Fire-Bombs Showered On Heart Of Berlin

Bid Reaction Given Raiders Over London

Storm Of Bullets Reports Explosions Of Many Bombers

British RAF warplanes showered fire bombs around Berlin's Tiergarten—the German capital's "Central park"—in a 25-minute raid before dawn today and pounded the great shipping ports of Hamburg and Bremen in an intensified assault on Hitler's reich.

The Tiergarten lies near the Wilhelmstrasse, where German government buildings and Hitler's own chancellery are situated.

Dispatches reported that RAF raiders also bombed the Anhalter railway station in central Berlin, and the big Templehof airdrome.

Many fires resulted.

Berlin's high command admitted 16 persons were killed, 41 injured and many fires started in the three cities attacked.

Emotion-weary millions underwent their fifth straight dusk-to-dawn attack, creeping again in the dark, supplanted ghost of underground shelters, but the populace found a reassuring note of comfort in the steady drone of "arsenals"—anti-aircraft guns—belching up a screen of fire against the raiders.

The new London defense tactic of throwing up a rapid-fire "curtain-of-nine-shell" barrage, instead of sniping singly at individual planes picked out by searchlights, was officially credited with having greatly impeded the German assault.

Reuters Reports Up

"It must have struck terror into the hearts of Nazi airmen," said one neutral British press authority.

"Time after time, it broke up large formations of bombers and either brought them down or turned them back."

Only 20 bombs exploded in central London, in contrast to many hundreds in previous night raids.

The cool weather hung on in Texas today, temperatures as low as 43 degrees in the middle of the state but showing signs of weakening in the north.

Dawn temperatures as low as 43 and other temperatures in that neighborhood were reported at Livingston and Bridgeport, with 44, Mt. Pleasant with 45, Graham and Greenville with 46, Bluehill, Taylor and Longview with 47, Brady, Lubbock and Tyler with 49 and Dallas and Brownwood with 50.

Fort Worth, with 54 had the lowest temperature for Sept. 12 since 1902, Cisco had 53.

The weather bureau in Dallas said a high pressure area extending from the mid-continent to the gulf was keeping temperatures low and showing no signs of its grip slowly. By Sunday it would seem like summer again, it said.

OUR COUNTRY

We Must Determine To Do Utmost To Keep American Idea Alive--Louis Adamic

Fourth of 26 articles on "Our Country," written exclusively for NEA Service and Lubbock Evening Journal by the nation's most famous authors.

BY LOUIS ADAMIC
Author of "The Native's Return," "My America," "From Many Lands," etc.

IN the current world crisis, the United States will scarcely be worth defending as a place and a sovereign state unless we as a people and a Government also determine to do our utmost, immediately and in the long run, to keep alive and enhance the American idea.

To me the United States is more an idea than anything else. And by the American idea I mean the body of ideals and practices which different people have labelled variously; democracy, equality, general welfare, liberty, the pursuit of happiness, the American Dream, the Promise of America, the American Way.

I mean the thoughts, emotions and doings of people on this continent that run like a clear stream through our history from Plymouth Rock to Ellis Island, and that aimed for a better life than seemed possible anywhere else on earth.

Louis Adamic

I MEAN the Mayflower Concordant, the Declaration of Independence, the Gettysburg Address, and the tears in the eyes of millions of immigrants from more than a score of countries during the last 50 years as they passed the Statue of Liberty, on whose pedestal are struck these words:

Give me your tired, your poor,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
Send these, the homeless, the tempest-tost to me:
I lift my lamp beside the golden door.

There will be danger, I fear, in this period of stress that Americanism will be defined and interpreted too narrowly by the elements in our population which by virtue of their numbers and priority largely dominate the life of the United States.

The danger will be that the idea of Americanism will become again, as it was during the first World War, too insistently nationalistic from the viewpoint of the no-longer-true idea that the United States is preponderantly an extension of the British Isles and the Anglo-Saxon tradition.

Such nationalistic Anglo-Americanism will not be all-inclusive. It will leave out tens of millions of immigrants and their American-born sons and daughters who are not of the Anglo-Saxon strain, but who come or stem from central Europe, Scandinavia, Italy, Poland, the Balkans, the Near and Far East, Mexico, and Africa. And leaving them out, it is apt to weaken their current eagerness to add their energies to the defense effort.

AMERICANISM must be stated or re-stated so it will be all-inclusive, as something that is the monopoly of no one strain in this country, but a happy concentration of some of the best aspirations and tendencies of humanity at its best nearly everywhere at one time or another.

Americanism, as I see it, is a movement away from primitive racism, fear and nationalism, herd instincts and mentality and superiority and snobbery; a movement toward fredom, creativeness, a universal or pan-human culture.

A comparison of the two Americas of today is made by Mary Roberts Rinehart in the next article of this series on "Our Country."

City Beer Joints To Be Padlocked

Judge E. L. Pitts of 99th district court this morning signed judgments ordering padlocking of several places named recently in permanent injunctions restraining the sale of liquors.

His orders directed the district clerk to issue orders to the sheriff's department calling for padlocking "for the period of one year or until such time as the defendants or either of them, shall post bond in the penal sum of $1,000, conditioned as required by law and that they . . . will not violate the liquor laws of the state of Texas on such premises and that they . . . will pay all fines and costs adjudged against them, said bond to be approved by the court."

Defendants Pay Costs

The judgments, prepared by the attorney general's department, which represented the state liquor control board in recent hearings here, further ordered that each "room, house or building together with any and all other outhouses located and situated on the premises . . . and any and all outhouses and other houses used in connection herewith . . ." would figure in the padlock order.

And it was ordered that all costs of the suits would be taxed against defendants to the actions.

The defendants, described in the orders as having been found guilty of operating a nuisance:

The entries are several days earlier than for the fair last year, officials of the association said.

Cigarets Are Stolen Here

Cigarets valued at $46.40 were stolen Wednesday night from a parked automobile belonging to David Nolte.

Nolte said 30 cartons were taken. His car was parked in 1800-block Avenue Q.

Glass on the car indicated someone had pried his way into the closed car. A small screwdriver was found abandoned by the thief.

Purse Is Lost

Judge R. McInturf of Plains reported to police he had lost his purse containing a total of $379 in 1000- or 1100-block Broadway.

He said he had $100 cash, a check for $129 and another check for $150 which was endorsed, in his billfold.

Mrs. G. C. Brewer, wife of the minister of Broadway Church of Christ, reported someone had stolen a dress from her car parked at Twenty-sixth street and Avenue T.

Bicycle Is Stolen

A bicycle was stolen from Sammie Tate of 1501 College avenue.

A woman called police and said a man had stretched a wire across the sidewalk of his residence in 2700-block Twenty-fourth street and that she "almost killed myself" when she tripped over it.

A girl's bicycle was recovered by police.

Seven persons were arrested by rangers and police and taken to county authorities for filing of gambling charges.

Tide Next Week To Favor An Invasion

LONDON, Sept. 12 (AP)—The tide will be in Adolf Hitler's favor for several days running next week if he should decide to try to invade England.

Authoritative sources, basing their predictions on the nautical almanac, said the highest tide for the period is scheduled for 1:03 p. m. Wednesday, Sept. 18. Wednesday's high tide at Dover is expected to reach 18 feet, 6 inches, compared with a low of 14 feet.

The difference, these sources remarked, would enable some boats to get perhaps a quarter of a mile closer to shore.

Willkie Again Hurls Charge At President

Claims Roosevelt Preaching Class Conscious Idea

BY WALTER H. LAWRENCE
United Press Staff Correspondent

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Sept. 12.—Wendell L. Willkie today accused President Roosevelt of preaching "class conscious and economic sabotage doctrine" and asserted that "the United States can not but fail in the present world struggle under such leadership."

He declared that "the kindest words which can be applied" to Mr. Roosevelt's speech before the teamsters union in Washington last night are that "he does not understand the laws of economics, government finance or the forces at work in the world today."

Statement Is Issued

He issued the following statement:

"I have never felt so encouraged about the outcome of the election as I did after listening to Mr. Roosevelt's speech last night. If the American people have any sense of realism of the condition of the world in which they are living they will reject overwhelmingly a president who preaches such class conscious and economic sabotage doctrine as was preached night. The kindest words which can be applied to the president's speech are that he does not understand the laws of economics, government finance or the forces at work in the world today.

"The United States can not but fail in the present world struggle under such leadership—it is the same doctrine which Blum of France taught.

Clumsy Handling Charged

"In addition, the crass repudiation by the president in his acceptance speech of the foreign relations plank of the platform adopted by his self-controlled convention at Chicago and his momentary readoption of that same foreign relations plank last night must be distressing to all lovers of candor and forth-

Staying In Bed Tomorrow? It Might Prove Good Idea

By ROBERT E. GEIGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Tomorrow is Friday the Thirteenth.

Some people are so superstitious about it they won't get out of their beds, and maybe it's just as well. If they did, there would be a good chance something would happen to them. Science says so.

"Science doesn't take any stock in superstitions," says Dr. Lawrence W. Miller of the University of Denver, a psychologist well versed in the reasons behind human behavior.

Well To Stay In Bed

"Nevertheless, if you are desperately fearful something is going to happen to you on Friday the Thirteenth, it is well to stay in bed.

"You may be so upset you'll be off your guard or you may concentrate so deeply on one fear that your alertness to other dangers will be diminished.

"Something entirely different from what you had expected and planned a defense against may happen and take you unawares. Thus trouble catches up with you on Friday the Thirteenth."

Some superstitions, according to Dr. Miller, are good for people.

"There were superstitions about crime, adultery and property rights in olden times," says Dr. Miller. "For instance, the ghost of the victim was supposed to inhabit a murderer's soul and torment it.

"Such beliefs tended to restrain murderous or criminal inclinations at a time when there were neither laws nor policemen."

Only A Guess

Many superstitions are dated so far in antiquity nothing authentic is known of their origin. It's only a guess how many modern ones were started.

Double Trouble

For the superstitious there's a double dose of ill luck on Friday the Thirteenth. Both Friday and 13 are associated with the goddess of trouble.

Friday probably became an omen of death because of its association with the crucifixion.

The numeral 13 probably first became a similar omen because of the thirteen people, Christ and the 12 apostles, seated at the last supper.

"Some students say the common superstition that it is bad luck to light three on a match had its origin in recent wars," says Dr. Miller.

"If a soldier lighted his cigaret and kept the match burning long enough for two or more other men to get a light, enemy sharpshooters had time to take careful aim and fire upon the match holder."

People who knock on wood to keep ill luck from intruding, usually after they have made a boast, are observing a ritual that once was a religious one.

"In ancient times pious peoples touched a wooden cross as a form of supplication," says Dr. Miller.

"It was a prayer. They believed the cross cast a spell of good fortune about them. And so knocking on wood became an invitation to good luck."

The horseshoe probably is a sign of good luck because the horse has been a friend of man, Dr. Miller says.

Other things, like four-leaf clovers, are good luck symbols because a series of coincidences probably occurred in which a person had good luck immediately after he found or otherwise had some association with, a four-leaf clover or other object.

From Days Of Black Magic

Similarly cats and witches are symbols of ill luck. Incidentally, says Dr. Miller, the black cat superstition dates back to the age of black magic when darkness was a symbol of eerie things. People looked askance at anything black.

In one state a recent study disclosed 4,000 superstitions held by various citizens.

SOLDIERS demonstrate how the "three-on-a-match" superstition originated. A match that burned long enough for three lights gave enemy snipers a good target.

GIRLS depict origin of superstition about knocking on wood. In ancient times people touched a wooden cross to drive off evil spirits. Now we touch wood for good luck.

Young Killers Are Believed Trapped

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Sept. 12 — Picked men armed to the teeth trailed bloodhounds into Red river county on a tip that two young desperadoes suspected of the kidnap-slaying of a deputy sheriff were trapped near the Texas-Oklahoma border.

The manhunters included Texas rangers, highway patrolmen of Texas and Oklahoma. Red river and Hunt county deputies plus Greenville and Paris city police.

Flag At Halfmast

The flag atop the Lamar county courthouse flew at halfmast today in memory of the slain deputy, George Robertson. His friends last saw him alive when he got in a car with the two suspects to take them to headquarters. Apparently the men overpowered Robertson and drove out of the city.

The body of the officer, shot three times, slashed about the throat and beaten, was found last night near Powderly, Tex., ten miles north of here.

Found In Car

M. C. Sanders, Paris merchant who was a member of a posse of 30 men, discovered the body in an automobile that had been driven off the road into a thicket four miles east of the town.

The automobile was stolen in Livingston, Tex., and was identified as one figuring in a Huntsville robbery Sept. 4.

T. R. Fowler, Jr., 20 of Willis and Buddy Acker of Oakhurst, about the same age, were charged with robbery with firearms after their pictures were identified by J. E. Raynor, Huntsville service station man as those of two youths who robbed him of $75. Both are ex-convicts.

Abducted Tuesday

Robertson was abducted Tuesday after he and Sheriff J. H. Ratliff arrested two young men as they tried to sell a tire and wheel at a service station here. Robertson left the sheriff's car and got into the

Golfer Must Go On Trial To Prove He Shot Hole-In-One

(By The Associated Press)

MADISONVILLE, Sept. 12—It's hard enough to shoot a hole-in-one at anytime, but think of Pete Padgett, who has to go on trial tomorrow to prove he did it.

The trial—there will be an admission charge—comes off tomorrow night before judge, three lawyers and a 30-man jury composed of Madisonville golfers. The citizenry hangs on the verdict:: did Pete shoot a hole-in-one or didn't he?

Padgett counted on four witnesses to his asserted feat, accomplished a few days ago, but two of them later decided maybe it wasn't a one-shotter after all.

Golfers wrote letters to the Madisonville Meteor about the argument, pointing out the fine distinctions of a hole-in-one. The paper suggested a public hearing.

Agreeing, Padgett engaged an attorney. The opposition obtained two for their side.

The chief winner will be the Madisonville high school athletic fund, into which the proceeds of the trial will be poured.

Two Welders Dead In Pipeline Blast

BAIRD, Sept. 12 (U.P.)—Two welders were killed today by the explosion of an oil pipeline on which they were working six miles east of here.

The dead, both young men, were D. B. Henderson of Sweetwater and Hugh McMahon of North Zulch, Madison county. Several other members of the welding crew, including E. B. Henderson, father of the Sweetwater victim, were uninjured.

Henderson died within a few minutes after the blast, and McMahon succumbed to his burns soon after he arrived at a Ranger hospital. The two men were employed by a Corpus Christi firm which had a contract for work on the Gulf company pipeline.

Several Dead And Over 200 Others Hurt

Hospitals Filled; $2,000,000 Loss First Estimate

(By The Associated Press)

DOVER, N. J., Sept. 12.—Two terrific explosions in quick succession this afternoon at the Hercules Powder company's plant at Kenvil near here killed an undetermined number of persons, injured more than 200, and started fires that caused eight lesser blasts.

The first explosions shook houses, shattered windows in nearby communities and were felt more than 100 miles away.

Bodies Hauled Out

State police reported to their headquarters at Trenton that they saw "eight or ten bodies hauled out of the plant ruins."

Scores of ambulances and police cars rushed the injured to hospitals in Dover, Newton, Morristown, Newark and Montclair.

The Dover hospital was filled to capacity with the first injured to be taken from the scene.

The fires handicaped rescue efforts and prevented police and firemen from determining the number of persons killed.

Dynamite In Path Of Fire

Two buildings containing dynamite were in the path of flames.

A plant official said the first explosion occurred in the solvent recovery house of the smokeless powder manufacturing lines. The recovery house was recently completed at a cost of $500,000 to handle defense orders.

Early estimates placed the total damage at more than $2,000,000.

No buildings in Kenvil, population 900 and about a mile from the plant, were wrecked, although many plate glass windows were shattered on the main street.

Kenvil is 30 miles northwest of New York City metropolitan area.

Women Are Hysterical

All available ambulances, doctors and nurses in north Jersey towns were called into service. Fire fighting apparatus not needed at the plant were stripped of hose and pressed into service to haul the injured to hospitals.

Many women, apparently relatives of plant workers, became hysterical in Kenvil and at Dover hospital.

Traffic snarls added to the confusion and hampered rescue efforts until more than a score of state police officers arrived to take com-

Ultimate Winner Of War May Be Chosen Before Many More Days

Nazi Bombings To Be Pushed

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Should Herr Hitler make good his threat to dump ten thousand airplane loads of bombs on London every twenty-four hours, and follow this rain of death by the invasion he has prepared, we probably shall be able to pick the ultimate winner of the war before many days have passed.

On the eve of his proposed mass killing and destruction from the air there are so many vital factors in doubt that he would be a fool-hardy man who tried to predict the outcome, despite the Nazi superiority of military power.

This war is nobody's pigeon yet.

Respite Is Promised

Obviously the Germans might achieve a quick knockout. On the other hand, if the British can take the punishment and throw back perhaps the most powerful attack of history, then they can look with a considerable degree of confidence towards the respite that the bad weather should bring by the end of the month.

Many observers believe that Hitler is going to win or lose this war within the immediate future. To my mind he will indeed be lucky if he gets another chance after the present historic occasion.

British Premier Churchill yesterday in warning his people of the storm to come spoke a great truth when he said that for the Nazis to attempt invasion without gaining mastery of the air (which they have been unable to achieve thus far), would be "a very hazardous undertaking."

That is one of Hitler's reasons for intensifying his aerial attack on London—to pave the way for the landing of a host of soldiers. It is hard to believe that the Germans could dictate to England from the air alone.

Morale Main Objective

Hitler's main objective is the morale of the civilian population. If he can smash that he will make a mighty stride towards victory. I have referred to this more than once before, but it is so important—so vital—that I feel justified in returning to the subject.

All indications are that the British are facing with determination this test which means life or death to their empire, and will mean the end of life for many individuals.

But with all this, you and I must recognize that there is a point beyond which sheer bravery fails to function. There may come a time, under such hellish punishment as mass bombing involves, body and mind cannot stand the shock. No amount of courage can overcome this.

This battle isn't going to turn on British bravery. Everybody knows their courage is supreme, and the Germans have complimented them on it in this war. The outcome will depend in no small degree on how much more those raw and bleeding civilian nerves can stand without robbing the people of will power.

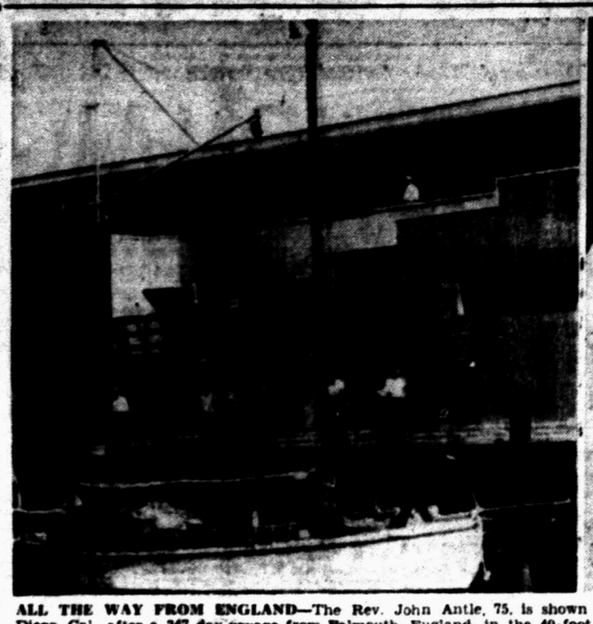

Refusal To Review Convictions Asked

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (U.P.) — The government today urged the supreme court to refuse to review the conviction of four Louisiana individuals on mail fraud charges resulting from political scandals in that state.

The four were Monte E. Hart, J. Emory Adams, Seymour Weiss and Louis C. Lesage. The fifth circuit court of appeals upheld their conviction.

Hart committed suicide last week and the government noted that charges against him thereby may become mute. The government's answer to the group's request for review had been prepared before news of Hart's death was received.

The four convicted, together with former Louisiana State University President James Monroe Smith, of causing the mails to be used in connection with a scheme to defraud the university of $75,000 by causing it to buy twice the furnishings of a certain hotel.

Harum-Scarum Girl That Was Ann Miller Is Done; She Has Changed--And How!

BY ROBBIN COONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 12—A statuesque brunette walked into a producer's office, where they were testing.

The producer gave instructions, then asked, "By the way, what's your name?"

"Ann Miller," she said, startled. A girl expects the man who gave her her first job to remember her name.

Harum-Scarum Girl Gone

"Miller," mused the producer. "Hm-m-m. . . . What did you say? Did you say Ann Miller! Well, I'll be. . . !"

The producer—Pandro S. Berman—wasn't the only one who didn't know little Annie when she came back after a triumphal whirl on Broadway in "George White's Scandals."

The harum-scarum girl was gone. In her place is an exotic beauty, with a new sophisticated hair-do, a new poise, a new ambition.

Five Studio Bids

Ann got five studio bids the opening night of the "Scandals." (She had left Hollywood because the opportunities weren't coming her way.) She's working now at the studio which had her under contract before—for five times her old salary.

Ann got into pictures the first time from a San Francisco night club. She had a good part with Ginger Rogers in "Stage Door" and her comedy dance in "You Can't Take It With You" was a hit. Then came her role with the Marxes in "Room Service," and the jinx on the picture seemed to jinx her, too.

"So I went to New York, just for the experience," she says. "Now I really want to be a dramatic actress. If you're a dancer, your days as a big name—even if you get to be a big name—are few. As an actress though, you can keep right on."

The Texas Game department reports that one Panhandle range, in the supposedly very dry belt, harvested 600 muskrat pelts last year.

Farm Poverty Is Discussed

COLLEGE STATION, Sept. 12 (AP) —The state conference of Farm Security administration workers inquired into causes of poverty on the farm yesterday and concluded that none of them presented insurmountable difficulties to farmers who raised their living on their own farms.

Earl B. Patterson, San Antonio district supervisor, said the excuse he heard impoverished farmers most frequently give for their condition is that they have too little land.

"We have more tillable land now than we ever will have again," he stated, "and we can't allow this excuse to stand in our way. Via intensive methods of farming, raising their own living, marketing crops through livestock, etc., we can make a small farm do the work of a larger one."

Can Increase Fertility

Charles Richter, district supervisor in Northeast Texas, stated that poor land can no longer be accepted as an excuse, for "by proper use of soil-building crops and animals, the fertility of the land can be greatly increased at the same time the family is raising its own living."

Temple J. Duderstadt, San Angelo, expressed the opinion that more realistic planning of farm operations, so that every member of the family would have a productive job on the farm every day in the year, would remove many farmers from the low-income group.

The annual conference enters its final day today. Attending are some 1,000 workers from every farming and ranching county in Texas.

Divorce Trial Being Staged

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12 (AP) — Testimony that their first child was born out of wedlock as a result of a clandestine romance conducted while he was still married to another woman was presented today by Paul Portanova, Italian actor, in trial of his divorce suit against Lillie Cullen Portanova, Texas oil heiress.

Portanova also testified that his father-in-law, H. R. Cullen, wealthy Houston oil man, "cleared the way" for his marriage to the heiress by establishing a trust fund for Portanova's first wife, from whom he later obtained an uncontested divorce.

Tries To Refute

In the litigation, the actor seeks custody of their two children and $400 a month child support from his wealthy and pretty wife, who has countered with a suit for divorce and exclusive custody of their sons, Enrico, 7, and Ugo, 4.

Portanova sought to refute his wife's earlier testimony that they first flirted and met in 1931, without introduction, on a Hollywood street and fell in love "at first sight." He said their romance blossomed only after she waged an extended "love campaign" against him, including a virtual "picketing" of the home where he then lived with his first wife.

Thought She'd Understand

The actor said he later began association with the heiress after she had written him "torrid" poetry and love missives and that one day she told him:

"I am going to have your child!"

"I was shocked," Portanova declared, "but I told her, 'Now you are my wife, since you have my child.' I said, 'I think my first wife will understand and I will obtain a divorce.'"

Portanova testified that Cullen, his then prospective father-in-law, came here from Texas and established a $160 a month trust fund for the first Mrs. Portanova from whom he later obtained an uncontested divorce in Reno.

Loans To American Nations Approved

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP) — The Senate approved legislation today to provide $5,000,000 of loans through the Export-Import bank to bolster South American economy against Nazi influence.

The loans, proposed by President Roosevelt in a message to Congress July 22, are designed to assist in "orderly marketing" of Latin Americans surplus products in the war-disrupted European markets, promote United States trade with the republics to the south and develop sources in this hemisphere for critical materials such as tin and rubber.

IT'S ABOUT TIME DEP'T

WARSAW, Ind. (AP)—Eighty-seven years after it was issued, a military land grant written on sheepskin and signed by President Franklin Pierce was filed with the Kosciusko county recorder. The patent deeded 40 acres to Jesse Evans of the Virginia Militia. It was dated May 1, 1853.

P. S.: HE DIDN'T JUMP—Although Earl McBride (top window), motorcar salesman from Dormont, Pa., isn't bothered by moving problems, he gave apartment-changing New Yorkers a provocative idea when he recently threw a roomful of furniture—table, chair, lamp, and bedding—out of his eighth floor Manhattan hotel room window. Police, fearing McBride would leap too, spread life net beneath window, sent him to hospital after detective's falsetto voice fooled McBride into opening door, thinking it was his wife.

DUAL ALTERATION

Adopted by constitutional amendment in 1920, women's suffrage doubled the size of the electorate and removed the sex qualification in voting at a single stroke.

Fast Cruisers Being Built

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Speedy cruisers of 13,000 tons, to be key units of a western hemisphere defense fleet, are being constructed by the navy, it was reported today. Previous cruisers have been held to 9,000 or 10,000 tons.

The navy department refused to confirm the reports, replying that it is unable to comment on specifications of vessels under construction.

The 13,000-ton vessels were said to be among the 21 cruisers under construction before another 27 were added to the list in contracts awarded Monday for 200 vessels. The navy started its two-ocean fleet within two hours of signing of the $2,251,000,000 supplemental defense appropriation by President Roosevelt.

The new cruisers would be the largest ever built by the United States, mounting eight-inch guns compared with the six-inch ones on 10,000-ton cruisers recently built.

Another report—also unconfirmed—was that 30,000-ton cruisers are contemplated. The navy spokesman again refused to comment.

BACK TO SCHOOL WITH 35,000,000 CHILDREN

35,000,000 children are returning to school during September and October. 2,000,000 of them will be seriously handicapped by vision faults. Some of the 2,000,000 live in our town. One or more of them may live at your house. Give the children a good start on the school year. Make certain their eyes will allow them to do effective school work.

There's a Good Reason You're Constipated!

When there's something wrong with you, the first rule is: get at the cause. If you are constipated, don't endure it first and "cure" it afterward. Find out what's giving you the trouble.

Chances are it's simple if you eat the super-refined foods most people do: meat, white bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If this is your trouble, you should eat a natural "bulk" producing food—such a one as the crunchy, toasted, ready-to-eat cereal, Kellogg's All-Bran. Eat it often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Roosevelt Pledges Labor And Social Program Will Be Expanded

Flays Critics Of New Deal

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—Reaffirming a "supreme determination" to keep war away from American shores, President Roosevelt inaugurated his third term campaign last night by advocating compulsory service for industry as well as manpower, if necessary, and pledging that his labor and social program would expand rather than retreat in building national defense.

He coupled these statements with an attack on unnamed critics who "love the laboring man in November but forget him in January" and called for an end "to the sort of appeasement which seeks to keep us helpless by playing on fear and by indirect sabotage of all the progress we are making."

Defines Appeasement

"'Appeasement,' incidentally as I use it," he said, "is a polite word for misdirected partisanship."

The president spoke before a demonstrative audience of members of the International Teamsters' union.

Declaring that weakness in these days was a "cordial invitation to attack," he brought loud applause when he added:

"I hate war now more than ever. I have one supreme determination —to do all I can to keep war away from these shores for all time."

Dollars Must Share

He led up to the question of compulsory service for recalcitrant industry by asserting it was necessary that "every dollar of capital" share in the defense effort just as well as the men in the fighting forces and workers behind the lines.

Applause swept the hall when he said: "No business is above its government; and government should be empowered to deal adequately with any business which tries to rise above its government."

The president praised labor groups, capital, industry and agriculture for "responding" to defense needs, but said in all the defense plans under way "only those who seek to play upon the fears of American people, discover an attempt to lead us into war."

FOR WANT OF A SWIM—Two youths, hurrying to go swimming, died and ten men were injured when the boys lost a race with a fast freight train at Waurika, Oklahoma. Traffic on the line was blocked for nine hours after the heavy train jacknifed along 250 feet of the roadbed.

Child Given Wish In Divorce Case

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 12 (AP)—Little Susanna Brown, who says she knows what it means to tell the truth, "because you have to go sit in a corner, if you don't or maybe have your mouth washed with soap," got her wish today in the battle of her divorced parents over her custody.

"I wish I could see my father," said Susanna with a shake of her pigtails, "but I like to live with my mother."

Superior Judge Parker Wood then issued an order that practically was dictated in accordance with Susanna's wishes.

He awarded custody of the child to her mother, Mrs. Laura Elizabeth Brown. He also granted permission for the father, Homer D. Brown, aircraft worker, to take the child with him Saturday afternoons.

Separated from the Humphries family during a picnic near Green Cove Springs, 30 miles away, Monk was given up as lost. No word was ever heard of the dog by the Humphries until 70 days later, when he scratched at the back door of the Humphries home here.

Zero Hour Nearing When Uncle Sam May Call Millions In Draft

Age Limit Is Set 21 To 35

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Quick enactment of peacetime conscription for men from 21 through 35 was believed near today as a joint Senate and House committee met to draft its report on a compromise bill.

The report will go to both houses for final action, and the congressional consensus was that it would be promptly accepted—perhaps before the weekend.

Delay Is Scuttled

Scuttling a House provision for a 60-day delay in the draft, and compromising differences on the vital question of age limits, the six senators and five House members reached an agreement last night on a common version of the legislation which both branches of Congress previously approved in different forms.

The Senate had fixed the age bracket at from 21 through 30 the House from 21 through 44. At the suggestion of Senator Thomas (D-Utah) the conferees made the maximum age 35.

Thus, when and if the bill finally becomes law, approximately 16,500,000 men will be called upon to register for service. When the physically unfit, those with dependents and those who hold essential jobs in industry or agriculture are weeded out, army officials estimated 5,000,000 men would be eligible for a year's intensive training.

Speed Is Promised

President Roosevelt may call these, it was explained, in any age classes the army desires. Registration of the 16,500,000 is expected to take place within 15 days after Congress makes funds available and the first contingent of 75,000 probably would be inducted into service shortly after October 15.

The measure approved by the conferees provided also for commandeering industry if that should become necessary in a national crisis. Revising a House provision, the conferees provided in general that the government might take over, on a rental basis, plants where the owner refused to give preference to government orders or refused to manufacture defense materials.

Power Is Hedged

The revised section, however, hedged this power with the restriction that before such action could be taken the president must first find that "public danger is immediate, imminent and impending, and the emergency in the public service is extreme and imperative."

Also, he must find that there was no other similar source of supply. Subsequently, the plant owner would have the right to sue the government if he felt that the compensation paid him was unsatisfactory.

Judgments recited that the causes came up for hearing Sept. 3 and that the defendants did not appear or file any answers and, since no jury had been requested, the court heard the causes without intervention of a jury and found the law and the facts with the plaintiff, State of Texas, and that defendants had been guilty of maintaining nuisances.

Sheriff Ratliff returned to the courthouse, expecting the others to follow.

Officers said the men had circled through Houston and into Louisiana, then had brought a Paris girl to her home shortly before being arrested by Ratliff and Robertson.

City Marshal W. A. Walters, a former sheriff, organized a group of citizens into automobile posses for a systematic search of the roads in this area. Eighty members of the national guard also had volunteered for this work. Sanders was with one of these groups.

J. H. Burnett, who was chopping wood in a clump of trees, said two young men had come across a field and asked him about a certain man. Burnett declared that the name given to him was not of any persons living in that section and he became suspicious, reporting the incident to officers.

This was Tuesday afternoon and was about 45 minutes after the kidnaping.

More than a score of local and county officers, Oklahoma and Texas highway patrol members and representatives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation are searching for the two desperadoes.

Robertson had been shot in the chest near the heart. His throat bore a wound that appeared to have been inflicted with a knife and his head had been beaten.

Grass And Leaves Converted Into Oil And Gas By Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

DETROIT, Sept. 12—In less than two hours time, grass, leaves, seaweed, wood, molasses and cornstalks are changed into coal or oil by a new process announced here today from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, Pittsburgh.

In two hours these Pittsburgh scientists are doing what takes nature millions of years. Their work is the most dramatic in the long history of artificial production of coal, oil and gasoline. Their grass oils make good grade gasoline.

The report was made to the American Chemical society by Dr. Ernst Berl, research professor at the institute.

The raw materials are heated, under pressure, with limestone and other similar chemicals. The heat and the pressure abolish time almost literally.

Moreover the scientists, waiting to open the baking retorts, can have either coal or oil, as they choose. They can also have, instead of these, asphalts and good coke of the kind used by the nation's great steel companies.

The cost, Dr. Berl said, is less than that of the world-famous processes now used widely in Europe to convert coal into oil and gasoline. But the costs are not low enough to undersell America's present rich natural supplies of oil and coal.

The biggest item of expense in sight is the cost of transporting these raw materials from the farms to the coal and oil making machines. Anything that grows in the vegetable kingdom is good raw material for these new robots.

Dr. Berl foresees the farmer of the future selling the coal and oil-making crops to a central plant just about as he now sells sugar beets to beet plants.

The Pittsburgh work seems to settle a dispute about the origin of coal, oil and asphalt. They come from the carbohydrate portions, that is, the sugars and starches of plants, rather than from the woody part known as lignin.

cury sag to 54 degrees.

Withal, it's very pleasant for a change, this sleeping under blankets.

Air Has Fall Smell

The air has the fall smell about it—suggestive of burning leaves and hoar frost, footballs and woolens.

Normally, however, the first September nipping brings moisture, said Don L. Jones of the experiment sub-station east of Lubbock. September usually pours out nearly three inches of rainfall, but few are the drops that have been seen these 12 days of the new month.

The cotton farmer is satisfied with the dry tendency. He would prefer to see hot, dry weather a spell, so that he can get his cotton matured, picked and ginned. Full blast of the ginning season is late October and early November.

Those who have late feed would like to see some rain, and the wheat growers need moisture badly.

But all will agree that this pleasant weather is something!

rightness in public office. He apparently has become disturbed by his own clumsy handling of foreign affairs."

Willkie sat down with newspapermen at breakfast in a hotel and wrote out his statement in longhand before leaving by automobile for a major political conference in Indianapolis with his vice presidential running mate, Sen. Charles L. McNary; Republican National Chairman Joseph W. Martin jr., of Massachusetts; and Gov. Harold E. Stassen, of Minnesota, chairman of the campaign advisory committee.

Leaves On Tour

The Republican nominee leaves tonight on a 7,200-mile western tour of 18 states in which he will seek 187 electoral votes, all of which twice have been cast solidly for Mr. Roosevelt.

Before he returns, Willkie was expected to challenge President Roosevelt's bid for a third term and his conduct of foreign and domestic policies. He said yesterday he probably would make the anti-third term speech on Constitution day, Sept. 17, at Amarillo, Tex.

Taking over the press conference questioning of Rochester, N., Y., Publisher Frank E. Gannett yesterday, Willkit told reporters that a third term for Mr. Roosevelt would be "a very destructive threat to Democracy" and that the issue was not Mr. Roosevelt alone but a group of presidential advisers, "a line of thought and force that should be broken."

Seven Persons Face Charges In Gambling

Clarence Barton today was under charge of permitting gambling to be operated on his premises, and there were misdemeanor charges of gambling that caused fines of $100 and costs of $12.15 each to six other persons, said J. T. Inmon, justice of peace.

Two had posted appeal bond, the sheriff's department said early this afternoon.

Seven members of the police and rangers made the arrests. Two hundred sixty-eight dollars in the alleged game was taken.

Big Cathedral Is In Danger

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Sept. 12.—St. Paul's cathedral, burial place of British heroes and one of the most famous of London's buildings, was in imminent danger today from an unexploded German bomb, believed to be of delayed action type, which struck in a street close to the narrow churchyard.

Authorities permitted the disclosure also that in raids in the last few days bombs had been dropped on the famous Mme. Tussaud's wax works and the Daily Herald and Evening Standard buildings in the Fleet street area.

Presents New Danger

The St. Paul's bomb presented a new danger.

It made a small hole in the street and bulged the surface ominously. It broke a gas main and flames spurted up until the gas was turned off.

Policemen and air raid wardens roped off the entire area in fear the bomb would explode at any time.

There has been acute fear on three occasions—in 1912, in 1921 and 1932—that the building, or part of it might collapse even without such a shock as the explosion of a bomb.

Might Crash Any Time

In 1932 it was asserted that any time the cathedral might crash or begin sinking into the ground. It is balanced on wet sand and its foundations are no deeper at any point than 4 1-2 feet beneath the floor of its crypt.

Experts, after a survey in 1932 upon completion of a reinforcement project, said that so long as the sand remained wet there was little danger of a crash. But it was feared today that if the underground springs which keep the sand wet were dammed by a large excavation such as a bomb might cause, there would be acute danger.

Several delayed action bombs have exploded in the area in recent days.

Endangered By Fire

The great church, whose dome dominates London, also had been in danger from fire started in its vicinity by incendiary bombs.

The church, second only in fame among those in London to Westminster abbey, is the cathedral of the bishop of London and is called "the parish church of the British empire."

Defects in the stone work of the piers supporting its dome, a subsidence on its west side and the appearance of fissures caused alarm in 1912, and years of work resulted to strengthen it.

In the crypt of the church are buried some of Great Britain's most revered heroes, Nelson and Wellington among them.

Sir Christopher Wren, whose bones now lie in the crypt, built the present magnificent building, which rises 366 feet from the slight eminence on which it stands.

Busy Day For Pershing Set

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12— Gen. John J. Pershing is going to get a good night's sleep tonight for tomorrow will be a crowded day—it's his 80th birthday anniversary.

In better health than in many years, the doughty commander of the American expeditionary forces plans to leave his comfortable suite, his reading and his writings and make one of his rare appearances at his war department offices.

Last year the general spent his birthday in Walter Reed hospital receiving a physical checkup.

The year before he was in Aix-En-Provence, France, up and about but his health "too delicate" to attend ceremonies at St. Mihiel commemorating the "big push" of his doughboys.

Plans Big Afternoon

But this year he feels so well he is going to march into the big square office—it once was Franklin D. Roosevelt's as assistant secretary of the navy—and sit down for an afternoon that would tire the average business executive of 50.

He expects to see any newsmen who want to see him, to make a radio talk to the American Legion and to greet his friends.

The general scoffs at the idea his birthday might tire him. His carriage is erect, his step is sure and his voice is strong.

At 80 he will be the fifth man in the history of America to have the all embracing rank—general of the armies. Only Washington, Grant, Sherman and Sheridan, were accorded that honor before him.

Italian Airports Are Damaged By British

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 12 (AP) — British warplanes were reported today to have damaged Italian military airports and destroyed dock facilities in a series of bombing attacks on Libyan objectives.

Large blazes were started among docks and hangars at Derna, a communique said, and four fires sprang up when bombs were rained on Amseat, just across the Egyptian border.

Several fires also were reported started at Bardia.

Illness Is Blamed For Suicide Leap

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12. (U.P.)—Friends believed today that illness had caused the eight-story suicide leap of J. Borden Harriman, 36, member of a wealthy family, and a nephew by marriage of Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, United States minister to Norway.

A note found in his room in the central Y. M. C. A. building from which he jumped, read: "God's earth is kindlier than some men know."

He was said also to have brooded over the death on Aug. 14 of his father, Oliver Harriman, retired New York broker.

Stock Market

SHARES DROP LOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 (AP)—Stocks and other war shares carried the whole stock market lower again today.

The decline was slow but steady to the close from an optimistic opening which found quotations a point or so above previous finals.

The total transactions for the day were about 400,000 shares.

Marketmen declined to do more than test trends, saying they preferred to see whether Britain or Germany would gain control of the air before entering upon real commitments. Their concern in the war was so great that even the political campaign was largely neglected in boardroom discussions.

Among the issues to fall farthest behind were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Caterpillar, Boeing, Douglas, United Aircraft, Sperry, Eastman, Johns-Manville, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, General Electric, Kennecott, American Telephone, Standard Oil of N. J., and Great Northern preferred.

Bonds weakened with stocks. Commodities moved unevenly.

Teachers Over Section Meet

A series of meetings of vocational agriculture teachers is being held in this area this week under supervision of O. T. Ryan, area supervisor of vocational agriculture, who has headquarters at Texas Technological college.

Wellington district teachers were to meet in Wellington today, Crosbyton district instructors are to meet in Spur Friday and Vernon district teachers, in Vernon Saturday. A Lubbock district meeting was held here Monday; Memphis district at Lakeview, Tuesday; Pampa district at Groom, Wednesday.

Business Discussed

Business in connection with the 1940-41 year is being discussed.

Ryan is supervisor of the Northwest Texas area, which includes 59 counties.

Of the approximately 630 vocational agriculture teachers in Texas, 76 were trained at Texas Tech. Other state schools offering teacher training in vocational agriculture are Texas A. and M. college, Texas College of Arts and Industries and Sam Houston State Teachers college.

T. L. Leach, member of the Tech agricultural education faculty and itinerant teacher trainer, is spending this week evaluating vocational agriculture departments at Breckenridge and Abilene, as part of research project undertaken by the state department of education in cooperation with the national office of education.

Students Will Receive Food

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Sept. 12.—Stomachs as well as heads of 82,000 Texas school children will be filled this winter, according to plans worked out by the state department of education, the state welfare department and WPA.

Mrs. M. K. Taylor, state director of professional service projects for the WPA estimates that noon meals will be served in approximately 930 schools this year and will be supplied to about 82,000 undernourished children.

Plans Not Delayed

Plans for furnishing the little students with adequate food for their growing bodies have not been delayed until school opening. During the summer substantial supplies of foodstuffs that will go into school lunches have been produced. This work was done in community gardens and canning plants operated as a part of the school lunch service.

Work has been furnished to 850 persons in this preparation and more than 350,000 cans of widely-assorted Texas garden produce has been placed on shelves for use.

Beside the state sponsorship of the program there has been local sponsorship of school lunch projects by many school boards and county commissioners' courts. Mrs. Taylor said there has also been cooperation by Parent-Teacher associations, civic organizations and individuals.

Opening of school has furnished work for many WPA women workers who will furnish matron service in 338 schools.

Cardenas and seat Almazan.

(Foreign interests in Mexico which have undergone widespread expropriation under the Cardenas regime are said by Avila Camacho's backers to have supported Almazan's candidacy.

Returns Applauded

The deputies and gallery applauded uproariously when the electoral commission announced the vote: Avila Camacho 2,476,641; Almazan, 151,101, and Sanchez Tapia, 9,840.

President Lazaro Cardenas is scheduled to step down Dec. 1.

The crowd in the galleries booed and hissed Deputy Carlos Orlaineta of the federal district when he declared: "On behalf of the Almazanistas in the chamber I must oppose the commission's report, because I think the winner was Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan."

Powder Blasts

mand.

The first explosions disrupted telephone service at Kenvil. Service was restored later.

The plant employed about 1,500 persons.

Heard Over Wide Area

The explosion was heard all throuh Westchester county, just above New York City, and some 50 miles from where the blast occurred.

Windows were knocked out of a train at Harman, N. Y.

The shocks were so great they were registered on the seismograph at Fordham university in New York.

Naval officials in New York began an immediate investigation of the explosion because the Hercules plant is near the Picatinny naval arsenal.

The Hercules company has received numerous orders from the federal government in the past three months involving more than $40,000,000. This includes $25,000,000 for a smokeless powder plant to be built for the government at Radford, Va., and operated on a fixed fee basis.

Hot Reception Given Raiders

but "suicide squads" combed the capital in search of delayed-action explosives such as blasted a corner of Buckingham palace on Tuesday 48 hours after it fell from the skies. The time bombs sometimes dig a crater 20 feet deep in the ground. The "suicide squads" pack the crater with earth and sandbags and the danger zone is roped off until after the explosion.

One of the delayed-action missiles was discovered this morning near historic old St. Paul's cathedral, just off Fleet street's "newspaper row" which appears to have become a favorite target of German airmen.

Buildings Are Hit

Minister of Aircraft Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard and the Daily Herald buildings have both been damaged by bomb hits, it was disclosed, and the Associated Press building between Fleet street and the Thames river has been shaken repeatedly.

Madame Tussaud's waxworks—the museum of wax-modelled celebrities, ranging from King George VI and President Roosevelt to notorious murderers such as "Jack the Ripper"—was also reported damaged.

London military circles said the new style of anti-aircraft barrage was already "a success" and that the batteries would get "even better."

Although the destructive effect of the "archies' chorus" was not immediately known, at least there was no sign of the Nazi's threatened "10,000 plane-loads of bombs daily" falling on the London area.

Casualties Mounting

Casualty figures for the first three of the five all-night raids showed a heavily mounting toll, with 1,010 known dead and 4,300 wounded.

The British reported 89 German planes shot down in yesterday's battles, with 34 RAF planes missing; the Germans asserted 80 British planes were destroyed and 20 Nazi aircraft were missing. Nine German planes were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

Berlin felt the sharpening effect of the war in a police order for restaurants to close at 11 p. m. hereafter instead of 1 a. m., and more and more Berlin residents were reported sleeping in their air-raid shelters.

In the wake of Prime Minister Churchill's pointed warning an invasion might come any hour, the British admiralty announced its light naval forces had taken the offensive with "strong and repeated" action against Nazi shipping and ports "vital" to Hitler in any invasion attempt.

Details Are Lacking

Details were withheld lest they prove "useful to the enemy."

New and intensive action raged in the narrow English channel and along its shores. The Dover area trembled under intense bombardment from the French coast; British coast defense guns replied in kind, blasting at German sea movements in the channel; British and German planes swarmed into the channel fight.

The Germans, without tipping their hand on whether they planned an invasion attempt, said they were sending more and more warplanes against Britain to cripple her industry and create confusion and panic among her people.

As if to show they had other irons in the fire besides air assault on London, the Nazis announced their bombers had pounced on a 20-ship convoy sneaking out of the Thames estuary, setting a destroyer and six merchant ships afire and chasing the remainder back up the Thames.

In the restive Balkans, Premier-Dictator Antonescu of Rumania warned his country against danger of an anarchist revolt, and young King Mihai, to appease the nationalistic iron guardists, granted amnesty to many of its members held as political prisoners.

Permits To Register Obtained By 1,021

A total of 1,021 students had obtained permits to register and 340 students had paid fees for the fall semester at Texas Technological college at noon today, said Registrar W. P. Clement.

Pre-registration activities were to continue this afternoon, Friday and Saturday. A total of 714 students, an average of nearly 90 an hour, were photographed Wednesday. The required identification photographs are being made by Rollin T. Herald, student from Fort Worth.

Monday and Tuesday will be official registration days. Issuance of permits opened Wednesday morning.

Bulldogs Are Ambitious!

By Collier Parris

BORGER, Sept. 12 — Between baseball games here, we nosed around the Borger High school football field during an afternoon of practice, and most accommodating was Coach Catfish Smith of the Borger Bulldogs, who are still in the same league with Lubbock's Westerners, the Amarillo Sandies, et al. Furthermore, the Bulldogs have hopes of topping the "high and mighty" from their exalted places of honor.

By their pessimistic attitudes, most football coaches "give up" before the season ever starts. Not in that category is Catfish Smith, who was brought up to fight to the last ditch, and who teaches his boys the same psychology that he learned the hard way.

Now Smith isn't predicting a District I, Class Double-A pennant for his Bulldogs this fall. He isn't so brash as all that. But he does say that Borger will give the other teams a fit, and he backs up his statement by pointing across the field to ten rather hefty and polished lettermen, half of whom are seniors anxious to avenge the defeats of recent seasons.

"We don't have a lot of weight, and none of the boys may become Phi Beta Kappas when they go to college," explains the Catfish, "but we do have a lot of determination, intestinal fortitude and willingness. And I might add that we have considerable speed afoot, and a few boys who can pass the ball, some who can catch it, and some who can kick the heck out of it."

The Catfish is not one to brag, although he likes to exercise his vocal organs for the amusement of assembled guests, and we would not give you a bum steer. From what he tells us, and from what he gives us on paper, the Borger Bulldogs aren't going to take the 1940 football season lying down. These ten lettermen, all of whom are listed on the probable starting lineup, are J. N. Trotter, 180 pounds, and Hack Davis, 170, ends; Billy Mongold, 180, and Joe Charles Roberts, 190, tackles; Jack Brandon, 180, guard; George Huffman, 140, quarterback; Billy Jeter, 155, and Rufus Bradford, 160, halfbacks, and Rusty Russell, 165-pound fullback.

The other guard probably will be either Red Hutson, 152, or Wilbur Robbins, 155, both squadmen last year.

In addition to those named, the squad includes Jack Floer, 172; Melburn Woodby, 175; Curtis Hillman, 150; Herman Wallace, 160; Truce Murphy, 175, and J. T. Newman, 145, all who aspire to play tackle;

Broadcast Of Fifth Battle Is Announced

Facing the most serious challenge to their West Texas-New Mexico league reign since stepping onto the throne two years ago, Lubbock's Hubbers tonight will attempt to "get back in the winning groove" against Borger's pennant-hungry Gassers.

Manager Gordon Neil and his dangerous mates drew all even at two games each with the White Sox farm hands Wednesday night in the carbon city, taking an easy 9 to 2 decision which the Hubbers helped kick away, in the fourth tussle of the final Shaughnessy series.

Ralsh Nominated

Pat Ralsh, the league's leading hurler, winner of 14 consecutive contests, boasting a record of 21 victories against four losses for the season, has been nominated to take the mound as the defending champions wind up their three-game series in the Gasser orchard. Wilcy Moore may get the nod for Borger—and enough's said.

The two clubs will return here Friday night.

GAME TO BE BROADCAST

Hubber fans at home tonight may follow their team's performance in the final round of the West Texas-New Mexico league Shaughnessy playoff via the play-by-play description of KFYO's sportscasters, who will be on the scene in the Borger Gassers home park. The game will be the fifth in the final series, the last contest in Borger. The broadcast will start about 8:30 o'clock, local radio officials announced.

Gorski Is Injured

Pumbling the pellet and scoring opportunities, the Englemen looked anything but champions last night, seven errors being charged against them, and the official scorer was lenient at that.

Walter Gorski was on the hill for the losers only 1/3 inning, a line drive from the bat of Larry Gilchrist striking him on the pitching arm, necessitating his removal from the fray, possibly with a bad bruise that will keep him out of the remainder of the series. The big righthander had tossed to eight men before retiring. And six of them scored!

First Inning Wild

Three hits, three walks and three errors accounted for the wild Borger beginning.

But strangely enough, the Hubbers had cooperated in making the stanza one of the wildest first frames in Shaughnessy playoff history. Steve Niedziela, Ben Drake and Ed Schweda singled in succession to start the ball game, and they were warming up another pitcher to replace Hausman. Schweda's hit scored Niedziela. Hajduk struck out and Drake and Schweda started a double steal. Schweda was caught in a goose-chase between second and first as Drake sailed home unmolested. Watkins fanned to end the rally, and Lubbock's threat for the night was over.

Errors Prove Costly

At the end of the sixth inning, Lubbock had made six hits, committed six errors and were six runs behind—and six of them had struck out. Which just about tells the story of how the Hubbers played and why they didn't win.

After Gorski was removed from the game, almost unconscious, Gib Williams, who hurled the Lubbocks a fine game though losing Tuesday night, 1 to 2, took over and handled the Gassers for two innings before running into trouble which netted Borger a run in the fourth and another in the sixth.

Fans Follow Team

The ninth Borger run came in the eighth. John Hyma hurled the

Four Leading Teams Tangle In 3 Games

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The hysterical finish of the American league is being compared with the customary September struggle of the National league, but it isn't the same.

There's no crackup in the wild battle that's going on now in the junior circuit, which never before has known anything like this.

For a week, three strong clubs have been grappling for first place and today the whole mess still is unfathomable.

Tigers Back On Top

The Detroit Tigers clawed their way back to the top yesterday by overpowering the Boston Red Sox, 11-7, while the Cleveland Indians and New York Yankees divided a doubleheader.

Actually, the three tremendous tussles left the standings in the form they were in Tuesday:

	Won	Lost	Pct.	Games Behind	To Play
Detroit	78	58	.574	—	18
Cleveland	77	58	.570	½	19
New York	76	58	.567	1	20
Boston	73	63	.537	5	18

Something Must Happen

Today, Detroit defends its lead against the world champion Yankees in the first of a three-game series, while the Red Sox and Indians open a similar set in Cleveland. Something is bound to come out of these games, because no one has figured out a satisfactory way to divide three games.

It looked for awhile yesterday as though the Yankee parade were about to win the prize right away. Rookie Ernie Bonham beat Bob Feller, 3-1 in a desperate pitching duel.

The Yanks banged out two runs in the first inning of the nightcap, but the pesky Indians routed Red Ruffing with five runs in the third and won, 5-3, when darkness halted play in the sixth.

The Chicago White Sox whipped the Washington Senators, 7-4, with a 16-hit assault led by Joe Kuhel, and the St. Louis Browns shutout the Philadelphia Athletics, 3-0.

The Cincinnati Reds increased their lead in the National league to

Slaton And Lamesa To Tangle Friday

SLATON, Sept. 12 (Special) — Friday night in Lamesa, grid enthusiasts of Slaton and the Golden Tornadoes will get a first fall glance at their favorites when the two elevens blast the lid off the season.

The game will be the first between the two rivals in several seasons. Lamesa has been and still is competing in District 3 Class AA and was available for a date with the Tigers this year.

Team In Shape

Coaches Curtis Hamilton and Jack Miller have been running their charges through three hour practice drills and two hour skull sessions daily since the opening of the '40 season and report their team in fair shape.

Probable starting lineup for the Tigers includes: Emory Clifton, center; Bruce Maxey, right guard; R. C. Hall, left guard; Sherley Butler, left tackle; Van Smith, right tackle; George Green, left end; Earl Blassingame, right end; Elso Collier, fullback; J. W. Martindale, quarterback; Dalman Spartman, right halfback, and Harry Bell, left halfback.

Houston And Beaumont Need One Victory To Push Into Finals Of Texas League Play-Off; Scenes Of Battles Shifted

(By The Associated Press)

The Texas League play-off shifted to Oklahoma City and Beaumont today with Houston and Beaumont needing single victories to push their way into the finals.

Each made it two straight last night, the Buffs beating Oklahoma City 5-2 and Beaumont downing San Antonio 2-0 behind Les Mueller's two-hit pitching.

Howard Pollet, a 20-game winner, was slated for mound duty for Houston against Oklahoma City tonight with Al Fisher trying to stave off elimination for the Indians.

San Antonio and Beaumont clash in a day game, the Missions nominating Loy Hanning for work on the hill, opposed by Luther (Bud) Thomas for the Beaumonters.

Young Howard Krist, one of the league's top hurlers for the season, limited Oklahoma City to six hits in last night's game with the Buffs bouncing out eleven blows as four Indian pitchers paraded to the mound in an effort to halt the Houston onslaught.

Sell-Out Crowd At Odessa Predicted

(Special To The Journal)

ODESSA, Sept. 12—Boosting the game as one of the feature premieres on the state's early season schoolboy gridiron program, Odessa High officials are predicting a near sell-out crowd for the Lubbock Westerner-Broncho opener here Saturday night.

Whistle for the kickoff will sound at 8:15 o'clock. Fly Field will be the scene of the contest.

Coach Joe Coleman will have a more or less green aggregation to toss in against the also untried machine from the South Plains. Three lettermen form the nucleus for the Bronc attack, five lettermen, but only two of them regulars, sparking the Westerner squad.

Hogan Leads Backs

Billy Hogan, quarterback and passer, weighing 130 pounds, will head the Bronc backfield. Assisting Hogan in the attack against the Westerners will be Fred Christean, reserve of last season, tipping the beams at 160 pounds at left half; Lewis Bewley, reserve squad, 150-pound right half, and Royce Meadows, a 154-pound lad, who though not having any previous football experience is cavorting in a pleasing manner at a tailback slot.

Reserve backs include Jimmy McCracken from last year's "B" squad, weighing 160 pounds at fullback, DeWitt Fly, "B" squad veteran, 130 pounds at a halfback post, and Tom Lewis, junior high squadman, weighing 135 pounds, at halfback.

Line Is Heavier

Probable starting line for the Bronchos will have the other two lettermen, Jack Coats at center and Ed Thomas at right guard. Jake Rhodes, "B" squadman, Billy Jack Anderson and Kimbell Cook round out the alternates at guard.

H. J. Halbrook, 175-pounder and one of the heavier men on the squad, and Raymond Evans, 180 pounds, likely will start at tackles. Halbrook was a reserve last season. This will be Evans' first year. Completing the tackle possibilities are James Clay, Lloyd Halbrook and Ralph Wright.

Starting ends will be either Otis McKelvy or Don Henderson at left end and Keith Evans at right end. Henderson was a member of the "B" team while the other boys have had no experience to speak of. Reserve terminals are R. D. Slay and John Cowsar.

Spring Lake's Grid Schedule Is Given

SPRING LAKE, Sept. 12 (Special) — Officials of Spring Lake High school this week announced the following football schedule for the 1940 season:

Sept. 13, Dimmitt at Spring Lake; Sept. 20, Muleshoe at Muleshoe; Sept. 27, Anton at Anton; Oct. 4, Amherst at Spring Lake; Oct. 11, Whitharral at Spring Lake; Oct. 18, West Texas at Spring Lake; Oct. 25, Friona at Friona; Nov. 1, Parwell at Spring Lake; Nov. 8, Sudan at Sudan.

Spring Lake competes in District 4-B, Texas interscholastic league.

Lubbock Invasion Of Odessa To Be Standout Tilt

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Scattered skirmishes inaugurate the twenty-first football campaign of the Texas Interscholastic league this week-end.

Twenty-three games, featured by an inter-district squabble between the defending state champion Lubbock Westerners and the Odessa Broncs, open the grind in the class AA division.

Contests are scheduled in ten of the sixteen districts.

Lubbock Rates Lower

Lubbock, rated several notches below the powerful team that swept to the title last fall, meets a worthy opponent in Odessa, ranked with the top clubs of district three.

Other standout games send Greenville to Sherman and Denison to Sulphur Springs.

Greenville, dark horse of district 6, meets in Sherman one of the highest-rated elevens of the state.

Sulphur Springs, a quarter-finalist last year, tackles one of the powers of district 5 in the Denison Yellow Jackets.

Other inter-district games send Mineral Wells to Big Spring, Waxahachie to Gainesville, Mexia to Corsicana, Athens to Galveston and Brownwood to Corpus Christi.

Two Intersectional Tilts

Two intersectional games also are scheduled with Port Arthur, a top-ranking team of district 14, entertaining Leesville, La., and Bowie (El Paso) being host to Carlsbad,

Detroit Zulu Giants To Play In Lubbock

Lubbock's diamond season will continue through Friday night, Sept. 20 at least.

At that time, the Detroit African Zulu Giants—a colored baseball organization which is billed as "something new under the sun"—will play a handpicked squad of negro All-Stars from Lubbock, Clovis, Amarillo, Lamesa and Pampa.

The Home of the Hubbers will furnish the setting.

James Ward, manager of the Amarillo colored club, will head the Panhandle aggregation. Admittance will be 44 cents, tax included.

On the Zulu roster is a Chief Bolo and Prince Rosto, publicized as the "funniest man in baseball."

Ex-Champs Remain In Amateur Play

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Three former champions and the present titleholder, Marvin (Bud) Ward of Spokane, Wash., still were in there pitching as the surviving 16 went at it again today in the national amateur golf championship at Winged Foot club.

Two of the ex-champs — Jess Sweetser, '22, and Johnny Fischer, '36—were paired in the first of the day's two 18-hole rounds. Willie Turnesa, 1938 winner, also turned back his first two opponents yesterday.

Doering Is Out

The only highly regarded player missing after the first two rounds was Art Doering of Chicago, who was rocked out by Otto Greiner of Baltimore, 5 and 4.

Ray Billows of Poughkeepsie, runner-up twice, was among those present, though he had to go 23 holes to eliminate Bill Dear, jr., of West Orange, N. J., in his morning match.

Wilford Wehrle of Chicago, who the professionals say is the most mechanically perfect player among the amateurs, still was around. Also Frank Strafaci of Great Neck, N. Y.; Pat Abbott of Pasadena; Dick Chapman of Winged Foot, tournament medalist; Maurice McCarthy, jr., Cincinnati star; George Dawson of Chicago and John Burke of Rye, N. Y.—all well known to the national scene.

Four Are Outsiders

Only the remaining four survivors might be termed "outsides," and each of them owns a high sectional rating. Tom Sheehan, jr., of Northville, Mich., last year's medalist; Greiner, conqueror of Doering; W. B. McCullough, jr., of Abingdon, Pa., and Harry Haverstick, jr., of Lancaster, Pa., comprised the quartet that confounded the experts slightly.

McCullough's best victim was Chic Moreland, former Walker cup star whom he ousted 1 up in the afternoon. He drew Turnesa as his initial opponent today.

Ward established himself a stronger favorite than ever by shooting the best golf of the day to beat Ellis Knowles, the Rye grandpappy, 6 and 5, and Buddy Haas of New Orleans, 3 and 2. The champ was three under par for 29 holes.

When in operation, the average automobile burns about two gallons of gasoline, which is 48 gallons per day or 1450 gallons per month.

Provisions Of New Peacetime Conscription Bill Are Made Public

Agreement On Plan Reached

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12. (AP)—The peacetime conscription bill approved by a joint Senate and House committee for submission to the two bodies for their final action provides for:

1. Registration of all male citizens and aliens who have reached their twenty-first birthday anniversary but have not passed their thirty-sixth on a registration day to be fixed. (Members and former members of the armed forces, diplomatic representatives, and legislative, executive and judiciary officers, would be excepted.)

2. Liability for a year's training of all male citizens, and aliens who have declared their intention of becoming citizens, in this age group.

Voluntary Enlistments

3. Voluntary enlistments, regardless of race or color, of all men from 18 to 34 years old, inclusive.

4. Limitation of 900,000 on the number of conscripts to be in training for the army at any one period in peacetime.

5. Restriction on the service of conscripts to the western hemisphere, American possessions and the Philippine islands.

6. Regular army pay for conscripts, the army's basic pay being increased from $21 to $30 a month.

7. Assignment of each trainee, after his year's service is completed, to a reserve organization with subsequent short retraining periods for 10 years or until he becomes 35 years old, except that he may satisfy this requirement by two years additional service in the national guard or army.

On Impartial Basis

8. Selection of trainees on impartial basis, with state quotas fixed on male population basis.

9. Deferment of training for ordained ministers or theological students; men employed in essential industrial or agricultural jobs, or whose employment is found necessary for the maintenance of national health, safety or interest; and men with dependents.

10. Exemption of conscientious objectors from military service, with a provision that they shall be assigned to non-combatant service.

11. Limitation of number who may be inducted into service to those previously provided for in congressional appropriations.

12. Re-employment of trainees after their year's service unless the employer's status has so changed as to make rehiring "impossible or unreasonable." Court action provided against employers who refuse to rehire trainees, with back pay awards provided if the worker is ordered restored to his job.

13. Penalties of five years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for "draft dodgers" or other violators of the act.

14. Appointment by the president of a director of selective service at a salary of $10,000 yearly.

15. Operation of the act until May 15, 1945.

nine full games by sweeping a doubleheader from the Boston Bees, 8-0 and 3-1, while the Brooklyn Dodgers were losing a pair to the Chicago Cubs, 8-5 and 3-2.

Dizzy Dean stalked back into the National league by hurling six-hit ball for the Cubs' second triumph over the Dodgers.

The slugging St. Louis Cardinals gouged the New York Giants twice, 7-4 and 3-2.

The Pittsburgh Pirates crushed the Phillies, 9-3, with a five-run flurry in the ninth.

MARSHALL LEADING

MARSHALL, Sept. 12. (AP)—The Marshall Tigers were leading the Tyler Trojans two games to one as the clubs came here to resume their East Texas league play-off series tonight. The Tigers beat Tyler 6-4 last night, using five Trojan errors and some heavy hitting to roll up an early lead.

The Bulldogs have been hard at it for ten days now, and Coach Smith is not dissatisfied with the progress his boys are making. He has enough veterans who know the ropes to keep the big jitters out of the squad and make coaching some easier. Assisting him as line coach is Selmar Kirby, the former Texas A. & M. college line star beginning his second year here.

Donald M. Telford, former Kansas university footballer, is one of the "big noises" on the practice field with his squad of hefty Yannigans, which correspond to the Cowhands at Lubbock. Catfish Smith is eyeing this bunch of Yannigans with an interest, figures that some of them may move over to his squad before the season is very old.

The Borgans move into a nine-game schedule September 20 against Shamrock, at Borger, follow with a trip to Quanah Sept. 27, and stay home to entertain Panhandle on Oct. 5 and Hollis, Okla., Oct. 11. Their tri-state schedule calls for a trip to Hobbs, N. M., Oct. 18, after which the Bulldogs will settle down to the District 1 pennant race, invading Lubbock Oct. 25, taking on Amarillo, at Borger, Nov. 1 and Pampa at Borger Nov. 11, winding up the conference season at Plainview Nov. 22. If they haven't won the district championship by then, they may engage somebody in a Nov. 28 contest.

Borger High school now boasts a fine-turfed field, with grass almost as thick and luscious as that at the Westerner's practice field, and this is one of the town's many "modern improvements." It's a far cry from the previous "rock pile" on which Borger players and their guests were frequently coming up with terrific "strawberries" and wounds even more serious.

The stands at the field seat about two thousand, but the permanent stands are augmented in prosperous times by bleachers which almost double the capacity.

They're a pretty happy, carefree bunch out there, with Coach Smith inserting enough wit and humor to keep the kids grinning, but pouring on enough hard work to keep them serious. Mostly, though, the Bulldogs seem to have fun practicing and playing football.

This reporter expects to visit the Pampa Harvesters over across the way before coming home with the Hubbers, and we'll give a bit of superficial dope on Odus Mitchell's squad about tomorrow.

Eight-Game Schedule Will Face Southland

SOUTHLAND, Sept. 12. (Special)—Practice sessions for Southland's 1940 grid machine continue daily here under guidance of Coach Roy Morris, who has announced an eight-game schedule.

Southland competes in the northern division of Conference 5-B along with Petersburg, Hale Center and New Deal.

Southland will field a young team, inexperienced despite the fact that there are fourteen lettermen on the squad. Last year Morris' boys failed to win a game. With only three seniors on the squad this season, they are looking to a successful season in 1941.

Lettermen reporting for practice were Roy Denton, Albert Lee Fields, Harrold Pickens, Louis Fields, Norman Bedford, Stotts Spence, Dwight Corbell, Roy Ring, Paul Hall, Robert Russell, Harrold Smith, Billy White, James Fields and J. R. Bartlett.

The schedule: Sept. 13, open; Sept. 20, Frenship at Frenship; Sept. 27, Ropes at Ropes; Oct. 4, Petersburg at Petersburg; Oct. 11, Hale Center at Hale Center; Oct. 18, New Deal at Southland; Oct. 25, Slaton "B" at Southland; Nov. 1, O'Donnell at O'Donnell; Nov. 7, Slaton "B" at Slaton.

final out.

After Hausman pulled out of the first inning hole which threatened the Gassers' hopes, he settled down to hurl four-hit ball the remainder of the way, although two of them were triples by Drake and Schweda, another a double by Drake, who led Hubber hitting with three for four.

When the teams come here tomorrow night, a goodly number of Borger boosters will be in the stands, more or less repaying a visit of a busload of Lubbock folk who journeyed to the game last night but found little to cheer about.

Farmer Jones Puts Works On Sampson

A promoter's dream, a wrestling fan's composite entertainer and the perfect replica of a champion Dogpatch "scuffler" — that's Farmer Jones, who last night firmly established himself with a near house full of Sportarena spectators.

The Arkansas grappler, whose hair and beard would put even a year's fugitive from a barber shop to shame, whose bare feet are used for other than walking and whose sawed off blue jeans are his pride and joy, practically pulverized Denton's Dick Sampson in two straight falls of six and nine minutes to take a semi-final decision with ease.

Ring Posts Help

Birmingham's Chuck Powell came through with "one of those victories" over Lubbock's "Big Train" Clements, shoving the part-time referee out into the ringside seats in the third and deciding fall, then choking and slugging him into submission for the kill——that being a free ride into a ring post.

Clements had dealt Powell plenty of misery in the opening fall, finally making him shout "uncle" in 14 minutes of fisticuffs and a little wrestling. An Indian Stake hold did the trick.

The middle setto was taken by Powell in 11 minutes, another ride into a ring post settling the issue after a period of choking which antagonized the much larger than usual house no end.

In the curtain raiser, Abilene's Ace Abbott and the "Flying Scot," Edgar Gideon of Glasgow, fought a pleasing 20-minute draw, but leaving a repulsive taste in the fans' mouths with their bickering.

Hard Work At Last For Tech Raiders

With the blankets off at last, Texas Tech's rollicking Red Raiders won't be "taking it easy" any more—at least, not to any great degree.

The Crimsons scrimmaged the "Frosh" Wednesday afternoon, and there was a possibility that the two rivals would get together again for a short session this afternoon.

Coaches Pete Cawthon and "Dutchy" Smith turned their varsity charges loose on the first year men of Coaches Berl Huffman and Dixie White and the results were none too gratifying for the Raiders. No injuries were reported as a result of the 30-minute session, although when matters were terminated some of the boys did leave the field with skinned noses and whatnot.

Not only did the "Fishes" score the first touchdown but they retained possession of the ball most of the time. This isn't saying that the varsity didn't "win" but the Big Raiders certainly were pushed.

That Girl on Broadway says it's usually the person who doesn't stop to think who monopolizes the conversation.

"Something should be done to standardize nuts," declares the editor of the Hardware Journal.

What's the trouble? Aren't our colleges taking care of this nicely?

THE PLAINSMAN supposes — he wouldn't know from personal experience—that it would be mighty nice and reassuring to have laid away in a safe place sufficient money to meet any emergency that life and its responsibilities might bring.

Some people—a precious few—have that sort of security. Many strive for it. But few ever attain it.

When they strive for that sort of security, most people forget that, after all, money is, in itself, only a symbol.

It isn't worth a hoot for anything except as an exchange for something else.

A million dollars on a desert isle, for instance, isn't as good as two bits in Lubbock. The million dollars won't buy anything for the lone cast-away. Two-bits in Lubbock will buy a lot of things for any of us.

* * *

Money brings lasting happiness in direct ratio to the intelligence with which it is spent.

Therefore, those who hoard frequently forego satisfaction which otherwise might be realized.

Even the person who is successful in piling up enough surplus cash to care for exigencies lives his life without having to face the feared exigencies.

He dies and his thoughts, efforts and, sometimes, his self-denials involved in piling up the surplus go all for naught.

* * *

SEVERAL years ago The Plainsman and Spencer Wells were sitting around gassing about people and money and Lubbock as a business town.

Spencer, whose business is such that he naturally gives much thought to people and spending, expressed an idea that has never left The Plainsman.

"The people who make this or any other town a good business town," he said, "are those who spend as they earn, not those who try to get by on as little as possible and save the balance.

"Lubbock is a good town because it has a lot of family men who make $2,500 per year, rather than one-tenth that many who make $25,000 a year. Rapid circulation of money here means frequent turnovers in the stocks of all stores and accesserated trade in all lines."

To most of us who were brought up under the teachings that a penny saved is better than a dollar earned and spent, that might sound like a cockeyed theory.

But it works, as anyone who cares to glance around can see.

Times have changed a lot since Dewey smoked Sweet Caps at Manila Bay and dad used to have a shaving mug and a moustache cup, but in no way have they changed more than in the national attitude upon spending and the personal economics of the individual.

The young man grandpaw looked with favor upon because he was thrifty today would be in disfavor as a tightwad.

The gay spendthrift of 1905 has a counterpart of 1940 who's a hero because he doesn't hoard. Selah!

* * *

THE Plainsman never acts smartelicky, or speaks sharply and impolitely to someone that he doesn't later feel like a first class heel—at least 10 times worse than he has made the object of his impoliteness feel.

For instance.

Something like 10 days ago, The Plainsman was sitting in the Palace theater watching a picture show. He was sitting on a center aisle seat.

Several times in succession the young usher brought patrons to the row; each time The Plainsman got up to let them pass into the row and each time they decided to sit elsewhere.

Interested in the show, and tired of getting up and down for no good reason, The Plainsman finally remarked to the usher: "Well, why don't you make up your mind."

The words were no sooner spoken than they were regretted.

A few minutes later, the usher brought another couple to the row—and this time they made their way in.

"Thank you, sir," said the usher, as The Plainsman again resumed his seat.

What hurt was the fact that the young usher said "Thank you" as if he meant it.

He wasn't being smart. Neither was he being servile.

Honestly, The Plainsman would have felt better if the usher had smacked him in the teeth!

Go to Arlie Crites, boss of the Palace: You've got a youngster who knows psychology, who is a gentleman and who's going to get somewhere if ill mannered patrons like The Plainsman don't drive him nutty.

If The Plainsman could have seen the lad in the darkness of the theater he would lock him up and apologize to him.

Not knowing him, this is the best we can do.

TODAY'S POME

We wish when things get hectic,
And everything seems vain,
This world were antiseptic—
And wrapped in cellophane!

That Man on Avenue Q says it's mighty discouraging, but so often when he tells the truth he finds he has to lie out of it.

* * *

Few tears are shed when a chronic kicker finally kicks the bucket.

THE Plainsman is not personally acquainted with Sidney Hollaender, of 145 East Twenty-fifth street, New York City.

In fact, the writer had never heard of Mr. Hollaender until the other day when a letter was received from him, which, in part, said:

"I am a New York business man and have released in New York and Brooklyn a statement in which I think you will be interested."

The statement, under the heading, "There's No Way Like The American Way," reads:

"Because—

"I can go to any church I please; I read, see and hear what I choose; I can express my opinions openly; My mail reaches me as it was sent, uncensored; My telephone is untapped; I can join any political party I wish; I can vote for what and whom I please; I have a constitutional right to trial by jury; I am protected against unlawful search and seizure; Neither my life nor my property can be forfeited without due process of law."

* * *

Mr. Hollaender apparently is sincere in sending this statement about the country, since he doesn't even mention his business. He says that the statement will be published on the back of telephone directories in New York and Brooklyn in space purchased by him and, in addition, he has had made and is giving away 10,000,000 labels carrying the patriotic message.

EXPLAINING his action, he says: "I have always admired the effort of the Gideon Society in placing Bibles in hotel rooms, and because times are what they are today I was prompted by the Gideon Bible thought to give this message that I personally believe is as valuable to the future of America as religion itself.

"The modern interpretation of the Bill of Rights tells its own story and I am so intensely proud of my good fortune to so participate in this worthy effort that I am bubbling over in this letter and want you to know about it, too."

Mr. Hollaender, as merely one private individual, shows his heart is in the right place when it comes to the well-being of his country—and his countrymen.

America can use more such zealous patriots right now.

Memory Of The Moon

By JEANNE BOWMAN
(Copyright For The Journal)

YESTERDAY: Constance writes the Taylors that she intends to keep the ranch, but asks them to stay. She sets out for the West again.

CHAPTER 19
Carl Pedersen

Constance dreaded Christmas. She drew a blind across her memories, had breakfast sent in so she wouldn't see so much reflected cheer; refused to look out when the train stopped at depots, so she wouldn't have to watch reunions.

She read the letters. She opened them one by one. Peter Taylor's decision slid out and Constance, putting the envelope to one side, checked her movement. There was another slip of paper in it. She pulled it out. One line. She read and reread it.

"I'm glad you agree that when you are fighting for something you love . . . all is fair."

It was signed, Pedro.

Fear that was part dread, part consternation, and part a heart strumming confusion, filled her.

What had he meant? Was John right? And if so, which of the two reasons underlay the Taylors' decision to remain?

"What a Christmas present," she laughed uncertainly.

Her heart and her mind waged a day-long battle and her mind won. The train slid through dusky white canyons at twilight, to come out in the star-burst of lights that was Ogden; and Constance, walking up and down under the train shed, admitted defeat, and wondered why she labeled it defeat.

For if Taylor had meant to remain, as John had said, to "marry El Cabrillo," it was the ranch and not herself that he would fight for.

Constance spent two days in San Francsico. Carl Pedersen presented himself the morning after her arrival. When he telephoned from the lobby she went down with some apprehension. It would be this man and herself, against the Taylors . . . and the Cabrillos. She was placing the future of El Cabrillo in his hands.

She noticed these hands immediately; large, strong, capable hands. She looked up to his face and liked what she saw, china blue eyes, blond hair and blunt features.

Mrs. Pedersen was with him, a large, red haired woman who had, surprisingly, Constance learned, majored in English and was now an associate editor for a western magazine. Constance wondered what Donna, with her smattering of education, would say to that. Small Pedersens waite in a nearby hotel; they would be met later.

"You're so young," Mrs Pedersen said.

"Old enough to know I'm too young, and that is why I need the help of a man like your husband," returned Constance, and won the woman immediately.

Pedersen wasted no time on niceties. He launched immediately into business. "The only thing I have against your plan, Miss Cabrillo," he began, "is the time limit. You have a ranch upon which stock have grazed for two hundred years. You expect to turn that into a dairy ranch of equal proportions and show profit in that time.

"You are not starting with slow replacement, but a complete turnover. I can't vouch that your fields will be fertile enough to produce our feed the first year. Thousands of cattle have torn the vitality from the soil. It will need deep ploughing and fertilizing.

"Then we have the weather to consider. If the elements are with us we stand an even chance of winning. If we have droughts and floods, I don't know.

"You see I am being frank with you. Your proposition was a challenge to me. I'd like to have a try at it, but I don't want you to take me on thinking I am a miracle man."

"Happy New Year"

"I'm glad you said that," Constance returned thoughtfully. "It gives me even more confidence."

"And then," Mrs. Pedersen intruded, "there is the problem of the personnel. The people with whom you and Carl will have to work," she explained. "Laugh if you will, but even a dairy farm, or perhaps I should say, particularly a dairy farm, needs harmony among the employees."

And blithely, unthinkingly and with complete unawareness Constance returned, "You can be assured of that."

They spent the rest of the day discussing affairs, the next day visiting creameries and association headquarters, then two days touring San Joaquin and Sacramento Valley dairy farms. Then they parted, the Pedersens to go to Salinas to pack for their move north, and Constance to spend the loneliest New Year's Eve of her life in San Francisco.

The north coast gave her one of its perfect days as she started for El Cabrillo the next morning. Tamalpais was a clear purple mound against a bright blue sky, and the railroad ferry waddled through bay waters as blue as the sky.

The air was crisp, salty, invigorating. The northbound train filled with happy people, their laughter playing muted accompaniment to some irrepressible joy in the heart of Constance.

Even Beachport, when she arrived there at noon had a festive appearance.

And waiting for her on the platform was Pedro!

Until that moment Constance hadn't known how she dreaded their first encounter, after that last half-hour on the mountain top; after John had hinted at Taylor's intentions; after all that remained unsaid between them.

She felt she would be putting him to test in this meeting and feared what she would find.

Warily she followed the porter to the vestibule, and from the top step she looked down.

"Welcome, Michael," he greeted gaily.

He was glad to see her! He couldn't possibly assume that depth of warmth in his eyes. He was holding his arms and she . . . why must she be so foolish . . . she was thinking of John, wondering why she couldn't accept Taylor's touch with the same ease she accepted John's.

"Happy New Year, Pedro," she managed.

"The happiest one I've run into yet," he confirmed. "Here, porter The bags over there . . . yes, that's right."

His concern over the bags gave her time to regain her poise, to pretend she had always had one hand tucked securely in Pedro's arm, to pretend the tightening pressure was because he was walking more rapidly that she and not overexuberance, on his part, at her return.

Now he was tucking her under a robe. The top of the car was down and he'd brought out a knit beret. "Meg made it to match your eyes," he said.

Constance changed, aware Pedro was talking too much. It wasn't natural for him to chatter. He was covering up . . . . there was something he should be telling her and

TIME TO PUT UP A GUARD

Those in Texas who are opposed to re-legalization of horse race betting—which means most of the people of the state—owe a bit of appreciation to State Sen. Houghton Brownlee of Austin.

The senator announces that an attempt will be made to pass a horse racing bill in the approaching legislative session. Thereby, he has put those who are against that kind of racket on the alert. They will be on their guard all the sooner. They aren't likely to be caught napping as they were in 1933 when racing was legalized.

As to be expected, Brownlee offers the threadbare argument that race betting would produce revenue for the state. That is about the only argument he could offer. He, of course, does not mention that the state's part would be a very small per cent of the total "take" from bets. Most of the remainder would go into pockets of the promoters.

Meanwhile, Texas could expect repetitions of the experiences when betting was legal. The state would be flooded with touts and other race track hangers-on. Business men again would be complaining that patrons were betting with the money which otherwise would be applied on bills.

However, utmost alertness still will be required in guarding against the possibility that a horse race bill may get over. Many of those who want the return of such betting are the kind who may resort to any trickery to achieve their end. But if they do succeed, opponents of betting cannot have the excuse now they were taken by surprise.

As If Things Ain't Tough Enough

Defense 'Boom' May Not Mean 'Jobs For All'

Unemployed, Unskilled May Be Unaffected

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 — Although a lot of government economists don't quite believe it, the best don't-quote-me guess of experts close to the defense picture is that the defense program should open up something like 4,500,000 new jobs before the end of 1941.

Catton

That guess is based on estimates — not yet formally tabulated — of the number of new workers that will be needed if the nation's industrial machine is to turn out the kinds and quantities of things required in the rearmament drive.

Nor is that all. When a number of men go from idleness to steady jobs, a somewhat smaller additional number of men get jobs in businesses able to expand because the original group is getting pay checks regularly again. Opinions differ as to the ratio between these two groups; but the same statisticians who are figuring on a re-employment of 4,500,000 in the defense industries are estimating this re-employment will mean jobs for better than 3,000,000 others.

Amount Not Known

All of which, if it comes true, would be likely to have a profound effect on the whole unemployment-and-relief picture.

The government does not know exactly how many jobless people there are. The U. S. Employment Service has 5,700,000 unemployed workers on its rolls; probably that doesn't cover all of them, but opinions differ as to the number it leaves out. It is pretty generally agreed, however, that a 7,000,000 rise in the number of jobs would just about take care of all of the employable persons now unemployed.

In other words, the country would be within reasonable distance of that fabled, long-ago era in which it could honestly be said that any ablebodied man who really wanted a job could get one.

Apparently, however, there is a catch in it.

The reservoir of unemployed consists mainly of unskilled workers. Only 900,000 of those listed with the Employment Service, for instance, put themselves down on the books as "skilled workers." Many more are doubtless semi-skilled; but it is figured that half or more of the jobless are men whose sole qualifications are muscle and willingness.

Something is being done to remedy that situation. The industry-training program now under way figures to fit 600,000 men for skilled jobs within a year. That won't take care of all the unskilled, however, and the current belief is that IF all of this re-employment does take place, a huge number of the men who go back to work will have to acquire their new skills on the job. This is perhaps modified by the calculation that a number of the anticipated new jobs won't require high degrees of skill.

No Affect On WPA

Oddly enough, though, WPA rolls might not shrink hand-in-hand with the re-employment.

If most of the unemployed are unskilled, that is even more true of the people on WPA, of whom only a small fraction can be classed as skilled.

WPA officials figure that unemployment could decline tremendously without putting much of a dent in the WPA rolls — which now have around 1,500,000 people, with a waiting list of about a million.

Memory Of The Moon

he wasn't. What was it?

"I hadn't expected you to meet me," she confessed as they drove off.

"Disappointed?" he turned to look at her.

"Heavens, no . . . look out for that—" as a car darted ahead of them. "Of course not, but I thought Juliano would insist upon coming, and to be frank I didn't know the Taylors would appreciate my return to El Cabrillo."

Welcoming Mood

"Appreciate it?" laughed Pedro. "Dear child, Meg has spent three days in the kitchen preparing for it. You spent Christmas on the train so she's going to make up for it. And Dad," he laughed again, "he had me drive him to Beachport for a new suit; stood on his good leg while the tailor fitted him.

"He's been singing about Irish eyes, all morning."

It was impossible not to be caught up into Pedro's welcoming mood.

"And yourself?" she asked.

They were driving along the coast road, the mountains green one one side, the sea glazed gold on the other.

"Michael," Pedro's voice was low, "do you need to ask that?"

For fifty miles she didn't. For fifty miles she allowed herself to be lifted into the translucent world about her. She could have replied, "Forgive me, you're proving your welcome." Or gaily:—"I wanted to know if you could sing."

Instead she stretched her hand towards him impulsively and said simply—"No, Pedro." The answer lay in his grasp of her imprsioned hand. For this short drive she would forget everything but the moment. She would draw each distilled drop of warm, disturbing joy for her own, and tuck it away to shed faint perfume on some distant, gay [illegible] row.

Then she was home, on [illegible]mino Real, the long lines of Eucalyptus trees, silver leaves still clinging, bark peeled from the trunks, leaving them pink and white and cold-looking.

And there ahead was the ranch house, yellowing willows, shaggy sparse leaves allowing the winter sunshine to wash the white walls.

"My trunks came, didn't they?" she asked. "And the keys? Then I'll stop and dress for Meg's dinner."

Pedro seemed about to protest, instead he drew up before the house and turned to her, his face serious, his voice apologetic—"Michael, after reading your letter, I . . . we, wanted to make your homecoming just that; a welcome after years of exile. We wanted everything perfect."

And isn't it?" she asked.

"No," he began, then he started to laugh. "No, it isn't. Juliano doesn t like milk cows. I'll wait here for you."

Constance looked at the house. No flowers hung from the balcony, though Dolores had assured her they were always brought out from the patio, in sunshine. The blinds were drawn. There were no signs of life anywhere.

"You go on," she told Pedro, as he helped her from the car. "I'll take care of this!"

Pedro looked at the narrowing eyes, hesitated a moment, then as though reaching some inner agreement drove away.

Constance lifted the old iron knocked and dropped it. The echo died away, but no one opened the door. She tried again, then with a burst of anger tried the knob and flung open the coor.

"Night Life As Usual" Going On In Swanky London Hotel Despite German Air Raids

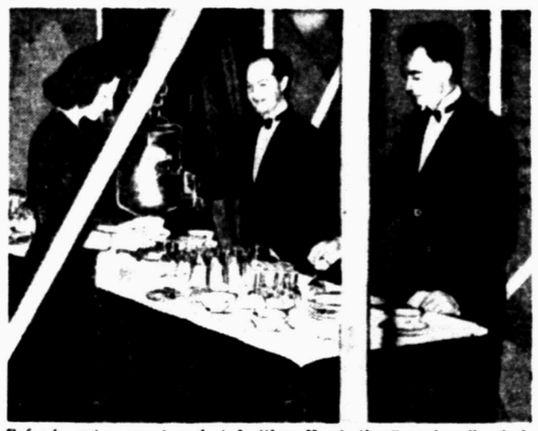

Patrons of London's smart centers of night life refuse to let Marshal Goering's lads frighten them out of their evening's relaxation. The recent photo, above, shows the famed main grillroom of the Savoy, largest and one of the swankiest hotels, where guests dance, dine and enjoy the floor show.

Each tick of the clock in London brings its threat of deadly bombs, and when the sirens scream, the Savoy's telephone operators know their jobs. Donning gas masks, they notify the guests.

The guests troop down to the underground shelter, where they continue their activities. Splendor of the upstairs rooms is traded for the safety of the cellar. Here's the orchestra, swinging along amid the undecorative pipes.

Refreshments are not neglected either. Here's the Savoy's cellar buffet service of that traditional solace for British nerves—tea.

Nazis Say British Don't Play Fair

BERLIN, Sept. 12 (AP)—Authorized German sources charged today that British airmen are throwing bags of "Colorado potato bugs" into potato fields in Germany, Luxembourg and Belgium in an effort to lay waste the major food source of those countries.

These sources said the bugs multiply rapidly and are hard to control. They cited this alleged form of attack as another "example of British unfairness."

Two days ago a similar charge was made that the British are throwing millions of self-igniting "leaves"—made of phosphorus and gun-cotton—to cause fires in German fields and forest. (The British admitted they were using the "leaves.")

Pythian Officers To Visit At Childress

Four new members were initiated at a regional meeting of Pythian Sisters attended by nine state officers here Wednesday night.

Mrs. J. W. Philips, most excellent chief of the Lubbock temple, presided in initiation of Mrs. Ethel Lindsey, Mrs. Earl Taylor, Royal Purgeson and Ralph Brock.

Gifts of the temple were presented by Mrs. Russell S. Hardin to Lelia Schafli, grand chief, of Seguin, and Mittie Phillips, sitting past grand chief, of Tyler. Talks were given by the visiting notables.

Knights of Pythias joined the group at a luncheon at noon Wednesday. Mrs. G. H. Ater, district deputy grand chief, was toastmaster at a dinner at night in Lubbock hotel. Miss Moselle Pennington presented vibraharp numbers.

The Grand officers will go to Childress for a similar meeting tonight and will return to Lubbock Sunday en route to the grand temple meeting of New Mexico in Roswell Monday. They will be joined by Dr. and Mrs. Ater and probably others from the Lubbock lodge and temple.

Twin Brothers Are Enlisted In Army

Lieut. George T. Coleman, head of Lubbock sub-district army recruiting service, reported that twin brothers were included among 25 recruits accepted Wednesday.

Lieutenant Coleman, recruiting officer, said the total for three days this week was 76 to place the September recruiting total at 143. Since June 8 the Lubbock station has accepted 940 youths.

Nathan E. and Virgel L. Hand of Brownfield were the twins. Sullivan R. and Orville V. Walker, brothers of Gruver, also enlisted.

Most of the recruits were sent to air corps bases and enlistments are open in all branches of the service, Lieutenant Coleman said.

Westervelt, who is in charge of the supply warehouse, has been in the army 24 years. Before that, he had been a national guardsman for 18 years. He plans to serve six more years to be eligible for pension.

Invitation To Nazi Crew Is Withdrawn

LOCKNEY, Sept. 12 (Special)—Invitation to 450 members of the crew of the scuttled German liner, Columbus, to establish a camp near Lockney has been withdrawn as result of public protests.

Mayor T. Z. Reed and members of the city commission had invited the German captain to confer with them about the use of the municipal auditorium and about 10 acres of land. Lockney citizens, however, were not sympathetic to the proposition.

Officials explained they had been interested in the business angle and in no way were planning to buck public opinion.

Larger cities over the state, notably Dallas and Fort Worth, had refused to allow internment of the Nazi marines in or near their city limits. Several smaller towns had done as Lockney had in inviting an interview with Captain Daehne.

He told the city commission that most of the men had families and would be under ship's discipline while interned. The seamen are quartered in inadequate space on Angel island near San Francisco.

Weather Data To Be Offered

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 12 (U.P.) — The WPA, which has delved into, sifted, analyzed and enumerated everything else, is ready to publish the data collected in five years study of the nation's weather.

Only WPA project of its kind, the New Orleans weather bureau project began to make an intensive study in 1935 of weather conditions over the United States from the standpoint of aviation.

James H. Crutcher, state administrator, announced recently that the results of these studies will be made available to military as well as commercial aviation in the form of a publication to be released soon by the U. S. Weather Bureau, which sponsored the project.

"This study of flying weather is especially valuable for national defense," Crutcher said.

Fog Study Included

One series of charts shows the percentage of time that surface visibility is one mile or less; that the ceiling—or altitude of clouds—is 1,000 feet or less; and how often dense fog occurs.

The study shows that the southwestern United States, especially New Mexico and Arizona, has the best year-around flying weather. It's considerably more dangerous around Siskuyon Summit, Ore., where the visibility is a mile or less for 13.2 per cent of the time, the ceiling is 1,000 feet or less for 16.7 per cent, and dense fog exists for 8.6 per cent of the time.

Leslie Smith, supervisor of the project, said the study of the upper air would show the average percentage of time each type of weather prevails in all sections of the country. He said it would enable commercial airlines to avoid those sections where local flying conditions are generally bad and to map their routes to take the best advantage of prevailing winds and favorable conditions.

"Aviation has its own weather nomenclature," Smith said. "It recognizes three types of weather: contact, in which the pilot is constantly in sight of the ground; instrument, in which the pilot must fly 'blind' for at least part of the time; and closed, in which there is no visibility or ceiling."

The survey was based on hourly surface weather observations over a five-year period at 260 airports throughout the country and was supplemented with a study of upper air currents taken from balloons at 120 airports during a 10-year period.

Also, during this time, the project compiled a marine weather atlas for the world showing average conditions in all oceans. It also has completed a study of rainfall in the United States.

House Adion Is Unanimous

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12 (AP) — Urged by President Roosevelt to act with "as little delay as possible," the House passed with a chorus of "ayes" yesterday legislation designed to help rout "fifth columnists" and prevent alien Communists, Nazis and Fascists from becoming United States citizens.

The measure, a proposed new nationality code, now goes to the Senate. Not one word of opposition was voiced in House debate.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the rules committee placed in the record a letter from Mr. Roosevelt which said:

"I am informed that the opinion is entertained in some quarters that its enactment might serve to curb certain fifth column activities."

The measure, in the words of Rep. Rees (R-Kan), "drastically tightens" provisions regarding eligibility for naturalization. Explaining the bill to the House, he also said that it would withdraw citizenship from "thousands" of "nominal" citizens who have not been in this country in years.

It also would take away the citizenship of Americans who serve in the armed forces of another country, or vote in a foreign election.

New bars against naturalization would be set up against those who advocate or promote the overthrow of the government. Rees expressed belief that these provisions would prevent Communists, Nazis or Fascists from becoming citizens.

Was Confined To Bed Before The Gly-Cas

Herbal Remedy Again Unfailing; Bowels Now Act Regular; Digestion Fine; Feeling Best in Five Years.

"After all other medicines of my experience had failed to give me satisfactory results I began a trial of Gly-Cas," said Mrs. G. H. Priem, 1615 Navasota St., Austin, Texas. "Since childhood I had been a constant sufferer with constipation. My digestion was greatly effected and regardless of my diet I was sure to suffer dreadfully after each meal. Those attacks of indigestion were almost unbearable. I did not sleep or get my rest and was most miserable at all times. My back pained badly and I was constantly disturbed by too-active kidneys. When Gly-Cas was praised so highly by many of my friends I was not completely sold on it . . . until I gave it a trial myself.

MRS. G. H. PRIEM

"I was confined to bed at the time I heard of Gly-Cas but once I began taking it my health worries soon began disappearing," continued Mrs. Priem. "That dreadful case of improper elimination has now been remedied for my bowels are regular in removing those clogged intestinal impurities. Now I am able to eat the foods I like best and without fear of ill effects following. Those backpains have been relieved, I rest and sleep well without any disturbances and am glad for having given Gly-Cas the opportunity of proving itself in my stubborn case."

Gyl-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city, and by the leading druggists in surrounding towns. Adv.
