BROWNWOOD, Feb. 19. (P)—H. A. (Lonne) Jones, about 40, died early today of poisoning, the third of a family of seven to succumb. A son, Hubert, 15, was in a critical condition today and three other members of the family were ill. An inquest was to be held some time today. The father, a teacher, was the last member of the family to become ill. He was stricken after he returned from the home of a neighbor, where he had gone to summon a doctor after Mrs. Jones and his five children became mysteriously sick shortly after eating breakfast.

Re-Districting Will Add Much to Needed Prestige of West Texas

West Texas is due, under the federal census of 1930, about 60 per cent more congressional and legislative representation than it now has. The law is that the re-districting be done promptly in order that the people may have the representation to which they are entitled.

In pointing out these facts here yesterday at the meeting of Panhandle of Texas, Inc., President J. A. Hill of West Texas Teachers college said that such re-districting was needed to enable this section to secure appropriations and legislation at Austin.

Re-districting would impress upon other sections the growth that West Texas is making. This is more vital than it may seem. The Panhandle is almost a mythical division of Texas, to those residents who think Fort Worth citizens are Yankees. There are others who resent efforts of West Texas to secure the share of state funds to which this region is entitled.

But re-districting would probably mean new elections for the officeholders, since the representative areas would be changed considerably. New elections would mean new campaigns, added expense, and not unlikely loss of seats to a few politicians who are not now as much in favor as they were when elected. Yet it is for the people that the laws are made and re-made—not the officeholders.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9. (NEA).—People with an appetite for atrocity stories can always get them from some part of the world and now they are getting them from Poland. The reports come from what seem to be reliable authority and are completely denied by Dictator Joseph Pilsudski's representative here, Polish Ambassador Tytus Filipowicz.

One trouble with atrocity stories is that, much as everyone likes to believe them, they are likely to be exaggerated.

The other trouble is that they are always officially denied, en toto, whether true, false or only partly true. If Mr. Filipowicz, for instance, were to admit that there had been any Polish atrocities against the Ukrainians in eastern Galicia, as is being widely charged, he presumably would be recalled to Warsaw, fired and incarcerated in Marshal Pilsudski's great big hoosegow at Brest Litovsk.

The Ukrainian members of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom recently asked their international office to send a commission of inquiry into Galicia to investigate terroristic methods used by the Polish cavalry and police against the Ukrainian minority.

Mary Sheepshanks, the international secretary, and Frau Oppenheim of Austria made the investigation and turned in a report which appears to reveal the most widespread campaign of atrocity perpetrated in many years. This began in October and continued up to the elections on Nov. 15. It was at about the same time that Pilsudski was throwing some of his most important political enemies into jail.

The women found populations terrorized and peasants and workmen still suffering from frightful beatings inflicted two months previously, but they were able to find witnesses who dared talk. By government command, they report, somewhere between 500 and 800 villages were raided by cavalry and police. Hundreds, and perhaps several thousand, were brutally flogged.

The general plan of attack was similar, they declare: Soldiers levied contributions from households, others forced villagers to wreck their community enterprises with bare hands and still other detachments rounded up the leading men of the village, stripped them and beat them with flails. When men became unconscious cold water was poured upon them and the beating was resumed, often with 200 or 300 blows per man so that the flesh was "horribly torn."

Boys and old men were beaten and their bones broken, according to Miss Sheepshanks and Frau Oppenheim. Bleeding and fainting victims were sometimes thrown into cellars and left for 24 hours without medical attention or water. Refusal of medical treatment "was one terrible feature of the whole procedure." Many cases of death and life-long injury from gangrene are alleged to have resulted.

Priests and school masters were usually among the victims in each town and in addition to the customary treatment as described "numerous cases of excess" of all kinds of cruelty are reported. Several doctors found dressing wounds were imprisoned. Women sometimes were beaten insensible and often victims were forced to shout "Vivi Pilsudski!" The Women's League has a long list of names, dates and places to back up the story. It also has a report on mistreatment of political prisoners under the Pilsudski regime.

But Ambassador Filipowicz says that the 5,000,000 Ukrainians in eastern Galicia are really very happy.

enjoying the benefits of the Polish system of local self-government and the Polish policy of treating racial minorities liberally. "The recent unrest" he attributes to a "terrorist organization directed and financed from abroad." He says there were nearly 150 incendiary attempts in southeastern Poland early in the fall and that the trouble became too large for local police to handle. The Polish government took only such measures as any civilized government would have taken, the ambassador says.

STERLING HAS NO TIME FOR CUPID'S WORK

AUSTIN, Feb. 10. (P).—Governor Ross S. Sterling has been invited to play international cupid.

A lonesome London, England, 1885 who professed much interest in motors and admiration for American friends has asked the governor of Texas to find her a mate—her object: Friendship.

To prove she was pretty she sent along her picture.

A sympathetic feminine secretary to the governor answered the London lass' letter to the effect that the governor had no time to operate a matrimonial bureau, nor a friendship postoffice.

WONT RAISE TOLLS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 10. (P).—The end of the long controversy over elimination of toll bridges across Red river near Denison, Gainesville and Terrell was seen today in a war department decision.

Lew Wentz, state highway commissioner, announced yesterday the department had upheld the contention of the commission in refusing to increase tolls on the bridges.

Gunmen Train Guns on Women —Two Are Killed

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 10. (P).—Two women were shot to death early today as three gunmen shot up a North Taylor avenue saloon.

The dead were identified as Besse Lyman, 30, and Dorothy Evans, 37. William Goebel, said by police to be a brother of the late Dewey Goebel, notorious gangster who was slain several months ago, was wounded critically and was expected to die.

Goebel's brother, Harry Goebel, bartender, said the three gunmen entered the saloon, shouting "stick 'em up." William Goebel and the two women, who were sitting in an end-room, were slow in obeying the command, and the three men started firing. A moment later they fled from the smoke-filled place.

DOG CATCHER IS BACK—AND HE IS FIERCE

The dog catcher is back in town. He is much more terrible than the one the city had last year, according to Chief J. I. Downs.

The dog catcher this year is rather young, still in his twenties. Last year, he was in his forties and he couldn't get around so quickly. The 1930 canine Nemesis wouldn't shoot on sight every dog he saw without a license tag. The new one will, says the chief.

Furthermore, the new one will go under the bed after untamed dogs, and the old one wouldn't. This year, the dog catcher has instructions to arrest any person who won't license any unlicensed and unvaccinated dog. A tag cost $1 and vaccination costs $2. The new catcher is entirely without mercy or sympathy. He would starve a dog, any kind of a dog—police, bull, shepherd—in the cold, dreary pound for a week and then he would shoot him between the eyes while the dog wagged his tail. That's how mean he is. If he found an untamed dog playing on the street with a little boy, he'd grab the dog by the hair on the neck and lug him to the pound. He has no more respect for a blue-blooded dog than he has for a mongrel. He hates all dogs.

In brief, now is the time to tag and vaccinate dogs, the chief announced.

Using six seed harvesters and two combines farmers of Jackson county, Mo., will save 5,000 bushels of irrigated seed during the year.

A bill to give St. Louis home rule in the management of its police department probably will be introduced within the next few days as a result of the action of the Republican City Committee of St. Louis.

A St. Louis woman who was granted a divorce, $500 a month alimony, $1000 at once, the house furnishings, and the car, claimed her husband called her "Shanty Irish."

A protest against dredging the Meramec River, entered in the war department by W. L. Hensley of St. Louis, says that the river should be used for pleasure rather than navigation.

Murder At Bridge

BEGIN HERE TODAY

QUANTA SELIM is murdered at her home four days later. SPRAGUE is also murdered during a bridge party at the TRACEY MILES' home. Police think both were killed by a New York gunman. To avenge the death of "SWALLOW-TAIL SAMMY" SVELL. "BOONIE" DUNDEE thinks the murders were committed by one of his people, guests in both homes at the time of the murders.

Nita banked $10,000 since her arrival in Hamilton, which the police think was her pay for double-crossing Savelli, and which Dundee thinks is blackmail. The possible case against FLORA MILES is strong. He reasons it this way: After paying blackmail to Nita, Flora paying blackmail to Nita, Flora, a note to Nita on Tracey's stationery, and thinks Nita has told her secret. In desperation, she shoots her, hides the gun on the secret shelf in the guests' closet, and returns to destroy the note. Finding it is from Sprague, she fails in her effort just before the body is discovered. Miles, who returns later to the Selim house to take Lydia, Nita's maid and heiress, home with him, has opportunity to remove the gun, if Flora has confessed her crime. He himself could have killed Sprague from the outside just after his guests leave if Sprague is threatening to expose Flora.

Dundee learns that Miles was rushed into the engagement by Flora, an intensely passionate girl, who coerced off her prospective suitors. Penny Crain assures Dundee he is on the wrong track. Arriving in New York, Dundee asks at the store where Nita bought the dress that was her shroud, for the date of sale.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI
The white-haired, smartly-dressed buyer accepted the sheet of photographs Bonnie Dundee was offering. "I'll do my best of course," she began briskly, then smiled and uttered a sharp exclamation as her eyes took in the topmost picture. "This is Juanita Leigh, isn't it?"

"But—" she stammered, "how odd she looks—as if—"

"Yes," Dundee agreed gravely. "She was dead when that picture was taken. Did you know Mrs. Selim?"

"No," the woman breathed, her eyes still bulging with horror. "But I've seen so many pictures of her in the papers. . . . To think that it was one of our dresses she chose for her shroud! But you want to know when the dress was sold, to her, don't you?" she asked, brisk again. "I can find out. We keep a record of all our French originals and of the number of copies made of each. . . . Let me think! I've been going to Paris myself for the firm for the last 15 years, but I can't remember buying this Pierre model. . . . Oh, of course! I didn't go over during 1917 and 1918, on account of the war, you know, but the big Paris designers managed to send us a limited number of very good models, and this must have been one of them. Otherwise, I'd remember buying it. . . . If you'll excuse me a moment."

When she returned about 10 minutes later, Miss Thomas brought him a penciled memorandum. "This Pierre model was imported in the summer of 1917, several months in advance of the winter season, of course. Only five copies were made—in different colors and materials, naturally, since we make a point of exclusiveness. The royal blue velvet copy was sold to Juanita Leigh in January, 1918. I am sorry I cannot give you the exact day of the month, but our records show the month only. I took the liberty of showing a picture of the dress to the only saleswoman in the department, who has been with us that long, but she cannot remember the sale. Twelve years is a long time, you know."

"Indeed it is," Dundee agreed regretfully. "You have been immensely helpful, however, Miss Thomas, and I thank you with all my heart."

"If you could just tell me—confidentially, of course," Miss Thomas whispered, "what sort of clue this dress is—"

"I don't know myself!" the detective admitted. "But," he added to himself, after he had escaped the buyer's natural curiosity, "I intend to find out!"

Before he could take any further steps along that particular path, however, Dundee had an appointment to keep. After arriving at his hotel that morning he had made two telephone calls. He smiled now as he recalled the surprise and glee of one of his former Yale classmates, now a discouraged young bond salesman, with whom he had kept in touch.

"You want to borrow my name and my kid sister?" Jimmy Randolph chortled. "Hop to it, old sport! But you might tell me what you want with such intimate belongings of mine?"

"You may not know it," Dundee had retorted, "but young Mr. James Wadley Randolph, Jr., son of the famous old Boston family, is going to visit that equally famous school, Forster-on-the-Hudson, to see if it is the ideal finishing school for his beloved sister, Barbara. . . . She's about 15 now, isn't she, Jimmy?"

"Going on 16, and one of Satan's prize hellions," Jimmy Randolph had answered. "And the family would be eternally grateful if you could get Forsythe to take her, but make them promise not to have any more chorus girls who plan to get murdered, as directors of their amateur theatricals. Bab would be sure to be mixed up in the mess. . . . I suppose that's the job you're on, you flat-footed dick, you!"

The second telephone call had secured an appointment at the Forster school for "Mr. James Wadley Randolph, Jr., of Boston," and Dundee, rather relishing his first need for such professional tactics, relaxed to enjoy the 10-mile drive along the Hudson.

It was a quarter to 12 when his taxi swept up the drive toward the big, gray-stone, turreted building, sedately lonely in the midst of its valuable acres.

"Miss Earle says to come to the office," a maid told him when he had given his name, and led him from the vast hall to a fairly large room, whose long windows looked upon a tennis court, and whose walls were almost covered with group pictures of graduating classes, photographs of amateur theatrical performances, and portrait studies of alumnae.

A very thin, sharp-faced woman of about 40, with red-rimmed eyes which peered nearsightedly, rose from an old-fashioned roll-top desk and came forward to greet him.

"I am Miss Earle, Miss Pendleton's private secretary," she told him, as he shook her thin, clammy hand. "I should have told you when you telephoned this morning that both Miss Pendleton and Miss Macon sailed for Europe yesterday."

We always have our commencement the last Tuesday in May, you know. . . . But if there is anything I can do for you—"

"I should like to know something at first hand of the history of the school, its—well, prestige, special advantages, curriculum, and so on," Dundee began deprecatingly.

"I should certainly be able to answer any question you may wish to ask, Mr. Randolph, since I have been with the school for 15 years," Miss Earle interrupted tartly.

"Then Forsythe must take younger pupils, than I had been led to believe," Miss Earle, Dundee said, with his most winning smile.

"I was never a pupil here," the secretary corrected him, but she thawed visibly. "Of course, I was a mere child when I finished business school, but I have been here 15 years—15 years of watching rich society girls dawdle away four or five years, just because they've got to be somewhere before they make their debut. . . . But I mustn't talk like that, or I'll give you a wrong impression, Mr. Randolph. Of my kind, it is really a very fine school—very exclusive; riding masters, dancing masters, a golf pro and our own golf course, native teachers for French, Italian, German and Spanish. . . . Oh, the school is all right, and will probably not suffer any loss of prestige on account of that dreadful murder out in the Middle West—"

"Murder?" Dundee echoed, as if he had no idea what she was talking about. "Haven't you been reading the papers?" Miss Earle rallied him, with a coquettish smile. "But I don't suppose Boston bothers with such sordid things," she added, her thin-lipped mouth tightening. "Miss Pendleton was all cut up about it, because Mrs. Selim, or Juanita Leigh, as she was known on Broadway, had directed our Easter play the last two years, and the reporters simply hounded us the first two days after she was murdered out in Hamilton, where a number of our richest girls have come from—"

"By Jove!" Dundee exclaimed. "Was the Selim woman connected with this school, really? . . . I only read the headlines—never pay much attention to murders in the papers—"

"I wish," Miss Earle interrupted tartly, fresh tears reddening her eyes, "that people wouldn't persist in referring to her as 'that Selim woman'." When I think how sweet and friendly she was, how—how kind!" and to Dundee's surprise she choked on tears before she could go on: "Of course I know it's dreadful for the school, and I ought not to talk about it, when you've just come to see about putting your sister into the school, but Nita was my friend, and it simply makes me wild—"

"You admired and liked her very much?" Dundee asked, forgetting his role for the moment.

"Yes, I did! And Miss Pendleton liked her too. And you can imagine how clever and popular she was, when a wonderful woman like Mrs. Peter Dunlap, who was Lois Morrow when she was in school here, admired her so much she took her to Hamilton with her to direct plays for a Little Theatre. . . . Why, I never met anyone I was so congenial with!" the secretary went on passionately. "The girls here snub me and make silly jokes about me behind my back and call me silet-names, but Nita was just as sweet to me as she was to anyone—even Miss Pendleton herself!"

"Were you with her much?" Dundee dared ask.

"With her much? . . . I should say I was!" she asserted proudly. "I have a room here, live here the year round, and both years Nita shared my room, so she would not have to make the long trip back to New York every night during the last week of rehearsals. We used to talk until two or three o'clock in the morning. . . . Say! She broke off in sudden terror. "You aren't a reporter are you?"

"A reporter? Good Lord, no!" Dundee denied, in all sincerity. Then he made up his mind swiftly. This woman hated the school and all connected with it, had grown more and more sour and envious every year of the 16 she had served there—and she liked Nita Leigh Selim better than anyone she had ever met. The opportunity for direct questioning was too miraculous to be ignored. So he changed his tone suddenly and said very earnestly: "No, I am not a reporter, Miss Earle. But I am not James Wadley Randolph, Jr. I am James F. Dundee, special investigator attached to the office of the district attorney of Hamilton, and I want you to help me solve the mystery of Mrs. Selim's murder."

It took nearly 10 precious minutes for Dundee to nurse the terrified but obviously thrilled woman over the shock, and to get her into the mood to answer his questions freely.

"But I shan't and can't tell you anything bad about Nita!" she protested vehemently, wiping her red-rimmed eyes. "The papers are all saying now that she got $10,000 for double-crossing some awful racketeer named 'Swallow-tail Sammy,' but I know she didn't get the money that way! She was too good—"

"From Nita's confidences to you, do you have any idea how she did get the money?" Dundee asked.

"I don't know, but she got it honorably, I know that! . . . Maybe she found her husband and made him pay alimony—"

Dundee controlled his excitement with difficulty. "Did she tell you all about her marriage and divorce?"

"Again Miss Earle shook her head. "The only time she ever spoke of it was last year—the first year she directed our play, you know. I asked her why she didn't get married again, and she said she couldn't—she wasn't divorced, because she didn't know where her husband was, and it was too expensive to go to Reno. . . . Of course she may have found him or something—and got a divorce sometime this last year, and this money she got was a settlement—"

"She must have got a divorce, since she was planning to be married again to a young man in Hamilton," Dundee assured her soothingly.

"The way everybody puts the very worst interpretation on everything, when a person gets murdered!" Miss Earle stormed. "If poor Nita had belonged to a rich family, like the girls here, they would have spent a million to hush up any scandal on her! . . . I've seen it done!" she added, darkly and venomously.

Big Bill and a Burro Open A New Campaign

Pampa Man Held Up and Robbed

Calvin T. Caughey, elderly Pampa resident, was robbed of an undetermined amount of money shortly after noon today when two hijackers held him up at pistol point.

He was tied up with wire but managed to get loose and to report the affair to Sheriff Lon Blansett, who with deputies immediately began an investigation. Mr. Caughey's wrists were lacerated when he ran into the sheriff's office.

Mr. Caughey lives at 200 Brown.

Adults Contract Children's Diseases

Adults can, and do, contract many children's diseases. And, usually, they suffer from them much more than children do. For instance, many adults contract worms, an ailment usually associated with children. Sometimes they suffer intensely and take expensive medical treatments, without realizing that worms are the cause of their troubles. Yes, the symptoms are the same as in children, loss of appetite and weight, grinding the teeth and restless sleep, itching of the nose and anus, and abdominal pains. And, the same medicine that surely and harmlessly expels round and pin worms from children will do the same for adults—White's Cream Vermifuge, which you can get at Fatheree Drug company—adv. 1.

Murray to Call Governors to Aid In Oil Solution

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 10. (P)—Governor Murray today sidetracked the reports of his special oil committee and asked the governors of Texas and California to join him in devising a workable system of oil conservation which might be adopted by all oil producing states.

Governor Murray asked the other two chief executives to study his proposed plans for dealing the ills of the industry and report to him next week at the latest.

It is understood at the capital that chief among Murray's suggestions is that the state conservation officer, or oil umpire, be named by the governor and be a state employee.

The governor has not revealed the details of the plan, but it was generally believed at the capitol he desires to have a conference with the two governors addressed and probably with governors of other oil producing states.

The governor is said by administration confidence men to favor a nation-wide program plan.

Under present practice in Oklahoma the state oil umpire is employed by the corporation commission but is paid by major oil producers. The same applies to the umpire for the Oklahoma City oil field.

Grace Harlowe Author Is Dead

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10. (P)—The author of the Grace Harlowe stories that have thrilled school girls for two decades is dead here at the age of 43.

After taking several dollars in change from their victim's pocketbook, the bandits left him in the bathroom and went into his son's room where they took clothes and a gun from a trunk. The father and son reported the hold-up at the sheriff's office.

HAL BRENNAN RAPS MELLON

PORT ARTHUR, Feb. 10. (P)—Hal Brennan, state commander of the American Legion, in an address to ex-service men here last night, denounced Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, as unfriendly to the men who fought in the World War.

Brennan preceded his criticism of the cabinet member with a tribute to former Pres. Woodrow Wilson, his praise for the war-time president and denunciation of Mr. Mellon having excited a demonstration of approval.

Commander Brennan, who is on a tour of the state, came here from Beaumont. He said there were 2,000 more paid-up members in Texas in the American Legion than there were on the same day last year. He said the national organization also had a membership increase over last year.

A. E. Lord, N. F. Stamper and C. H. Fitzgerald were elected delegates to the district convention to be held at Marshall Sunday.

Ben Renshaw, Emory Crockett, and Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Campbell, accompanied by Mrs. Ben Renshaw, will return tomorrow from Hennessey, Okla.

SAFETY

There is tremendous satisfaction in knowing that your life and your property are SAFE from the RAVAGES OF FIRE. Every fire costs more than all the insurance that you can place on a building. It is an evil day when the telephone rings out "Your Building is on Fire!"

We suggest that every property owner take advantage of the experiments and findings of the Underwriters' Laboratories. Resist fire by using approved materials and devices. So build that tomorrow you may enjoy the fruits of your labors of today!

To Entertain Girls
Girls of the graduating class, Pampa high school, are to be entertained in April. The nature of the event, however, is to be decided upon at next month's board meeting.

It was further voted to sponsor a spring dance for the benefit of the public library, the affair to be under the direction of the library committee.

Reports were heard from Miss Josephine Thomas of the membership committee, who stated that there were now 112 paid members in the organization. Mrs. Earl O'Keefe, chairman of the decoration committee, and Mrs. J. L. Van Pelt, treasurer, Mrs. Wilks was selected as a new member of the board.

Resolutions Adopted
Acting upon the recommendation of the past state board of directors, of record April 14, 1930, favoring a Texas Fellowship unit of the Million Dollar Fellowship fund, a group of suggestions, approved by the present board of directors and the Texas Fellowship committee, was adopted by the local board. Stated briefly, the recommendations are:

First, that the Texas division undertake a Texas unit, with an endowment goal of $40,000.

Second, that the name of the unit be known as the Helen Marr Kirby Fellowship.

Third, that the interest from the funds may be used to defray expenses of collecting the funds.

Fourth, that no quotas be assigned, but approximate allotments based upon the number of branch members be suggested by the State Fellowship committee and the Texas board of directors.

Fifth, that details of plans for raising the Texas unit be left to the State Fellowship committee and board of directors of the Texas division.

Texas formerly had been in a unit with Arkansas, Kansas, Missouri, and Oklahoma.

HATCHET BURIED BY WOMEN

Actual Funeral Is Gay Spectacle When Alice Longworth, Mrs. Gann Make Up

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—There was a funeral here last night at which the spectators, decorous ladies all, laughed loud and long. Even Alice Longworth and Mrs. Dolly Gann gave way to mirth.

A solemn cortege, wearing deep mourning was carrying a black casket to its resting place when the first giggles broke through the somber notes of a funeral dirge. The box was placed under a headstone bearing the simple epitaph:

"Hello Dolly! Hello Alice!"

It contained a hatchet—the hatchet, in fact. None other than the symbol of the capital's famous Gann-Longworth feud over social precedence. The funeral was conducted by the National Women's Press club. The two principals sat at the same table, guests of honor at the newspaperwoman's merry-making.

The epitaph celebrated the words with which the feud—which existed in the minds of all social Washingtonians even though the principals never admitted it—was proclaimed ended at a recent White House reception. Alice and Dolly met for the first time in ages at the center of the ball room.

"Hello, Dolly!"

"Hello, Alice!"

Of course, everybody heard, and word went forth that the controversy was no more.

Incidentally, Mrs. Gann came first on the guest list last night, but then it was alphabetical. The newspaperwomen gave Mrs. Longworth a silver wedding anniversary present. It was a framed photograph of the Roosevelt family on Alice's wedding day, Feb. 17, 1908, taken from old newspaper files.

Dorcas Class Has Business Session

Sentence prayers opened a meeting of the Dorcas Sunday school class, Central Baptist church, at 10 o'clock Monday afternoon. The president, Mrs. L. W. Hardcastle, presided.

Cards were mailed to absentees and plans were made to visit these members. Reports of committees also were heard, and the Standard of Excellence discussed.

Those present were Mesdames L. W. Hardcastle, L. H. Anderson, L. A. Satterwhite, D. L. Lunsford, and R. E. Stoner.

Rheumatism Gone; Is Like New Man

"I guess I suffered as much from rheumatism as anybody ever did," said O. A. Meinhardt, Texas & Pacific.

My joints would hurt me something awful and at times I would be stiff and sore all over. "Sargon went right after my troubles; these awful, sharp pains all through my body have been relieved and I feel stronger and better in every way. Since the first dose of Sargon Soft Mass Pills, the constipation I used to suffer with has been entirely overcome and I'm like a new man."

Attitude Taken By Lecturer Is Noted in Letter

The News-Post apparently struck a responsive chord among its women readers by its announcement yesterday that this newspaper has arranged to bring Nancy Earle to Pampa for a series of free talks on "charm, health, personality, and beauty," to be given in the city hall auditorium Feb. 24-27, inclusive.

The announcement that the News-Post is bringing to Pampa this famous woman whose "Charm Chats" have been appearing as a feature in the Morning Post was followed by scores of telephone calls commending this paper for this unusual service to the women of the community and inquiring for details about Nancy Earle and her Charm School.

The response during the last 24 hours leaves no doubt that Pampa women are interested in developing to the fullest degree those attributes of personality, health, and those many little "secrets" which, if properly employed, result in unusual attractiveness. The response likewise indicates that feminine Pampa intends to avail itself to the fullest extent of this splendid opportunity which the News-Post Charm School will afford.

Coinciding with these responses, the News-Post received from Nancy Earle a letter in which she writes: "It is with great delight, but with an even greater sense of responsibility that I am looking forward to the News-Post Health and Charm School in Pampa from Feb. 24-27."

"It will be a distinct pleasure to meet the women of Pampa and to have the opportunity of widening the circle of my friends from their ranks."

"My delight is predicated, too, on the assurance you have given me that nothing will be left undone by the newspaper to make the Charm School an outstanding success. May I begin thanking you now for your splendid cooperation?"

"As for my sense of responsibility," Nancy Earle continues, "this arises from my desire that every woman who attends even one of the talks may derive some substantial aid in her quest for more vigorous health, more alluring charm and a happier and more colorful life."

"Charm, you know, is not just a matter of well-powdered hair and subtle perfumes. It means, further, a full harmonious expression of oneself. And in this little phrase many needs, many desires, many problems are involved which require not only technical knowledge for their solution, but also a broad and penetrating understanding of this business of being a woman."

"I attempt so much, you see, in my efforts to elevate my listeners to a higher degree of self-realization in body, mind and spirit, and I know so well what these things may mean in the life of a woman, that I do approach each lecture with this earnest sense of responsibility."

To those who have not heard Nancy Earle this may sound somewhat frighteningly serious, although it should not to anyone who has read her "Charm Chats" in this newspaper and detected in them her happy and humorous views on life and the task of keeping oneself equipped for it. From observation by members of the News-Post staff at Charm Schools conducted by Nancy Earle in other cities, the assurance can be given that, far from being in the nature of a solemn lecture, they are gay affairs in which practical information for women seeking charm and happiness is brightly dispensed in an atmosphere of lively good cheer.

Nancy Earle's sprightly talks include every subject relating to woman's life, more interesting and to be more interesting to women, with a pleasant, entertaining hour, packed with practical and useful suggestions, is promised her listeners at the city hall auditorium each day of her visit in Pampa from Tuesday, Feb. 24, through the following Friday.

JAPANESE GARDENS ARE USED AS ATTRACTIVE DECORATIONS

BY MARGERY TAYLOR
Interior Decoration Editor, McCall's Magazine, Written For Pampa Daily News.

It is a small world these days, what with a miniature Japanese garden in the smart living room.

It may be only a coincidence that the year of fireside golf links should also be the year of table gardens, but the color of life of the decorative trays and dishes do real credit to our tastes.

Combining the charm of a Japanese pottery and the delight of a real garden, the new miniature offer innumerable variations.

In a space six by 10 inches or less you may have a landscape with living plants, such as a rock-bound coast with live trees, surmounted by a snow-capped mountain. Another form is built entirely of rocks and sand.

The most popular form is that which skillfully places in gardens like the other two, houses, temples, bridges, ponds with boats, people and such creations as turtles, frogs and cranes.

The Japanese are called masters of the art, but their decorations are usually far beyond the average purse as their symbolism is beyond our western comprehension.

But with a little patience and more skill, and still more taste, we can make our own satisfactory masterpieces, aided by a sympathetic florist.

In the bottom of a flat pottery dish, about four inches deep, put pebbles or bits of charcoal for drainage. Plan the garden as you would a real one, locating the stream, gravel paths, boulders and trees.

Your florist or nurseryman will help you select plants from a number of good possibilities, such as fir-tree seedlings, junipers, bamboo plant cradles, cactus or clematis. Plant in sifted soil, pack earth between the stones and sift grass seed on it. Be sure to keep the grass out and properly miniature.

For the figures and other accessories, a Japanese store or almost any good toy department will reveal interesting ideas. But the figures must not be too large and you should resist the temptation to crowd your garden.

More Than 300 Students Take Correspondence Work From Canyon

CANYON, Feb. 10.—The correspondence students of the West Texas State teachers college, numbering 311 on January 1 find that they get into very close touch with their instructors, even though their communication is by mail. Miss Frances Morris of Lindale, Texas, writes to her English teacher, "I enjoyed the course very much and want you to know how much I appreciate your comments on my lessons. I feel that this has been almost the same as taking resident work."

The students who do a part of their college work by mail from the Canyon college are scattered all over Texas, Arkansas, Alabama, Montana, New Mexico, California and other states. Twenty-seven different members of the faculty instruct these men and women who are using their spare time to study.

MENU for the FAMILY

BY SYBIE MARY
NEA Service Writer

Few housewives realize the possibilities of fish as a basis for broths and cream soups. Oyster stew is universally popular but, with the exception of women who live near the seacoast and are versed in the ways of varying fish dishes, seldom use other varieties of fish in soups.

Clam broth is easily digested and often appears on the invalid tray. It also makes an excellent first course for the mid-season dinner.

Scallops will be liked in a clear broth, chowder or cream soup. Cooked in this way, they are suitable for quite small children.

Fish chowders are almost a meal in and of themselves and compare favorably with a meat stew in nourishment.

There are many excellent brands of canned clam broth on the market and the busy housekeeper will find a valuable time saver. The following rule uses fresh clams and will serve four to six persons.

Clam Broth
Two dozen clams, 2 cups cold water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Wash clams thoroughly and scrub with a stiff brush, changing the water many times. Put in kettle with cold water, cover tightly and bring to the boiling point. Simmer until shells open. Cool in liquor and, when cool enough to handle, open and save juice that escapes. Trim off soft part of clam and save. Chop the tough part and simmer in the broth for 15 minutes. Strain through two thicknesses of cheesecloth. Add lemon juice and heat to serve. One tablespoon slightly salted whipped cream is often served on each cup of broth.

Clam and tomato bisque is a delicious rich cream soup suitable to serve for luncheon.

Scallop broth is a delicately flavored soup which gains nourishment by the addition of milk.

Scallop Broth
One pint scallops, 2 cups milk, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon lemon juice.

Wash scallops and cut in small pieces. Sprinkle with lemon juice, and let stand 15 minutes. Add water and bring to boiling point. Heat milk and add to hot scallop mixture. Add butter, salt and pepper and simmer just below the boiling point for 15 minutes. Strain and serve.

Cream of scallop soup is made entirely with milk and is very nourishing. One quart of scallops are

VALENTINE TO BE FEATURED AT PAMPA HIGH

Parents are invited to attend the Valentine program which will be given at the Pampa high school chapel period tomorrow morning under the direction of Miss Iva June Willis, music supervisor.

Seven loves will be represented as follows: Love of rhythm, shown by three little girls from Woodrow Wilson school; melody, "Merry Life," boys and girls glee clubs; sweetheart, "Song of Love," and "Blossom Time," Dick Benton and Ethel Chisum; mother, "Little Mother of Mine," Dorothy Doucette; home, "Home, Sweet Home," boys and girls glee clubs; country, Malcolm Carr; school, "Dear Old Pampa High."

SATIRES ARE POPULAR FOR VALENTINES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—Valentines tipped with venom are flooding the market this year.

The old comic has come back, but in more sophisticated, cynical guise. The 1931 comic valentine touches with broad satire current phases of life and human weaknesses.

The modern teacher gets hers; but she is no longer a sour-visaged "old maid" with ringlets, but a flapperish person who walks home from an auto ride.

The earnest suffragette is neatly nailed with this:

"You boast of women's suffrage. And what you'll do next fall. If your bridge meets on election day. You'll never show up at all."

The druggist gets a sarcastic "bawling out" for his sidelines, and wonder is expressed if he carries any drugs at all. He is pictured surrounded by toy trains and sandwiches.

Women are among the chief buyers of the returned "comics," dealers say. Whether it is the lure of the bargain prices or the desire to get even with somebody, dealers find it hard to say.

At any rate, women, young and old, bring the comic valentine and grab with glee the highly-colored bits of paper. The old fashioned lace valentines with their saccharine sentiments are left practically untouched on a nearby counter.

needed. One-half cup whole scallops are reserved and parboiled and the rest are chopped and simmered in milk with seasonings for half an hour. This mixture is strained and slightly thickened with butter and flour rubbed together. Then the parboiled scallops are added and when the soup is very hot it is served with crisp crackers.

Dirigible Back at Her Mooring Post

PANAMA CITY, Feb. 10. (AP)—The United States navy dirigible Los Angeles was back at her mooring mast on the Patoka, anchored off here, today after a 36-hour test cruise above Panama City and the isthmus.

Mooring was accomplished at 9:30 p. m. in darkness and with gusty air around the mast complicating the operation. After the long cruise the dirigible still had 10,000 pounds of fuel aboard. She will remain at the mast today taking aboard fuel and supplies which will be used in the naval maneuvers off the canal terminal here during the next few days.

AN AMERICAN IN PARIS

BY ADELAIDE KERR
PARIS. (AP)—The Latin Quarter, rendezvous for students for the last 500 years, is changing hue.

The picturesque old section south of the Seine, once the haunt of "maisons France, Edgar Allan Poe and artists whose canvases were the 'ilk of Europe, is thronged these days with boys and girls who talk instead of work.

The dome on the Avenue Montparnasse, founded 30 years ago by "Papa" Pierre Shambon as a little bistro where shabby painters might sip a glass of hot coffee for a few centimes, has expanded to half a block, blazing with electric lights.

Ambitions
It's crowded with Italians, Americans, Germans, Czechoslovakians—boys and girls who are "just going to write the novel of the year." They never do.

By night the quarter floods to a dozen small cafes, where seats are planks or upturned kegs, floors are stone, walls lined with colored bottles, to dance in a space eight feet square.

Jazz is the music, cubism the watchword, modernism the language. Hot-dogs and chile con carne are the favorite dishes.

The Latin Quarter, so named because all lessons at the Sorbonne originally were given in Latin to accommodate students who spoke a score of different languages, is becoming a tin-pan version of Greenwich Village.

Production Has Large Increase In United States

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 10. (AP)—Daily average crude oil production in the United States increased 28,594 barrels last week, totaling 2,107,664 barrels, says the Oil and Gas Journal's report.

Oklahoma was the pace-setter in the upward movement with a gain of 21,513 barrels that placed the state's output at 468,330. The Oklahoma shift, together with an increase of 4,765 barrels in Kansas, was responsible largely for boosting the mid-continent area's production 29,029 barrels to a total of 1,111,357. The Kansas figure was 108,985.

Eastern production was up 1,000 at 109,000 barrels. Rocky mountain production was 99,833 barrels, an increase of 4,186.

California had a gain of 1,290 with an average of 536,750.

Wealthy Ontario Man Jumps From Ocean Steamer

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 10. (AP)—James Cooper, 57, millionaire resident of Walkerville, Ont., jumped overboard in mid-ocean Sunday when prohibition came into effect. Then he transferred his activities to the border cities. He amassed a fortune estimated at from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 in the liquor business, while such activities were sanctioned under Canadian law, and retired several years before such exports to the United States were prohibited by the Canadian parliament.

The message said Mr. Cooper was last and his wife had been notified. The Deutschland is due to dock Thursday at Cherbourg, France, to which Cooper had booked a first class passage.

Oil Fire Quickly Put Under Control

OKLAHOMA CITY, Fe. 10. (AP)—Fire threatened the Oklahoma City oil field early today when the Cromwell Franklin No. 2 Trosper Park was ignited by a spark when the hailer was blown from the hole. The flash and detonation attracted attention all over the field.

Drillers shut in the well immediately, but not before the burning oil had ignited underbrush several hundred feet around the well.

The brush fire was brought under control quickly but the leaking connections of the well continued to burn for nearly an hour.

WOMEN ADEPT AT FENCING, OR SO IT IS SAID

NEW YORK, Feb. 10. (AP)—The male of the species may not like it but Joseph Smith, Hunter college fencing coach, says:

KANSAS FRATS "OFF" OF LIQUOR

LAWRENCE, Kans., Feb. 10. (AP)—University of Kansas fraternities have officially sworn off the use of liquor.

An investigation growing out of the arrest of two students, Edward Tate and George Tooley Jr., both of Kansas City, resulted last night in resolutions asserting "possession or transfer" of liquor would not be tolerated.

The resolutions were adopted by 35 fraternities, Roland Boynton, attorney general, left the investigation to university authorities.

Tate and Tooley face charges at Olathe, Kans., of possession and transportation of liquor. Officers said they carried whisky in suitcases.

HINDU LEADER SHOT TO DEATH

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Feb. 10. (AP)—The slayer of Nagina Ram Dhami, 26-year-old Hindu identified by police as "general secretary of the Indian National Congress of the Pacific Coast," was sought today.

Dhami was shot and killed on a downtown street last night by a man who fled in a motor car said by the police to be registered to Naren Singh of Marysville, Calif.

Clarence Morrill, chief of the state bureau of criminal identification said the slain man aided authorities in investigations of several recent cases in which Hindus were mysteriously slain or had disappeared.

Morrill's records also brought to light evidence that trouble between followers of Mahatma Gandhi and the British government in India may have had some connection with Hindu disturbances in California.

Tension on Cash Compensation Now Especially Strong

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—Tension was increasing in congress today over veterans' aid proposals, with the republican leaders doing their utmost to allay new controversy.

"They maintained that some plan—a 'safe and sane' one, in the words of Speaker Longworth—would be brought forth. All factions, including the numerous advocates of paying off compensation certificates at their face value, waited to see what the house ways and means committee could report. The general expectation was the group would recommend a $500,000,000 increase in loans against the certificates. This plan has received strong support, although the treasury has withheld endorsement.

But the full payment advocates in both branches were restive. Yesterday Senator Caraway, democrat, Arkansas, threatened to have his bill taken away from the finance committee unless it voted upon it by next Tuesday. Senator Couzens, republican, Michigan, served notice he would not aid in getting the necessary appropriation bills passed if there were any "jockeying" to prevent action on the compensation bills.

Several members of the house criticized the loan proposal. Secretary Mellon, who is opposed to paying off the certificates at this time and John Thomas Taylor, legislative representative of the American Legion, who was charged by some with blocking cash payment efforts.

COTTON OPENS FIRMLY

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10. (AP)—Cotton had a firm opening in sympathy with better Liverpool cables than due. First traders showed gains of 5 to 12 points. While the market eased off a point or two after the start, it soon rallied again owing to bullish private cables stating that the continent and Bombay were buying and also on the action of congress in granting an additional $100,000,000 to the farm board. May advanced to 11.03 and October to 11.52, or 13 to 14 points above yesterday's close.

At the end of the first hour, the market was steady and near the highs.

GRAINS DOWNWARD

CHICAGO, Feb. 10. (AP)—Profit taking on price bulges turned grain downward early today after fresh upturns. Initial advances were influenced by a record jump in Liverpool wheat quotations and by stock market buoyancy.

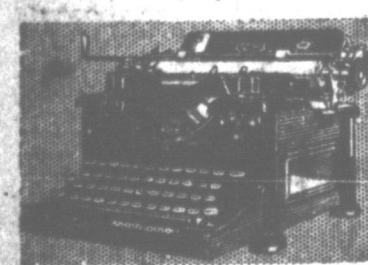

Opening unchanged to 3-8 cents higher, wheat afterward underwent setbacks to well below yesterday's finish. Corn also started unchanged to 3-8c up and subsequently showed losses all around.

HAVE OIL CONFERENCE

PORT WORTH, Feb. 10. (AP)—Purchasers of crude oil in the Wichita Falls district were in conference here today attempting to adjust inequalities of pipeline runs from the territory.

Under present conditions some pipeline companies are running 30 per cent of potential yield from leases to which they are connected, others are running 35 to 40 per cent and at least two pipeline companies have reduced their purchases to 25 per cent of potential.

Existing inequalities are being adjusted by exchanges of oil where possible and indications through early stages of the conference indicate a general average of between 35 and 40 per cent of potential will be handled from all leases in the near future.

The district under consideration consists of Montague, Cooke, Wilbarger, Wichita, Archer and the north half of Young counties. Total potential is approximately 77,000 barrels daily and about 53,000 barrels daily is being marketed.

witnesses in an endeavor to prove the existence of a quarrel between Hefner and Crabtree. Other witnesses told stories intended to show that purported eyewitnesses to the affray could not have seen it from the road nearby.

The defendant said the fight began when Crabtree was found riding Hefner's horse. Hefner, he said, ordered Crabtree to unsaddle the horse and the latter refused. When Hefner unsaddled the animal, the defendant testified, Crabtree attacked him. Thompson said Hefner twice knocked his opponent down and that Crabtree then drew a knife. Hefner knocked him down again, the defendant said, and then began slapping on Crabtree.

Thompson swore that he took no part in the fight except to pull Hefner away when he began slapping on Crabtree. He said he had to pull Hefner away twice and then both men put Crabtree in Thompson's car. Thompson said that he left to find an office and that when he returned Crabtree was in a worse condition, as if Hefner had again attacked him during Thompson's absence.

More than 7,000 research projects are under way at the experimental stations of the department of agriculture.

Will and Betty Back in Arkansas

ROGERS, Ark., Feb. 10. (AP)—Will and Betty dropped in on the home folks to help out a mite until the crops get to growing right again. Some 20 years ago Will Rogers traveled over here from Oklahoma to court Betty Blake, but today the return of Mr. and Mrs. Will Rogers was prompted by humanitarian impulses.

Rogers was back to help out the drought sufferers, and in the role of "Robin Hood of the Southwest" he extemporized for the neighbors in the interest of drought relief.

Mrs. Rogers who motored over from Tulsa, Okla., took advantage of the occasion to visit girlhood friends while her husband directed his humorous shafts from the platform.

It was a gala occasion and there were many on hand who "knew the Rogers when".

The return of the sagebrush Romeo to the scene of early romances was his second recent appearance in Arkansas.

Several weeks ago he bumped over dusty county roads in central Arkansas to see personally many of the drought weary farmers.

Tonight he appeared at Fort Smith, his third performance today. From Fort Smith he goes to central Arkansas and Wednesday winds up his tour at Little Rock.

Twelve Arrested In Labor Trouble

BOSTON, Feb. 10. (AP)—Twelve persons, including two women and two clergymen, were arrested when police dispersed an unemployment demonstration of communists on Boston Common today. One of the clergymen, the Rev. Robert A. Brakenham, former mayor of Peabody, was knocked down by the horse of a mounted policeman but was uninjured.

The other clergyman was the Rev. Smith O. Dexter, rector of Trinity Episcopal church in Concord. The two had protested the right of mounted officers to force them to move from the cross walks of the Common. They said they had not taken part in the demonstration and had created no disturbance. Rev. Brakenham was upset into a snow bank when one of the horses swerved. They were induced to leave the common, but later were arrested when they became involved in a discussion with other officers outside.

sioners yesterday, T. A. Landers, Mr. Bentley, and W. E. Bogan, all of McLean, spoke in favor of the bond issue and urged the court to call the election.

The county-wide issue will be voted upon 30 days before the date set for the three-precinct plan election. If the county plan is approved by two-thirds of those who vote in the election, the second election will not be held.

The larger issue has the enthusiastic endorsement of the Pampa and McLean chambers of commerce, the local B. C. D., and practically all citizens of the county who favor issuance of road bonds to pave roads. The road district No. 5 election, set for April 4, was called by local citizens for protection if the county-wide plan should lose at the polls.
