Verdict Not Guilty Allen Trial in Donaldson Slaying

CROWD STARTS DEMONSTRATION WHEN JURY REPORTS TO COURT KILLS SWEETHEART OF SISTER

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Feb. 6. (AP)—Edward H. B. Allen, 23, society man, tonight was freed of a charge of murder in the killing of Francis A. Donaldson III, son of a socially prominent family. The jury of 10 men and two women were out exactly 10 hours before they arrived at their verdict.

The tall, thin young defendant shook like a leaf as he stood up to hear the jury's verdict.

When he heard the words "not guilty" he almost collapsed. But he quickly recovered himself as one of his attorneys put his arm around him to hold him in his swivel chair and was handed a glass of water.

Start to Cheer

Several persons started to cheer the verdict and a dozen bailiffs cried "order," quelling the incipient disturbance.

"Who started that?" asked Judge Harold G. Knight.

"That man did it," your honor, "shouted a bailiff, pointing at a reporter for a Norristown newspaper near the door.

The judge ordered him placed in custody for a hearing in contempt of court.

The jury brought in its verdict a few minutes before 11 o'clock. Allen immediately was surrounded by friends. He was congratulated and patted on the back and many hands

LEAGUE HEARS PEACE PLEA OF PLAIN FOLKS

Unofficial Humanity Makes Demands of Delegates Of 60 Nations

PETITIONS SIGNED BY 8,300,000 PRESENTED

GENEVA, Feb. 6. (AP)—Unofficial humanity told the governmental representatives of 60 nations today that the world insistently demands disarmament.

Backed by petitions signed by more than 8,300,000 plain folks, and delegated by world wide organization of women, churches, workers, students and pacifists, authorized spokesmen of various ages, creeds and economic beliefs addressed the disarmament conference in extraordinary session.

Some pleaded, others demanded. Still others threatened; some enunciated only general humanitarian principles, others offered concrete constructive proposals.

But whatever method for impressing the governmental delegates was chosen, and in whatever terms the wishes, hopes or demands were couched, the fundamental thought underlying all of today's oratory was this: that the sorely distressed world looks hopefully and expectantly to Geneva to avoid a new race for armaments and to prevent a world cataclysm which the failure of the conference might entail.

Women from 50 nations slowly walked to the speaker's table to deposit the volumes and packages of signatures. Among them were rich and poor, old, middle-aged and young, titled and lowly born. Some were in costly furs, some in rough workers' clothes.

ASHES OF AGED WOMAN AND SCORE OF BIRDS SCATTERED ON GRAVE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6. (US)—In accordance with her last wish the ashes of Miss Rebecca Mary Kimball, aged spinster, and a score of her pet canaries, were scattered on the grave of her father, it became known today when her will was filed for probate.

The birds had been mounted as they died and kept in a glass cage by the woman during her lifetime.

ORDER WELL SHUT DOWN FOR VIOLATION PRORATION REFINERIES TO BE GAUGED

KILGORE, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—An oil well operated by the Overton Refining company was shut down today by order of Gen. Jacob Wolters after it had been found running 1,260 barrels daily.

Owners of the well, who are parties to a federal injunction suit seeking to restrain martial law regualtion of oil production in the East Texas field, said they had been running the well on advice of counsel. The allowable is but 75 barrels per well.

General Wolters also issued an order for all refineries in the area to be gauged. He had reports that several were evading payment of the four-cent a gallon state gasoline tax.

MUSEUM WAX FIGURES DESTROYED BY FLAMES

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (US)—The Prince of Wales, several former presidents, and some of history's famous horrors were melted by fire today.

For them it was a painless though sad destruction as flames enveloped Cony Island's Eden musee, a curious museum of wax figures depicting the noted and notorious from the fall of Babylon to the present day.

Two Japanes women and six children were rescued from an adjoining frame building as the flames threatened to envelop it also.

OKLAHOMAN DRAGGED TO DEATH BY YOUNG MARE

ENID, Okla., Feb. 6. (UP)—J. M. Lovell, prominent Garfield county farmer living near Waukomis, was dragged to death today by a young mare.

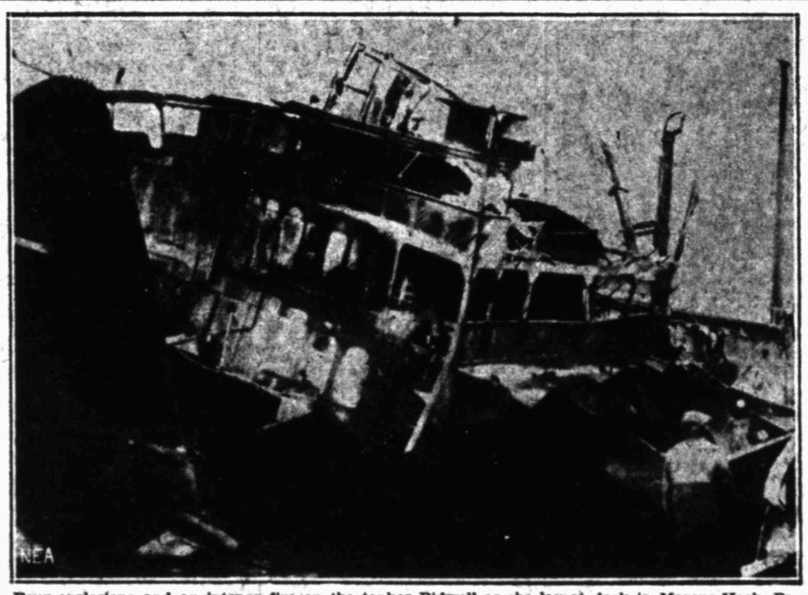

He had attempted to put a halter on the animal first by feeding her a bucket of oats. He then tied the halter rope to his wrist. The mare ran away, dragging the 62-year-old man a quarter of a mile.

COLORADO MINER BURIED BY IMMENSE SNOW SLIDE

GUNNISON, Colo., Feb. 6. (AP)—Albert Smith, 18, employed in the Clara L. mine, 40 miles northeast of Gunnison, was buried by an immense snow slide above the mine today.

It was believed the body could not be recovered until the snow melts in the spring.

SEVENTEEN KILLED IN FOUR EXPLOSIONS ON TANKER

Four explosions and an intense fire on the tanker Bidwell as she lay at dock in Marcus Hook, Pa., on the Delaware river, killed 17 members of the crew including the master, Capt. Joseph Rivers, who died in his cabin attempting to save the logbook and papers. The captain's wife, Mrs. Viola Rivers, and three others were injured when blown off the ship by the force of the blast. One man is missing. The twisted deck of the Bidwell is pictured in the above telephoto. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc., telephoto).

Huey Long Deplores Political Paralysis Affecting Democrats

By HUEY P. LONG
Junior Senator From Louisiana
Distributed by Universal Service

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6.—In order to think in terms of America you have to get away from Washington to do it. That's the farthest spot from the United States I've seen.

I've received a number of surprises in Washington and any number of things have confirmed some of the views already entertained by me.

Beyond any question, a large majority of the public officials realize that the trouble with America today is the concentration of wealth but it is difficult to get any one to say that aloud and it is still more difficult to get any one to do anything to correct this condition.

The sorrowful thing I found in Washington is the political paralysis that is affecting the Democrats in congress. Over in the senate we Democrats seem like a whipped

TRIBUTE PAID TO FORMER SECRETARY OF U. S. TREASURY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Confirmed by the senate as ambassador to England, Andrew W. Mellon ceased today to be secretary of the treasury, a post he has filled for nearly 11 years.

In a tribute to the man which was recognized even before President Hoover pointed it out, the senate approved his selection for America's most important diplomatic post within four hours of the time the president submitted his name. A chorus of "ayes" at the end of yesterday's session cleared Mellon's path to London.

Within minutes of this action, Mr. Hoover had submitted the nomination of Ogden L. Mills to be secretary in Mellon's stead, but the senate had adjourned and approval must wait until Monday. Speedy action on this nomination is sought by the administration and promised by the senate leaders.

Mellon will not sail to present his credentials for some weeks. He needs a rest, which he expects to take down south, and then private business will hold him in this country a while longer.

TWO BOYS BEG DRINK AND THEN ROB ST. JO STATION OF SMALL SUM

Loot of approximately $13 was the gain of two young boys who robbed the St. Jo railroad station at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

According to Station Agent Giles, who is in charge of the M-K-T depot, the two boys, after securing a drink of water, remained in the main station, while he went outside to do work. When he returned the door to the office had been forced and $13 was missing from the cash register.

MAJOR POWERS ABATE ACTIVE PEACE EFFORTS

U. S. TO GO SLOW AND AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS

Conversations Continue With London, Paris And Rome

By CHARLES STEPHENSON SMITH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The four major powers concerned in the Shanghai troubles abated their active peace efforts tonight and waited for Japan to act under her latest pronouncment of policy in China.

The five points of the Japanese program caused no particular surprise here and were regarded as a summary of that nation's position as outlined in Tokyo from time to time.

Official circles drew two main conclusions. One was that Japan has definitely rejected all efforts to link Manchuria and Shanghai. The other was that Japan is notifying the world that China's stern military opposition at Shanghai has not caused her to back down.

Tokyo dispatches indicate there is a difference of opinion among members of the Japanese cabinet on methods of handling the Shanghai trouble, although the minister of war and minister of navy obtained endorsement of their plan to send an army division and additional warships to the Chinese port.

The United States and the powers associated with her in peace proposals have apparently decided to go slowly and await developments in the far east regardless of the

ADVOCATES OF TARIFF ON OIL CLAIM VICTORY

RECOGNIZED AS VERY ENCOURAGING HEADWAY

'Went Further Than I Looked For' Says Senator Elmer Thomas

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Congressional advocates of a tariff on oil today looked upon Secretary Wilbur's favorable pronouncement as almost positive proof their battle was won.

Democrats and Republicans alike expressed the conviction the interior department chieftain's statement had virtually assured success in their drive for protective legislation.

The Republicans viewed it as "very encouraging headway" toward a tariff; the Democrats saw administration support behind Wilbur's remarks for either a tariff or an excise tax.

Russel B. Brown, counsel for the Independent Petroleum association, asserted "the indorsement given the proposed oil tariff by Secretary Wilbur indicates the increasing recognition of the necessity of reviewing petroleum industry."

Will Help, Says Capper

Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, who has submitted a resolution directing the tariff commission to charge $1.03 a barrel duty on crude petroleum, one of the Republicans who commented, said this of Secretary Wilbur's statement:

"It undoubtedly will help in the tariff campaign and as headway, it is very encouraging."

As to several conditional proposals recommended by the secretary, Capper said he could not approve of them without full study. He saw the whole statement as "indicative of the support being developed for an oil tariff."

Disagreement with those who consider an excise tax of 2 cents a gallon on crude, as now proposed by the house, equivalent to a tariff, came from Capper. He did not believe this sufficient protection.

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, one of the Democratic oil tariff leaders, said: "The battle is won."

"Secretary Wilbur went much further than I looked for," he added. "He has committed himself and the administration to a tariff on oil.

"An excise tax will have the same force and effect. Therefore the administration evidently will support the tax."

BEGIN TESTIMONY TRIAL WILLIAM BECK AT WACO FOR DEATH O. L. JONES

WACO, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—Testimony began this afternoon in the trial of William C. Beck, 19, of Wills Point, charged with murder of O. L. Jones, Waco automobile salesman.

The defense objected to an exhibition of Jones' bloodstained hat for identification, saying it was inflammatory. Jones' widow, sister and sister-in-law wept.

Jones was shot dead the night of Sept. 3.

Mrs. Maude Burleson, Alvarado cafe operator, stated Jones and Beck came through Alvarado in Jones' automobile at 8 o'clock the night of Sept. 3.

The defense will plead insanity, claiming Beck has been mentally deranged since he was struck over the head with a baseball bat more than two years ago.

SHANGHAI—Japanese move troops secretly in triangular area between Whangpoo and Yangtze, threatening new attack on Chinese. Americans deny attack on mission

LONDON—Britain orders new troops to Shanghai, awaiting Japanese declaration of policy on reinforcements for present garrison.

TOKYO—Cabinet crisis threatens, but military believed winning support for dispatching of more troops.

WASHINGTON—American Asiatic fleet to be enlarged. All U. S. ships will stay at Shanghai until crisis is overcome. Admiral Pratt calls Japanese fighting machine most efficient world has ever known.

GENEVA—Council cancels emergency meeting as Chinese prepare to call assembly on Feb. 12. League awaits report from Shanghai commission.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 7. (Sunday) (AP)—Japanese troops, rushed to aid bluejackets fighting in Shanghai, landed today at Woonsung and immediately attacked that city of Chinese forts.

(By The Associated Press)

More Japanese bluejackets were landed today and heavy troop re-enforcements were expected soon afterward to be pitted against fresh Chinese forces in the nine-day-old battle of Chapei at Shanghai.

Chinese newspapers said as many as 10,000 Japanese soldiers, ordered from Tokyo three days ago, would come ashore.

The municipal council, government body of Shanghai's international settlement, told Chinese officials that the Japanese government was "solely responsible for acts of Japanese forces within the settlement." Their note was in reply to Chinese protests against Japanese use of the settlement as a base for anti-Chinese operations.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (US)—The roar of artillery and machine gun fighting between the Chinese and Japanese at Shanghai may be heard by American radio listeners.

The National Broadcasting company today asked permission to place microphones near battling troops. It will be the first time a battle has ever "gone on the air."

The heaviest bombardment of the Chapei battle was laid down this morning.

Big guns, apparently six-inch pieces, roared in the vicinity of the Japanese headquarters on the edge of the international settlement.

The 19th Chinese route army put new units in line to relieve the worn-out men who have stood up under days of shell firing. An Associated Press correspondent, making a tour of inspection behind the Chinese lines, saw an extremely youthful army.

HOLD HEARINGS AS TWO HOUSES CONGRESS REST

Committees Work Despite Warning of Capitol Physician

TWO HEARINGS HAVE TO DO WITH AGRICULTURE

Approve Bill to Create Revolving Fund to Aid Farm Credit

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Both houses were in adjournment today but committees by working as usual prevented a congressional holiday despite the warning of Dr. George W. Calver, the capitol's physician, that some of the legislators were working too hard.

Two hearings had to do with agriculture. Representatives of the National Farmers union, including John A. Simpson, appeared before a senate finance subcommittee to urge passage of a silver monetization measure.

Meantime, the senate agriculture committee approved a measure to create a revolving fund of $100,000,000 for loans to drainage, levee and irrigation districts. Other bills which received committee endorsement were a proposal to create a $10,000,000 revolving fund to aid in forming farm credit corporations and a bill to extend the time of repayment of drouth loans.

Admiral William V. Pratt and Rear Admiral William A. Moffett said they thought congress would be making a big mistake if it endorsed a measure to put the army and navy into one department.

The house insular affairs committee, which is considering bills to give the Philippines their independence, heard John H. Pardee, Manila business man, testify he thought it should not come within 30 years.

Allred Not to Let Any Grass Grow Under His Feet While Prosecuting Suits to Oust Big Oil Companies

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—James V. Allred, Texas attorney general, is not going to let any grass grow under his feet while his suit to break an alleged huge oil trust, he claims is monopolizing the petroleum field, is pending.

Imbued with renewed confidence by a court ruling that he was within his legal rights in insisting on out-of-state residents who are officials of defendant companies to appear here personally and give testimony, today he said would insist that the allegations brought by him be either substantiated or disproved without unnecessary delay. "I shall do my utmost to see that this case does not wear itself out by dragging unnecessarily over too long a period," he said.

The state would banish the defendants from business in Texas, and collect approximately $1,000,000 in fines for antitrust law violations from each.

Allred said today he would make formal application Monday for appointment of a commissioner to hear testimony in the case, acting on suggestion of Judge J. D. Moore that this procedure be followed rather than consume time of his court.

Uncle Sam to Establish Emergency Employment Office Here in Charge Harry Awker, Well Known Wichitan

An emergency federal employment office will be opened in Wichita Falls as soon as C. W. Woodman, Texas director of the federal bureau, can come here to approve arrangements that are being made.

The announcement came after Congressman Guinn Williams had conferred in Washington Saturday with Secretary of Labor William N. Doak.

Congressman Williams had wired the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce earlier that the community would be asked to provide office rent free and also provide furniture for the office. John Boswell, manager of the chamber of commerce, wired in answer that these requirements would be met. Following a conference with the secretary of labor, Mr. Williams wired the chamber of commerce here that the proposal had been accepted.

The office will have a manager and a secretary. The department of labor has appointed Harry Awker, district deputy for the bricklayers' union, who has done much civic work during his many years of residence here, as manager of the Wichita Falls office.

FRESH TROOPS ARRIVE WITHOUT ANY NOTICE

(Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6.—Hello, everybody!

You know, you certainly have to give it to these Japanese for being poker players.

In the last two days they've succeeded in reducing consular and military authorities of other nations located in Shanghai to a state bordering on complete confusion.

Two days ago, the Japanese officially notified representatives of other nations it had become necessary for them to land strong reinforcements of the regular Japanese army to supplement efforts of their sailors ashore.

Coincident with that announcement, Japanese cruisers, destroyers and navy planes have been bombarding and bombing the living daylight out of the Woosung forts and Chinese villages and farms on the south shore of the Yangtze river and the north bank of the Whangpoo.

Strong landings of Japanese army troops fresh from Japan have been reported from all directions, but military and consular authorities of other nations in Shanghai are without official advice.

No one but the Japanese knows where the Japanese army has landed, how strong it is and where it is going or intends to go.

International military and consular authorities are without telegraph communication to the surrounding territory and find themselves without native intelligence agents who can operate outside Shanghai and bring back dependable reports.

Planes Forbidden

Forces equipped with airplanes, excepting the Japanese, are not allowed to fly up for observation on account of treaties forbidding flying over Chinese territory.

And there you are, with the Japanese commanders sitting pretty with a hundred Chinese and disguised Japanese intelligence agents operating throughout the Chinese area, reporting hourly, and with airplanes and seaplanes observing all angles from above, and wireless working between their Shanghai offices and their naval and land forces on all waters and land areas surrounding the city.

They know all about it, but will they tell?

Admiral Koichi Shiosawa told me that he could tell me anything about the navy but the Japanese army, he said, guards its secrets very jealously, and if he told me anything about where the Japanese army is or intends going, the generals would probably chop his seagoing head off.

Consular and military authorities here would certainly like to know what is in that sea-going head.

The concensus of non-Japanese military men is that the days of the Chinese army in and around Shanghai are numbered.

Strong Position

A strong Japanese drive southwestward from the Yangtze in the direction of the Whangpoo, but on a line west of Shanghai, could be easily accomplished with the land, sea and air forces the Japanese now have.

Such a drive would split the Chinese regular forces in half, forcing the western half westward into the marshes and lowlands in the vicinity of Suchow and Lake Tai-Hu. It would also cut the Nanking railroad, thus disrupting rail communications between that city and Shanghai.

Further south, such a drive would cut the Shanghai-Hankow railroad, preventing reinforcements from that direction.

Arrangements have been made to receive them if they will throw down their arms, but right there is where another and probably the most serious menace to foreign residents of Shanghai arises.

What will happen if these cold, hungry and desperate thousands of refugees now in the settlement are increased by thousands of fleeing soldiers? That's something the authorities and residents of the international city dislike thinking about.

Admiral Surprised

Now, Rear Admiral Toma Uematsu, newly-appointed commander of the Japanese naval landing party in Shanghai, arrived this afternoon and immediately took up the question. He said:

"I am well acquainted with the nature of the settlements of Shanghai and for that reason, it is a surprise to me to learn there is a divergence of views between us and the peoples of America, Great Britain and other nations.

"I am of the opinion that the Japanese navy is now working to uphold human civilization and to bring happiness to the Chinese masses.

"Today, we have a strong anti-Japanese movement. If we do not take firm measures to punish these

By H. R. EKINS
United Press Staff Correspondent

SHANGHAI, Feb. 6.—Word went forth today to foreign colonists in Shanghai that they must realize that possibly the worst is yet to come in the Chinese-Japanese situation.

One of the highest authorities in the international settlement, which includes Americans, British and other groups, told the United Press that it would be foolhardy to harbor a false sense of security when, as a matter of fact, real danger—even destruction of foreign lives and property—may yet be impending.

Japan has been frustrated so far in her objectives. She is reinforcing her military forces considerably.

And, according to the United Press informant, the Japanese are still determined to accomplish the original occupation objectives.

Chinese Determined

Opposed to the Japanese and still firm and aroused are the Chinese, who have tasted partial victory.

From my informant and from my own contacts with authorities and residents, it is possible to say that the coming of two Japanese divisions, part of which already have landed, is leaving the settlement with a feeling of considerable misgiving. Coupled with this is a realization that Chinese guns now are turned toward the Japanese occupiers—and toward the international settlement. It does not take a military strategist to see the potentialities in the situation, especially if the Japanese resort to their full power to "clean up."

The Chinese if vanquished can find internment in the settlement, and refugees may storm in if the situation grows worse.

At the moment, there is no telling what will happen. There is every indication that the Chinese defenders are of a different—and sturdier—type than the weakling soldiers foreign forces encountered in 1927 when heavy British forces were put ashore.

Colonists Anxious

The landing of Japanese guns yesterday looked sinister to careful observers, and spelled to them the possibility that the settlement—close to the fighting zone—may yet really suffer.

The thought of authorities here is that the Japanese military intends to keep out of settlement complications as far as possible—but that they are intent on cleaning out the stubborn Chinese defenders.

On the other hand, there is the possibility that the Chinese in Shanghai may behave as a fiery leader and rise. If that happens, the results might be as bad as organized warfare.

Hence, thoughtful Shanghaites are watching with concern.

Conflicting announcements as to Japan's intentions in regard to sending reinforcements are taken to indicate that in the Tokyo government there are two currents—one for more troops and the other opposing.

U. S. EMPLOYMENT OFFICE FOR CITY locate a bureau here and indicates that it will become a permanent proposition rather than one to be located here for a short time only.

The object of the office here, Mr. Boswell said, will be to create work for the unemployed, to cooperate with local emergency relief agencies and to conduct a survey whereby possibilities of relief may be determined.

The chamber of commerce and Wichita Falls relief agencies have made a determined effort to maintain an employment bureau here for some time. Offices were maintained for the last two years, and only recently was the local organization forced to abandon its effort, due to lack of funds.

LOW DEATH RATE IN COAL MINES LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The bureau of mines today announced that the death rate in coal mine accidents during 1931 probably would prove to be the lowest per million tons in the history of the industry in the United States.

To date, 1,430 deaths had been reported for the calendar year 1931. Bureau officials said the total probably would be increased a little by some injuries occurring in 1931 that had not proved fatal when the year closed.

SUFFERS BROKEN LEG IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Henry W. Eitt, insurance man and former head of the Texas A. & M. ex-students group, suffered a broken leg and internal injuries when struck by an automobile today. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

Car Is Stolen

A Chevrolet coupe, license No. NO-4682, owned by E. J. Wilson, 2404 Ninth, was stolen from its parking place before the Kemp hotel Saturday. An overcoat, an electric sign, a brief case and sample brushes were in the car when it was taken.

Chinese troops now, I believe they will molest other nationals one after another.

"Orientals understand well the psychology of Orientals. I am afraid that if precautions are not taken, we might witness a movement in China similar to the anti-Christian movement.

"Such an atmosphere is not altogether wanting.

"In such a case, I am of the opinion that serious consequences to human civilization will follow."

Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, new commander of the third Japanese fleet, including the present first overseas squadron, will arrive here tomorrow to assume his post.

Rear Admiral Shiosawa will be among his staff officers, while with the arrival of Rear Admiral Uematsu, Capt. Baron Samajima will become second in command of the naval landing party.

JAPANESE MARINES LAND IN SHANGHAI

Chinese civilians, carrying their household goods on their backs, plodded out of the area of danger in the direction of Shanghai.

There has been much aviation activity by the Japanese over Shanghai during the last 24 hours, but the expected attempt by China to dispute the air supremacy failed to materialize. Only two Chinese planes appeared over the city and they soon sped to the west.

Two American missions were reported attacked. Japanese bluejackets were said in Shanghai dispatches to have ransacked the American Presbyterian mission and press.

The mission of the American Methodist church, in Hongkew, which was ransacked by the Japanese last week, was shelled by light artillery—whether by Japanese or by Chinese was not determined.

Americans Evacuate

Eighty-six more Americans were evacuated from Nanking, where a Japanese attack was momentarily expected. Of the 180 American residents of that city, 109 have been taken to places of safety. These include all the children and most of the women.

In Tokyo the government issued a formal declaration that it had no intention of entering upon an aggressive campaign in Shanghai.

It was understood this explanation was made public after Britain and the United States had conveyed "expressions of disappointment" to Tokyo on learning of the plans to send new troops.

The navy department in Washington heard that seven shells from Chinese anti-aircraft guns had burst within the marine area at Shanghai.

Admiral Montgomery M. Taylor, commander of the American naval forces at Shanghai, informed Washington that the Japanese would land infantry in the international settlement tomorrow.

The Washington commerce department learned that the Shanghai business community had suffered losses estimated at $12,500,000 since the battle has been going on.

Chinese troops concentrated in the region of Pinhsien, Manchuria, after being driven out of Harbin, were bombed by Japanese airmen.

Japanese estimated that the Chinese lost 500 killed and 300 wounded in the fighting Thursday and Friday at Harbin, and they placed their own losses at 16 dead and 60 wounded.

Heaviest Bombardment

SHANGHAI, Feb. 7. (Sunday)—China and Japan rushed greater man-power into the unceasing battle today over the shambles of Chapei, battered by the heaviest Japanese bombardment of the nine-day conflict.

Five hundred Japanese bluejackets were landed from the destroyers Yakaze and Okikaze, newly arrived from Japan. Greater forces of Japanese troops, sent by Tokyo authorities three days ago, were expected to pour in soon afterward.

Secrecy hid the troop movements, but Commander Isikawa, a member of Rear Admiral Shisawa's staff, said the soldiers were this afternoon or tomorrow. Chinese newspapers said as many as 10,000 Japanese fighting men would come ashore.

The bluejackets were landed near the Japanese consulate on the banks of the Whangpoo river to be thrown into the attack on Chinese strongholds, defended by fresh troops from China's mighty military reservoir.

It was impossible to penetrate to the zone of action, but the heavy rumble from the region of the Japanese headquarters on the northern edge of the international settlement indicated that six-inch guns had been set up there to blast the Chinese from their positions about the north station in Chapei, only half a mile away.

There were two significant features about this heavy cannonading. Hitherto the Japanese guns have been quieted along about midnight, but today they roared on through, laying down more explosives than they did during the bombardment Saturday afternoon and evening.

And in preceding artillery actions the lesser arms have been involved, both the Japanese and Chinese keeping their machine guns and rifles busy, but this morning the whole show belonged to the large-bore pieces.

Guns Light Sky

Echoes of the thunder-like bombardment reverberated throughout Shanghai. Buildings rattled. The international settlement was in darkness but the sky to the north was lighted up at frequent intervals by the bursts of the mighty guns.

Chinese troops that have been in the lines during the last few days, standing up under heavy bombardment, were relieved during the night. This correspondent, in a tour behind the Chinese front, witnessed the relief movement.

The Japanese are opposing the 19th route army, supposedly the best fighting outfit in the country, but by western standards they appeared deficient in training and short of equipment.

The most impressive thing about the troops is their extreme youth. Many of them seem to be no more than 14 years old, but they took their hazardous position with as much stoicism as any veteran could show.

They were armed in all sorts of fashions. Some of them carried antiquated long-barrelled pistols, and some had obsolete rifles. Only a few of them were equipped with steel helmets and these obviously had been salvaged from the Japanese.

Trench System

The whole countryside to the rear of the Chinese line has been covered with an intricate system of trenches. In exposed spots sandbag shelters have been put up.

Although roads leading away from the front were jammed with Chinese refugees a considerable civilian population remained not far from the lines.

The Nanking road was so crowded that it was difficult to get an automobile through the plodding refugees. Other safety seekers, bending low under heavy loads of household goods, marched along the

Elaborate Defense System Found At Woosung Forts Indicate Chinese Have No Intention of Evacuating

By MORRIS J. HARRIS
Associated Press Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1932, by Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Feb. 7. (Sunday)—Three days of bombing and shelling have caused terrible havoc in the Woosung forts, but the red, blue and white flag of China still waves over their torn walls.

This I discovered today when I penetrated to the forts in an effort to settle rumors the strategic position at the mouth of the Whangpoo river had fallen into hands of the Japanese.

Not only do the Chinese remain, but the elaborate defense works they are constructing indicate they have no intention of evacuating.

Although at least four of the forts six-inch guns have been silenced and many of the remainder are so antiquated they are useless, the Chinese garrison is prepared with rifles and machine guns to resist any attempt by the beseiging Japanese warships to land troops.

Already one landing attempt has been beaten off.

Area Devastated

Entering the gates of the fortress after a two-mile walk through a shell-scarred area, I saw a scene of complete devastation.

Nearly every building in the fort compound had been reduced to shattered tile and splintered timber. A few structures held a semblance of their original form, but all of them had been shelled or bombed.

The terrain was so badly torn up it was impossible to walk in a straight line more than a few yards at a time.

The size of the holes indicated the Japanese were using bombs of tremendous power. I measured the largest of the bomb pits and found them to be 30 feet across and 12 feet deep.

I was beginning to wonder where the troops were, as only a few could be seen lolling about the enclosure.

My soldier guide led me to the forts' first line of defense, a great earthen wall on which the guns were placed.

I had to step around a huge pit in order to reach the first gun, which had been disabled by a bomb. A shell was half inserted in the breach of the gun. The gunners had died fighting.

Guns Damaged

The second gun, obviously damaged, pointed out to sea. The twisted barrel of the third gun also was visible. These pieces, apparently six-inchers, bore marks indicating they had been manufactured in the United States.

Smaller cannon alongside were undamaged, and although they were of ancient manufacture and had not been fired. Commanding officers said three or four of them were incapacitated and 10 still could be used. Most of the undamaged guns were of such caliber as to be of little value.

Looking out to sea, I counted seven Japanese ships of war, two miles off shore.

The characteristic Chinese attitude was expressed by the forts' commander in these words:

"We are fighting a defensive war. We do not fire unless we are fired at. We are determined not to yield to the Japanese invaders. We are prepared to sacrifice our lives to hold the forts."

There was no lack of morale among the troops. The men were cheerful and seemed to enjoy telling through an interpreter about the horror they had experienced.

Casualties Slight

Because of the protection offered by underground shelters, the casualties had been comparatively slight.

The Chinese losses in the Woosung area were estimated at 30 dead and 30 wounded.

On my way out to the fortifications I was stopped at a block house by soldiers who quickly let me go my way so that they might resume their game of mah jong.

Then I entered the village of Woosung where shells, bombs and fire have taken heavy toll in life and property. Fire last night, allegedly set by an incendiary, left five blocks of desolation.

The few householders remaining in the area probed about the smouldering wreckage, seeking to retrieve anything of value. Beggars cowed over the smoking ashes.

Along the waterfront soldiers were entrenched, prepared to ward off any Japanese landing parties.

I was never out of sight of the ravages of shell fire. The roadside was pitted with shell holes. Trees were broken down. One of the towers of the Chinese radio station was demolished.

INHERITS MILLION

Mrs. Frances Taucher, Cicero, Ill., divorcee, has been notified that she is one of the heirs of the late Anton Klemench, and will receive one-fifth of his estate of $5,000,000. Klemench, her uncle, had resided most of his life in Italy, where he built up the fortune as a macaroni and railroad magnate, and Mrs. Taucher had never seen him and didn't know he was wealthy.

tracks of the railway leading to Nanking.

These refugees had learned the technique of self-preservation against airplane bombing. Now and again a Japanese plane could be heard in the darkness overhead and each time the Chinese flung themselves to the ground, face down.

While air raiders were showering bombs on Chapei Saturday afternoon it was reported that two American mission houses within the international settlement had been attacked.

One report was that Japanese bluejackets forcibly entered and ransacked the American Presbyterian mission and press on North Szchuen road, well within the area occupied by the Japanese, despite the fact that an official notice of the American consul was nailed upon the entrance to the property.

Deny Invasion

Officials of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian church in New York said they had no reason to believe their mission in Shanghai had been ransacked. They said the board's mission might have been confused with a mission press, formerly owned by the board but sold Jan. 1. Whether the mission press was occupied by Americans these officials did not know.

The mission of the American Methodist Episcopal church, South, in Hongkew, which was ransacked by Japanese bluejackets last week, was shelled by light artillery and officials who were in the building trying to find out how much damage had been done by the bluejackets, retired under shell fire. Whether the projectiles came from Japanese or Chinese guns was not known.

Two big air raids were put on Saturday by the Japanese. Shortly before noon 14 planes appeared over the Italian settlement and Chapei and soon bombs were raining down. The attack was brief but at 3 o'clock the planes swept out of the mists over the lower Yangtze and dropped new loads of death and destruction.

Then the artillery and machine guns got going. Chinese anti-aircraft gunners opened up on the planes at 4:30 p. m., but the ship continued their maneuvers, dropping their charges as they picked out their objectives on the ground.

Continued sniping, it was said, was seriously undermining the morale of the Japanese bluejackets. One report was that the snipers were well organized and that among them were 86 women.

Japanese Policy

(Copyright 1932, by Associated Press)

TOKYO, Feb. 6.—The Japanese government issued a formal declaration tonight that it has no intention whatever of entering upon an aggressive campaign in Shanghai and that its purpose in sending army units there is "to put an end to the menace of the Chinese armies and to relieve inhabitants of all nationalities from the strain of fear."

Japan has no political ambition in the Shanghai region "nor any thought of encroaching on the rights and interests of other powers," the government declared.

The statement did not set forth the size of the army expedition that is being sent to relieve the bluejackets now in Shanghai, but said that its strength would be limited to what is "absolutely required."

The official announcement covered six typewritten pages, most of which were devoted to denouncing the anti-Japanese movement in China and reiterating the Japanese position that this movement was the real cause of the Shanghai trouble.

Answer to Protest

It was understood the government decided to issue the statement after Great Britain and the United States conveyed "expressions of disappointment" to Tokyo on learning of the plans to dispatch fresh troops to Shanghai.

The government declared the new expeditionary force "will be guided solely by the policy of protecting the common interests of all the powers."

"The Japanese government," the statement continued, "is prompted by no other motive than that of discharging its international duty and of safeguarding the large number of Japanese nationals and property worth hundreds of millions. . . . unless the Chinese, by continuing hostilities or by obstructing our army in attaining these ends, compel it to take necessary action, there is no intention whatever that it should enter upon an aggressive campaign."

Foreswearing any political ambition or any thought of encroachments on other powers, the statement went on:

"What they (the Japanese) do desire is to promote the safety and prosperity of that region by cooperation with the other powers and by mutual assistance, so contributing to peace and well-being in the far east."

Russia to Be Ready

BERLIN, Feb. 6. (US)—Soviet Russia is unwilling to fight Japan but if forced into war will have munitions and troops in Siberia ready to strike.

Despite Moscow's official denial today of Tokyo reports that 70,000 Soviet soldiers are concentrated in Vladivostok, close to the Manchurian border, authoritative dispatches from the Russian capital declared ammunition and troop trains are rolling eastward out of Moscow almost daily.

They are routed to the far reaches of Siberia along the Manchurian border over the trans-Siberian railway. Russia is thus mobilizing forces within two days' striking distance of either Tsitsihar or Harbin, Japan's two strongholds in Soviet sphere of influence in North Manchuria.

CHINA DEMANDS SHOWDOWN AT GENEVA MEET

Will Call for Meeting of Full League Assembly Before Feb. 12

JAPAN THREATENS TO WITHDRAW FROM LEAGUE

China Ready to Go Ahead 'With Throttles Wide' Delegates Hear

By WYTHE WILLIAMS
Universal Service Special Cable
(Copyr., 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

GENEVA, Feb. 6.—The diplomatic showdown on the situation in the far east, impending for several weeks moved appreciably closer today with China's announcement that it would call for a meeting of the full league assembly not later than Feb. 12.

A spokesman for the Chinese delegation informed Universal Service that it would call the meeting "sure as shooting" unless the powers succeeded in their efforts to stop the Japanese at Shanghai.

The Japanese, it was reported semi-officially, have received orders from Tokyo to oppose with every shell in the diplomatic magazine all attempts to invoke article XV under which China can summon the full assembly.

Naotake Sato, the Japanese delegate, has instructions to push the resistance to this action to the point of withdrawing from the league.

Chinese Insist

The Chinese spokesman asserted that Nanking insists on the letter of article XV of the league covenant. It was this insistance that is alleged to have started the report that the powers had set Feb. 11 as Japan's last day to quit hostilities in China.

Under the covenant the full assembly must meet within a specified period, in this case expiring Feb. 12, after the invocation of the article.

Diplomatic efforts working via Geneva to settle the Shanghai situation continued to hit snags. Today's far east session of the council was postponed owing to the difficulty in getting the Americans to acquiesce to the report of the league's commission of inquiry at Shanghai.

The secretariat, it is generally admitted, is holding up the consideration and publication of the report, in the wan hope that the powers will get results in their efforts to solve the problem.

Another motive in holding off is the desire to get the disarmament conference well under way before any disruptive fireworks can be started.

Willing to Wait

The Chinese delegate, W. W. Yen, is, however, getting ready to move ahead. But, the spokesman stated, he will wait "a few days longer." There is no desire on the part of the Chinese to embarrass the United States and the powers if real action is intended.

Yen will confer with Hugh Wilson, American minister to Switzerland, now acting as American observer at the league. The spokesman warned:

"But if the powers continue to dally, the league will discover we have not yielded an inch. We only wait word from Nanking to go ahead with throttles wide."

A cablegram from Shanghai reporting developments was made public by the Chinese delegation. It read:

"Our troops were still holding the forts at Woosung at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. At 6, four Japanese warships were moving in the direction of the fort. A third bombardment is expected.

"Comparative quiet prevails. American and British forces are increasing in number."

By Appointment

"You are the most beautiful girl I've ever seen! I long to hold you in my arms, to caress you, to kiss your eyes, your hair, your lips—to whisper in your ear, 'I love you'!"

"Well, I suppose it can be arranged."—Tit-Bits.

POWERS ABATE PEACE EFFORTS

Ready to Help

Conversations are going on in London, Paris and Rome foreign offices with American diplomatic representatives in those cities, and the four powers which forwarded a peace plan to the far east stand ready to lend what further help they can.

Nelson T. Johnson, the American minister at Nanking, sent the state department a cablegram today explaining that the French minister called on him and emphatically denied rumors that Japanese fighting forces have crossed the French concession in Shanghai.

Admiral Taylor, commander in chief of the United States Asiatic fleet at Shanghai advised the navy department that seven shells from Chinese anti-aircraft guns fell today in the American marine regimental area of the international settlement. His message also said a detachment of Japanese infantry is expected to land at Shanghai tomorrow.

Admiral's Advice

Wars and rumors of wars were advanced by the navy's highest officer, Rear Admiral William V. Pratt, as reasons why congress should not tamper with national defense machinery at this time before the house expenditures committee, which is considering a proposal for the consolidation of the war and navy departments.

Admiral Pratt said this is no time for experiments. He explained the Japanese military system and said it is "probably the most efficient in the world."

A proposed reorganization of the Asiatic fleet, involving the withdrawal of six destroyers, six submarines and an aircraft carrier, will not be carried out by the navy until the far eastern crisis has passed.

These vessels were to be replaced by three ships—the ancient cruiser Rochester and the gunboats Asheville and Sacramento.

The Chinese legation announced receipt of a message from Shanghai, relayed through Nanking, saying it was "confirmed" that a Japanese gunboat had been sunk and two others damaged during the attack on the Woosung forts Wednesday. Communications between Woosung and Shanghai had been cut, it was said. The message added that military commanders at Shanghai had reported they were "still holding" their line in the Chapei sector with heavy casualties.

NEAR BREAK BETWEEN GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT AND SAMUEL SEABURY

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (US)—The long threatened break between Governor Roosevelt and Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee probing New York City affairs, appeared to be at hand today.

The climax arose out of alleged differences regarding the governor's disposition of charges against Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, now before him. It came at the conference in Albany between the governor and New York City's inquisitor last Friday.

Questioned today, Seabury declined to make a statement regarding the conference, saying it would have to come from the governor.

From an authoritative source, however, it was learned certain differences have arisen between Seabury and the governor in the Farley matter. Seabury, who has repeatedly charged the New York county sheriff at public hearings with being a grafter, has demanded his removal from public office.

It is learned Roosevelt told Seabury he would be relieved of much embarrassment if a compromise means of dealing with the Farley charges could be found.

The Lee brothers of Virginia Richard Henry and Francis Lightfoot, were the only two brothers to sign the Declaration of Independence.

GOVERNMENT WINS ELK HILLS LEASES RESULT OF RULING

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 6. (AP)—More than $12,000,000 worth of oil land leases in the Elk Hills oil reserve in Kern county, California, were back in the hands of the United States government today as a result of a decision by the United States circuit court of appeals here.

The appellate court held yesterday in reversing a decision of the federal district court at Los Angeles that the leases made to the Pan-American Petroleum company were "tainted with the same fraud" that marked other deals between the E. L. Doheny oil interests and former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, who now is serving a prison term for conviction of accepting a bribe from Doheny.

POLICE HOTEL HAS MORE THAN 5,000 GUESTS IN QUARTER

The peak of "business' reached by the city flop house conducted by R. L. McFall was reached Wednesday night with a total of 78 "guests," a check of records by Mr. McFall revealed Saturday night. The flop house was opened Nov. 15, 1931, under the direction of Police Chief Dick Morris. To date Mr. McFall has checked in approximately 5,164 men, representing 40 states of the union, an island republic, and three foreign countries.

The island republic is Haiti, and guests from Mexico City, Germany and Porto Rico have registered. The men are housed for the night with eight stoves furnishing heat and park benches of the city serving as beds. Forty-nine men availed themselves of the opportunity to bunk out of the weather on the opening night and the slowest night's business showed 14 guests.

The majority of the guests are for one night only, but occasionally some one has a desire to see more of Wichita Falls or to seek work here and spends several nights, Chief Morris said. Water connections are available for the guests. Mr. McFall reported 1,095 guests in the first 30 days of operation, with 1,032 through Jan. 15. The business of the flop house depends on weather conditions, as revealed in the peak business of Feb. 3, when the temperature dropped 50 points here.

Links 40 Nations

The United States is now connected by telephone with 40 foreign nations. In this gigantic hookup the American telephone user is in contact with 32,750,000 telephones, or 92 per cent of the world's total.

In 1873, there were 3,000,000 unemployed out of a total United States population of about 40,000,000.

GOVERNOR ILLINOIS SIGNS RELIEF BILLS SPEND $2,000,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Feb. 6. (AP)—Governor Emmerson today signed relief bills for the distribution of $20,000,000 among the unemployed and destitute of the state.

While most of the money probably will be spent in Chicago, an administrative commission will have the right to aid any downstate community in caring for the unemployed.

Downstate members opposed the program on the grounds that it might result in a sharp tax increase, as the plan called for raising the state tax rate 25 or 30 cents, and issuing tax anticipation against this increase.

The increase will not be collected, however, if voters approve a $25,000,000 bond issue in the fall. The bond issue would be retired by gas tax receipts.

Odd Angles Day's News

(By United Press)

NEW YORK.—When Mrs. Abraham Levy sued her 84-year-old husband for separation, the octogenarian asked the court not to grant his wife alimony and counsel fees. Levy said he can't find work and has no independent means.

NEW YORK.—Leon Ben Morris Cohen Segal Lazarowitz, who committed high treason as king of the hoboes last December by getting a job, let it be known today that he is going to go even further. He's going to get married.

CLEVELAND.—"Hands up!" a robber commanded the John Bender family. Father and son, who weigh 200 each, seized him. Police found a wrecked car, a badly frightened robber gasping under the weight of 400 pounds seated on his chest, and a gun pointed at his nose.

LOS ANGELES.—An evil-smelling pipe stood as ground for divorce here today. Mrs. William Kelly was granted a decree after she testified in superior court that Kelly "smoked that pipe until I got so sick I couldn't stay in the house."

CHICKASHA, Okla.—The fire truck came to a stop in front of the First National bank building. "Where's the fire?" asked a bystander. "Right over there," replied Chief Kenneth Wimple. "Ah, that's all right then. I thought it was one of my checks in the bank."

Shriners to Give Dance at Vernon Saturday Evening

J. Marshall Franklin, chairman of the "trips committee" of Maskat temple A. A. O. N. M. S., announces that next Saturday, Feb. 13, at 9:30 p. m. the Shrine will give a dance at Vernon, assisted by Vernon Shriners.

Maskat band and uniformed bodies, led by Potentate Sydney A. Gaines, will leave Maskat temple at 7:30 p. m. by private conveyances for Vernon, but any Shriner entitled to go will be taken along if he does not have his own car, and all are invited. The only requirements are the fez and 1932 card.

It is probable that the dance will be given at the Vernon Country club, but Potentate Gaines, Recorder Al Ellis and Chairman Franklin made a trip to Vernon Saturday to make final arrangements as to the place where the dance will be held. This will be announced later.

Buffalo Provides Touch of Realism Col. Lillie Ranch

INDIAN TRADING POST, Oldtown, Okla., Feb. 6. (UP)—A touch of realism was added to Pawnee Bill's museum today when "King of the Herd," huge buffalo bull, led a stampede this week.

The old bull rebelled when cowboys attempted to move the herd belonging to Maj. Gordon W. Lillie from one pasture to another across the highway. He refused to cross the concrete slab of U. S. highway No. 64.

Bill Penny, wild west show man; Clyde Skeen, buffalo ranch foreman, and Mingo Simon, old-time cowboy, retreated. The herd became restless. Then the bull charged. The cowmen fired several revolver shots.

FARM HAND CONVICTED OF MURDER OF EMPLOYER WIFE SLAIN MAN ACCUSED

PURVIS, Miss., Feb. 6. (INS)—W. R. "Boss" Weatherford, 35-year-old farm hand, was found guilty of the murder of his employer, John Bearman, 50, farmer, here today and sentenced to die on the gallows, March 11.

Weatherford was accused of slaying his employer with a shotgun in order that he might marry Mrs. Dearman and obtain possession of the farm.

Mrs. Ollie Dearman, wife of the slain man, will be tried on a murder charge Wednesday.

Walter Caldwell Named Member of Commission to Make Preparations For Texas Masonic Centennial Fete

WALTER CALDWELL

At the recent annual communication of the grand lodge of Texas, held at Waco, the first steps were taken for the Texas Masonic Centennial celebration. Judge Alva Bryan of Waco, most worshipful grand master of the grand lodge, was authorized to appoint a statewide committee whose duty it shall be to arrange plans for the centennial program. In conjunction with such plans it is contemplated that a new grand lodge temple will be built and if possible, ready for dedication when the grand lodge meets in annual communication in 1935.

Grand Master Bryan has chosen Sam P. Cochran of Dallas, who is past grand master and past grand officer of all other Masonic bodies in Texas, as chairman. Other members of the centennial commission include Dr. A. A. Ross, past grand master, Lockhart; Hardy Petty, grand high priest, Terrell; Judge James W. McClendon, past grand master, Austin; Walter Caldwell, Wichita Falls; T. F. Bush, mayor of Waco; George R. Montgomery, past grand master, Fort Worth; Frank C. Jones, past grand master, Houston; J. R. Posey, Hebbronville; Judge M. A. Childers, past grand master, San Antonio; John Temple Rice, grand commander, Knights Templar of Texas, El Paso; Frank Hartgraves, past grand master, Menard; Will S. Tate, Hamilton; W. Madden Fly, past grand master, Gonzales; C. F. Mays, Amarillo; Galloway Calhoun, Tyler.

Plans for the program have not yet been completed. However, inasmuch as the organization of Masonry in Texas was prior to the formation of the Republic of Texas, there is little doubt that the Masonic Centennial program will have a setting and background typifying the early history of the Lone Star state.

Should the plans for a memorial grand lodge temple materialize it would be erected in memory of the fathers of Texas Freemasonry, including such Masons as Sam Houston, Anson Jones, Stephen F. Austin, General Fannin and others. Those who have been strongly in favor of the erection of a memorial grand lodge temple are ambitious for it to be in keeping with Texas masonry, which institution has grown rapidly within the past few years, maintaining charitable and educational institutions in various parts of the state and supported by various branches of Freemasonry, including the Scottish Rite, the York Rite and the grand chapter. There are approximately one thousand lodges in Texas with an approximate membership of 135,000.

Ladies to Attend Maskat Temple Meeting Tuesday

Sydney Gaines, potentate of Maskat temple A. A. O. N. M. S., will hold the first regular business meeting of the temple under his dispensation Tuesday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p. m. in Maskat temple auditorium on the 13th floor of the City National building.

Following the business meeting, which will end at 8:30, there will be six acts of professional vaudeville under the direction of George Hodgins, which will end at 9:30.

Nobles are urged to bring their ladies, as bridge will be provided by the Daughters of the Nile during the period of the business meeting preceding the vaudeville.

Potentate Gaines plans many high class entertainments for the nobility during the year 1932 and is especially anxious that the nobility attend this first one so that they may judge for themselves the high character of the show which will be given.

The entertainment committee of Maskat temple, which has this meeting in charge, is headed by Emil Hermann, as chairman, with Gerald Pond, J. T. Yeargin, Grover Bullington, S. H. Fagadau, Wayne Holmes, O. N. Mann and Dr. A. H. Douglass as assistants.

MURDER CHARGE FILED AGAINST MAN ACCUSED OF SLAYING HIS WIFE

LAREDO, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—A murder charge was filed today against Cristobal Trevino, rancher, who last Monday afternoon shot and killed his wife, Mrs. Adoracion Dominguez de Trevino, and then fired a bullet into his own abdomen.

Trevino has been in a Laredo hospital since the shooting. His condition was critical but physicians said he had a chance to recover. A police guard was placed over him.

The coroner returned a verdict of murder and attempted suicide in connection with the double shooting. Officers learned that Trevino and his wife who had separated, had quarreled over divorce proceedings.

GREATER NUMBER OF ALIENS LEAVE THAN ENTER U. S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The immigration bureau today announced that 46,217 more aliens left the United States during 1931 than arrived.

Included with figures for December immigration were those for the admissions and departures in the calendar year 1931. Immigrants entering totaled 43,353 and there were 89,570 aliens leaving.

Total arrival of aliens in this country including both immigrant and non-immigrant were 199,964. The non-immigrant classes include tourists and other visitors.

Departures of aliens totaled 294,438 including both classes. Non-emigrants leaving totaled 204,868.

During the year immigration decreased 75.9 per cent in comparison with 1930. The decrease from Europe was 91,783 or 78 per cent; from Canada 31,877 or 77.1, Mexico, 4,234 or 66.4; and from other countries 9,004 or 60.3.

During December the bureau deported 1,336 aliens making a total of 9,234 for the six months from July to December. They included 928 criminals and 486 persons deported for immoral reasons. There were 1,690 indigent aliens removed to their native lands at their own request.

Rudy Came Into World 'Crooning' Says Dad Vallee

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (INS)—When Rudy was a baby, and sat on papa's knee, he never fretted, howled, or yapied; he'd croon instead, you see.

This information was furnished today by Papa Charles Vallee, who is seeking as much publicity for Maine's splendid spuds as his son obtained for Maine's stein song. Rudy, he explained, didn't cry like other babies; he crooned.

Crooning doesn't run in the family, however, said Papa Vallee, who was in Austin today with a Maine boosters' train.

MRS. DOLLY CURTIS GANN SHIES AT MENTION NAME FOR GOVERNOR OF KANSAS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Repeating "Oh, I'm not a candidate," Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann today bowed away from a suggestion she should run for governor of her home state of Kansas.

The sister and official hostess of Vice President Curtis was proposed for the office by Dr. H. D. Patee, schoolmate and lifelong friend of the family. Patee suggested the nomination after Mrs. Gann made a series of political addresses in Kansas and nearby states.

"It's very complimentary," she said when consulted. "It's very kind of them to suggest it. It's the greatest honor in the world. But I'm not a candidate. I was only out there for Mr. Hoover and the Republican ticket."

WILL ROGERS SAYS WAR TO END WARS WAS A BUST

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

By WILL ROGERS

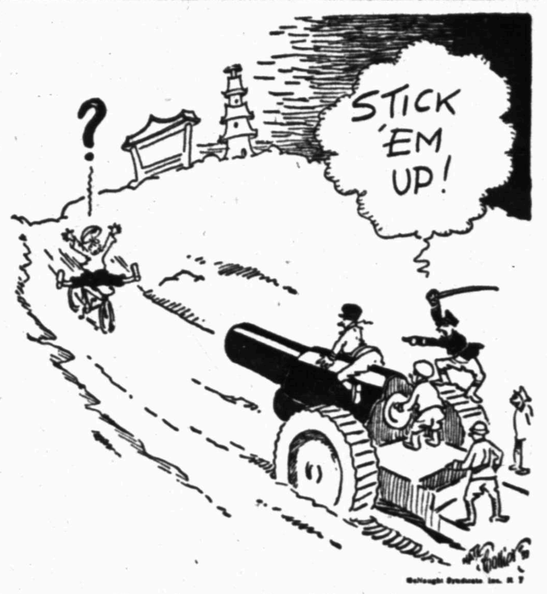

SOMEWHERE EAST OF SUEZ.—By Mail.—Well, all I know is just what I read in the papers, and what I see as I go thither and thither. The thing that makes it tough out here in all these Countries is that you dont get any News, that is I mean OUR news.

My Goodness, I was out here a month before I found out that Notre Dame had lost a Game. Imagine newspapers being printed in any language and in every Country and not having that in it. Now that I have heard it, I cant find out how it happened, so that makes you madder than ever. Well they made a great record, and I bet they give a great account of themselves at that. You see these people have just a few lines of some events that happened back home. But whoever picks em out to print must be some one that was never over home, or if so it was just after the Boxer uprising. Now Congress was to meet at home just a week after I left, now as far as we in the far east are concerned they never did. Of course as far as you all at home are concerned they never did either, but they did meet, I am afraid. What have they done? We cant hear a thing, and I guess you all there cant either, so in lots of respects we are equal.

But darn it, I miss my paper. I used always to sit a long time over breakfast and read my papers, and just think, over here I sit, but thats all. A breakfast dont taste good to me without a good paper.

Japan has one awfully good English speaking paper, its the Tokio Advertiser. Its about the best in the Far East, unless it is Manilla. Course this little one-sided war out here has so upset the news, you dont get anything but it. There is so much Propaganda mixed up in it, on both sides, that they just fill the papers up with a lot of junk put out by whichever Country, the paper happens to be in.

The funniest thing in all the war is that up in Mukden there is about twenty Co-Respondents gathered from all over, and they have been in the one Hotel for over four months, just waiting for the one little Battle that they knew must come, but they dident know when. That is the Battle of Chinchow. They all wanted to go to their various Posts like Shanghai and Peking and back home to spend Xmas, but they couldent leave for fear the Japanese would pull the thing off while they was gone. They sure are a fine bunch of fellows. I was around there with em for about a week. This Mukden that you read all these war Dispatches out of used to be quite a City. Its the Capitol of Manchuria, and was some place in the very old days.

They got guns, so they ain't going to starve

But since the Japanese took it over, and there is martial law, why there is not even a Movie in Town. Over at some other Hotel they have one a week, they of course are all silent. Not only silent but absent.

There is a pretty nice Hotel there, with good food and rooms and Baths, and a Bar. But over in this Country everybody sits down at a Table, and have the drinks brought to em. They sure do like to holler, "Boy-san." I think thats it and it means Boy. They just put the San on to make it harder. Well a Foreigner does like to holler at the Boys, so you have the boy do everything but actually take the drink for you. The American and English, well in fact all the foreign Colony in all these towns like Darien, Mukden and Harbin, all have a Club, which will stand comparison with any of our Clubs over home, and most of their social activities are held there, and their dances and gatherings. There is always the Consuls, of the different Nations. The Standard Oil is in all these, and the Texas Co., Ford's, and General Motors have men. Then up that way you run onto a lot of Fur Men that go to Harbin to get their Furs for you Women. Their headquarters are in Tiensein, China. There is twenty or thirty of those that are American Buyers, Kolinsky is the main fur, and then the Mongolian Dog, its a sort of a half wild dog. Well they render that up into pretty near any fur you call for, but its originally Mutt.

First Class Rail Service

The Trains on the South Manchurian Railway are very nice up to date Trains, thats the line that the war is over, as the Japanese say they are doing all this to protect that line. Course they have gone out three or four hundred miles on each side to do it, but its supposed to be all just to protect their line. They do run anything in first class shape. Their trains are always clean and right on time, sleepers are some of them like ours, but most of them are the European style. Wagon Lits (like France's). They are the best kind; they beat ours.

Course some of those lines there is a lot of robberies on. The Chinese lines are not so well protected now. For the Japanese have kinder got em all dissorganized and the Chinese dont know whether to run em or leave em. But the Japanese say they are not safe on account of the Bandits. Course there is naturally lots of Bandits, for the Chinese Army has been kinder let go, so they got nothing to do but Banditry. There is no work and nothing to eat, and they got Guns, so they aint going to starve.

But its a rich Country in resources, and they will be fighting over it for years, for Russia is in the Northern end and Japan in the Southern, now they aint going to live in the same kennell, and when Russia gets ready, if this scheme of theirs even just half way works, they are building up a big Army, and a great air force, and they havent forgot the Russo-Japanese war yet. So that will be a real war, for dont you let any one tell you these little Japanese are not Soldiers. They fight, and will be hard to lick, so dont put all your money on peace. War to end wars was a bust.

Raphael, greatest of all painters, first won his reputation as an architect.

OLD DOCTOR ESCAPES GALL BLADDER OPERATION

An old German physician, Dr. H. S. Hildebrand, many years ago, was severely suffering from what appeared to be a Gall Stone Trouble. He was frequently subject to colic attacks, gas pains, indigestion, pain in sides, back and around the liver. Rather than to submit to an operation he decided to treat his own case. So successful was he in his efforts he prescribed the same treatment to other sufferers. The amazing results they reported is convincing evidence of the merit of this preparation. Through the Dr. Hildebrand's Laboratories, Dept. 81-K, 155 N. Union Ave., Chicago, Ill., sufferers from Gall Stone, Gall Bladder and allied Liver and Stomach ailments everywhere may obtain a test of this splendid treatment free by writing to the above address at once.—Adv.

LAUNCH DRIVE ANTI-HOARDING UNITED STATES

Leaders 50 National Organizations Cooperate With President

STATEMENT IS ISSUED BY PRESIDENT HOOVER

Offices Will Be Opened on Monday With Frank Knox in Charge

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (US)—With the leaders of 50 national organizations cooperating, President Hoover today launched his nation-wide anti-hoarding campaign in the hope that it would put $1,500,000,000 back into circulation and materially ease the depression.

The leaders met with him in his office. The president made a brief talk in which he pointed out that this money must be put back into circulation at once or the economic situation would grow worse instead of improving. He said the situation is in reality an emergency.

Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, also made brief talks.

Organization representatives in turn pledged their active support.

White House Statement

The White House following the conference issued this statement:

"The result of hoarding is to immobilize a large portion of the national gold supply and cause drastic deflation and credit contraction and seriously to restrict business expansion and maintenance of employment and seriously to affect commodity prices.

"It was pointed out by many of the leaders that a dollar hoarded not only ceases to perform its function as currency but destroys $5 to $10 credit. A dollar in the hands of a hoarder is just a dollar, but a hoarded dollar in the hands of a bank or wisely invested will furnish the basis for $10 or credit.

"It was agreed that a large portion of the hoarding was due to misunderstanding of the national effect, that it arose out of unnecessary fears and apprehensions and that nothing could contribute more to the resumption of employment, to the stability of agricultural and other commodity prices. To restore this money to work would turn the tide of depression on the way to prosperity."

Offices of the new organization will be opened here next Monday with Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher in charge.

SHADOW OF BRYAN BEFORE COMMITTEE IN SILVER APPEAL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The shadow of William Jennings Bryan was cast before a senate committee today as representatives of half a million farmers pleaded for free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold.

Many of the arguments that punctuated the presidential campaign in 1896 were raised again as the national farmers' union asked a senate finance sub-committee to approve the Wheeler bill for remonitization of silver at the Bryan ratio.

John Simpson, national president of the union, headed a delegation of 70 farmers from nine western states to ask for the bimetallic standard to bring back good times.

Remonitization of silver, they said, would make it possible for the farmers to pay their debts with the same value of dollar they borrowed.

The American fishing industry is valued at more than half a billion dollars. It employs 136,000 persons.

FIRST PHOTO OF SANTIAGO EARTHQUAKE DAMAGE

This picture, rushed by special plane from the scene to Atlanta, Ga., and telephotoed from there for The Daily Times by NEA Service, Inc., shows the damage done to buildings on one of the main streets of Santiago, Cuba, by an earthquake. Although millions of dollars in property damage was done by the tremblor, and close to a thousand persons injured, only nine lives are known to have been lost. The city has been put under martial rule. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc., telephoto).

WHITHER FLAMING YOUTH?

As Told to Bessie K. Roberts

By MEREDITH NICHOLSON

(Copyright by Public Ledger)

The get-rich-quick idea that dominates modern life, the desire for instantaneous success, for results without effort, the substitution of rackets for honest toil—these are some of the chief menaces of a healthy social life today. At least this is the conclusion of Frank Loesch, of Chicago, head of the Chicago crime commission.

Frank Loesch

Mr. Loesch has given considerable thought to a diagnosis of the present hectic symptoms. And although they are discouraging, he is not pessimistic. He sees hope in an enlightened public mind. Analysis and discussion of the problems involved are bound to bring about enlightenment, he believes.

"You can't blame crime solely on prohibition, either," Mr. Loesch stated emphatically. "Many try to, I know. But if prohibition was to blame, why weren't our prisons empty before we had it?"

Mr. Loesch has been active in civic life in Chicago for 50 years. He was chairman of the board of education from 1898 to 1902 and has held many other positions of responsibility in addition to his present connection with the great crime commissions. He has seen Chicago grow from a city of 300,000 people to a great metropolis of more than three million during the years of his active law practice. In the same period of time the surrounding country has increased in population from 25,000 to 350,000.

This change from farm to urban population which has taken place in the last 50 years, together with the rapid growth of our big cities, has much to do with the worries of the present crime commissions. Along with this unwieldly growth have come the development of organized crime and the demoralization of municipal government.

The chief manifestation of moral laxness in the present generation is their unstable character, Mr. Loesch says. They are unstable in their thoughts, too, he says, if they have any thoughts, which he is inclined to doubt. Consequently the next generation, their offspring, will be even more emotional and unstable than we are today.

"There is a tendency in modern life to destroy steadiness of purpose. There is an unwillingness to persist in a line of work or study which does not produce instant results. It is impossible, it seems, for the youth today to see that all the good work in the world is the result of deep thought in seclusion over a long time, together with work to put the thought into effect. Therefore the children of the present generation, it would seem to me, will fall heir to the lack of character which is so evident in the youth of today.

"I cannot get away from the conviction that a deep and fervid religion is essential to building character in boys and girls, men and women, youth as well as adults. The abandonment of religion, the scorning of it, the devoting thought to doing as little work as possible and devoting as much time as can be gained from work and sleep to the pursuit of pleasure, is bound to have a great prejudicial influence on character.

"I see in young people today and in their descendants in time less ability to suffer the difficulties and inconveniences of life. These cannot be escaped. They must be met with fortitude and fortitude is sustained by character."

As Mr. Loesch outlined his convictions concerning modern youth, the kindly face of Lincoln, with furrowed brow and the marks of strength and suffering plainly to be seen, looked down upon his desk. Lincoln, the patron saint of all Illinois lawyers. Could this generation breed another Lincoln if there was need of such a leader? Mr. Loesch expressed his doubt of such a possibility.

This lack of fortitude and religious faith Mr. Loesch sees as the main stumbling-block in the way of a solution of our present-day problems.

"I ascribe so much of the failure of young people in business, in the work they have to do, to their lack of thoroughness. They are not taught to obey. Consequently, they lack the very foundations of good character—thoroughness and obedience to authority."

"Where do you think the future leadership will come from?" I asked him.

"Well, I used to think that it would come from the educated men who have crowded in untold numbers into the colleges. But 10 years of that hasn't shown any evidence of leadership. Maybe there is too much scholastic education and not enough knowledge of human nature in the colleges. There seems to be a lack of leadership among young people. Although it may be too much to expect following such conditions as we have had for the last 50 years.

"However, I am not pessimistic. I am hoping the newer tendencies in education will bring forth something. At least education is not controlled by the materialistic view. There is that much to be said for it.

"As to the crime situation, that is due to the indifference of the American people to what injury the lack of law enforcement was bound to bring. However, they are waking up by reason of great economic loss."

The whole situation, Mr. Loesch believes, is a disgrace to criminal law. This statement applies to the large centers, he added. Organized crime has gripped the United States from one end to the other. The reorganization of the police force along different lines must be sought. The police force must be taken out of the control of the politician, and the public mind must be educated to believe that the safety and security of life and property is the first requisite of good government and civilization.

The most discouraging phase of the situation to Mr. Loesch is the extent to which youths are involved. The bad environment is the slums and the depressed centers of population in our cities are sending youth in large numbers into criminal gangs. But the alliance of the criminal and the politician is becoming daily more apparent to the intelligent public, he believes. This fact will have its effect in the severance of political control over the police court, which is the great weakness of the system.

The materialism of the age has largely submerged the spiritual element and has lowered our moral standards, Mr. Loesch believes. It is now more difficult to bring about charges against criminals.

"I have given much thought to this problem: that is, to what specifically will be the effect on the next generation of the conditions we face in our country today. I have given it much thought and considerable worry. But I am not pessimistic. There are some signs of moral health. And I hope to live to see a public educated out of its indifference and lethargy in the course of my lifetime."

LONG DEPLORES DEMO PARALYSIS

rooster with the victor pecking us on the head and all standing there bleeding, taking it, except that some seem to have taken it upon themselves to act as the outer guard to veil the Republican disciples. You get the impression that there is a great sign in front of you which reads:

"Touch not the anointed and do my prophets no harm," which, if you take it from the Bible and apply it to the present conditions means this:

"The world is disgusted with Hoover and Hooverism and with Mellon and Mellonism, past, present and future. We've had 12 years of it and now with the country anxiously awaiting the Democrats to deliver the blow, there seems plenty of them ready to step out in front of the Republican hall and support everything that Hoover, Mellon or Daugherty want, backing and supporting everything they propose and stand for.

Democrats Help

The Federal Trade commission is a stench in the nostrils of the American people, yet with the help of the Democratic votes in the senate they are confirming their members. With Fall in the penitentiary, Daugherty and Denby on the shelf, stool pigeons of Mellon have carried along and have been able to pretty well boss the affairs of the Republican party.

You can note no change and in 12 years they have brought us to bankruptcy, disaster and distress. They have rebated the big corporations on the taxes they have paid in until they have broken the United States treasury and now to help them out of this dilemma in which they find themselves, there is an air in congress to take these billions of dollars in rebates accorded the big corporations out of the hides of the little two by four federal employes throughout the country.

Then, to send it off just right, Brother Hoover starts up the band and we Democrats line up and beat the drums for Hoover and Mellon and all they have done and meant to this country. And thus, Mr. Mellon leaves to meddle on two scores instead of one, bearing the stamp of the Democrats as well as that of Daugherty, Hoover, Denby and Phil.

And so on—ho hum, I guess I'll go back to the senate in a few days.

VERDICT IN ALLEN CASE 'NOT GUILTY'

were outstretched for him to grasp.

As quickly as he could be taken through the crowd he was escorted from the place into a nearby room where he met friends and relatives.

Newspaper men were restrained from leaving the room while the contempt proceedings were being conducted by the court. After testimony of a number of newspaper men, the offending reporter was discharged.

Half an hour before the jury rendered its verdict it came into court for instructions on the law of justifiable homicide in the case of self-defense.

The court told the jurors if the defendant "believed himself in danger of great bodily harm, then he was justified in shooting Donaldson."

Courtroom in Confusion

When the court finally adjourned tonight after the verdict was rendered and Allen was discharged, the courtroom was in confusion. Spectators leaped over the seats and walked across tables to members of the Allen family, attorneys, and others identified with the trial to offer congratulations unable to reach Allen in the prisoner's room to which he was taken, his friends milled about and cheered him. The courthouse tonight was surrounded by a crowd of several thousand persons, clamoring to get into the courtroom or waiting to hear the verdict.

There were shouts "we want Lucas." The shouts were more jeers than threats and police paid little attention to them.

Give Ways to Tears

Shortly after young Allen was taken to the side room, Rose was brought in. She ran to the outstretched arms of her nervous but smiling brother, buried her head on his shoulders and gave way to tears.

"Oh, Eddie," she cried.

"Oh, sister," said Eddie.

The father who has been ill since the shooting and in danger of collapse, showed his first broad smile since the trial started.

Henry G. Pearce, close friend of the Allen family, said a permanent reconciliation had been effected. Prior to the trial Rose had visited her brother only once or twice in jail and barely had spoken to her father. She was said to have been embittered because the father was the first to make public her alleged relationship with Donaldson.

This Business Boomed

The United States produced more than 253,000,000 pairs of boots and shoes during the first nine months of 1931. This is an increase of 5.3 per cent over the production of the same period of 1930.

WALTER ASHCRAFT WILL MAKE RACE FOR CONSTABLE

"In making this announcement for the office of constable for precinct No. 1, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July, I do so of my own free will and accord and, if elected, will serve the people of this precinct without dictation from any man or group of men. I shall endeavor to enforce the law without fear or favor.

"For the past nine years I have been a resident of Wichita Falls and for the past 12 months I have operated the Courthouse Shoe shop. Prior to buying the Courthouse Shoe shop, I was engaged in the grocery business and general contracting. I own my home in Wichita Falls and pay taxes here and intend to remain here whether successful in this race or not.

"If elected I shall give my best services to the people of this precinct and believe that, due to my past experience in business, can give the people the kind of service they desire as their constable."

WOMAN BELIEVES MAN IN GALVESTON HOSPITAL LONG MISSING HUSBAND

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Flora Rothman was here today in an effort to check the identity of a "man of mystery" who was held in a hospital here for a month as an amnesia victim. She believed the man to be her husband, H. E. Rothman, who disappeared from Fayetteville, Ark.

The man picked up wandering aimlessly on Austin streets, told police and hospital authorities that his name was "James E. Wilson," but was unable to satisfactorily otherwise identify himself.

After weeks of observation the hospital authorities transferred the man to the state phychopathic hospital in Galveston.

After talking with hospital attendants about the patient who puzzled Austin police and medical authorities, she expressed an opinion the man was her missing husband and left for Galveston.

Mrs. Rothman said her husband disappeared in March, 1927, while they were in Arkansas and that she had no trace of him since.

BOTH SIDES EXPECTED TO BE READY FOR TRIAL OF SCHUYLER MARSHALL

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—Both state and defense attorneys are expected to be ready when Schuyler B. Marshall Jr., former Dallas county sheriff, and three other defendants answer in district court here Monday to burglary charges before Judge Tom Ball.

Other defendants are Herbert Scales, Dallas clubman; J. Robert Kelly and H. W. McBride. Each is now at liberty on bond, excepting McBride.

All were indicted on burglary charges in connection with an attempt to rob the F. & M. State bank at Ferris last Nov. 17.

FOR CONSTABLE

WALTER ASHCRAFT

HOUSTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Sam F. Aiken late today circulated a petition here asking the governor of Georgia to commute the death sentence facing her husband in Atlanta.

Aiken, who escaped a death cell in Atlanta 18 months ago, 12 days ahead of his scheduled electrocution was recaptured here Thursday through the vigilance of a reader of Detective Magazine, who had recognized a picture of the fugitive in the publication.

Aiken, slayer of his former wife and Boyce Hunter, a neighbor, had been living here under an assumed name, and married his present wife after he "settled down" here. Until his arrest, she did not know his record.

Atlanta officers were expected here tonight for the prisoner.

"I took this man as my husband —for better or for worse," said Mrs. Aiken today, "and as long as breath is in his body I will never leave him."

Will Go to Georgia

She said she would follow him to Georgia when the officers take him back there.

"I don't know how, but I will get there," she said. "I will not let him face death alone. If it is necessary I will walk there, catching rides when I can. I haven't the money to pay my fare.

"Sam was sick and we had run out of money. He had only been out of bed four days when the officers came. He had been in bed for more than a month with intestinal flu and congested lungs."

Mrs. Aiken said she went to see W. B. McClain, who recognized Aiken's photograph in a detective story magazine and "turned him in" to police.

"I asked him why he did it, if Mr. Aiken ever harmed him," said Mrs. Aiken. "He said no, but said he thought it was his duty to tell the police. He asked me to leave him my address and when he received the reward for turning Sam in he would divide with me.

"I told him no. I do not want money in that manner. I hope when he gets it, it will bring happiness to him and his wife."

IDA M. DARDEN TO RUN FOR CONGRESS ON WET PLATFORM

HOUSTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Ida M. Darden, former editor of the Southern Tariff Advocate and connected with Southern Tariff association headquarters in Washington, D. C., announced today her candidacy for congressman-at-large, advocating repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"I will make my campaign on the prohibition issue only," her announcement stated, "and will advocate the outright repeal of the 18th amendment, returning the liquor question to the states, where, under our original constitution, it properly belongs. Pending the certain final repeal of the amendment, I favor modification of the Volstead law.

WOMAN THROWS INFANT INTO BLAZING FURNACE

AKRON, Ohio, Feb. 6. (AP)—Mrs. Anna Benko, 43, today threw her ninth child, born only two days ago, into a blazing furnace, police said.

The woman, according to her husband, George Benko, 44, a truck driver, has been in a highly nervous condition several years and he feared she was mentally unbalanced.

Coroner M. B. Crafts said he would return a verdict of infanticide.

LEADER IN HOUSE NOT IN FAVOR OF DOLE FOR STATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (US)—Opposition to federal loans to states for direct unemployment relief was voiced by house democratic leader Rainey of Illinois, today.

"I am not in favor of a dole for states.

"A hundred years ago there was so much money in the federal treasury it was loaned to the state and they never paid it back.

"States won't pay back this sum if it is loaned. If the government is to distribute relief it had better do so directly.

"I hope direct relief will not be necessary, but we cannot tell now. The United States cannot let its people starve. If the states and local charities cannot take care of the needs the federal government must do so."

PARENTS OF SLAIN YOUTH ASK $75,000 DAMAGES IN SUIT

HENRIETTA, Texas, Feb. 6.—Damages of $75,000 for the death of his son are asked in a suit filed by J. R. Wood against N. W. Threadgill. Mr. Woods is joined in the suit by his wife Mrs. Lizzie Wood and their three sons.

Ray Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wood, plaintiffs in the case, was shot to death at the farm home of his brother near here on Jan. 26. Threadgill was arrested a few hours later and charges of murder filed against him. The Wood family were tenants on the Threadgill farm.

WILSON TELLS OF INDUSTRIAL TRAFFIC WORK

University Professor Has Strong Article on Management

GIVES DETAILED FACTS CONCERNING IMPORTANCE

Dudley B. Foy, Traffic Man For Wichita C-C, Is Impressed

Dudley B. Foy, traffic manager of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce, has called attention to an article on "The New Industrial Traffic Management" in the January issue of Trucking and Transit. The article, written by G. Lloyd Wilson, Ph. D., of the University of Pennsylvania, has caused considerable comment by traffic managers throughout this section of the country.

Excerpts from Dr. Wilson's article follow:

If there ever was a time in the economic history of the United States when the services of industrial traffic management was needed by industrial concerns and commercial organizations that time is now! Business is at the crossroads. Changes in business require different methods in production, purchasing, advertising and selling in order to meet the new and exacting requirements of consumption. New transportation practices must be developed and existing means of transportation must be used with the utmost efficiency in order to meet the new standards of production and distribution. The industrial and commercial manager of today and tomorrow must be more than an expert buyer of transportation—he must be an expert in the transportation aspects of production and distribution. He must be an industrial executive familiar with the transportation business and a transportation expert familiar with manufacturing and distribution.

Grows Professional

One of the striking developments in American industry in the past quarter century, and particularly in the past 10 years, is the growing professionalization of the specialized vocations connected with industrial activity. New groups of technically trained specialists have appeared upon the business horizon in response to the demand for accountants, engineers, sales and advertising executives, purchasing agents, and traffic managers. The function of the executives in industry has ceased to be the supervision of the details of all phases and branches of industrial activity and has become chiefly concerned with the executive control of the work of the specialists in charge of the various departmental activities and the formulation of policy. The trained professional specialists attend to the administration of their respective staffs of employes who devote their energies to the purchasing, selling, advertising, production, accounting, engineering or traffic problems of the companies.

Every vocational classification is not necessarily a profession. In order to qualify as a profession, several tests must be applied. In the first place no vocation is worthy of classification unless there is a body of technical data which must be mastered before those who seek to enter the field are qualified to do so.

In the second place, a reasonable period of training, instruction and practical experience under the supervision and direction of those who have already qualified as practitioners in the field must be undergone by those who seek to enter the profession. This period is one of general and specialized education and apprenticeship.

A third test of professional status is the spirit of public service which should pervade those in any vocational group which aspires to be a true profession. Those engaged in any profession are justified in expecting financial reward in proportion to the length and expense of the period of preparation, the degree of skill required and effort expended in serving the public, but the point of view of those in the group should not be crassly mercenary and they should not use their art solely to advance their own possession of material wealth. The desire of the member of a professional group should be to serve the public to the best of his ability and to advance his profession in prestige by public service, and in this way serve his own enlightened self-interest. Income is an important consideration, but it should not be the only incentive to those in a professional group.

Code of Ethics

A final test of professional status is the code of ethics which governs the transactions of members of a profession in their dealings with each other and with others outside the profession. A high standard of ethical conduct is needed in order to safeguard the interests of the individual members of the group and to advance the reputation and standing of the group as a whole.

Traffic management qualifies as a profession on all four of these counts. It is in the process of evolution from a vocation to a profession, and the services of industrial and commercial traffic managers in these times of unrest and perplexity in business, if done wisely and well, will contribute greatly to the progress of the group toward professional status as well as enhance the reputations of individual members of the profession. Careful, constructive and conservative management of the transportation problems of the industries and associations which employ their services are needed in order to conserve and develop business and to preserve the various rail, water, highway and air transportation services.

Traffic management affords a large measure of personal satisfaction to those who labor in the field.

Traffic and transportation work constitutes a public service of great value. Quite aside from the material rewards of traffic work and the personal satisfaction to be derived in this field, there is the real reward of the worker in the knowledge that the work he is doing contributes greatly to the economic and social progress of the world. Transportation makes it possible for the goods of all countries and climes to be exchanged so that the people of all progressive nations have at their command great varieties of food, clothing, and the niceties that make life comfortable and enjoyable. Cheap and rapid transportation has advanced the standards of living of the great masses of people throughout the world and particularly in the United States. Improved use of traffic facilities will increase this contribution.

JOE W. TYSON TO MAKE RACE OFFICE OF TAX ASSESSOR

Joe W. Tyson, a native Wichitan and a member of one of the pioneer families of Wichita Falls, announces his candidacy for the office of tax assessor of Wichita county.

Mr. Tyson has spent his entire life in Wichita Falls, except the time he served his country during the world war.

For the past two years he has been connected with the Wichita County Water Improvement district's tax office, where he has received valuable experience in tax assessing work, which he believes, makes him well qualified for the important office of Wichita county tax assessor.

He intends to make the race as a staunch supporter of the proposed legislation to relieve the overburdened taxpayers of the state.

Mr. Tyson says:

"I most earnestly desire to serve the people of Wichita county in this capacity and any consideration of my qualifications which the voters of Wichita county can give me will be most highly appreciated.

If elected I promise I will render conscientious, impartial and wholehearted service to the public. I promise efficiency and economy in the carrying out of the duties of this office, being always mindful of the taxpayers' problems."

WIDOW FILES $100,000 SUIT

Charges Alienation After Death of Husband

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 5. (INS)—A man who has been dead nearly two months figured in a unique court case here today when Mrs. W. W. Hoagland, widow of a millionaire lumberman, filed a $100,000 alienation of affection suit against Mrs. Margaret Shotwell, socially prominent widow.

Mrs. Hoagland, whose husband committed suicide Dec. 9, charged in her petition that Mrs. Shotwell won the dead man's affection 17 years ago, and held it until his death.

Institution of Mrs. Hoagland's suit followed an attempt by Mrs. Shotwell to collect a $50,000 note given her by Mr. Hoagland shortly before his death.

The note specified that the $50,000 was to be paid "for value received" and contained the phrase, "You are the only person who ever gave me any happiness."

In her petition, Mrs. Hoagland said, "I stood for this sort of thing for 17 years, but when, after she took my husband's love, she tried to take part of the money he left me, I felt it time to take definite action."

Both the Hoaglands and the Shotwells are prominent in Omaha society.

IOWA PARK PUPILS TO BEGIN TRAINING FOR COUNTY MEET

IOWA PARK, Texas, Feb. 6.—Iowa Park teachers and pupils are beginning training preliminary to round robin and county meets. Track practice will start Monday under Coach Euclid Payne. Practice will also start in tennis, declamation, spelling, extemporaneous speaking and essay.

Girl debaters are organizing with the following groups: Mattie Fielder and Alice Faye McKinney; Josephine George and Chlotilde McDonald; Roxie Spruiell and Winnie Cherry. The boys' team is composed of Neal Monroe and Cleburne Maier, with prospect of another group forming within the week. With a four-week tryout during which these groups will meet each other to determine eliminations, the representatives of Iowa Park schools in the round robin and county meet will be selected, the winners in the round robin and the winner of the county meet will contest for county championship.

AMUSEMENTS

Wallace Beery and Clark Gable In 'Hell Divers' at Majestic Theater; 'Heaven on Earth' Showing at State

Clark Gable and Wallace Beery, the stars of the romantic breath-taking air spectacle, "Hell Divers" are a fascinating study in contrasts. Beery is gruff, two-fisted, a hard guy with a soft heart. And he's real and human and likeable. Gable, on the other hand, is young, quick, eager and romantic; a man's man whose ardent love making causes feminine hearts to flutter. They are as different as day and night, these two men. Yet they do have one characteristic in common. They are both real and likable; you can't help but cheer them on no matter what they undertake.

In "Hell Divers" they form a grand combination. They are both daring, reckless aviators. Each is motivated by a great ambition to do outstanding work in the air service. And each has a woman he loves; a woman who trusts him and patiently waits for him to return to her arms.

From its very first scene, "Hell Divers" builds suspense, sweeping through exciting and believable sequences to a powerful and stirring climax.

"Passionate Plumber"

Tuesday the Majestic presents one of the biggest comedy sensations of 1932, "Passionate Plumber" with Buster Keaton and Jimmie "Snozzle" Durante. Every one remembers "Long Beeser" Durante, and for real laughs you need no introduction to "Stone-Faced" Keaton. Louise Fazenda gives you a few laughs while you are catching your breath laughing at Keaton and Durante and as a word of warning, if you don't like to laugh we advise you not to see "Passionate Plumber."

"Lovers Courageous"

Robert Montgomery, one of the screen's most popular personalities will be seen at the Majestic starting next Friday for four days in "Lovers Courageous."

Montgomery's role is that of a happy, go lucky Englishman whose ambition is to be a playwright and who consequently is always in hot water with his narrow minded father, who wants to make a postmaster of his son. The result is that he runs away from home and after a series of interesting adventures as a sailor cowboy and hotel porter in various parts of the world, finally winds up in British South Africa. Here he falls in love with the daughter of an admiral, but the family discovers the affair and Montgomery and Madge Evans carry you through many humorous situations.

And that isn't all. You will see a Mickey Mouse cartoon comedy and news.

LEW AYRES AT STATE IN "HEAVEN ON EARTH"

Only a few short months ago a young movie player was introduced to screen fans in a startling and widely heralded attraction, one that commanded the attention and respect of those who heretofore had cared little for pictures, and one that called for superb acting. That picture was "All Quiet on the Western Front," the star being Lew Ayres. Since that time Lew Ayres, now a star, has climbed rapidly, both in ability to act and in public approval. His latest attraction is "Heaven on Earth" which opens at the State, Sunday, for a three-day engagement. Supporting Ayres is another seemingly new but well known, Anita Louise, as the feminine lead.

"Heaven on Earth" is a dramatic story of life on and near the great Mississippi river, it's climax coming as the great body of water floods an entire countryside, breaking through levee's which form its banks and bringing destruction to thousands within its reach.

"Her Majesty Love"

Wednesday the attraction will change to "Her Majesty Love," featuring Marilyn Miller, Ben Lyon and Leon Errol. Supporting comedians in this attraction are Chester Conklin, Ford Sterling and W. C. Fields. Briefly "Her Majesty Love" is light, frivolous entertainment, bearing all the tuneful music, clever wisecracks and 10-years-ahead-of-times rhythm that one could ever expect to find in one picture.

Saturday, only, Mae Clarke will be seen in "Reckless Living." The large supporting cast includes Norman Foster, Slim Summerville and Marie Prevost.

Marie Dressler And Polly Moran Gem in 'Politics'

And what a star! Not only does she figures in some of the biggest laughs an audience ever enjoyed, but, in other parts of the picture, presents character delineation ranging from the pathetic to a dominant personality routing an entire city government.

Miss Dressler plays a housewife in a small town who, when racketeers kill the daughter of a neighbor, resolves to clean up the town. She organizes the women's vote, runs for mayor with Polly Moran as her political manager, exposes graft and braves the underworld, routs racketeers—and even calls the women of the town out on strike against their husbands to win the campaign. And how she does!

Polly Moran and she have hilarious sequences in the political rally and stage a dramatic quarrel, too.

POLA NEGRI ENGAGED TO WED CHICAGO RESIDENT WHOSE NAME IS SECRET

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Pola Negri says she is engaged to marry a Chicago man but his name is a secret.

She did say, however, that "he is wintering at his estate in Montecito, Calif.," adding "that my next husband is going to be some one whom every one looks up to and admires."

Miss Negri, who is appearing on the stage of a loop theater, has been twice married to European nobility.

Sarg Marionettes Coming to Junior College Thursday

Tony Sarg's marionettes, which appeared in Wichita Falls early last year at the Junior college, will arrive Thursday for a return engagement under the auspices of the high school and college public speaking department, according to information given by Miss Juanita Kinsey, head of the department.

They will be presented at the college in two performances. At the matinee, given especially for students, they will present "Alice in Wonderland." The evening production will be "The Rose and the Ring," by Thackeray.

The Tony Sarg company, the original puppet show of the United States, carries about 100 wooden actors which are manipulated by a company of eight dramatic and musical artists.

Ticket sales for the show will start Monday, according to an announcement made Friday by Registrar A. K. Presson, who is acting as business manager.

VALENTINE PARTY GIVEN MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

The Memorial auditorium was the scene of a colorful and pretty valentine party Friday evening when members of the David C. McCaleb auxiliary and local post Spanish War Veterans were delightfully entertained.

The affair was sponsored by the losing team in the recent auxiliary membership drive contest.

Miss Ethel Rouesche gave a reading, and Miss Melba Miller, a piano number. A quartet composed of L. E. Miller, W. L. Dalton, E. O. Roberts and D. N. Rouesche sang a group of songs, with Mrs. W. W. Noe at the piano.

Hostesses for the evening were Mesdames R. W. Oakey, L. E. Miller, E. R. Loftin, J. O. Bradshaw, J. A. Giddings, O. McLean, A. L. Love, J. M. Stroud, O. Renry, M. Newman and H. F. Rodgers.

About 50 members and guests were present.

Urge Flu Safeguards

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Although virtually free of influenza, an active campaign is being waged in Munday to urge that preventive safeguards be taken following appearance of the illness in epidemic form in several nearby communities. Physicians, school teachers and civic organizations are participating in the campaign which is designed to spread information as to safeguards which can be taken.

CHARGES AT WACO IN COUNTERFEITING CASE AGAINST TRIO

WACO, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—Counterfeiting charges were filed here today against three men arrested by United States secret service agents.

W. O. Cain Jr., Joe Tucker and Cecil Miller were accused of passing, attempting to pass and possessing spurious $10 gold certificates of the Dallas Federal Reserve bank. Bond of $5,000 was set for each.

The defendants were alleged to have committed the offenses here two weeks ago, tendering the bills to theaters. They were arrested by the sheriff at Centerville.

Six other alleged members of a counterfeiting ring were under bonds of $110,000 each at Tyler after being charged by secret service agents.

They were Ben W. Quinn, E. Dewey Miller, Bennett B. Lane and Clarence Mohon, arrested at Dallas; and W. L. Stephens and Johnnie Long, arrested at Gladewater.

The ring was said to have operated mainly in the oil fields but numerous complaints have come from other Texas points.

DELAY ACTION ON STAY EXECUTION IN ROBISON CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6. (UP)—Action on the application of D. E. Robison, Cherokee county commissioner, for a stay of execution on District Judge W. A. Woodruff's order ousting him, was delayed until Monday by the state supreme court today.

The order made against Robison, a Democrat, which ousts him from office until the case is decided in the supreme court, was made because Robison was appointed by Governor Murray to succeed a Republican commissioner.

Robison is seeking the stay of execution in order to continue in the office until the case is decided.

The case will determine two interesting points of law regarding appointment of commissioners by the governor, attorneys pointed out.

One is whether the governor has the right to fill vacancies at his will regardless of political affiliation.

The other is whether a political party is considered as a person or corporation entitled to bring ouster proceedings.

Houston B. Teehee, attorney for Robison, is a candidate from that district for the supreme court in the next election opposing Justice W. H. Kornegay. Judge Kornegay heard Teehee's pleas in the Robison case today.

Epidemic Cause Halt in Program For Scout Week

The father and son hike Sunday and all other events scheduled this week as a part of the international Boy Scout anniversary celebration have been cancelled because of the influenza epidemic, according to Scout Executive Frank Creighton.

Mr. Creighton said this action had been taken following a conference with James H. Allison, president of the area council; Dr. Austin F. Leach, chairman of the committee on health and safety; W. Ralph Hyer, chairman of publicity; and other scout officials.

GOVERNOR MURRAY SEEKS INFORMATION AS TO LAWS AFFECTING STATE BANKS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6. (UP)—Information on legal matters affecting Oklahoma banks was sought today from M. B. Cope, state banking department attorney, by Gov. W. H. Murray. Legislation pending before congress prompted the inquiry, it was thought.

"The governor did not direct inquiry along any particular line," Cope said. "The suggestions were of a general nature."

Certain changes in banking laws are being considered because of changed economic and financial conditions.

SURVIVORS OF TUSCANIA HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Feb. 6. (AP)—A hundred survivors of the torpedoed British transport Tuscania met here last night exactly 14 years to the hour after the German submarine U-77 sent the craft to the bottom off the coast of Scotland.

The Tuscania Survivors association meets annually to commemorate the event. Two hundred and twenty-five Americans lost their lives when the ship went down.

Among greetings read was one from Capt. Wilhelm Meyer, master of the U-77. Messages also were received from officers of British destroyers who aided in rescuing the 1,954 survivors.

American Symphony Conductor, 70, Looks to New Musical Achievements

Walter Johannes Damrosch . . . is looking forward.

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 6.—The years of Walter Johannes Damrosch have reached three score and ten. But the dean of American symphony conductors is looking forward, his kindly blue eyes, like his ambition, still undimmed.

He refuses even to speculate on the time of his retirement. His 70th birthday means just another Saturday to him—another day of hard work, and preparation for other busy days to come.

Of course he will cherish the stack of telegrams and letters that represent the well-wishes of the world's musically-great on this anniversary. But he will value them no more than the usual run of fan mail with which he regularly is deluged.

For Damrosch remains awed by the scope of the radio work through which his old fame has been renewed a thousand-fold. He delights in explaining that one of his broadcast programs today is heard by more people than he reached with personal appearances during his entire career.

Couldn't Retire

"It was five years ago that I resigned as conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra," he recalled. "At that time I had dreamed of a lazy, hazy life of retirement—done with all the frantic activity of so many years.

"But then the radio came along and swept me right back into the whirlpool. I'm enjoying it immensely, too."

As some 6,000,000 school children and perhaps as many adults know, Walter Damrosch conducts music appreciation programs over a nation-wide network on Friday mornings, and regular symphony concerts on Sundays. Thousands of schools have made his appreciation series a part of their regular work.

Millions of Aristocrats

"I am humbly grateful," Damrosch resumed, "that such a chance came to me at my time of life. I do not believe that any other musician ever had a comparable opportunity.

"Good music is becoming democratized. Every week I speak and play to 'common people' who now know what Wagner, Brahms, Mozart and Beethoven really mean. Through the cultivation of their minds and hearts, these listeners are becoming aristocrats in the best sense of the word."

It was early morning when the veteran conductor-composer sat for his birthday picture and interview. Outside, the city was scurrying to its offices, but Damrosch, brisk, ruddy-cheeked and smiling, was well into his day's work. Two telephones on his unpretentious studio desk jangled intermittently.

Damrosch already had spent a little time at his piano, arranging a score. Every minute of his day was scheduled for appointments, broadcast, rehearsal. He has a passion for punctuality, and reckons that he never has been late more than 10 times in his life.

Helps Helpless Musicians

His 70th birthday finds Damrosch with three predominant interests: His broadcasting, a drive for a $300,000 fund for the relief of unemployed musicians, and his campaign for the presentation of opera in English.

He has more than a humanitarian interest in seeking to aid the jobless of his profession, for he declares that their destitution affects the very structure of music itself. In addition to sponsoring benefit concerts, his committee has received numerous contributions from music lovers. One of these gifts was the $5,000 birthday check presented by the National Broadcasting company.

Never intolerant of so-called popular music (he has even broadcast George Gershwin's "I Got Rhythm") the conductor nevertheless is hopeful that a modern Wagner or Beethoven will arise.

No Giants Today

"There are no giants creating music today," he said. "This age does not seem able to express itself musically. We have been feeding too much on the past."

He is not alarmed about the crooning vogue. Damrosch at 70 has seen many a fad come and go. The conductor cares little for reminiscence, but there are thrills aplenty in his career. Born in Breslau, Germany, Jan. 30, 1862, he came to this country with his father, Dr. Leopold Damrosch, a noted conductor. When the latter died unexpectedly in 1885, Walter, then only 23, was chosen to take up his father's baton.

Later, in the face of predictions of failure, young Damrosch sold his home to finance a season of Wagnerian music. It was successful, and for four years thereafter. In 1890 he began giving private lecture-recitals—the forerunners of his present music appreciation series. He wrote an opera himself, "The Scarlet Letter," and toured the country with it. In 1903 he made the New York Symphony orchestra into a permanent organization, and conducted it until he resigned in 1927.

"Today," said Walter Damrosch, "I feel like a young man just getting started in a new work. My birthday wish is that I may be permitted to carry on for at least a few more years."

TAX COLLECTIONS AT MUNDAY ABOVE AVERAGE

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—A higher proportion of current city school and city taxes were paid up to Feb. 1 this year than to the same date last year, according to D. T. Mauldin, collector.

Current school tax payments were $8,110 and city tax payments were $7,890, in each instance being 48 per cent of the amount carried on the assessement roll. The city's financial condition, Mauldin reported.

Schools Get Rating

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Class A recognition has been given the Sunset and Gilliland consolidated schools in Knox county by the state department of education, Mrs. Effie Lee P'Pool, county school superintendent announced. Four other schools in the county already held that rating, she said.

AL SMITH HANDS GROUP REPORTERS SHORT STATEMENT

Contains Just 141 Typewritten Words of Significance

PUBLICATION RELEASE MONDAY MORNING PAPERS

Outlines Position With Respect to Impending Nomination

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (US)—Former Gov. Al Smith sat down at his desk in the world's tallest building today and handed out to a group of newspaper men 141 typewritten words of long-heralded political significance—"for publication in Monday morning papers."

The statement of the Democratic standard bearer of 1928 and present titular head of the party as to his position with respect to the impending presidential nomination was given to the reporters on their pledge that they would not disclose its contents prior to the specified time of release.

Aside, however, from his for-the-time-being confidential remarks about the possibility of his again becoming a presidential candidate, the former governor had a few—a very few—informal things to say about the political situation in general.

Grins at Tiger

When he was asked, for example, about the Democratic prospects this year compared to four years ago, he grinned at the little Tammany tiger resting on his desk and said:

"I think the prospects are decidedly brighter, don't you?"

Dressed in a gray suit, with a blue and red tie and neatly puckered pocket handkerchief to match, the former governor chewed vigorously on his cigar as the 30 assembled newspaper men fired questions at him on the general political outlook.

No, he would not discuss prohibition or the League of Nations at this time. Neither would he comment on Governor Roosevelt, with whom he is said to have gone to a political parting of the ways, nor of Newton D. Baker, who has been mentioned in the presidential gossip.

And as to what the dominent issue in the forthcoming campaign is going to be, Smith looked at his high-buttoned shoes when he was asked that question and answered solemnly:

"I don't know. You can't tell now."

AMARILLO COMMITTEE ON RECONSTRUCTION WORK IS APPOINTED BY CITY HEAD

AMARILLO, Texas, Feb. 6. (INS)—A committee of six men, named by Mayor Ernest O. Thompson, today began formulating plans for the participation of this section in the new Reconstruction Finance corporation relief program.

Complete plans will be worked out at a formal meeting of the committee Wednesday.

No Committee Here

Mayor Walter Nelson Jr. said Saturday that he had received no notification or instructions regarding the appointment of a local reconstruction work committee. He said he would not name a committee for this work until notified that such was the pleasure of the national reconstruction organization.

MILLIONAIRE PUBLISHER SUED FOR $100,000 FOR ALIENATION AFFECTIONS

BOSTON, Feb. 6. (US)—Nelson J. Peabody, millionaire magazine publisher, today was sued for $100,000 for alienation of affections, David Coulter, of Cambridge, claiming that sum for the alleged loss of his wife, Agnes Elizabeth Coulter.

Mrs. Peabody, in fighting her husband's annulment action in 1922, reminded the court:

"My husband wants to exchange me, at 40, for two 'twenties' of the younger set."

PREMIER MUSSOLINI TO VISIT POPE ON THURSDAY

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 6. (AP)—Premier Mussolini will visit Pope Pius Thursday of next week, the third anniversary of the Lateran treaty, it was officially announced today.

The head of the church and the chief of the state will seal the peace which began with the Lateran pact and which was concluded last summer with the settlement of many details.

PLEASANT VALLEY FARM CLUB PLANS PLANT EXCHANGE

IOWA PARK, Texas, Feb. 6.—Members of the Pleasant Valley Home Demonstration club enjoyed a lesson in hooked rugs given by Miss Ethel Luise Webb this week. Simple and intricate designs were displayed in outline and in color and suggestions for applying designs to the space were given. Miss Webb suggested that work be started on pillows and mats in order to familiarize the beginner with the use of the hook and the manner of developing the design. Mrs. C. C. Burrows, president, displayed several pressed cycamore leaves that had been pasted on cardboard and told of the possibility of getting beautiful designs from natural objects surrounding us.

Mrs. J. M. Isbell, of Wichita Falls, chairman of the yard beautification of the county federation of women's clubs, gave an interesting talk on "Yard Beautification" and announced that members of the Home and Garden club of the Woman's Forum would cooperate with the Pleasant Valley club in a plan, seed and flower exchange scheduled for the next meeting, Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 17. A George Washington program is also planned for this date and a tree will be planted to commemorate the occasion. Mesdames Mamie Dale, A. C. Hanson and Mrs. Dale Harbour are arranging the details of the program.

Those present were Mesdames Harvey Cagle, G. F. Cravens, H. E. Jones, C. C. Burrows, H. E. Blackwell, B. F. Custis, J. N. Cunningham, F. J. Davis, Mamie Dale, J. N. George, G. C. Hathaway, A. C. Henson, Hardy Jones, D. E. Johnson, J. R. Morgan, J. Lindsey, Ina Morehead, C. E. Russell, W. A. Scott, Boone Smith, D. O. Smith, W. C. Williams, M. O. Cheves, Misses Emma Davis, Lorene Williams, Hortense Burnett and Faye Burk, all of Iowa Park; Mrs. J. M. Isbell of Wichita Falls; and Mesdames Dan Hooks, Fred Widmayer, Dee Myers, J. A. Churchman, W. E. Lakey, W. E. Vest, and R. B. Sisk, all of Valley View.

GARNER CLUB LOS ANGELES

Movement Surpasses Hope of Promoters

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 7. (US)—Sentiment for the Garner-for-president movement is surpassing our fondest hopes—we have been simply deluged all day by persons seeking enrollment cards and information."

Claude A. Shutt, president of the Los Angeles Garner-for-President club, who was formally launched last night, declared tonight that the officers of the club were "more than delighted" with the almost instant response in this section.

Capt. Lyston S. Black, first vice president of the club, declared that the official estimates of "at least 1,000 members" the first week were "far too low."

Pledged to Roosevelt

FARGO, N. D., Feb. 6. (US)—With North Dakota Democrats solidly pledged to the condidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, there is no chance for the delegates of this state to support Al Smith, Fred McLean, Grand Forks, secretary of the party in North Dakota, said today.

McLean said he had not heard from Smith and that none of the party leaders to his knowledge had had any word from the Smith campaign boomers.

"It is not likely that our state would be informed of Smith plans," McLean said.

"Our delegation is too small and we have been too outspoken for Roosevelt."

EIGHTEEN MAROONED IN NEVADA MINING CAMP EIGHT DAYS RESCUED

Donnell Candidate

CORSICANA, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—J. R. Donnell, state representative, today announced his candidacy for re-election. He was elected from the 16th district, composed of Hill and Navarro counties.

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BEAR

We might as well tell you how the trouble started in China because it starts the same way all over the world.

A Japanese fan magnate was boycotted in Shanghai because the local boys claimed his fans didn't do any good.

They just stirred up the flies and made them grouchy.

So a sailor was sent to protect the merchant. A soldier was marched up to protect the soldier and the merchant.

Finally, a Japanese marine was ordered over to protect all of them.

If you don't think this is the official routine of discontent just slant a look at Nicaragua, Haiti and our insular possessions.

By the way, we haven't been doing badly with our islands, since Teddy Roosevelt has taken charge of them.

Ted is on an archipalego now. And if he continues to make good some day he will rate a peninsula.

JAPAN'S SKY-ROCKET RISE

BY ROBERT TALLEY

©1932 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

Editor's Note—This is the fifth of six stories on "Japan's Skyrocket Rise."

By ROBERT TALLEY
NEA Service Writer

Behind Japan's vast war machine is a tiny cluster of islands, constituting Old Japan, whose area in square miles is slightly smaller than that of the state of Nevada.

There are 91,000 people in Nevada. There are approximately 60,000,000 people in overcrowded Old Japan, or just about half the population of the United States by comparison.

These principal islands of Old Japan are three in number, plus their fringes of small adjacent islands. There is another large island to the north, but it is cold and sparsely inhabited.

On the average each Japanese owns about one-third as much as an American owns, owes about one-third as much in national debt, pays taxes of about one-fourth as much. The figures tell the fiscal story:

United States

National debt—$16,800,000,000.
Per capita debt—$125.
Per capita tax—$26.25.
National wealth—$300,000,000,000.
Per capita wealth—$2,400.
1932 budget—$3,995,000,000.

Japan

National debt—$3,000,000,000.
Per capita debt—$46.
Per capita tax—$6.50.
National wealth—$50,000,000,000.
Per capita wealth—$860.
1932 budget—$740,000,000.

But while figures are statistically correct, they hardly present the whole picture, for Japan proper—meaning Old Japan—enjoys a rich commercial return from its profitable domains in Manchuria, Korea and Formosa. In Korea, for example, Japanese merchants control 85 per cent of the business and Japanese farmers own one-half of the cultivated land. In Formosa, the Japanese government has a monopoly on the world's chief source of camphor. All three domains were acquired by war.

LARGEST CITIES IN CROWDED JAPAN
(Census of 1930)

Tokyo (proper)	2,070,913
Osaka	2,453,573
Nagova	907,404
Kobe	787,616
Kyoto	765,142
Yokohama	620,306

The Japanese have their own way of doing things. From a tax collecting standpoint, Korea has been a drain on the Japanese treasury for many years. But the commercial profits pay handsomely.

The population of Japan proper, according to the latest census, was 64,450,005, but more than 90,000,000 persons are Japanese or live under the Japanese flag.

Korea	21,058,305
Formosa	4,594,161
Total for empire	90,395,041
Leased Kwantung territory in Manchuria	883,788
Mandated territory (islands in North Pacific)	58,816
Total under flag	91,337,635
Japanese residing abroad:
In Asia	299,694
In Europe	2,992
In America	267,606
In Oceania	147,151
In Africa	86
Grand total	92,055,164

The total area of Japan and all its possessions is 261,567 square miles. The total area of continental United States is a little more than 3,000,000 miles and the total U. S. population approximately 120,000,000.

Aside from its army and navy, Japan has built up in recent years great industrial plants with equipment as modern as any found in Pittsburgh, Chicago or Cincinnati. That these can quickly be converted from the making of such things as sewing machines, enamels, locomotives, cotton cloth, etc., was demonstrated during the world war when a new crop of millionaires rose in Japan from the profits of munitions making for the allies.

Though the nature of Japan's economic system limits great wealth to a few men, the number of incomes in excess of $50,000 jumped from 22 in 1914 to 336 in in 1918.

The Rockefellers of Japan are the Mitsuis. They employ nearly 100,000 persons in their vast chain of mills, mines, ocean shipping and banking which has agencies on every continent and big offices on Broadway in New York. The house of Mitsui has run things financially in Japan for 200 years and often financially aided the government. It is composed of 11 related wealthy families who function co-operatively under their own written family constitution and share in the vast profits.

The nation's chief industrial city is Osaka, "the Pittsburgh of Japan," where thousands toil in the steel mills and kindred industries.

Nearby Kobe might be likened to New York, being the most important port in Japan and equally famous for its shipbuilding yards. Yokohama is the cotton and silk mill center.

Japan's powerful navy is no accident. These industrial islands do not, and cannot, grow enough food to support themselves and therefore the seas to Korea, Manchuria and Formosa must be kept open at all costs. They are the granaries of Japan and the source of raw materials for her factories.

The nation's production of steel now reaches 1,500,000 tons a year, but there is not much hope for the future of her industry unless the supplies of raw material are assured. Japan's imports of iron amount to about 7 per cent of her total imports.

Iron deposits are found in Japan, Korea and Formosa, an optimistic estimate placing the total at 130 million metric tons. The nation's real iron resources, however, are along its railway in Manchuria.

The soy bean of Manchuria becomes a principal item of her trade, amounting to nearly eight per cent of her imports, as compared with three per cent for wheat.

In the past six months, Japan has become the world's largest purchaser of raw cotton. She has bought 1,069,000 bales, which is 579,000 more bales than she bought in the same period last year. Strangely enough, these huge purchases come at a time when Japan's textile mills are suffering heavily from the Chinese boycott, many mills being closed. That cotton fiber, in addition to its other uses, is an essential in the manufacture of many kinds of explosives may explain something. Simultaneously, there has been a big recent increase in lead exports to Japan.

In view of Nippon's situation, there have long been two conflicting trends of thought in Japan.

One crowd insists that Japan must, by military force if necessary, keep open to her trade certain markets in China to supply the island with coal, iron, beans and wheat.

The other insists that this military policy is costly and breeds serious economic boycotts; that it would be better to control markets with superior economic organization.

At the present, however, the militarists—and not the economists—are running things in Japan.

Tomorrow—The story of the emperor, "The Son of Heaven" . . . The sickly-looking bespectacled young man in the palace at Tokyo for whom Japanese consider it an honor to die . . . A Heaven-born line that runs from six centuries before Christ to the year 1932.

THE JAPANESE EMPIRE AT A GLANCE—The black portion belongs to Japan, the shaded portion in Manchuria—in the vicinity of her leased South Manchurian railway concession—is dominated by her troops. The original empire consisted of the four grouped islands, though cold Hokkaido has always been sparsely populated. Formosa was acquired from China by the war of 1895; Korea, Japanese Sakhalin, the Kwantung peninsular at Port Arthur, and also the South Manchuria railway concession, were acquired from Russia by the war of 1904-05. As the densely populated island kingdom must draw on the Asiatic mainland for its food, it could be starved by a naval blockade; hence Japan's powerful navy.

WICHITAN TO HEAD WEST TEXAS HOTEL MEN'S ASSOCIATION

ABILENE, Feb. 6. (AP)—J. Paul Montgomery, Wichita Falls, was elected president of the West Texas Hotel Men's association, at the quarterly session of the organization here today. Colorado was selected as the place for the next meeting.

Montgomery advanced from the secretaryship to succeed Howard Gholson of Ranger. Other officers named were Clark S. Cate, Wichita Falls, secretary, and L. B. Campbell, Cisco, vice president. Directors named were Ernest O. Thompson, Amarillo; Walter Duff, San Angelo; T. A. Harris, Fort Worth; C. A. Sheffield, Lubbock; and Mr. Gholson.

Problems common to hotel operations were discussed in an afternoon business session, which featured addresses by Chas. A. Mangold, Dallas, president of the National Greeters association; and Mr. Thompson, mayor of Amarillo. Visitors were guests of local hotels at a luncheon and a dance tonight.

Mr. Montgomery is the manager of the Holt hotel in Wichita Falls, while Mr. Cate manages the Kemp hotel. Both are well known.

THEODORE DREISER ASKS FOR MOONEY'S RELEASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Feb. 6. (US)—An additional plea for the pardoning of Tom Mooney has been made to Governor Rolph by Theodore Dreiser, well known novelist and author of "The American Tragedy."

A copy of Dreiser's letter to the governor was received today by the Tom Mooney molders defense committee.

M'KENZIE MAY FACE HEARING

Judge Ready if Request Made to Court

SAN ANTONIO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Judge W. W. McCrory, who three times has heard legal battles for the life of John M. (Pete) McKenzie, now confined in the Huntsville penitentiary, said today he would set another sanity hearing for the young killer of two peace officers "if some responsible person requested a setting."

District attorney Walter Tynan announced yesterday he was of the opinion that McKenzie should be brought back to San Antonio and given another hearing in Judge McCrory's court.

McKenzie, captured in Malden, Mo., last Tuesday after eight days of liberty following a daring jail break from the Bexar county jail, is now confined in the death cell at Huntsville pending disposition of his case. He is now legally insane.

In the event a verdict of sanity is returned against McKenzie if another hearing is held, the death sentence imposed upon him at the conclusion of his trial for the killing of Detective Chief Sam Street in 1927, will be revived.

The last sanity hearing for the youth, held after Dr. G. M. Powell of the Terrell state insane asylum filed an affidavit that McKenzie was sane, resulted in a mistrial when the jury was unable to agree. Since that time, almost three years ago, McKenzie has been held in the county jail here until his escape.

Martin in the 89th district court, beginning Tuesday as follows: Grover Johnson, disposal of mortgaged property; Frank Allen, two cases of burglary; Aubrey Tarkington, perjury and burglary; Robert Tuck, burglary; M. Thompson, burglary; Charles Perry, four cases of burglary and one of robbery; Pat Davis, three cases of burglary; Willie Wright, burglary; L. E. Gregory, accessory to robbery.

ELINOR SMITH PLANS TRANSATLANTIC FLIGHT

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (US)—Elinor Smith, youthful flier, made the first announcement today of a feminine attempt to span the Atlantic in 1932.

She said she will begin watching for favorable weather conditions in May, and hopes to make the flight before August. In the meantime, she plans assaults on the women's altitude and speed records.

City Gives Work

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Persons unable to pay sewage and water bills are being permitted by the city to work out their accounts at $2 per day, according to C. L. Mayes, mayor. Labor thus made available, he added, cared for the harvesting of a heavy grain sorghum crop on the city-owned farm and is enabling the city to have streets put in excellent condition.

Miss Pankhurst Denies Old Plot To Kidnap Prince

LONDON, Feb. 6. (US)—Sylvia Pankhurst, Britain's pioneer and militant suffragette, never once thought of kidnaping the Prince of Wales.

In fact, she is considerably shocked by published reports that she once planned such a coup to draw the nation's attention to "votes for women" when that slogan had a sting.

Miss Pankhurst today won an injunction restraining circulation of a book called "Information Received." The book stated that the suffragette leader was implicated in a plan, concocted at the height of the suffragette movement in 1912, to spirit the prince away from Oxford university where he was then an undergraduate. Said Miss Pankhurst:

"To maltreat the heir to the throne is punishable by death so I was forced to take action against my accusers. Beside I never intended to kidnap a mere lad from his college. That was what the prince was then."

FORMER MINISTER AT MUNDAY VISITS HOME AFTER NEAR TRAGEDY

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Rev. Shade E. Stevenson, Baptist missionary in Arizona, is visiting scenes of his youth here after tragedy had failed by minutes to interrupt his journey home.

An artery in his arm was severed in an automobile accident near Tucson, Ariz. Physicians at the Tucson hospital to which he was taken said death from loss of blood would have been almost certain had he been a few minutes further away from medical attention. While his injury was prevented from being serious, physicians said it will be some time before he has fully recuperated from loss of blood.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Stevenson, and two sisters, Mrs. R. E. Alexander and Mrs. A. A. Smith, reside here.

TRUCK MEN OBJECT TO PROPOSED COUZENS BILL TO REGULATE TRAFFIC

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (UP)—Trucking men from the Midwest and New England urged the senate Interstate Commerce committee today to allow their business to "stand on its own bottom and win by merit" and not to hinder its development by the strict regulations of the proposed Couzens bill.

"The Couzen's bill," said J. H. Blood, Wichita, Kan., "would probably be as hard to enforce as the 18th amendment—and I am in favor of prohibition."

MUNDAY BASKET BALL TEAM DEFEATS GOREE COUNTY TOURNAMENT

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Munday High school Moguls defeated the Goree five, 25 to 16 in the finals of the Knox county interscholastic league basket ball tournament here Saturday night. Nichols, forward for Munday, was high scorer with 11 points.

With the victory over Goree, the Munday team won the right to represent Knox county in the tournament at Abilene next week-end at which the champion of the eastern half of district No. 8 will be chosen.

Sunset girls team tied with the Goree girls team and the match will be played at some future date. The score was 21 to 21. The Goree junior boys swamped the junior boys' team from Truscott.

MISS MARIAN BENNETT WEDS EUGENE HOMANS

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Feb. 6. (AP) Miss Marian Bennett, New Britain and Eugene V. Homans, Englewood, N. J., nationally known golfers, were married Saturday afternoon in the presence of 500 guests in the First Church of Christ here.

Homans was runnerup to Bobby Jones in the 1930 national amateur golf tournament. His bride was a member of the American women's team which competed in England the same year.

Feminine Pursuer Of John D. Held For Examination

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 6. (US)—Alberta Torch of Newark, N. J., who has persistently trailed John D. Rockefeller in an effort to speak to him, was arrested today on a warrant charging that she is mentally deranged.

Meanwhile, the aged financier remained at home for the eighth consecutive day without his customary daily game of golf but attaches at the Rockefeller household here said it was because of a slight cold rather than because of the persistent attentions of Miss Torch.

The warrant on which the Newark woman was arrested was sworn out by six Ormond Beach citizens who are asking that she be given a sanity test. She has been able to give no explanation for her strange action, they said, and when pressed for her reason in seeking to speak to the aged financier has sought to act mysterious.

TAMMANY WILL HONOR MEMORY JOHN R. VOORHIS

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—The office of Great Grand Sachem of the Tammany society will be conferred posthumously upon John R. Voorhis, who died at 102 yesterday.

Voorhis will be the second person elevated to that office since the society was organized in 1789, George Washington having been the first.

The Great Grand Sachem will be conferred at memorial services in Tammany hall tomorrow.

SLEEP TONIGHT WHEN YOU GO TO BED

Instantly .. Without Drugs

No More Bed Tossing

Fall Asleep at Once This Natural Drugless Way

New Energy Tomorrow

DO you lie awake and toss at night? Do you turn and thrash, with nerves unstrung before you fall asleep?

And do you pay the price next day, with overwrought nerves—a head that aches—or a mind that's logy and dull?

If you do, take heart. For 20,000 doctors will tell you that there's now a drugless way to bring you sleep—naturally, quickly.

Deep sleep! Sound sleep! Sleep that rebuilds fagged-out minds and bodies in a most amazing way.

It's a delicious food-drink you take before you go to bed. As free from drugs as the bread you eat—or the milk you drink.

For this new way does more than induce sound sleep. It rebuilds your body, your tissues, your nerves while you rest. So try it without fail.

What It Is—How It Acts

It is called Ovaltine—a pure food-drink you take at night with warm milk. During the World War, medical authorities made it a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. They found it does 3 things no other food in the world will do.

First, it induces sound, restful sleep by a wholly natural process.

Second, it rebuilds worn-out nerve and muscle cells. For, in addition to other valuable food elements, Ovaltine contains (in concentrated form) a natural vital property called "lecithin" which is an important part of nerve and brain tissue. And these valuable food properties rebuild worn-out nerve, brain and body cells as you sleep.

Third, Ovaltine aids digestion. This is because it contains a high proportion of a food element known as diastase—an element which has the power to digest the starch content of other foods in your stomach. Thus it lifts a great burden from your digestive organs—helps your stomach "rest." And in this way combats digestive unrest—one of the main causes of sleeplessness.

At the same time—by stimulating and aiding digestive processes—Ovaltine tends to draw excess blood away from the head. And helps reduce the congestion that is present in brain capillaries when a person lies awake at night thinking and worrying instead of sleeping.

You'll Sleep Tonight

If you're troubled with sleeplessness, don't suffer longer. That's simply folly now. Try Ovaltine this very night. See for yourself how quickly your nerves calm down—how swiftly you fall asleep.

Don't judge Ovaltine merely by what users claim for it. Even disregard, if you wish, the fact that it is endorsed by 20,000 doctors. Forget the fact that its use has spread to 54 different countries . . . Try it and see for yourself.

'Phone your druggist or grocer for a tin of Ovaltine. Mix 2 to 4 teaspoonfuls in a glass of warm milk and drink it just before you go to bed. You will sleep more soundly than you have, probably, in weeks and months.

You'll be delighted with the sound, refreshing sleep this pure food-drink brings you—and the extra energy that's yours next day.

NOTE: Thousands of nervous people, men and women, are using Ovaltine to restore vitality when fatigued. It is also highly recommended by physicians for nervous, underweight children—for nursing mothers, convalescents and the aged. 276

Times' Program for Wichita Falls

1. OIL—Place the Wichita Falls district on a parity with other centers in the marketing of both crude oil and refined products.
2. THE VALLEY—Systematic, vigorous development of the irrigated valley in keeping with its possibilities as Wichita Falls' greatest physical asset.
3. WATER—An ample, assured supply of soft water.
4. EDUCATION—Maintenance of a junior college in Wichita Falls to give opportunity for higher education to our youth—the highest standards in elementary schools.
5. THE LAKES—Full development of the recreational opportunities offered by the three lakes.
6. HIGHWAYS—Early consummation of a highway program covering all the main routes radiating from this city and all the munity.
7. DRAINAGE—Solution of the drainage problem in all three phases; first in the irrigated valley; second, with regard to Holliday creek. Third, in those portions of the city now inadequately drained.
8. GOVERNMENTAL ECONOMY—The adoption of such means as may be found most feasible to reduce the cost of local government by elimination of unnecessary offices and consolidation of others.

AN ECONOMY BUDGET

The economy budget proposed by City Manager V. R. Smitham scrapes the cheese clear to the back of the rind. Those who had thought that the city had done all that was possible to be done, in the way of reducing expenses, now learn that still further economy is possible and will be ordered if the council approves.

It isn't at all the sort of budget we like to read, and at the same time it is the sort of budget that is imperatively needed in times like these. No one likes to see the park activities curtailed or the number of firemen reduced, but conditions make both steps necessary. A reduction of over $9,000 per month in municipal expenses canot be effected without drastic measures. We believe that the citizenship will approve whatever is done to hold expenses to an absolute minimum.

One question arises, in connection with the fire department reduction. Would it not be better to reduce the pay roll by cutting salaries instead of cutting off employes? We are not authorized to speak for the firemen, but we have an idea they would rather take a cut than to see nearly a third of their number discharged. If this could be done, and the shift system maintained, it seems to us that the city could effect the same saving without impairing the department's efficiency.

CANDIDATES

To get one's name on the primary ballot as a candidate for state office requires the payment of a fee—$50, if we recall correctly. But to informally announce as a candidate involves nothing more than the effort of telling the newspapers you are going to run. Thus it is that at this time in election years, various and sundry individuals declare themselves to be candidates for governor. Some of them will take themselves seriously enough to later pay the prescribed fee. Others will save their money. But it costs practically nothing to let one's intentions be known.

So far there have been three inconspicuous individuals to bid for a place in the calcium light. The first was a banker at Ennis. His name now escapes us; fame is like that. The second was the Rev. Scott W. Hickey of Cleburne, an evangelist of the Fundamentalist Baptist church. His platform is noteworthy for its brevity; four words—economy, efficiency, endeavor and equity. The third was one Harry Miller, aged 34, a farmer living near Brady. Among his platform planks are:

Exemption of every home and homestead from every form of taxation; assuring security of his equity in property to the purchaser; abolishment and prevention of monopolies; equal and uniform taxation, based upon rendition of property, upon a 100 per cent valuation; economical administration of governmental affairs; abolishment of penalties on delinquent tax and substitution of 10 per cent discount for payment of taxes on or before due date; state to bear all cost of public education; assumption by the state of all county and state highway bonds; enforced use of cotton throughout the state for bagging, sacking, highway building and wherever practical, and efficient and honest representation of the greatest number of citizenship.

There will be others. Two years ago about 20 individuals announced for governor, and 11 of them got their names on the primary ballot. Of the 11, five were men of state-wide political acquaintance, the other six were obscure persons who when they announced were unknown outside of the communities where they resided. Just why they went to the trouble and expense is hard to say, but each election year produces its crop of such aspirants.

THE WAY OUT, FOR COUNTIES

The public seems to be waking up to the fact that it is in county government that the greatest opportunity exists for economy and increased efficiency. In cities, particularly those that have city managers, expenses have been cut to the raw, and substantial savings effected. The state tax is, by comparison with local ones, an inconsiderable item, although there is plenty of room for economy at Austin. Cities that are poorly managed have the remedy in their own hands. But little can be done to make the county governments less expensive or more efficient; the existing system is hedged about with too many laws.

The average citizen is beginning to realize the need of change. In Tarrant county, for example, there is an insistent demand for changes that will permit the appointment of a county manager. Tarrant county's books were audited recently. At a group meeting of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, John M. Henderson, former state senator, openly advocated that the counties of Morris, Titus and Camp be merged into one, as an economy measure.

A few years ago such suggestions as the city manager plan and the county manager plan would have been considered radical and impossible. Today they find more and more supporters.

Texans will vote in November on a constitutional amendment to exempt small homesteads from state taxation. It is not to be doubted that the amendment will carry. But when it goes into effect, taxpayers will find that there is no drastic reduction in their tax bills, that the main item is not affected.

There is no need of any vast amount of legislation to reform county governmental methods. The primary need is a constitutional amendment that will permit counties to run their own affairs, as cities do. The fee system will walk the plank promply enough when the public is allowed to take charge of its county business. The county merger plan will be developed more slowly because there is so much dead weight to overcome. Give the voters of the average Texas county a chance to right things and a happier state of affairs will result soon enough.

VALUABLE SCENERY

Scenic beauty now has, by judicial decree, a cash value. The owners of an Ozark mountain estate which was partially submerged by the waters of the Bagneli lake, sued for $1,000,000 damages, claiming that the value of the property had been lessened to that extent by the waters which obliterated scenic features. After a 10-week trial in federal court, damages of $350,000 were awarded.

That sort of verdict makes scenery expensive. But who shall say that it is excessive? We of this country have been so prodigal of its scenic attractions that we have largely lost our sense of their values. Perhaps the decision in the Ozark case will serve to emphasize the fact that natural scenic beauty is a very real asset and make us appreciative of it before it is everlastingly too late.

THE HOARDED DOLLAR

One point in President Hoover's appeal to the public to quit hoarding deserves particular emphasis.

"Every dollar hoarded," he said, "means a destruction of five to ten dollars of credit." Conversely, every dollar released from hoarding and put into the channels of trade means five to ten dollars more of business done.

A wider realization of this fact will bring a wholesome response to the president's appeal. The timid individual who withdraws his funds from circulation is simply helping to postpone the day of recovery. For he is certain to share in the increased business which the release of his money will bring about.

If, as Mr. Hoover estimates, there is $1,300,000,000 of "hidden money" in this country, its release would soon make such a difference in economic conditions as would benefit every one. It is to be hoped that his words will be heeded.

Real Political Issues of 1932

By GLENN FRANK
President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

THE CHALLENGE OF REVOLUTION

I do not belong with the sacred fraternity that sees a bolshevik under every bed.

We are an amazingly patient people.

There is no immediate danger of a radical overturn in the United States, despite the fact that economic conditions are pressing hard upon millions of self-respecting Americans.

And yet the dramatic contrast of poverty in the midst of plenty, of hungry men and food surpluses, of ragged men and an over-supply of cotton and wool, of shoeless children and an excess plant capacity in shoe factories is percolating into the consciousness of millions of Americans.

There may be an end to our patience!

There is a growing feeling that we should be able to manage our resources and our capacities better.

In view of all this, one of the major issues of the 1932 campaign, although it will not be seen in any platform, will be ways and means of laying the threat of revolution.

This is why I want to point out today that a democracy like ours cannot afford to flirt with the possibility of revolution.

The reason is this.

Despite the tendency of our civilization to deny opportunity to millions, there is still enough democratic opportunity open to men of superior talents that the so-called lower classes are continuously drained of their most capable men and women.

There is no social aristocracy in the United States with a monopoly on leadership in business, industry, finance, or politics.

If, therefore, a radical overturn should lodge power in the hands of the so-called lower classes, they would come to power denuded of their ablest men and women, for most, if not all, of them have been progressively advanced to positions of power in the status quo.

In the old days and in aristocratic societies, even the ablest men and women born into the lower classes had to stay put in the class into which they were born, and so, a revolution came along, it released genuine ability into the ranks of the new leadership.

At Geneva

While, at Geneva, men talk of the day,
When nation may greet nation without fear,
The sounds of strife, though half a world away,
Make such a thundering strife that none can hear.

And yet, in spite of all, perhaps the nations
Will hear faint voices, louder than the guns,
Calling to them with fervent supplications,
The voices of their dead, defrauded sons.

Mr. Hoover says that the people are hoarding $1,300,000,000 that ought to be put into circulation. Our face didn't get red a bit. Not even pink.

The Man Who Could Tell 'Em

The war-lords out there in Japan
Need something to make 'em think twice,
And over in Holland there's a man
Who could give some good advice.

He could tell 'em a lot, the ex-kaiser could,
About nations that try to be tough,
He could say some things that would do 'em good,
About this belligerent stuff.

"I used to think I was tolerable smart,
Ere my gall began to diminish,
And I found out that wars are easy to start,
But not near so easy to finish.

"I used to have large ambitions myself,
About armies and navies and such,
That's why I'm a guest of the Dutch.

"It's lovely to watch your divisions march past,
With their confident, militant tread,
But it isn't much fun, when it's over at last,
To count up your debts—and your dead."

It wouldn't, however, do any good. Advice is always wasted on a nation bent on war, a man bent on running for office and a woman bent on matrimony.

Announcement

After due deliberation, and in response to a widespread demand, we have definitely decided to become a candidate for public office this year. Our candidacy is based upon one crying need of the hour. We shall run on an anti-influenza platform.

Our one purpose when elected shall be to write into the constitution an amendment making Spanish influenza unlawful. "Send the Spanish influenza back to Spain" shall be our slogan. Our country had a war with Spain once—that is, it passed for a war in those days—and Spain has been trying to get even with us ever since. She has given us the influenza, the Philippine Islands, and spinach. (That's a fact, about spinach; oh, well, look it up if you don't believe it). It's time to start giving some of these things back, and certainly we can spare influenza better than the others.

The Opposition

We are well aware of the opposition our candidacy will arouse. The manufacturers of castor oil, of mustard plaster, of hot water bottles, of clinical thermometers and of baking soda, we do not doubt, will arise in their wrath and might to crush us. They will try to persuade the people that this is no time to be trying to crush their industries. But the people are with us. If the election were to be held this week, we would win by a rising vote.

These interests will try to persuade you that our plan will not work. That is begging the question. It will work as well as farm relief, prohibition, the Smoot-Hawley tariff, the federal reserve system and the disarmament conference. It isn't a candidate's business to make things work. His job is to make the promises, to strike a chord that is attuned to the great, throbbing heart of the common people (God bless 'em). It wouldn't be any harder to abolish influenza that it seems to be to reduce taxes, which is something candidates have been promising the common people (God help 'em) for these many years.

Our Principles

While the anti-influenza plank is the chief one in our platform, our millions of friends have a right to know where we stand on the other issues of the day. Those issues are (1) prohibition, (2) the League, (3) unemployment, (4) taxation (5), soft water, (6) education. We shall proceed fearlessly to state our position on each of these questions, as follows:

(1)—On this question, we stand where we have always stood, with our right foot firmly planted on the floor and our left slightly elevated. We believe that it is a noble experiment, but we think that most of the experimenters of our acquaintance failed to let it set long enough.

(2)—Our position on the league admits of no equivocation. We are, and shall continue to be, firmly opposed to transferring the franchise to Waco.

(3)—Our solution of the unemployment problem is to obtain approval of the Red river navigation project. By the time they succeeded in making that stream navigable, there would be jobs for everybody. The job of carrying enough water to float a boat would, by itself, furnish employment to millions.

(4)—On this subject, we unhesitatingly announce our belief that Babe Ruth should accept the cut in salary.

(5)—This situation is serious and should be remedied. We are told that it is so serious that many people are buying bottled water, claiming it gives better results, and requires less yeast.

(6)—We have always been a friend of education. We favor more and bigger stadiums, higher priced coaches, and continued broad-mindedness about recruiting, in all the higher institutions.

All that remains is to announce what office we are running for. We shall run for the United States senate. Nobody else is, this year, and that encourages us.

The question might be raised, that there is no vacancy from Texas in the senate this year. That, we submit, is a matter of opinion.

But, oh, if Mr. Mellon could just take the deficit to Europe with him!

Which Way Will It Fall?

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—It usually turns out to be something of a mistake when you tread on the toes of Senator Carter Glass of Virginia.

Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde may have better luck than others before he and Glass finish their exchanges of hard words about each other and the postwar government loans to Europe when Glass was secretary of the treasury, but at this writing he has been receiving quite a lot of sympathy and almost no congratulations.

Picking on Carter Glass is a sport at least as dangerous as it used to be trying to get funny with former Senator Jim Reed of Missouri, who was often compared with the traditional buzz-saw. Reed's deadliness depended on his great gift for biting, sarcastic invective. Most people here well recall the time when young Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana undertook to deck Jim's silvery head with a few well chosen razberries. Reed, if memory serves, concluded his workout on Robinson by comparing him to a garbage can and Robinson apparently could think of no snappy comeback.

But Glass, a fiery little fighting cock at the age of 74, not only hurls all the harpoons of oratory. He tosses on facts, figures and photostatic copies to make them stick. Bishop James Cannon, at the height of his power some three years ago, mixed with Glass and promised his political ruination. It was right there that the bishop's multiplicity of troubles began. When Glass came up for re-election Cannon was almost too busy to pay any attention.

You don't hear from Glass very often on the senate floor, although he probably will be saying plenty about his new bill to revise the national banking laws. The best ways to get him started are to criticize the record of Woodrow Wilson, to misinform people in a bunk speech dealing with banking and currency matters and to reflect directly on Carter Glass.

Carter obviously felt that Mr. Hyde was committing all three of these sins at once when he began to assert, in one speech after another, that Wilson and Secretaries of the Treasury McAdoo and Glass had made loans to foreign countries after the armistice when they had no legal right to do so. The treasury lent in cash $7,000,000,000 before the armistice and $2,500,000,000 afterward, the last credit being established in April, 1920.

Senator Glass closed the argument, insofar as he was concerned, with certain quotations from Henry Arthur Jones which could not be interpreted as meaning anything except that Mr. Hyde's head was only a turnip—"I paused for a moment and looked at that round, waggling head; by a sudden illumination I became aware that it was not a head at all, but a turnip, a veritable turnip placed on the top of his neck and shoulders. . . . I had wasted a good hour arguing with a turnip. But it looked very much like a head . . ."

The question of these postwar loans is somewhat complicated, but it seems that Hyde got off to a bad start when he chose to rattle what were, after all, pretty old bones. Every one knew what was going on at the time. The Republicans were taking control of congress, eager to plaster the Democratic administration. But there was nary a squawk, it appears, until Hyde recently began to make those speeches.

Not at all content with calling Hyde a turnip-head, Senator Glass had marshaled much evidence, including the wording of the liberty bond acts. Rather impressive is a letter to Glass from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Hyde's cabinet comrade, pointing out that the treasury was empowered by congress to make loans until termination of the war with Germany, that it was provided that the date of termination of war should be fixed by presidential proclamation and that President Harding fixed the date as July 2, 1921, when the joint congressional resolution terminating the state of war was approved.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

(Copyright, 1931, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

The Emotions and Digestion

Dr. Andrew Malcolm Morrison, who lived to the ripe age of 105, after studying the reasons for the longevity of many people, said he could find only one rule of health that was common to all centenarians and that was to avoid worry.

It is difficult to realize how seriously the health may be affected by a chronic state of the mind dwelling on depressing and unlovely thoughts. There is no denying that even the best food may cause digestive disturbances by an unconscious expectancy of trouble deeply impressed upon the memory mind.

Some people have established a habit of looking for distressing symptoms, and this prevents the enjoyment of the normal digestion. Until this habit has been overcome, no amount of dietetic improvement will be of much value. The tendency to worry over every problem or to be in a chronic state of suppressed anger is probably of more importance than the effects of the acute emotions, important as the latter are.

Psychologists agree that about nine-tenths of our thinking is done by the subconscious mind. These unconscious thought processes have a most powerful effect upon our internal organs.

In observing the peristaltic movements of the stomachs of cats while under the x-ray, it has been found that, when the cat lies quietly purring while being stroked, the muscular digestive contraction of the stomach continues regularly, but the moment the cat struggles to arise or becomes angry, the muscular waves stop. The effect of anger upon the intestines is first to stimulate the peristaltic movement and then cause a dormant stasis which may last for several hours even after the good nature of the cat has been restored. These facts have been proven in many experiments. Since a similar or even more pronounced effect occurs in the highly organized human being, one can readily see how the emotions will interfere with digestion, and how an attack of anger may actually produce constipation.

While you are following the dietetic and health instructions contained in these articles it is a good plan to look for the good results which will follow, and you cannot expect the best results until you have built this habit into your subconscious mind. Once you have done this, you will have built up the habit of expecting perfect digestion and vigorous health will follow as a matter of course.

When you have selected your food according to the best judgment that you have available, then proceed to enjoy it to the utmost and concentrate upon its excellent taste and flavor.

It is just as important to maintain the same friendly spirit at home as that which you exhibit to your friends. One should avoid falling into a rut of criticism and inharmonious thought while at home. Oftentimes the family is forced by circumstances to endure unpleasant actions which, if indulged in before others, might lead to a loss of valuable friendship.

It is a mighty fine habit to look forward to self-improvement in every direction day by day. Before you begin a meal you should cast aside every distressing thought, whether it be business worry, jealousy or fear of indigestion. Every meal should be a festive occasion. Cultivate the art of conversing about interesting, perhaps humorous subjects and situations. A dash of humor is of far more value than a bottle of dyspeptic tablets.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Jerusalem Artichoke

Question—Mrs. Nance O. asks: "Will you please advise me if the Jerusalem artichoke is good for food, and, if so, in what form do you recommend it?"

Answer—The Jerusalem artichoke is a native of America. Its root is the part used for food. It contains no starch but over 15% of sugar, 2% of inulin, and 2½% protein. The inulin is similar to starch but is more easily handled by the diabetic, so this tuber is often recommended by dieticians as a carbohydrate food especially to be used by those suffering from this disease. The artichoke also contains a mild laxative principal. When young, the artichoke may be peeled and used as a salad. The cooked artichoke has a peculiar flavor which is much relished by many who find it a pleasing change from the starchy tubers.

Perspiring Hands

Question—Miss Gertrude H. asks: "Would you please send me a remedy for perspiring hands. My hands perspire very freely and it is most embarrassing."

Answer—Excessive sweating of the hands is generally an indication of some nervous disorder. If you will search out the cause of your trouble, you will no doubt find that your nervousness originates from dietetic errors and lack of exercise. If you will get up a good sweat over your entire body every day, this will help materially in throwing out irritating impurities which may be causing your nervousness.

ROCK ISLAND OFFICIALS INVESTIGATE COPPER DEPOSITS NEAR QUANAH

QUANAH, Texas, Feb. 6.—Messrs. C. B. Davis and Conway, Rock Island officials, were in Quanah Friday, coming fom Amarillo for the purpose of looking into the future of Hardeman county's copper deposits.

These officials came upon direction of President Wilhelm of the Rock Island lines, who read an account of these mines by Engineer Watkins and associates which was pubished in the Quanah Tribune Chief a few weeks ago.

In company with Secretary George Sager of the chamber of Commerce, the three went to Medicine Mound and the Neal ranch where the richest deposits of copper have been found.

The Rock Island-Frisco survey for the extension from Shamrock to Seymour through Quanah runs through the Neal pasture near the site where the smelter is likely to be placed.

After inspecting the Hardeman county deposits the trio went to Foard county, where they inspected the old McClelland mines.

It is reported they were well satisfied with what they had seen on the trip.

While rather non-committal they made it plain that by spring there would be more heard about the proposed Rock Island-Frisco line construction from Shamrock to Seymour.

Madison, Wis., capital of the state, was chosen as the capital site when there was not a house on the present location of the city.

IN NEW YORK with Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK.—Something like 35 years ago—the time is as uncertain as the quality of a simile—a young reporter sat in the editorial room of a Boston newspaper preparing to write a yarn on a local disaster.

There had been an explosion, followed by a conflagration.

He picked up four different papers. And somewhere in the early paragraphs of each he read: "It spread like wildfire."

Going to the desk of one of the editors, he moaned: "Great heavens, can't a conflagration spread like something except wildfire? Must it always be wildfire?"

"That's what I mean—similes" . . .

"Get a book . . .!"

And the young man tried to get a book, hours later. He tried in the local libraries and the outside libraries, but nary a book of similes there was.

Which is how, my lads and lassies, that Frank J. Wilstach became the simile king of America.

But many years elapsed before his first volume of them appeared. His latest has but recently come from the presses and, much to my chagrin, he has not accepted the subtitle of "Or As You Like."

The Wilstach similes have been coming around since as regularly as the landlord. His first appeared about 1916.

And it was no simple job getting it out. For he was, even then, a press agent. He had represented Sothern and Marlowe and had gone to the Shuberts.

He haunted libraries during those hours when he was as idle as a customer's man on Wall street.

He became as impressionable as a new sheet of carbon paper—

Well, at any rate, after something like 15 or 20 years, he finally got out his first volume.

Today, he'll admit he has little to do other than sit down and edit.

For similes began to come in like margin calls from a broker's office. They now arrive by the tens of thousands and from every country on the globe.

But even Wilstach cannot live by similes alone. It's his bright and particular hobby. He works in the office of Will Hays, the czar of the movies, and there he has been for the past half dozen years or more.

Wilstach gets out an edition annually because last year's similes are as out-of-date as a mustache cup. They need to have their phrases lifted.

Looking but a few volumes back he finds references to gas lights and the cranking of Fords.

At the moment something becomes "as necessary as Ghandi's safety pin," but next year there may be an invention to take the place of the safety pin and Ghandi's costume may be a historic relic.

From Files Wichita Times

Wednesday, Feb. 7, 1912

Wylie Wyatt, proprietor of the Westland hotel, ought to have a Carnegie hero medal. Tuesday afternoon when a runaway horse hitched to a small wagon in which was seated a helpless woman, came dashing down Seventh street between the courthouse and The Times office, Mr. Wyatt, who was walking down the street in the same direction, seeing the woman's plight, ran and lunged toward the runaway animal and seizing the bridle brought the frightened animal back upon its haunches and probably saved the woman from serious injury.

Practically all of the $1,000 guarantee to assure a baseball team here this season had been raised this afternoon and it is believed the remainder will be raised within a short time.

Electra oil is now selling at 60 cents a barrel. An advance of five cents a barrel became effective Feb. 1, and that price is being paid on all new contracts.

CITHERN PLAYERS TO GIVE PROGRAM FROM MUNICH

Cithern players and yodelers, gathered in Munich, will provide the fourth of a series of Sunday concerts rebroadcast from Germany on Sunday, Feb. 7, at 3 p. m., central standard time, over an NBC-WEAF network. The programs are heard each Sunday at this hour.

One hundred of the best cithern players of Bavaria, and the Winter brothers, famous yodelers, will appear on the program, the cithern players having gathered in Munich especially for this broadcast, which will incorporate typical Bavarian music.

Elaborate Charity Ball Planned For Monday Evening, February 22 And Numerous Committees Named

Proving probably the most important and elaborate social event of the season will be the formal charity ball to be given on the night of Feb. 22 at the Wichita club. The proceeds of this ball will be devoted entirely to charity under the direction of Mrs. J. A. Kemp and committee, according to information received. One-half to go to the Day Nursery, and the other half to be turned over to the Masonic bodies to be distributed by them to the needy. The ball will be open to the public and is only sponsored by the Shrine. There will also be card games and other amusements in addition to the dance, it is announced.

W. B. Hamilton is general chairman of arrangements, and Julian Montgomery, vice chairman. Mrs. Q. B. Lee and Lester Jones will be chairmen of the ticket sales; Miss Elizabeth Carrigan and T. J. Waggoner Jr., of the entertainment; Mrs. L. R. Stringer and J. H. Allison of arrangements; Miss Elva Killingsworth and Emil Hermann, decorations; Mrs. Dan Boone and Grover Bullington, publicity; Mrs. J. A. Kemp and Mrs. W. W. Cook, charity disbursements; Mrs. Harry Weeks and Walter Robbins, check room.

Committee Members

The entire personnel of the various committees include besides those mentioned, Mesdames R. O. Harvey, R. E. Shepherd, J. C. Mytinger and S. E. Trevathan, charity; Mesdames Ray Arnhold, Jack McMahon, Darold Kahn, N. H. Martin, G. E. Lasky, Earnest Fain, Howell E. Smith, Dr. Ted R. Krohn and Messrs. J. L. Jackson Jr., and Raymond Myers, arrangements, Messrs. R. E. Shepherd, Wilkie Talbert, Kindel Paulk, John Kilgore, Walter Nelson Jr., Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, Miss Elizabeth Carrigan, Mesdames J. H. S. Bonner, Guy Rogers, C. Y. Tully, W. H. Caldwell and W. M. Priddy, entertainment; Mesdames Rhea Howard, C. W. Snider, John Boswell, Pierce Langford, Lester T. Burns, Fred Couper and Albert Kelly, Dick Lindsey, Herbert Voelcker and George Keith Jr., publicity; Mesdames Ben G. Oneal, Luther Hoffman, J. T. Harrell, Bernard Martin, C. E. McCutchen, W. B. Hamilton, Sam Kruger, Barney Flynn and Jack Barnard, Theodore Beck, Edwin Bebb, and C. H. Featherston, decorations; Mesdames Carter McGregor, John Hampton, C. R. Hartsook, Bert Bean, S. A. Covington, Horace Robbins and Messrs. Frank Timberlake, William Huff, W. U. McCutchen and Joe E. Ward, ticket and attendance; Mesdames L. B. Holland, O. B. Keil, E. P. Bass, L. H. Estes and Mr. W. E. Barnhard, check room.

Friday Study Clubs Develop Research Work

English and Russian literature and the culture of the South were themes beautifully developed in the programs of the woman's clubs meeting Friday. Members of the Travel club met in the morning at the Forum clubhouse to study Thomas Hardy and his writing.

Mrs. C. E. Basham gave an interesting discussion of Hardy's art and spoke briefly of "The Return of the Native," and "Tess of the D'Urbervilles." Mrs. W. W. Cook gave a beautiful review of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles," and Mrs. C. A. Spragins talked on Hardy's poetry, stressing its sparkling brightness and the sentiment it expressed.

Those present were Mesdames E. T. Duff, Homer Lee, Q. B. Lee, C. A. Spragins, W. W. Cook, Henry C. Fulcher, Wm. McKemie, Leslie Humphrey, T. A. Hicks and C. E. Basham.

Coterie Club

Mrs. R. L. Hargrave was hostess to members of the Coterie club when Russia was the continued theme for program numbers. Roll call was answered with names of rivers or mountains in Russia.

"Bolshevism in Principle and in Practice," was the subject of a splendid paper by Mrs. C. D. Shamburger and Mrs. Charles Borland talked on "The Russian Revolution and Its Leader," and "Anastasia," by H. Vonrath-Kielman, was the subject of a lovely interpretation by Mrs. C. W. Boller.

In the social hour, delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames C. W. Boller, E. B. Bailey, E. P. Bass, C. E. Borland, Rhea Howard, Lester Jones, C. D. Shamburger, J. Wilkie Talbert, W. E. Young, Ivan Murchison and the hostess, Mrs. Hargrave.

New Century Club

Members of the New Century club met with Mrs. Mack Thomas at her home on Tenth street where the program hour was spent in study of music and drama in the South. Mrs. W. P. Bolding, leader, gave an interesting study of the "Folk Drama" of the South and Mrs. Luke McCrory talked charmingly on the "Songs and Poems."

Southern music was demonstrated in delightful piano numbers by Miss Nettie Baber on the piano and by songs by Ruth Thomas and Patsy Lou Sanford with ukulele accompaniment.

In the social half hour, a dainty refreshment plate was served to Mesdames W. P. Bolding, Fred T. Couper, W. D. Cline, T. P. Duncan, C. W. Gilliland, J. C. A. Guest, C. R. Hartsook, C. W. Snider, J. L. Waggoner and the hostess, Mrs. Thomas.

LEAGUE UNION IS ORGANIZED FRIDAY

Epworth league members of Methodist churches met at the Scotland church Friday evening and organized a city-wide union. The session was opened with a song led by Ralph DeShong, accompanied at the piano by Laurette Erwin, after which Selma Norvell and Mae Bartlett played a violin duet accompanied at the piano by Laurette Erwin.

Weldon Johnson, president of the Scotland Epworth league presided, and Mrs. Jack Ralston explained that the new union will take the place of the old quarterly conferences of the leagues.

Harold White introduced the officers of the union as follows: Thelma Norvell, president; Weldon Johnson, vice president; Martha Johnson, secretary; Madge Caldwell, treasurer, and Alice Sides, publicity director.

Miss Ruth Downing announced the young people's banquet to be held at the First Methodist educational building Feb. 20, after which a social hour was enjoyed and games played.

There were about 100 present.

MRS. DURRETT HOSTESS TO ALPHA CLUB

Members of the Alpha Story Telling club were delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. T. E. Durrett on Harrison street Friday afternoon when the program was opened with roll call, responded to with quotations from Socrates.

The topic for the afternoon was "Greece," and Mrs. O. H. Karr told a story of that country. The story of "The Golden Fleece" was told by Mrs. W. C. Duncan; Mrs. R. G. Cocanower told the story of "Ulysses of the Siren," and Mrs. R. L. Daugherty told one entitled, "Paradise of Children."

In a business session that preceded the program, Mrs. Ted Harris was enrolled a new member, and a yearbook committee was appointed, including Mrs. O. H. Karr, chairman, and Mesdames R. G. Cocanower, P. B. Curd and Frank Creighton.

Refreshments carrying out the valentine suggestions were served to Mesdames A. L. Williams, W. A. Scarbrough, J. N. Sherrill, T. E. Durrett, Frank Creighton, R. G. Cocanower, P. B. Curd, R. L. Daugherty, W. C. Duncan, Ted Harris and O. H. Karr.

BRIDGE TOURNAMENT PLANNED FOR FEB. 16

Mrs. J. A. Rhodes was hostess to a committee of women appointed to arrange for a bridge tournament to be held at Weeks park clubhouse Tuesday, Feb. 16. A lovely luncheon was served to Mesdames C. W. Watts, G. Wayne Barker, D. W. Hill, A. N. Edwards, Howard Kendall and Miss Winnie Mae Giddings.

Charles F. Doran To Show Revue Of Tap Dances

Using 33 pupils in an idea taken from the Fanchon Marco stage unit, "Gobs of Joy," which toured the United States playing the larger cities for over two years, Chas. F. Doran will present a clever revue at 8 p. m. Saturday evening, Feb. 13, at the Woman's Forum clubhouse.

Mr. Doran feels this is a show which should be enjoyed by all who like tap dancing, being a strictly tap revue.

All those who are interested in tap dancing or who have children who might be interested are invited.

Bernard Hinds and his orchestra will accompany throughout the evening.

OZZIE MATHEWS IS HONORED AT PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Irvin assisted by Misses Winnie Biggerstaff and Pearl Dawson, entertained with a delightful birthday party Thursday evening, honoring their son, Ozzie Mathews.

Games were enjoyed after which the guests were invited into the dining room where the birthday cake decorated with lighted candles, centered the table. Comic valentines formed the favors, and the verse on each was read by the guests causing much merriment. The cake was cut and prizes found.

IN THE PICTURES

are shown the girls in an all star cast which will present the Epworth league play at all the Methodist churches of the city beginning Friday evening, Feb. 12. The first performance will be given at the Scotland Methodist church. Among the attractive actresses who will be seen in these performances are Misses Martha Johnson, Edith McClure, Beverly Calhoun, Retha Mae Smith and Mrs. Ray E. Lloyd. Mrs. John Buzzell is a recent bride and was formerly Miss Ernestine Huff. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Huff on Britain street.

PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

WITH the new year getting well under way, every woman's organization in the city is busy meeting and planning work for the months to come. And like a bolt out of a clear sky comes the news that a real, old time charity ball is being arranged for the night of Washington's birthday. It has been years and years since Wichita Falls' society has had the pleasure of attending a charity ball. We have had numerous dances for various kinds of benefits, but not a real, sure enough charity ball. Bridge tournaments have been popular forms of entertainment for making money in a pleasant way, and are still popular, but young, middle-aged and old, are always interested in a charity ball.

◇

W. B. HAMILTON is chairman of arrangements and Julian Montgomery, vice chairman, and Miss Elizabeth Carrigan and T. J. Waggoner Jr., will arrange the entertainment features. The ball will be sponsored by Maskat Temple and the money derived from the affair will be used for the day nursery and to be distributed by the Masonic bodies to the needy.

◇ ◇ ◇

ON Feb. 22 also, the United States of America will witness the 200th anniversary of the birth of George Washington, and the United States government has planned a nine-month celebration, to be known as the George Washington bicentennial. A great deal of publicity has been loosed by the national committee with regard to this event, and a very eventful nation-wide observance is expected to take place.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN keeping with this idea, many and various kinds of celebrations are being planned for Wichita Falls. The Major Francis Grice chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will plant a pecan grove on the Memorial auditorium grounds when all patriotic bodies will be special guests and some will take part in the ceremonies; the Woman's Forum will give an elaborate luncheon with the George Washington motif predominating, and the newest announcement of coming events of this nature will be a play to be presented by the Martha Jefferson chapter, Children of the American Revolution about the middle of this month. Mrs. W. J. Burt is sponsor for this chapter, and Mrs. Sterling Crumpler is directing the play.

◇ ◇ ◇

AND talking about this celebration, reminds me of a clever verse in the February Southern Pharmaceutical Journal published in Dallas by W. H. Cousins, a former Wichitan known by many pioneers here as well as others. The verse headlined "Lines for George Washington on His Two Hundredth Birthday," reads:

"Was it for this you tore your hair
And braved the frozen Delaware,
And risked your rather precious life
Against Cornwallis in the strife
To save this land for future years
That now, beset with racketeers,
Over-production and a raft
Of tariff, taxes, greed and graft,
We sigh to give this place the sack
And wish the Indians had it back?"

◇ ◇ ◇

IN this same issue of the Journal is a wonderful tribute to Miss Margaret Cousins, daughter of the publisher, who is the editor of th magazine. Miss Cousins is also well known in Wichita Falls and is often a visitor here when she is the house

Eagle Film Will Reveal Nature's Secret Places

Capt. Charles Knight of England will show his wonder film of eagle life in the Woman's Forum auditorium at 8 p. m. Feb. 12. The meeting will be open to the public at regular admission prices.

Perhaps the most thrilling pictures in the unusual story given by Captain Knight will be those which reveal in slow motion photography the flight of Grampian, Captain Knight's trained, if still ferocious golden eagle.

"Filming the Golden Eagle" begins with a charming prolog picturing the birds of an English garden, then goes to the Scotch highlands to see the monarch of the air in his native haunts. It was here that Captain Knight, with an unerring eye for the artistic as well as the actual and with an unfailing patience, produced a film that is without an equal, it has been announced, as a study of the life history of bird or animal.

The film ran in the Polytechnic theater, London, for 15 weeks, three appearances a day with capacity audiences. The criticism of the London Sphere is fully descriptive: "It is two hours of perfect delight, intensely interesting, absorbing and thrilling. And what is more, it is more powerful propaganda in the cause of belief than 100 sermons from the bench of bishops. Thanks to Captain Knight's unwearying patience and grit, you may penetrate the most secret places of nature and look into the minds of the bird creation, and learn beyond doubt that the Hand that made them is divine.

DIRECTORS ARE BUSY WITH JUNTO CLUB

The Roycroft Junto, a discussion group for business and professional women of the city, which is under process of formation by Mrs. Frank Lee and Miss Virginia McGee, is attracting much attention, it is announced. The Socratic method that is being adopted by the large universities, will be used as a means to develop the individuality of the business woman, according to the plan outlined by the directors.

Based on the biographies of those who have had a tremendous influence on the world, the organization inspires it's members by the knowledge of the lives of others.

Large Number of Delegates Will Attend Three Days Convention Of First District T. F. W. C.

Approximately 350 delegates and guests are expected to be present at the district conference of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, which will meet in Wichita Falls, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, April 20, 21 and 22 with headquarters for all meetings at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. The 18 federated clubs in Wichita Falls will be hostess to the representatives from 130 clubs in the 21 counties of the first district, totaling in membership approximately 10,000.

The program is being arranged by Mrs. W. H. Moore of Fort Worth, program chairman. Mrs. Ola G. Hamlin of Wichita Falls, chairman in the district of fine arts, will arrange the fine arts program to be given one evening of the conference.

An innovation will be the opening of the convention proper at 3 o'clock in the afternoon after the executive board luncheon which will be held at 12 o'clock, Wednesday, April 20. This will afford opportunity for officers' reports, greetings and the early business of the convention before the tea that will compliment the guests that afternoon at 5 o'clock. The first evening, will, following the usual precedent, honor the district president, Mrs. Bob Barker of Fort Worth.

Chairmen Named

Mrs. Guy Rogers, who was elected general chairman for the conference, has announced her appointments made to this date. She has endeavored to have a representative from every federated club on her committee. Other appointments will follow.

Appointments already made include the following: Program printing, Mrs. R. E. Hilburn; publicity, Mrs. W. M. Cason; homes, Mrs. W. W. Cook; board luncheon, Mrs. G. C. Johnson; Thursday luncheon, Mrs. Bert Bean; Friday luncheon, Mrs. Newton Maer; fine arts dinner, Mrs. W. P. Killingsworth; federated clubs, Mrs. G. L. Shapard; information, Miss Clara Schulz; credentials, Mrs. J. Truman Stevens; stage decorations, Mrs. Walter Campbell; badges, Mrs. A. B. Lipscomb; tickets, Mrs. O. W. Harvey; exhibits, Mrs. J. C. A. Guest; ushers and pages, Mrs. P. P. Langford; bulletin board, Miss Marguerite Peery; lost and found, Mrs. C. E. Bailey; souvenir programs, Miss Jennie Robinson; house, Mrs. Sam Acton; telephone, Mrs. Ray Thompson; envelopes, Mrs. Claude Woods; distinguished guests, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal; automobiles, Mrs. T. A. Hicks and Mrs. G. D. Fox.

WILSON GROVE 1487 PLANS ALL DAY MEET

Members of Wilson Grove 1487 Woodmen circle met at the K. P. hall Friday afternoon in a regular session, when plans were completed for an all day meeting Friday, Feb. 12.

Several out of town visitors have been invited for this occasion, including Mesdames Etta Davidson, state superintendent of Dallas and Della Sappington, district manager from Fort Worth. It was announced that Mrs. Goldsticker and the drill team from Stamford will be present to initiate a class of candidates. The traveling gavel will also be here on that date. The Wilson Grove circle, having the largest percentage of insurance of any grove in Texas is first to win the honor of using the gavel.

A bunco party and dance was announced for the evening of the 12th. The dinner committee was appointed as follows: Mesdames Cora Jackson, Clemmie Johnson, Parollie Marshall, Lucy Faubion, Alma Hansen, Mamie Cabiness, Oakey, Emma Gilbert and May Hulbert. Members of the entertainment committee include Mesdames Jenny Berry, Louise Scott, Ouida Hickman, Artman Daniel, Tula Nash, Mattie Holder and Miss Julia Fallness.

Talks were made by several concerning the new campaign. Mrs. Loereatha Henry was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Louise Scott who resigned as reporter.

Several members were reported ill and Mrs. Evona Wallace was welcomed back after her illness. Mrs. Loereatha Henry won the prize for the month.

About 30 members were present.

Miss Zona Marie Ehlert, who has been a student at C. I. A. the past term, is at home for the remainder of the winter and spring.

All Star Cast Will Present League Comedy

The All-Star Epworth league play, "All Entangled," to be presented at the several Methodist churches of the city will be given at the Scotland Methodist church Friday evening, Feb. 12. Other performances of the play will be given at the Floral Heights Methodist church on Monday, Feb. 15; First Methodist church, Tuesday, Feb. 16; Wilson Memorial Methodist church on Thursday, Feb. 18 and at the Grant Street Methodist church on Friday, Feb. 19.

Young people's organizations at each of the churches will sponsor the play when presented there. Rehearsals have been in progress for the past three weeks.

Miss Inez Terrill, director of the play, announced that the cast had mastered the play and that the next week will be devoted to perfecting the stage technique before presentation. Members of the cast have earned their parts by giving excellent performances in the play tournament held in December.

According to Harold White, producer of the play, the characters were all cast to type and Miss Martha Johnson of the Floral Heights league will have the opportunity to display one of the nicest young heroine characters seen in an amateur performance here. As the sedate and pious pastor, Drew McCulley has been cast. Mr. McCulley has appeared in the Civic theater productions last fall and is considered one of the best young actors in the city. His mastery of comedy characters has received special commendation.

For the young baseball player and hero type, Weldon Johnson of the Scotland league was selected. Mr. Johnson was active in dramatics at the Wichita Falls High school and Junior college and has appeared in many amateur productions during the past year. In the character of a young newspaper reporter, Valdon Brownlee of the senior league of the First Methodist church will give a portrayal of a young who mixes love and business and wins in both. Mr. Brownlee's performance as the busy business man in the play "Savibi Dad" was considered excellent.

As Mr. and Mrs. Penrose, in whose home the action of the play takes place, Miss Beverly Calhoun, winner of the characterization prize in the tournament, and Lloyd Bland have been cast. The meek Mr. Penrose and the sarcastic Mrs. Penrose make these two a comedy team par excellent. Their daughter, Ruth, played by Miss Edith McClure, and the maids, played by Misses Reetha Mae Neal and Alice Sides, together with the two officers of the law played by Henry Barton and W. Miller complete the cast.

An all league orchestra, under the direction of J. Stanley Raub, will also appear in connection with each performance of the play.

FIRST BAPTIST W. M. S. TO MEET MONDAY

Members of the First Baptist W. M. S. will meet in separate circles Monday afternoon as follows: Circle one with Mrs. J. T. Brooks, 1006 Tenth street; circle two with Mrs. W. H. David, 1009 Eleventh street; circle three with Mrs. J. H. Stanfill, 1313 Fourteenth street; circle four with Mrs. J. T. Gant, 1623 Eleventh street; circle five with Mrs. J. N. Van Houton, 1806 Denver; circle six with Mrs. J. N. Kenney, 1708 Lucile; circle seven with Mrs. W. T. Wells, 1701 Speedway; circle eight, with Mrs. A. O. Hall, 2210 Talunar lane; circle nine with Mrs. M. V. Vanston, 1609 Fillmore; circle 10 with Mrs. L. G. Stewart, 2109 Brown; circle 11 with Mrs. Ivan Murchison, 1503 Grant, and circle 12 with Mrs. Louis Byrd, 2103 Garfield.

Two Wichitans to Represent High School in National Meet

A signal honor has been won by two Wichita Falls High school boys. When the national conference of music supervisors meets in Cleveland, Ohio, in April, William Huff Jr., will represent the schools of this city in the chorus and Arthur Davis, a talented pupil of Eithel Allen Nelson will represent the schools in orchestra. The boys will be in Cleveland for a week, the conference opening April 3, and according to Miss Erma Nala Voss, supervisor of music in Wichita Falls, the chorus and orchestra give many musical programs in the city hostess to the nation's supervisors.

The National High School orchestra is composed of 250 boys and girls from the high schools of the United States. These boys and girls are chosen on merit. The National High school chorus is composed of 500 boys and girls from the high schools of the United States, and they, too, are chosen on merit. All the music for these concerts is learned in advance in the various high schools from which the boys and girls come. Then during the conference week in the conference city intensive rehearsals are held daily.

It was in 1926 that the National High School orchestra made its first appearance. Its appearance was so spectacular, and the music performed so excellently as to be almost stunning. The efficiency with which this project was organized and developed, and the remarkable success of the concerts have insured its permanency. The National High School orchestra has been a feature not only of each music superivisor's conference, but on two different occasions they have given programs for the department of superintendents of the National Education association. Each time they have played their programs have been broadcast ,and they will be this year over one of the national networks.

The National High School chorus is newer, having been organized four years ago and performed first for the music supervisors' national conference in April, 1928, at the Chicago meeting.

Approximately 3,000 supervisors attend these national conferences, according to Miss Voss, who will be present in Cleveland in April.

At the Chicago meeting, the Chicago Tribune said: "The music supervisors closed their national conference last night with what was to an outsider by far the most charming demonstration they have yet made. It was a concert by the National High School chorus."

"Mere facts cannot describe the heavenly quality of those fresh young voices. They floated through heights as though effort in singing was as something they had never heard of. Apparently there was nothing beyond their capabilities.

"It was such singing as this that makes one believe that all is right in the world of American music, or if not quite right, at least getting better in quite decisive progress."

REAGAN P.-T. A. PLANS FOR TREE PLANTING

Members of the executive board of the Reagan Junior High P.-T. A. met at the home of the president, Mrs. Monte Staniforth Friday morning when plans were made for a tree planting on the school campus. Mrs. M. B. Smith who is cooperating with Mrs. Floyd Randel, chairman of the Garden club, in behalf of the Reagan P.-T. A., announced that Mr. Downing will present to the P.-T. A. a sycamore tree to be planted in accordance with the nation-wide observance of tree planting for memorial, conservation, and beautification purposes during the bicentennial year.

The celebration will take place on the school grounds after school Friday Feb. 19, and detailed notices of the program will be given at a later date, according to Mrs. Smith.

The board voted a cash sum of money to be given to the shoe fund of the city council, and members discussed a few possible projects to earn more money to donate to the same purpose.

Mrs. Staniforth urges all members to remember that the Reagan P.-T. A. will not meet on the regular day this month, but will join with the P.-T. A.'s of the high school and junior college in a big Washington celebration to be held at the college auditorium Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 9 at 2:30 o'clock.

The Reagan Junior High P.-T. A. will present on that occasion, one of its members, Miss Margaret Morgan, as the principal speaker of the day. Miss Morgan will talk on some interesting phase of Washington's career, and a splendid program has been arranged for this joint meeting.

All Reagan P.-T. A. members are urged to attend, and if any one of them needs transportation, Mrs. Staniforth suggests that they be at the Reagan school at 2:15 p. m. where a number of cars will be waiting to take them to the meeting.

guest of Mrs. Louis Hamlett and other friends. Miss Cousins is spending a few weeks in New York City and the editorial is written about how she is missed in the office.

IN this editorial, Miss Cousins is referred to as the dynamo of a power plant, and it says that she is as loyal to her work as a Spartan soldier, stubborn as a raw broncho with saddle sores, looking for a story or a poem, in the priest or the fellon, the river or the mountain, the tramp or the artist, the sunset or the soda fountain.

It states further that she works like a galley slave and spends money like a drunk Indian, believes that Will Rogers is a greater philosopher than Benjamin Franklin, and that Willie Howard is still the funniest man in New York.

◇ ◇ ◇

SPEAKING of Miss Cousins, the Texas Press Association Messenger for January, in its personal mention column says, "Miss Margaret Cousins, editor of the Southern Pharmaceutical Journal, daughter of Walter H. Cousins, leading drug editor and publisher of the Southwest, has gone to New York for a visit. Miss Margaret's writings have attracted the attention of the leading drug journals of the country and she has been invited to New York by the American Druggist magazine in an effort to interest her in a connection with this world famous drug publication."

◇ ◇ ◇

MEMBERS of the Manuscript club, writers, department of the forum and of the Poetry society and others will be interested in the Drug Store Anthology written by this talented young journalist. One verse in the anthology is written about the cashier, and entitled Flora, the Cashier, and reads:

"Flora had a piquant air,
Repartee and lots of smile;
Old men often paused a while
As they bought their fat cigars—
Told her she had eyes of stars—
They were anxious to arrange
Parties. They got back their change
And a grin. Flora didn't fall
For their lines nor them at all,
But grew wistful when she smelled
Good perfume and then beheld
Some slim girl with furs and charm
Clinging to a young man's arm—
Sighed for sables all that day
And some Guerlain's Rue le Paix.

◇ ◇ ◇

ABOUT Art, the Soda Skeet, she writes:

"Art was blessed with golden curls
And a way with high school girls,
And all other girls as well;
Women sixty often fell
For his gentle looks and line.
He could mix a coke or stein
Of root beer with quiet grace
And a deep look on his face.
Art dreamed of the silver sheet
While he ground the sandwich meat.

◇ ◇ ◇

"Old man Brown, who owned the store,
Opened up the big front door
Every morning, and all day
There he stayed and worked away
Pleasant like, without much talk
And a tired sort of walk;
Stayed 'til midnight every night
Then trudged home and got up bright
And early to come back again.
He never was one to complain,
But sometimes he looked gaunt and thin
When the monthly bills roll in."

THERE are two pages of this anthology, one about the prescription man, one about the porter and another about the messenger boy, and in reading them all over, it was hard to decide which ones to select to give to the author's friends. They are all exceedingly human and tell their own little story of the ups and downs of these well known workers in all drug stores. All these bits of verse are also sent to show you some of the styles of writing that is giving this young journalist national recognition and landing her a place on one of the foremost commercial journals in the world if she wants it.

Yours for talent and progress,

Peggy Piedmont

HARLEQUIN PLAYERS TO PRESENT ONE-ACT PLAYS

Harlequin Players will present an evening of one-act plays at the parish house, Friday, Feb. 19, Mrs. T. A. Korn, director of the organization, announced Saturday. The plays are, "A Wedding," which is a comedy; "Slave With Two Faces," a short drama, and "Ashes of Roses," a melodrama.

Large Audience Enjoys Sacred Heart Concert

An audience which packed the Sacred Heart church hall Friday night, enjoyed the delightful benefit concert given by local artists, and sponsored by the Academy of Mary Immaculate. The program proved to be one of the most entertaining and enjoyable ones ever to be given at the church hall and was opened with a group of numbers sung by the Sacred Heart church choir accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Carl Edwards.

Mrs. J. E. Hall played to exquisite violin numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed, and was effectively accompanied by Miss Annette Walsh, who afterwards gave a spirited and brilliant interpretation of Reuben Davies' "Witchery." The Gypsy songs sung by Miss Harriet Bradley, contralto, and Baldwin Montgomery, tenor, lent color and picturesqueness to the program and received hearty applause from the audience.

Following the musical numbers, a comedy entitled "The Unwelcome Guest," written and directed by Mrs. F. B. Sharp, was presented and pronounced by the audience, a complete success. The cast was well chosen, and gave their parts in a professional manner.

Those taking part in the comedy were Mesdames Albert Hund, F. B. Sharp, Misses Erie Ward, Marie Flusche, Betty Brown, and Irving Garnier, Larry Schwamb and Albert Hund. The program was concluded with folk songs sung by members of the comedy cast.

Tickets for the program were furnished through the courtesy of the Railey Printing company; the piano by the J. J. Moore Piano company, and programs by the Wichita Printing company.

CAMP FIRE SPARKS

On Saturday of this week, the first of a series of talks to help Camp Fire Girls with their 1932 birthday plans will be given by Ivan Murchison at Freear Furniture company at 1:30 o'clock. Each group has been assigned a room for their decoration project and most of the groups have visited the store and had a talk with Mr. Murchison.

A special honor will be awarded to all girls who complete the requirements for the home beautification course. This course will also be a great help to girls interested in earning the national birthday honor.

Guardian Association

The guardians will have a business meeting on Saturday at Freear's immediately following the talk by Mr. Murchison. Plans will be made for birthday month.

Acancan Group

Due to illness of the executive, Mrs. Maude Bartholomew met with Miss Leska Howard and her girls at the Reagan school on Wednesday morning. Plans for doughnut day on Saturday, and birthday plans were discussed. Reorganization of the group will take place when the clubs in the school are reorganized for the new term. All girls wishing to renew or to join were invited to meet with the group. Some 20 girls attended.

Mankilo Group

Mrs. T. C. Lynch, P.-T. A. sponsor for the Crockett school group, met with the girls on Wednesday afternoon. Measurements were taken for the curtains to be put up in the club room. Discussion of birthday plans and doughnut day followed.

Adi-Iwah Group

Members of the Adi-Iwah group met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Frank W. Michaux, 1607 Bluff, on Monday at 6 o'clock. The following officers were elected: President, Thelma Simmons; vice president and scribe, Florence Frazer; secretary and treasurer, Mary Elizabeth Largin; chairman of program committee, Margaret Davis. June Houston and her mother furnished music with the guitar and violin and the girls sang songs, learning a new group song. A delightful refreshment plate bearing out the valentine motif was served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mary Elizabeth Largin, 1808 Kemp boulevard.

Nowetompatimmin

Members of the Nowetompatimmin group who were not down with the "flu" visited Freear Furniture store on Wednesday afternoon with their guardian, Mrs. O. M. Pierce. Plans were discussed for making a nursery of the room assigned to the group. A drawing was made, noting dimensions, and Mr. Murchison discussed possibilities with the girls.

Oawakiya

The Oawakiya group met at home of the guardian, Mrs. Frank Schram, on Wednesday afternoon. The time was spent in getting orders for doughnuts. Evelyn Howard furnished refreshments.

Tanokiwin

Mrs. S. L. Conn, guardian, will meet with the Tanokiwins at Austin school on Tuesday afternoon.

Making Hooked Rugs Is Taught At Club Meeting

Miss Ethel Luise Webb, county home demonstrator, gave a lesson on hooked rugs at the regular meeting of the City View demonstration club at the home of Mrs. Walter Taylor, 3600 Crescent drive, Friday afternoon. She discussed the history of hooked rug designs with reference to the floral and conventional types. Patterns were made by the members and color schemes suggested. The rural club women will use old woolen materials in making the rugs.

Mrs. J. M. Isbell, chairman of the county federation of home beautification committee, discussed the possibility of native trees and shrubs in beautifying the surroundings of the rural home and also discussed the cooperative plans of the Wichita Falls garden club in assisting the rural women of the county in their home beautification work. Mrs. J. F. Gross was selected for the pantry demonstrator for the year; Mrs. W. H. Keil, bedroom demonstrator, and Mrs. Walter Taylor, yard demonstrator. The next meeting of the club will be held Feb. 16 at the home of Mrs. W. H. Keil, when a program in keeping with the George Washington celebration will be given.

Refreshments were served to the following members and visitors: Mesdames J. W. Evans, W. H. Keil, Joe McKinney, J. M. Isbell, Grigsby, Powers, G. C. Wesley, Walter Taylor and Miss Ethel Luise Webb.

REVIEW TO FEATURE DEPARTMENT PROGRAM

One of the events anticipated with much pleasure in the coming week is the valentine luncheon of the literature department at the Woman's Forum clubhouse when the program will consist of a book review by Mrs. Anna Witherspoon. With her recent tour of the orient in mind and the current interest shown in the war in China a factor to be considered, Mrs. Witherspoon has chosen as her subject, Pearl Buck's great book, "The Good Earth," a novel which has been pronounced by more than a few of the great critics, the novel of the year.

Mrs. Ralph H. Peterson is general chairman of arrangements and is planning with her committee, to have the tables note the bright valentine motif.

Mrs. Hamlin, chairman of the department, will preside. Reservation, which are requested to be made by Wednesday evening, may be made with Mrs. R. E. Hilburn, 3345 or with Mrs. Ruth Kirksey, 7230.

Hostesses include Mesdames B. D. Donnell, John M. Martin, Carl Yeager, E. K. White, Harry ten Brink, O. B. Albritton, Claude Gilchrist and J. A. Gardner.

Luncheon will be served at 12 o'clock.

EXPECT SELECT BOX OFFICIALS

Election Clerks for 45 County Precincts to Be Named

Members of the commissioners court Monday will name judges and clerks for the 45 election boxes in Wichita county for the general election next fall. Both Democrats and Republicans will be represented in the appointments if the past policy of the court is followed.

The city council in regular session Monday night will receive copies of City Manager V. R. Smitham's proposed economy budget for study.

The Age of FAT
Need No Longer Be Feared
Soon after 30, multitudes of people gain excess fat. Many at earlier ages. A great reason lies in a weakened gland, which largely controls nutrition. Food that should create fuel and energy goes to fat.
Since this discovery, doctors the world over feed this gland factor to the over-fat. Slender figures all around you are due to this method now.
In Tablet Form
Marmola prescription tablets present this new-day method in ideal form. A famous laboratory prepares them to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. The results are seen in every circle. Those slender figures, now so common, are not due to starving.
Every box contains the formula. So users know, and doctors know, just how Marmola acts. You are taking in Marmola what the best physicians use.
Fight fat in this modern way. Combat the cause. Take Marmola—four tablets daily—until weight comes down to normal. As the fat goes, watch your vim come back. Then tell your friends what did it. Don't wait longer—start this right way now.

SMEDLEY D. BUTLER, FIERY GENERAL, TO APPEAR HERE SOON

Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, United States marine corps, retired, whose spectacular career for more than 30 years in military service is well known, will speak here Wednesday night, Feb. 17, at the Memorial auditorium on a subject vitally important to the world today, "Japan and China."

His appearance is under the auspices of Maskat temple.

General Butler was to have spoken before a Wichita Falls audience on "Blowing the Lid Off Crime," but, because of the great interest in the situation in the orient and due to popular demand, he consented to deliver a different address.

He is always interesting because he has interesting things to say and because he presents his opinions and facts in an unusual manner.

General Butler was active in the Chinese Boxer war in 1900, and was wounded at Tientsin, as a result of which he was advanced two grades in rank and brevetted for gallantry in action.

Consequently, he will be competent to present facts concerning the present situation in China and to offer valuable opinions on causes and results of the war.

Varsity News

By BETTY LOVE RUGELEY

Tuesday morning, the first day of the second school semester, found the University of Texas campus full of students in spite of the lull in activities for several days.

All first semester grades had not been posted at that time, and everywhere the old students were busy trying to find out their grades and attend a few new classes.

It is estimated that about 500 students have left Austin to go to their homes and approximately 600 new students are expected to enter school for the first time.

On Monday 263 new students had paid their fees and thus making a total of 6,126 students who have enrolled in Texas this year.

Students' grade books will be returned to them with a complete record of their work on Friday, and the parents of students will receive a statement of their grades about the end of the week.

One of the most exciting "battles" in the history of the university came to a close at 11:20 o'clock Saturday night. It was the finish of a 96-hour program in which architects and university officers had been engaged in attempting to award the contracts for the nine new campus buildings, which are to undergo construction immediately. This is one of the most extensive building programs ever planned for the university and it is considered a realization of the dreams of President Benedict and the board of regents, who have worked so hard to put it through. The new buildings will include a men's dormitory, geology building, library, home economics building, architecture building, physics building, auditorium, engineering building and a student union building. A final check shows the cost to be $3,752,581.

Quite a number of university girls are taking an active part in the Mardi gras celebration, which is being held in Galveston next week. Eleanor Douglass of Galveston will be duchess of the University of Texas, and Miss Susan Gymer, also of Galveston, will be her maid of honor. Mary Etta Kleberg of Corpus Christi will be grand duchess of Texas. Elise Jester will be duchess of Corsicana and will be attended by her sister, Sarah Jester. Glynn Fowler will be duchess of Fort Worth, and Miss Emmy Lou King will be her maid.

Mrs. Daniel E. Grieder, formerly of Wichita Falls, will read the beautiful allegorical play by Jerome K. Jerome, "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," a three-act play, Sunday at the vesper service of the First Presbyterian church.

Mrs. P. S. Shearer, national executive secretary of Alpha Dleta Pi sorority, was a visitor in Austin this week. She was entertained with a dinner on Wednesday night and a luncheon on Thursday noon. Mrs. Dorothy Peckham of Wichita Falls and Miss Virginia Bell of Graham were present at these affairs.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Bennett of Dallas, formerly of Wichita Falls, have been in Austin for several days visiting their daughter, Dorothy, who is enrolled in the university.

Under the direction of Mrs. Dan Moody, Mrs. D. K. Woodward and Mrs. Sanderson, and through the advice of one of the leading interior decorators of the state, the governor's mansion has been redecorated and refurnished for the first time in many, many years. The mansion is said to be extremely fresh and spring-like in its new "spring costume."

Two years ago Texas was represented in Europe by a member of the Texas ranger force. He was looked upon by the residents of London as the epitome of all that ever pertained to Texas. Next year Texas will have an entirely different type of representation if plans now on foot in organizing a tour of the Longhorn band materialize.

Thirty members of the band will be included in the concert tour, to make its first trip to Europe in the summer of 1933. Fred L. Haskett of Dallas is the prime mover in the idea to send the Texans on such a trip.

Among the many spring activities which are being planned for in Austin is the February tea, sponsored by the Junior Helping Hand, which will feature a style show of new spring clothes. Over 800 patrons have been secured for this occasion, and the list includes several Wichita Falls people. Among these are Mrs. Gordon Fulcher, J. W. McReynolds, Harwood Stacy, Daniel Grieder, John H. Nash, James Allred and John W. Robbins. This occasion is an annual affair and an important day on the social calendar.

Mary Grace Milam, formerly of Seymour, who is an Alpha Phi, is campus president of the Pan-Hellenic council of the university. The council has been at work formulating rules for the annual rush week of sororities, which is to take place Feb. 17, 18, 19, and pledge day, which is Feb. 20. This is the most thrilling event in the life of the university co-ed. The list of eligible girls will be out by next week, and invitations to sorority affairs will be sent on the 12th.

Ushering in this favorite season of the year a spring style revue, sponsored by The Daily Texan and the Austin merchants, will be presented to clothes-minded populace of Austin and to university girls in particular on the evening of Feb. 15. This revue will be the result of a contest being staged for girls to enter a contest in which they will pick a spring wardrobe according to budget, and the winners, as selected by a committee of varsity girls, will have their wardrobe displayed at this revue.

Members of the Beaumont Zeta alumnae chapter will be hostesses during the Zeta Province convention of Zeta Tau Alpha to be held in Beaumont this year. Mrs. Joseph G. Heyck, president of the Beaumont alumnae, will have charge.

At the end of the past semester, Ouida Baxter, Tri Delt, announced her marriage to J. W. Newton, Delta Chi, which took place in New Braunfels on Nov. 12, 1931. Mrs. Newton was one of the Cactus beauties and very prominent in students activities last year. Her marriage came as a surprise to her friends on the campus.

Miss Dell Hatchitt, Kappa Alpha Theta, spent the holidays between term visiting and shopping in San Antonio.

I haven't seen any new faces from our part of the country in school this semester, but I have been glad to see that so many old students are still around the forty acres.

Nero's method of amassing wealth was to put rich people to death and confiscate their property.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at Allison's Drug store of any drug store in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.—Adv.

RECORD-NEWS PATTERNS

Tailormades this season have a smart feminine dash to them that is unmistakably new. The spring suit is being happily styled between tailored and dress effect by using trim, straight lines with soft, feminine fabrics. It will be a life saver this year of economy because with several blouses, one suit can play the part of three. And as for the simple frocks with just a bit of contrast, and little or no trimming, what could be smarter than straight lines that can be worn from early morning to late afternoon.

Pattern 1152

Trim, efficient and extremely lovely of printed rough silk, this jacket and skirt. The coat is straight of line, becomingly revered and just the right length for genuine chic. The skirt has panels in front that are slender and becoming to every type of figure. The model will be smart in canton crepe, Roshanara or sheer wool. Sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 42. Size 16 requires 3⅝ yards of 39-inch fabric.

Pattern 1107

Being very chic, very simple and very new, this frock has a great deal of feminine charm. It may be made of silk, cotton or wool and may be worn for any daytime occasion. The pert bow and the belt give opportunity for a bit of contrast. We suggest blue shantung with orange trimming, or orange rough crepe with white trim. Sizes 14 to 20 and 32 to 40. Size 16 requires 3¾ yards of 36-inch fabric, 1⅛ yards of ribbon.

These models are very easy to make as each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size.

Send 15c in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern ordered.

Our new spring fashion catalog, just off the press, offers 32 pages of the most delightful current and fortcoming styles for afternoon, evening and sports dresses, house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes. All the models featured are authentically styled, and simple and inexpensive to make. Send for your copy. This catalog is 15c when ordered alone. Catalog and pattern together, 25c. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, Times Building, Wichita Falls, Texas.

J. F. Friberg, 908 Scott avenue, repair business house, $140.

GANG OF COW THIEVES USING MODERN METHODS IN TEXAS AND OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6. (AP)—A gang of cow thieves using modern methods and operating over the Texas Panhandle and western Oklahoma came under the fire of authorities here today with the arrest of one man believed to be implicated in more than a dozen raids on ranchers.

W. H. Raynor, who arrested the suspect at the stockyards here, said the method of operation was to fill trucks with cattle in night raids and bring them to packing plants here and at Fort Worth. Complaints of cattle thefts have reached here and from several points in western Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle.

The man arrested brought a load of cattle to Oklahoma City last night and returned to the packing plant today for his money. The owner of the cattle has not been found.

MINE STRIKE BEYOND CONTROL OF SHERIFF APPEALS TO GOVERNOR

RICHMOND, Mo., Feb. 6. (INS)—Declaring that strife between union and non-union miners in the Richmond district was getting beyond control, Sheriff Reed Wollard departed this afternoon for Jefferson City to confer with Gov. Henry S. Caulifield and Atty. Gen. Stratton Shartel in an effort to obtain state assistance in curbing threatened renewals of violence.

Sheriff Wollard's decision to appeal for state aid followed an attempt today by a mob of 50 men to assault Fred Hicks, foreman for mines 21 and 50, near the city limits. Wollard and a deputy, Paul White, succeeded in dispersing the mob. Wollard was accompanied to Jefferson City by several mine operators.

GRANDMOTHER OF LOCAL RESIDENTS SUCCUMBS IN PENNSYLVANIA SATURDAY

Word has been received here from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., telling of the death of Mrs. P. B. Backus, 85, grandmother of Peter C. and Paul L. Backus of Wichita Falls. Mrs. Backus died Saturday morning.

According to the report, funeral services will be held in Wilkes-Barre Monday with burial there.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

Modernity Helps Girls

"Dear Zoe: I am convinced that the average girl has no change nowadays. Men ask so much, and appreciate so little. Common girls are thicker than hops, ready to give everything, taking everything as a matter of course. I find myself timid when with men, self-conscious, stiff and at a loss. Is it just the 'times,' or is there something I personally can do? —MAGGIE."

On the contrary, Maggie, I think modern days and ways favor the girl. It should be easier now than ever for "the average girl" to bring her man to the proposing point. The girl of your mother's generation had little to help her but her own innate charm and cleverness. Today's girl has almost everything done for her.

There's the languorous music, for instance, which is everywhere—in every ballroom, every dancing class, in your own house trickling from your radio, even from the street hurdy-gurdy. One "dances in the dark," listens to crooners, goes far afield into moonlight and solitude by motor, one has the privilege of frank talk (which your mother and grandmother would have died rather than indulge in!) and of taking a little initiative even, if your young man is slow. It's all helps like everything. And the movies!

Even the department stores and furniture houses come to the aid of the modern girl. Window displays include the most suggestive articles, from rose and peach and orchid step-ins to fully furnished bedrooms with pajamas laid out and the most intimate fittings everywhere revealed. One has only to take a stroll with boyfriend to find a hundred romantic suggestions, a thousand subjects for sentimental talk. What more does a halfway clever girl need than the creation of a romantic situation—then a glance, a smile, a hint of snuggle. And behold, the declaration!

Think this over and stop being "timid, self-conscious, stiff and at a loss." The cards are in your hands, Modern Girl.

Drawing the Line

"Dear Zoe: I have been running wild and am so young I'm ashamed to tell you my age. The boy I went steady with is away for some months. He asked me to be true and promised to be so to me. Should I wait for him or go out with others when they ask me? Life is such a nightmare—I never know what to do and where to draw the line. I will appreciate your advice.—F. R."

My advice is this: Do nothing that actually lowers your standing morally, socially and in your own conscience. For in general, the fundamentals of a girl's behavior do not change even though times and manners change. Girls have many helps toward romance that they never had before, as I have pointed out in my answer above to "Maggie." But mark that I say romance, not license.

Men still prefer good girls to what are generally called bad ones. It lies within your own character whether or not your past experiences, the "running wild" and all that, shall spoil your fineness and sweetness and make you actually bad, or not. Close the chapter of your loose affair with the boy who has gone away. Start a new chapter, using modern advantages intelligently and cleverly, not in a way to hurt your reputation and your prestige in your own eyes or anyone else's.

Go Carefully

"Dear Zoe: I am 24, married, with two fine youngsters, boy and girl, and another expected. While my husband is a good provider to home and children, he is brutal to me—calls me an expense, a burden and a failure as a wife. Actually he tells me to leave. I have nowhere to go and am utterly bewildered.—UNHAPPY."

My feeling is that you are in an overwrought state and must be imagining some of these cruelties because of temporary strain. It is a time to go cautiously, prudently, and with more thought for yourself and your babies than for any other person or problem.

Seek counsel and help from your mother or some one else who loves you and understands. When you are well again these terrors may have vanished. Lessened anyhow. Time enough then for the next step. Write me again if you care to.

Punishments for Husbands

"Dear Zoe: I disagree with your answer to J. W. S. My husband 'cheated' and although he has been wonderful to me since, and I still love him, I have put up a cold barrier for a time. This also helps me where I work, and where I meet all sorts of men. I find being cold as an iceberg prevents unwanted advances. Was married at 16 and been through so much that it hardly seems profitable to be affectionate. Am I wrong?

—MRS. W. T. W."

I can't remember that I wrote to J. W. S. But I'll say this, that "cold barriers" sure have their uses. Am I not always advocating them in certain circumstances? The danger lies in making these cold barrriers permanent. If coldness becomes a habit, it kills happiness—for the cold one as well as for the mate.

Indian deer hunters use bells when stalking deer, the animals being attracted by curiosity rather than frightened away.

APPROVAL GIVEN BILL FOR LOANS TO DRAINAGE LEVEE AND IRRIGATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—A bill to create a revolving fund of $100,000,000 for loans to drainage, levee and irrigation districts was approved today by the senate agricultural committee.

The committee also approved a bill to create a revolving fund of $10,000,000 for loans to aid in formation of agricultural credit corporations and livestock companies.

A third bill which received a committees endorsement would extend the time for repayment of drouth loans authorized by the last congress for one year.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES AS TEXANS SEE THEM

The BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

"Brave New World" finds Aldous Huxley ceasing to be a rather irritatingly clever young man and becoming instead a satirist of major proportions.

Brilliantly and bitterly, he presents in this book a picture of the world some 500 years hence. The onward-and-upward boys have had everything their own way. Society is perfectly organized. Poverty, war, disease and oppression have been abolished.

Children are no longer born; they are produced in laboratories, each one suitably "conditioned" during the incubation period so that the human being which it is to become will be perfectly satisfied with its lot. Family life is no more. No one ever worries, no one ever does an antisocial act, no one is ever dissatisfied—happiness, in fact, is universal.

Into this society Mr. Huxley thrusts a "normal" young man who grew up on a savage Indian reservation in the southwestern United States. The lad is first bewildered, then dismayed and finally destroyed by the perfected society in which he finds himself. Through his eyes, Mr. Huxley shows us the appalling futility of a philosophy which makes the pursuit of happiness its one great preoccupation.

"Brave New World" is a rarely brilliant bit of work. It will irritate you, shock you, make you laugh immoderately—and set you thinking.

The Raids on England

The story of the war-time Zeppelin raids on England is told in readable style by Capt. Treusch von Buttlar Brandenfels in "Zeppelins Over England," a book which makes another excellent footnote to the story of the war.

The author commanded a Zeppelin throughout the war, and here he tells of his experiences—the raids on London, the reconnaisance work over the North sea, the battles with hostile planes, the hair-raising experiences in gales and electrical storms. His presentation is anecdotal and disconnected but effective, and his book is both exciting and informative.

The submarine and the Zeppelin were the two great villains of all war-time stories. The submarine men have already told their side of it; this contribution from the Zeppelin group is exceedingly welcome.

It is published by Harcourt, Brace & Co., and sells for $2.50.

Wassermann's New Novel

In "Doctor Kerkhoven," Jacob Wassermann has produced a weighty and exceptionally powerful novel in which prewar and postwar Germany are minutely examined and placed in striking contrast.

Primarily, the story is of Dr. Kerkhoven himself; the obscure general practitioner, who, lifted out of himself through his friendship with a cultured and thoughtful man of the world, becomes one of Europe's most famous healers.

But into it are woven the stories of a dozen other lives, and the whole forms a fabric on which appears, sombre and dismaying, the picture of a society gone sick, a society that is adrift without a star, a society that is ready to believe itself doomed.

Against this background, Dr. Kerkhoven roams to the borderland of science, striving to trace the exact relationship between mind and matter, groping for the obscure motivations of the human soul.

The book is ponderous, hard to read, discursive; but it is very much worth reading. It brings you into contact with a profoundly thoughtful and active mind—which is about all you can ask of any book.

Upper-Class England

I don't quite feel able to blow the trumpets very loudly for Sylvia Thompson's "Summers Night." The book tells about another of those decaying families of upper-class England—you know, they have a beautiful country estate which they can no longer maintain, and they are all marvelously fine and cultured and sensitive and all of that, and postwar England is a heck of a place and they finally have to let the old homestead go.

The young man of the family, in this case, happens to be an artist, so that the complications of the "artistic temperament" are strewn all over the place. The country place is bought by a Jewish family and the young artist marries the daughter (well, can you imagine!) and it all gets pretty harrowing before it's over. And it's hardly worth all the trouble.

AUTHOR OF NEW NOVEL

A Clever Modern Picture

LOADS OF LOVE, by Anne Parrish. Harper and Brothers, publishers, $2.50.

Anne Parrish has brought a crowd of people into her new novel, "Loads of Love," but she manages them with a dexterous grace. There is Bessie, utterly self-confident in her shabby grandeur with the knowledge that she has more money than any of her friends or relatives; Bessie who plays the goddess of the machine though quite as unconsciously as a force of nature; a rather too fat medium-young person, with a big heart and a bull in the china shop personality and person; she not only knocks over ideas and ideals by her own real misunderstanding, crashes into human relations and knocks over the lighter pieces of furniture about her.

There's Claire, the sweet, dainty, ambitious widowed mother who is living for her son, Edward—who wishes to be a writer. Claire's home is suggestive of apricot and gold and dim green—small, but a jewel, with a Spode coffee service that is "really good." Claire gets the worst end of life, but she is a dear. One can only reproach her for being too unselfish a mother-in-law.

Then Edward, who quite sweet naturedly takes all of life offered by his mother. Edward has a cough. Edward is sweet-natured. He is one of the males that the Lord seems to love. Three women are sacrificed to him in the story and we fancy that even though he was her hero, Mrs. Parrish looked upon him with an ironic eye.

There's Katherine, frail, fair, artistic beauty who will not reach out her dainty hands to take her man, so has two of them taken from her. The reader will probably lose patience with Katherine because she is too good. She even offers to play spine for Jenny.

Then there's Jenny, born of two beasts, yet pretty of face, fresh in her youth, afraid of women, at home with men, simple and quite unselfishly selfish and full of sex.

And there are numerous characters, the most appealing of whom is aunt Caroline, who looks at the life of her niece Katherine with tender humor and an almost infinite wisdom.

It is when Bessie, whose telegrams and letters ending with "Loads of Love," gives the story its name, invites Edward and a party of young people to spend the hot summer months at her mountain home Swan's Nest, the story unfolds. Edward and Katherine meet in one another their first real loves. The cook (who was so good a cook that Bessie, on the verge of a diet always let it go over for some special reason) quit and Bessie went for Jenny to help. Beauty and sex in Jenny so fascinated Edward that Katherine withdrew in her favor. (Was she too good or just plain foolish?)

Well anyway, Edward and Jennie were married and went home to live with Claire whom we consider an angel because she could see clearly and yet held her tongue. At least she held it until one hot morning when she had a headache; then she talked sweetly and plainly to Jenny, (who need a paddle) and Jenny ran away and her husband followed her and sternly reprimanded his mother, refusing to return and live off her small fortune. Oh well, Claire was also a fool; just such a fool as fond mothers often are; she sold her all and went abroad with a friend as companion, giving everything to Edward and his kitten wife.

From there, follow the story for yourself; it is prettily written and gives some beautiful pictures even if Mrs. Parrish will depict for us those weaknesses in every character which we try daily to conceal, her humor is winsome and her insight keen.—L. N. C.

Petrolia Writers

Book week in Petrolia meant something to young writers of Petrolia. Quite as neat a bit of work as we have ever seen by amateurs is incorporated in their "Lone Star, a Study of Texas Writers."

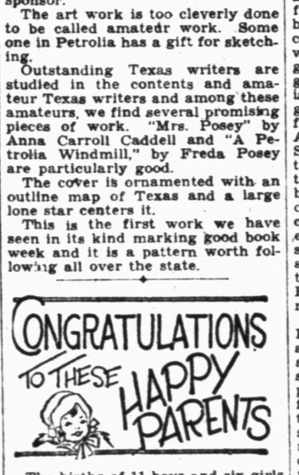

Freda Posey is editor in chief; Martha Penn, associate editor; Abbie Collins, art editor; members of the English classes, contributing writers; Miss Sircy and Ross Webb, typists, and Miss Russell, faculty sponsor.

The art work is too cleverly done to be called amatedr work. Some one in Petrolia has a gift for sketching.

Outstanding Texas writers are studied in the contents and amateur Texas writers and among these amateurs, we find several promising pieces of work. "Mrs. Posey" by Anna Carroll Caddell and "A Petrolia Windmill," by Freda Posey are particularly good.

This is the first work we have seen in its kind marking good book week and it is a pattern worth following all over the state.

The births of 11 boys and six girls were reported during the past week to Dr. R. B. Wolford, city physician, as follows:

MARRIAGES

Hutchenson-Pinson

FREDERICK, Okla., Feb. 6.—The marriage of Miss Norma Pinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Z. Pinson of Tipton, and Leon Hutchenson, son of Mr and. Mrs. W. L. Hutchenson of Frederick, which occurred Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, in Oklahoma City, has been announced here.

The ceremony came as a surprise to friends, who supposed the two were attending the teachers association meeting. Mrs. Hutchenson teaches at Martha, Okla.

Both young people were graduated from Oklahoma university in the spring of 1931, and first became friends on that campus. Hutchenson is employed at the Frederick compress here.

PEEPING AT NEW BOOKS THROUGH UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS

LITERARY KNOT-HOLE

By LORENA DRUMMOND

A Boy Helps Build the Republic of Texas

A youth's version of the Texas revolution, told from the standpoint of Perry Farnham, a Mississippi lad who is supposed to have participated in the three major battles of the contest for independence, is related in "The Lone Star of Courage," by George L. Knapp. This fictional treatment of the Texas battle for independence from Mexico is well authenticated by history, with but minor inaccuracies as regards dates and number of men engaged in various seiges. The story is simply told and gives a fairly good picture of the stirring days from 1825 or 1826 to that noted day, April 21, 1836, when the battle of San Jacinto turned defeat into victory for the Texans. Perry moves through the marches, the seiges, the battles and massacres as one of the common soldiers, and only enough of his personal feelings and experiences are injected to bring the story within the realm of boyish adventure. The figures of Houston, Crockett, Travis, Milam and Fannin become real beings as Perry meets them with youthful awe.

Perry joins the loquacious Doc Benson and comes to Texas at the age of 16, a small fellow, and considered by his familiars to be something of a coward. His fear of physical combat is matched by and finally conquered by his courage in the face of necessity for action. several times he plays the hero—rescuing Doc from imprisonment on two occasions, braving Mexican fire to save the life of a wounded comrade, climbing up a chimney to throw a lighted faggott into the midst of Mexican attackers, and running through the Mexican lines to carry a final message to Fannin from the Alamo. This last is probably the chief episode of fiction in the story, but is plausible enough.

Knapp writes freely, easily, and with dramatic conviction, and "The Lone Star of Courage" should be popular with the group for whom it was written, boys with a yearning for adventure.—By H. L. D., University of Texas.

"The Lone Star of Courage," by George L. Knapp. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.

Georgia's Golden Isles

Almost unique in its subject matter and historic interest is "The Golden Isles of Georgia," by Caroline Couper Lovell. This is an Atlantic Press Book which chronicles the history of that little known chain of islands of which one contemporary journalist recently said: "There is nothing in all America more interesting than the chain of islands that fringe the Georgia coast, known as the Golden Isles of Gaule. Here may still be seen ruins of Spanish missions that were built more than 50 years before the landing of the Pilgrims, and 200 years before the mission-building era of California; here the battlefield of Bloody Marsh stands as evidence of the first decisive battle of the western world, where the death knell of Spanish supremacy in America was sounded. It was here that the American navy was born, as some of the timbers for the first six ships, including 'Old Ironsides,' were cut and shipped from Gascoigne Bluff." It might well be added that the islands also are famous for the planting of sea-island cotton which was introduced from the Island of Anguilla in the West Indies. It was planted first on St. Simon's Island, and its cultivation spread rapidly to the mainland.

Side-Glances

The Century company has announced that it will publish in America two novels which have just been awarded the highest literary honors given in France in 1931—the Goncourt prize novel, "Mal D'Amour," by Jean Fayard, and "Vol de Nuit," by Antoine de Saint Exupery, winner of the Prix Femina Vie Heureuse.

"Mal D'Amour" is the story of a young Frenchman of this generation who has a scorn for romantic love and sentimentality but who finds his heart betraying his logic when he falls in love with the mistress of a great English painter. In French literary circles the work has elicited more than the usual controversy about its comparative merits. Jean Fayard, the author, is the son of a well-known French publisher.

"Vol de Nuit" covers one night in the lives of a group of aviators who are attempting to forge a new airway in South America and connect it with Europe via Asuncion, and is concerned chiefly with the emotions of these courageous men. Andre Gide says in his introduction that the novel is written in the epic mode.

Dr. Olga Knopf, a distinguished former pupil of Dr. Alfred Adler, and a physician-psychologist of repute in the United States as well as in her native Vienna, has put her beliefs into a volume entitled, "The Art of Being a Woman," published by Little, Brown & Co. Says Dr. Knopf, "The art of being a woman can never consist in being a bad imitation of man." And then she adds a little grimly, "Gives a fair chance, a woman is no more spiritual or angelic than a man." And here's another firecracker: "American men give in to women with a generous smile—they let them do what they like because they are sure that it cannot come to much." We suspect that a lot of thoughtful and inquisitive males are going to write down the publication date of that book on their desk calendars—and send their secretaries out after it!

WOMAN AWAITS HUGE FORTUNE

Dependent on Charity Looks Forward With Confidence

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 6. (AP)—In a three-room suburban cottage, practically barren of furniture, Mrs. Lydia Reha, 31, is living with three of her eight children while awaiting an attempt by relatives to settle an estate in Germany from which she expects one-third of a $2,000,000 inheritance.

Mrs. Reha has been dependent on charity but looks forward with confidence to the future because she says she is part heir in the will of Martin Ott, a great uncle, once mayor of Oetisheim, Germany. The estate, in which a brother, R. G. Leo of Colton, Calif., and the family of another brother, Ernest Leo of Dallas, who died recently, share equally, consists of lond, buildings and cash in Stuttgart province.

The widow of Ernest Leo, she asserts, is attempting to bring about settlement of the estate through lawyers in Texas and Germany. It originally consisted of $35,000,000, $33,000,000 of which was willed to the town of Ott in Germany, and $2,000,000 to her mother, Mrs. Andrew Leo, who died about 10 years ago in Iowa City.

She has expressed a desire to keep the death of her brother from one of the children, who is afflicted with a mental disease.

POPE PIUS TO BROADCAST ON TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Bestowal of the papal benediction by His Holiness Pope Pius XI, on the tenth anniversary of his coronation, is scheduled to be broadcast over National Broadcasting company facilities on Friday, Feb. 12, at 5 a. m., central standard time. This supersedes the pope's broadcast originally announced for Sunday, Feb. 14, the first Sunday in Lent.

The broadcast will depend upon the outcome of short wave tests which will be made between HVJ, vatican station, and the American pick-up point. The tests will be conducted in advance in an effort to forecast atmospheric conditions on the day of the broadcast.

THEIS PROGRAM MARKS TWO YEARS ON THE AIR

When Henry Theis and his orchestra are heard over an NBC-WJZ network Sunday night, Feb. 7, he will be celebrating a red letter day in his career. It will mark the entrance into his third radio year. For two years he has been broadcasting as a staff band with station WLW, where the Sunday night pickups are made.

The program will range from classical numbers, such as Rubensteins' "Kamenoj Ostrow" and Sibellius' "Valse Triste," to present day popular numbers.

With the Magazines

By L. N. C.

Clarence Darrow, who has spent 50 years in the courts of America, has an article "Who Knows Justice?" in the February Scribner's. "All men are partisans," Mr. Darrow says. "Great emotions, or small arguments, historical incidents, phrases, aphorisms and half truths are marshaled to serve us in the arena."

Mr. Darrow states that when as a youth he listened to the poor man's cause he was deeply impressed with the statement that "what the working man wants is not charity but justice." The slogan made a strong appeal to him. But since that time, he says he has heard the plea for justice, not mercy, in practically every cause that found a voice. "Whatever visions we may form of the word justice," he writes, "still it can never mean anything except adjusting human claims and human conduct to the established habit and customs and institutions of the world. Justice never can be a lofty ideal. It has no emotions nor passions. It has no wings."

Mr. Darrow is well worth reading.

In William Lyon Phelps "As I Like It," in the same magazine, one of the most charming reviews of one of our favorite writers, Galsworthy, is embodied in a pleasant correspondence between Mr. Phelps and a friend in England, Alfred Ollivat, author of "Bob, Son of Battle." It cannot be told; it must be read.

February Harpers has hit the country at a physchological time. We spoke last week on the article "Our Confusion Over National Defense," in the magazine and we have just read "Japan's Economic Predicament." When Mr. Robert W. Bruere wrote "Alone in the Vast Orient, she has deliberately, systematically and successfully transformed her political and economic institutions in conformity with western standards. With feverish intensity and an almost naive singlemindedness, she has labored to master the arts of western statecraft and the scientific outlook and technology of the west."

Mr. Bruere goes deeply into the economic history of Japan! discusses Japan's relations with other countries and closes his thesis with a question that no Solomon might answer now.

We always like to get hold of a Golden Book long enough to read Hugh Walpole and "What They Say." In the February number, they say "The grandest career any woman can have is to be the wife of a man of genius,"—at least Mrs. A. A. Milne did. Umph! Alfonse Capone puts up a rather childish plea in defending his career; "All that I ever did," he said, "as to supply a demand that was pretty popular."

Hugh Walpole's monthly letter to the readers of Golden Book is charming. This month he writes on authors being themselves, Marguerite Bennett's book about her husband Arnold bringing up the subject.

Even if the editor of the genial "Talk of the Town" in the New Yorker seems sometimes to talk lightly, he gets out an outstanding lot of commonsense in a form that any one can swallow. F'rinstance speaking of the industrial giants whom he claims are yammering for a buying orgy, he confides "If our business men go on imagining that nothing more is wrong with the situation than that a few Americans are afraid to buy a new shirt, then it won't be long before life gets much more real and a lot of us who own electric ice boxes will be glad to turn the switch off and crawl inside to keep warm."

Going back to Scribners for a moment, we would like to call attention to the fact that the 14th and 15th of the true narratives of life in the United States, a prize story project conducted by this magazine, are published in the current periodical, the final stories. We have read a number of them and we have not had a thrill. In fact, we think, as doubtless you will, of yourself, we could do better ourself.

Jumping from the "buying orgy" which is mocked at in the New Yorker, we land on a splendid editorial in The Saturday Evening Post, "What Everyman Knows," The writer states "The cold, unadorned truth is that a large measure of the grief is due to the personal behavior of an exceedingly large number of individuals right here in the United States. Millions of men and women deliberately, consciously and knowingly overreached themselves, and the result is that many millions of innocent ones are suffering." The writer might add that those who did the overreaching are also suffering—but perhaps it is coming to them.

An editorial in the "Pathfinder," reads "What this country needs is a successful approach-forcing system to be used on bankers." In "Amerikana," in the same small but forceful weekly, we find "The nation paying an annual crime bill of 12 billions out of a national income of 24 billions."

This is a news item. "Six weeks after it was announced that Paul Mellon, son of the secretary of the treasury, had gone to work in a bank to learn his dad's business from the safety vaults up, he was made a director." Not all of us have such prodegies for sons.

The Pathfinder seems to us the most up to date place to find Hollywood news. This week, among other items, were these:

"Those big salaries film stars make or are said to make, are not all velvet. For example, 43 per cent of the net income of Doug Fairbanks between 1920 and 1926 was paid out in federal taxes alone.

Estelle Taylor sleeps in un-vampish nightgowns with long sleeves tucked in at the wrists. Erich von Stroheim keeps Germanish by getting his hair cut twice a week. Lupe Velez loves to patter around the house in her stocking feet. Lillian Roth just will run her finger around the collar of her husband at home and in public. Leo Carillo plays tough parts in reel life but they say his personal perfume bill runs from $150 to $200 a month. Kay Francis always insists that her dressing room be numbered 66. Greta Garbo eats fried parsnips twice a day for her complexion. One of the MGM studio cops formerly had the tenor lead in the Henry Savage Opera company.

Beneath a Fig Tree

No historically minded visitor to London should be content without paying a call on the novelist, Henrietta Leslie, who lives in one of the most interesting old houses in the famous Chelsea district. Glebe House, as her home is called, is unique in that it contains the relic of a Huguenot chapel—a rotunda with a vaulted glass dome, and diminutive Gothic windows evidently added at some later period. Up through the floor grows a fig-tree which spreads its branches and delicate green leaves like some tropical vine over the heads of unbelieving visitors. The old powder closet, in which wigs and hair were unmercifully dusted, has been converted by Miss Leslie into a small library in which tea and scones are served in front of a cheering coal fire. The walls are done in azure blue, copper and brass glisten on the hearth, and the only daylight admitted sifts down through two smoky skylights in the ceiling. Miss Leslie is now well along on her new novel which is to succeed her "Mrs. Fischer's War," a recent selection of the Book League of America.

For Texas Youth

"Making Texans," by Pat M. Neff. Gammels Bookstore, Austin, $1.00.

Pat M. Neff has issued a little brown covered volume of five minute declamations entitled "Making Texans," which is dedicated to the youth of Texas—the citizens of tomorrow.

I have read them with interest for after one once hears this orator deliver a speech, he is forever looking in his printed talks for some of the grandeur he expresses.

I do not agree with all Mr. Neff says (not walking in so straight a path as he,) but his address "Samuel Palmer Brooks," delivered at the funeral of that much loved man is a gem "of purest ray serene." There is an unerring tremor in my nervous system that answers poesy and beauty and it thrilled to the black and white of that speech.

Mr. Neff has written brief addresses on Texas themes, the native tree, the native flower, the Texas flag and "The Old Spanish Trail," that will appeal to boys and girls and to their audiences. "Gentlemen of the Jury" and "Patriots of Peace," if high school girls and boys can get into their beautiful spirit, will inspire audiences as well as themselves.

Not having been a Texan while Mr. Neff was governor, I did not get to cast a vote for him. But I have one now to cast in any way a man of such ideals would point—oh well—almost.

Bruce Barton's Book

With the announcement of a new book by Bruce Barton, statistically minded souls may feel inclined toward computations showing the scope and range of the previous books by Mr. Barton. The Man Nobody Knows, The Book Nobody Knows and What Can a Man Believe.

As a basis for such calculations it may be stated that with each volume measuring eight and one-fourth inches Mr. Barton's previous books, laid end to end, would almost exactly span the distance between New York and Philadelphia. As another mode of estimate, the same books piled one on top of the other, allowing one and one-fourth inches of thickness for each volume, would make a swaying monument more than 60 times as high as the Empire State building.

That the final sales of the new book, He Upset the World, will considerably augment the length of the path of books or increase the height of the pile, goes without saying.

Bobbs Merrell company are Mr. Barton's publishers.

A Bath in Japan

"No one has really seen the world," says Guy Murchie Jr. in his forthcoming "Men on the Horizon" (Houghton Mifflin Co.), "who has not taken a bath in a Japanese hotel." He describes the experience somewhat as follows: I took off my shoes at the threshold, according to custom, but the Japanese ladies could find nothing to fit me among all their slipper supply. What to do with my lamentable six-feet-five of person I couldn't imagine. The girls who looked to me like rosy little babies about four years old, produced some soap and a scrubbing brush and took me into a tiny place which seemed to be a sort of bathroom. I thought that now they would leave, but no—the six of them insisted on taking off my clothes and giving me a thorough bath, during which they scrubbed my back with their little brush and chattered gleefully the while. The cleaning done, they rinsed me by pouring warm water over me in insignificant pitcherfuls, and I got dressed again and returned to my room.

Theodore Roosevelt, because of a delicate constitution, received his grammar school education at home instead of in school.

With Local Writers

The February Kaleidoscope, a national magazine of poetry, must be well quoted because local writers are represented in it.

While looking for a lullaby of which we had been told, we saw the name "Charlene Underwood," who is Mrs. W. L. Underwood, and while in Brownwood at the present time, is at home in Wichita Falls. There's a clever lilt and a penetrating irony in

To One Perfect in Conceit

This backward fling of never erring head.
This calm assurance of superior value—
What difference will they make when you are dead?

I have no doubt, to contemplate your bearing,
Your mouldered dust importantly will squirm
Apart from all that came from common clay-dirt.
To breed a finely obese, super-worm.

There is music in the Jewish lullaby written by Fania Kruger. The tenderness of wording is indescribable.

Jewish Lullaby

Sleep, our David, sleep, our darling,
Heed no darkened sky,
No thunder, nor the lightning's flashes!
Lulla lulla-by.

The sages bless our little David . . .
You must have no fear,
Isaac, Abraham and Jacob
Are standing by you here.

Sleep, our child, the tiny cradle
Will not hold you long,
Will you be another Moses
Deliverer from wrong?

Sleep, now baby, sleep, our prophet,
Heed no darkened sky,
No thunder, nor the lightning's flashes!
Lulla lulla-by.

◇ ◇ ◇

Then Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, who, though living in Archer City when he was announced winner of the Poetry society's annual prize, was quite as well known and as much admired in Wichita Falls. Mr. Moreland has a poem called

Last Lady

We shall lie down together
As the wind of time roars by,
And tired, so tired, we shall turn to each,
My last slim lady and I.

I shall feel on my lips her kisses,
And cool to my hand her breast,
And I shall be lulled to a lover's sleep
And find unbroken rest.

Then up from the bed in the darkness,
My last slim lady shall go
Back to the harlotry of life,
With weary steps and slow;

But I shall not know her going
And I shall not care to go.

Sandalwood, once abundant in the Hawaiian islands, has been almost entirely cut away.

A Poor Stenographer

Margaret Weymouth Jackson, author of Jenny Fowler, has been connected with editorial offices since she was in her teens. After working on Farm Life magazine, she moved to Boston where she tried to find a new position.

"I had not realized, however, in my two easy jobs what a rotten stenographer I was," she said, "and I got fired out of four jobs before I found an employer who stammered. His unfortunate handicap was my solution, for I was able to take his dictation."

Mrs. Jackson now lives in Indianapolis, the scene of her new novel, First Fiddle, the story of a husband who was successful at everything except making money and a wife who was successful only at making money.

"First Fiddlers," published by Bobbs-Merrell company.

Who Wrote It?

"Dr. Richard Burton wrote: "Sometimes, when I peruse but one page, I can detect the fine hand of an artist. And I apply this to the opening page of Maristan Chapman's The Weather Tree. And as you read on, your impression is deepened, assured: here, you say to yourself, is literary art, as well as vigorous, realized piece of human life. One element in such a decision is to be found in the author's style. She has caught the idiom of those Tennessee mountaineers, to the life: quaint, close to mother earth, freshly original, yet one feels sure, real, verifiable."

It happens that Maristan is two people—Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, who collaborated in the book which fine hands wrote the opening page of "The Weather Tree."

BENEFIT CONCERT BY FERDE GROFE TO BE BROADCAST

When Ferde Grofe, American composer and arranger, conducts an orchestra of 60 selected musicians in a benefit concert at the Manhattan theater, New York, on Sunday, Feb. 7, radio listeners throughout the country will be able to hear a portion of the program.

The Columbia Broadcasting system, under whose auspices the concert has been arranged for the musicians' relief fund, will present over its nation-wide facilities a 45-minute broadcast, beginning at 9:45 p. m., central standard time. Microphones will be placed on the stage at advantageous points, with Kenneth Roberts serving as announcer.

An outstanding new musical comedy selection, an original work, and an especially-arranged fantasy have been chosen by Grofe for radio presentation. These three offerings will occupy the entire three-quarters of an hour.

Grofe will open the broadcast with an elaborate orchestral and male quartet rendition of "Drums in My Heart" from the musical show "Thru the Years" by Vincent Youmans. A feature of this number will be the playing of the percussion instruments by three musicians, headed by George Marsh, for nine years drummer with Paul Whiteman's orchestra.

Probably the most noteworthy performance of both the entire concert and the broadcast itself will be Grofe's composition, "The Grand Canyon Suite." This selection is in five parts and its playing will take a half-hour. In this work Grofe has caught the beauty and glory of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. This is the latest of his works and was written last fall in his home at Teaneck, N. J.

DR. ALLEN S. WHITE TO BE GUEST TALKER ON RADIO

Dr. Allan Sinclair Will, professor of journalism at Columbia university, head of the department of journalism at Rutgers university, and special writer for the New York Times, will be the guest speaker on "Bill Schudt's Going to Press" over the WABC-Columbia network from 4:45 to 5 p. m., central standard time, Tuesday, Feb. 9.

Dr. Will's recent declaration that the spoken language is degenerating in this country and that Broadway is receding into the "jargon of the jungle," caused nation-wide comment by eminent English authorities and the press.

Harold Bauer, Noted Pianist, to Be Soloist With New York Philharmonic Orchestra During Sunday Broadcast

Harold Bauer, one of the most distinguished of living pianists, will be heard as soloist with the New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra during the concert which Bruno Walter will conduct, from 2 to 4 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Feb. 7, in Carnegie hall, from which it will be broadcast through the WABC-Columbia network.

English by birth, but an American citizen by adoption, Bauer was a concert violinist up to the age of 30 and achieved remarkable success, but when Paderewski heard him accompany a singer in an emergency, he advised him to take up the piano as a career. Bauer took the advice and gave himself three years in which to attain concert eminence at the keyboard. If he failed, he said, he would return to the violin. But within those three years he appeared as soloist with the Berlin Philharmonic orchestra, and a new and brilliant career began.

Bauer, in whose playing the critic Henry T. Finck declared that he found "absolute perfection of interpretation," will be heard with the orchestra in Beethoven's G major concerto. In his first three concerti, Beethoven follows the example of Mozart in beginning with a long orchestral passage, but in this, the four of his works for piano and orchestra, he gives the solo instrument additional emphasis by having it announce the first theme, the orchestra being assigned to a secondary role.

MILITARY SYMPHONY TO BE FEATURE OF PROGRAM

Haydn's "Military Symphony" and symphonic variations from D'Indy's "Istar" will be the outstanding feature of the NBC Symphonic program, under the direction of Walter Damrosch over an NBC-WJZ network on Sunday, Feb. 7, at 12:15 p. m. central standard time.

Other selections to be included on the program are "Norwegian Melody: Spring," by Grieg; "Gavotte in E," by Bach, and an arrangement of Kreisler's "Tamborin Chinois," by Erno Rapee.

BARNARD GLEE CLUB TO BE HEARD IN PROGRAM OVER COLUMBIA CHAIN

The second of a series of seven weekly broadcasts featuring the glee clubs and choirs of seven leading American women's colleges, will bring the Barnard Glee club before the WABC-Columbia microphone on Monday, Feb. 8, from 2:45 to 3 p. m., central standard time. Under the direction of Prof. Lowell P. Beveridge, associate in the department of music at Barnard college, the glee club of 40 pieces will be heard in a varied program of carols, madrigals and operatic selections.

Professor Beveridge, who is also director of the Columbia university chapel choir and of the Columbia Glee club, is a graduate of Harvard, where he also took his M. A. in music. After several years of work in musical theory and research abroad, he returned to this country to enter the field of pedagogy. Each year he leads the Barnard Glee club in its concert performances in New York and New Jersey.

SIR OLIVER LODGE TO DELIVER TALK IN LONDON STUDIO

Sir Oliver Lodge, dean of British scientists and one of the most experienced transatlantic broadcasters, will be heard speaking on "Science and Civilization" at 1:30 p. m., central standard time, Wednesday, Feb. 10, when the WABC-Columbia network relays an address to be given over the network of the British Broadcasting corporation.

His address will mark the conclusion of a series in which several outstanding authorities have contributed their views on some modern problems, under the general heading, "Science and Civilization," and Sir Oliver is expected to present a summation of the case as it has been presented by previous speakers. The question whether science has brought material benefits at the expense of spiritual enslavement; whether machine-made civilization stifles artistic expression, and whether society will succeed in adjusting itself to the changed conditions resulting from modern invention will form the basis of Sir Oliver's address.

Sir Oliver has broadcast to the United States through the WABC-Columbia network on three previous occasions.

BIGGEST LANDLORD WILL DELIVER RADIO ADDRESS

The world's biggest landlord, Claude M. Leigh, who supplies homes for 50,000 people in London, will tell of his plans for renovations in the tenement districts over an NBC-WEAF network on Wednesday, Feb. 10, at 2 p. m., central standard time.

Leigh is the managing director for the Metropolitan Housing Corporation, Ltd., of London, and has 10,000 direct tenants, as well as 40,000 whom he looks after through subletting. He has been devoting himself to the poor districts, and has worked his scheme out into a unique system of social service as well as a paying real estate venture.

At the present time, he is in this country to scrutinize and appraise the "worst sections" of the cities.

Series of Piano Specialties Will Open February 7

Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, who specialize in music for two pianos, will open a new series of Columbia concerts programs, in which many of the most prominent native and visiting artists in America will be presented, when they are heard at 5:30 p. m., central standard time, Sunday, Feb. 7, through the WABC-Columbia network. The Columbia concerts program will be heard regularly on Sundays at that time in the future.

After winning unusual success individually, Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson are now establishing a unique reputation together, in a type of music hitherto neglected. Miss Bartlett, born and educated in London, was trained under Matthay and Schnabel, and soon made a name for herself not only as a soloist on both piano and harpsichord, but also for her performances in a variety of chamber music combinations.

Say "Hello New Orleans"

3 minutes . . $1.30

Mardi Gras time in New Orleans . . . thousands of joyous carnival voices echo through quaint buildings around Jackson Square . . a 210-year-old city, basking in the sunshine down South, goes on a holiday . . .

Want to make hotel reservations? Like to speak to friends who are there?

Just tell Long Distance: "I want New Orleans, GAlvez 7899," or "I'll speak to anyone who answers at (name and address of friends)."

Across county, state, nation, voices come to you as clearly as though they were telephoned from across the street.

HANDSETS

The handset telephone balances lightly in your hand. The transmitter falls naturally where it catches the full clear tones of your voice. One hand is left free to write, to rest comfortably on the arm of your chair.

Designed by artists, the handset is only half as high as the desk type instrument. It is an attractive addition on the table, in the wall niche.

Nominal installation charge. Available in colors for larger initial cost.

Do biscuits burn when the telephone rings?

If you have to run to another part of the house when the telephone rings, dinner may scorch while you're gone!

Kitchen telephone

Order groceries, answer calls, talk to friends . . . . . without leaving your workshop.

In the bedroom

Answer the telephone without getting up. Adds distinction to the room. Handy if you get calls at night.

In the living room

An extension by an easy chair saves running to the main telephone when you're resting, when you sew in the afternoons, when you're relaxed with the evening paper.

About being . . . popular

The young woman, or young man, who wants to be invited places . . . to be one of the crowd . . . may find this suggestion helpful:

Be sure your name is in the telephone book!

Mary Jones, for instance, lives with her aunt, Mrs. M. J. Black. But Mary's friends, in getting up parties, often forgot the name and telephone number of Mary's aunt. Mary missed some good times, until she got an extra directory listing. Now the telephone book lists:

Under the B's

Black Mrs M J 3913 Spruce.....3-1099

Under the J's

Jones Mary 3913 Spruce.....3-1099

Perhaps the crowd would like to have you go with them, but can't find your telephone number.

POSSIBILITIES OF RABBIT BREEDING ARE PRESENTED

By CLARENCE B. FOWLER
For North Texas Rabbit Breeders Association

Rabbits have been bred for food for the last 25 years and now the meat of both wild and domestic rabbits play an important part for America. In California thousands of rabbits are killed and sold to hotels, restaurants and homes. In the last five years there have been quite a few rabbits sold in Texas, and in our own town the market is getting stronger every year.

The period of gestation is only 30 days. They have from one to 16 at a litter. The first three weeks is the most dangerous period for the young rabbits, when they are eight weeks old they are weaned. When selecting the best rabbits for breeding purposes, never keep one that does not weigh one ounce a day for its age up to the time it is weaned. The others are sold for meat at about 30 cents a pound. One can figure on three litters a year in this country, and four litters a year if one has a cool place for them. One can figure on an average of five to a litter which averages 20 young a year from one doe. Most any one can take care of six does and a buck in the back yard. It costs very little to raise them and you have something to eat all the year around just as you do when raising chickens or pigs.

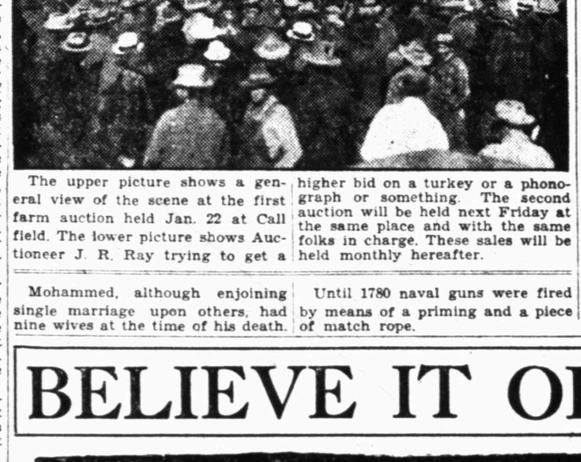

In selecting rabbit fur to be tanned, pull the fur at the tail and if it doesn't slip it is alright, the fur is prime four times a year, starting at the time of birth. In skinning very much care should be taken not to cut or tear the skin, and the hide should be put on a stretcher. A stretcher can be made out of wire or wood or one can buy them ready made. Two-thirds of the skins are ruined by not having them properly stretched. There is a demand for all kinds of rabbit skins and a large skin is more valuable than small ones. Pure white skins bring the best price because they can be dyed most any color, next in value are the chinchilla and red and blue skins which are generally used in the natural color. Raw fur buyers will not pay $5 for a skin as advertised by some rabbit dealers.

The United States produces 2 per cent of the fur in use today, the rest is imported. Rabbit skins have about 80 different uses on the American market and the largest buying house is in New York City. About one-third of the skins are used in making ladies' fur coats.

Lets get the habit, folks, of eating more rabbits, the finest meat you ever tasted. It's better than spring chicken, the more you eat the more you want.

PRESIDENT VOICES HIS APPRECIATION OF LEGION'S DRIVE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Appreciation of the American Legion's drive to provide employment for 1,000,000 men during the month beginning Feb. 15 was expressed today by President Hoover in a formal statement.

Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the legion, outlined to the president yesterday plans for the drive which has been under preparation for 11 weeks. At the same time he placed his organization behind the administration's antihoarding move.

The president said:

"I appreciate the efforts being made by the American Legion and associated organizations in organizing an intensive drive to begin Feb. 15 to extend employment.

"Mr. Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the legion, and his associates have placed the entire organization also at the disposal of the organization that held its first meeting at the White House today. I am confident that the legion and the organizations cooperating with it will perform a real service in the work undertaken."

Fat Stock and Meat Show Here Next Month Expected to Bring Entries From Over Wide Section; Offer Many Prices

Preparations for the Fat Stock and Meat show, to be held in Wichita Falls March 2 and 3, are now going forward rapidly. Indications are for a large participation in the show, and it is hoped to stage it on such a scale as will make it an annual affair.

Prizes aggregating about $300 will be awarded on senior and junior calves, hogs and lambs, in the live stock division; and on hams, bacon, sausage, canned beef, canned pork lard and soap in the meat division.

Entries are expected from a dozen or more Northwest Texas counties, and members of boys' feed clubs who have been feeding out will enter a number of their animals. A sale will be held in connection with the show.

Houston Reduces Budget

HOUSTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Mayor Walter E. Monteith announced today the 1932 city budget had been fixed tentatively at $7,482,032 as against a budget of $8,314,146 last year.

The mayor's figures have not been adopted, however, by the city council.

OKLAHOMA SOW IS OUTDONE BY ONE IN KENT COUNTY

The sow owned by Jess L. Tackitt of Olustee, Okla., mention of which was made in this paper several weeks ago, has nothing at all on one owned by Harve J. Andrews of Old Glory, Kent county, Texas.

"I have a Duroc Jersey sow that had 38 pigs in three litters," Mr. Andrews writes. "There were 10 pigs in the first litter, 15 in the second and 13 in the third. All were born between Jan. 31, 1931, and Jan. 5, 1932."

Mr. Tackitt's sow produced 35 pigs in a year.

Opponents of Roosevelt Active in Effort to Muddy Political Waters Draw New Candidates Into Picture

WASHINGTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—A sweeping realignment of Democratic presidential politics, designed to stop definitely the onrush of the Roosevelt forces, draw new candidates into the picture and throw the decision squarely into the lap of the national convention itself, is about to be undertaken by an imposing group of party leaders.

Alfred E. Smith will make the first move tomorrow when he issues a statement fully expected by informed leaders to open the way for use of his name as a candidate in certain pivotal states.

This will be followed by a nation-wide effort to bring more favorite sons into the picture; to strengthen sentiment for uninstructed delegations in states having no real favorite; and to widen the influence of various candidates already in the field against Roosevelt.

Garner Proposed

Speaker John N. Garner is one of those whose supporters are expected to begin serious efforts to enlist delegate strength. He already has been promised Texas and some outside support and although he only has laughed at these proposals he now will be urged to let his name go into primaries in many places.

Former Governor Harry Byrd, Virginia's favorite son, will be asked to file in certain states where his possible candidacy is not now a factor.

With all of this will go a reinforcement of the Roosevelt drive for delegates, conducted up to now without any publicly-recognized national headquarters.

The long-expected stop-Roosevelt campaign is, in short, at hand. In the early months of the party's 1932 preparations, the New York governor has had things largely in his own way.

Many Leaders Pledged

His friends have collected a very imposing list of pledges from party leaders in many states. His manager, James A. Farley, predicts his nomination on the first ballot.

It is to stop just this that other elements of the party now are moving. They will use the argument that the party will be in a much better position to decide in June than it is in March, April and May when most of the delegates are to be chosen.

For the most part, they probably will not openly attack Roosevelt, but will counsel caution.

Many of Smith's friends and advisers understand that he has no hope he himself may be the eventual nominee. He is not expected to make a nation-wide race, but to center on those states where his chances appear best of gathering an impressive minority of the national convention. These states include New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Delaware.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE OF IOWA PARK C. C. NEARS COMPLETION

IOWA PARK, Texas, Feb. 6.—Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce directors will meet Tuesday evening, Feb. 9, at which time complete returns will be submitted on the recent membership drive. President Troy Hagar states that indications are that the goal of 200 members will be reached and that many who have not been previously enrolled are lining up for this year's works.

The personnel of the new agricultural and oil activities committees will be announced at this meeting. The school relations committee is functioning for the first time, and is composed of James A. Griffin, chairman, T. M. Clark, W. R. Bradford, Gayle Park, and Mrs. Gordon Clark.

Other committees for the year are trade extension, B. L. Bradford, chairman; Gordon G. Clark, M. B. Cain, F. E. Hill, and H. R. Overbey. Marketing, E. C. Knox, chairman; C. H. McDowell, I. W. Austin, Herman Kight, and A. J. Taugman. Live-at-home contest, J. C. Murphree, chairman; B. L. Bradford, Mrs. C. C. Burrows. Highways, L. L. Kuntz, chairman; George F. Smith, John B. Barbour, Carroll Duke and W. P. Rogers. The fair committee was reappointed as follows: Dr. Gordon G. Clark, chairman; E. C. Knox and C. C. Hudson.

President Hagar states that he is well pleased with the prospect of the work for the year, and that he is receiving cooperation from merchants and citizens of the community.

OKLAHOMAN SENTENCED 20 YEARS PAROLED TO CARE FOR HIS FAMILY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6. (UP)—Louis Wilkie, sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary from Washington county, was paroled on good behavior by Gov. William H. Murray today.

Wilkie was out on nine month's leave of absence when the parole was granted. He was paroled to care for his family who have been removed to his mother's farm in Missouri.

EXTENSION GRANTED ON SCHOOL TAXES IN IOWA PARK DISTRICT

IOWA PARK, Texas, Feb. 6.—Iowa Park school tax payers are given an extension of 60 days to pay without penalty and interest. The time of payment was extended till April 1, and it is expected that many will take advantage of this privilege. Revenues for school operation are exhausted and citizens are urged to pay their school taxes as soon as possible.

OKLAHOMA MAN KILLED IN HUNTING ACCIDENT

HUGO, Okla., Feb. 6. (UP)—Funeral services for Judson L. Wilbanks, widely known Hugo man who was killed in a hunting accident late Friday on his farm southwest of Hugo, will be conducted at the First Methodist church here Sunday at 3 p. m. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery here.

Wilbanks' body was found by children returning from school. It lay on one side of the fence and a shotgun on the other. A charge of shot struck him near the heart. It was indicated he had crawled through the fence and started to pull the gun after him.

One of Hugo's first newspaper publishers, Wilbanks subsequently engaged in farming operations. He served three terms as county commissioner, retiring in July, 1931.

COTTON EXPORTS FROM HARBOR AT LOS ANGELES EXCEEDS LAST SEASON

SAN PEDRO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Despite virtual closing of European markets, this season's cotton exports from Los Angeles harbor are well above last season's figures because of the virtual doubling of current exports from here to Japan and China, as compared to last year, the California Cotton association announces.

Of the 119,000 bales shipped from here to Jan. 30, 94,764 went to the orient, Japan getting 70,946 bales and China 23,818 bales. Last year for the same period Japan took only 39,000 bales and China 16,000, of the 103,000 shipped to Jan. 30.

Illustrating the decline of the European market, France had taken only 50 bales up to last Jan. 30 as contrasted to 4,600 at that time last year.

Last season's record export total of 328,000 bales will not be equaled this season, the shippers predict, since smaller crop areas will not provide more than 275,000 bales for export here.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT . . . . . By Robert L. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON—Ten Cents Will Stop a Locomotive: Despite the tremendous power of the modern iron monsters-of-the-rails, it is possible for 10 small pennies to prevent one from moving. The greater part of the weight of locomotives such as I illustrated (about 250,000 pounds) falls on 10 of the wheels, whereas the tractive force of the locomotive is about 60,000 pounds. Tractive force is closely allied to the drawbar pull of a locomotive, and usually they are about equal. If a penny or another obstacle of the same size be inserted directly in front of each wheel on the rail, the locomotive must raise its entire weight in order to move, and this is impossible for the most powerful steam locomotive ever made. The Anchor of the S. S. Mount Blanc: One of the most appalling of the disasters which occurred outside the war zones during the world war was the blowing-up of the S. S. Mount Blanc in Halifax Harbor, Nova Scotia, after a collision in 1917. The ship was laden with picric acid, a thousand tons of T. N. T., and a deck cargo of benzol. As a result of the explosion three thousand men, women and children were killed or seriously injured, 6,000 were rendered homeless, and two square miles of the city became a burning ruin. The largest remaining part of the vessel, her anchor, was hurled three miles across the city, and remains embedded in the earth as a mute and undesigned memorial of this tragic event. Do Fish Sleep? According to Miss Ida Mellen, formerly with the New York aquarium, fish have no eyelids and are unable to close their eyes. However, they have a nervous system similar to that of other members of the animal kingdom; consequently fish do rest and sleep, and are often caught napping.

IMPROVED WEATHER INCREASES OIL ACTIVITY IN DISTRICT

All Sections of Wichita Falls Area Take on New Life as Sunshine Dries Mud and Makes Roads Passable Again

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

The return of pleasant sunshiny weather during the past week was the signal for a resumption of all kinds of work throughout the district's oil fields. Operations which had been hampered by bad roads and other impediments to development of the various pools have about returned to normal conditions. Ten new locations were staked out, Archer, Wichita, Cooke and Young counties each receiving one or more sites.

Among the week's report on completions an unusually large number of dry holes was noted. These were located in the wildcat areas surrounding the shallow pools in north Young county. The same area, but in the proven tracts, was responsible for a couple of nice producers.

A review of the district's oil situation, despite present conditions, finds this part of the state in about as good shape as, if not a little better, than other fields from the standpoint of its development. Approximately 50 wells are drilling in various stages of completion in the different sections of the Wichita Falls district. Numbered among these are several tests drilling to the deeper pays ranging from 2500 to 3500 feet. In the shallow pools of Young almost every tract of 40 acres or less is dotted with one or more "spudders" drilling to these wonderful shallow producing sands.

Activity, which has been at its lowest in the district north and northeast of the city of Graham in the south portion of the county, and in the Kissinger pool southeast of town, is once more beginning to take on new life. Three locations were staked out during the week for deep tests in that section of the county. To the northeast of town Dewey-Knox and others turned loose their No. 1 A. Mannnig well in block 7, section 3412, T. E. & L. survey and in a 13-hour period it flowed a solid stream of oil showing 360 barrels into storage, when it was shut in awaiting connections. Bratcher and others, putting down a south offset to the producer, had considerable trouble with a collapsed casing and were forced to abandon but will stake out a new location at once. East of the Bratcher and southeast of the Knox producer Christie Brothers purchased a lease out of block 15, same survey and will put down a test at once to the 2759-foot sand.

Deep Test Failure

Seven miles east of Graham the Panhandle Refining company's No. 1 Bridwell-Mayfield in the Indianola survey, a deep test, proved a failure after missing the 3500-foot and other expected horizons and was abandoned below a depth of 3000 feet. The test was an offset to the same company's gassers on the Cox land in the same survey.

Southwest of Herron City about one mile the Prairie Oil and Gas company's No. 1 O. D. Lisle in the Kirk survey is a location to the west of the Tidwell-Hinson producer on the W. Newby land. The drilling of this well will mark the beginning of the return of this company as an active concern in these fields after a long period of absence.

Activities throughout the Archer fields resulted in the completion of one or more tests and the starting up of a number of others. In Chalk Hill the Deep Oil-Lindsay interests were preparing to drill out the plug from the sand Saturday in their No. 1 L. F. Wilson, which is showing both oil and gas, with indications of making the usual producer from the pay at 2206 feet. The well, located in block 119, A. T. N. C. L. survey, is approximately 660 feet to the south of the discovery well and its completion as a producer will be the means of extending this pay that distance in a southern direction.

Several other deep tests on the different tracts radiating in various directions from Archer City are drilling and within the next 10 days to two weeks some interesting happenings may be expected.

First in Year

The first completion reported from the Wilbarger field for a year was the Waggoner Refining company's No. E-14 Waggoner, making 150 barrels in the pay at about 2500 feet. The county's oil activities at present consist of three other tests drilling, all in wildcat sections, but nothing of importance has been brought to light at this time.

Wichita county development during the week consisted of the drilling of the C. W. Clark and others' No. 2 well on the Munger farm northeast of K. M. A. field, and the putting down of three tests in the old Sunshine pool northeast of Electra. One small pumper was finished in the shallow pay at 600 feet. The Arrington & Dingee's No. 3 Dobie in the D. L. C. survey making 10 barrels.

Deliveries to the different refining plants of the district fell down over 6,000 barrels daily. This situation was brought about by the condition of the refined market. Of a total of 17 plants here, 10 were either shut down or running in an intermittent manner.

Pipe line runs from the district for the week ended Saturday, Feb. 6, averaged 47,443 barrels daily, an increase of 21 barrels in comparison with the previous week's run. Inactivity in the productive areas, and one-seventh reductions in the lease output continue to keep down the district's production.

WICHITA HIGH UP IN BRISK WEEK LY BUILDING PROGRAM

DALLAS, Dec. 6. (AP)—New construction projects were pushed ahead in major cities of Texas last week but other sections reported activities somewhat below normal.

Houston had $143,325 in building permits for the week, maintaining a sturdy lead over the other metropolitan areas. Fort Worth and Dallas were above the $50,000 mark.

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS

GEORGE WILLIAMS TO BE CANDIDATE FOR LEGISLATURE

George H. Williams, 1709 McGregor street, announced Saturday that he would be a candidate, subject to the action of the Democratic primary, for the legislature from the 111th district, place 2, Wichita county.

"After being solicited to make the race by a number of the leading business men of the city and county and after due consideration of the duties and responsibilities involved, I have decided to become a candidate for the legislature," Mr. Williams said.

"I was born and reared on a farm 50 miles south of Fort Worth and still have interest in farm real estate. I moved my family to Wichita Falls from Fort Worth in 1917 and after being in the oil business for a time I entered the life insurance profession and later became general agent for the Southland Life Insurance company.

"Since I have been a farmer, oil man and life insurance agent and have been in daily contact with business and professional men I feel competent to represent all classes of people found in this district.

"I am in deep sympathy with the movement now on foot to reduce the tax burden of our citizens."

THOMAS WRIGHT TO LIVE IN BYERS; HAS FINISHED 20 YEARS NAVAL SERVICE

Thomas Wright, who recently retired from the United States navy after completing 20 years service, was in Wichita Falls Friday and visited the office of Thomas Hall, chief machinist mate, who is local recruiting officer.

He was accompanied by his brother, Joe Wright, postmaster at Byers. Their father, W. H. Wright, is a pioneer of North Texas and has lived in this section for many years.

It Looks Bad

Two Spaniards quarreled and decided to fight a duel. They took a train to the country. One of the contestants booked a return ticket, but his opponent took only a single.

"Caramba!" exclaimed the first. "You expect not to come back—eh, my friend? I always get a return."

"I never do," answered the other calmly. "I always take my adversary's return ticket."—Tit-Bits.

EXTENSION OF PAY PROMISED DUNCAN TESTS

Continental Oil Rigs Up Rotary Tools For No. 2 Dare

Chambers and Associates Complete Derrick On No. 1 Jewell

DUNCAN, Okla., Feb. 6.—Extension of the new 1360-foot pay level southwest of Duncan two locations north and one east is promised by the P. L. Gilbert and associates No. 1 Green, in the SW SW SE NE of 2-2s-8w, which has casing cemented to test oil sand from 1368 to 1376 feet. This is two locations north and one east of the J. C. Chambers and associates No. 1 Dare, which made 100 barrels at 1360 feet to open one of the liveliest pays the county has had in two years.

The Continental Oil company is rigging up rotary tools for its No. 2 Dare, in the NW SW SE of 2-2s-8w, south offset to the P. L. Gilbert No. 1 Dare, producing at 1360 feet.

The Conoco No. 1 Dare, in the NE SW SE of 2-2s-8w, which broke loose as a gasser two weeks ago and ran wild for 20 hours, has been completed and shut in to wait for pipe line connections. The well came in producing from sand at 1433-38 feet. It was drilled two feet deeper and completed.

J. C. Chambers and associates completed derrick and are waiting on tools for their No. 1 Jewell Pollard, in the NW SE SE of 2-2s-8w, east offset to the Conoco gasser.

George L. Pace was rigging up rotary tools for his No. 3 Allen, in the NW SE SE NE of 3-2s-8w, on the section west of the Conoco well.

Complete Derrick

The Dunmar Oil company completed derrick for its No. 1 Donham, in the NW NE NE of 11-2s-8w, just south of the Conoco well.

M. C. Brown and associates were fishing for 2000 feet of drill stem lost in their No. 1 Thompson, in the NE SE SW of 35-1s-8w. Total depth is 2040 feet.

Cohen & Reece still are shut down on their No. 1 Green, in the SE SW SW of 35-2n-9w, a test for gas to be drilled six miles north and eight west of Duncan. Surface casing is cemented, but work has been suspended since a member of the crew was killed in a boiler explosion.

Small Gains Shown in Week Pipe Line Runs

Crude movements for the week ended Saturday, Feb. 6, 1932, registered an average of 47,443 barrels daily from the nine pools of the Wichita Falls district, a small gain of 21 barrels. The North Texas division of south Young, Haskell, Throckmorton and Jack counties averaged 5,247 barrels per day as compared with the previous week's run of 5,267, a loss of 20 barrels daily.

Lack of new producers completed and the reduction in takings from the producing leases in an effort at curtailment were factors in the week's-movement. Below is the daily run by pools:

Pool—	Barrels Daily Last Week	Previous Week
Archer county	10,905	10,841
Baylor county	494	428
Clay county	501	500
Foard county	62	60
Montague county	4,290	4,309
Wichita county	14,886	14,955
Wilbarger county	9,533	9,542
North Young county	5,431	5,485
Cooke county	1,341	1,302
Last week's total	47,443	47,422
Previous week's total	47,422
Last week's gain	21
North Texas Division
Jack county	1,836	1,820
South Young county	2,970	3,000
Haskell county	24	20
Throckmorton county	415	427

Previous week's total	5,267
Last week's loss	20

Dillard Hinson, Graham Banker and Operator, New Candidate for Congress Favors Common Sense Administration

Dillard Hinson of Graham has announced his candidacy for congressman from the 13th district and Saturday issued the following statement:

"I am a candidate for the important place of your representative in the United States congress.

"I respectfully submit my qualifications and views upon the vital issues affecting the people of this district. I was raised on a farm in this district, know the hardships of farm life, and am still interested in the farming business and its general welfare. For the past 23 years I have served my community in various capacities. I have been in the banking and oil business as an independent operator from the time the oil industry made its appearance in this district and know its troubles.

"I feel that my experience over a period of years gives me a full understanding of the needs and demands of the people of this district. If elected to this office it will be my purpose to give the people of this district a 'common sense' administration. I favor the repeal of all unnecessary laws and the canceling of high salaried commissions, and burdensome bureaus. I believe that the power of government that originally and rightfully belonged to the people should be speedily returned to them. The public servants should obey the constitutional safeguards and I propose to exert every effort to keep the national government within due bounds and limitations so that the individual may have his rightful opportunity to work out his own destiny with equality and justice.

Favors Economy

"I favor constructive action to assure economy of government and less usurpation of power. Such legislation as is advisable seeking to benefit the marketing of natural resources, minerals, farm products, livestock, etc., should be carefully enacted. Existing laws concerning agriculture and the distribution of commodities should be revised to obtain fair and equal treatment of the producers. The federal government should never take the place of private enterprise in the development of private resources and should never become a competitor with legitimate and honest business. Stringent penal laws should be enacted to prevent tyrannical control of our waterways and power systems.

"I favor material reduction of those of the high salaried federal employes (in this I include the salary of congressman) commensurate with the trend of the economic distress to keep down the taxation of the people. I favor still more curb upon immigration and less foreign entanglements in loan matters. I believe that the government should restrict its banking business in order to assure the people a financial relief intended by the federal reserve system.

"If elected, I shall devote the same energy, sincerity of purpose and zeal to the office and to the promotion of the welfare of the people that I have in my own business. The above is a brief outline of my aims and I respectfully subit them for your sincere and earnest consideration. I am a lifelong Democrat and have always acted upon the belief that the officials should be the servants of the people rather than the belief that the people are the servants of the government."

CONTROVERSY RESULT DISCHARGE SECRETARY OF BARBER EXAMINERS

AUSTIN, Feb. 6. (AP)—A controversy over the status of O. D. Whitwell, secretary to the state board of barber examiners, developed today.

Members of the board said Whitwell had been discharged Thursday. Whitwell contended he still was secretary and would continue to serve until his accounts had been audited and approved by the state auditor. The records of the board were in possession of Justice of the Peace J. M. Griffith pending a court of inquiry.

E. L. Smith, member of the barber board, filed a complaint with Justice of the Peace Frank E. Tannehill charging Whitwell with violating the assumed name law. The complaint alleged Whitwell conducted a business known as "The Barbers and Beauticians Service," without filing a certificate with the county clerk setting out the names of the person or persons carrying on the business.

Always Something

RANGERS HUNT BANK ROBBERS

Shift Their Search to North Of Gainesville

PILOT POINT, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—Rangers and other officers searching for three masked men who robbed the Pilot Point National bank of $8,000 before day, shifted their hunt to the north of Gainesville late today.

A kidnaped bank employe was forced to unlock the outside door of the vault and a nitroglycerin charge was used to blow open the inner compartment. The robbers hurriedly scooped up all the cash in sight and escaped in an automobile.

Carrying out a well-prepared plan, the robbers kidnaped bank employes, a night watchman and others they met. The town which has a population of about 1,500, was cut off from outside communication when the robbers severed telephone and telegraph wires.

Then they rounded up J. Winston Peel, assistant cashier, and his wife.

Scottish Rite Choir Will Give Benefit Concert

Funds derived from this concert will be used to buy clothing for needy school children. Admission will be 25 cents.

Mrs. Barnett said it would be necessary to fill the auditorium if sufficient money is obtained to carry the work of the P.-T. A. through the remainder of the school year.

NEW RULING VATICAN AS TO MARRIAGE WILL NOT BE RETROACTIVE

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 6. (AP)—The vatican's new ruling tightening restrictions on marriage between Catholics and non-Catholics will not be retroactive, it was said today, but will apply to all such mixed marriages henceforth.

Issued by the congregation of the sacred office and approved by the pope, the ruling stipulates that in such marriages the children must be reared in the Catholic faith and if they are not the marriage will be regarded as illegal by the church, an interpretation regarded as tantamount to annulment.

CAMPBELL RESIGNS AS HEAD STEEL COMPANY

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Feb. 6. (US)—James A. Campbell, known as the "grand old man of the steel industry," today resigned as chairman of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company. He was succeeded by Henry G. Dalton, of Cleveland.

BOTH SIDES REST IN PHOENIX TRIAL WINNIE RUTH JUDD

Arguments Expected to Require Several Hours Monday

PSYCHIATRIST PRINCIPAL WITNESS ON SATURDAY

Subjected to Rigid Cross-Examination by Defense Counsel

PHOENIX, Feb. 6. (AP)—The state and defense rested in the murder trial of Winnie Ruth Judd at 4:35 p. m. today.

Judge Howard C. Speakman recessed court until 9 a. m. Monday, upon indications by counsel that arguments would require several hours.

SOURTHOUSE, PHOENIX, Ariz. Feb. 6. (AP)—Dr. Joseph Catton prosecution psychiatrist, battled today to maintain, under cross-examination of Paul Schenck of defense counsel, his qualifications to pass on the sanity of Ruth Judd.

Earlier the San Francisco alienist had aroused court officials with reports of threats on his life, a demand that the husband of Mrs. Judd be searched before entering court, and expression of a desire to carry a gun himself.

Dr. Catton Thursday declared he found Mrs. Judd, on trial for the murder of Agnes Anne LaRoi, to be sane, and named jealousy over J. J. Halloran, wealthy Phoenix lumberman, as the cause of the slayings of Mrs. LaRoi and Hedvig Samuelson. Mrs. Judd is under separate indictment for the murder of Miss Samuelson.

Aroused to Anger

Under the examination of Schenck, Dr. Catton was aroused frequently to anger. He leaned forward in the witness chair and pounded on the judge's rostrum when defense counsel became sarcastic.

The psychiatrist had asked a guard of sheriff's deputies this morning, asserting he had received a threatening note.

Sheriff J. R. McFadden declined to assign guards to the doctor's person, and he said: "I will not give him a gun. It is my business to prevent trouble, not help start it. I won't give anybody a gun who is looking for trouble."

The sheriff searched Dr. William C. Judd, Mrs. Judd's husband, when Catton expressed fear Dr. Judd would attack him with intent to do bodily harm. No gun was found.

"By the way," asked Schenck after Dr. Catton had expounded to the jury at length a moot point of psychiatry, "are you admitted to the practice of law."

"No—I have only a license to practice medicine."

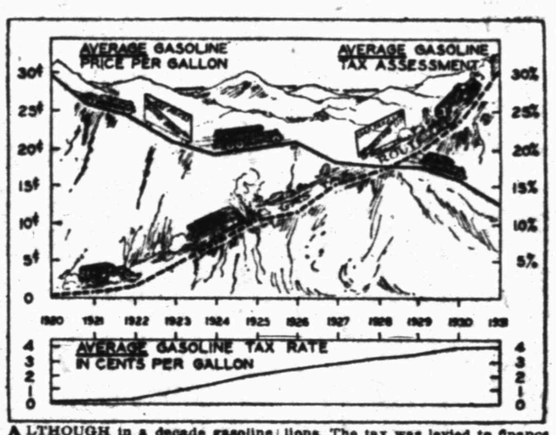

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR WIFE LUBBOCK BANKER ON SUNDAY AFTERNOON

LUBBOCK, Texas, Feb. 6. (AP)—Funeral services for Mrs. Walter S. Posey, 51, wife of one of West Texas' most widely known bankers, will be held here Sunday afternoon with interment following in a local cemetery.

Mrs. Posey, a Lubbock resident for 28 years, was long active in women's circles here and over the South Plains region until overtaken by ill health five years ago. Death followed a two weeks' illness.

Pyramid Lake, Nev., has dropped nearly 55 feet in the past 60 years.

GASOLINE TAX RATES SOAR AS PRICE IS CUT IN HALF

ALTHOUGH in a decade gasoline prices have been halved, motorists are unable to take full advantage of the bargain because state gasoline taxes increase the cost nearly one-third.

Records of the American Petroleum Institute show that in 1920 prices in 50 representative cities, at least one in each state, averaged 29.74c per gallon. State taxes averaged .09c per gallon, an average assessment of .3% on the retail price. At the beginning of 1932 prices averaged only 12c, but tax rates averaged 4c, making the cost to motorists 17c per gallon and the average assessment 30.8%, or nearly one-third of the retail price.

In 1920 state tax rates were only 1c and 2c per gallon. Now they range from 2c to 7c. Counties and communities impose additional taxes, the pyramided levies running as high as 9½c. Although two-thirds of the states now impose taxes of 4c or more, increases in their rates have been proposed. A federal gasoline tax of at least 1c per gallon has been mentioned.

Gasoline tax revenues have soared from around $4,000,000 in 1920 to an estimated $525,000,000 in 1931, the counties and communities garnering additional millions. The tax was levied to finance good roads, but revenue is diverted to schools, text books, fish hatcheries, oyster farms, state buildings and projects, unemployment relief, governmental expenses, pensions, salaries, etc.

Revenues, while enormous, never have kept pace with tax rates. Higher rates, invoking the law of diminishing returns, have encouraged the filing of claims for tax refunds, many of them fraudulent and in some states absorbing 40% of income. Rates above 3c per gallon have made tax evasion sufficiently lucrative to support the operations of racketeers who, by gasoline bootlegging, bribery, forgery, intimidation and, among other means, sale of inferior and often harmful fuels and lubricants, take as their profits gasoline tax revenues estimated as high as $100,000,000.

Information reaching the Institute from investigators in more than 15 states indicates that unless taxes are reduced to a uniform rate near 2c, uniform tax laws are passed and fully enforced, and the expenditure of revenue is confined to highways, the "fastest growing tax in history" may become the greatest tax scandal in history.

FORFEITED GAME DELAYS DECISION IN COUNTY TOURNEY

Cashion Trounces Clara Five After Latter Reinstated

Cats to Play Electra Wednesday Night to Decide Tourney Title

ELECTRA, Texas, Feb. 6.—Ruling ineligible a Fairview basket ball player, the directors of the Wichita county interscholastic league forced a radical revision in the tournament program here Saturday night and in a semifinal game Cashion, defending champion, defeated Clara, 26 to 12. Apparently Cashion had won its way into the final by winning two games Friday, but when a formal protest was sustained against Brantley, Fairview player, the latter team's first round victory over Clara was thrown out and the Greyhounds re-instated in the semifinal round.

Cashion had defeated Fairview in Friday night's semifinal, 31 to 14 and Electra had gone into the final round by defeating Valley View Saturday afternoon, 40 to 20.

Final Wednesday

The sudden turn of events Saturday afternoon and night forced postponement of the championship game, and Electra and Cashion will ply here Wednesday night to determine the tournament winner. Cashion, having won the round robin series completed last week, needs only to beat the Tigers to gain its second county championship, while a victory for the Tigers Wednesday will make necessary a playoff series to determine the Wichita county representative in the district No. 4 tournament at Wichita Falls Feb. 20 and 21.

Cashion completely outclassed a battling Clara team Saturday night in the impromptu semifinal joust leading at the end of the first period, 4 to 3; at the half, 12 to 5, and at the third quarter, 16 to 9. D. Neely supplied the punch in the champions' attack, ringing five floor goals for a total of 10 points. Walkup was Clara's leading scorer, with seven points.

Volley Ball Results

Clara High school girls captured the volley ball tournament by defeating the Valley View team, 15-7, 16-14, in Saturday night's final. The winners had entered the final by defeating Cashion in a morning joust, 15-6, 15-14.

Electra and Clara tied for top honors in the volley ball round robin series and the teams are to play off the tie Wednesday in a preliminary to the basket ball game. Clara can gain the county championship Wednesday night, but a victory for Electra would force a playoff, which has been scheduled for Friday night at Electra.

Archer Tie Looms

HOLLIDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Holliday High school basket ball team remained in the thick of the fight for the Archer county championship by defeating Archer City high Friday night, 41 to 17. The Holliday girls made a clean sweep of it by winning their game from the Archer City lasses.

Unless radical upsets are registered in postponed games to be played off this week, the round robin schedule will end in a tie between Holliday and Mankins and necessitate a playoff. The county tournament is scheduled for next Friday and Saturday on the Megargel court.

Petrolia Wins Clay

HENRIETTA, Texas, Feb. 6.—Petrolia High school won the basket ball championship of Clay county here Saturday night, but only after a stubborn battle with the Joy cagers in their titular final. The count was 12 to 11. Both teams played cautiously all the way and the first half ended with the score tied at two-all.

Petrolia made its conquest complete by winning the girls' volley ball crown in a 15-10, 15-10 victory over Byers.

Valley View vs. Nocona

NOCONA, Texas, Feb. 6.—Valley View boys' team and Bonita girls' team were survivors of 13 entries in each division of the Montague county class B basket ball championship tournament here Saturday night. Valley View defeated Prairie Point, 35 to 22, and Bonita won from Ringgold, 26 to 20, in the two final games.

Valley View plays Nocona, class A champions, here Friday night for the boys' championship with the Bonita girls playing Bowie.

REISELT JOLTED OUT OF TOURNAMENT LEAD

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Arthur Thurnblad, Chicago, winner of the 1931 title, jolted Otto Reiselt, Philadelphia, out of a tie for the leadership in the world three cushion billiards championship tournament Saturday, leaving Augie Kieckhefer, another Chicagoan, in temporary possession of first place.

Thurnblad, with only an outside chance of figuring in a tie for the lead, boosted his own stock by downing the Philadelphia veteran, 50 to 38, in 49 innings Saturday.

The match was Thurnblad's last of the regular schedule and the victory gave him a standing of seven games won and four lost.

PERKINS WINS TITLE IN CHAMPS' TOURNEY

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., Feb. 6. (AP)—T. Philip Perkins won the national championship of golf club champions Saturday for the second successive year.

The former British amateur champion defeated C. Bayard Mitchell, Woodbury, N. J., 4 and 3, in one of the closest matches of the tournament's history.

It is nothing new for Wichita Falls High school to draw the toughest assignment of the 10 entries in the annual district interscholastic league basket ball tournament. It seemed that after two years of catching the toughest spots on the schedules of the 1930 and 1931 tourneys, the team was due a break this time. But the drawings held here Thursday left the Red and Black with the usual toughest assignment on the entire schedule. One difference this year, however, is that the team apparently is capable of taking care of itself under any and all conditions. The misfortune of drawing tournament favorites was hard to take the last two years because the teams were not good enough to keep company with the best of the tournament entries. This year the Pack is good enough to travel in any company, and if it became necessary to pick one outstanding favorite of the 10 teams in the competition, the choice would have to go to the Coyotes.

Drawings were made by counties and several county championships are yet to be decided. Consequently, the exact roster of competing teams is not known. Some of the highly favored teams might be upset in the county championships and change the entire complexion of the situation, but right now we'd rank the entries in this order.

No. 1—Wichita Falls.
No. 2—Wilbarger (probably Vernon).
No. 3—Young (probably Olney).
No. 4—Jack (probably Jacksboro).
No. 5—Wichita (probably Cashion).
No. 6—Montague (probably Nocona).
No. 7—Clay (probably Petrolia).
No. 8—Baylor (probably Bomarton).
No. 9—Archer (probably Holliday or Mankins).
No. 10—Throckmorton.

In the upper bracket of the tournament schedule are Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Jack county, Young county and Montague county, comprising in our estimation four of the five strongest entries in the tournament. In the lower bracket are Wilbarger county, Clay county, Archer county, Throckmorton county and Baylor county, and as these teams are ranked, Wilbarger (Vernon) is thrown into the bracket with four of the five weakest teams. If all these deductions are correct and the Lions win in their county as expected, they surely have drawn the soft spot of the schedule. From this distance it appears the Wilbarger representatives are certain to go to the final, while Wichita Falls must get by three mean adversaries to go to the final. Young (Olney) is in the same bracket with the Coyotes, but has an easier first round foe and needs to win only one game to reach the semifinals, while the Coyotes must win two. Of the three favorites, there is no doubt but that the Coyotes have drawn by far the roughest road.

It is not at all likely that the trio of teams so highly favored at the present time can handle their tournament foes just as they please. In fact, it is possible for neither Olney nor Vernon to be present at the district meet. Both have county championships yet to win, and while each is a heavy favorite, the unexpected might keep one or both out of the district tournament. A year ago Olney was just as popular a favorite in the Young county scramble, but lost to Eliasville. The Cubs appear superior by a wide margin to all Young county rivals this year and are not likely to be slipped up on again. Vernon has a real obstacle to hurdle in the form of the Harrold Hornets.

Al Schacht, the Washington Senators' comedian-coach, has contributed one of the best bits of pitching philosophy we have ever encountered.

"There's one bit of advice I give the young pitchers," he said. "I give it to the older pitchers, too. And it's free to Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw and any other pitcher that wants it:

"'Work hardest against the weak hitters in the opposing lineup. Bear down on 'em. Give 'em everything you've got. And when the good hitters get up there, just take things easy.'

"Does that sound silly to you? Well, it isn't. I'll tell you why. Even the weak hitters will hit if you pitch wrong to them, or get careless with them. And the good hitters will no matter how hard you work with them, or what you pitch to them. So, the idea is to keep the weak hitters off the bases. Then, when the good hitters smack the ball, no damage is done or, at least, not as much damage is done as there would be if there were a couple of other fellows on the bases."

Death has riddled the ranks of baseball leaders of many outstanding figures during the past two years. When Barney Dreyfuss, veteran owner of the Pittsburgh National league club, died Friday, he was the 13th prominent baseball figure to succumb during the past 24 months. Here is the list:

Joe Cantillon, baseball pioneer and well-known minor league leader, Jan. 31, 1930. Hal Carlson, Chicago Cub pitcher, May 28, 1930. William F. Baker, Philadelphia National league club owner, Dec. 4, 1930. Samuel W. Dreyfuss, vice president and treasurer of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Feb. 19, 1931. Charles Dryden, famous Chicago baseball writer and humorist, Feb. 11, 1931. Ernest S. Barnard, second president of the American league, March 27, 1931. Byran Bancroft Johnson, founder and first president of the American League, March 28, 1931. James R. McAleer, one of the original American league managers and president of the Boston Red Sox in 1913 and 1914, April 29, 1931. August Herrmann, first chairman of the national commission, and former president of the Cincinnati Reds, April 25, 1931. Charles Webb Murphy, former Chicago National club president, Oct. 16, 1931. Charles A. Comiskey, one of the founders of the American league and owner of the Chicago White Sox, Oct. 26, 1931. William L. Wrigley Jr., Chicago National league club owner, Jan. 26, 1932. Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh National league club owner, Feb. 5, 1932.

Pack to Play Bomarton in Feature of All Sports Night

Legion Sponsors Athletic Events Slated This Week

Coyotes Go Back to Work In Pointing for District Titular Tourney

A basket ball duel between Wichita Falls' fast passing Coyotes and the Bomarton High school quintet will provide the feature event of "all sports" night, scheduled next Saturday evening at the Junior college gymnasium. The affair is being sponsored by Pat Carrigan post No. 120, American Legion, and an extensive ticket selling campaign will get under way early this week.

Besides providing the feature event of the legion athletic party, the contest will fill another need in providing Coach Barry Holton's ambitious tossers with a tough practice game when it is to be badly needed. The team has less than two weeks in which to complete its preparations for the district tournament, to be played here Feb. 20 and 21, and the strenuous tournament schedule faced by the Pack makes it imperative that the men are in tip-top condition.

Two Road Games

Almost a week without practice because of the flu epidemic that raged not only in the school but took a heavy toll of the basket ball squad, has left the team badly in need of work, and Coach Holton is making up for lost time by sending the Pack into two road games Monday and Tuesday nights. The postponed Childress game is to be played Monday night at Childress, and Tuesday night the team makes its first start of the season against the Quanah Indians.

The Bomarton game is a particularly attractive scrap in that it will mark the formal debut of the Wichita Falls team before a home audience and that it pits the team against a worthy foe. In an earlier game the Coyotes whipped the Baylor county dribblers, but only after a stiff uphill scrap. Bomarton has one of the smoothest passing, fastest breaking teams Wichita Falls has played this season, Coach Holton says, and he was particularly anxious to give his men another test against this sort of opposition.

Hospital List Shorter

Little by little, the Coyotes' hospital list is being erased, and Saturday it had been reduced to three names. Ed Greenwood, H. R. Hanks, and Oran Janeway still were on the ailing list, and all of the trio may remain at home when the squad departs for Childress Monday. Janeway's absence might be sorely felt, since his passing and defensive play is important in the Coyote scheme, while Greenwood and Hanks are first line reserves.

The American Legion's program Saturday night is to offer fans a wide variety of sports, opening at 7 o'clock with a volley ball contest between the Wichita Falls business men's team and the Knights of Pythias of Henrietta.

Boxing and wrestling matches and tumbling exhibitions, with members of C. C. Frazee's Junior college and high school gymnasium classes participating, will complete the program. The basket ball game will start at 8 o'clock and the boxing, wrestling and tumbling will follow.

MANERO AND CLARK TIE FOR LEAD IN HOUSTON OPEN GOLF TOURNAMENT

HOUSTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—Tony Manero of New York and Clarence Clark of Bloomfield, N. J., fought heavy cross winds Saturday afternoon to take 73's and tie for the leadership in the first 18 holes of the Colonial club's $2,000 golf open. Thirty-six holes will be played Sunday.

For second place, another tie resulted, Tony Butler of Corpus Christi and Archie Hambrick of Zanesville, Ohio, each taking a 74.

Harry Cooper of Chicago, came in with an easy 75 and Levi Lynch of Dallas had a 76.

Those who had 77's included Willie Maguire and Jack Burke, Houston veterans; Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis; Tom Burke, Colonial club pro; Jimmy Vincent of San Antonio and Joe Ezar of Waco.

The Japanese star, Tomikicki Miyamoto, took a 78, and Abe Espinosa of Chicago could do no better than 79. Joe Lally of Louisville was among those coming in with the same score.

Other scores included:

CO-CAPTAINS ELECTED AT CHILLICOTHE HIGH

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Feb. 6.—"Rat" Ramsey and S. D. Wigington were chosen co-captains for the 1932 Chillicothe High school team at a banquet held at the First Methodist church for the 1931 football team. The dinner was sponsored by the pep squad, assisted by the teachers of the school. The meeting proved interesting, every one giving belief the 1932 football team would be more successful than the previous year. All of last year's men will return for duty with the exception of Alvie McCaslin and Francis Sims, and with the new material coming in Coach Hill and his captains believe a winning combination will result.

Bruins Stopped By Arkansas Dribblers

WACO, Feb. 6. (AP)—The Arkansas university Razorbacks Saturday night broke the winning streak of the Baylor university cagers by a score of 42-31.

The Razorbacks played with snap and dash from the opening whistle and never was the Baylor squad in front. Only in early stages did the Bears have a tie.

The first half belonged to Arkansas in every way. The Bears never were in the lead, but managed to keep on fairly even terms most of the period.

It was in the last few minutes of the half that the Porkers got a commanding lead of 10 points. At that time, the Bears were missing shots, while the visitors were ringing goals with unerring accuracy.

Frogs 36, Longhorns 14

FORT WORTH, Feb. 6. (AP)—Led by Adolph Dietzel, lanky center who rang up 18 points, the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs scored their third Southwest conference victory of the year by defeating the University of Texas Longhorns, 36-14, in the Purple field house Saturday night. The Frogs turned in a great defensive game and held Coach Ed Olle's crew to four field goals and six free tosses.

Dietzel, after being held to four points in the first half, broke loose in the second and registered 14 points. He made six field goals and six of his nine free tries. Flash Walker was next in the scoring with three field goals and Bill Kubricht led the Steers with six points. Doc Sumner had an off night and got but two free tosses.

Mustangs 30, Aggies 23

DALLAS, Feb. 6. (AP)—The Southern Methodist basketeers won their first 1932 Southwest conference game here Saturday night by defeating Texas A. & M. Aggies, 30-23. It was the Mustangs' first victory in five conference starts and the Aggies' fourth straight defeat.

Both teams played ragged rough and tumble basket ball that at times resembled a football scrimmage. Five players went out of the game via the foul route.

During most of the first half the game belonged to Texas A. & M. which led 11 to 9 with two minutes of play. Here the Mustangs rallied and on field goals by R. Johnson, Williams and Wright ended the first half 15 to 11.

The Mustangs were in front throughout the entire second half. Moody was high scorer for the game with five field goals and a trio of free tosses for 13 points.

DATES SET FOR A. A. U. BASKET BALL TOURNEY

DALLAS, Feb. 6. (AP)—The local office of the Amateur Athletic union Saturday announced that the Southern open A. A. U. basket ball tournament for men will be held here March 2, 3, 4, 5.

In past years this tournament has been one of the most popular of basket ball events and has drawn teams from various sections of the Southwest. It was staged at Shreveport in 1931. Invitations and entry blanks are being mailed from the Dallas office of the A. A. U. Graham Pearce will be in charge of the tournament.

Seven—or Eleven

The ancients regarded the number seven as lucky because they counted seven sacred plants, seven days in Creation, seven days in the week, seven divisions in the Lord's Prayer and seven ages of man.

Second Half Race To Open Tuesday In Basket League

Two Christian Teams Face Playoff for First Half Crown

The second half schedule of the Wichita Falls Sunday School league is yet in doubt, but it is likely to follow that of the first half, it was announced Saturday. The second half will start Tuesday night on the Floral Heights Presbyterian church court, with Temple Israel meeting Floral Heights Methodist, First Christian taking on East Side Presbyterian and Highland Heights Christian battling Floral Heights Presbyterian. The order in which the three games will be played will be announced later, according to League President Noel Brashear.

The second half starts with brighter prospects for the league than ever before. Several of the teams that were out of the race in the first half have much stronger entries and the clean slate at the start will make it more interesting in this half of the race.

Two Teams Tie

Even while the plans are being made for the start of the second half, the first half crown has not yet been awarded. The tie between the two Christian church teams has been postponed and probably will be played in the next two or three days.

Official scoring records to date find Dorsey, East side Presbyterian scoring ace, taking over second place, seven points ahead of Monty Griffin, First Christian star, who has held second place from the start. Griffin still has a good chance to retain his second place rating for the complete first half, as he has one more game, while the Presbyterian star has completed his first half schedule.

Harvey Makes Gain

Olin Harvey, flashing skipper of the Floral Heights Methodist team, also passed Griffin and settled himself in third place in the scoring column with a one-point lead over Griffin. Harvey seemed to have hit his stride week before last and climbed from 13th to his present position, which indicates that he is one of the big reasons that the Methodists have hit their stdide in the past two games.

Individual scoring records follow:

WOOD'S RECORD SPEED NOT TO BE RECOGNIZED

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Gar Wood's new world speed boat mark of 111.712 miles an hour will not be accepted as a new American record because the run was not sanctioned by the American Power Boat association it was announced Saturday at the office of Harry B. Greening, chairman of the association's racing commission.

BOSTON CLUB SELLS SWEENEY TO TOLEDO

BOSTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—The Boston Red Sox of the American league Saturday announced the outright release of Bill Sweeny, first baseman, to the Toledo club of the American association.

BENJAMIN CAGE TEAM RULED CHAMP AFTER LOSING EVERY GAME

MUNDAY, Texas, Feb. 6.—Despite defeat in every one of the eight league games in which it participated, the Benjamin team has been awarded the undisputed championship of the Valley Independent Basket Ball league, it was decided at a meeting of managers here.

Each of the other five entries in the league played ineligible men in some or all of their games, with the result that Benjamin was awarded a sufficient number of contests by forfeit to clinch the championship.

There were no protests to the action, although it was agreed that failures by five teams to properly certify player lists were due to misunderstanding.

Other teams entered in the league were Munday, Knox City, Goree, Sunset and Weinert.

Second Olympics Skate Test Ends Exactly as First

Same Winners Recorded After 10,000 Meters Event Raced Over

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 6. (AP)—The master minds of the 1932 winter Olympics breathed deep sighs of relief Saturday night, for the preliminaries of the 10,000 meters speed skating championship, with its international complications, ended Saturday after being raced once, the results canceled, and then raced again.

And, like the second game of a double-header that ends like the first in a scoreless tie, 18 distance blademen of Norway, Sweden, Finland, Canada and the United States, had nothing to show for an extra 6.2 miles of strenuous skating, except material for another flock of argument, charges, counter-charges, and bitterness.

The same eight men—Irving Jaffee, new 5,000 meters Olympic champion, Valentin Bialis, Edwin Wedge and Eddie Schroeder, all of the United States teams; Alex Hurd and Frank Stack of Canada; and the Norwegians, Bernt Evensen and Ivar Ballangrud—qualified Saturday for the final of the last men's speed skating championships.

Alex Hurd, Canadian champion who has been skating in sensational fashion, came back in the first heat to whip the field again with Ballangrud second, Bialis third, and Wedge fourth. All that proved was that second, third and fourth places in a heat could be shuffled around a bit in two days of racing, for Bialis took second Friday, Wedge third, and Ballangrud fourth.

Only one hockey match was played in the Olympic series Saturday, Canada defeating Germany four goals to one.

By Saturday's victory Canada maintained its lead in the round robin series with two victories and no defeats. The United States and Germany are tied for second place, with one victory and one defeat each. Poland has lost its two games.

Spudder Campaign Workers to Plan Action This Week

Committees Named to Direct Work Encouraging Baseball Support

Definite plans for the start of activities in the chamber of commerce's "Support the Spudders" campaign are to be formulated this week at a meeting of the entire membership of the campaign organization, it was announced Saturday by President A. E. Kelly following a conference with Dr. Everett Jones, general chairman.

The campaign has been made a major project in the chamber's 1932 program of work, and it is planned to put all of the city's civic agencies to the task of developing support for the Texas league baseball club that will assure its continued operation here.

The following committees were named Saturday by A. E. Kelly, who announced that further additions of personnel would be made from time to time, and that every town in this part of North Texas and Southern Oklahoma would be represented.

Executive committee, Dr. Everett Jones, chairman; Ralph K. Pond, vice chairman; Walter Robbins, J. D. Dale, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough and Ralph DeShong. This committee will be in general charge of all activities in connection with efforts to stimulate support of the team.

Advisory committee, Al Parker, Fred Thompson, Guy Airey and Zack Hurt.

"Opening Day" committee, Dr. O. T. Kimbrough, John W. Thomas, J. D. Dale, Shadie Hale, Carter McGregor, T. C. Anthony, Gene Liepold, L. F. Hooker, Charles P. McGaha, Charles Spraggins, J. R. Huddleston, John C. Lane, Russell Morgan, Cecil O'Hara, R. J. Brown, and C. H. Stewart.

Out-of-town attendance committee, Walter Robbins, J. Will Gray, O. G. Stephens, L. H. Estes, Joe Ward, Pat H. Simmons, and C. C. Hudson.

General chairman, Dr. Everett Jones, with Ralph DeShong and members of the advisory committee will handle publicity in connection with the general campaign.

BLACKWELL TO CONDUCT SUMMER COACH SCHOOL

DALLAS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Dr. R. N. Blackwell, former athletic business manager at Southern Methodist university Saturday said that Howard Jones, University of Southern California football coach, will coach at Blackwell's coaching school.

Blackwell will conduct the coaching school the third week in June at Mineral Wells, Texas.

"Doc" Spears, coach at the University of Oregon will assist Jones in football. Jimmy Kitts, of Athens Texas, will be one of the basket ball instructors. Kitts' Athens High school teams won two national championships.

Ends DANDRUFF Overnight!

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. Then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

THREE SPUDDERS IN EARLY WITH SIGNED CONTRACTS

Florrid and Pressnell Among First Holdovers To Find Dotted Line

The signing of 13 Spudder players, all but one of whom is a holdover from last season, was approximately one-fourth completed, Secretary Guy Airey announced Saturday, with the receipt of signed contracts from Pitchers Forest Pressnell and Dick Florrid. Earlier in the week Debs Garms, outfielder, brought his contract in from his home at Bangs, Texas, and earned the distinction of being the first Spudder to find the dotted line.

With only 13 players to sign, representing probably the smallest number in the history of the club, Secretary Airey is expecting little difficulty in lining up the entire crew. Contracts were placed in the mail only last week, and the club has not had time to receive replies from a majority of the players.

Those yet to be heard from are Roland Flinn, Fred Vincent, Lester White and Howard Taylor, pitchers; Art Bradbury, Herb Bryant and Firman Owens, catchers; Art Scharein, infielder, and Red Badgro and Bob Fuss, outfielders.

Youngster Signed

The Spudder roster was increased by one Saturday when Ned West, a brother of Sam West of the Washington Senators, was signed for a spring tryout. West was recommended by his brother and was signed by mail to report for spring training when the squad gathers early next month.

The newest recruit is a right-handed hitting and throwing outfielder, who has fallen heir to a healthy reputation in the Wheatbelt league as a member of his home town club at Rochester, Texas. Sam West, a regular in the Senator's outfield for the last few years and rapidly developing into one of the American league's leading hitters, got his start in the same environment. Airey is making no promises, but is hoping that this new Spudder can approximate the feats of his older brother.

Lower Box Prices

Lower prices for season boxes are to prevail at Athletic park in 1932. The club already is placing on sale at $60 boxes containing six chairs that sold for $85 last season and for $40 the six-chair boxes that formerly have sold at $60.

The general admission price of 75 cents is set by the league and cannot be changed by any club. Spudder officials, according to Airey, are considering reducing the number of reserved seats in the stand to make more desirable general grandstand seats, and other plans to make the game less costly for the fans are being given consideration.

TO BID FOR PLACE WITH SPUDDERS

TOM CONLAN

When the Spudders gather for training at Athletic park early next month, one of the most prominent youngsters of the lot will be Tom Conlan, a right-handed pitcher who was snared by the St. Louis Browns late last fall and shifted to the Wichita Falls club for a trial this season. Conlan is a product of St. Mary's, the school that turned out Larry Bettencourt of 1930 home run fame, and received his only experience in organized baseball last summer with the Springfield club of the Western association. He won eight games and lost three over a stretch of only 28 days, and the unusually heavy role in which he was cast eventually sent him to the doctor and out of the game with an ailing arm. At the close of the season he was signed by the Browns on his declaration that the old whip was okeh, and the Spudder club now is listing him as one of its brightest prospects.

Mauler Back In Good Standing With N. B. A

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (AP)—The case of the Mississippi State Boxing commission against Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, for nonpayment of bills in a boxing show at Columbus, Miss., a year ago last November, was postponed Saturday until April 15 to give Dempsey time to produce evidence that he had no promotional connection with the show.

The Mississippi commission recently ordered Dempsey's suspension on a charge that he was a co-promoter of the show and was responsible for unpaid bills of $2,804.97 incurred by its promotion. The National Boxing association, of which Mississippi is a member, followed the action by banning Dempsey in all states of its territory. Dempsey, however, contended he acted only as a referee and that he personally suffered a loss of more than $1,000 in the venture. Subsequently his suspension was lifted following settlement of the case.

At Saturday's meeting, Dempsey advised he had ample proof of his participation in the boxing show as a referee in letters sent him by Promoter Ned Pearson. The letters, he said, were locked in a vault at Los Angeles. He promised to place them before the Mississippi commission at Jackson, Miss., April 11 and it was agreed to postpone the case. Until that time he will be in good standing in Mississippi and the N. B. A.

Bruce Barnes Is Scratched From Tennis Rankings

Professional Status Removes Texas Net Star From Second Place

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6. (AP)—The United States Lawn Tennis association Saturday dropped Bruce Barnes, formerly of the University of Texas, from the intercollegiate ranking because he had turned professional.

Barnes had been ranked as No. 2 in the singles and with Karl Kamrath as No. 1 in the doubles. His deletion also dropped Kamrath, and the Princeton team of Donald Strachan and Walter Thomas was ranked No. 1 and all other singles and doubles players were moved up one in the rankings with Keith Gledhill, of Stanford, remaining as No. 1 in the singles.

GRIMES SIGNS 1932 CONTRACT WITH CUBS

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (INS)—Burly Burleigh Grimes has affixed his signature to a Cubs contract, club officials announced here Saturday. Said to have been high point man in point of salary with the Cardinals last year, Grimes is reported to have received a raise over his 1931 stipend.

Keeps Your HAIR NEAT

Rich-looking . . . Orderly

If your hair lacks natural gloss and lustre, or is difficult to keep in place it is very easy to give it that rich, glossy, refined and . . . orderly appearance . . . so essential to well-groomed men.

Just rub a little Glostora through your hair . . . once or twice a week . . . or after shampooing, and your hair will then stay, each day . . . just as you comb it.

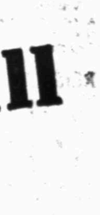

Glostora softens the hair and makes it pliable. Then—even stubborn hair—will stay in place of its own accord.

It gives your hair that natural, rich, well-groomed effect, instead of leaving it stiff and artificial looking as sticky lotions do.

Glostora also keeps the scalp soft, and the hair healthy by restoring the natural oils from which the hair derives its health, life, gloss and lustre.

Try it!—See how easy it is to keep your hair combed—any style you like—whether brushed lightly or combed down flat. If you want your hair to lie down particularly smooth and tight, after applying Glostora, simply moisten your hair with water before brushing it.

WHITE OWL LANDSLIDE

GREATER NICKEL'S WORTH WINS

Better Tobacco Sweeps Cigar Election

In nationwide balloting at the cigar case, White Owl with the New Year polled a victory vote of cigars bought and smoked. Its last six months of 1931 more than doubled consumption in same six months of 1930—the only cigar last year month by month doubling and tripling its popularity.

AMERICA'S ANSWER TO HIGHER CLASS 5-CENT CIGAR

Better Tobacco Will Always Tell

Since its reduction to 5-cents June 15th, 1931, White Owl's large consumption increased by leaps of 25,000,000 a month, topping the previous six months by over 150,000,000.

ANTI-HOARDING CAMPAIGN MEETS APPROVAL OF BUSINESS

Steps to Put Slacker Dollars Into Circulation Pave Way for Operation $2,000,000,000 Finance Corporation

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (UP)—Far-reaching plans to stamp out money hoarding tendencies and thus pave the way for the successful operation of the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance corporation met widespread approval of business men this week.

Spurred by estimates that more than a billion dollars had been secreted in private hoards by fearful citizens, the administration moved to alleviate the situation. Both President Hoover and Banker Charles G. Dawes addressed an "anti-hoarding" conference at the White House today, in an appeal to the "patriotism" of the American public.

Business men realize that the fate of the business-aid Reconstruction Finance corporation, which goes into operation shortly, will depend to a large extent upon the success it has in bringing the billion-odd "slacker dollars" into business channels where they will restore trade. The main purpose of the corporation is, however, to extend credit to hard-pressed banks and railroads.

At the same time, federal reserve authorities are pressing their easy money policy with caution in order not to ... the foreign fears of "inflation" and stimulate the already large outflow of gold from this country.

Bankers here have taken independent steps toward checking the hoarding of American gold abroad by refusing to ship gold coins abroad when they were destined for hoarding purposes. It was stressed that this move in no manner indicated any intention to restrict shipments of gold when demanded.

Banking and business failures fell off sharply this week. Not one important bank closed. Business defaults fell from 812 to 780, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Trade and industrial statistics this week showed practically no change from the previous week's volume.

The current hostilities in the far east were considered a deterent to revival of confidence and little business was expected from "war orders."

Southwest Review

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Feb. 6. (UP)—Steps toward stabilization of an oil industry suffering from overproduction became the center of attention in business circles throughout the Southwest during the past week. Several new developments occurred which were indicative of a steadier market.

Gov. Ross. Sterling of Texas issued an executive order, effective Friday, reducing the allowable flow from East Texas wells from 100 to 75 barrels per well daily.

Previous to the governor's announcement, Magnolia Petroleum company, a Standard subsidiary, reduced the output of its East Texas field to an operating basis of 75 barrels per well daily.

The Texas slash followed a similar cut in Oklahoma City's production which became effective last Monday. This field's flow was cut from 120,000 barrels a day to 95,000.

Coincident with the three moves, market postings recorded a stronger tone in the refined gasoline market. Distillate sales, due to cold weather, were notably strong.

Livestock Steady

Livestock transactions were mostly steady and unchanged from the previous week. Movement of stocker and feeders cattle back to the country was light. Stocker and feeder steers sold around $4.90 for average weights of 760 pounds, against $5.05 for the previous week for same weights.

Prevailing dullness was considered unusual in the corn market which normally reaches its height of activity during this period. Kansas City received only 500,000 bushels of corn during January, compared with 3,500,000 in the same month last year when the crop was decidedly smaller than this season's.

No serious damage was expected in the winter wheat crop due to cold weather, observers reported. On the contrary, local receivers anticipated a moderate increase in the country movement because of the cold, which has improved hauling conditions.

A report by officials of the Japan Cotton company at Dallas, revealed that Oriental disorders and a 50 per cent failure of the Indian cotton crop would cause Japan and China to import 1,000,000 or more bales of cotton from the United States this year than last.

Railroads to Save

Demand for zinc concentrates in the tri-state district, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, were the largest for the past seven weeks. The price held unchanged with prime western grades selling at $17 a ton and floats at $16. Lead prices also held unchanged, small lots selling at $37.50 and larger lots at $42.50 a ton.

The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad will save between seven and eight million dollars this year through wage cuts, W. B. Story, president of the company, announced this week. A recent increase in freight rates also will add about 2½ to 4 million dollars to the revenue of the company.

A total of $16,985,150 was invested in establishing 680 new industries in territory served by the Missouri Pacific railroad during 1931, L. W. Baldwin, president of the road, announced here. Baldwin said the output of the industries would result in 456,329 carloads of freight for the railroad annually.

Among the new industries listed were: Oil storage stations 88; contracting firms 41; coal and wood yards 26 and lumber and building material companies 29.

102. LEGAL NOTICES

THE STATE of Texas. To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting: You are hereby commanded to summon H. K. Roberts, J. V. Howell, Roy E. Howell and E. L. Rowland by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th judicial district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in March, A. D., 1932, the same being the 7th day of March, A. D., 1932. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 10th day of October, A. D., 1931, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 25602-C wherein, V. W. Mills is plaintiff and H. K. Roberts, J. V. Howell, Roy E. Howell, E. L. Rowland and W. F. George are defendants and said petition alleging, that defendants are indebted to plaintiff $220.04 with interest from Oct. 11, 1927, at 8 per cent per annum, on each of the following paving certificates issued by the city of Wichita Falls, Texas: Nos. 1801, 1804, 1805, 1806, 1807 and 1808 against lots 1, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 of the west side addition to the Highland addition to the city of Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas, to secure the costs of paving improvement on a portion of Avenue Q in front of and adjacent to the lots above described. That all proceedings with reference to making such improvements have been regularly had in compliance with law and all prerequisites to the fixing of the assessment lien against said property and fixing personal liability against the defendants evidenced by the certificate have been duly performed. That the defendants own or claim some right, title or interest in and to said real estate, on which plaintiff claims a first lien to secure said indebtedness, plaintiff owns said certificates all of which are past due and unpaid; attorneys fees incurred and prays judgment for the amount of said certificates, principal; interest and attorney's fees and foreclosure of the special assessment liens. Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same. Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this, the 6th day of February, A. D., 1932.—Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, clerk district court, Wichita county, Texas. By E. Berner, deputy. (Seal.)

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, Feb. 6. (AP)—A moderate but somewhat smaller volume of business than last week has been transacted on the short combing and clothing 64s and finer western wools at steady to firm prices. Choice combing 64 and finer territory and fleece wools were rather slow. All grades of fleeces below 64s quality are mostly inactive with quotations unchanged. Territory 58, 60s, 56s moved occasionally at firm prices. Territory wools of 48 50s and lower quality were slow at steady quotations.

New York Coffee

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Coffee continued its advance on moderate Brazilian buying, which was centered principally in the near months.

No 7 contracts opened unchanged to 5 higher and closed 8 to 9 higher. Santos opened 4 to 6 higher and closed 7 to 13 higher. Sales 5,000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts: March 6:13; May 6.24; July 6.34; Sept. 6.43; Dec. 6.50. Santos: March 8.42; May 8.53; July 8.62; Sept. 8.60; Dec. 8.78.

Spot coffee dull. Rio 7s 7 to 7¼; Santos 4s 9 to 9¼.

State Charters

Texas Valley Vegetable company, Waco; capital stock $3,000. Buy and sell agricultural products. W. D. Dossett, Mrs. W. B. Dossett, T. J. Chidlow.

Paul O. Simms Company, Austin. Capital stock $10,000; accumulate and lend money. Paul O. Simms, Earl E. Simms, Nellie M. Simms.

Foreign permits:

Ozark Chemical company, Tulsa, Okla.; capital stock $500,000, manufacture of chemicals. Texas agent R. J. Stengl, Monahans.

STOCK MARKET TO NEAR LOW LEVELS OF EARLY JANUARY

However, reactionary tendencies of industrials and utilities were almost imperceptible and the fractional average loss would have passed unnoticed had the list enjoyed a more comfortable margin of safety above last month's minimums.

As it was, the day's two business hours hardly provided a fair test of resistance. Covering by shorts who were unwilling to chance further delay in protecting their profits undoubtedly assisted many stocks, and Wall street went home in the belief that the market would give a clearer demonstration of its intentions next week. The short interest increased last month, thus improving the technical position.

Rails were heavy providing some discouragement for chartists who in such situations look to the carriers for clues on trend. Chesapeake & Ohio and Chesapeake Corp. both touched new lows, although net losses were small. Norfolk and Western lost 3 and Union Pacific nearly as much. New York Central, fairly active, was down slightly more than half a point.

Little Change in Steel

U. S. Steel readily absorbed offerings during the first hour, closing virtually unchanged. There was no movement to speak of in Bethlehem, American Can, Westinghouse, General Motors, Union Carbide or Du Pont. General Electric sagged ¼ to a new minimum, then closed higher. American Telephone made up most of a one point sag.

Auburn weakened sharply, off 10 net. Peoples Gas dropped under 100. Merchandising issues were heavy. First National stores yielding 3 points, Macy 2 and Woolworth 1⅛. Case's decline of more than a point put it into new low ground. Sales totaled 660,300 shares.

Many brokers believe the market may be willing to sit back and await results from steps now being taken to correct deflation and its causes. In these circles it is pointed out that liquidation of stocks has recently appeared to be almost at a standstill, although it is admitted that a substantial violation of the old lows would probably bring out offerings. What is needed most of all, of course, is evidence of even a normal seasonal gain in business, but observers are quick to assert that restoration of confidence could easily effect an important turn.

The chief support of the steel plants is demanded from automobile manufacturers whose February production should be considerably above January's. Car-making activity in some lines is doubtless being held back by uncertainty as to the Ford program, while the chief demand for structural steel is in connection with public works projects designed to relieve unemployment. Youngstown district mills, which get much of the automobile business, will start next week at 35 per cent of capacity against 36 per cent this week.

Dividend meetings on the immediate schedule include those of Union Pacific and Eastman Kodak. There is considerable conjecture as to the fate of the former's $10 annual rate, although the only uncertainty regarding Eastman is whether the extra payment will be retained.

SESSION OF BOND MARKET QUIETEST SINCE NOVEMBER

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Traders administered a sleeping draught to the bond market today and the dullest Saturday session since last November resulted.

With little or no activity present, total sales dropped to $4,836,000 and the average for 60 corporate securities declined 4-10 of a point.

Although bids and offers were far apart in most cases, the rail mortgages led the list in the downward movement. Carrier mortgages in the low-priced class sagged from 1 to 3 points, but considerable resistance was exhibited by the better grade issues.

Dealers expressed the opinion that the substantial advance of many of the transportation liens since last December had largely discounted the agreement on wage reductions and the prospects of relief from the reconstruction finance corporation. The drop in car loadings and general traffic was seen as a deterrent to any immediate improvement in the railway department.

United States government obligations ran counter to the sinking trend and the majority of them registered modest gains. The heaviest trading was in liberty fourth 4¼'s and treasury 4's. Investors in government loans still hold to the belief that the federal reserve banks will soon reduce the rediscount rates.

Industrial bonds were the steadiest of the domestic section. Their average loss for the day was only around 1-10 of a point. Utilities did not do so well.

The foreign list was steady. Japanese loans eased fractionally and Australian and New South Wales liens were slightly higher. German 7's gained moderately, but the 5½'s closed lower.

Cotton Seed Oil

DALLAS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Prime cottonseed unquoted.

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil closed firm unchanged to 7 points higher today.

Brokers usually operating for refining interests bought September, while offerings were supplied largely by ring interests. Firmness of cotton and a small advance in lard accounted largely for the steadiness. Sales were 19 contracts, or 2,850 barrels. Bleachable spot closed 3.75, March 4.30, May 4.42, July 4.58, Sept. 4.70.

There were no sales in the prime summer yellow contract with closing prices as follows: Spot 3.75, March 4.15, May 4.25, July 4.40. Crude oil was nominal in the southeast, 3c bid in Texas and 3¼c bid in the valley.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Cottonseed oil futures were steady but quiet with prices a shade lower. Prime summer yellow oil closed unchanged at 3.75@3.85 and prime crude at $3.00@3.12½. Futures closed steady. Feb. 3.80, March 3.85, May 4.00, July 4.12, Sept. 4.18.

CURB'S EASY TONE CONTINUES THROUGH WEEK-END SESSION

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—The curb carried its easy tone through the week-end session today. Offerings of utility stocks and a few specialties reflected the absence of nearby demand and gave the market a rather soggy appearance.

Commonwealth Edison, recently heavy, reacted to a new low, selling in the neighborhood of 106, closing at 107⅛, off more than 2 points net. Electric Bond & Share approximated 10 at the bottom and finished at 10¼, or a shade lower. Middle West and American Gas were moderately heavy utilities.

In the specialties most of the changes came in higher issues. Singer Manufacturing dropped 5 to 115, virtually duplicating its low. Great Atlantic & Pacific and Aluminum of America lost a point or so. Cord corporation, Deere and a few others eased slightly. Glen Alden made a new minimum at 17, off 1½ net.

Oils were dull. Standard of Indiana sold under 15 on a few transactions but finished virtually unchanged.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 6. (AP)—(USDA)—Cattle trade during the week under review was very slow with most all classes showing moderate to sharp price declines. Packers enforced declines of 25@75c on fed steers, yearlings and fat she stock. Best fed steers in Chicago stopped at $9.65 while a sprinkling of the better grades at all markets turned at $7.50@9.25 bulk of the fed steers and yearlings ranged from $4.00@7.00. Stocker and feeder classes also were on a weak to lower basis, fleshy feeders taking losses of 25@50c. Receipts at 11 markets were 11,000 short of last week and 27,000 under the same period a year ago.

Hogs, compared with a week ago, are unevenly steady to 30c higher with average gains at most points of 10@20c. St. Louis had a late top of $4.40. The week's receipts of around 558,000 were 186,000 short of last week and 76,000 less than a year ago.

The depressing influence of a lower dressed lamb trade this week was more than offset by curtailed receipts and price upturns of 50c@$1.00 were registered on fat lambs. Chicago had a closing top of $7.40 while at the river markets fed western arrivals reached $6.85. Mature killing classes of sheep at most centers were little better than steady.

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (AP)—U. S. D. A.—Cattle—Receipts 200, compared week ago—killing classes 50c lower; trade draggy; common and medium steers and yearlings at new low; weighty steers in best demand; fat cows and heavy butcher heifers a drug on market; only cows of value to sell at $2.50 downward to $1.50, getting dependable action; bulls 25c down and vealers, 50c lower; stockers and feeders also at least 25c off; extreme top steers, $9.65; best yearlings, $9.35; average cost of killing steers being around $6.25.

Sheep—Receipts 3,000; today nominal; for week, killing classes unevenly 50c@$1 higher; closing at highest point since Oct. 15; closing bulks, better lambs, $6.75@7.25; 95-lb. weights, $7; medium lambs, $6@6.50; fat ewes, $3@4.00.

Hogs—Receipts, 12,000; 10@20c lower on weights below 210 lbs.; others, 5@10c lower; 170@210 lbs., $3.90@4.10; top, $4.10; pigs, $3@3.25; packing sows, $3.25@3.40; compared week ago, about steady; shippers took 2,000; estimated holdovers, 2,000.

FORT WORTH, Feb. 6. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Hogs—Receipts 300; steady to strong; top $4.35 for mixed weight rail butchers; good truck hogs $4.25; packing sows $3.25, or steady.

Cattle—Receipts 300; 100 calves; nominal. For week: Slaughter steers 25@50c lower; slaughter yearlings 50c lower; cows and bulls 25c lower; stocker trade barely steady; slaughter calves 25c lower; week's tops: Slaughter steers $5.10; slaughter yearlings $6.15; fat cows $3.25; practical top heavy fat calves $4.75. Bulk prices: Slaughter steers $3.50@4.85; slaughter yearlings $4.00@5.25; butcher cows $2.75; bulls scarce; slaughter calves $4.50 down.

Sheep—Receipts 400; nominal. For week: Fat lambs 35@50c higher; feeder lambs strong; yearlings and wethers scarce; wooled fat lambs $5.00@5.35; fall shorn fat lambs $4.25@5.25; feeder lambs $3.00@3.75.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 6. Dry Goods Market

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Cotton goods were holding steady at the end of the week with a fair amount of orders passing through on unfinished and finished cloths.

Wool goods are selling in a moderate way with women's coatings and suitings most active. New rayon crepes continue to sell steadily. Silk is quiet locally and unsettled in primary markets. Linens are selling well for suitings. Burlaps are steady.

WHEAT RECOVERS EARLY LOSSES ON FORECAST OF COLD

CHICAGO, Feb. 6. (AP)—Prompted largely by forecasts of a cold wave and by accompanying likelihood of crop damage, wheat prices tended upward today after early downturns.

Rallies in wheat more than counterbalanced the bearish effect of stock market unsettlement and inactivity of North American wheat export demand. World shipments of wheat for the week appeared small and indications were that the peak of the Argentine movement would soon be passed.

Wheat closed firm at the same as yesterday's finish to ⅜c higher, corn ⅛c off to ⅛c up, oats unchanged, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 7c advance.

Corn and oats chiefly followed wheat action, but at one stage the corn market touched the lowest price level since last October. Country offerings to arrive were of liberal volume, though mainly above the market.

Closing indemnities: Wheat May 57⅞@⅝, 59@59⅛; July 58⅛@¼, 59⅜@⅛; Sept. 59⅝, 60⅝. Corn, May 38⅝@39; 39⅛⅜; July 41, 51⅝@⅝; Sept. 42¼; bids.

GENERALLY STEADY TONE WITH HIGHER PRICE FOR COTTON

NEW YORK, Feb. 6. (AP)—Cotton was a little more active today and showed a generally steady tone with the market tightening up in the late trading on continued trade buying and covering, which found offerings relatively light.

May advanced to 6.85 and closed at 6.84 with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 7 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at unchanged to an advance of 2 points. There was a little southern selling and week-end realizing, but this was absorbed by covering and trade buying which appeared to be coming partly from Liverpool and the continent and may possibly have included a little buying for a Far Eastern account.

Last prices were within a point of the best. Switching from March to later months was again in evidence but the trade buying of near positions was sufficient to absorb the offerings and there was little change in the differences between months.

The steadiness of the market was attributed largely to the continued trade demand and some covering may have been promoted by reports that Japanese interests were moderate buyers in the southern spot markets. Brokers who sometimes trade for Far Eastern account were reported small buyers here early, but the source of the business was not clearly defined and this demand was not much in evidence later in the morning.

Liverpool cables were relatively easy with private advices reporting liquidation, hedging and a poor offtake in that market. Possibly the labor troubles in the Burnley district, where a strike said to involve about 10,000 workers began at noon today, found some reflection in the Liverpool market, but seemed to attract very little attention locally, as Liverpool was reported a buyer here during the morning. The amount of cotton on shipboard at U. S. ports awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 215,000 bales against 71,000 last year. Reports from Manchester indicated a fair cloth inquiry from India, but said many offers were unworkable.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 6. (AP)—Trading was decidedly sluggish in today's short week-end cotton session. Owing to poor Liverpool cables and an easier opening of stocks prices lost 2@3 points in the early trading. After fluctuating within a very narrow range prices turned somewhat firmer at the end owing to shorts covering for over the week-end, developing a scarcity of contracts and recovering 9@10 points. The close was at or near the top and very steady, the general market showing net advances for the day of 5@8 points.

The opening was easier as Liverpool cables came in 4 penny points worse than due. Private cables stated that there was liquidation and hedge selling with a poor offtake. Manchester cabled fair cloth inquiry from India but many inquiries were unworkable. A strike has been called in the Burnley mills.

New highs for the session were made near the end of 6.67 for March, 6.84 for May and 7.00 for July or 9@10 points above the early lows. The close was at or near the top with the three active months showing net gains for the day of 6@7 points.

Port receipts 47,327, for season 7,788,062, last season 7,704,236. Exports 19,544, for season 5,135,946, last season 4,513,254. Port stock 4,873,695, last year 4,171,659. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 207,935, last year 72,315. Spot sales at southern markets 16,454, last year 13,295.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 6. (INS)—Spots cotton was in fair demand at the opening today, with prices ruling easier, but no receipts.

At midday, middling fair was quoted at 6.55d, strictly good middling at 6.10d, good middling at 5.70d, strictly middling at 5.60d, middling at 5.55d, strictly low middling at 5.45d, low middling at 5.35d, strictly good ordinary at 5.15d, and good ordinary at 4.85d.

Futures were steady with March at 5.20d, May at 5.19d, July at 5.20d, October at 5.23d, and December at 5.29d.

GARDNER FUNERAL PLANS AWAIT ARRIVAL OF THREE BROTHERS EARLY SUNDAY

Arrangements for funeral services for Dr. C. M. Gardner, 44, 3005 Holliday, who died at a hospital here at 6:15 o'clock Friday night after a brief illness, will be completed on the arrival of three brothers from New England, N. D., Sunday morning. The body is in charge of the Merkle Undertaking company.

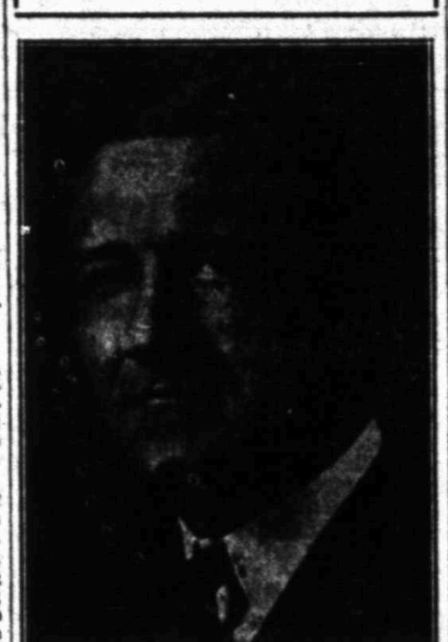

Dr. Gardner had been a resident of Wichita Falls for the last four years.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Emily Gardner, Hollywood, Calif.; four brothers, Henry of Hollywood, and George, Harry and Gordon of New England; and three sisters, Vera and Iola Gardner and Mrs. Hazel Roberts, all of Hollywood.

COURT CANDIDATE

WAYNE SOMERVILLE

WAYNE SOMERVILLE ENTERS RACE FOR DISTRICT JUDGE

Wayne Somerville who has resided in Wichita county for the past 32 years and whose circle of friends and acquaintances touches the four corners of the county, announced Saturday his candidacy for the office of district judge of the 89th judicial district, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

Mr. Somerville graduated from the local high school in 1910, taking the bachelor of laws and bachelor of arts degrees at the University of Texas in 1915. He served with the 36th division throughout the war and was elected county attorney of Wichita county in 1925, which place he held for six years, declining to run for re-election in 1930. During the past four years he also served as secretary of the State District and County Attorneys association, working for the elimination of the fee system and more effective criminal laws. The last legislature followed the recommendations of the association in amending the arson statute, the child desertion law and the law relating to pleas of insanity after conviction for crime.

In announcing his candidacy Mr. Somerville said: "If elected to this office I shall strive to perform its duties under the same principles of economy, efficiency and friendly service to the public that actuated me as your county attorney. I was the first county attorney to maintain my office at the courthouse and give my personal attention to its official duties; I collected over $500,000 in delinquent taxes and turned in over $14,000 in excess fees.

Cost of Jury Service

"Wichita county has spent over $44,000 during the past two years for jury service alone; the county tax levy for jury funds being 25 per cent higher than in 1925 and 37½ per cent higher than in 1926, with very little difference in the amount of litigation. Any one who has done jury service knows about what part of the men summoned were used and, when used, how much of their time was actually devoted to the consideration of cases. The 89th district court has had charge of summoning jurors; if elected I shall summon a jury when needed and use them when summoned. Delay and procrastination in law suits are distasteful to litigants, tiresome to jurors and costly to taxpayers who foot the bills.

"I believe it the duty of a judge to pass upon matters submitted to him without prejudice or partisanship and if elected I shall faithfully endeavor to discharge the duties of this office fairly and impartially and to enforce the law as free from technicalities as possible; I shall dispose of business as rapidly as is consistent with the careful consideration of rights involved and in every way strive to perform my official duties with a spirit of friendly service conscientiously performed."

ENDEAVORERS HERE TO ATTEND VERNON RALLY AT 7:30 MONDAY NIGHT

A number of endeavorers of this city will attend a Christian Endeavor rally to be held in the Central Christian church in Vernon Monday evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Harold F. Lovitt, state field secretary of the Christian Endeavor movement, will be present and will make the principal address.

An invitation has been extended to endeavorers of Quanah, Crowell, Chillicothe, Electra, and other nearby cities to send delegations.

The district convention will be held in Vernon Feb. 26, 27, and 28, and the rally will be a consummation to preparations for that event.

MASON WILSON FUNERAL TO BE SUNDAY AT 3:30

Funeral services for Mason Wilson, 51, 812 Grant, will be held from the First Presbyterian church at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon with Dr. George P. Horst, pastor, officiating, assisted by Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the Floral Heights Presbyterian church.

Burial will be at Riverside with the Merkle Undertaking company in charge.

Active pallbearers will be M. T. Chamberlin, Peery Hancock, Roy L. Riner, Stayton Bonner, Dr. O. W. Wilson, W. B. Omohundro, J. H. Emmert, J. H. Cottam, W. E. Hunter, Carl B. Bailey, James M. Williams and George N. Dwyer.

Mr. Wilson died at a hospital here at 8 o'clock Friday night following a heart attack Monday.

Mrs. J. T. Wilson, his mother, died Thursday and was buried at Kansas City, Mo., Saturday.

Mr. Wilson was born in Kansas City April 19, 1881. He was first engaged in the oil business in Ardmore, Okla., and later came to Wichita Falls. He was a member of several Masonic orders.

Survivors are his widow; a son, Mason Wilson Jr.; three brothers, Allen Wilson of Sheffield, Ala., John T. Wilson of Fort Lyon, Colo., and Frank Wilson of Kansas City; and four sisters, the Misses Mary, Sarah and Carrie Wilson of Kansas City, and Mrs. Fred Littlepage of Sheffield.

The Misses Mary, Sarah and Carrie Wilson, Frank and Allen Wilson and Eugene Bullock of Dallas, an uncle of Mrs. Wilson, will be in Wichita Falls for the funeral Sunday.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. A. G. DOUGHERTY TO BE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Mrs. A. G. Dougherty, 78, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joe McBee, 1206 Eleventh, at 2:10 o'clock Saturday afternoon following an illness of a few days. Mrs. Dougherty had resided here about two years.

Funeral services will be held from her daughter's home at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, with Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Following the services here the body will be forwarded to Sherman, Texas, her former home, for burial. The Merkle Undertaking company is in charge. Burial will be in Sherman at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon.

In addition to the daughter here, Mrs. Dougherty is survived by two sons, R. S. Dougherty of Wichita Falls and J. C. Dougherty of Sherman.

FIRE RESULTS IN $100 DAMAGE AT CLEANING PLANT SATURDAY P. M.

A Come-Down

LONDON.—The late under-secretary for air in the labor government is out of a job and can't find one. He is Fred Montague, who, after losing his political position, has found just what the unemployment situation is. He has tried everything from selling silk stockings to building up a mail order business, but as yet has failed to land a position.

DIET OF CHILDREN AFTER INFLUENZA CAN AID RECOVERY

By PEARL RORABAUGH
Red Cross Nutritionist

Diets of children or others who have recently had colds or influenza have much to do with regaining of former health and strength. We assume that the digestive tract will participate in the weakness of the rest of the body, even when not itself the seat of the trouble, therefore special attention to the diet is essential to rapid and complete restoration to health. The child or adult must watch his diet as he returns to his ordinary foods and not overtax his digestive system.

The diet should be simple, only a few foods at a time and those plainly and carefully cooked and seasoned.

Meals should be served with strict regularity; a half-hour of waiting may destroy all desire for food.

Following the light laxative diet that is used for colds one of full value should be taken as soon as the cold is "broken." Then one of a little higher value than usual follows this to help the body make complete recovery. A liberal use of milk, eggs and fruit and vegetables should occur. This "full feeding" should be continued until all traces of the cold are gone. It will do much to aid in quick recovery and without it a cold may hang on a long time or be the beginning of more serious troubles, such as may infect the respiratory organs. Breakfast should consist of fruit juices, stewed fruits or tomatoes, a well-cooked cereal, a soft-cooked egg buttered toast and milk; the heavy meal should include a small serving of roast or broiled lean meat, baked, boiled or mashed potatoes, another well-cooked vegetable, a simple dessert with milk and bread; the evening meal may contain a soup made with milk, an omelet, cheese dish, or beans in some form, bread and butter and some stewed or baked fruit. Raw green vegetables may be added several times a week.

The nutrition service of the local Red Cross urges those who have recently been ill to give serious consideration to their diet. Children, who will be active soon after an illness, must have foods that give energy for this activity as well as to repair the body.

THROWS BIRD AND CAGE AT WIFE AND PAYS $10

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 6. (INS)—"She's only a bird in a gilded cage, a beautiful sight to see," said a popular song of years ago.

But Thomas E. Hoppin, 32, had different sentiments today. He was fined $10 in city court on a cruelty charge for throwing a canary bird at his wife. The bird was in a cage.
