between 10:30 p.m. and 11 p.m. Friday. Value of the loss was set at $20.

Two windows were broken at the residence of Robert Elam, 806 Scurry, in an apparent burglary this weekend. Nothing was missing, however, and the only loss was $10 damage to the windows.

One hit and run accident was reported around 4:45 p.m. Sunday, as a vehicle belonging to Harold Boyce Hale, Sterling City Route, was struck by another vehicle in the 100 block of NE 12th.

Minor accidents included one in the 1600 block of South Gregg, as vehicles driven by Larry C. Morrow, 1002 E. 12th, and Michael L. Lebkowsky, 2004 State, collided at 9:13 p.m. Saturday.

John L. Scarbrough, Lamesa, and Ora Lovina Jackson, Odessa, were both in Big Spring Saturday, and met at the 400 block of South Gregg. The vehicles they were driving collided around 4:23 p.m. Saturday.

Vehicles belonging to Vance Wayne Adams, Ole

"According to the polygraph, he hasn't lied to us yet," said the source.

Besides Estes, the witness list is expected to include several West Texas and Tyler businessmen, many of whom also claim they lost money in Estes-orchestrated promotions.

Estes is on parole after serving about half of a 15-year sentence following his conviction for a massive fraud scheme involving non-existent fertilizer tanks. Under the terms of his release eight years ago, he is barred from engaging in any promotional activities.

Trull claims part of his missing money went for a similar scheme involving non-existent portable steam cleaners. The Texas Attorney General's office, the FBI and the Internal Revenue Service are investigating the allegations.

Pyron has denied any involvement in the alleged steam cleaning scheme or subsequent land deals, which Trull claims were arranged by Estes using Pyron's financing. Estes has referred all comments to his attorney, Jack Bryant, who has branded Trull a "common felon."

Shortly after he was indicted last September, Trull called a news conference and turned over a huge stack of documents to Smith County District Attorney A.D. Clark III. The promoter said he took the ledgers, letters and financial statements from Estes' Abilene office in 1975 when the two men were still sharing an office. He said he left with the documents when he realized he had been "ripped off."

Trull made the same documents available to The AP and the three law enforcement agencies several months earlier before he moved here from the Abilene area.

A similar stack of documents was turned over to state investigators by J.R. Patterson of Houston last week. Patterson said he also worked for Estes in promoting an Abilene-based electronics corporation as well as a steam cleaning operation until he went broke in 1975.

Some of the investigators have been subpoenaed to testify at the trial, which Clark said probably will get underway March 27 after the jury is selected.

Docket call was scheduled for today with jury selection expected to begin Tuesday. The case had been moved to a larger courtroom to handle the expected crowds.

Farm Slip of tongue hints legal tiff

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slip of the tongue last week when Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland had to abruptly end a meeting of the Commodity Credit Corporation's board has thrown Agriculture Department officials into a tizzy on how to legally raise federal milk price supports.

Bergland had formally begun the meeting about 10 a.m. Thursday and had disposed of one minor item on the agenda when security officers said angry farmers were forcing their way into the building one floor below.

At that point Bergland asked his board for a motion to end the meeting. Assistant Secretary Dale Hathaway made a motion to "adjourn" the session and it was adopted. Bergland was quickly escorted out of the building by security officers as about 50 farmers scuffled with guards and flowed into an inner patio.

The door crashers were evicted by riot police within about 30 minutes, but the CCC board members also had dispersed, leaving several items of unfinished business. Most important was the final item of the unfinished schedule, a decision to officially approve raising federal milk price supports beginning April 1.

Since the board officially adjourned the meeting instead of calling for a recess and stating that it intended to resume at a later time, there now is a legal snarl on how to proceed.

Normally, the CCC — which is a wholly owned department corporation — must give advance legal notice that it plans to meet and take up certain items of business.

Since the meeting was adjourned, the question now is whether the board will have to go through the formal procedure of making an advance public announcement that it will convene again.

There is no doubt that the board will meet and approve the April 1 milk price support increase, but just when was anybody's guess at the end of the department's work week last Friday.

Meanwhile, the official action pending by the board has been well-known since March 1, when Bergland told a House committee hearing that he planned to boost milk price supports April 1 to $9.43 per 100 pounds, a 4.8 percent increase from the $9 rate which has been in effect the last year.

The $9.43 level will be in effect until Oct. 1, when the department under law will have to review the dairy situation again and decide whether another increase is in order. The law requires milk price support reviews twice a year and calls for an increase to keep prices above a certain level tied to production costs.

IT'S ALL OVER — Singer Anita Bryant says her show business career is apparently over. She blamed her sagging concert schedule on an unfair national press coupled with what she called a gay activist conspiracy.

Homosexuals, score win, Anita claims

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Claiming homosexuals have scored a victory, singer Anita Bryant says her show business career is apparently over.

Miss Bryant, a former Miss Oklahoma and first runner-up in the 1959 Miss America beauty pageant, appeared Sunday in this central Illinois city of 90,000 as part of the national "Revival Fires Crusade," an evangelical group organized by the Rev. Cecil Todd of Joplin, Mo.

She blamed her sagging concert schedule on an unfair national press coupled with what she called a conspiracy by gay activists to torpedo her singing career.

"I believe in human rights," Miss Bryant said in a news conference prior to her appearance at a local high school gymnasium.

Billie Carr cites her qualifications for job

Billie Carr has announced that she will seek election to the office of County Judge, subject to action in the May 6 Democratic Primary election.

Mrs. Carr has been approved by the American Bar Association, the American Medical Association, and has a permanent-life teacher's certificate.

She was an honor student and graduate of Big Spring High School where she was class vice-president during her junior and senior years. She attended John Tarleton Agricultural College and Texas Tech University and has a bachelor of science degree in home economics education.

Mrs. Carr was a home demonstration agent and assisted the county judge in Lynn County.

If she is elected in Howard County her qualifications will allow the judge's office to operate fully and the seal will be removed from the north door of the courthouse. She promises to do her best to fulfill this office with all the respect and pride that it deserves.

She has kept informed about the outstanding situations in this county which include the schools, agriculture, military, fuel shortage, high cost of living, and many more.

Mrs. Carr resides at 1000 E. 16th St. She has two sons, Ben, 23, and Brad, 20. Both are students at Texas Tech. She also has a married daughter, Mrs. Barbara Carlos.

She and her family are members of the First Methodist Church.

Kent State trial rerun expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court cleared the way today for a new trial in a $46-million lawsuit against Ohio officials over the deaths of four Kent State University students during a 1970 antiwar demonstration.

The justices let stand a ruling by the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the civil rights damage suit must be heard again because a juror had been threatened during the 1975 trial clearing Gov. James Rhodes and others of all liability.

The controversy now will return to a federal trial judge in Cleveland.

Ohio National Guard troops killed four students and wounded nine others in a 13-second outburst of gunfire on May 4, 1970 as violent protests against the invasion of Cambodia by U.S. troops in Vietnam rocked the city of Kent and the university campus.

The original suit filed by the nine wounded students and parents of the four slain students, which named Rhodes and state National Guard officials as defendants, was dismissed by a federal trial court and the 6th Circuit court.

Those courts ruled that state officials were immune from such lawsuits, but the Supreme Court in 1974 reversed those rulings. It ordered that the charges be heard in court.

That decision resulted in a 15-week trial, in which Rhodes and all other defendants were cleared of liability.

But a three-judge 6th Circuit panel last September struck down the jury's finding and ordered a new trial.

New law designed to regulate tactics of bill collectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill collectors may no longer make harassing late-night phone calls, threaten violence or impersonate police officers, under a federal law taking effect today.

The law covers personal and family debts, including car purchases, charge accounts and loans for medical care.

Passed by Congress and signed by President Carter last year, it also gives consumers the right to a written notice within five days of being contacted by a debt collector.

That notice must state how much is owed and to whom plus give instructions on what the consumer can do if he believes he doesn't owe the money.

The law's enactment followed hearings conducted by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., that produced testimony about abusive practices used in the $3-billion-a-year debt collection industry.

The law, which marks the first federal regulation of debt collectors, applies to agencies hired to recover another company's overdue debt. It does not apply to creditors collecting on their own, because Congress felt that abuses are less frequent among firms that have a stake in keeping customers' good will.

The Fair Debt Collection Practices Act does nothing to change the consumer's obligation to pay his debts. But it bans these bill-collection practices:

—Harassment by threatening violence, calling between 9 p.m. and 8 a.m., publishing lists of purported "deadbeats," using obscene language, repeatedly calling about a debt or calling at work if an employer disapproves.

—Making false statements when collecting a debt, such as falsely implying that the debt collector represents a government agency or is an attorney.

The Federal Trade Commission is the main enforcer of the law.

Crushing creative genius

WASHINGTON (AP) — Exiled Soviet cellist Mstislav Rostropovich says restriction of artistic freedom is crushing creative genius in the Soviet Union.

"For 46 years, while I was in Russia, I could not express my opinions freely. Now I can — and it is wonderful," said Rostropovich, who was stripped of his Soviet citizenship last week. He has been music director of the National Symphony in Washington since last year.

"My dear friend, (Dimitri) Shostakovich, who I think was one of the greatest composers of the 20th century, could have accomplished much more than he did if he had had complete artistic freedom," said Rostropovich in a copyrighted interview in this week's edition of U.S. News & World Report, released Sunday.

Energy Oil recovery in area topic of discussion

Dr. Don Stacy, Amoco Production Co. research manager in Tulsa, will address the Permian Basin Section of the society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The event will be at the Midland Hilton. Stacy will discuss "Enhanced Oil Recovery in West Texas."

The declining rate and reserves of both oil and natural gas in North America have prompted considerable activity in the area of energy conservation.

While much yet needs to be done in the area of price incentives and increasing supply, the technical community is attempting to quantify the enhanced oil recovery potential of known reserves.

The Permian Basin is expected to figure prominently in that picture.

An active enhanced oil recovery program in West Texas, with three significant pilots, will be discussed. Pilot design and operation are considered important. Several options are available, according to Stacy, including qualitative pilots versus oil in the tank concepts.

The talk will also review enhanced oil recovery activities of major operators with particular emphasis on the West Texas area.

Phone device shouldn't be approved

Where's it all going to end? Will it ever end — this continued encroachment on a person's privacy within his home?

The individual's rights are being threatened anew by a telephone device which someone obviously had to stay awake nights to perfect. It is ingenious. It is persistent. And it could be downright dangerous to one's health.

The Texas Public Utilities Commission will shortly consider whether to allow the contraption to be used.

It's called a "junk call" machine and it is very aptly named. It automatically dials telephone numbers and plays a tape recorded message to the person answering the phone.

That's bad enough. What makes it worse is that if the person answering the phone hangs up, the machine can hold the line open until the message is complete, or it can redial the number of the person who hangs up.

Most everyone who has had a telephone for any length of time will agree that phone solicitations can be annoying. It would be next to impossible to ban them. There are many worthy causes that use telephones for fund-raising and other purposes. There are also some legitimate commercial phone solicitations, although many people find them annoying.

The junk call is something else again. Imagine a distraught housewife with an ailing child trying to call out who can't because her phone line is commandeered by a junk call.

A sales person could be told to get off the line so that an emergency call could go through. There's no way to tell a gadget to butt out.

A person has a right to hang up or say no. A device that persists and rejects a negative response is an imposition on human rights.

Sales persons working in a store wouldn't think of physically restraining a visitor who decided not to buy merchandise. Why, then, should we permit our telephone to be held captive by a robot junk call device?

The PUC was an agency organized for the good of the public. In this instance, it should act to protect the consumer's rights by restricting the use of the device.

Spring has sprung

Around the rim

Carla Walker

Today, spring officially begins. According to the calendar, today is the vernal equinox, and whatever the dictionary meaning, it is officially the first day of spring.

That season's beginning means all things to all people.

To the bird watchers, it means the purple martins will soon be coming to this area, and birds of all description will be winging their way back north.

To RAREFAIR FANS, it means not only is the time for games fast approaching, but also that there will be better weather in store for the practices.

To guys, or at least the ones I know, it means that shorts and bathing suits are coming back in style with the change in weather.

To Marj Carpenter, the beginning of spring means struggling through dust storms and wishing she could be in south Texas with warm days and cool breezes for the only few weeks of pleasant weather in that portion of Texas.

To DANNY VALDES, spring means a chance to go to the beach, sit down in warm weather (and here's the clincher) watch all the beautiful girls in bikinis.

To Eileen McGuire, spring means another year gone, since her birthday comes within a week of the first day of spring.

To Danny Reagan, spring means "red breasted robins rending living worms from the earth, tearing them into little bitty pieces and then swallowing them bloody mess whole." (Whatever that means! I had to ask, I just had a ask!)

To WALT FINLEY, spring brings thoughts of ice cream, baseball, fishing, and Blue River.

To my father, who farms, spring means that planting time is approaching (provided he gets some rain) and that the days are going to get increasingly longer — and busier.

To my mom, spring's arrival means that she'd better talk Daddy into taking her on a weekend vacation fast, or he'll soon be able to use his "I'm too busy farming" excuse.

To my two-and-a-half year old niece, spring means the chance to rediscover an almost forgotten outside world, while to those of us who keep her, it means an end to our "We can't go outside because it's too cold" excuse to stay inside.

To ME? Good question. I guess spring means that all my friends will be out for spring break from college, the days will be longer and dustier, and, I can no longer talk myself out of running for exercise by saying the weather is too cold.

Guess I'll have to find another excuse.

Behind SALT scenes

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration's disarray on SALT was revealed over the past three weeks with a backstage interchange between Pentagon brass and the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), beginning in angry disagreement and ending in bureaucratic concealment.

Triggering the episode was ACDA's attempt to reassure Congress that Soviet compliance with the strategic arms agreement (SALT II) being negotiated in Geneva could be verified — a key issue in the coming fight for Senate ratification. When ACDA claimed the Joint Chiefs of Staff agreed with this dubious assurance, the balloon went up at the Pentagon. Usually tame generals and admirals were so outraged they even put it in writing.

THIS REFLECTS tension behind the scenes as President Carter continues to promise a new SALT agreement. While not yet ready to go public with their misgivings, the uniformed military are unwilling to blindly rubber-stamp the treaty being negotiated by ACDA director Paul Warnke. Events of the last three weeks, hinting at deception and subterfuge, could be a foretaste of internal disputes if and when a new treaty is actually signed.

Verification is a peculiarly sensitive aspect of SALT. While arms control experts know a verifiable treaty is not necessarily a good treaty, it is one element of the hideously complicated arms control puzzle that anybody — including U.S. Senators — can grasp. If the Senate is convinced Soviet compliance can be verified, chances for ratification are good.

On Feb. 23, ACDA's paper on SALT II verification was submitted to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. As revealed in unclassified paragraphs released to the press, verification is far more reliable than experts believe (or than the unreleased classified paragraphs show). "Areas of uncertainty... are not such as to permit the Soviets to produce an unanticipated threat to U.S. interests."

WHAT'S MORE, the covering letter signed by Warnke asserted the paper was "approved" by the Joint Chiefs of Staff. That was news to the astonished chiefs when they read about it in the Washington Post of Feb. 25. Although the military leaders generally get along by going along, this was too much. Gen. Bernard Rogers, Chief of Staff of the Army, and Adm. James Holloway, Chief of Naval Operations, were increased by Warnke's misrepresentation.

The result was a Feb. 28 letter to ACDA deputy director Spurgeon Keeney from Vice Adm. Patrick Hannifin, director of the joint staff. Even when bracketed by bureaucratic rhetoric, the meaning is clear: "The Joint Chiefs of Staff have not agreed to the (verification) statement." Hannifin said the National Security Council (NSC) staff was so informed Feb. 22.

"However, we understand that ACDA was not aware of this information" when it sent the letter to Con. vss Feb. 23, the letter continued. That softening phrase looks suspiciously like bureaucratic hedging. But the letter concludes on a tough note that "we would appreciate your setting the record straight" with the Foreign Relations Committee.

THERE IS REASON to believe ACDA had no intention of complying with this request and planned to forget about the letter. But in the habitual way of Washington, Hannifin's letter leaked right up to Capitol Hill. Some 100 days later it reached Rep. Robin Beard of Tennessee, a conservative Republican member of the House Armed Services Committee. On March 8, Beard wrote the President protesting that "Congress cannot be isolated from hearing dissenting opinions."

"Whew! Diggin' coal is a little harder than diggin' peanuts!"

Bowel changes follows his surgery

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I need your advice. Recently I had my gall bladder removed. Everything has been fine except for one little problem. I don't have control over my bowel movements. They are very loose. After each meal I have a bowel movement which I cannot hold back. Can you imagine what a problem this is when I have a client at dinner or lunch? I have to excuse myself before we've finished the meal. Embarrassing!

Is this normal after such surgery, and can it be controlled? Is there some medicine? — K.H.

Be patient. Hang in there and cancel business meals for a while. Diarrhea after a cholecystectomy (gall bladder removal) is not uncommon. This is due to the loss of the reservoir of bile normally present in the bladder and to the sudden flow of bile in large amounts directly into the intestinal tract. This kind of diarrhea almost always disappears with time as the bile system adjusts. Mild antidiarrhea medicine can be used. Ask the doctor about this. In a few weeks you should be back on the luncheon circuit.

While on the subject of gall bladder, another reader tells of having his removed four years ago. Now he wants to know what the chances are that new stones will form in his bile duct, even with the bladder gone. "I've heard that bile stones often form even in the absence of the gall bladder," he writes.

Wrong. If the gall bladder and its duct are removed entirely and there are no stones left in the common bile duct (the one from the liver) then there is no chance of new stone formation. The problem is finding all stones in the duct and removing them at the time of the surgery. Some may be too small to show up on X ray. If some remain they may cause problems later, but entirely new ones will not form.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What causes an eardrum to become perforated? And can one heal itself? — Mrs. P.W.

The tympanic membrane (eardrum) is just this side of the middle ear about an inch in from the outside. The chief cause of perforation (puncturing, if you will) is a middle ear infection. The immediate cause is the buildup of liquid that can accompany an infection. This fluid causes the pressure against the drum that creates the perforation.

If the infection goes untreated for long, or if there is repeated infection, the hole may enlarge beyond the ability of the body to heal it. Persons who know they have a perforated drum should avoid water sports because infecting organisms have a ready route to the middle and eventually to the inner, ear sections. In selected cases the perforation may be corrected surgically.

Another cause can be a loud noise close to the ear such as an explosion or rifle fire. Perforation can occur by poking objects into the ear canal. Diving to great depths can rupture the drum.

If there is no infection, a small perforation can heal itself. Drainage usually prevents repair.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a rash all over my body and on the back of my neck. It never dries up. It's like a thousand ants are crawling around. Do you think my nerves could cause this? — Mrs. C.M.

I doubt it is your nerves. There would be symptoms elsewhere on your body. It is more likely a contact skin reaction, possibly from a hair dye or unrinsed shampoo, possibly from a hat or scarf. I recall one woman who traced this to a combination hat and scarf she had received as a present. Her skin reacted to the material.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 46 and have been on the Pill for 12 years. I haven't gone off because my husband refuses to have a vasectomy and feels the Pill is the only safe way of birth control. I have cystic breasts and small fibroid tumors. Shouldn't I go off the birth control pills with these symptoms? — Mrs. H.J.

Yes, you should. What does your doctor say?

Report from Bangkok

William F. Buckley, Jr.

In January, Mr. Leo Cherne of the International Rescue Committee brought together an impressive congregation of men and women concerned for the awful ravages of the diverse Communist victories in Southeast Asia, and with William J. Casey, former Under-Secretary of State, headed off for Thailand. The investigators were of varied political inclinations, including John Richardson, the head of Freedom House; Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers; James Michener; Rabbi Tannenbaum, and others. What they found, and reported at a press conference in Bangkok, turns the blood cold. Cambodia leads the list of criminal states, that is if you don't count the countries, the United States primarily, that have let it all happen.

About Cambodia, Mr. Cherne could only think to say: "The events which have taken place in Cambodia and which continue to make of that country a land so inhumanly tempt one to wonder whether here, finally, is a place where the living envy the dead."

THE LITANY BECOMES all the more horrible for its failure, over a period of three years now, to arouse attention. It is as though the daily figures were read out publicly for Ravensbruck, Buchenwald, and Auschwitz, to an assembly where everyone was engaged in playing gin rummy. Mr. Cherne, whose committee was founded in 1933 to help refugees from Nazi Germany, was blunt. "The fact that the various international institutions designed to assert and protect human rights, and even life itself, have been silent despite repeated appeals, adds to our emphasis. Just such an appeal and protest to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights in June of 1975 remained unanswered for months before the appeal was denied because the UN Commission insisted that it could not act on second-hand information."

The UN Commission on Human Rights has never hesitated to act on second-hand reports when addressing itself to the (relative) peccadilloes of Chile, South Africa, and Israel. Mr. Cherne pursued the point relentlessly:

"The inhumanity which continues to exist in Cambodia is so beyond rational description that it is probably unlikely that evidences of world concern so long withheld will have any moderating effect upon the behavior of the Khmer Rouge... No circumstances since the death camps of Germany more nearly describe the circumstances which presently exist in Cambodia..."

Now then Mr. Cherne, and Mr. Casey, and Mr. Michener, and Mr. Shanker and everybody addressed themselves, as was quite proper under their mandate, to the questions of the refugees. And of course they are correct: all the red tape that deprives them of succor should be brushed aside. It is the job of the International Rescue Committee by tradition, to rescue those who have, in a sense, already been rescued.

THE CAMBODIANS who sit, despairingly, in the great refugee camps of Thailand are objects of pity. But they have, by other standards, already been saved. It is those who are still in Cambodia that need help most urgently. The Jews who escaped the ovens of Germany and Poland deserved every consideration; but mostly, they deserved the resolve of the civil community to rescue those whose rendezvous with the ovens was fast approaching; and who, one wonders, is asking for action at this level? No doubt Messrs. Cherne et al would personally endorse such action, but they are confining themselves, quite properly, to the limit of their franchise.

But where are the others? For instance, where is Congressman Pete McCloskey, who made a career for months of bewailing the fate of Cambodian refugees forced to resettled as a result of allied bombing? Where is the encyclopedic lead editorial in the New Yorker Magazine that spoke about how Mr. Nixon's incursion we had forever ruined the pastoral life of the Cambodians? And — the biggest question of all — where in the name of God is President Jimmy Carter who elevated human rights to his right side on ascending the throne at the White House?

Decision is imminent

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — One morning soon, the justice of the Supreme Court will enter through crimson drapes and drop a legal bombshell. Their decision in the momentous Bakke "reverse discrimination" case is imminent.

Whichever way it goes, the ruling will have the greatest impact on U.S. race relations since the landmark school desegregation opinion of 1954.

Specifically, the issue is whether a 37-year-old white engineer, Allan B. Bakke, was unconstitutionally denied admission to the University of California Medical School at Davis. But in less than five years, this simple issue has divided civil rights forces in this country and has threatened the upward movement of blacks in American society.

THE HIGH COURT can decide the Bakke case on narrow or broad grounds. The narrow grounds would confine the finding to a limited section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, which prohibits a number of specific discrimination practices.

Or the tribunal could decide more sweepingly by voting that "reverse discrimination" is constitutional or, conversely, that the quota system is inherently unconstitutional. The latter would prohibit schools and employers from giving any priority to deserving non-whites.

Already, alarm is spreading through the Carter administration over the possible reverberations should Bakke win his case. According to confidential Cabinet minutes, Attorney General Griffin Bell has "sent a letter to all Cabinet members requesting that, in light of the impending Bakke decision, the Justice Department undertake an examination of all existing affirmative action programs throughout the government."

This means simply that the Justice Department is preparing to end all favoritism for minorities if the Supreme Court should so decree. For among government officials, "affirmative action" is shorthand for programs designed to extend extra help to blacks and other minorities. The theory is that past racism has short-changed the non-whites and, therefore, that they couldn't compete with whites without special consideration.

BELL'S PRIVATE LETTER so suggested that if Bakke wins, at least an additional 26 reverse discrimination suits are already on tap. These sprang from a Public Works Act last year, which requires 10 per cent of a $4 billion federal program to be earmarked for minority help.

Contractor associations, in particular, have protested the minority clause. A Bakke victory would open the flood gates to hundreds of other challenges to equal rights legislation of the past two decades.

Last September, the Justice Department filed an 88-page brief with the court, supporting special programs to help minorities overcome the adversities of past discrimination. It stopped short, however, of endorsing quotas to achieve equality. The Administration asked instead that the justices decide such controversies on a case-by-case basis and urged that the Bakke litigation be sent back to the California supreme court.

THE JUSTICES have signaled they may decide the case on narrow grounds. Solicitor General Wade H. McCree Jr., for the government, and former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox, for the school, have indicated they feel their chances would be better if the court would take the broad constitutional avenue.

It is believed that the justices have already taken an informal straw vote on their decision, and the milestone opinion is already being drafted. The court may split every which way on the question. Few observers believe the ruling will be unanimous as it was on the monumental school desegregation day.

GRIM PREDICTION: The Central Intelligence Agency has compiled some grim, secret projections on future oil use in the United States.

The CIA estimates that Americans will be burning "as much as 38 million barrels per day" by the mid-1980s. This is more than double the daily consumption of 18.4 million barrels in 1977.

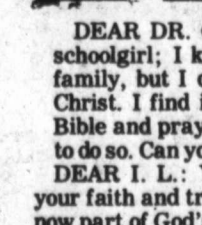

Of this voracious oil intake, a disturbing 8.7 million barrels are drawn from overseas oil fields. This heavy dependence on overseas oil has made the United States dangerously vulnerable. For oil is the nation's lifeblood, which keeps the wheels turning.

Secret White House papers cite these troublesome figures as evidence of "the necessity to reduce our dependence on oil." President Carter was skeptical about the CIA estimates. He had seen some evidence, he commented, "to contradict the CIA figures." But he agreed that Americans must learn somehow to break the oil habit.

Footnote: According to the projections, Americans are expected to burn a record 19.3 million barrels of oil every day in 1978. Oil imports are expected to dip slightly because of the swelling flow of oil from Alaska. But it looks as if Alaskan oil will merely hold down the inexorable rise of petroleum imports for little more than one year.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I am a schoolgirl; I know I am in God's family, but I do not feel close to Christ. I find it hard to read my Bible and pray, and I often forget to do so. Can you help me? — I.L.

an agreement with your parents that you will speak with them for 20 minutes in the morning and 15 minutes in the evening, but cannot talk with them for the rest of the day.

You need to realize that Christ is living in you and is constantly with you. It is very important to spend time each day talking with Him in prayer and listening to Him in the Bible, which is His Word. But He is with you the rest of the day as well. Keep Him in mind all the time. Bring Him into everything that happens to you. Talk quietly to Him from your heart: "Jesus, you heard what that person just said to me; how should I answer?" "Jesus, that person is so unhappy, how can I help?" "Thank you for that friend I have, Jesus."

ADAPTS TO CALIFORNIA LIFESTYLE — Interviewed at a luncheon in her honor in Palm Springs recently Mrs. Betty Ford said she and the former president, Gerald Ford, have adopted to the new California lifestyle with ease. She said, "I feel great. My problem is arthritis, and the desert and Palm Springs agree with me." At the luncheon with her was one of the town's star residents, actress Mary Martin (right).

Wise Wife Travels When She Can

DEAR ABBY: Congratulations on your advice to TRAVELER'S WIFE, who had mixed emotions about leaving her children in order to accompany her husband on his business trips.

I've always asked my wife to come along on my business trips, but the excuses ranged all the way from, "I don't want to leave the kids," to, "I don't know anyone there," or "What will I do while you're at your meetings?"

After 20 years of being totally faithful, I met a woman on one of these trips who appealed to me. She chased me more than I did her, and eventually I asked my wife for a divorce.

I moved this lady to my town, gave her a job, and moved in with her—all out in the open. After a few months I knew it wasn't going to work, so we broke up and I moved back home again.

Through this experience we all learned some lessons, one of which resulted in my wife's willingness to travel with me.

We were lucky enough to get a second chance, but I'm sure there are others who weren't that lucky.

DEAR HAPPY: It's not practical (or in most cases possible) for wives of traveling salesmen to accompany their husbands on the road. But for out-of-town meetings and conventions, if other wives go, the wise wife will get a sitter, or farm out the kids, and go along.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of people who choose to ignore a new grandchild just because it was born seven months early?

Our baby is 3 weeks old now—healthy and adorable—and my husband's parents haven't been over to see her yet. And they didn't even send a gift.

They are still upset because we didn't get married the minute I knew I was expecting.

Abby, in this day and age, premarital sex is no big deal, and we didn't see any reason to be hypocritical about it, so we took our time and got married when I was in my seventh month.

We had a nice church wedding, but his mother stayed home with a migraine headache, and her husband stayed home to take care of her.

I am 20 and my husband is 21; we went together for two years, if that makes any difference. Your opinion will be appreciated.

NEW PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Your in-laws continue to cling to a code of conventional behavior that differs vastly from yours. For them to ignore their grandchild for that reason is narrow and foolish. Give them time. They'll come around. If they don't, it will be their loss.

DEAR ABBY: This winter, as in winters past, we have opened our home to friends and relatives who are eager for a reprieve from the bitter north winds.

We enjoy having houseguests, but some of them leave our guest room in worse shape than they would leave a motel room! We have no help in the house, and we both work, so we can't very well clean up after them daily. Do you know of a pamphlet or a short publication with a few tips on how to be a good houseguest? Even a poster would do it. Thanks.

LIVES IN FLORIDA

DEAR LIVES: Putting up a poster would be about as subtle as a kick in the shins, so if you're willing to go that far, simply tell those guests who need it (and you should know who they are by now) exactly what you've told me.

How to grow violets told

The Texas Bouquet African Violet Club met at 3:30 p.m., March 15, at the Dora Roberts Community Center with Mrs. O. S. Womack, president, presiding.

Mrs. J.F. Sanders served as hostess.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Cass Hill who gave a program on "Variegated African Violets."

She said the proper way to care for variegated African violets is to plant the new small plant in a four-inch pot using light porous soil and a wick of number 24 nylon cord. The wick goes into the pot and through the bottom.

The best fertilizer to use, she said, is "Peter Variegated Special," mixing 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 teaspoons to a gallon of warm water in which the wick is inserted.

The plant will grow rapidly and should be leached monthly when the water is gone. Leaching eliminates the problem of fertilizer burn.

Cleaning the leaves will make the plant grow quicker, so shower your plants once a month.

During dry weather, set plants on moistened perlite to increase humidity.

The club project for March was raising funds for the treasury. Each member gave one dollar for a chance on a Shamrock which was won by Mrs. C. Y. Clinkscales.

Films on MS shown to club

Elina Willingham of Midland, executive director of the Permian Basin Chapter of Multiple Sclerosis, presented two films on MS to the Elbow Home Demonstration Club when they met March 16 at Forsan Baptist Church.

Hostess was Deanne Riffe. MS is one of the most common organic diseases affecting the nervous system, the club learned. It is a great crippler of young adults ages 21 to 40, affecting half-a-million Americans.

Cosmetology course begins soon at HC

The Howard College Continuing Education Department is offering a course entitled "Cosmetology — The New Look."

The course will meet on Monday nights, April 3 and 10, from 6-8 p.m.

Delores Majors, a licensed instructor in cosmetology and associated with Young 'n Alive (New Ideas in Hair), will be the instructor for the course.

The first class will be mostly lecture covering the "New Look." Topics will include hairstyles, nails, makeup and fashions for the spring and summer. Mrs. Majors will also demonstrate makeup application.

The second class will be Mrs. Price in 'Who's Who'

Mrs. Jerry Price, the former Fannie Burns, 1526 E. 17th, has been invited to be registered in the 1978 edition of "Who's Who In Poetry," an official publication of poetic achievements distributed through the U.S. Library of Congress and libraries and universities worldwide.

The Elbow Club will be hostess to the Home Demonstration Council April 1.

Nell Parker won the door prize.

Following a covered dish luncheon, Ruth Morton reviewed the book, "Three Cheers for Me," by Donald L. Jack.

The next meeting will be in the home of Joyce Soles.

NARVE meets for potluck

The National Association of Retired and Veteran Railway Employees met at the Kentwood Center on March 16 at 6:30 p.m. for a potluck supper, followed by the regular business meeting at 7:30 p.m.

A moment of silence was held proceeding the invocation in memory of W. H. Kay, E. F. Boldock and Stoney Bell, veteran railway employees who have passed away, and also for those who were reported as having suffered illness.

R. W. Cagle, first vice president, presided due to illness of J. C. Pierce, president.

Hostesses were Mrs. J. T. Gilmore, Mrs. Ben Boroughs, Mrs. J. H. Eastham and Mrs. S. A. Wilson.

Mrs. S. R. Nobles was a visitor.

The next meeting will be another potluck supper at the Kentwood Center, 6:30 p.m. The business meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Fabric shown to members

The Center Point Home Demonstration Club met at 2 p.m., March 14, at the Kentwood Center with 18 members and two guests, Mrs. L. Macklin and Joy Petty, present.

Roll call was answered with causes of accidents in the home.

The thought for the day was "It's better to appreciate things one does not have than to have things one does not appreciate."

Hostesses for the meeting were Lucille Petty and Mrs. Zay Birrell.

Decorations provided an Easter theme, including an Easter bunny on a nest of colored eggs. Napkins, the tablecloth and refreshments were in assorted pastel colors.

A program was delivered by Lorayne Macklin, a market specialist for Leiters Designer Fabric of Kansas City.

Mrs. Macklin showed a film depicting the process of weaving, dying and producing fabrics. She also displayed dozens of samples of material and patterns from Vogue and Butterick.

Mrs. Macklin will show these by appointment to anyone interested in seeing them if they will contact her at 263-4157.

During the business session of the meeting, an announcement was made of an "Art and Craft Tea" to take place May 5 at the new First Methodist fellowship hall. The tea is countywide and sponsored by the Home Demonstration Council.

Inez Petty will attend a leader's training workshop at 10 a.m., April 10, at the Extension Office.

Rutgers hooked

NEW YORK (AP)—Amid horse strains of "The Eyes of Texas" and "Turn Off the Lights, the Party's Over," Texas outclassed Rutgers for Coach Abe Lemons' first victory in the National Invitational Tournament finals and struck a blow for Southwest Conference basketball in the process.

With a small contingent of singing Texas followers joining the Madison Square Garden throng of 18,504 Sunday night, the Longhorns romped past Rutgers 96-76 to take a 25-5 mark into the NIT finals against North Carolina State, 21-9, on Tuesday night.

And in doing so, Texas helped the SWC rise in stature from that of an off-beaten stepchild to a respectable country cousin in the NCAA basketball family.

Texas' victory — combined with Arkansas' advance on Saturday to the semi-finals of the NCAA championship — gave the SWC two representatives in the nation's most prestigious post-season collegiate tournaments. Two league teams reaching such lofty heights in the same decade — much less the same season — is a first in SWC annals.

And Lemons, who had lost opening NIT titles in both 1959 and 1968 while coaching at Oklahoma City University, lost little time in preaching the positive aspects of SWC basketball during post-game interviews.

"It's always been a good conference...people just think all they play down there is football," he began. "If you think it's that poor, come on down and get on our schedule. We have eight teams in Texas down there that really hate each other."

Lemons prophetically told New York reporters before Sunday night's game that Longhorn guard Jim Krivacs could shoot the basketball.

After Krivacs had passed up a shot from the 35-foot mark earlier in his career, Lemons said he told him: "You can't dribble, you can't pass, you can't jump, you can't rebound, you can't play defense. So what do you think you're here for? If you're open when you cross the midcourt line, I don't want you to pass the ball; shoot it."

Sunday night, Krivacs' long-range missiles fueled the Longhorns to an early lead they never relinquished.

Krivacs, a 6-1 guard, finished with 25 points, connecting on 11 of 23 from the field and perfect in three tries from the free-throw line.

Teammate Tyrone Branyan contributed 24 and Ron Baxter added 19.

Baxter 8-14 19, Branyan 12-20 24, Goodner 5-12 12, Krivacs 11-23 25, Moore 5-10 10, Dotson 0-0 0, Boyd 1-2 2, Sheppard 2-0 4, Danks 0-0 0, Stephens 0-0 0, Totals 44-83 96.

Runnels eighth grade thincads snagged a third place in Saturday's meet in Pecos.

Nicklaus: 'I'm playing well, obviously'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus now has his sights trained on Augusta, Ga., and the Masters.

"It's been a pretty good run," he said of the four-tournament string that ended with his strange victory Sunday in the Tournament Players Championship.

"I've won $155,000 in my last four starts and that's not all that bad. I'm playing well, obviously."

"I'm delighted with the schedule I've set for myself this spring. From the standpoint of confidence going into the Masters (his next start), things couldn't be better."

After a brief pause, he continued: "I can't remember a better start to a season."

It includes two victories and two seconds in his last four starts. It was capped by one of the most peculiar of all his 65 American golf triumphs, a no-birdie round of three-over-par 75 and a one-over-par 289 total that produced a one-shot victory in the annual championship of the touring players. It was the third time in the five-year history of the event he'd taken the title.

With the triumph came a $60,000 first prize, which boosted his season's earnings to $157,065 and put Nicklaus ahead of Tom Watson for the first time this year. Watson, who failed to make the cut for the second consecutive time, has $103,181.

Nicklaus recognized that the national television audience may have been less than thrilled by the extremely high scores produced by a frustrating, windswept, links-type course, the 7,174-yard Sawgrass layout.

"They don't need to watch someone shoot 80. They can do that themselves," he said. "There wasn't any excitement in my 75."

About the only excitement

Irish win chance to make history

By the Associated Press

Notre Dame has a chance to become the first school ever to win national championships in football and basketball in the same year, but basketball Coach Digger Phelps says he's happy just to be in the semifinals.

"The rest is gravy," said Phelps, whose Fighting Irish earned their trip to St. Louis by beating DePaul 84-64 Sunday in the Midwest Regional final. "To make it to the final four is just unbelievable. All we've been living for is this moment."

Next in line for the Irish is Atlantic Coast Conference champion Duke, a 90-72 winner over Villanova in the East Regional final. They'll meet in the opening game of the semifinal doubleheader in St. Louis on Saturday, with Kentucky taking on Arkansas in the nightcap.

The winners meet Monday night for the NCAA championship.

On Saturday, Kentucky qualified for the final four by edging Michigan State 52-49 in the Midwest Regional while Arkansas trimmed California State-Fullerton 61-58 in the West Regional.

Top-ranked Kentucky has the best record of the four semifinalists at 28-3. Arkansas, rated No. 5, is 31-3; Notre Dame, No. 6, is 23-6, and Duke, No. 7, is 26-6.

Notre Dame is a perennial football power, having won seven national titles, but the school's basketball program was never as strong until Phelps took over as coach in 1971. Since then the Irish have compiled a 137-64 record and made the NCAA Wolfpack wins!

NEW YORK (AP)—North Carolina State's Wolfpack had one longshot chance to win.

So what did they do? Why, they gave the ball to their hottest of course?

"We certainly picked the right guy to shoot," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan after watching Clyde Austin sink Georgetown with a miraculous 40-foot shot in the National Invitation Tournament Sunday night.

Austin's desperation heave came at the buzzer in overtime and provided the Atlantic Coast Conference team with a dramatic, 86-85 victory and a berth in Tuesday night's NIT finals. The Wolfpack will meet 17th-ranked Texas, an easy 96-76 conquerer of listless Rutgers in the other semifinal game at Madison Square Garden.

Austin's running, long range shot capped a wild opening game in which the Hoyas had taken an 85-84 lead just six seconds earlier on Craig Shelton's three-point play.

"If Shelton had missed his foul shot and we had gotten the rebound," explained Sloan, "then we would have called a timeout to set up a play. But otherwise, I just thought it best for Austin to bring the ball down as fast as he could and shoot."

"He brings the ball up the floor for us all the time. He has the best speed and the best moves on the team, and he can dodge any defender in his way. Plus, he has a fine shot."

Austin, who says he once threw in an 80-foot shot in a high school game, didn't waste any time against Georgetown. Barreling through the Hoyas defense while a sellout crowd of 18,504 at the Garden raised the roof with its clamor, he let fly just after crossing the midcourt line.

"It was just luck, that's all," said Austin. "But I knew it was in all the way once I let it go. I didn't even have to look."

Austin, his two fists raised in the air to signal the winning basket, was immediately flooded by teammates.

"I started to cry when the ball went in," he said later. Georgetown Coach John Thompson could have cried too, but obviously for a different reason.

"I was hoping the shot wouldn't go in," said Thompson. "He took the shot we wanted him to take, though. He has good wrists and good quickness."

For a while there, it looked like an overtime wasn't needed to win in this game. With the help of John Duren's 17 points and 12 more by Shelton, Thompson's strong independent from Washington, D.C., had built a 42-35 halftime lead over North Carolina State.

Mantle takes a shot

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—He is in the right town, where else but in a place called Hollywood would you find the son of Mickey Mantle trying out for the New York Yankees?

The face and the batting style are pleasantly familiar. Young Mantle looks and swings like his father. The question Yankee officials wonder about is whether he hits that way too.

He is 23 years old, a senior citizen in the sea of youngsters working out at the Yankees' minor league training complex. He knows his age is against him. But Mickey Mantle decided he wanted to try and when the Yankees heard that, they invited him to their camp. It is the only place for a guy named Mantle to be.

"I sold insurance for a while and I was an assistant golf pro at a course in Dallas," Mantle said. "But I decided I didn't want to do those things and I thought of baseball. I'm getting old and I wanted to take a shot before it was too late."

Young Mantle talked the idea over with his father whose 17-year Yankee career is chronicled in baseball's Hall of Fame.

"We had a quite a long talk last winter," Mickey said. "He's never pressed me into baseball. He said if he had worked with me the way his dad worked with him, I'd have been in pro ball, maybe even the big leagues two or three years ago."

"I think, deep down, he always would have liked to see me play ball. He said he'd help me any way he could."

There is no contract or guarantee.

"He's here on a trial basis," said Jack Butterfield, the Yankees vice president in charge of player development and scouting. "We'd be delighted to sign him if he shows the necessary skills."

There are some tough road blocks facing him. Perhaps the biggest is his age. He is starting late in professional baseball.

When Mickey's dad was 23, he batted .306 with 37 home runs and 99 RBIs. He was in his fifth major league season and that was the year he became a father for the first time.

ON HER WAY — LPGA golfer Sally Little and her fans react after Little sinks one of her many birdie putts during the final round of the Kathryn Crosby Golf Classic at Rancho Bernardo Golf Club in San Diego Sunday. Little fired a 7 under par 65 for the day forcing Nancy Lopez into a sudden death playoff. Little sank her par putt in the first hole of the playoff beating Lopez and taking first prize of $22,500. Little and Lopez were 6 under for the tournament at 282.

Rangers are 9-1

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Bill Fahey walked and rode home on rookie Pat Putnam's two-run, pinch-hit homer in the ninth inning Sunday as the Texas Rangers edged the Atlanta Braves 3-2 to run their exhibition record to 9-1.

The Braves, 6-4, had led 2-0 until the eighth when Dave May walked and moved to third on a double by hot-hitting rookie Bobby

Social Security tax whack urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats on a congressional study committee said today that upcoming Social Security tax increases should be cut by $33 billion even before the tax boost takes effect next year.

Majority members of the Joint Economic Committee said in their annual report on presidential economic programs that the Federal Reserve should ease money supplies to counteract growing interest rates. They also called for government spending of at least the $500 billion President Carter has called for in his 1979 budget.

But minority Republicans on the committee disagreed sharply on major points. They said easing money supplies would not work to lower interest rates but instead might increase them with heightened fears of growing inflation.

The Republicans agreed, however, that the Social Security tax increase should be moderated to avoid disproportionate burdens on middle-income families.

The Republicans by and large have opposed the Social Security tax increases from the start and now have joined that with criticism of Carter's proposed income tax cut to offset its effects. Their minority opinion said, "At best, we must expect 1978 and 1979 economic activity to do well in spite of the government and not because of it."

The call by Democrats for the $33 billion cut in the Social Security tax increases would shift to general income tax revenues the cost of disability and Medicare benefits — programs now borne by the Social Security system.

Such a move could substitute for Carter's proposed $25 billion income tax cut, the majority members said. The congressional report comes only five days after House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill called for Carter to initiate a plan to rescind part of the upcoming increase. He said failure by the White House to propose the cut would force the House to take its own initiative.

O'Neill and many others in Congress say the public will not stand for the increase and that its discontent will show at the polls this November.

Congress is backing away from the law which it passed just last December to prop up the financially troubled system. The measure is designed to raise an additional $227 billion for the program over the next decade.

Continuing their criticism, minority members called for Congress to lower individual income tax rates and to review the tax code annually. Those members also suggested that businesses be allowed to deduct depreciation based on current equipment cost rather than on the pre-inflation price as is now allowed.

"These two steps would go a long way toward guaranteeing rapid increases in jobs and after-tax wages," the minority said.

The Carter tax plan, it said, "is a tax increase for many persons in our economy. ... It is structured around the erroneous belief that to provide tax relief for some Americans and to pay for bloated government expenditures, the government must increase the tax burden on other Americans."

The minority feels that at this time any increase in taxes for anyone in our society is wrong."

The Republicans also disagreed with the Democratic call for government spending in the range of $500 billion to $505 billion, which could be as much as $5 billion higher than President Carter's recommendations, resulting in a $65 billion deficit.

With the exception of one senior Democrat, Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, who objected that the spending proposal was $25 billion to $35 billion too high, the majority applauded what it called Carter's less rigid approach on balancing the budget. During his campaign for the presidency, Carter pledged to balance the budget by 1981. He now is looking instead toward a year or two beyond that date.

Meanwhile, Democrats strongly endorsed the Humphrey-Hawkins employment bill pledging the government to the goal of full employment — 4 percent unemployment — by 1983. The House passed the bill Thursday and sent it to the Senate, which is expected to look favorably on the legislation.

Hustle 3

It's your organization

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President,
Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce
Industrial Growth and Development

I know that you may already have heard or read what I have to say this week, but it bears repeating. And the reason is plain. Your Chamber of Commerce can be more effective as it speaks for an ever-increasing number of citizens.

Believe me, it means something to legislators and public officials when we refer to a voluntary membership base in excess of 1000. It also impacts on the local scene in pulling people together to work for the good of our total community.

So, in light of the 1978 Membership Drive, which kicks off on Monday, March 20 and terminates on Friday, March 24, I'd like to address some pertinent items of interest. The Membership Committee, Martha Cohorn, chairman, and the Chamber Ambassadors, Richard Atkins, Chairman, plus the Chamber Staff, Carol Hutchinson, Office Manager, are to be congratulated for their diligence in putting together this drive. Of special note is the volunteer work done by Joyce Wash in assisting the office staff during many hours of dedicated work. Because of their collected efforts — the drive will be a success.

Here are some thoughts that have a bearing on that success. What is the Chamber ... and what does it do? A quick simple answer is — "You — and everything good". A more detailed answer is also provided. No matter who you are or what your business or profession is, your Chamber of Commerce serves YOU. It's working for you all the time, ready to promote YOUR best interest.

It's your spokesman ... your voice on questions of taxation and legislation. It represents you at legislative hearings and budget sessions ... works for you against public waste and extravagance. It supports measures that are good for this community and opposes those which are detrimental.

It's your sales manager ... it sells your city, your products and your services to people everywhere ... develops our trade area ... creates new markets ... conducts goodwill tours ... brings thousands of persons to Big Spring to spend money with YOU and other businessmen.

It's your goodwill ambassador ... it tells the world about the Big Spring area's agricultural, commercial, cultural and recreational facilities ... upholds tradition of friendliness and hospitality ... bringing new business to Big Spring and increasing your enjoyment of the city in which YOU live.

It answers your mail ... replies to scores of inquiries about Big Spring and Howard County, about your business and you. It answers every inquiry fully ... promptly ... courteously ... creating favorable impressions and building public esteem for this community, your business and YOU.

It's your business agent ... always ready to lend a helping hand. It performs services to existing industries and business firms ... conducts surveys, market studies, labor market data and helps create more payroll dollars for the Big Spring Area.

It's your information bureau ... furnishes you up-to-the-minute data to help you conduct your business ... facts on business trends, population, market potentials, taxes, employment practices, state and federal laws ... sends you bulletins, reports, saves time and money.

It's the voice of our community ... the rallying point for every civic movement whose objective is the benefit of the entire community ... the central organization in which you and your fellow businessmen join hands to promote the projects that benefit you, your family, your business and YOUR community.

So you see — it really doesn't cost to be a part of the Chamber — it actually pays. It pays dividends every day and those dividends are far more valuable than the investment we make. The Chamber is YOUR organization. It makes your community a better place to live and earn a living. I think you'll agree that it takes three — YOU ... YOUR CHAMBER ... and lots of HUSTLE! HUSTLE! HUSTLE!

"I have my own ideas about smoking"

"I know what I like out of life. And one of the things I like is smoking. But there's no getting away from the stories I keep hearing about cigarettes and high tar.

"There's also no getting away from why I smoke. I smoke for the pleasure of it. For the taste. And for enjoying a cigarette after my long day as a teacher.

"Then at night when I work my other job — as a drummer — I enjoy lighting up between sets. It's part of the way I live.

"For me, the dilemma was how to find a cigarette that could give me taste without high tar. And that was quite a dilemma.

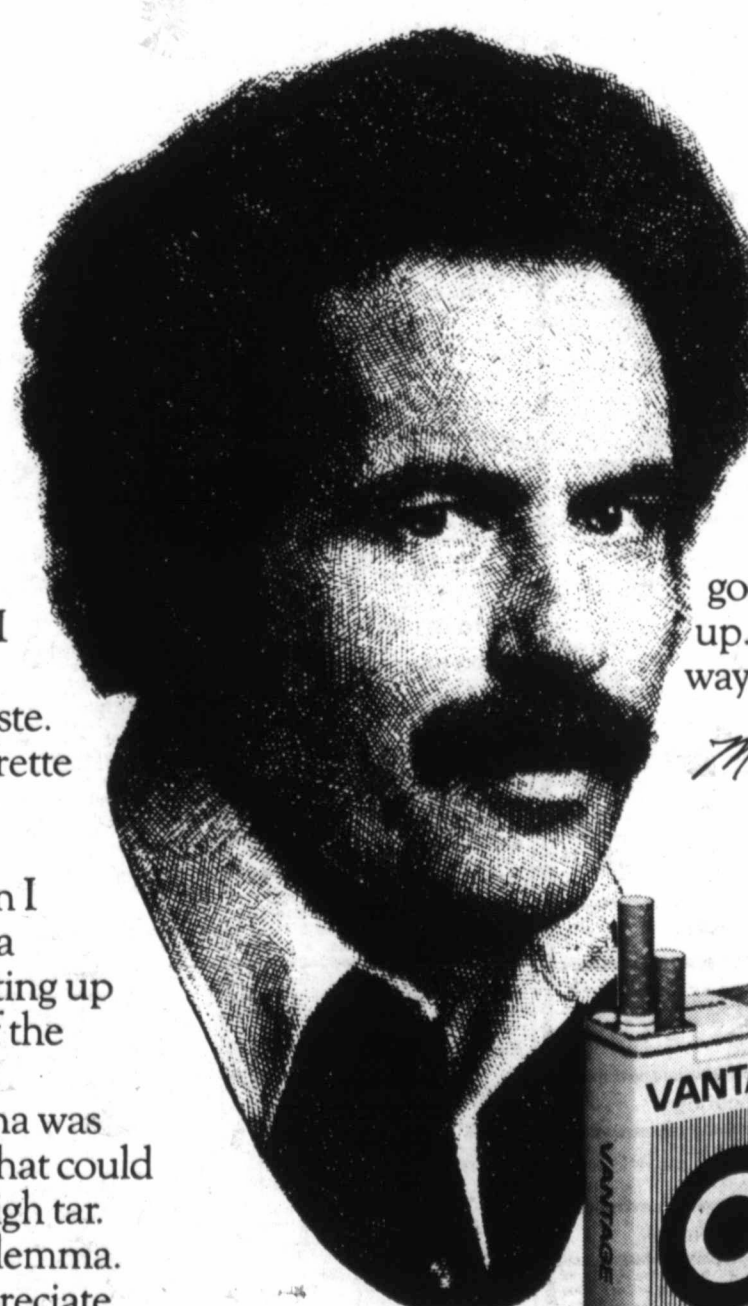

"Which is why I appreciate Vantage as much as I do. It's the only low-tar cigarette I've found (and I've tried several other brands) that really gives me cigarette taste and satisfaction.

"And the Vantage filter is especially neat because it's firm yet easy drawing.

"As far as Vantage goes, my mind is made up. And that's just the way I like it."
