LIGHTNING HOLE — Mrs. Cecil Hardy of Denson, Tex., can smile about the hole in her thick aluminum skillet now, but when a bolt of lightning surged through her electric range and burned a hole in the pan, she was a little more than startled. She holds a screwdriver through the eighth-inch hole which let grease spill on the range and start a small fire. Fortunately Mrs. Hardy was holding the skiliet by the plastic handle and was unharmed and managed to put out the fire.

Ford To Limit Price Boost On '73 Cars

DETROIT (AP) — Acting under pressure from the White House, Ford Motor Co. announced today that it would limit the price increase of 1973 model cars to $59—the same limit announced earlier by General Motors Corp.

Ford previously had announced an average $92 increase and GM a $90 boost. Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. still are clinging to previously announced increases of about $110 and $180 per car respectively.

Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, acting on President Nixon's orders, asked the car makers earlier this week to reduce or withdraw their requests for price boosts.

SOUGHT MOVE

Rumsfeld said Friday he hoped Ford would withdraw the increase completely.

"Obviously, we hope that Ford will make a decision to withdraw its request to the Price Commission," he said, adding that such a move could force the other three automakers into line for competitive reasons.

Rumsfeld had said he was waiting for an answer from Ford before making a final decision on efforts to get the automakers to cut the increases.

Ford's cutback amounted to an average of $33 per car; GM's to $31.

Both Ford and GM left the gate open to come back later during the model year, possibly Jan. 1, to seek subsequent increases to recover increased labor, material and tax costs.

COVERS COST

In all cases, the increase would cover the cost of additional safety and emission-control equipment required by law. American's request includes an additional amount to cover other costs.

NO FOUL NOTES EXPECTED

Nixon Symphony Begins Monday

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Produced and directed by the White House, the Republican National Convention opens Monday for a three-day stand to renominate President Nixon and formally launch his campaign for a second term.

GOP scriptwriters Saturday completed a party platform that begins with an effort to woo Democrats disenchanted with their nominee, Sen. George McGovern.

With the ticket of Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew already set, the convention will feature oratory, entertainment, and the prospect of no more than minor political skirmishes.

LINGERING DOUBT

One lingering issue is a dispute that involves not 1972 but the 1976 GOP convention. A delegate formula likely to preserve conservative dominance next time faces challenge from liberal and moderate Republicans who want more votes assigned to the most populous states.

But party leaders were seeking compromises designed to avert a convention contest on that issue, apparently with the approval of the administration.

Another potential floor dispute loomed over efforts at party reform to insure increased involvement of young people, Negroes and other minorities in future conventions.

There were compromise efforts on that item, too, in advance of a Sunday meeting of convention rulemakers.

But the over-all GOP convention scene was placid. Republicans talked of a November landslide and even of their long-shot chances of gaining control in Congress.

The atmosphere as the convention opening neared was in marked contrast to that six weeks ago, when Democrats met to nominate McGovern.

The Democrats were contentious, the Republicans relaxed. The air was that of a ceremony without suspense.

MACHINES BUSY

GOP mimeograph machines turned out stacks of statements about "five carefully planned and fast-moving sessions" due to last a total of 11 hours.

The script was timed to the minute to make sure the Republican show is staged in prime television time.

That, too, contrasts with the Democrats, who didn't get McGovern on the air for his major convention speech and unity show until 3 a.m. Eastern time, when most of the television audience had gone to bed.

The convention begins Monday at 1 p.m. EDT, with a succession of speeches.

The Republican keynote is a three-part affair led off by Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, the only Negro member of the Senate and a critic of Nixon's Indochina policy.

His keynote partners are Mayor Richard J. Lugar of Indianapolis, and Anne Armstrong, cochairman of the GOP National Committee.

The platform is to be adopted Tuesday afternoon, with the main event, Nixon's renomination, that night.

COLLECTION OF FINE PROVES TO BE A STICKY BUSINESS

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — A paper bag containing 2,500 pennies and a sticky substance, apparently honey, did not impress Judge Robert Neseth as a sweet way of paying a fine.

The Olmsted County judge directed that Lori Schroeder, 19, meet with him sometime this week. The judge said he wants to know why Miss Schroeder "affronted the court."

A Highway Patrol summons had accused Miss Schroeder of failing to wear corrective eyeglasses while driving, as required by her driver's license. Judge Neseth fined her $25 Friday.

Miss Schroeder complained to deputy court clerks that she could not raise the money and that the judge had not given her the option of a jail term. However, she returned to the clerk's office later Friday with a grocery sack full of pennies. The sack also contained a sticky substance which Deputy Clerk Timothy Burton said smelled like honey.

In directing that Miss Schroeder meet with him, Judge Neseth said he almost certainly will ask her to exchange the coins for currency.

Meanwhile, Burton had shown no eagerness to count the sticky pennies and determine whether the bag contained exactly 2,500 of them.

PUSH Gears Up For New Drives

CHICAGO (AP) — Bolstered by the success of negotiations with the Jos. Schlitz Brewing Co. in Milwaukee, officials of Operation PUSH are gearing up for a campaign to gain minority hiring, promotion and business agreements with some of the 500 largest corporations in America.

Their next target is General Foods Corp. in White Plains, N.Y.

The Rev. George E. Riddick, national director of negotiations for the Chicago-based civil rights group, said he expects some action on the negotiations with General Foods "within the next two weeks."

On Thursday, PUSH officials signed an agreement with Schlitz President and Board Chairman Robert H. Uihlein Jr. The agreement pledges the company to direct 15 per cent of its insurance business, wholesaling franchises and miscellaneous contracts to firms owned by members of minority groups. The company also pledged to employ at least 15 per cent nonwhites at all levels in its work force.

The agreement was signed by the Rev. Jesse Jackson, who founded Operation PUSH—People United to Save Humanity—last year after resigning as head of Operation Breadbasket, the economic branch of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Riddick said he is "optimistic" about the prospects for a similar agreement with General Foods. In White Plains, Lee Archer, director of equal opportunity affairs for the company, confirmed he has conferred with PUSH officials in Chicago.

Big Spring Week

While Snyder absorbed a million and a half to two million dollars of damage from a flash flood last weekend, the Colorado River Municipal Water District reaped a harvest of about 45,000 acre-feet of water. This should be enough to meet demands through next spring without more runoff (and not counting previous reserves), but then September and October are traditionally good runoff months. Farmers in the area are in good to excellent shape, although those south of the Fairview-Coahoma axis could use another shower within the next couple of weeks.

Irate business operators, along with the city commission, kicked in reward pledges last week in hopes of finding those responsible for pellet damage to plate glass windows. Police picked up some suspects at the end of the week, but these apparently did not pan out. Meanwhile, scores of windows have been ruined and damage is looking toward the $1,500-$2,000 figure.

This has been a bad, sad year for our people on the highways elsewhere. Last week Gary Don Ward, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ward, 4218 Calvin, was killed, and Mike Proctor, 21, and Jimmy Carter, 21, were painfully hurt when their car was struck at a highway intersection near Lampasas. The youths were happily on their way home from a visit to the Houston Astrodome when the mishap occurred. It was Mike's father, inci-

THREE MEN CITED

Hearing On Suit Slated Sept. 28

September 28 is the date set for the hearing in the Northern District of Texas federal court in Abilene on the $450,000 civil suit filed by Jack Burt Kirk of Odessa against Big Spring Chief of Police Vance Chisum, City Manager Harry Nagel and County Judge A. G. Mitchell.

A federal marshal was in Big Spring shortly after noon Friday serving citations on the three men, charged in the lawsuit of depriving Kirk of his civil rights in operation of the Mini Flick Theater Club at 3103 W. Highway 80.

The lawsuit was in connection with a raid of the theater some two weeks ago, at which time, patrons were arrested and film and projectors were ceased.

Kirk claims $150,000 profit lost and $300,000 in punitive damages.

Judge Mitchell stated that he turned his citation over to the county attorney for an answer. The citations of city officials will probably go to the city attorney for an answer.

Demo Convention Is Applauded In Poll

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris said today that 52 per cent of Americans surveyed had a "highly positive" reaction to the Democratic National Convention, largely because of reforms that gave wider representation to blacks, women, the young and Spanish-speaking minorities.

Thieu Would Flee, McGovern States

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. George McGovern says he expects President Nguyen Van Thieu to flee Saigon and a Communist-dominated coalition to take over in South Vietnam if McGovern is elected President of the United States.

Asked about the possibility of a bloodbath in such a situation, the Democratic nominee said "arrangements should be made to try to provide an easy exit for those people who want to leave."

Annual Bible Fund Appeal By Herald Starting Anew

For over a quarter of a century, Big Spring High School has been able to offer an accredited course in Bible because people in Big Spring, Howard County — and indeed from other places — have supported the program with their gifts. Once again, the annual appeal on behalf of the Bible Class Fund, which is coordinated by the Howard County Ministers' Fellowship, is being made. Letters were mailed to friends of past campaigns by the Rev. Caleb H. Hildebrand, chairman The Herald opens its traditional appeal.

Please bring or mail your gifts to The Herald for grateful acknowledgment. You will be advised daily of the progress of the campaign.

"This year, as last," said the Rev. Mr. Hildebrand, two classes of Bible will be taught. Due to the increases in total costs, this means we must raise $5,500 in order to finance the course for the 1972-73 school year."

Most of the funds usually come from the annual Autumn appeal.

Records on the accumulative enrollment for the Bible course have not been kept, but it likely is a conservative estimate that over 2,000 young people have had exposure to the Bible.

The reason public support is necessary is that tax funds may not be used for payment of instructor and allied costs. The Bible is taught not on a sectarian basis but only for its great moral and ethical values, for its treasures in literature and history.

Texas Is Prime Target In Presidential Race

By The Associated Press

By sight and by sound, Democratic campaigners left little doubt the past week that Texas is a prime target in the hot contest to elect the next president of the United States.

Sargent Shriver, Democratic vice presidential nominee, toured the vote rich area around Houston and Beaumont for 21 hours Thursday and Friday to open the presidential campaign season in Texas.

Shriver, called the "friendly tornado" by some, will be followed by a political main event Tuesday when Sen. George McGovern, the presidential nominee, and Shriver have a political chat with former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

DUE IN DALLAS

Shriver continues on Tuesday to another political appearance in Dallas.

The sudden activity by the national campaigners followed the unexpected and unusual announcement last Wednesday by Johnson that he might disagree with McGovern on some things, particularly foreign policy, but he would support McGovern in November.

Johnson's good friend and associate, former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, along with at least two former Johnson aides in the White House, recently announced formation of a Democrats for Nixon organization.

The Democratic activity also followed the recent Dallas visit of Clark MacGregor, Nixon's campaign manager, who said Texas was a "must win" state for the Republicans this year.

Hubert Humphrey carried Texas by about 38,000 votes in 1968. Texas swung to GOP presidential candidates in 1952 and 1956, the only departures from Democratic dominance in recent political history.

Both McGovern and Shriver made much of Connally's defection in their campaigns the past week. "Connally and his so-called Democrats will help us win," Shriver said in Houston. "He'll separate the millionaires and make it clear its nothing but millionaires for Connally and the people for us." In Milwaukee, McGovern called Connally "the stooge of the Texas oil billionaires. He doesn't have a heart that beats for you . . . not for the little guys. He's for the special interests."

State Republican Chairman George Willeford said he would not lose any sleep over the campaign plans of McGovern and Shriver.

"In fact," he said, "I am rather looking forward to the increased exposure . . . it will reaffirm what most Texans now know, that George McGovern's travelling medicine show does not offer the kind of tonic that goes well in this state."

McGovern planned to fly into Austin Monday night from Philadelphia. Shriver was to meet him for a public airport reception.

Tuesday the two nominees will fly to LBJ Ranch, 65 miles west of Austin, in a small plane for a private talk with the former president. The session will be closed to newsmen and photographers, but McGovern planned to report on the talk with Johnson at a noon news conference back in Austin.

MAGAZINE'S CLAIMS REFUTED

Big Spring's Drinking Water Meets Standards

By CHARLES TEAGUE

City officials have denied a claim by World Magazine that Big Spring's water supply does not measure up to federal standards.

The Environmental Protection Agency's regional office in Dallas has supported Manager of Public Utilities Bill Brown in his refutation of the young magazine's assertion that Big Spring is one of "100 communities in the nation whose drinking water supply does not meet U.S. Public Health Service standards."

According to a news release issued earlier this week by World Magazine, author Rice Odell, in an article titled, "America's Drinking Water: Trouble on Tap," declared, "For years, the nation's experts on drinking water have been trying to tell the American public something urgent. The point they have been striving to make is that many citizens are being subtly debilitated by contaminated water and, more importantly, that the country is sliding toward a health crisis which is not likely to be at all subtle."

WATER BLAMED

Odell cited in the Aug. 15 edition of the publication several cases of "disease or poisoning attributable to drinking water, outbreaks in which 20 people died and an estimated 46,374 became ill, many seriously."

Concluding the article is a list of U.S. communities described by the heading, "Communities That Have Not Met U.S. Drinking Water Standards."

WATER SAMPLER Charlotte Majors likes it

Prefacing the list also is a paragraph outlining as criteria, which the communities may have violated, the following possibilities: "substandard quality; unsatisfactory physical facilities; failure to submit to the Environmental Protection Agency an adequate number of bacteriological water tests."

The only city on the list representing Texas is Big Spring.

EPA GOOF

Warren Norris, Chief of Water Supply and Standards for the Environmental Protection Agency's Dallas regional office, admitted to cause of an error "through administrative mixup," in a telephone conversation Thursday with Brown.

He explained that local water supplies do not even fall under jurisdiction of the EPA, unless they are suppliers to interstate carriers, as provided by the Interstate Quarantine Regulation.

Until 1970 Big Spring, as a supplier of water to Texas & Pacific Railway passenger service (on an emergency basis after 1967 when actual passenger service was discontinued), was required certification of its water supply by the EPA.

When the railroad realized no longer the need for certification in 1970, the city's water manager, Brown, notified the Texas State Department of Health, which is the certified unit designated to test Big Spring's water samples for EPA interstate water supplier certification. The State Health agency then notified the EPA. Norris said, "but somewhere, we lost. We blew it here in this office."

As a result of the bureaucratic blunder, Big Spring remained on the list of interstate carrier suppliers, but as the sample tests ceased to arrive in the EPA office, the computer noted that Big Spring had failed "to submit to the

ONCE ONLY OCCUPANTS PULLED STAKES

Traffic In Houses Is Heavy

BY MARJ CARPENTER

Mobile trailers may be on the increase, but the house movers are still plenty busy.

Two house moving operations in Big Spring contacted by the Herald report that business has been brisk over the past couple of years.

Mrs. Charles Hood of the Hoods' House Moving operation here stated that there has been a lot of moving recently of buildings at the old base hospital which are all being sold and carried off.

The buildings are becoming clubs, businesses and private residences and most of them have been moved within the city of Big Spring or the surrounding area.

STIPULATION

A couple of years ago, a lot of Federal Housing Administration homes were sold with the stipluation that they must be moved out of Big Spring. Part of them were moved outside of the city limits and a large number went to Van Horn, which at that time was crying for residences to keep up with a boom brought on by a sulphur plant in that area.

The local housemovers explained that there are some highways on which house movers are not allowed to travel. One of these is Interstate 20. So the housemovers know all of the back roads, county roads, access roads and roads of this nature. They are also still allowed to travel on many of the state highways. But it isn't always easy to get from here to there for the housemover who cannot always take the straightest line between two points.

They also have to have a police escort and a permit for each city through which they travel. This is in addition to an annual city bonding permit here and a state bonding permit.

An official from the Jack Bennett Construction and House Moving Co. said that much of their business during the past year has been moving residences to outside the city.

MOVE NORTH

"People are apparently returning to the land with their one acre of ground around them," they added. The moving has been in a direction north of Big Spring a lot of times to the Snyder, Lamesa or Gail highways although there has also been some moving to locations between here and Garden City.

There is some speculation that moving out of the city is sometimes in connection with avoiding city taxes.

Almost all of the house builders agree that older homes are put together well.

They apparently move without anything falling apart. Perhaps a little old lady in Big Spring last year had the right idea.

She was forced to move since the area of town in which she lived was to become involved in a progressive project.

Her children all expected her to move to an apartment, but she summoned a housemover to take her little house to the country.

"I like my house. It's sturdy, and I'm used to it," she told the house mover. She and the house moved together and are apparently happy about it.

The world of the future is to be one of mobile trailers and apartments, according to many predictors. But the house movers have yet to feel the pinch. In Big Spring, anyway, they're busy moving buildings all over the place.

Nixon Has 'Done Best' To Slow Food Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald Rumsfeld, director of the Cost of Living Council, says the Nixon administration has done "everything that's humanly possible" in trying to moderate the rise in food prices.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Rumsfeld predicted some moderating of food prices "in the coming period," but said he doubted there would be any substantial reduction in retail meat prices because of world demand.

NOT FROZEN

Noting President Nixon's action to impose tighter controls on food and increase the supply in the United States, Rumsfeld said there are other possible actions, all of which are undesirable because "the disadvantages are greater than the advantages."

He also said Sargent Shriver, Democratic vice presidential nominee, is "bouncing around the country telling people their wages are frozen. I don't know what foreign country he's been visiting lately, but wages haven't been frozen in this country since Nov. 13, 1971, when the freeze ended."

Questions and answers:

Q. The Democrats are going to make a big campaign issue out of the control system, arguing that it is unfair. Are you going to try to counter that charge, and if so, how?

A. I don't know that they are going to make a big issue out of it as you say. Maybe they will, maybe they won't. They haven't done it yet ... Because for the most part, the Democratic economists have been supportive, particularly in recent testimony before the Joint Economic Committee.

But, in answer to your question as to whether we would counter the issue if there is a big issue about it, it seems to me the economic evidence is the best response. There's not a shred ... to support the contention that there's any sort of imbalance between decisions of the Pay Board and the Price Commission. There is not a shred ... to support the contention that the wage rules are tight and the price rules loose. In point of fact, real earnings are improving. So, I noted that the new exuberant, ebullient McGovern vice presidential candidate has been bouncing around the country telling people their wages are frozen. I don't know what foreign country he's been visiting lately but the wages haven't been frozen in this country since Nov. 13, 1971 when the freeze ended. If he is not aware of it, one of his political advisers ought to tell him.

Q. Has the Cost of Living Council completed now most of the job of decontrolling the economy, or, as you've been calling it, focusing the enforcement effort on the larger economic units?

A. I don't personally envision in the period ahead any major alterations in the system. It's working ... it is helping to move toward the goals. There is clearly a lag between when the economic situation improves and when people actually feel it. The demagogue today can clearly have a field day; he can say, "... the sky is falling" when in point of fact the sky is not falling. But people might, at least for a point of time, be inclined to wonder whether the sky is falling.

Q. If there is a lifting of controls, do you see wht we had prior to the freeze, a free-market economy, possibly with some form of incomes policy in which you do the things that you're doing with the automakers now, trying to get them to cut prices voluntarily?

A. Let me answer that part of the question first. Our meeting with the automakers is different from what has been done during previous periods when there was not a wage-price control system.

Environmental Protection Agency an adequate number of bacteriological water tests," a fact which caused the city to go on the unapproved list.

AUTHOR WRONG

In constructing the article, according to C. K. Foster, Director of the Division of Sanitary Engineering for the Texas State Department of Health, World Magazine has published a list, and pointed the finger, at communities which are merely interstate carrier water suppliers, the source of information being a non-regulatory body which has no jurisdiction over the great bulk of U.S. communities.

Foster contended that World Magazine did not bother to check with any agencies who actually have jurisdiction over the average community.

To illustrate the inaccuracy of the list, Foster said that of approximately 3,300 water systems in Texas, only 450 actually have met the high standards of the Texas State Department of Health. He noted that lack of approval does not necessarily mean a system is serving unsafe water, but standards are high and hard to meet.

He added that Big Spring does meet the high standards.

CITY ACTION

City Manager Harry Nagel telephoned World Magazine Friday in effort to find corrective measures. He was informed to write a letter of correction or complaint to S. Spencer Grin, Publisher of the magazine.

The magazine's lack of research and poor judgement of sources has caused a listing of communities which is meaningless and grossly imcomplete, according to Nagel.

He will also notify U.S. Congressman Omar Burleson of the bureaucratic goof.

Nagel believes Big Spring's image has been damaged by joint incompetence, shared by the Environmental Protection Agency, for providing the error and World Magazine for publishing a ridiculous list.

Soft Music, Cooled Air Far Cry From Mule Span

There's more than a generation gap between the days when a sweating farmer popped a span of mules on the rump with the loose end of the reins and the air conditioned cab with soft music and silky ride.

The latter, along with other machines, was on display here Saturday at Taylor Implement Company on US 87 north in a showing of new John Deere equipment.

Center of attraction was the 4430 which incorporated the sound-idea along with nine more horsepower (125 now) and other new features added to the previous 4420 model. And at a lesser price.

The show piece was the Sound-Gard body. The body attaches firmly to the tractor, or rubber shocks, yet it may be taken off in 30 minutes by one man. It is free to flex slightly when the tractor is operating in rough ground. Besides having insulation and acoustical material that cuts down on 80 per cent of the outside noise level, the body is designed so that no two surfaces are on the same plane, thus cutting off reverberating sound waves.

At full throttle, the motor comes through as a mere whine, and it disappears if the operator turns on the optional radio or eight-track stereo tape player. Moreover, as mentioned, this is done in air conditioned comfort, or with heater if the brisk north winds are blowing. Although the cab has an unlimited sweep of vision, it is constructed to hold the whole weight of the tractor in the unlikely eevnt the rig overturned.

Gear controls are handy along with the hydraulic lift and power controls. Moreover, the foam rubber seat is on chocks that take out practically all bumps. The steering column has seven positions of angle in addition of telescoping to desired height. Another feature is the oil cooled perma-clutch. The transmission provides 16 speeds.

Another popular item was the stripper with adjustable heads to 40-inch rows. It also has the sound-idea cab plus one-knob control for speed once a desired gear-speed setting has been selected on the gear panel. There was a steady flow of farmers at the showing Saturday, said John L. Taylor, owner.

Burk Kirk, Odessa, hit city and county officials with a $450,000 damage suit last week as the result of having had his Mini-Flick movie house shut down. He also asked for a show-cause hearing Sept. 28 as to why he could not be allowed to continue. He asked $150,000 in what he claimed was profit loss (the show was in operation only a day when hit) and the rest in punitive damages.

The Big Spring Independent School District sailed through last week without any question at the public hearing. In fact, none showed up when the public had its chance to speak to the fiscal proposal of nearly $7 million.

* * *

Siboney, the parent corporation for Gamco, the successful Big Spring school supply manufacturing concern, last week painted a rosier picture. It showed net revenue of $128,000, or up 23 per cent, for the first half of the year.

* * *

Sacred Heart Catholic Church continues its fall festival today in another push to achieve its goal of $150,000 for a new church plant. This is more than a dream, for the congregation is well along to achieving it.

* * *

Two benefit affairs drew good response during the week. First the Brotherhood Association of Webb airmen took in $750 for the Sickle Cell Anemia drive, and then George Robertson and his young helpers staged a carnival for muscular dystrophy, netting about $230.

* * *

After a respite, the political arena was getting busy again. Last week Maurice Angly Jr., Republican candidate for state treasurer, popped in again to get in some quick licks. This week the Republican national convention will dominate the scene, and after that until November there'll be a lot of activity. For instance Rick Anderson, Republican nominee for state representative, is kicking off his campaign at his ranch home in Borden County Saturday.

It was like old home week for Floyd W. Parsons, former Big Spring superintendent, who was back to address teachers at one of their opening sessions last week. Now retired after 10 years as Little Rock, Ark., superintendent, Parsons had some practical tips for administration and public relations — "things you won't find in the books."

And that reminds us that this week brings up the beginning for all area schools (Coahoma and Forsan started a week ago). And that goes for Howard County Junior College, too.

Joint Purchasing Plan Is Given Initial Push Here

The first major bid opening for city-county-school district joint purchasing was Friday at 1 p.m. in the City Commission Room.

Continental Oil Co. offered the low bid on the joint purchase of approximately 275,000 gallons of ethyl and regular gasoline.

The Continental bid offered the city and county regular at a price of 16.45 cents per gallon and ethyl at 18.45 cents per gallon.

The school district was offered delivery of regular gasoline at 17.45 cents per gallon at the school barn and 18.45 cents per gallon at Gay Hill School.

According to Don Green, assistant business manager for the school district, the bid will be totally acceptable to the school board, because the price was so much lower than other bids submitted.

Bob Butler, the city's purchasing agent, was sure that the city commission will approve of the bid.

LOWER IN '71

Butler noted that the bid was only about three-tenths of a cent per gallon higher than the price which the city paid last year, by virtue of the greater quantity of purchase which almost entirely overrode any price increase in the gasoline.

The school district's higher price for the gasoline delivery is due to the size of storage tanks available at the school barn and at Gay Hill School.

Storage capacity limitations of the school district requires delivery by tank truck, approximately 2,500 gallons, whereas the city and county can accommodate deliveries by truck transport, a quantity of about 8,000 gallons.

Recommendation for upgrading the operation of Big Spring's sewage treatment plant have been received from the Texas Water Quality Board.

A letter addressed to Mayor Wade Choate was received Friday by city officials in which the Water Quality Board issued suggestions which might "abate odors from your sewage treatment plant."

RESULT OF TESTS

The recommendations are the result of three days' testing and observing by two Water Quality Board officials. Jim Wilson, director of the board's Region I, and Mike Orrick, biologist for the board's Region II visited Big Spring's treatment plant the first of August at the direction of the WQB's Austin office.

Eleven recommendations were listed:

1. Chlorination of influent to prevent hydrogen sulfide formation.
2. A windbreak of Arizona Cypress or other suitable trees to be placed along the west side of the plant.
3. Removal of dry sludge from drying beds to a sanitary landfill.
4. Removal of undigested sludge from lagoons to a sanitary landfill where it should be treated to prevent odors and vermin.
5. Application of heat to sludge digestors to speed digestion.
6. Delay of sludge removal from digestors until sufficient digestion has taken place.
7. Covering of open sludge pits to prevent escape of hydrogen sulfide gas.
8. Covering of influent box to prevent escape of hydrogen sulfide gas.
9. Consideration of adding employes to the plant staff.
10. An in-service training program in methods of sewage treatment, with special emphasis on the specific plant problems.
11. A program to inventory all industries connected to the sanitary sewage system to determine the source or sources of chromates entering the system.

Manager of Public Utilities, Bill Brown, announced that he had previously initiated action on five of the 11 recommendations: 1, 3, 7, 8 and 10.

SCLC: No More Burning, Looting

By RENA PEDERSON
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP) — If the Southern Christian Leadership Conference is any indication, the black civil rights movement now is reaching out to other races, seeking more political power for the poor and oppressed.

"It's the human rights movement now," said one delegate to the group's convention in Dallas, "and it's jiving."

Some 1,000 blacks gathered last week with shouts of "Right On!" and "Power to the People!" and tried to dispel any indication that the black movement is falling apart through factionalism, complacency, confusion. They came in Afro hair cuts, blue jeans, house dresses and bright mod clothes to talk about helping "the poor people."

"We are not falling apart, we are coming together as a human rights movement for the havenots, whatever their color," said Bill Crawford, one of the delegates from Indiana.

IN MAJORITY

"The havenots are the majority in America and we want a share of the benefits. New blacks, Chicanos, Indians and Chinese can go about actively finding a political voice in America. We want to become sophisticated politicans so we can get recognition of what every human being is worth," Crawford said in an interview.

The delegates spoke softly, sang loudly and wore buttons that said, "Your vote is your weapon—Register!"

"We can't waste our time burning and looting. You don't have to worry about that any more," said Darlene Wise, 28, a delegate from Dallas. "We are going to come to power politically with the SCLC as a guideline for blacks, poor people, minorities.'

She smiled and explained with an air of patience: "We're just being practical. We're going to move step by step to get all kinds of people involved, collectively, politically."

Julius F. Shaw, 29, of Indianapolis, said many people say they don't want to get politically involved. "But I tell them, baby, you buy a pack of cigarettes with a 5-cent tax, that's politics. Politics put that tax there. You have to be involved and expand."

The resolutions passed by the annual meeting reflected the "human rights movement" approach. They supported the Puerto Rican independence movement, blacks in Rhodesia, and unity for blacks and Mexican-Americans.

The keynote speakers also echoed the move for political power for "all oppressed people." The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of SCLC, said the civil rights group was spearheading a voter registration drive in the fall.

"This is a period when poor people are consolidating their political power. To those in political power, the poor people must say, 'Don't ever bother to ask for my vote until you explain what you are going to do about poverty, racism and oppression in this country. Don't ask for support from the SCLC unless you are ready to pay your debt,' " Abernathy said.

TO DICTATE TERMS

The Rev. J. L. Lowery of Atlanta, Ga., told the group, "The present administration is not worth a damn to us. So we are going to say to a Democratic party—and they need us this year—that we're going to come along, but on our terms."

And Angela Davis, the new success symbol for the movement, told her cheering supporters: "We who want justice and equality for the poor have to make our demands known so that whoever is in power will listen to these demands."

Miss Davis, an avowed Communist who was recently cleared of kidnapping and conspiracy charges, symbolizes the movement of many young blacks away from the "black capitalism" effort and toward socialism or communism. As one delegate put it, "What you call the plan doesn't matter, we gotta go with what works the best for us, socialism, black capitalism or whatever." Miss Davis, although a Communist, was highly popular with the delegates.

The socialist trend could cause a schism between the young members and the older delegates, some of whom have just begun to get a taste of middle class privileges by achieving a certain amount of prosperity. Abernathy's calm perspective on the matter may prevent a clash between the ideologies, however.

"I am a Christian. It doesn't matter to me if Angela Davis is a Communist. I'd rather have one good Communist working for the right things—power to the people—than a bad Democrat or Republican working for the wrong things."

VIEW DENIED

The young delegates denied any view that they were uneasy about old leadership and slow progress. They spent their time exchanging ideas about the progress of black capitalism, poverty programs, day care centers and voter registration.

"We don't need new leadership," said John Moore, 30, of Michigan. "We need a better fire within. We need political people not leaders."

Highly publicized black leaders such as Jesse Jackson of Operation Breadbasket, the SCLC food program, and U.S. Rep. Julian Bond of Georgia, were noticeably absent.

"Oh Jesse's a star now," said one delegate, "and Julian, he ain't black enough any more."

"We don't need superstars any more," Shaw said. "Martin Luther King is a saint now. We needed that, sure, but we need someone human, mortal, like us."

Mrs. Gertrude Clark, a housewife from Philadelphia, Pa., said the 1972 convention was the best of the group's 15-year history.

Mosquitoes With Deadly Virus Found On Coast

MADERA, Calif. (AP) — A sleeping sickness virus, fatal to both humans and horses, has been discovered on a carrier mosquito here, the Madera County mosquito abatment district reported Friday.

The virus, western equine encephalitis, was discovered in two collections of Culex tarsalis mosquitoes taken in mid-July south of Madera, said Warren Cook, manager of the district.

It is the first time the virus has been uncovered in Madera nia, Cook said.

However, no cases of the disease have been reported in humans or horses, Cook said, adding the potential for an outbreak does exist.

"We have the mosquitoes, the standing water and now the active virus," Cook said. "I can't predict an outbreak of sleeping sickness, but then I can't get anyone to assure me there won't be one."

To combat the threat, Cook said, the district has stepped up its pond draining and spraying.

California's last encehalities epidemic occurred in 1952 when 800 persons were stricken and 56 died.

The virus is not the same as Venezuelan equine encephalitis, which killed thousands of horses in Mexico and Texas last year. That virus, commonly known as VEE, is not fatal to humans.

SAYS MAHON

Demo Nominee Chances Slim

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., from Lubbock and Colorado City, said Saturday here that Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee, had a "slim or non-existent" chance of carrying Texas in the general election.

Mahon arrived in Odessa about 2 p.m. for a round of festivities over the weekend that will include seeing a Texas League baseball game and dedicating a new Weather Service center here.

The veteran House member, chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said he was certain McGovern would not carry Texas if the election were held today. He said he didn't know if the complexion of the race would change by November or not.

"He may improve his image to some degree between now and then," Mahon said, "but if he improves it in Texas, he's going to have to modify and clarify some of his views."

Mahon, in speculating that the Democratic nominee could not carry Texas "today," added, "The reason he couldn't win if the election were held now is that many of his views are not shared by Texans—nor by me."

When asked what views of McGovern were not shared by him, the 71-year-old representative said, "For example, when he undertook to reduce the $20 billion capital defense authorization bill by $4 billion—almost a one-fourth cut—in my estimation his views on the nation's defense were unrealistic."

In spite of the divergence of views between himself and McGovern, Mahon said he would support the Democratic ticket.

"I support it because not to do so would mean I would be forfeiting my seniority and my chairmanship of the House Appropirations Committee," he said.

"If this were to happen, it would deprive me of maximum opportunity to serve my district and the nation," he added.

Apparently anxious that his agreement to support the ticket was not misinterpreted as a stamp of approval of McGovern's politics, Mahon asked a newsman: "Are you sure you got that last quote?"

Making Do On Poverty Level Just Won't Do

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Imagine being plunked down in the middle of a strange city 2,000 miles from home and told to fend for yourself for a week with only your Social Security card, $2 in change and the clothes on your back.

That's the assignment for nine Midwestern college students, who since Monday have pounded the sidewalks of San Francisco in search of jobs, food, shelter and a first-hand glimpse of inner-city poverty.

"It's been a mind-blowing experience for them," said Prof. H. Roger Smith, head of the Urban Studies Institute at Mankato State College, Mankato, Minn. He dreamed up the experiment, which he calls "Project Plunge," and accompanied the students to San Francisco.

NO FIELD TRIP

"This is no field trip," Smith said in an interview Friday. "It's a living learning experience that places them in a situation where they have to become totally immersed to survive."

The students, all in their 20s and majoring in urban planning or administration, arrived Monday and went their separate ways into the city's skid row district. They are to reassemble Sunday morning for the trip home.

"All of them are white, middle-class people who've really had no experience of what it's like to be poor," Smith said.

In past years, when the project was run in Boston and Mobile, Ala., Smith said, the students started with $5.

"But they decided this was too much." he said.

As the week neared an end, only one of the nine had found a steady job, but most of the others had between $1.15 and $1.75 left of their original $2, Smith said.

They spent much of their time waiting fruitless hours in long lines in various manpower and temporary employment agencies. They ate at soup kitchens operated by charities and slept in free hotels, rooming houses or in the park.

JOB HELPS

Marian Rucker, 29, of Mankato, said she "never felt so happy in her life" as when she got a $1.80 an hour job her second day in town.

She heard about the job from a sympathetic clerk at the welfare office, where she was turned down "because I didn't have a rent receipt to prove I was a resident."

Dave Garbish said his "biggest hassle" was finding a place to go to the toilet.

Garbish, 22, of Brownsville, Minn., also said he asked a policeman for advice about where to get work and he "told me to get out of town because there was no place here for people like me who couldn't find jobs."

Smith said he is convinced that the program, funded entirely by the college, already has proved its value in broadening the outlook of future city planners.

Smith said some of his former students who were in the Boston project have city administration jobs, "and they write reports which say things like: 'We have to start thinking of the city as the human beings who live in it, rather than as buildings, traffic patterns, and fire hydrants."

CLOSE TO MILLION
Water Revenues Showing Gain

Revenues of the Colorado River Municipal Water District are running substantially ahead of a year ago through July, but then they have to in order to meet increased debt service.

Through July revenues totalled $3,211,603, which is nearly a million dollars over the same period last year. The vast bulk of this increase has come in sale of water to oil and industrial users, who a year ago at this stage had been either cut off or sharply reduced in deliveries. Municipal sales for the period aggregated $1,904,864, up $259,000, but oil and industrial sales stood at $1,271,413, up nearly $700,000.

July revenues to the district reached $497,313.

Expenses of operation for the first seven months were $798,903, which is up $75,000 over the same time in 1971. This left an excess of $2,412,702 of revenues over expenditures, but of this $1,776,319 was transferred to the net revenue fund, principally for the retirement of bonds and payment of interest. The reason that payments on the debt is so much higher this year is that the effects of the 1966 and 1969 expansion projects, which cost nearly $40 million, are just now being felt.

Water sales through the first seven months amounted to 10,587,084,000 gallons. Of this, 4,521,790,000 gallons came from Lake Spence, 3,845,601,000 from Lake Thomas, 586,000,000 gallons from the Ward County well field. There were 1,209,733,000 gallons of non-potable water which were sold to oil companies for repressuring purposes.

Father Looks Up To See Son On Plane With Him

LONDON (AP) — Three-year-old Mark Desmond Woo-sam flew in Saturday from Los Angeles and airline officials promptly labeled him the world's youngest stowaway.

Marks' father, 40-year-old James Woo-sam, a psychologist from Inglewood, Calif., was just settling in and unfastening his seat belt when he saw Mark hustling down the aisle under the arm of a stewardess.

That was a big surprise for father, because Mark was supposed to be down there on the ground waving goodbye along with his mom and two sisters.

Woo-sam senior said: "We had been airborne about 20 minutes and I heard an announcement asking for the parents of a little boy found in the toiliet.

"Next thing I saw Mark being carried down the aisle bawling his head off.

Mr. Woo-sam said that the pilot of the Trans World jumbo jet had radioed a message back to Los Angeles to tell his wife what had happened to her little boy.

"She must be worried out of her mind," said Mr. Woo-sam. "All I can guess is that Mark has got a taste for travel."

SHELL VETERAN — S. E. Carnes, lease operator for Shell Oil Company's JM production unit at Ozona, was cited recently for 30 years service with the company. He joined Shell in 1942 as a roustabout at McCamey, was named lease operator there and served in similar capacities at Big Lake and Big Spring before going to Ozona in 1969.

Halley's Comet Back In 1985

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Grandma and grandpa: if you're telling your grandchildren of the spectacle of Halley's Comet when you saw it as children in 1910, you're building them up for a disappointment when it returns in 1985.

Halley won't be as bright and won't have the gigantic, phenomenal tail it displayed on its 1910 trip, says University of Arizona astronomer Elizabeth Roemer. Dr. Roemer, a comet specialist, said Halley came within 16 million miles of the earth in 1910.

The famous comet takes a little more than 75 years to make its elongated orbit. However, when it comes back on its next trip around the sun, it won't come nearly as close to earth as in 1910.

Santone Blocks Forgery Scheme

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The forgery of checks totaling $1,654, the second scheme involving city money in less than a year, is under investigation, officials disclosed Friday.

City Manager Loyd Hunt said the six checks were discovered Aug. 8 during a routine check of bank statements.

An investigation began at once, he said, and tighter finance department controls have been ordered to make a "fail safe routine."

Hunt declined to reveal whether there were any suspects.

Several months ago, a payroll padding scheme involving about $11,500 in city money was broken up.

IRS Commissioner: Judges Too Easy

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Internal Revenue Service Commissioner Johnnie Walters says judges are too lenient in sentencing convicted tax evaders.

"In my opinion every man who is convicted of tax evasion should serve some jail term," Walters told the National Society of Public Accountants here Friday.

Walters added, "It indeed is strange that the theft of a used car worth $500 driven across a state line rates a three-year prison sentence, whereas theft of $50,000 on taxes rates only a mild reprimand, a fine and no prison term."

Zippies' Tent City Is Focal Point Of Dissent

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A tent city of about 500 Zippies, Yippies, Neo-American Church "boo hoos" and other denominations of protest has sprouted in Flamingo Park, a five-minute walk from the site where the Republicans will hold their national convention next week.

As with the July Democratic convention, the park is the launching pad for demonstrations and a showcase for the counterculture.

A few grassy acres covered with palm and banyan trees, handball courts, softball fields and basketball courts constitute the normal social center of the southern end of the island, an area mainly populated by retired persons.

The demonstrators are coexisting with the elderly in the park.

"I'm not about to quit playing handball in the morning just because a few young folks are camping over by the softball field," said one white-haired man. Numbers of residents toured the tent city Friday as if it were the midway of a carnival. Middle-aged men strolled self-consciously past tents, gawking inside at demonstrators.

"Hey, man," said one teenaged girl, "How'd you like it if I was to come look in your windows?"

The Zippies, who splintered from the Youth International party (Yippies), are camping near a sprawling banyan tree, which is claimed by the Pot People's Party as their rallying point.

Neighboring the Zippie encampment is something called the Neo-American Church, which offers its tent as a "chapel and vomitorium" and passes out free "nausea bags."

"It's like if you get sick of the convention, you can barf in the bags," said 25-year-old John Donley of Cambridge, Mass. The top man in the church—called the "chief boo hoo"—was asleep with his head on a stack of nausea bags.

Beneath an awning a few yards away, the Miami Conventions Coalition, which has attempted to serve as coordinator for the demonstrators, has set up the park's equivalent of a soup kitchen.

Airlines Ask Passengers To Lend Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The airlines are asking passengers to show up at the airport a bit earlier than usual for flights these days, to allow time for weapons screening and luggage searches under new antihijack regulations.

They are urging that passengers remove from their pockets, in advance of boarding inspection, all metal objects that might trigger the detection devices.

They are also asking that passengers make sure they have proper identification and can produce it quickly.

And, they are requesting that hand luggage be kept to a minimum.

"While the airlines still strongly urge you to lock all checked luggage, do not-repeat not-lock hand luggage," the Air Transport Association said in a new memorandum to passengers.

"At least not until you have gone through inspection.

"In fact, as you near the inspector, you may expedite things by unzipping or unsnapping any case you may be carrying and have it open."

U.S. Navy Can Use Greek Ports

ATHENS (AP) — Greece and the United States have agreed in principle on allowing ships of the U.S. 6th Fleet to use Greek ports as a home away from home, a U.S. Embassy source said today.

It would mean that families of crewmen could set up households in Greece and that the ships would be allowed to use Greece as a home port in the Mediterranean.

Stephens New Manager Of Gibson's Store Here

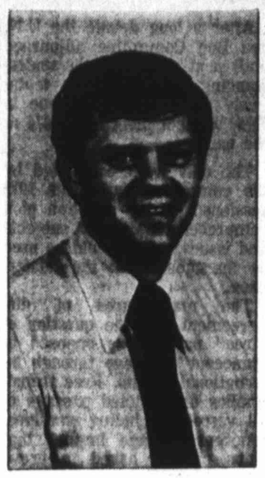

Gibson Discount Center buyers returned from their Christmas and Spring Trade Show with a host of new merchandise lines and a new store manager.

Acting manager for almost a month, David Allen (Al) Stephens, 28, was handed the reins of the local store while attending the famed Gibson Trade Mart Monday.

The show has been termed "the biggest trade show on earth," and packs representatives of more than 1,500 manufacturers in the gigantic Dallas Market Hall.

More than 6,000 buyers from more than 600 franchise and Gibson-owned stores migrate almost quarterly to Dallas to purchase their goods.

Stephens announced the addition of many new lines to the local store's inventory, resulting from the latest trade show.

AL STEPHENS

HAS PLANS

According to Stephens, great new things are in store for the local operation. He has some plans for the store which he hopes will make shopping a more pleasant experience for the customer and speed transactions for hurried shoppers.

A store directory will be constructed to allow a customer to find merchandise more easily. Customer relations is a general heading for the new management, according to Stephens. He plans to initiate an in-store training program for his employes in dealing with customers.

To speed up transactions, Stephens will incorporate new marking procedures which will speed the check-out process as well as provide an express register for customers purchasing five items or less.

A strong believer in the school system's Distributive Education program, Stephens plans to make use of the eager young students, who need jobs to acquire school credit for D.E. classes.

MISSOURI BORN

Stephens was born in West Plains, Mo., where he completed his high school education. He moved to Abilene in 1961 to attend Abilene Christian College and went to work at Gibson's there for his uncle, H. R. Gibson Sr.

He has been with the company for about six years since his first employment with Gibson's. He was assistant manager of the Irving location for four years before coming to Big Spring a year ago as manager trainee.

Stephens worked also as general manager of Wadley Piano and Organ Co., Dallas, for four years.

He and Eileen, his wife, reside at 12 January Drive with their two daughters, Karla, 7, and Karen, 5.

Webb Starts 'Closed Base' Concept Again Thursday

Webb returns to the "closed base" concept Thursday, it was announced this week by Capt. Delbert B. Stout, chief, Security Police.

"Essentially," the captain pointed out, "this change will not affect base people, either military or civilian. All it means is that vehicles with no registration stickers will be stopped so that security policemen can log them on and off base."

Explaining the renewed policy further, Capt. Stout said that there is no intent to delay persons nor to deny anyone with a purpose entrance to the base. Visitors must merely stop at the gate houses to be logged in; they will receive a numbered Visitor's pass, which will be returned as they leave the base.

The purpose of the changed policy is to allow security police to have a more accurate idea of who is where on base, and for what purpose, the security police chief noted. The registration will primarily be an administrative change for SPs. There is no intent to upset members of the community who visit or conduct business on base. They will encounter only the minor inconvenience of being stopped to state their destination.

"Only between midnight and 5:30 a.m., will those in unregistered vehicles be required to verify their destination and purpose on entering Webb," Capt. Stout said. "We will call and check with the person or place they plan to visit before we let them in during these hours."

Contractors and others who work on Webb for certain periods of time will be issued temporary stickers. Company-marked vehicles which regularly conduct business on base will not be stopped during normal duty hours, the captain concluded.

OK Study of US 70 For Interstate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee has issued a favorable report on a bill ordering a study on the inclusion in the interstate system of U.S. 70 between Amarillo, Tex. and Las Cruces, N.M.

Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., says the Senate Public Works Committee voted to forward the bill to the Senate. It would require the secretary of transportation to submit a study on the project no later than Jan. 1, 1974, Montoya said.

Contest Winner Yields Crown

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (AP) — Patricia Kinne has relinquished her Miss California-World crown after three weeks, saying contest officials "treated me like a product."

The 18-year-old brunette told newsmen she notified contest officials by registered mail Friday.

Miss Kinne said she had not received many of the prizes promised at the coronation three weeks ago.

"I felt degraded," she said. "I was treated terribly."

The first runnerup and next in line to represent California in the Miss World-USA pageant at Hampton, Va., next month is Miki J. Garcia of Sacramento.

Contest officials were not available for comment.

Zoning Discussion May Attract Big Audience

City Commissioners meet in regular session at 5:15 p.m. Tuesday, in the City Commission Room, City Hall.

A public hearing on emergency reading of a new zoning ordinance amendment is expected to receive quite an audience with the public. The ordinance deals with restriction of mobile homes to mobile home parks or mobile home subdivisions through discontinuance of specific-use permits allowing mobile homes to be placed in general residence zones as fixed dwellings.

Also considered a slightly inflammatory subject is a resolution slated for presentation to the commission which will limit rent supplement housing.

The resolution will be presented by the Big Spring Property Owners Association. The resolution as presently worded states that Big Spring presently has adequate housing to accomodate low income families and individuals and that there is now a need to limit the rent supplement programs in the city.

The resolution proposes to limit rent supplement programs to those presently in operation and that no new rent supplement programs be approved in the City of Big Spring.

Also scheduled for commission action:

—A request by Merrill Creighton for closing an alley.

—A public hearing and specific-use permit for Carl Schwab at Carl's Lounge.

—A report from the city-county health unit in reference to alleged odors at Milady Beauty Shop, 202 Circle Drive.

—A request for annexation to the City of Big Spring by Eddie Buffington, Lots nine and ten, block three, Canyon View Subdivision.

—Appointment of Assistant City Secretary, Sandra Hendrix.

—Report of traffic survey at intersection of Gregg St. and Sixth St. from Texas Highway Department, in regards to a request for a traffic signal.

—A contract agreement for sanitary landfill.

—Approval of bids for gasoline to be purchased jointly with county and school district.

—Approval of bids for side-loading sanitation containers.

—Request of the commission approval to employ an auctioneer to dispose of surplus city property at Goat Hill.

Trained Observers Reduce Cheating In Las Vegas

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Like nearly everything else in the billion-dollar world of Nevada gambling, catching the quick-fingered professional cheater is often a matter of luck.

And although they don't win every time, for 25 years casinos have used the well-known but little-publicized "Eye in the Sky" to keep the odds in their favor.

Peering constantly over the would-be cheater's shoulder, the eye is the casino's relatively unsophisticated version of the all-seeing Big Brother. It is house security's best friend.

Usually armed only with the naked eye, the man in the "eye" hidden behind two-way mirrors keeps a constant watch for the "crossroader" —the professional cheater who bilks table games and slot machines of untold millions annually.

EYE IN SKY

The eye in the sky — also dubbed "the catwalk" or "the look-out" — usually consists of a network of crawlspaces and two-way mirrors where trained observers can watch for cheaters.

In the highly security conscious world of casino gambling, the two-way mirror has become the most effective deterrent to a professional thief. Nevada casinos win nearly $650 million each year ,only a percentage of the total that is bet. It has been estimated that the professional cheater may steal up to $25 million. Exact figures, of course, are impossible to determine. But casino officials say confidently that cheating is on the decrease, and they give much of the credit to the omnipresent eye in the sky.

Although formats for the catwalk vary from casino to casino, the purpose of each is to provide the lookout with an unobstructed view of every square foot of the casino.

In one casino in Reno, the catwalk is a labyrinth of crawlways tucked between casino floors. The man in the eye can peep through mirrors located over bars, change booths, money counting rooms and even the stage in the show lounge.

Nevada casino executives long have been extremely secretive about their security methods. Although they have never denied the existence of the eye in the sky, they are reluctant to discuss specifics.

Almost never is an outsider allowed onto the catwalk. Even after agreeing to talk to a pair of newsmen recently, some questions didn't get answers. They won't say, for instance, how many people are on duty behind the mirrors.

THEY WORK

It's part of the psychological game the casinos believe make the mirrors work. Even if there is only one man on duty, the cheater can't know where he is or what he is watching.

The men who prowl the catwalks are invariably ex-dealers, although on occasion one-time cheaters have been used. They are experts on all the major games and they know the ways of the slot machine.

One veteran lookout has been crawling the catwalks for five years. A compact 5 feet 6, 130 pounds, he's ideally suited for scampering over, under and around the many built-in obstacles on the catwalk.

At hand are cameras and videotape units. Candid snapshots of suspected cheaters decorate the walls inside the catwalk office.

As he peers through one of the hundreds of mirrored windows above the crowded casino floor, the lookout is hunting for what he calls "the unnatural."

"I'm looking for anything unusual," he says. "anyone willing to cheat, whether it's a customer or an employe, has to do something out of the ordinary."

Things that would catch his eye might include someone looking around to see where the floor man is, a customer placing unusually large bets, or a dealer not using normal dealing procedures. Casino executives agree that cheating seems to be on the decrease.

"Because of the increase in types of surveillance and the fact it is getting better," a Harolds Club official said, "cheaters are finding it harder and harder to play."

Patrons Listen In On Rapping

HONOLULU (AP) — Passengers on flights to Hawaii piloted by Capt. Percy Cunningham get something extra in the way of entertainment.

Cunningham invented a device which enables the passengers to listen in on his conversations with control tower operators, weather stations and tracking stations.

"Anything I can tune into in the cockpit, I can give them in the cabin," he said.

Cunningham began the extra service in 1947 when he was flying a tour group to the World Series. The passengers wanted to know the baseball scores, so he taped his headset to the microphone of the plane's public address system to let his passengers listen in on the game.

Last year, Cunningham developed an electronic patching device that enables him to keep his headset on and also allows him to make volume adjustments to be sure everything is "just right for the passengers." The invention is actually an improvement on a patching device from an old DC-7.

He said the device would work in any plane with a public address system.

On one flight last year, Cunningham's passengers heard firsthand accounts of the Los Angeles earthquake. On another flight passengers listened in on the recovery efforts as one of the Apollo missions splashed down near the Pacific route taken by Cunningham's plane.

Angry Blacks Seize Podium

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the fourth straight year, the National Student Association's annual congress was disrupted as angry blacks seized control of the podium.

The disturbance early today occurred after the blacks' candidate for NSA president, Mae Jimison, had been defeated. Her supporters said the tactics used to defeat her questioned her integrity.

Tim Higgins, former University of Wisconsin student body president, won the presidency by a 163-90 vote.

As he stepped to the microphone to accept the post he was grabbed from behind by a black student. Higgins fell back off the raised platform as both black and white delegates surged forward.

No one was hurt, although Higgins had a slight scratch on his neck.

A short time later, Higgins announced he was resigning but would declare for the post when another election was held.

Black and white students shouted at each other as Mrs. Jimison, a student at Indiana State University, walked to the platform and asked everyone to sit down.

Then she told her backers: "There's nothing to be ashamed about. There's nothing to be angry about." She asked them to meet outside the convention hall on the Catholic University campus.

After the recess, the congress met again and elected Higgins president. There was no trouble. A leader of the Third World Caucus then urged unity and said caucus members should support Higgins.

U. S., Russians Yield In Sea Law Discussion

GENEVA (AP) — A one-month meeting of 91 nations to prepare for the U.N. Law of the Sea Conference concluded Friday night with the United States and the Soviet Union apparently yielding on a key point concerning passage through international straits.

After a long debate the U.N. Sea Bed Committee adjourned until next year with the understanding the conference, tentatively scheduled to convene in 1973, will not meet until 1974 at the earliest.

The only work completed by the committee during its 1972 sessions was the adoption of a comprehensive list of subjects and issues, which could be used as an agenda for the conference.

The main area of disagreement was the question of "free" passage as opposed to "innocent" passage through international straits. Free transit implies unrestricted passage of all vessels, including warships. Innocent passage implies that ships can be asked to prove their innocence before passage is granted.

The developing countries, led by Egypt, the Philippines, Indonesia, insisted the words "freedom of transit" be omitted from the subject list or downgraded.

The United States, the Soviet Union and other developed powers had steadfastly refused to accept this suggestion and argued that eliminating this item from the agenda prejudged the issue.

The U.S. delegation initially was under orders from Washington not to accept a compromise. But faced by the possibility that failure to adopt a list at the Geneva meeting could threaten a 1974 conference, Washington softened its position, reportedly against advice from the Pentagon.

The United States accepted a compromise formula that refers to "the question of the right of transit." Although the formula will permit the discussion of "freedom of transit" at the upcoming conference, observers felt that the downgrading of this item amounted to a defeat for the United States.

Reds Broke Pact, Says Egyptian

By The Associated Press

A leading Egyptian political analyst accused the Soviet Union today of violating the 15-year friendship treaty between their countries, while Syria reportedly moved to put an end to antiRussian activities in its army.

Ishan Abdel Kuddous, editor of Cairo's mass-circulation Akhbar Elyoum, said the Russians broke the treaty by not providing Egypt with the necessary weapons for "eliminating traces of Israeli aggression."

He said the Soviets did not live up to this commitment nor to other important clauses contained in the treaty.

He particularly mentioned a provision pertaining to military cooperation, which he interpreted as committing the Russians to supply Egypt with sufficient arms to regain Israeli occupied Sinai.

Abdel Kuddous said the Soviets failed to observe another provision in the treaty by not consulting with Egypt on the outcome of their May summit with President Nixon.

"Cairo viewed this summit as a threat to peace for Egypt because it put the two superpowers on one side," he said.

He was referring to a provision which said, "In case a situation arises which in the view of the signatories constitutes a threat or violation of peace, they will immediately contact each other to coordinate their position in order to eliminate the threat and restore peace."

Abdel Kuddous said this could also constitute a breach of a provision which forbids the formation of alliances with other world powers against the interests of either signatory.

"Although the Moscow agreement might not be considered an alliance proper, peaceful coexistence between the two superpowers" in the manner currently applied by Russia could jeopardize Egyptian interests, he said.

"All that we ask is that the provisions be honored so that the treaty can have value," Abdel Kuddous said.

Assassination Theories Changed By Research

DENVER (AP) — A leading medical expert says a four-inch mistake by a pathologist who examined the body of John F. Kennedy after he was shot to death in Dallas produced a series of false speculations about the assassination.

Dr. Russell H. Morgan said the bullet actually entered the president's skull some four inches higher than initially reported, but the Warren Commission's detailed report on the assassination failed to clarify that point.

Morgan, dean of the medical school at Johns Hopkins University, is the only radiologist to examine the X-ray photographs of the slain president's skull.

In an address to the 34th midsummer conference of the Rocky Mountain Radiological Society here, he gave X-rays the credit for finally revealing the pathologist's error and disproving many of the more extreme speculations spawned by the mistake, which is included in the Warren Commission report.

4-YEAR STUDY

Morgan's four-year investigation of the photographs and the Abraham Zapruder film of the assassination led him to several conclusions, he said.

The most important finding was that one of the pathologists who examined Kennedy's body in Washington the night of the assassination erred in saying the fatal bullet entered the "occipital protuberance," or the bulge at the lower section of the back of the skull.

This statement, which morgan said later proved to be false, was included in the Warren report. Critics of the report immediately noted a major inconsistency between that alleged entry point and several features of the Zapruder film which showed a frame-by-frame sequence of the shooting. Critics said the film showed the president's head in a near vertical position when the bullet hit and also showed him lurching backward, leading to speculation the bullet came from the front.

The angle of the bullet became controversial. Some contended it couldn't have been fired from Lee Harvey Oswald's rifle in the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository and entered the skull where the pathologist said it did.

Morgan said Friday the Warren Commission, which named Oswald as the assassin, made no effort to explain the contradiction, allowing it to provide controversy for several years.

POOR QUALITY

When he was given two days to examine the X-ray photographs, Morgan found them of poor quality, severely over-exposed. Of the 14, he said, only three were of the head wound. He said one had pencil marks on the negative itself showing "where somebody thought the bullet had gone."

The penciled line corresponded to the mistaken pathologist's conclusion that the bullet entered the base of the skull and exited at an upward angle out of the right of the forehead.

But Morgan said he found the actual entry wound was 120 millimeters away from the penciled line, more than four inches higher on the back of the head.

The lurching of the president's body backward, he said, was caused by body spasms after the massive wound was inflicted.

Morgan said the Zapruder film, the ballistics tests, the projected line of fire and the angle of entry of the fatal bullet all were consistent with the explanation that a single shot fired from above and behind killed the president.

"The Warren Commission's diagnosis was correct," he said, "even though the evidence cited was inconsistent."

Seminar Stresses Textile Industry

"How To Get A Textile Industry In Your Town" is the theme of West Texas Chamber of Commerce's Growth Industry Seminar No. 1 which will be held in Sweetwater Thursday at the Coliseum Annex in Newman Park.

Industrial development and civic leaders from 167 West Texas towns have been invited to attend. The event is being sponsored by the WTCC, Texas Industrial Commission, Texas Industrial Development Council and Sweetwater Chamber of Commerce.

Tom Locke, vice president of the Big Spring Industrial Foundation, and Ron Mercer, Chamber of Commerce manager, and possibly others from here will attend the meeting. Claude W. Brown McCamey, president of WTCC, said that this is the first of a series of seminars sponsored by WTCC devoted to a specific industry.

Army Rejects My Lai Claim

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has rejected an accusation that the personal interest of Gen. William C. Westmoreland blocked prosecution for the My Lai massacre from going higher than Lt. William L. Calley.

The Army's answer Friday was in a brief filed with the Army Court of Military Review. The brief disputed an appeal filed with the court April 30 by Calley's attorney, George Latimer of Salt Lake City.

The Army's brief called Latimer's charge that Westmoreland had a personal interest in the case a "red herring."

"The vehemence with which the appellant develops his assigned error is indicative of the fact that the error is merely a red herring through which the appellant is attempting to sustain a collateral finding of moral, if not legal, guilt on the part of Gen. Westmoreland," the Army said.

Westmoreland was the U.S. commander in Vietnam at the time of the My Lai slayings in March 1968 and later served as Army Chief of Staff.

Calley, 28, convicted last year of murdering at least 22 civilians at My Lai, is under house arrest at Ft. Benning, Ga., where the trial was held. His life sentence has already been reduced to 20 years. President Nixon has said he will personally review the case after legal remedies have been exhausted.

YOU "AXED" FOR IT—It's a bumpy ride, but it proves Goodyear's commercials for new Polysteel tires. The company has eight teams of college students touring the country staging demonstrations like this one in shopping centers and at Goodyear dealers. Using Polysteel tires, cars are driven over six well-honed firemen's axes to show the cut resistance of the steel-belted tires.

Church Opens Care Center

"Mother's Day Out", a day care operation by the First United Methodist Church opened here Wednesday for a new season. The facility is operated each Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The church reports that the service offers a chance for mothers to go shopping, lunch out and know that their children are being cared for by capable women in a friendly atmosphere.

There are two sets of fees. Members of the church pay $1.75 for a full day with 50 cents for each additional child or a $1 for a half day and 25 cents for each additional child.

Non-members pay $2 for one child and 50 cents for each additional for a full day and $1.25 for one child and 25 cents additional for a half day. Sack lunches are to be brought with milk to be furnished older children. Baby bottles are requested to be "unbreakable" and diaper bags should be labeled.

They stress that they never accept sick children. Mrs. Madge Vaughan is supervisor with Mrs. Marshal Brown, Mrs. Velma Hahn and Mrs. Isla Davison as her assistants.

Unique Show Scheduled By Goodyear Monday

Television commercial viewers have seen an automobile using Polysteel tires rolling over ax blades, drill bits, machetes, saw blades and meat cleavers. Now The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. is sending eight teams of college students to towns all over the country to put on this display.

The "road show" comes to Big Spring Monday. Demonstrations will be held at the Goodyear Service Store, 408 Runnels, at 1:30, 3:30 and 5:30 p.m.

"The demonstrations not only affirm our advertising but they show dramatically the penetration resistance of the steel belts under the tread. We think the demonstrations go even farther toward reducing the skepticism many consumers have of advertising," said John Kelley, advertising vice president at Goodyear.

The Polysteel tire combines polyester carcass plies with steel fabric belts beneath the tread rubber. It is the steel fabric that resists — and even dulls — the ax blades and more common tire-slicing debris encountered on highways.

Working from brightly-painted van trucks, the two-man teams of college students will stage their tire torture demonstration at Goodyear dealers and at shopping centers.

Using Custom Power Cushion Polysteel tires on a 4,000-pound automobile, the car is driven onto an elevated ramp and the right side tires are bumped across six well-honed ax blades. The tread-slicing ride is repeated four times, with five volunteers from the audience going on the final ride.

McGOVERN PLANNING ANOTHER ONE

Demos' Telethon Was Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mastermind of the Democratic party's July telethon says it was such a success that George McGovern plans another shorter one in prime time to raise money for his presidential campaign.

The net profit for the party from the first telethon now is about $2 million, he said.

"It looks like we'll raise $4 million by the end of the drive," said John Y. Brown, the Kentucky Fried Chicken magnate in charge of the telethon and its aftermath.

"Senator McGovern is so pleased that he wants to have a mini-telethon," Brown said in an interview.

PRIME TIME

Brown said this will probably be a two-hour prime time show in late September.

From the July telethon 360,000 persons have donated or pledged about $4 million, Brown said, of which more than $2 million will be profit.

The Democrats have a $9.3 million debt left over from the 1968 campaign.

Former DNC Treasurer Robert Strauss of Dallas has negotiated agreements with many persons who held personal notes for Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential candidate in 1968, and most will settle for 30 to 40 cents on the dollar, Brown said.

Thus $2 million profit from the telethon can pare away $6 million in DNC debts, Brown said, leaving such "hard debts" as telephone and airline bills which must be paid in full.

FEW BAD ONES

Brown said the telethon ushered in a new era of voter financing of politics which he said will free Democrats, at least, from reliance on special interest contributors.

Brown said the telethon was an enormous success, especially because it provided the mailing list.

"This was the most honest way...the healthiest," he said.

He gave these statistics:

—85 per cent of the telethon pledges are in and the DNC will write a reminder this week to the 50,000 who haven't sent their check. He expects 25 to 30 per cent to respond.

—Few checks have bounced—only about $600 of the $3.7 million now in the bank.

—Only a handful of donations were over $500. The largest amount was $10,000 from Encyclopedia Briatinnica publisher William Benton.

—The average donation was $10.

—20 per cent of the persons used a credit card "charge it" system arranged by Brown. The donations were 50 per cent higher, or an average of $15.

—The telethon production came to slightly less than the $1.8 million budgeted for it, which included costs of taping one-fourth of the 20-hour show and provision for telephone operators in major cities.

—Kentucky gave more per capita than any other state, with a total donation from its citizens of $200,000. California voters contributed $800,000.

New Symbols On Highway Signs Are Eye-Catching

AUSTIN — Although the "new look" in highway signs is not as revolutionary as the mini-skirt — Texas Highway Department engineers hope it will be as eyecatching.

In many cases, symbols, shapes and colors are substituted for words. It is hoped that this will give the message to motorists at a glance and remove language barriers.

The new symbol signs and pavement markings adopted by the Texas Highway Commission are from the revised "Manual on Uniform Traffic Control Devices" released by the Federal Highway Administration.

The new prohibitive signs are probably the most important. These signs all have a red circle with a slash cutting diagonally through the center which means "DO NOT" or "NO." The symbol inside the circle shows what is prohibited.

NEW APPROACH

The yellow diamond-shaped signs still stand for a warning, but some of the symbols showing hazards are new. In addition, most warning signs continue to have a word message, but the message is located under the sign on a plaque.

For example: The word message "MERGING TRAFFIC," is replaced by a black arrow being joined by a smaller black line. A plaque under the sign will have the word "MERGE." It is hoped this will minimize confusion as to which stream carries the merging traffic.

School signs are shaped like a schoolhouse, containing the silhouetes of two children on a yellow background.

Color is a key in the new system. Red indicates stop or prohibition; green shows movement permitted or gives directional guidance; blue signifies motorist services; yellow indicates general warning; and black on white is used for regulatory signs such as those for speed limits and for most guide and destination signs.

In addition, orange (a new color in the manual) will convey construction and maintenance warnings.

IMPORTANT

The shapes of the new signs are important. Diamond shaped signs signify warning; rectangular signs with longer vertical dimensions provide traffic regulation; rectangular signs with longer horizontal dimensions contain guidance information. An octagon always means stop and an inverted triangle means yield.

In addition to the new signs, there are major adjustments in the use of color lines for pavement markings.

Yellow lines will be the only color used for centerline markings on two-way roads and white will remain on multiple-lane highways — for separating traffic flows in the same direction.

A broken yellow centerline will mark the division of the road where passing is permitted. A solid yellow line to the right of a broken yellow centerline will mean no passing is allowed for traffic in that lane. Double solid yellow lines will denote areas where no passing is permitted by traffic traveling in either direction. Similarly, double yellow lines will mark the center line of multilane divided highways.

Export Curb Bill To Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has sent to President Nixon a controversial bill aimed at improving U.S. trade with Communist nations. The measure also would nullify the administration's curb on U.S. cattle-hide exports.

Climaxing a bitter fight in Congress, the House Friday voted 183-124 to accept a Senate-passed compromise.

The bill requires the secretary of commerce to move swiftly to end unilateral U.S. controls on the export of peaceful, nonstrategic goods. Backers of the bill said the controls are largely self-defeating.

The bill's supporters also said that removal of the restrictions would help high-technology industries and let them compete on a more favorable basis in the rapidly growing Eastern European market.

Much of the controversy centered on the administration's recently imposed ceiling on American cattle-hide shipments abroad. The administration said the move was aimed at holding down rising prices of shoes and other leather goods.

But, while Congress approved an extension of the Export Administration Act, it voted to nullify the cattle-hide order.

Post Office To Come By Airmail

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — The Alaskan town of Kaktovik will receive a new post office next Wednesday—by airmail.

A spokesman for the U.S. Postal Service said the preconstructed, 876-square-foot building would be shipped by air in two sections from Fairbanks to Kaktovik.

The spokesman said the structure, built in Anchorage, will be put on airplanes next Wednesday at Fairbanks and flown to Barter Island, where it will be unloaded and transported about one mile to the new location.

Study Ways To Make 'Plastic' Highways

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — University of Texas engineers are studying possible ways of making highways and bridges more durable by putting plastic into concrete.

School officials say their research could save taxpayers millions of dollars a year.

"Bridges are made of concrete which is a porous material," said Dr. David Fowler, associated professor of architectural engineering. "When water seeps into the deck of a bridge and freezes, it begins to break off chips of concrete on the surface. Water also carries salts and other chemicals which may deteriorate the concrete.

"In many areas of the county where salt and sand are used to make frozen bridges safe for travel, the damage created may cost the taxpayer millions of dollars a year for resurfacing."

Filling the pores in concrete with plastic—to make polymer concrete — would leave no space for water to seep in. In addition, Flower said, it is 4-5 times stronger than oridinary concrete and is more resistant to wear.

In the laboratory, concrete is placed in a vacuum and saturated with the liquod. Then the slab is immersed in water to prevent evaporation as it is heated in an even.

But, Fowler said, "we can't put a bridge in a vacuum. "We just have to hope the liquid soaks in far enough. We have to find a way of keeping this very volatile liquid from evaporating before it hardens since we can't put a bridge under water. And we have to find a method of heating it to the temperature required to form a plastic."

POLITICIANS AMONG CUSTOMERS

Males Seek Out Brothels For Variety Of Reasons

By ROBERT HEARD
Associated Press Writer

The madam of the brothel walked warily from a back room into the parlor.

She stayed close to a row of wooden chairs lining the wall as she moved toward a man who had asked for her by name. Her weak, blue eyes blinked involuntarily.

The brothel is more than 50 miles from the capital of a southwestern state, yet it's so well known politicians joke about it in public. It has been in continuous operation, illegally, since before the Civil War.

The madam is tall, about 5- and high cheekbones. At 4 p.m., her face was shiny. She wore a blue pants suit, low-heel shoes and support hose to just above her ankles.

After a 15-minute conversation, she agreed to an interview on condition that no names be used — not even the name of the state. She reached over and took an unoffered list of typed questions and began to answer foot-8, with reddish-brown hair them

Q — "How are you able to keep the house open?"

A — "These people in this community — enough of 'em don't want it here, it won't be here," she said.

APPROVED IT

An unpublished survey by a group of students in a university government class supports her. The students circulated a confidential questionnaire in the town. The citizens who responded approved of the brothel by a wide margin.

Like prohibition, the law against prostitution is ignored where most of the people want it ignored.

Q — "Do politicians or lobbyists from the state capital come here in groups for parties?"

— "No, not in groups. I tell em (the girls), 'If you recognize them from TV, just forget it.'"

Q — "What are the rules the girls must obey?"

A — "Treat men properly — reasonable manners. I run a drugs. No alcohol."

A craggy-faced rancher walked into a larger parlor in open view across a hall.

Within seconds, girls began coming through a door that leads to the back bedrooms.

Most of them looked to be in their early twenties. They wore simple blouses and shorts or capri pants.

Some of them sat near the rancher. Other sat across the room from him and crossed their legs.

He pointed a finger at a baby-faced blonde. They all stood up. The blonde led him through a door, the others followed.

The madam continued answering questions.

Q — "How old are you?" How long have you been here? When and how did you get started?"

A — "Forty-four. I've been here 10½ years. Get offered enough money enough times and bet broke enough . . ."

To other questions, she said she started when she was 18, that she had been married several times, that she joined a brothel because "in numbers there's safety."

She has "several brothers and sisters" and attends family reunions. She has told two in her family what business she's in "because I thought they could handle it (the knowledge)." They wish she would take up another line.

Q — "What kid of attitude did your mother have about sex?"

A — "Terrible."

Q — "How is it that you failed to acquire the same attitude?"

A — "I didn't believe it. They all sounded like a bunch of phony liars to me. Be just about like somebody saying they didn't like ice cream when they was a kid."

Q — "What are your hours?"

A — "1 p.m. to 3 a.m. I have been so tired (as a prostitute) I've gone to sleep on a customer. I don't let the girls put in that many hours here."

She said the girls shop in town and get weekly medical checkups.

Q — "What kind of men come here?"

'ALL KINDS'

A — "All kinds, except the degenerate, sadistic or masochistic. I want reasonably normal men. If they're not, they need a psychiatrist."

Q — "Can you read men's characters pretty well on first impression?"

A — "I don't make mistakes. You can tell by the facial expression. Does the smile go to the eyes or stay at the mouth? Some of them are pretty good with poker faces. For example, you have had a poker face with me half the time, but that's okay."

Q — "Can blacks come here?"

A — "No. This is not an international house. This is a straight house."

Q — "Mexican-Americans?"

A — "If they behave themselves."

Q — "Hippies?"

A — "Whoever heard of hippies spending money?"

Two well-groomed young men walked into the larger parlor. After the girls came out, one of the men went to the back with his selection. The other shook his head and waits in the parlor. His companion returned in 10 minutes, smiled stupidly, and they left.

Q — "What if a girl got involved with a married man?"

A — "I wouldn't tolerate it. The wife will know about it. Even if she is a sorry wife, a sorry woman, everyone will say she is a wonderful person. I still think marriage is sacred."

Sometimes the wife is at a disadvantage, she said. "The poor woman's pregnant. She's got children . . . She's tried, She's been keeping house . . . working over that damn hot stove . . .

"Okay, this other girl, she's been sitting on her can all day and she's got time to go to the beauty shop and make up her face, slept all day long, so hell, she's fresh, huh? Here she comes powdered and perfumed and what a contrast."

PLEASANT FACE

The madam has a pleasant, slightly misshapen face, with a curious blend of sensitivity and toughnes. The holes in her pierced ears were inflamed, as if she had been wearing heavy earrings. She smoked filtertip cigarettes.

Q — "How old do the customers have to be?"

A — "Eighteen, I don't want any children in here. The parents would chop your head off right down to your rear."

Q — "How old is the oldest customer?"

A — "Eighty-seven."

Q — "What if a girl doesn't want to have intercourse with a man that old?"

A — "Then she's not in the right business. There shouldn't even be any consideration of age. Take restaurants. Do they ask that type of thing (your age) when you order coffee?"

Oldest Profession Offers Far Different Makeup

(EDITOR'S NOTE: An Associated Press task force conducted surveys of major cities in Texas to determine the status of prostitution in Texas. Their report:

By The Associated Press

The oldest profession wears different makeup in Texas today. Most of the brothels of a decade ago are gone. Streetwalkers and call girls have multiplied. The total number of prostitutes has declined—despite less objection to their trade.

"Nobody gets as upset over prostitution as they used to," says Capt. E. H. Hogue of Fort Worth's vice squad. "The only time we get a complaint is when a person gets clipped or something."

"It's the change in society itself, really," says Capt. James Despres, chief of San Antonio's vice squad. "It's the outlook people have. . .today there's by far a greater liberal attitude toward morality."

NOT MAIN PROBLEM

"Prostitution isn't one of our main problems any more," says Capt. Harvey Gann of Austin's vice squad. ". . .the moral situation has changed. There is more of a permissive attitude."

Vice squads in some of the major Texas cities are spending more time on drugs and less time on "victimless" crimes such as prostitution.

"It's just a matter of pressures," says Gann. "The vagrancy laws are so restrictive now. Without (prostitution) houses you don't get any complaints. You get more complaints on drugs. The squaking wheel gets the grease."

A three-judge federal court in Austin struck down 11 of 18 sections of the Texas vagrancy law last year on grounds of vagueness or because they punished people for what they are rather than what they do.

Two of the outlawed sections said it was a crime to "loiter and idle in any public place without visible means of support" or to "be a common prostitute."

Left in the vagrancy law were prohibitions against "enticing for purposes of prostitution; engaging in prostitution, lewdness or assignation; enticing males to visit any bawdy house; and residing in any place for purposes of prostitution, lewdness or assignation." Violations are punishable by fines up to $200.

Other laws make it a crime to keep a bawdy house or employ prostitutes. The first carries a fine up to $200 and a jail term up to 20 days for each offense, and the second is punishable by a fine of $100 to $500 and a 20-day jail sentence for each offense.

Most of the white prostitutes used to be in brothels, says Austin's Gann. Now they are call girls.

Most of the streetwalkers are black. This "lower class prostitution" mushroomed after the vagrancy decision, Gann says.

A confidential report prepared for Gov. Preston Smith says 764 prostitutes in Texas were identified from Department of Public Safety intelligence files during the period from January 1968 through July 1971.

Nobody claims there are only 764 prostitutes in Texas. It would be as impossible to discover the exact figure as it would be to determine the number of people who gamble.

The DPS report, which is expected to go to the governor soon, says 62 madams and 392 "pimps" were identified.

Despres, San Antonio's vice chief, says today's madams run call girl operations.

The madam telephones the prostitute and tells her where to go or when the customer will arrive at the call girl's place.

HIGH INCOME

The average weekly income for prostitutes is $1,400, according to DPS figures. That's $72,800 a year, or a total of $55.6 million for the 764 identified prostitutes.

Brothel prostitutes split 50-50 with the house, the report says. Prostitutes working with pimps also split 50-50. Call girls working alone must pay an average of $250 a week for rent, linen and medical examinations.

"Confidential information indicates that prostitutes working out of suspected La Cosa Nostra locations are forced to give the house 60 per cent of their earnings," the report says, adding, "In analyzing the intelligence date, a number of prostitution circuits in and out of Texas were uncovered. . .A prostitute averages 10-14 days at each circuit location."

The report lists 71 counties in which prostitution was reported at least once since January 1968:

Anderson, Angelina, Austin, Bee, Bell, Bexar, Blanco, Bowie, Brazoria, Brazos, Brown, Burleson, Burnet, Calhoun, Cameron, Childress, Dallas, Dawson, Deaf Smith, Dewitt, Eastland, Ector, El Paso, Fayette, Fisher, Galveston, Garza, Gray, Gravson, Guadalupe, Hale, Harris, Hidalgo, Howard, Hunt, Jefferson, Jim Wells, Johnson, Lamar, Lavaca, Llano, Lubbock, McCulloch, McLennan, Midland, Milam, Nacogdoches, Navarro, Nolan, Nueces, Orange, Palo Pinto, Pecos, Polk, Potter, Randall, Rusk, San Jacinto, Smith, Stephens, Tarrant, Taylor, Tom Green, Travis, Trinity, Upshur, Victoria, Walker, Waller, Washington and Williamson.

Four Walk Away From U.S. Pen

LEAVENWORTH, Kan. (AP) — Four inmates of the federal penitentiary walked away from an honor dormitory outside the walls Friday night.

Prison officials said they were James Testerman, 52, of Clinchburg, Va., serving 12 years for robbery; George D. Smith, 43 of Vallejo, Calif., 10 years for interstate transportation of stolen property; Jerry M. Edwards, 31, Chickasha, Okla., 10 years for bank robbery, and Leonard F. Hogue, 45, Dallas, 10 years for bank robbery.

Officials said the four apparently left together and were wearing blue prison uniforms.

Peace Failure Is Blamed By McGovern By Teller

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Edward Teller, inventor of the hydrogen bomb, said Friday that Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George McGovern is the only factor preventing the end of the Vietnam war.

Teller, addressing about 200 persons at the Berkeley Commons Club, said, "The war would be over except for one factor—George McGovern. If McGovern should be elected and acts as he says he will, the consequences will be disastrous."

"If we pull out of Vietnam," said Teller, "no country will ever want Americans as allies. No country will ever trust us."

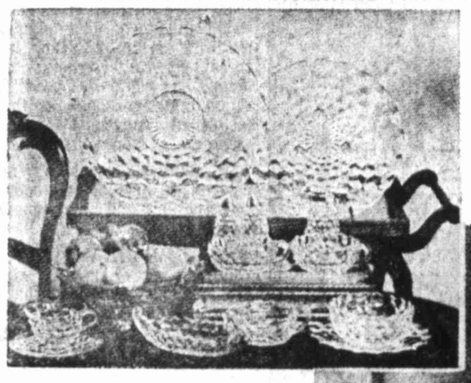

"The only way to end this war," he added, "is to transfer the responsibility for it to the Vietnamese."

"I think our chances of peace are excellent after the November election, when the President is reelected," Teller said.

Teller now is a physics professor at the University of California campus in Berkeley.

The Losers

Part II: The Major College Conferences

By DON COOPER
Herald Sports Editor

There are seven major college conferences embracing all of the sections of the United States. Much has been written about the teams which will claim the conference championships. This article is about those teams which won't win the conference crowns. They are the "losers" — the last-place clubs in each of the major conferences.

I believe the conference cellar-dwellers will be:

Atlanta Coast Conference—Wake Forest; Southeast Conference—Florida; Ivy League—Brown; Big Eight—Missouri; Big Ten—Northwestern; Pacific Eight — Oregon; Southwest Conference—Baylor. Among the leading independent losers will be University of Southern Mississippi, Villanova and Navy.

Of the schools listed above, I look for Navy to occupy that uncherished position of number-one on the "Bottom-10" list. Last season, the Midshipmen rang up a 3-8 record.

Two of the Navy wins were genuine upsets. The Middies edged Syracuse, 17-14, and two weeks later slipped past Duke, 15-14.

En route to their 3-8 season, the Middies lost to Penn State, 3-56; Boston College, 6-49; Michigan, 0-46; Notre Dame, 0-21; Pittsburgh, 35-36; Georgia Tech, 21-34; and Army, 23-24. The narrow losses to Pitt, Georgia Tech and Army were to teams which were considerably less than awesome.

All of the teams which defeated Navy last year are on the Navy schedule again this year. These teams are generally stronger.

Navy isn't.

New faces on the Navy schedule are Air Force and William & Mary. The Air Force should be able to handle Navy with little problem. However, William & Mary should rate as a toss-up.

All things considered, it should be a long season in Annapolis, Md.

The Big Spring Steers drew their shoes and began unorganized workouts Wednesday. The 1972 Steers begin organized two-a-day workouts tomorrow. The gridders will not don the pads for contact work until Friday. Head Coach Clovis Hale said Wednesday afternoon that 112 prospective gridders had drawn shoes.

Although teams always lose a few athletes before the start of the regular season, Hale is very optimistic. He is certain that more than 100 gridders will still be on the roster when the Sept. 9 date with Lubbock Monterey is kept.

Quarterback Club President Al Valdes reminds Steer fans that former Big Spring Head Coach Spike Dykes will be featured speaker at the club's annual barbecue Friday night. Tickets to the event are five dollars. The five dollars is not only good for the entire family's meal; but it also covers the membership fee in the Quarterback Club for 1972-73.

The Quarterback Club is also urging fans to purchase season tickets to the Steers' home football games. The five-game book of season ducats costs $10. Valdes said that the Quarterback Club urges everyone to purchase the season tickets because the 1972 season promises to "be one of the most exciting seasons in many years."

At the regular meetings of the Club this year, a new note has been added. The highlight films will be in color. Formerly, the films were black-and-white.

Aussie Bruce Devlin Takes Tourney Lead

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Australian Bruce Devlin birdied the final hole—after national television coverage had ended—and opened up a two-stroke lead Saturday after the third round of the $200,000 USI Golf Classic.

Devlin, who scored his seventh tour triumph in the Houston Open earlier this year, had a 54-hole total of 206, 10 under par on the 7,212-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

Only rookie John Mahaffey and Lee Elder, one of the pro tour's few blacks, were able to keep the skinny Australian in sight. They were tied for second at 208.

Mahaffey carded a 70 Saturday while Elder shot a 71 with a bogey on the 17th hole.

Two other would-be challengers encountered doubley-bogey disaster down the stretch. Tommy Aaron made a seven on the par five final hole for a 74 and 210. And Hale Irwin, who shared the 36-hole lead with Aaron, blew to a 41 on the back nine for a 76-212.

Devlin carded a 69 for the day.

Lee Trevino, the British Open champion and pre-tournament favorite here, shot himself out of it. Trevino took a scrambling 75 in the bright, warm sunshine and was a distant 12 strokes back at 218.

Jack Nicklaus, winner of five titles and some $240,000 already this season; Arnold palmer; and Gary Player are not competing in this rich event being sponsored by United States Industries for the first time.

The 34-year-old Devlin, who doesn't plan to compete in the United States again for three months, was tied with Elder at nine under par going to the last two holes but got a two-stroke bulge.

Elder, in fact, made a miracle bogey on the 17th.

"I was very, very lucky," said the 38-year-old Elder, who could become the first of his race ever to play in the Masters should he win here. "I could have made a six or seven real easy."

That bogey gave Devlin a one-stroke lead and the onetime plumber in Australia stretched it to two when he lofted a third shot to within eight feet of the flag on the final hole and made the birdie putt.

AARON LINES UP A PUTT — Tommy Aaron, veteran from Calloway Gardens, Ga., lines up a putt on the 16th green in Saturday's round of the USI golf classic at Pleasant Valley in Sutton. Aaron went into the third round tied with Hale Irwin of Boulder, Colo., for the lead in the $200,000 tournament. Bruce Devlin took the lead in third round play.

Brinkman, Kaline Spark Tiger Win

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit jumped on California pitcher Rudy May for six runs in the first inning, two on a homer by Al Kaline and two on Ed Brinkman's single, en route to a 10-1 pounding of the Angels Saturday in an American League baseball game.

Kaline also hit a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning as the Tigers collected 16 hits for their most productive hitting game this season.

Tom Timmerman, 8-10, gave up four hits in his six innings, including the Angels' run in the first on a double by Sandy Alomar and a single by Lou Cadena. Alomar left the game with an upset stomach but not before moving into seventh on the all-time AL list with 586 consecutive games played.

Singles by Aurelio Rodriguez and Timmerman produced the other runs in the Tiger first. Mickey Stanley hit a sacrifice fly for Detroit in the fourth, while Tony Taylor and pinch hitter Gates Brown each singled in a run in the fifth and sixth, respectively.

Cincy Rips NY Mets, 5-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Bench crashed a solo homer and Denis Menke and Dave Concepcion added run-producing singles in support of Jack Billingham's three-hit pitching, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-0 triumph over the New York Mets Saturday.

Bench's homer highlighted a two-run, three-hit Cincinnati second inning. Following Bench's blast, Concepcion scored Tony Perez, who had doubled and had advanced to third on Menke's sacrifice fly.

The victory hiked Billingham's record to 9-10 while rookie Brent Strom is now 0-1.

The Reds scored two more runs in the fourth when Menke's single brought home Bobby Tolan. Concepcion then hit a single to left that went between outfielder Dave Marshall's legs, allowing Menke to score.

Cincinnati's remaining run came on Tolan's sacrifice fly in the fifth inning that scored Pete Rose, who had singled and then moved to third on Joe Morgan's double.

HARPER DRILLS HR

Red Sox Clip Chisox, 3-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Luis Tiant, mixing fastballs, curves and changeups, pitched a powerhouse two-hitter and Tommy Harper drilled a home run as the Boston Red Sox beat the Chicago White Sox 3-0 Saturday.

The loss in the nationally-televised baseball game kept the runnerup White Sox one half-game behind the Oakland A's in the torrid American League West race. The A's earlier lost to the Cleveland Indians 5-4.

Tiant was untouchable through the first six innings. The chunky righthander retired the first seven batters before walking Rich Morales in the third inning. The only ball hit out of the infield was Pat Kelly's fly to center field in the fifth before Carlos May connected for a two-out double in the seventh.

After Tiant gave up his first hit, he struck out Ed Spiezio, one of nine strikeouts in the game. Tony Muser got the White Sox' other hit, a single in the ninth.

* * *

Tiant, 7-4, got all the runs he needed when Tommy Harper pounced on Tom Bradley's second pitch of the game for a homer. The Red Sox scored two more runs in the fourth as Rico Petrocelli scored on a wild pitch by Bradley, 13-10, and Tiant singled home a run.

Cardinals Rally To Drop Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ed Crosby's two-run double highlighted a three-run, eighth-inning rally that overcame a 3-2 San Francisco Giants lead and lifted the St. Louis Cardinals to a 7-4 National League baseball victory Saturday.

With one out in the eighth, Bernie Carbo and Joe Torre walloped back-to-back doubles for a 3-3 tie. Ted Simmons was walked intentionally and, with two away, Crosby belted his game-winning double to right.

Reliever John Cumberland, 1-5, a former Giant, picked up his first victory as a Cardinal and Frank Reberger, 3-2, suffered the loss.

The Giants had taken the lead on rookie Garry Maddox's third-inning single.

The Cards added two more runs in the ninth when Lou Brock and Ted Sizemore scored on Willie McCovey's throwing error after Simmons had grounded out.

The Giants took a 2-0 lead in the first off starter Al Santorini.

The Cardinals scored twice in the second on Torre's leadoff single and Simmons' 12th homer of the season.

Chris Speir hit his 13th homer of the season in the Giants' ninth.

Senior Golf Site Selected

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — This year's Texas Senior Golf Tournament will be held Oct. 2-6 at the Ridgewood Country Club of Waco, L. R. Baker of Harlingen, president of the Texas Golf Association, announced Saturday.

Bud McKinney of Dallas will be back to defend his title.

To be eligible, a golfer must have become 55 before Sept. 25 this year, be a member of the Texas Golf Association Club, and have a certified handicap.

All entrants with handicaps of 10 or less will be required to qualify Oct. 2 for the championship flight. The field is limited to 256 and the entry fee is $100.

Phils Dump Astros, 4-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rookie right-hander Wayne Twitchell, recording his first major league shutout and first complete game, scattered five hits as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the Houston Astros 4-0 in a National League baseball game Saturday night.

Twitchell, who had been the first draft choice of the Astros in 1966, posted his third triumph against four defeats. It was his first victory as a starter since he moved into the rotation following the All-Star break.

The Phillies capitalized on three Houston errors to tag loser Larry Dierker with his seventh loss. He had won 11.

Deron Johnson opened the fifth with an infield single, the first hit off Dierker, and moved up when Doug Rader booted Don Money's grounder. John Bateman grounded to shortstop Roger Metzger but all runners were safe when Tommy Helms dropped the throw at second.

Mustangs Going Back To Basics

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist is going back to the basics this fall and if you think that means three yards and a puff of astroturf then you've been watching too much television and need to read more sports pages.

Coach Hayden Fry has junked his "Flying Wishbone-T" and harkened back to the pro style attack which has given Southwest Conference football coaches fits for years.

The Mustangs have all the tools to be poison offensively — a passer, good runners, excellent receivers and a fine offensive line. What they lack is an experienced quarterback, and depth.

ORTEZ TOP QB

Red shirt Casey Ortez emerged as the No. 1 quarterback after spring training. His passing in the Blue-Red game in Texas Stadium was sensational.

"It was gratifying to see a sophomore stay in the pocket, check his primary and secondary receivers and then deliver a strike," said Fry.

Injuries slowed the progress of the Mustangs in the spring.

"We had injuries to three key people," said Fry. "Quarterback Keith Bobo injured his leg twice, a horse fell on fullback Rayford Clark and slowed him down, and middle linebacker Leonard Carey broke his thumb. You should hear a lot from these three in the fall."

All-Southwest Conference running back Alvin Maxson continued his sparkling gallops.

"I don't think Alvin had a bad scrimmage all spring," said Fry. "He gained more than 100 yards in every scrimmage we had. He's not only a great runner but he's a great blocker."

HOPE FOR BALANCE

Fry said the Mustangs hope to balance the run with the pass, adding "We'll definitely open up the attack like we did in 1968 and 1969."

Fry said "We set out to have a balanced offense this spring and the results of the spring game show we came pretty close to doing that. The No. 1 Blue team passed for 224 yards and rushed for 252. We will be playing wide open, exciting football this year."

Wayne Morris, the Dallas South Oak Cliff running back who was perhaps the most exciting running back in the country last year in the schoolboy ranks, could be a punt returner deluxe. With freshmen eligible, Morris' talents could propel him into a position to log considerable playing time.

"You can't tell about Wayne because he is more mature than most freshmen," said Fry. "But you certainly can't expect him to be a starter right away."

SOLID DEFENSE

The Mustangs, coming off a 4-7 and fifth place in the SWC, should have what Fry described as a "solid defense. The front line is young but very promising. The linebackers and defensive secondary all have experience. Robert Popelka is a great one at safety and Louis Kelcher at tackle and Leonard Carey at linebacker are two players to watch."

Popelka is something else. A second-teamer on The Associated Press All-American squad last year, Popelka tackles like a linebacker and covers receivers like a magnet.

He returned an interception 76 yards for a touchdown against Texas Tech.

"Our main question will be the inexperience of our offense," says Fry. "We have many young players in key positions who have yet to face varsity competition. The depth in the offensive line and quarterback are two areas of concern."

POTENTIAL GAME-BREAKER

The Mustangs uncovered a potential game-breaker in sophomore split end Rufus Shaw, who has 9.5 speed and can put a touchdown on the board quickly.

Club Holds Supper For '72 Bulldogs

COAHOMA — Coaches and football players received recognition when the Coahoma Quarterback Club held its first meeting of the season, an ice cream supper, Friday evening in the elementary school cafeteria.

Norman Roberts, athletic director, introduced the senior high school coaches, Jody Sory, Mike Melton and Jan East, (the latter two being new to the school), as well as the new junior high school coaches, Roger Hudgins, Wayne Nail and Lynn Stewart.

The club presented plaques of appreciation to Roberts, Sory, East and Melton who coached the senior high school summer baseball team. Members of the varsity football team were recognized, as were the cheerleaders and their assistants.

Heading the quarterback club this year are Jackie Rinard, president; the Rev. Ray Elmore, vice president; Mrs. Jerry Gee, treasurer; and Mrs. Leon Kerby, secretary. The remaining members of the executive committee are Mrs. Noel Harvell, Mrs. Bill Bennett and Roland Beal.

The Coahoma Bulldogs will have a scrimmage Friday at Haskell, and their first game will be Sept. 8 in the Coahoma Bulldog Stadium against Sonora.

The next quarterback club meeting will be Sept. 5 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Aggies Draw Praise For Fall Drills

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Coach Emory Bellard's two chief aides, offensive coordinator Dan Hurt and defensive coordinator Melvin Robertson, praised the Aggies Saturday as they closed out three days of football conditioning drills.

"Every practice has been good to excellent," Hurt said. "The offensive line has not been busting any assignments and the backs are more knowledgeable in their running."

Hurt singled out four second team offensive linemen for praise. "Center Robert Gerasimowicz, left tackle Ricky Seeker, right guard Clifton Thomas and tight end Doug Jordan all are pushing the guys ahead of them," Hurt said.

Robertson was equally happy about the performance of the defensive unit: "This fall, we've given them a lot of new variations and stunts and they picked it up very quickly. The secondary of Robert Murski, Corky Sheffield, Dwight LeBauve and Larry Ellis has really improved. Those four will play a lot better than most people think."

Avery Fires Blast At Winter Olympics

MUNICH (AP) — Avery Brundage, stepping down as president of the International Olympic Committee after 20 years, Saturday called the Winter Olympic Games scandal-ridden, parochial and sick and urged their elimination after the Denver Games in 1976.

"May they receive a decent burial at Denver," the 84-year-old Chicago millionaire said in a speech prepared for delivery before the IOC.

Despite overtures from fellow commitee members to continue in office, Brundage insisted that he would not stand for reelection at the IOC general meetings which began Monday.

In his valedictory, Brundage lashed out at growing commercialism in the Games, the danger of professionalism and the need to take a new look at team sports, but his heaviest artillery was aimed at the Winter Games.

"Hardly one-fourth of the 130 National Olympic committees are actively interested in winter sports and events have been monopolized by competitors from a handful of countries," Brundage said.

"Conservationists and ecologists protest the invasion of the wilderness.

Brundage said the games "have aroused great public interest in healthful, invigorating winter sports and recreation, but they will always be parochial."

Brundage suggested that the Winter Games, started in 1924 at Chamonix, be replaced by Nordic Games in the Scandinavian countries.

Brundage is expected to be succeeded by either Count Jean de Beaumont of France or Lord Killanian of Ireland.

In his speech, Brundage urged a stronger tie with the original Olympic ideals of France's Pierre de Coubertin, who originated the Modern Games.

"It is inevitable that the idealism of the Olympic movement and the materialism of the 20th century, when everything seems measured in dollars, will clash from time to time," he said.

"But there is no reason to yield. The Olympic Games must be preserved as a friendly oasis where correct human relations and concepts of moral order still prevail."

He criticized the intrusion of politics and governments into the games, said team sports encouraged professionalism and defiance of eligibility rules had undermined the structure of the games.

Flying Drifter Gets Top Weight Today

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. — Flying Drifter, assigned the top load of 124 pounds, leads a full 10-horse field to the post in Sunday's renewal of the $12,500-added Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby at Ruidoso Downs.

The gross purse of the mile-and-sixteenth classic will top out at $17,250 with the winner earning $10,350. Twelve races are on Sunday's agenda, starting at 1:30 p.m.

Flying Drifter, owned by the C and O Syndicate of O'dell, Tex., goes into Sunday's showdown with hefty career earnings of nearly $60,000. Jack Wallace will be back in the driver's seat.

Last year, Flying Drifter emerged as one of the top juveniles in the Southwest. His victories included the $33,950 Fall Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland Park. The ease of his win in that one helped cinch Sunland's "Horse of The Meet" honor.

So far this year, Flying Drifter campaigned at major tracks and earned nearly $31,000 with a 3-1-5 record out of 18 starts. Last week, the powerful colt opened his Ruidoso assault as an 8-5 favorite in a six-furlong field, but ran into tight stretch traffic and ended up fifth.

He figures to be far tougher in the Derby and is expected to get away as the betting choice.

Here's the way the rest of the field shapes up, in order of weight assignments: Mr. Tattoo, 123; Diablo Pintado, 120; Miss Double Time, 118; O. K. Corral, 117; By The Code, 116; Nicely Nicely, 114; Tarjeta, 113; Hi Future, 113; She Gonna Make It, 113.

Mr. Tattoo, owned by Charles Michelena of Nogales, Ariz., earned the second-high load with a surging stretch run and a nose victory in a headliner last week. That was the six-furlong sprint in which Flying Drifter made his uneventful seasonal debut.

KOs TOM BOGS

Monzon Retains Title

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Power-punching Carlos Monzon of Argentina, unbeaten in eight years, retained his world middleweight championship Saturday night, knocking out Tom Bogs of Denmark with a smashing right in the fifth round of their scheduled 15-round fight.

The end came after Monzon had floored Bogs for the third time in the fifth round. After each of the first two knockdowns, Bogs got up and took the count standing up.

But after he went down for the third time, English referee Harry Gibbs stopped the fight and ruled a knockout.

The victory was Monzon's 78th—and 55th knockout—in his 91-fight career. He has lost only three—the last a 10-round decision to Alberto Massi—on Oct. 9, 1964—boxed nine draws and had one no-decision.

It was the fifth successful defense of the 160-pound title for Monzon since he won the championship on a 12th-round knockout over Italy's Nino Benvenuti on Nov. 7, 1970. He has stopped every opponent in his title defenses and now has a string of 11 consecutive knockouts.

The 30-year-old Monzon, who was guaranteed $125,000 for the fight in Copenhagen's 15,000-seat Idraetspark Stadium, weighed 159 pounds.

Bogs, seeking to become Denmark's first world boxing champion, weighed 159½ pounds.

Bogs, former European middleweight and light heavyweight champion, suffered his fifth loss in 69 pro fights.

Before the fight, he said he did not think he could knock out the muscular Monzon. But he added: "I don't think he can knock me out, either."

The first four rounds were uneventful. Monzon used the first three to get his bearings, then, after Bogs opened a cut at his left eye in the fourth round, he went to work.

Early in the fifth round, he landed six hard rights to the challenger's head.

Monzon went to a two-fisted attack and pounded Bogs unmercifully. First, he knocked him down with a pulverizing right hook. Bots took the mandatory eight-count standing up.

Bogs tried to hang on, but Monzon pushed him away and sent him reeling to the canvas again. Bogs got up, but again he was staggering.

The third time he was floored, the referee halted the one-sided bout without the formality of counting.

It was the first time Bogs was knocked out.

Among the crowd of 14,000 were Benvenuti and Jean-Claude Bouttier, the European middleweight champion who was knocked out by Monzon earlier this year.

Rough Debut For Texas Rook

ARLINGTON — Modest young Vic Harris went to bat 36 times without a hit in his major league debut with the Texas Rangers. That was enough to break the spirit of the 22-year-old infielder but from outward appearances the youthful switchhitter took the hit-drought in stride.

Teammates like Ted Ford, who went 34 times before getting his first hit in the big leagues, consoled the youngster, encouraging him to keep swinging.

Then on his 37th appearance, Harris singled against the Chicago White Sox.

"That certainly got rid of a lot of pressure," admitted Harris. "Everyone on the team had been advising me, encouraging me, trying to keep my spirits up. But I wasn't pressing and I wasn't worrying. I knew they would start falling."

Harris' minor league record indicated the youngster had a good eye. In his minor league years he had hit .326 at Coos Bay-North Bend, (Northwest League); .291 at Burlington in the Midwest League and .293 at Iowa in the American Association for 64 games this season.

Harris' defensive play has been a sparkling contribution to the Rangers' late season performance. Harris was inserted second base upon his arrival from the Oakland farm club and Lenny Randle dispatched to Denver because of his weak bat and lackadasical infield play.

"I've always been a fairly good fielder, not great, mind you, but with my speed and range I manage to get a lot of balls that otherwise would go through for base hits," said Harris.

Rangers manager Ted Williams rates the youngster "one of our best infield prospects. He's probably a year away from being a bonafide big league second beseman but there is no question he'll make it some day. He has a great attitude and spirit, and a nice smooth swing," said Williams.

Harris came to the Rangers along with veteran Marty Martinez and lefty Steve Lawson in a swap that sent veterans Don Mincher and Ted Kubiak to the A's.

BIG WINNER — Bobby Bruezedow Jr., 11 years old from Abilene, Tex., who is blind, won a statewide contest for Texas Ranger tickets. Bobby, who plays center for his elementary school footbtall team, is given a few baseball hints by baseball great and now Texas manager, Ted Williams. Bobby listened to his transistor radio as the Texas Rangers went on to win over the New York Yankees 11-2.

Dallas Cowboys Football: For The Rich Only?

NEW YORK — A good season seat to see the Dallas Cowboys will cost more than $1,000 discloses J. Anthony Lukas in September Esquire, published today. In "Wanta Buy Two Seats for the Dallas Cowboys?" former New York Times' reporter Lukas reveals how the decision to require most ticket purchasers to buy stadium bonds prices most middle income fans out of the ball park.

In addition to his season ticket and parking, the Dallas fan who wants to sit in one of the almost 9,000 seats between the 30-yard lines will have to pay $1,000 for Texas Stadium bonds. Seats beyond the 30s go for a $250 bond (and a $63 season ticket).

Half of the stadium's remaining seats — largely in the end zone — require the purchase of $250 in bonds. Only the seats deep in the end zones will be available on a game-by-game basis.

For the super-rich remain the Stadium suites, which illustrate what Lukas calls Dallas' "corporate psyche." The suites — "bare concrete boxes" — sell for $50,000 in Stadium bonds. Each suite owner is also required to purchase $1,296 of tickets for at least 32 of the next 25 years and $300 worth of membership in the Stadium Club.

According to Esquire, as of June 1 all the seats between the 30-yard lines and 23,000 seats beyond the 30s had been sold. All but 37 of the 158 suites had also been purchased.

The high price of seats has led fans to label the new stadium "Millionaires Meadow," reports the article. In support of indignant fans, a Dallas paper recently ran an editorial urging reconsideration of the financing plan "on behalf of the tens of thousands of fans who dearly loved their Cowboys, and now possibly can't afford them."

MORE DEPTH

Bengals Seek To Improve

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals, boasting the most depth in their five-year history and a defense up-graded by the draft, should better their 1971 performance.

"We shouldn't have to sneak up on teams to beat them this year," Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown says of his team, which slumped to a 4-10 mark last season. "We think we are going to be very competitive."

The Bengals, who won the American Football Conference Central Division title in 1970, dropped six games last year by four points or less and the defense took much of the blame.

But in the draft, they picked three players who stand a strong chance of starting. They are defensive end Sherman White, safety Tommy Casanova, and linebacker Jim LeClair. Fourth-round draft selection Bernard Jackson, a cornerback, should also see plenty of action.

Regarding over-all depth on both offense and defense, veteran linebacker Al Beauchamp, who is battling to retain his starting spot, said, "We're solid. We can play different people and have the same effort."

The Bengals have back five runners they used pretty much interchangeably last season — Essex Johnson, Fred Willis, Jess Phillips, Paul Robinson and Doug Dressler.

At quarterback, second-year man Ken Anderson of Augustana College in Illinois is giving veteran Virgil Carter a strong challenge for the starting role.

"He is no longer the raw kid you saw last year," Brown said about Anderson, who recently helped lead the Bengals over the powerful Detroit Lions in an exhibition game. "The one who moves us the most effectively is going to carry the brunt of the load."

Anderson took over as a starter last year after Carter was injured. Then Anderson got hurt and the Bengals even used Dave Lewis, the NFL's leading punter the last two years although he played quarterback at Stanford a few years ago.

"We are at the mercy of the quarterback as just about every team is," Brown said. "Whether the quarterbacks stay healthy and whether any other key players are hurt will have a considerable bearing on how we do."

The Bengals' weakness seems to be in the pass receiving department. They had trouble last year with running backs dropping passes, and this year, none of the receivers has seemed to warm up.

"None of our receivers to date has caught the ball like we had hoped," Brown said.

In the offensive line, the Bengals have Pat Matson and Rufus Mayes who both enjoyed good years in 1971. The line complement also includes second-year men Vernon Holland and Steve Lawson.

Brown said he figures that the Pittsburgh Steelers will probably provide the stiffest battle for the division crown.

"I think Pittsburgh is coming in awfully strong," Brown said. "They've had bad years for years, but the drafts are beginning to show up."

Buck Asks News Ban

MUNICH (AP) — Only 12 hours after denying that he was trying to enforce any censorship rules for American Olympians, Clifford H. Buck, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, today asked that newsmen be barred from the Olympic Village.

Buck sent a letter to the mayor of the Olympic Village, Walther Troger, complaining that "representatives of news media, some accredited and some unaccredited, are gaining access to our team area in the village and are molesting and harassing our athletes and team officials to an extent that seriously disturbs our team members and interferes with and impairs their rest and training and desired mental state."

The letter was read at the daily news conference of the Munich Organizing Committee. A German newsman said he doubted that any athletes had been disturbed and suggested "something else must be behind the letter which shows an un-American attitude." The newsman said perhaps Buck didn't have enough control over the American team.

When Buck stepped off the plane Friday night he was questioned by reporters about a statement made in Washington by Mrs. Olga Connolly, a Czech-born U.S. discus thrower.

She had complained in Washington: "I am forbidden to talk with a member of the press without permission from a coach or manager. This is just one of the flagrant violations of my constitutional rights of freedom of speech and movement."

Buck answered: "There is no ironclad rule—we aren't muzzling anybody."

Injuries To Force Carlen To Make Rapid Decisions

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Spring training is usually the time Southwest Conference football coaches make their decisions for the coming fall campaign.

For example, it helps a lot if you know who your starting quarterback is going to be. Nothing unsettles a team any more than not having an established leader.

But injuries sometimes throw that strategy on the back burner.

Such was the case at Texas Tech in the spring and Coach Jim Carlen is going to have to make some rapid-fire decisions in fall training about his quarterbacks.

Joe Barnes, Jimmy Carmichael and Jerry Reynolds are the candidates.

Barnes and Carmichael were two of the most highly sought schoolboy athletes in Texas three years ago. Both played quarterback last year in their sophomore seasons and like first year men under the gun everywhere their performances were erratic.

Barnes pulled ahead in early spring drills but was felled by a shoulder injury. And Reynolds, a redshirt, displayed a tremendous gift for the balanced offense — run and throw.

"We should be adequate if the quarterbacks can become consistent," says Carlen.

Carlen hopes to have his No. 1 signal caller established by the season opener Sept. 16 against Utah in Lubbock. The Red Raiders play New Mexico the next week then get two SWC toughies — Texas on Sept. 30 and Texas A&M on Oct. 14.

"A definite lack of experienced players in key positions will be the major problem confronting us this fall," says Carlen. "I am hoping our young players can mature early."

The Red Raiders have the ground troops to be troublesome if they can get their passin' hoppin'.

Doug McCutchen, Miles Langehennig and James Mosley can be tough with newcomer Cliff Hoskins giving Tech the outside speed it needs in the option and I formations.

The Tech offensive line anchored by All-SWC center Russell Ingram should standup to the test of a long session while the Red Raider receivers could become among the best.

Split end Andre Tillman was called by Carlen as "probably the most improved player in spring training."

Ronnie Samford will make the clutch catch at tight end.

Middle guard Donald Rives heads a green Red Raider defense. Rives' picture adorns the Tech football press brochure as a true All-American candidate. His credentials include such feats as 194 tackles last year.

The best defensive lineman for Tech is Gaines Baty, a 6-foot, 195-pound senior end. Junior Andy Lowe is also a solid performer at the other terminal.

Carlen is well pleased with veteran tackles Tim Schaffner and Davis Corley.

Holding down the linebacking spots at the end of spring training were veterans Quintin Robinson and Tom Ryan. George Herro and Randy Lancaster provide the backup.

Carlen hopes his defense will jell before the conference play for keeps starts. If the secondary comes around and the quarterbacking is consistent, the Red Raiders could prove to be a tough obstacle to hurdle.

SHORT-DISTANCES POWERFUL; BUT NAMES DIFFERENT

U.S. Olympic Hopes Analyzed

By DAN BERGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MUNICH (AP) — American's shorter-distance runners, for years dominant in Olympic Games competition, again appear powerful but the names are not at all the same as in the past.

When the sprinters go to their marks, the U.S. names will include Eddie Hart, Larry Black, Chuck Smith, Rey Robinson and Larry Burton. Even in the 400-meter dash, normally a U.S.-dominated event, the names are not household words.

Still, America figures to do well, despite the youth of the team. In the three shortest races, the oldest runner is 25 and the average age is 21.8 years.

Hart, the oft-injured former University of California NCAA champ, took 1972 cautiously and wound up making the U.S. team with a world-record-tying 9.9 in the 100 meters. He was joined on the team and in the record books by the 20-year-old Robinson, a virtual unknown until mid-June.

The third sprinter, husky Robert Taylor, came along quickly at the end of the season, making the team over such better-known dashmen as Mel Pender, Ivory Crockett, Marshall Dill, Willie Deckard, Willie McGee and Gerald Tinker.

For the first time in years, the United States is in jeopardy in the 100 since Russia's Valeriy Borzov, a powerful, picture book sprinter from the Ukraine, is unbeaten in the last two years.

BIGGEST QUESTION MARK

However, the 200 meters is the biggest question mark.

Smith is in his fourth year of sprinting, Burton his first and Black his fourth. Smith was the surprise winner of the National AAU title and was first in the U.S. trials in 20.4. Burton, with a 20.3 time to his credit for 220 yards, shocked the experts by making the team.

And Black ran two 20.0 times this year, showing a powerful kick.

Jamaica's world record-holding Don Quarrie, Kenya's Julius Sang and Borzov may be favored, but the Americans proved unpredictable once this year.

Americans have won 11 of the 16 Olympic 400-meter gold medals awarded down through the years and the only question this year is which American will win.

John Smith, the world 440-yard record holder, was No. 2 in the trials with a fast time of 44.3 seconds.

The man he didn't catch at Eugene, Ore., was former UCLA teammate Wayne Collett. Collett came through with a swift 44.1 to win the trials and jump into the No. 3 spot on the all-time list. The time is the fastest ever run at sea level.

Vince Matthews, the old man of the U.S. sprint corps at 25, is the only one with Olympic experience. He ran the first leg on America's world-record 1,600-meter relay team in 1968 at Mexico City.

Matthews, of Brooklyn, N.Y., once ran 44.4 in the event. He made the team with a 44.9.

NEW RECORD-HOLDER

The 800 features new coworld record holder Dave Wottle against probably the world's toughest half miler, Russian star Yevgeniy Arzhanov.

Wottle, the Bowling Green ace who ran 1:43.3 to equal the world 800-meter mark, will have to beat Arzhanov, unbeaten the last two years.

Ken Swenson, the former American record holder, has apparently recovered from an Achillies tendon injury, and could be a factor.

The 110-meter high hurdle picture clouded up quickly in the last month.

Virtually unbeatable Rod Milburn began losing and he made the U.S. team only by taking third by an eyelash in the U.S. Trials. Tom Hill, who ran 13.5 at the trials, appears to have regained the form which took him to the 1970 AAU title, and Willie Davenport, the defending kingpin, is back.

SOMETHING TO PROVE

Ralph Mann has something to prove and that's why he's the first choice of most in the 400-meter intermediate hurdles.

Mann was the NCAA and AAU champion in 1969, 1970 and 1971 as a student at Brigham Young but had a poor season in 1972 after graduating. He finally found himself, with the aid of UCLA Coach Jim Busch, and the tall 6-4 hurdler hopes his 48.4 time is just a forecast of what he's capable of.

Dave Hemery of England set the world record at 48.1 in Mexico City four years ago and Mann's time is the second best on record. Hemery is back, and Uganda's John Akii-Bua as well as Kenya's William Koskei are top threats.

The U.S. teams in the 400 and 1,600-meter relays are both among the favorites with the 400 team less solid.

Cuba, Russia and Jamaica have swift quarter-mile foursomes and it'll probably take a world mark — better than the 38.2 the U.S. team did last Olympics — to win.

Smith, Collett, Matthews and Lee Evans make the U.S. 1,600-meter relay team a near unanimous choise to win that gold medal. The world mark of 2:56.1 may not be in jeopardy but there isn't a nation in the world with four better 400-meter dashers.

RYUN'S THIRD TRY

Jim Ryun's third crack at a gold medal may be overshadowed this year by a race most consider potentially the greatest at the 20th Olympiad—the 5,000-meter run.

America has two fine entrants in Steve Prefontaine and George Young, the latter competing in his fourth Olympics, a record for an American distance runner. But the two, along with Leonard Hilton, face as many as 10 others who could break the Olympic record of 13 minutes 39.6 seconds.

In fact, the predictions are that it'll take at least 13:40 just to make the finals.

Meanwhile, Ryun appears a solid choice in the 1,500-meter run, the metric mile. In 1964, the teen-aged Ryun failed to make the finals. In 1968, at high-atlitude Mexico City, he lost the gold to Kip Keino of Kenya and finished second.

Keino is back this year, reportedly planning to triple in the 1,500, the 5,000 and the steeplechase.

Ryun, 25, has not approached his world record 3:33.1 in years and even in winning the U.S. trials at Eugene, Ore., did only 3:41.5. But his form was good, his feet flashed as of old and experts said Ryun had returned.

His top competition could come from Francesco Arese of Italy or a host of Englishmen. Bob Wheeler and Jerome Howe round out the American contingent with both having recorded sub-3:40 times this year.

RACE OF GAMES

The 5,000, however, is the race of the Games.

Prefontaine set the American record of 13:22.8 in winning the trials at Eugene with Young second in 13:29.4. Both times pale in light of Dave Bedford's 13:17.2, second best ever recorded and only six tenths off the world mark set by Ron Clarke in 1966.

Bedford, the brittle-tough Englishman, had not planned to run the 5,000 this year until he blazed the fast time at London.

Finland's one-two punch of Lasse Viren and Juha Vaatainen, with life bests of 13:18 and 13:32.6, England's Ian McCafferty and Ian Stewart and Russia's Rashid Sharafyetdinov, as well as five East European runners make the race even tougher to predict.

One man who could win it all, however, is Ehtiopia's Mirus Ifter, a virtual unknown last year who showed explosive power in the Pan-Africa Games at Durham, N.C.

The 10,000 is also talent-laden, with Bedford heading the list. His 27:52.8 earlier this year is the fourth best time in history, the same time in which Vaatainen won the European title in 1971.

Finland's Viren blazed 27:52.4 for No. 3 on the all-time list earlier this year and should be the favorite but the tactics of the race may be too much.

America's Frank Shorter has a shot if the former Yale and Florida Track Club star sets a hot pace and stays in front. Shorter doesn't have the late speed of the Europeans. In fact, Shorter's lifetime best of 28:12 was set earlier this year at the AAU championships as he ran second to late-kicking Greg Fredericks of Penn State.

Mike Manley is the top U.S. entrant in the 3,000-meter steeplechase and he has the best chance of winning the event of any American since Horace Ashenfelter did 20 years ago.

TRUE VETERAN

The 30-year-old Oregon school teacher is a true veteran of the event with a lifetime best of 8:27.6, second best ever by an American.

Unfortunately, more than a dozen men have run faster than that this year already, including world record holder Kerry O'Brien of Australia, whose mark of 8:22.0 could fall.

Bronislaw Malinowski of Poland has already done 8:22.2 this year with Anders Garderud of Sweden and Kazmierz Maranda of Poland recording fast times of 8:23.6 Bulgaria's Mikhail Zhelev has run 8:25.4.

Keino's 8:30.0 in his first attempt at the steeplechase shows he could surprise this good field.

The classic marathon, all 26 miles of it, is probably the least predictable race because of the hundreds of entrants, the lack of standardization in courses around the world and the few competitions held prior to the games.

Still, Shorter and Ken Moore, America's top two entrants, are real veterans of long, long distance running and could give the favorites—Ron Hill of England, Lutz Phillip of West Germany, Dave McKenzie of New Zealand and Derek Clayton of Australia—a run for the gold.

Four years ago at Mexico City, the 7,439-feet altitude hurt most distance runners except the high-altitude-trained Africans. In fact, four years ago a Kenyan won the 1,500, a Tunisian followed by two Kenyans finished 1-2-3 in the 5,000, a Kenyan, an Ethiopian and a Tunisian ran 1-2-3 in the 10,000, two Kenyans ran 1-2 in the steeplechase and an Ethiopian won the marathon.

Similar happenings are not likely this time around.

MIXTURE

Bob Seagren, who won't be able to use the pole with which he vaulted to a world record, and shot putter Brian Oldfield, who smokes to relieve tension, underscore a mixture of youth and experience for the United States in the Olympic field events.

Seagren's Cata-Pole, with which he set a world record of 18 feet, 5¾ inches a month ago, has been banned from the summer Games because it wasn't available to the rest of the world long enough. Olympic officials say Seagren would have an unfair advantage.

Even so, using the older poles made by the some firm, the former University of Southern California star had shared the world mark at 18-4¼ with Kjell Isaksson of Sweden. These two, along with Americans Steve Smith and Jan Johnson, Italy's Renato Dionisi and East Germany's Wolfgang Nordwing, figure to battle for the gold.

TENSION-RELIEVER

Oldfield, who says he smokes to relieve tension on the field, warms up by heaving the 16-pound iron ball over his head with both hands. He also admits he drinks when the day is done.

The other two U.S. shot putters are George Woods and Al Feuerbach. World record holder Randy Matson failed to make the team.

Art Walker, the first of America's great international triple jumpers, joins teammates Dave Smith and John Craft to give this country its first top threesome ever at an Olympics. Smith's American mark of 56-0 and Craft's wind-aided 56-2 make them top threats for the gold.

But Walker, 31, is still around and many feels his international experience puts him a mental step ahead of the other two. His best is 55-1.

The world long jump record of 29 feet 2¼ inches may not be approached in quite some time, but the three Americans here have shown they are ready to take on the world's best.

Arnie Robinson has done 26-8¾, young Randy Williams 27-4¾ with an aiding wind and newcomer Preston Carrington 26-1. Carrington, the Wichita State kid who surprised the experts by beating out favored Henry Hines for the team, went a half foot farther than he's ever done in making the team.

The other field events are rather predictable. At least one man can be said to be favored.

Janis Lusis, 33-year-old Russian, has dominated the World's Javelin throwers for nearly a decade. He's still around and recently became the new world record holder at 307-9. He is the obvious choice to win a second straight Olympic gold medal.

CHALLENGERS

Hungary's Miklos Nemeth and West Germany's Klaus Wolfermann, as well as Finland's 1-2 punch of Jorma Kinunen and Hanny Sitonen, could challenge.

America's trio of Bill Schmidt, Milt Sonsky and Fred Luke have made rapid progress in the event but don't appear strong enough for a medal.

Jay Silvester, America's world record holder in the discus, had his global standard of 224-5 equalled this year by Ricky Bruch, the massive Swede who might be the favorite to win the gold medal in the event this year.

Bruch has beaten Silvester in a series of pre-Olympic tuneup meets to gain the mental advantage.

America's Tim Vollmer may be ready to catch the two napping and old-time Ludvik Danek of Czechoslovakia, the former world record holder, has shown good form, too.

Anatoliy Bondarchuk of Russia is the dominant force in the hammer throw this year with his mark of 248-6½, about two feet off the world record held by West Germany's Walter Schmidt. The psychological and hometown advantage go to Schmidt.

Tom Gage, Al Schoterman and George Frenn compete for the United States. Frenn and Schoterman have surpassed 231 feet but no farther.

YOUNGEST COMPETITOR

Young Dwight Stones, the youngest men's Olympic track competitor, says he can win the high jump. He's in the best shape of his life and the flopper from UCLA has improved his lifetime best five times this year to 7-3.

His teammates, Ron Jourdan and Chris Dunn, have also achieved 7-3 but may find that mark not enough at Munich. Russia's Juri Tarmak, 7-4¾, and Russia's Kestutis Sapka, 7-4¼, are favored with Stefan Junge, 7-3¾, of East Germany making the competition formidable. It might take 7-1 just to qualify for the finals.

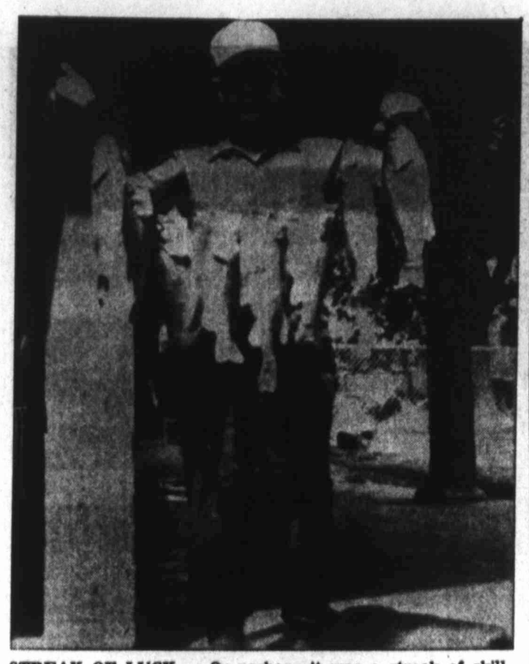

Jeff Bannister and Jeff Bennett, the tall and the short of the U.S. hopes in the decathlon, face Russia's Nikolay Avilov and Joachim Kirst of East Germany as well as a half dozen other men in the two-day test.

Bannister, 6-3, and Bennett, 5-8, have surpassed 8,000 points this year and both run the final event—the 1,500-meter run—very well, meaning that if they are close with one event left, anything can happen.

AMERICA'S WOMEN

America's women track stars have in the past been considered also-rans by international standards.

With the posible exception of the sprints, American women have lagged the rest of the world in track and field. In 1968 at Mexico City, the only medals won by American women came in the 100, 200, 800, 400-meter relay and 1,600-meter relay.

STREAK OF LUCK — Or perhaps it was a streak of skill. At any rate, Buck Kirksey reported catching 21 black bass at Moss Creek Lake during the past 12 days. Here is one day's catch.

Cat, Black Bass Biting

Channel cat and black bass have been biting up a storm at Moss Creek Lake during the past fortnight, according to reports from fishermen.

Buck Kirksey, city sanitarian, had a string of 21 black bass which accumulated in 21days of fishing. These weighed in at 49 pounds. With a straight face, Buck claims he was using a "snowbird" lure.

Jerry Lamb and Jayland White, Big Spring, came in with black bass weighing 5½, 3¾, 2½ and 2 pounds. They also landed some hefty channel cat — 8½, 6, 4 and 3½ pounds.

R. B. Adams, Midland, reported a pair of black bass, 4½ and 3 pounds. John Hamilton, Big Spring, came in with a 3½ pound and a 2-pound black bass. John Grimsley, Big Spring, strung six black bass averaging two pounds.

An interesting catch was that of T. J. Williams, Midland, who came in with a 3-lb. 6-oz. crappie. As big as this was it did not equal a recent four-pounder, nor the 4½-pound specimen hooked in February. This would have been a state record, but the fish had been skinned out before being brought in for weighing.

For sheer volume, however, channel cat provided the big news at Moss Creek Lake.

Thomas Touren, Odessa, had a string of 7, 4½, 4, 3½, 5, and 1½-pounders, caught on bloodbait. His partner, J. C. Jennings, Odessa, hooked a string with 2, 4½, 2, 3, 2½, 4, and 1-pounders. Mike Terelesky, Big Spring, reported a 4½ and a 3½-pound channel cat. Jim Hale, Big Spring, had 6, 4, 3½ and 2 pounders. Benny Cantrell, Big Spring, reported 4½, 4, 3 and 2½-pounders, and J. L. Tennyson, Odessa, 4½, 3 and 2½-pound channel cats.

ASU Preps For Houston Cougars

PAYSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona State University football team will start the 1972 season against Houston a little shallow on defense, but deep "in the striking positions," head coach Frank Kush said Friday.

Kush made the comment as he, athletic director Fred Miller and university vice president Al Metcalf unvieled Sun Devil Lodge at Camp Tontozona, where ASU holds pre-season practice. The $15,000 doublewide mobile home was donated by Southwest Forest Industries.

GLASS EATING PATRIOT—Jeff Kolberg, rookie with the New England Patriots football team, munches on a drinking glass at the team's training camp in Amherst. Kolberg from Portland, Oregon, has been a glass eater for many years he says, learning the 'art' from his brother, a rugby player. He likes thin glasses best, particularly those with flared lips. He takes small bites, grinds the glass slowly with his teeth until it is pulverized, and swallows it. His only complaint—the glass on the east coast is harder than that in Oregon.

Patriots' Rookie Is A Glasseater

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Table etiquette usuall isn't thought of as a strong point with football players but Jeff Kolberg even eats the glassware.

Kolberg, a rookie with the New England Patriots of the National Football League, is getting attention off the field as a hard man.

After downing the usual steak, salad and dessert, the 200-pound defensive back from Oregon State likes to finish off his meal by biting into his drinking glass, munching it for awhile, and gulping it down.

A glass-eater for many years, Kolberg said he learned the art from his older brother, a rugby player. Since then, Kolberg, 23, from Portland, Ore., has developed his own technique for consuming glass without cutting his mouth.

He likes thin glasses, particularly those with flared lips. He takes small bite , grinds the glass slowly between his teeth until it is pulverized, and swallows it. The whole process takes about 40 minutes.

"The glass out west for some reason is thinner and easier to bite off and grind down," Kolberg said during a recent glass-seating session for the benefit of newsmen. "Here, the glass doesn't break as easily when you bite it and there's more of a chance of cutting yourself. It's harder to grind and doesn't taste so well."

Taste?

"Sure some glass tastes better than others. I've eaten brown glass and clear glass and I prefer the thin, clear glass they use for beer and water out west," he said.

Kolberg, a free agent picked up by the Patriots, said his unusuall hobby has not hurt him physically.

White Bass Fishing Has Good Report

White bass fishing picked up in popularity at Lake E. V. Spence last week just before the arrival of nearly four feet of new inflow.

Mike Ross, lake superintendent, was anticipating a good flow of traffic to the lake this weekend. It now is within less than a foot of its previous peak elevation.

R. G. Phillips, Edith, spent two days at the lake and came in with 48 white bass up to two pounds, and Teresa Phillips had 30 that she caught. Paul Phillips strung 15 white bass.

Channel cat catches have been consistently good, and last week was no exception. Ira Beatty, Odessa, caught 10 channel cat ranging up to four pounds. Dale Conner, Midland, had 10, the largest 3½ pounds. Larry Haney, Midland, had one 2-pound channel cat and a six pounder, also a couple of white bass. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Purser, Big Spring boated 20 white bass and a 3½-pound black bass.

Randy Flanagan, Robert Lee, reported a catch of 25 channel cat up to five pounds. B. J. Tammen, Odessa, had 10 channel cat, the largest three pounds, and Dwain Beatty, Odessa, had 19 channel cat with one weighing five pounds.

Jay Ford, Midland, concentrated on the black bass with 10, the largest going at 3½ pounds.

Split Season Slated For Duck, Geese

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission has ordered the first split hunting season in some years for duck and goose shooting.

It further decided Thursday to let hunters begin shooting quail earlier in the south central district of 21 counties.

The commission had set the quail season for Dec. 1-Feb. 15 but moved it to Nov. 18-Jan. 31 because of a staff recommendation showing quail populations in South Texas had risen by 182 per cent.

Counties affected by the change are Aransas, Atascosa, Bee, Bexar, Cameron, Dimmit, Duval, Frio, Hidalgo, Jim Wells, Karnes, Kinney, Live Oak, Maverick, Medina, Starr, Uvalde, Webb, Willacy, Wilson and Zavala.

In six of the counties—Dimmit, Frio, Kinney, Medina, Uvalde and Zavala—the commission change is subject to approval of the county commissioners courts.

The Dec. 1-Feb. 15 quail season remains unchanged in other counties regulated by the commission.

The daily bag and possession limits are 12 and 36.

Besides ducks and geese, split seasons also were set for coots, brant and sandhill little brown cranes.

Ducks and coots may be hunted from Nov. 4 to Nov. 26 and Dec. 9 to next Jan. 24 except in the High Plains mallard management unit where the hunting dates are Oct. 15 to Nov. 26 and Dec. 9, 1972 to Jan. 24, 1973.

TCU Has New Coach, Name—Old Depth

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas Christian kicks off a new football season with a new coach, a new nickname, a new quarterback and an old problem—depth.

"If don't anything bad happen I feel like at the end of the season we'll all be happy," said Billy (the Kid) Tohill, beginning his first full season as head coach.

At 33 the youngest of the Southwest Conference czars, Tohill inherited the top job deep in the 1971 season at the death of Jim Pittman.

Tohill took over on the sidelines of the Baylor game, which the Horned Frogs won, and guided the saddened team to a 3-1 windup and third place in the league.

"We hope to do as good or possibly better than last year," drawled the personable Mississippian in a preseason interview. "We don't have a lot of depth.

"But we have one good offensive team and one good defensive team... If we start getting a few people injured, we could be in real trouble real quick."

Somewhere along the way the Horned Frogs picked up the nickname "Tohill's Terrors," and with 33 lettermen and 16 starters back they may well be.

"Over-all, we should be better than last year," said Tohill in assessing the team's 6-4-1 record a year ago.

"Defensively, we have eight players back with a lot of game experience. They have played this defense for a year and should know it better.

"Plus they will have a better idea of how the offense will attack it. Defensively, we should be stronger."

The departure via graduation of quarterback Steve Judy and fullback Bobby Davis would play havoc with most any offensive attack.

"But," said Tohill, "our line is a good, seasoned group. They are big and strong and can move. Our backs are adequate. They lack the outside speed, but they can run tough and they know how to block."

The No. 1 prospect to direct Tohill's wishbone attack is Kent Marshall, who backed up Judy last year as a sophomore.

"He runs well and throws well enough to hurt you," observed his coach.

Behind Marshall is sophomore Terry Drennan, who Tohill says neither runs nor passes with awesome ability but "he does just enough to beat you." Coaches call this kind "competitors."

"Don Howard, our third contender, has a stronger arm and is the best passer of the bunch," said Tohill. "I feel we are in good shape with these three."

Elsewhere the Frogs feel they have a potential super star in running back Mike Luttrell, a sophomore who was offensive player of the year among SWC freshmen.

There also are three experienced backs, including two-year vet Larry Harris and Steve Patterson, voted the top offensive back a year ago.

Midland Has Good Year

MIDLAND— Except for sore arms and other ailments to the Cub players, plus some disappointments, Midland's first year in Class AA baseball of the Texas League was a successful one.

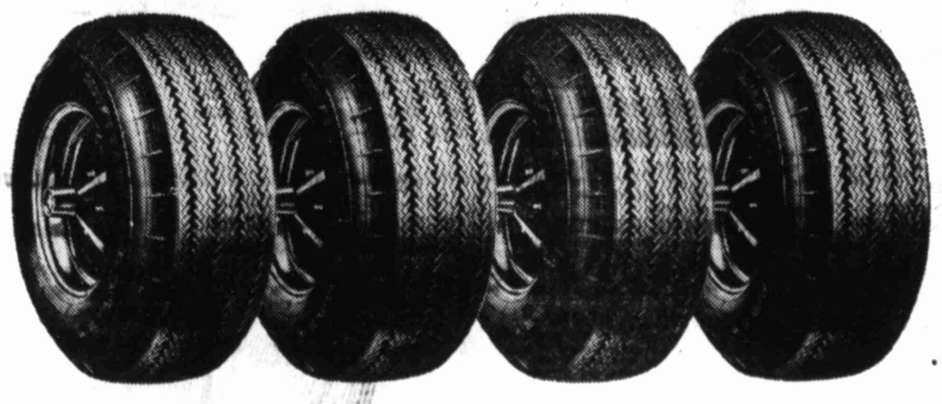

The Cubs end their home season Friday night, Aug. 25, against San Antonio. The Texas League Season closes on Sept. 4.

The Cubs front office is anticipating a total season attendance of 75,000, which exceeds the city population of 60,000. It is regarded as plenty good, since the Cubs, until recently, had occupied the celler position most of the way in the Western Division.

However, with such names as Pete LaCock, Jim Tyrone, and Matt Alexander, to name a few, the Cubs do have some talent that next season could be performing in higher classifications, either at Wichita, Class AAA, or with the Chicago Cubs. All this tended the Cubs fans to see plenty of exciting baseball in 1972.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance Prorated on
40,000 miles	Miles Driven
48 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

CARROL RIGHTER

SUNDAY, AUGUST 20, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You now have considerable energy. The mental and physical vitality can be put to valuable use in studying whatever is at you fingertips which will help you plan a course of action that can lead to greater success and better organization.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Get busy and do a favor for one who has not only been kind to you in the past, but can be even more helpful now. This is a good day to take health treatments you need. Get to bed fairly early tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Doing favors for others now can add to goodwill you enjoy. Be sure to give credit where credit is due. Show others you are devoted and kind. Bring out your finest and best talents.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to express your finest ideas to all who can help you make a success of them. Loved one is highly favorable to you, and much happiness can be yours. A spirit of generosity is wise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Stating your views to associates regarding backing in the future and making certain changes in policy matters is best now. Out to favorite amusements together later. Try not to be extravagant, though.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get into that plan with one who is philanthroptic or civic minded for excellent results now. Plan time to take health treatments you need and build up your strength. The future can be very active.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Showing devotion to those who are close to you will bring the results you want at this time. You have excellent creative ideas and can put them in action admirably now. Make this a most constructive day, p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your home and family should be of greatest importance in a.m., so that all runs smoothly there. Invincibility can be yours in the business world later. Inviting good friends in for the evening can bring much happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Philosophical studies of your choice bring you fine results now. Get together later with good friends for the entertainment you like. Avoid one who has an eye on your assets.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan early how romantic life can be improved, and then do the thoughtful things that make your mate happy. You can have added security if you contact one who has the knowledge you want. Think giant thoughts if you want to enlarge your activities.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are feeling very charming today and can make big headway socially. Some new friend you make today can be of great assistance to you. Be sure you dress in fine style.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Forget the social today and secure the facts you need at right sources. The romantic side of life is fine, however. Do not neglect to handle that correspondence that is important right now.

PISCES (Feb. 2 0to March 20 Ideal day to understand what your true aims are and take the right steps in such direction. Try to be with friends of long standing as much as possible. Do something constructive of a civic nature.

MONDAY, AUGUST 21, 1972

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Following early morning confusion this turns out to be one of your best days, a time when you can use excellent judgment. You are able to get those in high office to go along with your point of view. You can also enjoy better health and expand to greater heights.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Carry through with the plans you have made and you will have more security in the future. You can further your career now if you try. Engage in social event in evening and have fun.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Discuss with higher-ups how they succeeded, then follow through along similar lines and make a name for yourself. Make new contacts among the influential who are your type of people.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Now that you comprehend what is expected of you by those who have control over your affairs, be sure to meet expectations. Show the best side of your nature to the one you love.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be more willing to listen to what associates have to say and cooperate with them for greater success in the future. Attending a social event tonight will lead to happiness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to understand what co-workers expect from you, then follow through so that production increases. Take health treatments. A more charming appearance is very important.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you engage in creative work early, this can prove to be a most fascinating day. Go out for amusement later in the day. Making conditions at home more harmonious is wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Showing loyalty to family is fine and encouraging them is also good. Do some entertaining at home for a change. Be sure that those you invite are congenial. Show you have poise.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to keep appointments that are important. Much productivity is possible now. Once your work is done, engage in recreation and hobby you like. Avoid extravagance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to have greater abundance and you can do so by taking steps in the right direction. Let an influential business expert show you the shortcuts in putting an idea to work.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are able to go out socially and join in mutually interesting projects with the right people. Be sure to improve your appearance. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You cannot rely today on higher-ups to assist you with any problems you may have, so do your own thinking. Get rid of what is not usable at home and replace with something new.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You can add to prestige by going directly to a bigwig and getting assistance. Plan how to spend spare time more wisely. A good friend can be helpful to your advancement now.

Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

YES OR NO? (Q.) This girl talks to me about everything but the boy she is supposed to have a crush on. We have talked on the phone several times this summer and once I stopped by her house. All winter she and I wrote each other. I was a freshman in college.

I have never had a date with her. When we were high school seniors she turned me down twice. Both times I saw her with this boy at school affairs I wanted to take her to.

Do you think she avoids talking about him now because she still likes him, or because she is trying to get me to ask her out? — Very Interested in Iowa.

(A.) Quit beating around the bush and ask the girl for a date. If she is interested in you as a boy friend, good. If not, she has said no before, and one more time won't kill you.

* * *

QUIET GIRL: (Q.) I just can't understand my girl friend. She is very quiet and very hard to talk to. She never brings anything up. She just answers questions.

She seems to like me, but she doesn't say nice things. When I won the mile at our big track meet she just smiled at me when I came out of the dressing room. She never said a word about it.

I am not mad at her and I do not want to quit going with her and she doesn't act like she wants to quit going with me. I am just puzzled because she talks so little. What should I do? — Mystified in Missouri.

(A.) A few girls are just quiet by nature. Yours appears to be that kind. Many boys and many married men would love to have a quiet girl friend or wife. Few do. But you do.

Being quiet does not mean a girl cannot have deep feelings, or be a good partner for a time or for life. You will have to decide whether you can be content with her.

* * *

BABY NEAR: (Q.) I love Roger and he loves me. He is 21 and I am 16 and next month we are going to have a baby. I will be 17 then and we want so very much to be married.

My mother wants us to. But my father doesn't. He calls Roger and me dirty names and says Roger is no good. He says he hopes I die during childbirth. What should I do? — Not Much Time Left in Michigan.

(A.) In a situation such as yours there can't always be an answer that everybody likes. If you and Roger are really sure of your love, you should be married. You should also be grateful of your mother's blessing.

Your father does not appear altogether rational in this crisis. Trouble sometimes upsets people badly. Perhaps when his grandson or granddaughter comes, he can accept the baby and your marriage. Hope and pray for that.

OMBE Office Set Up Within State

AUSTIN — The Texas Industrial Commission has received more than $253,000 in federal funds to establish an Office of Minority Business Enterprises (OMBE) at the state-level.

Texas is one of five states selected by federal officials to establish a state office, said Sen. John Tower.

The state-level office will focus attention on the problems of minority businessmen, help them overcome special problems, develop or expand local technical and management assistance, and direct state government resources to the minority businessman.

To Enter Politics

MIAMI BEACH, Fla (AP)— Anne Armstrong said today that she will resign in January as co-chairman of the Republican National Committee and will go home to Texas and probably enter politics.

Big Springer Observing Own Silver Anniversary

Lt. Col. Jetty R. Cook, Big Spring, will be celebrating a personal silver anniversary this year when the U.S. Air Force observes its 25th year as a separate military service.

Col. Cook, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy C. Cook, 1001 N. Gregg, Big Spring, is among the men and women who have served a quarter of a century with the youngest of the nations' three primary armed forces. The Air Force was established on Sept. 18 when former President Harry S. Truman signed into law the National Security Act of 1947.

The colonel is assigned as an inspector in the supply branch of the Air Force Inspection and Safety Center at Norton AFB, San Bernardino, Calif. The center is headquarters for chief Air Force inspectors in numerous fields.

In his present position, Col. Cook performs inspections, world-wide, of all aspects of the USAF supply systems at all levels of command.

He previously was assigned as senior materiel advisor with the U.S. Military Training Mission in Saudi Arabia, an assignment he completed in April 1971.

Col. Cook's military career began when he enlisted in the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1942 following his graduation from Big Spring High School. He served as a flight engineer and gunner on B-17 Flying Fortress Aircraft while assigned with the 92nd Bomber Group of Eighth Air Force in European theater during World War II.

He had completed 10 years' enlisted service when he was commissioned in 1952. As an officer, he has served in supply management positions with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Allied Forces, South (Airsouth) in Europe, at Albrook and Howard Air Force Bases in the Canal Zone, at Aerospace Defense Command headquarters at Ent AFB, Colo., and with the 78th Fighter Wing at Hamilton AFB, Calif.

Two Persons Die In Cycle Mishap

DALLAS (AP) — Police say two persons were killed here early Saturday when the motorcycle they were riding collided with a parked car on a city street.

Stanley Salazar, 22, of Farmers Branch and Jewell Rene Smith, 18, were declared dead at the scene of the mishap by the county medical examiner.

Police said the pair was thrown 30 feet from the point of impact with the car, while the motorcycle was found 150 feet away.

'Let's Have A Party'

BY JO BRIGHT

Big Spring Country Club's entertainment committee, headed by Dr. and Mrs. Henry Butler, are proving that a good party can be put together with simple ingredients — fine food, danceable music and compatible people.

New members were welcomed to the club with an informal Saturday night event which included all three, a Mexican dinner served after the cocktail hour and followed by dancing until midnight.

Committee members alternate in hosting the events, with Saturday's host and hostesses being Mr. and Mrs. Pete Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Davis. About 15 new member couples were among the more than 100 persons in attendance.

On tap for next month is the Sept. 23 costume party which will revive the fashions and music of "The Fabulous Fifties."

Highlighting the entertainment will be a symbol of the times, the swinging disc jockey, spinning a webb of nostalgia with records from a decade that ushered in a new era in modern music.

Reception Today Will Mark 50th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Harold Choate will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary today with an open house from 2 to 5 p.m. at their ranch home located 10 miles southeast of the city on Moss Creek Road. Friends are invited to call during the afternoon.

Host and hostess will be their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wade Choate.

Mrs. Choate, the former Vera Wade, is the daughter of late Mr. and Mrs. L. Wade, and her grandfather, W.T. (Uncle Bud) Roberts, was the first settler in Howard County in 1876. Mr. and Mrs. Choate live on the ranch where Mr. Roberts settled 96 years ago at Moss Springs.

Mr. Choate, born in Pontitock, Texas, is son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.M.Choate, early citizens of Big Spring.

The couple met in the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Martin, who then lived south of Big Spring on the A.L. Wasson ranch where Mr. Martin and Mr. Choate worked for several years.

Mr. and Mrs. Choate were married Aug. 16, 1922 in the home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Marchbanks, who served as best man and matron of honor at the wedding. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Hardy, a Methodist minister in Big Spring. After their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Choate moved to Fort Stockton where he worked as ranch foreman on the 140-section White and Baker ranch. During interim time, he worked at the Big Spring Police Department from 1937 to 1941.

(Bradshaw Studio)

MR. AND MRS. J. H. CHOATE

For the reception, Mrs. Choate will wear a sleeveless, white crepe dress with jeweled neckline. She will be presented an orchid corsage, and Choate will receive a yellow rosebud boutonniere.

The refreshment table will be laid with a floor-length white net cloth, ruffled at the bottom and caught at the corners with gold bows. The centerpiece will be a silver wine cooler arranged with yellow roses, spider mums, daisies and babies' breath interspersed with greenery. Silver punch and coffee services will flank a tiered anniversary cake topped with a gold wedding cross.

Mrs. Brookie Martin, sister of Mrs. Choate, will preside at the registry table. It will be covered with a lace, floorlength cloth and accented by a gold candelabrum with crystal drops.

Members of the house party will be Mr. and Mrs. H.A. Hays, Mrs. Bertie Marchbanks, Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Marchbanks of Odessa, Mrs. Charlene Kee, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Martin of Houma, La., Mrs. Robert N. Hill. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mac Sheppard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Choate, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Phillips, and Mr. and Mrs. William M. Martin II, Mr. and Mrs. Larkin Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Hill.

NEWS STORY

The following is an excerpt from the original newspaper account of the Choate-Wade wedding:

"Following the ceremony a delicious wedding luncheon was served by Mr. and Mrs. Marchbanks and immediately thereafter the happy couple left on the evening passenger train for a honeymoon trip to San Angelo and other points.

"The bride is a most charming and accomplished young lady, possessing those admirable traits which win her many lasting friends. She is loved and esteemed by all who know her. The groom is one of our reliable and industrious young men, trustworthy and responsible and has won many friends during the three years or more he has made his home in this country.

"We join a host of friends in extending to these worthy young people best wishes for a heaping measure of happiness and prosperity."

Credit Hard For Women To Obtain

A discussion concerning problems encountered by women trying to establish a credit rating was led by Mrs. Loyd Wooten for Big Spring Credit Women Thursday at the Settles Hotel.

Mrs. Wooten said it is often hard for a married woman to get credit in her given name rather than the name of her husband. She said wives that prefer separate credit references should go to their local credit bureau to have a personal file established.

Concerning joint checking accounts, Mrs. Wooten said many bankers encourage accounts to be set up in both names in order to avoid difficulties in the event of a husband's death. For instance, bankers suggests joint accounts should be "John Doe and Mrs. Mary Doe," rather than "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe."

Mrs. Wooten said divorced women also have difficulties establishing credit, and she again suggested they go to the local credit bureau for assistance.

The program was based on a series of articles written by Cheryl Hall in the Dallas Morning News.

Mrs. Noel Hull presided and announced a regional conference is scheduled Sept. 16-17 in San Angelo, with Mrs. Bea Dillard of El Paso, officiating.

Mrs. Katherine Homan won the capsule fund. The next meeting will be a party for members and their husbands, at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 11 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wooten, 817 W. 18th. Cohosts will be Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Apple, and the meeting will be in lieu of the club's Sept. 7 meeting.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Coleman, 500 Highland, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sammye Gayle, to Rucker Howard Butts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rucker Butts of Midland. The wedding will be an event of Nov. 11 in the Fourteenth and Main Church of Christ.

Marion Carters Announce Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Marion G. Carter, No. 3 January Circle, announce the birth of a daughter, Lois Pearl, at 8:53 a.m., Aug. 12, in Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital. The infant weighed 6 pounds, 11 ounces. The Carters have one other daughter, Nikki, 12 years.

Classified Page Adds Fashionable Patterns

The woman who sews knows how much money she saves, but that's not the only benefit that comes from being a home seamstress. Clothes fit better when they are tailored to the individual and look better when they are created from patterns that are in tune with the times.

Readers of the Big Spring Herald's Classified Page are always rewarded with time saved and money earned. Now, they are offered an extra bonus. Starting this week, The Herald Classified Page will feature sew-easy patterns by Anne Adams and needlework designs by Laura Wheeler. Produced by the King Features syndicate, the patterns will be available to Herald readers by mail order.

Anne Adams has originated fashionable patterns for the life-style of today's woman — and her family. Some are dramatic, others are casual and many are versatile, the type of attire that women in the Southwest prefer for "get up and go." New, standardized sizing assures proper fit, and great shapes provide flattery for every type of figure.

Laura Wheeler's signature is on craft patterns that run the gamut from crocheted capes and cardigans to delicately embroidered cover-ups for infants. There will be shirt and vest patterns (for both men and women) as well as items to be knitted or braided. Crewel work and other types of needlecraft are included.

Make a habit of reading The Herald Classified Page. You'll have a world of fashion at your finger-tips.

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I wonder how many mothers have washed white and colored clothes (separately, of course!) and much to their heartbreak — discovered a crayon had gotten in with the clothes?

I had this happen to me just recently and I am simply beside myself.

Everything in the wash was just spattered with brown crayon — shirts, blouses, cottons and synthetics alike.

My only thought at the time was, "How does a 105-pound weakling take a washing machine apart with her bare hands?"

But, being unable to tear it apart, I come to you, dear Heloise, for help!

What do I do now? Can I get the crayon out of my clothes? . . . Phyllis D.

* * *

I can just imagine the mess. Hope this little trick will help solve the problem.

Take some plain old kitchen shortening — yes, shortening — not oil. Rub this blob of shortening well into the stain. This helps loosen the wax.

Then take some liquid detergent and rub it in. Use a brush or your fingernail.

Wash and rinse the garment as usual.

Some of the dye may remain, so you might have to use a little unchlorinated bleach. Just be careful here on the fabric — a simple test on a hidden spot is a must to keep from having a worse mess than when you started out.

A good dry cleaning solvent may also remove the crayon wax. And you can always use a coin-operated dry cleaning machine.

Just remember to spot test all fabrics first! . . . Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Here's what I do to camouflage any household tasks that I really don't want to do.

I consider myself in the role of a lowly peasant who is under the rule of a very strict, harsh lady of the manor. Everything I do must please her and meet her specifications.

When all my work is done, I spruce myself up and suddenly become "the lady of the manor."

Sounds silly, I know, but it works. . . . An admirer

* * *

Dear Heloise:

To make a quick chili soup that is mild enough for small children, I add a can of tomato soup to a can of plain chili.

It is very tasty and makes a can of chili go twice as far. . . . Marlene Benoit

* * *

Dear Heloise:

When blanching vegetables, I use squares of nylon net. They can be cut any size and will hold any amount of vegetables that you desire.

I use a pipe cleaner to tie the four corners and presto, an instant drainer.

When the vegetables are blanched sufficiently, I can simply lift out the bag and drop it into a bowl of waiting ice water. (Use ice cubes in the water.)

The net bag can move around the ice cubes in any shape, therefore, getting uniformly cooled . . . . Mrs. R. L.

This column is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of the Big Spring Herald. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Take Emergency Measures When Home Freezer Fails

By SHERRY MULLIN
(County HD AGENT)

Freeze packaged meat as soon as possible to prevent meat juices from draining. For best results, meat should be quick-frozen at commercial plants where correct freezing temperatures (-20 degrees F. in still air or -5 degrees F. in blast or fan-circulated air) are maintained. These low temperatures are not reached in home food freezers. Transfer meat to a home food freezer in an insulated bag or box. Small quantities of meat may be frozen in home food freezers.

Put no more unfrozen food into a freezer than will freeze within 24 hours. Usually this will be about 2 or 3 pounds of food per cubic foot of freezer capacity. Overloading slows down rate of freezing, and foods that freeze too slowly may lose quality or spoil. For quickest freezing, place packages against freezing plates or coils, and leave a little space between packages so air can circulate freely.

After fruits, vegetables and meats are frozen, store them at 0 degrees F. or below.

Frozen food undergoes slow changes in storage and will not retain its quality indefinitely. The length of time that frozen products may keep without loss of quality depends on proper handling before freezing, packaging material used, storage temperature and kind of food stored.

Do not store frozen food too long. Suggested lengths of storage for different foods are: fruits and vegetables, 1 year of less; fresh pork and fish, 3 to 6 months; poultry, 6 months; sausage and ground meats, 1 to 3 months; lamb and veal, 6 to 12 months; beef, 6 to 12 months; and cooked foods, storage varies greatly for different products.

Thaw food properly, and use frozen food immediately after thawing. Since all bacteria are not killed by freezing, they become more active as the food thaws. If frozen food is not used soon after thawing, more food value will be lost and spoilage will occur quickly.

EMERGENCIES

If power is interrupted or the freezer fails to refrigerate properly, do not open the home food freezer unnecessarily. Food in a loaded freezer usually will stay frozen for two days, even in summer. In a freezer with less than half a load, food may not stay frozen more than one day.

If the power is not to be resumed within one or two days, or if the freezer may not be back to normal operation in that time, use dry ice to keep the temperature below freezing and to prevent deterioration or spoilage of frozen food.

Fifty pounds of dry ice in a 20 cubic-foot home freezer should hold the temperature below freezing for two to three days in a freezer with less than half a load and three to four days in a loaded freezer, if dry ice is obtained quickly following interruption of power. Move food stored in the freezing compartment of a freezer to the storage compartment. Place dry ice on boards on top of the packages and do not open freezer more often than necessary. Do not handle dry ice with bare hands; it can cause burns. Use dry ice in a well-ventilated room. If dry ice is not available, try to locate a locker plant, and move the food there in insulated boxes.

REFREEZING

For highest quality keep foods frozen until it is defrosted for use. If frozen food thaws before needed, it may, under certain conditions, be safely refrozen to prevent loss.

The process of thawing and refreezing does not in itself make the fruit, vegetables, and meats unsafe. Thawed foods spoil more rapidly than fresh foods and may become unsafe to eat if not refrigerated. Foods are not likely to be worth refreezing if they have reached temperatures of 40 to 45 degrees F. after passing through the slow temperature changes that occur in a home freezer when operation has stopped.

Fruit, vegetables and meats may be refrozen if they have not completely thawed, or if they have been thawed for a short time and have been in a household refrigerator. The thawing and refreezing usually will result in lowered quality and loss of flavor. Refrozen vegetables may toughen, and refrozen fruits become soft and muchy. If flavor and texture of such refrozen fruits make them unsatisfactory for eating uncooked, they may be satisfactory for use in cooking.

Because low-acid foods, such as vegetables and meats spoil rapidly after they have thawed and reached a temperature above 45 degrees F., it is not advisable to refreeze them.

Acid foods, which include most fruit and fruit products, are likely to ferment after they have thawed and reached a temperature above 45 degrees F. Slight fermentation of acid foods may change or spoil flavor, but does not make them unsafe to eat.

Hot Pants Cooled For Job Security

Rosaline Searle, 15, was accepted as a dockyard apprentice at the Devonport yards, in Plymouth, England but got into hot water with instructors on her first day of instruction.

The trouble was her hot pants kept the 240 male apprentices from keeping their minds on their work. "Wear jeans from now on," she was ordered. "It's the only way to become a respectable fitter and turner."

Rosalind has obeyed. "I don't want to take a chance of losing a career that will pay me as much as my dad is earning by the time I'm 20," she said.

Cold Day Hints For Knit Pants

It's cold weather and time for knit pants. To avoid the uncomfortable clinging at the knee and thigh, substitute regular knee socks for panty hose, which might be causing the problem.

MRS. GORDON W. AWTRY

Abilene Rites Held Saturday

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Carrol Sue Clee and Gordon William Awtry, both of Odessa, at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Westgate Church of Christ, Abilene.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Awtry of Odessa, formerly of Big Spring, and Mrs. Marion Clee, Tucson, Ariz., and Walter Clee, Wheaton, Ill.

The rites were performed by Michael Coffman, minister, before an altar decorated with arrangement of yellow gladioli, white daisies and gold carnations. A prelude of nuptial music was provided by Miss Becky Awtry, pianist, the bridegroom's sister.

WHITE GOWN

The bride wore a formal-length gown of white satin overlaid with white lace. Bands of satin and lace extended from the empire bodice to enhance the skirt and edge the hemline. The gown featured a high collar and short sleeves. Her short, bouffant illusion veil fell from a flowered headpiece, and she carried a bouquet of gold and orange carnations and white daisies.

Miss DeAlva McCasland of Lytle was maid of honor. She was attired in a floor-length empire gown fashioned of sheer apricot fabric lined in gold and featuring long, full sleeves and a scooped neckline. She wore a matching garden hat.

Refreshments were served by Miss Beverly Green, Miss Lana Lloyd, Miss Linda Steadman, Mrs. Joe Awtry and Mrs. Howard Awtry, all of Big Spring; Mrs. Joe Thomas and Miss Jerry Thomas, both of Odessa; and Mrs. Earl Freeman, Knott.

Curley, a financial consultant in Midland, is the son of Mrs. James R. Watson, Carlton House, Big Spring, and the late Lloyd F. Curley. He is a graduate of Big Spring High School, Howard County Junior College and Baylor University with BA and MBA degrees.

LACE GOWN

The bride was attired in a gown of sheer Schiffli embroidered lace with lily-of-the-valley design over white organza. A scooped neckline, long full sleeves which were pointed at the wrist and an A-line skirt enhanced the bridal dress. A cathedral train, attached at the empire waist, was fashioned with a border of reganza etched with scalloped Venise lace. The lace detail was emphasized at the neckline, yoke and cuffs. She wore a crown of Venise lace and pearl-encrusted petals, and her English illusion veil fell to waist-length. Her cascade bouquet was fashioned of yellow sweetheart roses, white pom mums, stephanotis and ivy.

The bride's sister, Mrs. James Franklin Cook Jr., Dallas, was matron-of-honor. Her organza empire-style dress had a white bodice with stand-up ruffled collar and bishop sleeves. The orange, yellow and white figured skirt was enhanced by a ruffled panel to the hemline.

White floral appliques dotted the full skirt. She wore yellow ribbon streamers in her hair and carried a white colonial basket of yellow daisies and gypsophila.

Miss Lynn Coldoft of El Paso was dressed identically to the bridesmatron, and served as the maid of honor.

Following a honeymoon in Colorado, Mr. and Mrs. Curley will be at home in Midland at 3204 MaMar.

Mrs. James R. Watson, mother of the bridegroom, entertained the bridal party and members of the family with a rehearsal dinner at the Wall Street Baron Friday evening in Midland.

MRS. DAVID McCOY MORTON

Ceremony Performed In Church Sanctuary

Miss Melinda Mossholder and Douglas Burnett exchanged nuptial vows at 7 o'clock Friday evening in the College Baptist Church.

The couple stood at an altar illuminated by branched candelabra entwined with fern. The rites were performed by Dr. Jimmy D. Law, pastor.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Burnett, 108 Circle, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Mossholder, 1319 Tucson.

The bride wore a formal-length gown fashioned in white peau de soie with an overlay of silk organza accented with embroidered flowers. The gown featured a jewel neckline, A-line skirt and long puffed sleeves. Equality Natural On Coed Ship

Elizabeth Jonville was 21 years old and her daughter Elodie 17 months when her husband Yves, 26, bought a 36-foot-long boat and announced they would sail around the world.

"We had no money, and I had never sailed," recalled Mme. Jonville when their good ship Ophelia returned from its worldwide tour recently. "We picked up jobs wherever we stopped, and our costs were barely $1,100 a year."

Mme. Jonville reported that she could never put up with city life in an apartment again.

Women's lib? "No problem," insisted the Frenchwoman. "On a boat, equality is a natural necessity. Husband and wife must share the navigation and everything else."

This little item of information may not be new to you but it was to me. I understand both these nuggets were on a national TV program so a lot of people already know that club soda will remove a number of stubborn spots, and many stains that can't be removed with other removers can be vanished by spraying them with hair spray and rubbing briskly. I tried the latter and it almost completely removed some printer's ink stain that had resisted everything I had tried. And I have first hand information concerning the club soda which was used to remove makeup base that had been spilled on carpet.

Carolyn Cunningham Weds Harold Ensign

(Curley's Studio)

MRS. HAROLD R. ENSIGN

Miss Carolyn Cunningham of Coahoma and Harold E. Ensign of Augusta, Kan. exchanged nuptial vows Saturday afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Coahoma. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Guy White, pastor, before an archway of boxwood trimmed with ivy and satin bows. Candle trees and baskets of white mums and yellow carnations flanked the altar. Musical selections were performed by Mrs. Guy White Jr., organist, and Miss Karen Ashley, vocalist.

Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Cunningham, Coahoma and Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ensign, Augusta. The bride is a graduate of Coahoma High School and Howard County Junior College. The bridegroom, a student at Longstreet Art School, Wichita, Kan., is also employed by Cessna Aircraft Corporation at Wichita where the couple will reside.

For her wedding attire, the bride chose an empire gown of white crepe fashioned with Juliet sleeves and a lace stand-up collar. Matching lace extended down the front of the gown and circled the hemline. Her chapel-length train was sprinkled with lace appliques. She carried a bouquet of yellow camellias, white Forget-Me-Nots, stephanotis and lily of the valley accented with English ivy and yellow and white satin ribbons.

Miss Ellen Cunningham attended her sister as maid of honor, wearing a light green empire gown with darker green ribbon marking the midriff. She carried a fan-shaped nosegay of yellow carnations, lily of the valley and gypsophilia tied with green and yellow streamers.

Jim Gulley of Wichita was best man, and ushers were Billy Don Fishback and Wayne Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Ensign were honored with a wedding reception in the home of the bride's parents where Miss Becky Null presided at the guest registry.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. E. T. Parker and Mrs. Ola Bauert, both of Mineral Wells; and Mrs. Jim Gulley and Mrs. Monroe Gulley, both of Wichita.

The bride's bouquet was used as the centerpiece on a refreshment table covered with a green cloth and appointed with crystal.

Law Enforcement For Women Too

Sociologist Jacqueline West has called for a "get tough" policy with women who break the law.

"It is much easier for women to get away with crime than men" she told the Association for the Care and Resettlement of Offenders in Bristol, England.

"We must begin to treat women criminals as seriously as men. Otherwise they will not receive the lasting help that heals."

FUTURE BRIDE — Mr. and Mrs. Seymore Manowitz of Dallas have announced the engagement of their daughter, Linda, to William I. Prager, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Prager, 1709 Kentucky Way. The wedding is scheduled Oct. 29 in Temple Emanu-El, Dallas.

Gain Noted In Women Delegates

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Forty-three states show an increase over 1968 in the number of women delegates to the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach.

Republican National Committee co-chairman, Anne Armstrong, has released figures showing a total of 933 women delegates and alternates to the Aug. 21-24 convention. The total number of convention delegates is 1,348.

There are 402 women delegates and 531 alternates to the 1972 GOP convention as compared to 1968's figures of 223 women delegates and 335 women alternates.

States with a fifty-fifty split in the number of male and female delegates include Arkansas (18 delegates, 9 and 9); Minnesota 26 delegates, 13 and 13); North Dakota (12 delegates, 6 and 6); South Dakota (14 delegates, 7 and 7).

Mrs. Armstrong noted that women delegates almost doubled their number over the previous GOP convention and said, "I am particularly pleased that this progress was made voluntarily — without coercion and without changing our rules in midstream."

Texas will have 17 women delegates and 24 alternates.

Caylor Exhibit, "Oklahoma!" Due For Art, Music Lovers

There were responses to last week's appeal for the loan of H. W. Caylor paintings for a special showing of the pioneer Big Spring artist's work. Mrs. W. P. Edwards has volunteered the use of the huge painting of the Lucien Wells ranch site, which the Edwards Brothers still operate. Mrs. G. A. Barrett called to say she had a Caylor which she will include in the exhibit. Caylor captured the early-day West Texas scene as it was and resisted the temptation to over paint or over color it. Still more of these paintings are needed to make this the biggest collection of Caylor works assembled. If you have or know of such paintings, please let the Heritage Museum know about it.

Members of the choral department at Big Spring High are busy as beavers in bringing the components of "Oklahoma!" together. Bill Bradley is shaping the orchestra; the 45-member choir is rehearsing the dances and songs for the production numbers; and the principals in the cast are under instructions to have their lines up by time school starts this week, when all parts of the show will come together for the process of polishing it for the end-of-September show. Tickets ($4 and $2) can be reserved by calling the high school (267-7461, Ext. 71).

Last week Mrs. Walter (Ann) Hornaday, Austin, brought Heritage Museum a large collection of early Big Spring photographs from the collection of her mother, Mrs. Della K. Agnell. Anticipating the railroad exhibit due to open after the Caylor show, Mrs. Ira Rice furnished a big framed picture of T&P shop personnel two generations ago. Mrs. H. H. Squires had a copy of the T&P history, "From Oxen Wagons to Eagles," and John Falkner furnished two high fi recordings of railroad sounds. Miscellaneous items brought during the week include a picture of the J. T. Berry Ford Motor Company, furnished by Mrs. Jimmy Morehead, and an early etching of Big Spring furnished by Edith Gay.

Neil Van Zandt, veteran West Texas newspaperman turned history publisher, was here Friday bubbling over about the new Brewster County history, a joint presentation of the Texas Folklore Society and the University of Texas Press. Many of the works of the late Dr. Mody C. Boatright, who taught English at Sul Ross University back in the 20's, are included.

Backers of the Permian Basin Petroleum Museum Library and Hall of Fame have launched a major fund-raising effort under the slogan, "Give for Greatness." Looking For Apartment? Don't Seek Perfection

By The Associated Press

When looking for an apartment remember the perfect apartment does not exist. Most places are either beneath expectations, or over the budget — or both. In an earlier article I discussed neighborhood considerations when looking for a new place to live. Now let's consider the actual apartment.

If you don't have a car, there's no parking problem; otherwise parking is a critical consideration not only for yourself, but from your guests' point of view.

Entrances make impressions, and the way a landlord keeps the front-door and lobby area of the building is a good indication of what his attitude will be when you want more heat or cool. Is the entry well lit, making it easier for people with keys, and harder for those without? Does the apartment building have a good intercom system, adequate locks, and-or a doorman hearty enough to fend off intruders? Elevators and the width of stairways should be big enough so that you can get what you already own into the apartment. If there are stairs, exactly how many will you have to climb every day?

Like love, immediate good vibes could conquer all. First impressions are very important, but remember this is the time to keep an analytical eye out so that you will know what discomforts your love might cost.

Notice the floor plan of the apartment, making sure it's functional and that your furniture will fit. The general condition of the apartment will give you an idea of what will need to be done, if anything. If things look a little tacky and you don't mind doing a little work, you should expect a break on the rent. Try bargaining. You may, at the very least, get the management to supply paint and other materials.

Be sure and pay close attention to windows, doors, ceilings, and everything that would be costly to repair or replace.

MD Carnival Raises $214

The Muscular Dystrophy benefit carnival, arranged and staged by a group of Big Spring youths, grossed $214.30 here Thursday.

George Robertson, who was chairman of the effort, said that this compared with $130 raised here two years ago. The carnivals alternate between Big Spring and Midland as parts of the Midland-Big Spring chapter.

George and co-workers had gathered prizes from merchants to be given at the carnival in Highland Mall east.

"We didn't get too much business until around 8 o'clock," he said, "but then all of a sudden everybody came and they were standing in line until we ran out of prizes about 9:30."

He expressed thanks to merchants and others who had made the benefit affair possible through donations of prizes.

McCall Will Not Contest Hatfield

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Tom McCall has scotched reports that he might run as an independent for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Mark O. Hatfield.

McCall, also a Republican, told newsmen Thursday he intends to complete the last two years of his current, second four-year term. He is ineligible by law to seek a third term.

Speculation that McCall might enter the race centered on his backing of President Nixon's Vietnam policy. Hatfield and his Democratic opponent in the Nov. 7 general election, former Sen. Wayne Morse, are both critics of Nixon war policy.

'Dear' Cousin

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last summer I received a surprise visit from a shirt tail cousin whom I had not seen in 25 years. She lives in a nearby state. She just rang my bell and spent hours discussing her domestic problems, a discussion I disliked intensely. I listened and offered several cluck-cluck sounds and a series of, "O, dear me's."

I had never met her husband, nor did I know she had a grown daughter, and I knew nothing about her pending divorce, etc., nor was I at all interested.

Last week I received an invitation to her daughter's wedding, plus a map with instructions on how to get to the country club for the reception.

I did not respond at once, so the daughter called me long distance to ask if I was coming. I told her I was sorry but it was impossible and I wished her every happiness.

She described some of the lovely wedding gifts she had received (I had sent nothing), and added that she and her husband were passing through my town on their wedding trip.

The girl apparently wanted both a wedding gift and an invitation to stop here. I am not interested in either. I do not want to do the wrong thing, but this is embarrassing for me. What should I do?

COUSIN (NOT FAR ENOUGH REMOVED)

DEAR COUSIN: Since you say you have no interest in doing anything, and so far have done nothing, you've done exactly the right thing. Nothing.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Am I a witch? I work in a large hospital and it's getting so I hate to go to work. It's not that I don't enjoy the work, Abby, but whenever a patient dies, or a coworker has an accident, I can tell it almost 24 hours ahead of time. Of course, I tell no one when I get these feelings, but when I hear what has happened, I am never surprised because I knew it would happen beforehand.

I knew that a coworker was going to have a serious accident the day before it happened, and yet I didn't dare warn him. It scares me so.

I have been this way since I was eight years old. That is why I never made any close friendships. I felt I was some kind of witch.

I have been to church and prayed, I even had my eyes blessed with holy water. It didn't help.

I don't tell people about this strange power I have to foresee the future because they would think I was lying or crazy. But I have a feeling that I can tell you, and you will understand. Do you? FEELS BETTER

DEAR FEELS: Yes, I do.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have been to two weddings this last month, both in churches with receptions afterward. Many guests brought wedding gifts, which were in both cases piled up on a table, but not opened.

Is this something new? In the past, at all the weddings I attended, all the gifts were opened by the bride and groom in the presence of the guests. Then they were displayed for everyone to see. H.W.J.

DEAR H.W.J.: It depends upon the number of gifts there are to open. If there are so many that the bride and groom would be required to spend most of their time at the reception unwrapping, exclaiming and thanking, I think they should be excused from the ordeal.

Maybe An Alternative

That latest antibusing bill voted by the House carries with it strong prohibitions against massive crosstown busing of elementary students; it would allow busing for older students only as a last resort.

Its principal author defines the bill as an attempt to permit desegregation to continue without the emotional issue of long-distance busing. And as a high aim, that is certainly one to which most Americans would heartily subscribe. Poll after poll has shown heavy opposition to busing; other polls have shown most Americans do support, however, the idea of integration.

As a practical matter, there is no way in some situations to achieve integration without some busing. If busing is prohibited, then alternatives for equalizing educational opportunities must be sought.

The House bill attempts to do that by providing $500 million in extra federal funds for schools in predominately black neighborhoods where busing offers the only means of integration, but where it would be prohibited by the bill.

As large as $500 million looms, would it be enough to do the job or even make a good beginning, given the number of districts and schools which would require aid? If, as the bill requires, the building of new schools is to be on the list of remedies prior to turning to busing, the $500 million could be eaten up in a hurry. Certainly $500 million in such funds couldn't be regarded as a final solution; it might require an annual appropriation of that amount or more over a considerable period of time to bring all schools to parity. And in the process, the concept of local school financing and local school control might well be lost.

But with adverse reaction to busing as emotionally hot as it is, perhaps the American people should be given the alternative of investing vast new sums in education to insure that no child, wherever he may live, gets less than a first-quality education — or any less educational opportunity than another child who happens to live somewhere else. In the decision process, however, the people should keep in mind what such a solution would cost in terms of dollars and in perhaps radical restructuring of school financing and control.

Low, Low Man On Totem

The cattle raiser gets the blame for the high price of beef, but someone else has been getting the increase. Lately the pendulum has been swinging, for there is prospect that ranchers may get upwards of half a dollar a pound for their stockers. This, however, is apt to be short-lived and may have been induced in part by some comparative figures which showed the cattle producer was the low, low man on the totem pole.

In the fore part of this year Swiss steak retailed on a national average market of $1.69 based on prime beef prices of $38 on foot and choice of $34. Compare this with 85 cents at the retail counter in early 1952 when prime cattle brought $39 and choice $35.50.

Or hamburger at $1 to $1.20 now and 49 cents back in 1952; or round steak at $1.38 against 98 cents in 1952. You can apply the same ratio to stew, prime rib, roast, sirloin or what have you, and in every case the answer is the same. The rancher or feeder now is getting about the same or less than he got in 1952, but with meat prices doubled in most instances. That doesn't make sense — to a meat producer at least.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

I heard you say on television that Christ and His cross are offensive to the world. Why is such a beautiful and wonderful thing as God sending His son to die repulsive? It just seems to me that every one ought to jump at the opportunity of receiving Christ. Please explain what you mean? P.C.H.

I agree with you to a certain extent. But the Bible does teach that to the unbelieving world the cross of Christ is unattractive, and even repugnant. "For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness; but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God." (I Corinthians 1:18.)

You see, crucifixion was an ugly sort of death. It was only imposed upon the worst kind of criminals, and there was no beauty or glamour about it. To be impaled upon a cross was the most shameful kind of death. Today, many people still find the concept of the cross of redemption repulsive. The blood, and the sight of God's best crucified as the "worst" repulses them. Even some hymn publishers have taken songs about Christ's blood out of their books. Many liberal seminaries have rejected the Biblical teaching of the substitutionary death of Christ for our sins. Because the cross is still objectionable.

But those that see the cross through the eyes of God find it the most beautiful, the most wonderful thing in the world. They say with Isaac Watts: "When I survey the wondrous cross, on which the Prince of glory died, my richest gain I count but loss, and pour contempt on all my pride."

Right To Die

William F. Buckley Jr.

The problems of the aged who are chronically sick inevitably pose problems of social policy. But before social policy overwhelms individual rights, it is worthwhile looking in at the state of the argument, as handled for instance last week before a Senate panel on aging.

THERE DR. WALTER Sackett, a Florida doctor who is also a member of the Legislature, gave the reasons for having introduced in his own state legislature an act which would empower adults to direct the discontinuation of medical treatment — but only a) in cases of terminal illness (or injury); and b) when such treatment is designed solely to sustain life. The doctor confessed that he had himself "allowed hundreds of terminally ill patients to die." And he informed the committee that under his own bill authority would pass to the patient (or spouse) only after he had been declared terminally ill (or injured) by two licensed doctors.

DR. SACKETT made a very strong case. He mentioned the incredible cost of medical care for certain types of illnesses. It would cost five billion dollars in his state alone, he said, to allow "1,500 individuals retarded to the point that they are bedridden, diapered, tube-fed and completely unaware, to live out artificial lives prolonged by the marvels of science. This money," he said, "could better be used on persons with illnesses that could be cured such as those that need kidney transplants."

QUESTION: Is Dr. Sackett recommending what we are used to calling uthanasia, or mercy-killing?

He was opposed by Dr. Laurance Foye Jr., director of education service for the Veterans Administration, who said: "Neither I nor anyone else knows how to decide when being alive becomes useless. The right-to-die concept implies that if death is certain and immediate we have the right to make it even more immediate. We must never forget that on occasion patients, their families, and their physicians will conclude that a disease has reached the hopeless stage and death is imminent — and be wrong."

At the root of this is an ethical problem, and ethics is best informed by religious thought.

IN THIS CONNECTION it is instructive to recall a speech delivered in November, 1957, by Ope Pius XII, who would himself die after a painful illness a year later. He was addressing a Congress of Anesthesiologists, and touching on the role of artificial respiration in medical ethics. The time has come, said the Pope, to ask whether artificial respiration should continue to be used "despite the fact that the soul may already have left the body."

The central contention of Christian medicine is "that man (and whoever is entrusted with the task of taking care of his fellowman) has the right and the duty in case of serious illness to take the necessary treatment for the preservation of life and health." The doctor is altogether at the service of the patient. "In general he can take action only if the patient explicitly or implicitly, directly or indirectly, gives him permission." But since "the technique(s) of resuscitation go "beyond the ordinary means to which one is bound, it cannot be held that there is an obligation to use them nor, consequently, that one is bound to give the doctor permission to use them . . . There is not involved here a case of direct disposal of the life of the patient, nor of euthanasia in any way: this would never be licit."

Administration Applies Screws

NEW YORK (AP) — The Nixon Administration tried this past week to talk the automobile industry out of price increases for 1973 models. General Motors Corp., the industry's acknowledged pacesetter, responded by scaling down its increase proposal.

Meanwhile, the Pay Board announced it would not change its wage-boost guideline of 5.5 per cent a year, RCA announced a contract to build a second satellite communications earth station at Peking and the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. raised its dividend.

PRESSURE

The White House entered the auto picture Tuesday, recommending "strongly" that the requested price increases of $90 and $150 a car be withdrawn.

Following a round of meetings in Washington with key auto executives, the Cost of Living Council said that each firm has been asked to reconsider its applications to the Price Commission for increases.

American Motors Corp. said it would not "voluntarily" withdraw its request to raise prices. And Lynn Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp. called the White House pressure "arbitrary and discriminatory against the automobile industry."

But late Thursday General Motors announced that it would resubmit its application to the Price Commission with scaled down increase requests.

The new increases would average $54 a vehicle, down from GM's original proposal of $85 a vehicle.

PAY BOARD

Ford Motor Co., the No. 2 automaker, was still to be heard from.

The Week's Business

- Attempt made to talk automobile makers out of price raises
- GE scales down proposed increase; others highly reluctant
- Pay board doesn't tighten wage hike formula as expected
- Board says weighted average pay increase for year is 5 pct.
- RCA contract for earth station on communication network

There had been some expectations that the Pay Board would tighten its guidelines on wage increases, but the Board announced this week that it would continue unchanged.

In announcing the decision, the Board said the evidence showed that the actual behavior of wages during Phase 2 had been consistent with the general pay standard of 5.5 per cent.

According to the board, the weighted average increase of wages and salaries approved since Nov. 14, 1971, had been 5 per cent.

On Thursday, RCA Global Communications Inc. said it had signed a $5.7 million contract to build a second satellite communications earth station at Peking, and expand an existing one in Shanghai.

The three million common stockholders of AT&T received good news Wednesday when the company announced it was raising its quarterly dividend a nickel to 70 cents.

Conferees Scrap Proposal To Defend Capital With ABM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional conferees have scrapped the idea of defending the nation's capital with Safeguard antiballistic missiles.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., disclosed the decision Friday and said the House-Senate conferees also agreed to postpone congressional action on the Nixon administration's request for $20 million to start work on a new missile warhead.

The project encountered opposition after some military specialists argued that it could give the United States a first-strike option, a policy the White House once discarded.

The actions came as conferees worked to compromise differences between House and Senate versions of a $20.9-billion weapons authorization bill.

COST $10 BILLION

The conferees reached no decision on a Senate amendment allowing older military retirees to recompute their pensions, a step estimated to cost the government $10 billion over several years.

Stennis said the Safeguard site proposed for Washington won't be taken up by his Armed Services Committee again unless the White House renews its request.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., was instrumental in scrapping the capital site, and it was thought the proposal would have been defeated if put to a Senate vote.

Stennis said Pentagon cost estimates ranged from $2 billion to $4 billion for a capital site. Critics said the ABM's value in defending population centers ranged from slight to none.

The U.S.-Soviet defensive-arms treaty limits each nation to two sites, one for its command center, one to defend an offensive-missile site.

Accordingly, the beginnings of the Montana ABM site are being dismantled, but work will continue at the Grand Forks, N.D., site which defends a Minuteman III network of missile silos.

The House had approved the administration request of $235 million to begin work on the capital site.

In a related development, the Pentagon reported that a Sprint missile, a key component in the Safeguard ABM system, failed to perform properly in a test conducted in the mid-Pacific.

The failure Thursday was the first after 14 successful tests and the third flop in the series of 31 trials, the Pentagon said.

Banker Taking Police Training

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — One of the State Police Academy's current crop of trainees probably gets as many "Yes Sir's" back as he gives.

Mahlon Love is a banker, past president of the Albuquerque Chamber of Commerce, a Civic Symphony board member, a charity event performing magician, and chairman of the State Police Board.

"I think I'll be better able to explain to the legislature what goes on here when I'm through," Love said of the 13-week program.

Key State Trouble

Marquis Childs

SAN FRANCISCO — With overconfidence a dire threat, the Nixon people are looking anxiously at the President's own home state. Seasoned Republicans long familiar with the crosscurrents in this great mixing bowl of an empire where races and creeds have come into militant consciousness are fearful the Democrats will carry California in November.

THE REASON is not the pull of the McGovern-Shriver ticket. It is the menace of a third party on the far right with a candidate made to fill the bill of the rightists in southern California. John G. Schmitz, the lame-duck congressman from President Nixon's own congressional district in Orange County, was nominated as the presidential candidate of the American Independent Party in convention assembled in Louisville.

Veterans of the scrambled Republican politics of California believe Schmitz will poll 400,000 votes on the American Independent line. That will be enough to tip the balance for the Democrats and put the state with its 45 electoral votes in the Democratic column.

THE REASONING is as follows. Right-wing Republicans, going to the polls in November supremely confident Nixon is going to win, will decide to register a protest vote. Schmitz is their man.

Somewhat to the right of Louis XIV, he listed membership in the John Birch Society among his other accomplishments when he was elected to Congress in 1970. He is for abolishing the Federal Reserve Board, returning to the gold standard, and in almost every other respect repealing the 20th century. As for the President's consorting with Moscow and Peking — it is unholy converse with America's enemies.

IN SHORT, he makes Gov. George Wallace look a bit dangerous with a populist-liberal taint. When Wallace formally decined to run, because he needed to recover from the wound he received at the hands of Arthur Bremer at a poitical rally in Maryland, the curious collection of malcontents and doctrinaire dissenters in Louisville turned to Schmitz, who was defeated in his own Republican primary.

He is no untutored rabble rouser. An instructor in philosophy, history and political science at Santa Ana College, he was elected to the California State Senate in 1964 at the age of 34. He served as a Marine Corps jet fighter and helicopter pilot from 1952 to 1960. Currently he is a lieutenant colonel in the United States Marine Corps Reserve.

Nixon Strategy

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — As reported in this column several weeks ago, President Nixon planned to telephone Bobby Fischer and invite him to the White House for dinner.

The White House has just announced that the President intends to go ahead with this plan whether Fischer wins or loses his championship match with Boris Spassky.

IT TURNS out that this is not just a friendly invitation by a President to an American chess personality. Mr. Nixon has definite plans for Fischer which I can reveal today.

The President has decided to ask Fischer to take over the Paris peace talks with the North Vietnamese.

SINCE FISCHER has driven everyone in Iceland crazy, the President feels he can do the same thing in Paris.

This is the President's game plan:

First, he will announce that he is sending Fischer to Paris on Sept. 1.

All the reporters will be waiting for him at Andrews Air Force Base to take off in the President's plane. No Fischer.

The newsmen find him in his hotel room. His lawyer announces Fischer will not go to Paris to meet with the North Vietnamese unless the French, who are the hosts to the peace talks, pay him $100,000 to attend the conference.

CABLES GO back and forth. The North Vietnamese are waiting at the table, prepared with a series of attacks on the Americans, but there is no one to deliver them to. They win by default, but it's a hollow victory, and it is obvious they are unnerved by the events.

Fischer is finally persuaded to go to Paris, and another meeting is set up with the North Vietnamese. They arrive exactly at 10:30 a.m., the time agreed upon by both parties. Fischer shows up at noon.

THE NORTH Vietnamese are agitated by this discourtesy, and they launch into a diatribe against the United States. Fischer ignores them and complains about the shape of the table and the chairs. He says he cannot conduct negotiations unless a new table and chairs are built to his specifications.

He also tells the French he cannot continue the peace talks unless the lighting is changed.

The North Vietnamese are frothing with rage. They haven't had a chance to deliver their attacks on the Americans. They decide to show up late themselves the next day.

Stingrays Near Galveston

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Stingrays and Portuguese man-of-war are lurking in the shallow waters off Galveston beaches.

Thirty-two persons were treated last weekend at John Sealy Hospital's emergency center—21 for stingray wounds and 11 for man-of-war stings.

"This is an extremely high number—more than I've seen in the three years I've been here," said Dr. Horace G. Love, medical director of the center.

Most experts attribute the increase to crowded beaches and warm water which have caused the man-of-war to come near shore.

Love said both kinds of injuries are painful and under some circumstances can be fatal.

BUSINESS WON'T SLACKEN FOR SOME

Hospitals Help Motel Business

The big tourist boom of June, July and August is just about over.

Tourist courts in Big Spring like those all over the United States, except in winter resort areas, have their big months through the summer during school vacations.

Big Spring is no exception and two of the larger motels, Holiday Inn and Ramada, report that their big months are definitely during the summertime.

In fact, summer months reach a point where reservations are advisable in motels along major highways.

After school starts, O. P. Brewster, manager of the Holiday Inn, reports that the big load of action is during the week when the traveling man stays at motels. He heads for home on the weekends, and the winter weekends are light.

Big Spring has a continual trade throughout the year by families of persons staying in the various hospitals in Big Spring. A relative of a patient will stay all the way from a weekend to a month, according to one motel operator here.

Brewster, out at the Holiday Inn, reports that there is also a big group of Senior Citizens who choose to vacation in the wintertime.

"There are a large group of senior citizens who come through here all the way from November to March," he added. Many of them are headed from the mountains where they spent their summers to Arizona for the winter months.

"They prefer to wait until the kids get off the roads and the summer traffic is ended before they travel," Brewster added.

There is also a good trade here during the Air Show and every six weeks for graduation ceremonies out at Webb Air Force Base. One motel operator reported, "It's amazing how many relatives come into Big Spring for these ceremonies."

The Settles Hotel has many permanent residents staying there as well as a good trade in bus drivers.

All local facilities large enough for conventions also receive a little "boom" whenever they handle a convention. Most conventions are during the winter and spring months.

All of these other things are really sidelights. The big traffic in tourist trade for motels and restaurants accessible to the highways is during the good old summertime, which is just about to end for another season.

Prosecutor Gets Taste Of Jail

HOUSTON (AP) — An assistant Harris County district attorney was thrown in jail briefly Thursday after County Court At Law Judge Billy Ragan cited him for contempt following a trial.

Mike Schneider, 29, chief prosecutor in Ragan's court, was released on $500 personal recognizance bond. A hearing was set for Aug. 25.

The contempt citation came after Ragan declared a mistrial in a shoplifting trial.

Enrollment Should Be About Same Locally

Big Spring school first day enrollment is expected to be about the same as last year according to projections of school administrators here.

"However, we really expect a drop at the first grade level," Supt. Sam Anderson reported. "Last year the first grade dropped 18 per cent. This is in keeping with schools throughout the country. The baby boom years have fallen off and the lower grades are all showing a smaller enrollment."

Enrollment at a junior high and high school level is expected to be about the same. Almost all West Texas towns are experiencing some population loss and school enrollments are one of the first places that a community can determine the effect of these losses.

Big Spring Schools showed sharp increases in enrollment back in 1957-58, when they showed a gain of 566 with the next eight years showing slight increases each year.

Then in 1966, the pendulum swung the other way and the schools have showed a slight loss each year since that time. This is with the exception of 1970-71 when kindergartens were added and school enrollment total then showed an increase.

A projected total enrollment in all schools shows an expected 6,743 enrolled this year. Last year on opening day, 6,625 students enrolled.

However, school administrators point out that there is always some pupils who do not get around to enrolling until the second week of school.

TOTAL OF 6,822

The final day of school last year showed a grand total of 6,822 students. This included 283 at Airport School, 418 at Bauer, 283 at Boydstun, 224 at Cedar Crest, 415 at College Heights, 66 at Gay Hill, 212 at Kentwood, 294 at Lakeview, 595 at Marcy, 156 at Moss, 219 at Park Hill, 363 at Washington and 109 in special education.

Goliad Junior High showed 628 with 511 at Runnels and 1,885 in the high school.

On opening day last year, the high school showed 2,001 and the two junior highs showed 642 at Goliad and 523 at Runnels so all three schools lost pupils during the school year.

The superintendent emphasized, "In spite of all projections, we never really know for sure until the second week of school is underway. It's hard to estimate what families have done during the summer months."

Rains In West Texas Boost Dryland Crops

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Harvest operations are in full swing in South Texas and are moving northward as summer weather hastens crops toward maturity, Dr. John E. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

However, mature crops in some parts of South Texas have been affected by wet weather and harvest operations have been delayed in many counties.

Crop yields have been generally good, he said. Corn and grain sorghum crops are producing good to excellent yields in many counties. Peanut yields in South Texas range from fair to excellent.

SCREWWORM CASES

Livestock screwworm cases in the state passed the 45,000 mark last week. Weekly totals continue to average well over 3,000 cases. The destructive pests have been confirmed in 213 of Texas' 254 counties.

Agricultural agents reported these conditions:

South Plains: Dryland crop prospects have been boosted by rains in southern counties. Verticillium wilt and bacterial blight are damaging some cotton fields. The alfalfa crop is excellent with some fourth cuttings in progress.

Rolling Plains: Heavy rains of up to eight inches fell in several southern counties, causing widespread damage due to flooding. Grain sorghum is making good growth with some early plantings being harvested. Land is being prepared for small grains.

HAY DAMAGE

Far West: Light to heavy rains improved soil moisture conditions and boosted dryland crops, ranges and pastures. The cantaloupe harvest is past peak. Alfalfa hay had some damage from recent rains. Cotton insects are increasing

West Central: Recent rains over most of the area should boost cotton, grain sorghum and hay prospects as well as range conditions. The cotton crop is fruiting well. Marketing of calves and lambs is active.

Southwest: More than 80 percent of the grain sorghum and half the corn crop have been harvested with good yields. Carrot and cabbage planting is active. Additional hay cuttings are expected due to recent moisture.

South: Some grass seed is being harvested. Fall vegetables and citrus are making good progress. The castor crop is in excellent shape. Livestock are plagued by screwworms and some ear ticks.

$1.5 Million Sea Grants

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., has announced a $1.5 million award by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration to Texas A&M University.

Tower said the award will allow the university to continue its sea grant college activities and provide partial funding for marine projects during the coming academic year. Added support for the program comes from the state and private industry.

"The state's vast marine resources are critically important for all Texans," said university president Jack K. Williams in receiving the grant. "Continued federal funding for sea grant is evidence of national concern for the wise use of our marine and coastal resources and recognition of United States leadership in these areas."

In addition to the work at A&M, the fund also will support work at the University of Houston, Lamar University, Brazosport College, Baylor College of Medicine, the Regional Education Service Center in Corpus Christi and the Southwestern Research Institute.

POLICE DEFLATED

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Police are seeking the vandals who slashed 41 tires on 12 state police cars while the officers were inside a motel at a refresher course on crime control.

Group Asks Judge To Name Master

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge has been asked by a singing group to name a master to decide if the group is owed royalties by singer B. J. Thomas.

Members of the group, "The Triumphs," have not named a figure. They asked U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow Seals Thursday to either rule himself or appoint a master and that Thomas be required to provide a figure within 20 days of an order to do so.

The proposed finding of facts and conclusions of law apparently was the results of a recent trial and an in-chambers conference between the judge and attorneys.

The group members claimed a partnership between the group and Thomas existed in the 1960s when they performed in the Houston area. They took Thomas to court over the royalty issue alleging the partnership was never dissolved.

Story Of Quick Riches Inspired New Career

A lot of actors may have entered the acting profession after years of study and starvation, but for Richard Roundtree, who created the title role of a private detective named "Shaft," and now stars for MGM again in "Shaft's Big Score!" that's only half true. He did a lot of starving, but not as an actor.

During the lean years between college at Southern Illinois University and his near overnight success in "Shaft," Roundtree held the less than glamorous job of salesman at a men's clothing store called Barney's in New York City and on a good day he made as much as 12 or 14 dollars.

And it wasn't the glitter of footlights nor the flattering glow of the television tube which eventually drew the handsome six-footer to acting. Instead, it was the unromantically monetary fact relayed by a friend to the effect that Richard could make a quick $40 an hour as a model instead of 13 bucks a day pushing clothes.

"It wasn't just the chores of being a clothing salesman that turned me off," says Richard. "It's just that I found myself assimilating the whole routine mode of living, or rather existing. Commuting to the city. Suits cut just the right way.

"That was when this friend of mine started telling me about modeling and how you could make $40 an hour. Well, I listened and went out and had some pictures shot and put a portfolio together.

"I tried it for a while and at first I wasn't doing too well. Then I auditioned for the Ebony Fashion Fair, a national fashion tour sponsored annually by the Johnson Publishing company (Ebony, Jet and Black Stars). I was hired and toured 79 American cities in 90 days.

"During that tour I noticed that things began to happen to me on stage. I got the same kind of feeling I'd known as a football player in high school and college. It was like carrying the ball and getting praise for it, but I was now relating to people as I had never done before in athletic situations.

"People were responding to me as an individual, which was an even heavier trip than team recognition."

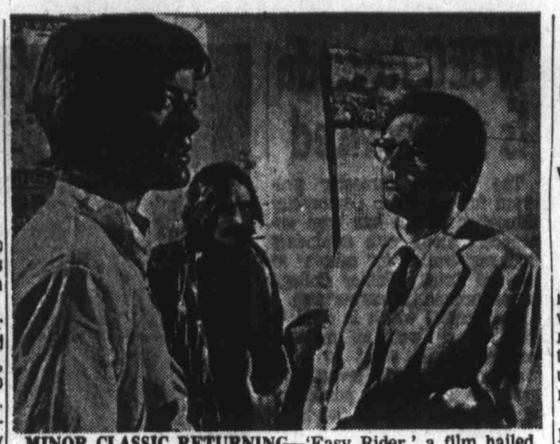

When the Ebony Fashion Fair reached Los Angeles, Richard was introduced to Bill Cosby, who, in turn, introduced him to other show business people. When Richard expressed interest in an acting career, they suggested he return to New York and prepare himself if he was serious about becoming an actor.

"That angered me at first," admits Richard. "I really thought I was ready and you couldn't have told me I wasn't. I was going to be a superstar right then and there. But that turned out to be the best advice I'd received."

So Roundtree returned to New York and, through the efforts of a personal friend, Bill Cherry, who has since become Richard's personal manager, entered Robert Hooks' Negro Ensemble Theatre. Several bit parts followed in off-Broadway productions. The last of these was a $60 a week assignment in a Philadelphia production of "The Great White Hope."

The run of that play, of course, was interrupted by Roundtree's signing for the lead role in "Shaft" as the inimitable Harlem private eye who bluffs, hustles and fights his way through countless encounters with police as well as gangsters.

Needless to say, there are no more starving days in sight. Still, as a reminder of times past, Richard keeps an emergency kit consisting of a tape measure and a subscription to Gentleman's Quarterly on hand, just in case.

MINOR CLASSIC RETURNING—'Easy Rider,' a film hailed by critics as a minor classic, returns to the Cinema for a brief run Wednesday. Peter Fonda (left) stars in the film.

Yvette Mimieux: Women Are Fearless, Men Scared

A flat statement from movie star Yvette Mimieux: "Women are fearless and men are frightened." The beautiful actress is not on a soap box for women's rights. Instead she's talking about emotional reactions to the constant changes in fashion.

"What man would let himself be talked into suddenly cutting his trousers off high above the knees — the male equivalent of hot pants or a mini skirt," asked Yvette, then she answered her own question. "I don't know one normal man who would do it."

Yvette's exploration into the relative courage of the male and female was conducted on the set of MGM's "Skyjacked" in which she co-starred with Charlton Heston. She plays the role of an airline's chief stewardess working aboard a Boeing 707 jetliner which has been hijacked. Her discourse on fashions has nothing to do with "Skyjacked" since Yvette wears a chic uniform in every scene in the production save one. But others in the Walter Seltzer Production, which was filmed in Panavision and directed by John Guillermin from Stanley R. Greenberg's suspense-laden script, were dressed in various stages of mufti.

Yvette's co-stars along with Heston include James Brolin, Jeanne Crain, "Rosey" Grier, Walter Pidgeon and Leslie Uggams. Also featured are Kelley Miles, daughter of Vera, model-turned actress Toni Clayton, television star Susan Dey, from "The Partridge Family," and Nicholas Hammond.

"Women have no hesitation about wearing slacks," states Yvette, shyly. "But would men consider skirts? Not in this country, they wouldn't. Nowhere in the western world except Scotland and they only do it on state occasions."

Barbara Hershey Featured In Film Of Love, Violence

A scorching tale of love and violence is featured in "Boxcar Bertha," American International's exciting new release which begins its local run on the screen of the Jet Drive-in Theater today. Barbara Hershey stars in the title role, portraying a free-wheeling young lady who became one of the most notorious train robbers of the depression era, leading a gang of stalwart recruits from the hobo jungles and soup kitchen lines to terrorize pay roll and railroad mail car employes in the Arkansas hinterlands.

Beginning with the death of her father in the crash of a crop-dusting biplane, the story follows her frenetic career as she rides the rods with other displaced stragglers of the country's unemployed and links up with assorted lovers and railbirds through the Ozarks until opening her campaign against the railroad coffers.

David Carradine shares cast honors with Miss Hershey, portraying her favorite boyfriend and co-worker on the heisting jobs along with Barry Primus, Bernie Casey and John Carradine, David's father.

Produced by Roger Corman, the American International release was directed by Martin Scorsese from a screenplay by Joyce H. Corrington and John William Corrington.

Shivers Quits, Dividends Paid

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dresser Industries, Inc., have announced three dividends and the resignation of former Texas Gov. Allan Shivers from firm's board of directors.

Dividends declared Thursday included: 35 cents per share on common stock, 55 cents per share on $2.20 convertible preferred, Series A; and 50 cents per share on $2 convertible preferred, Series B.

The company said that Shivers, chairman of Austin's Austin National Bank, resigned due to the pressure of other business.

The dividends are payable Sept. 15 to stockholders of record Sept. 1.

Child Actors Just Won't Be Upstaged

If there is anything that makes an actor shudder it's working with children. For no matter how well they may do their thing, they just can't upstage what the kids do naturally.

The adult cast of Walt Disney Productions' dramatic adventure, "Napoleon and Samantha," starring Michael Douglas and Will Geer, were up against the appealing likes of youngsters Johnny Whitaker and Jodie Foster, who play the title roles in the picture. If this wasn't enough they also had to share the screen with Major, a 500-pound, 16-year-old lion, who has a clown-like face and is a veteran actor besides.

Johnny Whitaker is the 12-year-old who has been familiar to TV audiences for five years as Jody in the "Family Affair" series. One of eight children, the red, curly-haired youngster, with the dreamy eyes, was signed for his first television commercial at the age of three and has appeared in some 20 of them.

He has done modeling and has been a regular performer in the soap opera, "General Hospital," and the comedy series, "Many Happy Returns," among others. His movie debut was in "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming," which starred Brian Keith, who was later instrumental in getting him cast in the popular TV series as his nephew.

This season he received great notices for his role of a possessed child in the CBS "Movie of the Week" show, "Something Evil."

Johnny likes to fish, sing, draw people and make doo-dads for his home. "The Biscuit Eater," also for Disney, was his second film role, and he plays the son of Dean Jones and Nancy Olson in the way-outdoor Disney comedy, with the working title, "Chateau Bon Vivant," which was shot on location in the freezing Colorado Rockies.

Though only eight, Jodie Foster has been on "My Three Sons," "Adam 12," "Julia," "Gunsmoke," "Daniel Boone," "Mayberry, R.F.D.," and is a semi-regular in "The Courtship of Eddie's Father."

Jodie has made about 45 commercials and was in the two-part show "Menace on the Mountain" on the "Wonderful World of Disney" TV anthology series several years ago.

Artificial Hips, Bone Cement Help Elderly

Copley News Service

Artificial hips and a miracle bone cement have given hundreds of elderly persons a new lease on life.

Surgeons have started a new wave of geriatric surgery that could all but wipe out one of the worst problems of growing old — the deteriorating hip.

Since late last fall, the new procedure that has received no publicity has been used on at least 200 elderly persons.

Some of the results:

Clifford Morris was confined to a walker because of excruciating arthritis of the hip joint.

FAST COMEBACK

One doctor told him he would always have to use crutches.

Within a month after an artificial hip implant, Morris was on the golf course.

Another patient, a woman, was able to put aside two canes she had used since 1965. "Now I can walk better than I have in 20 years," she said.

This surgical procedure is the most important development in joint surgery in 50 years, says Dr. Gerald Cady, a California-based Navy surgeon.

"In fact this is the only procedure to come along at any time that will really offer old people the renewed use of their hips," said Cady.

At Sharp Memorial Hospital in San Diego, where 40 of the operations have been done since last fall, the chief of bone surgery says the results have been "quite favorable."

BEST IN FIELD

Dr. T. Hugh Dickinson, chief of orthopedics at Sharp, says the operation is "by far the best thing to come along in the field."

Basically, the operation replaces the hip joint, not the entire hip.

The bone that connects the ball-like hip joint to the thigh bone is sawed and the joint and part of its connector bone are taken out.

A metal-alloy ball-and-arm device and a round plastic polyethylene socket are then put in.

According to Cady the plastic socket device fits in the space where the real hip socket was located. The metal ball fits inside that and the arm of the device is glued into the thigh bone.

Cady credits the glue with much of the success.

"It has allowed us to surgically hollow out the old joint socket and adhere the plastic device in a process that dries in eight minutes," he said.

"The surgeon and his assistants can drill holes in the bone around the socket and fill them with cement. This makes a sturdy bond."

A similar bonding procedure, using the same type of cement, is used to connect the arm of the metal hip into the thigh bone.

FEW COMPLICATIONS

Interviews with five surgeons produced these basic statistics about the artificial hip procedures:

—There have been few complications.

—The plastic sockets and the glue produce no poison effect on the body.

—All the devices used weigh less than three-fourths of a pound.

—The procedure is sometimes being used to replace both hip joints in bad cases.

—The operation is being used on a variety of problems from degenerative arthritis to joint failure following injuries.

"Make no mistake about it," said Cady, the Navy surgeon. "This is not a real hip. You can never restore a real hip.

"But the procedure can take people who are not able to walk or people who have to walk with crutches and a cane, and get them walking again."

WCEC Agenda Is Announced

The autumn semester program for the Webb Community Education Center has been announced, along with reminders that registration for courses at Howard County Junior College is just around the corner also.

The center, which is open to civilians as well as military personnel who want to earn "on-campus" credit toward degrees, is listing the possibility of 11 classes through Sul Ross University.

These include Mondays — Ed 3301 (principles and curriculum development for elementary education), Ed 3305 (same course for secondary education), BA 4303 (investments), and BA 4310 (personnel management); Tuesdays — Ed 4304 (mental hygiene), BA 3305 (real estate finance); Wednesdays — Ed 5314 (personality theories), Ed 6305 (curriculum in the secondary schools), BS 3307 (principles of marketing); and Thursdays — Ed 5307 (graduate research), and Ed 5317 (history and philosophy of education). The courses in investments and personnel management may be taken for graduate credit.

There also will be two courses offered through Midland College on an extension basis of fire science 133 (fundamentals of fire protection), and FS 231 (organization and supervision of fire personnel).

Classes will be held from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. starting the week of Sept. 5 or Sept. 11 and will continue to Dec. 18.

Sul Ross counselers will be on hand Aug. 28 at building 603, room 14, at Webb AFB from 3-5 p.m. and registration is that same evening at the same location starting at 7 o'clock. Information may be had at 267-2511, ext. 2464 or 2404).

Two Tots Killed When Run Over

AUSTIN (AP) — Two Austin children, Yvette Smith, 7, and Clyde Lee Hill, 18 months, were killed Friday night when they were run over by a car that veered off the road to avoid colliding with another car, police said.

A third child playing with the victims narrowly escaped serious injury.

Delegate Won't Stump For More Loot For Group

ADA, Okla. (AP) — A retired 80-year-old college professor, who will be the oldest delegate present when the Republican National Convention begins next week, says senior citizens "ought to take our place along with everybody else."

However, Prof. E. O. Box, retired head of the physics department at East Central State College here, said he is not "going down there to work for more money for older people."

"I don't go along with the general palaver of some senior citizens groups," he said Friday. "I don't represent a narrow special interest group..."

Box is the oldest of the senior citizens "minority group" being given delegate representation at the GOP convention.

For Box, who calls himself "a moderate Republican," this will be his first national political party convention.

Box said before his retirement in 1960 he did not take an active role in party politics, but since retirement, his interest "has just continued to grow."

WHAT ARE CATARACTS?

In Latin, cataract means "water fall." To ancient medical observers this appeared to best describe the hazy film that seemed to fall over the lens. Today a cataract is defined as any clouding of the lens that alters or blocks the passage of light and thus interferes with vision. Cataracts are not growths and are not contagious. They are not caused or hastened by reading, sewing or watching movies.

Among known causes are diseases such as diabetes, hereditory influence, radiation, dietary deficiencies, and chemical damage. Early diagnosis is important. Sometimes surgery is indicated, in others just eye glasses may do the job. Occasionally drops can be prescribed to control the vision.

YOU OR YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a delivery. We will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people rely on us for their health needs. We welcome requests for delivery service and charge accounts.
