

Twelve Tires, Six Tubes Are Taken At Dodson

Theft of twelve car tires and six tubes from a Dodson service station marked this county's first losses since the sale of tires and tubes was frozen by the government last month.

The tires were taken Wednesday night or early Thursday. They were the property of the Dodson Farmers' Co-op Society, and were stored in the station formerly operated by that group, but which sold recently to J. B. Floyd of Wellington.

The loss was discovered by Oras Hudson, who now operates the station, according to Sheriff Paul Bell.

Sheriff Bell stated that the thieves entered the building through a small chicken pen at the back, then forced open the back door.

All tires were size 16-600 and were for passenger cars.

Sheriff Bell stated that his office was working on several clues, but as yet, no arrests have been made.

Alaska Fine For Soldiers

In spite of the cold, Alaska is really a fine country, according to two Loco youths who are stationed at Elmendorf Field, Fort Richardson.

The two are Nolan Huffhines, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Huffhines, and James McClendon, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. McClendon. Both have been in Alaska since about January 1.

Huffhines recently wrote his sister, Mrs. A. F. Gibson, that there were only about 4 hours of sunshine, and although it was very cold, they had sheepskin clothing, and consequently they do not notice the cold.

He is a graduate of the Wellington High School with the class of 1936, and later he attended Texas A. and M. His parents, residents here for many years, moved earlier this year to the south plains.

McClendon wrote his parents that "this really is not a bad place." He added that he has seen lots of country, and that he is in the best of health, not even having had a cold since leaving the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. McClendon have another son, J. D. McClendon, in the armed service. He is with the 68th Quartermaster's Battalion, stationed at Fort Sam Houston. He volunteered for service about 16 months ago.

Pvt. Creed Follows Father In Service In U. S. Air Corps

Following in the footsteps of his father is Harry C. Creed of Quail now serving with the U. S. Army Air Corps, and stationed at Kessler Field, Mississippi.

First flyer in the family, however, was his father, Harry L. Creed, who was with the Air Corps during World War I. Sixteen months of this time was spent overseas, flying in countries of Western Europe.

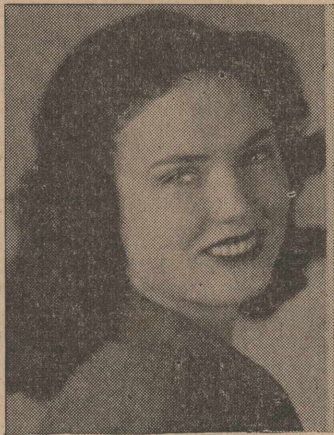

His son, who is now 21, hopes to live up to the enviable record of his father, Mrs. Creed said last week.

State Representative Ennis Favors this week authorized The Wellington Leader to announce his candidacy for a second term, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July, to the office of State Representative, 122nd District, comprising Collingsworth, Donley, Gray and Wheeler Counties. His statement follows:

"Mr. Favors is married with a family residing in Pampa, and made his first race for office two years ago winning over two opponents in the first primary without a run-off.

"He was very active during the last session of the Texas Legislature, and used common sense together with his legal ability in solving the many controversial problems, and the last Legislature had its share of such problems, and met them squarely, and as a result a number of constructive laws were passed.

"Ennis Favors said: 'I did my best during the last session of the Legislature to represent all the people of my District and Texas, and if I am elected for a second term, I will do my best again to represent all the people of my District and Texas.'"

Army Deserter Taken Friday

Charles Screws, reported as a deserter from the U. S. Army post Camp Wallace, was arrested by Sheriff Paul Bell near Wellington Friday evening, and Monday was turned over to Gray County officers to face charges of car theft at Pampa.

He had in his possession at the time of his arrest two pistols and a dagger, which he admitted having stolen, Sheriff Bell said. One of the pistols was a German Luger, the other a .32 automatic.

Screws had been in the vicinity of Wellington for several days, and suspicions of several residents were aroused as they notice the car parked by the roadside during the day time, with the driver sleeping in it. The local sheriff's department first began searching for him, however, when the man was reported to have sold expensive butane hose equipment for a small sum.

In discussing the arrest, Sheriff Bell gave much credit to a young

Bond Drive Progresses

LIEUTENANT J. M. MOORE IS SAFE IN AUSTRALIA

Lieutenant J. M. Moore is safe in Australia, he stated in a cablegram which his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Moore of Wellington received Wednesday morning.

Lieutenant Moore is with the U. S. Army Air Corps and has for the last few weeks been in Java. The last word that his family had received previously was from that island two weeks ago.

He also told his parents in the cable Wednesday that a letter was on its way to them. The last mail received from him was in late January, when he was in Brazil, Mr. Moore said.

"We appreciate very much the interest that the people here have shown in J. M., and their concern for his safety," Mr. Moore commented.

This county's eagerness to help with the present war effort is shown by the splendid co-operation now being given in the Defense Bond and Stamp Drive in which citizens are aiming toward the $448,000 quota, Dick Wiley, county chairman, said Wednesday morning.

"Only a few of the committees working in the county have had time to report yet, but the results that have been turned in have been fine," Mr. Wiley said.

Pledge cards are being given all persons, who are asked to sign them, signifying the number of stamps or bonds they will buy each month, or during other designated periods of time.

In Marella community, where this work is almost complete, the sign-ups were almost 100 per cent, Mr. Wiley said. Dozier community has also reported almost perfect response. Workers in Wellington have stated that they are getting much encouragement and response from the local residents.

"An effort is being made to get pledge cards to every one, but if any person has been missed, we are urging that he get in touch with his committeeman, or come by the bank and I'll give him a card," Mr. Wiley said.

While no check has been made this week on the valuation of the bonds and stamps sold to date, Mr. Wiley said that the sale of defense bonds this week was good—considerably heavier than for last week.

Defense stamp sales were boosted $47 Tuesday night, at a high school-sponsored program in which

No Sugar Ration Dates

Little more definite information concerning sugar rationing has been received by the local ration board, Gene Lewis, chairman, said Wednesday.

In communications received from the state office Wednesday morning, Mr. Lewis was given official information that those in possession of more sugar than can be allowed under the rules, which is two pounds to the person, should return the sugar to the stores where they purchased it prior to registration time.

It was further pointed out that the rationing books which will be given out upon registration will not be specifically Sugar Rationing Books, but that they may be used for other things.

As yet, the board does not know when local residents will register. Several weeks ago a date was announced, but this has been changed, and Mr. Lewis says that no definite date has been announced to them.

When the registration does come, teachers of the county will be in charge of the registration, and each person will register in his home school district.

"We are forced to ask the people not to call for more information on this matter. We are sorry, but we don't have it either. The work of the ration board is heavy, and we will appreciate very much the consideration of the people in this matter."

Old Car Tags For Defense

Even last year's car tags have a use.

Howard Riggs, county tax assessor and collector said Monday that it would be appreciated if persons purchasing new tags would bring in their old tags and deposit them in a box in the office provided for that purpose.

The government has requested that this be done. The metal will be returned to industrial use, thereby helping in national defense.

MARELLA

By JOE CLAUNCH

The farmers of this community are all preparing to begin their early spring plowing. They are strating a week or so early in order to avoid a possible last minute rush at the start of planting season. Several have been busy the past few days rebuilding fences, burning fence rows, and scattering burs that were hauled and placed on the land during ginning season. A number of hen houses and chicken brooders have been built and a number rebuilt and enlarged in anticipation of larger flocks of laying hens next fall. Most every one is preparing their garden spots larger than they were last year for their part in the "Food for Victory" program.

Little Miss June Bartlett, who has been receiving medical treatment in a Wellington hospital, is reported to be getting along nicely at this time.

Church services at both the Methodist and Christian churches were canceled last Sunday due to the severe cold weather.

Miss Lena King left last Saturday for Canyon, where she will be employed for an indefinite time.

E. G. Pierce and Miss Barbara Bartlett were on the sick list last week.

Miss Trudie Ogletree spent last week end in Borger visiting relatives.

SOLDIER'S LIFE

... As Soldiers See It

Fort Brown, Texas
March 8, 1942

Wellington Leader,
Dear Sir:

I will drop you a few lines to let you know I am still at Fort Brown safe and sound. Everything is O. K. down here. It has really been hot here lately.

Today they are taking up all our winter clothing. They must be going to send us to some tropical country. But as far as we know, we are not booked to leave.

We have been on the alert on the border ever since war was declared. But it isn't so bad. We are only able to get passed out of the fort six hours three times a week.

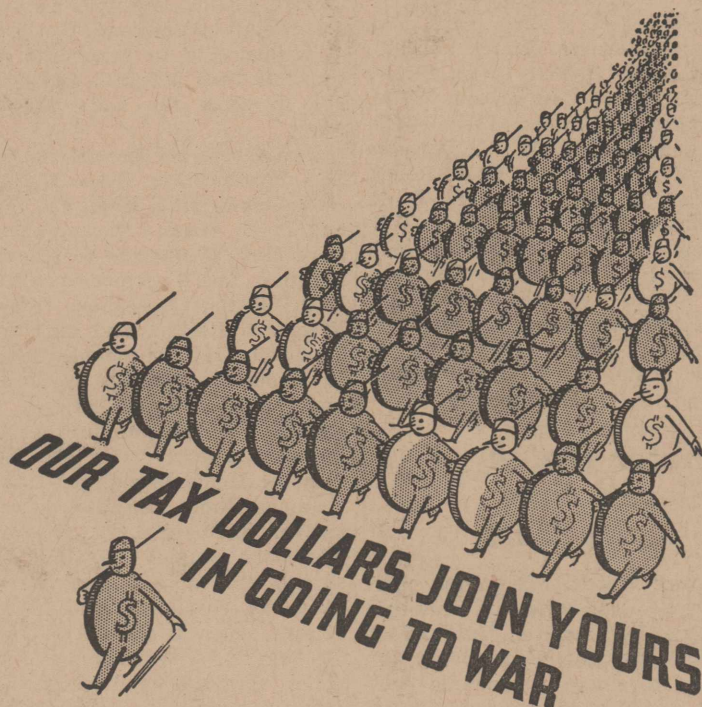

There are all kinds of entertainments for the boys in the service. The U. S. O. Club gives about three dance parties a week. The U. S. O. Club is really doing some wonderful work in Brownsville.

I must close, but I hope all the people of Collingsworth County all the luck during this war we are facing. "Slap a Jap" and "Keep Them Flying."

A friend,
P. F. C. LeRoy Harris,
124th Cavalry, Troop B,
Fort Brown, Texas.

It is expected that some 12,000 tons of tin may be recovered from the treatment of discarded tin cans this year.

Our Company paid more than $1,100,000 in taxes during 1941, and during 1942 our taxes will be even higher. This avalanche of dollars was used for schools, roads, health, fire and police protection... many of them WENT OFF TO WAR! They helped buy guns and ships and planes, and tanks and other equipment for our boys in the service. They are helping win the war... and we are glad of the part, humble as it is, that we are playing. SOLDIER'S LIFE

... As Soldiers See It

U. S. Receiving Station
Navy Yard
Philadelphia, Pa.
March 7, 1942

Dear Deck:

I got the Leader while at Great Lakes, Ill. I can't tell you how much I enjoyed it; and shame myself for not thanking you sooner. But it's better late than never. I haven't lived in Collingsworth for about two years, but my family have sent it to me since I left. Although the news was about a week old when it reached me it was still great news.

I was sworn in the Navy January third of this year. Enlisted with the impression that I would be sent to San Diego. And was rather disappointed, with 200 other recruits, when we were put on a train for Great Lakes, Ill. We arrived there January 5, in fourteen below zero weather. You can imagine the shaking we did. To make it worse we were not issued clothing for three days. With the snow covered ground and the complete change of life we all were very disgusted. Our company was made up of petty officers; ranking from third to first class. The larger percent of us being from Texas made things easier to bear. The first few weeks was filled with drilling, medical treatment, brief instructions and standing guard over different areas of the station.

As days passed we became accustomed to the way of doing and the new surroundings. Many of the fellows were like myself, had never seen this part of the States. Being such, we got a great kick out of the Yank speech and attitude. And I must say we were quite a novelty to them. We found also that Chicago stands up to its title, the Windy City. You see, the station is located about 30 miles out of Chicago on the shore of Lake Michigan.

After spending the month of January at Great Lakes the company was changed over to the outgoing unit. Here all companies are thrown into a pool and drafts for every port in the nation are filled. A few of the fellows had been transferred before this time, but this was when our company was really splitting up. Every draft would take a few, and in less than two days all of Company 27 had gone.

When the group I was with arrived in Philadelphia, we immediately fell for its outer appearance—and it hasn't let us down either. There are three large USO clubs here that would furnish a swell time for sailors that didn't have or didn't want to spend any money. Most everything is free there. The Quaker City has long had the Navy on its hands and its people understand the sailors.

After being here for a week, still in the outgoing unit, ten of us were assigned to the pay office and transportation department here in the Navy Yard. Now we have found it much like civilian life, having a regular routine of the day and liberties (time off) coming frequently. I don't have any idea how soon we will be transferred to a ship; things are moving and changing so fast.

A couple of weeks ago another sailor and I went to New York City and spent Saturday night and Sunday. While there we visited NBC's studios in Radio City; went up in the Empire State Bldg., and believe me New York is a sight from there. Later Sunday afternoon we took a ferry out to the Statue of Liberty. I was surprised when I learned that it was made of metal with only the base made of stone. Being from Texas we felt a little different as we walked down Broadway and took a taxi up 5th Avenue.

One of the latest songs, "Deep in the Heart of Texas," is going over big in these parts. I have found in all the states represented here in the Navy, none of the sailors speak as much and as proud of their home state as the fellows from Texas. You can always find plenty to listen when you start to tell about our background and what we have there that no other state will ever have. I hope this letter hasn't been too boring.

Thanks again for the Wellington Leader. I would like to say hello to all my friends in Collingsworth and especially the Wilnucier and Buck Creek communities.

Yours,

If Laying an Egg Is So Easy—Then Let's See You Do It!

"It may seem a simple matter for a hen to lay an egg, but I'm telling you, it takes a lot of work and energy to produce ONE EGG. If the hen is going to lay consistently over a period of weeks, she's got to have a lot of what it takes! And you shouldn't wait until it's time for her to start laying to get her ready. Start your chicks out with plenty of vitamins and minerals, and help them into profitable layers."

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

The times being what they are, there has been little about the passing of old and respected citizens in this space in recent weeks. But even so, something should be said about J. E. Leggett. Here was a father who lost a son in the last war. Many fathers and mothers were so embittered and despondent because of such an occurrence that much of their usefulness was lost. Such was not the case with J. E. Leggett. From his grief, he rose to greater tasks. His record as mayor is an outstanding one. I know it quite well. There was also the time when along with Judge E. H. Small he accepted an appointment from a younger mayor to serve on the fire prevention board. The work on this board was courageous, highminded and unselfish. Factual records indicate that this original board saved this city thousands of dollars. Above these constructive accomplishments however, should be listed the spiritual efforts of this man. The Christian Church in Wellington is part of his creation. There is much more that could be said. I prefer to say: "God rest your brave unselfish soul, my friend."

The fine fat calves, good hogs of the boys and the splendid work of the girls of this county demonstrated in the project show is a cause for satisfaction. These boys and girls are doing an outstanding work. They are to be congratulated just as are their teachers and supervisors. It is an important effort in the food for freedom campaign.

Since the powers that be cannot see the wisdom of an all out production of cottonseed oil to head off a possible shortage of fats, county farmers might consider planting peanuts. They are hard on the land, but they will grow here abundantly on certain types of soil. The price will be good. However, check up and find out if they will penalize you on your allotted acres before you plant them. Considering how peanuts make sandy land blow and how they deplete any soil, they are not worth taking a cut in your cotton or wheat acreage.

The interest in gardens is tremendous. I loitered around three stores one day recently and saw at least 10,000 onion plants sold not to mention a lot of sets. They were also buying seed potatoes and seed for a lot of the early vegetables. This is good stuff. It not only helps you, but it helps your country.

It looks like Wellington needs to have another bagworm drive. The one conducted by The Leader last summer merely cut down the number enough to save a lot of trees. Now that the leaves are gone the bags can be seen hanging on the trees all over town. There are enough eggs in those bags to produce a plague of a size that will kill every tree in town. They should be picked off and burned now. Before long they will start hatching.

Due to the tire situation, there is growing evidence of the possibility of increased business for many firms in agricultural towns and at the cross roads store. I pointed this out when the rationing went into effect. However, there is also evidence that it will help only those towns that are on their toes. They must tell the people and invite them. Sensing a possible loss many big department stores have increased their advertising. The emphasis is to get people to order by mail. It is something that must be recognized.

My daughter has some of my own faults. She is so stubborn in her mind that it will cause her many a headache in the days to come. Here is the story: She had been out of school for two weeks. She did need some help to try to catch up and I was trying to give it to her. Instead of giving her much help, we got into a first class row. She kept telling me that this teacher said this and another said that. Finally, my patience grew about as short as her charity and I told her that I knew as much about the use of the English language as any of her teachers. The argument started right then. I cannot say truthfully that I won.

When she told me that mathematics, spelling, etc., were easy but that grammar was hard, I became so provoked that I launched into a lecture. I told her that there were three major parts to any sentence: the noun, verb and object. As an example I gave her this simple sentence: "He ate supper." After that, I broke forth in a flight of words to try to convince her that this direct type of writing was the only thing such men as Kinney Godfrey and Corbett Ford could understand. It did not register that night. Imagine my pleasure, two nights later, to find her using the "he ate supper" sentence as a yardstick to figure out subjects and predicates. Much to my surprise, it was working.

NO PRIVACY

Conchita O'Mi K, chihuahua owned by Mrs. Henrietta B. Kerner, Hollis, L. I., might as well be a gold fish for all the privacy he gets in this bowl.

Here is a clipping from that genial gentleman, Dr. J. J. Taylor, the editor in chief of The Dallas Morning News:

HEN VS. GARDEN

Wellington Leader: "The city fathers are having trouble with chickens again. Some citizens are allowing their flocks to run loose, thereby bringing complaints. Chicken raising is an important item under the food-for-freedom campaign, but they should be kept up. Otherwise, they might ruin your neighbor's garden and that would sabotage the food-for-freedom effort just as much as you are trying to help it by raising chickens."

When the chicken destroys the kitchen garden there is a conflict of interests. We must grow more food while the war lasts, and that means vegetable food as well as eggs and hen meat. Besides, when the neighbor's chickens destroy the friend's garden the friend gets mad at the neighbor. This is unfortunate, for neighbors should dwell together in unity. In a case of hen versus garden it is impossible to defend the hen. It is absurd to say a good hen belonging to a good neighbor would have better manners than to destroy a garden. But that is incorrect. Hen manners may be fine in hen social circles but they are not always commendable in owners' circles. A hen may think a home garden is right down her alley, that the home garden was designed for her profit. But that is not true. The garden is never made for the hen. The hen is made for the poultry keeper. And it is not uncommon for a 50c hen to disrupt a priceless friendship between two neighbors. There is no use speaking to the hen about it. The hen is a dumb cluck.

SOLDIER'S LIFE

... As Soldiers See It

The following letter was written by Tony Vandagriff to his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Burden of Route 3. Believing it would be of interest to his many friends, they brought the letter to The Leader for publication.

February 22, 1942
Adv. Des. Base No. 1
Hull Division.

Dearest Ma and Pa,

Well, I am still O. K. and doing fine, and here is hoping that both of you are O. K. Has A. L. left yet? What did he join, the Navy, Naval Reserve or Army? Send me his address and if I should happen to get around anywhere he is I'll look him up.

Well, how is the tractor and Pa getting along? O. K. I hope. I wish I could be back home for a while. It seems like a million years since I saw home, and it looks as if it may be a long time again before I see it. I'll come back some day and take care of you all but right now I have a job to do. I have my training and aim to do my best for my country, my God and the people of the good old U.S.A.

Love always,

Tony.

Dear Sir:

I received a copy of the Wellington Leader and also your letter. I wish to express my appreciation to the ones that made it possible for me to receive the Wellington Leader.

The boys of the armed forces here and everywhere enjoy getting news from their home town, and that is the most efficient way I have seen.

I will close expressing my thanks again to the ones that made it possible for me to receive the news from my home town.

March 8, 1942

Dear Deck:

I received a letter today from you saying that you were sending me the Wellington Leader. Well, I sure do thank you for the paper. I have really missed reading the Wellington paper since I have been in the air corps.

My father has been taking the paper for a number of years. It makes me feel like I am in Texas when I can look at the headlines of the Leader.

Mr. Wells, I am now stationed in New York City going to an airplane mechanics school. I like my work fine and it gets more interesting every lesson we take up. I have been going to the school now eight weeks. The course lasts for fifteen weeks.

About this great city here—there is so much to say I am afraid I wouldn't ever get through. I have seen several of the big sights since I have been here. I went up Saturday night in the world's tallest building. The name of it is the Empire State Building. It has a hundred and sixty-six stories in it and stands 1250 feet into the air. The people here are really swell people. They treat the soldiers nice. They make you feel like you are at home. They gave us soldiers a pass to anything we want to go to. They also gave us parties and all kinds of entertainment here.

All of my squad is staying in a hotel here. We have rooms to ourselves and it is real nice. We are really getting a good chance to make something out of this school.

Mr. Wells, I thought I would drop you a letter and thank you for the paper and you can print this if you wish, and I want to tell the people of Collingsworth County and Wellington "hello" and that I am liking army life just fine, and I am just about ready to go to work on those Japs.

Sincerely yours,

Pvt. Wister Harrison.

Plasma Bank Stressed By Hospital Auxiliary

Dr. Charlie Jones will speak at the regular session of the St. Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary on Friday, March 13, at 4 o'clock on the vital importance of the Plasma blood bank. Due to the need for this blood bank for local use as well as for the needs of the army members are interested in learning more about it.

In reviewing the work done by the auxiliary during the past five months Mrs. Morris Wells, president of the unit, listed the following projects: collections of tin foil for National Defense; addition of six new bedside tables and one bassinette for the hospital; distribution of Christmas candy for colored children; purchase of a fifty dollar Defense Bond; sponsorship of first aid course; members donations of blood for the Plasma bank.

Mrs. Wells said she could not stress too strongly the need of local people donating blood for the bank.

All members are urged to attend the meeting Friday and watch the paper for the definite date for the next first aid course to start, which will probably be near the first of April.

Plenty Of Gas For War Purposes

United Gas Corporation will have plenty of gas for war production purposes, Steve Roberson, local manager, said today.

"United Gas Service is already doing its bit in the war by helping to make navy destroyers, ships for the merchant marine, gun barrels, and other material. In addition, dependable United Gas service to customers in their homes and business establishments is an important factor in maintaining morale. The management feels that that, also, is a contribution toward victory," Mr. Roberson said.

The company is rendering the same dependable service to all customers as in the past, however, winning the war comes first—likewise the needs of war industries, Mr. Roberson pointed out.

"There will be no slowing down of defense work for want of our gas," said Mr. Roberson. "Night and day, trained employees are on the job asking only to go on serving their customers and their country. They will keep the service going to home and industry alike."

New Law Requires Certificate of Title When Registering Your Automobile

Owners of Motor Vehicles purchased after January 1, 1936, must have a Certificate of Title before license for the 1942 registration can be completed.

The certificate of title should be in your possession at all times while driving your automobile. Therefore we suggest that you not wait until you are ready to register your car before determining if you have a certificate of title in your possession.

It takes time to obtain a certificate of title, and if you wait until you are ready to register your car before obtaining a certificate of title, you may not be able to complete registration until after the deadline for registration.

Remember a car purchased after January 1, 1936, cannot be registered without a Certificate of Title.

Editorial

The general opinion prevails in America that home is about the safest place there is. However, the facts prove that, far from being the safest, it is often quite the opposite. A keener realization of this fact, plus amending the carelessness responsible for most of the home accidents, is a goal that can not be over-emphasized at this time when health and physical efficiency mean so much to the nation at large.

In commenting on this urgent need for the protection of life and limb in the American home, Doctor Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, recently declared that accidents in the home are the cause of more deaths than diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough, and measles combined; of more than appendicitis; of nearly as many as diabetes; of over two-thirds as many as automobile accidents; and of over a third as many deaths as tuberculosis.

"Slippery floor surfaces, lack of hand-rails on cellar steps, absence of protective gates at the top of stairs in homes where there are small children, toys left on stairs, un-anchored small rugs on polished floors, poisons in medicine cabinets accessible to children, and the careless storage of sharp tools and firearms are some of the more prominent hazards resulting in home accidents," Doctor Cox said.

"However," he added, "in the last analysis the problem boils down to one of reasonable individual caution. We can not view complacently the more than 30,000 deaths annually due to home accidents. These deaths, chargeable to remediable carelessness, can and should be reduced."

Doctor Cox declared that such a needless and profitless loss of life should be deplored at any time, but to permit such a condition to persist in 1942, in view of our national crisis, is a neglect that can not be condoned.

Experience in controlling large sand dunes near Dalhart, has enabled the Soil Conservation Service to protect the right of way of a trans-continental railroad near Las Animas, California.

OTHER EDITORS SAY--

• Uncomplimentary Friends

Friends of Congressman Worley are not very complimentary when they claim that his secretaries can take care of his office just as satisfactorily in his absence. The fact is that most people feel that he should be on the job in Washington and that the Pearl Harbor incident changed all conditions so that his promise to enlist could have been disregarded in the greater interest of home defense. Mr. Worley, who is a personal friend of The News editor, knows how we feel about the matter, and there are signs that the present situation will not last long, as the need of representation for the Panhandle continues to increase.—T. A. Landers in The McLean News.

• Congressman Or Not—No Difference

"Old Tack" has had considerable to say in his department of the Amarillo News about the importance of getting Congressman Worley out of the navy and back at his job as Congressman of the 18th Texas district in Washington.

Now seriously "Old Tack" we can't see where it makes much difference where or what Mr. Worley is doing, insofar as obtaining national defense projects for his district.

About the only ripple he's created since "Mr. Worley Went to Washington" was when he joined the isolationists and voted against repeal of the neutrality act. That ripple could develop into an engulfing wave for Worley's political ship some day.—Van W. Stewart in The Ochiltree County Herald.

• Extravagance In High Places

One of the State rationing department heads with headquarters in Austin, who operates directly under orders from Washington, recently had a quick need for large-sized envelopes. He wired Washington requesting that he be given permission to make the purchase locally, since the need was so urgent. But he did not get his request granted. Washington officials had them printed up there and sent them to Texas air mail, special delivery. The postage on the one order was $39.00, or about three times as much as the cost of the printed envelopes. That is not only waste but it is the rankest sort of extravagance. And people who are sending income tax dollars to Washington don't like to see such foolishness. This report is heresay, but it came straight enough to satisfy this department that it is true. Some of our administration heads in the Capitol City are urging people to practice thrift and buy Defense Bonds and Stamps, all of which is good and sound advice. What we would like to see in Washington is some of this same thrift on the part of all department heads.—Rufus Higgs in the Stephenville Empire Tribune.

• Service Where It's Needed

Bill Miller of the Spearman Reporter believes it is all right for Congressman Gene Worley to take a leave of absence to serve in the Navy as a lieutenant commander. This publication, though, still believes that the greatest service our Congressman can do for the nation is to get back on his job. This 18th congressional district has much that needs attended to at Washington—and no one can substitute for the congressman. If a substitute can do the job as well as Worley, then this district does not need him as congressman any longer.—Dave Warren in The Panhandle Herald.

Washington Week

By RALPH HERBERT

Recent interlocking transactions benefit both the United States and Cuba.

The big island's main product is sugar. America has always taken a good portion of Cuban sugar, on a quota system which regulated also what could come in from Hawaii. The war has cut off Philippine sugar and greatly reduced the import of Hawaiian sugar. In this emergency the government arranged to buy every ton of Cuban sugar that was available for export to this country.

And what did the Cubans do? They have bought increasing quantities of American rice. Cubans consume great quantities of rice. As late as 1939 nearly half this food stuff came from the Orient.

Even before the war, there were difficulties about shipping from the Orient. These difficulties became increasingly heavy in 1941 and, of course, rice imports from the Far East are now entirely out. Another thing that favored the American rice growers was the United States-Cuba trade agreement whereby the Cuban duty on American rice was reduced.

In 1941 all but 7 per cent of the rice Cuba imported came from the United States. Imports from the Orient, which totaled nearly 221,000,000 pounds in 1939, dropped to a mere 15,329,000 in 1941. On the other hand, America shipped to Cuba in 1941 356,695,000 pounds as against 222,660,000 in 1939.

Western Hemisphere solidarity was further demonstrated by the fact that Cuban imports of rice from Ecuador, the Dominican Republic and Mexico increased about five fold in 1941 compared with 1939.

American rice exporters learned how to mix various grades of rice to meet competition of Oriental shippers to the Cuban market. Savings are also made by the short haul from the United States, compared with the very long haul from the rice exporting countries of the Orient.

Your Town And Mine

—By CHARLES L. ALLEN

They called him "old Andy Jones." No one seemed to know where he came from, how he got to Our Town, or what he did for a living.

He may have been a soldier in his youth, for once a month he went to the post office and got a letter that had a check in it from the government. Of course, we little fellows didn't know that. All we knew was that as long as we could remember old Andy Jones had been hanging around the town apparently doing nothing.

Our mothers occasionally mentioned old Andy but they did so in a manner that bespoke a distinct lack of esteem. It was plain to them that he was an evil influence on all the kids in the village. Obviously he must be lazy, for he never worked.

What our mothers never could understand was that old Andy knew more about boys and young men than most everybody else in Our Town. Why, that old fellow could tell you the name of every bird that nested in the marshes down along the river or in the brushy thicket or upon the open prairie. He could show you how to find water in the woods when you were miles away from a well, and how to dig edible roots from cat-tails and rushes. If you caught a rabbit, old Andy could make it into the finest stew you ever ate, and with a few vegetables purloined quietly from Mother's garden he could put up a meal fit for a king. Old Andy knew everything. At least everything that boys think is important.

One of his favorite tricks was making willow whistles. No doubt you know the kind, fashioned from a six-inch piece of soft willow in the spring when the sap has made it pliable and the bark skins off just like you want it to. Well, Andy could make willow whistles so good that they would last a boy with normal enthusiasm almost a day—and that really was a good willow whistle.

When I grew up and left the old Home Town I forgot about old Andy although I heard about him occasionally. He had completely dropped out of my memory until one day when I got a letter from home that made me recall the hundreds of happy moments I had spent in his presence. It told how the old man, as was his custom, had been walking through the woods (the same old woods through which I followed him enchanted) along the river with a half-dozen boys at his heels. Somehow—no one ever knew how, for the little chaps told a very incoherent story—one of the boys slipped down the muddy bank and into the dirty current of the creek. It wasn't the first time one of old Andy's tiny charges had met with misfortune and he didn't hesitate to plunge in after the lad. But the heart of an old man some times will not stand the strain of exertion and excitement. When the boy was safely out upon the bank old Andy told the little fellows he would have to rest. Only when they became worried because he slept so soundly did the townsfolk learn the truth.

It was perfectly understandable to me. A man's heart as big as his, a heart that could expand to love all children as he did, is bound to wear out.

ONE OF RUBE GOLDBERG'S INVENTIONS

I Saw

—By VIRGINIA ROBBY

In spite of the facts that everyone is expecting at least one more awfully cold spell before spring, the gardening urge has reached ever so many folks here in town, to say nothing of those over the county. As several mentioned that they were raising gardens because of the "Food for Victory Campaign," I SAW

Mrs. D. L. Worley working her garden and getting it ready to plant. Miss Jenn Word and Mrs. R. S. Montague working in their back yards and alleys.

Rev. J. P. Neal, dressed up in vest and tie, digging a deep hole in the front yard of the Baptist parsonage. Just then it was about waste deep. The next morning, however, the results of his work were seen—a tree set out where the hole had been, and it was an unusually large one to be transplanted.

Mrs. W. W. Breeding of Abra is making the smaller things in her life count for war effort. Last Friday she was buying a defense bond, and while doing so, she said that this bond came out of her chicken and egg money.

Mrs. Wayne Heathington and Mrs. Roy Brinson, with their babies, looking at fluffy pink and blue and yellow Easter rabbits in a local store. . . Clyde Emmert, AAA chairman, discussing land leases with a friend. . . Mrs. Jones Singley saying she was going to can plenty of vegetables this summer, even if she had to empty out some plums—mementos of a plum picking trip that nearly killed her—in order to get the jars.

Mrs. Harold Watkins bicycling with small daughter Cynthia sitting behind and holding tightly to her mother's belt, and enjoying the ride fine.

Marianna Shields and Jessie Hays walking in the warm sunshine. . . Mrs. Frank Anderson and daughter, Sue, others who were walking. . . Tommie Ann Campbell and Helen Joe Holder carrying home a jar of milk on Tommie Ann's bicycle.

Mary Peters with a slightly worried look as she thumbed through her First Aid text book just before class. . . Hubert Leach making a change box from a cigar box for Mrs. Jenny Holcomb at the City Hall.

New First Aid Class For Men Starts Soon

Two Red Cross first aid classes for men are now under way in Wellington, but since these are unable to care for those interested a third class in standard first aid will likely be started within the very near future, Russell Yates, teacher of one of the classes, said.

The new class will be for men, and all who are interested have been asked to contact Mr. Yates within the next few days. A new class in first aid for women will open in several weeks if there is sufficient demand, it has been announced. One class is now under way and is taught by the Sisters of St. Joseph's Hospital.

The classes for men include one in standard first aid, and the other is an advanced class, Mr. Yates pointed out. It is a continuation of the standard course and is made up almost entirely of practical training.

Men now enrolled in the standard course are Dr. J. C. Agee, Tom Abney, Glen Brickey, Roy Brinson, Wayne Cudd, Noel Cudd, Jr., James C. Cook, Bobo Castleberry, Harold Drummond, Jack Deaton, C. A. City Boys Charged With Theft Of Two Bicycles

Two Wellington boys were charged with the theft of two bicycles following their arrest late last week by Deputy Sheriff Chester Gunter.

The bicycles belonged to the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Hackler. Mr. Hackler met the two youths riding the bicycles on a city street, recognized the machines, and called the sheriff's department.

The boys will be tried in juvenile court here within the next few days.

Harold Blevins received medical treatment here Monday for a broken finger on his right hand. The accident occurred while Mr. Blevins was working on a tractor.

... Wonder what we're worth on the hoof?"

Just in case Joe doesn't know, it cost his country $211 to equip him. Multiply that by an army, and you have a tidy sum of money.

We ought to know. Over 2,400,000 Joes could be completely outfitted with the $510,000,000 which America's electric power companies paid in taxes last year.

That's considerably more than a million dollars a day!

We're glad our stake in Democracy is so large. The freedom America's fighting for is worth whatever it costs.

Even though our taxes have been going up, our rates have been going down. Today, the average household electric user gets about twice as much electricity for his money as he did 15 years ago.

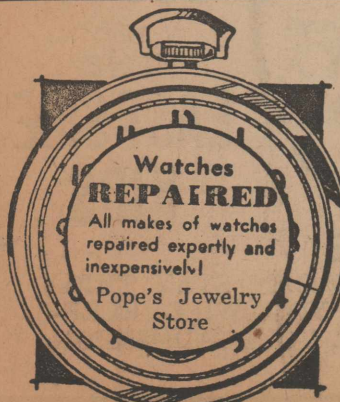

This record is directly due to the careful planning of the business men who manage the nation's electric companies.

They were prepared when the war emergency came. Prepared to power shipyards, arsenals and plane plants.

And they'll stay right on the job of making America POWERFUL until a couple of million Joes go back to civilian clothes again!

Army Deserter -

Collingsworth County man who requested the sheriff not to use his name. After calling Bell to come investigate the stranger's presence on a county road, the young man engaged Screws in conversation, and finding he was armed, offered to buy one pistol, and under this pretext, shot all the bullets from the Luger, and was examining the automatic when the sheriff arrived.

Sheriff Bell stated that Screws will likely be returned here after Pampa officers are through with him. Just what army officials will do has not been definitely learned.

remained for 10 years.

In both Navarro and Clay Counties, Mr. Leggitt taught in the public schools. In addition, he carried on farming activities.

In 1901, he, with his family, moved to Collingsworth County and settled in the Lake Creek community. This later became Plymouth and still later Samnorwood. Mr. Leggitt helped to organize the school there, and served as one of the trustees of the district.

Mr. Leggitt and his family moved to Wellington in 1917, and from that time on, they entered into the active life of this community. About 20 years ago, he was elected mayor of Wellington and served two terms. He had for a number of years served on the Fire Prevention Board.

Aside from his family, Mr. Leggitt's chief interest was in his church. He became a member of the Christian Church about 1886 in Clay County. He became associated with the church here, and when the new Christian Church building was planned, Mr. Leggitt took a leading part, and helped in many ways to make the plans a reality. He taught a Sunday school class in it for 23 years and during this time missed only three Sundays.

In 1918, he bought the Wellington Machine Shop, which he and his sons had continued to operate.

During the years he lived here, Mr. Leggitt had an ever-widening circle of friends. For the most part, his life was quietly spent, but his friends regarded him as a student of affairs and an authority on many things.

Surviving Mr. Leggitt are his widow, Mrs. J. E. Leggitt of Wellington, and these children: Miss Doris Leggitt of College Station, C. B. Leggitt of Canyon, R. E. Leggitt, C. R. Leggitt, and Bill Leggitt of Wellington, Mrs. Guss Gooch of Dozier, and Mrs. A. L. Kelly of Tucumcari. Eleven grandchildren also survive.
