US 'Atlas' Missile Is Fired

Test Of Weapon Is Apparently Successful

By CHARLES TAYLOR
United Press Staff Correspondent

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UP) A gleaming Atlas inter-continental missile thundered into the blue today in an apparently successful fourth test flight of the ocean spanning missile.

The missile was visible to dozen of observers crowded on beaches for about three minutes before it went out of sight behind a layer of fluffy clouds.

The roar of the mighty 92-foot behemoth of the U.S. missile arsenal shook buildings as it roared off its launching pad.

The awesome giant was fueled with liquid oxygen quickly after it was brought out of its gantry tower and fired with seemingly little difficulty.

The red warning ball was down when the missile was fired.

High winds caused postponement of the test launching originally scheduled Wednesday.

Thursday winds had subsided activity at the launching site. A somewhat and there was much great puff of smoke seen at mid-afternoon was believed to be a small unidentified missile exploding on its launching pad.

The tedious countdown leading to triggering of the Atlas had to begin around midnight in order to get the missile off the ground by noon. Richard C. Shotwell was to push the firing buttor.

The Atlas weighs about 100 tons and measures about 90 feet, including its nose cone which carried only instruments and dummy gear today. Eventually the missile will be able to speed 5,500 miles bearing a nuclear warhead.

The Atlas is the biggest missile in the U.S. arsenal and this country's only intercontinental ballistic weapon fired into flight so far.

When it flew in December after two previous launchings in which it was blown up intentionally a few thousand feet off its pad, the Atlas went about 600 miles and reached an altitude of about 80 miles. It is not expected to be flown for maximum range for some time.

Secret Weapons Hinted By Solon

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Senate's chief missile investigator threw a guardedly hopeful light on the nation's defense picture today with a hint America has some secret military advances up her sleeve.

"In emphasizing our shortcomings and deficiencies," said Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson, "it is well to recognize that we have done some things that our folks don't know about."

Johnson, chairman of the Senate subcommittee investigating U.S. defense preparedness, added:

"We have many strengths that should — and will — be emphasized, too."

Johnson refused to elaborate on whether his cryptic statement to newsmen implied a U.S. "secret weapon." But a fellow subcommittee member, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), said he was unaware of any secret weapons and did not know what Johnson referred to.

However, former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson, in a recent speech at Detroit, indicated that some new U.S. military developments were in the works now and might be revealed soon.

The subcommittee called Nelson A. Rockefeller to testify in a public session on his panel's previously released report calling for a drastic shakeup in the Armed Forces and a three billion dollar increase in defense spending to keep Russia from gaining military superiority by 1960.

Maj. Gen. John Medaris, commander of the Army Redstone missile arsenal, Huntsville, Ala., was to appear later in a closed session.

President Eisenhower called for a Pentagon reorganization in his State of the Union message Thursday. Well informed sources said it indicated the President would assume personal command of the defense effort and probably would keep his fingers on the controls through the budget and by giving more authority to Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy.

Rockefeller was expected to back up his group's demands for more unification in the Armed Forces top command.

Johnson said Air Force chief of staff Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force missile chief Gen. Bernard A. Schriever and Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin, Army missile boss, testified missile "production rates could be increased and should be increased." But they said they couldn't obtain the money.

Water Meters Show Growth Continues

The rapid growth of Pampa during 1957 was indicated today in a report on water meters installed in the city during a five-month period last year.

John Koontz, city manager, said this morning that a total of 7,045 water meters were in use in Pampa on Dec. 1, 1957. This was 339 meters more than was in use on July 1, 1957, when the total number was 6,706.

Figuring the population on a basis of 3.3 persons for each meter, the basis used in many cities, this would indicate that the population of Pampa on Dec. 1, 1957, was 23,248.

The number of meters in Pampa on Nov. 20, 1953, four years earlier, was 5,624. Population figured on the same basis would have been 18,559.

Work On Hobart Rail By-Pass Due

The laying of ties and rails for the tracks to by-pass the crossing located on Hobart during the construction of the underpass is scheduled to begin next week.

G. K. Reading, resident engineer of the Texas Highway Department, stated that the construction of the fill for the tracks is scheduled to be completed sometime tomorrow. He said that he had been informed by Santa Fe Railway officials that the work would start as soon as the fill was completed.

Dirt for the fill was obtained from the north side of the crossing by removing dirt in a portion of the site of the underpass. Reading said that further construction of the underpass itself would not begin until after the by-pass tracks are completed and the present crossing can be removed.

It is not known when the construction of the by-pass tracks will be completed and construction work can begin on the underpass, he said.

He stated that until the underpass work can be started the construction crews will spend full time on the installation of the storm sewer. Late yesterday, the main portion of the sewer was nearing the Foster and Hobart intersection. Backfill was being placed on the sewer between Francis and Kingsmill and that block of Hobart should be reopened to local traffic in the near future.

The date for the beginning of work on the lateral storm sewer on Alcock, from Hobart to Faulkner, is not known at the present, Reading said. He also reported that work was started on the portion of the storm sewer south of the crossing. This sewer will be installed under the west side of Hobart to the intersection with Wilks. Plans call for a lateral storm sewer to be constructed along Hobart to the Crawford intersection.

At the present time, all intersections on Hobart between Francis and Wilks are closed, with the exception of a one-lane route connecting the intersections of Foster and Rham. As soon as possible, the Kingsmill intersection will be reopened, Reading said.

The intersection of Ripley and Hobart is permanently closed and will be blocked by the underpass when construction work is completed.

Theft Of TV Set Is Reported

The theft of a table model television set from the rear of a local business yesterday afternoon was being investigated by the police department this morning.

Jim Conner, chief of police, said that Spence Hearn, operator of the West Texas Auto Store, 102 S. Cuyler, reported at 4:50 yesterday afternoon that the television set had been taken from near the back door of the firm.

Hearn told officers that the set, along with two other television sets and three radios, had been delivered by a local truck line several minutes before the theft was discovered.

When employes of the firm started to take the television sets and radios inside the firm, the theft of the television was discovered, Conner said.

The set is a 21-inch, Packard-Bell, with a mahogony finish, the chief added.

Personal Property Renditions Are Due

Aubrey Jones, city tax collector-assessor, reminded Pampans today that it's time to render personal property for taxation.

He reported that, "All persons, firms, corporations and associations are required to file with the Assessor and Collector of Taxes of the City of Pampa, on or before the last day of March, each and every year, a full and complete statement, list or schedule, verified by affidavit, of all personal property located and subject to taxation in the City of Pampa, owned, held or controlled by them, or in their possession as agent, bailee, warehouseman or custodian on the first day of January, and shall in said statement, list and schedule, state the location of the property and the name and address of the owner."

All personal property must be declared by the first day of April. Jones outlined his department's work by dividing a year into three segments, the first three months being for tax rendering purposes, the next three for board of equalization meetings and declaring of personal property valuations, with the remainder of the year used for collections.

In answer to the question, "who is supposed to render personal property for taxes?", Jones said, "Every business is supposed to render its personal property for taxation. It may render merchandise, equipment, office furniture, fixtures, or anything used in a business."

He further explained that the reason for the deadline, the last day of March, is that Pampa observes state tax laws, which state that personal property for taxation must be declared by the first day of April.

Pampa's policy in the past has been to assess personal property only on businesses, and any business, from the smallest office on up, is placed on the city's tax roll.

The responsibility, Jones said, is on the individual to inform himself as to what property is taxable and to inform the tax office as to what taxable property he owns. No notices are sent out regarding renditions. The city tax office does, however, send out delinquent tax notices, if and when the delinquency occurs.

Jones added, "If you don't render your taxable personal property, then you jeopardize your chances with the board of equalization if you appeal an assessment." The board of equalization determines the value of your personal property and its assessment is guided by your declaration, he added.

"If you don't have a business of your own but want to pay personal property taxes in order to vote in bond elections, then you may declare your furniture or any other item of personal property, such as

Mobeetie Student Is Injured

LaWayne Hogan, a student at Mobeetie High School, was injured in an automobile accident at 11:30 last night on a dirt road near Wheeler.

Hogan was brought to Highland General Hospital by ambulance where he received emergency treatment. He was later taken to an Amarillo hospital for treatment. The extent of his injuries, other than a broken arm, was not reported.

Sheriff Bus Dorman of Wheeler said that the accident occurred on a county road, one-half mile east and one mile north of Wheeler. Hogan and four other Mobeetie youths were returning from shooting crows when their 1949 Chevrolet struck a bridge abutment and turned over one time, Dorman stated.

The other four youths were not injured in the accident, Dorman said. They were: Autry Wallis, Bobby Risner, Delbert Leon Rector and Archie Scribner. All but Risner are students at Mobeetie High School.

'A Smile Is Important'

Southern Business Authority In Address

By ALETHA DAVIS
Pampa News Staff Writer

Dr. Frank Goodwin, introduced to members of the Top o' Texas Knife and Fork Club as "an expert in the field of public relations and business counseling," held motionless, an audience of 275 persons last night in the high school auditorium with his address on the "Egocentric Predicament."

Dr. Goodwin, a Southerner, born and reared in Georgia, has education degrees from four colleges and universities along with many years of actual contact with businesses and classrooms where he has taught numerous persons the relations that are necessary in good business.

In his address, Dr. Goodwin, who was presented and introduced by D. V. Biggers following a welcome given by Joe Gordon, club president, pointed out the value of a smile and stated that in actual cash value, the smiles, true smiles, with the "eyes and not the teeth," had upped sales 17 per cent in one firm in the North and that further research showed that 17 per cent was the lowest raise in a special project.

As a business relations trainer, Dr. Goodwin expressed the thought that enthusiasm is contagious and should be used greatly in business as well as in other forms of public relations.

"The human being," according to Dr. Goodwin, "is trapped within himself and unpleasant things irritate him such as a grain of sand in an oyster's shell irritate him; thus, the human in early life learns to cast the unpleasant things that irritate his personality out in the form of ugly actions and aggravation. The major thing in the personality is to overcome these things and learn to control tempers."

The Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the invocation before the dinner meal which was held in the high school cafeteria.

The next meeting of the Knife and Fork Club will be held in the high school cafeteria on March 6 when Dr. Gerald Wendt, one of the foremost interpreters of science will speak on "Science Leads the Way."

Ford Cowan, manager of Gray County's Perry LeFors Field, said that he expected at least 12 planes from Pampa would be flown to Canadian and expressed the belief that several local persons would drive down by car.

J. T. Webb and Vernon Flowers of Canadian manage the Hemphill County field and have reported that if the weather is bad Saturday, the event will be staged Sunday at the same time.

Defense Changes Studied

By CHARLES CORDDRY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower wants to expand the powers of his defense secretary and possibly give him a senior military staff to help push space-age weapons development and end inter-service disputes, it was reported today.

An administration source said Eisenhower was personally directing studies for overhauling defense policies and organization.

The President in his State of the Union message said he had underway a "special study" of what he called the never-ending problem of improving military unification.

If the President decides to seek a military staff for Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy and to enlarge the already immense powers of the Pentagon chief, he will have to seek legislation. A military advisory staff is barred by law now. The secretary has to rely for help upon the staffs of the military departments and the joint chiefs of staff.

The President's announcement of impending defense reorganization caught the Pentagon by surprise. There was no comment from McElroy. Eisenhower's speech quickly became a "best seller" in and out of the joint chiefs organization.

One top-level defense official told a reported "you are not the only one" curious about the President's plans. He said there were thousands in the Pentagon.

There has been a lack of enthusiasm for reorganization among military men, who think that increased money and decreased red tape are more likely answers to the problem of speeding weapons output in the face of Russian challenges.

Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said in a major speech Monday the present joint chiefs organization was "in harmony with our form of government." He criticized the idea of a single military chief for the whole defense organization.

Sub Chief Hits Budget Bureau

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rear Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, the Navy's atom submarine chief, has accused President Eisenhower's Budget Bureau of withholding funds appropriated by Congress.

His statement caused Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) to assert that the Budget Bureau was acting as a "super appropriations committe . . a kind of czar or dictator."

Rickover, in testimony released today, also said the Navy now is designing nuclear power plants for submarines "which should last the ships for almost an entire war without refueling." It also is "developing a machine to make oxygen from sea water which will permit them to stay submerged almost indefinitely," he said.

These inovations, he said, will make it possible for subs to hide out under icecaps where they could not be detected and blast the enemy with long-range missiles. He said he was "absolutely certain" it will be possible eventually to launch an intermediate range ballistic missile from a submarine.

Rickover, assistant chief for atomic propulsion of the Navy bureau of ships, said the Budget Bureau thus far has not handed out money for "one or two of my items" although Congress provided the funds for the fiscal year that began last July 1.

He gave no explanation of why the money has been withheld but said, "we ought to cancel the project or get the money."

"I think this business of the item veto (a veto of individual items in a larger appropriation bill) which Congress has never been willing to grant to the President is now being exercised by the Bureau of the Budget," he said.

CoC SPORTS Committee Has Special Meeting

The Sports and Recreation Committee of the Chamber of Commerce met this morning and discussed plans for the special events forthcoming during the new year.

The first and more immediate project discussed was the basketball banquet, honoring the 1958 Harvester team. Tuesday, March 11, was set as the date for the banquet and special committees were designated by Newt Secrest, chairman, to work out the details for the program.

Other possible plans and projects were submitted for consideration but no action will be taken until a later date.

Demo Criticism Of Ike's Message Mute

By RAYMOND LAHR
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP) — Skeptical Democrats in Congress called on President Eisenhower today to tell how to carry out his eight-point "security and peace" program for 1958 and line up his own party to support it.

There was not much sentiment among the Democratic majorities of the House and Senate to quarrel with the general goals set forth in the President's State of the Union message Thursday. Except for some of the more aggressive spokesmen for the New Deal wing of the party, Democratic criticism was muted.

But some highly placed Democrats were still questioning whether the Chief Executive's speech reflected the "sense of urgency" the Democrats have been demanding from the administration. Sen. John C. Stennis (D-Miss.), vice chairman of the Senate preparedness subcommittee investigating missiles, said the speech "did not add any degree of urgency to the program."

In particular, Democrats showed doubt that the Eisenhower administration intends to step up missile production as much as Democrats feel is necessary to match Russian progress.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.), summing up testimony of three top Army and Air Force officers before the preparedness subcommittee, said all had recommended an increase in production rates "but those recommendations had not been approved."

From the Republicans there was almost no criticism of the program as a whole despite some reservations about its details.

Will GOP Support Ike

But the Democrats said in effect: "You've defined your goals for dealing with the Soviet challenge to American leadership in lenge to American leadership in the space age. Now how do you propose to achieve them and will your own party support you?"

Johnson said today, "the President has — in general terms—set forth some worthy objectives. As soon as he lays down the blue prints for meeting those objectives, our committees will promptly consider those blueprints."

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack said, "When the President sends up his specific recommendations, I'm hoping the Republicans will vote the way they applauded."

Ike Blew A Few Lines, But All In All, Made Good Speech

By FRANK ELEAZER
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—It's true President Eisenhower blew some of his lines. By one count he goofed a word or so on 23 separate occasions.

But the consensus of those who heard his State-of-the-Union address was that this wasn't bad for a 5,000 word speech and in any event no worse than Ike would have done one, two or five years ago.

If everybody hadn't known Eisenhower had suffered a mild stroke Nov. 25, with a temporary impairment of speech, nobody would have thought a thing of such slips as Thursday's "citilians" for "civilians," or his back-up-and-start-again on such tongue-twisters as "among our assets, let us first briefly glance. . ."

Better orators than Eisenhower have stumbled in public on phrases like that. After all Eisen-

THE ATOM COMES OF AGE—The recent opening of the Westinghouse atomic electric power plant at Shippingport, Pa., put the spotlight on the growth of "atoms for peace." Newsmap shows five atomic plants now in operation, delivering civilian power. Nine more are now under construction or negotiating contracts. And seven plants, to be built by private capital without any direct government financing, are in the planning stage. In addition to those in this country, six other plants, to be supplied with nuclear fuel by the U.S., are under construction or being contracted for in Anchorage, Alaska; Belgium, Brazil, Cuba, Italy and Mexico.

Unemployed Payments Are Up In Texas

WACO, Tex. (UP)— Unemployment payments in Texas are already up 50 per cent and the head of the Texas Employment Commission said Thursday he expects a total of 70,000 claims a week by March.

Commission Chairman Col. W. Perry Brown said the commission had a $3,000,000 trust fund which it could use if needed as a blotter to absorb the impact of increasing unemployment in the state.

Brown spoke before a district meeting of commission officers in Waco who are surveying the jobless situation in the central Texas area. He said the situation in this area was not as bad as in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and the state as a whole.

"Unemployment insurance claims for the week ending Jan. 2 in Texas were 57,472, or 50 per cent higher than claims for the same week last year," he said.

The predicted 70,000 unemployment figure would represent about 6 per cent of the total Texas labor force of three million.

Search For Youth Is Called Off

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (UP — Authorities called of an international search for a missing 5-year-old boy Thursday night and theorized the youth was either dead in the frozen brush or abducted.

Federal Bureau of Investigatin agents stood by in case local authorities seek their aid in probing the kidnap possibility.

"I don't know where to look next," Sheriff Ed Anderson said after a two-day search by more than 1,500 American and Canadian volunters through the rugged border country failed to turn up a definite trace of the boy.

The youth, Danny Lamon, disappeared Wednesday shortly after he was put in his back yard to play. Danny's grief-stricken parents could not explain his disappearance.

About 100 persons remained out until near midnight in hopes that a dog, flown to the city by order of Minnesota Atty. Gen. Miles Lord, would pick up the boy's scent.

The dog led searchers about a mile down a road from Danny's home and into the thick brush, but then apparently became confused. Authorities said they found small footprints, but could not determine if they were Danny's.

The dog's handler, Jack Hatfield, said he planned to try again today.

hower was hardly a Cicero even back in 1952 when he was wowing audiences from New York to California with his grin, his charm and his manifest sincerity.

Some of those same qualities showed through Thursday, more than five years and three major illnesses later. For this or some other reason his jampacked audience in the big House chamber loved him right from the start.

They not only stood and applauded. They cheered and roared, more maybe from the Republican than the Democratic side but enough from both to warm the old soldier's heart.

Ike grinned and beamed. When the first ovation finally was quieted he touched off a couple more by tossing verbal bouquests toward his wife in the gallery (she wanted to join in best wishes for the new year, he said) and to Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Richard M. Nixon behind him (they both were celebrating birthdays this week, their 76th and 45th, respectively).

Then he settled down to the business at hand. He fished his plastic-rimmed glasses out of his outer breast pocket, pulled a clip from his manuscript and slipped a sheet at a time off to the left, gradually unstacking one pile of paper and neatly building another.

The speech was a long one, intended to run about 35 minutes. With 39 interruptions for applause it ran to 43 minutes.

Louis To Pay Government $20,000 A Year

CHICAGO (UP) — Former world's heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, who owes the government more than a million dollars in back taxes, has reached an agreement to pay $20,000 a year on the giant debt.

Louis, in an announcement Thursday night, said he agreed to the payment plan in hopes the government will make adjustments later on the amount he owes.

Louis' accountant, Arthur J. Wilson, said Louis owes $1,250,000 in back taxes, penalties and interest from 1946-54.

At the rate of $20,000 per year, it would take more than 60 years for Louis to liquidate his tax obligations.

Man Is Sentenced To Death

CONROE, Tex. (UP)— Phillip Slater, 35-year-old Negro handyman, was sentenced to death by a ninth district court jury Thursday after he pleaded guilty to beating 60-year-old Mary Louise Janak, a divorcee, to death Dec. 1.

Slater originally pleaded not guilty, but changed his plea after the prosecution introduced a confession and after testimony by a pathologist that the victim had been criminally assaulted. In the confesion, Slater had admitted kiling the woman, but denied the assault.

Two Texas Rangers sat on either side of the defendant throughout the trial in anticipation of possible violence because of "high feelings" in the town.

But, when the jury returned the verdict after 25 minutes deliberation, Judge Ernest Coker told the overflow crowd of 300 to remain seated until he gave the "word to leave." The Rangers hustled Slater out a side door and back to jail without incident.

Ike Urged To Slow His Motorcade

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mr. President: Please slow down another five miles an hour—at least when you're driving through Montgomery County.

This was the tenor of an appeal to President Eisenhower from a weekly newspaper published in the Maryland countryside through which the Chief Executive travels every time he makes the 80-mile drive between the White House and his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The Montgomery County Sentinel printed "an open letter to Ike" respectfully suggesting that keeping the presidential car five miles below the speed limit "not only would increase your chances of safety on our open roads but that of everyone else as well."

The Sentinel argued that holding down the lead car's speed would enable the rest of the President's motorcade to catch up after turns, traffic lights and stop signs — and still stay within the speed limits.

The newspaper told the President, "the five minutes you would lose while going through our county, we are sure, would not greatly hamper your schedule."

The open letter to the President was accompanied by a cartoon showing a rooster, hen and chicks by a roadside. The rooster was warning, "Don't you chicks cross the road—Ike's party will be along

Missing Boy Needs 'Shots' Every Day

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—A plea for help in finding their 15-year old son, who faces serious illness unless he gets daily medical treatment, has been made to Bell Helicopter Corp. by a Clarence, N. Y., family.

The boy, Mike Culliton, left home Nov. 8 because he feared he would be punished because of a traffic ticket, his mother said. She said she thought he had probably headed for Texas because of his love for ranches and horses.

Mike requires daily penicillin doses for a rheumatic fever condition and his mother said he was unaware of the importance of the medicine in keeping him well.

Bell Helicopter received the appeal after the boy's father, Edward C. Culliton, first appealed to a vice president of the Bell Aircraft Corp., of Buffalo, N. Y. The vice president referred the plea to the helicopter branch.

A Fort Worth radio station, which broadcast the appeal today, said two persons called and said they had seen a boy fitting Mike's description hitchhiking in Fort Worth Wednesday. Another report from Waco said a motorist had given a boy answering the description a ride there recently.

Gangland Killer Dies In 'Chair'

OSSINING, N.Y. (UP)— Gangland killer Elmer (Trigger) Burke died in the Sing Sing electric chair Thursday night with a nervous smile on his lips and uncounted underworld secrets hidden in his heart.

Burke, who drew top rubout assignments in his 40-year life of crime, was executed for murdering his best friend, Ed (Poochie) Walsh, a longshoreman who made the fatal erroh of disagreeing with him in 1952.

Killer, thief, prison breaker and the green-walled death chamber at decorated soldier, Burke entered the green-walled death chamber at 1101 p.m. e.s.t. A smile flickered across his lips and he waved to a witness who said later he never saw Burke before. Burke sat in the chair and the death hood was buckled on his head. Three minutes after he had entered the room, Burke was dead.

Officials put him to death reluctantly. They had offered him his life if he would tell what he knew about waterfront killings in New York, the million - dollar Brinks robbery in Boston, and other underworld activities.

Burke once was hired in 1954 to assasssinate a suspect in the Brinks robbery, Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe, in Boston. He sprayed O'Kefe with 40 machinegun bullets but O'Keefe lived and Burke went to prison. Authorities believed Burke got some of the $1,219,000 Brinks loot, or knew where it was.

Housewife Saves Youth

FORT WORTH (UP)— A quick-thinking Fort Worth housewife averted a possible tragedy Thursday when she used a loop of garden hose to pull a two-year-old boy from the bottom of an abandoned well.

Henry Eugene Dickson Jr., who suffers from a slight heart murmur, fell into the 15-foot-deep shaft yesterday as he played behind his grandmother's home. The near-tragedy occurred in front of the boy's frantic mother, Mrs. H. E. Dickson.

Mrs. Dickson said she was drinking coffee with the boy's grandmother when she heard him crying out. She rushed to the back door just in time to see Henry, who had been gripping the top of the well, disappear into the shaft.

Mrs. Alma Stoeppleman, a neighbor, heard the cries of the boy and went to see what was the matter. When she found out what was wrong, she went to a shed near her house and brought back a length of garden hose.

"He was crying and screaming for several minutes," she said, "but I managed to get him calmed down finally."

Mrs. Stoeppleman made a loop of one end of the hose and lowered it into the well. She told Henry to grab the loop with both hands and hold on.

Man Held For US Marshal

A 30-year-old Pampa man is being held by the police department for the U.S. Marshal on a parole violation.

Ival Leroy Lowry, Hillson Hotel, was arrested by city officers at 7:25 last night after the local department was notified by the FBI in Amarillo that a federal warrant had been issued for his arrest.

The call from the FBI was received by the police department at 7:10 last night, Jim Conner, chief of police, said.

Conner did not know today when the U.S. Marshal would arrive in Pampa to pick up Lowry.

He added that anyone who desires assistance in rendering their property can call his office and he will assist them in filling out their personal property rendition.

One of the biggest problems faced by the tax office is that of people failing to notify the office of their proper mailing address. A large number of statements are returned every year because of insufficient address. This results in the taxes becoming delinquent and additional penalty being assessed.

West Is 'Pressured' By Notes

PARIS (UP)—A new barrage of notes by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin put pressure on the West today to hold a "summit" meeting much sooner than it had planned.

The permanent council of NATO —ministers from each of the 15 members—already had called a meeting for today (10:30 a.m. e.s.t.) to try to answer Bulganin's series of notes sent last December.

Now they were faced not only with the necessity of reaching quick agreement on the December notes but on notes sent Thursday by Bulganin to 19 nations including all members of NATO.

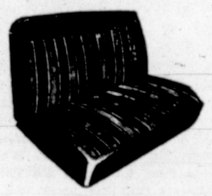

Thursday's barrage also was sent to members of the Communist "Warsaw alliance," the anti-NATO group of satellite nations, calling for a summit conference, a non-aggression pact and an immediate cessation of nuclear tests.

Bulganin's earlier offers, made on the eve of the NATO conference here Dec. 16-19 attended by President Eisenhower, indicated a desire for more restricted talks, perhaps with the United States alone.

The West has been cool to such a proposal. It was reported planning counter proposals asking for extensive diplomatic preparations that would include a conference of foreign ministers before any heads of state get together.

"Uncle" Billy Frost ... 95 today!

We should have known yesterday afternoon, when we made several attempts to call Uncle Billy Frost at his home, 1105 Charles, to wish him a Happy Birthday, and no one answered, that he would be at the Senior Center, where he goes regularly each week . . . if his "wooden" leg will let him. Now, this wooden leg business is all a big joke, but that is what he calls his cane, which he uses only when his knee goes out on him once in a while. As we said, the purpose of our phone call to Uncle Billy, which he likes to be called by his friends, was to wish him a Happy 95th Birthday, which he is celebrating today!

After extending our best wishes, we asked him how he was going to spend today and he said, "By Gollies, with all I have booked to do, I don't know how I am going to get it all in." But we do know that he has a luncheon date with a specially-requested menu of hot-cakes and crisp bacon. And a mid-afternoon date for a snack with some friends.

We had the pleasure of meeting Uncle Billy about this time last year and since then we have seen him almost regularly at the Senior Center on Thursday afternoons, and since our route home in the evenings passes right by his house, we often see him working in his yard in the summer - time. One night this fall, we met him at Sam Houston's Family Night dinner.

Uncle Billy came to Pampa in 1929 to make his home and until his retirement in September, 1940, was employed by Dunigan Brothers oil and gas producers. His wife passed away about eight years ago, and since that time he has been doing his own house-keeping and cooking chores. He says that he can get up the "biggest meal without cooking a thing." And we can attest to the fact that his tidy house-keeping would match that of the most fastidious female's!

Uncle Billy lists cooking, keeping house, and listening to sports' broadcasts over the radio as the activities that keep him the most busy. And to this list of his, we can add our own opinion of him, being charming to and interested in other people!

His fading eye - sight prevents him from reading the newspaper or watching TV, but he does derive much enjoyment from listening to sportscasts given by Warren Hasse, whom he has tagged "an expert on all the games." Uncle Billy likes all sports, baseball, football, and basketball, but has little liking for wrestling matches. The OU Sooners were one of his favorites and thinks they have "one of the best coaches in the business" (Amen, Uncle Billy).

A new member was added to the Frost family household this fall, when a playful white kitten accepted Uncle Billy's hospitality of a saucer of milk. He has named her "Trixie" and she has the run of the house. Uncle Billy said he has a great feeling for cats and dogs, and at one time owned nine dogs and still wasn't sure that was enough until it came time to feed them all, and then he decided that perhaps it was!

So, to a fine gentlemen, impeccable in dress and spirit, by gollies, Uncle Billy, we wish you the happiest birthday ever today!

THE NO-FAT DIET: 3

Beef On Dinner Plates, Not On Waistline, Has Scientific Spot On Your Daily Diet

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Today a thick juicy steak is the American symbol of success. Overweight or not, most men and women dream of eating as much beef as they can afford.

Because this 1,1000-calorie-a-day diet is geared to the prevailing American cultural pattern, it includes an occasional thick juicy steak or a few slabs of prime ribs of beef.

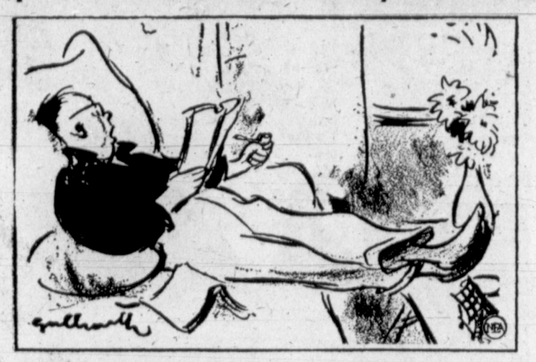

Based on researches at the Department of Nutrition at Harvard University, translated into "the way you live" terms, this sixpart No-Fad Diet series has three purposes: (1) to show you how to reduce to your normal weight; (2) to keep you happy and well while losing unsightly and often dangerous extra pounds, by following a good nutrition program and (3) to help you acquire the habit of not getting fat.

Beef, like any other good food at your supermarket, has a place on a scientifically planned diet. Pills and drugs don't — unless your doctor orders them. But regular moderate exercise has a vital place in a common sense weight reduction.

Dr. Jean Mayer, associate professor of nutrition and a leader in the field of experimental obesity, says that farmer recognize the value of exercise better than most people. He points out that when they want to fatten steers for market, they pen them up. The result of cutting down activity but not food results in more pounds on the carcass.

Dr. Mayer believes that inactivity rather than overeating may often be one of the major causes of overweight.

Together with two other distinguished researchers, he made a controlled study of 28 obese high school girls, comparing their activities and eating habits with 28 non-obese girls. He found that the fat girls were more inactive than the non-obese girls. As reported in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, he concluded that it appears that inactivity is more important than overeating as a cause of obesity.

Inactivity rather than overeating may often be one of the major causes of overweight.

In another study, Dr. Mayer and associates found that the average caloric intake of obese women does not contain a significantly higher proportion of either carbohydrate or fat than does that of normal-weight women. He stresses that this is in contrast to various unsupported assumptions on the subject.

Let's translate Mayer's findings into our efforts to banish unwanted pounds: if you eat more than your body needs to function even though you think you are eating very little, you will gain weight. The difference between the number of calories you put into your stomach and the number of calories your body burns up normally, turns into fat. That is UNLESS you burn up those unused calories in extra bodily activity. A fat cat doesn't chase mice.

Who wants to give up steak? One-half pound of boneless Porterhouse or one-half pound of filet mignon contains approximately 675 calories. A three ounce slice (3x2½ x¼") of roast beef has about 300. A high percentage of those calories come form the fat in the meat. They are in not only the visible fat which you can cut off if you want, but also in the marbling—those tiny lines that indicate tenderness.

But don't worry. As explained in the first article of this series, in these 1,500-calorie nutritionally balanced diets, the average number of calories from fat is limited to between 30-35 per cent. However, on your steak day the percentage will jump to 45. Nevertheless, the week's average will be maintained because on some of the other days, the calories from fat are only 28, 22 and 20 per cent. So enjoy your steak.

For the record, one pound of hamburger (lean ground round steak) has 1,057 calories. Therefore, a quarter pound of round has about 265. One-half pound serving of Porterhouse steak with bone in carries 600 calories. You can fit any one of these cuts of beef into your 1,500-calorie diet occasionally. On other days, use chicken, fish, veal lamb or some of the leaner cuts of beef. But at all times, keep the proportion of green and yellow vegetables and fruit, including some citrus, high.

Remember the ground rules for these scientifically planned diets. They are: (1) eat variety of foods, 2) go easy on fats, (3) avoid binges on any one particular food, and (4) don't eat seconds, (5) get some mild or moderate exercise every day.

RUTH MILLETT

Any woman who finds housework hectic can relieve some of the pressure by using the techniques of women who seem to do their work easily. Here are just a few of them as a starter:

Keep lists.

A list of needed staples for the kitchen. A list of errands that have to be run, so that as many as possible can be combined in one trip. A list of special jobs that need to be done in the near future, so that some of them can be accomplished in those free half-hours that come along occasionally. A list of telephone calls to be made, so that you don't forget to check on a dental appointment for one of the children, or order by telephone something that will save a last-minute trip to town.

Assign jobs to the children.

Right at first it would often be easier for a housewife to do a job herself than get a child to do it right. But taking the trouble to teach him and insisting that he be responsible for it pays off well in the end.

Plan menus a week in advance and market just once or twice a week. The woman who is wondering at five o'clock what to buy for dinner is just complicating her life needlessly.

Get started on the housework bright and early in the morning.

Don't make long telephone calls which could wait until afternoon when a rest has been earned. Don't waste time having coffee with a neighbor, reading, or just puttering around, wondering where to begin.

Do as much ahead of time as you can. It saves last minute panic and avoids last minute complications.

Make a clear distinction between the things that SHOULD be done and the things that HAVE to be done.

Then don't worry if all the "should be done" things don't get done immediately.

Finally, set your own housekeeping standards, instead of striving to keep up with a friend's or neighbor's.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Gil had had the flu.

When his fever broke, his mother was so grateful she couldn't do enough for him. She made fruit gelatins, broths and custards. She brought him toys. Several times a day she remade his bed to rid it of uncomfortable wrinkles, broken crayons and crumbs of modeling clay.

On the third day she left him munching lamb chop and baked potato to answer the telephone. She'd just said, "He's much better—," when Gil called "Mo—om, come here!" Hastily excusing herself to the neighbor, she rushed upstairs. There, pointing to his empty milk glass, Gil said, "Get me some water in it."

She should have said, "The bathroom is across the hall. Why don't you go and get it for yourself?" But she didn't. She got the water for Gil. For she'd made such a record of selfless devotion to him during his illness that she couldn't bear to put a stop to it.

In the past, most saints have been celibate. It was a very fortunate thing. If they'd had children, their saintliness would have been a terrible liability to the wretched offspring. Their children's association with perfect virtue would have made it impossible for them to tolerate ordinary people.

Once I knew a much-married man who combined great sexual charm with great contempt for the women who succumbed to it. Psychiatrists would call him the "Don Juan" type. At lunch one day he sighed heavily over the lobster thermidor he had ordered for us and said to me, "My mother? She was a saint. When God made her, He broke the mold. There never was another woman like her."

Like his, many marriages fail because one partner is increasingly disappointed by the other's refusal to reproduce the "devotion" of an over-protective, idealized father or mother. The disappointed partner may never wake up to the fact that his saintly parent was really seeking to make anyone else's love appear inferior and unsatisfying.

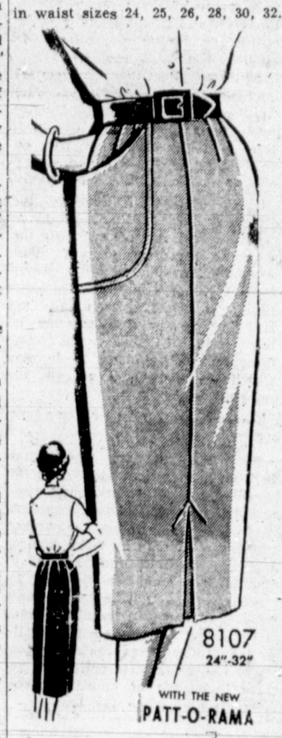

So we do not have to pretend that we like Gil's convalescent tyranny when we don't. There is nothing beautiful at all in getting him water-he is well enough to get for himself.

Women who type may wonder their fingernails chip constantly. They should check the length of the nail. Nails kept at about fingertip length are recommended both for secretaries or the woman at home. It is a more flattering and practical length.

New Topic Begun By St. Paul WSCS

St. Paul Methodist Women's Society of Christian Service met in the Fellowship Hall on Wednesday morning at ten for a group study session on "Cross and Crisis in Japan."

Mrs. Bill Sargent, study leader, introduced the topic by explaining the geography of Japan and gave a history of the Christian movement in Japan. She stated that only one-half of one per cent of the population today is Christian.

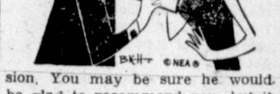

Mrs. Charles Norton told the story of a typical Methodist Church of around 50 members in Takashima.

The program was concluded with the serving of tea and cookies in the Japanese manner.

Attending, in addition to those mentioned were, Mmes. Kit Autry, W. J. Fletcher, W. F. Gaines, J. W. Hopkins, Bill Matejowsky, R. A. Newton, and A. N. Rogers.

Manners Makes Friends

Before you give a person's name as a reference when you are job-hunting be sure to ask his permission. You may be sure he would be glad to recommend you, but it is only courteous to ask him.

If he does, you should, of course, thank him afterward whether you get the job or not.

Washing out your eyes can ease a tired feeling at the end of a day's work. It can also help you pry them open in the morning.

THE ATOM COMES OF AGE—The recent opening of the Westinghouse atomic electric power plant at Shippingport, Pa., put the spotlight on the growth of "atoms for peace." Newsmap shows five atomic plants now in operation, delivering civilian power. Nine more are now under construction or negotiating contracts. And seven plants, to be built by private capital without any direct government financing, are in the planning stage. In addition to those in this country, six other plants, to be supplied with nuclear fuel by the U.S., are under construction or being contracted for in Anchorage, Alaska; Belgium, Brazil, Cuba, Italy and Mexico.

Unemployed Payments Are Up In Texas

WACO, Tex. (UP)— Unemployment payments in Texas are already up 50 per cent and the head of the Texas Employment Commission said Thursday he expects a total of 70,000 claims a week by March.

Commission Chairman Col. W. Perry Brown said the commission had a $3,000,000 trust fund which it could use if needed as a blotter to absorb the impact of increasing unemployment in the state.

Brown spoke before a district meeting of commission officers in Waco who are surveying the jobless situation in the central Texas area. He said the situation in this area was not as bad as in the Dallas-Fort Worth area and the state as a whole.

"Unemployment insurance claims for the week ending Jan. 2 in Texas were 57,472, or 50 per cent higher than claims for the same week last year," he said.

The predicted 70,000 unemployment figure would represent about 6 per cent of the total Texas labor force of three million.

Search For Youth Is Called Off

INTERNATIONAL FALLS, Minn. (UP — Authorities called of an international search for a missing 5-year-old boy Thursday night and theorized the youth was either dead in the frozen brush or abducted.

Federal Bureau of Investigatin agents stood by in case local authorities seek their aid in probing the kidnap possibility.

"I don't know where to look next," Sheriff Ed Anderson said after a two-day search by more than 1,500 American and Canadian volunters through the rugged border country failed to turn up a definite trace of the boy.

The youth, Danny Lamon, disappeared Wednesday shortly after he was put in his back yard to play. Danny's grief-stricken parents could not explain his disappearance.

About 100 persons remained out until near midnight in hopes that a dog, flown to the city by order of Minnesota Atty. Gen. Miles Lord, would pick up the boy's scent.

The dog led searchers about a mile down a road from Danny's home and into the thick brush, but then apparently became confused. Authorities said they found small footprints, but could not determine if they were Danny's.

The dog's handler, Jack Hatfield, said he planned to try again today.

IKE

hower was hardly a Cicero even back in 1952 when he was wowing audiences from New York to California with his grin, his charm and his manifest sincerity.

Some of those same qualities showed through Thursday, more than five years and three major illnesses later. For this or some other reason his jampacked audience in the big Houfe chamber loved him right from the start.

They not only stood and applauded. They cheered and roared, more maybe from the Republican than the Democratic side but enough from both to warm the old soldier's heart.

Ike grinned and beamed. When the first ovation finally was quieted he touched off a couple more by tossing verbal bouquests toward his wife in the gallery (she wanted to join in best wishes for the new year, he said) and to Speaker Sam Rayburn and Vice President Richard M. Nixon behind him (they both were celebrating birthdays this week, their 76th and 45th, respectively).

Then he settled down to the business at hand. He fished his plastic-rimmed glasses out of his outer breast pocket, pulled a clip from his manuscript and slipped a sheet at a time off to the left, gradually unstacking one pile of paper and neatly building another.

The speech was a long one, intended to run about 35 minutes. With 39 interruptions for applause it ran to 43 minutes.

Louis To Pay Government $20,000 A Year

CHICAGO (UP) — Former world's heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis, who owes the government more than a million dollars in back taxes, has reached an agreement to pay $20,000 a year on the giant debt.

Louis, in an announcement Thursday night, said he agreed to the payment plan in hopes the government will make adjustments later on the amount he owes.

Louis' accountant, Arthur J. Wilson, said Louis owes $1,250,000 in back taxes, penalties and interest from 1946-54.

At the rate of $20,000 per year, it would take more than 60 years for Louis to liquidate his tax obligations.

Man Is Sentenced To Death

CONROE, Tex. (UP)— Phillip Slater, 35-year-old Negro handyman, was sentenced to death by a ninth district court jury Thursday after he pleaded guilty to beating 60-year-old Mary Louise Janak, a divorcee, to death Dec. 1.

Slater originally pleaded not guilty, but changed his plea after the prosecution introduced a confession and after testimony by a pathologist that the victim had been criminally assaulted. In the confesion, Slater had admitted killing the woman, but denied the assault.

Two Texas Rangers sat on either side of the defendant throughout the trial in anticipation of possible violence because of "high feelings" in the town.

But, when the jury returned the verdict after 25 minutes deliberation, Judge Ernest Coker told the overflow crowd of 300 to remain seated until he gave the "word to leave." The Rangers hustled Slater out a side door and back to jail without incident.

Pampans' Infant Daughter Dies

Graveside services for the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Mullins, 1940 N. Sumner, were to be held at 3 p.m. today in the Baby Garden of Fairview Cemetery.

The infant died at 1:30 a.m. today in Highland General Hospital. Survivors besides the parents include a brother, Michael; and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Mullins of Sterley and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Stuard of Snyder.

Rev. Woodrow Adcock, pastor of the First Methodist Church, was to officiate at the services.

Ike Urged To Slow His Motorcade

WASHINGTON (UP)—Mr. President: Please slow down another five miles an hour—at least when you're driving through Montgomery County.

This was the tenor of an appeal to President Eisenhower from a weekly newspaper published in the Maryland countryside through which the Chief Executive travels every time he makes the 80-mile drive between the White House and his farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

The Montgomery County Sentinel printed "an open letter to Ike" respectfully suggesting that keeping the presidential car five miles below the speed limit "not only would increase your chances of safety on our open roads but that of everyone else as well."

The Sentinel argued that holding down the lead car's speed would enable the rest of the President's motorcade to catch up after turns, traffic lights and stop signs — and still stay within the speed limits.

The newspaper told the President, "the five minutes you would lose while going through our county, we are sure, would not greatly hamper your schedule."

The open letter to the President, "the five minutes you would lose while going through our county, we are sure, would not greatly hamper your schedule."

was accompanied by a cartoon showing a rooster, hen and chicks by a roadside. The rooster was warning, "Don't you chicks cross the road—Ike's party will be along

Missing Boy Needs 'Shots' Every Day

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UP)—A plea for help in finding their 15-year old son, who faces serious illness unless he gets daily medical treatment, has been made to Bell Helicopter Corp. by a Clarence, N. Y., family.

The boy, Mike Culliton, left home Nov. 8 because he feared he would be punished because of a traffic ticket, his mother said. She said she thought he had probably headed for Texas because of his love for ranches and horses.

Mike requires daily penicillin doses for a rheumatic fever condition and his mother said he was unaware of the importance of the medicine in keeping him well.

Bell Helicopter received the appeal after the boy's father, Edward C. Culliton, first appealed to a vice president of the Bell Aircraft Corp., of Buffalo, N. Y. The vice president referred the plea to the helicopter branch.

A Fort Worth radio station, which broadcast the appeal today, said two persons called and said they had seen a boy fitting Mike's description hitchhiking in Fort Worth Wednesday. Another report from Waco said a motorist had given a boy answering the description a ride there recently.

Gangland Killer Dies In 'Chair'

OSSINING, N.Y. (UP)— Gangland killer Elmer (Trigger) Burke died in the Sing Sing electric chair Thursday night with a nervous smile on his lips and uncounted underworld secrets hidden in his heart.

Burke, who drew top rubout assignments in his 40-year life of crime, was executed for murdering his best friend, Ed (Poochie) Walsh, a longshoreman who made the fatal erroh of disagreeing with him in 1952.

Killer, thief, prison breaker and the green-walled death chamber at decorated soldier, Burke entered the green-walled death chamber at 1101 p.m. e.s.t. A smile flickered across his lips and he waved to a witness who said later he never saw Burke before. Burke sat in the chair and the death hood was buckled on his head. Three minutes after he had entered the room, Burke was dead.

Officials put him to death reluctantly. They had offered him his life if he would tell what he knew about waterfront killings in New York, the million - dollar Brinks robbery in Boston, and other underworld activities.

Burke once was hired in 1954 to assassinate a suspect in the Brinks robbery, Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe, in Boston. He sprayed O'Kefe with 40 machinegun bullets but O'Keefe lived and Burke went to prison. Authorities believed Burke got some of the $1,219,000 Brinks loot, or knew where it was.

Housewife Saves Youth

FORT WORTH (UP)— A quick-thinking Fort Worth housewife averted a possible tragedy Thursday when she used a loop of garden hose to pull a two-year-old boy from the bottom of an abandoned well.

Henry Eugene Dickson Jr., who suffers from a slight heart murmur, fell into the 15-foot-deep shaft yesterday as he played behind his grandmother's home. The near-tragedy occurred in front of the boy's frantic mother, Mrs. H. E. Dickson.

Mrs. Dickson said she was drinking coffee with the boy's grandmother when she heard him crying out. She rushed to the back door just in time to see Henry, who had been gripping the top of the well, disappear into the shaft.

Mrs. Alma Stoeppleman, a neighbor, heard the cries of the boy and went to see what was the matter. When she found out what was wrong, she went to a shed near her house and brought back a length of garden hose.

"He was crying and screaming for several minutes," she said, "but I managed to get him calmed down finally."

Mrs. Stoeppleman made a loop of one end of the hose and lowered it into the well. She told Henry to grab the loop with both hands and hold on.

He added that anyone who desires assistance in rendering their property can call his office and he will assist them in filling out their personal property rendition.

One of the biggest problems faced by the tax office is that of people failing to notify the office of their proper mailing address. A large number of statements are returned every year because of insufficient address. This results in the taxes becoming delinquent and additional penalty being assessed.

West Is 'Pressured' By Notes

PARIS (UP)—A new barrage of notes by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin put pressure on the West today to hold a "summit" meeting much sooner than it had planned.

The permanent council of NATO —ministers from each of the 15 members—already had called a meeting for today (10:30 a.m. e.s.t.) to try to answer Bulganin's series of notes sent last December.

Now they were faced not only with the necessity of reaching quick agreement on the December notes but on notes sent Thursday by Bulganin to 19 nations including all members of NATO.

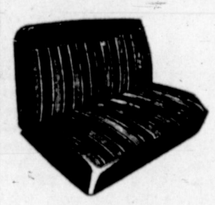

Thursday's barrage also was sent to members of the Communist "Warsaw alliance," the anti-NATO group of satellite nations, calling for a summit conference, a non-aggression pact and an immediate cessation of nuclear tests.

Bulganin's earlier offers, made on the eve of the NATO conference here Dec. 16-19 attended by President Eisenhower, indicated a desire for more restricted talks, perhaps with the United States alone.

The West has been cool to such a proposal. It was reported planning counter proposals asking for extensive diplomatic preparations that would include a conference of foreign ministers before any heads of state get together.

"Uncle" Billy Frost ... 95 today!

We should have known yesterday afternoon, when we made several attempts to call Uncle Billy Frost at his home, 1105 Charles, to wish him a Happy Birthday, and no one answered, that he would be at the Senior Center, where he goes regularly each week . . . if his "wooden" leg will let him. Now, this wooden leg business is all a big joke, but that is what he calls his cane, which he uses only when his knee goes out on him once in a while. As we said, the purpose of our phone call to Uncle Billy, which he likes to be called by his friends, was to wish him a Happy 95th Birthday, which he is celebrating today!

After extending our best wishes, we asked him how he was going to spend today and he said, "By Gollies, with all I have booked to do, I don't know how I am going to get it all in." But we do know that he has a luncheon date with a specially-requested menu of hot-cakes and crisp bacon. And a mid-afternoon date for a snack with some friends.

We had the pleasure of meeting Uncle Billy about this time last year and since then we have seen him almost regularly at the Senior Center on Thursday afternoons, and since our route home in the evenings passes right by his house, we often see him working in his yard in the summer time. One night this fall, we met him at Sam Houston's Family Night dinner.

Uncle Billy came to Pampa in 1929 to make his home and until his retirement in September, 1940, was employed by Dunigan Brothers oil and gas producers. His wife passed away about eight years ago, and since that time he has been doing his own house-keeping and cooking chores. He says that he can get up the "biggest meal without cooking a thing." And we can attest to the fact that his tidy house-keeping would match that of the most fastidious female's!

Uncle Billy lists cooking, keeping house, and listening to sports' broadcasts over the radio as the activities that keep him the most busy. And to this list of his, we can add our own opinion of him, being charming to and interested in other people!

His fading eye - sight prevents him from reading the newspaper or watching TV, but he does derive much enjoyment from listening to sportscasts given by Warren Hasse, whom he has tagged "an expert on all the games." Uncle Billy likes all sports, baseball, football, and basketball, but has little liking for wrestling matches. The OU Sooners were one of his favorites and thinks they have "one of the best coaches in the business" (Amen, Uncle Billy).

A new member was added to the Frost family household this fall, when a playful white kitten accepted Uncle Billy's hospitality of a saucer of milk. He has named her "Trixie" and she has the run of the house. Uncle Billy said he has a great feeling for cats and dogs, and at one time owned nine dogs and still wasn't sure that was enough until it came time to feed them all, and then he decided that perhaps it was!

So, to a fine gentlemen, impeccable in dress and spirit, by gollies, Uncle Billy, we wish you the happiest birthday ever today!

THE NO-FAT DIET: 3

Beef On Dinner Plates, Not On Waistline, Has Scientific Spot On Your Daily Diet

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

y a thick juic yAst m Todaa

Today a thick juicy steak is the American symbol of success. Overweight or not, most men and women dream of eating as much beef as they can afford.

Because this 1,1000-calorie-a-day diet is geared to the prevailing American cultural pattern, it includes an occasional thick juicy steak or a few slabs of prime ribs of beef.

Based on researches at the Department of Nutrition at Harvard University, translated into "the way you live" terms, this sixpart No-Fad Diet series has three purposes: (1) to show you how to reduce to your normal weight; (2) to keep you happy and well while losing unsightly and often dangerous extra pounds, by following a good nutrition program and (3) to help you acquire the habit of not getting fat.

Beef, like any other good food at your supermarket, has a place on a scientifically planned diet. Pills and drugs don't — unless your doctor orders them. But regular moderate exercise has a vital place in a common sense weight reduction.

Dr. Jean Mayer, associate professor of nutrition and a leader in the field of experimental obesity, says that farmer recognize the value of exercise better than most people. He points out that when they want to fatten steers for market, they pen them up. The result of cutting down activity but not food results in more pounds on the carcass.

Dr. Mayer believes that inactivity rather than overeating may often be one of the major causes of overweight.

Together with two other distinguished researchers, he made a controlled study of 28 obese high school girls, comparing their activities and eating habits with 28 non-obese girls. He found that the fat girls were more inactive than the non-obese girls. As reported in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, he concluded that it appears that inactivity is more important than overeating as a cause of obesity.

Inactivity rather than overeating may often be one of the major causes of overweight.

In another study, Dr. Mayer and associates found that the average caloric intake of obese women does not contain a significantly higher proportion of either carbohydrate or fat than does that of normal-weight women. He stresses that this is in contrast to various unsupported assumptions on the subject.

Let's translate Mayer's findings into our efforts to banish unwanted pounds: if you eat more than your body needs to function even though you think you are eating very little, you will gain weight. The difference between the number of calories you put into your stomach and the number of calories your body burns up normally, turns into fat. That is UNLESS you burn up those unused calories in extra bodily activity. A fat cat doesn't chase mice.

Who wants to give up steak? One-half pound of boneless Porterhouse or one-half pound of filet mignon contains approximately 675 calories. A three ounce slice (3x2½ x¼") of roast beef has about 300. A high percentage of those calories come form the fat in the meat. They are in not only the visible fat which you can cut off if you want, but also in the marbling—those tiny lines that indicate tenderness.

But don't worry. As explained in the first article of this series, in these 1,500-calorie nutritionally balanced diets, the average number of calories from fat is limited to between 30-35 per cent. However, on your steak day the percentage will jump to 45. Nevertheless, the week's average will be maintained because on some of the other days, the calories from fat are only 28, 22 and 20 per cent. So enjoy your steak.

For the record, one pound of hamburger (lean ground round steak) has 1,057 calories. Therefore, a quarter pound of round has about 265. One-half pound serving of Porterhouse steak with bone in carries 600 calories. You can fit any one of these cuts of beef into your 1,500-calorie diet occasionally. On other days, use chicken, fish, veal lamb or some of the leaner cuts of beef. But at all times, keep the proportion of green and yellow vegetables and fruit, including some citrus, high.

Remember the ground rules for these scientifically planned diets. They are: (1) eat variety of foods, 2) go easy on fats, (3) avoid binges on any one particular food, and (4) don't eat seconds, (5) get some mild or moderate exercise every day.

RUTH MILLETT

Any woman who finds housework hectic can relieve some of the pressure by using the techniques of women who seem to do their work easily. Here are just a few of them as a starter:

Keep lists.

A list of needed staples for the kitchen. A list of errands that have to be run, so that as many as possible can be combined in one trip. A list of special jobs that need to be done in the near future, so that some of them can be accomplished in those free half-hours that come along occasionally. A list of telephone calls to be made, so that you don't forget to check on a dental appointment for one of the children, or order by telephone something that will save a last-minute trip to town.

Assign jobs to the children.

Right at first it would often be easier for a housewife to do a job herself than get a child to do it right. But taking the trouble to teach him and insisting that he be responsible for it pays off well in the end.

Plan menus a week in advance and market just once or twice a week. The woman who is wondering at five o'clock what to buy for dinner is just complicating her life needlessly.

Get started on the housework bright and early in the morning.

Don't make long telephone calls which could wait until afternoon when a rest has been earned. Don't waste time having coffee with a neighbor, reading, or just puttering around, wondering where to begin.

Do as much ahead of time as you can. It saves last minute panic and avoids last minute complications.

Make a clear distinction between the things that SHOULD be done and the things that HAVE to be done.

Then don't worry if all the "should be done" things don't get done immediately.

Finally, set your own housekeeping standards, instead of striving to keep up with a friend's or neighbor's.

MATURE PARENT

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Gil had had the flu.

When his fever broke, his mother was so grateful she couldn't do enough for him. She made fruit gelatins, broths and custards. She brought him toys. Several times a day she remade his bed to rid it of uncomfortable wrinkles, broken crayons and crumbs of modeling clay.

On the third day she left him munching lamb chop and baked potato to answer the telephone. She'd just said, "He's much better—," when Gil called "Mo—om, come here!" Hastily excusing herself to the neighbor, she rushed upstairs. There, pointing to his empty milk glass, Gil said, "Get me some water in it."

She should have said, "The bathroom is across the hall. Why don't you go and get it for yourself?" But she didn't. She got the water for Gil. For she'd made such a record of selfless devotion to him during his illness that she couldn't bear to put a stop to it.

In the past, most saints have been celibate. It was a very fortunate thing. If they'd had children, their saintliness would have been a terrible liability to the wretched offspring. Their children's association with perfect virtue would have made it impossible for them to tolerate ordinary people.

Once I knew a much-married man who combined great sexual charm with great contempt for the women who succumbed to it. Psychiatrists would call him the "Don Juan" type. At lunch one day he sighed heavily over the lobster thermidor he had ordered for us and said to me, "My mother? She was a saint. When God made her, He broke the mold. There never was another woman like her."

Like his, many marriages fail because one partner is increasingly disappointed by the other's refusal to reproduce the "devotion" of an over-protective, idealized father or mother. The disappointed partner may never wake up to the fact that his saintly parent was really seeking to make anyone else's love appear inferior and unsatisfying.

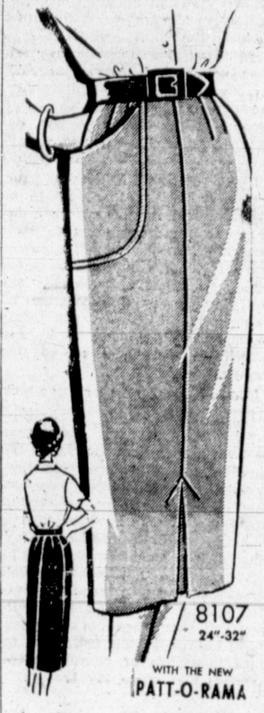

So we do not have to pretend that we like Gil's convalescent tyranny when we don't. There is nothing beautiful at all in getting him water he is well enough to get for himself.

Women who type may wonder their fingernails chip constantly. They should check the length of the nail. Nails kept at about fingertip length are recommended both for secretaries or the woman at home. It is a more flattering and practical length.

Manners Makes Friends

Before you give a person's name as a reference when you are job-hunting be sure to ask his permission. You may be sure he would be glad to recommend you, but it is only courteous to ask him.

If he does, you should, of course, thank him afterward whether you get the job or not.

Washing out your eyes can ease a tired feeling at the end of a day's work. It can also help you pry them open in the morning.

Presbyterians Embark On 'Five-Year Plan'

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

The Presbyterian Church in the United States embarked this month on a "five-year plan" that many denominations would consider hopelessly idealistic.

It is asking its three million members to double their total giving to church work by 1962.

The Presbyterians have the best possible reason for believing it can be done: They've done it before.

In 1950, the so-called northern Presbyterians were giving about 100 million dollars a year for local, national and foreign enterprises of their church. Last year, they gave more than 220 million dollars.

Although the denomination has grown in size during that period, most of the jump in its budget reflects more generous giving.

The present per capita giving figure of $72.03 a year is one of the highest to be found in major Protestant bodies. It compares, for example, with $52.79 for Episcopalians, $43.82 for Methodists, and $48.17 for Southern Baptists.

Behind the remarkable Presbyterian record is a new concept of church finance pioneered by the Rev. Dr. John Thompson Peters, secretary of stewardship and promotion.

Before Peters took charge eight years ago, the denomination followed the custom which still prevails in most Protestant bodies. Each year it would adopt a budget for the coming year, hopefully making the total a little larger than the previous one. This national total was then parcelled out among the 8,600 local Presbyterian churches. When the goal was reached, the drive was described as a success and everyone rested until the next year.

Under Peters' leadership, the Presbyterians switched to an "open end" budget. Each year the national church proposes a "basic program" which simply maintains the status quo. At the same time "advance programs" are laid before the denomination on the basis of "Here are some things which we ought to do, and which we will do if we get the money."

The advance programs are spelled out in detail.

Thus Presbyterians know that in 1958, if they give more than the bare minimum requirements represented by the basic program, they will be helping to expand mission programs in West Africa, Japan, Iran, Chile and 30 other countries; to build new churches in mushrooming U.S. suburbs and support missions in teeming inner-city slums; to expand the facilities and strengthen the faculties of 41 church-related colleges; to train thousands of church school teachers and other lay leaders.

Adult Workers Slate Meeting

LUBBOCK — Rev. Harold Ewing, head of the General Board of Education Youth Department, The Methodist Church, will be the featured speaker for the third annual Northwest Texas Methodist Conference Convocation of Adult Workers With Youth to be held at First Methodist church here Friday and Saturday, Jan. 24-25. Ewing is from Nashville, Tenn.

Three main emphases will be given consideration this year. They are: understanding youth, my job and relating the local, sub-district and district program. Also on Friday evening emphasis will be given to some new or neglected areas of recreation.

Friday's program will begin at 7 p.m. with registration. At 7:30 p.m., the recreation program will begin. This program will not be just for the purpose of getting acquainted, but will deal with specifics in recreation. Following this period, Ewing will speak to the group concerning the philosophy of youth work.

Saturday's program will begin at 8:45 a.m. with a general session. This will be followed by a movie and discussion groups in the area of understanding youth. At 11 a.m., Ewing will direct the group and will give the workers with youth a chance for questions in a symposium type experience on the local, sub-district and district program.

Luncheon will be served at the church at 12 noon and at 1:30 p.m. each person will go to their assigned group for help in their specific areas of work, or better known as the "my job" groups.

Christian Science Services

The vital importance of following the example of the Master, Christ Jesus, in our thoughts and actions will be emphasized Sunday at Christian Science services.

Keynoting the Lesson - Sermon entitled "Sacrament" is the Golden Text from I Corinthians (5:8): "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth."

Selections to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (37:22-25): "It is possible, — yea, it is the duty and privilege of every child, man, and woman, — to follow in some degree the example of the Master by the demonstration of Truth and Life, of health and holiness."

From the Bible will be read the following (Mark 16:15): "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature."

Come to Church

The Weekly Message Of Inspiration

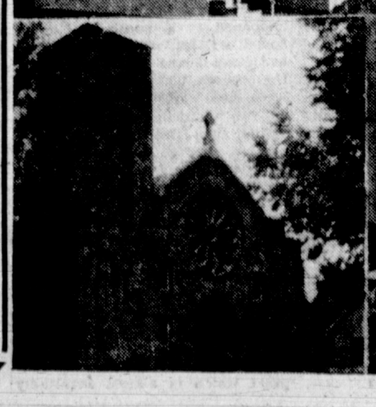

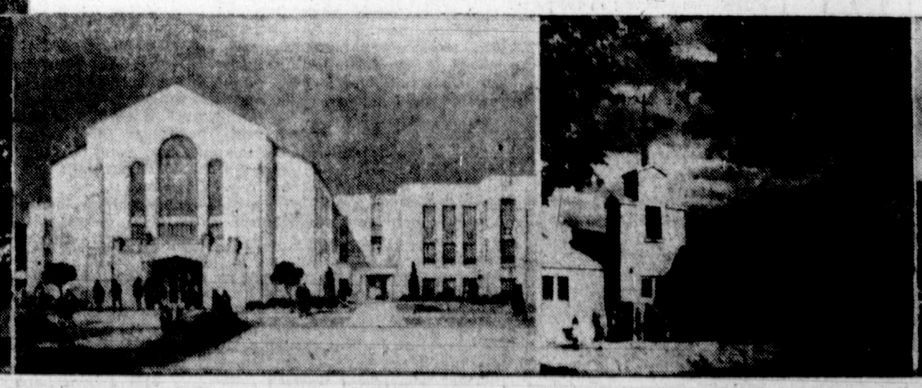

RICHARD W. CREWS
First Christian Church

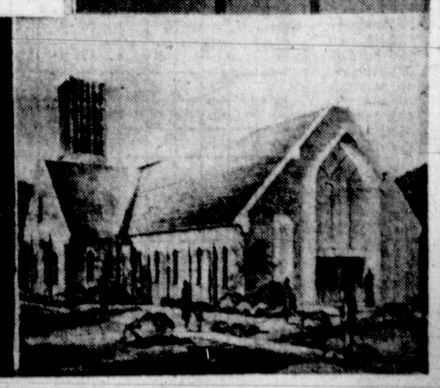

In the fourth chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke we are told that Jesus went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, "as his custom was." He knew the enriching value of regular worship. A few years ago Dwight Bradley gave the following answer to the question "What Is Worship?"

"It is the soul searching for its counterpart.
It is a thirsty land crying out for rain.
It is a candle in the act of being kindled.
It is a drop in quest of the ocean.
It is a man listening through the tornado for the Still Small Voice.
It is a sheep lost in the wilderness pleading for rescue by the Good Shepherd.
It is the same sheep nestling in the arms of the Rescuer.
It is the Prodigal Son running to his Father.
It is a soul standing in awe before the mystery of the Universe.
It is a poet enthralled by the beauty of the sunrise.
It is a workman pausing a moment to listen to a strain of music.
It is a hungry heart seeking for love.
It is time flowing into Eternity.
It is a man climbing the altar stairs to God.
He who neglects Worship, neglects that which separates man from the birds, the animals, the insects, and the fishes.
The unworshipful man is an anthropoid equipped with a highly developed brain.
He may be keenly intelligent, but so are wolves and foxes.
He may be artistic, but so are birds and butterflies.
He may provide for his family, but so do hyenas and orangutans.
Worship for men is what song is for a thrush or physical beauty for a tiger or speed for a race horse."

Let us make it our custom—this Sunday and every Sunday—to "worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness."

No Superficial Cure

The Scripps-Howard chain of newspapers is apparently in the process of performing a meritorious service. Their Rocky Mountain News, outlet published in Dec-ver, is now carrying a short series of articles on what is wrong with our schools, notably our high schools. Aside from the fact that the pieces are something like 20 years late, they serve a timely reminder of a growing national ailment.

For far too long a time, our governmentally coddled educationists have been getting away with what could be called "intellectual murder."

High school students in particular have been fed such pap as to turn their brain cells to water and their inquisitiveness into sheer inertia. As has been pointed out frequently, when a high school student is given a choice between math and how to drive a car, the car will win. And this, among other serious shortcomings, is one of the principal things that is wrong with our nation's government schools.

In a way, we suppose, we can be thankful for the Russian "Sputnik" which served to throw our educational processes into bas-relief.

However, as we expected, the articles above mentioned never do get down to brass tacks. And this is what is the matter with scores of similar articles now coming into print in major magazines, newspapers and even being dramatized on radio and television. Few there are who have the courage to probe to the heart of the matter and discover the basic error. Remedies suggested, similar to many of the high school courses in favor today, are superficial.

The kind of thinking we are getting in our schools and even among the critics of our schools, seems about on a par with the scientific preparations which went into the recent satellite fizzle at Cape Canaveral, Florida. Everybody is in such a rush to get everything done right now, that few take the time to check the problem to its roots in order to arrive at a sound and lasting solution. It could be said, we believe without serious contradiction, that what happened at the missile launching site was simply the product of the "crash" program for getting a grapefruit-sized radio set into orbit. Our politicians were so eager to spend our money and to show that they were as good as the Russian politicians, that the cry seemed to be, "Never mind whether it works or not, get it up there!"

Perhaps our modern day solons never heard of that ancient and honorable adage: "Haste makes waste." Yet our tax bills for this and future years certainly emphasize the truth of the old saw.

And so it is with education. Two things have been recognized: 1. Our young people are getting through schools without mastering basic English or basic Math. 2. There is a growing problem created by juvenile delinquency.

Yet, instead of trying to probe to the roots to find out WHY these things are so, critics and pundits alike seem eager to face the results of bad policy by a further employment of the very principles which lie at the base of the failures.

If our schools are governmentally dominated, as indeed they are, then, cry the critics, let's get the government to dominate the educational system even more. Let's grab up even more tax money. Let's compel the kids to learn. Let's beat them over the heads if need be. We've got to show results and the way to get results is to employ force and violence.

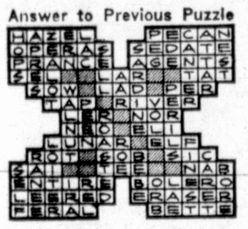

If that's the best kind of thinking we can have, we're done for. The reason for the shoddy intellectual climate in our government schools is simply because the schools have become nothing more than extensions of political force and chicanery. And the same thing applies to juvenile delinquency, where force, rather than moral rightness, is relied upon to make young people both ethical and wise.

How much greater a service that Scripps-Howard combine could have provided, if it had taken the time to probe to the roots of the problem which is found in the use of aggressive force itself in the hand of government.

At least we can take small comfort in the fact that this chain of newspapers is now pointing to some of the dangers in our school system which we emphasized more than 20 years ago.

An Interpretation of Social And Economic Evolution

VIII

In Ludwig von Mises' last chapter in his great book, "Theory and History" or "An Interpretation of Social and Economic Evolution," he makes very clear that we are drifting in the United States toward a belief that people should have equal wealth. He puts it this way:

"The almost uncontested triumph of the egalitarian (equality of wealth) ideology has entirely obliterated all other political ideals. The envy-driven masses do not care a whit for what the demagogues call the 'bourgeois' concern for freedom of conscience, of thought, of the press, for habeas corpus, trial by jury, and all the rest. They long for the earthly paradise which the socialist leaders promise them. Like these leaders, they are convinced that the 'liquidation of the bourgeois' will bring them back into the Garden of Eden. The irony is that nowadays they are calling this program the liberal program."

"The truth is that competition can exist only in a changing economy. Its function is precisely to wipe out disequilibrium and to generate a tendency toward the attainment of equilibrium. There cannot be any competition in a state of static equilibrium because in such a state there is no point at which a competitor could interfere in order to perform something that satisfies the consumers better than what is already performed anyway."

Under the heading of "The Suppression of 'Economic' Freedom" von Mises writes:

"A civilization is the product of a definite world view, and its philosophy manifests itself in each of its accomplishments. The artifacts produced by men may be called material. But the methods resorted to in the arrangement of production activities are mental, the outcome of ideas that determine what should be done and how. All the branches of a civilization are animated by the spirit that permeates its ideology.

Individualism

"The philosophy that is the characteristic mark of the West and whose consistent elaboration has in the last centuries transformed all social institutions has been called individualism. It maintains that ideas, the good ones as well as the bad, originate in the mind of an individual man. Only a few men are endowed with the capacity to conceive new ideas. But as political ideas can work only if they are accepted by society, it rests with the crowd of those who themselves are unable to develop new ways of thinking to approve or disapprove the innovations of the pioneers. There is no guarantee that these masses of followers and routinists will make wise use of the power vested in them. They may reject the good ideas, those whose adoption would benefit them, and espouse bad ideas that will seriously hurt them. But if they choose what is worse, the fault is not theirs alone. It is no less the fault of the pioneers of the good causes in not having succeeded in bringing forward their thoughts in a more convincing form. The favorable evolution of human affairs depends ultimately on the ability of the human race to beget not only authors but also heralds and disseminators of beneficial ideas.

"One may lament the fact that the fate of mankind is determined by the — certainly not infallible — minds of men. But such regret cannot change reality. In fact, the eminence of man is to be seen in his power to choose between good and evil. It is precisely this that the theologians had in view when they praised God for having bestowed upon man the discretion to make his choice between virtue and vice.

"The dangers inherent in the masses' incompetence are not eliminated by transferring the authority to make ultimate decisions to the dictatorship of one or a few men, however excellent. It is an illusion to expect that despotism will always side with the good causes. It is characteristic of despotism that it tries to curb the endeavors of pioneers to improve the lot of their fellow men. The foremost aim of despotic government is to prevent any innovations that could endanger its own supremacy. Its very nature pushes it toward extreme conservatism, the tendency to retain what is, no matter how desirable for the welfare of the people a change might be. It is opposed to new ideas and to any spontaneity on the part of the subjects."

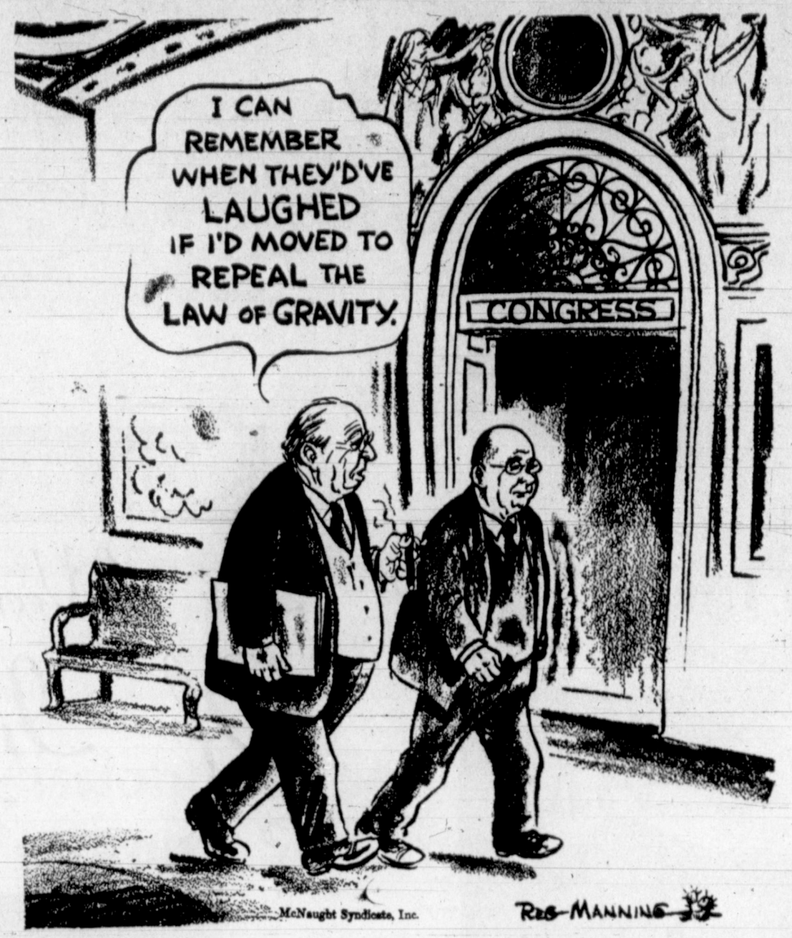

Precludes Individual Planning

"The essence of an individual's freedom is the opportunity to deviate from traditional ways of thinking and of doing things. Planning by an established authority precludes planning on the part of individuals."

European Countries Are Cautious With Russia

By CONSTANTINE BROWN

WASHINGTON — Members of Congress report that their constituents — especially in the Middle West — are giving President Eisenhower the benefit of the doubt and blame our lag in military preparedness on his subordinates.

At the same time, Congress members just back from their home states report almost unanimously that Mr. Eisenhower's popularity would take a real and permanent nosedive if he agreed to meet Soviet Boss Khrushchev in a summit conference.

There is a strong anti-appeasement sentiment in the "Bible belt" known in the past for its isolationist tendencies, according to Senators and Representatives from that area who add that their people feel that Secretary of State Dulles is doing a pretty good job. The Middle Western legislators intend to commnicate these sentiments directly to Mr. Eisenhower or through Sherman Adams at the earliest opportunity.

In the meantime, however, the administration is being pressed by our West European allies to do something toward improving East-West relations besides supplying guided missiles to our allies. This pressure, which took Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles by surprise at the NATO parley in Paris last month is now being considerably increased.

Even the British who appeared to accept our offer to place guided missiles on their territory point out now that it would be difficult to overcome popular opposition to this project unless we have exhausted every conceivable effort to talk to the Russians first. Only in the face of palpable proof of ill will and truculence by Moscow would the people of Britain take a chance with our proposed missile sites, Prime Minister Macmillan is said to have told President Eisenhower in one of his recent personal communications.

Mr. Macmillan's proposal for a non-aggression pact with the USSR is, of course, naive and he knows it. The Kremlin has a well-established record of breaking every pact and every solemn pledge it has ever given to another country or to its own people. It would take many pages to recite all the promises on which it has reneged. Thus Mr. Macmillan's latest move for relaxation by a non-aggression pact is regarded in Washington as a mere gesture for home consumption.

But it is from the old reliable, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, that we must expect the most important move toward Soviet-German reapprochement. Nobody can doubt the strong pro-American sentiments of the head of the Bonn government. But he is being hard pressed by his own people who are insisting that everything must be done to bring about the unification of the old Reich. Under this pressure Mr. Adenauer and his associates have reached the conclusion that this unification can be achieved only with Russia's consent. And he has decided to take the necessary steps toward that end regardless of how unpalatable this may be to his American friends.

The 82-year-old chancellor also believes that he may be able to become the pacemaker for some further conferences between East and West. He is reported to have discussed the subject with his allies at the NATO meeting last December and intimated that the withdrawal of the allied forces from Germany would not be too great a price to accomplish the German unity goal.

The American and British divisions (there is only a token French unit) between the Elbe and the Rhine are no longer there as occupation troops. They are there with the approval of the German government which has become an active member of the NATO. If the forthcoming talks between Bonn and Moscow result in Soviet consent for unification on condition that all foreign (Russian and allied) troops be withdrawn from divided Germany and the resulting government selected in a free election declare its neutrality, there are strong signs that Mr. Adenauer will be willing to accept such terms. He will, of course, first gain the approval of his present allies, especially the United States. This probably will not be opposed by Washington which realizes that the sentiment for unity in Germany is far stronger than that for guided missiles.

The Germans and some other North Atlantic pact members are gradually reaching the conclusion that (1) the prospects of a Soviet military aggression against Western Europe have become extremely remote; (2) even if this were the case the conventional military forces of the NATO cannot possibly hope to resist for long the Russian military masses; and (3) America appears to have lost its deterrent power and has barely enough strength for self-defense.

The present struggle is, in the view of our West European associates, one between the USSR and the USA. And they see no reason why they should be sucked into such an affray — if it occurs.

These views were hinted to Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Dulles at the December meeting in Paris. So was Mr. Adenauer's project that under certain circumstances (the Kremlin's willingness) direct negotiations would be started this spring between Moscow and Bonn.

Editor,

I have enjoyed your editorials, which are so much like those of Jenkins Lloyd Jones of the Tulsa Tribune, on the subject of massive federal government.

There is one effective way to get action on your editorial of January 6, titled, "Protest This Tax." The "Dear Bill" letter by the employer needs to contain only a few sentences such as:

"Dear Bill,

Would you be interested in a raise of $—, the amount the federal government took from your pay last year?

If you are interested in such a raise write your Congressman demanding repeal of the 16th amendment of the U. S. Constitution."

"THE NAKED GOD"

(Billings (Mont.) Times)

For many years one of the best known American communist artists was the novelist Howard Fast. Though he did not formally join the party until 1943, he had long been a dedicated and a passionate Marxist, and he had come to the belief that communism was ". . an edifice dedicated singularly and irrevocably to the ending of all war, injustice, hunger, and human suffering — and to the goal of the brotherhood of man." His novels — which sold in tremendous quantities throughout the world — faithfully reflected this view in one way or another.

Then came the fateful day — June 5, 1956 when the New York Tmes published the long full text of the "secret" Khruschev speech which told in lurid detail of the terrors and brutalities perpetuated under Stalin. This, for Mr. Fast and a number of other American Communist Party members, meant the parting of the ways. Now he tells his story in a book, "The Naked God," just published by Frederick A. Praeger, Inc. A section of it has been printed in the November 16 issue of The Saturday Review, under the title "On Leaving the Communist Party."

It is a somber compelling and sometimes horrifying tale. Poverty, hunger and despair brought this highly gifted writer to the left-wing movement. He accepted, apparently in full willingness, the harsh disciplines of communism. These disciplines are backed by the threat of expulsion from the party — and to a sincere and devoted communist, Mr. Fast explains, ". . . expulsion was almost as bad as death — and sometimes worse."

He writes of party leaders under the Stalinist structure. A leader, Mr. Fast says, is a man (and his name is legion) "who dirties the pages of history and blackens all the colors of man's dreams." He parrots the going party line ad nauseum. He ". . . eschews original opinions as the devil himself." He is contemptuous and threatening to those below him in the hierarchy, and a boot-licker of those above. Mr. Fast writes: "Not even the warden of the Federal prison where I served a sentence as political prisoner years later ever treated me or anyone else with such inhuman disdain and contempt; indeed, the warden I refer to was a man of heart and compassion; and only in the Communist Party have I experienced myself and seen directed toward so many others such an attitude toward people."

Even a mild criticism of communist policy, on the part of a writer, could and would bring down denunciation of a sort that ". . . a civilized person would reserve for pathological criminals." Any kind of lying and deception was used if it would serve party ends. Mr. Fast cites a famous Soviet writer who, during a visit to New York, was asked what had happened to a number of other Soviet writers of whom nothing had been heard for a long time. He assured his audience that all were alive, well and working, and actually described in details the works each was supposed to be engaged upon. This was a pure and deliberate fabrication. All the writers had been executed or were in prison.

Mr. Fast's defection from the party is all the more significant because, for so long, he made great personal sacrifices, financial and otherwise, to keep the communist faith. Even when he could no longer find a commercial publisher, he kept on writing and published his own books — an enterprise which is almost invariably a failure for an author. Yet, he says, he was luckier than his counterpart in the Soviet Union itself. For he was allowed to live and write even while he fought the policies of his own government. The Soviet writer who did that, by contrast, ". . . was cruelly tortured and . . . to death."

And now, How Fast tells us, he has found freedom. There is, to him, many an imperfection in the United States — but ". . . it is a land where the individual, in his work and in his rights, is recognized and defended. Then he says: "Whatever the Communist Party once was, today it is a prison for man's best and boldest dreams. Tomorrow belongs to those who break down the prison walls that enclose the minds of men, not to those who support such walls."

Let's Forget About Macmillan's 'Pact'

By HENRY McLEMORE

LISBON — The man not only looks lide a walrus — he is beginning to think like one.

I refer to that mustache which walks like a man, Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

He wants the West to sign a non-aggression pact with Russia, and he wants the West to do it in a hurry. He feels that there is no time to be lost, and is ready to lend the United States a nice, sharp pencil in case our country hasn't got one ready.

I wonder what sent Harold running off on this track? It could be something he ate, for wild dreams are very easy to come by on a steady diet of English cooking. English cooking causes a liking for cricket, cold toast, underdone bacon, and walking over the moors in a rainstorm, so it could easily lead a man to want to sign a pact with Russia.

You can't very well hold a man responsible for what he wants to do after a breakfast, say, of jellied eels and what goes for coffee in England.

Of course, Harold's wanting to sign a pact might be nothing more than something in his blood. English statesmen have been signing pacts of some sort for centuries and centuries, and we all know how the English hate to abandon old customs.

Then again, Harold might have been given a new ball point pen for Christmas and wants to show it off. All I can say is that it had better be the kind that writes under blood, as well as under water, if he uses it to come to gentlemanly terms with Russia.

In his speech asking the West to sign an agreement with Russia, Harold said a pact would be a "first step toward relieving world tension." Now that doesn't add up. It doesn't scan.

How could a non-aggression pact be a "first step"? If it were worth the paper it was written on, such a pact would be the last word. If you sign an agreement not to attack, and mean it, then the matter is settled.

I wonder what Harold's second step toward relieving world tension would be. Could it be that he has in mind a second, third and fourth pact for use when Russia tears up No. 1?

To give Harold his due, I doubt if he has any more faith in a pact with Russia than most sensible men do. But his party, not too strong by any means, wants to make sure that the voters can't say it didn't grasp at any straw in seeking peace.

What Harold is saying sounds all right, even if it doesn't make a grain of sense—or have a prayer of succeeding. He can always say "I tried," even if he tried the wrong way.

So let's be generous and say, "Well played, Harold, old boy," and then forget all about it.

Fair Enough

Courts Hostile To Workers Who Rebel

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — A great political freak has occurred before our very eyes.

Meany, Reuther and the little twirp, James Carey, of the AFL-CIO bureaucracy, all realize, of course, that in their strident denunciation of "bad" unions, they have repudiated the very basis of unionism. They have; but they haven't.

According to the book, a worker is scornfully forbidden to squeal on racketeers or Communists within his union's executive gang until he has "exhausted all remedies" within the union itself. This means that the individual victim had no assured remedy at any time within his life. His case could drag on for 30 years. To "exhaust all remedies" he must expose himself to unemployment, ostracism and other terrible, non-physical forms of persecution by the bosses of his local and their henchmen, all paid out of his local's treasury by the seat of the victim himself. He also has a good chance of having a leg broken or his head caved in.

In Chicago, a poor fool of an idealist, a laborer named William Bruce Ziegler, of the Operating Engineers' Union, was threatened at dusk on La Salle Street for reporting to Arthur G. Madden, the agent in charge of Internal Revenue, and Clarence Converse, a special agent, concerning the income of William E. Maloney, who is still president of his hideous racket.

Captian Dan Gilbert, then chief of the police detail of the state's attorney's office, told me the names of the racketeers who procured the murder. Madden and Converse also agreed on certain information.

But Ziegler was dead, leaving 10 children, and the American Federation of Labor never lifted a finger to drive the murderers to the electric chair. William Green, Meany's predecessor as president of the AF of L, was a despicable faker, always on the side of the crook as against the helpless worker. (Reuther and Carey would not count in this particular case because their branch of the racket, the CIO, at that time, was separate from the AF of L. However, there were many killings in CIO union insurrections during those years including, be it noted with pleasure, the eradication of two pickets by two negro laborers who decided to shoot their way to work, if necessary, and did. Both killers went free too.)

The Ziegler case is a classical case only because I pounced on it at the time and hammered away at it. There are many others more or less similar. So a whole generation, as it were, of American workers, was dragooned into the AF of L and CIO rackets subject to robbery and persecution with the knowledge of Bill Green and his executive council. Green frequently spat in the public's eye with defiant declarations that unions were a law unto themselves until such time as they condesecended to yie jurisdiction over obviously criminal matters to the public authorities.

Green had been a part-time pulpit-flogger in his youth and bore himself with a quack ministerial air. His original trade was coal mining, but he was thrown out of the United Mine Workers by John L. Lewis, who detested him as a yellow slob, and so wheedled a card in the Musicians' Union from Jimmy Petrillo because he had played chords on the organ in a slab-sided church in the Pennsylvania hills.

It is still the law that no union man or woman may invoke the public law for protection against any outrage by any union until he or she has first "exhausted" all the so-called remedies within the union. A man and his family could starve. Inasmuch as all union fakers preach that all employment should be "covered" by union jurisdiction, this means that such a worker is an absolute outcast forever. Under ideal union conditions he could never work again in the United States.

If the complaint fails, the sucker has committed the unpardonable sin. And the judges who sit on his case all are professional union bosses who, like Meany, Reuther and Carey, have never done a tap of hard work in a quarter century.

When Harriman and Wagner, for the state and city of New York, exhort union victims to squeal to public authority they are inviting the poor fools to commit economic suicide. However, they have the excuse that they probably do not know this, if that is of any comfort to a sap with a starving family on his hands.

Harvesters Clash With Dons Tonight

Tied For District Lead With Plainview Bulldogs

By CHARLES CULLIN
Pampa News Sports Editor

PAMPA'S HARVESTERS will carry their all - around scoring threat against an exceptionally fast team tonight as they seek their second conference win and 15th consecutive victory in Amarillo against Palo Duro in the Dons' gymnasium at 8.

In 13 starts this season the Dons carry a 9-4 record, having dropped their only conference effort to the Sandies, 73-50. Known for their fast-break offense, the Dons sport a top shooter in 5'10" Paul Hyatt, a speedy guard who has poured through 350 points this season. In establishing the outstanding average mark of 26 points per game, Hyatt's top night was 36 in Palo Duro's 66-61 win over Plainview. Coach Tom Gilley's cagers also use the full court press throughout their games.

THE HARVESTERS now carry a 14-1 mark for the season, having suffered their only loss to the Childress Bobcats, 49-48 in the first game of the season. Opening their district 3-AAAA action last Tuesday, the Pampa quintet downed the Amarillo Sandies, 76-61.

Pampa's basketballers may again be plagued with sickness, however, as two boys, Craig Winborn and Karl Kitto went down with the measles this week. Another cager, Darryle Ammons, had a case of the measles earlier in the season.

Also on the ailing list is guard Ray Stephenson, who went down with the flu yesterday. No definite word was given as to how serious Stephenson's sickness may be.

TO DATE THE HARVESTERS have averaged 75 points per game, having totalled 1,128 points for the season. They have allowed 856 points from their opposition averaging 57 points per game. This mark puts Pampa in the lead offensively among District 3-AAAA teams, followed by Borger with 1,106 points for 73.7 per game.

Defensively, however, Pampa rests in sixth place, followed only by Palo Duro with 794 points against them, averaging 61.1 per game. Borger leads in the defensive department, allowed 759 points for 50.6 per game.

IN DISTRICT standing, the Harvesters are tied with Plainview, having one win and no losses. The Sandies stand in third place with 1-1; Palo Duro is fourth with 0-1 and Monterey, Lubbock and Borger have yet to open their conference.

Other district action will see Monterey at Borger tomorrow night and the Sandies at Lubbock Saturday night.

Probable starters for tonight's game are:

Pampa
Coyle Winborn	F	6'3"
Charles Minor	F	5'10"
Mack Layne	C	6'5"
Bill Brown	G	6'
Ray Stephenson	G	6'11"

Last Touches For Saturday's Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (UP) — North coach Joe Kuharich and Rebel mentor Paul Brown added finishing touches today on the eve of the ninth annual Senior Bowl football game.

The weather was expected to be fair with temperatures in the 60's at the 1:05 p.m. (e.s.t.) kickoff Saturday.

The North squad was a slight favorite, partly because of its weight advantage on defense. The Yankee defensive unit was expected to hold an average five-pound per man edge on the South forward defensive wall. The overall weight for the North was 211 as compared to the Rebel average of 206.

Cincinnati's Robertson Termed "The Greatest Sophmore Yet"

By JOHN GRIFFIN
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)— Not since Hank Luisetti came storming out of the West with his amazing one-hand shots has a basketball player rocked New York in his debut like Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati.

"The greatest sophomore I have ever seen," said his coach, George Smith, after the Cincinnati sophomore smashed the Madison Square Garden scoring record by firing 56 points in a 118-54 rout of Seton Hall at the famed "pop shot palace."

And the echoing salute from the "big town" meant that Robertson is a cinch to win the annual award that New York writers give to the outstanding visiting player to appear here.

This is all that Robertson did Thursday night:

1. Broke the Garden single-game scoring mark of 54 points set in 1947 by Harry Boykoff of St. John's; 2. Led Cincinnati to a new Garden team scoring record, topping the 116 by Bradley last year; 3. Broke the Garden single-game record for baskets by notching 22, one more than the great George Mikan tallied in a game in 1945; 4. Broke the Cincinnati school record of 49 points set last year by Jack Twyman, now a pro star; 5. Personally outscored the whole Seton Hall team, 56-54, when he left the game with 2:36 to play; and 6. Topped even any scoring show by a pro in Garden history.

It was an amazing show, and most blase New York fans missed it.

Only 4,615 fans turned out for the twin bill at the Garden because both games were expected to be lopsided. They were—Xavier of Ohio romped over Iona College, 71-61, in the preliminary before the Cincinnati rout. But the absentees know now they missed a truly great performance.

Robertson's one-man show dominated the basketball scene Thursday night. In other top games, Xavier's win over Iona was its 10th in 11 games (lone loss was to Cincinnati); defending national champion North Carolina struggled to an 82-66 win over Virginia as Pete Brennan scored 29 points; and sophomore Dave Budd's 27 points led Wake Forest to an 87-63 win over South Carolina.

GENE ROSSIDES
By UNITED PRESS

Gene Rossides, star quarterback on the last of Lou Little's first class football teams at Columbia, led the Lions to a stunning upset ending a long Army winning streak in 1947. He and fullback Lou Kusserow were known as the "gold dust twins" and Gene held up his end by scoring the most touchdowns in a game (5), most touchdowns career (29) and tops for total offense (3,773 yards) in Columbia history.

Whatever happened to Gene Rossides? Still a resident of Brooklyn, he's an assistant district attorney in New York City.

College Cage Game In Pampa Features Ex-Harvester Great

One of Pampa's all-time basketball greats will be playing a home game again Saturday, Feb. 1, as Pasadena College will meet Wayland College in Harvester Field House at 8 p.m.

Under the sponsorship of the Pampa Kiwanis Club, the two teams will represent top powers in their classifications from the west coast and the southwest.

Playing with Pasadena College, Bond has ranked as the leading scorer this season, having gained a .511 field goal percentage mark for the first five games of this season. The team now stands with a 7-0 record for the year.

While playing for Pampa, Bond placed on the all-state team in 1953-54. Following the AAU meet in Kansas City in 1956, Bond traveled with the Phillips team to the Olympics in Melbourne Australia.

Another Top o' Texas ex-great will also be playing on the Pasadena team as Mal Passons, from Borger, appears on the starting lineup.

Prior to the college game, the Pampa Junior High Reapers will play the White Deer "B" team at 6:30.

Admission to the games will be 50 cents for students and 90 cents for adults.

Ivy To Head Cardinals In 1958 Season

CHICAGO (UP) — Frank Ivy said Thursday night he accepted the job of head cocah of the Chicago Cardinals for the 1958 season as "a wonderful opportunity and a chance to advance myself."

In accepting Cardinal Managing Director Walter Wolfner's offer to head the Chicago football team, Ivy became the 19th Cardinal coach and the fifth since Wolfner took over management.

Neither Ivy nor Wolfner would reveal terms of the contract, but it was intimated that it would run longer than one year.

Ivy was released from the final year of his three-year contract with the Edmonton Eskiomos of Canada's western Inter-Provincial League to take the Cardinal job.

Knickerbockers Win, 136-123

By UNITED PRESS

Remember when a team used to score 45 points in an entire basketball game? Well, in the high-flying, basket-a-minute National Basketball Assn. this season, they're scoring that many points in a single period.

Trailing, 92-91, after three periods, the New York Knickerbockers went on a scoring spree that netted them 45 points in the final session Thursday night and a 136-123 victory over the Boston Celtics.

The New York-Boston game was the first of a twinbill at Syracuse's War Memorial Auditorium. In the nightcap, the Nationals defeated the Minneapolis Lakers, 127-122. Thus, the two games produced a total of 508 points.

After Days Of Ailment, Wilt Continues To Lead Scoring

NEW YORK (UP) — Catching Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas in major college basketball's individual scoring race is like trying to outjump him to grab a rebound.

The seven-foot Kansas star hasn't played since Dec. 30 because of a groin ailment but remains the No. 1 scorer with 322 points in 10 games for a 32.2-point average.

The NCAA, which bases the standings on average points per game, included games of Jan. 7 in its latest statistics.

Oscar Robertson, Cincinnati's six-foot, five-inch sophomore, was runnerup to Chamberlain with 297 points in 10 games for a 29.7-point average. Don Hennon, Pittsburgh's five-foot, nine-inch guard, was third with a 27.4-point average. Leo Byrd of Marshall (W.Va.) was fourth at 26.8 and Bailey Howell of Mississippi State rounded out the top five a 26.6.

Crosthwaite Accurate

Ralph Crosthwaite of Western Kentucky led in field goal accuracy. He sank 77 of 121 shots for .636 percentage. Arlen Clark of Oklahoma State was second with 36 of 61 for .590.

Kenny Sidwell of Tennessee Tech led in free throw accuracy, sinking 40 of 44 for a .909 mark. Clark was runnerup, sinking 43 of 49 for .878.

Alex (Bo) Ellis, six-foot, five-inch Niagara star, topped the rebounders. He grabbed 199 of the 769 available in his games for a percentage of .259. Al Inniss of St. Francis (N.Y.) was second with 118 recoveries out of 458 for .258.

Rosburg In Lead Of Crosby Meet

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UP)— Bobby Rosburg, a living example of "drive for show, putt for dough," had a two-stroke lead over a crack field today in the $50,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf tournament.

Rosburg, a 31-year-old pro playing out of Napa, Calif., used just 28 putts Thursday as he toured the Monterey Country Club in 65 strokes — seven under par — to take a two-shot margin over a pair of veterans, Tommy Bolt of Los Angeles and Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex.

Rosburg, a great believer in the power of positive thinking, believes every putt that he starts toward the cup should drop in. He had three 15-footers, one from 20 feet and another from 30 feet Thursday.

The ex-Stanford athlete is noted as an unorthodox swinger and he still uses a baseball grip on his clubs.

Yogi Takes Cut For 1958 Season

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)—Yogi Berra always has been a man who wanted to get paid for what he did, so today he admitted he shouldn't be paid for something he didn't do.

That was to play ball in the Berra manner to which the New York Yankees have become accustomed.

"So I took a slight cut," Yogi grinned, "and signed my contract."

But Lawrence Peter Berra figures on getting it back come this time next year. Which means that Yogi is looking forward to a good year and that in 1959 he will be holding out as usual "for what I'm worth."

Yogi, often held up to public view as a dim wit, is far and away from any such designation actually. He is an astute business man with a piece of a soft drink concern and, with Phil Rizzuto, the owner of a soon to be opened 40-lane bowling alley in Clifton, N.J.

There is a great deal of speculation as to what Yogi receives from the Yankees in the way of backstop remuneration. Guesses, and they are strictly that, range from $55,000 to $60,000 a year. The cut is speculated to be anywhere from $3,000 to $5,000. So you can choose your own figure.

"Just let it be said," says the grinning Yogi, "that I ain't starving."

But the grin fades when he looks back on 1957, his poorest season in 11 as a Yankee and the cause for the first salary cut he ever has sustained in baseball. There were reasons. He had a sprained thumb and his eyes troubled him for a while. Then, in June at Cleveland, a foul tip off the bat of Larry Raines smashed his mask and broke his nose.

Throws Goggles Away

"I had a checkup at the Mayo Clinic and they said there wasn't anything wrong with my eyes," he explained. "As for the nose, they advised against an operation. They said to wait and see how I breathe in spring training, but that it should be okay. As for that glasses, I threw them away. I don't need 'em."

Yogi, who "sometimes gets down to 85 playing golf," will leave for spring training Feb. 5 so he can play in the Ballplayers' Golf Tournament. But he's looking past that to the regular season.

"We got a good chance of winning," he said slyly, with that gargoyle grin. "But everybody should be tougher — including us. What I want, like all the rest of the Yankees, is to get those Milwaukees back into the World Series.

Eight Pampans Win In Borger Gloves

Eight of Pampa's Optimist Club boxers came through with victories in last night's opening matches of the Borger Golden Gloves, and will go into the second round of action tonight.

In the Pee Wee Division, Dickie Powell TKO'd Jerry Smith of Borger in the first round and Bob Williams decisioned Kenneth Baty of Borger.

Moving into the High School Division, Dick Wils, at 127 pounds gained a decision over Don Malone of Borger. Also at 12 pounds Lucky Dunham defeated Jimmy Bounds of Memphis.

At 135 pounds another Pampan gained a TKO as Gary Wills blasted Charles Carr of Dumas in 1:35 of the third round. In another 135 pound duel Norman Rexroat decisioned Robert Bigham, also of Pampa.

Two winners came through at 147 pounds for Pampa as James Snyder gained a first-round TKO over David Parsons of Dumas. The bout ended after 1:38 of the round had passed. In the next fight Jim Murray of Pampa gained a decision over Karo Riddle of Borger.

In the first night of the meet, the wins were somewhat evenly distributed among teams participating, Borger and Pampa had eight each and Dumas had five.

Sponsored by the Borger Jaycees, the meet had 97 fighters registered, a number which surpassed any previous mark set.

Coming up next week-end will be the Pampa Golden Gloves tourney, to be held Jan. 16-18 in the junior high gymnasium.

LOOK HERE!—Referee Ed Powers gives a sharp rebuke to Bert Olmstead of the Montreal Canadiens after an interference penalty during the game with the New York Rangers at Madison Square Garden.

Bringing in the curtain - raiser, George Scott will meet Christie in a one-fall warmer, limited to 20 minutes.

Tombstone To Meet Miceli Tonight

NEW YORK (UP) — Charles (Tombstone) Smith, lanky Los Angeles welterweight contender, makes his eastern debut tonight in a return bout with New York's Joe Miceli at Madison Square Garden.

Their 10-rounder will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC 10 p.m. (e.s.t.).

Smith is favored at 12-5 because he outpointed Miceli decisively at Los Angeles last March 7. Also because of his aggressiveness, punch and stamina.

Tonight's return match is a substitute for the originally scheduled fight between light heavyweight contenders Yvon Durelle and Tony Anthony. Canadian Durelle withdrew Tuesday night because of food poisoning.

At 24, the six-foot Tombstone is rated seventh among contenders for the vacant 147-pound crown. Miceli, 29, is ranked 12th because of his spotty, in-and-out record, which includes 55 wins, 30 defeats and seven draws.

SIR WINSTON'S WORK—Harry Frumess, a U.S. Customs appraiser at New York's Idlewild Airport, inspects one of 35 paintings by Sir Winston Churchill scheduled to be placed on exhibit in America for the first time. After the inspection, the paintings were re-shipped to Kansas City, Mo., to J. C. Hall, who arranged the U.S. tour of the famous amateur's work. The first exhibition opens in Kansas City in January, later the paintings will be shown at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Germany Has Risen From Ruins Again

By JOSEPH FLEMING
United Press Staff Corresvondent

BERLIN (UP) — A visitor to West Berlin ordered a breakfast of one egg with toast at a sidewalk cafe on th ecity's fashiona-

The waitress told him she was not allowed to serve less than two eggs.

That, more than soaring production graphs and the smoking chimneys of the Ruhr, is a testimonial to West Germany's post-war recovery.

Ten years ago in Berlin you couldn't get an egg for love or money in any restaurant that wasn't a black market hangout.

And anyone who had an egg could sell it for love or money, or both.

Cigarets Decrease

Cigarets were even better. A pack of American ciagarets sold for the equivalent of $10. Today on the black market they cost one mark 50 pfennig, or 37 cents a pack, 50 pfennig less than tobacco shops charge for a pack of German cigarets.

Yes, Germany has risen from the ruins and Germans are putting on weight again.

During the 1948-49 Soviet land blockade of the city, a Berliner for his Sunday dinner ate peas, dehydrated potatoes, and canned meat.

Feature Whipped Cream

Cafes now serve huge portions of whipped cream with or without cake or ice cream. Many Germans just order the whipped cream.

Doctors warn housewives they are ruining their husbands' health with huge portions of sausage, sauerkraut, noodle soups, fried potatoes, and the famed German kartoffelkloessee, a sort of round mushy potato dumpling the size of a softball.

The word "kueche" will never replace "cuisine" to describe the culinary art but Germany is no place for anyone on a diet. The food is very cheap, too, by standards in New York, London, Paris or Rome.

On Kurfuerstendamm, the city's main street, you can get a thick vegetable soup, a fried pork chop, three large boiled potatoes, string beans, and a small piece of cake with whipped cream as big as the cake for 75 cents.

A filet steak in the best restaurant in town costs between five marks ($1.25) and six marks ($1.50).

And that includes french - fried potatoes and a vegetable.

A glass of good strong beer to go with it will cost no more than 20 cents and in some places it will only be 12 cents.

Television In Review: Complex Mummy Complex

By WILLIAM EWALD
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (UP) — Brooklyn really has had its share of troubles recently: the Dodgers wanted to go, but everybody wanted them to stay. And then there was this mummy—everybody wanted it to go, but it wanted to stay.

You certainly remember the Dodgers. And you may remember the mummy—it was a 1600-year old Egyptian gentleman of good family and he belonged to the Brooklyn Museum, an ancient but giddy institution. The problem of the museum was getting rid of him. Or it.

"Complex Mummy Complex"

The mummy was the subject of Wednesday night's drama, "The Complex Mummy Complex," on CBS-TV's "Armstrong Circle Theatre," a series that specializes in "actuals." The cast included actors of varying abilities — good ones like Harry Townes and Nydia Westman and not so good ones like . . . well, why should I be beastly today?

Some of the by-play was pretty funny in a macabre sort of way. The museum wanted to cremate the mummy, but its crematory technician was against it. So the museum decided to buy it, but no cemetery could be found that would dig it— a board of health permit was needed for that operation.

No Death Certificate

But the board of health wouldn't issue a death certificate because the museum couldn't give the cause of death or the name of the attending physician. One small museum out of town signified its willingness to take the mummy, but Railway Express wouldn't ship it without a death certificate. Then the museum tried to donate it to a medical school, but no medical school would accept it without permission of the next of kin.

Well, as you can see all this was kind of sick, sick, sick humor. But it actually happened. The play itself ended on a fluttery little upbeat note with everybody happy—happy because the mummy publicity brought all sorts of visitors to the museum (including a leather-jacketed delinquent who exclaimed at the other "beyooteeful" statues in the museum collection). Aside from that bit of gush, a thumbs-up.
