SEARCH BEGUN FOR FREDERICK BUSINESS MAN

B. C. Rust, Prominent Real Estate Dealer, Disappeared Wednesday.

OFFICERS PUZZLED

Checked Out $50 from Bank On Afternoon Preceding His Absence.

FREDERICK, Okla., Feb. 4.—An effort is being made here to locate B. C. Rust, prominent real estate man of this city, who disappeared late Wednesday morning and whose whereabouts is cloaked in mystery despite a wide search.

Mr. Rust left his home here Wednesday morning to go to town as usual. There was nothing out of the ordinary in his demeanor, his wife said, and he had given no indication of any kind that he intended leaving town. He was seen on the streets in front of a local cafe shortly before noon and that is the last time he has been noticed.

Some alarm was felt when he failed to return home at night, and Tuesday morning officials were appealed to to make a search. This has so far proven fruitless. An investigation today revealed that he had checked out $50 from his bank account here Tuesday morning.

The fact that the man was subject to fainting spells occasionally and once was badly injured in a fall resulting from a faint is guiding the search in some degree.

Rust has a wife and four daughters in Frederick, three of the latter being unmarried.

Y., for three weeks. With her was Myrion Failing, 33, also of Syracuse, married and a father. The girl was taken back to Syracuse by her father, apparently overjoyed at her release. Failing was arrested.

The father attempted to attack Failing when the pair met in the Camden county jail but was restrained by police.

"It was her beauty that made me do it," said Failing when questioned by police. "I was crazy, I guess. I loved her; I was made about her. I have guarded her and taken care of her and have not harmed her. She will tell you I have always treated her with respect."

"I did not know Failing," Miss Case explained, "except just to speak to. One day I saw him on the streets. He had an automobile and asked me to take a ride. I get in and he would not let me out again. We drove and drove, and finally came to the cabin in the woods. He made me get out and said if I dared to run away he would follow me and shoot me."

Manhunt Centers At Duncan After Fatal Gun Fight

Officers Believe Wichita Falls Fugitive Leads Gang That Meets Disaster

DUNCAN, Okla., Feb. 4.—Southeastern Oklahoma was in the throes of a wide man hunt Thursday in an effort to run down members of a gang who early Wednesday morning held up an oil field truck bound for Alma in eastern Stephens county to Duncan and shot and possibly fatally wounded James Buckner of Lawton. Four of the gang have been accounted for; one is dead as a result of the gun battle which followed the holdup, and three are in jail following captures extending over a 36-hour period ending at noon Thursday. A fifth, whom officers here believe to be R. J. Russell, convicted hi-jacker and at liberty following a sensational jail-break at Wichita Falls, Texas some three weeks ago, was still being sought Thursday night with the chances of his capture diminishing with the advance of the hours.

Russell's wife has been under surveillance of officers since noon Thursday when she was seen taking lunch in a restaurant at Conditville, a small village northeast of Duncan. She has not, however, been taken in custody.

One Is Dead.

Of the bandits, one, James Hendricks of Maysville, alleged by some to be the leader of the gang, is dead. Three, Harvey Lem Brooks, Bob Stevens of Wynnewood, and H. Henderson of Duncan, were in the Stephens county jail at Duncan tonight.

One of the three, Bob Stevens, is said to have made a confession to the prosecuting attorney of Stephens county, J. H. Long and the confession, it is understood, names Russell of Wichita Falls, as an accomplice.

On the strength of the belief that the last of three to be captured, H. Henderson, was Russell, Sheriff Fred Smith of Wichita county came to Duncan early Thursday night. The prisoner, who was captured early in the day at Maysville and was brought to Duncan Thursday night, was of a different build from Russell. He gave his name as Henderson.

Sheriff Smith stated here tonight he concurred with Stephens county officers in the belief that the remaining member of the gang is Jack Russell.

The one fatality, the serious and possibly fatal injury to Buckner, the three arrests, and the hunt for another are all the outgrowth of an attempted hold-up on a lonely road between Alma and Duncan.

W. T. Myers of Duncan and James Buckner of Lawton were returning in a large oil field truck from the Carter lease in south Jefferson county when a small car in which were four or five men drove up beside them and commanded them to stop their truck and "stick 'em up."

As soon as he noticed the automobile Myers is said to have told Buckner to hand him a gun. As soon as it became evident that the truck had no intention of stopping, one of those in the car, believed to have been Hendrix, opened fire. The fire was immediately returned by Myers who kept shooting until his gun was empty. While reloading he heard Buckner, his companion say, "You got one of them, but they got me."

Continues to Shoot.

Buckner slumped over in the seat. Myers continuing to reload and shoot as fast as he could. The men in the truck stopped their car and got out, using the car as a shield to escape bullets from the truck. For some reason, possibly when they ran out of ammunition, they suddenly stopped firing. Two of them picked up one of their number who was evidently wounded and, forcing him in the car, made off down the road.

They left one of their number standing in the middle of the highway. A few more shots were fired before the one remaining disappeared in the darkness, leaving Myers to administer to Buckner's wounds. Myers was not hurt, although the cab of the truck was punctured by more than 50 bullet holes.

Bob Bailey, deputy United States marshall, and William Toney, Stephens county officer, arriving on the scene shortly afterwards, started in pursuit of the bandits and found one of them walking down the roadside. He did not resist arrest.

Early Wednesday morning Dr. Rice at Velma phoned officers at Duncan that a car with two or three men in it had driven up to his home and thrown the body of a dead man in his yard. The body was later identified as that of James Hendrix of Maysville, a former convict.

Another Captured.

Lem Brooks, a third member of the gang, was captured south of Ara Wednesday afternoon by a sheriff's posse which was scouring the country, while the fourth member, the man who gave his name as Henderson, was not captured until early Thursday morning near Maysville.

Myers told Stephens county officers Thursday that Hendrix had threatened him some time ago. Last Sunday night gang of four men, believed to have been the same, held up F. W. Myers, about four miles east of Duncan. One of the gang's number, believed to have been Hendrix, told W. T. Myers at the time, "We want your brother and we are going to get him."

Woman Editor Says Southern Women Oppose Fag

Smoking Likely Is a Fad Which Soon Will Die, Says Mrs. Lee J. Rountree, of Bryan, Texas

Believes Femininity Will Reject the Cigarette

WACO, Feb. 4. — (AP) — Maybe smoking among women is a fad. And maybe it will, like most fads, pass before it really fastens on the women of the south.

Mrs Lee J. Rountree, Bryan, in Waco today, and who holds positions unique in the history of women's work in the United States, is optimistic as to the final fate of the cigarette as it affects the habits of femininity.

"I am hoping that the pendulum will swing at least far enough the other way to prevent our southern women from smoking," said Mrs. Rountree. "There are a lot of stable, dependable, far-seeing girls and women here, after all is said, and if smoking among women proves a fad it will have time to pass before it is taken up here to amount to anything. If it comes at all, it will in my judgment, be a long time in coming, and will encounter much opposition, among the women as well as men."

Mrs. Rountree attended the meeting here yesterday of the fourth district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, as chairman of legislation of that body, making her presence felt throughout all deliberations.

Mrs. Rountree is probably the only woman in the United States who is president of the chamber of commerce, and she is, in addition, a director of that organization, is editor of the Bryan Daily and Weekly Eagle and president of the Eagle Printing company.

"I have just had a letter from New York, stating that I am probably the only woman in the United States who is president of a chamber of commerce and stating that 'the eyes of the country are on you,'" said Mrs. Rountree. She added, with a note of tenderness and determination in her voice: "I feel that I am carrying on for a good and true man with whom I lived for many years most happily, and this makes my work everything to me. He fell in the harness, striving for constructive ongoing and I feel that it is a privilege to do my best to go forward in the direction he was going."

Explanatory of her remark, for those who do not know the history of her husband, the late Lee Rountree, he was one of the best known publishers of Texas, and took a prominent part in the public affairs of the state.

SAUL IS HOST TO EMPLOYES

Prominent Merchant Here Gives Banquet and Dance Thursday

Saul Lebenson, owner of Saul's stores in Wichita Falls, Electra, Iowa Park and Burkburnett, entertained 110 of his employes with a banquet and dance at the Kemp hotel Thursday night.

Only the employes of the store were guests at the banquet but the dance was open to relatives and friends of those in the organization. Twenty-two out of town persons were present.

Mr. Lebenson acted as toastmaster at the banquet and in his short talk extended a hearty welcome to all. He complimented them for their honest and sincere efforts for the past year. "I am glad to be with you all here tonight," he said, "and I feel greatly complimented on this occasion to extend you a welcome."

To a stranger it would seem impossible to think that the organization and the small army present sprung from a small one-man store with only Saul Lebenson as its manager and clerk just 11 years ago. To Saul there was a touch of sentiment as he referred to his past achievements and growth from a small beginning to the place he now holds in the city's business life.

Artie Collins' 8-piece orchestra supplied music for the dance.

Conquest of Irish Furnishes a Tale For Tom Meighan

This is a tale of the conquest of Ireland. They said that Ireland could never be conquered. Through long centuries of strife, Dane and Saxon broke their lances in vain upon her stubborn ramparts. And now at last this Island of Song and Story has been conquered by one man, armed only with a smile.

Tom Meighan smiled, and Ireland fell. It is an interesting tale and it harks back to a night in New York two years ago when Thomas Meighan and John McCormack were having dinner together in the latter's apartment on Park Avenue.

Said John to Tom:

"Look here, you've made pictures in Havana, Canada, Panama and strange and sundry places all over these United States, why don't you go to Ireland to make a film? Your ancestors came from Ireland and they handed down to you a splendid heritage of Irish tradition. The Kingdom of Kerry with its Lakes of Killarney has some of the most beautiful scenery in the world."

And Tom Meighan sat there over his after dinner coffee and cigarette, listening to the tenor's rich, musical voice recounting Ireland's glories, and finally he said:

"John, help me find a romantic Irish story, one as wholesome and fine as the songs you sing and I'll go."

So it was that "Irish Luck," Tommy Meighan's new Paramount starring picture, due at the Strand theatre today was unearthed and Ireland welcomed Tom.

So Erin Fell.

"Irish Luck," directed by Victor Heerman, who made "The Confidence Man" and "Old Home Week" is an adaptation by Thomas J. Geraghty of the Saturday Evening Post serial, "An Imperfect Impostor," by Norman Venner.

'My Girl' to Be A Musical Event Of The Season Here

The musical comedy event of the season will be the engagement of "My Girl" at the Palace Feb. 8 and 9, which comes here direct from its long run of one year at the Vanderbilt Theatre in New York and if the advance reports are to be considered seriously it is the peppiest musical comedy that the metropolis has enjoyed for some time.

"My Girl" has a rollicking musical score written by Harry Archer—well remembered for his song success "I Love You." The book is by Harlan Thompson and the New York critics were unanimous in proclaiming it the most intelligent story that they had reviewed in a long time. An important part of the performance is the orchestra and in order that the score will be perfectly played Nicola, Welch and DeMille, who sponsor the tour of "My Girl" have arranged with the Harry Archer orchestra that scored such a brilliant success during the run of the piece at the Vanderbilt theatre to play the music on tour and to render the concert during the intermission in the same manner that proved such a tremendous success with New York theatregoers.

The demand for seats will be large and the management request those desiring to secure choice seats to send in their orders promptly.

Humble Makes Big Buy in Salt Dome

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Purchase of 1428 acres of Bocher land in Duval county at the Piedras Pintas salt dome by the Humble Oil and Refining company has been followed by the purchase by the Magnolia Petroleum company of 1,640 acres out of surveys 99, 100, 105 and 106 nearly five miles northeast of the Humble's discovery well on the Piedras Pintas salt dome.

The Magnolia already owned a big block out of the Megerle land in survey 245 immediately to the north of the Humble well less than a mile which they recently bought. The 1,640 acres is too far distant to be on the same salt dome as the Humble's discovery well. It is understood some believe that there is another salt dome to be found in that territory to the northeast where the Gulf has survey 104 and the Grayburg has half of survey 83.

This playing the northeast territory along with the preparations of the Humble to drill on the Ball ranch off to the southwest near Sweden is attracting some attention since they line up in a row from northeast to southwest. It is presumed they are all based on the supposition of salt dome.

Romola Is Coming

Lillian Gish will be seen at the Olympic Theatre next week in her latest picture "Romola," a film version of the famous novel by George Eliot. It is a Henry King production for Inspiration and is released through Metro-Goldwyn.

Others in the cast include Ronald Coleman, who played opposite the star in "The White Sister," William H. Powell, Charles Lane, and Herbert Grimwood, besides a number of distinguished Italian actors. The picture was made at Florence, Italy, the actual locale of the story.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

19 Indictments Against Former Louisiana Official Are Quashed; 36-Year Exile of Fugitive Ends

Major Edward A. Burke, Who Fled to Honduras, After Diverting Nearly $200,000 State Funds to Own Use, May Return to New Orleans; Is 85 Now.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Nineteen indictments 36 years old were quashed in criminal court here today, ending an exile for Major Edward A. Burke extending ver a period of 35 years. After "all the cases against Major Burke" were nolle prossed on motion of the district attorney with concurrence by the attorney general and governor of Louisaina, a cable was sent by friends to Major Burke in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, bidding him "come home."

Major Burke, who rose from private to major at the age of 24 in the First Texas Infantry of the confederate army, fled to Honduras in 1890 with a price of $10,000 on his head, charged with diverting nearly $200,000 of state funds to his own use while he was state treasurer, a position he held 10 years. Nineteen indictments set forth a variety of charges ranging from "embezzlement of public money" to "publishing as true forged bonds of the state of Louisiana."

Specifically it was charged that as treasurer he took state bonds that had been returned to be officially destroyed and reissued them, making sales to banks and individuals at distant points. Friends said that much of the money realized from the fraudulent bonds went to promote the world's exposition in New Orleans, of which Major Burke was director general.

In England when the charges were made public the state treasurer went to Honduras where he was safe from extradition. For many years his friends have sought to make it possible for him to return to New Orleans. He is now 85 years old.

Born in Louisville, Ky., he started work as a telegraph operator for the Illinois Central railway at Urbana, Ill., and rose to superintendent of the Texas and New Orleans railroad when 20 years old. After the war he made and lost a fortune in cotton in Galveston and came to New Orleans where he became a newspaper publisher and finally state treasurer.

His wife, who was Susan E. Gaines of Kentucky and Texas, died in Honduras.

Levey Vaudeville At Olympic Hits Spot This Week

Tex Martin started her off with a spectacular offering of lariat work; he's billed as "The Roping Fool."

Dixon and Freeman characterized the high brown and black in "A Minute Late," and they got across hilariously with a packed house.

There's real life, and honest-to-goodness art in the Tanglefoot Steppers act. Roy and Warren Scott and Alice Frederick proved themselves a trio of mean hoofers, both toe, eccentric and otherwise.

"Blythe Buffoonery" is all it's been advertised. Roy Dove and Girlie are there, so attested the Thursday audience enthusiastically.

The Clark brothers put on some novel stuff. It's a high class act, but to find out what they do you must take in the current offering of Levey time vaudeville at the Olympic which opened yesterday.

Buster Keaton's on hand also in a snappy picture entitled "Go West."

Treat Colds 2 Ways

With ONE Treatment

WHEN rubbed over throat and chest for all kinds of cold troubles Vicks VapoRub does two things at once:

(1) Its ingredients are vaporized by the body heat and inhaled direct to the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the difficult breathing, and

(2) At the same time it warms and stimulates the skin like an old-fashioned poultice, "drawing out" the soreness and pain and thus aiding the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

This double action of Vicks usually relieves the most stubborn cold over night.

Night Watchman Is Locked Up in Vault While 4 Robbers Get Money

VENUS, Tex., Feb. 4.—(AP)—Robbers locked a night watchman in a vault here last night and robbed two banks, taking a total of $800. The Farmers and Merchants National lost $700 and the Citizens State $100.

Four men drove up to the Farmers National about 1 a. m., forced J. E. Chambers, 65, night watchman, into the vault, and attempted to burn their way into the inner safe with torches. Failing in this, they locked Chambers in the vault and made away with the loose change in the bank. They also failed to enter the money vault at the Citizens, where they found but $100 available.

Ivan Stafford, who was with Chambers, was knocked unconscious and left on the sidewalk. He recovered after the robbers departed and gave the alarm. Bank officials released Chambers.

The men drove toward Dallas after the robbery. Venus is about 20 miles east of Cleburne.

PUT BRAINS INTO IT

GROSVENOR ATTERBURY, a famous New York City architect with a well-known record of achievement in his field, has found time to make a study of the social aspect of the housing situation of the workers of America and what he says is a challenge to the nation. Mr. Atterbury informs the American Institute of Architects that this country must organize the wholesale production of housing on the principle of shop manufacture to make possible the elimination of waste in processes and labor similar to the savings made in other highly developed manufacturing industries, such, for example, as have already given to the poor man his shoes, his watch, his clothing and automobile. "We need five, six and seven dollar rooms and we want them paid for by the tenant and not by philanthropists or the general public," says Mr. Atterbury. "All of the schemes now proposed for tax exemption, state or city financing through a public service corporation or otherwise, are emergency measures, unsound economically and very doubtful for accomplishing their real purpose."

This is straight thinking and straight talking and should serve to arouse the building industry to an effort to discover better methods for the public benefit. Mr. Atterbury has done a public service in denouncing the "welfare" method of approaching the housing situation. Every country in Europe that has spent public money upon vast housing schemes has wasted money, encouraged graft among contractors and politicians and done little or nothing for workers despite the raids upon honest taxpayers.

SHOULD PICK THEIR OWN COTTON

ACCORDING to the Victoria Advocate, Congressman John C. Box, "told a leading Victorian who took issue with him on the subject of Mexican labor, and explained the dangers of the Box bill, that the farmers should pick their own cotton, and spoke about some of them being too lazy to do it. The Victorian stated in reply that fortunately many farmers in South Texas raised more cotton than they themselves could pick." The same newspaper says it is probably that the cotton farmers of Texas and other cotton growing states will send delegations to Washington to protect against the passage of the Box bill.

NOT ALWAYS ONE THING

"I HEARD he was a," something viciously uncomplimentary, "but when I met him he did not impress me that way at all." The conversation concerned a factory official whose reputation in the shop was not the highest.

"But when I met him." That always makes a difference. Not knowing what discipline a man is under, what requirements are made by the successful achievement of a big project, we make judgments which may express our emotions but which are very far from putting values on the situation.

No man is small enough to be disposed of in a sentence. In trying to do this we resemble false gods. A man is too big to be disposed of in any number of sentences which any mortal can frame. He may be what you say he is—but he is other things as well.

HOUSE ON WILSON

IN my opinion it ill served so great a man as Woodrow Wilson for his friends, in mistaken seal, to claim for him impeccability," is the verdict of Colonel E. M. House. Woodrow Wilson is in his grave. History will take care of his achievements and give him the proper place in this hall of fame. Why not let him rest in peace?

HONESTY BEGINS AT HOME

"The trouble with governments," said the man on the train, "is that they all are crooked. Everybody is trying to get something out of the people by rascality of some kind, even if it's just the salary he draws.

"Business is different. What we need is a business government. Kick out the politicians and put business men in, and we'll soon be all right."

A little later the same man, having got on more confidential terms with the other men in the smoking compartment began talking about himself.

"I'm going up the road a ways to land a contract," he said. "It's a big contract and it will set me ahead a bit if I get it. But a lot of other fellows are after it, and have been tinkering with the manager of the company who will decide. But I think I got ahead of them for I've been sending him cigars and things like that for the last few months, and I'm going to offer to loan him the money to buy a new car when I see him. And I'll tell him he can take his time about paying it back, which means that he won't need to pay it back at all."

"Business is business," said a man across the way. "Too bad we haven't got more of it in politics."

The first man looked surprised. Then he scowled.

"Well that's all right in private business," he said, "you have to do it. Public business is quite different. That belongs to the people of the country."

"I can't quite see it," said the other man. "If a man thinks it is all right to bribe a manager or a purchasing agent to be unfair to his principals, he will think it is all right to bribe a government official. The only difference is that one is a crime and the other isn't, so he takes less chances in being crooked in business. But he's exactly as dishonest."

"I don't want to criticize you or your methods, but it is this idea that it's all right to do things in business that you don't want other people to know about that makes politicians sometimes dishonest.

"In my view honesty is honesty, and ought to be practiced in business as well as in politics. And as long as it is all right to give presents to get favors in business it will be all right to do the same thing in politics, and the people will keep on doing it."

This conversation happened to take place in America. It might have taken place in almost every other country. Much as the ethics of business have advanced, there is still much carelessness about methods when two rival firms go out after big orders or big contracts. And there is much glossing over of conscience on the part of some of the people who do the buying.

When this sort of thing is ended in business it will end in politics, and the nasty thing called graft will be heard of no more.

But it is going to take a long time, for consciences are very elastic when self interest is concerned and the desire to get the better of the other fellow will be very hard to eliminate.

PRECIOUS PRIVACY

"LIFE is impossible," says George Bernard Shaw—quite seriously this time, "unless occasionally one can be an insignificant private individual." To which all the famous and notorious persons of the earth, except such as are fools, will say a hearty Amen. Privacy is the sweetest element in liberty, it is the highest fruitage of civilization, its worth unknown until it becomes difficult or lost. When the life of the plain people becomes public, a nation is on the decline. Life is mostly a thing of recesses and retirements. There is no such thing, ultimately, as a "public character," except it be The Almighty. We are all private characters. But when the pressure of curiosity or exploitation begins to be felt on our privacy, a feeling of beleagurement ensues which leads to protective measures. In G. B. S.'s case, it led to the adoption of a monomark beneath which to conceal his identity when he chooses.

SUBURBAN HEIGHTS—THE HEATING PROBLEM

"Love Bound In Wichita Falls"

By the Author of 'The Flapper Wife'

READ THIS FIRST:

FLOSSIE and MARY ROSE MIDDLETON are two pretty sisters, the daughters of a widowed mother. They work for the Dexter Automobile Company.

Mary Rose is secretary to the sales manager, JOHN MANNERS, and is in love with him. But he's engaged to DORIS HINIG, an heiress. Because of her feeling for him, Mary Rose repeatedly refuses to marry DR. TOM FITZROY.

Flossie, a born vamp, does a very poor job of keeping the office files. Mary Rose discovers she is carrying on a flirtation with the president of the company, HILARY DEXTER, although she's going to marry his secretary, SAM JESSUP. She accepts jewelry from Dexter, who is married, and goes joy riding wit him at all hours. Her mother can do nothing to make her behave herself.

John Manners falls in love with Mary Rose as he has never been in love before in his life and tells her so. That night the sisters quarrel and to "get even" with Mary Rose Flossie tells John that Mary Rose is "just stringing him along" and intends to marry Dr. Tom Fitzroy. John believes her lie, and Mary Rose is hurt by his coldness that she decides to leave Dexter's.

One night Dexter goes too far in his love making with Flossie, and she learns how little respect a married man has for the girl he professes to love. She has to walk home from her drive in the country with him, and next day she elopes with the faithful Sam. But the pair quarrel constantly about money, and finally Sam finds the jewels that Dexter had given Flossie before her marriage to Sam. He threatens to divorce her, but Flossie persuades him that the affair was really harmless. However, he leaves Dexter's employ and goes to work for JIM MORRELL, a steel man. Mary Rose quits her job at Dexter's and refuses to return even when Manners begs her to.

One night Tom Fitzroy has his neck broken in an automobile wreck, and Mary Rose marries him on his death bed. The Fitzroys beg her to come and live with them, and Mrs. Middleton points out that if she did go, there would be room at the little brown house for Sam and Flossie who expect a baby. But Mary Rose refuses to go. She still loves John Manners and does not feel like being a daughter to the Fitzroys.

(Now go on with the story)

She didn't have to wonder for very long. For when Mrs. Fitzroy came trailing back into the room a few minutes afterward she was fairly agog with news.

"I think that engagement's off!" she exclaimed, leaning back among the cushions of the long brocaded chair where she always sat. "I asked her about her wedding in June and she said she's postponed it until fall! That doesn't sound much like wedding bells to me!"

"Nor to me, either!" agreed Mrs. Middleton. "These new style girls with their Red Crosses and their clubs and their charity work and their cigarets!" She shook her head over them, despairingly.

"They'd be a lot better off with a husband and a houseful of children;" she added, "instead of traipsing off to the ends of the earth on some wild goose errand or other! They don't know what they want!"

Mrs. Fitzroy was silent for a moment. Then she looked straight at Mary Rose, whose eyes were turned away and staring into the fire.

"I guess this girl—this Miss Hinig—knows what she wants," she said quietly. "I think the man in the case doesn't want her—and she's found it out!"

Within her breast, Mary Rose's heart gave a wild leap of joy, and she felt the hot color rising to her face. She leaned over and began to poke at the fire to hide it.

After tea when Mrs. Middleton was upstairs putting on her hat to go home Tom's mother brought up the subject of Doris' engagement again.

"You're glad it's broken, aren't you?" she asked flatly, and laid her hands on the girl's shoulders, while she looked deep into the grave, blue eyes that Mary Rose raised to hers.

"Why should I be glad?" The fresh young lips were trembling.

Mrs. Fitzroy threw up her blonde head, and Mary Rose found herself thinking foolishly how much she looked like Queen Marie of Roumania.

"My dear," she said, "you can fool them all, but you can't fool me! You never cared about Tom in the way he wanted you to! Months and months ago, when we first started to play bridge together, this little Miss Hinig told me you were dead in love with Mr. Manners! I know you only married Tom because you knew he was dying—" her voice rose high and bitter.

"I did not!" Mary Rose denied it hotly. "I married him because I wanted him to be happy when he was dying! I married him because I loved him the way I might have loved a brother if I'd had one! And if he'd lived, he'd never have known that I didn't love him the way a wife loves her husband. I'd made up my mind to that!"

The older woman looked at her for a moment longer and then let her go.

"I believe you," she said slowly. "Forgive me for what I said. I'm almost out of my mind, these days. I can't get over losing my boy!"

And Mary Rose forgave her with all her heart. But she never went to the Fitzroys' house again. She felt as if she had no right to be in it—and why she felt that way, she didn't know.

* * *

That night, as she was getting ready to go to bed, Mary Rose suddenly stopped struggling with the dress that she was trying to unhook.

Caught by her own reflection in the glass, she leaned across the dresser and peered at her face.

She looked more like herself tonight than she had in weeks and weeks and weeks. The eager, dancing light had come back into her eyes, and the corners of her lips were turned up in their old smiling way. She looked happy. She looked prettier than Doris Hinig ever had, and she knew it!

"Sometimes I'm pretty—as pretty as Flossie herself!" she thought. And then she remembered something that John Manners had once told her in that grim, downright way of his.

"You're the prettiest thing alive," he had said. "And your voice is the nicest sound I've ever listened to!"

How friendly he had been those days—how he had painted the whole world for her in the colors of joy and happiness. But that was very long ago—

"Why didn't he care for me?" she wondered. "He must have for a little while. He wouldn't have taken me to see his mother if he didn't.

What could have happened to make him change toward her, overnight, as he had? If he had cared about her, half so much as she had for him, he couldn't have changed. She hadn't! She loved him now just as much as she ever had! More!

In the mirror, the little diamond wedding ring on the third finger of her left hand flashed suddenly.

Mary Rose looked at it for a long time. Then she went downstairs and lit the kitchen candle—the one her mother used when she went out in the cellar for potatoes or up in the attic for canned fruit.

It was to the attic that Mary Rose went now.

She went straight to the old doll's dresser that stood under the windows at the front—the little dresser where she kept her "spuvenirs," the little records of her life.

And into the old dancing slippers where she had hidden the newspaper clipping of John Manners' engagement to Doris Hinsing she hid something else—something small and bright that flashed in the candle light.

When she went downstairs the third finger of her left hand wore no wedding ring!

CHAPTER LXIII

The first week in April, Mary Rose left old Dr. Fitzroy's office and went to work for Jim Morrell's business partner, Cornelius Tuydeman.

Tuydeman was, beyond all shadow of doubt, the handsomest man that Mary Rose had ever seen in her life.

He was dark with the fiery, romantic swarthiness of a Valentino. And—wonders of wonders!—he was not conceited over his good looks.

He wore loose, shabby suits and dark neckties; and he was so painfully shy that Mary Rose was sorry for him.

"I don't know when I've met any one that I liked as well as I do him," she told Flossie one afternoon, when the two of them returned to Flossie's little flat from a shopping trip.

"Well, then—why not marry him?" asked Flossie, who never minced matters.

"You could, if you tried to," she went on, delicately applying a new paste rouge to her lips, as she talked. "For one thing, you're a fool not to wear black. Any girl's twice as good looking in black as she is in colors! And Tom's death has given you a perfectly good excuse to dress like a widow."

Mary Rose held up a warning hand. "Hush!" she said. "You don't suppose I'd wear mourning for Tom, do you? You see, I don't mourn for him as a woman would grieve for the only man she could ever love. Tom was my great friend, but I never would have married Tom if he'd lived."

Flossie stared at her with puzzled blue eyes.

"People are funny things," she said musingly, as she rubbed a little more of the rouge on the lobes of her ears. "I bumped into Hilary Dexter the other day when I was downtown buying baby clothes, and he said the queerest thing to me! I'm still wondering what he meant!" She shook her head in a bewildered sort of way.

"He said he'd always heard that the dangerous age for men was between forty and fifty—and that he'd found out that it is!" she added. "I told him he was talking cuckoo, but he just laughed. Sometimes he says the weirdest things!"

Mary Rose laughed, too.

"That wasn't a queer thing to say," she told Flossie. "It's a well known fact that a lot of men—and women, too—have their wildest love affairs during their middle age. I suppose it's because they know old age is just around the corner."

Flossie set her too scarlet lips in a determined line.

"Well, just let me catch Sam Jessup cutting up any didoes like that when he's middle-aged," she cried, her eyes flashing like blue flames, "and I'll bet I'll fix him! It'll be a 'dangerous age' for him, all right, if he does!"

It was a week or two later that Mary Rose saw John Manners once more.

She and Flossie were out walking and as they turned the corner of Beckwith street his car came from the east along Third street and passed close to them.

"There's John Manners!" Flossie cried, excitedly pinching her sister's arm. "Right there in that car! See?"

Mary Rose did see. She was looking straight into John Manners' eyes—the gray eyes that she loved—and on her lips was a small smile that barely lifted the dimpled corners of it.

John raised his hat and the Dexter car swept on down the wide street.

POEMS THAT LIVE

PATIENT WITH THE LIVING

Sweet friend, when thou and I are gone
Beyond earth's weary labor,
When small shall be our need of grace
From comrade o from neighbor,
Past all the strife, the toil, the care,
And done with all the sighing,
What tender ruth shall we have gained,
Alas, by simply dying!

Then lips too chary for their praise
Will tell our merits over,
And eyes too swift our faults to see
Shall no defect discover.
Then hands that would not lift a stone
Where stones were thick to cumber
Our steep hill path, will scatter flowers
Above our pillowed slumber.

Sweet friend, perchance both thou and I,
Ere love is past forgiving,
Should take the earnest lesson home—
Be patient with the living.
Today's repressed rebuke may save
Our blinding tears tomorrow;
Then patience's e'en when keenest edge
May whet a nameless sorrow.

'Tis easy to be gentle when
Death's silence shames our clamour,
And easy to discern the best
Through memory's mystic glamour;
But wise it were for thee and me,
Ere love is past forgiving,
To take the tender lesson home—
Be patient with the living.

—Margaret Sangster.

Lyrics of Life

By Douglas Malloch

TO MY BROTHER, ON HIS BIRTHDAY

Well, time has played his usual tricks
However firmly we may fix
Our hearts on home, time comes along,
A power too great, a wind too strong
And blows us east or blows us west,
Scatters the youngsters from the nest.
The very nest has blown away;
And yet I know each heart today,
However far our feet may roam,
Is thinking of the old, old home,
Reminded by this day of yours;
For in our hearts the home endures.
The nest is gone, but still the bond
Is just as firm and just as fond;
Because, my brother, after all,
Though winds may blow, and nests may fall,
The love that filled the nest survives.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

By MRS FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

UNWELCOME GRATITUDE

If Peter had thought he was brave, now he found out he was not. He wanted to do nothing so much as to turn and run—run just as fast as his feet would carry him—somewhere, anywhere away from the danger that threatened him. But try as he would he could not move nor take his eyes from the glowing one of that great Lion.

Father Lion stared at the boy and slowly opened his mouth. In spite of his fear Peter gasped with surprise.

"Good gracious! Isn't he ever going to stop?" murmured he under his breath in an aside to Step Lightly. "Surely his jaws will not stretch any further! Ooh! Terrible!" Jamie shivered. "What chance would I have in there with those sharp teeth?" Peter's own teeth began to chatter.

"None," growled the young Cub. "But you aren't going to get in there. Just keep on staring at Pa while I talk to him." And Step Lightly placed himself in front of the boy.

"Now, Dad, stop making those faces!" commanded the Cub, and his father was so astonished at the youngster's impudence that he dropped his jaws with a snap. "And don't cuff me until you have heard what I have to say," for his father was growling and lifting his paw.

"This Two-Legs is a friend of mine and not like any if his race that you ever heard of. He hates the Humans who set traps for the Four-Foots just as much as we do. And he himself has told me that all he wants is to he is a frjend of all th efurry folk. So you have nothing to gain by hurting him and a lot to lose. Let me tell you something. He pulled a sharp needle out of my nose. It might have made me very ill if it had been left in long. I am grateful to him."

'Ouch!" cried Peter suddenly and in spite of himself. Step-Lightly, in gratitude, was licking his hand and it felt as though a piece of rough sand paper was being scraped over his skin. It hurt. Peter stood it as long as he could, but at last he had to draw his hand away.

Step-Lightly looked up in surprise.

"What blood upon your finger?" growled he. "Where did it come from? Let me lick it off!"

"No, thanks!" said Peter quickly, and put his finger to his own lips. "I'd rather not, if you please."

Very Truly Yours.

I've sent you everything I ever wrote
In verse, (or worse,) in prose or anecdote.
Whenever by the Muse I have been bitten
I've promptly sent you all that I have written.
I've lived in hope that they would bring the jack;
Instead, you sent my contributions back!
They all returned, the good, the fair, the rotten;
My bitterness is now almost forgotten.
I'm merely writing you this final note
To let you know I still retain my goat!

INDOOR GAMES FOR WINTER
(Suggested By Isabel Winkler.)
Basement Game.

Open furnace door, pick up official shovel and at the count of three bend back at 45 degree angle. Balance 20 pounds of some black substance on shovel and at report of starter's pistol hurl into furnace. Five and three-fifths seconds is considered good time.

Bathroom Touring.

This is great fun! You can have all the thrills of travel without leaving your home. All the apparatus needed is a gang-plank extending from chair to bath-tub. Seat yourself in the tub, and open the throttle, turning on gas (hot water) and advancing spark (cold water). You are now steaming straight ahead, passing soap dish on left, and bath brush on right. Advance gas until speed becomes terrific. Slow down and cool off, passing sponge on left. Overhaul soap on right, passing at 20 knots. Whistle through fog, and when tired of traveling, retard tuby by pulling the plug. Climb the gang-plank.

Going to Sleep Exercises.

Disrobe in chilly bedroom, putting on athletic pajamas. Rig up diving board near bed. Test warmth of bed by dabbing toe in it. Leap to the board, and holding the breath, dive into the bed. Strike out between the blankets, using the Australian crawl stroke. Swim vigorously until warm, then turn on back and float.

Interpretation.

"What time did you get home last night?" asked a mother of her daughter at breakfast.

"Oh, it was before one, I know," was the sleepy reply.

"Before one! Humpf. What was all that noise about three o'clock this morning?"

"That was father, mother, he's the one I meant."

—Gerald L. Palmer.

339 MILLIONS ASKED FOR ARMY

Appropriation Bill Calls For 118,583 Enlisted Men For Year

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The war department appropriation bill calling for an army of 118,583 enlisted men and 11,749 officers, or approximately the existing strength, was reported today to the house.

It recommends expenditures during the next fiscal year totaling $339,581,000 or $1,087,000 above highest estimates. This represents an increase of $6,965,000 over last year's appropriation and marks the first instance during the present congress where budget estimates have been exceeded.

Of the total amount military activities would be given $261,081,000 or an increase of $1,223,000 above current funds and $864,000 above budget figures. Non-military activities would receive $78,500,000, an increase of $5,741,000 over current funds and $223,000 above the budget.

Funds directly provided for the army included:

For the air service $15,256,000, an increase of $345,000.

An authorization to contract for $3,000,000 additional expenditures would be provided. Of the total $7,604,000, an increase of $704,000 would be for new equipment.

The bill would provide for a reduction in the number of non-commissioned officers and first class privates in order to effect a saving of $988,000. The appropriations subcommittee which drafted the bill said this reduction would be brought about by failure to fill such vacancies when they occurred.

A total of $6,000,000 would be for the procurement of ammunition and other supplies to build up the reserve kept on hand.

PROF DISCOVERS PLAN TO "SEND FRUIT TO SLEEP"

LONDON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—John McLean Thompson, professor of botany at Liverpool university, the Daily Mail says, has discovered a method for fruit preservation which is expected to supersede cold storage and make possible the importation to this country of fruits that never have been tasted here.

Professor Thompson describes his method as "sending fruit to sleep." It consists of a single apparatus by which even temperature and humidity are maintained in the storeroom.

Negro Shrine Suit To Come Up Today

AUSTIN, Feb. 4—(AP)—In section B of the commission of appeals will be submitted tomorrow morning an oral argument the case of Burrell vs. Michaux from Harris county, which involves the question as to whether negro Shrine organizations shall be permitted to use the emblems, insignia and jewels of the white Shrine.

More Truth Than Poetry

TWO OPINIONS

When first we were told a distinguished R. A.
To a London reporter had said
That he always spent ten or twelve hours a day
Asleep on a couch or in bed;
Our anger arose, and we cried in disdain,
"This man is committing a crime.
How can one to heights of ambition attain
If he sleeps full one-half of his time?"

But that was at night, when the lights were ablaze
And the game was all going our way,
And all of the crowd would come in for a raise
And all of them able to pay.
But when the alarm clock had bade us to rise—
Oh! the room was a terrible sight—
We thought as with blankets we covered our eyes,
That perhaps the old fellow was right.

Next evening the matter came up in our mind,
And we muttered: "The man is dead wrong.
What joy and profit can any one find
In sleeping so dreadfully long?
In bed is where no one should ever abide
Save maybe the sick and the old,
The man who toils late, with his eyes open wide
Is the man who is praised and extolled."

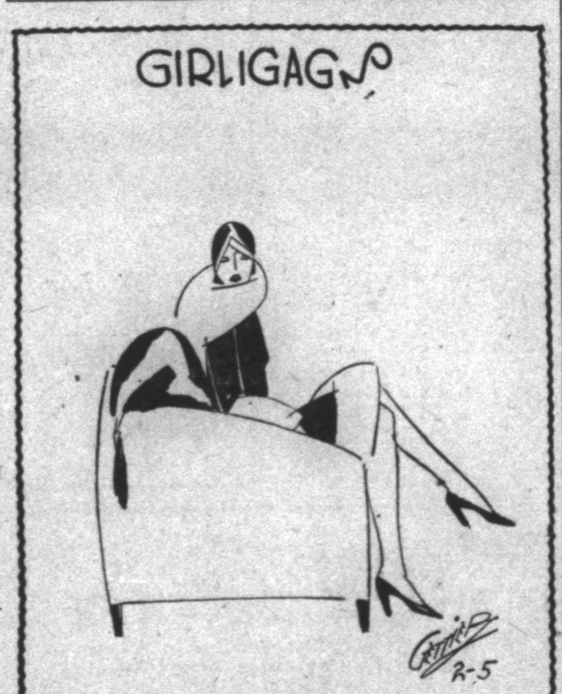

But when in the morning the snow fell without
And the breezes blew chill through the room,
When the shades on the windows were flapping about
And beyond them was nothing but gloom.
We said, as we settled ourselves for a nap
And brushed a few snowflakes away:
"That artist is quite a conservative chap:
We really should sleep night and day!"

ONCE UPON A TIME — LITTLE FREDDY WITH HIS FIDDLE—XI — by W. J. ENRIGHT.

THE STORY UP TO NOW

ONCE A POOR LITTLE BOY NAMED FREDDY GAVE THREE PENNIES EARNED WORKING FOR THE SKINFLINT SHERIFF TO BEGGARS, AND IN RETURN GOT THREE WISHES—A FIDDLE THAT MADE EVERYONE DANCE, A GUN THAT ALWAYS HIT THE MARK, AND A PROMISE THAT NOBODY COULD SAY NO TO HIM. HE GOT SOME FINE CLOTHES AND WENT BACK TO SEE THE SHERIFF. FREDDY PLAYED HIS FIDDLE AND MADE THE SHERIFF DANCE IN SOME THORNS UNTIL HIS CLOTHES WERE AS RAGGED AS FREDDY'S ONCE HAD BEEN. THE WATCHMEN ARRESTED FREDDY.

THE SHERIFF WAS SO FURIOUS HE WANTED FREDDY HANGED. HE WOULD HEAR OF NOTHING ELSE.

BUT LITTLE FREDDY HAD A CURE FOR ALL TROUBLE AND THAT WAS HIS FIDDLE. HE BEGAN TO PLAY ON IT AND THE WATCHMEN FELL A-DANCING TILL THEY LAY DOWN AND GASPED FOR BREATH.

SO THEY SENT SOLDIERS AND THE GUARD TO HELP, BUT IT WAS NO BETTER WITH THEM THAN WITH THE WATCHMEN. AS SOON AS EVER FREDDY SCRAPED THE FIDDLE THEY WERE ALL BOUND TO DANCE, SO LONG AS HE COULD LIFT A FINGER TO PLAY A TUNE. BUT THEY WERE HALF DEAD LONG BEFORE HE WAS TIRED. © McClure Newspaper Syndicate TOMORROW—THEY STEAL A MARCH ON FREDDY.

Ed Hughes' Column

THAT DELANEY HOOK.

Discussion of the knuckle industry, for it has become an industry of late, sooner or later veers around to the sharp, incisive hitters of ring history. Sharp-shooters, we may call them because the term fits to perfection. There are not many of them doing business today, most of the present crop of smackers being of the mauling order, if they can hit at all, and the rest being conspicuously lacking in soporific striking power.

* * *

One man stands out of the ruck as a devastating hitter of the old school. Jack Daleney of Bridgeport, combines the sharp accuracy of the oldtime English boxer with the explosive battering power of the Ketchel type of fighter. Added to these qualities he has the cool brain and the instinct that tells him, "Now is the time to let the right fly—he's ripe for it."

* * *

There is no dearth of this type of fighter in the pages of fistic history. In fact, a whole galaxy of them come to mind instantly as cases in point. In the early days there were the original Jack Dempsey, Bob Fitzsimmons, Joe Gans, Stanley Ketchel, Terry McGovern, Aurelia Herrera, Sam Langford, Dal Hawkins, Peter Maher, Tommy Ryan and so on ad infinitum.

* * *

Of that list two stand out preeminent among the rest: Joe Gans and Bob Fitz. Why, Joe Gans could climb through the ropes with the best men of his day when he was in his prime and tell you the round in which he could put them away. And he would not make them up before he dropped them, either, if he did not choose to. No "softening process" for the Old Master. He just toyed with them until he was tired of it or until the round in which he had bet he would win rolled around and then he would sink in the crusher. Joe never needed to look around to see if they were getting up after he floored them, either. He just knew they were down for keeps.

* * *

Fitz was a sharpshooter with an immense drive behind his gloves; so was Peter Maher, but the latter could not "Take it." Fitz could and did on occasion. Ketchel was dynamite gone loco. He was accurate enough, a man that hit like he did had little use for accuracy. I should have mentioned Young Otto in this connection. Otto could hit an opponent anywhere and put him away. It has been said he could slap a man on the wrist and break his neck. Unfortunately he could not sop up punishment either.

* * *

McGovern was of the Ketchel type: Hawkins, too. Herrera comes under this head, too. And all of these could take it. Billy Papke nearly duplicated Stanley Ketchel. Joe Rivers possessed a devastating wallop, too, but he lacked the head to balance matters. Abe Attell was accuracy personified, but he was not a heavy hitter. Packy McFarland had everything—the sock, the accuracy, the will to use his power and the gameness to take it if he had to, which he seldom or never did.

* * *

Drawing a little closer to the contemporaries of Delaney, we find Benny Leonard possessing the sock, the coolness, the accuracy and the brain that characterize Delaney's ring masterpieces. Sam Langford is not so far back in ring pages that he can not be easily recalled by most of us. There was a man with a punch! Langford jolted them from the elbow, sending the punch five or six inches and—curtains. So it was with Charley White. A short left hook from Charlie and then the pay-off. But Charlie thought three times, fiddled twice and then shot it. Generally the opponent was gone by that time. Slow thinking cost Mr. Anchowitz, as he was born, ring immortality.

* * *

Gorgeous Georges Carpentier, one of France's great financiers and ringdom's most colorful performancer, toted a dangerous weapon dangling from his flexible right wrist. His sweeping right hook to the jaw contained everything that spells K. O. And when he was in his prime, which he is most emphatically not right now, he was passing accurate with it. Dempsey, I think, has the punch and the accuracy, but he lacks the coolness of Delaney, Gans, Langford et al. Berlenbach has the power but not the jolt. He hits hard, but places his blows where they happen to land. Paulie has trouble hitting an agile boxer. Fitz, Ketchel, Hawkins and others of their stamp never found any one so clever that they could not get in a shot now and then.

* * *

With Health Good, Delaney Might Be Champion.

With decent breaks in health Jack Delaney might easily have been a world's champion right this minute. Sickness, accidents, blood poisoning, all these have played their part in keeping the French-Canadian from a fistic throne and sceptre. Perhaps Jack is a little to blame himself, too. It seemed to us close to the ring the last time he fought Berlenbach that he was over cautious. That he did not spring in as we thought he should have in the fourth round and finish Paulie when he had him down and dazed. But perhaps the Jack Delaney of a few months earlier or the Jack Delaney of today would do that thing. Another match will tell.

* * *

Who knows but that there was an element of surprise in that bout for Jack? As I have said, he is the genuine, dyed in the wool sharpshooter, the one punch killer. He landed right enough on Paul's chin, and Paul, as per schedule, hit the canvas. But Paul got up. As a general rule, when Jack Delaney drops them they stay dropped. But Paul, as I say, got up. Perhaps being a thinker as well as a slugger was a handicap to Mons. Jack right then. Where Charlie White, knowing nothing but to punch would have waded in with the finisher, Mons. Jack stepped back to think about Paul's getting up when by right he should have been entertaining with a harp solo. And while the rapid cogitations passed through Jack's active brain Paul recuperated and the title, as far as Jack was concerned, took wings.

* * *

Enter Punch? Exit Boxer and Crowd.

Nevertheless, Jack Delaney, the French Canuck from Bridgeport, has almost everything. He hits hard, he drives his blows in groove to the button, he never loses his head and he is not handicapped by foolish sentiments of mercy. An opponent in distress is just an easy target for him, not a poor duck that has had enough hard luck for one night and who may come back and be decidedly annoying.

* * *

Jack, when he is in the mood, as he was twice against Tiger Flowers and once against Berlenbach, easily earns a bracket with the accurate sluggers of the past. There is no punch in ringdom today that is prettier to watch than that hook to the jaw sped by Jack Delaney's steel muscles. It comes from nowhere, but it most decidedly is going somewhere very definitely. It almost always arrives and then there is a scuffling of feet in the crowd and a shouting of ushers. "This way to the nearest exit. Don't shove."

PLENTY ROUGH AND LOTS OF SPEED FOR TWO

Ad Takes Both Falls But He Has All He Can Do To Do It

By Irene Belle

Well, the bigger Ross brings 'em the harder Ad flops 'em. In wrestling words, Ad Santel, the flying dutchman outmaneuvered and outsmarted Frank Yusko, the Slovakian, in the snappiest and most scientific exhibition of the mat art it has been the fortune of wrestling fans of of Wichita Falls to observe. The affair was put on at the American Legion quarters by Promoter Ross and drew the biggest house thus far. Santel got both falls, the first with a short arm scissors in 46 minutes and 10 seconds and the second with a leg split in 17 minutes and 50 seconds. Both falls were the outcome of the cleverest work the dutchman has shown here.

Gorman Tackles Myers

Preceding the mai nbout, the old favorite, Jack Gorman tackled Lee Myers and about 40 pounds above his own weight. The bout was without a fall and lost no interest on that account. Both men were at it tooth and toe nail for the 45 minutes that it went without stopping for breath. The wise ones thought when Jack entered the ring he was about to warble out his swan song, but Jack's another kind of a bird and he fooled 'em. He had been scheduled to meet Tommy Murphy, but Tommy suffered an injured shoulder in Dallas last week and although he was in the crowd he could not go on.

A pair of amateurs, Buster Padgitt of Lawton, Okla. and Harland Ross of Wichita Falls opened the evening with a 15 minute go which was uneventful. Neither boy has yet found out what it's all about but they're young.

On the Ropes.

Now for the Santel-Yusko go again. The match started out with Yusko holding on the ropes and Ad doing his best to pull him off. He evidently kept a wary eye upon those coiled rags for he pulled for them time and again. His other specialty was rough housing Ad but Ad just won't be rough housed and before he got through with Yusko he made his name not mud but Yuster. Someone's got to write out the Marcus of Gooseberry rules for Yusko because he doesn't give a hang about the Police Gazette, rules and regulations. He wouldn't take his eye off the ropes long enough to obey Gene Leopold's orders to get back into the center of the ring. In fact, for a few moments, it looked as though Gene would have to don the wrestling togs himself. He jawed, he clawed, he beat the floor and tore his hair and in between times showed some of the stuff which made him a formidable man eight years ago before he sighed for new worlds to conquer and took on the orient. The orient, unfortunately, showed him nothing which would aid him in beating a Dutchman.

The last fall was sensational. Ad had the double arm hold on him for several minutes and was punishing him severely. He half raised up and down he went again, still in the hold. Up he came and down he went, beating the well known Finnegan's time for in again, up again. He was scarcely out of it again when Ad got him in the leg split and the crowd started pulling on coats. It was all over.

In between the three ring circus Peter Buzukos took the stand and testified he wanted to take Jack Gorman if he had to meet him at 5 o'clock in the morning out on the street. Why he picked that ungodly hour Jack didn't know but Jack declared, although he was still on pardon perspiring from the Myers bout he would take him on "right now." Manager Ross ruled different and promised both a match for the coming week the winner to take on Matsuda whom Jack is anxious to chaw alive one of these days.

GRANGE BACK HOME

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—(AP)—"Red" Grange, considerably more wealthy and none the worse for wear after having followed a coast-to-coast trail in the last month, returned to his home in Wheaton today. The former Illinois star and the Chicago Bears, for whose professional colors he discarded his famous "77" jersey last fall, arrived in Chicago this morning from the west coast.

Wheaton will bask in his presence for three weeks, after which Grange will depart again, this time to fill a movie contract. It was announced today that he will return to the University of Illinois next fall and in the interim he hopes to take his father for an European trip.

HOW COME SCOUTS PASSED HIM UP?

That Will Be Question If Alex Delivers With Red Sox

Alex Gaston

BOSTON baseball fans have more reason to be cheerful the coming season than they have had for some time. One big reason is Alex Gaston, young catcher, once cast adrift by the New York Giants.

Alex is expected to prove a big star with the rebuilt Red Sox. He was with the Toledo club of the American association the last two years and the Boston bosses say he will cause the fans to wonder why he was left to pine away in the bushes so long. Players who have battled against him call him the best catcher in the minors.

Gaston first stepped into the professional ranks in 1915 with the Providence club of the International league. Each year in the minors his batting average increased until in 1920 he hit .299 with Milwaukee, from which club he was secured by the New York Giants. Most of his time there was spent in the bullpen and as a pinch hitter. In 1921 he averaged .400 for his work in that service.

The Giants sent him to Toledo, and whatever McGraw taught him about handling pitchers during his stay at New York did him no little good. He earned the reputation of being the shrewdest catcher in the association, and as a plate blocker he couldn't be touched. Gaston seemed destined for another shot at the big stuff when St. Louis bought Leo Dixon, but an injury kept that chance from him.

Alex is a right-handed batter and thrower. Stands 5 feet 8½ inches high and weighs around 175 pounds.

Boston is getting a hard working, conscientious catcher who will deliver the goods whenever called upon to go behind the plate.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

Some more of that Manhattan Madness must have urged a certain Broadwayite to say that it was a good thing the Polyclinic Hospital was just around the corner from the new Madison Square Garden, since they are playing ice hockey there this winter. Hockey is the game, you know, that changed a well known expression from "Say it with flowers," to "Play it with stitches."

* * *

One of the most unusual sporting events of recent years was staged the other night at Jacksonville, Ill., when a basketball team from the Illinois State School for the Blind defeated a team of boys with normal vision, 26 to 3. All the players on the state school team have badly impaired visions, but play an exceptionally clever game.

* * *

The late Andy Smith's successor as football coach at the University of California will be handicapped by the loss of exactly 13 players from the 1915 team. We think this is a bit of information that had better be concealed from the superstitiously inclined applicants for the job.

* * *

If you read the papers carefully you saw a recent dispatch from Nice, France, which said: "St. Bernard, a six-year-old thoroughbred, owned by Arthur Vell-Picard, won the Grand Prix Steeple Chase, at the odds of 5 to 2." We don't see anything in that to get excited over." Why, every day at Miami or New Orleans some "dog" wins a race and nothing is said about it.

* * *

We had quite a little scare recently upon reading the following headline: "Riley in Squash Final." We thought at first it referred to a vegetable battle of some sort, but upon a more careful reading found it related to a sporting event. Such is life.

COMPARISON OF PLAY FAVORS SUZANNE OVER U. S. NET QUEEN

NICE, France, Feb. 4—(AP)—The first opportunity for a direct comparison of the tennis gam eSuzanne Lenglen is playing this winter with that of Helen Wills came today when the French champion met Mrs. C. F. Aeschlimann in the Nice tournament and the comparison was impressively favorable to Mlle Lenglen.

Suzanne, attacking vigorously downed Mrs. Aeschlimann formerly Leslie Bancroft of Boston in two love sets. On January 22, the American woman champion was pitted against the same opponent in the Metropole tournament and won, 6-2, 6-2. Experts agreed, however, that the comparative scores hardly represent Mlle Lenglen's superiority for Mrs. Aeschlimann today was able to bring only two of the twelve games to deuce and scored only nine points in the first set and eleven in the second.

It is recalled that Mrs. Aeschmann frequently defeated Miss Wills during the season of 1922.

Miss Wills scored two more victories in the Nice tournament today. In the mixed doubles, she and C. F. Aeschlimann came through to the semi-finals by defeating Peggy Saunders and Mr. Schoval, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. Playing the first round of the women's doubles Miss Wills and Emily Bennett of England trounced Mlle Ilovaisky and Mrs. Emmett, 6-1, 6-0 (correct).

After watching the French girl's play today 13 experts matching impressions agreed in failing to see why she should fear to meet her American rival.

Delaney Hooks With John Risko Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Jack Delaney of Bridgeport, Conn., will make another bid for heavyweight honors when he boxes Johnny Risko of Cleveland, in the 10-round feature at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Risko enters the ring with the record of never having been knocked off his feet in his 18 professional fights, eight of which he won by knockouts.

Delaney has been established a favorite although he will concede about 20 pounds to his rival.

PONIES IN AGGIELAND

DALLAS, Feb. 4—(AP)—Southern Methodist University Mustangs left today for College Station, where on Friday evening they will engage the Texas Aggie cagers. Although the Mustangs have lost two games to the Arkansas Razorbacks, and one to the Texas Longhorns, they won their last two conference games. A victory Friday would give them an outside fling at the title.

Steers Sign Trinity University Backstop

DALLAS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Robert Wicker of Waxahachie, star catcher of the Trinity university nine, has been signed by the Dallas club of the Texas League and will report here on March 1. Quaker Promoters Seek Mr. Dempsey

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Herman Taylor and Robert Gunnis, local boxing promoters, left here tonight for Memphis, Tenn., to confer with Jack Dempsey there on Saturday regarding their effort to have the world's champion box either Harry Wills or Gene Tunney in the new municipal stadium here in the first week in September.

Recently the promoters wired Dempsey offering him $500,000 to meet Wills or $300,000 for a bout with Tunney. Taylor said before leaving that the proposed bout had been sanctioned by Governor Pinchot and approved by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission and that sufficient financial backing was pledged by Philadelphia men.

Mallory Loses to Bayard.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Miss Martha Bayard of Short Hills, N. J., seventh national tanking star, sprang an astonishing upset today when she conquered Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, seven times former national champion, 6 to 2, 3 to 6, 8 to 6, in the semi-finals of the Heights Casino tournament.

The double's team of Mrs. Mallory and Miss Mary K. Browne, another former national champion, reached the finals by two successive victories, the first over Mrs. W. H. Trumbull and Mrs. Frank H. Godfrey of Boston 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, and the second over Mrs. B. F. Briggs and Mrs. B. F. Stenz of New York, 6-4, 6-4.

FAUROTE AND SCOTT WIN IN SUNNY SOUTH

Tris Speaker Runs Victor Close Race For Honor.

HOUSTON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Youth and age both were served at the Houston Gun club traps today as the final events of the four-day Sunny South tournament were shot. The handicap competition, divided into two parts attracted the largest field of the meet.

In the morning Frank M. (Uncle Petie) Faurote, a veteran gunner, won the preliminary handicap and a prize of $100, while in the afternoon J. L. Scott, a youngster and the son of Walter Scott, local professional took the $150 prize and the honors in the Sunny South handicap. Both winners are from Houston.

Tris Speaker, grayhaired veteran of the baseball field, ran Scott the closest race in the afternoon shooting, scoring 94.

Both Faurote and Scott were shooting from the 18-yard line, while Speaker was two yards closer to the targets. In the previous competition all targets had been fired at from the 16-yard line.

The men who starred in previous days, shooting from the 23-yard line, could not overcome the handicap and although they showed remarkable accuracy from this distance failed to sustain their stride, Mark Arie, with a 92 and a 93, did better than either E. F. Woodward, Frank Troeh, C. W. Olney or Phil Miller.

Arie's fine shooting today gives him an aggregate score of 769, out of the 800 birds on the four-day program which allows him to carry off the honors and retain the cup offered by the gun club. If Arie can win the total point honors another year he will be given permanent possession of the trophy.

Until today E. F. Woodward was the high scorer, but he finished the meet with a record of 763 hits in the 800 efforts.

Winter League ForagE

Picked up at Random

Jinx Tucker, down in Waco, continues to be very pessimistic over the reign of the Cats in the Texas League. Jinx sees little hope for the other clubs to dethrone the Fort Worth outfit, but says all seven of the clubs will be found trying. He thinks the other magnates have strengthened up their outfits, but says the La Grave-Atz combination also has been hustling, which makes things look bad.

* * *

After calling attention to the fact that only a month—and a short month at that—remains between now and the sound of bat on ball, Jinx says the first of March will find Del Pratt's hopefuls gathering at Katy Park to begin preparations for "another assault at Fort Worth's championship fort, which has been fortified with new strength since the close of the 1925 campaign, which saw the Panthers with fangs unleashed battle successfully to maintain its supremacy in Texas' baseball world."

* * *

"Groggy at times were the occupants of the championship fort, but just when it seemed that they were to be ejected, they would stage a counter attack devastating in nature," continues Jinx, who goes on to say:

"For six years the Fort Worth team has reigned supreme in the Texas League, and as Stormy Davis would say, "It is getting rather monotonous." Fort Worth in winning six championships in a row without losing even one split season, has had better than a Class A club. Dallas and Houston, especially, have made strenuous efforts to build up to the Fort Worth standard. They were more successful in 1925 than they had been in years, but they were not successful enough Waco, baby member of the circuit, gave Fort Worth as much trouble as any team in the league, but unfortunately Waco did not fare so well against other teams.

* * *

"Waco had a great home team last year, but it did not do nearly so well on the road. This year Manager Derril Pratt promises to fashion a team which will play the same brand of ball in the large parks as it plays in the Katy Park with its short fences. This year Pratt plans to put on the field a team with as much punch as the 1925 team carried, but a team which will be a far better defensive organization. He has made giant strides in that general direction by disrupting his 1925 outfield, and by planning a new catching staff.

* * *

"That Waco will have a better team in 1926 than in 1925 there is no doubt. How much better it will be is a question, which cannot be answered before the exhibition season has closed. He is working in a strenuous manner to plug up the gap at third base and hopes to land a veteran pitcher or two to aid Oscar Tuero, Dewey Lyle, Lefty Graham & Co. Manager Prat also has high hopes that Priesmuth, the southpaw from the Western association, and Jeffries, the Mexin lefthander, will make the grade. Jeffries is apt to linger around quite a while anyway, for in the past he has always been at his best in the spring, while veterans were being troubled with sore wings.

* * *

"Fort Worth is going to have another formidable team. Chances are that it will be better than the 1925 club, but Mullen will not be replaced at third without loss of strength. Deeby Foss will probably be the best third baseman in the league now that Mullen has graduated, but he will hardly be the brilliant star that Mullen was. Homer Ezell and Vache are bound to add offensive strength to the club. Atz, however, has a flock of lefthanders on his staff. Without these southpaws, he wouldn't have much of a staff, and you can never tell about a southpaw. A team is never stronger than its pitching staff, and much depends on the form the Cat hurlers exhibit this year. In winning the pennant last year, the Cats got miserable hurling at times, Jacob Atz jockeying his staff in a most uncanny fashion to produce victories on many occasions."

Illinois Wrestlers Class of Big Ten

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 6.—Four championship teams in five years and 25 victories over Big Ten rivals to three defeats is the record of University of Illinois wrestling teams under Coach Paul Prehn, who took charge of the Illini grapplers in 1920.

In 1920 and 1922 the Illini won the undisputed championship of the western conference and in 1924 and 1925 they were co-champions. The dual meet record under Prehn is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.
Northwestern	2	0
Ohio	3	1
Purdue	6	0
Chicago	6	0
Indiana	1	1
Iowa	5	1
Michigan	2	0

Dallas Surgeon Has Made Thousands Of Cripples Whole By Unique Nerve Operation; Does Not Make Charge

Dr. W. B. Carroll, Recently Voted "Most Useful Citizen," Perfects Operation With Associated Press Writer as a Witness.

DALLAS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The twisted figure of a boy sat on the operating table at the Crippled Children's hospital. White light reflected from spotless walls beat down on him. Two white robed physicians peered at him from behind masks, while 20 other physicians, on a raised bench behind a railing, looked down inquisitively at his helpless form as he blinked up at them. A nurse arranged innumerable instruments on a table nearby.

This ten-year old lad, who had never walked, was about to undergo a "sympathetic ramisection," one of the newest and most remarkable developments in surgery. Dr. W. B. Carroll, who was to perform the operation, was recently honored as the most useful citizen of Dallas because of his services in operating without charge on thousands of poor, crippled children. An Associated Press representative had asked permission to view the work in order to give an idea of the service on which this public recognition had been based.

Nerves Are Severed

In a sympathetic ramisection, certain nerves are severed to relieve muscular contraction. Dr. Carroll explained that the boy had been born with a brain hemorrhage, which produced the contractions preventing proper transmission of messages to the legs.

"The impulse starts down the nerve but gets shunted off on the wrong wire," he said. "The problem is to sever the leg nerves of the sympathetic system allowing the message to pass along the spinal trunk to extremities without interruption."

If successful, the operation virtually would give the boy a new pair of legs. The best he had ever been able to do was a pitiful shuffle.

"Lie down, sonny," said a gentle voice, and without a whimper, the boy who had never walked stretched out on the table. The ether cap was adjusted, there were a few gasps, a brief heaving of the chest, and the lad was quiet under the mystery of the drug.

The knife of the surgeon began its work. A quick movement of the flashing blade laid bare the white of the outer skin. Another stroke and the red flesh appeared. The incision was made on the right side, the body lying on the left.

Operation Is On

Dexterous hands laid back muscles, pushed aside vital organs, and began probing. With two instruments resembling silver chop-sticks, thephysician went down into the living body, behind the abdomen, in front of the back muscles, on down past an artery ,threading his way through delicate nerve centers and past large blood vessels. A tiny electric light was placed in the cavity while the physicians on the seats peered down at the living organs pulsing under the knife.

The instruments penetrated deep For a moment the physician searched into the boy's side. They paused, for something. Then he brought to view a nerve, showing white against the red flesh. This was the sympathetic trunk.

The physician held it for a second to show several smaller white cords running off from the trunk to the stomach, liver and other organs, like wires from a switchboard. He explained that some of these branches were the sympathetic leg nerves, which he was about to sever.

Carefully he separated the leg nerves from the others. The nurse handed him a pair of scissors. He passed the scissors down among the little white strands, with unerring skill selected just the right nerves. There was a snap as the blades came together—and the operation was over. The nerve had been cut and would no longer carry wrong messages.

Human Bodies Rebuilt

In a few weeks the boy will be able to use his leg almost normally. A similar operation must be done on the left side to give locomotion to both legs.

The Crippled Children's hospital, maintained by Hella Shrine temple, is a factory where human bodies are rebuilt. Dr. Carroll literally is manufacturing joints, hips and new backs.

On the same morning, he removed the astragalus bone from a boy's foot. This marble shaped bone acts as a universal joint between the leg and the foot. The boy could not stand because his leg muscles had become paralyzed and he could not control the joint. The doctor moved the foot back slightly so that when the bones became fused the leg would stand solidly on the foot.

Made Girl a Knee Joint

A girl in the hospital has undergone eight operations. Among other things, the doctor made her a new knee joint out of her own knee cap, and now she can walk.

Spines are straightened by bone fusion. The crooked spine is first drawn into position by a plaster cast, and is held in position by bones nailed to the backbone.

Dr. Carroll donates his services and no fees are charged by the hospital, as only poor children are admitted. He performs more than 100 operations per month, and is devoting a large portion of his time to rebuilding the bodies of these little children who come here from all parts of Texas.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Sven Olsson, charged by indictment with driving a car while intoxicated, plead guilty to the offense in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin Thursday and received a suspended sentence of two years in the penitentiary. Olsson requested of the jury that he be given a suspended penitentiary sentence rather than a jail sentence or a fine, pleading that the assessment of either of the latter might work a hardship on a sick wife.

STORE IS ROBBED

More than $100 worth of merchandise was taken from the Southland Grocery store at 1703 Grace Street sometime Wednesday night by burglars breaking in at a front window. The goods were loaded in an automobile at the rear of the establishment and hauled away, it is believed.

The robbery was discovered early Thursday morning when employees of the store opened it for the day.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The cotoon market developed more activity today than has been experienced on any of the earlier days this week. Prices also made a fairly sharp advance mainly due to a renewal of covering by shorts in near months, particularly March. Following a small opening gain due to cables being better than due and spot sales in Liverpool reaching 10,000 bales for the day, the market turned active about the middle of the morning and although there was a period of reaction around noon, prices again firmed up in the afternoon and at the highest showed gains over the close of yesterday of 33 to 34 points on old crop positions. October did not show the same strength as the nearer months and at the highest only showed a gain of 20 points. There was apparently some selling of the new crop month against buying of nearer months. The close showed net gains for the day of 27 to 29 points on old crops and of only 10 points on October.

At the start prices opened two to four points up in sympathy with favorable Liverpool cables. The morning advance carried March up to $19.85, May $19.29 and July to $18.69 or 27 to 29 points up from the early lows and 30 to 32 points above the previous close. Around noon and during the early afternoon prices eased off about six to seven points but in the late trading old crop months made new highs for the day at $19.88 for March, $19.31 for May and $18.73 for July or 33 to 34 points above the close of yesterday.

The market eased off five to six points in the final trading on realizing and closed about that much under the highs of the day. It is probable that the strength of the stock market helped the advance in cotton to some extent but the main source of strength was the covering by belated March shorts.

Exports for the day totaled 14,627 bales.

NEW YORK FUTURES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Cotton futures closed steady at net advance of 9 to 32 points.

	High	Low	Close	Prev. Close
March	20.49	20.18	20.45-48	20.16
May	19.90	19.58	19.89	19.57
July	19.20	18.89	19.15	18.89
Oct.	18.34	18.21	18.29-31	18.17
Dec.	18.09	17.87	17.95-96	17.86

Opening: March 20.18; May 18.58; July 18.43; October 18.22; December 17.90.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(AP)—The cotton market was more active today than it has been for several weeks, the price of May contracts selling up to $19.90 or 33 points net higher. May closed at $19.89, the general market closing very steady at net advances of nine to 32 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of one to five points and buying became active after the call in old crop months. Covering of March and May shorts was evidently stimulated by steady cables from Liverpool, reports of a good spot demand in the Liverpool market and the apparent failure of the prevailing March premium to attract larger shipments of cotton to New York for delivery next month. Spot houses brokers supplied the near month demand by sales of March against purchases of May at a difference of 58 to 59 points, but there was active buying of May and while new crop months were slower to move. The near month strength pulled up the general list.

March advanced to $20.49 in late trading, or within four points of the best price touched on the advance of late last November while October sold at $18.54, with the general list showing net gains of 14 to 33 points. Last prices were only a few points off from the best under realizing.

Buying of the near months was regarded by local brokers as due to the approach of March contract maturity, and the steadiness with which the market has held recently in spite of a very small volume of business.

Private cables said hedge selling had been offset by trade calling in Liverpool, and there has been a good spot demand from spinners and exporters with continued extensive inquiry for cotton cloth in Lancashire.

Exports today 14,627 bales, making 5,517,656 so far this season. Port receipts 19,419 bales. U. S. port stocks, 1,534,727.

Market Gossip

Booth and Burmeister, brokers, basement Bob Waggoner building, today received tips following from J. S. Bache & Co., of New York and Chicago:

Grains.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4.—Wheat: Lower, due to sharp break in Liverpool and Buenos Aires markets. A good part of the decline abroad was due to a flood of bearish cables sent from this side, but the local market went dead on the decline and was prone to rally sharply when any good buying appeared. The reaction was not surprising in view of the advance of 9½ cents from the low of last week and it might go somewhat further, but despite the advance the technical position is strong and it would take little change in the general run of news to bring about a sharp upturn. There was a fair export business put through in Manitoba today. Cash premiums in the Southwest are easy due to increased offerings but this movement will likely run its course and the situation will become tighter than ever. Favor the buying side on all technical breaks.

Corn and Oats: Course grains and rye were dull and easier, largely in sympathy with wheat. There is little in the general run of news that attracts attention, although the cash corn situation is heavy and the spot basis half of one cent lower.

Cotton.

The market has had a steady undertone all afternoon. It is reported large operators, at present in Palm Beach, bought about 40,000 bales old crop months, bringing about considerable covering in three positions which registered an advance of 20 points, while the new crop positions only advance 10 to 14 points. Until the strong tension—which at present is most pronounced in the March position—has been relieved, we look for a continued steady market with irregular price changes.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Renewal of selling pressure inspired by the marking up of call money rates, failed to stem the rising tide of prices in today's stock market which was featured by the buoyancy of the high-priced industrials. Trading was again in large volume, the day's sales running close to 2,000,000 shares.

Several popular industrials were hammered down one to three points from their earlier highs when it became known that out of town banks were calling loans but offerings were well absorbed and new leaders were quickly brought forward to rally the list. The high money rates were regarded as temporary and Wall street was inclined to face a bullish interpretation on the senate compromise of a 20 per cent surtax on large incomes.

Reports of an early merger of the Associated Oil company with some other western concern revived speculative interest in the oil shares, but the net gains, as a rule, were held to fractions. Pacific and Associated both touched new record high prices at 81⅝ and 55, respectively.

Nash Motors made another sensational jump of 55 points to a new record high at 640 on three sales, making a net gain of nearly 100 points in two days. United Fruit scored an extreme gain of 10½ points at 289½, also a new high and then fell back to 281. and Allied Chemical. American Radiator, the Commercial Solvents issues, General Electric and National Tea showed net gains of five to 17 points.

Motors were again run up at the apparent expense of an overcrowded short interest. Hudson closed nearly four points higher at 115⅞ and Dodge Brothers preferred, General Motors, Jordan, Fisher Body and White closed one to 2¼ points higher. U. S. Steel common closed fractionally higher at 133⅝ but a brisk demand developed for some of the independent issues. Otis Steel preferred closing five points higher at 102 and Sloss Sheffield showing a net gain of 3¼ at 133½. Rubber shares turned slightly reactionary as a result of cuts in tire prices.

Rails were practically neglected, although Chesapeake and Ohio, Canadian Pacific and Lackawanna were noticeably heavy.

Call money renewed at four per cent and advanced, successively to 4½, 5 and 5½, closing at the top. Heavy withdrawal of funds by interior banks, presumably because of the low rates previously prevailing here was the direct cause of the run-up. Time money rates were unchanged. Prime commercial paper was on a flat 4¾ per cent basis, instead of 4¼ to 4½.

The principal foreign exchanges held steady in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled around $4.86 and French francs around 3.75 cents. A jump of over 10 points to 1.55 cents in Greek drachmas is apparent reflection of the recent forced loan in that country was one of the few features.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Feb. 4. — (AP)—Sharp breaks in foreign markets had a decreasing effect today in the wheat market here, reducing the volume of business and cutting down values as well. Total transactions were the smallest noted of late. Wheat closed heavy, 1⅞ to 1⅞c net lower, May (new) $1.75⅝ to $1.75⅝ and July 1.53⅝ to $1.53⅝, with corn ½c to ⅝c off, oats ⅛c to ⅜c down, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a setback of 15c.

Corn and oats were dominated by the action of wheat and by lack of important shipping demand here for corn.

Provisions surged as a result of selling ascribed to eastern and foreign sources.

Dallas May Lose State GOP Office

DALLAS, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Intimation that state headquarters of the Republican party in Texas might be withdrawn from Dallas "if the unfair attitude of the commissioners' court" in the ballot box controversy continues, was made by George S. Atkinson, chairman of the county Republican executive committee today. The commissioners court ruled that the boxes were to be used by the Democratic party in the next primary.

Mr. Atkinson said that the Republican party had been treated "fairly" in other counties. There was probability that the Republican headquarters, which he said, brings upwards of $100,000 annually to Dallas, may be withdrawn and located in some other city, he is quoted as declaring.

Party policies will be determined and a ticket for the primary will be discussed at a meeting of the executive committee Saturday, February 20, Mr. Atkinson said.

"We will have a complete ticket. As for the ballot boxes we will have them too, whatever the court may decide," he added.

Convict Worked Overtime; Now He Is Denied Liberty

HOUSTON, Feb. 4.—(AP)—Based on the theory that federal prisoners when held in state penitentaries should be subject to the laws governing state prison rather than the federal, Ben Nichols, prisoner in Huntsville, filed n application for a writ of habeas corpus in federal court here today.

Nichols' petition sets forth that he was convicted on July 1, 1925, in the Southern federal district of California of violation of the Harrison anti-narcotic laws. He was sentenced to serve a year and a day in prison and was sent to the Texas state penitentiary in Huntsville to serve the time.

He alleges that he was told by Warden Norman Speer on July 20, when he entered the Huntsville prison that all his overtime would be credited to him.

"Believing this, the petitioner set out to get as much overtime as possible," the application sets forth. "Up to Jan. 29, 1926, he has made 729 hours or 81 days overtime, 'working beyond the regular nine hours required of every prisoner in the penitentiary."

Nichols alleges that these 81 days, plus the 72 days he is granted for good behavior under the state prison rules, should have allowed his release on Jan. 29. The state regulations, in addition to allowing overtime, grant 72 days out of every year's sentence for a clear record.

He declares in his petition that he is being illegally restrained of his liberty, and asked Federal Judge Hutcheson to order his release at once.

Judge Hutcheson has set Friday, Feb. 12, as the date of a hearing on the application. Orders for the appearance of the Texas prison commissioners, Herring, Sayle and Delaney before the federal judge have been issued.

COURT 'SEVERS' RELATIONSHIP

Rogers Makes Important Ruling on Working Contract.

A contract between father and son in which one assumes the role of employer and the other of employe is in effect a termination of the ordinary relationship between them so far as civil court procedure goes, according to the ruling of Judge Guy Rodgers in the seventy-eighth district court Thursday, acting for the defendant in the case of the Royal Indemnity company versus C. W. Boller.

Combats Award.

The Royal Indemnity company was asking the court to set aside an award of the industrial accident board to C. W. Boller, following the death of Kenneth Boller, age 20 years, his son, as a result of an oil field accident nearly a year ago. While it was acknowledged that under the law a father is entitled to the earnings of minor children it was contended that in this instance the father was the employer and not entitled to award accruing from the industrial accident insurance policy.

Entitled to Award

Judge Rogers found that Boller was entitled to the award as a result of the death of his son, inasmuch as the contract between them specifically set their relationship as employer and employe, and was one on which the father might have been sued had he failed to live up to his part of it.

The case is said to be the first of its kind in United States legal history, two others of a similar nature having been decided upon different points, altogether. One of the others was in California and one in Washington.

Charters Granted

Charters were granted Thursday by the secretary of state for three new business concerns in Wichita Falls and for a new church in Electra. The latter is the Zion Evangelical church, no capital stock, with the incorporators listed as Will Minderman, C. H. Arnold and Otto Pohlman.

Sheldon; to the Van Nest corporation, oil development, capital stock $35,000, incorporators George P. Smith, M. J. Van Nest, R. O. Kenley; and to the Plains Gas and Fuel company, $10,000, incorporators, W. E. Bristol, Roscoe Davis and W. C Duncan.

She Could Never Have Done It With Piles!

Bless the American girl who has glorified all the sports! She makes a pretty picture in the water, and is a plucky swimmer, too. Piles are unthinkable for active women. If you have them, you ought to know this simple thing to do!

At any hour or moment that you have the least distress or discomfort from piles, use a simple Pyramid pile suppository—and go happily on your way! The worst hemorrhoids, even bleeding and badly protruding piles respond at once to the soothing suppository applied in perfect privacy. But bear the name in mind: Pyramid is the one every druggist has, usually the only one he will sell his patrons. Pyramid is marvelous. Why suffer another single half-hour with painful piles?

Sixty cents the box, the world around. But for proof, a free box plainly wrapped will be sent those who write Pyramid Drug Co., 209 Pyramid Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Varied Program For Rotary Club

A varied program that included short addresses by William Gilmer Bell, grand commander of the grand commandery of the Knights Templars of Texas; and by Fred Brainard, new manager of the Wichita Falls Spudders, was provided Thursday for the Rotary club here. Mr. Bell congratulated the Rotarians in particular and Wichita Fallsin general on the remarkable strides it has made in the metropolitan class. Brainard made no predictions as to what his ball club would do this year but said he would let the results speak for themselves.

It was announced by T. B. Smock that the Rotary club would carry on the boy's work survey started by the late I. H. Roberts who, before his death recently, was making a boys' census of the city. The various club members will be asked to take this up in the near future.

Music for the day was provided by Miss Montery Lewis, who played two violin solos with her mother playing the piano accompaniment. Miss Marguerite Fisher gave two readings that were well received.

Says His Prescription Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pain and Twinges—Is Guaranteed

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Wichita Falls druggists and every druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer in this vicinity that if ALLENRHU, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not stop all agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished even in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and piteous and where the patient was helpless.

Mrs James H. Allen of 26 Forbes St., Rochester, N. Y., the discoverer of ALLENRHU, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless ALLENRHU decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed all drug stores and druggists everywhere to guarantee it as above in every instance.—Adv.

TAKE SALTS IF STOMACH ISN'T ACTING RIGHT

Says Indigestion Results From an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.—Adv.

Mrs. Newsom Takes Court Report Place

Mrs. Mary Newsom, who for the past five years has acted as deputy court reporter at the court house has been sworn in as court reporter for the eighty-ninth district court to succeed Rennie Allred, resigned. Mrs. Newsom passed the last of her examinations Thursday afternoon and took the oath of office before Judge P. A. Martin immediately afterward.

Rennie Allred recently passed the state bar examination, and while he has not announced definite plans for the future, it is understood that he will practice law.

Divorces Gaining

Divorce petitions are almost up to marriage licenses in Wichita county thus far this month, records at the court house show. Although only four days have passed as yet there have been ten divorce petitions filed against sixteen marriage licenses. There were three divorce petitions filed Thursday.

Receipts Increase

Postal receipts in Wichita Falls for the month of Jan. 1925, gained $3,055.55 over the same month in 1925, it was announced Thursday by Postmaster O. P. Maricle. Receipts for January this year totalled $26,351.53 against $23,295.98 for the same month last year.

Youths Sentenced

Two youths entered pleas of guilty to charges of delinquency Thursday morning, and received indeterminate sentences in the Boys training school at Gatesville. The sentence of one however, was suspended upon his promise to Judge Guy Rogers and his father to go home, obey his parents and attend school. The other boy at his own request was given an effective sentence. He told Judge Rogers that he had no home and would probably do better at Gatesville than here. He promised he would make the best of himself while at the training school.

"I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure."

Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?

And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?

Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go up to where you want it! That's what's the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells by the millions.

You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood. S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.
