Officers Criticize Captain Who Failed to Get Survivors

AD HANDLING OF CLEVELAND TOLD INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The captain of the SS President Cleveland, having an SOS from the burning Morro Castle failed to take full advantage of his opportunity to save lives, two of the Cleveland's officers charged today before a federal jury.

The chief officer and the third assistant officer criticized Capt. Robert Carrey of the Cleveland, contending that lifeboats should have been lowered earlier and that the maneuvering of the Cleveland could have been such that some victims of the disaster probably would have been saved. The Cleveland's rescue attempts failed to pick up any survivors. While the United States commerce department pressed the government's inquiry into the ship disaster, District Atty Martin Conboy was busy with a criminal investigation.

Conboy ordered held up the funeral of Capt. Robert R. Willmott, who died suddenly a few hours before his ship was destroyed by fire. The captain's ashes will be examined for traces of poison. The disaster attorney demanded to know whether there was anything suspicious about the captain's death.

The Cleveland's two officers said they had confidence in Carrey until they faced the Morro Castle disaster. In that crisis, they said, they lost respect for his competence and would not serve under him again.

Carrey previously had testified that there was no delay in aiding survivors of the burning vessel.

HOUSTON, Sept. 13.—Ruben Armin, a dairyman, recently received a peppering of birdshot in the neck of a dove, when he went to investigate noise of shooting back of a home.

He was treated at a hospital, where 410-gauge pellets were removed from his body, neck, temple, and arms.

The shooting was accidental, Armin reported. One member of a group of boys hunting doves shot at bird just as Armin approached. The youth did not see his victim after he fired.

A general invitation to attend the chapel program was issued by Dr. Tyndall.

Louisiana Officers Will Hold Methvin

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 13.—Louisiana officers today retained custody of Henry Methvin, former Texas convict who "put the finger" on Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker.

Efforts of Smith county authorities to return Methvin to Tyler, Texas, for questioning failed when Caddo Parish officials decided to hold him on charges in connection with the robbery of a Montgomery, La., bank.

Methvin was arrested here several days ago for the first time since Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson gave him a pardon in return for his assistance in setting the trap in which Barrow and Parker were killed last May.

Realistic Model of Mount Locke Made

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—Students in architecture have presented the University of Texas a realistic model of Mount Locke, towering site for the W. J. McDonald Astronomical observatory, to be the second largest observatory in the world.

The model was made in relief, exactly reproducing on a small scale the entire layout of the observatory as it will ultimately appear. Even the vegetation that covers Mount Locke is pictured on the model.

GOV'T CATTLE BUYING HALTED FOR CHECK UP

A check of the government's drought cattle buying operations in Eastland county following yesterday's abrupt order temporarily halting the program over the country revealed that, including yesterday's purchases, the AAA had bought 4,361 head upon which total payments of $47,464 were to be made 276 producers. The figures were announced by County Agent J. C. Patterson.

Patterson said that the buying program was halted indefinitely to give the administration opportunity to survey the results of its program. It was expected to be resumed at an early date.

Of the 4,361 head of cattle bought, 1,686 were shot down on the range as diseased, crippled or otherwise worthless animals. The remainder was shipped to other pastures. The 272 producers from whom the 4,361 head were purchased had a total of 13,797 cattle, including those purchased. Patterson's recapitulation revealed.

6,924 Still Listed
Cattle still listed for sale number 6,924 head offered by 856 producers the county agent said. However, he explained, the number of cattle actually appraised for government purchase runs consistently 35 per cent higher than the listed offerings, since the raisers almost invariably increase the number by the time the crew reaches them, he said, so that the number awaiting appraisal was placed at 9,347 on the basis of that average.

"During the last few days," said Patterson, "cattlemen have been listing about as many as were being bought."

Patterson explained that the agreement which the producer signs when selling cattle to the AAA provides that the producers will cooperate with the government in whatever cattle reduction program may be decided upon. He pointed out that the present buying campaign is a cattle reduction program. "It is not anticipated that there will be any more," he said.

The agreement expires with the expiration of the act creating the AAA, which, like the NRA, is an emergency measure whose life is limited. The agreement, therefore, it was explained, will not bind the producer except for the period of the law, which expires within the next year or two.

The period during which farmers may apply for seed loans from the government has been extended, the county agent also reminded. Walter Gray at the justice of the peace's office in Eastland is taking applications for these loans, he said.

Locked-Out Textile Workers to Get Pay

HOUSTON, Sept. 13.—Employees of the Houston Textile company, locked by nationwide labor disorders, who sought to report for duty during the first week of the strike, will receive their pay for this time, even though they did not work.

Notice of this decision was contained in slips handed workers when they received pay checks due on last week's work.

First Bond Sent For One Per Cent

The first city of Cisco bond to be presented at the city treasury for payment of one per cent of its face value under the city's agreement with the New York bondholders committee was endorsed and returned to its owner today by City Sec'y J. B. Cate, accompanied by a check for $10.

The bond was No. 217 of the series of city waterworks bonds due March 10, 1941. It had a par value of $1,000.

It was sent by registered mail, insured, by the Gary-Wheaton bank at Wehaston, Ind., owner, whose letter explained the bank had been informed to do so by the New York committee.

The letter also requested the city to notify the bank when the settlement is completed so that its bond could be returned to be exchanged for a refunding bond.

Under the agreement with the committee, through which the city will slice off $4,700,000 of a $6,200,000 debt, the city is distributing $47,000 of its sinking fund, representing one per cent of the principal of the debt, pro rata among the bondholders. They may present their bonds for endorsement and payment of the one per cent either at the city treasury here or at the Underwriters Trust company in New York city.

Cate said he has received inquiries from several bondholders, asking how to proceed to obtain payment.

HOUSE PROBE OF LOBBYING IS PROPOSED

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—Investigation of lobby practices by a committee of seven legislators was postponed by members of the Texas house of representatives today.

A resolution offered by Rep. Howard Hartzog, Port Lavaca, proposed that the speaker of the house be directed to appoint seven committee-men from the house to conduct an inquiry into lobbying evils and report back to the 44th legislature convening next January.

The proposed legislative lobby investigating committee would be empowered to summon witnesses and require books and records as evidence. House action on the proposal now awaits a committee report on the resolution.

The house then turned its attention to the bill to remit interest and penalties on delinquent taxes.

The powder sales agreement was entered into between Du Pont and the Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd., in 1932, it was testified the Imperial Chemical Industries reserved Asia as its territory.

The bonuses ranged from $171,000 in 1914 to a high of $6,514,000 in 1916.

Special Venire of 80 in Trials of 3

EASTLAND, Sept. 13.—A special venire of 80 men will be summoned this week to appear at the 88th district court October 1 when a petit jury will be selected for the trials of Mary Lou Howell, Clifford Doggett and Elmer Van Cleave in connection with the death of L. P. Threet, rancher, near Cisco, who was found in his ranch in an unconscious state resulting from a bullet wound in his head, Aug. 15. The rancher died the following day in a Cisco hospital.

Frank Judkins of Eastland will represent Mary Lou Howell in the case and Frank Sparks, of Eastland, will represent Clifford Doggett. The state has appointed C. D. Spain and Milton Lawrence of Eastland to represent Elmer Van Cleave.

The trio, who are all in the Eastland county jail, will be tried under the charge of murder, Judge B. W. Patterson stated Wednesday.

Order of the trials is dependent upon any of the defendants making motion to sever or expression of desire to be tried after another of the party. If none make motion to sever the cases will come in the order the indictments were filed or in a manner in which the court prefers.

The state will likely ask invocation of the death penalty, District Attorney Grady Owen stated Wednesday.

New Orleans Back To Actual Quiet

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13.—With the victorious Huey P. Long in Baton Rouge for a "rest," the national guard dispersed and homebound, and the "old regular" organization crushed and silent after a devastating defeat in Tuesday's primary, New Orleans settled down today to the first actual quiet it has known in months.

Long left the city last night. Later he was reported in conference with Gov. O. K. Allen at the capital, although his doctor had ordered the senator to retire for at least 24 hours of sleep.

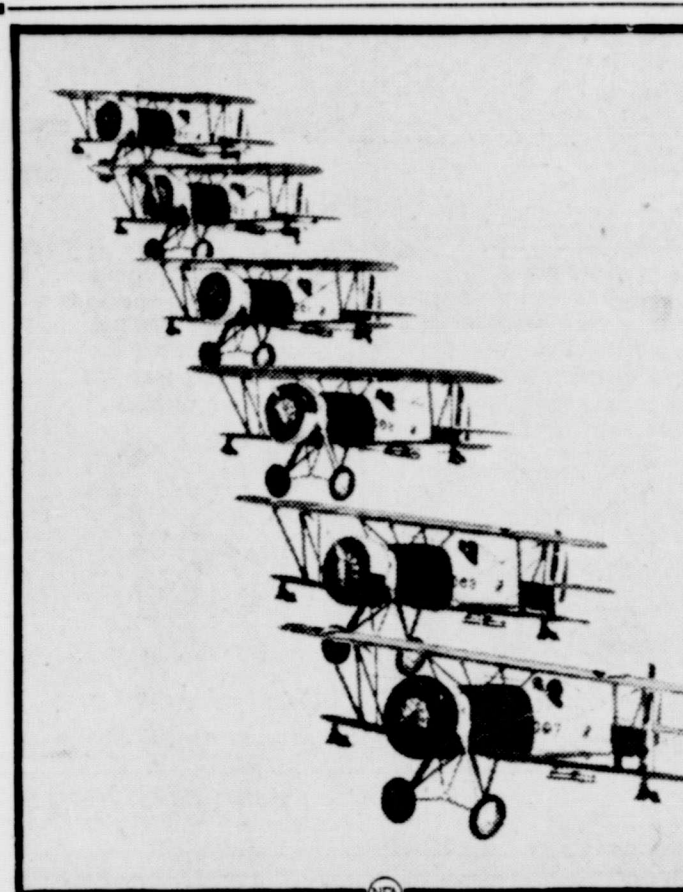

The investigation of the New Orleans city administration by Long and his nine legislative investigators probably will not be resumed until next Monday.

Request for Doctor Was Misinterpreted

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—The steamship Hawaiian, intercoastal freighter bound for Los Angeles harbor, is not in distress off the coast of Mexico, the ship reported to Mackay Radio here today. The Hawaiian early today asked heavy ships for medical assistance because a member of its crew had broken his arm. Poor reception of its radio call caused other ships to believe the Hawaiian was in distress, it was believed.

Oldest church
MINERAL POINT, Wis., Sept. 13.—Wisconsin's oldest Protestant parish, the Mineral Point Methodist Episcopal church, will celebrate its 100th anniversary this fall. It is said that none of the logs used in its construction were sawed. The floors were made of rough-hewn timbers and the pews were made of split logs.

High Steppers, These Marines

These six planes seem to be welded together into an aerial ladder, but that's just an optical illusion. The skill of their U. S. marine pilots is such that they maintain this difficult formation merely as part of the day's work, as the squadron of "hell divers" demonstrated in recent maneuvers.

CARBON BLACK HEARING TO BE HELD SATURDAY

A story in the Cisco Daily News recently saying that the hearing on the Consolidated Gasoline company's application for a permit to burn carbon black in Eastland county would be held here Monday was in error. The hearing will take place before representative here Saturday, September 15. The meeting will be held at the Laguna hotel. The Cabot interests will also appear in behalf of an application for renewal of carbon black permits held by them.

The erroneous announcement was caused by confusion of the Cisco hearing with a statewide oil and gas hearing in Austin on the following Monday.

This Week Last to List Sheep, Goats

Sheep and goats will be purchased in Eastland county under the drought relief program if enough nannies and ewes over one year of age are offered for sale, County Agent J. C. Patterson said today. Ewes will bring $2 and nannies $1.40, he said.

Only the remainder of this week is allowed producers to list sheep and goats offered for sale. Work sheets have been placed in each town at the chamber of commerce, the banks and in Eastland at the county agent's office, Mr. Patterson said.

Monday, Sept. 17, a summary of offers will be sent to the state drought relief headquarters where an allotment of the number of ewes and nannies that may be purchased in the county under the relief plan will be made.

Patterson urged producers to get word to other sheep and goat raisers in order that all may be aware that Saturday is the final day for listing their animals for such sale.

Post Stills Plans Altitude Attempt

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 13.—Wiley Post, holder of the round-the-world flight record, revealed today that he still expects to set a new altitude record for heavier-than-air craft. He will not participate in the London to Australia air race, however, because of recent damage to his plane. A special supercharger was damaged in a test flight at Chicago last week.

The attempted flight into the stratosphere will be made after he returns from a hunting trip in Alaska next month.

TROOPS READY; LEGISLATURE O. K. AWAITED

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Federal troops are being mobilized at Governor's Island for service in Rhode Island textile centers, it was learned today. Men at the Governor's Island ferry said they understood four companies from the first battalion and one of the second battalion had been ordered to prepare to move.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 13.—Federal authorities have virtually completed all arrangements for the use of federal troops in maintaining order in the Rhode Island strike area, the United Press learned today.

Federal troops will be called into the area as soon as the legislature's approval of the request is obtained Gov. Theodore F. Green said.

Troops were being prepared for emergency service from several concentration points in both the first and second corps areas.

All troops, it was understood, were to be ready to move at 3 p. m. It was reported that Sec'y of War Dorn and Major Gen. Conner, commander of the first corps area, were en route from Boston to Providence to make a first hand survey of the situation, but this was denied at Boston.

Whether the president orders out federal troops, it was believed, will depend largely upon their report. The governor revealed that President Roosevelt personally called him by long distance telephone this morning relative to the strike situation.

He said he was getting in touch with Washington to have all information ready and all preparations made to respond to any call for federal troops that the state might make in this emergency," Green said.

Think . . . Talk . . . Write TEXAS CENTENNIAL in 1936

"Think . . . Talk . . . Write Texas Centennial in 1936," because it's the hundredth anniversary of a State's march of freedom. The world is watching Texas with wonder at its stupendous undertaking.

The world does not doubt that Texans will make a great success of such endeavor. Texans have never failed.

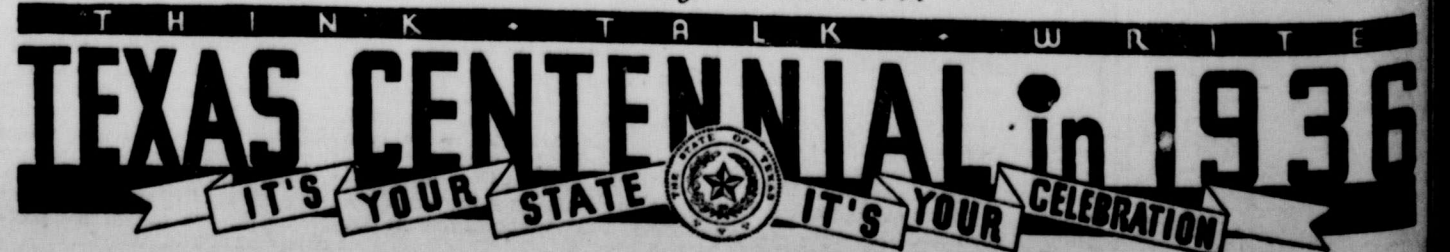

"Remember the Alamo, Remember Goliad"; remember San Jacinto, remember the great wilderness that was Texas at one time . . . early Texans undertook to make a Nation from a wilderness and they succeeded!

In as short a time as one hundred years the prophecy of Thomas Jefferson, "The Province of Texas will be the richest State in our Union without exception," has become a reality!

Let us dedicate ourselves to the task of carrying it forward. Let us observe, let us challenge the best thought of future generations.

He Did It With Mirrors

"COCHRANE caught for the regulars in the first practice game. His first hit was a homer far over the centerfielder's head. How that kid could run! His ability to gallop around the bases and his inaptitude behind a mask quickly turned the railbirds into saying that, while he wouldn't do as a catcher, he could be used in the outfield."

"But Cochrane kept trying. He'd pose before a mirror in his room at night. With Daly sitting there watching and instructing him, he'd get in the correct catcher's stance, and go through all the motions."

"They say that Cochrane had to be remade in the big show. That's a lot of hokey. Mickey was a born backstop and ball player, and you can bet that he still catches the same way he did when he handled the Portland pitchers 10 years ago."

Turner Quite a Prophet

TURNER was too conservative, if anything, for Cochrane was

So the name Cochrane first became known in baseball when Turner mailed a postcard picture of his prospect to Billy Stepp, sports editor of the Portland News-Telegraph, after scrawling this on the back:

"Catcher, Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane. Age 21. Height 5 ft. 10½ in. Weight 175. Hits left. Very fast. Wonderfully strong throwing arm. Aggressive. Smart. Best of habits."

"I predict that this boy will be one of the best all-around catchers in baseball within two years. Cochrane's home address is 299 Pleasant St., Bridgewater, Mass. He is Boston University all-around athlete. Past season with Dover, Eastern Shore League, hit .327."

RELIEF COMMITTEE FIXES RATES OF WAGE

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13 — Criticisms leveled at the Texas Relief Committee for allegedly establishing scales in various counties at a figure that the prevailing rates in those counties were answered by State Administrator Adam Johnson, who declared the relief committee has nothing at all to do with fixing local wage scales.

The committee have been established by the state legislature, Johnson said, under the original direction of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and these scales are the result of the committee's work.

Johnson said the committee's regulations held that the rates will be at the prevailing rate in the county where the work is done, and in no case will the pay be less than 30 cents an hour.

Johnson said the committee, "can intervene and fix wage scales only in instances where evidence is presented that such rates are not in effect in the county."

Johnson said that he was taking any steps toward intervention he would require written evidence that the wages as determined by the county committees are not in accord with local conditions, and such evidence is submitted, Johnson said he would refer it to the county committees with a request that they consider a revision of the scale of wages.

Johnson asserted it is the duty of the committee to ascertain what the prevailing rates actually are and this involves actual investigation of rates actually being paid by employers. He added that the committee is adamant in requirements that the minimum wage be not less than 30 cents per hour despite criticisms raised from many sources.

Johnson said that the course these rates have also been bearing on rates to be paid by private employers and are effectively on approved work relief projects utilizing budgetary funds.

Johnson said that the county administrators were instructed to observe these regulations and were reminded that if changes in wage scales appear desirable, the course of action through the county wage committee should be followed.

Floating Island Is Ohio Lakes Mystery

AKRON, O., Sept. 13 — The Portage lakes district has no sea serpent but it has a mystery island.

The disappearing island, which had played peek-a-boo all summer was cured of its wandering tactics by a group armed with motorboats, ropes and stakes.

Let by Walter Harris, state conservation officer, the contingent towed and pushed the huge mass almost the entire length of East Reservoir. Then, in a shallow spot, between a large and small "permanent" island, they moored the new-comer fast.

The floating island first appeared near the center of the lake. Startled cottagers of the district rubbed their eyes in disbelief. Some thought it a tree floating about.

There wasn't much time for investigation, as the island sunk out of sight again. A few hours later, it floated to the surface again. Residents began wondering what it was all about.

Setting out by boat, they found the mysterious sight was actually an island, some 50 feet long, 20 feet wide, seven feet thick.

First arrivals saw that the island was veritably loaded with fish of all kinds. One person picked up a 15-inch bass. Others filled buckets with bluegills and perch which had been snared in the natural net.

Prof Paul Acquarone, Akron university biologist and geologist, believes the island a piece of shore line dislodged by some natural cause, sunk for many years, brought to the surface by an accumulation of marsh gas.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—One day a Washington correspondent has to report something that seems pretty awful and next day there's something on the sunny side.

That's the way it goes here in this administration, with its pullings and haulings, tightrope acts and eternal compromises.

As a sequel to dispatches which showed how the Democratic spoilsmen during Roosevelt's absence were snatching everything that wasn't nailed down—and even some that was—it is possible to cite important instances since the president's return wherein Jim Farley and his political gang have been effectively foiled.

Appointment of Dr. Ernest Gruening as director of the new Division of Territories and Island Possessions, to the accompaniment of triumphant shouts from all liberals, was an outstanding case.

Not only was it symptomatic of the administration's benevolent Caribbean policy. It was a severe blow to a patronage lobby which well knows how few of the nice berths in Gruening's far-flung field will now be filled on a partisan political basis.

SELECTION of Dr. John Welling-ton Finch as chief of the Bureau of Mines wasn't exactly a clean-cut 100 per cent victory for the merit system purists, but it was another defeat for Farley and a victory for government scientists who fear political encroachments into their territory.

Secretary Ickes recommended Finch long ago as an outstanding geologist and author, but Farley

SIREN TO WARN BEACH WALKER OF TIDE DANGER

By THOMAS COPE
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 13 — Mont Saint-Michel, most photographed French landmark, is to be provided with sirens against the peril of the sea.

Debate on the advisability of protecting strollers along the quicksands, incidentally, has led to the discovery that there is no such thing as being swallowed up by these ocean-side bogs.

Many an ancient Breton mariner, it was revealed, has been caught in quicksands and survived. The question is one of time. Rarely is a man sucked down to above the waistline, because the subsoil is firm at that level, but many have been caught at a time when the tide was coming in and drowned.

The danger is that of drowning when the tide comes up from seemingly nowhere, filling the vast reaches of sand with furious torrents and treacherous eddies.

Victims more often than not are visitors who start out for the historic island of Tombelaine, and fooled by their calculations of distance and time into being trapped by the tide.

Some, of course, are caught in quicksands and are unable to free themselves before the tide sets up to their chins. Seized with panic even if caught only up to their knees, they struggle frantically, and although it is not true that they sink into the sand, it is true that their methodless struggles prevent them from getting free.

A siren on the hill, it is argued,

Pickets' Clubs Menace Georgia Mill Workers

Despite good intentions to be peaceable, the menace of the clubs carried so threateningly often leads to disorder in the strike belt. This group of armed union pickets and sympathizers put on a demonstration at cotton mills in Newnan, Ga., in an effort to induce workers to leave their machines. They dispersed before any disorder developed, but similar incidents have led to bloodshed in the South.

New Magazine for Memorial Announced

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13 — Publication of a new magazine on American-German affairs, called the "American-German Review," has been announced by the Carl Schurz Memorial foundation.

The first issue is in circulation.

The magazine is "strictly non-political" in nature, its sponsors said, being designed to promote cultural relations between the United States and all German-speaking peoples.

"It will serve primarily as a medium for interpreting those achievements in German culture which are of interest and value to America," the announcement said. It will appear quarterly.

The Carl Schurz Foundation was founded in 1930 by Americans largely of German descent in the interest of social, cultural and economic development. It has promoted many exchanges of experts in various fields between Germany and America.

Jacob Gould Schurman, former president of Cornell and ambassador to Germany, contributed the leading article in the first issue of the new magazine. He wrote on:

"Cultural Inspiration from Germany."

DEAD MAN GUIDED BOAT

SOUTH BEND, Wash., Sept. 13 — Although he died about three hours before, John Rampparmen's rigid hand on the tiller guided his fishing trawler full speed through the breakers, to land high and dry on the beach, without shipping and water. The fisherman apparently died of heart attack while out on the ocean.

Rural Supervisors Asked for Estimates

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—Rural supervisors today were requested to furnish the department of rural rehabilitation with an estimate of the amount of funds necessary to carry on the program in each county for the month of September.

In making the request, J. E. Stanford, head of the department, declared that "in a large majority of counties, the rural rehabilitation program, particularly the repairing of leased residences, should reach a high point during September and October, while the purchase of capital goods will begin to get well under way, therefore, we anticipate the expenditure of a far greater sum during these months than has been the case up to this time."

Deadline for sending in the estimate was set at September 10 and Stanford reminded supervisors that allotments will be made for counties not having supplied headquarters office with a certified list of relief clients approved for rural rehabilitation.

Steer Is Strangled By Big Grapevine

KERRVILLE, Sept. 13.—A tragedy of the ranges occurred on a Gillespie county ranch near here when a 2-year-old steer seeking green leaves for food slipped from a ravine bank, caught its neck between a grapevine and oak tree and strangled. The owner, Alfred Kordzik, discovered the steer after he had missed it for two days. The inch-thick grapevine had wound around the animal's left horn and under its jaw. Its feet were left dangling down the steep ravine without a foothold and it could not free itself.

PROF'S SON, 8, IS PRODIGY IN MATHEMATICS

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—Marian Grossman Ettlinger is eight years old and goes to school only half the time, but already works intricate mathematical problems and will enter the tenth grade shortly after he celebrates his ninth birthday, October 5 of this year.

He is the son of Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, professor of mathematics at the University of Texas.

Dr. Ettlinger little dreamed when he announced to his mathematical class in 1925 that he was father of a new-born son, that the youngster would follow in his footsteps and work difficult calculus problems before he was nine years old. The boy has developed so rapidly that he is allowed to attend school only half the time.

Young Martin will enter the University of Texas as a freshman when he is eleven, even though he still will be restricted in the time spent in school. His father already has arranged for the boy to enter the university when he completes high school work.

Reads Classics
The youngster has read all the children's classics and adventure stories and now occasionally turns to heavier literature which might cause trouble to more mature minds. He is almost as well rounded as other children in his other developments. Scholarly, he surpasses them easily and has made straight A grades in all subjects.

Martin rapidly learned all mathematics taught in the city schools, and dropped the course. He found the mathematics easy which his father prescribes for freshmen in the university, so has taken up calculus during the summer. He also is interested in chemistry and knows much of the theory of this subject.

Reads Rapidly
His parents fear he might be injured, so refused to let him experiment in the laboratory. He will commence this work under supervision when he enters school this fall.

One of Martin's most astounding feats is the rapidity with which he reads. Tests show his average rate is 1800 words a minute. He sometimes reads as fast as 2200 words. Equally impressive is the fact that he retains most of the knowledge he acquires when reading at such high speed.

When three and one-half years old, Martin attended kindergarten. He began first grade work when five skipped to the third grade when he was six. He was in the ninth grade at seven. We do not know that he has been slowed down to half time, he would be graduated from high school at 10.

Martin Ettlinger enjoys other diversions besides studying. He is interested in model airplanes and keeps his parents busy finding new designs for him.

BEAR ATTACKED TEASER
STEVENS POINT, Wis., Sept. 13.—Because he teased a "pet" bear tied up at a filling station here, Vincent Hoffman, 11, Wausau, was taken to a Wausau hospital with severe lacerations. The bear, about a year-and-a-half old, never had attacked anyone before. Its owner said, "Youngsters had teased it of late, however, and he had warned them."

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

IF the pear tree in the back yard bore well this year—or if you find a pear bargain in the market, do try a few recipes for preparing that satisfying fruit for next winter. Spiced pears are good with winter roasts and stews. Pear conserve goes extra well with hot rolls or toast, and ginger pears fill in anywhere and are easy to make besides.

Ginger Pears
Nine pounds pears, 6 pounds granulated sugar, 4 cups water, 4 lemons, 6 ounces crystallized ginger.

Pare fruit and cut in thin slices, removing core. Drop into a weak salt-water to prevent discoloring. Drain from salt water and add to boiling syrup made with sugar and water. Simmer until fruit begins to look clear around the edges and add the grated rind of 2 lemons and the juice of all four. Add ginger cut in tiny bits and simmer until mixture is thick and pears are transparent. Put into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with a thin layer of paraffine. When cold cover with more paraffine. Store in a dark cool place.

Spiced Pears
Six pounds pears, 5 cups light brown sugar, 2 cups elder vinegar, 1-4 cup broken stick cinnamon and whole cloves mixed.

Pare pears before weighing. Place in a crock alternately with layers of sugar. If the pears are quite large they should be cut in halves and cored. Pour on vinegar and let stand over night. Drain off liquid and add spices.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Baked apples, cereal, cream, fried rye toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Cream of tomato soup, toast sticks, fresh vegetable salad, baked custard, fruit punch.

DINNER: Chicken pie, buttered onions, baked sweet potatoes, escarole and cucumber salad, mock angel food cake with peach whip, milk, coffee.

tied in a cheesecloth bag. Bring to the boiling point and boil five minutes. Add pears and simmer until tender, but not broken or soft. Pack in hot sterilized jars and pour over boiling vinegar syrup to cover. Seal at once. If the vinegar is very "sharp" it should be diluted with water.

Pear Conserve
Five pounds pears, 5 pounds granulated sugar, 1 cup water, 1 pound raisins, 3 lemons, 2 oranges, 1 1-2 cups nut meats.

Pare pears, remove cores and cut in thin slices. Put water and pears into preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Sift in sugar and simmer until fruit is tender. Add raisins, seeded, thinly sliced rind and juice of oranges and lemons, bring to the boiling point and simmer thirty minutes. Add nuts and cook ten minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jars and cover with paraffine. Cover with a second layer of paraffine when cold.

'CABBAGE WAR' DUE TO HAVE COURT ECHOES

EDINBURG, Sept. 13.—Echoes of Hidalgo county's famous "cabbage war" of early spring will be heard September 24 in Judge Bryce Ferguson's 92nd district court, when trials of three men indicted in connection with burning of one packing plant and destruction of considerable cabbage will be called.

District Attorney Sid Hardin announced the settings has been made by Judge Ferguson Saturday.

C. T. Brockington of Mercedes faces trial on an arson charge in connection with the burning of Carl Bressett's cabbage plant at Alamo in March. The plant was totally destroyed with an uninsured loss of about $15,000. A nightwatchman at the plant was abducted by a group of men and released a short time later several miles from Alamo on a country road. When he made his way back to town, the plant was in flames, Alamo and McAllen fire departments battling the blaze all night.

Growers Official Charged
A. C. Barnhart of McAllen, head of the McAllen unit and an official of a Valleywide growers' organization.

tion is also charged with arson in connection with the Bressett fire.

S. W. Prince of La Feria faces trial on an indictment charging burglary with intent to commit arson. It is alleged that he broke into the Dan Logan packing plant at San Juan the night of the Bressett fire and soaked the interior with kerosene. Cabbage in the plant was ruined and several loaded refrigerators and cars on sidings were also ruined when their cargoes were soaked in oil. The nightwatchman at the Logan plant was held prisoner in a nearby gin seehouse by another group while contents of the plant were being soaked in oil, investigators were told.

All three men were indicted shortly after the Bressett fire. Hidalgo county deputy sheriffs and Texas Rangers participating in the probe. All have been at liberty under bonds of $3,000 each for Prince and Barnhart and $1,000 for Brockington.

TOMATO ON POTATO VINE
SALEM, Ore., Sept. 13.—A tomato growing on a potato vine was one of the oddities seen at the Oregon

State Fair. The freak plant had one main stem, upon which were potatoes and tomato leaves, with potatoes growing under the ground and tomatoes growing on the vines. It was grafted that way by Ernest Iulfer, head fair ground gardener.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW . . . about your Telephone

• Thomas A. Watson, the young electrician who helped Bell invent the telephone, made with his own hands the first instruments. But the demand grew too big for Watson to handle, so licenses were given to four other manufacturers.

• Confusion resulted. By 1880 telephone designs of these manufacturers were as varied in appearance and quality as the women's fashions for that year. Lack of uniform quality hindered the development of good telephone service.

• To gain this uniformity, these companies were consolidated in 1881 as the Western Electric Company, which for more than 50 years has served as the manufacturing and purchasing agent for the Bell System.

Without the aid of the Western Electric Company, the men and women who furnish your telephone service here could not serve you so well.

Today, as a proven fact, this company buys from Western Electric at a cost lower than it would be forced to pay in the competitive market.

Because the telephone service is planned for the long pull, these savings have for many years been devoted, not to swelling profits, but to holding the cost of good telephone service low.

This is a policy adopted in the feeling that from your standpoint as much as from our own, it is sound and workable. It is based upon the belief that what is best for the telephone user is in the end the policy that will bring us the surer, more enduring success. Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

BAD HANDLING OF CLEVELAND
TOLD INQUIRY
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The captain of the SS President Cleveland, answering an SOS from the burning Morro Castle failed to take full advantage of his opportunity to save victims, two of the Cleveland's officers charged today before a federal jury.
The chief officer and the third assistant officer criticized Capt. Robert Carey of the Cleveland, contending that lifeboats should have been lowered earlier and that the maneuvering of the Cleveland could have been such that some victims of the disaster probably would have been saved. The Cleveland's rescue boats failed to pick up any survivors.
While the United States commerce department pressed the government's inquiry into the ship disaster, District Atty. Martin Conboy was busy with a criminal investigation.
Conboy ordered held up the funeral of Capt. Robert R. Willmott, who died suddenly a few hours before his ship was destroyed by fire. The captain's ashes will be examined for traces of poison. The district attorney demanded to know definitely whether there was anything suspicious about the captain's death.
The Cleveland's two officers said they had confidence in Carey until they faced the Morro Castle disaster. In that crisis, they said, they lost their respect for his competency and would not serve under him again.
Carey previously had testified that there was no delay in aiding survivors of the burning vessel.

CHARGE OF BIRDSHOT

The shooting was accidental, Aamin reported. One member of a group of boys hunting doves shot at a bird just as Ramin approached. The youth did not see his victim until after he fired.

Helen Morgan Fights to Draw

With the tense look that is part of the torch singer's equipment, Helen Morgan is shown as she sat in a Los Angeles court and fought to a draw with a producer. She was cleared of the charge that a show failed because she was intoxicated, but she won't get $1,600 she claimed in salary unless it's paid by her husband, who invested in the show.

GOV'T CATTLE BUYING HALTED FOR CHECK UP

A check of the government's drouth cattle buying operations in Eastland county following yesterday's abrupt order temporarily halting the program over the country revealed that, including yesterday's purchases, the AAA had bought 4,361 head upon which total payments of $47,464 were to be made 276 producers. The figures were announced by County Agent J. C. Patterson. Patterson said that the buying program was halted indefinitely to give the administration opportunity to survey the results of its program. It was expected to be resumed at an early date.

Of the 4,361 head of cattle bought, 1,886 were shot down on the range as diseased, crippled or otherwise worthless animals. The remainder was shipped to other pastures. The 272 producers from whom the 4,361 head were purchased had a total of 13,767 cattle, including those purchased. Patterson's recapitulation revealed.

6,924 Still Listed

Cattle still listed for sale number 6,924 head offered by 836 producers the county agent said. However, he explained, the number of cattle actually appraised for government purchase runs consistently 35 per cent higher than the listed offerings, since the raisers almost invariably increase the number by the time the crew reaches them, he said, so that the number awaiting appraisal was placed at 9,347 on the basis of that average.

"During the last few days," said Patterson, "cattlemen have been listing about as many as were being bought."

Patterson explained that the agreement which the producer signs when selling cattle to the AAA provides that the producers will cooperate with the government in whatever cattle reduction program may be decided upon. He pointed out that the present buying campaign "is a cattle reduction program. It is not anticipated that there will be any more," he said.

Expires With AAA

The agreement expires with the expiration of the act creating the AAA, which, like the NRA, is an emergency measure whose life is limited. The agreement, therefore, it was explained, will not bind the producer except for the period of the law, which expires within the next year or two.

The period during which farmers may apply for seed loans from the government has been extended, the county agent also reminded. Walter Gray at the justice of the peace's office in Eastland is taking applications for these loans, he said.

First Bond Sent For One Per Cent

The first city of Cisco bond to be presented at the city treasury for payment of one per cent of its face value under the city's agreement with the New York bondholders committee was endorsed and returned to its owner today by City Sec'y J. B. Cate, accompanied by a check for $10.

The bond was No. 217 of the series of city waterworks bonds due March 10, 1941. It had a par value of $1,000.

It was sent by registered mail, insured, by the Gary-Wheaton bank at Wehaston, Ind., owner, whose letter explained the bank had been informed to do so by the New York committee. The letter also requested the city to notify the bank when the settlement is completed so that its bond could be returned to be exchanged for a refunding bond.

Under the agreement with the committee, through which the city will slice off $4,700,000 of a $6,200,000 debt, the city is distributing $47,000 of its sinking fund, representing one per cent of the principal of the debt, pro rata among the bondholders. They may present their bonds for endorsement and payment of the one per cent either at the city treasury here or at the Underwriters Trust company in New York city.

Cate said he has received inquiries from several bondholders, asking how to proceed to obtain payment.

SENATE GROUP TOLD DU PONT SPLIT MARKET

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—Evidence that the Du Pont company entered an agreement which gave it exclusive right for powder sales in Europe and South America and that certain bonuses for $171,000 to Du Pont executives was laid before the senate munitions investigation today.

The powder sales agreement was entered into between Du Pont and the Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd. in 1932. It was testified the Imperial Chemical Industries reserving Asia as its territory.

The bonuses ranged from $171,000 in 1914 to a high of $6,514,000 in 1916.

Special Venire of 80 in Trials of 3

EASTLAND, Sept. 13.—A special venire of 70 men will be summoned this week to appear at the 38th district court October 1 when a petit jury will be selected for the trials of Mary Lou Howell, Clifford Doggett and Elmer Van Cleave in connection with the death of L. F. Threet, rancher, near Cisco, who was found in his ranch in an unconscious state resulting from a bullet wound in his head, Aug. 15. The rancher died the following day in a Cisco hospital.

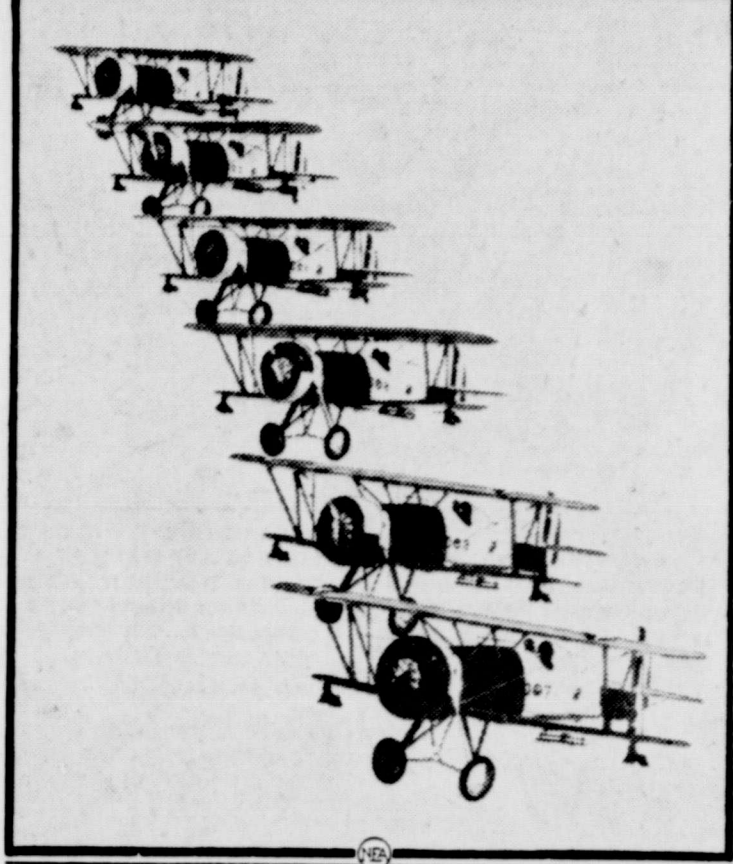

Frank Judkins of Eastland will represent Mary Lou Howell in the case and Frank Sparks of Eastland will represent Clifford Doggett. The state has appointed C. D. Spain and Milton Lawrence of Eastland to represent Elmer Van Cleave.

The trio, who are all in the Eastland county jail, will be tried under the charge of murder, Judge B. W. Patterson stated Wednesday.

Order of the trials is dependent upon any of the defendants making motion to sever or expression of desire to be tried after another of the party. If none make motion to sever the cases will come in the order the indictments were filed or in a manner in which the court prefers.

The state will likely ask invocation of the death penalty. District Attorney George Owen stated Wednesday.

High Steppers, These Marines

These six planes seem to be welded together into an aerial ladder, but that's just an optical illusion. The skill of their U. S. marine pilots is such that they maintain this difficult formation merely as part of the day's work, as the squadron of "hell divers" demonstrated in recent maneuvers.

FEDERAL ARMY TROOPS MAY BE USED IN STRIKE

BULLETIN
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Federal troops are being mobilized at Governor's Island for service in Rhode Island textile centers, it was learned today. Men at the Governor's Island ferry said they understood four companies from the first battalion and one of the second battalion had been ordered to prepare to move.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 13.—Federal authorities have virtually completed all arrangements for the use of federal troops in maintaining order in the Rhode Island strike area, the United Press learned today.

Federal troops will be called into the area as soon as the legislature's approval of the request is obtained. Gov. Theodore F. Green said.

Troops were being prepared for emergency service from several concentration points in both the first and second corps areas.

All troops, it was understood, were to be ready to move at 3 p. m. It was reported that Sec'y of War Dorn and Major Gen. Conner, commander of the first corps area, were en route from Boston to Providence to make a first hand survey of the situation, but this was denied at Boston.

Whether the president orders out federal troops, it was believed, will depend largely upon their report.

The governor revealed that President Roosevelt personally called him by long distance telephone this morning relative to the strike situation.

"He said he was getting in touch with Washington to have all information ready and all preparations made to respond to any call federal troops that the state might make in this emergency," Green said.

The house then turned its attention to the bill to remit interest and penalties on delinquent taxes.

SPEED SOUGHT IN REHOUSING LOAN PROGRAM

ABILENE, Sept. 13.—"Did you ever have a person beg you to sign your name?" was the query shot representatives of 16 towns at a federal housing conference in Abilene Friday morning by R. A. Stuart, director of the program in west Texas, who answered his own query with, "that is the very thing the government is doing to those who can qualify for housing loans."

The housing speaker declared he had been advised Thursday, but not officially, that the housing administration had waived its requirement for borrowers to be paid up on taxes and in good grace with loan companies. Owners so delinquent are eligible for loans, and it remains to the discretion of lending institutions themselves as to who will receive loans from this group. Other qualifications for borrowers were: (1) the borrower must possess the title to the property he borrows on and (2) the borrower must have an annual income five times greater than he pays back each year.

NEW COURSE EXPLAINED TO ROTARY CLUB

J. R. D. Eddy, lately of A. and M. college, who will introduce a new and advanced program in vocational education at Cisco high school, today explained this work to the Cisco Rotary club as the guest of J. C. McAfee, program chairman for the day.

Mr. Eddy will be known as coordinator of a diversified occupation course, open to students of the 10th grade and above who do not anticipate attending college or receiving vocational training elsewhere.

Students admitted to the course will do laboratory work at actual experience in the vocations for which they are preparing themselves. Three hours daily will be devoted to study of related subjects in classroom at the high school and an additional three hours will be devoted to actual work in the business, under the direction of the business man or the management of the institution, Mr. Eddy explained.

Committee

A committee of three business men and the superintendent and coordinator will direct the general program, while the coordinator and the particular business man under whom a student is given his laboratory training will determine the course that the student will follow in his studies of the vocation.

Various features of the program, with particular reference to the cooperation that the business men must give the coordinator and the schools, if the program is a success, were dwelt upon by Mr. Eddy. He pointed out that precautions will be taken not to burden the merchant or interfere with the best management of his business, while at the same time any exploitation of the student must be guarded against.

The value of this program both in preparing students to learn vocations, to accept responsibility and to use their own judgment under conditions of actual employment, and in training employees for the future was pointed out.

Students will be carefully selected for the course, which will not be open to anyone, regardless of the student's need for it, he said.

New Orleans Back To Actual Quiet

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 13.—With the victorious Huey P. Long in Baton Rouge for a "rest," the national guard dispersed and homeward bound, and the "old regular" organization crushed and silent after a devastating defeat in Tuesday's primary, New Orleans settled down today to the first actual quiet it has known in months.

The investigation of the New Orleans city administration by Long and his nine legislative investigators probably will not be resumed until next Monday.

Think . . . Talk . . . Write TEXAS CENTENNIAL in 1936

"Think . . . Talk . . . Write Texas Centennial in 1936," because it's the hundredth anniversary of a State's march of freedom. The world is watching Texas with wonder at its stupendous undertaking.

The world does not doubt that Texans will make a great success of such endeavor. Texans have never failed.

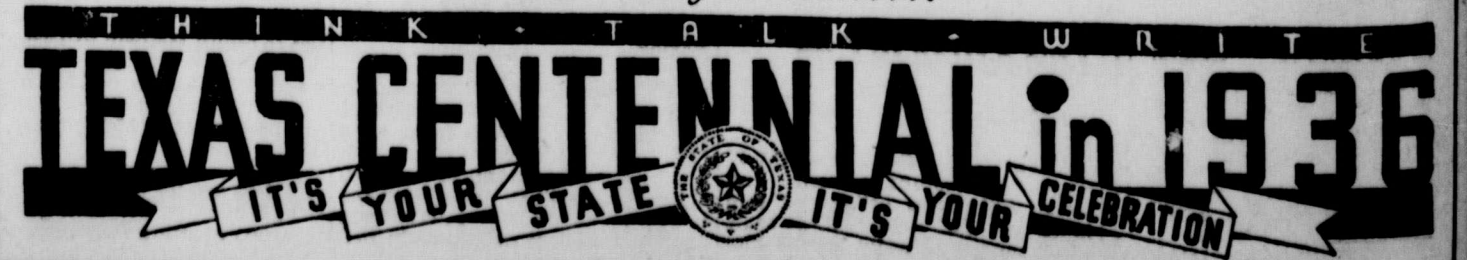

"Remember the Alamo, Remember Goliad"; remember San Jacinto, remember the great wilderness that was Texas at one time . . . early Texans undertook to make a Nation from a wilderness and they succeeded!

In as short a time as one hundred years the prophecy of Thomas Jefferson, "The Province of Texas will be the richest State in our Union without exception," has become a reality!

Let us dedicate ourselves to the task of carrying it forward. Let us observe, let us challenge the best thought of future generations.

HAUSNER WILL ATTEMPT NEW POLISH FLIGHT

DETROIT, September 13—Stanley Hausner, Polish-American aviator who for 14 of his 35 years has stuck doggedly to a dream of spanning the Atlantic, hopes to make the third attempt a success this fall.

Twice to Warsaw, Poland, ended in failure but not despair.

The Newark, N. J. motion picture operator, who has wanted to cross the Atlantic since he was 21, is making final arrangements for a Detroit-Warsaw solo flight of some 5,000 miles.

First

If successful this time, he will be first to:

1. Negotiate the eastward crossing from American to Poland.
2. Span the ocean from a take-off west of New York.

The site of his starting point has not yet been definitely decided, although Hausner believes it will be Detroit, center of a large Polish group. He recently came here to study condition of the city's airports and to obtain support of Polish organizations for his proposed flight.

Hausner recalled that his previous attempts to complete the crossing, in May and June, 1932. He first took off from Floyd Bennett airport May 23, returning shortly afterward, because of dense fogs. The second attempt started June 3. Both flier and ship disappeared for more than a week.

Luck Against Him

"Luck was against me and I crashed off the coast of Britain," he said. "Eight days I floated, drifting across the treacherous Bay of Biscay, and was rescued off the coast of Spain."

His new plane has been finished, Hausner announced, in part through the aid of Detroiters of Polish descent. He intends to try the feat about Sept. 16, depending upon weather conditions.

George Matusinski, Polish consul of Pittsburgh whose territory includes Detroit, is actively interested in the proposed new flight.

Stanislaus Felix Hausner, who was born in Poland, was brought to this country when a child. He now is a naturalized citizen. Hausner studied for the clergy in New Orleans, then abandoned those plans.

Limited License

He held only a limited pilot's license when he started out from Floyd Bennett airport at 9:46 a. m., June 3, 1932, over the 4,350 miles by air from New York to Warsaw.

His flame colored Bellanca monoplane, Rosa Maria, carried 525 gallons of gasoline. It had no radio equipment. Hausner's wife, Martha, 25, and the Rev. Paul Knappek, Polish Catholic priest of Newark, Hausner's teacher and close friend, watched him take off.

When the ordinary time which should have been consumed in crossing the ocean lengthened into days and then a week with him unreported, all but his wife and the Rev. Knappek gave him up for lost.

Then June 11 a cryptic message from the freighter, Clara Shell, relayed by the Levinthorn, told the world that "Alman rescued from derelict red Bellanca monoplane 7885." That was Hausner. Forced down near Britain, the ship had floated until it was 500 miles due west of Oporto, Portugal. The plane was abandoned.

Hausner said he had covered 2,300 miles, developing engine trouble after being 29 hours in the air. He said 15 ships but "None saw me."

Kill Moccasins at Rate of 119 an Hour

DECATUR Sept. 13 — Two Decatur men recently killed water moccasins at a rate of 119 an hour.

The men, Dorrel P. Jones, Decatur printer, and his brother, D. I. Jones of Port Worth, came upon a snake-filled slough and started popping away with 22-caliber rifles. Sixty minutes later 119 reptiles were dead.

The slough was going dry and the snakes gathered there to feed on trapped minnows.

ALL-WEATHER COURT

MOALLEN, Sept. 13 — Horse-shoe pitching and shuffleboard proved so popular with tourists here that a local club has constructed an all-weather playing court. Night playing is made possible by lights. Valley residents who belong to the club defray expenses, so that visitors may play free.

Profitable Hobbies At Vets Hospital

KERRVILLE, Sept. 13 — Profitable hobbies among patients at the U. S. Veterans Hospital at Leguio include making artificial lures for fishing, and extensive use of the hospital library.

Paul F. Carrington, patient from San Antonio, is a devotee of angling and carves out his own game-fish lures. He has named his favorite "Tom Thumb," which is a minnow whittled from cedar and painted bright colors. Carrington has caught bass as long as 20 inches with his handmade bait. He frequently adjusts hooks, spinners, and colors after trying out the lures.

Louis J. Magenis, native of Ireland also a patient entered from San Antonio, reads many books and newspapers and follows world affairs. PILOT KILLED IN LEAP FROM STUNTING SHIP

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 13 — Herschel Johnson, 30, amateur pilot, was killed Tuesday when he jumped from his stunting plane at an altitude of 300 feet and failed to pull the ripcord of his parachute. The plane swooped to the ground and was only slightly damaged.

Observers said the pilot had been practicing a series of spins and that they believed he thought the plane was out of control when he decided to jump.

They said it appeared that Johnson either was too excited to pull the ripcord or that he was struck by the spinning plane and knocked unconscious. The plane landed almost level and had Johnson remained with the craft it was believed he would not have been seriously hurt.

EMPLOYEES WILL SHARE HOUSTON FIRM PROFITS

HOUSTON, Sept. 13 — Employees of the Myers-Spalti Manufacturing company of Houston have entered into a cooperative contract with the organization and will share in profits, announced President W. S. Myers.

The Myers-Spalti company manufactures furniture and has 240 employees.

In announcing the contract, Myers explained that it will give employees "a chance to develop any talents they may have in management and also an opportunity to share, to some extent, in any excess earnings."

The contract became effective September 1.

Myers sent copies of the contract to President Roosevelt, Gen. Hugh Johnson of the National Recovery Administration, Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, and William H. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Committees

Committees will handle details of management and policy, instead of one or two officers, as formerly, said Myers. "We believe the main benefit that should accrue to the stockholders would be the stronger and more permanent organization," he explained.

The company will divided with employees any excess earnings above the 5 per cent paid stockholders. Employees and stockholders will share in excess profits on a percentage basis, computed from the number on the payroll and the total capital.

Meetings of the cooperative will be at least once a year, if not more often. The contract reads:

"A majority vote of the members present and voting at any such meeting shall decide all questions submitted to the meeting and shall be binding upon all members."

A majority vote of cooperative members will fix salaries and fill all positions in the organization.

1,500 ALREADY REGISTERED FOR A. P. I. MEETING

DALLAS, Sept. 13 — Hotel reservations for the annual American Petroleum Institute convention in Dallas, November 12-15, has reached 1,500 mark, and it is indicated the 1934 meeting will be the largest in history. R. B. Whitehead, chairman of the reservations committee, has announced.

Setting the pace for 5,000 oil men who are expected to attend, 80 of the 85 A. P. I. directors already have reserved hotel space, Mr. Whitehead said. Although the number of rooms reserved is mounting daily, plenty remain available.

The American Petroleum Institute is the national trade organization of the oil industry, and the extent of its activities is nation-wide in scope. It includes in its interests all branches and all phases of the petroleum industry. Originally founded as a war-time organization to aid the government, the Institute today is considered one of the best developed and well organized trade associations. In addition to continuing the policy of cooperation with the government in matters of national concern, the Institute now carries on a vast amount of technical and practical activities for the benefit of the industry.

Important Southwest

To the Southwest, the meeting this year probably will be the most important in the history of the mid-continent oil area. For the first time high officials of the industry will gather in a body within the boundaries of the greatest oil producing state in the nation. Some of the more old visitors, other are new, and all are aware of the important position the Southwest holds in the nation's petroleum industry and the critical situation confronting the industry at the present time.

But it remains for the citizens of the Southwest to familiarize them with the living conditions and the mutual advantages the region offers.

A number of new features are being arranged to take care of the incoming visitors in the most convenient manner possible. Advance registration will eliminate the confusion usually attending a convention of this size. Each visitor will know in advance the location of his reservations, and steps are being taken to see that all are settled without the slightest delay. Incoming trains will stop under a special shed, and the visitors will be transported to their respective locations directly from this shed. Extra effort will be made to handle baggage in an orderly manner as the amount will permit. Arrangement have been made at Love Field to house and care for the special planes that will bring many of the oil men. Special parking privileges for autos will be granted, each car bearing a sticker stating that the owner is a visitor to the convention.

The registration office, located at 1311 Magnolia building, Dallas, has been open since December, 1933. Leaflets concerning the convention are available and may be obtained by writing to that address.

Building and Cleaning of Tanks Urged For Conservation of County Rainfall

"Not a drop of muddy water should ever leave Eastland county." That is the slogan proposed by J. M. Bird, Cisco vocational teacher for a campaign to clean out old tanks and build new ones while the time is opportune. Said he:

"Now is the most opportune and economical time to scrape out old tanks and to erect new ones. Most water reservoirs of the character are dry and may be easily cleaned out. Stockmen and farmers ought to gain a lesson from the effects of the recent drought and prepare to guard against similar conditions in the future."

Every available tank site ought to be converted into a reservoir large enough to accommodate the drainage from its watershed. Such reservoirs will conserve the water that falls in the county give the farmer or the stockmen the maximum insurance against drought and, if the program is carried far enough, even increase the rainfall over the county by increasing the amount of water that is held and, hence, the amount of evaporation.

He offered his assistance and the assistance of members of his agricultural classes at the high school in running surveys for the tank dams and in working out the simple engineering data that each dam requires.

He also suggested planting grass over earthen dams to hold them against washing, and rip-rapping spillways with stone.

MURDER TRIALS OF THREE SET FOR OCTOBER 1

The trials of Clifford Doggett, Elmer Van Cleave and Mary Lou Howell, charged by indictment with the murder of Levi F. Threet, Cisco rancher, have been set for October 1, in 88th district court at Eastland.

Trials of Oual Tomlin, Frank Brown, M. C. Bell, M. J. Sellers and Euline Houston, charged with automobile theft, are to come up in 91st district court for trial Monday, September 17.

June Timmons, negro, was given a total of 17 years in 91st district court Monday upon his pleas of guilty in three cases in connection with the shooting and attempted robbery of L. A. Maddox, Cisco truck driver for the West Texas Produce company, near here in June. Maddox and his wife were held up on Highway 23 and Maddox received a bullet wound in the thigh in the course of a brief encounter. City Policeman Gustafson traced a car said to have been used in the holdup been open since December, 1933. Leaflets concerning the convention are available and may be obtained by writing to that address.

Gov't Starts Buying 12,000 Sheep Daily

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 — AAA purchases of Texas sheep in 44 counties began Tuesday at the rate of 12,000 head daily according to C. Z. Crain, head of the commodities distribution department of the Texas Relief commission.

Sheep will be bought by the AAA at a flat rate of $2 per head. The commission will act as agent in shipping animals from pens to processing plants.

Application for sale of two and a half million head of sheep to the government has been made. Crain anticipated that number or more will be purchased in the program.

CONFUSION ENDED ON BRAN

New Ruling Makes Labels Accurate

To protect the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains.

Before this ruling, even part-bran products were sometimes mistakenly referred to as "Bran." It was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has won millions of friends because it corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes generous "bulk"—needed to promote normal elimination.

However, ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, for the relief of constipation, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Make sure by asking for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It furnishes "bulk" in a form for satisfactory results.

Business Failures Continue to Be Low

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 — A bright spot on the business horizon continues to be the relatively small number of business failures, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

According to the weekly reports compiled by the bureau, Texas during August totaled 17, the same as in July but only about half the number as for August last year.

Liabilities of $209,000 were 20 per cent lower than in July and 73 per cent below August, 1933. Average liability per failure of $12,294 was 20 per cent lower than in July and 47 per cent below that of August last year.

Total assets of the 17 firms that failed in August were $107,000 against $83,000 for an equal number in July, an increase of 29 per cent.

ALLRED GRAVE WITH KNOWLEDGE OF PROBLEMS OF GOVERNORSHIP

By GORDON K. SHEARER

United Press Staff Correspondent

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—A new "Jim" Allred has come back to Austin to be governor. He seems stunned by the prospect of following in the shoes of Roberts, Hoeg, Culbertson and the other "great" Texas governors. A view of the impending task has aged the "boy."

It is not alone the fatigue of a long, hot summer political campaign that is apparent in the democratic nominee for governor. He shows that he is thinking ahead.

Allred will not take office as governor until mid-January. Already he has begun to feel many of its responsibilities. First to arrive were his political problems as titular head of the democratic party in Texas. That responsibility confronted him even before he had time to open the thousands of congratulatory telegrams.

A party split over democratic national committee threatened. Allred's coup in securing Vice President Garner's endorsement that he would accept the post brought new laurels to the "boy." His real test as a party leader will come at the state democratic convention at Galveston next week.

Duties Rushing Him

Governor's duties, also, are rushing upon him ahead of his assumption of office. A legislative session will be under way when he takes the governor's oath. He must be ready to suggest plans to overcome a multi-million state deficit to pay off millions of relief bonds and to keep state machinery running.

More pressing, if less important, he must select a corps of non-elective state officials. The storm of job hunters swirls about him. Until after the general election, Nov. 6, he can, and must, refuse to promise appointments. He must be able to swear as he takes office that he has promised no place as a regard for political service. Though no political activity is needed to assure his election in November, technically Allred still is only a candidate.

"I will go in without any obligations or strings," he told the United Press.

It happens that the appointive jobs are more desirable plums than the elective jobs which aspirants must win for themselves. Many of them are for six years. Elective jobs are for two.

Chief Plums

Chief plum is membership on the three-man state board of control, which in turn dishes out the jobs in the many state institutions. The term of Chairman Claude Teer expires in January. He was an Allred supporter. Unsaluted, but of equal job power, is membership on the state highway commission. The term of Judge W. R. Ely, Abilene, expires.

As governor, Allred will have to select an adjutant-general, secretary of state, banking commissioner, auditor and efficiency expert and a state service officer for two years each. Six-year terms of a member of the industrial accident board and of one third of the members of the various state commissions and boards controlling state colleges and others that Allred will fill.

A proposed division of duties so that the state labor department will no longer supervise boxing and wrestling will likely give the new governor appointment of both a state labor commissioner and a boxing czar.

Oil Men Asked to Get Reports Filed

W. J. Carden, deputy oil and gas supervisor in charge of conservation in the Abilene district, Monday in Cisco issued a statement asking local operators with production in Callahan, Shackelford, Taylor, Jones and Fisher counties to file their production reports for August in his office at Abilene not later than Sept. 15.

Forms for the purpose are available at the Cisco chamber of commerce, the Breckenridge and Abilene chambers of commerce, the First National bank at Moran and Webb and Webb at Albany, he said.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 13.—The University of Tennessee expects a much larger enrollment of freshmen and upper classmen this fall, Dr. R. F. Thomason, registrar, reports. The introduction of the new U-T program and the return of better conditions have indicated a great increase in the registration.

STRIKE PEACE IS HINGING ON CONFERENCES

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—The nationwide textile strike reached a crisis Monday, with possibilities of peace hinging on conference in Washington.

President Geo. A. Sloan of the Cotton Textile Institute gave his answer to a union peace proposal at a meeting with the federal mediation board as southern pickets made desperate efforts to prevent mills from reopening. Sloan's position was not revealed.

From scattered sections of the Carolinas came reports of hundreds of strikers returning to work. More than 3,000 national guardsmen in both states were protecting mills. New England strike ranks appeared to be intact. The extent of southern defections was uncertain.

Centennial Plans Started at Dallas

DALLAS, Sept. 13.—Dallas prepared Monday to act in befitting style as host to Texas and the nation at the state centennial celebration in 1936.

First plans contemplated remodeling of the state fair grounds, to be the site of the elaborate birthday party. New buildings will be erected and the grounds will be extended and beautified.

Dallas bid of $7,971,000 of values, including state fair grounds and buildings, was accepted late yesterday by the centennial commission after a five-hour closed session. Houston and San Antonio also bid.

Myers Says He Plans To Rest and Forget

EL RENO, Okla., Sept. 13.—Neal Myers, freed of the state's accusation that he murdered his University of Oklahoma sweetheart, rested at home Monday and was "trying to forget his terrible experience."

A jury at Norman acquitted the youth Saturday night of a charge that he performed an illegal operation which killed Marian Mills.

"I expect to rest a long time," the 21-year-old student said. "I may get a job in El Reno and stay at home this year or I may take a trip. Everyone was very good to me and I want to forget it all now that her name and mine are cleared."

ALIVE AFTER 100-FOOT LEAP

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13.—Hans F. Weusthoff, 62, was saved from death in the Ohio river after he had leaped 100 feet from a bridge. Two policemen, seeing him jump, seized a boat, took Weusthoff from the river within 10 minutes after his plunge. Impact with the water almost tore off Weusthoff's trousers. He suffered only two broken ribs. Police blamed despondency for his act.

Tougher Competition Is Seen in Southwest Conference This Year

By JACK BISCO

United Press Staff Correspondent
DALLAS, Sept. 13.—Football lovers are going to witness some tougher-than-usual battles in the Southwest conference this year.

On paper it appears that Arkansas, which was deprived of the official conference championship last year because of participation of an ineligible player in one game, and Southwestern Methodist university will be the teams the others will have to beat.

Nineteen Lettermen

Arkansas has 19 lettermen returning, 17 of them seniors. The line will average 200 pounds, end to end. Speed will be the biggest asset in the backfield. Ralph La-Forge, 150-pound halfback, and Oliver Criswell, 193, will be the key men. La-Forge is a speedy, tricky brokenfield runner. Criswell is the best fullback Arkansas has had in the past six years.

Southern Methodist's 23 returning lettermen include Robert Wilson, 147-pound junior, who was the outstanding back in the conference last year. He will be the spark plug of the 1934 season. Harry Shuford, 180-pound junior fullback, will bear watching. He is a good kicker, passer, and is good at backing up the line. Coach Ray Morrison is depending upon Shuford to provide the goal line punches, the lack of which has been S. M. U.'s most glaring weakness in recent years. Shuford, 175-pound halfback, probably will star as a passer. The Methodists will have a veteran line averaging about 185 pounds.

T. C. U. Have Rugged Team

Texas Christian University, with 10 lettermen returning, will depend largely upon Darrell Lester, center, and Jimmy Lawrence, halfback. The Christians will have a rugged team, with probably no other outstanding stars. Coach Dutch Meyer and line coach Raymond Wolfe have long been noted for their ability to produce a strong club in every department out of a rough assortment of material.

Baylor university will have trouble replacing its great pair of ends, Jim Petty and Frank James, who went the way of all seniors, last year. The attack will be built around Capt. Joe Jack Pearce, a consistent runner and a flashy passer. With a relatively easy schedule, if Baylor can find a couple of good replacements, it may be in the thick of the fight throughout the season.

Texas University Not Strong

The University of Texas, in general, does not look strong. However, Jack Coats, 200-pound center, Jack Gray, end, and Bohm Hilliard, halfback, represent a three-man powerhouse. Hilliard, without question is one of the greatest players in the current conference personnel, nursed an injured ankle most of last year.

There probably will be no outstanding players on the Texas A. & M. club, where teamwork will be the watchword. A. & M. might prove the dark horse.

Rice Institute will be possessed of what many critics hail as the best backfield in the conference, with the return to eligibility of John McCauley and Bill Wallace, halfback seniors, but probably will not go far because of a woeful lack of reserve linemen.

Farmer Surrenders In Fatal Stabbing

FORT WORTH, Sept. 13.—John Whaley, about 50, a farmer living near Britton, surrendered today at the district attorney's office in the fatal stabbing of T. A. Nichols, 25, also of the Britton district. In a statement, Whaley said the stabbing resulted Monday, during a quarrel over a dice game. The incident was reported to officers today. After they left to investigate Whaley voluntarily surrendered.

SIGN TOLD REASON

MYSTIC, Conn., Sept. 13.—A proprietor of a West Main street store, leaving for a short vacation, hung a sign in the window reading: "Owing to a slight attack of N. P. L., similar to B. O. (see soap ads), caused by a complication of the NRA, CWA, CCC, FERA, AAA, etc., this concern will be closed until Wednesday at 8 p. m., d. s. t."

BRITAIN TRIES AIR COPS FOR BANDIT CHASE

LEICESTER, England, Sept. 13.—British crime experts now are predicting the time in the near future when the "cop" in the air will supersede the policeman on the motor-cycle as the chief weapon of the law in hunting down automobile bandits.

Airplanes and radio have been called into play by the police in a trial man-hunt near here. A fake bank hold-up was reported in a nearby town. Airplanes equipped with radio sets were sent from Desford airbase.

Run to Earth

As a result the imaginary bandits were run to earth within 25 minutes of the time when they were supposed to have robbed the bank of $150,000.

The police expressed great satisfaction over the result and believe that when practical use is made of it a hot time will be in store for Great Britain's bandits.

The police airplanes were fitted with short-wave transmitting and receiving sets of a type used for military purposes. The police automobile, which worked in conjunction with the airplanes, also was equipped with a short-wave transmitter and receiver fitted under the dashboard. It could be operated equally well by the driver or passenger.

New British Method

This method of tracking-down bandits never has been tried before in Great Britain. Airplanes and police automobiles equipped with radio sets, however, have been used on a number of occasions for directing traffic at big race meetings such as Epsom and Ascot.

The pilots in the police airplanes claim that they can pick out any automobile at a height of 500 feet and follow it easily.

9,252,000-Bale Crop Of Cotton Estimated

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—The 1934 United States cotton crop was 53.8 per cent of normal on September 1, indicating a production of 9,252,000 bales, the crop reporting service of the department of agriculture announced Saturday.

Cotton production last year was 13,047,000 bales.

Abundant for the season was 2.8 per cent and the area left for harvest was 27,241,000 acres.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 13.—Marriage does not give a girl under legal age the right to drink beer, the state liquor board ruled. Her husband could be prosecuted for giving her a drink.

Victim of Maddened Boar Cleburne Man

DALLAS, Sept. 13.—A man killed by a maddened boar near Cedar Hill was identified Monday as W. R. Lee, 60, of Cleburne. M. F. Lee of Grandview, a brother, made identification by means of the man's clothing.

Lee's mutilated body was found last week in the woods on the farm of Frank Wiley who was seriously injured by the boar. The boar subsequently was killed by a deputy sheriff.

PICTURE AND WRITING

LIPAN, Tex., Sept. 13.—Maybe some hen had eaten Easter eggs, anyway, Edgar Jones, while candling eggs for shipment, discovered one with pictures and writing inside it. The pictures are almost perfect outlines of a woman's head and of a cow's head. The writing, somewhat scrawly, spell out "lice."

HOOKS AND SLIDES

NEW YORK—Shortly after Labor Day, 1923, when gray-haired Tom Turner paid Mickey Cochrane $1000 for signing a contract, he took the youngster from Dover, Del., to Philadelphia, and had him pose in the uniform of the AAAAAA's.

Turner, trusted operative of Connie Mack, then was associated with bland and bald Bill Klepper in the ownership of the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League, of which Turner is now president. Cochrane was going to the verdant city on the banks of the Willamette the following spring, and Turner wanted the good people 'way out there to see what their new backstop looked like.

The ignited Irishman who whipped the Detroit Tigers from fifth place to first spent his initial season of professional baseball in the Eastern Shore League under the name of Frank King, due to his being eligible for another season of football at Boston University.

So the name Cochrane first became known in baseball when Turner mailed a postcard picture of his prospect to Billy Stepp, sports editor of the Portland News-Telegram, after scrawling this on the back:

"Catcher, Gordon S. (Mickey) Cochrane. Age 21. Height 5 ft. 10 1/2 in. Weight 175. Hits left. Very fast. Wonderfully strong throwing arm. Aggressive. Smart. Best of habits.

"I predict that this boy will be one of the best all-around catchers in baseball within two years. Cochrane's home address is 299 Pleasant St., Bridgewater, Mass. He is Boston University all-around athlete. Past season with Dover, Eastern Shore League, hit .327."

Turner Quite a Prophet
TURNER was too conservative. If anything, for Cochrane was only one short season from the headlines. The dynamic down-easter broke in with the AAAAA's as a pinch-hitter in the opening game of 1925, singled to win it, and has been a radiant star ever since.

"Turner and Klepper nearly came to blows over the former paying $1000 for a double A catcher," writes Stepp.

"Cochrane roomed with Tom Daly, Portland's No. 1 catcher and a fellow New Englander whom you may recall smacked a home run for King George when the touring Giants and White Sox performed in London before the war. My room was next to theirs.

"Daly and Cochrane anked to the park each morning—a distance of five miles. I hooped it with them several times, and all Mickey talked about was catching. Daly, a quiet chap, answered all the lad's questions with a smile.

He Did It With Mirrors
"COCHRANE caught for the regulars in the first practice game. His first hit was a homer far over the centerfielder's head. How that kid could run! His ability to gallop around the bags and his inaptitude behind a mask quickly turned the railbirds into saying that, while he wouldn't do as a catcher, he could be used in the outfield.

"But Cochrane kept trying. He'd pose before a mirror in his room at night. With Daly sitting there watching and instructing him, he'd get in the correct catcher's stance, and go through all the motions.

"They say that Cochrane had to be remade in the big show. That's a lot of hokey. Mickey was a born backstop and ball player, and you can bet that he still catches the same way he did when he handled the Portland pitchers 10 years ago."

GUARD CALLED IN 26 STATES DURING YEAR

State governors, exercising greater power over the national guard units of their states than the president does over the federal army, have "called out the guard" in 26 states at various times within the last year.

So great is the governor's power over the national guard that he can become a virtual military dictator, according to Henry E. C. Bryant in an article in the current issue of the magazine "Today."

The article said that the call for guardsmen most frequently has been to intervene in strikes, as was recently the case in California, Oregon, Minnesota, Alabama, Ohio, and Wisconsin. But they have been summoned for a variety of other tasks: To protect governors' families, to hunt escaped prisoners, to patrol summer camps for wealthy children, to protect public property, to enforce state laws, to seize voting lists (in Louisiana), to enforce the authority of a governor whose right to office is questioned (North Dakota).

Although the federal government furnishes $36,000,000 a year to provide equipment, rent money, maintain national guard property, for payrolls and summer camp expenses, the war department has almost no power over the various units. Thus when observers protested that use of the national guard to seize voting lists in Louisiana was beyond its functions, the war department could not have acted even had it wanted to, the article said.

Use of the national guard in strikes often has resulted in bloodshed. An exception was at Kohler, Wis., model industrial community where strikers welcomed the guardsmen after two of their number had been killed. The guardsmen disarmed gun units at the Kohler plant.

Elsewhere—in San Francisco, Minneapolis, Toledo and Portland—and the presence of guardsmen antagonized strikers and led to violence, use of firearms and bayonets and tear and nauseating gas.

Commission Offer To Official Bared

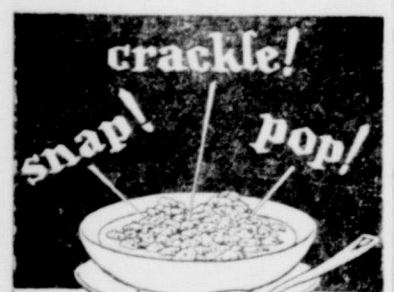

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—Testimony that the Curtiss-Wright Export Corp. offered to pay a five-cent commission to the controller-general of Bolivia in 1933 on sales of airplanes to his government was presented Tuesday to the senate munition committee.

Correspondence between company officials referred to the Bolivia official as Lopez.

A letter from Clifford Travis, Curtiss-Wright Bolivian agent, to a vice president on Sept. 21, 1933, spoke of the necessity of "playing ball" with Lopez "as he is the deciding factor in all purchases—more so than the president himself."

AGAINST CONSTABLE "STAR"
PAULDING, O., Sept. 13.—Disparaging a "star" handcuffs and gun will set back Constable A. S. Sheerer of Blue Creek township, exactly $17.77, unless he has his equipment returned to the hardware store for a refund. A state examiner so ruled after an audit of the township books, which revealed that the shiny star on the constable's chest had been charged to the township. The expenditure was not admissible, it was said.

Suicide Leap of Nine Childless Chinese Brides May Mean End of Ancient Custom

By DON KING

United Press Staff Correspondent
HWEIAN, Sept. 13.—Nine young Chinese girls, who roped themselves together and leapt into the sea from the wall of Hweian, died as martyrs to one of the world's most fantastic marriage customs. It is enforced only in this Pukien coastal city, where brides for centuries have been forbidden permanent residence with their husbands until after the birth of a child.

Only on the "Festival of Tsh Chao" on the seventh day of the Seventh Moon, when two legendary Chinese lovers cross the Milky Way for their annual reunion, are childless wives permitted reunion with their husbands.

Throughout the year, wives are separated from their mates. They continue to live in the homes in which they were born. Year after year, even until death, perhaps, if Kuan Ying, Chinese equivalent of the stork, be unkind, they live on with their parents, the husband with his.

The suicide pact in which these nine girls sought release from the bondage of this weird tradition was the first in 15 years, but it was nothing new to the Hweianese.

For centuries the youth of Hweian has rebelled periodically against the custom. But age, in China, is power and every revolt has been sternly suppressed.

The last similar suicide pact was several decades ago. According to one of the oldest residents of Hweian, 16 girl brides filed the ultimate protest against this unnatural custom by diving together in a leap from the same wall to the same spot of the sea-washed rocks.

Of the nine girls who died together in this last tragedy, seven were blood sisters and cousins. They made elaborate preparations for carrying out the fateful pact. Each made herself a new dress, all of the same material, the same cut, the same color. Stealing furtively out of their homes at night, they met in the moon-thrown shadows of the city's North Gate. There they donned their death robes.

Climbing to the top of the deserted city wall, the nine bound themselves together with ropes. They looped the line about their wrists. They lashed their wrists one to the other and bound their ankles together with a chain.

The next morning their battered bodies, pounded by the surf, were discovered on the jagged rocks below the wall.

China has progressed rapidly towards freedom and personal independence of the western world in the 15 years since the last martyrs to Hweian's cruel tradition died. The death pact leap of the nine childless brides may break this tradition of centuries.

For the Tangpu, local branch of the Kaumintang, China's national party, takes a grave view of the tragedy. It has instructed the city magistrate to employ all means to combat the ancient custom of separating married couples. It was suggested a yulu (Tangpu) that strict punishment be meted out to the parents of the girls who figured in the suicide pact, as an example against continued observance of tradition.

TYRANNY SEEN BY HOOVER IN RELIEF EFFORT

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Government by the people has been abolished and tyranny expected wherever fascism, socialism, or communism has taken over the state, former President Herbert Hoover said in an article published Tuesday in the Saturday Evening Post.

"From the examples of national regimentation that we have examined," says Mr. Hoover, "it is obvious that many of these measures represent not reform or relief within the boundaries of liberty, but that they are emulating parts of some of the other systems with the hope of speeding recovery from the depression."

He excluded relief and reform measures from his discussion of regimentation, saying that "proper action in relief of distress is inherent in the social vision of the true American system."

Number of Charters Increases in August

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—New charters granted Texas corporations during August rose sharply from July, both in number and in capitalization, but were somewhat below those of August, 1933, according to the University of Texas bureau of business research.

The number of new charters granted during August totaled 119, a rise of 13.4 per cent from July but a decline of 3 per cent from August last year while capitalization of $2,260,000 represented an increase of 10.2 per cent over a month ago, but a drop of 15.6 per cent from last year.

Corporations with capitalization of $50,000 or less, of which there were 56, showed an increase of 40 per cent over July and 2 per cent below last year while the four with capitalization of 100,000 or more "was the same number as in July but 20 per cent below August a year ago."

Groups showing an increase in comparison both with July and with August last year were: Oil, real estate-building, and out-of-state permits.

All Styles of Football Are Likely to Be Seen Among Oil Belt Teams This Year

By FRANK LANGSTON

Fans of the Oil Belt will be all in a muddle as to the style of football played in the district when the season opens this week. Almost every brand of the game and every major school of grid thought will be represented among the six teams of the conference.

At the same time, the fans will recognize a change in type of play in some of the teams from that used last season. This is due in part to the fact that some of the schools have changed coaches and that others have modified their game.

Most of the teams will probably use a six-man line of defense, in order better to protect themselves against the wide-open passing of their opponents, encouraged by the rule changes this year. Just how they will form a defense against these passes will be another matter, however. On the line, they may shift to a 7-4 system, long favored by Notre Dame adherents. Most of them will probably use a 6-2-2-1 formation—a six man line with two linebackers, two halfbacks, and a safety—while others will use a 6-3-2.

Classifying the offensive systems is more of a job, however, for there will likely be about as many as there are teams. Some will build their entire attack from a single formation, while others will use two or more.

Punt Formations
Beginning with Abilene, the fans will see a conservative form of attack which has withstood the battering assaults of the new formations for many years. Coach Dewey Mayhew will probably use the same modified short punt formation which has carried him to more than one district championship.

Last season Mayhew built the whole attack about Brookshire, triple threat quarterback, and Cogdell, driving left halfback. He never uses a shift or varies his formation, but seeks to improve his blocking and fundamental plays, and gets his deception from the fact that the opponents never know what to expect from the way the Eagles line up.

At Breckenridge, Coach P. E. Shotwell has his preferences. He too uses only a punt formation, but his is the long type, with his number four back about ten yards from the scrimmage line. Where Mayhew runs his backs towards the sidelines and then drives them through the tackles, Shotwell slants them through, with words of interference having plenty of time to form ahead of the ball carrier. Both Abilene and Breck use a great many passes.

Coach Red Petty at Eastland will probably use a punt formation and a double wingback as a basis for his offense. More than likely he will have a balanced line, and will use a good many spins and reverses, along with a pass in which he has the passer start toward one sideline, whirl, and heave the ball to a waiting receiver.

Brownwood presents a problem, inasmuch as Coach Keeling comes to this district for the first time this year. Last year the Lions used a double-wing and a punt formation.

Ranger is another team that has the dopsters guessing. Reputed to have a powerhouse, inasmuch as only four lettermen, two regulars, were lost, the Bulldogs should be able to go along under almost any system. Last year they used a Notre Dame system, with most of the plays going to the weak side of the line. Coach Red Moore, who replaced Eck Curtis, however, is reputed to have used an unbalanced line with a hole between the tackle and center on the weak side, when he coached at Snyder. It is especially strong for a passing attack. Rumor has it that Britt, all-state end, will be shifted to the backfield to help Anderson block for Gray and Briley.

Notre Dame Style
Coming home to Cisco, the fans will be interested in the new Lobo machinery and the way it works. There has always been one Notre Dame style team in the district, and this year it appears to be Cisco again. Coach Chapman brought it here in 1924 and later abandoned only to have Coach Curtis pick up at Ranger.

One of the fundamentals of the backfield step-shift. Last year Coaches Shelley and Hodges played from the Notre Dame and the short punt formation did not include the shift. This they are outdoing Ranger. In they are using the backfield and are adding a tackle shift. Before the first shift the Lobo will line up in three rows of the men each, with the ends at the distance to the side of the row the line of scrimmage.

ENIES RELIEF COMM'N FIXES RATES OF WAGE

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 — Criticisms leveled at the Texas Relief Commission for allegedly establishing wage scales in various counties at a higher figure than the prevailing rates in those counties were answered today by State Administrator Adam Johnson, who declared the relief commission has nothing at all to do with fixing local wage scales.

Wages have been established by county wage committees, Johnson said, "under the original direction of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration and these scales are the ones we observe on relief commission work projects."

FERA regulations held that wages will be at the prevailing rate in the occupation and the locality in which the work is done, and in no case will the rate be less than 30 cents an hour.

The state administration, Johnson continued, "can intervene and fix wage scales only in instances where evidence is presented that such rates are not in effect the prevailing rates."

Written Proof
The state director said that before taking any steps toward intervention, he would require written proof that the wages as determined by the county committees are not in accordance with local conditions, and that such evidence is submitted to him. He would refer it to the county committees with a request that they consider a revision of their wage scales.

Johnson asserted it is the duty of the function of the county wage committee to ascertain what the prevailing rates actually are and that this involves actual investigation of rates actually being paid by employers. He added that FERA has been adamant in requirements that the minimum wage be not less than 30 cents per hour despite objections raised from many sources.

Of course these rates have absolutely no bearing on rates to be paid by private employers and are effective only on approved work relief projects, utilizing budgetary aid, Johnson said.

County administrators were instructed to observe these regulations and were reminded that if changes in wage scales appear desirable, the course of action through the county wage committee should be used.

RAY TONGERS BUSY

GRIFFIELD, Md., Sept. 13 — Tony Ray, a favored class among the tide water oystermen of the Chesapeake, was at work today as the tide was in with an R. Officially, he was harvesting oysters. Dredging operations, however, will not start until November when the large oysters will be harvested. With the tide in, only the small oysters, which inhabit the shallows, can be obtained as the tongs are worked by hand. In depths beyond ten feet dredgers must be used.

Floating Island Is Ohio Lakes Mystery

AKRON, O., Sept. 13 — The Portage lakes district has no sea serpent but it has a mystery island. The disappearing island, which had played peek-a-boo all summer was cured of its wandering tactics by a group armed with motorboats, ropes and stakes.

Let by Walter Harris, state conservation officer, the contingent towed and pushed the huge mass almost the entire length of East River. Then, in a shallow spot, between a large and small "permanent" island, they moored the new, corner fast.

The floating island first appeared near the center of the lake. Startled cottagers of the district rubbed their eyes in disbelief. Some thought it a tree floating about.

There wasn't much time for investigation, as the island sunk out of sight again. A few hours later, it floated to the surface again. Residents began wondering what it was all about.

Setting out by boat, they found the mysterious sight was actually an island, some 50 feet long, 20 feet wide, seven feet thick.

First arrivals saw that the island was verily loaded with fish of all kinds. One person picked up a 15-inch bass. Others filled buckets with bluegills and perch which had been snaggled in the natural net.

Prof Paul Acquarone, Akron university biologist and geologist, believes the island a piece of shore line dislodged by some natural cause, sunk for many years, brought to the surface by an accumulation of marsh gas.

Behind the Scenes in Washington

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—One day a Washington correspondent has to report something that seems pretty awful and next day there's something on the sunny side.

That's the way it goes here in this administration, with its pullings and haulings, tightrope acts and eternal compromises.

As a sequel to dispatches which showed how the Democratic spoilsmen during Roosevelt's absence were snatching everything that wasn't nailed down—and even some that was—it is possible to cite important instances since the president's return wherein Jim Farley and his political gang have been effectively foiled.

Appointment of Dr. Ernest Gruening as director of the new Division of Territories and Island Possessions, to the accomplishment of triumphant shouts from all liberals, was an outstanding case.

Not only was it symptomatic of the administration's benevolent Caribbean policy. It was a severe blow to a patronage lobby which well knows how few of the nice berths in Gruening's far-flung field will now be filled on a partisan political basis.

SELECTION of Dr. John Wellington Finch as chief of the Bureau of Mines wasn't exactly a clean-cut 100 per cent victory for the merit system purists, but it was another defeat for Farley and a victory for government scientists who fear political encroachments into their territory.

Secretary Ickes recommended Finch long ago as an outstanding geologist and author, but Farley

SIREN TO WARN BEACH WALKER OF TIDE DANGER

By THOMAS COPE

United Press Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Sept. 13 — Mont Saint-Michel, most photographed French landmark, is to be provided with sirens against the peril of the sea.

Debate on the advisability of protecting strollers along the quicksands, incidentally, has led to the discovery that there is no such thing as being swallowed up by these oceanic bogs.

Many an ancient Breton mariner, it was revealed, has been caught in quicksands and survived. The question is one of time. Rarely is a man sucked down to above the waistline, because the subsoil is firm at that level, but many have been caught at a time when the tide was coming in and drowned.

The danger is that of drowning when the tide comes up from seemingly nowhere, filling the vast reaches of sand with furious torrents and treacherous eddies.

Victims more often than not are visitors who start out for the historic island of Tombelaine, and fooled by their calculations of distance and time into being trapped by the tide.

Some, of course, are caught in quicksands and are unable to free themselves before the tide gets up to their chests. Seized with panic even if caught only up to their knees, they struggle frantically, and although it is not true that they sink into the sand, it is true that their methodless struggles prevent them from getting free.

A siren on the hill, it is argued,

Pickets' Clubs Menace Georgia Mill Workers

Despite good intentions to be peaceable, the menace of the clubs carried so threateningly often leads to disorder in the strike belt. This group of armed union pickets and sympathizers put on a demonstration at cotton mills in Newnan, Ga., in an effort to induce workers to leave their machines. They dispersed before any disorder developed, but similar incidents have led to bloodshed in the South.

the lifeboat, however, Budker does not recall visibly from the ubiquitous "man-eaters."

"There are more sharks around Dakar than in that masterpiece you speak of," said the young Frenchman, "but I've yet to hear of a bather at Dakar beach being bitten."

M. Budker runs a regular shark farm at Huan, near Dakar, under the direction of Dr. De Logiviere, a French savant. It's a paying proposition, too.

"We have catalogued some 230 species of sharks," said M. Budker. "The seas around Dakar are filled with them. Yet only three or four varieties can be said to be dangerous and even these will not attack a human being unless taken by panic."

"We have fished sharks 400 meters off Dakar beach and I've yet to hear of a bather being molested. In fact, catching them is a nauseous sin. All you have to do is to get their nose in a bag at the end of a pole and they asphyxiate. A shark hasn't got any reverse gear!"

"We catch an average of 40 every morning. Their skins make a very fine leather. Their livers are much in demand for the making of soap, and parts of the fish have been considered table relishes since antiquity."

New Magazine for Memorial Announced

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13 — Publication of a new magazine on American-German affairs, called the "American-German Review," has been announced by the Carl Schurz Memorial Foundation.

The first issue is in circulation. The magazine is "strictly non-political" in nature, its sponsors said, being designed to promote cultural relations between the United States and all German-speaking peoples.

"It will serve primarily as a medium for interpreting those achievements in German culture which are of interest and value to America," the announcement said. It will appear quarterly.

The Carl Schurz Foundation was founded in 1930 by Americans largely of German descent in the interest of social, cultural and economic development. It has promoted many exchanges of experts in various fields between Germany and America.

Jacob Gould Schurman, former president of Cornell and ambassador to Germany, contributed the leading article in the first issue of the new magazine. He wrote on

"Cultural Inspiration from Germany."

SOUTH BEND, Wash., Sept. 13 — Although he died about three hours before, John Rampparmen's rigid hand on the tiller guided his fishing trawler full speed through the breakers, to land high and dry on the beach without shipping and water. The fisherman apparently died of heart attack while out on the ocean.

Rural Supervisors Asked for Estimates

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 — Rural supervisors today were requested to furnish the department of rural rehabilitation with an estimate of the amount of funds necessary to carry on the program in each county for the month of September.

In making the request, J. E. Stanford, head of the department, declared that "in a large majority of counties, the rural rehabilitation program, particularly the repairing of leased residences, should reach a high point during September and October, while the purchase of capital goods will begin to get well under way, therefore, we anticipate the expenditure of a far greater sum during these months than has been the case up to this time."

Deadline for sending in the estimate was set at September 19 and Stanford reminded supervisors that allotments will be made for counties not having supplied headquarters office with a certified list of relief roll clients approved for rural rehabilitation.

Steer Is Strangled By Big Grapevine

KERRVILLE, Sept. 13 — A tragedy of the ranges occurred on a Gillespie county ranch near here when a 2-year-old steer seeking green leaves for food slipped from a ravine bank, caught its neck between a grapevine and oak tree and strangled. The owner, Alfred Kordzik, discovered the steer after he had missed it for two days. The inch-thick grapevine had wound around the animal's left horn and under its jaw. Its feet were left dangling down the steep ravine without a foothold and it could not free itself.

PROF'S SON, 8, IS PRODIGY IN MATHEMATICS

AUSTIN, Sept. 13 — Marian Grossman Ettlinger is eight years old and goes to school only half the time, but already works intricate mathematical problems and will enter the tenth grade shortly after he celebrates his ninth birthday, October 5 of this year.

He is the son of Dr. H. J. Ettlinger, professor of mathematics at the University of Texas.

Dr. Ettlinger little dreamed when he announced to his mathematical class in 1925 that he was father of a new-born son, that the youngster would follow in his footsteps and work difficult calculus problems before he was nine years old. The boy has developed so rapidly that he is allowed to attend school only half the time.

Young Martin will enter the University of Texas as a freshman when he is eleven, even though he still will be restricted in the time spent in school. His father already has arranged for the boy to enter the university when he completes high school work.

Reads Classics
The youngster has read all the children's classics and adventure stories and now occasionally turns to heavier literature which might cause trouble to more mature minds. He is almost as well rounded as other children in his other developments. Scholarly, he surpasses them easily and has made straight A grades in all subjects.

Martin rapidly learned all mathematics taught in the city schools, and dropped the course. He found the mathematics easy which his father prescribes for freshmen in the university (so has taken up calculus during the summer. He also is interested in chemistry and knows much of the theory of this subject.

Reads Rapidly
His parents fear he might be injured, so refused to let him experiment in the laboratory. He will commence this work under supervision when he enters school this fall.

One of Martin's most astounding feats is the rapidity with which he reads. Tests show his average rate is 1800 words a minute. He sometimes reads as fast as 2200 words. Equally impressive is the fact that he retains most of the knowledge he acquires when reading at such high speed.

When three and one-half years old, Martin attended kindergarten. He began first grade work when five skipped to the third grade when he was six. He was in the ninth grade at seven. Were it not that he has been slowed down to half time, he would be graduated from high school at 10.

Martin Ettlinger enjoys other diversions besides studying. He is interested in model airplanes and keeps his parents busy finding new designs for him.

BEAR ATTACKED TEASER
STEVENS POINT, Wis., Sept. 13 — Because he teased a "pet" bear tied up at a filling station here, Vincent Hoffman, 11, Wausau, was taken to a Wausau hospital with severe lacerations. The bear, about a year-and-a-half old, never had attacked anyone before, its owner said. Youngsters had teased it of late, however, and he had warned them.

SISTER MARY'S RECIPES

BY MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service for Sister
If the pear tree in the back yard bore well this year—or if you find a pear bargain in the market, do try a few recipes for preserving that satisfying fruit for next winter. Spiced pears are so good with winter: soups and stews. Pear conserve goes extra well with hot rolls or toast, and ginger pears fill in anywhere and are easy to make besides.

Ginger Pears

Nine pounds pears, 6 pounds granulated sugar, 4 cups water, 4 lemons, 6 ounces crystallized ginger.

Pare fruit and cut in thin slices, removing core. Drop into a weak salt-water to prevent discoloring. Drain from salt water and add to boiling syrup made with sugar and water. Simmer until fruit begins to look clear around the edges and add the grated rind of 2 lemons and the juice of all four. Add ginger cut in tiny bits and simmer until mixture is thick and pears are transparent. Put into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with a thin layer of paraffine. When cold cover with more paraffine. Store in a dark, cool place.

Spiced Pears

Six pounds pears, 5 cups light brown sugar, 2 cups cider vinegar, 1-4 cup broken stick cinnamon and whole cloves mixed.

Pare pears before weighing. Place in a crock alternately with layers of sugar. If the pears are quite large they should be cut in halves and cored. Pour on vinegar and let stand over night. Drain off liquid and add spices

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked apples, cereal, cream, fried dried beef, crisp rye toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Cream of tomato soup, toast sticks, fresh vegetable salad, baked custard, fruit punch.

DINNER: Chicken pie, buttered onions, baked sweet potatoes, escarole and cucumber salad, mock angel food cake with peach whip, milk, coffee.

tied in a cheesecloth bag. Bring to the boiling point and boil five minutes. Add pears and simmer until tender, but not broken or soft. Pack in hot sterilized jars and pour over boiling vinegar syrup to cover. Seal at once. If the vinegar is very "sharp" it should be diluted with water.

Pear Conserve

Five pounds pears, 5 pounds granulated sugar, 1 cup water, 1 pound raisins, 3 lemons, 2 oranges, 1 1-2 cups nut meats.

Pare pears, remove cores and cut in thin slices. Put water and pears into preserving kettle and bring to the boiling point. Sift in sugar and simmer until fruit is tender. Add raisins, seeded, thinly sliced rind and juice of oranges and lemons, bring to the boiling point and simmer thirty minutes. Add nuts and cook ten minutes longer. Pour into sterilized jars and cover with paraffine. Cover with a second layer of paraffine when cold.

'CABBAGE WAR' DUE TO HAVE COURT ECHOES

EDINBURG, Sept. 13 — Echoes of Hidalgo county's famous "cabbage war" of early spring will be heard September 24 in Judge Bryce Ferguson's 92nd district court when trials of three men indicted in connection with burning of one packing plant and destruction of considerable cabbage will be called.

District Attorney Sid Hardin announced the settings had been made by Judge Ferguson Saturday.

C. T. Brockington of Mercedes faces trial on an arson charge in connection with the burning of Carl Bretz's cabbage plant at Alamo in March. The plant was totally destroyed with an uninsured loss of about $15,000. A nightwatchman at the plant was abducted by a group of men and released a short time later several miles from Alamo on a country road. When he made his way back to the town, the plant was in flames, Alamo and McAllen fire departments battling the blaze all night.

Growers Official Charged

tion is also charged with arson in connection with the Bretz fire.

S. W. Prince of La Feria faces trial on an indictment charging burglary with intent to commit arson. It is alleged that he broke into the Don Logan packing plant at San Juan the night of the Bretz fire and soaked the interior with kerosene. Cabbage in the plant was ruined and several loaded refrigerators and cars on sidings were also ruined when their cargoes were soaked in oil. The nightwatchman at the Logan plant was held prisoner in a nearby gin seedhouse by another group while contents of the plant were being soaked in oil. Investigators were told.

All three men were indicted shortly after the Bretz fire. Hidalgo county deputy sheriffs and Texas Rangers participating in the probe. All have been at liberty under bonds of $3,000 each for Prince and Barnhart and $1,000 for Brockington.

THINGS YOU MAY NOT KNOW . . . about your Telephone

• Thomas A. Watson, the young electrician who helped Bell invent the telephone, made with his own hands the first instruments. But the demand grew too big for Watson to handle, so licenses were given to four other manufacturers.

• Confusion resulted. By 1880 telephone designs of these manufacturers were as varied in appearance and quality as the women's fashions of that year. Lack of uniform quality hindered the development of good telephone service.

• To gain this uniformity, these companies were consolidated in 1881 as the Western Electric Company, which for more than 50 years has served as the manufacturing and purchasing agent for the Bell System.

Without the aid of the Western Electric Company, the men and women who furnish your telephone service here could not serve you so well.

Today, as a proven fact, this company buys from Western Electric at a cost lower than it would be forced to pay in the competitive market.

Because the telephone service is planned for the long pull, these savings have for many years been devoted, not to swelling profits, but to holding the cost of good telephone service low.

This is a policy adopted in the feeling that from your standpoint as much as from our own, it is sound and workable. It is based upon the belief that what is best for the telephone user is in the end the policy that will bring us the surer, more enduring success. Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.
