Henard Explains Position

Water Board Accepts Cottonwood, Dozier Work

The proposed dams on Cottonwood and Dozier Creeks, tributaries of Salt Fork, were picked up this week by the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, after resolutions passed by the City of Wellington and the Commissioners' Court cleared the way for action.

Dan Henard, water board president, made the announcement.

The board has not acted in the past because the proposed Cottonwood dam would be located on land owned by Henard. He offered his resignation to the board earlier so it might go ahead with the project. The resignation was rejected.

"I wouldn't serve on the water board and build a dam on my own property until a need was seen by the city and the county. Now I feel free to go ahead with the work on my property," Henard told The Wellington Leader.

The resolution passed by the city council pointed out the concern of the city over its own water supply and the fact the city council is hunting a surface supply.

The Water Control and Improvement District, the resolution continued, "has been organized for the purpose of solving the water problems of our area and are able and qualified."

The resolution then requested and urged the water district "to proceed with work directed to the project."

Appaloosa Show Set Week Before Fair

A new date to place the annual Appaloosa Horse Show a week ahead of other Collingsworth County Fair events was announced by Paul Guthrie, show chairman and ringmaster. It remains, however, as one part of the Fair. The sponsor of the Appaloosa show is the Wellington Rotary Club.

The show will be held at Marian Airpark baseball field and will begin at 2 p.m. Eddy Wood of Amarillo will judge the show.

This is the third year for the Appaloosa show, which is approved by the Texas Appaloosa Horse Club. All horses entered, except 1964 foals, must be registered in the foundation or tentative registry of the club, Guthrie pointed out.

There will be 18 classes, 14 in the halter division and four performance classes, and entries from Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and possibly New Mexico are expected.

Five grand champions and five reserve champions will be named. These include stallions, mares, geldings, reining and cutting horses.

Trophies will be awarded to first place winners in each class and rosettes will go to second through sixth place winners.

There will be five classes of stallions, 1964 stallions, 1963 stallions, 1962 stallions, 1961 stallions, 1960 or before stallions.

Fillies will include 1964 and 1963 classes, and mares will be 1963 classes, and mares will be 1963 classes, and mares will be 1963 classes.

Son of City Man Drowns in Alabama

Jerry Wayne Seitz, 20-year-old Navy man and son of J. W. Seitz of Wellington, was drowned Sunday afternoon, Aug. 2 in Perdido Bay, near Lillian, Ala., just across the Florida state line.

A spokesman at the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., said that Seitz, whose home was at Amarillo, and William Charlineos, 29, of Pensacola, both yeomen at Saufley Field, went swimming over the side of their boat in Pensacola Bay. The boat began drifting, and as they started swimming after it, Charlineos got in trouble and began yelling.

Seitz swam to his friend and tried to help. Both disappeared beneath the water.

A girl with them, but still in the boat, attracted the attention of a passing launch by waving a towel. Search and rescue units from Florida and

NG to Train One Week End Each Month

National Guard members of Battery A will train one week end each month, rather than four nights during the same period, S/1c Donald Settle announced this week.

One back-to-back training period has been held and another is slated Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 8 and 9.

"This is on an experimental basis with all National Guard units in Texas," Settle explained. "It is felt that the men can accomplish more in the two 8-hour sessions during the week end than in the same number of hours scattered through the month."

Battery A members, with Capt. Harry Cox of Childress as commanding officer, will meet Saturday at 4 p.m. and that session will run till midnight. The Sunday session will be from 7 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Officers from Second Battalion headquarters in Wichita Falls will be here to conduct the classes, Sgt. Settle said. A clergyman will be invited to conduct short non-denominational religious services at the armory each Sunday at 8:30 a.m.

The Wellington unit, which is Battery A, 2nd Battalion of the 131st Artillery, 49th National Guard Division, is made up of 47 men and three officers, coming from Wellington, Childress and other nearby points. In addition to Capt. Cox, the commander, officers are 1st Lt. Leonard King of Childress

Ozette Rainey Elementary Principal

Robert Dwight Elected Head of Samnorwood School System

Robert Dwight, elementary principal of Samnorwood school was named superintendent of that system in a meeting of the board of trustees Monday night, Aug. 3. He succeeds Orville Cunningham, who moved to Abilene.

Dwight was elementary principal and high school principal at Samnorwood five years, then went to Port, Okla., as superintendent last year. He returned to Samnorwood for the current term as elementary principal.

Mrs. Dwight taught high school science and is returning to that position.

In a meeting Tuesday night, trustees named Mrs. Selba Rainey elementary school principal. Earlier in the year Loyd Stephens was moved from the elementary to the high school principal's place.

A West Virginian who has been a newspaper reporter and farmer as well as teacher and school administrator, Dwight is already known well the Samnorwood community and the school system.

Dwight received the bachelor's degree from Concord College, Athens, W. Va., and the master's degree in public school administration from the University of West Virginia. He has done additional graduate work in that University.

Before coming to Texas, he taught at Beckley, W. Va.

For six years Dwight was on the editorial staff of the Raleigh Register, a daily newspaper, and when he resigned he headed the editorial department.

He also has farmed and served on various farm committees, including the ASCS

Water System Under Study for Dozier, Samnorwood & Lutie

Three communities north of Salt Fork River, Samnorwood, Dozier and Lutie, have proposed to build their own water system and a project engineer has been hired.

Preliminary information was filed Thursday, July 30, with the state office of the Farmers Home Administration, thru which the water system would be financed.

The Samnorwood Lions Club is the local sponsor and Don Jennings of the Wellington FHA office is working with the group.

In recent meetings, a steering committee was named to include Bill Knoll, W. R. Breeding, Jim Ray and Cecil Brown. People of those communities wishing to be served by the water system should contact one of these men.

The engineer hired for the project is Ed Biggs, of the engineering firm, Biggs and Matthews, Wichita Falls.

The proposed domestic water system would be operated by a non-profit association run by a board of directors, Jennings explained. Water would be available for home use and for livestock.

Money would be secured from the FHA, repayable over a 40-year period at interest not exceeding 5 per cent.

The system would have to be approved by the State Department of Health, Jennings said.

Ample water is available and two sites have been proposed two or three miles north of Samnorwood. The final location will be determined by the engineer.

Jennings also said that each person wishing to use the water must fill out a survey data sheet and this should be done as soon as possible.

The Association will pipe water to the user's property line and he will be responsible for piping it from there.

Wells furnishing the water will be on a pressure pump, so that gravity flow will have no bearing on where the water is piped, Jennings pointed out. A reservoir would be constructed at the well site.

Those working with the proposed water system estimate from 75 to 80 users.

Water required could run as high as 75,000 gallons each 24 hours, depending on the number of users.

While the water from this system would be piped into the three communities, a public tap would be installed to serve users through the northern half of the county. Many of these depend on rain water, or haul water, due to the high mineral and gypsum content of well water in the area.

The sale of water would be the only source of income for the water association, Jennings said. No bonds will be voted and no tax levied.

Engineering studies must be made before the cost can be determined, but Jennings said that recent approval of the use of plastic pipe by FHA should cut the cost considerably.

Area Lingers in 100 Degree Heat Wave

Only one day since July 15 has Wellington had a high temperature recording under 100 degrees, Weather Bureau records at the Highway Department office show.

The low day in this period was Wednesday, July 29, when 97 degrees was registered.

Twice temperatures of 107 have been registered, on Monday and Tuesday, July 27 and 28. Sunday, Monday and Tuesday of this week have had highs of 103, 104 and 105 respectively.

These temperature readings are about the same as a year ago, when records show that twice during July and early August the city had 10-day periods of temperature above 100 degrees.

A few communities in the south part of the county received rain Wednesday night, July 29. At Rolla, it varied from .2 to .6 inches. At Fresno, showers up to .8 were measured, while around Kelly and north of Dodson from an inch to 1.5 moisture was received.

Music Study

Taylor Home After 2 Years Study in Rome

Bob Taylor, son of the late Fred Taylor, returned recently to the United States from Rome, Italy, where he studied music composition the past two years.

He went under a student exchange arrangement from Princeton University, where he received his master's degree, and he in turn composed for the University while in Italy.

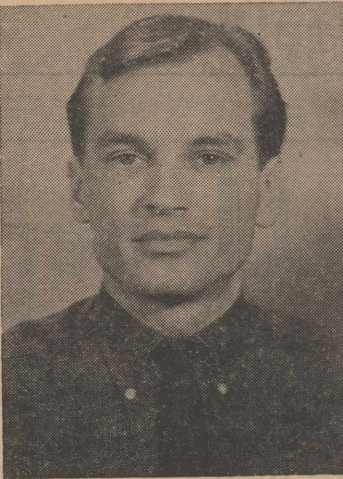

He was mentioned favorably in many foreign papers for his works, which were played in opera houses there. His work in Rome gave him the equivalent of a doctor of philosophy degree.

Taylor lived and went to school in Wellington until he was a sophomore in high school. Members of his family say his first interest in music came while he was playing in the Wellington school band.

He earned his bachelor of science degree in music composition in the University of Southern California on a scholarship and played backstage music at the Warner Brothers studios.

He hopes to be sent to Berlin for additional work this fall and also to visit in Wellington with childhood friends before he leaves.

At present, he is visiting his sister, Marion Taylor Green in San Pedro, Calif., where she, her husband and their three sons live at 1618 West First Street.

WARS THAT CAN'T BE WON

The late General Douglas MacArthur, in speeches and testimony after he was relieved from his command in the Korean conflict, revealed his amazement that American lives should be so freely spent on stalemate wars that seemed to have no foreseeable outcome.

Wide dissemination has been given to recent statements of U.S. military officers in South Vietnam voicing similar feelings. The Congress has increasingly heard complaints that underscore the frustration of the American people in supporting and fighting co-called "limited" wars that are never really adequately explained in terms of our foreign policy or national purpose.

As this is written, newspaper front pages are two-thirds filled with news of the conflict in Southeast Asia. The public feeling of which Billy Graham's "get in or get out" statement is a sample, has been stirred deeply in recent weeks with all sorts of revelations about this war. It is not inconceivable that by now a decision will have been made or even action taken that will affect the tension one way or another. But the American people have been slow to react about this far-away conflict. For the most part they have not understood the background and have not had the facts.

Only lately has it been brought out clearly enough that this is a struggle not between Vietnamese factions but between the Red Chinese and the rest of the free world.

Southeast Asia is a rich prize—a gate for further penetration into the rich island countries. Mae wants to open this area to hungry Chinese Communism and control it all, as the Soviet Union has done in Eastern Europe. Apparently Russia is not opposed to this expansion. But Mae faces U.S. power and prestige standing squarely in his way of conquest.

Whether the war could be changed in character by any action of our own is of course a problem now being deeply studied. As it is, the whole peninsula is considered a front for expansion of Communism. Peking variety. The Chinese Reds see empire and food.

The war in Southeast Asia, whether it spreads or not, is likely to remain one of those that cannot be won—as long as the ground rules in force at present are observed.

Only South Vietnam, it seems, is content to maintain the status quo. And only the U.S. is having to pay $2 million per day for the privilege of advising the anti-Communist participant.

This money makes possible some token resistance from the South Vietnamese, but without it that poverty-stricken nation would soon collapse economically and militarily. The war-heated economy, kept going with American dollars, is something the South Vietnamese do not want to give up. It is the best they have ever had.

Some insist that if Washington can afford to give a half billion dollars in military and economic aid, surely U.S. troops could be better equipped and protected. This situation has prevailed in part because of our observance of the Geneva agreements of 1954, although they have been regularly violated by the Communists since 1957.

Aware of that, President Kennedy increased assistance to the South Vietnamese in response to their request in 1961.

Politically, as far as Washington is concerned, the conflict is not our war.

Nevertheless, there is no denying, it is somebody's "hot" war.

American casualties, at the rate for the first quarter of 1964 could reach 1,000 for the year. These casualties are causing Americans much concern, especially when U.S. forces are only "advisors" in a war that Vietnamese are

TDN Needs of Beef Cows Told

McGREGOR. "Cows raising a 450-pound calf each year will need an average of 10 pounds total digestible nutrients (TDN) per day," said Dr. K. S. Eng, Jr., assistant animal husbandman, Gulf Coast Pasture-Beef Cattle Research Station, at Angleton.

Eng made this statement during a discussion on efficiency of feed use in a cow herd at Beef Cattle Field Day held recently at the Livestock and Forage Research Center located here.

During the four months following calving when a cow is scheduled to be rebred and at the same time is nursing a calf she needs 16 to 18 pounds of TDN per day.

Forage is about 50% TDN and grain is about 75% TDN, he pointed out.

From the time the cow's calf reaches four months age until weaning, the cow's TDN requirement lessens until she needs only about 9 pounds of TDN at weaning. "After weaning she's on vacation," Eng said. "During this period her TDN requirement remains low."

In his remarks, Eng emphasized that good stockman feed their cows according to need during the annual production cycle. He suggested planning calving dates for periods when forage is most plentiful so the cows will have necessary energy for good milk flow and fertility.

"If cows don't get enough to eat during the critical period after calving, they may be in such poor condition they won't breed back. When this happens, there's no calf the following year and this is infinitely inefficient," he said.

supposed to be fighting.

The extent to which political expediency has hindered military operations there is an area that Congress is beginning to explore.

What Washington most needs is a retreat from the politically negative philosophy that has made these regular losses to Communism possible.

The loss of China as a free nation, the bloody Korean conflict, and now the imminent loss of fragments of French Indo China to Ho Chi Minh and his boss Mao Tse-tung, all have been arrived at by political mistakes largely right here in the U.S.

Our people have been poorly informed, all the way from Chiang Kai-shek's betrayal to the Diem assassinations. If we cannot be anti-Communist in Washington as well as everywhere else in the world, there is surely no use staying on in Southeast Asia.

Some Fish Wander Far

ROCKPORT. — Some fish seem to develop wanderlust, while others are content to stay close to home, according to marine biologists of the Parks and Wildlife Department.

Two black drum were recently recovered after being tagged in the Upper Laguna Madre. One of these fish, tagged and at liberty for two months, traveled about 3 miles. The other drum was caught in the Brownsville ship channel over 100 miles from the point where five months earlier it was introduced to the little monel tag attached to its jaw.

Large "sow" trout were caught and tagged in the Rockport Ski Basin in March 1963. Many of these were caught in February this year very near the same spot where they were tagged.

The trout had grown only about one inch in length but were about one pound heavier.

NEW POND CONSTRUCTION

This pond was constructed during the spring on one of James Doneghy's farms, with two diversions to increase the watershed and control erosion. It has had a good supply of water from one rain. The pond also will improve the distribution of grazing. Soil Conservation Service assisted in technical work.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

RYE, AN IMPORTANT CROP IN THE CONSERVATION CROPPING SYSTEM

Many farmers in the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District cannot carry out a crop rotation by switching crops. This is due to the planting of marginal land to grow, or the soil bank program.

An excellent way to maintain fertility and organic matter in the soil under these conditions is to plant rye for a cover crop. This works particularly well on fine sandy loam and sandy soils.

The rye can be established in one of three ways. Seed rye with tractor-mounted cyclone seeder at last cultivation, use inter-row seeder to plant two rows between cotton rows, or wait until the crop is harvested and drill the rye in cotton stalks.

The Salt Fork SCD has both cyclone seeders and inter-row seeders available for these jobs. Contact the local vocational agriculture teachers to rent them. The ASC has announced that the payment rate this year will be $2 per acre. Frank Kennedy and P. E. Starr are two local farmers who plan to establish rye this fall in their cotton.

Social Security Benefits Many Age Groups

"After more than a quarter century of social security, many people still think of it as something strictly for the older person and it is this incorrect picture of social security that we try to dispel through every means that we can," Hal Gelson, social security district manager, said recently.

Gelson brought out that the social security program protects persons of all ages—not only the 62 and 65 year old. In addition to the regular retirement benefits for elderly people, disability payments may also be made to a totally and permanently disabled worker who is under 65. Benefits to widows, surviving children under 18 years of age, and disabled children past 18 years of age are also an important part of "social security".

Social security is no longer protection for the older person alone, Gelson said. "It is a lifetime protection for nine out of ten working Americans."

Benefits cannot be paid unless an application is made; a person who is nearing retirement should inquire at the social security office about benefits, as should survivors of a deceased worker, or a worker who has become disabled.

"These three times for action," Gelson said, "are a must if a person is to be fully informed on his social security rights and obligations."

Avoid leaving air pockets around the roots when transplanting balled plants.

Co-op Education Programs Are College Trend

COLLEGE STATION.—A co-operative education program under which a student alternates between a job and classes is a growing trend among colleges, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

Cooperative education programs are in operation in 60 colleges around the nation and have some 30,000 students enrolled, the National Commission for Cooperative Education reports. The Commission hopes to double the number of colleges and increase the number of participating students by 45,000 during the next 10 years.

In a typical plan, a full-time job in industry or a government agency is shared by two students. When one student is on the job, the other attends college. At the end of a semester or quarter, they swap places. Thus the employer has the equivalent of a full-time worker, and each student spends about half of his time in college. Under most such programs, a student requires five years to obtain a bachelor degree.

Educators in charge of co-operative programs say they benefit a student in two ways: He earns considerably more—about $500 a year on the average—than a student who works full time only in the summer and part time during school, and he gets valuable experience in his particular career work.

Cooperative programs are most widely used in engineering colleges, but now are being extended to other fields, says Mrs. Meyer.

Interested students can obtain the list of cooperating colleges by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the National Commission for Co-operative Education, 8 West 40th St., New York, N.Y. 10018.

Hardin Retires After 42 Years as Carrier

FREDERICK, Okla.—Gurrie Bob Hardin will retire Saturday after serving as a mail carrier for 42 years, four months.

Hardin was born in Mountain Park, Okla., about four miles from where he has been living and carrying the Cold Springs mail for the past 19 years. He spent 20 years in Wellington, Texas, where he received his high school education and worked in the post office as clerk and carrier for over 13 years. He transferred to Claude, Texas in 1935 and carried the mail on Route 1 for 10 years. He transferred to Cold Springs, Okla., in 1945 and has continued to carry Route 4 mail out of Roosevelt.

Hardin has spent 19 years in Boy Scout work in Wellington and Claude. He was scoutmaster in both cities and worked as committeeman and on the district council. He was made an honorary member of the Lone Star Pioneer Boy Scouts of America Troop 17—the first troop west of the Mississippi, organized in 1912.

Hardin was also known in Wellington and Claude for 20 years work with Christian Endeavors. With his wife, Erthel, they sponsored the Christian group of boys and girls.

He also taught Sunday school classes and served in most of offices of his church including deacon, elder and chairman of the board.

He likes to fly, square dance and fish. He has owned three airplanes and flown in about 25 different states. He had a private field during World War II and was a registered member of the Civil Air Patrol.

Musically minded Hardin and his brother often played duets in church events. He played in the Wellington school band.

Hardin and his wife have been married 32 years, and plan to build a home in Snyder.

Grass Fires Costly to Texas Agriculture

COLLEGE STATION.—Next time you start to toss a lighted cigarette or match out your car window, why not light up a $20 bill and toss it out instead? Of course you wouldn't think of doing such a thing.

However, each time a grass fire destroys a cattleman's pasture, it is costing you as well as him. For each acre of forage burned, $20 to $50 worth of grass is lost, says G. O. Hoffman, Extension Range specialist at Texas A&M University.

The grass you see when traveling is the winter hay crop for the stockman. It helps supply beef for you as a consumer. Throughout the year he has worked hard to produce this grass, which is more than just "cow feed." In addition to producing tasty steaks and lamb chops, it provides food and cover for wildlife, holds soil moisture, prevents run-off into lakes and streams and certainly gives the countryside a better face than does a black cover of burned grass and trees.

This grass doesn't belong just to the rancher—you also have a stake in it. When hunting season rolls around, you will want a big fat buck to hunt and large coveys of quail for the dog to point. Without grass and cover these won't be around. Now, you want plenty of healthy fish, a good place to swim and water ski or just relax and picnic. If someone had burned the acreage around your favorite lake last year, you wouldn't have these now, or did some careless person ruin your summer recreation spot for this year?

After a look at just a few things grass does for you, won't

Squalls Only Delay Nesting

SAN ANGELO.—Recent high winds, hail and heavy rains in parts of West Texas have hindered nesting game birds only to a minor degree, according to West Texas game wardens.

Blustery spring blows accompanied by rain and hail soaked and scattered poorly constructed dove and quail nests, but Mother Nature equipped these important game species to re-nest after such disturbance with nothing more than time being lost.

Bobwhite, scaled quail and mourning doves bend with the elements and bounce back with renewed nesting efforts after early spring storms.

Singing from 100-year-old Books Highlights Lewis-Brewer Reunion

Approximately 100 members of the Lewis and Brewer families gathered for a reunion on Sunday, July 26. The event was in the community building and members were present from an area extending from California to Arkansas.

These were members of the T. J. Lewis, Brewer and Mat Lewis families.

They are singing families and the afternoon was spent singing, using the Christian Harmony books, more than 100 years old. They were brought from Arkansas and three were to be found at the reunion.

Only shaped notes are found in the book, according to Mrs. Sam Thompson, granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lewis.

There are no accidentals, giving the singing at times a "flat" sound, she added, and the men and women sing one octave apart.

Mr. and Mrs. Matt Lewis and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Lewis taught their children to sing the shaped notes, just as the older members of the Brewer family were taught. These, however, did not pass the knowledge on to their children, preferring that they sing the conventional notes.

Among the members of the T. J. Lewis family present were Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Camp, Mrs. C. C. Camp, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Wade and children, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thompson and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Camp and children, Miss Rama, Camp, all living in this county.

Members of the Brewer family attending were W. S. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. George Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Brewer and family and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bearden and family, all of Wellington, also Marion Brewer of Batesville, Ark.

August 21 Entry Deadline

Search Begins for Fair Queen Contest Entries

The search for the county's loveliest girl, the Collingsworth Fair Queen, opened this week as rules were announced by Jack Sanford, chairman.

This will open Fair Week activities and will be held on the east steps of the courthouse Monday, Sept. 7 at 8:30 p.m.

The winner will be the official representative of the chamber of commerce to various area contests and other events to which C-C representatives are invited.

These will include the 1965 Wheatheart and Miss Grain Sorghum contests.

"This is a bathing suit contest to select the Fair Queen and two runners-up," Sanford said. "It is open to all girls who live in, or whose parents live in Collingsworth county."

Other requirements are that each contestant must be over 16 years and under 20 years of age at the time of the contest and must never have been married.

Each girl must furnish her own bathing suit.

The deadline for entering the contest is Friday, Aug. 21, but Sanford urged early entries.

Each contestant must agree that upon winning the contest she will be available to represent the Chamber of Commerce at other area functions, and if she is not available for a specific event, the runners-up will be given an opportunity to represent the C-C.

The chamber of commerce will secure a business sponsor for each entry.

Mothers of the contestants and authorized queen contest personnel will be the only persons allowed in the dressing room on the evening of the contest.

All contestants will be expected to attend all meetings and practice sessions when notified, and the Chamber reserves the right to screen the contestants.

The decision of the judges is final.

The Collingsworth chamber of commerce will not assume responsibility in case of accident, Sanford said.

Our Ex-Student Reunion Calls for Participation by Everyone

Wellington will welcome its ex-students home Friday and Saturday for the annual reunion, now so much a part of our summer scene.

There is personal pleasure in seeing classmates again after so much time has passed, in reliving school years with their pleasures and what then seemed like tragedies.

In the group that gets together, we can see vividly the fine quality of our school through the years, the educational background and preparation it has given the boys and girls who grew up here.

Aparent too, is the heritage of strength and progress Wellington has given, conservatism that is not opposed to progress, a down-to-earthness that has enabled our people to look with realism at their lives and their opportunities. From this has come the success of so many Wellington high school ex-students, both those who have moved away and those who remained.

But turning to the reunion at hand: we urge all ex-students living here to participate . . . this will determine its success. Much of the personal pleasure in any event depends on how much participation you put into it. Nothing could be more true of a reunion.

The people who come from a distance are eager to see those who have stayed at home. Our own interest should match theirs. On those years when local attendance has been slim, exes who came from a distance expressed disappointment at not seeing their friends.

Let's make this week end one of pleasure and visiting—for all of us.

You can tell when you are on the right road — it's upgrade.

"At Least They Have Traffic Lights on the Highway"

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where a once little-used word, "extremist," has been dug up by some word-shifty people to use when they want to reflect on the character of anybody who makes them unhappy.

This is a general purpose word, which is clean enough to be printed freely in the papers, and knocks the subject himself instead of his ancestry.

However, my cussing expert neighbor says the other day he was trying to drive a hog through a gate and addressed the animal as a so-and-so extremist, but it didn't relieve his feelings any, nor shake the hog.

I see where some National Guardsmen were rushed into Rochester, N.Y., to put up a front against the loot-riot sporting events in that city. Seems they were sent in without any ammunition for their guns, though, which was maybe because it seemed unfair to arm them over-equal to the rioters.

But my chicken - rancher neighbor says an empty gun makes mighty little impression on the helpy-sefly types that he deals with, such as coyotes, which never raise any chickens of their own but are always wanting his.

I see where the minister of a New York church wants his flock to stay away from night services, because it is dangerous to get out on the streets of that town.

Out here in the country we used to see pictures of Early Americans carrying muskets on their way to church, but of course this was the pre-progress answer to personal peril.

Which was all right for the 17th to 19th centuries, but citizens toting guns around to protect themselves nowadays would get in trouble for interfering with the unalienable Rights of the thug class to Life, Liberty, and the pursuit of loot.

Paul Williams

Former Rocket Athlete Here For First Visit in 18 Years

Paul Williams, a Skyrocket football star of the late 1920s returned to Wellington Thursday through Saturday, July 23 to 25 for his first visit in 18 years, and the second since he left here 32 years ago. Mrs. Williams accompanied him.

They were en route to their home at Norwalk, Calif., from Denver, where they were called by illness in her family.

While unloading his car at Cherokee Inn Thursday evening, another car with a California license drove in, Williams told The Wellington Leader. Curious, he began talking to the driver and learned he, too, was a former Wellington man—Peanut Robinson of Downey, Calif., here with his family. The towns are about 5 miles apart, but the men have not seen each other for some 30 years. Robinson worked for the Ritz a number of years.

The Williams visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Long, but he also stopped to see a number of other friends around town. He graduated from high school here in 1928 and left in 1932.

Commenting on the changes in the county, and especially the Winulcer community where he lived as a child, Williams remarked,

"I don't have any landmarks. The houses are gone or they've been torn down and replaced with new ones."

He has worked for Railway Express in California 30 years, with the exception of 5 years in the Army Medical Corps during World War II. He and Mrs. Williams have six children, all married, and 26 grandchildren. His only brother, Charley, lives at Torrance, Calif.

REAL BARGAIN

A driver dashed into a London bargain shop and came out to find his truck containing $560 worth of goods had been stolen.

Holtman Manages Littlefield Plant

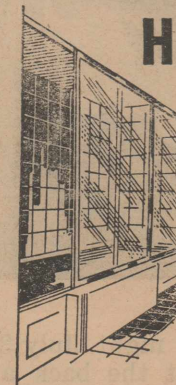

Arlois Holtman, formerly of Wellington, is the new manager of the Coca Cola plant in Littlefield. He has been with that company since May and in the soft drink business 14 years.

Since leaving here, Mr. and Mrs. Holtman and their sons, Herschel, 17, and Vaughn, 7, have lived at Altus and Plainview.

Here Holtman was a past master of the Masonic Lodge and past patron of the Eastern Star. The family belonged to the First Baptist Church.

Samnorwood Eagles Win Little League Title

The Little League wound up its 1964 season Friday, July 31. The Samnorwood Eagles took first place honors with 13 wins and only two losses.

The Cubs tied with the Quails for fourth place, both teams having 6 wins and 9 losses.

Forty-five games were played by Little Leaguers between June 8 and July 31. The six teams played 15 games each.

Each team's place, wins and losses, are given below:

Place	Won	Lost
1 Eagles	13	2
2 Braves	9	6
3 Dodgers	7	8
4 Cubs	6	9
4 Quails	6	9
5 Twins	4	11

Stories of the games played during the final week of play at Wellington follow.

Monday, July 27, the Quails beat the Braves 10 to 6. The Braves' one run in the first inning gave them an edge but after the second it was the Quails' ball game. Boyce was the winning pitcher, while Martin and Farrar pitched for the Braves.

The second game of the 27th was the Dodgers vs. the Cubs. The Dodgers' pitcher was West while Harper pitched for the Cubs. The Dodgers couldn't make up for the five runs the Cubs made in the bottom of the fifth, so the final score after 5½ innings was Dodgers 7, Cubs 8.

Tuesday, July 28 saw the Eagles whip the twins 17 to 4. The Twins made two runs and the Eagles scored four in the first. The score remained the same until the fourth and final inning, when the Twins added 2 runs. When the Eagles came to bat they wouldn't quit and racked up 13 more scores before the inning was over.

Thursday, July 30, the Quails smacked the Twins 23 to 8. Twins got three runs in the third and five in the fourth. The Quails scored three runs in the first inning. Then in the second they pushed 12 across the plate. They had no hits in the third but scored eight additional runs in the last inning. Tony Hernandez was the winning pitcher, while Twins pitchers were Cates, Said, Parker, and Harris. Contributing to the Twins' defeat was the fact that they had only eight players and had an automatic out each time the 9th man was supposed to bat.

The Dodgers beat the Braves 14 to 3. Neither team scored in the first, but the Dodgers led through the rest of the game. West and Pendleton pitched for the Dodgers while Farrar, Martin, Jackson, and Holman pitched for the Braves.

In the final game Friday, July 31, the Eagles beat the Cubs 25 to 5.

The Cubs led in the first two innings, but a total of 16 runs in the fourth inning sent the Eagles way ahead. Dwyer was the winning pitcher, while Norman, Farris and Harper pitched for the Cubs.

Begin State Wide Study of Retarded

AUSTIN—A one-year federal grant of $30,000 was accepted recently by the Board for Texas State Hospitals and Special Schools to initiate statewide planning for the mentally retarded.

"Although the Board is the administering agency, the law requires that the study be interdepartmental, in an effort to determine what action is needed to combat mental retardation and what resources are available for the purpose; to develop awareness of the problem; and to coordinate the state and local activities related to the prevention and treatment of mental retardation," explained Board Chairman Howard T. Tellepsen, Houston.

The grant stems from recommendations made by a panel appointed by the late President John F. Kennedy to prepare a national plan to combat mental retardation. The 88th Congress enacted legislation authorizing a federal appropriation of $2.2 million to assist the states in planning comprehensive action. The federal monies must be matched in Texas by $10,000 in state monies.

"Mental retardation affects some 300,000 Texans — plus countless citizens who are directly or indirectly involved in their care. Six state residential institutions have a total population of over 10,000 and the waiting list for admission exceeds 1,400. We have no alternative but to act immediately and effectively in areas of education, rehabilitation, welfare, employment, health, and the law, as they concern the mentally retarded," observed Tellepsen.

There is an undersea mountain range in the Arctic Ocean.

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

STATE SOVEREIGNTY FURTHER DIMINISHED

We say it so often — "United States" — that some citizens tend to overlook the true meaning. The United States consists of just that — united States — separate political entities joined together in common purpose, forming one Nation in a complex "federal" relationship ordained by the Constitution.

Our system is one of DUAL sovereignty. Our people stand in a twofold relationship to sovereign authority, as citizens of the national government and as citizens of their particular States. We are all familiar with the indisputable fact that the sovereign authority of the national government has become increasingly more powerful and that of the States has been diminished. It is a trend many of us are doing our best to reverse.

A near-mortal blow to this system was struck one month ago by the United States Supreme Court.

On June 15, the Court held that legislatures of six States are apportioned in ways that violate the Federal Constitution, specifically the so-called "Equal Protection Clause" of the Fourteenth Amendment.

The effect of this court decision is this: States must structure their legislatures so that all members of each house represent substantially the same number of people. While cases involving only six States were before the court, the decision undoubtedly means that legislatures in all but a few of the other 44 States are apportioned in ways contrary to the Court's interpretation of the Constitution.

The June 15 decision has touched off a furore in Congress, which went back into session this week after a two week recess. More than 80 proposals have been introduced in the House of Representatives in an effort to overturn the effect of the court action.

Most of the proposals call for an amendment to the Constitution to permit States to apportion at least one house of their bicameral (two house) legislatures on a basis other than population.

Typical of these proposals is that introduced by Hon. Wright Patman of Texas, dean of the Texas delegation in the House, whose resolution is supported by the Texas members, including me. The wording of Congressman Patman's proposed amendment is simple and to the point: "Nothing in the Constitution of the United States shall prohibit a State, having a bicameral legislature, from apportioning the membership of one house of its legislature on factors other than population."

It is my hope that Congress will not adjourn until an amendment to the Constitution identical or similar to that advanced by Congressman Patman is adopted by the House and Senate and sent to the States for ratification.

The Supreme Court decision on State legislative apportionment denies to the States employment of a principle of apportionment which is incorporated in the United States Congress. The "Great Compromise" of the Constitutional Convention of 1787 settled a question that had threatened to block approval by the delegates of any compact establishing a national government. The "Great Compromise" satisfied the argument of the small States that a proportional system in BOTH houses of Congress would fail to provide proper representation of their interests. Therefore, it was determined that the House should be apportioned by equal representation of population. The U. S. Senate was to have two members from each State, regardless of the size of its population or extent of its territory.

Justice Harlan, issuing a strong dissent from the majority opinion of the Court, said these decisions "have the effect of placing basic aspects of state political systems under the pervasive overlordship of the federal judiciary." Why? Because if the State legislatures refuse to correct apportionment, the Federal courts themselves will set out to set

County Youths Warned on Draft Sign-up

Lagging registration under the draft law in Collingsworth, Cottle, Hall, Briscoe and Childress counties this week prompted W. I. Hughes, board chairman of the five-county area to warn every 18-year-old male that the law requires him to register within five days after his 18th birthday.

Failure to register, like failure to comply with other provisions of the law, may subject men to prosecution, or induction into the Army out of turn and ahead of other men, Hughes said.

Maximum penalty for failure to comply with any provision of the law, under prosecution and conviction, is five years in prison, fine of $10,000 or both.

Young men may register with the following officially-appointed board registrars in Collingsworth county:

Lora Martin, Allen Insurance Agency, Wellington.

Mrs. Frances J. Martin, Post Office, Dodson.

After a young man registers, he is required to keep the local board informed of any change in his address or personal situation which might affect ability or requirement for military service.

Price Says U. S. Grain Goes to Russia Then Cuba

Robert D. (Bob) Price, Pampano rancher, and candidate for Congress, released a new attack on the U.S. sale of wheat to Russia. A Merchant Marine Ship's Captain and Chief Mate reported watching Russian dock workers load a Russian freighter with wheat bound for Cuba.

"There are millions of Americans who will see no surprise in the fact that this wheat had just been unloaded from an American freighter," Price said. "This is precisely what U.S. officials should have expected."

Proponents of the plan to extend American credit to Russia for the purchase of American wheat could hardly have doubted that some of that wheat would wind up in Cuba.

"Pleading hunger and bread shortage for their own people, Russia was successful in her bid for U.S. wheat. It is difficult to understand how American wheat trans-shipped to Cuba can relieve the lack of bread for Russian people."

Price, Republican nominee seeking his first elective post, accused Khrushchev of "testing American resistance to Communism." He said:

"Khrushchev thinks he knows our American weakness. He is convinced that we are more interested in dollars for profit than we are sacrifices for freedom. When we agree to his terms, knowing he would be free to send our wheat anywhere he likes, Khrushchev has what he would consider proof of our weakness. It seems apparent he was testing our resistance to Communism — and found it variable, to say the least."

"One wonders how long this nation's leaders will go on accommodating our avowed enemies, gambling with our future safety, and being deceived by the most obvious tricks in the international book. Neither Russia, Communism, nor the individual citizen who believes the State is the Supreme Institution, can be trusted. That is one simple fact we never seem to learn."

Price opposed the sale of wheat to Communist nations

HD Agent Takes Annual Leave

Mrs. Kathryn Barjenbruch, home demonstration agent, will begin her annual leave Saturday, Aug. 15 and it will continue through the following week, ending Sunday, Aug. 23. She urged that everyone having business with her office to contact her before she leaves.

when Congress debated giving the President discretionary authority to extend Import-Export Bank guarantee of Russian credit, if it were considered in the national interest.

Price also has come out in favor of a proposal to raise interest rates on loans made to other nations under the Foreign Aid program.

He referred to an amendment offered by Senator Karl Mundt to require charging an interest rate equal to the current rate paid by the U.S. Treasury for money it must borrow.

The panman said "It is bad enough to continue our wasteful Foreign Aid effort, but the very least we should expect is that we not charge borrowers less interest than we have to pay. The current policy is to apply a maximum charge of no more than 2% interest on funds loaned to foreign nations. Recent testimony in the House of Representatives was that several recipient nations take American dollars and conduct their own foreign aid programs, charging as much as 6% interest.

"Our own Treasury pays 4% on the money it borrows, and that is the least rate we should apply to foreign loans. If the borrowers cannot meet these modest terms, they could ill afford to borrow in the first place."

Price has conducted a continuing fight against what he terms "fiscal irresponsibility."

His comment on the new Farm Bill is that wheat farmers will find little comfort in the market place. In a combination cotton-wheat bill, Congress passed a law that offers wheat growers a choice of reducing production with a subsidy, or unlimited production without Federal assistance. Price said: "With Federal

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

This is the week for the reunion of the former students of Wellington high school and the indications are that some will be coming from distant places. A lot of water has rolled uselessly down the Salt Fork since some of them were students in WHS and there should be a lot of catching up on conversation as well as some disillusionment at seeing the old boy friend you remembered as being so strong and handsome only to come back and find him bald headed and pot bellied, not to mention the comely lass with the shapely legs and the winsome smile only to find her—well, maybe we had better not say anything about that.

Many distinguished men and women have passed through the halls of Wellington High and it will be good to see many of them again just as it will be to visit with those who continue to make Wellington their home. Welcome to you all. Come by and see us in the newspaper or at home if you can find the time. I will promise not to dig out any pictures of my grandchildren if you will keep those of yours in your billfold.

This makes over thirty days of the enervating heat which seems likely to set some kind of a record. In spite of this it is remarkable to note how well most of the cotton continues to hold up during the protracted heat. It should be remembered that cotton is a hot weather plant and we go through this anxious period every year we make a good crop. Thus far there have been no reports of serious insect infestation and that has an important bearing on how much clear profit the grower can make.

We have been invaded—not by civil righters, not by carpet baggers and not by armed troops sent by ruthless self-styled “do-gooders.” The invasion which seemed as harmless as the annual migration of the monarch butterflies at first has reached aggravating proportions for housewives and people who like to water their lawns in the shade of the evening—Mayor Cudd permitting. It is a sudden ingress of wasp-like insects that amounts to an assault on lawns and orchards of Wellington.

When the creatures increased from the hundreds into the thousands in each yard that had any green vegetation, I rushed forth from my air-conditioned study to do battle with the insects and my own curiosity. After putting down my instinctive fear of this flying thing that sounded something like a bumble bee or a hornet, in case you have ever been fortunate enough to hear one before they hit, I went out and captured one in a fruit jar all ready to take it down to the county agent in order that he could send it to A&M for proper identification. The county agent was out of town.

In the absence of the county agent I will give you a few first hand observations of the nuisance. In the first place this is not a colony insect such as bees, ants, yellow jackets or hornets. They mate individually with the larger “wasp”—probably the female, being the aggressor. The larger insect has three bright golden yellow bands on its black body and the yellow color remains constant. The smaller insect has the same bands that alternately glow to a bright yellow and recede during mating. There are no reports of anyone being painfully stung by the newcomers. I have walked out in their midst and knocked them down with my hat and with a fly swatter and nothing has happened to me yet. They crawl over the leaves of the pecan trees and the japonica bushes leaving the pine tree, the spruce and the other evergreens alone. What I want to find out is what kind of worms or larvae will result from all this activity and how harmful they may be to plants.

Here is a kind word for the bluejays which will confound old one-gallus Roberts. The other afternoon we were watering under the shade of the trees and a dozen or more bluejays gathered to enjoy the water; but they were also busy devouring the big insects, as were two sleek blackbirds. The jays acted like gourmets. They would catch a wasp, bear it to the ground and gobble up its insides, leaving the hulk still alive squirming around on the ground. We also had as visitors, two tiny wrens, two mocking birds, several martins—but none of these were catching insects.

Darlene Rainey Plays With Flying Queens

PLAINVIEW.—Miss Darlene Rainey of Lutie will be returning to Wayland Baptist College as a varsity member of the famous Hutcherson Flying Queens basketball team but competition will be intensified by 25 to 30 freshmen who have expressed a desire to try for a place on the team, according to Coach Harley J. Redin.

This is possibly the largest group of outstanding high school basketball players ever to have permits-to-enter by mid-summer, thinks Redin. They are coming from Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, California, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa.

For many years the Flying Queens have been known for their beauty, brains and ball-handling and this year is no exception. A high percentage of the young women are in the top 10% of their graduating classes, have placed in a variety of All-District, All-State, and other special categories for their ball-playing ability, and are attractive in appearance. As a matter of fact, some have even won Miss Personality and Beauty Queen ratings.

Miss Rainey, a 1963 graduate of Samnorwood high school, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Selba Rainey. She will be a sophomore and has not chosen her major field. She played with the Queen Bees last season and is being elevated to the Flying Queens. She has been named secretary of Delta

First Christian Plans Vacation Bible School

The First Christian Church will have a summer vacation Bible school, Aug. 10 through Aug. 14 from 8:30 to 11 a.m. There will be classes for children from three years old through teenagers.

Mrs. Raymond Neeley will be the director and her helpers will be Mrs. Sandy Parsons Jr., Mrs. Ronald Kersten, Mrs. Cotton Lovell, Mrs. Sandown Smith, Mrs. Jess Wilson, Mrs. M. C. Cleveland, and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Cassel.

Others assisting in the Bible school are Beth Smith, pianist; Cheryl Wilson, song leader; and Nancy Sanford, teacher.

Helping in other capacities also are Beth Smith, Rhonda Kersten, Patricia Wilson and Billy Neeley.

Here are some letters from last week's mail. The first came from Charles A. Guy, editor and publisher of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal: “Welcome to the 40-year club! I suspect that Wes Izard, also, will welcome a third ‘youngster’ within our charmed circle. After all, there is strength in numbers. Best wishes for 40 more years of good health, happiness and success with The Leader.”

The second is from our neighbors out at Childress: “We noted in your July issue that you are marking a 40th anniversary today with The Leader. Congratulations! — and all best wishes for your personal success and the continued progress of your fine paper. Morris and Carol Higley.”

The third came from Winney and Paul Allingham in Atchison, Kansas. It follows in part: “As one of your longtime followers and admirers, Winney and I read your column wherein you were looking back over 40 years with The Leader. We congratulate you and we've said many times to other newspaper friends that Deskins Wells put out the best paper we've ever seen . . . and I still show it to our news desk and say do likewise on make-up, etc. Liked your stuff on the NY Fair and glad to know there is another bunch doing it since Henry and the Gillentine kids sashayed around the big city.” Winney and Paul.

Item of interest: The Allinghams live in the big two-storyed house where Amelia Earhart was born. It looks considerably like the old Boverie home in Wellington except the Allinghams home has two fireplaces. If Louise and I ever get our visit to friends and relatives in Mississippi completed, our next venture in free boarding will be with the Allinghams in Atchison. I have it figured out that with some judicious driving we could spend a summer traveling and never spend a penny for motels, hotels or meals.

Chi and was a class favorite nominee last session.

Enrollment at Wayland this fall will exceed all previous enrollments, according to the registrar who reports the largest number of permits-to-enter ever issued for a fall semester. Many residence halls are filled and more housing is being opened.

Dance begins in the community building at 9 p.m. Saturday and is the final event of this year's reunion, according to Ed Bawcom, dance chairman.

Music will be furnished by Charles Roberts Band of Amarillo. Roberts is a WHS graduate and the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Roberts.

Class Luncheon

One class has scheduled a luncheon, that of 1929, to be held at Cherokee Inn at noon Saturday, Curry said.

To assist in welcoming out of town visitors, Mrs. McAllister has named the hospitality committee, made up of a large group of Wellington men and women. Hay, Grazing Approved on Diverted Acres

The agriculture Department on Friday, July 31, offered haying and grazing privileges on diverted crop land through October 31 to farmers and ranchers in Collingsworth County, Congressman Walter Rogers notified The Wellington Leader on that date.

Other counties in the 18th congressional district included in the program are Armstrong, Carson, Castro, and Swisher, Rogers said.

Other counties in this area were designated previously, including Childress, Cottle, Hall and Motley, along with Briscoe, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Oldham and Randall.

Arrangements will be handled by the county ASCS committees.

There will be a deduction made from the farmers payment, according to the acreage grazed or cut for hay, as determined by the ASC county committee.

The minimum charge for grazing will be $1.00 per acre per month. The committee will make an appraisal for each individual case according to the type and density of the grass to be grazed.
